

AT GLENDALE HIGH

PRINCIPAL MOYSE SANCTIONS WEEKLY—JUNIOR PAY ASSEMBLY—DEBATES ANNOUNCED

A weekly newspaper for Glendale is assured. This was announced today after the project received the sanction of Principal Moyse. It comes as a relief to the many students who have long believed that a school paper was the one greatest need of our student body. Plans for the new weekly are being pushed, and the date of the first issue will be announced soon.

The Juniors are working hard on their comedy "Aunt Jerusha's Quilting Party," and it will be ready for the pay assembly at 2 o'clock Friday. A glance at the list of eminent actors on the cast will convince the most skeptical of the excellence of this production. For instance, there are "Dutch" Eckles, "Brock" Beach, Emerson Padelford and George Lamoreaux; all four noted leading men. But the girls will take the biggest part in this farce. Among the stars who have consented to donate their services for the benefit of the Junior class treasury are: Daphne Burlingham, Annabel McClellan, Jane Snyder, Margaret Lusby, Lucille Barnes, Ruth Hall, Nettie Wervie, Evelyn Mason, Opal Feaster, Jessie Shepard and Elizabeth Allen.

Miss Terry is the power behind the scenes. It is said that anyone who can see this sketch without laughing needs a doctor's attention.

Why was Mr. Richardson so very happy yesterday? Would you really like to know? Well, listen, I will whisper the secret in your ear—the stork visited Elmer's house Monday night. Now wouldn't that make anyone happy?

Mr. Root, debating instructor, announces the first league debate of the year for Friday evening, December 8, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium, against Santa Ana. At the same time the other team meets Pomona high at Pomona. Every student should plan to be on hand to boost for Glendale's debating honors.

Mr. Oliver, head of the M. O. department, was absent from school Tuesday because of severe illness.

The domestic classes of Miss Holloway, Miss Hanson and Mrs. Scott are planning exhibition of their work Friday. Everyone will be invited. The sewing classes plan to spend the time from now on until Christmas in sewing for the needy, and they are to be congratulated, indeed, in this fine work. Discarded garments that the girls can make over will be gladly received.

The Joke Department of the Stylus would be just tickled to death if the students would patronize the joke box. This is especially for the Seniors.

BRIDAL DINNER

An attractive bridal dinner was given at the home of Mr. William Nicholson Read of North Central avenue on Thanksgiving day in honor of his daughter, Irene Genevieve, and her fiance, Mr. John White Garver, whose marriage takes place this evening. Covers were laid for ten. The guests found attractive place cards suggestive of the Thanksgiving season, at their places. The centerpiece was a basket of gay, luscious fruit tied with a large yellow tulle bow and about which were twined garlands of smilax and yellow chrysanthemums. Corsage bouquets of violets for the ladies and buttonholes for the gentlemen completed the color scheme. The bidden guests were Rev. and Mrs. James C. Garver of Denver, Colorado, Mr. John White Garver and Mr. and Mrs. Royal W. Rishforth.

SISTERHOOD SOCIAL

Regardless of the threatening weather, Monday evening, December 4, the ladies of the Sisterhood class of the First M. E. church, entertained in the League room, with a puzzle and conundrum social in a most interesting manner, with a good attendance. On gathering they were given ample time to solve the brain teasers after which the president made a few remarks, followed by prayer by Mrs. Snudden. The teacher then gave a most interesting talk and review of the book of Acts, which they have been studying, assisted by map and drawn illustrations, of which their teacher has no small ability. They were then favored by an instructive talk by the pastor. Charades filled the next few minutes, which were greatly enjoyed. A refreshing drink with wafers brought the evening to a close. Those present expressed themselves as being beneficially helped as well as entertained.

CHARITY BENEFIT

Preparations are progressing for the big All-Star vaudeville to be held at the Palace Grand theatre Friday evening. The Elks are engineering this big event to help swell their Christmas charity fund. How they have been able to assemble so much talent at one time is a question. Many of the most famous artists in the world in their particular lines will appear at this performance. Such names as the following appearing on the program are a guarantee of something very much out of the ordinary:

Hobart Bosworth, Jean Pallette, Mr. and Mrs. James Neill, Jack Dean, Miss Fannie Ward, Theodore Roberts, H. B. Carpenter, Raymond Hatton, Paul Weigl, Thomas Forman, Wallace Reid, William Elmer, Herbert Hughes, C. H. Geldert, Anita King, Florence Smythe, Jane Wolf, Miss Dorothy Davenport, Miss Mae Murray, E. J. LeSant, George Melford, Sam DuVal, Cullen Tate, Bob Lee.

The names of Camille Astor and Stefan Norvakowski, Polish dancers, who will appear in the dances of their country, will be great drawing cards.

DEATH OF MRS. WALKER

Friends here will regret to hear of the death of Mrs. Hannah K. Walker, who passed away on December 1, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. H. Packard in Redfield, South Dakota, where she had gone last June to visit her daughter and sons in Dakota and Iowa.

