TO BUILD ADDITIONS

On account of the rapid growth of the Sunday school, the First Congregational church, Third and Central, will build two additions to the church building. On the north side an addition 16 by 30 feet will be erected. This will be divided by movable partitions so as to accommodate four classes. An addition 10 by 16 feet will be added to the primary room so as to give that department more space.

Sunday morning in a very few minutes over $400 was subscribed for this improvement. As considerable labor will be donated, the greater part of the money raised can be used for the purchase of material.

A building committee, consisting of Mr. E. D. Yard, Mr. D. A. Lane and Mr. E. L. Schuyler, has been appointed. Work will be commenced soon. It is planned to have a "bee" and the ladies have promised to serve dinner to all the men who help at that time.

Sunday services were largely attended. Many of the members of the Sunday school remained for the morning service.

The evening service was one of unusual interest and merit. Mrs. Willisford's reading of "The Story of the Other Wise Man" was simple and impressive. The views were among the best shown in Glendale. The solos, "The Holy City," by Mrs. Van Dyke, and "The Plains of Peace" by Mrs. MacRae were sung with much feeling and impressiveness. The church was filled, the side rooms being used.

Next Sunday evening the pastor will speak on "Perilous Times." Among the questions considered will be "Are the present times more perilous than formerly?" "If so, what do they portend?"

NORTH GLENDALE

Mrs. T. W. Brown of San Rafael street was a Los Angeles visitor on Tuesday, enjoying the day there with friends.

Mrs. Jared Wenger of 819 Campbell street entertained in honor of her baby daughter, Miss Genevieve, who was one year old last Sunday. A daintily appointed dinner, with a tiny birthday cake upon which one little pink candle reposed, was the center of attraction, was served by the charming hostess to the following guests: Mrs. C. P. McCann, Mrs. P. Saiz, Miss Maysie McCann, mother and sisters of the hostess; Mr. and Mrs. Jared Wenger and children, Master Jack and the dear little honoree.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Webb of 1321 Valley View road were house guests in the home of their daughter, Mrs. John McMillan of West Thirty-ninth place, Los Angeles, during the past several days.

Mr. Jared Wenger of 819 Campbell street left Tuesday morning for Independence in Inyo county, where he has extensive ranch interests.

Mrs. R. T. Burr of 823 Campbell street entertained as her house guests during the past week her sister, Miss Genevieve Sullivan, Miss Mary Walsh and Miss Gertrude Walsh, all of San Bernardino.

THE OLD WORLD WAR

RUSSIANS VERY ACTIVE ALONG ENTIRE EASTERN FRONT OF BATTLE LINE

LONDON, Jan. 6, 12:25 a. m.—A wireless dispatch received here from Berlin gives a report received in the German capital from Athens that the Dardanelles fortresses have commenced a bombardment of the blockading Anglo-French fleets and that one torpedo boat has been slightly damaged.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 5.—It is officially announced that the Russian troops have gained a decisive victory at Sarikamysh. The entire ninth army corps of the Turks was captured.

The following report received from the Russian headquarters in the Caucasus was made public tonight:

"Last night our troops won a complete victory over the Turks at Sarikamysh. We have beaten two Turkish army corps and made the entire ninth Turkish army corps, including its commander and three division commanders, prisoners.

"Small bodies of Turkish troops which succeeded in escaping were vigorously pursued and destroyed.

"We continue pursuit of other parts of the Turkish forces which are in full retreat."

LONDON, Jan. 5, 11:05 p. m.—Two of the three Turkish columns which invaded the Russian Caucasus last week have met with disaster and the troops not killed or captured are in disorderly retreat, pursued by the Russians. The column which took Ardahan two days ago has been driven out of that town, according to the Petrograd official dispatches, and is almost surrounded by the Russians, who hold the main roads.

Another column, which crossed the frontier near Sarikamysh, on the road to Kars, has suffered an even worse defeat, one of the two army corps which composed it being captured in its entirety.

The Russians also report another victory over the Austrians in the Uzkok pass of the Carpathians. Emperor Francis Joseph's army in this region is declared to be in full retreat in a mountain pass deep in snow, while a violent snowstorm is raging and the Russian cavalry is attacking on the flank and rear.

By forcing this pass the Russians will gain control of some of the most valuable oil fields in the Austrian empire, and thus shut off another of the sources of fuel supply which the Austro-German armies are said to be much in need of. This, however, has only been part of the Russian attack. While forcing back the Turks and Austrians, the Russian troops are holding the line of the Mazurian lakes in East Prussia, are fighting to withstand the German offensive in North Poland, are advancing toward Cracow, and have crossed Bukovina, which is now virtually in their possession.

