

U. S. COURT TO FINISH WORK

Enters Upon Last Lap of April Term.

CONVICTION IS THE RULE

Only One Person Brought to Trial Acquitted.

Judge A. M. J. Cochran entered upon the last lap of the April term of the U. S. District Court at Covington Monday morning.

Court is expected to finish its work by Wednesday night.

The tribunal has disposed of a tremendous docket, which contained 212 criminal cases and a number of civil matters.

Majority of the cases on the criminal docket were brought before the court by National Guardsmen and prohibition officers on duty in Newport.

Sawyer Smith has disposed of nearly the complete docket, with many persons pleading guilty to charges against them.

The government has failed to obtain a conviction in only one of its cases thus far. Amasa Blanton, aged negro, charged with having violated the prohibition laws, is the only one freed by a jury. Two other negroes indicted with him were found guilty.

Judge Cochran also continued until the next term of court trials of George S. Newport, police chief, and his son, Frank Gregg Jr., who were charged with conspiracy.

Judge A. M. J. Cochran granted a motion filed by Arthur C. Hall, Newport attorney, for a new trial for James O'Brien, Andy Bollen, Harry Frazier, Carl Hutcheson and John Donahue convicted last Friday for violation of the interstate commerce law in relation to trade. Judge Cochran forbade Bollen to himself act as a witness, on the opinion that force was used instead of persuasion, as allowed in the Clayton act.

Belford Wisa, postmaster, who pleaded guilty to embezzlement of funds from the Postoffice at Milton, Ky., was recommended for probation, but was permitted to give bond for his appearance at court on Monday.

Trials of Morris Heron, charged with carrying a concealed pistol, and Charles Hamilton, Newport patrolman, charged with carrying a concealed pistol, were continued.

A similar charge against George Newport, saloonkeeper, also was passed.

Wednesday To Be Sentence Day

Scores of persons convicted of various offenses in U. S. District Court at Covington will be called before Judge A. M. J. Cochran Wednesday for sentence.

Judge Cochran announced Monday that he would call for sentence the docket of cases in the present term of court, and said he would not permit any cases to "hang over" until the fall term.

His session has been a record breaking one so far as number of cases are concerned.

The recent grand jury returned 233 indictments, and most of them were returned on Monday morning. Many accused have come forward and entered guilty pleas.

KLAN IN VISIT

Make Easter Happy for Children's Home Inmates.

Easter was made a happy day for the 57 little children at Children's Home, 147 Madison ave., Covington, Ky., by the members of Covington's Klux Klan, who visited the home and presented each child with an Easter basket.

The knights of the Klan were dressed in full regalia, including long white robes and high white hennin hats. They carried long poles, which they suspended baskets filled with Easter goodies, and the children made a brief speech to each child, who said the motto of the Klan, "Klan Sista Sed Antlar," meant "Not Klans for our children, but for the children of our children."

Miss Marie Smith, who acted as waitress in the absence of Mrs. Besse, who was unable to attend, presented the donors to the children and they were all given a "Thank you" letter, but the visitors departed as mysteriously as they came, and refused to reveal their identity.

The Covington organization is known as Klan No. 1, Reading, of Kentucky. It is the first branch in the state, and has 600 members.

JUDGE ORDERS VERDICT

Says Prosecution Failed to Make Out Case.

Maurice Galvin, Republican state committeeman, was back in Covington Monday after having been acquitted in the Franklin Circuit Court, at the conclusion of his trial on a charge of conspiracy to trial of a nation for Frank Brier, Louisville banker.

Galvin was freed on order of Judge Cochran, who held that the prosecution had failed to prove Galvin was connected with the plot.

Who it was that wanted Blair pardoned, who he is or where he is, and what the nature of the conspiracy remains as much a mystery as ever.

The indictment charged that Galvin had conspired with Blair to procure the pardon for Blair by false representations to Governor Edwin P. Morrow and to remove him beyond the boundaries of the state to prevent his arrest by federal authorities.