Mrs. Walker was about 78 years old and had always been in the best of health, but she had a slight fall about a week before her death, the effect from which caused her death. She had been a resident of Glendale about six years and has many friends in Glendale and vicinity who will be surprised and grieved to learn of her passing.

BIG SHOW OPEN

GREAT INTEREST AND GOOD ATTENDANCE AT ANNUAL POULTRY EXHIBIT

The attendance at the Poultry show Tuesday afternoon and evening was exceptionally gratifying to the management.

The booth of the Glendale Feed and Fuel Co., located in the east end of the large tent, is complete in every detail. At this booth may be found any and all kinds of feed and poultry remedies for biddie and her little ones. This enterprising firm are boosters for the show as well as for the various brands of poultry feed and supplies. They are making a specialty of the Poultrymen's Co-operative Association's egg mash. The booth is in charge of two experts on poultry feeding who take great interest in explaining the merits of correct feeding, etc. Don't fail to visit their booth.

J. Walter Elliott of North Glendale has a very fine bunch of Rhode Island Reds on exhibition and as usual on such occasions is brimfull of enthusiasm for the welfare of the show, but for some cause or another he was tardy in putting in his appearance at the big tent today. We presume, however, that the delay was caused by his devoted attention to Young Elliott Junior, who employs most of his time of late.

John Hollway of 1435 Sycamore avenue, was among the first to arrive this morning, and lost no time in grooming his various exhibits. John takes great pride in his birds and sees to it that they are in tip-top shape for the eyes of the visitors.

H. L. Gill of Tropico, who makes a specialty of Barred Rocks, has a very fine assortment of his fancy birds on exhibit and is kept busy answering various questions concerning his manner of feeding and mating to produce results.

Charles Smith of the Smith Cyclery is kept busy talking to the parrots and explaining the merits of his automobile safety lock and will give a free demonstration on the street this afternoon.

"Charley" and "Pete", the two beautiful Panama Parrots make one forget the blues and the high cost of living by their continuous talking and fun making. They show the effects of careful training on the part of their owner, Mrs. R. L. Brown of 913 San Rafael street.

Irving H. Oliver of Tropico has a fine exhibit of Silver Campines and Speckled Sussex on exhibition. The latter breed which has only been imported from England a few years, is becoming very popular and next year bids fair to see a goodly number on exhibition.

The display booth of the Valley Supply Co., located in the west end of the tent, is well supplied with all kinds of articles and appliances used by the poultryman and in addition to this they have 50 different kinds of feed on display and Mr. Hollister loses no time in telling you that they are the best ever.

F. D. Titus of 923 Chestnut street was a visitor at the show this morning and from the interest manifested he no doubt will be in the chicken game ere long.

The pen of Black Orpingtons exhibited by J. Alexander of 652 Acacia avenue, Tropico, is a very fine display but owing to a small technicality were disqualified.

The President's Cup was won by H. L. Gill of Tropico on Barred Rock cockerel. He also won the Trustees' Cup donated by the trustees of the city of Tropico for the best pullet from the Tropico section.

The attendance yesterday was good but the way the crowds are coming in today points to be a record maker. The person who misses this show will surely miss a rare treat, every lover of poultry and every booster for Glendale and community are urged to show their appreciation by visiting this grand show.

The silver and the golden pheasants, owned by Harold Ryerson of Tropico, are fine specimens and the beautiful plumage attracts the attention of every visitor.

Mrs. W. D. Smith won first, second and third prize on white leghorn pullets. Mrs. Smith is a novice in the poultry business and next year will see her with a large display.

Mrs. H. W. Wood of 1641 West Seventh street, has on exhibition a very fine pen of her white Plymouth Rocks. Mrs. Wood takes great pride in her birds and takes every opportunity to improve her stock.

The Anconas "The veritable egg machines," are very much in evidence. Secretary Batty probably has the largest display of these birds on exhibition. Mr. Batty is an enthusiastic breeder of Anconas and has an

POULTRYMEN BANQUET

OFFICERS OF POULTRY ASSOCIATION AND JUDGES ENJOY FEAST

That the officers and the judges of the Glendale-Tropico Poultry Association might have an opportunity to become better acquainted a mid-day get-together luncheon was enjoyed at the Easton Cafe Tuesday. Dr. Royce, president of the association, was the one who arranged covering all details.

There were about thirty-five of the leading poultry spirits of Glendale, Tropico, Casa Verdugo and Eagle Rock seated at the long table specially provided for the occasion. Mr. Easton, proprietor of the cafe, and his helpers proved themselves equal to the emergency and provided excellent service and satisfied the inner man in a very satisfactory manner.

After the many good things had been partaken of Dr. Royce called upon Harold Walthew, one of the judges, for remarks. Mr. Walthew, who is a bantam specialist, spoke words of praise about the Glendale-Tropico show, and extended a cordial invitation to all to attend the poultry show at Los Angeles, January 3.

