Ambassador to Great Britain With Unusual Frankness 'Lays Down Law'

By GEORGE R. HOLMES WASHINGTON, May 5 .- Ambassador Houghton's maiden speech in London in which he stated with unusual frankness that unless the nations of Europe abandon their warlike bickering and get back to constructive work they need not look to America for any more help, is an accurate reflection of President Coolidge's views, it was ascertained today,

The ambassador, it was said, 'spoke by the book." Fresh from conferences with President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg and other administration leaders, Houghton outlined with remarkable clarity and force the major tenets that are to guide the formation of American policy abroad for the next three years.

High Official Praise In every authoritative administration quarter today there was voiced high praise of Ambassador Houghton's speech-sometrue concerning ambassadorial ut-terances at Pilgrim dinners. Particular commendation was accorded the ambassador for cutting away the usual diplomatic "hokum" and bluntly telling Europe what is in the American mind.

Marchioness Of Aberdeen In Favor Of Independence By New Generation

By FRED J. WALKER

For International News Service WASHINGTON, May 5 .-Modern youth was heartily defended today by Marchioness of Aberdeen, titled president of the International Council of Women.

In an interview with International News Service the marchioness declared American bobbedhaired, rouge-kneed, saucy-dispo-sitioned flappers and the equally familiar "drugstore cowboy" will be the salvation of the world.

"I think today's young people are the most splendid the world has seen. They have ordered trails, of course, but their independence is at the bottom of that familiar complaint," Lady Aberdeen continued.

Called Independent "Who would think of comparing the 18-year-old girl of today with a similar youth of 100 years ago? The modern boy or girl is more intelligent, thinks inde-pendently and refuses to accept everything blindly.
"Naturally it is disconcerting at times to be forced to accept a radically new attitude from children when we were bound by strict discipline and stricter conventions in our 'teens. But the new generation should be a direct example of the sound outlook of the present-day youths.'

Lady Aberdeen believes that refusal by present-day children to ervthing t will cause international revision of present-day hostilities and pet-

Strict Orders On Visiting Prisoners At City Jail Issued By Chief

Apparently aided by an outside accomplice who passed a steel saw through the barred door of the main cell, prisoners who have been held there during the past few days attempted a desperate jailbreak, it was revealed today when Chief of Police John D. Fraser issued strict orders against further visiting with jail inmates.

The attempt was frustrated by the vigilance of the headuarters officers.

There are two steel barred windows and one barred door on one side of the cell. One bar, nearly three-quarters of an inch thick, was neatly sawed more than half in two near the bottom of the win dow nearest the side entrance to the police station,

Daily Greeting to News Readers

THE MAN WHO IS NOT-Willing to take a joke ought never to perpetrate one. Ambitious to be a splendid father makes a poor citizen. Courteous in his own home will soon forget himself in public. Tolerant of his neighbor's faults seldom has fast friends. Generous misses all the richest joys of living.

Industrious will never be permanently successful in any line. On the square has a lot of trouble trusting other folk.

JUSTICE VERSUS MIGHT

There is more than a ray of hope to be seen in the proposed codification of international law for the Americas which would substitute "right" for "might" in the new world.

The project consists of a preamble and a single article. It presupposes a desire on the part of twenty-one republics to preserve the peace and prosperity of the continent, not of any one of them, but of all of them. To secure peace and prosperity, the mutual relations of the American republics are to be based tipon principles of "justice and respect" for the rules of law in which justice is expressed. "Desire," "justice" and "law" are the general prerequisites, but there are two specific ones: That we begin without criticising the actions of any republic in the past and without referring to any existing controversy. The project looks to the future. It neither requires nor invites a confession of guilt; it would forget the past entirely.

No affirmative or collective action is required. Each republic is asked to renounce for itself action which leads to acquisition of property by "means of war or under the menace of war or of presence of an armed force, to the detriment of any American republic." The final action is also negative, asking each republic not to recognize title to property acquired to the detriment of an American republic by force or threat

It is provided that in case of action against an American republic affecting continental solidarity "any American republic may address the Pan-American union with the object of bringing about an exchange of views on the subject." There is no permanent guarantee of material security expressed in terms of armies, navies and economic pressure; the only permanent guarantee is justice expressed in terms of law. If the American republics can save themselves by this method their example may save Europe.

AMERICANITIS KILLS MANY

To observers it must seem that the motto of America is, "A | short life and a busy one," not an unattractive picture, for life is short at best and there is no satisfaction in idleness. But we have no more right to shorten our lives by failing to conserve our power and energy than we have to deliberately put an end to them.

