PRINCIPAL MOYSE TELLS HIGH SCHOOL FACTS TO THE REALTY BOARD

Declares School System Faces Crisis; Twice Plant Failed to Keep Up With Growth of Registration

MUST BE NO THIRD FAILURE, HE DECLARES Never Any Question of Need of Junior High for the Northwest Section of the City, But of Possibility of Obtaining Sufficient Acreage

Professor George U. Moise, principle of the Glendale Union high school, spoke before one of the best attended meetings of the realty board of the year.

He told the members of the board and their guests of the plans that are being developed by the high school board for the erection of a new high school on the recently acquired tract in the east side of the city. He also told the plans of the board as regards a junior high school for the northwest side of town. Thomas D. Watson, president of the high school board, was present at the dinner and said a few words regarding the school plans for this city.

"It is our excellent schools that have made Glendale a popular home city. At present the school system is facing a critical time as it is entering a new era of development," Mr. Moise said in opening his address. He told of the growth of the Glendale High school system and said that it has now reached the capacity of the present buildings and that there is not sufficient space on the property for the erection of more rooms.

Six hundred thousand dollars was, at the time of the bond election, set as the figure for the new high school building. The sum was set at $600,000 then because at that time that sum was approximately the bonding capacity of the city.

A reliable architect was engaged to draft plans for the new building and in his report to the board he stated that the money voted for this high school was not sufficient to carry out the plans of the board for a structure of the broad plane desired and of pretensions equal to the property and to accommodate the students of the future if the city continued to grow as it has done in the past year or so.

A mass meeting was called at the time and the people of Glendale were asked to decide whether the school board should use only the $600,000 voted for the high school or to go ahead with their plan for a progressive high school that would look to the future in accommodating the growth of the city. They were also asked to decide whether or not the school board should raise the money for this progressive program through the sale of the present high school site. It was the unanimous opinion of those attending this first mass meeting that the present high school site should be retained for use in the school system.

Tonight there is to be a mass meeting at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium to discuss three questions regarding the school future of Glendale. The first question is: Shall the high school board go ahead and authorize the building of a plant to accommodate the 2500 pupils that are expected within the next few years?

The second question is: Shall the high school board secure a site on the northwest side of the city to be used as a junior high school?

The third question is regarding the re-organization of the entire school system of the city on a bigger and better basis with one board acting for both the city and the high schools.

Mr. Moise said that the high school having failed twice to keep up with the growth of the city there should be no failure this time. He said that the answer to this is to build a school large enough to accommodate the children of the future. This needs money and will require more bonds now that the people have decided that the present high school property must be retained in the system.

There has never been a question of whether or not there should be a

Trifles Are Prone To Upset Routine Of Daily Life

Trifles in our routine of everyday life upset us and make us cross, says Della Stewart this evening in her friendly little chat on the roughness of life such as missing a trolley, the failure of the baker's wagon to make its appearance. Then she cites a little lesson on the forbearance of our grandmothers who thought nothing of mixing biscuits by candle light. Della Stewart's articles are always filled with interest for she has such an intimate knowledge of human nature. You will especially enjoy her article on this evening's editorial page.

The eternal struggle is the theme for James W. Foley's "Listening Post" today, and one of his witty lines reads thus: "Our weakness is sometimes our strength." In the course of his paragraphs he says "the struggle is eternally old and eternally new." You will find a wealth of philosophy in Mr. Foley's contribution this evening, as always.

There's Henry James' comment on news of the day which is filled with good thoughts, the result of contemplation of what is going on in the world these days. Today he writes about automobilists, those who do the driving. It's all interesting.

ENGINEERS QUIT JOLIET TROUBLE ZONE

Authorized to Stop Operating Switch Engines Under Guard

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10. — Members of the big railroad brotherhoods employed in the Rock Island railroad yards, Chicago, today were authorized by brotherhood heads not to operate switch engines in the trouble zone at Joliet until the danger has been removed.

The authorization followed an appeal from the Rock Island employees that their lives were endangered by entering the riot district.

"Brotherhood members at Chicago today were telegraphed not to enter the Joliet district until the irresponsible guard and troop men have been removed," D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of locomotive firemen and engine men said.

Word was received here by brotherhood chiefs today that their Illinois Central members had been served with an ultimatum by striking miners.

In effect, the ultimatum was: "Stop carrying nonunion coal or take the consequences."

The brotherhood chiefs were notified that trains operated by members had been fired upon by coal strike sympathizers all along the line, from the Kentucky coal fields to Chicago.

Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of locomotive engineers and D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of firemen and engine men, today sent this message to their members on the Illinois Central:

"Your lives are endangered by that condition, don't work."

ASSASSINS OF FIELD MARSHAL EXECUTED

Effort to Save Lives of Murderers of Sir Henry Wilson, Fail

LONDON, Aug. 10.—Reginald Dunn and Joseph O'Sullivan, assassins of Sir Henry Wilson, were executed at 8 o'clock this morning.

An eleven-hour effort to save the lives of the two failed when the attorney general refused to grant their appeal to the house of lords. Names of prominent persons were included in the petition for the appeal, which bore 20,000 signatures.

OIL INDUSTRY PROBE COMING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Recommendations that a commission be established to regulate the oil industry may result from the senatorial investigation of high gasoline prices. Some members of the committee are known to believe that only in this way can the public be protected against exorbitant charges for gasoline.

This was indicated today as reports to the special committee tended to show that a "tacit agreement" existed among so-called standard producers in regard to arbitrary price setting.

HIGH SCHOOL TRUSTEES OUTLINE FEATURES OF BOND MEETING TONIGHT

Clear, Definite Statement of Objects to Be Gained in Organization of New Plant on Complete Basis Now

$90,000 POSSIBLE INVESTMENT, NORTHWEST

Bonding Capacity of the High School Section on August 11 Advanced to $550,000, but $350,000 Is Total Amount of Proposed Issue

A clear exposition of high school financing of possibilities for future development, in connection with the projects before the mass meeting tonight at the high school, to discuss the site for the northwest side and for the completion of the new plant, is given in a statement issued today by the trustees.

In all there will be tomorrow, $550,000 borrowing capacity available; of this only $350,000 will be needed to complete the plant and buy a site on the northwest, the figure for the latter being placed at $90,000 as a tentative maximum.

The statement, which elaborates previous explanations, dwells on danger of wasting money and facing congestion.

At the mass meeting called for 8:00 p. m. tonight at the high school auditorium the following subjects will come up for discussion:

(a) The proposed bond issue to complete the plant on Verdugo road site, as per plans submitted.

(b) The purchase of a high school site in the northwest part of the city of Glendale.

(c) The use of the present high school plant.

(d) The establishment of junior high schools.

(e) And the further development of our school systems, including all the schools in the Glendale Union High school district.

First on the list of subjects under consideration is the proposed bond issue to complete the plant on Verdugo road according to plans submitted. The plans referred to are for a plant complete in all departments, with a capacity of 2,500 students.

The amount of $600,000 which was voted at the last bond election is not enough to build a plant as suggested, but will only build one, if all departments are included large enough to accommodate about 1500 students.

The architect figures he could build a plant for 2,000 students for this amount, but the shops and gymnasiums would not be provided for. Demand in the Glendale Union High school district is for vocational subjects.

Last year's increase over the year before was 38.7 per cent—this next term will likely show a corresponding gain and if the same ratio is carried out by the time the plant is completed, the high school enrollment will be nearly 3,000 students.

If the present plant takes care of the ninth grade, the senior high school would have a probable enrollment on the opening day of about 2,100, and junior high schools, if inaugurated, would have approximately 900 from the ninth grade.

From an economical viewpoint it will be quite a saving to build the larger plant at this time, instead of building it in piecemeal.

The trustees, after a careful investigation, have reached the conclusion that to build the proposed plant on Verdugo road to take care of 2,500 students, will cost about $600,000, which would mean that it would take approximately $260,000 from a new bond issue to complete the plant.

The next subject under consideration is a site in the northwest section of Glendale.

Most citizens, knowing the growth of the district and with a knowledge of the rapid advance in real estate values, will recognize that unless we provide a site in that section soon, there will be none available at any price.

With a senior high school on Verdugo road and Broadway, one junior high school in the present high school plant and another in the new intermediate school building at Park and Glendale avenue, it will be necessary to have another high school plant in the northwest and maybe other sections, before many years.

Among the sites offered, one may be chosen which will answer the needs from both an educational and economical viewpoint.

The last three subjects are so closely allied as to be answered at one time. The use of the present plant is of utmost importance, for if put to the proper use, it answers two problems at the same time.

The last mass meeting unanimously instructed its retention, which brings up the subject of its use.

If used when available as a junior high school, it will not only take care of part of the high school enrollment, the ninth grade, but will also relieve the congestion in the grade school systems of the districts, by taking care of their seventh and eighth grades, as it will give them the new Broadway and also the Wilson avenue schools in Glendale, to be used for the grades from one to six, and other schools in other parts of the district will also be available for these grades.

It is a fact that something has to be done at once to take care of the congestion in the grade schools of the entire district and even now parts of the district are planning bond issues to take care of it.

By establishing the junior high school system, the proposed bond issues could be reduced materially. On a basis of the new valuation, available after August 10th this year, this high school district will have a bonding capacity of $550,000.

The trustees are not asking for the limit, but with $260,000 additional to complete the new high school and say, $90,000 as a limit for a northwest site, a bond issue of $350,000 would take care of both.

A synopsis of the proposition as viewed and recommended by the trustees is as follows:

That the mass meeting instruct the high school trustees to call a bond election to vote on bonds to the amount of $350,000. This bond issue, if voted, to be used as follows:

1st. That a site in the northwest section of Glendale be purchased.

2nd. That the money left be used to complete the proposed high school plant on Verdugo road.

3rd. That the high school trustees inaugurate a system of junior high schools, as soon as the present high school plant is available for use for that purpose; (b) that a preferential ballot be presented to the voters at the time of bond election with all the sites which have been offered to the trustees, with proper options, listed thereon, with the understanding that the site receiving the majority of votes be the one purchased by the trustees.

With the above question answered, the Union High school district can be assured an up-to-date school system which will enable the school authorities to handle the educational question, to compare favorably with any district in the state for about five years, if normal growth continues.

Respectfully submitted to the voters of the the Glendale Union high school district, with our recommendation of their approval.

'He Aint Ate Nothing' Says Champion Eater, Disputing New Title

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Ludwig Consumo, open champion eater of the world, today disputed the claim of J. B. Chase, New Orleans, to the crawfish eating championship of the universe.

"He ain't ate nothing," said Consumo of Chase, when told that the southerner had got away with five buckets of crawfish. "I'll show him."

Consumo said he became champion eater of the world when he ate an ostrich.

"The ostrich and I stood side and side and started eating," he said. "I got away with 120 crabs in six minutes and 20 seconds. Then I swallowed 14 eggs, shells and all, and eight loaves of bread and a ham."

"The ostrich collapsed after an hour and a half."

"I ate the ostrich for lunch the next day."

"Bring on Mr. Chase."

WOMEN PLAN BIG TEAS FOR MOORE CAMPAIGN

Afternoon Functions to Present Merits of Candidates for Senator

Glendale women are taking an active interest in the candidacy of C. C. Moore or United States senator. A large percentage of the Moore-for-senator club of Glendale membership is women. Many of these women have signified their intention to give a series of afternoon teas at which the various political issues and the merits of the various candidates on the ballot for the primary election August 29.

"The women of Glendale are turning stronger for Moore every day," said W. D. Root, active worker for Moore in Glendale. He said that the women have come out strong for Moore since the Johnson meeting held in Los Angeles on August 2, when Johnson failed to answer the 16 questions asked him by a committee of prominent Los Angeles club women.

