PREFACE.

HE great usefulness of History needs not many words to prove it, seeing natural inclination it self is so much for it, and reason and experience tell men, that they cannot spare it, as to Natural, Civil, or Religious use. God kinsself hath highly commended it to us, by writing the Sacred Scriptures so much Historically; yea and making some of it part of the necessary Articles of our Creed. Children that yet understand not the Dostrinal part of the Bible, do quickly take delight in the Historical part; which prepareth them for the rest. Ignorant and ungodly persons that have no true sense of Sacred Dostrine, can yet understand and with lesse aversizes and weariness read the history. Melancholy and sad persons who can hardly bear long Dostrinal studies, are often eased and recreated with useful History.

Man is a part of the Universe, and every man is a part of the world of mankind, and therefore thinketh the case of the whole to be much of his concerne. And were not narrow selfishnes much of our Pravity, we should take the universal and publick good, and Gods Love to it and Pleasedness and Glory in it, to be much more our end, and the object of our desire and delight, than any personal felicity of our own ; It is a Menster of inhumanity in the Doctrine of the Sadducces, Spinola, Hobbes, and their bruitiff followers, that they fet up Individual self interest as a mans chiefest end and object of rational Love and desire; and own no Good, but that which Relatively is Good to me, that is, either my personal life and pleasure as theend, or other things as a means thereto: Though Grace only savingly cure this base inhumane maladie, jet common reason beareth witness against it, and only sense, and reason captivated by sense do patronize it. Put not the question to a reasonable man, though wicked, what he can do or doth: But what in reason he should do, and he cannot deny but that he should think of a more excellent person at the Indies, that never will do anything for him, as more assiable than himself, much more many thousands such; And as Goodness and Amiableness are all one, so that which is best, should be loved best: And he that would not die to save his Country is worse than sober. Heathens were. And he that would not rather be annihilated than all or halfe the world should be annihilated, is so basely selfish, that I should sconer believe that analogical Reason ruleth some truites, than that true Reason determinesh this mans choice.

Spinosa taketh the Knowledge of our Union with Universal nature (which he calleth Ged) to be mans perfection and his chief good, in comparison of which sensual Pleasure, Riches and Honour are but troubles surther then they are a meanes hereto: And if he had better known God, as the Creator and Governour and end of the material Universe which he took to be God, and had joyned [holy Uniteing Joysul Love to the Universe, and specially to the Heavenly Society, thick above them all to God himself unto this Knowledge, and extended it to the perpetuity of an Immortal state, he had been happily in the right, which missing, he became a permicious seducer of himself and others.

But thus nature and Grace do loudly tellus, that each part should be greatly concerned for the whole, and therefore every one should desire to know as much of the whole, as he is capable, and as tendeth to his duty and delight. And how small a parcel of Time, or Men, or Actions are present or in our daies? How little knoweth he that knoweth no more than he bath lived to see? What Religion can ke have who knoweth not the History of Creation, Redemption or the giving of the Holy Ghost, or the planting and propagating the Church, and also what will be when this life is ended?

But it is not all History that is needful or useful to us: There are many things done which we are not concerned to be acquainted with. But the History of the Church, of the propagation of the Christian faith, and what the Doctrine was that was then received, and how it was practifed, promoted and defended, and how it was corrupted invaded and persecuted, is of so great use to posterity, that next to the Scripture and the illumination of Gods Spirit, I remember nothing more needful to be known.

to win the people, they found it necessary to use large affectionate extemporate prayers and expositions and Sermons, so the next thing found recessary was, to bestow constantly one exercise in opening Church-History to the people. And this did both entice their attentions by delight, and also by fitting reports more to the Papal interest than to the truth, did greatly bewitch them into a confident beliefe, that the Papal fett was all the true Church, and 'all other Christians were but sectaries and branches broken off and withered, and therefore to be burned here and hereafter (abusing Joh. 15.5. 60.).

And I have of thought that the right use of such an Historical ex-170 ercife, in an ordinary congregation would be of great use to the igno-500 rant unlgar and unloarned zealons fort of Christians: For I find that for want of the knowledge of Church-History, and how things have gone before us in all former times, many errours and fins are kept up 1 that else would more easily be for saken To instance in some few.

T. A I L. As it was the craft of Baronius (who performed that exercise in Nerius bis Conventicles at Rome, to write afterward his Church-History in Latin to voluminously, that few but the Clercie by affed by interest non! d read it, and so the Clergy might be the credited reporters of all to the vulgar; fo to this day, the Papist-Priests contrive to be the Masters and reporters of Church-History as well as of unwritten Tradition, and to keep the Laity fo fur ignorant of it, that, when they tell blood men confident frories for their advantage; few or none way be able to contradict them, and so their report must passe as underyed truth. And thus, false History is made the chief foundation of the Roman Kingdowr.

This they will face you down that you are ignorant or impudent, I. If you question whether Peter was a true Bishop at Rome, ()ca er ever there, which Nilus hath shewed to be somewhat uncertain) 2. Or that he settled the Roman Bishop as his successour in a supremucy over all the Christian world, 2. Or that the Popes Primacie was over all the Churches on earth, which indeed was but (as Canterburie is in England,) in one Roman Empire only. 4. They will persuade you and bat this Primacie was setted by Christ or his Apostles, which was done only by Councils and Emperours of Rome, 5. They would make sew believe that this was from the Apostles daies, which began long after, 6. They would perswade you that all the Christian world submitted to it, even Abassia, and all the extra-imperial Churches, which is no such matter, 7. Yea, that before Luther none contradicted the Papal power and claime, but all the Christian world were Papists. By many such hes they deceive thenfands of the ignorant : And when they chal--on lerge mento dispute, by word or writing, their last refuge is to bring them A 3 into a wood of History, that there they may either win the game or end the chases: And if a Minister of Christ be not armed here, to consute their listorical forgeries; they will take it for a victory and triumph, which made me write my last book against Johnson (or Terret) to shew Historically the Antiquity of our Church, and the novelty of theirs (which I could wish young Ministers unacquainted with Church-History would peruse.)

But if our people were truely acquainted how things have gone in the Church from the beginning, it would be one of the most effectual, preservatives against Popery, when now the falsistations are become its strength. I have oft thought that it had been greater policy in the Papists, if they could, to have burnt all Church-History, but specially of the Councils, that the credit might have depended on their bare word: For verily ence reading of Crab, Binnius, Surius; or Nicolinus would turn against them any stomack, that is not confirmed in their own disease. But they have overdone Baronius, and now made so great and costly a load of the Councils, as that the desiciency of money, time, wit and patient industry, shall save the most even of the Priesthood from the understanding of the truth: And such Epitomes as Caranza's leave out most of the culpable part: and yet even such they can hardly tolerate.

II. The more moderate French Papifts who magnific Councils above Popes, would make us believe, that though Popes are fallible and may mif-carry, yet General Councils, have been the univerfal Church-representative, which have a Legislative and Judicial Universal power, and that our concord must be by centring in their decrees; and all are Schismaticks at least, that take not their Faith and Religion upon their trust: But if men knew that there never was a General Council of all the Christian Churches but only of the Empire, and how wosfully they have miscarried.

it would do much to fave them from all such temptations.

III. The overvaluers of Church grandure, and wealth, and maintainers of the corrupt fort of Diocefanc Prelacy, Patriarks, &c. write hooks and tell the ignorant confident stories, how such a Prelacy hath been in the Church ever since the dayes of the Apostles, and that all the Churches on earth consented to it: But if the people were acquainted with Church-History they would know, that the primitive fixed Episcopacy was Parochial, or every Church associated for personal present Co numion had a Bishop, Presbytery and Deacons of their own: (unfixed Itinerant General Pastors, indefinitely taking care of many Churches). And that it was the Bishops striving who should be greatest, and turning single Churches

Churches into an Association of many Churches, and to be but Chappels or parts of the Diocesan Church (that their power and wealth might be enlarged with their Territories) and the turning of Arbitrating Bishops into the Common Indicatures, which must govern all Christians, and such like, which poysoned the Church, and turned the species of particular Churches, Episcopacy, Presbytery and Discipline, quite into another thing. And to speak freely, it was the many blind volumes and consider clamours of some men, that rail at us, as denying an Episcopacy, which the universal Church hath always agreed in, which drew me to write this abridgement of the Church History of Bishops, Councils and Popes.

IV. And those that make the Ignorant believe that seditious disobedient Presbyters have in all Ages been the dividers of the Church, and the Bi-Shops the means of Unity, concord and suppression of such Schismaticks and Hereticks, could never thus deceive the people, were but so much Church-History commonly known, as I have here collected. Read Church-

History and believe that if you can.

V. And many that take up any new opinion or dotage which is but newly broached among them, would have been faved from it, if they had but known how that same opinion or the like, was long ago taken up by Hereticks, and exploded by the faithful Pastors and people of the Church.

VI. And the sectaries who rashly seperate from some Churches, because of some forms, opinions or ceremonies, which almost all Christians on earth have used, in the former purer ages, and still use, would be more cautelous and searful in examining their grounds, and would hardly venture to seperate from any Church for that, which on the same reason would move them to separate from almost all Christians in the whole world; if not Unchurch the Church of Christ: And ancient errours and crimes would affright us from imitating them.

VII. And those that make new ambiguous words or unnecessary practices to become necessary to Church Communion, and hereticate all that differ from them, or persecute them at least, would be more frightened from such pernicious courses, if they well knew what have been the es-feds of them keretofore.

VIII. And it is not unuseful to Princes and Magistrates to see what hath corrupted and disturbed the Churches in sermer times: and what cause they have to keep the secular power from the Clergies hands, and to vame those that sor knowledge and piety are meet for their proper suiding office, and use of the Church Keys: but not to corrupt them by ex-

cess of worldly wealth and power, nor to permit them by striving, who shall seem GREATEST, WISEST and BEST, to become the incendiaries of the Church and world, and the persecutors of the best that cannot serve their worldliness and pride.

The Reader must Note, I. That though much of the History be taken from others, the Councils are named and numbred according to Binnius and Crabbe: 2. And that because so much evil is necessarily recited, I thought it needful in the beginning and end to annex a defence of the Pastors and their office and work, lest any should be tempted to think hardly of Religion and the Church for mens abuses. 3. And if Micrelius, Gutlerbeth, Phili Pareus, Funcius, Carion, Melanethon, Buchotzer, Scultetus, Pezelius, Helvicus, or any other that I have seen, had answered the ends which I here intend, I should have gladly saved my self this labour and have refer'd the reader to them.

The Councils are now published voluminously, and many young students want money and time to read them at large. To such this abridgement may not be unuseful; especially to men that have mistaken the case of the great heresics and hereticators, and would know what Prelacy and Councils have done to the concord or discord of the Churches. The Description of the State of Alexandria recited in the beginning as a Letter from a friend, was from Mr. Clerkson a Learned and worthy Minister (though filenced) new in London.

The Lord pardon and heal our common faultiness, and give better Teachers to his Churches when we are dead and gone, who will take warning by all our errours and miscarriages, especially to escape a wordly spirit, pride, Church-tyranny and schism, and serving the world, the sless and the Devil, by pretence of Authority from Christ. Amen.

March 31. 1680, London:

What History is Credible, and what not.

As the Holy Ghost saith, Believe not every spirit; I may say, Believe not all Reports, or History. It was not only Ababs Prophets, in whose mouths Satan was a lying spirit: As lying and deceiving is his work in the world, for the desiroying of Holiness, and of Souls, even when he turneth himself into an Angel of Light; so is it the work of his Ministers, when they seem to be Ministers of Righteousness; when it is oft said (Be not deceived) and [Let no man deceive you with vain words;] it is more necessary advise, and hardlier followed, than most men understand. As Truth is Gods means to work the will to holy love, and lead us in a holy life, so Lying is the Devils means to oppose them: and of all Lyars, none are more pernicious than lying Historians, and lying Preachers. It is a sad perplexity to the world, that when men read and hear, even the more consident and plausible Histories and Reports, they know not whether they are true or salse; and if they believe that to be true which is not, the effect is worse than this perplexity. I will tell you what I take to be credible, and what not.

I. It is presupposed that a man must believe his senses, if sound, about their proper objects: Papists that tell us that all mens senses are deceived, when they seem to perceive Bread and Wine in the Sacrament, do but tell us that no man then is to be believed, and therefore not they themselves.

II. The History of the Gospel is certainly credible, because it was confirmed by multitudes of uncontrouled Miracles wrought by Christ, and by his Apostles, and multitudes of Christians; as the Doctrine it self beareth the Image and Superscription of God.

III. The Prophets that had Divine Inspiration and Vision, had that Evidence which gave themselves a certainty, though not to others.

IV. When History delivereth a matter of fact and sense, by the common consent of all men that knew it, though of contrary minds, dispositions, and interests, it giveth us a certainty which may be called Natural; because Nature hath nothing in it that could cause such a Conspiracy in Lying: That it is so credible as to be a Natural certainty, that there is such a place as Rome, Paris, Jerusalem; that the Statutes of the Land are not Forgeries, while all Contenders plead them against each other, and hold by them their Estates and Lives: And so that there was such a Person as Jesus Christ, and that the Scriptures were written by the Prophets and Aposses, &c.

V. When the History of any person and action is proved by continued or visible effects: as that William of Normandy conquered England, while so many of the effects of that Conquest in our Laws and Customs are still visible: And that the Wellh were the Ancient Britains, driven by the Saxons into Wales, while their Language, Habitation, &c. shew it: And so that Christ instituted Baptisin, and Church-Communion, and the Apostles separated the Lords Day for holy worship, when the Christian World hath used all these publickly in all places ever since, and do still use them: And so that Temples were built for holy worship, and endowed, when we still see and possess them.

VI. That History is credible which confentingly speaketh agains the known interest of the Author; for mans corrupt nature is apter to it. boatling, than to false Confessions of Sin; against a Confessor there weeks no Witnesses: And this is much of the credibility of the harsher part of the Church-History which I here recite: What I say of the miscarriages of Bishops and Councils, is mostly in their own words; and what I say against Popes, is but the recital of what is faid by the greatest Defenders or Flatterers of Popes: I give you no Reports against the pride, contentions and corruptions of Patriarchs and Prelates, out of the Supposed Hereticks, or Protestants; I give you not a word out of Luther (who de Conciliis) hath very much; and especially speaketh much like as I here do of Cyril and Nestorius; nor out of Illyricus his Catalogus Testium Veritatis, nor out of the Magdeburgenscs, Osiander, Sleidan, Carion, Melanethon, Mornay's Mystery of Iniquity, no nor out of the Collections of Goldaftus, Marquardus, Freberus, Ruberus, Pistorius, &c. But the substance of the common History is taken out of the commonly received Church-Historians (Eusebius, Socrates, Socrates, mene, Cassiodorus, Theodorite; Russinus, Evagrius, Nazianzen, Hierom, Victor, Nicephorus, Liberatus, Nicetas, and fuch others; and the fum of the Councils and Popes is out of Baronius, Anastasius, but most out et Binnius, and Pla-· tina, and Eneas Sylvius (a Pope,) Petavius, and fuch offier as are the greatest Papal Zealots: When these speak for their Cause, I leave you to just suspition; but when they speak against it, by way of confession or lamentation, they are not to be suspected.

VII. The next degree of credibility dependeth on the Veracity or credible fitness of the Reporter; some men are much more credible than others:

For instance.

1. One that was upon the place, and saw what was done, or lived near, where he had full information, is (ceteris paribus) more credible than one that followeth uncertain reports, or hear-say.

2. A wife man is much more credible than a proud felf-conceited Confident Fool.

3. One that hath made a matter his long and hard study, is (ceteris paribus) more to be believed in that matter, than many ignorant men.

4. One that is impartial, a lover of peace, and not ingaged by faction or interest to one side against the other, is cateris paribus much more credible than a factious interested man.

5. A fober, calm, confiderate man, that will flay and try before he judgeth, is more credible than a passionate or hasty judger.

6. A man of manifest honesty, conscience, and the sear of God, is much more to be believed than a worldly, wicked, bloody, unconscionable man.

7. Ceteris Paribus many agreed honest impartial men are more to be believed than one, or a few odd and singular persons, who have no more advantage than the rest to know the truth.

8. The young and unexperienced owe some Reverence to the judgment of their Seniors, as more credible by age and experience than their own.

9. Accordingly Children to their Parents, and Scholars to their Masters and Tutors owe such belief as is answerable to their difference, and the use of their learning of them.

By this you may see on the contrary who is not worthy of belief.

I. One that pretendeth Inspiration, Vision, Revelation, and giveth the hearer no sufficient proof of it.

II. One that pretendeth to tell you things beyond his reach; as many Philosophers do about the mysteries of Nature, spiritual and corporeal, Elements or mixt bodies, above and below, of which the Books of many are full, and malignant men, that take on them to tell you other mens hearts, without just proof, that they are hypocrites, and intend that which they never did, or meant ill, when they said or did well; and when salse Historians will tell you with what (unproved) ill purposes or deceits, persons a thousand miles off, and perhaps a thousand years past, whom they never knew, did say and do all that is reported of them.

III. When there are but few reporters of things pretended to be known publickly in the world, especially when more credible persons contradict

IV. When the person is deeply ingaged in a Party, and carrying on all for the interest of his Party, doth give you but his word, or the report of his own Party for what he faith; so that you may perceive that interest by affeth him to partiality.

V. When the Historian sheweth a malignant spirit, that extenuateth or denieth all the good that was in his Adversaries, and fasteneth on them as much Odium as he can without just proof, and justifieth all the reproach that is used against them.

VI. When the Historian liveth so sar off from the place and time, that he is no competent reporter, having all his notice but by the same of his own Faction, as uncapable as himself.

VII. When the sober moderate men of his own party contradict him, and speak well of the persons whom he reproacheth.

VIII. When the reporter is manifefully a proud, worldly, wicked, unconficionable man, especially of a bloody burtful disposition: For as Gods three-fold Influence, or the Understanding, Will and Life is but one, so the Devil doth usually vitiate together the Understanding, Will and Life; and he that is from the beginning an Enemy, and a Murderer, is also a Lyar: Though a micked, malignant, and ernel man, may yet have an opinionative faith and knowledge, and preach the truth, when it is for his carnal interest; yet when his malice and interest tempteth him against it, there is no trusting his word.

IX. When an ignorant proud man thinketh that he must be believed meerly for the reverence and authority of his place.

X. When the reporter liveth in a time and place where carnal interest hath got the major Vote for fallhood, and it passeth commonly for truth. especially where Tyranny, Civil or Ecclesiastical, silenceth the truth in Press, Pulpit, and Discourse, that it dare not be spoken; by which the Papists have not only made their own writings and reports incredible, but by their Indices Expurgatorios, and base corrupting of ancient Writers, have weakned our certainty of much of the old History and Fathers.

XI. When the reporter is a weak and filly man, that hath not wit to lift out the truth.

XII. When he is passionately rash, and of hasty judgment, and hath not patience to stay and suspend his judgment till he hear all.

XIII. When it is a Novice or raw Student, that hath not had time, helps. and experience to know what he pretends to know, and yet contradicteth wifer men of more advantage and experience.

XIV. When present experience telleth us, that the party that he writeth against as unlearned or wicked, are men of Eminent Learning, and the fear of God; and that the party that he magnifieth as such, are contrary;

by fuch marks incredible History may be discerned.

Ou. But how can we know mens wisdome, and piety, and honesty, and impartiality, when we never knew the men? Ans. Though hypocrites may much counterfeit truth and goodness, its hard so to do it, but the contrary which? ruleth in them will break out, as a flink will get through narrow passages: and though truth and honesty may be much clouded, they have, like light,

To give you some instances; asamong Physicians Hypocrates, and Galeng and Celsus of o'd; and of late Montanus, Crato Fernelius, Platerus, Hildanus, and fuch others, do speak with that self-evidencing honesty, and many Paracellians with that palpable vanity, that one of them will constrain belief, and the other unbelief, even in them that never heard what they were : So among Historians, Eusebius, though counted an Arrian, and Socrates, and Sozomen, though called Novatians, and Theodoret, and Liberatus, and some others, do write fo as to constrain belief of things which were within their notice, and with honelt impartiality: Among the Papifts, what clear foottheps of understanding, honesty, and impartiality, and so of truth, is therein Thuanus; and much in Commines, Guicciardine, Father Paulus Servita Hist. of Treet Council, and divers others: Though Doctor Fames bid us keep Crab, because the later Councils are corrupt, and all of them must be taken with due Antidotes, yet because most of the matter is setcht from publick Acts and Records, they are more credible than most single History; Acolta speaketh impartially of the West Indies, and Godignus of the Abassians, Matth. Paris of England, and the Pope, and fo of some others: Of Protestants, some do but recite recorded testimonies, or publick acts, and the very writings themselves of the times they speak of, when others do but. tell you stories on their bare word: Goldastus, Ruberus, Freherus and Pistorius, do but give us Collections of the writings of those former Ages, and nothing of their own: So doth Mr. Rushworth now in his three Volumes of Collections; and Mr. Fuller hath partly done so, and writeth moderately; Mr. Gilbert Burnet thus writeth the History of the Reformation, laying not the credit on his word, but on his Evidences; and Cambden impartially thus writeth of Queen Elizabeth, and in his Brittania: Usher hath done the like, de success. Eccles of the Waldenses; and in his de trimordius Eccl. Brit. of the Pelagians, not saying, but preving by Records, and old Evidences, what he delivereth, besides the advantage of his known extraordinary learning, honesty, and impartiality; so doth fox for the most part in his Martyrology give you but the publick Record, or proved Histories (though Cope call him lyar) Melancihon and Bucholtzer were men of such known sincerity, as constraineth credit to their reports.

On the other fide, who can believe such palpable Railers as Tympius, Cochlens, Genebrard, and many such, that lye contrary to certain evidence? such as make the Vulgar believe, that Luther learnt his Religion of the Devil, and was killed by him; that Oecolampadius was killed by the Devil; and that Bucer had his guts pull'd out, and cast about by the Devil; that Calvin was a siigmatized Sodomite and Sensualist; that Bezu died a Papist (who lived long after to write a Confutation) and abundance such, Melehior Adam gathereth his Hiftory of Lives from the Pens of those that most intimately knew the persons, what able, holy, laborious, and excellent servants of God were Calvin, Beza, Daneus, Knox, and many fuch, as described by Adamus, and in the judgment of those that were their most knowing observers: But what vile rebellious wretches were they in the judgment of Do-Gror Heylin, and such as he? what excellent persons did God use for the beyond-sea Reformation? even as in France; and Holland; Fewel, Billon, and other Bishops, detend that which Heylin describeth as the most odious Rebellions: He maketh the Geneva Presbyterians to do that against their Bishop, which Dr. Fet. Moulin in his Answer to Philanax Anglieus, theweth was done before, while they were Papists. Some things in Heylins History of the Reformation, and the Presbyterians, I believe, which he bringeth Records for; but upon his own word I can scarce believe any thing that he faith, so palpably partial is he, and of so malicious and bloody a strain, 1cpresenting excellent persons as odious intollerable Rogues, and the Reformation, even of the Lutherans, as too bad; but that in France, Belgia, Friefland, the Palatinate, Hungary, Transilvania, Scotland, to be but a scries of the most odious Rebellions, Murders, and horrid Sacriledge; and ours in Enga land to be much the Spawn of King Henries Lust, and thinking King Edward 6. his death a seasonable mercy; and odiously representing such excellent Bishops as Grindall, Abbot, and Usher, and such excellent Divines as we fent to Dort, Davenant, Hall, Ward, Carlton, &c. It pleaseth the Prelatists to fay tru y of me, that I am no Presbyterian, and therefore speak not for the persons in partiality, as one of their party; but I must say, as in Gods figl.t.

fight, that in my own acquaintance, I have found that fort of men, whom Dr. Heylin and such other reproach as Presbyterians and Puritans, to be the most serious, conscionable, practical, sober, and charitable Christians that ever I knew, yea verily the knowledge of them hath been a great help to the stedsastiness of my Faith in Christ: Had I known no Christians but carnal, worldly, and formal men, who excel not Heathens in any thing but Opinion, it would have tempted me to doubt whether Christ were the Saviour of Souls, as I should think meanly of the Physitian that doth no cures: But when I see holy mortified persons, living in the love of God and man, I see that Faith is not a dead fancy: And when I have lived in intimate samiliarity with such, from my Childhood, to the sixty sisth year of my age, and known their integrity, notwithstanding their infirmities; and then read such Histories as represent them as the most odious, flagitious persons, I see it is not for nothing that some men are called Διάβολοι in the Scripture, and the Children of their Father the Devil, who was from the be-

Two Crimes I have long ago heard the Rabble charge on those whom they called Puritans, Lying and Covetousness; whereas near two thousand Miniiters are cast out, and suffer, which they could mostly escape, if they durst but lye; and if I ask money for the Poor (of what party soever) I can fooner get a Pound from those called Puritans, than a Shilling from others far richer than they. Can I take any men to be other than malignant lyars who would make men believe that such men as Hildersham, Dod, Rogers, Ball, Paul Bagne, Ames, Bradshaw, &c. were Rogues and seditious Rebels, or that revile such as Usher, Hall, Davenant, &c. ? Reader, believe not a word of any of the revilings or odious characters and ftorics, which any afpiring worldly factious Clergy man writeth of fuch as are his Adversaries: lying is their too common language; yea, if they do but once fet themselves eagerly to feek Preferment, I will never trust them, or take their words: It hath been fo of old, the same man that was a Saint to his Acquaintance, hath been described as wicked, or a Devil by others: How bad were Origen and Chrysostome to Theophilus, Alexand. and Epiphanius? And how bad was Theophilus to the Historians that write his actions? How excellent a person was Cyril Alex. to the Council of Calzedon, and how bad a man was he to Theodoret, Isidore, Pelus. &c. Ignatius Conft. was a Saint to Nicetas, and many others, and to Photius he was an Antichrist, and wicked limb of the Devil: Photius was a holy man to his Party, and a wicked wretch to Nicet.15, and others: Yea, see the credit of worldly Prelates; the same Bishops one year cry down Ignatius as a wicked man, and call Photius a holy person, and the next year, or shortly after, cry down Photius for a Rogue, and cry up Jonatius; yea, and upon the next turn cry up boly Photius whom they had anathematized: These doings were familiar with carnal Prelates.

But as Gods Spirit in his servants is so suited to the Doctrine of the same Spirit, that they relish it where they find it; so their piety and honesty is such a self-evidencing thing, that pious and honest men that knew them.

And when Satan hath done his worst, the very writings of such men as Calvin, Beza, Melanethon, Perkins, Hildersham, Ames, Dod, Burges, Gataker, Usher, Davenant, Hall, &c. will not suffer men to believe their odious revilers: Even among Papists, when I read the works of Bernard, Gerson, Kempis, Thaulerus, Sales, and the Lives of Nerius, Renti, &c. I cannot believe him that would tell me they were wicked men though faulty: And the Lives written by Adam, Clerk, Fuller, &c. shall be believed before Calumniators.

Alas, how little are most Histories to be believed, where they prove not what they fay; there are about fixty that fay there was a Pope Joan, and near as many that fay no such thing. Hildebrand to one half of the Bishops was the boly Restorer of the Church, to the other half the vilest Rebel. We are not agreed here in London who burnt the City in 1666. nor what parties began the late War, nor what party brought the King to death, while we are alive that faw these publick facts: Not only Lads that knew it not, but Heylin (the great Reproacher of the Reformers) would make men believe that it was Presbyterians in England that began the strife and War, when yet he had himself laid so much of it on Archbishops, and Bishops, and on the Parliaments complaints of Popery, Arminianism, and Arbitrary Illegalitics; and after faith (Hift. Presb. p. 465, 470.) The truth is, that as the English generally were not willing to receive that yoak; so neither did the Houses really intend to impose it on them, though for a while to hold fair quarter with the Scots, they feemed forward in it. This appears by their Declaration of April 1646 --- Nor have they lived to I fee their dear Presbytery fetled, or their Lay-Elders entertained in any one Parish of the Kingdome (that's false on the other fide) and yet all nuft be done by this Pailiament, as Presbyterians, four years before, when they were Episcopal, distasting only the persons and actions of Bishop Land, Wren, and some other present Bishops.

If I find a man like Schlusselburgius, fall Pell-mell with reproach on all that differ from him, or Dr. Heylin, speak of blood with pleasure, and as thirsty after more (as of Thacker, Vdall, &e.) or as designing to make Disfenters odious, as he and most of the Papists Historians do. (as the Image of both Churches, Philanax Anglicus, the Historical Collections out of Heylin) I will believe none of these revilers, surther than they give me Cogent

I hear of a Scots Narrative of the Treasons, Fornications, Witcherasts, and other wickedness of some of the Scottish Presbyterians; and as for me, the Author knoweth not what to call me, unless it be a Baxterian, as intending to be a Haresiarcha, being neither Papist, nor of the Church of England, nor Presbyterian, nor Independent, &c.

To this I say, I have no acquaintance with any Seets Minister, nor ever had in my life, except with Bithop Sharp that was murdered, and two other Bithops (and two or three that live here in London) therefore what they are I know not, save by Fame: But though I have heard that Country asperts, as too much inclin'd to Fornication, I never before heard the Religious part and Ministers so accused: Either it is true, or false; if false, shame be to the reporters; if true, what doth it concern us here, or any that are innocent, any further than to abhor it, and lament it, and to be thankful to God that it is another fort of men that are called Puritans in England; and that in all my acquaintance with them thefe 56 years (which hath been with very many in many Countries) I remember not that ever I heard of one Puritan, man or woman, save one, accused or suspected of fornication; and that one yet living, though openly penitent, hath lived disowned and shained to this day; but I have heard of multitudes that revile them, that make a jest and common practice of it: Try whether you can make the Inhabitants of this City believe, that the Nonconformists or Puritans are fornicators, drunkards, or perjured, and that their accusers and haters are innocent men that hate them for such Crimes! But its possible that you may make men of other Countries or Ages believe it, and believe that we wear Horns, and have Cloven Feet, and what you will; but I fear not all your art or advantages on those that are acquainted with both sides : But the mifery is, that faction ingageth men to affociate only with their party where they hear reproaches of the unknown diffenters, from whom they so estrange themselves, that the Neighbours near them are as much unknown to them, fave by lying fame, as if they lived an hundred miles from them. I remember Mr. Creffey once wrote to me, that he turned from the Protestant Religion to the Roman, because there was among us no spiritual Books of Devotion for Soul Elevations, and affectionate Contemplation: And I told him it was Gods just Judgment on him, that lived so strange to his Neighbours, because they are called Puritans, and to their Writings, which Shops and Libraries abound with; had he read Bishop Halls, Mr. Greenhams, Mr. Ri. Rogers, Mr. Jo. Rogers, Mr. Hildershams, Mr. Boltons, Mr. Perkins. Mr. Downhams, Mr. Reyners, Dr. Sibbes, &c. yea or no better than my own (the Saints Reft, the Life of Faith, the Divine Life, the Christian Directory, &c.) or had he read the Lives of Divines called Puritans (or but fuch as two young men (published parely by my self) Joseph Allen, and John Janeway) he would never have gone from the Protestants to the Papists, because of our formality and want of an affectionate spiritual fort of devotion, especially knowing what excess of formality is among the Papisis, and how much it is of the Clergies accusation of the Puritans, that they are for too little form, and too much pretence of spiritual devotion.

But if any called Religious, or Puritans, or Presbyterians be vicious, I know no men that so heartily defire their punishment and ejection, as those that are called by the same names: I thank God that these twenty years, while neither Wit, Will, nor Power hath been wanting against them, I have scarce heard of two men (if one) that have been judged and proved guilty of any such immorality, of all the ejected silenced Ministers in this Land:

I would I could say so of their Adversaries.

II. And now I must speak to the Accusers speeches of my self; I thank you Sir that you seigned no worse against me. 5. if I am an Heresiarcha, why would not you vouchfafe to name that Herefie which I have owned: I have given you large Field-room, in near 80 Books; and few men can so write. as that a willing man may not find some words which he is able to call Herefie: A little learning, wit, or honesty, will serve for such an hereticating prefumption. 2. I never heard that Arminius was called an Arminian, nor Luther a Lutheran, nor Bishop Land a Landian; but if you be upon the knack of making Names, you best know your ends; and best know how to fit them to it. 3. But seriously, do you not know my Judgment? will not about 80 Books inform you? how then can I help it? 4. No, but you know not what Party I am of, nor what to call me; I am forrier for you in this than for my felf; if you know not, I will tell you, I am a CHRISTI-AN, a MEER CHRISTIAN, of no other Religion; and the Church that I am of is the Christian Church, and hath been visible where cver the Christian Religion and Church hath been visible: But must you know what Sect or Party I am of? I am againft all Sects and dividing Parties: But if any will call Meer Christians by the name of a Party, because - they take up with meer Christianity, Creed, and Scripture, and will not be of any dividing or contentious Sect, I am of that Party which is so against Parties: If the Name CHRISTIAN be not enough, call me a CA-THOLICK CHRISTIAN; not as that, word fignifieth an hereticating majority of Bishops, but as it signifieth one that hath no Religion, but that which by Christ and the Apostles was lest to the Catholick Church, or the Eody of Jesus Christion Earth."

And now Sir, I am forry that you are not content with meer Christianity, and to be a Member of the Catholick Church, and hold the Communion of Saints, but that you must needs also be of a Scot, and have some other Name: And how shall I know that your, Sect is better than another? Were not the Papills Sectaries and Schismaticks, damning most of Christis. Body on Earth for not being subject to their Pope, I should not be so much against them. I find promises of Salvation in Scriptures to Believers, that is, Christians as such v(if such sincerely,) but none of the salvation of men as Papists, Diocesans, Grecians, Nestorians, Eutychians, &c. I would say also nor as Protestants did I not take the Religion called Protestant (a Name which I am not fond of) to be nothing but simple Christianity, with oppofition to Popery, and other fuch corruption. And now you know your own deligns, your tongue is your own, and who can controul you, whatever you will call us; but I, and such others, call our selves MEER CHRISTIANS, or CATHOLICK CHRISTIANS, against all Sects and Sectarian names, and haters both of true Herefie, Schifme, and proud, unrighteous, hereticating and Anathematizing. Pfal. 4. O ye fons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into shame? how long will ye love vanity, and feek after lying? But know that the Lord hath fet apart him that is godly for himself: Pfal. 12. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. Help Lord, for the godly man ccaseth, for the faithful fail from among the children of men: They speak vanity every one with bis Neighbour, &c. See the rest.

I will add, that if to be serious in the belief of the Christian Faith, and the Lise to come, and in seeking it above this world, and in constant endeavours to please God, whoever be displeased by it, is it that maketh a man a Puritan, because he is not a formal Hypocrite; then I would I were worthy of the Titles which your Pseudo Tilenus and his Brother give me, who say, I am Purus Puritan Puritanus, and one qui totum Puritanismum totus spirat: Alas I am not so good and happy. But Readers, when this fort of men have described the Puritans as the most intollerable Villains, you that knew them not may conclude, that they were men no more erroneous, or worse than I, how much better soever; for Bishop Morley saith of me, Abuno discommes: And of my Doctrine, I have left the world a full account; and must shortly be accountable for it and my life to God, whose pardon and grace through Christ I daily beg and trust to.

A Notice concerning Mr. Henry Dodwell.

R. Dodwell having written a copious Discourse, afferting, that we have no right to falvation, but by Gods Covenant validly sealed by the Sacrament; and that the Sacrament is not valid unless delivered by one that hath Ordination by such a Bishop as hath his Ordination by another Bishop, and so on by an uninterrupted succession from the Apostles, with much more such Schismatical stuff, which I fully confuted in my Books called, [The true and only terms of the Concord of all the Christian Churches] and I aggravated his Schismatical condemnation of the Reformed Churches, and most others (as having no true Ministry, Sacraments, nor Covenant-title to falvation, and as finning against the Holy Ghost, because he professeth himself a Protestant: The said Mr. Dodwell faith, that these words would perswade men that I. take him for a Papist, and expecteth that I therein right him: Be it therefore known to all men, that I never meant by that word' to accuse Mr. Dodwell of being a Papist, but to aggravate his abuse of Protestants; and that I take my self bound to charge no. man to be of a Religion which he denieth: And what his Religion really is, his Books may best inform him that would know.

CHAP. I.

Of the facred Ministry, Episcopacy and Councils, necessary Premonitions: and of the Design of this Book.

S. 1. OD that could have enlightned the Earth without the Sun and Stars, could immediately alone have taught his Church, and communicated knowledge to mankind: But as he is the most communicative good, he was pleased not only to make his Creatures receptive of his own influx, but also to give them the use and honour of being efficient sub-communicants under him, and causes of good to themselves and to one another: And as his Power gave Being and Motion, his Wisdom gave Order and Harmony, and his Love gave Goodness and Persection, selicity and love, as he is the creating and conserving Cause of Nature; and this in much inequality, as he was the free disposer of his own; so in the Kingdom of Grace he doth by the Spirit of Life, Light, and Love, 1. Quicken and Prengthen the dead and weak souls, and awaken the slumbering and slothful; 2. Illuminate the dark with Faith and Knowledge; and 3. Sanctifie

the malignant Enemies of holiness, by the power of his communicated love, making them friends and joyful lovers: This Spirit first filled the Humane Nature of Christ our Head; who first con maicated it to some chosen persons in an eminent manner and degree, as Nature maketh the heart and brain and other principal parts to be organical, in making, preferving, and governing the rest. To these he gave an eminence of Power to work Miracles, of Wildom to propagate the Word of life, and infallibly by Preaching and Writing promulgate and record his facred Gospel. and of hely love to kindle the like by zealous holiness in the hearts of others. To these organical persons he committed the Oeconomy of being the witnesses of his words and actions, his resurrection and ascension, and of recording them in writing, of planting his first Churches, and sealing the truth of their testimony by many Miracles, promising them his Spirit to perform all that he committed to their trust, and to bring all to their remembrance, and to lead them into all truth, and to communicate instrumentally his Spirit to others, the sanctifying gifts by blessing their Doctrine, and the miraculous gifts by their impolition of hands.

§. 2. By these principal Ministers the first Church was planted at Jeru-falem, (stillest called the Mother-Church) and after by those that were sent thence many Churches were gathered in many Kingdoms of the world, darkness being not able to resist the light. The Apostles and Evangelists and Prophets delivered to them the Oracles of God, teaching them to observe all things that Christ had commanded them, and practically teaching them the true Worship of God, ordering their Assemblies, and ordaining them such Officers or facred Ministration as Christ would have continued to the end of the world, and shewing the Churches the way by which they must be continued, and describing all the work of the Office appointed them by Christ.

§. 3. The Apostles were not the Authors of the Gospel, or of any effential part of the Christian Religion, but the Receivers of it from Christ, and Preachers of it to the world: Christ is the Author and sinisher, or perfecter of our faith. But they had besides the power of infallible remembring, knowing and delivering it, a double power about matters of Order in the Church: 1. By the special gift of the Spirit's inspiration, to found and stablish such Orders as were to continue to the end, and none that came after them might change, they being the Ordinances of the Holy Ghost in them. 2. Temporarily, pro re nath, to make convenient mutable Constitutions, in matters left by the great Legislator to humane prudence, to be determined according to his general regulating Laws. In this last the Apostles have Successors; but not in the former: No other have their Gift, and therefore not their Authority: No men can be said to have an Office that giveth them Right to exercise abilities which they never had nor shall have.

§. 4. Christ summed up all the Law in LOVE to God and Man, and the works of Love; and all the Gospel in Faith, and Hope, and Love by them them kindled and exercised by the Spirit which he giveth them; even by the Belief and Trust of his Merits, Sacrifice, Intercession and Promises, and the prospect of the future Glory promised, fortifying us to all holy duties of obedience, and diligent seeking what he hath promised, and to patient bearing of the Cross, conquering the inordinate love of the world and self and present life, and improving all our present sufferings, and preparing for his coming again, and for our change and entrance into our Masters joy.

5. 5. Christ summed up the Essentials of Christianity in the Baptismal Covenant, in which we give up our selves in Faith, Hope, and consenting Love, to God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, our Creator, Redeemer, and Sanctisier, and in which God receiveth us in the Correlations as his own. And all that are truly thus baptized are Christened, and are to be esteemed and loved as Christians, and to be received into Christian Communion in all Christian Churches where they come, until by apostasse or impenitency in certain disobedience to the Laws of Christ, in points necessary to Christian Communion, they forseit that priviledge. Nor are men to deprive them of the great benefit thus given them by Christ, on pretence of any wit or holiness, or power, to amend Christs terms, and make the Church Doors narrower, or tie men to themselves for worldly ends. Yet must the Pastors still difference the weaker Christians from the stronger, and labour to edific the weak, but not to cast them out of the Church.

§. 6. The facred Ministry is subordinate to Christ in his Teaching, Governing, and Priestly Office, and thus essentiated by Christs own institution, which man hath no power to change: Therefore under Christ they must teach the Church by facred Doctrine, guide them by that and facred Discipline, called The power of the Keys (that is of judging who is sit to enter by Baptism, to continue, to partake of the Communion, to be sufpended or cast out) and to lead them in the publick Worship of God; interceding in Prayer and speaking for them, and administring to them the Sacraments or holy Seals of the Covenant of God.

$.7. The first part of the Ministers Office is about the unbelieving world, to convert them to the Faith of Christ; and the second perfective part about the Churches. Nor must it be thought that the first is done by them as meer private men.

§. 8. As Satan fell by pride, and overthrew man by tempting him to pride (to become as Gods in Knowledge) so Christ himself was to conquer the Prince of pride by humility, and by the Cross, by a life of sufficient; contemned by the blind and obstinate world, making himself of no reputation, despising the shame of suffering as a Malefactor (a Traitor and Blasphemer:) And the bearing of the Cross was a principal part of his Precepts and Covenant to his Disciples, without which they could not be his Followers. And by Humility they were to follow the Captain of their Salvation, in conquering the Prince of pride, and in treading down the Enemie-world, even the lust of the slesh, the lust of the eyes, and pride of life, which are not of the Father but of the world.

§. 9. Accordingly Christ taught his chief Disciples, that if they were not so converted as to become as little children, they could not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, Matth. 18.3. His School receiveth not masterly Disciples, but humble teachable Learners, that become fools that they may be mile.

And when they were disputing and seeking which of them should be greatest, he carnestly rebuked all such thoughts, setting a little child before them, telling them that the Princes of the Earth exercise ambority, and are called Benefactors (or by big Names) but with them it should not be so; but he that would be the greatest must be servant of all, Luk. 22. shewing them that it was not a worldly grandeur, nor forcing power by the Sword (which belongeth to Civil Magistrates) which was to be exercised by the Pastors of the Church: But that he that would be the Chiefest, must be most excellent in Merit, and most serviceable to all, and get his honour and do his work by meriting the respect and love of Volunteers. Sword is the Magistrates, who are also Christs Ministers; (for all Power is given him, and he is Head over all things to the Church.) But they are eminently the Ministers of his Power; but the Pastors and Teachers are most eminently Ministers of his Paternal and faving love and wisdom. And by wisdom and love to do their work. The Word preached and applied generally and particularly (by the Keys) is their Weapon or Arms, and not the Sword.

The Bohemians therefore knew what they said, when they seemed damnable Hereticks to the worldly Clergie that destroyed them, when they placed their Cause in these sour Articles: I. To have the whole Sacrament, Bread and Wine. 2. To have free leave for true Ministers to preach the word of God (without unjust selencing of proud worldly men that cannot stand before the truth.) 3. To have Temporal Dominion (or Government by the Sword, and power over mens Bodies and Estates) taken from the Clergic. 4. To have gress sin suppressed by the sword.

5. 10. Had it been necessary to the Churches Union against Schism or Heresie for Christians to know that Peter or some one of his Apostles must be his Vicar-General, and Head of his Church to whom all must obey, who can believe that Christ would not only have silenced so necessary a point, but also at a time when he was desired or called to decide it, have only spoken so much against it, to take down all such Expectations. Yea we never read that Peter exercised any Authority or Jurisdictions over any other of the Apostles, nor more than other Apostles did; much less that ever he chose a Bishop to be Lord of the Church, as his Successor. Nay he himself seemeth to fore-see this mischief, and therefore saith, I. Pet. 5. 1, 2, 3. The Elders which are among you I exhort, who am also an Elder and a Witness of the Sufferings of Christ, and also a Partaker of the Glory.

Glory that shall be revealed. (These are his Dignicies.) Feed the Flock of God which is among you, (not out of your reach and hearing in a vast Diocess) taking the oversight, not by constraint, but willingly (and on willing men) not for sithly lucre, but of a ready mind; neither as being Lords over Gods Heritage, but being Examples to the Flock; and when the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a Crown of Glory that fadeth not away.

S. 11. Nothing is more certain than that the Church for above 300 years had no power of the Sword, that is, forcibly to meddle with and hurt mens Bodies or Estates, (except what the Apostles had by miraele): And to this day no Protestants, and not most Papists claim any such Power as of Divine Institution, but only plead that the Secular Powers are bound by the Sword to destroy such as are judged Hereticks by the Bishops, and to punish such as contemn the censures of the Church.

§. 12. He that would fee more for the Power of Princes vindicated from the Clergies Claim and Usurpation, may find much in many old Treatises, written for the Emperours against the Pope, collected by Goldassia de Monarch. and in Will. Barclay, but much better in Bishop Bishon, of Obedience, and in Bishop Andrew's Tortura Torti, and in Bishop Buckridge Roffensis of the Power of Kings, and much in Spalatensis de Repub.

$. 13. The Universality of Christians is the Catholick Church, of which Christis the only Head or Soveraign; but it is the duty of these to worship God in solemn Assemblies, and to live in a holy Conversation together; and to join in striving against sin, and to help each other in the way to life; therefore Societies united for these ends are called, Particular Churches.

§. 14. When the Apostles had converted a competent number of Christians, they gather'd them into such Assemblies, and as a Politick Society, set over them such Ministers of Christ, as are afore described, to be their Guides.

§. 15. These Officers are in Scripture called sometime Elders, and sometimes Bishops, to whom Deacons were added to serve them and the Church subordinately. Dr. Hammond hath well described their Office in in his Annotat. which was to preach constantly in publick, and private, to administer both Sacraments, to pray and praise God with the People, to Catechize, to visit and pray with the sick, to comfort troubled Souls, to admonish the unruly, to reject the impenitent, to restore the penitent, to take care of the poor, and in a word, of all the Flock.

§. 16. The Apollies set usually more than one of these Elders or Bishops in every Church, not as if one might not rule the Flock where no more was necessary, but according to their needs, that the work might not be undone for want of Ministers.

$. 17. They planted their Churches usually in Cities, because Christians comparatively to the rest were sew (as Sects are among us) and no where else usually enough for a Society, and because the Neighbour-scattered Villages might best come to the Cities near them; not but that it was law-

lawful to plant Churches in the Country, where there were enough to conflict them, and fometimes they did so, as by Clemens Roman. ad Corinth.

by History appeareth.

§. 18. Grotius thinketh that one City at first had divers Churches and Bishops, and that they were gathered after the manner of the Synagogues; and Dr. Hammond thinketh that for some time there were two Churches and Bishops in many Cities, one of Jews and one of Gentiles; and that in Rome Paul and Peter had two Churches, whom Linus and Cletus did succeed, till they were united in Clemens.

§. 19. There is great evidence of History that a particular Church of the Apostles settling was essentially only ["a Company of Christians, Pathors and People associated for personal holy communion and mutual help

"in holy Doctrine, Worship, Conversation, and Order.]

Therefore it never confifted of so few or so many, or so distant as to be uncapable of such personal help and Communion: But was ever distinguished as from accidental Meetings, so from the Communion of many Churches or distant Christians, which was held but by Delegates, Synods of Pastors or Letters, and not by personal help, in presence.

Not that all these must needs always meet in the same place: but that usually they did so, or at due times at least, and were no more nor more distant than could so meet: Sometimes Persecution hindred them; sometimes the Room might be too small: Even Independent Churches among us sometimes meet in divers places: and one Parish hath divers Chappels for the aged and weak that are unfit for travel.

S. 20. Scotus began the opinion (as Davenport, Fr. a Santa Clara intimateth) and Dion Petavius improved it, and Dr. Hammond hath largely afferted it, that the Apostles at first planted a single Bishop in each Church, with one or more Deacons, and that he had power in time to ordain Elders of a different Order, Species, or Office, and that the word Elder and Bishop and Pastor in Scripture never signific these subject Elders, but the Bishops only, and, faith he, there is no evidence that there were any of the subject fort of Presbyters in Scripture-times: Which concession is very kindly accepted by the Presbyterians; but they call for proof that ever these Bishops were authorised to make a new Species of Presbyters which were never made in Scripture-times? and indeed they vehemently deny it, and may well despair of such a proof.

§. 21. But for my part I believe the foundation unproved (that then there was but one Elder in a Church) and think many Texts of Scripture fully prove the contrary. But I join with Dr. Hammond in believing that in Scripture-times there was no particular Church that had more stated meetings for publick Communion than one: For if there was so long but one Flder, there could be but one such Assembly at once; for they had no such Assemblies which were not guided by a Presbyter or Bishop, in Doctrine, Worship, Sacraments and Discipline: And they used to have the Eucharist every Lords day at least, and often much more. And

§. 22. I have elsewhere fully proved, that the ancient Churches that had Bishops were no bigger than our Parishes (and sew a quarter so big as the greatest of them) and consisted of no more than might have such present personal Communion as is before described; the proofs are too large to be here recited. Ignatius is the plainest, who saith, that this was the note of a Churches Unity, that [To every Church there was one Altar, and one Bishop, with his Fellow Presbyters and Deacons:] And elsewhere chargeth the Bishop to take account of his Flock whether they all come to Church, even Servant-men and Maids.

Clemens Romanus before him intimateth the like, mentioning even Country Bishops.

Justin Martyr's Description of the Christian Assemblies plainly proveth

it.

Tertullian's Description of them and many other passages in him prove it more fully. He professes that they took not the Lord's Supper save only from the hand of the Bishop (Antistitis manu) who could give it but to one Assembly at once.

Many Canons also fully shew it (elsewhere cited) some appoint all the people to joyn with the Bishop on the great Festivals of the year, even above 300 years after Christ.

The Custom also of choosing Bishops sheweth it, where all the people met and chose him: Yes in Cyprian's time the Exercise of Discipline proveth it, when even in such great Churches as Carthage it was done in the presence of the people, and with their consent.

$. 23. The only Churches in the World, that for about 200 years after Christ, if not more, had more than one ordinary Allembly, for Church-Communion, though but like our Parith-Chappels, were Rome and Alexandria, as far as I can learn in any History: For that at Jerusalem for all the numbers had no more stated Members than oft met in one place (excepting occasional absents). And I find no reason to believe that ever these two (the chief Citics of the Empire,) had so long more than some London Parishes (which have above sixty thousand souls as is supposed) no nor near (if half) so many. And because elsewhere I have only excepted these two Cities, I will yet add somewhat to shew, that even there the case was not as many now imagine.

5.24. Cornelius in an Epistle to Fabius of Antioch (in Euseb. Hist. 1. 6. 6.43. alias 42.) saith that "in the Church of Rome were 46 Presbyters, "7 Deacons, and of other Officers 94. that is, 42 Acolites, 52 Exor"cists and Readers, with Porters, Widows, and impotent persons above 1050 souls, who are all relieved by the grace and goodness of Almighty God, &c.] This is the chief testimony in the third Age to prove that this one Church had more than could either meet in one place, or hold personal Communion.

$.25. But let it be considered, 1. That partly for the honour of qualified persons, and partly that all the Church might in season have the help of all mens gifts, they were fo far in the ancient Churches from having so few as Dr. Hammond and Petavins imagine, that they multiplied Officers, and dignified, and fo employed a great part of the Church that had useful gifts: Infomuch that a most credible Witness shortly after, even Gregory Nazianzen, faith, Orat. 1. Pag. 45. that by the intrusion of men for dignity and maintenance, "The Church-Rulers were almost more than the Subjects. The words are 'Hydrany one off andw, &c. Of "others I am askamed, who when they are no better than others, (and I wish they were not much worse) thrust themselves upon the most holy My-"feries, as we say, with unwashen hands and prophane minds, and before they are worthy to approach to hely things, ambitiously enter the Vestry it " felf (or Chancell) and prefs and thrust themselves about the holy Tuble, " as if they judged this Order not to be an example of Virtue, but an occasion " and help of getting maintenance, and not to be an Office lyable to give Account, "but a Command in which they may be free from Censure: Who being misera-"ble (or pitiful persons) as to Piety, and unhappy as to Splendour, that is, "low in the World and Parts) do now in number almost exceed these whom "they are over (or are to govern). [This would make one suspect that "there were then many Ruling Elders that preach'd not; but it's plain "they had an Office about the Sacraments.] Therefore this Evil increasing " and getting strength with time, it seems to me that they will have none under them to rule, (or guide) but that all will turn Teachers and will Prophesie, in-" flead (as was promised by God) of being all taught of God: So that of old the History and Parable said, Saul also is among the Prophets. For there "neither now is nor ever was so great plenty of any other thing as there is now "of these frequent Shames and Criminals; for other things, as they have their "flourishing time, have also their decay. And though to repress their impetu-"ousness be a work above my strength, yet certainly to hate it and be assumed is " not the least part of Piety.

Judge by this, what numbers of Officers or Clergy-men then the Church had.

§. 26. Next for the Peor, consider their proportions in and by other Churches; Chrysoft. in Matth. Edit Savil. p. 421. Supposeth the Poor of the Church of Antioch (whence he came) to have been about the tenth part and dividing the City into three Ranks, he accounts a tenth part rich, and a tenth part poor, and the rest of a middle Estate between both. Now in Chrysostom's time the Church was so high, being owned by the greatest Emperours as we may well suppose almost all or most of the rich came in: Whereas at Rome in the time of Cornelius it being under reproach and cruel persecution, we may well conclude, that most of the rich stood out, and they might say with Paul, not many Great, not many Noble are called; sew rich men comparatively receiving the Gospel, it's most likely that the poor were then far more than a tenth part, which is not probable, the whole Church of Rome then would be but 10500 Souls, which which is about the fifth part or fixth as big as Martins Farish, and about a quarter as big as Stepney Parish, and about a third or fourth part as big as Giles Cripplegate Parish, and not half so big as Giles in the Fields and other Parishes. Moreover Chrysostome, Hom. 11. in Ast. p. 674. computes the poor at Constantinople to be about half as many as all the other Christians, and this in the most flourishing City and Age. And by this measure they would yet fall further short.

It may be you will fay, that these were not the poorest of all that were kept by the Church: But it's known that ever since the times of extraordinary Community, the Churches relieved all the needy according to the several degrees of their wants; and these were such as were in want, though not equally, and they are such poor as were distinguished not only from the Rich, but also from the middle sort; and such as the Church took care to relieve.

§. 27. And as for Alexandria, the greatest City of the Empire next Rome (as Josephus saith, de bello Jud. 1. 5. c. ult. it is certain that in the third Century the Christians had more Meeting Places for Divine Worship than one, and in the fourth Century had many: Epiphanius nameth divers, Heres. 69.p. 728. Arius having one wherein he preached, had that advantage to propogate his Herese. But all know that the building of Temples began after Emperours were Christians, and the sair Churches which, Ensebius saith, they had in Dioclesians time (till he destroyed them) were but like our Tabernacles or private Churches, and grew to Number and Ornament but a little before, as Ensebius intimateth. It was a good while before there were two Churches, even in Constantinople. Indeed, it is noted, as a singularity, that they had two Churches: But they mistake, that apply that to two Meeting Places, which is spoken of two Societies, because in Meletius time they had two Bishops.

§. 28. But yet let us see how big the Christian Church was in this great City, even when it had many Chapels; even in Athanasius time, in the fourth Century, Tom. 1. Ed. Commel. p.531. in his Apology to Constant, you may find (in words too large to be all transcribed) that he being accused for assembling the People in the Great Church, maketh this part of his Desence, [The confluence of the People at the Easter Solemnity was so great, that if they had met in several Assemblies (or by parties) the other Churches were so narrow or small that they would have been in danger of suffering by the Crowd; nor would the universal Harmony and Concord of the People have been so visible and efficacious if they had met in Parcels; Therefore he concludeth it better for the whole Multitude to meet in that great Church, being a place large enough to receive them altogether, and to have a concurrence of the People all with one Voice (in Symphony:) For if according to Christ spromise where two shall agree of any thing it shall be done for them—how prevalent will be the One-voice of so

'numerous a People assembled together, and saying, Amen, to God? Who therefore would not admire? Who would not count it a happiness to see so great a People met together in one place? And how did the People rejoyce to see one another, whereas formerly they assembled in several places.] Thus plainly Athanasius. I do not hence gather that every Man, Woman, and Child was present: In our Parish Churches that hold the Assembly, some are there, and usually some stay at home and come by turns: But it seemeth hence plain that even in Alexandria the Christians were no more than that the main Body of them at great Solemnities could meet and hear in one Assembly. Which in many of our Parishes they cannot do.

§. 29. Add to this, that Athanasius tells them that his Predecessor Alexander did as much as he had done, on such occasions assembling their whole Multitude in one Church before it was dedicated, pag. 532.

§. 30. I add a further Argument from the City it felf, as offered me also while I was writing this, by a learned Friend in his own Words.

This City was, by Strabo's description of it, like a Souldiers Coat, whose length at either side was almost thirty furlongs, its breadth at either end seven or eight Furlongs, Geogr. li. 17. p. 546. So the whole compass will be less than ten Miles. A third or fourth part of this was taken up with publick Buildings, Temples, and Royal Palaces, ibid. Thus is two miles and a half, or three and a quarter taken up. I take this to be that Region of the City which Epiphanius calls Epsylon (where he tells us was the famous Library of Ptolomy Philadelphus) and speaks. of it in his time as destitute of Inhabitants, de ponder. & mensur. n. 9. p. 166. A great part of the City was affigued to the Jews. So Strabo indefinitely, as Josephus quotes him, Antiqu. Jud. l. 14. c. 12. Others tell us more punctually that their share was two of the five Divisions (Ushers Annals Lat. p. 859.). Though many of them had their habitations in the other Divisions, yet they had two fifth parts intire to themselves: And this is I suppose the remos is no which Tosephus faith the Successions of Alexander set apart for them, Bell. Jud. 1. 2. C. 21. Thus we see how six or seven miles of the ten are disposed of. The greatest part of the Citizens (as at Rome and other Cities) in the beginning of the fourth Age were Heathens. Else Antonius had wronged their City, who in Athanasius time is brought in thus, exclaiming by Jerome, Vit. Paul. p. 243. Civitas meretrix in quant totius orbis Dæmonia confluxère, &c. A charge thus formed supposeth the prevailing Party to be guilty. But let us suppose them equal and their proportion half of the five or four miles remaining. Let the rest be divided between the Orthodox, and the Arians, and Novatians, and other forts. And if we be just, a large part will fall to the share of Hereticks and Sectaries. For (not to mention others) the Novatians had several Churches and a Bishop there, till Cyrils time, Vid. Socrat. Hift. 1. 7. c. 7: The Arians were a great part of those that professed Christianity, Sozoni. Hist. li. 1. c. 14. And if we may judg of the Followers by the Leaders, no lefs than half: For whereas there. were nineteen Presbyters and Deacons in that Church (Theodor. Hist. li. 4. c. 20.) (Twelve was the number of their Presbyters by their ancient Constitution, and seven of their Deacons as appears by Eutychius, here and at Rome, and elsewhere) six Presbyters with Arius, and five Deacons fell off from the Catholicks, Sozom. Hist. li. 1. c. 14. But let the Arians be much fewer, yet will not the proportion of the Catholick Bishops part in this City be more than that of a small! T.011772

Town, one of eight or twelve Furlongs in compass. And so the number of Christians on this account, will be no more than might well meet for Worship in one place.

If the Reader will peruse Epiphanius History of the Fraction between Alexander and the Followers of Meletius in Alexandria, how Alexander was impatient with their separate Meetings, when Meletins was dead (though till then two Bishops and Churches lived quietly in one City) because they came not to his Church; with the rest of the story, he will easily see what a Church was then even in Alexandria.

Thus you fee the difference of a just computation, and the hasty accounts of men, that judg of Places and Persons as they are in their missed imaginations, and not as they were indeed and truth. Mr. Dodwell in a Letter to me layeth so much on the number of the Officers and Poor before mentioned, as if it proved undoubtedly a Diocesane Church, when the conclusion ariseth from an erroneous comparing their Cities and times with ours, and their Presbyters with our Parish-Priests and Curats.

And when all's done a grand Patriarchal Church is not the meafure of a Diocesane, or of every Bishops Church: their Presbyters had other work than our Curates have: They met in the same Assembly with the Bishop, and sate in a Semicircle on each side him, and were as a Colledge of Governours to rule one Church, and that only by the Word (applyed by the Keys) and not by the Sword, till Cyril first usurped it, for which by Historians he is noted. If our times tempt you to marvel how so many Officers or Clerks were maintained by fo few People, Church-History affordeth you matter enough to resolve your doubt.

9. 31. But if these two great Cities had indeed had yet more Altars and Churches, Orbis major est Orbe, saith Hierome: Two singular Cities may not over-weigh the contrary case of all the Churches: If any other had been like them it would have been Antioch the third Patriarchate, when as in Ignatius time, as is aforesaid, the Churches unity there and elsewhere was notified * by fer dunasticion if is imiskonos, One Altar (or Altar . That a place) and One Bishop with his Presbyters and Deacons.

And hence came it to be the note of a Schisin, to fet up Altare contra Altare hecause one Bishop and Church had but one Altar. Mr. Mede (no eliewhere injudicious nor Factious man) faw this, and afferteth it from the plain prove awords of Ignatius.

$. 32. How the case came to be altered it is case to know: But whe-that say it ther it was well or ill done, is all the controversie, or the chief.

I confess there want not some that think that the Apostles had their se- cating Boveral assigned Provinces, and that they left them to twelve Successionrs, and dy adhearthis is the foundation of Patriarchal or Provincial Churches, with fuch un- ing to one proved Dreams: 1. We doubt not but that the Apostles wisely di- Bishop. stributed their Labours: But we believe not that they divided the Countreys into their several Dioceses, or Provinces: nor that two of them (e.g John and Paul, Peter and Paul, James and other Apostles) might local Altar gainst theme is but one not and did not do the work of an Apostle in the same Country and City. Much less do we believe that one of them (e.g. James at Jerusalem, whether an Apostle or not I contend not) was a Bishop over the Apostles when they resided there.

2. Nor do we believe that they left any such divided Provinces to their Successors: If they had, it's strange that we had not twelve or thirteen Patriarchal or Provincial Churches hence noted. Which were they, and how came they so soon to be forgotten and unknown? And why had we still but three Patriarchs, and one of those (Alexandria) accounting from no Apostle, but from S. Mark, and the other two reckoning from one and the same Apostle, save that Rome reckoned from two at once, Peter and Paul, when as one City must (fay they) have but one Bishop?

§. 33. The case is known; that, I. When Christians so multiplyed, that one Assembly would not serve, but they became enough for many, the Bishops greatness and wealth increasing with the People, they continued them all under their own Government, and so took them all to be their Chapels, fetling divers Altars but not divers Bishops in one Church. 2. And herewith their work also, by degrees, was much changed; and they that at first were most employed in Guiding the whole Church in Gods publick worship, and exercised present discipline before them. and were the fole usual Preachers to them all, (the rest of the Elders Preaching but when the Bishop could not, or bid them,) didaster become distant Judges, and their Government, by degrees, degenerated to a similitude of Civil Magistracy. 3. And then they set up the old exploded question; which of them should be the chief or greatest: And then they that had the greatest Cities being the richest and greatest Bishops in interest, because of the greatness and riches of their Flocks, they got the Church Government to be distributed, much like the Roman Civil Go. vernment within that Empire; And where the Civil Magistrate had most and largest command, they gave the Ecclesiastical Bishop the like: And fo they fet up the Bishops of the three chief Cities as Patriarchs, Rome being the first, because it was the great Imperial Seat, as the Chalcedon Council giveth the true reason. Afterwards Constantinople and Ferusalem being added, they turned them into five: And Carthage and other places. not called Patriarchal Seats, had exempt peculiar Jurisdictions with a power near to Patriarchs. And the rest of the Bishops strove much for precedency, and got as large Territories as they could, and as numerous Flocks and many Parishes, though still the name Paracia was used for the whole Episcopal Church when it was turned into a Diocess.

S. 34. I conceive that this Change of One Altar into a Diocesane Church of many Altars and Parishes was not well done, but is the thing that hath confounded the Christian World, and that they ought to have increased the number of Churches as the number of Christians did increase, as the Bees swarm into another Hive. My Reasons are, I. Christ and the Holy Ghost in the Apostles having scaled a Church Species and Order

(like

(like that of the Synagogues, and not like that of the Temple,) no man ought to have changed that Form: Because they can prove no power to do it: and because it accuse the Institution of Christ and the Holy Ghost of insufficiency or errour, which must so soon be altered by them. Persective addition, as an Insant groweth up to Manhood, we deny not. But who gave them power to abrogate the very Species of the first Instituted Churches? That the Species is altered, is certainly proved by the different uses and Termini of the Relation. For a Church of the first Institution was a Society joyned for personal Communion in Dostrine, Worship, and holy living: But a Diocess consisting of many score or hundred Parishes that never see or know or come near one another, are uncapable of any such present personal Communion, and have none but Mental, and by Officers or Delegates.

2. By this means, all the Parish-Churches being turned into Chapels and un-Churched, are all robbed of their Right; seeing each one ought to have a Bishop and Presbyters, and the benefit of that Oslice and Order, which is now denied them, and many hundred such Parishes turned into Chapels have no Bishop to themselves but one among them all to the Diocess.

3. Because by this means true Discipline is become impossible and unpracticable; by the distance and multitude of the people, and the distance and paucity of Bishops: What Christ commandeth, Mat. 18. being as impossible to be done in many hundred Parishes, by one Bishop and his Consistory, as the Discipline of so many hundred Schools by one Schoolmaster (though each School have an Usher) or the care of many hundred Hospitals by one Physician, perhaps at twenty, or forty, or eighty, or an hundred miles distance.

4. Because it altereth the antient Office of a Bishop and of a Presbyter, and setteth new ones in the stead: As a Bishop was the Bishop of one Church, so a Presbyter was his Assistant, Ejusdem Ordinis, in the Government of the Church, who now is turned into a meer Usher, or Worshipping-Teacher, or Chaplain.

5. Because it certainly divideth the Churches: For Christians would unite in a Divine Institution, and the exercise of true Discipline, that will never unite in a humane Policy which abrogateth the Divine, and certainly destroyeth commanded necessary Discipline.

5. 35. The very work also of the Bishop, and so the Office came thus to be changed: Christ having appointed no other Church Governours (besides Magistrates) but such (as Philosophers in their Schools) who were appointed to set up Holy Societies for Divine Doctrine, Worship, and Holy Living, and to Guide them accordingly, by Teaching, Worship, and Government by the Word, sorbidding them the Sword or Force, they are said to have the Keys of the Church and the Kingdom of Heaven, because as Grace is Glory in the seed, the Church is Heaven in the seed, and the Pastors were the Administrators of Sacraments and Church-priviledges, and therefore the Judges who were sit for them, who should be Baptized, who should Communicate, and in what rank, and who should be denied these, admonished or excluded, and who should, as far as belongeth to others, be judged meet or unmeet for Heaven. And so the Christian Societies were to be kept clean, and not to be like the polluted World of Insidels. And the Pastors had no other power to use; but were to judge only those within, and leave them without to Gods own judgment, and to the Magistrate, who was not to punish any one for not being in or of the Church, or for departing from it, which is a grievous punishment it felf.

But Magistrates being then Heathens, the Christians were hard put to it for the decision of their quarrels: For the love of the world and selfishness were but impersectly cured in them. They went to Law before Heathen Judges with each other; and this became a fnare and a scandal to them. S. Paul therefore chidch them for not ending differences by Chriftian Arbitrators among themselves, as if there were none among them wife enough to Arbitrate. Hereupon the Churches taking none to be wifer or trustier than their Pastors, made them their Arbitrators, and it became a censurable scandal for any to accuse a Church-member to a Magistrate, and to have Suits at Law. By this means, the Bishop becoming a Stated Arbitrator, thereby became the Governour of the Christians, but with his Presbyters and not alone. But because Bishops had no power of the sword. to touch mens bodies or estates, but only to suspend them from Church-Communion, and Excommunicate them, or impose penitential confessions on them, therefore they fitted their Canons (which were the Bishops Agreements) to this Governing use, to keep Christians under their Government from the Magistrates. And so they made Canons, that a Fornicator or Adulterer should be so long or so long suspended, and a Murderer fo long, and fo of the rest.

§. 36. And when Constantine turned Christian, he had many reasons to confirm this Arbitrating Canonical power to the Christian Bishops by the Civil Sanction. 1. Because he found them in possession of it as contract. ers by mutual confent; and what could a Christian Prince do less than grant that to the Christians which they chose and had. 2. Because the advancement and honour of the Teachers and Pastors he thought tended to the honour of their Religion, and the success of their Dostrine upon the Heathens with whom they dwelled. Grandure and Power much prevail with carnal minds. 3. Because he had but few Magistrates at first that were Christians, and none that so well knew the affairs of Christians as their own chosen Bishops. And he seared lest the power of Heathen Magistrates over the Christians might injure and oppress them. 4. He design. ed to draw the Heathens to Christianity by the honouring of Christians above them. 5. And withal his interest lay most in their strength; For they were the fastest part of his Souldiers and Subjects, that for Conscience and their own Interest, rejoyced to advance and defend him to the utmost, (when he lost many of the Pagans) and they were not of the spirit of the old Pretorian Souldiers, that fet up and pulled down Emperours at their pleasure. Had Constantine faln, the Christians had much faln with him, and had the Christians been weakned he had been weakened: They were become his strength. And he foresaw not the evils that afterwards would follow. Some must govern, and there were then no wifer nor better men than the Bishops and Pastors of the Churches. And their interest in the Christian people (that chose them) was greatest: As now all differing parties of Christians among us (Papists, Presbyterians, Independents, Anabaptists) would desire nothing as more conducing to their ends, than that the King would put the greatest Power (especially of Religion) into the hands of those Teachers whom they esteem and follow; even so was it with the Christians in the days of Constantine: And hereupon Laws were made, that none should compel Christians to answer in any Court of Justice, saving before their own Bishops, and so Bishops were made almost the sole Governours of the Christians.

§. 37. By this means it is no wonder if multitudes of wicked men flock'd into the Church and defiled and dishonoured it: For the Murderer that wastobe hanged if he were no Christian, was but to be kept from the Sacrament if he were a Christian, and do some confessing penance; which was little to hanging or other death; And so proportionably of other Crimes. Bad Christians by this device were multiplyed. The Emperour also being a Christian, worldly men are mostly of the Religion of the Prince or high-§. 38. And no man that can gather an effect from an effectual cause could doubt, if neither Nazianzen, or any Historian had told it him, but that proud and worldly men would strive then to be Bishops, and use all possible diligence to obtain so great preferment: Who of them is it that would not have Command and Honour and Wealth, if he can get it? While the great invitation to the sacred Ministry was the winning and edifying of Souls, those that most valued Souls, desired it (yet desired it to be kept from such Poverty and Persecution as exposed them to hinderance and contempt). But when Riches, Reputation and Dominion were the Baits, who knoweth not what fort of Appetites would be the keenest?

Christ telleth us, how hardly Rich men are good and come to Heaven. Therefore when Bishops must be all Great and Rich, either Christ must be deceived, or it must be as hard for them to be honest Christians as for a Camel to go through the Needles eye. And thus, Venenum fundatur in $.39. The World being thus brought into the Church without the cure of the worldly mind, and the Guides being fooftrongly tempted to be the very worst, no wonder if the Worldly Spirit now too much rule the Church, and if those that are yet of the same Spirit, approve, plead, and strive for what they love and despise the business of the Cross, and Christian Humility, and Simplicity to this day: And if Bishops have done much of their work accordingly, ever since Configurine (and much before) it hath been the Devils Work to carry on his War against Christ and Piety, under Christs.

Christ's own name, and the pretence of Piety, as an Angel of Light and Righteousness and Unity, and to set up Pastors over the Church of Christ, that hate the Doctrine and Life, and Cross of Christ, that by pleading for Godliness and Concord, may be the essectual Enemies of both, and may fight against Christ in his own Livery, under his Colours, and with his own Arms. Whose God is their Belly, who glory in their shame, who mind earthly things, being Enemies to the Cross of Christ: The History of whom you

6. 40. But here I must above all remember the Reader, that he is not for this Corruption of the Clergy, and Government of the Church, to think that the Church here ceased to be a true Church, or that the Ministry was lost, or that it became unlawful to hold Communion with any such Churches; much less to think hardly of Christianity it felf, as if it were no better than false Religions, because so many of its Pastors were so bad. None of God's Counsels were frustrate by mans sin: None of his Premises to his Church have failed. For all this Christ is the Saviour of the World, the Prince of Righteousness and Peace, that came to destroy the Works of the Devil, and to save his people from their Sins; and all that are given him of the Father shall come to him, and he will cast none of them out, nor shall any take them out of his hands?

$.41. I. Let it be still remembred, that as the Chronicles of Kingdoms mention only the publick Actions of Princes and great Men, but name not the poor and private fort, so also our Church-History of Councils and publick things, say little of godly private Christians, but of Patriarchs and great Prelates, who yet are themselves but a very small part of the Christian World.

II. Note also that every Bishop had many Presbyters; whose work was not to strive for superiority, nor trouble the world in Councils (where usually they came not) and so had not a quarter of the temptations that the Bishops had: And though we find mention sometimes of the Presbyters also that were naught, yet the number so reproved and proved bad, is not proportionable to the number of Prelates compared among themselves, that miscarried in Councils. The Presbyters that staid at home and sollowed their work in private with the Flock, and came not on the Stage in publick affairs, kept up the substance and practice of Religion.

III. And the private Christians had yet less temptation, and were not so overwhelmed with worldly things, for carryed away by pride and ambition and covetousness, as the ruling party were.

- IV. And the Monks, and other retired Christians, that saw the Prelates on and shares, (though many of them had their failings too, yet) no doubt kept up much ferious piety, and a holy life.

V. And no doubt but very many of the Bishops themselves were humble hely saithful men, that grieved for the miscarriages of the rest. Though such excellent persons as Gregory Neocesarea, Gregory Nazianzen, Gregory Nyssen, Basil, Carysostame, Augustine, Hillary, Prosper, Fulgentius, &c.

were not very common, no doubt but there were many that wrote not Books, nor came fo much into the notice of the world, but avoided contentious and factious Stirs, that quietly and honestly conducted the Flocks in the ways of piety, love, and juffice. And some of them (as S. Martin) feparated from the Councils and Communion of the prevailing turbulent fort of the Prelates, to fignifie their disowning of their fins.

VI. And oft times, when the Prelates were at the worst, God raised up fome very Godly Princes, that maintained Religion more than the Clergy, and were an honour to it when the Bishops dishonoured it.

VII. And it is not to be contemned, that much piety was kept up among great numbers of Christians, whom (for some mistake) the rest reviled and condemned as Schismaticks or Hereticks. Little know we how many holy fouls were among those that are in Epiphanius Catalogue. Of the Audians and some others he seemeth to confess as much himself. The Novations were tolerated in almost all the Empire, and had their Churches and Bishops. having the testimony of the Orthodox that they were usually of found faith and upright lives, and stricter than other Christians were. And God pardoneth the infirmity of a small mistake in judgment, when men are sincerely addicted to his service. Now and then a cruel Prelate did prosecute them, but so did not the gentler fort (as Atticus, Proclus, &c. at Constantinople, cic.) nor the Emperours themselves, save when so insti-

VIII. And though the Churches in the Roman Empire kept up this grandure of Patriarchs, Metropolitans, and rich Prelates, that after over-topped Kings, it was not so in other parts of the Christian world, but the Clergy lived more humbly and quietly. The Scots under Columbanus and their other Presbyters, long lived in great picty without any Bishops. And Jones when the Scots Presbyters Finan, Aidan, &c. ordained Bishops in Nor-Hearts Sothumberland, they were commonly humble, holy men, like themselves. veraign, excellent-And both Scots and Britains fo much milliked the Romane-grandure and way, ly describthat when Augustine the Monk came in, they would not subject themselves ing the to the Pope, or any Foreign Prelates, nor so much as cat and drink with English the Missionaries. And the like we may fay of some other Extra-imperial Succession Churches. The Spaniards themselves not only while Arian Goths (of whom see the testimony of Salvian, to the shame of the Orthodox) but after Recaredus days, for many ages, lived in great quietness, while Italy, France, and Germany were employed in Hereticating, Curfing, Excommunicating, or bloudy Wars. The great Empire of Abaffia (as the crediblest History faith) never had Bishops to this day, but only one called the Abuna, while the whole Clergy are exercised though in too much ignorance) in their Priestly Office. Brocardes, that lived at Jerusalem, testifieth that those Eastern Christians, called by the Papists, Nestorians, 7acobites, Eutychians, were commonly plain honest Religious people, free from Herefie, and of better lives than even the Religious of the Church of Rome, and that there were not work men at Jerusalem than the Romai Catholicks. The Armenians have many Bishops, and one chief, but live (though too ignorantly and superstitiously, yet) in great austerity of life.

IX. In all ages fince Prelacy swelled to the corruption of the Churches, and annoyance of the Peace of Kings and Kingdoms, there have been still a great number of pious lamenters of the Corruptions of the Church, that have ground and prayed for reformation: Insomuch, that Dr. Field maintaineth, that even in the Church of Rome there have been still considerable numbers of Doctors, that owned truth and piety, and misliked the Papal usurpations and errours. The Waldenses and Albigenses (exceeding numerous) said, they had continued from the Apostles, and so from the days of Sylvester (or Constantine) had dislented from the Roman pride, and corruptions. And God hath made the Protestant Churches since the Reformation, as his Vineyard, where truth and piety have prospered, though Satan hath been still at work, and here also had too much success.

X. And it must be remembred, that God hath made use of many proud and turbulent men, to propogate and defend the truth of the Gospel: And their Gifts have served for the good of the sincere. As the husk or chaff and straw is useful to the Corn; so many worldly Prelates and Priests have been learned Expositors and useful Preachers, and taught others the way to life, which they would not go in themselves. Besides that, their very Papal power and grandure, which hath corrupted the Church, hath yet been a check to some, that would have assaulted it by force; and as a hedge of thornes about it. Worldly interest engageth Pope, Patriarchs, and Prelates, to stand up for the Christian Religion, because they gain by it (as Leo the 10th is said to have odiously confessed.)

§. 42. And the old Fathers, till Confrantines time, did most of them think that the last thousand years would be a time of fuller glory to the Church; as many yet think, though I confess my felf unskilful in the Prophe-

But I make no doubt, but though this earth be so far deserted by God, the Glorious Kingdom which we shall shortly see, with the new Heaven and Earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness, will fully consute all our prefent temptations to think hardly of God or the Redeemer, because of the present corruptions and dissentions of this lower world.

§. 43. We may conjecture at former times by our own: We fee now, that among the most Resormed Churches, too often the most world-ly part are uppermost, and perhaps are the persecuters of the rest, and though they may be the smaller part, it's they that make the noise, are the noted part that carry the name, and that Histories write of. A few men got into places of power, seem to be all the Church, or Nation, by the prevalency of their actions, which sew dare contradict: They may give Laws; They may have the power of Press and Pulpit, so that nothing shall be published but what they will; They may call themselves

the Church, and call all that obey them not Schismaticks and Sectaries, and strangers may believe therefore, that it is but some few inconsiderable fellows that are against them, when yet the far greatest part may utterly diffent and abhor their pride. I have lived to fee fuch an Assembly of Ministers, where three or four leading men were so prevalent as to form a Confession of Faith in the name of the whole party. which had that in it which particular members did difown. And when about a controverted Article, One man hath charged me deeply, for questioning the words of the Church, others that were at the forming of that Article, have laid it all on that fame man, as by his impetuousness putting in that Article, the rest being loth to strive much against him, and so it was he himself that was the Church, whose authority he so much urged, at least the effectual fignifying part. We cannot judge what is commonest by what is uppermost, or in greatest power. Indivers Parishes now, where the Minister is conformable, perhaps ten parts of the people do dislike it; and fometimes you may fee but three or four perfons with him at the Common-prayers; And yet all know, that Differenters are talkt of as a few fingular Fanaticks. I compare not the Caufes, but conclude, that fo also for the Numbers, humble Godly persons might be very numerous, though only the actions of worldly Prelates do take up most of the History of the Church.

Yea, I believe, that among the Papifts themselves, five to one of the people, were they free from danger, would declare their dislike of a great part of the actions and Doctrines of their Presates, and that the greatest part that are named Papists, are not such throughly and at the heart.

When the Rulers, Scribes, and Pharifees were against Christ, and perfecuted him and the truth, the common people so much adhered to him, that the perfecutors durst not seize on him openly by sorce, but were sain to use a Traytor, to apprehend him in the night, and in a solitary place, lest they should be stoned by the people, who said, Never man spake as this man speaketh.

§. 44. Let us not therefore turn Church History into a temptation, nor think basely of the Church, or Christianity, or Christ, because of Papal and Prelatical pride and tyranny. God can make use of a surly porter to keep his doors; yea, a mastiff-dog may be a keeper of the house; and his Corn hath grown in every Age, not only with straw and chasse, but with some tares: And yet he hath gathered, and will gather, all his chosen.

§. 45. Nor isthe Ministry it self to be therefore dishonoured: For as at this day, while a few turbulent Prelates perfecute good men, and much of the Ministry is in too many Countries lamentably corrupted, yet is Religion, piety, and honesty kept up by the Ministry, and never was well kept up without it: For the Faithful Ministers labour still, and their very sufferings further the Gospel, and what they may not do publickly they do privately.

Yea, their very Writings shew, that still there are such as God doth qualifie to do his work, even among the Papilts, he that readeth the pious D 2 Writings Writings of such men as Gerson, and Gerhardus Zuphaniens, and Thaulerus, Thomas à Kempis, Ferus, and many such others, will see that Gods spirit was still illuminating and sanctifying souls. And he that readeth such Lives as Philip Nerius, persecuted by the Bishop as an ambitious Hypocrite, for setting up more serious Exercises of Religion than had been ordinarily used among the Formalists, (to say nothing of such privater men as M. de Renty and many others) will see that it is not all Church-tyranny and corruption, though very heinous, that will prove that Christ hath not a Holy Generation whom he will fave.

9. 46. Yea among the very corrupted fort of the Clergy, many that are overcome with temptations in that point, and take usurpation and tyranny, and worldly pomp and violence for Order, Government, and the interest of the Church, have yet much good in other respects: Even among the Cardinals there have been such men as Gharles Boromaus, Baronius (Nerius's companion) Bellarmine, and others, that would Preach and practise the common Doctrines of serious piety: Yea, among the Jesuits there have been divers that have Preacht, Written, and lived very strictly; much more among their Fryars: and such Bishops as Sales: And though their times and corruptions blemished their piety, I dare not think they nullified it.

9. 47. And it sheweth the excellency of the Sacred Office, 1. That Christ did first make it as the noble Organical part of his Church, to form the rest. 2. That he endued the first Officers with the most noble and excellent gifts of his spirit. 3. That he founded and built his Church by them at first. 4. Yea, that he himself preached the Gospel, and is called The Minister of the Circumcision, the chief Shepherd, and the Bishop of our Souls. 5. That he hath used them to enlarge, confirm, preserve, and edefie his Church to this day. 6. That he maketh the best of them to be the best of men. 7. That he putteth into the hearts of all good Christians a special love and honour of them. 8. That he useth even the worser fort to do good, while they do hurt; especially some of them. o. That Satan striveth fo hard to corrupt them and get them on his side. 10. That Religion ordinarily dyeth away, or decayeth, when they fail and prove unable and unfaithful. 11. That Christ commandeth men so much to hear. receive and obey them, and hath committed his Word and Keys to them. as his Stewards. 12. And hath promifed them a special reward for their faithfulness: and commanded all to pray for them and their preservation and success. And the nature of the things tells us, that as knowledge in lower things is not propagated to mankind, but by Teachers (man being not born wife;) so much less is heavenly wisdom. And therefore it is, that God is so regardful of the due qualification of Ministers, that they be not blind guides, nor novices, nor proud, nor careless sluggards, nor felf-feeking worldlings, but skilful in the word of truth, and lovers of God and the fouls of men, and zealous, and diligent, unwearied, and parient in their holy work. And when they prove bad, he maketh them

tion of the best making them the worst.

§. 48. Therefore let us make a right use of the pride and corruption of the Clergy, to desire and pray for better, and to avoid our selves the Sin which is so bad in them, and to labour after that rooted Wisdome and Holiness in our selves that we may stand, though our Teachers fall before us. Let every man prove his own Work, and so he shall have rejoicing in himself, and not in others only, Gal. 6. But let us not hence question the Gospel, or dishonour the Church and Ministry; no nor any further separate from the Faulty than they separate from Christ, or than God alloweth us, and necessity requireth: As we must not despise the needful helps of our Salvation, nor equal dumb or wicked men with the able saithful Ministers of Christ, on pretence of honouring the Office; so neither must we deny the good that is in any, nor despise the Office for the Persons Faults.

Share that hath entangled the Quakers and other Schismaticks of these times, who on pretence of the saults of the Ministers, set against the best with greatest fury, because the best do most resist them, and that revise them with salfe and railing language, the same that Drunkards and Malignants use, yea worse than the prophanest of the Vulgar; even because they take Tythes and necessary Maintenance, charging them with odious covetousness, calling them Hirelings, deceivers, and what not. Undoubtedly this Spirit is not of God, that is so contrary to his Word, his Grace, and his Interest in the World. What would become of the Church and Gospel, if this malignant Spirit should prevail to extirpate even the best of all the Ministry? Would the Devil and the Churches Enemics desire any more? The very same Men that the Prelates have silenced (near 2000) in England these fifteen or sixteen years together, are they that the $. 50. Nor will the Clergies corruption allow either unqualified or uncalled Men to thrust themselves into the Sacred Office, as if they were the Men that can do better, and must mend all that is amiss. Such have been tryed in Licentious Times, and proved, some of them, to do more hurt than the very Drunkards, or the ignorant fort of Ministers, that did but read the holy Scriptures. Pride is too often the reprehender of other Mens Faults and Impersections, and would make other Mens Names but a stepping-stone to their own aspiring Folly: As many that have cryed out against bad Popes and Prelates, that they might get into the places, have been as bad themselves when they have their Will: No wonder if it be so with the proud revilers of the Ministry.

4. 51. There is need therefore of much Wisdome and holy care, that we here avoid the two extreams; that we grow not indifferent who are our Pastors, nor contract the Guilt of Church-corruption, but mourn for the reproach of the solemn Allemblies, and do our best for true and needful Reformation, that the Gospel sail not, and Souls be not quietly lest to Satan, nor the Church grow like the Insidel World; and yet that we neither invade nor dishonour the sacred Office, nor needlessly open the nakedness of the Persons, nor do any thing that may hinder their just endeavours and success; we must speak evil of no man either falssy or unnecessarily.

§. 52. I thought all this premonition necessary that you make not an ill use of the following History, and become not guilty of diabolism or false accusing of the Brethren, or dishonouring the Church: And that as God hath in Scripture recorded the Sins of the ungodly, and the effects of Pride and of malignity, and Christ hath foretold us that Wolves shall enter and devour the Flock, and by their Fruits (of devouring, and pricking as Thorns and Thisses) we shall know them, and the Apostles prophecied of them; I take it to be my duty to give you an Abstract of the History of Papal and aspiring Prelacy, usurping, and schissnatical, and tyrannical Councils, as knowing of how great use it is to all to know the true History of the Church, both as to good and evil.

§. 53. Yea Bishops and Councils must not be worse thought of than they deserve, no more than Presbyters, because of such abuses as I recite; The best things are abused, even Preaching, Writing, Scripture, and Reason it self, and yet are not to be rejected or dishonoured. There is an Episcopacy whose very Constitution is a Crime, and there is another fort which seemeth to me a thing convenient, lawful, and indifferent, and there is a fort which I cannot deny to be of Divine Right.

$. $4. That which I take to be it felf a Crime, is such as is a forementioned, which in its very constitution over throweth the Office, Church, and Discipline, which Christ by himself and his Spirit, in his Apostles, instituted: such I take to be that Diocesane kind which hath only one Bishop over many score or hundred fixed Parochial Assemblies; by which, 1. Parishes are made by them no Churches, as having no Ruling Pastors that have the Power of Judging whom to Baptize, or admit to Communion or refuse, but only are Chapels, having preaching Curates. 2. All the first Order of Bishops in single Churches are deposed, as if the Bishop of Antioch should have put down a 1000 Bishops about him, and made himself the sole Bishop of their Churches. 3. The Office of Presbyters is changed into semi Presbyters. 4. Discipline is made impossible, as it is for one General without inferiour Captains to Rule an Army: But of this before.

§. 55. Much more doth this become unlawful, 1. when deposing all the Presbyters from Government by the Keyes of Discipline, they put the same Keyes, even the Power of decretive Excommunication and Absolution into the hands of Laymen, called Chancellours, and set up Courts liker to the Civil than Ecclesiastical. 2. And when they oblige the Magistrate to execute their Decrees by the Sword, be they just or unjust, and to lay Men in Goals and ruine them, meetly because they are Excommunicated by Bishops, or Chancellours, or Officials, or such others, and are not reconciled: And when they threaten Princes and Magistrates with Excommunication (if not Deposition) if they do but Communicate with those that the Bishop hath Excommunicated. 3. Or when they arrogate the power of the Sword themselves, as Socrates saith Cyril did: Or without necessity joyn in one person the Office of Priesthood and Magistracy, when one is more than they can perform aright.

§. 56. And it becometh much worse by the tyrannical abuse, when (being unable and unwilling to exercise true Discipline on so many hundred Parishes) they have multitudes of Atheists, Insidels, gross ignorants, and wicked livers in Church-Communion, yea, compel all in the Parishes to Communicate on pain of Imprisonment and ruine, and turn their censures cruelly against godly persons, that dare not obey them in all their Formalities, Ceremonies, and Impositions, for sear of sinning against God. And when conniving at ignorant ungodly Priests that do but obey them, they silence and ruine the most faithful able Teachers, that obey not all their imposing Canons, and swear not, and subscribe not what they bid them.

§. 57. Undoubtedly Satan hath found it his most successful way, to fight against Christ in Christs own name, and to set up Ministers as the Ministers of Christ, to speak indirectly against the Doctrine, Servants, and interest of Christ, and as Ministers of Light and righteousness, and to fight against Church-Government, Order, Discipline, and Unity, by the pretences of Church Government, Order, Discipline, and Unity: and to cry down Schism to promote Schism, and to depress Believers by crying up Faith, and Orthodoxness, and crying down Heresie and Errour: Yea, to plead God's Name and Word against himself, and to set up Sin, by accusing Truth and Duty as Sin-

5. 58. II. That which I take for Lawful Indifferent Episcopacy is such as Hiereme saith, was introduced for the avoiding of divisions, though it was not from the beginning: When among many Elders in every single Church, one of most wisdom and gravity is made their President, yea, without whom no Ordinations or great matters shall be done. The Churches began this so early, and received it so universally, and without any considerable dissent or opposition, even before Emperours became Christians, that I dare not be one that shall set against it, or dishonour such Episcopacy.

§. 50. Yea, if where fit men are wanting to make Magistrates, the King shall make Bishops Magistrates, and joyn two Offices together, laying no more work on them than will consist with their Ecclesiastick work, though this will have inconveniencies. I shall not be one that shall disho-nour fuch, or disobey them.

§. 60. III. The Episcopacy, which I dare not say is not of Gods institution, (besides that each Pastor is Episcopus Gregis,) is that which succeedeth the Apostles in the Ordinary part of Church-Government, while some Senior Pastors have a supervising care of many Churches, (as the Visiters had in Scotland,) and are so far Episcopi Episcoporum, and Arch-bishops, having no constraining power of the Sword, but a power to admonish and instruct the Pastors, and to regulate Ordinations, Synods, and all great and common circumstances that belong to Churches. For if Christ set up one Form of Government in which some Pastors had so extensive work and power, (as Timothy, Titus, and Evangelists as well as Apostles had) we must not change it without proof, that Christ himself would have it

§. 61. But if men on this pretence will do as Rome hath done, pretend one Apostle to be the Governour of all the rest, and that they have now that Authority of that Apostle, and will make an Universal Monarch to rule at the Antipodes, and over all the World, or will set up Patriarchs, Primates, Metrapolitans and Arch-bishops, with power to tyrannize over their Brethren, and cast them out, and on pretence of Order, and imitating the Civil Government, to master Princes, or captivate the Churches to their pride and worldly interests, this will be the worst and most pernicious tyranny.

§. 62. And asit is not all Episcopacy, so it is not all Councils that I design this History to dishonour. No doubt but Christ would have his Church to be as far One, as their natural political and gracious capacities will allow: And to do all his work in as much love, peace, and concord as they can: And to that end, both seasonable Councils, and Letters, and Delegates for Concord and Communication, are means which nature it felf directeth them to, as it doth direct Princes to hold Parliaments and Dvets. In the multitude of Councellours there is fafety: Even frequent converse keepeth up amity: In absence slanderers are heard, and too oft believed: A little familiarity in presence consuteth many salse reports of one another, which no distant defences would so satisfyingly consute. And among many we may hear that which of few we should not hear. How good and pleasant is it for Brethren to dweltogether in Unity? And the Concord of Christians greatly honoureth their holy profession, as discord becometh a scandal to the world. But all this, and the measures and fort of Unity and Concord which we may expect, and the true way to attain it. I have fullier opened in a Treatife entitled, The true and only terms of the Concord of all Christian Churches.

§. 63. When Christians had no Princes or Magistrates on their side, they had no sufficient means of keeping up Unity and Concord for mutual help and strength, without meetings of Pastors to carry on their common work by consent. But their meetings were only with those that had nearness or neighbourhood: And they did not put men to travel to Synods out of other Princes Dominions, or from Foreign Lands, much less did they call any General Councils out of all the Christian Churches in the world. But those that were capable of Communion by proximity, and of helping one another, were thought enough to meet for such

§. 64. And indeed neither nature nor Scripture obligeth us to turn fuch occasional helps into the forms of a State-policy, and to make a Government of friendly consultations. And therefore though where it may be done without fear of degenerating into tyranny, known times of stated Synods or meetings of Pastors for Concord are best, (as once a month in lesser meetings, and once a quarter in greater,) yet where there is danger of such degeneracy, it is better to hold them but pro re natâ, occasionally, at various seasons and places.

9. 65. The leffer Synods and correspondency of Pastors before there were Christian Magistrates were managed much more humbly and harmlefly than the great ones afterward: Because that men and their interest and motives differed. And even of later times, there have been few Conncils called General, that have been managed fo blamelefly, or made fo many profitable Canons, as many Provincial or smaller Synods did. Divers Toletane Councils, and many others in Spain, England, and other Countries have laboured well to promote piety and peace: As did the African Synods, and many others of old. And fuch as these have been serviceable to the Church. And the Greater Councils, though more turbulent have many of them done great good, against Heresie and Vice; especially the first at Nice: And nothing in this Book is intended to cloud their worth and glory, or to extenuate any good which they have done: But I am thankful to God that gave his Church so many worthy Pastors, and made fo much use as he did of many Synods for the Churches purity and peace.

$. 66. But the true reason of this Collection, and why I have besides good products, made so much mention of the errours and mischiefs that many Councils have been guilty of, are these following.

I. The carnal and aspiring part of the Clergy, do very ordinarily, under the equivocal names of Bishops, consound the Primitive Episcopacy with the Diocesane tyranny before described: And they make the ignorant believe, that all that is said in Church-Writers for Episcopacy, is said for their Diocesane Species: And while they put down an hundred or a thousand Bishops and Churches of the Primitive Species, they make men believe that it is they that are for the old Episcopacy, and we that are against it, and that it is we and not they that are against the Church: while we are submissive to them as Arch-bishops, if they would but leave Parishes to be Churches (or Great Towns formerly called Cities at least) and make the Discipline of all Churches but a possible practicable thing.

§. 67. II. And to promote their ends, as these men are for the largest Diocesses and turning a thousand Churches into one only, so they are commonly for violent Administration, ruling by constraint, and either usurping the power of the sword themselves, or perswading and urging the Magistrate to punish all that obey not their needless impositions, and reproaching or threatning (at least) the Magistrates that will not be their Executioners. And making themselves the Church sanstern.

the Churches consent) their Office is exercised in putting out the Lights, sometimes hundreds of saithful Ministers being silenced by their means in a little time. And they take the sword of Discipline or power of the Keys as the Church used it 300 years to be vain, unless prisons or mulces enforce it. And to escape the Primitive poverty, they overthrow the Primitive Church, Form, and Discipline, and tell men, All this is for the Churches honour and peace.

5. 68. Yea all that like not their arrogances and grandure, they render odious as Aerian Hereticks or Schismaticks, provoking men to hate and revile them, and Magistrates to destroy them, as intolerable. And by making their own numerous Canons and Inventions necessary to Ministry and Church-Communion, they will leave no place for true unity and peace, but tear the Churches in pieces by the racks and engines of their brains and wills.

§. 69. III. Yea worse than all this, there are some besides the French Papists, who tell the world, That the Universal Church on Earth is one visible political body, having a visible Head or Supreme vicarious Government under Christ, even a Collective Supreme, that hath universal Legislative, Judicial and Executive power. And they make this Summa Potestas Constitutive of the Church Universal, and say that this is Christs body out of which none have his Spirit nor are Church-members, and that there is no Unity or Concord but in abeying this supreme visible power; And that there is in General Councils and in the intervals in a College of Bishops Successors of the Apostles, (I know not who or where, unless it be all the Bishops as scattered over the earth) and that they rule per literas formatas: (as others say, It is the Pope and Roman Clergy or Cardinals.)

§. 70. And when our Christianity, Salvation, Union and Communion, yea, our Lives, Liberties and mutual forbearances, and Love, is laid upon this very form of Church-policy and Prelacy, and Christ is supposed to have such a Church as is not in the World, even constituted with a Visible Vicarious Collective Soveraign, that must make Laws for the whole Christian World, it's time to do our best to save men from this deceit.

S. 71. I must confess, If I believed that the Whole Church had any Head or Soveraign under Christ, I should rather take it to be the Pope than any one, finding no other regardable Competitor. He is uncapable of ruling at the Antipodes and all the Earth; but a General Council is much more uncapable, and so are the seigned College of Pastors or Bia.

S: 72. IV. And a blind zeal against errour, called Heresie, doth crydown the necessary Love and to leration of many tolerable Christians; And some cry, down with them, and away with them that erre more themselves, and by their measures would leave but sew Christians endured by one another in the World: Thus do they teach us to understand Solomon, Eccl. 7. 16. Be not righteous and wife overmuch: so much are these men for Unity, that they will leave no place for much Unity on earth. As if none shoulds should be tolerated but men of one Stature, Complexion, &c.

§. 73. Briefly, they do as one that would fet up a Family Government, made up of many hundred or thousand Families dissolved and turned into one, and ruled supremely by a Council of the Heads of such enlarged Families, and then tell us, that this is not to alter the old Species of Families, but to make them greater that were before too small: Keep but the same name, and a City is but a Family still. And when they have done, they would have none endured, but cast out, imprisoned or banished, as seditious, that are for any smaller Family than a City, (or any lesser School than an University:) And these City Governours must in one Convention rule all the Kingdom, and in a greater all the World.

§. 74. I shall therefore first tell you, what errour must not be tolerated, and then by an Epitome of Church-History, Bishops and Councils and Popes, shew the ignorant so much of the Matter of Fact, as may tell them who have been the Cause of Church-corruptions, Herefies, Schisms and Sedition, and how: And whether such Diocesane Prelacy and grandure be the Cure, or ever was. And, if God will, in a Second Volume shall prove the sinfulness and novelty of that fort of Prelacy, and answer the chief that have defended it.

Of Herefies, and of the first Councils.

5. 1. He Apostle James saith, ch. 5.19,20. Brethren, if any one of you do erre from the truth, and one convert him, Let him know that he that converteth a sinner from the errour of his way, doth savea soul from death, and hide a multitude of sins. By which it is implyed, that Errour tendeth unto Death: But what Errour is it? Is it all? Who then can be saved? It is of great use to know, what Errours are mortal, and what not.

§. 2. There are errours that are no fins, and errours that are fins. Those which are not voluntary either in themselves, or in their antecedent causes, are no sins: Those which are not voluntary either by the act or by the omission of the will, are no sins. Those which are unavoidable through a necessity which is not moral but natural, are no sin: As if Infants, Idiots, Mad-men, erre in matters of which they are uncapable: Or if any erre for want of any revelation of the truth. As if the Papists did rightly charge those with errours whom they burnt for denying Transubstantiation, yet it could be no finful errour, because it is necessary and unavoidable. For the first discerning principle is sense: And if we are deceived while we judge that to be Bread and Wine, which all the found fenses of all men in the World perceive as such, we have no remedy. For whether sense be fallible or infallible, it is certain that we have no other faculties and organs to perceive immediately fensible things by. I can see by nothing but my eyes, nor hear any other way than by my ears. If they fay, that we must believe that all mens senses are deceived when God telleth us so? I answer, If we do not presuppose that by sense we must perceive things sensible, it is in vain to talk of Gods telling us anything, or of any of his Revelations, or faith therein: For I know not but by sense, that there is a Bible, or a Man, or a Voice or Word, to be believed. And as humanity is presuppofed to Christianity, so is sense and reason to faith and the objects according-17. And to fay, that all mens found fenfes about their due placed objects are fallible, is but to fay, that no certainty can be had.

S. 3. Of those errours that are fins, it is not all that are effectively mortal or damning sins: Eise no man could be saved. There is no man that hath not a multitude of errours, that hath any actualuse of reason.

9. 4. Errours are of three forts: 1. Errours of Judgment (to fay nothing thing of sense and imagination.) 2. Of Will; 3. Of Life, or practice. The Judgment is to Guide the Will; and the Will is to command our practice. Therefore those errours are least dangerous that least corrupt the Will and practice, and those most dangerous that most corrupt them. But every errour contrary to any useful truth is bad, as it is a corruption of the judgment, tending to corrupt the will and practice.

9. 5. 1. No errour is effectively damning which turneth not the Heart or Will in a predominant degree from the Love of God to the Love of the Creature, from the Love of Heaven and Holiness to the prevalent Love of Earth, and sinful pleasure, riches or honour therein; from things Spiritual to things Carnal: For God hath prepared unconceivable glory for them that Love him: The Kingdom of God consistent not in meats and drinks, but in righteousness, peace and joy in the holy Ghost: And he that in these things serveth Christ, doth please God, and is acceptable to (good) men, Rom. 14. 17, 18.

§. 6. 2. I think no errour is effectively damning which a man doth fincerely defire to be delivered from at any rate, and when he that hath it doth faithfully endeavour to come to the knowledge of the truth, in the use of such means as God wouchsafeth him: He that searcheth the Scripture with a Love to truth, and sincerely prayeth for Gods illumination, and sincerely practiceth what he already knoweth, and is willing to hear what any man can say to his Further information, God will hide nothing necessary to his salvation from such a man. For this is a work of such dispositive Grace, as shall not be received in vain.

$. 7. Obj. But may not one that believe that in God, or Christ, or the Life to come, fay all this, that he defireth and endeavoureth to know the truth?

Ans. 1. These things are so Great, so Evident, and so Necessary, that they cannot be unknown to one that hath the Gospel, who hath the foresaid sincere desires and endeavours. And as for them that have not the Gospel, I have spoken to their case before. 2. God that giveth so much grace doth thereby signific his willingness to give more.

A f. 1. Not the first Grace: But to him that hath (and improve thit) shall be given, and from him that hath not (such improvement) shall be taken a-way even that which he hath. 2. No Grace or Glory is given according to Merits in point of Commutative Justice, as quid pro quo, as if it did profit God. But to him that asketh it shall be given. We must have a Beggers Merit: Begging and thankful accepting; And yet that also is of antecedent Grace.

§. 9. On the contrary, 1. All errour is damning which excludeth the life of faith, hope, love and sincere obedience: For these are of necessity to salvation: without holiness none shall see God, Itch. 12. 14. The wisdom from above is first pure, and then peaceable, and must be shewn out of a good conversation by works with meekness of wisdom, Jam. 3. 13, 17. He that Loveth not God, Heaven, and Holiness, with a predominant Love. doth damnably erre.

§. 10. Secondly, Therefore all errour of judgment which effettively excludeth the belief of any of the Effentials of Godliness, or of Christianity where the Gospel is, is damning errour: Because a Mans Will and Life can be no better than his belief or judgment is. No man can love that God that he believeth not to be amiable, nor obey him whom he believeth not to be his Governour; nor seeks for a happiness which he believeth not; And it is in the sace of Christ, a Redeemer, and Saviour of lost Sinners, that Gods amiableness suitably appeareth unto man: And it is by his Word and holy Spirit that Christ reneweth Souls.

S. 11. And an ungodly carnal worldly man (though he be a learned Preacher of the Truth) is damnably erroneous, and hath really the fum of manifold Herefies: 1. He erreth about the greatest and most necessary things: He taketh Ged to be less amiable than the Creature, and Heaven than Earth, and Holiness than the Pleasure of Sin. 2. His errour is practical and not only notional: 3. It excludeth the contrary truth, and is predominant; so that what contrary truth he acknowledgeth, he doth not foundly, practically, and prevailingly believe.

§. 12. Were it not besides my present purpose I might manifest that every carnal ungodly man among us, 1. Doth not truly believe any one Article of the Creed with a serious practical belief; 2. Nor doth he consent to the Baptismal Covenant; 3. Nor sincerely desire and put up one Petition of the Lords Prayer, rightly understood; 4. Nor sincerely obey one of the Ten Commandements; 5. Nor can sincerely receive the Sacrament of the Lords Supper; Nor, 6. Is a sincere Member of the holy Catholick Church, nor can sincerely hold Communion with the Saints: He is an Hypocrite and damnably erroneous, even while he seemeth to be Orthodox and pleadeth for the Truth, and cryeth out against Heresies and Errours; which he may cafily and ordinarily do.

§. 13. It hath still been one of Satans effectual Snares to deceive and damn ungodly men by, to hide their own practical errour and wickedness from their Consciences, by seeming to be Orthodox, and crying down Errours and Heresies in others: But alas, how unfit persons are they for fuch Work? And how dreadfully do they condemn themselves? It is a pitiful thing to hear a man that is false to the very essence of his Baptismal Vow, to revile and profecute a poor Anabaptist (though erroneous) for holding that Baptism should be delayed till years of discretion that it may be the better kept: Or to hear a man that obeyeth not God himself, but his sleshly Lust, to cry out against every Dissenter, how confcionable foever, for not obeying the Church in some questionable points: or to hear a man that sticketh not at any wickedness that maketh for his worldly ends or pleasure, to cry out against those that in sear of Perjury or Lying or other finning against God, dare not take some Oath, Subscription, Profession, or Covenant which is imposed: As these notorious Hypocrites who live quite contrary to the Christian Religion which they profess, douse to call those Hypocrites that labour in all things to please God. God, if they do but mislike any thing in their Lives. So also while they are drowned in damnable Errour, they cry out against Errour in those that practically hold all the Essentials of Christianity, and are certainly in the way of Life, if they do differ in any thing from them, or are ignorant of any thing which they know. He that never puts up a sincere Prayer to God for his Grace, nay, that would not have it, to make him holy, and deprive him of his sinful pleasure, will yet call others erroneous and Schismaticks, if they pray not by his Book, or in all his Circumstances; while his Heart and Family are prayerless, and God's Name ofter heard in Oaths and Curses than in Prayer.

§ 1.4. Because bare opinion may consist with worldliness and slessly lusts, therefore it hath long been the trick of the ungodly to seem zealous for the true Church, and for right opinions, and to over do here to quiet their Consciences in Sin: And it hath been a Snare to many conscionable People, to tempt them to suspect and dislike the Truth, because ungodly Men thus stand for it; and to think it must be some bad thing which wicked men seem so zealous for: when as they do it but for a cover for their Sin, as Hypocrites and Oppressors use long Prayers, which would not serve their turn if there were not fome good in it.

§. 15. And yet Errour is such a blinding thing, that it's very usual even for grolly erroneous men, to cry out most fiercely against Errour: For they know not themselves, and they are proud and self conceited, and oft by malignity apt to suspect and condemn others. What did the Jews perfecute the Christians for? For supposed Heresie and Errour: What did the Heathens cast them to wild Beasts and Torments for? For supposed Impiety and Errour: because they would not erre in their Idolatry as they did. What hath disquieted and torn in pieces the Christian World, but erroneous and worldly Popes, Patriarcks, and Prelates inordinate out-crys against supposed Errours? For what have they silen. ced hundreds and thousands of faithful Ministers of Christ? for Errour. For what have they racked, tormented, burnt to affect, and flain by the Sword fo many thousand, and hundred thousands? O, it was for Herefie or Errour. And are not these men persectly free from Errour themfelves, that have fo great a zeal against it? No, so gross erroneous are they, that they deny credit to all mens Senses, and know not Bread and Wine when they see, and touch, and taste it; and would have all those destroyed that will not deny belief to fer fe as well as they: So erroneous are they, that they pretend a mortal man to be the Church Governour of all the Earth; so erroncous, that they think God well Worshipped by praying in words not understood; and dare deny half the Sacrament of the Lords Supper to the People, which they confess that he instituted, and all the Church did use; so erroneous, that they think the slames of Purgatory will help them the better to love that God that doth torment them. How foul and many are their Errours that kill, and burn, and damn others. as erroneous? But S. James hath told us, Jam. 3. That the Wisdom is not from:

from above, but is earthly, sensual, and devillish, which hath an envious striving zeal; and that if it work not by meekness of wisdom, and be not pure, peaceable, gentle, easie to be intreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality and hypocrisie, sowing the fruit of rightcousness in peace, by peacemaking, but hath bitter contention, it is not of God, but bringeth confusion and every evil work.

§. 16. The Arians were cruel Perfecutors, on pretence of zeal against Errour, as they accounted it: They banished godly Pastors; they killed them, they cut out the Preachers Tongues; they reproached them. The Emperours Valens and Constantius were more fierce than the Arian Goths themselves.

Macedonius that denyed the Deity of the Holy Gheft, was a great pretender to Orthodoxness, and a great decryer and persecutor of others, as erroneous and Hereticks.

Nesterius (though somewhat worse judged of by Cyril than he deserved) was justly condemned, were it but for his heat and serceness against others: He sell presently upon the Novatians and other Parties, and began with this overdoing zeal at his entrance, O Emperour, give me a Church without Heresie, and I will give thee Vistory over the Persians: that is, Destroy all these dissenting Parties and God will prosper thee: And very quickly was he deposed, condemned, and at last banished even to misery and death as an Heretick (whether justly or no I shall say more anon.)

The Eutychians were as great Zealots against Errour and Heresie as any of the rest: They took Cyril for their Captain whom Theodoret and Isydore Pelusiota that knew him, describe as heynously proud and turbulent, and Socrates as the first Bishop that himself used the Sword. Dioscorus raged at the second Council of Ephesus against dissenters, and all in Zeal against Nestorian Heresie. But what dreadful work his Eutychian Party and Successors made, I have elsewhere shewed: And all as against Heresie.

The Anthropomorphite zealous Egyptian Monks thought it was Errour and Herefie which they so suriously opposed, when they forced Theophilus Alexand. to dissemble to fave his Life.

It was zeal against Origens Heresie and Errour which set Epiphanius and Theophilus Alexand. upon their irregular and inhumane opposition to Chrysossen.

What abundance of gross Errours doth Philastrius vend while he thinks that he reciteth other Mens Errours: I have given a Catalogue of them elsewhere. Besides the inconsiderable Errours which he calleth Heresies.

It was zeal against the Arian Heresie which made Lucifer Calaritanus occasion the Schissin between two Bishops at Antioch, and after become the Head of a separating Party, because he would not receive the returning Arians into Communion as others did.

And it was zeal against Heresie that made others for this account him a Heretick, and call his Followers Luciferians.

It was zeal against Erront which made both the Novatians and the Donat sts matists run into Errour, and keep up their Parties as more pure from the Crimes of Idolaters, Traditors, Libellaticks, and other Criminals.

Sulpitius Severus describeth Ithacius as a man that cared not what he said or did, and the rest of the Synod of Bishops about him as unsit to be communicated with; that would bring Christianity it self into reproach by their furious opposition to Hereticks: And who would have thought but these Bishops had been very good men themselves, that were so zealous against the Priscillianists, as to procure the Death of some, and the Banishment of others, and bring Martin himself, and other strict abstenious people into the suspicion of Priscillianism?

It was a zeal for Christ, and against supposed Errour, which raised the doleful contention about the corruptibility of Christ's Body; one Party calling the others Phantasiasticks, and the other calling them Corrupticals; into which Errour the Emperour Justinian himself did lapse and become a zealous Herctick, as the Orthodox Party called him.

And even S. Hilary Pictav. l. 10. de Trinit. seemeth not free, when, p. 205. he faith [In quem quamvis aut ictus incideret, aut vulnus descenderet, aut nodi concurrerent, aut suspensio elevaret, afferrent quidem hac impetum passionis. non tamen dolorem passionis inferrent, ut telum aliquod aut aquam perforans, aut ignem compungens, aut ara vulnerans : Omnes quidem has passiones natura sue infert, ut perforct, ut compungat, ut vulneret; sed naturam suam hac passio illata non retinet; dum in natura non est vel aguam forari, vel pungi ignem, vel ara vulnerari, quamvis natura teli sit vulnerare & compungere & forare: Paffus quidem Dominus Jesus Christus dum caditur, dum suspenditur, dum crucifizitur, dum moritur; sed in Corpus Domini irruens passio, nec non fuit passio, nec tamen naturam passionis exercuit : Cum & panali ministerio illa desavit, & virtus corporis sine sensu pana vim pana in se desavientis excepit.] Yet it was against Heresic that the good Father desended this (worse than many of Philastrius, yea or Epiphanius's Heresies.) Pag. 208. saith he, Mctum Domino heresis ascribit : - Timuisse tibi, O Heretice, Dominus gloria passionem videtur - Pag. 216. Non vis, impie haretice, ut transcunte palmas clavo Christus non doluerit, neg, vulnus illud nullam accrbicatem teli compungentis intulerit. Interrogo, cur pueri ignes non timuerint nec doluerint-So p. 217, 218, you fee how little heed is to be given oft to good mens outcries against Heresie: He spake much better, ibid. pag. 231. In simplicitate fides est; in fide justitia est; in confessione pictas est: Non per difficiles nos Deus ad beatam vitam questiones vocat; nec multiplici eloquentis sacundia genere solicitat. In absoluto nobis ac facili est aternitas, Jesum suscitatum a mortuis per Deum credere, & ipsum esse Dominum conficeri.] And Lib. 11. p. 332. initio [Non enim ambiguis nos & erraticis indefinita doctrine studiis dereliquit, vel incertis opinionibus ingenia humana permisit, statutis per se & oppositis obicibus in libertatem intelligentia voluntatifq; concluders, nt sapere non nist ad id tantum quod pradicatum à se fuerat, nos sintret, cum pr definitam fidei indemutabilis constitutionem, credi aliter atque aliter non liceret.

§. 17. And it is not only particular persons, but many General Councils, that have erred and perfecuted others; as if all the while they were but cleaning the Church of the most odious Heresies.

The many Councils of the Arians I may after touch upon, viz. at Tyre, Ariminum, Syrmium, &c. I will before its time here mention that of Sardica: What horrid Herefies and Villanies do they lay to the charge (not only of Marcellus, but) of Athanasus, of Paulus Constant. of Julius Bishop of Rome, of Prothogenes, and others, whom they excommunicate as if they had been the very plagues of the earth? See the Copies of their Epistle in Hilary Piet. Fragments, p. 414, Co.

§. 18. And because Papal Approbation is made by the Papists the mark of an unerring and infallible Council, note that even the Arian Council of Syrmium was expresly approved by Pope Liberius in his Exile, as you may fee in Hilary, ibid. p. 426, 427. faying, [Itag; anioto Athanasio à communione omnium nostrum, cujus nec Epistolia à me suscipienda sunt, dico me parem cum omnibus vobis, & cum Universis Episcopis orientalibus, seu per universas provincias pacem & unitatem habere: Nam ut verius sciatis me vera fide per hanc Epistolam ca loqui, Dominus & frater meus communis Demofilus, qui dignatus est pro sua benevolentia fidem & catholicam exponere qua Syrmium à pluribus fratribus & co-episcopis nostris tractata, exposita, & suscepta est, ab omnibus qui in prasenti fuerunt, banc ego libenti animo suscepi; in nullo contradixi; confensum accommodavi, banc seguer, bac à me tenetur; Sane petendum credidi Sanctitatem Vestram, quia tam pervidetis in omnibus me vobis consentaneum esse, dignemini communi auxilio ac studio laborare, quitenus de exilio dimittar, & ad sedem, que mihi divinitàs credita est, revertar.] In reciting of which Hilary thrice saith [Anathema tibi, Liberi prevaricator] --- If they fay that Liberius did this in his Exile through fear or fuffering, lanswer, his Sufferings were small; and Hilary annexeth another of his Epistles to the Arian Bishops, in which he sweareth or calleth God himself to witness, that it is not for his Sufferings which are not great, but for the Peace of the Church, of which he knew those Bishops to be Lovers, and which is better than Martyrdom, that he did what he did.

4. 19. I. Before these there were many Provincial Councils called to decide the Controversic of the time of Easter; and as that at Rome, in Palestine, Pontius, and one in France went one way; so that of Asia, under Polycrates Ephef. went another way, professing to stick therein to the Gospel, and the Tradition of their Fathers: For which Victor would needs excommunicate them, which Ireneus fliarply reprehendeth. Its worth the noting, That as the wrong party pleaded Tradition, fo the right party pleaded Reason and Scripture, as you may see in Beda's Fragment of the Palestine Council, sub Theoph. Casar. Bin. T. 1. p. 132. And that the main argument used was the Divine Benediction of the Lords day: which they may note, that question the ancient observation of that day.

. S. 20. II. The next Council recorded (Bin. p. 135.) is one at Carthage,

under Agrippinus, which decreed the re-baptizing of those that were baptized by Hereticks: For which they are commonly now condemned.

§. 21. And Binnius noteth that they had this from their Countryman Tertullian, whose zeal against Hereticks was so hot, that he would have nothing, no not Baptism, common with them; so Baron. an. 217. n. 1, 2, 3. & an. 258. n. 19, 20. Yet is this man now numbered with Hereticks.

9. 22. III. The Concilium Labesitanum is the next in order, where one Privatus was condemned for an Heretick (mentioned by Cyprian, Epist. 55.) But, faith Binnius, what his Heresic was is not known nor mentioned.

§. 23. IV. Next we have an Arabian Council, in which the Errour of the Souls Mortality (allowing it only to rife again with the Body at the Refurrection) was excellently oppugned and expugned by Origen; but it was by that Onigen who himself is called a blasphemous Heretick.

§. 24. V. The next mentioned Council (Bin. p. 158.) was at Rome, about the restoring of the Lapsed upon Cyprian's motion. A business that made no small difference, while Lucianus and some others made the Church-door too wide, and Novatus, and Novatianus made it too narrow, and Cyprian and the Roman Clergy went a middle way: bitter and grievous were the Censures of each other, and long and sad the Schisms that did ensue, the rigour of the Novatians being increased by their Offence at other mens

§. 25. By the way it is worth the considering by some Papists, who make both a Bishop Essential to a Church, and a Pope to the Church-Universal, and deny Church-Government to Presbyters, that this Council is said to be called by the Roman Clergy (the Presbyters and Deacons) when the Church had been a year or two without a Bishop (through the sharp persecution of Decius upon Fabian's Death). And it is to the Roman Clergy (Presbyters and Deacons) that Cyprian at this time wrote divers of his Epistles, as they wrote to him; insomuch that Binnius sticketh not to say, that in this interregnum the Roman Clergy had the care or charge of the Universal Church.

Quar. How far their Government, even of Bishops (whom they Assem-blcd in this Council) was Canonical or valid?

§. 26. VI. After this there was another Council at Carthage, and two at Rome, and one in Italy, and another at Carthage, about the same Controversie; where it was determined that the Lapsed should be received to Repentance, and after a sufficient space of Penance, should communicate, but not sooner: And that the Bishops that lapsed should be uncapable of Episcopaey and communicate only with the Laity upon their penance: Yet Cyprian in time of a renewed Persecution thought meet to relax this, and take in the Penitent presently, less they should be discouraged under Suffering. But Fasheissimus one of his Deacons made himself the Head of a Fastion, by taking men in by his own Authority too soon, and Novatus and Novatian, as is said, being against their taking into Communion at all, the Councils excontinuaicated them all as Schismaticks. Where note, that Novatus an African Priest, that went to Rome and got Novatian ordained Bishop, did not deny them Pardon of Sin with God, but only Church-Communion. 2. Nor did he deny this to other great Sinners repenting, but only to those that lapsed to Idolatry or denying Christ. But the Novatians long after extended it to other heynous Crimes, as upon supposed parity of Reason.

§. 27. VII. Next this we have Cyprians African Council in which (after the censuring of some that reproached a Pastor) they condemn a Dead Man called Victor, because by his Will he left one Faustinus a Presbyter the Guardian of his Sons, which the Canons had forbidden, because no Ministers of God should be called from their facred Work to meddle with Secular things: Therefore they Decree that Victors Name shall not be mentioned among the Dead in Deprecation, nor any Oblation made for his Rest. (Non est quod pro dormitione ejus apud vos siat oblatio, ant deprecatio aliqua nomine ejus in Ecclessa frequentetur.) The case of the Clergy is much altered since then; And whether the penalty had more of Piety, as to the end, or Errour in the rigor, and the matter (as if it were a Punishment to the Dead, not to be offered for, or prayed sor) I leave to surther consideration, Cypr. li. 1. Epist. 66.

$. 28. VIII. The next Council we meet with is Concil. Iconiense an. 258. where the Bishops of Cappadocia, Cilicia, Calatia, and other Oriental Provinces at Iconium in Phrygia, Decreed that the Baptisms of Hereticks, their Ordinations, Imposition of Hands, and other sacred Actions were invalid. For which, saith Baronius an. 258. n. 14, 15, 16. Pope Stephen Excommunicated all these Oriental Bishops, and Reprobated the Council, and would not receive or hear their Legates: Of which Firmilianus Casar. Cap-pad. writeth to Cyprian against him.

§. 29. IX. At the same time, Euseb. lib. 7.c. 6. tells us, there was also a Synod at Synadis, yea, divers in other places, that all decreed the same thing, for rebaptizing those that were baptized by Hereticks; and that this had been the Bishops opinion of so long time before, that Eusebius durst not condemn it. V.d. Baron. Anno 258. n. 17. But it is now commonly condemned.

§. 30. X. If they had confined their opinion of rebaptizing to such Hereticks as are strictly so called, that renounce any estential Article of the Faith, they might have made the Controversie hard; But as Hereticating increased, so their own difficulties increased. And now the Novatians were pronounced Hereticks, it grew a hard question, whether all that the Novatians had baptized must be rebaptized. And for this an African Council, Anno 258. concluded affirmatively: Because all that are baptized are baptized into the Church: But Hereticks are not in the Church, and so baptize not into the Church: therefore such must be rebaptized. Cyprian and many very Godly Bishops consented in this errour.

declare what was the Tradition of their Fathers; And they all agreed that according to Scripture, and Tradition, the Baptism of Hereticks was a Nullity, and it was no rebaptization to baptize such as they baptized: (see here what strength is in the Papists argument of Tradition in such cases.) But this Council and their Doctrine Pope Stephen condemned: But they never the more altered their judgments, not believing his Infallibity or power to judge between them in such matters of Faith.

In this Council is set down every Bishops Reason of his Judgment.

§. 32. XII. When Pope Stephen had condemned these Bishops, Cyprian calleth yet a greater Council of 87 Bishops, who confirmed the same Doctrine, and rejected the Popes opinion and his arrogancies, that would make himself to be a Bishop of Bishops, and by tyrannical terrour and abuse of Excommunication, force others to his opinion. And with the Africans in this judgment joyned Firmilian, with 70 Asian Bishops, and saith Binnius.

Dionysius Alexandrinus also.

S. 33. But I must here tell the Reader, that I mention not these instances to breed ill thoughts in him of these African and Numidian Bishops: For as far as I can differ by their Writings and by History, they were the Godliest, Faithful, Peaceable company of Bishops that were found in any part of the World fince the Apostles times: Cyprian's style and the testimony of all just History which concerneth him, as well as his Martyrdome, declare him to be a Saint indeed. (Nazianzen declareth the strange occasion of his Conversion; viz. That he loved or lusted after a Christian Virgin, and when he could not obtain his will, being given to Magick, he agreed with the Devil to procure his defire; but when he faw that the Devil confest himself unable to do it, and so that he was too weak for Christ, he for fook the Devil and turned Christian:) The Papills (Bimins, Baronius, &c.) conjecture that Cyprian before his death reformed this Errour, but their conjecture meerly tells us what they wish, without any reason. but that he dyed a Martyr and his Successours honoured him. Asif none might fo die and be honoured that had any errour, which no man living is without. 2. And this may be faid to excuse their errour. 1. That the strictest men oftner erre on the stricter side against sing than the complying Carnal Clergy. 2. That they thought it the fafer way to baptize such again, (on the same reason as we do in case of uncertain baptiline, with a finon baptizatuses, baptizo te;) not knowing why there should be any danger in the mistake: Much like as in England now, the Bishops are for the re-Ordaining of all fuch as were Ordained by others that were not Diocesanes, and yet do not call it re-Ordaining. 3. That in those times of Heathenisme and persecution, the Christians had no way to maintain their strength but by the Churches Concord; nor could they otherwise have kept up so strict a discipline as they did, having no forcing power of Christian Magistrates: Therefore they were necessitated to be severe with dividers. 4. And the ambiguity of the word [Herefie] was not the least occasion of their errour. The Nicene Council afterward repaptized such as those Hepeticks reticks Baptized, who corrupted the substance of baptisme it self, but not others. And Christians at first had more wit and charity than to call every errour a Heresie, (else there had been none but Hereticks:) such as denyed some essential point of faith or practice, and drew a party to maintain it, were called Hereticks in the former times; but afterward every Schism or Party that gathered by themselves, and set up altare contra altare upon the smallest difference, was called a Heresie. And so the same name applyed to another thing, deceived them. The Bishops were men of eminent piety and worth.

§. 34. XIII. Anno 263. They say there was a Council at Rome to clear Dionysius Alexand. of the imputation of Heresie, occasioned by some doubtful words which he wrote against Sabellius.

§. 35. XIV. Anno 266. They fay there was another at Antioch against their Bishop Paulus Samosatenus, a gross Heretick: But he renounced his errour in words, and for that time kept his place.

§. 3.6. XV. Paulus returning to his Herefie and a bad life, Anno 272. another Council at Antioch deposed him; but he would not go out of the Bishops house, and the Emperour Aerelian a Heathen put him out.

§. 37. XVI. Anno 303. The next Council was at Cirta in Numidia, Secunders Tigificanus being chief and calling them. Here Secundus accused the Bishops one by one as Traditors (d:livering the facred books to be burnt in perfecution to fave themselves, which was then judged perfidiousness.) The Bishops partly excused, partly confessed it, and asked pardon; Till at last Secundus ready to judge them, accused a Bishop Purpuriss of murdering his own Sifters Sons: who told him that he should not think to terrifie him as he had done the rest; He had killed, and would kill those that make against him; and asked him whether he had not been a Traditor himfelf, and beginning to evince it, bid him not provoke him to tell the rest: Whereupon Secundus his Nephew told his linkle, You fee that he is ready to depart and make a Schiffin, and not he only but all the rest, and you hear what they fay against you: And then they will joyn and pass sentence on you, and so you will remain the only Heretick (Hereticating went then by the Vote) Secur dus was nonplust, and askt two others, what it was best to do? And they agreed to leave them all to God, and so the Bishops kept their places. Augustin. cont. Crescon. 1. 3. c. 26, 27.

5. 38. XVII. Next they deliver us Confilium Sinueffmum, whether true or forged is too hard a controversie. It was of three hundred Bishops (how big were their Diocesses think you above our Parishes?) who all came secretly together to a Town now unknown, and met in a Cave that would hold but 50 at a time, for sear of persecution: The business was to Convict Pope Marcellimus of Idolatry, for offering sacrifice to Hercules, Jupiter, and Saturn:

S. 39. XVIII. Anno 305. Was held a Council of 19 Bishops at Illiberis in Spain: where many good things were agreed on: But not only to the Idolation: Laple 1, but to other helpous crimes they denyed Communion to the death, notwithstanding repensance. And that these B shops should be Orthodox, and yet the Novatians Hereticks, it is not easie to give a reason Alfassiof. Their diffinction of Penance, Sucrament, and Communion, will not well needly manned to the sucrement of perform it. Therefore Melch. Canus chargeth them with Errour lib. 5 c.4. keth the and Bella mine much more, lib. 2. de Imag. c. 9. That it is Concilium non confir- best of it. matum, frequenter erriffe, c'c. A Bishop, Priest or Deacon in Office, that But of hath committed Fornication, was not to have Communion, no not at death: Can. 34. and divers others. No Bishop was to receive any Gift from any one that a worse did not Communicate. It poseth the Papists themselves to expound Can. sence than 34. Cereos per diem plaeuit in Camiterio nen incendi: Inquietandi enim Sanctorum this of Spiritus non funt: Binnius will have it to be the Spirits of the living Saints, Binnius. that are not to be disquieted with trouble about Lights set up by day. But I wish that be the meaning. But the 36 Can. more troubleth them, Placuit picturas in Ecclesia esse non debere, ne quod colitur aut adoratur, in parietibus depungatur. Can. 38. A Lay-man, in case of necessity, is enabled to Baptize. Can. 30. Gentiles unbaptized may be made Christians at last, by Imposition of hands. Can. 65. If a Clergy-man's Wife play the Whore, and he do not presently cast her out, he must not be received to the Communion to the last. Can. 73. If a Christian turn Accuser (Delator) and upon his accufation any one be banifled or put to death, he is not to be received to Communion, no not at last. Can. 75. Nor he that fallly accuseth a Bishop, Presbyter, or Deacon, and cannot prove it. Can. 79. He that playeth at Dice. or Tables, was to be kept from the Communion. Many other Canons fayour, some of Piety, and some of the Novarians. Thirty six Presbyters sate with these Nineteen Bishops. Pope Innocent approved these almost Novatian Canons, and Bumuus excuseth them, p. 246.

S. 40. XIX. Anno 306. A Council at Cirthage of about 70 Bishops began the Schism of the Donalists, contending who should have the Bishoprick of Carthage: One party had chosen Cacilianus to succeed Menserius; The other party accusing him as being a Traditor, and Ordained by Falix a Traditor, and had forbidden bringing food to the Martyrs in prison. they ordained one Mijorious Bishop in his stead: Cacilianus had the countenance of the Bishop of Rome, and stood it out, and kept the place: Hereupon the Church being divided, the division run through all Africk, and Numidia, while the accusing party renounced Communion with Cacilianus; so that for many years after (two hundred at least) they did with plansible pretence claim the title of Catholicks, though they were after called Donatifts (from Donatus a very good Bishop of Carthage heretosore, whom they praised, and not from Donatus à Casis nigris, as some think.) Secundus Tigistianus Primate of Numidia, surthers the breach, and the Ordination of Majorinus fixed it. Thus the doleful Tragedy of the Donaufts began by Bishops divided about a Carthage-Bishop.

