STATE'S CASE AGAINST SLAYERS ENDS!

Synod Opposes Move For 10-Round Boxing

RESOLUTION CONDEMNS PROJECT

Move to Increase Limit to Fights in State Causes Unanimous Protest

BULLETIN
The committee chosen to pick the meeting place of the 1225 annual Presbyterian synod has so far failed to reach a decision. It is understood the committee is divided as to whether Hollywood or Berkeley shall be the city recommended.

Delegates to the annual synod of California and Nevada, meeting in the main auditorium of the Glendale Presbyterian church, today went on record as opposed to the proposed measure which would permit ten-round boxing contests in California. A resolution condemning such action and calling upon the legislature to refuse to pass such a law was read by Rev. Frank M. Silsley, D. D., of Oakland, and unanimously adopted by the delegates.

In speaking on the resolution, Dr. Silsley said that the permission to stage ten-round boxing bouts in the state would result in a number of undesirable boxers coming to California, and would degrade the game. Although disguised under the name of boxing contests and bouts, they would in reality become prize fights, he said, and would eventually lead to the lifting of round limits in California so that any length bout could be staged here.

Against Professionalism
Several speakers in addresses before the synod at previous meetings have decried the boxing game in California, even at the four-round limit. While all agree that the athletes are a great aid to the upbuilding of youths and the moral welfare of the boys of the state, it has been stated that the synod that professional fighting is a disgrace to any state.

Petitions are being circulated throughout the state in an effort to secure sufficient signatures to put the question of ten-round bouts before the next legislature, and in presenting his resolution, Dr. Silsley urged every delegate to do all in his or her power to offset the action now being taken to legalize longer fights. The resolution was offered in the closing minutes of the morning session, which was given over to reports on national missions and the various sub-committees of the synodical home mission board.

In Need of Pastors
There are 31,000 communities in the United States without any Christian ministers, Rev. H. H. Bell, D. D., of San Francisco, chairman of the synod's committee on national missions, declared in his report read before the delegates this morning. There are 11,000 communities where there are no Protestant churches.

"Within our country there are at least 27,000,000 children of public school age who have no relation whatever with any Sunday school," he said. The denominational agencies working under the national missions show 4357 organized churches, 3893 mission stations, 145 community houses, 233 schools of all kinds and 28 hospitals and dispensaries. HARMONY AT AUTO MEET CLAIMED

City Officials Ask That Stops at Boulevards Be Recommended

The City Council this morning, in open session, requested the Citizens' Traffic committee to recommend a system of boulevard stops. This action followed an executive session of the two bodies from 8:30 until 10 o'clock, in the anteroom of the council chambers, and from which reporters were barred. It is rumored that a rapprochement was effected, but a report of the proceedings was denied the representative of The Glendale Evening News.

There were present at the meeting Mayor Spencer Robinson, Councilmen Asa Hall, C. E. Kimlin, S. S. Gilhuly; John D. Fraser, chief of police; Ray L. Morrow, city attorney; M. Walters, chairman of the Citizens' Traffic committee; and the following committee members: M. B. Towman, Alexander Mitchell, Cameron D. Thom, Robert Adams and Henry Kuhn.

Mr. Morrow, in his capacity as acting city manager, stated after the meeting that harmony had prevailed and that everything was working out smoothly. He gave out no further information as to the nature of the proceedings or what had been accomplished.

Knowing that the City Council and other city officials present at the meeting would give out no information, members of the Citizens' Traffic committee felt that their hands were tied and refused to be interviewed. This committee was appointed by the council to investigate traffic conditions in Glendale and make recommendations, eleven in number, were published in The Glendale Evening News at the time they were made public.

Called Unimportant
It is understood that following this morning's meeting, the committee will attempt to work out these eleven recommendations in more detail. The matter of boulevard stops, on which the council asked the committee to make recommendations, is one of the eleven points covered in the original report.

For the past three years Mr. Kimlin has been a member of the Glendale City Council and is known to practically every resident of the city. While a further announcement of his plans will be made in a day or so, he stated this morning, following the announcement of his resignation, that he will take over the management of the Royalties Investment company of Los Angeles, opening up an office at 420 East Broadway.

He will be the secretary of this company and will have as his associates W. J. Eggers of 257 West Stocker street and B. F. Bliss of 119 North Verdugo road. The company will do a general finance and investment business, making loans on real estate and furthering the construction of homes, stated Mr. Kimlin.

FOREST CONSERVATION TO BE TOPIC
LOS ANGELES, July 29.—Conservation of forests will be the principal topic of discussion here Thursday when the Los Angeles, Pasadena and Long Beach parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West gather to entertain Grand President Edward J. Lynch of San Francisco. Elaborate plans are being made to honor Lynch during his visit here.

MORE SOLDIERS TO GUARD FORESTS
SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Declaring that the forest fire situation in California is still very acute and that fire conditions are becoming more serious day by day, United States District Forester Paul G. Redington announced additional soldiers have been called out to assist in forest patrol work. "While the decrease in number of serious forest fires during the past ten days is very gratifying, it must not be taken by the public as an indication that all is well," said Redington in an interview today.

DENY APPLICATION OF STAGE LINES
SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Public convenience and necessity, according to a decision handed down by the State Railroad commission today, do not require the operation by the Crown Stage Lines of auto service between Huntington Beach and Long Beach, nor the operation of through stages between Riverside and Long Beach via Huntington Beach and via Westminster. The commission, therefore, denied the application of the Crown Stage Lines for certificates under which to establish the service. The Pacific Electric, which opposed the application of the Crown Lines, was directed to establish through rail service between Huntington Beach and Long Beach via Seal Beach within sixty days.

BRYAN GIVES ANSWER TO COOLIDGE

Democratic Candidate Says President Apparently Is Misinformed

By THOMAS CURRAN
For International News Service.
LINCOLN, Neb., July 29.—In an exclusive statement today on his position in regard to National Defense day, Governor Charles Bryan, Democratic vice presidential nominee, declared that apparently President Coolidge is misinformed as to the purpose of that day.

"President Coolidge, in a recent message, criticized calling this day 'Mobilization Day,' the governor declared. "Yet the instructions to the governors sent out from army corps headquarters show a military gesture is contemplated. These suggestions, if adopted, would draw men from the fields, shops and offices in order to fill skeleton military units.

Militaristic Spirit
"The state is glad to co-operate by calling out regular military units," the governor continued, "but I don't believe we should encourage the militaristic spirit in this country or mislead the people of Europe by requiring civilians and high school children to participate in a warlike demonstration.

"The president, apparently, isn't familiar with what is going on, because he declares in his message that national defense day is to be merely a day for assembly of the regular military units of the country. When I looked over the plans suggested by the federal army officers, however, I found they provide for mobilization, not only of the regular troops, but also of civil and industrial forces.

Approves Statement
"If these suggestions were carried out, it would create a great economic loss by practically suspending all business on that day in order to prepare for war, and, furthermore, would inculcate militarism in the minds of our young people. I approve of President Coolidge's statement, but not of the plans for the day as they are actually being carried out."

CHANGE LIGHT STANDARDS ON COLORADO, PLEA TO CITY

Improvement Association Committee Urges Installation of Marbelite; Members To Hold Mass Meeting Thursday Night

A letter from the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association announcing that a mass meeting will be held at the City Hall Thursday night, July 31, for the purpose of approving Marbelite standards on Colorado boulevard, and requesting that all proceedings on this boulevard appurtenant to street lighting be stopped until a petition requesting Marbelite standards can be circulated, was read before the City Council at this morning's session.

The letter was signed by J. M. Boland, president of the association, and by A. W. Hewitt, secretary.

Councilman S. S. Gilhuly called attention to the practice of rival companies instituting petitions for their own particular make of standard and felt that some precedent should be established whereby this practice might be curbed.

Offers Demonstration
F. A. Clarke of 351 Oak street, representative of the Marbelite company, was present in the council chambers this morning and addressed the City Council, explaining in more detail the matters stated in the letter and stressing the fact that a Marbelite standard has been installed in front of the Elks' club on East Colorado boulevard, and that this standard will be lighted from 7:30 to 8 o'clock Thursday night, July 31, so that those interested may see how such a standard looks in operation, before coming to the mass meeting.

After considerable discussion, the request of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association contained in this letter was referred to Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, for recommendation.

Want Water Pipe
A petition from property owners for a twelve-inch water pipe along Verdugo road from Canada boulevard north was also referred to Mr. Diederich. A petition from property owners for sidewalks on West Colorado boulevard was referred to San Fernando Pacific avenue to San Fernando Planning commission, with the request that the future necessity for

LEOPOLD AND LOEB READY TO OFFER DEFENSE

Prosecution to Fight Any Effort to Show Boys Not Responsible

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.
CHICAGO, July 29.—The close of the state's case against Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, for the murder of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, was brought within five minutes of conclusion today.

The confessions of the two young collegians—that they smashed the boy's head with a cold chisel and then stuffed his body into a drain pipe—were put into the record by four hours of constant reading that took up all of today's session, and when these had been concluded, State's Attorney Crowe said:

"Your honor, the state can close its case in five minutes, but the witness necessary to do this is not here. If court will adjourn now I can close in five minutes in the morning."

