GORDON HEAD EXTENSION COMPLETED YESTERDAY

Election Promises Have Been Redeemed.

Gordon Head extension of the Sanich waterworks system has become an accomplished fact.

Those who expect good pressure at once are urged to have patience until the Council has installed the new main, the effect of which will be to give direct communication with the Sooke main.

Even with this booster connection there is no expectation that the continuous pressure in households when the expected overhead irrigation installations will be in use.

Should there prove to be a general disinclination to instal tanks, it is quite possible that the Council will amend the regulations governing service by requiring such equipment in high level districts, to obviate unnecessary complaints of fluctuating pressures.

Some Important Mains. One result of the installation will be to give a direct service to Mount Douglas Park, and so provide for picknicks and motor tourists there, visitors, but it will not be more efficient.

Test To-day. The test this morning of the pressure at Tyndall Avenue, the highest point of Gordon Head, gave a minimum of 15 pounds, in spite of the handicaps mentioned above.

COURT ROBBED DURING SESSION

Berlin Crook Took Clock With Judge's Permission

Berlin, June 23.—Thousands of law-breakers have been given jail terms at Berlin's central criminal court in Moabit, but an ingenious crook posing as a repair man this week was actually given the court's official clock during the conduct of a trial.

The sitting was well under way when a man in working clothes entered the courtroom with a long ladder, which he calmly placed under the huge, imposing timepiece on the wall. The judge, counsel, accused and spectators were astounded at such an unprecedented interruption. The president stopped the workman's ascent of his ladder long enough to inquire the meaning of his conduct. The visitor explained that he merely wanted to get the clock for repairs and that it would take only a moment. The president objected, but consented when the man said he always found the court in session.

The vacant space on the wall surprised the janitor later in the day, and his investigations revealed that the court had been robbed under its very eyes—in fact, with its permission.

OUTSIDERS NOT BUYING SO LARGELY IN GERMANY NOW

Berlin, June 23.—Prices on general merchandise in Germany have risen to such an extent that the foreigner no longer flocks into the country to do his buying.

Shortly after the war prices were low, so low that the stores of Berlin were doing an enormous business with men and women from countries close to Germany, not to mention Great Britain and the United States, who found great advantage in buying here. To-day Berlin prices are on a parity with the outside markets, according to an investigation made by a local paper, and the man on a business or pleasure trip to Germany now prefers to spend his spare money on amusements.

The best German suitings and the best German underwear are as dear as in England, and British and Swedish enamel goods are cheaper than German. Hence purchasing by outsiders during the past couple of months has been virtually eliminated.

On Monday Morning This Store Will Open Its Doors and Commence a Great

ALTERATION SALE

THIS Sale will be double-barrelled in its intent, for it will be our Regular Mid-Summer Sale and it will also be a means of moving our entire Stock of Ladies' High-Grade Ready-to-Wear so that workmen can commence the interior alteration of our store premises as soon as possible.

Women who have inspected our Stock this season—and in other years—know that our displays are always above the average in quality and style. They know also that our prices are at all times as low as this high standard of quality will permit.

With the commencement of this Great Alteration Sale drastic price reductions go into effect. Suits, Coats, Wraps, Silk and Cloth Dresses, Summer Frocks, Sweaters, Skirts, Corsets, Millinery and Blouses are marked at discounts, more generous than this store has ever provided in the past. The price-cutting has been intentionally severe, because we must move this entire stock before July 15th. Thousands of dollars worth of merchandise must be sold and out of the way when walls are being torn down and our store is being re-modelled into one huge showroom.

See our advertisement in To-morrow's "Colonist" for details of this immense clearance of the Season's Smartest Ready-to-Wear.

Don't fail to benefit by the bargains on Monday.

THE EMBARGO.

Unless anything unforeseen takes place in the meantime the British House of Commons will debate the cattle embargo question on July 10.

How the vote in the Commons will go is highly problematical. At least one member of the Government—Mr. Winston Churchill—has announced his intention of voting for the abolition of the embargo.

Mr. Chamberlain told the House of Commons on Wednesday that in the continuation of government business the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle could not be considered.

It will have been understood that temporary inactivity at Skinner's Cove has been occasioned by the somewhat late appearance of the supplementary estimates in the House of Commons.

Vancouver is entitled to congratulation in its capture of the grand sweepstake for its float of Pink and White in the floral pageant at the Portland Rose Festival to-day.

ements of the various British nations, or are they formal and responsible conferences by these governments? It has been assumed that they were the latter, but Mr. Chamberlain's whole-hearted repudiation of the view suggests that they are useless functions that can well be dispensed with in the future.

It is further pointed out that Lord Long was one of the principals to the summoning of the Conference and was the constant representative in it of the British Government.

THE DRYDOCK VOTE.

It will have been understood that temporary inactivity at Skinner's Cove has been occasioned by the somewhat late appearance of the supplementary estimates in the House of Commons.

Vancouver is entitled to congratulation in its capture of the grand sweepstake for its float of Pink and White in the floral pageant at the Portland Rose Festival to-day.

RATHENAU MURDERED.

On Thursday in London and today in a suburb of Berlin the assassin got in his dastardly work. First a great British soldier and parliamentarian and now one of the most prominent members of the German Government in the person of Dr. Walter Rathenau have been sent to violent deaths.

and almost uncanny faculty for making adjustments won him a volume of praise from the diplomatic world. The German Government will find it difficult to replace the late Minister and it can be said without hesitation that the British Cabinet, in its dealings with Germany, will feel the loss of Dr. Rathenau's manifold capacity.

NOTE AND COMMENT

If Eammon de Valera can say nothing better than he has done in his references to the dastardly assassination of Field-Marshal Sir Henry Wilson he had better keep silent.

It would require an elastic imagination to connect the tragedy in London on Thursday with that at Grunewald this morning; but it gives one to wonder whether or not the disciples of world revolution are resorting to this sort of thing as a means of confession of failure in their other methods.

"Canada," which is published in London, Eng., produces an interesting narrative in a recent issue. It reads thus: "A lady informed the hotel clerk of a certain hotel in the Provinces that she was a Canadian.

ESQUIMALT GOLF CLUB.

To the Editor:—The sympathy of Esquimalt ratepayers is extended to the Council because their little green baby, the golf links caught a chill at Lampion Street School on June 16.

WHY WE IMPORT COAL

To the Editor:—I see from a report recently published by the Government at Ottawa that the output of coal throughout the Dominion of Canada last year was a short of 15,000,000 tons, of which quantity rather less than 2,000,000 was exported.

It may be asked why, in view of the existence of enormous coalfields in Canada, both developed and undeveloped, we are consuming a larger quantity of imported coal than the entire output of our own mines.

from British Columbia, totalling $7,457,222. We see from this that $7,457,222 of Canadian money crossed the border last year to pay for American coal.

THANKS FOR KINDNESS

To the Editor:—Would you kindly insert these few lines of thanks from St. Joseph's Hospitalists to thank the visiting committee of the Grand Army of United Veterans of Canada.

SAANICH HEALTH CENTRE.

To the Editor:—In my last two communications I endeavored to discuss the provisions contained in the by-law for the Health Centre.

The position is this: Is it better to pay approximately $1,200 per annum for a minimum of services or to stretch a point and take a chance on paying $1,500 per year with a maximum of service to the community at large.

There is no reason why a trial should not have been given to the admission of bed cases, including hospital cases, to the Health Centre.

WILL ENTERTAIN DOMINION OFFICERS KING'S DAUGHTERS

Visit to Duncan Monday and Tea Here Tuesday

Planned

With the conclusion of the annual convention of the King's Daughters in Vancouver, a number of the Dominion officers will visit Victoria next week and plans for their entertainment are being arranged by the local members of the Order. The visitors will include Mrs. A. M. Brown, the Dominion president; Mrs. MacMorton, vice-president; Mrs. J. E. Austin, treasurer of the national organization, and Miss Martin, a delegate to the Dominion convention. On Monday the visitors will be motored to Duncan, where they will inspect the King's Daughters' Hospital, which is supported by members throughout the province. British Columbia is one of the only two provinces undertaking a provincial work, and much interest was taken during the convention in the Duncan Hospital reports.

On Tuesday afternoon the visitors will be entertained at tea at the home of Mrs. L. H. Hardie, the new Provincial President, when every member of the Order in Victoria is invited to meet the Dominion officers.

CONCERT AND DANCE TO AID JUVENILE PIPE BAND FUNDS

The Knights of the Thistle are giving a concert and dance on Friday next in the Caledonia Hall, the proceeds of which will go to the juvenile pipe and drum band for equipment. The band is now giving concerts in the various city parks every Wednesday evening, and on Wednesday evening will entertain the Victoria West and Esquimalt people in the new Victoria West Park from 7.30 to 9.30 p. m. There are now twelve pipes and six drummers, who are progressing exceptionally well under the tuition of Pipe Major Wallace and Drum Major Hutchison.

A well-balanced programme has been arranged for the concert. The following artists have kindly consented to help out the cause: Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Ogilvy, Mr. Ogilvy, Mr. J. Dobbie, Sr., and Mr. Brown will give some fine violin selections. Mr. D. Wallace will be the accompanist. A dance will be followed from 10 to 11. Messrs. G. Wood and J. Nicol will be floor masters, and Dan Wallace's popular orchestra will supply the music. The supper is in the capable hands of Mrs. Sneeden, assisted by an energetic committee. This is the semi-annual affair of the Knights, and their social committee can assure all their friends and followers a very pleasant social evening. Tickets can be had from any of the members, as well as the pipe band committee.

POPULAR COUPLE IN PRETTY WEDDING AT CHEMAINUS CHURCH

Duncan, June 22.—A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening in the Calvary Baptist Church, Chemainus, between Miss Nellie D. Pearson, only daughter of Mrs. Bond, of Chemainus, and Gordon P. Cook, eldest son of the Rev. E. M. Cook, also of Chemainus. The church was most beautifully decorated for the occasion with roses, ivy and ferns.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, H. Bonaill, looked very charming in white georgette over satin, and a lovely veil with real-orange blossoms, she carried a shower bouquet of ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Louise Cook, wore a very demure dress of flamingo, organdie and a white picture hat. R. McBride supported the bride. The Rev. E. M. Cook performed the ceremony, and by special request Mrs. C. R. Jarrett presided at the organ. While the bride and groom were signing the register, Mr. Dobbinson sang "Because." Miss Burd playing the accompaniment. The bride's path was strewn with roses from the church to the home of the Rev. E. M. Cook, where a reception was held, about 175 guests being present. The happy pair left by motor for Nanaimo, the bride's travelling costume being a smart tailor-made suit of navy blue tulle and a pretty hat to match. On their return they will reside in Chemainus. The many beautiful and useful presents testified to the popularity of the young couple.

