On motion of counsel for the directors of the company a stay was granted pending an appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The case of Mr. Flower was by agreement made a test case as affecting William G. Rockefeller, Henry K. Roger, J. P. McIntosh, Frederick P. O'Leary, James Stillman and Leonard Lewiston, his fellow-directors in the Boston & Montana Company. The action was commenced in Montana and an order issued for the taking of certain testimony here by commission. ## CINDERELLA DANCE.

Five Hundred Dancers Enjoyed Themselves Thoroughly Last Evening—Successful Event.

Fully five hundred dancers revelled in the realm of Terpsichore at the Cinderella dance last night. This event may be considered the aftermath of the larger one which preceded it, but in point of success and enjoyment all the splendor of the Thanksgiving Day ball could not surpass it.

The decorations, which have already received description in these columns, remained in their places, and with the infinite variety of costumes displayed by the dancers afforded a scene long to be remembered. Dashing cavaliers, gorgeously attired courtiers, soldiers, sailors and huntsmen danced the gamut of delightful measures provided on the program; their partners were charmingly attired señoritas, geishas, flower girls, and innumerable others, and despite the fact that myriads of divergent colors were blended together the effect was always pleasing.

The dancing was excellently furnished by the Sch-Bantly orchestra from their stand in the corner, and during the first part of the night the floor was monopolized by the younger element, who enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

A delectable supper was served at midnight, after which dancing was continued until an early hour this morning, when the festivities were terminated with Auld Lang Syne.

What Is It?

A man who has been running a race with steam and electricity for years, finds himself suddenly stopped. It seems as if a cold hand clutched his heart. His brain whirled; he can hardly see. "What is it?" he asks himself as the attack passes. If his question meets a right answer, he'll be told that his ailment is a warning to pay more attention to his stomach, which is already deranged by irregular meals and rich foods.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It eliminates from the blood disease breeding poisons. It makes the blood rich and pure, and furnishes a foundation for sound, physical health.

"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Mr. Wm. Connelly, 33 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio. "I got so bad that I had to lay off quite often—two and three days in a week. I have been treated by the best doctors in this city, but got no help. Some said I had cancer of the stomach, others said it was dyspepsia. Then I wrote to you for advice. You advised the use of your Golden Medical Discovery. I bought several bottles. These medicines I have taken as directed. I commenced to get better from the start, and have not lost a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel tip-top, and better than I have for ten years."

Keep the bowels healthy by using Dr. Pierce's Peppets. They don't gripe.

A Teamster's Story.

SUFFERED GREATLY FROM ASTHMA AND KIDNEY TROUBLES.

Spent Some Time in a Hospital and Almost Impoverished Himself Buying Medicines Without Benefit—Again Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cure After Other Medicines Fail.

From the Recorder, Halifax, N. S.

Mr. William Cochrane, a well known teamster, who lives near the Halifax Polo Grounds, is one of those who willingly bear testimony to the curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A reporter of the Acadia Recorder who had heard of Mr. Cochrane's sufferings and subsequent cure, called at his home, when he gave an account of his experience substantially as follows: "He had for many years been a constant sufferer from asthma, accompanied by an aggravated form of kidney trouble. The latter trouble caused severe pains in the back and legs, and at times rendered his work very acute. He said he had almost impoverished himself by buying medicines of all kinds, but to no purpose; the trouble continued and seemed to grow worse as the years passed. Mrs. Cochrane said that she had frequently called on him during his illness, and the floor as though dead, and he would have to be worked with and rolled around before he would revive. A few years ago he spent ten days in the Victoria General Hospital. The doctors then thought that the pains in the back were due to a severe case of kidney trouble, but gave him no material help. After leaving the hospital, he used bottles and bottles of medicine, but failed to find a cure. A neighbor of his, Mr. Love, whose wife had been made a well woman after years of sickness, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, advised him to try them. He used a couple of boxes without apparent result, and felt somewhat discouraged, but Mr. Love advised him to continue the use of the pills, and before the third box was finished, he began to improve. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a God-send to me," said Mr. Cochrane; "they are the only medicine I have taken which seemed to do me any good. I had one prescription from a doctor which cost me $1.75 a bottle, which, like many other medicines I took, was just so much money wasted. I have used eight or ten boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can say that before I began their use my life was an intolerable burden. I have reason to be thankful that I followed the friendly advice that urged me to use this medicine."

Most diseases have their origin in poor blood or a general weakness of the system, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves that they have met with such success in curing kidney trouble, rheumatism, paralysis, St. Vitus dance, anaemia, nervous prostration and kindred troubles. See that the name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on the wrapper around each box. If in doubt, send direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50.

FAREWELL SMOKER.
 Jolly Gathering at Work Point Barracks in Connection With Departure of R. G. A.

Major Wynne and Company Sergeant-Major Jones each responded in suitable terms.

Great credit is due to Staff-Sergeant Warwick, R. E., and the members of the committee for the able and zealous

THIRTEEN DOCTORS FAILED.

Mrs. M. A. Close, of Nebraska, Was Cured of Incipient Consumption After All Medical Aid Had Failed—Read Her Letter.

MRS. M. A. CLOSE.
 Kearney, Neb., July 8, 1900.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Doctor—My desire to express to you my sincere thanks for the interest you have shown in my case, and for the timely aid and advice which has effected a cure of as bad a case of consumption as could be well imagined. "Peruna and Manilla have done what thirteen of the best physicians in the country have failed to do. For more than three years I doctored for consumption, and spent thirteen weeks in a Pulmonary Sanitarium at Milwaukee, Wis.; but finding myself growing worse, as a last resort, I came West where I was bedfast for many weeks, and the physicians which my husband called gave no hope but said, "She cannot possibly live more than a few days." I began to take Peruna, I feel that all. In an incredibly short time after I began to take Peruna the hemorrhages stopped. I began to mend slowly at first, but the improvement became more marked, and now I can truthfully say that there is not the slightest trace of my old complaint.

"I would have written you a long time ago, but have purposely waited to see if the effect was lasting; and in conclusion I would say, God bless you and keep you with us that you may go on with your work of mercy for many years to come."—MRS. M. A. CLOSE.

P. S.—I am going to visit friends in Wisconsin who never expected to see me alive again, so please forward mail to me at 579 Pacific street, Appleton, Wis.—M. A. C.

Peruna can be obtained for $1.00 a bottle at all first-class drug stores in Canada. As at all up-to-date drug stores and upon request is sent free to all, gives a short description of all catarrhal diseases. Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, U. S. A.

FOUND HERSELF GROWING WORSE.

RALPH CONNOR.

The above is the portrait of Ralph Connor (Rev. Mr. Gordon, Winnipeg), the author of "The Man From Glengarry," a notice of which great work appeared in a recent issue of the Times.

SOUR GRAPES.

This is an old trick with a new face. Did you ever try to write a new version of one of the old fables with which we are all familiar? This one is written by Eva Mackay Hume, of the South Park school, Victoria, B. C. "Old Jim," the work-horse had a holiday. He was turned loose early in the morning. As he was homing the night before, which was his long day's work, he noticed a field of the most beautiful clover, and he thought to himself, "If I should ever have a day free I will make straight for that field of clover and there I will stay until the day is over." Now when he had his day free he made a dash for it, but he found it was all in vain. The gate was securely fastened and the fence too high, for Old Jim could not jump as well as he could in his younger days. When he was about to give up he saw one of his friends standing at a distance, watching him. The friend now advanced and offered his sympathy. Old Jim could not stand being pitied, so he made answer in an indifferent tone, "Oh, I didn't care much about it anyway. I just thought I would try to jump for fun." The friend then made a distance, saying, "Never mind, I have tasted sour grapes myself before now. Good-bye. I hope you will enjoy your holiday." Poor Old Jim! I hope somebody came by whose sympathy could take the form of a nice feed of clover.—Nottinghamshire Guardian.

AN OLD COLD

Is Catarrh, and Catarrh Leads to Consumption.

The tendency of catarrh of the head is to pass downward through the bronchial tubes to the lungs. Any one who has had catarrh of the head for a year or more finds the disease gradually progressing downward. In some cases the progress is rapid, and in other cases it is slow; but sooner or later if catarrh is allowed to run, it will go to the lungs and set up the disease known as consumption. It is doubtful if consumption is ever caused by anything except catarrh.

The catarrh usually begins as a cold in the head or throat, and is neglected until it becomes chronic; then it begins to dawn on the victim that he has catarrh. Unless he is very foolish indeed he will not rest easy until the catarrh is entirely cured. Thousands pay no attention to it until it is too late.