Other speakers were R. V. Moore of Oakland, who also served as a judge; Cromwell Galpin of Eagle Rock; J. Walter Elliott of Casa Verdugo; T. W. Watson, city manager of Glendale; A. T. Cowan, publisher of the Evening News; Dr. Duncan of Tropico; C. E. Battey, secretary of the association; W. L. Ross, secretary of the Los Angeles Association; Alex McDonald; L. A. Hart, who will locate in Glendale about January 1; H. E. Colby, real estate man of Glendale and Mr. Alexander.

CIRCULATION IS STOCK IN TRADE

If you go to a grocery store to purchase articles of merchandise you expect the salesman to show you the article you are contemplating purchasing. If you visit a dry goods store or a clothing store you also wish to examine the cloth as to color, weight and quality before buying it. The wide awake and honest salesman displays his goods in the window and uses every available means to let the public know that he has for sale merchandise of merit.

The newspaper publisher sells advertising space. The value of that advertising space is based on the extent of the circulation of the paper.

The management of the Evening News and the Tri-City Progress, like the wide-awake merchant, stands ready to place before advertisers his stock in trade which is circulation. It is the only honest way of determining the worth of advertising space in a newspaper.

Up to date the Evening News and its weekly companion are the only newspapers in this section of the San Fernando Valley that dare come out in the open and exhibit a recently corrected newspaper subscription list. What would you think of a shoe dealer who would ask you to buy shoes without seeing them, or fitting them on?

What about the publisher who is ashamed to produce for your inspection a subscription list. Advertisers are cordially invited to call at the Evening News office and inspect our subscription list, or call phone Sunset 132 or Home 2401, and a representative of the paper will carry the list to you for your inspection. Seeing is believing.

DEATH OF MRS. FORD

Mrs. Ford wife of the Rev. Don S. Ford of the Tropico Methodist church, passed away at her home, 406 North Central avenue, at 6 o'clock this morning. The remains are at the Jewel City Undertaking parlors awaiting the completion of funeral arrangements. Further notice later.

extensive poultry ranch on North Pacific avenue called "Anconia Land." Mrs. Walter M. Ross of Colorado street, is very proud of her pigeon display and succeeded in landing the first prize Yellow Carieux.

The Bantam display is beyond doubt the finest exhibit ever put on exhibition in the state. The Black Bantam cockerel of Dr. G. Irwin Royce is regarded as the finest specimen in Southern California. This bird won first prize and scored 96 points Standard of Perfection and captured the prize cup donated by the Glendale city trustees as the finest specimen of any bird in the show. Judge Williams of Fullerton, who is one of the judges in the Madison Square Garden show at New York, will take this cockerel to New York and enter him in that show.

PROFANITY AND SLANG

The habit men have of using profane words is one which has no excuse for its existence. The use of profane words are prompted by two causes. One for the purpose of emphasis, and the other for the purpose of giving vent to anger. The man is to be pitied who cannot tell a story without an unlimited use of profane words. Why should persons giving such a story teller audience, laugh at the conclusion of a story in which the name of the Deity has been irreverently used. It should rather be the occasion for mourning. The profanity habit is a vicious one and it should be discouraged by all who have a love for the noble and the beautiful.

The use of profane words when the user is in a fit of anger shows the weakness of human beings. For a man who is created in the image of his Maker to so far descend in the scale of manhood that he will in a fit of passion curse the God of the universe shows a lack of education and common sense.

Slang, like profanity, is used for the sake of emphasis, and is engaged in by men, women and children. The use of slang is on the increase, and many people who disapproved of it ten years ago are using it themselves now. It is the opinion of the writer that its use should be discouraged. Boys and girls now-a-days find it difficult to utter a complete sentence without the use of slang. It is unnecessary for the writer who is poorly schooled in modern slang, to give examples, because the man is not living today who is not familiar with the terms guy, beaney, I should worry, forget it, dippy and many other words and phrases that are used for the sake of euphony. Slang may have its place in conversation, but it should be used as are the seasonings of foods—very carefully. A very little pepper on a serving of potatoes and meat may be acceptable, but to have more pepper than potatoes and meat would give too much "pep" and not sufficient nourishment. The person who uses slang rashly weakens the effectiveness of his conversation. An intelligent use of slang should be the only sanction for its use.

WOMEN OF CALIFORNIA MAY END BEGGING AND BURGLARY

If the present plans of the Home Industry League of California prove successful, the women of the State will be the means of keeping beggars off the streets of every one of the State's cities and towns during the coming winter, as well as reducing to a minimum the usual crop of cold-weather burglaries.

Women (auxiliary) members of the Home Industry League to the formidable number of 25,000 have already signed pledges—now on file at the League's headquarters in San Francisco—that this year they will do all their holiday shopping with the idea uppermost in mind of co-operating thoroughly with the active membership of the League (the factory owners of California) to "make it a Home Industry Christmas."

