The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

University of Windsor

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche sheet contain the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

University of Windsor

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

ECLIPSES IN 1851.

There will be four Eclipses this year—two of the SUN, and two of the MOON.

I. January 17.—A partial Eclipse of the Moon, invisible in North America, but will be seen by most of the inhabitants of the Eastern Continent.

II. February 1. An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, invisible in North America, but will be central in the Southern Ocean. At Cape of Good Hope the Sun will rise partially eclipsed.

July 13.—A partial Eclipse of the Moon, visible as follows:—

	H.	M.
First contact with the Penumbra,	0	20. M.	} Meantime at Halifax.
First contact with the Shadow,	1	36. M.
Middle of the Eclipse,	3	7. M.
Last contact with the Shadow,	4	38. M.
Last contact with the Penumbra,	5	54. M.
Duration,	5	34.

Magnitude of the Eclipse on the Moon's Southern limb 0.706, the Moon's diameter being 1.

IV. July 28.—A partial Eclipse of the Sun.

Duration - - - - - 1h. 44m.

A very small portion only of the Sun's Northern limb will be obscured. This Eclipse will be total and central in the northern part of British America, Davis Straits, Greenland, Iceland, Norway and Russia.

VENUS will be the Morning Star until Oct. 11. After which she will be the Evening Star to the end of the year.

MARS will be the Morning Star during the year.

JUPITER will be the Morning Star until April 9, then the Evening Star until Oct. 22, thence the Morning Star to the close of the year.

SATURN will be the Evening Star until April 15, then the Morning Star until Oct. 22, after which the Evening Star.

Column.

- 1 & 2.—Contain the days of the month and of the week.
- 3 & 4.—The rising and setting in mean time of the highest point, or of the upper limb of the Sun, corrected for refraction.
- 5.—Days length in hours and minutes.
- 6.—The Equation of Time (or quantity by which the Sun is slow or fast of the clock) at noon, apparent time (not mean) at Greenwich, or at a quarter before eight in the morning at Halifax. The interval of time between the Sun being on the Meridian or Southing, on one day, and his being on the Meridian or Southing on the next day, is not always the same; and therefore, solar days are not equal in duration; about one-half are a little more, and about one-half are a little less than 24 hours. A clock regulated by the Sun, or the Sun-dial, would need frequent adjustment; to avoid this, an imaginary sun is supposed to move, so that the interval of time between its consecutive passages over the meridian is always the same, viz., 24 hours; such a time represents a mean solar day, and is the average of all the apparent solar days in a year. The difference of time between the imaginary Sun and the true Sun passing the Meridian, is called the "Equation of Time," the amount of which at noon on every day is inserted in this column. There are only 4 days in the year when apparent and meantime are the same, or the Equation of time is nothing. In this year these days are April 16, June 16, Sept. 1, and Decr. 25.

By the assistance of the numbers in this column, a clock can be set by a Sun-dial as follows;—When fast is placed above the number opposite to the day, then the clock ought to be set fast on the time shown by the Sun-dial—and when slow is above the number, the clock ought to be set so much slower. Example:—When the Sun shows noon on the Sun-dial on June 1, and July 1, what are the true times? On June 1, from the Almanack, the Equation of time is subtract 2m. 34s., therefore the clock should be 2m. 34s. before noon, so the true time is 11h. 57m. 26s. A. M. On July 1, the Equation of Time is, add 3m. 22s., therefore the clock should be 3m. 22s. afternoon, or the time is 0h. 3m. 22s. P. M. The greatest difference between mean time (common clock time) and apparent time (time as shewn by the Sun-dial) occurs on the 3rd Novr., and it is 16m. 17s. subtractive. On the 12th February the greatest additive difference occurs, viz. 14m. 32s.

- 7.—The Sun's declination for the same as the Equation, 6th col.
- 8.—The rising or setting of the Moon—the setting being given from the New to Full moon, and the rising from Full to New Moon.
- 9.—The place of the Moon in the Ecliptic.
- 10.—The time of the Moon's southing or passing the meridian. This column also shews the time of High Water at Windsor, Parrsboro', Horton, Cornwallis, &c.
- 11.—Days increase or decrease in hours and minutes.

The top of the columns of each month shows the Moon's phases, or the times of New and Full Moon, and of the first and last quarters, or two quadratures with the sun.

THE FARMER'S CALENDAR, is placed at the foot of the columns of each month.

