Dear Sir

I have undertaken the editorship of a Dictionary of Religion. It will be on a large scale, and will contain articles on all the Religions, as well as on all subjects belonging to Religion. The articles will be signed by their authors, who will in every case add a select bibliography.

For the sake of convenience I have gathered the Muhammadan topics into a list by themselves. I send you a copy of this list. Will you kindly go over it and mark as directed if it is in your power to undertake any of the work? I have been in communication with some scholars who have already undertaken certain articles, including Noeldeke, Goldziher, Browne, Margoliouth, Sell.

The Dictionary will be published by Messrs T and T Clark of Edinburgh, and Messrs Scribner of New York. The remuneration will be at the rate of one pound per page.

Yours faithfully

James Hastings

Dear Sir

I wrote to you a short time ago regarding the Dictionary of Religion edited by me. Since then I have heard again from Professor Goldziher and Professor Nöldeke. They are both particularly anxious that you should write the article (or articles) on Islam in Java and the Dutch East Indies, or on Further India in general. Also, if it is in your power, on Moslem Canon Law.

I know that you are very ^{or} busy, and I shall arrange the work to suit your time.

Space will be given you to do full justice to the articles.

The remuneration will be £2 per 1000 words, and a competent translator will be engaged and paid by the publishers.

Yours faithfully,

James Hastings

My dear Sir

I received your letters together and I happened to read them in the right order. The second is more hopeful than the first. What you suggest in it as possible for you to write is just what I am most anxious to receive from you - I mean Modern Islam and the Muhammadan Sects in the far East. Professor Nöldeke and Professor Goldziher are both very anxious that you should write on this subject, which no one else knows so well. I can give you plenty of time for the article^{or} or articles - three or four years, or even more if you require it. I do trust it will be possible for you.

Yours faithfully,
James Hastings

List of Subjects

Muhammadan Part

1. Put a cross or your initials on the left margin opposite the subjects you prefer, marking more than you are prepared to undertake, as this list is sent to some other scholars at the same time. The Editor will communicate with you before the subjects are fixed.
 2. On right margin kindly suggest any names (and addresses when you can) that occur to you, of those to whom the Editor might offer any of the Articles.
 3. Some of the subjects may have to be divided between two or more authors. Kindly indicate if it is only a portion of a subject you wish to undertake.

Muhammadian Topics

The Muhammadian topics have been gathered out of the whole list and set down here by themselves. This will enable authors more conveniently to select the topics they wish to write upon, and to see whether there are omissions or other mistakes.

N.B. Suggestions for improvement will be very welcome.