Out of town guests were Miss Helen Beatty from Indiana, Mrs. Helen Beatty, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Byrd, Mrs. Ellers and Miss Sedden, Victoria.

En route home she will make a short stopover with her son, who is temporarily located at Peak View, Manitou, Colorado, seeking health after a severe attack of influenza.

Twenty-four graduate nurses, headed by Mrs. Mary Scott-Higgins and all from Indiana, U. S. A., arrived in the city yesterday from Edmondton, where they have been attending the sessions of the Canadian Nurses' Association. They are sightseeing in the city, and will leave during the week-end for Seattle to attend the sessions of the American Nurses' Association to be held in the Sound city next week.

An engagement of unusual interest announced in Vancouver is that of Blanche Howe, eldest daughter of Major-General and Mrs. A. D. McRae, of "Hycroft," Shaughnessy Heights, to Richard Baker, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baker, Nelson Street, Vancouver. The marriage will take place shortly. Both Miss McRae and Mr. Baker are well-known in Victoria, and were amongst the guests at the recent ball at Government House in honor of the visiting golfers.

Miss Kitty Collison, of Landsdowne Road, the Uplands, entertained a number of young friends at an informal dance at her home on Thursday evening. Among those present were: Miss Janice Davidson of Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Christy, the Misses Helen Macdonald, Margaret and Mary Campbell, Audrey Topp, Florence Patterson, Messrs. Ernest Greenwood, Gordon Patterson, Harold Henderson, Bob Beatty, Billy Gordon and others.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Hellman left for Vancouver to spend the remainder of the week with Mrs. R. F. Pfueger, wife of Dr. E. R. Pfueger, who is pastor of Christ Lutheran Church of this city. Mrs. Hellman will return to Victoria on Monday afternoon of next

BENEFIT DANCE.

Very charming and delightful was the benefit dance which was held by the W.B.A. girls' Summer camp at the K. of C. Hall last night, under the capable co-operation of Mrs. Balk, who was ably assisted by Miss M. Watson. Hunt's orchestra supplied an excellent programme of music, soft drinks were supplied during the evening.

A magnificent camping site at Cordova Bay has been secured by the W.B.A. this year, and the proceeds of the dance will be devoted to this camp. The first week in July will see the opening of the camp, which will be open to all W.B.A. girls. Camp equipment and facilities will be provided by the home office, previous ones, will supply the necessary funds for the carrying on of this site. The camp will be under the supervision of Mrs. Balk and Miss M. E. Singland, who is president of the organization. SHIP'S OFFICERS HIGHLY PRAISED BY PASSENGERS

Were Courteous and Patient in Difficult Situation, Says W. D. Norvell

Complete Reversal of Feeling After Excitement Subsidied

"I can say that nothing but the highest praise is due to Capt. A. J. Halley and the ship's officers for the manner in which they handled an extremely difficult situation," declared W. D. Norvell.

The passengers naturally resented the possibility of being indefinitely detained, as many of them had important engagements to meet and rail and steamship connections to make.

passengers ashore at the quarantine station. "The ship's officers were stormed by excited people who were not at all particular in the choice of their remarks, and I must say, and in this I am backed by a large percentage of the passengers, that the officers behaved admirably under most trying conditions. They were courteous and patient and did their best to give collected and satisfactory answers to the questions that were flung at them by incensed passengers. They were the butt of everybody and smilingly held themselves in restraint."

Opinions Reversed. The subsequent complete reversal of feeling among the passengers was most noticeable. Those who were most prominent in making a fuss, after they had calmed down, were among those praising the officers after the excitement had subsided, realizing that they had merely been doing their duty under most difficult circumstances.

"Dr. Brown, the medical officer at William Head, also had a difficult experience. He was bound by the quarantine regulations and could not afford to take any chances. The company is also to be congratulated for the prompt and efficient arrangements for the comfort of the passengers."

The magnificent liner, towering above the dock-warehouses, made a good landing with Capt. A. J. Halley, R. N. R., and Pilot George Roberts on the bridge.

Handled Finely. Capt. A. J. Halley spoke in enthusiastic terms of his splendid command. "She handled beautifully all the way from Falmouth," he said. "She is the very last word in ship construction and is a worthy addition to the fleet."

Gyro Compass. The gyro compass steering wheel is a wonderful invention. The gyro wheel, Capt. Halley stated, had revolved 70,000 miles during the passage across the Pacific. It lays its axis parallel with the earth at any degree of list on the ship and is electrically connected with the compass.

By a control lever in the chart-room all the watertight doors in the ship can be automatically closed and tiny red lights on a ship's diagram show that the closing of the watertight doors has been accomplished.

Her Speed. On her voyage across the Pacific the Empress of Canada averaged a speed of 19.7 knots, and she reached as high as 22 knots. The speed of the ship, Capt. Halley stated, was not fully tested on her official trials. She is easily the fastest ship on the Pacific ocean and, if opened up, will cover the distance between Yokohama and this port in eight days.

OPEN REBELLION WAS THREATENED ON BOARD LINER

Passengers Refused to Obey Order to Go Ashore from Quarantined Ship

Sixty-eight Were Finally Detained and Others Released

All the earmarks of an incipient riot developed on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada when the passengers were notified that the quarantine regulations would necessitate the removal of the entire list of first class passengers ashore for observation.

Teak Determined Stand. It was decided that it would be necessary to remove all the first class passengers ashore. When the news spread rapidly about the ship excited groups of passengers collected and a determined collective stand was taken which finally resulted in a reversal of the original plans.

The quarantine authorities were in a quandary. The authorities at Ottawa were notified of the situation by wire with a request for instructions. The impasse was finally overcome. Word came through from Ottawa giving instructions for the removal ashore of the infected case and contacts, and all these passengers not bearing marks of vaccination and likely to be immune from infection.

This minority were inclined to resist the order, but the opinion of the

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha, a Japanese line, is planning to place larger and faster passenger liners on the North Pacific route.

Looks to Pacific. Press of travel and freight offerings on the European route forced the Nippon Yusen Kaisha to withdraw its large liners of the type of the Fushimi Maru from this service, and forced the temporary substitution of smaller vessels, but the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, as the premier shipping company of Japan, looks to the Pacific for development and does not intend to abandon its connections on this ocean, which have been built up by many years of studied effort.

The British freighter Gladiator, of the Harrison Direct Line, reached port at 9 o'clock this morning from the United Kingdom via the Panama Canal.

The Gladiator was completely dwarfed by the immense size of the Empress liner. Standing on the bridge of the Canadian Pacific liner it was possible to look over the top of the Gladiator's smokestack.

After discharging her local freight the Gladiator will proceed to Vancouver to complete the discharge of her inward cargo. A large freighter awaits the Harrison ship at coast ports for her return trip to the United Kingdom.

Canada Invites World Tourists to Rocky Mountains

Mountain Area Now Park Explored By Hardy Adventurers

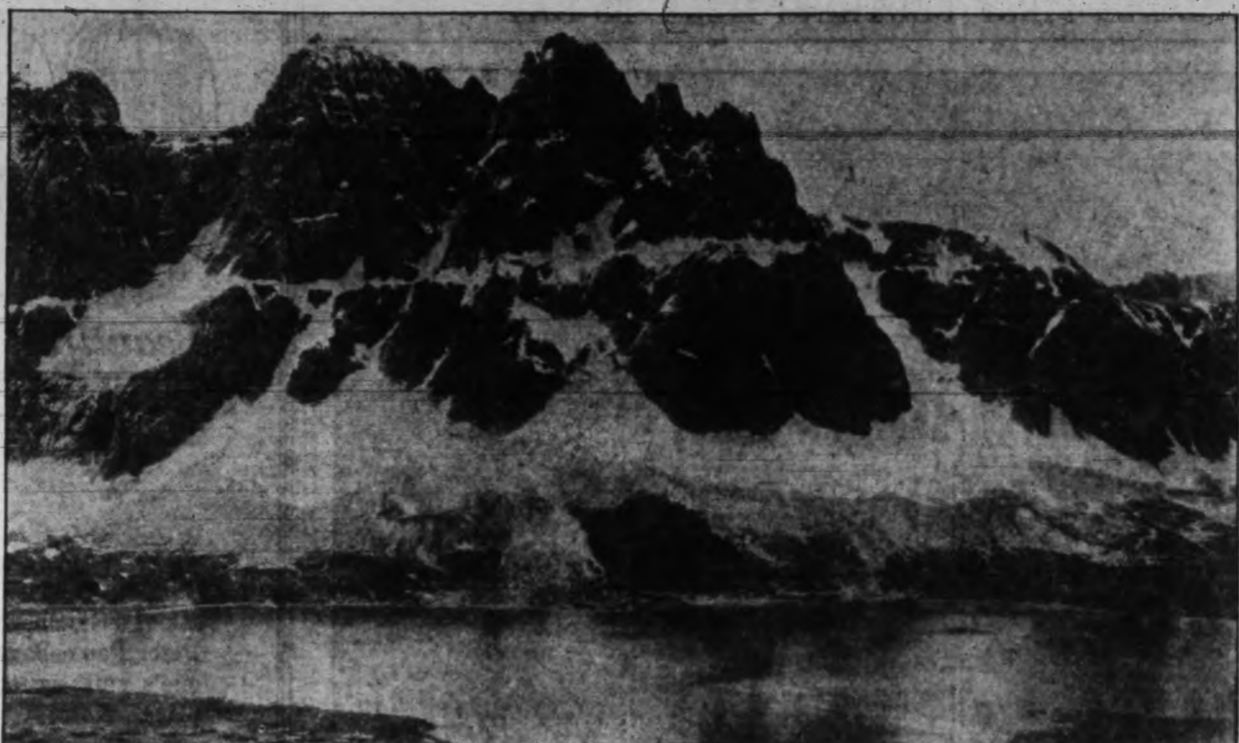

With History of Jasper National Playground in Rockies Names of David Thompson, David Douglas and Others Are Linked.

No part of the Canadian Rocky Mountains has a more interesting history than the Yellowhead Pass and Jasper National Park region. With it are connected the names of David Thompson, fur trader and geographer; Jasper Hawes, the yellow-haired fur trader after whom the park and Yellowhead Pass are named; Gabriel Franchere, Ross Cox and Alexander Ross, who shared in John Jacob Astor's attempt to build up a monopolistic fur trade; David Douglas, botanist, from whom the Douglas fir took its name; Sir James Hector, the explorer; Dr. William Cheadle, first of the tourists, and Principal Grant, of Queen's University, seeker of a route for a trans-continental railway. All these, with the exception of Jasper Hawes, have left narratives of their experiences which take on an added appeal now that there has been established near Jasper, in the park, a Canadian National Railway Summer resort where tourists will enjoy the grandeur of the mountain scenery in comfort far beyond the reach of the hardy early explorers and voyagers.