The first Moore tea will be held in Glendale tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Stephen C. Packard, 362 Riverside drive. Mrs. Packard will be assisted at this function by Messdames F. L. Hollingsworth, Ella W. Richardson, E. V. Bacon, Thomas H. Addison, A. S. Chase, and Thomas D. Watson.

One of the features of this first tea will be an address by a prominent Los Angeles clubwoman who will, after her talk, answer any questions regarding the candidates for election, or the various issues on the primary ballot.

Glendale women who are interested in the present political issues of the day are cordially invited to attend this tea.

Other Glendale women who have agreed to hold teas at their homes to discuss the political affairs of the state, are Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, and Mrs. W. S. Rattray. Other women have tentatively agreed to open their homes for these teas.

C. OF C. PROPOSED FOR MONTROSE MERCHANTS

Organization Meeting Is Called for Monday Night

Plans are being developed in Montrose for the organization of a chamber of commerce. Several of the leading business men of that community have expressed an opinion that there are enough business men in Montrose to require the services of a chamber.

A meeting has been called for Monday night in Montrose for the purpose of discussing this plan. James Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale chamber of commerce will be the principal speaker. He will tell of the preliminary work necessary to the organization of a commercial body. He will also outline what steps should be taken to assure the proper functioning of the body after its organization.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m., Monday, in Young's hardware store, Honolulu avenue and Montrose.

SPEEDER BUGS INFEST PALMER

Auto speeders are endangering the lives of the children as well as the adults on East Palmer avenue, according to complaints made yesterday to the Glendale police department by the residents of that thoroughfare. The speeding is especially bad between Glendale avenue and Adams, states the complaint, and the little ones living on that street are constantly threatened with injury.

CLOSING OF STORES TO MARK BIG CREDIT MEN'S ALL CITIZENS' PICNIC

Preparations for Compliance With Proclamation of Mayor Underway Throughout Glendale and Surrounding District, Indicating Big Fete

CITY RUSHES WORK FOR DAY'S OUTING

Greatest Rush in History of Glendale Is Expected to Verdugo Canyon When Aug. 16th Dawns on the Calendar and Recreation Center Is Opened

Every business house in Glendale is expected to be closed August 16, and every resident of Glendale, great and small, rich and poor, will congregate at the new municipal park on Verdugo road to help the Glendale Credit association open that recreation feature and at the same time enjoy the many joy features that are being prepared by the merchants of Glendale.

The merchants of the city from one end to the other have signified their willingness to enter heart and soul into this gala day, and to support to the letter the proclamation that has been issued by Mayor Robinson of this city.

The Glendale Credit association is preparing a program of sports for this event the like of which has never been known in Glendale. There will be contests and races for every member of the family, and for the winners in these there will be prizes galore.

There will be a baseball game between the Glendale Merchants and a team yet to be selected. There will be dancing, both afternoon and evening, with all kinds of soft drinks, ice cream, cracker-jack, popcorn, and everything to round out the grandest get-together fete ever held in "these parts."

The city administration and the merchants are saving no expense in their effort to furnish the people of Glendale and vicinity a big time, and, while there will be a slight charge at some of the concession booths, these will be cut to the bone. The affair is not being put on as a money-making proposition. The main idea is to furnish a day of recreation, of joy, of gladness, of getting together, of handshake, of good will. There will be nothing stronger than "pop" on the grounds. Those attending the picnic will take their lunches, and coffee, all they can drink, will be furnished free.

The band concert in the evening will not be the least of the day's attractions. The "Elks" band, one of the finest musical organizations in this section of the country, has volunteered its services for this occasion. It will put on its best program, and the band boys promise to surpass any of their former efforts.

Those attending the park should go armed with their best dispositions and their sweetest smiles. If you wear your grouch you will feel out of place, for yours will be the only "peeve" there. You'll see folks you haven't seen for years, and renew acquaintances that have been lost for years. And you'll make more new friends that day than you have acquired during the past year. So, go early and stay late.

Improvements are being rapidly completed in the new municipal park on Verdugo road in preparation for the Glendale Credit Association picnic on August 16, according to the foreman in charge of the work.

The floor of the dancing pavilion is now being laid, and the roof is being completed. This feature will be finished by Tuesday. Wires for lighting have been strung throughout the park, so that plenty of illumination is assured.

Two of the cobblestone fireplaces have been finished and construction work on the third will be started today, this to be finished in time for the picnic. All of the benches and tables are finished, and the locating of them will go forward with all possible speed in order that they may all be in place in time for the picnic.

All of the poison oak has been removed from the section of the park that will be used on the 16th, so that no danger need be feared from this source. Work has already started on the baseball park, and will be rushed to completion.

Four running springs have been unearthed by the workers, and a trail connecting them has been cut. The water from these springs is cool and invigorating. While the cementing of these features cannot be completed in time for the picnic, it will be finished, it is understood, shortly after.

Everything that might be done to make the picnic a success and to have the park in shape for immediate use by the people of Glendale and vicinity, is being looked after.

MRS. MABEL OCKER RESIGNS TUESDAY COMMITTEE HEAD

Contemplates Trip to Texas and Asks Release

Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, who has filled with such success the difficult office of chairman of the program committee of the Tuesday Afternoon club, has tendered her resignation of the post, because she is contemplating a trip to Texas in October and may go on to other points further east. She wants to be free to go where fancy leads and for that reason is asking the executive board to release her and appoint another chairman.

WALT HEIDLER IS PAINFULLY HURT

Walt Heidler, star pitcher of the Glendale Merchants ball team and middleweight boxer, received painful injuries to his hand yesterday that will keep him out of the boxing and baseball games for several weeks. Heidler is an employe of the basket factory in South Glendale, and while working over a lathe yesterday, caught his hand in the machinery. The thumb on his left hand was broken in two places and the hand badly lacerated.

Heidler was booked to box at the Hollywood stadium a week from Friday night.

Listening in on Eve

OPERATIONS OF FATE

"It's funny how little things will change your whole life," declared Mrs. Wiggins at the club luncheon, as she gazed at an olive she held in her fingers. "And it makes you wonder what would have happened if those things hadn't."
"There's no end to that sort of wondering," laughed Mrs. Dunbar. "I have often wondered what I'd have done if I hadn't gone to that house party where I met my husband."
"You'd have gone to some dance and met a different husband," sniffed Mrs. Porter. "There are lots of fish in the sea."
"Oh, no," protested old Mrs. Davis, gently. "You never could have done anything else but go to that house party. It was appointed."
"That's hard on some of us," chuckled Miss Lathrop. "Or maybe some husbands forget their appointments. Anyhow, mine seems to have."
"You don't know yet," said Mrs. Wiggins. "Maybe he'll turn up one of these days. I was thinking, as I tasted this olive, how fond I used to be of them."
"I used to be fond of Bartlett pears," said Mrs. Porter. "Until one day one of the girls and I ate a whole basketful of them. I haven't eaten one since."
"It was almost that way with me," said Mrs. Wiggins. "But I do eat them occasionally for old-time's sake."
"They used to make fun of me for eating so many olives," Mrs. Wiggins continued. "And I used to be really ashamed of myself for liking them so. I would go on eating one after another until I had a great pile of stones on the edge of my plate, and then, before I had realized how many had gone, some impertinent friends would call the attention of the whole crowd to the fact that Alice had eaten ten olives, or some such awful number as that. It was very embarrassing."

"They probably all had their favorite dishes," Miss Lathrop declared. "I know my brother eats four saucers of ice cream to this day, and I always wanted more chocolate cake than anybody would let me have."
"You can eat three slices of cake and nobody be any the wiser," Mrs. Dunbar said. "But with olives there are always the stones as monuments to your appetite."
"That was exactly it," said Mrs. Wiggins. "And on this particular occasion I did not want anybody to think I had eaten so many. It was a dinner party so large that they did not try to introduce all the guests, and there was a young man sitting across the table from me whom I particularly wished to impress. He was down a little way from where I was placed and a big centerpiece of flowers quite hid me, I suppose. Anyway, he did not give me a glance the whole time. Next to me was an old school-days friend who would be sure to speak of the olives if he saw the stones, and I did not care to be made fun of so that nice man could hear. It did not enter my head that the simplest way was not to eat so many olives, but I hit on the expedient of dropping the stones slyly on the floor as I ate, and I flattered myself that I was getting out of it very nicely."
"You did," said Mrs. Porter. "Unless they went into somebody's pocket."
"It was worse than that," laughed Mrs. Wiggins. "We had a dance after the dinner, and as I went flying over the floor I scattered olive stones everywhere. They had fallen into the ruffle of my dress and as soon as I began to dance they flew out. I didn't notice it at first, but in the third dance I stopped short, overcome with mortification."
"As I stood that one second hesitating, the nice young man crossed the room on the way to claim a partner, stepped on an olive stone and fell at my feet in a most ungraceful heap."
"Oh!" exclaimed Miss Lathrop. "And that spoiled your whole life?"
"I don't know how most persons would look at it," Mrs. Wiggins answered, "but I don't think it did. You see, I was so embarrassed that I began to cry and he got up in a hurry and rushed me into an adjoining parlor, where he did his best to comfort me."
"Wasn't that dear of him!" exclaimed old Mrs. Davis. "Did he succeed?"
"He did," Mrs. Wiggins replied, softly. "And he's been a comfort ever since, Mr. Wiggins has."

ments, with F. J. Stevers of Washington State college and G. R. McDole of Idaho discussing it afterward. Two Logan, Utah, men—D. W. Pitman and M. D. Thomas—speak on irrigation experiments, and a new method of mechanical analysis and its application to the study of soil structure.
The rest of the afternoon will be given to a study of fertility maintenance, D. S. Jennings, also of Logan, speaking on the determination of organic carbon, total water and loss of ignition in arid soils, with discussion by R. E. Neldig, Idaho, and Henry Holtz, Pullman, giving results of different crop residues on organic matter maintenance in the soil.
An illustrated lecture on the agriculture of Chile will be given in the evening in the college auditorium by Prof. John W. Gilmore of Berkeley, Calif. The second morning will be divided between the subjects of weed and plant disease control, and crop breeding and improvement. George Stewart, Logan, will talk on the control of morning glory in cultivated lands, and there will be general discussion of copper carbonate control of smut, with a field trip over the college experimental fields to show results obtained.

Prof. E. F. Gaines of the Washington college will talk on the place of hybridization in crop improvement, followed by a report of the sunflower studies in Montana by Harlan R. Sninner, Bozeman, and R. K. Benney, Idaho. Professor Gilmore of California will close the afternoon with a talk on the formation of potato tubers.
The second evening will be given over to the Lewiston scenic highway trip. The last day, at Moscow, opens with talks on dry land forage by H. W. Hulbert, Moscow, and R. O. Westley of W. S. C. Clyde McKee of Bozeman will tell about pasture lands under irrigation, and C. B. Ahlson, Boise, about standardization and certification, with discussion by C. W. Warburton of Washington, D. C.

Peking university will establish an agricultural school and experiment station.

WALTER SULLIVAN CAN YOU LOCATE THEM? TO EDIT SCOUT PAPER

Former Editor of Explosion to Be Associated With C. Walcott

A permanent editorial staff has been appointed for the Verdugo Hills Scout, official publication of the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout council.

Walter Sullivan, assistant scoutmaster of troop No. 1, Glendale, has been appointed editor of the Verdugo Hills Scout.

Mr. Sullivan is one of the most enthusiastic workers for the Boy Scouts in the district.