Notwithstanding the fact that the gist of the false representations, as charged, was that there was a national conspiracy to pardon Blair, it was not enough to know these facts when he presented the application to the governor, and Blair was not charged with any part in the plot.

Many members of the state administration attended the trial, and Galvin was immediately taken into a throng of congratulating friends.

He said he had no charge to make, excepting that I was subjected to everything that I saw reflected in the papers, and that Galvin was not a party to the conspiracy.

Card gave clear record. Summed up, the case for the prosecution rested on these facts:

Frank Brier, Newport banker, was arrested in Louisville for attempting to hold up and rob James Stewart, Monday evening, in 1929. At that time he was wanted by federal authorities in Indianapolis for a bank robbery and was a bank robber. Blair knew this.

Blair, who attended the trial, testified that he heard Blair say at its conclusion that Blair was a criminal and that he had not had him.

Blair was full of rage on communication of his sentence by Morrow June 2, 1921. At that time a notation on Morrow's desk was:

Clinic Where Disease in Children Will Be Fought

Children will be given special attention at the clinic.

Pennies Will Support Institution Fought To Give Little Ones Equal Chance.

By Ruth Small

Elmer Scholten, 10, of 223 Fifth, has the distinction of getting the first prescription from the penny clinic, 1447 Madison, which Covington children's pennies are making possible.

Elmer and half a dozen other children were examined the first Friday day by Miss Sterling, community nurse, and a corps of physicians. More are expected to return to work, and claiming that even as children become familiar with the clinic location and its purpose.

They will find a freshly painted white brick building on the first floor of which has been fitted up as a miniature hospital. In the front room, which is called the "reception room," there are a sort of appliances for examination of children, and in the middle room is a sort of receiving ward next to that is the dental room and adjoining is a small room containing a little white bed and next to that a restorative room.

Reminder to Children

On the receiving room wall are such reminders of the way for children to keep well as: Mouth and nose are gateways where disease may enter, so beware! Don't eat candy, fruit, gum, etc. Don't suck your pencil or your thumb.

But most significant of all are the little tin barrels placed about the rooms. It is with the contents of these that the clinic will be supported.

It is James M. Clark, Covington health officer, who organized the clinic, explained every Thursday health lectures are given to children at the clinic, and on Friday each child who can afford it is expected to make a contribution to the barrels, which will be sold to the public.

Children who cannot afford to pay will be given their medicine.

Eighty Per Cent Defective

Miss Alice Sterling, who surveys children's health, says 80 per cent of them are physically defective.

Dr. Rife explained the clinic will be in charge of Miss Sterling, assisted by Miss Dorothy Hoppenlaas, formerly head nurse at St. Elizabeth training school. The clinic will be supported by these physicians and surgeons: Dr. Edgar Northrup, medical director; Dr. R. D. Northrup and F. L. Northrup, dentists; Dr. R. W. Besse, C. W. Heise and O. L. Reynolds, orthopedists; Dr. Edgar Northrup, medical director; Dr. R. W. White, Peter Meier and H. L. Meier, dentists.

Clinic days are Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, from 3 to 5 p. m.

Committee Chairman Contends Departure of Skilled Men Is Cause of New Offer Which Says Unions Never To Be Recognized.

Newport Rolling Mill strikers Monday were discussing latest moves of the company officials to end the strike.

"Strikers will not weaken," J. S. Phillips, chairman of the Central Committee, said, "and it is preparation for the return of the skilled men which is causing the new moves by the company."

Phillips, discussing two appeals from the Rolling Mill and Steel Co. strikers, said he expected a return to work, and claiming that under no circumstances would the unions ever be recognized again, and another to the citizens and business men, calling attention to the payroll and number of men employed, asserting that:

"We deny the company's claims that the new opening in the payroll and number of men employed, asserting that:
