

PLANT IN MASSES

SOME SUGGESTIONS BY ERNEST BRAUNTON FOR CITY BEAUTIFUL

A great fundamental rule in landscape gardening is to plant in masses and not in isolated specimens; to groups instead of scattering. Orchards are planted for economic reasons, giving each tree a like amount of space. This insures uniformity of growth and bearing, ease and economy in cultivation, irrigation and harvesting. No such considerations enter garden planting or ornamentals. On the contrary, art, with a due regard for utility, is the inspiration of the landscape designer.

Trees, shrubs and lowly plants should be grouped, each kind by itself, for nature does so, and we should follow her dictates. In this way you not only get artistic and natural effects, but decided character; for so planted, every part of the garden stands for one thing, and one only, and is not duplicated. Therefore, every step marks an advance into something new, and from one end to the other "no scene is twice seen," nor any kind of tree or shrub or landscape effect met with a second time. It would never do to find roses, carnations, acacias or pines in all parts, or all would have similar effects and character and there would be no incentive or stimulus for a walk about a garden where one glance at any part would show the plants and effects that obtained in any and all parts. The unit of government or nation is the family. The Smiths live here and the Joneses there, and families are on every hand—all together, yet each different from the others. So plant.

In the house you may have a goodly collection of minerals, but all are in one room and in one cabinet. Your sea shells are kept together, also Indian baskets. Books are in the library—all in order; every part of the interior has a character and its own and without specific rivalry. In a grocery store spices have one corner, pastry, etc., another, and fruits still another. Why do we in business house and residence, both master and mistress, respectively maintain such orderly disposition and yet throw common sense to the winds when planning or planting the garden? Where, at such times, do both system and art hide their faces? Why has method fled and madness taken its place? The majority of home owners enter their premises in a hurry, gliding into the house with never a look at the garden, for it does not attract. In the house both needs and wants have been considered; all is convenience and comfort, snug, secluded, yours and yours alone. Outside all is bald and open, as free to view of all as of yourself; no shady seat, or cool or comfortable retreat, or pleasing variety, or even indication of exclusive ownership is in sight. How, then, can you feel the pride of possession? Surely you cannot enjoy that you have not. What is the trouble? You have not planned or planted aright or with any forethought, or with comfort and enjoyment in mind. You have a home inside, but no suggestion of one outside. It is possible to make the exterior the more attractive, for it presents a broader scope, is nearer to nature. Not magic, but common sense and a little study of the matter, will suggest a solution to the problem.

Too much praise cannot be given the secretary of the association, Mr. Walter M. Ross, whose untiring energy has kept him at his post for the past week.

FIRST SHOW A SUCCESS

POULTRY ASSOCIATION MEMBERS JUSTLY JUBILANT OVER FIRST SHOW

Some poultry shows just happen. The present show given by the Glendale-Tropico association is, in one sense of the word, a chance affair.

Three or four weeks ago six or seven poultry raisers of this vicinity met and formulated plans for organizing an association and giving a show. It was getting late in the season and everything had to be planned and worked out quickly. The organization was formed and the show put on. What is the result? Simply a great, grand show—a show that has not only been a grand success from every standpoint, but a show that has increased the interest of our poultry raisers an hundred fold.

It has been the means of local poultry men meeting each other, exchanging ideas, comparing their stock with others, and in many other ways has been the means of promoting the poultry industry in this community.

WALTER M. ROSS
Secy. Glendale-Tropico Poultry and Pet Stock Association

The officers and members of the association are deserving proud of this, their first show. They have worked hard in hand in giving this show and trying at all times to make everybody feel that it is everybody's show.

To the officers and managers of this show are justly due much favorable comment. President Royce, with his associates, have been untiring in their efforts to make this exhibition the foundation upon which to build an association which will eventually give this valley the publicity which it justly deserves, and at the same time promote a friendly feeling among the poultrymen of this section, which will be far-reaching in its effect.

Too much praise cannot be given the secretary of the association, Mr. Walter M. Ross, whose untiring energy has kept him at his post for the past week.

