CHRISTMAS-EVE

I

OUT of the little chapel I burst
Into the fresh night-air again.
Five minutes full, I waited first
In the doorway, to escape the rain
That drove in gusts down the common's centre

At the edge of which the chapel stands,
Before I plucked up heart to enter.

Heaven knows how many sorts of hands
Reached past me, groping for the latch
Of the inner door that hung on catch
More obstinate the more they fumbled,
Till, giving way at last with a scold
Of the crazy hinge, in squeezed or tumbled

One sheep more to the rest in fold,
And left me irresolute, standing sentry
In the sheepfold's lath-and-plaster entry,
Six feet long by three feet wide,
Partitioned off from the vast inside—

I blocked up half of it at least.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

No remedy ; the rain kept driving.

They eyed me much as some wild beast,
That congregation, still arriving,
Some of them by the main road, white
A long way past me into the night,
Skirting the common, then diverging ;
Not a few suddenly emerging
From the common's self thro' the palinggaps,
—They house in the gravel-pits perhaps,
Where the road stops short with its safeguard border
Of lamps, as tired of such disorder ;—
But the most turned in yet more abruptly
From a certain squalid knot of alleys,
Where the town's bad blood once slept corruptly,
Which now the little chapel rallies
And leads into day again,—its priestliness
Lending itself to hide their beastliness
So cleverly (thanks in part to the mason),
And putting so cheery a whitewashed face on Those neophytes too much in lack of it,
That, where you cross the common as I did,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And meet the party thus presided,
"Mount Zion" with Love-lane at the back
of it,
They front you as little disconcerted
As, bound for the hills, her fate averted,
And her wicked people made to mind him,
Lot might have marched with Gomorrah behind him.

II

Well, from the road, the lanes or the common,
In came the flock : the fat weary woman,
Panting and bewildered, down-clapping
Her umbrella with a mighty report,
Grounded it by me, wry and flapping,
A wreck of whalebones ; then, with snort,
Like a startled horse, at the interloper
(Who humbly knew himself improper,
But could not shrink up small enough)
—Round to the door, and in,—the gruff
Hinge's invariable scold
Making my very blood run cold.
Prompt in the wake of her, up-pattered
On broken clogs, the many-tattered
Little old-faced peaking sister-turned-mother

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Of the sickly babe she tried to smother
Somehow up, with its spotted face,
From the cold, on her breast, the one warm
place ;

She too must stop, wring the poor ends dry
Of a draggled shawl, and add thereby
Her tribute to the door-mat, sopping
Already from my own clothes' dropping,
Which yet she seemed to grudge I should stand on :

Then, stooping down to take off her pattens,

She bore them defiantly, in each hand one,
Planted together before her breast
And its babe, as good as a lance in rest.

Close on her heels, the dingy satins
Of a female something, past me flitted,
With lips as much too white, as a streak

Lay far too red on each hollow cheek ;
And it seemed the very door-hinge pitied
All that was left of a woman once,
Holding at least its tongue for the nonce.
Then a tall yellow man, like the Penitent Thief,

With his jaw bound up in a handkerchief,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And eyelids screwed together tight,
Led himself in by some inner light.
And, except from him, from each that entered,

I got the same interrogation—

“What, you the alien, you have ventured
“To take with us, the elect, your station?
“A carer for none of it, a Gallio!”—

Thus, plain as print, I read the glance
At a common prey, in each countenance
As of huntsman giving his hounds the tallyho.

And, when the door's cry drowned their wonder,

The draught, it always sent in shutting,
Made the flame of the single tallow candle
In the cracked square lantern I stood under,
Shoot its blue lip at me, rebutting
As it were, the luckless cause of scandal:
I verily fancied the zealous light
(In the chapel's secret, too!) for spite
Would shudder itself clean off the wick,
With the airs of a Saint John's Candlestick.<sup>1</sup>
There was no standing it much longer.

<sup>1</sup> See Rev. i. 20.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

- “Good folks,” thought I, as resolve grew stronger,
“This way you perform the Grand-Inquisitor “When the weather sends you a chance visitor?
“You are the men, and wisdom shall die
with you,
“And none of the old Seven Churches vie
with you!
“But still, despite the pretty perfection
“To which you carry your trick of exclusiveness,
“And, taking God’s word under wise protection,
“Correct its tendency to diffusiveness,
“And bid one reach it over hot ploughshares,— “Still, as I say, though you’ve found salvation,
“If I should choose to cry, as now,
‘Shares!’—
“See if the best of you bars me my ration!
“I prefer, if you please, for my expounder
“Of the laws of the feast, the feast’s own Founder;

CHRISTMAS-EVE

“Mine’s the same right with your poorest and sickliest

“Supposing I don the marriage vestiment :

“So, shut your mouth and open your Testament,

“And carve me my portion at your quick-liest !”

Accordingly, as a shoemaker’s lad

With wizened face in want of soap,

And wet apron wound round his waist like a rope,

(After stopping outside, for his cough was bad,

To get the fit over, poor gentle creature,

And so avoid disturbing the preacher)

—Passed in, I sent my elbow spikewise

At the shutting door, and entered likewise,

Received the hinge’s accustomed greeting,

And crossed the threshold’s magic pentacle,

And found myself in full conventicle,

—To wit, in Zion Chapel Meeting,

On the Christmas-Eve of ’Forty-nine,

Which, calling its flock to their special clover,

Found all assembled and one sheep over,

Whose lot, as the weather pleased, was mine.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

III

I very soon had enough of it.

The hot smell and the human noises,
And my neighbour's coat, the greasy cuff of it,
Were a pebble-stone that a child's hand poises,

Compared with the pig-of-lead-like pressure
Of the preaching man's immense stupidity,
As he poured his doctrine forth, full measure,
To meet his audience's avidity.