In North Poland, where Russia is confronted with the most serious task, the weather is proving a useful ally. The Germans, according to all accounts, are making only slow progress with their offensive operations, while the Russians, an unofficial dispatch received from Berlin by way of Copenhagen says, are advancing toward Cracow and Southern Silesia.

Military men look for biggest events between the lower Vistula and the East Prussian frontier. The Russians are in possession of the greater part of the intervening territory and unless engaged when the river freezes, would fall on the German flank to the south of the river. It is believed here, therefore, that the Germans are planning a movement from Thorn and East Prussia in an effort to prevent this action, and as the fighting would take place in the open, it would afford a contrast to the trench warfare which prevails along the rest of the front.

Except at the two extreme wings on the Belgian coast and in upper Alsace, where the allies have gained some ground, the fighting on the western front has been done by sappers, miners and artillery. From the coast to the Swiss border the troops either have been engaged in shelling the opposite trenches or trying to sap and mine them. Only at isolated points has the infantry been given its opportunity. A few hundred yards have been gained by the allies among the dunes of Flanders, despite the unfavorable weather.

Great interest attaches to the operations of the French in Upper Alsace. The capture of Steinbach was accomplished after almost superhuman efforts, as the Germans had strongly entrenched themselves. Now the French are attempting to force their way to Cernay (Sennheim), the possession of which would open the door to Muelhausen, which the French occupied for a short time at the beginning of the war.

INAUGURATE GOVERNOR

JOHNSON AND ESHLEMAN TAKE FORMAL OBLIGATIONS AS CHIEF EXECUTIVES

Governor Hiram W. Johnson and Lieutenant-Governor John M. Eshleman took the oath of office in the assembly chamber of the state capitol Tuesday evening as chief executives of California. Standing beneath the Bear Flag and the Stars and Stripes, crossed above the speaker's rostrum, the two men raised their right hands and took the formal obligations.

Justice E. C. Hart of the Third district court of appeal, administered the oath to Governor Johnson and Judge Everett J. Brown of Oakland performed the same ceremony for Lieutenant-Governor Eshleman.

Long before the hour scheduled for the inaugural assembly gallery and lobby were thronged. At 8 o'clock there was not a vacant seat and a crowd blocked the assembly portals to hear the governor's address. Governor Johnson was conducted to the assembly rostrum by Senator Edward Tyrell, followed by Lieutenant-Governor Eshleman with Albert J. Wallace, his predecessor. In turn came state officials, marching abreast. Senators, assemblymen and guests rose until Governor Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor Eshleman, Albert J. Wallace and Senator Tyrell took seats on the rostrum at the invitation of Senator Newton Thompson, president pro tem of the senate. A few minutes later, following an orchestral selection, the governor began his inaugural address. He told of the administration's legislative achievements in the past and recounted the steps that led up to what he termed "the political freedom" of California.

The silence in the assembly chamber was broken only by the heavy booming of the cannon that on the lawn outside gave the governor's salute of twenty-one guns and informed the city that Governor Johnson had been formally inducted into office.

The governor completed his address amid cheering in about twenty minutes, when Lieutenant-Governor Eshleman received the oath from Judge Brown. Mr. Eshleman gave an able address, in which he spoke kind words about his predecessor, Mr. Wallace, and about Governor Johnson.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies a public reception was held in the governor's offices, where Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Eshleman assisted in receiving friends of the two executives. Hundreds of men and women filed through one door of the office, shook hands with the newly inducted officials and passed out by another door.

One of the lessons the war has taught Russia is that the port of Archangel, the only large seaport on the north coast of the Russian empire and the most northerly point in the railway system of Europe, can be kept open, if not all winter, at least for the greater part of it, with the aid of icebreakers. Archangel is generally frozen over for months, but it has been kept open thus far and war supplies are being regularly shipped to Russia, while in return Russia sends out provisions.

The House of Lords will meet tomorrow and Earl Kitchener, secretary of war, is expected to make a statement on the progress of the war and British preparations.

MONEY NOW AVAILABLE

FEDERAL BANKING SYSTEM HAS BROUGHT ABOUT FEELING OF SECURITY

That the effect of the inauguration of a federal banking system has been moral, rather than actual, but that it has resulted in bringing about among citizens generally a feeling of security and confidence, also that conditions in this country were improving before the date on which the new banking system went into effect, is the substance of a statement made recently by Stoddard Jess, vice-president of the Los Angeles First National bank and former president of the Los Angeles Clearing House association. Continuing in hopeful tone, Mr. Jess says:

"Individual banks had increased the reserves from other and natural sources, and this process is being continued in a gradual and wholly satisfactory manner. There have been practically no applications for re-discounting, and this fact alone is evidence that the financial conditions have improved without actual assistance of federal banks.

