INTERNATIONAL MILITARY TRIBUNAL FOR THE FAR EAST THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, et al) AFFIDAVIT VS ARAKI, Sadao, et al DEPONENT: NAKAMURA, Kazu I, NAKAMURA, Kazu, make oath and say as follows: I am a member of Parliament at present and also preside over the TOYO BUNKA GAKKAI (the Eastern Culture Institute). I have been on intimate terms with the accused ARAKI since he: was a Colonel, and we often exchanged opinions on world peace, and encouraged each other to strive for that cause. As chief of the Japanese delegation, I attended the International Peace Conference held in Spain in 1933. And in carrying out this important mission of ours, ARAKI gave me much help and advice. Thanks to him, I managed to fulfill my mission smoothly. ARAKI was deeply concerned with Japanese-American relations. According to his opinion, Japan and America should not wage war against each other, for those nations that have not had any hostile experience butween them in the past should do their best to keep, at any cost, their proud history for the future, and especially as Japan and America started international intercourse on mutual friendship and amicability, their amicable relations must be kept and strengthened more and more in the future. Immediately after the First Shanghai Incident in 1932. a grave crisis threstened Japanese-American relations. About that time I visited America on my way home from Europe, and had an interview with President Roosevelt to whom I was introduced (T.N. by letter of introduction; by MATSUKATA, Otohiko, a friend of mine, who was a classmate and a good friend of the President at Harvard University. I expressed b my opinions in regard to keeping peace between both countries. At that time, the President earnestly told me to send MATSUKATA to America. Is repeated this request four times. Therefore, on returning home I lost no time in trying to persuade ARAKI, HIROTA, HIRANUMA, KAMEKO, KENTARY, etc., to send MATSUKATA to the United States for the cause of peace between Japan and America. My efforts in this connection bore fruit at last and soon MATSUKATA went over to America and made a great effort to readjust Japanese-American relations. At first, things went very smoothly. But while he was negotiating with Forbes, that statement of AMO's was

The TOYO BUNKA GAKKAI that I have been presiding over has been trying to contribute to the cause of peace in the world as well as in the Bast. One of its enterprises is holding a summer school every year at Tokyo or Karuizawa, like the Williamstown Summer School in America, inviting as lecturers some pacifists of the world. The selection of lecturers was made strictly according to their peace-loving principles. Among the Japanese, as diplomats, Ir. SHIDEHLRA and the late Mr. SAITO, Hiroshi were chosen; only three of the Japanese military personnel were selected, i.e. Admiral TAKARAPM and Admiral YAMAMOTO, Eidesuke of the Mavy and General ARAKI slone of the Army. Especially General ARAKI penetrating comments on peace were so interesting and inspiring to the sudience of various nationalities that we asked him to lecture ence again. His second lecture was given in 1944, in the middle of the Pacific Mar, when speech was under most strict central in Japan, but he boldly stated his opinion on the true aim of wer and impressed the audience deeply. Only they often complained that his assertions or the true way for Japanese. In this connection he seid we had no words to apologize to the Emperor.

After the outbreak of the Lanchurian Incident, ARAKI was appointed War Minister. I knew very well that he was doing his best to stop hostilities as soon as possible, lest they should lead to an ell-out war between Japan and China. Many Americans and other foreign nerionals, however, misunderstood him to be one of the leaders of the Japanese military clique, adhering to militarism, and so they spoke ill of him. Therefore, with a view to clearing such a misleading notion on behalf of Japan as well as of ARAKI, I made a lecturing trip at my own expense through California and the other states along the Pacific coast of America. After my speeches I found some numbers of my audience still under a wrong impression about LRAMI; they would ask me questions. When I emploised that ARALI held the same views as I who had long been in America stricing to keep peaceful Japanese-American relations, and that LPAKE was one of my friends whom I respected most, they began to understand.

My rative prefeature in M.GOSHIMA, Kyushu, where ARAKI once sucjed as Commendate of the 6th Division. He taught enlisted young men in the KAGCSHIMA districts that true

Japanese soldiers should devote themselves to the cause of world peace with a spirit of benevolence in accordance with the august will of the Emperor, and trained them to that effect, which they still remember now and for which they are very thankful to him.

As far as I know, ARAKI made efforts to prevent aggravation of the Manchurian Incident, as I have said before. Later he assumed a cautious attitude and opined against Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations, against the China Incident, and against the Three Powers Pact between Japan, Italy and Germany, to say nothing of the Pacific War, and he had been trying as best he knew how to contribute towards the peace of the world as well as of Japan. But he has been very sorry to find Japan, contrary to his intentions, falling into such a miserable state.
