SLAUGHTER OF RIFFS WAITS OFFENSIVE OF FRENCH

Famine Stalks Within Ranks Of Outlaw Tribesmen As Big Battle Looms

PARIS, May 4.—The French foreign office announced today that Marshal Liautey arrived at Fez, Morocco, Sunday night. He will personally direct the campaign against Abe-Del-Krim, Riff leader, the foreign office said.

Fez, which is the objective of the Riff forces has a population of approximately 100,000. It is the most populous and the most commercially important city of Morocco. It is 100 miles from the ocean and about 250 miles from the city of Morocco.

Famine Stalks Among Riff Tribesmen

RABAT, Morocco, May 4.—Faced by famine, 4000 Riff tribesmen under the leadership of Abe-Del-Krim, "Robin Hood of Morocco" were battling 12,000 French troops in French Morocco and burning villages in Spanish Morocco today, according to latest advices from the field.

The tribesmen and France were considered virtually at war and French airmen were reported in despatches to be bombing the Riff strongholds.

The situation has become so serious that all available French and Moorish troops have been hurried to the scene of action. An important concentration of Rifians was reported to have been made near Tissa, twenty-five miles northwest of Fez, toward which city Abe-Del-Krim is making his drive. This would place the Rifians twenty miles inside the French outposts. Despatches Saturday said ten French outposts were captured by the Riffian drive.

In addition to 4000 men in the field, Abe-Del-Krim is said to be holding 4000 men in reserve for either a surprise attack or to reinforce his combat forces.

Final Curtain Rung Down for John Russell, Noted Stage Star

The final curtain for John Russell, surviving member of the famous vaudeville and musical comedy team of Russell Brothers, noted far and wide fifty years ago, was rung down Sunday, May 3, 1923, when the veteran actor died at his home, 1742 Opechee way. Mr. Russell was 70 years old, and had retired from the stage thirteen years ago. He had been a resident of Glendale three years, coming here from Atlantic City. Back in 1882 when John Russell and his two brothers were members of the Harrigan and Hart shows, they appeared at the old Mason Opera house in Los Angeles, then a struggling city. Since that time the Russell Brothers appeared on the Pacific coast a number of times, including Los Angeles and other Southern California cities on their tours. John Russell, during his long career, was associated with such famous stars as George Cohan, Weber and Fields, and other noted

SUPERVISORS GET PLEA FOR BRIDGE

Glendale Delegation Appears Before County Board At Session Today

A partial victory in the fight for county funds for new bridges over the Los Angeles river at Glendale boulevard and Fletcher drive was won by advocates of the bridge projects when they appeared for the second time in ten days before the Board of Supervisors this morning. The supervisors, after once having turned down the request, promised today to reconsider their action.

More than half a hundred representatives of San Fernando valley cities formed the delegation that urged appropriation of $500,000 from the county treasury for the new bridges. Alfred J. Barnes who acted as spokesman for the petitioners stressed the need of the bridges and the important part they will play in the major traffic plan for the entire county.

PROMISE ACTION

The supervisors took the request under advisement with a promise to act sometime today or tomorrow. Necessity of quick action was impressed on the board by Mr. Barnes who declared that the Los Angeles City Council was holding up decision on a $5,000,000 bridge bond issue until the county decides definitely one way or the other on its appropriation for the Glendale boulevard and Fletcher drive spans.

Representatives from Glendale who appeared before the supervisors were L. T. Rowley, W. E. Hewitt, George B. Karr, Howard I. Wood, Councilmen W. F. Tower and S. C. Kinch, J. F. McClish, W. L. Truitt, Spencer Robinson and T. W. Watson.

DR. MOSES TO RULE SENATE DESTINIES

New Hampshire Solon Given Medical Title During Wilson Regime

By ROBERT T. SMALL Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923. WASHINGTON, May 4.—Washington is reconciled to President Coolidge's dictum that it should keep its shirt on during the recess of Congress and not stir up trouble anywhere along the line. The president wants the people to stop thinking about Washington for the time being.

Of course this doesn't jibe at all with the program which Vice-President Dawes has outlined for himself during the dull summer and fall months. The strenuous vice-president has proposed that he go up and down, shouting from the housetops, inveighing from the lunch table and the dinner table against the Senate rules and the thoroughly damnable state of public affairs in that august body.

"On Highest Authority" But "on the highest authority" it may be stated that Washington is even reconciled to letting the Senate rules stay as they are for the time being. The real reason for this state of contentment regarding the Senate is the fact that the ailing patient has been taken over at last by the good doctor Moses of New Hampshire. The "doctor's" diagnosis is not all in keeping with the coroner's verdict brought in by General Dawes. And it must in all fairness be stated that the good old doctor

BEHRMAN RULING N'ORLEANS AGAIN

Retrieves Mayoralty In Four Years And Now Starts His Fifth Term

By GEORGE N. COAD Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1923. NEW ORLEANS, May 4.—When Martin Behrman, the market woman's son, who attained more power than any other man ever held in New Orleans, took office as mayor today, he has done the seemingly impossible again. For Behrman has turned into victory the most severe defeat ever administered to a New Orleans politician in this city of quick changes or favor and of long and bitter political feuds.

The secret lies in Behrman's personality and his genius for politics. These talents enabled him many years ago to rise from poverty to the mayor's chair. Behrman was born in New York and was brought here by his mother when he was a child.

Made Many Friends "The first thing I remember," wrote Behrman in his autobiography, "are being taken by mother to her stall in the French market and learning to read sitting there on the curb amid the jostling of Creoles, Italians, Americans and the mulatto servants." Behrman never stopped reading and talking with people. He was put to work when he was 12 years old, but he kept at his books and at his talking. A few years later he left the market to sell goods on the road. Then he entered politics as an assessor, became chairman of the board of assessors, school director, and state collector in turn.

In 1904, he was elected mayor of New Orleans. His machine, the old regular organization, was built about one man, Martin Behrman. From the city hall Behrman ruled for 16 years.

Blamed for Everything No other politician was ever so bitterly assailed as Behrman. "The first thing I remember," wrote Behrman in his autobiography, "are being taken by mother to her stall in the French market and learning to read sitting there on the curb amid the jostling of Creoles, Italians, Americans and the mulatto servants." Behrman never stopped reading and talking with people. He was put to work when he was 12 years old, but he kept at his books and at his talking. A few years later he left the market to sell goods on the road. Then he entered politics as an assessor, became chairman of the board of assessors, school director, and state collector in turn. In 1904, he was elected mayor of New Orleans. His machine, the old regular organization, was built about one man, Martin Behrman. From the city hall Behrman ruled for 16 years. When Behrman was defeated in 1920 he retired to his little cottage across the river, sat on his porch, smiled at his neighbors and said nothing. Within two years he was made president of a bank. Within another year the bank was prospering beyond all expectation, for Behrman had smiled and rubbed his fat hands and brought business. And within a third year, friends and enemies alike, were mentioning him for mayor. The campaign was hard, the bitterness of many years. But Behrman re-organized his machine again and now he has begun his fifth term as mayor.

Appointment to Council Is Slated for Tomorrow!

Other petitions urging appointment of F. L. Muhleman, who failed to take the oath of office after his election, and Ed F. Heisser are also to be presented to the council at tomorrow's meeting.

Doctor's Murder Goes With Unsolved Crimes

Detectives, questioned by Mueller, after twenty-four hours of investigation centered specifically on the reported threatening telephone calls to Dillon from a prominent west suburban resident, said this clue had collapsed.

ITALY'S 'KING' OF PREMIERS LAUDS U. S.

Mussolini Working 16 Hours Each Day, Sends Special Message To America

By WILLIAM PARKER For International News Service NEW YORK, May 4.—Premier Mussolini is working sixteen hours a day. He is more popular with the people than ever before. The opposition is "wholly political"; the country is once more the "Sunny Italy," both in thought and confidence in the future.

This was the "doo-up" of Italy presented to International News by Luigi Barzini, editor of Corriere De America, and a friend of Mussolini, who has just returned to New York from Italy. Barzini comments as follows:

Now Conquering Mussolini's health: "Mussolini was seriously ill. He recovered quickly, although he is still convalescing. His mental faculties are marvelous. Several weeks ago the Senate listened for several days to generals and army officials who tried to explain the military reform bill. Then Mussolini summed it up in thirty minutes, and made it so clear the Senate voted to have his speech posted throughout the country, the first time such a thing had been done."

Mussolini's ailment: "He was suffering from what has become a duodenal ulcer. Diet and medical treatment obviated an operation."

Mussolini's influence: "Conditions are progressing more rapidly in Italy than in any other European country, because the people know Mussolini is working."

NAB EX-CONVICT IN BANDIT CHASE

Neighbors Give Alarm And Capture Tom Lafferty In Dryden Street

Tom Lafferty, alias Charles Wilson, confessed ex-convict, was captured late yesterday by neighbors of G. L. Harrington, 560 West Doran street, after Lafferty is alleged to have attempted to burglarize the Harrington home.

Lafferty gained entrance to the house by cutting a screen door at the rear and breaking the glass in the inside door. He was observed by a neighbor who called several other men in the vicinity. They surrounded the house and a member of the hurriedly-formed posse rang the front door bell.

Surprised at his work, Lafferty leaped through a side window and fled across the yard, only to be pulled down by the weight of nearly half a dozen men who flung themselves on him. There he was held until Police Sergeant Blake and Lauritzen arrived to take him in charge.

Held incommunicado at police headquarters Lafferty is said to have confessed today to Chief of Police John D. Fraser that he has served a number of terms in Canada and the United States for various crimes. He was to be arraigned this afternoon before Police Judge F. H. Lowe.

Floyd, 55, said to have been a close friend of the millionaire Gould family of New York was found dead Sunday, May 3, 1923, in her home at 1431 Hillside drive by Clarke N. Wilder, real estate man and Police Sergeant Blake. Wilder, a salesman at the tract office of the F. W. With Sergeant Blake shortly before 6 o'clock last night an entrance was forced, and the woman was found lying face downward in the kitchen. She is believed to have been dead for several days. Miss Floyd's substantial residence was financed by the Gould family, Wilder told the police. She lived in the house alone. A gas burner in the kitchen and an electric light were burning when the body was found. The body was taken to the L. G. Scovern mortuary. The coroner's office has been notified and an inquest will probably be held today, according to Detective Lieutenant Royce. The Gould family has been notified of the woman's death.

RADIO IS SEEN DIPLOMATIC GENERAL

International Debate on Air
Visioned by Political Writer of Note

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—An international debate on the air between the Prime Minister of Great Britain, the Premiers of France and Italy with a discourse too from the head of the Soviet government is all within the realm of practical radio development in the next few years, according to government officials here who are beginning a survey of radio as it relates to world-wide propaganda.

America is already in the lead in building the most effective radio broadcasting station in the world. It will be finished in a few months and from a point near Morristown, New Jersey, there will be sent out voices that will reach virtually every possessor of a radio set in this country and Canada.

The new super-broadcasting station will not interfere with existing stations and will be operated in accordance with the expressed wishes of the department of commerce so that there will be an improvement rather than an impediment to present broadcasting entertainments. The government cannot regulate under present law except to allocate wave lengths but the larger radio companies have been willing to defer to Secretary Hoover's judgment so that conflict be reduced to a minimum.

Europe Backward
Europe has not been alive to the possibilities of radio as a means of influencing public opinion but it would not be surprising if the experiment conducted by the Radio Corporation of America, led to construction of similar stations abroad. The Radio Corporation is primarily interested in developing good programs for American consumption but it will be possible for government officials to make addresses on the radio which can be picked up outside the United States.

Europe has not yet recognized the radio as a possible means of developing better relations between the various nations but inasmuch as the cost of erecting a powerful station is relatively little the chances are that it will be ultimately considered worth while for Great Britain to spend a million dollars to reach public opinion in continental Europe with any messages desired. Distances are much less in Europe than in the United States, and one station in any European country could reach the peoples of other countries.

Cost of Station
It costs thirty millions of dollars to build a battleship which is considered as essential to one means of war prevention—namely preparedness—so it will not be difficult for the advocates of peace to urge the erection of a million dollar broadcasting station from which the voice of reason may be proclaimed in Europe. The press of some European countries has always been censored or at least influenced so that material from other countries was either suppressed or abbreviated. With a broadcasting station, however, of immense power and range there would be little chance for censorship except by deliberate mechanical interference.

