$500,000 SANITARIUM ANNOUNCED

C. Kimlin Reveals Plans of Glendale Institution for New Plant

WILSON AVENUE SITE
Four Hundred Feet Long, Will Accommodate 150 Patients

The Glendale Sanitarium like all institutions of Glendale, has felt the effect of the city's growth and consequent congestion and been forced to abandon its plan to enlarge its hospital on the present plant and buy a site elsewhere. It plans a half million dollar structure on the new site.

The deal has been pending for several weeks and has finally been consummated for the purchase of 20 acres at Wilson avenue and Sycamore canyon road, a most picturesque combination wooded hill and ravine commanding a view of the San Fernando valley. It is a piece of property that has been much coveted because of its beauty and situation, and the Sanitarium company feels it has been fortunate in making such a purchase from the Lodge estate at a cost of $50,000.

Manager Clarence Kimlin, who is also a member of the Glendale city council, explains that tentative plans have been made subject to the approval of the institution's constituency, the Pacific Union Conference and General Conference officials, for the erection of an initial building on the new site which will be 400 feet long and four stories high providing accommodations for 150 patients. It will be simply a sanitarium or high class health hotel, the surgical and maternity cases being cared for in the present hospital unit on Wilson avenue which will be retained. The portion of the present grounds fronting on Broadway to a depth of 450 feet being placed upon the market.

The new building is to be of fire-proof, concrete construction with hollow tile partitions, and though no plans have yet been considered, it is likely to follow in general architecture the lines of the Glendale Elks' building on Colorado. It is estimated that 25 to 30 months will be required to complete it and that it will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. Furnishings will cost $50,000, bringing the total cost of site and building to $450,000.

GLENDALE REACHES FIFTH PLACE IN GROWTH

Tabulation Gives Leading Place in Southwestern Cities

In the current issue of the Southwest Builder and Contractor a tabulated table of building permits issued in various towns of the Southwest credits Glendale with fifth place for the month of March with a total of $521,285 in building permits issued during that month.

Five Tons of Bundles for Near East Relief

Yesterday's near East Relief "bundle day" netted about five tons of used clothing and shoes. School buildings will continue as bundle receiving stations all week. For information call Rev. R. W. McTern, Glen, 1513-W.

The bundles will be shipped at Los Angeles and sent to Armenia on the steamer Pennsylvania, which will sail from Pacific ports about May 1.

Glendale's gift of clothing will be forwarded with many tons of similar relief supplies which are to be gathered in Pasadena, Orange county and San Diego county during the next two weeks.

Croakers, Pessimists Always Seeing Evil Get First Position

The croakers are always with us; likewise the pessimists who see nothing but disaster and evil, wring their hands, tell of the good old times and speak of the present as hopeless.

And they tell you to look at the newspapers filled with accounts of murders, robberies, jazz parties and joy rides. You hear of all these, but did you ever stop to consider that many good things are being done every day and you never hear of these?

ANNEXATION TALK IN EAGLE ROCK IS CLIMAXED

City Sanitary Engineer Rouses Ire of Residents Favoring Glendale

Annexation sentiment in Eagle Rock was brought to a crisis today through the publication of an effort of Frederick P. Stewart, sanitary engineer of that city, to annex the city to Los Angeles. The immediate effect was a crystallization of the sentiment for consolidation with Glendale without further delay.

The publication caused an instantaneous outburst of indignant protests from Eagle Rock to the Glendale Daily Press, which will reach its climax in Eagle Rock within a few days. Circulation of a petition for annexation to Glendale will probably follow in a few days.

RUSHING RECLAMATION. WASHINGTON, April 7.—Realizing that years may elapse before the Colorado river commission, appointed by congress, concludes its deliberations, Congressman Phil D. Swing, of Imperial, Calif., announced today that within a week he will introduce a bill authorizing the United States reclamation service to build a dam at Boulder canyon on the Colorado river at an estimated cost of $50,000,000, and a connecting all-American canal at an estimated cost of $30,000,000 to irrigate and reclaim three hundred thousand acres in Imperial county and Coachella on the Colorado desert.

COUNCIL IN QUANDRY

Every Mercantile Unit Is Represented at the City Hall

There was a pre-Fourth of July celebration at the meeting of the city council last night. The fireworks were caused by the presentation of the business and trade license ordinance that the council proposes to enact. The report that this ordinance was to be brought up at that time was spread from business to store, and as a result there was a large crowd awaiting the council members when they came out of their chamber.

The local business men who intended to protest against the proposed ordinance gathered early. By 7 o'clock the regular meeting time of the council, the council room was almost filled. The visitors continued to arrive until 7:30, when the council finally made its appearance.

After reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, Mayor Robinson lost no time in getting down to business.

"At this time I believe we should take up the most important matter on the program," he said, "and we will now consider the matter of the new license ordinance. In explaining this ordinance, I want to say that this time Glendale is running behind about $2000 per month. As a

3 Candidates for Mystic Shrine Await Initiation at Santa Barbara

The weather man has been instructed by C. E. Neale, president of the Shrine club, to have an especially nice brand of weather on tap tomorrow. The weather man has also been instructed to have a bright sun shining brightly.

The caravan will leave the chamber of commerce building tomorrow morning at 7:30 a. m. and every Shriner in this district is invited to go along. There will be a caravan of about 25 automobiles. The caravan will arrive in Santa Barbara at 12 o'clock noon and will be served a barbecue lunch at 12:15 p. m. The ceremonial will start at 1:30 and end at 4 p. m., making it possible for those who desire to return to Glendale by 8 o'clock.

The three candidates for consideration will pass before the famous Arab Patrol of the Al Mal-ikah Temple of Los Angeles and if they pass the scrutiny of the Patrol they will have the painful pleasure of crossing the hot sands of the desert to Mecca.

President Neale said that morning that as this is the first ceremonial that the Shrine Club of Glendale has had an opportunity of attending it is up to the members of the club to see that the candidates from this section secure their money's worth. He said that several painstaking methods of seeing that the candidates do get their money's worth have already been worked out.

The Merchants' License

The defeat of the merchants' license ordinance, indicated by the overwhelming protest before the city council last night, is perhaps one of the most healthy signs of the government and of the business of the city.

A merchants' license is one of the most destructive measures to the growth of any community. It has demonstrated that in its initiation it is, first, a hardship on the merchant, which must be passed to the consumer, thereby increasing commodity cost, and secondly, it is monopolistic in effect. In this phase of its operations it shuts off competition, keeps new business ventures from starting here and tends to hand to the merchants here an unwritten franchise to do business in Glendale.

That the merchants of Glendale, already entrenched, organized, on a competitive basis with any business in the southwest that may move to Glendale, had the sporting spirit to see and refuse to accept this practical franchise, this practical monopoly of the commerce of Glendale, and to fight any limitation to the growth of business here, is a splendid spectacle, worthy of the introduction of the ordinance—and its defeat.

In some of the larger cities of Arizona, where the license ordinance is common, and heavy, a newly arrived business man finds he is required to deposit license money amounting to a considerable sum before he may do business at all.

The small competitor is therefore immediately discouraged and the trade of the cities remains in the hands of those who first saw the local trade opportunities. Trade price agreements, understood, result in practical elimination of competition—and the growth of mail order business. For there are always cash customers who seek to get the ultimate value for their dollars.

The demonstration last night shows the Glendale merchants have the courage of their initiative, fear no competition, welcome comers to the business of the city on a fair and square basis.

As for funding the growing deficit of the city, a slight increase in service bills all around would answer. There are few who would resent a few cents' advance, provided they knew an additional policeman were patrolling the streets on which the service cost is advanced.

BUS LINE PETITION REJECTED

L. A. Board of Public Utilities Refuse Glendale a Permit

MASS MEETING HERE

City Officials Declare Line Will Operate if People Insist

The board of public utilities yesterday, by a unanimous vote, denied the city of Glendale's application for a permit to operate a municipally owned bus line to operate between Glendale and Los Angeles.

Glendale requested the Los Angeles board of public utilities for a permit to use the streets of Los Angeles and to establish a terminal in that city. While the permit was denied by the board in Los Angeles, city officials who attended the hearing yesterday say that this refusal does not mean that the bus line will not be operated. It has been indicated that there is a possibility of the bus line operating between Glendale and Los Angeles without the permit from the Los Angeles board of public utilities and at the same time remain within the law.

City Manager W. H. Reeves, who attended the meeting of the board of public utilities yesterday with C. D. Gulick, transportation manager, and Councilman S. A. Davis, said that by the unanimous vote of the members of the board to deny the permit the public might be led to believe that that organization was

PRANKISH JINKS RIDES HERD OVER HI

Spirit of Spring Garbes Students in Wierd Attire

If a stranger were to come into Glendale today, and to step on the campus of the high school, it is believed that the various costumes and actions of the students would be greatly criticized. But what of it? This is "Jinx Day," the biggest day of all the year and everyone is happy, and doesn't care whether "school keeps or not."

Jinx day is observed every year at the high school and everyone including the members of the faculty participate in it. On this day the students are permitted to chew gum, eat candy, suck all-day suckers, etc. Of course they go to their classes but they are thoroughly enjoyed when Jinx day comes.

Some of the costumes seen on the campus this morning included bikers, candlestick makers, old maids, beggars, Sis Hopkins, Si Perkins, Gunnysack girls, Gypsies, cowboys, farmer lads and many others.

Upon entering the office one was surprised to see Miss Jany Snyder, office assistant, dressed as a typical old maid. She wore a green and white checked apron tied with a huge yellow sash and at her throat was a purple tie. The color scheme was very effective! On her nose she wore large spectacles.

Miss Lucy Strothers, president of the student body, came rushing in to see about the assembly and one hardly recognized her in her pretty colonial costume and whitened hair.

Several of the teachers put in an appearance. Miss Soper came in dressed in a colonial costume and Miss Knight and Miss Shattuck were dressed as little girls. Miss Hunter was very striking in her riding habit and Mr. Ferguson made you long for the mountains as his costume was one suited to hiking. One student was looking for the janitor and thought he had found him, but upon looking more closely discovered that it was Irving Oliver, business manager.

The day promises to be a lively one. At noon there was a parade and in the auditorium this afternoon, a moving picture show. This will be followed by a "peppy" baseball game between the seniors and members of the faculty.

DR. HARROWER MARKS FOURTH ANNIVERSARY

Host to 150 Leading Physicians of Coast at Laboratory

The fourth anniversary of the establishment of the Harrower Laboratory, was celebrated Thursday evening, April 6 at the laboratory, the evening being in charge of Dr. Henry R. Harrower and his assistants.

Among the guests were about 150 physicians and surgeons from Southern California and many friends.

The early part of the evening was given over to a tour of the building in which every detail of operation was fully explained. Guests were first taken through the beautiful offices of Dr. Harrower and his secretary, Miss Kimlin, and on down the line through the editorial department, the mailing department, etc.

In the mailing room were found several wonderful machines, one of which will seal and stamp as many as 10,000 and 12,000 letters an hour. Their addressograph will address 20,000 letters a day.

The laboratories have 45,000 physicians and surgeons on their mailing list and these labor-saving devices aid in every way possible the efficiency of the office department. During the month of March 125,000 letters were mailed.

In the manufacturing department is a machine that will wrap, in a most sanitary condition the tablets put out by the laboratory. Each tablet is sealed in a paraffin paper casing to prevent deterioration. This machine will wrap 120,000 tablets per day.

After the tour had been completed, the guests adjourned to the assembly room where they were greeted most cordially by Dr. Harrower, who gave an interesting

The boys are rather looking forward to attendance on the services in the Little valley church which will be somewhat different from what they are accustomed to at home.

A 3-room cabin has been placed at their disposal and the party will carry plenty of blankets and "grub" to last the week through, though it may be supplemented by rabbit stew if the hunters in the group have good luck. The group includes Cecil Wilson, Paul Edmonds, Theo. Haig, Livingston Thom, Laughlin Jeter, Neal McIver, Newton McGillis, Ronald West, Morgan Zagg, Leland Paine.

WOODARD RESIGNS CITY OFFICE

Hartley Shaw, Former City Attorney Re-appointed Successor

COUNCIL SURPRISED

Pressure of Private Practice Given as Reason for Action

One of the surprises of a tolerably eventful session of the city council Thursday evening was the resignation of City Attorney Bert P. Woodard, presented in written communication which stated that he hoped it would take effect at once.

Though unexpected, the council acted promptly and appointed Hartley Shaw, former city attorney and for a time chairman of the board, to succeed Mr. Woodard.

Mr. Shaw's long experience in such work, and his acquaintance with Glendale affairs will make it easy for him to return to the office made vacant by this resignation and carry forward the work without difficulty.

Following the reading of his resignation Mr. Woodard stated that he is opening an office in the Central building, 111-A East Broadway, this city, in a suite of offices now being prepared, and that Attorney James E. McBryde will be associated with him. He will also retain his offices in Los Angeles.

Mr. Woodard was appointed to the office in the reorganization of the city government following the adoption of the city charter, and has had strenuous service ever since he accepted the appointment. Following is his letter of resignation:

"I hereby tender my resignation as city attorney for the city of Glendale.

"The city attorney is employed with the understanding that he shall have the right to engage in a private practice and at the same time discharge the duties of his office. I find that I cannot do this. It is impossible for me to keep up with the duties of the office without neglecting my private practice. The fact is, the position, at the present salary, together with the actual expenses incident to the duties of the office, has been a financial loss to me, and I cannot, as a business proposition, afford to deplete my private practice in order to hold the position.

"My employment and association especially with members of the council itself, has been extremely pleasant, and I thank each of you for the confidence you expressed in me by electing me to the position, and assure you that my reasons for resigning are financial and business reasons only.

"This matter has not been discussed especially by members of the council prior to today, and my resignation may be in the nature of a surprise, and if you prefer to have me continue in the position until you can consider the appointment of my successor, the resignation may take effect at your pleasure. Otherwise I prefer to have it take effect at once."

UNEMPLOYMENT BETTER WASHINGTON, April 7—

The reports from the various employment bureaus indicate a very appreciable improvement in the employment situation. These bureaus show that for every 100 places listed there were 226 applicants in January, 205 in February and 195 in March, and that for every 100 registrations for positions 38 found jobs in January, 41 in February and 43 in March.

JINGLING JAZZ OF THE NEWS

By Bert Marple

Merchants storm the city council with their protests loud and strong.

And upon the license law they put the jazz.

Hi Y club wins signal honors, San Diego boys they beat.

And they give the Northern Calif. kids the razz.

High school students own the city with their jinks costumes and gowns.

They proceed to paint this rusting city green.

And the folks of East Acacia say no 18-foot for them.

While the chain gang up in Burbank can't be seen.

Building costs are going upward, they will soon be out of sight.

Burbank milk wins honors here, says Hollenbeck.

Santa Rosa hotel owners plan another suite of homes.

Peary gets a full-sized monument by heck.

Glendale's big suburban party in the Woodlands will be held. All the "big guns" will be present, so I guess.

Every big sporting feature of this mammoth gala day.

Will appear on Monday evening in The Press.

Dr. G. Kaemmerling had a near surprise stag dinner party Thursday evening, arranged by Mrs. Kaemmerling in celebration of his birthday. The doctor was wholly unsuspecting until 2 p. m. when he proposed that they observe the anniversary with a dinner and she had to tell him. The premature springing of the surprise did not seem to lessen his enjoyment and the affair was a great social success.