Americans have energy and ambition, we are noted for hustle and pep, but when it comes to conserving ourselves with proper rest and recreation we fall down. We do not know how Dr. William S. Sadler, a nationally known physician, says that "Americanitis" is causing 240,000 preventable deaths in the United States every year. "Americanitis" is his name for a group of conditions that are due to the incessant drive of the American temperament. A man jumps into the business game or into any work and he lashes himself or is lashed by others or by conditions to keep up the pace that kills. Most Americans would profit by a change in living conditions-a change that would rest their bodies and their minds and calm their

But there is always a chance for argument when methods for the efficient conservation and employment of the human machine are being discussed. Chauncey Depew, who was noted as a late "diner," still enjoys life at the age of 91, while Walter Camp, author of the "Daily Dozen," passed away at 66. Many believe that the spirit, determination and purpose of a mar have as much to do with the length of his life as the rest and exercise that he takes. A useful, efficient life, though short, is better than a long and purposeless one.

NATIONS RESPECT US

We hear a great deal about America and Americans being disliked in foreign countries. Europe does not like to hear that we won the war or helped to win it or that we would like to have our debts paid. We are money-grabbers and dollar-worshipers. We are new and raw and crude and have not artistic and Neptune are all mildly ador literary sense. And yet this country and this people have the respect and confidence of the rest of the world to a greater extent than any other nation that ever existed since time should be stimulating to romance the project. began. The nations of Europe may unite to malign us, but they and sentiment. do not fear and distrust us as they do each other.

We have demonstrated our national integrity throughout our national life and shown that we wish to live in harmony with the rest of the world. Dr. Bayard Dodge, president of the American university in Beirut, Syria, says of the United States and Syria:

"Instead of being looked upon as enemies and as exploiters of the country's resources we are regarded as friends. Consequently when the people desire to have their oil resources developed or their roads built or their mineral resources utilized they call upon America."

WE ENVY INDIANA

With our highway construction program in arrears and the problem of financing new roads and maintaining those already built an ever-present one, California must envy Indiana, who boasts that she has a proper system of roadmaking and upkeep. The state highway commission has planned its work ahead and has contracted for work at figures lower than engineers' estimates. It is operating on a cash basis without bond issues. Other states have made heavy bond issues on which interest is paid while Indiana has cash in bank and is drawing weeks. interest on its road funds pending the time when they will be put to use.

Indiana does not tell how she does it, but perhaps this statement from the Indianapolis News may be a clue: "Left undisturbed by politics, the state will, within a few years, complete an unsurpassed system of highways reaching to every quarter of sedition. of the state and adding enormously to the value of farm lands."

The Easiest Wav By DR. FRANK CRANE

Force is the easiest way.

Every once in awhile we hear a statement of allied yourself to what is best in him. parents that it is much simpler to flog children than to use moral suasion.

If one has superior force, the simplest method to exert it in order to accomplish his object. The same is true of nations. There are some who cannot get over what seems to them to be an indubitable fact that the nation's safety depends upon its power to use force. History shows us, however, that this is a de-

In other words there are greater forces in the world than mere physical predominance. In the of the trained battalions and elaborate tyrannies formed to overcome them

In the home it may be used to flog children. It may be easy to rule by fear. But when you have punished a child you have demonstrated one -that you are a stronger man than he. His spirit remains rebellious. You have made an enemy of him and you arouse all his cunning in order to overcome you or evade you.

If on the contrary you control him by moral suasion by suggesting an example, you have secured his enthusiastic co-operation; you have

This is hard because the right training of children implies that we should be right ourselves. No man who gives way constantly to a hasty temper can hope to overcome bad temper among his children. Only by self-control ourselves can we hope to inculcate self-control among children.

Their eyes are very sharp and see past our words and teachings to our deeds. It is difficult to deceive a child.

When we do so we have aroused the spirit of deception in him. We need not be surprised if long run right and justice have their way in spite our children lie to us if we lie to them. If we are honest and frank with them, they will be est and frank in all their dealings

It is much easier to do as we please and seek to enforce righteousness by physical punishment. But if we think that we are training children in this fashion, we deceive ourselves.

To them, as well as to other people, what we are shrieks so loudly that they cannot hear what

"I confess," he wrote, "there are some men's constitutions of body and mind so vigorous, and well framed by nature that they need not much assistance from others; but by the strength of their natural genius, they are from their cradles carried towards what is excellent; and by the privilege of their happy constitutions, are able to do wonders.

"But examples of this kind are but few; and I think I may say, that of all men we meet with, nine parts of them are what they are, good or evil, useful or not. by their education.'

Locke wrote this in the seventeenth century. In the light of our increased knowledge of men's minds and inner natures, we disagree with him today concerning the relative importance of heredity and education, but the latter still is the greatest single factor in man's existence once he is

Education is not all a matter of books. The parent's duty is not done when he sends his child to school regularly.

We repeat, the parent's duty to his child is simple-a sound mind in a sound body; but this end is not to be gained entirely in the schoolhouse. The parent must accomplish the biggest part of the task.

The parent must always keep in mind that the little, or almost insensible impressions on our tender infancies, have important and lasting consequences; and there it is, as in the fountains of some rivers, where a gentle application of the hand turns the flexible waters in channels, that make them take quite ordinary courses; and by this direction given them first in the source, they receive different tendencies, and arrive at last at very remote and distant

DIRECT ACTION GAS RANGES

THE unusual oven capacity is due to the "Elastic Oven" which I can be enlarged fifty percent by simply raising the broiler bottom. The marvelous baking qualities of this oven make the Direct Action Gas Range the ideal cook stove for any household.

