GAME LAWS
for 1922

A Summary of the Provisions of Federal, State, and Provincial Statutes

PUERTOS

THE objects of this bulletin, containing the twenty-third annual summary of Federal and other game laws and regulations, are to aid in the administration of the provisions of the migratory-bird treaty act and the Lacey Act by presenting in convenient form the provisions of game legislation for the use of law-enforcement officials, sportsmen, conservationists, and others, to the end that the laws for the protection of game and birds shall be properly observed.

The open season dates presented relating to migratory birds are the result of Federal and State legislation, and it is only by observing the published seasons that hunters can avoid violating either Federal or State laws, as the Federal regulations operate in many cases to shorten the seasons fixed by State statute.

Provisions relating to methods of capture, game refuges, enforcement of laws, disposition of fees and fines, and matters of minor importance are omitted. These may be found by reference to the laws themselves, pamphlet editions of which are obtainable in most of the States from proper officials.

Provisions relating to seasons, licenses, limits, possession, sale, and export, and a few miscellaneous matters are presented, under State and other governments, alphabetically arranged, thereby furnishing the reader a brief and convenient synopsis of the laws.

REVIEW OF LEGISLATION OF 1922.

Regular legislative sessions were held in only eleven States<sup>1</sup> in 1922, and comparatively few game laws were passed and no radical changes made. A rather comprehensive game law was enacted in Mississippi, but it does not become effective in any county until adopted by the county board of supervisors.

MIGRATORY BIRDS.

The migratory-bird treaty-act regulations were amended, effective March 8, 1922, by fixing October 1 to January 31 as the open season for waterfowl in New Mexico instead of October 16 to January 31; and the periods from September 1 to December 15 in North and <sup>1</sup> New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, and Louisiana held sessions this year. In Georgia the legislature did not convene until June, too late to include in this bulletin information as to whether game legislation was enacted.

South Carolina, and September 16 to December 31 in Mississippi and Louisiana were prescribed as open seasons for doves, instead of the former season from October 16 to January 31 in all these States.

Whether doves are protected by the Federal law was tested during the year in the case of the United States v. Lumpkin (276 Fed. 580) in the Federal court for the Northern District of Georgia. The defendant, charged with killing mourning doves during the Federal close season, contended that the doves killed by him were not migratory but had remained throughout the year in the State. The court held that the treaty between the United States and Great Britain for the protection of migratory birds declares that mourning doves are migratory, and the fact that an individual bird hunted or killed had remained the entire year within the State is no defense in a prosecution for a violation of the act of Congress to give effect to the treaty. The defendant was convicted and fined.

The provisions of the new game law of Mississippi relating to migratory birds practically conform to the Federal law and regulations, but, as stated, no provision becomes effective in any county until adopted by its board of supervisors.

In Virginia the State season on waterfowl was made uniform with the Federal season, and the sale of waterfowl was prohibited.

New York prescribed a special season from October 16 to January 31 for waterfowl south of the main line of the New York Central and the Boston and Albany Railroads from Buffalo to the Massachusetts State line; but since the Federal regulations have not changed the present Federal season of September 16 to December 31, waterfowl now may be taken only from October 16 to December 31 in that portion of the district mentioned, outside of Long Island, without violating either Federal or State laws. A similar condition exists in Massachusetts, where by a local season prescribed on waterfowl from October 1 to January 15 for the counties of Barnstable, Bristol, Dukes, and Nantucket, the resultant open season is from October 1 to December 31.

In Maryland the bag limits on mourning dove, Wilson snipe, and coot (crow-bill) were made to conform to the Federal limits.

New Jersey now requires persons hunting woodcock from October 1 to November 9 to take out a special license costing $2, in addition to the regular hunting license.

The Canadian regulations, as amended August 31, 1921, fixed an open season from October 15 to January 31 for waterfowl and rails in Nova Scotia instead of September 15 to December 31 as formerly; shortened the open season one month on plovers and yellowlegs by opening September 15 instead of August 15; reduced the seasonal bag limits from 250 to 150 on ducks in British Columbia and from 250 to 200 on ducks in Manitoba; and in British Columbia reduced the daily limit on brant from 15 to 10 and fixed a season limit of 50.