Postponed to Wednesday
Clarence F. Darrow, chief of the defense counsel, readily assented to this program and Judge Caverly thereupon adjourned court until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

The last witness for the state who will go on the stand in the morning will be W. D. McMillan, an assistant state's attorney, who also will testify that he saw "Angel Face Dicky" weep real tears after he had calmly confessed to the brutal slaying of the little boy.

This will be the witness the state will use to show that Loeb is not devoid of emotions, as stated by three of the defense attorneys who have examined him.

To Demand Hanging
Any and all efforts by the corps of alienists employed by the wealthy Leopold and Loeb families to represent "Dickie" and Nathan to be insane or mentally incompetent—thus furnishing the "mitigating circumstances" for the cold-blooded murder of little Bobby Franks—will be hotly contested by the state, which is seeking to hang them for the crime.

This was reaffirmed in positive language today by State's Attorney Crowe, as the eighth day of the Leopold-Loeb trial got under way in Justice Caverly's court. He was aroused by the report of Dr. William Dinkley, a Boston psychiatrist, employed by the defense, in which Leopold was said to be "dangerous" and of "paranoid and monomaniac type."

This talk of peronia and monomania indicated to the prosecution foreman that the defense is going to skate dangerously close to the line of pleading insanity for the youthful collegians despite its forfeiture of that right when they pleaded the boys guilty.

Will Force Jury Trial
"At the first effort to represent these boys to be insane, or mentally incompetent," Crowe said, "I will ask Justice Caverly to call a jury in this case. These fellows are guilty, they are sane and the fact that they are adolescent dreamers is no reason why they should not pay the full penalty for their atrocious crime."

The defense counsel merely smiled and went ahead with their plans for introducing, as soon as the state finishes, at least a half dozen men of medical science.

Grand Jury to Probe Fake Drowning Case

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—The county grand jury was prepared today to launch a rigid investigation of the alleged fake drowning plot staged off Catalina Island for the purpose of collecting $20,000 life insurance made out to John Dexter Wiley, a real estate salesman of Los Angeles.

Wiley, his wife, Nellie, W. B. George, an insurance adjuster, and H. J. Hughes, a salesman, are held in the county jail without bond on charges of conspiracy to defraud, as a result of charges made by the authorities. The grand jury will be asked to return indictments against the quartet.

Modifies Injunction In Arizona Dam Case

PRESCOTT, Ariz., July 29.—Modification of the permanent injunction against James B. Girard restraining him from completing construction of the Diamond creek dam in Arizona was on record in federal court here today following action by Judge Fred C. Jacobs.

Judge Jacobs ordered the decree changed to read that Girard was restrained "until further authorized by law."

Further action in the matter, it is expected, will be taken by the government, which alleged in its suit that Girard's permit for the dam construction was not full and complete.

FOREST FIRES RAGING

PORTLAND, Ore., July 29.—Forest fires in Eastern Oregon and Washington today continued to rage, due to high winds and low humidity. In the Rainier National forest west of Yakima, 100 men are fighting a stubborn blaze which has advanced up the mountain side over a 100-acre area.

La Follette Charges Plot to Intimidate

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Charges that sugar interests of the United States have attempted "to intimidate and obstruct" the investigation by the tariff commission into the cost of production of sugar with a view to lower tariff duties, were made in a letter which Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, today sent to Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the commission.

La Follette demanded from Marvin the complete records of the commission's investigation, which was ordered more than a year ago, in a Senate resolution.

DEADLOCK WOULD BAR FIVE STATES

Delegations Evenly Divided May Halt Election of Coolidge, Davis

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

WASHINGTON, July 29.—If Senator La Follette and his associates succeed in their ambition to obtain sufficient electoral votes to throw the presidential election into the House of Representatives, five of the sovereign American states would find themselves unable to vote, and it would be this disability which would make it impossible for either President Coolidge or John W. Davis to secure a majority vote of the forty-eight commonwealths.

It is no mere speculation that a deadlock would ensue in the house. It is a mathematical certainty, unless, of course, some Democrat or Republican should break away from party affiliations sufficiently to give some of the tied states into either the Davis or Coolidge column.

In voting for a president, where a majority selection has not been made in the regular election, the constitution provides that each state delegation in the House of Representatives shall have but one vote. It is the unit rule of the Democratic national convention carried to the extreme. New York state, for instance, has forty-three representatives in the house. Twenty-two are Democrats and twenty-one Republicans. Therefore New York's one vote would go to Davis if all the Democratic representatives stuck together for him.

Deadlock Is Seen

The constitution also provides that, to be successful, a presidential candidate must receive a majority of the states. It so happens that there are twenty state delegations in the house controlled by Democrats and twenty-three controlled by Republicans. This number of states in which the number of Democrats and Democrats is the same. It is to be presumed that these Democrats and Republicans would stick together to their colors and make it impossible for the states to vote one way or the other.

The tied states are Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire and New Jersey.

The Democratic states in the house are Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Republican states are California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Electoral Vote

The voting strength of these states in the electoral college is as follows:

Democratic states, 232.
Republican states, 261.
Tied states, 33.
Total, 526.

A majority in the electoral college necessarily is 266, so it will be seen that, even though the constitutional rule of only one vote to each state, whether that state be New York with forty-three representatives, or New Mexico with only one congressman, would seem at first glance to be thoroughly unrepresentative, the result happens to pan out just about the same. The same states that cannot represent a majority in the house under the one vote rule would fall five votes short of giving a candidate a majority in the electoral college.

It is perfectly apparent, however, that throwing the election into Congress would be far from an expression of the people's will. The Congress which would attempt to elect a president in 1924 had been elected in 1922. In the latter year neither Calvin Coolidge nor John W. Davis had appeared on the horizon as presidential probabilities.

Senate to Elect

It would take twenty-five states to elect in the house. The Republicans fall two short of that number, the Democrats five. Therefore, under the constitution, the Senate would be called upon to elect a vice-president who, in turn, would become president in view of the failure of the house to act.

In the Senate each senator has a vote, but, unless the Democrats or the Republicans could win over some of the La Follette group of senators, there could be no result in that body. There is a general presumption that the La Follette outfit in the end might vote for Mr. Bryan, the Democrat, as against General Dawes, the Republican. In case neither president nor vice-president is chosen by March 4 next, Secretary Hughes would become acting president and call the new Congress into session to elect the chief executive of the nation.

So much of chaos abounds in the possibilities of throwing the election into Congress, it is small wonder that both Democrats and Republicans are trying their utmost to avoid such a contingency.

The Visiting Churchmen Accommodations Needed Glendale's Postoffice Mark The Difference

By Gil A. Cowan

Glendale has been privileged to be host to the Presbyterian synod sessions and there is no doubt but that the visiting clergymen will return to their homes with a vivid impression of a clean American city in the making.

The great minds of a great church gathered together here have been a spiritual blessing, no doubt, for those enabled to attend the meetings. The fellowship and humanity exhibited by the visitors also, is worthy of comment.

In their discussions of fundamental religion, as opposed to the modernists' belief, the firm rock on which the Presbyterians' creed is anchored again was revealed to the reading, thinking public.

It has been good to have the churchmen in our midst. The spreading of the gospel light by all denominations alike is the beacon of civilization.

Glendale is receiving widespread publicity as a result of the synod's sessions here. More conventions, dare we call the Presbyterians' meeting such, should be sought.

The building of an American Legion stadium will give this city a very necessary adjunct. But still more accommodations are necessary. Need the crying needs of the city be mentioned again?

It was necessary to canvass residences to find quarters for the clergymen. Why?

Enough said.

In new quarters the Glendale postoffice presents an entirely different situation from that which it occupied when it was declared independent from Los Angeles a few short years ago.

Much credit is due Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson for the changes which have taken place.

Not only so, should be added for the loyal and efficient force employed by Uncle Sam here.

Only those who remember "the days when" can appreciate the difference in the service.

Planning Commissioners Will Inspect Proposed Valley To Harbor Route

The City Planning commission will meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the local Southern Pacific depot, with representatives from the Regional, Los Angeles and Burbank Planning commissions, to go over the route of the proposed industrial highway to run from San Fernando to San Pedro, along the west side of the Los Angeles river, paralleling the San Fernando road a considerable portion of its distance.

This was agreed by the commission at last night's meeting at the City Hall, Chairman T. W. Watson presiding. The plan is being engineered by Hugh Tomeroy, secretary of the Regional Planning commission. It contemplates following Flower street from Turkey crossing, Burbank, thence through Glendale and on to San Pedro through the industrial section of Los Angeles, lying to the west of the Los Angeles river.

It is felt that, with such an industrial highway on the west side of the river, and with the forthcoming Victory boulevard on the east side, the next few years will see the relief of the present serious congestion of San Fernando road.

Want Through Route

A delegation from the Fourth Street Improvement association was present at last night's meeting, backed up by their president, J. H. Randall, a member of the City Planning commission. They requested a resolution approving the plans for the extension of Fourth street, making it a through highway from Pasadena to Burbank. The commission adopted such a resolution, while declining to make a detailed report of progress on this project until plans had been worked out in further detail.

The present plan is to secure the necessary right-of-way to open the street from Pacific avenue to the Burbank city limits, before waiting to get the remaining right-of-way to the east.