Mrs. J. Priest, Les, Mich., writes:—"I think there is no medicine on earth that excels Peruna. My husband won't take any other. We have tested it and it worked a great change in my son's health last spring when we thought he was going into consumption. We gave him only one bottle and he was all right. I tell everybody about how much good it has done us. My husband says he can't do without it. As for myself it saved me seven years ago from going blind. I could not see to read one word for six weeks. I thought I should surely lose my sight. I commenced taking Peruna and by the time I had taken one bottle I could see to read as well as ever. We think it is a grand medicine."—Mrs. J. Priest.

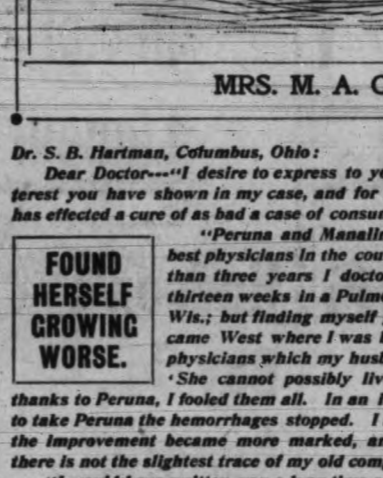

Use as Much as Needed.

If Peruna is used a cold never becomes chronic, and hence catarrh is prevented. But after catarrh has become thoroughly established Peruna will cure it, but it will take much longer. Even in cases where catarrh has attacked the lungs and the symptoms of consumption have shown themselves, the Peruna will cure. A great many cases of genuine consumption have been cured with Peruna after the patient had been given up to die, as in the case of Mrs. Close.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

"The Pills of Life," which can be secured at all up-to-date drug stores and upon request is sent free to all, gives a short description of all catarrhal diseases.

"PUDDINGS AND PIES" FOR THE EX-WARRIORS

Enjoyable Banquet of the Vancouver Island Veterans' Association Held at the Victoria Cafe.

Last night the Veterans of the Vancouver Island Association attacked a dinner at the Victoria Cafe which over-shadowed recollections of skill and hard tack. A bountiful repast had been spread for the ex-warriors by the management amid surroundings which suggested the service in which most of those present had spent their younger years.

The chair was occupied by the president of the association, Lieut. Col. Wolfenden, who was supported on the right by Col. Holmes, D.O.C., and Richard Hall, M.P.P., and on the left by seated Col. Prior, M.P., and Hon. A. Smith. The remainder of the company was made up as follows: Capt. Malcott Richardson, 56th Royal Sussex; Capt. J. B. Michel, 88th and 28th Staffordshire; Capt. G. J. Potts, 12th Batt., Hastings; H. Dallas Helmeck, K.C., M.P.F.; C. H. Lugin, captain, No. 3 Reserve; Milton F. B. Gregory, Lieut.-Colonel Fifth Regiment, C. A.; A. J. Armstrong, corporal 1st Batt., Suffolk Regiment; F. Partridge, sergeant, V.G.A.; E. A. Hines, corporal, V.G.A.; W. G. Cameron, No. 1 Company, Victoria Rifles; Thomas C. Jones, 11th Glamorgan and Victoria Rifles; E. R. Nangle, No. 1 Scottish Co., 63rd Batt., Halifax, Nova Scotia; Thos. Harman, Royal Navy (3rd March, 1858, Queen's Victoria Rifles, and B. C. B. G. A.; A. Robson, 65th Batt., Montreal.

After the excellent meal had been properly honored, the chairman read a letter of regret at the inability to be present from His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, Admiral Bickford, Col. Grant, R.E.; Sir Henry-Crease, B. W. Pearce, and members of the Vancouver Association.

The first toast offered was that of "His Majesty the King," which was musically honored.

"His Majesty's Ministers" was responded to by Col. Prior, who said that the subjects of the toast were veterans in the science of politics, and had to serve long before being called to their high office. He said that the present ministers, although opponents of his, were, he was sure, actuated by the highest motives and by loyalty to Canada and the Empire.

Thomas Harman, the old sea dog, responded for "The Navy," the training in which he described as invaluable in its influence upon young men.

A song from Arthur G. Crane, "The Death of Nelson," was enthusiastically received.

"The Army" was proposed by the chairman, who gave some entertaining experiences in his military career. Arthur Crane followed with "Rule Britannia," in which the whole company joined.

The President of the United States, to which Consul Smith replied in his usual happy vein.

H. J. Cave sang "The Biter Bitten." The chairman offered "The Press," responded to by C. H. Lugin, and Dr. "The Ladies," responded to by Capt. Michel, and with a parting toast to "The Host and Hostess" and the singing of the National Anthem the gathering dispersed.

TREASURE HUNTERS FOR COCOS ISLE. DETAILS OF VENTURE ALREADY ANNOUNCED.

Brigantine Blakely Soon to Leave With Party of Victorians in Search of Hidden Wealth.

Should the fond expectations of many Victorians now planning on a treasure hunting expedition to Cocos island materialize this city will, in the course of a few months, be enhanced by the wealth of a whole nation, there will be counted among her residents not a few, but many multi-millionaires, and there will be thrown into circulation here gold that has been buried for centuries.

The scheme of the Pacific Exploration & Development Company, Ltd., has already been previously well described. The company was incorporated under the Companies Act, 1887, with headquarters in this city. H. H. Jones, Alfred Schroeder, D. B. Christopher and Miss A. D. Cameron, the principal of the South Ward school, appear on the board of directors. Justice Gilbert is secretary, and H. E. Boorman, treasurer.

According to the company's prospectus: "The general facts of the depositing of two immense treasures on Cocos island are generally known, that for the purpose of floating the capital stock of this company it is not deemed necessary to fully re-state them."

"The first treasure was deposited there about the year 1821 by a British ship which had become a pirate vessel; history gathered from official sources shows capture, trial, execution of the crew, imprisonment of men. The treasure was very carefully hidden, sinking in gravel and tunneling in rock; and when some of the men were subsequently taken back in expeditions from San Francisco and Australia they failed to locate it. No data was in existence to show its location. Every clue which has been followed in endeavoring to find it has been evolved from the memory of these men, so far as can be ascertained.

"The second treasure was deposited on Cocos island by the barkentine Mary Dier, also a British ship, in about the year 1835, which is said to have landed eleven tons of treasure on Cocos island. This ship was captured by Peru, and all hands executed but three men. These three men never had an opportunity to return to the island, the death of each being traced within a few days to the island. Finally, a man named Keaton, believed to be the only man ever told by any survivor of the pirates of the Mary Dier of the location of the treasure, succeeded in finding it and carried away as much as he could conceal upon his person. He was preparing to return with an expedition to point out the location, when he died. He stated previous to his death that the amount of treasure seen by him on the island was very great, there being a large number of boxes and hides full of gold and jewels. An expedition was afterwards sent to locate it by means of a drawing made by Keaton, but a landslide had obliterated the bearing upon which all depended, and as far as could be ascertained had apparently covered the place of deposit. Comparatively little search has since been made for this treasure; most of the attention being directed towards the other.

Is Treasure There? "As many people doubt the fact of the treasures still being on the island, we offer the following in corroboration of our belief that they are."

"It would be practically impossible for the treasure to be removed and disposed of without becoming generally known; even the twenty to thirty thousand dollars which Keaton removed could not be disposed of in secret, but became known to hundreds who handled portions of it, and as widely known as the story of the deposit itself; and there is no trace of any treasure ever removed from the island except by Keaton.

"The man Gessler (now in San Francisco) has been on the island the greater part of the last twelve years searching for the treasure; he has seen every expedition to the island come and go without success. He has written Captain Hackett threatening him if he attempts to again land there, and is evidently endeavoring to procure more capital to assist him continue his search. These facts are a convincing proof that the treasure still remains upon the island.

The Instruments. "This company has secured for use upon its expedition two gold and silver-finding instruments which have recently been invented in the United States for locating precious metal.

MIKE MULLEN (Apologies to Whittier).

Mike Mullen on a summer's day, Up the mountain made his way, His Stetson old and just repaired, Leaked lurid locks of flaming hair, He sighed and groaned beneath his pack, Mocked by the rippling water's fall, And when he had climbed to the line of snow, And gazed on the mingling town below, He softly moaned to the stars above, "I'd give me boots for a foed o' beer, And he thought with a vague and half formed think Of many a long departed drink."