The provisions of former regulations conferring on British Columbia authorities the right to fix the seasons for cranes, swans, curlews, and wood duck were also repealed, thus making the general provisions of the treaty and regulations apply to these species.

Sale of migratory game birds was prohibited in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, thus stopping legal sale at all times, other than for purely scientific or propagating purposes under permit, in all provinces except Quebec, Alberta, Northwest Territories, and Yukon, where sale is permitted only during the open season. The use of lights at night was prohibited, and the daily season extended to permit hunting from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset. The former regulation prohibiting the use of sunken boats or sink-boxes was repealed, and these devices now may be used in hunting migratory game birds. The new regulations also prohibit the use of pump or repeating shotguns in hunting migratory game birds unless permanently altered to hold not more than two cartridges if used in Alberta, or more than one cartridge, if used in British Columbia.

UPLAND GAME BIRDS.

The opening date of the season for ruffed grouse in New York, except in Orange, Sullivan, and Westchester Counties, was advanced from October 15 to October 1, thus conforming to the woodcock season, and the daily bag limit on grouse was increased from 2 to 3 and the season limit from 10 to 15; in the excepted counties the open season for grouse was fixed to extend from October 15 to November 30, and the bag limit kept at 2 grouse a day and 10 a season; an open season from November 15 to November 30 for quail in these counties was also prescribed, with a bag limit of 4 a day and 10 a season.

Chinese and ring-necked pheasants now are protected throughout the year for an indefinite period in Maryland, where an attempt is being made to establish the species. Virginia prohibited the baiting of wild turkeys or the taking of their eggs, except for propagating purposes, under permit from the commissioner. The close season for quail in Massachusetts has been continued until 1925 in Dukes, Essex, Hampden, Middlesex, and Nantucket Counties.

The opening date of the one month open season for ruffed grouse in Nova Scotia was advanced from October 15 to October 1. Ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse, Canada grouse, and ptarmigan now may be hunted during the month of October in Saskatchewan, and the season on prairie chickens was lengthened two weeks by opening October 1, thus making the season on all grouse uniform in the Province.

BIG GAME.

The close season for deer has been continued in Maryland until 1926, after which the open season will be from November 10 to November 20, and the limit one buck with horns not less than 4 inches long; a fixed penalty of $300 or 90 days in jail, or both, was prescribed for the illegal killing of deer in the State.

The deer season in New Jersey was changed from the five days beginning December 16 to the last two Wednesdays in December and the first two Wednesdays in January.

The sale of deer was prohibited in Virginia, except for propagating purposes, and a 5-year close season for deer was prescribed for the counties of Bath, Gloucester, Highland, King George, King and Queen, Lancaster, Northumberland, Richmond, Stafford, and Westmoreland.

Alberta reduced the limit on sheep and goats from 2 to 1 each a season, and provided that the holder of a general license, upon obtaining a special license (fees, nonresident, $25; resident, $2.50), may hunt deer, moose, and caribou in the Rocky Mountain Forest Reserves of the Province during September and October. The season has been closed on deer in Victoria and Inverness Counties, Nova Scotia. The hunting-license fee in Nova Scotia for a nonresident taxpayer was increased from $5 to $10 and a $2 big-game license prescribed for residents.

In the northern district of Lower California new regulations adopted by the present governor fix the period September 1 to February 28 as the open season for hunting game and require separate licenses (fees, $10 each) for large and small game; the females and young of deer, antelope, and mountain sheep are protected at all times; the daily limits on deer are 4; antelope, 2; sheep, 2; ducks, 40; and quail, 50.

GAME REFUGES.

The conservation commission of New York was authorized to set aside 100,000 acres of State-owned lands in the Adirondack Park as game refuges, but no area can be so set aside without the approval of the board of supervisors of the county in which it is located.

In Virginia the practice of the department of game and inland fisheries of creating game refuges on private lands by contract with the owners was confirmed by a law which authorizes such refuges to be established for periods of not less than three years, and protects wild animals and birds on such refuges, except that the commissioner may grant permits for the destruction of predatory animals. All lands so set aside are now required to be conspicuously posted as State game sanctuaries.

MISCELLANEOUS.