1. 41. XX. Anno 308. Another Council was held at Carthage, where no less than 270 Donatist Bilhops, for moderation, agreed to Communicate with penitent Traditors, without rehaptizing them, and so did for 40 years. 8. 42.

§. 42. XXI. Anno 313. The Schiffm continuing, the Donatifts cleaving to Majorinus, appea'ed against Cacilianus to Constantine (now Emperour.) He sirst appointed three French Bishops to judge the Cause, but after 19 Bishops (called a Roman Council) met at Rome to hear both Parties: where Melchiades and the rest acquitted Cacilianus, and condemned Donatus à Casis nigris (a promoter of the Donatists Cause) as guilty of Schism. But the Donatists accusing Melchiades also as a Traditor, the Schism was never the more ended: A motion was made that both the Bishops should remove (Cacilianus and Majorinus) to end the Schisme; But the Donatist Bishops were so very many in number, that they thought they were to be called the Church, and the Cacilianists the Schismaticks, and therefore would not so agree. Thus Bishops about Bishopricks set all the Country on a stame.

§. 43. XXII. Next Constantine would hear the Cause of these contending Bishops at a Council at Arles in France, (before 200 Bishops at least) where Cacilianus was again acquitted, and the Donatist Bishops cast, by the witness of their Scribe Ingentius, who (being racked) confessed that he was hired to give false witness in the Case. Several good Canons were here made for Church-Order.

§. 44. I have heard many Popish Persons liken the Separatists among us to the Donatists: But so unlike them are they, That, 1. The said Separatists are against all Episcopacy, but the Donatists were Bishops, and contended for the highest Places of Prelacy. 2. The Separatists are confessedly a Minor Part departing from the Major Part. But the Donatists were the Major Part of the Bishops casting out the Minor Part as Delinquents. The Truth is, in those times the Bishops being usually in contention and Church-Wars among themselves, (especially when Constantine had given them peace and prosperity,) the strife was, Who should get the better, and have their will: 1. Sometime the strife was about Opinions, who was in the right, and to be called Orthodox, and who was to be accounted the Heretick. 2. The other part quarrel who should be the Bishop, or who should have the highest places. 3. And the next quarrel was whose side should carry it in setting up any Bishops, or in judging and deposing them, and who should have their Heads or Friends brought in. And the way to get the better, was, 1. At the first, by the majority of the peoples Votes in chusing Bishops, and of the Bishops in deposing them. 2. But after, most went in chusing and deposing by the majority of the Bishops Votes in the greater Seats, (the peoples confent still required.) at least if a Council did interpose. 3. And at last, it went by the favour or displeasure of the Court; either the Emperour, or the Empress, or some great Officers. The African Bishops it seems were far the greatest number against Cacilian, (when 270 met at one Council, and Melchiades Council at Rome had but 19, and that at Illiberis 19, and that at Ancyra 18 Bishops.) Therefore the Bishops thought that majority of number gave them right to the Title of Catholick; and that those Dissenters must be called Hereticks, as was too usual. ing they lived in the Country where many Councils under Agrippinus and Cyprian, and Firmilian, had voted that Hereticks were not of the Church, and General those that they had baptized, were to be rebaptized; they thought that Council they did but keep up this Tradition; and so they said that they were all had judgthe Church of Africa, and that the Cecilians were Hereticks and Separatiffs ed against from the Church, and that all that they baptized were to be rebaptized, them, for there had as was formerly held. So that indeed the Donatists did but as the Papists, been none, and their worldly Clergy still have done, who take the advantage of a majority to call themselves the Church and Catholike, and to call the Diffenters Schismaticks and Hereticks, save that they added Cyprian's rebaptizing. And when it was for their advantage they communicated 40 years with Traditors; but when the power of the Court and the Bifli of Rome bore them down, they kept up their party by pretended strictness, and reproaching the others as a Sect, and as Heretical and persecuters of the Church. So that it was the Multitudes and Councils of the Prelates that fet up Donatifm.

§. 44. XXIII. The next was an. 314. at Ancyra in Galatia of eighteen Bishops, who met to determine how many years the Lapsed should repent (or do penance) before they were admitted to Communion. Can. 17, forbad those, that were ordained Bishops to any people and were not accepted by the Parish to which they were ordained, to thrust themselves on other Parishes, or raise Sedition, but allowed them to continue Presbyters.

Can. 21. Wilful Murderers were to communicate at last only.

§.45. XXIV. The Churches having now peace under Constantine a Council of 13 Bishops that had been before most at Ancyra met at Neoccsarea; but the small number did better work than many greater Councils did, making fome good Canons against Adultery and Fornication; Though the 7th Can. that forbids Priests to dine at the second Marriages of any, because such must repent, be of doubtful sense and truth: The first Can is against Priests marrying and Fornication. The last, that the number of Deacons must be just seven, be the City never so big.

§. 47. XXVI. An. 315. They place us a Council at Alexandria in which Alexander, with many Bishops, condemned Eusebins Nicomed, with Arius and that the rest adhered to them, especially as holding that Christ was not Eternal, but was a Creature that had a beginning, and that the Wisdom and Word of God was not the Son, but made the Son.

5.48. XXVII. Another Council at Alexand. they tell us of, against the Arians, and the Meletian Schismaticks: but the Acts are not known. To this is annexed an Epistle of Constantine to Alexander and Arius, recorded by Euseb. Casar in vit.? Constant. in which Constantine chideth them both for their Contention, and seemeth to take the Question for unsearchable and to be disputed, saying, "I understand that the soundation of the Centro-"verfie

"versie was hence laid, that thou Alexander didst ask questions of the Pres-"byters about a certain Text of Scripture; yea, about a certain idle Par-"ticle of a Question didst enquire, what every one of them thought? And "thou Arius didst inconsiderately blurt out that which thou hadst not be-" fore thought of, or if thou hadst thought of it, thou oughtest to have " past by in silence: Whence discord was stir'd up among you, and the "meeting hindered which is wont to be made in the Church, and the "most holy people distracted into several parts, is divided from the compagination of the whole body of the Church. Therefore both of "you, forgiving one another, approve of that which your fellow-servant doth not without cause exhort you to: And what is that? That to "fuch Questions you neither Ask, nor Answer, if asked: For such Que-"ftions as no Law or Ecclesiastick Canon doth necessarily prescribe, but "the vain strife of dissolute idleness doth propose, though they may serve "to exercise acuteness of wit, yet we ought to contemn them in the inner "thought of the mind, and neither rashly to bring them out into the "publick Assemblies of the People, nor unadvisedly to trust them to the Ears of the Vulgar. For how few are they that can accurately enough "perceive the force of things fo weighty, and fo involved in obscurity? "But if there be some one that is confident that he can easily do and reach "this, yet I pray you, how finall a part of the multitude is it, that he " can make to understand him? Or who is there, that in the curious search "of fuch Questions, is not in danger of a fall?

The rest is well worth the Reading, as to the common case of Theological Controversies, though it seems that Constantine made too light of the Arian errour. But I dare not be so injurious to Enselius as to question whether he faithfully recited the Epistle, when Bimius himself backs his doubt with a dicere non auderem: And if we give away the credit of that one Historian, it will leave much of Church History under doubt, that now goeth for certain: Perhaps Peters being ever at Rome, &c.

§. 49. XXIX. The next mentioned is the Council of Laodicea in Phrygia Paccat, (not Syria) of 32 Bishops, gathered by Nunechius a Bishop of Phrygia. They were so sew that without contention they made divers good Canons: The 46 Canon requireth that the baptized should learn the Creed, and on the Friday of the last week repeat it to the Bishop or Presbyters. (By which you may conjecture how large a Bishoprick then was.) And Can. 56. The Presbyters were not to go into the Church before the Bishop, but with him. (For then every Church had a Bishop, though some Chapels far off had Presbyters only.) And Can. 57. It is ordered, that Bishops should not be Ordained in small Villages and Hamlets, but Visitors should be appointed them. But such (Bishops) as had been heretofore there Ordained, should do nothing without the Conscience of the City Bishop. Which sheweth that before Bishops were made in Villages; as Socrates saith then they were in Arabia, and the Phrygian Novatians, &c. The last Can. reciteth the same Canonical Scriptures that we receive, save the Apocalyps, which is lest out.

§. 50. XXIX. Next we have a great Roman Council of 275 Bishops, faith Crab, under Sylvester, which hath 7 Canons: The last saith, That no Bishop shall Ordain any, but with all the Church united. But whether this was before or after the Nicene Council, is uncertain.

And another he mentioneth under Sylvester at Rome, which Binnius hath. where Constantine baptized of Sylvester was present and 284 Bishops. (Whether it be true or a fiction is uncertain.) But if true, it was a very humble 'Council: For they all professed only patience, renounced giving their judgment at all, but only heard what Sylvefter would fay, professing none fit to judge but he. But they all with Presbyters and Deacons subscribed what he faid (if true.) What he faid I do not well understand, supposing much of it to be scarce sense: I am sure it is far from Cicero's Latine. 130 Bishops came, ex Urbe Remâ vel non longe ab illà, Out of the City of Rome, or not far from it: (How big were their Diocesses?) Here, Cap. 2. three men are curfed, (anathematized:) One was a Bishop, Victorinus, that being ignorant of the course of the Moon, contradicted the right time of Easter. It's well the Makers and Approvers of our Imposed English Liturgy fell not under Sylvester's severity, who have (alas, mistakingly) told us, that [Easter-day, on which the rest depend, is always the first Sunday after the first full Moon, which happens next after the one and twentieth day of March: And if the full Moon happen on a Sunday, Easter-day is the Sunday after. This is one of the things that about 2000 Ministers are silenced, for not Declaring Affent, Consent and Approbation of; yea to the use of it, and so to keep Easter at a wrong time. But how Sylvester came to have power to say all, and to banish men, and Constantine sit by and say nothing, I know not: Dedit eis anathema & dammavit eos extra urbes suas.

Cap. 3. He Decreed, that no Presbyter shall accuse a Bishop, no Deacon a Presbyter, &c. and no Layman, any of them: And that no Prelate shall be condemned but in 72 Testimonies, nor the chief Prelate be judged of any one, because it is written, The Disciple is not above his Master. And no Presbyter shall be condemned but in 44 Testimonies; no Cardinal Deacon but in 36, &c. And what may they not then do or be?

Cap. 5. He Decreed clara voce, that no Presbyter should make Chrisme, because Christ is so called of Chrisme.

The 12. Cap. is, Nemo det panitentiam, nisi quadraginta annorum petenti a Let no man give repentance (or penance) but to one that seeketh forty years.

Cap. 14. Let no man receive the witness of a Clergy-man against a Lay-

Cap. 15. For no man may examine a Clergy-man but in the Church.

Cap. 16. Let no Clerk, Deacon, or Presbyter, for any Cause of his enter into any Court, because Omnis Curia à Cruore dicitut, every Court is so called from blood, and is an offering to Images; For if any Clergy-man enter into a Court, let him take his Anathema, never returning to his Mother the Church.

Cap. 17. Let no man put a sinning Clergy-man to death, no Presbyter, no Deacon, no Bishop, that is over a Clerk or Servitor of the Church, may bring him to death. But if the Clergy man's cause so require, let him be three days deprived of honour, that he may return to his Mother-Church.

Cap. 18. No Deacon may effer against a Priest a Charge of filthiness.

Cap. 20. No man shall judge of the Prime seat; because all seats desire justice to be tempered of the first seat. The Subscribers were 284 Bishops (what did the other 57?) 45 Priests, and 5 Deacons, and the two following, and Constantine and his Mother Helena. O brave Pope and Clergy! O patient Council that subscribed to one man, and pretended to no judgment! O humble Constantine, that subscribed to all this, and said nothing! And a womans subscription persecteth all. And O credulous Reader that believeth this!

C.HAP. III.

The Council of Nice, and some following it.

TE come now to the first General Council: General only as to the Roman World or Empire, as the History and Subscriptions prove, and not as to the Whole World, as the Papists with notorious impu--dence affirm: which I have elsewhere fully proved. This Council was called, as is probably gathered, Anno 325. in the 20th year of Constantine (though others assign other years.) That they were congregate about the Arian Heresie and the Eastern Controversie is commonly known: As also what wisdom and diligence Constantine used to keep the Bishops in peace: Who prefently brought in their Libels of accusations against each other: which he took and burnt without reading them, earnestly exhorting them to peace, and by his presence and prudent speech repressing their heats and contentions; whereby the Synod was brought to a happy end as to both the controverted Causes: And Eusebins Nicomed. and Arius were brought to counterfeit repentance and consent to the Nicene Faith; which Constantine perceiving, being set upon the healing of the divided Bishops and Churches, he commanded that Arius should (as reformed) be received to Communion; which Athanasius resuling caused much calamity afterward.

§. 2. Because the Case of the Meletians is brought in by this Council, I think it useful (for our warning in these times) to recite the sum of their story out of Epiphanius, p. 717, &c. Har. 63.

Meletius (saith he) was a Bishop in Thebais in Egypt, of sincere Faith even to the death. In Diecletians Persecution, Teter Bishop of Alexandres, and he, were the chief of the Bishops that were laid in Prison, as designed to Martyrdom; while they were there long together with many fellowprisoners, many called to Tryal before them were put to death, and many for fear subscribed to Idolatry, or denyed Christ: And when they had done. professed repentance and craved peace of the Church: As it had been in Novacus his Schismes, so it fell out here; Peter Bishop of Alexan, was for peace and pardon; Meletius and most of the other suffering prisoners were against it, and said, If they may thus revolt to fave themselves, and be presently pardoned, it will tempt others to revolt: Peter seeing his opinion was rejected, rashly took his Cloak and hang'd it like a Curtain over the midst of the prison-room, and said, Those that are for me, come to me on this side, and those that are for Meletius go on that side to him: Whereupon far most of the Bishops, Priests, Monks, and people that were in prison went to Meletius, and but few to Peter. (A fouler Rupture than than that of the English Fugitives at Frankford.) This unhappy word and hour began the misery, among good men, expecting death: From that hour they keep all their meetings separate. Shortly after Peter was Martyred, and Meletius was judged to the Mines: As he went thither through the Country, he every where made new Bishops and gathered new Churches. fo that there were two in the several Cities: Those old ones that followed Peter called their Meeting, The Catholick Church; The other called theirs, The Martyrs Church: But yet they held a Unity of Faith. Even the sufferers that laboured in the Mines divided, and did not pray together. last Meletius and the rest were restored unto peace, and at Alexandria, Alexander and he lived in familiarity, and Meletius was he that detected A. rius and brought, him to Alexander to be tryed. But when Meletius was dead; Alexander grew impatient at the private separate Meetings of his followers, and troubled them, and vexed them, and began to use violence against them, and would not have them depart from his Church: They refused still, and this bred stirs and Tumults. Alexander persecuting them. and following them yet more sharply, they fent some men, eminent for piety and parts, to the Emperours Court, to Petition for Liberty for their private Meetings, without impediment. Of these Paphnutius and John their Bishop, and Callinitus Bishop of Pellusium were chief: who when they came to Court, being named Meletians, the Courtiers rejected them and drove them away, and they could not get access to the Emperour. On this occasion being put to wait long at Constantinople and Nicomedia, they fell into acquaintance with Eusebins, Bishop of Nicomedia, the Head of the Arians, who pretending repentance was become great with the Emperour, who was all for the Clergies peace and concord. To Eusebius they open all the matter: He craftily took the advantage of their suffering and long waiting. and promised his help, on condition they would but Communicate with Arius, who seigned repentance. The temptation overcame them, and they yield; They that had gathered separate Churches, because they would not Communicate with the repenting Lapfed (to Idolatry;) yet yielded to Communicate with Arius, that they might be delivered from the perfecution of a Godly Bishop, and keep their Meetings. They are brought to Constantine, who being all for peace, though against Schism, grants them the freedom of their Meetings; And thus joyning with the Arians for the liberty of their Assemblies, this became the greatest support to the Arians, without which (faith Epiphanius) they could not have stood. (So much doth Bishops tyranny or severity cross its own ends, and destroy the concord which they think by such tearing means to force; And so hard is it for menthat could fuffer Martyrdome from Heathens, innocently to bear the perfect tion of their Brethren, and fogreatly doth it tempt them to use unwarrantable means for their preservation: Just as if the Non-conformists at this time should seek, by the favour of the Papists, to be delivered from the filencing and destroying Prelates, upon condition of 'a common liberty: The Cases are not much unlike.') Neque enim (saith Epiphanius) consistere Arius, Acius, aut siduciam ullam habere potuisset, nist cam esset occasionem nacius; que pessimum inter illos ad hodiernum usque diem concordiam devinait. (But O, Father Epiphanius, why took you not warning by this, when you un-Bishop-like and un-Canonically set your self against holy Chrysoftome?)

Alexander being dead, and Athanasius shortly succeeding him, he could not bear the Meletian Churches in his City: And after fair means he used foul: And going himfelf to look after fuch Meetings, with his Retinue. one of his Deacons in the Meletian Meetings broke a certain Vessel, which occasioned some chiding and fighting, which occasioned Accusations of the Meletians, and Calumniations of the Arians against Athanasius as a Man of Violence and Tyranny; which Constantine abhorring in a Bishop, and Eufeb. Nicomed. representing the Matter as worse than it was, the Emperour (having granted the Meletians liberty for their Meetings, which Athanasius violently denyed them) in great anger commanded a Synod to be held at Tyre to examine the Matter, and Eusebius Casariens, with some others to prefide or order it: Where Potamo Bishop of Heraclea seeing Fusebius Cas. lit as Judge and Athanasius Itand, with Passion and Tears inveyed against Eusebius, saying, Who can endure to see thee, Eusebius, see and judge innocent Athanasius? Were not thou and I in Prison together in time of Perfecution, and when I lost an Eye for the Truth, thou camest out unmaimed? And how came that to pass, if thou didst not promise some wicked deed or other to the Perfecutors, or do Some? Eusebins hearing this, Suddenly rose and dismissed the Council, saying, If you dare carry it thus here, your Adversaries Accusations are to be believed: For if you play the Tyrants here, you do it much more in your own Country. Hereupon two Arian Bishops Urfahus and Valens are fent into Egypt to enquire after the Truth of the Matter, who coming back with Calumnies against Athanasius, he sled from the Council by Night to the Court to the Emperour to give him information; who taking Athanasius for salse and Tyrannical would not believe him, but upon Letters from the Council, and upon the provocation of Athanasius, who told him God would judge him for believing his Accusers, banished him, where he remained (in Italy) twelve or thirteen years, even till after Constanting Death. And when Constant had compelled his Brother Constanting to restore him, he was again banished; For George that had been made Bishop by the Arians (and by Constantius) was killed by the Heathen People in Julians time, and his Corps burnt, and the Ashes scattered into the Wind, which increased the suspicion of Tyranny against Athanasius: But in Jovians Reign he was again restored; And after his Death, he conflicted with Infamies again: And when Arbanasius was Dead, the Emperour Valens fet Lucius over them, who afflicted the People that had followed Athanasius, and Peter whom they had thosen for their Bishop, and by Banishment, Death and Torments, made them know what Church-Tyranny was indeed.

Thus far Epiphanius giveth us the History of the Meletian Schism, and the effects of good Bishops impatience with Dissenters.

S. 3. But I muit not conceal from the Reader that Baronius and Dion. Petavius say, that Epiphanius is deceived in all this History, and maketh the case of the Melecians better than it was; and that some Melecian knave beguiled him: But, 1. They give us no proof of any fuch knaves beguiling him at all: 2. And he that was so apt to over-do in suspecting and aggravating Herefies, (as in Origen's and Chryfostome's Case,) was not likely to make the Case here so much better than it was: 3. And how much nearer was Epiphanius in time and place, than Baronius and Petavius? and how easie was it then for him to have true notice of such publick things? 4. And if they make Epiphanius so fallacious in such a story as this, so near him, what a shake doth it give to the Credit of his copious History of the many other Herefies, which he had less opportunity to know: and confequently to the Credit of much of Church-Hiltory? Yet I confess, that the man scemeth not to be very accurate in his Disputes, nor all his Narratives: But rather by far to be suspected of making things worse than they were, And I believe that some passages in this History are mistaken by him (as that the Meletians joyned with the Arians before the death of Alexander:) but that maketh their Case the better. Petavius saith also, p. 286. Animad. in Epiph. Multum in Historia Meletii lapsum esse supra vidimus; Largius in Arianæ Haresis descriptione peccavit vir alioqui diligentissimus. And in his instance of the time of Arius death it's undeniable. But if in such famous Historics, we must read him with such suspicion and allowance, how much more in the many little ones that were more obscure?

§. 4. As to the Arians Herelie, the two Epistles of Arius recorded by Epiphanius tell us much of the truth of his mistake: And the Arians Arguments by him are at large recorded and answered. He that denyeth the Deity of Christ, denyeth his Essence: And he that denyeth his Essence, denyeth Christ, and is no Christian. But the Samosatenians, the Photinians, and our late Socinians, are far more perniciously Heretical than the Arians. For the Arians maintained, that Tressum hypostases, Pater, Filius & Spiritus Sanstus; and that God did ante sempiterna tempora unigenitum silium signere, per quem & sacula & reliqua procreavit omnia; viz, subsistentem illum supple voluntate condidisse, ejusmodi ut neque converti neque mutari possit, perfectam Dei creaturam, sed non tanguam rerum creatarum aliquam; sætum itidem, sed non tanguam unum è cateris. They thought that before God made the rest of the creatures, he made one super-angelical persect Spirit, by which he made all the rest, and that this is Christ; and that he received no other soul but a body only at his Incarnation, and this super-angelical spirit was his foul. This was the dangerous herefie of Arius.

§. 5. Dion. Petavius truly telleth us, that his great advantage was, that many of the Fathers of that Church had spoken in such kind of words before him, the Controversie being not then well considered: p 285. ad Hares. 69. having spoken of Lucian, the Martyr's giving advantage to Arius, he addeth, Quod idem plerisque veterum Patrum cùm in hoc negatio, tùm in aliis sidei Christiana capitibus usu venit, ut ante errorum atque hareseon, quibus ea singillatim oppugnabantur, originem, nondum satisillustrati ac patefacti rei veritate, quadam suis scriptis asperserint, qua cum orthodoxa sidei regula minime consentiant. (And yet the Papists swear, not to expound Scripture, but according to the unanimous consent of the Fathers.) Ne ab his Tringtatis mysterio ac quastione discedam, observavimus jandudum Justinum Mart. Dialogo cum Tryph. de filio Dei idem propemodim cum Arianis sentire. And in his Books, De Trinit. he at large citeth the very words of him and many other Fathers. But he here giveth them this gentle excuse, Sed ab omni culpà tam bic quam Lucianus aliique liber andi sunt, qui nondum agitatà controversia, panem de ca commode pronunciasse videntur. Simile quiddam de Dionys. Alex. tradit. Basilius, Ep. 41, &c. But it is enough to think charitably, that they were faved, without going fo far as to fay, they were without all fault. For Christianity is the same thing before such Controverfies and after: And it's hard to think how he can be a Christian, that denyeth Christs Essence: But God is merciful, and requireth not knowledge alike in all, that have not equal means of knowledge. Which charity must be extended to others as well as to these Fathers. Yet the same Petavisus cannot endure Camerarius, for saying, that Athanasius, though a valiant Champion of the truth, did sometime indulge his own desires, and mix some ill with facred things: But if he were not at all to be blamed, Constantine was much the more to be blamed for banishing him; And why should not his honour be of some regard? The truth is, the Alexandrian Bishops and People were long more violent and troublefome than others, as not only Socrates, but many other Historians note: And as it was noted with diffionour in Theophilus, and Cyril, and Diofeorus, &c. fo it can hardly be believed by them that read the History throughout, that Alexander and Athanasius wanted not fomething of the humble patience, meekness, and healing tenderness and skill that their Case required: For who is persect? And how apt are great Bishops to be too violent against Dislenters, instead of healing them with Love and clear convincing Evidence?

§. 5. Happy had it been if Prudence had silenced this Herese betimes, for never any one did so great mischief to the Church. The badness of it, was the honour of the Nicene Council that suppressed it, as far as in them lay. But alas, the Remedy seemed quickly conquered by the Disease: As Constantine had work enough to keep Peace among the Bishops in the Gouncil, by his presence and reproofs; so when the Arians profess repentance, his peaceableness caused him too far to indulge them; hy which some of them got such interest in his Court, as proved the following Calamity of the Church. And it is the sadder to think on, that the two great Emperours, Constantins and Valens, that were deceived by them, and drawn into violent Persecution, are noted to be otherwise none of the worst men. Epiphanius saith, p. 737. Accessive in Imperatorum savor cujus initium à Constantio Imperatore profestum est: Qui cùm cateris in rebus perhumanus ac bonus esset, dioquin pius ac multis probitatis ornamentis praditus, hac unare alerravit, quod non impressa à parente sidei vestigia sequeutus est: Quod ipsum tae erravit, quod non impressa à parente sidei vestigia sequeutus est: Quod ipsum tae men non illius culpà factum, sed nonnullorum fraude, qui in die Judicii rationem reddituri sunt; qui specie & nomine tenus Episcopi, sinceram Dei sidem labefactarunt. --- Et beati Constantii in errorem ab illis inducti, qui recte fidei regulam ignoravit, endemque ignorantia ad illorum se ntpote sacerdotum Authoritatem accommodavit, quod ipsum error illorum, ac ca itas, depravataque sides & ex diaboli profect a consilio, lateret. Accessit & alia causa qua huic serpemuin officina plurimum adjecit virium, Eusebius scilicet, qui callide se insimuans, Valentis aures pii ac religios! Imperatoris, ac Divin: numinis amantissimi, corrupit. Qui quod ab illo baptufmo fit initiatus, ca causa fuit cur hac factio stabilis ac firms confiferet. If Epiphanius fay true, we fee what men these Persecuting Emperours were.

§. 6. As to the other part of the Councils work, the fixing of Eaflerday, had not the Bishops been finfully fierce about it, against each other, it had never been taken for a Herelie to mistake the time, nor had it been a work so necessary and great to determine it: seeing as Socrates, Sozomen, &c. tell us, many Churches differed in this, and matters as great as this, without condemning or separating from each other: And the Asians erred by the Motive of Tradition, and Irenaus had long before centured the Roman Bishop for his violence in condemning them. And many good Christians even after the Councils determination, durst not forsake their old Tradition, nor obey them: Among whom, how long our Britains and the Scots stood out, Beda tellethus. And though the Audians, that alfo disobeyed, were called Hereticks, I would all Adversaries to Hereticks were no worfe men.

S. 7. And because these Audians rose about that time, I think it worth the labour to add the fum of their History out of Epiphanius, that the World may better perceive what spirit the Hereticating Prelates were then of, and how some called Hereticks were made such, or defamed as fuch, and who they were that did divide the Churches and break their peace.

Epiph. 1. 3. Tom. I. p. St I. Of the Schism of the Audians, which is the 50th or 70th Heresie: The Andians live in Monasteries, in Solitudes, &c. Audius their Founder arose in Mesopotamia, samous for his integrity of life, and ardent zeal of Divine Faith. Who oft feeing things ill carried in the Churches, feared not to their faces to reprove and admonish the Bishops and Priests, and say, These things should not be so done: You should on thus Administer: As a Loyer of Truth, he used to do such things as "these, which are familiar with men of exquisite honesty, who through "" their excellent study of Godliness, use this great liberty of Speech: There-"fore when he faw things ill carried in the Churches, he fometimes spake "his thoughts, and could not forbear blaming them. As if he faw any of the Clergy over covetous of Money, be it Bishop or Priest, he would reprehend them: or if any abounded in luxury and pleasures; or if they corrupted any part of the Doctrine or Discipline of the Church, he would not bear with them, but blame them. Which was troublesome to "men of a dissolute life: And therefore he underwent the greatest contumelies, being exagitated by the hatred and malicious words of them all. "But he being thus tolled about, and beaten and reproached, did bear it "all with an equal mind; and thus long continued in the Communion of the Church; Till some that were more vehemently offended with him for "these Causes, cast him out: But yethe patiently bore all this, but being "more earnestly intent for the promoting of the Truth, he still studied not "to be drawn away from the Conjunction and Society of the Catholick "Church. But when he and his friends were still beaten, and suffered un-"worthy usage, groaning under these evils, he took Counsel of the vio-"lence of these calamities and contumelies: And so he separated himself from the Church, and many falling away with him, a new Divorce was "hereby made. For he did not in any thing depart from the right faith, "but he with his partakers held in all things fincere Religion. Though in "one small matter they are too stiff. About the Father, Son, and Holy "Ghost they judg excellently, and as the Catholick Church, and swerve not "a jot: and the rest of the order of their Lives is truly most excellent " and admirable; so that not only He himself, but even the Bishops, Pricsts, "and all the rest of them, live by the labour of their hands-

Indeed they had a conceit that the Body did partake of the Image of God, and they thought that to please Constantine, the Nicene Council had altered the Custom and Tradition of the Church about Easter: But these were not the causes of their departure from the Church, but the violence of dissolute Bishops, that east them out, as being impatient of their strictness and op-

$. 8. About Easter, saith Epiphanius, p. 821. Neque cruditis ignotum est, quam sape diversis temporibus de illius sesti celebritate vari Ecclesiastica disciplina tumultus ac contentiones oborta sint: prasertim Polycarpi ac Victoris atate, cum Orientales ab Occidentalibus divulsi, pacificas à se invicem literas nullas acciperent. Quod idem & aliis temporibus accidit: velut Alexandri Episcopi Alexandrini & Crescentii; quemadmodum contra se mutuò scripserint & acerimò puznaverint. Qua animorum opinionumque distractio, ex quo semel post Episcopos illos qui ex circumcisione ac Indaorum sectà ad Christum se converterant, agitari capit, ad nostra usque tempora codem est tenore perducta. By which we see, 1. With what caution Tradition must be trusted: 2. How early Bishops began to divide the Church about things indifferent.

$. 9. That men that all, in the main, fear God, should thus contend, abuse, and persecute one another, is sad, and hath even been a hardening of Insidels: But, alas, the remnant of corruption in the best will somewhat corrupt their conversations. It is a sad note of Epiphanius, ib. p. $16. ["I "have known some of the Confessours, who delivered up Body and Soul for their Lord, and persevering in confession and chastity, obtained greatest sincerity of faith, and excelled in piety, humanity, and Religion, and "were continual in fastings, and in a word, did slourish in all honesty and "virtue: yet the same men were blemished with some vice; as either they were prone to reproach men, or would swear by the name of God, or were over talkative, or prone to anger, or got gold and silver, or were defiled with some such filth, which yet detract nothing from the just

" measure of virtue.]

S. 10. But as God made a good use of the falling out of Paul and Barnabas, so he did of Audius his unhappy case. Being cast out of the Church. he took it to be his duty to Communicate with his own party, and a Bishop that suffered for the like, made him a Bishop, and the Bishops accused him to the Emperour, that he drew many people from the obedience of the Church, and hereupon the Emperour banished him into Scythia. Dwelling there, he went into the inner parts of Gothia, and there instructed many of the barbarous in the principles of Christianity, and gathered many Monasteries of them, who lived in great religious strictness, p. 827. But it is hard to stop short of extreams, when men are alienated by scandal and violence: They came to so great a dislike of the Bishops of the. common Churches, that they would not pray with any man, how blameless foever, that did but hold Communion with the Church. Uranius a Bishop and some others joyning with them, made Bishops of the Goths. (Note out of Epiphanius, p. 827, 828. what Country was called Gothia in those times.)

6. It. It is not to be past over that at the Nicene Council, the first speaker, and one of the chief against the Arians, was Enstathius Bishop of Actioch. And when Ensemble was made Bishop of Constantinople, he pretended a desire to see fernsalem, and passing through Antioch secretly hired a Whore to swear, that Enstathius was the Father of her child: and getting some Bishops of his Faction together, they judged Enstathius to be deposed, as an Adulterer; and got the Emperour to consent and banish him: And after, the Woman in misery, consessed all, and said, that it was one Ensage.

thius a Smith, that was the father of her child.

§. 12. In Pisanus's Concil. Nic. Bin. p. 332. this Enstathius is made the first Disputer against a Philosopher: And whereas the great cause of the Arians Errour was, that they could not conceive how the Son could be of one substance with the Father, without a partition of that substance, Enstathius tells the Philosopher that took their part and urged, Facianus hominem ad Imaginem, &c. that The Image of God is simple, and without all composition, being of the nature of sire: but he meaneth sure but analogically:

§. 13. In the same Pisanus, lib. 3. p. 345. Bin. the description of the Church is, There is one Church in Heaven and Earth; in this the Holy Ghost resteth; But Heresies that are without it—are of Satan.— Therefore the Pope was not then taken for the Head of the Catholick Church; For he pretendeth not to be the Head of them that are in Heaven. See what the Ca-tholick Church then was!

9. 14. Note that, 11. the Council of Nice nameth none Patriarchs.
2. They nullifie the Ordination of scandalous and uncapable men. Can.
3. and 10. Which will justifie Pope Nicholas forbidding any to take the Mass of a Fornicating Priest.
3. That Rural Bishops were then in use, and allowed by the Council, Can. 8. 4. That no Bishop was to remove from one Church to another, Can. 15. (which Euseb. Nicom. soon broke.) 5. Even in the Arabick Canons the 4th. si populo placebit, is a Condition of every Bishops Election. 6. The 5th Arab. Canon, in case of discord among the people, who shall be their Bishop or Priest, it is referred to the people to consider which is most blameless: And no Bishop or Priest must be taken into anothers place, if the former was blameless. (So that if Pastors be wrongfully cast out, the people must not forsake them, nor receive the obtruded.) 7. Those Ordained by Meletius were to be received into the Ministry where others dyed, If by the suffrage of the people they were judged sit, and the Bishop of Alex. designed them. Sozom. 1. 1. C. 23.

§.15. XXXI. The next Council in Binnius (and in Crabs Order) is faid to be at Rome under Sylvester, with 275. Bishops: But this is confessed to be partly false, if not all: And is the same that is before mentioned; which ordered that no Bishop should ordain any Clerk niss cum omni adunata Ecclessa, But with all the Church united, or gathered into one: (Which Canon seemeth made when a Church was no more than could meet together, and when the People had a Negative Voice.)

But the Concil. Gangrense is Binnius's next (though Crab put afterward some of the forementioned also) said to be in Sylvesters days; (and yet Sozomen and some others, say that the Council of Nice was in Julius days, though most say otherwise.) Here were sixteen Bishops, who condemned some Errours of Eustabius of Armenia, or rather one Entablus, as Bin. thinks, who was too severe against Marriage, as if it were sinful, and against eating Flesh, and against receiving the Sacrament at the Hands of a married Priest; he made Servants equal with their Maters, he set light by Church-Assemblies, he drew Wives to leave their Husbands for Continency, and on pretence of Virginity despised married Persons; These superstitions they here condemned.

§. 16. XXXII. An. 335. The Council at Tyre was held for the Tryal of Athanasius, where he was unjustly condemned, and thereupon by Constantine banished, though his innocency was after cleared: Had not his severity against the Meletians driven them to joyn with the Arians against him, Epiphanius saith, they had not been able to make head thus against him.

Constantines Epistle to the Alexandrians, lamenting and chiding thems for their Discords, is well worth the translating, but that I must not be so tedious: See it Bin. p. 391.

6. 17. XXXIII. The next is a Council at Jerusalem, An. 335. where Arius Faith was tryed, approved, and he restored to Alexandria and the favour of Constantine. The Creed which he gave in, was this.

We believe in one God the Father Almighty, and in the Lord Jesus Christ his Son, begotten of him before all Ages, God, the Word, by whom all things were made which are in Heaven and in Earth: Who came down, and was Incarnate, and

and Suffered, and Rose again, and Ascended to the Heavens, and shall come again to Judge the Living and the Dead: And in the Holy Ghost: The Resurrestion of the Flesh: The Life of the World to come, and the Kingdom of Heaven: In one Cathelick Church of God, extending it self from one end of the Earth unto the other.

Arius with this, protesting against vain Subtilties and Controversies, desireth the Emperour to accept of this as the Evangelical Faith; and the Council and the Emperour receive him, as for the joyful restoration of Unity and Peace, and so would undo what was done at Nice. The Emperour was so greatly troubled at the continued divisions of the Bishops, that he was glad of any hope of Unity and Peace: But this proved not the way.

6. 18. XXXIV. An. 336. A Council was called at Constantinople; in-which they accused, condemned, and banished Marcellus Ancyranus, an Adversary to the Arians, as if he had denyed the Godhead of Christ, (upon some wrested word) though it was their denying it that offended him: Here also Arius was justified and Athanasius condemned: But Arius dyed shortly after.

§. 19. XXXV. The next is a Council of 116 Bishops at Rome, in or about An. 337. under Julius; in which the Nicene Creed was owned, and the Arians condemned, and nothing else done that is recorded.

§. 20. XXXVI. The next was a Council at Alexandria which vindicated Athanasius from his Accusations, when Constantinus junior sent him home from his Banishment.

§. 21. XXXVII. The next was a Council at Antioch of near 100 Bishops (of which 36 were Arians) the most Orthodox (and the holy James of Nisibis one:) yet they deposed Athanasius, and the Arians (it's like by the Emperours savour) carryed it; In his place they put George a Cappadocian suspected to be an Arian, whom, (as I said before) the People murdered, burnt, and scattered his Ashes in the Wind, and he was one of the Arians Martyrs. (Unless England had ever been Arian, I cannot believe them that say that this is the St. George, that the English have so much honoured.)

5. 23. This Arian Council finding that the Emperours favour gave them the Power, made many Canons against Non-Conformists. The first Can. is against them that keep not Easter at the due time. The second against them that come to the hearing of the Word, but communicate not publickly in the Lords Supper and Prayers, and against them that keep private Meetings, and that communicate with them. Can. 4. Was to make their Case hopeless that exercise the Ministry after they are Silenced, or Deposed, be they Bishops, Priests, or Deacons. Can. 5. Was that if any Priest or Deacon gathered Churches or Allemblies against the Bishops Will, and took not warning, he was to be Deposed: And if he go on, to be oppressed by the exteriour Power as Seditious. (There is their Strength.)

Can. 6, and 7. None suspended by his own Bishop was to be received by another, nor any Stranger without Certificates. Can. 8. Country-Priests may not write Canonical Epistles, but Rural Bishops may. C.m.o. No Bishop must do any thing without the Metropolitane, save what belongeth (by Ordination and Guidance) to his own Church. Can, 10. Though the rural Bishops are consecrated as true Bishops, yet they shall only govern their own Churches, and Ordain fuch lower Orders as they need, but not Ordain Presbyters or Deacons without the City-Billions, to whom they are subject. Can. 11. Casteth out all Bishops or other Clergy-men, that go to the Frince without the Metropolitane's Counfel or Letters. Can. 12. Deposed or silenced Ministers must not go to Princes for relief, but appeal to a synod. Can. 13. Bishops must not go or ordain in other Diocels, unless feat for by the Metropolitane; else their Ordinations there to be null. Can. 15. A Bishop condemned of all may not appeal. Can. 16. A vacant Bishop leaping into a vacant Bishoprick without a Council (the Metropolitane present) is to be ejected, though all the people chase him. Can. 17. If any Bishop be ordained to a Church. and refuse or neglect the Office, let him be excommunicate till he receive it. Can. 18. If any Bishop or dained to a Parish neglect it, because the people will not receive him, let him enjoy the honour, and be heard in a full Synod. Can. 19. The Ordination of a Bishop is null, which is done without a Synod, and the Metropolitane. &c.

§. 24. XXXVIII. Another Connoil at Rome under Inlins undid what this former did, and acquitted Aubanasius, Marcellus, and other injured Bi-flieps: (perhaps Euftachius, faith Bin.)

$. 25. XXXIX. Athanasus being sent back when Gregory was put in his place, the City being ready to be in an uproar, Athanasus retired to Rome (or hid himself) foreseeing it; till sire and blood had proclaimed the Columity of this Episcopal strife. And Pope Julius called another Council at Rome, to answer the Letters of the Oriental Synod, which charged him with usurpation and despised him.

§. 26. XL. Anno 344. Another Council was held at Antioch, by those called Arians by some, Reconcilers by others, and Orthodox and Catholicks by themselves; in which they renounce Arias and his sayings, but yet leave out the word haven to see a superfict they did in a new-made Creed; sitted purposely, as they said, to reconcile; as others, to deceive: To which end four had been made before, and not availed.

§. 27. XLI. A Council at Milan examined this Creed, and rejected it, for leaving out [of the same substance] and because the Nicene Creed was sufficient.

§. 28. XLII. The next is called an Universal Council, of 376 Bishops at Sardica, which cleared Athanasius, Marcellus, and others. And yet Augustine, and many others, reject this Council. It hath divers good Canons, but one among them for Appeals to Rome; which three Popes urged urged to Aurelius, Angustine and the other Africans, as a Canon of the Council of Nice: And whenas neither any of these Popes, nor the African Bishops once took notice that those words were in the Council of Sardica; the Papists answer, 1. That the Africans knew not of this Councils Canons, but had lost them, (though Gratus Bishop of Carthage was one.) 2. And that the Popes took the Canons of Sardica to be but Explications of the Nicene, and so they were but as one. (But why did they give no such answer?)

Bishops are here condemned that remove to any other Church; and they that are above three days non-resident; and especially they that go ad Comitatum, to the Palaces of Princes or great Prelates; but if they have just business they are ordered to send it by a Deacon.

§. 29. XLIII. The Oriental Bishops departing from Sardica came to Philippopolis, and gathered a Council by themselves, and condemned those whom the other had absolved, and others for Communicating with them. Yet they renounced Arius, but also cast out the word [δμοντοΦ, of the same substance] as not Scriptural; and are called Semi-Arians.

The Persons excommunicated by them were Athanasius, Osius, Marcellus, Protogenes, Asclepas, Gaudentius, Maximinus, Paulus Const. and Pope Julius. They write a circular Epistle, specially sent to Donatus Carthag. in which they so vehemently speak for peace and piety, and lay such Crimes to the charge of Athanasius, Paulus, and Marcellus, as would astonish the Reader, and confound his judgment, whom to believe. Cruel Perfecution, bloudy Murders, Profaneness, burning a Church, and such like they charge on Athanasius; and say that they offered the Western Bishops of Sardica to send sive of their Bishops with six of theirs to the place where these things were done, and if they prove not true they yield to be condemned. On Marcellus they charge written Herefie (which Bafil, Chrysostom, and others believed.) On Paulus Const. they charge that he was guilty of flames and Wars, and that he caused Priests to be drag'd naked into the Market-place, with the Body of Christ tyed about their necks; and that before a concourse of people he caused the consecrated Virgins to be stripe naked in the open Streets, unto horrid shame. And for fuch Reasons they require all good Christians to abhor their Communion. Thus the Reader is called to grief and shame to hear Bishops thus odiously reviling each other, and tempting Infidels to take them all for wicked and utterly unpeaceable men.

6. 30. XLIV. An. 348 or 349 was a Council at Carthage (called the first:) It was gathered against the Donatists, whose Bishops pretended to be the only Catholicks; and their Circumcellions being violent Resormers, taking from the rich that they thought had wronged any, and righting the injured, and unjustly doing justice; and resisting the Emperour Constans his Officers, so that they were sain by Souldiers to suppress them, and cast out Donatus Carth. and by gifts reconciled the people that followed them.

Many

Many good Canons for Church Order were made by this and most of the African Councils, no Bishops being faithfuller than they. Several passages in their Canons shew that their numerous Bishops had Churches of no more people than our larger Parishes. And Can. 12. of this Council ordereth that where the Bishops by Contract divide their several People, one take not from the other.

S. 31. XLV. Anno 350. A Council at Milan received the repentance of Ursatius and Valens that had accused Athanasius, and gave them Letters of reconciliation.

§. 32. XLVI. Constants constrained Constantius to recall Athanasius, but was himself murdered by Magnentius before he came thither: But at Ferusalem a Council was held in the way, which judged his reception, and wrote to Alexandria to that end.

§. 33. XLVII. Among the friends of Athanasius, Euphratas Bishop of Collen was one, that was sent on a Message into the East; where Stephen an Arian Bishop of Ant. gota Whore to go in to him: When she saw an old man, instead of a young one, which she expected, she immediately confessed all, and Bishop Stephen was cast out for it. But Euphratastt after all, turned Photinian and denyed Christ to be God, and a Council at Colen deposed him.

§. 34. XLVIII. They talk of 3 Concilia Vasensia, or Vasatensia, and that they ordered [As it was in the beginning] to be added to the doxelogie: But there is nothing of moment certain of them.

§. 35. XLIX. Anno 352. Liberius had a Council at Rome about Athanasius, and sending a Message to Constantius.

§. 36. L. Anno 353. At a Council at Arles, Athanasius is condemned, and the Popes Legate forced to subscribe it, with other Bishops, and some banished that refused it.

§. 37. LI. Pope Liberius desired a General Council, which the Emperour granteth, and it's held at Milan. Above 300 Western Bishops were there, most of the East (where the Arians reigned) could not come (an. 355.) Athanasius his Condemnation (Ursatius and Valens revolting, and again accusing him) and Communion with the Arians, were the things there urged by the Emperour: Lucifer Calaritanus (after called a Heretick) and Eusteins Vercellensis, and a sew more, resused to subscribe, and were banished; as Liberius after was; and Falix made Pope: But most of the Bishops for sear, and desire of peace, subscribed. The Emperour himself wrote to Eusteb. Vercel. to be there (who had resused) with great profession of zealous piety, and desire of the Churches peace. But this scandal and miscarriage of the Bishops, and success of the Arians, was the effect of this General Council.

§. 38. LII. The Semi-Arians pretending to Universal Concord, thus prevailing by the Emperour and a General Council, Hilary Pistav. (a Marryed Citizen made Bishop) drew some Orthodox Bishops of France to separate from the Arian Bishops, and renounce their Communion; The Arians

(or Semi-Arians) taking these for separatists, and injurious to them, (especially Saturninus) procured a Council at Byterris, to condemn them as Schismaticks; where Hilary was condemned and banished, an. 356.

S. 30. LIII. The General Council at Sirmium I out of order began with. Anno 357. Constantius resolving by all means to bring all the Bishops to one Communion, was present himself; There were above 300 Bishops out of the West, besides all the Eastern Bishops: The confusion was so great, that men knew not who were or were not Hereticks. Photimus denying the Godhead of Christ, the Bishops called Arian, defired this Council to accuse and condemn him, as they did: They drew up two or three Confessions themselves: The first was not Heretical directly, save by the Omission of the Foundary:] which some perswaded the Emperour, being new and no ancient Scriptural or Symbolical word, was the Cause of all the divisions of the Bishops, and were that left out, all would be healed. This Council called Arian, passed 27 Anathema's against the Arians and Photinians: Pope Liberius subscribed to it and approved it, as the forcited words of his Epistle in Hilary shew. (And yet many Papists call it a Reprohate Council.) Old Ofins, that prefided at Nice, was forced by stripes, to subscribe to it, and to the condemnation of Athanasus. That the Son was in all things like the Father, was the substitute Form here used. In their second Form they say, that [Quia multos commover vox, substantia, velvia, hoc oft, no dilizentius comoscatur illud quod oportion dicitur, autoporation, nullam carum vocum mentionem debere fieri neque de iis sermocinandum in Ecclesià censemus, quod de iis nihil scriptum sit in sacris literis, & quod illa hominum intellectum & mentem transcendant, & quod nemo posset generationem filij enarrare, ut scriptum, Generationem ejus quis enarrabit? Jolum enim Pairem, scire quomodo silium fuum genuerit, certum est --- & nemo ignorat duas esse personas Patris & Filii, ac proinde Patrem majorem, Filium ex Patre genitum, Deum ex Deo, Lumen de Lumine ____ Many thought this a necessary reconciling way: The words [Person] and [Substance] stumbled the Arians: For they knew not how to conceive of three persons that were not three substances; nor how the Son could be of the same substance with the Father, unless that substance were divided: And at last wearied with contending, they thought thus to end all, by leaving out the name [substance,] and professing the Generation of the Son unsearchable.

The third Sirmian Creed had, [in unigenitum filium Dei, ante omnia secula & initia & ante enme tempus quod in intellectum cadere potest existemen; & ante omnem comprehensibilem substantiam, natum impassibiliter ex Dec, solum ex solo Patre, Deum de Deo, similem Patri suo qui ipsum genuit, cujus generationem nemo novit nisi solus qui eum genuit, Pater. Vocabulum verò substantie quie simplicius à Patribus positum est, & à populis ignoratur, & scandalum affert; cò quod in scripturi: non contineatur, placuit ut de medio tolleretur, & nul-

§. 40. LIII. The Oriental Bishops offended at the second Confession at Sirmium, for leaving out the word substance, gathered in Council at Ancyra, an. 358. and rejecting the Arians, were called Semi-Arians, because yet they were not for [δμοάσιον] but the [δμοίσιον;] Not [the same substance,] but [Like substance.] These after turning Macedonians (for Macedonius was one of them) deny the Holy Choft to be God.

§. 41. LIV. Constantins finding that all his endeavours missed their end, and that instead of bringing all the Bishops to Concord and one Communion. the very Arians, and the Semi-Arians, divided and subdivided among themfelves, did fummon another General Council at Nicomedia: But the City fuddenly perishing, he called the Western part to Ariminum, and the Eastern to Selencia, taking them yet but as one Council. Above 400 Bishops met at Ariminum, who were to determine first Doctrinal and then Personal Controverses, and then fend ten Legates of each part to the Emperor, with the refults: The most were Orthodox, but the Arian Legates were better speakers, and prevailed; so that the Emperour delayed them because of an Expedition that he had in hand against the Barbarians; In the mean time fome Assembled at Nice, and drew up Another Confession: And when the Legates returned to Ariminum, the Arian Party of Bishops, by the Emperours countenance, fo far prevailed, as that almost all the Orthodox labscribed to them. (Gandentius Bishop of Ariminum was murdered by the Souldiers.) Binnius and some others, would have this Council at Ariminum to be two; the first Orthodox, the second Arian: Bellarmine and others called it but one: which was Orthodox in the beginning, but for fear and complyance fell off at the last.

§. 42. LV. Whether the Council at Selencia shall be taken for one of it self, or but for part of that at Ariminum, though far distant, I leave to the Reader. But here the Heterodox Bishops carried all, but so as to divide among themselves; One party called Acacians were for sorbearing the word [substance.] The Seniarians condemned both them and the Arians, and were for [Like substances.] They excommunicated and deposed many Arians, who appealed to the Emperour, and craved yet another Synod. So that the surther he went for concord, the surther he was from it, the Bishops dividing and subdividing more and more; and the Emperours and Bishops, by diversity of Judgment, and by Heresie, became now to the Church what Heathen Persecutors had been hereto-

Sulpitius Severus tells us, that one thing that drew many to subscribe to the Arian and Semiarian Creeds, was a certain liberty of their own Additions or Interpretations, which was granted the Orthodox to draw them in. [Subscribe in your own sence q. d.] And so conditional subscriptions quieted their Consciences, and when the Arians thought they had the Victory, and had made the rest Conformists, it proved others wise, for they did not in sence and with approbation subscribe.

But though the Filth of the Arian Heresie justifie all just care and endeavours to keep it out, the multitudes of new Creeds, then made by one and the other Party became such a snare and shame to the Church, that Hilary, among others, greatly lamented it, even in these sad expressions.

Post Nicenam Synodum nihil aliud quam Fidem scribimus; dum in Verbis pugna est; dum de novitatibus quastio est; dum de ambiguis, dum de authoribus querela est; dum de studiis certamen est; dum in consensu difficultas est; dumq; alter alteri Anathema esse cæpit, propè jam Nemo est Christi. Proximi anni sides quid immutationis habet? Prinum decretum Homoussion decernit taceri: sequens rursus Homoussion decernit & predicit: Tertium usam simplicitèr à Patribus prasumptam per indulgentiam excusat; Postremum quartumque non excusat sed condemnat: Tandem eò processum est ut neq; penes nos, neq; penes quenquam ante nos sanstum exinde aliquid aig, inviolabile perseveret. Annuas atq, Menstruas de Deo Fides decernimus: decretis pænitemus; pænitentes defendimus: desensos Anathematizamus; aut in nostris aliena, aut in alienis nostra damnamus, & mordentes invicem jam absumpti sumus ab invicem.

Is not this a doleful description of the Bishops so soon after their wonderful deliverance and exaltation?

The cause of all he tells us was partly forsaking the simple Form of Baptismal Faith as not sufficient, and partly following Votes and worldly Powers. Dum à quibus ea requiritur sua scribunt & non que Dei sunt pradicant, orbem aternum erroris & redeuntis in se semper certaminis circumtulerunt. Oportuerat humana infirmitatis modestia emne cogitationis divina sacramentum illis tantum conscientia sua finibus contineri quibus credidit: Neque post confessam & juratam in baptismo sidem in nomine Patris, Filit & Sp. santti, quicquam aliud vel ambigere vel innovare. And speaking of mens perverting the sence, he addeth. Scribenda & innovanda fidei exinde usus inclevit: Qui postquam nova potius capit condere, quam accepta retinere, nec vetera defendit, nec innovata firmavit, & fasta est Fides temporum potius quam Evangeliorum : dum & secundum annos scribitur, & secundum co fessionem baptismi non tentur. Periculofum admodum nobis & miserabile est tot nunc Fides existere, quot voluntates: & tot nobis doctrinas effe quot mores, & tot caufas blasphemiarum pullulàre, quot vitia funt; dum aut ita fides scribuntur, ut volumus, aut ita ut volumus intelliguntur. Et cum secundum unum Deum, & unum Dominum & unum baptisma fides una sit, excidinus ab ea fide que sola est; & dum plures fiunt, ad id coperunt essent ulla sit.: (referring to Nice.)

Fides enimquaritur quasi sides nulla sit: Fides scribenda est quasi in corde non sit: Regenerati per sidem nunc ad sidem docemur; quasi regeneratio illa sine side sit: Christum post baptisma discimus, quasi baptisma aliquid esse possit sine Christi side: Emendamus; quasi in spiritum santtum peccalife su venia. Sed impietatis ipsius his cavel pracipue causa perpetua est, quod sidem Apostolicam septuplo proferentes, ipsitamen sidem Evanzelicam volunus consteri; dum impietates nostras nobis in populis multiloquis desendimus magniloquentia vanitate aures simplicium verbis fallentibus illudimus, dum evitamus de Domino Christo ea crede, e, qua de Tutissimum nobis est primam & solam Evangelicam sidem confessam in baptismate, intellectama; retinere nec demutare quod solum acceptum atq; auditum habeo bene credere: Non ut ea qua synodo Patrum nostrorum (the Nicene) continentur, tanquam irreligiose & impiè scripta damnanda sint; sed quia per temeritatem humanam usurpantur ad contradictionem; quod ob hoc sub nomine novitatis. Evangelium negaretur impericulose, tanquam sub emendatione innovetur. Quod emendatum est, semper proficit; & dum omnis emendatio displicet, emendationem omnem emendatio consequuta condemnet, ac si jam, quicquid illud est, non emendatio aliqua sit emendationis, sed caperit esse condemnatio.

And as to the second Cause, he saith, Ac primum misereri licet nostra atatis laborem & prasentium temporum stultas opiniones congemiserer; quibus patrocinari Deo humana creduntur, & ad tuendam Christi Ecclesiam ambitione saculari laboratur. Oro vos, Episcopi, qui boc vos esse creditis: quibusnam suffragiis ad pradicandum Evangelium Apostoli usi sunt? Quibus adjuti potestatibus Christum pradicaverunt gentesquisere ex idolis ad Deum transsulerurt? Anne aliquam sibi assumebant è palatio dignitatem, hymnum Deo in carecre inter catenas & post slagella cantantes? — At nunc prob dolor! divinam sidem suffragia terrena commendant; inopsq; virtutis sua Christus, dum ambitio nomini suo conciliatur, arquitur.

But having been long in this Citation of Hilary, I return to the History, of what followed these Councils and Creeds aforesaid.

§. 43. LVI. In the mean time Constanting calleth a Council of 50 Bishops to Constantinople, where Ætins was condemned, and a ninth Creed since the Nicene sormed, which excluded both the word substance and Lypostasis or subsistence. The Semi-Arians detesting this, condemned and banished the Authors. But another Form sent from Ariminum was preferred, and imposed to be subscribed on all the Bishops of East and West.

9.44. LVII. An. 360. Meletius Bishop of Antioch being put in by the Acacians proved Orthodox contrary to their expectation: And being.

preaching for the Trinity his Archdeacon stopt his Mouth, and he preached by his Fingers, holding forth One and Three: And for this was ejected, contrary to some former Covenants. Wherefore they were sain to call a Council at Antioch to justifie his ejection. Here they made yet another Creed, the worst of all before it.

§. 45. LVIII. Constantius being dead, Julian the Apostate is made Emperour (would not this end the Quarrel of Christian Bishops?) Athanasius returneth to Alexandria after the third banishment, and five years hiding, an. 362. Gregory the Bishop being as is aforesaid murthered by the Heathen, and burnt to Ashes. He calls a Council at Alexandria: Here besides the receiving of those that unwillingly subscribed to the Arians, divers new Controversies are judged. 1. Eunomius, Macedonius, and the Semiarians denved the Godhead of the Holy Ghost, which was here afferted. 2. Apollinaris thought that Christ took but a Body at his Incarnation, his Divine Nature being instead of a Soul, which was here condemned. 3. The Orthodox Greeks and Latines could not agree by what name to distinguish the Trinity: The Greeks said there were three hypostases, which the Latines rejected, as fignifying three substances: Hierome himself could not away with the word Hypostasis. The Latines used the word [Person.] The Greeks rejected that as fignifying no real distin-Etion, (and are the Schoolmen for a real distinction yet?) For they thought Persona signified but the relation of one in Authority or Office. And thus while as Jerome said, Tota Gracorum prophanorum Schola discrimen inter hypostasin & usiam ignorabat (Fp. 57.) and the sense of the word [Person] was not well determined, the danger was so great of further diffention among the Orthodox Bishops themselves, that as Greg. Naz. faith (de land. Athanaf.) The matter came to that pass, that there was present danger, that together with these syllables the ends of the World (East and West) should have been torn from each other, and broken into parts. But the Synod agreed that the Greek hypostasis and the Latine Persona should henceforth be taken as of the same signification. (But what that signification is, it was not so case to tell.) Yet (saith Binnius) Augustine de Trinit. 1. 5. c. 8, 9. and the Latines afterwards, were displeased with this reconciliation, and Hierome himself, who yet obtain'd of Damasus, Ep. 57. that the conciliation being but of a Controversie de nomine, might be admitted.

§. 46. LIX. An. 362. Julian reigning (feveral French Councils be-fides) one then at Paris, were employed in receiving the repentance of the Bishops that under Constantius had subscribed to the Arians.

S. 47. LX. At Julians death Arbanasius calleth some Bishops to Alexandria, betimes to send to the Emperour Jovianus their Consession, to prevent the Arians, and other Hereticks.

§ 48. LXI. A Council also was called at Antioch on this occasion. The Semiarians petitioned Jovianus that the Acacians, as Hereticks, might be put out, and they put in their places: The Emperour gave them no other Answer, but that he hated contention, but would love and honour those that were for concord: They feeling his pulse, got Meletius to call a Council at Antioch, where they seemed very sound, and twenty seven Arian Bishops without any stop subscribed the Nicene Creed: So basely did these Bishops follow the stronger side; and, saith Bianius, of so great consequence with Bishops is the Emperours mind.

that

§. 49. LXII. An. 364. Valentinian being Emperour left the Bishops to meet when and where they would themselves. And a Council was held at Lampsacus, where the Semiarians condemned the Arians. And though some call it Orthodox (Basil, and some good men being there) Binnius saith, that the Macedonians here vented their denyal of the Godhead of the Holy Ghost, and that the Hereticks pretending to own the Nicene Faith were received by Liberius.

§. 50. LXIII. A Council in Sicily owned the Nicene Creed.

§. 51. LXIV. Some Bishops at Illyricum restored the Nicene Creed, the Emperour being now for it. And Valentinian and Valens wrote to the Asian Bishops to charge them to cease Persecuting any of Christs labourers.

§. 52. LXV. An. 365. At a Synod in Tyana Cappadoc. Enstathius Sebast. by Pope Liberius Letters was restored to his Bishoprick; and after cursed the Homonston, (the Nicene Creed) and denyed the Godhead of the Holy Ghost: By their means Basis returned from his Wilderness to Casarea, whence he sed to avoid the enmity of Enseines the Bishop; who received him upon his professed resolution for Peace, which he would buy at any rates.

§. 53. LXVI. The Emperour Valens (unhappily taken in to Valentinian) after the conquest of Procopius, desired Baptisme, and having an Arian Wise, was baptized by Endowius Constant. an Arian Bishop; who engaged him to promote the Arian Cause; which he did with a blind religious zeal, persecuting not only the Orthodox and Novatians, but also the Semiavians and Macedonians. And a Council of Bishops in Caria, rejected [Consubstantial,] and restored the Antiochian and Selencian Creed as the best.

9. 54 LXVII. An. 366. Some Arian Bishops at Singedim in Mysia, restored the Ariminum Creed [of Like substance] and solicited Geminius the Semiarian Bishop to consent, but prevailed nor.

6. 55. LXVIII. Two Councils were held at Rome by Danasus; one to condemn Valens and Orsatius, old Arian Bishops: Another to condemn Auxentius Bishop of Milan, and Sissinius as a Schismatical Competitor with himself: For when Danasus was chosen, the people were divided, and Danasus his Party being the more valiant Warriors, they fought it out in the Church, and lest one day an hundred thirty seven dead Bodies behind them, to shew that they had no Communion with them. And because Solvius and his Party still kept Conventicles, he was banished, and may the him, and now again condemned.

§. 56. LXIX. Another Council at Rome he had to condemn Vitalis and the Apollinarians (that took Christs Godhead to be instead of a Soul to his Body) and the Millenaries.

§. 57. LXX. A Council was called at Antioch to end a Schifm, therebeing three Bishops, two Orthodox, Meletius and Paulinus; and one Arian, Euzoius: They ended the Schism, by agreeing that Meletius and Paulinus should both continue, till one dyed, and then the other alone should succeed him; the Presbyters being sworn not to accept it while one of them lived. But Meletius dying first, Flavianus a Presbyter was said to break his Oath, and was chosen in his stead, while Paulinus (an excellent person) lived: And so the Schism was continued.

CHAP.

C.HAP. IV.

The First General Council at Constantinople, and some following.

9. 1. He reason why the West with Rome was freer from the Arian Herelie than the East, was not, as the Papists say, because Christ prayed for Peter that his Faith might not fail. but because the Emperours of the West were Orthodox. while those in the East were Arians: And the Bishops much sollowed the Emperours Will. That this last was the Cause, is notorious in the History: That Christs foresaid promise was not the Cause, is certain. Because whatever promise Christ maketh, he fulfilleth: But he hath not kept all the Bishops of Rome from failing in their Faith: Therefore he never promised so to do. The minor is certain by History: To pass by Marcellinus and Liberius and Honorius falls, (which were but like Peters) all those wicked men whom Councils deposed as Infidels, or Hereticks, Simoniacks, Murderers, Adulterers, one as a Devil Incarnate, and all those that Baronius and Genebrard stigmatize as Apostatical, and not Apostolical, (50 together) had not this promise sulfilled: Nor Sixtus Quintus, if Bellarmine judged truly, that he was damned: For it was not a dead faith, but a faving faith, which Christ promised Peter should not fail; such a faith as had the promise of life; He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved: Whoever believeth in him shall not perish, but have everlasting life: a faith that worketh by love: Else Peter might have been a wicked man, and damned, notwithstanding this Prayer of Christ, and Promise. If the faith of Constantine senior & junior, Constans, Valentinian, Theodosius, Honorius, Gratian, &c. had failed, the General Councils at Milan, and Ariminum, tell us, how failing the Bishops saith was like to be; when Ferome said, that the whole world groaned to find it self turned Arian.

S. 2. The blind zeal of Valens made him restless in Persecuting the Orthodox in the East: At Antioch he vexed those that would not Communicate with Euzoius the allowed Arian Bishop: At Gyzicum Eunomius was put in Eleusius place; but his followers built them a separate Church without the Walls. (Socrat. lib. 4. c. 6, 7.) He Persecuted the Novatians, and exiled Agelius their Bishop at Const. He banished Eustathius Antioch. and Evagrius, chosen by the Orthodox Bishop of Const. against Demophilus the Arian. Fourscore Bishops sent to crave Justice of him, were put to Sea in a Ship there set on fire, and were both burnt and drowned together. (Socr. l. 4. c. 13.) In all the East he deposed, abused, murdered many that would not forsake the Nicone Creed. Heset his Officers to suppress their

Conven-

Conventicles. At Alexandria he imprisoned Peter that succeeded Athanasius, and banished his Presbyters, and set up Lucius an Arian Bishop. He persecuted the Monks of the Wilderness of Egypt (Nitria and Scitis) and destroyed their Houses: Banished Macarius of Egypt, and Macarius of Alexandria, their Leaders. He persecuted Basis at Casarea: He went in person at Antioch, to disturb and scatter the Conventicles of the Orthodox; And when he had banished one of their Bishops (Meletius, enduring Paulinus) the Presbyters kept the Meeting: when he drove them away, a Deacon kept it up: At last Themistius, a Philosopher, made an Oration before him, bidding him not marvel that the Christians had such differences, for they were nothing to those of the Philosophers, who were of three hundred different Opinions; and that God would be honoured even under diversity of Opinions: This somewhat assumed him; and shortly after in the seth year of his age, he was slain.

6. 3. Gratian (and Valentinian junior) coming to the Empire, Liberty of Conscience and Restoration was given to all Sects, except the Eunomians, Photinians, and Manichees (Socrat. 1. 5 c. 2.) He took Theodosius into the Empire with him: And so the Orthodox Party got up again: and the Arians after this went every where down, save among the Goths.

§. 4. LXXI. Theodosius called a General Council at Constantinople, where the chief things done, were, 1. the setting up of Gregory Nazianzene as Bishop, 2. The condemning of the Macedonians, 3. The giving of the second Patriarchate to Constantinople, because it was the Imperial Seat; putting under him the Diocesses of Pontus, Heracles and Asia: 4. The putting down of Nazianzene again, and putting Nestarius in his stead. 5. The setting Flavianus at Antioch.

§. 5. Some would perswade us that it was two Councils and not one that did these things: But the question is but de nomine. In the beginning they dispatch'd part of their work; and before they departed Meletins the Bishop of Antioch dying, the Bishops returned to Council, and more Egyptian Bishops came and did the rest.

§. 6. The Case of Gregory Naz. was thus: A Council at Antioch in the reign of Arianisme, sent him, with three more able speakers to go visit the Churches, and draw them from Arianisme. He came to Constantinople, and an Arian being in possession, he got into a little empty Church, and there so long Preached, till he had recovered much of the City from Arianisme. Hereupon Peter, Bishop of Alexandria, signified by Letters, that he would have him be Bishop of Constantinople (against the Arian Bishop:) The Orthodox Party chose him: One Maximus, that of a Philosopher turned Christian, and insinuated into Gregories familiarity; by money first, and threats after, gets Peter of Alexander, and the Egyptian Bishops, to make him Bishop of Constant. Supposing Gregory not yet lawfully settled: Meletius Antioch: being at Const. Ordaineth Gregory Bishop. The Council, when Convened, Consirm him, and cast out Maximus (that never had possession:) Theodosius owneth Gregory, and putteth out the Arian Bishop, and possession:

possessed in at the death of Meletius, Gregory was against Flavian; The Egyptian Bishops being for him, set against Gregory, and resolved to cast him out and choose another: He seeing their resolution, and offended at their surious carriage in the Council, resigneth to the Emperour, and departeth: some make it, as if his resignation was unconstrained; but his own words shew, that he did it but to prevent the deposition which they resolved on: Else he durst not have deserted his Flock that lamented his departure. In his place they chose Nestraius a Pretor, that was no Christian, in foro Ecclesia, as being not yet baptized; and so was indeed uncapable, and the choice null: But the man was honest; And Nicephorus saith, that they put down his name in a Paper with others, leaving it to the Emperour to chuse one of them, and that he chose Nestarim.

§. 7. The description of this Council, and the good Bishops of his time, by Gregory Naz. in his Poems and his Orations, is very doleful; How implacably factious and contentious they were, how herce and violent, leaping and carrying themselves in the Council like mad-men. He describeth the People as contentious, but yet endued with the love of God, though their zeal wanted knowledg: Page 528. Orat. 32. "The Courtiers, "he faith, whether true to the Emperour he knew not, but for the most "part perfidious to God: And the Bishops as sitting on adverse thrones "and feeding adverse opposite Flocks, drawn by them into factions, like "the clefts that earth-quakes make, and the pestilent diseases that " infect all about, and distracting and dividing all the World, separa-"ting the East from the West, by the noise of meus & tuus, Antiquus & "Novus, nobilior & ignobilior, multitudine opulention aut tenuior; raging like "furious horses in battle, and like mad-men casting dust into the air, "and under their several Heads (or Leaders) fulfilling their own contenti-"ons, and becoming the determiners of wicked ambition and magnificence, "and unrighteous and abfurd judges of matters: The same men (saith he) "are to day of the same throne and judgment as we are, if so our Leaders "and chief men carry them; To morrow, if the wind do but turn, they " are for the contrary Seat and Judgment: Names (or Votes) follow ha-"tred or friendship: And which is most grievous, we blush not to say con-"trary things to the very same hearers; Nor are we constant to our selves, "being changed up and down by contention: You would say we are tossed "like the waving Euripus. Therefore he professeth, that it is unseemly for "him to joyn with them, in their Councils; as it were to leave his studies "and quietness, to go play with the Lads in the Streets, Page 524.

The like he hath in his Poem, De vita sua, Page. 24, 25, 26, 27.

Di jap महंडिडा, ७.

Etenim Magistri Plebis atque Antistites Sancti datores Spiritus, & qui thronis Fundunt ab altis verba queis patitur salus, Cunctisque pacem jugiter qui pradicant,

In ade media vecibus clarissimis Tanto furore se petunt sibi invicem, Tumultuando, contrahendo copias, Carpendo sese mutuo lingua effera, Saliendo, mentis ut solent sana impotes, Pradando quos quis ante pradari queat Rabida Imperandi dum tenet mente sitis (Quinam ista verbis, & quibus digne eloquar?) -Orbem universum prorsus ut divulserint; Ortumque jam & Hesperum seindit magis Ardens simultas, quam loci vel climata: Namque illa si von finis, at media uniunt; At hos ligare vinculum nullum potest: Non Causa Pietas (Bilis hoc excogitat, Ad mentiendum, prona,) sed Lis ob Thronos: Quidnam hoc vocarim? Prasules? Non prasules: &c.

Are not these lamentable descriptions of the Bishops of those happy times, and excellent Councils: Even in the days of good Theodosius; when the Church recovered from under Arianisme; and came newly out of the fire of Persecution? The truth is, All times have had some few such excellent persons as Nazianzene, Basil, Chrysostome, &c. But they have ordinarily been born down by the violent stream of a more ignorant, selfish, worldly sort of men.

All this here cited out of Gregory, is much less than he saith in his last Oration, De Episcopis, Vol. 2. too large and sharp to be now recited:

Therefore I leave it to the perusal of the Learned Reader.

One Papist saith to me, that it was the Arian or Macedonian Bishops that Gregory meant: But the whole tenor of his writing speaketh the contrary; and that he spake of this first Council at Constantinople, one of the sour which is equalled to the sour Evangelists: And in his 50th Epist. to Sophronius, Page 816. he saith, Sieos inveneratis non ob sidei destrinan, sed ob privatas simultates inter se distractos & divulsos, quod quidem ipse observation, &c.

But some may say that passion moved him to the satyrical exaggeration of his own received injuries: But, 1. He speaketh not of this Council only, but of others also: 2. He acknowledged, that till the Egyptian Bishops came, he had the Council Vote for his place. 3. His spirit and all his endeavours were for peace, and not to make things worse than they were; And for peace he quit his Seat. 4. And in his Epistles to the Civil Magistrates e afterwards wrote earnestly to them to keep the Bishops at the next Council in peace, lest they should make Religion a contempt and scandal. So that sew men could worse be charged with abusive invectives than this Pious, Learned, peaceable Bishop.

§. 8. In his 55th Epist. to Proceepius, page 814. refusing to come to their Council, he saith, "If I must write the very truth, I am of the mind to sly "from (or avoid) every Meeting of Bishops: For I never saw a joyful and happy end of any Council; nor any that gave not more addition and increase to evils, than depulsion (or reformation:) For pertinacious contentions and the lusts of Domination (or Lording,) (Think me not saith he) grievous and troublesome for writing this,) are such, as no words can express: And a man that will (there) be a Judg of others, shall sooner contract dishonesty himself, than repress the dishonesty of others.

They that fay he speaketh only of Heretical Councils defie the light, and will be believed by none that know the History.

§. 9. The Cale of Antioch, briefly, was this: Meletius was a good man, but of a healing disposition, made Bishop by the Arians mistaking him, and put out by them when they knew him, yet he held Communion with repenting Arians. Euzoius an Arian was put into his place, and he kept Conventicles. The grand Controversie of all the foregoing Ages, was about Communion with the Lapfed, that yielded to Idolatry, or Herefie: some over zealous were too proud of their own sufferings, and were very rigid against receiving such Penitents, saying they were Time servers, and receiving them would encourage others to fave themselves in suffering and then repent: Others were too wide in receiving them upon unfatiffactory professions of Repentance: The Wifest went a middle way. Many Antiochians separated from Meletius, because the Arians chose him, and he received penitent Arians: And Lucifer Calaritanus, and Eusetius Vercellensis of France going to settle the Peace at Anicch, Eusebius disliked their opposition to Meletius, and left them. Lucifer a good Man, but rigid and hot against the Arians, said that Meletiks could be no Bishop, and ordained them Paulinus (and so there were three as is aforementioned.) The Bishop of Rome who would have a singer in all, encouraged Lucifer; Pen: linus was a man of extraordinary goodness: but yet the Canon nullified the Ordination of a Bishop into a fore-possessed Seat; And when half cleaved to Meletius, and half to Paulinus (both very good Men,) a Synod (as is aforesaid) ended the difference, by to erating both till the death of one. and then making him fole Bishop: The Presbyters (it's said) were sworn to this. Melerius dyeth first; yet Flavianus a Presbyter that had stuck to them in Valeus Persecution, is chosen Bishop by the Meletians, who will not joyn with Paulinus as a Schismatick. The Pore owneth Paulinus: The Council at Confrantinople own Méletius first, and Flavianus after: Gregory Nazianzene and others were against Flavianus, because they said he came in by Perjury, having sworn not to accept it: Some fay he did not Swear. Lucifer Calariamus that Ordained Paulinus, forfook the Party called the Catholick Church, and gathered separated Churches, and became the Head of a Schism, called since Luciferian Hereticks, meerly because the Churches received the confessing returning Arisms to Communion, and he owned Flavianus. And thus even good? Bishoper

Bishops could not agree, nor scape the imputation of Heresie.

§ 10. Baronius and Binnius after him, say, Nazianzenus hano discordiam sua abdicatione compositum iri arbitratus, sedi Constantinopolitanæ cum consensu Imperatoris, non sine magno Bonorum ac populi sletu renunciat, atq, statim post habitas in Synodo aliquot actiones, comitantibus optimis quibuscunq; Orientalibus, in Cappadociam discedit. Tum qui supererant ibi Episcopi ac Sacerdotes Nundinarii, in locum Christiani perfectissimi, Theologi absolutissimi, Monachi castissimi, Nectarium hominem nendum Christianum sed adhuc Catechumenum, rerum Ecclesiasticarum penitus imperitum, in voluptatibus saculi & carnis hactenus versatum, suffecerunt.

§. 11. This Council added to the Nicene Creed some words about the Holy Ghost. The advancement of the Constantinopolitane Bishop by this Synod with the reasons of it, bred such a jealousie in the Bishops of Rome, as hath broken the Churches of the East and West, which are unhealed to this day.

§. 12. LXXII. Two Bishops, Palladius and Secundianus, complained to Gratian, that they were unjustly judged Arians, and desired a Council to try them. Ambrose perswaded him not to trouble all the World for two Men. A Council of 32 Bishops is called for them at Aquileia. They refuse to be accountable to so few, and are condemned.

§. 13. LXXIII. An. 381. Twelve Bishops met at Casarangusta against the Priscillianists: These Men had divers other Councils in those times. Ithacius and Idacius were the Leaders. The whole Story you may find in Sulpitius Severus in the Life of Martin, &c. The fum is this: Priscillianus, a rich Man, of much Wit and learning, was infected with the Heresie of the Gnosticks and Manichees. Many followed him; his party was much in Fasting and Reading: The Bishops in Council excommunicated them. Yet they kept up. The Bishops in Council sought to the Emperour Gratian to suppress them by the Sword: A while they prevailed: But the Priscillianists quickly learned that way, and got a great Courtier to be their Friend, and Gratian restored them. Gratian being killed, when Maximus was chosen Emperour by his Army, the Bishops go to Maximus for help: The Arians having got Head against Ambrose at Milan, and these Sectaries troubling the Churches in France, Spain, and Italy, Maximus (a Man highly commended for Piety by most Writers, faw that being forced by his Army to accept the Empire, he was a Ufurper) being once engaged, thought the defence of the Orthodox would strengthen him: So he forced Valentinian by Threats to forbear wronging Ambrofe; And to please the Bishops he put Priscillian to death, and banished some of his Followers. Martin Bishop of Tome (being a Man of small learning, but of great Holiness, and austerity of Life, living like a Hermite in the poorest Garb and Cabbin, lying on the Ground, faring hard, praying much, and working more Miracles, if Sulpitins, his Schollar and Acquaintance may be believed, than we read of any fince the Apostles, even than Gregory Thanmaturgus) did abhot drawing the Sword against Hereticks, and disswaded.

fwaded the Bishops and Emperour but in vain: The prosecution was so managed by the Bishops, that in the Countreys, those that did but Fast and Read much were brought under the suspicion of Priscillianism, and reproached: This common injury to Piety from the Bishops grieved Martin yet more, so that he renounced the Communion of the Bishops and their Synods: whereupon they defamed him to the Emperour and People, as an unlearned Man, a Schismatick, suspected of favouring Priscillianism! But Martins holiness and Miracles magnified him with the Religious sort. At last a great Priscillianist being sentenced to death, Martin travelled to the Emperour Maximus to beg his Life. Maximus told him, he would grant his desire if he would but once communicate with the Bishops: Martin preferring Mercy before facrifice, yielded, and did once communicate with them. But professed that in his way home, an Angel corrected him and threatned him if he did fo any more: and that from that time his gift of Miracles was diminished: and so he never communicated with them more to the Death: Sulpitins his Narrative puts the Reader to a great difficulty, either to believe fo many and great Miracles as he reports, or not to believe so learned, pious, and credible an Historian, who professeth to say nothing but what he either saw himself or had from the Mouth of Martin, or those that saw them, and who speaketh his own knowledg of his eximious Piety. He speaketh hardly of the Bishops, not only as complying with an Usurper, but that Ithacius in particular of his knowledge, was one that much cared not what he faid or did The Bishops would have denied that the death of Priscillian was by their means: Is it not strange that the Church of Rome should Canonize Martin for a Saint, believing his great Miracles, and yet themselves go an hundred times further against the blood of Dissenters, than the Bishops did whom Saint Martin therefore opposed and separated from to the death?

The Churches in Spain, and elsewhere, were disturbed and scattered or endangered by Souldiers to please these Bishops, not (as some forge) that Maximus did persecute the Christians for the Prey: For most Writers magnifie his Piety and Desence of Ambrose, and the Orthodox that condemn his Usurpation, though he said, the Souldiers in Britain forced him to it.

§. 14. LXXIV. A General Council was called to Rome by the Emperour and Damasus; but the Oriental Bishops would not come so far, but met at Constantinople: Here Damasus owned Paulinus at Antioch, as the Council of Const. had owned Meletius: And so neither would be obedient to the other; the General Council, nor the Pope. But Damasus durst not excommunicate Flavianus, but permitted two Bishops to continue at Antioch; accounted a Schism, which continued long.

9.15. LXXV. The Oriental Bishops that would not come to Rome, meeting at Constantinople, wrote to Rome to tell them their Case and Faith, & minded them that it was according to the Canons that Neighbour Bishops (and not Strangers) should Ordain Bishops to vacant Seats (to justifie their fetting up Flavianus when Rome sct up Paulinus:) And they give account of the advancement of Const. and Jerusalem and call Jerusalem [The Mother of all other Churches.]

their

6.16. A Synod held at Syda against the Massalians, little is known of. 6. 17. LXXVI. A Council at Bourdeaux condemned Instantius Priscillian. who thereupon was flain at Trevers.

6. 18. LXXVII. An. 386. A Council at Rome under Syricius, repeated fome of the old Canons.

§. 19. LXXVIII. Theegnostus having excommunicated Ishacius, and reprehended the Bishops, as irregular and bloody for procuring the Death of Priscillian, a Council called at Trevers did justifie and acquit him: Unjustly, fay, even Binnius and Baronius: who here repeat out of Sulpitius Marrins once communicating with the Bishops there, to save two Mens Lives, and the Words of the Angel to him [Merito, Martine, compungeris: Sed alrter exire nequisti: Repara virtutem; resume Constantiam, ne jam non periculum glorie, sed salutis incurras: Itaque ab illo tempore satis cavit cum illa Ithacianæ partis communione misceri: Caterum cum tardius quosdam ex ergumenis, quam solebat, & gratia minore curaret; subinde nobis cum lachrymis fatebatur, se propter communionis illius malum, cui se vel puntto temporis necessitate, non spiritu, miscuisset, detrimentum virtutis sentire: sexdecim post vixit annos, nullanı Synodum adiit, &c.

Is it not strange that Papists blush not to recite such a History with approbation, which expresseth a testimony from Heaven against far less than their Inquisition, Flames, Murders, Canons de heraticis comburendis & exterminandis, and Deposing Princes that will not execute them. And which sheweth such a Divine justification for separation from the Bishops and Synods of fuch a way, yea, though of the same Religion with us, and not so Corrupt as the Reformation found the Roman Papacy and Clergy?

§. 20. LXXIX. The two Bishops continuing at Antioch, Evagrius succeeding Paulinus, and Rome owning him, and the East Flavianus, a Council is called at Capua: Flavian refuseth to come: The Council had more wit than many others, and Ordered that both Congregations (Flavian's and Evagrius's) being all good Christians, should live in loving Communion. (O that others had been as wife, in not believing those Prelates that perfwaded the World that it is so pernicious a thing for two Churches and Bishops to be in one City, as Peter and Paul are said to be at Rome!) And they referred the Case to Theophilus Alex.

§. 21. But this Council condemned a new Herefie (Hereticating was in fallion;) viz. of one Bishop Bonosus, denying Mary to have continued a Virgin to the death. And they condemned Re-baptizing and Re-ordaining, and the Translation of Bishops.

§. 22. LXXX. Next comes a Provincial Council (or two) at Arles, which doth but repeat some former Canons.

S. 23. LXXX!. Next we have a strange thing, a Heresie raised by one. that was no Bishop: But the best is, it was but a very little Heresie: Hierome is the describer of it, who writing against the Author, Jovinian a Milan Monk, no doubt according to his sharpness, makes the worst of it: At the worst it containeth all these: 1. That Virgins, Widows and Marryed Women, being all baptized (or washed) in Christ, and not differing in any other works, are of equal merits. 2. That those that plend ide with a full faith are born again in baptisme, cannot be subverted by the Devil. 3. There is no difference of merit between abstaining from meat, and receiving it with thanksgiving. 4. That there's one Reward in Heaven for all that keep their baptifmal vow, Siricius catching Jovinian hid at Rome, fends him to Milan, where a Council Hereticateth him.

- §. 24. LXXXII. It's strange that Binnius vouchsafeth next to add out of Socrates, 1.5.c. 20. (when he Hereticateth him also) a Council of the Novatians; Socrates and Sozomen are called Novatians, by the Papilts, because they rail not at them so valiantly as the Hereticators do: And it may be they will call me one, if I say that I better like this Councils Canon. than burning men for such a Heresic. They decree that as from the Apo-Itles the different time of keeping Easter was not taken for sufficient cause for Christians to renounce Communion with each other, so it should be esteemed still, and it should be so far lest indifferent, that they live in love and Communion that are herein of different minds. And I would fay, as lowd as I can speak, If all the proud, contentious, ambitious, hereticating part of the Bishops had been of this Christian mind, O what sin, what scandal and shame, what cruelties, confusions and miseries had the Christian world escaped! But yet men will scorn to be so far Novatians, in despight of Scripture, reason, humanity and experience, whatever sin or misery follow: (As I faid before) in England the Convocation and Parliaments overfight hath determined of a falle rule to know Easter-day, and silenceth Ministers for not Assenting, Consenting to it, and approving the life of it, even the Use which consisteth in keeping Easter at a wrong time, which makes us Hereticks.
- S. 25. LXXXIII. An. 393. A great Council was called at Hippo, where Austin, yet a Presbyter was there. Good men will do well: Here was nothing but pious and honest, for reformation of Discipline and Manners; And most of the African Councils were the best in all the world. Their Bishopricks were but like our Parishes, and they strove not who should be greatest, or dominecr.

§. 26. LXXXIV. Next a Council at Constant. decideth a Crontroversic between two men striving for a Bishoprick, Bin. p. 539.

6. 27. LXXXV. Concilium Adrumetinum did we know not what.

S. 28. LXXXVI. An. 394. A Council of Donatifts was held at Caverna, about a schisin between two men set up for Bishops against each other.

$ 20. LXXXVII. At Bagai another Council was called by the Donatists, for the same Cause, where Primianus Carthag. having 3:0. Bishops, condemned Maximianus his Competitor, absent. Note here, 1. How great great a number the Donatifts were, and on what pretence (as over-voting them) they called others Hereticks and Schismaticks. 2. How small Bishopricks then were, the number tells us.

§. 30. LXXXVIII. A Synod was held at Taurinum in Savoy, where a difference was decided between the Bishops of Arles and Vienne, striving which should be greatest: And he was judged to be the greatest, whose seat was proved to be the Metropolitan: And a case of Communicating with one Falix a Partner of Ithacius and the bloody Bishops was debated.

§. 31. LXXXIX. Another Carthage Council called the second, which Binnius saith, was the last, is placed next; which decreed several Church Orders, some of which shew, that a Bishops Diocess had then but unum altare; As when reconciliation of Penitents, (as well as Chrisme, and Confecrating Virgins) was to be done by the Bishop only, except in great necessity. And when Christians were multiplyed, they that desired a Bishop in a place, that had none before, might have one. And the prohibition erigendi aliud altare, &c. was repeated.

§. 32. XC. Another Carthage Council called the third, hath many good "Orders: One is Can. 26. "That the Bishop of the first Seat, shall not be "called the Chief Priest (or Bishop) or any such thing, but only the Bishop of the first Seat. To avoid all ambitious designs of superiority: Whence Binnius elsewhere noteth, that Carthage had not an Archbishop. No doubt they had a sense of the sin and missery, that came by the Patriarchall and other ambitious strifes.

6. 33. XCI. Another Carthage Council hath the like Canons, adding to this aforesaid, as Gratian citeth it, [Universalis anten nee ctian Romanus Pontifex appelletur.] To which Binnins hath no better an answer than, 1. That it is only swelling titles, and not the superiour power that is forbidden. 2. That the Africans had no power to make Laws for Rome; But, 1. Sure the Name is Lawful, if the Power be Lawful. 2. They that could make no Laws for Rome, might declare their Judgment of Gods Laws, and that Rome might make no Laws for them. This Council also forbiddeth going beyond Sea with Appeals.

9. 34 XCII. The next Garthage Council hath 104 Canons for Discipline: most very good. Divers Canons lay so much on the Bishop, as plainly shew each Bishop had but One Altar. Can. 14. "That the Bishops "Cottage be not far from the Church: Can. 15. That the Bishop have but vile or cheap houshold stuff, and a poor table and diet; and seek his authority or dignity by his faith and desert of life. 16. The Bishop must not read the Gentiles Books; 19. Nor contend for transitory things, though provoked. 20. Nor take on him the care of Family (or common) business, but only be vacant to the Word and Prayer. 23. The Bishop shall hear no Cause but in the presence of his Presbyters; else it shall be void that is sentenced without them, unless confirmed by their presence. 28. The unjust condemnation of Bishops is void. 30. And judgments against the absent. 35. The Bishop to sit higher than the Presbyters at

" Church

"Church and their Meetings, but at home know that they are his Colleagues. 51. A Clerk how Learned soever in Gods Word, must get his living by a trade. 52. That is, by a trade or husbandry, without detriment to his Office. 53. All Clerks that are able to work, should learn both trades and Letters. 55. The Bishop must not admit an accuser of the brethren to Communion; Nor to enter into the Clergy, though he amend. Many against Clergy-men that are flatterers, betrayers, soultongued, quarrellers, at discord, scurrilous, of silthy jeasts, that swear by creatures, that sing at feasts, of former scandal, &c. 83. The poor and the aged of the Church to be honoured before the rest. 88. He that soeth to any Shows or Sights, on publick days, instead of going to the Church-assembly, let him be Excommunicate. 98. A Lay-man must not teach when the Clergy are present, unless they bid him. 100. A woman must not baptize.

§. 35. XCIII. An. 398. Another Council was at Carthage of 73. Bishops for Discipline.

9. 36. XCIV. An. 399. Theophilus held a Synod at Alexandria, against a dead man, Origen. The occasion Baronius and Binnius thus deliver: Melania, a Woman of greatest Nobility in Rome in Valens the Arians Pesecution, hid five thousand Monks, and a while susteined them, and when they were banished, with great zeal, followed them to maintain them out of her substance (or estate:) When they were restored from banishment, the built for her self a Monastery at Jerusalem, in which, besides fifty Virgins that dwelt with her, she entertained and maintained holy Foreign Bishops, Monks, and Virgins, twenty seven years: Whereby it happened that both she and Ruffinus, were by Didymus Alexandrinus, (a man blind, but of great learning and fame, too great an admirer of Origen's works) entangled (as their accusers said) in Origen's errours, and received and dis vulged his Book, called Periarchon: After 25 years absence in Egypt and Palestine, returning to Rome with great fame of Holiness, and bringing with them a piece of the Cross, they with fraud bring to Rome Origen's Periarchon, (that is, Translated and Corrected by Ruffinus.) Another Woman, Marcella, accuseth them of Origen's errours, which they deny, and geting Communicatory Letters from Pope Siricius, forfake Rome, (where fuch Merits and Holiness would not procure an aged Lady a quiet habitation, without being Hereticated, because she highly valued Origen's Works, which had divers errours; and who hath not?) Hereupon Pamachius, and Oceanus, write to Hierome to publish Origen's Periarchon entire, and detect his errours; which he did, shewing that Ruffinus had mended some, and left others unmended: This occasioned stirs against Hierome, and a Council call'd at Alexandria, an. 399. where Origen is condemned. Theophilus by his Legates expells Origen's followers out of Egypt and Palestine: Being expelled they go to Chrysostome to Constantinople, and complain of Theophilus as persecuting them that were innocent Catholicks, and desired his help: He undertaketh to reconcile them to Theophilus: Epiphanius followeth them to Constantinople, and requireth Chrysostome to Excommunicate them and Expel them; Chrysostome durst not do it, against people professing truth and piety, without a Synod: Whereupon Fpiphanius irregularly accuse the Chrysostome, and publickly inveyeth against him in his own Church; of the process of which, more anon-

§. 37. For the better understanding of these matters, I will insert somewhat of Theophilus and Chrysostome, out of Socrates, because he is a most credible Historian, and saith, they were things done in his own days. Theophilus was noted for a Lordly Prelate; Isidore Pelusiota saith more: When Chrysostome was to be Ordained Bishop of Constantinople, Theophilus refused to Ordain him, because he would have preferred to it, one Isidore, a Presbyter of his own; But Eutropius, a Courtier, having got Articles against Theophilus, shewed them to him, and bid him choose, whether he would Ordain Chrysostome Bishop, or stand at the Bar and answer those crimes: Theophilus was so assaid at this, that he presently Consecrated Chrysostome: Socr. 1.6. c. 2. But presently after began busily to devise how he might work him mischief, which he practised privately by Word, and by his Letters into foreign Countries: But was vexed that his malicious practices had not better success, for he thought to bring in this Isidore (cap. 5.)

§. 38. One of the Articles against Theophilus was this: When Theodofius was going to fight against Maximus the Tyrant, Theophilus sent prefents by this Isidore to the Emperour, with two Letters, charging him to give the presents and one of the Letters to him that should have the upperhand. Isidore got him to Rome, to hearken after the Victory: But his Reader that kept him company, stole away his Letters: Whereupon Isidore in a fright took his heels presently to Alexandria.

§. 39. Another thing to be fore-known to this story is in Socrat. 1.6 c.7. The schissme of the Anthropomorphites now rose from Egypt: some of the more unlearned thought that God had a body and the shape of a man, but Theophilus (and the Judicious) condemned them, and inveighed against them, proving that God had not a body. The Religious of Egypt hearing this, slocking in blind zeal to Alexandria, condemned Theophilus for a wicked man, and sought to take away his life: Theophilus very pensive, devised how to save his life: He came to them courteously, and said, When I fasten mine eyes on you, methinks I see the face of God. These words allayed the heat of the Monks; who said, If that be true that thou sayest, that the face of God is like ours, then curse the Works of Origen which deny it: If thou deny this, be sure thou shalt receive at our hands the punishment due to the impious and open enemies of God: O brave disputing! Were these mortisted Monks? Theophilus told them, he would do what they would, for he hated the Books of Origen.

But that which ripened the mischief was, that the Religious Houses of Egypt having four brothers, excellent men, for their overseers, Theophilus was relibered them away to him; one of them, Dioscorus, he made a Bishop; others living with him perceived that he was set upon heaping and hoarding money, and that all his labour tended to gathering, [Dr. Hanmer translating this, puts in the Margin, This Bishop bath more fellows in the World. And noting how Theophilus to revenge himself persecuted his own Opinions, faith. This is a fin against the Holy Ghost.] would dwell with him no longer, but returned to their Wilderness. Theophilus prone to anger and revenge, endeavoured by all means to work them mischief; And the way he took was to accuse them to the Monks, for saying to him, that God had not a body, nor humane shape: And he himself was of the same Opinion, yet to be revenged of his Enemies, he stuck not to oppugnit; and fent to the Monks not to obey Dioleorus or his Brethren, for they held that God had no body, whereas Scripture faith, that he hath eyes, ears, hands and feet, as men have; which with Origen they deny: By this treachery he fet them all together by the ears: one fide calling the other Originists, and the other them Anthropomorphites; so it turned to bickering among the Monks, yea, to a deadly battel: And Theophilus went with Armed men and helped the Anthropomorphites.

So you fee, if Socrates fay true, how wickedly this Sainted Patriarch lived, and how he came so much engaged against the Origenists, whose crours doubtless were worthy blame: but many good persons who honoured Origen for his great worth, and owned not his errours, were called Origenists, because they honoured him: And that which was erroncous in him, was consistent with far greater Learning, Piety, and Honesty, than Socrates, Isidore Pelus. and others thought there was in Theophilus: Either credible Socrates, and others were gross Lyars, or this Patriarch and Saint was a downright knave, or acted like one.

S. 40. Now we are upon it, let us profecute Chryfostome's History further. He was a studious holy Monk of a House, near Anioch: After Ne-Eturius death he was chosen Bishop for his meer picty and worth: He was a man of great piety and honesty and an excellent tongue, and as good a life, but bred in a Cell and not to Courtship, knew not how to flatter Courtiers and Court-Prelates: He was naturally sharp and cholerick, and his conscience told him, that a Bishop must not be a dawber, nor flatter the greatest wicked men: (For Bishops in that Age were the Preachers,) not having a thousand Congregations to preach to.) He saw even the Clergy addicted to their appetites: and he kept a Table for them, but eating with great temperance he always eat alone; He rebuked the Luxury of the Court, and particularly of the Empress, who conceived a deadly hatred against him: And the Custome of the Court was, for the Women much to influence both Emperour and Courtiers, and then what Bishop foever was too precise for them and hold with their sins, to get a pack of the Worldly Clergy presently to meet together and depose him: (For Synods of Bishops (not the Pope) had then the power.) They would not be seen in it themselves, but a Patriarch of Alexandria should call a Synod, and do it presently." Chrysostome was a man of no Courtship to take off their edges; but the worfe Courtiers, Bishops, and Priests were, the worse he spake of them; And all the honest plain people believed and loved him; but the rich and great Prelates abhorred him. His own Clergy hated him, because he would reform them: Those that would not amend, he Excommunicated: Which they could not bear: so that one of his Deacons Serapion, openly said to him, O Bishop, thou shalt never be able to rule all these as thou wouldst, unless thou make them all tast of one whip. Every one was his Enemy who was his own, and was engaged by guilt against his

The Guilty hated him: His Hearers loved him: Swift-Writers took his Sermons, which tell us what he was to this day: And it was honesty and policy in Innocent Bishop of Rome to own him, who had worth to add to the reputation of his desendants. Among other of his accusations, one was, that Eutropius an Eunuch, Chamberlain to the Emperour, procured a Law against Delinquents taking the Church for a Sanctuary. And shortly after being to be beheaded, for a crime against the Emperour, he took the Church for a Sanctuary himself; And Chrysostome from the Pulpit Preached a Sermon against him, while he lay prostrate at the Altar. Also he resisted Gainas the Arian, who turned Traytor and was destroyed

Another cause of Chrysostome's disturbance was, that one Severianus Bishop of Gabale in Syria, came into Constantinople, and Preached for Moncy, and drew away the hearts of the People, while Chrysostome was about choosing a Bishop for Ephesus: Serapion a turbulent Deacon quarrelled with the Syrian Bishop, and would not reverence him: The Bishop said, If Serapion die a Christian, Christ was not Incarnate. Serapion tells Chrysostome the last words without the first: Chrysostome forbids Severianus the City: The Empress taketh his part, and importuneth Chrysostome to be reconciled to Severianus. But the Core remained, Socrat. 1.6.c. 10.

§. 41. Socrat. c. 11. Shortly after Epiphanius (the Collector of Heresies) came from Cyprus to Constantinople, and there irregularly in Chrysostomes Diocess played the Bishop, ordained a Deacon, and called together the Bishops that were accidentally in the City, and required them to Condemn the Books of Origen; which some did, and some refused, saith Socrates, cap. 12. "Obscure men, odd Fellows, such as have no Pith or "Substance in them, to the end they may become famous, go about most "commonly to purchase to themselves Glory and Renown by dispraising " fuch men as far excel them in rare and fingular Virtues. Chrysoftome bore patiently Epiphanius's fault and invited him to take a Lodging at his House. He answered him, "I will neither Lodg with thee, nor Pray "with thee, unless thou banish Dioscorus and his Brethren out of the City, "and subscribe with thy own Hand the Condemnation of the Works of "Origen: Chrysostome answered, that such things are not to be done without deliberation and good advice. Epiphanius in Chrysostome's Church at the Sacrament, stands forth and Condemns Origen, and Excommunicateth Dioscorus a Bishop, and reproveth Chrysostome as taking their part. Chrysostonie Chrysostome sent word by Serapion to Epiphanius that he did violate the Canons, 1. In making Ministers in his Dioces; 2. In administring the Communion without his Licence, and yet refusing to do it when he defired it. Wherefore he bid him take heed lest he set the People in an uproar, for if ought came amis, he had his remedy in his Hands. Epiphanius hearing this, went away in fear, and took Ship for Cyprus: The report goeth (saith Socrates, cap. 13.) that as he went he said of John, I hope thou shalt never dye a Bishop: And that Chrysostome answer'd him, I hope thou shalt never come alive into thy Countrey. And it so sell out: For Epiphanius dyed at Sea by the way; and Chysostome dyed deposed and banished.

$.42. The Empress Eudoxia was said to set Epiphanius on work. Chrysostome being hot, made a Sermon of the faults of Women; which was interpreted to be against the Empress. She irritated the Emperour against him; and got Theophilus to call a Council against him, at Quercus near Chalcedon, and Constant. Thither came Severianus, and many Buhops that Chrysostome had deposed, and many that were his Enemies for his strictness; but especially time fervers that knew the will of the Empress, if not the Emperours: When they summoned him to appear before them, He answered, that by the Canon there must be more Patriarchs, and he appealed to a General Council, yet not denying to answer any where, if they would put out his Enemies from being his Judges, and that in his own Patriarchate. But they fentenced him deposed, for not appearing: The People were prefently in an uproar, and would not let him be taken out of the Church: The Emperour commanded his banishment: To avoid Tumult, the third day he yielded himself to the Souldiers to be transported: The people hereupon were all in an uproar, and it pleased God that there was an Earthquake that night: Whereupon the Emperour fent after him to intreat him to return. When he came back he would not have officiated, till his Caufe was heard by equal Judges, but the People constrained him to Pray and Preach; which was after made the matter of his Accufation. Theephilus was hated as the cause of all, and Severianus as the second. After this Theophilus turned his Accusation upon Heraclides, Bishop of Ephesus, put in by Chrysostome: They condemned him unheard, in his absence: Chrysostome said that should not be: The Alexandrians faid, It was just; They went hereupon together by the Ears, and some were wounded and some were killed, and Theophilus glad to fly home to Alexandria; but was hated by the People.

§. 43. After this a Silver Image of the Empress was set up in the Street, and Plays and Shows about it, which Chrysostome perhaps too sharply reproached: This provoked the Empress to call another Council; which deposed Chrysostome, for seizing upon his place before a Council restored him: He ceased his Office: The Emperor banished him: His People in passion set the Church on Fire, which burnt down the Senatours Court; for which grievous sufferings befoll them. Upon this they sorsook the Church and the new Bishop (Arsacius, an old useless man) and gathered Con-

venticles by themselves, and were long called Joannites from his Name, and taken for Schismaticks: But they never returned till the Name and Bones of Chrysoftome were restored to Honour.

5.44. The Novatians quarrelled with Chrysostome as too loose in his Doctrine and too strict in his Life, because he said in a Sermon, If you sin an hundred times, the Church Doors shall be open to you, if you repent. And Chrysostome angry with Sissinais the Novatian Bishop, told him, There should not be two Bishops in one City, and threatned to silence him from Preaching: He told him that he would be beholden to him then for saving him his labour. But Chrysostome answered him, Nay, if it be a labour, go on.

§. 45. XCV. A Council in Africk to renew the Priviledges of Churches for Sanctuary; that none that fled to them for any Crime, should be taken out by force: Justice was taken for Wickedness.

fus to judg fix Bishops for Simony.

$. 47. XCVII. About An. 402. A Council of 19 Bishops at Tolerum repress the Priscillians; and make divers Canons for Discipline; as that a Clergy-Man shall have power over his offending Wise by force, but not to put her to death; that a man that hath no Wise but one Concubine shall not be kept from Communion (though some think that this Concubine is truly a Wise, but not according to Law, but private Contract, and more service.) Many other better there be.

There is adjoyned a Regula fidei of many Bishops approved by Pope Leo, in Bin. p. 563. To which are adjoyned Anathematisms against the Priscillians: One of them is, If any one say or believe that other Scriptures are to be had in Authority and Reverence, besides those which the Catholick Church receiveth, let him be Anathema. (Yet the Papists receive more.) Another is, Is any one think that Astrology or Mathematicks is to be believed (or trusted) let him be anathema.

There are in Bin. divers Fragments cited, as of the Tolet. Councils. One faith that Arch-Presbyters are under the Arch-Deacons, and yet have Curam animarum over all the Presbyters. Another determineth that there shall be but one Baptismal Church, which is there called, The Mother Church, with its Chapels, in the Limits assigned: And another distinguisheth of Offerings made at the Parish Church, and Offerings at the Alrars; which sheweth that then there were no Altars but where the Bishop was.

§. 51. Cl. An. 403, 404, &c. There were seven Councils in Africk, against the Donatists, to procure Honorius to suppress them by the Sword, not as a Heresie, but because they rose up by Fire and Sword against the Catholicks, and abused and killed many. But when Attalus invaded Africk, the Emperour proclaimed Liberty for them, to quiet them; which he after recalled. Another Synod was held against them at Cyrta. One at Tolerum about Ordinations; and one at Ptolemais to Excommunicate Andronicus, an oppressing Governour.

§.52. CII. The Donatist Bishops held a Council, decreeing, that when a sentence of banishment was passed on them, they would not for sake their Church, but rather voluntarily die, as many did by their own hands. For they took themselves to be the true Church and Bishops, and the rest persecuting Schismaticks.

§. 55. CV. A Council of 60 Bishops at Milevis condemn Pelagius. The 22. Canon galleth the Pontificians: If Presbyters, Deacons, or other inferiour Clergy, shall in their Causes complain of the Bishops, the neighbour Bishops shall hear them and end the business; being used by the consent of their Bishops: But if they see cause to appeal from them also, let them appeal to none but to Africane Councils, or to the Primates of their Provinces: But if any will appeal to any places beyond the Seas, let none in Africk receive them into Communion.

In this Council was Aurelius, Alypins, Augustinus, Evodius, and Possidonius, and these very great with Pope Innocent, one of the best and wisest Popes (who excommunicated Theophilus, Arcadius and the Empres, & c. for Chrysostomes cause.) Yet did this pass then without contradiction. Can. 12. of this Council Liturgies were made necessary approved by Councils lest any Heresie should be vended.

5. 56. Celestine and Pelagius being condemned by the Africans, especially upon the Accusations of Lazarus and Herotes Bishops, said to be holy men; Innocent joyned with the Africans, but after his death Pope Zosimus having a fair Appeal of Calestine, &c. to him, absolveth them both and condemneth their Accusers. He writeth an Epistle, had the cause been good, very honest against rash condemning innocent men, telling them how greatly they were rejoyced at Rome to find them Orthodox; and what false and bad men Lazarus and Herotes were: It was Lazarus custome to accuse the Innocent, as in many Councils he had done Saint Britins a Bishop of Tours; that he got by Blood into the Bishops Seat. and was the shadow of a Bishop, while a Tyrant had the Image of Empire, and then his Patron being flain, voluntarily deposed himself. The like he faith of Herotes; and that neither of them would come personally to Rome, but lay in Bed and sent false Letters of Accusation: Therefore he admonisheth the Africans (among whom was Augustine) to believe such whisper-whisperers no more against the innocent: But Binnius out of Prosper maketh

the accusers holy men, and the other wicked: Bin. p. 607.

§. 57. Pelagius sent Zosimus a Confession of his Faith, and therein condemning all the late Herefies, professeth, That he so holdeth free-will: as yet that we always need the help of God; and that they erre who say with the Manichees, that a man cannot avoid sin, and they that say with Jovinian, that a man cannot sin; for both deny the freedome of the will: But he holdeth, that always a man can sin and can forbear sin, so as he still holdeth the freedome of the will.

But subtile Augustine and the rest, sent back many harder questions to put to Pelagius and Calestine for their tryal, upon which they after past for Hereticks.

§. 58. CVI. Therefore 217 Bishops in a Council at Carthage having received Zosimus Letters, decreed to stand to their former judgment and Innocents, against Pelagius and Celestine, till they should confess certain points (for Grace) drawn up by Paulus Diaconus.

§ 59. CVII Zosimus being dead, Boniface and Eulalius strove for the. Popedome: Both were chosen: The Emperour Honorius was sent to for both: This Case being too hard for him, he referreth it to a Council at Ravenna: It proved too hard for them. Therefore the Emperour commanded them both to remove from the City, and another Bishop to officiate, till it was decided by another Council. But Eulalius disobeying the Emperours Command, and coming into Rome at noon-day, occalioned a tumult, and the people were neer to fight it out. Which the Emperour hearing, expelled Eulalius, and a Council obeying him confirmed Boniface.

§. 60. Among the Decrees of Boniface one is, That no Bishop shall be brought or fet before any Judge Civil or Military, either for any Civil or criminal cause. So that a Bishop had the priviledge of a bad Physician: he might murder and not be hanged; For any crime, he was to answer but before Bishops, who could but Excommunicate and Depose him. But another Decree is better, against Bishops that fall out and desire to hurt their Brethren: But, alas, to how little effect?

S. 61. CVIII. Another Council at Carthage, (called the fixth, and by fome the fifth) had the famous contention with three Popes, Zosimus, Boniface, and Calestine, successively, against Appeals to Rome, and the Popes fending Legates into Africa to judge. The Popes alledged the Council of Nice for it. The African Bishops knew no such Canon: They take time for Tryal, and send to Constantinople and Alexandria, to Atticus and Cyril, for their true Copies of the Councils: None of them have any fuch Canon: The Fathers write to the Pope to take better heed what he affirmeth for the time to come, and to forbear fuch pride and usurpation: alledging that by the Canons all strifes were to be ended by their neighbour Bishops and Councils.

(as Harding) that the Africans continued long, (some say almost 100 years) in Schism: And an Epistle under the name of Pope Boniface the second to Eulalius saith the same: Others wiser (as Binnius) see that to lose Augustines authority and have him and all the African Bishops (the best of the World) against the Papal power, would be to heavy a burden for them: Therefore they say, that the Africans were no Schismaticks, that the Canon not found was in the Council of Sardica; and that That went for the Council of Nice: That the Africans did not deny the Popes power of judging them, but only of sending Souldiers and doing it violently by force, and such other shifts, which the express words of the African Council and Letters plainly confute: If any dispute it, I appeal to the very words.

Either another Council or a second Session of the same is called the seventh at Carthage.

§. 62. CIX. All this while the Schism continued at Rome, and Eulalius partly would not Communicate with the rest, each side saying, that theirs was the True Bishop, and the other an Usurper and Schismatick. But Theodosius was for Calestine. In his time another Carthage Council made up their Canons 105. Among which are: 6. That no Bishop be called the chief Bishop. 33. To deal gentlier with the Donatists. 36. To send to them for peace. 53. That Bishops latelier ordained may not dare to prefer themselves before those that were Ordained before them. 68. For pacifying the Churches of Rome and Alexandria, &c.

5. 63. It fell out well for Austin against the Pelagians, that by the means of Prosper and Hilary Pope Calestine was wholly on Austins side, and condemned the Pelagians. And among his own Decrees one was Nullus invitis desur Episcopus: Cleri, plebis & ordinis Comm. Sensus ac desiderium requiratur. Many Canons of those times shew that the Bishops Churches were no bigger, than that All the Laity could meet to choose or accept the Bishop, and have personal Communion.

9. 64. CX. An Eastern Council against the Massalians.

$. 65. CXI. Next cometh the Nestorian War: Pope Calestine provoked by Cyril Alex. called a Council at Rome, and condemned Nestorius, unless he recanted in ten days.

§. 66. CXII. Cyril calleth his Council at Alexandria, and passeth the same sentence, having got Calestine to back him, and sends it with many Anathematismes to Nestorius, calling for his abjuration. The whole cause is opened at the next Council at E_{phess} .

CHAP. V.

The First General Council at Ephesus, with the Second. and some other following.

He Church at Constantinople growing to be the greatest, by the presence of the Court (which was the spring or poise of most of the Bishops courses, and indeed did rule,) it became the envy and jealousie, especially of the two great Patriarchs. Rome and Alexandria. Alexandria being under the same Emperour had more to do with Conft. and made the greater Stirs; For when the Empire was divided, Rome being under an Orthodox Emperour, had little trouble at home, and little opp ortunity for domination in the East: Yet keeping up the pretence of the prime Patriarchate, and the Caput Mundi Romani, the Pope watch'd his opportunity to lay in his claim, and to keep under the stronger fide, and while they did the work in the East against one another, he fent now and then a Letter or a Legate, to tell them that he was fomebody still: And indeed the hope of help from the Western Emperour by the countenance of the Pope, made the Eastern Churches still vexed with Heresie and Persecutions and Divisions, to seek oft to Rome and be glad of their approbation, to strengthen them against their adversaries.

. 2. When Arfacius was dead, Articus succeeded him at Constantinople, a wife and pious healing man, who greatly thereby advanced that Church and all the Eastern Churches: He dealt gently with the Novatians and lived in peace with them. He encouraged Hereticks by kindness to return to the Communion of the Church. At Synada in Phrygia Pag. was a Church of Macedonians: Theodosius Bishop of the Orthodox Persecuted them with great severity: And when he found that the Magistrates of the place had not power to do as much as he expected, he got him to Constaminople for greater power: while he was there Agapeum the Macedonian Bishop turned Ortho-Setrat 1.7. dox, and all the Church adhered to him, and fet him in the Bishops chair. When Theodofins came home with power to persecute him, he found him in his place, and the people shut the doors against Theodosus: Whereupon he went back to Conft. and made his complaint to Atticus how he was used. Actions knew that it fell out for the best, for the concord of the Church, and he gave Theodosius good words, and perswaded him only to be pati-

S. 3. Cyrii at that time succeeded his Unkle Theophilus at Alexandria, in place and in unquiet domination, taking more upon him than Theophilus had done, even the Government of temporal affairs: He presently shut Secr.ib.c.7. up the Novatian Churches in Alex. rifled them of all their Treasure, and bereaved Theopempus their Bishop of his substance The Jews at that time falling out with the Christians, murdered many of them. Cyril executed some, and banished them all. Orestes the Governour took this ill: Fifty Monks of Mount Nitria come totake Cyril's part, and assault the Governour, and wound him in the head with a stone: The people rife and put the Monks to flight, but take him that did the Fact, and he is tormented and put to death: Cyril pronounced the Monk a Martyr, but the people would not believe him one. At that time there was a Woman, Hypatis, so famous secr. c. 15. for learning, that she excelled in all Philosophy, and taught in the Schools (which Plotinus continued:) fo that the had Scholars out of many Countries, and was oft with Princes, and Rulers, and for her modesty and gravity was much esteemed. Orestee the Governour oft talking with her, the people said. It was long of her that he was not reconciled to Cyril: They laid hold of her; drew her into a Church, stript her stark naked; rase the skin. and tare the flesh off her body with sharp shells till she dyed: they quarter her body and burn them to ashes: which turned to the great dishonour of Cyril.

of. 4. All this while the followers of Chrysostome remained Nonconformits and Separatists at Constantinople, and were called Joannites, and kept in Conventicles of their own. Attious knew that love was the way to win them, and he purposing to take that way, writeth to Cyril Alex. that the restoring of Chrysostome's name in the Church-Office would tend to heal their sad division, and give the Churches peace: He told Cyril, that Populus majori ex parte per sationem scissus extra muros conventus egerit, & plerique sacerdotes & collega nostri Episcopi & a mutua communione discedentes, bonam plantationem Domini parum abest quin avulserint, &c. "Most of the people were gone and had separate meetings without the Walls; Priests and sthat if he consented not to restore the name of dead Chrysostome, the peothat if he consented not to restore the name of dead Chrysostome, the peothat if he consented not to restore the name of dead Chrysostome, the peotion should so fall into the hands of the Multitude, and therefore he would take in Chrysostom's name.

Alexander, a good Bishop of Antioch put him upon this way: But Cyril Niceph. 1. did vehemently oppose it (How did he obey Rome then, when the Pope had 14.6.17. Excommunicated Chrysostom's persecutors?) And first he pleaded, that the Schismaticks were but sew (as if their own Bishop knew not better than he;) and that Chrysostome being ejected dyed a Lay-man, and was not to be numbered with the Clergy, that Articus had the Magistrates on his side, that would bring them in by force (Reader, there is nothing new under the sun: the things that have been arc.) And a little time would reduce most of them to the Church (though they increased;) That by savouring the Schismaticks he would lose the obedient (Conformists,) and would get nothing by pleasing such disobedient men, but strengthen them; That the Conformists (or obedient) were the far more considerable part, even the Bishops and Churches of Egypt, Libia, &c. and threatned that he would seek a remedy himself; And reproaching Chrysostome, he telleth Actions, That Conformity to the Canons was more to be observed than the pleasing of such Schismaticks, and that violating the Canons would do far more hurt than pleafing fuch men would do good; And that fuch men will never be fatisfied by reasons, nor judge truly of themselves: And he likened the restoring of Chrysostome's Name, to the putting in the name of the Traytor Judas with Matthias. He added, That if ignorant wilful fellows will forfake the Church, what loss is it? And therefore that a few mens talk must not draw Auticus to pluck up the Church Sanctions. And as for Alexander Antioch. who perswaded him to it, He was a bold-faced man that had deceived many; but this disease must not thus prevail, but be cured. Thus Cyril to Attieus: How oft have I heard just fuch language? Reader, How hard is it to know what History to believe, when it comes to the characterizing of adversaries? How little is a domineering Prelates accusation of such men as Chrylostome to be credited? And how ordinary is it with such, to call their betters, not what they are, but what they would have them thought, if not what they are themselves?

But Articus was wifer than to take this Counsel; but obeyed the Wisdom which is from above, which is first pure and then peaceable, gentle, &c. And God had so much mercy on Constant. as to defeat the evil Counsel of Cyril, and turn it into soolishness: For Articus restored the name of Chrysosteme, and used the Nonconformists kindly, and they came into the unity of the Church: And when Proclus, after him, fetch'd home his bones with honour, the breach was healed.

9. 5. No credible History telleth us, that either Theophilus or Cyril did repent of this; (Though the Papists say, that the Pope Excommunicated Theophilus for it; yet they are now honoured, because the Pope did own the Cause against Nestorius.) Theodoret's Epistle to Joh. Antioch. upon the death of Cyril, taking his death for the Churches deliverance from a turbulent enemy of Peace, intimates, that he repented not: But (God only knoweth:) Nicephorus out of Nicetas the Philosopher, tells us a report, that after all this, before he dyed, a dream did cure him; viz. That he fare Chrysostome drive him out of his own house, having a Divine company with him; and that the Virgin Mary intreated for him, c.c. And that upon this Cyril changed his mind and admired Chrylostome, and repented of his imprudence and wrath, and hereupon called another Provincial Synod to honour him, and restore his name. (O dustile Synods! And O unhappy Churches, whose Pastors must grow wife, and cease destroying, after so long sinning, and by an experience which costeth the Church so dear!) And Nicephorus saith; that Isidore Pelusiota's reproof conduced much hereto, Niceph. lib. 14. cap. 28.

§. 6. Isidore Pelus. words you may see at large in his Epistles: Nicephorus reciteth thus much of them, ub. 14. c. 53. Cyrillum sand ut hominem turbulentum refellens has scribit: Favoris affectio acutum non videt: Hossilis verò animi odium nil prorsus cernit: Quod si utroque, hos vitio te purga-another.

§. 8. After the death of Sissimius to avoid strife at home the Emperour caused Nestorius to be chosen, a Monk from the House by Antiech, whence Chrysostome came. He was loud, elequent, and temperate: But hot against the liberty of those called Hereticks: He begun thus to the Emperour, Give me the Earth weeded from Hereticks, and I will give thee Heaven: Help me against the Hereticks and I will help thee agairst the Persians. This turbulent hereticators must have the ser, c. 29. He presently enraged the Arians by going to pull down their Church, and they fet it on Fire themselves to the hazard of the City. So that he was presently called a Firebrand. He vexed the Novatians, and raised stirs in many places, but the Emperour curbed him. Antony B thop of Germa vexing the Macedonians, they killed him: whereupon they were put out of their Churches in many Cities.

$.9. At last his own ruine came as followeth. Nessorius desended his Priest Anastasius, for saying, that Asary was not to be called Scolones, the Asather c. 329 of God: This set all the City in a division, disputing of they well knew not what, and suspecting him of denying the Godhead of Christ: But he was of no such Opinion, but being eloquent and self-conceited read little of the Ancients Writings, nor was very learned; and thought to avoid all extreams herein, and so would not call Mary the Mother of God, nor the Mother of Man, but the Mother of Christ who was God and Man.

At that time fome Servants of some Noble Men impatient of their Mafters severities fled to the Church; and with their Swords resisted all that would remove them, killed one Priest, wounded another and then killed themselves.

6. 1c. CXIII. The Emperour Theodosius jun. a Religious Peaceable

Prince, weary of this Stir, called a General Council at Epheliu, and gave Cyrel order to preside, (the Papists pretend that he was Pope Calestine's Legate, who indeed joyned with him by his Letters, when he faw how things went.) Both Cyril and Nestoring desired the Council (Letters before having made no end.) Calestine nor the Africanes could not come, Angultine was dead: Nestorius, Cyril, and Juvenal of Ferusalem came: Fohn of Antioch was thirty days journey off, and his Bishops much more, and stayed long. Cyril and Memnon of Ephesus would not stay for him: Nester riss came the first day; But Cyril and the rest being sharp against him, for not calling Mary the Parent of God, he said to them, Ego bimestrem ant trimestrem Deum non facile dixerim: Proinde parus sum à vestro sanguine: in posterum ad vos non veniam. That is, I will not easily say, that God is two or three months old: I am clean from your bloud, and will come to you no more. Some Bishops going with him, they met by themselves. Cyril summoneth him: He refuseth to come till John Bishop of Antioch came. They examine his Sermons and Witnesses, and condemn and depose him, as blasphemous against Christ. Three or sour days after, John of Antioch, and his Eastern Bishops come: He took it ill that they stayed not for him: He joyneth in a distinct meeting with Nestorius: Theodoret accuseth Cyril's Anathematismes of errour: They depose Cyril and Menmon: Cyril's Synod citeth John: He refuseth to appear: They depose him and his adherent Bishops: And thus two Synods fate deposing and condemning one another: Both Parties fend their Agents to the Emperour: His Officer Candidianus took part with Nestorius: He sendeth another Johannes Comes, with charge to depose the heads of both the deposing Parties, and so to make good both their depositions, viz. Nestorius, Cyril, and Memnon: Candidianus before had told the Emperour, how all was done in violence and confusion, and he had pronounced all Null, and charged them to begin all a-new. When Johan-Ein.p 786. nes Comes came, he wrote to the Emperour, that All being in confusion, and Cyril and Memnon fortifying themselves, he summoned them all to come to him; And left they should fall together by the ears, (which he feared, by reason of their strange sierceness) he ordered their coming in so, that it might not be promiseuously: Neltorius and John of Antioch being come first, Cyril and his company (except Memnon) camenext, and presently a great tumult and stir began, Cyril's Party saying, that the sight of Nestorius, whom they had deposed, was not to be endured: They would have the Scripture read: But those that favoured Cyril, faid, that the Divine and terrible Scriptures were not to be read without Cyril, nor while Nestorius and the Oriental Bishops were present; and for this there was a Sedition, yea, a War, and Fight: The same said the Bishops that were with John, that Cyril ought not to be present at the Reading of the Scriptures, he and Memnon being deposed: The day being far spent thus, he attempted, excluding Cyril and Nestorius, to read the Emperours Orders to the rest; But Cyril's Party would not bear them, because they said Cyril and Memnon were unlawfully dep-fed: He had much a-do to perfive de them at last, (and indeed thrusting out Nestorius and Cyril by sorce) so much as to hear the Emperours writing. But he made them hear it: In which Nestorius, Cyril, and Mennon, were deposed. Those that were with John heard it friendly, and approved it: The other clamoured, that Cyril and Memnon were wrongfully deposed: To avoid Sedition; Nestorius was committed to Candidianus Comes, and Cyril to Jacobus Comes (and Memnon after.) He concludeth, Quod si prensissimos Episcopos videre implacatos & irreconciliabiles, (Nescio unde in hanc rabiem & aspertatem venerint,) & c. This was his Description of the carriage of this Council.

Both Parties sent several Bishops, as their Delegates, to Constantinople: The Emperour would not permit them to come nearer than Chalcedon, (which is as Southwark to London.) While they wait there, Theodorite, one of John's Party against Cyril, wrote back, that the Court was against Neforim, but most of the People were for them. It's said that Pulcheria, the Emperours Sifter, was much against him. At last Pope Calestine's Legates came to the Council and took Cyril's Part. The Emperour faw how great the breach would be, if Cyril were deposed, and he revoked the depolition of him and Memnon, but not of Nestorius, and wrote a threatning Letter to Cyril and John, to charge them to agree and joyn in Communion, and not divide the Churches, or else what he would do to them both. These terrible words cured them both of Heresie: They presently consulted, and fent each other their Confessions, and found (good men) that they were of one mind and did not know it. And so having their will upon Nestorim and his adherents, the rest united. But so, that John and Throdorite took Cyril for a Firebrand to the last.

5. 11. Nestorius being deposed retired quietly to his Monastery by Antioch, and lived therein honour sour years, but then was banished and dyed in distress: (some Fable that he was eaten with Worms.)

5. 12. The event of this Council was, that a Party of the Orientals adhered to Nestorius, took Cyril and this Council for Hereticks, and to this day continue a numerous Party of Christians, called Hereticks by the Pontificians, because they are not for them: And the Eutychians on all occasions accused their Adversaries the Orthodox to be Nestorians, and the Churches were inflamed by the diffention through many Ages following.

$. 13. And what was really the Controversie between them? Some accuse Nesterius as asserting two persons in Christ as well as two natures, which he still denyed: Others accuse Cyril as denying two Natures: But his words about this were many, but he affirmed two Natures before the Union, (and so did the Eutychians) but one after: David Derodon a most learned Frenchman hath written a Treatise De Supposito, in which he copiously laboureth to prove that Nesterius was Orthodox, holding two Natures in one Person, and that Cyril and his Council were Hereticks, holding one Nature only after Union, and that he was a true Eutychian, and Dioscorus did but sollow him, and that the Council of Chalcedon condemned Nesterius and stablished his Doctrine, and extolled Cyril and condemned his Dostrine. But for my part I make no doubt that, de re, they were both fully of one mind, and differed only about the aptitude of a phrase: Whether it were an apt Speech to call Mary the Parent of God, and to say that God was two moneths old, God hungred, God dyed and rose, &c. which Nestorius denyed, and Cyril and the Council with him affirmed. And what hath the World suffered by this Word Warr. But which was in the right.

We commonly say that forma denominat, & locutio formalis est maxime propria. And so Nestorius spake most properly: But Use is the Master of Speech, which tyeth us not always to that strictness, and so Cyril well interpreted spake well: especially if the contrary side should intrude a duality of Persons, by their denying the Phrase: While Nestorius accuseth Cyril as if he spake de abstracto, he wrongeth him: while Cyril accuseth Nestorius as if he spake de concreto, he wronged him: They both meant that Mary was the Mother of Christ who was God, and of the Union of the Natures, but not the Mother of Christ as God, or of the Deity. So that one speaking de concreto, and the other de abstracto, one materially and the other formally, in the heat of Contention they hereticated each other and kindled a slame not quenched to this day, about a word while both were of one mind.

$. 14. If any fay it is arrogancy in me to fay that such men had not skill enough to escape the deceit of such an ambiguity, I answer, humility maketh not men blind: The thing proveth it self. Judg by these following words of Nestorius and Cyril what they held.

Nestor. p. 16. thus reporteth Nestorius saying, Hic qui videtur Infans, hic qui recens apparet, hic qui fasciis corporalibus eget, hic qui fecundum visibilem essentiam recenter est editus, Filius universorum opisex, Filius qui su opis fasciis dissolubilem creatura naturam astringit. — Item, Infans enim est Deus libera potestate; tantum abest (Aric) ut Deus Verbum sie sub Des potestate. — Again, Novimus ergo Humanitatem infantis & Deitatem; Filiationis Unitatem servamus in Deitatis humanitatisque natura: saith Derodon, I dare boldly say no Christian hath hitherto spoke trulier and plainer of the Unity of Christs Person in two Natures, than Nestorius.

Ex lib. Cyril 2. Cont. Nestor.p.4. He thus reporteth Nestorius, Hoc quod Christus est nullam patitur Stalpeore, sed Deitatis, & Humanitatis est draipeore : Christus qua Christus est advaigeore ; neque enim dues Christos habemus neque dues Filios : Non est enim apud nos primus & secundus, neque alius & alius, neque rursus alius Filius & alius rursus; sed ipse ille unus est duplex non dignitate, sed

Cyril saith that Nestorius was the Disciple of Diodorus Tarsensis from whom he learnt his Heresie, Epist. ad Success. and that he was the hearer of Theodorus Mopsuest condemned in Council, for the same Heresie as Nestorius. But saith Derodon, Facundus toto lib. 4. largely proveth that Diod. Tarsensis was Orthodox by the testimonies of Athanasus, Basil, Chrysostome, Epiphanius, &c. Et lib. 3. & 9. he proveth the same of Theod. Mopsuest. citing the places where he asserted two Natures in one Person, Vid. Facund. 1. 3.c. 2. & 1.9.c. 3. 4. And Liberatus in Brevior. c. 10. saith: Diod. Tarsensis & Theod. Mopsuest. & alii Episcopi contra Eunomium & Apollinarem unius Natura assertores libros composuerunt, duas in Christo ostendentes naturas in unâ personâ: & ibid. Duas Joh. Antiocheni Epistolas, primam & tertiam, laudes Theod. Mopsuest. continentes Chalced. Synodus Oecumenica per relationem suam Martiano

Imperatori directam, suscepit & confirmavit.

S. 16. By all this it is evident that Nestorius was Orthodox; and owned two Natures in one Person: And that the Controversie was de nomine, unless Cyril was an Entychian. And that it is a more accurate cautelous Speech à formà to say that God did not increase, hunger, die, rise, &c. than to say God did these; because it seemeth to intimate that Christ did suffer these, quà Deus, As God, which is blasphemy. But that it is a true speech that God did suffer these, meaning not quà Deus, but Christus qui Deus: and that one Syllable of distinction between quà and qui might have saved these Councils their odious Contentions and Fighting, and the Churches for many Ages the Convulsions, Distractions and mutual Condennations that sollowed, and the Papirts the odious violation of Christian Charity and Peace in calling the Eastern Followers of Nestorius, Nestorium Hereticks to this day. Judge how much the World was beholden to Cyril, Calestine, and this Council.

S. 17. Obj. By this you make the Bishops and Councils to be all Feels, that know not what they do, and to be the very plagues and shame of humane nature, thus would kindle such a stame not yet quenched about nothing.

Answ. 1. If we must measure, sidem per personas, yea, judge of matter of Fact by respect of persons, judge so by the Councils at Ariminum, Syrmium, Milan, Tyre alfo; Judge so by the Second Council of Ephefus, and abundance fuch: How shall we know which of them so to judge by? 2. Good men have foul Vices: Faction, and Contention, and Pride, have undeniably troubled the Churches: When Concell. Carthag. 6. forbad Bishops to read the Books of Gentiles, it is no wonder that the number of Learned Bishops was small; And when no Bishop was to be removed from place to place, but all Bishops made out of an Inferiour degree, ulhally of the same Parish; Yea, and when Academies were so rare, it is path doubt that Learned Bishops were rare: When Nettarius must be the great Patriarch, that was yet no Christian, and when Synesus, because he had Philosophical knowledge, is chosen Bishop, even before he believed the Referrection; When they were such, as credible Nazianzene, Isidore Pelufiota, and long after Salvian describes. It is not I, but these knowing . Witnesses, Witnesses, and their own actions, that characterize them. Doth not Sacrates, that knew Nesserius, say; that he was not Learned? And he, and others, that Cyril was high and turbulent? Theodoret was a Learned map, and he thought no better of his Adversaries.