"There is a plentiful supply of money now for manufacturing and general mercantile business, and while the situation, satisfactory even now, will continue to improve, I do not anticipate that there will be a plethora of money for indiscriminate investments. Certain it is, in my mind, that regardless of the amount of money available for all kinds of legitimate undertakings, there will be very little capital acquired of banks for stock-jobbing and similar price-booming operations.

"Reports show that conditions rapidly are improving throughout the country, and I believe the outlook for Los Angeles and its contributing territory is as bright as anyone could desire.

"The principal function of the federal banking system, of course, will be to supply money, through re-discounting, to associated banks on seasonal occasions for the movement of crops and similar occasions, thus preventing a tightening in the money market in the districts affected by crop movements; and when such occasions occur the object of the federal banks undoubtedly will be attained.

"Financial conditions have improved wonderfully and the outlook is extremely bright so far as money is concerned. This satisfactory state of affairs has been brought about, not as a result of the operations of federal banks, but from conditions entirely independent of the new financial system. Federal banks undoubtedly are completing their arrangements to place in operation the plans contemplated in the idea which evolved the system.

"That the applications for re-discounting have been exceedingly light according to reports received here, are proof of the statement that financial conditions have materially improved without the aid of federal banks."

HENRY JOHNSTON ON JURY DUTY

Henry Johnston of 335 Everett street, this city, has been drawn as a juror in the superior court. Mr. Johnston reports every morning in Los Angeles. His duties will continue for from thirty to sixty days.

Mrs. H. M. Goss of 714 West Fifth street has had as a house guest for the past week Mrs. Marcia Rogers of Oakland.

ENTERTAIN NEWLYWDS

MR. AND MRS. OLIVER ARE THE GUESTS OF HONOR AT RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Neil entertained on Monday evening at their home on Kenwood street in honor of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver. Cut flowers and potted ferns transformed the home into a bower of beauty. The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of white chiffon over silk, with orange blossoms adorning her dark hair. The bride's cake bearing the message, "Good Wishes," was an important feature of the supper and voiced the sentiments of all present.

After a pleasant evening spent among their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver returned to their own home and found that others had been there during their absence leaving a number of useful gifts as expression of good will.

These young people begin their married life under auspicious circumstances. Friends of the bride will be glad to know that she retains her position in the Glendale library, where for the past year and a half she has been active and earnest in catering to the needs and wants of the reading public. Her earnestness of purpose and her uniform courtesy as well as her special library training make her especially valuable and endear her to all the patrons of the library, who wish her many years of wedded happiness.

YEARLY SUBSCRIBERS

James S. O'Neill, rector of the Holy Family Catholic church of Glendale, stepped into the Evening News office early today and handing the editor a check for four dollars, said: "I want to be among the first of that five hundred list of prospective yearly subscribers you mentioned in Tuesday's paper."

J. W. Usilton, wishing to get in advance of Tuesday's suggestion, came to the office a couple of hours before we went to press, and with a countenance bearing evidence that he takes a delight in paying in advance for a paper, handed the office lady a year's subscription.

There is no reason why there should not be five hundred men of the same kindly make-up as these gentlemen.

$40,000 MONTHLY PAID

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale Merchants' association, Secretary W. H. Crane reported that he had learned by making a systematic inquiry that the merchants and dealers of this city pay out $40,000 per month for running expenses—such as help, rent, light and water. That means $480,000 per year the business men of Glendale are paying out. Increased trade will increase the amount of money paid out. So far as possible local business concerns should be patronized by every citizen of Glendale.

RALLY TONIGHT

The prayer meeting at the Methodist church this evening will be a general church rally. The subject for Bible study will be "The revival in Samaria, or can we purchase the holy spirit? Is he received by the imposition of hands?" The service will begin promptly at 7:30. Those who are not worshipping elsewhere will be cordially welcomed and are invited to come.

PLAN OF EXPOSITION

INTERESTING INTERPRETATION OF SCULPTURE AT PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION

The following excellent paper was prepared and read by Mrs. George Adams before the ladies of the literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at the home of Mrs. E. H. Willisford on Tuesday afternoon and is published at the earnest request of several of the ladies who heard it:

There are two outstanding reasons which should make the Panama-Pacific international exposition of exceptional interest. One is the far-reaching educational value, arising from the extraordinary activities which have been evidenced during the last decade in every branch of education, science, industry and art throughout the world. The other the completion of the Panama canal, with the accompanying development of old and the inauguration of entirely new routes and zones of commerce which its opening will mark.

