FRIDAY, JULY 2, 1937

The Weymouth Gazette with commendable enterprise illustrates the story of the Union church fire with snap-shots pictures—Quincy Ledger.

The electric light situation is still an unsolved problem as will be seen by two letters found elsewhere in this paper.

Remember the charge of library hours. July 1 and August, when the library will be closed at 10 o'clock P. M.

Two letters on Electric Lighting. June 25, 1937. Hiram Haves, Esq., Clerk of the Board of Selectmen for the Town of Weymouth, Weymouth, Mass.

Dear Sir: I have your letter of June 4 in which you decline to be responsible for lights after May 31, and you are correct.

As we now repeat what we have already said to you, we are ready to continue on the terms of last year, or if you prefer, we will refer the whole matter to the Board of Gas & Electric Light Commissioners.

Weymouth Light & Power Company. W. H. Whitney, Treasurer.

Dear Sir: I learn today for the first time from your Superintendent, Mr. Carter, that my letter of the 25th ult. in reply to yours of the 14th ult. which was sent to you at Weymouth, Mass., by registered mail, is still undelivered.

In order to avoid any possible misunderstanding, I enclose herewith duplicate of my letter of June 25.

In view of the fact that you have not received the original letter, we will modify our proposal contained therein, changing the date from June 30 to July 1 as the time on or before which unless we hear from you, we must shut off the lights.

Weymouth Light & Power Company. W. H. Whitney, Treasurer.

What do the Children Drink? Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food called Grain-O?

Children's Day. Children's day was observed with appropriate exercises in the M. E. church, East Weymouth, on Sunday.

Very truly yours, Mr. Sullivan is one of Weymouth's most promising young men, and is engaged as foreman at the wharves.

The wedding party entered the church to the bridal march from "Lohengrin," rendered by Organist Jas. J. McLaughlin.

The bride looked charming in a white silk lundsgown gown, trimmed with white lace. Her veil was caught up with a white prayer book.

The bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Madeleine Sullivan. She was confined in a gown of white silk, trimmed over yellow with white and yellow trimmings.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan were driven to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Driscoll, 282 Grove street, where a wedding breakfast was served.

The happy couple left this noon for a visit to New York, Idaho, and Springfield.

Upon their return they will reside on Granite street, Weymouth, until the completion of their pretty residence on Prospect street.

The popular couple will be at home to friends Sept. 1st, when they will open their new residence by tendering a reception to their many acquaintances at Rockton Enterprise June 30.

ANOTHER YEAR OF SCHOOL.

Promptness, Accuracy, Good Execution. Fine Singing the Features. Year after year statements or accounts of similar events must necessarily carry similar language and ideas, and as we are accustomed to chronic annual year's recitations, exercises of the North High school, the thought is, what can be said that has not been said in previous years?

It was the graduation exercises of the class of '37 and it will stand on record as one of the most pleasing events of the kind ever given in Weymouth.

The exercises took place in Oldfellow's Opera house, East Weymouth, and the building which has often had floral and other decorations which pleased the most fastidious aesthetic tastes, never looked more beautiful and more impressive than on this fine and other decorations all in green and white.

The exercises were advertised to begin at 7:45 o'clock and thanks to the management the sea of friends of the school which was in attendance was not kept waiting.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stands clear it is evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, urinary tract, or bladder, are signs of kidney trouble. The kidneys and bladder are out of order. It corrects inability to hold urine and swelling pain in passing it, or hot effects following use of urine, or urine, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distress

BRIEF ITEMS.
Of Local Happenings and Personalities.
WEYMOUTH.
—Mrs. B. J. Mann of this town and Mrs. E. L. Gilley and daughter Violet of South Weymouth are spending the summer months at the "Fairview Home," Orono, N. H.
—The "Night before the Fourth" was the busiest for years, the clock having hardly struck midnight when the fun commenced and was kept up until long after daylight; quite a number of deprecations were committed, starting down fences pulling flowers and the removing of signs. There was a number of extra police on duty but they amounted to nothing. Cracks were fired all Sunday morning and one would hardly know it was Sunday. All day Monday it was very quiet in town, and about everyday, it seemed by the crowd the electric cars carried west to Nantasket. The day was the hottest for years the glass registering as high as 88 in the shade.
—About Hunt is clerking at Cas. Carpenter's store.
—A number of the local police officers were on duty at the Park, Monday, where a certain officer Oliver Houghton was among the number and appeared for the first time in his new police uniform, surrounded by the handsome silver badge presented him by Col. B. S. Lovell.
—Adjourned parish meeting of the Union Church will be held at the trustees' room at the Savings Bank, on Tuesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. All interested are invited to come and join the parish.
—Mrs. J. H. Melville of Boston entertained Mrs. Nellie Westor, Bryant and family with other friends, on the steam yacht "Chetolah" Thursday.
—Deputy Sheriff Ward, of Weymouth of Cohasset was in town Sunday visiting friends.
—Try the delicious soda from Harlow's new one fountain with fruit juices.
—Weymouth's crack riders Eugene and Ernest Lord went to Quincy the "Fourth" and participated in the bicycle road race, and several came out winners, including two prizes. Eugene took the first prize and Ernest second prize. In the afternoon first and second prize. In the afternoon first and second prize. In the afternoon first and second prize.
—Lester Chubbuck has moved into the Albert Chase house on Broad street.
—Motorman George H. of the Brain-tree and Weymouth street railway who has been ill is on duty again.
—Harvey Beecher of Dover, N. H. has been visiting friends in town.