Then and Now
The present generation reads that Jasper National Park is one of Canada's great mountain wonderlands, an Alpine kingdom of 4,400 square miles, a paradise of giant peaks and crystal lakes, and that it was set apart in 1907 and its present boundaries were fixed in 1914; that it is a vast game preserve where range 19,000 Rocky Mountain (Highon) sheep, countless Rocky Mountain goats, elk and caribou, mule deer, white-tailed and black-tailed deer, grizzly, black and cinnamon bears, and that its waters teem with game fish; but only the stories of the intrepid explorers and traders of long years ago disclose how hard won were men's first victories over its fastnesses.

David Thompson
In 1791, at the age of 27, David Thompson, the fur trader, even then a great geographer, left the service of the Hudson's Bay because that company objected to his trading and mapping the country at the same time. He joined the North West Fur

A Scene of Rugged Grandeur in Jasper National Park

Lying about seventeen miles as the crow flies southwest of the village of Jasper, administration headquarters of the park, and Lake Beauvert, where is situated the new Summer resort of the Canadian National Railways known as Jasper Park Lodge, the Ramparts are among the most inspiring scenery in that part of the Rocky Mountains. At their base lies Amethyst Lake, a jewel of that high altitude, sometimes amethyst, sometimes bright green, again ultramarine and at other moments pure silver.

The Ramparts and Amethyst Lake
The party with which Ross was traveling found Jasper House in charge of a man named Klyne, "a jolly old fellow with a large family." Yellowhead Pass was discovered about 1826. In the spring of 1827, David Douglas it lies about 200 miles west of Edmonton, just below the confluence of the Miette River with the Athabasca. The Miette coming from Yellowhead Pass to the west, and the Athabasca from the glaciers to the south, to pursue its way in a northeasterly direction to the plains of Alberta and the Arctic Ocean.

Unspoiled
This, then, is a brief history of the great Canadian national playground, Jasper Park, touching also some of the early movements to distant points and far enterprises which led men through it. To-day, though the 4,400 square miles are patrolled by park wardens of the Government of Canada, there is still "the unspoiled, untouched wilderness: great flower-carpeted valleys lying in the laps of unconquered peaks, and streams, now newly charted, picking their way to jeweled lakes set each in its circlet of snowcaps."

"From the snowy breasts of its great mountains takes life the storied river of the north, the Athabasca. And this stream, fed by a thousand glacier-mothered watercourses, has carved its endless journey to the Arctic Sea, the mountain-guarded highway that has come to be known as the Valley of the Athabasca."
It is to a spot amid that inspiring scenery the Canadian National Railway system invites tourists to go when it offers them the attractions of its new Jasper Park Lodge.

NEW TOURIST CENTRE IN JASPER PARK

Travelers Invited to Enjoy Rocky Mountain Scenery Jasper Lodge Addition to National Railway System

Jasper Park is Canada's largest national playground—4,400 square miles of mountains, valleys, lakes and rivers. Approximately 200 miles west of Edmonton, it has attracted many tourists since it was established, for the inspiring grandeur of the Rocky Mountains in the Yellowhead Pass region has long been known to a large part of the world; but comfortable accommodation for sojourners at a favorably located spot was lacking. Through the forward-looking enterprise of the Canadian National Railways this defect has now been repaired and there is on the shore of Lake Beauvert a little bungalow town which will enable tourists to spend their recreation periods among mountains with the essential conveniences of modern civilization. Jasper Park Lodge, as it has been named, is the newest addition to the series of Canadian National Railway Hotels, which extends from the Rockies to Ottawa.

For the formal opening last week there gathered a group of Federal and provincial officials and representatives of daily newspapers from as far West as Victoria and as far East as Winnipeg, and all shared in the simple ceremonies. First, in the soft light of the early morning sun, with placid Lake Beauvert, but a few yards away, like a great mirror for the nearby peaks, the Union Jack was hoisted on the new flagstaff. The honor fell to Mrs. H. C. Flueger, of San Francisco, a native of Hawaii, who was the first person to register at the new Summer resort and who unfurled the colors after a brief address of welcome by W. E. Duperow, General Passenger agent of the Canadian National Railways at Winnipeg.

At midday there was an informal luncheon, at which Osborne Scott, General Passenger Agent of the Canadian National Railways at Vancouver, acted as chairman, and in the afternoon the party made a trip to the Maligne Canyon, one of the wonders of the park, within easy distance of the lodge.

Banquet
The evening was devoted to a banquet, at which there were toasts. Mr. Duperow acting as chairman, officials of the National Railway system explained the purpose of the management in establishing the hotel, and the hopes it would be their effort to fulfill, and spokesmen for the press congratulated those who spacious dining room, a dancing pavilion and the office. The dining room has windows overlooking the lake. A pumping station draws water from the lake and supplies it to all the buildings, and there is an electric lighting system.

Points of Interest
In points of interest, visitors to the lodge will find an embarrassment of riches. Nature in few other parts of the world has lavished such gifts as in the Canadian Rockies. More beautiful than the Alps—older than the Andes and more stupendous than the Himalayas, they hold for me a lure which goes back to the very birth of the earth itself," wrote James Oliver Curwood.

Mount Edith Cavell, 11,023 feet high, the outstanding peak of the district, is thirty-six miles by saddle from the lodge. Its summit always mantled in snow, Mount Cavell carries the Ghost Glacier, an enormous field of ice which in general form resembles a ghost when seen in the moonlight. A motor road, which is being built will lead right to the glacier.

Beautiful Lakes
Medicine Lake, which lies thirty-four miles east of the lodge by trail, looks from the surrounding peaks like a great silver ribbon four miles long and half a mile wide. Farther to the southeast is Maligne Lake, said to be one of the most beautiful lakes in the Rocky Mountains. It is about twenty miles long and is surrounded by high snow-capped peaks. Another striking panorama is to be had from the summit of Old Horn Mountain, 8,775 feet from where sixteen glaciers and five lakes may be seen. Beyond Mount Cavell also there is a wonderland for the tourist, for there are to be seen the Ramparts, described by observers as one of the most wonderful and impressive mountain areas in the Canadian Rockies.

Many of the trips are made in motor cars, that part of the park boasting of numerous well built and well kept roads. For those who desire to journey on trails to distant points or toward peaks on mountains having no motor roads trustworthy horses are supplied, the trips being made under the leadership of experienced guides.

Bathing and Fishing
A short distance from the new tourist centre is Lake Edith, where there is good bathing. Those who use rod and line will find numerous lakes in the region where the fish are plentiful and the sport enticing. The lodge this year will be kept open until September 15. Already, at the date of opening, more than 100 people from Chicago alone had reserved accommodation during the season, and the demand increases beyond the present space it is supposed to add to the number of cabins. Many congratulations were expressed to A. S. McLean, superintendent of Canadian National Hotels, Winnipeg, under whose supervision the building was done. The Lodge is under control. A. F. Darnell being the manager.

Attended Opening
Among those present at the opening of Jasper Lodge were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Flueger, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright, Toronto; Mrs. A. S. McLean and Miss McLean, Winnipeg; J. A. Laidlaw, W. Dalin, E. A. Quigley, Vancouver; Lieut.-Colonel S. Maynard Rogers, Superintendent of Jasper National Park and Mrs. Rogers; Osborne Scott, General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Railways, Vancouver; W. E. Duperow, General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Railways, Winnipeg; C. W. Higgins, Advertising Agent of the C. N. R., Winnipeg; C. N. Howard, Tourist Agent, C. N. R., Toronto; W. C. Stapleton, District Passenger Agent, C. N. R., Saskatoon; Joseph Madill, District Passenger Agent, C. N. R., Edmonton; George M. Lang, C. E., Inspector of Buildings, C. N. R., Winnipeg; C. A. Sutherland, The Vancouver Province; Sydney Scott, The Vancouver World; Ivan H. Denison, The Vancouver Sun; Charles O. Smith, The Calgary Herald; F. M. Kipp, Assistant Manager of the Canadian Press, Ltd., Winnipeg; John M. Imrie and A. B. Watt, The Edmonton Journal; H. Stout, The Edmonton Bulletin; P. F. Horton, The Saskatchewan Star; R. G. Dufos, The Winnipeg Free Press; A. G. Rose, The Winnipeg Tribune; H. B. MacDonald, The Victoria Colonist, and W. S. Henderson, The Victoria Times.

A GLACIER OF LOFTY MOUNT CAVELL

Fifteen miles as the crow flies, but farther by bridle trail, south of Jasper Lodge, the new Summer resort of the Canadian National Railway Hotel system in Jasper National Park, stands Mount Edith Cavell. The great peak, a striking spectacle with its strata plainly marked and its summit always mantled in snow, has several glaciers, among them the Ghost Glacier, pictured above. In the moonlight, viewed from the direction of the photographer's camera, it resembles a pale apparition of monstrous proportions, with arms—outstretched. It is a scenic point of strong attraction for tourists who visit the national recreation ground in the Rocky Mountains west of Edmonton.

Company, to which also owed allegiance such kindred spirits as Simon Fraser and Alexander Mackenzie. This company soon established itself as the rival of the Hudson's Bay, and the competition became so keen that it sometimes led to bloodshed.

Jasper Hawes
Tradition has it that Jasper Hawes ("Tete Jaune") made his way into the Jasper Park region in 1804, trading for the Hudson's Bay Company, and that he established the post known as Jasper's House, on the west shore of Bruce Lake. It was later described by Franchere as being in the middle of a wood and almost everywhere surrounded by steep rocks. The latitude was given as fifty-three degrees, eighteen minutes, forty seconds.

Athabasca Pass
In 1810, David Thompson, turned back by a war party of Piegan Indians in his attempt to cross the mountains farther east, in the dead of winter, by dog-sled, entered what is now Jasper Park along the Valley of the Athabasca River.

Where the Athabasca turns at Jasper, he followed it south, crossing the ridge and down the Wood River to the Columbia; and thence by water to the sea. This was discovered the Athabasca Pass, through which for many years flowed the main volume of the fur trade.

The first published account of a trip through Jasper Park was written by Gabriel Franchere, one of those associated with the gigantic scheme of John Jacob Astor to found a fur trade monopoly that would extend from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast, and thence by way of the Sandwich Islands to China. This account, "Voyage a la cote du Nord-Ouest de l'Amerique Septentrionale," written in 1820, told how the party sailed from New York in 1810 and rounded Astor's bay at the mouth of the Columbia River, in 1811—an event, says Washington Irving in his book, "Astoria," which caused "a sensation to the most remote parts of the vast wilderness beyond the mountains." The surprise at Astoria was great when David Thompson arrived, saying he had come by way of Athabasca Pass and the Columbia, representing the North West Company.

A series of misfortunes caused the abandonment of the Astor plan in 1813, Duncan McDougall, the agent at Astoria, "selling out Mr. Astor at about forty cents on the dollar."