FIRE SWEEPS UP TO CITY'S LIMITS

Shift In Wind Halts Flames As Citizens Fight to Check Fire-Fiend

SUSANVILLE, Cal., July 29.—A shift in the wind saved this town from destruction when one of the two great forest fires burning in Lassen county swept over the brow of the hill overlooking the town and burned into the borough limits before it was checked.

The whole city turned out to fight the fire. All the big lumber mills shut down and sent their forces into the battle against the flames. At least 1500 men and boys were in the volunteer fire brigade, while the 3500 women and children anxiously watched the fighters. The patients in the county hospital were hastily removed and the building was regarded as doomed when the wind change came last night. The fire line was within 600 feet of the structure. Hundreds of residents on that side of the town removed their belongings from their homes and prepared to flee before the flames.

Timber Is Burning

Today the fire was burning away from the town, but into a fine stand of timber. A large number of fire-fighters are endeavoring to control the blaze, and if wind conditions are favorable, hope to prevent total destruction of the forest land over which it is now burning.

Sixteen miles north of here is burning what the superintendent of the Fruit Growers Lumber company declared to be the fiercest forest fire he has ever seen. Between 600 and 700 men at camp No. 3 of the Fruit Growers company are battling the blaze, with small prospect of controlling it. This fire is in the vicinity of Eagle lake and in a belt of the finest timberland in Lassen county. It has been burning unchecked since Saturday.

CLAIMS INDIANS OF NORSE STOCK

Savant Declares New Type From South America Of European Origin

SPOKANE, July 29.—Scientific circles were discussing with interest today the startling assertion of Professor Oluf L. Upsilon that white Indians recently discovered in South America are descendants of Norsemen.

Professor Upsilon, who has just completed thirty years of research on the subject, believes that Norsemen were the original inhabitants of both North and South America.

The basis of his claims are peculiar carvings found on the rocks of the Columbia river basin, which are similar to other characters hewn into Nova Scotian and Mexican stones, all unmistakably Nordic in character. Professor Upsilon declared today.

"Not only are the Indians—both white and red—descendants of the Norsemen, but the Indian language is derived from the old Norse" he said.

The scientist has been aided in this work by financial grants from the Norwegian government and the University of Norway has just declared the discoveries to be authentic. Professor Upsilon asserted. Complete records of his findings have been furnished the United States government.

Liquor Stocks Worth $5,000,000, Estimate

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—J. He adds that never was so much liquor kept before Volstead's day.

Coincident with the retirement of Shoop, who is the fifth to quit the post here, Captain W. S. Lowe has been added to the bootleggers' list of those who must leave. Charles F. Galling, hotel director, also has been made a marked man, according to inside information.

Civil War Veterans Face Battery Charge

SAWTELLE, July 29.—Henry Fahey and T. J. Ellis, two gray-haired inmates of the Soldiers' home here and both veterans of the Civil war, were arrested, charged with battery on the person of another old soldier, H. G. Coleman.

According to authorities at the Soldiers' home, Fahey and Ellis attacked Coleman while he was in bed, alleging he had informed police officers that Fahey and Ellis "were making money on the side as bootleggers."

Save Our Forests!

THOUSANDS upon thousands of acres of California's priceless old-growth heritages—her forests—are being turned into hideous, blackened waste-land. A loss that is increasing year after year—that is greater this year than ever before.

Over 90 per cent of our forest fires are avoidable. Carelessly left camp fires, carelessly dropped cigarettes and matches are the cause!

Only care on the part of every one of us will prevent this needless and appalling waste. Let us all be a little more careful and never leave an uncovered camp fire—never toss aside a burning cigarette or match in the open.

BREAK THEM IN HALF. From the habit of breaking every one in half after using and you will never throw away a lighted match in the open.

URGES SAVING OF STATE'S FORESTS

Ninety Per Cent of Fires in Lumber Region Are Avoidable, Claim

Over ninety per cent of the forest fires in California and other parts of the country are avoidable, according to statistics compiled by men in close touch with the situation, and one of the worst factors in these man-made fires is the match that is thrown away before it is extinguished.

In the campaign to save California's forests from destruction by fire, the Richfield Oil company officials are urging that every possible care be exercised by campers and those whose routes take them through the timber. Matches should be broken in half before being thrown away, and stumps of cigarettes should be carefully extinguished so that their smoldering ends may not cause a conflagration that will still further deplete the state's lumber resources.

Camp fires that have been left burning are another fruitful cause of forest fires, says the Richfield Oil company experts. Every camp fire should be put out before campers leave the spot where it has been burning, for a spark or an ember that has been overlooked may be fanned by the wind until it breaks into flame, spreading ruin and possibly death over an immense area.

Student Enjoys Trip To Hawaiian Islands

Wallace Haines of 212 West Lomita avenue, member of the senior class of Glendale High school, returned Saturday from a pleasant trip to Honolulu. He left here July 5, and in addition to the voyage he enjoyed a full week of sightseeing on the islands.

He expects to leave next Saturday for a second trip on a different vessel which will take a route that will enable him to see the volcano and other interesting points that were not passed on his recent trip. Young Haines is an expert player of the saxophone, and is a valued addition to the orchestra with which he is making these summer trips.

Glendale Teacher Tells World Travelers About City On Ocean Journey

An address by Walter Gorman of the Glendale Union High school faculty put Glendale on the map in mid-ocean, the night of Friday, July 11, when, as chairman of the program aboard the crack Red Star liner "Belgenland" he told several hundred passengers from all portions of the world something about the charms of "the fastest growing city in America."

The steamer was bound for Plymouth, England. In Mr. Gorman's party are his wife, who was Mrs. Flora Perham of Wichita Falls, Texas; a daughter, Mrs. Elsie Levell, and a granddaughter, little Miss June Levell. They will return aboard the White Star liner "Homeric," sailing from Southampton August 20, and arriving in Glendale in time for the opening of the schools on September 15. Mr. Gorman is an instructor of manual training in the G. U. H. S. wood shop. He is by profession an engineer and ship builder.

Copy of Program

Writing to J. M. Powers of the Atlas Steamship agency, 119 East Broadway, who booked passage for the party, Mr. Gorman enclosed a copy of the program, wherein his name appears as chairman of the program and principal speaker. It was at the special request of Commodore J. Bradshaw of the Red Star fleet, commander of the "Belgenland," that he spoke, the letter states.

"Owing to July 4, our baggage did not arrive at the ship until thirty minutes before sailing time," he goes on to say, "occasioning us quite a little worry, but that was speedily lost sight of in the face of the many courtesies extended by the ship's officers and by the New York offices of the company, who secured for us excellent cabins and table accommodations."

"We are now two days out and not a ripple on the water. A little fog yesterday, but today clear sunshine. Expect to dock at Plymouth Sunday morning. It is now Tuesday. I almost wish we were to dock later than Sunday for you know how I love the water. I have not seen anyone sick yet and don't see how anyone could get sick, with weather like this and such a splendid boat."

Hansons Visit County Park In Mountains

Peter Hanson, president of the Glendale Realty Board, accompanied by Mrs. Hanson and their daughter, Miss Clarice Hanson, returned last night to Glendale, after spending a four-day vacation at the Los Angeles county park, lying northwest of San Bernardino.

The park, Mr. Hanson declares, is destined to fill an important place as a resort for Southland residents of moderate means, as the steady increase in the value of mountain property is rapidly placing it beyond the ability of many people to acquire cabin sites and the park will provide camping space for all accommodations at a figure that will permit the full enjoyment of it by the masses.

GOAT GETS GOAT OF POUNDMASTER

Rambunctious Billy Spreads Terror and Ruination In City Lock-Up

Has anyone lost his goat? William Deer, poundmaster, has one in the city pound that he would like to return to its owner. He had plenty of trouble getting it there, and is having his hands full keeping it there. In short, this goat has got Mr. Deer's goat.

The animal had the goats of several residents in the court at 846 North Central avenue. They were afraid to venture forth into the yard, where this rascable Billy had stationed himself. The police department was called and passed the buck (this is pardonable!) to Poundmaster Deer, who hastened to the scene in his flivver.

After much coaxing Billy was induced to become a passenger, but on the way to the pound he changed his mind and butted a hole through the top of the car. He is now engaged in methodically demolishing the pound, butt by butt.

A Teakettle Bank in the Cornfield

A sly old fellow was Farmer Brown. Hard working, honest, saving—but no faith in any one but himself. He placed his savings in an old teakettle which he hid in his cornfield.

It was discovered by tramps—sorrowfully he learned that it was no place to keep money.

What does it profit a man to save his money and hide it in a teakettle?

Of course very few people of today literally place their money and faith in old teakettles, but countless numbers are still banking their hard earned funds in the old kettle of indifference without even a thought of the oncoming tramps of senseless buying and careless use, who so often discover its hiding place.

A portion of the money you earn should be saved and properly cared for. Discard teakettles and let us show you the wisdom of a regular saving habit and placing it out of the reach of the tramps.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION DECISION

The decision of the Federal Trade commission, ordering the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiaries to abandon the "Pittsburgh plus" plan of basing steel prices as an unfair method of competition and constituting price discrimination, was hailed with joy by manufacturers and business men in the south and west. It seems certain, however, that the order will be the subject of long drawn out litigation in the courts by the steel companies to test equity.