Each nation wish to retain its right of free speech to the rest of the world.
New Development
This new development in radio whereby a single station can reach a whole country of radio users is being widely discussed here particularly in its relationship to a problem such as would be presented if Soviet Russia decided to carry on a propaganda for Communism through the air. The technical experts say they can arrange to interfere with other operating units by means of stations in buffer state which may some day come to be known as "Buffer States."

The whole thing is possible but Europe has not yet the technical skill or the experience with radio broadcasting on a commercial basis such as America has had. Still officials predict the radio will be used as means of international debate at least within the next two or three years.

Lauderdale, of Lauderdale's Irish Linen store, located at 117 North Brand boulevard, states that the April business of that store showed a healthy increase in volume over the month of April a year ago, and that in order to keep up this record for 1925 a series of very attractive sales events have been planned to increase the volume of business during May.

Got Fever But No Lions

PEGGY THAYER, leader in the younger set in Eastern society, went to Africa to catch a lion or two. Instead she caught a fever and was dangerously ill for a time. Now she's back home, in Philadelphia, to rest up.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

If you want something really interesting to read today, turn to the travelogue by Lon J. Haddock, Glendale real estate man, now touring the world. He describes his visit to Japan in a letter to The Glendale Evening News today. And his subject matter is not only enjoyably enlightening, but happily humorous.

Readers of The Glendale Evening News will remember the letters by W. B. Kirk from Europe last year. They are pleased to get Dr. Henry R. Harrower's more current views of old world affairs. Now Mr. Haddock will give us first sight to the Orient.

Three Los Angeles broadcasting stations kept many a man and woman, too, from sleep early Sunday morning with midnight frolics that lasted until early hours of dawn. From New York and New Zealand, from the arctic to the equator, the air was filled with a million dollars' worth of talent, it seemed, Saturday night.

Radio has made life at sea, as well as railway train trips, equally as pleasurable as attending a theatre, except for enjoying the personality of the entertainers. And time will come when the silver screen will also be linked by wire and air to actual events, as well as the portrayal of spoken drama. The very latest developments in radio are chronicled by Robert Mack each day in this newspaper. He is one of many feature writers contributing to the Consolidated Press association.

W. O. Saunders, associate editor of Collier's Weekly, writes to The Glendale Evening News that California school children are going to have a code of right living on the walls of their 25,000 classrooms. The magazine went to the trouble of preparing this code and Will C. Wood, superintendent of public instruction, has agreed to having them placed where the children may get in simple language the tenets of courage and hope, wisdom, industry and good habits, knowledge and usefulness, truth and honesty, helpfulness and cleanliness, charity, humility and unselfishness, faith and responsibility.

And the fine thing about Collier's contribution is the fact there are no advertising marks of any kind on the code, there is nothing to stir religious controversy, and among the notables framing the code were Chief Justice William Howard Taft and the late Samuel Gompers.

Glendale building is going good. Such permits as the one issued Saturday for the Packer Motor Co., Inc., for a $55,000 salesroom and garage quickly mount up into the coveted seven figures.

May Glendale's May building be a record-breaker.

The Highway Highlands Women's club will hold a masquerade party at the club house on the night of May 26. The members are also planning to attend in a body the final dance of the season to be given at Oakmont Country club by the members of the Angeles Forest Protective association. From then on, the boys will spend their spare time in the hills working on trails and perfecting their organization.
Announcement is made by Mrs. R. Q. MacDonald of the music section of the Crescanta Valley Women's club of the All-American Music program to be held Thursday night. Four numbers by a male quartette will be an attraction. Mrs. Evelyn Pierce, Glendale reader, will present some of her offerings. The chorus of eighteen women's voices will render two numbers. The trio will also have two numbers of instrumental music. Solos will be sung by Mrs. Imogene Smith, Mrs. Royal Lowe, Mrs. Sheridan Young and Mrs. William Reed. Practically all of the older residents of the valley and the entire congregation of the Community church, attended the funeral services of Lawrence Potter. Mr. Potter was one of the oldest members of the church board.
Numerous floral pieces testified to the esteem in which he was held by those who had known him. Rev. Hoppy, one of the first ministers of the church, had charge of the services assisted by Rev. Kelso. The Glendale Masons had charge of the burial, the deceased being a member of the Calceico chapter. Interment was at Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Mr. MacDaniels, Miss G. costume parade. The vehicle parade had many entries.
The most original entry in the parade was that of Robert and Babette Marks, who with their donkey came as the original American Indians. Kites of all sizes were entered, the largest being fourteen feet. A substantial luncheon had been provided in the school cafeteria. The afternoon was taken up with the crowning of the May Queen and the Mother Goose stories told in life.

In cakes John Leuer carried off a first for his cup cakes. Elizabeth Master took third, Donald Masters was fourth for his fudge, Virginia Piesker won first on her cookies and her embroidered luncheon cloth.

R. WEHE WEDS MISS GRACE CRAMPTON

Marriage Takes Place At Church Of Angels Last Saturday Night

Beautiful in all its appointments was the wedding Saturday night, May 2, 1925, at 8 o'clock of Miss Grace Crampton, popular Glendale girl, and Roy Arthur Wehe of San Francisco, solemnized at the Church of the Angels, Annandale, Rev. H. C. Parke, rector of the church, read the Episcopalian ring service before a large company of relatives and friends.

Proceeding the entrance of the bridal party and as the wedding guests arrived, wedding music was played by the church organist. As the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played the bridal party entered the church.

Cathedral candles were used sending a soft glow of light and enhancing the beauty of the church, which was a bower of spring loveliness, decorated with baby breath, stocks, Spanish iris, sweetpeas and delphinium in artistic arrangement.

Bride's Gown of Satin

For her wedding gown, Miss Crampton chose white satin. French made in straight lines. Godets of imported Chantilly lace and handmade flowers of white with pearls in the center trimmed the lower part of the dress. A corsage of the white flowers and pearls ornamented one shoulder. A court train of satin fell from the shoulders. Her wedding veil was white handmade Duchess lace, draped in coronet style in front and held in place with a cluster of natural orange blossoms at the side, and a double strand of pearls at the back. She wore two pearl-headed hairpins her mother wore at her wedding thirty-six years ago. She carried a point lace handkerchief and wore a strand of French pearls, a gift from Mr. Wehe. A shower bouquet of Claudia Pernet roses and lilies-of-the-valley were carried by the bride. She was given in marriage by her father, John T. Crampton. Miss Bena Jensen of Glendale, as maid of honor. Her dress was a bouffant gown of orchid georgette crepe over taffeta trimmed with blonde silk lace overdrapes. She wore a handmade georgette hat trimmed with orchid ribbon streamers and handmade flowers. She carried a fan shaped arm bouquet of yellow iris and orchid sweetpeas tied with orchid chiffon. Her slippers were blonde satin.

Harvey of 332 West Lomita avenue, a native Kansan, won first prize in toe dancing solo work, in the "California Poppy Dance." ARTISTS RE-ELECT MRS. R. BALLAGH

Glendale Association Hears Persian Philosopher, Lyric Soprano

The meeting of the Glendale Art association held yesterday afternoon at the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard, was marked by several unusual features. Jenabe Fazel, Persian traveler, lecturer and philosopher, was the speaker of the afternoon. Miss Mildred Hughey, lyric soprano, widely recognized in music circles of Hollywood and Los Angeles, and now a resident of the city, delighted the audience with her vocal selections. The annual election of officers took place. Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh, being re-elected president by acclamation.

"Divine Springtime" was the subject of the address by the speaker, a philosophical discourse on the religion of Persia, his native country, and the belief in the millions of years of "cycle after cycle" in the history of the world; and summing up his experience as a world traveler and student of nations, with the conclusion that all nations are anticipating the coming of a great new cycle of life.

Foresees Great Changes

"I realize," he said, "that we are in the early morning of a new age; the darkness of the past cycle will give place to the first hour of a divine springtime; I believe in that coming, that all human life will change; that even frontiers of different countries will change; countries will unite with one interest; Palestine will be the great center of activity of all the world; we will have a universal language which will bring new understanding; during my travels I found Hindus and Mohammedans trying to bring the many sects into unity and harmony; a great invisible artist is working behind a curtain and when it is lifted we will see the picture upon which he has been painting since the beginning of time, one family with the coming of universal peace."

The music numbers by Miss Mildred Hughey were given in two groups, one before the lecture and the other following; and included the following enjoyable selections: "When Song Is Sweet" (Gertrude Sears Soule); "Wings of Night" (Winter Watts); "Will I Be the Wisp" (Torrence Benjamin) (Music by Charles Gilbert Spross); "The Star" (James H. Rogers); "The Year's at the Spring" (Mrs. H. H. Beach; Miss Gladys Sharpe was accompanist.

Cherry Blossom Dances at Kyoto, Japan, Witnessed by Glendale Globe Girdler

Lon J. Haddock Writes for Evening News Readers His Impressions of Nippon After Visit to Ancient Capital City

"We are now churning through the Yellow sea, on our way to China, where lies the 'sleeping giant of the Orient,'" writes Lon J. Haddock, widely traveled educator and member of the Glendale-Los Angeles realty firm of Haddock-Nibley Co., who is on tour of the world. His travelogues are a regular feature in The Glendale Evening News.

One paragraph taken from today's letter shows how versatile and interesting Mr. Haddock's letters are:

"The lady from Amarillo, Texas, who sits opposite me at the table, was asked for permanent waves! And it combs out just perfectly beautiful! Ain't nature grand?"

By LON J. HADDOCK
 Special to The Glendale Evening News

ABOARD THE DOLLAR LINER S. S. MONROE (In the Middle of the Yellow Sea, After a Visit in Japan)—Saveth the Japanese: "If you make for to see much sights of Japan you will be most please to get your souvenir to make gift to many friends at this place. The workmanship is the finest artizan of Japan, and if the price is much it is because fine art and much workmanship are poured in it."

So, Japan! Well! Well! Well! and we have had our first rickshaw ride, and for that, at least, I can truthfully say, "much labor are poured in it." Incidentally the Volstead influence must have abbreviated the "gin" in jirikshaw for never once have I heard it referred to here, other than "rickshaw," and what a system of economies it is wherein human beings are forced to substitute for draft animals.

Enjoys Human Taxi
 But a fellow's sympathy is utterly wasted from the viewpoint of the rickshaw man, himself, unless it expresses itself in employment, hence we go compartments and sit back blithely to enjoy our human taxi.

That the modern Japanese is rapidly taking on "airs" is apparent from the opening paragraph of this article copied verbatim from a notice posted conspicuously in a prominent shop window in Kyoto, with the further assurance that "we speak splendid English vocabulary blithely," and what more could you ask?

But of what phase of Japanese life shall I write? Or, perhaps, it would be better to preface my article with a word of caution. Japan is no place for gentlemen with "bay windows," nor "holier" stockings. Every day one does his "daily dozen." Yesterday I did two dozen, more or less, I really lost track of the count, and I changed my shoes or I slipped covers over them fifteen times, at least.

The reason for my word of caution to the lady or gentleman who is whatchoo call, er—embopoint, is because of the Japanese manner of formal greeting. You advance to within a prescribed distance of the one you are greeting, then you stop abruptly and bow, straight from the hips, no bending of the knees but a straight, honest-to-goodness, daily dozener—then you advance a few more steps, then bow and scrape some more, and at the conclusion of the ceremony you bow and scrape and scrape and bow yourself backward into oblivion. I can now reach over to the right, to the left, forward or backward and touch the ground with either hand.

Slip on Slippers
 The shoe changing what is the chief indoor sport of Japan. Whenever you visit a shrine or a temple the most honorable attendants are there with the most honorable slippers, and off go your honorable shoes to make way for the honorable slippers and you may then enter triumphantly into the sacred domain.

Or if you have compartments about stepping out of your shoes covers are now provided which are easily slipped over one's shoes and with your pedal extremities looking for all the world like "a spreading chestnut tree" you go forth to conquer.

But the shoe-doffing is not confined to the temples and shrines. At all the best hotels and at the finest department stores the custom prevails.

Whatever one's personal prejudices this much must be conceded, the Japanese are clean, with a capital C. The lobbies of the hotels and department stores are immaculate, and the floors of the various temples and shrines shine like burnished ebony under the age-long polishing of millions of shuffling Japanese feet.

We were fortunate in arriving here in the very midst of cherry blossom time, and in having the rare privilege of attending the beautiful Cherry Blossom dances at Kyoto, the ancient capital of the nation. This event is held every year at the season when the cherry blossoms are in full bloom, and it is attended by not thousands, but by millions of people, annually.

