CITIZENS' MEETING.

The meeting of the citizens of the first district take a place that afternoon, at Davis's hall-room, and if the importance of the object be considered, it is to be hoped that a general expression of the public opinion may be had. Handelity in Triumsion and the most marked punishment. Mr. Perhaps Mr. Biddle thinks that coaring will do better. Give who owes his elevation to the post he has so nictantly dishonared, to the confidence and partiality of physicking in fillow-cirizens, has violated the frust which has been reposed in him, and has appeared inimical to those interests amount one he was sent to represent, because they have militated such conduct be resented? Shall not the representative outerm his wishes to the judgment of his constituents, and they the voice of instruction? The occasion in momentous but the citizens resort in crowds to this meeting, and le them make an example of their present worthy and faithful senator, to deter others from incurring the responsibilities of similar delinquencies. Remember 7 o'clock at Davis's hall-

To complete the debates in the logislature upon the Citizens' Bank, we give to-day the proceedings in the house up on the reception of the hill from the senate.

To give place to a number of important items of foreign ; ews, received by the recent arrivals, we have been obliged to torego our design of giving to-day, as we promised, Mr. Rives' valedictory. If nothing should intervene, we shall publish it in our next.

We ask the attention of our readers to the following arti ele copied from the Bulletin of yesterday morning, as fully sustaining the position we have all along maintained, as to the fact of the U. S. Bank occasioning the existing pressure as t the capada of that institution to afford instantaneou relies, if so disposed. We are told, and the source from whence the information proceeds may be deemed official, that "a generous policy on the part of the branch here would be immediately fullenced by the local institutions, and the happy consequences of this change [mark reader, mark!] would be at once felt in the rescue of respectable and wealthy houses now ecery department of trade and industry"!!! What better evi dence can any man desire? This is plain and explicit enough and he who can't unders' and it must either be a knave of that print, deserves notice: or a fool! The "respectable and wealthy houses now tottering to a fall," as see who oppresses them, when the bank itself, throwing of all reserve, declares that it can relax the grasp from their throats, and if it will, can afford relief! But to what favorable incumstance are we to attribute so decided a change in the churse of a heartless institution which, to quote the tanguage of one of its most zealous panders, has pursued to victims with a cruelty so intense, "that it has reached a point beyond which it cannot possibly be borne!" We are fortunately, not left entirely in the dark as to the cause, for the cause of the supersonal standard of the panders of the government. In occumental or independent on the government of form any quarter—none present, none in expectancy. There must be a bloody revolution. For one, though a cool and considerate man, I confess that I am rendy to whote my knife.

"Few flow when my knife." "Few flow is the sum of the individual or more intensity in the dark are to the same of the individual or more intensity in the dark are to the same of the individual or more intensity in the dark are to the same of the individual or more intensity in the dark are to the same of the individual or more intensity in the dark are to the same of the individual or intensity in the dark are to the same of the individual or in their opinion, pistols will be fashed and that the relief being or a fool! The respectable and wealthy houses now totter we are told through the same source, "that the bank and the community must sink or exim together"-and to make this declaration more emphatic, we find it italicised as we have copied it. In this so? Has the discovery been made that the bank must fall the victim to its own wiles to beggar the community, for the vile purpose of subserving its own wicked ende? Or is the truth at length felt, that the bank can no longer sustain itself under the odium, which it has, by its Inte outrages, inspired, and have we here the evidence that it means to retrace its steps, with the intention to regain that confidence which it has lost, and to pureve a line of conduct more in consonance with duty and propriety. Be this as it mey, the admission is certainly no less extraordinary than important. Au reste, we shall not now detain the reader with any especial remarks, although there be abundant room for comment—but leave him to draw his own conclusions: THE PRESSURE IN NEW ORLEANS.