The Judge rode slowly down the trail On roan horse with a blighted tail, He steered his steed for the parapet, Where Mike reclined beside his pack, And, bidding the willing beast to stop, "Mullen," said he, "will you have a drop?" "No," said Mike, "I've need scarcely ask, And, grasping the Judge's silver flask, He opened his mouth and shut his eyes, And drained his soul to a glad surprise. "Thanks," said Mike, when the flask was drained, "Is the best I've sipped since I was wained."

The Judge looked black as he rode on down, Pursing his lips in an angry frown, "And this," thought Mullen, "is what one gets For being too free in sharing wets. Next time I slaken a camel's thirst, Yours truly will take my own! And his indignation at being done, By an Irish red top son of a gun, Was such that he gave some royal sport To the lancers on that day at court, His lines made every horse stare, When the culprit happened to have red hair."

Heedless on high, with placid mind, Mike Mullen by his pack reclined, Debating whether he should take His coward way, a plain old make, Upon a ledge of rock he knew, Where, hidden from the vulgar view, Were golden indications rich and true, Mike Mullen hoped would make him rich. "When things," thought Mike, "when I sell me mine, I'll beg a silver sack as big As an' two cyruses, an' a p'p'se a rig. The kind will be made of rubber hose, That makes no noise where'er it goes; An' I'll go an' live in a private town, Instead of climb'g up an' down. Slopes of a hundred an' ten degrees, That cracks me back at almos' every knee, An' divil a sign, will I carry a pack, Or strike a drill for a Cousin Jack."

Soothed by the mental vision fair, Fanned by a breath of mountain air, Mike Mullen lapsed to a gentle doze, In an ecstatic curve, his head on a stone, And the long, long hours of the afternoon Were cheered by his simple nasal tone.

The slow sun sank till at west-south-west It slipped to the snow-lined mountain crest, And taking a downward look around, Beheld two travellers upward bound, Harried and silent, and bearing packs, One of the couple carried an axe.

Softly by the sleeping Mike they sped, Swiftly followed the trail that led Over the snow bank, over the slide, Down the top of the Bluff, and over the rocks, Entered a V-shaped cañon mouth, Here they were lost to the evening sun, Who shined from sight—and the day was done.

Twilight passed, and the velvet sky Beamed its triumphant dome on high, Studded with gems of flashing light, "Quoniam," said Mike, "the night is right, Such as is only seen by those Who climb to the table land of snows; Were I urged to a closer look around, The smallest sun is a beacon clear, Each in its own appointed place, Or near or far in the world of space."

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures who have failed. The Rev. C. F. Wells, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with painful sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overlooked yourself, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Dr. Taft Bros' Medicine Co. Gentlemen—I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 136th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M.D. Avon Springs, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.

Dr. Taft Bros' Medicine Co. Gentlemen—I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. —The council of the board of trade will hold a meeting at 11 o'clock on Tuesday morning for the purpose of dealing with business of the board.

—Sportsmen, get your shotgun cartridges from Henry Short & Sons, and be sure of the best. All kinds on hand at lowest prices.

—The provincial board of horticulture are asking the Dominion government to have but one point instead of nine at which nursery stock may be fumigated.

—Mrs. P. Gordon disposed of her neat little cottage on James street yesterday to H. Cole, of this city, the sale being effected by Messrs. P. C. MacGregor & Co.

—Notice.—The regular meeting of the Marine Engineers will be held in their Room, 77 Five Sisters' Block, on Monday evening, December 2nd, at 8 o'clock. All engineers are requested to attend.

—G. H. Hadwen wires J. R. Anderson, deputy minister of agriculture, that he has a part ear of pure bred stock purchased, and wants orders to complete it. He is making the purchases personally, and knowing the wants of the province thoroughly he may be relied on to make good selections. This is a fine opportunity for obtaining first-class live stock, and those desirous of obtaining should telegraph their orders immediately to G. H. Hadwen, care of F. W. Hudson, live stock commissioner, Ottawa.

—Court Northern Light, A. O. F., at their meeting on Wednesday evening initiated candidates into the order. The court has appointed a committee to act with Court Vancouver in holding on New Year's night a Christmas tree social and dance to be given to the Foresters, their families and the Juvenile Foresters. P. D. C. R. Bros. E. J. Salmon read an interesting paper on the origin and progress of the order, which was listened to with interest by those present. Next meeting the social event will be in the form of a political meeting.

—At the present rate of progress it will not be long until the whistle of the locomotive on the Victoria & Sidney extension into the market building is heard within the business section of the city. The construction work is going on rapidly, and it has now reached a point this side of Hillside avenue, that thoroughfare having been crossed this morning en route to First street, down which the track is to be built to the Finlayson estate. The newly built road already assumes considerable length, extending, as it does, not from the present terminal, as some suppose, but from several streets to the northward.

—The men of H. M. ships Warspite and Condon, who leave for the south on Monday, and R. G. A., who will embark on the same day for Hongkong, will be tendered a grand farewell assault-arms in the Philharmonic hall this evening. The soldiers and sailors have always taken such an active interest in athletes in this city and have produced such excellent and whole-souled athletes that they will be sorely missed. A fine programme has been prepared for this evening, the details of which have already been published in these columns. Bob Foster will officiate as master of ceremonies.

—A meeting of the board of school trustees will be held at the school board office, city hall, on Monday evening next, commencing at 8 o'clock. The principal business will be the appointment of pedagogues to vacancies on the teaching staff. Of these there are six occurring in South Park, Victoria West, Girl's Central and North Ward. Their resignation at this period of the term somewhat interferes with the educational machine, but doubtless the board will be able to arrive at a satisfactory arrangement on Monday evening. It is altogether probable that the appointments will only be until the end of the present term.

—A Chinaman employed at one of the residences in Victoria West claims to have been assaulted at the end of Rock Bay bridge on Wednesday evening and $12 taken from his pockets. His assailants, he says, were two young men who came out of a nearby saloon.

—The death occurred on Wednesday last of Wm. Lennox, well known in this city. Deceased was 90 years of age, and a native of Scotland, and has for years resided in the Esplanade district. His remains were laid to rest this afternoon. The funeral took place from Hanna's parlors at 230, and religious services were conducted by Rev. W. Leslie Clay.

—Play in the gentlemen's tournament of the Victoria Golf Club's annual meet, which took place on Thanksgiving Day, resulted as follows: Open and handicap singles, won by W. F. Oliver with scratch scores of 83 and 80, his total being 163. C. W. Rhodes was second in this competition, his score being 219, less 50, 169. Both matches were 18 hole games.

—Proceedings were instituted on behalf of the city against Joshua Davies for refusing to pay his semi-annual license fee of $50. The prosecution was in the hands of City Solicitor Bradburn and Assistant Tax Collector E. C. Smith. Neither defendant nor counsel was present. Before the proceedings were concluded, however, an irregularity made it necessary to withdraw the information. A new one will be issued and the case proceeded with next week.

—The firemen had a very light month during November. There were but two alarms, one of which was false. On November 19th the upsetting of a lamp in a Chinese wash house on View street gave the department a run; there was no damage. On the following day a false alarm was turned in from box 18. Today the department is presiding over the burning of the old shacks on the corner of Johnson and Broad streets, which were condemned some time ago.

—Several packages of English mail just to hand are somewhat soiled, presumably from a wetting received while on the passage across the Atlantic. Local post office officials base their belief that the mail was soiled while en route across the ocean from the fact that mail received from Eastern points at the same time is not affected in any way. This will explain to those who receive the London Illustrated News and other papers of London their dilapidated condition.

—Judging by the regularly monthly returns the mail has been fairly busy month. The record shows that 83 charges were dealt with during November, while in addition to this list there were a couple of cases of unusual mind and fifteen of safe keeping, making a total of 103. The various charges registered were as follows: Drunkenness, 31; vagrancy, 10; infraction of the Wash House By-Law; 9; stealing, 6; infraction of the Street By-Law, 5; malicious injury to property, 5; inmate of badly housed, 4; possession of intoxicants, 2; infraction of the Health By-Law, 2; infraction of the Liquor Traffic Regulation Act, 2; infraction of the Revenue By-Law, 2; doing grievous bodily harm, 2; murder, 1; accessory after the fact of murder, 1; rescuing a prisoner, 1; carrying concealed weapons, 1; discharging fire arms in the harbor, 1; infraction of the Bicycle Regulations By-Law, 1.