You needed not the wit of the Sibyl

To guess the cause of it all, in a twinkling:
No sooner our friend had got an inkling
Of treasure hid in the Holy Bible, (Whene'er 'twas the thought first struck him,
How death, at unawares, might duck him
Deeper than the grave, and quench
The gin-shop's light in hell's grim drench)
Than he handled it so, in fine irreverence,
As to hug the book of books to pieces :
And, a patchwork of chapters and texts in severance,
Not improved by the private dog's-ears and creases,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Having clothed his own soul with, he'd fain see equipt yours,—
So tossed you again your Holy Scriptures.
And you picked them up, in a sense, no doubt:
Nay, had but a single face of my neighbours
Appeared to suspect that the preacher's labours
Were help which the world could be saved without,
'Tis odds but I might have borne in quiet
A qualm or two at my spiritual diet,
Or (who can tell?) perchance even mustered
Somewhat to urge in behalf of the sermon:
But the flock sat on, divinely flustered,
Sniffing, methought, its dew of Hermon
With such content in every snuffle,
As the devil inside us loves to ruffle.
My old fat woman purred with pleasure,
And thumb round thumb went twirling faster,
While she, to his periods keeping measure,
Maternally devoured the pastor.
The man with the handkerchief untied it,
Showed us a horrible wen inside it,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Gave his eyelids yet another screwing,
And rocked himself as the woman was doing.
The shoemaker's lad, discreetly choking,
Kept down his cough. 'Twas too provoking!
My gorge rose at the nonsense and stuff of it;
So, saying like Eve when she plucked the apple,
"I wanted a taste, and now there's enough
of it,"
I flung out of the little chapel.

IV

There was a lull in the rain, a lull
In the wind too; the moon was risen,
And would have shone out pure and full,
But for the ramparted cloud-prison,
Block on block built up in the West,
For what purpose the wind knows best,
Who changes his mind continually.
And the empty other half of the sky
Seemed in its silence as if it knew
What, any moment, might look through
A chance gap in that fortress massy:—
Through its fissures you got hints
Of the flying moon, by the shifting tints,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Now, a dull lion-colour, now, brassy
Burning to yellow, and whitest yellow,
Like furnace-smoke just ere flames bellow,
All a-simmer with intense strain
To let her through,—then blank again,
At the hope of her appearance failing.
Just by the chapel, a break in the railing
Shows a narrow path directly across ;
'Tis ever dry walking there, on the moss—
Besides, you go gently all the way uphill.

I stooped under and soon felt better ;
My head grew lighter, my limbs more supple,
As I walked on, glad to have slipt the fetter.
My mind was full of the scene I had left,
That placid flock, that pastor vociferant,
—How this outside was pure and different !
The sermon, now—what a mingled weft
Of good and ill ! Were either less,
Its fellow had coloured the whole distinctly ;
But alas for the excellent earnestness,
And the truths, quite true if stated succinctly,
But as surely false, in their quaint presentment,
However to pastor and flock's contentment !

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Say rather, such truths looked false to your eyes,

With his provings and parallels twisted and twined,

Till how could you know them, grown double their size

In the natural fog of the good man's mind,
Like yonder spots of our roadside lamps,
Haloed about with the common's damps?
Truth remains true, the fault's in the prover;

The zeal was good, and the aspiration;
And yet, and yet, yet, fifty times over,

Pharaoh received no demonstration,
By his Baker's dream of Baskets Three,
Of the doctrine of the Trinity,— Although, as our preacher thus embellished
it,

Apparently his hearers relished it
With so unfeigned a gust—who knows if
They did not prefer our friend to Joseph?
But so it is everywhere, one way with all of them!

These people have really felt, no doubt,
A something, the motion they style the Call of them;

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And this is their method of bringing about,
By a mechanism of words and tones,
(So many texts in so many groans)
A sort of reviving and reproducing,
More or less perfectly, (who can tell?)
The mood itself, which strengthens by using;
And how that happens, I understand well.
A tune was born in my head last week,
Out of the thump-thump and shriek-shriek
Of the train, as I came by it, up from Manchester;
And when, next week, I take it back again,
My head will sing to the engine's clack again,
While it only makes my neighbour's haunches stir,
—Finding no dormant musical sprout
In him, as in me, to be jolted out.
'Tis the taught already that profits by teaching;
He gets no more from the railway's preaching Than, from this preacher who does the rail's office, I:
Whom therefore the flock cast a jealous eye on.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Still, why paint over their door "Mount Zion,"
To which all flesh shall come, saith the prophecy?

V

But wherefore be harsh on a single case?
After how many modes, this Christmas-
Eve,
Does the self-same weary thing take place?
The same endeavour to make you believe,
And with much the same effect, no more :
Each method abundantly convincing,
As I say, to those convinced before,
But scarce to be swallowed without wincing
By the not-as-yet-convinced. For me,
I have my own church equally :
And in this church my faith sprang first !
(I said, as I reached the rising ground,
And the wind began again, with a burst
Of rain in my face, and a glad rebound
From the heart beneath, as if, God speeding me,
I entered his church-door, nature leading me)
—In youth I look to these very skies,
And probing their immensities,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

I found God there, his visible power ;
Yet felt in my heart, amid all its sense
Of the power, an equal evidence
That his love, there too, was the nobler dower.

For the loving worm within its clod,
Were diviner than a loveless god
Amid his worlds, I will dare to say.

You know what I mean : God's all, man's nought :

But also, God, whose pleasure brought
Man into being, stands away

As it were a handbreadth off, to give
Room for the newly-made to live,
And look at him from a place apart,
And use his gifts of brain and heart,
Given, indeed, but to keep for ever.

Who speaks of man, then, must not sever
Man's very elements from man,
Saying, " But all is God's "—whose plan
Was to create man and then leave him
Able, his own word saith, to grieve him
But able to glorify him too,
As a mere machine could never do,
That prayed or praised, all unaware

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Of its fitness for aught but praise and prayer,
Made perfect as a thing of course.
Man, therefore, stands on his own stock
Of love and power as a pin-point rock :
And, looking to God who ordained divorce
Of the rock from his boundless continent,
Sees, in his power made evident,
Only excess by a million-fold
O'er the power God gave man in the mould.
For, note : man's hand, first formed to carry
A few pounds' weight, when taught to marry
Its strength with an engine's, lifts a mountain,
—Advancing in power by one degree ;
And why count steps through eternity ?
But love is the ever-springing fountain :
Man may enlarge or narrow his bed
For the water's play, but the water-head—
How can he multiply or reduce it ?
As easy create it, as cause it to cease ;
He may profit by it, or abuse it,
But 'tis not a thing to bear increase
As power does : be love less or more
In the heart of man, he keeps it shut
Or opes it wide, as he pleases, but

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Love's sum remains what it was before.