The area on which the exposition will stand contains 635 acres, with a frontage of two miles on San Francisco bay and an average depth of half a mile. Sculpture color and mural decorations have been given a more important place at this exposition than has been accorded to any great world exposition before. A large number of the foremost artists of the world have contributed to the splendid whole, which will be ready to be admired by the millions from every part of the globe when the gates open Feb. 20, 1915.

There are five courts. The great courts, three in number, are the Court of the Four Seasons, the Court of the Sun and Stars, and the Festival court. There are several smaller courts. Entering from the city through the gardens between Festival hall and Horticultural hall, the visitor is first confronted with a great equestrian fountain symbolizing the creation of the isthmian waterway between the oceans—the Fountain of Energy. This is outlined against the lofty opening of the archway of the lower gate, 110 feet high.

A figure of a splendid nude youth, mounted on a spirited horse, is depicted as advancing steadily through the waters of the passage, while the attendant figures of Valor and Fame form an encircling crest above his stern head. In the Court of the Universe is a vast oval-shaped courtyard, around which colonnades sweep to the right and left. On the axis in these directions are arches 160 feet high. The crowning group here represents the "Nations of the East" and the "Nations of the West."

The two main free standing monuments of the court are the Fountain of the Rising and Setting Sun. The upper portions of these fountains furnish the light of the court. Great globes surmounted by figures representing a sunburst sunset give forth at night an incandescent glow, while below in the basins reclining figures of the planets surmount globes of light behind which the water will fall in screens. At the descent into the sunken garden are huge figures in horizontal compositions of the four elements—fire, water, earth and air.

Robert J. Actken, originally of San Francisco, designed and executed these figures, which are of great interest. On the upper part of the sunken garden are two figures, each representing "order and chaos," "eternity and change." Above each of the columns of the colonnade a hovering figure with a jeweled hand representing a scintillating star is placed. Lights from concealed sources from opposite sides of the court will be thrown on the hand-cut glass jewels, which will be inserted in the star head-dress of the figure.

As we advance down this court there is a pool of placid water, in which the great tower is reflected. At the end of this and fronting the bay of San Francisco is erected the great "column of progress." This can be seen from the bay and marks the entrance to the central Court of the Universe and to the lofty Tower of Jewels, which dominates the entire exposition.

A frieze of figures appears surmounting the capitol of the column, 160 feet from the ground, supporting by their united efforts a single figure who spends his strength in launching his "arrow of progress." This still further carries out the idea, for it is composed of figures having a rotary motion. Beneath the dome are figures representing the signs of the zodiac.

Another group represents "modern civilization," this by a California sculptor, Douglas Tilden. Two of our most talented women have been invited to design mural fountains—"El Dorado," by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and the "fountain of youth," by Mrs. Edith Moodman Barrough. The sculpture in the "court

SOUTHERN COUNTIES EXHIBIT

Since the opening of the Panama-California exposition at San Diego, additional interest has been awakened in the marvelous attractions of the fair.

In order to make arrangements for the special train which will be run by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on Los Angeles county day, Jan. 9th, it is advisable to secure reservations at once from the secretary.

The special will leave the Santa Fe station, Los Angeles, at 8:30 a. m., arriving in San Diego about noon. There will be professional and amateur entertainers to vary the monotony of the trip.

Following lunch there will be speaking. Then comes the trip through the building, an inspection of the model farm and so on through the various buildings.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

A Los Angeles business man was heard to remark Tuesday that business for the year 1915 had started out with a boom right from the very beginning of the new year.

GOOD ROADS ATTRACT TOURISTS

Southern California's main attraction in the eyes of Thomas Sprague of Chicago, who is again in Pasadena for the winter, is its good roads. Discussing with an exchange the features of this country which will give pleasure to tourists, Mr. Sprague put the good roads first.

Europe has good macadam roads and until this state put in its new highways the old-world thoroughfares were better than those here, said Mr. Sprague, speaking in a general way; now California's new highways are better than most of the roads in Europe.

That money invested in good roads is money well spent by Southern California communities, is the opinion of Mr. Sprague. In this opinion he is supported by the highest authorities. In fact, departing entirely from sectional consideration, it is the belief of experienced men that good roads are great assets for the entire country.