Due to an unavoidable delay we were late in arriving at the theatre and the performance was well under way when we got there. However, nothing daunted we slipped on our shoe covers and followed hastily after the Japanese who acted as our escort, up one full flight of stairs, down a half-flight; turned to the left ten paces, thence swung sharply to the right, through a small hall down some more stairs and into a long corridor where our guide suddenly stopped, pushed back a section of the wall which was made up of a series of sliding doors, and we were in the big show.

Quietly Enjoy Spectacle
 It had been my impression that the streets outside were crowded

ALL HONOR FOR ATHLETES

Members of the graduating class of a large American university recently voted two to one that they would rather have won the big "C" denoting athletic prowess than the Beta Kappa key representing excellence in scholarship. Two high school boys won medals in an interschool contest not long ago, one in an athletic event, the other in art, in which he shows considerable talent and promise for one of his age and training. The athletic youngster consoled his chum by saying, "Oh, well, Tom, the medals aren't marked. You can keep yours and show it to your children and tell them you won it in the high jump."

Why is muscle more highly regarded than brains? Physical training should not be neglected, of course. But the ditch-digger and the hod-carrier probably have finer physiques than the college athlete, and yet they are not so highly esteemed.

Everyone courts applause and the champion in athletics or any sport is given so much prominence today that the young person cannot be entirely blamed for thinking it is more honorable to excel in athletics than in scholarship.

The college boy who makes a record in athletics has his name blazoned across the pages of every newspaper in the country and it is on the lips of everyone who is interested in sports. But the one who excels in scholarship is not news.

One of the popular magazines published a story a few years ago about a girl who was unknown and unpopular. She determined to become world-famous. Did she take up music, art or literature? No, she learned to play golf and became a world champion. Not saying that it is easy to become a golf champion or even to play a good game, in no other line of endeavor than sports could this girl have become known all over America and Europe in a few years' time.

The college athlete gets all the honor, but how about later in life? Let a former football hero tell. He says: "I and my brother Jim attended a recent alumni gathering. I was a football hero in my college days. I have known what it was to feel the field reverberate with mighty acclaim as I put over a winning place kick. But all I have to show for my great physical effort in those days is a dilated heart, a game knee, a beautiful sweater and the signed photograph of a famous coach. My brother Jim was a joke at football, but he got the gold key. The girls at the alumni gathering seemed to have forgotten what my 'C' stood for, but they understood Jim's key and he had to fight them off."

WHAT ARE THEY BRINGING HOME?

The one who undertakes to predict that a boy is going to be a success in life because he makes cute remarks in babyhood and always has his school lessons prepared, or who is sure the child who is slow and dull will be a failure as a man is not very observing. We all know of so many exceptions to this rule that most of us do not dare make such predictions. It is often amazing the way children turn out. Those of whom we expected so much are often disappointing and the dullards often become successful and famous.

Thomas A. Clarke, dean of men at the University of Illinois, says you cannot always tell what a man is going to bring home from college. He describes the homecoming of four college graduates to his home town. Bob Lord came from Michigan, bringing a bull pup and a bag of golf clubs. George Fosbender blew in from Northwestern with a xylophone and a ukulele, and from 10 in the morning (when George rose) until midnight the latest ragtime could be heard from the Fosbender front porch. Marie Klein brought the latest fiction and the lightest small talk from the state university, where she had taken a course in domestic science, and cool and freshly gowned, she edified her friends on the front porch while her mother washed dishes in the kitchen and stirred up something good for lunch. Sam Warren, the town dullard, came from agricultural college and rejuvenated his father's rundown farm.

Parents are often foolishly alarmed or disappointed if son doesn't say such cute things as little Percy who lives next door, or if daughter doesn't make such good grades in school as her chum. But if parents look back to their own school days they will probably remember the boy who never had his lessons, whose face and hands were never clean and who was blamed, and nearly always deservedly, for all the mischief that was hatched in school. He is now the mayor of one of the most important cities in the country. And the boy who always knew the answer, where is he? Swallowed up by a big city, where he holds a clerkship in a department store. And the girl who passed up skating parties and dances when they interfered with the preparation of her lessons? She has grown old drilling dates into other people's children.

A child's public school record is no index to his future success or failure, but when a boy or girl comes home from college his purpose in life should be apparent. What he brings home should be some indication of what he intends to do with his life.

CLEAN UP ROADS AND CAMPS

The National Automobile Club of California has inaugurated a campaign for clean highways and clean automobile camps. The majority of travelers want clean surroundings in camp and along the highways, but there is a queer quirk in the American people, that makes them abuse and deface their surroundings when they are away from home. Sunday picnickers are offenders, but not the only ones. We not only line our highways with advertising signs, we paint advertisements on our palisades, tack posters on our beautiful trees and scatter garbage, tin cans and rubbish all along the highway. Only through every motorist doing his part to keep the highways and camps clean can this campaign be successful.

When a politician says the people are learning to think for themselves they feel so flattered they let him do their thinking.

It is difficult to believe that people fifty years from now will sigh for the old songs that were popular in 1923.

Another fault of the times is too much birth control and not enough control of the youngsters after they are born.

A country where fool drivers keep the population thinned out has no right to scold Ireland for an occasional killing.

DEUTSCHLAND UBER ALL(I)ES!

Good and Evil

By DR. FRANK CRANE

All the good things in the world may be said to be those things which produce growth and all the evil forces in the world are those which stop growth.

If this be a fair interpretation, then the source of good and evil is one and not two. In other words, there is one God and not two.

All the things which delight us could very well torment us if the conditions were different. It takes three things to make an apple grow: sunshine or warmth, rain or moisture, and unity with the parent tree. Now, let an apple fall to the ground. It will be found that the very things that rot it are the things that made it grow in the first place: heat, moisture and a lack of connection with the parent stem.

This illustrates that the agents of punishment or sorrow are the same as the agents of reward or joy. The same forces make for disease that make for health. The same agents build up which tear down.

The difference between a dog running happily along the highway and the dog running by the side of the road is simply that in the first instance the dog is utilizing food and sunshine and air, while in the second place the sunshine and air are utilizing him.

The difference between life and death is whether you are eating your environment or it is eating you.

All things are said to work together for the good. It is just as true that all things work against the evil.

A good man is simply one who has lined himself up with his environment. The bad man is one who thinks he can succeed against all influences around him.

Life is nothing but harmony. It is being in tune with our conditions.

To get out of tune means disease, moral evil and eventually death.

The forces of the universe are all streaming in one direction. When we go with them we are being advanced. When we seek to go against them we are destroyed.

It is not necessary to invent a devil for the very forces which make for righteousness are the forces which make for punishment of the wicked.

Horoscope

In the early part of this day friendly stars rule, according to astrology. Neptune, Mercury and Jupiter are all in benefic aspect, while Uranus, Saturn and Mars are all adverse.

The Moon is in Virgo, an airy, masculine sign ruled by Venus, and encouraging romance.

In the business hours today disturbing and irritating forces may be apprehended. It is a rule that tests one's self-control.

There may be an unusual tendency toward accidents while this rule prevails.

Under this sway the mind may be peculiarly sensitive to impressions and the intuition keenly alert.

Married persons may be easily provoked to quarrels today for those closest to one may be most jarring in their personal influence while this planetary government prevails.

Divorces will be numerous and scandals will multiply in the summer when women's organizations will be active in preaching domestic virtues.

Aviators should be unusually cautious today, when Uranus is in adverse sway.

Deaths of notable men in the religious and legal professions are foretold. A famous prelate will end his career within the month, it is prophesied.

Sudden outbreaks of public sentiment and even riots are presaged for London at this time.

In the Transvaal many difficulties will be precipitated this month when mining will focus attention because of troubles regarding property claims.

Uranus in ascendant at Cape Town threatens outbreaks in South Africa.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an unsettled year. There is danger of rash action. Good luck in love affairs is forecast.

Children born on this day probably will be gifted, impulsive and too restless to settle down to routine business. These subjects of Taurus usually are capable of accomplishing big things.

Today's Poem

THEY ALL DO IT

By ELLIS HAYES

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact. Yet every time she lays an egg She cackles forth the fact.

A rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to show. But none the less most roosters have Enough good sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beasts, Has a persistent way Of letting folks know he's around By his insistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz, Bulls bellow and cows moo; The watchdogs bark, the ganders quack, And doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squawks, Pigs squeal, and robins sing, And even serpents know enough To hiss before they sting.

But man, the greatest masterpiece That nature could devise, Will often stand and hesitate Before he'll advertise.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

You may maintain that the evolution of humanity has been an unbroken progress towards perfection;

You may maintain that there has been no progress at all, and that man remains the same poor creature that he ever was;

Or, lastly, you may say, with the author of the "Contract Social," that men were in primeval simplicity. "When wild in woods the noble savage ran."

In all or any of these views, history will stand your friend. History, in its passive irony, will make no objection. Like Jarno, in Goethe's novel, it will not condescend to argue with you, and will provide you with abundant illustrations of ANY THING YOU WISH TO BELIEVE.

"What is history?" said Napoleon, "but a fiction agreed upon."

"My friend," said Faust to the student, who was growing enthusiastic about the spirit of the past age,—"my friend, the times which are gone are a book with seven seals; and what you call the spirit of this or that worthy gentleman in whose mind those ages are reflected."

Can history give us any rules upon which we can found predictions regarding the future of humanity?

This answer to the question is offered by James Anthony Froude in "The Science of History."

"If men are not entirely animals, they are at least half animals, and are subject in this respect to the conditions of animals."

"So far as those parts of man's doings are concerned, which neither have, nor need have, anything moral about them, so far the laws of humans are calculable, and laws of the means by which his digestive organs are supplied with matter."

"But pass beyond them, and where are we?"

"In a word where it would be as easy to calculate men's actions by laws like those of positive philosophy as to measure the orbit of Neptune with a foot-rule, or weigh Sirius in a grocer's scale."

Froude tells us that one lesson, and only one, history may be said to repeat with distinctness; That the world is built somehow on moral foundations;

That, in the long run, it is well with the good;

In the long run, it is ill with the wicked.

Well, what greater lesson could history teach us?

Timely Views

"However well intentioned this country may be, either upon its own accord or as a member of an international body organized for the prevention of conflict, it cannot prevent war. So long as there is no means of preventing war there must be preparation against war." Such was the warning conveyed to the thirty-fourth continental congress of the Daughters of the Revolution recently by the president-general of the society, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook.

Logic and text books deleted of war-like bits of history can never be substituted for bullets, and a well trained manhood as a guarantee of safety for the nation, she cautioned. Pacifism, as preached by "emotional theorists," she warned, has reached "a dangerous stage."

"Unfortunately," Mrs. Cook declared, "there is at present too great a tendency among many of our people to have America lead the world in readiness to promote peace by disarmament, without due consideration of the necessary provisions for our security and defense. As a nation we must realize that reliance upon right and logic in lieu of proper defense is an invitation for us to be preyed upon."

"Nothing could be farther from the aims of our society than to commit our nation to a militaristic program, but it is the duty of every citizen to safeguard the United States against aggression by helping to support and maintain land, sea, and air forces for our reasonable protection."

"We further believe that it is our duty and that of every other American citizen, to be fully informed as to the measure of national protection which is necessary, and to be unceasing in our efforts to see that it is provided by the congress of the United States."

"The spread of pacifism," she said, "and the undermining of our ideals of national service by foreign agencies and by our native born emotional theorists, who have been swept loose from stable moorings by skillful propagandists, has reached a dangerous stage."

"History will show that as a nation, in order to be just, we have actually leaned backward in our endeavor to be fair in international matters," she continued. "Surely the time has come for

That Charles D. Hilles, Republican national committeeman from New York and long a leading figure in national G. O. The expected resignation of Secretary of War Weeks because of ill health has already caused much speculation as to who his successor would be. Hilles' name is one of the three most prominently mentioned. Dwight F. Davis of Missouri, General Pershing and Charles B. Warren are others considered.

One rumor is that Postmaster General New will be made secretary of war and Hilles made postmaster general.

Mayor, City Manager Back From Fishing

Mayor H. G. MacBain, City

nine other fishermen returned this morning from Silver Lake, near Mono Lake, in the high Sierras in Inyo county, with 187 trout.
As proof to doubters, they ar-

They left Glendale Thursday afternoon.