- 1.—Contains the days of the month.
- 2.—Sundays, Weather, Anniversaries, &c.
- 3.—The Time of High Water at Halifax, Nova Scotia.
- 4. Annapolis & St. John, N. B.
- 5. Charlotte Town, P. E. Island.

of that tide which immediately precedes the Southing of the Moon. These four columns being computed on the supposition, that the time of High Water on the days of New and Full Moon (L'etablissement du port) is at Halifax 7h. 30m.—at Annapolis and St. John, N. B. 11h. 14m.—at Charlottetown, P. E. Island 10h. 55m.—and at St. Johns, Newfoundland 6h. 30m. All the calculations in this Almanack are made to mean solar time, a mode of computation now in general use, and which will very soon (if it has not already done so) supercede the old mode of reckoning. Those persons, however, who may prefer to use apparent time, the calculations will be equally useful, as mean time can be converted into apparent time by subtracting the quantity in the 6th column of the left hand page, when the Sun is slow of clock, and adding it when fast of clock. Thus on the 1st Feb. the sun rises in meantime at 7h. 20m. and sets at 5h. 8m. from which subtract 13m. the quantity by which the sun is that day too slow, and obtain 7h. 7m. and 5h. 55m. the apparent time.

As for the Weather, we are still determined to have a guess at it, hit or miss, and we hope that at least, they will be as often right as wrong; at any rate, we shall endeavour not to confound winter snows with summer showers.

"Improve the soil and the mind." The idea we trust is not now very extensively held, that little or no intelligence is necessary to direct rightly, the operations of agriculture; though we fear the supposition is too frequently indulged, that the circumstances in which farmers are placed, are unfavourable to mental energy and the culture of the mind. It is admitted that severe bodily labour is prejudicial to the exercise of the mental faculties; but we are confident that the organs of both mind and body are developed and strengthened by a due degree of muscular exercise. Hence the circumstances best calculated to improve the condition of the farmer, are those which call into proper action the intellectual and physical powers with which he is naturally endowed. But there are now, fortunately, many farmers whose labours are not so constant as to interfere with the improvement of their minds; many, indeed, are thinking and reading men; and we are forced to conclude that it is more from lack of inclination than the existence of real obstacles, that the class is not more numerous. The long winter evenings and stormy days, afford many hours of leisure, during which a great amount of useful information might be gathered from the reading of agricultural books and pamphlets.

The economy of the farm is that which first concerns the individual. Not to get rich; not simply to sell the greatest possible quantity of produce, but to maintain the original fertility of the soil or constantly improve it. The common farmer cannot expect to get rich, but with good management he may obtain a "comfortable living," and have leisure to enjoy social blessings, and time to devote to reading, and mental improvement. This should be done without wearing out the soil. True economy consists in returning the same elements to the soil that are taken from it, and in the same quantity. This will keep the soil fertile, so that it will produce the same crops, both in kind and quantity, year after year. Vegetable productions derive part of their constituent elements from the earth, and part from the atmosphere. That part derived from the earth must be returned to it again, or it will eventually become barren. The ground that produces 100 bushels of grain this year, will not, under the same circumstances, produce the same amount next year, unless its equivalent is returned. Man, and perhaps all animated beings, need exercise to promote health. The labours of the farmer, taken as they are in the open air, under the light of the sun, under the impulsive desire of food and gain, become more healthful, on the whole, than any other species of labour. This is evident in the superior vigour and longevity of an agricultural population, in all ages and nations. It should not be forgotten, also, that the the varied scenery, labours and interest of such a population, do much to cultivate that mental vivacity and quiet on which good health is based.

Taking all things into consideration the Indian Corn Crop is one of the most important that is raised in this Province—the selection of the soil and preparing it for the crop is of importance. If you have an old tough meadow or pasture that you design for corn, plough it in November, just before the ground freezes up—lay the ground over smooth, to the depth of 8 inches, following with a subsoil plough, and going down 6 or 8 inches lower. Then make it smooth with the roller, and let it lie till spring—when it is sufficiently dry, harrow it with a fine-tooth arrow—if you have a good lot of compost manure, give a good top dressing, and plough it in with a shallow furrow, leaving the old sward undisturbed. If the soil is light and mellow, it is preferable to plough and subsoil in the spring, first spreading on the coarse unfermented manure, which is to be ploughed in. For marking out the rows for planting, a "corn marker" may be used to advantage. It is made by taking a piece of scantling, 3 inches square and 10 to 12 feet long, with teeth, of hickory or white oak inserted at distances of 2 to 4 feet, according to the width designed for the rows—then an old pair of waggon-thills and a pair of old plough handles are put to it, and your marker done, and with a good horse to draw this implement, the ground may be made ready for planting very rapidly.