Spring flowers and roses were used in the decoration of the smartly appointed table and living room. It was a five-course turkey dinner and while it was in progress the doctor was called to the telephone to receive the congratulations of the junior nurses at the Glendale sanitarium. MRS. COATES VISITS LOCAL LADIES' AID MEETING

President of Women's Home Missionary Society Here

The all-day meeting of the Women's societies of the First Methodist church was held Thursday, the forenoon being given to the ladies' aid, and the afternoon to a program given by the Margaret Locke Coates group of the Home Missionary society, which is divided into nine groups, each of which furnishes a program during the year.

The feature of the afternoon was the presence of Mrs. Margaret Locke Coates, president of the Southern California Women's Home Missionary society, for whom the group was named, as guest of honor. She made an excellent talk in which she reviewed the work in Southern California, especially mentioning the Francis Paw industrial school for Mexican girls on Sunset boulevard, Los Angeles, and the Jane Couch industrial home for Japanese girls on Burlingame avenue, and the David and Margaret home for children of all ages at La Verne, where 50 children are being cared for. The motto for the year, she said, is:

"Twenty per cent increase all the way through."

Membership, money and magazines, too.

She stressed the spirit of "all the way through," saying that if we have the missionary spirit, there will be the increase.

Mrs. Coates was introduced by Mrs. A. E. Laas, leader of the group, and her talk was preceded by a scripture reading by Mrs. S. B. Warner. Mrs. Love paid a memorial tribute to Miss Clara Midealf, who is much missed in the church.

CANDIED ORANGE PEEL

Remove peel from four thin-skinned oranges in strips. Cover with cold water, bring to boiling-point and cook slowly until soft. Drain, remove white portion by scraping with a spoon, and cut yellow portion in thin strips, using scissors. Boil one-half cup water and one cup sugar until syrup will thread when dropped from tip of spoon. Cook strips in syrup five minutes, drain and coat with the granulated sugar.

LADY BALTIMORE CAKE

One cup butter, two cups sugar, one cup milk, three and one-half cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla, whites of six eggs. Cream butter and add gradually, while beating constantly, sugar. Mix and sift flour and baking powder, and add alternately with milk to first mixture; then add flavoring and cut and fold in whites of eggs, beaten until stiff and dry. Bake in three buttered and floured tins, seven inches square.

NUT WAFERS

What Have You—A Refrigerator or An Ice Eater?

A few years ago folks used to think just "an ice box" would do—then the lady next door began to notice the Ice Man stopping twice as often at your house as hers—one day when she came to borrow a cookie cutter, and she spoke about it—and you started to THINK—"Maybe it's because the refrigerator isn't well built—it wasn't such an expensive one—and perhaps it would be better after all, to buy one that SAVED ICE as well as kept the food fresh and cold."

Price $13.50 up

A Roomful of Refrigerators

We have just purchased a lot of real "honest to goodness" REFRIGERATORS—all sizes and prices—porcelain enamel or zinc lined. Why not save one-third of your usual ice bill? That's what, counts.

We carry two real honest-to-goodness lines of refrigerators—the Economic and Ice King. Built to keep heat out—the cold in.

Hot weather's in sight—"ice up" now.

SOCIETY

"SLICKERS' CLUB" DANCE TONIGHT

As a grand finale to the high school jinks day and a compliment to the graduating class of the school, the "Slickers' club," one of the snappiest boys' organizations of the high school, is giving their annual dance tonight at the Women's clubhouse in Eagle Rock.

This organization is composed of 11 high school boys and has rapidly developed into one of the "peppiest" social organizations of the school. It is purely a social organization and the dances given by the organization are looked forward to with anticipation by the students.

While all of the dances given by this organization are gala affairs, the annual dance given in honor of the graduation class is the acme of pleasure and all that is heard at the school today is the query: "Are you going to the Slicker dance tonight?" Comes the answer, "You tell 'em. I wouldn't miss it for the world."

DAN CAMPBELLS ENTERTAIN INFORMALLY

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell entertained with a charming but quite informal dinner Thursday evening for Miss Alice Frank and her fiancé, Harry A. James. The table was centered with a bowl of peach blossoms on which were perched the blue birds of happiness, and the place cards represented brides and grooms.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Harriet Frank, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Edmonds, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Miss Kathleen Campbell, the guests of honor and the host and hostess. A pleasant social evening followed the dinner.

D. A. R. MEMBERS ARE ENTERTAINED

The Richard Gridley chapter, D. A. R. held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. M. Brown of 309 North Brand boulevard.

The program of the afternoon consisted principally of a review of the state conference of D. A. R. held recently at the Alexandria hotel in Los Angeles. There were a great many of the national officers present at this conference, among them the national president.

Mr. J. H. Braly was present to convey Mrs. Braly's greetings to the chapter. Mrs. Braly has been seriously ill for quite some time and is still unable to be up.

Mrs. Louisa A. Mansfield of 1235 East Lexington drive, left Thursday to visit in and near Junction City, Kan. She expects to spend the summer there with relatives and friends.

Mattison E. Jones of this city, president of the Board of Trustees of the University of Redlands addressed the students Thursday morning at chapel exercises, his theme being "Co-operation in Applied Trust Relationship."

SWIMMING POOL CONTRACT IS AWARDED

City Accepts Bid of Richardson Engineering Company

The bid of the Richardson Engineering and Building company for the construction of the new swimming pool in Glendale's park, was accepted at the meeting of the council last night. The bid of this company included $4739 for the erection of the pool and $8875 for the buildings.

This company agrees to complete the work within 50 working days, so that the pool will be ready for use by the opening of school vacation.

Cooking and Health

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1922, by The Associated Newspapers.)

Recently a health writer voiced his belief that "if the nation were supplied with plenty of trained and intelligent cooks they would cure nine-tenths of all dyspepsia cases without the aid of the doctors." Which recalls a similar opinion once expressed to me by a medical man, with special reference to nervous disorders.

"Inferior cooking," he declared, "is responsible for much, if not most, of the nervousness I am called upon to treat. Again and again the evil effects of culinary inefficiency are plainly discernible."

"Far too many girls are allowed to grow up untrained either to cook or to supervise cooking by domestic workers. The consequence is that when these girls marry they are poor home-makers."

"Their own digestions suffer and their husband's digestions also. This soon or late means a state of chronic nervous irritability. It may further mean marital dissension, with resort perhaps to the divorce court."

"And even if trouble between husband and wife does not result, nervousness in husband or wife, or both husband and wife, is pretty sure to flow from poor cooking in the home. For many a nervous woman the best possible prescription would be, 'Study a good cook-book.' Undoubtedly, incompetency in the kitchen is a conspicuous cause of ailments of various kinds. Yet it should likewise be stressed that if ill health thus caused is to be avoided, ability to cook well must be accompanied by dietary knowledge."

Lacking such knowledge, the culinary expert may be as great a menace to health as the worst kitchen bungler.

For with culinary expertness, the natural inclination is to make "fancy" dishes, rich sauces and gravies, highly flavored soups, etc. These are not merely over-tempting to the appetite, but are harmful alike to the stomach and the nerves because of the great quantities of salt, sugar or spices they contain.

Eaten to excess, as such foods are likely to be eaten, they eventually impair even the strongest of digestions. All who indulge in them risk suffering in some degree from various maladies, ranging from a mild nervous weakness to serious disease of the stomach, kidneys or blood vessels.

As one who has given much thought to health problems solemnly avers:

"The volume of suffering, direct or indirect, and the toll of human illness and death growing out of errors in eating are too monumental for comprehension."

"Slowly, all too slowly, the knowledge is growing that a shamefully large proportion of human ailments is the result of ignorance, indifference, or indulgence in eating."

By all means, then, let us have our young women, in every walk in life, trained to be good cooks. Their happiness no less than their health and the health of those for whom they cook or for whom they have food cooked may depend on their prowess as cooks and as supervisors of cooking.

But make sure, too, that they have a clear understanding of what the human organism can and cannot tolerate in the way of foodstuffs. That is even more necessary than mastery of the many problems that confront all cooks.

GLAD, GLEESOME, GIGGLES ON HI CAMPUS

Egg Hunt Day, Gala Event of Easter Season Celebrated

Members of the Girls' League of Glendale High had, so they said, the time of their lives at the Easter hunt they gave on the school campus Thursday afternoon for little boys and girls from the Boyd school, Los Angeles.

The children arrived under the chaperonage of three teachers, Miss Flood, sister of Mrs. George U. Moyses, Miss Daley, and Mrs. Elliott. They wore of many foreign nationalities, the Latin races predominating, all bright, winsome children, smiling in anticipation of the good time they were to have and speedily made at home by the girls who fell in love with them on the spot.

There were 33 children in the group, about evenly divided between girls and boys and there was a hostess for each child, some of the girls being eager to take two or three of the "cunning things."

As soon as all the little visitors had arrived they were lined up in a row on the steps of the administration building and the name and number of each child announced by Virginia Huntley, president of the League, this serving as an introduction to the girl having the corresponding number who advanced and claimed her guest.

Meanwhile an admiring circle of interested spectators formed a fringe around the group and on the steps above. As the pretty young women ran forward to claim them the excitement of the occasion mounted and the children's smiles grew broader and more eager.

When all had been appropriated the hunt for the eggs which had been hidden in the shrubbery by league members began, and in 20 minutes they had practically all been harvested in the paper bags provided for the trophies. Again the children assembled on the steps to compare their finds and the reports showed that "Frankie" who had six to show, was the winner of the grand prize, a square, egg colored spint basket, nested with green tissue shavings and filled with candy eggs.

Then came the brief program of recitations by Ethelwyn and Howard Kent, the little girl reciting "A Foolish Little Maiden" and "She Powders Her Nose," her brother giving "Castor Oil" and "Dudd Displaces Cleanse."

An adjournment was at once taken to the school cafeteria where a long table had been set decorated with great nests of candy eggs and attenuating yellow chickens, and with a gay basket of candy eggs, centered with a bunny, at each place to be taken home.

By this time the rain was ascending but nobody minded in the joy of big helpings of ice cream and cake, the smiles continuing until the little folks were bundled into autos for the return trip, shouting goodbyes and waving farewells to their entertainers.

Virginia Huntley as president of the league, and Lois Umstead as chairman of philanthropy, had general charge of the affair, other members of the philanthropy committee who assisted being Florence Gower (senior), Frances Wyman (junior), Katherine Stofft (sophomore), Miriam Whitten (freshman). Ruth James was chairman of refreshments, and Emma Laura Cooper, chairman of table decorations.

'THE BRAT' OPENS AT RIALTO STOCK

With "The Brat" as the exceptional offering at the tent theatre tonight, augmented by new specialties and music, and the engagement draws to a close, based upon merit alone, one of the largest audiences since the coming of the Rialto stock company likely will be in attendance.

No other stock company in the country appearing either in the regulation theatre or tent can begin to compare with quality of shows provided by this organization now holding forth at Harvard and Orange streets for the same small admissions, and the rapid increase in the nightly attendance is ample proof that the public is more than pleased. Those who judge a play or show by the admission scale alone may hesitate attending the tent theatre, as the prices are so small as to cause doubt as to merit, but after the first visit the viewpoint changes. It is an old saying which runs, "Gold and talent is where you find it."

Tomorrow night the old American classic, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the offering, and it is one of the most lavishly staged of all the plays in the repertoire of the Rialto Stock company.

TRICE FURNITURE CO. OFFERS PRIZES

Starting Monday, the Trice Furniture company at 118 West Broadway will offer $50 in cash prizes to the party furnishing the best reasons why you should own an all-porcelain gas range.

Also it is announced that, beginning April 24, until April 29, they will conduct a free domestic science school which will be open to the public. Classes will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and continue until 5. Mrs. Mary Marshment will be in charge and it is hoped that a large class may benefit from this free school.

CHATS WITH MARTHA ALICIA

IT IS DAYS SUCH AS THESE that make this glorious Easter season one of joy and happiness. And 'tis days such as these that make shopping a veritable pleasure—for just to wander around from shop to shop here in Glendale is a revelation! In the windows and cases there abound all manner of dainty clothes for Milady's Easter wardrobe—charming bits of loveliness designed expressly, methinks, to tempt the feminine heart! Then, too, there's a wealth of household helps and suggestions—all displayed with the attractiveness of "home"! Yes, indeed, now is the time when house and mistress must blossom forth with all the radiance of spring! Let the merchants of Glendale guide you in your selection!

Martha Alicia

Charming is a picture hat of visca straw, with large mauve peonies and silk grapes draping gracefully across brim and crown. If made of nugget beads, fastened in large twin discs, a wooden giraffe is nothing like it suggests.

AND WHEN MADAME FASHION dictates—Milady must heed! Thus, you'll do well to select that spring fur choker at once—for 'tis essential that the costume of the well-dressed woman of today must be completed with a smart choker fur or scarf! Miss Bedell of the BEDELL FUR SHOP, 1125 North Louise street, is a designer and maker of chic furs—furs that suit one's own individuality. If you're an old fur coat that you can't wear—just take it to Miss Bedell and she'll make it over into a stunning, up-to-the-minute piece! Phone Glendale 429-J for an appointment!

An interesting use of flowers on a giraffe shows an oblong plastron, forming almost the entire front of the giraffe, formed of myriads of the finest ribbon and these flowers, packed closely together like Mayfair bouquet.

COME NOW, 'less up—isn't your weakness past pastry? I knew it, and that's why I stopped in at the ROLLIN' PIN BAKE SHOP, 218 East Broadway, today and bought some of their delicious tarts! I'll tell you a bit about how they're made: Of light puff pastry sprinkled with powdered sugar and decorated with a cross of red currant jelly! And now, my dear, I've discovered that when you want absolutely fresh patty rolls, it's best to simply drop in at the Rollin' Pin Bake Shop and leave your order a day or so in advance! But pastry is a specialty with them—and it truly does them credit!

A most artistic gown is cleverly executed of beige Georgette crepe with loops on the sleeves and also on the sides of the skirt. Embroidery is wrought in sports colors accentuated by a giraffe of fancy silk.

IT PAYS, in more ways than one, to have all your work done at BAINES SHOE REPAIR SHOP, 312 East Broadway! You see, Mr. Baines is an expert in his line (quite the best in town, I understand), and unusually reasonable in price! Will you believe that, for repairing and rubber-soled ladies' shoes he only charges $1.50 per pair, and $1.00 for men's? While if you'll only send the children to his shop with their ripped shoes, they'll be mended free of charge! Call Glendale 180 and they'll call for repair and deliver your shoes, all in the same day!

A model combination cape and dress is developed in Loranite blue crepe Moroccan with lining and border of apricot crepe, matched by an elaborate embroidery in blue and apricot. A bead and metal belt supplies the finish.

AS I WAS PASSING FISHER'S VARIETY STORE, of 212 East Broadway today, a gay little nest of Easter eggs fairly beckoned me in! And imagine my joy to find that Fisher's have received the complete shipment of Easter goods—adorable nests and baskets, cute baby chicks and bunnies, bright-colored eggs and, in fact, everything that makes the day a happy one for the kiddies as well as the grown-ups! After a clandestine visit to Fisher's you'll be able to stage a wonderful egg hunt for the whole neighborhood. For there you'll find not only the "ready made" novelties, but all manner of things to aid you in preparing for the entertainment of the day's guests! Favors, booklets, and good-looking greeting cards play an important part in Fisher's showing for this Easter-tide! A visit to their store while the stock is yet complete will be well worth your while—and by all means take the children down to see the lovely Easter display!