Most of the fish were Rainbow trout, although there were also a large number of Dolly Vardens, Cutthroats and brook trout. Con-

Stone, there are hundreds of

FLEET JUDGES IN MIDST OF PARLEY

Aircraft, Gas Have Center
Of Interest In Critique
After Maneuvers

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service,
HONOLULU, May 4.—The importance of aircraft and gas occupied the center of interest in the secret critique on the army-navy maneuvers in which the United States fleet engaged, now in its third day of session.

Gas bombs were not used in the maneuvers and whether these could have been successfully employed by either the attacking or defending forces was one of the big questions to be settled by the critique, it was said.

In the aircraft discussion both the air supporters and those opposed to plane warfare were claiming victory.

Hawaiian Fish Feast

Advocates of a big air defense program were reported as stating the defense of the islands in the maneuvers centered around the planes, while the attacking forces claimed their anti-aircraft guns were effective. It was claimed that air attacks at night were of practically no value. Whether or not the submarine is an important arm of the navy was also being thoroughly discussed at the secret sessions. Under actual war conditions it was claimed the submarine defense of the attacking fleet would not have proved effective.

Congressmen and newspapermen with the fleet were entertained on the far side of Oahu island yesterday with a fish feast, served in true Hawaiian style.

PRICELESS BOOKS THIEVES' PLUNDER

Famous Italian Collection Is Scattered Aimlessly
By Pillagers

SAN REMO, Italy, May 4.—
Canvasses of second-hand bookstores and art collectors' studios have failed to recover more than a minimum of the priceless books and rare documents which were stolen from the home of Signora Giulia Grossi, here.

It is not exactly certain when and how the robbery took place, but the pillagers, who are now under arrest, rifled the library of the half million dollars' worth of treasures.

Greatest Loss
The greatest loss is that of priceless illuminated codices and rare first editions. Very old historical documents, showing the state and grandeur of Genoa Savona and San Remo, collected and preserved by the Grossi family for more than five hundred years, were so scattered by the robbers that little hope is held out for their ultimate recovery.

Some of the articles stolen, however, already have been offered for sale to collectors at low prices. Fortunately certain of these collectors have informed the Grossi family, and the treasures were restored to the rightful owners.

Husband of Three Days Killed By 'Old Flame'

OAKLAND, May 4.—"I didn't

That was the explanation given to death Phileip Medina in front of his home here while his bride of three days looked on.

"I had been going with Philip

CHERRY BLOSSOM FETE DESCRIBED

Lon J. Haddock Writes Of Japan, Its Queer Customs, Despite Progress

eleven girls on our left—there were eleven on either side—four played on drums with slightly red lacquered bass, while the other seven played the tambourines and gongs.

The first girl from the stage on the right-hand side, begins her song with a low contralto tone which rises gradually to a real effort. Meantime the other girls in her "bazaar" play an accompaniment on their mandolins, which through strange to American ears gives every indication of being thoroughly deft, artistic, and finished from a Japanese standpoint.

Dancing Girls Outdo Sheba And then come the performers! Ladies all, and the pick of Japan for beauty and for performance. Out onto the stage they come with slow, swaying movements, strains of the music and beguined in a manner to make the long-famed queen of Sheba turn in her grave.

Beautiful, wonderful, little, dancing dolls, in long-fitting kimonos, extending to their dainty little feet, and worn closed at the throat so as to cover the form completely, in commendable contrast to our blatant American display of form and limbs, and reproducing with the aid of all that is best in modern Japanese stage equipment, the living color poems of its people.

The stage setting is childishly simple to an American observer, but it appeared to be wondrously beautiful to the natives. By a simple pulling of strings an entire stage setting is turned over and converted into an entirely different scene, and occasionally something goes wrong and a stage hand wearing a long, flowing, black mask to conceal his features comes out onto the stage to make the proper adjustment.

The stage hands also come out to assist the actresses with their changes of costume, in full view of the audience, and at the end of an act the various stage trimmings are whisked as if by magic through a hole in the floor of the stage.

That its music and rhythm did not appeal strangely to our jazz-crazed blood is no fault of the performers, or the Japanese people; but that the performance was of the highest order and given in a perfect manner we had no doubt.

Kyoto Is Ancient Capital

Everywhere in this quaint Japanese city which for 1000 years was the capital of the empire, one sees evidence of the strange blending of centuries-old manners and the most up-to-date customs. The American auto hawks its way noisily through the shuffling motley of the narrow, twisting streets, each auto like the modern electric cars that pass up and down on the wider thoroughfares, carrying double number plates, one in Japanese and the other in English.

Here a Japanese gentleman in modern American dress and spectacles strides along beside an honorable gentleman in flowing kimono and "plug" hat, toddling along on high, stilt-like Japanese shoes.

And so it goes all over Japan! The old is going, the new has come. "The king is dead, long live the king!" and in Japan the new king is King Progress.

Praises Gentle Manners

What do I think of Japan? Well, what would you think of a land and a people in which the love of art and flowers, of beauty and children, amounts to a genuine passion? A land of pleasant gardens, and shrines, and temples; a people of smiling countenance, and gentle manners, from whom we Americans may well take lessons in common courtesy.

That is Japan as a superficial glance at it reveals it to me. That the Japanese are enterprising; that they may be inordinately vain—"cocky" as we term it; that America should exercise proper supervision, discrimination and restriction with respect to Japanese immigration I freely grant, but quarrel with Japan—well, why not one between Japan and England? England is building her great naval base at Singapore, but where is the talk of quarrel between England and Japan?

Literary Venture For Girl Ends At Home

Janet Wilma Newton, 14, is back at home today after a disappointing venture into the literary field. The girl disappeared from her home, 1609 Camulos avenue, on Saturday afternoon. She told her parents she planned to visit with friends at a grocery store in Montrose. When she failed to return Saturday evening an investigation was made and the police were notified that she had taken with her a suitcase filled with clothing, some jewelry and a number of fiction stories that she had written during the past year.

Juvenile hall authorities found her in Los Angeles, still carrying the heavy suitcase and searching for a market for the product of her pen. She was returned home yesterday by her cousin, David S. Shattuck, 1251 South S. Andrews place, Los Angeles.

The money they pay out goes to those who are employed in various industries, trades and business, and when everyone is able to pay his bills promptly, we have good times in the community. The dollar spent in Glendale buys just as much as the one spent out of town, and often much more when time, convenience and transportation expense are taken into account. ZION LUTHERANS UNUSUAL SERVICE

Rev. Kringle Takes as Talk
'Let Your Light Shine,'
From Matthew

Rev. Henry O. Kringle, pastor of Zion Lutheran church spoke yesterday, "Let Your Light Shine," Matthew 5:15-16, saying: "The religion of Jesus Christ is the religion of everyday life. He touched the common things and, as though touched by a magic wand, they changed into finest gold. He went into the kitchen for a text, and transfigured the meal; the dough of the bread was wrought into a parable of God's working grace. He went into the garden or the woods and found a lesson in the springing seed and the flowers which carpeted the ground. "Consider the lilies," he said in his sermon on the mount. "He went on board the fishing boat and the nets illustrated a picture of the kingdom of heaven. In our text neither do men light a candle and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your father which is in heaven. The Lord steps into an Oriental house for a text and speaks under the illustration of an article which is to be found in every home, a candle, or rather, a lamp. "So it is the duty of every Christian to let his light shine before men. Be it noted, however, that man, in and of himself, is not a light, he is darkness. Says the apostle writing to the Ephesians, "Ye were sometimes darkness, but now ye are a light unto the Lord. "How did they get light? Not by worldly science and learning. Many are very learned and literate, and yet their souls are wrapped in thick darkness and without hope in the world. In the eighth chapter of John the Lord says: "I am the light of the world, he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness but shall have the light of life. Jesus Christ, then, and He alone, is the one true light. "To have light, light unto eternal life, you must seek and embrace Jesus as your Saviour, your righteousness, the propitiation and reconciliation for your sins. You must recognize in Him the wisdom of God and the way to God. Here you have in what sense Christians are lights, namely by Jesus Christ. Christians therefore have their light from Christ, the true light, which lights every man that cometh into the world. And what dispensation is made of this light? A light locked up in a cupboard

'SUCCESS' THEME FOR SUNDAY TALK

Dr. Funk Of First Lutheran
Tells Why Most Men
Fail In Life

Speaking on "Some Secrets of Success" at the First Lutheran Church, 233 South Kenwood street yesterday, Dr. H. C. Funk, pastor, said: "Our loftiest triumphs have often been laid upon a foundation of many failures. Cyrus W. Fields laid the Atlantic cable after thirteen years of the most discouraging failures. Lincoln became the Lion of the North, and the emancipator of the South, after repeated failures in life. Eighty per cent of the men sixty-five years of age find that their lives are partially or entirely dependent upon relatives or the state for maintenance. "Indeed, the sea of life is strewn with human wrecks, with men and women that have failed, and that most miserably. There are many who start well in life, with high ideals and lofty purposes; but, alas! how few there are that finish well. Hear the Apostle Paul as he declared, "O foolish Galatians, who hath bewitched you? Yea, in our own day there are many who promise well, who make a fair profession; but few there are who persevere. On the other hand, the number who fall from grace and join the mighty army of backsliders is appalling. Would that men might realize that they have power and wealth, culture and refinement, and yet fail most miserably. "Why Men Fail "But why do men fail with such wonderful promises and possibilities? The answer is because we have not learned of Him who never failed, and who is abundantly able to provide for every emergency in life, and who did satisfy the law. The One who, in the time of our lesson, did send the ravens with bread for Elijah, and who gave promise to the widow of Zarephath, "Neither shall the cruse of oil fail. "Secondly, he needs to learn the lesson of confidence in others. Yes, we fail because we do not love, trust and obey God, as the widow at Zarephath did. Again, we fail because we have assumed the wrong attitude toward our neighbor. Confidence begets confidence, and love begets love. Instead of nagging and using the hatchet, let a man show to the world the spirit that was in Christ, the One who never failed, would leave the house in darkness. A man cannot be a Christian in secret. His light must shine forth, in order that the people may see his works and glorify his Father in heaven."

PASTOR DEFENDS AGED MINISTERS

Rev. Thomas of Grand View
Urges Pension Be Given
Servants of Church

"It is not the privilege of every pastor this morning to speak to a congregation which in its first formal call engaged to provide its share of an old-age pension for its pastor," declared Rev. G. W. Thomas at Grand View Community church yesterday, and continued: "Throughout our denomination this morning this day is being used as one sacred to the cause of justice for the veterans of the cross. The new pension being presented in the great plenary before the meeting of the general assembly this month. For years with many plans and little permanent success our church has been working toward a solution of this problem and simple justice to the men and women who have hazarded their lives and their living for the sake of humanity in the name of Christ. "Now at last a statesmanlike, self respect saving, sound plan has been worked out, and for the past year congregations and ministers have been adopting it all over the country. If it becomes the law of the church it will save the ministry. If it, or some better plan, does not become the law of the church, the church will soon realize the full meaning of two of the bitterest tragedies in Christian history. "Martyrdom of Ministers "One of those tragedies is the needless and inexcusable martyrdom of its aged ministers and missionaries with their families. That tragedy has been going on with increasing cruelty in the past twenty-five years of economic revolution. The other tragedy will be the turning aside of the finest and ablest and most greatly needed young men from the ministry because they will not endure needless and inexcusable martyrdom. Sacrifice and martyrdom they would gladly endure whenever Christ calls for them. "Economic crucifixion and loss of self respect inability to pay their honest debts, and to educate their families, a broken old age forgotten by the church to which they are asked to give their lives, they will not endure. They will leave such a church without a ministry—and they ought to. So far has this double tragedy already gone that the church is even now facing a heartshaking shortage in the ministry of the next fifteen years. "Church Last "Somehow it takes people a long while to see things. City, state and national governments, almost all great industrial concerns, and recently school systems, have adopted the old age pension plan as simple justice, back salary to the aged and insurance to the young. How strange it is that the Church of Jesus Christ should be the last to plan adequate provision for its aged servants! How strange that the very same men who in industry have for years advocated and applauded this principle, should have left their aged pastors and their families to starve, and straggle and die of broken hearts and poverty! It seems as if the leaders of industry and banking who have been all their lives members of the church might long ago have done something more effective than pity the ministry for its so-called "poor management of its beggarly salaries. "But, perhaps we are all to blame, and there need be no recriminations. The day has come when the splendid financial ability of the laymen and ministry together has worked out a great, sound, far reaching plan for the future. We are not going to witness, God willing, a double tragedy, but a double triumph. "Logical Procedure "The first will be to remove heartbreaking poverty from every aged servant of the church now in need, and we can thank God while they take courage. The second will be to see the finest and noblest of our young manhood turning to the service of Christ in the ministry and mission fields, assured of justice and love when their lives shall have been spent for a remembering church. The church will be assured of a ministry adequate to lead it out of these troublous times to glorious service in the kingdom of Christ. Then will come to pass the fulfillment of the old prophecy: "Behold, I will give you pastors after my own heart, who shall feed you with wisdom and understanding. "And I rejoice this morning that my own church has already done its duty by the pension plan, writing the covenant into its first call before the plan was adopted by the church at large. I am sure that in the light of the years to come, this will be a proud part in the record of Grand View's history. To that covenant let us be faithful through the years, and God shall give us pastors who shall feed us with wisdom and understanding."