The Pittsburgh plus plan is the practice which has prevailed in the steel trade of pricing all rolled steel products except steel rails at the Pittsburgh mill price plus the freight from Pittsburgh to the destination of any shipment of steel, no matter if it was manufactured in Pittsburgh or not.

The majority of the mills, independents as well as those of the steel corporations, have been accustomed to quote only a delivered price, which includes the above factors, and industrial centers other than those in the immediate Pittsburgh district, claim that this caused discrimination against them, since steel made in Chicago, Birmingham, Duluth, Pueblo or any other important producing center, was charged for as though it were made at Pittsburgh. If steel made in South Chicago was delivered in Chicago, it nevertheless, was charged for as if it were made in Pittsburgh and shipped to Chicago.

The mills claimed that this practice was made necessary by the laws of supply and demand, and was warranted by free competitive conditions. They asserted that Pittsburgh was the only center where there was surplus production of steel, and that it supplied other districts where there was under production. The mills argued that when steel was shipped from Pittsburgh to supply under production in other districts, the actual freight must be charged. Because of this they declared they charged this freight on all rolled steel produced so as not to discriminate between customers.

On the other side of the case, attorneys for the Federal Trade commission claimed that the other districts could meet the demands upon them if permitted to do so, and that the Pittsburgh plus plan tended to restrict production in other sections and enabled the mills to make greater profits and conserve investments in and about Pittsburgh.

Western manufacturers contended that prices of farm implements and other manufactured products were raised by the plan, asserting that it added about 15 per cent to the price of steel. Thirty-two states joined in opposing the practice, and Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin raised funds aggregating $55,000 to fight the case through. They were joined by farmers' organizations.

The case was before the Federal Trade commission for more than two and a half years. Hearings necessitated the compiling of 50,000 pages of testimony and 8000 exhibits, and men on both sides were required to appear and testify.

Some steel manufacturers in the middle west ceased to employ the Pittsburgh plus system of basing prices last year, quoting figures f. o. b. plant, but their example, until the present time, has not been widely followed. The rapid development of the steel and iron industry in Utah and California, makes the decision of the commission especially important to those states at the present time.

It is expected that the first move of the United States Steel corporation to secure the revocation of the commission's cease and desist order will be to take the case to the United States circuit court of appeals, and, if unsuccessful there, to the supreme court of the United States.

ENJOY SIMPLE PLEASURES

One of the most pitiable creatures in the world is the man or woman who cannot enjoy simple pleasures, who measures the value of things by what they cost in money. If such a person is wealthy and can afford to gratify his desires, he may get some pleasure from life, superficial though it be. But, one who has tastes and desires beyond his means and cannot enjoy the things he can afford, must be most miserable.

A party of school teachers, each of whom had a like amount of money set aside for a vacation, were planning a trip together that required traveling at night. In making out the budget for the trip, it was decided by the majority that they could not afford Pullman accommodations. One of the number declared she had never traveled any way but first class, and simply wouldn't go under the circumstances suggested. So she gave up a vacation that meant so much in real enjoyment, cultural advantages, and rest to girls who had the good sense not to want what they could not afford, and the capacity to enjoy what was within their reach.

A woman traveling on an interurban train was urged by her companion to look at the wonderful view. She refused even to turn her head, saying she had been over the road before. There must be mighty little enjoyment in the world for such as she.

Those who find life a merry venture under all circumstances get the most out of it. Those who wait to enjoy life until they can afford costly pleasures sometimes find out too late that they have missed all that was worth while. Those of small means who can, and do, enjoy the simple pleasures of life, are the wealthiest, after all.

IRELAND MAKES HER BOW

The appointment of Professor Timothy Smiddy of Cork university as minister plenipotentiary from the Irish Free State to the United States is an epochal and significant event in the history of the world. For the first time the flag of Ireland flies over her own embassy in Washington; for the first time Ireland is dignified as a nation among the nations of the world. Many believe that Canada, Australia and South Africa will soon follow the example of Ireland and demand the right to have their own representatives in foreign capitals. Canada, even now, is refusing to be bound by a treaty which she did not ratify, and it is predicted that the Dominion will break away from the mother country to the extent of having the sole direction in diplomatic matters that pertain to Canada alone.

The new Irish minister is said to be peculiarly fitted for the position. He is cultured, diplomatic, cautious, reserved and dignified. He is thoroughly conversant with the needs of his country and is trying to encourage trade between his country and the United States, which has already grown to some importance.

Elimination of burdensome taxation should be the first thing—and act—of "the powers that be."

HE'S ALWAYS BUSY

The Smotherers

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The trouble with the egotist is that he smothers you.

More marriages have been wrecked by smotherers than by any other cause. No one can sustain a continued intimacy unless he allows the other party to that intimacy a certain amount of independence.

The instinct for personal expression is one of the deepest of our humanity. Whoever treads upon that instinct, and denies it, has laid the ground for a deep resentment.

A recent writer tells of a man who was arrested for desertion after twelve years of faithful married life.

"He said that he had been coming home as usual, that he had seen his wife and children through the window, that he had seen them there every night and that he couldn't bear it."

"A fine coerced him back to his setting—but he conveyed a lesson: Crime is often a common impulse, magnified and sustained, and his impulse was self-preservation. He was escaping from a supplementary picture of his own conformity. He said: 'Your honor, if she only had hit men, I never would have left her.'"

Singularly enough, some of our laws make violence and brutality an excuse for divorce, but not smothering. It is well known, however, that the carter's or blacksmith's wife very easily puts up with an occasional beating, but it is difficult for the duchess to live with an egotist.

If a husband or a wife makes the partner but a reflex of himself or herself, and of his or her ideas, it may make for conformity, but hardly for satisfaction.

It is a difficult thing to see, that perfect unity is impossible without perfect independence. There can be no sincere unity without deliberate self-giving. And if there is an effort on the part of one to make the other conform in every way to his wishes and his ideals, the result is smothering. The eventuation is not harmony, but inharmonious.

By and by there is a constant effort to evade what cannot be argued with. Whoever will not tolerate anything but his own ideals and convictions is putting a premium upon deception.

Submission, or self-giving, must be entirely voluntary to be worth while.

Horoscope

Peace plans are to be pushed by the women of the world in a tendency toward the thwarting of ambitions on the part of women who desire to enter public service, the seers declare, but, thus they will be serving high purposes since spiritual needs will be recognized by mothers and wives.

Mars, in benefic aspect, dominates this day, according to astrology. Venus is adverse. It is a day in which men benefit much more than women and especially favored are those who are vigorous, able to perform manual labor and strong in all physical tasks.

Whatever is constructive and conducive to material gain should benefit under this sway. Great activity in certain lines of manufacturing and in supplying foreign markets again is prognosticated for the United States.

Men will continue to have a way that will bring about great results, the seers prophesy.

If the stars are read aright, war preparations will be made by many nations, but they will precipitate some startlingly and sensational movement on the part of women.

Great spiritual forces are active in the new era of the world, astrologers point out, and history is to record many astounding events. France continues subject to a planetary rule making for the most serious crises in national history.

All the signs appear to preface a world-wide uprising of the people and a demand for sweeping changes in government affairs.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a busy year, but they should avoid new enterprises and should beware of untrustworthy friends.

Children born on this day probably will be energetic and persevering, but exceedingly fond of amusement. These subjects of Leo are likely to win great success in life.

Who's Who

The election of Judge George W. Olvany, a former district leader of Tammany, as successor to the late Charles W. Murphy, gives him the most coveted place of unofficial political power in New York City. It puts him in a position which carries considerable authority in Democratic party circles of the state and, to a lesser degree, of the nation. He will assume the duties which a subcommittee of seven members, chosen from the executive committee, has performed since the death of Murphy.

In Olvany, Tammany has another tactician leader, close associate of Olvany say. Like the late Charles F. Murphy the new leader is a man of few words. He is not much of a mixer, either.

Judge Olvany was born in what is known as the old Seventh Ward in New York, not far from the Olive street residence of Gov. Al Smith. While Olvany was a small boy the family moved to Greenwich Village and he went to school in that section. Later he attended New York university and obtained his law degree there. His first political office was that of alderman.

His political activities have included service as counsel to sheriffs Knott and Nagle and the chairman of the Tammany committee. He was deputy fire commissioner under Nicholas Hays. Last January Gov. Smith appointed him to the New York general sessions bench to succeed Judge Crain, who was elevated to the supreme court.

The judge's full name is George Washington Olvany. He was given that name because of the fact that he was born in 1876, the year of the Centennial. He has been married 13 years and has one daughter, 12 years of age.

THE COUNTRY FAITH
Here in the country's heart,
Where the grass is green,

And the bell at morn
Floats with a thought of God

And the crop grows tall—
This is the country faith
And best of all!

SO WOULD WE
A very attractive young woman in charge of a class of boys wrestling with composition—a blackboard on which she has written:
"Mary Ann crosses the street and carelessly displayed a very pretty ankle. How should the sentence be punctuated?"

The first boy thought there should be a comma after "Mary Ann." The second boy thought there should be a just a comma after the word street, a third had who seemed half asleep—but who woke up long enough to say that he'd make a dash after "Mary Ann."

The Ravings Of a Grouch

Of all the people in the world the most deserving of pity is the one who has no object in life. Just living from day to day with nothing to which to look forward seems to me to be the most monotonous existence possible. And the mad scramble for pleasure in an effort to break the monotony would make life all the more tiresome and irksome to me.