The spring is a most important season to the farmer. In cold climates, where the warm and growing season is short, much depends upon getting the summer crops in, in good season and in good order. The land should be well tilled, and the surface well pulverized, so as to give the roots of the young plants a healthful and vigorous growth in the early part of the season. The farmer who gets his crops in well and in good season is most sure of a good yield; besides, if he gets his spring work done early, he will be most likely to do the whole work of the season in good time, and will have time to do it well; while, he gets behind time in the spring, he will be most likely to get behind time through the whole season; and being drove with his work, will not be likely to do it well; and if he keeps an account of out-goes and in-comes, will be most likely to find his profits much less than they would have been, had his spring work been done in season. There are many other important matters to be looked to during the spring. Do your old meadows need harrowing and manuring, and additional grass seed? If so, now is the time to attend to it. Have you a sufficient number of fruit trees, and of the different kinds best suited to the soil and climate? If not, this is the time to plant them. and also shade trees and shrubbery, to make your situation pleasant.

Next in importance to the Plough, Harrow and Cultivator, the Seed Sower may claim rank. Grain and Grass seeds have heretofore been sown broadcast by hand; hence a field of wheat is rarely seen, but the irregularity of such sowing is visible soon after it vegetates. There are many incidents which cause this irregularity, such as the state of the wind, requiring either a high or a low cast; the equal and corresponding motion of the hand and foot; the length of step, &c.; from such like causes Water at Windsor, Parrsboro', Horton, Cornwallis, Truro, &c.

One often see fields of grain striped and streaked, or in waves, to a greater or less extent; here too thick, there too thin. The consequence of such carelessness is, the crop is not uniform in its growth and maturity, and less in product than if the seed had been well and equally distributed. To perform the duty of sowing grain, as it should be done, a man can sow 12 acres in a day—but taking one with another, as labourers present themselves to the farmer, very few know any thing of this important duty; consequently, the aid of machinery has been called in, not only to distribute the seed equally and uniformly, but to economise too costly labour, as a man with a Sowing Machine can sow 22 acres or more in a day.

Cultivate order. "Order is Heaven's first law." How much pleasure there is in contemplating a well ordered family, or well ordered farm. But some men are "terrible slack." Look at their farms and you see it at once. Every thing is at loose ends. Their implements are scattered around, and exposed to all the variations of the weather. The space around the front door, may be, is a repository for hay carts and harrows, sleds and slabs, apple tree brush and ashes barrels, and all the odds and ends that accumulate during the labours of the whole year. Having "a place for every thing and every thing in its place," will remedy all these evils. But an apple tree is no place to winter a scythe, nor the road side a place to summer a sled. All tools and implements when not in use should be kept under cover. Every farmer should take an Agricultural paper, and we strongly recommend to them "The Cultivator," published monthly at Albany, as about the very best that is published, and forms within itself a complete Farmer's Library, and furnished at the small cost of one dollar per annum. Neither is his duty done when he has paid for it. Nor should he be satisfied by simply reading it. It should be studied, and its suggestions should be reduced to practice whenever they can be made beneficial.

The cultivation of sandy land has of late years received much attention in various parts of Europe. In Great Britain as well as on the continent, much of the light soil which formerly produced scarcely anything, and was deemed of little value, is now made to produce good crops of wheat. The difficulties attending the successful cultivation of a sandy soil, arise chiefly from the want of coherence in its particles at the surface. From this cause it parts too easily with moisture, and with the gaseous portion of manures. One of the best substances to apply to a sandy soil, is clay—common clay, although composed chiefly of sand or silex, owes its adhesiveness to another substance it contains, called alumina; and hence, by the application of clay, the adhesive principle is increased. A coating of stiff clay, two or three inches thick will convert almost any sandy soil into a good loam. Several kinds of plants have a beneficial effect in binding sandy soils. Spurry is much prized in Europe for the improvement of sandy soils. Professor Johnston says "of all food for cattle spurry grows best on a light, sandy soil. In Europe it is considered exceedingly milk-producing for the cow." It is cultivated largely on the sandy soils of Flanders, and is the most nourishing, in proportion to its bulk, of all forage, and gives the best flavoured milk and butter.