At the same time that taffetas and some broades are used, fashion-makers are featuring soft and supple dresses of silk crepes, chiffon, Georgette and mousseline, and crepe Romaine.

YOU CAN'T APPRECIATE THE absolute satisfaction that is born of confidence in your laundry—of the absence of the gnawing fear that garments will be ripped and faded, and buttons torn off and lost—that is, of course, unless you are already a customer of the GLENDALE LAUNDRY, of Arden and Columbus! They do such beautiful work, either finished or rough dry, and at such a low cost to you that one really can't afford to have the washing done at home! Besides, just think of the phenomenal saving of time and strength! Call Glendale 1630—the Glendale Laundry—and order them to call weekly from now on!

An interesting sports costume is a dress of pale gray sports silk bordered with soft yellow flannel and edged with a fringe of the silk. Loops of the dress fabric are buttoned effectively to the belt and on the flowing sleeves.

THE WELL DRESSED WOMAN commands attention everywhere! And therein lies a secret—hark! and I'll share it. The fashionably gowned woman is not necessarily expensively dressed, but always with excellent taste! Thus it is that Madame Geraldine at the FASHION SHOPPE, 406 South Brand Blvd., is always in demand for the designs and makes the cleverest of dresses—at prices that are really unusually reasonable! In her able fingers, the plainest of materials and patterns soon become a veritable creation of loveliness—a charming example of an artist's handwork! Before selecting that Easter frock, be sure to stop in at the Fashion Shoppe and consult with Madame Geraldine!

White with brilliant tangerine or turquoise blue is very much liked, and any combinations in which a soft canary or sulphur yellow appears is quite the last word of fashion.

INDEED THE EASTER HOSTESS will be delighted to learn of the clever table decorations in lovely spring shades that are now being shown at BOTT'S BOOK STORE, 113 South Brand Blvd. They've a full line of charming decorations, quaint little seasonal favors and distinctive Easter cards now. Make your selection while the stock is yet complete!

Squares of matted beads, plus square of colored cloth, result in a most delightful checked trimming.

EASTER—SPRING—FLOWERS—SUNSHINE—pretty new clothes and joyful hearts bespeak the season! Could there be a more delightful season to have one's pictures taken at DOBERG'S STUDIO, 206 1/2 West Broadway, than this glorious month? Take the children in the Easter frocks and tics to Dobberg's, that he may capture with his camera a wee bit of their charm—for Mr. Dobberg actually does express one's own personality in his photographs! Dobberg's photos are all of quality unexcelled, but at prices to suit any pocketbook!

"STOP AND SHOP"—for an Easter bonnet, was my hunch as I entered 223 North Brand Blvd.—and here's the result! Why, my dear, I found that at STOP AND SHOP there's a wonderful millinery section, devoted to stunning chapeaux from New York and Paris, embracing the newest modes and fancies from the fashion centers of the world! Isn't it lovely? And this is, but one of many charming hats now being shown for the Easter-tide at Stop and Shop! Drop in and look them over—and then, too, if you are selecting a new dress for the season, don't fail to look over their stock of smart dresses in taffeta and crepe de chine! Their blouse department was also a revelation to me, for all are exclusive models—of instant appeal to the feminine eye!

Box or flaring jackets are featured with flaring sleeves to correspond. Many such fancy jackets have a high neck closing. Utility coats and capes often show the high neck fastening with turnover collars, but they can be worn open as well.

AND NOW FOR THE GLORIOUS evenings spent on the wide front porch 'neath the moon! They're simply wonderful here—except that sometimes it grows a wee bit chilly! Then 'tis best to simply lower the attractive Vudor shades which you bought from GLENN B. PORTER'S FURNITURE STORE, 124 West Broadway—and all is well! These shades are a joy, for they may be conveniently lowered by any one, and they're truly the best to be bought for the money. Mr. Porter has secured the exclusive showing of them in Glendale.

Very smart French models consist of a skirt and rather long circular cape, which may be worn with another odd sports skirt quite as well as with the one which it matches.

IMAGINE MY SURPRISE, TO find, when I dropped in at the JAPAN ART AND TEA CO., of 135 South Brand Blvd., today, that they are carrying a fine line of imported delicacies! They've the best Italian olive oil, an extraordinary supply of delicious imported sardines from Norway, France and Portugal, and the much-wanted Italian and French dried mushrooms! And the macaroni, spaghetti and noodles that you've hitherto had to go to the city for, may now be bought right here in Glendale at the Japan Art and Tea Company at an interesting saving of money! You'll enjoy a little trip to this winsome Oriental shop more than anything that I know of!

Ribbozene braid is embroidered to simulate broad braids.

GAY LITTLE BEAD BAGS—daintily knitted sweaters and fascinating hand-work of all kinds is taught at the ART NEEDLE SHOP, 209 East Broadway! Drop in for the classes on Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 to 12 or from 2 till 4—you'll enjoy them!

DOES SPRING-TIME bring to your mind thoughts of refurbishing your home, too? Perhaps it isn't advisable to entirely redecorate and furnish in deference to spring, but at least there are so many little changes that will add in so great a measure to the attractiveness of the home! At the ENTERPRISE FURNITURE STORE, 216 East Broadway, you'll find any number of interesting ideas and suggestions—grass and reed furniture, rockers, tables, chairs and chaise lounges, and delightful new rugs! Do drop in and look them over!

HAVE YOU VISITED THE ELIOT HARDWARE STORE, 205 West Broadway? Well, tomorrow, of all days, you must drop in there, for I saw in the window a display of aluminum wares that are to be sold for 10 cents—tomorrow! There are handy coffee and tea balls, measuring cups, salt and pepper shakers—and a myriad other little conveniences for the housekeeper—of the best quality, and they're other high grade aluminum utensils at unusually low prices!

IT'S HERE AT LAST! Why, the new Universal vacuum cleaner, I mean! I saw this dandy new suction cleaner at the GLENDALE ELECTRIC CO., 132 North Brand Blvd., today—and indeed, it is wonderful! It possesses all of the advantages of the old-style cleaner and many, many new ideas. For instance, there's a novel device that will maintain the handle and bag in an upright position when not in use; a simple and positive adjustment by which the mouth of the nozzle is raised or lowered to the surface of the carpet; an elimination of wires, that in all other cleaners are attached to the outside of the case, and consequently extremely inconvenient. On the new Universal all these wires are enclosed in the handles, and thus the connection cannot get out of order. Oh, yes! and then there's a dandy rubber buffer around the edge of the nozzle to prevent marring the furniture! Do stop in at the Glendale Electric Co. and ask to see this wonderful new suction cleaner at only $47.50—and on convenient terms, too!

Youthful dressers are encouraged to wear the modified Victorian types with full skirts and low shoulders, both in party dresses for the post-Lenten season and in quaint summer frocks of crisp organdie.

JUST PICTURE IT! It's a Sunday afternoon, you've been driving all day—and at last, here's YE OLDE OAK TREE INN—just the ideal spot, on the road home, to have a delicious home-cooked dinner! There's an inviting big living room, with a gloriously blazing log fire on the open hearth—plenty of comfy chairs and a delightful atmosphere of cozy hospitality, and, perhaps, your table placed before the fire! Everything is peace, quiet and absolute harmony—so restful after the hustle and bustle of city places! And such food! My dear, you've never even eaten such tempting meals as they serve at Ye Olde Oak Tree Inn—but don't take my word for it—try them for yourself! It is that attractive, rustic home on North Verdugo, just about one mile south of Montrose—an old English Tea Garden, set like a gem in the beautiful hills, and completely surrounded by spreading oak trees! If you've never visited Ye Olde Oak Tree Inn, there is indeed a rare treat in store for you!

An attractive yet simple gown for formal day wear is designed in satin crepe with collar, vestee, sash and sleeve ends of pale gray mousseline de soie. Silver ribbon bracelets hold in the sleeves at the wrists.

FOOD THAT actually melts in your mouth—is the food served at PUSS 'N BOOTS, 211 1/2 South Brand Blvd. Their Sunday chicken dinner at $1.00 the plate is particularly toothsome for it's all home-cooked and perfectly delicious!

The tiny spiral-shaped dwelling of the snail is now tinted in any color prescribed by the gown, and used en masse, forming a giraffe, a band for a border or a sleeve finish—to excellent advantage.

Often a hat of the suit material completes the smartest outfit, with sports hose supplying a fancy design and bright touch of contrasted color.

WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE IS the newest? I dropped in at ARTHUR H. DIBBERN'S, 121 N. Brand Blvd., for a new band for my wrist watch today—and discovered that Dame Fashion's latest conceit is a good-looking ribbon band in a soft, pretty shade, such as gray, daintily hand-painted in bright colors! The motifs are flowering in design—and just the thing to be worn with a lovely Easter frock! You'll simply adore these new ribbon wrist-watch bracelets at Dibern's—step in and see them! And, sh-h-h-h! 'tis rumored that in order to be right-up-to-the-minute this spring, Milady must wear the striking new pendant ear-drops with sport clothes! Yes, and Mr. Dibern will have a charming line of them in jade, onyx, crystal and lapis lazuli!

The miracle that can be achieved through the combination of mauve faille and a frill of ecru rose point lace is only accentuated when hand-made fruits consort in the embellishment.

TREND OF BUILDING COSTS IS UPWARD

Analysis of General Conditions Show Advance With Prices

The trend of general commodity prices was upward between 1896 and 1920, the building costs following the general course. Until 1915 the increase was gradual, with short downward swings during the years 1904, 1908, 1911 and 1914. The years 1915 witnessed the beginning of a more rapid rise, and the rate was still further accelerated in 1919 and early 1920. The latter year was the turning point, and the downward rush of prices equalled the rise of the preceding year, continuing for 12 months before any definite slackening of the fall occurred.

It is apparent that the increase in construction costs between 1915 and 1917 was almost entirely due to the increase in material prices. These had been doubled by the summer of 1917, while building labor costs had increased 18 per cent. The increase in labor costs continued, constituting a more important factor in later additions to construction costs. In 1920 labor costs had reached a maximum, 100 per cent above the 1914 average. At this peak, which was reached in August, 1920, construction costs were 167 per cent above pre-war costs. The precipitate general construction costs down in the latter part of 1920, though labor costs maintained their level during that year. The year 1921 brought recessions in both groups and by February, 1922, material costs stood 98 per cent above their pre-war average, with labor costs 65 per cent above. The weighted average of the two, which is taken to represent the general cost of construction, was 85 per cent above the 1914 figure in February, 1922.

It is worthy of note that there have been no marked changes in material costs or in general construction costs since September, 1921, though there have been slight recessions in labor costs. Certain building materials have actually increased in price during the last several months. This has been due to renewed bidding for materials with the increased building activity of recent months.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR'S TRIAL

WAUKEGAN, Ill., April 7.—Prosecutors of Governor Len Small charged with conspiracy to embezzle state funds, today continued their fight before Judge Claire Edwards to obtain all existing records of the case First Trust and Savings bank of Kankakee and the Grant Park Trust and Savings bank.

Assistant Attorney General Jas. H. Wilkerson resumed his examination of Norman Griffin, cashier of the Kankakee institution at the opening of the courts.

Jagged, Horse Ruins Saloon's Dry Reputation

OAKLAND, April 7.—Johnnie Heindol, keeper of the Last Chance saloon, made famous by Jack London, wants it distinctly understood that John Skopp's horse did not get drunk at his bar.

Heindol appeared in Justice Pulifer's court recently as a voluntary witness. He wanted to uphold the good name of the Last Chance saloon. He declared emphatically that the Last Chance saloon does not serve liquor. Some months ago, John Skopp's horse surreptitiously jumped into the tonneau of an automobile driven by W. R. Osgood. The machine had halted during a traffic jam in front of Heindol's bar.

Skopp was being sued for damages, but declared he was not responsible because his horse was drunk. He declared it had been eating brandy mash back of Heindol's saloon. Heindol was indignant and voluntarily went to court and told the judge that "no horse ever got intoxicated at my establishment, either before or after prohibition."

The couple had spent the winter in a cabin where Booth had mining claims. Booth also was widely known as a trapper. It is presumed that Booth started for Boise with his wife and perished in the snowslide near their home. A search is being made for the body of the woman.

SAN DIEGO, April 7.—The Southern California Medical society convention is under way here today. Physicians and surgeons from 20 cities are in attendance. Two days will be devoted to hearing papers on scientific subjects. The annual banquet will be held tomorrow night.

DENOUNCED BRIBE STORY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 7.—The statement that the Alabama Power company offered a virtual bribe of $2,500,000 if the Alabama Farm bureau would seek to lease "nitrate plant No. 2," is "absolutely false," Logan Martin, general counsel of the company declared in a statement issued at local headquarters today.

NEGROES FIGHT SHERIFFS

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio, April 7.—A clash between armed negroes at Rondville and 45 deputy sheriffs armed with machine guns and reinforced by a hundred citizens from New Lexington was feared late today.

Te posse responded to call for help from Sheriff Minshall of Perry county, who met resistance when he attempted to arrest negro moonshiner early today.

DENVER, April 7.—Robert McCormick, 8, was instantly killed while riding on a merry-go-round at a park here today. The boy was thrown under the machine and beheaded.

IRISH FREE STATE IS NOW IN PERIL

De Valerites Threaten a Coupe d'etat in Dublin City

DUBLIN, April 7.—Rebellious demonstrations by De Valerites in Dublin today caused the Free State government to rush troops to occupy the telephone exchange, which insurgents had planned to seize.

Two hundred rebels attacked the customs house and destroyed nearly $10,000,000 worth of liquors and wines from Belfast, declaring they were enforcing a boycott against Belfast.

Renewed threats of a republican coup d'etat reached the provisional government early today. A force of loyal troops was sent to occupy the telephone exchange which, it was understood, was to be the first objective of the rebel attack. Many De Valerites were seen in the streets but were unarmed and were kept scattered by Free State police. The rebels drifted in on trains from the provinces. Many of them have been identified as former republican army troopers who fought guerrilla warfare against the British.

The raid on the customs house where a few guards were powerless to prevent the wholesale destruction that followed, was sensational. A large force of insurgents broke into the huge building, where thousands of casks and cases containing wines and whiskey of Ulster firms were stored. With axes and hammers the raiding party smashed everything in sight flooding the floor of the customs house with valuable liquor worth more than two million sterling.

Six thousand casks containing half a million gallons of liquors and wines were destroyed. The value was announced as over two million pounds sterling, which means that over a million pounds in revenue has been lost to the Free State by the outrage.

ULSTER IS INVADIED

ENNISKILLEN, Fermanagh, Ireland, April 7.—An Irish republican army massing along the Leitrim border, has invaded Ulster territory.

Southern outposts have been thrown into Ulster territory within a few hundred yards of a constabulary headquarters near Belcoo.

ROYAL CONSTABLES KILLED

LONDON, April 7.—Five constables of the royal Irish constabulary were shot to death in Ireland last night, according to the Dublin correspondent of the Morning Post.

Two were killed in County Kerry and three in County Clare, according to the correspondent.

BUS PETITION IS REJECTED

absolutely opposed to any attempt that might be made to disturb the Pacific Electric Railroad company.

