BRAINTREE DEPARTMENT.

The meeting of the Braitree Temperance Union, held in Lyceum Hall, last Sabbath evening was one of much interest. The announcement that Rev. E. M. Taylor of the M. E. Church, would address the meeting, was enough to fill the house. The Secretary of the meeting will doubtless give you a good account of the lecture, but we feel that we ought to add our testimony. In spite of the heat, Mr. Taylor commanded the interested attention of his audience during the whole of his lecture. The next meeting, we understand has been given to the ladies of the W. C. T. U. This association has been heard from in our paper elsewhere, but little of late, but it has by no means lost its interest in work, nor retired upon its income since the last gift of money that caused such a ripple of agitation. The society has thought best not to hold meetings during the hot weather, and while some of the members are off on vacation. We shall doubtless hear from it again in the fall.

Mrs. Harriet Fogg, the enterprising canvasser for Madame Jillson's dressmaking system, while pursuing her business in Ashland, fell as she was going down the steps of the hotel, and sprained her arm. It has laid her up for a week or so, but is getting better and she hopes soon to be able to work again.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Gregg start for the White Mountains next week, and we understand Miss Mary Ellis goes with a party next week.

The South Braitree Orthodox School is invited to go to Rocky Point with the Randolph Orthodox Sabbath School, Friday, August 1st, at 10 o'clock.

[Our correspondent has a nice article on vacations, which will appear next week.

Last Sabbath Evening.
 The Braitree Temperance Union held its regular monthly meeting at Lyceum Hall, President Shaw in the chair. The meeting was opened with singing, after which prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Morse; the report of the last meeting, read by the Secretary. After some singing the President called attention to a circular issued by one of the Mutual Life Insurance Companies of New York, which though not intended to be a "temperance document" was in reality a very strong argument in favor of total abstinence looked at in a business point of view, furthermore, it was a source which must be considered unbiased, as it was issued solely from a business standpoint and with a view of enunciating principles upon which only a sound life insurance business can be conducted. He then introduced Rev. E. M. Taylor, as the lecturer of the evening, who proceeded in a very interesting manner to deliver a very instructive lecture, to the largest audience which we have seen gathered in that hall to listen to a temperance lecture, or in fact at any other gathering. The speaker proceeded to show that all political, moral or religious revolutions, governed as they are by natural laws, are slow in their working and inevitable in their result. The success attending them is gradual, the contest protracted, the result sure. "The mills of God grind slowly but they grind exceedingly fine." It was peculiarly so in this case.

Away up among the Alpine heights there comes trickling out from underneath a huge boulder a little silver stream, which quietly flows on along itself here and there, now flowing quietly along on its way, now falling in cascades, gathering to itself strength from other sources as it moves; now reaching the valley it becomes a mighty river, which flows on and on until it joins itself with its native element, the mighty ocean. So years ago, among the slender and busy avenues of the past a little movement was set on foot, having for its object the redemption of mankind from the thraldom of an evil which threatened to overwhelm and destroy not only the bodies but the souls of men. It seemed small and insignificant at first, but no cause has met with so much ridicule, sarcasm, obloquy and scorn as this. It has overcome all obstacles of opposition which threaten to drive this reform from its stronghold, but the proportions it has assumed requires the attention of all classes of human society. Coming as it did at first as a mere ripple or a little stream, it has now become a part of the great ocean of human thought. It comes not to us, then, as an idle or fanciful dream, nor as the dream of some fanatic of to-day, but it has the prestige of antiquity, the experience of ages past. It has entered into the experience of your friends and my friends. But you say, why need you be so alarmed, it is not half as much drunkenness in this country as in some of the countries of the old world.

Because this matter comes a great deal nearer the life of our government than of any other government on the face of the earth. Because it has not such a chance to devastate the very life blood of any other government. It is therefore needful that we ask how as a government stand in this matter, yet, how here in Braitree stand on this important question.

There are 60,000 common drunkards in the United States, there are 17 moderate drinkers to every common drunkard, one-half of whom will become members of the common fraternity; nine-tenths of our criminals are brought there directly by the influence of strong drink, there are 80,000 insane persons, three-fourths of whom become such by the use of intoxicating liquor. They vote, they have a voice in the moral uplifting of the nation.

We have celebrated the one-hundredth birthday of our nation, and it is well. During that one hundred years history we have fought two wars, conquered the most powerful civil rebellion the world ever witnessed, and have grown into a nation to be respected by all eyes. And now this question looms up before us all the present, having passed through all the experience of the past, and being growing as a nation larger and stronger notwithstanding the severe straits, is it only to be wrecked right here, or shall this battle of reform be fought on the rocks of a nation that has no child's play.

One of the new members, Mr. Frank Sprout received a slight sunstroke, but soon recovered. We would also state that the genial ex-president of the Club, Mr. John E. Eastwood, was a member of the party.