—The two Haidah Indians, who were charged with doing grievous bodily harm to one another, were this morning sentenced to six months' imprisonment. The two, Tuntai Jalo and Frank Charles, according to the story of the latter, had been indulging very liberally in whisky, and commenced fighting when they reached their cabin on Herald street. Tuntai, it appears, was the aggressor as well as the larger brute, and he gave the other a blow which knocked him down. Not satisfied with this he leaped upon the prostrate Indian and bit off about half an inch of his nasal apparatus. Charles then regained his feet, and sailing into the other retaliated with equal precision on Tuntai's nose, removing three-quarters of an inch. The two were then separated, a policeman was called and they were taken into custody. Dr. Robertson dressed their wounds and this morning gave evidence as to their nature. Both of the Haidahs presented a sorry looking spectacle, the greater part of their faces being behind bandages.

Treated in Notre Dame

A. J. Fogue Had Chronic Catarrh so Badly His Lungs Were Affected—Tried in Vain for Relief—Ozone Cured Him.

"I consider it a great duty to write you in order to tell you all that Ozone did for me. About 15 years ago I contracted a grave attack of catarrh. I took nothing for it as I did not understand the nature of the disease. Two years ago complications set in and the discharge from my head tainted my lungs, which became very weak. I took treatment at the Hospital "Notre Dame," Montreal, for catarrh and from our family physician for the lungs. I also had remedies sent me from the United States, but all without results, as I was in worse shape every time I changed remedies. "Ozone made its appearance. I got a free bottle from your Montreal agent on May 24th last and took it according to directions. I can swear to you that when I finished that bottle I felt better than ever before in my life. My appetite is good, no more vomiting, my lungs are strong, my catarrh has disappeared, and I am sure that with Ozone I will become a man again; a better man than ever before. Never will I be without Ozone, now that I know it is the only remedy for perfect health. Doctors do not approach where Ozone is. One of my sisters, who has been sick for many years, has commenced the Ozone treatment. Once more I thank you for all that your good Ozone has done. I remain, yours respectfully,

"A. J. FOGUE, St. Constant La Prairie, P. Q."

Catarrhal trouble is due to inflammation of the membrane linings of the nose and throat. You probably pay no attention to a cold—the cold congests the linings and makes the surface of the membrane open to the attack of the germs of the catarrhal disease. The foul mucus taints the throat passage and often attacks the lungs themselves. You can destroy the catarrh germs without injuring the nasal tissues by applying Powley's Liquefied Ozone to the nose in the form of a douche—one part Ozone to eight of water. Then by taking the regular internal dose you supply the system with oxygen and make all the tissues healthy—so that the germs of disease cannot operate in the lungs. There is no other preparation that will give you relief for chronic catarrh like Powley's Liquefied Ozone. You know what oxygen is—you know how it feeds the blood and makes all the body healthy. Ozone is not a medicine—not a combination of drugs—and contains no alcohol.

POINT ELLICE BRIDGE.

To the Editor:—Permit me to cite a little incident which was brought to my attention last Saturday. Running down the Fraser river I chanced to meet an acquaintance, who remarked that he had been to Seattle. How do things look there? I inquired, who he replied: "There seems to be a lot of talk about the bridge, but I haven't heard any news for some time." I expressed surprise, because I had been informed only very recently that things were brisk, new blocks building, etc. The rejoinder was: Well, that maybe in a general way, because in conversation with some of these men on Seattle street, they said they were waiting for the result of a big contract for the erection of a bridge in Victoria, where they had the promise of work. How does this read, Mr. Editor, and where do our own people come in? Have our aldermen lost their heads or their loyalty, or both? Surely such a work as that contemplated can be carried out within the limits of the Dominion, if not within the province. It is most gratifying to see that the mayor is likely to exercise his veto power and thus, as far as he can, do the right. In a recent issue of one of our papers remarks are made under the name of an alderman, and in the light of secrets of the matter, but hope that the well known adage may not apply—"He that excuseth himself accuseth." While on this point may I mention that I am this day informed that it is very questionable whether all the aldermen present at this moment qualified to vote on it at the aldermanic board? Possibly a search at the land registry might disclose sufficient to vary the voting power and so help the mayor and all good citizens.

LOYALTY.

POINT ELLICE BRIDGE.

To the Editor:—There is nothing so unstable as the mind of the public, and if certain personal interests are not safeguarded, at the expense of the great majority of ratepayers, there are always those who are willing to raise a howl of hysterical fear lest they do not get more than their fair share of public patronage. Why all this cry respecting Point Elice bridge? There has not been a single argument advanced to justify the mayor and aldermen in not awarding the contract to the lowest tenderer. The childish and feeble way in which numbers of citizens, mayor and three aldermen, are proposing to take a very unfair advantage over the successful tenderers was no doubt filled with the same divine effluvia as "Mr. Constant Traveller," sent the following verses to the Times some nine years ago, which will show what a truly dreadful state of affairs existed then. I hope you will find space to print the poem, as I think it is really too good to lose.

ALBERT T. GOWARD.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.
He sat on the corner of Port street,
And the clock was striking the hour.
When he knew that his dinner was getting cold,
And his wife was turning sour.
He'd been waiting for forty-five minutes
For his tram car to come up the track,
For he was too tired and fume to walk,
And too poor to buy a hack.
So he sat and watched the passers-by,
Watched cars go the other way,
And was fied by the regularity
Of the traffic for across the Bay.
And an hour and a half went slowly by,
And still he watched wistfully,
And even the town's worst ruffians
Were shocked at his blasphemy.
And the kerstone grew harder and harder,
Till his eyes took a stony stare,
And his body was racked with aches, and pains,
And his soul with a blank despair.
And he felt like a ball-tossed wanderer
Astirle of a barbed-wire fence,
Waiting for death, or some other thing,
To come and bear him hence.

The sun went down, the darkness fell:
The passers-by no longer cared
But he'd lost the power of reckoning
And not how moments flew.
The air grew chill, and the wind arose,
And moaned through the hair on his chin,
But he only moved to change his seat
When the stones got worn too thin.

But everything comes to the man who waits,
And at last a tram did come
To this man, who waited and watched and swore
Till he was both blind and dumb;
And he crowded aboard and nestled down
In a corner seat, and drew
Up plans to murder the President
And all of his gentle crew.

But alas! for his hopes for vengeance:
For him there was no such treat:
He died of starvation, fatigue and disgust,
In the switch at Vancouver street.
But his murderous thoughts, his untimely end,
And his blood-chilling blasphemy,
If justice be done, will be laid at the door
Of the V. E. R. & L. C.

"THE DEVIL'S AUCTION."

Good Entertainment Furnished by Chas. H. Yale's Company Last Night.

A good house and a satisfactory performance were the two salient features of the appearance here last night of Chas. H. Yale's "Devil's Auction." The play is one of infinite variety, there being an abundance of scenery, many ingenious mechanical effects, some extremely fantastic costumes, a number of clever acrobatic tricks, and some fairly good dancing and singing. Miss Victoria Walters, the company's singing specialist, possesses a voice of considerable power, while Aurelio Coccia contributed much to the entertainment of lovers of the "light fantastic." The team of comedians, Messrs. Bush and Gordon, created a good deal of amusement, some of their antics being particularly meritorious. A pleasing feature to the show was the exceedingly clever performance of "Fox and Foxie," a juggler and his fox terrier, who do some difficult rounds on the globe, one of the most notable being where the comedian stands on the sphere holding a thin cane above his head, on which the dog perches on hind legs. The dog also walks a long, narrow and very slender slat, resembling almost a lath in size, and does a high jump very nately.

PLEASE TELL THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Coderre Wants Everyone to Know His Story—He Had Very Bad Case of Dyspepsia, and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and Him, After Everything Else Had Failed—His Testimonial Letter.

Everybody in St. Jacques, Que., knows Ademar Coderre. He has given for publication the following letter:
"I certify that for over two years, I suffered with Dyspepsia and Inflammation of the Stomach. I have taken several medicines, but have secured no relief. I was very discouraged.
"One day I read an account of the cure of a similar case by the use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, so I determined to try again. I bought two boxes of them. From the very first they relieved me, and now I am completely cured.
"I desire to make my case known to the public, so that all who suffer from that malady may find the only remedy that will cure it. Please tell all the people that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me."
It is not often that any remedy receives such very high and unqualified commendation as Mr. Coderre gives to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. There can be nothing plainer than his straightforward statement of the facts of his case and its cure.
No one in St. Jacques doubts Mr. Coderre's truthfulness, and one who hears him speak of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets can doubt his sincerity.
The earnestness of the statements made by the friends of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, is the distinguishing feature of their testimonials.
Almost everyone refers to the fact that they have tried other treatments without success, and all manifest a desire to impress upon other sufferers, the fact that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are not as other medicines are, but will instantly relieve and permanently cure all stomach trouble.
Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets is an honest remedy, endorsed heartily by honest people.
They are no experiment, but a tried and proven remedy. Thousands have used them, and everyone tells the same thankful story of restoration to health. Before not delay longer. Try them. You'll not be disappointed.