"The action of the board," he said, "might be construed as a vested interest in the actions of the railroad company of this state." Mr. Reeves stated that the arguments advanced by the members of the board for the denying of the permit were very weak and indicated to his mind that the members of the board, were opposed to any action that would be detrimental to the interests of the Pacific Electric.

That Glendale is not defeated in the attempt to operate a bus line in order to reduce the fares for transportation between Glendale and Los Angeles is shown by the statement that the meeting scheduled for the high school auditorium on Saturday night when representatives of the various towns of the county will be in Glendale celebrating Glendale day of the suburban committee of the Los Angeles, Angelenos, will take the color of a bus meeting.

Mr. Gulick, who is transportation manager for the city of Glendale and has charge of the fight to secure a bus line between Glendale and Los Angeles, is issuing a call to all of the citizens of Glendale who desire a bus line between the two cities to attend this meeting at the high school on Saturday night for the purpose of informing the mayor and city council of Glendale whether or not they desire to have the rates lowered between the two cities by the installation of motorbuses.

Mr. Gulick said that the citizens who desire the motorbuses must attend this meeting as the people of the city who are opposed to the establishment of a bus line will attend the meeting in force, and Mr. Gulick said that the city of Glendale will, despite the ruling of the Los Angeles board of public utilities, give the citizens this bus line if the citizens want it.

Mr. Gulick in commenting on the action of the public utilities board in denying Glendale's permit to operate the bus line said this morning for the purpose of a city of 26,000 people. We feel that Glendale must have better protection and this seems to be the only way to get it.

Of the protestants, C. E. Neale of Neale & Gregg Hardware company was the first to take the floor. He said: "I believe that if this ordinance is only against the merchants it is somewhat discriminating. The merchant has almost unbearable burdens at this time and to tack another expense to his operating here will surely prove a burden. If we must have better police protection I believe we should let all the people do the paying for it. We are afraid of other merchants coming in. We invite competition—that is what makes good business. I am not opposed to being taxed for better police and fire protection, providing everybody shares in the paying."

G. C. McConnell of the Builders Hardware & Supply company, and president of the newly organized Progressive Business club, said: "If the tax limit has been reached, and if more money is required, it is up to all of us to dig down in our pockets and make up the difference. But in this making-up process everybody should have a part." George Sutton, secretary and treasurer of the Progressive Business club, said: "If this ordinance is adopted it will certainly work a hardship to the automobile men of Glendale. It will catch us coming and going and we will have to pay on our used car business as well as on our trade in new cars. Like the members who have taken the floor before me, feel that this ordinance will be discriminatory against the business man. The retired man who has purchased property here and who has not a penny invested in business, no matter how much Glendale property he owns, will not have to help pay this difference. I am perfectly willing to pay, providing each one in Glendale does his share."

Mr. Sutton stated that he had a letter from Dr. Harrower, who was kept from attending the meeting by another affair, and that he would like to read it, which he did. The letter follows: "In view of the fact that I have a meeting on the 14th of April to celebrate the completion of our fourth year of service, I cannot attend the council meeting at which, I understand, the matter of securing funds for the city's needs through a business tax is to be considered. "I am opposed to even a thought of a business tax for several reasons which occur to me. "1. It is discriminatory. Why should the business men of Glendale support the city in a special manner and pay more than their share of the cost of activities, which are a benefit to all others living here and who are securing equal benefits from the services and improvements, but who do not happen to be in active business? The retired man gets just as much good out of the city as an active one and if the business tax were imposed, the retired man would get the benefit without paying, whereas the business man would be asked to pay double for himself and for the other fellow who does not pay. As a matter of fact, the business men of Glendale are the ones most active in making our city, and aggressively furthering its interests. "2. It is an unwarranted intrusion upon the personal affairs of the business man. A business tax, especially of the character of a tax that has proven a signal failure in one sister city, Los Angeles (which I understand, has been or is to be repealed), demands a statement of the finances of the business and, while I admit that this information is disclosed to the United States government, yet remotely situated government employees obviously cannot be so concerned with personal business matters in the way that local officers would have to be in a comparatively small city. "3. It is a temporary expedient. Such a tax is an attempt to secure additional help during time of need and in a limited way. If the finances of the city demand additional taxation, and retrenchment and economy and planning are not accomplishing the desired ends, then council, we feel that the only way to take care of this deficit is to create a business and trade license ordinance such as is now being used in Burbank, Pasadena and other Southern California cities. The painters, plumbers and others are really the ones who started us working along this line and during our discussions we just naturally spread out until we were talking in all the business men of the town.

"As we are going behind every month, we realize that something must be done. "What police we have are good, but as a whole our police protection is poor, and we feel we must have better protection along this line, and especially must we have better police protection during the hours of the night. The ordinance that we have drafted may be faulty but it is only through discussion that we can iron out the wrinkles. While this ordinance will levy a tax on the local merchants, it will at the same time protect these same merchants from out-of-town, fly-by-night competition.

"We are open to suggestions. If there is any one who can offer any suggestion as to how this money can be raised, we will be glad to consider their suggestions. We are willing and anxious to take this ordinance up with the mechanics and business men interested, and who ever else is interested."

Councilman Davis said: "We must have better police protection for Glendale homes and citizens. We have 16 men on our police force, but only nine of them do actual service on the streets. This is not a sufficient number of officers adequately to protect a city of 26,000 people. We feel that Glendale must have better protection and this seems to be the only way to get it."

ROTARIANS HOLD

99 PER CENT MEETING

Only One Member Fails to Attend the Luncheon

In spite of the fact that reports and other matters of interest left no time for the customary address, the luncheon of the Rotary club Thursday noon was voted the best the organization has ever had. All members were present save one, and in the absence of President C. C. Cooper, Vice President Roy L. Kent presided.

Members who were absent last week were called on the carpet and asked to explain their non-appearance. Their excuses not being satisfactory to Mr. Kent, they were instructed to deposit fines in the charity box.

"CH" Neale suggested that George Bentley be fined $1 a pound for the eight and one-half pound boy who arrived at his home last Tuesday, and he cheerfully paid a fine, though the auditing committee was not called upon to check up the amount.

The meeting opened with the singing of "America" in which members of the Progressive Business Men's club, who were meeting in an adjoining room, heartily joined.

All committees made reports which indicated that the club is looking to big things in the near future.

Secretary J. Herbert Smith made an excellent talk on the duties of members, and Frank Geiger gave two vocal numbers which were much enjoyed. Mr. Van Valkenburg presided at the piano. The guest list was quite large and included B. O. Stafford of Marquette, Mich., C. W. Van Valkenburg of Tulsa, Okla., G. W. Byers of Champaign, Ill., Frank Britton of Kansas City, Mo., Mr. Weir of Los Angeles, Harry James and Rev. E. E. Ford of this city, and Frank Geiger.

REORGANIZE POSTOFFICES

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Reorganization of 100 or more of the most important postoffices in the country is planned by Postmaster General Work in order that greater efficiency may be afforded the public. The postmaster general also plans to augment the inspection service by about 100 additional inspectors, who are to be assigned to make careful analysis and investigation into those postoffices where improvements are believed to be possible.

"Let us have an equitable tax which will enable the entire city and every responsible inhabitant, property owner and otherwise, assist in the development of this fund."

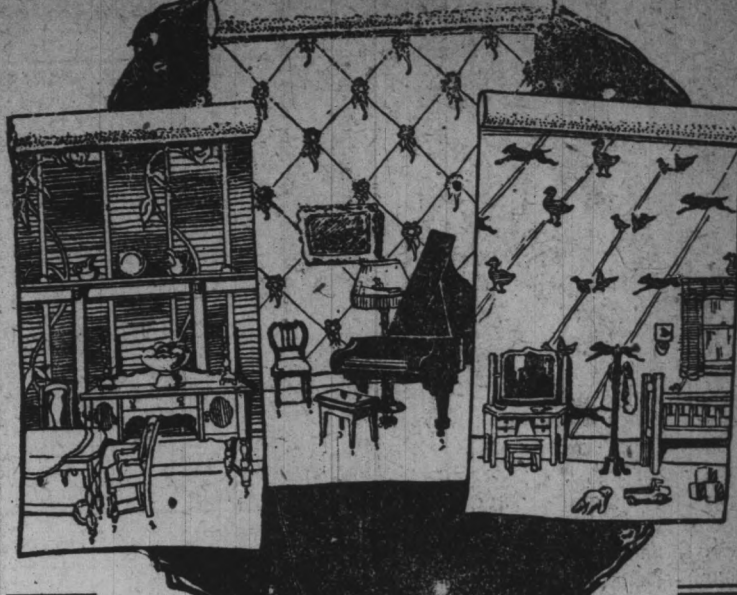

In regard to the ordinance Councilman Davis said: "I thought I would be able to save my statement until the vote on the ordinance next Thursday night, but I can't sit still when every one else is having a good time. From the very first I have been against this ordinance and I am not taking this stand because there are a lot of protestants present. I am against it because it is wrong in principle. It is true that we need more money, but the money that we would raise by this ordinance is not worth the dissatisfaction it would create in the city. The merchants of other cities are licensed to death and we want to keep Glendale a little different than other cities. If a man cannot stay in business on his own feet, then he should get out of it. If I thought this ordinance was right, I would vote for it regardless of who and how many protested against it. I think it's wrong, that is why I oppose it."

Mr. Hollister, president of the chamber of commerce, said: "The point occurs to me that it's a rank injustice for the business men to supply the money to meet the expenses of the town. Davis is the only man on the council who has been an active business man in Glendale and he knows what the local business man has to contend with. In addition to the taxes we have to pay we are called upon to dig up for everything that comes along. It's a question of $5 now, $10 after a while, $2 the next day, and so on. Like the other speakers who have taken the floor, I am willing to pay my share of the money that is needed to clear this matter up, but I am not willing to pay for myself and the non-business man, too. If the business man of Glendale cannot do business here without this tax he should get out of business."

Mr. Lauderdale, speaking on the subject, said: "Everything that has been said here tonight has been destructive and not constructive. If I understand correctly, the council wants ideas and suggestions. Here's a suggestion I would make: 'Institute a poll tax of $1 a person on would raise the required amount.' This suggestion was killed by the fact that the state of California some time ago abolished the poll tax.

Matters went on merrily for an hour or more. Everyone realized that money is required, but just how to raise it no one seemed to know. The discussion was brought to an abrupt end by Councilman Stevenson, offering the license ordinance that is under discussion. No definite action will be taken on this measure until next Thursday night.

After the meeting Councilman Stevenson said it might be a good plan to levy a municipal income tax to raise the money. This, however, was not advocated by Mr. Stevenson. The suggestion was also made that the water and light rates be raised to bring in the required amount.

WET AND DRY FIGHT ON IN NEW JERSEY

Swimming Pool in Senator's Cellar Is Vortex of Battle

WASHINGTON, April 7.—When is a cellar not a cellar? Answer: When it is a swimming pool. That is to say, if Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen of New Jersey had a concrete cellar, and it later turned out to be a swimming pool, with nothing stronger in it than water, does that prove that Frelinghuysen is not entitled to the votes of New Jersey drys?

Assuredly, the cellar or swimming pool is wet, Frelinghuysen's friends concede; but so is the ocean wet without in the least annoying Mr. Volstead, and where do the democrats and wets get that cellar stuff, anyway? It never was a cellar, and Frelinghuysen never had it full of booze, and he never was a wet, and the whole yarn is just a malicious canard. And that's that.

The wets—and New Jersey, report has it, is thickly populated with them—are of two political persuasions. Republican and democratic, and in addition to their wet predilections, they have in common a desire to get Frelinghuysen out of the senate when he runs again this year.

The place of the cellar-swimming pool story in the plot of the rapidly thickening Jersey political drama is that of comedy-relief. Somebody started a story that Frelinghuysen wasn't so dry as he voted, and that he had imported a New York contractor to build him a concrete cellar, wherein was to repose a stock of choice but contraband beverages. But when this somebody added by others "dug into" the Frelinghuysen cellar, it proved to be a swimming pool, so 'tis said. Then, not to be balked, the tellers of the tale declared Frelinghuysen and his cellar both had been "converted."

The wet and dry issue is not the only one in Frelinghuysen's campaign. His vote to seat Senator Newberry is being used against him, especially by women campaigners. His opponents also accuse him of wiggling and wobbling on the soldier bonus issue.

The republican wets thus far have found nobody to contest with Frelinghuysen for the G. O. P. nomination. For one thing, he stands close to the Harding administration. When the administration is popular, Frelinghuysen's fortunes boom; when it is unpopular—or relatively so—"Joe" feels the effect. But when, ask enthusiastic New Jersey republicans of the Frelinghuysen persuasion, when, if ever, has the Harding administration been even relatively unpopular? A second buttress to Frelinghuysen's strength in his own party is the help he has been able to give some influential citizens in matters pertaining to property affected by the war.

His pet hobby, collecting rare and valuable postage stamps, has not, so far as is known, hurt him with the voters.

While the republican wets seek in vain for a champion to overthrow Frelinghuysen, the democratic wets have their eyes in the saddle with lance all sharpened. He is Governor Edward I. Edwards and he hopes to beat "Big Joe" on a platform calling for congressional modification of the Volstead law to permit beer and light wines. New Jersey is one of the states where this issue will be paramount, and for that reason the outcome will be watched with much interest by political observers.

The state prohibition enforcement act was knocked out by a court decision the other day, and that, Frelinghuysen's opponents assert, was a hard blow to him, and a corresponding strengthening of Gov. Edwards' senatorial chances.

SIDE LIGHTS OF CITY COUNCIL

A petition was presented asking the Glendale avenue from Doran street north be made a first class residential district. The matter was referred to the city engineer to ascertain if this includes city property.

A petition was presented by C. D. Thom, asking that Doran street between Glendale avenue and Geneva street, including lots 10 and 18, be made a commercial district. The matter was laid over for one week in order that property owners in the vicinity affected may be given a chance to protest.

The bid of J. P. Hunter of $6400 for the construction of the sewage disposal plant was refused. The plan is for the city to do the work, by which procedure it is believed a considerable sum can be saved.

An application was received from Henry Tobias for a permit to construct a frame building on Los Feliz road between San Fernando road and the Southern Pacific tracks. The matter was referred to the city manager and the building inspector for inspection and report.

The matter of ordering in ornamental lighting in various parts of the city was brought up by Councilman Lapham. He said that he thought a uniform system of standards should be selected for all of the ornamental lighting of the city. Mr. Dietrich reported that it had been found that the one-light standard was the most efficient of any that had been tried.

It was decided to continue the hearing to set aside Jackson street from Lexington drive and Doran street as a first class residential district for one week.

As there were no protests against the proposed improvement of Elk avenue from Pacific to San Fernando road, steps were ordered taken to have this work done.

The application of C. M. Retts to set a house closer than 25 feet on North Columbus was ordered laid over for one week.

The father of an ingenious infant is a retired mathematical professor whose twin hobbies are gardening and keeping poultry. Most of his hens, however, died of a mysterious complaint. One day the professor found his little daughter planting feathers in neat rows behind the cabbage patch. "What on earth are you doing?" he demanded.

"Don't be silly," said the infant, crushingly; "you said that we couldn't have any more eggs because the chickens were all dead, and I'm setting out some chicken sets."

