KOREA ANNEXED BY JAPANESE

MOVE CARRIED OUT WITHOUT A HITCH

Threats of Revolt Heard at Seoul, But Outbreak is Not Likely

(Times Leased Wire.)
Tokyo, Aug. 20.—An imperial edict, an official announcement and a military order respecting the action of Resident General Teruchi, and the independent empire to-day became the dependent kingdom of Chosen. The emperor, Yi Syek, became officially "The Wang."

Outwardly the change has been made without a single slip in the well oiled wheels of Nipponese diplomacy. In unofficial circles, however, come rumors of discontent and threats of revolt from Seoul. The edict of the minister of the interior threatens to change the entire diplomatic plan in the Far East, and the effects of the annexation or "amalgamation," as the diplomats here prefer to call it, will be felt by every world power.

The annexation was made without the consent of the Koreans, over the protest of China—as yet too feeble or too unready to enforce her objections—and with the careful watchfulness of the United States. America enjoys in Korea treaties many privileges that Japan, treaties refuse. The Japanese statesmen have announced that the Korean treaties will be recognized for a time. The situation is a gigantic Far Eastern game of "free-out," with Japan dealing the cards and Russia playing to Japan's hand.

Britain and Russia to-day notified the foreign minister of their full recognition of Japan's move. Russia especially assured Japan of her hearty cooperation, and promised that the czar's ministers would use every effort to keep Koreans in good order in northern Manchuria and Siberia, where hundreds of disaffected Koreans have taken residence pending a decision on the question of a revolt.

It is acknowledged here that Russia was acquainted with every detail of Japan's plans in regard to Korea at the time the Russo-Japanese convention respecting the status quo in Manchuria was negotiated and signed. Although the annexation of Korea was regarded as assured several weeks ago, the announcement of the annexation caused the Tokyo newspapers to issue extra editions to-day. The general tone of the press is that Korea had fulfilled her destiny as a nation, and that Japan was ready to crush out any revolt on the Korean peninsula and to aid the Korean financially and commercially on the other.

The Japanese policy of meeting force with impressive persistence was never shown to better advantage than in the annexation of the hermit kingdom. Viscount General Teruchi left Tokyo for Seoul in the middle of July. He moved rapidly and after a short time had suppressed the vernacular papers and issued orders for censorship of cables. The public was permitted to know little of what was taking place at Seoul.

The situation at Seoul was similar to that at Tokyo in the early days of the Russo-Japanese war. A number of correspondents, including several sent out especially for the purpose from Europe and America, have spent idle weeks here waiting for an exciting climax that apparently will not occur. The correspondents have received the most cordial welcome, but have learned little. Viscount Teruchi's instructions were explicit upon points of entertainment of the journalists and the suppression of news.

Two months ago the impatient Koreans and the correspondents all were excited to the highest degree. Action on the part of Japan at that time certainly would have resulted in an uprising. Every day's delay the eagerness of the Koreans diminished, and the action to-day that would have caused instant revolts two months ago may pass without serious opposition now.

It is probable that the correspondents, too, will leave Korea in disgust; not the recorders of exciting events, but the bearers of empty notebooks. Japan has had to do the things before, and diplomats of the Orient admit that no nation can do them better.

FLOOD FOLLOWS RAIN.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 20.—East Lincoln became isolated by a flood to-day caused by a sudden rise in the waters of the Antelope creek. The greets were submerged to a depth of five feet. The water has flooded homes and the occupants were compelled to flee to upper streets. Rescuers put out in boats to save persons caught in the deluge. The weather bureau reports a rainfall of eight inches last night.

BARQUE ASHORE.

London, Aug. 20.—A telegram from Liverpool states that the British barque Kilburna has gone ashore at Morcasamba Bay and will be a total loss.

The Kilburn was built at Glasgow in 1895 and is registered at Greenock. She is a four-masted vessel, 260 feet long, 42 feet 8 inches beam and 2,499 tons.

AVIATOR KILLED.

Arnhem, Netherlands, Aug. 20.—The Dutch aviator Van Maasduyk was killed Saturday during a cross-country flight over this city the motor of his aeroplane suddenly stopped and the machine plunged to the ground.

NELSON GREETED SIR WILFRID

WILL HEAR REQUESTS REGARDING COLUMBIA

Minister of Railways Will Probably Visit Hudson Bay Next Year

(Special to the Times.)
Nelson, B. C., Aug. 20.—Nelson received Sir Wilfrid Laurier Saturday night with enthusiastic acclaim. Church bells rang, bands played, whistles screamed, torches flared, rockets shot heavenward, streets were canopied with electric illuminations. While business houses and residences were hung with colored Chinese lanterns. A procession marched through the town and addressing a cheering crowd from a carriage at midnight the premier expressed his appreciation of the magnificent reception accorded him.

The premier and party spent the day on a C. P. R. steamer on the voyage from Arrowhead to West Robson through the Kootenay Lake district, Sir Wilfrid speaking from the bridge briefly at gatherings at Halcyon Springs, Nakup and Arrow Park landings. The atmosphere was impregnated with the dense smoke from the big bush fires in Washington state, and it was impossible portions of the time to see the "distance of the deck." Through the Lower Arrow Lake the vessel was guided by the searchlights installed at her prow.

"I am willing to receive the goods of our good American friends under equitable conditions," said the premier, speaking from the boat at Nakup, "but I object to their supplying our mountains and lakes with this suffocating smoke."

Under an arrangement effected by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways, will leave the party at Winnipeg on the return journey and proceed to Pas Mission. Here he will review plans for the construction of the bridge over the Saskatchewan river, the contract for which was awarded to Mackenzie & Mann, and proceed on a trip of inspection over a portion of the proposed route for the projected Hudson Bay railway.

The premier further anticipates visiting Hudson Bay next year with the purpose of deciding further on harbor arrangements either at Nelson or Churchill. The government proposes to push construction of the railway, having received an intimation that in addition to the possibilities of the fishing industry there are evidences of deposits of coal and copper which warrant exploitation. The reports will be fully investigated.

Sir Wilfrid will to-day meet international delegations from the Portland and Spokane chambers of commerce and boards of trade of East and West Kootenay regarding the opening up of the Columbia river to navigation between West Robson and the international boundary.

The premier will also address a gathering of school children on the water from the barge Nelson and speak at night at a mass meeting.

ROOSEVELT GETS PRESIDENTIAL SALUTE

Denver, Col., Aug. 20.—A salute of 21 guns, the special salute of a president of the United States, boomed forth as Col. Theodore Roosevelt, former chief executive of the nation, arrived in Denver to-day. It was only a small part of the noisy welcome given the colonel by the hundred thousand visitors gathered in the Colorado capital to greet the former president.

He was met at the station by Governor Shaforth, Mayor Speer and committees representing the Colorado Livestock Association and the Spanish war veterans. The presidential salute was fired by the Colorado light artillery.

Roosevelt was escorted at once to a waiting automobile and taken through the principal streets to a review stand, where he reviewed the parade of the Spanish war veterans, the Indian Fighters' Association and a number of civic bodies. At noon Roosevelt became the guest of the Denver Press Club. Later the colonel was escorted back to the heart of the city and taken to the auditorium, where he was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the afternoon session of the convention of the Colorado Livestock Association.

The colonel's afternoon was a busy one. After the speech at the auditorium he was scheduled to address briefly the special session of the Colorado legislature in the house chamber, and after that he rushed back to the auditorium to speak before the Spanish War Veterans' Association. To-night he will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by the livestock men. Fifteen thousand persons were in the hall when the first address was delivered.

SOCKEYES FOR AUSTRALIA.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—Mr. Ross, Canadian trade commissioner at Melbourne, reports that British Columbia packers have secured orders for practically the whole of the sockeyes required by Australia this year.

GOOD-BYE.

BRITISH COLUMBIA—"We have had a pleasant time, Sir Wilfrid. Come again soon."

SEVENTY-THREE RANGERS KILLED

NUMBER OF MEN ARE STILL MISSING

Showers Assist Fire Fighters in Southern Washington and Western Oregon

(Times Leased Wire.)
Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—Associate Forester Greely to-day officially reported that 73 rangers are known to have been killed in the forest fires of the northwest. Five men and two crews are still missing. Greely advised that all the men killed were temporary employees of the service.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 20.—Showers yesterday and last night ended the ninety-six day drought in western Oregon, the longest since 1902, and at the same time came strongly to the relief of the forest fire fighters in southern Washington and western Oregon. According to dispatches received here to-day from southern Oregon there was only a slight precipitation in the Crater national reserve, where a heavy downpour is badly needed to extinguish the great forest fires sweeping through that region.

It is believed that now the civilians and troops fighting fires in the Mount Hood district of Oregon will be able to prevent the conflagrations from spreading further.

In the Camas district, north of Vancouver, Wash., there was a copious rain. As a result a vast improvement in the fire situation has been noted.

Getting Fires Under Control.
Medford, Ore., Aug. 20.—A heavy fog amounting to a drizzling mist and a lack of wind has put a better phase on the forest fire situation than has prevailed at any time during the past two weeks. If the wind does not come up again the fire will all be under control within the next 24 hours.

Not a single fire is showing any great amount of activity and the fire fighters are to-day patrolling rather than battling with the flames.

PAPER MANUFACTURING COMPANY INCORPORATED

Has Capital of $10,000,000—Is Apparently Mackenzie and Mann Concern

(Special to the Times.)
Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The Canadian Paper & Paper Company, with a capital of $10,000,000 and headquarters in Toronto, has just been incorporated to carry on in all branches the business of manufacturers and dealers in pulp and paper. It is apparently a Mackenzie & Mann concern, as the incorporation is the names of Messrs. F. H. Philippon, K. C.; Gerard Ruet, G. F. McDowell, R. H. Temple and A. J. Reid, of the legal staff of the Canadian Northern.

RIFLE MEET GREAT SUCCESS

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT ROCKCLIFFE RANGES

Canadian and British Cadets Made Older Shots Look to Their Laurels

(Special to the Times.)
Ottawa, Aug. 20.—The Canadian Bisley meet came to a close on Saturday after the most successful week of shooting ever witnessed on Rockcliffe ranges. A record attendance, good weather and the presence of a couple scores of target hitting British and Canadian cadets, who made older shots look to their laurels, added interest to the meet. Older shots freely admit that in the course of a few years the youngsters will shoot as well as them, and will figure amongst the big prize winners. Ten English cadets won $250 in prizes. The governor-general's prize, the banner event of the Canadian Bisley, was won by C. Robert, of Toronto, with 193 out of a possible 205. He gets a gold medal and $200 as his reward.

The highest western man was Lieut. Milne, of Vancouver, who won 215 with a score of 188. Western men who get into first 20 on Bisley aggregate and are entitled to first choice to go to Bisley next July, are: Pte. Carmichael, Calgary; Sergt. Martin, Calgary; Lieut. Morris, Winnipeg; Lieut. Milne, Vancouver; and Sergt. Moscrop, Vancouver. Other western men who are well up in Bisley aggregate on Saturday are: Col. Sergt. Hudson, 163rd, Calgary; Capt. McInnes, 19th Alberta Mounted Rifles; Pte. Simpson, 102nd, Nelson, 345; Sergt. Hunter, 6th, Vancouver, 345; Corp. Harrison, 90th, Winnipeg, 344; Corp. Regan, 101st, Edmonton, 342; Captain Selater, 6th, Vancouver, 342.

ENROLLING MEN IN NEW NATIONAL UNION

Winnipeg Builders Will Pay a Higher Rate Than Called for by International

(Special to the Times.)
Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—Secretary Buxton, of the Builders' Exchange, declares that there is no change in the situation. The National Union officers are busy enrolling men. Their contract calls for a nine-hour day at two and a half cents an hour. The international union rate is 47 1/2 cents for 8-hour union rate. The latter calls for 8-hour hours in the winter in view of the idleness of the short season. The international officers state that many men signing the new union roll had no serious intentions, and would be found absent when the time came to start work. It is averred there has never been a strike where the men struck so well together, and there is no incentive to act otherwise.

OVER HUNDRED MILLION BUSHELS

LATEST ESTIMATE OF WHEAT CROP

Average Yield 12.6 Bushels to the Acre According to Grain Growers' Association

(Special to the Times.)
Winnipeg, Aug. 20.—The estimate of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association puts the wheat crop at 106,510,220 bushels, being an average yield of 12.4 bushels for 8,582,200 acres. Oats will amount to 111,983,000 according to the estimate, being an average of 26.5 bushels from 4,217,400 acres; barley 15,520,000, being 15.1 bushels per acre from 1,022,000; flax 5,292,000 or 8.4 bushels per acre from 630,000 acres.