An ideal or aim in life is the only thing in my opinion that makes life worth living. It seems to me that even a base motive is better than none. I can imagine people living and working to attain some end that would be considered selfish and ignoble but I cannot understand those who live only because they have been placed on this earth and it is too much trouble to look for a job.

The all-important thing, it seems to me, is to have a job, not necessarily work that is paid for in money. The woman who makes a home for her husband and children, even though it be a humble one, may have greater satisfaction in life than the man whose yearly income is up in the hundreds of thousands. And her work in the world may have greater and more far-reaching results than his.

The man who is conscientiously working to build up an organization or a business for his employer or for himself has an ideal that makes life worth living. The school teacher who realizes her responsibility and who is conscientious in her duty must feel that her life counts for a great deal. The minister and missionary who lead others from evil have much to live for and the man or woman who gives up all personal pleasures to minister to fellow-humans must enjoy the greatest reward that this world and the hereafter can give.

I cannot entirely blame a married woman who has no children for wanting a job. An energetic person cannot keep herself busy all day caring for a tiny apartment, and while many contend that making a home for her husband ought to be job enough for any woman, it is a good sign that women do not want to be idle. There was a time when there was little or nothing for women to do outside the home so she retired to the chimney corner at thirty.

There was nothing to live for, nothing to look forward to, unless she was the mother of a family. The fact that women have so many interests now is keeping them young. Every day we read of some woman of title, wealth or social prominence who has taken a job with the object of helping the working girls. While I think the working girls will get along without the help of these women very nicely, I must commend the latter for wishing to throw off the shackles of idleness.

Work or something equivalent to it is the thing that keeps men and women young. The person with no aim in life is taking up space on the earth that could be used to better advantage.

Government to Fight Alien Dope Runners

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Smuggling of aliens and narcotics into the United States has become almost as serious a problem as illegal booze running, government officials declared.

Following disclosures at New York that shipments of aliens and cargoes of narcotics form a part of the notorious "rum row" just outside the twelve-mile limit, it became known that drastic steps are considered by the government. Agents of the treasury department have requested authority of the state department to make an official investigation of the rum fleet to determine conditions there.

Sinclair Seeks New Ruling on Demurrer

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, who was indicted two months ago by a federal grand jury for contempt of the United States Senate for refusing to answer certain questions put by the oil investigating committee, has petitioned the District of Columbia court of appeals to allow a special appeal from the overruling by the district supreme court of a demurrer noted by his attorneys to six of the ten counts of the indictment. The demurrer of Sinclair's attorneys to the other four counts were sustained.

The Japanese department of agriculture and commerce is now advocating government earthquake insurance.

STONE-TILE
PERMANENT CONSTRUCTION
Beauty!
Any attempt to describe the beautiful color effects obtainable with STONE-TILE in building would be futile. It must be seen to be appreciated.
The harsh glare common to ordinary painted surfaces has been eliminated. Instead, there are soft, cool-looking tones that are restful to the eye and impart a sense of real beauty.
The colors are blended into STONE-TILE by a special process and, like the material of which they are a part, they are impervious to weather or time.
Ask to see colored STONE-TILE before you build. It will reduce your building cost and upkeep, without enhancing its beauty.

SUBMIT REPORTS ON CHURCH WORK BAN POLITICS AT CLUB LUNCHEONS CHANGE LIGHT STANDARDS, URGE

Synod Delegates Hear of Candidates May Speak But Members Will Maintain Aloof Attitude Improvement Association In Plea to City Council To Halt Plans

233 schools, 137 are for negroes, he said, and 3200 of the mission stations are Sunday school missions. The number and kind of missionary personnel, the report shows, follows: Ordained ministers of churches, 2272; unordained mission workers, 724; doctors, 46; nurses, 46; teachers, 964; field workers, 169; total, 4191. Of this number 1350 are women. National missions of the board are now located in every state in the Union, Alaska, Porto Rico, Cuba and San Domingo, he said.

Carried to Many Races In California, Dr. Bell said in his report, the mission board carries the Gospel to Indians, Mexicans, Italians, French, Spanish, Negroes, Russians, Hindus, Chinese and Japanese, in addition to Anglo-Saxon people. Resources in the synod for missions are most meagre in men and money, Dr. Bell said. Last year's expenditures were less than $300,000 in California for mission work, he said, and the amount for next year must be greatly increased. Dr. Bell offered the following recommendations:

"That the synod shall direct attention to our service stations for the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain districts, located in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"That the synod shall emphasize special days in interest of national missions when special programs will be furnished for Sunday school.

"That the synod shall ask our congregations to observe national missions day or week, suggesting a specified time.

"That the synod direct each of our congregations to put on an every-church visitation campaign, if possible, with afternoon and evening sessions.

"That the synod shall call special attention to the stereoscopic slides visualizing national missions, which can be secured at headquarters, as also the national literature here for our use."

Miss Julia Fraser of the Women's Synodical Society of Home Missions, gave a report on the activities of that organization during the past year. She introduced Miss Martha E. Chase, who came to California forty-five years ago, and founded the Santa Rosa seminary for girls and later took charge of work at the Hopi Indian reservation in Humboldt county, and later did mission work in Los Angeles.

Dr. Lapsley McAfee, past moderator of the synod, in an address "Evangelism," urged the delegates to not confuse evangelism with their social programs. He outlined various methods of evangelistic campaigns and recommended a free-for-all discussion in the churches of evangelistic plans. He said it was not the policy of the committee to recommend any definite plan.

Dr. J. Skinner of Stockton, chairman of the sub-committee on buildings and property, told of a survey being made throughout the state of the building needs of churches. He said over $1,500,000 had been expended during the past year on church buildings, and expected the amount for next year would exceed this amount.

Other Reports Submitted There are 191 groups of boys and girls being cared for in California by the Sunday school missionaries, Rev. George Butterfield, D.D., of Los Angeles, head of that sub-committee, said in his report. He outlined the work that had been accomplished during the thirteen years he has been at the head of the sub-committee.

Rev. Hampton B. Hawes, of Los Angeles, made a plea for the negroes, who were playing an important part in the work of the Presbyterian church. He said he was speaking for 12,000,000 negroes who asked not to be crowded off the synod program, but to be given a greater part.

Dr. John McDowell, associate secretary of the board of national missions, said the church must meet the challenge to adjust itself, along with every other industry and commercial undertaking in the country, to conditions today.

Confer on Federated Aid The conference on federated aid is being held this afternoon in Room 103 at the church. Members of the Cumberland Presbyterian will hold a banquet tonight, starting at 6 o'clock, at the Alley Inn.

The baseball games originally scheduled for this afternoon, have been postponed until tomorrow. The California elders will meet the Arizona ministers at 2 o'clock in the diamond of the Harvard High school grounds, while the ministers from Northern California will play the ministers from Southern California on the 3:30 diamond, starting at 3:30 o'clock. John Harvey is captain of the ministers from the north, and K. Griffith is captain of the ministers of the south.

This afternoon, the delegates left the church at 1:30 o'clock for a tour of the movie studios and the museum at Exposition park. Among the points of interest to be visited on the trip day.

Persons who are candidates for political positions will be welcome to address the Exchange club, but will not be permitted to discuss political activities or extend the club to take any stand on political issues, it was decided at the meeting of the Exchange club held today noon at the Harriett Mae Tea room. The question was brought up when several members objected to political candidates appearing before the club in the interest of their campaign.

Details of the fishing trip Sunday when a number of members of the club spent the day catching mackerel, barracuda, bass, halibut, yellowtail and sharks off the coast opposite Santa Monica, were related by President R. E. Johnston, W. C. Waring, Dr. W. H. Appleton, W. Claire Anspach and others.

'Golden Deeds' Book O. D. Murphy, a member of the Exchange club at Santa Monica, spoke of a proposed clubhouse near Crystal pier. H. N. Fowler invited the members of the club and their wives to a party to be given in a new building at Verdugo City early in October. The building is now being constructed by J. C. May, a member of the club.

The club will issue a book of golden deeds, setting forth facts concerning members of the club and residents of Glendale who have worked for civic interests. A committee to secure material for the book will be named later by President Johnston.

The attendance prize, donated by H. C. Vandewater, was won by Ralph Pierce.

Following the luncheon the members of the Exchange club, at the invitation of Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, went in a body to inspect the new postoffice at 416 East Broadway.

were the Robertson-Cole studio, the Fairbanks-Pickford studio, Hollywood Bowl, Pilgrimage theatre, Southern Branch of the University of Southern California, University of Southern California, museum, stadium, First Methodist church at Eighth and Hope streets, the plaza, Los Angeles mission and city and county buildings in Los Angeles.

Address to Women Featuring the women's meeting of the synod this morning at the Glendale Presbyterian church, was an address by Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the board of foreign missions, New York. Dr. Speer told of a trip he took through Persia and of the spiritual experiences of the many days he traveled through that country.

In addition to his address, there were talks on overseas work, children's activities and books. Rev. Louis Tinning, formerly assistant pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, now of San Juan Capistrano, is in attendance at the synod meeting. His countless friends in Glendale are welcoming him to Glendale for the week.

a $400,000 viaduct under San Fernando road at this point, connecting Colorado boulevard with the forthcoming Victory boulevard, be taken into consideration in making a recommendation.