No increases or reductions were made in the warden service of any State, but in Maryland the salary of $2,500 per annum formerly allowed the State game warden was definitely fixed at that figure by law, and reimbursement allowed for travel and official expenses; police officers also were required to assist in enforcing the game and fish laws of the State.

The commissioner was given a free hand in Virginia in the selection and appointment of wardens, by the repeal of a former provision requiring the appointments to be made from lists certified by county boards of supervisors. The maximum salary of regular wardens was increased from $50 to $75 a month, with the requirement that wardens receiving the maximum shall devote their entire time to the service. Appointments of necessary supervising wardens, with a maximum salary of $100 per month and actual traveling expenses, were also authorized. All salaried wardens are required to make weekly and monthly reports of their activities before salary checks can be issued to them.

New York prohibited aliens from hunting, except under special license issued by the conservation commission, or from owning or possessing shotguns or rifles; an Indian residing in the State, or a member of the Six Nations residing on a reservation wholly or partly within the State, now is required to have a hunting license (fee $1.25), and only licensed Indians residing on reservations may hunt thereon.

New Jersey authorized commissioners and wardens engaged in the enforcement of the game and fish laws to carry concealed weapons, and also provided that a second conviction of a person for violation of the game and fish laws works a forfeiture of his license and deprives him of the privileges of hunting and fishing for a period of two years from the date of conviction.

New York repealed the provision requiring hunters to wear license buttons; while Maryland amended its law so as to require a licensed hunter to wear a license tag displayed in the middle of the back of the outer garment.

In Massachusetts the law prohibiting the use of rifles, revolvers, or pistols during the open season for deer was amended to prohibit also the use of dogs for such hunting and to exempt the counties of Dukes and Nantucket from the operation of the law.

The provision of the New York law that no shooting device or artificial decoy used in taking waterfowl shall be placed upon the water more than one hour before sunrise or left thereon more than one hour after sunset, was amended to include the use of live decoys, and further amended so as to apply only to tidal waters.

A departmental reorganization transfers the administration of the Northwest Game Act from the Commissioner of Canadian National Parks to the Director, Northwest Territories, Ottawa, Ontario.

SUMMARY OF LAWS RELATING TO SEASONS, LICENSES, LIMITS, SALE, AND EXPORT.

The dates of open seasons for migratory game birds shown under the various States and Provinces are the times when these birds may be hunted without violating either State laws or Federal regulations.<sup>2</sup> Federal regulations prohibit shooting from sunset to half an hour before sunrise, and prohibit the killing at any time of the following birds:

Band-tailed pigeon; little brown, sandhill, and whooping cranes; wood duck, eider ducks, swans; curlews, willet, upland plover, and all shorebirds (except the black-bellied and golden plovers, Wilson snipe or jacksnipe, woodcock, and the greater and lesser yellowlegs); cuckoos; flickers and other woodpeckers; nighthawks or bull-bats and whip-poor-wills; swifts; hummingbirds; flycatchers; bobolinks,<sup>3</sup> meadowlarks, and orioles; grosbeaks; tanagers; martins and other swallows; waxwings; shrikes; vireos; warblers; pipits; catbirds and brown thrashers; wrens; brown creepers; nuthatches; chickadees and titmice; kinglets and gnatcatchers; robins and other thrushes; and all other perching birds which feed entirely or chiefly on insects; and also auks, auklets, bitterns, fulmars, gannets, grebes, guillemots, gulls, herons, jaegers, loons, murre, petrels, puffins, shearwaters, and terns.

In some States certain days of the week constitute close seasons throughout the time in which killing is permitted. Hunting on Sunday is prohibited in all States and Provinces east of the one hundred and fifth meridian except Illinois, Louisiana, Michigan, Texas, Wisconsin, and Quebec. Mondays constitute a close season for waterfowl locally in Maryland and North Carolina; and certain other week days for waterfowl in several favorite ducking grounds in Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina. Hunting is prohibited on election day in Maryland in Allegany, Baltimore, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, and Harford Counties; and when snow is on the ground in New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, and Maryland.

The county laws of North Carolina are too numerous to be incorporated in the following summary, which otherwise may be regarded as a practically complete résumé of the regulations now in force.

