THE COMMERCIAL BULLETIN.—The Com-mercial Bulletin, which in former years filled prosperosaly and honorably a peculiar place in New Orleans journalism, reappeared yesterday under the joint charge and conduct of Mr. Win J. Beymour and Mr. E. L. Jewell. In form ad typography it is a faithful reproduction of sees typography it is a mitigat reproduction of the original journal, as that existed up to the day of its suppression by the military authority Coming thus as a likeness and a memerate of the old Balictin, once so highly esteemed and now so affectionately remembersel, it will be doubt welcomed and valued by thousands. We can not conceive a better wish than that its career, in this new era of its existence, may be a wor, thy prolongation of its former useful and honorable existence.

A PLEBISTITUM FOR MEXICOUNDER Names of Survivors --- No Women STATES AND MANUE.

And Children Reported Saved.

The New York Heratd, whose advice tonching foreign questions of a grave and delicate nature is usually more freely given than it is either needed or welcome, has an editorial on the 4th inst., which is notably exceptional to this remark.

The Heratd suggests that is the contingency of the abdication or expulsion of Maximilian from Mexico, the United States and France unite for bringing about a speedy and peaceful political reconstruction in that distracted and anarchical country, by means of a phebiscitum athemitted to every part of it and representing the will of its whole people, unchecked and unbiased by the dictation or influence of rival chieftains and their armed partisans. The idea histains and their armed partisans. The idea of a plebiscitum, in such a situation as coutemplated, is not new. It was broached and lalapse of, his Empire became matter of speculation and conjecture as a probable result of his discontinuance. Indeed, it is almost certain that about that time, Maximilian, in writing a final request for assistance in money, represented that a refusal would necessitate his addication. That this siternative did not at once follow the failure of the appeal, would need to be owing to a hope that he could or