THE TRAM CARS.

To the Editor:—I am delighted to find from the tenor of the poem in the "Victoria Train Cars," which appeared in your Wednesday's issue, that at any rate the much maligned tramway company is not quite as bad as it used to be. The worst that "Mr. Constant Traveller" accuses us of is that sometimes the cars do not connect, and sometimes somebody has to walk the bridge.

CONCERT AT SAANICH.

Splendid Programme Presented by Talented Entertainers Delighted Large Audiences.

On Thursday South Saanich made a record in dramatic art when Mrs. Moore produced some "Tableaux Vivants," truly classical and enacted with consummate skill by nine ladies of South Saanich, Mrs. Moore, Miss Grace Thompson, Miss Gertrude Thompson, Miss Dora Butler, Miss May Butler, Miss Margaret Shelton, Miss McKenzie, Miss Maggie McKenzie and Miss Millie McKenzie. The beautiful Grecian attire of the figures might have graded the "Fables of the Minster" in ancient Greece. In the long series of tableaux there was neither break nor hitch nor curtain fall, each picture gliding into the following with unerring precision.

Notwithstanding the severely classical subjects it speaks well for a Saanich audience that they showed how heartily they appreciated them, as well as the great amount of work involved in their production.
Although these tableaux were the chief feature, a long programme had been presented previously. Mr. Stewart, of Bonaventure, had written an entirely original and act play, "A Good Time on the Farm," in which Miss Maggie McKenzie won great applause in the "apple paring" scene, and Mr. Stewart, the author, equally distinguished himself.
Miss Dora Butler gave two songs with pleasing effect. Miss Winona Pitzer, a lovely child in yellow silk, short skirt, black silk stockings and buckled shoes, gave three recitations, delighting the audience. Miss Gertrude Thompson gave a piano solo, Mrs. Moore a prose recitation, in which an Irish servant administered a bran wash to Phyllis, the colored maid servant, instead of to the black filles, as directed.
Then followed a recitation and minstrel as danced in the 18th century, by Miss Millie McKenzie, in 18th century costume, who gracefully reproduced the style of those days.
Mrs. Moore gave a prose recitation from the "Last Days of Pompeii." Mr. Stewart, who had organized a minstrel troupe and prepared some comic songs and dances, entered with his company of "rooks," who from first to last drew roars of laughter from the audience.
Not only was the whole entertainment provided by residents of South Saanich, but the costumes—and those for the classical portion involved considerable skill—were made by residents. The scenery was painted here also by Mr. Stewart, the songs composed and the dramatic play written by the same gentleman. Only the beautiful lights were imported from Victoria and supplied by Maynard, the photographer, and operated by M. F. McDonald. Mrs. Butler and Mr. Joe. Brooks provided music on piano and violin during the evening.

CURED OF GENERAL WEAKNESS

BY OZONE, the new Oxygen treatment.

Nature demands a tremendous lot of womankind. If the system is not prepared to meet the exacting strain, the sufferer becomes weakly, goes into decline and dies. Powley's Liquefied Ozone is most remarkable in its effect on weak women. It brightens and strengthens them almost from the start and soon makes a permanent cure. Read Mde. A. Girousc's statement. It indicated what a wonderful preparation it is.

For the past two years I have been on the decline very much run down and weak and tired feeling, and for the past six months I have been confined a great deal to my house, unable to attend to my household. About the first of June I saw your ad in La Presse, of Powley's Liquefied Ozone, I secured a bottle and began taking it. I at once began to gain strength and now I feel a different woman. My appetite is good, my strength has returned and I am feeling better than I have felt for two years. I feel grateful to you for what your preparation, Ozone, has done for me. I consider it a great remedy and would not be without it in my family.

I have used only three bottles of it and it has done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I gladly recommend it to others, knowing the good it has done me.

MDE. A. GIROUSC, 1148 City Hall Ave., Montreal, P. Q.

Powley's Liquefied Ozone should be taken internally and used in douche form by any woman who suffers the peculiar weakness of her sex. If you desire our booklet on the special treatment for different diseases such as leucorrhoea, irregularities, tumors, etc., write us and we'll send it free of charge.

If You Will Secure Me You Can Pay When Cured.

I know there is no better way to prove my confidence in the wonderful curative power of my Belt than to cure you before I ask you to pay for it, and as I DO KNOW that it will restore strength in every instance I am willing to cure first and ask my pay afterward. So if you are weak, breaking down, or sick in any manner come to me, tell me your trouble, and let me cure you. When you are cured you can pay me. This offer is open to any man who will secure me. Not a cent need be paid down. All I ask is that the man asking me to take his case under these terms gives me evidence of his honesty and good faith.

This is What the Cured Say About It :

- "I think it is my duty to let you know that the Belt has cured me of rheumatism."—M. P. Molander, Kitchener, B.C.
- "I have got rid of my old enemy, constipation."—Mrs. A. M. Gordon, Longburn, Manitoba.
- "I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors called neuritis of the nerve since I got your Belt. All I ask is that the man asking me to take his case under these terms gives me evidence of his honesty and good faith."
- "After using your Belt for three weeks my liver and stomach trouble is cured, and my back."—Louis Mack, Woodville, B.C.
- "The emissions have stopped. The rheumatism has left me. My nerves are improving. Thanks to your wonderful invention."—Charles H. Weaver, South Cayuga, Ont.
- "The Belt has not only cured my back, but also an old hurt which I received some two years ago."—Wm. Irvine, Halbro, Sask.
- "If you can accomplish so much for a man 60 years old, what must it do for the young. My friends notice the improvement. Your Belt is speaking for itself."—Isaac Hunter, White River, Ont.
- "I have not had an attack of rheumatism since I got your Belt."—J. W. Johnston, Carman, Manitoba.
- "Thanks to your wonderful Belt, the losses are checked."—Alan Houghton, Verano, B.C.
- "The pains left me after using your Belt for one night. I have told the medicine company that I do not want any more of their pills."—Jas. McKenzie, Lariviere, Manitoba.
- "Your Belt has proven to be a great strengthener."—Chas. Huxtable, Danf. Alta, B.W.T.
- "Your Belt completely cured me. I have neither ache nor pain. The doctors told me there was no hope for my case."—Joanna Hicks, Saultury, Ont.

 Laura McCarthy, eight years old, has been missing from her home since Wednesday. The child returned from school, but afterwards went out to see some friends and has not been heard of since. C. A.  St. Andrew's hall was a great success last night. It was held in the dining room of the Hotel Vancouver, and the scene in the hall room was a brilliant one. Those men not in full Highland costume wore the plaid of their clan as a sash across their shoulders. A large number of congratulatory telegrams were received from all over the country.

GRAND FORKS.
 Grand Forks and Columbia purpose granting substantial aid to the V. Y. & E. railway to enable the company to acquire the right-of-way leading to the depot site on the Van Ness addition. By-laws granting $7,500 each, or a total of $15,000, will be submitted shortly to the ratepayers of both cities. A. H. MacNeill, solicitor of the V. Y. & E. railway, came over from Roseland this week on business in connection with the proposed bonuses. He addressed the city councils of both cities. City debentures will be issued and accepted at $90 by the company in lieu of cash. If either city can dispose of these securities within one year at a higher figure they will be credited with the resulting profit.

 The ratepayers of Grand Forks will also vote on a by-law granting the Republic & Grand Forks railway $3,500 to enable it to acquire a depot site on the Ruckle addition adjoining the city to the south.

ROSSLAND.
 On the Jode tramway yesterday afternoon, John Guaner was run down by a car in some unknown manner. No one saw the accident and its cause is a mystery. Guaner was an expert machinist from Liberty, Nebraska, who came to work for the Le Roi mine when that property was re-opened in September. He was apparently doing some work on the tramway when he was caught by an ascending or descending car and crushed about the head so severely as to cause death within half an hour. The cars do not cross at the point where he was injured, and by stepping on the other track he could readily have escaped. It is the first fatality of the mines for three months, although Robert Robinson died on Thursday at the hospital after an operation following an injury at the Le Roi in October.

YOUNG DOCTORS AND LAWYERS.

