Place with which we were well aequaiated, and to which feveral times in the year fome or other of our Nation ufiually refort; either for Gazel or Hog-hunting, according to their Seafon; nor had we hence above feven or eight hours to Aleppo.

Oflober the 16 th . Getting up pretty early in the morning, we refolved to Hunt the greateft part of our way home, as we did; and dining at the famous RoundHill, whereon has been fpent by the Englifh more Money than would purchafe a noble Eftate round about it, in the afternoon we arrived fafe at Aleppo.
III. Some Account of the Ancient State of the City of Palmyra, with fbort Remarks xpon the Infcriptions found there. By E. Halley.

$T$HE City of Tadmor, whole Remains in Ruines do with fo much evidence demonftrate the once happy Condition thereof, feems very well to be proved to be the fame City which Solomon the Great King of Ifrael is faid to have founded under that Name in the Defart, both in 1 King. 9. 18. and 2 Cbron. 8. 16. in the Tranlation of which, the Vulgar Latin Verfion, faid to be that of St. Ferom, has it, Condidit Palmyram in Deferto. And Fofephus (in lib. 8. Antiq. Jud. wherein he treats of Solomon and his Acts) tells us, that he built a City in the Defart, and called it Thadamora; and the Syrians at this day (fays he), call it by the fame Name: but the Greeks name it Palmyra. The Name is therefore Greek, and confequently has no relation to the пá $\lambda_{\mu}{ }^{\prime}$ s, or perhaps from $\Pi a \lambda \mu \tilde{u}^{\prime} u n$, which (according to the fame Author) was an Egyptian God. Neither is the word ת ת but hat in Hebrew fignifies a Palm-Tree.

Hiftory is filent as to the Fate and Circumftances of this City, during the great Revolutions in the feveral Empires of the Eaft; but it may well be fuppofed, that fo advanced a Garnifon as this was, being above Three hundred Miles from ferufalem, continued not long in the Poffeffion of the Fews, who immediately after Solomon, fell into Civil Diffention, and divided their Force : fo that it is not to be doubied, but that it fubmitted to the Babylonian and Perfian Monarchies, and afterwards to the Macedonians under Alexander and the Seleucida, But when the Romans got footing in thefe Parts, and the Parthians feemed to put a fop to their farther Conquefts in the East, then was this City of Palmyra, by reafon of its Situation, being a Frontier and in the midet of a vaft Sandy Defart, where Armies could not well fubfit to reduce it by force, courted and carefled by the contending Princes, and permitted to continue a Free State, a Mart or Staple for Trade, for the Convenience of both Empires, as is abundantly made out from the words of Appian and Pliny.

Appian (lib. 5. de Bellis Civil.) tells us, that M. Antonius, after his Victory at Pbilippi, about forty Years before Cbrist, fent his Horfe to plunder the City of Palmyra, pretending only that they were nor fifficiently chants, they conveyed the Indian and Arabian Commodities by the way of Perfia into the Roman Territories; though the true reafon were their Riches: But the Paim myrenes being informed of the Defign, took care to prevent them, and fo efcaped Plunder : and this Attempt of Antony's occafioned a Rupture between the two Empires. The words of Pliny (lib.5. Nat. Wiff.) above an hundred years after, do likewife teftifie that this City then continued in the fame enjoyment of their Liberties. They being very mach to the purpofe, I thought fit to Copy them : Palmyra Urbs nobilis fitu, divitiis Soli atque squis amenis, vafto undique ambitu arenis includit agros, ac velut terris exempta à rerum Natura; privata forte inter duo imperia fumma Romanorum Partborumque, ஞ prima in difcordiâ femper utrinque cura. Whereby it appears not only that it was a Commonwealth in the time of Vefpafian; but the Situation thereof is truly defcribed, as it were an 1 Iand of fertile Land, furroun̂ded with a Sea of barren Sands. Such Spots Strabo tells us were frequent in Lybia, and by the Egyptians were called $A b a f e s$; whence poffibly the Name of the Abalfye Nation is derived:

With thefe Advantages of Freedom, Neutrality and Trade, for near two Centuries, 'tis not ftrange that it acquired the State and Wealth anfwerable to the Magnificence of thefe noble Structures. But when the Romans under Trajan hiad made it appear, that there was no comparifon between the Puiffance of the Partbians and them,( (Trajan having takenBabylon and Ctefiphon the then Seat of the Partbian Empire, the Palmyreni were at length determined to Declare for the Romans; which they did, by fubmitting themfelves to the Emperor Adrian, about the Year of Chrift 130 , when $\operatorname{sdriain}$ made his Progrefs through Syria into Egypt. And that Magnificent Emperor being highly delighted with the native Strength and Situation of the Place, was pleafed to adorn and rebuild it : When, as 'tis likely, he beftowed on it the Privileges of a Colony Furis Italici, which it enjoyed (as Vlpian affures us.) And the Inhabitants of the City, in Gratitude, were willing to call themfelves redirpo. (fays Stephanus.) Nor is it unlikely that many many of thofe Marble Pillars were the Gift of that Emperor, and particularly thofe of the Long Porticus; for that none of the Infcriptions are before that date. And it was ufual for the Cafars to prefent Cities that had obliged them, with Marble Pillars to adorn their publick Buildings. Thefe here were not far to fetch, the neibouring Mountains affording Marble-Quarries: But the Magnitude of the Porphyry Columns is indeed very remarkable, confidering how far thofe vaft Stones muft have been brought by Land-carriage to this Place; it being not known that any other Quarries yield it, except thofe of Egypt, which lie about mid-way between Cairo and Siena, between the Nile and the Red-Sea: the Stone being very valuable for its Colour and Hardnefs, and for that it rifes in blocks of any magnitude required; Quantilibet molibus ceedendis fufficiunt Lapidicince, (Plin. lib. 36.) And it is a great miftake of thofe who fuppofe it factitious.

