Good-looking and an awful tease
Good-natured, gracious, all of these
Is Miriam.

She loves fine clothes and dances, too,
With loving deeds filled through and through,
Is Miriam.

“There is a girl who’s known in these parts” —

For books and learning, and she’s as smart
As all wise men you read about.
Yet she can be as gay and free
At dance or song-fest, call or tea
As any maid you read about.