It has been proclaimed by Executive Secretary C. R. Thoburn, of the Home Industry League, that if the people of California will this year buy all their Christmas gifts in the State—instead of patronizing the mail order houses of the states east of the Rockies—giving the preference each time to either raw or manufactured articles grown or made in California, the enormous sum of $15,000,000 will be kept in California instead of going east.

"If all the women of the Golden State will unite with the women members of the Home Industry League of California to 'Make it a Home Industry Christmas'" declares Miss M. B. Wilkin, manager of the Women's Division of the Home Industry League, "the women of California, having shown their power by electing a President of the United States, can show their greater power in keeping our city streets clear of beggars this winter, and preventing the usual amount of winter burglaries committed by men thrown out of work in California factories at a season of the year when a successful movement for a 'Make-it-a-Home-Industry-Christmas' would keep these men at honest work with no incentive to crime."

A list of suggestions to women who desire to buy Christmas gifts made within the borders of California, or to make gifts themselves out of raw material either grown or manufactured within the State, may be secured free of charge upon postal card request of the Home Industry League, New Call Building, San Francisco. It is pleasing to note that the first two items on the list of suggestions for Holiday presents consist of recommendations to subscribe for your local newspaper.

NATIONAL FOREST ELIMINATION

As a result of recommendations of the Secretary of Agriculture, based upon approved classification reports submitted by the Forest Service, 19,840 acres of land have been eliminated from the Routt National Forest in northwestern Colorado by a Presidential proclamation.

This action is in accordance with the policy of putting all lands in the National Forests to the use to which they are best suited. The area in question is located in what is known as Ham's Creek Basin, or Elk River Park, about 28 miles north of the town of Steamboat Springs, and consists chiefly of grassland with a small amount of scattered woodland.

The elimination comprises practically a solid block from 6 to 8 miles long and about 4 miles wide. Approximately one-third of the entire area is already alienated and in private ownership. Forest service reports on the classification of the area show it to have little value for watershed protection or other National Forest purposes. The greater portion of the soil itself is more or less adapted to cultivation, but on account of the high elevation and unfavorable climatic conditions, it is believed that the area has only a low value for practical agriculture.

A classification of practically all the National Forests is being made by the Forest Service in order to determine the character and suitability to agriculture of the land which they contain.

FAMILY DINNER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones at 106 Orange street, was the scene of a happy Thanksgiving event, when Miss Mabeth Pigg and Mr. Thomas M. Furst, whose wedding will soon take place, were the guests of honor. Covers were laid for nineteen, all those present being relatives of the bride-to-be.

A color scheme of white and gold was carried out in the decorations of the bride's table, which was placed in the den. White American Beauty roses were used for the floral decorations, the place cards were white with gold monogram, and white and gold china was used. Covers were laid at the bride's table for Miss Pigg, Mr. Furst, Miss Winifred Jones, who is to be maid of honor; Anna Ewell Phillips, who is to be the flower girl, and Billie Pigg, who is to be the ring bearer. The other guests were seated at one long table, at which a Christmas color scheme of red and green was carried out. Covers were laid at this table for Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pigg, Dudley Pigg, Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Phillips and Geraldine Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans and daughter Catherine, Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and daughter Winifred, Mrs. M. Ewell Smith.

ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting for the election of officers will be held at the First Congregational church this evening. Other matters of importance will be considered.

Officers for 1917 will be elected.

FATHER'S NIGHT AT INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL

Everyone is cordially invited to come and bring their friends.

There will be music by the male quartet, Messrs. Yarick, Beers, Franklin and Abell. Do not forget this very important evening, Monday, December 11.

THE FALL OF LEAVES

From Hilaire Belloc's "At the Sign of the Lion," these charming extracts have been selected:

"There is a house in my own country which is built of stone, whose gardens are fitted to the autumn. It has level alleys standing high and banked with stone. Their ornaments were carved under the influence of that restraint which marked the Stuarts. They stand above old ponds, and are strewn at this moment with the leaves of elms. These walks are like the Mailles of the Flemish cities, the walls of the French towns or the terraces of the Loire."

"At this season a sky which is of so delicate and faint a blue as to contain something of gentle mockery, and certainly more of tenderness, presides at the fall of leaves. There is no air, no breath at all. The leaves are so light that they sidle on their downward way, hesitating in that which is not void to them, and touching at last so imperceptibly the earth with which they mingle, that the gesture is much gentler than a salutation, and even more discreet than a discreet caress.

"They make a little sound, less than the least of sounds. No bird at night in the marshes rustles so slightly; no man, though men are the subtlest of living beings, puts so evanescent a stress upon their sacred whispers or their players."

"The scent of life is never ruller in the woods than now, for the ground is yielding up its memories. The spring when it comes will not restore this fullness, nor these deep and ample recollections of the earth. For the earth seems now to remember the drive of the plowshare and its harrying; the seed, and the full bursting of it, the swelling and the completion of the harvest. Up to the edge of the woods throughout the weald the earth has borne fruit; the barns are full, and the wheat is standing stacked in the fields, and there are orchards all around."