THE PHESSURE IN NEW ORLEANS.
The pressure on the money market, let it be denied by whom it may, has gone on steadily to increase since its commencement,—within the last three weeks the pressure has be enextremely sowers—and has at length reached a point beyond which it cannot possibly be borne. An increase I prossure must inevitably be attended by further and much more disserted someofunces than have even have to be all which it does not be an increase to the Bartis and the people; and it should now be serully considered on the part of it e gentlemen when it is a finite of the Bartis and the people; and it should now be serully considered on the part of it e gentlemen when it is a finite of the Bartis and the people; and it should not distant to the first seed and sound notice would not distant in the content of the state of c ty, whether a good and sound policy would not di fate to them a course not confined to a strict adherence to the structions of the Mother Bank, but rather marked by the nestructions of the Moller Bank, but rather marked by the atmost possible I beralty of construction, or even a departure from the instructions, so far us is demanded by the manifest and importions necessities of this commercial community. A generous policy on the part of the Banch Banch, this haped and here well at could now pursue with safety to itself, would undoubtedly be immediately followed by the local institutions, find the inspry consequence. the state and wealthy houses now tottering to a fall, and trade and industry. If a sudden extension of liberality is incompatible with their obligations as managers of the infraction—let it then be gradua—let it begin with discontinuality is the second of the second discontinuality in the second of the second discontinuality is the second of the second o ca ding the present limitation of thirty days to senewa sand discounts, a time in which a muchant of extensive transcripts can scarce'y turn round, and which amounts to little more accommodation than no accommodation at

We speak advisedly—and we know we speak the sentiments of the community when we assert that the presente and restrictions of the money market have been borne as and restrictions of the money market have been borne as long as they tean possibly be hence—the Banks and combining must stake or stoic together, and we must repeat our hopes that the present state of things, and the proper rendly, at he latter line within the power of the Branch and local Banks, will be scriously and gravely debated, and reside be permitted to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did en ng and the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did enlamined to the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did enlamined to the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did enlamined to the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did enlamined to the proper rendled to arrest the enlamities did enlamined to arrest the enlamites did enlamined to arrest the enlamined the enlamined to arrest the enlamin DE OVET US.

Agreeably to adjournment the House met, and the usual

Mr Roussell moved that it be laid on the table; which me tion was lost—15 Year, 17 Nays. tion was lost—15 1 cm, 17 Nays.

A motion was now made to postpone the consideration of this bill till the afternoon; which was lost—21 Nays, 1

Yeas.
On the question of adopting the report, there were 20 Yeas On the question of adopting the report, there were 20 Yeas, 16 Nays; consequently the report was adopted. Several messages were received from the Senate and Governor, respecting their concurrence to several bills. A message was received from the Senate, informing the House, that they had concurred with amendments to the Bill, pledging the fault of the State for the Chizens' Bank. [The Lobby was at this time excessively crowded, and creat excitation and the senated to reveal excitation of the senated to reveal excitations.]

[The Lobby was at this time excessively crowded, and arent excitement seemed to prevail.]

Mr Walker, from Rapides, was the first to break the charm. He rose and expressed a desire that a call of the House might be made. He thought the subject extremely important; and one, from the interest which had been taken in it by the good people of the State, that ought to be met with a corresponding attention on the part of members.

The motion prevailed, and thecall was made; the result was, that forty members (with the Speaker) were found to be present.

A metion was now made to take up the bill; which wa

The first amendment was a new section, which provided that the Board of Directors of the Louisville Stock, and this to be divided between county and city sub-

Stock, and the transfer of the adoption; when the Yeas and Nays were called for, which resulted in the loss of the previous motion—votes standing, 19 for and 20 against.

Mr Chian proved that the consideration of the Bill begin-

Mr Chinn moved that the consideration of the Bill beandefinitely postponed.

Mr Hoa rose to oppose this motion, and he sincerely trusted that sufficient generosity yet remained with the majority, to prevent the success of the motion made by the gentleman from Baton Rouge. The first section had been rejected—he thought that this was sufficient victory for those opposed to it—and he hoped that with this rejection, the Bill would be suffered to lie on the table, without restricting it to an indefinite period.

the first amendment, and as such. I hope they the opposition) will not attempt to crush all future action on the Bill, by persisting in the motion for indefinite postponentent.