BURBANK NEWS

CHAIN GANG IN BURBANK GET PRIVACY

High, Solid Board Fence Fends Men From Curious Eye

A high, solid board fence is being erected in the rear of the city hall to be used as a "bull pen" or exercising pasture for the members of the chain gang, and there has been considerable discussion on the subject. It was rumored that the Christian church on one side and the Methodist church on the other, had made a protest against having prisoners out in the open as they were on Saturday afternoon and Sundays, but upon inquiry Rev. Allen of the Methodist church and Rev. Parker of the Christian church said there had been no action taken, and at a meeting of the Ministerial Association on Tuesday, official action was taken to the effect that no protest would be made officially, either for or against the fence.

Since the work began there have been many complaints because of the appearance of the fence, and when City Marshal Cole was interviewed he said he had the fence put up because he believed, from what he had heard, that the churches wanted it and also because it was not possible to keep the prisoners in the jail from Saturday noon until Monday morning, and there was no other place for them but in the rear of the city hall and there they had to do their washing. He said children could not be kept away nor could he always hear and censor every word of the conversation for these and other reasons, he felt that the only way to overcome the difficulty at the present time was to build the fence.

BURBANK AUTO CAMP SITE IS SOUGHT

Chamber of Commerce Committee Appointed to Select Location

Action looking toward the establishment of a Burbank auto camp was taken at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday and a committee of three composed of P. O. Camburn, E. E. Ramp and R. W. Colburn was appointed by voice. President Jackson, to investigate conditions and take further steps which will include looking up sites, proper equipment and consultation with the city trustees as to what co-operation they will extend.

The next two luncheons will be known as membership drive luncheons when the leaders of the two sections and others will lay plans for the following week's campaign.

C. H. KLINE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

C. H. Kline on Tuesday suffered injury in a second automobile accident while driving in Los Angeles. Two cars were about to pass and the street being narrow, he was obliged to swing sharply to the right and this threw him against the curb. He was thrown forward against the windshield and stunned, remaining unconscious for a time while the two cars sped on. He was removed to the Receiving hospital and Mrs. Kline notified. She hastened in to the city and as Mr. Kline was better, she brought him home during the night. It is thought he suffered no injuries except to his nervous system, but coming soon after his other and severe accident, his nerves are much disturbed.

Mrs. E. O. Stumbo with her baby plans to leave next week for Dallas, Texas, where she will visit her sister and then go from there to Oklahoma where she will stop for a time with Mr. Stumbo's relatives.

FIRST NATIONAL OF BURBANK CELEBRATES

Fourteenth Birthday of Bank Marked by Employees Party

On April 1, the First National bank was 14 years old and the Employees' Club celebrated the occasion with a party at which Mrs. Lesueur who is in charge of the escrow department, was hostess.

Mr. Church organized the bank and he states that all the officers and directors with which the bank started are still officers and directors. The bank was founded in 1908 as the Burbank State bank and the first statement showed deposits of $51,072.60. Now they are approximately $1,000,000. For the first two years Mr. Church handled the work alone, now there is a force of 14. The value of the banking house when organized was $5000, now the valuation is $60,000.

In 1911 the bank was converted into a national bank and at the same time the stockholders organized the Burbank Savings bank and the present building was erected. The first one was of red brick and in size was 20x40. It was the only one on the street except the old Burbank block across the street. The nearest bank in Glendale, and Mr. Church says the organizers relied upon the great, fertile San Fernando valley to build up their institution and said they were not disappointed. When the bank was opened 14 years ago, the wives of the officials served ice cream and cake and lemonade and in order that none might miss the treat and fall to appreciate the bank, they went out upon the sidewalk and called in the farmers and others who were either walking or driving with horses and wagons, for these were the usual modes of transportation.

LOCATE SIGNS FOR BURBANK

On Valley Road at Moreland Plant and Turkey Crossing

The locations for the two large electric "Burbank" signs which are to be placed soon, paid for by the city and the Chamber of Commerce, was decided Wednesday when those appointed for this matter, made a trip along San Fernando boulevard. The east one will be hung near the Moreland plant and the west one will be installed about 600 yards west of Turkey crossing. Those who settled on the locations are all the members of the board of trustees except Blanchard, Mrs. Groshong, Mrs. Jones, J. R. Radloff, A. R. Tupper and R. W. Colburn.

STRING OF STATE LABOR BANKS PROPOSED

Federation Unions in California Consider Plan for Institutions

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—The state federation of labor is considering a plan of starting a string of labor-owned banks throughout the state. The measure was recently put before the state delegation by the San Bernardino delegation.

The delegation pointed out that money is the controlling factor in industry and that, according to the present scheme, labor, through the agency of successfully operated banks in every city in the state, could become "financially independent." The proposal is to start a "home loan" system under which the laboring man can borrow money for home building at a lower rate than provided for by private banks.

"The moderate drinker," said William H. Anderson, the prohibition leader of New York, "is usually some such type as Peleg Mannedman. Old Peleg Mannedman sat in his parlor with a demijohn of home brew beside him. He tossed off a couple of glasses of the stuff and proceeded to lecture his son on the evils of drunkenness and the benefits of moderate drinking. 'Never drink too much,' old Peleg concluded. 'Be a moderate drinker, like me, boy.' 'But father,' said the young man, 'how can I tell when I've had too much?' Old Peleg Mannedman pointed out of the window. 'Do you see those two women standing on the corner?' he said. 'Well, if you saw four women there you'd have had too much—you'd be drunk.' 'But, father,' said the young man, 'there's only one woman there.'"

WILSON RETURNS TO DRUG TRADE

Mr. Wilson of the Wilson book store is now adding a stock of drugs and a prescription department to his store in the Ramsey building. Mr. Wilson is an experienced druggist with 25 years' experience and has held a license in California for the past four years although he came here from Denver last fall, but four years ago he and Mrs. Wilson spent six months in Pomona and at that time he took out a license. A little later Mr. Wilson will add a soda fountain. He is the only book dealer in the city and he expects to continue in this, but rearrange his stock to make room for the drugs.

BURBANK BUILDING INSPECTOR OFFERS RESIGNATION

Trustees Lay Matter on Table for New Board's Action

H. C. Bond, city building inspector tendered his resignation to the board of trustees at their meeting Tuesday night, resignation to take effect April 8. The chair recommended that the matter be referred to the proper committee which should try to induce Mr. Bond to reconsider his resignation and to offer an increase in salary. Rouscup recommended that the matter be carried over until after the installation of the new board. After some discussion it was moved by Rouscup and seconded by Myers that the matter be laid over for one week and this motion carried. In connection with this matter the board received the application of H. Elmer Dale for the position. The application was filed.

The ordinance declaring the intention of the city to create an improvement district, the ordinance and reading and thus was concluded the first step in the procedure to secure a sewer plant for the city.

E. E. Beeson asked for permission to erect a real estate office at San Fernando boulevard and Providencia avenue. The request was referred to the building committee.

Mr. Burch was before the board in the matter of building an auto top shop on Orange Grove avenue between the boulevard and Third street. Mr. Thompson opposed this saying it would injure the value of neighborhood property. The matter was left to the city clerk and building inspector to investigate.

Mr. Sherlock stated to the board that he was the original owner of Watson's court and a tract of land which has recently been annexed by Glendale, and that he had advanced money for the extension of water and light systems through this tract and now that it was in Glendale, he wished to know how he could be refunded the money. City Engineer Miller said he would be paid for the amount used in extending the electricity but that the city was not in a position to refund the expense of the water system as the contract with the public service department of the city was based on one-half of the collections and now Glendale was making the collections, but the president said the city would do all that was possible to assist him.

A bond in the American Surety company to the amount of $1000 in behalf of Burbank covering Robert R. Scott as street superintendent was offered and accepted, and another one in the same company to the amount of $25,000 covering the city treasurer, Charles B. Fischer, was accepted.

SANTA ROSA HOTEL OWNERS PLAN APARTMENT

Twenty-four to Thirty-six Suites Are Proposed for Plant

Plans are being drawn for a splendid apartment building to be erected by the Santa Rosa hotel owners on that portion of their property immediately north of the hotel where the several large trees stand.

The building will be of cream and tan colored brick, covering a ground space 76x110 feet, including the court. The Spanish open court will be the style of architecture, the court to be beautified with a fountain and other features in harmony with the surroundings.

It has not been decided whether there will be two or three stories, but there will be twenty-four or thirty-six apartments according to whether there is two or three stories. Each apartment will have a large living room, dressing room, kitchenette and bath room and each room will have an outside exposure. The name of Santa Rosa will be perpetuated in the new building and it will be prolonged in the old one for this landmark of Burbank is to be remodeled some time in the near future.

N. Y. IS SAFETY ISLE FOR BIRTH

Take Note When Traveling Via Stork Line Says Statistics

NEW YORK, April 7.—Where in the United States is the safest square mile to be born? It is in the heart of New York city. In the crowded upper East Side district, where people from all the world are huddled as neighbors. At least this is the belief of the Maternity Center association, of which Miss Mabel Choate, daughter of the late Jos. Choate, is president. The association is an authority upon maternity protection.

In the one selected area, extending 20 city blocks one way and a half mile the other, everything humanly possible will be done to give every new baby a fair start in life. It is estimated that this year 4000 new babies will be born in the section. Science long ago exploded the fallacy that nature can get along without assistance in the matter of bringing babies safely into the world. Such organizations of doctors and nurses as the Maternity Center association have proved conclusively that proper care before, during and after the arrival of the baby can cut down the death rate of mothers from one-half to two-thirds, and the newborn infant death rate one-half.

In the dense city areas formerly in one mother died for every 205 babies born. One out of every 205 babies died under one month of age, and one out of every 21 babies was dead when born. When pre-natal care was given, however, only one mother died for every 500 babies born, one out of every 51 babies born died under the age of one month, and one out of every 42 babies was born dead. This was proof that pre-natal care could save lives. The association resolved to perfect the methods of care for the benefit of the 20,000,000 mothers in the United States and the 200,000 babies who die annually from causes incident to child birth.

A carefully planned demonstration is now being made to establish the essentials of maternity care in contrast to procedures which are the outgrowth of customs and tradition. Jimson had barely taken off his coat when his mother-in-law, pale of face, rushed up to him and grabbed his arm. "Oh, Arthur," she gasped, "that great, heavy grandfather clock in the hall has just crashed down on the spot where I was standing only a minute ago."

Jimson did not seem to be greatly agitated by the news and only muttered: "Hm! I always said that clock was slow!"

VOCATIONAL WORK LIFE INSURANCE WINS WAY IN BAY CITY POLICIES FOR NEAR EAST

Predicted Beggars Will Have Disappeared in Ten Years

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—J. M. Dodd, head of the vocational training department of the board of education, predicts that there won't be a beggar in San Francisco in ten years.

Dodd and F. M. Ballard, and Miss J. E. Fondy are in the business of making worthless men and women into capable, self-supporting citizens.

The department took up the work after the federal government offered to give California $32,000 if the state would contribute a like sum, for the rehabilitation of persons injured industrially. The state legislature passed an appropriation for $35,000 for this purpose.

Three offices were established in the state—one in San Francisco, one in Los Angeles and one in Sacramento, in September, 1921. Since that time the San Francisco office has helped 125 persons crippled in some degree. They have been taught new trades, or new occupations, and many are now working at better positions than before they were injured.

BURBANK MILK SERVED HERE WINS HONOR

L. A. Health Department Awards Premier Mention to Lutge Bros.

When Lutge Brothers of Burbank were awarded first by test of the Los Angeles health department, this week, with a percentage of 97.5, it was a certification that Glendale families who are receiving milk from the Glendale Creamery company, get milk that is superior to any product in the county, especially for children. And there were 83 other interests represented in the test.

The Lutge milk thus awarded the premier place, over all the products of the million dollar corporations of Los Angeles, was the same which received first prize at the San Fernando fair.

In connection with the par milk of the Glendale company, a general invitation is issued to the public of Glendale to visit the new model creamery of the local company, which will be completed April 21 or 22.

A visit to an industry which has demonstrated thus the striking cleanliness and richness of its product should be on the duty list of every Glendalian, particularly of those who have children.

We get no higher work until we put the higher motives into what we have.

If you would have the world take you at your own valuation, don't give yourself away.

If you are thin and run down in health, drink goat milk. Phone Glen. 1004-M.—(Adv.)

Rev. Mottern Calls for Aid in Small Pledged Sums

"Glendale's greatest opportunity, greater even than yesterday's 'bundle day', to help the Near East Relief this year, consists in a supreme effort by interested friends taking 'life insurance policies' last Sunday and this week to secure pledges of from 25 cents to $5 a month from every man, woman and child here," declares Rev. R. W. Mottern, telephone Glen. 1513-W.

"Bundle day" netted a large quantity of used clothing and shoes which is thankfully received by the relief agency and which will aid much in relieving hundreds of near-east famine sufferers, according to Rev. Mottern. But of even greater importance, says the worker, is money with which to purchase foodstuffs to send to these wards of America.

No time limit has been set for filling the pledge sheets being circulated here, says the committee. Haste is urged, however, in getting the sheets fully subscribed and turned into E. E. Osgood, treasurer N. E. R., First National bank of Glendale, whose official receipts are being issued to all contributors.

The biggest event ever staged thus far in the history of the Verdugo Hills district Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be given on Thursday evening, April 13th at the Glendale Union High school auditorium, when the Charter will be presented to this council by representatives of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America.

CIRCUS DAY OPENS WITH BIG SHOW IN CITY

Great Howe Million Dollar Merger Manerger Parades Streets

The big, spectacular aggregation, the Howe Great London circus, representing a million-dollar merger of two mammoth menageries, swept over Brand boulevard and Broadway today at noon, to come to a halt at the circus lot, Park avenue and San Fernando road.

With the show as host to the newsboys of the Glendale Daily Press, the circus will open this evening with three big rings, two steel arenas, two stages, fifty funny clowns and the most gorgeous spectacle of "Cinderella in Jangleland" ever seen on the Pacific coast.

Countless animals and trainers, beautiful ladies and expert horsemen will make up the great show tonight.

The show is in Glendale for today only, the afternoon performance beginning at 2 o'clock, the doors opening at 1, and the evening performance at 8 o'clock, with doors open at 7 o'clock.

U. S. CAPITAL AS EASTERN EXPORT TONIC

Wise Investments Would Stimulate Trade Says Government Official

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—"Judicious investment of American capital in the Orient will go far toward reviving America's export trade than any other single step," declared P. R. Eldridge, chief of the Far Eastern division of the department of commerce, on his return here from a six months' voyage through the Orient.

According to Mr. Eldridge, the industrial development of the Far East is a necessary prerequisite to any extensive revival of demand for American products because of the fact that America specializes in machinery, electrical goods and other lines, which only increase in demand as the standing of the people rises.

"The best way to promote American commerce in the Orient is to make such prudent investments in Oriental industries as will not only carry with them the purchase of American machinery and electrical equipment, but also raise the standards of the people to demand higher grade goods and products of a character as are made most efficiently in the United States," he declared.

"Before the war the most successful trade in the Orient was always accompanied by the wise use of a loan. America is now in a position to profit by this lesson. Great care, of course, must be exercised in such investments.

"Business conditions throughout the Orient reflect the world depression, particularly as American and European markets for Oriental raw products are so depressed as to leave the market prices below the cost of production. In these territories, such as the Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, there can be no real revival in the demand for American goods until there is a demand for raw goods abroad.