NEW CENTRE FOR TOURISTS IN ROCKY MOUNTAINS

A glimpse of Jasper Park Lodge, the recently established Summer resort of the Canadian National Railways on Lake Beauvert in Jasper Park, the Federal recreation ground in the Yellowhead Pass region of the Rockies. The Lodge is composed of a central dining-room and dance pavilion, a central lounge and a number of separate sleeping cabins, all of fir log construction, as described elsewhere on this page.

name to the British Columbia park, is the monarch of the Canadian Rockies, being 13,068 feet in height. It is seen from the Canadian National Railway and from the Grand Trunk Pacific. Other lofty peaks in Robson Park are: The Dome, 11,650 feet; Mount Resplendent, 11,173 feet; and Mount Whitehorn, 11,101 feet.

Some of the imposing peaks in Jasper Park are: Mount Mary Vaux, 11,881 feet; Mount Edith Cavell, 11,023 feet; Mount Warren, 10,500 feet; Miette Mountains, 10,240 feet; Thorne Mountain, 10,144 feet; Mount Unwin, 10,040 feet; and Mount Hardisty, 10,000 feet.

Lieut.-Col. Rogers, Superintendent of Jasper National Park, whose headquarters are at the village of Jasper, is of the opinion the two parks ought to be united, so the Federal administration would run throughout the huge area of 5,040 square miles.

RADIOPHONE ON MOVING TRAIN
The train which carried the press representatives from the Pacific coast to Jasper Park, for the opening of Jasper Park Lodge, was equipped with a wireless telephone receiving set. Musical numbers being rendered in Vancouver and Edmonton as parts of radio concerts were heard by the passengers, the first recorded incident of its kind in Canada.

had conceived the plan and those who had so successfully put it into concrete form, and gave expression to the need with which they viewed this new enterprise of Canada's railway system. Agreed with the chairman and Mr. Scott that the occasion was of historical significance, as it undoubtedly marked a new starting point from which Jasper Park, more widely known year by year, would draw a steadily increasing invasion of nature-loving tourists.

A Group of Buildings.
Jasper Lodge, which replaces the "tent city" at Lake Beauvert which for years accommodated Summer guests, is unique in construction among the railway Summer resort hotels in Canada. The buildings without exception are of fir logs cut in the contiguous forests and put together with all the skill of the cunning woodsmen of early Canada. There are eight separate sleeping cabins, in each of which are four bedrooms, two beds in each room, with a bathroom and a central reception room in each and all have wide verandas on the lakeward side.

pressed to A. S. McLean, superintendent of Canadian National Hotels, Winnipeg, under whose supervision the building was done. The Lodge is under control. A. F. Darnell being the manager.

Attended Opening.
Among those present at the opening of Jasper Lodge were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Flueger, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wright, Toronto; Mrs. A. S. McLean and Miss McLean, Winnipeg; J. A. Laidlaw, W. Dalin, E. A. Quigley, Vancouver; Lieut.-Colonel S. Maynard Rogers, Superintendent of Jasper National Park and Mrs. Rogers; Osborne Scott, General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Railways, Vancouver; W. E. Duperow, General Passenger Agent, Canadian National Railways, Winnipeg; C. W. Higgins, Advertising Agent of the C. N. R., Winnipeg; C. N. Howard, Tourist Agent, C. N. R., Toronto; W. C. Stapleton, District Passenger Agent, C. N. R., Saskatoon; Joseph Madill, District Passenger Agent, C. N. R., Edmonton; George M. Lang, C. E., Inspector of Buildings, C. N. R., Winnipeg; C. A. Sutherland, The Vancouver Province; Sydney Scott, The Vancouver World; Ivan H. Denison, The Vancouver Sun; Charles O. Smith, The Calgary Herald; F. M. Kipp, Assistant Manager of the Canadian Press, Ltd., Winnipeg; John M. Imrie and A. B. Watt, The Edmonton Journal; H. Stout, The Edmonton Bulletin; P. F. Horton, The Saskatchewan Star; R. G. Dufos, The Winnipeg Free Press; A. G. Rose, The Winnipeg Tribune; H. B. MacDonald, The Victoria Colonist, and W. S. Henderson, The Victoria Times.

For the common use of all the guests there is a large building, all in one room, with a massive stone fireplace, rustic furniture and a wide veranda. It is the lounge, where many a tale will be told among the gathered visitors during the bracing mountain evenings of the Summers to come.

ULSTER BORDER LIKE BLOOD PASSAGE

Four Different Military Forces Are on Duty

British Enjoy Novelty; Irish Take Work Seriously

Irregulars Act Just Like Boy Pirates

Dublin, June 24.—Four different military bodies on duty along the Ulster border between the countries of Donegal and Fermanagh, where the first fatal clash between British and Irish soldiers occurred, made this frontier nearly as hard to pass as the old Hindenburg line. Ulster special constables, British troops, regulars of the Irish Republican Army and Irish irregulars all had appointed or appointed duties, preventing normal intercourse between the counties, which they discharged with executive efficiency.

The constables are mostly untrained and armed either with a rifle or a revolver. They do their work in a businesslike manner, scrutinizing the credentials of visitors to decide whether to permit them to enter Ulster or require them to return to the Free State.

When three country lads inspecting automobiles along an unfrequented road were shown an American passport filled with European stamps, they in vain tried to find out if it was a Gaelic stamp linking the holder officially with the Irish Free State.

The constables rise to the height of their girth at night when they send the inhabitants of the villages to bed. The villagers enjoy the last few seconds before curfew standing in the twilight outside their doors. Suddenly from a group of two and three and the villagers simultaneously vanish.

The British soldiers enjoy the novelty of their situation. They find plenty of material for new barracks room ballads in these encounters with the "Sinners." They are experienced with the air of long experience, awakening no hope in the visitor's breast that orders might be slightly relaxed in his case with general argument.

The Irish regulars still take their new work as seriously as ever. As an organization they are experienced and not accustomed to habitual discipline, they frequently must use their own discretion, in which they are usually successful. The visitor feels that a dexterous tongue could convince them that black is white, but their obedient fairness usually wins reciprocity.

Like Playing Pirates.

The Irish irregulars are most interesting. They are usually in Belkirk this week looked as if they had not slept in a month. They did nothing methodically, and had no responsibility. They had the air of playing pirates, like Tom Sawyers who had come of age without outgrowing boyhood.

New York Herald correspondent accompanied the correspondent of a London newspaper in a motor to the outskirts of Pettigo, where British advances from Pettigo were first anticipated. Motor drivers in Enniskillen would not leave the six counties area, feeling that the British would seize their cars, but one driver volunteered to drive by a circuitous route within 100 yards of the town.

Having the driver immediately dashed back to Enniskillen and the correspondents proceeded past the trees, feeling they were being followed into the tiny village lying under the shadow of a small bluff, upon which was a gray stone fort flying the Irish tricolor.

Around a bend in the road came three youthful pirates armed with rifles and casually asked the correspondents where they were going. From Enniskillen, was it? If we'd know it was a six county car we'd have fired on it. We stop all six county cars on the road.

They casually inquired for credentials and searched the visitors. They answered a few questions but the only answer they gave was "From Enniskillen, was it?" They said they were on their way to Ballyshannon, a few miles beyond the border, where they were to be engaged in the work of the Free State.

The people of Ballyshannon, who safely within the Free State border, were completely without information on what was happening because telephone and telegraph wires had been cut. Between Ballyshannon and Donegal through the narrow strip of Free State territory, as the Ulster authorities have been known, a few villages were seen returning.

Pump wives are preferred throughout Morocco, and in Tunis there are villages where the elder members of the adult population make a profession of opening young ladies for the matrimonial market of Barbary.

PRINCE'S FLAG FLIES FOR LLOYD GEORGE

Criccieth Pays Him Honor Usually Accorded King

"Prime Minister Is Here," Emblem Means

London, June 24.—The admirers of Premier Lloyd George in his home town of Criccieth now regard him to be such an important personality in the country's affairs that they extend him a distinction accorded only to the King.

When the Prime Minister stepped off the train for the Criccieth flag was hoisted on the hill bearing the Red Dragon of Wales on a green and white background. When he departed, the flag was taken down. In the future the flag will stand in the future the flag will stand in the future the flag will stand in the future.

Prime Ministers constitutionally have every right to have a flag flown where they are stopping, but for many years the ceremony has been observed only for the King.

Friends of Mr. Lloyd George say he accepts the flag ceremony as a touching tribute of friendship from the home town folk.

FLYING STIMULATES MIND, SAYS AIRMAN

London, June 24.—That flying will evolve a new type of human mind is claimed by Capt. L. G. Svevick, a distinguished flying officer. Writing on the psychology of flying in the current issue of an English review he says:

"Flying is not the natural state of man. The flying is noticeable in future generations the evolution of a new type of mind whose tendencies and capabilities can be directly traced to the fact that the men and their fathers have flown about the sky and remained in the upper air for many hours of their lives. High up in the clearer air the mind seems to be purged of certain glutinous attachments." It evolves with altogether unprecedented velocity and perfect precision.

"The idea of death is regarded with unconcern and with a certain reckless indifference. The memory in some instances becomes dulled and incapable of calling up a clear picture, but the general effect of flying is to stimulate and strengthen the mind. Such qualities as intuition and telepathy will develop more quickly with the influence of flight into powers as much in command of the individual as hearing and tasting."

Capt. Svevick suggests a closer study of fliers and inquiry into the mental effects of flying, which he thinks many are caused by a flaw that is mental rather than mechanical.

PRINCESS MARY'S FIRST SPEECH SINCE MARRIAGE

London, June 24.—Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles chose Empire Day on which to make her first public speech since her marriage.

As President of the committee organizing the ball at the Royal Albert Hall on June 28 in aid of the combined appeal for the hospitals, she was present at a meeting in the Picture Gallery at St. James's Palace, S. W.

It is just twenty-five years since my grandfather, with his extraordinary foresight, inaugurated the King Edward's Hospital Fund in order to stimulate the voluntary system. The fund is now appealing to us all to save the voluntary system. We cannot look on and allow these splendid hospitals to go down.

Lord Rosebery, Now 75, Again Appears in Public

London, June 24.—One of the finest and most popular men in England, Lord Rosebery, appeared in public the other day for the first time in a long while. Lord Rosebery has many friends in many parts of the world and so has his second son, Neil Primrose, who visited New York and impressed everyone he met by his camaraderie.

Lord Rosebery, in the course of his existence, has enjoyed most of the good things of life. He need have no regrets when he looks back from his 75th birthday. Crowded as he is with years and honors, Lord Rosebery has achieved the three winning goals in the life race he fixed for himself.

The man who has been at once Prime Minister, First Lord of the Treasury and Lord President of the Council is, first of all, a good sportsman. He has a fine figure, was wheeled in a bath chair from The Durdans to the bowling green. And beside the chair walked his grand daughter, Ruth Primrose, six years old, who remains to recall to him that her father, Neil, right honorably and bravely laid down his life of wounds suffered at Mesopotamia.