THREE LITTLE SOLDIERS

Three little orphans, Gertrude, Hildegard and Elizabeth Nielebock, 12, 10 and 6 years of age, respectively, are traveling with the German refugees back to the land that their parents called home, but the land they know of only by hearsay. Their mother died about a year ago and their father, an official on the Shantung railroad, has been detained by the Japanese, and is active in the transportation problems of Eastern China.

Gertrude is the "little mother." On her devolves the care of the two younger sisters, and never for even a moment does she allow them to stray from her sight. "Father told me to take good care of them," she said, and she realizes her duty. She understands the problems of the time and is continually calling attention of her sisters to the wonder of their travels, diverting their minds from the losses they have suffered.

Arriving in Germany, they will be sent to their uncle, Otto Schmidt, member of the Landsturm of the province of Magdeburg, residing in the town of Gentiem. Like three little soldiers, the orphans courtesied together when presented with their gift of flowers, candy and fruit, expressing a pretty thanks for the tributes.

INDEPENDENTS ARE HUSTLERS

The Glendale Independents, the lightweight basketball team which was organized recently, is out hustling selling tickets for their show tonight at the Majestic theater. The boys plan in this way to finance their games in the A. A. U. series for the lightweight championship of Southern California. The boys are asking only the support of this entertainment in return for their representing Glendale as a team.

The members of the team are Sidney Simon, Johnnie Lovejoy, Joe Fishel, Douglas Balthis and "Shorty" Thomas. With the exception of the latter, all are local boys.

MORAL LAW OF GOD

MAN SHALL BE SAVED BY THE POWER OF LOVE OF HIS FELLOW MAN

To the Ministerial Union of Glendale:

Gentlemen: In addressing you I assume that each of you has studied and comprehends the moral laws of God transmitted to us through Jesus the Christ, and made record of by Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Having that knowledge of the laws declared by Christ, has it never occurred to you that by your efforts to forcibly regulate the morals of your brothers you are transgressing the fundamental law of God, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself?" Jesus in his life and in all his teachings recognized the fact that God created man a free moral agent, and all his commands are to the effect that man shall be saved by the power of love of man for his fellow man, that man cannot be driven into the kingdom of heaven.

Whenever we try to forcibly limit the freedom of our brothers, we by that act transgress the moral law of God. The Sermon on the Mount gives specific instructions how each individual shall regulate his own life and how the other fellow shall be permitted absolute freedom of action. Furthermore, Christ's commands are to the effect that the other fellow shall be permitted to transgress the law, not only once, but seventy times seven and then some, and we must always forgive the transgression.

That is the essence of the law of love by which Jesus would bring all men into the kingdom of God as petitioned in the Lord's Prayer.

BROKE THE RECORD

The attendance at the Congregational Sunday school broke the record by six. One hundred and sixty-six were present. This was the more noticeable as no special effort had been made to secure an extra attendance. Work on the new Sunday school rooms is progressing rapidly.

An unusual large audience was present at the 11 o'clock service. Dr. Williford gave a strong and helpful sermon on "The Potter and the Clay." Those who were present in the evening heard an interesting sermon by the pastor on the text, "Ephraim Feedeth on Wind."

Those who heard Dr. Williford Sunday are speaking of the day's sermons as two of the ablest and most helpful of the many good sermons which he has preached in Glendale.

TROPICO

Mrs. J. W. Tupper is entertaining Miss Lettie Wilson of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Chas. Martin of Buena Park was the recent guest of Mrs. F. I. Marsh.

Another of the delightful evenings given by the Parent-Teacher association occurred Tuesday evening at the Tropico school. Mrs. Eustace Benton Moore, as chairman of the program committee, had arranged a splendid program, with Mr. Clark of the juvenile court and Mrs. Plannet of Glendale as speakers. Mr. Clark in a most interesting way outlined the general work of the court and Mrs. Plannet in her address emphasized the responsibility of fathers. The program was further enhanced by the musical numbers given by the school orchestra, the Girls' Glee club and the solo numbers of Mrs. S. Frederickson, who sang in her usual delightful manner. The talent of the school was ably represented by Master Eugene Boring in his violin solo and Rudolph and Walter Cole in a piano duet. As good measure, Mrs. Moore gave two recitations in her inimitable way. Through the courtesy of Mr. Y. Goto, the hall was artistically decorated with palms, flowers and the graceful pepper boughs.