TRAFFIC DELAYED.
(Special to the Times.)
Atikokam, Ont., Aug. 20.—The burning of a bent pile bridge near here which was being filled in, and the detour of a grain-laden freight eastward bound on Sunday morning, tied up the Canadian Northern railroad line between lake ports and Winnipeg, delaying the Duluth-Port Arthur to Winnipeg express some eight hours, and President Mackenzie's special train, due at Winnipeg at 17 o'clock on Sunday, will not arrive until to-day.

TRAPPER RELEASED.
Montreal, Aug. 20.—Edward Chaumont, a trapper, conscience-stricken, gave himself up to the police, stating he quarrelled with a fellow trapper two weeks ago and struck and killed him. The coroner at Riviere des Rats, how-ever, telegraphed that the autopsy at the inquest revealed that the cause of Aube's death was inflammation of the lungs caused by excessive drinking and was not due to a blow. Chaumont was released with an easier conscience.

WALL OF ICE BLOCKED MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS

Leader of Party Which Attempted to Scale Mount McKinley Reaches Seattle

(Times Leased Wire.)
Seattle, Wash., Aug. 20.—Baltimore leader of the Parker-Brown Mount McKinley expedition, is back in Seattle to-day. He left Professor Parker at Valdes, the latter too ill to continue the journey.

Brown declares that the attempt to reach the summit of Mount McKinley was abandoned after the party had reached an altitude of 10,000 feet, where a monster wall of ice blocked further ascent.

Brown would not be quoted as saying that the Lloyd party from Fairbanks did not reach the summit.

CRIPPEN PLANNED TO END LIFE

INTENDED TO LEAP FROM STEAMER MONTROSE

Arrest at Father Point Prevented Doctor Carrying Out His Threat

(Times Leased Wire.)
London, Aug. 20.—That Dr. H. H. Crippen planned to commit suicide and that his thoughts of the future led to a dramatic meeting and farceful behavior of the accused man and Miss Ethel Levee who fled with him to Canada, was the testimony to-day of Inspector Dew before Magistrate Marshall at a preliminary hearing of the couple.

Dew said that when Crippen was arrested aboard the liner Montrose at Father Point, a note was found in his pocket, written on a business card and addressed to Miss Levee—reading as follows: "I cannot stand the horror through which I have gone every night any longer. I have made up my mind to jump overboard to-night. I see nothing ahead of me. My money has run out. I know I have spoiled your life, and I hope some day you will forgive me. Yours, H."

Crippen did not expect arrest when he wrote the farewell message. "To-night" meant for him the time the Montrose would be ploughing through the St. Lawrence river from Father Point to Quebec. "That day he was arrested and the 'to-night' he had named for jumping overboard—found him in the clutches of the law."

On the homeward voyage, Thursday, aboard the Megantic, Dr. Crippen begged his captors to permit him to see Miss Levee. "I may never see her again," he pleaded, "she has been my only comfort in the last three years." Dew exacted a promise from the prisoners that they would not try to converse. On an upper deck, accessible only to the officers of the liner, the accused man and the girl met. Both were overcome with emotion and Crippen could scarcely speak a word of greeting. With his guards within earshot, he briefly told her good-bye. Miss Levee was led fainting to her stateroom and Crippen spent the rest of the day in moody silence.

At the hearing before the magistrate to-day Crippen was charged formally with the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore Crippen. The prosecution announced that it would proceed against Miss Levee only as accessory after the fact, being convinced that she knew nothing of the alleged murder until after it had been committed. Miss Levee also was charged with having assisted, maintained and harbored a fugitive from justice.

Dew also furnished evidence that Dr. Crippen and Miss Levee also contemplated double suicide. He produced a scrap of paper on which Crippen had written: "Shall we wait until to-night about 10 or 11 o'clock?" This was supposedly written at the time Crippen wrote the farewell message to his companion. (Concluded on page 10.)

ACCUSED OF PIRACY ON THE HIGH SEAS

Members of Seattle Expedition Captured by Revenue Cutter After Exciting Chase

(Times Leased Wire.)
Seattle, Wash., Aug. 20.—Hugh J. Thompson, a barber, his wife, his wife's sister and a crew of five able seamen are all locked in the Jefferson county jail to-day and must face a charge of piracy on the high seas.

The alleged pirates were caught on board the schooner Vida after an exciting chase off Whitty Island by the revenue cutter Arcata. The demand for their arrest came from United States Marshal Hopekins, who charges that the barber-captain stole the ship from its moorings while it was in the custody of the United States officers. When overhauled by the Arcata, the name of the schooner had been changed to read Elvira, and it was only when Thompson was confronted with the United States papers that he admitted his ship was sailing under false colors.

Thompson was on his way to the south seas. He planned to form a colony in Peru, and all those willing to join the expedition in search of golden ingots were invited to come along. Thompson's wife and her sister and five others took the chance. The departure was delayed, however, by the United States claim for $200, and the United States marshal seized the craft where it lay anchored off West Seattle.

Yesterday Thompson and his party boarded the Vida and set sail. The absence of the schooner was soon noticed and the revenue cutter sent in pursuit. Had the Vida gained one hour's start she would have been in British Columbia waters, where the United States officers would have been powerless to stay the progress of the voyage for treasure.

In jail to-day Thompson bemoaned his ill-fortune. "Had I had another gallon of gasoline for the engine or the breeze been a bit stiffer, you wouldn't have been able to board us," he said.

JACKSON CASE IN CONFERENCE

MAJORITY DECIDE NOT THE PLACE TO AIR IT

Members Declare Belief in Jesus Christ as Infallible Teacher and Revealer

(Times Leased Wire.)
Convening at half-past eight this morning the general conference took up the matter of the Jackson controversy and at 11 o'clock by a vote of 125 to 84, decided not to deal with it, but to leave all such matters to the regular procedure provided by the church. Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Toronto, a former pastor of Metropolitan Methodist church in this city, led the attack on the professor of the English Bible in Victoria University, while that gentleman was warmly championed by Chancellor Burwash and N. W. Rowell, one of the leading laymen of the church. The discussion was followed keenly by a full attendance of delegates and crowded galleries.

Dr. Cleaver, expressing himself quite warmly and earnestly, plunged into the heart of his complaint against Dr. Jackson by quotations from his writings and that of men for and against higher criticism. With Assyriologists declaring there were not records to prove the Bible story of the deluge and others declaring that there was, Dr. Jackson, he said, hastened to take his stand with the former. To himself this haste was one of the saddest features of the case. Until he had absolute proof he would never give up anything in the Bible. Continuing, Dr. Cleaver said:—

"It is very unfair to our young men to compel them, at the very door of the ministry, to pass through these colleges and hear things that do not believe, things that are not true, things that cannot convince grown men and women and those of experience. Men who cannot convince their fellows are allowed to take young fellows, fresh from the farm, immature and inexperienced, and poison their minds. If this thing is not stopped we have sold our birthright for a mess of pottage."

Dr. Cleaver's motion asked the conference to state that it was regrettable that in the colleges of the church, orally and in publications there had been set forth doctrines of an unsettling and injurious character; that as a conference it expressed strong disapproval of all such teaching as had a tendency to disparage the deity and infallibility of Christ while on earth, to weaken the authority of Christ and His apostles or discredit the Scriptures as a trustworthy revelation from God. The motion detailed half a dozen points as specimens of the doctrines complained of, such as, the unscientific character of the early chapters of Genesis; that Christ had assumed the Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch and the Davidic authorship of the 110th Psalm, which modern scholarship denied; that a man may not do violence to his intellectual conscience, at the bidding of any authority, no matter how august; that on questions of morals Jesus is to be listened to but in such matters as the casting out of the devils ignored.

F. W. Winter, Toronto, seconding the motion, expressed the most kindly feeling for the critics but declared himself firmly opposed to the higher criticism. He would take no man's opinion on these matters, he said, nor allow any one to set up his opinion against Jesus Christ. To think of the astonishing assurance of mere men presuming to know more than Jesus Christ! As regarded missions, such teachings would have a most disastrous effect.

"I had rather believe the most incredible thing in the Word of God," said Mr. Winter, "than the ideas of men who think one thing one day and another thing the next day, and no day do they agree. They rob the Bible of its character as the Word of God and give us nothing but a miasma of doubt and contradiction."

The general superintendent suggested to the conference that as probably every member had his mind made up as to how he would vote, and as two men had been heard on one side, they men had been heard on the other side and then hear two votes.

Rev. James Allen proposed that Chancellor Burwash and N. W. Rowell be heard and Dr. Cleaver in reply and the vote be then taken. This was ordered. (Concluded on page 4.)

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Oswego, Ore., Aug. 20.—Old settlers of Portland to-day declare that Ray Thomas, 23 years of age, son of the mayor of Oswego, who was killed by lightning yesterday, was the first victim of a thunder bolt in western Oregon.

The young man was killed during the storm which swept over the western part of Oregon during the afternoon. Thomas was feeding horses in a barn near his home when the bolt struck the cupola of the structure and grounded through a post against which Thomas was leaning at the time.

SWEDISH MINISTER RESIGNS.

Stockholm, Aug. 20.—Herman De Lagercrantz, the representative of Sweden at Washington since 1907, has resigned to look after his personal interests in Sweden, where he has large interests. The retiring minister's diplomatic services are highly regarded here and there is no foundation for the reports that his resignation was caused by attacks made on him by Swedish-American papers.

CORDIAL WELCOME FOR QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES

Deputy Lord Mayor of Liverpool Extends Greetings on Behalf of City

Liverpool, Aug. 29.—Steamer Megantic, with the Queen's Own Rifles band playing the "Maple Leaf Forever," and variations, drew alongside the landing stage here at 1.45 Saturday afternoon. The Deputy Lord Mayor, the officer commanding the district and staff, with General Murray and Captain Clive, representing the war office, were present to welcome the Queen's Own. The first to come ashore were the pioneer squad, followed by Sir Henry Pellatt and his officers. The Deputy Lord Mayor, in welcoming Sir H. Pellatt, dwelt on the importance of trade between Liverpool and Canada. He pointed out the great benefit derived from cultivating good friendship as the present visit would do.

Sir Henry Pellatt replied briefly, after which the regiment disembarked. The soldiers lined up on the landing stage, from where they marched through the cheering multitudes to the London and Northwestern railway station. There they entrained for Aldershot, the Irish Rifles forming a guard of honor. There was some disappointment owing to the fact that the lateness of the landing necessitated a postponement of the reception which was intended for the Queen's Own Rifles here at night. It was essential that camp at Aldershot be reached at 9 o'clock. As the men marched through the streets they made an excellent impression, judging from the complimentary remarks.

EMPEROR WILLIAM ON DIVINE RIGHT

Prussian Crown Bestowed by the Grace of God and Not by People's Assemblies

Berlin, Aug. 29.—The speech delivered by Emperor William of Germany at Koenigsburg, in which he emphasized his belief in a divine mandate by which he rules, referred to the Prussian crown as "bestowed by God's grace and not by parliaments or people's assemblies," and laid a lance in rest against the movement of women suffrage, is the political sensation of the hour. The leading organs of the German press devote extended comment to it generally criticizing the utterances and there are indications that the discourse will have a deep political effect upon the country, nearly all the Berlin papers discussing the subject in connection with the political crisis of November, 1908, when the publication by the London Daily Telegraph of an interview with the Emperor aroused a storm against the uncontrolled public speaking of the Emperor.

The Vosche Zeitung, the Tageblatt, the Morgan Post and other papers point out the constitutional character of the kingdom of Prussia in the empire and inquire whether the chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, was privy to the Emperor's purpose in delivering such a speech. They predict that it will lead to a renewed discussion of the Emperor's constitutional position when the Reichstag reassembles in November.

London View.

London, Aug. 29.—The Times in an editorial dealing with one aspect of the speech of the Emperor William says: "History is not likely to regard it as an accident that the two figures whose eloquence reached furthest in the western world of their day should have insisted in language so familiar in its directness and force on the simple human obligations which men and women were seeking to escape. Emperor William and Colonel Roosevelt do not preach from the same text, but the moral of their preaching is the same."

FIGHT IN NEW YORK WILL BE BITTER

Attack as Result of Western Speeches Does Not Surprise Roosevelt

Cheyenne, Aug. 29.—Col. Theo. Roosevelt on Saturday declined to reply at this time to the editorial published in the New York Evening Post attacking him for speeches made on his western trip.

"I have nothing to say to-day," he said when shown the editorial by a representative of the United Press. "This is the kind of attack it is expected the Post, of course, would make as soon as a genuine, practical movement for decent, clean politics is attempted in New York."

The editorial was shown to the colonel as he was leaving the reviewing stand after having watched the passing of the parade of the Frontier Day celebration.

There is no doubt but that Roosevelt believes the attack is the opening gun of the fight that he has started in New York.

The attack against the colonel in the Post was bitter and charged that he had posed as a corporation hater in order to make the corporations contribute funds for his election to a third term in 1912.