THE BOARD OF ENGINEERS.
 Have voted to purchase 20 feet of rubber hose. This is a most useful quantity, about 1000 feet are required to bring the great army of moral reform.

Here is a school girl, she is happy; she has youth, beauty, intelligence, social position; her affections are won by a young man her equal in these things; she is lost to the altar and he promised to be faithful to her. In a few months, or it may be a few years, a monster has entered that household, he who ought to be his natural protector has become addicted to the wine cup and rashly made up on until he has destroyed all his own health and that of his family, and comfort, and beauty, youth and social standing of the whole household. It seems to me there can be no worse punishment inflicted upon any one than upon this school girl. Further, if there is any crime which can never be forgiven by our father in heaven, it seems to me must be this one, which has wrought such devastation and ruin upon the innocent.

Facts are stubborn things, and it is to a few scientific facts, I propose to call your attention to-night. Here is a piece of timber, one guesses it is so long, another that it is this length, up steps another and measuring it with a tape-line, says, the fact is gentlemen, you are both wrong, it is so long; thus we propose to deal with this subject.

He then proceeded to arraign King Alcohol as a criminal at the bar, and place him upon trial. The first accusation was that he is guilty of blasting and ruining the constitution of man, and placing in imagination on three glass jars before him, and putting in one a little blood from the arm of a healthy man, in another a little of the gastric juice from some carnivorous animal, and in the third the vegetables which constitute a healthy man's dinner; then place a little alcohol, he told the effect upon each one and that of digestion is stopped, and the alcohol is eradicated from the system.

2nd.—He is accused of lessening the consumption of oxygen entering into direct antagonism with the life. The speaker cited experiments which have been made in proof, showing that alcohol retards the process of purifying the blood.

3rd.—He is accused of lowering the temperature of the body, cooling the vital parts, as may be proved by taking a thermometer and placing it at the root of the tongue of a healthy man who does not use alcohol in any form, and then try it upon the man who is in the constant habit of using it, and you will find that the temperature is from 4 to 6 degrees lower in the latter case.

4th.—He is accused of unbalancing the mental powers. When man was made he was pronounced good, and it is a sad thing that he has become so perverted from that goodness. There are four stages in this unbalancing. 1st, excitement, expansion of the tissues, which sometimes makes the intoxicated man so dangerous. 2d, the reaction, in which the muscular perturbations which we call staggering. 3rd, the unbalancing of the intellect, the centre pin or guiding power is off guard and the man becomes worse than a brute. 4th, the state which we call dead drunk.

Ladies often sit on the same settee with men in the first stage, and have laugh with them. But their thinking that they are in that state where one glass more of whiskey would put them off guard and they would become unbalanced and unkindly of the courtesies or even the decency of life. Often there is safety or death in one glass of whiskey. The engineer, so careful when himself, when the whiskey is in sea need not be so quick before him, but mainly rushes on, destroying not only property, but lives, in consequence of his excitement. Rum did it. The doctor enters the sick room, the man asks, how long can I live, doctor? I fear not till morning. The man says, doctor go down and take a glass of wine, and come back and all me with three and there. Then the man is told he is all right, will get along well, but notwithstanding this, the man dies, deceived by that glass of wine. God understood himself when he said, "Woe unto him that putteth the bottle to his neighbor's lips." It is a wonder how the rum seller can call himself a man, or hope for heaven, leading out that which will ruin the moral sensibility through and eternity.

When Garrison and Phillips opposed slavery, it was not until the hall was packed with four hundred drunken rowdies, that they could attempt to break up the meeting. Those men at the bottom of this, knew well the effect of alcohol in exciting to deeds of violence. Nothing is worse than to see those who have mothered all their noble energies through its influence, who have metted all good in them into the base, so that they look upon virtue only as their victim. I believe there is no hope for such an one, only as he relies on the arm of the sufferer on Calvary. It is impossible for him to reform, relying upon his own strength. He must have help from a strong, higher source. I know there are many difficulties in the way. One is, the immature age at which many boys and girls begin to commence looking out, and caring for themselves. Another, is so many different classes to be got at. We must educate these ignorant ones so that they will take delight in looking out for themselves, and that be drawn away from these launds of dissipation and crime. We have laws to protect the community against the sale of obscene books, and will it not be safer to protect and educate these ignorant ones, than to let loose the dogs of war to ruin their character, blast the happiness of their children, and blot their names from the roll of the nation? We must educate these fellows; they must be cultured up so that they will see enjoyment in, and receive it from things which are ennobling in their influence, and that they need cheer to help them on their way. We must go down to them and help them up, not pass by on the outside with our own word of hope and good will for them. We must meet them with the Master's spirit, in order that we may do them good and save them in time and eternity.