Mrs. Carl Hollingsworth of Virginia place gave a delightfully appointed dinner on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Los Angeles and the Misses Ada and Ethel Sepler being the fortunate guests.

REACHES NINETIETH YEAR

E. F. Reynolds, 1437 Lake Shore drive, Los Angeles, an old resident of Peoria and Chicago, Ills., reaches his ninetieth year today, the 20th, and his wife and daughter invited to assist in proper observance of the event Samuel Parker of this city, who is the only dinner guest.

Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Parker were close friends in Illinois for about 25 years and the friendship has been continued since coming to the coast. Both these veterans in age are active and optimistic, ready to certify to the "good time coming," as well as on us now.

GLENDALE HIGH WINS

The Glendale Union high school basketball team won from the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. five on the latter's indoor court Tuesday afternoon by a score of 27-18. Being only a practice affair, the Glendale boys did not buckle in as hard as they might, yet those who watched the game claim it was the fastest the locals have played this year.

Coach Wight rung in a couple of "subs" in order to have them ready for any emergency in the championship series. Glendale's line-up was as follows: Nichols and Coole, forwards; Hagan, center; Latter and Kolts, guards; Bidwell and Cramer, substitutes at center and guard, respectively.

Next Saturday Glendale plays Covina for the championship of this section of the county league. The game will be here at Glendale and everyone interested in athletics should turn out for this fray. The Glendale high five is out for the championship of the league and Glendale people can help them along by their attendance.

GLENDALE AUTO RACES

ELKS' PATROL TO ENGINEER BIG SPORTING EVENT HERE IN NEAR FUTURE

The sporting world is looking forward to the classic to be staged in Glendale January 30 under the auspices of the Glendale lodge of Elks.

There are to be two events. The free-for-all is to be a 150-mile affair and is expected to attract some of the well-known figures in the racing world.

A shorter race for amateurs, not outlaw professionals, promises to be an attraction also. This race has the sanction of the A. A. A.

The course will extend from Sixth and Brand to Glendale avenue, thence north to Second, thence west to Brand, and south to Sixth, making a distance of two and a half miles. The grandstand will be at Sixth and Brand.

A purse of something like $5000 with gate receipts added will be well worth the attention of the well-known racers. For the amateur race an Elks' trophy will be the only prize, the money prizes all to go to professionals.

EVANGELISTIC CONFERENCE

Dr. John Balcome Shaw of Immanuel Presbyterian church, Los Angeles, will conduct a conference on evangelism at Presbyterian church, Glendale, tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon, 5 o'clock. In addition to Glendale, delegates will be present from Tropico, Burbank, Eagle Rock and La Canada. This session is open and free to the general public. The Ladies' Aid of the church will serve supper at 6 o'clock to delegates only. This conference is one of a series now being held in and about Los Angeles under the direction of the Presbytery. This conference will be exceedingly informal and will no doubt be attended by a large number other than Presbyterians.

In the evening at the same place a conference is to be held on the general plan of church finances, known as the every-member canvass. Mr. J. H. Bentzen, who is the financial expert for the Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles, will tell perhaps more than any other man can tell—the ups and downs of a financial canvass. This is also open and free to the public. Trustees and those who have to do with any of the church money matters should by all means attend this gathering. Remember the date, Tomorrow evening, Jan. 21st. Evangelistic conference at 5 o'clock. Conference on church finances at 7:30.

"SALOMY JANE"

Beatriz Michelena in "Salomy Jane" is to be at the Palace Grand theater on Sunday, January 23. The photoplay of "Salomy Jane" is declared by film critics to be one of the finest examples of a play made from what was originally a story. "Salomy Jane" on the legitimate stage was popular for years. "Salomy Jane" is the initial production of the California Motion Picture corporation, and the Alca release of Nov. 2. In selecting this play for its initial release, the California Motion Picture corporation chose a vehicle which utilized to the highest degree the romantic setting of Bret Harte's California tale. As a spectator views "Salomy Jane" on the screen, the roaring days of '49, the mining camp, the reckless stage coach wheeling round the mountain side, the hold-up, the vigilantes, the attack and the pursuit, the intense struggles of the strong men, and the whole atmosphere of early California are as clear to him as though he were living in that golden land of long ago.