During the Boy Scout encampment at Catalina this year Mr. Sullivan was appointed temporary editor of the Scout.

With the new editorial staff of the paper it is expected that the publication will become popular with the Scout leaders and the boys.

ADAMS STREET HOMES

Thieves pulled off a "double steal" last night when they looted the home of R. E. Berry, an employee of the Brand boulevard branch of the Los Angeles Trust Savings bank, residing at 205 North Adams street, and immediately after walked across the street and went through the home of W. E. Chandler, 108 North Adams street.

At the Berry home the thieves secured a bank containing $12 in silver, while at the Chandler dwelling they were more fortunate, their haul being a gold watch, and various other pieces of jewelry.

Both of these homes were entered between 7 and 10 o'clock, and both families were away at the time the robberies took place.

Entrance to the Berry home was gained through the rear bedroom window. In climbing through the window the thieves accidentally knocked over a bottle of ink. The fluid evidently covers their fingerprints, as there were inky finger prints on the various drawers, door casings and window shades.

That both homes were robbed by the same thieves is evidenced by the fact that in the Chandler home the same inky finger prints were very much in evidence.

Immediately upon the discovery of the thefts the matter was reported to the Glendale police, who are now working on the case.

Truths in Epigram

A liar should have a good memory. — Quintilian (42-118 A. D.). Moral good is a practical stimulus; it is no sooner seen that it inspires to practice. — Plutarch (46-120 A. D.). Thou wilt find rest from vain fancies if thou doest every act in life as though it were thy last. — Antoninus (121-180 A. D.).

DEFEATING HIMSELF

It is a common remark that Hiram Johnson is defeating himself. Assuredly no candidate could gather strength through waging such a campaign as the senator is carrying on. A loud voice conveying no impression save that of rancor on the part of the speaker, fails to convince. Refusal to answer proper questions is an indication of weakness. Vituperation is not an effective weapon. It is due to the present methods of Johnson that people say of him that he is defeating himself. It is true, but the process had an earlier beginning. When Johnson thundered against the four power treaty, opposition to that treaty being a stand for war, the preliminaries of his defeat were being arranged by Johnson. When he ignored the petitions of his constituents touching this important matter, when he still strove by every power he possessed, to thwart the expressed will of the President it was his duty to uphold, he was making certain that his day was drawing to a close. For his failing fortunes he has only Hiram Johnson to blame. There is another failing that presages the end of his political career. Senator Johnson, a republican supposedly, has become the handy man of Hearst. This alone would be enough to annul the influence of a far better record than the senator has made. The truism that no man can serve two masters, is startlingly emphasized when one master is a party organization of high ideals, and the other an individual barren of ideals, and moved by no impulse save that of utter and pernicious egotism. In defeating himself now Johnson is merely extending an operation that had its inception long before the present contest opened.

EUROPE'S DEBTS

There is complete evidence that this government regards the debt of England to the United States, precisely as an individual would regard a personal obligation to himself. Such obligation to be valid, of course, must represent value received. In this instance no question as to validity is raised. To view the debt as subject to annulment for sentimental reasons, or as a matter of public policy, is within the range of possibility. England being bound to pay its own debts, is denied the privilege, if such the British would regard it, of being lenient with its debtors. Thus France is informed courteously that it must pay the sum it owes to England. Naturally this accentuates the desire of the French to exact full reparation from Germany. If Germany is unable to produce the money, as it vehemently asserts, the financiers of Europe appear to have run precipitately into a cul de sac. Such neutral observers as Vanderlip are of opinion that the way to back out of the difficulty, would be to reduce the total of reparation. France feels that to do this would render its own outlook hopeless. On the theory that reparation would be forthcoming France has expended vast sums collected from its people. Repayment was to have been made from sums received from Germany. No such sums arrive, and none seems to be in prospect. Meanwhile Germany appears to be industrially active, and some of its money kings are heaping up vast fortunes. The degenerate currency seems to be real money still, so long as its activities are confined to German territory. At the border line it falls futile and dead. Perhaps nobody is so clear of vision as to be able to discern what the end of all this is to be.

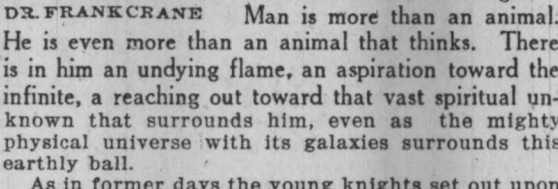

WOMEN OPPOSE JOHNSON

Evidence grows that the women of California are opposed to the nomination of Senator Johnson to succeed himself. They agree that there should be a successor, and deem Charles C. Moore the proper selection. Women appreciate courtesy. They have now been in politics long enough to know that a politician may be courteous. They have been surprised and affronted at the boorish treatment they have received from Johnson. A prominent one of their number asked the senator a proper question in public. She had not at that time made up her mind whom to support. Many other women in the gathering were in a similar state of mind. They sought light as to the intentions of the senator. The woman who propounded the query, doing so as the representative of many, got no decent reply. On the contrary the response was not informative, but an insulting display of bad temper. Then and there votes were made for Moore. The women voters of this state are to be taken as seriously as any other element of citizenship. They are not to be deceived by flamboyant oratory. They do not think it proper that the senior senator should appear in the light of a Hearst underling, or that any part of his activities should be financed by the notorious New York democrat. They believe that as a republican he was wrong in fighting the plans of the administration for the four power pact, and that the sin was emphasized when he scornfully ignored the petitions of California, and went ahead in accord with Hearst's desires. They are too wise to give Johnson special credit for favoring an anti-child-labor law which everybody favored equally. They have seen his record. In it they find not a single notable achievement, but they know that he had time to earn, or to receive, a fat fee from Tammany. The situation was such as required explanation, apology, penitence and pledge to better effort.

Nothing savoring of any of these has been projected into the Johnson campaign. He poses as the egotist whose judgment must be regarded as infallible, and whose course must be considered right because he says it is right. One definite promise Johnson makes is that he will "die an American." As though there were possibility of his dying a Hottentot. It is not a promise likely to win the support of women. Nor of men. In the modest words of Mr. Moore "Hiram Johnson will not do." Daily he is making this plainer to the electorate. Two men trusted with responsibility in the conduct of banks in the northwest, are found to have been stealing money. In neither instance had enough been taken to satisfy the demands of a criminal lawyer engaged to establish the innocence of the guilty. To err is human, but it also is unspeakably foolish sometimes. When there is a fatal railroad wreck, difficulty in fixing the blame is lessened when a man who possibly may have been culpable, is among the victims.

THE INNER LIGHT

By DR. FRANK CRANE The Inner Light has always been followed by the best portion of the human race. In every time and in every clime certain souls have believed in it. It has been sought by Buddhists in the Orient, by the ancient Hebrews, by the Egyptians, and by the Greeks. The Christian literature of the Middle Ages is full of it. Although creeds decay and the forms of churches change, and all that is past feels the effect of time, yet somehow the doctrine of the Inner Light persists. The reason of this is that it corresponds to an inextinguishable instinct in human beings. Man is more than an animal. He is even more than an animal that thinks. There is in him an undying flame, an aspiration toward the infinite, a reaching out toward that vast spiritual unknown that surrounds him, even as the mighty physical universe with its galaxies surrounds this earthly ball. As in former days the young knights set out upon the quest of the Holy Grail, so today among the throng of young souls in this modern era of mechanics and democracy there are many who are smitten with the same longing. In dusty shops, in busy offices, upon lonely farms, boys and girls are dreaming high dreams and conceiving shy but passionate adventures in beauty and in truth. So will there always be. The human race is a divine sort of thing. The rain from the infinite never ceases to fall upon the garden of souls. Most of us who reach mature age look back with regret at our early ideals. Others may praise us and call us wise and practical because we have deserted them, and we may even congratulate ourselves, but deep within us is the consciousness of a certain failure. The best beauty of youth is the clear burning of this Inner Light. The greatest tragedy of old age is its extinguishment. That man is most entitled to be called a success in this life who has always followed the gleam. And that man is most certainly a failure who has turned his back upon this light, no matter how richly he may be dressed up in distinctions. Thomas Hood expressed this in simple language: I remember, I remember The house where I was born, The little window where the sun Came peeping in at morn;

DR. FRANK CRANE

I remember, I remember The fir-trees dark and high; I used to think their slender tops Were close against the sky: It was a childish ignorance, But now 'tis little joy To know I'm farther off from heav'n Than when I was a boy. To meet a soul who has never lost the Inner Light, and who even in old age follows on faithfully, is a rarer privilege than to be a friend of millionaires or to consort with kings. No better purpose can be fixed in the young soul than to resolve: That no day of life may lack romance, The spiritual stars rise nightly, shedding down A private beam into each several heart. THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON (Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers) WITH THE MASTERS (Find the error in this article) Ralph Waldo Emerson There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better or worse as his portion; that though the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given to him to till. The power which resides in him is new in nature, and none but he knows what that is which he can do, nor does he know until he has tried. Essay on "Self-Reliance." THE EVENING POST

The eternal struggle. That marks the progress of the individual. Of human society. Of the world. Always in progress, ending, but through the ages resulting in progress. In the world of nature. The struggle of the elements with the wind. Backward and forward, gust and eddy, bending in the embrace of the wind, swaying, bending, but in the end, the growth of the forest. Trees stately, majestic, rugged, with toughened fibre and sturdy growth. The struggle of the water with the rock. Splashing, dripping, flowing, in spray, but slowly and laboriously carving a pathway. Until the mountain stream has worn its white drops against its granite sides. Clear, crystalline, limpid. The water struggling toward the sea. In the field and the orchard. The struggle of the bud and the heat and with frost, with insect and parasite, with the chill of the night and the sun at its noon. But in the end fruit and grain. In the struggle that began when the seed pushed its way up by slow and laborious progress through the earth. In the world of human society. The struggle for social order. For lands and crops and forests. For ore in the mountains. For coal and gold and the yield of the field and the harvest of the sea. For tunnels through mountains and bridges across chasms. For the conquest of peoples with fire and the sword. For a measure of human justice in the ordering of government. For knowledge and faith and the light of purpose. For wisdom to know and courage to will and strength to do. Against tyranny and brutality and evil power. And finally in the human being. For strength and against weakness. For selfishness and against greed. For health and against disease. For love and against hatred. For reason and against passion. For light and against darkness. For faith and against cynicism. For hope and against despair. The struggle is eternally old. And eternally new. It has gone on from time immemorial. It begins with each new day and each new soul. Its sounds are as distinct as the roaring of the surf on the shore. Always the ebb and flow of the tide. And there must be faith in purpose. Courage for the fight. Hope to progress through trial. Mercy and sympathy to understand human frailty and weakness. Tolerance, kindness, understanding. To know that our strength is sometimes our weakness. And our weakness is sometimes our strength. To have a part of the struggle is our inevitable duty. To have part in the struggle and to press on. JAMES W. FOLEY.

SONGS OF THE POETS

The Enchantment—By Thomas Otway (1652-1685) I did but look and love awhile, 'Twas but for one half-hour; Then to resist I had no will, And now I have no power. To sigh and wish is all my ease; Sighs which do heat impart Enough to melt the coldest ice, Yet cannot warm your heart. O would you pity give my heart One corner of your breast, 'Twould learn of yours the winning art, And quickly steal the rest.