<sup>2</sup> The full text of the migratory-bird treaty, act, and regulations will be found on pages 59-71.

<sup>3</sup> See order of the Secretary permitting bobolinks, or reedbirds, to be killed in a few States for the protection of rice crops in the South, p. 71.

The migratory-bird treaty-act regulations permit the possession of migratory game birds during the open season and the first 10 days following the close of the season. This provision has been considered in connection with State laws, and when migratory game birds may be legally possessed under Federal regulations and State laws during any part of the close season, it has been stated under the heading "Bag limits and possession." Possession of nonmigratory game during the close season is generally prohibited by State laws, but when an extension of a few days or a special season is provided for either possession or sale attention is called thereto.

Under the Federal migratory-bird treaty act the sale of all migratory game birds is prohibited throughout the United States (except birds taken for scientific or propagating purposes, and waterfowl raised on farms or preserves, under proper permit from the Secretary of Agriculture—see regulations 8 and 9, pages 69-71).

In stating the open seasons<sup>4</sup> the plan of the New York law, to include the first and last days thereof, has been followed. The difficulty of securing absolute accuracy in a statement of the seasons is very great, but the following summaries have been submitted to the proper State or Provincial game commissioners for approval, and are believed to be free from material errors. Species (including migratory game and nongame birds protected throughout each year by Federal regulation) on which the season is closed for a term of years or an indefinite period are grouped under the term "No open season." Provisions of State laws prohibiting hunting at night, between sunset and sunrise, or during certain hours, are not included.

Persons are advised to obtain from State game commissioners<sup>5</sup> the full text of game laws in States where hunting is contemplated.

For laws concerning traffic in imported game and game raised in domestication under Federal and State licenses, see pages 51-56.

IMPORTED GAME AND GAME RAISED IN CAPTIVITY.

Regulations adopted pursuant to the provisions of the Federal migratory-bird treaty act and the Canadian migratory-birds convention act, which give effect to the migratory-bird treaty in the United States and Canada, are designed to permit and encourage the propagation and sale of migratory waterfowl. Many States now have laws in practical conformity with the Federal regulations on waterfowl and also permit other species of game to be raised in captivity and sold under permit. The business of game farming when properly conducted has proved profitable, and the demand for domesticated game has been greatly increased, for the reason that the sale of migratory birds is prohibited throughout the United States and most of Canada under Federal and Dominion laws, and the sale of practically all species of game is prohibited under State laws.

The Department of Agriculture, acting in conjunction with State game officials and sportsmen, aids so far as possible in establishing the game-breeding industry by preparing drafts of suitable laws to be enacted by the States, issuing permits to breeders to obtain wild migratory waterfowl and their eggs, and otherwise advising where stock may be obtained. The Department does not distribute breeding stock or eggs, but in proper cases and under suitable restrictions permits may be issued to assist legitimate enterprises in the conduct of the business of game farming.

Federal regulations:<sup>3</sup> Under permit from the Secretary of Agriculture, and subject to the provisions of State laws, live migratory waterfowl raised in domestication may be possessed, sold, and transported at any time for propagation, and such birds may be killed in any manner (except that they may be killed by shooting only during the open season for waterfowl in the State where killed) and the carcasses with heads and feet attached may be sold and transported at any time to any person for actual consumption, or to the keeper of a hotel, restaurant, or boarding house, retail dealer in meat or game, or a club, for sale or service to their patrons, who may possess such carcasses for actual consumption without a Federal permit: provided, that no migratory waterfowl killed by shooting shall be bought or sold unless each bird before attaining the age of four weeks shall have had removed from the web of one foot a portion thereof in the form of a V for identification purposes.

Permits also are issued under proper restrictions for the capture of a reasonable number of wild migratory waterfowl and the taking of their eggs to enable persons desiring to engage in the business to acquire the nucleus of a breeding stock or to improve the strain of birds on hand, but such wild birds may be sold and possessed only for propagation and may not be killed or sold for food.