"Such wild whirling words as Roosevelt uttered yesterday are a curse to public life," the editorial began. "I'll make the corporations come to time," shouted Roosevelt to the mob, the editorial continued, "but didn't he really mean he would make them come down with cash to elect him as they did before?"

The attack evidently aroused the colonel's anger and he indicated that he would reply fully as soon as he had time to consider it more carefully. The fight evidently is to be carried on without quarter on either side, the colonel's friends assert. The directness of the attack and its bitterness show the depth of the feeling that has been aroused by Roosevelt's onslaught against the "old guard," they declare, and they expect the rest of the struggle in New York to be marked with bitterness and personality.

Before Roosevelt reached Cheyenne a message was delivered to him on his car saying that Nassau county had elected a delegate to the New York Republican convention at Saratoga. The colonel smiled and said he would be there.

Roosevelt refused to discuss the movement started in Orleans county to oust Vice-President Sherman and the convention.

A DEPENDENT PROVINCE.

Vancouver Saturday Sunset comments upon one phase in our industrial conditions in British Columbia to which the Times has frequently directed attention. It is that notwithstanding the magnificent extent of our territory and the richness and variety of our resources we are very far from being a self-contained and self-sustaining people. Last year we imported twelve million dollars worth of food, of which at least 75 per cent. should have been raised in this province.

DICKENS'S HUNDRETH ANNIVERSARY.

Schemes are already being considered for the suitable celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Charles Dickens in February, 1912. Probably in no part of the world will the event be marked with greater appreciation than in the United States, where the great English novelist has a multitude of readers, chiefly because of the peculiar humor of his character creations appeals with special force to the American mentality.

GROWING INFLUENCE OF WOMAN

Ever since that fatal day in the Garden of Eden, when "the woman tempted me and I did eat," men have found it necessary to take measures to protect themselves against the wiles of the enchantress. What will become of that sexy privilege should the Parliament of Great Britain yield to the demands of this degenerate age and give the women votes?

States, they would discover that the revolt against high protection is general on this continent. Their fiscal propaganda has been launched at an inopportune season, just when other nations which have made a fair trial of their nostrum have found it out.

Japan has finished the first part of her work in Korea. She has "peacefully absorbed" the Hermit-Kingdom. The Korean king will lose nothing except a doubtful dignity as a result of the amalgamation. He will receive recognition and allowances as a prince of Japan. The people will doubtless be just as well off as they were under native rulers. This is an age of concentration, co-operation and federation.

Perhaps if we had had a "continuous council" the city might have been saved from the payment of that little bill presented by the late municipal solicitor. What?

JACKSON CASE IN CONFERENCE

Dr. A. D. Watson, Toronto, moved in amendment, seconded by Rev. Principal Spaulding, Winnipeg, that as the matters of the motion were such as called for the most careful and mature deliberation of those best fitted to adjudicate and as General Conference was by constitution and usage a legislative body rather than a court of trial, and so could not give the patient and calm deliberation which the highest interests of great truth and high fellowship demanded, and as the Church had methods of procedure in cases of supposed departure from its teachings which would not tend to stifle the candor of professors and would keep inviolate the doctrines and principles of the Church, it be resolved that having provided adequately for cases such as referred to in the resolution, this General Conference reaffirms its allegiance to Christ as King, Savior and God, and its faithful adherence to the Word of God which liveth and reigneth forever.

speculations was attributable to the fact that a man could not secure his degree as doctor of philosophy without writing a thesis which advanced something new.

What the conference had to do today was to ask whether in any of the colleges there was any teaching which interfered with belief in the deity of Christ, and, were any such teachings interfering with the authority of the Word of God, as these doctrines were set forth in the standards of the church. Dr. Burwash then referred to Wesley's position, as set forth in his "Notes on the New Testament," and almost identical statements by Dr. Jackson. He deprecated the taking of single sentences out of their connection from Dr. Jackson's book and using them against that professor.

One of the delegates requested to be excused from voting on the ground that it was asking for a declaration of belief in one of two clear, definite and unequivocal statements, one made by Dr. Clearer and the other by the chancellor. He was not excused.

THE ECHO.

Oh, Echo! oft in valleys soft, To find thee I have tried, I've called to thee, and thou to me Hast to my call replied. "Where art thou?" I would eager cry, "Where art thou?" she'd repeat, "I'm here," I'd say; "I'm here," would play Along the hillsides sweet.

GOOD WEATHER FAVORS RACES

POWER BOAT CONTESTS HELD ON SATURDAY

Three Classes Compete for Handsome Prizes—Gypsy Wins Actual Performance Cup

Favored with ideal weather, the power boats made an excellent showing in Saturday's races under the auspices of the Victoria Yacht Club. There was practically no wind and only a light swell which did not interfere with the progress of the competitors. The outside course, from the club float around a stake boat in West Bay and thence around Brochle Ledge beacon, was used, the cruisers covering the distance three times, making 9 1/2 knots, and the other boats twice, 6 1/2 knots. J. S. Gibb's commodious lunch Gypsy, in the race for boats over 25 feet, made 30 per cent. better time than on her handicap trial and won the Kirkpatrick cup for actual performance. The race of the day was in the cruiser class two boats, C. Scott Whitting's Varuna and J. Hinton's Starlight making two and a half laps of the course with only a length between them. The Starlight, however, ran short of gasoline with only a couple of miles to go, and withdrew. There were no other entrants, and the Varuna had a walk-over.

In the race for boats over 25 feet the Laurel, which made the fastest time on handicap test ever, a measured half mile, held the lead at the start, with the Wallington and Gypsy close behind. The order of procession was not changed in the six-mile run, but the Wallington, which came in second, won on handicap. An interesting feature of this race was the excellent handling of the Laurel by her lady pilot, Miss War-racker, who steered with the skill of an experienced navigator.

Three boats finished in the race for launches of 25 feet length and under, two entrants, the Maybell and an unnamed boat entered by H. S. Pendray failing to finish. The Mouween came at the start with the Edmarmo close behind, and the Gladys apparently out-classed. After the boats had gone once around the Gladys made a wonderful recovery and steadily regained the lost distance on the first and second legs of the second lap. Running home from the beacon she passed her two competitors and won in brilliant style, with the Mouween second and the Edmarmo third.

The absence of the many fine speed boats now owned here was the least desirable feature of the races. None of the fast boats were seen during the afternoon, but it is probable that another series of races will be held next Saturday at which some real scorching may be witnessed.

Those who officiated at the races were: B. G. Bulkeley, timer; B. B. Temple, starter; Capt. Jarvis, superintendent. These gentlemen accomplished their work to the satisfaction of everybody concerned.

The races were witnessed by a fairly good attendance along the Dallas road, and about a dozen of the white wings cruised about outside the harbor while they were in progress.

Following is a complete summary of the results:

Cruiser class, course 9 1/2 miles—1, Varuna, 1h. 59m. 29s.; Starlight did not finish. Prize, silver salver.
Under 25 feet class—1, Gladys, 1h. 9m. 13s., prize, cigarette case; 2, Mouween, 1h. 10m. 58s., prize, silver flask; 3, Edmarmo, 1h. 5m. 48s., biscuit jar.
Over 25 feet and over—1, Wallington, 1h. 5m. 16s., prize, cigar case; 2, Laurel, 1h. 5m. 48s., prize, clock; 3, Gypsy, 1h. 5m. 41s., prize, Kirkpatrick cup.

Interment of the remains of the late Louis Sisco was made in Ross Bay cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place at 2 o'clock from the Hanna chapel, whence the cortege proceeded to the Roman Catholic cathedral. Services were conducted both at the church and the graveside by Rev. Father Latene. Many of the fellow workmen of the deceased attended the funeral.

Alfred Edwin Laing died this morning at St. Joseph's hospital, after a short illness. Deceased was 12 years of age and was born in Hawaii, Sandwick Islands. A mother and family are left to mourn his loss. The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Centennial Methodist church. Rev. A. Henderson will conduct the services and the remains will be laid to rest in Ross Bay cemetery.

The remains of the late John Johnston were laid to rest in Ross Bay cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place from the family residence, 1712 Denman street, where Rev. F. T. Tapscoot conducted services of an impressive nature. He also officiated at the graveside. There was a large attendance of friends and the floral offerings sent were numerous and beautiful. The following acted as pallbearers: D. Mcintosh, Geo. Grant, Thos. Graham, John Mowat, M. Smith and W. J. Sargent.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the cortege of the late Daniel D. Moses left the Hanna parlors and proceeded to Trinity church, North Saanich. The services were conducted in the church at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. P. H. Patt of this city. The choir was in attendance and sang the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light." The numerous friends who attended, testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held, he having been one of the oldest inhabitants of that district. Many floral tributes covered the casket. The pallbearers were as follows: George Wynne, F. T. McMoyl, P. Imrie, J. Johns, S. Brethour and N. Hewitt.

Early yesterday morning there passed away at the family residence, Dobinson street, James Bay, Mrs. Sophia Dobinson, relict of the late Joseph Dobinson. Deceased had been ailing for several months. She was ripe in years, having reached her 85th birthday, and was born in Kent, Eng. The late Mrs. Dobinson came to this province many years ago and was widely known throughout this city. The funeral has been arranged to take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence and proceed to Ross Bay cemetery, where the remains will be interred. Rev. Dr. Reid will officiate.

Point Marion, Pa., Aug. 27.—The body of Frank Ringle, who disappeared on August 16th, was found buried under the floor of the garage of W. L. Harvey, a wealthy resident of Marion, Pa. Ringle's head had been crushed by a blow and the police are certain he was murdered. Harvey on Friday noticed blood stains in the garage. On Saturday, noticing that the earthen floor had been displaced, he brushed away the dirt and discovered a human hand. Harvey called to the police and Ringle's body was disinterred. A hundred dollars which Ringle had with him was found in his pockets and it is believed robbery was the motive for the murder. The police are seeking an employee of Harvey, who resigned Thursday.

VICTORIA WON CRICKET CUP SPLENDID BOWLING BY J. C. BARNACLE

Thirteen Runs Victory Won in Final at Hospital Ground in Intense Excitement

By 145 to 135 runs Victoria defeated Vancouver in the international cricket final at the Hospital ground on Saturday and won the championship cup back again, in one of the most exciting games which was full of incident through both innings, and was not decided until the last man had been disposed of.

Undoubtedly the honor of the win belongs to three players, Alexis Martin, J. H. Gillespie and last but by no means least J. C. Barnacle, who caught and bowled Hodges and whose timely and diplomatic bowling of Crossfield gave the Victorians a chance that nothing but unusual misfortune could take from them.

The situation looked hopeful and most promising when Vancouver had lost 4 for 25, being the four best batsmen, Barrs, Payne, Peers, and Morris, made over the century, and Morris, but remembering Victoria had lost 4 for 21, the critics were not certain, for there is no game so uncertain as cricket. Their hesitation was justified, for, when Hodges and Sweeney got together, runs commenced to come freely, and although W. York, Gallher, Hedden and L. York were tried, the score mounted to over the century, before L. York, who retired to Barnacle on at the lower end. The change was effective, for after both batsmen had played him cautiously and obtained a few runs, Barnacle caught and bowled Hodges, with one of those balls that run off the third finger, and consequently hang at the bounce, so that instead of playing it along the matting, the batsmen puts it softly in the air back to the bowler. The ball undoubtedly won the match, and is similar to that which George Giffen used, to catch batsmen off his own bowling, repeatedly. There were still three batsmen to be disposed of, however, and these fell in succession to Barnacle, all being clean bowled. His four wickets cost 22 runs.

Victoria continued its morning score of 5 for 163 after lunch to 145, Crossfield and Morris getting the remaining wickets, and Crossfield holding the best average of the match, 8 for 27. The only batsmen who could play the bowling of these two were Martin, 44; Gillespie, 35, and Barnacle 31, and these were the most useful scores made at most useful stages of the game.

The highest score of the match was that of C. Sweeney, whom none of the Victorians bowlers could dislodge, and who scored 47 not out. With Hodges he looked like winning the match for Vancouver, but the timely advent of Barnacle at the lower end settled the situation in breaking the dangerous partnership, by the disposal of Hodges, whose batting was particularly careful and whose 23 was made without a chance.

On both sides there were some decisions that did not give satisfaction. In the morning Tyo was out on a decision which he disputed and in the afternoon Barrs, the Derbyshire man, and Payne, an Oxford blue, were both disposed of on decisions that were unsatisfactory to themselves.

In cricket, however, the decision once given by the umpire is final, and even if he is shown to be absolutely wrong beyond doubt, he has not power to alter it.

There were several hundred people at the game and the excitement as the score narrowed down under twenty runs of Victoria's total became intense. A terrific shout went up as Barnacle clean-bowled the last man, and cheers were given for the man who won the match, for the club, and also for Sweeney for his fine innings of 47 not out.