So, gazing up, in my youth, at love

As seen through power, ever above

All modes which make it manifest,

My soul brought all to a single test—

That he, the Eternal First and Last,

Who, in his power, had so surpassed

All man conceives of what is might,—

Whose wisdom, too, showed infinite,

—Would prove as infinitely good ;

Would never, (my soul understood,)

With power to work all love desires,

Bestow e'en less than man requires ;

That he who endlessly was teaching,

Above my spirit's utmost reaching,

What love can do in the leaf or stone,

(So that to master this alone,

This done in the stone or leaf for me,

I must go on learning endlessly)

Would never need that I, in turn,

Should point him out defect unheeded,

And show that God had yet to learn

What the meanest human creature needed,

—Not life, to wit, for a few short years,

Tracking his way through doubts and fears,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

While the stupid earth on which I stay
Suffers no change, but passive adds
Its myriad years to myriads,
Though I, he gave it to, decay,
Seeing death come and choose about me,
And my dearest ones depart without me.
No : love which, on earth, amid all the shows
of it,
Has ever been seen the sole good of life in
it,
The love, ever growing there, spite of the strife in it.
Shall arise, made perfect, from death's repose of it,
And I shall behold thee, face to face,
O God, and in thy light retrace
How in all I loved here, still wast thou !
Whom pressing to, then, as I fain would now,
I shall find as able to satiate
The love, thy gift, as my spirit's wonder
Thou art able to quicken and sublimate,
With this sky of thine, that I now walk under,
And glory in thee for, as I gaze

Twas a moon-rainbow, vast and perfect.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Thus, thus! Oh, let men keep their ways
Of seeking thee in a narrow shrine—
Be this my way! And this is mine!

VI

For lo, what think you? suddenly
The rain and the wind ceased, and the sky
Received at once the full fruition
Of the moon's consummate apparition.
The black cloud-barricade was riven,
Ruined beneath her feet, and driven
Deep in the West; while, bare and breathless,
North and South and East lay ready For a glorious thing that, dauntless, deathless,

Sprang across them and stood steady.
'Twas a moon-rainbow, vast and perfect,
From heaven to heaven extending, perfect
As the mother-moon's self, full in face.
It rose, distinctly at the base

With its seven proper colours chorded,
Which still, in the rising, were compressed,
Until at last they coalesced,
And supreme the spectral creature lorded
In a triumph of whitest white,—

Above which intervened the night.
But above night too, like only the next,
    The second of a wondrous sequence,
    Reaching in rare and rarer frequency,
Till the heaven of heavens were circumflexed,
Another rainbow rose, a mightier,
Fainter, flushier and flightier,— Rapture dying along its verge.
Oh, whose foot shall I see emerge,
Whose, from the straining topmost dark,
On to the keystone of that arc?

VII

This sight was shown me, there and then,—
Me, one out of a world of men,
Singled forth, as the chance might hap
To another if, in a thunderclap
Where I heard noise and you saw flame,
Some one man knew God called his name.
For me, I think I said, "Appear!
"Good were it to be ever here.
"If thou wilt, let me build to thee
"Service-tabernacles three,
"Where, forever in thy presence,
"In ecstatic acquiescence,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

“Far alike from thriftless learning
“And ignorance’s undiscerning,
“I may worship and remain!”

Thus at the show above me, gazing
With upturned eyes, I felt my brain
Glutted with the glory, blazing Throughout its whole mass, over and under Until at length it burst asunder
And out of it bodily there streamed,
The too-much glory, as it seemed,
Passing from out me to the ground,
Then palely serpentining round
Into the dark with mazy error.

VIII

All at once I looked up with terror.
He was there.
He himself with his human air.
On the narrow pathway, just before.
I saw the back of him, no more—
He had left the chapel, then, as I.
I forgot all about the sky.
No face: only the sight
Of a sweepy garment, vast and white,
With a hem that I could recognize.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

I felt terror, no surprise ;
My mind filled with the cataract,
At one bound of the mighty fact.
“ I remember, he did say “ Doubtless that, to this world’s end,
“ Where two or three should meet and pray,
    “ He would be in the midst, their friend ;
“ Certainly he was there with them ! ”
    And my pulses leaped for joy
    Of the golden thought without alloy,
That I saw his very vesture’s hem.
Then rushed the blood back, cold and clear,
With a fresh enhancing shiver of fear ;
And I hastened, cried out while I pressed
To the salvation of the vest,
“ But not so, Lord ! It cannot be
“ That thou, indeed, art leaving me—
“ Me, that have despised thy friends !
“ Did my heart make no amends ?
“ Thou art the love of God—above
“ His power, didst hear me place his love,
“ And that was leaving the world for thee.
“ Therefore thou must not turn from me
“ As I had chosen the other part !
“ Folly and pride o’ercame my heart.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

“Our best is bad, nor bears thy test ;
“Still, it should be our very best.
“I thought it best that thou, the spirit,
    “Be worshipped in spirit and in truth,
“And in beauty, as even we require it—
    “Not in the forms burlesque, uncouth,
“I left but now, as scarcely fitted
“For thee : I knew not what I pitied.
“But, all I felt there, right or wrong,
    “What is it to thee, who curest sinning ?
“Am I not weak as thou art strong ?
    “I have looked to thee from the beginning,
“Straight up to thee through all the world
“Which, like an idle scroll, lay furled
“To nothingness on either side :
“And since the time thou wast descried,
“Spite of the weak heart, so have I “Lived ever, and so fain would die, “Living and dying, thee before !
“But if thou leavest me——”

IX

Less or more,
I suppose that I spoke thus.
When,—have mercy, Lord, on us !