World Famous Pictures Go Under Hammer Burdett-Coutts Sale

London, June 24.—Sunshine, primroses and plenty of pictures—the combination lends enchantment to dear old London at this time of the year. The great Burdett-Coutts sale at Christie's has been the top-line feature. It is a continued-in-our-next-afair, stretching over a fortnight or so. It is a Mid-Victorian, in every sense of the word. Paintings, prints, porcelains and junk.

But the junk has the hall-mark of old historic family association, and a few of the pictures are prime. These latter were sold first, while the selling was good, to give prestige to the others, and the idea worked out very well, considering. The opening afternoon saw the dispersal netted £88,728. The sum in dollars is more imposing, and from present indications the totals will foot up to close on a million.

The big first-day total was fetched by 134 pictures, twenty of which were drawings, the rest paintings by British artists—including Gainsborough, Hogarth, Hoppner, Lawrence, Reynolds, Raeburn, Romney—and dubious or unimportant Continental old masters, the quality of which may be judged from the fact that a Holbein and a Titoretto fetched for 300 guineas each, a Poussin and a Watteau for 400 each, a "supposed" Leonardo da Vinci for $4,000, and a Rembrandt for 500 guineas, which figures out at nearly £70, or $350 per square inch. Of course there was a reason, a very special reason, for this instance. For this little picture, the title of which is "The Agony in the Garden," is none other than a fragment of the Raphael Madonna in the Metropolitan Museum, New York—a gift from the Morgan collection.

The panel now acquired by the Dukes is one of four which originally formed the predella of the Metropolitan's Madonna, the latter being an altar piece painted by Raphael in 1505 for the nuns of St. Anthony at Perugia. The name a century and a half later detached the predella and sold it to Queen Christina of Sweden.

Subsequently the four panels were separated; but they have never been lost sight of, and to-day they are located as follows: "St. Francis and St. Anthony" in the Dulwich Gallery, London; a "Pieta," owned by Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston; the "Procession to Calvary," in the National Gallery, London; and the "Agony in the Garden," which has just changed hands, to the collection of Samuel Rogers, the banker-poet, in 1856.

The panel is a highly finished miniature, representing the Saviour at prayer, St. Peter, St. John and St. James asleep on the ground, and an angel descending from the clouds.

But this side-story, interesting as it is, must not keep us longer from the picturesque and dramatic events of the first day's sale at stuffy old historic Christie's.

I have said "dramatic," and so it was in its way, though quite differently from one of Mr. Kirby's crowded evenings at the Plaza in New York.

Though the salesroom at Christie's was jammed and overflowing with "quality," both social and commercial, the bidding was altogether unemotional. Money talked—especially American money. The auctioneer, Mr. Hannan, addressed his snappy remarks and intensive meaning glance chiefly to a small group of serious men gathered around a table near the elevated desk on which his hammer-struck a table near the buyers.

These silent men were the general officers in the big battle of the buyers. The classic Raeburn portrait of Sir Walter Scott was the storm centre—only the tempest did not rage at the actual sale, but before and after, among agitated people who ranted vaguely about "saving our art treasures for the nation." Needless to say, the "criers are not the buyers."

BRITAIN'S HOT SPELL DIVORCED PERSONS ARE STILL PAID FROM KING'S COURT

Construction of Florida Railroad Said to Alter Course

Rainfall Has Dropped to Ten Per Cent Below Normal

Water Famine Feared—Conservation of Supply Urged

London, June 24.—American engineering which is supposed to have altered the course of the Gulf Stream is blamed here for England's hot weather.

Like last year, Spring broke early, and for a month the weather has been sweltering and all-heat records have been broken. Experts in trying to discover the cause are asking these questions:

"Has America altered the British climate?" "Are the new hot Summers due to a change in the direction of the Gulf Stream?" "Has the change in the Stream been caused by the sea railway from the tip of Florida to Key West?"

Some of these questions are answered with an emphatic yes by John Harrison of the Clapham Observatory. In a letter to The Daily Express he says: "The course of the Gulf Stream has been changed within the last few years by the construction of a railway seventy miles long from the coast of Florida to Key West. Although some portion of the railway is constructed on a great and increasing part of it consists of a solid embankment and the whole effect is to narrow considerably the Gulf Stream, thus concentrating the waters of the northern branch of the stream in the Florida channel outlet through which the Gulf Stream flows, thus at once concentrating the waters of the stream in the Florida channel."

He adds that the centre of the northern branch of the stream formerly struck the west coast of Ireland and then went around the west coast of Scotland, but that it now passes south of Ireland and runs straight up the English and British channels. This, he suggests, accounts for the recent remarkable Summers and for the heat waves in the south of England while there is frost in Glasgow.

Mr. Clapham adds that this also explains the "phenomenally low temperatures in the Shetland Islands during recent Winters," and the recent invasion of the British Channel by sharks. He believes that the change in the British climate will be more marked with the conversion of the open portions of the Key West viaduct to solid embankments or by the construction of a second viaduct.

The dryness of the Summer already has caused fear that the water famine will exceed that of last year. Widespread appeals are being made to save water. The winter's rainfall was 10 per cent below normal and for the last two weeks it has not rained.

OLD TIMER MISSED BY DUBOIN DINERS

London, June 24.—For the first time in more than a quarter of a century, H. Shelton was absent this week from the chairman's seat at Simpson's eating place in Chesapeake, where the regular customers still observe the traditions that have been in vogue for two centuries. Shelton, who is 86, was attached to the secret service during the Crimean War, and was the old customers alternate in taking his place.

But the guests miss Shelton, "opening every meal with great and returning thanks to the presiding over the weighing of the cheese."

Simpson's was started in 1723, because the Billingsgate men complained that while the always sold a restaurant and sold four courses—fresh fish, a joint, cheese and salad—for two shillings. The price remains unchanged, as do the old ceremonies, making it one of the most unusual eating places in London.

Every day, as the cheese is brought in, the customers guess the height of the girl and the weight of it. If anybody guesses correctly, which happens on the average of two or three times a year, champagne is flung around the table and a case of it forwarded to the guesser's home.

The cheese has never been guessed correctly twice by the same person, although some of the customers have guessed regularly daily except on Sundays for fifty years.

The One Unwanted

By RUBY M. AYRES
INSTALMENT No. 25

"I've got an awful temper," I sighed, slipping my hand into his. "You will be ever so sorry some day that you married me."

"I know Mr. Shelter," I said, "but I did not know he was Mrs. Fraser's brother-in-law. I forgot to mention it."

"I beg your pardon, I am sure. I understood that it was your ambition to marry a wealthy man, but perhaps I am mistaken in thinking that you once told me so."

"I am not very good at finding family resemblances," Mr. Anderson said. "But—no!" And now his eyes came back to my face. "I don't think she is at all like you." There was a little pause. "And you have altered a great deal since we last met," he added quietly.

"I don't," he agreed coolly. "But Mrs. Fraser is a sister of Shelter's."

It was nothing to me that we had met again. It was nothing to me that he looked just as dear and boyish as when I had first known him in Devonshire; nothing to me that the mere fee of his sleeve beneath my ungloved hand set every nerve in my body quivering.

And then we were seated at table, and to my infinite relief I found that Lionel was on the same side of the table as I was, only further down, so that, only by stooping right forward could he catch my eye.

I had not dared to lift my eyes to Mark's face after that one look, but I knew that I should have to look at him, and when presently he spoke, a whole dinner without addressing a single remark to the man who brought me in, and when presently he spoke, I nerved myself to raise my eyes.

"I did not expect to see you this evening," Miss Slater said, and the sound of his voice my heart seemed to sick and die with uncontrollable longing.

"No. I did not know that you knew the Frasers," I forced myself to answer.

"I don't," he agreed coolly. "But Mrs. Fraser is a sister of Shelter's."

"I don't know what you are saying," I said, "but I do believe the minister told a story."

"Why, the idea!" said the mother. "You don't know what you are saying."

"But I do, mamma. I heard papa ask him how long he had worn chin whiskers, and he said he had worn them all his life."

STARTING ON HILLS

A simple method of starting from a standstill on a hill is to release the clutch, place the gear in first speed and, holding the car with the hand brake, engage the clutch while the engine is accelerated with the foot throttle, gradually releasing the hand brake. If there are two or more passengers, one can get out and place a large stone back of the rear wheel, which will hold the vehicle and the car can then be started as easily as when it is taken from the garage.

Comfort and Ease at Camp

Typical scene of camp life in the Young Men's quarters. There is no roughing it here. This is the place of rest and repose when they have completed their daily work.

Cleanliness and Tidiness Is Motto

Competitions for the most attractive and neatest camp gives interest among the boys in the keeping of their tents in tidy and clean condition.

All Set for the Canoe Trip

One of the popular pastimes at the Y. M. C. A. at the Gorge is canoeing and here is the new spacious landing erected for their use.

YOUNG MEN'S DIVISION OPENS CAMP SITE

Y. M. C. A. Camp at Gorge Is Officially Opened With Social Function

A large attendance added greatly to the success of the annual opening of the sixth camp of the young men's division of the Y. M. C. A. at the Gorge last night. The boys who have been in camp for the past three weeks repairing the fixtures and improving on the present structures invited their friends to attend the official opening and gave one of the best social functions in connection with camp opening that they have ever given since the establishment of the splendid camp site six years ago.

At present there are twenty boys residing at this camp, but at the commencement of the vacation season the number increases, and in the evening presents that they have ever given since the establishment of the splendid camp site six years ago.

Opening Proceedings.

The young men commenced their social function at 8 o'clock with a trip down the Gorge in the canoes with which the camp is well equipped. An enjoyable time was had viewing the beauty spots along the Gorge. On their return a huge fire awaited their arrival. The flames mounted to a great height and the happy throng were well entertained around this prodigious bonfire. Refreshments were served and community singing was indulged in. The Y. M. C. A. song sheet was used for the benefit of those not acquainted with the popular songs used at the Y. M. C. A. Following this variety of entertainment the boys produced some amusing sketches which were of the popular sort and won much applause from the spectators.

The spacious dining room which possesses an annex was cleared and dancing was indulged in for the remainder of the evening. The dining room is a large structure with a splendid floor while a piano which is also included as part of the camp equipment was used to provide music on this occasion.

Plenty of Tents.

There are some nine or ten tents to accommodate the present campers but when the number increases new tents will be set up to meet the demand. A cooking tent is also included in the camp facilities while an excellent landing float on the water has been built with a splendid diving board attached to it for those who indulge in aquatic events. Competitions are rife during the Summer months. The competitions include the forms of jumping, both of broad and high variety, while canoe races are also popular items on the programme. Canoe tilting would come under this category. Baseball games are also in vogue during the Summer season which cover the two months of July and August, closing on the first day of September.

