Dr KIMATSU, I - Head of Pharmaceutical Affairs Section, OSAKA Fu.

Where Interviewed: Prefectural Office, OSAKA

SUMMARY

Dr KIMATSU stated that since 1943, drugs had become so scarce that there was bad health all over Japan. After the bombings there were some stocks still remaining, and the people can use them, but according to the Doctor, vaccines and serums are not available. Asperin and phenacetin are very scarce.

In addition to the data given in the following charts, Dr KIMATSU submitted a list of the leading factories that were bombed, the location, date of bombing, principal products made in each factory, and percent of bomb damage.* From the information he provided, it should be possible to analyze the extent of damage to drug manufacturing in Japan, providing these tables can be checked for accuracy of factual content.