In its report, which will be made public soon, the committee proposes the building of roads equal to European thoroughfares by co-operation of the national government, the states, counties and the other local agencies.

While the committee refrains from any definite plan of action, it urges that congress take some action at once. The principal conclusions presented by the report follow:

Congress should proceed at once to devise a broad, comprehensive plan for federal aid to the building of model roads.

The supervision of the government's highway building activities should be entrusted to a congressional commission, not an administrative bureau.

Care should be exercised that federal aid be scientific and effective and not degenerate into a "pork barrel" raid on the national treasury.

First-class roads in this country would reduce the cost of living, improve business and ameliorate educational and social conditions in the rural communities.

From an economic standpoint says the report, good roads constitute the most important question of government now before the people.

"Better, cheaper and additional transportation facilities in the United States must benefit every inhabitant and result in more development and greater productivity of our natural resources, meaning more and cheaper food and necessities of life," says the committee, which states that already gasoline-propelled busses are competing on rural roads with interurban electric lines.

"Where the haul is only a few miles, transportation of freight by auto truck is found cheaper and more satisfactory than transportation by rail," the report continues.

Analyzing the cost of wagon transportation in the United States and abroad, the committee finds that "hard surface roads similar to those in France would affect a saving of thirteen cents per ton mile, or nearly two-thirds of the present cost. Even if the cost could be reduced eight cents a ton mile, a saving of $504,000,000 a year in the cost of American production hauled to market over rural roads could be effected."

FORCE OF HABIT

A humorist was looking over a mill, and while in an unguarded moment he was perpetrating one of his jokes upon an innocent operative, he was drawn into some ponderous gears and badly crushed.

They extricated him from the machinery and laid him on the floor. "Who is it? Who is it?" was the anxious inquiry as a crowd collected.

Nobody knew. Then the funny man suddenly opened his eyes and strove to speak. A sympathetic bystander bent down to catch his words.

"There's good reason why nobody recognizes me," he whispered painfully. "What is it?" asked the sympathetic one.

"Because," the humorist explained as he saw a chance to get one home, "it's because I've been traveling incog."

That was his final effort, for he never spoke again.—London Tit-Bits.

A COSTLY DRAMATIC LESSON

Probably the most prominent manager in the United States was rehearsing an actor in one of his companies at the New Amsterdam theater. The particular line which the actor was trying to speak to the satisfaction of the manager was the familiar, "I love you." But, although he spoke it fervently again and again the manager was not pleased.

"No, no, no," said he. "That's not right. Now say it the way I say it," and the manager, suiting the action to the word in a voice almost tremulous with sentiment, repeated "I love you!"

"Say it like that," he said. "It cost me $1,000,000 to learn to say it like that, while I'm actually paying you $200 a week to say it. I hope you can appreciate the difference."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A GOOD TIME

Mrs. Leon Wilkinson of 1212 Alvarado street, Los Angeles, is giving a 12 o'clock luncheon today to the following ladies who are members of the A. G. T. club: Mesdames J. C. Waite, John Roman, F. H. Vesper, Herman Nelson, Philip Englehorn, J. W. Usilton, E. R. Naudain and Chester Kling. After luncheon these same ladies will be members of a matinee party at the Mason. The letters by which this club is known stand for "A Good Time," and it is the purpose of these ladies to live up to their name.

TROPICO

One of the most delightful as well as recherche events given in Tropic during the happy Yuletide, was the matinee musicale and tea with which Mrs. Allen Ellsworth Boyce entertained at her home on Brand boulevard. The rooms throughout the beautiful home of Mrs. Boyce were artistically decorated in brilliant poinsettias and Christmas greens. Among the artists who contributed to the program were Mrs. Louis Ford of San Francisco, Miss Millicent Virden and Miss Julia Byloff. Miss Agnes Rigali and Miss Lydia Payro assisted at the tea table. Mrs. Boyce's guests, who numbered forty or more, included society ladies of Los Angeles and Tropic.

Mrs. J. H. Henry of North Central avenue leaves for Truckee Thursday evening, where she joins Rev. Henry, who has accepted the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church of that city.

Trustee Daniel Webster was chosen president pro tem of the board of trustees of the city of Tropic at Tuesday evening's meeting in the place of its president, James Rich, detained at home by illness.

Mr. John A. Logan, cashier of the First National bank of Tropic; Stephen Veselich, member of the Pacific Home Builders, and Bert W. Richardson, retired, have been appointed a committee by the Tropic board of trustees to co-operate with like committees from other valley cities and Los Angeles for the opening and extension of Brand boulevard into the city of Los Angeles, to include a bridge across the Los Angeles river at the crossing of the same by the boulevard near the power house.

