City's Water System To-day Reported Out of Danger

FLAMES SWEEP BELT IN SOOKE HILLS BUT WATER LINE IS SAFE

Victoria Pipe Line Not Threatened, But Fire in Sooke Timber Area Out of Control; Fresh Fighting Crews to go in To-day; Two Outbreaks Yesterday Well in Hand.

By Times Staff Representative

Several hundred acres of timber and brush lands have been burned over by the forest fire raging in the Sooke area. The flames are spreading in a northeasterly direction and, according to the latest reports, the source of Victoria's water supply at Sooke is in no immediate danger.

Over 100 fire fighters were this morning working against tremendous odds in the fire zone and relief parties are being rushed to the districts in the grip of the red menace.

Two fresh outbreaks of fire were reported yesterday. One started near the waterfront at Metchoon, spread rapidly for a quarter of a mile through beach driftwood and ignited the thickly wooded cliff, threatening nearby farm houses.

The second fire broke out at Langford Lake, where only prompt action by the fire-fighters prevented loss of property.

Houses were threatened and furniture was in danger as the flames of the fire reached within a few feet of the dwellings.

In the Malahat district there rages the worst of the three fires. Over 100 men have already been sent to fight back the flames. Men blackened and scorched, wage war against the relentless onslaught of a fireless foe.

The fire creeps ahead, jumps trails, licks across trenches, and wraps the mountain country in flame at night.

GALLANT RANGERS

It is the responsibility of the forest ranger to prevent the spread of fires. It is the duty of the forest ranger to protect the timber of the country. Men spend days and nights on end without sleep in this war against the red menace. There is one chief forest ranger in charge of the district wherein three fires were raging yesterday. He expected that there would be further outbreaks to-day.

In three days and three nights this ranger had had about three hours' sleep. Last night he slept but at all. Besides laying the plans for the fighting of the fires, the ranger must provide food for the gangs of fighters under him, issue instructions to the deputies and wardens, and be answerable for all details, no matter how trivial.

WATER LINE SAFE

Yesterday afternoon smoke hung thick over the hills about Sooke. The flames were climbing a mountain to the south of the trail over which three big tours were being made.

THIRTY KILLED ON HOLIDAY IN BRITAIN

More Than Sixty Persons Injured in Old Country on Monday

London, Aug. 5.—Rarely has a public holiday in this country passed with such a heavy toll of road accidents as the holiday on Monday last, when at least thirty people were killed and over sixty injured.

A London coroner, while disclaiming special sympathy with drivers of motor cars who testified at inquests, said he was forced to come to the conclusion that the pedestrians in the vast majority of the accidents were themselves to blame.

The number of river accidents on the holiday was particularly large. Three young Londoners who attempted to climb down a 400-foot bank at Beachy Head, Sussex, found themselves stranded on the ledge. They had been several hours there when a light housekeeper rescued them. He notified the coastguard, who rescued them.

Italian Exile Visits Canada and the U.S.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Vincenzo Vaccaro, a Socialist member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies for a number of years and now an exile from his native land, arrived in Canada on Monday and was ordered deported a few minutes after reaching Montreal, but he was later released on a temporary basis.

VISITING THIS COAST; HON. W. MOTHERWELL

MOTHERWELL IS HEARD AT EVENT IN NORTH VANCOUVER

Federal Minister of Agriculture Addresses Vancouver Liberals at Picnic

Premier Oliver and Members of British Columbia Cabinet on List of Speakers

Vancouver, Aug. 5.—Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, arrived here this morning and will address a gathering of Liberals at a picnic in North Vancouver this afternoon.

Mr. Motherwell expressed himself as well pleased with crop conditions on the prairies.

As for the outlook for movement of grain by way of this port, he said he considered it good.

There is bound to be a steady increase of the crop movement westward, Mr. Motherwell will be the only Federal Minister at the picnic. Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, was on his way west before Mr. Motherwell started, but his arrival here is not looked for by Liberal leaders till later in the month.

The Minister of Agriculture is accompanied by his daughter and secretary.

Mahon Park, North Vancouver, is the scene of the annual picnic of the Liberal Party. Although the programme was not to begin until 1 o'clock early morning saw the picknickers gathering to avoid the rain.

OLIVER SPEAKS

Besides Mr. Motherwell, Premier Oliver and members of the Provincial Cabinet will address the throng during the afternoon.

FIVE KILLED WHEN BUILDING COLLAPSED

Several Injured in Accident in Kansas City; Building Was Being Remodelled

Kansas City, Aug. 5.—Firemen digging here today in a twisted mass of rubbish and debris recovered two bodies, bringing the total to five persons who lost their lives in the collapse of a three-story brick rooming house yesterday.

Those who lost their lives were Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Holliday; William Banks, negro workman; William Simpson, negro workman; and an unidentified carpenter.

Nearly a dozen persons were injured. The building, owned by Joseph C. Carver, had been leased to John Dunbar, who was having it remodelled into a cabaret. The weakened condition of the walls and supports, due to the alterations, is believed to have caused the two upper floors to collapse.

Crystal Garden Advocates Visualized a Night Like Last Night

Whole World Takes Notice When World's Records Are Smashed

Last night the Crystal Garden supplied a luxury for Victoria she has never previously enjoyed. Over 1,200 people saw the aquatic stars of the world make history and to-day a few thousand newspapers throughout the whole world are telling how it was done in the capital of British Columbia.

When advocates of the Crystal Garden told of the enjoyment Victorians would find under the great crystal roof and the publicity Victoria would receive they must have visualized just such a night. The greatest swimming pool in Canada with the most beautiful water shimmering in its glistening white bed invited world-famous swimmers to come and make records.

THE BIG HEADS

They made them, Johnny Weissmuller of Chicago, clipped three-fifths of a second off the 100-yard record. Conrad Milo, of Chicago, cut four-fifths of a second off the 400-yard backstroke record. That may mean little to those who do not follow the sport pages every day, but several thousand sports editors this morning will be "playing it up in big heads" for the information of a "Great Britain."

LABOR LEADER IS NOW LOSING GROUND

So Says Manchester Guardian About MacDonald and Coal Crisis

People of Britain Now Await Subsidy Debate in Commons

London, Aug. 5 (Canadian Press Cable).—The excitement over the coal crisis of last week has been lulled pending to-morrow's debate in the House of Commons on the terms of settlement which removed the threat of a miners' strike throughout Great Britain.

In the meantime the interest has been shifted to the contemplation of the obviously strained relationship existing between the two great Labor wings, political and industrial. The long smoldering fire has received fresh fuel through the events of the past few days, notably in a speech made by Ramsay MacDonald in which the late Premier spoke of the Baldwin plan as "having increased the power, reputation and prestige of one of those elements which do not believe in political action at all."

SAID COMMUNISTS WON

In other words, Mr. MacDonald's onslaught on the Government was the allegation that the Government had sold itself to communism.

Now the real force behind the miners in their threat to hold up the whole country was the special committee of the Trades Union Congress, the majority of whose members would vigorously object to their rate basis for a temporary period pending the conclusion of satisfactory terms with the Royal Bank.

Premier Greenfield made a statement to this effect in the Legislature of Alberta yesterday afternoon, but that this constituted the only new development in the situation, nothing further having been heard from the bank.

Where B. C. Has New Seaport

Recession of a great glacier has given British Columbia a new seaport at the head of Glacier Bay. The position of the extension of the sea and the place where a town may grow in years to come is indicated by the shaded area on the map above.

When the Alverstone Commission fixed the boundary between Alaska and Canada in 1903, the line north of Glacier Bay ran east and west across a field of ice, the open salt water being miles away. Canada had no direct access to the sea across its own territory north of the most southerly tip of the "Panhandle" of Alaska. Nature has been at work since the commission held its sessions, however, and has presented Canada with a front on the sea not foreseen by Lord Alverstone and his fellow arbitrators.

ENGINEER VIEWS REGION

The news dispatches occasioned by the arrival of J. P. Forde, Victoria district engineer of the Federal Public Works Department, in that region to look over the ground to determine if there is a feasible land route from the harbor into the interior of the Yukon, have not come as a surprise to experts of the Provincial Government geographic service in Victoria. The existence of the channel having been known to those officials, it was stated at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT

The tidewater connection between Northern British Columbia, the Yukon and the open sea is regarded as being of great importance. In view of possible development at the head of the inlet all land around it was reserved by the Provincial Government for possible use for port purposes.

200 STEAMSHIPS SOLD TO FORD

Washington, Aug. 5.—Sale of 200 vessels for scrapping, was awarded to Henry Ford yesterday by the United States Shipping Board. His bid was $1,760,000.

The vote was four to one, with Commissioner Benson, who has opposed sale of the ships for scrapping, casting the negative ballot.

Edmonton, Aug. 5.—Both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific have agreed to amend their offers in respect to operation of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway by undertaking to give the Government a 50 per cent. rate basis for a temporary period pending the conclusion of satisfactory terms with the Royal Bank.