SEARCHES INTO THE PAST

Archeological digging near Mexico City by American and Mexican scientists has unearthed a pyramid believed to be older than any other man-made monument on this continent. Thousands of years ago it was inundated by lava; years before that pre-historic Americans began climbing upward to civilization. Early population on this continent began its progress full as early as that of the Mediterranean, these scientists believe. In Asia there is an expedition searching for early traces of man which they hope will be a clue to the Pithecanthropus erectus, the ape man. Nostraks was recently searched for the bones of the possessor of a single tooth, believed to be the remnant of an intermediary between man and ape. The sites of ancient races in all parts of the world are continually giving up their secrets. With the failure of history recorded on paper, parchment, papyrus, baked bricks, or in the legends of men, the archeologist takes up the task of the historian. And before the man-made layers peter out, the paleontologist, the scientific reader of the writings of nature, inaugurates his work of deciphering the world's dark past. The skeletal remains of the animals and lower forms of life of past eras and the tumbled layers of the earth enable him to read the records of the rocks. Astronomers assume the burden of extending the knowledge of the past when earthly scientists must stop. They study the evolution of other suns, they can chart the maneuverings of additional universes. The life of the human race is but a tick on the clocks of the heavens. Dr. Plasket, Canadian astronomer, discovers twin suns more massive than any star yet found. But his up-to-the-minute observations are necessarily 10,000 years old. When the light of the Plasket twin suns left them for our earth, the early human race was in its cradle and was still working and playing with stone instead of metal.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THINK OF THESE THINGS [Omaha Bee] A lot of people are strutting around today, telling themselves and a wondering world what they propose to do. Some are asserting that until "justice is established," whatever that may mean, that they will not be found doing the things they are better qualified to do, and others are as earnest in asseverating that until their own will is acknowledged by everybody else, the world must stand. A very confusion of Babel has arisen among men, and even as on the plain of Shinar, work is standing still because "they may not understand" another's speech." If these self-important ones only could understand: Astronomers have laid their measuring lines across space, and now tell us that the galactic universe is 300,000 light years in length, 42,000 light years in breadth and 30,000 light years in thickness. And a light year is the distance light will travel in a year moving at the uniform rate of 186,000 miles per second. Sirius whose heliacal rising is almost due, is the nearest of the fixed stars of the earth, and yet the red rays that reach the earth from him on the occasion of his ascendancy have been thirty-five years on the way. An astronomer on Sirius, equipped with instruments no stronger or more powerful than our best, could not find the earth in space, it is so insignificant a speck in comparison with the universe. When you get to thinking that the earth is about to put the universe out of existence or that some one man or group of men is going to regulate everything for everybody, recall some of the simpler truths and be comforted. WHERE IS IT? [Cleveland Plain Dealer] By the way, what has become of Professor Goddard's moon-going rocket? Has it started yet, and if so, how far has it proceeded?

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES Why a drunken driver so often kills somebody else and escapes unhurt never has been fully explained. "Blood and Sand" is said to be an absorbing picture. Particularly as to the sand, one might suppose. The citizen caught leading a double life invariably is judged by the worse part of it. Politics never made stranger bedfellows than in Texas where ku klux and anti-saloon forces nestle cozily under one sheet. A Los Angeles pickpocket is in jail for the twentieth time. Why the police go to the trouble of arresting him is a mystery. Nothing could have been in worse taste than a newspaper interview with Mrs. Obenchain, so, of course, such an interview was forthcoming. The only objection to the proposed marriage of the McCormick kid is that her choice in a comparative antique. But that's her own affair, really. The fallacy of the senile in thinking youth may be restored by dope continues to comfort old age. Strike sympathizers at Des Moines are said to have robbed a non-striking workman of his wages. Wonder they did not regard his money as tainted. France is persistent in inviting Germany to do the impossible. A man has been sentenced to stay out of automobiles for five years. On foot for such a period, he will be lucky if he keeps out of the way of them.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES A man may be gentle, considerate and obliging in his ordinary relations. Put the same man at the steering wheel of an automobile, and he may exhibit the worst traits of a hog, a dog with rabies, and a fool drunk on moonshine. Perhaps the psychologist may explain this transmutation. The brutal, bullying, homicidal driver gets to the end of his journey, runs the machine into the garage, and emerges, again the gentleman. Los Angeles has more automobile accidents by far than any other city of its size, more than most of the larger cities. Of course, it has a very great number of automobiles, and its streets lack width. Yet if drivers retained at the wheel, the sanity that characterizes them when they are not at the wheel, it is safe to estimate that the accidents would be reduced 90 per cent. Nine out of ten accidents are due, not to mere carelessness, but to a seeming devilry. They might be avoided, but the impulse to avoid them is absent. If there is a remedy it must be in punishing the offenders. By this is not meant a judicial slap on the wrist, but a sentence to jail without the alternative of fine. Or if a fine, then in a sum equal at least to the value of the prisoner's machine. On a second offense, the machine ought to be confiscated. At that time the license to drive should be revoked for a year or more, and in extreme cases, for life. Running down an individual and then running away, ought to mean a term in the penitentiary, regardless of the degree of harm to the victim. The driver who is at fault when one car is damaged or destroyed by collision, should be compelled to change his car for the wrecked machine of the party of the other part. Or is this all futile, because of the incapacity of a set of speeding lunatics, to visualize the truth? When Molla Mallory lost her tennis game she also lost her temper. Rebuking her gently for this, an editor quoted Thackeray: "Who misses or who wins the prize, Go, lose or conquer as you can; But if you fall, or if you rise, Be each, pray God, a gentleman." Asking Molla to be a gentleman borders on the unreasonable. The driver who takes the middle of the road, refusing to yield any share, is a road hog. So is the one who comes dashing from the rear, passes an automobile just ahead, and then settles down to a leisurely pace, blocking the way. A third variety noses his machine into a jam at a street crossing, adding to the complexity of the blockade. Doubtless there are other varieties, but these are enough to explain the difficulty a driver who tries to be courteous has in keeping his temper sweet. Washington gossip says that Myron Herrick wanted to be ambassador to England instead of to Paris. Probably it is fortunate that he did not get sent to the court of St. James, as the correspondents thus would have been cut off from the chance to joke about Harvey's short pants.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM We were talking last night about that great old man, Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania. Yes, I said it. "That great old man." Perhaps you did not agree with the ethics or the politics of the senior senator from Pennsylvania, but the more you knew of Boies Penrose the more certain you were that he was a great old man. He was built of the old-time pioneer steel. "Don't worry," Penrose used to say. "But, migosh!" his friends and listeners would froth. "Don't you understand?" Then in a shrill scream: "We're ru-in-ed!" Penrose used merely to settle back in his chair. He never was very successful about getting excited. Maybe his nervous system was a little sluggish, or more like, he had himself under control. He would eye humorously the passionate marionettes dancing on his rugs. Then he would repeat his bit of personal philosophy. "Don't worry," he would say. "I've always noticed that when something must be done—it can be done. If we need a man—we can always find the man. If we need money—well, somehow we can always get the money. There is always a way. I have never failed to find it." Perhaps he may have failed to find it, sometimes, this strong old man who was able to smile to the end of his last fight. But no one knew. Given courage and calm and a refusal to be beaten, any man can win his fight. Even the malice devilry of the old crone that those who do not know her call "Mother Nature" cannot prevail against the man who will not be beaten. He may be crushed and stamped into the earth and ruined and burned out and flooded time after time. But in the end he will win. "When something must be done," old Boies Penrose, hardy fighting man, used to say, "it can be done." Did you ever notice that there is always a warm spot in your heart for the man who fights? He may fight you. You may be opposed to him at every thirty-second of a point all the way around the circle. You may hate him and teach your children to hate him and rise in public meetings and call him perfectly justified names. But down in your heart there is a warm spot for him. You never feel that way toward the man who quits.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART All aboard on the road to helplessness! Never mind about initiative and self-dependence if life can only be easy. That's the goal! Those who have hardships in their lives we'll pity, provided we can find time for so unselfish an emotion. Self-ease must come first. Rather crude, it seems, when put down in black and white, does it not? Few of us would really declare for such sentiments, for we're pretty well-meaning people on the whole. But how we do love life's little conveniences and luxuries, and how we do complain over the little roughness of our daily path. The missing of a trolley, the disruption of the electric light service for a minute, the failure of the baker's wagon to appear—what a storm of fretfulness and fault-finding they sometimes cause! Our grandmothers would have bravely fared forth afoot, lighted a tallow candle, quickly stirred up biscuits. They were so used to real hardships that minor ones made no impression. "Oh, but we have never learned to do the things that they did! Times change and methods change with them. Nowadays we women have much of the work of the world to do. We cannot burden ourselves with little details of living." True for some of us. But not for all. If we spend the time made free by modern inventions and methods for real work for the world, we have our speedy vindication. But do we?

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

Soon 100,000 horsepower will be developed in the hydro-electric plants using the water from the Great Lakes in Tasmania. The whale's ancestors were land animals and the whale still has vestiges of hind legs. The dead beat escapement and the mercerial pendulum, still used today, were invented by George Graham early in the 18th century and marked the beginning of accurate timekeeping in clocks. A typhoid fever epidemic in Roumania was traced to ice in which the germs had frozen eight months before.

That a great bass voice is very hard to reproduce is probably realized by the general public as well as by the operators of KFCAC.

Requests for more songs from "Tex" were received jointly with reports that each and every one of his notes, even the lowest, was clearly heard.

"Tex" played at the Hippodrome in New York for 1-1/2 years and also starred in several musical comedy and dramatic shows.

As for violin music, the only appropriate compliment is that "Miss Hazel Linkogel is a wonder."

WILLIS C. THOMAS INVESTS IN PAPER AT MONTEBELLO

Circulation Manager of Glendale Daily Press to Become Publisher

Willis C. Thomas, who has been circulation manager of the Glendale-Burbank-Eagle Rock divisions for the Glendale Daily Press and the Los Angeles Express for the past several months, went to Montebello last evening to join with two associates in assuming charge of the Montebello Weekly News.

Mr. Thomas was connected with the Los Angeles Express in various capacities, but chiefly as foreman of the composing room for the past 14 years.

The Glendale Daily Press force is very sorry to lose Mr. Thomas from its personnel, and his neighbors on North Orange street, will miss him and his good wife and little daughter greatly.

GEOPHONE IS NEW DEVICE IN MINE

Instrument for Saving Life of Entombed Mine Workers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Announcement of the invention of a new instrument to save the lives of entombed miners has just been made by the bureau of mines.

The geophone, an instrument used in the World War by the French to detect military mine and tunnel construction by the enemy, will enable rescuers to locate the entombed miners by the hammering of picks, or the sound of the human voice, either of which may be heard through walls of earth by means of the new device.

Exhaustive tests have been made by the bureau's experimental mine near Pittsburgh, Pa., demonstrating that human voices may be heard with the instrument through 150 feet of solid coal; blows with a sledge on the face of the coal at a distance of 650 feet, and the slightest rap of the knuckles on a suspended pipe line, at more than 1500 feet.

Tests made by the bureau in Pittsburgh show that another use for the instrument will be the location of leaks in city water mains. The location of a leak in one of the Pittsburgh mains at a busy corner proved that the circulation of water could be heard from 10 to 15 feet below the street. Leaks that had been the cause of company foremen were easily located by the geophone.

Beside the use as a means of protection of life in the mines the geophone has proved its usefulness in mine surveying. Two tunnels being brought together can be observed by the instrument and their relative positions determined.

Being very often necessary to blast in the mines, the proximity of other miners may be determined and warnings sent to those in the danger zone, the announcement said.

Location of lost diamond bits, used in drilling, will be another of the valuable assets of the instrument. These bits usually drift from the straight course and their location by the instrument will prove a great saving as compared with the more costly and time-wasting methods used heretofore.