Medical journals are puzzling over the problem of finding patients for the thousands of fledgling doctors who are now graduating year after year and are beginning practice. The professions of law and of medicine are already overcrowded. Of course, there is room at the top, but the lower rungs of the ladder are beset by a throng of young men who are tramping upon each other in their eagerness to get a foothold.

When competition in business is at fever heat the rivalries of trade are frequently prolific of litigation, which keeps lawyers busy and affords them generous fees. The combinations, consolidations and mergers so characteristic of this period of vast undertakings, lessen the list of legal controversies and of cases in the courts. When scores of rivals were brought together under a single control, when railroad lines abandoned contention and are operated in harmony, when a number of corporations of any kind are amalgamated or managed by one board, there is less work for the lawyer.

As to the doctors, it must be borne in mind that hospitals and dispensaries are steadily increasing in number and constantly enlarging their work. The activity of these institutions tends to lessen the opportunities of the private practitioner and to increase the difficulties in the way of his finding patients enough to afford him reasonable support. It is a hard question in these days, how are so many young doctors and young lawyers to make a living?—New York Tribune.

At Blackburn, Ellen Wilkinson, a married woman living apart from her husband, committed suicide in an extraordinary manner. She fastened one end of a silk muffler tightly round her neck and attached the other end to the handle of a wringing machine, which she then turned and strangled herself.

Nearly one-half of the students at Switzerland's six universities last summer—1,900 out of 4,046—were foreigners.

MISS VIRGINIA GRANES

Tells How Much Doctors Use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Has Yet To Hear of Its Failure To Cure.

It is not infrequent that information comes to our attention proving that the medical profession in general prescribe large quantities of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in their private practice.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Twelve years continuous service at the sick beds in some of our prominent hospitals, as well as at private homes, has given me varied experiences with the diseases of women. I have nursed some most distressing cases of inflammation and ulceration of the ovaries and womb. I have known that doctors used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when everything else failed with their patients. I have advised my patients and friends to use it, and have yet to hear of its failure to cure."

"Four years ago I had falling of the womb from straining in lifting a heavy patient, and knowing of the value of your Compound I began to use it at once, and in six weeks I was well once more, and have had no trouble since. I am most pleased to have had an opportunity to say a few words in praise of your Vegetable Compound, and shall take every occasion to recommend it."—Miss VIRGINIA GRANES, 444 So. Spring St., Los Angeles, Cal. [Present address.]

Be it, therefore, believed by all women who are ill that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine they should take. It has stood the test of time, and it has hundreds of thousands of cures to its credit. It should, therefore, be considered unwise to experiment further.

Mrs. Pinkham, whose address is Lynn, Mass., will answer cheerfully and without cost all letters addressed to her by sick women.

REWARD:—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find the above mentioned letter, in no matter, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

PARIS FROCKS and FURBELOWS

FASHIONS FOR DOGS

Manoir des Chouettes,
Paris, Sunday, October 28th, 1901.
My Dear Little Simone,—I do not know how to answer your witty letter. All that you tell me about yourself and of the pleasures you have found in Paris fairly turns my head and makes me desire my sojourn in this arid plain in the Solagne.

But there is nothing to be done. Papa awakes every morning a more ardent sportsman than ever. House parties follow in succession, all of them equally uninteresting, and I shall be forced to continue in this seclusion until the end of November. I shall never console myself for having missed the most artistic marriage of the season.

I think of you at the usual skating hour, and at 5 o'clock tea I am in despair at not being able to join you with mamma at Rita's or the Palace. All my little Simone, how you will find your Marcelle changed by the ennui which consumes her! At the beginning of the season I went out shooting willfully, or else mamma and I went on horseback to the "dejeuner des chasses," which took place either in the open air or at the house of one of the small farmers. But now the tastes of papa's guests are far too exclusively energetic to suit me.

I have taken a regular aversion for my bottle green velvet shooting costume, and my red riding habit is a veritable nightmare. I have only one supreme amusement left—the blessed automobile—and I assure you I have not had much trouble in becoming the most ardent "chauffeuse" in the department. My big brother Guy, a lieutenant on furlough, accompanied me and acts as my mentor. He has turned me out an accomplished pupil, and we run kilometer after kilometer at a speed that seems record-breaking.

By this annihilating space I have succeeded in renewing my relations with my former convent friend, Jeanne de Trebois. Do you remember her? She is delightfully pretty and extremely up-to-date, in spite of her life in the country. This winter she is to come out. You will remember that she is an orphan and that her grandmother has consented to intrust her to her stepmother, the Marquise de B., who is to give a series of white and pink balls in her honor.

Yvonne's grandmother is very nice, but between you and me, there are wide gulfs between us, dug by the telegraph, by steam and electricity. The dear, simple soul remains faithful to the days of post chaises, and the manners and customs of to-day completely upset her.

Still, she gave us a hearty welcome and was grateful to us for coming to amuse Yvonne, who is her only joy. But I should surprise her much less than I do if I were to descend from a "berline" in a silk dress and escorted by powdered lackeys in liveries. My great mantle of Russian-wool skin, my "chauffeuse" hat and my taffeta mask, with holes for spectacles, throw her into fits of kindly laughter.

Yvonne is terribly tempted to put on my uniform and would fain become a pupil of the lieutenant and rush along the roads with us. But grandmamma will not hear of such a thing, so that we are driven to more domestic amusements.

A Dog's Marriage Outfit.
As you may suppose, my little dog Lulu accompanies me in all my escapades, and my manner of dressing it is not without its charms for Yvonne and Mme. de Trebois. They have a little bitch of the same breed, a veritable darling, named Follette, which, as they imagine, is spoiled by tying a simple red ribbon on the top of her roguish head. Can you fancy such contrived ideas?

Lulu and Follette are enchanted with each other, and yesterday I repeated the scene in "L'Armoire du Prochain," now running at the Bouffes Parisiens, and demanded of Yvonne the hand of Mlle. Follette for M. Lulu. As there is no mesalliance, we quickly came to an agreement, and the Marquis de Trebois consented to our dressing Follette as "Lulu" for a lady dog of noble family.

So we are working like fairies, my dear. It reminds me of the days when we played at the baptism and marriage of our dolls. But I assure you that it is much more interesting to dress Follette and Lulu. I have sent to London for a travelling case for "a dog." It contains a set of brushes, a dainty toothbrush, an ear picker, scissors and combs, all complete.

Lulu presented his bride-elect with a pretty collar of white morocco leather, studded with sequins, and a bracelet to match. He wears nickel silver jewelry that you have seen him wear. His trousers are equal to that of the "chicest" dogs of Paris. But he has had made for his bride six chemises, a bedside carpet, a bath costume, a "costume de ville," another for travelling, one for indoor wear and one for the ceremony.

The last named is of white satin, trimmed all over with ruffles of tulle illusion. There are six small handkerchiefs, trimmed with lace and embroidered with a monogram. Last, a fur-lined coat has been ordered in Paris, it is of beige colored cloth, lined with ermine, and has a turndown collar, stitched, fastened by a tab with two good buttons. All this is delightful.

From Paris, also, has come a pretty toy sofa, covered with white and gold satin, and having pink satin cushions. It is understood that Follette is awaiting her betrothed, correctly attired in his pelisse, over his frockcoat of fine black cloth.

Then we have all sorts of games, which aid in a distribution of cakes, etc., at the "heure du gouter," which precedes our departure. The kennel, in the form of a Chinese pagoda, with belled roofs, one over another, and small windows, is decorated with white satin, and nothing has been omitted that can give the young couple the desired comfort.

Would you believe it? All this grandeur has rendered Follette very shrewish, vain and coquetish. Mme. de Trebois says it is the result of our education. And there is another marriage destined to end in divorce.

The End of the Race?

You see what life in the provinces has brought your Marcelle to. In a few weeks Mme. de Trebois will have reduced me to listen to her arguments without refuting them. She asserts that the creation of "dogs cemeteries" is the forerunner of the end of the race. And all because she has read somewhere that in the environs of Thebes traces of them have been found. Dear Paris! Poor Parisians! They are doomed to undergo the fate of that city of antiquity. And what about London, where there are dogs' dogatists and dogs' bedicures? What is to be her destiny?

My pretty Simone, write to me again, and write often, to cheer me in my exile. It has been raining lamentably for two whole days. I have not even the resources of going to see Yvonne.

Lulu, like a faithful companion, understood all about my melancholy. The intelligent animal is come to fetch his little rubber shoes to show me that he is willing to risk the wet. Is it not touching?