"The color is not a mere splendor: it is intricate. The same unbounded power, never at fault and never in calculation, which comprehends all the landscape, and which has made the woods, has worked in each separate leaf as well; they are inconceivably varied. Take up one leaf and see. How many kinds of boundary are there here between the stain which ends in a sharp edge against the gold, and the sweep in which the purple and red mingle more evenly than they do in shot-silk or in flames? Nor are the boundaries to be measured by degrees of definition. They have also their characters of line. Here in this leaf are boundaries intermittent, boundaries rugged, boundaries curved, and boundaries broken. Nor do shape and definition ever begin to exhaust the list. For there are softness and hardness too; the agreement and disagreement with the scheme of veins; the grotesque and the simple in line; the sharp and the broad, the smooth and raised boundaries."

WOOD USED IN THE UNITED STATES

Figures showing the amount of wood used in the United States for making pulp will, it is announced, be obtained by the Forest Service in connection with its 1916 census of the lumber industry. Because of the increasing scarcity of the pulpwood in some parts of the country, the need for accurate figures showing the consumption of this class of material is realized by manufacturers and foresters alike and it is expected that such figures will be made a part of the yearly statistical work of the Forest Service. The pulp manufacturers will co-operate in the work, through their trade organization, the Newspaper Manufacturers' Association.

Detailed information in regard to the amount and cost of different kinds of pulpwood consumed in the different States is to be collected. Comparative figures showing the total pulpwood consumption of the country for 1899, 1909, 1914 and 1916 are to be compiled.

The data to be obtained will, it is stated, be of considerable value to pulp manufacturers, as well as to the Forest Service. Owing to the comparatively small number of pulp mills in the United States, it is thought it will be possible to issue a report on the work at an early date.

These little ladies are the daughters of Mrs. Nicholas, 1628 Patterson avenue, Mrs. Gerald Blue of Fairmount, Mrs. Ernest Kimmel and Mrs. Moore who live side by side on Burchett street.

Samuel Parker has returned to Glendale Highlands after a week's visit to his father, nephew and family at Santa Monica. On Thanksgiving day they cut their way through fog to the Methodist church in vicemitten Venice, to union service, at which his nephew presided, and at which a forceful discourse was given by a preacher-lawyer, to a creditably sized congregation, interspersed by good singing—"America" being used as chorus. Concluding, Mr. Parker went through the drizzle to the First M. E. church at Sunday morning services and went with his nephew's family through the same kind of weather to First Christian church at night. The beaches were lonesome, the sun off duty, or rather the fog on duty, nearly the entire week.

ON FLORAL FLOATS

Editor Evening News,
Dear sir—A conversation held yesterday with a prominent Glendale resident prompts me to give you my opinion (for what it is worth) regarding the advisability of sending a floral float to the Pasadena Tournament on New Year's day.

Early this year, perhaps as long ago as March, I outlined to Mr. R. M. Jackson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and subsequently to Mr. Stephen Packer and Mr. C. O. Pulliam, in the latter's office, my idea as to a plan for contriving a floral float for the first of January, 1917.

Briefly the plan is this:
That in April or May the chamber of commerce should, either from its own funds, or from funds contributed by co-operation among the city trustees, the chamber of commerce, the Elks, etc., offer a prize of $25 for the best design submitted of a floral float. This would have brought artistic designs from schools of art, professional designers, artists, and amateurs of all descriptions. And out of all those submitted, say by June 30, a committee would have been able to find one of simple yet striking and novel design. For the novelty of design is the essential point in the production of a floral float.

Having the design selected, the Glendale public would then have been asked by the co-operating forces to grow in their gardens the flowers to be used on the float. Probably geraniums, as being cheap, effective, and lasting, or whatever other flower desired by those in charge of the movement. Thus, by the beginning of December, the city would have a knowledge of the flowers and greenery at their command, not one iota of which would cost the city one penny—it would know exactly what design to use and the public generally, because of the months of preparation, would be enthused over the subject to the point of working for and hustling for the credit of Glendale and for the prize which the float would most probably succeed in winning.

Supposing the truck be donated, as in former years, the flowers obtained at no expense, and the prize design to have cost $25, I estimate that $50 would be sufficient for the cost of foundation work, lumber, wire and whatever else would have been necessary. Thus for $75 plus the good will and co-operation of the Glendale public, Glendale could have sent to Pasadena a floral float absolutely unique in design and appearance, at a cost of $75.

There are plenty of artistic minds and willing hands in Glendale only too glad to help when the cause is worthy and the preparations arranged on a satisfactory, systematic basis.

This was my plan, outlined last March to the gentlemen as above mentioned.

To start a movement at present to raise funds for and prepare a floral float within three weeks, especially when the city funds are not sufficient to allow of contributing to publicity movements in the city of Glendale itself, seems to me both unwise and undesirable. The float sent out last year under exactly similar conditions as those existing this year, was no credit to Glendale, and cost the city somewhere about $175.