"Let us declare in this matter of King Alcohol, 'War to the knife, and the will to the hilt.'" After singing, the congregation was dismissed with the benediction, by Rev. Mr. Moore.

THAYER ACADEMY.
 The examination of candidates for admission to this excellent school occurs on Sept. 1st. EAST BRAINTREE.
 The Union Engine pulled a stream of 211 ft. Saturday evening.

About one-half dozen members of the Apple Pie Club went on a fishing excursion the other day, and managed to catch one tincker, one rock cod and four sculpins. One of the new members, Mr. Frank Sprout received a slight sunstroke, but soon recovered. We would also state that the genial ex-president of the Club, Mr. John E. that amount is purchased, the engines are of no more value at a fire than so much old iron, except in a case like that of Herbert's mill, where water is near by. The engineers claim they cannot afford to purchase more, perhaps this is so, but if they had asked for an appropriation of $1500 instead of $1000, this excuse need never have been made.

The Union Engine Company.
 Was out for practice at Factory Pond last Saturday evening, and played off 211 feet of water. This company will attend the Firemen's Muster at Mystic Park, Medford, August 22nd, and invites its numerous friends in this vicinity, (including Weymouth,) to unite with them.

A Large Fish.
 One of the events of last week was the return of Mr. John Henry from a fishing excursion in Boston Harbor, at a time when your correspondent was engaged in preparing his obituary, he having been joined by his friends as taken. He brought home with him a fin, lost from a horse-mackerel which was caught between Sheep Island and Prince's Head by a companion, and which required the united strength of five men to bring it to the shore. The fish measured 9 ft 6 inches in length by 5 ft 8 inches in circumference, and weighed 600 lbs. The head of the monster is now on exhibition at Sheep Island.

Semi-Centennial of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
 The First Methodist Episcopal Society observed its fifty-first anniversary of its organization last Sunday with appropriate exercises in the meeting house. A sermon was preached at 10 o'clock by Rev. J. S. Sprout, of Cohasset, text, Phil. III, 13, 14, "I press toward the mark," etc. An anthem was an able production, and its theme of human perfection was pressed upon the attention of his hearers in an earnest and impressive manner.

At the close of the service, the pastor administered the rite of baptism to four youthful candidates—Chas. H. Johnson, Arthur H. Neal, Samuel M. Johnson, and Harden—and two others were received into full communion. Rev. Mr. Comstock officiating in the latter service.

In the evening the Sabbath School observed its fifty-first anniversary, for which occasion the church was beautifully decorated with floral emblems. The arch in the front of the pulpit was wreathed with cut flowers of various kinds, the mottoes "Joy, Peace, and Love," etc., which are recounted as the fruits of the Spirit, in 5th chapter Galatians, had been carefully read, and the most pleasing relief. The arch enclosed a floral cross and anchor typifying Faith and Hope. Baskets and bouquets of choice flowers adorned the altar.

The exercises were under the direction of Mr. George T. Chandler, Sup't. of the School, who presided with the School; prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. C. M. Comstock; an address of welcome was read by Miss Sarah E. Brown, recitations and songs by several members of the school, including a representation by the High School, "Army of Banners," and the "Floral Arch," by ten young ladies, each of whom bore a bouquet, and after reciting appropriate verses played each their floral offerings on the arch, covering the mottoes before alluded to. The valedictory was given by Charles H. Johnson, in which he referred to the children of the church, and their relation to the school, and to their future life, and the duties which should be expected of them. The pastor then addressed the school at some length, in which he alluded to his desire for its continued advancement, and the work which he hoped would be done in church, development and christian progress. He was followed by Rev. Edward A. Horton, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church, who spoke of the occasion as being his first visit to this School and congratulated them upon the prosperity which had attended the school, and the half-century of its existence. He hoped that they would be stimulated to still more advanced action, to follow the footsteps of the Great Head of the Church, and strive to build up His Kingdom in the earth.

John D. Long made one of his happiest addresses at the close of Mr. Horton's remarks, and Rev. Henry A. Miles, D. D., of the First Unitarian Church, also made interesting and eloquent remarks on the characteristic spirit of the Methodist Church, Clothed with the power of the Holy Spirit, and the mottoes of the Church, and strive to build up His Kingdom in the earth.

The venerable senior pastor of the First Unitarian Church, Rev. Calvin Lincoln, gave a brief account of the inception of Methodism in Hingham, and his own attendance upon the meetings which were held in the Old Guild hall.

The report of the Secretary of the School showed that there were 82 members, and 60 teachers and 6 officers. The officers are Geo. T. Chandler, Sup't.; Geo. W. Cobb, Ass't. Sup't.; Herbert O. Hardy, Sec'y.; Mary A. Wheeler, Treasurer; David B. Chamberlain, Librarian.