BRITISH HONGKONG LEADERS SUGGEST BLOCKADE OF PORTS OF CHINA TO END DISORDERS

Canton Workers Pass Resolution Declaring Strike More Effective Than Boycott in Fighting "Imperialists"; British Consulate at Wuchow Looted by Band of Chinese.

London, Aug. 5.—A dispatch to The London Daily Mail from Hongkong says a British blockade of Chinese ports is foreshadowed in Hongkong official circles if the anti-British outrages and boycott continue.

Hongkong, Aug. 5.—At a meeting of workers in Canton yesterday a resolution was passed urging a strike as more effective than a boycott "in fighting the imperialists."

"We are certain of victory," the resolution says, "because we have the life of Hongkong in our hands."

CONSULATE LOOTED

Canton, Aug. 5.—Reports received here say the British consulate at Wuchow, 180 miles west of Canton, was looted immediately after the building had been ordered abandoned as a result of the anti-foreign situation.

The situation in Canton is quiet, but the strike of Chinese workers continues. Chu Chao-Wu, the Chinese leader, is seriously ill in a hospital here, and trouble is feared any time between the "Red" and the "Anti-Red" faction of the controlling Chinese military group.

VOLUNTEERS DISBAND

Hongkong, Aug. 5.—The volunteer military unit here, mustered several weeks ago in anticipation of trouble from striking Chinese opposed to foreign activities in China, was completely demobilized to-day.

MINERS URGED BY THEIR LEADERS TO ACCEPT SETTLEMENT

If Nova Scotia Government Proposals Rejected Men's Executive Will Resign

Strikers Are Told by John W. McLeod Terms Are Best Obtainable

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 5.—Resignation of the Executive of District 28 of the United Mine Workers of America is threatened if the striking miners of the district turn down the Provincial Government's proposals for a settlement of the wage dispute in Nova Scotia.

Addressing a mass meeting to-day on the acceptance or rejection of the proposals, John W. McLeod, president of District 28, said that if an adverse vote should be cast, the present executive would resign and a convention of the district would be called to elect officers.

BEST OBTAINABLE

Mr. McLeod stated that in his opinion the latest agreement was the best the miners could get at the present and he believed it should be accepted. The shipping season was well advanced and if there was to be steady work now was the time to take advantage of it.

Referring to the investigation promised by the Nova Scotia Government, he said he believed Premier Rhodes was sincere and quite in sympathy with the miners. He believed the Premier and his colleagues would see to it that the investigation was conducted in a straightforward and thorough manner, and he was convinced the outcome would determine the contention of the miners that the British Empire Steel Corporation could pay the 1924 rates, and probably a little better.

OBJECTION EXPLAINED

Asked why the executive had not accepted the proposal of Premier Armstrong several months ago when the then Premier offered the 1924 scale pending an investigation, Mr. McLeod replied that the objection was the stipulation that any finding by a commission should be binding.

158,000 MEN IN COAL AREA PLAN TO STRIKE

Cessation of Work in Big Pennsylvania Fields Sept. 1 Is Expected

Only Federal or State Influence May Be Able to Prevent Conflict

Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 5.—Suspension of work September 1 by 158,000 anthracite coal miners in the Pennsylvania fields appears certain unless an outside influence, federal or state, brings together the United Mine Workers and anthracite coal operators.

Negotiations for a working contract to replace the one which will expire August 31 were broken off here last night. The conference of miners and operators' representatives, which had been in session since July 9, ended unanimously to adjourn sine die.

The miners found a grievance in the announced refusal of the operators to entertain any wage demand on the part of the men which would increase the production cost of hard coal so much as one cent.

The miners said this was the "key" to the operators' position and that they found it automatically debarring chance of agreement.

Repeated Presentation of Resignation Refused

Resents Interference by Member For Saanich

Shedding new light upon the distressed conditions existing within the Conservative Party organization in Saanich, J. H. Tait, secretary of the Saanich Conservative Association for the past year, states that he had not relinquished his office, and reports to that effect, emanating from William Stubbs, now president of the Association, are incorrect.

Mr. Tait declares that repeated presentations of his resignation have been refused by the executive committee; he therefore considers himself still vested with office.

Interference by Hon. T. G. Covert, M.P. for Saanich, in the internal affairs of the Saanich Conservative Association, is charged by Mr. Tait, who sets out his views in the following statement:

RESIGNATION REFUSED

"It is now time for me to eliminate some of the misunderstanding regarding my resignation as secretary of the Saanich Liberal-Conservative Association." (Concluded on page 2)

BIG VICTORIA CONTINGENT TO GO TO HARVEST

Between 300 and 400 Local Men Expected to Join Prairie Trek

Movement of Harvesters Eastward Will Get Under Way on Saturday

Between 300 and 400 men will leave Victoria for the Fall harvest on the prairies in the next few weeks, according to estimates made by the Department of Labor here to-day.

Men who intend to join the harvest trek should apply immediately to the Labor Bureau here. The movement eastward will start on Saturday, when law fares for harvesters go into effect on all railway lines. The date on which law fares will become effective was advanced yesterday from August 12 to August 8, because the prairie crop has matured much more rapidly than had been anticipated. The low rates will remain in effect until the end of August for harvesters moving eastward.

All men who go from British Columbia to work in the harvest fields their return trip later in the Fall if they have actually engaged in harvest work.

Reports from the prairies received here yesterday indicate that the harvest will require every man that Canada can muster for the biggest national job of the year. Nearly 70,000 workers will be used to gather in the bumper grain crop, it is believed.

FRENCH DECLARE MOROCCAN PEACE TERMS PROPAGANDA

Say Published Account of French-Spanish Proposals Came From Rifians

Believe Abd-el-Krim Trying to Gain Sympathy of French Socialists

Paris, Aug. 5.—The Foreign Office to-day denied the authenticity of an account published in Paris this morning of peace terms alleged to have been offered to Abd-el-Krim, the rebel Moroccan chieftain, by France and Spain. The alleged terms included administrative autonomy for the Rif and Abd-el-Krim's recognition of the spiritual authority of the Sultan of Morocco, and purported to set boundaries for the Rif.

FROM ABD-EL-KRIM

In official circles the account published is attributed to the "Rifian leader" himself. Officials said the alleged terms are correct as regards an offer of autonomy to the Rifians, but the frontiers outlined in the account as well as conditions regarding the Rif army are declared to be either imaginary or propaganda.

CHILLIWACK LIQUOR STORE WAS ROBBED

Chilliwack, Aug. 5.—Some time after 2 o'clock this morning thieves forced an entrance through the front door of the Government liquor store here and carried off case goods to the value of $1,500.

Marks left by the thieves indicate a small truck was backed up to the rear door and the liquor loaded into it.

So far no clue to the identity of the thieves has been obtained.

NEW ECONOMY PLANS IN NOVA SCOTIA

Rhodes Government Does Away With Commission Controlling Liquor Sales

Halifax, Aug. 5.—W. R. Wakeley, chairman of the Nova Scotia Board of Liquor Commissioners, C. P. Wood and A. Proudfoot, commissioners, have been advised their services will no longer be required as the commission is to be abolished in the interests of financial retrenchment being undertaken by the Rhodes Government.

The liquor commission officials will be retired by Order-in-Council, but an intimation of their fate was given personally by Premier Rhodes.

The officers received salaries of $5,000 for the chairman and $3,000 each for the commissioners.

BELLOWING BULL DASHES DOWN ROAD

Montreal, Aug. 5.—A large and vicious bull broke away from a herd at the eastern stockyards this afternoon and escaped into the street, down which it rushed bellowing. Frantic mothers snatched up their children, automobiles were swerved in another direction, pedestrians fled and a veritable reign of terror ensued until the maddened animal was finally subdued by constables. The first five shots entered his head, but failed to stop him and only served to increase his rage.

However, he fell dead before doing any damage.

MAN WAS DROWNED

FOREST FIRE LOSSES IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

Paris, Aug. 5.—Every Summer the south of France has the same sad tale to tell of blazing forests and hamlets threatened by fire. The forests of Lavandou and Hyeres particularly have suffered severely in the past few days and oak have been burned. The damage is estimated at 1,500,000 francs. A young man eighteen years of age has been arrested on suspicion of having started the forest fire.

aid included professions, doubtless entirely sincere, that he entertained complete sympathy with the miners in resisting the proposals of the mine owners. The Manchester Guardian says political labor, as represented by Premier MacDonald, "views with chief concern the concentration of such enormous power over the life of the nation in a special committee of the Trades Union Congress. Meanwhile the spectacle is presented of a parliamentary labor party, namely Ramsay MacDonald's own nominal following, sending to the Trades Union Congress a resolution appreciative of the "magnificent solidarity shown in the acts of all sections of the labor movement in support of the legitimate claim of the miners to a living wage" and pressing the determination of the Parliamentary Labor Party to stand by the Miners' Federation.