If ever it be planned to reach the Glendale public co-operation in the matter of a floral float for Pasadena, in the right way, and in plenty of time, I am sure hundreds of people would be willing to assist. I am sure the 250 members of the Tuesday Afternoon club would lend their talent and time. And I could promise hearty co-operation from the 200 members of the Glendale Garden Society.

Yours truly,
NANNO WOODS.

TRAVEL DAY PROGRAM

The literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club at its regular meeting held yesterday with Mrs. A. L. Weaver, maintained its reputation by producing a highly instructive and entertaining program.

"Travel Day" was the theme for this meeting and all the renditions were in strict harmony therewith.

"The Pretender Person", by Margaret Cameron, was very ably reviewed by the Curator, Mrs. W. W. Ramsay, and the interest in her review was doubly strengthened with the accounts of her personal experience in Mexican travel.

"Black Sheep," by Jean Kenyon McKenzie, treating on experiences and trials of missionaries in West Africa, was cleverly handled by Mrs. E. H. Willisford.

"Alaska Days With John Muir," by S. Hall Young, relating many anecdotes of instructive interests, by virtue of Alaskan explorations, was reviewed by Mrs. Edward Dale, and she held her hearers in rapt attention.

SALE AND DINNER POSTPONED

The bazaar and chicken pie dinner which was to have been given by the ladies of the Tropic Methodist church on Thursday, December 7, has been postponed until Tuesday, December 12, on account of the death of Mrs. Ford, wife of their pastor.

TROPICO TRUSTEES

DOG KENNEL ORDINANCE UP FOR DISCUSSION BUT NO ACTION TAKEN

The trustees of the city of Tropic met in regular session Tuesday evening at 7:30, with the following officers and members of the board present: Trustees Peters, president of the board; Henry Alspach, Seal and Veselich; City Clerk Mrs. Coleman; City Attorney Shaw; City Engineer Wattles and Health Officer Mabry.

The minutes of the last meeting read and with a few minor corrections were approved.

A communication was received from E. Shillings, contractor of the West Acacia street improvement asking for 45 days extension of time on his contract, to allow him time to arrange for the street bonds etc. On motion of Trustee Henry the extension was granted.

A communication was received from the claim adjuster of the California Truck Co. requesting a bill of particulars for the damage done to the street light which was destroyed recently by one of their trucks. Upon motion the matter was referred to the city marshal.

The city attorney reported that in the matter of Smith, who had taken an appeal in the jitney bus case, had been argued before Judge Craig but as yet the judge had not given any decision.

In the case of Baer vs. the City of Tropic et al. in the justice court, the city attorney reported that he had filed an answer to the complaint but the case had not come up for trial yet.

The city engineer reported that the work on West Acacia street was completed and that the guard rails had been erected at the approaches to the Adams street and Moore avenue bridges.

Health Officer Mabry reported that recently a great deal of complaint had come to him concerning the unsanitary conditions of certain poultry and rabbit yards. He stated that during the rainy season it was almost impossible for the yards to be kept in first class condition and advised the board not to grant any more permits in the thickly settled districts.

Trustee Veselich reported that he had examined the fill and anchorages at the fill of the Hill street bridge and in his opinion the work and arrangement for anchorage were satisfactory and safe.

Trustee Henry reported that F. D. Silvius, who owns some lots on Columbus avenue, had objected to the arrangement of the assessment district for the Columbus street improvement, and that unless the assessment map was changed a protest would be filed.

The applications of R. Makagawa and L. Johnson for permits to erect fruit stands, of the "California house" style, on Tropic avenue, were denied and notified that they must comply with the building ordinance.

The dog kennel ordinance was introduced and discussed at length on the conditions etc., of the document, some of the trustees were in favor of designating two dogs as composing a kennel, while others thought three or more should constitute a kennel, and as to the license fee no two seemed to agree on the amount for different sized kennels. After considerable discussion and merriment, the dogs were passed up for another week.

The clerk read the monthly report of the different officers which were placed on file.

WELL KNOWN MAN FOR POSTMASTER

Among those favorably mentioned for the position of postmaster in Glendale is Professor Alton M. Brooks, who is recognized as one of the leaders in the educational and business life of the community.

Professor Brooks has had a training and experience which amply qualifies him for this position if he should receive the appointment. He holds diplomas from both business and Liberal Arts Colleges, and is known as one of the strongest men in the Los Angeles High schools.

While Mr. Brooks has been professionally engaged in educational work he has still found time to do much toward the upbuilding of this community, and has had an active part in many business enterprises, all of which have prospered.

As president of the Los Angeles-Glendale Boulevard Association he has been untiring in his efforts to secure the best return to the citizens in the way of improvements and extensions. At present he is engaged in a winning fight to secure a bridge over the Los Angeles river at Ivanhoe.