The figures for the tournament give the highest average to L. S. V. York, who with his 140 not out, obtained an average of 102. The next best batsman was McKillop who went through the tournament with an average of 54.6. Morris had the highest average for Vancouver with 52.5. Crossfield 6.7 for 17 wickets, and Barnacle 6.5 for 13 wickets were the best bowling averages of the two clubs who got to the final stage.

The scores of the championship match are as follows:

Clover Point—Leavelle Gold Medal Shoot Saturday

Very few competitors attended the shoot at Clover Point on Saturday, and the interest in rifle shooting is becoming smaller every week. The absence of a good range is held by the authorities to be the principal cause of the lack of interest. This season there has been only one long-range shoot held.

Sergt. Richardson headed the list at the three ranges on Saturday with a total of 92, and Bandmaster Rogers, in the second class, shot himself into first class with a score of 91, beating two of the first class men and being equal to one. He will for the future be considered a first class man. The Leavelle gold medal shoot will be commenced next Saturday. The scores of Saturday's shoot are:

First Class	200 500 600 T1.
Sgt. Richardson (winner)	21 31 30 82
C. M. S. Caven	21 32 28 81
Sgt. Parker	21 30 28 80

NATIONALS TO COME AFTER THE MINTO CUP

By Defeating Cornwall Saturday the Montreals Win the Cham- pionship

By defeating Cornwall in the factory town Saturday the Nationals of Montreal captured the championship of the National Lacrosse Union and will be the next challengers for the Minto cup, at present held by New Westminster. The Montreal A. A. team, champions of 1909, failed to repeat being knocked out of any chance by losing to Tecumseh in Montreal Saturday.

One surprise marked Saturday's card in the N. L. U. series, the defeat of the champions by Tecumseh coming as a shock to supporters of the M. A. A. and as a result Montreal has dropped to fourth place in the league standing. The Indians, although out of the running some time ago, have been playing consistent lacrosse for the past month and proved a stumbling block for last year's champions.

Neway Lalonde's team will probably be along in quest of the cup early next month. The Frenchmen plan to leave Montreal the latter part of next week and will probably ask to have the matches set for Sept. 10 and 17.

Here are Saturday's results in the N. L. U. at a glance:

At Cornwall—Nationals, 3; Cornwall, 1.	Goals.
At Montreal—Tecumseh, 6; Montreal, 4.
	W. L. For Arg.
Nationals	3 1 77 25
Tecumseh	4 2 82 50
Montreal	4 4 72 50
Shamrocks	5 4 61 54
Cornwall	4 5 28 65
Capitals	1 10 48 106

Games next Saturday—Nationals at Montreal, Shamrocks at Ottawa.

SPORT NOTES

The Victoria West senior football team will meet next Thursday night in the club rooms at 8 o'clock. Arrangements for the season are to be discussed.

Alexander Lockley has been appointed a delegate of the Esquimalt Athletic Club to attend the V. and D. A. F. L. meeting this week.

The Esquimalt club house on the Canteen ground is now fitted as completely as any club house on the island. Esquimalt is out after the Championship this winter without a doubt.

The Fifth Regiment Athletic Association will hold a meeting at the drill hall on September 1st at 8 o'clock. All members are expected by the officials to attend.

A. J. Brač, F. Carne, F. Harling and W. Long obtained the award of merit medal offered by the Royal Life-Saving Society for efficiency. The examination was held at the Gorge on Saturday, under the direction of P. R. Pomfret. The percentages of the men were 92, 91, 90 and 88. There were six tests in full street dress.

The Esquimalt club held a soccer practice Saturday afternoon. Teams

FORESTERS HOLD A RE-UNION AT DUNCANS

Successful Picnic and Fine Programme of Sports Made Day Pass Pleasantly

A large gathering, amounting to over four hundred, of Foresters from Victoria and other parts of the island, spent a most pleasant time at Duncan on Saturday, the occasion being the first annual island re-union under the auspices of the A. O. F. Lovely weather prevailed, although the haze caused by smoke from the bush fires obscured the picturesque view of the surrounding country.

The re-union took the form of a basket picnic, and the Duncan Foresters had provided excellent facilities in the way of hot water, refreshments, etc., for their visiting sisters and brothers. The Agricultural hall and grounds were engaged, and these had been tastefully decorated for the occasion. The majority of the visitors travelled by the 9 o'clock train from Victoria, and on their arrival at Duncan a procession was formed which, headed by the juvenile Foresters' file and drum band, paraded the principal streets of the town. After lunch an excellent programme of sports was carried out, the various events being keenly contested. A feature of the programme was a baseball game between a team representing the visiting Foresters and one composed of players from Duncan and vicinity. The excellent play of the local team was a revelation to the visitors, who were not prepared for a 12 to 4 defeat. One Duncan nine thoroughly deserved their victory. The football game was won by the visitors, the score being 3 goals to 1. At seven o'clock the party adjourned to the Agricultural hall, where a dance was held until 9 o'clock. The committees of both Victoria and Duncan deserve great praise for the admirable manner in which the arrangements were carried out, and the kindness and many courtesies shown by the Foresters and residents of Duncan were highly appreciated by the visitors. The Victoria contingent returned by special train, leaving Duncan at 9.15 p. m. Following is the programme of sports and a list of winners: 1. Baseball-Duncan, 12; Victoria, 4. 2. 100 yards dash, Foresters-1st, C. D. Scott; 2nd, J. DECISIVE DEFEAT GIVEN LOCAL BASEBALL TEAM

Wattelet's Colts Badly Beaten by Snohomish Nine-Score 13 Runs to 3

After experiencing a great deal of success since the opening of the baseball season in this city the Victoria nine is now meeting with serious reverses. A short time ago Manager Wattelet declared that his colts would not appear on the diamond at the Royal Athletic park for several weeks as he had arranged to have his team visit Sound cities to play matches. Ever since the return of the local aggregation from their trips the games played here have been of the poorest quality and many of the fans have become disgusted.

On Saturday afternoon the locals met the Snohomish nine at the ball park and were given one of the worst defeats of the season, the score being 13 runs to three. A large crowd gathered to witness the game but by the end of the ninth inning very few were left as the majority had gone home disappointed. It is doubtful if the home team has ever before made such a miserable showing. In the first two innings Victoria kept on an even footing with the visitors, but in the third Snohomish scored two runs. In the fourth two more were checked up against the locals, in the fifth four, in the sixth two and in the seventh one. Victoria managed to send a man across the plate in the fourth and seventh. As the visiting players had batted Steenson all over the lot, Frank Moore, third baseman, replaced "Tuba" in the sixth. This was Frank's initial appearance as a star artist in public, but he made good only allowing his opposing batters one hit. The team individually and collectively was all to the bad and if the manager is unable to get his players into better condition, any game which follows will be poorly patronized.

Following are the scores: Snohomish, A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E. VICTORIA BOWLERS AGAIN VICTORIOUS

By 24 to 18 and 25 to 15, two rinks of Victoria club bowlers defeated two rinks of bowlers made up of delegates who are attending the Methodist conference at the bowling club laws on Saturday afternoon. The teams were composed of the following players: J. Dilworth, F. Robertson, R. W. Coleman and J. A. Turner (skip) vs. Rev. R. B. Kenney, Rev. E. Sweet, H. J. Jones and M. A. James (skip), 24 to 18. CONFERENCE CONSIDERS EDUCATION AND MISSIONS

Jackson Controversy Causes a Little Breeze—Evangelistic Work

The General Conference sat until ten o'clock on Saturday night in an effort to so advance the work that it can adjourn to-night. Consideration of the mission committee's report was completed at the afternoon session and in the evening the report of the educational committee was dealt with.

Part of the report of the committee on education was adopted without amendment and practically without discussion. Among its recommendations was one that the education and missionary funds should provide probationer students with sufficient money to put them through college. In return the students, during their probationary career, should in their summer vacations go into the mission fields. If scope could not be found for them in this department they would be granted loans at a low rate of interest, if in need of funds.

Towards the close of the committee's recommendations as to numerous memorials which were dealt with was this: "We recommend that as in our opinion the control of theological teaching in the churches be placed in the hands of the laity, and that the recommendations already presented no further legislation is required."

Rev. Dr. Cleaver, Toronto, moved in amendment that the conference "condemn certain unsettling and injurious teaching which has gone forth," and quoted from Rev. Dr. Jackson's book specimens of what he considered were such.

After much discussion this was ruled out of order, it being an expression of opinion, while the matter under discussion was legislation, but it was agreed that Dr. Cleaver should have an opportunity this morning to deal with the matter.

There were calls for the reading of the memorial of the laymen of Toronto Conference, which concluded as follows: "We memorialize the next General Conference to take such action as may be necessary to eliminate from all our theological schools and colleges such teaching concerning the Holy Scriptures as is contained in the Rev. George Jackson's recent book, 'Studies in the Old Testament.'"

As the matter was to come up again the report was adopted. At the afternoon session the hearing of the report of the committee on missions was concluded. A feature of this was an appeal to the conference to provide the necessary machinery to implement a national scheme of evangelistic note, struck at the preceding night's session by Professor C. E. Bland, of Montreal, has found a whole-hearted responsive chord throughout the conference.

Before the session came to a conclusion it is anticipated a powerful committee to work in cooperation with all the other principal connectional committees, will be formed, to provide the radiating influence of evangelism by which it is hoped to awaken the Church to a realization that it has a mission even greater than that towards which it is aiming to-day.

This evangelistic movement will include a season of prayer; the preaching of the doctrine of Christian stewardship, the disseminating of literature containing Christian principles, missionary sermons, a canvas for missionary funds, and an appeal for contributions to aid the Church in evangelizing the Orient. The details will be worked out by the committee on evangelism, which will present a further report to the conference.

Another matter contained in the report, which received the unanimous approval of the delegates, was the idea that the probationer for a ministerial course should be drawn as far as possible from within the bounds of the connection. "This system has prevailed to a certain extent up to the present, and in future will be followed with even greater exactitude. It was decided that when it was absolutely necessary for the Church to go outside the Dominion it should avail itself of the machinery of the Old Land for meeting such requirements.

In connection with the missionary organization a special officer is to be appointed to look after work connected with Asiatics in Canada. The board of education for the ensuing quadrennium will consist of the general superintendents, the secretary-treasurer of the Educational Society, and the presidents of the Methodist colleges throughout Canada; and Rev. Dr. J. A. Rankin, N. W. Rowell, H. H. Fudger, Rev. G. N. Hazen, J. H. Chapman, E. E. Sweet, Rev. Dr. W. P. Dyer, W. H. Speer, Rev. Dr. W. H. Sparling, G. F. Johnston, Rev. Dr. H. Sprague, Rev. Dr. A. Stewart and G. W. Brown.

A court of appeal for the Church has been appointed as follows: Clerical—Rev. Dr. J. S. Ross, Haileybury; Rev. Dr. S. J. Shover, Cobourg; Rev. Dr. J. C. Smith, Acton; Rev. Dr. A. Stewart, Winnipeg; Rev. Dr. T. Manning, London; Rev. A. Langford, Laymen—N. W. Rowell, Toronto; A. W. Briggs, Toronto; J. R. L. Starr, Toronto; A. Mills; Mr. Justice MacLaren, Toronto; Judge Chesley, Lunenburg. Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, general superintendent, has been chosen as a delegate to the Ecumenical Congress to be held in Toronto next summer.

ARCHBISHOP BOURNE TOURING DOMINION

In Interview at Vancouver Tells of Impressions on Journey Across Canada

The Most Reverend Francis Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, and thereby head of the Roman Catholic communion in Great Britain, arrived in Vancouver from the east Saturday morning. He is in Canada for the purpose of attending the eucharistic congress in Montreal, which opens next month, but wished to get a view of the Dominion first.

Archbishop Bourne is about 49 years of age, and though his hair is grey his movements are full of life and vigor, showing that the cares of his high office have not weighed too heavily upon him. "It is my first visit to Canada," he told the News-Advertiser, "and I am certainly very deeply impressed with the immensity and great resources of the country. Of course I had often read of it before, but after all one needs to see it to realize it. This city particularly strikes me as a place with a wonderful future before it."

Asked as to social conditions in England at the present time, the archbishop said that he believed that the condition of the working classes had improved of late, though there were always quite a number of unemployed. There was, however, a great deal of casual labor that was easily affected by the weather and other conditions, and it was an easy matter for distress to overtake them.

"So far as I can see," he remarked, "there is evidently a much better opening for these men here than there ever can be in the Old Country."

"Were you pleased with the change in the accession oath?" was another question asked. "Yes, I think we are quite satisfied with the change," he replied. "And so I believe in the King, and it probably due largely to his influence that it was brought about. I think the old form was as offensive to him as it was to us, and I believe the change has the approval of public opinion in the Old Country generally. I read leaders in it in nearly all the leading papers of England at the time, and I do not remember one that was in favor of retaining the old form of declaration. I think that matter is happily settled."