The exercises were concluded about 10 o'clock, a closing hymn being sung by the choir. He must have help from a strong, higher source. I know there are many difficulties in the way. One is, the immature age at which many boys and girls begin to commence looking out, and caring for themselves. Another, is so many different classes to be got at. bers of the Society, and ascertain if they will take the worth of the same in the newly constructed house, also to solicit subscriptions for the same.

May 21, 1867, the building committee reported the purchase of a piece of land adjacent to the meeting-house, 20 1/2 x 113 on the Town Brook, at an expense of $25. It was voted that, in the reconstruction, the meeting-house be placed on the new street, but at a subsequent meeting, it was reconsidered, the meeting-house to stand facing Good's Bridge, and that it be removed back as near to Thaxter's line as might be thought advisable.

Sept. 9, 1867, the building committee reported that $1000 would be required to effect the alterations and repairs, and to raise the money the committee were empowered to sell the old meeting-house, and to apply toward the expenditure for reconstruction.

Dec. 2, 1867, the building committee reported that they had expended $3,385.50 in 1867, amounting to the purchase of land for $2,750.22, which had been paid by the committee; that there was the $915.33 and which they had received from the Treasury and elsewhere $2,446.

The dedication of the vestry was ordered at the meeting of the 17th of January, 1868, and was dedicated a few months after.

Jan. 4, 1868, a committee was chosen to dispose of shares in the purchase of the new house, and at a subsequent meeting, it was stated that the outstanding bills amounted to $3,143.

At the meeting of the 17th of February, 1868, it was voted that the rate of interest be raised to 6 per cent, and that the application of the Trustees for interest upon the shares in the new house, be Feb. 18, 1867, and officers elected and By-Laws adopted.

THE TELEPHONE AT A DEATH-BED.

When Rev. Dr. E. G. Brooks, the late distinguished Universalist clergyman...

"The Lord reigneth; let the earth rejoice; let the multitude of the isles be glad therefor."

"To my utter astonishment, instantly came the response: 'Clouds and darkness are round about him; righteousness and judgment are the habitation of his throne.'

It was the voice of Dr. Brooks, the tones clear and distinct, the intonation and emphasis perfect. It was amazed.

"Not now on Zion's height alone, Thy favored worshiper may dwell; Nor where at sunny noon, thy Son Sat weary, by the patriarch's well."

"I then repeated a verse from that grand old hymn of Pierpont: 'Not now on Zion's height alone, Thy favored worshiper may dwell; Nor where at sunny noon, thy Son Sat weary, by the patriarch's well.'"

LITERATURE.

[For the Gazette.] THE GOLDEN SHEEN. A little stealing is a dangerous deed. To rob by thousands is ennobling greed. 'Tis man to take a trifle, when you can. By stealing thousands, be a gentleman. Though cruel needs may tempt, and in despair. You seek relief by means unfair. In vain you plead how sad is fortune's frown. A sneering world will surely hunt you down. Fill full your purse,—no matter how,—And all will doff the hat, and meekly bow. It matters not, if from the stubborn soil And busy mill, or workshop steady toil The frugal hand has earned his daily wage. A trifle rung from trifles, for "a rainy day."

NEURALGIA, LAMENESS, STIFF & CONTRACTED JOINTS.

The poor widow's scanty means, On which to cheer her aged ones, Or children's bread,—it matters not,— If you have drained the all they've got. Just mount your coach, and turn your eye. On the plodding poor as you pass them by. And settle yourself in your rich brocade, And sneer at the flaunting rags you have made. Then wreath your face in smiles so sunny, As you hear it said, Oh! he has got money. But ponder, ye vicar, and think of that day When you will have your reckoning to pay. Then your ill gotten wealth will nothing avail, To save from that wrath your actions entail. Then your cheating and stealing and villainy, In dread accusation against you will rise; For your frauds, which then before you are brought, You'll find no relief in a "Bankruptcy Court." The poor you have robbed, you will find to be true, In that day, will be far richer than you. SPALLS.

Then wreath your face in smiles so sunny, As you hear it said, Oh! he has got money. But ponder, ye vicar, and think of that day When you will have your reckoning to pay. Then your ill gotten wealth will nothing avail, To save from that wrath your actions entail. Then your cheating and stealing and villainy, In dread accusation against you will rise; For your frauds, which then before you are brought, You'll find no relief in a "Bankruptcy Court." The poor you have robbed, you will find to be true, In that day, will be far richer than you. SPALLS.

The poor widow's scanty means, On which to cheer her aged ones, Or children's bread,~it matters not,— If you have drained the all they've got. Just mount your coach, and turn your eye. —The doctor turned round and looked at his visitor. He saw a plump little figure, a face still fresh and fair, two small clouds of short curls, and two blue eyes that met his with a smile.—Her clothes were old-fashioned, but not cheap. She was neither rich nor poor, neither bold nor timid.

BRAINTREE DEPARTMENT.

