

Cambridge Dec 5. 1839

Dear Madam,

I am much obliged to you for the newspapers and tracts which you have had the kindness to send me and for your valuable aid in prosecuting the object I have in view.

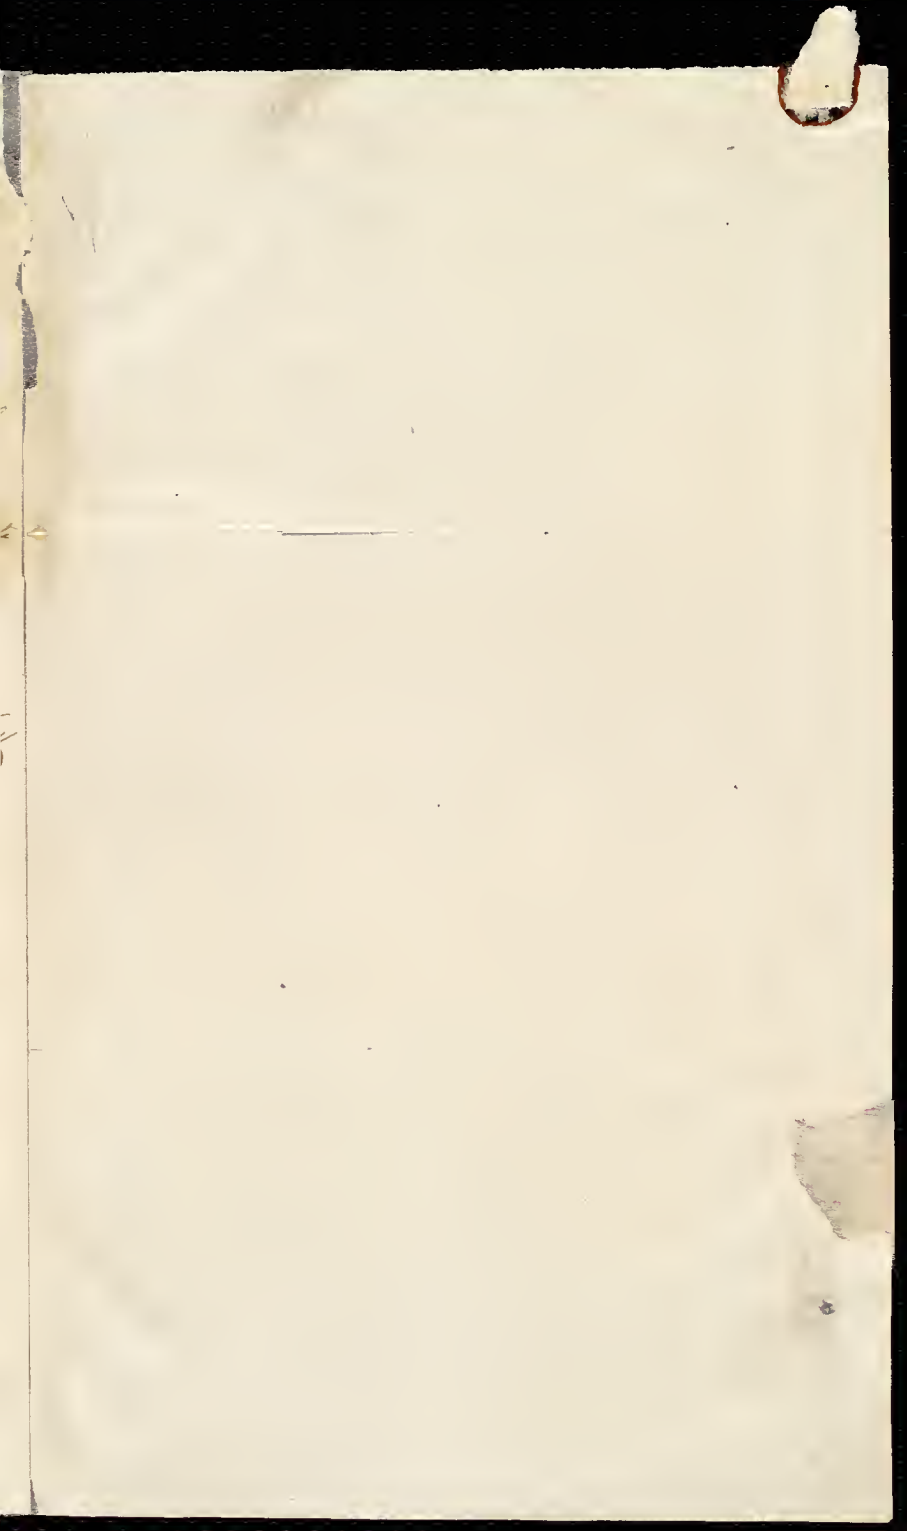

I hesitate as yet to make any public announcement as my limited leisure has not yet enabled me to make much progress in preparing for a course of lectures on India and I have been for many years so little used to public speaking that I cannot feel my ground as a lecturer before a Boston audience. I propose positively pledging myself in this latter object will be in some measure accomplished by a short course of lectures which I have engaged to deliver for what is called the Diffusion Society in the Temple beginning from to-morrow evening in which moreover it will be my chief object to communicate information respecting India and excite a sympathy on behalf of its people.

254

God bless George Thompson and prosper him in his zealous & useful labours! I ~~was surprised~~ almost regret that I did not stay and labour with him in England as he wished me to do, but I had what I then deemed a paramount duty and perhaps my coming to this country may not be unattended (with benefit to the same cause)

I am, with esteem
Yours very faithfully