"India is undergoing a period of industrialization, which is being encouraged by tariff and other fiscal legislation, but it is only through such industrialization and the gradual conversion of India from the present agricultural dependence that the great population can be considered a profitable market for American goods.

"Japanese trade shows signs of revival as the immense stocks which were piled in the warehouses when the slump of 1920 occurred are beginning to disappear. Prices continue high in Japan, and the cost of living is showing little, if any, drop.

"In China, however, the trend toward lower prices is being distinctly felt, and the same is true of the Malay states. This very fact, though, has militated against immediate resumption of purchases because the merchants seem to feel that the bottom has not yet been reached.

"The result of the economic depression in the Far East has been greater internal trade, especially in India and China, where raw products are being utilized more and more by domestic industries. This has resulted in an expansion of these industries, and a demand for foreign capital in their development."

BODY OF TRAPPER ROISE, Idaho, April 7.—Forest Ranger John Selby and Deputy Game Warden Tipton today reported finding the body of Charles Booth, a trapper, partly buried in a snowslide and badly mangled by cougars, on the north fork of the Boise river, 25 miles from Atlanta, late yesterday, and grave fears are entertained here that Booth's wife died in the same tragedy.

HI-Y CLUB WINS HONOR BANNER ON PROGRAM

Recovers Trophy From San Diego School Achieving Record

The Glendale Hi-Y Club has again won the banner. This is an honor awarded by the State Y. M. C. A. committee each month to the Hi-Y club having the best monthly program and is competed for by the Hi-Y clubs in California.

Glendale first attracted statewide attention by winning this banner for the month of December. At that time it was the first Southern California club to gain this honor. The Glendale club again took it for the month of January and losing it in February to San Diego high school.

Now by winning it the third time Glendale has a record held by no other California high school.

The Glendale Club is made up of five units, each under the personal leadership of the following men, who direct the members of these groups and is responsible for the good work being done by the local club: Howard Butterfield, G. Edwin Murby, P. L. Hatch, Bert Rolf and Carl Seitzer.

The coming father and son banquet to be held April 18th will be one of the main features of the club's program for the month of April.

They are also planning several camping outings during vacation and a trip to the George Junior Republic, the boys' school at China.

TILLAGE METHODS AT PASADENA EXPLAINED

Supt. B. C. Bougher, Supt. of Municipal Farms Tells of System

Bert C. Bougher, superintendent of the 540-acre Pasadena municipal farm, which is to be developed as a model farm, contributes an article on cover crops and deep tillage to the current issue of the California Farmer. What happens in the soil when the cover crops are plowed under and decay, is told by Mr. Bougher.

A summary of ten outstanding features of interest to citrus growers, gleaned from the recent Citrus Institute is given by Dr. J. Elliot Coit, former professor of citriculture at the University of California, who is a staff contributor of the California Farmer. Dr. Coit also discusses the handling of the cover crop in spring.

A Jersey cow recently completed a record of over 20,000 pounds of milk and over 1000 pounds of butter in a year. She made a profit of $1055 for her owner. Her picture, showing her an ideal dairy type, is published in this issue of the Farmer. Some interesting facts about the California Milk Producers association are given on the dairy page.

DR. HARROWER MARKS ANNIVERSARY

talk on his recent visit throughout the east.

He was gone about a month and interviewed about 650 physicians and surgeons while away, making a complete investigation of their feeling toward his products. The greater part of his talk was devoted to a description of his trip.

Among the physicians visited were Prof. Harvey Cushing of Harvard University and Dr. George H. Simmons of Chicago, with whom Dr. Harrower had an hour's conversation.

The work being done at Dr. Harrower's laboratory has been analyzed by various medical and clinical magazines, but at the present time there are about 10,000 physicians and surgeons who recommend his products.

He referred to the wonderful surgical work of the Mayo brothers but said that his work was medical and just as much of a benefit to humanity as was the Mayo brothers' work. Why should he be asked to keep what he knows to himself when he can help man?

That is why he is active and rising throughout the country and is in touch with so many physicians.

Dr. Harrower considers his greatest work is the publishing of the book, "Practical Organotherapy" and outlined its contents.

Mrs. Ackerman, librarian of the laboratory, then read an interesting article from a well-known clinical magazine complimenting very highly the work of Dr. Harrower.

It was stated by James Howarth, manager of the laboratory, that it was very well represented throughout the country, having branch offices at Portland, Denver, Dallas, Kansas City, Chicago, Baltimore and a distributing agency at New York. He also told briefly of some of the work done there.

PROGRESSIVE CLUB SWINGS INTO ACTION

Against Merchants' Sales Tax, It Sends Delegation to Council

With 18 covers laid, the Progressive Business club of Glendale went into action at its first luncheon yesterday in the Citizens building, by going on record as against the proposed city tax on merchants' sales. Dr. Henry R. Harrower, just joined, was one of the active speakers, together with E. B. Sutton, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. Burke, president of the Los Angeles Progressive Business club as advisor of record action.

The club unanimously endorsed the motion put by Robert Cowan that the organization oppose the city tax on sales, and volunteers offered to appear before the council at last night's meeting to represent the club.

Dr. Harrower, who delivered an emphatic address upon the subject, urged that real estate men be taxed on gross sales, declaring that the business men made the realty values of the city, while the realty men of the city took a profit and escaped taxation.

"The man who sits back and takes his profits should pay pro rata with me, who has a business here," he declared.

After his address Mr. Sutton said that if Dr. Harrower would send him a transcript of his remarks he would study it over and endeavor to deliver it before the city council. "I am no speaker," he said, "but I can go and tell them where we stand."

President G. C. McConnell presided at the meeting, held in the small banquet room of the building, and called upon each member appearing for a speech. The presence of a large delegation from Los Angeles helped to put direction and purpose into the fraternal thought of the new organization.

It was decided to call a meeting for Thursday night, when the total membership would be assembled, with all candidates for admission, so that the twenty-five members necessary for a charter would answer present.

Each member was instructed to invite three men whom he considered desirable acquisitions to the organization.

In connection with the membership, Earl Hill of Glendale explained that only two from each business classification can be admitted to membership. Therefore, applications must be filed with Mr. Sutton in order that the classification quota be not exceeded.

In many cases an adjustment of classification may be made. In order to avoid conflict with the medical members, Dr. Harrower declared that he was a chemist and not a physician, which evoked a laugh from the physicians present.

ACACIA FOLKS PROTEST PERMIT

Setback Alteration Granted LeGross - Rouses Neighbor's Ire

A party of West Acacia avenue people appeared before the city council last night to protest against the permit that was granted at a previous meeting to H. C. LeGross to erect a duplex dwelling 18 feet from the property line on the corner of Acacia avenue and Virginia avenue. Among those protesting were Harry Ryan, Mrs. Harry Ryan, Miss Harriet Bagg, Mrs. George Damon, Mrs. Clarence Wilson, William Rattray, Quinn Cole, Harry Bagg, Miss Isabel Tisdale, George Rettinger and Mr. Yates.

After this company had demonstrated that all of the frontage on Acacia is opposed to the 25-foot setback line being changed, the council decided to revoke the permit.

"I never saw the equal of those Jagsby's next door," said Mr. Bibbles. "They are always wanting to borrow something. I honestly believe we've lent them everything in the house except the piano and our twin beds."

LIPSTICK TRIAL STARTS IN CLAY COUNTY

Arkansas Circuit Court Sits in Judgment on Cosmetics

KNOBEL, Ark., April 7.—The lipstick trial has started in the Clay county circuit court here.

Just how much cosmetics a young woman may wear and still remain within the bounds of propriety will be decided.

Miss Pearl Pugley, 17, who was dismissed from the high school because she declined to wash cosmetics from her face, is suing the school board for reinstatement.

"Lipstick Rule No. 3" is the cause of the trouble. It follows: "The wearing of transparent hosiery, low-necked dresses and any style of clothing tending to immodesty in dress, or the use of face powder or cosmetics, is prohibited."

Three business men, who comprise the board, framed the ruling. Miss Pugley's father instituted the suit. He died and Mrs. Pugley continued the case.

N. E. Hicks, pastor of the Disciples of Christ Church of Knobel and principal of the high school, says cosmetics and powder seriously hamper school work and insists "the rule shall be enforced."

It is the contention of the board that the state law empowers it to pass such a rule and enforce it.

The school term has terminated and one of the defenses to be set up by the board will be that since school is not in session, the matter in controversy is a question the court does not have to decide, according to attorneys for Miss Pugley.

"I see nothing in this contention," J. N. Moore, Miss Pugley's attorney, said. "She hasn't received notice from the school board that her suspension has been lifted."

"Well," reported the new salesman, swinging jauntily into the home office, "I got two orders from Hardnut & Co., today."

"Fine, fine!" exclaimed the sales manager, enthusiastically.

GLENDALE HEIGHTS IMPROVEMENTS ARE ORDERED

Contract to Convert Tract Into Picturesque Scenic Beauty Signed

Final contract for improvement of Glendale Heights, the Haddock-Nibley Co. tract at the southeast corner of Glendale, were signed yesterday with Peter L. Ferry, and the cut through from Palmer to the city limits will begin at once. The company has interested the property owners in the extension of the new street to the Verdugo road, which will cut the run to Los Angeles by one mile.

In addition the company has secured the 30 acres on the west side of the present 50 acres and will swing them onto the market within a fortnight, when it is expected the first unit of 50 acres will be practically closed.

Dick Michel begins in one week on four new homes in the district, which now represents the investment of $90,000 by new lots since January 15 when the sale opened. There will be 30 homes on the tract within the near future, homes which will cost from $7,000 to $10,000. Among those who have recently bought to build is Lawrence Olson, of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings bank.

The Glendale Heights, when the improvements are in, will be one of the most picturesque homesites in the hills. Winding drives around the slopes of the hills are called for in the plans.

In the consummation of improvements, all the curbing is in on Green and Scofield streets and the laying of the sidewalks starts today, at the rate of 500 feet daily until the completion of the work.

The Haddock-Nibley company is one of the real big operating companies in southern California. It is carrying approximately three-quarters of a million dollars worth of property in various parts of the country.

It has recently taken over Goldwyn Park, adjacent to the Goldwyn studio in Culver City, 30 acres, and plans to put the tract on the market within 30 days. The frontage on Washington boulevard is 1650 feet. It was the only remaining tract available for lots in the Culver district.

The company also has another 30 acres on the Sunnyside tract, near Venice.

"We are showing our confidence in conditions," said Lon J. Haddock, head of the company, "by conducting the three tracts — Venice, Culver City and Glendale — all at once."

Mr. Haddock will be the speaker at the Chamber of Commerce forum dinner on April 20.

"I have been preceded to the forum by President von Klein-Smidt and I am to be followed by McAdoo," he said yesterday, "which means I shall have to make good. Anyway, I expect to find inspiration in the thought that I have, without exaggeration, a whole lot of respect for the future prosperity of Glendale. This is my town."

Young Harold was late for Sunday school and the minister inquired the cause.

"I was going fishing but father wouldn't let me," answered the lad.

"That's the right kind of a father to have," replied the reverend man. "Did he explain the reason why he would not let you go?"

"Yes, sir. He said there wasn't bait enough for two."

SIERRA CLUB PUTS NEW DRINK ON MARKET

Henry Brown Company of Glendale Creates "Fru-Ber-Ree"

The Henry Brown company, manufacturers of the celebrated Sierra Club beverages, has just created a new drink that is now putting on the market. This new drink is known as "Fru-Ber-Ree," and as its name indicates is made of a wonderful combination of the juices of fruits and berries. This new drink is being scientifically blended from the very best of products, no artificial flavors or sweetening substances being used in this drink.

Like the other drinks put out by this company, "Fru-Ber-Ree" will be manufactured entirely in the Glendale plant. It is one of the most wholesome, satisfying and beneficial drinks ever put out anywhere, nothing being done that would in any way detract from the healthful quality of the fruit juices.

Fru-Ber-Ree is of such excellent quality that it is destined to immediately become popular, as have the other products of the Henry Brown company.

DRINK OF WATER GOES LONG WAY

SANTA ROSA, Cal., April 7.—Funnier stories are famous for traveling at a pace defying time and space. And just at present Japan is amused over a story published in a local paper concerning John Greeott, local wine maker and capitalist.

The story stated that Mr. Greeott attributed a severe sick spell to the fact that he had drunk a glass of water.

The item was copied by a paper in Japan. A few days ago a Japanese laborer came to the newspaper office with a Japanese paper in his hand.

"I find something my paper just come from Japan about Mr. Greeott. It says after your honorable sickness you say 'I get much sick after I drink one glass water.' My paper write all same. You see?"

He showed the paper as proof, but seeing in this case was not believing. The Japanese was sent to Greeott, who had it translated just to see what it contained. It was a clipping verbatim from the Santa Rosa paper.

Blessed is the man who puts his whole heart into his task, for at the end of the day his work will sing to him.

Truths in Epigram

We are firm believers in the maxim that in all right judgment of any man or thing it is useful, nay, essential, to see his good qualities before pronouncing on his bad.—Carlyle (1795-1881).
Experience is the child of Thought, and Thought is the child of Action. We can not learn men from books.—Disraeli (1804-1881).

NOT BEYOND REMEDY

The school in a little Oregon town, as reported by wire, had to be dismissed because the boy pupils were drunk. They had come with bottles of moonshine whisky. One lad boasted that he did not have to depend upon anybody for his supply because he made it himself. The parents of these youngsters are to blame.

Certain criminal elements seem for the nonce to be beyond control. The boldness of their operations, involving anything from picking pockets to murder, is without precedent in this country. People may say that it results from the war, but they are unable to prove the assertion. When respect for law and for authority has vanished, the remedy lies in enforcing the law, in demonstrating anew the potency of the processes of justice. To say that this is impossible, is to say that civilization decays, that it is headed to disaster and collapse.

But however difficult may be the task of suppressing the rule of the mature criminal, calling as it may, for his extermination, children need not be regarded as beyond control. There yet must be in the homes of the land a semblance of parental authority.

An observer may be able, in the light of other revelations, to conceive of homes in which illicit distilling is carried on, perhaps with the knowledge of the children. It is difficult to conjure up the vision of a man so debased that having manufactured the drink, he would consent to letting the little ones partake of it. The father of a boy transgressing as these Oregon pupils transgressed, ought to take the youthful offenders in hand; and then the law ought to take the father in hand for making possible such infractions of decency.

TRANSLUATION OF VALUES

Certain writers have presented in Vanity Fair a table illustrating what an introductory note terms "a great transvaluation of values." It has been compiled by ten young critics, all belonging to a school that takes pride in its modernity. It manifests this by scoffing at old accepted standards. Its youthful exuberance is expressed in a sneer.

Some of these critics are not particularly young, as measured in years. They are young only when regarded as cases of arrested development. Several of them have marked ability, but even the ablest among them has been flattered into an overestimate of his own mental prowess. In the number are such types as Mencken and Nathan. There could be no better characterization of these than "Smart Alecks" of letters.

The table is constituted of men and women distinguished in some field of activity and achievement. Opposite each name the critics have set in figures, their conception of the value of the subject. The highest possible mark is 25 plus, the lowest, minus 25. The results are laughable. This is the case whether or not the critics are in earnest. If they are in earnest, they have written themselves down as asses. If they jest, the question as to whether they are asses or not remains to the individual judgment.