It was stated by the bureau that the geophone has proven its advantages for mine rescue to such an extent that they have been placed in all the mine rescue cars.

DR. H. R. BOYER RETURNS FROM VIENNA

Discusses Medical and Health Conditions in Austrian City

Dr. H. R. Boyer, who has returned from Europe, gives interesting report of medical and health conditions in Vienna.

He states that the health of most of the children and a large percent of adults has been seriously affected due to the poverty that existed during and since the war. About ninety per cent of the children have become rachitic or tubercular and many of the adults have gastric ulcers or tuberculosis.

Practically all the sick are cared for in the large public hospitals for which Vienna is well known. The first of these, the old Algemines Kronen house was built about two hundred years ago and covers an area of two blocks square near the center of the city, and is still caring for thousands of patients.

Many large units have been added to this since then. 30,000 babies were born last year, the obstetric clinic of this hospital. The Jubiläum hospital on the outskirts of the city was completed in 1914 and has between six and seven thousand medical and surgical cases under care.

At the Wilhelmine, another large hospital, many of the sick and wounded soldiers are being cared for. The patients in these hospitals and many others are attended by the best diagnosticians and clinicians in the world. These professors are paid by the government for their services.

These public hospitals are under the supervision of the University of Vienna and doctors from all parts of the world assemble here for post graduate work.

TWO-CENT CUT IN GAS MEANS BIG SAVING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The owner of each individual automobile in the United States saved $7 a year as a result of a two-cent cut in gas prices.

This is the deduction made by the National Automobile chamber of commerce on the basis of figures of consumption supplied by the bureau of mines.

The average vehicle consumes about 350 gallons on lowest estimate of the bureau. Some run as high as 450. But the average is around 350 and figured on this basis the individual saving on the two-cent cut would run $7 to the individual.

Collectively, the American motoring public made a saving of $75,000,000 on a two-cent cut. There are more than ten million persons enjoying the pleasure of automobiles now, according to the bureau.

The farmers feel the greatest benefit of a cut, since they own not only one-third of the motor cars in the nation, but also operate 2,000,000 consuming stationary engines.

'LA GOLONDRINA' AT SAN GABRIEL PLAZA HOUSE

John Steven McGroarty Achieves Second Success

Out of the realms of the days that dawned on the golden dust of California's history—comes now "La Golondrina," as delightfully refreshing as a dewy rose—and as fragrant, as the San Gabriel play-house.

It remained for John Steven McGroarty, author of the famous Mission play, to write and produce what will probably become one of the sweetest love tales ever staged—"La Golondrina" (the swallow).

Laid at the old San Francisco Presidio where Count Nicolai de Resano, chamberlain of Russia and envoy to the czar, came to trade and remained to love, the scenes are misty with age and picturesque with history.

Here the beautiful daughter of the commandant meets the royal Russian and love blossoms forth in all its gorgeous hues. And here, too, stalk tragedy and hate, laughter and—happiness.

Patia Power, who is cast in the title role—"La Golondrina"—is a delightfully naive and beautiful Conception Arguello.

Others, too, are deserving of exceptional credit, the work of Clarence Arper as Count Resano, Lester Reese as Ignacia Ayala, the Spanish lover, and Wilfrid Pollard as Luis Arguello, being particularly good.

Julia Ruiz, the petite and charming dancer, from Barcelona, does some wonderfully effective dancing in the second act in which there are several colorful and altogether beautiful dances as performed by clever performers of Old Spain.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON—One of the most touching scenes ever seen in the house was enacted today at the conclusion of a spirited address by Representative Claude Kitchen.

Representative Kitchen, moved by the burst of sentiment by a member of the opposition party, broke into tears. Representative Cannon dried his colleague's eyes with the tail of his coat, and taking him upon his knee, murmured gently: "Tut! tut! Oo stop oo crying or papa spank," finally soothing him with a nursery song.

The house gave way to its emotions, too, members embracing one another in a wild outburst of feeling. Several representatives were badly bitten.

There were several stirring episodes in the senate this noon. President Harding had addressed the body on the importance of the bill requiring three coats of paint on golf balls, and was folding up his manuscript when ex-President William Howard Taft took a flying leap from the gallery, grabbed the President about the neck, and kissed him on both ears.

The President screamed for help, his cries bringing Laddie Boy, the White House Airedale, to the scene.

ate chamber on the run. Overcome by the scene, Senator Oscar Underwood had embraced Hiram W. Johnson and was kissing him on both cheeks.

Late this afternoon, while Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts was delivering an impassioned speech against the proposed tariff on unshelled pecan nuts, Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes leaped in through a side window, shouted "Vive la Hen!" and attempted to kiss him. The attempt was a fizzle. An adjournment was taken in order to give both men opportunity to shave before renewing the experiment.

The Congressional Record tomorrow will say: "Senator William E. Borah (rep.) of Idaho, moved that the section barring pickled beets from the free list be eliminated. Senator Freylinghuysen (rep.) of New Jersey, arose to a point of order. They embraced. The umpire, Senator Miles Poindexter (rep.) of Washington, broke them at the bell. They clinched again after the noon recess. Freylinghuysen landing two kisses to the right cheek without a return. Senator Borah, later charged that during the embrace the senator from New Jersey had taken his watch and scarfpin. The committee then went into executive session.

“Don't Buy a Cat in a Bag”

Storage Batteries

“This is a little warning about storage batteries. The Radio Department of The Evening Mail has received a number of complaints from its readers who have purchased storage batteries which proved to be almost worthless after a little service. In every instance the name of the battery proved that it was a newcomer. In one case the name was as close to that of a well known battery maker as the law would allow.

“When you buy a storage battery you buy a cat in a bag unless you purchase one made by well-known manufacturers, who believe strongly enough in their products to give your money back if the battery falls down in service. All of the good manufacturers do that.”—New York Evening Mail, June 24, 1922.

The foregoing clipping from the New York Mail emphasizes the importance of purchasing storage batteries from concerns with reputations at stake. Trade at home and be safe.—Glendale Daily Press.

WHAT'S SAFE FOR A MUSKRAT IS SAFE FOR A MINK

The Red Dog didn't keep on pre-empting very long. It gave him a rick in his neck to run with his nose down. Pretty soon he forgot why he was doing it. He had so much on his mind. He didn't even think to look behind him where Slyfoot was leaping along the path which gives the minks their family name. She had reached the willows on the Deep Woods side of Dr. Muskrat's Pond by the time the Red Dog was calling the doctor. And this time there was no squalling squirrel to keep her from hearing very well.

"So the minks are going to move over to our Pond? This very evening?" The doctor was agast. "I wonder which hole that creature came to hide in. If we knew that we could dig her out."

"Would they, though?" sniffed the mink. "It would take some digging."

"I'd rather it were Killer the beaver himself," he went on thoughtfully. "We'd have some chance of catching him. Not her, though, so long as she's got this after right here to hide in. She in live like a fish. And now that randoop Snapping Turtle's gone there's no one who can catch her. It's been mighty nice to feel our own safe ever since Tommy the beaver caught him. But what's safe for us is safe for our enemies, too."

"I'll bring Tommy Peele's dog watch along," said the Red Dog. "We might manage her between us. It's both can swim."

"Swim!" snorted the old doctor. "Why, she'd slip between your legs like you were paddling, and nip your toes as she went by, just to show you she'd been there."

"So she would?" the mink nodded herself. "And so she will—if she gets the chance."

"Well, we can only do our best," said the Red Dog, for that prospect was not a pleasant one.

IOWANS ARE CALLED

The Iowa association of Southern Illinois wants to reach every man in the west with a cordial invitation to the great annual summer picnic reunion of the western Iowayes. The date is all day, Saturday, August 12, 1922, and the place is Dixie park, Long Beach. Ninety-nine county headquarters will be opened early in the morning of each on a picnic center. Judge Charles S. Crail, president, will preside and Prof. Ralph H. Lyon, will lead the songs and give a talk. Rev. Geo. M. Rourke, Prof. M. Rebek, Rev. Mary A. Safford, Ed. Hon. Wm. D. Stephens (the latter formerly of Burlington) will be among the speakers. Thirty-five university and college reunions, 2 1/2 o'clock. Don't miss 'em. Bring your basket dinners or buy lunch at the grounds. Silk souvenirs, dresses, hot coffee, Iowa buttons, etc. Pass the word to every Hawkeye and make it a record-breaker.

Henry Michel Is Back in Glendale

Disgusted by Attitude of Europeans Toward the U. S. War Work

Henry A. Michel and family have returned from a five months' tour of Europe, and are now located at their home, 255 West Dryden, Glendale.

Closing up his big building operations here nearly six months ago, Mr. Michel decided he would see his homeland—Amsterdam, Holland—once more, after an absence of more than 17 years. He made a complete clean-up of his large real estate holdings, keeping only his home on West Dryden. His many friends felt that he might become so infatuated with the country beyond the big pond that he might decide to stay over there and apply his business acumen in accumulating more of this world's goods, but they were badly mistaken, for Henry only today told the Glendale Press reporter that he would not remain over there if they gave him half of the country. "There is no land like the land of the Golden State and silver strand of California," said Michel, "and I was glad to get back home, and I am here to stay." It was more than 17 years ago that he bade his parents goodbye and they watched the ship as it slowly disappeared in the direction of New York. It carried an energetic boy without money or any resources except an indomitable energy and a will to succeed against all odds. And how well Michel has succeeded only those who know him best can testify, for he has made a big pile of money and by his unbounded faith in Glendale has invested his money again and again and it has doubled many times. But back to the Europe story.

Henry visited France, Germany, Holland and Belgium and saw all there was to see, and then some. He says the country is getting on its feet rapidly and that it will be but a short time when some of the stronger nations will be as independent and even more so than they were before the war.

"I was surprised to hear the people talk in such a flippant manner and belittle the United States," said Michel. "They talked as though we were under obligations to them for saving their hides from the god of war. It will be but a short time until the people—most of them, to say the least, will really feel that they owe Uncle Sam no gratitude for the part we played in helping them. I was disgusted the way they talked," continued Mr. Michel. "The people of the various countries we visited are busy trying to make a living, but they seem to be about as well off as most of us in this country. It is true they lack many things we have, but they have been educated

ADVENTIST HEAD TO MAKE HOME IN GLENDALE

Elder J. L. McElhane of Nashville, Tenn., where he has been serving as president of the southern union conference of Seventh-day Adventists, with his wife and daughter, has arrived in Glendale to make his home. He comes as the new president of the Pacific union conference, to succeed Elder J. E. Fulton, who has been elected vice president of the general conference for North America. Elder Fulton followed Elder J. W. Christian, who sold his home here and has been transferred to Illinois as pastor of the Decatur, Ill., church.

Mrs. McElhane is said to be almost beside herself with joy over the change from the humid heat of Nashville to the delightful climate of Glendale. The parents of herself and her husband are Californians, which was an additional inducement to come to the coast.

Elder McElhane has been in the foreign field in the Philippines and in Australia.

REFUND CLAIMS MUST BE FILED

So Announces Collector Goodsel of Internal Revenue

The following statement is issued by Rex B. Goodsel, collector of internal revenue of the Sixth district of California:

Following recent decisions in the supreme court of the United States in the cases of the Union Trust company et al., executors versus Wardell, collector, and Shaw, executor, versus Doyle, collector, the statement was published that it would not be necessary for estates to file claims for refunds to which they were entitled under such decisions.

The existing regulations provide for the refunding of estate taxes only when the filing of a claim therefor by the taxpayer. It will therefore be necessary for all taxpayers who are entitled to a refund of estate taxes by reason of the above entitled decisions to make formal claim therefor on form 843, which claim should be filed with the collector for the district wherein the tax was paid for transmittal to the office of the commissioner of internal revenue for appropriate action.