The Storm.
Here, Sunday, was quite severe. Some hailstones were picked up of pretty large size.

During the shower the house of T. M.
Iagan, on River street, was struck by lightning, the bolt entering near the chimney, tearing plastering and woodwork to the kitchen, and setting the house on fire, but the flames were soon extinguished.

In another shower an outbuilding of Michael McDermott, in East Braintree, was struck, and Mrs. Francis, who was at the window of a house near by, was partly stunned and thrown to the floor, and her son, who was outside, was so affected that he could reach the house only by crawling on his hands and knees.

Some two months ago Mr. Waldo French was hooked by a cow, which appears to be quite a serious affair, causing the entire loss of one eye and very much endangering the other. He has been under a physician's care ever since.

It is a little singular that during the past week the town has been visited by the descendants of two of the deceased former pastors of the First Church, in regard to their genealogical facts in regard to them. Most of your readers know that three different ministers have held this pastorate, each of them a half century, viz., Dr. R. S. Stors, and Rev. Messrs. Wells and Niles. The grandson of Mr. Wells, from Baltimore, and the great-grandson of Mr. Niles, from St. Louis, each visited the town last week, to gain information
in regard to their ancestors.

EAST BRAINTREE.

Drowned.
On Monday last, Florence, a young daughter of Mr. E. C. Allen, was drowned.
She went to the beach between 3 and 4 o'clock to play with her mates, and supposing that she was with them her mother felt easy about her, but about an hour afterwards, the mother being uneasy at her prolonged absence began to make inquiries in the neighborhood, but found no one had seen her and a search for her commenced. Mrs. Allen went to the beach to look for her and a little while behind her, going there for the same purpose, was Mr. B. J. Loring, Jr. The mother was the first to discover the body of the little one floating on the water in the rear of Mr. Dehmelier's, under an oak tree. She took hold of the clothes and pulled her toward the shore, and Mr. Loring being near, took her up, when Mrs. A. became prostrate from the sudden shock. Soon recovering, she was enabled to reach the house with the others when everything was done that could be to bring the daughter back to life, but without avail. She was an interesting child, one who seemed to be a favorite in the neighborhood, and her death has been almost the loss of her parents, who alone will know how much she is missed from the hearthstone of her home. The sympathy of friends and neighbors have been freely and cordially extended to them in this their sad bereavement.

age of 103 years.

Captain Caleb Bates, a pensioner of the war of 1812, died at Scituate last week,
aged 82 years and 11 months. He was
brother to Rebecca Bates, who in the war
of 1812, by beating a drum on Cedar Point,
of Scituate, at a time when some British
forces contemplated a descent, deceived them
into believing a large body of American
troops was at hand to repel them, and thus
drove them away.

The Farmers' Club of Hanson, proposes
to offer about $200 in premiums this fall.

Various Items.
Alice Brooker, a colored person, died at South Scituate last week, at the advanced
age of 103 years.

Captain Caleb Bates, a pensioner of the
war of 1812, died at Scituate last week,
aged 82 years and 11 months. He was
brother to Rebecca Bates, who in the war
of 1812, by beating a drum on Cedar Point,
of Scituate, at a time when some British
forces contemplated a descent, deceived them
into believing a large body of American
troops was at hand to repel them, and thus
drove them away.

The Farmers' Club of Hanson, proposes
to offer about $200 in premiums this fall.
The club has chosen a produce station committee, and will canvass the town much more thoroughly than last year.

The assessors of Plymouth have arrived at the following figures:—Number of polls 1090—a gain of 27 over last year. Value of real property $2,735,000, being a gain of $63,500; personal $1,273,700, being a loss of $1,700,440, making a net gain on total valuation of $1,700,440. The amount of money to be raised is $54,072.30. Rate of taxation, $12.80 on a thousand, which is forty cents higher than last year.

The new steamer of Holbrook filled the 250 barrel reservoir at Brookville one after noon last week, doing it in thirty-five minutes.

The walls of the new town house in Hobrook are nearly complete.

The friends of Rev. Jesse H. Jones of North Abington are "naming" him for the seanship.

F. W. Rollins, formerly of the Abington
Journal, is teaching the North Abington
High School.

Bowles' South Abington band furnishes music for the Marshfield club show this fall.

The track on the grounds has been enlarged and graded, and is being put in proper condition for trials of speed in horseflesh, this fall at the fair. The circuit is now a full half-mile. It is believed by many that the track exercises will contribute to make the society fair more successful.

The Vineyard girls generally are complaining of a lack of custom. The cottages are better than ever before, while at all the hotels there is a dearth of boarders.

Some mischief makers changed the signs of several of the stores and other business establishments in Stoughton a few nights ago.

Work in the Stoughton boat and shoe factories is improving.