London, Aug. 5.—The Government has issued a white paper explaining the terms of the settlement. It is estimated $10,000,000 will be necessary to carry on the plan of substitution to the collieries which the Government has undertaken.

ing cars, loaded until their axles jarred with every jolt, rushed towards the fire, which had now spread to the Echo Hill, at the bottom of Sooke Lake. The dust was a foot deep on the trail, and trees and underbrush hemmed the cars. But the drivers raced on. The line of flames continued to climb the mountain. But they were held in check. Big tally-hos had taken the fire-fighters as far as the roads were passable.

It is reported in Government circles the Government will make its request for funds for the substitution plan in the House of Commons to-morrow.

It is further pointed out by the Foreign Office that Abd-el-Krim's manoeuvres have already provoked a statement from Rome that Italy is closely watching developments with a view to presenting a new peace proposal if the ally demanding compensation for the status of Morocco as fixed by the Algeiras conference of 1906 is modified.

The recession of a glacier which formerly filled the channel leading into Northwestern British Columbia created about ninety miles of new tidewater, it was explained by experts who have studied the question. The glacier must have worked backward with amazing speed.

ALL GLACIERS CHANGING

The recession of that particular glacier is part of a general movement noted in all the glaciers along the northern coast. Everywhere the ice is moving backwards, apparently as part of the age-long recession which started after a great part of the Northern Hemisphere had been covered by ice before the dawn of history. At many points this glacial movement has caused fresh ice into the sea. The inlet of the sea into Northwestern British Columbia is the most notable of the changes created by the retreat of the ice barriers.

The exotic plants and flowers, the miniature gardens, the fashionable promenades with the popular forms of entertainment in the ideal setting for any kind of function, appealing to everyone's sense of beauty and idealism and transporting the crowd from reality to fairyland. There was no crowding. As a test of seating accommodation it proved perfect. With the seats arranged in rows, a view of everything going on was possible for all the spectators. They saw the races with ease. They saw the world records made. They saw the water comedians go through their side-splitting antics and the Crystal Garden was a lot of friends in the city and invaluable publicity outside the city.

JUST A SCARECROW

PREMIER KING SAYS Canada is content to stay in "the community of free nations," as King George describes the British Empire.

OFF THE MARK

THE MORNING PAPER says Colonel Obed Smith—whom it describes as Canada's Immigration Commissioner in Europe, apparently unaware that he retired from the service nearly a year ago—deplores the fact that this country has failed to benefit as it ought under the provisions of the Empire Settlement Act.

FOREST FIRES

IT LOOKS AS IF THE SUMMER season of 1925 will surpass all previous forest fire records in British Columbia. The continued dry-weather, accompanied by intense heat in many of the timbered areas, has completely parched all forms of vegetation and generally created an extremely hazardous situation.

Reports reaching the Forest Branch of the Department of Lands relate grim battles between large crews of fire fighters and configurations which in some cases extend for many miles. The success achieved with the equipment at their disposal has been nothing short of remarkable; but the time undoubtedly has arrived to reconsider the present methods of dealing with the annual outbreaks in the forests of the Province.

automobiles furnishes the means of transportation—is constantly in motion, and such enormous property values are dissipated, that the Legislature should discuss the feasibility of organizing an effective patrol from the air to work in conjunction with the ground forces.

It will not be contended that fires may be extinguished from an aeroplane in flight. But it has been proved in other parts of this country that an aerial patrol enables prompt detection, long before a blaze has assumed serious proportions, with the result that the employment of chemicals carried in the machine is all that is necessary to put out some of the smaller outbreaks.

The importance of using the most modern methods on a more extensive scale will be better understood when it is realized that during the last six years the amount of damage to standing timber and other forms of property in this Province from forest fires alone exceeds $6,000,000, while the cost of fire fighting and maintaining the patrol for the same period totals close upon $3,000,000.

These matters of schedule and cost are detail. The point for the Legislature to discuss is the desirability of augmenting the ground service. When the Minister of Lands advocated it some years ago the Conservative Opposition, noting the fate which befel the first machine to experiment in aerial fire patrol in British Columbia, treated the matter as if it were a prize joke—and ever since has pretended to be very disturbed over our logs and their destination.

TOURING TEACHERS DURING THIS MONTH two parties of school teachers from Great Britain will cross Canada and visit Victoria before returning to their native land. Their itinerary will enable them to spend a day or so at several points on the way out and back, while every possible arrangement is being made to facilitate their movement among the people.

This is an excellent plan. Canadian teachers have visited Europe and have returned with new ideas and more accurate conceptions of other peoples. The members of the two parties who will cross Canada will learn more about this Dominion in a month than they could ever hope to learn from the most extensive library in existence. Now, more than ever before, it is essential that the people of the various parts of the British Empire, particularly those who train the youth of the Commonwealth, thoroughly understand one another and one another's problems.

This interchange of visits is the best way to bring about a better understanding. Supposedly obscure problems, issues which stir the members of discord when their significance to this or that member of the family is not appreciated, become clear and the understanding which follows is of mutual assistance. Nor should it be forgotten that a more lasting impression can be made in the classroom than in the public meeting place or on the floor of Parliament. Here is the value of a teachers' tour of the Empire.

THE OLD WORLD CAN TEACH OUR NEIGHBOR SOMETHING IN THE YEAR 1875 THERE were 10,000 persons undergoing penal servitude in Great Britain. At the present time, in spite of an increase in population of something like 15,000,000, only 1,600 are serving penal sentences, while to this total may be added 1,100 young people undergoing correctional treatment. These statistics furnish a striking commentary upon the fair and fearless manner in which justice is administered in the Old Country.

In contrast with conditions in the British Isles is the desperate effort which the authorities in New York are making to bring home to its cosmopolitan population the utility and failure of crime. Advertisements are being resorted to to inform the would-be malefactor that he is bound to lose in the end. Lurid pictures enable the weakling to visualize his ultimate fate.

Preaching uprightiness by means of the billboard is a novel idea; but, then, this is the age of novelty and there is no reason why, remembering war time's advertisements for volunteers and loan subscriptions, the Golden Rule should not be so popularized. Meanwhile there is at least the evidence that the Old World can still teach our neighbor something.

WHEN FREIGHT TRAIN LEFT RAILS—Several freight cars and a switch signal tower were turned upside down, but no one was hurt, when a Pennsylvania railroad train was derailed and struck the tower near Pittsburg. The towerman fell with the tower but escaped injury, and a switch repairman jumped thirty feet into a creek when the cars came his way.

ARCTIC PLANES ARE PREPARED FOR WORK

MacMillan Expedition Aviators Make Successful Tests at Etah, Greenland

Washington, Aug. 5.—Safely established at its base at Etah, Greenland, the MacMillan Arctic expedition is making rapid progress in its plans for exploring by air the unknown regions of the North.

Messages filed from the expedition yesterday, confirming the launching of the third naval aeroplane and giving other details, were received last night by the National Geographic Society here. One, signed by Lieut.-Commander MacMillan, was relayed by Arthur A. Collins, an amateur operator at Cedar Rapids, Ia., said: "All planes assembled and two are in the water, moored at Etah. Conditions are fine for flying. There is no wind, a glassy sea, very little drift ice and a rising temperature. It was forty Fahrenheit yesterday. In a successful test flight yesterday, the NA-1, piloted by Lieut. Schur, and the NA-2, piloted by Lieut. Reber, had Commander Byrd and myself as passengers.

STUDY ICE CONDITIONS "We will leave for a village twenty miles to the North within a few hours to test compasses, study ice conditions in Smith Sound and supply Eskimo women with skins out of which to make clothing for the aviators. "Our third plane was launched from the beach to-night. "Both the Peary and Bowdoin men in fine condition," said Lieut. Schur, and the NA-2, piloted by Lieut. Reber, had Commander Byrd and myself as passengers. "A second message from Maynard Owen Williams of the National Geographic Society staff, relayed from Greybull, Wyo., said: "The NA-2, piloted by Schur, with Commander MacMillan aboard, hopped off at 8:55 yesterday evening and landed at 1:20 after a flight among the little auks of the cliff between Etah Harbor and the Greenland ice cap. Commander MacMillan, who introduced electric lights, telephones and motion pictures and radio to the Eskimos, aroused wonder about Smith Sound when his yellow-backed bird with the red, white and blue tail roared into the air."