'Christ's Ascension' Is Theme for Rev. Mullen

Rev. H. C. Mullen, pastor of Pacific Avenue Methodist Episcopal church preached yesterday morning on the subject, "The Significance of Christ's Ascension."

PASTOR TALKS OF JESUS' TEACHING

Rev. Kemp Tells Audience
At St. Mark's of Christ's Given Analogies

"The Vine and the Branches" was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday by Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church. He said: "Jesus was very clear in His analogies of life particularly as they bore reference to God on the one hand and the human family upon the other. He was indeed the revelation of God in some such way as the printed page stands before the mind of the writer and that of the reader. Jesus draws the picture of the grape-vine to show the way in which God's truth reaches out and touches mankind. He is the vine and all who are grafted onto Him are the branches for they are an extension of the life of the vine. "The fruit of the vine must come through the chosen means for bringing His work to good effect. He has also said: "Apart from Me ye can do nothing." We are therefore dependent on Him as He is in a measure dependent on us. "Strength to Vine "Strength comes to the vine from the roots and foundation of the plant. Jesus received His strength from God who gave unto Him the great principles of His life in the principles of faith and obedience, faith that God was directing His life and the spirit of obedience to do His will. Jesus was perpetuating the vine of divine life which had ever been the strength of men. "We read in the scriptures that Abraham trusted and he obeyed. The one thing necessary in his life was faith and not the possession of great herds or fine pastures. This is the power of religion. There is a life that is more than meat. Jesus has revealed this life. There is a real presence of God in the world as men truly give themselves to God. The reality of this presence came to men in Christ. This presence is promised to us as we draw near to Him and seek to produce the Christian life in us. "Sacramental Life "The sacramental life covers this life. Historic Christianity has ever felt the power of Christ or the life of the vine has come to men in the service of holy communion. This does not bring to us an emotional feeling of spiritual exclusiveness but a new spiritual power seeking to reproduce in us that life which came to the first disciples. It is an experience of the heart and an act of the will. We draw near to God that He may draw near to us and convey to us the power of His love. The real presence is the presence of love in our hearts. It is the love of Christ that constrains us, nothing can take from us the power of the love of God. This is how the love of God appeared by God sending His only son into the world so that by Him we might live. As the Father has loved me so I have loved you, remain in my love. "This love works in us by the power of sacrifice for we cannot feel the power of Christ unless we shall sacrifice for others. We must in truth be sacraments of Christ by having our lives so filled with the divine presence as to be conveyors of divine love. This is the greatest meaning of real presence when we are so conquered by the love of Christ that we shall reproduce that life of faith, obedience and love in our life. In the words of the great apostle, "for me to live is Christ."

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, May 4.—A new police station, to be erected on York boulevard between Branch and Aldama streets will be ready to occupy by January 1, 1926. The site was selected a few months ago by Councilman Baker, Chief Health and Captain Mart of the Eagle Rock Division. The municipal art commission has approved the plans for the new station. Bids will be advertised for immediately. The Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce will hold an open forum meeting on May 12 in the basement of the Eagle Rock library. The discussion subject has been announced as "What does Eagle Rock need or want, and what can the Chamber of Commerce do about it?" The directors of the chamber will meet tomorrow. An unusual program of art and music was presented at the Women's Twentieth Century club in celebration of the founding of the organization twenty-three years ago. A mortgage on an adjoining lot was burned. The fifth birthday of the Theodore C. Korthen post of the American Legion will be observed on May 7 with a dinner for the officers and members. It will be served at the Twentieth Century club house. The Eagle Rock building department denied the request for a permit made by C. F. Congleton of Los Feliz road to erect a $10,000 residence and $2,000 garage on the same lot because the garage was to contain living rooms overhead, prohibited in class A zones.

BARTHELMUSS IS COSMO FEATURE

Young Star Seen In Unusual Story With Action Set At West Point

Richard Barthelmuss scores one of the most compelling and realistic characterizations of his screen career in "Classmates," at the Cosmo theatre.

It is Dick's announced ambition to bring to the screen his interpretations of the American boy in all phases. His "Way Down East," "To-able David," "Enchanted Cottage" and others have all done honor to that ambition.

West Point has always held its doors rigidly closed to the pleas of producers of photodrama, albeit many have tried for entrance to its most sacred confines.

Here, however, we not only have free access to all the closely-guarded and traditional spots of the famous institution—"Flirtation Walk," "Kissing Walk," "Camp Illumination" and others.

Mystery Film

"Secrets of the Night," at Glendale Theatre, has tragedy and well-balanced comedy; Kirkwood in lead.

Mystery, tragedy, uncanny situations and a well balanced comedy amid thrills, holds complete sway at the Glendale theatre where "Secrets of the Night," a Universal-Jewel, is being shown.

James Kirkwood and Madge Bellamy headed the all-star cast of seventeen persons who acted in a manner that won high commendation. Herbert Blanche, the director, shares in the glory.

The illusion and the settings are far more elaborate than is possible for a stage production, which is what "Secrets of the Night" is adapted from—the Broadway success "The Nightcap," written by Guy Bolton and Max Marcin.

HOLLYWOOD AIRS TALENT AT FROLIC

Studio Gossip From Filmland Reveals Radio Linking Far-away Friends

By MARIAN MARSHALL For Southland News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, May 4.—You simply can't get away from Hollywood, it seems. And this is a true story to prove it. Early Sunday morning Director William K. Howard of Paramount was speeding across the plains to his old home in St. Mary's, Ohio.

Production Notes William De Mille and Mrs. De Mille also are on their way east, where he will confer on the production of "New Brooms," which goes into action on the Lasky lot in Hollywood, July 12.

"Wild Horse Mesa" is being filmed this week at Red Lake, Ariz., out of Flagstaff by George B. Seitz, sixty Paramount players and hundreds of extras. It is another Zane Grey western in which Jack Holt, Wallace Beery, Billie Dove and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. are the principals.

Work starts at once on another Arizona action picture by Harold Bell Wright from the magazine serial, "A Son of His Father."

Polina Negri forgot she established a permanent residence in Hollywood and brought too many jewels with her from Paris, according to New York dispatches. Heretofore she has had privileges. Now she is considered Americanized.

CRUZE SENDS NEW ONE TO GATEWAY

Director of "Covered Wagon" Has "Goose Hangs High" At Popular Theatre

Another phase of the curiously all-embracing understanding of James Cruze, "The Covered Wagon" director, is revealed in "The Goose Hangs High," now playing at the Gateway theatre, today and tomorrow. It is a picturization of the stage play by Lewis Beach.

The plot revolves around the Christmas-time home-coming of a small-town American family, in which parents and children find themselves at cross-purposes, but when disaster threatens, the children prove loyal.

The picture has moments of intense pathos, and reactions, in which there are, literally, tears of joy. It proves more fully Cruze's tremendous knowledge of that abstract thing called human nature.

All-Star Cast What is certain to impress the average picturegoer is the utter absence of the usual movie banalities. The story develops naturally and logically; there is no straining after effect, and the characters act like human beings.

As usual Cruze has assembled a grade-A cast of capable players, whose acting, individually and collectively, is worthy of the highest praise. Those featured are Constance Bennett, Myrtle Stedman, Esther Ralston, George Irving and Edward Peil, Jr.

STEPHENS LIKED IN PLAYERS' ROLE

Popular Dobinson Actor Has Unusual Opportunities In "Wonderful Thing"

"The Wonderful Thing," the clever play by Lillian Trimble Bradley being repeated this week by the Dobinson Players at Glendale Playhouse, offers several members of the cast—practically all of them—fine opportunities. One who, as usual, makes the most of his part is William H. Stephens.

He plays "Thomas Fosdick," the young husband who is married to a Mannerly girl, and who has rather a bad time of it when his bride gets certain notions in her head, due to a scented note which comes to her husband. When the incident is finally explained away satisfactorily, Stephens' assumption of young-husbandly-wisdom as he turns to "Donald Mannerly" (Joseph McManus) and says: "Isn't that just like a woman?" is delicious.

Stephens has had a thorough training in a comprehensive school. From the time he was twelve until he was seventeen, a lapse of five years, he was under constant training by Mrs. Dobinson. She taught him the rudiments of acting; how to carry himself; how to place his voice and to speak distinctly.

Wide Experience At seventeen he went to New York and was for two years with Walter Hampden in Shakespearean productions. When he was nineteen he left New York, thoroughly disgusted with the east and with the theatre, and with the avowed intention of having nothing more to do with either. He planned on going into the real estate business.

Knowing his real talent, and at the urgent request of his father, Florence Dobinson, persuaded Stephens to give the stage another try. Almost immediately all the things which he had been painfully learning became available for him to draw upon. His success, his place as a coming actor, was settled.

YANKEE'S WAFFLE HIT IN ENGLAND

English Like Pancake, And Popularity Of Pudding Is Menaced

LONDON, May 4.—America is to blame. The American waffle is threatening the centuries' old popularity of Yorkshire pudding.

When the first waffle from reached England there was a considerable discussion as to whether it was machinery and thereby dutiable. The waffle from won, and now the Lyons restaurants, which dot England and act as signposts, for there is one on every corner, are popularizing the waffle.

An energetic young man, handling a campaign to popularize the waffle, noticed that waffles were made in cross sections and promptly linked up his waffle campaign with the crossword puzzle craze.

Every waffle was promised as a crossword puzzle, the square being filled with syrup and the keys being printed on the menus. England is learning to eat waffles by the crossword puzzle method, and liking both the puzzles and the waffles.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—With Harvard's erstwhile teachers of things theatrical safely tucked away by means of contracts, Yale University will swing into action next Fall with a series of fourteen courses in "The Drama," to be given under the auspices of its School of Fine Arts. Meanwhile the undergraduates interested in the theatre are carrying on under better conditions than ever before, using New Haven's Little Theatre built from funds provided by citizens in general. As matters now stand, The Playcraftsmen, an organization of students under the direction of Professor Jack Crawford, are constructing plays that members of the Yale Dramatic association stage in the Little Theatre.

Another Winter is to see Yale dramatic affairs staged in a real Yale theatre, to be erected on York street, in the region of the Memorial Quadrangle, the massive Wolf's Head Fraternity Building, and structures housing Yale undergraduate publications. Funds provided by Edward S. Harkness, of New York, will make possible a theatre and drama department building, designed by Clarence H. Blackhall, of Boston. The building will be ready by use in February, 1926, when Yale's second term opens. "Students of the drama will have unsurpassed facilities for carrying out their work," is the assurance of those who know the plans of Professor George Pierce Baker, once of Harvard's 47 Workshop and now head of the Yale drama department.

Yale theatre will seat 750 people. The Yale Workshop will have a model studio; lighting, property and carpenter shops; scene dock and scene-painting loft; a large costume studio and a dye room. Two rehearsal rooms are to be included, one with a stage and a small auditorium. With these will go also offices, classrooms and dressing rooms. Facilities will be furnished to teach play writing as well as acting and staging plays.

Courses to be provided in the new department will be forms of drama, history of stage design, stage lighting, play writing, practice and theory of stage design, advanced stage design, advanced stage lighting, advanced costume design, dramatic criticism, production and advanced production, pageantry, and technique of the drama.

Following his Harvard habit of being everlastingly busy, Professor Baker is to direct five of the courses in person and have instructors to handle the others. Directly over Professor Baker will be Everett V. Meeks, dean of the art school, but Professor Baker will be director of the Yale University Theatre, and Chairman of the Department of Drama in the School of the Fine Arts, to use his official titles.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND WIZZIE
"Where is Wizzie?" called Mrs. Uncle Wiggily one day to her new husband as he hopped up the front garden path toward the hollow stump bungalow. "Where is my little boy Wizzie? I want him to come in and wash his face. Have you seen him?"