The canoes are privately owned, but the boys are generous hearted and are ever willing to loan them out to those campers who are less fortunate.

A small fee is charged the campers each week for the upkeep of the camp. Breakfast is served each morning and meals all day Sunday. The boys are expected to go home for their dinner and supper except on

SCHOOL VACATION OFFERS NUMEROUS HOLIDAY CHANCES

Cadet Camp Will Be Conducted Again This Year

June 30 is the date set for the closing of all public schools in this city, and with the closing of the school goes the completion of the examinations. At this time the boys' and girls' attention is turned to the best way they can make advantage of their vacation which is of two months' duration.

For the past three or four years camping has been in vogue. In the comment, that one hears when listening to the numerous groups talking of their coming vacation, leads one to believe that this year more children will be under canvas than on any previous occasion in this city.

The girls will be left on their own resources to find some way of occupying their time. But here is a suggestion which might be of assistance to them in deciding. For those who wish to turn their vacation to the best of advantage financially, berry picking could be considered as one of the best pastimes in which money may be earned while at the same time they may have the pleasure of camp life, for girls who want to camp in the picking areas are more desired than those who travel in and out of the city.

As usual beach picnics and "hikes" will be just as popular as ever while those boys who are not undertaking the training camp conducted at Macaulay Point will find ample suggestion in bicycle trips and "hikes" to various points of the island. A list is submitted as suitable camping grounds for those who intend to go camping: Cadboro Bay, Cordova Bay, Foul Bay, Willows and Elk Lake.

Boys who belong to the Y. M. C. A. will have no burden of worry as to camping, for this organization has established an excellent camp at Beaver Lake, which should be of great attraction to the young people.

THE OLDEST SERVICE TO MOTORISTS

PERFORMANCE IS AUTO'S REAL TEST

Maxwell Official Speaks of Accomplishments

When we attempt to extol the virtues of a great man," said Arthur B. Barker, vice-president of the Maxwell Motors Corporation, "we do not include in our statements a description of that great man's teeth, no matter how perfect his teeth may be. Neither do we discuss the keenness of his vision, nor the style of his collar."

"Instead, we tell of his accomplishments, of his record for square dealing and faithful service."

"It is only the mediocre which requires the stressing of a particular virtue. When some people can't think of anything else to say about a man, they say 'he is good-hearted' or 'he certainly is kind to his mother,' or some other vain attempt to alibi him for obvious shortcomings."

"Likewise with an automobile—I instinctively grow suspicious when I hear a salesman unduly emphasize some individual mechanical feature."

"What I am most interested in are the policies of the manufacturer of the car, his reputation for doing what he says he will do, his record of achievement in developing and perfecting improvements in the manufactured product, his financial standing which must assure permanency and stability, and the impartial opinion about the car among its everyday users and owners."

"In short, when I am convinced that the manufacturer merits my complete confidence, then I am sold on his product. I care comparatively little for the details of the car because I know that manufacturer will not deceive us."

The Western Motor Company, View Street, are the local Maxwell distributors.

Parts of the registration numbers on cars are sometimes hidden by extra tires, bumpers, tall lights, or other equipment. This is contrary to the motor vehicle law. Mud and dust at times render these registration numbers indistinct. The Provincial Act requires that the numbers shall be displayed conspicuously at all times.

Squeaky springs should be soaked in gasoline before applying oil between the leaves.

Caring for a car is more than a mere matter of keeping it filled with gas, oil and water.

How Many Miles per Dollar Do Your Tires Give You?

If the miles per dollar on cheap tires were computed against the miles per dollar on good tires, good tires would show the least cost. Here's an actual instance: Two friends had summer cottages at the same lakeside resort, some hundred and fifty miles away. They used to motor up week ends. On one occasion, "A" put a cheap, new tire on his Overland Touring and a cheap new spare. At the end of 50 miles the new tire blew out, and at the end of 80 miles the second new tire blew out. He had no repair kit or blow-out patches and, it was so far to the nearest garage, he had to stay all night at a farm house. "B," who travelled the same roads, had two "Gutta Percha" Tires on his Dodge car, which lasted two seasons, without even minor mishaps. One blew out at 10,000 miles and the other is still going and looks good, with a record of over 12,000 miles. Which Tire Cost the Most? The Cheap Price Tire, of course. Which Tire would you buy? "Gutta Percha," of course.

"Gutta Percha" Tires do not demand a higher price than other standard tires, so why not have the best when the cost no more?

THE SWITCHMAN'S FIRST CONTACT WITH ROYALTY

And the Reason Why Dan Weaver of Havelock Ran Away and Hid Himself.

EVERYBODY in the world does not know Dan Weaver, C. P. R. switchman at Havelock. But everybody in that important link-pin in the big railway system, when they read this, will know where to point their finger, despite the substitution for the railway hand's true name. Because for a long time Dan was partial to telling the yarn himself.

No governor-general ever held the Woodbine races in greater esteem than the Duke of Connaught. Alike and equally, no C. P. R. switchman confessed to deeper regard for the soldier-duck representing royalty in Canada, than the here-in-before mentioned Dan.

That was why Dan had made his mind up, at first opportunity, to be on hand when the royal race train passed through to Toronto, and to do his best to catch a glimpse of King Edward's famous brother.

Arrived train, arrived Dan, on time to a dot! Along the long platform he sallied, just at the first peep of day. Swinging his lantern, along the side of the coaches he went, halting in front of the sleeper he guessed would be occupied by the duke. Drat the luck, every curtain was drawn tight as the lid of a sardine box!

Train crews change at Havelock; there was work for Dan to get busy at, but, trustful in the good nature of the pal he had left in his place at the switch, still he lingered in the hope that a curtain might pry itself loose, or that through a vestibule window he might catch a view of the face he knew only from his newspaper.

Then the thought suddenly struck Dan that perhaps this was not the coach after all. A couple of folks from the train had alighted from a coach lower down, so Dan interrogated the one who had sauntered down towards him. He did not look ill-natured, despite the hour. In light grey he was clad, a white stiff that was set jauntily, slightly to one side, on his closely barbed head, and a walking stick twirled briskly in the hand the traveler swung. All this the disappointed Dan had taken in out of the slant of one eye, and doing a right-about he accosted the stranger with—"I suppose it's too darned early for his nibs to be up?"

Down, down into his cow-hides plunked Dan Weaver's heart in a second. He had put his foot in it sure. Looking at close range into the stranger's face he was mentally calling a muster roll of all the M.P.'s, and supreme court judges, and C. P. R. magnates that he'd ever seen. This traveler who got up whilst the early birds still were in pyjamas was one of them—sure as a goat. He knew it, Dan knew that face as well as the one he looked at whenever he shaved, but he just couldn't place it. It meant death to his railroad. To have effrontery enough to speak to one of those high-starched-up guys meant that he knew one switch-tender who could "book rest" for keeps.

It was the stranger's pleasantly pitched voice which brought Dan back to himself, snatched him from this maelstrom of fear and doubt. "Now, who do you mean by his nibs?" inquired the man in the white christie.

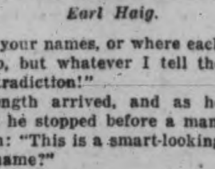

"Why, the Dook! This is the Dook's train. But the blinds are down. Guess I'm too speedy—thinking his nibs' kick out o' the hay at this early hour."

The ranger of the platform did not leave Dan long in doubt, for, with a crack with his stick at a pebble which showed in the ruby light of the switchman's lantern, he said—"Well, I guess I'm his nibs"—and did a half right turn towards Dan, with a gloved royal hand already extended.

But there was no Dan to grasp it. At the Duke of Connaught's words—as Dan is fond of relating—"I was off down that platform like a single cat. No siree—not towards my work—I just beat it for fair, any old way to make myself scarce—didn't think a god-darn blink about work for half-an-hour—'n' you bet your boots my pal tuk some queer ol' squarins!"—C. M. C.

CAPTAIN A POOR PICKER WHEN GENERAL INSPECTS

FIELD-MARSHAL EARL HAIG tells the story of a regiment that was about to be inspected by a certain general.

The latter was very particular that the officers commanding companies should know the names of the men in their units, and also where they came from. When the regiment was drawn up on parade, and before the arrival of the inspecting officer, the captain of one company addressed his men as follows: "Now, men, as you know, I am away a good deal, and I do not know all your names, or where each one of you belongs to, but whatever I tell the general, mind, no contradiction!"

The general at length arrived, and as he passed down the lines he stopped before a man, and said to the captain: "This is a smart-looking fellow. What is his name?" "Jones, sir." "Where does he come from?" "Devon, sir."

Mainly About People

"Dick" Burde Dared to be a Daniel

By P. W. LUCE. MAJOR RICHARD J. BURDE, M.C., member for Port Alberni in the British Columbia legislature, is one of the best-known newspaper men in western Canada, and also one of the best. Except on formal occasions, he is always addressed as "Dick" in Winnipeg, Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria, Dawson, and other cities where he has worked and added to the galaxy of nations.

"Dick" Burde's first newspaper experience was gained in Winnipeg, where he was a newsboy, and when the circus publicity agent announced that the "fiercest lion" would ride in the parade in an auto, he made a big hit.

Then followed an invitation to the "bravest man in Winnipeg, whoever he may be" to ride in the automobile with Leo—after a legal document had been signed absolving the circus of all responsibility for loss of life or limb.

"Dick" Burde promptly accepted, declaring that he looked on this as a personal invitation.

"Don't you suppose I'm going to let any old-timer like Daniel get the best of me!" he told his friends, before starting on the parade in which in company with his brother, Frank Burde, now business manager of the Vancouver Province.

Why Richard should spell the family name "Burde," and Frank stick out for "Burd," has never been satisfactorily explained, but each insists he is correct, and is even a little touchy on the subject!

In the early nineties, when Dick was a reporter on the Winnipeg Free Press, he pulled off many spectacular stunts. One of the best happened when a circus came to town, with "the wildest man-eating lion in captivity." At that time, the automobile was still a novelty in Manitoba, and when the circus publicity agent announced that the "fiercest lion" would ride in the parade in an auto, he made a big hit.

The "fierce man-eating lion" behaved exceedingly well and the parade ended without tragedy. "The poor brute was so ancient I could have torn it to pieces with my teeth," explained the future member of parliament, "I was a darn sight more afraid of the automobile blowing up or something than of the lion starting a fight he couldn't finish. Why, the many old fraud was so moth-eaten I had to sit as far away as possible to keep my best suit from being ruined by moths!"

Big English "Ad" Man

SIR CHARLES HIGHAM, M.P., the first advertising man to be elected to the House of Commons, and the first ever knighted, is now visiting the United States as an emissary of Lord Northcliffe to invite the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World to hold their 1924 convention in London.