Anthropologist Here To Start Research Work on B.C. Indians

Dr. John M. Cooper, noted sociologist and anthropologist of the Catholic University, Washington, D.C., is in Victoria to-day on his way north to spend a month on an anthropological study of some of the British Columbia Indian tribes. Dr. Cooper has been doing considerable research work on the Indians in the East, and this is the first time he has taken up the Western Indians. "The work I have come out to undertake here this summer is purely on my own account," Dr. Cooper explained. "On this trip I am not acting officially for the University or the United States Government. I have come out to get my introduction to the field where Dr. Haxel Smith, of Ottawa and other scientists have done so much interesting work. I do not know that I shall even publish the results of my investigations in British Columbia this time. "While in Victoria I have taken advantage of the opportunity to discuss Indian anthropology matters with Mr. Kermod, of your British Columbia Government staff. I am going north to go inland by way of Prince Rupert."

He said he would likely do some field work on the Patsimish Indians on the Skeena River.

West Coast of Vancouver Island Offers Fine Opportunity to Victoria

TIMBER, known to be the finest on the North American continent, agricultural land not excelled on the Island, fisheries richer than those on the North Coast and minerals yet hardly touched, the normal and practical development of which should be directed through Victoria, are situated on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. On the West Coast lies opportunity for Victoria.

Victoria has adjacent to it a territory far more valuable than a corresponding area on the East Coast. It is up to Victoria to reach out and utilize it. This in substance is the argument which Claude L. Harrison makes in the first of a series of articles for The Times on the West Coast of Vancouver Island. In his first article Mr. Harrison touches upon the need of the West Coast road. In subsequent articles he will deal with other features of the West Coast. Mr. Harrison says:

"The location of Victoria was determined before the rest of the country was known; before the mainland was developed and long before the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway to the Pacific Coast.

FROM TRADING POINT

"Victoria's site was selected by the Hudson's Bay Company because it was the most convenient point when the chief port available was the sail-driven vessel. That trade was into London and the ports of Europe. It was impossible to trade into British Columbia from the Atlantic, and, therefore, for the purposes of the Hudson's Bay Company, Victoria, from a trading point of view, and according to the motive power of that day, was the ideal location.

"Victoria, therefore, was the most important city in British Columbia and North of San Francisco for a great many years. As transcontinental roads were built and the sailing ship gave way to the steam vessel they caused changes in the trade routes. Vancouver, from its location, grew to be a city. Nanaimo sprang up from its coal; Prince Rupert from its great fisheries. Victoria grew but slowly; it had not the transcontinental railroad and the only resources developed adjacent to Victoria were so situated that, as a matter of practical development and trade, the mainland of British Columbia reaped a greater benefit than the City of Victoria.

"If we stopped at this point there would be nothing further to be said. Victoria would grow, but slowly.

"We look around, however, and we find that Victoria has adjacent to it a territory far more valuable than a corresponding area on the East Coast of Vancouver Island if we will only reach out and utilize it.

WAS NEGLECTED

"This area, the 'West Coast,' was neglected and over-shadowed by development of the E. and N. Railway belt, vested in private hands in consideration of the E. and N. Railway being constructed. Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway naturally would sell its wares, its lands, its timber and its mines.

"The West Coast received no advantage from the E. and N. Railway, because it was not practical to develop the area in conjunction with the railroad grant.

"We are now awake to the situation that, immediately adjacent to Victoria, there is a vast area so situated that its normal and practical development should be directed through Victoria.

"Let us consider where this area is and how easy it is of access, and what there is within its area.

"The Alberni Canal is the practical northern limit. A canal of some forty miles in length almost dividing Vancouver Island in half. The Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway land grant means the canal, within seven or eight miles of its head and thence, follows the West Coast, within to Muir Creek, about twenty miles from Victoria.

PACHENA POINT STATION ON WEST COAST

Territory Far More Valuable Than That of East Coast Ready For Capital City to Reach Out and Utilize Says Claude L. Harrison in Telling of Country's Wealth in Fisheries and Minerals

—Will Take Chamber of Commerce Party on West Coast Tour Next Month.

YET UNTOUCHED

"In this area, at present untouched, lie natural resources of the greatest value ready for development. The timber is known to be the finest area of timber on the North American Continent. An illustration of this is that one tract of 5,500 acres over 265,000,000 feet of timber are to be had, according to an accurate cruise recently made of this particular timber limit. The land available for agriculture between Banfield Creek to the vicinity of Pachena is larger than the agricultural part of Saanich, of which we have heard so much. In addition to this, at the port of San Juan there is a vast area of agricultural land ready for development into farms. The fisheries adjacent to the West Coast far exceed the fisheries lying North of Vancouver Island. The bank lying off the West Coast is known as the Swift-shire Bank. It is rich in halibut and cod of a deep-sea variety. Owing to the fact of transportation there is a great wastage in cod, owing to the fact that the cod are not packed well, and being a cheaper fish, those fishing the bank prefer to throw them away rather than occupy the limited space on their fishing vessels, which is usually kept for the more valuable fish—the halibut and the salmon. Extraordinary as this may seem, it is a fact that codfish can be seen in thousands floating on the waters of the Swift-shire Bank. They are perfectly good food, but they are being thrown away in order that the more valuable pack may be brought to the centres of population. Should the West Coast be developed by a good road, a rapid means of transportation would then be available and the wastage on the Swift-shire Bank would be reduced to a minimum, and the codfish which are now thrown away could be brought into the cities and utilized.

MINERALS

"The minerals in the West Coast area have been hardly touched owing to the lack of transportation. Mr. Brewer of Nanaimo, the well-known Government expert on mines, in a lecture he recently laid great stress on the minerals of the West Coast area. He told his audience of the Sun Loch mine which lies within a mile and a half of the end of the road from Victoria to the Jordan River, explaining the great value of this claim, it being estimated that the Sun Loch mine is the greatest copper claim in British Columbia, with the possible exception of the Anlochs. Mr. Brewer explained to his audience that the mountain ranges of the West Coast area and directly adjacent to the Coast, were very valuable in mineral, and if it was possible for the prospector to enter this field he would find some of the most valuable mines on the Island. In addition to the copper it is well known that coal is to be found as well as silver.

"This great rich area, in which there is now a standard population of approximately 600 people, would be entirely shut off from the world if it were not for a certain amount of communication from the sea.

"The communication from the sea can only be had at certain points, owing to the rugged nature of the Coast and the sweep of the Pacific.

"The sweep of the Pacific, however, has added another feature to the West Coast. It gives it its place in the sun from the tourist and pleasure standpoint. It has created sandy beaches far larger and finer than those on the East Coast of Vancouver Island, and it will allow the tourist and pleasure-seeker a view of the North Pacific with its great sweeping waves and wonderful sunsets.

THE WEST COAST ROAD

"It has often been said that to build a road is impracticable along the James Oliver Curwood, who for some years has been writing action stories about the Far North where men are men, is now writing "The Black Hunter," which is to be the first in a series of historical novels dealing with the struggle between France and England for the possession of Canada. Mr. Curwood, who is an American, has been engaged for some years in reading our history. He has recently stated that his historical novels will not be written around great figures. His heroes and heroines will be sufficiently imaginary to give him scope for his dramatic instinct.

Mr. Curwood is at present enjoying a holiday in Europe. While in England recently, he was the guest of honor at a literary luncheon at the Savoy Hotel, London. Among the many writers present were the three famous romantics, Mr. John Galsworthy, Mr. Rafael Sabatini and Mr. Jeffrey Farnol. Mr. Lloyd George sat near Mr. Curwood and, according to The Daily Graphic, they indulged in the following dialogue: "When do you and time read?" asked Mr. Curwood of Mr. Lloyd George. "I should have thought you were far too taken up with politics," Mr. Lloyd George replied by paying Curwood a great compliment. He said that his Northwest Mounted Police novels kept him going during the war. "The only time I can read is when I go to bed," Lloyd George confessed. "I read in bed every night before I go to sleep." At the end of the luncheon Mr. Lloyd George proposed to go to stay with Curwood in his shack in the Canadian forest, and declared he would love life in a wood cabin after the hurly-burly of London.

"Far Horizons" is the title of a new volume of poems by Bliss Carman to be published this fall. Dr. Carman will spend next Autumn and Winter in visiting leading Canadian universities. He will spend from three weeks to a month at each institution and will deliver lectures on the interpretation of poetry. He will also hold conferences with students on literary themes.

An American poet who has done a good deal of this kind of work in colleges and universities across the line is Mr. Vachel Lindsay, who made a lecture trip to Western Canada three years ago. Mr. Lindsay was married a month or so ago, on the same day that his collected poems appeared in an edition illustrated by himself. After a very short courtship, this well-known free verse poet married Miss Elizabeth Conner, the daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman of Spokane. Many of Lindsay's poems are songs of vagabondage, for he is a great lover of the open road. After the wedding ceremony he and his bride set out on a long honeymoon hike. On their return to civilization they will make their home in Spokane.