"No," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I haven't. I just saw his twin sister, Weezie, and she said she would take me to find Wizzie. But Weezie ran off to play with her rag doll, and I suppose she has forgotten all about helping me find her little brother."

"He may be lost in the woods," cried the rabbit widow with many little children. Uncle Wiggily really didn't know how many little bunnies there were—he was continually discovering new ones who appeared in the most unexpected places—just as Weezie and Wizzie had done. But wait a minute—Wizzie hadn't appeared—that was the trouble.

"I'll go look for him," offered Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose. "It would be easier to find

WOMEN LEADERS OF WORLD MEET

Thirty-six Countries Send Delegates To Conference In Washington

By HARRY WARD
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, May 4.—Women from all over the world gathered here today for the seventh quinquennial meeting of the International Council of Women, sponsored by the National Council of Women of the United States.

The years that have passed since the foundation of the two organizations here, in 1888, have wrought many developments in the sphere and status of women, and the parent organization has grown until it now has thirty-six countries represented in the national councils affiliated with it, these councils in turn representing about 36,000,000 women scattered throughout the world. Of this number 11,000,000 are included in the membership of the American branch of the organization, which is itself made up by affiliation with forty national organizations of women in this country.

List of Organizations
Only organizations of "national scope or quality" are admitted to membership, and among these are the American Legion Auxiliary, Daughters of Veterans, General Federation of Women's Clubs, American Association of University Women, National Federation of Musical Clubs, National Women's Relief Society, National Council of Jewish Women, National Florence Crittenton Mission, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Young Women's Christian Association, Service Star Legion National Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, International Sunshine Society, Kansas

State Council, Rhode Island War Council, National American War Mothers, American Lovers of Music, National Women's Republican Association, Ladies of the Macabees, National Association of Women Lawyers, and others.

The president of the parent organization is the Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair, whose husband was formerly governor general of Canada and, more recently, governor general of Ireland. She has been at the head of the constantly growing organization almost continuously since her first election in Chicago in 1893.

Mrs. Philip North Moore of St. Louis, Mo., is president of the American council, and is widely associated with club and other activities in that city.

Programs Announced
An elaborate program has been arranged for the meeting, which will extend over a period of two weeks. Tonight there will be a ceremonial meeting, while other special evening sessions will be as follows: May 5, American Music Evening; May 7, Pan-American Evening; May 9, Pageant of Peace and War. Special church services will be held May 10.

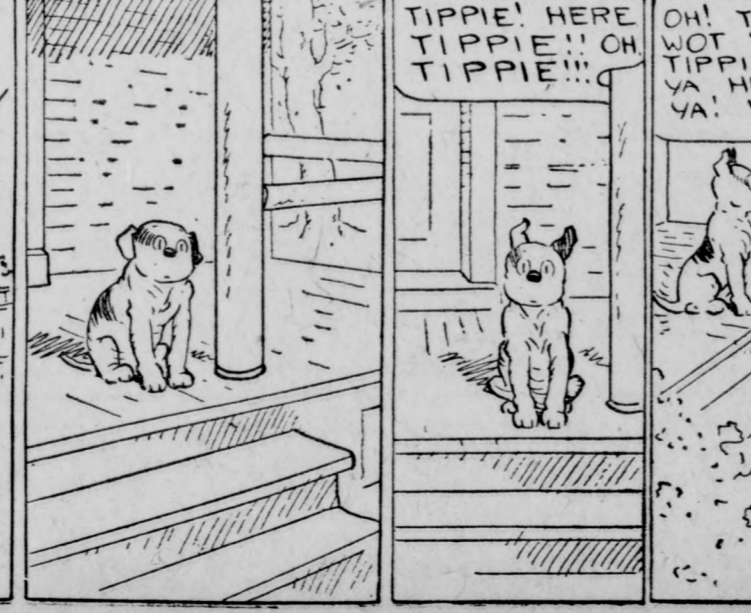

At the ceremonial meeting tonight the address of welcome will be delivered in the four official languages of the International Council—English, French, Spanish and German. Mrs. Moore will welcome the delegates in English, and others who will deliver the address of welcome will be Mrs. Nathaniel E. Harris, chairman of quinquennial, in German; Mrs. Percy Penypacker, in English; Miss Anna Gordon, in Spanish; and Mrs. A. Ross Hill in French. Lady Aberdeen, also, will make an address.

The second evening will be an American Music Evening. Mrs. David Allen Campbell, president of the American Lovers of Music, will have charge of the program.

Deep breathing exercises will train the shoulders to lie flat and not to curve forward, with the bones protruding in back, also they will develop the chest and fill up those ugly hollows below the neck.

They will play in Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Mexico, Missouri and Illinois, completing the first half of the trip at Chicago. From the Windy City they go to Eldora, Iowa, for three months, thence east, playing in the semi-pro tournament at Cleveland in October.

Yesterday's game was in direct contrast to Saturday's travesty on the national pastime. Saturday the Pacific Electric hit far and often, and when the smoke of battle had cleared away, the trolley-men had rolled up 21 runs while the Merchants were slipping over seven.

Rally in Seventh

The turning point in yesterday's game came in the seventh inning, after the Merchants had been held scoreless. The laundrymen scored one run in the first and two in the sixth. Nobles, catcher for the Merchants, opened the fireworks in the seventh when he rapped out a homer. Worthington got a single. Manager M. R. Bacom, in trying to dodge a fast one served by Watson, got hit in the way, and the ball fell back of shortstop. Bacom started for first base, fell down twice, and managed to roll in ahead of the throw. Everybody hit, and as a result five runs were scored.

Saturday it was a different story. Cloffi, southpaw, started for the Pacific Electric, and lasted less than four innings, when Fitzgerald took up the burden. The boys on the scoreboard were dizzy counting runs made by the trolley-men.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925. NEW YORK, May 4.—

The sifting out of pitchers which will come soon in the big leagues may send Dean, of the New York Giants back to the minors for a hard year's work.

Dean has not been showing anything unusual this season, and after the unsuccessful season he had in 1924, winning only six games and losing twelve, it is more than possible that Manager McGraw may decide he needs another year in the class A leagues to fit him for the big time.

Toledo is one club that would like mightily well to get him. Dean was a fine success in the American association at Louisville and it was pretty generally thought he would be a good bet for the Giants. But the starch and thoroughness that were in his delivery when he was one of the stars of the middle west vanished when he struck the Atlantic seaboard.

Combs, who was sold by Louisville to the Yankees at the same time Dean was sold to the Giants, was unfortunate enough to break his leg last season, and the whole Louisville deal had a rather parsimonious flavor to New York.

Combs is back with the Yankees this season, however, and is starting off with the same dash and vigor he displayed last season before his accident. He looks like a player who will go on all right, though he doesn't always swing the bat like a Willie Cobb or a Willie Keeler.

Dean, in his starts for the Giants, hasn't shown strength. Maybe he needs more work than he has been getting, and perhaps he is not quite himself. But there is a general impression that he struck the majors a year or so early, and that another campaign in the minors may season him.

Rush, of Brooklyn, is another pitcher that the fans have picked as one to be sent back to the minors. The hero of the Eastern league is a stout-hearted workhorse, but he was hit rather early in the exhibition games and he hasn't started out very successfully since the season got under way.

Thormahlen, a left hander once in the majors, who has been trying out with Brooklyn, appears to have lost his effectiveness, and the Brooklyn pitching staff soon will settle down to Vance, Petty, Grimes and a fourth man who will come from the more promising young pitchers. It is pitching which has held Brooklyn in the race, although most of the victories came at the expense of the Phillies, who don't relish eighteen carat pitching.

The Phillies were a mile higher May day than they were last season when they were the football of the National League, which has held Brooklyn in the race, although most of the victories came at the expense of the Phillies, who don't relish eighteen carat pitching.

The will of Charles H. Ebbets, late president of the Brooklyn baseball club, prevents his share of the club from being immediately turned into any other kind of collateral. The death of Edward J. McKeever, however, coming up on the heels of Ebbets' death, has upset the affairs of the organization considerably and there are three syndicates in line trying to get control of the property. The belief is primarily general that control will pass into new hands at an early date.

The two deaths have cast an atmosphere of gloom over the team, which had not been any too merry for years, playing as it did, in the shadow of illness and possible death.

YALE WINS RACE

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Yale won the triangular boat race for varsity crews Saturday afternoon by two lengths over Pennsylvania with Columbia a distant third. The winner's rowing was impressive throughout the final mile, covering the mile and half course in 7:35. Pennsylvania's time was 7:42.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925. NEW YORK, May 4.—

It is not often that a fighter has two big chances for fame. Weinstock had his first opportunity some few years ago and blew it by not taking care of himself. Instead of gaining the title of champion of the world, which he might have won, he captured the title of champion of the cabarets.

Then, after going along indifferently for two or three years, Charley married, settled down and put himself under the capable management of Billy McCarney.

What he has done since then is history. Among his chief exploits have been stirring victories over Romero-Rojas and Luis Firpo, in addition to some very fine minor bouts.

Now he is hard training for the fight of his life and he is working as never before. If he can stand Harry Wills off and outpoint him—he will never knock out the Brown Panther—fame and fortune such as have never come to him will be his.

Among other things he will be likely to receive a silver water pitcher suitably engraved from Jack Dempsey.

Can he do this? Tex Rickard said today that he thought Weinstock had a good chance to win the decision, but this opinion may be discounted on the ground that Rickard being a good showman, will leave nothing unsaid to steam up interest in the fight.

Anyway, it is sure and certain that unless Harry flattens the good looking Newark boxer he can bid goodbye to any further consideration on the part of fans and promoters as a rival for Dempsey.

On the other hand, if he wins convincingly, Dempsey will be the victim of pressure sufficiently strong to force him into the ring or out of it.

Already the Adonis feels the fine result of the care he has taken of himself, and now that he is beginning to put on pressure he is showing increased speed, skill and hitting power. He is in great shape right now for a fight.

The writer, personally has not got much of an idea that he will do much when he faces Wills, but if he does not it will not be because he has not done everything in his power to fit him for the contest which means so much to him.

RACE IN MAJORS SHOWS CHANGE

Yankees Dropping, Pirates Climbing Upward With Rapid Strides

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service. NEW YORK, May 4.—With the New York Yankees further contributing to the gaiety of the occasion by dropping three of their four games and several notches in the percentage table, the major league races during the week just closed were not without their customary surprises. Chief among these were the loss of seven straight by the Cardinals, rated as a hard-hitting outfit; the sustained excellence of the Indians' play and the sudden rush of the Cubs.

The Pirates' record of four straight victories was to be expected, however. That club has too much inherent power to languish long in the second division.

It was the Yankees and Detroit Tigers who furnished the bad news. This pair, supposed to be pennant contenders of the first water, are the scandal of all baseball as they continue to lose with monotonous regularity. A few more weeks of this kind of baseball and their pennant chances will pass away beyond recall.

Pitchers Fail

Some were the Yankees are quitting cold because Ruth is out of the line-up. They point to the fact that the club played better ball in 1922 with Ruth missing than it did after his return as proof of this contention. The truth of the matter is that the Yankees are far from the same club. They had good pitching then and today it is less than ordinary.

The Yankees got thirty-nine hits in four games last week but they were wasting their satellites. The Red Sox have won only four times since the start of the season but two of them were lifted from the Yankees last week. Another thing: The Yankees hit at times but never behind good pitching.

A general collapse of the pitching staff is the answer to the Tigers' position. They averaged about seven runs and ten hits a game last week, yet lost five out of six.

Thirty-one Runs

The Pirates also hit well but to far greater advantage. In fact, their record of thirty-one runs scored on thirty-nine hits just about constitutes a record. It is slight wonder that they won all three games played up to and including Saturday.

Good pitching kept the Senators in stride with the astonishing Indians, the world's champions getting only twenty-four runs in five games. The Indians stepped out with thirty-five runs and fifty-five hits in the same number of games while the Chicago White Sox, another surprise entry, were winning three out of five games with the weakest exhibition of hitting they have shown since the start of the season. But the Sox, like the Indians, made every hit have a meaning. They averaged only twenty-nine runs on thirty-nine hits.

The Cubs won four out of five games with an average of a bit more than four runs a game, meaning that the Chicago pitching staff was functioning in the most approved manner.

The repetition series of losses by the Cardinals can be traced alike to indifferent pitching and failure to hit with men on.