CHRISTMAS-EVE

The whole face turned upon me full.
And I spread myself beneath it,
As when the bleacher spreads, to seethe it
In the cleansing sun, his wool,—
Steeps in the flood of noontide whiteness
Some defiled, discoloured web—
So lay I, saturate with brightness.
And when the flood appeared to ebb,
Lo, I was walking, light and swift,
With my senses settling fast and steady-
ing,
But my body caught up in the whirl and drift
Of the vesture's amplitude, still eddying
On, just before me, still to be followed,
As it carried me after with its motion :
What shall I say?—as a path were hollowed
And a man went weltering through the ocean,
Sucked along in the flying wake
Of the luminous water-snake.
Darkness and cold were cloven, as through
I passed, upborne yet walking too.
And I turned to myself at intervals,—
“So he said, so it befalls.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

“God who registers the cup
“Of mere cold water, for his sake
“To a disciple rendered up, “Disdains not his own thirst to slake
“At the poorest love was ever offered :
“And because my heart I proffered,
“With true love trembling at the brim,
“He suffers me to follow him
“For ever, my own way,—dispensed
“From seeking to be influenced “By all the less immediate ways
“That earth, in worships manifold,
“Adopts to reach, by prayer and praise,
“The garment’s hem, which, lo, I hold !”

X

And so we crossed the world and stopped.
For where am I, in city or plain,
Since I am 'ware of the world again ?
And what is this that rises propped
With pillars of prodigious girth ?
Is it really on the earth,
This miraculous Dome of God ?
Has the angel’s measuring-rod
Which numbered cubits, gem from gem,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

'Twixt the gates of the New Jerusalem,
Meted it out,—and what he meted,
Have the sons of men completed?
—Binding, ever as he bade,
Columns in the colonnade
With arms wide open to embrace
The entry of the human race
To the breast of . . . what is it, yon building,
Ablaze in front, all paint and gilding,
With marble for brick, and stones of price
For garniture of the edifice?
Now I see; it is no dream;
It stands there and it does not seem;
For ever, in pictures, thus it looks,
And thus I have read of it in books
Often in England, leagues away,
And wondered how these fountains play,
Growing up eternally
Each to a musical water-tree,
Whose blossoms drop, a glittering boon,
Before my eyes, in the light of the moon,
To the granite lavers underneath.
Liar and dreamer in your teeth!
I, the sinner that speak to you,
Was in Rome this night, and stood, and knew

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Both this and more. For see, for see,
The dark is rent, mine eye is free
To pierce the crust of the outer wall,
And I view inside, and all there, all,
As the swarming hollow of a hive,
The whole Basilica alive !
Men in the chancel, body and nave,
Men on the pillars' architrave,
Men on the statues, men on the tombs
With popes and kings in their porphyry wombs,
All famishing in expectation
Of the main-altar's consummation.
For see, for see, the rapturous moment
Approaches, and earth's best endowment
Blends with heaven's; the taper-fires
Pant up, the winding brazen spires
Heave loftier yet the baldachin;<sup>1</sup>
The incense-gaspings, long kept in,
Suspire in clouds; the organ blatant
Holds his breath and grovels latent,
As if God's hushing finger grazed him,
(Like Behemoth when he praised him)
At the silver bell's shrill tinkling,

<sup>1</sup> Canopy over the High Altar.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Quick cold drops of terror sprinkling
On the sudden pavement strewed
With faces of the multitude.
Earth breaks up, time drops away,
In flows heaven, with its new day
Of endless life, when He who trod,
Very man and very God,
This earth in weakness, shame and pain,
Dying the death whose signs remain
Up yonder on the accursed tree,—
Shall come again, no more to be
Of captivity the thrall,
But the one God, All in all,
King of kings, Lord of lords,
As His servant John received the words,
“I died, and live for evermore!”

XI

Yet I was left outside the door.
“Why sit I here on the threshold-stone “Left till He return, alone
“Save for the garment’s extreme fold
“Abandoned still to bless my hold?”
My reason, to my doubt, replied,
As if a book were opened wide,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And at a certain page I traced
Every record undefaced,
Added by successive years,—
The harvestings of truth's stray ears
Singly gleaned, and in one sheaf
Bound together for belief.
Yes, I said—that he will go
And sit with these in turn, I know.
Their faith's heart beats, though her head swims
Too giddily to guide her limbs,
Disabled by their palsy-stroke
From propping mine. Though Rome's gross yoke
Drops off, no more to be endured,
Her teaching is not so obscured
By errors and perversities,
That no truth shines athwart the lies :
And he, whose eye detects a spark Even where, to man's, the whole seems dark,
May well see flame where each beholder
Acknowledges the embers smoulder.
But I, a mere man, fear to quit
The clue God gave me as most fit

CHRISTMAS-EVE

To guide my footsteps through life's maze,
Because himself discerns all ways
Open to reach him : I, a man
Able to mark where faith began
To swerve aside, till from its summit
Judgment drops her damning plummet,
Pronouncing such a fatal space
Departed from the founder's base :
He will not bid me enter too,
But rather sit, as now I do,
Awaiting his return outside.
—'Twas thus my reason straight replied
And joyously I turned, and pressed
The garment's skirt upon my breast,
Until, afresh its light suffusing me,
My heart cried—What has been abusing me
That I should wait here lonely and coldly,
Instead of rising, entering boldly,
Baring truth's face, and letting drift
Her veils of lies as they choose to shift?
Do these men praise him? I will raise
My voice up to their point of praise!
I see the error ; but above
The scope of error, see the love.—
Oh, love of those first Christian days !

CHRISTMAS-EVE

—Fanned so soon into a blaze,
From the spark preserved by the trampled sect,

That the antique sovereign Intellect
Which then sat ruling in the world,
Like a change in dreams, was hurled
From the throne he reigned upon :
You looked up and he was gone.
Gone, his glory of the pen !

—Love, with Greece and Rome in ken,
Bade her scribes abhor the trick
Of poetry and rhetoric,
And exult with hearts set free,
In blessed imbecility
Scrawled, perchance, on some torn sheet
Leaving Sallust incomplete.