This year marks the four hundredth anniversary of the publication of the William Tyndale's epoch-making translation of the New Testament into English. It is fitting, therefore, that at this time there should appear a new edition of the English Bible, one of the most recent translators of the New Testament into English, a book about William Tyndale and the long succession of earnest scholars who followed him, seeking to put the New Testament into an appealing English form. The new edition of the English Bible, published by Macmillan, begins with Tyndale and proceeds through the long series of translators; and it is a splendid example of the translators' efforts through the years to accomplish what Tyndale sought when he said that he "perceived by experience how it was impossible to establish the lay people in any truth except the Scripture were playfully layde before their eyes in their mother tongue."

The Chinese of China know nothing about chop suey, according to Thomas Steep, author of "Chinese Fantasia," a book of quaint and odd facts about the ancient empire. Mr. Steep's account of how chop suey came into being is interesting and it may be true. Who knows? Anyway, he knows that chop suey is not cooked or eaten in China. Once a party of Americans called on Li Hung Chang, the remarkable and amiable old Chinese diplomat who was then in Washington, and they were eager to try a Chinese dish of some kind. Li Hung Chang had thrown together from materials on hand something that looked strange and tasted the same. The impromptu concoction was chop suey, and it was so popular that the cook was asked for the recipe, which being broadcast became so popular that all Chinese cooks in America learned how to make it.

Rev. W. J. Dawson, D.D., author, critic and preacher, is spending the Summer on his ranch at Willow Point, B.C. He has come to the conclusion, however, that the best place in which to write is one without too much attractiveness. The mind then creates the beauty which the eye does not see. Perhaps this is why he says, so many good books have been written in prisons. Apropos of the discussions in the Christian world, Dr. Dawson relates the story of a service where perfect unity prevailed. It was held on Lake Galilee on the shores of which Dr. Dawson was living while he gathered material for his book, "The Man of Sorrows." "We rowed out about half a mile from the shore, accompanied by several other boats, and I read aloud the last chapters of St. John's Gospel. A Presbyterian minister prayed; we sang 'Jesus Calls Us Over the Tumult of Our Life's Wild, Restless Sea'—a Roman Catholic priest, who was my companion in the Holy Land, pronounced the benediction. Here was a real union of the churches. We agreed in everything but our opinions. It is opinions which always divide men. It is faith which unites them."

WHERE THE GREAT COMMONER WILL HAVE ETERNAL PEACE—High up on Dewey Knoll in Arlington National Cemetery, among the bodies of those heroes who fought in the Spanish-American War, the coffin of the crusader, William Jennings Bryan, was lowered to its final resting place. This section of the cemetery embodies that spirit which dwelt with the commoner all through his life, purity and simplicity. In the foreground is the mausoleum where the body of Admiral Dewey lay until it was removed recently to the National Cathedral. To the right in the far background the Arlington Amphitheater can be seen.

MOVIE SCREEN IS AIM OF THOUSANDS BUT FEW CHOSEN

150,000 Registered With Agencies on Coast in Eight Years

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 5.—Varied types are included in the many thousands of men, women and youths who come here each year seeking careers in the motion picture. Few ever reach stardom. Estimates compiled recently revealed that since 1917 more than 150,000 persons registered with screen employment agencies on the Pacific coast. To-day the list of those steadily employed numbers little more than 15,000. Therefore, some 135,000 failed to find a footing on the stepping-stone to cinemaland. Statistics obtained from film labor bureaus here and in Los Angeles show that 300 bald-headed men, whose principal bid for screen fame is their lack of hair, and 100 one-legged men, who believe that they should be in the pictures because they have but one limb, are registered. On the files of these agencies also are listed ten cross-eyed men, fifty athletes, 200 professional and non-professional gamblers, twelve midgets, glass eaters and sword swallowers.

So great is the desire of persons to get into the pictures that in an hour's time counterparts of all famous men of the past, even cowboys to stage a rodeo or sailors sufficient to man a ship can be brought together. In a day's time 5,000 persons for a mob scene or 1,200 women for a ballroom can be assembled. They bring their own costumes.

The wage scale at a majority of the studios is similar. Extras for mob scenes, who are taken irrespective of age, size or nationality, receive an average of $3 a day. Hand picked extras of approximately the same size, similar features and color of eyes are paid $5. Character extras, those who are "camera wise" including winsome misses and young men who possess complete wardrobes, are paid $7.50 a day. Young women in afternoon and evening gowns, capable of giving proper "at-

Coast, and yet if we only knew it the route and cost of this road have been definitely established. We do not need to argue about the possibility of such a road, because we already have it in black and white. To continue the present road at its terminus at Jordan River to Port San Juan, following the Coast line—according to an accurate survey, the details of which are now in the hands of the Provincial Government, and Messrs. Opre & McGregor, by an independent survey, including a right of way clear of sixty-six feet with a road bed of good standard width—would cost only a trifle over $348,000.

"The section beyond Port San Juan to Banfield is a much cheaper and easier piece of work, so that the total road construction necessary right to Banfield Creek at the mouth of the Alberni Canal will cost about half a million dollars, opening up to the people of Victoria the vast area of wealth, developing those valuable areas at Port San Juan, Pachena and Banfield, and rendering justice to those people in such areas who have bought in good faith and worked hard to maintain their homes and farms for a great many years."

This report will include in its recommendations one that the Government take over the management and operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway. "The report, it is understood, will also recommend that Sir Henry Thornton be appointed joint general manager with Edward W. Beatty, present head of the Canadian Pacific.

Eminent Psycho Analyst Is Dead

Dr. Joseph Breuer Passed Away Recently at Age of Eighty-three

Vienna, Aug. 5.—Dr. Joseph Breuer, one of the most widely noted of psychoanalysts, died recently at the age of eighty-three. As early as 1882 he was credited with curing with the aid of hypnosis a pronounced case of hysteria in a woman. It was this epoch making cure which is said to have led Dr. Sigmund Freud, fourteen years younger than Dr. Breuer, to build up a psycho-analytic system of his own. Subsequently, both scientists collaborated in setting down their experience on this subject in a book called "The Psychic Mechanism of Hysterical Problems," published in 1892, and in a later publication, "Hysteria."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggly Washes the Porch

Copyright, 1925, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. (By Howard R. Garis)

When Uncle Wiggly awakened in his hollow stump bungalow one hot morning he saw a letter on his bureau, propped up between two of his solar buttons. "Oh, ho!" laughed the bunny rabbit gentleman to himself as he hoped out of bed. "The post bird was flying around early this morning to have left mail for me so soon—even before breakfast."

"Dear Wiggly—I got up early and with Nurse Jane I am taking the children down to the eleven and twelve cent store to get them some new shoes. School will be opening in a few weeks now, and I must begin early. So we started off without waking you. Please take the hose and wash the front porch. Then it will be clean and cool for us when we get back."

"So that's why the bungalow is so still and quiet," murmured Uncle Wiggly as he listened with both ears but heard no sound. "Scout and I

"Oh, excuse me!" exclaimed the bunny gentleman. Tooter, Skipper and Nipper, Jinle and Jangle and all the forty little bunnies are away with their mother and Nurse Jane. My! My! But it will take a lot of shoes for all my little bunnies. However, that isn't washing the porch, which I must do to please my wife.

After breakfast, which he found all ready for him on the table, Mr. Macnears dragged the hose around from the side yard and began squirting water on the porch.

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

Although this may be treated as a successful day for business and all workaday propositions, with opportunity for substantial gain and progress in these, yet an adverse figure may cause trouble in domestic and personal associations. With Mercury and Venus afflicted by Luna and Mars in aspect with Saturn, annoyances and grievances of diverse natures are presaged. The trine of the moon to Saturn, however, sustained by a friendly Jupiter, may be productive of much permanent good fortune.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a successful and prosperous year in their business undertakings, but may meet sorrow or trouble in domestic or affectional affairs. It might be well to be discreet in all writings under an adverse figure. A child born on this day will need the most careful training and discipline in the matter of truth and honor. It should be persevering, industrious and succeeded to a fair degree.

ON THE BEACH—Give credit to the flapper for always starting some new fad. Instead of warding off the blissing sun and the sharp ocean breezes with the customary sweater or beach robe Miss Jeanette Sunthamer turns out wearing a gymnasium sweat shirt that is very cleverly painted in waterproof colors.

Girl Guides of Victoria district who are in camp at Milne's Landing, Sooke, yesterday received a visit from the Provincial commissioner, Mrs. W. C. Nichol, who, after inspecting the Guides spoke highly of their smart appearance and hoped the resourcefulness and good fellowship learned in camp life would be as greatly beneficial in building up their characters as were the fresh air and freedom in building up their health.

Mrs. Nichol was accompanied by Deputy Commissioner Miss Mara and District Commissioner Mrs. Helen Gillespie. Other visitors present were Mrs. Stewart Williams, Miss Urwin and Miss Wigley representing the local association, and representatives of the various chapters of the O.C.E. Besides sleeping huts and officers' quarters, there is a canteen, where the menu drawn up for the camping period, which showed a wholesome variety of good plain food. The Red Cross tent where a trained nurse is constantly in attendance, testifies to the care which is taken of the health of the girls. The sanitary arrangements leave nothing to be desired.