Mr Morgan said, that from wishing any undue advantage, the majority were willing to concede as much as they could, in justice to their own opinions, but in the present instance, they would feel themselves bound to oppose the motion of the honorable gentlemen from Orleans, (Mr Marigny) on this ground, that if the amendments were severally rejected, the Bill would, by the order of things, return to the Senate, there he majority who were in favor of the Bill could, if they pleased, recede from the amendments made by the Senate, and as a natural consequence, the Bill despite of all, would become a law. I confess, Mr Speaker, that the attempt is a very handsome ruse de guerre, and I regret that it cannot succeed. But our duty is pframount to all, and as I have before remarked, the rights of our constituents must be supported.

Mr Marieny said that his date.

It have before remarked, the rights of our constituents must be supported.

Mr Marigny said, that his duty, as a friend to the Bill, his duty as a representative, obliged him again to reme his motion for the rejection of the amendments. The passage of the Bill was, at the prerent pressure, of vital importance to the community. It had been said by the opposition, that they were willing to abide by the will of the people; but, sir, their vote does not support their assertion. No, sire they are afraid of that public opinion to what they pretend to submit. They will not say by their vote, that the House rejects the Bill, but they will not say by their vote, that the House rejects the Bill, but they will not say by their vote, that the House rejects the Bill, but they will not say by their vote, that the rejection of the bession. This will not do. It can not be received. I do not pretend to be a prophet, and I may be mistaken in my predictions. Yet, I do positively believe, that the rejection of this bill, will cause serious distress. The Liquidation of the debt due to the United State's Bank, will tend to augment the pressure, now so severily felt. That Bank now only discounts at thirty days and it may be, that in a little time, it will be reduced to fifteen days. The Union Bank is opposed to the passage of this Bill, for they fear that if twelve millions is emitted from this source, and under the true willions is emitted from this source, and under the true willing the security, they will not be able to obtain that interest of private individuals, is the Law of the opposition vote; and all that has been urged against this Bill, will fail when the true criterion—the people's volce—shall be heard in July nax.

Mr. Voorhies said, he should not oppose the motion, did he not conceive that it would, if carried, assay: greatly the passage of the Bill. The Senate could, as had been justly remarked, recede from their amendments, if this Bill was refused, and then all further action of the House on it, would be destroyed, a passage of the Bill. The Senate could, as had been justly remarked, recede from their annequents, if this Bill was returned, and then all further action of the House on it, would be destroyed, and this Bill would be passed into a law without their wishes.

Mr Morgan said, that before the question was taken, he should like to be informed distinctly, whether the friends of the Bill wore willing to shide by the people's opinion. If they were, the motion before the House was one which would activate the completion of their wishes. The opposition were willing, nay, they were desirons to appeal to that tribuant, before they gave their sanction to the Bill; and it was his desire which influenced their present vote. We are told, Mr Speaker, that our present course is dictated by fear. Does the bold, the frank and open stand taken by the majority, indicate fear? Wou'd it the consulting the desires of the people to pass this Bill without having obtained an expression of their opinion? This Bill is pushed spon us, and strong efforts have been made to pass it with its most odious features. The Books have not been opened—no guarrantee given—and a provision has been made to prevent subwould the destroyed, and this last would be passed floor as the proper of the proper o

No quorum existing, no other business but the reception of messages occupied the House.

At half past 80 clock, Mr Chinn moved that a committee sheuld be appointed to inform the Governor that there was no business before the House; which motion was agreed to. And the Speaker appointed Hos, Daunoy and Chinn.

At 9 o'clock, Mr Chinn, as Chairman of the committee, informed the House, that thdy had waited on his Exceelency in Governor, and had received for answer, that he had no further communications to make. The report was adopted.