Miss Ellen Sharp, who has been ill at her home on Cypress street, is very much improved.

POISONERS OF ROME

Tofana, the Italian woman poisoner of the seventeenth century, was carrying on a tradition of ancient Rome. In 331 B. C. a supposed pestilence swept the city, and many of the leading men were carried off. Then a slave girl gave information and the authorities surprised twenty Roman matrons preparing drugs over a fire. Since they insisted that the drugs were not poisonous, they were compelled to drink them in the Forum, and all perished. Further information having been had, 170 matrons were condemned. In 184 B. C. a four months' inquiry by the praetor resulted in the condemnation of 2000 persons for poisoning. There were many similar scandals, but it will always remain doubtful whether in any particular one of these ancient cases the epidemic was not really natural.—London Spectator.

REVERBERATIONS

Apropos of the notice put up in cafes all over the country, "The war will be fought on the other side of the ocean; please don't try to settle it here," George Ade at a luncheon at the Chicago Athletic club said:

"We see a good deal of trouble amongst our naturalized citizens in the cafes. But what about those households where the father is German or Austrian and the mother is of French or English or Russian birth?"

"A doctor got a note the other morning from a Russian patient with a Prussian wife:

"Dear doctor," it said, "Please send by bearer a large quart bottle of liniment, as wife and self last evening had an argument about the campaign."

Pessimism is the fog of life. Optimism is its sunshine.

LOSERS AND FINDERS

A lawyer having offices in a large office building recently lost a cuff link, one of a pair that he greatly prized. Being absolutely certain that he had dropped the link somewhere in the building, he posted this notice:

"Lost—A gold cuff link. The owner, William Ward, will deeply appreciate its return."

That afternoon on passing the door whereon this notice was posted, what were the feelings of the lawyer to observe that appended thereto were these lines:

"The finder of the missing cuff link would deem it a great favor if the owner would kindly lose the other link."—New York Post.

Chapter L. P. E. O., will entertain their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Emery, 117 South Kenwood street, on Friday evening, January 8th. Knowing the ladies of the P. E. O., we predict that said husbands will have a very good time Friday evening.

Mr. J. N. McGillis of 205 Lomita avenue found a dead dog on his lawn this morning when he got up. It is a very handsome young collie or spitz dog of cream and white and had no collar on. Mr. McGillis thinks it is someone's pet and feels badly because it died at his place, though he knows nothing about it.

Dr. and Mrs. Lawler of 1431 Burchett street have returned from Elsinore, where they have been visiting Dr. Lawler's parents for the past two weeks. Dr. Lawler's parents have a home in Elsinore and also a large ranch near the city, and a very pleasant holiday time has been enjoyed by all.

Mrs. H. V. Everly has just returned from San Diego, where she attended the opening of the exposition, and reports that everything surpassed her expectations. One noteworthy fact about this exposition is the fact that it is the only one of the sort that was ever opened free from debt.

TAKEN AT HIS WORD

The dentist was torturing his victim in the usual double fashion. The story he was telling at the moment was on himself:

"When I was young in the profession," said he, "I was working in a country place for a few weeks to help a friend. One day a farmer came in—a big, muscular chap, full-blooded—one of the sort whose teeth come like the roots of oak trees.

"As he sat in the chair he asked: 'Will it hurt?'

"Feeling in a rather jocular mood, I answered: 'Well, if it doesn't it shan't cost you anything.' Then I fell to work.

"The tooth came even harder than I expected, so as the man got up from the chair and pulled himself together—he had not uttered a sound—I said: 'Well, did it hurt?'

"Not a bit," answered the country man, and strode out of the office leaving me minus a fee, completely nonplussed, and the laughing stock of my friend and the two or three patrons who sat about the office.

"I have never tried to be funny professionally since," said he meditatively. —Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Congress has been asked to call a peace convention at the close of the present war. If we may rely on present indications, the nations now in arms will be the most ardent supporters of the movement when that time comes. They will be willing to keep the peace, at least until they can make the needed preparations for the next outbreak.

May the New Year bring you happiness, a full pocketbook and a wife—if you haven't one.

observe that appended thereto were these lines:

"The finder of the missing cuff link would deem it a great favor if the owner would kindly lose the other link."—New York Post.

"Very nice gift," remarked one of the company. "I perceive your lady-love even had your name put on the case."

"Well, that's queer," answered the boaster. "I never noticed it."