The Cards averaged two runs a game for four games last week, which is our idea of nothing at all.

FRY'S PHYSICAL FACTS

By PROF. BYRON G. FRY, Health Expert and Champion Pug PUNCHER of America. Written For The Evening News XIX—Danger Symptoms

The symptoms of high blood pressure are very often unnoticed in the robust person and are not known to exist until the day of his death from apoplexy or heart failure. High blood pressure is often discovered by accident at a life insurance examination.

In the majority of cases there is ample warning, in fact, in persons of a nervous temperament an increase of ten or fifteen points may bring on many nervous symptoms.

The usual symptoms of high blood pressure are a feeling of fullness in the head, often with a sensation of a band around the head, or a hot spot on top, headache, often intense, nervous irritability. Often with a fear of impending danger. One or more of these are usually present in increased blood pressure.

To relieve high blood pressure it is necessary to reduce the consumption of food to just the amount a person needs to keep the body in repair, and a little less on the start. The food should be properly cooked and combined for easy digestion, and do not forget mastication. Only in this way can the stream of poisons from the fermenting food in the intestines be cut off and the waste materials be eliminated.

Fruits, mildly acid on the start, such as prunes, figs, dates, apples and very ripe bananas, and as the body becomes accustomed to handling natural foods, oranges and grape fruit can be added.

It is best to start on one meal a day of fruits and vegetables. It can be the evening meal, which may consist of carrots, celery, lettuce and a little raw cabbage. Similar combinations can be made from raw vegetables of all kinds. The next day try an all fruit meal for one of the meals. No fancy dressings or vinegar should be used on any of the combinations. Milk can be drunk with fruits or vegetables, but one glass is enough, no more.

Coffee must be omitted along with pastries, rich desserts, candy and fried foods. Use well baked whole wheat bread, one slice at a meal is plenty. A glass of pure milk and a slice of whole wheat bread, is plenty for one meal.

Masticate the milk as well as the bread. Avoid sugar, use a little honey in place of sugar. Drink plenty of water, not less than two quarts per day, work up to that amount if you cannot do it the first day.

The bowels must be kept open. The diet of fruits and vegetables will generally do this.

The straight milk diet will relieve high blood pressure, watch for it. It will start tomorrow.

RACE HORSE DEAD

TWO MAIN EVENTS IN VERNON RING

Silver And O'Donnell Divide Honors With Goozeman And Eddie Macy

Jack Silver and Johnny O'Donnell, lightweights, will share main event honors at Doyle's Vernon arena tomorrow night, with Ernie Goozeman and Eddie Macy, featherweights. Both bouts are carded for ten rounds, and the winner of the Silver-O'Donnell affair is promised a chance to meet Ace Hudkins, Pacific coast lightweight champion, at Vernon, on May 19.

Al Grunan and Jimmy Young, lightweights, are booked for six rounds, in the semi-windup to the double main event. Grunan has stepped into the shoes vacated by Joe Benjamin when Hudkins spoiled Joe's sheik map. Jimmy Young hails from Long Beach.

The opening bout, a four-round affair, will see Freddie Hoppe, brother of the famous Willie Hoppe, swap blows with Joe Garcia. Garcia has been doing a lot of fighting around Hollywood and other Southern California points, and is rated as a tough lightweight.

LAWRENCE DERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925. NEW YORK, May 4.—Has the United States Lawn Tennis association deserted dear old England in respect to arrangements for international play this season?

At first glance it may appear so for the U. S. L. T. A. has named a flock of youngsters, viz., Chuck Garland, Raymond Casey, of San Francisco and John Hennessy of Indianapolis, its official representatives at Wimbledon and in a special match against British players.

In addition to this trio, Lawrence Rice of Boston, Lucien Williams, of Chicago, and J. Brooks Fenno, of Boston will go over at their own expense.

England will probably wonder why Tilden, Richards, Johnston and other top flight players are not being sent and will probably be a bit sensitive if she makes such a fuss.

Ever since the wealth of the world was pretty well concentrated in this country, Britons have a certain feeling of condescension on the part of Americans individual and collectively. This has been the more irksome because ever since the days when the United States was raw and crude and boisterously bad in manners, England has arrogated the high hatting specialty unto herself.

But England will not feel so badly when she knows the facts and even if the facts do not ameliorate the touchy moods of overseas tennis enthusiasts the truth cannot be overlooked that while they will be deprived of seeing the more dazzling stars in action they will on the other hand have the pleasure of watching men who stand at the head of American youth in lawn tennis and will provide the Englishmen with all the opposition they need and perhaps a little more.

Hennessy stands at No. 7 in the revised national ranking. Lucien Williams at No. 11 and Rice, No. 15. Ray Casey is ranked No. 2 in the California list and Chuck Garland would have a high national rank save for the fact that he was out of the game pretty much last year because of a badly injured ankle, an accident occurring in 1923. Fenno is not ranked nationally nor sectionally but at Harvard he was an outstanding doubles player.

While the benefits which will come to these younger players is recognized by the U. S. L. T. A., it should be said that they came as second choice. Tilden, Richards, Johnston and other top liners were asked if they would be available and all for one reason or another replied that they would not be. Richards, for example, has just gone into life insurance and is as busy as can be; Tilden's tennis engagements may not be interrupted and so went the excuses.

POLICE START DRIVE ON CYCLISTS

Boys Who Violate Laws Will Face Court, Edict Of Chief J. D. Fraser

A campaign was launched today by Chief of Police John D. Fraser against night driving of bicycles without the use of headlights and tail lights and parking of bicycles on sidewalks. Boys who continue to violate the law will be cited into court, and their bicycles held at police headquarters, according to the police ultimatum issued by Chief Fraser today.

The action follows a number of accidents that have occurred recently, particularly at night, to children riding bicycles. In a statement to members of the department Chief Fraser said: "It will be necessary for all officers to see that the law is enforced as called for in section 105 of the state motor vehicle act, which requires that every bicycle be equipped with a headlight from one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise; whereas the tail light of a bicycle may carry a reflecting mirror in place of a red electric light.

Equipment Mandatory "Boys will be cited into court if they fail to have their bicycles properly equipped. "It is not fair to the motoring public. Any driver may run into a boy riding a bicycle and he is generally blamed for the accident irrespective of how careful he may be driving. It is a common occurrence for boys to ride without lights from one side of the street to the other, rendering it almost impossible for the driver of an automobile to avoid running them down.

"Many complaints have also come in reference to boys piling their bicycles on the sidewalks, where pedestrians have stumbled over them and received injuries in some cases. I note that this is becoming a common practice, especially in front of theatres, where I have seen as many as twenty or thirty piled on the sidewalk. All officers will give their attention and see that it is discontinued at once.

Cites City Ordinance "Bicycles may be parked in the street with the automobiles, but the city ordinance prohibits placing anything on the sidewalk more than twelve inches from the building line.

"Starting a campaign at once with all boys, explaining to them the reasons as given for properly equipping their bicycles and also keeping them off the sidewalk, and if we are unable to educate them within a reasonable time as to the dangers of both themselves and the driving public and pedestrians, it will be necessary for us to pick up all bicycles on the street and to file complaints against the boys for failure to comply with the law."

Forsakes Fame to Marry

to improve their working and living conditions." Mussolini and America: "He is a frank and sincere admirer of America. I talked two hours with him in his home. He told me he admired America's resourcefulness and its youthful vigor. He attributed America's prosperity to its steadiness. He contrasted America, with its four years of government, with the European nations, where the government may change any hour.

Italy's attitude toward Americans: "Of all the foreigners who visit Italy the American is the most welcome." Italy and its war debt to America: "Italy lost her reserve finances during the war. She must rebuild. There are three ways in which she may pay her debts: First, products; second, labor; third, gold. High tariffs prohibit her paying America in products; the immigration law bars her labor; she has no gold. She is willing to pay, but it is a platonian desire.

"The Dawes plan helped the Germans so much that German competition abroad is being keenly felt by Italy. The winners of the war are in worse condition than those who lost. Everywhere in Europe rich Germans are to be met.

"This is my own question: Would it not be a good idea for America to send Mr. Dawes to Italy to work out a plan whereby Italy could pay what it owes America?" Plenty of Work Economic situation: "There is no unemployment in Italy. Shipping tonnage from Italy is greater than before the war. Italy is exporting products to English markets, cotton fabrics to India, and locomotives to Egypt. Four years ago there was a deficit of $700,000,000 in the budget. Mussolini balanced the budget this year; next year there will be a surplus.

Italians as American citizens: "Italian race in America are passing through the same process of Americanization as other races which came before them. Physically and mentally the Italian race is adaptable to assimilation into the American commonwealth. Of eighteen nationalities in the criminal records Italy has the fifth place in point of good citizenship. A crime by an Italian woman is a rarity."

Mussolini's future: "Mussolini said to me: 'My purpose is not to keep power. My purpose is to put Italy on its feet. When this is accomplished I will hand over the government to any loyal and trustworthy man.'"

J. R. GREY GIVES VIEW ON TANGLE

Writes Analysis Of Opinion Prepared By Attorney Mattison B. Jones

Editor Glendale Evening News:—Permit me space in your paper for an analysis of the legal opinion of Attorney Mattison B. Jones with reference to the legal qualifications of Frank Muhleman for a seat on the Glendale City Council. Mr. Muhleman, also a lawyer, decided he was not "legally" eligible under the city charter and therefore declined to qualify.

No intelligent layman, much less a lawyer, will dispute the fact that Mr. Muhleman was an elector and also a voter at the time of the election; that is the only point proved by the authorities quoted by Mr. Jones.

The language of the charter quoted by Mr. Jones is as follows: "Section 1, Article 6, of the charter of Glendale, reads as follows: "Each candidate for membership of the council shall have been an elector of the city for at least one year next preceding the date of the election at which he is a candidate."

Answers Question You will observe the charter states that he must be an elector of the city for at least one year next preceding the date of the election at which he is a candidate.

Mr. Muhleman is a lawyer and held he was ineligible. Mr. Morrow, city attorney, is a lawyer and agrees with Mr. Muhleman. Mr. Jones is also a lawyer and the opinion he rendered and the authorities quoted do not prove Mr. Muhleman's election legal—but what is "fifteen days" among friends?

URGES SEPARATE ITEMS ON BALLOT

J. C. Sherer Takes Exception To Method Advocated By School Board

Editor, Glendale Evening News:—It appears that Glendale is soon to be confronted again with the same bond proposition for the elementary schools, which was defeated at the polls some two months ago. Whether there is legal warrant for re-submitting the proposition until six months' time has elapsed is a legal question which the writer does not presume to pass upon.

Before the call is actually made, the people should demand that the various proposals shall be separated on the ballot so that each one may be voted upon intelligently and on its merit; thus enabling the voters to approve of some and to reject others.

The blanket ballot is indefensible. To demand a vote of yes or no on the list as a whole is entirely inadvisable and is only defensible on the supposition, not only implied but at times expressed, that the voters are not capable of passing intelligently on matters pertaining to the schools.

The trustees have been known to defend the blanket form of ballot, in times past, on the ground that the earthquake divines and jealousy, the voters would support the propositions in which their immediate neighborhoods are concerned, and vote against the others. This assumption is as unjust as it is foolish.

The writer of this communication, as an example, is, as a matter of fact, a devoted supporter of the proposition to establish schools in certain parts of the district which unquestionably need them, rather than vote for certain other projects nearer to his home. The trustees should bear in mind that the voting of bonds is the business of the people and that even if they do not, in the judgment of the trustees, vote intelligently, they are still within their rights.

COOLIDGE WARNS AGAINST HATRED

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Racial hatred and jealousy, particularly that based on religious differences, has no place in the United States today, President Coolidge told an audience of 5,000 people in a Sunday sermon delivered here at the dedication of a new Jewish community center.

The president extolled the record and character of American Jews and praised their participation in the development of the nation.

"Every inheritance of the Jewish people draws them powerfully to the side of charity, liberty and progress," he said, "and we may be sure they will not desert it."

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, May 4.—Tuesday evening, May 5, a reception will be given at the Women's club building in honor of Mrs. Marian W. Reynolds. Mrs. Reynolds is retiring from the school board on which she has served as clerk for the last three years. When she accepted the office, there were but five teachers. At present there are fifteen. During this period new buildings have been erected to accommodate the increased attendance, and Mrs. Reynolds has done all the clerical work in connection with this work. And now, upon the retirement of Mrs. Reynolds from the school board, the people of the community are invited to attend this reception, and thus show their appreciation of her faithful services.