For four years he has been president of the Hanford-Sanger Oil company and in this capacity has proved his ability to apply the principles of business efficiency as well as to teach them. Mr. H. E. Woods, secretary of the Hanford-Sanger company, in a statement issued from his office, 514 I. W. Hellman building, says, "Mr. Brooks is industrious and progressive, and can be depended upon in whatever is entrusted to him. As president of the Hanford-Sanger Oil company he has given evidence of good executive and business ability."

Mr. Brooks is in the prime of life. He has a background of technical preparation which has taught him the value of system and accuracy in business, while his educational work has made him acquainted with human nature. He is not seeking this position wholly from personal motives, but looks upon it as a worthy opportunity to serve the community.

We give our best wishes to the many friends who are endeavoring to secure for him this place of honor and responsibility.

Adv E. A. OLMSTEAD.

THURSDAY ATTRACTION

Don't forget to attend the Glendale Garden Society program on Thursday evening, when the bird-house prizes will be given. Professor Alfred Cookman of Long Beach will give a talk on our feathered friends, illustrated with mounted birds. Miss Felice Jung of Los Angeles will render some charming whistling bird solos. This attractive meeting is open to the public, Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Third street school.

PICTURE FOR LIBRARY

A friend of the Glendale library has presented the librarian with a sum of money to be used as the nucleus of a fund with which to purchase a picture to hang above the fireplace in the library. Mrs. Danford is desirous of purchasing something that will be in harmony with the surroundings in every way. No doubt there are many patrons of the library who will be glad to contribute their mites that this hope may be realized soon.

DOLL SALE

The remainder of the dolls sold at the bazaar will be sold Thursday afternoon, December 7, between 2 and 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Menzo Williams, 1325 North Central avenue. Prices 25c to $2. $473

HOW TO KEEP BULBS OVER FOR NEXT YEAR

Every year the housewife unknowingly loses money in her plants. Many people thoughtlessly throw away such plants as the canna and the other lillies, after they have spent one season in the ground.

The commercial grower and the park superintendent know what to do with the cannas and lilies that have graced the garden all summer long. After they wilt and hang down dependently, they take an ordinary spade or fork and dig up the plants.

The dried bulbs are ready for storage. They are taken to storage cellars where they are placed in dark rooms, at an even temperature of about 50 degrees, and laid out loosely on dry shelves, so that they get plenty of air.

COMMERCIAL ROMANCE

"My!" says Mrs. Blokey, in the London Punch. "Ain't the moon lovely glitterin' on the wyves! It does one's heart good to see it!"

"Ah!" replies Mr. Blokey, rising to unwonted romantic heights. "And wouldn't it do one's 'art good to see 'Blokey & Sons Pickles' printed right across it in capital letters, big enough for all the world to read with the naked hi"

And Mr. Blokey isn't the only business man who, if he had his way, would plaster pickle ads on the moon. We have only too many of them in America. And while England has kept her ad-vandals pretty well suppressed, we have given ours full rein. It's made all the worse, too, by the greater enterprise and ingenuity of the American breed.

HIS YULETIDE SCHEME

A New York paper printed a few years ago an amusing letter written by a man who says he has invented a simple plan whereby the prospective sender of gifts may be put in touch with the wants and don't wants of his friends.

He proposes to inclose two lists, one containing the names of articles he does not want, while the other list would have upon it gifts he would like to receive.

CHRISTMAS IN OBERAMMERGAU

In Oberammergau, Germany, a distinctly religious tone is given to Christmas. The Christ Child is the guardian angel of the time. It is he, they say, who brings the Christmas tree. He comes down from heaven on Christmas eve, holding it in his hands.

To the children of Oberammergau St. Nicholas is an angel in disguise. He goes about from house to house in ragged clothes and with a bag on his back. He gives a loud knock at the door and asks, "Are the children good?"

THE WASSAIL BOWL

Wassail, or wassail bowl, is regarded as of such antiquity that it is said to have been known to the ancient Britons. For many centuries it has been a favorite beverage during Christmas festivities, although it was calculated to cause biliousness, if it did not have a more immediate disagreeable effect.

Put in a bowl half a pint of Lisbon sugar; pour on it one pint of warm beer; grate a nutmeg and some ginger into it; add four glasses of sherry and five additional glasses of beer; stir it well; sweeten it to your taste; let it stand covered up two or three hours, then put three or four slices of bread, cut thin and toasted brown, into it, and it is fit for use.

THE AMERICAN THANKSGIVING STORY

Mr. Howells, in one of his essays, compares the history and characteristics of the Thanksgiving and the Christmas story of contemporaneous literature, and hints at a possible combination of the two, seeing that they fall so near together in season. Noting the "moralistic quality" of the American Thanksgiving story, he says: "This was seldom written, at first, for the mere entertainment of the reader; it was meant to entertain him, of course, but it was meant to edify him, too, and to improve him; and some such intention is still present in it."