J. O. C. CLASS

Members of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church met at the home of Miss Esther Andrae, 215 Orange street. In the absence of the president, Miss Ruth Matthiesen, the vice-president, presided. The social committee reported that a masquerade and Valentine party has been planned for January 28 in the social rooms of the church.

Delicious refreshments were served by Miss Andrae, assisted by her mother and Miss Daisy Reinhard. All had a most enjoyable evening and separated to meet again February 2 with Miss Rae Collins on Kenwood street.

A PROTEST MEETING

CITIZENS DEEM TRUSTEES UNREASONABLE IN MAKING EXPENDITURES

About 350 citizens of Glendale assembled in Butler's hall Tuesday evening to listen to protests made by certain citizens who had been previously appointed by local organizations to inquire into the reasonableness of the expenditures made by the city trustees for help and general running expenses of the city.

E. M. McClure was chosen temporary chairman of the meeting, J. F. Tatlow secretary and Geo. T. Paine treasurer.

It is stated that permanent officers will be elected at next Tuesday evening's meeting, which is to be held in Butler's hall.

The instigators of the protest movement claim that they have been prompted to make a fight against the present methods of the board of trustees on account of the increase of the salary of the city manager, and expenses that have come to the city on account of recommendations made by the incumbent of this office.

Now since the ball has been started rolling, there are criticisms being offered along other lines.

The Glendale Evening News does not make a practice of knocking against administrations, or unduly standing in with what city officials do. We think the intentions of the board are all right, however to the average citizen it would seem that a salary of $200 per month for a city manager, considering the present financial conditions, is uncalled for, especially when the various departments of the city have efficient managers.

AUNT EMMA SURPRISED

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 19, 1915, Mrs. M. D. Learned of 308 Jackson street was very agreeably surprised by her relatives to the number of fifteen loaded with popcorn crisp and home-made candy marching in and taking possession. A very pleasant hour was spent in social chat and a general good time was enjoyed by all. Fortunately, Mr. Learned's daughter, Mrs. Ada Leavitt, and her daughter, Doris, from Battle Creek, Mich., arrived about midnight the night before on a visit, and we were glad too that they came in time for the occasion. Not long ago we heard Aunt Emma remark she would like to see anyone get up a surprise party on her. Well, to put it meekly, we rather think she was surprised. After wishing her many returns of the day, we departed to our homes.

PIO PICO'S HOME

Preservation of the old adobe home of General Pio Pico at Whittier, said to be one of the oldest structures in California, is asked in a bill introduced by Senator Cogswell.

General Pico was the last of the Mexican governors of California before it was ceded to the United States. For years the old Pico home has been kept up by a woman's club of Whittier, and it is now proposed to turn it over to the state at a nominal cost to be maintained by the state as a picturesque landmark on the old Camino Real between San Diego and Los Angeles.

The forest service is co-operating with fifty-four railroads, mining companies, pole companies and cities in making tests of wooden ties, timbers, poles, piling and paving blocks which have been given preservative treatments.

THE REASON WHY

Do you know that practically every article of your wearing apparel was sewn on a SINGER Machine? Department Stores use SINGER Machines in their Factories and Fitting Rooms.

Ask your modiste, your corsetiere, your shoemaker, your furrier, what sewing machines they use. They will say "THE SINGER." "There's a reason"—superior excellence.

Possibly you have an old sewing machine or one that is not satisfactory. Do you know that a fair allowance will be made for it in exchange for an up-to-date SINGER at the Singer Store, 1020 West Broadway? E. J. Upham, Sunset phone 656W.

SEAWEED CONTAINS POTASH

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 19.—All along the Pacific coast from Mexico to Alaska there is a vast quantity of fertilizing material in the form of giant seaweed known as "kelp." "This material," says an investigator in the United States department of agriculture's new bulletin (No. 150), "if treated by a process similar to that used to convert the waste from fresh canneries into fertilizers, will yield a commercial fertilizer of particular value because of its relatively large content of potash."

Any scheme for using kelp on a large scale as a fertilizer must be based on some method of concentrating its valuable constituents, because green kelp contains so much water. Investigations seem to show that at present, considering the economic conditions on the Pacific coast, kelp may be best prepared for the trade merely by drying and grinding.