Mr. Isaac Briggs, of Middleboro, has invented a self-feeding nail machine, which involving a new principle in mechanics, hitherto to create considerable of a revolution in the manufacture of nails. He has patented it in this country and in Europe.

A meeting of the superintendents and delegates from the Sunday Schools of all the Evangelical churches in Barnstable county was held at the Yarmouth campground yesterday for the purpose of forming an association in connection with the Massachusetts Union Sunday School Association. The meeting was largely attended and the necessary business transacted. The Old Colony Railroad ran an excursion train from Provincetown and way stations, carrying some 1500 excursionists.

Paul Revere Lodge, F. & A. M., of Brockton, has manifested their warm interest in Mr. J.
F. Fuller, the Worshipful Master of the Lodge, by sending Bro. Alexander Forbes to the Vineyard to take care of him in his sickness.

Yellow fever is still ravaging New Orleans.

The Tappan "Irregularity." Financial
"irregularities" are fast becoming regularities. Mr. Chase, of Fall River, has but just got fairly at work in the State Prison, and now Mr. John G.
Tappan, of Boston, succeeds in his notoriety.
His work is in the line of the late J. G.
Tappan, and a nephew of Arthur and Lewis Tappan. The name has been more than an honorable one, and to say that in Boston is to say a great deal. Through a long life Mr. John G. Tappan has proved worthy of the name. He is seventy years
old and more, but he has now deeply lived the family name. And it is the old, old story.

For quarter of a century Mr. Tappan has been the trusted treasurer of the Boston Belting Company, one of the most prosperous and wealthy of the great corporations of New England capital. The company is, or must it now be said, a manufacturer and dealer in rubber goods.
His work was in the line of the late J. G.
Tappan, and a nephew of Arthur and
Lewis Tappan. The name has been more than an honorable one, and to say that in Boston is to say a great deal. Through a long life Mr. John G. Tappan has proved
worthy of the name. He is seventy years
old and more, but he has now deeply
lived the family name. And it is the
old, old story.

Other of the stockholders are H. F. Durante, Dr. Cullis, founder of the Consumptive Home, whose purchase was an investment of the funds of that institution; J. W. Kimball, the religious writer, who is related to the Tappan family by a marriage, and Hon. Geo. White, Judge of Probate.

It is well known that no man in Boston stood higher than John G. Tappan. His private wealth, largely inherited from his father, his heritage of family character and honor, his own character, his years even, seemed an ample foundation. The rumor is now current among those who exist in the downfall of good men, that he was one of "Durante's converts," but has excellent authority for saying that he is not a church member, though he and his wife have had attendants at the Mount Vernon Church
for many years.

A constant watch is kept over the grave of Minnie Warren in Middleboro, for fear it may be violated and the body stolen.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Two Female Novellists. A Discursive Sketch that is not a Criticism.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12th.

In your last number, my dear Editor, you referred in conspicuous type to the value of the newspaper, as an aid to business success...

My haste made me write .50 instead of .45 as the price of the elementary Geography to Sept. 10th. In the price column of my bill 30 should have been .63, the 6 being a misprint.

Since I wrote to you I have found that one book-dealer has sold the Primary Arithmetic at 25 cents, and the Written Arithmetic at $1.00. If these prices had been placed in my bill, the total cost of the nine years' books would have been greater by 11 cents.

Only 70 per cent of our children pass beyond the Fifth Grade, 65 per cent beyond the Sixth, 50 per cent beyond the Seventh, and 45 per cent beyond the Eighth, the actual average necessary expenditure per child is very much lower than $18.

Weymouth and Weymouth Directory, 1878-9. We have received a copy of the above from the publishers, Messrs. C. H. Calkins & Co.

The map, also, was thoroughly overhauled and revised, and becomes a valuable addition to the book. Alterations in text were numerous, the present issue, less than half the names remaining as in 1876.

Weymouth Temperance Union. In accordance with a call issued from Weymouth Lodge, No. 128, I. O. G. T., delegates from several of the temperance organizations in town met at Shaw's Hall, Lovell's Corner, on Monday evening, Aug. 12th.

Mr. Frank Cowing, agent at Weymouth station, has returned from an extended trip to the Provinces, in good health and "brown as a berry."

Mr. Geo. A. Bailey and wife arrived from New York last Sunday, on a short visit. Mr. B. is employed as book-keeper in the retail grocery of A. W. Neidhardt.

TOWN AND VICINITY.

The Public Schools. Will reopen on Monday, Aug. 20. All the children, except those already promoted to the High Schools, will report at the School they attended last year.

Mr. S. W. Nash broke the hind spring to his carriage, while crossing a gutter in Washington Square, last Sunday. It is something of a wonder that more casualties of like nature had not been occasioned by these gutters.

White turning round in front of Messrs. A. H. Sterling & Co.'s Shoe factory, last Monday, Mr. Eben Sheppard broke the axle of his buggy close to the wheel.