Section 3228, revised statutes, as amended by section 1316 of the revenue act of 1921, provides that all claims for the refunding or credit of any internal revenue tax alleged to have been erroneously or illegally assessed or collected, must be presented to the commissioner of internal revenue within four years next after payment of such tax. Consequently estates can only be refunded provided a claim therefor is filed within four years next after the payment of such taxes.

LIBRARY BOARD MODERN JEWELRY STORE OPENS HERE

Mrs. Buckman Reports on Grand View Site for Branch

At the meeting of the library board held Monday evening, only Mrs. Buckman was present from the northwest territory to report on the wishes of her section with reference to the location of a branch library. Her territory covered the section in Grand View beyond the vineyard.

It was not deemed advisable to take action until other members of the committee appointed by the Poothill Improvement association have reported.

Miss Kate Frost of Fresno was introduced as the prospective head of the juvenile room, to take the place of Miss Margaret Pardon, who is to be married in September.

Miss Edna Platt was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Alice M. Green, who is to take up kindergarten work.

Another was added to the staff in the person of Miss Eva A. Gardner, who is to replace Miss Dorothy E. Rich. She is giving up the library work to begin a course of study at the southern branch of the University of California.

The board discussed the distribution of the funds to be realized from the budget allowed by the city council, apportioning the amount to be expended for salaries, upkeep, books, etc. It also authorized the purchase of a book truck and an umbrella stand.

MENTAL AIDS FOR DEAF

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

From a Georgia reader comes a query of interest to many people besides the inquirer:

"I am writing to ask if it is possible for one who is partially deaf to be benefited in any way by the power of suggestion or any mental attitude as to same."

"My hearing has gradually been growing worse, and while I have taken treatments and done all that seems possible, it doesn't improve any, and for some time I've grown hopeless about it."

"Please let me know if the mental attitude has anything to do with it, and if so in what way I could help myself."

Now, while deafness has many causes, and while these—with the exception of so-called hysterical deafness—are distinctly physical rather than psychical, it may be set down as a certainty that numerous victims of deafness, particularly among the semi-deaf, can be greatly helped by mental means.

Deafness in most cases is a result of gradually increasing congestion interfering with the transmission of sound waves through the middle ear. This congestion may originate from any one of several sources—germ infection, prolonged unhygienic living in badly ventilated and overheated rooms, excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, etc.

Whatever its origin, it is aggravated by such mental states as anxiety, worry, anger, jealousy, hatred and the like. This is a commonplace among specialists in the treatment of ear disorders. They consequently make it a point to preach to their patients the gospel of cheerfulness and good nature.

"The tendency of the deaf person," as pointed out by one well known specialist, Dr. Harold Walker of Boston, "is to hibernate, to consider himself a nuisance to his friends. This worry only makes a deaf matter worse. For the hearing of the deaf varies with worry as it also does with physical fatigue."

Moreover, besides endeavoring to make optimism rather than pessimism the dominant mental state, the deaf should make it a rule to pay increased attention to whatever sounds do reach their consciousness. This is a point of great importance.

By such increased attention many deaf persons can actually train themselves to hear far better than would otherwise be possible to them. There is, in fact, a method—the Urbanschi method—whereby even those exceedingly deaf people have had their hearing improved through nothing but training in the concentration of attention on sounds. Of this method Dr. J. J. Walsh has reported, after personal investigation:

"Patients who could hear but very little—indeed, only the loudest noises—were trained, by means of loud shouting and the hearing of loud notes, gradually to catch sounds more and more easily, until not infrequently they could hear rather well."

"The secret of the success consisted not in any increase in the power to hear, but entirely in training the attention to recognize and differentiate sounds, so that what at first seemed a confused murmur gradually became intelligible."

All of which goes to confirm the statement that there is undoubtedly such a thing as aiding the deaf through mental means. Though, of course, the less the degree of deafness the more efficacious such means will be.

WIND CAUSED BY DIFFERENCE IN TEMPERATURE

is caused by difference in temperature or by the rotation of the earth. An area of heat will cause the atmosphere to rise and create a vacuum into which the cooler air will rush. At the equator the earth rotates at the rate of a thousand miles an hour toward the east. It would seem then that the atmosphere ought to blow toward the west at the rate of a thousand miles an hour. But as a revolving rod in a glass of soda gradually sets the surrounding liquid rotating at a like speed, so the atmosphere almost gains the speed of the earth and the air is practically calm. However, a slight difference in speed causes the so-called trade winds that blow somewhat steadily toward the west. At a high altitude these winds blow at about 70 miles an hour.

First Telegraph Line in U. S. was from Washington to Baltimore, 1843.

ILLIATE MALES

ORDINANCE NO. 831

AN ORDINANCE CALLING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON THE 29TH DAY OF AUGUST, 1922, AND SUBMITTING TO THE QUALIFIED VOTERS OF SAID CITY CERTAIN PROPOSITIONS OF INCURRING INDEBTEDNESS AND ISSUING BONDS THEREFOR.

WHEREAS, the Council of the City of Glendale at its regular meeting held on the 31st day of July, 1922, by vote of two-thirds of its members, duly passed and adopted resolutions determining that the public interest and necessity demand the acquisition, construction and completion of certain municipal improvements hereinafter in this Ordinance described, and demand the expenditure for municipal purposes of said City of the estimated cost as hereinafter stated of each of said improvements, and that the estimated cost of each of said municipal improvements is, and will be, too great to be paid out of the ordinary annual income and revenue of said city, and the expenditure of the estimated cost of each of said improvements cannot be provided for out of the ordinary revenue of said City.

NOW, THEREFORE, THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE DO ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS: Section 1. That a special election be held and the same hereby called and ordered to be held, in the City of Glendale on the 29th day of August, 1922, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said City several propositions of incurring an indebtedness and issuing bonds for the purposes set forth in said resolutions and hereinafter stated.

Section 2. The first proposition of incurring an indebtedness to be submitted at said election shall be as follows: The objects and purposes for which said indebtedness is proposed to be incurred and bonds issued therefor are as follows: The acquisition, construction and completion of an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and of the necessary furniture and equipment therefor. That the estimated cost of said improvement is the sum of $40,000.00; that the amount of the principal of said indebtedness to be incurred therefor is the sum of $40,000.00, and the maximum rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness shall be six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, which rate shall not be exceeded in the issuance of bonds for such indebtedness.

Said first proposition of incurring an indebtedness shall be designated on the ballots used at said election by the following question, to-wit: "Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $40,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and the necessary furniture and equipment therefor?"

That if said first proposition for incurring an indebtedness so submitted at said election receives two-thirds of the votes of the qualified voters voting at said election, bonds of said City in the amount of $40,000.00 shall be issued and sold for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing said municipal improvement. Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness.

Section 3. The second proposition of incurring an indebtedness to be submitted at said election shall be as follows: The objects and purposes for which said indebtedness is proposed to be incurred and bonds issued therefor are as follows: The acquisition, construction and completion of an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and of the necessary furniture and equipment therefor. That the estimated cost of said improvement is the sum of $40,000.00; that the amount of the principal of said indebtedness to be incurred therefor is the sum of $40,000.00, and the maximum rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness shall be six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, which rate shall not be exceeded in the issuance of bonds for such indebtedness.

Said second proposition of incurring an indebtedness shall be designated on the ballots used at said election by the following question, to-wit: "Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $40,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and the necessary furniture and equipment therefor?"

That if said second proposition for incurring an indebtedness so submitted at said election receives two-thirds of the votes of the qualified voters voting at such election, bonds of said City in the amount of $40,000.00 shall be issued and sold for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing said municipal improvement. Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness.

Section 4. The third proposition of incurring an indebtedness to be submitted at said election shall be as follows: The objects and purposes for which said indebtedness is proposed to be incurred and bonds issued therefor are as follows: The acquisition, construction and completion of an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and of the necessary furniture and equipment therefor. That the estimated cost of said improvement is the sum of $40,000.00; that the amount of the principal of said indebtedness to be incurred therefor is the sum of $40,000.00, and the maximum rate of interest to be paid on such indebtedness shall be six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, which rate shall not be exceeded in the issuance of bonds for such indebtedness.

Said third proposition of incurring an indebtedness shall be designated on the ballots used at said election by the following question, to-wit: "Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $40,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and the necessary furniture and equipment therefor?"

tion to the other matters required by law. Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $40,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring, constructing and completing an addition to the present City Hall of the City of Glendale and the necessary furniture and equipment therefor? Yes No

"Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $40,000.00 for the improvement of streets, including the installation therein of water pipes and appurtenances for fire protection and public school property and other public property in the City of Glendale?" Yes No

"Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $25,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring land in the City of Glendale and constructing and completing thereon buildings with sanitary equipment and facilities commonly known as public comfort stations?" Yes No

Section 7. In all particulars not recited in this ordinance said election shall be held as provided by law for the holding of municipal elections in said City.

Section 8. The precincts established by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles for the general State elections in the City of Glendale are hereby adopted and established as the precincts for the holding of said special election, and for each of said precincts the polling place and election officers hereinafter designated and named after the designation of each such precinct are hereby established and appointed as follows: Glendale City Precinct No. 1: Polling place: Garage, 1549 Glenwood Road. Stories of Famous Cases By Detective NICK HARRIS

THE POLICEMAN'S TRYST In Three Parts—Part 1

There is much of humor in the police and detective business. A whole volume could be written on the funny things that happen and never see the light of day. Of such was the romance of Policeman No. 111, who was lured from the path of duty by the witchery of a piquant face, and nearly shocked into bachelorhood. Herewith the story of a July tryst, with an Oriental touch.

Policeman No. 111 had his quota of romance buried deep within his brass buttoned boogie. He was the older of nine boys, with not a girl in the family, and he grew up, as many lads do, with supreme contempt for the genus feminine in every phase and form. It was not a hate—just an indifference, based upon a sense of masculine superiority. He felt they were useless appendages upon the caudal ornament of progress, and throughout his younger years he ignored them.

There was such a thing as love. Of that Policeman No. 111 had no doubt. He had seen the word in print, he had heard it sung about in popular songs, and he had seen men and women do strange and queer things under the mysterious propulsion of its hidden forces. But it had never touched him. Love he associated with women. It was a molly-coddle pastime and went with wrist watches, perfumes and such things. He in love? "Where do you get that stuff?"

Such was Policeman No. 111—blase, indifferent to female charm, contemptuous of the "ladies man" and wholly superior to the thrills of which the flesh is heir when dainty pink and fluffy visions cross the path of vision. At the age of 32 he was a strong, upstanding, clean limbed, flat-thighed, efficient member of a metropolitan department, assigned to traffic duty. He was bronzed by the wind and sun, healthy and wore his uniform like a glove. He was, in short, in the vernacular of his craft, "a handsome geek."

Policeman No. 111 was stationed at a certain park crossing during the rush hours of the day. Many a feminine eye turned his way longingly from behind the curtained seclusion of a finely upholstered limousine. Many a heart fluttered just a bit at that particular spot as he touched his cap in impersonal recognition to the tid-bits that fluttered by. But of all this Policeman No. 111 was wholly unconscious. With him, it was his friendly interest behind it—only the politeness required by his particular brand of duty.

The story has to do with the month of July, however, a queer, upsetting kind of a month. The poets rave of June—of its weather, of its spring stirrings, of the queer thoughts and dreams that go pounding through the brains. When these dreams come true or become madness and the virgins of a world-old insanity pounds at the temples. A man may fight off the insidious temptation of a drilly June and fall a prey to the trunk suggestion of a fragrant July. So Policeman No. 111.