The Objections against Nestorius and Theodorus Mopsuest, are largely answered by Derodon, ubi supr.i.

5. 18. The same Derodon laboureth to prove, that Cyril was an Heretick, the Father of the Eutychians, and so were the Ephes. Council, and Pope Calestine. His proofs against Cyril are reduced to these Heads. 1. His express afferting One Nature only in Christ. Epist. 2. ad success. Duccesar. Qua igitur necessitas ipsum puti in propria natura, si post unionem dicatur una verbi Natura incarnati?

Item, Ignorant rursus qui resta pervertunt, quod junta Veritatem una su natura Verbi incarnata: si enimunus est silius natura & verè Verbum quod meffabiliter en Deo Patre est genitum, & si idem per assumptionem carnis non enaminis sed animata unimà intelligente processit homo de nultere —— Non enim de solis simplicibus Unum secundam nuturam verè dicitur, sed etiam de iis qua junta compositionem convenerunt, ut est v.g. homo, qui constat animà & corpore, hac eniminter se disserunt specie, veruntamen unuta unam naturam hominis absolvant, quamvis adsit ratione compositionis differentia secundam naturam rirum, in unitatem concurrentium: supersus igitur sermonibus immorantur qui dicunt, si una est natura verbi incarnata, fequitur ut permixtio confusioque generetur.

Nefforius third Objection was from Christs voluntary passions; Ergo duas nasuras subsistere post unionem indivise. Cyril answereth, Adversus rursus hac corum propositio nibilominus iis qui dicunt unamesse Filii naturam incarnatim idque velut incotum volentes oftendere, nbique duas naturas subsistentes conantur astruere; sed ignorant quecunque non distinguintur solà mentis consideratione, ea prorsus etiam in diversitatem distinctam omnifariam ac privatim à se mutuo scoregari: e.g. Homo - duas in eo naturas intelligimus, unam anime, alteram corporis; sed cum sola discreverimus intelligentia & differentiam subtili contemplatione sen mentis imaginacione conceperimus, non tamen seorsim ponimus naturas, sed unius effe intelligimus. Ita ut illa due jam non sint due, sed amba unum animal absol-Tandem ita concludit. THE igitur ex quibus est unus & solus silius Dominus Jesus Christus cogitationibus complexi, duas quidam naturas unitas asserimus; post unionem verò tanquam adempta jam in duas distinctione unam esse credimus filii naturam tanguam unius, sed inhumati & incarnati. It's strange, how Cyril and the Encychians meant, that Christs Natures were two before the Union. Did they think that the Humanity existed before the Union?

So Epist. 1. Cyril. ad success. Nihil injustifacimus dicentes ex duabus na turis suctum esse concursum in unitatem; post unionem vero non distinguimus naturas ab invicem, nec in duos silios unum & individuum partimur, sed dicumus unum silium, & sicut Partes alterum crunt, Unam Naturam Dei Verbi incarnati.

Eadem dicit Epist. ad Acacium Molet. Post unionem si blata ia , in dan difinctione unam esse credimus filii naturam, tanquam unius, sed inhumati.

Cyril. Epist. ad Eulog. Presb. Nos illus (duas naturas) adunantes unum silium, unum Dominum consitemur, deinde & unam per naturam incarnatam, quod & de communi homine dicendum.—— Dum unitatem consitemur, non distinguuntur amplius qua sunt unita: sed unus jam est Christus & una est ipsius tanquamincarnati Verbi natura.

Et p. 45. Quomodo Christum unum & individuum dicis esse duplicem natura? Cyril. lib. de recta side ad reginos p. 63. Assumitur in unum Deitatis Naturam unus Christus Jesus per quem omnia.

Cyril. Dialog. Quod unus sit Christus. [Unum porro filium & unam ipsus Naturam esse dicimus, licet carnem anima intelligente praditam assumpserit.]

Many more such passages are in Cyril. Here Derodon proveth, 1. That Cyril took not stars for Persona. 2. That he took not stars for Division but Distinction: If he did, it was an ill quarrel, when Nessorius asserted not a Division, but a Distinction. 3. That Cyril still reproveth Nessorius for asserting only a union secundum personam, and not secundum naturam. 4. That Cyril (as Dioseorus) declares what union he meaneth, not by Confusion, Commixtion or Transmutation, but by Composition, (and so said the Eutychians.)

The second order of Derodons proofs is from all the places where Cyril pleads for one hypostasis, and he sheweth that by hypostasis Cyril meant natura or substantia singularis. The citations are too long to be repeated.

3. His proofs are from all the Texts where he faith the Word, and Humanity concurred eigh.

His fourth proof that Cyril was an Eutychian, is from all those places where he saith, that the Godhead and Manhood are made one nature as the soul and body of man are.

His fifth order of proofs is from the words where he oft attributeth the same operations, and the same attributes to both nature.

His fixth proof is from the testimony of Ibas Edef. apud Facund. 1. 6.c. 3.

§.20. For my part, I again say, past doubt, that neither Nestorius nor Cyril were Heretical de re; but that they were of one mind, and that one spake of the concrete, and the other of the abstract; that one spake of Christus qui Deus, and the other of Christus qui Deus. But (pardon truth, or be deceived still) ignorance, pride, and envy, and faction, and desire to please the Court, made Cyril and his Party, by quarressome Heretication, to kindle that lamentable slame in the World. But sin serveth the sinners turn but for the present, and becometh afterward his shame. All the Bishops would not follow Cyril. At this day the falsy Hereticated Nestorians (saith Breerwood Enquir. p. 139.) inhabites a great part of the East, for besides the Countries of Babylon, Assyria, Mesopotamia, Parthia, and Media, they are spread far and wide, both Northerly to Cataya, and Southerly to India: Marcus Paulus

Paulus tells us of them and no other Christians in Tartary, as in Cassar, Sarmacham, Carcham, Chinchintalas, Tauguth, Suchir, Ergimul, Tenduc, Caraim, Mangi, &c. so that beyond Tigris there are sew other Christians. The Persian Emperours forced the Christians to Nestorianisme; Their Patriarch hath his Seat at Musal in Mesopotamia or the Monastery of St. Ermes near it, in which City the Nestorians have 15 Temples: They are falsly accused still to hold two Persons in Christ: They say as Nestorius himself said, You may say that Christ's Mother is the Parent of God, if you will expound it well, but it is improper and dangerous. They take Nestorius, Diodorus Tarsensis and Theodorus Mossues, for holy Men; They renounce the Council Ephes. and all that owned it, and detest Cyril. They Communicate in both kinds: They use not auricular Confession: nor Consistantion: nor Crucifixes on their Crosses: Their Priests have liberty for first, second, or third Marriages, &c. Breerwood, ibid, p. 144.

§. 21. I need no other proof for my opinion, that these Bishops set the World on fire about a Word, being agreed in sense, than the reconciliation of the Patriarchs Cyril and John when forced, and rheir Parties, prosessing that they meant the same and knew it not. Obj. But they all condemned Nestorius. Ans. To quiet the World, and to please the Courtiers and violent Bishops. And the Emperour himself (saith Socrates, 1.7.c.41. one that excelled all the Priess in modesty and meckness, and could not away with persecution,) was the more against Nestorius because he was a persecutor himself.

Read Theodoret's Homily against Cyril, Ein. p. 907. and Johan. Antioch. ibid. But neither the one side [Nestorius heresiarcha impiissimus,] nor the other side [Cyrillus superbus & blasphemus] should signific much with menthat know what liberty adverse Bishops used.

§. 22. As for them that say, Nestorius did dissemble when he afferted the Unity of two Natures in one Person: and is not to be judged of by his own words, I take them to be the sirebrands of the world, and unworthy the regard of sober men, who pretend to know mens judgments better than themselves, and allow not mens own deliberate profession to be the notice of their Faith.

§. 23. When the Emperour saw that there was no reconciling the Bishops, but by force, he authorized Aristolaus, a Lay-Magistrate, to call Cyril and Joh. Antioch. to Nicomedia, and keep them both there till they were agreed: whereupon John communed with his Bishops, and they yielded, having no remedy, to the deposition of Nestorius, the Ordination of Maximinianus in his stead, and communion among themselves. This is called another Council.

It would grieve one to read the Emperour Theodosius importuning Simeon Stylites, a poor Anchorite, to try whether by Prayer and Counsel he could bring the Bishops to Unity, and concluding, [This discord doth so trouble me, that I judge that this only hash been the chief occasion of all my calamities.] Bin. p. 928.

§. 24. CXIV. An. 433. There was a Council called at Rome to clear Pope

Pope Sixtus from an accusation of one Bassus, of ravishing a Nun.

§. 25. CXV. There is talk of a Council at Roise to clear one Polychronius Bishop of Jerusalem, of accusations of Simony: But contradictions make this (and the former) to be altogether uncertain.

§. 26. CXVI. The Armenians in Council are said to condemn Nestorian Books.

§. 27. CXVII. A Council was held at Constant. to decide the Controverfie between the Alexandrian and Constant. Bishops, which should be greatest, and rule the East; where it was carried for Constant. And Theodoret pleading for Antioch, Dioscorus (the Alex. Agent) hated him ever after, (as he faith Epist. 86.)

§. 28. CXVIII. An. 439. A Council at Regiense of 13 Bishops did somewhat about Ordinations, &c.

5. 29. About this time Leo at Rome was fain to forbid bowing toward the East, because the Manichees joyned among them, and bowed to the Sun, and could not be else distinguished from the Orthodox, Bin. de Leone.

9. 30. CXIX. A Council at Aransican repeated some old disciplinary Ca-

§. 31. CXX. Leo held a Council at Rome of Bishops, Priests, and Laymen, to detect the wickedness of the Manichees, and warn men to avoid them.

9. 32. CXXI. An. 445. Leo held a Council at Rome against Hilary Bishop of Arles, for disobedience to his Decrees.

CHAP. VI.

Councils about the Eutychian Heresie and some others.

5. 1. CXXIII. Tril had by many words fo carried the business at Ephesus against Nestorius, and himself so often said, that after the Union, the Natures were one, that his Admirers took that for a certain truth: But when that quarrel was over, Truth was truth still, and the Orthodox would not sly from it, for fear of being called Nestorians; for they disclaimed Nestorius, but disowned the Doctrine of One nature. Eutyches an Archimandrite, and Dioscorus, Successour to Cyril, belived that they did but tread in his steps, and hold to the Ephes. Council. But that would not now serve, when the Scene was changed.

6. 2. Reader, It is useful to thee, to know truly the state of this Tragical Controversie, which had more dividing and direful effects than the former. The Eutychians say, that Christ before their Union by incarnation had two natures, that is, considered mentally, as not united; but after the union had but one nature. They took up this as against Nestorianisme. The truth is, Though they still go for desperate Hereticks, I verily believe that all the quarrel was but about ambiguous words: some of them understood the word [Nature] in the same sense as their Adversaries took the word [Hypostasis] or [Person.] And (it's sad that it should be true, but) most of them confounded [Unity undistinguished] and [Uniting undivided.] The Encychians thought, How can that be called Unity which maketh not one of two? And no doubt the Natures are One; But One what? Not One Nature, but One Person: Yet (to bring off Cyril) it may be said that even the Natures are One, in opposition to Division or Separation, but not One in oppostion to distinction. He that had but distinguished these two clearly to them, and explained the word [Nature] clearly, had better ended all the Controversie than it was ended. It's plain that Cyril and the Eutychians allowed mental distinction, though not that the Mind should suppose them divided: And it's certain that the Orthodox meant no more.

§. 3. He that readeth but Philosophers, Schoolmen, and late Writers, (such as Fortum. Licetus de natura, &c.) will see how little they are agreed about the meaning of the word [Nature,] and how unable to procure agreement in the conception. They that say it is principium motus & Quietis, are contradicted, as confounding divers Principia: and as confounding Astive Natures, and Passive, the Astive only being Principium Motus, and the Passive, Principium quietis. And on such accounts the Emischians pleaded for One Nature; because in Christ incarnate they supposed that the Divine Nature was the Principium primum motus, and that all Christs actions were done by it, and that the humane foul, being moved by the Divinity, was but Principium subordinatum, which they thought was improperly called Principium, (As most Philosophers say, that Forma generica is improperly called forma hominis, because one thing hath but one forms so they thought that one person had but one proper Principium motus.

9. 4. Alas how few Bishops then could distinguish as Derodon doth, and our common Metaphylicks, between, 1. Individuum, 2. Prima substantia, 3. Natura, 4. Suppositum, 5. Persona, 6. and have distinguished, a right essence and hypostasis, or subsistence, cic. and defined all these. Nature saith Derodon de suppos. p. g. is taken in nine senses; But the sense was not here agreed on, before they disputed of the matter.

Even about the Nature of Man, it is disputed, whether he consist not of many natures? Whether every Element (Earth, Water, Air, Fire) retain not its several Nature in the Body, or whether the Soul be Mans only Nature, and whether as intellectual, and sensitive and vegetative, or only in one of these? And is it not pity that such questions should be raiscd about the person of Christ by self-conceited Bishops, and made necesfary to falvation, and the world fet on fire, and divided by them? Is this good usage of the Faith of Christ, the Souls of Men, and the Church of God.

§. 5. But to the History: At a Council of Constantinop. under Flavianvs, Eusebius Bishop of Dorileum accused Eutyches, for affirming Heretically as aforesaid, (that after the Union Christ had but one Nature.) Entiches is sent for: He refuseth to come out of his Monastery; After many Citations, he still refusing, they judge him to be brought by force: He first delayeth: Then craveth of the Emperour the presence of Magistrates, that he be not calumniated by the Bishops. He is condemned, but recanteth not.

§. 6. A meeting of Bisheps at Tyre cleared Ibas Edess. from the accufation of Nestorianisme, made by four Excommunicate Priests, two of them perjured; and reconciled him to fuch Priests for Peace sake.

§. 7. Another meeting of Bishops at Berythum, cleared Ibas from a renewed accusation of Nestorianisme, being said to have spoken evil of Cyril. An Epistle of his to Maris a Bishop, was accused, which the Council at Calcedon after abiolyed, and the next General Council condemned.

§. 8. CXXIV. Another Council is called at Constantinople, by the means of some Courtiers, in favour to Emiches, where, upon the testimony of some Bishops, that Flavianus Bishop of Constantinople condemned him himfelt, before the Synod did it, and that the Records were altered, all was nullified that at the last Synod was done against him.

§. 9. CXXV. Theodosius calleth a second General Council at Ephesus an. 449. and maketh Dioscorus Bishop of Alex. President. Dioscorus forbad Ibas and Theodores to be there, as being Nestorians: The Emperour himself was so much for peace, and so deeply before engaged in Cyril's cause cause against Nestorius, that he thought it levity to pull down all so soon again, the Eutychians perswading him that they stuck to Cyril and the Ephesine and Nicene Council. Dioscorus thinking the same, that Entiches and Cyril were of one mind, and that it was Nefforianifme which they were against, carried matters in this Synod as violently as Cyril had done in the former. The Bishops perceiving the Emperours, the Courtiers, and Diofcorus mind, could not refift the stronger side. The Bishop of Rome was commanded by the Emperour to be present. He sent his Legates; with his ludgment in Writing of the Cause. The Emperour forbad those to be Speakers that had before judged Encycles. The Roman Legates excepted that Dioscorns presided: (It seemeth the Eastern Empire and Church, then believed not that the Popes precedency was jure divino.) Diescorus declareth, that the Council was not called to decide any matter of Faith, but to judge of the proceedings of Flavianus against Encycles. The Acts of the Constant. Synod (after the Emperours Letters) being read, Eutyches is absolved: Donnius, Patriarch of Amioch, Juvenal, Patriarch of Jerufalem, the Bishop of Ephesus, and the rest, subscribed the absolution, (which after they faid they did for fear, when another Emperour changed the Scene.) This being done, the Acts of the former Ephef. Council were read, and all Excommunicate that did not approve them. (So that this Council of Eucyclians thought verily the former was of their mind.) Four Bishops, Flavianus, Eusebius, Doryl, Ibas Edes. and Theodoret Cyri, are condemned and deposed: All the Bishops subscribed except the Popes Legates; so that, saith Bimius, In hoc tam horrendo Episcoporum suffragio, sola navilula Petra incolumis emergens falvatur, p. 1017. Judge hy this, First, Whether Councils may erre, Secondly, Whether they are the just Judges or Keepers of Tradition, Thirdly, Whether all the World always believed the Popes Infallibility, or Governing power over them, when all that Council voted contrary to him.

Flavianus here offering his appeal, was beaten and abused, and dyed of the hurt, (as was said in Concil. Calced. and by Liberatus.) But this was no quenching, but a kindling of the fire of Episcopal Contentions: Theodosins missed of his end.

§. 10. CXXVI. Leo at Rome in a Synod condemneth this Ephesian Council.

- S. 11. CXXVII. Dioscorns in a Council at Alexandria, Excommunicateth Leo.
- §. 12. CXXVIII. Theodosius the Emperour being dead, Martian was against the Eurychians: Anatolius at a Synod at Constantinople, maketh an Orthodox Profession of his Faith, like Leo's.

§. 13. CXXIX. And at Milan a Council owneth Leo's judgment.

S. 14. CXXX. Now cometh the great Council at Calcedon, under the new Emperour Martian, where all is changed for a time; Yet Pulcheria who marryed him and made him Emperour, and whose power then was great, was the same that before had been against Nestornus in her Brothers reign: Never was it truer than in the Case of General Councils, that the Multitude of Physicians, exasperateth the Disease, and killeth the Patient. The word [Scinno] the Cone nature after union] the words [one will and one opperation] had never done half so much mischief in the Church, if the erroneous had been consuted by neglect, and Councils had not exasperated, enraged, and engaged them, and set all the World on taking one side or another. One skilfull healing man that could have explicated ambiguous terms, and perswaded men to Love and Peace, till they had understood themselves and one another, had more bestriended Truth, Piety, and the Church, than all the Hereticating Councils did.

$. 15. If what Socrates writeth of Theodosus junior be true, (as we know no reason to doubt) God owned his Moderation by Miracles, notwithstanding his favouring the Eutychians, more than he did any ways of violence. Socrates saith, 1. 7. c. 41, 42. that Theodosus was the mildest man in the World, for which cause God subdued his enemies to him without slaughter and bloodshed; as his Victory over John and the Barbarians shew: Of which he saith, First, Their Captain Rugas was kill'd with a thunder-bolt; Secondly, A Plague killed the greatest part of his Soldiers; Thirdly, Fire from Heaven consumed many that remained. And Proclus the Bishop being a man of great Peace and Moderation, hurting and persecuting none, was confirmed by these providences in his lenity, being of the Emperours mind, and perswading the Emperour to setch home the bones of Chrysostome with honour, wholly ended the Nonconformity and Separation of the Joanites.

§. 16. Before Theodosius dyed, Leo Bishop of Rome set Placidia and Eudoxia, to write to him against Dioscorus, and for the cause of Flavis-nus: Yea, and Valentinian himself. Theodosius wrote to Valentinian (and "the like to the Women,) "That they departed not from the Faith and "Tradition of their Fathers, that at the Council of Ephesus second things were carried with much liberty and truth, and the unworthy were removed and the worthy put into their places, and it was the troublers of the Church that were deposed, and Flavianus was the Prince of the Contentions, and that now they lived in Concord and

Peace.

§. 17. The Council at Calcedon was called, an. 451. Dioscorus is accufed for his Ephesine General Council, and for his violence, and defence of Eutiches, and the death of Flavianus. He alledgeth the Emperours Order to him [Authoritatem & Primatum tua prabemus beatitudini, (If the Popes Universal Rule be essential to the Church, then the pious and excellent Emperour Theodosius, and the General Council that consented, were none of them Christians that knew it, but went against it.) Eos qui per additamentum aliquod, aut imminutionem conati sunt dicere, prater qua sunt exposita de side Catholica à santis Patribus qui in Nicaa, & post modum qui in Ephesio congregati sunt, nullam omnino siduciam in santio Synodo habere patimur, sed & sub vestro judicio esse volumus.] Here Binnius accuseth the good Em-

perour as giving that which he had not but by usurpation, and this through ignerance of the Ecclesiastical Canons. But were all the Bishops ignorant of it also? Or was so good an Emperour bred up and cherished in ignorance of such a point pretended by the Papists to be necessary to the Being of a Church, and to salvation; The Bishops of Ferusalem and Seleucia also partook of the same power by the Emperour's Grant. Dioscorus answered that All the Synod consented and subscribed as well as he, and Juvenal Hieros.

The Bishops answered, that they did it against their wills, being under fear; Condemnation and Banishment was threatned; Souldiers were there with Clubs and Swords: Therefore the Oriental Bishops cryed out to cast out Dioscorus. Stephen Bishop of Ephesus (who had been Dioscorus chief Agent there) cryed out, that fear constrained them: The Lay-Judges and Senate asked, who forced them? Stephen said Elpidius and Eulogius, and many Souldiers threatned him. They asked, Did Dioscorus use violence with you? He said that he was not suffered to go out till he had subscribed. Theodorus Bishop of Claudiopolis said, that Dioscorus, Juvenal, and Bin. Tomasi the leading men, led on them, as simple ignorant men, that knew not the P. 7, 8. Cause, and frightned them with defaming them as Nestorian Hereticks. Thus they cryed out that they were frightned.

The Egyptian Bishops answered, that A Christian seareth no man, (and yet they were astraid before they ended) A Catholick searcth no man; we are instructed by slames: If men were seared, there would be no Mariyrs.

Dioscorus noted what Bishops those were that said they subscribed to a blank Paper, when it was about a matter of Faith: But asked, who made them by their several interlocutions to speak their consent? Hereupon the Acts of the Ephes. Council were read, among which were the words of Dioscorus, Anathematizing any that should contradict or retrast any thing held in the Nicene or the Ephesine Synods: Adding, how terrible and formidable it was, If a man sin against God, who shall intercede for him? If the Holy Ghost sit in Council with the Fathers, he that retrasteth cashiereth the Grace of the Spirit. The Synods answered, We all say the same: Let him be Anathema that retrasteth; (these Bishops that curie themselves will easily curse others,) Let him be cast out that retrasteth. Dioscorus said, No man ordereth things already ordered: The holy Synod said, These are the words of the Holy Ghost, &c. Theodorus denyed these words recorded. Dioscorus said, they may as well say they were not there.

§. 18. Here also Eutyche's Confession at Ephessus was read, in which he professeth to cleave to the former Ephessus Council, and to the blessed Father Cyril that presided, disclaiming all additions and alterations, professing that he had himself Copies in a Book which Cyril himself sent him, and is yet in his hands; and that he standeth to the definition of that Council with that of Nice.

Eusebius Bishop of Doril, said, He lyeth; that Council hath no such Definition.

Dioscorns

Dioscorus said, There are sour Books of it, that all contain this Dissuition. Do you accuse all the Synodical Books? I have one, and he hath one, and he hath one; Let them be brought forth. Diogenes Bishop of Cyrilum said, They deceitfully cleave to the Council of Nice: The Question is of additions made against Heresies. The Bishops of Egypt said, None of us receive additions or diminutions: Hold what is done at Nice: This is the Emperour's Command. The Eastern Bishops clamoured [Just so said Eutyches.] The Egyptian Bishops still cryed up the Nicene Faith alone without addition.

Dioscorus accused the Bishops for going from their words, and said [If Eutyches hold not the Dostrine of the Church, he is worthy of punishment and fire, (ex ore tuo) My regard is to the Catholick and Apostolick Faith, and not the Faith of any man: I look to God himself, and not to the person of any man, nor care I for any man, but for my soul and the true and sincere Faith.] The Egyptian Bishops cryed out [Let no man separate him that is indivisible. No man calleth one Son two.] The Eastern Bishops cryed, [Anathema to him that divideth. Basil Seleucia said, Anathema to him that divideth two natures after the union; and Anathema to him that knoweth not the property of the natures. The Egyptian Bishops cryed out, [As he was born he suffered: There is one Lord, and one Faith: None calleth one Lord two. This was Nestorius voice. The Eastern Bishops cryed, Anathema to Nestorius and Eutyches. The Egyptian Bishops cryed, Divide not the Lord of Glory, that is indivisible.

Basil Bishop of Sileuc. reported how rightly he had spoken at Ephesus, and how the Egyptians and Monks with noise opposed, and cryed [Cut him in two that saith Two Natures, he is a Nestorian.] The Lay Judges asked him, If he spake so well, why did he condemn Flavianus? He said, Because he was necessitated to obey the rest, being 130 Bishops. Dioscorus said, Out of thy own mouth art thou condemned, that for the shame of men hast prevaricated and despised the faith. Busilius Seleuc. said, If I had been called to Martyrdom before the Judges I had endured it; but he that is judged of a Father useth just means: Let the Son dye that speaketh even things just to a Fa-

But the Eastern Bishops better cryed out, [We have all sinned, we all beg pardon.] And Thalassius, Eusebius, and Eustathius, (leading Bishops) cryed the same, [We have all sinned, we all crave pardon.] After this the Acts of Ephes. and Const. were read.

9. 19. By what I have recited out of Binnius, and others, these two lamentable things are undeniable:

1. That this doleful Contention, Anathematizing, and ruining each other, was about the sense of ambiguous words, and that they were of one mind in the matter, and knew it not: The Egyptians (Eutychians) took two Natures and two Sons to be of the same sense, which the others did not. And they thought that the rest had afferted a Division of the Natures, when they meant but a Distinction: And the rest thought that the Ey tians had denyed a Distinction, who denyed but a Partition or Division. If And

II. And it is plain, that while all fides held that Nestorius did hold that there were Two Sons, which he expressly denyed, that they cursed Nestorius in ignorance, and maintained his Doctrine (except of the aptitude of the phrase Sistems ,) while they curse his person or name. The Doctrine of this Council is sound, and Nestorius's was the same, for two natures in one person, and one Son. This is true, whatever Faction say against it.

III. That these Bishops (though we honour them for all that was good in them) were so far from the Martyrs Constancy, that they turned as the Emperours Countenance, and the Times, and worldly Interest turned; voting down Things and Persons in Councils, and crying omnes peccavimus in the next: Only Peter's Ship, saith Binnius, scaped drowning at Ephesus, and yet here at Calcedon under Martian all are Orthodox.

IV. But that which is worst of all is, that yet the same men that cry peccavimus are here violent against any mercy to the Egyptian Bishops and Monks with whom they had joined at Ephefus.

9. 20. When an Epistle of Cyrils was read, the Illyricane Bishop cryed out, We all believe as Cyril did: Theodorete (that had been for Nestorius against Cyril, and cast out by Dioscorus) spake more warily, and said, Anathema to him that saith there are two Sons: We adore our Lord Jesus, &c. All the Bishops cryed, We belive as Cyril. Had not Cyril's name better hap than Dioscorus and Eutyches, that followed him as sar as they could understand him, and spake the same words as he?

The Orientals cryed, We belive as Cyril. The Egyptians cryed, We believe as Cyril, We are all of the same opinion and mind; Let not Satanget place and advantage among us. The Enstern Bishops cryed, Leo and Anatolius are of this mind; The Emperour and Senate are of this mind: The lay Judge, Senate, and all the Council cryed, The Emperour, the Empress, and all of us are of one mind: The Egyptian Bishops cryed, All the World are of this mind; We are of a mind. (And who would think that yet they were difagreed, even to Hereticating and Deposing, Persecuring one another.

O but fay they to the Egyptian Bishops, If you are all of this mind, Why did you communicate with Eutyches, and condemn Flavianus? Dioscorus appealed to the Records. And here Eustathius Beryl, shewed what labour Cyril used to explain his own meaning, in his Epistles to Acacius, Valerianus, and Successus Bishops, and that these are his words; We must not understand that there are two natures, but one nature incarnate of God the Word: And this saying he confirmed by the Testimony of Athanasius. The Oriental Bishops cryed out, This is the saying of Eutyches and Dioscorus (yet these men just now were all of Cyril's mind.) Dioscorus said, We affirm neither consuston of natures, nor division, nor conversion; Anathema to him that doth. Doth not this shew that they all agreed in Distinction of Natures? as also Cyril did. The Judges say, Tell us whether Cyril's Epistles agree to what is here reported of them (by Eustathius,) Enstathius sheweth the Book, and saith; If I have said amiss see the Book; Anathematize Cyril's til's Book and Anathematize me: The Egyptians applaud Eustathins, saying, Eustathius reporteth Cyril's words, in which were, We must not understand two natures, but one incarnate nature of God the word. And Eustathius added, He that saith there is but one nature so as to deny Christs slesh which is consubstantial with m, let him be Anathema: And he that saith there are two natures to the Division of the Son of God, let him be Anathema. (one would have thought this should have ended their quarrel.) And Eustathim added of Flavianum himself, that he received these naked words, and gave them the Emperour; Let it be ordered that his own hand be shewed. The Judges said, Why then did ye depose him? Eustathius answered, Erravi, Ierred.

§. 21. Let it be here noted, that these Eutychian words of Cyril are here openly proved, past denial: yet shamelessy doth Binnius say, that this is Eustathii allegatio pessima & haretica: What, to repeat a mans Words? Secondly, Is it not here plain that they were all of a mind, and did not, or through faction would not know it? when Eustathius by a clear distinction had proved it, and none of them did or could contradict him.

§. 22. Dioscorus said that Flavianus in the words following contradicted himself, and was deposed for holding two natures after the union; adding, I have the testimony of the holy Fathers, Athanasius, Gregory, Cyril, in many places, that we must not Jay, that after the union there are two natures, but one incarnate nature of God, the word, I am ejected with the Fathers; I defend the Fathers sayings; I transgress not in any thing; I have their Testimonies, not simply or transitorily, but in Books.

§. 23. Æthericus, Bishop of Smyrna, being questioned about his subscription, said, he did as he was bid. In the second Action Dioscorus delivering his opinion saith, Ex duabus suscipio, duas non suscipio. That Christ is [of two natures] but not that he [is or bath two natures.] Eusebius Doryltells him of his wrong to Flavianus and him; Dioscorus confesseth, saying, Then offer satisfaction to God and you, meaning repentance. But Eusebius saith, that he must satisfie the Law; And so the Verbal quarrel turneth to Personal revenge.

Basil Seleuc. (though before accused of Heresie) well reconcileth the Controversie at last, if they would have heard him, saying, Cognoscimus duas Naturas, non dividimus, neque divifas, neque confusas dicimus.

Euryches words at Constantinople being recited, he saith, that he followeth Cyril, Athanasus and the Fathers. After Dioscorus and others had denyed what each other said in the Ephesine Council, the saying of all the Bishops were read, each one absolving Eutyches, in words and reasons at large. After which the Bishops cry again, Omnes erravimus; onnes veniam nucreamur.

In the third Action many things were read that concerned their proceedings, and among the rest a Law of Theodesius jun. for the confirming of the second Ephesine Council, and the condemnation of Nestorius, and of Flavianus, Domnus, Eusebius, and Theodoret, as Nestorian Hereticks, deposing all of their mind, sorbidding any upon pain of Confiscation to receive them, and commanding that none read the Books of Nessorius or Theodoret, but bring them forth to be burnt, &c. So far could heree and factious Prelates prevail with a pious and peaceable Prince, by the pretences of opposing Heresie and Schism. Martian made Laws also clean contrary for the justifying of the men before condemned.

§. 24. In the fifth Action the Egyptian Bishops Petition was read (who were accounted Eutychians, adhering to Dioscorus:) They professed their adherence to the Council of Nice and Ephefus 1. and to Athanafus, Theophilm, and Cyril. The Bishops cryed out, Why do they not curse the opinion of Eutiches? They offer us their Petition in imposture: They would delude us, and so depart. Let them curse Emyches and his Opinion, and confent to Leo's Epistle. While they cryed out to them to curse Encycles, they answered (by Hieracus,) If any, whether Eutyches, or any other, hold contrary to the things contained in our Profession (the Nicene and Ephes. Councils) let him be accursed. But for Leo's Epistle, we must not go before the sentence of our Archbishop (of Alexandria;) for we follow him in all things : The Council of Nice ordered that the Bishops of Egypt do nothing without him: Enfebius Doryl. faid, They lie. Others bid them prove it. Other Bishops cryed out, dpenly curse the opinion of Eutyches: He that subscribeth not Leo's Epistle to which all the holy Synod confenteth is a Heretick: Anathema to Dioscorus; and to them that love him: How shall they chuse them a Bishop (instead of Dioseorus) if they judge not right themselves: The Egyptian Bishops said, The question is about Faith; (not men:) But they cryed out so long, Curse Eutyches or you are Hereticks, that at last the Egyptians said, [Anathema to Eutyches and to them that believe him,] The Bishops cryed to them [Subscribe Leo's Epistle, else you 'are Hereticks: The Egyptian Bishops answered, We cannot subscribe without the will of our Archbishop. Some said, All the Synod must not attend for one man: They that at Ephesus disturbed all things, would here do so too: we desire that this may not be granted them, but they may consent to the Epistle, or receive a Canonical damnation, and brown that they are Excommunicate. Photius Bishop of Tire said, How endeavour they to ordain (their Arch-Bishop) who are not of the same mind with the Synod? If they think rightly let them subscribe the Epistle, or be Excommunicate. The Bishops cryed, We are all of this mind. The Egyptian Bishops said, We came not hither without a just profession of our Faith. But (as to Leo's Epistle) we are but few (12 Bishops) and the Bishops of our Country are very many, and we cannot give you all their minds, er represent their persons: We beseech this boly Synod to have mercy on us; (There is no mercy where the Bishop of Rome is concerned) and do but flay till we have an Arch-bishop, that 'according to the ancient Custome of our Country, we may follow his Judgment: For if we break presumptiously the the Canons and Custome, and do any thing without his will, all the Regions of Egypt will rife up against us; therefore have mercy on our age: have mercy on us, and put us not to end our life in banishment. The Same Egyptian Bishops cast down themselves on the Earth, and said, You are merciful men, have mercy on us: Cecropius Bishop of Sebast. said, The whole Synod is Greater and worthier of credit, than the Country of Egypt. It is not just that ten Hereticks be heard, and 1200 Bishops be past by: We bid them not show their Faith for others but themselves. The Bishops of Egype cryed, Then we cannot dwell in the Province; Have mercy on us: Eusebius Dor. said, They are procurators for the rest: The Popes Legate said, If they erre, let them be taught by the magnificence of your footsteps, &c. The Egyptians cryed, We are killed: Have mercy on us: The Bishops all said, You see what a Testimony they give of their Bishops, saying, we are killed there: The Egyptian Bishops cryed, We die by your footsteps : have pitty on us, and let us die by you, and not there. Let but an Archbishop here be made, and we subscribe and consent, Have mercy on our grey hairs. Give us an Archbishop here: Anatolius knoweth that it is the Custom of our Countrey that all the Bishops obey the Archbishop: Not that we obey not the Synod, but we are killed there in our Country: Have mercy on us; You have the power; We are subjects; We refuse not. We had rather die by the Lord of the World (the Emperour) or by your magnificence, or by this holy Synod, than there. For Gods sake have pity on these grey hairs; spare ten men: We die there: It is better die bere. All the most Reverend Bishops cryed out, These are Hereticks. The Egyptian Bishops said, You have power on our lives; spare ten men; Lords are Merciful: Anatolius knoweth the Custome; We are here till an Archbishop be chosen: If they would have our Seats, let them take them: We are not willing to be Bishops: Only let us not die. Give us an Archbishop, and if we gainfay, punish us: We consent to these things which your power hath decreed; We contradict not; but choose us an Archbishop: We here stay till it's done: All the most Reverend Bishops clamoured, Let them subscribe to the damnation of Dioscorus.

Thus the poor Egyptian Bishops that had the upper hand under Theodohus, were in a streight between the merciless Bishops in the Synod (that had lately at Ephelus joyned with them) and the furious Bishops and people of their own Country that would have killed them when they came home (too common a Case at Alexandria.) But when all their dejected cryes and begging could get no mercy from the Bishops, the Lay Judges had some, and moved that they may be made stay in the Town till their Archbishop was chosen (of whom you shall hear sad work anon.) The Popes Legate requested, That if they would needs shew them any humanity, they should take sureties of them, not to go out of the City, till they had an Arch-bishop. And so it was ended.

§.25. The next business was with the Abbots of the Monks: They had petitioned Martian, that a General Council might be called, to end their lamentable broils, and that without turbations, forced subscriptions or persecutions by the secret contrivances of the Clergy, and casting men out before due judgment. And they gave in a profession of their Faith, and petitioned that Dioscorus might be called, because the Emperour had promised them that nothing but the Nicene Faith should be imposed. which he professed: The Bishops all clamoured out their repeated Curle against Dioscorus, and their Tolle injuriam à Synodo, Tolle violentiam à Synodo, Tolle notam à Synodo, Istos mitte foras. that is, Away with them; and would not hear their petition; But the Lay Judges made it to be read: In which the Monks profess to hold to the Nicene Creed, and that the Church might not have discord by imposing more: Protesting that if their Reverences, abusing their power, resisted this, as before God and the Emperour, the Judges, the Senate, and the Consciences of the Bishops, that they shake their garments against them, and put themselves beyoud their Excommunication: For they would not be Communicators with those that thus refuse the Nicene Faith. The Council still urged them to subscribe Leo's Letter. Carofus and Dorotheus in the name of the rest of the Abbots faid; They were Baptized into the Nicene Faith; They knew no other: They were bid by the Bishop that Baptized them Receive no other: We believe the Baptismal Creed: We subscribe not the Epistle: They are Bishops; They have power to Excommunicate and to Danin, and to do what they will more: But we know no other Faith: The Arch-Deacon urged Carofus to Subscribe to Leo's Epistle as Expository of the Nicene Faith, and to Curse Nestorius and Euryches: Carofus answered, What have I to do to curse Nestorius, that have once, twice, thrice, and often curfed and damned him already. Æticus said, Dost thou curse Extiches as the Synod doth or not? Carosus replyed. Is it not written, Judge not that ye be not judged? Again he repeated, that he believed the Nicene Creedinto which he was baptized; If they said any thing else to him he knew it not: The Apostle saith, If an Angel from heaven preach another Gofpel, let him be accurfed: what should I do? If Eutyches believe not as the universal Church believeth; let him be accursed.

S. 26. At last there was a dissention, whether Leo's Phrases should be put into their Definition of Faith (now drawn up a new.) A while it was cryed down, but at last yielded to, when the Illiricane Bishops had first slighted Rome, and cryed, Qui contradicunt (diffinitioni) Nestoriani sunt:

Qui contradicunt Romam ambulent.

And Anatolius Bishop of Constantinople openly declared, That Dioscorus was not condemned for matter of belief, but because he Excommunicated

Leo, and when he was thrice summoned did not appear.

6. 27. After this Theodorets turn came, that had been for Nestorius, and the Bishops all cryed out, Les Theodoret eurse Nestorius. Theodoret desired that a Petition of his to the Emperour and to Leo's Legate, might be read; that they might see whether he were of their belief or not. They cryed out, We will have nothing read; presently curse Nestorius, Theodoret told them that he had been bred of the Orthodox, and so taught, and preached; and was against not only, Nestorius and Eutyches, but all men else that held not the right. The Bishops interrupted him, clamouring, speak out plainly, cursed be Nestorius and his Opinions; cursed be Nestorius and those that love him. Theodoret answered, I take not my self to say true, but I know I please God: I would first satisfie you of my belief; for I seek not preserment, I need not honour, nor come hither for that: But because I am calumni-ated, I come to fatisfie you that I am Orthodox; and I Anathematize every Heretick that will not be converted, and Nestorius and Eutyches, and every man that faith, there are two Sons, or thinks so, I Anathematize. The Bishops again took this for dawbing, and cryed out, fay plainly, Anathema to Nestorius, and them which hold that which is his. Theodoret said, Unless I may explain my own belief, I will not say it. I believe-Here they interrupted, and all cryed out, He is a Heretick, He is a Nestorian: cast out the Heretick: Reader, would a man have believed that were not forced by Evidence, That this Council was of Nestorius's mind, and confirmed his own Destrine of the Unity of Christs person and two Natures, who thus furiously cryed down Theodoret? (except as to the aptitude of the word Henry G.) And is it not a doleful Thought that the worthy Bishops of the Church, even in a General Council, should no better know the way of peace? And do not these words here translated out of Binnius, p. 92. and 106. agree too well with Greg. Nazianzen's Character of Bilhops and Councils? Not but that the Church had always fome Learned, Godly, Wife, and Peaceable Men, (fuch as Gregory Naz. and Theodoret were, and many more, especially in Africk;) but you see that they were born down by the stream of unskilful, worldly, temporizing, violent Men: after once worldly greatness made it the way to preferment, and it became their business to strive who should be uppermost and have his will.)

But Theodoret when he found that there was no hope of so much as a patient hearing of his Explication and Confession, was sain to yield, and say, Anathema to Nestorius, and to him who saith not that the Virgin Mary was the Parent of God, and who divideth the only begotten Son into two Sons; which was yet cautelously expressed; as if he said, supposing that Nestorius did so (which himself denyed) let him be accursed: And so Theodoret was:

absolved and counted worthy to be a Bishop.

S. 28. Juvenal Hierofol. Thalassius, and the rest of the Leaders, at Ephef. Council 2, were pardoned: Ibas his Epissle to Mais against Cyrilwas acquit, or at least the Bishop upon the reading of it. It is a fad Narrative of the Calamitous Divisions which these Prelates and their Councils made. He said that Cyril writ against Nestorius that there was but one nature in Christ, & c. Hac omnia impietatis plena: He tells how Cyril preposessed the Bilhops before they met, and made his hatred of Nestorius his Cause. How he condemned Nestorius two days before John of Anticch came: How afterward they condemned and deposed one another: How Nestorius was in hatred with the Great men of Constantinople, which was his fall: How John and Cyril's Bishops or Councils would not Communicate with each other: How they fet Bishops against Bishops, and People against People, and a mans Encmies were those of his own household: How the Pagans scorned the Christians hereupon: For (faith he) no man durst travel from City to City, or from Province to Province, but each one perfecuted his neighbour as his enemy: For many not having the fear of God.

God, by occasion of Ecclesiastical zeal, made haste to bring forth the hidden enmity of their hearts against others: (he instanceth in some Persecutors) and sheweth how Paulus Emisseuus helpt to heal them.

§. 29. In the eleventh Action two Bishops strive for the Bishoprick of Ephesus, Bassianus and Stephen (that had been Dioscorus Agent): And in their Pleas each of them proved that the other intruded by violence into the place, both he that first had it, and he that thrust him out and took his Scat, and one of them made his Clergy swear to be true to him and not forsake him; And while the Bishops were so one of them, the Judges past Sentence to cast out both, and all consented.

5. 30. But after all the crying up of Leo's Epistle, this Synod set so light by Leo, as that, some say, against his Legates Will, they made a Canon, (28.) That every where following the Decrees of the Fathers, and acknowledging the Canon which was lately read made by the 150 Bishops, we also Decree the same, and determine of the Priviledges of the holy Church of Constantinople new Rome: For the Fathers did give (or attribute) rightly the Priviledges to the Throne of old Rome, because that City ruled (or had the Empire) And moved by the same consideration the 150 Bishops Lovers of God, gave (or attributed) equal Priviledges to the Throne of New Rome; rightly judging that the City which is honoured with the Empire and the Senate, and enjoyeth equal Priviledges with ancient Queen-Rome, should also in things Eccle siastical be extolled and magnified, being the second after it. The Popes Legates hand Bonifice is subscribed to all; and Enselvins Doril. thus subscribed Sponte Subscrips; quoniam & hanc regulam fanctissimo Papa in Urbe Roma ego relegi presentibus Clericis Constantinopolitanis, eamq; suscepit. And this Council was after over and over approved by the Roman Bisheps.

§. 31. It in is this Canon notorious, 1. That the whole General Council and so the universal Church did then believe, that the Popes or Roman Priviledges were granted by the Fathers (that is, by Councils) and stood not by divine appointment. 2. That the reason that the Fathers granted them, was because it was the Imperial Seat. Had they believed that the Apostles had instituted it, they had never said that the Fathers did it for this reason; and that Constantinople should be equal or next it for the same reason. 3. The Church of Constantinople never claimed their Prerogative jure divino as succeeding any Aposlle, and yet jure Imperii claimed equal Priviledges. By all which it is undeniable that the whole Church in that Council, and especially the Greeks, did ever hold Rome's Primacy to be a humane institution, upon a humane mutable reason. What the Papists can say against this, I have sully answered against W. Johnson in a Book called, Which is the true Church.

$. 33. The Question now is, What concord did these lete Courcils precure to the Churches?

Ans. From that time most of the Christian World was distracted into Factions hereticating, damning, deposing and too many murdering one another. One party cleaved to Doscorns and were called by the other Functions:

chians; These cryed up the Sussiciency of the Nicene Councils Faith, as that which they were baptized into, and would have no addition nor diminution; and condemned the Calcedon Council, and excommunicated and deposed those that would not Anathematize it: Those that were against them they called Nestorians.

On the other party were those that had cleaved to Nestorius by name, and had been persecuted for his Cause; And these were a separate Body, and cryed down the other as Entychians.

Those called Orthodox or Catholicks cryed down Nestorians and Eutychians by name, indeed defending the same Doctrine as Nestorius, except as to the fitness of the word Deblocos. And the chief of Nestorius his first adherents perceiving that indeed they were of one judgment, united with these against the Eutychians. I have shewed that all of them seemed to make all this stir but about some Words which one party took in one sense and the other in another. For these words the Bishops cast the Christian World into consusion, destroyed Love and Unity under a pretence of keeping the Faith; so that the Church was lamentably militant; Bishops against Bishops, in continual enimity and rage. The Emperours at their wits end not knowing how to end the Ecclesiastical odious Wars: And the Heathens hardened and deriding them all and their Religion.

§. 33. When the Council was ended, and Proterius made Bishop of A-lexandria in Dioscorus stead, the City was in so great discontent that the Emperour Martian was fain to send a Lay-man to mollishe them; for they would not endure a Calcedonian Bishop: They set more by Dioscorus than before (so that Binnius incredibly saith, they offered him Divine Ho-

§. 34. It was not long till Martian dyed, and then they let the World know that it was Emperours and not Popes or Councils that they regarded. They thought then they might shew their minds, and what they did Liberatus in Breviario, Evagrius, Nicephorus and others tells us at large: But I will give it you in the words of the Egyptian Bishops which conformed to the Council, Bin. p. 1.47. One Timothy Elurus of Dioscorus Party who had gathered separated Congregations before, fince the Council of Calcedon, got some Bishops of his own Party to make him Archbishop: The people foon shewed their minds though it deposed their Archbishop. They set up Timothy, and he "presently made Ordinations of Bishops and Clerks, &c. "while he thus went on, a Captain, Dionisius, came to drive him out of the " City: The people rage the more against Proterius: He gets into the Bap-"tistry to avoid their rage, a place reverenced even by the Barbarians and "the fiercest Men: But these furious people, fet on by their Bishop Ti-"mothy, neither reverencing the Place, the Worship, nor the Time, " (which was Easter) nor the Office of Priesthood, which is a Mediation be-"tween God and Man, did strike the blameless Man, and kill him cruelly, with "fix more; and dragging his wounded Carkefs every where, and crucily drawing "it about, almost through all the parts of the City, did mercilesty beat the senseie less

" less Corps, and divided his Parts, and spared not to tast his Entrails with their "Teeth like Dozs; whom they should have thought the Mediatour of God and "Man; and casting the rest of his Body into the Fire, they scattered his Ashes into the Wind, transcending the herceness of all Beasts: And the Architect of " all this was (their new Bilhop) Timothy; first an Adulterer (taking ano-"thers Church) and then a Murderer, doing it in a manner as with his own "hands, in that he bid others do it: This man ruleth the Alexandrian "Church, and going on doth worfe.

This is in the Epistle to the Emperour Leo; The like they write in ano- Bin P. 151. ther to Anatolius, adding, "that he Anathematized the Council of Calce-"don and all that communicate with it, and received none that receive it, till " they renounce it.

5. 35. On the other side Bishop Timothy's Adherents wrote to Leo in praise of their new Bishop, professing the Nicene Faith, and declaring what great Concord and Peace their City now had, and craving the Emperours approbation of him.

§. 36. In Palestine also the same Fire kindled: The Monks that had been at Calcedon returned lamenting that the Nicene Faith was there betrayed, and stirred up their Fraternity to reseind the Acts; They got together and expelled Juvenal Bishop of Jerusalem, as a Traytor to the Catholick Faith and a Changer. The Empress Eudocia) faith Nicephorns) took their part; and strengthned them; At Schythopolis they killed Severianus the Bishop, they compelled men to joyn and communicate with them. At 7erusalem they killed Athanasius a Deacon for contradicting them, and gave Niceph. I. his Flesh to Dogs. Dorotheus the Emperous Lieutenant would have kept 15.6.19. the Pcace, and they compelled him to joyn with them: But after twenty moneths Tuvenal was restored. Thus in many Countreys the War went on; And they that knew not the Arcana Imperii thought all this was done by Bishops and Monks: But the truth is Endocia Theodosius's Widow, and Pulcheria Theodosius's Sister and Martian's Wife, were of two sides: And Women had great power with Emperours, and consequently with Bishops: But at last Pulcheria procured the conversion of Endocia to her side, and then she owned the Council, and then others owned it. This was in Martians days.

§. 37. The great number of Letters sent from the Bishops to Lee when he was made Emperour, which were fent in answer to his own to them, engaged him the more for the Council Party, and against Timothy Alurus: He deposed him and put Timothy Salophaciolus in his place: But the City was all in confusion between the two Timothies, Bishops. The Egyptian Niceph L. Bishops write to the Emperour against Timothy and Entychians. The Em- 15.6.17. perour fends forth his circular Letters, commanding all to own the Calce-18, 19. don Council. At Antioch Petrus Chapheus ambitious of the Archbishoprick got into Martyrius place; by Zeno's help: And thinking they were still managing only the Controversie against the Nestorians, and taking the Orthodox for Nestorian Hereticks, all were accursed by Anathema's that would not say that God was crucified and suffered (The Orthodox doing the same,) and thus they increased the Consulions. Martyrius their true Bishop when he saw that he could do no good upon them, for sook them, with these words, Clero rebelli, & populo inobedienti, & Ecclesia contaminata Nuncium remitto. I renounce a rebellious Clergy, a disobedient People, and a desiled Church. Petrus Cnaphens kept the Bishoprick, and revised the Calcedon Council. Leo the Emperour banisheth him: Stephanus a friend to the Council is put into the place: That you may know how the Council had united the people, even the Boys were set on to kill this new Bishop with sharp Quills.

Common execution was too easie a death; Being killed they cast his Corps into the River, for favouring the Council of Calcedon, and succeeding their desired Bishop: But Calendion succeeding him, made them

Anathematize the same Perer Cnapheus.

§. 38. While Martian and Leo, reigned thus, the Council of Calcedon was kept up, and almost all the Bishops were brought to subscribe to it; But death changeth Princes, and thereby Bishops. Leo dyeth, and disfolute Zeno succeedeth him: He would fain have had his peace among them in sensuality: Basilifeus taketh the advantage of his dissolute life, and usurpeth the Empire, and maketh use of the Bishops Schism and contentions to get him a party: (For the Bishops Schisms greatly serve Ufurpers ends.) And first he publisheth his Circular Letters against the Council of Calcedon, requiring all the Bishops to renounce it, (because his Predecessours had been for it.) To this, saith Nicephorus, lib. 6. cap. 4. three Patriarchs, and no fewer then five hundred subscribed, and renounced the Council. (And yet how violently they damned all that would not receive it, and writ for it to Leo, but a little before you have heard.) But quickly after, Acacius Patriarch of Constantinople, and Dau. Columnella, perswaded Basiliscus to write clear contrary Circular -.. Letters, Commanding all to own the Council: For they convinced him that this was the more possible way: And these also were obeyed. But Zeno was shortly after restored to the Empire, who was for the Council: And then the Asian Bishops turned again, and wrote to get their Pardon, faying, That they subscribed to Basiliscus first Letters, not voluntary, but for fear! (O excellent Martyrs.) Niceph. 1, 16. c. o.

S. 39. Upon this the Council was up again, and the Bishops became Orthodox once more: Till at last Zeno thought (as the Acacians did about laying by διωθεσιΦ) that the only way to unite these Bishops, was to leave all free, neither forbidding any to own the Council of Calcedon, nor yet compelling any to it. And so he wrote an Edict of Pacification, so lencing the case, which he called his Henoticon: For he thought that the Bishops would never agree either for it or against it. But yet this ended not the quarrels: The sire still slamed: Liberty contented not the Bishops: They were zealous for God as against his Enemies the Hereticks: And every Party were these Hereticks and Enemies in the judgment 10f

the rest. All must be damned and ruined that would not be for God, that is, that was not of their minds. When Liberty was once up, the people were fignificant, and their mind was foon known. At Antioch, Calendian was cast out of his Seat, and Peter Cnaphens got in again. (For a Combat for a Bishoprick was a War which they scrupled not.) And at Alexandria the whole City was in confusion while Peter Moggus and John strove who should be Bishop. Moggus of Alexandria anathematizing the Calcedon Council, and perfecuting Diffenters, the Emperour laboureth to reconcile them. Acacius at Constantinople, though supposed Orthodox, Communicateth with Peter Moggus: whether in obedience to Zeno's Henoticon, or weary of hereticating, and why, is not known. (O how common were separatist Bishops in those days!) Falix Bishop of Rome condemneth Acacins Bishop of Constantinople for this: Acacius had equal priviledges given by the Calcedon Council, and had the presence of the Emperour and Senate, and he again condemneth Falix; blotting his name out of the facred Albe (their Book of life.)

§. 40. Acacins shortly dying, the Emperour found it too hard a task to choose a Patriarch, that should not keep up the Sedition; Therefore he will refer the choice to God: To that end he putteth a blank paper on the Altar, and another by it, requesting of God that an Angel might write there the name of him that God would have to be Patriarch: The doors are fast locked, and forty days Fasting and Prayer commanded, to prevail with God: The Keys are committed to a sure and great Courtier, but one that was subject to Angels: One Flavitus bribeth him, and he writeth Flavitas's name in the paper, and sealeth up the doors: And so there was an Arch-bishop chosen by an Angel. This man joined with Peter of Alexandria by Synodal Letters, to command all to curse the Council: and yet wrote to the Bishop of Rome, that he renounced Communion with Peter; and he wrote to Peter that he renounced Communion with the Bishop of Rome. But its fearful sporting with God and Angels: He dyed within four Months.

§. 41. After Flavitas succeeded Euphemius: He joined with the Bishop of Rome, and rased Peter's name out of the Church Book: Peter and Emphemius as two Generals were about gathering Synodical Armies against each other, and against, and for the Council. But the Foot that spurneth abroad and spoileth the Designs of Worldlings, even Death presently removed Peter. One Athanasius succeedeth Peter, and sain he would have reconciled and united his Clergy and People, but he could not: Holy zeal is too easily quenched, but not contentious carnal zeal. Palladius succeedeth Peter Cnaphens at Antioch: Both these great Patriarchs join together to curse the Council of Calcedon; and down went the Council. But death again maketh a turn, they both dye, and John succeeded at Alexandria, and Flavianus at Antioch. Yet these must be of the mind of the major part, and both join also to curse the Council: And the Patriarchs of Rome and Constantinople curse them, and are for the Council: And thus Cursing was the Religion of the Age.

§. 42. But now Zeno the Emperour dyeth, and Anastatius Dicorus is chosen Emperour. Nicephorus, lib. 16. c. 25, saith, that he being a man of peace, and desiring the ceasing of Contentions, followed Zeno's Henoticon, and left all to their liberty to think of the Council as they pleased. Hereupon the Bishops fell into three Parties; some fervent for every word of the Council; some cursing it; and some for the Henoticon or filent peace. The East was one way: the West another: and Lybia another. Yea the Eastern Bishops among themselves, the Western among themselves, and the Lybian among themselves, renounced Communion with one another. Nicephor. c.25. Tanta confusio mentiuma; caligo (saith the Historian) orbem universum incessit, (it is not my censure) so great confusion and blindness of mind befell the whole world: This was the Effect even of Liberty.

S. 43. The Emperour resolving to keep peace did purpose to fall on the most unpeaceable whoever, even on both sides. At Constantinople he put out Euphemius: (as some thought upon a personal dislike or quarrel!) For before his inthronizing they fay he had given under his hand to Enphemius a promise that he would stand for the Council; and when he had possession he demanded up his Writing: Euphemius denyed it him. and was cast out: Macedonius succeeded him, and got the Writing: The Emperour demanded it also of him; he also denyed it: The Emperour would have also put him out: The people rose up in Sedition, and cryed, It is a time of Martyrdom, let us all stick to the Bishop: And they reviled the Emperour, calling him a Manichee, and unworthy of the Em-The Emperour was forced hereby to submit to Macedonius, lest he should have lost all: The Bishop sharply rebuked him as the Churches Enemy. But these things made the Emperour more against the Council, partly as more against him; and when he faw time, he remembred Macedonins, and cast him out: yea he put Timothy in his place, and burnt the Councils Acts. Timothy pulled down the Images of Macedonius. Patriarchs of Alexandria, Antioch: and Jerusalem, were all cast out.

9. 44. Peter Cnapheus Antioch had made one Zenaius a Persian Servant and unbaptized, Bithop of Hierapolis. This man was against Images and against the Council. He brought a Troop of Monks to Antioch to force Flavianus the Bishop to curse the Council; Flavianus resuseth: The people stuck to the Bishop, and disputed the case with such unanswerable arguments, that so great a number of the Monks were slain, as that they threw their Bodies into the River Orontes, to save the labour of burying them. Niceph. 16. c. 27. But this endeth not the dispute; another Troop of Monks of Culo-syria, that were of Flavianus and the Councils side, hearing of the tumult, and the danger of the Bishop, slock to Antioch, and made another flaughter, as great (faith Nicephorus) as the former.

§. 45. The Murders done by Bishops and Christians were sometimes punished by Excommunication, but not by Death in those prosperous times of the Church: The Emperour hereupon did banish Flavianus, which his followers took for persecution; Peter Alex. being dead the Bishops of Alex. Egypt, and Lybia, fell all into pieces among themselves, each having their separate Conventions. The rest of the East also separated from the West, because the West would not Communicate with them, unless they would Curse Nestorius, Eutyches, Dioscorus, Moggus and Acacius: And vet saith Nicephorus, 1. 16. c. 28. Qui germani Dioscori & Eutychetes sectatores fuere ad Maximam paucitatem redacti sunt. Xenaias bringeth to Flavian, the Names of Theodore, Theodorite, Ibas and others as Nestorians; and tells him, If he Curse not all these, he is a Nestorian; whatever he say to the contrary: Flavian was unwilling, but his timerous fellow-Billions perfwaded him, and he wrote his Curse against them, and sent it to the Emperour. Xenaias then went farther, and required him to Curse the Council. The Isaurian Bishops were drawn to consent to Anathematize it: The refusers are all renownced as Nestorians. And thus the Council that Cursed Nestorius, is Cursed of Nestorian: The Eutychians perceiving how near they were agreed.

After Flavian, one Severus got to be Bishop at Antioch (a severe Enemy of the Nestorians, and of the Council.) The first day when he was got in, he cursed the Council, though 'tis said that he had sworn to the Emperour that he would not: Niceph. lib. 16.cap.29.

In Palestine the Condemnation or Ejection of Flavianus and Macedonius renewed their distractions and divisions.

About Antioch, Severus grew so earnest, and wrote such Letters to the Bishops under him, as frighted many against their Judgements, to Curse the Council, and those that held two Natures, as Hereticks: Some Bishops stood out and refused; some fled from their Churches for fear. The Isaurian Bishops, when they had yielded, repented, and when they had repented they Condemned Severus, that drove them to subscribe. Two stout Bishops, Cosmas, and Severianus, sent a Sealed Paper to Severus; and when he opened it, he found it was a Condemnation under their Hands. The Emperour had notice of it, and he being angry, that they presumed to Condemn their Patriarchs, fent his Procurator to cast them out of their Bishopricks, (himself at last being against the Council.) The Procurator found the People so resolute, and bent to Resistance, in defence of their Bishops: That he sent word to the Emperour, that these two Bishops could not be cast out, without bloud-shed. The Emperour sent him word, that he would not have a drop of bloud shed for the business; for he did what he did for peace.

5. 46. Helias, Bishop of Jerusalem, found all the other Churches in such Consusion, the Bishops Condemning one another; that he would Communicate with none of them, save Euphemius of Constantinople (before his Ejection) Niceph. c. 32. The Monks were engaged for the Council by fuch a means as this. One Theodofius, a Monk (or Abbot) gathering a great assembly, lowdly cryed out in the Pulpit to them. [If any man equal not the four Councils, with the four Evangelists, let him he Anathema. This Voice of their Captain, resolved the Monks; and they thenceforth took it as a Law, that the four Councils should be facris librus accensenda, added or joyned with the facred Books. And they wrote to the Emperour. [Certamen se de eis ad sanguinem usq; subitures, that they would make good the Conflict for them, even to blood: Thus Monks and Bishops then submitted to Princes. These Monks went about to the Cities to engage them to take their side for the Councils. The Emperour hearing of this. wrote to the Bishop Helias to reform it : He rejecteth the Emperours Letters, and refuseth: The Emperour sendeth Souldiers to Compell or restrain them. The Orthodox Monks that were for the Council, gathered by the Orthodox Bishops, tumultuously cast the Emperours Souldiers out of the Church, Niceph. c. 14. After this, they had another Contention, and there Anathematized those that adhered to Severus. The Emperour more provoked by all this, fent Olympius with a band of Souldiers to Conquer them: Olympius came, and cast out Bishop Helias, and put in John. Monks gather again, and the Souldiers bieng gone, they come to John, and make him engage himself to be against Severus; and to stand for the Council, though it were unto Blood: He yielded to the Monks, and ingaged himself to the Council, and brake his Word made to Olympius. The Emperor is angry with Olympius for doing his Work no better; and puts him out, and fendeth another Captain Anastatius; who came and put the Bishop John in Prison and Commanded him to despise the Council: John consulting with another Bishop crastily promised to obey him, if he would but let him out of Prison, two days before, that it might not feem a forced act. This being done, the Bishop on the contrary in the Pulpit before the Captain and the People, cryeth out If any man affent to Eutyclies. and Nestorius, (Contraries) and Severus, and Soterichus, Cæsariansis; let him be Anathema: If any follow not the Opinions of the four Universal Synods tet him be Anathema. The Captain feeing himself thus deluded, sled from the Multitude and was glad to fave himself, the Emperour being offended more at this. The Bishops write to him, that at Jerusalem the Fountain of Doctrine they were not now to learn the truth, and that they would defend the Traditions if need be even to blood, Niceph. 16. c. 34.

At Constantinople the Bishop Timothy would please both sides, and pleased neither: To some he spake for the Council; to others he Cursed it. Being to make an Abbot, the Man resused his Election, unless he consented to the Council of Calcedon: Timothy presently Cursed those that received not the Council. His Arch deacon hearing him, reproached him, that like Euripus roled every way. The Emperour hearing it, rebuked him: And Timothy washt away the Charge, and presently Cursed every one that received the Council, Niceph. 1. 8. c. 35.

5. 47. But what did Rome all this while? It were too long to recite their their proper History: They were for the Council, and they had other kind of Conflicts: The Goths held them in Wars, and had conquered them, and Theodorick reigned there as King, and so they were broken off from the Empire: Arians ruled them, who yet if Salvian say true, did (after) shame the Orthodox in point of Temperance, Truth, and Justice.

But besides their following greater Schisms, this Schism also d.d reach to them. Festus a Roman Senator was sent by Theodorick to the Emperour on an Embassic: which having done, he defired of the Emperour that Constantinople might keep the Festival days of Peter and Paul (which they did not before) as they did at Rome; and he prevailed: And he fecretly assured the Emperour, that Anastasius Bishop of Rome would receive the Honoticon (to suspend the consenting to the Calcedon Council) and would subscribe it. When this Ambassadour came home the Pope was dead. To make good his Word to the Emperour, he got a party to choose Laurentius Pope, who would receive the Honoticon: The People chose Symmachus their Bishop. And so there were two Popes settled, and the fedition continued three years, not without Slaughter, Rapines, and other Calamities: Nicephor. cap. 35. Theodorick an Arian, more rightuous than the Popes, would not deprive them of their liberty of choice. but called a Synod, to judge which was the rightful Bishop, and upon their judgment confirmed Symmachus: But Laurentius loth to lose the prey, stirred up the People to Sedition, and thereupon was quite degraded. This was a beginning of Schisms at Rome.

§. 48. The Emperour at Constantinople favouring the addition [Qui crucifixus off pro nebis,] the People who disliked it, seditionsly cut off a Monks head, and set it upon a pole, inscribing [An Enemy to the Trinity.] The Emperour overcome and wearied with their Consusons, and Orthodox Murders and Rebellions; called an Assembly, and offered to resign his Empire, desiring them to choose another: This smote them with remorse, and they desired him to reassume his Crown, and promised to sorbear Sedition: But he dyed shortly after.

§. 49. Anno 452. Valentinian the Roman Emperour attempted a great alteration with the Bishops, by a Law recalling the Judicial Power of the Bishops in all Causes, except those of Faith and Religion, unless the parties contending voluntarily chose them for the Judges. This Binnius (and the other Papists) take for a heinous injury to the Church. In all mens judgment, saith Binnius, it is absurd that the Sheep should judge his Shepherd: If to day the Pretor stand at the Tribunal of the Bishop, and to morrow the Bishop may be called to the Pretors Bar? That an Earthly judge may take and punish the servants of the highest judge, and consecrated men: who will not say that this is most absurd?

Answ. This sheweth what Church grandure and power these men expect; If they have not the Civil power, and be not Magistrates or Lords of all, the Church is wronged. This Clergy-pride is it that hath set the World on sire, and will not consent that it be quenched.

1. By this rule all Christians should be from under all [Power of Kings and Civil Rulers: For are they not all [the servants of the highest Judg es] Hith God no Servants but the Clergy?

2. By this rule both Princes and People should be free from the Bishops judgment: For are not these Bishops Men as well as Princes? and are not Christian Princes and People the servants of the highest Judge, and therefore should not be judged by Bishops.

3. But what a wicked rebellious doctrine is intimated in the distinction, that Princes are Earthly Judges, and Prelates are the servants of the highest Judge? Are not Prelates Earthly Judges as well as Princes, in that they are men that judge on Earth? And are not Princes Judges of Divine appointment and authority as well as Prelates? Yea, and their power more past all dispute?

4. And what abfurdity is it, that every foul be subject to the higher power? And that he that's one of your Sheep in one respect, may be your Ruler in another? Why may not the King be the Ruler of him that is his Physician or his Tutor? And why not of him that is his Priest. Was not Solomon Ruler of Abiathar when he displaced him? May not one man judge who is fit or unsit for Church Communion, and another judge who is punishable by the sword? Did Christ come to set up a Ministry instead of a Magistracy? He that faith, Man who made me a Judge, came not to put down Judges: He that faith, By me Kings reign, came not to put down all Kings.

Obj. Christ sets up a Kingdome of Priests, or a Royal Priesthood.

Answ. But his Kingdom is not of this World, or Worldly: It is a spiritual Kingdome, conquering fin and Satan, putting down the World out of our hearts, and making us hope for the everlafting Kingdom which we shall shortly enjoy. The Disease of the Disciples that strove who should be greatest, and sit at the right and left hand, and said, Lord wilt thou at this time restore the Kingdom to Israel, hath prevailed after all this warning on a Worldly Clergy, to the great calamity of the Church. And what wonder, when even then St. Paul saith, All leek their own (too much) and none the things of Jesus Christ (so naturally as Timothy did) and so zealously as they ought. Too many Popes have been Peters Successions in the Character given him, Mat. 16. Get thee behind me Satan, Thou art an offence unto me; For thou savourest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men. I understood not who were the spring of our late Fisth-Monarchy mens diseases, till I read Campanella de Regno Dei, and some such Papists, where I see that Christs reign by his Vicar the Pope over all the Princes and People of the World, is the true Fifth-Monarchy Heresie; For which they bring the same Prophecies as the Millenaries do for their Expectations.

Obj. But the Pope, Prelates and Clergy (called the Church) are not to reign by deposing Kings, but by Ruling them and being above them: As Love is above the Law, which yet is made for the ungodly that want Love, and must be ruled ruled by fear; so Princes are for the World of unbelievers, but not for the Church and Spiritual persons who live above them in the life of Love.

Answ. 1. This was one of the first Heresies which the Apostles wrote against: Many tempted Christians then to think that Christianity freed them from service and subjection and made all equal: But how plainly, frequently and earnestly, do Paul and Peter condemn it? Is it not a shame to hear such Papists as cry up such a Heresie as this, cry down and damn a Nestorian, or an Eurychian, or a Monothelite, for an unskilful use of a word? Paul saith, He that teacheth otherwise (against subjection) is proud, knowing nothing, but doting.

2. Love doth indeed fet us above Fear, and Legal threats fo far as it prevaileth: But it is imperfect in all, and Fear still necessary.

3. And this taketh not down either the Law or Magistracy to us, but only maketh us less need such means. It's one thing to love and live so holily and justly as never to need or fall under the sword of Magistrates; and another thing to be freed from subjection and obligation.

This increaseth in many the opinion, that the Papal Kingdom is Antichristian, in that they set up themselves above Rulers that are called Gods.

3. But why must this priviledge extend to the Clergy only? Have not other Christians as much holy love, and spirituality, as most of them?

And must Princes rule only Infidels?

Some suspect none as inclining to Popery, but those that take up some of their Doctrines of Transubstantiation, Purgatory, Images, &c. But they that on pretence of the raising of the Church, and desending its power, do first call the Clergy only the Church, and then seek to make themselves the Lords of Princes, by the pretences of an Excommunicating Power, and plead themselves from under them, and take it for their priviledges to be free from subjection to them and their penal Laws, are doubtless levened with that Popish Herese, which hath done much of all the mischiefs, which the forecited History describeth.

- §. 50. CXXXI. Besides some little contention at Alexandria, under Proterius, before he was murdered; the next in Binnius, is said to be at Angices (Andegavense,) which saith over again some of their old Canons against Priests living with Women, and removing from place to place, and such like. And the Papists say that this Council was to contradict the Emperour Valentinians Law, and to vindicate the rights of the Church, as not being lyable to Civil Judicatures, or under Kings.
- §. 51. CXXXII. Anno 453. A French Venetick Council was called about Ordinations, which repealed some former Canons, and was for strict, that the first Canon kept Murderers and False Witnesses from the Sacrament, till they repented (instead of hanging them.) And the second

Canon

Canon denyed the Communion to Adulterers that unlawfully put away their Wives, and took others. (Offrict Laws.)

- 5. 52. CXXXIII. Ann. 459. A Council at Constantinople, forbad Simony.
- 5. 53. CXXXIV. Ann. 467. A Council at Rome, of 48 Bishops; decreed that men that had two Wives, or the Husbands of Whores should not be ordained: That they that could not Read, and they that were maimed or dismembred, or the Penitent, should not be made Ministers, coc.
- 5.54. CXXXV. Ann. 482. Ten Bishops at Towrs, made such honest Canons, as if they yet reteined somewhat of S. Martins Piety. They earnestly diswade the Clergie from their Fornication: They go a middle way between them that forbad Priests to get Children, and those that turn them loose, and decree that married Priests that continue to get Children shall be advanced no higher: They forbid the Clergie to be drunk: And to take in strange women: They forbid them to forfake their Ministerial Function: (but what if Prelates silence them) They keep those from the Communion that lye with Nuns (devoted to Virginity) till they Repent: They keep Murderers from the Communion, till they penitently confess. (This is not hanging them in Chains: But who shall answer for that Blood, and for the next that this man killeth?) others such honest Canons those vertuous Bishops made (oft made before)
- §. 55. CXXXVI. They fay Fælix called a Council at Rome to admonish, and Excommunicate Peter Cnaph. Antioch About the time time that he Excommunicated Acacius Const. and Acacius damned him again.
- §. 56. In this storm against Acacius, the Pope engaged other Bishops, one was Quintianus, who sent Petera dozen Curses for his Cure: Of which one reached Cyril being against those that say [Unam Naturam] Another was [Siquis Deum-hominem, & non magis Deum & homineum dicit, damnetur] that is, Is any one say God-man, and not rather God and Man, let him be damned. How careless are Papists, and Protestants, that so commonly venture on the Word & and examples to their damnation: If our Neighbours, that commonly these thirty years last use the word [God damn me had but put Thee] instead of [Me] I should have suspected that the Councils and Bishops had made their Religion.
- §. 57. CXXXVII. They say that Ann. 483 Acacius (as bad as the Pope, made him) call'd a Council at Constantinople, to Condemn Peter) Cnapheus.
 - §. 5°, CXXXVIII. Fal x called 77 B shops to Rime, on this occasion:

口

He fent his peremptory Letters to Acacim, Const. and some to the Emperour Zeno, by two Bishops, Misenus and Vitalis: The Emperour took away their Letters; and (not knowing then the Popes Soverainty) laid them by the Heels, till he made them glad to Communicate with those Bishops that they came to Condemn: For this Falix and his Bishops, cast them out of the Episcopal Office; and they presumed to excommunicate Acacius, as afore said, even with this Clause, Nunquam Anathematis vinculis exuendus: Never to be absolved from the Curse! What no Repentance, for one that was no Heretick! but false so called, for obeying the Emperour, in dealing gently with some Eutychians; were not this Council and Pope Nowatians?

- §. 59. CXXXIX. Yet Ann. 487. The same Falix is said in a Council of 38 Bishops, to decree Communion to the Lapsed, and Re-baptized, penitent Africans.
- S. 60. At this time, and before in Pope Leo's time; some Maniches in Rome, would not be Reculants, but Conformists, and come to Church, and take the Sacrament; but they took only the Bread, and not the Wine. Leo, Serm. 4 de Temp. quadrag. writeth this against them. When to cover their Infidelity, they dare be present at our Mysteries, they so temper themselves, that they may I fely lye hid, in the receiving of the Sacrament, that they with an univoithy mouth, receive Christ's Body, but refuse to drink the blood of Redemption. Which we would have your holiness to understand; that such ment may be known to you by these marks: And that when their Sacrelegious dissimulation is discerned, bring discovered they may by the Priestly Authority be driven from the Society of the Saints. Hereupon the Pope decreed that none should Communicate, but in both kinds: The Words of the Canon dift. 2. de Confecrat. are these. We find that some taking only a portion of the holy body, abstein from the Cup of the holy blood: Because I know not by what superstition they are taught to be thus bound; let such either receive the whole Sacrament, or be driven from the whole: Because a division of one and the same mystery, cannot come but from heynous Sacriledge. Reader, Is Rome constant in their Religion? And have they no Innovations? Is not Binnius impudent in calling it foolish to cite this Canon of their own Pope, against them. Consider it and Judge.

And as impudent is he, p. 232. in expounding these words of Gelasius. Non desinit substantia vel natura panis & vini, That is, The substance or Nature of the Bread, and Wine ceaseth not: As if it speaks only of the substance and nature of the Accidents: As if Accidents had substance, and Nature of their own: What words, what evidence can be so plain as to convince fuch men.

$.61. Among the Epistles of Gelasius; one is to Euphenius Bishop of And more Constantinople, denying him Communion, till he put the name of Acacius largely, Ep. out of the Dypticks, both of them being Orthodox; only because Acacius 13: ad Epistop.

Communi Daddiese

Communicated with an Eutychian; even when he is dead, those that Condemn him not must be excommunicated; were there ever greater separatists than these. And is it any wonder if now the Pope separate from most of the Christian World.

There is also his Commonitorium Written to Faustus the Embassador of Theodorike at Constantinople; in which he insisteth on the same way of Separation. All the world must be in an Ecclesiastical Episcopal War, if they will not damn and separate from every onethat speaketh an unapt word, if a Council or Pope will but call it Heresie.

But here the Papists would have us believe that excommunicating in those days was a proof of superiority: But Gelasius himself here tells them otherwise. It was objected against him by Euphemius Constant. That one man may not excommunicate Acacius a Patriarch. And he answereth, 1. That it was the act of many; that is, of the Council which condemned the Eurychians in general. But is this good Law, or Divinity? Is every offender condemned, ipso jure, before his personal guilt is Judged? Because the Law condemneth all Thieves, may every man Judge, and hang them. Acacius is confessed to be no Eutychian, but to have obeyed his Prince, in Communicating with one: Euphemius was no Eurychian, but would not disobey his Prince at the Popes command, by blotting out Acacius Name. But his Second Answer is, Quad non solum Prasuli Apostolico facere licet, sed Cuicuny, Pontifici ut quoslibet & quemlibet locum, secundum regulam hereseos ipsius: ante damnate, a Catholica Communione discernant. That is, It is Lawful not only to an Apostolical Prelate, but to any Bishop to exclude from Catholick Communion; any Persons, and any place, according to the Rule of his fore-damned Heresie. And accordingly, others have excommunicated the Pope, and lower Prelates have Excommunicated Patriarchs; and the lower Patriarchs the higher: Excommunication, as it is an Act of Government, is done only by a Governour: But as all Christians are commanded to avoid scandalous Christians, so in their several places they may practice this, the guilt being proved; I may tell him that I have no rule over, I will have no Communion with you: But I cannot thereby oblige all others to do the like.

This Gelasius also oft (Epist: ad Anastas. Imperat. &c.) setteth up the Priest above the Prince, as Gods Laws are above mans: As if Kings were were not to Govern by Gods Laws? and as if the Bishops Canons were not mans Laws (if they be Laws.)

§. 62. CXL. It's faid that 70 Bishops at Rome under Gelasus determined of the Canon of the Scripture, and also of accepted and rejected Books. In the Canon they put a Book called Ordo Historiurum; with one Book of Tobias, one of Judith, one of the Maccabees, Nehemias is lest out. Among the approved Books the Epistle of Leo to Flavian Const. is thus imposed, [The Text whereof if any man shall dispute, even to one iota (or tittle) and doth not venerably receive it in all things, let him be accursed.] A multitude of heretical and rejected Books are named: Eighteen pretended to be by or, of some Apostles, and such other: And among others the History of Ensebius (yet before approved, unless here he mean only de vita Const.) The Works of Tertullian, Lastantius, Arnobius, Clemens Alexand. Africanus, Cassianus, Vistorinus Pistav. Faustus Rhegiens. &c. Of the Canon of Scripture Bishop Consins hath collected the true History from greater Antiquity.

- §. 63. CXLI. Vitalis and Misenus, the Popes Legates at Constantinople, having been Excommunicated for Communicating with Acquius, &c. Vitalis dyed so, but after eleven years Misenus repented, and was absolved by a Council of 55 Bishops: (might not the Pope alone have done it?)
- S. 64. CXLII. You have heard before how Festus got Laurentius the Arch-presbyter chosen Pope at Rome, and more chose Symmachus: Theodorick an Arian being King was just, and had so much wit as to please the Clergy while his Kingdom was unsettled. The Pope, under his protestion, excommunicated both Emperour and Patriarch of Constantinople, for Communicating with Hereticks; but he never excommunicated Theodorick at home, though an Arian: There was reason for it: Interest is such mens Law. But while the Schissin between Symmachus and Laurentius divided the Senate, the Clergy, and the People, sive or six several Councils are called at Rome, mostly to heal this rupture: For at first the Laurentians laid some Crimes to the charge of Symmachus; and when the Councils would not cast him out, they fell to rapine, violence, and bloodshed, many being killed, and all in consuson: So that it was work enough in three years for King and Council to end the Schiss.
- §. 65. CXLIII. When the Arian Persecution abated in Africa, Thrafamundus the King, contriving which way to root out the Orthodox without violence; he commanded that when any Bishop dyed, no other should be ordained in their places. Hereupon the Nonconformists seeing the Churches like toldecay, ann. 504 held a Synod, in which they decreed that though they suffered death for it they would go on, and ordain, and do their Ossice; concluding that either the mind of the King would be mollished, or else they should have the Crown of Martyrdom. This is called Concilium Byzacenum.
- §. 66. It is greatly to be noted, that many following Councils in Spain, France, and other parts of Europe, which were held under the Gothish Kings, were more pious and peaceable than the rest fore-described. The Reasons seem to me to be these: 1. These Kings being conquering Arians, the Bishops durst not damn them for Heresie, for fear of their own necks; and so were greatly restrained from the herericating work of Councils. 2. These Kings having a narrower Dominion than the Empire, pire, and being jealous of their new gotten Conquests, were nearer the Bishops, and kept them more in awe than the Emperour did 3. And these Councils being small (of a sew Bishops) had no such work for arrogancy and ambition, as the great General Councils had. 4. And the great proud pretending Patriarchs that set the World in a continual War, were not here to strive who should be the greatest. The Pope himself was seldom mentioned in the Spanish and French Councils, or the African.

§. 67. CXLIV. One of these honest Councils is Agathense by the permission of Alaricus, by 35 Bishops, Casarius Arelatensis being chief:

Where many Canons for the Clergy were made or repeated.

The 3d Canon is, that if Bishops wrongfully excommunicate any one, other Bishops shall receive them. (Did the Popes observe this with Acacius, Euphemius, &c.) Can. 63. If any Citizens on the great solemnities, that is, Easter, the Lords Nativity, or Whitsuntide, shall neglect to meet where the Bishops are, (seeing they are set in Cities for Benediction and Communion, let them be three years deprived of the Communion of the Church. (Doth not this prove that the City Churches then met all in one place, and so were but one Assembly at those times? How else could all the Citizens be with the Bishop at one time?) But even these Canons forbid Clergy-men to fue any before a Secular Judge, or to appear or answer at anothers fuit, Can. 32. Otherwise both are to be excommunicate, Can! 37. It punisheth those that kill men, but with denying them Communion. Can. 50. Only if a Bishop, Presbyter, or Deacon, commit a Capital crime, he shall be deposed and put into a Monastery, and have but Lay-communion. (When Murderers are hang'd, and Trayters also quartered, this Canon is laid aside.) I thought a Monastery had been a desirable place, and not bad enough to serve Traytors and Murderers instead of the Gallows.

S. 63. CXLV. A Council at Apanna under Sigismund King of Burgundy, recited such like Canons as the former: save that there is one just such as our Fanaticks in England would have made, who would not worship God in any Temple which the Papists had used to their Mass: so saith Can. 33. The Temples (or Churches) of Hereticks, which we hate with so great execration, we despise to apply to holy uses, as judging their pollution to be such as cannot be purged away. But such as by violence they took from us we may recover. This is just Down with the Idolatrous Steeplehouses. But if they would give the Nonconformists in England leave to Preach in such places, they would be thankful, and think God will not impute the sin of others to us.

S. 69. CXLVI. A Council at Sidon of 80 Bishops, was called by the Emperour Anastrasius, where they agreed to curse the Council of Calcedon, don, and Flavianus Antioch, and Johan. Paltens. were banished for refusing. This was about the time when the foresaid Fight was between the Monks and the Antiochians, when the Carkasses of the Eutychian Monks were cast into the River.

- §. 70. About this time was the fall and rife of the Papacy. The fall, in that the Eastern Empire made little use of Popes, but did their Church work without them. Their rise, in that the Western Empire and Africa being divided between many late conquering Kings, they all labour to settle themselves in a peaceable possession by pleasing the Clergy, who, as they sound, had no small interest in the People.
- §. 71. CXLVII. Hincmazsus in the life of Remigius, tells us of a strange thing done at a Council at Rhemes; that one Arian Bishop challenged all the rest to dispute, and when Rhemigius came in would not rise to him, but upon the shaddow of Remigius passing by him, he was struck dumb, and falling at Rhemigius sect, by signs askt pardon, and was suddenly cured of his dumbness and Herese, confessing the Deity of Christ.
- §. 72. CXLVIII. Because Johan. Nicopolit. did but call-some of his Bishops to flatter the Pope, and to curse all Hereses and Acacius, this is put in among the Councils. But the Concil. Tarracense, Anno 516. seems more regardable (under Theodorick) where the Clergy are restrained from buying cheaper and selling dearer than others, (this it seems grew to be a part of their priviledges:) and from judging causes on the Lords day: And it is ordered that the Bishop send a Presbyter one week, and a Deacon another, to the Country Congregations, and to visit them himself once a year, because by the old custome he is to have a third part of all the Church profits.
 - Quar. Whether a Bishops Diocess then was any bigger than one of our Corporations with the Neighbour Villages? And if one of our Bishops that have above a thousand Parishes, or many hundred, should have the third part of all (or as other Canons say the fourth,) Would not our Bishops be yet richer men than they are? Especially if they that confine Bishops to Cities, could get a Prince to call no Corporation a City but one or two in a Kingdom, and be as the Abuna is in Ethiopia, that hath the thirds of all the Ecclesiastical benefits in the Empire. This Council had ten Bishops.
 - S. 73. CXLIX. The Concillium Gerundense is next, Anno 517: under Theodorick; It consisted of seven Bishops, (Bishopricks began to grow so big; that they could not so suddenly meet by the scores and hundreds as when every Church was known by one Altin and one Bishop as Ignatus.

matins speaks.) The seven men made Canons, that the same Liturgy should be used in the other Churches of that Province as were used in the Metropolitan Church. (For formerly every Bishop in his own Church did pray as he thought best, without Imposed or agreed Uniformity of many Churches, much less of all in a Nation.) They Decree also that Litanies be used on the Kalends of November. A Litany then signified a solemn supplicating of God by the People Assembled, Fasting, Walking, Singing, and Praying, as is used here in the Rogation Week: sometime they walked to the Memorial of some Martyr, sometime about the streets, of bare-soot, continuing it with Fasting for certain times. The Last Canon is, That the Priests say the Lords Prayer twice a Day, Merning and Evening. (That was a short Liturgy.)

S. 74 CL. When Justin was made Emperour, the Bishops turned in the East, and down went the Eutychians, and a Synod of 40 Bishops at Constantinople resolved, that the Names of Euphemius and Macedonius should be restored into the Dyptick (their Book of life) and that Seve-rsu should be condemned with his Adherents.

§. 75. The Case hath been oft intimated before; In those times when all the Empire was in confusion between Eurychians, and the Orthodox, and some Emperours took one side, and some the other, and some in vain endeavoured peace: The Churches of Antioch and Alexandria were more Eutychian than Constantinople, though the Emperour that favoured the Encychians were present: Acacius was Orthodox, but pleased the Emperour so far as to Communicate with, or not curse and excommunicate the Bishops of Anticch and Alexandria. For this, as you have oft heard. the Pope Excommunicated him, and he fo dyed chaving done as much for the Pope.) Emphemius and Macedonius that succeeded were both Orthodox, and commanded by the Emperour to Communicate with the Emtychians, and persecuted, and both cast out by him, for not obeying him. as is before described in that and another such matter: The Pope had required them to blot Acacius name out of the Dyptick: The Court. Clergy, and People were against it, thinking it arrogancy in one man, to Excommunicate the Patriarch of the Imperial City that was Orthodox, upon his personal revenge or quarrel: They obeyed not the Pope: The Pope is against them for not cursing a dead Orthodox Bishop Acacius: The Emperour was against them for being against the Eurychians; as the Pope was for not being more against both themi. and all that did not curse them as much as he did. Were not these Bishops in a hard case? Both agree to their extirpation, and when they were dead to damn their names: But the Clergy and People agreed not. The Eastern and Western Churches were hereby divided. (that is, Constantinople and Rome.) Is not the Christian World beholden to such Tyrants and proud pretenders for its distractions and calamities? That will rather divide the Christian World, than endure the names of Ortho-20072

Orthodox persecuted Bishops to be honoured when they are dead because they would not blot out and abhor the name of another dead Or. thodox Bishop their Predecessour, when the Pope cursed him for Communicating with an Eutychian I know the Papilts will cry up, The pre-Cervation of the Faith and Purity; But if ever any did overdo the Pharifees, that reproved Christ for eating with Publicans and Sinners: If ever any became Plagues of the World, by being Wife, Orthodox, and Righteous overmuch, and made use of the name of Faith, to destroy Faith, Love, Humanity, and Peace, and cryed up the Church, and Unity, as Cathelicks, to destroy the Church and Unity, and crumble it into Sects and Factions; it is certainly these men.

But the East and West that thus began their separation by the spirit of Pride and Envy that Rome had against the growing greatness of Constantinople, continue their Division to this day; And it hath been no small cause of the ruin of the Empire and the Christian Cause, and delivering all up to the Mahometans: Which the good Pope feemed to judg more tolerable (with all the streams of Blood that went before and after) than that he should not have his will upon an Orthodox dead mans name. Sure flat Justicia & ruat Calum, was devised by these precise over righteous Popes!

S. 76. Evagring (lib. 3.) faith, that Justin came to the Empire as followeth: Amantins was one of the Greatest men, but uncapable of the Empire, because he was an Eunuch: He gave a great sum of Money to Justine, to hire the Souldiers to choose Theocritus, his bosom friend: Tustine with that Money hired them to choose himself, and quieted Amantius and Theocritus, by murdering them both. And because Vitalianus (that had usurped and laid down,) was then great, he drew him in to be a Commander near him, and so got him killed. But he becometh Orthodox; and faith Binnius, p. 374. The great Patron and Defender of the Catholicks, by the singular favour of God obtained the Empire. So zealous was he, that he caused the tongue of Severus the Eutychian, Archbishop of Antioch, to be pulled out of his head, for cursing so oft Evagr. 1.3' the Council of Calcedon, and such like things. Paulus succeeded him and cap. 4. dyed, and Euphrasius succeeded him, who was buried in the ruines of the City, it being cast to the ground by a terrible Earthquake, and the remnant burnt with fire from Heaven, in the lightning that went with the Earthquake. But Euphremius Licutenant of the East, did so Evagr.1.8. charitably relieve the People, that in reward they chose him for their cap. 6. Bishop. Reader, Was not a Bishoprick then grown a considerable preferment, when the Emperours Lieutenant of the East took it for such, even to be Bishop of a City that lay on heapes?

S. 77. CLI. Things being now on the turn, a Synod at Jerusalem votes up the Council of Calcedon, and cry down Severus.

5. 70. CLIII. And another Council at Rome again decreeth the damnation of the three dead Bishops of Constantinople, Acacius, Euphemius, and Macedonius: What, never have done with dead men? Methinks stark dead might satisfie Pride and Malice.

Binning faith, that the Eastern Church yielded to blot out of the Dypticks the names of Acacina, Euphemius' and Macedonius (not the Heretick) and the Emperours, Zeito, and Anastasius: The Pope maketh himself the Governour of Hell; where he thought these Emperours and Bishops were. But it is worfe than Sayage malice that will not cease towards dead men! And if the Empire yielded, they shewed more love of Peace than - Rome did, but not much wit, in giving a Prelate of another Princes Dominion, such power to defame, and force them to defame their Emperours and Patriarchs at his pleasure.

- S. 80. The zeal of Justin to eradicate the Arians, and take all their Cyurches from them, provoked Theodorick (though a just man, that gave the Orthodox liberty, protection, and encouragement, yet an Arian, and gave the Ariens liberty also) to resolve, that he would use the Orthodox in Italy, as Justin did the Arians in the East: Whereupon John, Bishop of Rome, with some others, went as his Ambassadours to Constant to mediate with Justin for the Arians ease. Anastastus in lib. Pontif. saith he obtained it: Binnius out of Gregor. Turon. faith the contrary: which is more probable. However by going on such a Message for real Hereticks, it appeareth with what fincerity the Popes profecuted the dead names of the three Orthodox Constant. Bishops, on pretence of zeal against Heresie: When their interest urgeth them, Let the World be set on fire rather than you shall speak favourably of an Eutychian: But when interest changeth, Rather than they in Italy shall suffer, John goeth to Constantinople for favour to the Arians. Suppose he did not speed: What went he thither for? On this provocation, Theodorick, on other quarrels, put to death Symmachus, and his Son-in-law Boetins, Roman Senators and excellent men, and imprisoned John when he returned, and in the prison he dyed: And when he was dead the Arian King choic Falix the fourth Pope: Was this Election valid? If yea, he that is strongest, though a Heretick may choose the Pope? If not, than their succession was then interrupted.
- §. 81. CLIV. We have next a great Council called Ilerdense of eight Bishops ander Theodorick, to mend some faults of the Clergy, viz. That they that Minister at the Altar abstain from mans blood, Can. it That they that commit Adultery, and take Medicines, or give them to cast the Birth, or that Murder the Child, shall abstain from Communion seven yea s: And if they be of the Clergy, must be content with the Communion and the Chore without their Office, Can. 2. None shall draw an · · · offender offender, though a Servant out of the Church, (nor fay other Canons out of the Bishops house) that slyeth thither for any Crime (The Church and Bishops Houses had the priviledge to be the harbour for murderers, Thieves, Traytors, &c.) But Can. It alloweth the Bishop to punish them more than others (with longer forbearing the Sacrament) if those of the Clergy murder one another: O severe Laws!

- §. 82. CLV. Next we have a Council (not all so great, having but six Bishops) under Theodorick, that ordered that the Epistle should be read before the Gospel, and some things like others.
- §. 83. CLVI. And four ordinary fayings, were faid over again by fifteen Bishops at Arles.
- §. 84. It feems the Semepelagians then much prevailed: For one Lucian made a Recantation of his Errors to a Council of 27 Bishops at Lyons, as urged by them: One of his supposed errors was, that Some are deputed to death, and others predestinate to Life; and another, that none of the Gentiles before Christ were saved by the light of Nature: And now he owneth: That in the order of times, some were saved by the Law of Grace, others by the Law, of Moses, and others by the Law of Nature; But none ever freed from Original Sin, but by holy blood.

Council at Arles, Bin. p. 386.

- §. 85 Theodorick made the Clergy Subject to Civil Judicatures; allowing them their liberty of Religion: When he dyed (of whose Soul in Hell they pretend visions) his successours Athalaricus, for the quiet possession of his Kingdom, at the Clergies Complaint of this as an injury, was pleased to restore them to their Dominion, and Freedom from subjection.
- §. 86. Justinian succeeding Justin, (by his choice) Compileth the Laws into better order then before, and to the great advantage of the Orthodox Clergy, and against Heresies: And yet two things trouble the Papitls in them. 1. That he seemeth to pretend to a Power over the Church Laws: But their shift is to say that he did it but as a desence and Consirmation of the Bishops Laws. 2. That he restored the Names of his Predecesfors' Zeno, and Anastasius, with Notes of Piety and Honour; whom the Popes had presumed to damn as Encychians or Toleraters of them: But for this they say; It was the doing of Tribonianus, a Heathen Lawyer, that did the work: As if Justinian would let him do what he disliked, and not correct it.
 - §. 87. When Justinian resolved to set up the Council of Calcedon; he Cursed Cursed Severus, and deposed the two Patriarchs, Anthimius of Constantinople, and Theodosius of Alexandria, for they were both Eutychians: Severus had perswaded them rather to forsake all worldly interest, than the Faith (as he called it.) But here I cannot see how the Historians (as Evagrius) will be reconciled with themselves; that say, Justin caused Severus Tongue to be pulled out; and yet, that he afterward perswaded Anthimius at Const. unless he did it only by writing.

5.88. So far was Justinian's resolution, and power, from reconciling the Bishops of the Empire, that he could not keep Unity, in his own House or bed: For his Wife Theodora, was firm to the Eutychians; and cherished them, as he did the Orthodox, and both with so great constancy, that Evagrius suspected they did it politically, by agreement, (for the peace of the Empire) that each party might be kept in dependance on them.

Lvag.l.4. c.10.11. andNicep. l.17.c.7.

- S. 90. About this time a miracle is spoken of so credibly, that I think it not unsit to mention it: Hunnerikus in Africa, being an Arian, Goth perfecuted the Orthodox Bishops, especially on pretences that they refused to swear sidelity to him, and his Son: (say some) They were forbidden to preach, and for not obeying, or for Nonconformity; the Tongues of many were cut out, who they say did speak freely after as before: It were hard to be believed; But three Historians I have read that all profess that they saw, and heard the menthemselves, viz. Vistor Uticensis Anas Gazans de Anima, & Procopius in Evagrius, l. 4. c. 14. Who yet addeth that two of them upon some sinfulness with Women, lost their speech and remained dumb. Nicephor. saith Rem cumsaminis habuissen: Alas, that miracles will not prevent Sin.
- 5.91. In the eleventh year of Justinian, Athalaricus being dead, and Theodatus a Kinsman succeeding, this man loving books better than War, yielded up Rome and the Crown to Bellisarius Justinians. General; and so after the Gothes had kept it 60 years, it was restored without a drop of blood, saith Evagrius 1. 4. c. 18. But when Bellisarius went away Totilas came and recovered Rome: And Bellisarius returning, recovered it from the Gothes again, c. 20.
- §. 92. Three several Countries about that time, received the Christian Faith, much through the Reverence of Justinians power, viz. The Heruli, the Abassi, and they of Tanais, Evagr. c. 19. 21. 22. But the grievous Wars and Successes of Cosroes the Persian in the East, and a plague of fifty two years continuance, which destroyed a great part of mankind, took down much of the Roman Glory.

- 5.93. CLVII. A fecond Concilium Aransicanum Condemned Semepelagianisme, propagated by Faustus Bishop of Rhegrim, after Prosp. who had been of the contrary mind.
- 9. 94 CLVIII- A Concilium Vafense of ten Bishops, decreed that Parish Priest should breed up young Readers, who may marry at age; that the parish Priests shall preach, or in their absence, the Deacon read a Sermon: That Lord have mercy on us be often said: That Holy, Holy, Holy, be oft said: That, As it was in the beginning, &c. be oft said.
- §. 95. CLIX. A Synod of 16 Bishops at Carpentoralte decreed that the Bishop of the City should not take all the Countrey Parish maintenance to himself.
- 6.96. CLX. As Falix was chosen Pope by Theodorick; so Athalarieus claiming the same power, chose after him Boniface the second: An Arrian Heretick made the Pope: Others not willing of the Kings Choice, chose Dioseorus; so there are two Popes: But Dioseorus quickly dyeth; and Boniface Condemneth him when he is dead, on some pretence of money matters, as Simoniacal; and calling a Synod, appointeth Virgilius a Deacon, his Successor. After he calleth another Synod, to undo this Choice, upon his Repentance; and shortly after dyeth himself. Agapetus that sollowed him, absolveth the dead man Dioseorus, whom Boniface Cursed such work did Church-Cursing then make, as the Engine of Ambition.
- $.97 CLXI. A Council of 8 Bishops at Tolerane, said somewhat again to keep Bishops from Women, and from giving their Lands from the Church.
- 6.08. CLXII. John was put by Justinian, to call a Council at Rome on an odd occasion (which sheweth what it was that Bishops then divided the the World about) In the days of P. Hormifda, there was a Controversic (de nomine) whether it might be said: One of the Trinity was Crucified: Hormilda declared against it, because they that were for it, were suspected of Entychianisme, (and condemned after) But the Nestorians laid hold of this, and said: If we may not say that one in the Trinity was Crucified; then we may not fay: Mary was the Parent of one in the Trinity: Justinian sent about this to John; and he and his Synod said contrary to Hormisda: That we may say, that one of the Trinity was Crucified. Doth not this plainly confess the bloud and doleful divisions, caused by Bishops and Monks for so many Ages about Nestorianisme, and Eutychianisme, was but about a Word which in one sence is true, and in another false; which one Pope saith, and another unfaith. When Binnius after Baronius hath no more to fay for excuse of this; but that Ita mutatis hostibus arma mutari necesse fuit : O for honesty : Against divers Enemies we must use divers Weapons. But Sir may you use contrary affertions, as Articles of Faith? Or do you not here undenyably tell us that Ambiguous words, and Clergy Jurisdiction, have been the causes of almost all the Divisions, and Ruines of the Church for 1300 years?

$. 99. Justinian took a better Course to Convince, and Reconcile dissenters, than violence. There is in Binnius, p. 409. &c. The recital of a disputation, or Friendly Conference between the Eutychian Bishops, and Hypatim, with others of the Orthodox: The most clear, rational, and moderate of any thing, that I find before that time explaining their Controversie: And which fully proveth what I have all along said as my Opinion, that indeed the world was consounded by unskilful men about hard Ambiguous words and by a Lordy, selfish, imposing Spirit, in too many of the Captains of those Militant Churches: And that clear distinguishing explication of Terms, with humble Love, would have prevented most of those divisions.

In that Conference, these things are specially notable. 1. That the Oriental Bishops called Eucychians, condemned Eucyches, and yet honoured Dioscorus, who defended him; so that it was a quarrel more about Men, Names, and Words, than Doctrine. 2. That Hypatius, and the Orthodox (though they were not willing to suspect Corruption in Cyril's Epistles, yet) could not deny but Cyril used Emyches words, that is afferted, one Nature of God Incarnate, after the Union. 3. That yet they proved that Cyril also held two Natures: (but fay the Eutychians, he only held two before the Union considered intellectually) so that either Cyril was an Entychian, or else his unskillful speaking, as both parties did, set the world together by the Ears. 4. That unrighteous partiality greatly prevailed with the Orthodox Bishops, and Councils of these times; when they could (as Hypatius here did) put a Charitable Construction upon the same words of Cyril, for which they condemned so many others, who as his obedient followers, held what they did of Cyril's. Unam naturam Dei incarnati : They fay, We neither Condemnit, nor Justific it. If they had used that moderation with all others, all had been in greater peace. 5. That they fay so much of the falsifying of Athanasius Epistle to Epistetus, of Appollinaries Epistle fathered on Julius, of the falshood of the Dyonysius Areopag. cie. As he tells us, that we must not be over credulous intrusting to writings ascribed to the Ancients. 6. That Nullus ex antiquis recordains off ea; was thought a good argument against the Authority of Dyonisius Areopagita. 7. They instance in the difference between the: Greeks and Latins about the words Hypostasis, and Persona, which set the Latins on condemning the Greeks as Arrians, and the Greeks it on condemnthe Latins as Sabellians, till Athanasius that understood both Tongues, per-Iwaded them, that their meaning was the same (And necessity urged Athanasins to reconcile them) which Greg. Nazianzene and other peaceable men afterward promoted; And yet Hierome was judged a Heretick after, for difliking the word Hypostasis.) And yet must Hard ambiguous words confound and divide the Churches still?

8. They confess that Cyril, [idem dicebat esse substantiam, quod naturam vel subsissentiam] ci ideo in duodecim Capitulis suis pro duabus substantiis vel naturis duas subsistentias posuit. Reader, If this great Learned Voluminous

Prelate had no more accurateness of Speech than to consound substance, nature, and subsidence, and put them one for another; what could be expected from the multitude of poor unlearned Prelates, that took his name for their guide, and cryed out in Council, Great is Cyril; We believe as Cyril: And what then? Could the consustions of the World be caused by (between Nestorians, Eurychians, Severians, Monothelites and Catholicks) such a strife about words as Cyrithad occasioned?

o. Note that Hypatim and the Orthodox here maintain, that Flavianus himself subscribed as much for one Nature as Dioscorus could have desired: And that the Controversie lay in a syllable, Whether Christ were one Person? Exduabus naturis, or, In duabus; the Eutychians said Ex, and the rest said In: and Flavian yielded to Ex, and the Synod of Calcedon accepted both: Neque illi istos reprehendunt, neq; isti illos tanquam unius honoris arbitrati voces utrasque, quando & unam naturam Dei verbi inearnatam, non renuit beatus Flavianus in confessione quam propria manu subscripsit, dicere, &c. Where Flavians words are recited to Theodosius, Et unam Dei verbi naturam incarnatam tamen dicere non negamus, quia ex utrisque unus idenque Dominus Jesus Christus est. And would not this much used to all other, have healed all the Churches?

fay, that his Synodical Epistles they receive, not as his, but the Synods: But for the rest; Neque damnamus eas, neque suscipinus.

11. That the Controversie was Logical (p.413.) how Unition maketh or denominateth one.

12. Note that they expeelly say, Ubi Unitio dicitur, non Unius significatur rei conventus (so all say) sed duarum v.l plurium & diversarum secundum naturam: Si erga dicimus Unitionem, procul dubio consitemur, quod carnis animata & verbic sed & hi qui duas naturus dicum, idem sentiunt. And if this be true, were they not all of a mind and knew it not?

Eurycheti, with a Valete added for a flur, and a deceit: and Hypatins was fain to intimate a blame on the Conneil, that had not the patience once to hear such a man as Theodorite to open his judgment, but cryed out only, Curfe them, curfe them, and he interprets Theodorets Valete, as faying, Now take my Bishoprick if you please.

14. In a word, had this Light and Leve been used by the Bishops, which this Conference expressed, it had prevented much Consuson in the Churches, scorn against the Bishops, hardening of the Insidels, and destruction of Christian Love and Peace. And though the Enstern Bishops yielded not, many of their followers did.

§. 100. CLXIII. They say an African Council sent to Justinian to procure the restoration of their Liberties, which the Vandall Arians had taken away (Justinian having recovered Africa.)

$. 101. Pope Agapetus was forced by King Theodatus to go on an Embassic bassie to Instinian, to turn by his Armies from Italy: which he did, and not prevailing (having rejected Authimus) he dyed there, Anno 536.

5. 102. CLXIV. Menna being made Bishop of Const. a Council was there called. Sure no Roman Presided; for there was then an Inter-regnum: But was it then a good Council? As please the Pope! Yet so impudent is Binnius as to say, that Mema was the Popes Vicar, and his Legates presided, when there was no Pope on Earth.

The work of this Council was to condemn and curse Authimus, (a Bishop of Const. got in by the Empress, and put out by the Emperour) with Severus late Bishop of Antioch, and Peter Bishop of Apamea, and Zoaras a Monk, as being Acephali, that is, Severians, or Eutychians, as they were variously called: Severus and Peter have cruel persecutions also laid to their charge, (for persecution hath but its time.) The Emperour hereupon maketh a severe Law against them, sending them by banishment to solitude, and condemning their Books to the fire, and judging their hands to be cut off that writ them. (We may see whence our Church-History mostly cometh, even from the stronger side, that had power to burn all which they would not have known.)

Two things in this Council offend the Romanists: 1. That John Bishop of Constantinople is called Patriarcha Oecumenicus: 2. That Euphemius, Macedonius, and Leo are named, and Leo last: the two first having been damned by the Popes so oft since they were dead. And they have no better remedy, but to say that some ill Greek hand hath falssified the Councils. (Is that all the certainty we have of recorded Councils.) If you suspect the Greek, why may we not also suspect the Romans; especially in the days of wicked

Popes ?

The People cryed out here, Quid manemus in communicati? Binnius noteth, that from the time that Macedonius their Orthodox Bishop was ejected, the faithful Catholicks withdrew themselves from the Communion of impious Timothy that was put into his place. Note 1. that this Macedonius is he that the Roman Pope so often damned alive and dead: 2. That the Peoples separation from bad possessions of the Bishops Seats, was then an usual and justified thing.

103. CLXV. A Council at Ferufalem having notice of what was done at Const. do the same against Authinus, Severus, Peter, and Zoaras.

to 4. Anastasius in lib. Pontisic: saith that the Arian King Theodatus corrupted with Money, made Silverius Pope, And at the same time the Empress Theodora promised the Popedom to Vigilius, on condition he would restore Anthimus and those that the Council had damned: which he promising, the Empress sint him with Letters to Bellisarius to see it done. Silverius was but a Sub-Deacon, and Vigilius an Arch-Deacon, son to Pope Hornisda: Silverius was accused by many witnesses of Treason in offering to let in the Geths into the City, and was banished, and Vigilius put in his place, and had the keeping of him and famished him to death, and succeeded him. So that here were a while two Popes at once, one chosen by an Arian, and the other a persidious Murderer, that undertook to restore those that were ejected as Hereticks: And was this man to be communicated with any more than Acacius, Euthymius, or Macedonius?

- §. 105. Theodosius a Bishop of Alexandria refusing to subscribe to the Calcedon Council, was ejected and banished by Justinian, and Paulus as Orthodox put into his place: who being accused of Murder was also put out and banished, and Zoilus put into his place.
- §. 106. But Theodofins is faid by Liberar. and others, to have first deferted the place, being wearied with the Peoples Wars: The case was this: A new controverse was flarted, whether the body of Christ was corruptible or incorruptible? The division about this was so great, that the Church divided, and chose two Bishops: Those that were for the incorruptability, had Gainas for their Arch-Bishop, and were called by the other Phantasiasta, and Gainites: Those that were for the correptability, had Theodosius for their Arch-Bishop, and were called by the other corrupticola, and Theodosians. Most communicated with Gainas; but the Soldiers were for Theodosius. Liberatus Breviar. c. 20. Saith, that they fought it out, and The People fought for Gainas, many days; and being flain by the Soldiers lost their greatest part: but yet agreater number fell of the Souldiers: And Narles was overcome, not with Arms, but with the concord of the Citizens: The women cast stones on them from the tops of the Houses; But the Souldiers did that by Fire which they could not do by Arms. And faith Liberatus, That City is divided with that Schiffu to this day, some being called Gainites, and Phantasiasts, and the other Theodesians, and Corrupticole.
- 6. 107. The Case of the Orthodox Paul that succeeded him, is described by Liberains, c. 23. He intending to put out Elias the Master of the Souldiers as a Heretick, by a power received from the Emperour, one of his Deacons discovered it to Elias by Letters. Paulus searing the fate of Proterius, and getting the Letters, got Rhodo the Emperours Augustal Magistrate to secure the Deacon, who by one Arsenius Murdered him: For which alledging the command of Paulus the Bishop, and the Emperours command to obey Paul, the Emperour put to death the Magistrate Rhodo, and deposed Paulus, and put Zoilus in his place.
- §. 103. There is in Liberains, c. 22. An Epistle of Pope Vigilius, in which he performeth his promise to the Empress, and owneth Communion with Authimus, & c. and denyeth two natures, & c. But Baronius and Binnius take it for a forged Epistle; when as we have scarce a more credible Writer than Liberatus.
 - §. 109. Niceph. l. 17. c. 26. faith, that Vigilins, when Rome was again taken.

taken by the Goths, fied to Constantinople; There he fell out with Memas the Orthodox Patriarch (Cui Agathon Papa, quod nunquam antea factum est, manus imposuit, saith Niceph. c. o.) and eo insolentia progressus est, he grew so insolent that he Excommunicated Menna for sour Months: which so provoked fustinian, that he sent men to apprehend him, and when he fied to the Altar, they drag'd him away, and Anastasius in lib. Pontist saith, They tyed a rope about his neck and drag'd him about the streets till the evening, and made him glad to communicate with Menna. But at last he was restored to his Bishoprick.

- §. 110. Two heinous crimes Evagrius chargeth Justinian with: 1. Infatiable covetousness and extortion. (But he used to do very great good works.) 2. Encouraging Murderers (see Evagr, l. 4. c. 31.) so that men were no where safe, but they that killed them, as in an act of manhood were protected.
- §. 111. And though he was the great Zealot for the Orthodox against all Hereticks, he dyed a reputed Heretick; in so much that Evagrius over boldly pronounceth, That when he had set the whole World on tumults and sedition, and at last received what was due for his lewd practices, he departed into endless torment prepared for him by the just judgment of God, 1.5.c. I. An arrogant sentence. And will Orthodox Zeal for the Church do no more to save a Soul from Hell.

CHAP. VII.

Of the Controverses de tribus Capitulis, and the Fifth Council called General, and many other.

§ 1. L Vagrius 1. 4. c. 38. tells us, that Justinian fell from the right Faith, af-I firming, That the Body of Christ was every way incorruptible; and that he wrote an Edict, in which he faid, That the Body of the Lord was not subjest to death or corruption; that it was void of natural and unblameable affections, &c. which Opinions he purposed to compel both Priests and Bishops to subscribe : but they put him off, as expecting the Opinion (not of the Pope, but) of Anastasius Bishop of Antioch, then famous for his skill and gravity: But Anastasius would not be moved, and Justinian threatning to banish him, dyed before he did it, or published his Edict. So hard was it then to escape Heresie.

rat, acerbe, seu potius fæde, Justinianus animad vertit .--

And it is noted (ibid.) that in a Famine he commanded Flesh to be fold in Lent; but the People would dye rather than buy it, and break their Customs.

§ 4. CLXVI. An.540. A Council of 25 Bishops at Orleance, made some Canons of Discipline. The 3d Canon about Ordaining Bishops, layeth down the old Rule, [Qui praponendus est omnibus, ab omnibus eligatur,] that is, of the Clergy and People: (The Churches yet were no greater than that all the People could join in choosing the Bishop.) The 10th Canon dissolveth incessure ous Marriages made after Baptism, but not those made before (as if the reason were not the same!) The 27th Canon finding some too Jewish in keeping the Lord's-day, that would not use a Horse or Chariot to carry them, nor would dress Meat, or do any thing to the adorning of their Houses, or themselves, forbiddeth only grosser labours, which hinder the holy duties of the day.

§ 5. CLXVII. The Canones Barcinonenses, speak of the order of Liturgy, that Clerks must cut their Beards, but not shave their Beards, and such like.

§ 6. CLXVIII. (To pass the Concil. Byzazenum, as having nothing noted of it) Anno 541. a Concil. Arvernense decreed (under King Theodebert) one Canon, which, if practised, had been worth many Kingdoms, Ca. 2. [That no one seek the sacred honour of a Bishop by Votes, but by Merits: nor seem to get a Divine Office, rebus, sed moribus: and that he ascend to the top of that entinent dignity, by the ELECTION of ALL, and not by the FAVOR of a FEW: That in choosing Priests there be the greatest Care, because they should be irreprehensible, who must rule in correcting others, &c.

§ 7. CLXIX. An. 545. Another Council at Orleance under King Childebert, among other Orders, saith, Can. 3. that the Synod forbiddeth the Citizens to celebrate Easter out of the City; because they must keep the principal Festivities in the presence of the Bishop, where the holy Assembly must be kept. But if any have a necessity to go abroad, let him ask leave of the Bishop. This Canon, and many other to the same purpose tell us, that then the Infidels were still so many, that a Bishop's City-Church could all meet in his presence in one place.

The 5th Canon decreeth, that a Bishop shall be ordained in his own Church which he is to oversee; which implieth, that then ordinarily there was but one Episcopal Church. And indeed it was long before the Countrey meetings were any other than Oratories or Chappels that had no Altars, nor any but the Bishops Church.

Much ado many Councils made to keep Priests and Bishops from Wives, and to restrain them from Fornication.

§ 8. CLXX. In a Synod at Constantinople, An. 547. the business was debated?

de tribus Capitulis.

§ 9. Here the occasion of this stir must be noted. One Theodorus Bishop of Cæsar. Cap. was an Eutychian, but for his skill in business, was great with the Emperor. He thought if he could but cast any flur on the Calcedon Council, it would justifie their Cause: And the Emperor being speaking against the Entychians, tychians, (or Acephali) Theodorus told him that he might eafily bring them all in, if he would but condemn Theodorus Mapfuestenus, and the Writings of Theodoret, and the Epistle of Ibas against Cyril, which the Council had received, it would satisfie them. This seemed to the Emperor a happy way of concord (the Empress putting him on) and so he set himself earnestly to effect it. These three men had been accounted Nestorians, and two of them had written smartly against Cyril as heretical and turbulent; but yet renouncing Nestorians they were received, and justified at Calcedon against their Accusers. And if one may judge impartially by the Evidence that is left us, they seem to have been far wiser and better men than the majority of the Bishops of those times: But neither Learning, Piety, nor soundness in the Faith, is any security in such times, against Hereticaters, that can but get the upper hand and major vote. And Ignorance usually is most proud and loud, most consident and surious; and such can easilier make wise men pass for Hereticks, than learn of them to be wise. But the final judgment sets a strait.

When Justinian was earnestly set upon this Project, the Defenders of the Calcedon Council perceived themselves in a difficulty; should they condemn these three men, they would seem to condemn the Council (about which there had been such a stir in the Empire:) And they should seem to justifie the Eutychians, and to strengthen them: And if Council were against Council, it would dishonour Councils: And if they should refuse the Condemnation, they would seem to desert Cyril, and the first Ephesian Council, and perhaps might be called Nestorians; but, worst of all, they should displease the Emperor, and might occasion his savouring the Eutychians. Therefore they took this prudent course, to put off the business to a General Council, and to delay till then the Emperors attempts.

But the Emperor did first publish his Edict, in which after the Confession of his Faith, and praise of the four Councils, he addeth ten Curses (Anathematisms, according to the Custom and Religion of those times) of which the three last are against the tria Capitula, or the Councils seeming approbation of the three forenamed men. The Bishops resisted a great while, but at last were forced to fubmit.

§ 10. CLXXI. To this purpose Vigilius Romanus had a meeting of about Conflant. 30 Bishops, where Vigilius yielding was called a Desertor, as prevaricating to an 547-please the Emperor; he got them to give in their reasons on both sides in writing, and then gave all to the Emperor's party, and persuaded the rest to silence and communion till a Council, because it was not a Controversie about Faith, but about Persons.

§ 11. The Emperor's Party (acted by Theodore Casar.) got some Bishops to assemble at Mopsuest. An. 550. to prepare a Condemnation of their former Billiop Theodore, by faying that his name was not in their Book.

§ 12. CLXXII. King Childebert called another Council at Orleance, where many old disciplinary Canons were repeated: Among others, Can. 9. That no Lay-man be made a Bishop without a years time to learn his Function. (You may conjecture what Scholars they were then!) Can. 10. That none get a Bishoprick by gifts, or feeking; but with the will of the King, by the election of the Clergy and the Lay-people. Can. II. Also (as the ancient Canons have decreed) let none be made Bishop to an unwilling People (or without the Peoples consent) nor let the People or the Clergy be inclined to consent, by the oppression of persons in power (which is not lawful to be spoken:) But if it be otherwise done, let the Bishop be for ever deposed from his obtained honour of Pontificate, who is ordained rather by screethan lawful decree. C. While one Bishop is living, let not any other be there made Bishop; unless perhaps in his place, who is ejected for some capital Crime. Can. 21. Though all Priests, and others, must be careful to relieve the Poor with necessaries, yet especially every Bishop must from the Churck-house as far as they can, administer necessaries for food and rayment to such as are in weakness both in his Territories and his City, &c.]

Note I. Were those Bishopricks any bigger than our Parishes of Market-Towns with the Chappelleries? where 1. All the Laity met to choose the Bishop. 2. Where the Bishop could know and relieve all the Poor. 3. And this from the domins Ecclesiae, which was but one.

II. Our Nonconformists plead, that according to these ancient Canons, 1. Those Bishops are no Bishops who came not in by any choice or consent of the People or Clergy, but by power are imposed on the most unwilling. 2. That those Ministers that were never deposed for any Crime, are not to be forsaken by their Flocks, nor imposed persons thrust into their places, accepted by the People, while the first hath true right.

§ 13. CLXXIII. We come now to that which they will needs call the fifth General Council at Constantinople, An. 553. of 165 Bishops. In which let these particulars be noted. 1. That Justinian's Letters or Formulæ were first read, in which he expresly affirmeth, that it was the Emperors that called the former General Councils, and he that called this. 2. That he lamenteth the divisions which former Councils had left unhealed: faying, [The followers of Nestorius and Eutyches made so great trouble in the holy Churches of God, that divisions and schisms were made in them, and the Churches had no Communion with one another: For no man that travelled from one City to another, did presume to communicate, nor any Clerk that went from one City to another, to go into the Church. Here was lamentable separation indeed. 3. That Justinian was made believe, that these divisions would be healed, if the tria Capitula of the Council of Calcedon were but condemned: For the Eutychians did so much boast of Cyril, being confident that they did but follow him, and his first Ephesian Council, that if he were vindicated, he thought they would be satisfied. 4. And he thought that the three Bishops were indeed so far to be condemned, having disgraced Cyril, and favored Nestorius, and the other was Nestorius's Master. 5. That the receiving and the curfing of the Council of Calcedon, having hitherto been the great Contest among the Bishops, some were loth now to cast so great a dishonour upon it, and to give the Eitychians fo much cause to boast; supposing they would but be the more confirmed in their opposition.

§ 14. Note also, that Vigilius Bishop of Rome was then at Constantinople, but came not to the Council, nor sent any Legate to it: But the Emperor tells the Council, "That when Vigilius Bishop of Rome came to that City, the Emperer "exactly opened to him all things about the tria Capitula, and asked him what he "thought of them; and that Vigilius not once nor twice, but often in writing, and without writing, anathematized the impieus tria Capitula.] And that he had "shewed that he was ever of the same judgment, &c.

Coun-

And they had made Justinian believe, that Ibas in his Epistle denieth God the Word to be made man, and the Virgin Mary to be the Mother of God.

§ 15. The Emperor's Writing being read, at the next meeting the Council fent to Vigilius to fit with them, but he still refused, alledging, That there were few of the Western Bishops there. To which their answer is notable, that The meeting of all the rest eight not to be delayed for the Western Bishops: For in all the four General Councils, there was never found a multitude of the Western Bishops, but only two or three Bishops, and a few Clerks. But now you are here, and many Italian Bishops are at hand, and many of Africa, Illyricum, &c. And if he would not meet them, they must do it without him. They urged him also with the Emperor's words, that he being alone, had oft in writing, and without writing, condemned the tria Capitula, and the Emperor defired him but to do that with others, which he had done by himself. But yet Vigilius would not come: Whether it was because he understood not Greek, and so should be a contemned Cypher (for he faith, They all knew that he understood it not) or whether it was to avoid the Censure that he had before incurred or both is not known. For you must underftand, that Vigilius had fuffered defamation at Rome already, as a Revolter from the Calcedon Council, for joining herein with the Emperor in the beginning, and his chief interest lay at home.

$ 16. Theodorus Mopfuestenus Writings are searched; and though he is highly extolled by many good Authors, yet many passages recited in the Council, and after by Vigilius, do shew either the error of his judgment, or his unskiltulnes in speaking; for they are not justifiable. But if every Papist voluminous Writer should be danned as a Herctick, whose Writings have more and greater Errors than the Council gathered out of Theodore Magnisstenus, it would be a hard reward for their exceeding labours. When such men as Tostans, Aquinas, Scotus, Ockans, Durandus, &c. Bellarmine, Baronius, Suarez, Vasquez, Cajetane, &c. have spent their days in diligent labours, how case a matter is it for a proud idle Drone that doth nothing or worse, to gather as many and as great Errors out of their Works, as were in many then counted Hereticks. But the approbation of God, who pardoneth failings, will be the comfort of such as improve their Talents; when the slothful, unprofitable Servant shall be condemned, and quarrelling with the imperfections of the diligent will not fave them.

It is evident that Theodore and Neftorius acknowledged Christ's Godhead and Manhood, Soul and Body, and the personal Union of them. But they were none of them persect in Logick and Metaphysicks, nor so spake as that no man could blame their words.

§ 17. Next the words of learned Theodorite are scanned; and many very smart passages against Cyril are recited: Many verbal Controversies are repeated. Theodorite is accused for saying, That Mary begat net God in the nature of God,

but Man as united to the Godhead; That Christ was forsaken, suffered, hungered, slept, was ignorant of that day and hour, &c. as man, and not as God: That it was not God that was ignorant, (he meant not as God, or not the Deity) but the form of a Servant, which knew no more than the Deity revealed: And so of many other properties or acts of the Humanity, he faith, It was not Deus Verbum that wept, that learnt obedience, &c. meaning only not qua Deus, or not Deitas, for want of care in speaking. And Ep. ad Joh. Antioch. (Bin. p. 559.) it's apparent that he also misunderstood Cyril, and thought he held that by Unity of Natures, the Deity was properly become very fleth. A fevere Epift, ad foan. Antioch, against Ciril after his death is there charged on him, in which he with great saltness rejoiceth in his death, [Miserum illum nec ad similitudinem aliorum dimısit nostrarum animarum gubernator diutius eorum potiri, quæ videntur esse delectabilia; sed crescentem quotidie viri malignitatem sciens & corpori Ecclesiæ necentem, quasi pestem quandam amputavit & abstulit opprobrium à filis Israel: Lætificabit superstites ejus discessio : Contristavit verò forsitan mortuos, & timor est ne prægravati ejus conversatione, iterum ad nos remittant, vel illos diffugiat qui eum abducunt, sicut ille tyramus Cyri Ciliciam : Procurandum est igitur, & oportet tuam Sanctitatem maxime hanc suscipere festinantiam, & jubere collegio mortuos asportantium lapidem aliquem maximum & gravissimum Sepulchro imponere, ne iterum huc perveniret & instabilem voluntatem iterum demonstraret: Infernis nova dogmata adferat: Ibi diu noctuque sicut vult sermocinetur: Non enim timemus ne 👉 illos divideret-silet miser invitus: Nudata illius facta alligant linguam, obstruunt os, frænant sensum.-Ideo plango miserum & ploro: Nec enim puram mibi delectationem fecit mortis ejus denunciatio, sed dolore permixtam: Lætor & jucundor ejusmodi pestilentià commune Ecclesia videns liberatum: Contristor vero & ploro cogitans quod nec requiem malorum miserabilis susceperit, sed majora & pejora pertentans defunctus est; somniavit enim, ut dicunt, & regiam urbem perturbare, & tuam Sanctitatem accusare, utpote ea colentem : Sed vidit Deus & non despexit : Inmist funum in es ejus, & frænum in labia ejus, &c.

Binnius thinketh some bad man fathered this falsly on Theodoret, I would hope so too: But it's strange that the Council fathered it on him, and none did vindicate him. And the next Charge (Bin. p. 559.) rebuketh his Charity, viz. his Speech at Antioch in the presence of Domnus, [Nemo neminem jam cogit blafphemare—non jam est contentio: Oriens & Ægyptus sub uno jugo est: Mortua est invidia; & cum eo obruta est contentio: requiescant Theopathitæ.] Is not this of the same kind? And this is not denied to be his. Whosoever it was, it was sad that Bishops should have such minds, and use such words of one another, especially if it be as I considertly believe, viz. that not distinguishing the concrete from the abstract, and Qui Deus, from Qua Deus, they both meant the same thing, and differed but about the aptitude of words, for want of explication and

§ 18. In brief, After the reading of many Papers, and Ibas Epistles, the tria Capitula were condemned, viz. Theodore Mopfuest. and the writings of Theodoret against Cyril, and Ibas Epistle. And so the Emperor found the Council as obedient as he desired.

§ 19. But Vigilius Bishop of Rome, who would not come to the Council, now giveth in his Constitutum, or his own judgment upon the whole Case, and that with great moderation. He first reciteth many passages of Theodore Meepwest, which he renounceth; and he dispraises the passages of Theodore and Ibas, but he refuseth to join in the anathematizing of them, alledging that good men have their errors, and instancing in many whose errors were noted, and yet their persons not condemned, especially when they had either recanted them, or better explained their words: And he noteth that it would be a great injury to the Calcedon Council, to have its own members now thus condemned, that were by them accepted. Quid enim aliud est mendaces aut simulantes professionem resta sidei Patres in saneta Calced. Synodo residentes ostendere, quam dicere aliques ex eis simila sapuisse Nestorio; quorum judicio Nestorium ejusque dogmata faisse damnata.]

And soberly he saith, [It is not lawful to pass any new judgment on the persons of the dead, but we must leave all men in the case that death found them, and in special Theodore Mopsuest. what the Fathers did is evident from what is said; I dare not condemn him by my sentence, nor yield that any one else condemn bim: but far be it from me to admit his wrong opinions.

This was the right way: If they had all dealt as wifely and Christian-like,

Counsels had not been the Confounders of the Churches.

§ 20. Nicephorus nameth many of Origen's Errors that were condemned in this Council, but it is not found in the Acts. Binnius doubteth not but the Origenists stole them out, and falsified the Records, and also forged those Epistles of Vigilius, in which the opinion of One Operation is afferted. But will they allow us equally to suspect such Records as have been kept at Rome?

$ 2.1. What good this Council did, and how the peaceable Emperor attained the end that Theodore Cafar. promised him, of uniting Differers, I shall tell you but in the words of Binnius (who followeth Barenius in almost all) "What "Theodore Cæsar. promised, that the Eutychian Hereticks called Hestants, when "the three Capitula were condemned, would receive the holy Calcedon Council, was "not obtained, when this was ended; but rather a most grievous mischief was added to the Church: For wire like Defenders of the three Capitula, with Vigilius "the Pope did not acquiesce in the Councils decree, the whole Catholick Church was "torn by Schism; and which is worse, the Emperor stir'd up Persecution, in which "he deposed or banished Vigilius (holding to his Constitutum) Victor. Afric. and "others.

§ 22. I do impartially commend Vigilius's moderate Constitutum, but I must needs say that there needeth no other instance than Vigilius, that Interest is a Lave to some Roman Bishops, and that their pretences of Infallibility, Tradition and Antiquity, notwithstanding they have changed their very Faith, or judgment of Councils at least, as their worldly motives changed. Vigilius sirst statered the Emperor, and joined with him against the true Capitula, Conc. Calced. that is against Theodore Mopsu. Theodoret and Ibas three Bishops, saith Binnius p. 608. "[Seeing therefore that before this Council a Schism arose in the Western and Africane Church, because Vigilius had consented to the Emperor's opimon, it became "neces-

" necessary, for the avoiding of Schism, Sacriledge and Scandal, that he should pub" lish his Constitutum, in defence of the tria Capitula, by vertue whereof the "Western Churches should be united, and the contempt of the Calcedon Council " should be avoided, which the Impugners of the tria Capitula did fraudulently con-"trive; and that the Universal Church should learn by this example, that no man "that dyed in the true Faith, (hould be condemned when be is dead: But, (did "Vigilius stop here?) No, saith Binnius, But when after the end of his Council " the Church received yet greater damage, and the Emperor persecuted them that "contradicted the Synod *, and it was feared that the whole East would be divi-"ded and separated from the Roman and Western Church, unless the Bishop of not Papists "Rome approved the fifth Synod, then Pope Vigilius, in a Cause which could bring " no prejudice to the Orthodox Faith, did well and justly change his former fen-" tence, and approved the Synodal Decree, for condemning the tria Capitula, and " revoked and made void his Constitutum, which he before published in defence of "the tria Capitula. The prudent and pious Pope (that came to the Popedom by "Bribery, Tyranny, and Murder of his Predecessor) did in this prudently imitate "St. Paul about Circumcision, &c.

O what certainty and constancy is here in the Papal judgment; For a Pope about one Cause to judge for it, against it, and for it again in so short a time? And all this upon reason of Policy and State. Did the same so often change, and prove first true, and then false, and then true again?

But the Papists excuse is, that it was de Personis, non de Fide. Answ. But 1. Is it lawful to take the same thing for true and false, good and bad de Personis, as our interest requireth? 2. Why are the Persons condemned but on supposition that their Faith was condemnable? 3. You confess that it was for the advantage of the Eutychian Faith, and the depression of the Faith of the Calcedon Council, that the tria Capitula were condemned.

Reader, If all this will not tell thee how much need there is of a furer and more stable support of our Faith than Popes and Councils, yea and better means of the Churches Unity and Concord, I must take thee for unteachable: what have fuch Councils done, but fet the Churches together by the ears?