One gleam of sanity is shown in the verdict that gives Shakespeare the highest average, 22. This gleam is blown out rudely by the credit given to Nietzsche, which is 19, bringing him into the same group. Nietzsche in every influence that he exerted on human affairs was potent for evil. He died a howling lunatic, and before he had begun actually to howl, his work was showing the impress of madness. He was an enemy to civilization and to humanity, in that he sought to reverse the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth. Germany was poisoned by his doctrine, and its envenomed blood had to be let out through many wounds.

SAVING A GREAT INDUSTRY

The potash interests of the United States have petitioned congress, not for protection alone, but for salvation from utter ruin. They desire the protection in the form of a graduated tariff. It is their belief that at the end of a five-year period, they would be safe from the ruinous competition of Germany. The circumstances are such as to make this industry seem peculiarly entitled to the relief sought, regardless of the general principle of tariff protection, the producers of American potash present arguments more than sustaining the justness of their request. They do not make demands; nothing but a quest backed by the logic of facts.

Before the war the potash supply came from Germany. That there were workable deposits here was known. The war cut off the supply. The necessity for potash in abundance led to instant action. American enterprise explored until deposits had been found. Potash also was derived from kelp, or extracted from the waters of inland lakes. Factories were started on a large scale, in New Jersey, Nebraska and California. Soon the investment represented more than $30,000,000 of capital. Today the industry is dead. The mills stand idle, the costly machinery gathers rust and dust. In the absence of governmental aid the entire investment, made primarily from patriotic motives, and when the profits were doubtful, must be finally lost. The reasons are worth examination.

Just before the war the potash propagandists maintained by Germans in this country, warned American capital against investing in the manufacture of potash. They declared that when the war was over, Germany would ruin any American enterprise that dared to compete in this industry. The information came in the form of an insolent threat. While the war was in progress Germany of course could not enter the markets of the world. Hence the American project moved towards success and apparent permanency.

But all through the war Germany was busy making potash. It had the advantage of using military prisoners. Its labor cost nothing in wage, and little for sustenance. By the time the armistice had been signed Germany had on hand a store of potash enabling it to deluge the world's market, and to undersell all competitors. Thus it hoped to stifle these competitors, after which it would have the privilege of setting any price it wished. The animosities of conflict are dying out, but the people are in no mood to be placed at the mercy of Germany. Far sooner would they pay more for potash now than to see an American industry wrecked, and later be forced to pay whatever the foreign producers saw fit to ask.

Congress may save the American potash industry if it will. To permit it to be crushed not only would be bad policy, but a most ungracious return for the readiness and zeal with which manufacturers went into the business. They went in when there was scant promise of success. They earned the right to success, a right to the gratitude of their government.

It is often more satisfaction not to know things and have people believe you do than to know them and not have anybody believe it.

Some people never stop to count the cost because they realize they haven't got the price, anyway.

It isn't always the veterinary college graduate that displays the most horse sense.

Two heads are better than one—at a kissing bee.

RELATED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The eminent Wilbur Glenn Voliva, successor of the great John Alexander Dowie as Overseer of Zion and head of the Christian Apostolic church, has, if we may believe the press reports, completed fixing the dimensions of the world, which he has decided to be flat and not round, as many of the ungodly hold, and the flatness and the Voliva dimensions of said earth are now required to be taught in the schools in Zion, Illinois, where the Reverend Mr. Voliva is acting pope.

Reading still further the interesting press dispatches from Zion we discover that according to Mr. Voliva's latest announcement the sky is a vast dome of a solid material, from which the sun, moon and stars are hung like chandeliers from a ceiling.

The edges of this dome, as he explained to his congregation at Shiloh Tabernacle the other Sabbath, rest on the wall of ice which surrounds the flat world to keep footholdy mariners from tumbling over the edge and hurting themselves.

At the same time he announced that the world is a flat plain surrounded by ice he also reported his discovery that the sun is a small body about forty miles in diameter and located only three thousand miles from the earth.

Those who inquire how the reverend gentleman knows all this and what proof he has give evidence by that very question of their unregenerated state of mind and their entire inability to grasp divine truths.

"It is the plain teaching of the whole Word of God," declares Mr. Voliva. After which, of course, there is nothing more to be said.

This incident calls to mind a certain group of Baptists in Kentucky who some time ago came to the conclusion that we have had about enough of this evolution nonsense and that since it is plainly in opposition to the plain teaching of the Scriptures the legislator should prohibit its being further taught in the public schools.

William J. Bryan also some months ago announced his conclusion that graduates of Wellesley college, while they might know something about English literature and higher mathematics, were inclined to be somewhat loose and wobbly in their theological ideas, and that therefore they were dangerous creatures to be let loose in the community.

These are not the first attempts to rebuke the rising spirit of science in the name of ecclesiastical authority, as we recall a gentleman of the colored persuasion down south who some years ago created a sensation by declaring that "the sun do move." There is also to be found in history the story of a certain man named Galileo, who declared that the earth moved, while the sun, comparatively speaking, stood still. The church authorities of that age, being alarmed over this, reasoned with Mr. Galileo after the manner of reasoning in vogue in those days—that is to say, they put him to the torture. When the pain became too great Galileo announced that he would retract his statement. But the contumacious heretic, as he passed out of the torture chamber and out of the danger zone, is reported to have muttered in his whiskers, "E pur se muove," which, being translated, means "It moves just the same."

All these cases are illustrative of the peculiar notion that still lingers in the world: that our theory about the universe, its origin, construction and laws is somewhat bound up with our moral motives. Conscience and ethics are permanent and are just as solid facts as gravitation and chemical affinity, but they stand on their own bottoms and must seek their sanctions in their own nature and usefulness. They do not need to be propped up by external authority. The idea that they do need this is a belated one.

THE LISTENING POST

The croakers are always with us. The pessimists. Those who see nothing but disaster and evil. Who wring their hands often. And tell of the good old times.

They speak of the present as hopeless. Look at the newspapers! Filled with accounts of murders. Robberies. Jazz parties and joy rides.

True enough. There are many lamentable occurrences. There have always been. And perhaps always will be. That is why they get into the newspapers. Because they are lamentable.

Crime is the unusual thing. Not the usual thing. While there are accounts of joy rides that eventuate unhappily, think of the thousands of picnic parties and motor tours that are happily circumstanced.

Think of John Jones who takes his family out for an outing on Sunday.

No crime in that. Members of the family joyous and happy. Fresh air and sunshine and happiness. Nothing to put in the newspapers. Pretty good to think about.

Nothing in that threatening the safety of the republic. Rather reassuring. If it was all in the newspapers we should reflect upon the sober, happy state of the country. But it is the unusual and unhappy thing that we read about.

Thus we take a jaundiced view. A trusted bank employe steals a hundred thousand dollars.

All in the newspapers. What are we coming to anyway? Terrible enough.

But think of all the trusted bank employes who continue to be trustworthy. Employes who live up to our expectations and more.

Nothing to worry about there. The average of honor is high. But the newspapers do not publish the complete batting average.

Somebody asks for a divorce. The salacious details are given. Domestic ties broken. The foundations of the nation are breaking down.

Are they? Think of the couples that live happily. Through trial and trouble and prosperity and adversity. The newspapers do not publish that. It is not news.

It is not news because the usual thing is not news. Many evil things are done. True enough. And the details are sordid. But think of all the good things that are done. Somebody endows a college. Establishes a foundation for better health and education and sanitation.

Oh yes! Many good things are being done every day. A thousand for one to the evil things done. The good old times were good. But the present is a pretty good time. Don't worry too much.

JAMES W. FOLEY.

Mighty Sweet to Live—Frank L. Stanton (1857—)

Lookin' mighty lonesome On the road that's long an' rough But I reckon that we'll get there Ef we jes' have time enough.
Lots more thorns than roses The summer has to give. But spite o' all the trouble It's mighty sweet to live!
To know that you are livin' In a world, 'neath skies o' blue.

That does as well, I reckon. As the Lord would have it do.
Let 'em from the hilltops, Say trouble—more an' more. It's a better world, believers, Than it ever wuz before!
Time an' tide—we'll make 'em Do all things as we will! Right or wrong—this old world Rolls close to heaven still!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

MR. ROWNTREE'S CODE

[New York Globe]

Sooner or later, everyone interested in industrial relations draws up a "labor code." Seebohm Rowntree, the famous English manufacturer whose recent visit to America aroused so much discussion, is the latest victim of the habit. Writing in the World Tomorrow, he lays down five points which are essential to "the cordial co-operation of the worker."

- 1. The minimum wages must be such as will enable men and women to live in accordance with a reasonable standard of comfort.
2. The working hours must be reasonable.
3. The workers must be assured of a reasonable degree of economic security, especially security against suffering and privation due to involuntary unemployment.
4. They must have a share in determining work-

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

What is a "home" to us? A western newspaper recently asked this question, eliciting hundreds of answers. What would your answer be?

Here are some of those sent to the newspaper. We can all think of acquaintances who might answer likewise.

"Home is a place to answer the telephone from." "Home is a haven of liberty to which the members are always glad to return."

"Home is a place to dress and eat." "Home—father, mother, and children." "Home is a place to stay when there is nowhere to go."

"Home is a place to grow in. It cannot be better than the aspirations of its members." "Home equals salvation from selfishness."

"Home is the place where you always are taken for granted and no questions asked." "Home is the place where we can indulge in grouches and sarcasm, yet come back to when we are in need of refuge."

"Home is a place of close ties; loved ones, children, favorite furniture, books, magazines, music and hobbies."

"Home is a place in which to express love, unashamed, reverence and worship as we desire, self-expression without fear of misunderstanding."

The very best answer of all might well be a combination of all of these. What would be yours? Think a minute and see.

ing conditions. 5. They must be given some definite financial interest in the prosperity of the industry in which they are engaged.

In addition, Mr. Rowntree says, we must "see that the spirit underlying the whole factory administration is one that will develop the best in the workers. Thoughtful men with wide business experience are in ever-increasing numbers coming to realize that the laws governing business administration cannot be separated from those governing other spheres of human activity, that the implication usually given to the phrase 'business is business' is a false one, and that, on the contrary, business that is devoid of love and inspiration and comradeship will very soon be looked upon, even by the reactionary, as appalling bad business."

If these words came from a "social worker" or any other theorist on industrial relations, we may imagine the sort of reception they would get from business men. It is most unfortunate for his opponents that Mr. Rowntree is conducting a very large and very successful industrial enterprise and there practises his own preachings to a remarkably complete degree. Times are just as hard in England as here, or harder; and taxation is a far more crushing burden on industry. Those business leaders who claim that it is impossible to pay living wages in periods of depression will need to be unusually adroit to reconcile their theories with the existing facts.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The statistician of the Los Angeles police department from time to time sends out some interesting figures. A new batch of these has just come from his records. They are interesting, but fail to impart comfort, or to stimulate pride. Of course they concern the whole community, for thousands living in cities near Los Angeles go there daily. They would be glad to see a more cheering set of figures, but circumstances continue to forbid.

Crimes in Los Angeles in March cost eleven lives. Property losses from the same cause amounted to $1,732,900. In March a year ago there were but two homicides against the current eleven. Since the first of the year twenty-eight men and women have been killed in holdups or quarrels, some of the latter family affairs. In 1921 a similar period yielded ten slayings, which total according to standards then prevailing, was considered quite enough.

But why pursue the array of depressing statistics? Even the total of 850 burglaries for March may be omitted. Without it there is enough to show that however admirable a vice raid may be, and the glory that lies in capturing a crap player, the public, desirous of a whole skin and bones unbroken would much prefer the spectacle of a procession of thugs and thieves on their way to prison.

Having started contemplation of gloomy truths, useful to know even if not pleasing, let a few items relating to automobile accidents in the same city be considered.

Fifty-one persons were killed in traffic accidents in the first quarter. There were 1511 minor casualties. There was a total of 8111 accidents, a large proportion of the avoidable kind.

The average citizen is incompetent to check the crime wave. To set an example by conducting himself properly is about the limit of his opportunity to promote reform. But the wave of vehicular violence is his personal concern. He at least may refrain from adding to its volume and impetus.

Margot Asquith paid a compliment to the people of the United States, which puts them into a somewhat embarrassing position. They feel an impulse to repay in kind, and then they think of Margot's serpent tongue, and the value of truth. Naturally, an awkward silence follows.

Bolshevik Russia maintains a vast army, seemingly having no difficulty in feeding it. A soldier eats more than a baby eats, but in that same country the baby starves to death.

The family of a wounded veteran in New York was turned into the street for failure to pay rent. The veteran explained that it had been his habit to pay the rent out of the government compensation allowed him, but that for three months he had received no compensation.

Some of Uncle Sam's lesser bureaucrats seem to deserve a prod in their well-nourished ribs.

When thieves enter a home and steal $90,000 worth of diamonds, the act is regarded as a crime, of course, and regret is expressed that thieves anywhere are getting such dividends. However, it is to be assumed that the working man who is slugged and robbed on his way home with his week's wages, really has undergone a more serious loss.

The latter crime also comes nearer to the possible experience of the ordinary mortal. Few have $90,000 worth of precious stones, but almost everybody occasionally has in his pocket a dollar that he needs.

Attempts are being made to prove the moral superiority of the Ford because in a flock of machines confiscated by reason of conveying liquor across the border, there is a single one of this make. The rest are all of high price and aristocratic style.

The question is not one of relative morals at all, but of relative capacity.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

My proud spirit revolted this morning against being treated by an imported three-per-cent in the hotel dining room as though I were personally responsible for the defects of this country in which the three-per-cent is getting rich. So I went away from the hotel—far, far away from a dining room which is operated from turret to foundation stone by a lot of greasy handed three-per-cent—and sought out a restaurant I know in which the cooking, the waitering, the food, the noise and the prices are all American.

"No class to this person," says the reader, lifting a lip. Not this morning, I'll admit. Tomorrow I'll probably be strong enough to stand having a strange dialect whistled into my ear by a person who smokes bad cigarettes, but this morning I wanted human society at breakfast. So I went to my American restaurant and there observed that the husband was taking in the money while the wife did the running to and fro and bossing and speeding things up. The husband was bland, unhurried, white collared and superior. The wife was a bit mussy. Yet, I happened to know that she furnished the inspiration and the pep and the work and the thought and the success for the enterprise. All that the husband had was the papers in his name. If they ever separate he'll keep the restaurant. And it struck me the wife was a pretty angry little person. And then I went on to moralize a little further.

I may be wrong—correct me if I am—that the business successes created by women have usually been created by angry women. Something has gone wrong in their lives. Maybe, as in this case, they have husbands who are not worth a nickel a pound in carload lots. They cannot correct the wrong condition by anger. Mere rage never rebuilt a cluck of a husband into a model.

But that heat of anger in the feminine breast generates a full head of steam. They must do something—and so they pick out something and do it. The more they think of their wrongs the angrier they get and the harder they drive ahead and the better they do their work. Meanwhile the sublimated baconhead who has driven them to this pitch of commercial desperation sits back and reaps the profits and really believes he is responsible for it all.

Maybe I'm wrong—but think for yourself. Did you ever know a successful business woman—I mean at the head of an enterprise—who didn't harbor some sort of a grouch? Or, to try this on the reverse, did you ever know a truly happy woman who wanted to leave home and go into business?