It was 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A sprinkler on which Policeman No. 111 was meditating on the miseries of human existence. A moist, refreshing smell arose from the steaming pavements, that had baked steadily in the mid-summer heat. On the edge of the curb—the park curb—a maid from one of the wealthy homes along the boulevard, passed to let the stream of traffic pass her, a baby carriage containing some body's expensive heir, balanced on its hind wheels expectantly.

Indefinitely might the stage have remained set thus but for the appearance of Mrs. Van W—, a prominent society woman, en route to an afternoon bridge with an intimate friend. They were gossiping in Mrs. Van W—'s limousine, as women are wont to do, and Mrs. Van W— to be perfectly frank with the facts, was not paying a great deal of attention to her driving. She was on an open boulevard, and the car was bowling along easily. Mrs. Van W— at the wheel.

Policeman 111 was in the act of hitching up his belt when there came the sudden screech of brakes, and a bevy of feminine screams. The next instant, Mrs. Van W—'s family vehicle pivoted sharply on a wet pavement left by the passing sprinkler, slewed half around and careened into the maid, with the baby carriage tilted back on its wheels. As the wheels of the motor car struck the curb the glass shattered out of the windows with a merry tinkle, piling the occupants in a heap on the floor.

Policeman No. 111 broke into a run. Naturally tender hearted, the thought of a crushed baby, mangled through the careless driving of a thoughtless woman, made him sick to his stomach. As he ran, he cursed under his breath, both the man who made progress, and the woman who permitted his wife to drive in that fashion. He rounded the rear end of the machine and brought up sharply. These sprawled gracefully on the lawn, was the pretty little maid, knees drawn up, head cocked on one side, and the baby in its carriage quite unhurt. As Policeman No. 111 plunged into the picture the girl glanced up quite calm eyed, took in his neat uniform and his startled, concerned face, and smiled what Policeman 111 afterwards told himself was a "perfect million-dollar smile."

One Sunday a well-known comedian while touring Scotland ventured to indulge in a tune on the piano, but had played but a few bars when the landlady rushed in, exclaiming: "Oh, please remember it's Sunday. What will the neighbors say?" The comedian went out for a walk. On his return he peeped into the kitchen and found the lady busy ironing.

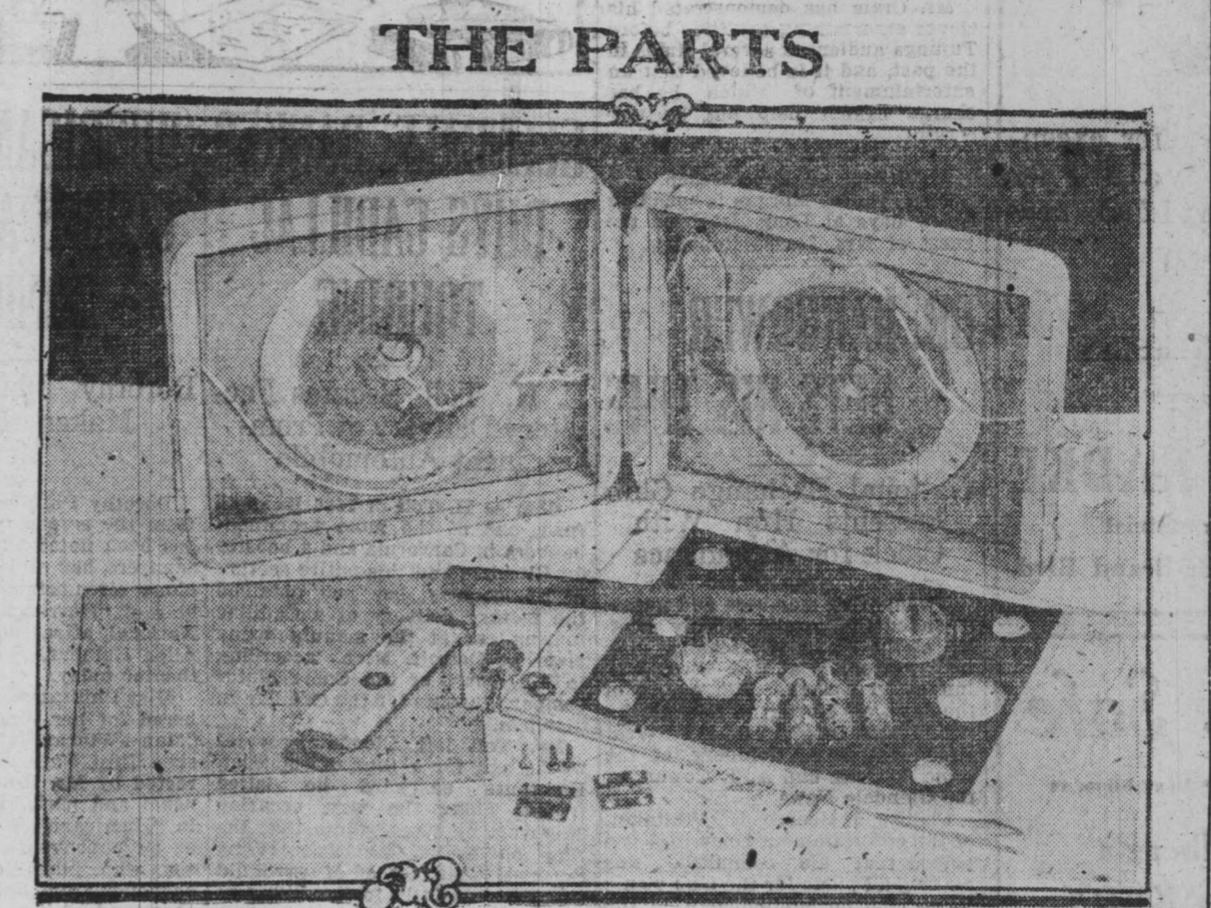

"What about Sunday now?" he inquired in tones of reproach. "Oh," replied the landlady, "the neighbors can't hear me ironing." Brown invariably came home late Saturday night very much lit up. The wife's method of coping with the situation was a broomstick and violent abuse. A soft-hearted friend suggested to her that kindness might work where violence did not. The following Saturday Mrs. Brown met her erring spouse with, "You are late dear. But I have supper waiting. Come in and make yourself comfortable." Brown reeled in, winked significantly. "Go as far as you like, dearie," he mumbled. "I'll get hell when I get home, anyway."

At one of the dormitories of a well-known college for women two young housemaids were comparing notes on academic life. "Well," said Norah, dimpling, "the faculty has the brains and the college girls have the clothes, but believe me, the maids have the looks!"

TUJUNGA ARTISTS TO FORM CLUB

Meeting Tomorrow Night at Legion Hall to Start Organization

TUJUNGA, Aug. 10.—A meeting of local artists will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Legion hall for the purpose of forming a permanent art club here.

The call for the meeting, which is open to everyone interested, has been issued by Percy McNeely, who is known to local art lovers most particularly by his painting of TuJunga exhibited at last year's Moon festival.

Arrangements are being made to hold an art exhibit during the festival this year in accordance with suggestions made by the committee in charge.

Craig Preparing Entertainments
Two free entertainments for the Sunday Moon festival program are being prepared by Ian Craig, chairman of the program committee for that day.

"The Irish Justice," a one-act farce presented under Mr. Craig's direction at an American Legion entertainment last winter, will be repeated with musical and other numbers added.

Mr. Craig has demonstrated his clever entertaining qualities before TuJunga audiences several times in the past, and it is believed that an entertainment of which he has charge cannot help but be successful.

DR. HARROWER GETS HIS TIME

National Exchange Club Presents Him With Clock for Attendance

Twenty-five members and guests attended the regular weekly meeting of the National Exchange club held yesterday at the Broadway inn at 12 o'clock. The guests of the day were Norton P. Buck of the "Stocking Box," at 211 West Broadway, J. A. Goldberger, of the same address, and A. T. Cowan, of the Glendale News.

Chairman George H. Whitaker, of the entertainment committee, reported that his committee was making all plans for the club picnic to be held on September 9, at the new city park. He promised that he would make a detailed report at the next meeting.

E. N. Radke and W. C. Waring were appointed as a committee to provide a rest tent in the name of the Exchange club at the Merchants' Credit association picnic, scheduled for next Wednesday.

F. E. Hoyt gave an interesting resume of his visit last week to the Long Beach Exchange club. He told of the enthusiastic welcome given him because of the fact of his membership in the local organization.

It was decided by vote that a 70 percent attendance would hereafter be required of members in order to retain membership in the organization. Also, the hour of meeting was set at 12:15 to 1:15 p. m.

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson reported that he expects as his guest at the meeting next Wednesday, Congressman Lineberger. A record attendance is anticipated.

The attendance prize, which was a beautiful alarm clock furnished by S. F. Bell, of the Wilson-Bell Hardware Company, was won by Dr. Henry R. Harrower. In accepting this prize Dr. Harrower invited the regular attendants of the club to be his guests at "Sandy Noon," his new seaside cottage at Santa Monica. The affair will take place on Sunday, August 20.

George H. Thomas, of the Brand boulevard branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank, reported that the bankers of Glendale did not favor keeping open on either Saturday afternoon or evening. It was found upon investigation that this was not a business necessity at the present time. It was therefore voted not to send out questionnaires to business men on this subject, as had been arranged last week.

Finally, President Kelly urged all club members to be present at a mass meeting at the high school this evening to participate in a discussion of the high school proposition.

DISCUSSES HAWAII PROBLEM

Dr. Elwood Mead, professor of rural institutions in the University of California, has just returned to Berkeley after a month spent in the Hawaiian Islands as special advisor to the Hawaiian homes commission.

The Hawaiian government entered upon a plan a number of years ago designed to get men and their families upon the soil, but it proved a failure. Government lands were subdivided into small blocks of five to fifty acres and sold on a lottery basis and sometimes upon terms more attractive to land speculators than to genuine farmers. The speculating element, lack of marketing facilities and expensive transportation are some of the factors which combined to bring the efforts of the government mostly to naught. However, a few of those taking up the land proved to be genuine farmers and succeeded in spite of obstacles.

1. Instead of resorting to lottery, select carefully the occupants of farm sites. Get farmers, not land speculators.
2. Provide roads on the land and remove enough of the many obstacles of getting started, so that the farmer has a fair chance to succeed.
3. Provide market facilities and such expert advice as the farmer needs.

THE GAME

It wasn't that the players didn't play.
It wasn't that the pitcher didn't stay.
But instead of an assist
With the ball right in his fist
Somebody threw the baseball game away.

A hit, a race to first, a mighty shout,
An error, and the runner wasn't out.
And the error—just that one
Grew to be the winning run.
When it should have been the other way about.

It wasn't that the pitcher lost his nerve.
It wasn't that he didn't have his curve.
It was not that at all.
He had plenty on the ball,
And a lot he didn't use still in reserve.

It wasn't that the batters didn't hit,
It wasn't that they did not have the grit,
But one player out of nine
Threw too high and out of line,
And that one error made a mess of it.

So eight men played the best they knew that day
And one man threw the baseball game away.
So it's team work that counts
To the most—it's that that counts,
In quite every game in life you chance to play.

GLENDALE BANKER BUYS CADILLAC TOURING

C. H. Toll Secures Factory Delivery of Prominent Automobile

Charles H. Toll of 1635 Kenneth road, one of the most prominent bankers in California and a booster for Glendale and his entire section of the country, has just obtained the factory delivery of a Cadillac touring car at the manufacturing plant at Detroit, Mich., according to Mr. Court of the Court Motor company, agents for the Cadillac in Glendale.