Asked what progress his church was making in Great Britain, Archbishop Bourne said that they were making good progress, though as there was no census of religions in England it was impossible to estimate just what their increase was, but there had certainly been a large increase in the number of clergy and churches belonging to the communion in the Old Country, and he believed that the people realized that the church by its work had some claim for consideration.

His grace expressed himself as delighted to find so fine a church as that of Our Lady of the Holy Rosary in this city, saying it would compare favorably with many of the best of theirs in England.

Archbishop Bourne has left for the east again, stopping off at Calgary and Edmonton on his way to Montreal.

DECISION AGAINST LABOR UNIONS

Sweeping Injunction Granted in New York—Garment Workers' Strike Renewed

New York, Aug. 28.—Rioting, pistol fights and suicide marked the resumption on Saturday of the garment workers' strike, at a moment when the leaders among both employers and employees were announcing that hostilities were suspended and work would be resumed to-day. The renewal of the strike resulted from the objection of the strikers to the proposal made by their leaders that the union concede the closed shop.

So bitter was the feeling against the men who suggested compromise on that basis that Treasurer Lennon, who announced the plan to the strikers in a meeting, was driven from the hall. The working men and women were enraged at any such encroachment on what they claim are their absolute rights.

Morris Lovenson, a cloak-maker, on learning that work was not to be resumed, killed himself. His funds had been exhausted by the seven months' lay-off.

"Holding that the labor union in ordering the strike to enforce their demands of closed shop violates the law," Justice Goff of the New York Supreme court Saturday issued what is considered the most sweeping anti-labor injunction ever given in New York state. The order came as the result of a bill for an injunction filed by the Cloak and Suit Manufacturers Association against the International Garment Workers' Union. The manufacturers considered the injunction as the strongest decision against labor unions ever rendered in America.

In issuing the restraining order the court says: "If it is the law that the employer cannot combine, the same law applies to the unions; what employers may not do, the workmen may not do. The primary purpose of this strike was not to better conditions for the workmen, but to deprive other men of the opportunity or the right to work, and to drive them from the industry which required skill. These men have the right to pursue and gain a livelihood without being subjected to doing things which to them are disagreeable and repugnant."

What Other People Think

THE GENERAL CONFERENCE AND SOCIALISM

To the Editor—Certain remarks by Delegate Rev. Henry Haigh concerning Socialism, and as reported in the Conference Bulletin of the 15th, leaves a responsibility resting on this conference as to whether such remarks are to be permitted to go down into history unquestioned. To those who have not analyzed the subject the statements referred to may appear to be of but passing importance.

When it is considered that wage slavery is more intense form than that of chattel slavery which preceded it, the importance of his remarks may be realized. I beg to submit the following to emphasize the responsibility resting on this conference as to how ashamed we may be in the near future to look back over the records of past actions.

In May of 1886 the general conference of the Methodist church met in Cincinnati, the metropolis of the free state of Ohio. On May 19th a meeting of the Anti-Slavery Society was held and was attended by the Rev. Mr. Lovejoy, who was afterwards killed by a mob in defending his press in Alton, Ill., and one other delegate.

On May 12th Rev. S. C. Roszell presented in the conference the following preamble and resolutions: "Whereas, a great excitement has pervaded the country on the subject of modern abolitionism, which is reported to have been increased in this city recently by the unjustifiable conduct of two members of the general conference in lecturing upon and in favor of that agitating topic; and, Whereas, such a course on the part of any of its members is calculated to bring upon this body the suspicion and distrust of the community and misrepresent its sentiments in regard to the point at issue; and, Whereas, in this aspect of the case, a due regard for its own character, as well as a just concern for the interests of the church confided to its care, demand a full, decided and unequivocal expression of the views of the general conference in the premises; therefore,

"Be it resolved, by the delegates of the annual conference, that they disapprove, in the most unqualified sense, the conduct of the two members of the general conference who are reported to have lectured in this city upon and in favor of modern abolitionism. "Resolved, that they are decidedly opposed to modern abolitionism, and wholly disclaim any right, wish or intention to interfere in the civil and political relations between master and slave, as it exists in the slave-holding states of the Union. "The resolutions were adopted by a vote of one hundred and twenty-two to eleven. The other denominations at the time took a similar action, but this quotation is chosen to bring home the gravity of the case. Mr. Haigh states that in England men are revolting against competition and co-operation in taking the place in the Industrial States the cry is against co-operation, and national action sought to try to avert the continuation of competition, but the only question of interest in either case is, who owns the ox?

He states that men have been pinching their rivals' backs that they may swell into monstrous proportions. The 5th chapter of James tells all about that, and to get a scientific analysis of the statements therein contained, and as also made by Delegate Haigh, he must go to Marx and Engels. No conference or theological writer will give it.

He states: "The fundamental principle of British civilization is regard for the individual." Sure; but Mr. Haigh has in mind the civilization of the next step, following which has been a continuous change. The order is change, as we note in the "abandonment of the old economic conditions in England." As James the 5th tells concerning the great centralization of wealth, so does he tell of the next step, following which has been a continuous change. The order is change, as we note in the "abandonment of the old economic conditions in England," and elsewhere alike.

The class in society who feed, clothe and shelter the race find that the ownership of the means whereby all the people must live is rapidly becoming centralized in the hands of a few. The people are finding their chances of being themselves fed, clothed and sheltered are vanishing in proportion to the increase in centralization. Who is stepping out with his arms raised to the sky, demanding that this dividing up process shall cease and that each individual shall enjoy the full fruit of their labor? What Delegate Haigh has to say concerning "regard for the individual" is accepted by the Socialist, only he expresses it by the term "general advantage," which leaves no ground for misapprehension. W. J. LEIDINGHAM, Victoria, B. C., Aug. 27th, 1910.

WAGES OF CIVIC EMPLOYEES FROM A WORKMAN'S POINT OF VIEW.

To the Editor—Permit me the privilege of expressing my opinion on a question that has just been decided on by the city council, namely, the matter of the wages of the civic employees.

The Laborers' Protective Association, consisting mostly of civic workmen, met about a fortnight ago to discuss the question of wages and the possibility of an increase. After careful deliberation it was decided that it was imperative that an increase should be granted. Care should be taken to make such requests as being reasonable. The result was that a scale was drawn up amounting to what was considered a fair increase. It was as follows: Responsible foremen, $4.00; drivers, $2.75; and laborers, $2.50 per day. It was considered that as statistics both from Bradstreet's report and the Dominion department of labor proved that while the cost of living had risen to an enormous extent, the wages had been advanced in a much lesser proportion, that the demands on their part were justifiable. In this city itself the cost of living had gone up by leaps and bounds, while the increase in wages was insignificant compared to it. Moreover, when it is considered that in Vancouver the general laborer gets $2.80 per 8 hour day and with almost the same standard of living, there seems to be no reason why the same class of work should be paid less in Victoria. The scale was therefore sent to the city council, and the mayor has been published in the local newspapers. In spite of the fact that the city engineer thought the requests within the bounds of reason, the Mayor and aldermen in their ill superior wisdom thought otherwise. It is really surprising how glibly these cheap demagogues can come before the citizens, extolling themselves to the highest heavens as "the friends of the workmen." It is still more surprising how well the oracle works with some of the city councilors, who are remembered how well they rallied to the support of the present Mayor at the last municipal election one cannot help saying with the poet, "What fools these mortals be!" I differ very widely with the attitude taken by he who occupies the mayoralty chair in the present council. What he has done in the past for the workers has been highly appreciated, but, at the same time, I fear that what he said and did at the last meeting of the streets committee will have lost for him the esteem and regard that the workers have had toward him. It is fine to talk about the men getting what they are worth. He would be a very poor workman who did not do enough work to warrant him asking $3 per day, never above $2.75. Working with the pick and shovel in the hard soil during the broiling heat of the summer, and up to his waist in mud and slush during the winter months, he earns every cent of that amount. To look at it alone from the standpoint of the high cost of living, he ought to be getting $2.50 per day. After all, who is to decide whether the men are doing sufficient work or not? According to the report it is left in the hands of the city engineer to pay as he sees fit, and how will that be done? Through the foremen on the different jobs apparently. It can therefore be expected that if a certain man is not a favorite of the boss, no matter how good he may be, he will have to work for less than the other fellow. The only class of laborers that the decision of the city council will benefit will be those who happen to belong to the same lodge or organization that time that the requests of labor have been disregarded by the same body of men. There was a petition from the workers on the waterworks department which met the same fate from the same hands.

Let every worker take note what kind of men these be that pose as the friends of the workers. Let this be remembered, I repeat, at the next municipal election. ONE OF THE WORKERS, Aug. 28th, 1910.

NEW LADIES' SUIT AND CLOAK STORE

Finch & Finch Close Out Men's Goods and Open in Yates Street Premises

Victoria will have a new ladies' cloak and suit house from October 1st, on which date Finch & Finch, the Government street men's tailors, will open in their new store on Yates street, above Douglas, with a $100,000 stock of ladies' wear of all descriptions.

In keeping with the trend of the retail business towards Yates street, the proprietors of the new cloak and suit house, some time ago purchased the site, 29 by 120, on which their new store is built, and the building is now ready for occupation.

Finch & Finch have decided to close out their line of men's goods and enter the ladies' trade entirely. The Government street store, where the firm has conducted a men's clothing business, will be vacated, and their interests transferred into the ladies' cloak and suit business in the Yates street block.

The Government street store will be vacated at the end of next month. The new block is the handsome building of its size in the northwest, possessing a specially designed window frontage with a double set of plate glass show windows, and tiled floor entrance. The block is three stories in height, and the ground floor, and part of the upper floors, will be used by the firm.

The upper floor space is to be used for workrooms, while the premises will have fitting rooms and all other up-to-date conveniences required by the trade. The firm will open a sale this week to clear the $50,000 worth of stock of men's goods now in the Government street store.

Attorney Newton represented Crippen and looked after the welfare of Miss Leneve, while Barrister Travers Humphrey represented the crown.

Miss Leneve wore a heavy blue veil which she raised on facing the magistrate. Crippen and the girl were calm and collected. They listened intently to the proceedings.

While Inspector Dew was giving evidence as to the arrest, Crippen leaned forward and spoke to Newton, his counsel. The latter asked Dew if the prisoners had been arrested by him on July 31st. Dew replied that they were arrested by Canadian police. Replying further to Newton, Dew said the prisoners gave absolutely no trouble.

After a formal presentation of evidence, the prisoners were remanded to

MAKES A REFERENCE TO CHURCH UNION

Rev. Dr. Campbell Says Signs of Times All Point to Its Early Accomplishment

In his sermon last evening, Rev. Dr. Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, made an interesting reference to the question of Church Union, taking occasion to express his hearty approval of the recent action of the Methodist conference in passing a resolution favorable to union.

Dr. Campbell said that after the memorable debate at the conference on the question and the fine spirit in that behalf manifested by the members of the conference, and the large vote of six to one in favor of union, it was very fitting that a session of the Quadrennial conference should be held in a Presbyterian church, and circumstances had so shaped themselves that the session this evening will be held in First Presbyterian church, the pioneer of Presbyterianism west of Winnipeg.

"Surely," said Dr. Campbell, "coming events cast their shadows before. You had six Methodist ministers, members of Conference, preach to you for three Sundays, and I am sure you could not by their preaching, tell they were not Presbyterian ministers—which shows that union is coming and that nothing can stop it."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Selkirk, Man., Aug. 28.—William Hope was charged, before Magistrate Daly on Saturday with the murder of Frank Walter Smith at Blackbear fishing station, Lake Winnipeg. The widow of deceased said the victim had been a drinker until last Christmas, but had not touched liquor since. She told of a trader, Dave Chastellaine, bringing whiskey out to his house and at the subsequent revel and dinner. A quarrel between Chastellaine and Hope followed which the latter terminated by rushing out to a launch declaring he would murder the trader. Smith, seeing the man whose Indian blood was frenzied by whiskey, rushed to the boat. A moment later a shot which no one saw followed and Hope appeared with a smoking shot gun.

Cross-examination failed to shake the witness on any point, but she testified that Smith and Hope had been friends from childhood and also that Hope was a quiet mannered man when sober, but cranky, irritable, quarrelsome and vicious when in liquor. Dave Chastellaine, Nicolai, his son, Ellice Chastellaine, mother, and the prisoner's sister, Beatrice Kennedy, all gave corroborative testimony. The case was not concluded.

In Iceland men and women are in every respect political equals. The nation, which numbers about 70,000 people, is governed by representatives elected by men and women.

jail until September 6th, when they will be asked to plead.

As they were escorted from the courtroom, a great crowd outside the building attempted to rush the guard surrounding the prisoners.