Trotsky Takes a Course And is Now a "Brass Hat"

How He Found Time to Attend Staff College a Mystery.

WHILE Nikolai Lenine, premier of Russia, has, according to reports, completely collapsed both mentally and physically, his side-partner, Leon Trotsky, the Bolshevik war minister, appears to be more active than ever. Word has just come to hand from Moscow that the man who has been called the "Napoleon of Bolshevism," desirous of perfecting himself in military technique, has just completed a course in the staff college of the Red army. The examinations were given to him by aristocrat officers of the old Russian army, and this former dweller in garrets and inhabitant of New York's East Side has passed the standards and is now qualified as an officer.

How Trotsky, who is one of the busiest men in Russia, found time to do this has been a surprise to his more easy-going associates in the Soviet government. He works from early morning until the evening, but takes time for regular exercise, the study of languages and voice culture. He has developed the vocal abilities of a field marshal, and when called upon to address thousands of troops in the open air his strident tones are heard by the rear ranks.

Trotsky has developed great executive ability and he never concerns himself with petty details. He exacts from his subordinates the most meticulous precision. He keeps appointments promptly, thereby differing from other Soviet officials, and he confines his business dealings to reasonable daytime or early evening hours. Sometimes he sets appointments for, say, 4.27 p.m., to last three minutes, and insists that this does not mean 4.25 or 4.30.

"ALWAYS, SIR, ALWAYS"—HISTORIC ANSWER TO KING

THE King's recent tour through Belgium and Northern France each day provided its unforgettable picture. One morning the King stood on the high plateau of Notre Dame de Lorette, just north of the Vimy ridge, with Marshal Foch and Field-Marshal Haig listening to the two famous soldiers as with outstretched canes they described from the finest vantage point in the whole allied line some of the heaviest fighting of the war.

Their conversation was followed by an incident which, in view of the international situation, might be regarded as of the highest political importance apart from its sentimental value. When Earl Haig and Marshal Foch were saying "Good-bye" with a long and hearty handshake, the King stretched out his hand, and resting it for a moment on the clasped hands of the two marshals, said with a smile: "Always good friends. Is it not so?"

Marshal Foch, without releasing his hold of Earl Haig's hand, speaking French, made reply: "Always, sir, always. For the same cause and for the same motives."

he was the chief attraction.

The "fierce man-eating lion" behaved exceedingly well and the parade ended without tragedy.

The poor brute was so ancient I could have torn it to pieces with my teeth," explained the future member of parliament, "I was a darn sight more afraid of the automobile blowing up or something than of the lion starting a fight he couldn't finish. Their Horse Dead and No Money to Buy Another Old Couple Sadly Put Buggy Away in the Barn

When Late Sir John Eaton Happens to Drive Past in His Automobile—An Incident of Kindness.

INCIDENTS are constantly coming to light since the death of Sir John Eaton which throw into bold relief the outstanding traits in his character. Perhaps nothing can explain the hold he had on the hearts of the people better than the narration of the following incident, now told for the first time.

It was a beautiful early spring day, some years ago, and Sir John decided he would like to make a trip by motor to a point some distance from Toronto. The roads were in very bad condition, and he enquired from his chauffeur as to whether he thought a car could get through. He said he thought so, and they went to the garage to select the one most suited for the journey.

When some distance out of the city Sir John noticed an old lady and an old gentleman making an unsuccessful effort to pull a buggy into a barn. He nudged the chauffeur to stop the car and said: "We will get out and give them a hand. After putting the vehicle away, Sir John asked why they did not have the horse pulled in, instead of straining at it themselves. The old man advised him that the horse had died two weeks previously, and that they were getting old and could not tell how soon they would follow it, and as they could not afford another horse they were putting the buggy away.

Sir John expressed his sympathy at the loss of the animal, took some bills from his pocket, counted off five twenties and asked if they could get a horse for a hundred dollars. They stood wide-eyed—too full for the moment to express their thanks—then the old man thanked him and said it did not seem right to accept the money.

Sir John added another twenty dollars—put a friendly hand on his shoulder and told him not to worry about that, but to get another horse; and after telling them he hoped they would be spared for many years to enjoy it, said goodbye.

The old folks were speechless with gratitude, but their tear-dimmed eyes shone with appreciation as their benefactor disappeared in the distance. And probably they never learned that their good friend was Sir John Eaton.

FIRST "TAIL-ENDER" NOW PRESIDENT OF THE BANK

MELEG HOWLAND, president of the Imperial Bank of Canada, is normally one of Toronto's most modest citizens. But there is one event in his life over which he expands his chest and tosses his head in pride. And it isn't over the fact that he was four or five years ago elected head of the institution. It is because when the bank was started forty-seven years ago he was its first "tail-ender" on the office staff—or, to express it in proper banking parlance, its first junior clerk—while his father sat at the head of the bank's first president.

But Mr. Howland's experience as a working banker was but of one year's duration, he having at the end of that period resigned to enter the wholesale hardware trade. Nearly a generation elapsed before he again became officially connected with the bank, the occasion being his election as a director. In 1914 he became vice-president, and two or three years later, on the death of D. R. Wilkie, president.

A Hobo Magnate

JAMES EADS HOWE, president of the Hobo's Association, recently called on President Harding to invite him to be present at the association's convention to be held in Buffalo during the first week of July. Howe, who is called "the millionaire hobo," inherited considerable wealth, which he has devoted to the hobo cause, endowing hostels in several cities. He has lived the life himself for many years.

Motherwell to Market, A Minister's Busy Day

A Westerner's Way of Running an Ottawa Department.

UNNOTICED by the regular attendants at the Ottawa market a Saturday or so ago, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, strolled up and down amongst the stalls, the carts, and the automobiles, examining all with keen interest, discussing prices and taking stock generally.

Equally unnoticed browsed a reporter from a local daily who espied the minister and who immediately made a mental note of the unusual visitor to the market. The minister hobbled with the different housewives and joined with them in discussing the price of a chicken or duck. With the practiced eye of a connoisseur he scrutinized the purchase of butter, eggs, cream, vegetable, fruits, etc. He no doubt gained valuable practical knowledge thereby.

It was learned later that the minister had earlier that day paid a visit to the experimental farm. He left the market to attend a cabinet meeting, and later in the day attended an entirely different function, the garden party at government house. Truly a varied career for the day.

TRICKS OF THE TRADE

H. G. WELLS, whose new novel, "The Secret Places of the Heart," has caused something of a sensation, is telling a story of an incident that happened at a public dinner.

Mr. Wells was telling his neighbor what he would do to improve the world. The latter listened with attention and approval, but added: "I think that it is absolutely necessary for health that all water used for drinking and cooking should be boiled." "You are a doctor, I suppose?" said the novelist.

"No, sir," was the reply. "I am in the coal business."

Youngest Diplomat in London. SIR ABDUL HADI KHAN, the first minister of Afghanistan to Great Britain, is just thirty years old. He has evidently got wisdom hidden between his whiskers and his Persian lamb bonnet.

CINCINNATUS CALLED TO SIT FOR BROCKVILLE

Dr. Donald McAlpine, Local Member, Finds a Reward for Honesty and Virtue.

ALTHOUGH his voice is not often heard in debate, Dr. Donald McAlpine, the Liberal member for Brockville in the legislature, is one of the most popular men about Queen's Park, as large-hearted as are his physical proportions and the possessor of a personality which has won him many friends.

Prior to the last elections, Dr. McAlpine was a man little known beyond the district in which he resides. Content to pursue the peaceful occupation of a rural veterinary surgeon, he was untroubled by the cares of public life and possessed, apparently, neither aspiration nor inclination for such a career. A quiet yet genial, rotund person of sturdy Scottish stock, well read yet desirous of anything rather than the limelight, it was only after a great deal of argument that he was persuaded to accept nomination. It is doubtful if he had ever delivered a public address, much less had he ever taken an active part in politics or gone before the people as a candidate. Moreover, in view of the political history of the riding during the preceding decade, it was the belief of not a few of the doctor's friends that he was becoming merely a Liberal sacrifice on the political altar.

Dr. McAlpine's opponent was an old hand at the game, a shrewd politician and a polished speaker, who outwardly appeared to retain the confidence of his constituents. While his adversary made striking appeals from the platform, the doctor could muster sufficient courage to utter in reply merely a few commonplace, scarcely audible by reason of his stage fright—and his electioneering was confined almost entirely to canvassing.

The result astounded even Dr. McAlpine's most sanguine supporter. His personal popularity, the loyal support of his organization and dissatisfaction with the powers-that-were had deemed Brockville to Liberalism, and by the largest majority in the history of the riding.

When some of the doctor's friends sought him on the night of the election in order that he might be acclaimed with all the enthusiasm of which a torchlight gathering was capable, the triumphant candidate was found, not at his committee rooms anxiously scrutinizing the returns nor nervously pacing the floor of his office awaiting the best or the worst, but in his garage, under his beloved little automobile, in his oldest suit of clothes, preparing to minister to a sick cow on the morrow!

HOMUTH'S HORSE WAS INTELLIGENT ANIMAL

He Knew a Good Thing When He Saw It.

THE monotony of debate at the legislature in Queen's Park, Toronto, is often broken by the telling of an amusing yarn. Such an incident occurred recently when the subject under discussion was the curtailment of the erection of unsightly bill-boards along the new provincial highways.

Karl Homuth, M.P.P., the popular "booster" for South Waterloo and the youngest member in the House, said he agreed with what the previous speaker had said on the subject but he thought that sign-boards, with restrictions as to their locality, had a place in the advertising economy of the country.

He remembered passing a certain field where a neat sign-board had been put up and an old, lame horse had stopped his nibbling of the grass and was evidently intently reading the advertisement. The poster was advertising a wonderful spavin cure for horses.

INCLUDING WHITES IN CHATHAM'S ROSTER

As Colored Porter Did to Make 12,000 Population.

By VICTOR LAURISTON

R. E. GOSNELL, at one time editor of the Victoria (B.C.) Colonist, later provincial archivist of British Columbia, and now a resident of Ottawa, began his journalistic career as editor of the Chatham (Ont.) Planet. That was a good many years ago—at a time, indeed, when Chatham was widely known as the home of a considerable colored population, descendants for the most part of escaped slaves.

In recent years the trend of the younger generation of colored folks to Detroit and other big cities has materially reduced that element, but in Gosnell's day outsiders used to facetiously question whether Chatham was black or white.

On a transcontinental pullman a few years ago Gosnell and a companion got chaffing a colored porter, and happened to let drop that Gosnell once lived in Chatham. The friendly porter thereupon brought in another porter who hailed originally from Chatham, and Gosnell asked after some friends he had known there in his early newspaper days.

"By the way," interjected Gosnell's companion, "how big a place is this Chatham?" "Bout twelve thousand, sah," said the porter. "Twelve thousand?" ejaculated the other. "Yes, sah," repeated the porter from Chatham. "Twelve thousand—that is, including whites."