It was voted that condemnation proceedings be instituted along Fourth street from Alameda avenue to Glen Oaks boulevard, as recommended by the Planning commission. The property to be condemned comprises forty feet on each side of the Pacific Electric right of way, making a highway 120 feet wide.

Get Special Permit The application of the Sparr Heights interests for a special permit to build a cloister porch around a three-cornered piece of property on North Verdugo road near the Community Center building, was granted, as recommended by the Planning commission.

Councilman Gihuly voted "no" on this matter, making it very plain that he disapproved such a step and considered it a dangerous precedent to inaugurate.

The council approved several maps recommended by the Planning commission.

Communication in Full The communication from the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association, as filed with the City Council this morning, follows in full:

"On Thursday, July 24, 1924, Councilman Hall made a motion which was seconded by Councilman Gihuly and which was duly carried, that the city attorney and the superintendent of plant and production be instructed to prepare separate proceedings for the installation of steel pipe ornamental street lights on Colorado boulevard between San Fernando boulevard and Glendale avenue, with the exception of that part between Brand boulevard and Central avenue."

"Through negligence on our part we did not apprise you of the following facts: "That, on June 24, 1924, a mass meeting was held at the city hall of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association, at which meeting representatives of ornamental street lighting companies were heard and the conclusion of the meeting was the appointing of seven members of the association to act as a committee to investigate various street lighting electroliters. This committee consisted of the following members of the association, Messrs. Boland, Hewitt, Gannon, Creyk, Gray, Peterson and Dixon. Mr. Groesbeck of 443 Colorado boulevard was appointed to serve in his stead.

Committee Meets "That, on July 17, 1924, a meeting of the committee was held at which were present the following members of the committee: Messrs. Boland, Hewitt, Gannon, Creyk, Gray and Groesbeck. The members of the committee then repaired to the front of the Elks' club where the Marbleite corporation had installed a sample standard they proposed for Colorado boulevard. After a thorough investigation it was agreed that as many of the committee could do so would visit the Marbleite factory. The following morning several members of the committee and W. S. Kirk of 1131 East Colorado boulevard spent considerable time witnessing the manufacture of Marbleite lighting standards at the Marbleite plant.

"On July 28, 1924, a meeting of the committee was held which was unanimously that the committee recommend the installation of Marbleite standards as per sample now installed in front of the Elks' club to the members of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association who will hold a meeting Thursday evening, July 31, at the council chambers in the city hall.

"We therefore respectfully request that you stop all proceedings on Colorado boulevard pertaining to street lighting until we have had the opportunity of circulating a petition among the members of the Colorado Boulevard Improvement association and property owners for the installation of Marbleite lighting standards as per sample submitted.

COLORADO BOULEVARD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION. J. M. BOLAND, President. A. W. HEWITT, Secretary.

In their early statements, Leopold and Loeb presented a carefully prepared alibi, and they smiled curiously today as their two-month-old falsehood was intoned in the courtroom. At times they nudged each other and laughed.

Both defense and prosecution counsel conferred privately with Justice Caverly this morning over whether to introduce into the record a remarkable statement made by Leopold during the grilling that preceded his confession. This dealt with sex matters and is unprintable.

"It's of little moment either way," Justice Caverly told the lawyers, indicating that this will not seriously enter into his consideration of hanging or life imprisonment. Most of the unprintable matter finally went into the record, but it was read in whispers to the official stenographers, and no portion of it permitted to reach the ears of the scores of women spectators who were present today, as usual.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—They met at a dance during the Easter holidays at the naval academy at Annapolis. He was handsome and she was young, less than 18, alive to romance. It was a case of love at first sight. But she looked again. And now Mrs. Robert D. Luther, nee Ella M. Beckham, daughter of Colonel Beckham of the army, is suing in the supreme court of the District of Columbia for an annulment of her marriage. Mrs. Luther is one of the beauties of the national capital.

HUSBAND WALKED OFF WITH JEWELS American Countess, Seeking Divorce From Italian, Charges Assault

ROME, July 29.—Countess Piccio, American wife of General Pierre Roger Piccio, head of the Italian air service, claimed that her husband benefited to the extent of $21,700 in four years through her generosity when the couple's mutual suit for separation began here today. Attorney Delfrage, representing Countess Piccio, charged that General Piccio knocked down his wife in a Paris hotel and then left for Rome, taking with him $50,000 worth of jewelry, including a $25,000 pearl necklace which the countess had bought for herself. The lawyer demanded the return of this jewelry to the wife. In his counter action, General Piccio charged his wife with extravagance. It was in reply to this accusation that the countess claimed to have given her husband $21,700 from her own bank account, offering her check book and cancelled checks to prove her assertions.

One policeman was killed and several wounded. The statement pointed out that due to sectarian feeling at Teheran the police were ordered to do nothing which would aggravate ill feeling. These orders, it was said, led the police to refrain from firing upon the mobs.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

B. J.—Ring worms are caused by a fungus growth, that is, one of the lowest types of plant life. They are contagious, so be careful not to pass them on to others. You should remove the scales with soap and water and then apply iodine, or sulphur ointment or ammoniate of mercury ointment. In fact, almost any ointment that contains some antiseptic will cure them. Common ink (usually a solution of tannin and iron sulphate) has cured cases; so has vinegar in which a copper coin has been soaked. Ring worm in the scalp, if it gets a good start, is much more difficult to cure because the fungus grows deep down in the hair pits and each hair is a separate focus for the disease. The patches should be scrubbed with soap and water (tar soap is a good brand) and then the hair cut short or shaved, or better yet, pulled out from the patches and for one-quarter of an inch around them. Whatever is used for the medication should be worked thoroughly into the scalp. The official sulphur ointment which you can get at any drugstore is considered one of the best. Apply this every day, scrubbing the patch with soap and water before applying. Jackson says that he has found that the best way to use the iodine is to rub one teaspoon of the crystals into one ounce of goose grease. A child who has ring worm of the scalp must not wear another child's hat, or use other people's brushes or towels, or sleep with another child. He should also be taken out of school. Mrs. L. S.—There is nothing that will dry up the lumps you describe. See your physician, please. E.—You are 10 or 15 pounds underweight. You probably understand it is possible that the catarrhal condition you speak of is caused by your not getting sufficient vitamins and mineral salts and other elements you need. If you take very hot copious douches, four or five quarts, as hot as you can stand you will get temporary relief. It is the heat that allays the inflammation, but you can add one tablespoon of boric acid to the quart of water for its antiseptic qualities. Have a thorough physical examination to determine the cause of your trouble. I cannot give you any other question in the column. Sorry. F. B.—Overfatigue and nervousness in the young woman you speak of is probably caused by grinding of the teeth. How about her health habits? "Dear Doctor:—I surely have benefited from your advice. A year ago I weighed 200 pounds. I now weigh 160 pounds which I believe is still too much. I am 25 years old, five feet and five and one-half inches tall. Isn't that too much for my height? My whole form is thinner but my face and neck are large. What can I do to get a thin looking face and neck? I diet right along, and I'm always hungry. Am I an exception, or is it just natural to have a full moon face?—Mrs. S." It is a change to get a report stating that the face and neck are too large even after reducing. So many reports the reverse. This face business is a matter of inheritance. However, you still weigh too much. Mrs. S. According to the rule of 110 pounds for five feet in height in stocking feet, and five and one-half pounds for every inch over, you should weigh about 140. So you are still 20 pounds over weight. Probably when you get rid of that, your full moon will be three-quarters. Are you getting sufficient bulk in your food and do you masticate your food thoroughly? I hate to have you hungry all the time. Drink water freely. My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Evidence signs of plagiarism and evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to distinguish between letters you send me and regret. It is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered. ANSWERED LETTERS DOROTHY G.—Moles are caused by the color pigment in the skin forming into small patches. Basically these serve the same purpose as tan—color pigment which nature disperses evenly over the skin in order to protect it from the direct rays of the sun. When the pigment is arranged unevenly it comes out on the skin's surface in the form of freckles. The little flat surfaced brown moles may be removed by a process of impigmentation given by a dermatologist. Lillian—At 16 years of age, height five feet, three inches and a half, weight should be about 115 pounds. The shade of your hair will darken naturally after a few more years. Miss F.—Peroxide will not cause hair to grow on face. It really has the opposite effect, as those who have used it for bleaching whole heads of hair have found to be so. Worried, L. G. B.—I do not know what is in the creams you mention. You had better not use any cream on your face rather than take so cheaply that fine oils could be used in it. M. A. W.—White spots on the nails are nothing but lime deposits indicating poor circulation. You can bleach them off by applying a solution of a saline every night for a few times. This is made by mixing in equal parts pitch and myrrh. Wear gloves over night and remove mixture in morning by dissolving it with any kind of oil. You can also overcome the trouble by improving the circulation in the finger tips. Massage fingers on the palms and back of hand, continuing the motions up into the forearms to the elbow. Vigorous daily buffing of the nails will improve the circulation under them, besides beautifying the nails. Mary M.—You are like a great many other little girls who are really very distinctive by having red hair, yet feel that it is a detriment. You may feel a bit conspicuous because your hair is of such a different shade than the others, but that is in your favor. After you have grown up and learn how to choose the right colors in dressing you will find that the red hair is one of your greatest attractions. All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