Gone, his pride of sculptor, painter !
—Love, while able to acquaint her
While the thousand statues yet
Fresh from chisel, pictures wet
From brush, she saw on every side,
Chose rather with an infant's pride
To frame those portents which impart
Such unction to true Christian Art.
Gone, music too ! The air was stirred

CHRISTMAS-EVE

By happy wings : Terpander's<sup>1</sup> bird
(That, when the cold came, fled away)
Would tarry not the wintry day,—
As more-enduring sculpture must,
Till filthy saints rebuked the gust
With which they chanced to get a sight
Of some dear naked Aphrodite
They glanced a thought above the toes of,
By breaking zealously her nose off.
Love, surely, from that music's lingering,
Might have filched her organ-fingering,
Nor chosen rather to set prayings
To hog-grunts, praises to horse-neighings.
Love was the startling thing, the new :
Love was the all-sufficient too ;
And seeing that, you see the rest :
As a babe can find its mother's breast
As well in darkness as in light,
Love shut our eyes, and all seemed right.
True, the world's eyes are open now :
—Less need for me to disallow
Some few that keep Love's zone unbuckled,
Peevish as ever to be suckled,

670 B.C.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Lulled by the same old baby-prattle
With intermixture of the rattle,
When she would have them creep, stand steady
Upon their feet, or walk already,
Not to speak of trying to climb.
I will be wise another time,
And not desire a wall between us,
    When next I see a church-roof cover
So many species of one genus,
    All with foreheads bearing lover
Written above the earnest eyes of them ;
    All with breasts that beat for beauty,
Whether sublimed, to the surprise of them,
    In noble daring, steadfast duty,
The heroic in passion, or in action,—
Or, lowered for sense's satisfaction,
To the mere outside of human creatures,
Mere perfect form and faultless features.
What? with all Rome here, whence to levy
    Such contributions to their appetite,
With women and men in a gorgeous bevy,
    They take, as it were, a padlock, clap it tight
On their southern eyes, restrained from feeding

CHRISTMAS-EVE

On the glories of their ancient reading,
On the beauties of their modern singing,
On the wonders of the builder's bringing,
On the majesties of Art around them,—
    And, all these loves, late struggling incessant,
When faith has at last united and bound them,
    They offer up to God for a present?
Why, I will, on the whole, be rather proud
    of it,—
    And, only taking the act in reference To the other recipients who might have allowed it,
I will rejoice that God had the preference.

XII

So I summed up my new resolves :
    Too much love there can never be.
And where the intellect devolves
    Its function on love exclusively,
I, a man who possesses both,
Will accept the provision, nothing loth,
—Will feast my love, then depart elsewhere,
That my intellect may find its share.
And ponder, O soul, the while thou departest,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And see thou applaud the great heart of the artist,

Who, examining the capabilities

Of the block of marble he has to fashion

Into a type of thought or passion,—

Not always, using obvious facilities,

Shapes it, as any artist can,

Into a perfect symmetrical man,

Complete from head to foot of the life-size,

Such as old Adam stood in his wife's eyes,—

But, now and then, bravely aspires to consummate

A Colossus by no means so easy to come at,

And uses the whole of his block for the bust,

Leaving the mind of the public to finish it,

Since cut it ruefully short he must :

On the face alone he expends his devotion,

He rather would mar than resolve to diminish it,

—Saying, "Applaud me for this grand notion

"Of what a face may be ! As for completing it

"In breast and body and limbs, do that, you !"

All hail ! I fancy how, happily meeting it,

A trunk and legs would perfect the statue,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Could man carve so as to answer volition.
And how much nobler than petty cavils,
Were a hope to find, in my spirit-travels,
Some artist of another ambition,
Who having a block to carve, no bigger,
Has spent his power on the opposite quest,
And believed to begin at the feet was best—
For so may I see, ere I die, the whole figure !

XIII

No sooner said than out in the night !
My heart beat lighter and more light :
And still, as before, I was walking swift,
With my senses settling fast and steadying,
drift
Of the vesture's amplitude, still eddying
On just before me, still to be followed,
As it carried me after with its motion,
—What shall I say ? — as a path were hollowed,
And a man went weltering through the
ocean,
Sucked along in the flying wake
Of the luminous water-snake.

. . . My body caught up in the whir and drift
Of the vesture's amplitude. . . .

XIV

Alone! I am left alone once more—

(Save for the garment's extreme fold
Abandoned still to bless my hold)

Alone, beside the entrance-door

Of a sort of temple,—perhaps a college,

—Like nothing I ever saw before

At home in England, to my knowledge.

The tall old quaint irregular town!

It may be . . . though which, I can't affirm . . .
any

Of the famous middle-age towns of Germany:

And this flight of stairs where I sit down,

Is it Halle, Weimar, Cassel, Frankfort

Or Göttingen, I have to thank for't?

It may be Göttingen,—most likely.

Through the open door I catch obliquely

Glimpses of a lecture-hall;

And not a bad assembly neither,

Ranged decent and symmetrical

On benches, waiting what's to see there:

Which, holding still by the vesture's hem,

I also resolve to see with them,

Cautious this time how I suffer to slip

CHRISTMAS-EVE

The chance of joining in fellowship
With any that call themselves his friends;
As these folk do, I have a notion.
But hist—a buzzing and emotion !
All settle themselves, the while ascends
By the creaking rail to the lecture-desk,
Step by step, deliberate
Because of his cranium's over-freight,
Three parts sublime to one grotesque,
If I have proved an accurate guesser,
The hawk-nosed high-cheek-boned Professor.
I felt at once as if there ran
A shoot of love from my heart to the man—
That sallow virgin-minded studious
Martyr to mild enthusiasm,
As he uttered a kind of cough-preludious
That woke my sympathetic spasm,
(Beside some spitting that made me sorry)
And stood, surveying his auditory
With a wan pure look, well-nigh celestial,— Those blue eyes had survived so much !
While, under the foot they could not smutch,
Lay all the fleshly and the bestial.
Over he bowed, and arranged his notes,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Till the auditory's clearing of throats
Was done with, died into a silence ;
    And, when each glance was upward sent,
    Each bearded mouth composed intent,
And a pin might be heard drop half a mile hence,—
He pushed back higher his spectacles,
Let the eyes stream out like lamps from cells,
And giving his head of hair—a hake
    Of undressed tow, for colour and quantity—
One rapid and impatient shake,
    (As our own Young England adjusts a jaunty tie
When about to impart, on mature digestion,
Some thrilling view of the surplice-question)
—The Professor's grave voice, sweet though hoarse,
Broke into his Christmas-Eve discourse.