After her return to jail Miss Leneve refused to see her father unless he promised to speak on casual subjects only and not refer to the Crippen case. She refused to be questioned by him regarding her relations with Crippen.

Finally her father consented and saw his daughter for a few minutes. Miss Leneve was the more agitated of the two and plainly showed that she wished the ordeal over.

GOMPERS ON LABOR SITUATION.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, prepared Saturday his annual Labor Day review for the Labor Day edition of the Federationist, the organ of the Federation, in which he says:

"The Federation never was in better fighting trim. The big international unions were never better provided with munitions for big struggles. I believe that I can read in the composite voice of the pulpit, press and platform the fact that the sentiment of the people has turned towards the necessity for the recognition of unionism."

Referring to the contempt cases pending in the federal court against

Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell, President Gompers says:

"Whoever sees that, in this matter, the rights of man are being menaced by the undue extension of the rights claimed—for property and that the courts are justly limited in powers by the constitution will also speedily see that the case is no mere petty matter of defiance of the courts by labor agitators, but concerns the future of every citizen in rights vital under the laws of the republic."

GUNBOAT WRECKED.

Lisbon, Aug. 28.—The Portuguese gunboat Tejo, of 533 tons, has been wrecked on Berlengas Island, a small rocky group off the west coast of Portugal, seventy miles north of Lisbon. The crew of eighty-five were saved.

Sir Charles Cameron says: "The advantages of using a paint which contains an effective microbe destroyer are obvious."

It Is the Most Sanitary Wall Paint of the Age

Its effect upon rooms is to make them look always clean, airy and spacious.

It is applied with a white-wash brush saving 40 per cent cost of labor.

It sets hard, kills vermin and disinfects; is washable in three weeks.

It neither cracks, blisters nor peels off. Does not fade or change color.

Made in a great variety of pleasing colors, including rich dark as well as light shades.

A special outside quality is made for use on stucco work, woodwork, brickwork, etc.

It makes walls that are a picture in themselves.

Specially prepared artistic stencil friezes are sold for Hall's Distemper Decoration.

Its undoubted merits are well proven by its immense demand all over the United Kingdom.

TRADE TO JAPAN ON INCREASE PULP AND FLOUR ARE IN GOOD DEMAND

Empress of Japan Brought Interesting Passengers and Further News of Great Floods

There are many opportunities for trade between this country and Japan according to G. A. Harris, Canadian trade commissioner, who arrived on Saturday on the Empress of Japan, and is passing through to attend the meeting to be held by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

There were a number of other noted passengers aboard the Empress. Father Huest, who came very near losing his life during the Boxer rebellion, and who during the siege of Kelgan led a number of sorties, is on his way east.

Further particulars were brought by the steamer of the serious floods in Japan, in regard to which the cables brought word. It was an awful scene when the water came up over the towns and villages, carrying away houses and drowning men, women and children by hundreds.

The Red Cross Society at once took the relief work in hand, and boats might be seen picking up those who were still able to cling to wreckage, but it was some time before any attention could be paid to the dozens of corpses which were everywhere.

The Empress had the usual silk, tea and other Oriental cargo which was taken to Vancouver to discharge.

BERNIER EXPEDITION IS BEING DISCUSSED

Australia Takes Interest in Recent Move of Dominion Government in Northern Regions

In connection with the Bernier expedition to the Arctic Ocean through the Northwest Passage the Daily Telegraph of Sydney, Australia, in a recent issue had an extremely interesting editorial reference as follows:

"The strength of the independent spirit in Canada is well exemplified by the mission which the Dominion government has entrusted to one of its officers, Captain Bernier. Captain Bernier is directed to take the steamer Arctic and pass through the Northwest Passage, annexing the islands there, and taking possession of all the available territories on behalf of Canada.

Indeed, the expedition could hardly have been dispatched except on that understanding. There have been times, however, when a colonial government, after annexing territory on behalf of Great Britain, applied for confirmation of its proceedings by the British government, and applied in vain.

READ THE TIMES

ADVANCE FASHIONS

The dresses designed for early fall wear are distinctly smart, although their general lines follow rather closely those of the models introduced during the later summer. There is still a decided leaning toward over-blouse and guimpe effects—a leaning which is clearly indicated in many of the waists and gowns intended for fall wear.
 Although the new narrow skirts and short jackets with straight lines will be seen on many of the smartest dressed women, the long tourist coat that everyone finds indispensable for practical wear will hold its own. Scotch tweeds, and rough finished worsteds with collar and facings of velvet in contrasting colors will be used in its manufacture. For dressy wear to accompany gowns of harmonizing color, velvet will be in the lead, this rich and always becoming fabric having come into its own. When one cannot afford this, velvet will provide a handsome and less costly substitute.

Some of the skirts now being introduced for fall are entirely novel in design, yet the novelties are so utterly different from one another that it may be said that no one distinctive style of skirt prevails.
 One of the most striking features of the newest skirt models is the evident effort of the designers to combine the fashionable effect of narrowness with the comfortable fullness that platts always afford. Although the skirts have practically no fullness they are wide enough to be comfortable, and because of the small amount of material used are light in weight. The walking skirts are short, some reaching only to the shoe tops. They may be either gored, circular, or platted, but they must be narrow. Panels front and back are stylish. The one object with the smart woman this season is to attain the flat effect at the back of her skirt, and the panel back certainly gives that desired flat appearance. The straight-line coats give rather a jaunty, boyish appearance to the wearer, and go well with the almost straight lines of the narrow skirts. It is distinctive of the coats designed for wear during the fall season that the narrow silk-onette is obtained in these garments as well as in dresses and skirts. In fact, the object seems to be to give the figure as slender an appearance as possible.

The popular fabrics of the fall of 1910 may be said to include two distinct classes, one embracing materials of rough weave, the other consisting of the panne-finished goods. The latter class, although counted among the novelties, is in reality but a new development of the same idea which has afforded us the kid-finished broadcloths, satin-finished cashmere and the rest of the smooth-surfaced materials. Panné cloth comes in the newest colors—such, for instance, as raven's-wing blue, snuff brown, tea-leaf green, burgundy, platinum gray, and nectarine purple. It comes in black too, of course, for all of the smart materials are seen in this somber but fashionable hue.

One-piece dresses for afternoon wear are being made of plain-toned cashmere. The chiffon panamas will also be much used for making upon these lines. These fabrics—for there are several varieties—are to be had this season in very fine and soft weaves, and are very desirable for general wear. Braided with silk soutache or rat-tail, such dresses are attractive and practical.
 The rough-weave fabrics are chiefly intended for development in two-piece suits and in separate skirts and coats; for notwithstanding the popularity of the one-piece dress, every woman must have at least one suit in her wardrobe. Basket-weave, hip-sacking, homespun, camel's hair, albine and boucle cloth will be extremely fashionable for suit purposes, as also will the serges, both rough and fine, the chevots of plain and fancy weaves, English whipcord, mannish effects in worsteds, and corduroy.

Buttons will play an important part in my lady's wardrobe this fall. Manufacturers are turning out the most wonderful works of art. Buttons covered with the material of the dress or suit, horse buttons harmonizing in color, brass, steel, jet and innumerable fancy open-work metal buttons are to be used extensively. Sometimes buttons will be the only trimming used, and both large and small ones will be seen on the gown. Other effective trimmings are pipings, cordings and bands of contrasting color and material. Pippings of Persian silk are especially smart. Metal and beaded fringes are seen on handsome gowns.

FRENCH LOTTERIES

END THIS YEAR
 Forty-One Authorized by the Government Will Be Wound Up

Within a few months the lottery of France will be a thing of the past. Modern progress looks with a severe eye on institutions which once were considered entirely innocent.

The first knowledge we have of the lottery taking root in France, says the Kansas City Star, is in the reign of Francis I. At the same time it was introduced into Holland and Switzerland.

In June, 1909, some Socialist deputies put before the chamber a bill to abolish the lottery. The assembled members were told that an institution that had been in existence before the Christian era was immoral and a swindle. These assertions raised a storm of opposition and indignation, as every lottery must be authorized by the government. The Socialists, however, had a strong ally in Clemenceau, then prime minister, and he declared that he also was against the lottery, and now that the question had been raised he would authorize no more and furthermore would do all in his power to liquidate those that were then in operation. Briand, the present prime minister, decreed the liquidation of all the lotteries—41 in number.

Practically all of the working people invest regularly in lottery tickets, but their outlay is generally on the 20-cent ticket, and on the days that the winning numbers are to be announced, lines of bareheaded women and men in working dress stand eagerly waiting on the pavement for the lucky number that is to make them rich. Grey-haired men who have played the game religiously for years and never had their hopes realized by one winning, continue their monthly risk and buy a ticket or two with expectation just as keen as the young men who for the first time in their life made their first venture in this fascinating game of chance.

All say to themselves, "If I win the lottery this month I will do so and so." This is the class that will feel most keenly the closing of the big game of chance. What future outlook is there for them, they argue.

The sudden acquisition of wealth by persons of the lower class often causes strange developments. Last year Mme. Hofer, who occupied the humble position of canteen woman in the 28th Dragoons at Sedan, made her monthly contribution to the lottery—a habit of years. Her faithfulness was rewarded by the big prize, $200,000. Her prosperity gladdened the hearts of a multitude of men, 46,000 of whom offered, in the next morning's post, their heart and hand. Thirty thousand others, not caring to deal with Cupid, modestly asked for sums of money. Mme. Hofer was not dazzled by her change of fortune to such an extent that her business instincts were smothered. On the contrary, she made a favorable deal with another woman, who bought out her rights as canteen woman. A persistent and ardent lieutenant of the 28th Dragoons won her affections and they were married in June, 1909. Army life suddenly becoming distasteful to the lucky bridegroom, he retired from the service and they started house-keeping at St. Maude, a suburb of Paris.

This wonderful transformation in the life of a canteen woman inspired a Frenchman's pen and a novel has been the outcome. It is called "The Cantiniere's Millions."

 A case of French fidelity was shown when Mathilde Cavilles won a prize of $100,000. She was pretty and extremely poor. When it was known that she had won a large stake at the lottery the most flattering offers of marriage were received by her, even members of the nobility being willing to bestow their titles upon her. Mathilde's young head was not turned by these offers, all of which were refused. She married the simple workman to whom she was engaged, bought a fine piece of property and gathered around her under the same roof the parents of both sides.

HOME LIFE IN JAPAN AND IN OLD RUSSIA

Amelie Rives Filled With Admiration for the Love of Family Ties There

"The Russians are the greatest lovers in the world," said Hallie Ermine Rives-Wheeler, author, who has just arrived in Washington from St. Petersburg, where her husband is in charge of the American Embassy. "Of all the international marriages in Russia I do not know of any that are not happy. Russians have much sentiment as well as chivalry. They do not marry for money. They live by the heart, and that is the safest ground on the road to happiness."

Mrs. Rives-Wheeler, continuing, talked enthusiastically of her new home. "St. Petersburg is full of a charm all its own," she said. "A city of golden domes, bells and snow, and three-horse sleighs with velvet capped coachmen five feet across in green or violet-fur-lined livery. There is a splendor, and sparkle to the winter streets entirely unlike other cities I have seen. The houses are heated by birchwood, in porcelain stoves. Their method of heating is perfect, and when I look out of my window it is hard to believe that it is twenty degrees below zero."

"Many sides of the life there have interested me, but for color and music and poetry of motion the Royal Ballet is completely satisfying. "The dancing is as graceful as the flight of swallows. They begin their career of training when they are five or six years of age, and in fifteen or twenty years they retire on a pension. Just before I started home I went to the Swan Lake Ballet—the night a favorite premier danseuse retired from the stage."

"After the second act the curtain went up on a scene different from any I had ever witnessed. Flowers were banked in the background of tables full of silver, gold plate and jewels, and the entire ballet and its managers gathered about the premier danseuse—the little human-poem with white wings about her waist and hair—waiting for the swan song of her career. The stage manager made the first speech and presented her with a jewel and put a wreath about her head. Each member of the ballet gave her a present and kissed her goodbye. She received $100,000 worth of jewels and silver—one pendant was a twenty-two karat diamond. Russian salt stands were presented by a scene shifter, whose legs tottered with stage fright before that company he had so long served in the background. The little danseuse gave him both her hands in warmest gratitude."

"After the last dance she was called before the curtain and the audience covered the stage with laurel wreaths and flowers. It was a beautiful sight to see that heart-farewell between the audience and its favorite. It was whispered that somewhere in that crowd a man wanted to take the danseuse home as his bride—a man of great fortune. "The long white nights of Russia seem strange to the foreigner. During June I could read and write without artificial light until 11 o'clock at night. People who go camping during that period have to paint their tents black so they can sleep. "It is lovely to get home again," said Mrs. Rives-Wheeler. "although I scarcely know New York with all of its new 'sky scrubbers,' as the Japanese call our high buildings. This is my second journey around the world in four years. When we were living at the Embassy in Tokio I made the Trans-Siberian trip with President and Mrs. Taft. My husband will join me later, as he is now in charge of the embassy. His leave of absence follows the return of the Ambassador. I will go on to Bar Harbor."