The Direct Action Oven is economical of fuel. The oven burners are directly in the oven and the heat acts directly on the baking. The oven is always ready-place your baking in the oven and light the fire-no pre-heating is necessary.

The lower oven rack is flush with the opened oven door, forming a continuous shelf, so that a heavy roaster or juicy pies can be pulled out without lifting.

HOW! TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE.

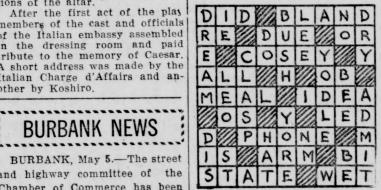

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on CROSS WORD PUZZLE the diagram the diagram.

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

HEADACHES (Part 2)

Headaches are warnings in the vast majority of cases of some brain. There is some poisoning chronic constipation, etc. going on which either irritates the erves of the head directly or indirectly by cause a congestion of or chhronic the blood vessels so that there is a pressure on them. It is in the normal conditions in the pelvis. nerves in the coverings of the (Women suffer most from these.) brain (meninges) that the pain of heachaches manifests itself, lowered nerve tone or to any and not in the brain itself, for mental upset. the brain tissue is not sensible to pain, it is believed.

Headache is the most universal tonsils, teeth, suppurating ears, ache. There is probably no one etc. who has 'not experienced it at some time in his life. Those who dulgence in tea and coffee, tobacare subject only to occasional co and other habit-forming drugs. headaches usually can trace the cause themselves-prolonged breathing of bad air, especially in hot rooms, overeating, overdrinking, undereating, especially skipping a meal, lack of sleep, excess smoking, etc.

Those who suffer habitually from headaches, without other obvious disorders, such as gout, rheumatism, kidney disease, high blood pressure, or other diseases, are the ones we want to help to-And the chief thing that I can do to help you is to point out the causes. Then you should have a thorough physical examination to see which one is operating in your case.

In yesterday's paper, I told you of attending a symposium on Headaches, at the New York Academy of Medicine, and I gave you what the eye and nose specialists said about the headaches that are caused by eye strain and infections of the nose. The chief points to remember are that very slight eye strains which give no symptoms at all in the eyes may causes of habitual headaches Naturally these headaches will not cease until the conditions causing them are remedied.

I'll give you a summary of the causes of habitual or more or less constant headaches: 1. Headache due to eye strain.

Written For The Evening News XVII-Milk Diet

All seekers of health are looking for a quick efficient method that will bring results. It can be said of the milk diet that it cent of human ailments.

The milk cure used straight ing period, which will alarm the weight contenders. patient and cause much worry to those around him. A fast should not be undertaken unless a person has studied some good book on the subject or put themselves in the care of a competent physician who understands fasting.

After a person has been on a milk diet long enough to bring the body up to normal, they will find it easy to eat natural foods in a natural state, without any feeling of discomfort that they will feel when they try to break McDon from a cooked white bread, meat round. and potato diet, and start eating fresh fruits, vegetables, nuts etc.

It is much the same as a dope fiend or user of drugs trying to quit the habit, as most foods that are eaten today are stimulating and will leave their effects in the body for many days, until the natural foods have driven out the poisons generated by the fermenting of refined goods. Fermentation is not digestion. The first and most important thing to be remembered in following out the milk diet is that milk absolutely requires to be thoroughly masticated, unless this is done properly the milk will lie in the stomach like so much lead and will ferment and retard digestion using up valuable energy. To properly masticate milk it must be taken very slowly. It is best to use an ordinary teaa very powerful digestive element and necessary to help the gastric tream to repair the body. Tomorrow-More About Milk

Oil stocks exhibited more stability than they have shown since the break in prices last March. Gasoline markets in the middle- at $35. west and in the mid-continent field stiffened considerably over last week. March gasoline consumption was reported at 650,000 gallons in excess of the February rate. With Standard Oil of New Jersey as a leader, the oil stocks moved up.

Dodge Brothers' preference stocks completed their recovery from last week's slump and sold well above par in active trading. Maxwell "B" reached a new top, Mack Trucks and General Motors were active and strong. Mercantile company stocks, equipments and special-ties were headed for higher prices most of the time, and profit-taking was comparatively small in volume. United States Steel and other of the industrial leaders were conspicuously active, as also were the copper, shipping, stocks. Commodity markets were steady. Oil stocks received a further boost in the last hour by reports of an advance in prices of Midor an advance in prices of the continent gasoline to 10% c a demand gallon. Independent oils moved ample. up to the highest prices of the day, with Skelly, Marland and Pan-Americans showing a gain of more than a point each. General Motors was the leader in the motor shares in this period. Buying of the public utilities points, to 35%, while the pre-ferred broke, 4 points to a new low at 72. Butte & Superior Copper was also weak and broke 21/2 points, to a new low at 6½. Call money declined to 3½ per cent. Sales today, 1.478,900 shares; bonds, $17,371,000.