XV

And he began it by observing
    How reason dictated that men
Should rectify the natural swerving,
    By a reversion, now and then,
To the well-heads of knowledge, few

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And far away, whence rolling grew
The life-stream wide whereat we drink,
Comming'ed, as we needs must think,
With waters alien to the source ;
To do which, aimed this eve's discourse ;
Since, where could be a fitter time
For tracing backward to its prime
This Christianity, this lake,
This reservoir, whereat we slake,
From one or other bank, our thirst ?
So, he proposed inquiring first
Into the various sources whence
    This Myth of Christ is derivable ;
Demanding from the evidence,
    (Since plainly no such life was liveable)
How these phenomena should class ?
Whether 'twere best opine Christ was,
Or never was at all, or whether
He was and was not, both together—
It matters little for the name,
So the idea be left the same.
Only, for practical purpose' sake,
'Twas obviously as well to take
The popular story,—understanding
    How the ineptitude of the time,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And the penman's prejudice, expanding
Fact into fable fit for the clime,
Had, by slow and sure degrees, translated it
Into this myth, this Individuum,—
Which, when reason had strained and abated
it
Of foreign matter, left, for residuum,
A Man!—a right true man, however,
Whose work was worthy a man's endeavour :
Work, that gave warrant almost sufficient
To his disciples, for rather believing
He was just omnipotent and omniscient,
As it gives to us, for as frankly receiving
His word, their tradition,—which, though it meant
Something entirely different
From all that those who only heard it,
In their simplicity thought and averred it,
Had yet a meaning quite as respectable :
For, among other doctrines delectable,
Was he not surely the first to insist on
The natural sovereignty of our race?—
Here the lecturer came to a pausing-place.
And while his cough, like a drouthy piston,
Tried to dislodge the husk that grew to him,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

I seized the occasion of bidding adieu to him,
The vesture still within my hand.

XVI

I could interpret its command.
This time he would not bid me enter
The exhausted air-bell of the Critic.
Truth's atmosphere may grow mephitic
When Papist struggles with Dissenter, Impregnating its pristine clarity,
—One, by his daily fare's vulgarity,
    Its gust of broken meat and garlic ;
—One, by his soul's too-much presuming
To turn the frankincense's fuming
    And vapours of the candle starlike
Into the cloud her wings she buoys on.
    Each, that thus sets the pure air seething,
    May poison it for healthy breathing—
But the Critic leaves no air to poison ;
Pumps out with ruthless ingenuity
Atom by atom, and leaves you—vacuity.
Thus much of Christ does he reject ?
And what retain ? His intellect ?
What is it I must reverence duly ?
Poor intellect for worship, truly,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Which tells me simply what was told (If mere morality, bereft
    Of the God in Christ, be all that's left)
Elsewhere by voices manifold ;
With this advantage, that the stater
    Made nowise the important stumble
    Of adding, he, the sage and humble,
Was also one with the Creator.
You urge Christ's followers' simplicity :
    But how does shifting blame, evade it ?
Have wisdom's words no more felicity ?
    The stumbling-block, his speech—who laid
    it ?
How comes it that for one found able
To sift the truth of it from fable,
Millions believe it to the letter ?
Christ's goodness, then—does that fare better ?
Strange goodness, which upon the score
    Of being goodness, the mere due
Of man to fellow-man, much more
    To God,—should take another view
Of its possessor's privilege,
And bid him rule his race ! You pledge
Your fealty to such rule ? What, all—
From heavenly John and Attic Paul,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And that brave weather-battered Peter,
Whose stout faith only stood completer
For buffets, sinning to be pardoned, As, more his hands hauled nets, they hardened,—

All, down to you, the man of men,
Professing here at Göttingen,
Compose Christ's flock! They, you and I,
Are sheep of a good man! And why?
The goodness,—how did he acquire it?
Was it self-gained, did God inspire it?
Choose which; then tell me, on what ground
Should its possessor dare propound
His claim to rise o'er us an inch?

Were goodness all some man's invention,
Who arbitrarily made mention
What we should follow, and whence flinch,—
What qualities might take the style
Of right and wrong,—and had such guessing
Met with as general acquiescing
As graced the alphabet erewhile,
When A got leave an Ox to be,
No Camel (quothe the Jews) like G,<sup>1</sup>—

<sup>1</sup> Gimel, the Hebrew G, means camel.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

For thus inventing thing and title
Worship were that man's fit requital.
But if the common conscience must
Be ultimately judge, adjust
Its apt name to each quality
Already known,—I would decree
Worship for such mere demonstration
    And simple work of nomenclature,
    Only the day I praised, not nature,
But Harvey, for the circulation.
I would praise such a Christ, with pride
And joy, that he, as none beside,
Had taught us how to keep the mind
God gave him, as God gave his kind,
Freer than they from fleshly taint :
I would call such a Christ our Saint,
As I declare our Poet, him
Whose insight makes all others dim :
A thousand poets pried at life,
And only one amid the strife
Rose to be Shakespeare : each shall take
His crown, I'd say, for the world's sake—
Though some objected—"Had we seen
"The heart and head of each, what screen
"Was broken there to give them light,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

“ While in ourselves it shuts the sight,
“ We should no more admire, perchance,
“ That these found truth out at a glance,
“ Than marvel how the bat discerns
“ Some pitch-dark cavern’s fifty turns,
“ Led by a finer tact, a gift
“ He boasts, which other birds must shift “ Without, and grope as best they can.”

No, freely I would praise the man,—
Nor one whit more, if he contended
That gift of his, from God descended.
Ah friend, what gift of man’s does not?
No nearer something, by a jot,
Rise an infinity of nothings

    Than one: take Euclid for your teacher:
Distinguish kinds: do crownings, clothings,
    Make that creator which was creature?
Multiply gifts upon man’s head,
And what, when all’s done, shall be said
But—the more gifted he, I ween!

    That one’s made Christ, this other, Pilate,
And this might be all that has been,—
    So what is there to frown or smile at?
What is left for us, save, in growth
Of soul, to rise up, far past both,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

From the gift looking to the giver,
And from the cistern to the river,
And from the finite to infinity,
And from man's dust to God's divinity?

XVII

Take all in a word : the truth in God's breast
Lies trace for trace upon ours impressed :
Though he is so bright and we so dim,
We are made in his image to witness him :
And were no eye in us to tell,

    Instructed by no inner sense,
The light of heaven from the dark of hell,
    That light would want its evidence,— Though justice, good and truth were still Divine, if, by some demon's will,
Hatred and wrong had been proclaimed
Law through the worlds, and right misnamed.
No mere exposition of morality
Made or in part or in totality,
Should win you to give it worship, therefore :
And, if no better proof you will care for,
—Whom do you count the worst man upon earth ?