"The Rule—To make the best Pan-cakes you ever ate, mix sweet milk and water with Olympic Pan-Cake Flour. Cook on a hot griddle. Some cooks use an egg. Use no salt, yeast, soda or baking powder."

FIGHT FOR CASTLE OF DUNSTAFFRAGE

Suit Brought by Duke of Argyll Against Angus John Campbell

The hearing began a short time ago in the Court of Session, Edinburgh, before Lord Cullen, of an action brought by the Duke of Argyll against Mr. Angus John Campbell, of Dunstaffnage, Argyllshire, for a declaration that the Castle of Dunstaffnage belongs to the plaintiff, and that the defendant has no title to it. The Duke states that the castle was conveyed to him when his family acquired the Barony of Lorne from the Stuarts in 1470. The defendant claims that he and his ancestors have hereditary rights as captains of Dunstaffnage since 1478, a date prior to the acquisition of the Barony by the Duke's ancestors, and that the castle has been occupied for centuries by his ancestors as the manor house of the estate.

The castle is a famous one in many ways. It at one time harbored the Sacred Stone of Scone, now on the seat of the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey. It is supposed to be the castle described by Sir Walter Scott in his novel, "The Legend of Montrose." The first witness called was Mr. Niall Diarmid Campbell, a grandson of the late Duke of Argyll and a nephew of the present Duke. He gave evidence on the historical aspect of the case from the time of King Robert Bruce, and said that in 1467 John Stewart, who was then Lord of Lorne, was murdered in Dunstaffnage Castle. His brother, Walter Stewart, then became Lord of Lorne, but resigned in favor of the first Earl of Argyll, who had been married to the eldest daughter of John Stewart.

In 1470 (the witness continued) the Earl of Argyll received a Great Seal charter granting him the Lordship of Lorne, and under that title he and his descendants had possessed the Lordship of Lorne and the Castle of Dunstaffnage to the present day. On his own resignation of the lordship the Earl of Argyll in 1540 received a Crown charter of the lands of Lochawe and others, which had been extended in a new barony, of which Dunstaffnage Castle was made the principal message. Sometimes, although an estate was given off, the castle was the witness said, retained by the family. On the death of the late captain of Dunstaffnage, the witness, representing the Duke of Argyll, formally invested the defendant with the key as the symbol of his office. The Duke's view was that the defendant was merely the keeper of the fortress under the Duke. The Duke considered it necessary in the interests of the upkeep of the castle that any encroachment by fear on his historic rights should be repelled, but he had authorized the witness to say that he had no intention of ejecting the defendant, and did not consider it necessary to move for a decree to that effect.

Cross-examined, the witness said that when the castle was recently repaired he thought the Duke obtained a subscription of two. Counsel said he supposed it was not his Grace's practice to obtain public subscriptions to repair his own property. The witness, amid laughter, replied that he thought they should all do that if they had any chance of it. The defendant, giving evidence, said that he was the twentieth hereditary captain of Dunstaffnage. He produced a genealogical tree which carried his ancestry back to Ionganeach, or the "Wonderful." The present Duke, he said, was descended from the eldest son of that ancestor, and the witness' family from his fourth son, Dugald Mor, who was reckoned the first captain of Dunstaffnage. The witness produced the Dunstaffnage manuscript book, which had been written up from time to time by various ancestors. In 1823 Neil Campbell, the fifteenth captain of Dunstaffnage, wrote in the book that Ionganeach gave the castle and lands of Dunstaffnage to his son, Dugald Mor, whose son, Dugald Oig, married the daughter of Lord Drummond.

The witness' ancestors lived in the castle till the present mansion house was built in 1810. The Duke had told him that the King did not wish him to live in the castle. The Duke wished to make the castle an attractive place for visitors. Cross-examined: His duties as captain were to keep the castle safe from the King's enemies. His idea was to rebuild the castle and live in it. It was his view that the castle belonged to him in property. His mother had frequently given garden parties at the castle.

Mrs. Jane Campbell, widow of the nineteenth captain of Dunstaffnage, said her late husband did not regard the Duke as having any right of property in the castle. The trouble between the present Duke and the captain of the castle seems to have originated in 1903, when a society was formed for the preservation and the restoration of historic monuments and buildings in Scotland. As the society was able to dispose of considerable funds, appeals were addressed to it in behalf of Dunstaffnage Castle both by the captain of the castle and by the Duke, but independently of each other. Each protested against the other's putting himself forward as the owner of the castle and as entitled to the money which might be obtained from the society, and this led to the present suit as to the ownership, which, in view of the evidence offered, can hardly go otherwise than in favor of the Duke of Argyll, though it does seem that a man whose office as hereditary captain of the castle dates back to times prior to its acquisition by the lords of Argyll in 1470 should have some rights to a place which has been the home of his family for six centuries.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE
Late estimates on the percentage of recoveries under the new emollient treatment for Bright's Disease are as follows: Where patient is much weakened and crises may be expected in from five to ten days, probably not more than 10 per cent. aid with efforts to restrain fatal symptoms this percentage is increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life the efficiency is very much higher. Where patients do not wait until bed-ridden probably three-fourths yield. And in cases that take the new emollient treatment on the appearance of the disease nearly nine out of ten respond. Albumen Casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and physical system are broken down. The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Renal Compound. It can be had in Victoria at D. E. Campbell's drug store. We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week. Literature mailed free. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 28 Battery Street, San Francisco, CAL. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

The witness, amid laughter, replied that he thought they should all do that if they had any chance of it. The defendant, giving evidence, said that he was the twentieth hereditary

NELSON COUNCIL DROPS PUBLICITY GRANT
City Solicitor Writes on Legal Aspect—Labor Unions Are Opposed to Proposal

Nelson, Aug. 27.—In consequence of a letter from City Solicitor A. M. Johnson and objections raised by a delegation from the local labor unions, the much-discussed question of a grant from the city in aid of the publicity bureau of the board of trade was dropped when the matter again came before the city council, having been laid over from the previous meeting.

The city solicitor wrote that while the city council had powers under the Municipal Clauses act to grant money for the purpose of advertising the city and its educational, manufacturing and other advantages it had no power to give any financial aid to advertising the district around Nelson.

J. W. Holmes, representing the labor unions, said that he presumed the publicity undertaking by that department of the board of trade was directed largely to developing the district outside Nelson. He did not consider that Nelson had sufficient industries or a large enough payroll to make it advisable for more workers to be attracted to the city. He thought that it would be unfair to take money out of the ratepayers' pockets for such a purpose. I. A. Austin, another labor union delegate, spoke to the same effect. J. B. Boyce, representing the machinists, claimed that the country had lost rather than gained by the advertising that had already been done.

Ald. McDonald, as mover of the resolution to make a grant of $50 per month to the publicity bureau, said that his sole object in advising such a course was the development of Nelson. He believed that although the city had not at present any manufacturing industries it would be quite easy to get them if the right kind of men got to work.

Ald. Currie, according to the opinion of the city solicitor we have no power to make a grant to be used in advertising the district.

The Mayor, when the delegation asking for the grant came before the council, it was the contention of P. G. Ebbutt that the advertising would contribute to the bringing in of people who would take up land on the outside and who would trade in Nelson.

Ald. McDonald: Nelson owes her prestige almost wholly to the wholesale houses who distribute their goods all through the district. The C. P. R. and the wholesale houses are the largest employers of labor in the city and both draw much of their business from outside places.

Ald. Mackenzie: I am personally opposed to the grant. There is plenty of opportunity to expend the city's funds within the city. I think that the wholesalers ought to do the advertising as they are the largest gainers by it.

Ald. McDonald: I am not thinking of my own business at all.

Ald. Mackenzie: I don't mean to suggest that.

The legal aspect of the case was again mentioned and the subject was shelved.

AUDITOR'S ADVICE ON CIVIC MATTERS
M. B. Cotsworth Submits Another Report to City Council of New Westminster

New Westminster, Aug. 27.—Auditor Cotsworth submitted another report at the last meeting of the city council. It was mostly composed of advice on the conduct of civic affairs. He strongly urged the necessity for adopting a better system at the council meetings whereby so much time would not be wasted in the hearing and discussion of trivial matters. He suggested additions to the staff in the city clerk's and city treasurer's office and wound up with a final reply to the letters which had been written in reference to his report.

In the course of his remarks he stated that he had amended the statement he had made in the early report concerning Ald. Jardine.

Ald. Jardine rose to remark that he had considered the statement in the report as a reflection on his integrity. Auditor Cotsworth remarked that it touched him in a way, but was more of an incident to his position than as a result of any actions on his part. He admitted that it was more the fault of the system than of any of the aldermen that such things could happen, and remarked that he had amended the report referring to Ald. Jardine as he had found out that he had been wrongly informed on the subject.

During the course of the auditor's remarks there was no bitterness or ill-feeling apparent, and at the close of the address Mayor Lee thanked him for his work and wished him a safe journey to England.

AUTHORITY OF CITY COUNCIL DOUBTED
Vancouver Solicitor to Be Asked As to Power to Regulate Hours of Liquor Selling

Vancouver, Aug. 27.—The motion of License Commissioner Crehan, of which he gave notice at the last meeting of the board, for the purpose of compelling brewers and wholesale liquor dealers to sell only to retailers, was dropped without seconder at the meeting held by the board.

Commissioner Crehan, in speaking to his resolution, stated that at present there was a great deal of drinking on Sundays and during prohibited hours, and hotelkeepers put the blame, he had seen thirteen empty kegs taken out of one place on Prior street on a Sunday morning, and had seen half a dozen drunken men on Powell street on Sunday afternoon. This system of selling wholesale to individuals led to the establishment of "blind pigs," where the liquor was sold and consumed, and it was something they should endeavor to put a stop to.

Commissioner Findlay said that if there were "blind pigs" it was a matter for the police and not for the license commissioners.

Commissioner Crehan's motion found no seconder, and was dropped.

Commissioner Crehan said that some time ago they passed a resolution that if a man got drunk in a hotel he should be taken home or the chief of police notified. He had read of a man on Powell street who was run over on the highway track and killed while apparently under the influence of liquor.

Another matter he heard complained of was the amount of drinking on Sunday. Hotelkeepers should be taught that they must observe the law.

The mayor said he did not see how they could keep closer watch on the hotels than they were doing at present.

Commissioner Edgett, referring to the proposal of the city council to shorten the hours for liquor selling in hotels, said he had been informed on good authority that the council did not have power to change the hours.

The mayor said he would ask the city solicitor to give an opinion on that question at the next meeting of the city council.

CITIZENS' LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS
Efforts Will Be Made to Increase Membership Roll at Cumberland

Cumberland, Aug. 27.—A meeting of the Citizens' League was held in the council chambers. The by-laws were taken clause by clause and finally adopted. With some minor improvements the election of officers resulted as follows: James Reid, president; W. Willard, vice-president; Edward Bickle, secretary; Joseph Shaw, treasurer; with a board of management consisting of Messrs. J. N. McLeod, C. H. Tarbell, Thomas Bickle and W. Suddall.

It was decided that a canvas be made of all the business men to join the league.

The secretary was instructed to write Hon. William Tompman, the representative for this district, to secure for this city a custom house.

DEATH OF OLD-TIMER.
Princeton, Aug. 27.—One of the oldest of the pioneers of the province in the person of Angus Lamont, has crossed the Great Divide. Born at Eramosa, Ontario, some seventy-two years ago, he came to British Columbia as a young man, when the gold fever was at its height. He went to Cariboo in the early sixties, mingling in the great stampede of gold hunters which was then taking place, finally, after a varied run of luck in mining, he settled down on his ranch at Ashcroft. The deceased sold his ranch about four years ago. Four of the palebearers were fellow gold diggers in Cariboo, their combined ages stretching back nearly three centuries, viz: Hon. Edgar Dewdney, ex-minister of the interior and former lieutenant-governor of the Northwest Territories and also of British Columbia; Col. Robert Stevenson, Hugh Campbell and Samuel Pearce. The deceased leaves a wife, sister in Ontario and other relatives.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL.
Summerland, Aug. 27.—In response to a communication received from the school trustees, asking the council to pass a by-law for the purpose of raising the sum of $2,500 by debentures for a new High school, the clerk was instructed to frame the necessary by-law at an early date as possible.

Just as he was stepping on the train the archdeacon was handed a purse well filled with gold, along with an address.

WHAT IS ITCH DIRT?
It is the old Anglo-Saxon name for Dandruff and it's a good one. If you have dandruff you have itchy dirt and the little microbes that are part and parcel of dandruff are working persistently night and day, and sooner or later will reach the very life of your hair and destroy its vitality.