One hundred and twenty-five chubby babies were entered in the Conservative Association's big baby show held in the Conservative rooms, Campbell Building, yesterday. THE ASTER SHADE

There is a deep rich purple that is well called aster, because it follows that shares with golden rod the task of painting the fields and road sides in Autumn. Forgive me if you may not like to see it worn on the bright sunshine in city streets in the summer. You may not consider it an ideal shade for the work-a-day frock of your husband or your debutant daughter announces your intention of wearing a sport frock of this almost effulgent shade of purple. It is both smart and popular.

ALBERTA DISCUSS TEN OCEAN-GOING CRAFT

Neither C.P.R. Nor C.N.R. Offer to Operate E.D. and B.C. System Accepted

Outlet For Peace River District Mentioned During Session of Legislature

Edmonton, Aug. 5.—Plans for the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway involving a route to a railway outlet for the Peace River district, were before the Legislature of Alberta yesterday afternoon.

CHIEF DIFFICULTY

The fact that the Royal Bank holders of debenture stock in the Columbia Railway and the Government of Alberta have refused to transfer to the Alberta Government $2,000,000, payable in instalments over seven years at three per cent interest, would not consent to a further lease of the railway for a period of five years and had demanded the settlement of its claim, proved the stumbling block to the Alberta Government.

Premier Greenfield told the House the Government did not feel it should recommend payment of the sum asked for the securities offered by the bank and until some more satisfactory arrangement could be made with the bank, the Government must reserve its decision as to whether it would take action on either of the two offers received from the railway companies.

OFFER OF C.P.R.

Details of the C.P.R. offer were: 1. To continue operation of the road for from five to ten years, the Premier's objection that ten years would be too long as Mr. Beatty offered seven years as a compromise.

2. The C.P.R. would put into effect prairie rates for passengers and freight and the same rates on Monday and Wednesday as in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

3. In addition the C.P.R. would pay the Government of Alberta $50,000 previously offered.

All interest charges as well as capital expenditures of the railway and the cost of any additional mileage would be assumed by the Alberta Government.

In the event of a competing line being constructed through any of the passes to the Pacific Coast, to a point of connection with the C.N.R. or elsewhere, the C.P.R. would be allowed to terminate the agreement on giving six months' notice.

The offer of the Canadian National Railway made by Sir Henry St. John, provided for a twenty-five-year lease at a nominal charge of $1 a year, the Alberta Government to pay all existing taxes on the railway.

The Canadian National Railway would make at its own expense any capital improvements necessary to the railway.

In addition to the dollar a year rental, the Canadian National Railway would pay one-half of the Alberta Government.

The Canadian National Railway offered to put the prairie rates into effect at once.

As far as the Coast outlet was concerned, Sir Henry stood by his offer to construct it where the Peace River reached 10,000,000 bushels yearly for three successive years.

The question of land grants would be considered at that time.

His concluding paragraph was to the effect that the Canadian National Railway was willing to enter into a joint operating agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

has been disapproved by a committee of engineers representing both the railway companies—are being further explored, investigated and considered, we are prepared to install the prairie scale of rates, which would be nearly all geographical disabilities.

"We invite the citizens of Alberta to consider it is not advisable to accept a proposition which cannot possibly be solved by propaganda but by reason. The Canadian Pacific asks only that it offer to continue operating the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway be examined in an atmosphere devoid of prejudice and in the light of the present future advantage of the great territory to be served.

WESTERN OUTLET
The Canadian Pacific is not now and has not been opposed to a Western outlet for the Peace River district, if within our connection with the North Country, we are prepared to say now, without further qualification or reserve, that if and when it becomes commercially feasible we shall build that outlet. My personal opinion is that to enable the whole district, including the portion in British Columbia, to attain its maximum development, the permanent solution should take the form of a line from Grande Prairie through the Pine River Pass or the Peace River Pass, with a low grade crossing of the Peace to connect with the territory north of that river on to the Peace River and thence to Ashcroft or Lytton.

COLONIZATION WORK
It is true the development of the Peace River district during the five years has not kept pace with the expectation of its friends, but this condition is not peculiar to this district but is general in the West. Western Canada is concerned. If our lease is renewed we are prepared to place at the disposal of the district unreservedly the services of our colonization agency in the world. During the past forty years the Canadian Pacific has expended over $68,000,000 in colonization work, and in the development of Western Canada as all other interests and agencies combined, and our activities have been confined to the Peace River district where the company had land holdings, but have been general in their application and effect.

BOAT-HOUSE OR HOUSE-BOAT?—The McCobb mansion built in 1806 is being carried intact from its original site at Phippsburg, Me., to Rockport, eighty-five miles down the river. This shows the mansion, still perfect in interior and exterior fittings, loaded on a sea-going barge en route to its new location.

WILL CALL HERE WITHIN COURSE OF NEXT FIVE DAYS

Over 121,000 Tons of Sea-going Tonnage to be Handled in and Out of Port Prior to Monday Night; Denishawn Dancers Off to Orient on Tour of World; Striking Crew of Coughlan Ship Returned to Japan.

Over 121,000 tons of shipping will call at the port of Victoria within the next five days when ten ocean-going craft will tie up to local piers inbound and outbound from the Orient and United Kingdom points.

J. A. Hyndman, advertising agent of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha line at Osaka, is returning to Japan on board the Africa Maru, posted to call here at 4 p.m. to-day and clear one hour later for the Orient. Mr. Hyndman spent the morning with city business men, and will be joined by M. Franklin Cline, a colleague, before sailing. The Africa Maru will take on a liquor shipment here from the Walkerville distilleries for consignees in the Orient.

The Empress of Canada will arrive here from Vancouver at 5.30 p.m. to-day, with passengers and a good general cargo for Yokohama and Orient ports. The Empress of Canada will take on late passengers here, and will be followed by two Admiralty Line craft which touch here to-morrow night, the Emma Alexander inbound from the Orient, and the Dorothy outbound at 11 o'clock. Both have capacity passenger lists.

ATAGO MARU DUE
The Atago Maru of the N.Y.K. line was spoken by Canadian wireless at 5.00 miles off at 8 o'clock last night inbound from the Orient. She is expected to make William Head by 11 o'clock to-morrow night and to dock early on Friday morning with 200 tons for local discharge. A large tea shipment for Victoria forms the feature of her local cargo.

The President Jefferson will arrive at 4 p.m. Friday to clear at 5.30 p.m. outbound for the Orient. Prominent in her passenger list will be Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn and a troupe of twenty members of the Denishawn Dancers off on a tour of the Orient.

CREW RETURN HOME
The Iyo Maru, to arrive Friday at 4 p.m. and sail later for Yokohama, will carry twenty-four striking members of the crew of the City of Vancouver. The Chinese were prosecuted in the local courts and fined for refusing duty on a Shanghai contract that bound them up to December of this year. Since then the City of Vancouver strikers are now being returned to their home port.

RUSSIA EXPECTED MONDAY
The Empress of Russia is due in on Monday from Yokohama with a good passenger list and cargo, but no word of her expected time of arrival has yet been received locally.

The Sa. President Grant, inbound from the Orient, is billed to dock on Sunday but word from her master being returned to their home port.

The Wanderer, a Harrison Direct Line boat, is due from the United Kingdom and way ports on Monday and will call here, too, but advice as to her progress up the coast are not yet to hand.

The Arizona Maru of the O.S.K. Line is expected Monday but no report has been received from her yet.

In the coastwise trade the Steamer Alaska is due here shortly to load lumber and the City of Victoria, inbound from Esquimalt, will load lumber here. One C.G.M.M. freighter is bound up from San Francisco in the coastwise trade but not yet spoken by wireless.

VALUABLE LIQUOR STOCKS WITHOUT A CLAIMANT AS FORFEITURE DATE NEARS

Approximately $84,150 worth of choice whiskies and liquors await an owner. If not claimed before August 22, 1925, this liquor will be forfeited to the Crown and sold forthwith.

There is a slight condition attached to the liquor being left unsought since and perhaps this has led to the liquor being left unsought since its seizure in two parts, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island near Ucluelet, and allegedly on board the Chakawana in Canadian waters. This condition is the liability of facing a charge under the amended Section 219 of the Customs Act, the penalty in which is not less than one year's imprisonment and not more than seven years.

has been disapproved by a committee of engineers representing both the railway companies—are being further explored, investigated and considered, we are prepared to install the prairie scale of rates, which would be nearly all geographical disabilities.

"We invite the citizens of Alberta to consider it is not advisable to accept a proposition which cannot possibly be solved by propaganda but by reason. The Canadian Pacific asks only that it offer to continue operating the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway be examined in an atmosphere devoid of prejudice and in the light of the present future advantage of the great territory to be served.