Certainly you did? Then I apologize.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

A synthetic coal, costing about half the market price of ordinary coal to produce, is claimed to have been made by a Berlin chemist.

Corn silage and wheat straw with either mixed hay, soy-bean hay, or cottonseed meal is a much cheaper ration for wintering beef-breeding cows than shock corn, mixed hay and wheat straw.

Ninety-eight per cent of American industries employ less than 100 men.

As late as the fall of 1920 a high-grade mine of feldspar was discovered near Ottawa, Canada, and the material from this is nearly all used for the manufacture of high tension electric insulators.

Can you recognize a good buy when you see one?

HERE is your chance to buy one of the highest grade, higher priced washing machines on the market at give-away prices. $86 cash—or $95 on terms will put the

in your home and bring you a greater sense of efficiency and content than you have ever known. It does your washing in an hour and eliminates all drudgery. Our terms are the easiest and no household can afford to be without the James at this price.

Phone Glendale 470 for demonstration and full particulars. There is a limited number of these machines, so act at once.

COAST CONVENTION IN 1924 DRIVE IS PLANNED

Democrats and Republicans to Pull for the Bay City

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—A vigorous campaign will be launched shortly to secure the 1924 Republican National Convention for San Francisco.

The convention and tourist campaign will aid the movement. Powerful democrats and republicans alike united in 1920 to secure the democratic convention for this city, and shared alike in the cost of entertainment. The enthusiasm of the delegates over their treatment and the accommodations here amply rewarded the work of securing the convention.

Because of the reasonable price of hotel rooms, the many special features, the weather which compared in such a marked degree with the stifling heat of Chicago, and the wonderful Exposition auditorium, many delegates declared that they would support a movement to bring the democratic convention back here again in 1924.

The Slogan "San Francisco Knows How" was spread widely through political circles of both parties following the 1920 convention, and republican leaders here declare that they do not expect great difficulty in securing the republican convention, now that the ice has been broken by the democrats.

Local politicians are hopeful of having an opportunity to secure both conventions, but are going to concentrate on the republican. Because of the muddled situation at present in republican circles, due to the attitude of Senator Johnson which is not meeting with the approval of the majority of the party, leaders, many republican leaders believe that the convention may be brought here in 1924 in an effort to solidify the party in the state, regardless of personalities.

IN A DEEP WOODS JAIL

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

A commotion? I should rather think there was. Right in Dr. Muskrat's own pond. A splashing and a flapping. Louie Thompson's red dog, Pal, crept nearer, keeping his eye on a thornbush he could side in if he had to, while Tommy Peele's dog, Watch, stayed behind to take care of Dr. Muskrat.

"That's what I get for staying out after sun-up," the old paddler was complaining. He dipped his whiskers in the Wicked Little Brook where it ran under the wire fence just below the woodsbridge. "Sniff, sniff," he smelled. "Out! This water's full of mud. My Pond must be as stirred up as it was the time the white cow's mother got stuck in it."

And so it was. But it wasn't any beast who was stirring it. It was a flock of tremendous birds. Pal was just putting up his nose to ask the wind who they could be when one of them rose on wings which spread so wide they could have covered him from bite to wag—and he wasn't a little dog. It swept at him like a great gray thunder-cloud.

He dodged into the Pickery Things as promptly as Nibble Rabbit might have gone, but not as comfortably. For a thorn pricked into his foot and his silky ears felt something rougher than a grass's tickle. But that wasn't what made him yelp; it was a hard black beak pinching the tip of the tail he dragged behind him.

"There!" hissed a harsh voice. "I guess that'll teach you to hunt geese!"

"Quick as an echo the goose called. 'Honk, honk! Up wings! To the Deep Woods!' Then its man changed. 'You're not Tommy Peele's Watch,' it said, eyeing him curiously. 'At least, you don't look like him. Dr. Muskrat is the very beast we're seeking. You'd better call him.'"

NEXT STORY—TWO FOLKS LOSE THEIR TEMPER.

A man in Kentucky once came across an old Negro who was fishing with a rod and line in a pool of water in the middle of the road. He approached him and said: "You won't catch any fish there, Jake."

Sincerity

Alone—among thousands—Desolation and Emptiness in the midst of rushing activity.

—Isolated, while hordes of heedless beings thoughtlessly nod—and pass on!

—And then—by what reason you know not—a handclasp stretched forth seems different.

No word is needed to speak its meaning—a sense of security envelops you—you have found a Friend.

Friends who express their willingness to aid you by service, tactfully, sincerely offered, are the precious gifts to bruised humanity.

—And Sincerity is not a mantle to be worn at will. It is the accumulated knowledge of the great Truth—"The Brotherhood of Mankind."

WOMEN MAKING THEIR OWN GOWNS

Go European Women One Better Says Fashion Expert of New York

NEW YORK, April 7.—"Women of Europe are 'rolling their own' and staining their fingers to reduce the high cost of smoking," says a London daily paper.

The women of America can go them one better, for they are "making their own" in spite of sticking their fingers in order to reduce the high cost of gowning. Frocks are cut on such simple lines this season that any woman who is at all clever with the needle can produce copies of even the most fascinating imports. I say "copies" for it is better for the inexperienced dressmaker to follow in detail some ready-made gown that to attempt one of her own design. She may use her own color schemes and trimmings but her silhouette must "hew to the line."

The keynote of the spring frock is simplicity. It relies wholly upon material and line for its smartness. Having selected a handsome material, one can follow the straight chemise lines with the wide kimono sleeves, eliminating waist-line problems and the irksome task of setting in sleeves. Even where the sleeve is set in, it is a straight, huge affair, that requires little fitting. Many of the new models slip on over the head, in which case placket openings and gown fastenings are not needed. Necks are usually the simple batteau shapes which can be finished with the peccot edge, if one is unfamiliar with the under bias band finish.

Many women are quite adept at embroidery work, although they would hesitate to attempt a dress. They will find numerous ways of applying their handicraft on the simple lined gown which will make it appear an elaborate creation. Gloved fingers cut out of cretonne are being applied to silk crepes and summer materials with great success and tremendous prices are being asked for ready-made frocks of this type. Rose-colored flowers with green leaves on black crepe give a decidedly "Frenchy" appearance to the black gown. In summer frocks, such as organdies or white crepes, can be made charming in this way. A white frock bordered with yellow tulips about the hem and sleeves, makes a pretty combination. In preparing these flowers for the material, cut just a little beyond the flower in order to have an edge to turn under, then, following the outline of the flower, bast it upon the material and catch with unnoticeable stitches from the underside of the goods.

Another garment which the home dressmaker can make is the silk sport costume which has a chemise dress similar to the ones I have previously described and a separate short cape. The cape is seldom lined but is finished around the edge with a bias fold of self of contrasting color. One should by all means have a pattern for the cape, for, though it is simple to make, it must have the correct swing to it. Sometimes, however, these capes are nothing more or less than a two-yard strip of material shirred at the center selvage, to form a neck line, and with a plain strip of material about six inches wide which extends the whole length of the cape. This sort of cape is prettiest when finished with a fringe as it then gives the Spanish shawl effect.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it. "Bladder weakness," most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

PAY FOR WHAT YOU SAY IS NEW PHONE

Everett, Wash., Adopts New System Measuring Toll by Yard

EVERETT, Wash., April 7.—"Pay for what you say" is to be the slogan in Everett in the future.

The Puget Sound Telephone company on April 1 installed telechro meters all over its system and henceforth Everett housewives and business men will pay for their telephone conversations "by the yard," to use the telechro; or "by telechro," to use the expert language of telephone officials. Sometime ago a man in Rochester, N. Y., interested in telephony, asked Major Garrison Babcock, of Buffalo, N. Y., whether telephone conversation could be measured on the basis of time. Major Babcock said it could and developed the idea represented in the telechrometer.

Everett is the first place in the world, local company officials declare, to make use of the telechrometer to relieve many of its taconic subscribers of their telephone bill burdens, and thoroughly "soak" others whose conversation, like Tennyson's brook, once it gets started runs on and on, to the disgust of party-line subscribers. Numerous tests preceded the actual installation of the telechrometer here. It was found that a certain business telephone consumed 10 minutes a day average on two lines, while another business house used an aggregate of 5770 minutes. Both these subscribers paid the same rent bill.

On one four-party residential line, one subscriber used less than ten minutes monthly, while a neighbor used an aggregate of 2040 minutes, a fact that was discovered long before a wire man attached the telechrometer. It had been found in general that one-third of the number of telephone subscribers used two-thirds of telephone employees' time, while the other two-thirds were engaged in getting their wrong numbers about one-third of employees' time.

The telechrometer will also work a hardship on the "listener-in." If Mrs. Housewife has a habit of listening to Mrs. Crosslot's conversations with Mrs. Upstreet, Mrs. Housewife will henceforward pay for her pleasure. The moment she picks up the receiver to steal a march on Mrs. Grundy, the telechrometer will start ticking merrily away and she will pay as much as if she were doing the talking. It's all very simple.

With tests showing that 50 per cent of all telephone conversations are either unnecessarily long or frivolous, the "talkmeters" will mean, for Everett at least, that there will be less "visiting" on party lines, with a premium on brevity for all concerned, added weight to the saying that "silence is golden" and fewer reports by central that "the line's busy." The company has decided upon a 60-day trial, with bills rendered much the same as those for gas, water and electricity. The first month's bills promise to record some interesting data concerning the use of the English and other languages via Mr. Bell's interesting instrument.

The late Edgar Saltus—that brilliant cynic—was lunching with a friend at Claridge's Hotel in London one day. A young couple entered, and Mr. Saltus' friend murmured with a smile, "See that couple; well, Edgar, they're engaged. I heard him in the lounge this morning begging for just one." "Engaged? Nonsense," said Mr. Saltus, and he laughed cynically. "That's Lord Lanceland and his rich American wife. They've been married over a year, man. It was a liver he was begging for."

THE RETURN

(Lockerbie street, where was the home of James Whitcomb Riley, will be made a playground for the children.—Daily Paper.)

JAMES W. FOLEY

There was laughter and singing and chatter and noise, And merry-sweet singing of girls and of boys, For school-time was over and lessons were done, And school books forgotten and playtime begun. There was skipping and dancing and games on the green, And over it all was a spirit unseen, A spirit so tender and loving and sweet, The great, loving spirit of Lockerbie street.

I heard a voice calling, a voice that was sweet: "Come, Children, it's playtime on Lockerbie street! Come skipping, come dancing, come singing, come gay With lessons forgotten and books put away. It's May-time, it's play-time, it's gay-time for all, Come quick with the patter of fast-flying feet, For it's playtime for us here on Lockerbie street.

It was sad and was quiet on Lockerbie street, For long, Oh, so long, and no pattering feet, On the walk out in front, nor the children would play, 'Till the Friend of the Children should come from away. But I heard them all singing out there on the green, And I know, though the smiles of him may be unseen, That the soul that was gentle and spirit so sweet Have come back to them there on Lockerbie street.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Chicago will have a night marriage bureau if inquiry into the plan proves that there is sufficient demand to make it worth while. TUJUNGA MASS MEETING IS HELD

Water Users Discussed Same Topics as at Former Meeting

TUJUNGA, April 7.—A mass meeting of Tujunga water users which was an almost exact reproduction of the meeting of last Tuesday was held last night in Legion hall. Practically the same questions were discussed and in substance the same arguments brought forth on both sides as at the former meeting. The main issue of importance was the report of the committee, of which Everett Carlson is chairman, that I. W. Hawley, an engineer who has considerable experience with local problems, had been retained to represent water users at the hearing before the railroad commission. Herman Breit, president of the chamber of commerce became chairman of the meeting and John Zitto was appointed secretary. The first business was a motion by Everett Carlson to limit any one speaker to ten minutes. This motion passed but was almost entirely done away with later in the evening.

Mr. Carlson brought out the fact that while Tujunga pays $2.94 for 2000 feet, San Jacinto pays $6.45 and other communities served by private water companies rates almost as high. He said that Los Angeles pays $2 for 2000 feet from its municipally owned system.

George Adam and Mr. Millman expressed their fear that higher rates would force residents here to leave, and Victor Zitto discussed former water problems.

A lady whose name was not learned demanded to know what she termed a basis of uneven rates was in effect. She stated that she had paid a deposit of $15 which was not returned to her, while she was informed that nearby users had paid deposits of $12 which had been returned.

M. V. Hartrant, of the water company, in explaining this seeming discrepancy said that the $12 deposit, charge was in effect a year ago, and that the $15 charge had been put on at a later date.

John S. Knox declared that the 8 per cent interest on its investment asked for by the company was an absurdity, and that the bonds of such a company would be as strong as any in the world. Harry Lynch, president of the company later in the evening pointed to the Southern California Edison company, which, he said, was granted that rate of interest, exclusive of depreciation.

Mr. Hartrant again emphasized the necessity for providing water for users already connected before attempting to take in new territory to be served. He pointed out the danger of such a step and painted conditions as they might exist were the additional territory supplied with water intended for present users. The non-user rate of $1 per acre per year was again explained and the statement made that if this rate could be put back into effect rates would not need to be raised.

Mr. Ferguson, who stated that he was a hydraulic engineer, made the statement, which he offered to prove, that he could produce more water from Haines canyon than the water company is now producing. Land which could produce more water, according to Mr. Ferguson, may now be purchased at a very low figure.

Mr. Hartrant, in explaining why the company desired to spend no more money in Haines canyon, stated that perhaps two inches of water might be produced there, while in the Big Tujunga, with the same expenditure, much more water might be put to use which is now going to waste.

Assurances by officials of the company of plenty of water this year were given in answer to a remark of Chairman Breit that possibly President Lynch of the company was unaware of previous shortages.

D. A. Johnson pleaded for the extension of water to land outside of the Haines canyon zone and suggested the building of another reservoir or the installation of more pumps by the company.

In adjourning the meeting was given over to the collecting of funds by the committee appointed.

LAUNDRY WORKER RIVALS CARUSO!

Giuseppe Argentino, Brooklyn laundry worker, is said to have a tenor voice that rivals that of the late Enrico Caruso. Argentino will be making operatic history and scoring notable triumphs within a few years, declares Professor Jascha Bourg, who is guiding the destinies of the new "find." The laundry worker sings clearly in high "E." Bourg asserts, while the late Metropolitan opera company star was only able to reach high "C."

ROTARY CLUB IS STAGING BOY WEEK

Chicago Organization to Give Youth a Chance to Demonstrate

CHICAGO, April 7.—Chicago's boys will get their "big chance" the week of May 5-11 to remind grown-up folks of their importance.

Over 325,000 youths will take part in a "campaign to interest everyone in boys and boys in themselves."

They will impress their elders with the fact that they are the future citizens of Chicago and that they are entitled to certain consideration.

The boys want more playgrounds and swimming holes and more clubs of the right sort, summer camps in the forest reserves, closing of certain streets as additional playgrounds and the use of schools as recreation centers.

The week will open with a loyal parade in which every boys organization in Cook county will take part.

The next day will be devoted to athletics carnivals.

Sunday, May 7, will be observed as boys' day in church.

Monday parents will be invited to visit schools, and Tuesday and Wednesday will be given up to interests of safety, health and thrift. The lads will be taken on a tour of inspection through banks, factories and packing plants.

On the last day of their week, the boys will entertain with pageants and amateur theatricals.

Sponsoring the entire movement is the Rotary club.