§ 23. Liberatus in his Breviary faith, (c. 3. 10. 24.) that Theodore Mopfu. his Works were approved by Proclass, Johan. Antioch. the Emperor, the Council of Calced, &c. But Binnius faith, Nimis impudenter & incaute: Yet all acknowledge Liberatus a most credible Historian, and lived in Justinian's time. He saith also, that Nefandissimum hæreticum Theodoretus & Sozomenus landarunt adeo ut hac de causá nterque magnam nominis sui jacturam passus fuerit, &c. men are apt to think as hardly of such as can cry out Nefandissimum hæreticum against all that speak as unskilfully as this man did, as of charitable men that praise them for what is good, while they disown their frailties and imperfections: If it be as he faith, many thought that Theodoret assumed his own name from this Theodore, by reason of his high esteem of him, it's like he had some special worth, though he hath many culpable expressions. And Sozomen is an Historian of so deferved reputation, that it feemeth to me no argument of Pope Gregory's Infallibility, that he faith, lib. 6. cp. 95. was Magnus Ecclesia Dector.

§ 24. The Controverse whether Vigilius were the Author of the Epistle to Menna, I pass by: But, methinks, Binnius is very partial to justifie so much what he did after Silverius's death, as beginning then to have right to his Papacy, and to give him so differing a Character (from Sanctissimus Papa) before, while he pollefled the same Seat, as these words of his express, [Cum omnium, &c. seeing that Villany (or Crime) of Vigilius, did exceed the Crimes of all Schisinaticks, by which making a bargain with Hereticks, and giving money by a Lay-man, he by force expelled Silverius Bishop of the prime Seat, and spoiled of his Priestly induments (or attire) banished him into an Island, and there caused him to dye, it should seem no wonder to any man, if a desperate wretch (homo perditus,) the buyer of another's Seat, and a violent Invader, a Wolf, a Thief, a Robber, not entering by the true door, a false (or counterfeit) Bishop, and as it were Antichrist, the lawful Paftor and Bishop being yet living, did add most permicious Heresie to his Schism. Tet this man became the most holy Pope, by the vertue of his place, as foon as he had but murdered Silverius, and was accepted in his stead, and then it became impossible for him to err in the Faith.

§ 25. CLXXIV. Anno 553. A Council was called at Jerusalem by Justinian's Command, who sent to them the Acts of the Constantine Council de tribus Capitulus, to be by them received; the Bishops all received it readily, save one Alexander Abrsis, who was therefore banished, and coming to Constantinople, say Baronius and Binnius, was swallowed up, and buried by an Earthquake. If this was true, no marvel if it confirmed the Emperor in his way: But I doubt the obedient Bishops were too ready to receive such reports.

§ 26. CLXXV. The same year 553, the Western Bishops held a Council at Aquileia, out of the Emperor's power, where, as Defenders of the Council of Calcedon, they condemned the fifth Constantine Council aforesaid, and (so saith Binnius) separated themselves from the Unity of the Catholick Church, and so continued for near an Hundred years, till the time of Pope Sergius, who reduced them. Were not these great Councils and Bishops great Healers of the Church, that about condemning some written Sentences of three dead men, thus raise a War among the Churches? Were Hereticks or Hereticaters the great Dividers?

§ 27. But here followeth a Case that raiseth a great doubt before us, Whether the Pope alone, or all his Western Bishops, when they differ from him, are the Church? After the death of Vigilius, the Secular Power procured Pelagius the Archdeacon to be made Pope; the Western Bishops disclaiming Justiman's Council, and Pelagius obediently receiving it (and the Popedom,) there could not be three Bishops got that would ordain him, as the Canons required, so that a Presbyter Oftensis was fain to do it.

Betides the Question (Which now was the Church?) here are other hard Questions to be folved.

ВЬ

Qu. I

Qu. 1. Whether Justinian's Election of a Pope was valid? And if so, Whether other various Electors may do it as validly?

Qu. 2. Whether a Presbyter's Ordination of a Bishop or Pope was valid? If so, Whether Presbyters may not ordain Presbyters?

Qu. 3. Whether this Pope was truly Head of the Catholick Church, when his Bishops obeyed him not?

Qu. 4. Whether it was then believed at Rome itself, and in the West, that a General Council, approved by the Pope, was either infallible, or necessarily to be obeyed?

Qu. 5. Whether it be true which W. Johnson, alias Terret, often tells me, That it is not possible that there can be any Schism in the Catholick Church, because of the essintiality of its Union?

§ 28. Note that this Pope Pelagius, because his Bishops rejected him and the Council, got Narses the General to compel them: And then who can doubt but he was Pope, and they his Subjects?

But Narses scrupled it, lest he should be guilty of Persecution; Fustinian's Pope Pelagius telleth him, it is no fin, and bids him not fear it; for it's no Persecution which compels not men to fin: but all that separate from the Pope, and affemble separatedly do fin, and are damned Schismaticks; therefore he defireth him to fend the Bishops of Aquileia, Milan, and the rest that yield not, Prisoners to Constantinople. Narses obeyeth the Pope and Emperor; the Bishops excommunicate Narses; the Pope writeth to him, that it is no news for erring Bishops to take themselves for the Catholick Church, and to forbid others their Communion, and counselleth him to go on and repress them. And the Civil Sword and the Ecclesiastical were thus engaged in a Roman War; one Bishop Sapandus of Ares in France the Pope got specially to stick to him, whom therefore he commended to King Childebert, &c.

§ 29. CLXXVI. A Council at Paris deposed Bishop Saphoracus for some great Crime.

§ 30. While the Romans were refolving to subject themselves to the Goths again, because the Pope made Narses their Persecutor, Narses took it so ill, that he Barevius went away from them, but the Pope drew back, and he * shortly died. farius also was ruined, and Justinian himself shortly dyed. Binnius saith it is reported that he had no Learning, and thinketh that his Civil Laws were Tribo-& others nian's, and his Ecclesiastical Theodorus Cafariensis's. And saith that the Church rejecteth his Laws of Usury, Churches and Ecclesiastical Persons, as arrogant Usur-Qu. Whether the Roman Power was then understood by Princes or pations. People?

§ 31. CLXXVIII. Another Synod at Paris repeated nine old Canons: The * Baronius 8th was, [No man may be ordained a Bishop against the will of the Citizens; nor any but whom the election of the People and the Clerks, shall seck with plenary will; none shall be put in by the command of the Prince, &c.

632. CLXXIX. An. 563. in the time of Pope John 3d. (not he, but) Theodomire, alias * Ariamire King of the Sueves, called a small Council at Erac-Arronne. cara in Galicia, where eight Bishops opened so much of the Priscillian Herese, as contradicteth Anastasius in this point.

that Theedomire was Father to may tell us it was worthy to be detested (not much unlike the Manichees;) and many old Canons they recited: But I could have wished that they had not made a mans diet the note of his Heresie, and a sufficient cause of his conviction and damnation. The Priscillianists (as these say) would not eat sless, nor herbs boil'd with sless these souncil ordered that if any that abstained from tless, did not eat herbs boiled with sless, he should be taken for an Heretick. This is not conformable to Paul's Rules or Spirit.

§ 33. This Council ordered that none should be buried within the Church, which Binnius well sets home. And whereas Priscillian taught that in the Liturgy [the Pax vobis, Peace be unto you] should be said only by the Bithop, and Dominus vobiscum by the Priest, the Council contradicted him. 1. We see here what Trisles divided men! 2. We see that yet the Churches usually were no bigger than met in one place with the Bishop, or might do: For it is supposed that every Church-Assembly had a Bishop present to say his part.

§ 34. Theodomirus the Suevian King, under whom this Council was held, was the first of that race that turned Orthodox; all the Sueves before him (with the Goths) having been Arrians.

§ 35. CLXXX. Anno 566. The contest about choice of Bishops grew sharp. King Clot harius made one Emerius Bishop Santoniensis; the Canons had before decreed that Kings should choose none, but all the People and the Clerks, and the Metropolitan ordain him. The King's Bishop is deposed by a Concil. Santoniense, of which Leontius of Bourdeaux was chief. They sent the King word of it by a Presbyter: The King silled a Cart with Thorns, and laid the Priest on them, and sent him into Banishment, and forced the Bishop to submit to his will.

§ 36. That it may be known that neither Popes, Councils, nor consenting Bishops divided Diocesses and Parishes, here Binnius giveth us at large, first Constantine's divisions in Spain, and next the fuller division of King Wamba. Bin.

§ 37. CLXXXI. At Tours in France (eight Bithops) in a Provincial Council, revived many Canons of the old matter, (to keep Bithops and Priests from Women) Can. 13. The Bishop may keep his Wife as a Sister, to govern his house: But Can. 20. Priests that will keep Wives, must have some Witnesses to lie in the same Chamber, to see that they lie not with them. And Can. 14. Episcopum, Episcopam non habentem, nulla sequatur turba mulierum, &c.

Can. 21. They say, [Those that the Law commandeth to be put to death, if they desire to hear the Preacher, we will have to be convicted unto life, (that is, not to dye:) For they are to be slain with the sword of the mouth, and deprived of Communion, if they will not observe the Decrees of the Seniors left them, and do despise to hear their Pastor, and will not be separate.] Some Sectaries among us are of the same mind, against putting penitent Malefactors to death.

§ 38. CLXXXII. Anno 570. There was a Council at Lyons of Fourteen Bishops, who recited six Canons to restrain the Vices of the Clergy. Binnius, out of Greg. Turon. tells you the occasion was, that one Salonius and Sagittarius, as soon as they were made Bishops, being then at their own will, broke out into Slaughters, Murders, Adulteries, and other wickedness. And Tider Bishop of Tricas keeping his Birth-day, they sent a Troop with Swords and Arrows, who cut his Cloaths, beat his Servants, and carried away all his Provision, leaving him with reproach: The King Gunthram hearing of it, called this Synod, which found them guilty, and deposed them: They tell the King that they are unjustly cast out, and get his leave to go to the Pope, fohn 3d. The Pope writeth to the King to have them, as wronged men, restored, (this was the Papal Justice and Reformation:) The King chideth, but restoreth them; but they grew never the better afterward, but asking pardon of Bishop Victor, he forgave them, and for that was afterward excommunicate.

§ 39. CLXXXIII. An. 572. a Council was called under King Ariomire at Braceara of 12 Bishops: They are mostly forbidding Bishops to take money for their Ordinations, Confectations, and other Actions. And the first Canon requireth them to walk to all their Parishes, and see that the Clerks did things rightly; that Catechumens learnt the Creed, and to preach to the People to forbear Murder, Adultery, Perjury, Fasse-witness, and other mortal Sins, to do as they would be done by, and to believe the Resurrection, Judgment and Recompence according to Works.

§ 40. CLXXXIV. An. 572. a Concilium. Lucense did receive from Martin Bishop of Braccara 84 old Canons, of which the 67th was against reading Apperypha, or any thing but the Canon of the Old and New Testament in Church.

§ 4.1. After fustinian's death, his Sisters Son fustinus was Emperor, a sensual and covetous man, who murdered presently a Kinsman of his own name, upon suspicion that he was too great; yet he drew up a good Profession of Faith, exhorting all the Bishops to agree in it: But Chosroes, King of Persia, invaded his Empire, because the Greater Armenia (which was then under the Persians, as the Lesser was under the Romans) to avoid the Persians persecutions, had revolted to the Empire, and destroyed their Rulers: The Persians conquered so much of the Eastern part of the Empire, and fustine's Soldiers made so little resistance as drove him out of his wits; and his Wise, by intreaty, got the Persians to make a Truce. Tiberius was then made Cæsar, and afterward Emperor upon fustine's death; and fustinian his Captain repelled the Persians, and recovered much of what they had conquered.

§ 42. An. 576. Divers Kings of France by War among themselves destroyed Churches, and consounded all; and a Council at Paris was called, but in vain, to have perfuaded them to Peace.

§ 43. After Benedictus, Pelagius 2d was Bishop at Rome; Tiberius an excellent Emperor quickly dyed, and by his choice Mauritius succeeded him. Pelagius (by Gregory his Deacon) wrote against the Bishops that would not condemn the tria Capitula: And when all his writings prevailed not, he got Smaragdus the Exorchate to force them by the Sword: (The great remedy which Rome hath trusted to.)

§ 44. CLXXXV. Meroveus Son and Heir to Chilperic King of France, marrying his Uncles Widow, offended his Father, and fled to St. Martin's Church at Tours, and forced Bishop Gregory to give him the Sacrament. The King could not get the Bishop to deliver him up; he fled, and the King called a Synod at Paris to judge Pretextatus a Bishop, whom he accused for marrying him, and confederating with him.

§ 45. CLXXXVI. The two Bishops forenamed, Salonius and Sagittarius, being again accused of Adultery and Murder, and being freed by profesting Repentance, King Guntheramus called a Cubilene Synod, and accused them of Treaton, and so deposed and banished them.

§ 46. CLXXXVII. An. 582. King Gunthram called a Synod at Mascou, to revive the old Canons for restraining the Lust and Vices of the Bishops and

§ 47. CLXXXVIII. An. 583. A Concil. Brenacense is called, to try Gregory Bishop of Teurs, falfly accused of charging the Queen of living in Adultery with a Bishop; an Archdeacon and a Deacon bore false Witness: but all came to light, and Gregory was cleared by his Oath.

§ 48. CLXXXIX. An. 5 87. A Council at Constantinople increased the Churchdivisions which continue to this day, wherein fobn Bishop of Constantinople was decreed to be called, The Universal Bishop, which Pope Pelagius could not endure. O what hath this Question done to the World, Who shall be the chief or greatest? So much of the image and work of Satan bath been found in the professed Servants of a crucified Saviour, and in those that have worshipped the Cross!

In this Synod Gregory Bithop of Antioch was tryed, and acquitted of a false

$49. Pelagius writeth against John's Universal Title, saying, [Universalitatis nomen quod sibi illicitè usurpavit, nolite attendere, &c. Nullus enim Patriarcharum * hoe tam profano vocabulo unquam utatur: quia si summus Patriarcha Uni- " No not versalis dicitur, Patriarcharum nemen cateris derogatur. Sed absit hoc, absit à the Rofidelis cujusquam mente boc sibi vel velle quempiam arripere, unde honorem fratrum suorum imminuere ex quantulacunque parte videatur. Qua propter Charitus vestra neminem unquam suis in Epistolis Universalem nominet, ne sibi debitum subtrabat cum alteri honorem offert indebitum. Adversarius enim noster Diabolus qui contra humiles (aviens sicut Leo rugiens circuit, quarens quem devoret, non jam, ut cernimus caulas circuit.-Omnia qui foli uni Capiti cohærent, videlicet Christo, per electionem pompatici sermonis ejusdem Christi sibi studeat membra subjugare. Nec mirum quod ille tentator qui initium omnis peccati scit esse superbiam, &c. And fo he goeth on, exhorting them rather to dye, than to submit to the Title Universal, and resolving Excommunication against the User of it.

§ 50. Binnius faith, It is ridiculous hence to impugn the Primacy of the Church: But Qu. 1. Is it not impudent after this, for them to use the Title of Universal? Qu. 2. Doth not this allow us to separate from them that usurp it? Qu. 3. Doth not Pelagius here plainly distinguish between the place of Prime Patriarch which he claimeth, and Universal Bishop or Patriarch which he damneth. Qu. 4. Doth he not describe this damned Usurpation, to be a subjectiing all Christ's members to himself? Qu. 5. Doth not the Pope now use both the name and thing as far as he can attain it? Qu. 6. Did not Pelagins and Gregory know that John did no more intend to put down all other Patriarchs or Bishops by this Title, than the Pope doth? Qu. 7. Doth not the Pope now claim that as by Divine Right, which John claimed but as of Humane? Modesty can deny none of this.

§ 51. CXC. An. 587. Nine Bishops at Lyons repeated six old Canons about Women, &c.

§ 52. CXCI. An. 589. King Gunthram finding all things grow worse, and that all was long of the Bishops onely, (faith Bismius) called a Council at Mas-cou, where the stricter keeping of the Lords-day was commanded.

§ 53. Here Binnius noteth that Priscus is called Patriarch, and that the Bishops of Venice, Istria and Liguria, continuing still separate from Rome, chose Paulinus Bishop of Aquileia their Patriarch, [Quem sibi loco summi Pontificis supremum Antistitem constituerent.] Qu. Did the Bishops then believe that the Pope's Universal Government was effential to the Catholick Church? And that none were the Church but his Subjects?

§ 54. CXCII. King Gunthram, An. 589. by a Council at Valence, setled his Benevolences on the Churches.

§ 55. CXCIII. An. 589. At Toletum King Recaredus called a Council, and renounced Arrianism, and recited several Canons; among others, that Bishops and Pricsts Wives might dwell with them, but not lie with them. And they lament and condemn the practice of such as kill their children, appointing them sharp discipline without capital punishment. (Had the Church power to free Murderers from death, as they long did, Was this holy Resormation?)

The 11th Canon faith, That they found that in many Churches of Spain, men filtbily and not regularly did Penance, that they might fin as oft as they would, and be as oft reconciled by the Priests, &c. Many reforming Canons were here made. There were 67 Subscribers besides the King, and of divers Cities two Bishops, which was unufual,

§ 56. CXCIV. (Passing by a meeting at Rome) Another Council at Narth

bon was held by Recaredus, who brought over the Goths from Arrianism.

§ 57. The Emperor Mauritius, though a great and excellent person, was ruined by the mad and uncurable mutinics of his Soldiers, and at last, with his Family, cruelly murdered by Phocas, one of his Captains; a terrible warning to Princes not to trust too much to Armies.

- § 58. All this while the opposers of the Calcedon Council kept up, and were divided in the East into many Parties among themselves: Among others, the great Peripatetic fohan. Philoponus was their most learned Defender, writing with such subtility, that the Natures really two, were to be called One Compound Nature, as the Soul and Body of a man are, as (saith Nicephorus) was not easie to be answered (by which, how much of the Controversie was de Nomine & de Notione Logicâ, let the Reader further judge;) he that will see some of his words, may read them in Niceph. 18. c. 45, 46, 47, 48. his Notions made men call him a Tritheire.
 - § 59. Jacobus Zanzalus being a great Promoter of the Party, many ever fince fince have from him been called Jacobites: And the divided Parties that oppofed the Council, called the other Melchites, that is Royalists, because they took them that followed the Council, to do it meerly in obedience to the Emperor, (for it was not the Pope then that was the Master of Councils.

§ 60. Among the Armenians also some raised the like Herelies about the Natures of Christ, some thinking his Deity was instead of a Soul to his Body, &c. To which they added superstitious Fasts, and worshipping the Cross, and such like, not pleading Reason, but old Tradition for their Errors, saying they had them from Gregory, vide Niceph. l. 18. c. 53, 54. But I must go forward.

§ 61. Pelagius dying, Gregory called Magnus, succeeded him at Rome : He continued the Controversie about the Title of Universal Bishop, writing many Epistles against it: He flattered Phocas the murderous Tyrant, with a Latentur Cali & exulter Terra, &c. yet was one of the best and wisest of their Bilhops. He sent Augustine into England, who oppressed the British Church, and converted the Saxon King of Kent. He introduced more Superstitions, and greatly altered the Liturgy. Of which read Mr. T. Jones of the Hearts Sovereign.

§ 62. CXCIV. A Concilium Histalense of eight Bishops recited three Canons.

6 63. CXCV. Mauritius before his death, defired Gregory to call a Synod at Rome, to draw in the Western Bishops that separated, and to cast them out if they disobeyed: which he did, and they refusing his Summons, Severus of Aquileia, and other Bishops were ruined. They thought God destroyed Mauritius for perfecuting them. Gregory thought God would have them destroyed as Schif-The Bishops of Rome for near an hundred years were forced the more to please the Emperor, because their own Bishops had cast them off, and set up another Head against them.

§ 64. CXCVI. An. 590. A Concil. Antifudorense made divers Canons against Superstitions, and some too superstitious (as that Women must not take the Sacrament in their bare hands, &c.)

§ 65. I find it to tedious to mention all the little Synods, that henceforth I shall take but little notice of them, but of the greater only.

One under Recaredus at Casar-Augusta, made three Can about the Ar-

One in Numidia displeased Gregery.

§ 66. A Council at Postiers was called on occasion of two Nuns, daughters to the King of France, that broke out of the Nunnery, with many more, and accused the Abbess, and got men together, and stript her stark naked, and drew her out, and fet all France in a Commotion, and were forced to do Pe-

A Council was called at Metz, to reduce the Bishop of Rhemes convict of Treason (for Bithops that were Traytors or Murderers were not to dye.)

A Synod at Rome under Gregory absolved a Priest of Calcedon condemned by John of Constantinople; what one did, the other undid.

An. 597. Under King Recaredus, 13 Bishops made two Canons for Priests Chastity, &c.

Another.

Another under him, An. 598. A Concil: Oftiense made two such more. An. 599. A Council at Constantinople did we know not what.

An. 599. Under King Recaredus, 12 Bishops at Barcinen made sour Canons against Bishops Bribery, &c.

A Council of 20 Bilhops, 14 Presbyters, and 4 Deacons at Rome made 2

Canon for Monks.

Another there, Apr. 601. against a false Monk. .

Another at Byzacen against a Bishop.

Another in Numidia about a Bishop and a Deacon.

§ 67. Gregory dying, Sabinian fucceeded him, who reproached him, and would have had his Books burnt as unfound, faith Onuphrius: And, faith Sigebert, Gregory appeared to him in a Vision, and reproving him for that and Covetousness, knockt him on the head, and he dyed.

§ 68. Boniface 3d succeeded, chosen by Phocas the Murderer, who hating his own Bishop of Const. Cyriacus, ordered that Rome should be the chief Church.

§ 69. A Council at Rome forbad chusing a Pope, till the former had been three days dead, because they sold their Votes for money.

§ 70. Boniface the 4th is made Pope, and Phocas giveth him the Pagan Temple, called Pantheon, for Christian Worship. In his time, Phocas was killed by Heraclius, as he had kill'd Mauritius.

§ 71. An. 610. A Council at Toletum, under King Gundemar, about the Bishop of Toletum's Primacy, which the King setleth by Edict.

§ 72. A Council at Tarraca under King Sifebutus took the shortest way, and only confirmed what had been before done for Priests Chastity.

§ 73. Deus dedit was next Pope, in whose time the Persians conquered Feru-

. salem, and carried away the Bishop, and (they say) the Cross.

§ 74. Boniface 5th succeeded: Heraclius the Emperor is worsted by the Persians, who would not give him Peace, unless the Empire would renounce Christ, and worship the Sun; Heraclius overthroweth them; Mahomet now riseth, and maketh a Religion of many Heresies.

§ 75. At a Synod at Mascou, Agrestinus accused Columbanus of Superstition, for Crossing Spoons, &c. but was refelled.

§ 76. Seven or eight Bishops at Hispalis, condemned the Eutychians, and called them Acephali.

Councils held about the Monothelites, with others.

Being come to the Reign of Pope Honorius at Rome, who was condemned by 2 or 3 General Councils for a Monothelite Heretick, (as Vigilius was by his own Bishops for an Eutychian) and having shewed you what work both the heretical and hereticating Bishops and Council made in the world about (not only button), but) Storted, one Nature, and the condemning of dead men; I shall next shew you what work they made also about the words, One Operation, and One Will, or Two Operations, and Two Wills. Reader, Wouldst thou think that there were venome enough in one of these words, to poyson almost all the Bishops in the world with the Plagues of Heresie, or Heretication and Contention?

§ 2. The old Controversic still keeping the Churches all in pieces, some being for two Natures after Union, and for the Calcedon Council, and others against it, and but for one Nature after Union: Cyrus, Bishop of Alexandria, was told, that it would unite them all, if they would confess One Operation, and One Will in Christ, or at least lay by the talk of One and Two, and use the words, [Dei virilis Operation.] The Operation (and Will) of Godman. CXCVII. He therefore called a Synod at Alexandria, in which this was decreed (called Satisfaction.) For they said that Dei virilis signified two Natures, and so they thought they had at last hit the way of concord, which neither the General Council of Ephes. 1. Ephes. 2. Constant. 2. Calcedon. Constant. 3. had found out: but all set the Bishops but more by the ears.

Cyrus sent his Decrees to Sergius Bishop of Constantinople, Sophrenius Bishop of Jerusalem persuaded the silencing of the names of [One] or [Two] Operations or Wills. Sergius sent the Case to Henerius to Rome; Honorius rationally persuaded them to use neither the one word, nor the other, (One or Two) foreseeing that a new quarrel was arising in these words, and (little knowing how for this he was by General Councils to be Hereticated, when he was dead) persuaded them to a silent Peace. It is but sew Popes that were so wise and peaceable; and this one must be a Heretick for it, or General Councils be fallible, and much worse.

§ 3. Because (knowing the effect of the old unhealed Cause) I foresee that such men will go near to Hereticate me also when I am dead, for condemning Hereticating Incendiavies in the Nestorian, Eutychian, and Monothelite quarrels; I will recite the words of Binnius himself, who saith the same that I have said from the beginning, (though I justifie him not from self-contradiction.)

Tom.2. p.992. [Honorius, fearing (which after came to pass, and which he knew had fallen out in former Ages about the word Homoousion wand many others) lest that Contention should grow to some great Schim, and seeing withall that Faith might be safe without these words, he was willing to reconcile both Opinions, and withall to take out of the way the matter of Scandal and Contention. Writing therefore to Sergius, he advised him to abstain from the word [One Operation] less they should seem with Eutyches to assert but One Nature in Christ; and yet to sorbear the word [Two Operations] less with Nestorius, they seemed to assert Two Persons. (A Slander contrary to his words.) I again say, If all the Hereticating Bishops and Councils had followed this discretion and moderation, O what had the Church escaped!

Yet they are sain to stretch their wits to excuse his words elsewhere, [Unde & Unam Voluntatem fatemur Domini nostri Jesu Christi.] But it's certain that in some sense it is One, and in another sense Toro.

§ 4. The Emperor Heraclius interessed himself in the Controversie, Binnius saith by the fraud of Anastasius Patriarch of the facebites, he was deceived, Animo defendindi Concilium Calcedonense. The facebites were Eutychians, the greatest enemies of the Calcedon Council; and it's strange then how they deceived him, to defend it by destroying it.

But, faith he, [While he, befides his place and office, by the persuasion of the Devil, was wholly taken up in defending questions of Faith by his own judgment, &c.] Here you may see what the Papists Clergy would make of Kings and all Lay-men: If they be wholly taken up in defending questions of Faith by their own judgment, they pronounce them to be persuaded to it by the Devil. Error is from the Devil; but sollicitous searching after the desence of Truth, is liker to be of God. But they must not do it by their own judgment: By whose then? By the Bishops no doubt; What Bishops? General Councils. And had not the Emperors long enough followed Councils, and banished such as they condemned, till, while they almost all condemned one another, the world was scandalized at the odious Divisions and Cruckies of the Church? But must they follow Bishops without using their own judgments about the Case? What, as their meer Executioners? Must the Princes of the world act as Brutes, or Idiots, or Lictors? Was this the old Doctrine, Let every Soul be subject to the higher Power, &c.?

§ 5. CXCVIII. King Sifenandus (the second that had all Spain) called a Council at Teletum of all his Kingdom, An. 633. of 70 Bishops, who made many good Canons for Faith, Order, and Reformation; the last is a large defence of the King against Rebellion: But they order that when a King is dead, the Prime Men of the whole Nation, with the Priests, by common consent, chuse another, that retaining the Concord of Unity, there should be no strife through Force or Ambition.

And they decree the Excommunicating of wicked Kings that live in great fin; which I doubt whether the fifth Commandment forbid them not to have done, it being a purposed dishonour.

§ 6. CXCIX. Another at Toletum was called 636, by King Chintillane, which went the same way; Kings were Rulers here, and not Popes.

§ 7. CC. Another at Toletum, An. 638. by the same King to the same purposes.

§ 13. An. 640. John 4th was made Pope, who condemned the Emperor's Echresis; and, it's said, the Emperor disowned it, and said that Sergus made it, and defired it might be published in his name.

§ 14. Heraclus dyeth, Constantine succeedeth him, and dyeth in 4 months. Heracleo succeedeth: After six months the Senate depose him, and cut off his Nose, and cut out his Mother's Tongue, on suspicion that they poysoned Constantine, whose Son Constans is next set up.

§ 15. Pyrrhus, thought guilty of Constantine's death, flieth into Africa, and Paulus a Monothelise hath his place. Pyrrhus seemeth converted by Maximus in Africa, cometh to Rome, and is owned by the Pope against Paulus. Paulus persuadeth the Emperor to publish a Typus, requiring all the Bishops to lay by the Controversic and Name of One and of Two Wills and Operations of Christ. But this which was approved in Pope Henorius, is cryed down as Heretical in the Emperor.

Pyrrhus returneth to his Opinion, and Paul dying, he is again put in his place at Constantinople.

Binnius no better answereth the Objection, [that the Emperor's Edict said but what Pope Honorius said,] than by saying, that the time made the difference. It was good in Honorius's time, and bad after to be quietly silent in such a Case.

§ 16. They say there was a Council in Numidia, another at Byzacene, at Carthage another of 68 Bishops, about the Monothelites.

§ 17. CCI. Another Council was at Toletum under King Chindascrin-

§ 18. CCII. The Pope, with one of his little Councils at Rome, (for the foresaid Italian Bishops yet disowned him, and obey the Patriarch of Aquileia) presumed to condemn Paulus Const. & Pyrrhus, and the Emperor's Edict, (Typus:) Wherefore his Agents at Constantinople were cast out, beaten, their Altar overthrown, &c.

§ 19. Martin is made Bisshop at Rome: He condemneth the Emperor's Edict of Silence (as to Two Wills and Operations, or One.) The Emperor sendeth for him, he is brought Prisoner to Constantinople, laid in Irons under feveral Acculations; banished and dyed.

Here the Pope pretendeth that Truth must not be silenced: The Emperor saith, Peace must not be broken for needless words: Quer. Whether he be a Martyr that suffers for oppugning such Peace?

Constant. are condemned, and two Operations and Wills afforted.

§ 21. CCIV. (Passing by a Synod at Orleance) An. 653. another Council was held at Teletum against incontinent and ignorant Priests. Kings here used to preach to the Bishops by their Letters and Decrees. Dukes and Lords here subscribed.

- § 22. Eugenius is Pope, and dyeth; Vitalianus succeedeth him: Constant the Emperor cometh to Rome, giveth them gifts, and communicateth with them. It's said he kill'd his Brother Theodosius, and after was kill'd himself: Mezentius usurpeththe Empire. Constantine Pogonatus, Son to Constants, conquereth him, and reigneth. Pope Vitalianus helpeth him, and therefore expecteth his help. Rome stood so much between the Eastern Empire, and the Western Kings (Goths, Lembards, Franks, &c.) that both sides stattered the Roman Clergy, (though they oft suffered from both.) The Empire to keep them from turning to the Goths, &c. and the Goths to keep them from turning to the Empire. And they that had most need of the Popes, most advanced them; and they that had least need and most dominion, kept them under.
- § 23. CCV. Another Council at Toletum, An. 655. called by K. Recessionthus, (not the Pope,) made divers good Canons for Church-order; among which the tenth is, that because all the Canons oft made, could not keep Bishops and Priests from Lechery, they tryed this additional way, to decree that all their Children begotten of their Servants, Maids, &c. should be uncapable of inheritance, and should live in continual servitude to the Church.

King Recaredus made a Law, that Bishops and Priests Concubines should be whipt with an hundred Stripes; and others, that they should be fold for Slaves.

§ 24. CCVI. The King of France (Clodoveus) called his Bilhops together at a Village called Clypiacum, and made a Sermon to them, and they applauded him.

§ 25. CCVII. He called another Synod at Cabilone for Church-order, where Can. 10. it was decreed, that all Ordination of Bishops should be null, that was otherwise made than by the election of the Comprovincials, the Clergy, and the Citizens. (A threefold Lock is not easily pickt) Let England understand this, to be the old Canons and Custom.

$ 26. CCVIII. A Concil. Emeritenfe, called by King Receffuinthus, made more Orders for regulating Bishops and Priests, &c.

§ 28. CCX. Another at Toletum under King Wamban, An. 675. fought to reform the Bishops and Clergy.

§ 29. CCXI. An. 675. the same King Wamban had a Synod at Braccara, for reforming the Clergy. Can. 5. was to correst the Bishops that had turned Piety Piety into Pride and Vanity; going to the Solemnities of the Martyrs, with Reliques hanged about their necks, carried in Chairs by Deacons in white, &c. O what hath the Pride of Prelates done in the world!

§ 30. Pope Adeodatus, and after him Donus reigned at Rome, and the Patriarchs of Constantinople and Anticch were Monethelites, and Constantine needing the Hest, having lost the East, took part with Rome.

After Donus came Agathy, in whose time the Bishop of Ravema, after long rejecting the Bishop of Rome as heretical, returned to communion with him. Constantine sent to Rome, to require the Bishop to keep Missionary Legates at Constantinople, and intreated them to lay by Philosophical Controversies, and preach the pure Scripture, that the Churches at last might have Peace. (But alas how long was that counsel vain!)

odorus, to own the Catholick Faith, Bed. 1. 4. c. 13.

§ 32. CCXIII. The same year 679. A Council at Milan told the Emperor their opinion for Two Wills and Operations.

§ 33. CCXIV. A Synod at Rome prepared matter for the General Council against the Monoshelites. This tended to please the separating Bishops of Italy that divided from the Pope, for seeming to desert the Caleedon Council by condemning the tria Capitula.

§ 34. CCXV. Now cometh the 3d Council of Conflantine, called the 6th General Council, in which 289 Bithops condemned the Monothelites, that were for One Will and Operation. Conftantine Pog. being against them, Macarius Patriarch of Antioch was the chief of them, who would have confented to name neither One nor Two, but when they had done all, professed that he would be cast into the Sea, before he would say there were in Christ two Wills and Operations; thinking that he held to Cyril, and the first Ephesian Council against Nestronius. George Bishop of Constantinople deserted him, and he was deposed and banished (to Rome; no hard Banishment but for ill company.)

§ 35. A long stir there was among them, perusing former Writings; Macarius and his Party producing many, which others said were falsified (so little certainty is there oft of Copies.) The Epistles of Sergius Const. & Honor. Rom. are read, which I should think peaceable and honest; but the General Council damned and cursed them both as Hereticks. The Papists say, General Councils may err in matter of Fact: How much more then in matter of Faith, which is more obscured and matter of Fact is much of the matter of our Faith.

No Man's name had so strange a Fate against Hereticaters, as the great Hereticater Cyril's; who (in this Council in Cyrus artic. and many others) was fully proved to affert One Nature of God incarnate after the Union] and yet called Orthodox, and those that said as he, and much less, were damned Hereticks.

Some that confessed two Natures, yet denying two Wills after the Resurrection, supposing the Humane Will called Natural had been laid by, were here damned with the rest.

§ 36. CCXVI. An. 681. King Ervigins held another Council at Tole-tum, for the Royal Power, and reforming the Clergy.

The Pope had so little to do, and the Kings so much in all these Spanish Councils, that it's strange Spain is now become so service to the Pope. Binmus is forced to confess here (To. 3. p. 110.) that [The study and lubor of chusing sit men to be made Bishops, was in the power or hands of the Gothish Kings, which by the indulgence of the Roman Popes is in the Spanish Kings even to our times] which he proveth. (O indulgent Popes, who let go what they cannot keep!)

An. 682. Some Synods in France did, we know not what.

§ 37. Leo 2d is made Pope by the Emperor; and because he confirmed the Acts of this Council, which damns Honorius as an Heretick, the Papists know not which way to turn themselves. Baronius would have Leo's Epistle forged. Bimius will have either the Acts corrupted by Theodore Const. before they were sent to Leo, or that necessity compelled him to this hard condition by the iniquity of the times, and that Heresie else would have revived, &c. so that by their reckoning, they that relie all on Tradition and Fathers, leave not Fathers, Councils or Traditions certain for one Age.

§ 38. CCXVII. An. 683. K. Ervigius had another Synod of 48 Bishops at Toletum, for restoring some guilty of Treasons, securing the King, Oc.

§ 39. Constantine Pegon. restored to Rome the power of making Popes without the Emperor, which the Gothish Kings and other Emperors had long denied them.

§ 40. Benedict 2d is made Pope: A new Controversie in his time is raised. The Spanish Bishops write an Epistle, in which they assert Three Substances in Christ, his Divinity, his Soul and his Body, and say withall that a Will begat a Will, that is, the Divine Will begat the Humane. The numbers of One, Two, and Three, had so confounded Men in those times, that the words frightned the Pope, and he expostulated and warned them to take heed in what sense they used them; which hath made it a question whether this Pope were not erroneous himself.

§ 42. Pope John 5th was the first Consecrated without the Emperor since the liberty granted.

Theodoric King of France called a Council, An. 685. in which he depo-fed feveral Bishops.

§ 43. Constantine Pog. dying, Justinian 2d his Son is Emperor. Binnius faith, he was not found in the Faith (a hard thing then!) And that he repented of the liberty granted in chuling Popes, and so ordered that the Exarch of Ravenna approve them, by which Bribery was used with the Exarch. And while the Soldiers and Clergy could not agree, they were fain to content to a third, Cenen, to be Pope.

§ 44. Comen being dead, Theodore and Pafebal strove for the Popedem, and got their Parties to stand it out for them. Paschal promised the Exarch a great Sum of Gold to make him Pope. When they could not agree, Sergius a third was chosen. The Exarch forced him to pay the Gold, and so he got the Soldiers love and the Popedom.

$45. CCXIX. An. 688. Another Toleran Council writ a desence of their affertion, that Christ had three Substances, and that Volumes genuit Vo-luntaten:.

§ 46. CCXX. A Council at Casar-Augusta, made five Canons; the last was, that when the Kings dyed, the Queens should lay by their civil Habits, and be put into a Monastery, and profess Chastity.

§ 47. CCXXI. An. 692. Was the famous great Council called the Quini-Sextum at Constantinople, by Justinian 2d's Order; why it should not be called a 7th General Council, I know not. It was called by the perfuafion of Callinicus Constant. to make a full Body of Canons for Practice, because the 5th and 6th Councils made none. Binning saith, It could not be a General Council, because the Pope was not there by himself, or his Legates, and yet confesseth that neither was he or his Legates at the first Constantine Council, and yet it was universal. And why doth not another Bishops absence (E. G. Alexand. Jerujal. &c.) null a General Council as well as the Popes? The Papifts rail at this Council as a Convention of Malignants, (Bin. p. 154) and against Ballamon, that defendeth it as a wicked Greek Impostor; (the word [wicked] in these Mens writings is a term of art and interest, and no moral term.) They recited abundance of old Canons, many of great use. One would wonder whence the anger against them ariseth. It was per summam nequitiam, faith Binnius, that they called themselves a General Council: And the Hely Ghost with not with them, because the Pope was not with them, (p. 154, 155.) and they ordained many things contrary to Apostolical Constitutions, and the Canons of General Councils. Reader, you see here, 1. How little trust Papists lay on that part of Tradition which dependeth on Councils? 2. That it is the Pope (one Man) that is the certainty of Tradition and Judgment, without whom Councils are nothing. 3. That if the Pope be ablent, all the other Bishops affembled in Councils by the command of Emperors, may be called Knaves and wicked Malig-Alas how few Bishops adhered to the Pope, (when Italy was not yet cured of Separation from him) in comparison of those that met in these Eastern Councils which they revile! 4. You see here, how far they are from truth, that fay the Universal Church still cleaved to the Pope, when most by far) of the Bishops in the world forsook him! you see Luther was not the first.

§ 48. Note that Tharafus Bishop of Constanturple, An. 692. in the 2d Council of Nice, tells them, that it was the same Bishops that met in the 6th General Council at Constantinople, who met again here under Justinian. And were not the Bishops of the place so near the time competent Judges of the matters of so notorious Fast? And were the same Bishops an infallible General Council at the 6th Council, and yet all wicked Schismaticks or Knaves, and wicked Men, when they meet again but to make Church-Canons for Reformation? If this do not tell you how truly Binnius faith, in their own judgment [that Councils have just so much authority as the Pope giveth them] what can tell it you?

§ 49. Yea, Binnius makes this Council to be Monothelites: And were the same Men Orthodox in the 5th or 6th Council ten years before, and Hereticks in this? Is this the constancy of the Church and Bishops Faith?

§ 50. The 13th Canon is one that displeaseth them; in which the practice of the Church of Rome in separating Priests from their Wives, is expresly renounced; and it is decreed that no Priest be required to separate from his Wife, (so be it they abstain at Fasts and necessary Seasons) nor any Priest endured to put away his Wife, on pretence of piety; else he must be deposed.

§ 51. Another is the 16th Canon, that maketh Deacons like Overseers of the Poor.

§ 52. The 22d is a hard Canon that Bishops and Priests, ordained with money, and not by examination and election, be deposed, and they that ordained them.

§ 53. The 36th Canon displeaseth them also, which confess the Church of Constantinople's Priviledges as equal with Rome.

§ 54. The 38th Canon containeth one great cause of the old Confusions, viz. That whatever alteration the Imperial Power makes on any City, the Ecclesiastical Order also follow it. Did God make this Law? Are not as many Souls in a Town that's no City as capable of being a Church as Citizens? It is in the Princes power to make and unmake Cities: May he accordingly make or unmake Churches? What if a King will have but one City in his Kingdom, must there be no more Churches or Bishops? What if there be no Cities (as in many American and Arabian Countries) must there be no Churches? What if the King will disfranchize most of the Cities, and another will make every Market Town a City; must Churches be altered accordingly? If so, O that our King would make us so many Cities, as the work and the souls of Men need true Bishops, that one might not have a thousand Parishes without any subordinate Bishop! But if this hold, the Emperor might have taken down Rome, and set up Constantinople, or any other at pleasure.

§ 55. Can. 50. Forbad Clergy and Laity to play at Dice, on pain of Deposition, or Segregation.

And Can. 51. forbids going to Shews, Jesters, Stage-Plays, Huntings.

The 55th Canon commands the Church of Rome to amend their Customs, and not to fast on Sabbath-days.

Can. 62. Forbids Womens Publick Dancings, and Mens and Womens together, and their putting on Masquers or Players Apparel, or Persons, &c.

Can. 63. Commandeth the burning of false Histories of the Martyrs, as tending to bringing Religion into reproach.

Can.

continual joyful Praises to God, and holy Exercises, and to use no Horse-Races, &c.

The 67th Canon is against eating Blood.

Can. 72. Nullifieth Marriage with Hereticks. (Alas, good Bishops, did you think the Papists would have Hereticated you as Monothelites, and nullified all Marriages with you by this Canon? But two Hereticks Marriage is not null.

Can. 78. Commandeth all the illuminate (baptized) to learn the Belief, and every Friday to fay it to the Bishop and Presbyters. (How many Parishes or hundred Parishes had the Bishop then to hear? Not so many as ours.)

Lamb to be made for Christ as the Lamb of God.

The 90th Canon is (an old one) Not to kneel on any Lord's-day, and that this begin on the evening before.

P. 155. Binnius reproveth them for calling Cyprian Archbishop, and he proveth that Africa then had no Archbishop or Primate.

§ 57. CCXXII. An. 693. was another Teletan Council, called by King Egica: Before it the King writeth a Sermon for them, wherein he tells them, That every Parish that have twelve Families, must have their proper Governor: But if less, it must be part of anothers charge.

§ 58. CCXXIII. An. 694. was another Toleran Council under the same King Egica: (One would wonder that the Legislative vertue of the Church should be continued to such fertility and multitude of Laws, as must follow if in all Countries there be every year a Council: How great must the Volumes of Laws be at last?) Binnins in his Notes on this Council tells us, That though Paul would have the believing Husband or Wife stay with the Unbeliever, in hope of Conversion, yet many hundred years experience hath taught us the contrary, (that it tendeth rather to hurt than good) and therefore now it must be otherwise, and they must separate.

$ 59. CCXXIV. Even to those days the number of Pagans and Infidels in most Countries was the greatest, and the care of good nien was to convert them: (And therefore we read still of so many baptized at age.) A Council at Utrecht decreed (Willebrood (or Willifrid) and Subert being Leaders) that the best Preachers should be sent from the Neighbor Churches to convert the Heathens, (that was better work, than striving who should be chief, or raging about hard words.)

§ 60. CCXXV. A Synod at Aquileia, An. 698. condemned the 5th General Council at Constantinople, for condemning the tria Capitula of the Council of Calcedon. (O what Concord Councils caused!)

§ 61. Pope Scrgins refuling to own the Council of Constant. at Trul. under Justiman 2d, the Emperor commanded that he should be brought Priferer to Constantinople. The Soldiers of Ravenna (Sergins having paid them the 100 l. of Gold) hearing of it, rose up and rescued him, and made the Emperor's Officer in sear beg for his life. By such Obedience Rome kept up.

ince. John the 6th was now Pope. § 63. John the 7th is made Pope (another Council at Toletum under King Witiza I país by) he was a Greek. CCXXVI. He gather'd a Synod at Rome, to debate Justinian's Order for the receiving the Trull. Concil. And our English Willifrid, accused by his King, was here justified, as a Son of that Church: And a Synod in England received him, when the King was dead.

6 64. Sissimius made Pope lived but 20 days, and Constantine succeeded him, who was fent for to Constantinople, and honoured by Justinian.

665. About this time (An. 708.) Spain was conquered by the Sara-.. cens; Binnius faith, Because King Witiza for sook the See of Rome. By which we still see that Rome was forsaken even by the best Church, such as Spain then was, and was not the Ruler of the World.

§ 66. Bardanes Philippicus by Rebellion deposed Justinian, and was made Emperor; and within two years was so used himself by Anastasius, (his eyes put out, and he banished.)

§ 67. CCXXVII. The Emperor Philippicus and Joh. Constant. called General Council at Constantinople; I may well call it General, when Binnius faith, There were imumerable Bishops, which is not said of any other Council. They all condemned the 6th General Council, and their Opinion of two Wills, and two Operations. Where it is manifest,

3. How great a part of the Church regarded not the Authority of Rome.

2. Nor thought a General Council infallible, when imumerable Bishops are against both.

3. And how strong the Monothelite Party was.

4. And alas, how bad too many Bishops, that can change as fast as Empcrors will have them. For faith Binnius (after Baronius) [Thus at the beck of the Emperor, and at the will of a Monothelite Patriarch, the holy fixth Synod is condemned, and what they decreed of two Wills in Christ, and two Operations, and all retracted by the Decree and Subscription of very many Oriental Bishops, that were in one moment turned from being Catholiques, to be Monothelites. Is this the constancy of Bishops, and the certainty of their Tradition? But why have we not the Acts of this great Council, as well as of the rest?

CHAP. IX.

Councils called about Images and some others.

P Ope Gregory the 2d is the Man that must set up Image-worship against all opposition, rebel against his lawful Sovereign, and confederate with other Princes to alienate the Western Empire, when the East was almost ruined before, and so to weaken the Christian Power, that the Turk might shortly win the Empire.

§ 2. To have recited all along as we went on, what new Ceremonics, Formalities and Orders were invented and brought in by the Popes, and how Doctrine and Practice grew corrupted, being a thing done already by many others, would have been tedious here, and befides the defign of this writing, which is but to fhew how Prelates have used the Church by their contentions about JURISDICTION and HARD or AMBIGUOUS WORDS; and what hath been the work especially of General Councils. But we cannot tell you well the work of the following Councils, without telling somewhat of the occasion of the matter.

The Primitive Christians used not Images in the Worship of God, (read Dalaus de Imaginibus.) But the contempt of Christianity by the Heathens, occasioned many to oppose their contempt by glorying in the Cross of Christ, and by making the transient sign of it with their singers; and thence they grew to use the fixed sign of it; and thence to speak of and believe many Miracles wrought by it; and thence to make the Image of Christ crucified, (which yet Epiphanius condemned;) and thence by degrees to make the Images of the Apostles and Martyrs; and thence to make in their Churches the Images of their deceased Bishops, (till an Excommunicater arose of another Opinion, that pull'd any of them down.)

And abundance of Dreams, Visions, Apparitions and Revelations were the pretended Proofs that prevailed for many fuch Superstitions, but especially for Images, and Purgatory, and Prayers for the dead. Among others, an English Monk, Egwin of Evesholme, chosen Bishop of Worcester, must lead the way, by pretence of a Vision, (a Dream, no doubt) see Spelman's Concil. p. 209. in his own Chart Egwin saith, [That the Virgin Mary first appeared to a certain Shepherd called Eoves, and afterward to himself with two Virgins, holding a Book in her hands, and told him in what place she would have him build her a Monastery. The crafty Dreamer divulged the Vision, and some good Men opposing it, the Pope must have the hearing of it. The Pope put it to the Oath of Egwin, whether ever he saw such a Vision or not? Egwin sware it, and the matter was past doubt, (just as honest Commenius took Daubritins's Prophefics to be of God, because the melancholy Man sware that they were true.) Hereupon Egwin is sent home, and a Council called to take Egwin's words again that he had fuch a Vision, (and in the Dd 2 end was added, That the Virgin Mary's Image must be set up in the place.) The Pope sent to King Kenred and King Offa by Bishop Brithwald, to grant what the Vision intended; who obediently make over a great part of the Countrey to that Monastery, as you may see described in Spelman, Conc. p. 209, 210. in Charta Kenredi & Offæ Regum. And p. 211. in Charta Egwini, who faith himself, that [God being propitious to him, he had in a little time got for the faid Church an hundred and twenty Farms given, as is written and confirmed in the Charter of that Church. Many Villages are there named, and some great ones, in the fattest and richest part of the County of Worcester. Was not this a profitable Dream or Vision? And should we not have many Dreamers and Swearers, if they could get as much by it as Egwin did? And herewith Images are fet up.

§ 3. But Baronius and Binnius question whether Naucler and Bale say true, that this Council first brought Image-worship into England, because it came in before with Austin the Monk. 'To which Spelman * well answer-218. vide eth, That the use of the Cross in banners and otherwise was here before, and some Images for Instruction and Commemoration, as Beda's own words intimate; but not any worship of Images, or worshiping before and towards them.

And Sir H. Spelman faith, (proving that Image-worship was not then in use among the Saxens) that even praying to the Saints themselves was not then in use, mentioning an old Pfalter of his written about the time of the 2d Nicene Council, in which there were an hundred seventy and one Prayers inserted between the Sections of the 119th Pfalm, and in them all not one name of any Saint, or the Virgin Mary, much less any Prayer directed to them.

§ 4. If one talk now with our English Papists, they are so loth to own their own Doctrine and Practice, that they will tell you they hold not the worshiping of the Image, but of the Person signified by it. But to tell them how commonly their Writers defend worshipping Images, (if Colere and Cultus fignific Worship) and what Agsin is saith of giving the worship of Latria to the Image of Christ, and to the Cross, though undeniable, yet will not be taken for sufficient proof. I shall therefore give you here the sense of the Papal Church in England, in the form of Abjuration which they prescribed to those that they then called Lollards, as it is found in the Tower Records; and you must take it in the old English in which it is written, because I do but transcribe it, and must not alter it, the sense of it being plain and obvious.

Here you see whether Papists worship Images, and whether they take it not for Heresie (which is death) not to worship them, and whether they leave it to mens liberty or not.

§ 5. Leo Isaurus being Emperor, he took the worshipping of Images to be Idolatry; and his Empire being invaded by the Saracens, who were scandaliszed by the Christians Images, he thought it was a warning to him to reform them; and he published his Edict accordingly against the Religious adoration and use of the Images of Angels, Martyrs, or Saints. Gregory, Bishop of Rome, relisted him, and made Men believe that this was to fight against Christ, and impiously to despise the Saints. The Emperor commanded his Obedience on pain of Depolition. He would neither obey nor fuffer. Emperor sent Men to apprehend him, (some say to kill him,) but he escaped them. The Lombards were stirred up to make War against the Emperor as an Enemy of Christ: [The Pope (saith Binnius, p. 177. out of Zonaras) entered into a League with Charles Martell King of France, that, if there were need, he should defend the Church of Rome against the Emperor (their proper Sovereign) which League being prudently made, the Emperor abstained for fear of Charles, who by great Victories was become famons .-- But when the Emperor would not obey the Pope's pions warnings, but used Tyranny in the East against the Orthodox, then the Pope anathematized him as a known declared Heretick, and exhorted all his Subjects in Italy to depart from his obedience.

Note how Rebellion is the work and strength of the Roman Papacy: But do not our Papists now disown all this, and profess themselves to be the Loyallest Subjects?

Answ. If they do, let them join Restitution with Confession. If the Father seize on another mans Inheritance, and the Son keep it, and disclaim his Fathers act, this is but a dead Confession.

But hear the next words in Binnius, and judge what Doctrine yet they hold, [Quo facto Sanctissimus Pontifex clarissimum posteris suis reliquit exemplum; ne in Ecclesia Christi regere permittantur hæretici Principes, si frequenter moniti errori pertinaciter adhærescant.] That is, BY WHICH FACT (deposing the Emperor in Italy, and absolving all his Subjects from their Obedience) THE MOST HOLY POPE LEFT HIS POSTERITY A MOST CLEAR (or Famous) EXAMPLE, THAT HERETICAL PRINCES MAY NOT BE PERMITTED TO RULE, IF BEING OFT WARNED THEY PERTINACIOUSLY ADHERE TO ERROR.]

Note this ye Princes and Rulers that hear of Papal Loyalty.

1. It is not lawful for them, if they can help it, to permit any of you to reign over Christians, if they do but judge you Heretical. To tolerate you is against their Consciences, if to depose you be not above their strength.

2. By this Rule you see, that they were virtual Rebels to most or many Emperors, when they durst not actually rebel. 1. When Constantine the Great banished Athanasius, it's like they would have taken him for an Heretick. 2. Constantius and Valens being Arrians, the Pope did virtually rebel against them, and depose them (if then they were of the same mind as now.)
3. Theodossus junior, Zeno, Anastasius, and other Emperors they virtually deposed as Eutychians. 4. Justimian the first they virtually deposed as a Phantasick.

tafiaftick. 5. Philippicus, and many more Emperors are called by them Monothelites. 6. Leo and Conftantine, and others, are called Iconoclastic. 7. Many Christian Princes and States, now are called by them Protestant or Lutheran Hereticks. All these, they say, are such as may not be permitted, and therefore they have interpretatively and virtually rebelled, and deposed them

3. You see how great a matter this Excommunication is, and how impossible it is, by it for Kings and States to continue long in any right to their Dominions: For all men err; and while there are so many Patriarchs, Prelates, if not Priests that have the power of Excommunicating, all men may expect it: For he that is orthodox in the judgment of one Patriarch, will be a Heretick in the judgment of another: while Rome, Const. Alexand. Antioch, ferusal. are so seldom of one mind. If with the repenting Lollard (aforesaid) you will swear to hold that for Error which the Archbishop of Tork saith is such, perhaps the Archbishop of Canterbury may be of the contrary mind: Those called Arrians, Nestorians, Eutychians, Menothelites, Iconoclasts, &c. have in their turns had most of the known Christian World. And he that is Excommunicate by one, must be received by none.

4. But if it be the Popes prerogative, that though more may Excommunicate Kings and Emperours, none but he can depose them, and disoblinge all their Subjects, it's pity but those Princes that are in love with such a Papacy should know by experience what they love: For he that will take Satan for his Ruler, must bear the inconveniences of his Government.

5. You see here how the Empire was weakned, and so exposed to the Turk; even by the Rebellion of Rome cutting off the Western Empire from it.

6. And you see what true Subjects they were to the Arrian, Gothish Kings, at Rome, Spain, &c. who would have deposed them if they could. What wonder if the Goths kept down the Pope.

§ 6. In these times the Pope met with an English Bishop Wilfrid, who extraordinarily flattered and adored him, and he accordingly made him Bishop of Mentz, and his great agent (even about this forefaid English Council which wasto set up Church-Images:) and recommended him to many Christian Princes: And why was all this? and what was his rare merit? He took this Oath to the Pope (Bin. p. 178) [" In the name of the Lord fe-" fus Christ our Saviour, in the Reign of Leo the great Emperiur &c. I Boni-" face, Bishop by the Grace of God, do Promise to thee, Peter, Prince of the A; o. " fles, and to thy Vicar Pope Gregory and his Successors, by the Father, Son and "Holy Ghost, the inseparable Trinity, and this most Holy Boly of thine, that " I will exhibite all faith and purity of holy Catholick faith, and in unity of "the same faith, God operating, will persist, in which all the salvation of "Christians is proved undoubtedly to confift; and will no way confent, " whoever persuadeth me, against the unity of the common and universal Church, "but, as I said, will exhibite my faith and purity and concourse to thee and to the Profits of thy Church, to whom by the Lord the Power of binding and

"loofing is given, and to thy afore aid Vicar and his Successors in all things, "&c.]

Nothing is more meritorious with a Pope, or any Prelate of that Spirit, than to be absolutely devoted to him, and swear obedience to him: Indeed they that are fully fallen from God (as Satan is) would be as Gods to the world themselves, and have all men depend upon them, and obey them.

§ 7. What Arguments moved the Emperor to be against Images, (specially the 2d Commandment) and how Gregery thought that it was not the Images of God and Christ, and Angels and Saints that were forbidden, you may see in his Epistles too long to be here recited.

§ 8. Here Binnius inferteth three Roman Councils. One curling unlawful Marriages. Another persuading Corbinianus to keep his Bishoprick, who would fain have laid it down. And a third for Images, against the Iconoclasts

(the Emperor's Herefie.)

§ 9. Gregory 3d succeedeth Gregory 2d. He sendeth his Epistles for Images to the Emperor. The sirst Messenger durst not deliver them. The rest were stopt at Sicily, and kept Prisoners. The Lombards insested Italy and Rome. The Pope importuneth the French King for help. Alphonsus is made King in Spain against the Saracens, and first called himself [Catholick King.] Two Councils, Binnius saith, were held at Rome for Images. The Title of the second is, [Pro Imaginum Cultu, for the Worship of Images: An. 732. Image-worship was then avowed. But the Eastern Churches did more obey the Emperor.

S 10. Pope Zachary coming next, in whose time Italy was distressed by Luitprandus King of the Lombards, who took four Cities from the Pope, because he protected Trassimundus Duke of Spoleto: The Romans helped Trassimund, on condition he would restore to them the four Cities; he performeth not his promise: wherefore Pope Zachary turned to Luitprand, and to win him, Salutaria illi pradicavit, saith Anastasius; and he promised him to restore the four Cities. For the performance whereof, this Pope travelled to him himself, (noted by Anastasius as a great act of self-denial, as venturing his life for the Cause of God, that he would go to the King to ask for sour Cities) which he happily obtained.

§ 11. In this Pope's time the Crown of France was translated from the King and his Line, to a Subject, his Major Domus.

Charles Martell the great French Conqueror was the Pope's Patron against the Emperor who was his Sovereign. Gratian. d. 16. q. 1. post Can. 59 tells it us as a matter of Church-credit, that when he was dead, he was damned to Hell (much blood, and defending Popes that rebel against their Sovereign are a very likely proof.) Carolomannus succeeded him, who, after two years Reign, resigned his Crown, and chose a Monastery. Chilperic that came after, proved very dull and sensual, and giving himself to his pleasure, let the business of Government lie most on the hands of Pepin, who was his Major Domis, who thereby got the power and the respect that was proper to the King, while the King grew into contempt. (And if Kings cannot keep up their Power and Honour by the meer dignity of their place, without personal worth and performance; why should Popes, Prelates and Priests, (whose Power and Honour, as a Phylicians, depend upon their Worth and Work) expect to keep up their Power and Honour meerly by their Offices?) Pepin won first the Nobles of France, and then the Pope; For, as Baronius and Binnius (p. 197.) tell us, " It seemed to the most Potent Pepin (Major "Domus) () and to the rest of the chief Men, and to all the People, that () No "he that had not the Matter and Force of the Kingdom, should not have wonder. § 12. From this Story and these words, let the Reader think how to answer these Questions.

Quest. 1. Had not Kings need to take heed of making any one man too great, if greatness and exercise of Government, give him so much right to the Kingdom?

Qu. 2. Had not Kings need to look to their manners, for their Crowns sake, as well as their Souls; if Lust, Sensuality and Dulness forfeit their Kingdoms?

Qu. 3. Did not Wars and weakning of the Empire make a great change with Popes, when they that were set up and banished at the Emperor's pleasure, can now first depose the Emperor in the West, for being against Images and Persecuting, and then can translate the Crown of France?

Qu. 4. Was not an ambitious Pope a fit Tool for Pepin and his Confederates to work by, to put a pious gloss on their Conspiracy?

Qu. 5. Did not the Pope rise thus by serving the turns of Conspirators, and of Princes in their quarrels with one another?

Qu. 6. Are Subjects Judges when a King's Sins make him unworthy of the Crown?

24. 7. Yea, is the Pope Judge, and hath he power to depose Kings, if he judge them such Sinners, and unsit for Government?

Qu. 8. Is it a good Reason that a King is justly deposed, because Good Men and Holy Bishops are the Desirers and Promoters of it?

Qu. 9. Would not this Reason have served Maximus against Gratian? Was it not Cromwel's Plea? If he had but had the Pope and People on his side, you see how it would have gone.

Qu. 10. Is it the mark of an Innovating Heretick, to say that the Church' should be subject to Kings; when Paul and Peter said it of all Christians so.

long ago?

- Qu. 11. Is it a Note that Protestants love Rebellion, because they are against Popes deposing Kings? Or is there any heed to be taken of the words of impudent Revilers, that dare speak before God and Man at this rate? Is deposing Kings the Papists freedom from Rebellion, and is our opposing it a character of Rebels?
- Qu. 12. Is it any wonder that Bishop Burchardus desired it, and that Bishop Boniface executed the Pope's command, who had been translated from England by him to such dignity, and had sworn Obedience and Service to him?

24. 13. Is it any wonder that the Pope made these Bishops Saints?

24. 14. I hope they were really godly Men: But is it any wonder that feme good Men at such a time as that, did think it had been for the interest of Religion, to have all Power in the Clergies hands, especially being themselves Bishops that were to have so great a share? How sew Bishops are afraid of too much power, or ever do refuse it!

Qu. 15. If the King of France had his Kingdom by the Pope's gift, what wonder if he had the power of nominating Bishops also by his gift?

Qu. 16. Whether he that hath power to give, hath not power to take away, and be not Judge when the Cause is just?

Qu. 17. With what face do Papists at once make these claims, and yet profeß Loyalty to Kings?

Qu. 18. Whether it concern not Kings to understand on what terms they stand with the Pope and his Clergy, that must not be subject to them, but have power to depose them?

Qu. 19. If there be any Party among them that hath more Loyal Principles, is it a fign of the concord of their Church, that agreeth not in matter of fo great moment? Or a proof that the Pope is the infallible Judge of Controversies, that will not determine so great a Point on which the Peace of Kingdoms doth depend?

§ 13. About the same time they persuaded Rachis King of the Longobards, Successor to Luit prand, for the love of Religion to lay down his Crown, and go into a Monastery; so that Monasteries are places for the worst and the best; some too bad to reign, and some too good, lest they should over-master the Clergy.

- § 14. It may be you will think that this Pope Zachary, and his sworn Vassal St. Boniface, were some very profound Divines, that could by their wisdom and piety thus master Kingdoms. Doubtless they were zealous Adversaries to Heresies (except their own) and Successors of the Hereticating and Danning Fathers. For Epist. 10. (Bin. p. 206, 207, 208.) Zachary writeth to Boniface, to expel Virgilius from the Church and Priesthood, for bolding Antipodes, viz. that Sun-shine, and Moon-light, and Men are under the Earth, as well as here which we call over it. The words are, [De perversa aute n & iniqua dostrina, quæ contra Dominum & Animam suam locutus est, si clarificatum suerit ita eum consitori, quod alius niundus & alii homines sub terra sint, seu Sol & Luna; hunc habito Concilio ab Ecclesia pelle Sacerdotii bonore privatum. That is, "But as to the perverse and unjust Destrine " which he hath spoken against the Lord and his own Soul, if it be made clear "that he so confesseth, that under the Earth there is another world and other "Men, and Sun and Moon; call a Council, and depriving him of the honour " of Priesthood, drive him cut of the Church.] That by [another world] is meant Antipodes, or the other side of the Earth inhabited, is doubtless.
- § 15. Qu. 1. Did God make Popes to be the Governors of the Antipodes, for so many hundred years, before they knew that there was any Antipodes? And when they excommunicated and sulenced those that affirmed it?

Qu. 2. Were these Popes and Bishops Men of such wisdom, as were sit to hereticate Dissenters as they did?

Qu. 3. Do we not see here what some Councils were, and did in those times?

Qu. 4. Do we not see what Heresie signified at Rome, and how little heed there was to be taken of their outcry against some Heresies?

Qu. 5. Whether was all the World, or all the West bound to avoid Communion after with Virgilius?

Qu. 6. Do we not see here of what Infallibility the Pope is, in judging of matters of Faith, and how happy the World is to have such a Judge, and of what credit his Heretications and Excommunications are?

Qu. 7. Do we not see how Religion hath been depraved and dishonoured by the Pope and his Clergy, calling Good Evil, and the most certain Truths by the name of [Perverse and unjust Dostrines, against the Lord, and Mens own Sculs?] What heed to take of these Mens words, when they seem zealous against Sin and Error?

§ 16. Perhaps you will ask, How could any but Idiots be fo ignorant? Whither did they think the Setting-Sun went? Or what did they think the Earth stood upon?

Anjw. The easiest things are strange to Men that never learnt them; it's pity that it should be true, that Loctantius and other Ancients, yea, Austin himself were ignorant of the Antipodes; but yet they had more Modesty than to hereticate and excommunicate them that affirmed it. Few Bishops had much Philosophy then. Origen and Apollinaris that were most Philosophical, had been hereticated and difgraced it. Clemens and Tatianus sped not much better. Councils had forbid Bishops to read the Books of Heathens. Austin had a truly Philosophical head, being the Father of School-Divinity; but he was alfolicated , and had little from his Teachers. You may see in a great Hereticater Philastrius, what they thought then of the course of the Sun, by what he saith of the Stars: As it was one Heresie to call the Stars by the names of living Creatures, so it was another to deny that the Stars were Luminaries arbitrarily moved, that by Angels were let out at night to light the World, and at morning retired inwards, or were taken into their place again, as Men set out lights to the street at night, and take them in again. I confess that no General Council declared this, (as they have done worse things;) but you see what kind of Men were hereticated by Pope Zachary, St. Boniface, and St. Philastrius, and such Bishops; and how little it fignifieth in fuch Writers, whether you read a Man called a Saint, or a Sinner; an Orthodox Catholick, or Nefandissimus Hæreticus, as they use to speak: I speak it only of such Men.

§ 17. For, Reader, I must still remember thee, that this Folly, Pride, and almost Fury, was not the Genius or Character of the true spiritual Ministers and Church of Christ, but of a worldly, ignorant, domineering sort of Men, that made it their business to get Preferment, and have their wills. God had all this while abundance of faithful Ministers that sate down at the lower end; and humble holy People, that set not up themselves in worldly Grandure, and came not much on the Stage, but approved themselves in secret, and in their several Places and Conversations to God, some Lay-men, some Priests, some Bishops, some of their names are come down to us in History, but those are few. They strove not for great Places, nor did their Works to be seen of Men, nor looked to Men for their Reward.

§ 18. Some of the Canons and Councils of these Universal Pastors were answerable to their Excommunications: In Zachary's 12th Epistle to his Vassal St. Boniface, he giveth him the resolution of many doubts. One is, [After how long time Lard may be eaten? And it is resolved by the Pope, That there is yet no Canon or Law for this by the Fathers, but he determines himself, 1. That it must not be caten before it be dried in the smoke, or boiled, (or basted) with fire: But if you list to eat it raw, it must be eaten after the Feast of Easter.] Binnius, p. 209. (What would become of the Church, if there were not a Judge of such Controversies, and an infallible Determiner of fuch Questions?)

§ 19. CCXXV. I told you before how the Pope commanded Boniface to call a Council to eject him that afferted the Antipodes; I must next add a French Council called by King Carolomannus, to Reform the Clergy (an. 742.) and to recover Christian Religion, which in the dayes of former Princes distipata corruit, being dissipated, was ruined; and to show the People how they may come to save their Souls, who have been hitherto deceived by false Priests. (They are the words of the King and Council, Bin. p. 2 to. c. 2.) Where it was decreed that Priests be not Soldiers, (unnecessarily:) That they keep not Hounds to go an bunting with, nor Hawks: That every Religious Fornicator shall in the Jayl do Pennance with Bread and Water. If the Fornicator be a Priest, he shall be face scourged, and then remain in Prison two years: But if an inferior Clerk or Monk so fall, he shall be whipt, and then do Pennance a whole year in Prison, and so the Nuns.

This was somewhat like a Reformation: Had it not been done by a King, it might have past for Heresie. It was at Ratisbonne, Boniface preliding.

Such another Council called Leptinense, there was under Carolomannus.

Another Council at Rome repeated the oft repeated Canons, to keep Bishops and Priests from Nuns and from Fornication.

§ 20. An. 744. Another Synodus Sueffion. under Chilperic governed by Pepin, condemned again Aldebert (that let up Croffes in several places, and drew People to himfelf) and another as Hereticks.

S 21. Another Council in Germany, an. 745. handsomly set Beniface the Pope's Agent in the Archbishoprick of Mentz. First Geroldus the Archbishop is sent out against the Saxens with an Army, and he and most of them killed: Then Gervilio his Son, a Lay-man, is made Archbishop to comfore him. At another War he pretends a Conference with him that killed his Father, and murders him; this is past by as blameless: But Boniface shift, That a Man that had his band in Blood, must not be a Bishop; and so get him.

him out, and was made the chief Archbishop of Germany himself in his place. Judge whether he ferved the Pope for nought.

(22. Yet Boniface had not done with the two Hereticks, Aldebert and Clemens, a French man and a Scot. Boniface sendeth to Rome (Bin. p.216.) to defire the Pope, that as he had himself condemned these two Hereticks, the Pope would also condemn them, and cast them into Prisons, where none might speak with them. (Thus the Pope obtained his Kingdom, and edi-The motive was, that Boniface profecuting them, had fuffied the Church. fered much for their fakes, the People faying that he had taken from them holy Apostolick Men, (but this was not a Prison.) The Crimes which he chargeth on Aldebert a Bishop are, that he was an Hypocrite, (an open Crime!) that he had faid an Angel appeared to him, and he had some rare Reliques, and that he faid he was Apoltolick, and wrought Wonders; that he got some unlearned Bishops to make him a Bishop absolutely, against the Canons. He would not confecrate any Church to the memory of an Apostle or Martyr; and spake against visiting in Pilgrimage the Temples of the Apostles: He made Churches to his own honour, and set up Oratories and Croffes up and down, and drew People from other Bishops to himself. That he gave his nails and hair to be honoured with the Saints Reliques, and would not hear Confessions, saying he knew their fins already. If all this was true, (which I know never the more for this Accusation) he seemed an Hypocrite indeed, but whether an Heretick, I know not.

The Scot Heretick is accused as denying the Church Canons, and the meaning of some Fathers, despising the Synods Laws, saying that he may still be a Bishop (for so he was) though he had two Sons, (in Adultery, saith Boniface, perhaps in Marriage;) and (as he saith) holding that a Man may marry his Brothers Widow, and that Christ at his Descent delivered all Souls out of Hell.] This was a foul Error indeed, if truly charged. These were charged by Boniface and the Roman Synod, to be forerunners of Antichrist, (and how like are Aldebert's Pretensions to many Roman Saints!) A Prayer also of Aldeberts was read, in which he prayed to Angels under several strange names: Bishops and Presbyters had Votes in this Council, and subscribed the Hypocrites condemnation. Bin. p. 218.

But there is no certainty that he named more than three Angels.

§ 23. Stephen the 2d was chosen Pope by ALL THE PEOPLE after § 24. Stephen the 3d was chosen by all the People (saith Anastassus.) Aistulphus, King of the Longobards, threatned Rome, took their Gitts, and demanded their Subjection. The Pope (after Gregory the 2d's Rebellion) was glad to send to the Emperor, to crave an Army to save Rome and Italy; when he could get no help from Constant, he sent to Pepin King of France. One that he had made King by Rebellion, was obliged to help him, and by an Army forced Aistulphus to coverent to restore Ravenna, and many other Italian Cities, (not to the Emperor, whose Agent claimed his right, and was denied by Pepin;) but to the Pope, (to reward him, and get the pardon of his fins.) Aiftulphus broke his Covenants. Pepin with another Army forceth him to deliver them, and returneth. Aistulphus dyeth; Desiderius a Captain by Usurpation invadeth the Kingdom, Radchis that had been King before, and went into a Monastery, and the Nobles of the Longobards result the Rebel. He sendeth to the Pope, offering him all that he could defire (more Cities) to help him: The Pope maketh his own bargain with him, as he did with Pepin, (and Charles Martell before) and by the help of the French, setleth the Rebel Desiderius in the Kingdom. Pepin maketh a Deed of Gift of all the foresaid Cities to the Church of Rome, (Was this Constantine's Gift?) He gave away another Mans (the Emperor's) Dominions, and with Desiderius's additions, now the Pope is become a Prince.

§ 24. CCXXVIII. We come now to a great General Council of 338 Bishops at Constantinople, An. 754. under Constantine Copronymus against the worshiping of Images: The Adversaries of it will not have it called the newsis & 7th General Council, because divers Patriarchs were absent, and it decreed, Pet. fay they, against the Truth. § 25. The Acts of this Council (not pleasing the Adversaries) are not delivered fully to us; but it fell out that their Decrees are repeated word by word in the 2d Nicene Council, and so preserved.

§ 26. There is one Doctrinal definition of this Council, owned also by their Adversaries the 2d Concil. Nicen, which by the way I will take notice of, about the glorified Body of Christ, (and consequently ours after the Rcsurrection) that it is a Body but not Flesh, Bin. p. 378. defin. 7. "[Signis "non confessus fuerit Dominum nostrum Fesum Christum post assumptionem " animata, rationalis & intellectualis Carnis simul sedere cum Deo & Patre, " atque ita quoque rursus venturum cum Paterna Majestate, judicaturum vivos " & mortuos, non amplicis quidem Carnem, neque incorporcum tamen ut videa-"tur ab iis à quibus compunêtus est, & maneat Deus extra crassitudinens car-" nis, Anathema.] To which faith the Nicene Council by Epiphanius, [" Hue usque recte sentiunt & Patrum traditionibus convenientia dicunt, &c.

Two forts I would have take notice of this:

1. The Papifts, who say that the Bread is turned into Christ's very Flesh, when he hath no very Flesh in Heaven: And therefore the meaning must be of the Sacramental Sign, that it is the Representation of that real Flight of Christ which was sacrificed on the Cross.

EI

2. Some prejudiced Protestants that think he that saith, [Our Bodies (and Christs) in Heaven, will not be Flesh and Blood formally and properly so called, but spiritual glorious Bodies] doth say some dangerous new affertion; such gross thoughts have gross heads of the heavenly state. To these I say, 1. You contradict the express words of God's Spirit, 1 Cor. 15. Flesh and Blood cannot enter, &c. That it is meant of Formal Flesh and Blood, and not Metaphorical (Sin) is plain in the Context, see Dr. Hammond on the Text. 2. Give but a true definition of Flesh and Blood, and it will convince you of itself. 3. You see here that you maintain an Opinion which these two (even adverse) General Councils anathematized.

§ 27. By this Council we may see, how little General Councils signifie with the Papists, either as to Infallibility, Authority, or preservation of Tradition, longer than they please the Pope. As to their Objection, that call it Pseudo-septimum, that the Pope was not there; I answer 1. No more was he by himself or Legate at the first of Constant. called the 2d General Council, as Binnius professeth. 2. Is not the Church the Church, if the Pope be not there? Then he may choose whether ever there shall be more General Councils, (as indeed he doth.)

§ 28. CCXXIX. An. 756. King Pepin called a Council in France, declaring that things were so far out of order, that he could attempt but a partial Reformation, leaving the rest till better times. The first Canon was, that every City have a Bishop; of old wit;, signified every such Town as our Corporations and Market-Towns are: And by all the old Canons and Customs (except some odd ones) every such Town of Christians was to have a Bishop; and in Phrygia, Arabia, &c. the Villages had Bishops, saith Socrates, &c. And in many places the Villages had Chorepiscopos, which Petavius (Annot. in Epiphan. Arian.) fully proveth were true Bishops. And yet then the most of the People in most Countries were without the Church; so that then a Church was no greater than was capable of personal Communion.

Here this King (being made by the Pope) so far gratified the Clergy, as to decree that Contemners of Excommunication should be banished. And now the Keys do signifie the Sword, and Church-Discipline is made another, thing than Christ had made it.

The 13th Cap.is, That no vacant Bishop meddle in another Bishop's Parish without his consent, (by what true authority then can the Pope meddle in other Mens Diocesses, since the foundation of his humane authority in the Empire is subverted?)

The 14th Cap.decreed, That Men may use Horses and Chariots for Travel on the Lord's-day, and get Meat and Drink, &c. but not do common work.

The 17th, That no C'erk try his Gause before a Lay-Judge, without the Bishop's Icave.

§ 29. Pope Stephen dying, in the division at the next choice, (by all the People) the stronger part choice Paulus a Deacon, CCXXX. in his time a German German Council condemned Oathmarus, Abbot of St. Gallus, for Incontinence, and put him in Prison, where he dyed of Famine; as Historians say, maliciously upon false accusation.

§ 30. At this time the Greeks accused the Remans, for adding the word [Filioque] to the Creed: And about that and Images, they say there was some Synod at a Village called Gentiliace.

§ 31. Pope Paul dying, and the People having still the choice, he that could get the greatest strength was in hope of so rich a Prey: And Constantine, Brother to one Duke Toto, getting the strongest Party, by fear compelled George Bishop of Pranestine, with two more Bishops, to make him Pope, (being first ordained Deacon,) he possessed the Popedom alone a year and a month: Then one Christopher the Primecerius, and his Son Sergius being powerful, got out to the King of the Longobards, and craved his help against Constantine as an Usurper; and gathering some strength got into Rome, killed Toto; and caused Constantine the Pope, and another Brother Passivus to take Sanctuary. One Waldipertus a Presbyter was of Christopher's Party, and to make haste, without Christopher's knowledge, he gathereth a Party, and they make one Philip (a Presbyter) Popc. (So there were two Popcs.) Christiephorus incenfed, fwore he would not enter Rome, till Philip was pull'd out of the Bishop's house; which Gratiosus, one of his Party, presently performeth, and Philip returneth to his Monastery. Christophorus calleth the Clergy, People and Soldiers together, and (by his means) they chuse another Stephen, (and so there are three Popes.) The Actors being now in their zeal, go to Theodorus a Bishop, and Vicedominus that joined with Pope Constantine, and they put out his eyes, and cut out his tongue. Next they attempted the like excactation on Paffixus. Bishop Theodore they thrust into a Monastery, and there (while he cryed for a little water) they familhed him to death. Paffivus they put into another Monastery. They took all their Goods and Possessions. Pope Censtantine they brought out, and set on Horseback on a Womans Saddle with Weights at his Feet, and put him into a Monastery, (How holy then were Monasteries!) Shortly after they brought him forth, and Pope Stephen and some Bishops deposed him. Then the Citizens were to make their penitent Confessions for owning him. Next the Army goeth to Alatrum in Campania, where Gracilis the Tribune that had been for Confantine is apprehended, brought bound to Rome, imprisoned, and after his eyes put out, and his tongue cut out. After this, Gratiofus and his Zealots go to the Monastery where they had thrust Pope Constantine, and drag him out, and put out his eyes, and leave him blind in the street. Next, they go to their own Friend Priest Waldipertus, and feign that he had laid a Plot with the Longobards to kill Christopher, and send to apprehend him, and when he fled for Sanctuary to a Temple, they drew him out with the bleffed Virgins Image in his hand (even then when they were rebelling for the fake of Images;) but that would not fave the Priest, (because he set up Philip for Pope;) they thrust him into a filthy Dungeon-hole, but that was too good for him : In a few days they drew him out, and casting him on the earth put out his eyes, and cut out his tongue, and put him into an Hospital, where he dyed of the pain. And now Pope Stephen had, no doubt, a lawful calling to be Pope. He fends his Legats to the King of France. He brings forth blinded Pope Constantine to answer for his Crime, who falling flat on the earth, he lamenteth histin as more than the Sands on the Sea-shore, and professeth that the People chose and forced him to be Pope, because of their sufferings under Paul: But at his next appearance he tells them, that he did no more than many other Lay-men did, who invaded Bishopricks; as Sergius Archbishop of Ravenna, Stephen Bishop of Naples, &c. when they heard this, all the Priests caused him to be buffeted, and cast him out of the Church, and burnt his Papers, &c. And the most holy Pope Stephen cast himself on the earth, with all the Priests and People of Rome, and with tears lamented their sin, that they had taken the Communion from the hands of Pope Constantine, (it seems it is a fin to communicate with Bishops that are brought in irregularly by secular Power without due Election, and they are no Schismaticks that refuse it.) And so they all performed their Pennance for it, Anastas. in ejus vita.

§ 32. CCXXXI. On this great occasion Pope Stephen (being far unable now to call General Councils) sends to the King of France, to entreat him to send some wife Bishops to a Council at Rome, who sent him about a dozen, who, with some others, agreed against Constantine's Election, and such other for the time to come; and damned a Synod that Constantine had held; and also passed their judgment for Images.

S 33. But here was a great difficulty, (fuch as often after happened) Whether Conftantine's Papal Acts were valid; and the Council decreed that they should all be void except his Baptizings, and his Confecrations: And so those Priests that he Consecrated, when they were after duely chosen, officiated without a new Consecration. Either he was a real Pope, or no Pope. If a Pope, then by the Canons Stephen was no Pope, and so the Succession there failed. If no Pope, then, 1. How come his Consecrations to be valid? 2. Are not Presbyter's Ordinations better than a Lay-mans? 3. Then the Universal Church had no Head, and so was no Church (with them) while Constantine was Pope.

§ 34. A like Schism fell out at Ravenna: The power of the Magistrate made one Michael, Scriniary of the Church, (a Lay-man) Archbishop, the People being for one Lee, whom they imprisoned. He kept the place above a year; but by the help of the Pope, and the French, the People rose and call him out, and brought him Prisoner to Rome, and set up Lee.

§ 35. Christopher and his Son. Sergius were the Captains that had wrought this great deliverance to the Church: And now they plead with King Desiderius for St. Peter's Rights, as still zealous for the Pope. The King is angry with them, and jealous of their power, and seeketh to destroy them, and particularly to set their own Pope against them. They get the Citizens to stand by them, and the King cometh with an Army. The Pope seeing which was like to be the stronger side, in great wissom went out to the King, and after fome days conference with him, sendeth to Christopher to render himself to the King. The Citizens hearing this, forsook Christopher and Sergius; Gratiosus (seeing they were deserted by the People through the Pope) went out first to the King and Pope, and Sergius next, and Christopher last. The Pope was so kind to them that made him Pope, that he made them Monks, and put them in Sanctuary in St. Peter's Church to save their lives: But they had Adonibezek's justice, and were soon drag'd out thence, and Christopher's eyes put out, of which he dyed. But Sergius was awhile a Monk, and then thrust in the Laterane Cellar. Thus went the matters of the Universal Monarch at Rome.

§ 36. A little before the Pope's death, Sergius was fetcht blind out of the Cellar, and kill'd; the next Pope searcht out the Authors, and found them to be Paulus Cubicularius, and the last Pope's Brother, and other great Men; and he prosecuted some of them to Banishment, but the Archbishop of Ravenua caused Paul to be killed.

§ 37. It was Adrian (a Deacon) that was then chosen Pope (Son to the chief Man in Rome, ablest to effect it.) Upon these stirs, Desiderius desired friendship with the Pope; but he demanding the Cities which Pepin had given the Church (some of which Desiderins still kept) and doing the foresaid justice on the Friends of Desiderius, he came with an Army and killed many, and took many Cities. The Pope urgeth the restitution of all his Cities, (indeed the Emperor's) given him by Pepin; he still denieth; the Pope gets Charles of France to come with an Army, for fear of whom the Longobards flie. The Dutchy of Spoletum, and other Cities, yield themselves to the Pope, (and, as a token of subjection, receive tonsure.) Charles beliegeth Desiderius in Papia, and forceth his Brother Carloman's Wife and Children that fled to the Longobards, to yield themselves to him; while the Siege continued Charles went to Rome, and was gloriously entertained by the Pope, and renewed to him Pepin's gift of all the Exarchate of Ravenna, and many Dukedoms and Cities, (which were none of his own to give) and now the Pope is a Prince indeed. And Charles returning to the Siege, conquereth Papia, taketh King Desiderius, and winneth all the Longobards Kingdom: And thus Strength gave Right (according to the Atheists Opinion now stirring, that [Right is nothing but a power to get and keep.] Pepin and Charles make themselves Kings, and the Pope a Prince; that while they share the Emperor's Dominions between them, they might be a strength to one another. And Defiderius being himself but an Usurper, helped by the Pope into the Throne, no wonder if when interest changed, the same hand take him down. How Charles his Brother Caroloman dyed, and why his Wife and Sons fled from Charles to the Longobards, and what became of them, is not

§ 38. Pope Adrian the 1st thus made a greater Prince than any before him, did greater works than they had done, and ob nimum amorem Sancti Petri, & ex inspiratione Divina, built many great and stately Buildings, made all places about his Palace, Baths, &c. fit for splendid pomp and pleasure, and all this from meer self-denial and holiness: Many Churches also he repaired and adorned, and did many other fuch good works.

§ 29. This great Adrian was before but a Deacon. I have oft marvelled to read that Deacons were so ordinarily then made Popes, (and sometimes Lay-men) when yet the old Canons required an orderly rifing through the several degrees. It was no wonder that then a Deacon at Rome was a far higher preferment than a Bishop: For a Deacon (and a Priest) might be chosen Pope, but a Bishop could not: For of old (when Diocesses and Parishes were all one) the Canons decreed that no Bishop should remove to another Church, (except being Consecrated by others, he never consented nor had possession;) so that every Bishop must live and dye in the place where he was first Ordained; so that Rome, Const. Alex. Antioch, &c. and all the great Seats chose either Deacons, Priests, or Monks to be their Patriarchs and Bishops. No wonder then, if as Nazianzen saith, Orat. 5. it was the custom to have almost as many Clergy-men in every Church as People, in regard of the present Honour, and the future hopes of Preserment. Indeed he carried it that had the greatest Friends, which was as commonly the Deacon, as the Priest or Archdeacon. By which we may conjecture, whether the worthiest Men were made Popes: For if they were the worthiest, why were they by former Popes never made higher before than Deacons? Did not the Popes know the worthieft men?

And if a breach of the Canons in Elections nullifie the regular Succession, by this it is evident, that the Roman Seat hath no fuch Succession.

§ 40. By the way the Reader must note, that in all the Writings of the Popish Clergy concerning these matters, there are certain terms of Art, or Interest, which must be understood as followeth, viz.

1. Sanctissimus Papa, the most Holy Pope, signifieth any prosperous Bishop of Rome, how wicked soever in his life.

2. Rex Pientissimus, the most Pious King, signifieth a King that took part with the Pope, and advanced his Opinions and Interest.

3. Imperator Sceleratissimus, & Hareticus Nefandus, &c. a most wicked Emperor, (or Patriarch, or any other) and abominable Heretick] signifieth one that was against the Pope, his Interest or Opinion. Homo mendacissimus, a Lyar, is one that saith what the Papists would not have to be true.

If you understand them otherwise, you are deceived (ordinarily.).

§ 41. About the death of Paulus Cubicularius, and others, note, that it had long been the way of the Church-Canons, to contradict God's great Law for humane fafety, [He that sheddeth Man's blood, by Man shall his blood be shed;] and on pretence of being (more) merciful (than God) to entice Murderers, Adulterers, and all wicked Thieves and Criminals to make up the Church of Christ, by decreeing, that instead of being Hanged, or Beheaded, if they would but be Baptized, they should but be kept for a time from the Sacrament, or do Pennance; and what Villain would not then be a Christian?

§ 42. Here ariseth a great Controversie with Sigibert, (a Monk-Historian) and Gratian himself, which Baronius and Binnius take up, viz. the first say, [That Charles being at Rome, a Council there with Pope Adrian gave him the power of chusing the Pope, and ordering the Apostolick Scats; and all Bishops and Archbishops in all Provinces, to receive Investiture from him; and that none should Consecrate a Bishop unless he were praised and invested by the King; and that they Anathematize all that rebel against this Decree, and consistent their Estates if they repent not: But, say Baronius and Binnius, this is a lye, and devised deceit to flatter the Emperor Henry a Schismatick. And while Chroniclers may have the Lye given them so casily by Dissenters in matters of such publick Fact, we are left at great uncertainty in History, others as considently giving the Lye to the Papal Flatterers, as they do those of their own Religion that do not please them.

One of the Reasons against this Decree, is the contrariety of the French Constitutions, I. 1. c. 84. saying, [Not being ignorant of the sacred Canons we consented to the Ecclesiastick Order, to wit, that Bishops be chosen by the Election of the Clergy and PEOPLE, according to the Statutes of the Canons out of their own Diocess, without respect of Persons or Rewards, for the merit of their life, and their gift of wisdom, that by example and word they may every way profit those that are under them.

1. This indeed sheweth how Bishops by the Canons were to be chosen, even till these days of Charles the Great; he was to be taken for no Bishop that came not in by the Peoples (as well as the Clergies) Election, or consent at least.

2. But this contradicteth not what Sigibert and Gratian say; the Emperor might still have a negative voice after all, especially as to a Pope: In very deed, the door is safe that hath divers locks.

1. It belongeth to the Clergy and Ordainers to judge who shall be [A Bishop or Minister of Sacred things.]

2. It belongeth to the Flock to discern whom they will accept for THEIR Bishop or Pastor.

3. It belongeth to the Magistrate to judge whom he will countenance or tolerate in that Office.

§ 43. Paulus Diaconus the Historian was Secretary to Desiderius the Longobard King; Charles in anger commanded his hand to be cut off, for doing somewhat for his own King against him; the Courtiers added, that his eyes should be put out; which made Charles consider and say, If we do but cut off bis band, where shall we find such another Historian ?

§ 44. Constantine the Emperor now dying, called Copronymus; the Papists call us to take notice what a Leader we follow that are against the Worship of Images; saying that he dyed with the beginnings of Hell-sire, convinced of his sin against the Virgin Mary, and that all his life he loved the sinell of dung, and stinking things; strong Arguments for Image-worship, as worthy as Sigebert's and Gratian's, to be suspected as Lyes, or of little certainty.

§ 45. While Leo Isaurus and Constantine lived, the Councils of Bishops went with them, and Images went down in the Eastern Empire: Constantine dying, his Son Leo succeeded him, faith Binnius, in his Herefie, Impiety and Sacriledge, that is, in his opposition to Image-worship, and such like. Petavius saith, he first feigned himself a Catholick, (that is, for Images) but after fell off: His Sacriledge was, that loving Jewels, he took for himself a rich Crown, which Maurice had devoted to the Virgin Mary; whereupon Carbuncles arose on him, and he dyed: but had not Maurice himself a sadder death? Thus partial Historians feign and apply Judgments.

§ 46. Irene, Leo's Widow, with her Son Constantine a Child, next ruled, and, faith Binnius, God by a Widow and an Orphan Child, by a Wonder, did tread down the Impiety that had been set up, and restored Religion, that is, Images. And indeed Rome's interest and proper way hath been chiefly advanced under Women and Rebels. And it is no wonder if Irene a Woman, and her Child, were more for Images than their Predecessors. Children use to play with Images, and Womens Fancies are oft not unsuitable to them.

§ 47. There are in Binnius the Titles of 44 at least Epistles of Pope Adrian's recited: The 36th faith, He professeth that the Church of Rome doth embrace and reverence the Whole fourth Calcedon Council. Remember then that the last Canon is approved, which declareth the reason of the Roman Priviledges to be because it was the Imperial Seat, and therefore that Constantine should have the like, and that it was given it by the Fathers.

Most or many of them are thanks to Charles for giving St. Peter so many great Cities and Dukedoms, and Exhortations to him to continue his bounty. By their ordinary language you would not suspect any Selfishness, Pride or Covetousness in the Popes; it is but for St. Peter that they desire all.

Papifts Treasons, P. 120. proving Story talle.

§ 48. In his Epistle to Constantine and Irene, (the Child and Mother) to * See Hen, entice them to be for Images, , he tells a fabulous Story * of a Vision of Con-Fowlis of flantine's sending him to Silvester as his Guide, to be baptized of him, and to be thereby cured of a Leprosie: It was Peter and Paul that appeared to him; and he asked Silvefter whether there were left any Images of Peter and Paul, which he affirmed, and shewed him their Pictures; and the Empethe whole ror cryed out, These are the Men that appeared to me. And part of their Message to him was, that he should bring all the world into the subjection of the Church of Rome.] Was not here a strong Argument to a Woman and a Child to be for the Pope and for Images, contrary to current History, (that tells us Constantine was baptized at Nicomedia a little before his death,) and without any credible proof. Thus the Papal Rome was built. When Adrian had given away the Western Empire to Charles, yet he thus flattereth a Woman and Child in the East, as if he had done them no wrong at all.

§ 49. Paul Bishop of Conf. having sworn against Images, and repenting, is said to resign his place, and to tell them that they must have a General Council; and Tarasus succeeding him, being for Images, got a promise of a Council. It seems by their Epistles, though they agreed about Images, Pope Adrian and this Tarasus accused each other as suspected of Simony, see Bin. p. 262. and the Epistles. Irene knew that Tarasus was for her turn, and Tarasus knew that Irene was for Pictures; and so between them commen notice was given abroad before-hand to the Bishops, (that lately had condemned Image-worship, and pull'd them down) that the Empress and the Patriarch were for restoring Images, and would call a Council to that end: and this was enough to prepare the majority of the Bishops for a sudden change.

$ 50. Besides a Council at Wormes, An. 772. to little purpose, Velseuss hath published one of that year at Dingolvinga in Bavaria under Duke Tassilo, which had divers Canons of Equity, and some of Superstition; one was, that certain Bishops and Abbots agreed, that whosoever dyed first, the rest should sing so many Psalms, and get thirty Masses to be said. And a notable Priviledge is granted to all that will but seek liberty or shelter in the Church, that both they and their Posterity shall be free, unless they bring a debt undischargeable on themselves.

§ 51. There is by Canissus published an Epitome of the old Canons (except the Nicene) as gathered by this Adrian, and sent to Charles Mag. I will recite a few of them, Ex Clem. c. 23. "Let a Bishop, or Presbyter, "or Deacon, taken in Fornication, Perjury, or Thest, be desposed, but not excommunicate.

"C. 28. That a Bishop who obtaineth a Church by the Secular Powers be " deposed.

"Can. Antioch. 8. Countrey Presbyters may not give Cancnical Epifles, but "the Chorepifcopi, (by which it is plain, that the Chorepifcopi were not Presbyters, but (as Petavius on Epiphan. Arrius hath well proved) "true-Bifliops.

"C. 11. That condemned Clerks shall never be restored if they go to the " Emperor.

"Can. Laodic. c. 33. [That no one pray with Hereticks or Schismaticks,] (which seemeth to oblige us to separate from the Roman Frelates, who are grievous Schismaticks, by imposing things unlawful on the Churches, and silencing and persecuting those that obey not their sinful Laws.

Before the Can. Sardie, he mentioneth the weakness of old Ofuse, that faid that they were both in the right, who used the word [of one substance,] and [of the like substance.]

"Can. Sard. 2. That a Bishop that by Ambition changeth his Seat, shall not " have (so much as) Lay-communion (no not) at the cul.

"Can. Afric. c. 15. That there be no Re-baptizing, Re-ordaining, nor Tran-"flations of Bishops.

"C. 17. That if a Bishop to be Ordained be Contradicted, (that is, by any objected unfitness) "he shall not after be Ordained as purged only by three

"Bilhops, but by many.

"C.19. That Diocesses that wants Bishops, receive none without the consent of the Bishop who hitherto held them, (so it was not proudly; For if he "overhold them, (that is, hold them under himself alone, when they need more Bishops) "affecting to sit over the People, and despising his Fellow-Bishops, "he is not only to be driven from the retained Diocesses, but also from his own "Church:] (so that no proud Bishops should have power to hinder the Churches from having as many Bishops as they need.)

"C. 60. That Bishops that are of later Ordination, presume not to set or " prefer themselves before those that were before them.

"C. 94. If a Bishop, six months after admonition of other Bishops, neglect to "make Catholicks of the People belonging to his Seat, any other shall obtain them "that shall deliver them from their Heresie: (that is, Donatism, or the like;) so that if one Bishop neglect the Souls of his People, and another that is more able and faithful convert them, they may be the Flock of him that converted them, without removing their dwelling.

"C. 105. That a Bishop shall not Excommunicate a man on a Confession made only to himself: if he do, other Bishops shall deny Communion to that § 52. Several German Councils are mentioned, (at Wormes, Paderborne, Daria, in which (by a new example) Charles Mag. is confirmed to force the Saxons to profess themselves Christians, and to take an Oath never to revolt: who yet (doing it by constraint) were oft perjured and revolted, till at last their Heathen Duke Witichind became a voluntary Christian himself.

§ 53. There are 80 more Canons against Oppressors of the Clergy, said to be collected by Adrian, of which one is the old one, "That no Bishop "judge the Cause of any Priess, without the presence of his Clergy; because the "Bishop's Sentence shall be word, if it be not consirmed by the presence of the "Clergy.

Another, "That no Bishop ordain or judge in another's Parish, esse it shall be "void; For we judge that no one is bound by the sentence of any other Judge, but his own: (Who then is bound by the Pope, or any Usurper, who will Excommunicate those that are not of his Flock?)

Another faith, "[By a general Sanction we forbid Foreign judgments, "because it is unmeet that he should be judged by strangers, who ought to have

"Judges of the same Province, and that are chosen by himself.

Another, ["That no Bishop presume to judge or condemn any of the Clergy, "unless the accused Person have lawful Accusers present, and have place for defending himself by answering to the Charge.

Another,

Another, "For Nullifying such Bishops judgments as are done without due "Tryal, by Tyrannical Power, and not by Canonical Authority.

Another faith, "Constitutions that are contrary to the Canons, and to the "Decrees of the Bishops of Rome, or to Good Manners, are of no moment: (which nulleth even many of the Bishops of Rome also, as against Good Manners.)

Another notable Canon is, "[Delatori aut lingua capuletur, aut convicto "Caput amputetur: Delatores autem sunt qui ex invidia produnt alios.] That is, "Let a Delator's tongue be pull'd out, or if Convict, his Head cut off: Delators are those that through envy betray others; (or envious Accusers.) Alas! if our Delators, Calumniators and Informers were thus used now, what abundance would have suffered for wronging some one Man?

Another Canon is, "If a Man be often in quarrels, and easie (or forward) "to accuse, let no Man receive his Accusation without great Examina"tion? (What then will be thought of the usual Accusations of Clergy Calumniators, that for Sects, and worldly Interest, can reproach others without shame or measure?)

Another is, "That the danger of the Judge is greater than the danger of "him that is judged; therefore all care must be taken to avoid unjust judg" ment and punishments.

Another is, [" Let no Man receive the witness of a Lay-man against a "Clergy-man.] (And Door-keepers, and Clerks, and Readers, were then Clergy-men: Was not this a great priviledge to the Church?)

§ 54. CCXXXII. We come now to the great General Council at Nice 2d, called by the Papists the 7th, (that is, the 7th which pleased them.)

I have before noted that Irene, the Widow of Leo, now Ruled, her Son Constantine being Titular Emperor, a Child, under her Government. One Stauratius a Senator most swayed her, or ruled her. Taurasius the Patriarch joined with her for Images. They call a Council at Constantinople. A General Council and three Emperors (Leo, Const. & Leb) had lately condemned Images, and taken them down. The Pope and many Italians had relifted by This violence made the Emperor use severity against the Resisters. At Ravenna they killed Paulus the 14th Exarchate. In Rome they took Peter a Duke, and put out his eyes. In Campania they beheaded Exhileratus the Duke, and his Son Adrian, who took the Emperor's part. How the Emperor hereby lost Italy, is before shewed. But this Woman Irene will do as the Pope would have her: She is as much for Pictures as the Pope himself. She calling this Council at Constantinople, the old Soldiers bred up under the former Emperors being against Images, (bæresin medulitus in biberant, faith Binnius, p. 396.) Would not endure them in Constantinople, but routed them. At which the Empress being troubled, dismitted the Bishops till they had purged the Army of those old Soldiers, and then she called the Bishops to Nice; and there (they knowing their errand before-hand) damned themselves and their Brethren that had held the former universal Synod, and set up Images again.

§ 55. By the way, I appeal from Pride and Ignorance, to Christian Sobriety and Reason, how the taking down of Images can (in the Roman sense) be called an Heresie, unless it be an Article of Faith, that Images must or may be used. And can any Man that ever read and believed the Scriptures, and the Writings of the first four hundred years, believe that having or worshiping of Images, or Saints by Images, is an Article of Faith, or necessary to Salvation? The best of them that any Man can plead with Modesty is, that they are indifferent, or lawful, and useful to some Persons. The Papists tell us now that they would not compel us to bow toward Images, but leave it to our liberty. Must it be Heresie, and the Christian world cast into distractions about it, when yet this Image-worship is Idolatry in the sense of one part of Christians, and but indifferent and convenient to the ignorant (that have other helps enow) in the sense of others? O what a Plague hath it been to the world, to have a worldly Clergy invade the Churches!

§ 56. At the meeting of this Council we have first the Call and Title, in which,

1. The Emperor and his Mother are called the Governors of the whole world, (Orbis Terrarum.) And yet our Papists (as W. Johnson in his Novelty represt, &c.) would make Men believe that if they find but such a saying of a Council, or of the Church, it must needs significe more than the Empire, even all the Earth indeed.

2. It's expresly said over and over, that this Council was called by the Emperor, and by their Decree and Command.

Tharasius beginneth with telling them the need of Reformation (for Images,) and reporting how they were assaulted at Constantinople, when they met there, (and so removed to Nice,) &c.

§ 57. Next the Letters of the Empress and her Son are read, in which they are before made know what they must do. They are told what Paul Const. on his Death-bed said for Images, and that Tarasius would not take the Patriarchate till he had promise of a Council to restore them, and some hopes of it.

The Emperor here faith, that [he called and Congregated the Synod, and that ex universo terrarum orbe, out of the whole earthly world;] and yet it was only out of the Roman Empire.

$ 5 8. When the Bishops business was so well made known by the Woman that called them, first three Bishops that had been lately forward speakers against Images in the former General Council under Constantine, did humbly confess their sin to the Council, and asked forgiveness; that is, Basil. Ancyræ, Theodorus Myron, and Theodosius Amorii. And first Basil Bishop of Ancyræ gave them his Creed, in which he professed to "believe in the Trinity, and "to embrace the intercession of the Mother of God, and of the heavenly Powers, "and of all the Saints, and with all honour to receive and embrace their holy "Reliques, firmly believing that he may be made Partaker of their bolmess:

" Also

"Also that he embraceth the venerable Images, which * the Occonomy of our * The "Lord Jesus Christ, &c. and of the inviolate Virgin our Lady the Mother of Verb is "God, and of the holy Apostles, Prophets, Martyrs, and all Saints; and giveth left out.

" to be taken out of the Churches, &c.

And to shew his zeal, and lead others the way, he delivereth in nine Curses or Anathemas. One against those that demolish Images. Another against those that expound the Scripture words against Idols and Gentile Images, as against Christians Images. Next he execrateth all that embrace not Images, so it is now become necessary unto salvation.) Another Curse is against those that favour them that are against Images, &e. (Was not the Church ill used by her Bishops, when they are sure to be cursed by them; one year curling all that be for Images, and another curling all that be not for them? Was it such a curfing Clergy, to make a curfed Church, that Christ ordained?) And that the Council might not suspect that this Bishop was a 'Temporizer, and changed his Opinion with the Times, first he professeth to declare all this, [With his whole Soul, Heart and Mind;] and next he wisheth, [That if ever by any means he revelt again from Images, he may be alienated from God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and the Catholick Church. And thus he renounceth Repentance, curling himself if ever he repent.

§ 59. Tharasius and his Synod glorifie God for this excellent Confession: And next cometh Theodore Bishop of Myros, and he doth the like, and is joyfully received: And next cometh Theodofins Bishop of American, and he more dolefully lamenteth, that [being a simmer, and seduced, he had blattered cut many evils untruly against venerable Images; and therefore confessing his fault, be condemneth and curseth (or detesteth) himself, resolving hereafter to do the same thing which he had cursed (or spoken ill of) and to teach it to the world, and begging to be received among Christians though unworthy. Next he offereth his Libel, viz. "First I approve, receive, salute and venerate before all "things, the intemerate Image of our Lord Jesus Christ our true God, and the

" bleffed Mother Virgins, who brought him forth without seed "; whose help, pro- " How " tection and intercession I pray for night and day, that she may help me a somer, was he "as baving that power from him whom she brought into the world, Christ our her sub-"God. And I receive and venerate the Images of Saints, Apostles, Prophets, Stance.

"Martyrs, Fathers, Eremites, not as Gods, &c. And with all my mind I be-" secch them to intercede with God for me, that I may find mercy in the day of "judgment. On the same account I venerate the Reliques of Samis,

So he proceedeth also to his Curses, and "first he anathematizeth all that "venerate not Images: Then he curfeth those that reproach them: And next, " that speak evil of them: And next he curseth those that do not from their Gg2

"hearts teach Christian People the veneration of holy and honourable Images of all Saints, which from the beginning pleased God.

Qu. 1. Where shall we have Painters enow?

2. Where shall we have Money to pay them?

3. Where shall we find room to hold them?

4. Is not here a new Article of Faith, and a new Commandment necessary to Salvation?

5. Was not their Church Universal, as it stood before all or most here-curfed?

6. Was it not a hard matter to be faved, or be a Conformist on these terms, when a Man that did but doubt of Images, yea, that did not teach them to the People, and that from his heart, must be cursed?

7. Was not such a cursing fort of Bishops a great Curse, Shame and Calamity to the Church? Did they not tempt Insidels to curse or deride them all, while they thus cursed one another, even their Councils?

Tharasius joyfully received all this, and Constantine Bishop of Constance in Cyprus said, That this Libel of Theodosius drew many tears from him, (I suppose of joy;) And now they all saw the way.

§ 60. But now cometh a Crowd more to do their Pennance; Hypatius Bishop of Nice, Leo Rhodi, Gregory of Pisidia, Gregory of Pessinum, to of Iconium, Nicolas of Hierapolis, Leo of Carpathium. And now Tarasius was sure of them, he groweth more upon them, and will know of them, Whence it was that in the last Council they did what they did against Images? whether it was through meer Ignorance, or by any reason that drew them to it: If through Ignorance, he bids them give a Reason how they came to be so ignorant: If upon any Reason, to tell what that Reason was, that it might be refuted.

Leo, Bishop of Rhode, answered, "[We have sinned before God, and before the Church, and before this holy Synod; Ignorance made us fall from the "Truth, and we have nothing to say in our own defence.

Tharasius would know what Reason now moveth and changeth them; some say, because it is the Doctrine or Faith of the Apostles and Fathers. Another alledgeth a saying as of the Antioch Council, and another as of Isidere Peliss, which the learned Reader examining; may see what proof it was that Images were brought into Churches by; it's worth the noting. But another alledgeth the Apostles and Prophets Tradition: But what's the proof? And did not the Council at Constant. nor the Bishops in the Reign of the three former Emperors know, what Tradition was? Was it unknown till now? How came it now known then? Or who told it this Council, when the last knew it not? Or if the last were false Knaves, how shall we be sure that these were honest Men? Or that the same Men were suddenly become with and honest?

Tharasius asketh one of the Bishops (Leo) How it came to pass that he that had been ten or eight years a Bishop, never knew the Apostolical Tradition for Images till just now? He answered, Because through many Ages, (or Times) Malice endured, and so wicked Dostrine endured; and when this persevered for our sins, it compelled us to go out of the way of Truth; but there is hope with God of our salvation. But Constantine Cypr. answereth him, You that are Bishops, and Teachers of others, should not have had need to be taught your selves. Leo replied, If there were no expression of sin in the Law, there would be no need of Grace. Another (Hypatius) replied with the rest, We received ill Dostrine from ill Masters. Yea, but saith Tarasius, The Church ought not to receive Priests from ill Teachers. Hypatius, Bishop of Nice, replieth, Eustom hath so obtained.

§ 61. Hereupon the Synod desired to be informed on what terms Hereaticks were to be received, when they returned: so the Canons were brought and read. And though many Canons and Fathers have said, that no Repentance for some Crimes must restore a Man to the Priesthood, though it must to the Church; and there is an Epistle of Tarasius put by Crabbe before this Council, in which he determine that a Simoniack may be received upon Repentance to Communion, but not to his Office; yet Tarasius here being desirous of their return, (knowing that these Penitents that renounced the errors of their Education, and former practice, would draw others to conformity with them) did resolutely answer all that was objected against their reception.

§ 62. Here (in Crab. p. 472.) a question fell in (upon their reading the Proofs, that repenting Hereticks were by the Church to be restored to their Bishopricks and Priesthood,) What Hereticks these were? And it was answered, that they were Novatians, Encratists, and Arrians, and Manichees, Manicionists, and Eutychians. And then one asketh, Whether this Herefie (against Images) was greater or less than all those? And Tharasius answereth, (like a Stoick) "[Evil is always the same and equal, especially in matters Eccle"siastical, in the Decrees of which beth great and small, to err is the same "thing; for in both God's Law is violated.] (O Learned Patriarch, worthy to be the setter up of Church-Images!) A venerable Monk that was Vicar of the Oriental Patriarch, answereth, ["That this Heresie is worse than"all Heresies, and the werst of all Evils, as that which subverteth the Osco"nomy of our Saviour.]

Note, Reader, how the Patriarchal Thrones did govern the Church and this Council, and by what reasons Images and Saints intercessions were set up. Arrianism, Manicheism, Marcionism, no Heresie that denied the essentials of Christianity, no evil was so bad with them as to deny Church-Images, &c. And so the late General Council, and Bishops, for three Emperors Reigns, had been under the worst of Heresies and Evils, worse than Arrianism itself.

§ 63. But here Constantine the Notary of the Const. Patriarchate, happily brought in so pertinent a Testimony, as much made for the pardon of the penitent Bishops: He read out of the Council of Calcedon, how the Oriental and other Bishops that had lately set up Encycles and Dioscorus in the 2d Ephesian Council, cryed at Calcedon, [We have all sinned, we all ask forgiveness.] And how Thalassius, Eusebius and Eustathius cryed, [We have all cried, we all ask forgiveness.] And after them Juvenal, and after him the Illyrican Bishops cryed, [We have all lapsed, we all ask pardon.] And so the President was undeniable and effectual. These were not the first Bishops that went one way in one Council under one Prince, and cryed peccavimus for it, as Herefie, in the next.

§ 64. But Sabas the Monk starts yet a greater doubt than this, and that is, whether they had true Ordination, and so were true Bishops. For seeing they were bred in the times of Herefie, which had prevailed under so many Emperors, and had Heretical Teachers, it's like they had Heretick Ordainers, seeing the late Council shewed what the Bishops then were. And the Fact was confest, that they were Ordained by Bishops that were Hereticks, (that is, against Church-Images, and praying to Saints for their intercession, and using Reliques.) The Bishop of Rome's Vicars pleaded hard against their Ordination; but Tarasius knew what a breach it would make in the Church if a General Council, and all the Bishops that were at it, and all the rest that consented to it, and were bred up in that Opinion, should be degraded, and the new Conformity receive so great a stop; and what confusion it would make among the People, (as they had feen in many former instances) and therefore he is against their deposition. And first there are two passages read in their favour out of Ruffinus and Socrates, and somewhat of Athanasius. And then when Peter Vic. Rom. alledged the instance of Meletius against it, Tarasius brought a notable expeditious Argument, viz. The Fathers agree among themselves, and do not contradict one another: ergo the rest consent to these that have been cited. Methinks I could make great use of this Argumentation to fave time, labour and difficulty in disputing. E. G. Nazianzen wisht there were no difference of Bishops Seats (one above another) and faid that he never faw Councils that did not more harm than good. The Fathers differed not among themselves; ergo the rest of the Fathers were of Gregory's mind.

In conclusion, they offered their Confessions, and were absolved.

§ 65. In the 2d Action, the Rulers send in the Bishop of Neo-Casarea to do his Pennance; and he also cryeth for mercy, and confesset that his errors and sins were infinite, but now he believed as the Synod doth. Tharasus asketh him whether he be not assumed to have been ignorant so long, and questioneth the sincerity of his Repentance, which he earnestly professeth, condemning his Sin, and promising Conformity.

Next a long Epistle of Adrian's to the Emperor and Empress, and another to Tharasius for Images are read: For Popes use not to travel to General Councils, but to send their Letters and Legates, lest in their present Disputes

they

they be found no wiser than other Men, and their Infallibility be proved less at hand, than at a distance, where they hear not the Debates. Here Adrian to the Empress relateth the foresaid Vision of Constantine Mag. to be healed of his Leprosie, a Fable sit to introduce Image-worship; and for an Infallible Pope to use, fully constuted (as aforesaid) by Henry Foresis (after many others) of Popish Treasons.

§ 66. Tharasius professeth his consent to Adrian's Letters, yet professeth, [That he giveth the Worship called Latria to God alone, and placeth his belief Crab. p. in him alone.] Contrary to Aquinas and his Followers, and other such Ro-485. man Doctors. And the whole Council ecchoed their consent, and voted for Images; so much can one Woman do in Power.

S 67. In the 3d Action, Gregory Bishop of Nec-Casarea is to receive his Absolution fully, and Tharasius puts in an Objection, that it's said that some Bishops in the late Persecution did scourge dissenting Bishops, and such were not to be received: But Gregory protested that he scourged none. But he is accused by others, to have been a Leader of the last Council against Images, and so he is deserred. And the Epistle of Tharasius to the Eastern Patriarchs is read, (and their Answers;) in which it is to be noted, that yet Image-worship was not owned: For he professes in his Creed to them, that [We admit Pictures for no other use, but that they may the more persectly be exhibited to the sight and eyes; as the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the World, &c.]

And the 4th Action containing all their Proofs from Scripture and Fathers, plead but for the memorative and instructing use of Images, by which they are to the eye, what words are to the ear: But they should have considered the danger of abuse, and foreseen how much further they were like to be carried, as with the Papifts they are. .

And in the fifth Action they proceed in reading more, to the same purpose, for commemorative Images; till one read the Itinerary of the Apostles, which they voted to be a cursed Book, and said it was that Book that the Synod against Images made use of: whereupon Greg. Neo-Casto Theodos. Amorii are asked whether that Book was read in the false Synod, and they sware by God, that it was not, but only some recited words as out of it. Pretorius a Nobleman said, [But they did all by the Royal Procuration.] And they proceed to refell the Testimonies that were brought against Images. Cosmas Cubicularius brought out an Old Testament with Scholia blotted out, where was yet legible on the second Commandment, " [If we make the Image of "Christ, truly we do not for the similitude adore it, but that the mind might "be raised upward by what is seen.] The Expunction was said by Tarafins to be done by his Predecessors, Anastasius, Constantine, Victor, all Hereticks. And here they cursed Concealers and Cancellers of Writings. (Wo then to Rome!) Other rased Books were read, and Curses added against the Adversaries of Images, and those that communicate with them.

§ 68. In the 6th Action, the words of the 7th Council against Images are brought forth in a Book with a Confutation of them, which the Reader that

hath leisure may compare. Greg. Neo-Cafar. read the Councils words. Foan. Gancellarius read the Confutation. It fell out well that this Confutation was undertaken, or else we had lost the Decrees of this Council, as the Acts, for ought I know, are buried.

.In general every fober Reader may perceive a great deal of difference between the style of the Council of Constantinople, and the Answer. The Council speaks with as much temper and gravity, as most of the best Councils have done. The Answer aboundeth with such railings and reviling words, as are meeter for a common Scold, than for Divines. The common language of it, is to call the Bishops of the Council, Blinded, Ignorant, Fools, Wicked, Deceivers, Blasphemers, and such like. And if all the Bishops on earth be present, or represented in a General Council, what a Case then was the Church in? And how shall we know what Council is to be believed, unless the Pope make all the difference?

§ 69. The rumber of the Bishops were * 338. They first shew how Sastantinople tan hath brought in Idolatry. One of their chief Arguments against Images of Christ, is, that they savor of Nestorianism, representing Christ by his meer Manhood, when they cannot paint his Godhead; calling that Picture Christ, and overthrowing the Occonomy and Union of his Person. I meddle not with the weight of their reason, but only recite it.

§ 70. It's again worth the noting, that the Answer to them saith, (For their charging Images, as drawing down the mind to Creature-worship; Latria) [O insanien em linguam, quam instar machæræ acutæ & veneno imbutæ possident, &c. O mad tongue, which they possess like a sharp sword, imbued with poylon, &c. For no Christian ever gave Latriam to the Image of those that are under Heaven; for this is the Fable of the Gentiles, and Devils invention, and the aggression of Satanical Action.] --- [Our Latria is in Spirit and Truth.] Other passages forbid us to think that they juggle here, and denying Latriam only to Creatures under Heaven, intend to give it to Creatures in Heaven; for they appropriate it elsewhere to God: by which they greatly differ from Aquinas and such Papists.

§ 71. Note also that (whether well or ill) both these adverse Councils curse Pope Honorius as an Heretick; see Crab. p. 560, &c.

§ 72. Another Argument which the first 7th Council (at Const.) useth against Images in Churches, is, that Christ himself hath chosen and instituted fuch an Image as he would be represented by, and that is the Bread and Wine in the Sacrament, and therefore we must not presume to make another, as if he had not done it well. This sheweth that this General Council and the Church then held that the Bread was not nullified, nor become Christ's Essence, but was the Image or Representation of his broken Body, and so called, The Body of Christ, as we say of E.G. Cæsar's Image, This is Cælar.

But the adverse Council, or the Answer, raileth at this as an abominable Speech, (Crab. p. 567.) as if the Sacrament might not be called, The Image of Christ, (though de re they seem not at all to differ.) saith the Constantine CounCouncil, [Imaginem totam electam, viz. substantiam panis mandavit apponi. ne scilicet, humana effigie figurata, idololatria induceretur.] A Deo iras...a Imago Carnis ejus panis scilicet Divinus impletus est Spiritu Sancto, cum peculo quoque sanguinis lateris illius vivisicantis. Hee igitur vera incarnata dispen-Sationis Christi Dei nostri Imago sicut prædictum est, quam ipse nobis verus natura vividus Creator proprià voce tradidit.

§ 73. Note also (Crab. p. 568.) that the Constantin. Council plead. "That this use of Images began neither by the Tradition of Christ, nor of the . "Apostles, nor of the Fathers: And that the Answer saith, that " [The Vene-"ration of Images was delivered with many other things without Scripture, " from the Apoltles time, &c.

Here note 1. How those Papists (in particular which I have elsewhere answered) are confuted, who say that [Tradition is universal, sure, known, constant, and no Churches pleaded Traditions against each other, at least in necesfary things or Faith; but if we have not the right now, it must be because the Councils went all to Bed in one mind, and role in another.] You see here that the 2d Nicene Council took the Doctrine of the former to be Anathematized Herefic; and that 338 Bishops in one of the Councils, (and the most under many Emperors) and 350 Bishops in the other Council, pleaded Tradition against each other. But sure any Man that liath read the Fathers of the first 300 or 400 years, will easily see which of them was in the right, excepting the fign of the Cross.

2. Note also that it is here confessed, that there is no Scriptural Tradition of this use of Images.

§ 74. In the Definitions of the Constantine Council it is to be noted,

1. That they are not so much against the intercession of the Virgin Mary, or Saints, as the Protestants mostly are, nor as the Papists make them: For (Crab. p. 589.) they say Defin. 15. [If any confess not holy Mary ever a Virgin, properly and truly the Parent of God, and Superior to every Creature visible and invisible (), and doth not with a sincere Faith crave her Inter- () What ! ceffions, as having this liberty with him that is born of her, God, let him be superior Anathema.

And Defin. 17. [If any confess not that all who from the beginning to this Humaniday, before the Law, and under the Law, and in the Grace given of God, being prove you Saints are venerable in the presence of God in soul and body (), and doth that the is not seek their intercessions, as having liberty with God to intercede for the world superior according to Ecclesiastical Tradition, let him be Anathema.] Were not these to the Men high enough in Creature-worship, to escape the Curse of Here-Angels?

() Are

2. I noted before how they do Defin. 7. conclude, that Christ's Body glo-the bodies rified is not proper Flesh, and yet not incorporeal, but his true Body.

§ 75. That you may see that this Council were of one mind, in the con-already clusion they all say, Omnes so credimus; Omnes idem sapimus; Omnes ap- i son?

to Christ's ty? How

probando volentes subscripsimus, &c. We all thus believe, (against Images;) We are all of one mind; We all subscribe willingly, as approving, &c. Germanus, George, and Manzurus, (supposed to be Damascene) are found among the Anathematized Diffenters, Crab. p. 592.

§ 76. The 7th Action of the Nicene Synod, containeth their Definition. in which they deny indeed Latria to Images, but yet say (more than before) ". That they that see the Pictures, may come to the memory and defire " of the Prototypes; as by the fight of the Cross, and by the holy Gospels, and " holy Oblations.-For the honour of the Image resulteth to the Prototype, and he "that adoreth the Image, in it adoreth the described Argument.] So that they that began lower, in the conclusion came up to Adoration.

They all profess full consent, and curse all that bring Scripture against Images, and that call them Idols, &c. They curse the last Council, as Riv giens Conciliabulum; and three diffenting Bishops, and three former Patriarchs of Const. two more Bishops they add. They curse all that receive not Images, and all that falute them not in the Name of the Lord and his Saints, and that care not for unwritten Tradition of the Church.

Next they write an Epistle to the Empress, (and her Child) applauding them, and adding, that " [Denying Latria to them, they judge them to be "adored and saluted, and pronounced every one Anathematized that is so " minded, as to stick at and doubt of the Adoration of Images, and this as "empowered by God's Spirit so to curse them; which Anathema (say they)

" is nothing else but separating them from Christ.

Judge now what the use of such Councils was, [To curse Men, and separate them from Christ,] and that if they do but doubt of adoring Images. Reader, if thou believe that in these Heretications, Separations and Damnations of fuch, they were of Christ's mind, and did his work, and served not his Enemy against him and his Church, I am not of thy mind, nor am ever like to be.

Another Epistle they wrote to the People, and one Tharasius sent to Adrian.

§ 77. Some Canons of theirs are added, of which this is the third.

"[Every Election of a Bishop, Priest, or Deacon, which is made by Magi-"frates, shall remain void, by the Canon which saith, If any Bishop use the "Secular Magistrates, to obtain by them a Church, let him be deposed and sepa" rated, and all that communicate with him *. The 4th Canon is, "[Paul faith, I have defired no Mans silver or gold, "&c. If therefore any one exacting money, or any other thing, or for any affrom the "fection of his own, shall be found to drive from his Ministry, or to segregate Rishops in Jetton of his Clergy, or to south the venerable Temple, forbidding in it the England, any one of his Clergy, or to south the venerable Temple, forbidding in it the "Divine Ministeries, shewing his madness even on that which hath no sense *, " such an one is truly sensless, and shall be obnoxious to the Lex Talionis, and his "work shall fall upon his own head, as being a transgression of God's Law : For " the.

The 15th Canon forbids one Man to have two Churches.

The 22d Canon forbids Canting, and Minstrels, and Ribald Songs at meat: But the 7th savors of their Superstition, forbidding any Temple to be Consecrated without Reliques, and ordering Temples that have no Reliques to be put down.

§ 78. In the Letter to Adrian, Tharasius tells him, that he had a year before attempted the like at Const. but was hindered a whole year by violent Men; which further sheweth how far the opposition to Images had obtained, when Irene began to set them up.

§ 79. So much of the 2d Nicene Council, in which by the power of one Woman, and Stauratius a Senator that ruled her, the judgment of the Universal Church (if the Council, or most of the Bishops in the Empire signific it) was suddenly changed from what it had been during the Reign of the three last Emperors, and made that Church-use of Images (which some thought sinful, and no judicious Christian could judge necessary, but indifferent, and of use to some) to be henceforth so necessary, that the Denyers are sentenced for cursed Hercticks, yea the Doubters cut off from Christ.

$ 80. CCXXXIII. Binnius next addeth a Council at Forojulium, An. 79 r. held by Paulinus Bishop of Aquileia: in which is a Speech of his to the Bishops, and an excellent Creed, and 14 Canons, written as by himself; all in a far more understanding, sober, pious manner, than is usual among the Patriarchs at General Councils. The 13th Canon is an excellent Precept for the holy observation of the Lord's-day, wholly in Holines, and in Hymns of Praise to the Holy Ghost, that blessed it by his admirable Advent, calling it God's Sabbath of delight, beginning the 7th day evening, not for the Itonour of the 7th day, but of this Sabbath, &c.

§ 81. Yet rash and unskilful words set the Bishops into more divisions. Fælix Urgelitanus, and from him Elipandus Bishop of Toletum, taught that Christ as the eternal Word was God's Natural Son, but that as Man he was his Adopted Son. Hence his Adversaries gathered that he was a Nestorian, and held two Sons. A Council An. 792. at Ratisbonne was called to condemn this Heresic. Yea, Jonas Bishop of Orleance saith, That it infected Spain for a great part, (and he knew their Followers to be certain Antichrists, by their faces and habits.) But wise Mon think that the Controversie was not de re, but de nomine, And that if one Christ be said to be one Son of God in two natures, natures, by a twofold fundamentum of the Relation of a Son, and that the foundation of the eternal Relation was the eternal Generation, and the foundation of the temporal Relation in the Humanity, was the temporal Generation and Union with the Deity, yet this proveth not two Sons: yea, or if it had been faid that two Generations being the fundamenta, two Relations of Southip refult from them. If this be unskilfully and illogically spoken, it will not follow that the Speakers held tovo Persons, or made any more division of Christs natures than their Adversaries did; but only might think that a double filiation from a double fundamentum, might be found in one Person. Let this Opinion be wrong, I see not how the Hereticators could make it a damnable Herefie. But it's pity that Falix had not taken warning by the Churches long and fad experience, to avoid such wordy occasions of Contention, and not to fet again on work either the Heretical, or the Hereticating Evil Spirit.

§ 82. Claudius Taurinensis, a great and worthy Bishop at this time, did fet in against the Worship and Church-use of Images, against whom Jonas Aurelianensis wrote, whose Writings are in the Biblioth. Patrum by Marg. de la Bigne; Read them, and judge as you see cause.

§ 83. About the time of the Frankford Council, came out a Book against Images, which is published as written by Carolus Magnus himself. A great Controversie it is, Who is the Author? No small number say, it was Charles his own indeed. Others, that it was written at his Will and Command. But Bimius and some others deny it, and say it was written by Serenus Masfilienfis an Icenoclast, and his Disciples. How we shall know the Truth in such Cases, I cannot tell: But it is confessed that Spain and France were then much infected with the Doctrine which is against Church-Images. It is certain that Pope Adrian faith, that Carolus Mag. fent him such a Book by Eneilbert an Abbot, and his Epistle against it is extant.

§ 84. CCXXXIV. We come now to a great Council at Frankford, called by Charles Mag. present, and by Adrian. And as late as it is, all the Historians cannot tell us whether it was Universal, or what they did. Some say it was a General Council, because Charles summon'd it as such, and 300 Bishops were there. Others say No, it was but Provincial, because none of the Bishops of the East were there, (a sufficient reason; and the like may be brought to prove, that there never was a General Council in the World, so called from the whole World, but only from the whole Empire.) That they dealt with the Case of Elipandus Bishop of Tolerum, and Falix Urgel is agreed on, but what they did about Images is not agreed on. Ado, Rhegino, Aimofor extent nius Ur purg. and many Historians say, They condemned the Nicene Council that was for Images. Even Barenius is of the same mind, thinking the Liber Carelinus deceived them. He proveth this to be the common judgment of .

Council against Images, profest to fellow Tradition. And if which Sy-French Men will make us Hereticks for speaking English, it is no wonder if we Frankmake them Hereticks for speaking French. If Men will Hereticate others ford, the for Images, or Ceremonies, or Words, others will measure the like to them. 7th Gene-This kind of Hereticating is circular, and hath no end.

Suarez will have either the Historians to have erred, or their Books to be collar to jected by corrupted; with what measure you mete, it shall be measured to you. You shall the Bishops then give us leave to suspect your Books, where there is far greater cause. that were § 85. But the Synod, or Pauliness Agusleiensis, a learned worthy Bishop ignorant in the Synod, (whom the rest follow) copiously write a Confutation of Elipandus and Fælix. And the charges of Herelic are,

1. That they call Christ as to his Humanity, God's Adopted Son, (and his 1. 8. c. 7.

eternal Person his Natural Son.)

2. Because they say he was Adopted by Grace.

3. Because they say he was a Servant.

Alas for the Church, that must thus by Bishops be distracted for want of skill in words! Is there no remedy? Binnius confesseth that some Papists think that they meant right, as Durandus did, and that the difference was but in words.

The Council supposeth Elipandus and Falix to use the word [Adoption] exclusively, as to Christ's Filiation by Generation, as conceived by the Holy Ghost: whereas it is far likelier that they took both Conjunct to be the fundamentum filiationis. God adopting, that is, of his good Will freely creating Christ's Humane Nature, and uniting it to the Divine; called Adoption, because it was God's free act of Love, and not a communication of his Essence, as the eternal 'Generation is. The Humanity is not God's Essence. And I hope the name of [The Son of Man] used so oft by Christ of himself, is no Heresie. And there appeareth no reason to censure them as denying either the eternal or temporal Generation of Christ. .

But they argue against them,

1. That he is said to be Adopted, that is, not Generated.

2. And that he merited it not, but was adopted of meer Grace, but so was. not Christ.

Answ. 1. These Objections seem to confess that the difference was but de nomine; and is the unapt use of such a word, an Heresie? How many Herefies then have most Councils, and Fathers, and all Authors?

2. Must we needs understand God's Adoption, just in the measure as mans?

3. We are Regenerate, and yet Adopted. Why then is it a Herefie, to fay that Christ was Generated, and yet Adopted? 4-Grace - 4. Grace is either that which is against the merit of evil, or only without the merit of good. It's doubtless that the first was not by them imputed to Christ: And it's undoubted to me, that it is consequentially Blasphemy, to say that Christ's Humane Nature, or any Angel had not the later. For the very being, and therewith all the good in the constitution and antecedent benefits of a Creature must go before his merits. Merit is too low a word for the Divine Nature as such before the Incarnation. And the Humane Nature did not merit to be before it was, e.g. to be conceived by the Holy Ghost, &c. As free Benefits are called Grace, Christ's Humane Nature had Grace.

But they object, that the two Bishops did not distinguish between Christ's Adoption, and ours.

Ans. 1. We have not their Writings to see that.

2. If they did not, it's like it was, because they thought it needless, being understood by all. They believed the Creed, That Christ was conceived by the Holy Ghost, and born of the Virgin Mary; and that the Godhead assumed the Humanity into personal Union. They knew that none dreamed that it was so with us

The Council saith, That it's Heresie to use the name Adoption of Christ. The two Bishops seemed to think, That God's free assuming of the Humanity into personal Unity with the Word eternally generated by the Father, might be called Adoption. If the improper use of the word be Heresie, I leave it to the Reader to judge which were the Hereticks: But I think neither.