    Be sure, he knows, in his conscience, more

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Of what right is, than arrives at birth

In the best man's acts that we bow before :
This last knows better—true, but my fact is,
'Tis one thing to know, and another to practise.

And thence I conclude that the real God-function

Is to furnish a motive and injunction
For practising what we know already.
And such an injunction and such a motive
As the God in Christ, do you waive, and “heady,

“High-minded,” hang your tablet-votive
Outside the fane on a finger-post ?
Morality to the uttermost,
Supreme in Christ as we all confess,
Why need we prove would avail no jot
To make him God, if God he were not ?
What is the point where himself lays stress ?
Does the precept run “Believe in good,
“In justice, truth, now understood

For the first time ?”—or, “Believe in me,
“Who lived and died, yet essentially “Am Lord of Life ?” Whoever can take
The same to his heart and for mere love's sake

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Conceive of the love,—that man obtains
A new truth ; no conviction gains
Of an old one only, made intense
By a fresh appeal to his faded sense.

XVIII

Can it be that he stays inside?
Is the vesture left me to commune with?
Could my soul find aught to sing in tune with
Even at this lecture, if she tried?
Oh, let me at lowest sympathize
With the lurking drop of blood that lies
In the desiccated brain's white roots
Without throb for Christ's attributes,
As the lecturer makes his special boast!
If love's dead there, it has left a ghost.
Admire we, how from heart to brain
(Though to say so strike the doctors dumb)
One instinct rises and falls again,
Restoring the equilibrium.
And how when the Critic had done his best,
And the pearl of price, at reason's test,
Lay dust and ashes levigable
On the Professor's lecture-table,—

CHRISTMAS-EVE

When we looked for the inference and monition
That our faith, reduced to such condition,
Be swept forthwith to its natural dust-hole,—

He bids us, when we least expect it,
Take back our faith,—if it be not just whole,
Yet a pearl indeed, as his tests affect it,
Which fact pays damage done rewardingly,
So, prize we our dust and ashes accordingly!

“Go home and venerate the myth

“I thus have experimented with—

“This man, continue to adore him

“Rather than all who went before him,

“And all who ever followed after!”—

Surely for this I may praise you, my brother!
Will you take the praise in tears or laughter?

That's one point gained: can I compass another?

Unlearned love was safe from spurning—

Can't we respect your loveless learning?

Let us at least give learning honour!

What laurels had we showered upon her,

Girding her loins up to perturb

Our theory of the Middle Verb;

Or Turk-like brandishing a scimitar

O'er anapæsts in comic-trimeter;

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Or curing the halt and maimed 'Iketides,'<sup>1</sup>
While we lounged on at our indebted ease:
Instead of which, a tricky demon
Sets her at Titus or Philemon!
When ignorance wags his ears of leather
And hates God's word, 'tis altogether;
Nor leaves he his congenial thistles
To go and browse on Paul's Epistles.
—And you, the audience, who might ravage
The world wide, enviably savage,
Nor heed the cry of the retriever,
More than Herr Heine (before his fever),—
I do not tell a lie so arrant

As say my passion's wings are furled up,
And, without plainest heavenly warrant,
I were ready and glad to give the world up—
But still, when you rub brow meticulous,
And ponder the profit of turning holy
If not for God's, for your own sake solely,
—God forbid I should find you ridiculous!
Deduce from this lecture all that eases you,
Nay, call yourselves, if the calling pleases you,
"Christians,"—abhor the deist's pravity,—
Go on, you shall no more move my gravity

<sup>1</sup> "The Suppliants," a fragment of a play by Æschylus.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Than, when I see boys ride a-cockhorse,
I find it in my heart to embarrass them
By hinting that their stick's a mock horse,
And they really carry what they say carries them.

XIX

So sat I talking with my mind.

I did not long to leave the door

And find a new church, as before,

But rather was quiet and inclined

To prolong and enjoy the gentle resting

From further tracking and trying and testing.

“This tolerance is a genial mood!”

(Said I, and a little pause ensued).

“One trims the bark 'twixt shoal and shelf,

“And sees, each side, the good effects of it,

“A value for religion's self,

“A carelessness about the sects of it.

“Let me enjoy my own conviction,

“Not watch my neighbour's faith with fretfulness,

“Still spying there some dereliction

“Of truth, perversity, forgetfulness!

“Better a mild indifferentism,

“Teaching that both our faiths (though duller

CHRISTMAS-EVE

“ His shine through a dull spirit’s prism)
“ Originally had one colour !
“ Better pursue a pilgrimage “ Through ancient and through modern times
“ To many peoples, various climes,
“ Where I may see saint, savage, sage “ Fuse their respective creeds in one “ Before the general Father’s throne !”

XX

—’Twas the horrible storm began afresh !
The black night caught me in his mesh,
Whirled me up, and flung me prone.
I was left on the college-step alone.
I looked, and far there, ever fleeting
Far, far away, the receding gesture,
And looming of the lessening vesture !—
Swept forward from my stupid hand,
While I watched my foolish heart expand
In the lazy glow of benevolence,
O’er the various modes of man’s belief.
I sprang up with fear’s vehemence.
Needs must there be one way, our chief
Best way of worship : let me strive

CHRISTMAS-EVE

To find it, and when found, contrive
My fellows also take their share !
This constitutes my earthly care :
God's is above it and distinct.
For I, a man, with men am linked
But not a brute with brutes ; no gain
That I experience, must remain
Unshared : but should my best endeavour
To share it, fail—subsisteth ever
God's care above, and I exult
That God, by God's own ways occult,
May—doth, I will believe—bring back
All wanderers to a single track.
Meantime, I can but testify
God's care for me—no more, can I—
It is but for myself I know ;
    The world rolls witnessing around me
    Only to leave me as it found me ;
Men cry there, but my ear is slow :
There races flourish or decay
    -What boots it, while yon lucid way
Loaded with stars divides the vault ?
But soon my soul repairs its fault
When, sharpening sense's hebetude,
She turns on my own life ! So viewed,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