ELKS ENTERTAIN GUESTS AT LODGE FLYERS PREPARE FOR OCEAN DASH

Legal Lights Are Visitors; Apfel Reports About Boston Convention Navy Vessels Take Stations To Guide Birdmen on Atlantic Flight

Glendale Elks had a group of special guests at the weekly lodge meeting last night in the clubhouse on East Colorado street. They were Asa Keyes, district attorney of Los Angeles; Assistant District Attorney Fricke; Judge Arthur Keats and Judge Ira Johnson. During the meeting James A. Apfel, past exalted ruler of the lodge, who attended the Boston convention as official delegate from Glendale, gave an informal report of grand lodge activities, of the royal entertainment offered in Boston, and of the trip east with two days' stop-over in Montreal. Ventilating System Glendale people will learn with interest that, at the meeting last night with 300 in attendance, the new ventilating system was put in operation and worked most satisfactorily. By it the air in the lodge room is changed every five minutes. Last night there was no smoke remaining in the room during the meeting, and of the trip east with two days' stop-over in Montreal. 'Want to Go Home' Lowell M. Smith, flight commander, to float the three planes at 5 o'clock, taking off two hours later. The American globe girderers hope to reach Kirkwall in the Orkney islands, at noon. There they will rest overnight and replenish their supplies. The jump to the American continent will start Thursday morning, weather permitting. 'The American aviators today gave their planes a final overhauling and tested every part thoroughly. They were as happy as school boys over their coming adventure. The delay had made them restless and impatient. 'We want to get home,' said Lieutenant Smith. 'We are sure of success unless the unforeseen happens.'

Important Oil Field Is Opened in Montana

NEW YORK, July 29.—The United States Geological survey announces that the opening of a new and important oil field in the Lake Basin district, near Billings, Mont., is indicated by the flow of oil obtained from there. The bearing of the Lake Basin discovery on prospecting for oil and gas in other areas is also dealt with in the survey's announcement. WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Great Northern railroad applied to the Interstate Commerce commission today for authority to issue $4,500,000 of equipment trust certificates to be used in the purchase of a large quantity of rolling stock.

Housekeeping

THE CARE OF BRASS TOMORROW'S MENU Breakfast Cantaloupe Cereal Coffee Griddlecakes Toast Maple Sirup Dinner Clear Soup Roast Chicken, Gravy Mashed Potatoes Corn Carrot-Pea Salad Plain Ice Cream Coffee Supper Escalloped Tomatoes Egg-Olive Sandwiches Iced Cocoa Cake There is nothing that looks less attractive than a tarnished brass ornament. Different brass objects require different care. Antique Brass, for instance, requires polishing with powdered rottenstone which has been mixed to a paste with a little paraffin oil. Old Benares Brass, on the other hand, which is lacquered with gold, should never be scoured. Instead, apply a paste of lemon juice and cream of tartar, letting it stand on the Benares Brass for five minutes and then washing off with warm water and drying with a soft cloth. Brass Faucets and Doorknobs may be rubbed with a paste of paraffin oil and powdered bath brick followed by an application of the powdered bath brick alone (dry on a cloth), then polished with a clean chamois. Or, if old and rough, this variety of brass may be polished with any sand soap. Lacquering Brass to Prevent from Tarnishing: Apply a thin coat of lacquer (which any hardware store will sell you) after you polish the brass. The polish shows through the coat of lacquer, thus always keeping the bright. I know of housewives who received brass candlesticks and other ornaments for wedding gifts and who immediately lacquered them—thereby making it unnecessary to polish the ornaments at all. When the coat of lacquer wears off, simply give them another coat. To Make Brass Look Like Bronze: Some women change their brasses into what appears to be bronze, as follows: They rub them once a week, or oftener, with a piece of flannel moistened with any light oil such as that used for sewing machines; the metal gradually darkens under this treatment and thereafter requires no polishing. To Make an Old Brass Bed In to a White Enamel: Brass beds, too, should be lacquered to keep the polish from tarnishing, but when a bed has never been lacquered and its brass is worn through from many polishings, it is often better to apply white enamel over the brass rather than send the bed to a brass foundry to have a new coat of brass put on. This is how to apply the enamel: Remove lacquer (if it has any on) by scrubbing with strong soda water (one tablespoon of washing soda to one quart of hot water or denatured alcohol, then roughen the surface by brushing over with muriatic acid (a poison) or else by rubbing with coarse sandpaper. (If the acid is used it should be afterward washed off and the rags burned). Apply three coats of that paint and two of enamel. Smooth all but the final coat with number 00 sandpaper to remove brush marks. All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in this column in their own turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Jugo-Slavs Quick to Make Use of Publicity

LONDON, July 29.—Enterprising American advertising experts who think they know the publicity game from A to Z must look to their laurels. Judging by the news emanating from Agram, a small town in Jugo-Slovakia, the publicity people there are way ahead of any advertising man America has yet produced. Caruga, a notorious brigand chief, is on trial there for numerous murders committed during his reign of terror. One enterprising firm of manufacturers has offered him large sums of money if he will declare in court that at every murder he committed he wore a pair of boots or shoes, while a chocolate firm has offered to provide him or any person he likes to name handsomely with this world's goods if at the last moment he will declare that his chocolate is the very best. Chicago certainly has nothing on Agram.

Going barefoot is prohibited by executive order in Port au Prince, capital city of Haiti, and many poor people wear pairs of rubber tires on their feet, while country people often borrow sandals before going to the city. CAMPS FOR POOR TOKIO CHILDREN

TOKIO, July 29.—One of the most attractive scenic camps in the world will open this month on the side of Fujiyama, sacred mountain of Japan, when hundreds of Japanese children of the slums are taken there for an outing. Fujiyama, which is 12,000 feet high and famed in Japanese legend, has eight stations which the pilgrim must pass before he reaches the summit. At the third station, where plenty of space may be available for a summer camp, the educational sections of the municipality of Tokio has arranged for the Tokio children's camp. There a corps of nurses and several physicians will be constantly in attendance that the children from the poorest sections of Tokio's barrack districts may enjoy the scenery and air and at the same time watch the thousands of pilgrims who will pass every day on their climb up the famous mountain. CHAPTER XIV

About the walls sat several persons: an odd and heterogeneous lot, expectant country types with clean faces and clumsy boots for the most part, although there were one or two distinguished old faces among them. Hilary introduced them joyfully, explaining to Kronski that this was so rare a treat that she simply had to "call the neighbors in," like the woman in the nursery rhyme.

"No, but what rhyme is this?" demanded Kronski, stopping short in his round, and looking at her for an explanation.

"In reply she supplied it quite simply.

"Why, don't you know

"Cross Patch, draw the latch,
Sit by the fire and spin!
Take a cup, and drink it up,
And call the neighbors in!"

she asked, gaily. The violinist appeared fascinated by the jingle.

"Cross, yes, but what is that patch?" he asked. "I must learn that 'call the neighbors in'!"

"This is our dear neighbor Mrs. Latimer, and Miss Latimer," Hilary proceeded with her presentations. "And Jerry Latimer, and Doctor Stovall. And this is Madame Rider, who knows your country very well. Kronski, and Elsie Stout, whose mother is letting her stay up to meet you, because Elsie is going to be a musician one of these days—let him look at your fingers, Elsie. Isn't that a musician's hand for you? And dear Madame Gheech, who is making good Italians of us—Hilary proceeded with her presentations, and the ceremony proceeded pleasantly and easily: Craig could only marvel at the awed and flattered country neighbors responded. Where had she rounded them up in Mount Holly, this old Italian lady and the little French-woman, old Doctor Stovall with his magnificent mane of white hair, timid little Mrs. Stout trembling with pride in her fatherless daughter?

There was something homely, charming, European about it, he decided, talking to "at, panting Tom Lester, whose temperamental little wife conducted the dramatic Hilary readily seated herself at and memorized Alfred Noyes while rocking her heavy babies to sleep.

"Oh, this is such a rare treat. Mr. Spaulding!" said Ida Lester, eagerly and timidly, on his left. "The Collier girls are such wonderful girls. . . ."

Truly he began to think that they were. Hilary had established

"The Price She Paid" is proving at the tent theatre of Murphy's Comedians that these players are equally as good in the heavier as in the lighter plays. The tent is located on Stocker street, Casa Verdugo, between Brand boulevard and Central avenue.

"Oh, no, I won't!" she said, happily. Kronski had the Amati in his hands, now he raised the bow, and Hilary with a reverent expression on her face, touched a chord on the piano.

"What have we here—what have we here?" the violinist said, softly, looking over her shoulder at the scattered music.

"Will you play for us?" the girl said.

"But why not?" Kronski asked her in return, arching his heavy eyebrows at the expectant circle.

"You have worked hard, Made-moiselle," he added, watching her careless fingers.

"All my life!" she answered, flushing with pleasure.

"The Mama begins you when—at seven—at eight?"

"Oh, at four!" His eyes gleamed.

"It should be so," he said, approvingly, "and one sees it. Ah, my darling!" he murmured in Russian to the violin. "And how long did the little hands practice at four?" he asked, as he lightly drew forth a casual note or two that made Hilary's fingers turn cold with ecstasy. "What is this we have here? Wienlawski? The scherzo tarantelle—good! Shall we commence?"