Mr. Toll left Glendale several weeks ago for a tour of the east. En route eastward he visited friends along the way, securing stopovers at many points that the line on which he was riding touched. This method of travel did not prove entirely to the liking of Mr. and Mrs. Toll. It appeared as though they were touching only the high spots, so they decided to make the remainder of the jaunt by automobile. They journeyed on to Detroit and annexed one of those beautiful and trusty Cadillacs.

It is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Toll to tour the east in their new machine and after taking in all the sights in that section to make the journey across country to Glendale in their new acquisition. Mr. Toll has been driving Cadillac machines for the past ten years, and according to the message received from him from the east, he felt no hesitancy in placing his order for the type 61 touring to be delivered without being previously seen.

A Year Ago Today

From the Glendale Daily Press of August 10, 1921.

Secretary James M. Rhoades of the chamber of commerce announced today that when the new chamber of commerce building has been completed that there will be a big two-day celebration to mark the event.

According to the figures of City Treasurer John W. Staufferer taxable property values in Glendale are soaring rapidly. He said that the total taxes will reach $12,714,190.

Yesterday the police declared war on motorists who drove through the city with the mufflers of their automobiles open. Five drivers fell into the clutches of the law.

Floyd "Lefty" Herman, right-fighter for Gus Gleichman's Eskimos, will have a tryout with the big leagues next season is the latest report. Herman is a Glendalean and was at one time a star on the Glendale Union high school ball team.

demonstrating the feasibility of the plan.

Through the Hawaiian homes commission the Hawaiian government is now making a fresh start and were aided greatly by advice given them by Dr. Mead. Beside giving the commission a few pointers, Dr. Mead gave the following pointers to the farmers:

"Make the social life of your rural community so pleasant that your women folk and children will not hanker to go to the city to live."

Following are the pointers Dr. Mead gave the Hawaiian commission:

1. Instead of resorting to lottery, select carefully the occupants of farm sites. Get farmers, not land speculators.
2. Provide roads on the land and remove enough of the many obstacles of getting started, so that the farmer has a fair chance to succeed.
3. Provide market facilities and such expert advice as the farmer needs.

'HURRICANE'S GAL' CLOSING AT T.D.L. TONIGHT

Dorothy Phillips Film Makes Big Hit Here

Dorothy Phillips, whose absence from the screen for some months has been noted with regret by her admirers, has returned under auspicious circumstances. She is the star of "Hurricane's Gal," a First National attraction, produced by Allen Holubar, at the T. D. and L. theater today.

Miss Phillips, who will be remembered for her remarkable work in "Man-Woman-Marrriage," a massive First National attraction directed by Mr. Holubar, has an unusual and particularly fitting part in "Hurricane's Gal." She is cast as an unconventional maid of the sea, who, inheriting a smuggling schooner from her father, takes command of it and rules with the same iron hand and relentlessness which characterized her father.

NORTH FAVORS GOV. STEPHENS

So Reports County Supervisor Cogswell of Los Angeles

Supervisor Prescott F. Cogswell, who is the happy position of being a candidate without opposition for re-election to the Los Angeles county board of supervisors, has returned from Eureka, where he has been in attendance at the state convention of supervisors.

"Throughout the north," states Supervisor Cogswell, "the sentiment in favor of the re-election of Governor William D. Stephens appears to be almost unanimous. It is his opinion that the governor will receive the republican nomination by the largest majority ever given to a gubernatorial candidate in California."

COAL CONFEREES TO GATHER TODAY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 10.—Peace negotiations will be opened here late today between miners' leaders and minority coal operators of the central competitive field without the insurgents of Illinois, Indiana and Western Pennsylvania.

No further attempts will be made to bring in the insurgents who are holding out for wage agreements at the mines or in small districts.

At the time for the final conference approached, it was apparent that the ranks of the operators were in confusion, while the miners maintained a solid front.

Refusal of the Illinois operators to attend was a setback. Announcement had been made that the Danville, Ill., district with a tonnage of about 6,000,000 would have representatives here.

The policy committee of the United Mine Workers met at 10 a. m. today, to discuss the situation in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

4. Give the farmer all the land he can work, but no more. Don't handicap him with a farm that is too large.

5. Remove the temptation to speculate by retaining some "strings" on the land. Give the farmer full title, but retain the right to select his successor as carefully as he was selected for his job.

If the average man could only sell the advice he gives away it would keep him busy looking after his income.

TIMELY BOOKS NOW OBTAINABLE FROM BRANCH LIBRARY

Charles H. Cushing, Librarian, Makes Interesting Announcement

A list of timely books available at the Glendale branch library, 1401 South Brand boulevard, has been issued by Charles H. Cushing, librarian. The list includes interesting matter on home canning, on astronomy and in lighter vein, a survey of summer readings.

The list follows:
"Especially timely just now at the fruit season is Lippincott's manual of 'Successful Canning and Preserving,' by Ola Powell, connected with the United States department of Agriculture," says Mr. Cushing. "It covers the subject in a very thorough and practical manner, including pickling, jelly-making and the preservation of meats."
"Behind the Mirrors," by an anonymous writer of Washington, D. C., gives brilliant and caustic characterizations of many of the prominent statesmen and politicians, the one of Hiram Johnson being of particular interest to us just now.

"The New Heaven," by G. E. Hale, director of the Mount Wilson observatory, is a brief account of the very latest discoveries in the astronomical field.

"The Cowboy," by P. A. Rollins, treats that individual, not as the picturesque hero of a western thriller, but as an important character in the social and industrial development of the west.

"The Story of Mankind," by Van Loon, does for juvenile readers what Wells' "Outline of History" does for the adult; traces the evolution of life on the earth from the earliest prehistoric times down through the days of modern civilization, showing with very graphic illustrations, the sequence of cause and effect.

"A very fine edition of the 'Standard Lectures' is especially valuable as being an authentic record of the countries of Europe and Asia in the days before conditions were changed by the World war and before the omnipresence of the automobile.

Some juvenile books with notable illustrations:
"Browning's 'Pied Piper,'" illustrated by Kate Greenaway.
"Indian Child Life," by Deming.
"Little Women," illustrated by Jessie Wilcox Smith.
"Howard Pyle's Book of Pirates," illustrated by the author.

Among the new fiction, "The Three Godfathers," by Peter B. Kyrle, is a very beautiful little story showing, as it does, how love of a little child can kindle the divine spark which is to be found even in the most depraved of human beings.

Some other titles are:
Adult, non-fiction
"South," by Sir Ernest Shackleton.
"The Congo and Other Poems," by Lindsay.
"Creative Chemistry," by Slosson.
"The American Novel" and "Contemporary American Novelists," by Van Doren.
"Manual of Gardening," by L. H. Bailey.
"Principles of Human Geography," by Huntington and Cushing.
"A Straight Deal or the Ancient Grudge," by Wister.
"The Love Match" (a play), by Arnold Bennett.
"Russia and the World," by Graham.
"Wanderings of a Spiritualist," by Doyle.
"Poems of the Great War," Cuffie edition.
"The Book of Landscape Gardening," by Waugh.
"The Haunts of Life," by Thompson.
"Prosperity, How to Attract It," by Marden.
"The Open Spaces," by Van Dyke.
"It is to Laugh," by Gebster.
"Plum Pudding," by Morley.
"Everyday Life in the Old Stone Age," by Quennell.
"International Relations," by Bryce.
"The Great Adventure at Washington," by Sullivan.
"Mounded Justice," by Mayo.
"Chronicles of Chicora Wood," by Mrs. Pringle.
"Their Wedding Journey," by Howells.
"The Man Without a Country and Other Stories," by Hale.
"Mr. Waddington of Wyck," by Sinclair.
"Robin," by Mrs. Burnett, the sequel to "Head of the House of Coomb."
"The American Ambassador," by Byrne.
Juvenile
"The Little Match Man," by Barzini.
"The Black Buccaneer," by Meador.
"The Wolf Hunters," by Grinnell.
"The Mark of the Knife," by Ernest.
"The Wrecking Master," by Paine.
"The Boys' Life of Abraham Lincoln," by Niclax.
"The Boys' Life of Edison," by Meadowcroft.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT SPEAKS ON REFORMS

Discusses Federal Court Procedure and Its Progress

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The convention of the American Bar association, in session here, this morning listened to one of the most important addresses ever delivered before the association when Chief Justice William Howard Taft spoke on "Reforms in Federal Procedure."

This subject is one of the most important ones before the Bar association at the present time, and every effort is being made to have congress pass a number of laws relating to federal procedure.

Chief Justice Taft made a recent thorough investigation of the English system, especially in view of speeding up the law's delays, in connection with this subject.

Following Taft's address a report on the committee on promotion of American ideas was made by Martin J. Wade of Iowa.

During the afternoon reports by chairmen of committees were made to the convention. The following committee reports were made by chairmen:

Criminal Law, by Edwin M. Abbott; Comparative Law, by Robert P. Schick; Judicial Section, by John H. Briscoe; Legal Education, by Elihu Root; Patent, Trade Mark and Copyright Law, by A. C. Paul; Public Utility Law, by Charles R. Brock; National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, by Henry Stockbridge; Conference of Bar Association Delegates, by Clarence N. Goodwin; Professional Ethics and Grievances, by Thomas Francis Howe; Commerce, Trade and Commercial Law, by W. H. H. Platt; International Law, by James Brown Scott; Insurance Law, by Arthur I. Vorys; Publicity, by Mitchell D. Follansbee; Memorials, by W. Thomas Kemp; Jurisprudence and Law Reform, by Everett P. Wheeler.

At the evening session Vice-President Calvin Coolidge is scheduled to deliver an important address.

W. B. Swaney of Tennessee, chairman of the committee on law enforcement, will deliver an important report following Vice-President Coolidge's speech, following which general discussion will be held.

U. S. IS MOST LAWLESS NATION

Declares Judge Swaney Before American Bar Association

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The United States is the most lawless nation in the world today, according to a report made to the American Bar association by Judge William G. Swaney, chairman of the law enforcement committee of the association.

The report showed that since 1910, there has been "a steady and terrible increase" in homicides, burglaries and robberies throughout the country. Criminals number a little less than one-third of 1 percent of the population, the report declared.

The attitude of the American citizen when called upon to aid in actual administration of justice is blamed in large part for the situation.

"The American temperament adjusts itself to sympathy for the accused and a corresponding disregard for the rights of the public," he reported said.

"We find that the parole and probation laws as now administered generally fail to accomplish the purpose for which they are designed and weaken the administration of criminal justice."

"We recommend that first offenders and only first offenders be eligible for probation. It is our opinion that the means provided in the United States for coping with crime and criminals are today neither adequate nor efficient."

"We find that 90 percent of the murders in the United States are committed by the use of pistols. We recommend that the manufacture and sale of pistols and ammunition be absolutely prohibited, save for governmental and official use under proper legal regulation and control."

The committee also recommended that but one appeal be allowed in criminal cases, in order to speed up the administration of justice. Elimination of dilatory motions in criminal cases and limitation of the time under which judges may hold cases under advisement, stern lynching laws, stricter bond laws, competent and legal advice for the poor and other measures recommended.

"Bobby's mother was anxious to know whether he had obeyed her injunctions or behaved himself at the party. He was sure that he had. When Mrs. Smith asked me if I wanted more cake I said, 'No, thank you.' His mother was relieved, but wanted to know more. 'Did she ask you again?' 'Yes, and I still told her, 'No, thank you.' But after a while she asked me another time. 'And what did you answer that time?' Bobby looked confident. 'I said what pa always says—'Take the darned