The possession, sale, and transportation of imported game and game raised in domestication is also regulated in most States by State laws, which are covered in the following summary:

- Alabama: Commissioner of conservation may issue a permit (fee, $1) to capture or export not more than 10 pairs of each species of game birds for propagating purposes.
- Arizona: State game warden may issue permit to take, export, or import game or birds for propagating purposes; and may also issue permit to retain in captivity not more than four abandoned young of big game which applicant has rescued.

CONVENTION BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND GREAT BRITAIN FOR THE PROTECTION OF MIGRATORY BIRDS IN THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA.<sup>1</sup>

[39 Stat., 1702.]

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

Whereas a Convention between the United States of America and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland for the protection of migratory birds in the United States and Canada was concluded

<sup>1</sup> Signed at Washington August 16, 1916; ratification advised by the Senate August 29, ratified by the President September 1, and by Great Britain October 20; ratifications exchanged December 7; proclaimed December 8, 1916. Constitutionality of the treaty and act sustained by the United States Supreme Court in decision rendered April 19, 1920, in case of State of Missouri v. Ray P. Holland (252 U. S. 416); see also U. S. v. Lumpkin (276 Fed. 580).

Canada, by an act of Parliament approved August 29, 1917, gave full effect to this convention, and promulgated regulations thereunder May 11, 1918. Validity of act of Dominion Parliament upheld by Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island in decision (Michaelmas term, 1920) rendered in case of The King v. Russell C. Clark.

and signed by their respective plenipotentiaries at Washington, on the sixteenth day of August, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen, the original of which Convention is word for word as follows:

Whereas, Many species of birds in the course of their annual migrations traverse certain parts of the United States and the Dominion of Canada; and

Whereas, Many of these species are of great value as a source of food or in destroying insects which are injurious to forests and forage plants on the public domain, as well as to agricultural crops, in both the United States and Canada, but are nevertheless in danger of extermination through lack of adequate protection during the nesting season or while on their way to and from their breeding grounds;

The United States of America and His Majesty the King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Emperor of India, being desirous of saving from indiscriminate slaughter and of insuring the preservation of such migratory birds as are either useful to man or harmless, have resolved to adopt some uniform system of protection which shall effectively accomplish such objects and to the end of concluding a convention for this purpose have appointed as their respective Plenipotentiaries:

The President of the United States of America, Robert Lansing, Secretary of State of the United States; and

His Britannic Majesty, the Right Honorable Sir Cecil Arthur Spring Rice, G. C. V. O., K. C. M. G., etc., His Majesty's Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary at Washington;

The High Contracting Powers agree that the shipment or export of migratory birds or their eggs from any State or Province, during the continuance of the close season in such State or Province, shall be prohibited except for scientific or propagating purposes, and the international traffic in any birds or eggs at such time captured, killed, taken, or shipped at any time contrary to the laws of the State or Province in which the same were captured, killed, taken, or shipped shall be likewise prohibited. Every package containing migratory birds or any parts thereof or any eggs of migratory birds transported, or offered for transportation from the United States into the Dominion of Canada or from the Dominion of Canada into the United States, shall have the name and address of the shipper and an accurate statement of the contents clearly marked on the outside of such package.

ARTICLE VII.

Permits to kill any of the above-named birds which, under extraordinary conditions, may become seriously injurious to the agricultural or other interests in any particular community, may be issued by the proper authorities of the High Contracting Powers under suitable regulations prescribed therefor by them respectively, but such permits shall lapse, or may be canceled, at any time when, in the opinion of said authorities, the particular exigency has passed, and no birds killed under this article shall be shipped, sold, or offered for sale.

ARTICLE VIII.

The High Contracting Powers agree themselves to take, or propose to their respective appropriate law-making bodies, the necessary measures for insuring the execution of the present Convention.

ARTICLE IX.

The present Convention shall be ratified by the President of the United States of America, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate thereof, and by His Britannic Majesty. The ratifications shall be exchanged at Washington as soon as possible and the Convention shall take effect on the date of the exchange of the ratifications. It shall remain in force for fifteen years and in the event of neither of the High Contracting Powers having given notification, twelve months before the expiration of said period of fifteen years, of its intention of terminating its operation, the Convention shall continue to remain in force for one year and so on from year to year.

In faith whereof, the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention in duplicate and have hereunto affixed their seals.