"The notes are not many which this simple music sounds, but they have a Sabbath tone, mostly, and win the listener to kindlier thoughts and better moods. The art is at its highest in some strong sketch of Mrs. Rose Terry Cooke's, or some perfectly satisfying study of Miss Jewett's or some graphic situation of Miss Wilkins'; and then it is very fine art. But mostly it is poor and rude enough, and makes openly, shamelessly, for the reader's emotions, as well as his morals. It is inclined to be descriptive. The turkey, the pumpkin, the cornfield, figure throughout; and the leafless woods are blue and cold against the evening sky behind the low hip-roofed old-fashioned homestead.

"The Thanksgiving story is mostly confined in scene to the country; it does not seem possible to do much with it in town; and it is a serious question whether with its geographical limitations it can hold its own against the Christmas story, and whether it would not be well for authors to consider a combination with its elder rival.

"The two feasts are so near together in point of time that they could be easily covered by the sentiment of even a brief narrative. Under the agglutinated style of A Thanksgiving-Christmas Story, fiction appropriate to both could be produced, and both could be employed naturally and probably in the transaction of its affairs and the development of its characters."

"Perhaps when our writers really come to the work they will find sufficient inspiration in its novelty to turn to human life and observe how it is really affected on these holidays, and be tempted to present some of its actualities. This would be a great thing to do, and would come home to readers with surprise."

ORIGIN OF A SONG

The grumbling of a negro groom led to the composition of the immortal "Old Folks at Home." While waiting for a change of horses at a Kentucky hostelry the composer, Stephen Foster, author of so many beloved dark melodies, heard a melancholy negro murmur as he threw a set of harness to the ground: "I's sick an' tired o' dis life. I wish I was back wif de ole folks at home."

A BROTHER

By FRANK L. STANTON Just a brother to the breeze, And singing on the way, Where the tresses of the trees Are falling o'er the day; And a brother to the sky, brow-bared beneath the blue, With a feeling that the angels are not higher up than you.

Just a brother to mankind, in mansion and in street, To feel the friendliness of life and hear the world's heart beat! Still toiling on together, and when the goal is won, Resting beneath the smile of God, blest by the work well done. Atlanta Constitution.

A Conshohocken man, who has a hen roost near the railway, was complaining to a friend about having some of his birds killed by passing trains. "You should hang a time table up in the hen house, and then they could look when the trains were booked to come past," said the friend. "Time table!" said the owner. "They know well enough when the ordinary trains will pass. When I've had one killed it has always been a special."

HOLIDAYS IN DANISH ISLANDS

The natives of the Danish islands (West Indies) apparently celebrate the national holidays of all countries with complete impartiality—the Fourth of July in honor of the country that wouldn't adopt them; the fourteenth of July because it is celebrated in Martinique, and it would never do to let the French negroes get ahead of them; the birthday of the King of Denmark, because the islands belong to him; the birthday of the king of England, because the islands once belonged to him; the birthday of the German emperor in honor of the Hamburg-American line, and the birthdays of all the royal families, I presume, as well as many local and impromptu holidays of their own. They also are very scrupulous about observing the Sabbath, at least in its negative aspect.

CHRISTMAS TWO CENTURIES AGO

A writer, who signed himself Thomas North, gives a rather lively picture of English Christmas observances in the reign of George II. "My house, sir," he writes, "is directly opposite a great church, and it was with great pleasure I observed from my window last Christmas day the numerous poor that waited at the doors very liberally relieved, but my joy was soon over, for no sooner were the charitable congregations dispersed but these wretches, who before appeared the very pictures of misery, forgot their cant and fell to quarrelling about the dividend. Oaths and curses flew about them very plentifully, and passion grew so high that they fell hard upon one another's faults. In short, sir, I learned from their own mouths that they were all imposters, both men and women."

WHEN SENDING THE GIFT

The humblest gift goes forth nowadays on its Christmas travels in decorative dress. No one thinks of sending a Christmas package in ordinary wrappings, and each season there are fascinating adornments for the inside and outside of a package.

The ordinary gift has inclosed in it a Christmas card—if the visiting card is used the title is stricken out—with appropriate decoration. Among the new designs is one with a miniature tree at one corner and a steaming plum pudding at the other, connected by a Merry Christmas scroll. For the children is a holly bordered card with Santa Claus filling the stocking before the open grate. In good taste is a green holly wreath tied with a red bow, and for the best girl is a mistletoe card.

SING SING RETROSPECTION

In the Star of Hope, published by convicts in Sing Sing prison, are these reflections:

There never yet was a chance for the man who mixed whisky with good intentions.

Crime is like the fellow who cheats at cards—nobody wants him in the game.

The amount of money that can be made in a life of crime would never pay the interest at one per cent on the sum a man can make by honest endeavor.

A WHISTLER STORY

When Whistler had not yet reached the height of his fame a millionaire called at his studio and wanted his wife's portrait done.

"How much will you charge me, Mr. Whistler," he said, "for a life-size picture of the madam?" "My price," said Whistler, "will be $2,500."

The millionaire took up his hat and stick. "Why," he snorted, turning to go, "you expect to be paid for your work as if you had been dead four or five hundred years!"