What Could Be Fairer? WHEN the agent brought Mrs. Tarley her fire policy he remarked that it would be as well for her to make her first payment at once. "How much will it be?" she asked. "About a hundred dollars. Wait a minute and I'll find the exact amount." "Oh, how threesome!" she exclaimed. "Tell the company to let it stand, and deduct it from what they will owe me when the house burns down."—Pearson's Weekly.

"OWN A HOME"

CAMPAIGN MAY BE LAUNCHED

K. V. Haymaker, Housing Expert, Arouses Enthusiasm

The wonderful extent to which the home building and loan movement has spread in the United States; the great influence it has brought to bear upon good citizenship, and the stabilizing of the permanent home settlement idea; its effect in bettering the position of the citizens of the country generally and other important factors in the home building industry were interestingly outlined last night by K. V. Haymaker, of Detroit, adviser to the United States Housing Branch, and head of one of the largest home building and loan societies in the United States. Mr. Haymaker addressed a very enthusiastic audience at the Empress Hotel ballroom under the auspices of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. James H. Beatty, president of the Chamber, presided, and Alfred Carmichael, of the Victoria Real Estate Board, introduced the speaker.

At the termination of the address a resolution was adopted asking the President of the Chamber of Commerce to name a committee representing the various organizations, interests and trades to investigate and report on the advisability of organizing a Building and Loan Association in Victoria. Mr. Haymaker was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for his able and interesting address.

Not New Idea

"This type of home building financing institution is not a new one. The idea was worked out by the thrifty Scotch people. It spread to England and was first inaugurated in America in 1831 by the English weavers brought out to work in the mills at Philadelphia, who, becoming dissatisfied with conditions of living, decided to work out the scheme they had seen adopted in the Old Country," Mr. Haymaker explained.

The idea was that one hundred of them made an agreement together that they should save so much a month, he said, and when sufficient was gathered to build a home they would build the next home. A deed was given the new owner, who in turn gave a mortgage to the association. In eight or ten years these people had risen from comparative poverty to a position where each man owned his own home. This example inspired others, but by 1875 every state in the Union had associations, and the movement had grown to such magnitude that State supervision of the organizations was introduced. "Today the movement is one of the most powerful in financial strength and influence in the country," he pointed out.

Method of Organization

Mr. Haymaker explained the development of the movement, beginning with the original terminating associations, then the serial type and, finally, the development of the permanent associations, which are really a parent body to cover the terminating features of the serial transactions.

"There are more building and loan associations in the United States than there are banks, and so strong have they become that it has been necessary to ask for legislation permitting the societies to operate banks to facilitate business and keep in motion the huge assets which have accumulated in the hands of the societies," Mr. Haymaker explained.

In answer to a question, the speaker explained that in the United States in the last twenty-five years there had been less failure of building and loan societies than there had been of banks. The organizations have become so powerful that farmers look upon them as their savings banks and in many places the greatest assets the societies hold are mortgages on productive farms throughout the country.

"The great advantage of the movement is that loans may be paid off in easy instalments made to suit the conditions of the average salaried man and the payments are made part of the regular monthly expense," Mr. Haymaker proceeded.

"To-day there is a great scarcity of homes in the United States. In Detroit I have personal knowledge of flats designed to accommodate one family that are holding two or three. Whole fleets of lake boats have been assembled in the Fall at Detroit and anchored at the docks to be used as winter hotels for those who had no homes." In New York they open the churches and use them for sleeping accommodation. In the Summer a lot of these people live in tents.

"The United States spent $200,000,000 building fifty-seven different housing projects for the shipyard workers. England set one example when it set aside funds to build homes for industrial workers, but with all due respect I would say that the scheme is not to be approved.

"It is wrong politically, economically and socially. Able bodied men should support the government and not the Government the able bodied men," declared Mr. Haymaker amid applause.

The speaker said that the temporary housing scheme was a failure.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON

"In 1919, I was taken with bronchial asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the Winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the Spring of 1920, I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a few days the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about 'Fruit-a-tives' for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as Winter came on, but it has not, thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives'.

MRS. J. M. PENNINGTON, 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

any war measures had proved a costly proposition for the government. "The best help any government can give is to help a man to help himself. The building and loan associations do that very thing," he continued.

Permanent Cities

"Claiming that a home-owning city was a permanent city, Mr. Haymaker cited Los Angeles as an instance where, out of every one hundred families sixty-five were living in rented places. "When a temporary depression comes this class of people packs up its grip and moves to some other place where things are looking a little more prosperous.

"When a roof covering a family is their own and every member is interested in its preservation and beautifying, then the word 'home' becomes one of the sweetest words of human speech.

"The speaker went on to explain that it was rarely the case that a man wishing to build a home had the entire amount of money available, and therefore in periods of extended building operations funds must be available to be drawn upon. The sources available included private funds, bank and trust funds, insurance companies and building and loan associations. "The first three are practically cut off to-day in the United States as far as getting loans on mortgages is concerned. The high income tax and surtaxes are so burdensome that mortgage investments are no longer profitable, said the speaker.

Mr. Hett Green had invested practically $20,000,000 in first mortgages. When she died and her son, Colonel Green, took charge of affairs he found the estate was getting less than half of one per cent, on the securities. He sold out and re-invested in other securities more profitable.

"Mortgage investments are no longer profitable so far as the banks are concerned, it is a class of business that is not considered safe," said the speaker.

Mr. Haymaker said the United States was proud of its Federal Reserve Bank system, which was established over the heads of the banks, and therefore the best remedy financing and made it much easier and safer to carry on business. The country was divided into twelve districts, an exchange system of securities—but only short term commercial paper and no mortgages—had been worked out, and at any time there was too heavy a strain on the banks in any one section relief was immediately forthcoming through the reserve banks.

Effect of Epidemic

"Life insurance companies are not loaning money on mortgages to the extent they did," he continued. "Some of them have grown to tremendous proportions, but they must hold in reserve large sums for contingencies. The actuaries are the soothsayers of the insurance companies, and they claim they can tell just exactly what the losses will be. The operators of the epidemic upset all their estimates, caught the insurance companies badly and forced them to reduce their mortgage securities wholesale.

"It comes down to it then that the building and loan associations are the safe and logical sources of providing funds for the home building. The chaos following the war resulted in the United States Labor Department calling into consultation the building and loan associations to help solve the situation. Building calls into employment more branches of labor than anything else. The operators of the building and loan societies have become so important that it has become necessary to ask Congress to permit the societies to include banking in their activities.

"Philadelphia's Case. "All branches of a community are interested in the promotion of home building and in the United States to-day there is a big movement for the promotion of home owning under way." Mr. Haymaker proceeded: "There are now 1,800 building and loan organizations in Philadelphia where the movement began in the United States, and that is why," claimed Mr. Haymaker. "that Philadelphia is noted as a city of permanent citizens."

The expense of operating building and loan societies is about seven-tenths of one per cent.

In introducing the resolution, Alfred Carmichael said that home owning promoted good citizenship, it was a safe and profitable investment and possessed numerous other good points.

J. O. Cameron and George Bell moved and seconded the resolution, Mr. Bell remarking that housing, unemployment and high taxation were three things confronting Canadians, which could be overcome by a scheme for promoting home building. The resolution read:

The Resolution. "Whereas home-ownership develops initiative, responsibility, better living conditions, increased proficiency and the highest class of citizenship.

"And whereas, the shortage of capital for financing home-ownership on long terms of re-payment is one of the greatest obstacles to said home-ownership.

"And whereas, all classes of the community are benefitted through an increase of home construction.

"Therefore be it resolved, that the President of the Chamber of Commerce appoint a committee from this meeting, which committee shall have power to add to its members, representatives of other public and semi-public bodies and other organizations to investigate and report on the advisability of organizing a Building and Loan Association in the City of Victoria."

WARD VII. RATEPAYERS OF SAANICH NAME THREE DELEGATES

The Ward Seven, Saanich, Ratepayers' Association last evening, at a small meeting appointed J. M. Kellie, F. Simpson and R. E. Collis, with Messrs. E. Orr and W. M. Taylor, as proxies, if needed to attend the Greater Victoria Committee, and secure information on the extension proposal.

R. E. Collis opposed the plan and J. M. Kellie supported it, believing that duplication of services might be eliminated.

The meeting decided to ask the Saanich Council if a new sewer by-law should be drawn up for presentation to the electorate.

Ex-Councillor Francis Simpson gave notice that he would bring up a resolution objecting to any but Saanich residents holding municipal office, or posts in ratepayers' organizations.

President J. M. Fullbrook presided.

HOW TO BEST TREAT STOMACH TROUBLE

A Tonic Medicine Is Needed to Strengthen the Stomach. The old-fashioned methods of treating stomach diseases are being discarded. The trouble with the old-fashioned methods was that when the treatment was stopped the symptoms returned, often in an aggravated form. The modern method of treating indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble is to tone up the stomach and glands to their normal work. The recovery of the appetite, the disappearance of pain after eating, the absence of gas, are steps on the road to health that those who have tried the tonic treatment remember distinctly. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a tonic which through their action on the blood are helpful in building up the digestive organs, and therefore the best remedy for simple or chronic cases of stomach trouble. The success of the treatment is shown by cases like that of Mrs. Joseph Leech, of Wellington, P. E. I., who says: "I have been a great sufferer from indigestion and stomach trouble, and nothing that I took for it did me any good until I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was so bad that I did not want to eat, and when I did take food it lay like a weight on my stomach, often causing me much pain and misery. I saw in an advertisement what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done in a similar case and began taking them, with the result that after taking the pills for five or six weeks, I am feeling better than I have done for years. I hope my experience will help other similar sufferers."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOMINION

Ordinarily Helen would have shunned a lie; but in this instance force of circumstances compelled her to play the part; and the kind fate which had plunged her into the falsehood furnished the happy ending in which a conspicuous figure was Bobby Bates.

The nature of Helen's lie and the consequences of it form the story of "The Beautiful Liar," an Associated First National attraction starring Katherine MacDonald, which is being shown for the last time to-day at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

the first time in her life she knew what love was. But she was merely a stenographer—and he was a millionaire. However, no matter how hard she tried to forget him, she was unable to keep him out of her thoughts. She had no illusions about social values, and therefore spent no time weaving thought pictures of walking up to the altar with him.

Then, out of a clear sky, came a chance to be a liar—a beautiful liar.

The Beautiful Liar

Katherine MacDonald fans can't help but love this picture. "The Beautiful Liar" will give them the opportunity to see her play two entirely different roles in the same picture—a dizzy, dashing flapper star and a poor, little, prim stenographer. There is no villain to muss things up. This is a delightful comedy-drama chock full of good romance and high-class comedy. This is the honest truth about "The Beautiful Liar."