WESTERN OUTLET
The Canadian Pacific is not now and has not been opposed to a Western outlet for the Peace River district, if within our connection with the North Country, we are prepared to say now, without further qualification or reserve, that if and when it becomes commercially feasible we shall build that outlet. My personal opinion is that to enable the whole district, including the portion in British Columbia, to attain its maximum development, the permanent solution should take the form of a line from Grande Prairie through the Pine River Pass or the Peace River Pass, with a low grade crossing of the Peace to connect with the territory north of that river on to the Peace River and thence to Ashcroft or Lytton.

COLONIZATION WORK
It is true the development of the Peace River district during the five years has not kept pace with the expectation of its friends, but this condition is not peculiar to this district but is general in the West. Western Canada is concerned. If our lease is renewed we are prepared to place at the disposal of the district unreservedly the services of our colonization agency in the world. During the past forty years the Canadian Pacific has expended over $68,000,000 in colonization work, and in the development of Western Canada as all other interests and agencies combined, and our activities have been confined to the Peace River district where the company had land holdings, but have been general in their application and effect.

Naval Estimates Given Approval By British House

London, Aug. 5.—The House of Commons last night finally adopted the Government's naval estimates, including the programme for the construction of warships. The bill was passed by a vote of 305 to 135 without debate.

In the lobbies of Parliament last evening the main topic of conversation was a suggestion for taxing beer to provide for the coal subsidy. The suggestion was generally regarded as a sort of trial balloon sent up by the Government to discover how the country would take to the idea. It was commented upon by the members of all parties. Labor members of Parliament were especially hostile to the suggestion.

An engagement between Chinese young people is a serious affair, involving the honor of both families. It is a contract which is annulled so that the question of saving their daughter from union with a penniless husband gave the parents of Miss Lu great concern. The social position and had saved some money, and the marriage was to have occurred in July. While preparations were under way, however, it became known to the parents of Miss Lu that Mou had lost his situation in the executive

TOM MIX IS STAR OF CAPITOL FILM SHOWING THIS WEEK

The Yosemite Valley, in all its white blanketed splendor, is the principal background for the latest Tom Mix picture, "The Rainbow Trail," which opened its engagement at the Capitol Theatre this week. Against this panoramic vision is enacted one of the finest and most thrilling stories of the Northwest that it has ever been Mix' good fortune to put on the screen.

"The Rainbow Trail" by Zane Grey is the sequel to "Riders of the Purple Sage" and the same blood-linging action of the last Mix production is arrive safely on the opposite shore. Pharaoh's chariots follow. They are about to reach safety when the waters close. Men and animals are tossed around and drowned in the angry sea. It is one of those scenes which is breath-taking.

"The Ten Commandments" is being shown this week at the Dominion Theatre.

ANNA Q. NILSSON HAS NO EMOTIONAL STORMS IT IS SAID

"This artistic temperament stuff is all rot," declared Anna Q. Nilsson, famous screen actress. And the writer knows from experience that she is not merely "talking." During the filming of "One Way Street," a First National picture now showing at the Playhouse Theatre, she displayed an evenness of temper, and a willingness to do whatever Director John Francis Dillon ordered, that was amazing. Her unfailing courtesy and gentleness have made her extremely popular with directors and fellow-players.

AT THE CAPITOL

THE RISE AND FALL OF DOROTHY BROCK IN "THE HUNGRY HEART"

BABY ACTRESS BEFORE SCREEN FOR TWO YEARS

Wee Dorothy Brock, who plays "Jeffy" in Thomas H. Ince's "Christine of the Hungry Heart," the new First National production which is now showing at the Coliseum Theatre, is only four years old, yet half of her short life has been spent before the camera.

Both Dorothy's father and mother accompany her when she "works." They bring toys for her to play with while she is waiting between scenes, but she seldom touches them.

One day while Christine was being filmed at the Thomas H. Ince studios, Dorothy sat alone in a big wicker chair. Her playthings were forgotten and she paid no attention to Florence Vidor and Ian Keith, fellow members of the cast, as they ran through a scene.

Her whole concern was for her mother, who was suffering from a cold and who could not find a spot out of draughts.

"Sit over there," said Dorothy, pointing behind a huge set at the stage.

Whereupon Mrs. Brock moved at once and Dorothy was satisfied.

SEA ROMANCE IS FEATURED AT COLUMBIA

At sea, along with the man she "hates," a crew of Orientals and her wits, is the predicament of Patsy Ruth Miller, who plays opposite House Peters in "Head Winds," now showing at the Coliseum Theatre.

To wake up one morning and find yourself married to the man you "loath" is perhaps, in and of itself a sorry enough predicament without going any further. But Patricia Van Pelt, as played by Miss Miller, awoke with the startling realization that she was not only the wife of John Peter Rosslyn, as played by House Peters, but was utterly helpless in the arms of the strong man of the sea and alone on a small yacht, manned exclusively by Orientals, headed for the open sea.

Patricia resorted, in this instance, to woman's natural strength, the strength of her wit, which she exerted to the full. But when a man loves as John Peter Rosslyn loved Patricia Van Pelt, even the strongest woman's wits are of little avail, and must respond, it is an old law.

"Head Winds" produced under the direction of Herbert Blaché, is adapted from the Saturday Evening Post story of the same name, by A. M. Sinclair Witt. It tells the story of a strong man's love for a headstrong, unthinking flapper, and of his fight to win her from her shallow self.

A hurricane at sea, that is acclaimed to be the greatest storm ever filmed, is only one of the tremendous features of the production.

SERIAL STORY

"THE LOVE CYCLE"

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

Mansfield was touched by this first real confidence he had ever had from Harrison.

"I say, old man, I am awfully sorry. I never knew—"

Harrison laid his hand on the other's shoulder.

"That's all right. We are not very given to telling our troubles, you and I, but let me say this: I have an idea that you have a little problem of your own at home. I can see that you are a little restless, not quite happy, or you wouldn't be playing around with Dora and the rest of the gang. I don't ask you to confide in me, but my advice is to go ahead. I am a good bit older than you, you know, and I have knocked about the world for a long time, but it's only recently I learned that there is such a thing as a lonely old age. When we are young like you, we can snap our fingers in the face of Time. We can believe that there will always be plenty of good times and laughter and companionship, but do you realize, Mansfield, that sooner or later the time comes when our merry playmates don't want us any more? Take this club, for instance. Look at the poor, old boys who come here for a solitary dinner because they have no homes or families. They try to bribe us with drinks to listen to their stories and reminiscences. You know how we laugh at them and avoid them like the plague. I tell you, man, it's no joke to grow old alone. I have thrown away my chance for happiness and now it's too late, but you have youth still, and a successful career and a family you can be proud of. Watch out for yourself—that's all."

He ended with an embarrassed laugh and slapped Mansfield soundly on the shoulder.

Mansfield began to make a weak, sorry. What I really started out to say was—will you keep a bit of an eye on Dora in case she runs into trouble somewhere. She is a nice little thing and with the exception of you and me, she is surrounded by a pack of wolves. We have always been square with her, but I am not sure about the others. I may not see her for a long time, and I'd rather like the assurance that there is somebody she can go to if she gets into difficulties.

Mansfield promised, but all that day the memory of Harrison's words about the preservation of his domestic happiness lingered with him. He saw the truth of it, but he could hardly reconcile it with the latter's injunctions about Dora Davidson.

After careful thought, he decided that with Harrison away, he would cease his visits to her apartment.

It was several weeks before she sent for him, saying that the utmost importance.

A CALL FOR ASSISTANCE

When Mansfield went to Dora Davidson's apartment in obedience to her summons, he found her alone for the first time.

She had asked him to come in the afternoon, something he had never done before. He had left the office early, much to the surprise of his secretary, for despite his position as vice-president, he was almost as faithful and indefatigable a worker as his father-in-law, whose whole life was devoted to the Western Motor Company.

He felt uncomfortable and a little quitting about entering Miss Davidson's house in broad daylight. In the stream of traffic up and down the street, he sensed curious eyes that might belong to Helen's friends, or even be those of Helen herself.

Dora Davidson received him in a familiar little drawing room where the shades were already drawn and the lamps were lighted under their silken shade. Dora herself was ensconced behind a table, where a kettle bubbled invitingly above an alcohol flame.

She made no reference to his absence of the last weeks but plied him with sandwiches and tea, expertly prepared, and nicely flavored with rum.

It was only when the little clock on her mantle chimed the half hour after six that she spoke of the reason for her summons.

"It's really awfully embarrassing," she said with downcast eyes, her fingers playing nervously with her necklace. "It distresses me to ask a favor of you, but Mr. Harrison said that if I were ever in difficulties, I should come to you and not to anyone else. You see, I was foolish enough to make some investments, which were awfully risky but there was a chance of making a great deal. They failed and I am in a bad financial hole. Do you think—could you—"

Her apparent distress and embarrassment moved Mansfield to reach for his cheque book without further appeal on her part.