I suspect that Guy is quite as miserable as we are. The soft blue eyes of our pretty neighbor are by no means indifferent to him. But I am halting, my darling, and I should be better employed in asking you to excuse my story of my futile doings, and in kissing you tenderly, as I love you. Your dearest friend,

MARCELLE.

Yvonne sends you her affectionate remembrances and kisses.

THE CONFESSION OF A COQUETTE

She was a laughing young dame, with a roving eye and a smile that seemed to invite even when it repelled a flirtation.

"You ask me if I married my first love?" she inquired, flashing out a roguish glance, even while she regarded me with a sort of mock reproof.

"What an absurd question! What woman ever marries her first love? except perhaps, some quiet, puny little thing, who felt herself fortunate in getting one man—never her—No, indeed, I've had lots of beaux and often thought my affections seriously enlisted. I've concluded, however, that they were only fancies."

"But stay! there was one I find it worth telling you about. I was always very romantic, even when she was and couldn't help it. My earliest girlish fancies pictured some dark patrician, foreign gentleman, with a proud air and prouder ancestry, and if he had a strange past—well, nothing bad, you know, but just mysterious—so much the better."

"Fate willed that I should meet one who typified exactly my dream, and of all nationalities destiny must make him a Spaniard. He followed me to America. I don't think I ever enjoyed another man's society quite as I did Don Anselmo!"

"As a lover he was ideal; as a man, charming. He was the incarnation of knightly honor, attention, gallantry! He was on every side sympathetic. There was also a deep note of sentiment which at times annoyed me, because I could never quite respond to it."

"I took him about a good deal socially among my friends and we went often to the theatre, of which he was very fond. He urged marriage and I finally engaged myself to him."

"Then I began to discover new phases and many shadings in his character. He began to claim ownership and exact confidences regarding every little movement on my part. He wanted to probe my soul, to learn my feelings toward every human being I knew in the world. I resented this and we had lots of lovers' quarrels. These were not so bad in their way, since they afforded scope for the many pleasant reconciliations that followed. Finally his love developed to the point

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Every mother is naturally solicitous as to the health of her children, but not every one treats their little troubles in the right way.

The so-called soothing remedies are still used altogether too much, although physicians have preached against them for many years. The fact that they put children to sleep is no sign that they are helpful. You cannot expect soothing drugs to do a child any good. On the contrary, they are dangerously and distinctly harmful.

At the slightest sign of ill-health or disorders give the baby Baby's Own Tablets. This famous remedy, compounded from a prescription by Dr. Williams, is purely vegetable and contains no harmful ingredients.

For Nervousness

indigestion, irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, sour stomach, simple fevers, the results of croup, constipation, diarrhoea and other infantile troubles there can be no better remedy than this.

Baby's Own Tablets are a sweet, pleasant medicine which any child will take with pleasure and they never fail to produce results which we claim for them.

Druggists sell them, but if you cannot find them conveniently, send 25 cents, the price per box, direct to us and we will forward them prepaid.

DESCRIPTION OF DRESSES

On this page is represented the charming outdoor costume worn by Mlle. Jousset in "L'Affaire Mathieu," the new play at the Palais Royal theatre. This dress, which is of a pastel silk shade, could be made in a less delicate color, more adapted to the requirements of the present season, such as suède, pansy or sable color, and would be equally becoming. The neck is encircled by a band of Byzantine embroidery, in subdued tints, and designs in passementerie forming pendants. The same trimming runs down the front of the corsage, which is rounded off at the waist by a stitched cloth band. The shoulders are encircled with small capes. The lower part of the skirt is ornamented with stitched pleats, cut by diagonal bands. Two charming costumes for walking are also shown. The most elaborate of the two is for afternoon and the other for morning wear. The first is of black velvet, spotted with white. It is cut in the princess style, with a front of Irish guipure over cream taffetas, which encircles the bust. In the street the front is concealed by a short velvet bolero, which is trimmed in the same style as the skirt, with stripes of black taffetas. The other costume is of mixed green and gray homespun. The short jacket is trimmed with bands of the same material in the style of the skirt. The collar, lapels and buttons are of black velvet. The model is by Nicoud.

Hotels find that the furnishing of souvenirs to their patrons is a very large item of expense, and in case of the larger houses sometimes runs into thousands of dollars a year.

DOING THE PRESS CENSOR.

A. G. Hales, the war correspondent, tells a funny story about a press censor in The Week End. I was working, says Mr. Hales, with a correspondent who had two faults; firstly, he wrote a hand that no one but a telegraph clerk or a compositor could decipher; secondly, he stuttered when he talked, so that no one but an archangel could understand him when excited.

The total number of persons employed in the various services at the Ashio mines and furnaces is about 10,000, and these, with their families make up a small city of 17,000. Of these 75 per cent. have been born on the spot, as were their fathers and grandfathers, and some have never seen beyond the red hills which close in the village and mines. They are cared for by the proprietor, fed, and sent to school until twelve years of age. The village has a well-equipped hospital at which the operatives and their families are tended without charge. Only men are employed below ground to dig the ore, working in shifts of eight hours each, while those employed at lighter labor work shifts of twelve hours. Women are employed at the light tasks, such as sorting and washing ore by hand, most of them being wives of the miners. The average pay per day for those engaged in manual labor is 13 cents in silver money and a stated quantity of rice and fuel, while the miners are paid by the quantity of ore extracted. The furnace and shaft men receive from 11 to 30 cents per day, and the women are paid 7 cents.—Edwin G. Adams, Jr., in The Engineering Magazine.

NOTABLE PETS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

BY WALDRON PAVCETT.

The advent of the Roosevelt children in the White House brings to Washington the most notable array of pets which have found a home in the national capital since the days of President Cleveland. When the young people of the Roosevelt family traveled from their home at Oyster Bay to Washington they were accompanied by Jackie, the black-and-tan dog which is the pet of the entire household. Arrangements were made to have Jessie, the Aberdeen setter, follow at an early date, and it is predicted that ere long a goodly proportion of the Roosevelt "menagerie," which includes cats, dogs, rabbits and guinea-pigs, will be transferred to the White House.

When President Cleveland's children lived at the White House the house was overrun with birds and animals. There were all sorts of dogs, from poodles to a big St. Bernard, several cats, a canary and a monkey, which is reported to have been on very bad terms with the members of the feathered tribe. Mrs. McKinley, while she lived at the Executive Mansion, had only two pets—a canary and a mocking bird, which she brought from Canton. For several years past the basement of the White House has been inhabited by a large cat of very comely appearance. One morning some months since the colored men who have charge of the lower part of the Executive Mansion found five pretty little black and white kittens nestling on a warm, soft bed made from an old coat, while the old tabby guarded them with jealous care. Naturally, there was a great rush to secure a White House kitten, and it is stated that the enterprising young negro who had the animals in charge sold several dozen kittens at $5 each, it being guaranteed that each little feline was surely one of the original quintette.

However, the presidential mansion does not enjoy any monopoly of the distinguished pets. There is scarcely a member, statesman or diplomat at Washington who does not boast of some wonderful four-footed friend. Senator Depew has a wonderful yellow and white cat named Tuffy, and this feline animal is really of great value to the Senator from New York, since Mr. Depew delights to tell good stories, and this happy feline furnishes him with many incidents which have caused hearty laughs. Countess Capini, the daughter of the Russian Ambassador, has three dainty French poodles, named Chocolate, Coconut and Mosquito, which are much admired for their shaggy white coats.

Admiral Dewey has a green parrot which can pour forth a medley of sailor talk which will astonish a landsman. John B. McLean, the Admiral's brother-in-law, has a cow of which he is as fond as a boy would be of his first pet. General Miles has two of the most comical dogs in Washington—a pair of solemn looking pug-noses named Nip and Tack. All the children in the neighborhood know these dogs, and in days gone by, before they attained to such advanced age, they constantly indulged in the most grotesque antics of which any canine was ever guilty.

There are some marvellously intelligent dogs in the distinguished canine assemblage. Senator McMillan has a sleepy-looking bulldog named Victor, which probably gets into more trouble than any other animal in Washington. It all comes through his fondness for music. Whenever he hears a band or a hand organ playing far down the street he is off at a bound, and he will follow a procession for hours unless apprehended by some watchful attendant. Victor is a great fighter and well deserves his name.