Although the improvement of the soil is reckoned of the first importance, the improvement of the farm in other respects, should certainly not be neglected. The judicious and enterprising farmer will see where improvements should be made, and will see that they are made. It is not to be supposed that farmers as a class, have the means to make radical alterations in their buildings, or in the plan of their farms—they need not—a few hours' labour here, or a few pounds expended there, may make a greater improvement, than hundreds of dollars laid out in alterations. Look at these bars, which have to be let down or taken away, on an average, once or twice a day throughout the year, for the purpose of passing through. Just put a gate there, which can be done at a trifling expense, and there is an improvement from which benefit will be derived every day. A gate not only facilitates passing in and out, but it looks better. Their superiority needs no demonstration,—it is a "fixed fact." And yet there are hundreds of farms scattered all over the country, that are entirely without any such labour-saving articles, and farmers are living as contentedly as if they could not be obtained. But the farmer who in his system combines beauty with utility, will need no suggestions in regard to the improvement of his farm.

band is soon avaricious enough to allow the woman of his love to become his most devoted drudge. From thenceforth her life is one of unremitting toil. It is nothing but mend and botch, cook and bake, wash and iron, churn and make cheese, pick up chips and draw water, bear children and nurse them. The family enlarges, the husband grows wealthy, becomes important in the community. takes his ease when he chooses; but the cares of his faded and broken down wife know no relaxation. She may outlive her husband; but rarely does, and not unfrequently a second wife comes in to share in the money that should have been enjoyed by her predecessor, through a quiet old age of rest. This is no fancy sketch. It is drawn from life, and in every country-town and neighbourhood, its truthfulness will be recognised. From this life, the girls of our day are learning to shrink; not because they are lazy, but because they know that they are to be sacrificed. Not because the calling of the farmer is not respectable, but because they do not wish to become his mistress, maid-of-all-work, nurse and boot-jack.

The subject of under draining does not appear to be so thoroughly understood by farmers as it ought. They generally suppose they have done all that is necessary in this matter, when they have furnished a furrow, or shallow channel sufficient to draw off the surface water before it rots the seeds, or scalds out a young crop of corn or other grain. The want of suitable drainage, is the most common cause of the failure of the crops; yet the disappointed farmer is often seen looking around him in vain for some more remote cause, sufficient to produce the effect. Many causes are assigned for the repeated failures of the potato crop; but any person who has observed the careless mode of cultivation adopted with this vegetable, will not hesitate to assign, as the original cause, the damp vegetable mould, so often selected for the potato patch. When we add to this, the fact, that the seed used, has been raised in the same way, and that the same process has been continued for many seasons, we need not be surprised at the result. It is more than probable that the rapid degeneration of grains, grasses, vegetables and fruit, is owing to a want of thorough drainage more than to any unfavourableness of climate.

One of the principal employments of farmer's in winter, is in taking care of stock. It is one thing to let stock shift for themselves, and quite another thing to take care of them. The difference is, that in one way your stock is brought out in good condition in spring, while in the other they are, if brought out alive, mere skeletons with skins on. The advantages of sheltering animals by stables and sheds, are better understood now than formerly; although the old practice still lingers on some farms, where the shivering and bellowing animals speak for themselves, as to its effects. If the ghosts of animals which have died for

The want of shelter could haunt the imaginations of these careless farmers, it might perhaps, cause a change in their management. Stacking out hay and fodder, causes waste enough in a few years to pay for building good barns, and shelters for hay and animals. Sheds, high and dry, and open at the south, are the best for sheep—this gives them sufficient air, and is better for their health than close stables. The worst storms for sheep, are the cold rains with easterly winds; and if they are not sheltered, they are drenched through, and when the weather changes to cold, the wool freezes on them; and if they are low in flesh, death is often the consequence. Under all circumstances, the great aim of the farmer should be the maintenance of the stock in proper condition with the least expense.