It was only when he was walking briskly homeward that a little inner voice of caution suggested that it might have been better to make his loan to Dora Davidson in cash rather than by cheque.

He hesitated the suggestion as being unworthy and several times during the following months, he went there to call in spite of his previous resolution, because he did not wish her to feel that she had alienated his friendship by asking a favor.

He was a trifle amazed when she asked for a second loan and the third made him actually uneasy, but recalling his promise to Harrison, he could not refuse.

One night, she sent for him again and asked him to come immediately. It was after office hours and the messenger came to the house. When her note was brought him at the dinner table, he opened it with the woman's, who is this man you have to meet to-night?"

The necessity for a lie touched Mansfield's pride.

"Merely one of our agents who got into town unexpectedly to-night. I dare say a stenographer at the office addressed the note."

Helen raised her brows.

"Curious she did not use the typewriter and there isn't a letter-head on the envelope."

"My dear girl, I can't explain everything," Mansfield said irritably, conscious that he was making a very bad job of it, "but I'll ask him when I see him, if you like."

"If you see him," she replied pointedly.

Mansfield's temples throbbed with a swift flare of anger, but he kept himself under control. He was conscious of the children watching Helen and himself wide-eyed and curious. He knew that on the other side of the swinging door into the butler's pantry there were the listening ears of a maid.

Most of all, he was anxious to avoid a scene. He managed to get away that evening without further discussion or innuendo.

At Dora Davidson's, he was met with another request for a loan. Before the ink had dried on his check, there was a ring at the door. She answered it and at sight of a tall muffled figure who stood on the threshold, she fell back with a sharp exclamation.

"It's my husband!"

THE TRAP

It was with complete astonishment that Mansfield heard Dora Davidson's exclamation: "My husband" and saw the tall, muffled figure brush her aside and enter.

It should not occur to him to feel alarm of discomfiture at being discovered in her apartment, since his conscience was absolutely clear. He was amazed therefore when the newcomer stalked over to him and thrusting out a menacing jaw demanded:

"What are you doing in my wife's apartment?"

Mansfield kept himself well in hand. He bowed slightly and said: "I came on a matter of business at your wife's request. I believe even the most scrupulous husband could find no objection in that."

"Oh, you think so, do you?" The other man tossed off his hat, unwound the muffler from his neck and threw it with his coat over a chair.

Mansfield saw that he was undersized and thin, his face narrow with a long, sharp nose and a low, slanting forehead. There were hollows in his shallow cheeks and his eyes had a sunken, shadowed look. He was not at all prepossessing, not at all the type of man who could be imagined as Dora Davidson's husband.

Dora herself had remained silent after her first outcry. She shrank back into a corner as though in deadly fear and her eyes were riveted on the newcomer in a fascinated stare.

"All right for that! But how about yourself, Mr. Mansfield? You are married, aren't you? You have got a couple of kids. What were you doing calling on any woman, whether she was married or not?"

offensive in my presence here," he said. "I had believed this lady to be unmarried."

He turned to say goodbye to Dora, but the man stopped him with a gesture.

"Not so fast! You are not going to walk out of this so easily. Oh, I have been watching you for a long time. I have seen you come here and I can imagine what has been going on. I have some proof, too, if you want to see it."

Quick anger flared in Mansfield, but he controlled it and said quietly: "I suppose you realize that you are insulting your wife by your insinuation. I refuse to add to such an absurdity by denying anything or even attempting to justify my visits upon Mrs. Davidson. I repeat that I was not aware of the existence of a husband and I believe that there is no moral or legal law which forbids one to call on an unmarried woman."

A thin smile touched the lips of the other man.

"All right for that! But how about yourself, Mr. Mansfield? You are married, aren't you? You have got a couple of kids. What were you doing calling on any woman, whether she was married or not?"

Mansfield flushed, but he said icily: "It is scarcely necessary for me to give an account of my actions to you."

"Oh, don't be too sure about that!" the other man said with a sneering laugh. "I can make it my business to hold you to account and I can make it unpleasant for you if I choose. It might not sound so nice to Mrs. Davidson and your friends to know that you have been sneaking off to see another man's wife."

"Are you threatening me?" Mansfield asked quietly though the cold finger of fear was beginning to touch him. For the first time, he fully realized both what a sinister figure this husband of Dora Davidson's was and what a foolhardy thing he himself had done by coming to her apartment alone that night. It had not occurred to him before to wonder why the usual crowd was missing from her drawing room, but in the light of what had happened, the circumstance was suspicious and disturbing.

"Call it threatening if you like," the other man returned. "I'm just reminding you of where you stand. It's on pretty shaky ground, Mr. Mansfield."

Thyroid Gland Operation Success
Paris, Aug. 5.—The Lille correspondent of The Paris Matin, says that in the view of Dr. Rene Lefort, a member of the Academy of Medicine, and Dr. Jean Piquet, all doubts have been removed about the success of the grafting of thyroid glands in backward children.

Some months ago the doctors conceived the idea of removing the thyroid gland from the body of the leader of a gang of Lille criminals immediately after he had been guillotined and grafting it in a little girl whose mental and physical development was exceptionally deficient.

While at first the surgeons were not quite satisfied with the result, they now declare the operation can be considered a success. They describe the girl as in excellent health, lively and intelligent.

Other surgeons who made a careful examination of the child are said to have stated the gland has been completely assimilated.

ARION CLUB GIVES DELIGHTFUL CONCERT IN CHARMING SETTING

An outstanding feature in the musical events of the city is the annual open air concert given by the historic Arion Club (male), on the Parliament Building grounds. For many years past this active club has initiated this event for the purpose of donating the collections taken up to some charitable institution of the city.

This year the collection goes to augment the funds for furnishing a room at the Royal Jubilee Hospital by the Arion Club, and for this purpose a group of nurses from the hospital, through the efforts of Rev. A. de B. Owen, was present last evening and assisted in a collection, which seemingly was generously contributed to by the large gathering of about 3,000 citizens.

Over fifty members of the club took part, and for such an affair the programme was admirably selected. In the place of its regular conductor, Howard Russell, absent from the city, Herbert Kent directed in most able manner, and two of the principal tenors of the club, Thomas Kelway and George Grey, rendered two solos, the latter in the beautiful "His Sorrow" by Young Days.

The "Men of Harlech" and "Archer's Marching Song," this proving particularly enlivening and inspiring, and the "Italian Salad" already mentioned. Seldom has there been a better rendition of these songs than were displayed last evening. It seemingly bears a freshened atmosphere, and its results are obtained with a better elasticity.

Other numbers in the programme, which combined with the splendidly enunciated musical terms, and the zest and verve of the singers, this cleverly written, serious-comic composition met with tumultuous applause. The number was repeated from the solo part much to the delight and amusement of these present other numbers in the announced programme were "The Hunt Is Up," "The Two Grenadiers" (both these were given with splendid abandon), "Years" (repeated), "The Prayer of Thanksgiving," (the shaded union singing throughout this was an admirable accomplishment), "Suomi's Song," "Men of Harlech" and "Archer's Marching Song," this proving particularly enlivening and inspiring, and the "Italian Salad" already mentioned.

69,000 WORKERS ARE NEEDED ON PRAIRIES

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Inquiry at the Department of Immigration and Colonization yesterday elicited the information that approximately 69,000 harvest hands would be required for this year's prairie grain in the Western provinces will supply about 19,000 and that from 30,000 to 35,000 may be secured from Eastern Canada, owing to the early harvesting in the East.

"Are you arranging a programme to bring harvesters from the United Kingdom?" the Department was asked.

"We have never arranged any programme of that kind," was the reply. "It is always left to the transportation companies, but as in the year 1923, we are always prepared to co-operate."

"There can be no doubt that if we were approached by transportation companies for co-operation in bringing harvesters from the United Kingdom to Winnipeg at an approximate rate of £12, arrangements could be put under way at once which ought to bring anywhere from 3,000 to 5,000 men who would fit in the harvest work. We have, however, not been approached by any transportation company so far. It may be expected to get the required number from Canada and the United States."

Railways Declared An Aid to Peace

Belleville, Ont., Aug. 5.—Railway enterprises as a contribution to the conservation of peace between the United States and Canada formed the basis of an address delivered here yesterday by W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways. The speech was made during the exercises in connection with the local celebration of 119 years of peace between the Republic and Canada, which event has been made the occasion of an interesting programme extending throughout the week coupled with the Old Boys' Reunion. Mr. Robb asked his hearers to study the railway map of Canada and note the lesson it offered. To a large extent, he said, railways in Europe had been constructed with an eye to their strategic value, while on this side, with one or two exceptions, the builders had no thought beyond the actual problems of transportation as they related to the carriers and the passengers and manufacturers.