A large number of mothers and daughters of Tujunga gathered at the Women's club building Thursday evening and enjoyed a delightful banquet, at which Mrs. Flora Morgan and her daughter, Mrs. Bertha Morgan, were hostesses. One hundred and thirty were seated at the tables. Mrs. L. May Dean, club mother, returned thanks, and after a delicious dinner, to which full justice was done, Mrs. Bertha Morgan, toastmistress, called upon the mothers to introduce themselves and their daughters. Marian Messick, a talented 12-year-old daughter of the Women's club, gave two piano solos: Beethoven's Sonata and Sharenka's Barcarolle. Mrs. Gwendolyn Lynch then spoke from the mothers' standpoint. During her talk she remarked she had not known before how many lovely daughters there were in Tujunga. Miss Sibel Stuart, one of the Campfire girls, spoke on "What Daughters Think of Their Mothers," and told of the help mothers are to their daughters. Miss Maleta Osborn, accompanied on piano by Mrs. B. B. Reynolds, gave two vocal solos, "Spring Has Come" and "Mother Machree."

Miss Ruth Pasko gave a talk which was food for thought for both mothers and daughters, taking for her subject, "The Rights of a Girl," enumerating different things which a girl should have as her rights, namely: to be well born; a home where she can have sufficient clothing and food for proper physical development; a training to earn her living; a right to be protected during her growing years; a right to have a good time—the right kind of a good time; a right to be taught to reverence God; a right to be taught to love and respect her mother and father; a right to be disciplined—to be taught to obey; a right to be understood.

REPUBLICANS TO HONOR FRANK WELLER AND WIFE

Assemblyman and Mrs. Frank C. Weller will be honored at an informal reception that will precede the regular meeting of the Glendale Republican club tonight at the Wilson Intermediate school. Assemblyman Weller, just back from the Legislature at Sacramento, will speak briefly, giving a few side lights on the session. A feature of the meeting will be the first report by H. V. Adams, chairman of the committee on municipal affairs. Miss Elsie Forsythe, Glendale High school student, who went into the semi-final competitions in the recent oratorical contests, will repeat her oration on the American Constitution. R. S. Person, president of the club, will preside tonight.

"PERFECT" UNION

OROVILLE, Calif., May 4.—Collapse of a "perfect" marriage resulted when S. Molino of Gridley filed suit for divorce against Pearl Molino. It was recited in the complaint that the couple lived in perfect harmony for three years, until the husband came home one day in July, 1922, and found his wife had deserted him.

WOMEN BUY MORE SHOES THAN MEN

Separate Footwear for Each Costume Helps to Put Industry Ahead

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
BOSTON, May 4.—The men of America are not wearing longer shoes but they are wearing shoes longer. To that fact is attributed a good portion of the difficulties which are affecting certain phases of the shoe manufacturing business in New England. The industry is not particularly active and this is not a condition peculiar to New England alone.

Makers here declare that the export situation and the more economical use of shoe leather by men are mainly responsible. One large distributor said today that men now were buying only half as many shoes as in former years. Many women, however, are buying twice as many as in former years, and this is serving to balance demand and output. This statement was confirmed by several large manufacturers here. The theory is advanced that the use of the automobile is lessening the amount of walking men do. Formerly it was customary for men to wear low shoes in summer and high shoes in fall and winter. Now the custom has become almost universal to vary the weight of the stocking rather than change the type of shoe. Presumably the use of patent soles or rubber composition soles has tended to lengthen the life of a pair of men's shoes. At any rate, shoes are wearing longer.

Output Dropping
In 1914 the production of men's shoes in this country totaled 98,031,000 pairs. In 1924 output fell off to 84,662,857 pairs. Considering that the population of the country has expanded from approximately 90,000,000 to 114,000,000 in the same period, the contention that men are wearing their shoes longer is amply sustained.

The output of women's shoes in 1914 totaled 80,916,000 pairs. Last year it reached 104,135,000 pairs and even this represented a drop of 5,500,000 pairs from 1923. Styles have played an important part in women's shoe production. Fashions have changed rapidly and in general the kind of shoe most desired has been of a fragile type, not adapted to long wear.

One shoe authority points out that while the trend of styles has resulted in a larger turnover, it has also resulted in more bargain basement sales by retailers. The retail stores have been loath to stock heavily on fancy shoes, the life of the demand for which they could not gauge.

Women Buy Many
Nevertheless, women, as this authority puts it, have developed a high degree of "shoe consciousness." They are acutely desirous of putting their best foot forward and the custom of having a pair of shoes to match or accompany each separate costume of their wardrobe has grown steadily. Men's "shoe consciousness" has fallen off. The wearing of sport clothes and the playing of golf are alleged to have something to do with this.

Export business in shoes also has dropped. Before the war, this country was sending abroad $42,000 pairs of shoes a month. During the war, this trade increased until it reached 1,750,000 pairs a month in 1916. Then came the slump and in the last year the average has been 526,000 pairs a month.

Expect Expansion
In Brockton, the center of the New England shoe industry, in Philadelphia and in St. Louis, most manufacturers are making money. Labor troubles have been more severe in the shoe towns north of Boston but everything now points towards a stabilization of conditions there. A rate of production about equal to that of last year is in prospect at the factories for the next few months. Advances in prices for the finished product are not anticipated and buying promises to be steady with wholesale orders small and frequent. The larger seller for men still is in a grade priced under $5 a pair at retail.

Realtors Plan Meeting At Egyptian Village

The Glendale Realty board will hold its regular monthly business meeting at the Egyptian Village cafe, North Brand boulevard, Wednesday at noon. President William L. Twining announced today. Reports of standing committees and business matters of importance will be discussed. Particular attention was called by President Twining to the meeting place, as it is the first time the realtors have met at the Egyptian Village in several months.

Professor Speaks On Customs Of Chinese

Prof. Arthur Terrill, California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, lectured on China and customs of the Chinese at the First Baptist church last night, illustrating his talk with views taken while he was a mining engineer in the Orient. He spoke at the school of missions at 6 o'clock and also at the regular church service at 7:30 o'clock.

MISS HELEN TWEEDY'S beauty has won her a place in the traditional Daisy Chain at Vassar College. The honor has added importance this year because it may be the last time the annual custom is observed, as there is strong agitation to abolish it. Miss Tweedy's home is in New Haven, Conn.

COUNCIL TO DECIDE ON ATWATER PAVING

Expect Contracts Will Be Awarded in Next Few Days as Soon as Legal Period of Protest Passes

Contracts for paving eight main cross streets of the Atwater district will be let by the Los Angeles City Council, probably during the early part of this week, following the twenty days' protest period allowed since passage of the resolutions of intention.

The streets included in the list to be paved lie between Glendale and Los Feliz boulevards. They are Edendust avenue, Glenziel place, Valleybrink boulevard, Glenmanor place, Appleton avenue and Gardenside lane. Actual work on the paving is to be started early this month, according to C. E. Weidner, engineer for the paving company that will do the jobs.

Boy Scout Entertainment

A special entertainment is planned for members of Atwater troop, Boy Scouts of America, before their regular meeting at the Neighborhood Christian church, tomorrow night. There will be short talks by several prominent boy speakers, according to George Mumough, member of the scout committee, who issued an invitation to all boys of the district to attend the meeting.

The Boy Scouts are engaged in a spirited membership campaign, hoping to double their present number within the next month. Scoutmaster C. E. Peterman, who recently took charge of the boys, announced several important matters for the regular scout meeting that will follow the entertainment. The meeting will start promptly at 7 o'clock at the Christian church.

Personals From District

Mrs. E. C. Riles, 345 Cerritos avenue, who has been confined to her bed by illness is rapidly recovering. Mr. and Mrs. Bert Sturdney of Atwater avenue, entertained a number of friends at their home at a card party and dinner during the latter part of last week. Members of the Cerritos school Parent-Teacher association celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of the school's establishment during last week. At the regular weekly meeting the anniversary of the founding of the school was officially observed with an appropriate program. A large birthday cake bearing sixteen candles was a feature.

Atwater District Can Elect Councilman

According to E. E. Lampton, candidate for the Los Angeles City Council from the First district, there are enough registered voters in the Atwater, Park avenue and Riverside drive sections to assure him a place on the ballot at the general election June 2. The importance of nominating a local man at the primaries Tuesday, May 5, should not be underestimated. With a local man in the city hall, these long overlooked districts could rightfully expect and have the representation they are entitled to. Mr. Lampton is a strong advocate of progressive measures, and the voters of the district are all familiar with his platform. His seventeen years' residence in the valley, together with his knowledge of that

7 BROADCASTERS ADDED IN APRIL

Total Number of Stations On Record in Capital Amounts to 566

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—A net gain during April of seven broadcasting stations, bringing the total number in the United States and its possessions to 566, has been announced by the department of commerce.

A low record for the year in the number of broadcast stations licensed in any one week, however, was established last week with the addition of only four new transmitters, all of them of class A wave lengths and none of them with more than 500-watt power. The number of eliminations during the month was announced as twenty-four, all class A stations, with the newcomers numbering thirty-one. Of the ten class C stations still on the records April 1, only three now remain, the others having been dropped out or transferred to another class. The three plants still operating on these now defunct licenses—WMAF, at South Dartmouth, Mass.; KGU, at Honolulu, and WQAO, the Calvary Baptist church, New York City—are expected to be transferred either to class A or to class B during May, thus winding up the system of re-allocation adopted by the department the first of the year.

566 Broadcasters

The 566 broadcasters that were on the department's books were divided as follows: Class B 95, class A, 468 and class C 3. In the new licenses granted this week the Pacific Coast led the east with three stations to one, in Massachusetts. The four stations are WIBH, New Bedford, Mass., 5 watts, 209.7 meters; KFVJ, the first Baptist church, Los Angeles, California, 500 watts, 226 meters; KFVL, Vancouver Barracks, Vancouver, Washington, 5 watts, 231 meters; and KFVK, the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, Sacramento, California, 500 watts, 248 meters. The complete list of stations deleted during April follows:

Complete List
WRBH, Port Huron, Michigan; KFRR, Alexandria, La.; WBDJ, Martinsburg, West Virginia; WHAU, Camp Marientfeld, Cheshal, N. H.; WCBZ, Chicago Heights, Ill.; KYQ, Honolulu; KFPX, The First Presbyterian Church, Pine Bluff, Arkansas; KFGX, The First Presbyterian Church, Orange, Texas; WTAF, New Orleans, La.; WFET, The Gloucester County Civic League, Sparks, Nevada; KFUW, Moberly, Mo.; KFFY, The Louisiana College, Alexandria, La.; WEAP, Mobile, Alabama; KFCL, Los Angeles, California; KFNR, Hanford, California; WDBT, Hattiesburg, Miss.; KFQM, The Texas Highway Bulletin, Austin, Texas; KFJZ, The Texas National Guard, Fort Worth, Texas; WBAN, Paterson, N. J.; KFJH, Santa Barbara, California; WCAF, The Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas. All of the stations with the exception of the last two named, which held class C licenses, were class A stations.

Sport Conference
Judge Stephen B. Davis, assistant solicitor of the department of commerce, Commissioner of Navigation Carson and Chief Radio Supervisor Terrell left Washington last night for Detroit, where they sat in with the conference from the great lakes district, a plan to eliminate interference from ship spark transmitters during the summer.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, May 4.—H. J. Lucas, who is employed by the county road department, has purchased the home on Mayfield avenue recently owned by James Morrison of 401 Howard street, Glendale. Mr. Lucas will move to the valley immediately. Mr. Stuart of the Star Motor Car agency has rented the house at 143 East Montrose avenue. The house is the property of G. Gould, who also owns the grocery store at the end of the Glendale-Montrose carline on Pennsylvania avenue.

On June 5 the new rates ordered by the board of directors of the Crescenta Mutual Water Co. will go into effect. The minimum for the past year has been $2. The new rate will be $1.50 for the first 4000 gallons used. For every 1000 gallons used after that the consumer will be charged 25 cents, regardless of the number of shares owned.

Tonight the drama section of the Crescenta valley Women's club will compete in the one-act play to be given in Eisteddfod contest. The play presented will be Alice Gertsenberg's "Overtones." Those taking part are Mrs. Dorothy Pinkus as Harriet, the super-refined society woman; Mrs. Virginia Harman Walker as "Hattie"; Mary B. Darrow as "Margaret"; the wife of a struggling artisan; Mrs. Blanche Hopkins as "Maggie."