But another part of the Heresie was, to say that Christ was a Servant as Man. And they think he was no Servant, because a Son. Some will think confidently that the Council were here Hereticks, but I think they did but strive about words. By [Servant] the Council seemeth to mean exclusively, [One that is no Son.] But the other meant inclusively, [A Son and Servant.]

They take him for a Servant, that oweth Service and Obedience. And Christ as Man owed Obedience to his Father on two accounts;

1. As a reasonable Creature to his Maker.

2. As one that had by voluntary Sponsion undertaken it. I might add,

3. As the special Law of Mediation was imposed on him, or given him, as Man, by which it was made his special duty to die for Man, &c. He saith, when he cometh into the world, Here I am to do thy Will, O God; yea, thy Law is in my heart. Did he not take upon him the form of a servant? Phil. 2.7. which was not a shew of that which is not, but of that which is. Is he not called God's righteous Servant justifying many, Isa. 53. 11. Doth not God oft call him, My Servant, Isa. 49. 6. & 52. 13. Zech. 3. 8.

The Council feemed to think that the Bishops thought that Christ was born a Servant, and not a Son, and was adopted a Son only after for his merits: But there is no shew of reason to impute this to them that professed to believe the Creeds and Scripture, and said no such words. They seemed to intend nothing but to distinguish the natural eternal Generation of the second Person in the Trinity, from the temporal Generation of the Man Christ Jesus, which was an Act of free Beneficence.

Bin. p. 428. [Ex quadam Elipandi confessione que en Biblioth. Tolerana reperitur in quodam libro à Beato & Heterio contra Elipandum scripto; auna non in mysterio Incarnationa, sed tantum abutendo voce Adoptiona, instar Durandi, aberrâsse: Idemque conjectura assirinant ista, quod nibil eorum que Nestorio objecta suerant in Conc. Ephescontra Elipandum attulerent, &c. See the rest.

But they concluded that they were Nestorians, because they intimated two Sons, by saying that he was eternally begotten, and yet adopted a Son.

Ans. 1. It is not unlike that Nestorius himself for want of more skill in speaking, was used as they were.

2. Why should that be imputed to them which they deny? They are told that as Nestorius crastily denied two Persons, and yet inserved two, so do they. But is not this a vindication of Nestorius by a Council? (Who knoweth what a man holdeth, better than himself?)

Obj. But by consequence Herefie will follow.

Ans. If all are Hereticks that hold any Error which such a greater Error would follow from as is called Heresie, I doubt not but every Council and Bishop, and Christian were Hereticks; the saying of some great Divines being true, That Truths of Faith and Morality were a next, that he that holdeth the least Error therein, doth by consequent the foundation. You may say that every man that tells a lye, or a reason, he would know that he must not sin against him; he that sins before his Face, denieth his Omniscience, and so denieth God, &c. At this rate all are Athesists and Hereticks.

3. But may not one that faith, [Christ as the second Person in Trinity was the Eternal Son of God; and as Man, was by Generation in time made the Son of God and Man:] truly mean that it is but one Person that in one respect is the Eternal Son, and in another respect the Temporal Son? May he not hold that the personal Unity maketh it unneet to say, There are two Sons, because that would imply two Persons, which they and Nestorus denied? But, again I say, what if they had said that there might be two Filiations, or silial Relations in one Person, resulting from two soundations, Eternal and Temporal Generation, and if this had been an unapt speech, (to say ex due-bus fundamentis due oriuntur relationes) yet how comes it to be Heresic?

§ 86. I write not this, and such like, to justifie the accused; for I think the Council said well, (Bin. p. 418.) 1. Cur nobis non sufficient que in Sanctorum Patrum dictis inveniuntur, & universali Cathelice sanctions consuctudines.

(iretudine confirmant ur. 2. Quare generationem Filii Dei vel aternam de Patre, vel temporalem de Matre quisquam hominum audeat investigare, dicente. Scriptur ! altiora te ne quæsieris! O well said! Happy Church, if the Bishops had held to this: But here you fee that they held a double Generation, Eternal and Temporal, and yet but one Filiation. I write this, because the Hereticating Spirit yer reigneth; and by these old Weapons fighterh against Love and the Churches Unity, on pretence of Orthodoxness; and to this day the Papifts reject a great part of Christ's Church as Hereticks, by the countenance of former Councils censoriousness, calling Christ's Members Iconoclasts, Monothelites, Nestorians, Eutychians, and many such names, some fetcht from indifferent things, (or duties) and some from quarrels about hard words.

§ 87. Note here that Binnius expresly saith, that Adbuc nondum est certum qualis in particulari fuerit hæresis Fæliciana: It is not yet certain what this Fælician Heresie was. And if so, I hope I shall not be censured for the fame, notwithstanding you may fay, the Council knew it.

§ 88. It's worth the noting as to the credit of Council Records, which Binnius there faith, (p. 427.) [If this Council as it now is extant, may without temerity be rejected, all Councils by the fame reason may be rejected which Surius hath gathered from the Catholick Libraries.] He confesseth that the rest are no surer than this, and yet that Baronius, Bellarmine, by the generality or number of Historians consent, do confess that there was by this Council a rejection of the Conc. 2d Nicene, which is now here to be found in it.

§ 89. The Council at Frankford determined that Christ was not a Servant, Vid. Not. Servitute poenali Deo subjectus, subject to God by penal Servitude. The pre-Bin.p.428 fent agreement of Christians, taketh this for Socinianism and Heresie: Christ fuffered for our fins; his subjection to Poverty, Reproach, the Cross, and many works, (as Fasting, being carried about by Satan, and tempted, Mat. 4. 1. washing his Disciples feet, travelling on foot, being subject to his Mother, and to Princes, paying Tribute, &c.) we suppose were part of his Hu-The Holiness and Obedience was good, and no Penalty: But the matter of that Obedience was the Cross and Suffering, which is Malum Naturæ. And if this was no punishment (voluntarily accepted by his Spon-- fion) how was Christ our Surety, bearing our Transgressions? how suffered he for our fins? Is not fuffering for fin, even of others, penal? Is not the denial of Christ's penal Service and Suffering, a denial of his Satisfaction and our Redemption? You fee how easie it is to find Heresie and Insidelity itself in unskilful words; and yet it's like the Speakers meant better than they fpake.

§ 90. Note that Pope Adrian first made himself Judge, and Anathematized Elipandus as an Heretick, and so the Council was byassed (with the Emperor;) and how great Adrian's power was (having made Charles Emperor, and Charles made him a Prince,) it is easie to conjecture.

§ 91. Binnius saith, p. 429. that Fælix, besides his other Heresie, impugned Images, and that this is faid by the Concil. Senonenf. in Decret. fid.c. 14.

Platina

Platina in Adrian. Sabellic. Enead. 8. li. 8. Alph. de Castro verb. Imago. And that Claud. Taurin. being his Disciple, and an Iconomach, he must needs be so himself: From whence I argue, that it is most probable that the Historians say true, that say Charles and the Council of Frankford were against the Nicene Council and Images. For else how could it come to pass, that they say not one word against Fælix and Elipandus for denying Images, when their Party was grown so great in Spain and France?

6 92. Pope Adrian dying, Leo the 3d succeeded. His Piety was so great, that Anastasius writes, as it were, a Volumn, in naming the good works which he did, that is, the Silks, Vails, Cloathing, Silver, Gold, and innumerable gifts which he bestowed upon Posts, Pillars, Altars, Walls, Floors, Utensile, it would tire one to read them, and the hard names of them; yea, he faid seven Masses a day. Yet some Kinsmen of Pope Adrian's, Paschal Primicerius, & Campullus Sacellarius, & Maurus Nepesimus, laid Crimes to his charge; and affaulted him, and twice put out his Eyes, and cut out his Tongue, and put him in a Monastery; yet (faith the Story) his Eyes and Tongue were perfectly restored, and he fled to his Protector Charles into Germany; and Charles came to Rome, and judged his Accusers to Banishment, and restored him; and he crowned Charles then Emperor of the West, and perfected the Donation to him of all that had been the Emperor's. Charles gave him great Prefents; and with his own Revenues and that, he laid out fo much Silver and 'Treafure at Rome, and did so many new things in the Churches, that if you read but Adrian's life, and this Leo's, you will be ashamed to disgrace the Church of Rome with any Titles or Pretences of the ancient primitive state, but must say, Old things are past away, behold all is become new. Charles the Great, made the Pope Great.

$93. Some Historians say, that the kissing of the Pope's Foot, was brought in thus by this Pope Leo: A handsom Woman kist his Hand, which so inflamed his Heart with Lust, that he cut off the Hand that the Woman kist, and ordained that ever after the Pope's Foot should be kist instead of his Hand: But I rather believe with Binnius, that this is but a Fiction, because 1. There is mention before this of kissing the Pope's Foot. 2. And I do not think that such a Heart would so easily part with a Hand.

§ 94. To look back to the East; when Irene had kept up Images awhile, her Son Constantine grown up, is weary of her Government and Stauratus, and deposeth her; and when he ruled, the Bisnops mostly were conformable to him: But in his youthful Folly and Rage, he put out the Eyes of his Uncle Nicephorus, and Alexius a Captain; he put away Mary his Wise, and took one Theodota, that better pleased him, in Marriage; one Foseph that married them, was preferred for it. Tarasius connived, and durst not gain-say. Theodore Studita & Plato therefore renounce the communion of Tarasius. At last, An. 797. his Mother Irene, and Stauratius, found means to apprehend him, and murder him, that is, put out his Eyes, of which he dyed, which some celebrate as a pious Act; it was done by her that set up Images. But See Perav. H ft. h.8. within one year, Nicepborns deposed and banished her into Lesbos, where she dyed, and he took the Empire to himself.

$ 95. Binning, p. 445. faith, " [That the Emperor banished Theodore "Studita, for reproving his Marriage, and when he added crime to crime, "Merito justi Matris quam imperio exuerat, zelo justitia non regni, oculis, " imperio, & vita orbatus eft. By the command of his Mother in her zeal "for justice, he was deservedly deprived of his Empire, Eyes and Life. \ What is not just with such Historians, that maketh for their Interest? And how contemptible is their Censure of good or evil Men, which hath no better Meafures?

§ 96. He tells us also, (p. 444.) that the Spanish and French Bishops at these times, of their own heads, without the Pope, added [Filioque] to the Creed, which hath to this day made fo great a stir. It seems they thought that the Pope's Authority was not necessary to it.

§ 97. He adds, that Charles the Great being dead, the People grew bold, and rose up again against the Pope; which occasioned Rapines, Flames, and Murders, that Ludovicus the new Emperor was fain to take his Fathers Office, and come to Rome to fave the Pope, and suppress the Rebels.

§ 98. The Venetian Duke killing a Patriarch, Johan. Gradensis, Paulus Patriarch of Aquileia called a Synod to crave aid of Charles.

§ 99. CCXXXV. An. 806. A Council was held at Constantinoples in the Cause of the foresaid Foseph that had married the Emperor to his second wife. who had been ejected by Tarasius from his Bishoprick, and the Emperor calling a Council, they restored him; wherefore Theodorus Studita called them a Council of Hereticks and Adulterants, because they restored the Causer of the Emperor's Adultery. But how few Emperors have not found Councils of Bishops ready to do their Will?

§ 100. Charles the Great making his Will, divided his Empire between his three Sons, giving them Laws of Communion and Succession, (that if one dyed without Children, his Kingdom be divided between the other two; but if he have such Sons as the People will choose, they succeed their Father:) Commanding all three that they be the Defenders of the Bishop of Rome, as he and his Father and Grandfather had been (to their com-

§ 101. CCXXXVI. An. 809. Was another Council at Constantinople, which was gathered to condemn honelt Theodorus Studita, & Plato, and fuch as had been against the restoring of Foseph, of which saith Binnius, "[When "the Bishops there Congregate had brought the most holy Plato in Chains to "he judged, and had passed the Sentence of Anathema on the Universal Cathothat Coun- " lick Church * that was against their Error, they made a most wicked De-"cree, that the Marriage of Constantine with Theodota, (his Wife yet living, cursed the "thrust into a Monastery) should be said to be lawful by dispensation. § 102. CCXXXVII. An. 809. A Council was held at Aquisgrana, about the Procession of the Holy Ghost, and the word [Filioque] in the Creed *. * A new Of which they sent some Messengers to the Pope, who approved the thing, Controbut diffuaded them from adding it to be fung in the Creed; and after inscribed the Creed without Filiogue in Latin and Greek in two Silver 'Tables, to flew that it should not be changed: which yet after it was by the Pope's consent.

The French Annals say, that in this Council they treated of the state of the Church, and conversation of the Clergy, but determined nothing for the greatnesses of the matter.

§ 103. CCXXXVIII. An. 113. (Yet under Charles the Great) a Council was held (by his Command) at Arles, where many very good Canons were made for the Reformation of the Bishops and Priests.

§ 104. CCXXXIX. The fame year the fame Charles had a Council at Tours, which made 51 as honest Articles, as if Martin himself had been amongst them; even against all kind of sin, and for all godly living. Among others, the 37th Canon tells us, that the custom of not kneeling in Prayer on any Lords-day, (no not at the Sacrament) nor on any Week-day between Easter and Whitsuntide, was yet in force; on other days they required humble kneeling.

§ 105. CCXL. Yet another Council did Charles call the same year at Chalons (Cabillonense) in which he ordered Schools for the restoring of Learning, (our Alcum being his Persuader greatly esteemed by him) Learning then being almost worn away, (and Ignorance taking place) till he greatly revived it: no less than 67 Canons were here made, most very good ones; but praying for the Souls of the Faithful departed, and anointing the Sick, are there enjoined.

§ 106. Among many good Canons, the 13th is against the Oath of Obedience to the Bishop, and to the Church. The words Translated are these: "[It is reported of some Brethren (Bishops) that they force them, that they "are about to ordain, to swear, that they are worthy, and will not do contrary "to the Canons, and will be obedient to the Bishop that ordaineth them, and to " the Church in which they are ordained; which Oath, because it is very dange-" rous, we all ordain [hall be forbidden.]

§ 107. The 15th Canon faith, "[It is faid that in some places the Arch-"deacons exercise a certain domination over the Parish-Presbyters, and take Fees " of them; which is a matter of Tyranny, rather than of order of Rectitude:

§ 110. The 45th Canon is against them, that by going to holy places, .

Rome, or Tours, think to have their fins forgiven.

§ 111. CCXLL. Yet another Council the same year 813, was held under Charses M. at Mentz in Germany to the like purpose, many godly Canons being made.

§ 112.CCXLII. Yet another under Charles at Rhemes, for Instructing and Catcchiling, and many good things, like the former.

§-113. CCXLIII. But we have not done with Images yet, An. 814. There was a Council called at Conftantinople, which damned the Council of Nice 2: Irene having fet up Images, and murdered the Emperor her own Son, (as is aforefaid) was deposed by Nicephorus, who Reigned near ten years, with Stauratius his Son; he was no Friend to the Clergies power, and was killed in Fight by the Bulgarians, and his wounded Son Reigned a few months. chael Curopalates succeeded, a Man of great Piety and Peace, but unfit for War, who being overcome by the Bulgarians, he consented to give up the Empire to Leo Armenus, a better and prosperous Soldier. This Leo the 5th, was of the mind of the former Leo's against Images, and his mind being known, the Bishops conformed presently, insomuch that in his 2d year this Council called by him, Anathematized the Bishops that would not renounce the Nicene 2d Council; and when they lay prollrate on the earth, it's faid some trod on some of them, and they turned them at a Back-door out of the Council: For the Patriarch Nicephorus, that was for Images, was deposed, and Theodorus Melissenus that was against them put in his place, and led the rest. Thus did Council against Council thunder Anathema's, and curse each other by separating them from Christ, till few were left uncursed. the Monasteries also were called in, and those that would not consent against Images, were rejected. Nicetas & Theodorus Studita were the Champions for Images, and were both banished and imprisoned. Theodore wrote to the Council for Images, and tells them that " [To take away the venerable "Adoration of the Images of Christ, and of the Mother of God, and of all "the Saints, was to overthrow the Oeconomy of Christ.] And he continued in Prison to preach and write for Images.

Those Councils that pleased not the Papists, we have not the Acts of, as we have of such as Nic. 2. that pleased them. Had we all the Speeches and Arguments used in this and other Councils, against Images, as largely-as those.

§ 114. CCXLIV. The Clergy had for many hundred years abrogated Goo's Law, [He that sheddeth Man's Blood, by Man shall his Blood be shed;] and had put Pennance for the punishment instead of Death: But now at last the murdering of one John a Bishop (inhoneste & inaudite mordidatus, as they then spake) they were put to find some harder Penalty to save the Clergies Lives: And so they set great Fines of Money on the Murderers; and more than so, He that wilfully murdered a Bishop must eat no flesh, nor drink any Wine as long as he lived. If Murder now had no greater a punishment, Bishops would scarce be safe any more than others. This was at a Council at a Village called Theorius, or Dietenhoven.

§ 115. Next succeedeth Pope Stephen at Rome; Platina saith Stephen the 4th, Anastasius and Binnius say Stephen the 5th. Platina and others say that he Reigned but seven months; Anastasius and others say seven years, and seven months. Platina saith he was the Son of Julius a Roman; Anastasius faith he was the Son of Marinus*.

Charles dying, the Empire came to his Son Ludovicus called Pius, his Bro- Julius Mathers dying also. The Bishops of Italy (saith Platina and others) stir'd up Onuphrus Bernard to rebel against him; but he was conquered; and put to death: as faith, was also were the Saxon Rebels. Paschal first succeeding, Stephen is made Pope his name. without the Emperor's knowledge; for which he excused himself, as forced by the People that chose him: The Emperor pardon'd it, but demanded obedience as to their Elections for the time to come. Platina in It. Paschall. 1. who faith that Paschal was suspected of the Rebellion of Italy, but disclaimed it; and that the Emperor re-assumed many Cities to the Empire, to prevent new Rebellions.

Some fay that Bernard was but blinded: Among others banished for Treason, were Anselm Bishop of Milan, and Theodulfe Bishop of Aurelia, (Orleance) so that Italy and France joined in the Treason. See Petav. Hist. Mund. li. 8. c. 8.

§ 116. CCXLV. Ludovicus Pius was so careful to reform the Bishops and Clergy, that he raised their ill will against him, being too pious for them that should have been the Teachers of Piety; yea, so slothful did they grow, that though his Father and he had done extraordinary works for the promoting of Learning and Godliness, yet Learning in his days grew to such decay, that Learned Men became the common contempt, and few of them were to be found; but Wealth and Jurisdiction were the study, care, and interest of the Bishops.

Yet in his time at Aquisgrane, there was a Council that wrote, instead of Canons, the most excellent Treatise for the Teaching and Government of the Teachers and Governors of the Church, (belides the regulation of Monasteries) that ever any Council did before them: Not in their own words, but in the several Sermons, and passages of the chief Fathers, (Islane, Hierora, Gregory, Augustine and Prosper,) that had written to the Clergy heretofore, which they collected into 145 Chapters and Canons.

" It's like

Gregory,

But you must know that the excellency of the Canons of Provincial Councils in France and Spain, in these Ages, did not show the excellency of the Bishops, so much as their Pravity and Necessity, as the Medicine doth the Disease. For such Canons were ordinarily drawn up by the will of the King, by some one or sew choice Men, (such as Paulinus Aquileiensis in his time,) to whom the rest consented, because they knew the King would have it so*.

* Saith to whom the rest consented, because they knew the King would have it so*.

§ 117. In these Chapters of this Council, they cite Isidore and Hierom at large, proving that it was Presbyters that were called Bishops in Paul's Epishes, and Als 20. and that in those times the Church was ruled by the Common-Council of Presbyters, till Schism shewed a necessity that one should rule among the rest.

They cite Isidore's words, that [Cæteri Apostoli cum Petro par consortium honoris acceperunt] Et [Non esse Episcopum qui præsse dilexerit, non prodesse.] And Hierom's on Titus maintaining the foresaid Identity, and his [Sciat Episcopus & Presbyter sibi Populum conservum esse non servum:] And his excellent Epistle ad Nepotianum: Many Sermons of Augustine's describing his Collegiate Community of the Clergy. Isidore's words, [Plerique Sacerdotes sua magis utilitatis causa quam gregis præsse desiderant: Nec ut prosint, præsules sieri cupiunt, sed magis ut divites siant & honorentur: suscipiunt sublimitatis culmen, non pro Pastorali regimine, sed pro totius regiminis vel honoris ambitione, atque abjecto opere dignitatis, solam nominis appetunt dignitatem. Dum mali Sacerdotes Deo ignorante non fiant, tamen ignorantur à Deo-sed bic nescire Dei, reprobare est.] If Isidore say true, remember that I wrong not the Bishops in saying the same of them. And if this was the case of the most, as he assirmeth, what better than we find could be expected from General Councils, where it is carried by the major vote.

They cite Gregory's words, [Nemo amplius nocet in Ecclesia, quam qui perverse agens nomen vel ordinem sanctitatis habet: Delinquentem namque hunc redarguere nullus præsumit, sed in exemplum culpa vehementer extenditur, quando pro reverentia ordinis peccator honoratur.—Melius prosecto sucrat ut hunc ad mortem sub exteriori habitu terrena acta constringerent, quam sacra officia in culpa cæteris imitabilem demonstrarent. Bishops they recite.

In Hierom's Epistle to Nepotian which they cite, there are most pungent warnings to Priests to take heed of familiarity or abode with Women; yea, even when they are fick. It appeareth by Cap. 1 t 2. a Sermon of Augustines, that it was the custom then for the Preacher to sit, and the Hearer to stand, [I will not bold you

Augustine sheweth there how little he regarded the Appeals of his deposed Priests to Reme, [or Councils] Interpellet contra me mille Concilia, naviget tontra me quò voluerit, sit certè ubi potuerit; adjuvabit me Dominus, ut ubi ego Episcopus sum, illic Clericus esse non possit.

§ 118. Yet I wonder that the Chap. 122 of this Council intimateth so strange a proportion of Meat and Drink to be the daily Commons of the Canonical Monks, I had thought they had lived in greater Abstinence. The proportion of Alms or Commons allowed them was, [Every day four pound of Bread, (enough for me for near 4 weeks;) and five pounds of Wine, (more than I drunk, I think, in 20 years, in Wine;) or else where Wine was scarce, they had three pounds of Wine, and three of Beer; or in great scarcity, one pound of Wine, and five of Beer. I think our ordinary Ministers drink not so much Wine in a year, as these did in a day; I mean such as live in the Countrey, and were of my Acquaintance. I wonder how any Plowman's Belly can hold four pound of Bread one day, and live, without a prefent Vomit or Purge. I have tryed long Cernario's and Lessius's diet (12 or 14 ounces of Panada, and as much Beer only in a day, without tasting any other Meat,) and found no incommodity as to Health or Pleasure; but should I eat four pound of Bread in two days, I do not think I should ever eat more without a Vomit. And how can any Man drink five pound of any ordinary Wine, and not be drunk, or dead? yea, or three Pints either. What Man's

I would hope that I understand not this Chapter in the Council, but that these Canonshad some Beggars that were to partake with them, but that I find no encouragement for my charity in the Text or History: But verily if it were as it is written, I wonder how these abstemious Monks did escape death by their Gluttony and Drunkenness one week or day without Physick; notwithstanding that the Council giveth you notice, cap. 122. lin.ult. that a pound hath but 12 ounces.

§ 119. We must not unthankfully omit what kindness Anastasius (saith Pope Paschal) shewed to the English: By negligence their House at Rome was burnt, and the Pope ran out bare-foot, and where he stood, the Fire floot *; therefore he flood bare-foot there till morning, that the Fire might gura funt, be fully quenched. But this he did for the love of St. Peter, whose Church was in danger by the Fire.

> § 120. The Papists here bring forth a Constitution out of their own Library, by which Ludovicus confirmeth to the Popes all that ever his Anceftors gave them, and addeth so much, that he was then made (if this be true) (as the Geographia Nubiensis calls him) the King of Rome indeed. And they meerly feign that Charles and Ludovicus Pius made none of these Laws of themselves, but by the Pope's advice, against plain evidence of History.

> § 121. A Convention of Abbots at Aquisgrane, and another of Bishops, and a Synod at Engelbeim follow, and one at Attiniac, in which they fay the Emperor penitently lamented his severity against his Nephew Bernard, and others, with open Confession and Penitence. And indeed his great endeavors to promote Piety, and to reform the Clergy; his frequent Councils, (in which it was he, by the advice of a few chief chosen Men, that did their business, and governed all) with the rest of his Life described by the Writer of it, and other Historians, do shew that he was justly called Pius, though Wars will cause many actions to be repented of.

> § 122. Platina faith, that Anastasius saith, that Ludovicus gave Paschal the power of freely chusing Bishops, which before was not done without the Em-perors. (The Peoples consent still supposed.)

§ 123. The Pope being dead, two are chosen (which was the 11th Schism) but Eugenius the 2d carried it, the Emperor sending his Son Lotharius to settle the Peace of the City, jamdudum Præsulum quorundam perversitate depravatam, saith the Author of the Life of Ludovicus; where Murders of the chief Men had been committed in the Schisin, and Mens Goods taken away, and much confusion made.

§ 124. In the East the Party, that were against Images, prevailed ever fince Irene the Woman that fet them up was deposed and dyed; her Son Constantine, whom she murdered, being not for them before, nor Nicephorus that deposed her after; But Leo 5 Armenus that succeeded Michael Curop.

earnest against them, and, as they called it, persecuted the Worshippers of A Prince confessed to be very profitable to the Empire; Michael Balbus that is supposed the chief of them that murdered him, reigneth in his stead: he set himself earnestly to have healed the Church-divisions of the East about Images. To that end he sent Ambassadors to Ludovicus Pius into France for his counsel, in the professing his great desire of Peace. Ludovicus called together some that he most esteemed for Learning at Paris, (which some call a Council, but were like to be more learned than the Majority in Councils) to debate and confider the business. The Paris Divines in this Debate drew up a Writing, in which they greatly finned, faith Bellarmine, in that they took on them to reprehend the Pope, and a General Council; (But do not they themselves condemn many General Councils?) In which, saith Bellarmine, they far exceeded the Author, who in the name of Carolus Mag. put forth a Book against the worshiping of Images. For he (which also the Fathers of the Frankford Council did) disallowed (or rejected) the 2d Nicene Synod, because they thought it had been celebrated without the Pope's consent *: * An un-But these Counsellors of the Emperor Lewis, confess the Council of Nice 2d for likely the worshiping of Images to be called and approved by Pope Adrian, and yet thing. they did not fear to examine, judge, and reprehend both the Synod itself, and the Epistle of Adrian to Constantine for the worship of Images, yea, and the defence of that Synod fent by Adrian to Charles M. saying, [Indiscrete nescetur feciffe in eo quod superstitiose cas adorari justit.] So (saith Bellarmine) they were not assumed to judge the Judge of themselves, and of the whole world, to feed the Pastor of all Christ's Sheep, and to teach the Teacher of all men; than which temerity, no greater can be imagined. Thus far Bellarmine.

§ 125. Here I desire the Reader to take notice,

1. That even then when the Pope was advanced to his Kingly greatness, yet as the Eastern Empire was far from obeying him, so even that one Prince that set him up, and detended him, with his Doctors and Counsellors, were far from thinking him Infallible, but reproved him, and judged him as supershitious for Image-worship, and were not herein ruled by him.

2. And judge whether most Billiops would not have judged accordingly, if they had had but the same countenance from Princes, as the Bishops in the East and these now had?

3. And judge with what Face the Militant Doctors of Rome do pretend, that all the world was then subject to the judgment of the Pope, and bid us. name any Churches that rejected it, when East and West so sur rejected it as is here confessed, even when they were grown so high, yea and Councils as well as Popes?

§ 126. Hereupon a Book was printed An. 1596. called, The Council of Paris about Images, containing,

Kk

1. The

1. The Emperor Michael's Epistle, (by which, saith Bellarmine, one would judge him one of the best Princes that ever was.)

2. The Paris Doctors Collection of Testimonies, proving, (in the middle way) that Images should not be broken contemptuously, as some would have them; nor be worshipped as the General Nicene Council, and the Pope would have them.

3. An Epistle in the Pope's name, written, (saith Bellarmine, by the French Doctors) to Michael the Emperor, shewing, that Images are neither to be suronged disgracefully, nor adored.

4. An Epistle of the Emperor Ludovicus to the Pope, desiring him to write to Michael to further this Peace of the Churches.

5. An Epittle of Ludovicus to the two Bishops whom he sent to Rome, [t direct them how to carry themselves wisely, to get the Pope's consent.] Whether this at Paris was a Council, or only a select Convention of Men chosen by the Emperor, is a Controversie of no great moment. I take the latter to be the more honourable sort of Assembly, as the world then went; and should reverence more the judgment of 20 or 12 Men, selected by such an extraordinary Prince, than of the majority of the Bishops of all Europe: As I present the judgment of those Men that by King fames were appointed to Translate the Bible, before the judgment of the major part of the whole English Clergy, of whom perhaps one in ten had a smattering in the Hebrew Tongue, and one of an hundred understood it, (at the most.)

S 127. Our modern cheated English Papists, that are taught here in England to say that they worship not Images, might here see the Fraud of their Clergy, that sit them a Faith to their interests and occasions. We confess that it is but three sorts of Images that Aquinas saith we should worship with Latria (Divine Worship:) But yet the rest are to be worshipped, say their Doctors. Why else do they so commonly condemnathis Book and Council of Ludovieus Pius, that forbiddeth both the breaking and the worshiping of them? Why doth Bellarmine purposely revile, and particularly confute this Book? Why doth Binnius recite all Bellarmine's Answer in his Can-

cil. Tom. 2. p. 529, &c?

Ans. And 1. Did not even Gregory Magas much flatter a worse Man and Murderer, Phocas? and his Successors him and many more?

2. Did not many, if not most of the Emperors, Heathen and Christian, come in by Murder, or Invasion, and Usurpation? And were Men therefore disobliged from obeying them, when they were settled, by submissive implicite consent?

3. But the venom of the Cardinal Jesuite's answer is, that he taketh it to be base Flattery, to say that Princes are by God's dispose the Governors of the Church: For then what are the Bishops for? And must the world be ridden and abused by such Men, that would turn Princes out of all Government of the Church, and understand not that the Government of the same Church, may belong to the Magistrate and the Pastors respectively, (as the Government of an Hospital to the King, and to the Physician?) May not one rule and punish by the Sword, and another by the Word, by Teaching, and the Church Keys? Is it not one thing to Fine, and Beat, and Banish, and Kill a Man, and another to sentence him unmeet for Church-Communion? Marvellous, that God permitteth the world to be deluded by such a blinded or blinding Clergy, though as learned as Bellarmine, that would make these things seem inconsistent, and separate what God hath conjoined!

See here to what the Roman Clergy would reduce Kings, they must be no Governors of the Church. And if all the Kingdom be Christians, are they not all the Church? And so the Christening of the Subjects deposeth the King, and maketh the chief Priest King that Christeneth them.

If he had faid that Kings govern Churches, but not as Churches, but as parts of the Kingdom, he had faid faltly: For they govern them as Churches, though not by the fame fort of Government as the Pastors do; as they govern not Hospitals by the same fort of Government, as the Physicians.

§ 129. In Eugeniue's Epiflle it is honeftly and truly said, that "[If there" had never been a painted or a forged Image, neither Faith, Hope nor Love, "by which Men come to the Eternal Kingdom, would have perished.] I am of Bellarmine's mind now, that this was none of the Pope's Epiflle, (but the honest Emperor's, and his Clergy Councils:) He thought it too bad for a Pope, and I think it too good for a Pope. He thinks that the Pope must be mad, if he would have so condemned his Predecessor Adrian's Acts, as this Epistle doth; and I doubt he was not so honest as to do it. But did not Bellarmine know how much more sharp and virulent Accusations Popes have laid on one another?

§ 130. CCXLVI. So powerful was Ludovicus Pins's Attempts to reform the Clergy, that it drove Pope Eugenius the 2d for shame to call a Council at Rome, (not from the Antipodes, but) of 63 Bishops, (An. 826.) who repeated some old Canons, and, among other things, forbad such Feasts and Plays as our Wakes are on any Holy-days to be used.

Empire, that none should be Pope against his consent.

§ 133. Platina, adding how he reformed the Clergy, forbidding them gay Attire, Ornaments, Sumptuousness and Vanities, faith thereupon, "Would "thou hadst lived in our times, O Ludovicus! For the Church wanteth thy " holy Institutions, and Censure, so much hath the Ecclesiastical Order poured out " itself to all Luxury and Lust.] So describing their abominable Pride and Vanity.

§ 134. Pope Gregory added so much to the good works of his Predecesfors, by mending, building, adorning fo many Temples, Pillars and Posts, with Stones, Veltments, Silver, &c. and removing the Bones of Saints, (if he miltook not) that it is no wonder if Rome grew into greater pomp and splendor than ever before.

§ 135. This godly Emperor having three Sons by his first Wife, and marrying a fecond, having two Sons by her; the Sons of the first Wife hated the fecond Wife, thinking her Son Charles had too much favor. One Son (Pepin) apprehended his Father, and the eldest (Lotharius) came in and approved it, and the 3d joined with them, and wickedly deposed him from his Kingdom: of which anon.

6 136. Ludovicus called Councils at Paris, Mentz, Lyons, and Tholonfe, for Reformation; some say upon the warning of a Maid that being possessed of the Devil; and speaking Latine, said that this Devil executed Judgments on the Land for their Sins, Injustice, &c. CCXLVII. The Council at Paris wrote a large Book for Reformation, An. 829. with the rest of this Emperor's Constitutions, worthy to be Translated for the common good, that all might see the difference between Reformers and turbulent Hereticks and Hereticators, and proud aspiring Prelates. The Book is a Treatise of pious Di-The 50th Chapter, reproving the breach of the Lord's day, saith, that "By fight and by certain relation they have notice, that many working " on that day have been killed with Thunderbolts, some punished by sudden "Convulsions, some by visible Fire, their Flesh and Bones being in a moment "consumed and turned into ashes, and many other such terrible judgments. Therefore they require that as the Jews keep their Sabbath, all Men much more do spiritually observe this day of the Lord.

The second Book doth notably shew the duty of Kings and Magi-

The last Chapter requireth those that are far from the Church, to meet for Prayer in other places, as being acceptable to God.

In the 8th Capitul. (Bin. p. 569.) the Bishops say, [Beati Petri vicem indigni gerimus.] So that the Pope is not Peter's onely Successor; others represent him, if this Council did not mistake.

§ 137. CCXLVIII. We come now to a Council which sheweth you, that the good Canons made by the Emperor for Church-Reformation, were far from reforming the generality of the Bishops. It is the Council at Compendium, which too compendiously deposed the godly Emperor, of whom the world was not worthy.

Calumniators pretended that one Bernhard a Courtier lay with Fudith the Emperor's fecond Wife: The Sons of his first Wife hating her; Pepin, whom his Father had made King of Italy, on this pretence Trayteroully raileth Arms against his Father. Lotharius, the eldest Son, too much consenting, perfuaded his Father to let a meeting without Arms, at Neomagus, prevent a War. At that meeting the Nobles, Parentis Imperium legitime prorogabant, faith Binnius, p. 575, and Pepin took up Arms again. The Father conquereth his Son, and taketh him Prisoner, and might justly have taken away his life, but he was stol'n out of Prison in the night. Ludovicus depriveth him of his Kingdom of Italy, and divideth it between his two Sons by the second Wife, Charles and Rodolphus. Hereupon Lotharius the eldest rebelling, knew not how to conquer his godly and prosperous Father but by the Bishops: Them he draweth into his Conspiracy, that as Binnius himself saith, "[Ut " quem filii armis imperio deponere non possent, horum saltem nundinariorum "Antistitum suffragio & judicio, honore ac potestate imperiali privaretur : suc-" cessit impies conatus impiissimus. The last means of Treason was a Council of the base mercenary Bishops; a wicked Attempt that served these wicked Men, and did the Feat. Ebbo the Archbishop of Rhemes, (of a base original) and enow more fuch Prelates were not wanting. The Emperor had before voluntarily lamented his putting out the eyes of his Kinsman Bernard a Rebel, (of which he dyed) as too cruel, (when now no Prince scrupleth Hanging, or Beheading open Rebels.) The Church had satisfaction by his voluntary Penance, for that which few Men will think a Fault. And what do these Bishops now, but become their Sovereign's Judges, yea, and that when he was absent, and condemn him unheard, for this former Fault. the Cafe.

1. They condemn their King to be deposed, who were Subjects.

2. Yea, Clergy-men, that had least to do with State Affairs.

3. Yea, and that for a Fault, which perhaps was but Justice, and no Fault.

4: Or if it were a Fault, was before judged and remitted. And did godly Lewis cherish Christian Bishops so zealously, for this use, so basely and trayterously to depose him?

5. Yea, .

5. Yea, and to join in the horrid Rebellion of unnatural Sons, to accomplish their deligns.

6. And to tempt Princes to hate Religion, when in Nomine Domini, the pretence of Religion shall do greater wickedness by Prelates, than the Rebels Arms was able to perform.

Saith the Author of the Life of Ludovicus Pius, [This judgment some few gain-fayed, more consented to it: the greatest part, as it useth to be in such (a) O. cases (a), consented by word, for fear of offending their Leaders (b). They judged him, absent and unheard, neither confessing nor convict, before the Bodies of St. Medard Confessor, and St. Sebastian Martyr, to lay down his Arms (c), (b) Whom and forced him to lay them before the Altar; and cloathing him in a black garment, under a strict Guard, they thrust him into Prison. By this testimeny, faith Binnius, it is certainly proved that the whole business was done by force morethan and fear, and coloured with the false pigment of Religion. Thus was the God and best of Princes, after all his services for the Prelates, and kindness to his Sons, deposed, and basely used by both, against Nature and Religion.

His first Restauration, when he had been before deposed, was by the Gerthe use of mans: How he was restored the second time, I find not certainly; some Reliques? would give Pope Gregory the honour of it. It is likeliest that the interest which his goodness had got in the People, with the odiousness of his Sons and Bishops Acts, did it: But fully restored, after all this, he was. And being formewhat backward to forgive Lotharius, he filled France with new Wars, till the Emperor for Peace did pardon all. But Ebbo, Archbishop of Rhemes, and Agobard, Bishop of Lyons, were deposed, as Leaders of the Treason; and Ebbo banished, and restored by Lotharius when his Father dyed; yea, and fent as a fit Man to convert the Normans by Pope Paschal's mission, being made Bishop of Hildestein in Saxony, by Ludovic King of Germany, see Petavius Hist. I. 8. c. 8.

Shortly after, An. 840. the Emperor (follicited yet to more Wars by his own Sons, about dividing the Kingdoms) dyed, a direful Eclipse of the Sun foregoing his death, the day before Ascension-day.

§ 138. That you may see the base Hypocrisie of these Trayterous Bishops, I will recite their words in the Council that condemned the best of Emperors; but his Imprisonment they leave out.

But in the purging of Women, in unjust · Judgments, in false Witnesses and Perjuries, which have been committed in his ' presence by his permission, bow much he hath offended God he himself know- eth.

'VI. Of divers Expeditions which he hath made in the Kingdom commit-'ted to him, not only unprofitably, but also burtfully without counsel and profit; 6 in which many and innumerable beinoms Crimes were committed in the Chri-' stian People, in Murders and Perjuries, in Sacriledge and Adulteries, in Rapines, in Burnings, either in the Churches of God, or divers other places, in Plunderings and oppressing of the Poor, by miserable usage, and almost unheard of ' among Christians; which all, as is aforesaid, restect on the Author.

VII. In the divisions of the Empire rashly made by him, against the com-"mon peace, and the safety of the whole Empire, for his own will; and the Oath which compelled all the people to swear, that they would all against his ' Sons as Enemies, when he might have pacified them by Fatherly Authority, and the counsel of his faithful People.

VIII. That so many Mischiefs and Crimes committed in the Kingdom committed to him, by his negligence and improvidence overe not enough, which yet cannot be numbred, by which the Kingdom was evidently distraced and endangered: but moreover to add to the heap of miseries, he lustly drew all the People of his power to their common destruction, when he ought to have been to his People the Captain of safety and of peace, when the Divine Piety had decreed to have mercy of his People by an unheard of and invisible manner, and by preaching in our ages.

For these things therefore, and in all these things which are before recited, confessing himself guilty before the Priests, (or Bishops) or all the People, with tears, and protesting that in all these things he simmed, he desired publick Pennance, that so he might satisfie the Church by repenting, which he had scandatized by simming; and as he was a scandal by neglecting many things, so he

* professed he would be an example by undergoing due Pennance.

And after this Confession he delivered to the Bishops the Paper of his Guilts and Confession for future memorial, and they laid it on the Altar; and then he put off his military Girdle and laid it on the Altar, and stripping himself of his secular Habit, he took the Habit of a Penitent put on him by the hands of "Here is a 'the Bishops, that after so great and such Pennance*, no Man after may return new fort 'to a secular Militia.

These things thus done, it pleased them that every Bishop should write in his own Papers how the matter was done, and should strengthen it by his own sub-scription, and offer it to Prince Lotharius, thus strengthned in memory of the Fact. To conclude, it seemed good to us all that were present, to put the sum of all the Papers, and of so great a business into one Brewiate, and to roborate it by the subscription of us all with our hands, as is hereafter demonstrated.—

The Author of the Life of Ludovicus addeth, '[Pullaque indutum vefte, `adbibitá magnâ custodiâ sub tectum quoddam retrudunt.]

Here you see the Tryal of the godly Emperor, the Articles exhibited against him in the High Court of Episcopal Justice, and the use of Penance, and of laying on of the Bishops hands, in investing him in the Garb of perpetual Penance. What wonder if the Pope ascended to such power, when ordinary Bishops in the best governed and instructed Countrey then in the world, obtained such power; even by the name and abuse of the POWER OF THE KEYS? Saith Binnius, [Thaganus therefore justly for this cause declasmeth against Ebbo, Bishop of Rhemes, the Leader, as impudicum & crudelissimum Episcopum!] And what were they that would thus follow him?

§ 140. CCXLIX. But the next Council was forced to do better, (for usually the Bishops followed the stronger side;) in Theodorus Villa they caused Ebbo to depose himself from his Bishoprick, and the rest excused themselves that they did it by necessity and fear, and were all forgiven, Bin.p. 575. And yet will the Bishops say, that this Emperor was not humble and mertiful?

*Here is a new fort of. Composition of the Bishops hands, to depose a King so as never to be restored:
But it failed.

Au. 835.

§ 141. CCL. After his Restauration, An. 836. Ludovicus caused a Council at Aquisgrane, to renew the Laws for the Resormation of the Clergy and Abbots, with the Instructions and Rules for Kings themselves at large laid down. And here they determined, that all Bishops hereafter that were Rebels and Traytors, should be deposed, and Lay-men anathematized. But they sufficiently minded the Power and Dignity of the Bishops to be upheld.

§ 142. There is a Treatise in Binnius, p. 583. in which the Statutes of the Synods of Aquisgrane are opened and confirmed by Scripture.

§ 143. CCLI. An. 836. Binnius tells us, that in the deposing of the Emperor, Agobertus, Bishop of Lyons, and Bernard, Bishop of Vienne, having been Leaders with Ebbo, at the Council at Theod, Villa, sled, and the Emperor and all his Sons, save Lotharius, being here present at a Council at Lyons, they being summoned, appeared not, and Sentence was put off, because they were absent.

§ 144. An. 839. Pepin the Emperor's Son dying, he passed by his disobedient Nephew Pepin, and divided that Kingdom of Aquitain only between his Sons Lotharius and Charles; whereupon his Son Ludovicus was offended, and with them of Aquitain raised Rebellion again, and by a Convention at Cabilone, and after it, reconciliation was made.

§ 145. The Emperor Ludovicus Pins dying An. 840. aged 64, his Sons fell together in Wars for his Kingdoms.

Lotharius the eldest, that had used his Father so trayterously and unnaturally, sought too great a part for himself, and came to a War with Ludovic and Charles, who conquered him, and put him to a shameful slight, An. 841. in which Fight, say Historians, a greater slaughter was made of the French, than was ever known in the memory of man. This was the man that deposed his Father for the slaughter of the Subjects by his Wars against him.

The next year they fought again, and he was again overcome.

§ 146. CCLII. It's easie then to conjecture which way the next Council (which was at Aquisgrane) would go: The conquering Princes made the Bishops their Counsellors, when they had made Lotharius flie out of the Countrey, what they should do with his Kingdom; and, faith Binnius, they received the answer which Nithardus li. 1. describeth in these words, ['The Bishops considering the deeds of Lotharius from the beginning, how he had ' driven his Father out of his Kingdom; how he had made the Christian People ' perjured by his Covetousness; how oft he had frustrated the Oath he made to bis Fathers, and his Brethren; bow oft, since his Fathers death, he had attempted to disinberit his Brethren; how many Murders, Adulteries, Burnings, ' and all kind of heinous deeds the Universal Church suffered by his most wicked Covetousness: And that he neither had any knowledge of governing the 'Commonwealth, nor could men find any footsteps of goodness of will in governing. For which causes deservedly, and by the just judgment of God Al-"mighty, they said he fled first in Battel, and then from his Kingdom: There fore all (the Bishops) imanimously agree and consent, that for his wickedness God bath cast him out, and hath delivered his Kingdom to his Brothers that e are better than he. But the Bishops did not give them this liberty, till they openly asked them, whether they would govern it as their ejected Brother did, or according to the will of God. They answered, that as far as God should ' enable them, they would govern themselves and theirs according to God's will. By God's Authority ([ay they) we warn, exhort and command; that you un-' dertake it, and rule it according to the will of God. \ So far Nichard.

§ 147. You see here that it is no wonder that the Pope took upon him to fet up and take down, to make and unmake Kings, when the subject Bishops did it by their greatest Sovereigns. And you see here God's just judgment on a rebellious Son, and the shameful mutability of a temporizing Clergy. And how prefumptuous Bishops have abused Religion, the use of the Keys and the Name of God, to the confusions and calamities of the world. But Lotharius after this Deposition reigned.

§ 148. All these times Images were cast out in the Eastern Empire, even all the Reign of Leo the 5th, and of Michael Balbus, (however he recalled Theodorus Studita from Prison) and of Theophilus that succeeded him; Petavius li. 8. c. 9. faith, that Theophilus followed his Father in perfecuting the Worshipers of Images, but yet was a most strict requirer of Justice, and reigning 12 years and three months, died An. 84.1. the next year after the death of Ludovicus Pius. He left his Son Michael, a Child, Emperor, under the Rule of his Mother Theodora.

§ 149. And now come up Images again by a Woman, which ever since a Womans Reign almost had been cast out; she ruled 14 years, just as Irene did, and sped as she; for when her Son came to age, he deposed her. this time Methodius first, and Ignatius after, were made Patriarchs of Constan-And Bardas (made Cæsar) deposed Ignatius, because he would not excommunicate Theodora when she was deposed, and set up the learned Photius in his place, that came in as Nectarius had done from the Laity, by sudden Ordination: one honoured even by the Papifts for his great learning, but reviled for being against them.

§ 150. CCLIII. An. 842. This Woman had presently so much power Sentences on the mutable Bishops, as in a Council at Constant. to turn them to be again for Images, and as Theophanes saith, [Suddenly changing their judgment, they strong for cursed those that opposed Images; and so after 120 years rejection they were restored, and the Nicene 2d Council owned without any great difficulty: And here all that were for Images accounted it Godliness, and called them Ungodly that were against it, and this Woman Theodora is stilled for it a very professeth godly Woman, (though the other called it Idolatry;) and so while one side was cryed down as Profane, and the other as Idolatrous; the poor Church felt to its forrow, that Images were not taken for things indifferent.

Theophanes railing at John the Patriarch of Constant. Saith, that [Seeing To sudden and unexpected a change, he that ruled impiously was struck-with such a stupor and blindness of mind, that he was ready to have killed himself; and being the head of all the wickedness, of an ungodly judgment, that had led the Confuter? § 151. The Pope dying, Johan. Diacenus seizeth on the place by force; but Sergius is chosen against him, and prevaileth: In whose beginning Lotharius sent his Son Ludovicus with an Army to Rome *, Sigibert saith to be * Think-the Consirmer of the Pope, and claim that right; others say, to be crowned ing they To Lotharius they sware obedience, but not to his Son. Some great debate Anastasius tells us that a great company of Bishops had against the Pope and have refisted his Party, but he tells us not what it was, but that the Pope was too hard for them, and glad when the French were gone.

§ 152. It's before said, that after the Bishop's depoling him, Lotharius was mitted restored, the three Brothers agreeing, that Ludovicus should have Germany, himself to and part of France, and Charles have France, and Lotharius Narbon and Italy was desi-

acts.) And a Council at Bellovacum makes Hincmarus Bishop.

§ 153. Under Carolus Calvus the Church-Lands were much alienated, especially Abbots Lands, to Nobles and other Lay-men. Whereupon CCLV. a Council at Melda (Meaulx) did by Ansegisus and Bernardus Levita draw up a Book of seven Parts, lamenting the sins of Christians, and the Sacriledge of the Laity, and offered it to the King, who resused it, the Nobles being against it: For which (say the bold Expositors of God's Providences) the Normans by Invalion troubled the Land.

§ 154. Leo the 4th became Pope; they durst not consecrate him without the Emperor's authority, Anastas. in Bin. p. 618. This Pope wrought great Miracles, fay they. 1. He conquered a Bafilisk that killed men by his looks, (as St. George conquered the Dragon.) 2. By the Cross he stopt a fire in the City: But his good works contain a Volumn in Anastasus, viz. the many Churches that he adorned, enriched, repaired; the filver Vessels and Ornaments that he gave, the Posts and Pillars, and Altars that he beautified, and the glory that he added to the Roman City and Churches, ϕc . yea, when the Saracens came and spoiled St. Peter's Church in the Suburbs of Rome, he caused the faid Suburbs to be walled and fortified, as a new City, calling it Leonina from his name: And he made two or three Prayers of fix or feven lines long, to defire God's protection of it, by the intercellion of St. Peter. And he writeth a notable Homily, in which he comprize th much of the Canons, teaching them all the Arts, Gestures, and Ceremonies of canting the Mass; and precifely ordereth, that every Priest do learn his Lesson; and that if any of them be illiterate, (that cannot read) he shall be suspended till he amend, (learn to read;) so learned was the Clergy in that Age.

§ 155. By the way, the oft mention here of finging the Mass, doth remember me to note that which is much over-looked; viz. How Liturgies imposed first came up, or were mostly propagated without any exception or opposition: It was chiefly because they did fing them, and had fitted them accordingly to their finging Notes, like our Cathedral singing of our reading Psalms and Prayers: And we all know that the People or Minister cannot make Psalms ex tempore, but we must and do use forms in finging; but the Prayers that were not sung, but said, were longer left free to the Speakers present skill.

§ 156. CCLVI. An. 847. in a Council at Paris, Lotharius caused the cause of Ebbo to be reviewed; but after Summons, he would never appear to his death.

§ 157. CCLVII. A Council at Mentz, An. 847. repeated many Eccle-fiastical Canons: Among others, Murderers still, instead of death, are but put upon long removal from the Communion, no, though they murder Priests.

In this Council a Woman called Thiota, was judged to be whipt, because she had professed to have Revelations foretelling the day of judgment that year, putting the People in sear, and even many Priests followed her as a Prophetes; she confessed that a certain Priest persuaded her to do it for gain.

Of the Councils about Ignatius and Photius, and some others.

§ 1. N. 848. A Synod at Mentz under Rabanus condemned Go-CCLVII. A descalcus a Presbyter, and Monk of Rhemes, as a Predestinarian Heretick. Hinemarus Ep. ad P. Nicel. reciteth his Heresics to be,

1. [That as God hath predestinated some to life eternal, so others to death eternal: That he would not have all Men saved, but only those that are sa' ved, else he should have his Will frustrate, and not be Omnipotent.

2. 'That Christ dyed not for 'all, but only for the Elect, who are the world 'that he redeemed; others he redeemeth by Baptism, but not by dying for them.

3. 'That no one shall perist that Christ dyed for.

4. He addeth, (how truly I know not,) 'That he afferteth a threefold 'Deity in the Trinity of Persons.] They laid him in Prison, and Hinemarus wrote to the Pope to know what to do with him, saying, 'That he must' employ a very able Man to keep him, for he wraps People, even the meanly learned, into admiration of him, reciting Scripture and Fathers distorted whole days together. Some Bishops took his part.

§ 2. They say a Synod at Tours wrote an Admonition to one Nomenoius the King's Lieutenant in Britany, for Tyranny and Oppression, and casting out the just Bishops, and putting in Mercenaries, Thieves and Robbers; Bin.

p. 638. and for despising the warnings of the Pope and Bishops.

§ 3. Canifins tells us of a Concilium Regiaticinum, regulating Bishops, and Cap. 6. ordaining that the Arch-Presbyter examine every Master of a Family personally, and take account of their Families and Lives, and receive their Confessions: And Cap. 7. that a Presbyter in the absence of the Bishop, may reconcile a Penitent by his command. Cap. 13. That in the Villages Arch-Presbyters be set over the Lower-Presbyters. C. 12. That none that are denied Communion, may have any Military or Civil Office; and so every Bishop is Master of the Magistrates.

64. CCLVIII. The Saracens in Spain perfecuting the Christians, forced the Bishops to meet in Council at Corduba, and decree against Martyrdom, and the Memorial of Martyrs, saith Binnus, p. 643. [Holding a Satanical Meeting, forbad Martyrdom, and took away the Honour of Martyrs, saying, That they that were not violently drawn to deny the Faith, but offered themfelves to danger of their own accord, are not to be numbred with the Martyrs, not working Miraeles as, the Martyrs did, nor their Bodies remaining unformate.

§ 5. A Synod at Mentz, An. 852. did we know not what. But 853. CCLIX. one at Soisons was approved by Pope Benedict, and reprobated by Pope Nicolas (Bin. p. 648.) (yet both infallible.) And it is no wonder, for it is about a hard Point, and in which the Papacy is much concerned. When Ebbo was deposed and banished, Lotharius restored him for a while, and he intruded again, and ordained many Priests. Hinemarus succeeding in his life-time, rejecteth all those that he thus ordained. A Council is called to judge whether their Ordination was valid or null. The Council decreed, that "; Whatever in Ecclesiastical Ordinations the said Ebbo had done after his 6 damnation, according to the Traditions of the Apostolick Seat, as is read in the Deeds of the Fopes, except Sacred Baptism, which is perfected in the name of the Trinity, shall be all void and null, and those ordained by him in whatever part of the world they shall be Fugitives or wander, because they cannot flie from Goa's judyment, let them he held deprived of all Ecclefiaftical Degrees by the judgment of the Holy Ghost. And yet these Men had shewed Letters from the King and divers Bishops, for their reception as Presbyters, but the Synod faid they were counterfeit.

Another Case was this, one Halduinus had been made Deacon by Ebbo, and Confecrated Presbyter and Abbot by Lupus Bishop of Catalonia. byter was ordained out of his own Jurisdiction to the Church of Rhemes: This being questioned, an Archdeacon shewed the King's Letters, commanding the Ordination of Halduinus, Lupus ordained him, in obedience to the King, without examining, (there being then no Bilhop at Rhemes.) Whereupon the Synod decreed, according to the Canons, (fay they) 'That they that ' are made Presbyters without examination by ignorance, or by diffimulation of the Ordainers, when they are known, shall be deposed; because the Catholick Church defendeth (but) that which is irreprehensible. And it was shewed in Concil. Sardic. c. 9. and other Councils and Decrees, 'That the faid Bishop touched nothing of his Ordination, but that he that leaped to the Priesthood without the degree of Deacon*, he ought to retire (refilire) to due degradation.

§ 6. Here you see the Nullification even of the Ordinations of an ejected Archbishop, yea, and of a lawful Bishop, when he makes a Presbyter of one that was by fuch an ejected Bishop made Deacon, and when he ordaineth unworthily without due examination. And if this hold, what interruptions have there been in the Succession of Bishops, especially in the Roman Seat!

§ 7. Anastasius a Cardinal, Presbyter of Rome, betook himself to the Emperor, solliciting him to depose Pope Leo the 4th, and to place him in his stead. The Pope hearing it, calleth him home to his charge, from whence he had been absent five years: but he would not return, nor appear, wherefore CCLX the Pope called a Council at Rome, which deposed him.

§ 8. CCLXI. Ignatius the Patriarch of Constantinople, called a Council to depose Gregory Bishop of Syracusa; They desired Pope Leo's confirmation: He delaying it, dyeth. Gregory in the mean time prevaileth against Ignatius, who is cast out, and Photius put in, and a grievous Schism begun.

§ 9. CCLXII. An. 855. under Lotharius Remigius Lugdum and 12 other Bishops, are called a Council at Valence, who made 23 Canons or Decrees, with great Judgment and Piety, and shewed how much more venerable a Council of a few wife Bishops are, than greater Councils, where the most are weak. Their first work was against those that they called the Predestinatianos, where Cap. 2. they determine, Non ipfos malos Deum ideo perire velle quia · boni boni esse non potuerunt, sed quia boni esse nolucrunt. Cap. 3. Prædestinaticnem electorum ad vitam, o prædestinationem impiorum ad mortem sidenter satemur: In electione tamen salvandorum misericordiam Dei præcedere meritum bonum,in damnatione autem periturorum meritum malum præcedere justum 'Dei judicium: Prædestinatione autem Deum ea tantum statusse quæ ipse vel 'gratuità misericordia vel justo judicio facturus erat .-- In malis vero insorum 'malitiam præscîsse, quia ex ipsis est; non prædestinásse, quia ex illo non est. Panam sane malum meritum eorum sequentem, uti Deum, qui omnia prospicit 'prascivisse & pradestinasse, quia justus est: apud quem est, ut S. Augustinus 'ait, de omnibus omnino rebus, tam fixa sententia, quam certa præscientià:----Verum aliguos ad malum prædestinatos esse divina potestate, vielelicet ut quasi 'aliud esse non possent, non solum non credimus, sed ctians si sunt, qui tantum 'malum credere velint, cum omni detestatione, sicut Arausica Synodus, illis Ana-'thema dicimus. 'The sum is, God's mercy goeth before Man's merit, but his Predestination to punishment is only on the foresight of their sin, which he decreeth not, because he causeth not.

Cap. 3. 'About Christ's death they like not those that say be dyed for 'all that from the days of Adam till then had been damned; but would have 'all take up with this simple Dostrine, that God so loved the world, that he gave his onely begotten Son, that whoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

Cap. 4. 'They conclude that all true Believers regenerate by water and the Spirit, have their fins washed by the blood of Christ: And they could not have true Regeneration, if they had not true Redemption. But of the multitude of the faithful and redeemed, some are eternally saved, because they persevere; others are lost, because they persevere not in the salvation of faith which they ' had received, and so make woid the grace of redemption.

Cap. 6. About Grace and infirmed Free-will restored and healed by 'Christ, they exhort Men to stick to the Scriptures, and the Councils of Africa ' and Orange, and not to follow the Aniles pend Fabulas Scotorum, (I suppote they mean the Followers of Johan. Scotts Erignenæ, who was murdered by his Scholars 833, whom Godescaleus followed) . lest they should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ: Remembring Christians that while they are vexed with the prevalency of the wicked in the world, they should not vex the sad Congregations with such superfluous things.

Cap. 7. They advise, that because Bishops were set over the Cities that were untryed and almost ignorant of Letters *, and unlike the Apostolick Prescript, by which means the Ecclesiafrical vigor is lost, that they would petition the would Prince, that when a Bishop was wanting, the Canonical Election by the Clergy, those 'and the People, might be permitted, (because the King was used to thrust make? his Favorites on the People,) 'that Men of tryed knowledge and life, and not 'illiterate Men, blinded by covetou ness, might be set as Bishops over the Flocks.

§ 10. CCLXIII. An. 855. A Council was held at Papia in Italy by the Order of the Emperor Ludwices, for the Reformation of the corrupt Cler-M m gy; where they ordered that the Clergy and People chuse the Bishops, and yet that the Laity on pretence of their Electing Power, trample not on the Arch-Presbyter; and that great Mens Chappels empty not the Churches: (with other old Canons recited.)

§ 11. Lotharins, that so mischievously sought for the Empire against his Father and Brethren, grew weary of what he had, and divided his 3d part, (which was the Empire of Italy, with Burgundy and Lorrain,) into three parts, and gave his Son Lewis the Empire in Italy; and his Son Lotharius, Lorrain; and his Son Charles, Burgundy; and entered himself into a Monastery: But Charles dying, the other two Brethren divided his Dominion, and Lyons, Belanson and Vienna fell to Lotharius.

§ 12. We come now to the Reign of Pope Joane, according to a great number of their own Historians; but David Blondel hath recited the Testimonies of multitudes on both sides, and after all impartially past his conjecture, that the Story was not true; whose judgment I reverence, and think most probable.

Whether at that time there was a John the 8th or none till him that some call John the 9th after Adrian the 2d, is uncertain.

§ 13. Leo dying, (if there was no John or Joane between) a Schism was made; the People most chusing Benedict, and the Agents of the Emperor, with part of the People and Bishops, chusing one Anastasius a Cardinal Presbyter, that had been Excommunicate by a former Pope. Anastasius thought his choice so sure, that entering Leonina, (the Roman Suburbs) he went into St. Peter's own Church, and broke down and burnt the Images, and with a Mattock cast down to the ground even the Image of Christ, and the Virgin Mary. They went on and imprisoned Benedict, (quem omnis Romana Plebs eligerat, saith Anast. in Bin. p. 659.) But while the great Men and Officers of the Emperor did their utmost to constrain the People to consent to Anastasius, they could not prevail, and so they were sain to yield to the multitude to end the Tumult and Consusion, and Benedict had the place.

§ 14. By this Story it appeareth, 1. That this Anastasius was against Images, and that was like enough to be part of the cause why he had five years lest his Church in Rome before, and refused to appear before Pope or Council. 2. That when the Emperor and his Officers were so violent for his choice, even after he had broken down the Images in St. Peter's Church, it is apparent that the Party even about Rome, and in the West, which was against Images, was not finall, though they made no ftir:

§ 15. This Pope Benedict was he that confirmed Hinemarus's Council, which nullified Ebbo's Ordinations aforesaid, as is to be seen in his first Epist. Bin. p. 662, &c.

§ 16. An. 856. Charles Calvus, by a Synods concurrence at Cariffiac, sent Orders against Church-Robbers very strict.

And 857, a Council at Ment'z was held CCLXIV, where Gunthar, Bishop of Colon, sent a Letter, that '[A terrible Tempest arose, in which the People for fear all ran into St. Peter's Church: And the Church-beams cracking, as they fell a praying to God for mercy, suddenly a mishapen Thunderbolt, like a · fiery Dragon, pierced and tore the Church, and at one stroke killed three men among all the multitude, (though those three stood in several places) that is, one Priest that stood at St. Peter's Altar, one Deacon that stood at St. Denis's · Altar, and one Lay-man at St. Mary's Altar: And fix others were struck al-'most dead, but recovered. At Trevirs also were many Prodigies.

§ 17. Pope Nicolas 1. is chosen by the Emperor Ludovicus consent, and all the People. He greatly advanceth the Roman Seat by his activity, and much by doing justice to the People that were oppressed by Tyrannical Prelates. He had a great conflict with John Bishop of Ravenna, who long despised him, and denied him his subjection: But the Emperor took the Pope's part, and so poor John was fain to submit, and cry miseremini mei, peto misereri mei, Anast. in Bin. p. 667. and to take an Oath of subjection to the § 18. The great Schism now rose at Constantinople, whether Ignatius or Photius should be Patriarch; Michael the Emperor deposing Ignatius by the counsel of his Uncle Bardas, and putting in Photius. The Pope kept up his power by interpoling, uncalled, into all fuch matters. He fent some Bishops as Legates to counsel them by a Synod to decide the difference: When these Bishops came thither, they consented to Photius against Ignatius. The Pope faid they were bribed, and false to their trust, and deposed them, (though he thought he chose the best he had;) of which more anon.

§ 19. Yet we have not done with worldly Prelates. King Lotharus was weary of his Wife, and loved a Whore (Waldrada.) He openeth his case to the Bishops. They call a Council, and approve of his Divorce, and his Marriage with Waldrada. The two great Archbishops of Colen and Triers, are the Leaders. The Pope is against it, and accuseth the Bishops of owning Adultery; They appear at Rome, and he condemneth them of Impudency, while (with some immodest words) they undertake to justifie the thing, (of which more anon.) He chargeth the Bishops of heinous Villany, and they despised him. He condemneth the Concilium Metense*, in which the *At Moss. Adultery was allowed.

§ 20. This Pope falls out with Hinemarus Bishop of Rhemes, justifying against him the cause of Rethalders, whom he had deposed.

He sends Messengers to the King of Bulgaria converted in his days, whom the Emperor's Officers stop and abuse. The Adversaries of Images were still strong at Constantinople. Anast. & Bin. p. 670, &c.

Epist. 2. He useth a notable Argument for Images, viz. God is known only in the Image of his Works: Why then may we not make Images of the Saints? (But why must Men be compelled to do it, or else be Hereticks? and why must they be worshipped?)

Epift. 5. He is pitifully put to it, to justifie the Election of Nectarius and Ambrose, and yet to condemn that of Photius for being a Lay-man.

Ep. 6. the same again in the instance also of Tarasius.

§ 21. The 8th Epistle of this Pope Nicolas to the Emperor Michael, doth fhew M m 2 shew that he had now shaken off the Imperial Power; and therefore chargeth his Letters as full of Blasphemy, Injury, Madness, &c. partly for being so fawcy as to bid the Pope, [Send some to him.] which he saith was far from the godly Emperors. Partly for blaming the deeds of the Prelates, when he faith, Their words must be regarded, and their authority, and not their deeds. Partly for calling the Latine Tongue barbarous and Scythian, in comparison of the Greek, which he faith is to reproach God that made it. Partly for faying, that the Council that deposed Ignatius, and set up Photius, was of the same number of Bishops as the first Council of Nice; where this high Pope's answer is worth the notice of our Papists, Bin. p.689. [The small 'number hurteth not, where Piety aboundeth: Nor doth multitude profit, where Impiety reigneth. Yea, by how much the more numerous is the Congregation of the malignant, by so much the stronger are they to do mischief: Nor must men 'glory in numbers, when they fight not against the Rulers of the darkness of this world, and spiritual wickedness .-- Glory not therefore in multitude, because it is not the multitude but the cause, that justifieth or damneth .-- Fear not little 'Flocks, &c.] This Doctrine was then fittest for the Pope in his Minority: But the Letter is a Book pleading for the Roman Grandure, and striving to bring the Emperor with others under his power.

§ 22. In his Answer and Laws to the Bulgarians, he disliketh their Severities against one that had pretended to be a Priest, when he was not, and had baptized many, concluding that he had saved many, and that they were not to be re-baptized, Bin. p. 772. No, not though he were no Christian that baptized them, as after Consul. Cap. 104. p. 782.

To the Case: Who are Patriarchs? he faith properly they only that have succeeded Apostles, which were only three, Rome, Alexandria and Antioch, but improperly only Constantinople and Ferusalem. (But why then are not Ephesus, Corinth, Philippi, &c. Patriarchates?) And why had the rest of the Apostles no Successors? Had they no Churches?

§ 23. This Pope having Western security, threatned Excommunication to the Emperor of the East, unless he would depose Photius, and restore Ignatius; and threatned Lotharius, for the cause of his rejected Wise, and the Marriage of another, as aforesaid; and swaggered against Hinemarus Rhemensis, for his deposing Rothaldus a Bishop, and forced him to yield, and condemned his Synod at Metz, and would have proved that Pope Benedict had not confirmed it. He and other Popes did make the Contentions of Bishops as well as of Princes a great means of their rising, taking the part of him that appealed to Rome as injured, (and very oft of the truly injured.) By which means they had one Party still for them, and all injured persons were ready to slie to them for help.

He Excommunicated the Bishops of Colen and Triers. The poor Bishops that would fain be on the stronger side, began now to be at a loss, to know whether the Emperor or the Pope was the strongest. They followed the Emperor, and resisted the Pope awhile. The King and Hinemarus forbad Rothaldus going to Rome, and imprisoned him: But the Pope wearied them out, by reason of the divisions of the Empire and Kingdom into so many hands of the French Line, that being in continual suspicion of each other, they needed the Pope's help.

Bin. p. 790. He ordereth Pennance (instead of just death) for one Cumarus that had murdered three of his own Sons, viz. That for three years he pray at the Church-door, and that for seven years he abstain from Wine three days in a week, and for three years to go without shoes, allowing him to eat Milk and Cheese, but not Flesh, and to enjoy his Possession, but not have the Sacrament for seven years.

§ 24. His Decretals begin, 'That the Emperor's Judgments and Laws are below the Canons, and cannot dissolve them or prejudice them.

Tit. 4. 1. He faith, '[All Patriarchal Dignity, all Metropolitical Prima-'cy, all Bishops Chairs, and the dignity of Churches of what Order soewer were 'instituted by the Church of Rome: But it's he only did found it, and erect it 'on the Rock of Faith now beginning, who to St. Peter, the Key-bearer of eter-'nal life, did commit the Rights both of the Terrene and the Celestial Em-

Reader, Had not the abuse of Humane Patriarchal Power, and of Excommunications got up very high, when this bold Pope made this Decree? What! All Churches in the World made only by Rome? Was not Jerusalem, Antioch, and many another made before it? Did Christ say any thing of Rome? Did not other Apostles build Churches by the same Apostolick Commission as Peter had? Is not the Church built on the soundation-of Prophets and Apostles, Christ being the Head-corner Stone? Did not others build the Church of Rome before Peter did it? Did not Peter build other Churches before Rome? Where and when did Christ give Peter the Imperial Power of Earth and Heaven? Did he not decide the Controversie who should be the chief or greatest, with a prohibition of all Imperial Power, (With you it shall not be so?)

§ 25. But the next Dectee casteth Rome as low, as this over-raised it. If any one by Money, or Humane Favor, or by Popular or Military Tumult, be inthresend in the Apostolick Scats, without the Concordant and Canonical Election of the Cardinals of that Church, and then of the following Religious Clerks, let him not be accounted a Pope, or Apostolical, but Apostatical.] By which Rome hath had so sew Popes indeed, and so many Apostates, that it hath no show of an uninterrupted Succession to boast of.

§ 26. Tit. 4. c. 7. He claimeth Authority to absolve Men from Oaths, and all Obligations made by the violence and constraint of bad Men, and so absolve th the Archbishop of Triers. (A wicked Decree for Perjury:) (As if in materia licita, a Man that sweareth for Fear, were not bound? And as if Man had not Free-will, when he is under Fear?)

$ 27. C. 6. & 8. He decreeth that none can judge the Pope, nor retraction his Judgments, nor judge of them, (contrary to many General Councils.)

He curseth from Christ all that contemn the Pope's Opinions, Mandates, Interdicts, Sanctions, Decrees, &c. c. 9.

Tit. 7. He rebuketh the King for letting none be Bishops but those that he liked, charging him to admit none at Colen or Triers, till the Pope had notice. And before he told Emperors, that they must take no care what kind of Lords the Priests be, but what they say of the Lord; nor to note what Popes be, but what they do for correction of the Churches; For they are by Constantine called Gods, and God must not be judged of men, Tit. 3. c. 3. A Council was called at Tullum of the Bishops of twelve Provinces by King Charles, where, besides other Clergy-mens miscarriages, Wenilo Archbishop of Sens, was accused of Treasonable Defection by the King. You see here to what power over Kings the common Bishops (as well as the Pope) were got, by pretence of representing Christ, and of the Power of the Keys.

§ 33. CCLXVI. An. 859. A Council at Constantinople condemned Ignatine, and again confirmed Photine, who with the Emperor Michael sent to the Pope to satisfie him of all, and profess enmity to Image-breakers.

§ 34. CCLXVII. An. 860. In a Council at Confluence the five prefent Kings of the French Line came to an agreement.

§ 35. CCLXVIII. A General Council was held at Conftantinople, An. 861. where 318 Bishops (the same number that was at the first Nicone Council) deposed Ignatius, and setled Photius, to which the Pope's Legates also subscribed, (the Papists say through fear;) so that it was Papally confirmed. And yet here was much done for Images.

§ 36. CCLXIX. The Pope having condemned John Archbishop of Ravenna who despised him, till the Emperor forsook him, in a Council at Rome he submitted himself to the Pope, and was reconciled.

§ 37. CCLXX. An. 862. In another Council at Rome, Pope Nicolas condemned the Heresie of the Theopaschites, that (they said, made the Godhead to suffer) it's like it was Cyril and the Eutychians old verbal Error by communication of Titles.

§ 38. CCLXXI. An. 862. A Council is held at Aquifgrane, in which King Lotharius desireth counsel about his Wise Themperge; the Bishops pronounce it his duty to put her away, she having confessed Incest with her own Brother, and allow him to marry Waldrade, he professing himself unable to contain. The Pope condemneth the action and them: The Papists say this was but a forged pretence. I only note r. If they would deliberately forge so heinous a thing on a Queen, what Heathens could be worse than such Bishops? 2. Did the Bishops of that age think that they were bound to obey the judgment of the Pope, who thus opposed him?

6.39. CCLXXII. An. 862. In another Council in France (in Filla .

ad fublonarias) the three Kings again met for agreement.

§ 40. CCLXXIII. Lotharius appealing, desireth a Council in France by the Pope's consent: All the Bishops of France and Germany meet at Metz, and the Pope's Legates with them: They and the Legates also subscribe to the King's Divorce, and to more, which the Pope had before declared against: (Did Bishops then think the Pope Infallible, or not to be opposed?) The Papists say that the Pope's Legates were bribed.

§ 41. CCLXXIV. An. 863. The Pope calleth his own Council at Rome, and excommunicateth or curfeth them all from Christ, and deposeth them quantum in se. But yet offereth forgiveness to all, save two, if they will subject themselves to him. The Bishops stand to it, that he cursed them unjustly: Must all the Kingdoms be thus ruled and confounded by one Priest, till matters between a King and his Wise be managed to his will and satisfaction?

§ 42. CCLXXV. In another Council at Rome, An. 863. the Pope curfeth his Legates at Confiantinople with Photius and Gregory Syracusanus, because they all crossed his will, which must everywhere bear rule.

§ 43. CCLXXVI. In a Council at Senlis, Hinemarus Rhemensis got Rhotaldus Bishop of Soissons deposed, and thrust into a Monastery, and another put in his place, notwithstanding the Pope's opposition, An. 862.

§ 44. CCLXXVII. Hereupon the Pope, in a Council at Rome, condemneth this Council at Senlis, and decreeth, That unless Hinemarus and the other Bishops do within 30 days testore Rhotaldus, they shall be forbidden their Ministery, and used as they used Rhotaldus: But they did not obey him, but put it to the venture.

And whereas the King had forbidden Rhotaldus to go to Rome, and the French Bishops pleaded this as a just restraint, the Pope answered, That no Imperial Laws must take place against Ecclesiastical. And so it came to the question, Whether the King or the Pope was King of France, or had more power over the bodies of the Subjects? Thus did the Papacy ascend.

§ 45. CCLXXVIII. A Council of Bishops and Lords together at Pistis, made Orders for Repentance, and restraint of Rapine and Plunder, § 46. CCLXXIX An. 864. In a Council at Rome the Pope deposed and excommunicated Rodoaldus Portuensis his Legate, with Joh. Hicoden-

s, for joining with the Synod at Meiz against his Orders.

§ 47. CCLXXX. In another Council at Rome, An. 865. the Pope reftoreth Rhotaldus: For Hinemarus at last let him out of Prison, and let him go to Rome, but would neither go nor send thither any Legates himself, as the Pope required, for his own and the Synod's defence.

§ 48. CCLXXXI. Ar. 866. A Synod at Soiffons wrote to the Pope about Hinemarus, and against encouraging salse Ordinations, unless after privately confirmed, Gc.

§ 49. CCLXXXII. The Pope was so busie and troublesom with the French Bishops, making himself Judge in matters that he knew not, and restoring those that they deposed, that An. 867. a Synod at Trecas wrote to inform him of all that had passed for 33 years; how Ebbo and his Synod of Bishops had slandered and deposed the Emperor Ludovicus Pins, and how he did it to please Lotharus; and when Ludovicus was restored how he fled; and when Ludovicus was dead how Lotharius with the base temporizing Bishops restored him, and after he had been condemned and refigned his place, returned to the exercise of it and ordained divers; and how upon the prevailing of Charles against Lotharins he was cast out again: and how after Lotharius got the Pope to appoint the hearing of all again when he was condemned, and how after this he was made a Bishop in Germany, and Rhemes was ten years ruled by two Presbyters, and how the Pope Paschal chose this Traytor to preach to the Heathens near him, and how Hinemarus was chosen, &c. as aforesaid. Such trouble did a Usurper put the Churches to.

§ 50. Platina saith that some say that after the death of Pope Nicolas Harmar the place was void eight years, seven months and nine dayes: But to his in others fay that it was void but seven dayes: so uncertain is the Papal Bin. p. History of succession. The next that we find inthroned is Hadrian 2d, 876. Ad

§ 51. Michael at Constantinople having been long ruled much by hortes a Bardas (who was for Photius) at last giving up himself to drunkenness spectante and other fins, by the perswasion of Basilins he killed Bardas, and made Michaele Basilius Cæsar: And after a while his vice gave Basilius the opportunity intersectus to kill the Emperor when he was drunk. See Dion. Peravius Hist. li. V. 1. chap. 12. Yet this Basilius washed his hands and made many Protestations that he had no hand in his blood. This made for the Popes advantage: Women and Rebels and Traytors and discordant Princes did much in raising him. This Regicide Emperor, as a second Phocas finds it useful to quiet his party by a change countenanced by the Bishop of Rome: And so he sets himself against Photius and sets up Ignatius again; and fearching Photins's fervants, finds a book written of the Acts of the late great Council at Constantinople, which was for him and against Ignatius, and a defence of that Council against the Bishop of Rome, in which he dealt feverely with the Pope. This Book the new Emperor sends to the Pope, and there it is read, stampt upon, stab'd with a knife, and openly burnt (and a miracle is faid to be at the burning of it, some drops of rain that fell, not quenching the fire, but increasing it.) But their calling Photous a knave and burning his books, and condemning the council that was for him, will hardly keep the readers of his yet-preserved learned writings from suspecting that the Popes cause was not unquestionable, or at least, that the Pope was not taken for the universal Vice-Christ when Photies and his council did so little regard him. No wonder then if the Acts of a great council when they were against the Pope are called [Nefand: simi Conciliabili prophana: a Volumina, quibus santtissimum Papam Nacolaum susura fauce latraverat.] Yet our new Papilts would make men believe that none but a few Hereticks refused subjection to the Pope before Luther. Were these Councils Hereticks?

§ 52. Here the Emperor Basilius was put to a hard strait about his Bishops: He wrote to the Pope (vid. Bin. p. 825. 826.) that almost all his Bishops had miscarried, both those ordained by Photius and those Ordained by Ignatius: they had rurned with the times not knowing how the times would turn, and incurred fuch guilt that he defired the Pope to pardon them, lest he should want Bishops: silencing one party would not ferve turn, while all had been fo far guilty. Tum à sanctissimo Patriarcha Ignatio consecrati secundum scriptura sua consessionem in veritate non permanserunt; nec non et de bis summis Sacerdotibus atque Abbatibus qui diversimode scripserunt, quorum alis vi vel 17rannide, alii verò simplicitate aut levitate, quidam verò seductione et versutiis, quidam verò muneribus et honoribus diversimode decepti sunt--- Imò verò dicendum est quod pene omnes sacrati, tam prieres quam posteriores qui sub nobis sunt, male, et ut non opportebat, trastati sunt--- Quatenus non Ecclehe nostre summis Sacerdotibus et Sacerdotibus qui sub omni regimine nostro sunt, commune occurrat naufragium, propemodum universis illis de salsis et impotabilibus gustantibus iniquitatis Rheumatibus, Super his itaque postulamus compatientissimum Sacerdotium tuum, ut manum porrigat humanitatis et eorum dispenset salutem, &c. saith Basilius ibid.

§ 53. Here also another difficulty arose (as there ever doth in ravel-'led works.) The Pope had been against Hinemarm and his Council for deposing the Bishops ordained by Ebbo. And yet to subdue the Greeks he was for the deposing of those ordained by Photius. This made him feem contrary to himself: Anastasius Bibliothecarius (who then lived and was employed at Constantinople in this matter) to reconcile the contradiction, faith that Ebbo was a true Bishop, but Photius was not, because he was a Lay-man before his consecration; and therefore his ordinations are nullities. This nullifying of ordinations maketh great disturbances in the Church. The present Bishops of Englandrequire those that were heretofore ordained by Parochial Pastors to be reordained, and on this and fuch other accounts about 2000 were filenced at one day (Aug. 24. 1662.) The filenced Nonconformists do some of them say that the Bishops have much less than Photius to shew for their authority to ordain. He had learning, he had the Emperors authority for him: He had lawfull Bishops to ordain him; He had a great Council or two to approve him and confirm him: And though he was a layman before, so is every one when he cometh to his first ordination. And though he was made Bishop per saltum, so was Nettariu, Thalafins, Ambrofe, &c. And every Uncanonical irregularity nullifieth not the ordination. It hath been ordinary for Deacons to be made Popes: And is not that per faliam? why doth not that interrupt and nullifie the Papacie? But, fay they, on this account 1. Romes succession is long agoe interrupted: There having been far greater incapacities in Simonists, common Adulterers, Perjured, Rebels, Hereticks, Infidels, (as Councils have judged.) 2. And (they fay) that so the English Prelates are no Bishops, being chosen by the King, and wanting that choice of the Clergy and people, which the Canons have over and over again made made necessary to the validity of ordinations, are more null than those of Photius: And therefore we owe them (as such) no obedience nor communion.] Thus our nullifyings and condemnings proceed till most men have degraded if not unchristened one another. And he that is on the stronger side carrieth it, till death or some other change consute his claim, and then the other side gets up and condemneth him as he condemned them. And thus hath the Church long suffered by damning Divines, and domineering or censorious Judges.

· § 54. By the restoring of Ignatius, the Pope got to himself the reputation of some Supremacy, and obliged a party to him; which however it was not the greatest at the first, would be greatest when Ignatius his supremacy had advanced it: And with them he got the reputation of being just, indeed Photius seeming to possess the seat of one that was injuriously deposed by the meer will of the Prince, without sufficient cause.

§ 55. Pope Hadrian 2. (Epist. 4. ad Ignat. Const.) directeth Ignatius to forgive many others, but none of those that subscribed to Photius his great Council at Constantinople, because they reproached the Pope of Rome; where you may see 1. How dangerous it was then to be in a General Council, when, if they please not the strongest, they are ruined: And if they do, it's like enough the next age will damn them for it. 2. How much more dangerous is it for a Council to be against the Pope, than to be guilty of many other crimes; and how unpardonable it is.

§ 56. CCLXXXIII. An. 868. Besides the Popes Roman Synod that damned Photius and his Book and Const. Council, there was a Council at Worms, which repealed many old Canons, of which the 14th. "is, that if Bishops shall excommunicate any wrongfully or for light cause "and not restore them, the neighbour Bishops shall take such to their com"munion till the next Synod.

The 15. Canon is, that because in Monasterics there are Thieves that cannot be found, when the suspected purge themselves, they shall receive the sacrament of Christ's body and blood, thereby to show that they are in" nocent.] But this Canon the Papists are ashained of.

"The 72. Canon alloweth Presbyters (yea all Christians) to anoint the "fick, because the Bishops hindered with eiter business cannet go to all the fick.] This intimates that even then the Diocesses were not so great as ours that have one or many Counties, else other reason would have been given why the Bishop could not visit all the fick, than his hindering businesses. Would the Bishop, e. g. of Lincoln say, I would visit all the fick in Lincolnshire, Northamptonshire, Leicestershire, Humingtonshire, Rutlandshire, Harifordshire, Bedfordshire, Buckinghamshire, which are in my Diocess, but that I am hindered by other business? who would take this for the words of a lober man?

$ 57. CCLXXXIV. An. 869, was that Confrantinopolitan Council which the Papists (damning some others) call the 4th, and the 8th.

General

General Council ended An. 879. in which but 102 Bishops condemned Photius and settled Ignatius, by the means of the Emperor Basilius and 5 the Pope, who had before restored him. Here in Act. 2. The Bishops that had followed Photius, took the old course, and when they saw all turned cryed peccavimus and craved pardon, and themselves called Photins, such a villain as there had never been the like. (Bin. p. 882,) They said they sinned through fear and so were forgiven. Act. 3. Some Bishops that had turned, who were ordained by Methodius, were required to subscribe to a form proposed; But they told them that the late times had fo vexed men with heinous subscriptions, that they had made a Covenant or Vow to make no more subscriptions but what they had done already, and the profession of their faith (like Nonconformists) and defired to be received on such terms without their new subscription. Act. 4. 'The Bishops of Photius's party ordained by him were examined. And Act. 5. Photius himself, who would not enter till constrained, and then professed as in imitation of Christ to give them no answer to what they asked him; and is in vain exhorted to repentance. Act. 6. Many of the Photian Bishops repented and were pardoned: Others pretended that they had subscribed and sworn to Photins, where Zachar, Calcedon, shewed that the Canons were above the Patriarchs. Here Bafilius the Emperor made a notable speech to exhort the Bishops to repenrance, offering himself to lay by his honour and to lie on the earth, and let them tread on him confessing his sin, and asking mercy. Act. 7. Photius is again brought in, (and his staff that he leaned on raken from him) and he denyed to defend himself and ro repent, but bid them repent. The Bishops of Heraclea, &c. rejected the Legates. and pronounced them anathematized that should anothematize Photons, and appealed to the Canons. Act. 8. They censured a Bishop that was against Images. Act. 9. They examined some great men that had fworn against Ignatius, who confest they had sworn falsely for sear of the Princes; but Leo would not damn or curse Photius, because he shought the Orthodox were not to be cursed. The roth. Act. Containeth the Canons which they made; of which the Copies greatly differ.

^{§ 58.} The 3d. Canon faith that [they ordain that the Image of Christ "be worshiped with the same honour as the Gospels; as teaching that by "Colours, which the Gospel doth by words: saying, [whoever adores not the "Image of our Saviour shall not see his face at his second coming: adding "[by the same reason we venerate and adore the Image of the Blessed Virigin and the Holy Angels, as the scripture describeth them, and of all the "Saints. They that think otherwise, let them be cursed from Christ.]

[&]quot;Can. 6. They anathematize Photius because he did excommunicate and anathematize the Pope, and all that communicated with him.

²³ Can. 7. No excommunicate men are allowed to make Images.

[&]quot;Can, 8. Is too good for the Devil to let the Church enjoy viz. [That whereas

"whereas it is reported that not only the heretical and usurpers, but some "Orthodox Patriarchs also for their own security, have made men subscribe "(to be true to them) the Synod judgeth that it shall be so no more, save only that men suben they are made Bissops be required as usual to declare the soundness of their faith: He that violateth this Sanction let him be deprived of his honour.

"The 10th Can. Condemneth them that hold, That Man hath two "Souls (which they fay Photius favoured) and curfed them from Christ.

The rith. Can. Tells us what men these Bishops were, and what they sought. It is suffer that all that are made Bishops bearing on earth the person and form of the Celestial Hierarchy, shall with all veneration be worshiped by all Princes and Subjects: and we will not have them to go far from the Church to meet any commanders of the Army or any Nobles, nor to light from their horses like supplicants or abjects that seared them, nor to fall down or petition them; If any Bishop bereaster shall neglect his due honour, or break this Canon, or permit it to be done, he shall be separated for a year from the Sacrament; and that Prince, Duke, or Captain tivo years.

"The 12. Can. Princes as prophane men be not spectators of that which he "Iy persons do, and therefore Councils be held without them. Either I understand them not, or it is in despite of truth that they say ["On-"de nec alias reperimus Oecumenicis Conciliis unquam intersuisse: Neque "enim sas est ut prophani Principes, rerum que sacris hominibus gerunde "sunt, gerunturve, spectatores siant.] Binnius noteth [ex prascripto nempe Canonum] turning an allertion de sacto into one de jure, and an universal into a particular, by which licence of expounding what lye or blashemy may not be justified! And why then have so many thousand been cursed from Christ by Councils for unskillulness in words?

§ 59. The 14th. Can. secureth the Bishops admirably in despite of the old reforming honest Canons decreeing that [" A Lay-man (not ex-"cepting Kings or Parliaments) shall have no power to dispute by a ve.-" fon of Ecclefiastical Sanctions, or to oppose the universal Church or any ge-"neral Synod; for the difficulty of these things, and agitating them on both "fides, is the office of Patriarchs, Priests and Doctors, to whom only God "hath given power of binding and loofing. For though a Lay-man excel in "the praise of piety and wisdom, yet he is a Lay-man and a Sheep and not a "Paffor, But a BISHOP though it be manifest that le is destitute of "ALL VIRTUE of Religion, yet he is a Pastor as long as he exerciseth "the office of a Bishop, and the sheep must not resist the Shepherd. 7 O brave doctrine for the Roman Kingdom! A Heathen, or Isfidel or Mahometan, or Arrian Bishop must not be apposed: He that is no Christian may be a Bishop. How much to be blumed were the General Councils that deposed Popes for Insidelity, Diabolini, Herebe, Simony, Perjury, Blasphemy, Sodomie, Formeation, Miraces, &c. when a Pope that hath all there, and no victue of Religion is not ac ba judged by Lay mentor opposed,

Q. 1. May a Prince fave his crown from such? 2. May a man save his Wife from such, or a woman resuse their copulation, or defend her Chastity against them? 3. What if such are drunk in the Pulpit, are the People bound to be silently submissive? 4. Why did Pope Nichclas decree that none should hear Mass from a Priest that liveth in fornication? 5. Are Priests above Kings, or are they lawless?

Yet this very Synod of Bishops in their Epistle to Pope Hadrian sayes [Cui consista Synodo, qui tum imperitabant, Michael et Basilius noster, prasidebant,] And Basilius and Baanes were now among them. And many Princes, especially in France and Spain have made strict Laws to a

ther. 2 Thef. 3.

§ 61. In Bin. p. 899. is an epistle of Pope Stephens to the Emperor Basilius which containeth the radical doctrine of all the Bishops rebellion and pride, viz. that Princes are only appointed for the things of the Body or this life, and prelates and Priests for the matters of the Soul and life eternal, and therefore that the Prelates Empire is more excellent than the Princes, as heaven is above earth. [" Quandoquidem ver-"bis que ad usum vite, id est, rerum presentium pertinent, Imperium a "Deo traditum est, ita nobis per Principem Apostolorum Petrum, revum "divinarum procuratio est commissa: Accipe queso in optimam partem que "subjicio * --- Hac sunt capita curaque Principis imperii vestri. demned by the other many Patriarchs.

§ 63. Laying all together I cannot rereeive by historical notice, but that both Ignatius and Photius were both better Bishops than most were to be found; the first being a very pious man, and the other also a man of great learning and diligence. But the old contention WHO SHOULD BE CHIEF or greatest, made them both the great calamity of the Church.

I think it not in vain here to transcribe part of the summ of the life of Ignatius as written by Nicetas, David, Paphlago who was devoted to him, though somewhat said already be repeated. Ignatius (being of the blood Royal) was in quiet possession, when denying entrance or Church Communion to Bardas Casar for his reported Adultery, he provoked that indignation in him which deposed him. Bardas first perswaded the Emperor Michael to assume the Government and not leave the Empire any longer to his Mother and Sisters. One Gebo then pretending to be the Son of Queen Theodora, and claiming the Crown, and many following him, Ignatius is accused as being then on Gebo's side, The Emperor commandeth Ignatius to shear his Mother and Sisters, and put them into a Monastery: He refuseth: The Emperor is angry and suspecting him, causeth it to be done by others, and sendeth Ignatius to the Island Terebinth and killeth Gebo. "Within three dayes some " of the Bishops who had subscribed and sworn to Ignatius, even that they "would sooner deny the supream Majesty of the Trinity, than without a "publick damnation they would suffer their Pastor to be deposed, became " agents to draw him to renounce his Place. &c. He resusing, Photius is "made one day a Monk, the next day a Lector, the next a Subdeacon, "the next a Deacon, the next a Presbyter, and on Christs birth-day is "made Patriarch; a great and noble Courtier, the Emperors Secretary or "privy Councellor, famous for skill in things politick and civil, so flourish-"ing in the skill of Grammar, Poetry, Oratory, Philosophy, Physick, and " the study of almost all Liberal Arts and Sciences, as that he was absoluteer ly in them the Prince of his age, yea, and might centend with the ancients. " For he had a confluence of natural aptitude and force, of fel-city, riches, "by which he got a library of all forts of books; and being desirous of Glery " and Praife, (pent whole nights in Reeplefs Studies, and after studied divi-"nity, and Ecclestical Volumes. Gregorius Bistiop of Syracuse (a censur-"ed Bishop) ordained him: Ignatius is cruelly used, and its laid on Photi-"us: He fendeth some Rishops to Rome, and by them saith, that Ignatius " gave up his Place. It's faid that fome held Ignains's hand, and by force wrote his mark, and others wrote the rest: but what's the truth is hard to know. A General Council is called: The Emperor and all his Princes, great ones, and almost all the City met at I beties's possession. Baanes and some of the baser of the Romans are sent to summion Iqnative to the Council, (Bin. p. 867.) He asketh them in what Garbs he shall come. "They take time and the next day fay, Rhodoaldus and "Zacharias Legates of Old Rome by us fummon thee without delay to ap-"pear at the boly Occumenical Council in what habit thou wilt according to thy own Conscience. He goeth in Patriarchs habit. The Emperor commands him in the habit of a Monk. No less than seventy two witnesses are brought into the Synod against him, Nobles and Vulgar; Nicetas faith perjured, of whom Leo and Theodorace is two Noble men were chief; and fome Anabaptists (that is, such as baptized men again, though not against Infant Baptism.) These swore that Ignation not justly ordained, had twelve years ago usurped the place. And alas! there wanted not a Canon which would depose a great part of the Bishops of the world, viz. that called the 30th. Apost, and oft renewed. I I et If any Bishop using the secular power do by them obtain a Church, "let him be deposed. They left out And those that Communicate with "him] For which Nicetas accuseth the Bishops as fally saving themselves. And alas! must all the ministers in England be deposed that communicate with any Bishop that gets a Church by the secular power? What a separation than must here be made. And would not this Canon depose Photius also? The Popes Legates, Pishops, Rhodocoldus and Zacharias, alique nefarii homines faith Nicetas, cryed down Ignatius as Unworthy; then they beat and odiously abuse the good old man: And then cometh the foresaid forced subscribed confession (or forged.) After this its faid that they fent men to kill him; but by old base cloaths and two baskets on his back, he past away unknown, begging his bread by the way. Nicetas faith that an Earthquake shook the City fourty dayes together, and frightned them to fend abroad and proclaim security to Ignatius, who thereupon surrendered himself. Bardas convinced sendeth him safe to his own Monastery, and the Earth. quake ceased; and the Bulgarians moved by samine and the Emperor's gifts, laid down armes and were baptized Christians. Pope Nicholas ex-. communicateth Photius, and the Emperor and all the Court. (Bin.p. 868.) A fire befals the Church of Sophia. The young Emperor groweth fo drunken and prophane that he gets a pack of wicked ungodly men, and maketh them in mockery or play his Bishops, and confectateth a Church for them, and maketh one Theophilus a jester their Patriarch, to turn Religion into a scorn, and then faith [' Theophilus is my Patriarch. "Photius is Cefars, and Ignatius is the Christians. And thus they by prophane witt derided the Bishops and Religion itself, to which alas, the Bishops ambition and odious strife did tend.

Photius was filent at all this. Another Earthquake frightned them again, the terriblest for a day and a night that had been there known. Upon this one Basilius a Bishop of Thesalonica went boldly to the Emperor and opened the sin of his prophaneness dissimplied firm from that wickedness that provoked God. The Emperor enraged struk out his Teeth, and caused him to be so scourged that he was like to dye. Photius cared for none of this, set his mind on the securing his seat and oppressing Ignatius, magnifying all that tooke his part, and encouraging talse Stories and Calumnies against the best that were against him.

One of the betrayers and accusers of Ignatius was one of his Disciples, and of his own name, made Arch-Bishop of Hierapolis, and then lost his Conscience and Fidelity. (Bin. p. 869.) It was but for presuming to Consecrate an Altar, cast down by the Russians and new built, which was taken after his deposition for a breach of the Law and Canons, and two Arch-Bishops, (ready at all times) were sent to pull down the Altar as Nonconformable, and to carry the stones to the Sea, and wash them, and then to set them up again. O that they would have washt their hearts from Pride and Worldly Ambition!

Oh, saith Nicetas, What stupidity, what pravity of a perverse mind was this? What excess of Envy? What study of ambitious Dishonesty? Did thy daily meditation and night-watches, and innumerable Books teach thee this? Did thy frequent reading and disputation, and striving for the praise of learning teach it thee? Did the knowledge of the Old Testament and the New, the fayings of the Wife, the Decrees of the Holy Fathers, teach thee to perfecute a poor man, and to vex and kill one of a broken heart and spirit? Did not thy tyranical ejection of him satiate the ime placable fury of thy mind, &c? Thus Nicetas.

As much as to fay, Much learning, and great power and places, are too often separated from Honesty, Charity and Conscience.

Here he mentioneth a terrible Dream of Bardas, and the murder of him by Basilius's order, and the Emperor's consent; and how basely Photims cryed him down when he was dead, who was his onely Friend and Patron while he lived.

Next he tells us how the Emperor, by Photius's persuasion, called a General Council, which deposed Pope Nicolas, as he had done Phocas*. "Did the The other Patriarchs and the Bishops were assembled, and the Pope Church anathematized: And the Historian blames it as caustes; but it was then then hold commonly held, that a Council might judge and depose any Pa- Pope was triarch.

The Acts of the Council Photius sent to King Ludovicus and others in preme Italy and France, that they might depose the Pope (by two Bishops, viz. of Calcedon, and Laodicea.) It's faid he spake evil to the Emperor of Basilius, and to Basilius of the Emperor. Basilius murdereth the Emperor, and the next day deposeth Photius, and thrusts him into an Hospital, and calls home Ignatius; and so gets Ignatius's Party on his side, to which he resolved to add the Pope: Therefore sending to Photins for the Patriarchate Writings, and he faying he had left them all behind him, the Servants of Photius were feen striving about feven Bags of fealed Papers; which being furprized, were found to be the Acts of the Council, and the Condemnation of Pope Nicolas. Ignatius was odiously accused and abused in them. Many Pictures made of him: over one written Diabolus: over another Principium peccati: over another Filius perditionis: over another Avaritia Simonis Magi: over another, [Qui se extollit supra omne id quod dicitur aut colitur Dens:] over the fixth, Abominatio defolationis: and over the feventh, [Antichristus. 7 Reader, how shall a man know what History to believe that characterizeth Adversaries? and how little is the judgment and applause of man to be regarded, or their condemnation of us to be feared?

'I would not (faith Nicetas) mention these things, but that I see the "Authors and their followers own them, and make Photius a holy man.

The next part of the Book, faith Nicctas, ['Synodicus in Nicola-'um Pontificem Romanum tela torquebat, omnisque generis calumnias G · atrocia maledicta, in illius Sancti exauctorationem & damnationem com-

'plettebatur, impie ut tragico prope modo concinnitatus, sane quoque ipsius 'stygii dottoris magisterio & Photii ministerio dignus. Gregory, Bishop of Syracuse, wrote them out, and sent them to the King of France. Who wrote truly, and who sallly, how should we now know? But this I know,

1. That contending who should be greatest was the sin of the Prelates, and the plague of the Churches.

2. And that then it was taken for granted, that the Pope deserving it might be deposed.

The new Emperor Basil sent these Books to the Pope, who burnt them as you have heard (Great reason: but I would we saw them!) Ignatius being restored, excommunicateth Photius, and all that were initiated by him, and all that communicated with him. ('It feems they were 'much alike in the art of damning men, and separating them from 'Christ.) Then is Ignatius's Council called, where 102 Bishops damn Photius, depose him, and curse him from Christ; and the Bishops, to 's shew their holiness and constancy, would not write his damnation with Ink, but with Christ's own blood; (that is, the Sacramental Wine.) (And yet ere long they fet up Photius again.) Nicetas blameth his Condemners, that went not so far as to prevent his Restoration. But how can Bishops rule God's Providence, or the mutable minds of Princes! saith he, [' Nam qui per reconciliatos erat ejoctus, & per hypocritas damnatus, is per eofdem quasi familiares postliminio recurrens, rursus s Patriarcha thronum per vim invasit---- Cum omnes in sua testimonia 💸 · Chirographa perjuros, ut ipse erat, sieri coegisset, ut extrema primis deteriora fecisset, emnium conscientias inquinavit & conspurcavit.] Alas! if the Bishops will be perjured Weathercocks, and as Hypocrites, cry peccavimus one year, and go contrary again the next, and change as Princes do, who can help it ?

He saith now, new Earthquakes and terrible Whirlwinds did again as a sight men. He giveth us also many of Ignatins's Miracles, especially when he was dead. He saith Photius prosecuted him with malice when he was dead. He next tells us how after the death of Ignatius, Photius came to be restored; even by seigning a Pedegree of Basilius as from the King of Armenia, sound by his skill in Antiquities; and by his great parts and elegancy winning upon him. He maketh Theophanes the instrument of the deceit. He won the hearts of all the Courtiers: so that within three days of Ignatius's death he was restored. Hereupon the Bishops turn round, and they that lately called him all that's naught, now magnishe him, (Bin. p. 875.) But all that Neveras calleth verà Christianos, abhorred him.

(This maketh me remember the words of Erasimus in the life of Dr. Colet translated by Thomas Smyth, concerning the Bishop of London that then was) being an acute Schoolman, [I have known, saith he, some such that I would not call Knaves, but never any that I could call a Christian.]

stian. 7 Sad Prelates that Nicetas (and Erasmus) could not call Christians.

But the ambition of Photius tempted them to their mutability: He cast out the Bishops that were against him, and presently forgave and restored them if they would but conform. Yea, he dared to re-ordain those that Ignatius had ordained, supposing him no Bishop; but abhorring all that stopt him in it. But he proceeded to consecrate anew the Church Utenfils, and say over certain Prayers (If, saith Nicetas, they be not rather to be called Curses.] And (saith he) to make his sin out of measure sinful, when be ordained or preferred any, or changed Bishepricks, he made them conform by swearing and subscribing to him; thereby binding all to him whom by Benefices he obliged *. So much out of Ni. *How ofe cetas.

Oaths and Subscrip-

§ 64. And now Reader, I leave it to thy judgment, whether Gregory tions been Nazianzen knew not what he said, when he wisht there were no [higher condemnand lower] among Bishops; and when he spake so much of their ambi-cd in tion, levity and temerity, and of the evil effects of their Councils in his And yet time. Whether Patriarchal dignity was not a great temptation, when alas! to the Son of a Prince on one fide, and to the great and noble Secretary of the Emperor on the other fide, it feemed a prize worth the striving for to the death? And whether it have not been the calanity of the Church, when two fuch extraordinary men, far above the common rank of Bilhops, shall set an Empire and almost all the Christian Churches into Schism, Contention, mutual Persecution and Consussion, by so long striving Who shall be greatest? and drawing so many hundred Bishops into Faction, Schism, Perjury, and shameful mutations with them? And whether Christ did not (foreseeing such things) far otherwise decide this question, Who shall be greatest? in Luke 22. But if Pride turned Angels into Devils, it is not much to be wondered, if it turn the Angels of the Churches into the Ministers of the Prince of Pride and Darkness, and turn many Churches into a Theatre of Contention, and a Field of War.

§ 65. Yet here is one thing further to be noted, viz. the foresaid Contention that role about the Bulgarians. These two great Patriarchs of Rome and Constantinople, were neither of them yet great enough, or fatisfied with their jurisdiction, their desires being more boundless than Alexander's for the Empire; nothing less than all the world will satisfie one of them at least. Nicetas faith, it was by Famine, and a Treaty, and kind words of the Emperor, that the Bulgarians turned Christians. Some Papists would give the honour to the Pope, without proof, and cannot tell us any thing how the Pope converted them. But when they were converted, they fent to Rome for some Instructors: The Pope sent rhem $O \circ 2$ them two, and they received them. But they put the case themselves to the Council at Constantinople, Whether they were to be under the Bishop of Rome, or of Constantinople? The matter held a great debate. The Pope's Legates pleaded, that they had already received Bishops from Rome, &c. The Greeks pleaded, that their Countrey was part of the Empire, and under the Bishop of Constantinople, till they conquered it; and that they found there Greek Churches and Bishops, who were still there, and the Conquest did, not translate them from the Bishop of Constant. to Rome. How the Controversie ended is hard to know: Some say that the Council gave them to the Pope, and some say otherwise. But this is confessed, that this Roman ambition so greatly displeased the new Emperor Basilius, that it turned him after against the Pope, and inclined him the more to restore Photius, which he did when Ignatius was dead.

§ 66. Here I would call the Reader to consider, whether the Pope's Universal Government was in those days believed? even by that Council which was supposed to be partial (by the Emperor's inducement) on the Pope's side. What place else could there be for such a strife, whether the Bulgarians were under the Government of the Bishop of Rome, or Constantinople; if all the World were under the Bishop of Rome? They will say that it was only questioned, whose Diocess or Patriarchate they were under? But Rome never pretended that they were of that Diocess or Patriarchate as anciently divided. But the question was, Whose Government they were now fallen under? And would any dispute whether e. g. Westminster were under the Government of the King, or of the Lord Mayor of London? when all the Kingdom is under the King. This Controversie clearly sheweth, that the Church then took the Pope to have but the first Seat and Voice in Councils, but not to be the Governor beyond his circuit.

§ 67. It is here also to be noted, that Basil the Emperor's revolt from the Pope was so great, that Hadrian is put to write sharply to him as accusing the Bishops of Rome, and derogating from them, admonishing him to repent; but we find not that this changed his mind.

§ 68. Yet one thing more is here to be observed. In the life of Hadrian the 2d (Bin. p. 882.) we find that the Pope taking the advantage of Basil's present state and mind, and the interest of Ignatius much depending on him, sent a new Libel to be subscribed by all the Bishops, before they should be permitted to sit in Council. The Greek Bishops grudged at this, and complained to the Emperor, ['That the Church of Constantinople by these effered Libels, was brought under the power of Rome, by the doubt sullness of Subscriptions.] But though slebiliter conqueruntur, they complain with tears, the Emperor was angry with them, and would have it; and some Bishops non sine magno laboris pericule, libellos quidem vix tandem recipiunt, with much ado were brought to subscribe, saying, It was novum of inauditum. The resusers extra Synodum ingloris relistissant, were shut out till they conformed: (Oh!that Ingloris was a cutting word.)

§ 69. The Emperor hiding his anger against the Pope's Legates (for the Bulgarian Usurpation) gave them great gifts, and sent them home. But at Sea they fell into the hands of the Sclavonians, who stripped them of their Riches, and the Subscriptions and Copy of the Council, and kept them Prisoners, and threatned their Lives: But by the mediation of the Emperor and Pope, they were delivered, and had some of their Writings again.

§ 70. CCLXXXV. An. 879. Carolus Calvus King of France, unjustly possessed the Kingdom of Lotharius, which by inheritance fell to Luavicus. Ludovicus got the Pope to interpose, who sent his Legates to Charles: But the Bishops had not yet learned to obey Popes against Kings in power. A Council of Bishops called at Metz, give the Kingdom to Charles, because he was the stronger. This was called Concilium Pradatorium, a Council of Robbers and Traytors: And no wonder, when Bishops must be the Givers of Kingdoms. Was it not enough for the Pope, to usurp such power, to be over Kings, and dispose of Crowns, but ordinary Bishops must do the like?

$71. CCLXXXVI. Yet another Council against the Pope. King Charles had authorized Northman, a great man, to receive some Goods that were taken to belong to the Church. The Pope commandeth Hinc-marus, Bishop of Rhemes, and the rest of the Bishops of France, to excommunicate Northman. Hincmarus and the Bishops result to obey him, only one Hincmarus Bishop of Laon, (Landanum) obeyeth him, and publisheth the Excommunication. A Council is called at Wermeria, where Hincmarus Rhem. and the Bishops (the King consenting) condemn Hincmarus Landanensis, for disobeying his Metropolitan, in obeying the Pope. He appeals to Rome: They will not let him go. He writeth. Hincmarus Rhem. writeth largely against him, (though his Nephew) shewing how he broke the Canons, how bad a man he was; how he had neglected his own Charge, less Children unbaptized, and for private quarrels excommunicated his Flock, and had silenced and suspended the Ministers under him tyranically, circ.

Reader, Was the Pope's power yet fully received, when a Metropolitan was to be obeyed before him, and men condemned for obeying him? § 72, CCLXXXVII. Yet more forrow. An. 870. a Council is called in Villa Actiniaco (Actigny) I will give you the Story in the very words of Binnius translated, I When Hincmarus Bishop of Laon, for the ' cause in the foresaid Council expressed, had got the Reserript of Pope Adrian on his behalf, and had notified it to Hinemarus Rhemensis, and to King 'Charles; both of them, in hatred to the Bishop of Laon, decreed, That this By you. Synod, called Latrocinalis , should be called. There presided in it, Re- So great 'migius Lugdunensis , Ardovicus Vesontiensis, Bertulfus Trevirensis, and holy with their subject Biscops. Herein Hincmarus Rhemensis, with King a man allo 'Charles, was the accuser of his Nephew Hincmarus, whom he had before the Pope. 'confecrated Bishop of Laon. The Action brought against him was, That he had by Counter-writings defended the rights of the Apostolick Seat, which the Archbishop of Rhemes did endeavor to impugn and overthrow. " And that, contrary to his Oath of Fidelity in which he was bound to the 'King, he had accused King Charles to the Pope of Rome, and had without bis licence fent forth writings against him. And when Hincmarus Laudunensis, at the Pope's command, was ready for his journey to Rome, he " was taken and spoiled by his Enemies, and brought into this false Conneil. ' Having heard the foresaid Complaints against him, he offered a Libel for ' his defence; but it was rejected, and not permitted to be read: of which "when he again appealed to the Apostolick Seat, they did not only not accept of his Appeal, but also being prostrate on the ground, and pleading for leave to defend himself, he was not heard. Passing Sentence on him, they depo-· sed him from his Bishoprick: and binding him in hard and iron bands, they cast him into banishment: And at last, which passeth all cruelty, his eyes ' pulled out; they perhaps blinded him that he might have no hope of returning to his Bishoprick. So far Binnius. And is it credible that such great and holy men as Remigius, and Hinemarus (even to his own Nephew fet up by him) would do fuch things as these for nothing? Or that the Pope was then as high as fince?

> § 73. CCLXXXVIII. A Council at Colen, An. 870. for Discipline.

> § 74. CCLXXXIX. An. 871. A Concil. Duzianse was called of ten Provinces: where Hinemar. Landun. subscribed a promise of obedience to the King and his Metropolitan. But this did not fave him: Therefore he appealed to the Pope again, who interposed for him, but all would not do, nor serve his turn.

> § 75. Here falls in again the great Controversie of Pope foan a Woman, but it is too hard for me to decide. He that will see what is faid on each fide, may read Blondel before cired. John the 8th is he that now reigneth, whom some late Writers are willing to believe some called Pope Joan in scorn for his failings. But he is after Beneditt the 3d, Nicolas, Nicolas, and Hadrian the 2d; whereas the fere omnes, saith Platina, the many Writers that mention Pope foan place her before them all. And they make John to be a better man than these later do. Platina calling him John the 9th, saith, that Carolus Calvus being dead, Pope John laboured to have his Son Ludovicus succeed him; but the great men of Rome were for Charles King of Germany, and therefore laid hold on the Pope, and put him in Bonds in Prison (his Universal Sovereignty reached not far then.) But he escaping by the help of Friends, sled into France to the King, whom he unjustly pleaded for, (Ludovicus Balbus,) and there anointed him.

E1

676. Before this the Pope had anointed Carolus Calvus Emperor, unjuttly confirming what the Bishops had unjustly done, as now he did unjustly stand for his Son. This contention among Princes, was the means of the Pope's power. Hear what Binnies himself saith of him, pag. 920. ['The Saracens now depopulated almost all Italy, and all humane belp failed in which the Pops trusted to expel them; and he was fain to buy peace of them by a yearly Tribute: which seemed to come by the righteous judgment of God, that he might know that by the ill persuasion of care nal prudence, he had sinfully chosen, created and crowned Carolus Calvus · Emperor, because he looked for more help against the Saracens from him, than from his Brother Ludovicus; whom, for invading another man's Kingdom, he should rather by Church-sensure have exagitated, as Hadr. 2d. 'did. But when Pope John had stay'd a year in France, and the Saracens mastered Italy without help, he was glad to be Friends with the great men that imprisoned him, and to return to Rome, and take Charles for Emperor, after all. Yet is it noted as the rare Honour and Felicity of this Pope, that he crowned three Emperors, though he did it for two of them trayteroully and unjustly, (the honour of a Pope!) Platina faith, he crowned Charles the rightful Heir, Quo er liberius in urbe vivere liceret, that he might live at Reme again (lest he should lose all.)

This Charles (faith he) also subdued the Normans in France and I orrain, and forced them to become Christians, and be baptized: (And yet this is afcribed to the Pope's converting them.)

§ 77. This same Pope John the 8th, also at the desire of the Emperor Basil, and the Patriarch of Jerusalem, consented to the restoring of Photius, contrary, saith Binnius, to the Decree of his Predecessors, and of a General Council, and of all their Oaths.

§ 78. 'But what are Oaths to a dispensing Pope? saith Baronius and Binnius. In his time Ludov. 11. the Emperor was compelled by Acalgifus, Duke of Benevent, to swear that he would never more invade his Confines, nor revenge his Wrongs: But the Pope absolved him from from this Oath, by the authority of God and St. Peter, affirming that which he did to fave his life, was no hurt to him, and that ir was not to be called an Oath, which was made against the good of the Com-'monwealth, by how many Curses soever it was pronounced. p. 920.

679. There are no less than 310 Epistles of this Pope inserted by Binnius in his Councils. The 12th is to plead with the Emperor, to forgive and restore Modelgerus a Murderer; and will you hear the motive? harderer He had fled to Rome, and thereby merited pardon; ' Nam pro tanti itineris labore durissimo, quem veniendo perpessus est, sieut credimus, aliquantulum de peracto scelere indulgentiam meruit, ejus utique interces-· sionibus adjutus cui dictum esse à Domino constat, Tibi dabo claves, &c. Accordingly Epist. 15. he writes to the Bishop to restore him all his Goods and Dignities, though it was contrived Murder, because God inspired him to go to Rome, &c.

> § 80. Many of his Epistles are to summon Bishops to come to Rome, and declare or threaten Excommunication against them if they come not; fuch an abused thing was Excommunication, by which the Pope made men his Subjects. Epist. 76, 77, 78, 79. He striveth to draw back the King of the Bulgarians from the Greek Church, to the Church of Rome, and denounceth Excommunication even to old Ignatius, and all the Greek Bishops of the Diocess of Bulgaria, for ordaining and officiating there, unless they give up the Bulgarians to Rome.

Epist. 174. He writes to the faid King, as if he were fallen from Christ, or his falvation lost, by submitting to the Greek Patriarch, rather than to him; as if the Converts of no Apostles but Peter were saved. And Tibi dabo Claves, and Anathema's, now are the two words that must Fig. 184, And The asso Claves, and Anathemas, now are the two words that mult 185, 189, subdue the world. The Epift. 175. to the Bulgarian Nobles, and Epift. 90, 192, 176, are to the same purpose. As the Religion of Saints tends all to Heaven, so did these Popes to the advancement of their Kingdom. And whereas we now take it justly for a suspicious sign of a proud hypocritical Preacher, that envieth the auditory and esteem of such as are preferred before him, as if other mens Preaching might not win Souls, as well as his; these Popes could not endure the croffing of their ambirion, when Kingdoms took not them for their Lords.

him to do it only in Latine or Greek. You see how the Pope would edifie the Barbarians if he be their pastor. This is the first Papal decree that I remember against publick prayers in a known tongue.

But, alas! his neighbour Italian Bishops had not yet fully learnt the extent of his authority: sending for many Bishops on pain of excommunication to wait on him, and to obey him, old Anspertus Archbishop of Milan was one that disobeyed him; and being forbidden to officiate by him, conformed not to his silencing and suspending decree, but went on in his office as a Nonconformist. The Pope sent two Bishops as Legates to admonish him: He kept them at the dore, and set light by their message; for which the Pope chideth him, Epist. 196.

Epist. 197. He flattereth King Ludovicus to come to Rome and own him, in hope that he may be Emperor and all Kingdoms subject to him.

Epist. 199, 200, 201, 202, 203. He consenteth to the restoring of Photius, but chargeth him to give up the Bulgarians to his jurisdiction.

Many persons in many Epistles he exhorteth to break their Covenants with the Pagans, and chideth and threatneth them that did it not.

Epift. 247. The inclination of Stentopulcher a Pannonian Lord to the Church of Rome, brought down the Popes heart to dispense with Alethodius, and changed his judgment to give very fair reason why Mass and Gospel and all might be used in the Sclavonian and all tongues; only to keep up the honour of the Latine tongue (and his authority) he commandeth that though the rest be done in the Sclavonian, yet the Gospel be sirst read in Latine, and then translated and read over again in the Sclavonian.

Epist. 250.251. He approve th of Photius's restitution, Epist. 256. He is fain to chide Auspert Bishop of Milan; that Instead of fearing his sentence, he laid in prison two Monks sent by the Pope, and taken on the high way. But his heart came down at last, and he speaks Auspertus sair, and alloweth of his ordination of Foseph Episc. Astensis, though irregular.

Epift. 260 and commandeth his Arch-Deacon to obey him.

Epift. 261. After this he excommunicate th the Archbishop of Ravenna, and a great stir there was about that also.

Epist. 292. He had made one Operandus Bishop of Geneva: But Opteramus Archbishop of Vrenna took it to be an usurpation on his right, and laid the Popes Bishop in a miserable prison; so far was he yet from being where he would be.

Epist. 294. Having excommunicated Athanasius Bishop of Naples for not breaking his Covenant with the Saracens, he absolveth him on condition that yet he will break it. The matter was that the Italians not able to resist the Saracens, those that lay next them under their power sought to save themselves by truce and tribute, by which means the Saracens had leisure to come surther near to Rome; and so the Pope to keep them from himself compelled by excommunications the Lords and Bishops of other parts to break their league, and stand up in arms to their own destruction.

That you may know what Bishops now ruled the Churches.

Epist. 295. The foresaid Bishop of Vienna giveth one reason why he rejected Optandus ordained Bishop of Geneva by the Pope, viz. ["Because he never was either baptized, made Clerk, acclamed, or learned] To which saith the Pope [This should be covered in silence, because [let us speak it with your charity] your holiness having nothing of these was yet consecrated in the Church of Vienna.] was not here good succession, and a holy Church. Bishops unbaptized that were no Scholars and no Christians.

Epist. 296. One Bishop by an armed band of men carrieth away another our of the Church, and the Pope interposeth.

Epist. 297. He again soliciteth Michael King of the Bulgarians to become his subject. The poor men that had chosen Christ, were so perplexed between the Priests that strove who should be their Vice-Christ, and King of Kings, that it seemed as hard to them to resolve the doubt, as it before was to be Christians.

Yet Epist. 307. Sheweth, the Bishop of Ravenna being dead, that yet the Roman usurpation was not grown so high as to take the choice of the Bishop out of the People and Presbyters hands, except in long neglected vacancies (as Geneva aforesaid.)

Had not this Pope been kept under by Gods judgments, suffering the Saracens so to ruine Italy as that he still needed the help of Princes, he had been like to have overthrown Rome by his usurpations, setting both Princes and Prelates against him: But necessity made him a statterer of the two Emperors of the West, the Emperor of the East, the King of France, the King of Bulgaria, the Princes of Pannonia, and all that he needed, as ambition made him still striving by Tibi dabo claves, and Anathematizing to affright the world to his obedience. I say not worse of him than Baronius, Binnius, &c. who have no other way to deny the Histories of Pope Joan, than by saying that this mans baser compliance made him called Pope Joan.

Baronius ad an. 879, n. 55 reciteth an Epistle of this Popes so greatly complying with Photius even against the [Filioquen] that Binnius would haveus believe that Photius forged it, And ["epistolam ipsam aterna oblivione dignam nolui (saith he) bisce adjungi.]

§ 81. CCXC. An. 876. a Concilium Ticinense maketh Charles Emperor when the Pope that had crowned Ludovicus before calleth Charles, pra-scitum, praesectum et pradestinatum hereto, with all honourable Elogies.

And here cometh in a great controversie between the Papists, and the Protestants; viz. Whether Kings succeed by inheritance or by the election and making of the Pope. The Pope thought the crast of putting in a big usurping word, was as good as a Law to prove their own power to make Kings and unmake them. Accordingly this Pope when he durst durst stay from Rome in France no longer, lest he lost all, (being imprifoned for refusing the right Heir Charles) returneth, and speaketh some big words, and turneth forced confent into fuper-Kingly commands, and faith (Bin. p. 1010) eligimus merito et approvavimus] solemniter ad Romani Imperii sceptra provenimus) et Augustali nemine deceravimus,&c. And to disable the Kingly claim of inheritance he saith, [Neque enim &bi honorem prasumptuose assimpsit, ut Imperator suret, sed tanguam desideratus, et optatus, postulatus A NOBIS, et a Deo vecatus, et honorisicatus ad desendendam religionem et Christi atique servos tuendos, humiliter ct OBEDIENTER accessit, &c. Nisi enim talem cognovissemus ejus intentionem nunquam animus noster sieret cam promptus ad ipsius promotionem, &c. So if the Pope had not liked him, the Emperor's hereditary right had never made him Emperor. And the flattering Bishops say to the Pope (Bin. p. 1010.) nt non vos prius eligeret, sed contra vos eum et eligeresis et diligeretis. Et nos O Coangelice Papa, vestigia vestra sectantes et falubria monita recipientes, quem amatis amamus, quem eligiftis eligimus, &c.

And now comes in Binnius with his Comment and faith that [would our "refractory novelists, who with great temerity dare profess that the Roman "Popes in the crowning of Emperors have no other right then barely "ministerially to arount and crown them, had but known these AEts () They () we "would from them have learned that that Pope John (alias Joan) did not now "only ancint and crown Charles, but also by Gods instinct did choose him know "to govern the Empire, and raised him to that sublime dignity honouring "him with the August al name, before he was anointed and crowned by him, and that the Empire was conferred on him, not by hereditary right of succoffion, but by the will of the Pope who chose him and granted it to him.] BE WISE therefore OYE KINGS, BE instructed ye that are Judges of the earth--Kiss the Popes soot lest he be angry and ye perish in the way; If his wrath be kindled, yea, but a little, &c.

§ 82. CCXCI. An. 879. § 83. CCXCII. An. 877. A council in Neustria (Normandie) under Hinemarus Rhemensis rebuked Hugo base Son of Lotharius for rebellion and devastation of the Country.

§ 84. CCXCIII. An. 878. a concilium Trecense where the Pope was present excommunicated Formosus Portners (one of the former Popes preachers to the Bulgarians, and one that was after Pope himself.) Also Hinemarus Landunensis was restored blind, and joyned with the other that had his Place, (and so one Church had two Bishops inspite of his uncle Hinemarus Rhemensis that opposed it, and had both put him in and cast him out. § 85. CCXCIV. An. 879. Was a Council of the Popes at Rome for his unrighteous making Ludovicus 3. Emperor, the Pope challenging the first choice: But Auspertus Bishop of Milan came not and ressisted, and though (as you heard) excommunicated by the Pope, did help to turn the choice to the right Heir.

§ 86. CCXCV. Besides some perty Council at Rome, there was an. 879. a General Council at Constantinople of 385 Bishops where Photius was confirmed, and the former General Council (called the 8th also) abrogated, and the word [filioque] taken out of the Creed: The Papists say that the Pope consented only to this as for Photius's restitution, and not for the abrogation of the former Council; and that Photius corrupted his writing, and so they would make all writings uncertain. They say that Pope John's epistle is by the wonderful providence of God sound yet without some clauses added by Photius, whom they call the great architect of lyes: But the Greeks will no more believe the late found Laterane or other Roman Copies, than the Romans will believe the Greek Copies. And how shall we know which of them to believe? (Andhow little doth it concern us?)

§ 87. It must be a controversie also whether this Council must be called Occumenical: I have oft proved that there was never any truly such as to all the world. There were 385 Bishops which is more than the first Council at Nice had, or most others: The Popes Legates were there; Oh but, saith Binnius, It was not they but Photius that did preside: therefore it was not general. Ans. 1. Let the world know then what maketh a general Council in the Papal sense: It doth not represent all the Church unless the Popes Legates preside. So much doth it import to know which Priest is the greatest.

2. But did Binnius forget that he himself affirmeth that at the first General Council at Constantinople the Pope did not preside by himself or any Legate. And yet that is one of the 4th. Councils equalled with the four Gospels; and the Pope dare not deny it less the Greeks surther hereticate or anathematize him.

But faith Binnius, It was no General Council because there was many frands and impostures. Ans. By that rule Trent had no General Council, nor Florence, &c. And so it is lest to the judgment of all men to nullifie such Councils which they can prove to have had frauds and impostures. And must we also nullifie the Papacie of them that have hadsuch frauds?

§ 88. Is it a grand-question whether Pope John confirmed this Council. The approbation is extant. But the Reprobaters say 1. that he put in some terms of limitation (so far as his Legates went right) 2. that he after ex umbone condemned Photias, &c.

But 1. Is it not a General Council if the Popes Legates consent till he personally confirm it? Were all former Councils null, till the Popes personal confirmation? what are his Legates for then? 2. As his Le-gates may mistake, so may he himself: Is it null then till he rectisse his Error? 3. By this we see how impossible it is to know the new Gosple of the Papists; which is Canonical from the Apocryphal. For (as Pope Martin's Conciliariter after, so) here and elswhere the Popes have so ambiguously given their consent that no wit of man can tell what is consented to by them, and what not (as their controversies confessed, e.c.

§ 89. At least whether the Pope consented or no, seeing in this Council the former 8th. General. Council was condemned, and the filioque expunged the Creed, we see how ridiculously our late Papists argue from the consent of Councils to prove the constant Tradition of the Church, saying, Did the Council go to bed in one mind and rise in another?
Did these 385 Bishops do so? or did the former whom they condemned do so? Is this the smooth Current of Tradition? and may we know by it what our Fathers held?

§ 90. When the other Legates consented, Marinus, who was after Pope, diffenting, he was laid in prison thirty dayes at Constantinople.

In the first Act of the Council, as Baronins tells us, John Bishop of Heraclea spake much against the Church of Rome, which he said was the original of all the mischief that had befall them; to overthrow and and cure which this Council was called. Much also against Pore Nocolas and Hadrian he spake, but for Pope John as being for them. In the 2d. Act was read an epiftle of the Patriarch of Alexandria, to the Emperor for abrogating the former 8th. Synod: And Thomas one of the three Legates of the Eastern Patriarchs that consented to the former Synod (the rest being dead) made his penitent recantation. Then the epiftles of the Patriarchs of Ferufalem and Antioch for Photons are read, &c. In the third Act, Pope John's letters were read, as endeavouring the peace of the Eastern Church; which the Council took as a busy precending to more power than he had, and therefore said that "they had peace before his letters came, and that they were superstuous. And whereas he made it his business by this complyance, to get the Bulgarian Diocess; They said this was to controvert the bounds of the Empire, and therefore left it to the Emperor. In the 4th Act the Eastern Patriarchs letters were read, disclaiming their Legates at the last Council, as being not theirs but the Saracens Legates: and condemning that Council. The Papists think Photius forged these. Here also Lords professed repentance, saying that the salse Legates deceived them. In the 5th. Act Metrophanes Bishop of Smyrna is accused of Schissm, for being against Photius. Three Canons also were made. 14 That those excommunicate by the Bishop of Rome should not be restored by the Bishop of Constantinople. Nor those that were excommunicated by the Bishop of Constantinople be restored by the Bishop of Rome: (and to Rome was thut out from troubling them with pretended jurifdiction.) 2. That those that forsake their Bishopricks shall not return to them. 3. Against Magistrates that enslave and beat Bishops. In the 6th. Act the Creed was recited in thout filingue. And in the 7th, all those that should add to it or diminish are Anathematized.

§ 91. CCXCVI. A Council of the Popes at Rame excommunicated Athan flux Bishop and Prince of Naples, for not breaking his league with the Saracens.

§ 92. John dyed. Marinus is made Pope, commanded by his predecessor, called by Platinu, Martin, who suth that he came to the Popedom, malis artibus, and therefore did nothing and soon dyed. But Barchius spitch he lived long enough to do something, viz. 1. He condemned Photius again, and thereby provoked the Emperor Basilius; as, if Rome did still set the imperial Church in contention, and hinder peace. The Emperor affirmed that he was no Bishop of Rome, because he had been ordained Bishop of another place. 2. He destroyeth what Pope John had done, who had deposed Formosus preacher to the Bulgarians, and Bishop Portuensis, and had made him swear that he would never return to the Episcopal seat, but rest content with Lay-Communion: But Pope Marinus recalled him to the City and restored him to his Bishoprick, and absolved him from his oath, which Baronius and Binnius doubt not but he had power to do; yea, and to dispense with the illeasts of the Pope, which he did our of private affects and partiality.

§ 93. In his time also the Church of Rome used Filiague, in opposition to Photius; Spain and France having used it before. Because, saith Baronius and Binnius, Photius had wrote about it to the Ignorant and Substitutional Archbishop of Aquileia. (There was it seems there so many of the greatest Bishops Imperitive Schismatics in the Papal sense, as intimateth that as the Popes greatness rose in height, it did not grow equally in length and breadth.)

§ 94. Marinus having reigned a year and twenty dayes (a fhort pleasure to sell eternal happines for) Hadrian the third succeeded him, and had longer part of the usurped Kingdom, viz. a year and three months and nineteen dayes. He also damned Photius, and was bitterly reproached by the Emperor Basilius, whose contumelious letters found him dead, and his successor answered them. (Was all the Christian world now (till Luther) subject to the Pope?)

Tlatina faith of this Pope, that ["He was of so great a spirit that in the "very beginning of his Papacy, he straitway decreed that Popes should be "made without expecting the Emperors authority, and that the suffrages stof the clergy and PEOPLE should be free: which was before by Pope Ni"colas rather attempted than indeed begun. He was I suppose encouraged by the opportunity of Charles his departing with his army from Italy to "subdue the rebelling Normans.] Rome was still on the rising hand.

§ 95. Stephen the 5th. alias 6th. succeeded him. In his time Carolins Crassus the Emperor is by a convention of Lords and Bishops deposed from his Empire as too dull and unworthy. (Kings were brought under as elective by the Pope, and now are at the mercy of their subjects.) Arnulphus a base son of Carolomannus got an interest in the subjects, and they deposed the Emperor and set him up. Baronius and Saith B.t-Binnius afcribe it to Gods judgment for Charles his wronging of Richar. results and da a pure Virgin, yet repudiated by him. They say that he was reduced to such poverty that he was fain to beg his bread of Arnulphus, ile 12th.

and dyed 888 in the 4th year of his Empire.