There followed suddenly, like a scream in the listening silence, an introductory phrase so pure, so flashing and brilliant that Hilary quite palpably winced, and her hands shook as they began the accompaniment. Dora, even in the middle of a whispered sentence to Craig, was struck dumb, he saw her soft mouth half-open in utter rapture, her eyes were fixed upon Kronski, she seemed transported instantly to another world. Craig felt, himself, that he could glimpse now, for the first time in his life, the full beauty of the instrument for which men had longed, and toiled, and suffered and died, for a thousand years. Beauty, stupendous and immortal, was shut into that narrow box of polished wood, and at Konrad's touch it awoke again: the beauty of all music, all power, all passion flooded the little room, and brimmed in it like molten gold.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FEATHER BED

Nurse Jane heard a queer noise in Uncle Wiggily's bedroom one morning. It sounded like: "Ugh! Wump! Wug! Gump!"

"Whatever is the matter in there, Wiggy?" she called to the rabbit gentleman. "Has the Fuzzy Fox caught you?"

"Oh, no," was the answer. "But I wish the Fuzzy Fox would catch my rheumatism. Oh, such a pain as I have! All night long I have had a pain! Such a hard bed as I have to sleep on!"

"Oh, you poor, dear, old rabbit!" murmured Nurse Jane. "I'm so sorry you have the rheumatism. I'll go over to see Mrs. Wibble-wobble. She is a kind duck lady and she will give me a lot of her loose feathers. Out of her soft feathers I shall make you such a downy bed that you will not feel your rheumatism pain."

"That will be very kind of you," sighed Uncle Wiggily.

He managed to get up and dress, though he grunted and groaned very much, and he ate some breakfast. By this time Nurse Jane had come back from Mrs. Wibble-wobble's with a bag of feathers, and with these she made a soft bed for the rabbit gentleman.

"Now lie down on your feather bed, Uncle Wiggily," she told the bunny, "and rest your weary bones."

So Uncle Wiggily went back to bed. He had so much pain he could not go adventuring that day. But pretty soon, as Nurse Jane washed the breakfast dishes, she heard Uncle Wiggily laughing in his bed.

"What's the matter?" she asked. "Does your rheumatism pain you that you have to laugh?"

"My rheumatism is much better," thank you, answered the bunny. "But I have to laugh because some of the feathers in my bed are tickling me! Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! Tee! Hee!" and right loudly did the bunny laugh.

"Well, I'm glad you are more cheerful," said Nurse Jane. "As long as you feel better I will go down town and buy a new set of dishes at the seven and eight-cent store."

Away hopped the muskrat lady, and Uncle Wiggily was lying on his new bed, feeling better, and laughing now and then as the feathers tickled him, when, all of a sudden, in through the window climbed the Bushy Bear!

"Gurr! Gurr!" growled the Bear, looking at the rabbit. "I am glad to find you at home, Uncle Wiggily! I came to nibble your ears. If you had been out I couldn't have nibbled them."

"Then I wish I had gone out," sighed the rabbit, as he jumped out of bed. As he did so some of the loose feathers tickled him. But Uncle Wiggily did not feel much like laughing then, on account of the Bear, who wanted to nibble his ears.

But, all of a sudden, Mr. Longears thought:

"If the feather bed tickled me, it will tickle the Bear and make him laugh. A laughing Bear can't be cross. And only a cross Bear will nibble ears. I'll do it!" So, turning to the Bear, Uncle Wiggily said: "Wouldn't you like to

Merchants Are Confident That Increased Activity For District Will Result

ALFRED F. PRIEST, Architect

The completion of the new Post Office on East Broadway brings to a realization a long-dreamed-of accomplishment for the merchants of that section who worked untiringly to bring the new plant to the East Broadway district, and with its opening they anticipate a period of increased activity in real estate and all other lines of business as well, for the eastern part of the Glendale business district.

The firms that played a part in bringing the office to its present location are justly proud of this accomplishment and of the fine new structure in which it is housed. The post office has already attracted several other builders to this district and two structures are now being raised to completion on adjoining lots. Although considerable confusion resulted during the actual process of moving, the routine Post Office business was running smoothly yesterday afternoon and the finishing touches were put on the fixtures which were installed in record time by day and night crews. Minor details that will put the Post Office machinery into perfect running order were being worked out today.

In making the move, every employe of the office was appointed to carry out some particular detail of the work, and the equipment of every department was set in its own place under the supervision of a special clerk detailed to supervise the task, according to a chart that had been prepared and circulated in the office preparatory to the change.

"There are fifteen windows for the transaction of the business of the postoffice, but Postmaster Jackson points out that not all of these windows will be used at the same time except in case of a rush of business or an emergency, but only such as are required to handle the volume of business will be used.

Phone System
One feature of the new office is the telephone system connecting all the departments, which is being installed as rapidly as a special crew from the telephone company can handle the work. Two trunk lines run into the office, and a special information department will be opened in the lobby, with the telephone system connecting it, for official use only, with all the other branches. Telephone booths for the convenience of patrons of the office will be erected in the lobby.

The installation of the thousand boxes is now complete, and, while many of these have already been taken, there are still a large number of them available for those who desire them, says Postmaster Jackson.

Three carriers who have been working as extras have been added to the list of regular carriers, the postmaster said. It is planned by the postmaster to have a motor carrier service delivering mails and making collections in the Grand View district. The janitor force has also been increased to care properly for the present building, which is two and one-half times the size of the one just vacated.

Redistrict City
"The change to our present location," says Postmaster Jackson, "has imposed on us the necessity to redistrict the city to permit the carriers to deliver the mails and to cover their routes, but this will be working smoothly within a day or two and I am now working on a redistricting plan that will maintain the service at the highest possible efficiency."

Individual offices have been furnished for the postmaster, the assistant postmaster and the superintendent of mails.

Lewis A. Monroe of Los Angeles, the owner of the building, has co-operated to the fullest extent with the postoffice officials in making the new building all that it ought to be to give Glendale the most efficient postal service, and representatives of the department who have already inspected it have declared it to be among the finest leased post-offices in the United States.

Office Is Praised
The office is arranged, says Captain Jackson, to meet the demands of Glendale for a long period, and when this period is reached it is planned to establish what is known as classified stations, where the various districts may be served without the necessity of sending all the mail through one central office.

Following the inspection of the Glendale postoffice on June 23, Postmaster Jackson has received a letter from John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster-general at Washington, D. C., complimenting him in the way in which the local office is being conducted. The letter, besides praising the administration of the office, speaks highly of the appearance and discipline of the force of employes, and its commendation has been a matter of pride to every man and woman employed in the Glendale postoffice.

Tunnel Sidewalk Is Bone of Contention

LOS ANGELES, July 29.—While the Second street tunnel is open for traffic and the "greatest bore" is considered finally finished, there still remains an argument over the sidewalk, or part thereof, as lawyers say, on the north side. Is it a walk, or isn't it? That is the problem confronting pedestrians while property owners aver if it isn't, their interests are damaged. For the present pedestrians are forced to use the south side of the tunnel where the walk is wide enough for traffic.

Water was recently sold at auction in Aden, one of the hottest places on earth, when a rainfall filled tanks with 3,000,000 gallons of the liquid.

OFFERS LOT FOR CLUB STRUCTURE

Burbank Athletes Planning To Enlist Members In Organization

BURBANK, July 29.—Plans have been launched for an athletic club in this city, the foundation for the project being based on a proffer from Ben Marks of one of the choicest lots in Benmar Hills as a site for the structure. Twenty-six prominent citizens form the nucleus of the organization. Each has pledged himself to try and bring in five other members.

The lot offered by Mr. Marks is located at the corner of Fourth street and University avenue, and is estimated to be worth at least $20,000. It is figured that with the right kind of co-operation and with this fine location as a basic asset, a fine clubhouse could be brought into reality within the next few months. The purpose of a recent meeting was to see to what extent the co-operation of the leading citizens of the city could be secured, further action depending upon the extent of this co-operation.

Bridge Comes First

The Riverside drive bridge across the Los Angeles river at Crescent street is the first thing on the program in the way of bridges which are to be built in this locality, is the information which comes from Supervisor Henry W. Wright and County Engineer Griffin.

This information is brought to the city by L. H. Boydston, one of the leading members of the Burbank Valley Boosters' association, who, it is understood, received the news from the county officials themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Smith and members of their family have left on a trip north, going as far as San Francisco, where they expect to remain for about two weeks.

SUMMER RECIPES PROVE TEMPTING

Frozen Desserts Appropriate To Warm Weather Are Easily Concocted

The deep-browed psychologists come out with the statement that man was originally of a nomadic, wandering nature; but that he stayed at home because woman fed him. Without arguing for or against the theory, it can be said that the following recipes are tempting enough to keep anybody at home.

Frozen Berries—Wash and hull a quart of strawberries or blackberries. Mash to a pulp, add half cup of sugar and the juice of a half lemon. Mix thoroughly and freeze. If you have no ice cream freezer, a simple way is to put the fruit juice in a baking powder can, and pack in cracked ice and salt. Use one part of salt to three parts ice. This dessert is very easily made, and is most delicious.

Maple Mousse—Cook one cup of maple sugar with one-quarter cup of water until it begins to