ELLEN OSBORN'S LETTER.

A Comparison of the Stores of London and America.

What is seen in the Shops of New York—A Busy Day on Twenty-Third Street—Fashion Chat.

(Copyright, 1897.)
New York.—There are no shops like American shops. After playing hide and seek and blind man's buff among the huddled counters and stuffy, cramped spaces of London establishments, where a man hires half a dozen little stores and runs them as one big store without taking down the partition walls, the air, the light and the elbow room in Yankee shops are worth while. A London dealer may send you out of doors and around to the next entrance to find the continuation of the glove counter, if you have been considering yellow and ask to see tans. And he doesn't encourage unnecessary shopping by any reckless profession of elevators. You must know what you want and want it very much before you face the liveried flunkeys at the door of a London shop, through the dim labyrinth within and engage the services of the young woman behind the counter, who has to unearth her goods from so many burrows that even the most watchful "shopper" seeing the trouble it is to show goods, is cured quickly of "just looking" at things. The young woman herself is nicer to deal with than most of her kind on this side of the water, which is, perhaps, why the conscience pricks if articles are not purchased after she has gotten out a search warrant to discover them. American shops are bigger than those of London, busier, more democratic. A great deal more is done in a large way for the comfort of the shopper by the management, a great deal less in small ways by the people with whom directly the shopper has to deal. New York is clear and with some color is most favorable for this combination. The printed laws in Swiss muslins, delicate India muslins, flowered Dresden muslins, rosebud organdies and Marie Antoinette striped muslins are so artistically beautiful and so varied this season that the task of contriving original dresses with their help ought to prove an easy one. There were packed off to Newport this week an icy costume of soft, canary-colored muslin figured with white. The diaphanous skirt was cut and made, as is now almost universally customary, separate from the bodice, with flat bands of insertion and with dainty tucks; though such is the latitude of fashion that it would have been equally in order with no trimming but a deep, handsome hem. The waist was soft, full and blouse-like, with a front of insertion and a bolero tucked across the front and edged with a lace-finished ruffle. From rosettes of reddish violet started ribbons that, fastening the bolero in front, crossed upon the breast, crossed again behind and were brought to the front again, forming a belt, and finally disappearing under a handsome buckle. The sleeves were close-fitting, with very small puffs upon the shoulders and with groups of tucks along the arms. Among the newer summer materials there is a very pretty silky batiste that ought to be utilized before it becomes more common, if not less charming. It can be found in a wide range of white and cream tones, in pinky mauves and in clear pinks and blues; and if it be made with a plain skirt turned up in a deep hem and a crossed bolero whose folds are carried around to the back and knotted, nothing is wanted but a little lace and ribbon and a girl inside who has a good time to produce one of the most successful effects of the season. A garden party on the smooth lawn of a Hudson river country house served

A BUNCH OF LILACS.

BY CAROLINE LEROW.

ARTHUR NORTHBRIDGE was discouraged. Sitting on the top of a broken-down stone wall, he looked over the rough pasture land to the little, weathered house beyond, and decided that he had never been quite so much discouraged in all his life.

It had not been a very long life, it is true—only 14 years—but he felt that morning as if he had lived a great while, and to very little purpose. He wanted so many things, and had so few!

More than all else, he longed for an education, or, concluding that that would be expressed too much for him, for a few books, at least. He could read and think over what he read even, without a teacher; but he certainly could not read without books. As for buying any, that was an absurd idea, under present circumstances.

Arthur and his mother could hardly buy enough to stand and pay interest, too, on the mortgage placed on the little house—a poor piece of property, but all Mr. Northbridge had left when he died, six months before Mrs. Northbridge took in sewing for awhile, but the rheumatism in her hands was growing worse every day.

Arthur had a very small, very old, and very nearly all winter for a machine in the village; but the machine shop had broken down, and the machine had moved away. To tell the truth, Arthur could not feel sorry about either of those occurrences, even though he tried from a sense of duty.

He positively loathed machinery. He hated birds and fowls as much as he hated wheels and lathes and gearing, still, on the machinery side of things, money stopped also—that was the worst of it—and apparently no way in which could this defect—the same lenses would be adjusted to each eye—and headaches and eye strain that medicine fails to relieve is the result. I test each eye separately, select proper lenses, adjust glasses to suit both eyes from an complete Test Case as is made.

No extra charge for testing the eyes. Gold Spectacles, $3.0