The comparatively leisure season of winter, affords a peculiar opportunity for the cultivator of fruit to look over his practice and system of culture, and see where he may not introduce material improvements. Are there trees enough planted? Cannot a heavier or more profitable return be obtained from the land, by extending the orchard, or improving the character of its products? Have those about to plant selected the best ground? Remember that in most localities hills or elevated grounds are better than low and frosty valleys—tender fruits may bear well the former, and be cut off in the latter—and that however dry the surface, a wet subsoil is very bad for all tender fruit trees. Has the soil for receiving the young orchards been sufficiently prepared? Subsoiled? Trench-ploughed? Deeply intermixed with manure and tempered with ashes? This labour may quadruple the crop in five years, and improve its quality beyond any scale of measurement. Have the most delicious sorts been selected? A Doyenne or Tyson Pear, a Black Eagle or Downy cherry, grow as freely in a rich soil and a free air, as the most austere and repulsive wildings. Have the most productive for market been chosen? Ten trees of the Baldwin and Rhode Island Greening will yield more than 50 trees of some other sorts.

SECONDLY,—At any time half the amount paid for Premiums can be demanded from the Society, for the surrender of the Policy by the party insured, thus giving it a known cash value.

Star Life Assurance Company,

CHIEF OFFICE, 44 MOORGATE STREET, LONDON.

CAPITAL, £100,000, Sterling.

Ninety per cent of the profits divided among the Policy holders, entitled to participate, without reserving a large proportion of said profits for future division, as has been done by one London Company.

Policies at this Agency, on which three annual Premiums only had been paid, had a Bonus added to them of upwards of 60 per cent, on the amount paid in—the class of persons hitherto insured the “Star,” being generally regular living and temperate persons, the average number of deaths have been found 21 per cent less than had been allowed for, and the rates will be found low, if not lower, than other Companies.

On Policies for £500 or upwards, for the whole term of life, the parties have the privilege of a credit for one half the amount Premium, for the first five years.

The restrictions and privileges in this Society are as favourable as any other Company.

The attention of the public, and particularly of the Wesleyan body in this Province, is requested to this advertisement; it being positively the duty of every person, (having others dependent on them) to insure their lives, and so uncertain is life and health, that delays are often found to be most disastrous. The only time to insure is while health is enjoyed.

THE CULTIVATOR, a monthly Journal devoted to the interests of the Farmer, the Gardener, and the Fruit Grower, illustrated with numerous engravings of Farm Houses and Buildings, Cattle, Horses, Sheep, Pigeons, Poultry, Farm Implements, &c. The Cultivator entered upon its 7th vol. of the New Series on the 1st Jan'y, 1850. For a period of 15 years, it has enjoyed a circulation, and exerted an influence, not exceeded, it is believed, by any other Journal, Keeping steadily in view as its great object for which The Cultivator was established,—“To improve the soil and the mind,” no effort has been spared to fill its pages with such matter as is best adapted to call into action the mental and physical energies of its readers, to awaken enquiry as to the best and most profitable methods of farming and to incite to efforts to carry them into effect. The whole series, or such volumes (except the one for 1848) may be wanted to complete sets supplied, and the numbers for the present year furnished as published.

THE HORTICULTURIST, and Journal of Rural Art and Rural Taste, devoted to Horticulture, Landscape Gardening, Rural Architecture, Botany, Pomology, Rural Economy, &c., published monthly in octavo form of 48 pages, each number accompanied by Engravings of Rural Cottages, and Villas, Farm Houses, Gates, Lodges, Ice Houses, Vineries, Flowering Shurbs, &c. 4 vols. of this work are now completed. To persons alive to the improvement of their Gardens, Orchards or Country Seats—to scientific and practical Cultivators of the soil—to Nurserymen and Commercial Gardeners, this Journal, giving the latest discoveries and improvements, experiments and acquisitions in Horticulture, and those branches of knowledge connected with it, will be found invaluable. Its extended and valuable correspondence presents the experience of the most intelligent cultivators in America; and the instructive and agreeable articles from the pen of the Editor, makes it equally sought after by even the general reader, interested in country life. The 5th vol. commenced on the 1st July, 1850.

THE PLOUGH, THE LOOM, AND THE ANVIL, Edited by J Skinner, and published monthly, vols 1 and 2 may be had neatly bound, and the numbers of the 3rd vol commencing with July 1850, furnished as published. “We must again commend to the attention of our readers Mr Skinner’s excellent periodical, the first Agricultural Journal, in which the attempt has been made to teach farmers and planters how much their interest is involved in encouraging the growth and extension of manufactures and the mechanic arts throughout the country among themselves, and is a work which deserves the support of mechanics and manufacturers, as well as farmers.”—North American and United States Gazette.