Even wet kelp, which contains 85 per cent moisture, contains 2 1/2 per cent of potash, where stable manure, alfalfa and cowpeas all contain less than one per cent. Drying, however, increases the percentage of potash to 15.8 per cent. This commercial product also has 1.6 per cent of nitrogen and some phosphorus. On the retail market of the Pacific coast the total value of a ton of kelp should be, according to estimates, $22.94. In the eastern wholesale market it should bring $16.45.

The main fertilizers termed "potash carriers" today used in this country are the German potash salts. Laboratory tests have shown that kelp is quite as effective as the potash salts, and dry kelp would enter the trade as a "potash carrier" to compete with the imported products.

Kelp has been used as a fertilizer for centuries in the British Isles, and has been so valued there that lands carrying kelp-harvesting privileges brought special prices. In New England also kelp has been found valuable. The kelp on the Pacific coast differs from the seaweeds of the Atlantic because of their much greater size. Already this product of the sea gardens of the West has been used in Alaska, particularly in fertilizing potatoes and on truck gardens. Near San Pedro kelp has been harvested mechanically and shipped in the crude, undried condition to the ranches and orchards in that part of the state.

MAKING NATIONAL PARKS SELF-SUPPORTING

Appropriations for the national parks by congress during the years from 1906 to 1914 have amounted to $1,121,671, and the revenue during that period has been $385,230. But the era of large expenditure is passing and that of more income is coming, thanks to the increasing number of tourists and campers and especially to the motorists that are finding their way to the superb reservations. Five years ago the total number of visitors was 86,039. Last year it was 239,093. The fees from automobiles and motorcycles during the period from July 1, 1913, to Oct. 20, 1914, amounted to $22,678, and undoubtedly they will increase every year. Some income is obtained from inn concessions, and the new superintendent is planning to establish a model village in each park, with permits granted to carry on business on lines determined by the park officials. There will also be licensed places of amusement.

Changes like these, ordered and executed by the department of the interior, need to be made, no doubt, if consideration is given only to the economic aspect of the matter. The government is in duty bound to retain control of all sources of income, and not to allow any part of it to escape, or the parks to be used by private individuals to exploit visitors. Care must be shown also to avoid commercialization of the reservations and to prevent harm to any of their natural charms. The pressure on officials for concessions no doubt will be intense once it is decided to let business be done; and the revenue derived will seem so fit and so useful that the temptation of department officials may be to lower standards of admission.

The same vigilant public opinion that in the East has in part protected Niagara from vandals will, it would seem, be desirable in regions of the country adjacent to the national parks and reservations. Rightly administered, they will become inexpressibly valuable assets to the vast population that seems likely in time to crowd the region between the Mississippi river and the Pacific ocean. The eastern states never can be so well off in this respect because their opportunities for establishing such reservations, even by a reclamation process, are so slight. Parks like the Yellowstone, the Yosemite and Glacier are not duplicated at will or by spending money.

ILLINOIS LEGISLATIVE SITUATION

There is something chronic in the action of the seventeen Republican "wets" in refusing to take part in the Republican caucus—comic and costly to the state. They labor under the fond delusion that they are protecting the distilling and brewing interests by refusing to join with the other Republicans in nominating and electing a speaker. They are not. If they continue they will bring down on the saloons a storm of popular indignation. There are thousands of people who do not call themselves "drys" who do not propose to have saloon interests dominate the organization of the Illinois legislature.

In 1912 the Republican party was punished, and deservedly. It barely escaped destruction. But now seventeen legislators, elected as Republicans, have put the saloon interests ahead of the general welfare of the state under the guidance of Mr. Cermak, the Democratic diplomatic agent between the Sullivan and the Harrison factions and envoy extraordinary of the United Societies. We wonder how Republicans—say in St. Clair or in Whiteside counties—view the Democratic diplomacy in arranging the selection of a Republican speaker.

To be sure, the fault is not wholly on one side. The "drys" in only a degree less than the "wets" incline to the exaltation of their special interests.

If the Republicans hope to confirm two years hence their present re-entry into political favor, they would do well to moderate their differences. The "drys" as well as the "wets" should undertake that the speaker shall permit no advantage to either and forthwith elect a speaker.—Chicago Tribune.