"Look again," rejoined the candid one. "The case is distinctly marked 'Real Calif.'"—Philadelphia Record.

FOG SIGNALS

All the up-to-date light stations possess fog signals for warning the mariner of the presence of rocks and other dangers in foggy weather. The larger ones are so powerful that their blasts can be heard twenty-five to thirty miles out at sea. Most of them are worked by compressed air, a gas engine of perhaps twenty or twenty-five horsepower being brought into requisition for this purpose. The siren is blown periodically every seventy, eighty or ninety seconds or so, the actual blast lasting perhaps about two or three seconds. It means that while the siren is running, in the case of the larger apparatus, something like 500 horsepower is being expended in the production of sound.

CELLULOID COMB EXPLODES

An exchange relates an incident of a woman who suffered severe burns on Christmas day from the explosion of a celluloid comb. The woman was working near the heating stove when a spurt of flame caused the comb to explode, setting fire to her hair. She ran to adjoining rooms, where she secured aid in extinguishing the flames. A physician found it necessary to cut all the hair from her head to dress the burns.

of the flowers" was founded on the tales of Arabian Nights. In front of the "court of flowers" statues representing "the end of the trail," also "pioneer," Cortez and Pizarro.

In machinery hall are statues representing steam, electric power, air and water. The doors will be flanked by lions. The attics are studded with Oriental figures of slaves. This is just a little that can be said of the sculpture of the exposition.

Jules Guerin, director of color of the exposition, has treated the buildings, terraces, esplanades and even the parkings as if the whole were in reality the 635-acre canvas which he has imagined it to be in preparing his color scheme.

He started upon the principle that simplicity is the great thing in art, and decreed that not more than eight or nine colors should be used in this great exposition. He took into consideration the climate, atmospheric conditions peculiar to San Francisco, and went to work and produced what critics pronounce the most pleasing combinations of paint ever achieved at a great exposition. Every shadow upon the Marin hills across the bay was taken into consideration in the calculations, which resulted in choosing an imitation of the natural Travertine marble for the key color of the palaces. This is a pale pinkish gray buff, which may be called ivory.

Paul Denivel was secured to make the composition to be applied as a stucco over the exterior walls, and to enhance the antique effect, the buff is deepened in the concave surfaces, and the stucco spread on it in a manner to make the surfaces appear corrugated.

Beside the Travertine, the eight other colors employed are:

First: French green, used in all lattice, flower tubs, curbing or grass plots (when it complements the green of the grass), in exterior of woodwork and some of the small doors. Second: Oxidized copper green, a peculiar mottled light green. Ten of the largest domes on the exhibition palaces are of this color. I think all the domes except six yellow ones in the Court of the Universe.

Third: Blue green, in the dark shades at the bases of flag poles. These three shades are regarded as one unit in the nine colors allowed.

Fourth: Pinkish red green, used in flag poles only. Is very brilliant, topped with gold. These flag poles form an important part of the decorations.

Fifth: Wall red. There are three tons of this red found in the backgrounds of the colonnades, backgrounds of niches on the tiled roofs, and in the statuary. These reds run from terra cotta to deep russet, and predominate in the interiors of the principal courts.

Sixth: Yellow golden orange, largely used in enriching the Travertine, and in shadow effects. Seventh: Deep cerulean blue and Oriental blue, verging upon green. Used in the ceilings and other vaulted recesses. It might be called electric blue. It is very brilliant, but in harmony with the other colors.

Eighth: Gray, very similar to the Travertine.

Ninth: Marble tint, spread over the Travertine in places with a transparent glaze.

Tenth: Verde-antique; really one of the many shades of green. A combination of copper green and soft gray, so not to be counted in the nine cardinal colors.

Now the walks, the very sand upon the driveways, the flags and pennants which move over the buildings, all conform to Jules Guerin's scheme. All is in harmony to the eye, which is seen by having a one-man idea. The paintings are done by a staff of artists selected by M. Guerin from among the best in the world. These paintings were begun in January, 1914, upon canvas stretched in spacious ware-rooms—studios partitioned off in a corner of the great Palace of Machinery. There being always a wealth of flowers in California, it will not be hard to find flowers to harmonize with the prescribed colors. The flowers will be changed three times during the ten months of the exposition, so will always have a brilliant appearance.

The exhibits of the exposition will be installed according to a modern classification and the departments are eleven in number, alphabetically arranged.

"A," fine arts; "B," education; "C," social economy; "D," liberal arts; "E," manufactures and varied industries; "F," machinery; "G," transportation; "H," agriculture; "I," livestock; "K," horticulture; "L," mines and metallurgy.