Then you'll be bald—Bald to stay—for not even the wonderful rejuvenating properties in Parisian Sage can grow hair after the hair bulb or root is dead. Parisian Sage cures Dandruff. D. E. Campbell, the druggist, sells it—recommends it and guarantees it; only 50 cents a large bottle and your money back if it fails to cure Dandruff, Falling Hair and Itching of the Scalp.

TECHNICAL POINT UPHELD.
Vancouver, Aug. 27.—There was another round in the police court in the much-defamed case of Nicola Collins, and Joe Sim, charged first with smuggling, then with unlawfully importing, and thirdly with having it in possession knowing that it had been unlawfully imported. J. A. Russell, counsel for Collins, had won the first round on the argument that it was impossible to smuggle an article like prepared opium. The importation of which was altogether forbidden in Canada. Mr. Kennedy withdrew the second charge, and proceeded under the third charge of having it in possession. He also withdrew entirely the charges against Joe and You Quan, who had been captured while trying to wrest a sack of opium from Joe Sim.

After hearing the evidence all over again, and listening to more argument, Magistrate Bull decided that a case of having the opium in unlawful possession had been made out, and fined Collins $200 and Joe Sim $100.

NARROW ESCAPE.
H. C. Schultness Struck by Train While Driving Across the Railway Track.
Vernon, Aug. 27.—H. C. Schultness of Coldstream, had an extremely narrow escape from sudden death the other morning. He was driving along Gore street in an easterly direction about the time that the morning train was due. There were three freight cars on the spur leading into the power house, and these obscured the view of the track. Although the engine whistled loudly at the mile post, Mr. Schultness did not hear it, as there was a high wind blowing, and the rumble of his heavy farm wagon deafened all other sounds. As he pulled round the corner of the cars on the spur he saw the train approaching, and attempted to urge his horses across the track in front of it. The engine, however, struck the wagon, hurling the horses and vehicle several yards down the track. One of the horses was instantly killed, while the other escaped with slight injuries. The wagon was completely wrecked, parts of it being smashed into kindling wood. Mr. Schultness was pitched out and fell some distance away on the side of the track. Assistance was at once procured, and he was driven to the hospital, where it was found that beyond a few bruises and contusions he was not much the worse of his thrilling experience.

DIVISIONAL POINT.
Penticton Ratepayers Ratify Agreement With Kettle Valley Railway Company.
Penticton, Aug. 27.—As the result of the vote passed in this municipality, which was almost unanimously in favor of ratifying the agreement between the Kettle Valley railroad and the council, a right-of-way will be located and actual construction work will be commenced in this district by the railroad this fall. The railroad company has secured the location of its right-of-way in the municipality outside of the new townsite. It has also been given the right to use either Winnipeg or Martin street as a right-of-way thought the town to the waterfront, where a depot and a wharf will be constructed.

Penticton, President Warren states, will be the principal inter-terminal divisional point on the Kettle Valley system and extensive yards and car shops will be constructed here.

WEDDED AT NANAIMO.
Nanaimo, Aug. 27.—A pretty marriage ceremony was performed Thursday at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Patterson, Selby street, when their third eldest daughter, Miss Margaret, was united in marriage to Mr. James Murray, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. McLeod.

The bride was given away by her father, and was attended by her sister, Miss Jeannie Patterson, the groom being supported by his brother, Mr. William Murray. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and chain, and to the bridesmaid a gold ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray left to-day on a honeymoon tour, which will include visits to Victoria, Seattle and other Sound cities.

TRaverse ROUTE OF GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC
Chief Engineer Kelliher and Party at Prince Rupert—More Contracts to Be Let Prince Rupert, Aug. 27.—Chief Engineer Kelliher, Mr. Lewis, grandson of Mr. Schrieber, and Mr. Stewart, of Foley, Welch & Stewart, arrived on the steamer Operator. They have just come through the overland route from Edmonton following the G. T. R. right-of-way. The trip was a long one but it was made in good time and travelling was as comfortable as possible and every day produced something new so that the party did not suffer from monotony.

Mr. Stewart made an inspection of Foley, Welch & Stewart's contract from Edmonton four hundred miles west, and then from Fort George to Prince Rupert. The contracts are both getting along very favorably, but there is a shortage of men in every camp. The labor is not in the country and can not be procured. Several thousand more men are required and would be paid the highest wages.

At Fort George the party were joined by Mr. Van Arsdol, who accompanied them to town. So far as their trip and its object was concerned the party had nothing to say.

The eastern contract of Foley, Welch & Stewart will have reached the summit this fall and the western contract is getting on towards Aldermere. The right-of-way is cleared that far now. There are only four hundred miles left between the Edmonton contract and the Prince Rupert contract and that work will be given out this fall. It is a heavy stretch of country, very much like this end, although the heaviest work of all is the first hundred miles from Prince Rupert. The supplies for the connecting link will be taken up the Fraser river by boat, the same as the supplies are taken up the Skeena, and the contractors on that line will have to rush the construction of steamers this winter to be ready for the spring work.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

Backward, turn backward, O time, in thy flight! Give us some snow again, just for to-night! Give us a blast from the boreal shore, shaking the windows and rattling the door! I am so weary of weather that fries, I am so weary of swatting the flies, weary of swearing in truculent tones, weary of blowing my ill-gotten bones down at the drug store, for fizz-stuff in cans, weary of sitting by rickety fans. Auntie, come back from the shadowy shore, dope me for chilblains again, as of yore; talk about gundrops and other things nice—put me on ice, auntie, put me on ice! Backward, turn backward, O tide of the years! Give us some frost-bitten fingers and ears! Give us a blizzard, with all kinds of sleet, give us a stem-winding storm and repeat! Auntie, who loved me in time long ago, bring to your dear little Willie some snow! I have been baking until I'm well done; I have been sizzling away in the sun; I have been cooked in the old German style; I have been fricasseed, mile after mile; I am all scrambled and ready to serve; I am reduced to a bundle of nerve. Come, then, and save me—one move will suffice—put me on ice, auntie, put me on ice!

TRAINING OF KING EDWARD

QUARTERLY REVIEW'S INTERESTING STUDY

Working From Intimate Knowledge, Writer Goes Into Close Analysis of His Character

The Daily Mail, in a recent issue, says: Seldom in history can there have appeared shortly after the death of a sovereign, so intimate and close an analysis of his character as that which is published in the July issue of the Quarterly Review? The writer of the extraordinarily interesting article, entitled "The Character of King Edward VII," has had the advantage of studying, by permission of His Majesty the King, many private papers in the royal archives of Windsor Castle, and he has added to them the Letters from Sarah Lady Lytton, 1797-1870, which have been privately published. Clearly working with much intimate knowledge in addition to these sources of information, and being, as clearly, a wise, broad-minded, fearless, and discriminating critic, it is not too much to say that this writer has made a permanent contribution to history which every intelligent student of the present dynasty should read.

King Edward was born at a critical period of our history. The country was far from prosperous, grave political conflicts were in progress, the great achievement of Queen Victoria's reign—the revival of the prestige of the crown—was but just begun. Yet, as Lady Lytton, the prince's first governess, shows, never was child more sedulously watched over by his parents: "Nothing—not the smallest thing—was left to chance. Not a week, not a day, not an hour of the time of this precious youth could safely or properly be wasted. Other ladies might occasionally run loose in the spring time, and for other boys it might be legitimate to plunge into the region of romance. But for this boy the pages even of Sir Walter Scott were closed, and he must concentrate, ever concentrated, upon 'modern languages' upon history, upon 'the sciences'." Daily, almost hourly, the Queen and the Prince kept watch and ward over those entrusted with the care of their son. Within the walls of Buckingham Palace or Windsor Castle letters and notes constantly passed, and have been carefully and elaborately preserved.

Queen Victoria's Memoranda. It is the extracts from these notes which give its chief interest to the first part of this article. We are thus presented, more fully and more confidentially than has ever been the case before, with the story of how a boy was prepared by able and devoted parents to become a great King. No detail was too small for these parents' loving scrutiny. When the prince was fifteen Queen Victoria writes to him about dress—for he had hitherto preferred to buy hats and ties and toilet accessories out of his own moderate allowance.

"Dress," she writes, "is a trifling matter which ought not to be raised to too much importance in our own eyes. But it gives also the one outward sign from which people in general can and often do judge upon the internal state of mind and feeling of a person, for they all see, whilst the other they cannot see. On that account it is of some importance, particularly in persons of high rank. I must now say that we do not wish to control your own taste and fancies, which, on the contrary, we wish you to indulge and develop, but we do expect that you will never wear anything extravagant or slang, not because we don't like it, but because it would prove a want of self-respect and be an offence against decency, leading—as it has often done before, in others—to an indifference to what is morally wrong."

On his seventeenth birthday—an important occasion, for the prince had been appointed a colonel in the army and had received the Order of the Garter—a long memorandum is addressed to him by his parents. Every sentence is full of loving counsel, and is worth reading.

"A new sphere of life will open for you in which you will have to be taught what to do and what not to do, a subject requiring study more important than any in which you have hitherto been engaged. For it is a subject of study and the most difficult one of your life, how to become a good man and a thorough gentleman."

"To the servants and those below you, you will always be courteous and kind, remembering that by having engaged to serve you in return for certain money payments they have not surrendered their dignity which belongs to them as brother men and brother Christians. You will try to sympathize yourself as much as possible from the thraldom of abject dependence for your daily wants of life on your servants. The more you can do for yourself and the less you need others, memory, conversational powers—"one of the best conversationalists in Europe," he calls him. And, finally, summing up a full and brilliant life, in masterly phrase he counts King Edward, by virtue of character, strong, firm, brave in quality, as "beyond all question in the category of the great."

HISTORY OF THE ROYAL STANDARD OF BRITAIN

Queen Mother's New Flag Shows That Science of Heraldry is Not Yet Dead

It is interesting to note that the Queen Mother Alexandra has caused her own standard to be hoisted above Buckingham Palace while she is in residence there, says the Montreal Star. The arrangement of this standard shows that the Science of Heraldry is not a dead one, as some would have us believe, although of nothing like the importance that it was in the age of chivalry. Following the ancient and honorable laws of Heraldry the Queen Mother's Standard is a combination of those of England and Denmark.

There are few people who cannot tell you something of the story of the Union Jack, but of the history of the Royal Standard of Great Britain most people are ignorant. Various writers have from time to time assigned armorial bearings to every one of the Saxon kings of England, but as in the pre-Norman age no heavy disguising armor was worn, necessitating the use of distinguishing marks, it is very probable that they are absolutely fictitious.

Although some historians state that the Norman kings of England bore two gold lions on a red shield, the first sovereign for whose armorial bearings we have contemporary authority is King Richard Coeur de Lion, who, in the first part of his reign employed a red shield with two gold lions on it standing erect and facing one another—to use Heraldic language, "Two lions combatant." On the seal which he employed during the latter part of his reign, however, there appear three gold lions on a red shield; with the right forepaw raised; to again employ Heraldic terms, "Three lions, passant guardant in pale."

The same coat-armour was born by King John of evil memory, as well as by his successors Henry III, Edward I, and Edward II. On January 24th, 1340, King Edward III, commenced to reign over the two kingdoms of France and England and in token of this, combined the arms of France—a blue shield speckled with golden lilies—to those of England.

For some time these combined shields were recognized in England, if not in France, as the Royal Arms. When Charles VI, ascended the throne of France, however, he was so annoyed at the perseverance of England, in bearing his arms that he altered his own coat by reducing the number of lilies to three. Henry V of England, not to be outwitted by his neighbor, altered his arms in exactly the same manner.

The Royal Arms of England, therefore, continued to be three gold lilies on a blue field until the reign of Queen Mary, when the arms of Spain were added to those of England through the marriage of the Queen to King Philip of Spain.

With the return of a Protestant sovereign the old arms were again brought into use. In 1603 the crosses of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick were united to form the Union Jack and at the same time the familiar Harp of Ireland, and Lion of Scotland were added to the arms of England and France to form King James' Standard.

There was no further change in the Royal Standard, until 1688 when William III and Mary were elected joint sovereigns and the arms of Nassau were added to the Standard. Queen Anne reverted to the Stuart Standard, which continued to be the personal flag of the Royal House until 1801, when, by a clause in the Treaty of Amiens, the arms of France which had been borne by the English sovereigns for four hundred years were at length abandoned.

In this way has the Royal Standard as used by King George V, and quartered by the Queen Mother to-day been gradually evolved from the "Three Lions passant guardant" of King Richard Coeur de Lion.

There may, however, soon be yet another change, for lately there has been no little agitation in Wales that that country should be represented in the Standard. Whether the Heraldic to whom the decision in all such matters belongs—will allow this Principality to rank with the Kingdoms of England, Scotland and Ireland, remains to be seen.