The Talent of Summer Set. Gave an open air symphony concert at about ten o'clock Tuesday evening, by way of a serenade to Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Porter, in honor of the new fence recently built in front of their residence.

Flowers. For the Boston hospitals may be sent next Wednesday night to Mrs. Eleanor Holmes, Weston street.

The General James L. Bates. The new engine Gen'l Bates, arrived Thursday evening, and on Saturday afternoon will be formally received by the Gen'l.

Good. It is rumored that a permanent land stand will be built in Jackson Square.

For the South. Mr. John S. Porter's family left for the South on Thursday.

Picnic. The Swedish families resident in this town had a picnic at Rockley Grove last Wednesday.

Traveling. The largest number of teams passed through here on Sunday, returning from the Beach, that there has been for a number of years.

THE ROUND LAKE "PALESTINE," Done in two-and-a-half days by the mile.

Imposing is the model of the entire country of Palestine now on exhibition at the Round Lake Camp Meeting. It is on a scale of two feet and a half to the mile, and can contain a population of thirty-two distinct Methodists...

When Palestine was closed the other day for repairs, there was much speculation as to what accident had befallen it. The most generally accepted theory was that a large Methodist Bishop was the active though involuntary cause of the temporary destruction of Jerusalem.

WHITE JASMINE.

White Jasmine stretches far and wide. Along the gray walls of the southern side. Its graceful branches wreath'd; And winds of summer sweet and low. Among its verdure and its snow. Their tender music breathe.

And in the southern sunshine bright. And by the jasmine, eld in white. A youthful maiden stands. With lips that speak of sad unrest: A bunch of daisies on her breast. And Jasmine in her hands.

With farewell looks of aching love. Her brown eyes wander round, above. 'Tis a sacred spot. The home of childish grief and mirth. The house, whence dearest dead went forth. To share earth's common lot.

Ah, maiden, as the jacinth's snow Both vanish, so the years that glow. Will take this grief away: As strong and deep—if not so pure—As this of thine today.

Yet let the daisies on thy breast. Teach thee that life's securest rest In humble paths doth lie: And let the jacinth in thine hand Whisper of fairer blossoms famed By sweeter airs on high.

The Physician's Public Duties.

One of the most able and interesting medical papers which have been issued from the press, is the annual address delivered before the Norfolk District Medical Society in May last, by Dr. T. H. Dearing, of BRAINTREE. The address has been published by the Society, and we are permitted to make selections from the work, bearing upon the duties of the profession to the public. After prefacing the address with a few thoughts on the advancement of medical science in the ages which have elapsed since the days of Homer, Dr. Dearing continues as follows:—

Mr. President, theologians say "The little foxes spoil the vines." In the light of nearly twenty-five years observation as student and practitioner, I ask your attention to a few thoughts, suggestions, reminders,—call them what you will,—as to the mischief of the little foxes in our medical patch, or, if you please, to some of the minor individual duties of the members of our Society, as well as in regard to associate, or those of the Society as a whole; and as to whether greater regard to these may not more fully secure to us the respect and confidence of the public.

In the first place, I presume we all shall agree that to insure the highest degree of success in any calling, there should be no act of commission or omission which, in the least degree, upon fair consideration, would impair the confidence of the public or that of the actor in himself. Of actors among themselves, whether it relate to ability or integrity.

Secondly, in the truest sense I believe "Success is a duty." Often it happens, I know, that one performs his duty, and because the end sought is not secured the observer calls the act a failure. Yet the actor was, or should be considered, successful. He did all that any man of his profession could possibly do, in the best manner; but there were other powers, forces at work which he could in no way control nor even comprehend in the public's eye.

It is not my intention, at this time, to call your attention to the latter class of duties, any further than to intimate that in my judgment the time demand that the graduate of our profession shall have been most thoroughly prepared to insure the best performance of the second class, while the first seems to be largely overlooked and greatly hindering our success.

Now, Mr. President and gentlemen, first, the people will have respect for our profession if they see we are individually and collectively attending to our business, studious and mindful of the public health. Secondly, the more nearly we can work in harmony the greater will be the respect for and confidence in our profession. Are we so acting in these matters as to meet the just expectations of the public?

As to the first proposition, viz., "The people will respect us according to our labors," let me say that we all know and gratefully acknowledge that some of our members at and have been hard working students and practitioners, and an honor to us, locally and abroad; but can all of us claim such recognition? Can we claim even that in our every day routine, work, we endeavor to leave nothing undone which would benefit the patient and ensure our success?

Then in regard to public matters coming within the range of our profession, how is it? What do we know of, how thoroughly studied up are we, as to drainage, sewage, wells, ventilation, the hygienic condition of our dwellings, and all that appertain to the maintenance of health, what splendid crops of disease we may expect from those rooms which hold but a thousand feet of air, and have the doors and windows and every crevice of them closed the living night. How many of us have done our whole duty in this matter, and warned the builders and occupants of such cells that hundreds of them will perish every year prematurely—that the infants by thousands will wither away like the soilless flowers?