The department of fine arts will afford an opportunity for the study and comparison of the best productions of brush and pencil that have been created since 1905. This is true also of the sculpture, for the exposition will bring together the best work from foreign and American artists.

Since man enters social life through education, the object of the educational exhibit is to secure a comparative display from all the countries noted for educational work and to present a systematic demonstration of educational work in the United States, comprising universities, art schools, agricultural and mechanical institutes, and commercial colleges.

The twentieth century will be particularly notable for the contest between nations for commercial and industrial supremacy, which will follow closely on the opening of the Panama canal.

In liberal arts will probably be found things more interesting to the public at large. There will be shown large telescopes and other instruments used by astronomers. Medicine and surgery will be represented by a collection of instruments and appliances. Many chemical products such as perfumes, flavorings and brilliant dyes.

There will be all kinds of musical instruments. Special features will be the most modern devices in player pianos, which now form an important part of this industry. One of the largest pipe organs ever constructed was finished recently at Hartford, Conn., and shipped to the Panama-Pacific international exposition, to be installed in festival hall. After the exposition closes it will become the property of the city of San Francisco and will be placed in the auditorium of the city hall. When packed in parts for shipment the organ filled ten large box cars. Over two months will be needed to put it together when it reaches the exposition grounds. It is said to be the third largest in the world. Its wind chambers are as big as the average room. Two twenty-horsepower blowers will keep them supplied with air. The organ is 64 feet long and it is 70 feet to the top of the highest pipe. There are 113 stops and 7000 pipes. The largest wooden pipe (an open diapason) is 35 feet long and weighs 1208 pounds. From this the pipes taper down to the size of a lead pencil. There are four banks of keys. Some of them will play an echo organ, really part of the great organ, though it will be in the tower of the hall 250 feet away. The organ is worked entirely by electricity.

For those scientifically inclined special attention will be given to the exhibit of civil engineering, road-making, irrigation projects, wireless telegraphy, which is now an established fact, and it is believed wireless telephony will have become perfected by the time the exposition opens.

In the manufactures and industries. This will cover all goods found in principal retail stores of a large city. Hardware, heating, lighting and ventilating apparatus. The industries will contain manufactures that are essentially artistic in nature, like precious stones, jewelry, clocks, pottery, etc. At the centennial I remember especially pins and the rubber made in the forms of people and flowers.

At machinery hall in '76 the Corliss engine attracted the whole world, but now it seems a thing of the past, compared to the new inventions.

Transportation will consist of locomotives, cars, railway supplies and the automobiles, which have increased enormously since the St. Louis exposition. There will be models of the ships of the early English, Dutch, French and Spanish navigators, as well as documents bearing on the voyage of those courageous explorers who braved the dangers of the ocean in what would now be considered imperfectly built and equipped vessels. Also the science of the invasion of the air offers a broad field for exhibitions.

Agriculture is becoming more and more thought about. Many to attract settlers to their lands will have strong incentive to make splendid exhibits.

Livestock will certainly be instructive to those engaged in that branch of industry. Pigeons, pet stock, dogs, cats, both usefulness and sentiment will be considered in the arrangement of this important division. The climate of California having no winter, makes it possible to have an outdoor as well as an indoor display.

Horticultural display. The world is being searched for rare and beautiful plants. The apple display, for instance, will contain specimens from each apple producing state, showing the effect of soil, climate and altitude. Particular attention will be paid to bulbs and shrubs. Belgium furnished 10,000 bulbs. Holland also the famous Dutch bulbs. These are already growing.

Within the palace of mines will be displayed the mineral products of the world. Mining engineering will here be displayed.

The divisions of exhibits of the Panama-Pacific international exposition at San Francisco in 1915 will comprise a complete exhibition of all that indicates the progress of mankind. An interesting item is the fact that between August 16th and 31st fifteen organizations announced their decision to hold conventions at the exposition.

GLADSTONE'S QUICK TEMPER

A story is told of an encounter between Queen Victoria and Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone in an audience with the queen one day produced a list of people whom he wished to be made peers. The queen demurred and said, "I cannot create as many as this, Mr. Gladstone."

Whereupon Mr. Gladstone, who sometimes got into a temper, tore the list up. The queen flushed slightly, but said nothing to Mr. Gladstone, who shortly afterward quitted the royal presence.

Some short time later Mr. Gladstone presented a new list, much shorter than on the previous occasion.

The queen, without looking at it, tore it up. It was then Mr. Gladstone's turn to flush. — New York Sun.