He wondereth at his "taunts and scoffs against the holy Pope, and the curses or reproaches which " he loaded the Roman Church with, to which he ought with all veneration "to be subject, as King, who made him the judge of Prelates whose doctrine " he must obey, and why he faid Marinus was no Bishop, &c. By this the reader may perceive whether yet all the Christian world obeyed the Pope, or judged him to be their Governor.

6 102. CCC. A Council at Wormes was called to end a controversie between two Prelates, Bishops of Colen and Hamburg, striving for Bremen (to have greater Diocesses and jutisdiction.)

§ 103. Next cometh the forementioned Pope Formofus, faith Onuphrius the first Pope that ever was made of one that before had been a Bishop. For the old Canons oft decreed that no Bishop remove from his first place: only when one was ordained against his will, and not consenting never possess the Place, sometimes he was accepted to another. Now was the fourteenth time that Rome had two Bishops at once by schism. Sergins got in to be Pope, but they forced him to refign, and banished him. Formefus was well esteemed of for his preaching to the Bulgarians; but Pope John 8 (some think for reproving his sin) deposed him (as afore faid) and made him swear never to return to be a Bishop: But Marinus absolved him, and he came in thus perjured; notwithstanding the false pretence of Papists that the Pope can dispense with fuch oaths; the matter of them being a thing lawful, but not necessary.

Platina faith that he was suspected to have a hand in the tumult that imprisoned Pope John, and that he came to the Popedom Largitione potius quam virtute, by gifts rather than virtue, that is, by Simonie.

He did (lawfully if you will believe Baronius and Binnius) create, anoint, and consecrate Lambert, after his Father Wido. Emperor (that was not Heir:) yet after confecrated Arnulphus (its like by confirmint;) for fuch things the Roman Nobles hated him. But he got Arnulphus to Rome; who revenged the Pope by beheading many of the Princes that were hasting to meet him, which was not like to win mens love.

S. 104. He wrote an honest Epistle to the English Clergie, perswading them to keep up the ministry, and reproving them for indulging of Rhemes calleth a Synod and deposeth him, and sets up Charles (such Power had Prelates). Some say the French Chose Odo by Arnulphus's Consent; and some say, that he dying, desired that Charles might have Possession. This was Anno 892.

- 9. 2. The great Devastations made by the Normans, burning Cities, Churches, Monasteries; and at last forcing Consent for a Habitation in Neustria, I pass over; and Petavius out of some Writers of their own will tell you, that when Chartress was besieged by them, the Virgin Marys smock, which King Charles Calvus had brought thither from Besanson, being carried, cast them into so great a Terror, that they fled away all in Consusting. Where they had this Smock, and how many Hundred Years after the Virgin Marys death it was found, and how they knew it to be hers, and how it was so long kept, and where, and why it did not many Miracles sooner, till above 900 Years after Christ, are Questions which I cannot Answer.
- §.3. Italy and France were all this while fill'd with Civil Wars. Wido and his Son Lambert being dead, Berengarius got Possession of Italy, whom Lewis after overcame, and was made Emperor at Rome, Crowned by the Pope: But three years after, taken by Berengarius, was Deposed, and had his Eyes put out. Yet after this Berengarius was cut off, and Lewis restored and Anointed by Pope John 10. Rodulphus King of Burgundy was set up by some Italian Nobles against Berengarius, and overthrowing his Army, was called King of Italy. Berengarius was kil'd by Treachery: Rodulphus was soon Deposed, and the Italians made Hugo Earl of Provence King. At last he joyned his Son Lotharius with him: The younger Berengarius prevaileth against him, driveth him to Provence; and is made King: Intending to marry his Son Adalbertus to Adaleidis the Widdow of Lotharius; she invited Otho King of Germany into Italy and marryed him, vyho after is made the first Germane Emperor: Of all which, more after in the particular Order and place. Reformation: Many of the Canons are to secure and advance the Clergy. The ninth decideth a doubt, if an Earl (or civil Ruler) Command the People to meet at one place (on Civil accounts) and the Bishop command them to meet at another on the same day, none shall obey the Magistrate (or Earls) but he and all his Company shall obey the Bishop and come to him. Cap. 10. No Bishop shall be Deposed but by twelve Bishops, no Presbyter but by six Bishops, no Deacon but by three, Cap. 21. In Controversies, Lay-men must swear, but Clergy-men must not be put to swear, Cap. 22. There is allowed Tryal by fire, Perignem Candenti ferro Caute examinetur.

9. 6. CCCIV. A Council at Nantes made more disciplinary Canons.
9. 7. Who was next Pope is not agreed: Platina and Onuphrius say, that Boniface was rightly Chosen, and Reigned but twenty six days, saith Platina, or sisteen saith Onuphrius; others (saith Platina) say twelve years: Baronius (and Binius) saith, that he was no Pope; and that he did but invade the Pope-dome, and was homo nefarius, a wicked man, twice before this Degraded: First from his Deaconship, and next from his Presbyterate, Damned in a Romane Synod under John the Ninth: He addeth, that (both of them) Bonisace and Stephen got the place by Force, Fear and Tyranny, and so it was but one Intruder, that thrust out another Intruder: (But how then is the Succession secured. Why, it's added) Tet Stephen is numbred with the Popes by the common Sentence (or Opinion) because to avoid the danger of Schisme, though he was homo scelestissimus, a most wicked man; yet all the Clergy approved bim, and the whole Catholik Church, took him for Christs Vicar & Peters Successor. (How prove you that, why, because such such such saids.)

§. 8. Say Barronius, and Binius, he began his Pope-dome with that Sacriledg, as to take the Corps of Formosus out of his Grave, and cloathing him in his Pontisical Robes, (he set him in a Chair, and saith Platina, there judged him as no Pope, because he had been sirst a Bishop; which indeed, by the old Canons, nullified his calling; For Formosus, was the first Pope that had been before a Bishop, as is said, unless the Emporour Basil truly charged Macrinus with the same): Having Expositulated with the dead man, * why he being a Bishop would take the Pope-dome, he cut off his three four Fingers with which he had Anointed, and cast them into the River Tyber, and commanded, that all that he had Ordained should be Ordained again: (and so Conform to him.)

And they wonder with what face of Reason Onuphrius rejecteth all this as a Fable, when the Antient Monuments, Synodal Acts, and Historians testify it. Do you wonder at this? why it is because he was not willing it should be believed: a Reason that is not frange to your selves.

5. 4. CCCV. Pope Stephen called a Council, in which his usage of Pope Formosus was approved, Bin. ex Baron. p. 1047. so ready were the Bishops to follow the strongest side, in such things as the Papists mention with abhorrence. And (say they) this portentum attended the Synod, That the Laterane Church, the chief Seat of the Pope, by the impulse of an evill Angel fell down quite quite from the Altar to the doors: the Walls not being able to fland, when the Chief Cardinal Door was shaken with the Earthquake of Sogreat a Villany.

§. 10. But here the Authors calling us Novatores (as if fuch Popes were of glorious Antiquity) are hard put to it to Vindicate against us the Popes infallibility! And how do they do it? Why Ift. They fay that all that Stephen did against Formosus, a man stricken with Madness, did it sulfilling the perswasion of his boyling Rage. But in the lawful use of his Papal Authority, he defined nothing against Faith or good manners: For the Bishops that were for this Cause called to the Council, and the Presbyters not unlike to Stephen himself, did prosecute Formosus with the same hatred; and therefore pronounced that Sentence against him, which they foreknew would be pleasing to a man smitten with Fury: so that we confess violent Tyranny, but no Etrour in Fauth defined or approved by him, Lawfully using his Papal Authority: And yet it were no prejudice to the Papal Seat, if we grant, that a false Pope, not lawfully Chosen, but invading and obtunded, did err in afferting Articles of Faith. Thus the Author.

Anf. 1. But if you grant this, is not your Succession interrupted? 2. And was your Church a true Church, when an Essential part was Null? 3. Howver, was it the Holy Church when an effential Part was fuch a Villain? 4. Will not your Argument as well prove every Bishop, Priest, or man Infallible? For no one of them all can define falfly against an Article of Faith, as long as he lawfully useth his Power; For it is no lawful use of power that so defineth and belieth God. 5. But is all your foundation of Faith come to this? It is then but faying, when ever your Pope and Church Erreth, that they did not use their Power lawfully: And what relief is that to the deceived? How shall we know when your Popes have used it lawfully, and when not; and so what is true among you, and what false? 6. And were your Roman Council of Bishops and Priests, all as bad as this Villainous Pope, and ready to please him in their Decrees: And was this a Holy Church, and like to be an Infallible Council: And must the World follow them? 7. And how then shall we know that it was not just so with many other sormer and following Councils; and that it will not be so with you again! O miserable shifts against plain Truth!

S. 11. The same great Authors after Luntprandus, 1, 1, c.o. say, that Stephen an Invader of the Papal Seat, by the faction of the Nobles against Adelbert, Prince of Etruria, was thrust into prison An. 900, and after he had been Porc Six Years, being strangled in the Same Prison, ended his Days by Gods Vengeance in an infamous Death]: Yet Platina saith, that he died the first Year and third month of his Reign; and Onuphrius faith, he fate one year, two

o. 12. It's strang that Luispraudus saith, that Stephen condemned the Corps of Formolus for being a Bishop before, when Platina and Onuphrius fay, that he himself was Episcopus Anagninus, when made Pope.

§. 13. And Platina faith, that [This Controversie (against Formesus) was Sf2 great and of ill Examples; seeing that after this, it was almost always kept as a Custome, that following Popes did either Infring, or wholly undoe the Acts of those that went before them:] And yet were they Infallible?

5. 14. The next Pope was called Romanus, whose Life Platina thus Deferibeth: Romanus as soon as he was Pope, presently Abrogateth and Condemneth the Decrees and Acts of Stephen: For these Popes thought of nothing, but to Extinguish the Name and Dignity of their Predecessors, than which nothing can be worse, or the part of a narrower mind: For they that trust to such Acts as these, having no Virtue themselves, endeavor to rase out the men of Desert, whom through sloth and malice they cannot match. You shall never find any to envy anothers Fame, but one that himself is Contaminated with all disgrace, and despaireth that his own Name should ever be Famous with Posterity: These are they that by Fraud, Malice, Crast, and evil speaking, do Rite, Tear, Accuse, and Worry those that deserve well of Mankind; like cowardly, or slothful, and useless Dogs, that dare not set upon wild Beasts themselves, but will bite those that are eyed, or in their Dens. So Platina. --- Romanus Ruled but three Months.

§. 15. Next Succeeded in the Popedome Theodorus 2. who faith Platina followed the steps of the Seditious: For he restored the Acts of Formosus, and preferred his followers: and Reigned but Twenty days.

Next came John 9. (or 10. as others) faith Platina. [He reflored the Cause of Pope-Formosus, many of the People being against it: whence arose such a Sedition, that they hardly scaped a Battle. Baronius saith, that Ludovicus 4. was deposed and blinded now by Berengarius, who assumed the Empire; and this Pope Crowned him, through fear! Yet after he was gone, he called Lambert to Rome, and with a Synod concurring with him, declared the Coronations both of Berengarius and Arnulph to be Null, as being extorted; and so took Lambert for King and Emperour: Did not the Crowns of Princes sit very loose, when it was but a Popes pretending that he Crowned them through Fear; and they were presently Deposed? Would these Popes have been Martyrs, or were they Christians or Gnosticks, that would sin, if they were but put in fear? And would not fear have made them own a Heresy, as well as other sin? On this occasion all was cast into Consusion: the Pope was sain to sly to Ravenua for protection, to him whom he had Crowned.

9. 16. CCCVI. This Pope called a Synodat Rome (that called Overensis, I pass by as of small moment) An. 904. in which he condemned the fact of Pope Stephen, decreeing that the Dead are not to be judged by men. But what became of the Synod of Bishops, that had joyned herein with Pope Stephen? Why (Bin. p. 1049) they turn'd with the times, and did as such had used to do; They asked forgiveness, and said, they did it for Fear; and so, he that hath power by Fear or Hope, can make such Bishops and Councils Sin and Repent, and Sin again, and Repent again, as Interest altereth. They were pardoned. But Formosius preferment from a Bishoprick to the Popedome was Voted to be against the Canons, excusable only by necessity, and not to be imitated but in cases of necessity: His Ordained Clergy were Restored, and Re-ordinations and Rebaptizations, forbidden as unlawful.

s. 17. CCCVII. Another Synod he called at Ravenna for the same use, when he sted thither from Rome; of 74 Bishops. Barorius saith, He was another feremias sent of God, to pluck up and pull down what Pope. Stephen had done. Platina saith [I think this came to pass because Popes were deported from St. Peters steps; and chiefly, because the Christian Common-wealth had idle slothful Princes that would have Peters ship thus tossed, less the Ruler if he look about him, should cast them out as evil Pilots. Arnulphus was given to pleasure, and Charles the simple or rather foolish of France, was little better; and so the Hungarians destroyed and killed in Germany and France, and the Affricans in Calabria, and had little resistance; Blood and Misery being the common Lot.

He addeth, [That this Pope John dying in the 2d. Year and 15th. day of his Reign, left nothing worthy of Memory behind him, but that He revived fome Seditions that before were almost extinct.

And it is a sad question, that Herveus Bishop of Rhemes put to him (Bin. p. 1048) "What to do with these that are Baptized and Rebapti"zed, and yet after Baptism live as the Heathens, kell Christians, yea the "Priests, sacrifice to Idols, eat things offered to them? The Pope durst "not use Discipline on these, because they were Novices, lest he as"fright them from the Church to Heathenisme again; but lest them to "the Bishops Discretion and Experience, to do as he saw best.

5. 18. This Pope had a Corrival, which was the 15. Schifme: Scrgius that had been made Pope with Formosus, and was put out and Banished, did now get in again; but John had the stronger part, and cast him out, and Banished him once again: Onuphr. Chron. p. 28. But had he been but strong enough, the succession had come down from him, as right.

9. 19. Benediet the 4. came next: "Nothing faith Platina, was done in his time that is much to be praifed; because both Princes, Popes, and Clergy were grown Debauched; bad Princes making Pipes by Tyranny: Now the Line of Charles the Great, lost the Empire, Ludovicus the Son of Arnulphus being slain by Berengarius; and so they lost both Italy, Germany, (and after France) by their own, and the Clergies Wickedness.

9. 20. Leo. 5. Came next, Anno 907. Who thrust him in, I find not; but when he had Reigned but 40. days, his familiar friend Christopher had list to be Pope, and east him out, and laid him in Fetters; where it's said he dyed of Gries: where Platina well noteth, that ["The saying is certainly true, that Dignitics (or places of preferment) receive more honour from the Men, than the Men do from the Dignitics (or places)]

9. 21. Christopher thus got in by sudden invasion, kept it longer than S f 3

Leo did, even near seven Months; and then he that had been twice Pope before, did once again try for it, and was too strong for Christopher, and put him into a Monastery. A Holy place then, no doubt, For faith Platina [This was the only refuge of the Calamiteus: For in those times bad Clergy Men were thurst into Monasteries, by way of Banishment, as heretofore into Islands]

§. 22. The Man that did this and got the Popedom, was Sergius 3. who had been twice before cast out: saith Baron, and Bin. (p. 1052.) [That wicked Sergius (Nesandus) by Albertus Armes got in: A Man that was the servant of all Vices, and of all Men the most wicked (Facinorosissimus) invaded the Popedom, and so was by all Men taken for no lawful Pope: To bis horrid Sacriledge, he added the most impudent silthyness; and by Marozia (a great Whore) the Daughter of that most famous Whore Theodora, he begot his Son John (after Pope.)] For many Historians tell us, how these two samous Whores did rule Rome, and make and unmake Popes.

9. 23. This Pope undid again all that had been done for Formofus, and against Stephen: For both the King of France, and Sergius, were Enemies to Formosus, for setting up other powers against France; and because his party was against Sergius: But I wonder that Platina tells us, that both Stephen and Sergius took Formosus out of his Grave, and the one cut off his three Fingers, and the other his Head; and both cast into Tyber! If this be true, he was taken up again the first time, and buried again. But I suppose that it was but his Fingers that were cast in the first time, and the Corps after; or else he was found after the first time. Platina saith, It is reported, but not of any certainty; that some Fisher-men found the Corps, and buried it at St. Peters Church, and that while it was doing, the Church Images bowed to it (It's well Uncertainty was put into the Story:) and that some thought this moved Sergius to envy; but that indeed it was, because Formosus party were against his Papacy. It feems by this that the Fisher-men found him after the first casting into Tyber; or else his burial by them could not be called the occasion of Sergius fact. So little rest had this Popes Carkass, being twice buried, twice taken up, twice judged, and executed after death, and twice cast into Tyber. But saith Platina, [Popes now seeking and getting the Popedome by liberty and ambition, disregarding Gods Worship, exercised enmity against one another; no otherwise than do the cruellest Tyrants, glutting their own lusts the more securely, when there are none left to restrain Vices. This wicked Man for almost seven Years enjoyed the fruits of his iniquity.

§. 24. Here Baronius and Binius forget to answer the great difficulty. 1st. How the Roman succession escaped from being interrupted. 2. And also, where was the Roman Church while such Reigned as were no Popes. 3. And also, where was its Holiness and Infallibility, when it had the worst of M.n (as they say themselves) thus set over them as their Heads: But they are careful, [Nequis pufillanimus ex hoc facto scandalum accipiat, lest weak minded persons should be scandalized by this: And they tell us as a wonderful providence of God, That for great was the reverence to the Church of Rome, that even when fuch Aden invaded the Popedome unlawfully, being even in the Churches censure rather Apostalical than Apostolical; yet those that did but hear who was Pope (especially the Northern Countries that were far off) ebeyed them: so that any Man may understand by how great a providence God Governeth the universal Church, which when it was set on Fire at the will of Whores, and all mischiess and scandals did increase, and it was feared it would be divided by a great schisme; yet God defended it from all herefy and schisme, all Nations persisted in one bond of Faith, and Covent of Obedience.] Indeed Gods providence is wonderful that faveth his true Church from such wicked usurpers; and keepeth a Union of all in Christ: But this is no honour to the wicked usurpers; when now fifteen schismes had divided them, and many more afterward; nor was it any honour or bleffing, to them that gave up their Kingdoms to such usurpers. If these were no Popes, but intruding Whore-mongers; was it a blesfing to the World to be deceived, and to take those for Popes, that indeed were none. But had not they then a feeming Church, and indeed none, when an effential part was Null.

§. 25. CCCVIII. They fay that Anno 909. A Council at Soiffons ordered some Reformation.

9. 26. Leo called Philosophus Son to Basilius Macedo, this while was Emperour in the East, who being formerly suspected and imprifoned by his Father, upon some suggestion of Photius, and Santabacenus was revenged on them, when he Reigned, and deposed Photius, and put him into a Monaster). This is the rest, that Ambition procureth. Thus Sin is the mifery of the Sinner. Alexander his Unckle was Gardian to Constantine Prophyrus Leo's Son, the Father being Dead: Nicholas had before been made Patriark, and upon offence deposed, and Eurhymius put in his place. But Alexander deposed Eurhymius, and restored Nicholas: and having spent thirteen Months in Drunkenness and Lust, Bled to Death; and Constantine, seven Years old, with his Mother Zoe Reigned alone: Constantine Ducas rebelling, is subdued: The Bulgarians Conquered by Leo Phocas General; who thereupon aspiring to the Crown, was flain. Eight Years after. Zoe is removed, and one Romanus Lecapenus made Guardian; and Cafar, He advanced three of Huft. 1, 8his Sons to the like honor, to strengthen himself, and made his other case. Son Theophilast Patriark, instead of Supplier, though he was but fixteen Years old. He Married his Daughter to the Bulgarian King; and then began to despise the Emperour, and prefer himself. God punithed this, by permitting his own Son Stephen, to depose and banish him into an Island: At last Constantine awaked, and deposed them all, and ruled himself, in Drunkenness, and Debauchery fisteen Years, and then dyed, dyed; or as some say, was killed by Romanus's Sons.

After him Nicephorus Phocus a successful Warrior, but a bad Man, Ruled; The Church called him bad for oppressing them with Taxes: His Wise Theophanon, and John Trimisces (who succeeded) killed him. Thus hath the World been Governed; and this is the profit of Ambition.

§. 27. The next Pope is Anastratius the 3d. who sate two Years, and two Months. In this time the Eastern Emperous Leo published Constitutions, which Baronius and Binius (p. 1053) deride as ridiculous, in imitation of Justiman, because he presumed to make Church Laws.

5. 28. Lando was the next Pope, Anno 912. and fate 6. Months and 22. Days; fay Baronius and Binius, [This Man at the importunate instance, of that most potent, most neble, and most impudent Whore Theodora, (who had prossituted one of her Daughters Marozia to Pope Sergius, and the other Theodora to Aldebert Marquess of Tuscia, and hereby had obtained or kept the Monarchy of the City, (who was Pope if this Whore was Monarch) did create John whom she most sithily doted on, a Presbyter of Ravina, the Bishop of Bononia, and Peter Arch-Bishop of Ravenna being Dead, he made him there Arch-Bishop. And a little after so filthy an act, he Died. Luitpraud. l. 2. c. 13.

5. 29. Next cometh this same Man, Anno 912 John 10. saith Platina and others, the Son of Pope Sergius (by the Whore Marozia fay fome, but its not like, because Marozia killed him.) But its more probable, as Onuphrius noteth, that it was not this John, but the next that was Son to Sergius and Marozia This Pope faith Baron, and Bin, is he that the famous Whore Theodora for great comeliness of person doted on; and faith Luispraud, got him made Arch-Bishop of Ravenna, and after Pope of Rome, that she might not lye with him so seldome, as the distance between Rome and Ravenna would necessitate. So [say they, this impudent Man being powerful at Rome, by the strength of a Whore, is made a false Pope and wicked invader of the Seat] where they shew how this Whore obtained her power. But was this no interruption of the fuccession neither, nor a nullifying of the Papal Church, while he fate 13. or as Onuphrius, 14. Years and more. No faith Baron. (and Bin.) He that was an Invader, Theif, and Robber, by the after Confent of the Roman Clergy, became the lawful Pope of Rome. 1. We fee then, what the Romane Clergy were, that would have fuch a Pope. 2. But they give no proof of any such Consent; but say, It is verisimile. 3. And where was the Church till that Consent, or at least its Holiness. 4. Can such Mens Consent make a Pope of an uncapable person? Will no Wickedness incapacitate?

9. 30. Say the foresaid Authors, in this Popes time Sifewandus Bishop of Compostella, finding the great diversity of the Roman and Mo-zarzbick Liturgy, altered his by the Popes consent.

After

After Herveus, one Sculphus was Arch-Bishop of Rhemes. Heribert Earl of Aquitane, considering that the Bishop of Rhemes Anointeth the King of France, bargained to have his Son made next Bishop, that thereby he might get the Crown. In hast Seulphus is Poysoned, because they could not stay till he dyed. Heribert's Son, not yet Five Years old, is made Arch-Bishop. (Ofce'ms in auditum, say Baronius and Binius.) This monstreus Election, (say they) never before scen or heard of in the Christian World, nor perhaps thought of, Pope John did not only not disallew, but ratified.— And by this Fath, the Infamous Pope gave an Example to many Princes, not only in that, but the sellowing Ages, (Alas, for Grief!) to precure Lads that were their Kindred, to be thrust into the Chief Scats, (or Bishopricks) to the great Mischief of the Church.] A Work (say they) indeed, worthy such a Pope, whom an Infamous Woman, by an Infamous Work, had thrust into St. Peter's Chair.

Qu. Were such Villaines as Insallible as others? Did their Love, Honelty, and Chastity sail; and yet, Were they secured against the Failing of their Faith? Or, Had they a Sincere Faith, that had no other Grace? And, Could these forgive Sins, and deliver Souls out of Purgatory?

When he had Jute Fourteen Years, or Sixteen, (saith Baronius and Binius) Marquess Wido, by the Perswasion of his Wise Marozia, (Pope Sergius Whore) for the sake of his Brother Peter, whom they hated, east him out of his Seat into a Prison; where shortly after, he was Choked with a Pillow: And so the Invader, and unjust Deteiner of the Apostolick-Seat, had an End worthy of his Wickedness. And he, that by the Impudent Mother, Theodora, had violently seized on the Holy Seat, by her as Impudent Daughter, was by God's just Jud ment Ejested, Imprisoned, and Deprived both of it, and of his Life. Ex Lutpr. & Frodoaldo, Baron.

9.31. CCCIX. Anno 912. A Synod at Confinence, decreed as against Incest, That none Marry within the seventh Degree of Kindred. Was that Divine Law?

9. 32. Two or Three other Synods at Trosleium are mentioned, about finall Matters; and One at Duisburge, to Excommunicate some that put out the Bishops Eyes.

9. 33. The next Pope, is Loo the Sixth; and Dyed after Seven (or Six) Months, and Fifteen Dayes.

§. 34. Next, Anno 929. succeeded Stephen the Eighth, (or Seventh) and fate but two Years, one Month, and fifteen Dayes. How they were so fast dispatched, I omit.

§. 35. Next comes the Son of Marozia, Pope Sergius his Bastard, call'd John the Eleventh: His Mother, and Father-in-Law. Wido, got him in Anno 931. even when he was a Lad under Age. His Brother Albericus, (saith Baronius) did keep this Pope in Prison to his Death. But the Case was this, (vid. Ein. p. 1055.) [Wido being Dead, Marozia rozia offereth the Dominion of Rome to his own Brother Hugo, on.condition he would Marry her: He accepted the Condition; and secretly entering the Castle of St. Angelo, after he had committed Incest with her, his Brother's Widow, he despised the Romans. When his Son-in-Law Albericus, by his Mother Marozia's Command, poured out Water to wash his Hands, he stroke him on the Face for pouring too much. To Revenge this Wrong, Albericus stir'd up the Romans to a Desection; and having by Assault of the Castle, put to Flight his Father-in-Law Hugo, he commanded his Mother Marozia, and his Bastard-Brother, the Counterfeit Pope John, to be kept in Prison; in which the violent Invader dyed, being violently cast out, after for sive Years, and some Months, he had rather siltaily Desided, than Ruled the Apostolick-Seat. Saith Binius out of Luitpraudus and Baronius: Calling him a Monster; and yet Magnisying Rome, because such were Obeyed.

§. 36. CCCX. Anno 932. A small Council at Erford in Germany, under King Henry, decreed, 1. That Holy-Dayes be kept for an Honourable Commemoration of the Twelve Apostles, and Fasting on the Evens. 2. That no State-Meetings be kept on the Lord's-Dayes, or other Holy-Dayes; nor Christians then cited to the Courts of Justice.

3. Nor when he is going to Church. 4. That scandalous Ministers be tryed. 5. That no private Christian make, or impose any Fast on himfelf, without the Bishop, or his Missionaries Consent. (An unreasonable Usurpation! Must the Bishop needs know all the Reasons that every Min hath for Fasting, and be Judge of them? But sure, the Bishop seeds the same than the s

Shop's Diecess had not then so many hundred Parishes, and so many Counties, as they have now: Else, by that time, the Bishop and his Commissary had heard a Hundred Thousand, or Fifty Thousand Persons, tell him, what Reasons they had to Fast besides the common Fasts, at any time, or on any special Occasions, much of his time would be taken up.

§. 37. Anno 935. A Council at Rhemes against Church-Robbers, &c.

§. 38. Anno 936. Lee the Seventh was made Pope, after John the Eleventh. In that time Hugo, that was got away from Albericus, had got an Army, and Besseged Rome. A Match was made for Albericus to Marry Hugo's Daughter: And so Marozia's Husband and Son were agreed, by the means of Odo, Abbot of Cluniac.

§. 39. Henry, King of Germany, the Glory (saith Baronius and Binius) of Christian Religion, dyed at this time; who, after many other Nations, Converted also the King of Denmark to the Christian Faith: and left his Son Otho, the Heir of his Piety and Valeur. Yet are not other Papists ashamed to say, That all these Nations were Converted by the Pope; who was the great Scandal, that hindred the Conversion of the World.

§. 40. But (fay the same Authors) Manasses, Bishop of Arles, now troubled the Church: Being an Ambitious Man, not contented with his Seat, by the means of Hugo King of Italy, he also invaded the Bishopricks of Verona, Verona, and of Trent, and of Mantua, and of Milan it felf! (O now the Church prosper'd!) Saying, That he did it by the Example of the Prince of the Apostles; who at once possessed Rome, Antioch, and Alexandria.] Ex Lunprand. (And could the Pope blame him, that would be Bishop at the Antipodes, and have all the World?) But its strange, that Men should talk of Bishops Ambition, as of a strange thing, in the Year 937.

§. 41. Anno 939. Pope Stephen the Nineth was chosen by Otho of Germany, without the Cardinal-Clergy, who had neither Power, nor Virtue enough, to choose: And the City was under the Power of Albericus, who Tyrannized over them: And because he had not the Choice he caused some Fellows so to cut and mangle the Face of the Pope, that he would never after be feen abroad, but kept close till he dyed; which was after Three Years. This Otho refolved to Revenge on Alberieus: And also, the War between Hugo, and Alberieus, broke out Platina saith, That Hugo was about to Revenge the Pope, but again. then Dyed.

6. 42. A Synod was at Narbon, to end the Contention of two Bishops, about the Extent of their Diocesses, and Jurisdiction.

9. 43. CCCXI. If yet you perceive not the fad State of the Church, by Men's striving for Church-Dignitics; a Council at Soissons, Anno 040. will tell you more. You heard before, how the Earl of Aquitane had got his Son to be made Arch-Bishop of Rhemes: The Child in coats, was but Five Years old: It happened, that he was put out again for his Infancy, or Non-Age; and Artaldus, a Monk, chosen in his stead. This Council of Bishops, was to decide the Case between the two Arch-Bishops. The Objection against one, was his Infancy, and his Father's ill means to bring him in: The Objection against the other, was Perjury; He had sworn, that he would never accept an Arch-Bishoprick: (Alas! Must the Church of France be Headed by one of these; an Infant, or a Perjured Monk!) The Synod cast out the Perjured Monk, and judged the Seat to the Infant, as being law- Frodoard. fully Chosen; (Power made it a Lawful Call.) And the Bishops went in Chroto khemes, and Consecrated him.

6. 44. In the Year 920. the French Nobles, by consent at Soiffons, had Revolted from King Charles; because he took Haganon, a Man of low Quality, into his Privy-Council, and made him Great: Hervens, Bishop of Rhemes, had partly healed this Breach. But, Anno 922. it broke out again; and the Nobles chose Robers King, and Herveus Consecrated him: But this Rebellion was their Ruin. Years after dyeth Herveus: And the next Year, Robert Fighting against Charles, was slain at Soissons; yet his Army conquered the King's. Shortly after, Rodolph Duke of Burgundy, is called in by the Nobles, and made King; as if the Kingdom had been void. Charles, on pretence of a Treaty, is led by Heribert to a Castle; and thence carryed to Perone, where he dyed, Anno 929. leaving a Son Lewis to Fight And when Charles was in Prison, Hugo rejected for the Kingdom. Rodulph, and called Lewis out of England, to be King, Anno 936. But Hugo and Heribert would be his Masters, and gave him little Quiet. Heribert dyeth miserably, and Repentetir. Hugo Domincering, the King craveth Aid of Otho out of Germany, against him: But shortly dyeth himself, by a Disease got by a Fall in Hunting a Wolf. Letharius his Son, succeedeth him. In his Third Year, Hugo the Great Duke of Orleance, dyeth; and Lotharius the King, Anno 986. His Son Ludovicus succeeded; who dyed Childless, Anno oS7. And in him. ended the Line of Charles the Great: For Charles Duke of Loraine, that was next, was by the Treachery of a Bishop, taken by Hugo Capet, the Son of the fore-faid Duke Hugo, and imprisoned to Death: And this Hugo get Peffession of the Crown. So much briefly on the By of these Matters; that they after interrupt us not too much: See. Dion. Perav. lib. S. c. 16.

8, 45. Marinus 2. (alias, Martin 3.) is made Pope, Anno 943. and Reigned three Years, and some Months (the common Time of Popes in that Age.) In his time, Artaldus strove again for the Seat of Rhemes.

5: 46. CCCXII. When Bishops would need be Princes, they taught Princes to resolve to be Bishops: And as Heribert did at Rhemes, so did the Emperor at Constantinople put in a Patriark, Trypho, a Monk; on condition, that he should hold it but till his own Son Theophylact. came to Age. When the time came, Trypho would not Resigne: A Council is called; where Bin, ex Curopal, tells you the State of that Church also, as too like the Western. The Council being met, Tryphon makes a Speech to them, and faith; That his Adversaries, that had a mind to cast him out, gave the reason, that he knew not Letters: But that they might all see that this was false, and that he could Write and Read. he call'd for Pen and Paper; and (having been taught thus much before) wrote his Name thus: [Tryphon, by the Mercy of God, Arch-Beshop of Constantinople, New Rome, and Universal Patriark, 7 (for that was then the Title.) The Emperor receiving the Paper, (it feems, knowing that he could not Read) writeth over head [Knowing my self Unworthy, I Resigne the Throne to any that will.] And so sent the Paper to the Council; and the Bishops (wife and Good Men, you must suppose) Dethron'd Tryphon. The Seat staid void five Months, till Theophylast came to Age; who then was chosen.

§. 47. Anno 946. Agapetus the Second is made Pope, in a time when Wars (between the Hungarians, and Henry Bavaria, Berengarius and Otho, &c.) made Miferable the Countries, and Ignorance and Ambitis on the Churches.

9. 48. CCCXIII. A Council at Virdun in France, again tryed the Cause between the fore-said Insant, and the Perjured Bishops, Hugo and Artald; and they undid what the last had done, and Deposed Hugo; and gave the Seat to Artald. Yet we have not done with Doing and Undoing: For Pope Agapete now took Hugo's Part; and wrote to the Bishops of France and Germany, that Hugo that was in Possession, was to be kept there. But the Papists say, he mistook by Hugo's Missia-formation.

§. 49. CCCXIV. Anno 948. Another Council at Moscome was called for the same Business: Hugo would not come in, but sent the Pope's Letters; which being not Canonical, but his bare Command, they rejected them, cast out, and Excommunicated Hugo, till the next General-Council.

5. 50. CCCXV. Anno 948. A General-Council of France and Germany is called at Engelenheim, for the same Cause; almost all France being disquieted about two Mens striving, who should be the Great Arch-Bishop: The Pope's Legate Marinus, proved Hugo's Letters salse; and Hugo was Excommunicated, and Artald seeled. But the Presence of two Kings, Ludovieus and Otho, did much there-to.

The Bishops thence removed to Triers, (called another Council) where they judged for King Ludovieus, against Duke Hugo; and Excommunicated some Bishops Ordained by Bishop Hugo, (that was Ordained in his Child-hood.)

And another Council at Rome confirmed these things.

9. 51. Now cometh the Famous Pope John the Twelfth, the Son of Prince Albericus, the Son of the Famous Whore: A Child too. Saith Baronius and Binius, (p. 1060.) Quanquam Luic Leguima etas aliag; omnia deessent que inlegitimo Pontifice requiruntur, tamen accedente postea confensu totius Cleri, visum est hunc potius esse Tolerandum quam Ecclesiam Schismate aliquo, quod aliequin exortum suissit, dividendam He wanted Natural and Moral Endowments; even All Things necessary to a Legitimate Pope, fay they: And yet, the After-Consent of the Clergy made him Tolerable, &c. Qu. 1. But, Did that After-consent make him a true Bishop? 2. If not, Where is their Succession? 3. Did God authorize the Clergy, to confent to fuch a Man? Where? Prove it. 4. If not, Could their Consent make him a Bishop? Is not all Power of God? And, Doth God give it contrary to his Word? 5. Were not those Clergy-Men wicked themselves, that would do so? 6. Did those Do-Gors presume, that their Readers were such Fools, as not to know, that Forma non recipitur nisi in maseriam dispositam? And that Exquovis ligno non fit Mercurius. An Illiterate Man cannot be a School-Maller : He-that is no Christian, cannot be a Bishop; nor he that hath not the Qualifications effentially necessary. All the World cannot make a Thysician, a Lawyer, a Divine, a true Pastor or Bishop, of an Ideot, an-Infant, or a Man that wanteth Essential Dispositions. To say, he maited all requisite Qualifications, and yet that he was a Bishop, is a Contradiction: Materia Disposita & Forma, being the Constitutive Causes. What if they had made a Bishop of a Turk, an Issidel, a Corpent CES. cie? Had it not been a Nullity, and prophane Mockery? 7. What else signify all the Carons, that nullify Ordinations for less Faults? But the Image of a Bishop, will make but the Image or Carkass of a Church.

9. 52. Eut, say they, Cum Universa Ecclesia Catholica scirct minus malum effe caput quantum libet monftrofum proferre quam unum corpus in duo secari, co duobus capitibus informari, cundem toto orbe terrarum tanquam verum & legitimum Pentificem venerata fuit. Answ. 1. What a Thameless Dream do you impose on us, under the Name of, Totus orbis Terraium? What had the Ethiopians, the Armenians, yea, or the Greek-Church, to do with Pope 70hn? Or, What was it to them, how he was called, or what he was? Did not the Patriark of Constantinople then write himself, the Universal Patriark? (even Tryphon, that they faid, could not write any thing elfe.) Where is your Proof of this Universal Concession? Which way did the whole Catholick-Church (or the Tenth or Hundredth Part of it) fignify their Consent? 2. Who. taught you to feign the State and Necessity of such a Church, as must have another Univerfal Head besides Christ? You know, that it is the Being of fuch a Church or Head, (be he never fo Good) that we deny: And you have never proved, nor can prove it. He only is the Universal Head, who maketh Universal Laws, and undertaketh Universal Teaching, and is an Universal Judge and Protector; none of which any Mortal man can perform. The very Fiction of such a Head and Body, is Monstrous, and your Capital Error. 3. How small a part of the Christian World was subject to the Pope, at that time; though within his reach, he was almost at the Heighth of his Presumption? 4. He that wanteth what is Essential to a true Bishop, is no true Bishop: But Pope John the Twelfth wanted what was Essential to a true Bihop: Ergo, He was none. The Minor is proved: He that wanteth the necessary Disposition of the Receptive Matter, and is not Subje-Etum Capax, wanteth that which is Effential to a true a Bishop: (For the Materia Disposita is an Essential Constitutive Cause; a Subjectum Capax is Essential to a Relation.) But John the Twelsth wanted the Necessary Disposition of the Matter ad Forman Recipiendam, or was not Subjectium Capan: Proved. He that wanted capable Age, and all other Things necessary to a lawful Pope, was not Subjectum Capax; but wanted the necessary Disposition Receptive. But all these, you say your selves, Pope John wanted: Ergo, &c.

Bishop that was none; that Error would not make him a Bishop, no mere than it would make a dead Man alive, or an illiterate Man learned. But this is the Roman-Catholick kind of Proof: You say your felves, That a Whore, and a wicked Son of that Whore, got Power enough to over-top the Citizens of Rome, and the Clergy, (yet too like them) and to thrust a wicked uncapable Fellow into the Chair.

When

When that is done, it's known, all good Men diffent and abhor it. But when he hath Possession, they must know that he hath Possession: And, What can they do to help it? What Power have the Ethiopians, Armenians, Syrians, or other Nations of the Earth, in choosing the Pope of Rome? And if they have none in Choosing him, What Power have they to examine the Choice, and Depose him? And if they have no Power, Why or how should they signify their Consent or Dissent? If they leave your own Matters to your selves, What is that to the Consent of the Catholick-Church? But some men think, that big Words to the Ignorant may serve for Proof, even of a Right to Govern at the Antipodes, and all the World.

6. 53. His Father Albericus, being Governour of the City, designed the Succession to his Son Octavian: To which he added the Usurped-Papacy, calling himself John. The first (say Baronius and Binius) that changed his Name, (though others fay Sergius was the first.) Saith Platina; From his Youth, he was Contaminated with all odious Crimos, and Filthiness: When he had any time to spare from his Lusts, it was not Spent in Praying, but in Hunting. Two of the Cardinals, meved with the Shame of fuch a Pope, fend Letters to Germany, to Otho, to intreat him to fave Rome from Berengarius, (that Plundered all the Courstry) and from Pope John the Twelfih; or else Christianity was lost. John having notice of this, catcheth the Cardinals, and cutteth off the Nofe of one, and a Hand of the other. Otho cometh into Italy, and took Berengarius, and his Son Albertus, and Banished them, Yet Baronius and Binius, out of Luitpraudus, say, That the Pope himself sent for Otho, to Help him. However that was, the Pope received him as with Honor, and Crowned him the Emperor of Germany, (the First) and Hungary. The Pope, and all the Great Men of the City, swore over the Body of St. Peter, that they would never help Beringarius or Advicer: and the Emperor departed. But the Pope quickly broke his Oath, and joyned with Adelbert: Which the Emperor hearing, said, He is a Child; perhaps Reproof, and Example, may yet reclaim him. He returned to Rome, and Adelbert, and the Pope fl.d: The Citizens received the Emperer, and promised him Fidelity; and took an Oath, that they would never Choose or Ordain a Pope, without the Consent and Choice of the Emperor Otho, and his Son Otho. John fled into a Wood, and lay there like the Wild-Ecasts. (Saith Platma.)

f. 54. CCCXVI. Otho called a Council at Rome; where the Bifhop's deposed John, and made Leo Pope: By which we still see, how obedient the Bishops were to the stronger Side; or else, that really even those near Rome, did not consent to John; much less the whole Cu-tholick-Church, as Baronius immodeltly affirmeth.

The Council was called, Anno 963, out of Italy, France, and Germany, besides Roman Cardinals and Nobles. The Emperor sirst asked, Why Pope John was not there? The Roman Bishops, Cardinals, Freshlyters, byters, and Deacons, and all the People answered, We wonder your Holy Prudence should ask us this Question; seeing he so openly manageth the Works of the Devil, that it is not unknown to the Babylonians, Iberians, or Indians. The Emperor required particular Accusations: Then Peter, a Cardinal-Presbyier, Said, That he saw him Celebrate Mass, and not Communicate. A Bishop, and a Cardinal-Deacon said, That they saw him Ordain a Deacon in a Stable of Horses. Benedict, and many others said, That he Ordained Rishops for Money; and Ordained a Roy of Ten Years old, Bishep of Tudortine. Of Sacriledge, there needed no Witness but Eyefight: Of Adultery, they faid, that they faw it not; but they certainly knew, that he abused the Widow of Ragnerius, and his Father's Concubine, and Anne, a Widow, and her Neece; and made the Holy-Palace a common Bawdy-House, and Stews. That he gut out the Eyes of his Spiritual Father Benedict, and killed him thereby: That he killed John, a Cardinal Sub Deacon, by curting off his Virilia: That he fee Fire on Houses, went Armed and Harnassed as a Souldier. They all (both Clergy and Lairy) cryed out, that he Drunk a Health of Wine to the Devil, (Diaboli in Amorem.) That he at his Play at Dice, would crave the Help of Jupiter, Venus, and other Demons, &c. The Emperor Said, That Bad Men often accuse the Good; and lest Malice or Livor should move them, he adjured them, as before God, to speak nothing untruly against the Pope, and wi hour certain Froof: His Adjurations were most Vehement. The Bishops, Deacons, Clergy, and all the People of Rome, answered as one Man, and said, [If both the Things read by Benedict the Deacon, and filthier and greater Villainies were not committed by Pope John, Let not St. Peter Absolve us from the Bond of our Sins: Let us be found eyed with the Bonds of Anathema, (or Curfed from Christ); and be fet at Christ's Left-Hand, at the Last Day, with those that said to God the Lord, Depart from us, we would not have the Knowledge of thy Wayes. If you believe not Us, believe your Army that faw him, &c.] The Emperor being fatisfied by his Armies Witness also, the Council moved, that Letters of Summons might be fent to the Pope, to appear and unswer for himself. A Letter was written, as from the Emperor and Bi-Thops; telling him, That the things charged on him were fuch, as it would be a Shame to hear of Stage-Players; which, if all were numbired, the Day would fail: That not a Few, but All, (both Clergy and Lairy) accused him of Murder, Perjury, Sacroledge, and of Incest with his own Kindred, and with two of his own Sifters. They fay alfo, (Horrid to hear!) That you drunk Wine in Love to the Devil; ask't Help of Jupiter, Venus, and other Demons, at your Dice, &c. We crave you would come, and answer for your self; and swear, nothing stall be done to you besides the Canons.

The Pope reading this, fent this Answer; [We bear, that you will make another Pope: If you do fo, I Excommunicate you from God Almighty. that you may have no License to Ordain any, nor to Celebrate Atuss.]

After this, more Bishops came out of Germany; and they write again to the Pope, telling him, That if he will not appear and answer, they shall despise his Excommunications, and turn it upon himself. He would not be fund. The Emperor seeing he would not appear, told the Council, how treacherously he had dealt by him, intreating him to come, and help him; and after broke his Oath, and joyned with his Enemies. The whole Clergy, Bish ps, and all the People, cry out, An un-heard-of Wound must be cured with an un-heard-of Cautery; and declaring the Mischief he had done, craveth that this Monster of incurable Vice, might be cast out of the Roman-Church; and another put in his Place, that will go before them with good Example. Then they all cryed up Leo the Proto-Soriniarius; which thrice repeating, upon Consent, they Ordained him, and swore Fidelity to him.

9.54. If now Baronius and Binius say, That the Clergies Consent can make an uncapable Monster a true Bishop, let any one tell us:

1. Whether this Council did not prove, that the Church did not consent to John?

2. Or, Whether his utter Incapacity, many express Canons, and the Bishops and Councils Consent, did not Eject him, and Authorize Lco?

6.55. But here we come to the Core of all the Papists Cheats: When they tell us themselves of all this Wickedness, they cry out, O the happy Church of Rome! that though it fail in Manners, yet never faileth in Faith. Answ. 1. If General Councils are sufficient Witnesses, that judged Popes Hereticks, it hath sailed in Faith. 2. Hath that Man true Faith, that wanteth all things requisite to a Lawful Bishop, and that drinketh to the Devil, and prayeth to Jupiter and Venus; and Liveth in all Wickedness? What a thing is Popish Faith? 3. Did Christ mean to pray only, that St. Peter might have such a Faith, as will stand with Wickedness and Damnation? What the better is any Man of a wicked Heart and Life, for a dead Opinion call'd Faith, that will damn him the more deeply for sinning against it? 4. It is not possible, but that serious true Belief of so great Things, as God, and Christ, and Glory, will bring a Man to serious Repentance and Resormation.

6. 56. Here Baronius and Biniut become this Monster's Advocate, and say, [That there never was a Council of Orthodox Men, that sinned more against the Canons and Traditions, than this false Council.] (How salse is a Devil-worshipping-Pope, a Murderer, and common Adulterer, and incessuous Villainies, in comparison of all his Neighbor-Bishops?)

1. They say, They could not call a Council without him. Answ. 1. He was no Pope. 2. It's a Trayterous Fistion to say, That an Emperor may not call his Subject-Bishops together, to a Council. 3. VVhat if Devilish Villains will make Murders, and Perjury, and Rebellions, to pass for Duties, and never call Councils; Must the Devil therefore be made Lord of the Catholick-Church, without Remedy? 4. VVho gave your Pope that Priviledge? If Council or Princes, they can take it from him: If Christ, prove it, or Shame be to him that yieldeth it. 5. That Man is so ignorant of Church-History, or Impudent as not to be worthy to be disputed with, that denyeth, That Princes have called Councils, even the Greatest, and most Honored.

II. They say, There should be Seventy-Two Witnesses; and there was scarce one, besides the Accusers.] Answ. 1. The whole Council, and People of Rome, and Army, are VVitnesses, under the most direful Imprecations. 2. The Pope may go on fafely, till God take him in Hand, if he must pass for Innocent till he will lye with his own Sisters, or murder Men, and cut off their Virilia, &c. before Seventy-Two VVitnesses! O shameful Holy-Church, that is thus Essentiated!

III. They fav He should have been thrice cited. Ans. 1. What! When he would not be found? 2. Is that necessary to the being of the Sentence?

IV. They fay, No delay was granted! Ans. He was not to be found: And to what was delay necessary, when the Babylonians, Iberians, and Indians had notice of his Diabolical Life.

V. They fay, contrary to all Councils, the Emperour Condemneth him, who may not Condemn any Clerk. Anf. But you may Condemn Kings and Emperours! Is not this Herefy, contrary to Rom. 13. and the 5. Commandement; How shall Mens Lives, Wives, and Estates be saved from Clergy-men, if Kings may not judge and punish them. This Doctrine calleth for timely restraint.

VI. They say, Execution went instead of Sentence. Ans. Is not a plain Sentence here expressed?

VII. The Pope is exempt from all humane judgment: The whole Council therefore were impudent or ignorant to Condemn a Pope, which none ever did but a Heretick or Schismatick. Ans. 1st. That is, such many Ca- as you are able to call General Councils, Emperours and Kings, Heno as did reticks and Schismaticks; if they presume to judge a Heretick, Schis-John and matick, or devillish Pope. But your faculty proveth not another culhis perjured Adhepable. 2. Did not Solomon judge Abiathar? Did not many Councils rents vi- Condemn Honorius, and many other Popes. 3. What a case is your miserable Catholick Roman Church in then; when Popes may kill, ravish, blaspheme, and destroy, and no Man can judge them, neither King nor Council? 4. Why faid you, that the whole Church did consent to your Pope, when all this Council, and all the Clergy, and People at Rome thus begged for another. q. If all your Bishops of Italy, Germany, &c. are utterly impudent or ignorant as you call these; What an honour is this to the Prelacy of your Church? And is it not because your Popes ordained them, and like will generate its like. Such other trifling objections they frame.

S. 57. But now we have two Popes, John and Leo: and to this Day it is not known, nor agreed among the Roman Doctors, which was the true Pope. Most fay Leo: Baron. and Bin. say, John; and call olate?

Leo

Leo a Schismatick; confessing yet, that Scriptores in finiti numeri call him Leo 8th. and own him. How then shall we derive their succession? John's Kindred got the better, when the Emperour was gone, and called him again, and cast out Leo. Now we have two Heads, and so two Churches; the Church of John, and the Church of Leo.

§. 58 CCCXVII. Anno 963. A Council at Const. gave the Emperor Nicephorus Phocas leave to marry Theophanes, the Widdow of Romanus.

§. 59. CCCXVIII. Ann. 964. The monstrous Beast Pope John got up again, call'd a Synod of Bishops: And what will not Bishops do? He is here still called, The most Godly and most Holy Pope. The Bishops at his motion Condemn Leo, and those that Ordained him, and those that were Ordained by him. And this Council Binius justifieth, and cryeth down Leo 8th. as no Pope. But he consessed, that by the common consent of Writers, Leo was the true Pope; but Scriptorum error veritationabil prajudicare potest. Ans. 1. How then shall all the world that knew not the Case, be sure that Binius and Baronius are to be believed before all their own Writers, whose common Sentence is against them, and that Romes Succession from John is good? 2. Remember this when you plead for your supposed Tradition, that infinite Writers prejudice not the Truth.

9. 60. But saith Platina, Its reported, that just then John was punished by Gods just judgment, lest a Schisme should have followed. And it is commonly agreed, that being in bed with a mans Wife, the Devil struck him on the head and killed him. But some think it was rather the VV omans Husband that did it.

§. 61. But yet we are never the nearer conceding, still there are two Roman Popes and Churches. John being dead one Benedist is Chosen by the parties. Totius eleri & populi Romana Confensus, saith Bin. p. 1067. Yet had this Clergy and People sworn before to Otho, to Choose no Pope without his Consent and Choise, and tied themselves to Leo. But to to be Perjured, and change with the Ruling Power, alas how common was it!

§. 62. The godly Emperor Otho was offended at these Villanies, and brought an Army again to Rome: Benedictus inade them stand out a Siege till Famine forced them to yield, and the Emperor set up Leo, and carried away Benedict to Hamburgh, where he died. And think you but this Pope is therefore by Binius and Baronius made a Martyr, that by Rebellion and common Perjury was thus fet up.

of. 63. While Otho was at Rome Anno 964. He and Leo 8. called another Council of Bishops, Italian, Roman; from Loraine, S. wony, &c. and all the Roman People: Pope Bene ist is brought forth, Benedist the Deacon tells him of his Perjury, having broken his Oath to Leo and to Otho: Pope Benedist said, If I have sund, have mercy on me. The pittiful Emperour with Tears intreated the Bishop to have mercy on the man: Whereupon, he fell down at the seet of Leo and the Emperour, and confessed that he had suned and invaded the Papacy: and delivered red the In signia to Leo: (yet our foresaid Annalist and Historian make him and not Leo, the tiue Pope still.) The Council Deposed and Banished him, but continued him a Deacon as he was before. They removed him to Hambur, b to prevent new broiles.

5. 64. Here Baro ins and Binius cry out on the History of Luilfraudus as Forg'd, on Cranizius, &c. But there is a great reasen why Leo must not be taken for a Pope: It is because by a Canon of this his Council they gave Otho the same power for choosing Popes as Charles the great had. O how much Interest prevaileth with these Historians judgments.

But alas, Reader, is it not a fad thing to read how fast Bishops and People did thus Swear and Forswear, and do and undo, making Councils as weather-cocks that turn with every Wind that is strong? Is this the honour of Prelacy, and their slability in governing the Church?

6. 65. Next comes another John 13th, who was not Chosen till Lea dyed, and expresly chosen to succeed him; and so by that Account of Faronius and Binius the Succession was interrupted, Leo being no Pope whom he Succeeded. But, alas, had it not been for the great Zeal of Otho, that came fo oft with Armies to defend them, and to cast out intolerable Popes, what had become of the Roman Papacy? This John was a Bishop before, (as Formosus was) and so by the Canons his Election was Null on that account. Almost as soon as he was fetled, faith Platina, the Romans having now got a Custome of Expelling their Popes. (yet Baron, faith, the Universal Church owned them,) did by Seditions tire out this also. By the help of Joseed Earl of Campany, they brake into the Laterane House, and took him, and first imprison him, and then fend him Ranished into Campania: But John Prince of Campania killed Jofred and his only Son; and delivered Pope John the Eleventh month after his Banishment: And the Emperour Otho again bringeth an Army to Rome, with speed, and casts the Governour, the Consuls, and the Dearcbones into Fetters; The Confuls he sendeth into Germany banished; The Dearchones he Hanged: Peter the Prafect of the City, some write (faith Platina) that he delivered to the Pope to have his flesh torn off; his Beard and Head being Shorn, and he hanged a while at the head of the Constantinian-Horse, he was set on an Asse naked, with his face backward, his hands tyed under the taile, and so whipt through the Streets till he was alnost Dead, and then Banished into Germany. The Corps of Josed and his Son he cansed to be taken up, and to le vilely cast away into divers filthy places. Thus did the blind Zeal of a good Emperour Revenge and defend Usurping Popes.

5. 66. A Council at Revenna, of small importance, and one at Rome, to confirm Glassenbury-Monastery I pass by: and all the English Councils which Spelman hath given us by themselves. But it is worth the noting, that the samous Dunstan that banished Priests Marriage out of England, was the Favourite of these two Popes, John the 12, and 13th.

even much countenanced by the monstrous Pope that lay with two Sisters of his own, and made his House as a common Whore-house, if a Council under solemn Appeals to God, and Executations, said true.

§. 67. The next Pope according to Platina, is Benedict (though Onuphrius and Binius put Donus next: faith Plat. Cintius a potent Citizen of Rome took him and laid him in Jayle, and there strangled him: He wondred that neither Otho nor any other ever Revenged it: But Otho was now near Death, and could not have leasure to bring an Army out of Germany to Rome, every time that wicked Citizens and Popes fell out: Did the Universal Church own this man also? But (faith Plat.) Benedicts Merits were such as Cintius his reward importeth. But yet it was not well done of Cintius to meddle with the Pope were he never so bad: But alas (saith he) how the World is changed! For in our Age, Popes lay Citizens, faulty or suspected, in the same Prison, and then Macerate them.

9. 68. Donus 2. was Pope but three months: In his short time, the Bulgarians had almost taken Constant. saith Platina. And Anno 972. a Council was held at Ingelheim in Germany, to compose Church matters.

5. 69. The next Pope (faith Plat.) was Boniface the 7th, who ill got the Popedome, and so lost it. Onuphrius and Bin. say, that Cintius by his command strangled his Predecessors, and that he Succeeded him. Sauth Plat. in the beginning of his Magistracy (for a Magistracy it thus was) by the Confpiracy of the good Citizens, being forced to leave the City, taking away all the pretious things out of S. Peters Church, he fled to Constantinople; where he stayed, till selling all that he had sacrilegiously gotten, he got a great mass of Money, with which he returned to corrupt the Citizens by Bribes. But good men resisted him, especially John a Cardinal-Deacon, whom Bonisace catche and put out his Eyes: And the Sedition increasing more and more, either for fear or remorse, he next made away (or kill'd) himself: He was Pope 7 months and 5 days saith Platinus. But Onuphrius saith (one year, one month and 12 days.) But other Popes came in between before he died, and he got in again.

§. 69. Baronius and Binius fay, that Boniface is not to be numbred with the Popes; If fo, 1. Why not many fcore also? 2. Where then is their uninterrupted Succession? And where was their Church then?

9. 70. Binius maketh Benedict 6. next after Donus, and faith, He was imprisoned and kill'd by Boniface, who Usurped the place.

§ 71. An. 973. A Council at Musina was to reconcile two Brethren

9. 72. Beneditt 7. An. 975. drove away Boniface, and was Pope himfelf: And so here were again two Popes: Now Otho 2. had a great Overthrow by the Greeks in Calabia; and flying by Sea, was taken Prisoner by Pyrats, and Redeemed by the Sicilians, dyed at Reme: And Otho the 3. was Chosen in his place by the Germanes. Writers agree not of the time of Beneditts Reign. In his time they seign, that at a Council at Winchester in the midst of their Disputes, the Image of our Lord spake out for the Monks against the secular Clergy, and so decided all the Controversies.

And a Synod was at Rome, about the Bishop of Magdeburg, accufed.

9. 73. CCCXIX. Anno 975. At a Council at Constantinople, Basil the Partiarch is Accused as Criminal, and Antonius Studita put in his place.

S. 74. Pope John 14. (alias 15.) is next at Rome, Anno 984. Einius maketh him succeed Boniface that had killed Pope Benedict, and was fled to Constantinople; and faith, that when Boniface knew that Otho the Emperour was dead, he returned to Rome, and seized on the Papacy again; and finding John in it, did not only turn him out, but cast him in Bonds in the Tower of St. Angelo, which was kept by men of his own faction; and with great Tyranny kept him there four months, and as a violent and facrilegious Robber, at last Murdered him by Famine. And lest any hope should be left to the Emperours Party, he exposed the Corps of the dead Pope (for all the Citizens to behold) before the doores of the Prison: And the People seeing the bare body of the Pope consumed by Hunger, buried him with Sorrow. In the mean time, the Invader of the Seat, and the cruel Murderer of two Popes, the odious Paricide, and turbulent thief Boniface the Anti-Pope, (Oh Horrible!) by Tyranny Invaded St. Peters Chair: But after four months, by Gods Revenge, he suddenly dyed (he killed himself faid Plat. When he was dead, even the factious persons on whom he had trusted, Wounded his dead Carkass, and Drag'd it through the City. Bin. out of Baron, and he examiguis Vatican-Codicibus.

And must a Governour of all the World be thus Chosen.

But Platina saith, that some say, that Ferrucius, Bonifaces Father, a great man, murdered John; and others say, he was cast out for Impotency and Tyranny; and others say, by malevolent Seditious Men. So confused (saith he)

are the Histories of those times.

9. 75. Next comes John 15. (alias 16) Binius saith, that for fear of the Platina like usage that had befallen his Predecessors, he lest Rome & dwelt in Tusca-speaks this ny; one Cresconius a great man, having got the Castle of St. Angelo: till 16. called the Pope sending to Otho 3. as sighted the Romans, and made them intreat hybim the him to return. But Platina saith, That [He burned against the Clergy with a wonderfull Hatred, and therefore was described hated by the Clergy: especially, because be bestowed all things Divine and Humane on his kindred, disregarding the honeur of God, and the Dignity of the Romane Seat; which Errour (saith he) he so Traditioned (or delivered down) that it remaineth to this day (This is Romane Tradition) a Comet then appear d, Famine, Pestelence, Earthquakes, which were thought to be for the Pride and rapacity of the Pope, and his contempt of God and Man.] So Platina.

9. 76. An Instance was given of a Bishop of the contrary Spirit: Adelbert Bishop of Prague in Bohemia found the People so contrary to him, and bad, that he forfook them, and Travelled first, and then entred into a Monastery: And when he had lived there five years, the people defired him again, and promised Obedience. A Council at Rome defired his return, vivien with grief he did; But they still proved incorrigble, and he again forfook them and event to Preach to the Hungarians, when he Bapzed the King Stephen, and did much good. Bin.p. 1071.

6. 77 CCCXX. Arnulphus Arch-Bishop of Rhemes suspected of Treafon, for delivering up the City of Rhemes to Charles: Called a Synod at Seulis, to purge himself, Excommunicating them that did it. Anno 200.

9.78. CCCXXI. Hugo Capet having now got the Crown of France, and desirous to destroy all the Carolines line, upon the aforesaid suspition got a Synod at Rhemes, to cast out Arnulphus a Bastard of that Line; saying, a Bastard must not be a Bishop: One Bishop refused; Therest for sear of that King consented, and cast him out; (so constant were the French Bishops.)

6. 79. CCCXXII. Six Bishops, and Nine Presbyters, and Four Deacons made a Council at Rums, to Canonize Udulric Bishop of Augusta, Anno 993. upon the reports of his Holiness and Miracles.

Here let me at once tell the Reader, that he hath no cause to think the most of these Canonizations wholly causeless. But that while Pope and Patriarcks, consounded all by wickedness and contentious pride; God had many faithful Bishops and Presbyters that lived holily in quieter and privater kind of Life; And the Popes that would not endure themselves to live a Godly life, thought it their honour to have such in the Church that did, and to magnify them when dead, and past contradicting them. Just like the Pharisees, Mat. 23. that killed the living Servants of God, and honoured the dead, and built them Monuments, saying. If we had lived in those days, we would not have killed them.

6. 80. CCCXXIII. A Synod was called at Moson, to debate the Case between Arnulph and Gerbert substituted at Rhemes, who so pleaded his cause, that it was put off to another Synod. Baron revoleth some Writings ascribed to the former Synod at khemes, saying, they were this Gerberts, as being Blasphemous against the Pope: The Centuriators of Magdeb, mention them at large. Did Rome then govern all the World?

6. 81. CCCXXIV. Another Council is called at Rhemes, and Gerbert (that wrote so Blasphemously against the Pope) is deposed by the Popes means, and Arnulphus restored: which Gerbert observing, slycth to the Emperour to Germany, seemeth to repent (as Baron, but surmizeth) and gets higher, to be Pepe himself, by the Emperours means, as you shall hear anon.

9. 2. Can any Man think that Popes, that theinselves came in by Tyranny and meer Force, and lived in Wickedness, could have so great a Zeal as is pretended to do Justice for all others, unless for their own ends?

9. 83.

9. 83. John the 16th. (alias 17) is passed over by Binius: Onuphrius saith, that he Reigned four Months: Platina saith, he died the tenth

Year, and fixth Month, and tenth Day (a great difference.)

9. 84. Gregory the 5th. is next, made Pope (faith Plat.) by Otho 3d his Authority for Affinity: But (faith Plat.) The Romans make Crefcentius Conful with chuf Power; who presently made John Bishop of Placentine Pope; who came to it by the confent of the Roman Clergy and People, to whom the choice belonged, though some leave him out: Otho cometh to defend his own Pope; Crescentius fortifieth City and Castle against him: The People dare not resist, but open the City Gates: Crescentius and Pope John flyeth to the Castle; and in hope of Pardon, yields: C'escentius is Killed by the People in his paffage; John hath first his Eyes put out, and then his Life; and Gregory the Eleventh Month is restored: Binnus faith, that Johns Hands were cut off, his Ears cut off, and his Eyes pulled cut; and after set on an Ass, holding the Tail in his Hand, was carried about the Streets.

5, 85. This Pope and Otho the 3d. agreed to fettle the Election of the Emperour, as now it is on the 7. Electors. The cause of great Confusions, and Calamities was, that the Emperours did not dwell at Rome; and so left Popes then to fight, strive, and sin, that else would have lived submissively under them. Constantine, Carolus May. or O-.

the, might have done much to prevent or cure all this.

The Papifts would fain prove this the work of a Roman Synod, (to fettle the Electors) that they may prove that it is they, that must make and unmake Emperours. But they can shew us no such Council.

Onuphrius hath written a Treatise to prove that this was after done by Greg. 10th. For which Binius reprehends him, as believing Avenui-

But this is a Controversy handled by so many, that I shall refer the Reader to them: and whether the feven Electors only, or all the Feudatories chose.

Baronius and Binius maintain, that all came from the Authority of the Pope; that Greg. 5th. Ordained the choice of the Emperour to be by all the Feudatories of the Empire; that the Council at Lyons, under Innocent 4th. setled it upon Seven, but not all the same that are now Electors; and that the Princes after settled it on these same Seven, they know not who nor when.

For the right understanding of many such matters; I only mind the Reader of this one thing, that as the contention of Princes, and the superstitious fear of Anathematizing had made the Papal, and Prelatical Power then very great, in fetting up, and taking down Princes; fo it was usual for their Assemblies, even those called Councils, to be mixt of Men Secular and Clergy; Kings and Princes, and Lords being present with the Bishops, as in our Parliaments; and usually the greatest Princes ruled all. Therefore, to ascribe all to the Pope and Prelates, that that was done in fuch conventions, and thence to gather their power to dispose of Empires and Kingdoms, is meer deceit.

· 6 86. Platina next nameth John 17th. alias 18th. but saith he was no true Pope (its impossible to know who was,) but that he corrupted Crescentius with money, and it cost them both their lives: How he "He had, was mangled, shamed, and killed (though a Bishop before) you faith Plaheard before.

§ 87. Next an. 999. cometh that French Bishop Gerbert (*) before master to mentioned, that wrote so blasphemously (as they called it) against the Otho, and Pope (as Eneas Silvius after did) till he saw some hope of being Pope, the King himself, by the Emperor's favour first made Arch-Bishop of Ravenna, and and other then Pope, Formosus's Case and the Canons that forbid a Bishop to be great chosen, were now forgotten or dispensed with. He had won the Em- men. peror's favour by a rare Clock that he made, being a good Mathematician: And the People and Clergie were taught that it was the Empe-Platina ror's Will that they should choose him, which to please the Emperor after others tells they did: Historians say that he fold his Soul to the Devil by Covenant, a terrible to be made Pope, which accordingly the Devil distrained and took him story of away. But Baron, and Bin. fay that Cardinal Bonno was the first author his Coveof this and many fouler accusations of the Popes than I have here menti-oned; and that he was Schismarical (as taking the Emperor's part) and his so not to be believed. And indeed Lam not apt to believe any that ac- confessicufed men of Magicks in that ignorant age of the Roman Church; when- on; But I as Erasmus saith, He that did but understand Greek or Hebrew was rather believe ofuspected to be a Magician.

begin the Heresie of Berengarius. It seems then, neither Luther, nor Zuinglius, nor Berengarius, nor Bertram (alias Ratram) began it. But where will the reader find that Transubstantiation was yet named, or by any consent received? so that this is but to confess that yet the do strine contrary to Transubstantiation did still obtain: And the name of heresie from Baron. or Bin. signifies no more against this Archbishop than the name of Magick and Diabolism against Silvester 2. from many Historians.

§ 92. In a Council at Frankford the Emperor Henry, having a great love to Bamberge, would endow it and make it an Archbishoprick. The Bishop of Wirceburge would not come to the Council unless it might be joyned to his Bishoprick. It seem'd a hard controversy. The good Emperor (oft prostrate before them) first, having no Children, dedicateth all that he hath to Christ, and then desireth them to consider, that [It was not for the Lord, but for ambition, and to get more dignity that this Bishop did resist his desire] (his agent speaking for him.) (Oh that Princes had sooner discerned the evil of such ambition and aspiring!) At last the Emperor (being present) carried it, and chose an Archbishop who was ordained to Bamberge.

§ 93. Next Peter Bishop of Abbanen's made Pope and called Sergius 4th (The Canons are here again violated) Now saith Bin. "was agreat" prodigie, in a Church at Rome rose a spring of oil, of which a vessel sull was sent to King Henry, no doubt to call him to take the Empire.]

§ 94. CCCXXVI. An. 1011. A Council at Bamberge endeavoured to end some quarrels among Bishops that strove to get more, and accused one another unjustly to the Pope; for which the King reproved some of them. § 95. An. 1012. Two Popes were chosen and set up; which is the 19th. schism or double-head of the Roman Church. The Emperor's party chose Benedict the 8th. The City Party chose Gregory. The Citizens were the stronger at present (and so long their's was the true Pope.) The Emperor proved strongest at last, and therefore Benedict became the true Pope (for Hobbes his Law ruled among them,) Ithat Right is nothing but Power to get and keep Gregory had no power to keep his Place: Ergo he had no right to it: Benedict fled to Germany, and the good Emperor Henry came to Rome with an Army, and made Gregory fly, and set up Benedict. Here Hemy first instituted the Golden Globe and Cross as fit for an Emperor's hand and aspect. Bin. out of Glab. li. 3. c. 8. speaketh of the Jews injuring Christ's Image by a ludicrous crucifixion, and that after the adoring of the cross the same day, a whirlwind cast down the Houses [omnesque pene Romanos occisos esse] and almost all the Romans were killed (that's scarce credible,) and that it ceased not till the Pope had put the Jews to death. Platina saith, that this Emperor Henry and his Wife were so pious that they omitted nothing that might do good. He overthrew the Saracens, and giving his Sister in marriage to the King of Hangary converted him and his People the Faith: And Baron. giveth you the copy of his large grant of Cities and Principalities to the Pope, by way of confirmation of former grants. $ 96.

§ 96. They call it a Council at Legio in Spain, where the King and Queen and Nobles with the Bishops and Abbots, made some Laws for Church-priviledges.

§ 97. CCCXXVII. An. 1017. A Council was called at Orleance in France; where, by the Zeal of the religious King Robert and the Prelates, the burning of Hereticks were set on foot. Bin. out of Glaber thus reciteth the matter. One Italian woman revived the heresie of the Manichees, and two Clergie men (yet called Palatii process et Regi familiares) received and spread it abroad with considence. The opinions are thus recited by Glaber. 1. That the Doctrine of the Trinity delivered in scripture, is a deceit. 2. That Heaven and Earth are from eternity without a maker. 3. That the crimes of sensual pleasure shall have no punishment. 3. That there is no reward for any Christian works, save of Piety & Justice. The two leaders Lissian and Heribertus, and eleven more were burnt to ashes; and afterwards as many more as were found guilty of the same errours. Bin. p. 1083. Here consuming zeal began.

§ 98. CCCXXVIII. An. 1022. A Council at Salegunstad in Germany made many ceremonious Canons; but decreed c. 16. that none go to Rome without the consent of the Bishop, and c. 17. that the Popes pardons shall not profit them that have not fulfilled the time of their pendons.

They tell us also of a Council at Mentz, and Gothard's curing a Demoniack woman.

§ 99. Benediët dying, went to purgatory saith Bin. as some apparitions proved, but he was delivered out of that pain by St. Odilo's prayers, and his Brother's Alms. (you see how much better it is to be a Saint than a Pope) you need not question the credit of their intelligence from purgatory.

§ 100. This Pope's own Brother, Son to the Tusculane Earl, by his power presently seizeth on the Papacie. But Bin. ex Baron. would perswade us that this invaded? Pope afterward repented, resigned, and was new chosen by the Clergy. He was very like to have their votes when he had gotten such power and advantage: But where was the Roman Church that while?

Now dyed the pious Emperor Henry, and when he dyed gave up his religious wife to the Bishops and Abbots, as a Virgin, as he received her; who entered a Monastery accordingly: Conrade his General succeeded him, and the Pope (John 21 as Plat. 18 as Bin.) being driven away by the People, Conrade restored him. (so far was the Pope obeyed.)

phew to John and Son to Albericus; most say he was but ten years old. "fome fay 18, capable, faith Baron and Bin. of Impudence and luxury; by "the tyranny of his Father intruded, An. 1030. And (fay they) being given over to lust and pleasure, and by humane frailty rushing into impudence. "and living to great scandal of the faithful, he was by the Romans, the Consul Ptolemy favouring it, rejected, or at least gave it up by the perfivation of the holy Abbot Bartholomew. Whereupon Silvester the 2d "came into his place, who had been Bishop of Sabine, even by bribery and "evil arrs; and did rend the Church by a new Schifm: But he had scarce Sate three months, but Beneditt by the help of the Tulculanes returned "and cast him out, as an invader. In the mean time a third man, John "Arch-Presbyter of Rome invading the same seat, brought yet a greater "deformity on the Church: And so A THREE-HEADED BEAST ARI-"SING FROM THE GATES OF HELL did miserably infest the holy "Chain of St. Peter. These are the words of the Popes grand flatterers." "And they tell us that one Gratian a Presbyter pitying this miserable state "of the Church, went to all the three Popes, and gave them money to "hire them all to refign; And so Beneditt as the most worthy being se-"cured of the Revenues of England, deposed himself; and that he "might the more freely execute his lusts betook himself to his Fathers house, when intruded by force and tyranny he had held the Papacy eleven years. And when the rest by his example had done the like, each being contented with his affigned portion of the Revenue, the Church An. 1044, was restored to its ancient union, peace and concord, the Schism be-"ing expelled, and the tyranny by which it was oppressed taken out of the " way. Thus Bar, and Bin. But how came this Presbyter to be so honest and fo rich? you must know that when he had got out the three Popes he was made Pope himself, of which more anon. 6. 104. But though these Authors tell us but of four Popes at once.

(*) Omtthr. will tell you better that it was the 20th.

 So fay Platina and many others also.

as credible writers of their own tell us there were fix: Wernerus in Fafciculo Tempor. faith [The 14. * Schism was scandalous and full of confusion between Beneditt the 9th. and five others; which Beneditt was wholby virious, and therefore being damned, he appeared in a monftrous and horrid shape, his head and tail were like an Asses, the rest of his body 'like a Bear,  faying, I thus appear because I lived like a beast. In this Schism there were no less than six Popes at once: I. Benedict was expulsed. '2. Silvester 3d. got in, but is cast out again, and Beneditt restored. 3. But being cast out again Gregory the 6th, is put into his place: who because he was ignorant of Letters caused another Pope to be consecrated with him, to perform Church-Offices, which was the fourth: which displeased many, and therefore a third is chosen instead of those two that were fighting with one another, 6. But Henry the Emperor coming in deposed them 'all and chose Clement the 2d. I the fixth that were alive at once. There is great difference between Wernerus, Onuphrius, Platina, Baronius, but all confess that there were three or four at once. And the three were secured of the revenues before they refigned to the fourth; no doubt leaving him his part: This it is for Bishops to be great and rich, which will ascertain wicked men to seek them. But if Werverns say true that this Johan. Gratianus, made Gregory 6th. was illiterate, he was a strange Roman Arch-Presbyter before, and a strange Pope after, but greatly to be commended that would ordain a fellow Pope that could read.

§ 105. This horrid monstrous villain called Benedist the 9th. Canonized Simeon an Anchorite at Trevirs. Do you think he was not a good judge and lover of Saints? He crowned Conrade the Emperor who came into Italy to master the Bishop of Milan that rebelled, say Baron, and Bin. and many other great things he did.

§ 106. Even in these times there were Councils held. 1. One at Lymoges, to judge St. Martial to be an Apostle, and to agree to excommunicate the souldiers that robbed and plundered, and to curse their hotses and arms, and deny Christian burial to all the Countrys where they prevailed, save the Clergy and poor, &c. Another at Beauvois on the same occasion. And another at Tribur, unknown for what.

§ 107. This Pope Gregory 6th. (who was John Gratian the Roman Arch-Presbyter, that Werner faith was illiterate and made him a fellow Pope) is very variously described: Baron, and Bin, and some others make him an honest man that ended the Schism. Cardinal Benno maketh him Simoniacal that hired them out to get the Papacie: Baron, and Bin, for this revile him as a malicious lyar. They fay that Gregory, for punishing facrilegious villains by the sword that cared not for Anathema's, was acculed by the Romans that now lived by theft and rapine, as a Simonist and a murderer. Conrade being dead and Henry his Son made Emperor, he being in Italy held a Synod at Sutria near Rome where all the four Popes causes were examined: And the three former were deposed, that is, deprived of the revenue which was parted among them, and this Gregory 6. (fay most authors, and even Hermannus that wrote in those very times) was deposed, (but faith Baron, he honestly resigned.) And the Roman Clergy being found so bad, that none were fit for the place, the Emperor choice (say most, or caused to be chosen saith Bin.) the Bishop of Bamberge in Germany called Clement the 2d.

§ 108. The Emperor setling the Bishop of Bamberge, Clem. 2. in the chair, returned and took the last Pope Gregory with him to avoid contention; and Clement went after with Hildebrand and dyed by the way the 9th. month after his Creation. Benedict hearing this invadeth the Papacy again, the third time, even that villain that was first of the four, and held it eight months after this, so yet we have divers Popes.

§ 109. An. 1067. A Council is held at Rome by Clem. 2. against Simony.

§ 110. Poppo Bishop of Brixia is made Pope, by the Emperor and the common suffrage, say Bar. and Bin. (an. 1048.) But saith Platina "and others, it is reported that he made the poyson with which the Citizens

"Citizens poysoned his predecessor Clem. 2. And that he seized on the "place by violence without any consent of Glergy or People, it being "now the custom for any ambitious man, that could, to seize on the "Popedom; but God, saith Plat. as a just revenger resisted him, for he dyed the twenty third day of his Papacie. Yet the Romans had "again taken an oath in Clem.2d's. time to choose no Pope without the "Emperor's licence. For the Romans were become so wicked and factious that they were not to be trusted in such a thing.

§ 111. Upon these horrid villanies and schisms Baron, and Bin. again cry out on the Novatores, for casting these things in the teeth of the Roman Church, as impudent men. And they say still, 1. That it was not the Church that chose these Popes (as Benedict 9.) but Tyrants obtruded them. 2. "That yet so great was the power of the Roman Church that even salse Popes were obeyed by all the Christian world."

Ans. I. When yet they tell us themselves that even the City of Rome was so far from obeying them, that they imprisoned, deposed, killed them. And the whole Greek Church excommunicated them since Photisus's dayes; only the horrid contentions between the Sons and off-spring of Charlmain and the Germane Princes, gave them advantage to Lord it by Anathema's in France, Germany, and Italy, and such nearer parts; whilest the contenders would make use of them, and they of the contenders. And horrid ignorance had invaded the clergy, and consequently the Laity, and subjected them in darkness to this Ruler that maketh so great use of darkness.

2. And if these men uncalled were true Popes, why might not the Turk be one, or any man that can get the place or Title? Why were not all the 4 or 5 or 6 at once true Popes? If not, Where was the Catholick Church this while, if a Pope was a constitutive head or part? and what is become of your Succession? will any possession jure vel injuria serve for a Succession? If so, Why tell you the Protestants that they want it? If nor, What pretence have you for it? I think the Pro-restants can prove a far better succession.

§ 112. Berengarius rose in these horrid dayes; and it is no wonder is such a monster as Pope Benedict, and his companions condemned him, and set up the monstrous doctrine of Transubstantiation. As Tertullian saith it was an honour to Christians to be first persecuted by such a one as Nero, so was it to the doctrine of the Sacrament to be condemned by such a one as Benedict 9. and in the time (as Baron. and Bin. speak) of the three-headed monstrous beast.

§ 113. Rome was now so wise as to be conscious a little of their badness and unfitness to choose themselves a Pope, and therefore sent to the Emperor Henry to choose them one. He chose them Bruno a good Bishop of Tullum; who in his way, at the Abby of Cluny, met with Hildebrand that went from Rome thither, who told him that the Emperor being a Lay-man had no power to make or choose a Pope (*) but the Clergy and people; but if he would follow his advise, he should in a ber-King may ter way attain his end: so Hildebrand went with him and perswaded not orhim to put off his purple, and to go in a common habit, and confess Bishop: that he is not their Bishop till they choose him, and that he taketh not Question the feat as given by the Emperor but by them; whereby he won the whether Romans hearts, and they readily chose him. And he being called Leo he may remove the 9th, after so many monsters, went for a very excellent Pope. But an ordain-yet he commanded an army himself against the Normans, and proved cd Bishop no good or happy Captain, his Army being wholly routed, and himself from one taken Prisoner: whom the Normans in reverence released and returned church to another, fase. Pet. Damianus and others lament his Souldiery as his great sin, but the peo-Baron, and Bin. excuse him, and say, all the world now alloweth it: You see ple only what arguments ferve at Rome: where it was but lately that the first ar- accepting ricle that a Roman Council before Otho Mag. brought in against Pope him by free con-John was that he went sometimes in Arms: And to be formerly a Bishop font? was heretofore an incapacity by the Canons: Yet Rome covereth her innovations by pretending antiquity, and calling others Novatores.

§ 114. But how militant a defender of the Roman grandure this Leo was, may be seen in his Epistles in Bin. p. 1096. &c. In the first long one to the Patriarch of Constantinople and another Greek Bishop, he reprove th them for bold damning of the Church of Rome, and tells them that they were members of Antichrist, and forerunners of him that is King over all the Children of pride; and faith, who can tell how many Antichrists had have been already? He tells them how many heretick Bishops they have had at Conft. and of above ninety herefies in the East; and how by force they raged against the founnites (the Nonconformists that followed St. Chrysoftome;) what a heretick their Bishop Entychius was, that said, the body at refurrection will be impalpable, and more fubril than the wind and air (He believed Paul that said it should be a spritual body (though not a Spirit.) And how his Books were burned. He reprehenderh their title of Oecumeni- Rement cal Patriarch; and faith that no Roman Bishop to that day had ever accepted ber that. or used that Title (*) Yet he reciteth the forged grant of Constantine, faying, that as far as Kings are above Judges, fo all the world must take the Pope for their Head; and that he gave the Palace and all Rome, &c. to Silvefter, and faid it was unmeet that they should be subject to any earthly Prince that were by God made Governors of Heaven. At large he thus pleadeth for the Roman Kingdom of Priests, chiding them that had put down all the Latine Churches and monasteries in the East.] (yet Baron, and Bin. tell you all the Church on earth obeyed the Pope.)

In his 4th. Epistle he laments that in Africa there was "205. Bish-"ops at a Council, now there were scarce five in all; and he sheweth "that all Bishops were of one order, but differenced as the Cities were "for primacie, by the Civil Laws or the Fathers reverence. That "where the Pagans Arch-Flamins were, there were inflituted Arch-"Bishops to be over the Provinces; where a Metropolis was, Metro-

"politans or Arch-Bishops were placed; and Bishops in lesser Cities where had been Flamins and Counts. But in Africa they were diversifyed only by the times of their ordination; the Bishop of Carthage being

"the chief.]

In his Epittle 5. he hath a good confession of faith, where among other things he well saith, ["That God predestinated only things" good, but foreknew both good and evil; and that Grace so preventeth and followeth man, that yet mans free will is not to be denied: that the Soul is not part of God, but created of nothing. He anathematizeth every Heresie, and every one that receiveth or venerateth any Scriptures but what are received by the Catholick Church, &c.

In the 6th, again he chides the Patriarchs of Constantinople for the title Universal; saying that Peter himself was never called the Universal Aposite, nor did any of his Successors take so prodigious a title. For he is no friend to the bridegroom that would be loved in his stead, but a Band of Antichrift, &cc.

His 8th. Epistle is to the Greek Emperor to flatter him, to help him with Henry against the Normans; In which (to prove the Romans succession) "he faith, [The holy Church and Apostolick Seat hath been too long usured ped by Mercenaries that were no Pastors, that sought their own, and not the things of Christ.]

"This Pope and Michael Patriarch of Constantinople, were so unreconci"lable that they continued mutual condemnations. Michael is condemned with his Greeks. 1. For rebaptizing the Papists. 2. For saying that they had no true Sacrifice or Baptism. 3. For holding Priests marriage, for rejecting the Filioque, &c. Bin. p. 1116.

S. 114. CCCXXIX. An. 1049. A Roman Council was fain upon pennance to pardon Simoniacal Bishops and Priests, because the Cry was, that "else almost all the Churches would be destitute, and the Church service omitted to the subversion of the Christian Religion, and the description of all the faithful. (Where was the holy Church of Rome now, and its Succession, if the Canons for nullifying Simoniacal ordinations hold good?)

§ 115. CCCXXX. The Pope refolved to go to France, and Preside in a Council, which he did, at Rhemes: But many Nobles and Bishops told the King that it was an usurpation and a Novelty and would enslave his Kingdom: The King forbad him, yet the Pope came whether the King would or not; And the King went away about his military affairs, and fome Bishops with him, and others staved.

The Arch-Bishop of Rhemes, and others were accused of heinous Crimes: The Bishop of Langres was charged with [entring by Simoniacal "herefies, felling orders, bearing Armes, Murder, Adultery, Tyranny to his Clergy, and Sodomy: Many witnesses testified all this: One Clergy-"man witnessed, that while he was ver a Lay-man this Bishop violently "took his Wise from him, and when he had committed adultery with her,

he

he made her a Nun.] A Presbyter witnessed that this Bishop took "him and delivered him to his followers, who tormenting him by ma-"ny torments, which is more wicked, did with sharp nails pierce his "genetals, and by such violence forced him to give them ten pounds "of denaries: The Bishop hearing these accusations desired time and "Council, and going to the Arch-Bishops of Befanzon, and Lyons, o-"peneth his secrets to them and desireth them to plead his cause. But "the man involved in the guilt of fuch villanies (who but the day be-"fore had been the accuser of a faulty Brother, and seeing the mote in "anothers eye, had not seen the beam in his own, but moved for "the other mans damnation being himfelf deservedly to be condemned.) "was not only unable to excuse himself from the objected crimes, but "also the tongue of his advocate (the Arch-Bishop) was by God so si-"lenced that he was not able to speak a word for his desence. For "the Arch-Bishop of Besanzon where he prepared himself to plead for "him and excuse his crimes, suddenly found himself disabled in his voice "by God. And when the Arch-Bishop of Besanzon found himself so dis-"abled by miracles, he gave figns to the Arch-Bishop of Lyons to speak of for this his Brother in his stead; who rising up said that the accused "Bishop doth confess that he sold Orders, and that he extorted the mo-"ney from the said Priest, but that he did not do the tormenting acti-"ons mentioned by him; other things he denyed, but before the next "day he fled from the Council. And another Bishop (of Nevers) con-"felfed that his Parents bought his Place, and deposed himself: and " some other Bishops confessed Simoniacal entrance. The Pope excom-"municated many that fled from the Council. He renewed some old "neglected Canons, as 1. That no man be promoted to Church-Govern-"ment without the ELECTION of the CLERKS and the PEOPLE, &c.

§ 8. CCCXXXVII. Platina faith that in a Council at Florence he deposed many Bishops for Simony and Fornication.

§ 9. CCCXXXVIII. In a Council at Lyons, Baronius (after others) saith a miracle was done, viz. saith he ["The heresie of Simonie having seiz"ed on all Italy and Burgundie, the Pope sent Hildebrand a sub-Deacon
"to call a Council, where an Arch-Bishop accused of Simony bribed all
"his accusers the next day into silence: Hildebrand bid him say [Glory
"be to the Father, Son and Holy Ghost] He said the rest, but was not "able to name the Holy Ghost: Whereupon he consest his crimes, and
"besides seven and twenty other Prelates of the Churches, forty sive
"Bishops consest themselves Simoniacks and renounced their places.]

What

03

What a case was the Church in when Popery grew ripe? Per. Damian, mentioneth six Bishops deposed by Hildebrand for divers crimes.

§ 10. By the way it is worthy enquiry whether Hildebrand being neither Bishop, Priest, nor Deacon, but a sub-Deacon only, was any of the Clergy or Church-Pastors to whom Christ gave the power of the Keys (Yea, if he had been a Deacon.) And therefore whether he had any power from Christ to preside before Arch Bishops and Bishops in in Councils, and to depose and excommunicate Bishops. If it be said that he did it by the Pope's commission, the question recurreth, whether God ever gave Pope or Prelate power to make new Church-officers whom he never instituted de specie, that should have the power of the Keys, yea, and be above the Bishops of the Church? And whether Popes or Prelates may commit preaching or Sacraments to Lay-men? if not, how can they commit the Keys of Church-Government to them, or to any as little authorized by Christ? Indeed baptizing is but using the Key of Church-entrance; And therefore he that may fo let men into the Church may baptize them (which Papifts unhappily allow the Laity.) And if per se or per alium will salve all, whether Priests may not preach, pray, and give Sacraments by Lay-men: And fo Lay-men at last put down both Prelates and Priests as needless?

§ 11. CCCXXXIX. An. 1055. They fay that this great Subdeacon Hildebrand (the grand advancer of the Roman Kingdom) didcall a Council at Tours, which cited poor Berengarius and forced him to recant (whether it be true I know not.)

§ 12. To this Council the Emperor Henry sent his Agents to complain that Ferdinand the great, King of Castile, refused subjection to the Emperor, and claimed some such title to himself, and (now ignorance, superstition, and interest having made the Clergy the Rulers of Kings and Kingdoms) the Emperor desireth that King Ferdinand may be excommunicate unless he will submit and surcease, and all the Kingdom of Spain be interdicted (or forbidden Gods worship.) The Prelates perceived how they were set up by this motion, and made Kings of Kings, and they thought the Emperor's motion reasonable, and without hearing King Ferdinand made themselves judges and sent him word that he must submit and obey or be excommunicated and bear the interdict. The King took time to answer, and calling his own Bishops together sound them of the same mind and spirit, and so was forced to promise submission. This Baronius, an. 1055. writes ex so. Mariano; and Binnius p. 1126.

§ 13. CCCXL. They say that the Emperor dying, less his Son Henry but five years old, and knew no better way to secure his succession than to desire Pope Vistor to take the care of it: who therefore called a Council at Colen to quiet, Baldwin and Godfrey Earls of Flanders that else would have resisted him. Thus Bishops in Councils now were as Parliaments to the Kingdoms of deluded men.

§ 14. CCCXLI. At Tholouse, an. 1076. A Council of 18 Bishops attempted tempted reformation, forbidding (alas! how oft) Bishops to sell orders, and other acts of Simony, and Priests using their wives, and the Adultery, Incest and perjury of Bishops and Priests; bidding them that are fuch, repent, and forbidding communion with men called hereticks.

6 15. CCCXLII. Though Adultery, Incest, Perjury and Simony of Bishops was so hardly restrained, it seems they would pay for it by superstition; for a Council at Compostella decreed (saith Baron, ad an. 1056.) that r. All Bishops and Priests should say Mass every day. 2: That at fasts and Litanies (which were perambulations in penitence) they should be cloathed in sackcloth.

6 16. Stephen the 9th. alias 10th. is next made Pope: In his time faith Platina the Church of Milan was reconciled to Rome, that had withdrawn itself from it two hundred years. Was all the world then fubject to the Pope when his Italian neighbours were not?

6 17. This Pope lived after his entrance but 6 or 7 months, and they say made them promise him to choose none in his place till Hildebrand came home to counsel them: (A great Subdeacon that Rome must be ruled by.) But in the mean time the new Emperor being but five or fix years old, the great men of Italy turned to the old game and brought in one by strength (Mincius) whom they called Benedict the 10th, alias 9th, a Bishop; he reigned 9 months, 20 dayes. But when Hildebrand came home he got him cast out. This was the twenty first schism in the Papacie.

§ 13. Hildebrand's crafty counsel was to send to the Emperor to An. 1059. consent to Gerard Bishop of Florence whom they chose in Italy and called Nicholas the 2d. Lest Benedict should get the Emperor on his side; and so Nicholas made Benedist renounce and banished him: But how shall we be fure which was the true Pope?

§ 19. This Pope's first epistle is to the Arch-Bishop of Rhemes to advile him to admonish the King of France for resisting the Pope.

§ 20. CCCXLIII. The Pope's Council at Sutrium deposed Benedict. $ 21. CCCXLIV. An. 1059. A Council of 113 Bishops at Rome. they say, made Berengarius recant, but not repent; but as soon as he came home he wrote against them and their Doctrine.

§ 22. In this Council, saith Platina, the Pope madea decree very profitable to the Church of Rome. Bin. faith these were the words (translated) ["p. 1666. First, God being the Inspector it is decreed that the clection of the es Roman Bishop be in the power of the Cardinal Bishops: so that if any one be "inthroned in the Apostolick seat, without the foregoing concordant and Ca-. es nonical election of them, and after the confent of the following religious Or-"ders, Clerks and Laity, (*) he be not accounted Apostolical but Aposta-

(*) But others fay, the Empe-Sent also was put 10.

Here it is much to be noted, 1. That this is a new foundation of the ror's con- Papacy (by Hildebrand's Council) without which it was falling to utter confusion. How then doth the Roman sect cry down Innovation and boast of Antiquity? 2. Either the Bishop of Rome is to be chosen as the Bishop of that particular Church, and then the members of that particular Church should choose him, or else as the Bishop of the universal Church (pretendedly) and then the universal Church should choose him. But the Cardinal Bishops of other particular Churches are neither the particular Roman Church, nor the universal, nor their delegates: and so have no just pretence of power.

3. Either this decree was new, or old and in force before: If new, their Church foundation is new and mutable, as is faid: If old, all the Popes that were otherwise chosen were no Popes.

4. And if it be but necessary for the suture, all that after were otherwise chosen were no Popes.

5. If several wayes and parties or powers making Popes may all make them true Popes, then who knoweth which and how many of those there are and which is the true Pope if ten were made at once ten several wayes?

- 6. This confesseth that Christ hath appointed no way for choosing Popes, nor given any sort of men power to choose them: else what need Pope Nicholas begin it now anew? And is so, it seemeth that Christ never instituted the Papacy: For can we suppose him so Laxe a Legislator, as to say, a Pope shall be made, and never tell us who shall have power to do it. Then England may choose one, and France another, and Spain another, &c. the Bishops one, the Priess another, the Prince another, and the Citizens another. But if Christ have settled a Pope-making power in any, it is either the same as Pope Nicholas did, in Cardinal Bishops, or not. If not, the Pope changeth Christ's institution: If yea, then all those were no Popes that were otherwise chosen, and so where is the Roman Church and its succession.
- 7. What power liath Pope Nicholas to bind his successors? Have not they as much power as he? and so to undo it all again? If the King should decree that his Kingdom hereaster shall not be hereditary but elective, and that the Bishops should be the choosers of the King, were this obligatory against the right of his heirs?

8. By this decree, if the Laity and Clerks consent not after, he is still no Pope.

§ 23. In this same Council (saith Bin. ibid.) it was decreed ["that no one hear the Mass of a Presbyter, whom he knoweth undoubtedly to have a Concubine, or Subintroduced Woman.] Quar. Whether they that make him a Schismatick that goeth from a scandalous, wicked, inalignant, or utterly insufficient Priest, and dare not commit the care of his soul to such a one, be not looser than Pope Nicholas and this Roman Council was?

§ 24. A Council at Malphia and another at Paris for Crowning King Philip, and one at Jacca in Spain, of finall moment.

§ 25. An. 1061. Was the 22d. Schissn or two Popes of Rome, for five five years continuance. The Cardinal Bishops, for sear of the Emperor. chose one that was great with him, Anselm Bishop of Luca: but the Italian Princes perswaded the Emperor that it was a wrong to them and him, and chose Cadolus Palavicinus Bisho; of Parma, colled Honorius the 21. The Sword was to determinate who has the true Pole. Cadolus came with an Army to Rome; the Romans, came out against him, and in the Fields, called Nero's; a great butil (lault I latera) was tought, in which many of both fides fell, but Cad lus was driven away. He shortly returned with a great Army being called by a part of the Romans, that were men of pleasure, and by force seized on the Suburbs and St. Peter's Church: But the Souldiers of Gotifred put his Souldiers to flight; and he himself narrowly scaped, the Presect of Rome's Son with him breaking through the Romans got possession of the Tower, where they besieged him till they forced him to yield, and buy his liberty of the beliegers for 300 pound of Silver. Then the Bishop of Colon having the education of the young Emperor came to Rome to rebuke Alexander as an Usurper, but by Hildebrand was so overcome (that the choice belonged not to the Emperor) that he called a Council which confirmed Alexander and deposed Honorius. The Emperor consented on condition that Cadolus be pardoned, and Gibert (his promoter, Chancellor of Parma) made Arch-Bishop of Ravenna, which the Pope consented to and did. Thus then were Popes and Bishops made.

2. How shall we be sure, for Cadolus's five years, who was the Pope?

§ 26. A woman called Mathildis a Countess was then the great Patroness of the Papacy, who furnished military Hildebrand (that did all) with Souldiers to conquer several Great Men that opposed them, and to set up Alexander and defend him.

§ 27. This Pope Alexander is faid by Bin. and Baron to judge King Harold, of England, an Usurper, to dispose of the Crown to William of Normandy, and declare him lawful Successor, and send him a Banner that he might fight for it and possess it. Thus did this Prelate give Crowns and Kingdoms, as the supreme judge (made by himself.)

He after required Rent (Peter-Pence) from England of William.

§ 28. He made some constitutions for his old Church at Milan. Three thing are the summe of them and many other Councils. 1. Against Simonie. 2. Against the Clergies fornication (no Canons cured them of either of these.) 3. That no Lay-Man judge any Clerk for his crimes: only if Priests live in fornication he alloweth Lay-Men to tell the Arch-Bishops, and if they will do nothing, then to withhold their duties and benefits till they amend. (But this Binnius noteth was but a temporary extraordinary concession, for the hatred that this Pope had to fornicating Clergy-Men.) But if they did but now and then lie with a woman by chance, and did not obstinately still keep them, they must not so trouble them.

Bin. p.

§ 29. CCCXLV. The foresaid Cadolus or Honorius 2d. was settled Pope by a Council at Basil, An. 1061, where, say some, many Simoniacal, incontinent, wicked Bishops decreed that no Pope should be made but out of Italy (which they called Paradise, that is, Lombardy.)

§ 30. CCCXLVI. A Council at Osborium, An. 1062- contrarily condemned him and fet up Alexander. Though before Platina faith that Cifalpini omnes all on the Romans side of the Alpes obeyed Honorius except Mathildis a good woman.

§ 31. Here Binnius thought a Dialogue of Pet. Damian worthy to be inserted, to prove that Princes may not make Bishops of Rome. In which he would prove that the Decrees that gave the Emperor such power may be changed, because God doth not alwaies perform his own word for want of mans duty; And he saith, that some men have been sinners and perished for obeying Gods own Law, and some rewarded for breaking it; which he proveth by a profane quibble. In fudas; as if Christs words what thou dost do quickly, had been a command to do the thing.

2. In the Rechabites that drank not Wine when feremy bade them; As if Gods Command to feremy to try them, had been his Command to them to do it.

A Council was at Arragon in Spain for we know not what.

§ 32. CCCXLVII. An. 1063. Peter Bishop of Florence being accufed of Heresie and Simony, and deposed, a Council at Rome renewed Pope Nicolas 2d's. Canons, not to hear Masse of a Priest that liveth with a Concubine or introduced woman: To excommunicate Simoniacks, &c.

§ 33. CCCXLVII. In a Council at Martina (to quiet some that yet took Cadolus's part and accused Pope Alexander of Siminy) Alexander is owned, and Cadolus, not appearing, cast out; who after tryed it out (as is aforesaid) by an Army.

§ 34. CCCXLIX. In a Council at Barcelon the Spaniards abrogated their old Gothish Laws and made new ones, but would not change the Cothish Church sizes. Here also allowed a way away.

Gothish Church rites: Here also Alexander was owned.

§ 35. An. 1065. A Courcil was at Rome against incest. § 36. Another for the same, the former not prevailing.

§ 37. In a Synod at Winchester, William the Conqueror puts down and imprisons Bishops and sets up others, for his own interest.

§ 38. CCCL. A Council at Menta was to have separated the young Emperor and his Queen, but the Popes Legate hindred it.

§ 39. CCCLI. In a Council at Menta the Bishop of Construcce is cast out for Simony and many crimes; the Emperor being for him.

- § 40. An. 1072. They say an English Council subjected York to Canterbury and owned Wolftan Bishop of Worcester accused for being unlearned as he was.
- § 41. CCCLII. An. 10-3. In a Council at Erford the Emperor got the Bithops to fulfil his will about some Tythes, threatening them that appealed to Rome. § 42.

1 42. Now cometh in the Foundation of the new Church of Rome, Hildebrand called Gregory 7th. An. 1073, a man of Great wir, and for ought I find in the most probable History not guilty of the gross immoralities, or fenfuality of many of his predecessors; but it's like blinded with the opinion which the Papifts Fifth-monarchy men have received (and Campanella de regno Dei opened and pleaded for)viz. that Christs Kingdom on earth confisteth in the Saints judging the world, that is, the Pope and Prelates ruling the Kings and Kingdoms of the earth, he did with grearest animosity set himself to execute his opinions. And withal, the factions of Rome and tyranny of their petty Princes and Whores and debauched Citizens, having long made the Papacy the scorn of the world and the lamentation of all fober Christians, constrained the better part to beg help from the Emperors against debauched monstrous Popes and their upholders: And by this means sometimes the choice fell into the Emperors hands, and sometimes when they were far off, the City-prevailing-part rebelled, and chose without them, or pulled down them that the Emperors fet up: And then the Emperors came and pulled down the Anti-Popes, and chastifed the City faction; and thus between the Italian and the German powers the City was a field of war, and the richer by bribes, and the stronger by the sword, how monstrous villanies soever were set up. It was no wonder then if Hildebrand first by Pope Nicholas 2. and Alexander and then by himself did resolve to run a desperate hazard, when he had two such great works at once to do, as first to recover the debauched and shattered shamed Papacy from this confusion, and then to subdue all Kings and Kingdoms within their reach to fuch a Priest-King as was then under so great disgrace. And tibi dabo claves must do all this.

§ 43. Hildebrand however had the wit to settle himself at first by feeking the Emperor's confent: And being fettled he got Agnes the Emperor's mother and Guardian mostly on his side. He then began to claim presentations and investitures and to take the power over the Bishops out of the Emperor's hands, and to threaten him as Simoniacal, and for communicating with the excommunicate. The Emperor after some treaty submitted, and was reconciled to the Pope; but the Pope said he did not amend. The Pope calls a Council at Rome, where he excommunicated Simoniacks, openly faying that he would excommunicate the Emperor unless he amended. Guibert Arch-Bishop of Ravenna being there accuseth the Pope for such threats against the Emperor, and got Cincius the Prefect's Son to apprehend him and imprison him. The People rife up in arms and deliver the Pope, and pull down Cincins's house to the ground, and cutting off their nofes, banish his family out of the City. Cincius got to the Emperor. Guibert. Arch Bishop of Ravenna, Theobald Arch-Bishop of Milan, and most of all the other Bishops on that side the Alpes conspire against the Pope. (And yet they say that all the world were his subjects.) He calls another Synod of his own Bishops (for Synods were still the great executioners) where Gibert and Hugo (one of his Cardinals that was against him) are deposed and curst from Christ. This Emperor also calls a Council at Wormes, where by the means of Sigifred Arch-Bishop of Mentz, it is decreed that no man in any thing obey the Pope of Rome. Roland a Clerk is fent to Rome to command the Pope to meddle with the government no more, and the Cardinals are commanded to forfike Gregory and feek for another Pope. Now the War began between the Sword and the Keys. Gregory by sentence deposed the Arch-Bishop of Mentz, and the other Clergy that were for the Emperor; and he Anathematized the Emperor himself, having first deprived him of all Regal Power and administration (as far as his decree would do ir.) The form of his curse and deposition Platina reciteth, where are these words [" I cast him down from his Imperial and Regal Administration; " And I absolve all Christians Subject to the Empire, from that Outh, by " which they have used to swear Fidelity to true Kings: For it is meet that " be be deprived of dignity, who endeavoureth to diminish the Majesty of "the Church.] (Mark O ye Kings and be wife.)

Some told the Pope that the Emperor should not be so hastily Anathematized: To whom he answered, "Did Christ except Kings when he "faid to Peter [Feed my Sheep? when he gave him the Power of binding and loofeing, be excepted none from his power.]

The Emperor wrote Letters to many Christian Princes and States to acquaint them with the Papal Injuries; and the Pope wrote his accorations of the Emperor and his own Justification. The Empire was presently all in Division. One patt was for the Emperor, and another for the Pope: Most of the Bishops of Germany obeyed the Emperor, and some were against him, as excommunicate. Some Councils were for him, and some against him. And, as Abbas Vrspurgensis said, they did so often swear and forswear according as Power and Interest moved, one time for the Emperor, and another against him, that Perjury was become a common thing both with the Bishops and the Laity. He that will see the many treatises that Learned men then wrote for the power of Princes against the Papal tyranny and rebellion may find them in the Voluminous Collections of Michael Goldassa de Monarchia.

The party that obeyed the Pope chose another to be Emperor, Rodulph Duke of Suevia: The Emperor requireth the Pope to Excommunicate Rodulph: He refuseth: The Emperor calleth a Council of Bishops at Brivia: They depose the Pope, and make Gibert of Ravenna Pope called Ciement the 3d. who, saith Onuphrius, sate, 21 years, so long had they two Popes, at this 23d. Schisin or doubling.

But did the Emperor nothing to prevent all this? Yes, at the motion of the German Princes to avoid contention, he made an Oath to ask the Pope forgiveness, if the Pope would come into Germany. The Pope on his way fearing that the Emperor coming toward him with an Army would apprehend him, turned back again, and betook him to a Grong

City of his Patroness one Mathildis a woman: The Emperor with his Army travelled to him, and came to the Gates of the City; and in a great and sharp winter frost, putting off his Royal Ornaments, came barefoot to confess his fault and ask forgiveness of the Pope. The Pope would not suffer him to come in; He patiently stayed three daies in the Suburbs continually begging pardon, and the Citizens moved with Compassion; At last the woman Mathildis, and Adelai a Savoy Earl, and the Abbot of Clumy became petitioners for him, and prevailed for mercy with the Pope, and he was absolved and reconciled to the Church, having fivorn a peace and promifed Obedience.

I give you the words of Platina all along. And now whether Hilde-brand or Henry was the better man in common morals, I that knew them not, must refer you to the Historians of that age, of whom some extol the Pope and depreciate the Emperor, and others honour the Emperor, and deeply accuse the Pope; But if an Emperor that travelled so far into another Country, and put off his ornaments, and with his Army waited three daies patiently in the Suburbs of a womans City baresoot in a great frost, begging mercy and pardon of a Priest before he could be let in, and after this sware obedience to him, I say, If this Prince did not yet sufficiently submit, but deserve to be turned out of his Empire, though at the cost of blood and desolation to the innocent Countries, it will be hard to know when the Obedience and Submission of Kings is enough to satisfie an ambitious Prelate.

But the Popes Historians say that the Emperor brake his Covenant. It is a hard thing for a King that promiseth Subjection and. Obedience to a Pope to be sure to keep his word, unless he foreknew what would be commanded him: when he hath taken away his Power and Kingdom by parts, he may command his life. It's a great doubt to me, when God hath made Princes the Rulers of Prelates, and Procurators of his Church, whether it be not a sin against God and their undertaken office, for these Princes to cast off this trust and work, because a Pope or Prelate claimeth it. The Pope still charged him with sacriledge. But I doubt he expounded his meaning when he deposed him for diminishing the Majesty of the Church, that is, of the Pope and Prelates.

To proceed in the History: In the 3d. or 4th. battle it was that Rodulph was slain; and It was the Popes denial to disown or excommunicate Rodulph after so low a submission of the Emperor, that enraged Henry, and made him think of another remedy than to be a Prelates slave. The Pope called all the Bishops that cleaved to the Emperor seditions: He condemneth Roland the German Legate and sendeth into Germany Legates of his own with a Mandamus, We command that no King, Arch-Bishop, Bishop, Duke, Earl, Marques, or Knight dare resist our Legates, &c. And the Penalty to the disobedient is terrible, viz. [We accurse him from Christ, and take from him his part of Vistory by Arms.] Sure if Popes had the power of Victory, they need not so of have sled to Castles, nor to have rid on an Als with the face backward, nor to have suffered what many of them have done. All this he doth, [Interposita Dei et B. Petri autboritate, qua nulla potest effe major.] Did Peter ever think that his name would have thus subdued Emperors and Kings?

The Pope again in a prayer to God and St. Peter reciteth the 2d. Pfalm. and telleth them how the Emperor would cast off his yoke, and again curseth him from Christ, and deposeth him from all his Government, and absolveth all his Subjects from the Oath of Obedience; saying, that "he that may bind and loose in Heaven hath power to take away on "Earth, both Empires, Kingdoms and Principalities, and whatever "men have to give or take away: If we Judge the ruling Angels, how "much more their Servants? Therefore (faith he to the Bishops) Let Kings ee and all secular Frinces ander stand by the example of this man, how great ce your power is in Heaven, and how much God esteemeth you, and let them " fear hereafter to break the commands of the Church. Pass this sence tence presently on Henry, that all may understand that this Son of iniquity se fell not from his Kingdom by Chance, but by your endeavor. Plat, p.

Rodulph being killed, the Rebels fet up the Emperors Son, a Lad, against his own Father: But at that present he was quieted, and the Emperor went with an Army into Italy, and first Conquered the Army of Mathildis the Popes Patroness, and brought his own Pope Clement the 3d. to the Chair, and was crowned by him: He belieged Gregory in the Castle: Gaiscard, a Norman cometh with an Army to fight for the Pope: The Citizens resist him, (the Emperor being drawn out to Sens.) Guiscard burnt and destroyed that part of the City which is between the Laterane and the Capitol, and took the Capitol and destroyed it. He gave the prey of the City to his Souldiers, and delivered Gregory and carried him away to Cassinum and Salernum, where he dyed, having reigned 12 years. Bin. faith, that Henry belieged Rome three years before he took it. When Robert Guiscard had delivered the Pope, he deposed (quantum in (c) all the new Cardinals made by Clement 3. and cursed the Emperor again. Gregory himself saith that Italian, French, and German Bishops were for the Emperor, and they were also for Clement 3. How shall we know then which was the true Pope?

§ 44. No less than ten Books of Hildebrand's Epistles are added by Binnius to his life. Most of them for the Papal Interest. In lib. 2. Ep. 5. He talketh of Ph.lip King of France as he did of the Emperor, saying he was no King but a Tyrant, and declaring that he was resolved to take his Kingdom from him if he did not amend his wicked life. One of his crimes was refifting the Pope that would fet Bishops in his Kingdom

Epift. 13. He tells Solomon King of Hungary, that his Kingdom is the propriety of the Church of Rome, devoted to it by King Stephen; and reproveth him for diminishing the Roman Kingdom, by accepting Hun-Zzz gary as from the Germans; and exhorts him to repent and amend.

Epist. 18. He again threatneth the King of France to cut offfrom the Church, both him and all that give him any Regal Honour or Obedience (O heinous crime! to keep the 5th. Commandment and Rom. 13. 1,2,3.) And that this excommunication shall be oft confirmed upon St. Peter's Altar.

Epist. 28. He suspends (qualtum in se) the Arch-Bishop of Breme as an Enemy to the Church of Romeand for hindering his Legates, from gathering a Council, and refuling to come to Rome to answer it.

Epist. 32. He calls the King of France a ravening Wolf, and unjust Tyrant.

Many great persons he forced to separate after Marriage, because they were in the fourth degree of Confanguinity.

Epist. 51. He tells the King of Denmark, that not far from Rome there was a Province possest by vile and sluggish Hereticks, and desireth him to send his Son with an Army to conquer them. What Province he meaneth, I am not certain; unless it was the Waldenses.

§ 44. Reader, we are greatly beholden to Binnius who hath recorded, as Oracles, 27 sentences called THE POPES DICTATES, by which you may partly know what Popery is.

1. "That the Roman Church was founded only by our Lord.
2. "That only the Bishop of Rome is rightly called Universal.
3. "That only the Pope can depose Bishops and reconcile them.

4. "That his Legates must preside in Councils, though they be of "inferior degree, before all Bishops; and may pass on them the sentence of deposition.

5. "That the Pope may depose those that are absent.

6. " That with those that are excommunicated by him, among other "things, we may not dwell in the same house.

- 7. "That to him only it is lawful to make new Laws for the necessity of the time; and to congregate new people; of Canonical to make "an Abbaty; and contrarily to divide a rich Bishoprick, and unite poor ones.
 - 8. "That only he may use Imperial Ensigns or Escucheons.
 9. "That all Princes must kiss the feet of the Pope only.
 10. "That only his name may be recited in the Churches.

11. "That it is the one only name in the World.
12. "That it is lawful for him to depose Emperors.

- 13. "That it is lawful for him in case of necessity to remove Bishops from seat to seat.
- 14. "That he may ordain a Clerk from any Church whither he will.
- 15. "That one ordained by him may govern another Church; and "must not take a superior degree from another Bishop.

16. "That no Synod without his command may be called Uni-" versal.

17. "That no Chapter, nor no Book may be accounted Canonical " without his authority.

18. "That his fentence may be retracted by none: and he alone may "retract all mens.

19. "That he ought to be judged of no man.

20. "That no man must dare to condemn any one that appealeth to " the Apostolick Seat.

21. "That the Greater causes of all Churches must be reserred to "him.

22. "That the Roman Church never erred, nor, as the Scripture

" witnesseth, will ever err.

23. "That the Bishop of Rome, if he be Canonically ordained, is un-"doubtedly made Holy by the merits of St. Peter, as St. Ennodius Bi-" shop of Papia witnesseth, and many holy Fathers consess, as is con-"tained in the Decrees of Pope Symmachus.

24. "That it is lawful for subjects to accuse by his Command and " licence.

25. "That he may depose and reconcile Bishops without Synodal mec-

26. "That he is not to be accounted a Catholick who agreeth not

" with the Roman Church.

27. "That he may absolve the Subjects of unjust men from fide-ce Lity.

These are put by Bin, among Gregory's Epistles, p. 1196. as the Popes Dictates. If I had not translated them from such an unquestioned Author that followeth Baronius, some would have thought they had been but the forgeries of some Protestant accuser, and that the Popes have no fuch tenents. What one is here that is not falle? and how many of them are horridly arrogant? The reading of them would tempt a doubting man to think that the Pope is the Eldest Son of the Prince of Pride, exalting himself above all that is called God, and arrogating Christ's prerogatives, and therefore Antichrift. If any would know what Popery is; A great part of the description is here given you by their greatest Pope himself, and by their chief Historians.

§ 45. Much of his 4th Book of Epiftles is to require Princes, Prelaces, and People to forfake the Emperor and choose another, and to excommunicate all that will communicate with him: yet in his 11th, Epift. he reciteth himself, how lamentably with tears, three daves in the frost barefoot, he begged for pardon, and how the compassionate People thought the Pope hard-hearted and tyrannical for not yielding; and that at last two Ladyes and an Abbot overcame him to absolve him.

§ 46. Lib. 4. Epift. 28. He tells the Spaniards also that their Kingdom was St. Peter's property: But why did he trouble himself to lay claim to particular Kingdoms? Would not his claim to all the world ferve turn for the particulars?

Lib. 5. Epist. 4. He clameth the Isle of Corsica.

S 47. That it may appear that the presumptuous usurpations of the Pope were not consented to by many Bishops, he oft complaineth that many Bishops of France, Italy, and Germany were against him: He abundantly chideth and threatneth several particular Bishops for resisting and disobeying him. Lib. 6. Epist. 4. he writeth thus to the Bishop of Liege. ["Having read the Letters of your Brotherhood, we did not a little wonder that you wrote that which became you not, in reverence of the Apostolick seat: but that you did with biting investive reprehend me, for absolving your Parishioner, that lately came to us; as if the Apostolick seat had not authority to bind and absolve whomsoever we will and wheresoever we will: Know therefore that we are greatly moved against your temerity.

Indeed one of the tricks of the Papal ambition was to be the Afylum of all wicked fugitives that fled from Church justice in all Countries pear them; to shew favour to all condemned sinners that would but fly to Rome, and appeal to them from the Justice of their Pastors, yea, and of their Princes too, which made their friends to be rather many than good.

§ 48. And the Church of Rome was not yet rich enough with all the Principalities it had got: They still kept on the trade of enriching the Pope to save their souls. Binnins. p. 1233. honoureth us with a record among Gregory 7th. Epistles, viz. ["In the name of the Father, Son and "Holy Ghost, in the 6th. year of the Pontificate of Gregory 7th. I Marro "Son of Gislet dwelling in the Dukedom of Spoletane, for the Redemption "of my own and my Parents souls do give, deliver and offer to St. Peter "Prince of the Apostles, and on his Altar, all that belongeth to me of the "Castle called Moricicla, &c.] Did Christ think how easily Rich men might be saved (by giving to the Pope in the name of St. Peter) when he said, It was barder for a rich manto enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, than for a Camel to go through a Needle's Eye?

§ 49. Lib.7. Epist. 3. He saith ["They that are Latines do all of them, "except a very few, praise the cause of Henry, and defend it, and charge me with too much obstinacy and impiety against him.] And if the Latines did so, what did the Germans, French, &c? You see here that it was far from all the world that was subject to the Pope, and took his part in his usurpations.

Epiff. 4. He commandeth a General no more to fight against the King of Dalmatia, as belonging to St. Peter].

§ 50. Yet this Pope doth teach them the truth against deceitful pennance or repentance, Lib, 7. Epist. 10. viz. [We say that it is a fruitless pennance, when men remain in the same fault, or in the like, or in a worse or in one little less: He therefore that will worthily repent, must have recourse to the Original of his Faith, and be solicitous watchfully to keep that which

"which in his Baptism he promised, viz. to renounce the Devil and his pomps and to believe in God, that is, thinking rightly of him, to obey his Commands.

§ 51 Epist. 17. He tells the Duke of Bohemia that it is customarily and doubtfully that he saluteth him with [Apostolical Benediction.] Because the communicated with the excommunicate: And he denieth his request of suring or translating the Divine Service or Offices into the Sclavonian tongue; because there were many mysteries in it. Thus come up the Prohibition to the peoplee, to pray understandingly.

Epift. 14. He absolveth the Bishop of Liege from an Oath because, he took it by force: And commandeth him to rise up against the imposer with all his power, he being St. Peter's enemy.

Epist. 21. He tells the King of Denmark of an ill custom among them, that whatever ill weather or calamity befell them, they imputed all to the ill lives of Priests.

Epift. 23. He tells our King William the Conqueror that feeing he was on his fide, and is charged by some with all his bloodshed, that now he must be very obedient to him as his Pastor, and Peter's Successor.

And Epist. 25. He tells them that the Papal or Apostolick power is greater than the Kingly and must rule it, as the Sun is greater than the Moon.

Lib. 8. Epist. 1. He laments the Corruption of the Church in Armenia:

"[1. Because they mixed not Water with Wine in the Sacrament, when all "men know that Blood and Water came from the side of Christ. 2. Because they made not their Chrysm of Balsom, but of Butter. 3. Because they honoured the memory of Dioscorus.] O what Heresies!

Pag. 1254. in Bin. There is an Oath that Robert Duke of Apulia, Calabria and Sicily to be true to the Pope, and defend him as holding all these from him; and there is the Popes grant of them to him, laying claim also to his other dominions; the denyal of which he patiently beareth at the present.

S 52. But lest you think that at least the Kingdom of Spain was fast, all this while to the Church of Rome, Lib. 8. Epist. 2. He writeth thus himself. ["By the Letters of my Legate Richard Abbot of Marseilles" you may know how great impicty is gone out of your Monastery (of Cluny) by the presemption of Robett a Monk, who imitating Simon Magus, feareth not to rise up against the Authority of St. Peter, with all the crast of his malignity, and to reduce by his suggestion into their old error an hundred thousand men, who by our diligence vegan to return to the right was: the hopes that the Abbot thinks as he, for the honour of the Roman urch. He chargeth the Abbot to cast out this man that had so engred Spain, adding ["And by your Letters diligently acquaint the King who is deceived by his fraud, that he hath greatly provoked St. Peter's wrath and indignation against him, and his grievous Revenge against him and his Kingdom unless he repent, because he undecently "handled a Legate of the Roman Church, and believed falshood rather "than truth. Of which that he may worthily make satisfaction to God and Sr. Peter, as he hath disgraced our Legate, so let him by due humility and condign Reverence, make himself commendable and devout. "For we think meet to signifie to him by you, that we will excommunicate him if he correct not his fault, and will solicite all the faithful in the parts of Spain to his consusion: And if they be not obedient to "my command, I will not think much to travel into Spain my self, and "there to endeavour dara et aspera, Things hard and sharp against him as "an enemy of the Christian Religion.] O brave Pope! had not these men a notable Knack or hap that could sit and talk down Emperors, and Kings, and subdue and dispose of Kingdoms, by sitting at home and talking big, and telling them that St. Peter was angry with them?

And who was this King but the great Alfonfus, to whom he writeth himself, Epift. 3. to put away his evil counsellors and hearken in all things to the Popes Legate, Richard?

§ 53. Epift. 6. 1.8. He commandeth Souldiers to help Michael the Emperor of Constant against the Usurper, to make himself judge, and get an interest again in the Empire: But in vain.

§ 54. Epist. 7. He declareth that divers Princes having sworn and promised him help, he resulved to come with an Army to recover Ravenna to the Church.

Epift.8. He rejoyceth that they had newly found St. Matthew's body, and bids them now take him joyfully for their patron. These are the grounds of Popish superstition: The body of St. Matthew that preached to the Abassines in another part of the world, is found at Salerno in Italy, a thousand years after he is dead. O that one knew how to be sure that it was his body, and how it came thither! Divers such sindings they glo-

§ 55. Epist. 10. He writeth to Orzoccus Prince of Calaris or Sardinia, to require him as a note of his obedience to St. Peter and concord with the Church of Rome, whose use it is, to let his Arch Bishop shave his Beard, and to command all the Clergy of his dominion to shave their Beards; and if they obey not, to force them to it, or exclude them. And to be sure of success he lets him know, (how truly I know not) that many Princes importuned him to give them leave to invade his Comptrey, but (this righteous ruling Pope) denied leave to them all, till he had tryed whether he would obey him, which if he would do, he would not only deny them leave to invade him, but also protect him. Reader, think here. 1. Whether Princes held not their kingdoms loosely when they where to lose them if they obeyed not the Pope in so sinall a thing as the shaving of a Priests Beard. 2. Whether it were not a hard thing for the Catholick Church then to have concord, when so small a difference as the fraving or not starting of Beards were put into their terms of Union and Peace? Who were the Schismaticks then? was it not the makers and imposers of such laws and terms? 3. Is it not a high power that is claimmed by Popes, when no Priest in all the Christian world may have so much as his Beard in his own power, in which nature hath given him a propriety? How much more might the Pope then command all mens purses? 4. May way we not see here on what weighty reasons, these men condemn God's word of infufficiency, and plead for traditions, and a necessity of their additional Laws? When Scripture bath left out the shaving of mens Beards, and we had never had such a Law, if such power as the Papal had not made it? O what discord and disorder would there be in the Church if we had not so necessary a government! and what confusion would toleration introduce, if mens Beards were left at liberty! But if Paul called the heathen Phylosophy Vain and Science fally so named.] 1 Tim. 6, 20, as befooling the world with pedantick trifling, and calling them off from their great concernes, may we not fay then that this is vain Government and Order fally so named, which thus calleth the Church from its primitive purity, implicity and unity, when Christians were known by loving one another, to these childish games, that the Prelates and Priests of the Catholick Church must be known by their being without Beards? One would suspect this had its original from Pope Foane, if there were indeed such a person; and that it is a Symbol of the Churches fex, as it is called Our Mother; or at least that Marozia or Theodora instituted it. 5. And do you know which were the more inexcufable, for filencing and perfecuting the preachers of the Gospel? The Yews that did it because they thought it took down Gods Law, and would bring the Roman Power on them; Or the Roman heathens that thought theGospel destroyed the worship of their foresathers Gods; or the Roman Papiste, that filenced and persecuted men for wearing Beards? I Thes. 2.16.

§ 56. Epift. 11. When some French Preachers had revived Religion in Sweden; the Pope, desirous to reap where they had sowed, sends to the King of Sweden, to tell him his joy; and that what the French taught them they received from Rome, and to desire him to send one of his Bishops to Rome, to acquaint him with their customs, and to receive his Laws and Mandates. You see by what means Rome was rassed.

Epift. 15. A Bishop gave up his Bishoprick: The Pope chides him and commands him to a Monastery; Rather than do so, he returneth to his seat again: The Pope chargeth him with the Idololaria scelus the Crime of Idolarry, for not obeying him; and writes to them not to recieve him or be ruled by him, as ever they loved the Grace of God and St. Peter.

The like he doth, Epist. 16. by the disobedient Bishop of Narbon, and Epist. 17. by the disobedient Arch Bishop of Rhemes, and Epist. 18. 19, 20. of the same; and all this in St. Peter's name. Yea Epist. 20. he requireth the King of France (Philip) to joyn against the Arch-bishop of Rhemes as excommunicate, as ever he would have St. Peter's Grace, because his Kingdom and his Soul were in St. Peter's power. And it is no wonder that they that believe that the Pope is St. Peter's Vicar and Secretary, and that their fouls are in his power, will give him all their Lands or Kingdoms to fave their fouls.

§ 57. When the Pope sentenced the Emperor Henry to be excommunicate and deposed, and was charged to have done this without authority, he wrote his 21 Epift. 1. 8. to the Bishop of Metz to prove that he had power to do it; and to absolve his Subjects from their Oaths of fidelity; faving, that the Scriptures were full of certain documents to prove it. And his certain documents are Tibi dabo Claves, &c. and Feed my Sheep; And Kings are not excepted. They are St. Peter's Sheep. Bin. p. 1262. he faith, that the Head of Priests is at the right hand of God; but who knoweth not that Kings and Dukes had their beginning from them that knew not God, and affected by blind lust and intolerable presumption to domineer over others, the Devil the Prince of the world acting them, in Pride, Rapines, Persidiousness, Murders and all wickedness? who while they would have the Priests of the LORD to stoop to their footsteps, are rightlyest compared to hims who is head of all the Sons of pride, who said even to Christ, All this will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me, Who doubteth but that the Priests of Christ are the Fathers and Masters of Kings and Princes, and of all the faithful? And is it not notorious miferable madness for a Scholar to endeavour to subjugate his Master, and a Son his Father, and by wrong sul obligations to subject him to his power, by whom he believeth that he may be bound or loofed both in Earth and Heaven? Did not Pope Innocent excommunicate Arcadius the Emperor? and Pope Zachary depose from his Kingdom the King of France, not so much for his iniquities, as because he was not meet for so great power; placed Pepin in his stead, and absolved all the French from the Oath of sidelity? Ambrole sheweth that Gold is not so much more pretions than Lead, as the Priestly Dignity is higher than the Kingly Power. Pag. 1263. Yea even the exorcifts have power over Devils: How much more over those that are Subject to the Devils, and are his members? And if the exorcift excel so much, how much more the Priests? And every King when he cometh to his end, doth humbly and pitifully beg the Priests help, that he may scape the prison of Hell, and Darkness, and at the judgment of God be found absolved. But is there either Priest or Lay-man that when he is dying begs help of the King for the faving of his foul? What King or Emperor canby his Office, take a Joul by baptisin from the power of the Devil, and number him with the Sons of God, and fortifie him with holy Chrism? And (which is the greatest thing in the Christian Religion) can with his own mouth make Christs body and blood? Or which of them can bind and loofe in Heaven and earth? By all which it may be plainly gathered by how great power the facerdotal dignity excelleth. Which of them can ordain one Clerk in the holy Church? How much less can they depose him for any fault? For in orders exclesiastical, to depose is an act of greater power than to ordain: For Bishops may ordain Bishops, but in no wife depose them without the authority of the Apostolick seat: Who then that hath any knowledg can doubt but that Priests are preferred before Kings? In a word, we must know that all good Christians are more fit- (') And ly Kings than evil Princes: For these by seeking the Glory of God do stronn- are Preously rule themselves: But the other seeking their own, and being enemies to bad too themselves do tyrannically oppress others: These (good Christians) are the body that rule of Christ. The other (bad Princes) are the body of the Devil. These so rule them the selves, as that they shall reign eternally with the highest Emperor. But the Church? power of the other brings them eternally to perish by eternal damnation, with it a mark the Prince of darkness, who is King over all the Sons of Pride. And it is not of arcproto be wondered at that (*) bad Prelates consent to an unrighteous King, whom bate to offer their ill got preferments by him, they love and fear, who Simoniacally orKing adaining any, do for a base price sell even God himself. ces of Government without a call, else the best man must be always King: And then what Pope had Title to his Seat? Right to Heaven, will not prove a right to Kingdoms: Nor, è contra, Power to cast out Devils will not prove that the exorcist may cast out the King, nor give him Laws. 2. What though the King be a Scholar to a Grammarian, a Musician, a Physician: Is it therefore absurd that he be King over these Masters? What Kings are though he must obey his Physician for his life? May he not command that Physician for the common peace? What though he cannot do that which a Physician, a Musician & c. can do? May he not rule them for all that? 3. What a discontented mind have such holy Prelates, that cannot be fatisfied with their Title to Heaven, their Miracles, Sanctity, Church-Keys &c. unless they may also be above Kings, and have the secular power also? 4. And what cause have Kings and States to look to themselves, that are under such Priests, where every Clergy man is their Master? And how many superiors then bath every Popish King? Even as many as he hath Prelates, Priests or exorcists. Yet I will confess that if Princes had been as bad still as some of them have been, and as such Popes pretended; and Popes and Prelates, and Priests had been as Infallible, Holy, Wise and Peaceable as they have pretended, and had not proved the shame of Religion and Incendiaries of the Christian World, in so many generations, it would have tempted men strongly for the interest of Religion and mankind, to wish that all power had been committed to the Clergy, and that Campanella's Regnum Dei, or Fift-Monarchy, by Priestly Government of the World, had taken place. But when their own historians make fourty Popes together Monsters of wickedness, and piety at the same time to be translated to the Princes, this turneth our thoughts another way: Especially when we find still that a proud, worldly, wicked Clergy, are the great confounders of the World.

6 59. Epift. 23. He fends to his Legates to demand of the King of France, that every house do give a penny to St. Peter, if they take him for their Father and Pastor. It seemeth the Roman Peter must have money, Rule and Honour of all the world, though he cry it down in others.

§ 60. Lib. 9. Ep. 1. He suspendeth the Arch-Bishop of Romen in Normandy, from confecrating any Bishop or Priest, or Church, because he had not visited the Pope at Rome, when as men and women came to him from the remoter parts of the Earth; (The Pope loved much company, and loved not privacy so well as I do.) and because he had not sought his pallium; though he wrote submissively to him.

§ 61. Even this Pope Ep. 2. l. 9. Professeth to the King of Spain that a Lye is a fin though it come from a pious intention for peace; but in Priests it is a kind of Sacriledg.] And if so, Priests had need to take heed that they Lye not, by swearing, subscribing, declaring or professing any falshoed though a Pope should command them.