Another confirmed runaway is Jacko, the bright and snappy fox terrier owned by Postmaster-General Smith. He has an excellent home, but he seldom remains there longer than two weeks at a time. Occasionally he comes home of his own accord, but more often it is necessary to offer a reward to secure his recovery. Mrs. Perry S. Heath is the proud possessor of one of the best trick dogs in Washington, and Lord Pancoote, the British ambasador, has a dog named Britton, of which he is very proud. One of the handsomest cats at the national capital is in the possession of the little black-eyed daughter of Senator Calvo, the minister to this country

"I WANT TO SEE THE SUNDAY EDITOR."

SUNDAY EDITOR—A NEW INDOOR GAME

A bright little girl, who has learned a great deal of the methods by which newspapers are conducted, by closely watching her father, has invented a game which is very interesting, indeed, and which can furnish no end of sport if the players are as smart and quick-witted as this little girl and her companions. The gentleman in question was thoroughly astonished one day to find these little people earnestly engaged in a game which they called "Sunday Editor." It was very real to them, and they had introduced a perfect newspaper atmosphere into the play, which heightened his surprise.

One of the little folk had "chosen" to be Sunday editor of an imaginary paper, and with one or two assistants, held at bay the hungry crowd of little authors, who all wanted to sell wonderful stories, poems, serious articles, suggestions and other things which "newspaper uses in its columns." The Sunday editor could not, of course, see all of these writers, read their manuscripts or look at all the drawings, and the assistant was kept busy explaining that the editor was a very busy person, and that they would have to leave their work or call again. Of course, they all knew the editor was always busy, so they insisted on either seeing the "boss" or submitting their ideas for a hasty decision.

Some fortunate ones were led into the editorial office, and there they met this awesome person. But they were not a bit awestruck! No sir! They told the editor how very good their stories were, and how very many great people wanted to buy their work. They were not a bit anxious to tell it, of course, but they really felt sorry for the paper and wanted it to have something good in its columns for once, anyway.

My! What high prices some things brought! Several stories were purchased for $1,000 each, for this Sunday editor was a liberal person, and knew just how hard the little journalists had worked. The little contributors took their "play" money with an air of nonchalance and went off to write more $1,000 stories.

But all the work was judged fairly. Every decision given on contributions was surprisingly accurate. When a story was rejected because it was "too good" the little author did not protest against fate, for all knew what the young wit had passed judgment on it, and how well and carefully it had been examined before being refused.

This part was, of course, much more funny for the "Sunday Editor" and assistant than for any of the rest, although no doubt the best fun of all was in writing the various things that were offered for sale. Still the Sunday Editor's "desk" was in great demand, and the little folk took turns in occupying that exalted position with the most amazing results. We print below a story by a little girl who thinks the game is really one of the very nicest she ever played.

To the Sunday Editor—There was once a little child named Helen who was always up to some kind of mischief. One day, as her mother was going away, she said to her: "Helen, do not touch the jam, as I want it for supper. Now, remember." Helen watched her mother out of sight. Then she went out doors to play with Don, the dog, but he was asleep. Then she thought came to her how nice the jam would taste on some bread. Helen remembered what her mother said. "Just one taste and mamma won't care," she thought. Helen got a chair, climbed up to the shelf and looked at it. How good it did look! She took down the jam and said: "I wonder if I can pull the cover off so I can stick my fingers down in it and get some?" She pulled the cover off. Splash! splash! went the jam all over her dress. What would she do? What should she do? What would mamma say? She had disobeyed her mother and besides spilled the jam, also getting her frock all jammed.

This teaches little girls to leave what is well alone.

ETHEL.

To the Sunday Editor—One time in London, on one of the poorest streets, there was a young man. He was very poor, and was not rich enough to get a position. When he was about 18 he had spent every cent he had for his father and mother and they had died. How sad he felt when he thought of it. He got along for a year very well, but when a year was up he said: "I can't stand it a day longer." So he took his clothes, the few he had, and went out into the world alone.

He came to a village, where he saw men drilling up and down. He also heard a man hollering out: "One man needed! He can come in the army for nothing." He said: "Here is my chance. I will join the army." So he told him he would join, but he did not have a cent. The man said: "Tell me about your life." After he told him that many of the fellows were like him he smiled. He took him to a room and put on a uniform and said: "We will be off to-morrow."

All day long he was thinking about the next day, but at night he slept well, for he was very tired, and woke up at the dawn of day. He ate his breakfast early, for they were to start early. He rested until it was time for the march, so he would not be tired. After a while he got up, fixed himself, and got in his place in line, and he heard, "Left, right, forward." They had started, and he was very happy.

They marched all day and at night pitched their tents, and some went on guard and some slept. They went on doing this about 10 days, taking turns being on guard. At last they got to the place where the war was to be, and the captain said: "We must be careful tonight." Many of the soldiers did not sleep, but the ones that did were aroused at the shooting of guns. They got

PRINCESS BRIGHTEYES

Long ago there was a forest which was as black as night. A beautiful young Princess lived not far away, who owned many pets.

Princess Brighteyes, as she was called, was very fond of animals of all sorts.

"I WILL REMAIN," SAID BRIGHTEYES.

up and took their guns and went in line. They were fighting and many a man fell, and when night came the enemy fled. Not a man slept that night, and at the dawn they began fighting again. Many shots came around him. The men were getting less. At last both armies fled. The days went on and many brave men fell. There was a furious battle, and it ended the fight for the last time.

LILLIAN.

Fierce beasts were gentle in her hands. One day a white dove owned by Brighteyes flew into the Black Forest. It was her favorite bird, and instead of sending for a servant, she went for it herself. As soon as she entered the forest she heard beautiful, dreamy music a great way off. She was entranced with the sounds. They seemed to draw her on. All the time she was becoming drowsy.

At last she stood in front of a beautiful palace. Two maids advanced to meet Brighteyes. Both were dressed in deepest black. They took her by the hands and led her into the palace. As the dreamy music continued Brighteyes lost all self-power. The maids led her into a beautiful apartment which they said belonged to her, and then they left her. The music had ceased, and gradually Brighteyes regained her senses. She became alarmed, as it was growing dark, and she was in this strange room.

As she sat there wondering the door was noiselessly opened and the maids again entered.

They fell on their knees before her and wept bitterly. Princess Brighteyes asked them what the trouble was. The maids answered that their master was made captive in the palace by a witch, but if Brighteyes would consent to become his wife, he would be freed from the spell. Brighteyes considered for a moment and remembered that her father wished her to marry a Prince who was very wealthy but very cruel.

She thought she would rather marry this strange Prince than the one her father had chosen, so she told the maids that she consented to become their master's bride.

They arose, kissed her hand and departed. About an hour after the Prince himself came. He was a handsome youth. He approached Brighteyes and said: "Dear Princess, there is no use of saying I love you for you already know it; but if you wed me you will have to remain here always."

Brighteyes told him she would remain with him. Prince Goldenheart and Princess Brighteyes were married and lived very happy afterward.

The dove was restored to the Princess, and she loved it twice as much as she had, for through it she had met her handsome Prince Goldenheart.

A PARTY TRICK.

Here is a trick which is always very effective at a party or any gathering of young people, and sometimes with older persons, too.

Take a tin cup, or a cup of some other metal, and fill it almost full of spirits of wine. Into this put a teaspoonful of common table-salt and stir it thoroughly until the salt is dissolved. Place this upon a wire frame and fix the frame over a spirit lamp or a dark lantern, so that none of the light from the lantern can shine into any part of the room. This should be done in a line as near the centre of the room as possible.

As soon as the cup gets so hot that you cannot rest the tip of your finger against it, hold a lighted match near the mixture of spirits of wine and salt. A very small yellow flame will arise from the surface and gradually increase in size. Now put out the other light in the room and in a moment you will observe a most peculiar effect. Everything in the room, whatever its previous color, will now be a most peculiar yellow. If the yellow light from the cup is not quite strong enough, throw some more salt in the mixture and then the yellow flames will be still stronger in color. Reds, blues, blacks, whites, greens, everything will lose all its previous tint and become a ghastly solid yellow.

You will hardly be able to recognize your little friends and they will scarcely know you. Their hair, faces, clothes, the chairs they sit on and all the rest of the furniture, the carpet—in fact, everything in the room—will look as if it had suddenly received a thick coat of yellow paint. This is a very quick way of changing brunettes to blondes, and there will not be a single laddie of lassie with raven tresses in the room.

Now place an ordinary light at the extreme other end of the room and the effect will be two lights, one white and the other yellow. You must be careful not to have the white light stronger than the yellow one, and then while one-half of each will appear in its proper colors, the other half will still be a vivid yellow, and the dividing lines will be sharply defined.

To get the best effect of this you and your friends should be seated in two lines facing each other, with a light on each end of the lines.