No mere mote's-breadth but teems immense
With witnessings of providence :
And woe to me if when I look Upon that record, the sole book
Unsealed to me, I take no heed
Of any warning that I read !
Have I been sure, this Christmas-Eve,
God's own hand did the rainbow weave,
Whereby the truth from heaven slid
Into my soul?—I cannot bid
The world admit he stooped to heal
My soul, as if in a thunder-peal
Where one heard noise, and one saw flame,
I only knew he named my name :
But what is the world to me, for sorrow
Or joy in its censure, when to-morrow
It drops the remark, with just-turned head
Then, on again, 'That man is dead' ?
Yes, but for me—my name called,—drawn
As a conscript's lot from the lap's black yawn,
He has dipt into on a battle-dawn :
Bid out of life by a nod, a glance,—
Stumbling, mute-mazed, at nature's chance,—
With a rapid finger circled round,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Fixed to the first poor inch of ground
To fight from, where his foot was found ;
Whose ear but a minute since lay free
To the wide camp's buzz and gossipry—
Summoned, a solitary man
To end his life where his life began,
From the safe glad rear, to the dreadful van !
Soul of mine, hadst thou caught and held
By the hem of the vesture !—

XXI

And I caught
At the flying robe, and unrepelled
Was lapped again in its folds full-fraught
With warmth and wonder and delight,
God's mercy being infinite.
For scarce had the words escaped my tongue,
When, at a passionate bound, I sprung,
Out of the wandering world of rain,
Into the little chapel again.

XXII

How else was I found there, bolt upright
On my bench, as if I had never left it ?

And the old fat woman . . .
Eyed me with symptoms, hardly mistakable,
Of her milk of kindness turning rancid.

CHRISTMAS-EVE

—Never flung out on the common at night,
Nor met the storm and wedge-like cleft it,
Seen the raree-show of Peter's successor,
Or the laboratory of the Professor !
For the Vision, that was true, I wist,
True as that heaven and earth exist.
There sat my friend, the yellow and tall,
With his neck and its wen in the selfsame
place ;
Yet my nearest neighbour's cheek showed gall.

She had slid away a contemptuous space :
And the old fat woman, late so placable,
Eyed me with symptoms, hardly mistakable,
Of her milk of kindness turning rancid.
In short, a spectator might have fancied
That I had nodded, betrayed by slumber.
Yet kept my seat, a warning ghastly,
Through the heads of the sermon, nine in number,
And woke up now at the tenth and lastly.
But again, could such disgrace have happened ?
Each friend at my elbow had surely nudged
it ;

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And, as for the sermon, where did my nap end ?

Unless I heard it, could I have judged it ?
Could I report as I do at the close,
First, the preacher speaks through his nose :
Second, his gesture is too emphatic :
Thirdly, to waive what's pedagogic,
The subject-matter itself lacks logic :
Fourthly, the English is ungrammatical.
Great news ! the preacher is found no Pascal,
Whom, if I pleased, I might to the task call
Of making square to a finite eye
The circle of infinity,
And find so all-but-just-succeeding !
Great news ! the sermon proves no reading
Where bee-like in the flowers I bury me, Like Taylor's the immortal Jeremy !
And now that I know the very worst of him,
What was it I thought to obtain at first of him ?

Ha ! Is God mocked, as he asks ?
Shall I take on me to change his tasks,
And dare, despatched to a river-head
For a simple draught of the element,
Neglect the thing for which he sent,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

And return with another thing instead?— Saying, " Because the water found
" Welling up from underground,
" Is mingled with the taints of earth,
" While thou, I know, dost laugh at dearth,
" And couldst, at wink or word, convulse
" The world with the leap of a river-pulse,—
" Therefore I turned from the oozings muddy,
" And bring thee a chalice I found, instead:
" See the brave veins in the breccia ruddy!
" One would suppose that the marble bled.
" What matters the water? A hope I have nursed :
" The waterless cup will quench my thirst."
—Better have knelt at the poorest stream
That trickles in pain from the straitest rift !

For the less or the more is all God's gift,
Who blocks up or breaks wide the granite-seam.

And here, is there water or not, to drink ?

I then, in ignorance and weakness,
Taking God's help, have attained to think
My heart does best to receive in meekness
That mode of worship, as most to his mind,

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Where earthly aids being cast behind,
His All in All appears serene
With the thinnest human veil between,
Letting the mystic lamps, the seven,
    The many motions of his spirit,
Pass, as they list, to earth from heaven.
    For the preacher's merit or demerit,
It were to be wished the flaws were fewer
    In the earthen vessel, holding treasure
Which lies as safe in a golden ewer ;
    But the main thing is, does it hold good measure ?
Heaven soon sets right all other matters !—
    Ask, else, these ruins of humanity,
This flesh worn out to rags and tatters,
    This soul at struggle with insanity,
Who thence take comfort—can I doubt ?—
Which an empire gained, were a loss without.
May it be mine ! And let us hope
That no worse blessing befall the Pope,
Turned sick at last of to-day's buffoonery,
    Of posturings and petticoatings,
    Beside his Bourbon bully's gloatings
In the bloody orgies of drunk poltroonery !

CHRISTMAS-EVE

Nor may the Professor forego its peace
At Göttingen presently, when, in the dusk
Of his life, if his cough, as I fear, should increase,

Prophesied of by that horrible husk—
When thicker and thicker the darkness fills
The world through his misty spectacles,
And he gropes for something more substantial

Than a fable, myth or personification,—
May Christ do for him what no mere man shall,

And stand confessed as the God of salvation!

Meantime, in the still recurring fear
Lest myself, at unawares, be found,
While attacking the choice of my neighbours round,

With none of my own made—I choose here!
The giving out of the hymn reclaims me;
I have done: and if any blames me,
Thinking that merely to touch in brevity

The topics I dwell on, were unlawful,—
Or worse, that I trench, with undue levity,
On the bounds of the holy and the awful,—

CHRISTMAS-EVE

I praise the heart, and pity the head of him,
And refer myself to THEE, instead of him,
Who head and heart alike discernest
    Looking below light speech we utter,
    When frothy spume and frequent sputter
Prove that the soul's depths boil in earnest !
May truth shine out, stand ever before us !
I put up pencil and join chorus
To Hepzibah Tune, without further apology,
    The last five verses of the third section
    Of the seventeenth hymn of Whitfield's Collection,
To conclude with the doxology.