62. In the same Ep. he congratulates that Spain received his Order of service or Liturgie, because that which they used hitherto had some things contrary to the Christian Faith. What? Was the old Spanish Liturgy, heresie?

§ 63. Ep. 3. l. 9. The Pope upon the death of Rodulph, fearing the Emperors coming into Italy, pretendeth that now all men advised him to receive the Emperor, for peace, into his favour and mercy; saying, that almost all the Italians were for him, and that his Patroness Mathildis was counted mad by her own Subjects, who would not fight for her and him; and therefore sends to try whether he could get any help from others; charging them to see that the next chosen King be one true to St. Peter, and to that end sends them an Oath of obedience to Saint Peter and his Vicar which the King must take.

64. Ep. 4. He employeth his agents to engage the Norman Duke

Robert to help him with an Army.

And Ep. 5. His Legate having deposed all the Bishops of Normandy that refused to come to his Synod, he tells him that William King of England, and Duke of Normandy, though he was not so good as he should be, was more useful and better to the Church than other Kings, and therefore must not be offended, and therefore bids him restore the Bishops: and also to pardon some Soldiers, excommunicated for not paying tythes, because they must not lose the Soldiers.

Ep. 8. He writeth to the Duke of Venice, by all means to avoid all excommunicate persons, and their friendship and favour less they came into the snares of the same damnation: For Anathema's were the arms by which he subdued Emperors, and was to do his work.

The like to others in other Epistles. And Ep. 12. He brought one Count Bertran to swear him fidelity, and to give him all his Countrey, and honour as Earl of Provence, and this for the pardon of his own and his Fathers fins.

§ 65. Ep. 14. He congratulates to the Kings of the Tisigoths their conversion to Christianity; but tells then they must oft send to Rome for further instruction.

How frequently he made Arch-Bishops and Bishops travel to him out of other Kingdoms when his Legates wronged them, many other Epistles shew.

- Ep. 17. The Norman Duke, Robert, acquainteth the Pope with a Victory which he had got: He returneth him this answer, that he had but done his duty and now as it was Saint Peter that had given him, this vistory, if he would not make him angry, he must note be thankful to Saint Peter, and remember what he owed him, to help him against the Emperor, Henry, and all his other enemies.
- § 66. Ep.20. He writes to the Arch-Bishop of Cancerbury that he had shewed himself guilty of disobedience which is as Idelacry in that he had not travelled to Rome to visit the Pope when he commanded himsend tells him that if he come not by All-Saints day next he shall be deposed; for many weak menthat could scarce rise out of their beds, came from other much sarther Countreys: and he should lose Saint Peter's grace if he failed (must they do so also from the Antipodes?)

Ep. 22. He tells the Count of Angiers (or Arju) that he should have obejed the sentence of his Bishop, though it was unjust. And so every wicked Prelates power over Princes and all others shall be absolute.

He flattered our King William the Conqueror more than other Kings; but ep. 2. 1. 11. He complaineth of his punishing a Bishop, telling him that God taketh them as the apple of his eye, and sairh, Touch not mine anointed; and though they are naught and very unworthy they must be honoured, and being called Gods, men must not meddle with them.

Ep. 1. Append, (Bin.p. 1278) he tells Lanfi v. Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, how far the Church was from purity in his day; viz. that [The Bishops and such as should be Pastors of Souls, do with insutable desire hunt after the Glory of the World, and the pleasures of the sless. And do not only themselves consound all things that are holy and religious, but by their example dr. witheir Subjects to all wickedness; And that to let them alone is unlawful, and to resist them how difficult!

So much of the Epiftles of Greg. 7th, who feemeth to be much more against vice than his predecessors for many ages, but more for tyrannical usurpation and rebellion than ever any that was before him: And if the better fort of them be fuch, what may be expected from them?

§ 67. CCCLIII. An. 1074. In a Council at Rome Priests were forbid marrying, and all that were married commanded to put away their Wives: The Arch-Bishop of Mentz trying to do the same in Germany, the whole party of the Clergy (saith Lambert, an. 1074) raged against it, and called the Pope a downright Heretick that opposed Christs Law, who sorbad putting away Wives except for fornication, saying, all men cannot receive this saying; and as driving men to fornication: They went from the Synod, and some were for casting out the Archbishop of Mentz and putting him to death: But he spake them sair. But the Pope went on.

§ 68. CCCLIV. In a Synod at Genefius, the Popes Legate and Anfelm Lucenf. excommunicated many that had been against Anfelm: whereupon the whole City was enraged, and for fook Mathildis, and joyned with the Emperor, and expelled the Bishop, one Peter a Canon leading them.

§ 69.CCCLV. an. 1075. a Council at Rome excommunicated five of the Emperors Family; unless they travelled to Rome and made satisfaction: It excommunicated Philip King of France unless he satisfied the Nuntii of the Pope: It suspended the Arch bishop of Breme, the Bishop of Strasburg, the Bishop of Spire, the Bishop of Bamberge, and in Lombardie the Bishop of Papia, the Bishop of Turine, the Bishop of Placentine, and also Robert Duke of Apulia, and Robert de Roritello. &cc.

§ 70. an. 1075. Was the foresaid Synod at Mentz where the Arch-Bishop seeking to bring the Clergy to obey the Pope in putting away their Wives, was sain to put it off to save his life from the Clergies rage.

The English Councils I omit referring you to Spelman, of which one deposed Wulstan (they say injuriously) &c.

§ 71. CCCLVI. an. 1076. A Council at Worms sentenced the Pope deposed. Two Bishops awhile resused consent, but at last yielded: And

they

they sent to the Pope, that thencesorth all that he did as Pope was void. § 72. CCCLVII. Hereupon the Pope calls a Council at Rome, which excommunicated all the German Bishops that deposed him, and the Bishops of Lombardy as conspiring against St. Peter, and many French-Bishops: And with them the Emperor Henry; and deposed him (quantum inse) from all his dominions: and absolved his Subjects from their oaths (as aforesaid.)

§ 73. CCCLVIII. The excommunicate Bishops had a Council at Papia, where they retorted the Popes Anathema on himself, and excommunicate him.

§ 74 CCCLIX. The Pope calls another Council at Rome, where the Arch-Bishops of Millan and Ravenna (the Antipope) are excommuni-cate, and the Emperor's cause and party again condemned.

§ 75. CCCLX. Another Synod at Rome an. 1078. decreed divers things for defence of the Clergies priviledges. And it is observable that to that day the old Canons were in force for nulling all ordinations not made by the Common Consent of the Clerks and People: Ordinationes que interveniente pretio vel precibns, vel obsequio alicujus persone en intentione impenso, vel que non Communi consensu Cleri & pepuli secundum Canonicas sanctiones siunt, & ab his ad quis consecratio pertinet, non comprobantur, informas & irritas esse dijudicamus; quoniam qui taliter ordinantur non per ostium, id est, per Christum intrant, sed ut ipsa veritas testatur, sures sunt & latrones. Therefore it is no sinsul separation to disown and avoid such obtruded Bishops or Pastors as are not so ordained by the Common Consent of the Clergy and the People.

. § 76. In this Council the Pope, to keep up some pretentions yet to a power in the East, excommunicated the new made Emperor Nicophorus Betoniates for deposing wrongfully the Emperor Michael and his Wife Mary, and his Son Constantine Porphyrus, and putting them into a Monastery and invading the throne, whom the Patriarch Cosmus lately set up by Michael, had Crowned: But thus matters were then often carryed.

§ 77. That we may a little take along time of the Greek affairs, note here, that Zimifors being dead an. 975, the Empire returned to Bafl and Constantine the Sons of Romanus jun. B fil held it go years; and C. Bantine three more. Against them rose first Bard is Soleros, and then Bardes Phocas. Bafil overcame and Subjected the Bulg wians: An. 1028. Areyens Romanus took the Empire with Toe Constantine's daughter (putting away his Wife for her and the Empire.) After five years Loc killed him, and took her adulterer and the agent Michael Paphlago to her bed and Empire. He being afflicted in body penitently turned Monk, and reduced Too to fome order: But being dead, the took Micrael Calephate who fivare to obey Coe; but breaking his Covenant, the depoted him and put out his eyes. And an. 1042. She took to her bed and the Empire Confiantine Monomachus, in whose times the Greeks had divers lones by the Sueves and by the Normans that got Apulia. Sect. 78. CCCLXI. A Roman Council an. 1079. Forced Berengarius to recant, and to own Transubstantiation.

Sect. 79. CCCLXII. An. 1080. Another Roman Council renewed the deposition of the Emperour, and gave his Empire to Rodulph, the Pope excommunicating Henry, and saying [Considers de judicio & misericordia Des ejusque pissime matris semper Virginis Maria, sultus vestra authoritate, sepe nominatum Henricum, quem Regem dicunt, omnesque fautores ejus excommunicationi subjicio, & anathematis vinculis alligo : 😈 iterum Regnum. Then he giveth absolution from all their fins to all that take part with Rodulph, and bleffing in this life and that to come. Adding [Go on then holy Fathers and Princes I befeech you, that the whole world may understand and know, that if you can bind and loose in Heaven, you can on earth both take away the Empires, Kingdoms, Principalities, Dukedomes, Marquisates, Earldoms, and Possessions of all men, according to their merits, and grant them (to others) for you have often taken away from the evil and unworthy, Patriarchates, Primacies, Arch-Bishopricks, Bishopricks, and given them to religious men: For if ye judge spiritual things, what must men believe that you can do about things secular ? and if you judge the Angels that rule over all Proud Princes, what can you do with their fervants? Let Kings and all secular Princes now learn, hew great you are and what you can do; and let them hereafter be afraid to fet light by the Command of your Church: And exercise your Judgment so speedly on the said Henry, that all may know, that he falls not by chance, but by your power; I wish he be confounded to repentance, that his Spirit may be faved in the day of the Lord.] O brave Pope!

From this Council the Pope fent Rodulph a Crown with this inscription---Petra dedit Petro Petrus diadema Rodulph. But all this was but as Balaam's attempt; Ir destroyed not Henry, nor saved the life of Rodulph, that was after killed.

Sect. 80. CCCLXIII. An. 1080. The Emperor called a Council at Brixia which deposed Gregory as [a false monk, the pestilent Prince of all villanie, the invider of the Roman Seat, never chosen of God, impudently intruding himself by fraud and money, subverting all Church-order, perturbing the Kingdom of a Christian Empire; designing the death of Soul and Body to a quiet Christian Emperour: desending a perjured King; sowing discord where there was concord, and strife, where there was peace, scandils among prethren, divorces between Husband and Wise, and staking all that seemed to be in quietness among godly men; a proud preacher of Sacriledge and stances, defending perjuries and munders, questioning the Catholick dostrine of Christs body and blood, an old Disciple of Berengarius (*) a follower of divinations and demms a manifest Conjurer, pest sich a divining evil Spirit, and so sweet from the true Faith.] And they made Guibert Pope in his stead (as was aforesaid.)

days in fighs and groans, being belieged, and then dismist it.

§ 86. CCCLXIX. An. 1084, in another, the besieged Pope again excommunicated the Emperor, and the new Pope Clement (Guibert Raven.)

§ 87. CCCLXX. An. 1085. A Council at Quintilineburg condemned two Herefies: The first was the Royalist Herefie of Loyalty, called the Henricians, from Henry the Emperor, who thought that the Pope and Prelates had not authority to depose Kings and Emperors, but were to be Subjects to them. An Herefie, if such, that most Kings are very much inclined to, as taught them by St. Paul, Rom. 13. and by St. Peter himself. You see, O Princes, if you will be the Popes and Prelates Executioners, that you must come at last to the Stake your selves, and fall under the Law de Hereticis comburends, unless you will be Servants your selves, or trust to some peculiar chalibeate remedies.

The great argument of the Pope was [The Disciple is not above his Master. One Gunibert undertook to prove, That the Pope had no such power, but what he had usurped, and taken to himself, but might be judged. But the forefaid Argument struck all dead. But might not these Prelates have understood, I. That the Pope himself may have a Master in Philosophy, Physick, &c? And is he not for all that, Above his Master? 2. Is the King above no Mafter that teacheth him in any Art or Science? 3. Are not Christ's words plainly to be understood, of Superiority and Inferiority in eodem genere? The Difciple as fuch is not above his Master; but as a King he may: or else Princes give up their Kingdoms to every Schoolmaster that they choose. 4. This Doctrine sets not only Popes and Prelates, but every teaching Priest or Preacher above the King; for to such the King may be a Disciple. 5. This tendeth therefore to tempt Princes to be utterly ignorant and brutish; for fear lest by learning any thing of any Master, they should give away their Kingdoms. And if Children be Kings by inheritance, what a snare is here laid to undo them? 6. Doth not the Holy Ghost say, Let every Soul be subject; and were not Peter and the Apostles some of these Souls? Did not Christ himself and Pcter pay Tribute?

But remember again you that are Subjects to such Councils and Prelates, that it is by them judged Heresie to be Loyal, and to plead for the Clergies subjection to Kings.

§ 88. The Heresie of Wecilo was here also condemned, that said (as they report him) That when the secular Men were spoiled of their Estates and Goods, (it's like by the Ecclesiasticks) they were not bound to obey the Ecclesiasticks, and might be received by others, when they were Excommunicate. It was therefore decreed, [That whoever was Excommunicate by his Bishop, that Bishop not being himself Excommunicate, or deprived of his Office, though it were unjustly done, should by no means be received to Communion (by any other) unless absolved in the Ecclesiastical manner.] And so God must be disobeyed, that commandeth the Faithful to worship him in Sacramental Communion, whenever any proud, malicious or drunken Prelate will forbid him: And must so live and die, unless his Masters will repent of their injuries. When as it is usual for one injury to engage a Man to more, or to continue it, for the justification of the first.

§ 89. Another Decree of this Hereticating Council was, What days to keep the Spring and Summer Fasts on; and that none eat Cheese or Eggs in Lent.

This is the Roman holiness, and way to Heaven.

Many Archbishops and several Cardinals were here Excommunicate also, for being for the Emperor against the Pope.

$90. CCCLXXI. But the Wars of Councils continuing, a Council was called by the Emperor at Mentz, where the deposition of Gregory, and the substitution of Clement (whose Legates were present) was confirmed, and the Condemners again condemned.

And so we have done with the Life, Letters and Councils of Hildebrand.

§ 91. Pope Gregory dying, Clement alone was Pope one year, and then the Italians chose Defiderius an Abbot, called Victor the 3d. This was the 23d Schism, or two Popes at once. Victor lived but a year and three months, and 24 days. Historians tell us of Famines, and dreadful Prodigies in those days. In that little time he raised an Army which beat the Saracens in Africk.

§ 92. CCCLXXII. A Council at Capua chose this Victor, An. 1087. and when he was brought to Rome, they found Pope Clement in possession, and keeping it by Arms: but when they had fought, Victor's Soldiers proved Victors, and his Title to be best.

§ 93. CCCLXXIII. Victor had a Council at Benevent, where he damned Pope Clement and his Bishops, An. 1087. The grand Controversie of those times of the Pope against the Emperor and other Princes was, about Presentations to Bishopricks, or Investitures, which the Pope said, belonged to no Layman: Victor's Council again judged such Presentations or Collation of Bishopricks to be Sacriledge, and such Simoniacs that used them: And here it's worth the noting that they decree, (Bin. p. 1293.) That Penance and Communion may be received from none but a Catholick: And if no Catholick Priest be there, it is righter to persist without visible Communion, and to communicate invisibly with the Lord, than by taking it from a Heretick to be separated from God. For there is no Communion of Christ and Belial; nor of a Believer with an Insidel: But every Heretick is an Insidel: And a Simoniac because an Heretick, is an Insidel: For though Catholicks because of the Hereticks being over them, cannot have visible and corporal Communion, yet while in mind they are joined to Christ, they invisibly receive his Communion.

Let it be here noted, 1. That this Council confesseth that the Sacrament and visible Communion is not of necessity to salvation: And why not the same of visible Baptism, when it cannot be had on lawful terms? 2. That therefore it is no sinful Separation to refuse such Church-Communion as cannot be had on lawful terms, or but from Hereticks, Simoniacs, or Sacrilegious. 3. That this sheweth that the Church of Rome hath their Succession of interrupted: For by the testimony of their most flattering Historians, and of General Councils, many Popes have been Simoniacs; Ergo, saith this Council, Hereticks and Insidels; Ergo no Popes: Ergo their Faith failed. 4. That this maketh their Bishops, Priests, and Churches in all their own Kingdoms where Princes have the presenting and investing of Bishops, to be all void and null, as being Insidels. And that not only among Protestants none should communicate with any Bishops that have their Presentation and Investiture from Kings, but must separate from them as Insidels, but even in Papists Kingdoms they must do the same.

§ 94. Victor commended Odo, or Otho Oftiensis for his Successor; who is chosen in his stead against Clement, and called Urban the 2d. He made their old Patroness Mathildis in her age to marry with an Italian Duke Welpho, on condition that they should never have Carnal Copulation. The Emperor came to Rome, and set up Clement: Urban (or Otho) being one that before had published the Excommunication of the Emperor, Excommunicateth him again, and goeth from Rome, into Italy and France; and sets the Princes upon the recovering of Jerusalem, Listing 300000 Men, and so reconciled most of their Strifes at home. The History of this Expedition, Platina briefly, and many Authors largely give us, to whom I refer you.

Another at Constance, An. 1094. against married Priests and Simoniacs, and about the number of Easter and Whitsian Holydays. And the Empress Praxes departed from the Emperor, accusing the Court of most filthy Fornication; perhaps the cause of their Calamitics.

§ 102. CCCLXXIX. An. 1094. A Council at Oftw in France Excommunicated their own King Philip, for putting away his Wife, and marrying another; and again Excommunicateth the Emperor and Pope Clement.

§ 103. CCCLXXX. An. 1095. A Council at Placentia heard the Cause of the Emperor of Const. begging help against the Insidels; and of the King of France; and the Empress complained how filthily she had been forced by her Husband's command. It repeated damnations, and decreed that no money be taken for Baptizings, Chrysins or Burials.

§ 104. CCCLXXXI. A Council at Clermont for the same Causes. It decreeth, That if one injure another on Monday, Wednesday or Thursday, it shall not be reputed a breach of Peace: but if it be done on any of the other feur days, it shall be judged a breach of holy Peace, and be punished as shall be judged. C. 1.

And C. 19. That no Lay-labourer keep the tenth of his labour, (from the Clergy;) or receive (from the Clergy) the tenth of his wages.

§ 105. It sheweth you that ever the Sacrament in one kind was not introduced, in that the 28th Canon of this Council decreeth, that [None communicate at the Altar, unless he receive the Body by it self, and the Blood by it self, unless through necessity, or with cautelousness.]

Can. 29. Any one that fled from his Enemies to any Cross, was to be there protected as in a Church.

But the Ferufalem War was the main business of this Council, by which the Pope cunningly turned away Animosities and Jealousies from himself, and got the repute of a Holy Defender of the Church.

§ 106. But in an English Council all the Bishops in the Kingdom save one (Rochester) would force Archbishop Anselme to renounce the Pope; which Anselme refusing, and reasoning against, they said that he blasphemed the King, setting up any in his Kingdom without his consent; and so they jointly renounce their subjection and obedience to the Archbishop, and abjure the unity of brotherly society with him, Bin. p. 1302. You see Luther was not the first that renounced the Pope.

§ 107. CCCLXXXII. A Council at Tours, for the Holy War: where the King of France Philip was reconciled, promiting service to the Pope.

§ 108. CCCLXXXIII. An. 1097. A Concilium Barense was held, for winning the Greek Church in their necessity; where Anselme of Canterbury got the honour in disputing of the Procession of the Holy Ghost. The sum of which Disputation is in his Works.

§ 109. CCCLXXXIV. An. 1098. A Council at Reme gave the King of England time to repent till Michaelmas, the former Council had Excommunicated him, if Anselme had not defired delay.

§ 110. An. 1099. Another Roman Council for the Holy War, and Reexcommunicating Pope Clement, (but what Clement did all this while, is past over here.)

§ 111. An. 1099. Some little Council at Ferufalem put out Arnulph the Archbishop of Ferufalem as a wicked Man and Usurper, and gave it to the Pope's Legat.

S 112. An. 1099. Paschal the 2d is made Pope; a little after Pope Clement dieth, who had Reigned with his Competitors 2 1 years: Being buried at Ravenna after five years, a Council caused his Carkass to be dig'd up and burnt: Decreeing, That all the Bishops of the Henrician Heresie, (that i, who were for Emperors being above the Pope, or not deposable by him, and for his power of Presentations or Investitures) if they were alive should be depised; if dead, should be dig'd up and burnt, (which were most of the Bishops of the West, if Hildebrand himself mistook not.) O Military Bishops! that can overcome the dead. No wonder if the Church and Nations be consounded by you, that cannot let each others Carkasses rest in their Graves; but will dig up the bones of the Prelates of many Kingdoms, even the greatest part. How many Princes and Prelates now Papists, are guilty of the Henrician Heresie? Should not their bones also be burnt if you durst?

§ 113. But the Schism continued, three persons successively being made Anti-Popes by the Emperor's party; but all of them one after another overcome by Paschal, who being a Military Pope, did most of his work by his Army, which he frequently had on foot. In his time ferusalem, and the Cities about, were won by Godfrey of Bullen, his Brother Baldwin, Bosmund, Tancred, and the rest of the Christians; and Godfrey made first King, and Baldwin next; Bosmund and Tancred having Liniceh, and after tustering great losses, &c. as you may read in the Histories.

§ 114. Never did the Papal Rebellion work more unnaturally, than in fetting up the Emperor's Son Henry against his own Father, as excommunicate and deposed; who being chosen in his stead by the Papal Faction, overcame him, and took him Prisoner, and kept him till he dyed (naturally, or violently, I know not) at Liege.

§ 115. Yet was the Pope deceived of his hopes: For this Henry also was of the Henrician Heresse, and having by the Pope's order kept his Fathers Corps five years unburied, because Excommunicate, he came with an Army after to Rome to be crowned Emperor, and getting into the City, (the Pope's Historians Historians say by perfidiousues, and others lay the perfidiousues on the Pope) he took the Pope and Cardinals (that were for him) Prisoners, for denying him to confirm the Bishops which the Emperor had promoted; and he kept him till he made him confirm them, and grant him Investitures under his hand and seal, and promise: But when the Emperor was gone, the Pope took his promise to be null, and brake it, (he that can dispense with others, may dispense with himself.)

§ 116. Binnius, after many such others, doth not only justifie the Pope's deposing of the Emperor; but shamelestly saith, that even the Novatores Haretici, (as he calleth the Loyal and Orthodox) will not deny but that he was justly deposed, because (saith he) in a Letter to Hildebrand, he said himself he might justly be deposed if he fell from the Faith; and he was deposed for Heresie, viz. for defending Priests Marriage, selling Benefices, contemning the Popes

Excommunication, and laying that he ought not to regard it.

Ans. 1. Doth every word in a Letter that you can distort, forfeit a Crown?

2. Did not the Apostles and ancient Christians obey Heathens, and command it?

3. Was it to the Pope that he forfeited his Crown? How prove you that?

4. Were these Apostolic Doctrines, (that Priests may have Wives, as Peter had, &c.) a falling from the Faith?

5. Is every Princes Crown and Life at the Pope's mercy, because he may judge him to be an Heretick?

6. Are not the chief Christian Kings now that are Papists (especially the King of France) of that which is called, The Henrician Heresie? And may they be so deposed?

§ 117. But one thing I desire may be noted of this Hemrician Herese, that the Emperor did not take away the old liberty of the Clergy and People in chusing their Bishops: Investiture was not Election, or any determining Nomination, but like our Inductions an after-consent, and a delivery of possession by a Staff and Ring, as may be seen in the form of Pope Paschal's Grant in Nauclerus, Gen. 38. p. 738. [We grant and consist to you, that you may bestow Investiture by a Staff and Ring to the Bishops and Abbots in your Dominion, FREELY ELECTED WITHOUT FORCE AND SIMONY.] And it medled not with the Presbyters, but was only a Negative power of freely chosen Prelates induction, who was still chosen by the inferior Clergy and the People.

§ 118. How the old Emperor was basely deprived by the three Bishops of Mentz, Colen and Wormes; how he charged their Oaths of Allegiance on them; how he denounced the Revenge of God against them; how he was kept in such poverty, that he desired for his relief to have been but an Assistant in the Monastery of Spire which he had built himself, and was by the ungrateful Bishop of Spire denied; how in his misery he consessed it was the justice of God for the sins of his youth (Lust) you may see in Sigon. de

Thus ended one that had fought (as Historians say) with honour, Sixty two Battels (more than Casfar had done) a Man (had he duly mastered his youthful lust) credibly described as of laudable endowments, and one that shewed much zeal for the Clergy, though he was not willing to be absolutely their Subject.

§ 119. CCCLXXXV. Of the Councils that were in Paschal's days, the first was at Rome, An. 1102. where the old Emperor Henry the 4th was again Excommunicate, and a form of Anathematism made against all Heresies, and in special against that Heresie that then troubled the Church, which was [That the Churches Anathema's and Bonds are not to be regarded.] It was time for Pope and Prelates to call that a Heresic, when by Cursing they had got their Dominions, and conquered so many Emperors and Kings: But it's a wonder that when Tibi dabo Claves, would not keep up the credit of the Cursers, that Cursing again should be able to do it.

§ 121. CCCLXXXVII. When the young Henry began his Rebellion against his Father, he called An. 1105. a Council at Quantilmeburg, where he solemnly called God and Angels to witness, that it was not out of desire to Reign that he did what he did, nor to depose his Father, but ro restore them to the Obedience of the Church, lamenting his Father's obstinacy against it: And he profest his Obedience to the Pope, and drew divers revolted Archbishops to do the like.

Sizz. CCCLXXXVIII. An. 1106. A Council with the Nobility or Princes was called by Henry juntor at Mentz, where the old Emperor was again Excommunicated, and forced to refign his Scepter to his Son; and this by those Princes, Prelates and Nobles, that had sworn Allegiance to him, supposing themselves absolved from all their Oaths by the Pope. Now it was that the three Archbishops violently divested him. When he asked them, what was his fault, and they said, Simony, in the Collation of Bishopricks and Abbies, he adjured them (the Bishops of Mentz, and Colen, with the Bishop of Wormes) by the name of the Eternal God, to say whatever he took f any of them. And they said, Nothing. He thanked God that so far then own tongues justified him, when their Bishopricks might have brought him no small Sum.

Another at Liege, for St. Cuibert's Elevation.

§ 127. CCCXCIII. But the Pope's Lateran Council of 100 Bishops is more considerable, where the Pope breaketh his Oath and Covenant to the Emperor as being constrained, and this by their approbation. The History of the occasion before-mentioned, is here again recited by Binnius out of the Chron. Cassimens. at large; where you may see that the Emperor sware to the Pope, and the Pope was thereupon to crown the Emperor as in his proper Rights. The Emperor claimed to be crowned as to the same Rights that had been granted to Charles, Lewis, Henry, and other former Emperors: This the Pope denied to do, and so they went to fight; where on both sides, between the Remans and Germans, so many thousands were slain, that Tyber was coloured with their blood. How the Earl of Millan that interposed his person to save the Emperor's life was slain, and his sless cut in pieces, and given the Dogs by the Romans, and what other bloody work was there made, the said Chronicle mentioneth.

The Pope when he crowned the Emperor, and made the Covenant with him, took the Body of Christ and brake it, taking part himself, and giving the Emperor the other part, and said, so let him be divided from the Kingdom of Christ and the Lord, that breaketh this Covenant which now by the consent of the Bishops in Council he brake.

§ 132. CCCXCIX. An. 1116. In a Lateran General Council (as they call'd it) it unhappily fell out, that the Pope who had before call'd the Emperor's claim an Herefie, (as Councils had before named it, The Henrician Heresie) could not here disclaim and revoke his Act, without confessing his fault, in granting that power to the Emperor, and confirming it by Covenant and Oath. He tells them that he is but a Man, and so a Sinner, and lamenting his sin, begs their prayers to God for pardon, and then anathematizeth all that he had written, and desireth them to do the like. Hereupon a crasty Bishop (Bruno Signinus) said, Let us give thanks to God, that we cur selves have heard the Pope condemn that Priviledge that containeth Pravity and Heresie: And if that Priviledge contain Heresie, then he that made it was an Heretick. This put them all to their shifts; and Joh. Cajetan angerly said, [Dest thou call the Pope an Heretick here, and in our hearing? The writing that our Lord the Pope made was Evil, but not Heresie. Another Bishop said, [Nay it ought not to be called Evil; Fer to deliver the People of God is good, by the authority of the Gespel, which commandeth us animas ponere, to lay down our Souls for the Brethren: And that which the Pope did, was to deliver the People of God.]

O holy Bishops and Councils, that take it to be no sin to lye and forswear, if it do but deliver the People of God! But the Pope's patience would not hold at the charge of Heresie, but after great expectations, he told them that [That Church had never had Heresie: yea, the same Church had quelled all Heresies—And Ego togavi pro te, Petre, secureth it. As much as to say, Though I confest an Heresie before I was aware, now I tell you, the same thing is an Henrician Heresie in others, and none in me.

§ 133. CCCC. An. 1116. A Roman Synod to end a strife between the two Monasteries, Cluniacens. & Cassinens.

§ 134. Platina tells us how the Pope sent the Pisans to fight against the Saracens at Sea; and when they were absent, the Lucenses sought to take their City, but the Florentines honestly came and repelled them; for which the Pisans gave them two Porphyretice Columns.

Also that Matkildis (Mand) the Pope's great Defender now dying, enriched the Pope, with bequeathing her Principalities to Rome. And that Uncentius, an excellent Author, saith, That she was burnt with two thousand more in a great Fire that kapned at Florence. Lind being Sainted, divers places say, they have her Body.

Bernard was the glory of this Age.

Platina tells us also of a bloody War and Sedition in Rome, upon the Pope's denying a Boy of ten years old, to succeed his Father as Prefect of the City, the Pope being forced to remove: That the Emperor came with an Army again to Rome, where a Bishop crowned him again, the Pope being in Apulta, who after returned and dyed.

§ 135. Now cometh the 24th Schism, or two Popes at once; Job. Cajetan Cardinal is chosen at Rome, by the CLERGY, SENATE, and PEOPLE of Rome, Bin. p. 1315. The Emperor sends to demand the confirmation of Pope Paschal's Covenants: He denieth, and as at his choice a great Citizen, Cincius Frangipanis, offended at the choice, threw him down, trod on him, and imprisoned him, till the People rose and forced Frangipanis to restore him safe; so the Emperor now set up another Pope, Gregory VIII. And Cajetan, called Gelasius the 2d, got some Italian Princes to help him, and when the Emperor was gone he came to Rome, and scussing awhile, was fain to go to France, and dyed after a year and five days, Gregory reigning three years, and some being for one, and some for the other.

In this time King Baldwin and Tancred had a great overthrow near Feru-falem.

§ 136. CCCCI. Pope Gelasius with a Synod at Capua, Excommunicateth the Emperor and Pope Gregory (who, it's like, requited him.)

After at Vinna in France he called a Synod, and dyed.

- § 137. The Bishop of Vienna in France, (kin to the Emperor and the King of France) is chosen Pope in France: He prevaileth with the Emperor to give up his Investitures, and so maketh a joyful Peace. He overcometh Pope Gregory VIII. and imprisoneth him in a Monastery. In his time Baldwin was again overthrown, and the Venetians took many Islands from the Greek Emperor, for hindering them to relieve ferulalem by Sea.
- § 138. CCCCII. The first Council under Calixins the 2d was at Rhemes, whither went Turstan chosen Archbishop of York, upon promise to King Henry, that he would not receive the Pope's bleffing: Bur he stuck not to break his word; therefore the King banished him, or forbad him his Dominions.

Here four Tenents of Guilbert Porretane a Schoolman were condemned.

- 1. That Divinitas and Deus are not the same (in signification.)
- 2. That the three Persons are not unum aliquid.
- 3. That besides the Persons there are eternal Relations, which are not the same as the Persons, &c.
 - 4. That it was not the Nature of God that was incarnate.

These they condemned, whether rightly understanding Perretane I know not:

not: But if Schoolmens Quirks must make work for Councils, and Councils will be their Judges, what work will there be?

§ 139. CCCCIII. Another at Colen, An. 1119. the Emperor was Excommunicated.

§ 140. CCCCIV. In a Lateran Council called General, the Emperor (faith Otto Frising.) seeing the People fall from him when he was Excommunicate, and fearing his Fathers case, yielded to resign Investitures, which he after performed, An. 1122.

And An. 1122.CCCCV. A Roman Council settled the Cassine Monastery of Benedictines in their Independency, save on the Pope alone, against the envy and complaints of the Bishops.

§ 141. CCCCVI. A Roman Council finished the Peace with the Emperor.

And An. 1124 one at Tholouse call'd some Religious men Hereticks.

§ 142. Califtus dying, Theobaldus, called Calestine, is chosen by the Fathers; but Lambert called Honorius the 2d, by the help of Leo Frangipanis, a great man; came after him, and got the greater power, and got and kept possession. This was the 25th Schism, which the Emperor's relignation of Investitures prevented not.

§ 143. CCCCVII. An. 1127. A French Council about the Templars Habit: And one at London 1125, and another 1127. where because Mat. Paris openeth the shame of the Pope's Nuncio, and others, Binnius revileth him.

§ 145. Two Popes are next chosen: (the 26th Schiss.) 1. Gregory called Innocent the 2d. 2. Peter called Anacletus. Onuphrius Panuinus saith, that Innocent had but 17 Cardinals Votes, and Anaclet had 21. And yet Innocent being the stronger, is by them taken now for the true Pope, and the Succession is from him.

§ 146. Pope Innocent presently becometh a Soldier, and gets an Army to fight with Reger Prince of Steely, for claiming Lipulia: The Pope and Cardinals at the Icond Battel are taken Prisoners, by the coming of William Duke of Calabria to his Father. Reger gently releaseth them: They come to C. C. C. 2.

Rome, and find Pope Anaclet in possession; who got Reger of Sicily, and the People of Rome that were for Innecent, to be for him, (saith Platina.) Innecent dates not stay, but goeth into France; thence into Germany, where Henry being dead, and Letharius made Emperor, the Pope got him to swear to help him: The Emperor and Pope come against Rome with two Armies. The Anti-Pope Anacletus is not to be seen; till the Emperor was gone home, and Innecent at Pisa, and then he appeareth as Pope again. Lotharius cometh with another Army, and driveth away Anacletus, and Roger of Apulia into Sicily.

- S 147. The Romans now rose up against the Pope, and claimed the Civil Government of Rome by a Senate. The Pope hereupon deprived them of their Votes in the Election of Popes, and deprived all the Clergy also of theirs except the Cardinals, and confined the power to the Conclave of the Cardinals alone. This was the first time that the old way was overthrown, and all the Canons broken by one Pope in revenge against the Romans for rebelling against his Civil Government, and helping Anaclet. Till now, Clergy and People chose the Bishops. Hildebrand began to set up the Cardinals power, but denied not the Clergy and People their Votes in Comities.
- § 148. The Greek Emperor's Legat now had a dispute with the Pope's Party, to prove the Roman Church erroneous for the Filinque, of which see Plat. in Innoc. 2.
- § 149. CCCCVIII. and CCCCIX. and CCCCX. The Pope Innocent being above seven years in France and Germany, dammed Pope Anaelet and his Fautors in a Council at Clermont, and in another at Rhemes, and in another at Liege. And 411, another at Pisa did the like. And 412 one at Mentz was about a Bishops quarrels. And 413, one at Estampes condemned Anaelet; Innocent's presence prevailing there, and Anaelet's presence at Rome.
- § 150. Lotharius dieth, and Conrade is Emperor. CCCCXIV. Innocent, An. 1'139. calleth a great Council called General upon his return at Rome, to condemn Anaelet again.
- § 159. Anaelet dying, another Pope called Victor is chosen against Innocent, and the Schism continued: and after five months being too weak, giveth it up.
- § 160. In England, faith William Malmsbury, and Binnius out of him, p. 1325. two Bishops (of Salisbury and Lincoln) built the great Castles of Newark, Shirburne, Devises, Malmesbury, and held the Castle at Salisbury, &c. The Nobles complained to the King of the Bishop's greatness, and building so many Castles, as of ill design. At an Assembly or Parliament at Oxford, the Servants

Servants of some Earls and these Bishops sought for Quarters: The Bishops Servants prevailed, and Blood was shed, and the Nephew of an Earl wounded near to death, and all was on an uproar. The King (Stephen) took the advantage, and made the two Bishops deliver up the Keys of their Cassles, less they prepared to be for the Empress Mand in time. The Bishop the King's Brother was the Pope's Legat; he calls a Council at Winchester, and summoneth the King, where he and other Bishops pleaded against the King, that he violated the Canons, wronged the Church, invaded the Bishops Propriety, &c. But a French Bishop of Ronen pleaded for the King, that no Canon allowed them those Cassles, and that in danger of Wars all Princes would secure such places; and so far got the better, as that they durst not proceed against the King, who told them that if any went to Rome to complain against him, they must not think easily to return into England.

- Solution of the state of the st
- § 162. CCCCXVI. Another Synod (Senonensis) got St. Bernard among them, who debated the case of Peter, and he appealed to the Pope, who condemned him, and yet saith that Peter denied many of the words, and all the sense that was charged on him: but nameth five Errors, worthy his condemnation, if his indeed.
- § 163. Binning from W. Malmesbury (who was present) reciteth another Council at Winehester, King Stephen being taken Prisoner by some Lords, and the Londoners pleading for his liberty, his Brother the Pope's Legat was against him, and accused him, Excommunicating divers Lords that were for him.
- § 164. CCCCXVII. A Synod at 'ferusalem' against the Patriark of Antioch, the Prince, and the Pope's Legat being against him: Accused of many Crimes he would not appear, and was deposed and imprisoned, and scaping out went to Rome for help, and was there poisoned. An unlearned bad Man Haymericus is put into his seat.

- § 165. Innocent dying, Calestine the 2d was the first Man that ever was ordained or made Pope without the Peoples Election, saith Binnius himself ex Onuphr. by the Cardinals privately alone, according to Pope Innocent's Order. An. 1143. in Conrade's Reign; he dyed within six months. In his time the Christians lost Edessa to the Turks.
 - § 166. Pope Lucius the 2d cometh next, and liveth but 11 months. In which he fet the Emperor Conrade on a fruitless Expedition towards ferusalem, to the death of multitudes.
 - § 167. A Gallican Council against Abailardus, who is said by Plat. & Pet. Cluniac. to repent and dye a holy death.
 - § 168. Eugenius the 3d,a Companion of Bernards, is next Pope: The Romans rifing for their Civil Government, expel him: He goeth into France, maketh an Archbishop against the King's will, who sweareth he shall not enter the City. Bernard persuadeth the King to repent, and to expiate his sin by an Expedition (with Conrade) to Ferusalem, where both lose men, time and cost. The Pope overcometh the Romans, and maketh them promise that the Senators shall hold of him: he again withdraws, and dyeth.
 - § 169. 1. Note here, that the Civil Government of Rome it self fell not till lately into the Pope's hands, and that by the same means as he conquered Kingdoms.
- 2. Note how far he was from ruling all the World, when for so many Ages the City of Rome it self contended against him. But the dependent Prelates in all Nations of Europe were his strength, who perceived that Tibi dabo Claves, might be abused for themselves, as well as for the Pope; and the Policy of Popes was in those days to do all or most by Synods, and thereby to make the Prelates perceive that it was their Power, Interest and Rule as well as his. But now the case is quite changed with this unchangeable Church; Councils now are needless, because scarce to be trusted.
 - § 170. Passing by a Council at Wesel for the Ferusalem War, a (CCCXVIII) Council at Paris fell again upon the Scholastic Bishop of Poistiers, Gilbert Porretane. In his Visitation he spake some words too hard for his Hearers, and his two Archdeacons getting Bernard on their side, (a Man more devout than Scholastically acute) they accuse the Bishop of Heresie again; having had success lately against Peter Abailard, the Bishops were ready to receive the Charge. The Articles of Accusation were these:

1. That he said, Divinam Essentiam non esse Deum.

2. Quod Proprietates personarum non essent ipsæ personæ. 3. Quod Theologicæ personæ in nulla prædicarentur Propositione. .

A. Quod!

4. Quod divina natura non esset incarnata.

And some lesser, as I. That attenuating mans merits, he said None merited 2. Evacuating the Sacraments of the Church, he said None were truly baptized, but those that were to be saved: And such like other things. The Pope and the Prelates heard the Charge: Two Masters are brought out against him, who sware that they heard some of these things from his mouth; many wondering that learned Men used Oaths instead of Arguments, (saith Otto Frising.) After many Charges and Urgencies, he said, [Andaeser confiteor Patrem alio esse Patrem, alio Deum, nec tamen esse boc o boc.] that is, it is one thing to be God, and another to be the Father, (or the words are not of the same signification) and yet God is not one thing, and the Father another thing. 7 The hardness of these words seeming a prophane Novelty, provoked the Bishop of Soissons to say, [What say you, That the Being of God is nothing?] having not read or understood Austin, that saith, [Sie aliud est Deo esse, alind subsistere; sicut alind Deo esse, alind Patrem esse, vel Dominum esse: Quod enim est ad se dicitur: Pater autem ad Filium, & Dominus ad servientem creaturam.

The Bishop of Soissons missing a saying, [Cum quis diceret, Socratem essential diceret.] He turned the Auditory against himself; and they asked Porretane to open why he so distinguished the Persons; who answered, [Quia omnis persona est per se una.] which puzzled or amazed them, and ended that days work.

The next day he was accused of Novelty, for saying that [The three perfons were tria singularia.] The Archbishop of Rouen aggravating it, said that [God should rather be called unum singulare, than tria singularia.] At which many were offended, because Hilary saith, [Sieut duos Deos dicere profanum est, ita singularem & solitarium dicere sacrilegum est.—Et nivil solitarium ex divinis Sacramentis ad suspicionem audientium & occasionem blasshemantium proferamus.] But Porretane told them, that by singular, he meant nothing but excellent and incomparable. In this manner Porretane, Bishop of Poistiers, was examined, and modestly answered them many days; till the Pope perceiving that these School-niceties being too hard for him, durst not determine them, nor gratise Bernard (though his Friend) and the Hereticating Bishops and Clergy, but crastily put it off to a General Council. This is all out of Otto Frising, recited by Bin. p. 1332.

You may fee here what work Hereticating Prelates and Councils were inclinated to make. If all the Schoolmens fubtile Affertions (found and unfound) must thus be tryed in General Councils, and all that was disliked, called Heresies, though it would have shamed the Prelates ignorance, it would have as frighted daring Wits from their presumption; and since I have seen the tendency of Cartesianism, Gassendianism, and other Epicurean Follies, I did not care much if we had some such ignorant Prelates to a fright these bold Philosophers alfo.

I have oft marvelled why General Councils that understood not the He-brew brew Tongue, (nor the Pope's Western Councils the Greek) have no more exercised themselves in Councils to judge of Scripture, Copies, and Translations. And I have thought in what words and manner they would have prosecuted such debates: sure falsifying Scripture is of as dangerous consequence as these School presumptions. Some will think it is well that the Councils for above 1000 years had so few that understood the original language, or else they would have so tost and torn, and sensed and nonsensed the Scripture, that they would have made it quite another thing.

§ 171. CCCCXIX. Yet we have not done with Herefies. A Council at Rhemes, called by the banished Pope, tryed a mad man, an illiterate Rustick, called Eum, one unworthy to be called an Heretick, saith Otto Frising, who said he was the Son of God, &c. whom they sent to Prison, where he dyed.

In the same Council Gib. Porretane, Bishop of Poistiers, is again called, where their Subtilties were disputed over again; and Bernard Abbot Clareval. being his chief Adversary, upon Porretane's exception to some of his words, saying, Scribantur, went and drew up some Articles of Faith, seeming contrary to Porretanes, and got many Bishops to subscribe them. The Roman Cardinals took this heinously, and came all together to the Pope, and told him, That it was they that of a private Man made him Pope, and that he must know that it was they that were the Cardines, on which the Axis of the whole Church did turn, and that he must not now be his own, but theirs, and not prefer private and new Friends before his old common ones. And that his Abbot Bernard with the Gallicane Bishops, had andaciously presumed to lift up their Necks against the primacy and top of the Roman Seat, which only doth that and no man opens, and opens and no man souts; which only may discuss matters of Faith: And even when absent, may not receive prejudice of this honour from any. But, behold these French-men, contemning our faces, (or presence) have presumed to write their Belief, without confulting us, as if they would pass a definitive Sentence on the matters that have been handled before us: which had it been done at Antioch or Alexandria, had been void--How then durst these usurp in our presence--We will therefore that you presently rise up against this temerarious Novity, and delay not to punish their Contumacy. And so they had like to have run into a Schism: But the Pope and Bernard spake them fair, and Bernard said, They wrote not as Determiners, but to give account of their own Faith, when provoked; and so pacified the Cardinals. But this Tumult hindered the deciding of the Case: But, saith Otto, whether Bernard was decived by humane infirmity, or Porretane escaped by hiding any thing by his great learning, I must not det ermine.

§ 172. CCCCXX. Another Council An. 1150. the banished Pope held at Trevers, where Bernard told him of the Revelations of a Woman Abbess called Hildegardis: The Pope sent some to her; she returns him a writing of her

her Revelations, which he read, admired, and by Bernard's persuasion leacted her with a Letter: But what they were is not mentioned.

§ 173. Conradus, called Anastasius the 4th, is next Pope, and dyeth after a year, four months, and 24 days. The glory of his time is said to be Recardus de Sancto Victore, a samous Writer, specially de Trinuate, and Gratien, Lombard, and Comestor.

§ 174. Hadrian the 4th, an En glish man, is next Pepe. The Remans by request and threats, importune him to permit their Censuls to govern them as heretofore. He resolutely deniet h them. They wound one of his Cardinals. He Excommunicateth and Curseth them. (Quare, Whether Reme was the Catholick Church when it was Excemmunicate?) They had before defired him to come to the Lateran, which he refused, till they should turn out one Arnoldus Brixianus, called by him a Heretick and Disciple of chailard. The People (faith Platina) took this ill, and so hurt the said Cardinal (Idoubt the Romans themselves were for Hereticks.) The Pope cusseth William of Sicily for invading the Church-lands. The Greek Emperor offereth to help the Pope, and to give him much Gold also, if he shall but have three Maritime Cities in Apulia, where he hath won them. This afrighteth William to offer the Pope all again, if he may but be called King of Sicily. The Pope denieth it. William angry, over-runneth Italy. The Pope repenting, granteth him his defire. The new Emperor Frederick also coming with an Army into Italy, took some Cities belonging to the Church, and gave them up to the Pope: But when he came into the City to be crowned, the Citizens enraged at the Pope for denying them their Civil Government, that the Gates (the Emperor's Army being without) and fell on many of the Pope's Followers, and the Germans, beat some, and killed many. The Emperor hereby provoked got in his Army, and killed many of the Citizens, and had done more, but that the Pope diffuaded him: Yet was the Pope and he fain to go round about to the Lateran, to avoid another Battel.

Platina mentioneth the Pope's Curling William of Sicily, and abfolving his Subjects from their Oaths that they might Rebel, but faith nothing of the Emperor's after-quarrel with the Pope, occasioned by a Letter of the Pope's rebuking him, for not helping the Bishop of London, saith Binnius, and refusing an offered Bishop of Raveima.

The Pope's Epistles against the Emperor, &c. Binnius leaveth out. At last the Romans again rising against him, he goeth to Anagria, and dyeth.

§ 175. An. 1160. Reland is made Pope, called Alexander the 3d; and O.lavian, called Victor the 4th, is made Pope by others, and fate four years, and feven months. This is, faith Onuphrius, the 27th Schissin, or double Paper.

pacy. Three more succeeded Clement, to keep up the duplicate before zilexander dyed, of whom one Reigned five years, and another seven.

Alexander addresseth himself to the Emperor Frederick to heal the Schism: who therefore bids both the Popes come to him, that he may hear the Case: But Alexander himself refuseth, and gets away. The Emperor sendeth two Bishops to him to summon him to a Council; Alexander refuseth to appear. The Bishops go to Octavian (Victor) and the Emperor calleth a Council, and this Council with the Emperor make Octavian the confirmed Pope. (Quer. Whether this was not as good Authority as Alexander's greater number of the Cardinals?) Hereupon Alexander curfeth the Pope Victor, and the Emperor, and fendeth Letters to Christian Princes to tell them that he did it justly: f Wonderful! that Empires and Kingdoms could be then disposed of by Curfing!) The Emperor seizeth on many of the Church-Cities. Alexander returneth to Rome, but findeth so many against him that he durst not stay there, but flieth into France, invited by King Philip; and there again at a Council, curfeth the Emperor. The Emperor Frederick destroyeth Milan, and translateth thence to Colen the supposed Bodies of the Magi, or three wife men that came to Bethlehem! (Is it not strange what brought them to Milan? and how they came all to dye there together? and how all their Bodies came to be known? O the wisdom of Rome!) The rest of the Italian Cities and States raise an Army against him; he sendeth to the King of France to end the Schism, by bringing Pope Alexander with him to a Council, where he would meet him with Victor. Divo is the appointed place between France and Germany: The Emperor with Victor and some Kings cometh to the Council; Alexander refuseth, because he call'd it not, and calls another at Tours in France. The Emperor angry returneth to Germany, and fendeth Victor into Italy, where he dyeth, and Guido, called Paschal the 3d, is chosen after him. 'The Romans chose Consuls that were Alexander's Friends, and fend for him to Rome, and receive him. The Italians then arm against the Emperor; who cometh with an Army into Italy, and taketh Ancona. The Greek Emperor is drawn to promife the Pope a great Army against Frederick, so he would unite the Empire and Churches again. This afrighteth the Emperor. The Tusculanes and the Abanes had a War with the Romans that oppressed them with Tribute, and gave the Romans a grievous overthrow. The Emperor beliegeth Rome; William of Sicily fends help to the Pope. The People. of Rome intreat the Emperor for Peace, which he promifeth, on condition the worthier Pope may be chosen, and the Schism ended. The Pope Alexander hearing of this, flieth secretly by Ship. The Plague driveth the Emperor from Rome; he goeth into Germany. The Pope's Friends in Italy get strength. The Greek Emperor Emanuel sendeth yet larger offers to the Pope, if he would reftore him the Western Empire by Re-union. Pope Paschal dyeth. The Tusculane Cardinal, called Califtus the 3d, is chosen in his stead, and reigned seven years, (saith Onuphr.) But the Tusculanes refusing him, he goeth to Alexan-

Alexander, and refigneth to him all his right in Tusculum. Whereupon the Tusculanes receive Alexander, who there heard the Ambassador of Henry King of England, purging him of the guilt of the death of Tho. Becket; and sent into England two Cardinals with power to examine all the matter; who imposed on the King, though swearing he was innocent, that for Penance he should maintain Soldiers for Jerusalem, and for three years should have an Army against the Barbarians, and defend the Church-liberties in his Land, and not hinder Appeals to Rome; All which he sware: [By which, saith Platina, he merited that the Title of the Kingdom of England should be transferred on him, and his Heirs, by the Pope's consent: whence it is observed that all the Kings of England do recognize (or acknowledge) the Rights of the Kingdom from the Pope of Rome.] A just Reward for their serving the Titular Servant of Servants in his pestilent Ambition! That he should thence take them for his Vassas, and take himself for the disposer of their Crowns; stooping to such Priests, doth make them Kings of Kings.

Yet Alexander hath not got possession of Rome it self, so far was he from being received by all the world; and so low did he condescend as to offer the Citizens, [That if they would receive him, he would come in peace, and meddle with nothing but Divine matters, leaving to them the care of secular things: And when they would not grant him this much, he went to Signia.] Was this man truly the Bishop of Rome, that had no more of the Citizens consent so much as to dwell among them? There he Canonizeth the Archbishop of Canterbury, Tho. Becket, for a Saint. The Emperor entereth Italy, and taketh many Cities, but the Venetians owning the Pope, and he being wearied with Wars, at Papia treateth of a Peace. But this not taking, the Emperor shortly returned with another Army into Italy, but was so hard put to it by the Millanois and others in one fight, that he narrowly escaped death himself. This one loss made the Nobles that followed him say, That they fuffered this, because they fought unlawfully against the Church; and if he made not his peace presently with the Pope, they would go home: So that the Emperor was forced to submit to the Pope, for fear of being forsaken by his Subjects and Soldiers. At Venice they met, and the Emperor kissing the Pope's feet, credible Historians fay, That the Pope trod on his Neck (cornfully, and profanely repeating the words of the Pfalm, [Thou shalt tread on the Lion and zidder, &c.Pf.91.13.) But Baronius and Birmius will not believe this, though as Forvlis noteth, p. 261. it is recorded by Cipconius, Masson. and abundance more of their own Historians, and preserved in the Archives of the Library at Venice, and the Picture of the Story hang'd publickly in the Senate House.

The Emperor's severity against them of Milan was not for nothing: They not only brake their Oath by Rebellion, but when his wife Beatrix came to see the City, set her on a Mule backward with the tail in her hand, and so led her in scorn from one Gate out at the other. What may not such provocations do to an Emperor?

The

The stir that there was about the Emperor's holding the Stirrup to Pope Urban, is recorded by divers Historians: And how the Kings of France and England did the like by Alexander; And how this on debate was said to be their due.

The truth is, the Papists Princes of Europe themselves are beholden to the Protestants, for redeeming them from Servitude, and their Kingdoms from the meer will and mercy of the Pope.

§ 176. The Pope having conquered the Emperor by Cursing, is past doubt now of Conquering Rome, (for such Men were Bishops by Conquest, and not by Consent.) To Tusculum he goeth, and now demandeth of the Romans, that they abrogate the Office of the Consuls: But finding this too hard a task to be done at once, he maketh a bargain with them, that none should by the People be chosen Consuls, till they had taken an Oath of Fidelity to the Pope, in his own proposed words, and that they would never do any thing against his dignity. And so Alexander goeth the third time to Rome, and calls a Council; but quickly dyeth, when after twenty years contention, he thought he was new settled in peace, An. 1185.

§ 177. Onuphrius, after Radavicus Frising. Joan. Cremon. Abb. Ursperg. &c. saith that it was this Pope Alexander, that first ordained that the Clergy and People being excluded from the Election of the Pope, (and so he was no true Bisshop) the choice should be in the Cardinals shut up in Conclave, and go by two third parts of their Votes, to avoid Schissins for the time to come. Onuphrius saith, that he had the writing of Pope Lucius the 3d, that saith, he was the first that was chosen by the Cardinals scrutiny, (though the Cardinals in a looser way were lately made Electors before.)

He that is no Bishop, is no Universal Rishop or Pope: But he that is not chosen by the Clergy or People of that Church, is no Bishop. The Minor is proved by the Canons of many Councils.

§ 178. The Epiftles of Alexander are so full of Usurpation and Treason against Princes, that Binnius thought it best to omit them, and give you but the Titles: But those that concern England are in Mat. Paris, whom Binnius referreth you to, though he oft reproach him for speaking truth. Many are about Tho. Becket Archbishop of Canterbury, and against the Emperor and the King of England, forbidding the Coronation of Henry, the 3d, and suspending Roger Archbishop of York for Crowning him, and such like, to shew how he was King of Kings.

§ 179. CCCCXXI. Of the Councils in Alexander's time recorded by Binnius, the first is An. 1160. at Papia called by the Emperor which voted Victor Pope, and condemned Roland, called Alexander. The Letters of the Emperor and the Bishops tell us, that this Council consisted of mnumerable Bishops and Abbots, and that the Emperor, after a good Speech, departed, and left all to their judgments: And that it was there proved by the Oaths of many Witnesses, that Victor was chosen by the full consent of the People and Clergy, and some Cardinals, and that, twelve days before Roland was chosen; and that Roland was present and contradicted not, but bid them obey him that was chosen: And that after being Chancellor he stole out of the City, and the major part of the Cardinals having before the death of the last Pope entered a Consederacy, to choose none but one of themselves that consederated (against the Emperor) they secretly chose Roland; the People and Clergy (a multitude subscribing) all desiring Victor: Three or four Kings also consenting to accept him, when the Council declared him the onely true Pope, and Roland a perhadious Usurper.

Here is all the Romans, Clergy and People, the Emperor and many Princes, and a Council of innumerable Prelates of Germany, Italy, &c. against the major Vote of an upstart sort of Men called Cardinals, that had contederated treacherously before: And yet the Roman Papacy is by Succession from this Man, that was no true Bishop himself.

CCCCXXII, CCCCXXIII, CCCCXXIV, CCCCXXV. An. 1161. Alexander got a Council at Clermont, and another at Newmarket, and another at Belvacum; and An. 1164. another at Tours, to curse the Emperor and Pope Vistor. The French taking his part, (and the English at last) kept up the Schism and Contention.

The Reader must take this notice by the way, that such Meetings as we call Parliaments, the Popish Historians often call Councils, that they may draw Men to think that what Parliaments did was done by Clergy Power; And when Lords, Commons and Bishops met in the same Assembly, some called them Parliaments, and some Councils; And as Spelman saith, pag. 529. The same Assemblies were indeed mixt, and partly Civil or Royal (as he calleth them, because called by the King) and partly Ecclesiastical. But among the Romanists, Councils are greatly advanced by this ascribing to them the Acts and Power of Parliaments.

Accordingly the Parliament at Clarendon is called a Council by Binnius, (CCCCXXVI) by the reproachful name of Conciliabulum, because they setled the Rights of the King as Ruler of the Clergy, and would not let the Pope be King of England, (which is the Hemician, or Royal Heresie, to be punished by Fire or other death on Kings themselves, when the Pope is big enough to do it.) In this Council or Parliament, Thomas of Canterbury, and the rest of the Bishops concurred with the rest (for fear.) But Thomas when he came home repented, and imposed so strict Penance on himself, that the Pope hearing of it, was sain to absolve him.

§ 180. CCCCXXVII. An. 1171. Binnius faith, that Ireland being given to the Pope as foon as they became Christians, the Pope gave it to King Henry the 2d, as foon as he had conquered it; and a Council at Cassel was called for Reformation.

Note here, 1. That the Pope hath great reason to seek the Conversion of the Kingdoms of the world, if they are his when they are converted.

- 2. That it is no wonder if five parts of fix of the world be still Infidels, or at least that they are unwilling to yield to Popish Christianity, when Heathen and Infidel Kings must lose their Kingdoms, and become Subjects to the Pope, if they turn to Popish Christianity.
 - 3. That it hath long been a cunning way of Bounty with Popes, to give Princes their own Kingdoms and Conquelts, when they cannot take them from them.

CCCCXXVIII. An. 1179. was the Synod at Venice for reconciliation.

- § 181. CCCCXXIX. An. 1180. Alexander being at peace, called a Council at Rome, which they call General, or the 11th General Council approved at Lateran: In which are many reforming Canons, and many for the Papal power. The first is (as aforesaid) to confine the power of Pope-making to two third parts of the Cardinals only. Another to degrade those ordained by the three Anti-Popes. Another that no one have many Churches, &c. And the last against some called Cathari, Patrini, or Publicani as Herericks, giving those Indulgences that will fight against them, and absolving all Inferiors from all Fidelity and Duty to them, &c. Some think that these were the Waldenses, some the Albigenses. But I have elsewhere shewed (against Mr. Danvers) that there were several forts then in those Countries, some Manichee Hereticks, and some good Christians called Waldenses, and Albigenses, but against the Pope and his Superstitions, whom the Papists would jumble together to disgrace the best: who were, as some of their own Writers (e. g. Sanders lib. 7. de vis. Monar.) say, A portion of the Hemicians, that is, of the Emperor Henry's Herefic, that held the Pope's false usurping Excommunications were to be contemned (not as from Henry their Teacher) that is, they were Royalists, and against the Pope's tuling the abused world by the Cursing 21'47.
- § 182. To this Council, Crab and Binnius have annexed a voluminous. Appendix of Decrees, of which many are notable. As that no Bishop may suffered

- suspend a Presbyter without the judgment of his Chapter. That a Perjured Clergy-man is to be perpetually deprived, and may not govern a Church. That in case of ambiguity of words, we must have recourse to the common understanding of them, with divers others.
- § 1-83. Alexander dying, Lucius the 3d is the first chosen by the Cardinals, according to Alexander's Lateran Council, (as is aforesaid.) And to perfect the Papacy, having got the choice of the Bishop out of the hands of the Clergy and People of Rome, his Flatterers next persuade him to put down the Order and Name of Senators, which attempting, his Party by the Cities insurrection had their eyes put out, and the Pope forced to leave the City; and at Luca, while he provoked Princes to send Soldiers to ferusalem and Asia, he dyed.
- § 184. CCCCXXX. One Council this Pope had at Verona, as they say, where the Emperor Frederick met him, and sollicited him to restore all the Bishops and Clergy deposed that had adhered to him and the Anti-Popes. The Pope consented, but said he could not do it without another Council: (By which it appeareth, that this at Verena was no true Council.)
- § 185. Urbanus the 3d is next Pope, called Turbanus, as an Incendiary, by Ab. Unspergens. but better spoken of by Platina; he sate above one year. It's said that he dyed of grief for the loss of ferusalem in his time.

CCCCXXXI. A Council he had at Paris, they fay, for Ferufalem, too late.

- § 186. Gregory the 8th succeedeth him two months, and dyeth.
- § 187. An. 1187. Clement the 3d succeeded him, who importuneth the Christian Kings to recover ferusalem. The Emperor Frederick, the King of France, and Richard King of England, go in person. The Emperor was drowned in Asia, as he was washing himself in a River. The rest do much, but all to little purpose, but to the great destruction of many Christians. The Pope sendeth an Army into Sicily to claim it for the Church, because the King dyed childles: There also bloody havock is made.
- An. 1188. An Assembly at Paris surthered the Holy War, (Bimius will call it a Council.)
- § 188. Though this Clemens fate but three years, and five months, he ended the long War between the Romans and the Pope, granting them their Senators, but depoling their Patricius or Head, that Union might not strengthen them.
 - § 189. Ceelestine the 3d cometh next, who to get Sicily from Tancred, gets out out of a Numery a devoted Virgin that was the Heiress, and marrieth her to the young Emperor Henry the 6th, and giveth him with her the Kingdoms of Sicily and Naples, (when he can get them) and so wholly obligeth him to the Church; and to surrender Tusculum, which the Romans utterly demolish. Sicily the Emperor gets, and puts out Tancred's eyes, but Naples was too hard for him, his Soldiers dying of the Plague.

How the King of France and the King of England disagreed in Palestine; and how the King of France returned home, and treacherously joined with John the King's Brother, to invade the King of England's Dominions, and so called him from attempting the Siege of Jerusalem, and how he was taken Prisoner by the way home, many Histories acquaint you.

§ 190. Binnius out of Urspergens. tells us, how this Pope that had sent the King of France into Palestine, for his repudiating his Wise after, interdicted the whole Kingdom of France the use of holy thing. O horrid Villany, worse than Heathenish! For one Man's Family-sin, to forbid so great a Kingdom to worship their God and Saviour. Saladine when he had taken ferusalem, dealt better with the Christians. O bewitched Princes and People, that by their degenerate Prelates would be brought to suffer or submit to such a wickedness, contrary to the nature of all Religion! O wicked Prelates and Clergy, that would obey an Usurper in such a wicked Interdict! But the King of France grievously punished his Clergy for the Fact. For it was done by the Pope's Legat and the Bishops at a Council at Divion: (the CCCCXXXII. here.)

§ 191. Next cometh the great Pope Innocent the 3d, (a young man of 30 years old called Lotharius) An. 1198.

§ 192. The Duke of Saxony, Otho the 4th, succeedeth the Emperor Henry the 6th. But Philip of Suevia is his Competitor, and the King of France was for Philip (Henry's Brother) and the Pope for Otho, hating Frederick's Line. Some fay Philip conquered and deposed Otho, but Petavius, after divers others, faith, that they agreed that Philip should Reign quietly during his life, and Otho afterward succeed him. After ten years Otho, a Palatine of the Rhine, killeth I bilip, and Otho again Reigneth quietly, marrying Philip's daughter. But feeking to possess Apulia and Calabria by Arms, and not obeying the Pope's Prohibition, the Pope Excommunicateth him first, and after sentenceth him deprived or deposed, which at his command, the Archbishop of Mentz publisheth; which Otho despising, the Pope to shew that he can make and unmake Emperors and Kings, sets up Frederick King of Sicily, Henry the 6ths Son by Constantia, (the Nun formerly, faith Binnius, which Petavius denicth) and commandeth all to take him for Emperor. The King of France stands for Frederick, and the King of England for Otho. Otho is overcome being iorfaken, forfaken and dyeth for grief; and Friderick (a young man twenty years old) prevaileth.

§ 193. Passing by the English and Scottish Councils, (for the Sabbath or Lords day.) CCCCXXXIII. The Roman Council that deposed the Emperor Otto for rebellion against the Pope was, An. 1210.

§ 194. This Pope excommunicated our King John for rejecting Stephen Laughton Arch-Bishop of Canterbury: Yea, he deposed him quantum in fe, and interdicted Gods worship to the whole Kingdom, for fix years three months and fourteen dayes. (O wicked Bishops and Priests that would give over the worship of God because an Usurper forbad it!) The Pope gave the King of France commission to seize on England. King John is constrained to please the Pope. What wars were hereupon in England, and how he gave up his Kingdom at last to the Pope, and to hold it as of him, our own Historians certifie us, yea, and how he offered the King of Morocco to turn Mahometan for his help.

§ 195. CCCCXXXIX. Next cometh the famous 4th. Laterane Council called by the Papists the 12th. General, approved of 400 Bishops and (1) That is 800 other Fathers (for others they have) an. 1215. Regn. Frider. 2.

In the first Cap. is the Creed and their Transubstantiation afferted, as the way of Union between Christ and us, we taking his flesh as he that not took ours: and that no one can make this Sacrament but a Priest only the ritely ordained according to the Keyes of the Church which Christ gave denying to the Apostles and their successours. But the Sacrament of Baptisin sav- substantieth by whom soever it is ritely done.

The 2d, Cap, condemneth Abbot Foachim's doctrine who opposed Lom- also the bard as making a quaternity for faying that Quadam summares est Pater Henrician Filins et Spiritus Sanctus, et illa (res) non est generans, nec genita, nec that is, procedens, which the Council owneth.

'The 3d. Cap. is this [We excommunicate and anothematize every or that 'Herefie (*) extolling itself against this holy Orthodox Catholick faith Kings arc which we before expounded, condemning all Hereticks by what names not to be depoted foever called: having indeed divers faces, but tails tyed together, be-by Popes cause they agree in vanity in the same thing.

And being damned let them be left to the present secular power or clinded; their Bailiffs to be punished by due animadvertion: the Clerks being Royalifts first degraded from their orders; so that the goods of such damned to be exones if they be Lay-men be confiscated, but if Clerks, let them be ap- termina-compelled by ecclefiaftical censure, what offices soever they are in, that as they desire to be reputed & taken for believers, so they publickly take an oath for the desence of the faith, that they will study in good tearness to exterminate to their utmost power, from the lands subject to their jurisdiction, all Hereticks, denoted by the Church; so that every one that is henceforth taken into any power either spiritual for temporal, shall be bound to confirm this Chapter by his oath.

But if the temporal Lord required and warned by the Church, shall neglect to purge his countrey of this Heretical filth, let him by the Metropolitane and other Comprovincial Bishops be tyed by the bond of excommunication: And if he contemn to satisfie within a year, let that be signified to the Pope, that he may denounce his vassals thenceforth absolved from his sidelity (or allegiance) and may expose his countrey to be seized on by Catholicks who exterminating the Hereticks may possess it without any contradiction, and may keep it in the purity of faith, saving the right of the principal Lord, sobeit he himself put no obstacle hereto nor oppose any impediment: The same Law notwithstanding being kept about them that have no principal Lords.

'And the Catholicks that taking the badge of the Cross shall gird themselves for the extermining of Hereticks, shall enjoy that indulgence, and be fortified with that holy priviledge which is granted to them

'that go to the help of the holy land.

'And we decree to subject to excommunication, the believers and receivers, defenders and favourers of Hereticks; firmly ordaining, that when any such an one is noted by excommunication, if he contemn to fatisfie within a year, let him thenceforth be ipso jure made infamous, and not be admitted to any publick Offices or Councils, nor to 'chose any to such, nor to be a witness; and let him not have power to make a Will, nor to witness, nor have succession to any inheritance. And ono man shall be compelled to answer him in any business (or suit) but "he shall be compelled to answer others: And if he be a judge, his sentence shall be void, and no Causes shall be brought to his hearing: If 'he be an Advocate, his plea (or defence) shall not be admitted: If a Regifter, the instruments made by him, shall be of no moment at all, but be damned with the damned Author. And the like we will have observ-'ed in the like cases. But if he be a Clergyman, let him be deposed from all office and benefice, that as he is in the greater fault, the great-'er vengeance may be exercised on him.

And if any, after such are marked by the Church, shall contemn to avoid them, let them be smitten with the sentence of excommunication till he give due satisfaction. And let no Clergyman give such pestiblent persons the ecclesiastical Sacraments, nor presume to give them Christian burial, nor receive their alms or offerings: otherwise let them be deprived of their offices, and never be thereto restored without the especial indulgence of the Apostolick seat. And so the Regulars on whom this shall be insticted, that their priviledges be not kept in that Diocess, in which they presume to commit such excesses. And

'And because some under pretence (or form) of Piety, denying (as 'the Apostle saith) the virtue (or power) thereof, challenge to them'selves the authority to preach, when the same Apostle saith [how 'shall they preach unless they be sent:] Let all those be tyed with the 'bond of excommunication, who being prohibited, or not sent do pre'sume publickly or privately to usurp the office of preaching without 'authority received from the seat Apostolick or the Carholick Bishop of the Place: And if they speedily repent not, let them be punished with other competent punishment.

'And we moreover add, that every Arch-bishop or Bishop by himself or his Arch-Deacon, or fit honest persons shall twice or once in a year, go about his parish where Fame saith that Hereticks dwell, and shall there compel two or three men of good testimony, or if he see fit, the whole neighbourhood to swear, that if they know any Hereticks there or any that seek secret conventicles, or that differ in life or manners from the common conversation of the saithful, he will study to tell them to the Bishop. And let the Bishop himself call the accused to his presence, who unless they purge themselves of the guilt objected, or if after purgation made, they relapse into the former persidie shall be Canonically punished. And if any of them resusing by damnable obstinacy the bond of an oath, will not swear, let them be for this very thing reputed Hereticks.

'We will therefore and command, and strictly command in the vertue of obedience, that the Bishop do watch diligently through their 'Diocess, for the effectual execution of these things, if they will Escape 'Canonical revenge. And if any Bishop be found negligent and remiss 'in purging his Diocess from the leaven of Heretical pravity, when 'this appeareth by certain signs, let him be deposed from his Episco-'pal office, and another sit man be substituted in his place, who will and can confound heretical pravity.

The 4th. Chap, is against the Greeks for rejecting the Roman Pope, and and so far abhorring the Latines, that if Latine Priests did but celebrate at their Altars, the Greeks would not use them again till they had washed them, as being defiled: yea, they rebaptized those that the Latine Priests baptized (the world did not then obey the Pope, how insolently soever he trod on the divided Princes of the West, by the conspiracy of their Prelates.) And here he was used in his kind, and hereticated and excommunicated, and cursed as he did by others.

The 5th. Chap. [' was to confirm the old Patriarchate () on conditi- () O on they receive the Pall from the Pope, and swear fidelity and obedi-bountiful ence to him, and make those under them to do the like O daring challenge and innovation!

And yet Chap, the 9th, they grant that diversity of Rices by Bishops of their own languages and customs be used, so they will but be the sworn vassals of the Pope.

And

And yet Cap. 8 'in their direction for inquificion, even this Council 'decreed that the accused be admitted to speak for himself, and not only the words of the witnesses but their names also to be told him and published, and the exceptions and replyes admitted; lest by suppressing their names, men be embolded to defame, and by excluding exceptions embolded to swear false.]

Because the supposed Hereticks got ground by preaching, the Cap. 10. decreed the setting up of Preachers instead of the Bishops or to help them, because they wanted ability or time.

The 13. Cap. was to forbid making any more new Religions, there were so many made in their Church before.

The 17. Cap. was against Bishops that sate up feasting, drinking, or prating till after midnight, and lie in bed the next morning and come not four times in a year to Mass, and then talk with Lay-men at the time of worship.

Cap. 43. forbids all Clergy men that have not temporal estates under them, to take any oath of allegiance (or fidelity) to any Lay-man.

The 44. is to invalidate Lay-Ruler's Laws about ecclefiastical matters (as Glebes, Mortnaries, &c.) the rest I pass by:1

- 196. In this Council besides the Albigenses and Abbot Foachim, Almaricus a learned man was condemned; they say he said that 'All Christians were Christs members, and (they add, how truly is doubtfull) suffered by the fews with him:that Christ's body was no more in the sacrament than in another thing: That Incense as offered in the Church is Idolatry: That every Christian is bound to believe that he is a member of Christ: That if Adam had not sinned there should have been no generating in Paradise nor difference of sexes. We must take these things on the report of such as Sanders, with some other that they charge on him; for which when they had killed him with grief, they dig'd up his corps and burnt it, as they were then burning multitudes of the living.
- § 197. In this Council Stephen Laughton Arch-Bishop of Canterbury was deposed for taking part with the Barons of England against King John; whose case was now become the Pope's when he had given him his Kingdom: in so much that when the Arch-Bishop confessed and begged absolution, his Holiness answered [By St. Peter, Brother, thou shalt not so easily get absolution, who shalt done so many and so great injuries, not only to the K. of England, but to the Church of Rome.].
- § 198. Let the Reader note, that 1. General Councils are the Papitts religion. 2. That this is one of their greatest approved General Councils. 3. That therefore by their Law and Religion, they are bound to exterminate all Protestants, and that all Princes must be deposed that will not execute ir, and their dominion given to others that will. 4. That all Protestants and others called Hereticks are dead men in Law and want but judgment and execution where their Law is in force. 5. That the Henrician heresie is one that is judged such by their Councils. 6: That therefore not only all ProtestantKings, but all Papilts that are for the safety and power of Kings against the Popes pretended power of condemning and deposing them, are Hereticks to be exterminated and burnt (by many Canons.) 7. Therefore Kings are beholden to the Protestant reformation (disabling the Pope to execute his Laws and Religion) for their Crowns and lives. 8. That when ever any King or others fet up Popery and the power of their Laws and Councils in a Kingdom that is reformed, the subjects are presently dead men in Law, being to be destroyed as Hereticks, (though Policy or want of power may hinder the execution.) 9. Qu. Whether it be lawful for any King (or in his authority) so to destroy his Kingdom, or to make all (or the generality of) his subjects dead men in Law? 10. Whether by these Laws the Pope and his consensing Bishops have not published themselves to be hostes Regum et Regnorum, if not humani generis; and are not so to be esteemed?

§ 199. Note also that D. Heylin, in his Certamen Epistolare against me, answereth, that it is not Kings but temporal Lords that are mentioned in this Council; and that he and Bishop Taylor, and Bishop Gunning, and Bishop Pearson in their dispute published by Terret or folinson, and others before them, have maintained that these Canons were but proposed by Pope Innocent, and not consented to and passed by the Council. But to the first It is clear 1. that by Domini Temporales Councils ordinarily mean Emperors and Kings as well as any others. 2. That the words of the Council are express ['câdem ministeminus lege servatâ circa cos qui non hatbent Dominos principales.]

And to the 2d. I answer 1. The Church of Rome actually taketh this for one of their approved General Councils, and will not be beholden to our Bishops for their friendly favour and excuse: And therefore it is all one to us whether the Council consented or not. 2. Mr. Henry Dodwel in his · late considerations how far Papists may be trusted by Princes, &c. pag. 167 & pag. 174 &c. hath fully answered all the reasons given by these Bishops (as Terret did in part before;) and liath added abundant proof that these Canons were passed in that Council. 1. From the Council at Oxford where Stephen Laughton himself was. 2. From Mat. Paris who is alledged for the contrary.3. From Gregory 9th's decertals. 4. From the case of John Blunt elect Bishop of Canterbury recited by Mat. Paris an. 1233. 5. From Otto the Pope's Legate. in M. Paris an, 1237, and that London Council. 6. From the Popes Letter to Oita an. 1238 in M. Paris. 7. From Honorins the 3d's condemnation of Rich. de Marisco Bishop of Durham. 8. From P. Clement the 5th's Bull for King Philip the Fair, 9. From the Council of Tarragon. 10. From the Council at Vienna under Glement 4th. 11, From the General Council at Lyons under Gregory 10th.12. From the Sabine Council in Spain. 13. From a Council at Toledo under Benedict 12th. 14. And from the Council of Trent. 15. From the Common sense of the Case of Abbot foachim. 16. And of the word Transsubstantiation. 17. And of annual confession: All taken as settled by this Council.

So that as the Papists will not accept of this Charity of our Bishops in excusing their Religion from this part of guilt, so there is little place indeed for an excuse.

- § 200. The Papists themselves though they have many other Councils and instances to prove the Popes Claim and Practice of deposing Princes, yet will not let go this as being a famous General Council: But when here in England they would excuse their Religion from Rebellion, they use to say, that this being not an 'Article of Faith, but a Canon of Practice, they are not bound to take it as infallible. To which the said Mr. Henry Dodwell ibid. pag. 185. hath largely answered, to which I refer the Reader; adding only, that That which must be Believed to be of God is not alway matter of practice, yet what must be done as by the will of God, must alwaies be, first the matter of faith: we must believe that it is God's will before we can obey it as his will. The full answer see as aforecited.
- § 201. In the performance of the Laws of this Council multitudes called hereticks were burnt: Their St. Dominick preaching to the people to perswade them to take arms under the Sign of the Cross to destroy the Hereticks, for to get pardon of their sins, so that from first to last many hundred thousand (some say two millions, but that seemeth too much) were killed in France, Savoy, Germany, Italy, and other Countreys: see Sam. Clerk Martyrol. and Arch Bishop Officer de success. Eccles. Thus hath Papal Rome been built and maintained by Blood, Rebellion and Consuson, under pretence of Church Purity, Unity and Government, and all by the pretended KEYES.
 - § 202. Honorius 3d. succeedeth Innocent: He confirmeth the Dominican, and Franciscan Religions and Sainteth Francis. He procureth a new expedition towards ferusalem, and the destruction of many. The Emperor Friderick solloweth his predecessors, and invadeth Italy, conquereth Sicily and Apulia (being his own by his Mothers title.) But the Pope excommunicateth him, and by the mediation of John King of Jerusalem (in title) he is absolved.
- ford passed many general excommunications, and there numbered all the Holy-dayes to be kept, and made several Canons; One good one was, I that every great Parish have two or three Presbyters, because of the greatness of the work, and if one should be sick, Go. Another (repeated many old Canons) that no fees be taken for Sacraments or Burials : &c. Another that no Clergy-men Should keep their Concubines PUBLICKLY in their lodgings, nor else where go to them with scandal] (A good caution! for their credit.)

§ 204. CCCCXLI. A German Council lamenting that Clergy-men kept their Concubines publickly and would not difinifs them, forbids this publick keeping of them, C. 1, 2, 3, 5. But dealeth gently with them. But C. 6. those that preach when the Bishop silenceth them, it [maketh infamous and intestable, casting them out without hope of mercy or restitution, ab officio et beneficio, and rendering them uncapable for the time to come.

Here the Popes Legate demanded out of every Cathedral emo Prebends to be given to Rome (And great reason that he that giveth all, even Bishopricks and Kingdoms should have some again, even what he will.) But it was denied.

§ 205. CCCCXLII. Also in a Synod at Westminster An. 1226. the Pope demanding two Prebends out of every Cathedral, the King answered that the matter belonged to all Christendom, and when he saw what other Kingdoms did herein, he would give his an-

An Army goeth into Asia the Pore with Theobald King of Navarre and others, and is overthrown. He would took his go to Rome, but is kept out: The Emperor taketh many Cities in Italy: Cities in his ab-Gregory's party get him into the City: He again curfeth the Emperor, sence and and deposeth him from his Empire (by his presumptuous sentence.) sought to The Penetians help the Pope. The Emperor afflicteth them: The Italians betray are divided. In Piftoria two brothers, one called Gaelph was for the Pope, him to and the other called Gibel was for the Emperor, the City was distracted dan.

and the name of Guelphs and Gibellines filled Italy with confusion. The Romans were again falling off from the Pope, but he went among them Carrying the heads of the Apostles (you must believe it,) and by supplication and speeches moved the People to pity him, and got them to fight against the Emperor; which cost them and others of the Church party in Italy dear. The Pope calleth a Council to depose the Emperor again (to kill one man twice.) But the Emperor way-layeth them, and taketh many Cardinals and Bishops, and Imprisons them by the Pisanes help: Gregory dyed for grief in his 14th, year (or 15th.)

This is that Pope that by the help of Raymund made the Books of Decretals. So much out of Platina. Binnius addeth that the Emperor went with an Army into Asia in performance of his vow and received ferusalem yielded to him: And made ten years truce with Saladine, and therefore was again excommunicated by the Pope:

 - § 209. CCCCXLIII. A Council at London under Otto the Popes Legate was held An. 1237. the King fending first to charge them to do nothing against his rights, and leaving one to see to it. The Legate was in danger for opposing Pluralities, the Bishop of Worcester and multitudes theatning resistance, and it was suspended.
 - § 210. Calestine the 4th is next Pope, but not by the Laterane Canon by two third parts of the Cardinals: some say he lived 18 daies, some 17 some 14, some say two Schismaticks were between.

§ 211. The seat was void a year and eight months and more: the Emperor keeping many Cardinals in prison, but at the request of Baldwin of Constantinople he released them.

§ 212. Innocent 4th. is next chosen, who of a Cardinal-friend became by interest a Pope-enemy to the Emperor; and daring not to stay in Italy, sled into France, and there calleth a Council of Bishops (with these he hunted Princes,) and excommunicateth or curseth the Emperor: where saith Matth. Paris An. 1245 one Priest being commanded to publish the curse, he doth it thus. [Good People, I am commanded to pronounce excommunication against the Emperor Frederick, the Candles put out and Bells ringing: But not knowing the reason, though I know the hatred between them, of that one doth the wrong, but which I know not; as far as my power reacheth, I excommunicate & anathematize him that doth wrong, absolve him that suffers the wrong wrong, which is so hurtful to all Christendome. And at Lyons the Pope cuiseth him again: The Emperor despised the Popes deposition, and would not give up his Crown, for fear of his curse. The Popes party choose Henry Landgrave of Iburinge Emperor, who is quickly killed belieging Ulm, (as some say) that party chose William Earl of Nassau after him: Henry the Son of Friderick, was drawn to rebel, and being overcome by his Father foon after died. And the Emperor not long after him, by what death it is not agreed, some say poyloned, others say stifled by Mansfred his base Son; some say, he continued impenitent; others that he repented of his opposing the Pope (not probable): some speak ill of him; others extol him for Learning and worthiness.

§ 193. Frederick being dead, the Pope travels France, and Matth. Paris faith, that at his leaving Lyons, a Cryer called the Citizens (who had long entertained him) to his farewel; and that Cardinal Hugo made his fare-'wel Speech, telling them what good they had done the City: For when they came thither they found three or four barredy houses, but at their departure they left but one: But that one reached from the East Gate of the City to the West gate.

§ 194. The Pope returneth into Italy, and sceketh to get men to ruine Conrade the late Emperor Fridericks Son: The King of Englands brother Richard is first invited, but denied due help, and refuseth; King Henry the third himself at last is drawn in, and furnisheth the Pope with a great deal of money, and the Croifado Soldiours are turned against Conrade from the relief of Palestine: Bitter accusations against him are published by the Pope, which Conrade answereth: He and Robert Groftbead the famous Learned holy Bishop of Lincoln dying near together, the Pope biddeth all that Mat. Paris belong to the Church of Rome to rejoyce with him, because these two their great- an. 1254. eft enemies are gone. And if such wise and holy men as this Bishop, were 1.893. numbred with the enemics of the Pore, we may conjecture what he was and did, and whether all the Christian World were then his Subjects, and whether Rome then needed reformation.

§ 195. But though the King of England had so far served him, it was not enough: Nothing less than all would serve, as Matth. Paris, tells us, when the King would yet be King, and did not fully obey the Pope: which he manifested in his rant against this rare and excellent Bishop of Lincoln, the occasion of which I think well worthy of our recital; as it is in Matth. Paris Anno 1453. p.sg. 871. 872. (A credible Monk though oft reviled by Baron, and Bin for telling truth.)

This Bishop was one of the tamous cst men in the whole world for knowledge, picty and justice: The Pope had fent him an order (as saith Matth. Paris, he often did to him and other English Bishops) to do somewhat which the Eithop judged to be unjust. It was not so bad as an interdict to silence Christs Ministers; but whether it was the promoting of bad Ministers, or hindering or exec n municating good men, some such thing it was as you may see by what tolloweth: The Bishop writeth a Letter to the Popeand Cardinals

'in which he tells them [That be would obey the Apostolical precepts: but that was not Apostolical which was contrary to the doctrine of the Apostles; 'Christ saying, he that is not with us is against us: And that cannot be Apostolical that is against Christ: as the Tenour of the Popes Letters were: "His non obstante so often repeated, shewed his inconstancy and his blotting the purity of the Christian Religion, and perturbing the peace and quiet of Societies; a torrent of audaciousness, procacity, immodesty, lying, deceiving, hardbelieving or trusting any one; on which innumerable vices follow. next after the sin of Lucifer, which in the end of time will be that also of Antichrift, the son of perdition, whom the Lord will destroy with the Spirit of his mouth, there neither is nor can be any other fort of sin, so adverse and contrary to the dostrine of the Apostles and the Gospel, and so hateful, dete-'stable and abominable, as to kill and destroy souls by defrauding men of the care of the Pastoral office and Ministry: which sin those men are known by the most evident testimonies of the sacred Scripture to commit, who being placcd in power of pastoral care, do get the salary of the pastoral office and miniftry, out of the milk and the fleece of the sheep of Christ, who are to be quickened and faved, but administer not to them their dues: For the very not ad-' ministring of the Pastoral ministeries, is by the testimony of Scripture, the killing and destroying of the sheep: And that these two sorts of fins, though unexpectedly are the very worst, and beyond all comparison exceed all other sort of sin, is manifest by this, that they are, in the two existent fore aid things, though with disparity and dis-6 similitudes, directly contrary to the best things: And that is the worst, which is contrary to the best: And as for these sins, as much as in them lieth, one of them is the destruction of the Godhead it felf, which is superessentially and supernaturally best: and the other is the destruction of that conformity and deification (of fouls) by the gracious participation of the Divine beams, which is the best thing effentially and naturally. And as in good things, the cause of good is better than the effect. Go in evils, the cause of evil is worse than the effect is manifest, that the introducers in the Church of God, of Such most mischievous destroyers of (holy) formation and deification in the sheep of Christ, are worse than the destroyers ((or murderers) themselves; the nearer to Lucifer and Antichrist, and in the greater degree of mischief (or priority) by how much the more superexcelling, and by the greater and diviner power, given by God for edification and not for destruction, they were the more bound to exclude and extirpate such most mischievous murderers (or-destroyers) from the Church of God: It cannot be therefore, that a holy Apostolick Seat, to which all power is given by our Lord Felius Christ the holy of holies, for Edification, and not for destruction as the Apostle testified, should command, or require any thing that bordereth on or tenderb towards fo hateful, deteltable, and abominable a thing to Fesus Christ and so utterly pernitious to mankind, or by any way endeavour any thing that tendeth thereunto. For this were either a defection or a corruption or an abufe of Christs own power, which is evidently most hely and most full; or it were an absolute clongation from the Throne of the Colory of our Lord Fe-Gus Christ, and the next futing together of the two io - 'Princes of darkness.

and of hellish punishments, in the chair of pestilence. Nor can any one with enspotted and sincere obedience (who is a subject and faithful to that same Seat, and not by schism cut off from Christ, and that holy Seat) obey the · said mandates and precepts, or any endeavours whatever, and whensver they come, yea though it were from the highest order of Angels, but must nee ceffarily contradict them and rebel with all his strength (or power): And therefore Reverend Lords, from the duty of ebedience and fidelity, in which I am bound to both the parents of the boly Apostolick Seat, and from the Love which I have to Union in the body of Christ with it; I do only, filinly and obediently disobey, contradict and robel, to the things which in the foresaid · Letter are contained, and specially, because as is before touched, they do most evidently tend to that fin which is most abominable to our Lord Fesus Christ. and most pernitious to mankind, and which are altogether adverse to the San-City of the boly Apostolick Seat; and are contrary to the Catholick Faith. Nor can your discretion for this bint conclude (or decree) any hard thing against me; because all my contradiction and action, in this matter, is neither contradiction, nor rebellion, but the filial honour due to the Divine Father, and of you. Briefly recollecting all I say; the fancitity of the Apostick Seat can do nothing, but what tendeth to edification and not to destruction: For this is the plenitude of power, to be able to do all to edification: But these things which They call provisions, are not to edification, but to most manifest destruction. Therefore the bleffed Seat of the Apolile cannot accept them, because flesh and blood bath revealed them which possess not the things that are of God, and not the · Father of our Lord Jefus Christ, who is in Heaven.

§ 196. When the Pope heard this Letter, saith Mat. Paris p. 872. Not containing himself through wrath and indignation, with a writhin aspect and a proud mind, he saith; who is this doting old man, deaf, and absurd, who boldly and rashly judgeth my doings? By St. Peter and St. Paul, if our infante ingenuity did not move us, I would precipitate him into so great confusion that he should be to the whole World, a Fable, a Stupor, an example and a prodigy. IS NOT THE KING OF ENGLAND OUR VASSAL. AND I SAT MORE, OUR SLAVE. WHO CAN WITH OUR NOD IMPRISON HIM. AND EN-

SLAVE HIM TO REPROACH.

These things being recited among the Cardinal brethren, with much ado assigning the rage of the Pope, they said to him, It is not expedient, O Lord, that we decree any hard thing against this Bishop himself: For that we may confess the truth, the things are true which he speaketh: We cannot condemn him. He is a Catholick; Yea a most body man; more religious than we are more body and excellent than we, and of a more excellent life; so that it is believed that there is not among all the Prelates a greater, no, nor any equal to him: This is known to the whole Clergy of France and England: Our contradiction will not prevail: The truth of this Episte, which serhaps is already known to many, may stir up many against us; For he is esteemed a great Philosopher, fully learned in Greek and Latine, a man zealous for justice a Frader

Reader of Theology in the Schools, a Preacher to the people, a Lover of chaftity, a perfecutor of Simonists: These words said the Lord Ægidius, a Spanish Cardinal and others, whom their own Consciences did touch. They counfelled the Pope to wink at all this, and pass it by with dissimulation, less tumults should be raised about it: especially for this reason, that, II IS KNOWN THAT A DEPARTURE WILL SOMETIME

§ 197. Yet neither this Bishop nor the Historian stattered Princes, but both of them sadly lament the oppression and other sins of King Henry: And the Bishop commanded his Presbyters to denounce excommunication against all that should break the Magna Charta, the Charters heretofore granted, foreseeing, saith Mat. Paris, what the King would do. And he sharply reprehended the Fryar Minors, that would not tell Great men of their sin, when they had nothing to lose (Cantabit Vacuus, &c.) having chosen poverty that they might be freer from hindering temptations.

§ 198. When he lay on his death bed at Bugden in Huntingtonshire, he told Joh. Ægidius his learned friend, that he took them for manifest Hereticks, that did not boldly detect and reprove the sins of great men, and thereupon reprehended and lamented the sins of Prelates, but effectially the Roman; reciting their putting unworthy and bad men into the Pastoral office, for kindred or friendship sake. The third day before his death, he called to him many of his Clergie, and lamenting the loss of souls by Papal avarice, groaning he said, Christ came into the world to win souls, Is not be then deservedly to be called Antichrist, who feareth not to destroy souls? God made all the World in six dayes; but to repair man he laboured above thirty years: And is not a destroyer of souls then judged an enemy of God and Antichrist of the souls.

Next he goeth on to shew how sinfully the Pope by his non obstante overthrew even the rights that his Predecessors had granted, vainly pretending that they bind nothing because par in parem non habet potestatem, and what evils to the Churches he had done, and addeth [I saw a Letter of the Popes, in which I found inserted, that they that make their Wills, for that undertake the Cr isado, and to help the holy land, shall receive just fo much indulgence * as they give money, &c. And so goeth on, naming his imposing men that cannot preach, or strangers of other languages as Pattors on the people, and his covetous and greedy devouring all the

The same Author tells us, p. 883. anno 1254. that the Pope was " so unmeasureabley wrathful against this holy Learned Bishop, that when 'he was dead, he would have taken up his bones and cast them out of the "Church, and purposed to precipitate him into so great infamy, that he should be proclaimed a Heathen, a rebel and disobedient to the whole world; and he 'commanded a Letter to that purpose to be written to the King of England, knowing that the King would be mad enough against him * and ready enough to prey upon the Church: But the next night the said Bishop of Lincoln ap- * The Fie peared to him in his episcopal attire, with a severe countenance, an austere look ship was and terrible voice, he came and spake to the Pope that was restless in his bed, for Magna Charta and pricking him in the side with a violent thrust with the point of his pastoral the counfraffe which he carried, and said; miserable Pope Senebald! Not long after the Pope, not sensible of Gods warnings by his Servants, but fetting about warlike and secular matters, he prospered not in them, though he "laid out great care and labour and cost: But Wars, yea, the Lord of hosts being against him, his army which at great charges he had fent against the Ggg 3

The Pope then went to Naples, though weakened as with a e plurifie in his fide, or as wounded with a lance: And Cardinal Albus physick, could not help him. For Robert of Lincoln spared not Sincbald of Genoa; And he that would not beer him warning him when alive, felt him peircing him when dead No did the Pope ever after enjoy one good day till night, nor one good ni lit tal day, but fleepless and molested. In the same Council sad Complaints were made from England of the pillaging or woful impoverishing of the land by the Pope and King, but the Pope heard all filently and would give no answer.

$ 203. At this Council the Pope importuned the Electors to choose another Emperour: some refused and stuck to the Emperour, saying that it belonged not to the Pope to make or unmake Emperours: Others obeyed him, and set up Henry of Hassia. * But the Emperour while he lived kept up his possession, so far as to make the Pope repent, and the diversly faith Trithemius was a weary of his life: But all Germany, Italy, &c. were called him, confounded by the schim, or contention, one half (as is a forefaid) called . $ 206. At that time the Lords and Prelates of England crying out of the King Hen. 3d. as false and oppressive, and pillaging Churches and People to maintain his profusences, the Eishop of Hereford laid a Plot which the King accepted, that getting the hands and feals of a few Dishops he would go to Rome, and get power from the Pope to gather the King as much money as he needed. So to Rome he went, and there found the Pope in great grief and care himfelf for money, to pay vast debts that his Wars had cost him: The Bishop told him that the King who had engaged his Kingdom to be forfeited, if he paid not the Popes debts, would help him to money if he would be ruled by him, and write to the Bishops and Churches to grant the King such help as they could well do. The Pope gladly gave leave to the Bishop to write what he would; And home he went, and Rustandus a Legate was sent from Rome to see all done: faith, M. Paris, p. 911. anno 1255. The Legate was prepared and ready in all things to the destruction of all England to obey the will of the King which was tyrinnical, and to bind the oppressed contradistors in the bonds of Anathemia. Rustandus cometh with the Arch-Bithop of Canterbury, and the Bishop of Hereford is empowed by the Pope to gather moneys, for the Pope or King: A Parliament is called at Westminster: They refute and go home. The Popes Letters press the Collection: A Council of Bishops is called at London, so much money is demanded, faith M. Paris, as would have enflowed or undone all the Kingdome. The Bithop of London protested he would lose his head rather than confent: The Bilhop of Worcefter faid he would be hang'd first: The rest follow them. The King is angry and threatneth. Rustandus again Congregateth the Bishops at London. They did nothing again: saith M. Paris, too boldly, p. 917. [Si enim sive juste sive injuste per dicium Magistrum Rustandum suspenderetur quis, vel excommunicaretur, Ken quisi Leo in abscondito, quarens quem devoraret post 40 dies omnia direperit infiscata: Papa & Fien velut Pastor & Lupus, in ovinum exterminium confaderati, oninibus ruinam minabantur. Tithes are now paid by the Clergy to the Laity; They are granted for the Magna Charta which was not kept: They are granted as for the holy land and turned against Christians in Apulia: Many lies and salse oaths are imposed, saith M. Paris, p.919.

The next year the Clergy were called again, 1256. Rustandus the Le'gate said, All Churches are the Popes: Leonard the Prolocuter answered, yes,
'to defend; not to enjoy and appropriate; as we say, All things are the Prince's;
'that is to defend; and not to disperse; And this was the intent of the founders.

Clem. the 4th. being dead, the Cardinals (as is aforesaid) were all so desirous to be Popes themselves, that they were two years and nine months contending, and could not possibly agree. Philip King of France and Charles King of Sicily came themselves to Rome to intreat them, but departed without success. Yet they invoked the Holy Ghost every day to help them. At last the Cardinal Bishop Joh. Portuensis deridingly prayed them to uncover the houses, for the Holy Ghost could not come in through so many covered roofs: At last by Bonaventures intreaty, they chose Theobald a Viscount and Archdeacon that was with our Prince Edward going to fight in Palestine: And the said Cardinal Portuens. made these Verses on their choice, anno 1271.

§ 224. Next cometh Pope John the 22th as Platina, the 19th as Binius, and the 21st as most, the 20th by Onupbrius, 1276. He was a Physician, made Bishop inverseundi & Jocordis ingenii, saith Platina, so foolish that he boasted how long he should live, when presently the house sell on his head, and he died by it in seven days after. Suffridus (saith Binius) saith that he was writing an heretical perverse book, when the room sell, and cryed out after, O, what is become of my book? Who will finish it? which saith Binius, if true, sheweth the wonderful Providence of God for his Church, But had this Pope been infallible, had he been in a Council?

His Predecessor purposed to revoke the decree for shutting up the Cardinals in Conclave, and this man finished the revocation, and till the dayes of Celestine 5th. that renewed it, it stood revoked, saith Onuphrius.

$ 225. Next came Nicholas 3d. after fix months contention and vacancy. King Charles as Senator presiding and pleading for a French Pope. He is commended much, save that he set up all his own Kindred too much.

$ 226. After three years reign, eight months and fifteen dayes of Nin cholas came Martin 2d. vulgo 4th. faith Binius and Onuphrius a Frenchman : In his time, the Greek Emperour Paleologus (not keeping his promise to the l'ope) joyned with Peter King of Arragon, who claimed Sicily as his Wives inheritance; and though the former Pope had fet him on, this was against him, restoring King Charles to be Senator at Rome, and siding with him. because he was a Frenchman: But the fatal Sicilian Vespers killed all the French, and Peter overcame Charles and took his Son, and Charles and the Pope (hortly died of Fevers.

But before he died the Pope played the old Game, excommunicating and curling King Peter, and gave his Kingdom for a prey to any one that would get it, and absolved all his Subjects from their Oath of Allegiance, and tigned Croisado's (Soldiers under the sign of the Cross) to tight against him.

$ 227. Honorins the 4th, cometh next (his Brother being Senator at Rome) He confirmed the same Anathema against Peter King of Arragon, who shortly after died of a wound received in fight by the French. The Pope dieth (and the feat is void ten moneths) 1287, after two years Reign.

§ 228. Anno 1287. CCCCXLVIII. A Council was held at Herbipolis by the Popes Legate, endeavouring to have got the tenth penny of the Estates of the Clergy for the Pope, and of the Laity for the Emperour (by their joynt consent.) But Siphridus Arch-Bilhop of Colen, and Henry Arch-Bithop of Trevers floutly oppoling, frutlrated both their Conciliary deligns.

6 229. Anno 1288 came P. Nicolas 4th. a Religious Man, General of the Minors, when he had four years together laboured in vain to flay the blood in Italy, between the Guelples and Gibellins, and to reconcile the French and English, and to relieve the Christians in Palestine, he died: And the Cardinals, though for liberty they went to Perusium, kept the Church headless two years and three months by contention, though Princes in vain endeavoused to perswade them to agreement. (Are these no intercessions of the Succession?)

In this time died Mich. Paleologus Emperour of Constantinople, and the Clergy and Monks would not suffer him to be buried in holy ground, because in the Council at Lyons, he had confented to the Church of Rome,

He raised Wars to prosecute some Cardinals and the Gibelines: While he lived wickedly he fet up a Jubilee, proclaiming Pardon of all fins to them that would visit limina Apostolorum, that is, himself: A terrible Earthquake made him sor sear set up a hut of boards in an open Meadow, lest the houses should fall on him: He digg'd up the body of one Hermane, that had twenty years been honoured as a Saint, and burnt it as a Hereticks. He fent a Eithop to Philip King of France to intreat him to go fight in Palestine, and threatened him when he could not intreat him. The King imprisoned the Bishop. The Pope sent to require him to release him, faying openly, that the Kingdome of France was divolved to the Church, for the contumacy of Phillip and his violating the Law of Nations; and bid him Anathematize him, and absolve all Frenchmen from the Kings Oath. The King let go the Bilhop, but forbad all his Subjects going to Rome or sending any money thither, and not enduring his infolency, he affembled his Nobles and declared the Popedome void by Usurpation and unjust enterance of Boniface, and appealed to a Council: He Coyned money with this Inscription [Perdam Babilonis nomen] The Pope called a General Council, where he gave the Kingdom of France to Albert the Emperour, Anathematizing the King. In his time Albert the Emperour was kill'd by his Nephew: Italy consounded by Wars: The Pope curseth and interdicteth the Venetians, the Florentines, the Lucenses: Requireth the new chosen Emperor of Luxemburge to come to Rome for Coronation; He entereth Italy; some Cities fight against him, some yield: At Rome demanding money, they resist, and it cometh to force, and he is driven back: After many bickerings and Cities taken, he dieth, as is said (saith Plat.) § 242. CCCCLVII. But the great Council called by them the 15th. General Council approved, was at Vicana near France, on this occasion. King Philip having got the Popedorre, for Clem. the 5th. made him promise to condemn Pope Bonif. the 8th. and all his Acis: When he had possetsion, he found himself in a streight, and Nieholus Cardinal Pratensis advised him to please the King with the hopes that a General Council would do it most effectually, and to get the Council out of his Country and power: which being done the Council strustrated the Kings expectations: The King accused Pope Boniface of Simony, Heresie, and Perjury, in forty Articles.

tieles. His crimes were not denyed, but they justified him to be a true Pope, and found him not an Heretick.

In this Council the Templars were condemned and put down, and their Lands given to the Jerusalem Hospitalers, or Knights of Rhodes (which they tay King Philip thought to have got) some tay the Templars were falsly accuted of Herefies (and the Matters and others burnt): Others say, truely. The most probable is, that some particular Men of them (no new thing among Soldiers) committed many-Villainies, and the rest suffered for their sakes.

In this Council the Herefies of Petrus Joannis a Disciple of Abbot Josehim, were condemned, which were three.

1. That the rational Soul, as rational, is not the form of humane bodies.

2. That habitual grace is not infused in Baptism (that is alwayes and to Infants).

3. That Christs side was pierced with the Launce before be was dead.

In this Council the Fratricelli and Dulcinists were Condemned, and also eight Heresies of the Ecquines and Beguards; which were these (all for perfection, which Quakers and some Fryars now seem to be too much for in prosection, as we all are in desire) 1. That man in this life, may get such a degree of pertection, as that he may become impeccable (or sinless) and so to rise to no higher a degree of grace: Else, say they, if one might still intereale he might grow better than Chriss.

2. 'That when one hath atteined that degree, he ought not to fast or 'rray: Because then sensuality is perfectly subject to the Spirit and reason,

' fo that a man may then freely grant his body what pleafeth him.

3. That they that have got this degree of perfection and the Spirit of liberty, are not subject to humane obedience, nor bound to any precepts of the Church, for where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

4. 'That thus a man may get final beatitude in all degrees in this life, as " well as in that to come.

5. 'That every intellectual nature is naturally bleffed in it felf, and the 'foul needeth not the light of glory for the seeing and enjoying of God.

6. 'That to exercise virtues is a note of imperfection.

7. 'That to kisse a Woman is sin, because nature needs it not; but copu-

Lation is not, because nature requirethit, when one is tempted.

8. 'That one ought not to rise and do reverence at the elevation of Chriss' body, because he must not descend from the altitude of his contemplations.' so as to to think of the Sacrament or Christs humane body.

It seems these were such fanatiks as some Fryers are.

In this Council the decrees called Clementines were passed; in which are specially noted by Binius, some things de side, as solloweth.

I. 'That it is herefie to call in doubt, or affent that the substance of the rational or intellective foul is not truly and perfect the form of mans body.

II. 'That whereas Divines differ about the effect of Baptisme, some say-'ing that to Infants sin is remitted, but not Grace conferred; others saying that 'the fault is remitted and virtues or informing Grace insused as to the Habit, though not yet for use, we attending the general Esseacy of Christs death, which by Baptisme is equally applyed to all, judge the second opinion more probable and agreeable to the sayings of the Saints and modern Doctors of Theologie, the sacred Council approving this, which saith, that both to adult and infants in baptisme informing grace and virtues are given.

III. 'If any one fall into this errour that as pertinaciously to affirm that 'Usury is no sin, we decree that he be punished as an Heretike, and the ordinaties and inquisitors for heresic may proceed against such as against hereticks.

IV. And it is decreed that if any Communities or Officers shall presume to write or dictate that usury should be paid, or being paid should not be fully and freely restored, let them be excommunicate, and they shall interest the same sentence that do not as far as they can blot out such statutes out of the bookes of the said Companies, that shall keep such customes.

Also that Usurers be compelled to shew their books of accounts.

§ 243. Here the Pope and the Bishops in a General Council have judged divers points to be herefie, and confequently their contraries to be Articles of faith: And for Heresie they curse, burn and damne men.

1. I overpassed their Article that Christ was dead before his side was pierced, which is true: But whether an Article of our Creed necessary to be understood to Salvation, let the Church Creed be witness.

2. Its well, that the possibility of sinless perfection is made a heresic by them (for we must daily pray for pardon): But why then do they talk so much of the possibility of keeping all Gods Law, that is of never sinning.

and talk of perfection, and works of Supercrogation?

3. Do not they make an Article of Faith of a Logical Arbitrary Notion (that intellectual Souls being the Bodies form) who knows not how ambiguous the word form is? An Ariffolle supposeth a Corpus organicum, besides the Soul; and that Corpus hath its form quà Corpus. I imagine, that these Bishops meant the same thing, that I do, and that our difference is but of the fitness of words; but I will so far venture on their heretication as to say, that forma Corporis, forma Anime, and forma Hominis, are divers: That Corpus organicum quà tale hath its proper form, which denominate the it such; which is not the Soul: That the Soul being a substance hath its proper form which denominate the intellectual Soul is forma Hominis, but improperly called forma Corporis: I will venture on their Heretication, to tell them my opinion, and I think their Errour and Presumption to thrust such things on Men under the penaltics of cursing, burning, and damnation,

4 Their Article of Faith about the effect of Baptism (That all this are baptized at Age and Infants have both pardon and infused infimming habitual Grace, I take for unproved, and have essewhere proved it to be false in all probability, as univerfally taken.

World: No doubt, but all Usury is a fin that is against either Mercy or Justice: But that some Usury may be an Act of great Charity, many wise men think past doubt: We have known some get estates of many thoufand pounds a year by trading with money taken upon Usury, when perhaps some that Leant that money, had nothing but the Use to buy them bread and course cloathing, and keep them from perishing. How many thousand Great Men, Lawyers and Citizens are to be curfed, burnt, and damned by this Canon, for holding some Usury to be Lawful: Nay, how many for not restoring it when taken; when perhaps, an Orphan took it of a rich man to fave them from famine. This is the benefit of hereticators.

Having long faid nothing of the Greek affairs, I here only briefly fay, that the utter confusion of their imperial Successions by murders and tlfurpations, and the continued confusions of their Church affairs ever fince the divisions of the Orthodox Nestorians, Eutychians, Monothelites, & maketh it both a hard and unpleasant task to give any exact account of their Bishops, Synods and manifold contentions, which furthered the ruine of the Empire. Their divisions gave the Latines opportunity to take Constantinople 1204. which they kept 58 years, and then lost it. Baldwin was the first Latine Emperour whom the Bulgarians conquered, and took Pri-Soner Anno 1205, and kept fixteen months, and then put him to death. § 258. Anno 1362. Another French man is made Pope, called Urban the 5th. He fent Agidius to fight for him in Italy (still broil'd in Wars,) and died.

§ 259. Anno 1370. Petrus Bellfortis that was made Cardinal before he was 17 years old is made Pope of Avignion, and called Greg. the rith. So far was all the world from obeying the Pope, that Italy Itill fought against him: Thither he sends an Army, bloodshed and misery overspreadeth the Country. The Pope at last saw that his absence gave his Enimies advantage, and not daring to let the French know less they should have stopt him, he slipt away to Rome, and thither removed his Seat, that had been at Avignion 70 years, to the great joy of the City, impoverished by the absence of the Court.

$ 260. Anno 1378. Gregory the 11th being dead, the People of Rome flock to the Cardinals, and cry to them to choose no more Frenchmen least the Seat be again removed, but an Italian, and the best man that could be found, least all should run to utter confusion. Thirteen Cardinals were Frenchmen and four Italians: The French were for a French Pope; but they fell out among theinfelves, while part of the French were for one, and part for another, by which it fell out that Barthol. Epifc. Barensis, a Neapolitane was chosen, an extraordinary good Pope. The Cardinals cryed out that the People of Rome had by tumult, force, and arms constrained them to the choice of this man (Viban 6.) and they fled to strong holds; but at last came to Rome and owned the Pope: But when he told them, that he would not go to France, and reproved their wickedness, and told them how feverely he refolved to punish them if they amended not, they got away and declared, that Urban was a false Pope, chosen by the Peoples tumults and force, where the Cardinals were not free, and that the Seat was void, and they chose another (Cardinal Gebennensis) and called him Clement 7th; And fo whereas for feventy years there had been a Pope at Avignion, and none at Rome, now for forty years more there were two, one at Avignion, and one at Rome (and sometimes three). And indeed it passeth my skill to know how the Avignion Popes were Bilhops of Rome, who never faw Rome, nor any of the People, any more than he is a true Schoolmatter that never faw the School or Scholars.

And now the two Popes fall to fighting for it; and the French Pope fending an Army of Britons against the Italian Pope; at first they beat the Romans, but next were so destroyed by them, that sew scaped home to bring the news.

The Italian bloody Wars still continue, especially between the Venetians and Genoneses. Then had the Venetians the first Guns: The Neapolitans also also were ruined by Wars, their Queen siding with one Pope (Clement) was destroyed by Charles that was for the other (justly strangled, as she had uted her own Husband). The Duke of Anjou also came with a great Army into Italy from Pope Clement to destroy Pope Urban; but the General died, and the Souldiers scattered and returned home: The Pope then desired of King Charles that his Nephew might be Prince of Naples; and being denied, threatned Charles, and cited him to Nucena, who came at his Summons, but with an Army: The Pope escaped to Genoa; and King Charls upon his Fathers death called home to Hungary, was murdered.

The Pope putteth seven of his old Cardinals in five Sacks, and drowneth them in the Sea: But to be strong enough, he maketh no sewer than twenty nine new ones in one day. He went to Naples, thinking to surprize and deject the Kings two Sons, but was deseated. Italy still slamed with War: He made 54 Cardinals, of which he killed five, and deposed seven, and died, saith Platina, little lamented, as his Epit 1ph sheweth, as being rustick and inexorable, though one of their best: He died after eleven years, An. 1389.

§ 262. An. 1389. Boniface 9. alias 8. is chosen at Rome, and Clement dead in France, Pet. de Luna is chosen there, called Benedici 13. The Italians were still the furthest from Unity and peace, all the Cities almost in war against each other: so far were they from Eminency in Religious love and concord, that they had not the common quietness of Heathens. The Pope went to Perusium to acconcile them there; where to shew what his power was over them, the people killed fourscore of the Nobles before the Popes sace, which he took ill, and departed. He got possession of the Government of Rome; he required Annals, that is, half a years value of every Benefice of him that received it: All, saith Platina, save the English granted it; and they would yield it of no Benefices but Bishopricks. Had the Pope indeed been Head of all the World, Annals would have come to a considerable Rent: But going so far as the Antipoder to gather it, would have made it come shorter home than the Spanish Gold and Silver doth from the West-Indies.

Instead of winning men by Preaching, the Popes Arms now subdue Perusium and many Italian Cities to him: Platina saith, that his own Father that saw the man, told him, that a Priest cloathed in white, carrying a Crucinx, with certain Hymns to the Virgin Mary, came from the Alps with a grave and pious look, so preaching, that all the people followed him, even Nobles as well as others; and that he pretended that he went to visit the Holy Fathers at R me; but the Pope suspected that he meant to be Pope, or get too much interest, and sent Souldiers and took him, and burnt him to death; some saying that he had some errour, others saying no such thing was even proved by him, but it was reported by the Pope to hide his cruelty.

In these times, faith Platina, Chrysoloras Byzantinus brought Greek Learning into Italy, that had been filent five hundred years.

6. 263. An. 1404. Boniface dying, Innocent 7. is chosen at Rome, one part of Europe being for him, and another for the Avignion Pope. Tunnalturante tota Italia, faith Platina, Tota Italia ad arma respiciebat: Five and twenty Cities revolted from the Vicecomites, and fet up new Governments. (What Concord did the Pope keep in the World?) Platins faith he was not only flothful, but could not endure to be told of his duty. The Citizens of Rome petitioned him to endeavour the ending of the Schisme, the King of France and the Avignion Pope being inclined to peace: For answer he sent them to his Nephew Ludovicus to be murdered, who presently killed eleven that came to confult with him, cashing them out at a window, saying that mas the only way to cure Sedition and Schisme: Upon this the City takes Arms for revenge; the Pope and his Nethew fly to Viterbium; Lidiflius King of Apulia helps the Citizens, they fall upon the Courtiers, take the Capitol, and other places, &c. The Pope fends an Army against them that overcometh them, and forceth them to beg his return: He dieth 1406, after two years and 23 days Reign; and so there was only the Avignion Popc.

§. 264. An. 1406. Gregory 12. is chosen at Rome, taking an Oath (as Timoe. 7. did) to resign, if the Unity of the Church required it: The Princes of France had made their Pope Benediët 13. take the like Oath: The Princes and Cardinals ashamed of two Popes, and two Churches, prest them both to summon a Council; they cunningly would not agree of the place, and so forced the doing it without them.

§. 265. CCCCLXVII. To put a shew on the business, Greg. calleth a Council at Aquileia, whether by long delays he ercepeth with a few to do nothing.

§ 266. CCCCLXVIII. And the other Pope, Bened. 13. Anno 1409, 21fo calleth his Council in Arragone of his Subjects: which calleth it felf a General Council, and pronounce him the true Pope, and no Schifmatick or Heretick, and Greg. to be the Ufurper, but exhort him to endeavour Unity.

§: 267. CCCCLXIX. The two Popes giving no better hopes, some of the Cardinals of both sides slipt from them, and by the Countenance of the Florentines and King Ladislans, chose Pisa for a General Council, where they met and summoned both the Popes, who scorned them; and they deposed them both as Hereticks and Schismaticks, saith Binius, forbidding all Christians to obey them, and they chose a third, Alexander 5, and the two old ones kept up still; and so there were three Popes at once.

§. 268. An. 1409. Alex. 5. is chosen, much commended, but died in eighteen Months, some says saith Antoninus, poysoned by a Clyster: But to shew himself a Dope, in that little time he deposed King Ladiflaus, and gave

. bis Kingdome to Lewis Dake of Anjour

§. 269. Balthafar Coffe is next chosen, called by some Joh. 21. by others 22 by others 23. and by Platina Joh. 4. (so little are they agreed of their succession) fuccession) Platina saith the Cardinals of Greg. were yet poor, and he hired them with Money to Create him: He got Sigismund King of Bohemia chosen Emperour, and would have had the Council to be at Rome. Italy continued still in blood, the Popes having parcelled it into so many small Principalities, to secure it against the Emperours; no part of the whole World lived from Age to Age in such continual War and consustion. This Pope, saith Onuphrius Panvinus, viz. fuit bello & armis quam Religioni aptior, utpote qui neque sidem novat neque Religionem, rebus profanis magis quam Divino cultu accommodatus. How he was accused, deposed, imprisoned; how the other two Popes Greg. 12. and Bened. 13. were all deposed with him, and Martin 5. chosen; the next Chapter sheweth.

CHAP. XIII.

The Council of Constance, Basil, and some others.

§. 1. CCCCLXX. N. 1414. the Council of Confiance was called by the means of the Emperour Sigismund, and the consent of Pope John, who the more trusted the Emperour because he had promoted him: There were then three Popes, Bened. 13. in France, whom the Kingdomes of France, Spain, Arragon, England, and Scotland followed; and Greg. 12. and John 23. at Rome, that divided the rest of the Papalines. It was not certainly to represent the Trinity, but to profane the Name, and abuse the Kingdome of the blessed Trinity. Oct. 28. P. John called by them Sanciissimus Dominus Nofter, entereth the City, Nov. 5. The Pope began the Council. Nov. 16. was the first Session, the Pope speaking to them, and his Bull being read, shewing that he would have had the Council at Rome, but the miserable case of Rome (by contention and confusion) hindering, it was agreed with the Emperour to be at Constance, commanding to be there for the peace of the Church, and appointing a Weekly Mass to be said for obtaining Gods bleffing, and pardoning a years penance for every Mass to every Mass-Priest that said it, exhorting all to fasting and prayer for good success, charging them to look after Errours, especially those that rose from one John Wickliff, and also to reform the Church, &c.

March 2. 1415. The Pope took an Oath, for the peace of the Church, to lay down his Popedome, if the other two Popes would do the fame, and the Emperour kist his teet.

The Cardinal of Florence read these Decrees: 1. That the Council was lawfully called. 2. That it will not be dissolved by the departure of the Pope, or other Prelates. 3. That it be not dissolved till the present Schisme be healed, and the Church resormed in Faith and Manners, in Head and Members. 4. That it be not removed but on just cause. 5. That the Eishops depart not.

§ 2. In the fourth Session they decreed that the general Council reprefenting the militant Catholick Church, hath its power immediately from Christ, to which every man of what State or dignity soever, though it be Papal, is bound to obey in the things that belong to Faith, and the extirpation of the said Schissm and the general reformation of the Church in head and members. 2. That the Pope withdraw not himself or the Osheers, and if he should, or should thunder out Church censures against them or any adhering to the Council, they are void. 3. That no Translations, Promotions, or Cardinals be made to the prejudice of the Council. 4. That three of each Nations be chosen to judge of departures, &c. But the Pope fled and sent them word that it was not for fears, but for his health.

§ 3. Sess. 5. The Emperor being among them, they decreed again the Power of the Council as immediately from Christ, which the Pope and all must obey; and that the Pope is punishable if he disobey; that he is bound to surrender in any case of great and evident profit to the Church; that he unlawfully departed; that if he will return and perform his promise, he shall be fafe.

Next, they proceeded to condemn the Books of John Wickliff, and to prosecute John Huss.

Next they applied themselves to the Emperous to reduce the Pope, who told them he was in the hands of the Duke of Austria; but if they pleased he would write to him, or try to fetch him by force, so.

§.4. Sess. 6. They order the Procuration for the Popes Resignation to be demanded, and Process to be made against John Huss, and Hierome of Prague. A Letter is read from the University of Paris to the Pope, to submit to the Council.

§. 5. Self. 7. They accused Hierome of Prague for not appearing, and summoned the Pope, promising him safe Conduct, sed salva Justina coe.

$. 6. Sell 8 They condemned Wickliff's Bones to be dig'd up, upon 45

Articles, intlead of 260 which they had gathered. Art. 1. was:

'1. That the substance material of Bread and Wineremain in the Sa-'crament of the Altar.

' 2. The Accidents of Bread remain not without the substance.

'3. Christis not identically and really in his proper bodily presence in the Sacrament.

'4. If a Bithop or Priest live in mortal sin, he Ordaineth not, Baptizeth not, Conscerateth not.

'5. The Gospel saith not that Christ instituted the Mass.

'6. God ought to obey the Devil. *

'7. If a man be contrite a right, outward confession is needless and not home.

'prohtable

'8. If the Pope be a Reprobate, and wicked, and so a Member of the Devil, he hath no power over the faithful given him by any but Casar.

'9. Since Urban the 6. none is to betaken for Pope, but we must live as + vider the Greeks, 4 under our own Laws.

10. Ic

10. It is against Scripture that Church-men have possession (that is, they bould not Isbour to be rich.)

God hath first excommunicated him: And he that so excommunicateth, is thereby a Heretick or Excommunicate.

'12. A Prelate that excommunicateth a Clerk who appealed to the 'King, or to the Council of the Kingdome, is thereby a Traytor to the 'King and Kingdome.

'13. They that give over Preaching, or hearing Gods Word, for mens Excommunication, are Excommunicate, and in the Day of Judgment shall be judged Traytors to Christ.

14. It is lawful for a Deacon or Presbyter to preach the Word of God-without the Authority of the Apostolick Seal, or a Catholick Bishop.

'15. No one is a Civil Lord, or a Prelate, or a Bishop, while he liveth in 'mortal sin. (The meaning of this is, no open wicked man is a Subject capable of such Authority given by Christ, as shall warrant him to use the place, but his 'acts may be valued to others in many cases) Dispositio materia est necessaria ad formam recipiendam: As an Instidel can be no Bishop or Patlor.)

'16. Temporal Lords may take away temporal goods from the Church, from a Possessor habitually criminal, and not only in act. (Not from the ' sacred use in general, but from that man that forseiteth them.)

'17. The people may correct their Delinquent Lords (This is not to be believed to be Wickliff's sense, till they cite his own words, which no doubt limit it to the cases.)

18 Tythes are meer Alms, and the Parishioners may take them away

' for their Prelates lins.

'19. The special prayers applied by Prelates and Religious men to one person, pront him no more than the general ones, ceteris paribus.

20. He that giveth Alms to Fryars is thereby Excommunicate (that is.

he fins by cherishing wilful idleness.)

'21. He that enters the private Religion, either of the Possessing or the Mendicant Fryars, becomes less fit and able to keep the Commandments of God.

22. Holy men that made private Religions, thereby finned.

'23. The Religious living in private Religion, are not (therein) of the Christian Religion.

'24. Fryars are bourd to get their living by the labour of their hands, and not by begging.

⁶ 25. They are Simoniac31 that bind themselves to pray for others for a ⁶ temporal reward (or price.)

'26. The prayers of Reprobates (wicked men) availeth not to any.

6 27. Al' things come to pass by necessity.

'28. The Confirmation of Youth, the Ordination of Clerks, the Confecration of Places, are referred to the Pope and Eishops for covetousness of temporal gain and honour.

'29. Univer-

'29. Universities, Studies, Colledges, Degrees, and Masterships in them, are introduced by vain Gentility, and profit the Church as much as the Devil doth.

'30. The Excommunication of a Pope, or any Prelate, is not to be feared, because it is the Censure of Antichrist.

'31. They that found Cloysters fin, and they are Diabolical that enter

'32. To enrich the Clergy is against Chrisis Rule.

'33. Pope Sylvefter, and the Emperour Constantine, erred in inriching the Church.

'34. All the Order of Eegging Fryars are Hereticks; and those that give

'to them are Excommunicate.

'35. They that enter Religion (as Fryars) or any Order (of them) are thereby disabled from keeping Gods Commands, and so of coming to "Heaven, unless they forsake them.

'36. The Pope, and all his Clergy that have Possessions, are therefore Hereticks, and the Secular Lords and Laicks that confent to them (to their

e great riches.)

6 37. The Church of Rome is the Synagogue of Satan; and the Pope is 'not the immediate and nearest Vicar of Christ and the Apostles.

'38. The Decretal Epifiles are Apocryphal, and feduce from the Faith of Christ, and the Clerks that study them are fools-

'39. The Emperour and Secular Lords were feduced by the Devil to in-

'rich the Church (excessively be meaneth) with temporal goods.

'40. The Election of the Pope by Cardinals was introduced by the Devil.

'41. It is not necessary to Salvation to believe the Church of Rome to be the Supreme among other Churches.

42. It is foolish to trust to the Indulgences of the Pope and Bishops.

43. Oaths made to strengthen humane Contracts and Civil Commerce, 'are unlawful.

44. Augustine, Benedict, Bernard are damned, unless they repented of ha-'ving possessions, and instituting and entering (private) Religions; and so 'from the Pope to the lowest Religious (Fryar) they are all Hereticks.

'45. All Religions (that is Orders of Fryars) were introduced by the Devil.

This Article about Necessity of Events, I see in Wickliff's Books is his own, and many here cited are true; but no doubt but many of them are perverted by their wording them, and leaving out the Explicatory Context.

The Council forbad his Books, and condemned them to be burnt, and reprobated every one of all these foresaid Articles, with all the 260.

The Duke of Anstria most humbly begged the Emperours pardon for recciving the Pope.

6.7. Seff. 9. The Citation of the Pope is read, and Commissaries and Kkkk Judges Judges appointed; and a Letter read from the University of Paris, instigating the Council to their duty (for their honest Chancellour Gerson was here.

6. 8. Seff. to. The Popes Suspension was read. The Seff. tt. the Articles against the Pope are read, which were proved; which were in sum as followeth.

Art. 1. That the Pope John from his Youth was of a naughty disposition, impudent a lyar, rebellious against his Parents, given to most vices, and so was, and still is accounted of all that know him; Cardinals, Arch-Bishops, Bishops, &c. witness it.

2. He gathered riches by Symony, and wicked means.

- 3. By these Symoniacal riches he purchased a Cardinals place at great rates.
- 4. Peffelling Bononia as Legate by tyranny and cruel exactions, inhumanely and impiously he ruined the people, without all Justice or Piety, &c.

5. Getting thus to be Pope, like a Pagan he contemned all Divine Offices.

- 6. That he is the oppressor of the poor, the persecutor of Justice, the Pillar of the unjust, the Statue of Simoniacks, the servant of the Flesh, the dregs of Vices, a stranger to Virtue, slying publick Confisories, wholly given to fleep, and other flethly defires; wholly contrary to Christ in life and manners, the Glass of Infamy, and the profound Inventer of all wickednesses (or malice) so scandalous to the Church, that among faithful Chriflians that knew him, he was commonly called THE DEVIL IN-CARNATE.
- 7. That as a Vessel of all sins, he repulsed the worthy, and gave all Offices, Benefices and Church-promotions to the bad that would give most * What was Money for them. *

8. Hereby the whole Church, Clergy and People, fell under infamy and scandal.

9. That of all these he was oft admonished and humbly intreated.

10. That he was worse after than before, laying all pretence of Justice, and openly felling all to the worst that would give him meney.

11. That growing yet stronger in Vices, he made divers Officers purposely to manage his Simony (as his Bailiss) for all fat Cathedrals, Abbeys Monasteries, Priories, and vacant Benefices referved, &c.

1.2. That he charged his Registers to receive all the money before they granted, &c.

13. That he appointed certain Merchants to put vacant Benefices in the Ealance, and grant their Petitions that offered most for them.

- 14. He ordered that no Petition for a Benefice be offered him, till it were figured by the Refundary, who then was to pay it out of his own Estate if he took too little.
- 15. That against God and his Conscience he oft sold his Bulls to Eminent men, in which he wrote, that they that had Benefices had refigned them to him, and that by lying forged Refignation, which never was made, fold them again for, great fums, and beggar'd many. 6. By the Church. then. ;

16. By this it came to pass, that without all difficulty he that gave most, carried it: And the same course was held in Sacraments, Indulgences, Dispensations, and other Ecclesiastical and Spiritual Gifts.

17. That he usually fold the same Benefice divers times over to divers persons, or to the same, silencing Claims of Right; whereby the whole Church was defiled with Simony, * filled with the unworthy, both in * Which higher and lower Prelacies, &c.

18. That he refused to Confirm those that were Canonically Elected, have jud unless even to satiety they glutted him with Money, putting the unworthy in their stead, and translated men against their wills from their Churches, that he might sell them dearer.

19. That promising Church-Reformation in the Council at Pifa, he called one at Rome, and being there publickly admonished, being incorrigible by the Devils instinct, did worse.

20. That he fold for Money Indulgences at the hour of death, the Predication of the Cross, Absolutions from fault and punishment, Concessions of Churches and portable Altars, Confectations of Bishops, Benedictions of Abbots, Relicks of Saints, Holy Orders, power in Confession to absolve from fins, and Acts that may be ministered only by the Operations of the Holy Ghost for Grace.

21. That one Nic. Pistorius, a Florence Merchant, and the Popes Secretary, a Lay married man, was made by the Pope his Legate Apostolical, sent into Brabant to exact and receive a Sublidy, which was the tenth part of the fruit of all Benefices in divers Cities and Diocesses, and to excommunicate the refusers by a certain deputed Sublegate, † and suspend Colledges, † Like a Covents, Chapters, &c.

2 2. That he authorized this Nicholas to grant to all persons, of each his Surro-Sex, for Money to choose their Confessors, that might absolve from fault gate. and punishment, by which the Merchant got vast suns of Money, seducing the people.

23. That all the premiles are known, true, proved, &c.

24. That Anno 1412. Ambassadors from the King, Eishops, and Univerfities of France, admonished him charitably of this scandalous, infamous Simony.

25. That ke amended not by it, but did worfe.

26. That he is defamed of all this in all Kingdomes of the Christian World.

27. That he abused Rome and the Churches Patrimony, exhausting the people, and imburfing it himself, by Taxes, Gabels, &c. Many instances are added.

28. For these things many Crimes, Sacriledges, Adulteries, Murders, Spoils, Rapine and Thests were committed in Rome, through his fault.

29. It is the common voice, opinion, affertion and belief, that in these, and innumerable other evils, he is the greatest Dilapidator and Dislipator of the Church Affairs that ever was, scandalous to the Universal Church, a

Witch,

Witch, a Murderer, a Killer of his Brethren, Incontinent, in all things ferving the Vices of the flesh, of infinite crimes, called infamously Balderinus.

30. That all this is notorious by common fame, repute, &c.

31. That he liath fold the goods of Cardinals, Bilhopricks, Parishes, Colledges, Priorics, &c.

32. And this not only in the City about (many instances named.)

- 33. That he destroyed University Studies, by taking the Salaries to himself.
- 34. Besides, he laid such burdens on the Parsons, as forced them to sell the Church-goods, Ornaments, and Books.

35. That hereby the whole Church was notoriously scandalized.

36. The Infamy was fo great, that Princes and the Emperour befought him to amend.

37. Hereupon he promised to amend, and to call this Council.

38. Eut he went on, and did worse than before.

39. He forbad the righting of the injured in judgment.

40. That the Bishop of Salisbury, and other English Embassadours, admonished him to amend, and he gave them ill words, and threatned, and abused them.

41. That at Constance he swore to resign for Peace.

42. And he promised to submit to the judgment of the Council.

43. He bid all fay what they would against him.

44. He was humbly intreated by the Council to perform his word.

45. Yet thought by hiding himself to cvade.

46. Yet he professed before that he intended not to depart.

47. And when the Church longed for peace, by the Council he plotted to dissolve the Council, and so sted in a disguized habit.