In close connection with light and air come food and drink. And among the drink progeny comes that which is so common, so familiar, and so troublesome for food with a long name, intoxicating beverages. If it be true that the legitimate fruits of dram drinking are drunkenness and crime; that more than two-thirds of all crime is due to the habitual use of intoxicating beverages; as our court records indicate; that, as many of our best, most impartial authorities state, such use of these beverages is, under all circumstances, injurious rather than beneficial, to persons in health; that to call them food is of doubtful propriety, possibly, as a "terrible mistake," an abuse of language; then men of such commanding influence in communities as those of our profession ought to exert their whole influence against the cause of such degradation and crime, as well as to sharpen their wits to find a less serious beverage, if it be true, or if it be probable, even, that these liquors disturb the nutritive processes of the

White Jasmine.

White Jasmine stretches far and wide. Along the gray walls of the southern side. Its graceful branches wreath'd; And winds of summer sweet and low. Among its verdure and its snow. Their tender music breathe.

And in the southern sunshine bright. And by the jasmine, eld in white. A youthful maiden stands. With lips that speak of sad unrest: A bunch of daisies on her breast. And Jasmine in her hands.

With farewell looks of aching love. Her brown eyes wander round, above. 'Tis a sacred spot. The home of childish grief and mirth. The house, whence dearest dead went forth. To share earth's common lot.

Ah, maiden, as the jacinth's snow Both vanish, so the years that glow. Will take this grief away: As strong and deep—if not so pure—As this of thine today.

Yet let the daisies on thy breast. Teach thee that life's securest rest In humble paths doth lie: And let the jacinth in thine hand Whisper of fairer blossoms famed By sweeter airs on high.

HOW POOR MEN RISE IN THIS COUNTRY.

If a man did not know anything about his neighbors—no matter how poor he might be—he might possibly be taken in by the talk of the theorists, that the poor man has no chance in this country, that he is ground down by the capitalists and prevented from bettering his condition.

The man who owns the most stores in the city worked out when an apprentice for twenty-five dollars a year, and clothed himself out of it.

At the Ninety-Seventh Annual Communication of the Masonic Grand Lodge of the State of New York, held in New York City, on the 4th of June, the annual address was delivered by the Most Worshipful Grand Master, Joseph J. Couch, in the course of which he said:

Some years ago, we severed our connection with the Grand Orient of France because of their persistent infringement of the jurisdiction of an American Grand Lodge.

As announced by telegraph, the Grand Lodge, on the 7th of June, adopted a resolution in reference to this vitally important tenet of Masonry, as follows: Resolved—That we refuse to recognize as a Freemason any person initiated, passed, or raised in a body where the existence of a Supreme Being is denied or ignored.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for September, with two serial stories, three brilliant short stories, a dramatic sketch of thrilling interest, a humorous sketch entitled "Ab'm: A Glimpse of Modern Dixie," an illustrated poem, of pathetic interest, several illustrated articles, covering a variety of subjects; timely articles of great and immediate interest to all readers, and the five admirably sustained editorial departments—is an exceedingly rich, beautiful, and entertaining number. The opening article "Sheen, the Beautiful," is an interesting description, with fine illustrations of Richmond Hill, Twickenham, (with Pope's villa), and other English scenes of poetic and historical interest.

There are thousands of women now living in the United States who, before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, had been afflicted for years, and had tried vainly and expensively all the resources of medical art which physicians of different schools could summon to their aid.

I entered the barber shop nearest the foot of the little hill at St. Cloud yesterday morning and found the assistant engaged in shaving a captain of the 130th. This was easily apparent, because the number "130" was on his cap, his collar, his sword-belt and several other prominent places.

These Pills are specially adapted to the needs of the stomach and liver, the instruments which prevent and cure. They are excellent in combination with the Vegetable Compound especially in those cases where the complaints are peculiar to women.

But she lost no time. Her hand was on the lather brush and the lather brush was on her face, and she lathered me. She lathered me with neatness, taste and dispatch.

IMPURE WATER.—Heisch's sugar test for the presence of dangerous organic matter is mentioned by high authority as simple and sufficient: Place a quantity of the water in a clean, glass-stoppered bottle; add a few grains of pure sugar and expose to the light in the window of a warm room.

A FOOT POUND is often mentioned in modern mechanical writings, but all readers do not understand the meaning of the term. When it is said, for instance, that 100 foot pounds of work is done, the meaning is that an effort has been put forth sufficient to raise 100 pounds 1 foot; 1 pound 100 feet, 2 pounds 50 feet, or any number of pounds to such a height that the product of weight and height equals 100.