48. He fled to Schafhausen, and commanded some Cardinals and Bishops to come to him.

49. Thence he fled to Lauffenberge, and towards Brifac.

50. The Council desired his return.

51. He denied to answer, but fled to Nurenburg to srusirate the Council.

52. He is an obdurate sinner, and incorrigible Fautor of Schism, &c.

53. That all this is notorious, and the common repute of men.

54. And all the premises are the common same and voice. Here somewhat is lest out.

And they begin as anew; 1. Declaring his wickedness from his Youth.

2. That he is notoriously suspected to have poysoned Pope Alexander, and his Physician Daniel.

3. That he committed Incest with his Brothers Wife, and with the holy Nuns, and ravished Maids, and committed Adultery with Wives, and other crimes of Incontinence.

3. That he Simonaically fold fix Parish Churches in Binonia to Lay men, who set Priess in them at their pleasure.

4. That .

and.

4. That for Money he fold the Mastership of the Order of S. John of Jerus In Cypeus to a Child of five years old, Bastard to the King of Cyprus, with the fruits of Vacancies, and spoils of the last Master, &c.

5. That he would not recall this, but on condition.

1. That the K. of Cyprus (hould be paid (by them that succeeded) all the Money back which he gave to the Pope.

2. That the Pope thould have more, fix thousand Florins of Gold, which the Prior of Rhodes paid, and for which the Hospitallers are yet in debt.

3. He reserved for the said Bastard the Magistral Chamber, worth two thousand Florins.

4. That the faid Pope John gave Fryar Jacobus de Vitriaco, an ancient man, and expressly professing the Hospitallers Religion, an Absolution from his Yows, Rule and habit of Religion, and reduced him to a Secular life, and Marriage, &c. for fix hundred Ducats.

Many other Articles I pass by, as tedious to be repeated: One was, That be was a notorious Simoniack, and a pertinacious Heretick: Another was, That often before divers Prelates, and other bonest men, by the Devils persuasion be pertinaciously said, afferted, degmatized, and maintained, that there is no Life Eternal, nor any after this: And he said, and pertinaciously believed, that mans Soul dieth with the body, and is extinct, as are the Bruits: And he said, that the Dead rise not, contrary to the Article of the Resurrection, &c.

He sent an Epissle to the Emperour to beginnercy &c.

$.9. Seff. 12. The Articles being shewed the Pope, his Answer is recited: Vi7. That he repented of his filthy departure, and ratified all the Councils Process against him, and would give no other Answer to their Charge, affirming, that the Council of Constance was most boly, and could not err; and was the Pisano Council continued, and he would never contradict the Council, but publickly confess that he had no right in the Papacy: That he would be much pleased that the. Sentence against him might be quickly pissed, and sent him, which with all reverence be would receive, and as much as in him lay confirm, ratice, approve, and divulge; and did then ratific, approve, and confirm all their Process against him, and promise never to gainsay them.

The Council decreed, that when the Papacy was void, none should be chosen without them, and they that attempted it should be panished, and the Election be void.

Next the Definitive Sentence of Deposition was pastagainst him.

Next they decreed, that none of the three present Popes should ever be elected again.

§. 10. Seff. 13. The Council decreed, that though Christiaster Supper instituted, and to his Disciples administred the Sacrament in both kinds,. Bread and Wine, &c. 'And though in the Primitive Church the faithful re-ceived it in both kinds, &c. yet the contrary custome at the Church shoulde be a Law, which may not be reprobated without the Churches Authority, 'or changed: And to say that this is sacrilegious and unlawful, is erroneous.

'and the pertinacious Affertors to be proceeded against as Hereticks (that 'is, burnt.)

Thus they take power to change Christs Sacrament, and that when they suppose it to be his very blood that they deny men, and make it Heresia and death to obey God before them. This was the Reforming Council.

Next they decree, that any Priest that giveth the Sacrament in both kinds shall be excommunicated, and used as a Heretick, even by Secular Power, that is, burnt.

§. 11. Seff. 14. Carolus de Malatestis recited in the name of Gregory 12. his Renunciation of the Papacy, and Greg. approved the Council. The Council absolveth all men from his obedience, &c. confirm some of his Acts, require the third Pope to resign, and declare him, if he resuse, a notorious Schismatick, and pertinacious Heretick.

$. 12. Seff. 15. After a severe Decree for silence, and no contradiction, the Articles of Heresie charged on John Huss were read, the sum of many is as followeth.

1. As Christ is both God and Man, so the consecrated Host is the Body of Christ, at least in Figure, and true Bread in Nature.

2. That he declareth to the heretical lyars about the confectated Host, that they can never declare or understand an accident without a subject.

3. This is my body, is such a figurative speech, as John was Elias.

4. The madness of feigning an accident without a subject, blasphemeth God, scaudalizeth the Saints, and deceiveth the Church.

5. Its foolish and presumptuous to define, that the Infants of the faithful are not saved, dying without the Sacrament of Baptism.

6. The light and brief Confirmation by Bishops, solemnized only by the Rites said over, was introduced by the Devil, and to delude the people in the belief of the Church, and that the solemnity and necessity of Bishops may be the more believed.

7. Against Oyl, anointing Children, and the Linnen Cloth, as a light Ceremony, &cc.

8. Vocal Confession made to a Priest, introduced by Innocent, is not so necessary as he defineth: He that by thought, word or deed offendeth his Brother, it sufficeth him to repent by thought, word or deed.

9. The Priest hearing Confession as the Latines do, is grievous and groundless,

The Pope that falfly calls himself the servant of the servants of God, is in no degree of Evangelical service, but worldly; and if he he in any order, it is in that of Devils, serving God more culpably by sin.

The Pope dispenseth not with Simony, being the Capital Simonist, vowing rashly to keep a most damnable state.

That the Pope is summus Pontifex is ridiculous: Christ never approved such a Dignity in Peter, or in any other.

The Pope is the Patron of Antichrist; not only that single person, but the multitude of Popes from the time of the Churches Donation, the Cardinals, Bishops, and other their Complices, is the compounded monstrous person of Antichrist: And yet Gregory, and other Popes that did good in their lives fruitfully repented at last: Peter, and Clement, and other helpers in the Faith, were not Popes, but Gods helpers to edifie the Church of Christ.

That this Papal Preeminence had its rife from the Gospel, is as false, as that all Errour arose from the first Truth.

There are twelve Procurators and Disciples of Antichrists, the Pope, Cardinals, Patriarchs, Arch-bishops, Bishops, Arch-deacons, Officials, Deans, Monks, forked Canons, false Figures, and Questors.

Many more there be, that Fryars and the foresaid twelve Orders of Antichristare not of God, and some Philosophical Opinions; which how far Huss held them, I take this Catalogue for no proof without his words, the Context and Explication.

All these are mentioned as taken out of Wickliff; but Huss is condemned for these sollowing Articles.

Ecclesiastical obedience is obedience after the Priests invention without any express authority of Scripture.

All humane Acts are distinguished into virtuous and vicious.

A Pricet of Christ living after his Law and understanding the Scripture, and defirous to Edific the people, ought not to obey the Pope or any Prelate that forbids bim to preach, and excommunicateth him.

Every one made a Priest hath a command to preach and must obey it, notwithstanding excommunication.

By Church Censures of excommunication, suspension and interdict, the Clergy keeps the Laity under their feet for their own exaltation, and multiply avarice, protect malice, and prepare the way to Antichrist. It is an evident sign that such Consure, proceed from Antichrist, in which the Clergy principally proceed against those that open the nakedness of Antichrists wickedness, which the Clergy will for themselves usure.

If the Popes be wicked men and reprobates, then as Judas an Apostle was a thief and traitor and son of perdition, so they are no heads of the Church, when they are no niembers.

The grace of predestination is the bond of the Churches union with the head.

A wicked and reprobate Pope and Prelate is equivocally a Pastor, and truly a thief and robber.

The Pope Mould not be called most boly.

Right election makes not him that cometh not in by Christ to have right.

Wickliss 40 Articles were unjustly condemned.

There is no spark of appearance that there must be one head in spirituals to rule thewhal e Church, that must alwayes converse with it, and be conferved.

Christ Ruled his Church better throughout the world by his true Disciples dispersed, than it is by such mon strous heads.

The Apostles and faithful Priests of the Lord, did strenuously regulate the Church in things necessary to salvation, before the Office of a Popewas introduced, and so would do, were there no Pope, to the end of the world.

There is no Civil Lord, no Prelate, no Bishop, while in mortal sin. (Of which oft before.)

These Articles are mentioned which they say were proved against him.

It is to be noted that Huss called God to witness that he never preached nor owned many of these Articles which salse witnesses brought in against him, and yet renounceth nothing that he held. And whether he or his accusers, better knew his mind and faith its case to conjecture.

They

They condemned Huss to be burnt; and condemned another Article, that any Subject may kill a Tyrant (that is, an Usurper) by any secret or open means.

Then they made an Order against Robbers of such as came to the Council, and went back.

§. 14. Seff. 16. Deputies are appointed to go to Arragen to the third remaining Pope Bened. 13. to refign; and other matters.

The Sess. 17. was an honourable dimission of the Emperour.

The Seff. 18. about the Councils Bulls, &e.

The 19. Seff. was against Hierome of Prague, where they recite a long Recantation which they say he made, and from which they said he afterward revolted.

Also the Council decreed that they might proceed against Hereticks, not-withstanding the safe conducts and promises of the Emperour, Kings, or Princes, by what Bond soever they tyed themselves therein, though the Hereticks had not appeared, but trusting herein: And that the said Emperour, Kings, &c. having done what in them lieth, are no way obliged by their promises.

The 20. Seff. Decreed a monitory against the Duke of Austria on behalf of the Bishop of Trent, about chate.

The rest was about the Ejection of Pope Benedict the 13th. They swore to certain Capitula about it.

§ 15. Hierome of Prague having recanted through fear, repented and openly professed, that he dissembled and stood to his former doctrine and was condemned.

§ 17. Scff. 39. It is decreed that there should be henceforth General Councils celebrated, One five years after this, another seven years after that, and thence forward every ten years one: Or if there fall out another Schism, then within a year, none of the contending Popes being presidents; with much more about the Councils.

Next they frame a Profession which every Elected Pope must make, viz. [That he firmly believeth and holdeth the holy Catholick Faith, according to the Traditions of the Apostles, of General Councils, and other holy Fathers, especially the eight holy General Councils, viz. Niee, Const. 2. Eph. 3. Caleed. 4. Constant. 5. and 6. Nic. 7. Constant. 8. As also the Laterane, Lugdune, and Vien. and to hold that faith unchanged in every title, and to confirm even to life and blood, defend it and predicate it, and every way to prosecute and observe the rite of Ecclesiastical Sacran ents, delievered the Catholick Church.

§ 18. Platina tells us, that Pope John was deposed only by those that had adhered to him, before the other parties came. He was kept Prisoner three years, none but Germanes, whom he understood not, attending him: Gregory died of grief, that Carolus Malatesta had too hastily published his resignation, which he hoped to frustrate by delay. Benedict resusing to relign, the Arragonians and Spaniards sortook him as obstinate. The Scot stuck last to him: Platina saith Huss and Hierome were burnt for saying that Church men should simitate Christ in poverty, when their wealth and luxury was the common Scandal. There was great joy at the choice of Martin. 5. but Rome and Italy were still in Wars and confusion.

§ 19. Gregory was preferred till he died, and this P. John so odiously described by the Council is yet after some years imprisonment made Cardinal

Bishop of Tusculum. O what Bishops then had the Church!

§ 20. For all the confirmations of this Council the decrees of a Council being above the Pope, are faid by most Papists to be unapproved, because the Council of Florence and Laterane judged the contrary to be true.

§ 21. Pope Martin found Rome decayed, Italy in Wars, and at five years end fummored his promifed Council at Papia: Few came, and the plague forced them to remove to Senæ, when Alphonsius King of Arragon sent Orators to plead the Cause of Bened. 13. whereby Martin for sear of a Schisin was fain to dissolve the Council; and appointed the next seven years after at Basil, not trusting Italy; where he had long Wars himself, as afterward he stirred up against the Bohemian Hussites, after 14 years, aged 63 died of an Apoplexy; much praised.

§ 22. CCCCLXXI. This Concilium Senense we need say no more of.

$ 23. One would have thought that after this stir one more sober Pope should have been chosen: Eugenius 4th. was the next, of whom more after. He hath presently a War and much bloodshed in the streets of Rome, with the Columnenses. Italy is still in Wars: The Pope is again assaulted: The Romans set up seven agistrates: Eugenius styeth: they pursue him with stones; he escapeth to Florence; leaveth the Cassle garded, which continued the City-War a while. The Emperor coming into Italy he would have resisted but could not, who peaceably came and went. It were tedious to relate all his and others Wars in Italy; Platina and many others do it.

The Council at Bufil beginning, he would have removed it to Bononia: The Emperour and Council resist, and threaten him, and he confirmeth it; for, saith Platina, he had scarce breathing time from vexing Wars. He recoveresth Rome (and other places) Pulcellus a Leader he hanged, when he had pull'd off his slesh with hot Pincers: He turneth his War against Alphonsus King of Arragon; the City of Preneste he utterly destroyed, as rebellious: The Council at Basil frightened him; but Sigismund dying, and Albert D. of Anstria chosen Emperour, he ventured to call it away to Ferraria. Job Paleologus contrived thither, in salse hope of succour from the West, put some Reputation on his Council: The Plague drove them to Florence; there the pretended Reconciliation of the Greeks and Latines was made, of which many Histories speak at large, especially the Greek Edition of that Flor. Council. The Wars still continued round about him: The Council at Basil deposed Engenius, and made Amadeus D. of Savoy (Spious man) Pope, called Felix 5. Engenius held on and yielded not; Blood and Murders still filling Italy: He died aged 64. An. 1447. making first twenty seven Cardinals, &c.

§. 24. CCCCLXXII. This great Council at Bifl began 143 r. and ended 1442. the Hittory of it is too large to be much recited. The Bibemians exasperated by the burning of their Teachers, and the Popes Excommunications, and the Decrees to burn them, defended themselves by Arms under Zifex, and were usually victorious: They were therefore invited to the Synod, which they received with tears of joy; but for the sake of the case of Huss and Hierome, durst not trust their sase Conduct, till after the promise of many Princes, and the Synod. They sent tisteen; the Bibemians sour daies pleaded their four Articles: '1. For the Sacrament in both kinds. 2. For correcting and eliminating publick sins, or crimes. 3. For liberty to preach

'Gods Word. 4. Of the Civil Power of the Clergy.

Job. Ragufinus answered the first, calling them Hereticks; and others todiously (many daies upon one point) answered the rest; and dispute begat dispute, and so some motioned a reconciling Conference: But they could not agree, and the Bobemians returned, and the Council sent many of their Members with them to Prague, whom the City received civilly, and heard them, exhorting them to their Opinions; but they still defired satisfaction in their four Articles. Many Debates there were, and by explication of the terms they came to understand each other, and a fair beginning of reconciliation was made; but the first Article of the Sacrament in both kinds fluck fo, that they could not get over it, though the Council confefsed that they had power to dispense in it. But though there be reason cnough for all these requests (for the opposing publick wickedness, for leave to preach Gods Word, and for Church-in ns forbearing Civil coercive Government, unless made the Magistrates Officers) yet such reasonable things are hardlier obtained than more disputable matters; because slesh and blood, worldly interest, and the Devil, is most against them: And of this great famous Council of Bilhops, after Petitions, and some good words, and hopeful approaches, they could never one of them be obtained, but tricks were devised to elude their hopes, and inconveniences pleaded that would follow such Concessions; (the ordinary way of the carnal Clergies hindering Retornation.)

§.25. The first Session being for introduction, to show their lawfalness, in the second Session they decreed, as did that at Constance, that a General Council is above the Pope, in matters of Faith, Schisme, and Resormation: And Sess. 3. that the Council may not be dissolved: And they admonsh the Pope to retract his Revocation, and to own and assist the Council.

After they declare, that the Pope may not make Cardinals, &c. during the Council.

§. 26. Seff. 22. They condemned a Book of Augustinus de Roma, a Bishop of Nazareth, that had many Phanatick Expressions; as that Christ daily sinneth in us, because of our Union with him, though sinless in himself; that only the Elect, and not all the Justified, are Members of Christ; that besides the Union of Love, there must be another Union with Christ; that the Humane Nature in Christ is truly Christ, and the Person of Christ, and the Person of the Word; that Christ loveth his Humane Nature as much as his Divine; that the two Natures are equally lovely; that the Soul of Christ seeth God as clearly as the Godhead, &c. Thus worketh the temerarious mind of man.

§. 27. Seff. 24. There is a Treaty for a more General Council and Union with the Greeks; and the place affigned at Basil, Avignion, or Savoy; and to destray the charges, money to be gathered of Christians, who, if they give as much as will keep their houses a Week, are rewarded with the pardon of all their fins, where the liberality of their Pardons is expounded; viz. it is only the pardon of such sins de quibus corde contriti, & ore confess such these are pardoned on a surther condition, that besides this money given, they do for a year sast one day every Week more than else they were obliged to do by the Church; and if they be Clerks, say every such day seven Psalms, or a Mass; if Laicks, seven Pater; Nosters, and seven Ave Maries: And if it had not been for the Bishops, might not a contrite Confessor have been certainly pardoned without such sormalities.

§. 28. In divers following Sessions they profecute Pope Eugenius, and declare the Council at Ferrary to be but a Schismatical Conventicle, and they establish these Catholick Verities, or Articles of Faith.

Sess. 33. 1. That a General Council representeth the whole Church, and hath its power immediately from Christ, and that over the Pope, and every other person; and that this is a truth of Catholick Faith.

2. That such a Council lawfully congregate, may not without their own consent be dissolved, prorogued, or transferred; and that this is an Article of Catholick Faith.

3. That a pertinacious repugner of these Verities is to be judged a Heretick.

§. 29. Seff. 34. They depose Pope Eugenius as a sentenced, notorious, obstinate persisting Rebel against the Precepts of the Universal Church, and a daily violater and contemner of the Canons, a notorious perturber of the Peace and Unity of the Church of God, and a notorious scandalizer of the whole Church, a notorious Simonist, incorrigible perjured person, devious from the Faith, a pertinacious Heretick, with much more such.

$.30. Here

§.30. Here I would crave the Readers consideration: 1. If this extraordinary Great Council érred in all these matters of fact, whether the judgment of a Council be a good proof of the Papists sort of Tradition?

2. If they erred in these Articles of Faith, whether it weaken not both their Tradition and grounds of their faith; and whether such an heretical perjured Popes consent would have made them Infallible?

3. Whether their General Councils be not contradictory de fide, as this, and that at Florence and Lateran expressly are.

4. Whether a great part of the Church of Rome, and their last named Councils, be not Hereticks in the judgment of this Council?

5. Seeing Pope Engenius continued when the Council had deposed him as a Simonist, and perjured pertinacious Heretick, and all their following succession is from him, is there not a nullisy in that succession?

$.31. Seff. 36. They decreed the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary, as a point of Faith; and yet many of their Doctors take it yet as undetermined, and many still are of the contrary mind.

§.32. After this follow Decrees about Election of a Pope, and they make the Duke of Savoy Pope, Felix 5. and so we have two Popes again.

Onuphrius calls this the thirtieth Schisme: He continued Pope above nine years, and then refigned to Eugenius for Peace. Sess. last: They recite the Herches of Pope Eugenius, as against the foresaid Verities.

§. 33. Next is added the Bull of Pope Niebolas the 5. approving the Acts and deeds of the Council at Bafil: And then are divers Synodical Epifiles at d Answers, specially proving Councils above the Pope, and against his Crimes, and of the justness of his deposition, very large; as also against his Conventicle Council, and against his Adherents, that is, most of their Church since, with Answers to his Invectives, and Monitories to draw men from his obedience. In the Appendix are many more Episiles and Orations, and a Treatise of the Patriarch of Antioch, to prove the Pope above Councils. There are many Epistles of the Pope against the Council, and of the Emperour to the Council, and of many other Princes.

$.34. The Bohemians Epistles place their main cause upon the four fore-mentioned Articles: 'I. The Sacrament in both kinds. II. That the Word of 'God may be freely, publickly, and truly preached by those that it belongeth to. '(for they were silenced, &c.) III. That Civil Dominion (they mean not all 'Propriety but Power of the Sword or force over mens Estates and persons, 'which is the Magistrates) as a deadly poyson be taken from the Clergy, (they 'spake from feeling.) IV. That publick, and great or beyonus sins, may be extirpated from among the vulgar of the faithful by lawful Powers. This was the Religion of the Bohemians, and the denying of these was the cause of all their cruel Persecutions, and the blood there thed.

§. 35. In confutation of these Demands are adjoyned four Treatists of the four Preachers that spake against them: What Cause so great or plain, that men cannot talk against with many and considered words. I. Joh. Razusius acknowledged the regulating sufficiency of the Scripture, hath hath an Ocation (a Treatife) against the Sacrament in both kinds.

II. Azidius Carberius Decanus Cameracenfis hatha Treatife (four days Oration) against their request, for correcting beynous publick fins; where much learning and reading is poured out, to fave fin: And in particular it is maintained, that the Clergy may not be punished by the Laity (some few cases excepted) not being therein their Subjects. (It seems the Bobemians would have had wicked Priests punished) And it is specially pleaded, that no wickedness of Clergy or Laity will warrant any Nation to separate from their Unity (that is, Roman Government;) and to that end, the badness of the Church Militant to be endured is described.

When he cometh to the Popes pardons, he denieth that Pardons à culpâ & pana are usually the Popes stile; whereas I have before cited their express words to speaking often: And he honestly maintaineth out of the School-men, that God only can give pardon à culpâ, save as any Priess as instrumentum animatum may vi clavium dispose the receiver, and declare Gods pardon, and remit part of the temporal punishment; but sometimes the Pope remitteth part of the Church penances, and so it is that Priests are said to forgive fins. (Mark this, against our present Papists, that reproach the Protestants for this Doctrine.)

III. Next is Henr. Kalteisen, a Dominican Inquisitors Oration against the free preaching of Gods Word by Ministers: (for this would have undone the Pope and his Clergy:) The Bohomians whom he confuteth, maintained: '1. That Gods Word is so perfect, that nothing should be added or dimi-'nished. 2. That the wickedness of Priests is the great cause of the peo-'ples ruine. 3. Against Venial sin as against Gods Counsels differing from Laws. 4. That every Priest and Deacon is bound to preach Gods Word 'freely, or else fins mortally; and after Ordination he should not cease '(that is, when he was forbidden by filencing Bishops, or others) no not ' when excommunicated, because he must obey God rather than man; and ' that Bishops are bound to preach as well as Presbyters.

The Answer first noteth, that Papa non est nomen Ordinis sed Furisdictionis; that Gods Word is Incarnate, inspired, written; that it is expounded by the same Spirit that inspired it: (But hath the Pope the same gifts of that Spiric?) That the Inspired Word is publick or private; that the Bishops Decrees in Councils are Gods publick inspired Word: 'see here the Enthusiastical pretence of Episcopal Inspiration, is the ground of all the Roman Usurpations and tyrannies, and deposition of Princes) to them he appliesh. He that heareth yeu, heareth me; whence he gathereth the danger of disobeying that Council (and so the Popes Heresie.) The rest is worth the reading, but too long for me to repeat: Much of it is to shew, that Reading and Mailing is more needful than Preaching, and that every Priest that Masseth is not bound to Preach; there needeth many Mass-Priesls, and not to many Preachers; and that filenced excommunicated Priefls are bound to ceafe preaching, and obey the Prelates: But he had the wit to add (if filenced for a reasonable cause) and to confess that Sententia injuste lata à suo judice si er-rorem inducat, vel peccatum mortale afferet, nec timenda est nec tenenda.

Pag. 364. He denieth that it is any Precept of Christ: i. To receive the Cup, 2. Or that Priests Preach, 3. Orto abolish all mortal sin, 4. Or for the Clergy not to be Civil Governours, &c.

IV. Joh. de Polecnar Archdiacon. Barcinon. hath a Treatise of three days speech for the Civil Power of the Clergy, in which he missspendeth much time in disputing for their Propriety, when as the Bibenians took Dominion for Empire, or civil forcing power of Government, and for inordinate possessions of Lordships and great wealth.

§. 36. The Papiths confess that this Council was Universal, and rightly called and confirmed; but they pretend that it was partly reprobate by the Popes removal of the Council, and that Pope Nieholas 5, approved it but in part. It began 1431, and continued above eleven years.

§. 37. CCCCLXXIII. An. 1438. A Council at Bridger concurred with this at Bafil, making the Pragmatical Sanction, decreeing that a General Council be called every ten years, and confirming the Council at Bafil.

§. 38. CCCCLXXIV. Next cometh the Anti-Council at Ferrary and Florence, where the attempt for Union with the distressed Greeks was made, all the passages whereof are so fully opened in the Greeks History, published by Dr. Creighton, that I shall say no more of it.

Here note, that there were two General Councils at once; and how could they both (or either of them) be truly Universal: The Papists call it the fixteenth.

6.39. After many Wars, Eugenius the deposed Pope died, An. 1447. (having made twenty seven Cardinals (against the Council of Bisses Decrees) from whom is their succession) and Niebslas the 5. succeeded him: Italy still continued in bloody Wars; Pope Falix at last resigned; and so there was once more but one Pope. And that you may see still how far the Pope was from governing all the World, the City of Rome was again seeking to recover their Liberties, and had a Plot against him, one Steph. Hireanius being the Chief, and the Pope secured himself by hanging many of them.

§ 40. The Emperour of Constantinople, and those Bishops that pretended a Union with Rome, in hope of help, found the people and Clergy there utterly averse to come under the Pope, and they had no help from him, nor any of their desired successes; for now the Turks took the City, and killed the Emperour, and many thousands more, and 1455, the Pope died.

§ 41. CCCCLXXV. A Council at Tours about Church Orders decreed praying oft for the dead, forbad Clandestine Marriages, and Missing in unconfecrated places, &c.

§. 42. CCCCLXXVI. A Synod at Lyons to end the Schisins between the two Popes done by the Emperour Frederick, who defired King Charles concurrence.

§.43. An. 1455: Calintus the 3. is made Pope; he raiseth a Sea Army against the Turks, the Patriarch of Aquilia being Captain: Rone was still in War: He claimed the Kingdome of Naples to the Church for want of Heirs; an Anti-Pope was also made, called Clement 8. but being perswaded to resign, he accepted a Bishoprick: Many Cities in Italy ruined by Earthquakes, whose ruines Platina saith he saw with admiration: He made a new Holy-day for Christs Transfiguration.

6. 44. Next cometh Æness Sylvius, called Pius 2. one of the most learned of all the Popes, especially an Orator: He was against the Pope for the superiority of Councils at Basil; but when he was made Pope, he recanted it. In his Epissle to his Father he excuseth himself for having a Bastard, and for fornication, (particularly with an English Woman that lodged in the same house with him) telling him, that he was not an Eunuch, and remembering his Father what a Cock of the Game he had been himself; but among the Popes he was a wonder of worthinels: He was vehement for a War with the Turks, but could not so far quench the flames of War at his own doors in Italy, and other Christian Countries, as to accomplish it. Platina recordeth many of his Sentences, among which are: [Every Sect established by Authority, is void of humane reason: If the Christian Religion had not been approved by Miracles, it should have been received for its honesty: The Mortals measures of Heaven and Earth are more bold than true: Astronomy is more pleafant than profitable: The Friends of God are happy here and hereafter: There is no folid joy without virtue: They that know most, doubt most: Artificial Orations move fools; not wise men : As all Rivers flow into the Sea, so all Vices into great mens Courts: Flatterers rule Kings as they lift: Princes hear none so readily as accusers: The tongue of a flatterer is the worst plague to a King: He that ruleth many, is ruled by many: He is unworthy the name of a King, who measureth the publick affairs by his own commodity, &c. Ill Physitians kill bodies, and unskilful Priest's souls: Virtues enrich the Clergy, Vice impoverisheth them: Marriage was for great reasons forbidden Priests, and for greater is to be restored to them: He that too much pardoneth his Son, cherisheth his Enemy: The covetous never tlease men, but by dying: Lying is a servile vice, &c.

You may see his Recantation in Binius, where his Dignity raised him so high as to say, That the Greek and Latin Doctors with one voice say, that he cannot be saved that holdeth not the Unity of the Roman Church, and all those Virtues are maimed to him that refuseth to obey the Pope, though lying in sackeloth and ashes he sast and pray day and night, and seem in other things to fulfill the Law of God, because obedience is better than sacrifice, and every soul must be subject to the higher power; and it is manifest that the Pope of Rome is placed in the top (or Crown) of the Church, from which (his power of Government) we know that no Sheep of Christ at all is exempted.

Other how much worse is the case of the Abassines, Armenians, Greeks, Protestants, even three sourth parts of the Christian World, than of the Heathens, being all certainly damned for not believing in the Pope: How much more necessary to Salvation is it to please and honour the Pope, than any Angel or Saint in Heaven? But how salse is it that the Greek and Latine Fathers all agree in this?

§. 45. Paulus

8. 45. Faulus 2. Succeedeth Pins, a man just and element, saith Plating himself; yet, saith he, before he was Pope, he could get what he would by begging, even with tears, of the Pope and great men: And when he was Pope, all about him founded with Wars, and Benefices were theirs that would give most for them; and in his fears some-body muttering, that one Callimachus had a Plot against him, he set all on tumult to find out the Conspirators, when there was no such thing: He had before cast out of their places all the Colledge of Abbreviates that had bought their places under Pius, of whom Platina being one, and not getting Audience and relief, wrote him a Letter, that they would go to Frinces, and get a Council called to relieve them: For this he was accused of Treason, and laid in Irons by a long imprisonment: And after his release, upon this Dream of a Plot, he and many more were not only imprisoned, but tortured and tormented to force them to confess that which never was: Many died of the torments, even of the worthieft young men of the City. After a long time poor Platina with a broken body is delivered, but the Prisoners at last were accused of Herefie, that they might not feem to have suffered for nothing: Platina's Herefie was, that he had praifed Plate, and the Gentile Learning, and had disputed about the Godhead, which was a questioning it; and the Pope himself was so much against Learning, that he used to call studious men Hereticks, and to perswade men that their Sons must learn nonlore than to read and write. Here Platina endeth his History; and had he known other Popes as well as he did this, perhaps he would have praised their Fustice and Clemency, as he doth this Pope, by the effects.

6.46. Sixtus 4. is next, who also spent his days in Italian War and bloodshed: Wonderful! that our late Papisls think that all the Christian World hath still obeyed the Pope, when none have so much sought against him as the City of Rome, and the Italians: Onuphrius (who here beginneth the Supplement of Platina) tells you modefully of his Wars, and his horrid treachery against the Florentines, when to get his will on them, he appointeth Conspirators to murder the two Brothers, Julian and Laurence Medices, of whom the Archbishop of Pifa was one: They assault them in Gods Worship in the Temple, and kill Julian; but Laurence wounded, is lockt up by the Church-Wardens in the Vestry; The Citizens rose before the Execution could be finished, and hanged the Archbishop, and Poggins and all their Companions in Ropes out at the Windows, firangling also the rest of the Conspirators. The Popes Plot being disappointed, he maketh War against the Florentines, and interdicteth them all publick worship: (the Popes ordinary profane Usurpation, forbidding whole Cities and Kingdorres all fuch publick worship of God, which Robert Groshead said was the part of Antichrift, and the Devil.) The wildome of Laurence Medices ended the War when it feemed near the confuming flames; and the Turks invading Italy, terrified the Pope into a peace with the Florentines: But fill Italy was imbrued in Wars.

6, 47. Though the Council of Bafil had determined the Immaculate

Min in

Concep-

Conception of the Virgin Mary, yet this Pope to reconcile the Dominicans and Franciscans that preached against each other as Hereticks for differing about it, did decree, that on pain of Excommunication neither Party should call one another Hereticks for it: By which it appeareth how little indeed the Decrees de fide of General Councils lignitie with Popes themfelves when their Interest is against them.

6. 48. CCCCLXXVIII. A Toletane Synod renewed divers good Canons for reforming the Clergy; as that none be ordained that cannot fpeak Latine; to diminish the Priests maintenance that still publickly keep Concubines; that Clergy-men play not at Tables, and fuch like.

6. 49. Next comes Innocent 8. the Italian Wars continuing: He raised an Army to get the Kingdome of Naples as his own; but being beaten, and repenting, he made peace; yet after again deposed the King for not paying him his Rent: He ruled those at Rome and Italy that he could conquer, as

6. 50. Alexander the 6. is next, who (faith Onuphrius) having four Bathe rest of the Popes did before him-

flard-Sons, and two Daughters, fet himfelf wholly to make them great: The Cardinals bribed, chose him that was the worst of them all, and justly were destroyed by him: The old Italian Wars now ran in the proper Channel: Cæsar Brigia, one of the Popes Bastards, being a Cardinal, laid by his holy Order, and fet himself to conquer all the Princes of Italy: Hiltorians fill a Volume with his Acts, the cruel murders of Princes and people, furprize of Cities, basest treachery, too long to be by me recited: He murdered his own Brother, many of the chief of Rome, and got possession of most of Italy, killing the former Lords, and their Sons: The Vosin overthrew his Army, and the Pope flattered them with confident promifes into a Peace, till they foolithly trusting him, he got them into his power, and inurdered them: Some Cardinals the Pope commanded to drink poyfon, and at last having more great men to dispatch, Cardinals and Citizens at a purposed Feast, the Pope ordered his Butler to prepare poysoned Wine for them, and militaking the Cup, he gave it to the Pope, and his Son Cafar: The Pope died of it; but Cafar being young, and diluting his Wine, was recovered, but his Army hereby scattered. If you would see the History of this Monsters cruelties, read Paulus Jovius: I recite now but what Onuphrius faith, who concludeth that this Popes Virtues were equal to his Vices. (so far goeth a little in a Pope) and yet that he had the greatest persidiousness, savage cruelty, unmeasurable covetousness and rapacity, inexhausted lust of getting Empire to his Son by right or wrong, when business permitted, giving up himself to all pleasure without difference, but most given to Women, by whom he had four Sons, and two Daughters; the chief was Vannocia Romana. whom he kept as his lawful Wife, for her beauty, alluring manners, and marvellous fruitfulnes: His Comedies, Sports, Gladiators, he mentioneth more fully: Never was there greater license to Hickers and Murdirers, and never less liberty to the people: A huge number of Informers (or Accusers;) death was the punishment of the least ill word (against him;) all places were full of robbers or affaulters, so that there was no safe going in the City by night, nor out of it by day; Rome that was the refuge and sanctuary of all other people heretofore, was now become a Slaughter-house, or Butchery. Thus Onuphrius of a virtuous Pope.

$.51. The Pope being dead, Cafar Borgia seizeth on the Cassle, and would have forced the Cardinals (being yet sick of his poyson himself;) but by the rising of the people his Souldiers are stopt, and he agreed to depart, and Pins 3. is chosen, said to be one of the better sort, but lived but 26 days, and died of a fore Leg, suspected to be poysoned.

§. 52. Next cometh Julius 2. a Military Pope, who spent his days in Italian Wars, especially against Alphonsus Duke of Ferrary, and Ludovicus King of France: In a cruel Battel 20000 are faid to be flain near Ravenna, the French having the Victory, but losing their General, and multitudes of Nobles and Commanders, and were so weakened, that by hired Helvetians, and the English and Spanish that invaded them at home, they were driven and drawn back.

$. 53. CCCCLXXVIII. A Council at Tours in France met against the Pope.

§. 54. CCCCLXXIX. A General Council at Fisa 1511. gathered against him to call him to account: He had sworn to call a Council within two years, and did not; and so some Cardinals call it, by the Emperour Maximilian and Ludov. K. of France his will (as they said.) The Pope excommunicates the King of France, and calleth an Anti-Council to Rome; this of Pifa removed first to Millan, and then to Lyons in France.

6.55. CCCCLXXX. Now cometh the great Anti-Council at the Lateran, which they call the feventeenth approved General one, 1512. begun by Inline against the Pifane Council, and ended 1517. under Leo 10. The Pope thought Rome the fafest place to rule them, and obtain his will; and for all the numerous Bishops of Italy, this General Council had but 114. Bishops: Qu. Whether any of them came from Abassia, Egypt, Armenia, Greece, or the Antipodes, and were the Representatives of all the Christian World? yet they had a dull cheat herein to deceive the ignorant, and put the name of the Alexandrinian and Antiochian Patriarch on two Fellows of their own, as in a Play the parts of Princes are acted by the Stage-players: But when the Monothelites had a Council of innumerable Bilhops under Philippieus, that was not to be called General. He that is so idle may read a Volumn of the twelve Setlions of this Council, and there find who faid Mass fuch a day, and who fuch a day, and who fung a Gospel and Te Deum, and fuch like: And he may read divers Orations, among which their great learned Cajetane's is the chief, condemning the Pifane Council, and confelfing that of the three Popes, Nullus eorum aut certus quidem aut absque ambiguitate verus Petri suecessor existimaretur: Another Oration by Christopher Marcellus, Sess. 4. tells the Pope that he is, [Unus Princeps qui summam in terris habet potestatem, teque omnis avi, omnium saculorum, omnium gentium Principem & eaput appellat \ tante reipublice unious & supremus Princeps es, cai summa data potestas, ad divinum injunctum im crium, tuum est. He calls the Mmm 2 Church Church his Spouse, and saith, he hath given falutem vitam & spiritum, and saith, that he is alter Deus in terris. You see what Popes are.

The business of that Council was to frustrate that at Pifa, and condemn in; and so to save the Pope, and to condemn the French pragmatical Sanction, as injurious to the Roman power; to which end they read a Renunciation of it, of Ludovicus 2. to Pope Pius 2.

Pope Julius died, and Leo 10. was chosen in the milst of the Councils.

§. 56. One Decree here past which nulleth utterly the Papal Succession, vizz Sest. 5. (That a Simoniacal Election of a Roman Pope is plainly null, and doth confer no Right or Authority to the elected) which is plainly declarative; therefore when they confess the Simoniacal Election of so great a number of their Popes successively, where is the true succession.

§ 57. In the eighth Seff. a Decree past against them that say the Soul is mortal, or that it is but one in all or many: And they consute the truth, by pretending to consirm it, saying, that the Soul is per se of effentialiter formation corporis: For then the separated Soul loseth its essence, and so is no Soul, or elle is forma corporis, when corpus is not corpus organicum.

For the cure of this, they decree that none fludy Philosophy above five years, unless they joyn Divinity with it: And they forbid Printing and Preaching unlicenfed.

6.58. This Lee the tenth was excellently prepared for the Papacy; Warshald disposses his Father at Florence, and the King. of France; Lewis 11. for his Fathers sake, had honoured (or dishonoured) him with an excellent and rich Archbishoprick, when he was a Child: You may conjecture at what age, when as he was scarce thirteen when Innocent 8. made him a Cardinal, to gratishe his Father Laurence Medices, who had given his Daughter to Francis the Popes Son; but because of his Non-age, he staid yet from Rome:

When he was Pope, he would sain have had peace in Italy if he could, being,

ing wholly addicted to ease and voluptuousness: He hired the Helzetimes for his Militia against Francis King of France, but they were destroyed by the French and the Pope was glad at last to beg a peace. Having unbounded desires of Empire, he pickt a quarrel with the Duke of Urbane, and affaulted him with Arms, and dispossest him of his Country, whence he fled. and ungratefully banished Doriflans, and his Brother Alphonfus a Cardinal. who studying revenge, was destroyed by him: The Pope sought to insnare the Duke of Ferrary, but failed; the French in Italy conquer the Emperour and Heluctians; the Turk winneth Syria and Egypt; the Pope fits bare-foor to pray against him, bringing forth all the Confecrated Dithes, the Saints Relicks, Images, &c. in pomp, and the Tyrant prefently died of a Cancer: The Pope falleth on divers Cardinals; Cardinal Alphonfus he imprisoneth, and appointeth a Black impor to break out his Chamber, and strangle him : Having hereby loft the love of many of the old ones, in one day he maketh one and thirty new Cardinals, that he may be fure of help; Paulus Baleon he beheaded, Amadeus Ricinatius he harged: It was this Pope that is commonly faid to have faid to Pet. Bembus his Secretary, What profit doub this Fable of Jesus bring us in.

$. 59. But now begins the fatal time, Anno 1517. Marin Luther began . to cry down their fin, and draw the people of Germany from them; and Zuinglius, and many others doing the fame, the light brake forth, and the darknets vanished. I need not write the Hittory of it, which is to commonly known or published: The Pope published a Bull against him, in which · he numbereth his supposed Errours; you may see them in Binius, p.ag. 653. in Les the tenths life, how John Frederick Elector of Saxony bore Lumber out, how Philip of Haffin feconded him, how the University of Wutenberge clave to him, and especially Philip Melancibon, that excellent man; how the Free Cities, with many Princes, came in to them, and joyned; how many Petitions and Disputations there were about it; how the Angultine Confession was written, and the Apology for it; how it turned to a War; how the Elector of Saxony, and Philip Landgrave of Haffia, were taken prifoners; how Maurice of Saxony, fiding with the Emperour, was made Elector, and John Frederick, disposich; how the same Mancice after, to vindicate Pbilip of Haffia, took Arms against the Emperour, and forced him to flight, and finally to some degree of toleration for the Protesiants. All these things the History of the Reformation, written by divers, telleth you at large; as also how many great and excellent Divines were suddenly raifed up to fland for Reformation, as foon as Tyranny was to tar abated as that men might freely thew their minds, it foon appeared that most had beenlong subjugated to the Pope more by violence than by consent: when the Emperour was necessitated to a Toleration, he consulted for some abatement to procure Concord, and by Agricola, Sidmius, and Ju ius Pfley (and Antinomian turned back to Popery) drew up a middle form of worthip, called the Interim, which he would have all conform to till a General Council, which divided the Reformers among themfelves, while fome as modurate; and to avoid total ruine of the Church, yielded to part, and others refu. fed, and multitudes of Ministers were therefore tjected and perfecuted. This great Emperour, Charles the Fifth, after long Wars, and many Victorics, and tharp Perfecutions, was at latt weary of all, and refigned his Empire, and betook himself to a private life in Spain, where he died, strongly suspected of repentance and inclination to the Reformed Doctrine himself: He bequeathed nothing (as was ufual) to any Religious House, or Order: There were found papers about him for the Protestant Dostrine of Justincation; his Confessor, and another Doctor that attended him, were hereupon suspected of Heresie, and one persecuted, and the other put to death by the Inquisition. Thus errour, fin, and worldly violence are never true to the smelves, but must be repented of at last, and none can stand to them nals, exercifed many cruelties, and made a League with the Emperour against the French, to drive them out of Italy, when his Arms had prevailed, and the Freneh were expelled, and Milan recovered, and some Cities reflored to the Church (that is, to the Pope) the excessive joy for the Victory fo n.oved him, that (faith Ounphrius) he fell into a Fever, of which he died, but not without suspition of poyson. The same Onuphrius (whom I follow) faith, that (he was a diligent observer of divine things, given to the sacred Ceremonies, but he was profusely given to Voluptuousness, Hunting, Hawking, Luxury, splendid Feastings, Musick, and to get money sold Cardinalships, invented Offices, &c. and yet was the most liberal of all the Popes that ever had lived to that day, excessively loving Musick, &c.) This was Papal Piety, by which he merited a Monument inscribed OPTIMO PRINCIPI LEONIX. &c. faith Onuphrius: (In all his life he defired nothing more ardently than the highest glory of liberality, from which other Priests use to be very far eff.) Perhaps for this glory Tecelius must get money by selling Pardons, which began his fall: Verily they have their remard, faith Christ of Hypocrites, that do their Alms to be seen of men.

6.61. It is to be noted, that as the great ignorance and wicked lives of the Roman Clergy were the great advantage to Luthers success, (as the gross idolatry and wickedness of Heathens was to Christianity of old) and the Learning and Piety of the Reformers were the means of their common acceptance; so hereupon the Papacy perceived a necessity of greater Learning, and some Reformation, for its own defence from utter ruine: whereupon many were awakened, and addicted to feek Learning, and some Provincial Councils made some Canons for amending the Clergies lives; so that their encrease of Learning, and some amendment of manners, was occasioned by the Protestants; yea, the Popes themselves have since then been far less vicious and turbulent than before.

§, 62. And all Christian Princes have cause to be thankful to the Reformers, and to acknowledge that from them they have now the fafety of their Crowns and Dignities, and their peace; and by them, of Subjects,

they

they are restored to a great degree of freedome, I mean even those that yet are Papists, the Pope dare not now damn them as Henrician Hereticks, as he long had done; he dare not be so bold in taking away, and giving Kingdomes; he dare not execute his Laws against Princes Investitures, nor excommunicate them, and depose them, and absolve their Subjects, nor interdict whole Kingdomes, and thut up Church doors, nor to much as openly profess that he hath power from God, and S. Peter, to depose Kings according to their Merits, and to fet up others in their flead. O how much quieter is Italy, Spain, France, Germany, &c. lince the Reformation, and how much less troubled with Papal terrours and wars, than heretofore; and all is for fear lest if the Pope should anger them, the rest of the Princes should forfake him. Hercrofore if one Kingdome flood up against the Pope, the rest were ready blindly to obey his Commands, to fall upon them and destroy them: But now the Reformed Nations have more thrength to defend themselves, and those that thall joyn with them: The truth is, it is Reformation that buth made even the Papists Princes Free-men.

§ 63. The History of all the Roman horrid bloody cruelties, by which they laboured to suppress Reformation, I here omit, because (as it well deserveth) it is written in many large volumns by it self: I mean the bloody murders of the Albigenses, Waldenses, Bohemians, the cruelties of the Inquisition in Spain, Belgia and other parts: The Massacre in France. The barning people in England and the murders in Ireland, and in other countries: you may read them at large in many Histories: In Thuanus, Sleidan, Illerieus, Morney, Perin, Moreland, the Belgian, and French Histories: Foxe's Acts and Monuments, and summarily in Mr. Sam. Clerks Martyrology: And Carion, Melantion, Micreleus, D. Pareus, Vignerius, Scullaus, Bueholeer, Fuasiius, and many others give you an account of the Reformation. And the Lives of the German Divines, written by Melehior Adamnes, yea and of their Lawyers, Physicians and Philosophers, giveth not an unpleasant light into that History: So that for me here to treat of the Reformation in a large volumn (to do what is so often done already) would be incongruous.

The making of Urban the 6th. the Emperours Schoolmaster Pope, and the Wars in his time; The Succession of Clement the 7th. and the Italian wars in his time, between the Emperour and the French and others, and the taking of Rome by the Emperour (Charles the 5th.) army under Charles Duke of Bourbon, and all the progress of their broils, Historians have at large recorded; and therefore I shall pretermit.

6 64. The day before Charles the 5th. was chosen Emperour, the Senate of Electas chose John Frederick Duke of Saxony; but he ingentianimo recusarii, refused it; and being asked whom he thought most eligible, he said none but Charles was sit. For this noble mind, he was offered 30000 Florens of money, which he constantly rejected: And when they urged him that 10000 night begiven to his servants, he said, let them that will take it, but he that taketh any shall not stay to morrow with me, and taking horse went his waies, lest they surther troubled him: Thus saith Erismus, Epist. 113.

ep. 4. I was affured of by the Eishop of Liege that was present] See Bucholt-zar Chronol. p. 533.

& 65. The Reformation forced the Germin Bishops to make many reforming Canons, at Colen, &c. Among those of an Augustine Synod our own strike about communicating maketh me think of no loss of time to recite their Catalogue of persons that were to be denied the Sacrament of Communion, viz. as followeth.

1. Heathens, Infidels and Hereticks. 2. The Excommunicate. 3. All men at a time of common Interdict. 4. Men that go from their own Pariflies for it. 5. Those that are under age : And diffracted, possessed, Ideots. 6. Those that are troubled with crudity of flomacks (till cured.) 7. Infamous persons, as Juglers, Players, Jesters, &c. 8. Women that wear Mens apparel. 9. Separatifts and Conventiclers. 10. The Sect of the Beggars of Lyons. 11. The superfittions. 12. Those that have not contrition and confession, living in sin. 13. That live in notorious wickedness, as Adultery Usury, &c. till their actual reformation. 14. Deferters of Marriage unallowed. 15. Those that play much at Dice. 16. That are given to drunkenness, gluttony, comessations, spend daies in Taverns; And it they amend not they are to be put to death. 17. That detain other mens goods. 18. That break and spoil Temples. 19. That encroach on others lands and grounds. 20. Servants that being corrected refuse their duty to their Master after it - 21. They that use false weights and meafures. 22. That pay not Tythes. 23. That delay to execute Testaments. 24. That obstinately despise the Customes of the Church, and meet elsewhere. 25. That disturb the Preachers, or go out of Church contemptuoutly. 26. That will not hear Mass and stay the end. 27. That use unneccifary labour on the Lords day or holy daies. 28. That marry fecretly. 29. That flothfully or contemptuously refuse to learn the Lords prayer, and Creed. 30. That blaspheme or prophanely swear. 31. That reproach and dishonour Pricsts. 32. Murderers, Enemies, revengetul and oppressors. 33. That preserve not carefully their Childrens Lives. 34. That make Laws against Church Liberties, or Judge by such Laws, or lay burdens and exactions on Churchmens persons or goods. 35. Those that judge that money received on Usury is not to be reffored.

A 66. The Reformers accusations of the Popish Clergy had this effect, to make them confess many of their faults, especially drunkenness, and Whoredome, as being the cause of the peoples distaste and desertion; see the Orations at the Councils of Augusta, and Trevers; and the Council at Trevers made strict Canons against them, especially for removing Concubines from the Priests. And one at Colen 1549. is large for some reformation; but especially careful to keep out true Retormation, forbidding the books of Protostants by name. Among other things they sorbid baptizing Children in private houses, except Kings Children, &c. And another Council at Mentz hath the whole sum of the Roman Doctrine and Discipline at the best, save the matters of the Papacy; and these late provincial Councils made Canons in the frame of them, not much of our English Canons and our Articles of Religion set together. And another Council at Trevers repeateth their disciplinary Canons in part, and addeth more.

1 § 67. The History and Canons of the Council of Trent are sufficiently published; and Pope Pius his Oath conjoyned; so that I need not speak of that which I intend not to make any part of the matter of this Epitome, which extendeth but to the time of Luthers Reformation.

68. Even after the Reformation, the Pope could not live in Italy without fighting: Pope Julius the 3d, fought with Octavius Farnesius at Parma; Pope Paul tought with the King of Spain: but was beaten: He set sixteen Cardinals over the Inquisition (the desence of his Kingdome): He imprisoned Cardinal Morrovius suspected of heresie, absolved after by Pope Pius the 4th. who yet strangled Caraffa, and beheaded Cardinal Leonard, Count Montarius, &c.

& 69. Cardinal Charles Borrhomeus (sainted by them) at divers Millane Councils shewed a great deal of Reforming, and some deforming zeal. In the first Council I shall note that they decreed that men once admitted to the Communion, and returning to their fin, be no more admitted till the Priest see that they have actually reformed their lives. And that before any young persons first receive, they shall some dayes be examined, and taught the use and reason of the Sacrament, Priests notoriously criminal must not fay Mass till they amend their lives. No Physician must give physick to any after four dayes fickness that is not confest to the Priest (on pain of excommunication). Bishops are forbidden to stand when Princes sit, no not for faying Grace at meat: nor otherwise to depress and abject themselves to Princes. Parish Priests must have a book of the Names, Sex, Age, and State of every Parishioner. Whores are to dwell in their assigned places, and to be known by their apparel from others. Dancing, Playes, Dice, Selling, &c. forbidden on the Lords dayes and holy dayes. Indeed the Roman Religion was never let out with greater advantage of piety and reformation than in the copious Decrees of Carolus Borrhomeus in the Milan Councils; To which a Council at Aquileis added, cudeth Binnius his History of Councils.

$70. In all this History of Councils, Bishops and Patriarchs it appears that Corruptio optimi of pessions; As the sacred Ministry in pious humble wise, peaceable and sincere men both been Gods great means of planting, ordering, preserving and encreating his Church, and converting, edifying, and saving Souls, and such to the day are as Paul called Timothy (not the Church) (A Pillar and Basis of the truth in the Church, which is the House of the Living God) the Husbandmen that still cultivate the Vineyard of the Lord, while with self-denial, and faith, and h-avenly minds, they labour to promote holy WISDOME, LOVE, SPIRITUALITY and PEACE, abhoring pride and worldly designs, and being mossly little noted in the Historics of the Church, as not appearing in the turbulent and publick affairs of the world: so contrarity Pride, and worldliness, seeking Dominion.

favour and wealth, to feed also sensuality with stelly pleasure, by Satans great diligence have corrupted facred Societies, Doctrine, Worship, Discipline and Conversation, and when the Prince of pride and darkness, the God of this World, could not directly expugne Christianity, he hath under pretence of Government, Unity, and Advancement to the Church, fet his Malignant Ministers in the Chairs and Pulpits of the Church to do his work, and fight down piety, love and peace in the name of Christ, and as it were by h's Authority; and instead of persecuting Heathens, Satan hath fet up contentions, dividing, and filencing, and persecuting Prelates, to finite the true Shepherds, and scatter the Flocks; and as for Faith and Order, to tread down the true life of Faith, Love and Order, and to be the Capital Enemics of the Church, while they would make themselves its Heads, Advancers and Defenders; so that the chief good and the chief mischief hath come to the Church by the means of the Patlors: And no Schismes, no Herefies, no Perfecutions have been more grievous, than those that have been caused by a tyrannical and contentious Clergy; witness all the Conciliary Episcopal Schismes, Wars, and Bloodshed mentioned in this Collection; witness the many hundred thousand Albigenses, Waldenses, and Bobemians murdered, as for the Faith and Church; witness the 30000. or 40000. at once anurdered at the French Maffacre; witness the horrid cruelties of the Inquilition; witness the Volumes of burned and otherwise murdered Protestants; and witness the Irish Zeal stirr'd up by their Clergy, that murdered two hundred thousand in so narrow a room as that small Country, and in so few Weeks: And whoever is the Antichrist, certainly in Rome, and the Militant Tyrannical Church-Clergy is found the blood of the Saints, and Martyrs of Iefus; and as proud contentious Patriarchs and Prelates ruined Religion and the Empire in the East, and gave it up to Mahometan darknefsand cruelty, so have they under the name of Christianity impugned the Christian Interest in the West. I end with G. Heebert:

> Only the West and Rome do keep them free From this contagious infidelity: And this is all the Rock whereof they boast, As Rome will one day find unto her cost; Sin being not able to extirpate quite The Churches here, bravely resolv'd one night To be a Church man, and to wear a Mitre, The old debauched Rushian would turn Writer: I saw him in his Study, where he sate Busie in controversie sprung of late: A Gown and Pen became him wondrous well, His grave aspect had more of Heaven than Hell; Only there was a handsome picture by, To which he lent a corner of his eye: As Sin in Greece a Prophet was before, And in old Rome a mighty Emperours

So now being Priest, he plainly did profess To make a Jest of Christs three Offices; The rather fince his feattered juglings were United now in one, both time and sphere: From Egypt he took petty Deities, From Greece Oracular Infallibilities; And from old Rome the liberty of pleasure, By free dispensing of the Churches Treasure: Then in memorial of his Ancient Throne, He did sirname his Palace Babylon: Yet that he might the better gain all Nations, And make that name good by their transmigrations, From all these places, but at divers times, He took five Vizards to conceal his Crimes. From Egypt Anchorisme, and retiredness, Learning from Greece, from old Rome stateliness; And blending these, he carried all mens eyes. While Truth fate by, counting his Victories; Whereby he grew apace, and fcorn'd to use Such force as once did captivate the Jens; But did bewitch, and finely work each Nation Into a voluntary transmigration: All post to Rome; Princes submit their Necks, Either to his publick Foot, or private Tricks: It did not fit his Gravity to stir, Nor his long Journey, nor his Gout and Fur; Therefore he lent out ABLE MINISTERS. Thus Sin triumphs in Westerns Babylon, Yet not as Sin, but as Religion;
Of his two Thrones he made the later best,
And to defray his journey from the East,
Old and new Babylon are to Hell and Night,

CHAP. XIV.

Est this treatise be mistaken & abused to the dishonour of the Christian Religion, Church or Ministry I adde two papers which I long agoe published for the Ministry 1. Against profane Malignants, 2. Against Sectarians, especially those called Seekers, as also Papists & others that for interest or faction, deny or vilise the Pastors.

One sheet for the Ministry; Against the Malignants of all sorts.

A S mans first felicity was attended with the malice of the Serpent, so is the wonderful work of his Restauration. The promise of Reconciliation by the feed of the woman, is joyned with a proclamation of open war with the Serpent and his feed. The enmity was hottest in the Devil and his feed against Christ himself, who bare and overcame it; and is become the Captain of our falvation, that his Church may overcome by his Cross and Strength, and Conduct; The next degree of malice is against his officers: the most eminent, the General Officers had the hottest assault; and his ordinary Officers bear the next: That we shall be hated of all men for the name of Christ, (Mat. 10.22.) is still verified to our experience. Not only the openly prophane abhor us for our work fake, but false-hearted professors that turn from the truth, do presently turn Malignants against the Ministry; and many weak ones that are better minded, are dangerously seduced into a guilt of the sedition. To all these There proclaim in the name and word of the Lord, Numb. 16. 26. [Depart I pray you from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye be consumed in all their sins.] Which I shall now open to you.

1. The office of the Ministry is an undoubted Ordinance of God, to continue in the Church to the end of the world. No man can pretend that they ceased with the Apostles, for it is Gods will that ordinary fixed Presbyters shall be ordained in every Church, Asis. 14.23. Tit. 1.5. 1 Tim. 3.1. 2 Tim. 2.2. And Pastors and Teachers are appointed for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the Ministry, and edifying of the body of Christ, till we all come to a perfect man, Ephes. 4.11, 12, 13. A Ministry authorized to Disciple the Nations, baptize and teach them, is instituted by Christas King and Saviour, and have his Promise to be with them alway to the end of the world, Mat. 28.18, 19, 20. The same necessity and work continueth; still souls are born and bred in darkness, and how shall they be saved without believing, or believe without hearing, or hear without preaching, or we preach without sending? Rom. 10.13.

14, 15. There is a clearer word in the Gospel for the Ministry then the Magistracy; though enough for both. Our own call I shall speak of anon.

2. These Malignants set themselves against the Principal members of the body of Christ, that are in it as the eyes and hands to the natural body, 1 Cor. 12. 16, 19, 27, 29. Ephes. 4. 11, 15. The Ministers of Christ, and Stewards of the Mysteries of God, 1 Cor. 4. 1. The Over-seers of the slock that is purchased with Christs blood, Ads. 20.28. They are the chief members, 1. in office, 2. ordinarily in gifts for edification of the body: 3. and in grace. Now a wound in the stomack or liver is more mortal to the body, then in the hand: and the loss of an eye or hand is worse then the loss of an ear.

3. These Malignants are therefore principally enemies to the Church it felf. They take on them to be only against the Ministers, but it will prove most against the people and whole Church. If they smite the Shepherds, the sheep will be scattered. How can they more surely ruine Christs family, then by casting out the Stewards, that must rule, and give the children their meat in due season, even milk to the babes, and thronger meat to them of full age, Heb. 5. 12, 13, 14. Luke. 12. 42. Mat. 24.45. What readyer way to ruine the Schools of Christ, then by casting out the Teachers that he hath appointed under him? Or to ruine his Kingdome, then to reject his officers? Or to wrong the body, then to cut off the hand, and pull out the eyes, or to deflioy the principal parts? Was it not Ministers that planted the Churches, and converted the world and have ever born off the affaults of enemies? Where was there ever Church on earth that continued without a Ministry? The great Kingdom of Nubis fell from Christianity for want of Preachers. The Nations that have the weakest and fewest Ministers, have the least of Christianity; and those that have the most and ablest Ministers, have the most flourishing state of Religion. All over the world the Church doth rife or fall with the Ministry: Cut down the Pillers, and the building falls. He is blind that fees not what would become of the Church, were it not for the Ministry? Who should teach the ignorant, or rebake the obstinate. explain the word of truth, and stop the mouths of proud gain fayers? What work would herefies, and division, and prophaneness make, if these banks were cut down; when all that can be done is still too little. It must needs therefore be meer enmity against the Church, that makes men malignant against the Ministry.

4. The design of the maligners of the Ministry is plainly against the Gospel and Christianity it self. They take the readyest way in the world to bring in Heathenism, Insidelity and Atheism, which Christianity hath so far banished, For it is the Ministry that Christ useth to bring in light, and drive and keep out this damnable darkness, Asts 25:17, 18. [I fend three to open their eyes, and turn them from darkness to light, &c.] Why are so many Nations Insidels, Mahometans, and Idolaters, but for want of Ministers to preach the Gospel to them? These Malignants therefore would take down the Sun, and banish Christianity out of the world.

5. And they hinder the Conversion of particular souls, and so are the cruellest wretches on earth: Though an Angel must be sent to Cornelia us, it is not to be infiead of a Preacher, but to fend him to a Preacher Alis 10. Though Christ would wonderfully appear to Saul, it is to fend him to Ananias for instruction, Aus 9. Though the Jaylor must feel an Earth-quake, and see Miracles, it is but to prepare him for the Ministers words, Alis 16. Philip must be carried by an Angel to expound to an Eunuch the Word that must convert him. The Ministry is Gods institute. ed feitled way, by which he will convert and fave the world, as truly as the light is the natural way by which he will corporally enlighten them Acis 2. 18. 1 Tim. 4. 16. Mat. 5. 14. Rom. 10. 14. Do you think so many fouls would be converted if the Ministry were down? Do you not fee that the very contempt of them, that the scorns of the ungodly, and opposition of Malignant Apostates have occasioned, doth hinder most of the ignorant and prophane from receiving the faving benefit of the Gofpel? How many millions of fouls would these wretches sweep away to Hell, if they had their will? While thousands are in damnation for want of the light, they would take it from you, that you might go there also. Do you not understand the meaning of these words, against Christs Ministers? Why the meaning is this: They make a motion to the people of the Land, to go to Hell with one confent, and to hate those that are appointed to keep them out of it. They would take the bread of life from your mouthes. They are attempting an hundred times more cruelty on you. than Herod on the Jews when he killed the Children, or the Irish that murdered the Protestants by thousands; as the soul is of greater worth then the body.

6. These Malignants against the Ministry are the flat enemies of Christ himself, and so he will take them and use them. He that would root out the inferiour Magistrates, is an enemy to the Soveraign; and he that is against the officers of the Army, is an enemy to the General; Christ never intended to stay visibly on earth, and to Teach and Rule the world immediately in person; but he that is the King will Rule by his Officers; and he that is Prophet will Teach us by his Officers; and therefore he hath plainly told us, The that heareth you, heareth me; and he that dispifeth you. despiteth me; and be that despiteth me, despiteth him that sent me, Luke 10. 16.7 O tearful case of miserable Masignants! Durst thou despise the Lord thy Maker and Redeemer, if he appeared to thee in his glory! to whom the Sun it felf is as darkness, and all the world as dust and nothing? Remember when thou next speakest against his Officers, or hearest others speak against them, that their words are spoken against the face of Christ, and of the Father. I would not be found in the case of one of these Malignants, when Christ shall come to judge his entmics, for a thousand worlds.

He that hath faid, [Touch not mine annointed, and do my Prophets no harm; and hath rebuked Kings for their sakes, Psal. 105. 15. will deride all those that would break his bands, and will break them as with a rod of iron, and dash them in pieces as a potters wessel, Psal. 2.3, 4,9. And as he hath told them plainly, [Who so despiseth the Word shall be destroyed, Prov. 13. 13.] And [be that despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, 1 Thes. 4.8. So he hath told us that it shall be easier for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of Judgement, then for such, Mat. 10.15. Many a thousand prouder enemies then you hath Christ broken; and look to your selves, for your day is coming. If you had but stumbled on this stone, it would have broken you in pieces; but seeing you will strive against it, it will sall on you, and grind you to pouder, Mat. 21.44. And then you shall see that he that made them his Embassadors, will bear them out and say, [In as much as you did it to these, you did it to me.] And you shall then say, Blessed are they that trust in him.

7. It is apparent that these enemies of the Ministers are playing the Papills game. Because the just disgrace of their Ministry, was the ruine of their Kingdom; therefore they hope to win of us at the same game. They know that if the people were brought into a hatred or suspicion of their guides, they might the eatier be won to them. They tell us in their writings, that not one of ten of our people but taketh his faith on trust from their Teachers, and therefore take them of from them and they will fall: but they delude themselves in this: For though the ungodly among us have no true faith of their own, and the Godly muth lean on the hand of their supporters, yet there is in them aliving principle; and we do not as the Papists priests, teach our people to see with our eyes, and no matter for their own: but we help to clear their own eve-fight. Doubt not but the most of the sects in the Land that fall against the Ministry, are knowingly or ignorantly the agents of the Papifts. For the principal work of a Papist is to cry down the Ministry and the Scripture, and to fet all they can on the fame work.

8. These sects that are against the Ministry do all the same work as the Drunkards, Whore-mongers, Covetous, and all ungodly persons in our Parishes do: And therefore it seems they are guided by the same spirit. It is the work of Drunkards and all these wicked wretches to hate, and despise, and revile the Ministers, and to teach others to say as they. And just so do Quakers, Seekers, Papists and all other Malignants reproach the same Ministers: And yet the blind wretches will not see that the same Spirit moveth them.

9. It is apparent that it is the Devils game they play, and his interest and Kingdom which they promote. Who fights against Christs Officers and Army, but the General of the contrary Army? What greater service could all the world do for the Devils, then to cast out the Ministers of Christ? and what more would the Devil himself defire, to set up his Kingdom and suppress the Church? Wretches! you shall thereby see your Master, and he will pay you your wages contrary to your expectation. Read Gods word to a Malignant, Ads 13. 10.

10. These Enemics do reproach as faithful a Ministry as the world enjoyeth, and their malice hath so little sooting, as that the result must be their own shame. Among the Papists indeed there are Mass-Priests that can but read a Mass, whose Office is to turn a piece of Bread into a God: And yet these the Malignants either let alone, or liken us to them. The Greeks, and Ethiopians, and most of the Christian World, have a Ministry that feldome or never preach to them, but read Common-prayer, and Homilies. The most of the Protestant Churches have a learned Ministry that is so taken up with Controversies, that they are much less in the powerful preaching and practife of godlines: Above all Nations under Heaven, the English are set upon Practical Divinity and Holiness, and yet even they are by Malignity chosen out for reproach. Alas, scandals in the Ministry, (as drunkenness, swearing, &c.) among other Nations are but too common: but in England Magittrates and Ministers combine against them. Ministers are still spurring on the Magistrates to cast out the insufficient, negligent and scandalous; and desire and use more severity with men of their own profession, than with Magistrates, or any others in the Land. In nothing are they more zealous, than to sweep out all the remnant of the scandalous: And for themselves, they are devoted to the work of the Lord, and think nothing too much that they are able to perform, but preach in season and out of season, with all long-suffering and Doctrine; and yet Malignants make them their reproach.

r1. It is abundance of pride and impudency, that these Malignant Enemies are guilty of. They are most of them persons of lamentable ignorance; and yet they dare revise at the Teachers, and think themselves wise enough to rebuke and teach them: Many of them are men of wicked lives; and yet they can tell the world how bad the Ministers are. A Railer, a Drunkard, a covetous Worldling, an ignorant Sot, is the likest person to fall upon the Minister; and the Owl will call the Lark a Night-bird. Alas, when we come to try them, what dark wretches do we find them! and thould be glad if they were but teachable: And yet they have learnt the Devils first Lesson, to despise their Teachers.

12. And O what barbarous ingratitude are these Malignant Enemies of the Ministry guilty of! For whom do we watch, but for them and others? Can they be so blind as to think a painful Minister doth make it his design to seek himself, or to look after great matters in the world? Would not the time, and labour, and coll that they are at in the Schools and Universities, have fitted them for a more gainful trade? Do not Lawyers, Physitians, &c. live a sar easier, and in the world a more honourable plentiful life? Have not the Ministers themselves been the principal Instruments of taking down Bishops, Deans and Chapters, Arch-deacons, Prebends, and all means of preterment? And what have they got by it, or ever endeavoured? Speak malice, and spare not. Is it any thing but what they had before? Even the maintenance due to their particular charge. Unthankful wretches! It is for your fakes and fouls that they study, and pray, and watch, and fall, and exhort, and labour, to the confuming of their strength; and when they have done, are made the Drunkards Song, and the scorn of all the wicked of the Country; and when they spend, and are spent, the more they love, the less they are beloved. In the times of this greatest prosperity of the Church, they live under constant hatred and scorn, from those that they would fave, and will not let alone in fin. And what do they endure all this for but Gods honour, and your falvation? Would we be Ministers for any lower ends? Let thame from God and man be on the face of fuch a Minister! I profess, were it not for the belief of the greatness, and necessity, and excellency of the Truths that I am to preach, and for the will of God, and the good of Souls, I would be a Plow-man, or the meanest Trade, it not a Sweep Chimney, rather than a Minister. Must we break our health, and lay by all our worldly interest for you, even for you, and think not our lives and labours too good or too dear to further your Salvation; and must we by you, even by you, be reproached after all? God will be Judge between you and us, whether this be not inhumane ingratitude; and whether we deferve it at your hands?

13. Yea, it is Injustice also that you are guilty of: The labourer, saith Christ, is worthy of his hire, Luke 10. 7. (Mark that, you that call them Hirelings) The Elders that rule well are worthy of double honour, I Tim. 5. 17. Especially they that labour in the Word and Doctrine. And will you throw stones at their heads for endeavouring to save your souls? Will you spit in their faces for seeking with all their might to keep you from Hell? Is that their wages that you owe them? But blessed be the Lord, with whom is our reward, though you be not gathered, Is. 49.5. But as you love your selves, take heed of that Curse, Jer. 18. 20. [Shall evil be recompensed for good? for they have digged a pit for my soul: Remember that I stood before thee to speak good for them, and to turn away thy wrath from them, &c.] O how many a time have we besought the Lord for you! that he would convert you, and forgive you, and turn away the evil that was over you: And when all these our prayers, and groans, and tears shall be remembred against you, O miserable souls, how dear will you pay for all!

14. And is it not a wonder that these Malignants do not see what evident light of Scripture they contradict; and how many great express Commands they violate? They break the fifth Commandment, which requireth honour as well to spiritual Ecclesiastical Parents, as to Civil and Natural. And he that curseth Father and Mother, his Lamp shall be put out in darkness, Prov. 20. 20. The eye that mocketh at his Father, and descripteth to obey his Modier, the Ravens of the Valley shall pickit out, and the young Eagles shall eat it, Prov. 30. 17. Did these wretches never read, I Thes. 5. 12. We beseech you brethren, to know them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you; and to esteem them very highly in leve for their work sake, and to be at peace among your selves. And Heb. 13. 17.

[Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit your selves, for they match for your souls as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief; for that is unprostable for you.] And Heb. 13. 7. Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken to you the Word of God.] And so ver. 24. And 1 Tim. 5. 17. The Elders that rule well are worthy of double honour, &c.] with abundance more such passages as these? Do not you seel these sly in your taces when you oppose the Ministers of Christ? Doth a Thief or Murderer sin against plainer light than you?

versal Church of Christ till this day. The whole Church hath been for the Ministry, and instructed by them; and as the Child doth seek the Breast, so did new-born Christians, in all Ages, seek the Word from the Ministers, that they might live and grow thereby. And all the Nations of the Christian World are for the Ministry to this day! Or else they could not be for Christ, and for the Church, and Gospel. Is it not plain therefore that these Malignants are dead branches, cut off from the Church, that are so set a gainst the Spirit and interest of the Church?

16. Moreover they fin against the experience of all, or almost all the true Christians in the world. For they have all experience, that Ministers are either their Fathers, or Nurses in the Lord: And that by their means they have had their life, and strength, and comforts; their sins killed, their graces quickned, their doubts resolved; the taste of the good Word of God, and of the powers of the world to come? May we not challenge you as Paul oft doth his Flock, Whether you did not receive the illuminating sanctifying Spirit by the Ministry, if ever you received it? I tell you, it is as much against the new and holy nature of the Saints to despise the Ministers of Christ, as it is unnatural for a Child to spit in the sace of his Father or Mother. And the experience of sound Christians will keep them closer, and help them much against this inhumanity, what ever Hypocrites may do.

17. And if these Malignants had not Pharaohs heart, they would sure have considered, that the experience of all Ages tells them, that still the most wicked have been the Euemies of the Ministry, and the most godly have most obeyed and honoured them in the Lord; and that this Enmity hath been the common Brand of the rebellious, and the fore-runner of the heavy wrath of God; and that it hath gone worst with the Enemies, and best with the Friends of a godly Ministry. Do I need to prove this, which is so much of the substance of the Old Testament, and the New? Was it the Friends or Enemies of all the Prophets, Apostles and Ministers of Christ, that Scripture and all good Writers do commend? Do not the names of all Malignants against the godly Ministry slink above ground, as the shame of mankind, except those that are buried out of hearing, or those that were converted?

18. Nay such as are noted for the highest fort of the wicked upon Earth; worse than Drunkards, Whoremongers, and such filthy Beasts! The Persecutors of Gods Ministers have been ever taken as walking Devils: And the hottest of Gods wrath hath saln upon them. Take two instances; 1. When the Jews went into Captivity, this was the very cause, 2 Chron. 36. 15, 16. [But they mocked the Messenses of God, and despised his words, and missed his Prophets, till the wrath of the Lord arose against his people, till there was no remedy. 2. And when the Jews were cut quite off from the Church, and made Vagabonds on the Earth, this was the very cause, Asis 28. 28. Be it known therefore to you, that the Salvation of God is sent to the Gentiles, and that they will hear it.] 1 Thes. 2. 15, 16. These Jews [both killed the Lord Jesus, and their own Prophets, and have persecuted us: and they please not God, and are contrary to all men, forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles, that they might be saved to fill up their sin alway; for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermost.]

19. It is the Devils own part that these Malignants act: For it is he that is the great Enemy of Christ, and the Saints, and he that is the Accuser of the Brethren, which accuse them before God day and night: And is not this the work of Quakers, Drunkards, Papists, and all Malignants? But the Lord will rebuke them, and be the glory of his servants, Zach. 3. 1, 2. [He shewed me Joshua the High-Priest standing before the Angel of the Lord, and Satan standing at his right hand to resist him. And the Lord said unto Satan; The

20. These Malignants do most of them condemn themselves; for they honour the Ancient Ministers of Christ that are dead, even while they oppose and hate the present that are living, who are the nearest Imitators of their Doctrine and life that are on Earth! The name of Peter, and Paul, and Febrithey honour, and some of them keep Holy-days for them; and at the fame time hate and reproach those that preach the same Doctrine, and that because they tread in their steps. They honour the names of Austin, and Chrysoftom and Hierom, and other Ancients; and hate those that preach and live as they did. They speak honourably of the Martyrs that were burned to death for the Doctrine of Christ; and at the same time they hate us for doing as they did. What difference between the Calling, Doctrine and lives of those Martyred Ministers, and these that are now alive? O wretched Hypocrites! do you not know that these Aposses, Fathers, and other Ministers did suffer in their time from such as you, as we now do, and more? Hear what Christ saith to such as you, Mat. 23. 29, 30, 31. We to you Scribes, Pharisees, Hypocrites; because ye build the Tombs of the Prophets, and earnish the Sepulchres of the Righteous, and Say, If we had been in the days of our Fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the Prophets: Te are witnesses to your selves, that ye are the children of them which killed the Prophets: fill ye up then the measure of your Fathers: Te Serpents, ye Generation of Vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of Hell?

21. Moreover, these Malignants do harden themselves against the freshest of the Judgments of God, which some of their own hands have executed; and judishe the Persecutors, and succeed them in their sury. Have you forgotten what God hath done here against the Papal Enemies of the Gospel and Ministry, in 88. and the Powder-plot, and many other times? Have you already forgotten how the persecutors of a godly Ministry have sped within these sixteen years in England and Ireland? And dare you now stand up in their room and make your selves the heirs of their sin, and punishment, and justifie them in all their Malignity? What do you but justifie them, when you rave against and revise the same fort of Ministers, and many of the same persons, whom the former Malignants persecuted? and oppose the same sort of Ministers that the Papists burned? And would not you do the like by them if you had Power in your hands? Can any wise man doubt of it, Whether Papists, and Quakers, and Drunkards, that now make it their work to make the Ministry odious, would not soon dispatch them if they could? Blessed be the great Protector of the Church, for were it not for him, our lives would soon be a prey to your cruelty.

22. And indeed if these Malignants had their wills, they would undo themselves, and cut down the bough they stand upon, and destroy the little hope and help that is yet lest for their miserable souls: It is for the sake of Gods servants among them that judgements are so long kept off them. And as long as the Gospel and Ministers remains, salvation is oftered them: the voice of mercy is calling after them, Repent and live. They have the light shining in their eyes, which may at last convince them, as Paul was convinced of his persecution: the voice which they despise may possibly awake them. Though they have less hope then others; yet there is some, But if they had their will, and were rid of the Ministry, alas what would the forlorn wretches do? Then they might damn themselves without dissurbance, and go quietly to hell, and no body Siop them, and fay, [Why do you fo?

23. And I pray you consider what it is that these men would have? What if the Ministers were all cast out? would they have any to do Gods work in their stead, or none? If none, you may see what they are doing: If any, Who, and where are they? Is it not horrible Pride if all these filly fouls do think that they can do it better themselves? And what else do Quakers and all these sects that are the enemies of the Ministry? Do they not go up and down the Land, and fay to the wifest holyest Teachers. as if they took them by the sleeve, [Come down and let me preach that can do it better: Come down thou deceiver and ignorant man, and let me come up that. am wifer, and better, and known more: Out with these proud Lordly Preachers, and let us be your Teachers, that are more boly, and humble, and felfdenying then they. Is not this the loud language of their actions? And can you not hear the Devil in these words of highest Pride and Arrogancy? But really Sirs, do you think that these men would teach you better? And is there enow that are wifer and better then we to fill up our rooms, if we were out? Do but prove that, and you! shall have my consent to banish all the Ministers in England, to some place that hath greater need of their labour, that they may no more trouble you that have no need of them, and keep out better. 24. Laffly, 24. Lastly, consider on what sensies pretences all this enmity against the Ministry doth vent it self. You shall hear the worst that they have to say against us, (though but briefly) and then judge.

1. The Quakers say, We are idle drones that labour not, and therefore should not eat. Answ. The worst, I wish you, is, that you had but my ease instead of your labour. I have reason to take my self for the least of Saints, and yet I fear not to tell the accuser, that I take the labour of most Tradesmen in the Town to be a pleasure to the body in comparison of mine; (though for the ends and the pleasure of my mind, I would not change it with the greatest Prince) Their labour preserveth health, and mine consumeth it: They work in case, and I in continual pain: They have hours and dayes of recreation: I have scarce time to eat and drink: No body molesteth them for their labour; but the more I do, the more hatred and trouble I draw upon me. If a Quaker ask me, what all this labour is, let him come and see, or do as I do, and he shall know.

2. They accuse us of coverousness and oppression, because we take tithes or bire, (as they call it.) Answ. 1. Is it not malice or sacrilegious covetousness that frameth this accusation? Whose are the Tithes? are they ours or theirs? The same Law of the Land that makes the nine parts theirs, doth make the tenth ours. If we have no title to the tenth, they have none to the rest. We ask none of our people for a farthing. They give it not to us: It was never theirs. When they buy or take leases of their Land, it is only the nine parts that they pay for, and if the tenths were fold. them, they should pay themselves a tenth, part, more. And would these men make all the people thieves and covetous, to take or defire that which never was their own? Nay would they have them rob God, to whom for his service the Tithes were devoted? Read, Mil. 3 8,9,10. Rom, 2. 22. Gen. 14.20. Heb. 7.6, 9. And whether Tithe it felf be of Divine institution still, is more then they are able to disprove. Sure I am, when Christ told them of tithing mint, and cummin, he faith, Thefe ought you to have done, and not to leave the other undone, Mat. 23.23. 2. But molt certain I am that God hath made it our duty to meditate on his word, and give our felves wholly thereto, 1 Tim. 4. 15. and that we may [Forbear working, and not go on warfare at our own charge; and foreing to men spiritual things, should reap their carnal things: Do ye not know that they which minister about boly things, live of the things of the Temple; and they which wait at the Altar, are partakers with the Alter? Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the Gospel should live of the Gospel. I Cor. 9.6, 7, 13, 14. 3. And know you not that the primitive Christians gave not only the tenths, but all that they had, and laid it at the Apolloles feet? to shew that the Gospel teacheth more clearly then the Law, the necessity of Dedicating our selves and all that we have to God. 4. And yet I must say, that we are cantent with food and rayment. Most Minist in England would be glad to give you all their titles, if you will but allow them food and raiment for themselves and families, and such education for their children as is fittest to make them serviceable to God. And I hope it is no fin to have mouths that must be fed, or backs that must be cloathed. What! must Gods Ministers above all others be grudged food and rayment, and that of the Lords portion, which none of you pay for? I fear not to imitate Paul stopping the mouths of malicious accusers, and to tell you, that the Ministers, whose expences I am acquainted with, do give 500, pence, for 50. that they receive by gift from their people: and that they take all that they have as Christs, and not their own, and if they have never so much they devote it wholly to him, and know he's not beholden to them for it: and some of them lay out in charitable uses, much more then all the tithes that they receive for their Ministerial maintenance. And if the Quakers that accuse them of covetousness, would cast up accounts with them, I doubt not but it will be found that they receive more by gift then Preachers, and give not the fourth part fo much when they have done.

3. Another accusation is, that we preach false Doctrine, and deceive the people. Answ. It's easie to say so of any man in the world: But when they come to prove it, you will see who are the deceivers.

4. Another is, that we are persecutors, and like the Priests of old, and so all the reproofs of them and the Pharisees belong to us. Answ. This is soon said too: but where's the proof? For themselves we have no mind to be troubled with them. Let them let us alone, as long as we will let them alone. But yet they shall be taught one day to know, that if the Magistrate stop the mouths of such railers and abusers of God and men, he doth no more persecute them, then he persecuteth a thief when he hangeth him; or then Panl persecuted Hymenaus and Philetus when he delivered them up to Satan; or Elymss, Alis 13. 11. or then Peter persecuted Ananias and Sapphira, Alis 5. or then God would have had the Churches be persecutors against the woman Jozebel that was suffered to teach and seduce the people, or against the Doctrine of the Nicolaitans which God hated, Rev. 2. 15, 20. If bindering sin, be persecuting, the calling of a Magistrate is to be a persecutor, Rom. 13. 4. and all parents must pesecute their own children.

5. Another accusation is, that we are against the preaching of any but our selves. Answ. Who doth not desire that all the Lords people were Prophets? But yet we know all are not Prophets, I Cor. 12 29. nor Teachers. We would have none of Gods gifts in our people buried, but all improved to the uttermost for his glory. But we would not have men turn Ordinary Teachers, that are neither sound, nor able, nor sent; nor every self-conceited ignorant man, have leave to abuse the name and word of God, and the souls of men. What would you have more then is granted you? When any unordained man that is judged competent by the Commissioners of Approbation (of whom some are Souldiers) may be a constant preacher, and have sullest maintenance, as well as Presbyters?

6. Another

6. Another Charge is, that we are some weak, and some scandalour. Answ. We do all that we are able to cast out such; and I think never more was done. The Magistrate sets his Guard at the door, and lets in none but whom he please: and sure if he knew where to have better than those that are in, he would put them in, or else he is too blame: If he do not know, will you blame him for using the best that he can get? But if you will come and help us to cast out any that are vicious and unworthy, we will give you thanks.

7. Another Accusation is, that we differ among our selves, and one saith one thing, and another another thing. Answ. 1. And are all these Sects that oppose us better agreed among themselves? Enquire and judge. 2. Do not all preach one Gospel, and the same Essentials of the Christian Faith? And we expect not persect unity, till we have persect Knowledge and Holiness; which we dare not boast of, whatever Quakers do.

8. Another Accusation is, that we are not true Ministers. And why so? Because we have not an uninterrupted succession of lawful Ordination. Answ. This Objection is the Papists, who have little reason to use it, while it is so easie a matter to prove so many interruptions of their Papal succession. At large and often have we answered them, and are still ready to deal with any of them herein, and to proves 1. That an uninterrupted succession of right Ordination, is not of necessity to the being of the Ministry.

2. And it it were, we have more to shew for it than they. If others stick on this, let me tell them, that Magistracy is as truly from God as the Ministry: And let ever a King on Earth shew me an uninterrupted succession giving him Title to his Crown, and I will shew him a more undoubted succession or Title to my Ministry. But here's no room to discuss this Question.

o. Object. But you are Parish Priests, and no true Ministers, because you have not true Churches. Answ. All the Christians in our Parishes that consent are our Flock: And we undertake to prove the truth of such Churches, not only against scorn, but against all the Arguments that can be brought.

10. Object. But you have not the Spirit, and therefore are no true Ministers. Answ. And how prove you that we have not the Spirit? The approvers admit none but such as they think have the Spirit. He that is sanctified haththe Spirit: Prove us unsanctified, and we will relign our Office. Object. You read your Sermons out of a Paper; therefore you have not the Spirit. Answ. A strong Argument! I pray you take seven years time to prove the confequence. As wifely do the Quakers argue, that because we use Spectacles, or Hour-glasses, and Pulpits, we have not the Spirit. It is not want of your abilities that makes Ministers use Notes; but it's a regard to the: work, and the good of the Hearers. I use Notes as much as any man, when I take pains; and as little as any man when I am lazy, or busie, and have mot leisure to prepare. It's easier to us to preach three Sermons without Notes, than one with them. He is a simple Preacher that is not able to preach all day without preparation, if his strength would serve; especially if he preach at your rates. 11. Object. .

11. Object: But ilse true Ministry is perfecuted; but so are not you, but are Persecutors of others. Answ. 1. For our persecuting others, be so merciful as to prove it to us, that we may lament it. If punishing wicked men and Seducers be persecuting, not only Paul was such, that withed they were cut off that troubled the Galatians; but God himfelf would be the greatest of all perfecutors, that will lay you in Hell without repentance, and then you will wish your old persecution again. And if we be not persecuted. what means the reproaches of you and all the Drunkards and Malignants about us? But I pray you envy us not our lives and liberties, and a little breathing time. Do you not read that The Churches had rest throughout all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were edified, and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghoft, were multiplied? Alts 9.31.] Envy not a little prosperity to the Church. Doth not Paul pray that the Gospel may run and be glorified, and that we may be delivered from unreasonable wicked men, 2 Thef. 3. 1: Sometimes you can fay that more glorious days are promifed, and that the Saints shall rule the world. Uninerciful men! It is but a while ago fince we had our share of sufferings! Since that the Sword hath hunted after us! Many of our Brethren are yet in America. that were driven thither: at this time in Spain, and Italy, and Germany, and Savoy: Alas, what do our Brethren fuffer in the fame Caule and Calling that we are in! And do you reproach us with our mercies, if we be out of the Furnace but a little while, in one corner of the world?

Object. 12. Tou work no Miracles to confirm your Doctrine. Answ. It is true; nor do we need: It is confirmed by Miracles long ago. If we brought a new Gospel, or as the Papists, gave you not our Doctrine on the credit of Scripture, but Scripture and all on our own credit, then you might justly call for Miracles to prove it: But not when we have nothing to do but expound and apply a Doctrine scaled by Miracles already.

Again, I say, Let any Prince on Earth that questions our Calling, shew his Title to his Crown, or any Judge or Magistrate to his Office; and if I shew not as good a Title to mine, let me be taken for a Deceiver, and not a Minister.

Christian Reader, as ever thou wouldest be fanctified, confirmed, and faved, hold tast to Christ, Scripture, Ministry, and Spirit, and that in the Church and Communion of Saints, and abhor the thoughts of separating them from each other.

A second Sheet for the MINISTRY; Justifying our Calling against Quakers, Seekers, and Papists, and all that deny us to be the Ministers of Christ.

He corruption of the Romifb Church being most in the Errours and Vices of the Priests, which made men abhor the offering of the Lord (I Sam. 2.17.) the reproach which they brought upon themselves, did much prepare men to hearken to the Reformers: The observing of this, and of the necessary dependance of the people on their Pastors, bath caused the Papists to bend their force against the Ministers of the Reformed Churches, and to use all their wit to defame their Persons and Callings, and make them feemignorant, unworthy, or no Ministers to the people. On this Errand they fend abroad their Agents; this is the faving Gospel that the Seekers, Quakers, and their Brethren preach; that the Scripture is not the Gospel, or Word of God, and that we are no true Ministers. Whatever Doctrine we are preaching, the Opposers work is to call us Deceivers, and ask, How we prove our selves true Ministers? My work therefore at this time, for the sake of the ignorant in our Assemblies, shall be, to acquaint them with our answer to this demand. And I shall give it you in order, in certain Propositions.

Prop. 1. Both in the Old and New Testament there is mention of two distinct fort of Ministers of Gods appointment. First, such as received some new Revelation (either a Law, or a particular Message) immediately from God; so that the people could not be sure that their Doctrine was true, till they were sure that the men were sent of God. These were called Prophets in the Old Testament, and Apostles, Prophets, &c. in the New. So Moses received the Law from God; and the following Prophets their particular Messages. So the Apostles received the Gospel from Christ; and so did the Seventy, and other Disciples that conversed with him; and other Prophets and Evangelists had it by immediate inspiration. All these were necessarily by Miracles, or some Installible Evidence to prove their own Call, before the Hearers could receive their Doctrine: tor this was their Message; [The Lord bath commanded me to say thus or thus to you] or [The word which the Lord spake to me is thus or thus] This sort of Ministers the Papilis and Seekers

But besides these, there is a second fort of true Ministers, whose Office is not to receive from God any new Doctrine, Law, or Message; but to proclaim the Laws already delivered, and teach menthe Doctrine already revealed, and to oversee and govern the Churches of Christ according to his Laws, and to go before the people in the worthip of God: The Prophets and Apostles did both these; both reveal the Doctrine which they received from Christ, and teach and guide the Church by it when they had done; but the latter fort of Ministers do but the latter fort of the work. The Papills and Scekers

cheat men by jumbling all together, as if there were no Ministers of Gods appointment, but those of the former sort; and therefore they call for Miracles to prove our Ministry. Here therefore I shall first prove, that the second fort of Ministers are of Gods Institution. 2. That such need not prove their Calling by Miracles, though yet God inay work Miracles by them if he please. 3. That we are true Ministers of Christ, of this fort.

1. Christ found such Ministers under the Law that were to teach and rule by the Law before received, and not to receive new Laws or Massages; I mean the ordinary Priests and Levites, as distinguished from Prophets. These Priests were to keep the Law, and teach it the people, and the people were to seek it at their mouth, and by it they were to judge mens Causes: and also they were to stand between the people and God in publick worthip, as is exprest, Dent: 31.26. Joh. 23.6. Neb.8.1,2,3,8,18. & 9.3. Levit. 1. & 2. & 4. & 5. & 7. & 13. & 14. throughout, Num. 5. & 6. Deut. 17. 12. Mal. 2. 7. Fer. 18 18. The Prophet had Visions; but the Priest had the Law. Ezek 7.26. Isa. 8.16,20. Hag. 2. 11, 12. Num. 1.50 1 Chron. 9.26. & 16.4. 2 Chron 19.11. & :0.19. & 30.17,22. He was called, A Teaching Prieft, 2 Chron. 15. 3. Lev. 10. 10, 11. Dent. 24.8. 2 Chron 17. 7 9. Ezek. 44. 23. 2 Chron. 35.3. And Christ himself sends the cleansed to the Pricst, and commandeth them to hear the Pharifes that fat in Moles Chair, though they were no Prophets: fo that besides the Prophets that had their message immediately from God, there were Priests that were called the Ministers of the Lord, Joel 1.9.2. 17. and Levites that were not to bring new Revelations, but to teach, and rule, and worship him according to the old. For Moses of old time bath in every City them that preach him, being read in the Synagogues every Sabbath day, Acts 15.21. The fews rejected Christ because they knew bim not, nor the voice of the Prophets which are read every Sabbath day, Acts 13.27. And even unto this day, when Moles is read, the Vail is on their heart, 2 Cor. 3.15. And they that would not believe Moses, and the Prophets (thus read and preached) neither will they be persivaded, though one rose from the dead, Luke 16. 29, 31.

2. And as Priests and Levites were distinct from Prophets before Christ, so Christ appointed besides the Apostles and Prophetical Revealers of his Gospel, a standing fort of Ministers, to 1. Teach, 2. Rule, 3. And worship according to the Gospel which the former had revealed, and attested, and proved to the world. These were called Overseers, or Eistops, Presbyters, or Elders, Pastors and Teachers; and also the Deacons were joyned to assist them, Alis 14: 23. They ordained them Elders (not Prophets or Apostles) in every Church, Tit. 1. 5. Titus was to ordain Elders in every City: Timothy hath full direction for the ordaining of Bishops, or Elders and Deacons, 1 Tim 3.

That their work was not to bring new Doctrine, but to teach, rule, and worlhip according to that received, I now prove, 2 Tim. 2.2. The things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also Mark, that its the same, and not a new Doctrine; and that as heard from Paul among many witnesses, and not as received immediately from God: and others were thus to receive it down from Timothy. And v. 15. Study to them thy felf approved unto God, a workman that needeth not be alkained, rightly dividing the word of truth. It is not to bring new Truths, but rightly to divide the old. And 2 Tun. 1.13. Hold falt the form of words which thou hast heard of me (not which thou hadth immediately from God) in faith and love which is in Christ Tefus; that good thing which was committed unto thee, keep, by the Holy Ghoft which dwelleth in us. The Holy Ghost is to help us in keeping that which is committed to us. and not to reveal more, 2 Tim 6. 13, 14. [I give thee charge in the fight of God, that thou keep this Commandment without spot, unrebukable, till the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ. There was a form of Doctrine delivered to the Church of Rome, Rom. 6.17. And 1 Tim. 5.17. The Elders that rule well are prorthy of double honour, especially they that labour in the Word and Doctrine. You see their work was to rule and labour in the Word and Doctrine, I Tim. 4. 13, 14, 15, 16. Till I come, give attendance to Reading, to Exhortation, to Doctrine; meditate upon these things: give thy self wholly to them, that thy profiting may appear to all: Take heed unto thy felf, and unto the Do-Etrine: continue in them; for in doing this, thou shalt both fave thy felf and them that hear thee. I Tim. 5. 6. If thou put the brethren in remembrance of thefe things, thou shalt be a good Minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of faith, and of good doctrine, whereunto thou halt attained.] Mark here the description of a good Minister of Christ's one that's nourished up in the words of faith, and good doctrine, (which is the use of Schools and Universities) and having attained it, makes it his work to teach it, and put others in remembrance of it, Tit. 1.7, 9, 10, 11. For a Bishop must be blameless, as the Steward of God -- holding flast the faithful word as he hath been taught, (mark that) that he may be able by found doctrine, both to exhort and convince the gainfavers: For there are many unruly and vaintalkers and deceivers, whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not. &c.] So 1 Tim. 3. 1,5. The Office of a Bilhop is to rule and take care of the Church of God: To take beed to themselves, and to all the Flock, and feed the Church of God; and to watch bereunto, according to the word of Gods grace, which is fully and wholly delivered by his Apossles, and is able to build us up, and give us an interitance among the fandified: as Ad. 20.28, 20, 27, 35, 32. 1 Thef. 5. 12, 13. We befeech you brethren to know them which labour amone you, and are over you in the Lord, and admoniff you (this is their Office) and to effect them very highly in love for their works fake (and not revile them as the servants of Satan do) and be at peace among your selves, Heb. 13.70 17, 24. Remember them which have the rule over you, which leave spoken to you the word of God: Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit your selves, for they match for your fouls, as they that must give account, that they may do is with joy, and not with grief : for that is unprofitable for you. Salute all them that have the Rule over you: The Elders of the Church are to pray with, and for the fick, Jam. 5. 14. They must feed the Flock of God among them, taking the overlight of it, 1 Pet. 5. 1.2. Thus you see their Office and work.

2. And that they were not to bring any new Dodirine, further appears, in that they have a charge to Preach no other doctrine, I Tim. 1.3. Nor to be toffed as children with every wind of dollrine, Eph. 4.14. Nor carried about with divers and strange dostrines, Heb. 13.9.

2. Yea, if any man bring not the dodrine of Christ, we must not receive him into our bruses, or bid him God speed, lest we be partakers of his evil deeds, for. he that abidet b not in this doctrine bath not God, 2 John 9.10, 11. Gal. 1.8.9. Though me or an Angel from heaven, preach any other Gospel to you, then that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed. As me said before, so Say I now again: If any man preach any other Gospel to you then that ye have received, let him be accurfed.] And Rom. 16. 17,18. Now I befeech you Brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offences, contrary to the Doctrine which ye bare learned, and avoid them I Tim. 6.3. If any man teach otherwise, and confent not to wholfome words, the words of our Lord Jefus Christ, and to the Do. Firine which is according to Godliness, be is proud, knowing nothing, but dost-

4. And if all Ministers must be receivers of new Doctrines, the Church would never know when it hath all, but would be still obeying an imperfect Law. 5. And it would be an oppression to the Church instead of a Direction, to be so overwhelmed with new Doctrines and Precepts. 6. And it would accuse Christ, the Lawgiver, of such mutability, as wife Princes are not guilty of; to be still changing or adding to his Laws. 7. There was great occasion for the New Testament or Gospes, upon the great work of our Redemption: but there is no' fuch cause for alterations since. 8. The Priests before Christ were not to receive new Laws, as is said. 9. The Companions of the Apostles that wrought Miracles, had not all new Revelations; but did it to scal up this Gospel. 10. What need we more then actual experience, that God doth not give New Revelations to the world, and none fince the Scripture times, have fealed any other by Miracles.

And thus I have proved to you the two forts of Ministers: as Paul plain ly dillinguisheth them, 1 Cor. 3.10, 11, 12. Epb 2.20. There are Planters and Waterers, Master builders that lay the foundation, and others that build thereon: Other foundation can no man lay then that which is laid: but every man that buildeth hay or stuble and loseth his work, doth not nullifie the Ministry. We are built on the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets. Jesus Christ being the head corner-stone: but we are not built on the foundation of every Paftor, Teacher, Elder, Bishop or Deacon: Though both in their places (Aposiles, Prophets, Evangelists, Pastors and Teachers) are given for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the Ministry, for the Edifying of the body of Christ, Eph.4.11,12. That we might be one united Body, having one fixed standing doctrine, ver. 14.15, 16. And how shall me escapeif me neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him: (mark whence the Church receiveth it) God also bearing them witness (but not every Elder or Teacher) both with signs and wonders, and with divers Miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost according to his own will, Hcb. 2, 3, 4. Prop. 2. And

Prop. 2. And now that thefe later Ministers need not prove their calling by Miracles, I prove thus: 1. God never imposed such a task upon them, nor commanded the people to require such a proof, and not to believe any but worker of Miracles. 2. God gave not all the gift of Miracles, that were employed in his work even in the Apostles daies: Are all workers of Micacles? faith Paul; some had by the Spirit, the word of wisedom, and of knowledge. and others Tongues, and others Interpretation, and others Miracles, 1 Cor. 12.29,7,8.9,10. 3. They that have the Holy Ghost are owned by Christ, and fo have many without working Miracles. See Rom. 8.9. 1 Cor. 12 3. Gal. 5. 18,27,23,24. 1 Cor. 6.11. Eph. 3.16. & 5.9,18. 1 Pct. 1.2,22. Rom. 15.13. 15. Tit.3.5. 4. The Law of Moses was kept and taught by Priess and Levices that wrought not Miracles. 5. If the Laws of all Nations may be kept with out Miracles, so may the Laws of Christ. 6. If humane writings are kept without Miracles, (as Homer, Virgil, Oxid, Cicero, Livy, &c.) fo may the Laws of God much more, as being the daily subject of the belief, meditation, conference, preaching, controversies, devotions of Christians through the world, and translated into so many Tongues. 7. There is nothing in the Nature of the thing that requireth ordinary Miracles. Cannot men fufficiently prove without Miracles, that there have been fuch men as Cefar, Pompey, Arithotle, or which be Calvins or Bellurmines writings, &c. Much more evidently may they prove what doctrine is effential to Christianity, and the Scripture that contains the whole. S. Elfe Parents could not teach their children, nor bring them up in the Nurture and adminition of the Lord, Eph. 6.4. Nor teach them with Timothy, from a child to know the Scriptures, which are able to make men wife to falvation through faith in Christ, 2 Tim. 3. 15. Must no Parents teach their Children to know Christ, but such as can work Miracles? 9. The Doctrine which we preach is fally confirmed by Miracles already, by Christ and his Aposses: There needs no greater then Christsown Refurrection, nor more then were done; which Universal unqueftionable Hittory and Tradition hath brought down to our hands. 10. It is a ridiculous expectation, that every person should see the Miracles before they do believe. Then if Christ had done Miracles before all Ferulalem, save one man, that one man should not be bound to believe: Or if I could do miracles in this Town or Country, none must believe me ever the more but those that see it. And so you may as well say, I should not believe that there is any Sea or Land, City or Kingdom, France, Spain, Rome, &c. but what I fee. Are these men worthy to be talkt with that believe no body, and confess themselves such Lyars that they would have no body believe them. It was not all that faw Corifts Miraeles or Resurrection, or the Apostles. tniraeles! It feems the rest were not bound to be Christians? Even as Clem: Writer told me, that no man is bound to believe that Christ did Rife again, or the rest of Christianity, that seeth not Miracles himself to prove it : adding withall, that indeed Antichrift may do Miracles; and foit fe.ms for all the talk, miracles themselves would not serve if they saw them. 11. Is it not to put a fcorn on God Almighty, to tay that the Glory of all his most miraculous works should be buried to all that faw them not; and that Parents should not tell them to their Children, or Children should not believe them if they do? 12. Its injurious to Posterity, that the knowledge of the most wonderful works of God shall be only for the good of them that fee them; and that all ages after shall be never the better. 13. It tends to make men mad and as Ideots, that must know and believe no more then they see: what kind of folks must these be, that know not that there is either Prince or Parliament. City or Countrey, or any folks in the world but those they have feen? This will fland with trading, converse, Subjection, Socie. ries; and its doubtful whether such are capable of managing estates; or should not be put under others as Ideots? 14. Children cannot learn to read nor speak without some kind of belief of them that teach them; nor can they obey their parents nor learn any trade, nor obey Phylitians: fo that this conceit of incredulity is against the Nature, livelihood, and life of 15. And they would tie God to be at the beck of every unreasonable Infidel; that shall fay, Though all the Town have feen thy Miracles, yet I will fee my felf, or elfe I will not believe.] 16. They expect that God should overturn the course of Nature: for if Miracles be as ordinary as the operations of Nature, they are confounded. 17. And by this they would cross themselves, and make Miracles unessectual: For if they were ordinary; few would be moved by them as any proof of a Divine Testimony: were it as ordinary for the Sun to go backward as forward, who would take it for a Miracle? To this Clem: Writer answers me, that [Miracles were convincing in the first Age when they were common] Answ. How common? Not as natural operations: Nor so as for all Countreys or persons to see them; 500 saw Christ at once after his Resurrection: 5000, were once miraculously fed: but as this was not every days work, so what was this to others? And in that it was but for an age, and rarely in after ages. thews that they were not for every mans eyes. 18. What need we more proof then actual experience, that God doth not often now work miracles! And he that faith the Gospel, and Christian faith, and Church, and Ministry are therefore ceased, its like will not take it ill to be taken himself for an Heathen or Infidel. 19. And we have experience of millions that still do actually and fiedfastly believe in Christ without Miraeles: and many have laid down their lives on that belief: therefore without miracles men may believe. But to this Clem: Writer faith to me, Thefe believers of all forts condemn each other as Hereticks. Ausw. But not as Infidels. None but the ignorant or passionate condemn all other forts as Hereticks. The fober do not. And it is not enough to prove your bastard, if an angry Brother call you fo. 20. Because this sheet alloweth me not room, I intreat the Reader to peruse these Texts, which tell him aloud that the word and works of God must be believed by Tradition, though without Miracles, Exod. 10. 1. 2. & 12.14,17,26 27.42. Dent. 11.2. to the 22. & 29.22. to 28. Folh. 46. 7. & 22.24. to 32. Pfalm. 48. 13. & 78.1. to 9. & 102.18. & 145.4. & 89.1. Toel. 1.2, 3, 4. Alis 1.8. & 2.32 & 5.30, 31, 32. & 10.38. to 42. & 13. 30, 31. & 1.22. & 4 33. & 22.15. & 26.16. & 23.11. 2 Tim.2.2. John 20. 29. & 19.35. & 15.27. & 12.17. & 5.33. & 1.15, 32.34 Luke 4. 22. 1 Pet. 5. 1. And that you would read my Determination of this very Quethion in my Book against Infidelity: I proceed to the next.

Proposition 3. This ordinary Ministry for teaching, ruling, and publick more thip, was ordained by Christ to continue till his coming, and doth yet continue, and did not cease when the extraordinary Ministry ceased. I prove it, Matth. 16.18. Upon this Rock will I build my Church, and the Gates of Hell (ball not prevail against it. The Church never did nor can sublist without its Offcers, who are an Effential part of it, as it is a Political Body, and the first and most eminent part, as it is a Community. And therefore if the Ministry be extinct, the Gates of Hell have prevailed against the Church: And then Christ is overcome, or hath broke his promise; and then he were not Christ: So that if Christ be Christ, the Church and Ministry continue. So Luke 1.33. He shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever, and of his King. dome there shall be no end, Isa. 9. 6, 7. Of the enerease of his government and peace there shall be no end, Plalm 145. 13. Thy Kingdome is an everlatting Kingdome, and thy Dominion endureth throughout all Generations. Christ ruleth by his Officers in his Church; if Church or Ministry had an end, his Kingdome had an end, and he reigned not for ever, Matth. 28 20. Lee, I am with your alway, even to the end of the world. To this express promise, Clem. Writer hath no wifer an answer, but that, fit is conditional. If they teach men to obforce all things that Christ bath commanded, then be will be with them, else not.] Repl. This is your forgery: here is no fuch words, but an absolute promise. His being with them, is to support and help them in his work: And will you feign Christ to promise them help on condition they do it without? The further Cavils against this Text and others, the London Ministers in their Vindication have answered at large, Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13. The Past rs and Teachers are given to the Church for the perfecting of the Saints for the work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ, till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God to a perfect man, &c.] Extraordinary and ordinary Officers are here conjoyned, who between them are to perfect the building, the first laying the foundation, and the others. Building thereon, 1 Tim. 6. 13, 14. I give thee charge in the fight of God---that thou keep this Commandment without (pot, unrebutable, unto the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ which must needs extend to his Successors. The faithful and wife Stewards that give the children their meat in due feafon, will be found so doing by the Lord at his coming, Luke 12: 42, 43. And it is not till the last day that Christ will give up the Kingdome to the Father, 1 Cor. 15.25. 2. The Apostles actually settled an ordinary Ministry in their time, as is proved. 3. There are Commands for letling Successors of these, as 2 Tim. 2.2. Tit. 1. 5. as is proved. 4. These Ministers are described, and the way of their Ordination fetled by Canons, 1 Tim. 3. Tit. 1. 5. We find the several Angels of the Churches in their places, Revel. 2. & 3. and promises to some of them for the future, with a Command [Hold fift till I come, 2.23-] and 3 10 ..

3. 10. [I will keep thee from the honor of temptation which shall come on all the world: Behold, I come quickly. 6 Christ hath commanded the Ministerial mark to continue to the end: As the Preaching of the Word must be to all Nations, and every Creature, Matth. 28.19. Mark 16.15. And these most cruel men would have all the Preachers give over their work, and leave the world to perish in Intidelity. So for the affembling of our selves together, and exhorting one another, we are commanded not to for fake it, as is the manner of some; and so much the more, as we see the day approaching, Heb. 10.23, 24, 25. So that the nearer we are to Christs coming, the closer must we flick to Church Communion, and holy Assemblies; considering, that its but a little while, and he that comes will come, and shall not tarry, ver-37. God doth on purpose torbear his coming, because he is long-suffering, and will continue the means to call men to repentance, and then the day of the Lord will come suddenly, 2 Pet. 3.9, 10. The Word of the Lord endureth for ever: and this is the word which by the Gospel is preached to you, I Pet. 1.25. The Lords Supper is Inflituted to be used to shew the Lords death till be come, I Cor. 11. 26. Church government or Discipline is a fixed Ordinance, Mat. 18.15, 16, 17. And if the work continue, the workmen must continue. 7. The mercy of God, and the Efficacy of Christs Blood, and the necessities of the Church continue: we still need a Teaching Ministry, Heb. 5. 11. and for our need it is Inflituted till the Church be perfect, that we be not as children tofs'd up and down, Eph. 4. 13, 14. What enemies to us, and to the love and mercy of God are they that would perswade men, that he so quickly withdrew so great a mercy, when the gifts and calling of God are without repentance? 8. The Law and its Priefthood was not removed but by the glory of a better Law and Ministry: And Christis the Mediator of a better Covenant and Promises, Heb. 7.22. & 8.7, 8. Therefore he will not deal so much worse. 9. Christ telleth us that a wife man will consider whether he can go through with it, before he build or make War: Therefore he would not himself begin to build his Church, and enter himself the Captain of our Salvation, and presently let his Enterprize fall. 10. If the Ministry continue not, then the Church continueth not; for as the Head, Liver, and Stomack, or Lungs are to the Body, so is the Ministry to the Church, I Cor. 12.13, 19, 20, 28, 29. They plant and water it, I Cor. 3.6. and build it, ver. 10. For how shall we believe on him of whom we have not heard? and how shall we hear without a Preacher? and here shall they preach unless they be sint? Rom. 10. 14. But the Church doth continue: for first, else Christ were no longer the Head of it, the King, Prophet, or Priest, and so not Christ: But he is a Priest for ever, abiding continually: he continueth ever, and bath an unchangeable Priesthood; be ever liveth to make intercession for those that come to God by him, Heb. 7.3. 22, 24, 25. 2. Those that deny the Church, must needs deny themselves Christians and Members of that Church. 3. There is no Salvation promifed but to the Church; Eph. 5, 23, 25, 26, 27. Mark 16. 16. 4. Blindness is on the Jews but till the fulness of the Gentiles be come in, and so all Israel shall be fared: Therefore it is most evident that the Gentile Church shall not cease till the fulness have prepared for the re-ingraffing of the Ferrs, Rom. 11. 25, 26. 5. It is an everlasting Kingdome, which cannot be moved and the City of the living God, the heavenly [crusalem, whereof even the Angels and perfected Spirits of the Just are a part, to which we come by Faith: therefore it cealeth not, Heb. 12. 22, 23, 28. 6. When that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away, I Cor. 13 10. but not before. 7. It nothing can separate us from the love of God, no not any diffress or tribulation, then are not all the Ministers and Church cut off, Rom. 8. 34. to 39. Yea, those that in all Ages suffer for his sake, are not cut off from him; but fo many faithful Ministers do. 8. But what should I say any more against that Affertion which carrieth stark Heathenism or Infidelity in its Forehead, reproaching Christ as no Christ, and teaching men that they are not bound to be Christians, and believe the Gospel, and perswading the world to despise Christs Mcsengers and Ordinances; and Ministers to call off their Masters work; which in two words is, to turn Inndels, or Apoflates. I must refer you for my fuller answer to such men, to my Book against Infidelity.

Prop. 4. God bath in his Law appointed a standing way for the calling of these ordinary Teaching, Ruling, worshipping Ministers, in all Ages; and deth bimself call them in this way. 1. He institutes the Office. 2. He commandeth that fit persons be ordained to this Office. 3. He describeth them by their necessary Qualifications. All this is at large, 1 Tim. 3. Tit. 1. Act. 20. 1 Pet. 5. &c. This is his work by his standing Law: Ey which also he cominaudeth the people to chuse, consent to, or accept the fit, and to hear and obey them, Act. 14. 23. 2 Thef. 5 12. Act. 6. 3, 5. Heb. 13. 7, 17. And then by Providence, 1. He giveth them those gifts of the Spirit that may competently qualific them for their Office. 2. He affilteth the Chusers and Ordainers to discern those Qualifications, and do their duties. 3. He causeth fome special https:// a Minister to the special Province or Charge which he is to undertake, and special inviting occasions and opportunities, and ofttimes causeth Necessity to make the choice. 4. He boweth the heart of the person called to consent, and usually to defire the work (for the right ends.) 5. And if he be called to be the Pasior of a particular Church, he moveth the people to confent or accept him. And thus God according to his appointed Order doth call his Ministers: Besides which, he afterward . Helps them in his work: 2. And procureth them liberty, and often furtherance from Christian Magistrates. 3. And giveth them success.

Proposition 5. The faithful Pastors of the Reformed Churches, are these ordinary Ministers of Christ, approved by him, and given in great mercy to his peothe who are bound to know bonour, and obey them in the Lord.

I exclude not all others, but I now prove that these are true Ministers. Argument 1. They that have all that is effential to true Ministers are true Ministers: But such are these Pastors of the Reformed Churches; as I prove thus: If the Office it self be of Gods Institution, and their Qualifications competent, and their entrance right in every point of flat Necessity, then they Qqq have have all that is effential to true Ministers: But the former is true, as I shall prove in the three several parts. 1. That the Office it self is of Gods appointment, is proved fully before, and confessed by all Christians that ever I knew, Adis 14.23. 1 Tim. 3. Tit. 1. 1 Pet. 5. 1, 2. 1 Thef. 5. 12. H.b. 13.7, 17, 24. Alis 20. 28. 2. For Qualifications, they have 1. competent Knowledge, 2. and Utterance, 3. and Godliness: and these are the Qualifications that God accepteth 1 Cor. 12.8. 1 Tim. 2. 15. 1 Tim. 5. 17. Mark the Canons of the Holy Ghost, 2 Tim. 2. 2. They must be 1. Faithful men, 2. Able to teach others: But such are those in question, I Tim. 3. A Bishop must be blameless (that is, not scandalous) the busband of one Wife; vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach, not given to Wine, no friker, not greedy of filthy lucre, but patient, not a brawler, not covetous, one that ruleth well his own bouse having his children in subjection, with all gravity. To which is added, Tit. 1. 8.9. A lover of good men, fober, just, boly temperate, holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught, that he may be able by found Docirine both to exhort, and to convince the gain-fayers. Let all here note: 1. That here is not only the mention of the Vertues necessary to the Being, but to the well-being also of a Minister: 2. And yet through the great mercy of God, all these are the qualifications of multitudes of the Pastors of the Reformed Churches, as malice it felf must be forced to confess: But if any deny it of any particular men, as that is nothing to the rest; so an unproved accusation is not by honest men to be believed. The world knows that the Act for rejecting scandalous, insufficient, negligent Ministers is very firict, and Commissioners in each County forward to execute it, and Miniflers have enemies enough to fearch out their faults, and yet none are more forward than Ministers themselves to have the Act put in execution; for that their flanding justifies them before the world: Or, if any will yet deny them the necessary Qualifications, I here challenge and provoke them to accuse all that are guilty, and cast them out; or else to confess themselves meer flanderers, and back-biters, and learn more truth and modesty hereafter. 3. And for the third point, their entrance into the Office: They have all that God hath made necessary to a just entrance, as I prove: They that have a true Ordination, and the Peoples confent, and the Magistrates allowance, have all that God bath made necessary to a just entrance, and more than all: But the said Pastors of the Reformed Churches have true Ordination, and the Peoples confent, and the Magistrates allowance: That they have true Ordination, I shall shew anone in answering all that can be said against it. The Peoples consent, by Electing, or Accepting, is known by the fact; and so is the Magistrates by Law and fact: I put in all this, though more than necessary, that all Objections may be satisfied at once: So that the Engmerations being unquellionable, the Conclusion is to to. In short; All those are true Ministers, that are in an Office of Gods own Institution, and are competently fitted for that Office by Knowledge, Godliness, and Utterance, and have all, and more than all that God hath made necessary to a right entrance or admission, even true Ordination, consent of the Flock, and the Magistrates allowance. But such are the said Pasters of the Reformed Churches, therefore they are true Ministers of Christ. ArguArgument 2. Those that have not only the Essentials, but excel all other Ministers on Earth (that are known to the world) are certainly the true Ministers of Christ. But Such are the Ministers before-mentioned of the Reformed Churches;

Ergo. This will be proved at once with the next, which is,

, Argument 3. Either these Pastors of the Reformed Churches are the true Minifters of Christ, or else there are none such visible in the world: But there are such vifibly and certainly in the world, as was proved; else there is no Church, no Ordinances, no Christianity, no Christ: For he can be no King without Subjects and Laws; no Master without a School and Scholars; no Physitian without Patients; no Husband without his Spouse; no Head without a Body; no Interceffor without a Church to in ercede for. And to believe the holy Catholick Church, and the Communion of Saints, is part of our Belief; and therefore the Christian Faith is gone, if these be gone: And that either me, or None are Christs true Ministers, I prove thus: 1. We challenge the Adversary to name us the true Church and Ministry; if these be none of them, where be they, and who are they? speak out, or give up your wicked Cause. If you know not who they be, or where, then how know you that there are any such? True Ministers are like a light that shineth to all the house, even the lights of the world, and like a City on a Hill that cannot be bid, Mst.5.14,15,16. 2. But let us try the particulars: 1. The Seekers have no Church or Ministry. 2. The Quakers have no Ordination, that we know of and are every way so unworthy, and had no being in the world till a few years ago, that he is either no Christian, or of a crazed brain, that thinks Christ hath no Church or Ministry but them. 3. The Anabaptists Socinians, Swenlfeldians, Familists, Paracelsians, Weigelians, and such like, have no more to shew for their Ministry and Churches than we, but their Errours; and are so few, and so lately sprung up, that of them also I may say, that he that takes them for the only Church, or Ministers, is either out of the Faith, or much out of his wits, 4. The Eaftern and Southern Churches have no more to shew for their Ministry and Churches than we; but are incomparably more ignorant, and erroneous: few of them doing more than read their Liturgies and Homilies, and to administer the Sacraments. 5. All the Controvertic therefore lieth between us and the Papitles, either they are true Ministers, and a Church, or not; if not, then its left to us: if they are, then me are so much more; for we have much more unquestionable Evidence of our Title. 1. The Office of a Teaching, [Guiding, Worshipping Presbyter which we are in, is beyond all queltion, and yielard by themselves to be of Divine Institution. But the office of a Mass-Pricit, to make a God of Spiece of Bread, and turn Bread into Flesh, so that there shall be quantity, colour, taffe, &c. without bread, or any subject; and a mans eyes, taffe, or feeling, shall not know that its bread or wine, when we see, taste, and feel it; as also to celebrate publick worship in an unknown tongue; this office is more questionable than ours. 2. It remaineth a great doubt, whether the Pope be not the Antichrist: but of our Ministry there's no such doubt. 3. For Knowledge, Godliness and Utterance, and all true Ministerial abili-Q 992 tics, ties, as its well known what an ignorant Rabble their common fecular Mass Priests are; so those Military Fryars and Jesuites that are chosen of purpose to play their Game among us, and credit their Cause, if they have any relicks of truth or modeliy, will confess, that the generality of our Ministers are much beyond theirs for Parts and Piety; or at least, that we cannot be denied to be true Ministers for want of necessary abilities: We should rejoyce if their Ministers, Priests or Jesuites were near of such Piety as those of the Reformed Churches. Some of their Jesuites and Fryars are learned men; in which also we have those that equal the best of them: but for the learning, ability, or Piety of the common Ministers on both fides. there is no comparison to be made. 4. All the question then is of the way of entrance: And there 1. The Papifts feek not the Peoples confent so much as we do. 2. They despise the Magistrates confent, in comparison of us. 3. And for Ordination, which is it that all the firefs must be laid on, we bave it, and pearer the Rule of God than they. Are they ordained with Fafting, Prayer, and Impolition of Hands? so are we. Must it be by one of a Superiour Order? Who then shall Ordain or Confecrate the Pope? And yet a multitude of our Ministers are ordained by Bishops, if that be necessary: But the great Objection is, that we have not an uninterrupted fuecession from the Aposiles, and so those that ordained us had no power; and therefore could not give it to us.

Proposition 6. The want of an uninterrupted succession, and so of Power in the Ordsiners, doth not disable our Title to the Ministry, or set us in a worse condition than the Papists. For if it be only the succession of possession of the Office, there is no man of brains can deny, but we have an uninterrupted inecession down from the Apostles. But if it be a succession of Right Ordination that is quellioned, 1. The Papilts have none fuch themselves. 2. We have more of it than they. 3. It is not necessary that this be uninterrupted. All these I prove: 1. The Popes themselves, from whom their power flows. have been Hercticks, denied the Immortality of the Soul. Whoremongers, Sodomites, Simonifis, Murderers; fo that for many of them fuccessively, the Papills confess they were Apostatical, and not Apostolical. See in their own Writers the Lives of Sylveft. 2. Alexand, 3. & 6. John 13. & 22. & 23. Greg. 7. Urban 7. and abundance more, Job. 13. was proved in Council to have ravished Maids and Wives at the Apostolick doors murdered many, drunk to the Devil, askt help at Dice of Jupiter and Venus, and was kill'd in the act of Adultery. Read the proofs in my Book against Popery, pag. 269, 270, 255, 101. The Council at Pifa deposed two Popes at once, called them Hereticks departed from the Faith. The Council at Constance deposed Jospan 23. as holding that there was no Eternal Life, Immortality of the Soul or Rethe furrection: The Council at Basil deposed Eugenius 4. as a Simonist and perjured wretch, a Schismatick, and obstinate Heretick. Now these men are uncapable of the Ministry as an Intidel is, for want of Effential Qualifications: As Copper is no currant Coyn, though the flamp of the Prince against his will be put upon it: Undisposed matter cannot receive the form: A he man unordained is nearer the Ministry, than such a man ordained: So that here was a Nullity. 2. And all the following Popes were the Succeffors of Eugenius that was deposed, and thus judged by a General Council; but by force brought them to submit, and held the place. 3. Either the Election. Ordination, or both, is it that giveth them the Essence of their Papacy: If Election, then there hath been a long interruption: for some-while the People chose, and in other Ages the Emperours chose, and in these times the Cardinals; and therefore some of them had no lawful choice: And for Ordination, or Confecration; 1. There have been three or four Popes at once, and all were Confecrated, that yet are now confessed to have been no true Popes. 2. Inferiours only Confecrated. 3. And such as had no power themselves. Besides that, the See hath been very many years vacant, and some score years the Pope hath been at Avignion, and had but the name of P. of Rome. And when three or four have been Pope at once, Bellarmine confesseth, learned men knew not which was the Right, yea, General Councils knew not. The Council at Bafil thought Fælix the fifth was the right Pope, but it proved otherwife; so that many palpable Intercisions have been made at Rome.

2. Our Ordination hath been less interrupted than theirs.

Object. But you are not ordained by Bishops. Answ. 1. Almost all in Eng. land are till of late, if that will serve. 2. Presbyters may ordain in case of necessity, as the generality of the Old Episcopal men grant, and their Ordination is not null. 3. Presbyters have power to Ordain, and were refirained only from the exercise by humane Laws, as many of the Schoolinen confess. 4. Presbyters have still ordained with the Bishop; therefore they had Authority to it, and the work is not Alien to their Function. 5. Our Parith Presbyters are Billiops, having fome of them Atlikants, and Deacons under them; or as Grotius notes, at least they are so, as being the chief Guides of that Church: Their own Rule is, that every City should have a Bishop; and every Corporation is truly a City, whis, and therefore must have a Bithop. 6. The Jus Divinum of Prelacy is to Subjudice. 7. Eishop Uper maintaining to me the validity of the Ordination of the Freshyters without a Bishop, told me how he answered King C. who askt him for an instance in Church-History, viz. That Hierom ad Evag, tells us of more; that the Prefbyters of Alexandria, till the days of Heroclas and Dionylius, toil one from among themselves, and made him Bishop; therefore they may make a Presbyter, which is less. 8. Its at last confessed, that in Scripture-times there were no Presbyters under Bishops, but the single Churches had single Pattors. 9 No man can prove Ordination by fixed Eithops over many Churches (now called Diocesian) in the first Age: The fixed Bishops had no more at first but fingle Churches. Object. But you never received power from the Bilkep to ordain; and therefore cannot have that which was never given you. Arfiv. It they put men into that Office, to which God hath affixed the power of Ordination on, then they do their part to convey the power. As it you marry a couple, and express not the mans authority over the woman, yet he hath it nevertheless by being made her Husband. So he that is made a Pastor in City or Country, may do the work of a Pastor, though each particular was not named.

Proposition 7. Ordination is ordinarily necessary as a means of our right entrance, but not absolutely necessary to the Being of our Office or Power. For 1 God having already setled the Office, Duty, and Power, and what Qualifications -thall be necessary, and giving these Qualifications to men, he hath left nothing to man but mutual confent, and to judge of the person qualified, and folemnly introduce him. 2. God hath not tyed himself or us absolutely to the judgment of Ordainers. If a Bishop ordain a Heathen, or any man void of Effential Qualifications, its null, as being against a flat Command of God: And if Bilbops refuse to ordain us Pastors, the people must take them without; because the Command of Preaching, Hearing, Sacraments, &c. is greater than that of Ordination, and before it. Politives yield to Natural Morals, and matters of Order to the substance and end of the Duty ordered. See my Christian Concord, pag. 82, 83, 84. 3. Ordination is no more necessary to the Ministry, than Baptism to Christianity: As those that are first Princes by Title must be Crowned, and those that are Souldiers by Contract, must be listed. and take Colours, and those that are Husband and Wife by Contract, must be folemnly Married, which are celebrating, perfecting actions; so they that are first heart-Christians by believing, or by Parents dedicating them to God, must be solemnly entred under the hand of the Minister: And those that are by approbation and consent initially Ministers, must by solemnization have the Office publickly delivered them by the Ministers of Christ, So that as a man is a Christian indeed before Baptism initially, and is jutitified initially before, and in case of necessity may be saved without it (the Papifts confessing that the Vow will serve) so is it in the case of Ordination to the Ministry.

Proposition 8. It is only Christ, and not the Ordainers, People or Magistrates, that give us our Office and Power: Only the people and approvers delign the person which shall receive it from Christ; and our own consent, and the peoples, is of necessity thereto (and our own as much as theirs) and the Ordainers do instrumentally invest us in it; but the Power and Duty arise directly from Gods Institution, when the person is designed. Now I proceed to prove our Calling.

Argument 4. We have a far clearer Call than the Priests before Christ had to the Priesthood: For they were not of the true Line; they bought the Priesthood; they corrupted Doctrine and worship, and were of wicked lives.

And yet Christ commanded submission to their Ministry: Ergo.

Argument 5. If we have as clear a Call to our Office as any Magistrates on Earth have to theirs, then we are true Ministers of Christ: For they are true Magistrates; and God is the Fountain of their Power too; and its impossible they should have any but from him: Or from him but by his means: Officers have no power but from the Soveraign. The Prince was at first chosen by God immediately, as well as the Apossles were by Christ, yet no.

Prince

Prince can plead an uninterrupted succession thence; and if they may Reign without it, me may be Passors without it: and yet I cannot fay that we are without it, though Princes be. Kings were formerly anointed by inspired Prophets, and were Prophets themselves: And as the continuance of this is not necessary to them, so neither to us. The differences between their power and ours, makes nothing against this Argument: If Conquest, or the peoples consent, or Birth, or directing Providences can prove their Title, then Consent, Ordination, Providence, with due Qualifications, will sure prove ours: were it not for sear, they should soon hear the Arguments more set home against themselves, that are now bent against the Ministers.

Argument 6. If besides all this God own us by such a blessing on our labours, that he maketh us the means of propagating and continuing his Gospel and Church, and brings most of his chasen to Union with Christ, Reconciliation, Holiness, and to Heaven by our Ministry, then certainly we are his true Ministers: But experience assured us of the former: therefore--formuch for Argument.

Proposition 9. If a Minister be in quiet possession of the place, and fit for it, the people are bound to obey him as a Minister, without knowing that he was justly ordained or called. Argum. 1. We must obey a Magistrate without assurance of his Call and Title, Rom. 13. therefore a Minister. 2. Christ commanded hearing and obeying them that were not called as God appointed, because they were Priests, or sat in Moses Chair, and taught the truth, Luke 16.29. Mitth. 23.2. Luke 5.14. Matth. 8.4. Mark 1.44. 3. Else the people are put upon impossibilities: Can all the poor people tell before they submit to a Minister, what is Essential to his Call, and whether he have all that is so, and whether his Orders be true or forged, and whether they that ordained him were truly ordained, or chosen themselves: Not one of twenty thou-fand knows all this by their Pastors.

Proposition 10. The Ordinances are valid to the people when the Minister is uncalled and unordained, if they know it not: He that bath no just Call, shall answer for what he doth as an Intruder; but the people shall have for all that the fruit of his Ministration; and Preaching, and Baptisin, and other acts, shall not be null to them. 1. The Papisis themselves contess this. 2. Else scarce a man could tell whether he be baptized, or may use any Ordinance, because he cannot have an exact account of the Ministers Call, no nor know that he is indeed a Christian. I knew divers in the Bishops days that forged themselves Orders, and acted long before it was discovered. 3. It is the Office which is Gods Ordinance that is bleft, and valid to the people, and not his Call only. 4. It is he that finneth that must suffer, and not the Innocent; therefore his fin depriveth them not of their due. 5. As an usurping Magistrate oweth us protection, though he shall answer for his Usurpation; so an usurping Minister o weth us his labour; so that the people are bound to bear and obey men, when they are uncertain of their due Call, if they polfels the place; and shall have the bleffing of such Administrations: For we are fure the Office and work is of God.

Proposition 11. The truth of our Docteine depends not on our Calling. Were we no Ministers, we can prove the Gospel true which we deliver. And any man must be believed, that brings a truth that concerneth our peace. Therefore let Quakers, and Seekers, and Papists hrst disprove our Doctrine if they can; and not cheat the people, by perswading them, that our Calling must first be proved; as a Prophetsmust be.

Object. But you have your learning only from Books, and Universities, and fo have not true Ministers. Ansir. We have it from God in the use of his means. even by prayer, reading, study and learning his works and word of our Teachers, whether at Univerlitics, or elsewhere. And we are commanded to study and meditate on these things, and give our selves wholly to them, and to meditate on Gods Law day and night, Pfal. 1.2. 2 Tim. 2. 15. 1 Tim. 4.13.15. Chrisis Ministers must be Teachers or Tutors to others, and commit the thines which they have heard to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others allo. 2 Tim. 2. 2. Good Ministers of Christ are nourished up in the words of faith and good Doctrine, and so attain to it, 1 Tim. 4.6. All should learn according to their time of teaching, H.b. 5.11, 12, 14. We fludy nothing but the Word, and works of God: And is not that a Wretch, and not a man, that will reproach usas no Ministers, for doing that which we have our Reason for, and which must be the work of our lives: Poor Christians, as you love God and your Souls, and would not cast off Christ and Heaven, let not Deceivers draw you to cast off the Ministry, Scripture, or the Ordinances of Gcd.