From the time of Adrian to that of Aurelian, for about an hundred and forty years, this City continued to flourifh and encreafe in Wealth and Power, to that degree, that when the Emperor Valerian was taken Prifoner by Sapores King of Perfia, Odanathus one of the Lords of this Town (which Name occurs in feveral of thefe Infcriptions) was able (whillt Gallienus neglected his Duty both to his Father and Country) to bring a powerful Army into the Field, and to recover Mefopotamia from the Perfans, and to penetrate as far as their Capital City ctefiphon. Thereby rendring fo confiderabre Service to the Roman State, that Gallienus thought himfelf obliged to giue him a thare in the Empire : Of which Action, Irebellius Pollio (in the Life of Gallienus) has thefe words, Laudatur ejus (Gallieni) optimum factum, qui, Odenatum participato Imperio Auguftum vocavit, ejufque monetam, qua Perfas captos traberet, cudi juflit: quod ©' Senatus $\mathfrak{G}$ Urbs $\mathcal{E}$ omnis etas gratanter accepit. fame in many places fpeaks of this Odenatbus with great Refpect; and mentioning his Death, he fays, Iratum fuife Deum Reip. credo, qui interfecto Valeriano noluit Odenatum refervare. But by a ftrange reverfe of Fortune, this Honour and Refpect to Odanathus occafioned the fudden Ruine and Subverfion of the City. For he and his Son Herodes being murder'd by Meonius their Kinfman, and dying with the Title of Auguftus, his Wife Zenobia, in Right of her Son Waballathus then a Minor, pretended to take upon her the Government of the East, and did adminifter it to admiration: And when foon after Gallienus was murder'd by his Soldiers, fhe grafped the Government of Egypt, and held it during the fhort Reign of the Emperor Claudius Gothicus. But Aurelian coming to the Imperial Dignity, would not fuffer the Title of Auguftus in this Family, tho' he was contented that they fhould hold under him as Vice Caefaris; as plainly appears by the Latin Coins of Aurelian on the one fide,and Waballathus (which Name is often found in thefe Infcriptions) on the other, with there Letters V. C. R.I M. OR, which P. Harduin has moft judicioully interpreted Vice Cafaris Rector Imperii Orientis, but without the Title of Crefar or Auguftus, and with a Lawrel inftead of a Diadem. But both Waballatbus and Zenobia are ftiled CEBACTOI in the Greek Coins, made, 'tis probable, within their own Jurifdiction. Two of the Latine I have feen, and they are as defrribed, excepting the Points.

But nothing lefs than a Participation of the Empire contenting Zenobia, and Aurelian perfifting not to have it difmembred : he marched againft her, and having in two Battels routed her Forces, he thut her up and befieged her in Palmyra: And the Befieged finding that the great refiftance they made, availed not againft that refolute Emperor, they yielded the Town ; and Zenobia flying with her Son, was purfued and taken : With which which Aurelian being contented, fpared the City, and leaving a fmall Garnifon, marcht for Rome with this Captive Lady : but the Inhabitants believing he would not return, fet up again for themfelves, and (as Vopicus has it) flew the Garrifon he had left in the Place. Which Aurelian underftanding, thoügh by this time he was gotten into Europe, with his ufual fiercenefs, fpeedily returned ; and collecting a fufficient Army by the way, he again took the City without any great Oppofition, and put it to the Sword, with an uncommon Cruelty, (as he himfelf confeffes in a Letter extant in Vopifous, ) and delivered them to the Pillage of his Soldiers. And it is obfervable, that none of the Greek Incriptions are after the date of this Calamity, which befell the City in or about the Year of Cbrist 272, as far as may be collected, after it had been nine or ten years the Seat of the Empire of the Eaft, not without Glory.

In this appears alfo the great utility of Coins to illuftrate Matters of Hiftory; for by them alone 'tis made out, that there was fuch a Prince as Waballatbus, Vopifcus. fingly mentioning him by the Name of Balbatus: And from the fame Coins it appears, that Odenathus had the Title of Auguftus four Years, and Waballathus fix at leaft; and that the Firft Year of Aurelian was the Fourth of Waballathus. And by the Teftimony of Pollio, Ode. natbus was declared Emperor of the Eaft, Gallieno & Saturnino Colf. which was Anno Cbrilli 263 , and died before Gallienus, but in the fame Year, viz. Anno 267, which, by the Coins, was the Firf of Waballathus. He therefore immediately fucceeded Odenathus, and was without doubt his Eldeft Son by Zenobia, and not his Grandfon the Son of Herodes, as fome learned Men have fuppofed: For if Zenobia could not endure that. Herodes Son of Odenatbus by a former Wife, fhould fucceed his Father in prejudice to her Children, and for that reafon was confenting to his Murther (as pollio intimates timates in Herodes and Maonius,) much lefs would the endure the Title of Auguftus in the Son of Herodes, efpecially when her own Sons were, as 'tis probable, elder than fuch Grandfon. So that 'tis moft likely that Herennianus and Timolaus, whom Pollio reckons among his XXX Tyrants, might be the younger Sons of $Z_{e}$ nobia, on whom alfo, out of Motherly Affcction, the might beftow the fame Titles of Honour.

But it muft be obferved, that in the Greek Coins, this Prince's Name is ufually written AYT. EPMIAC OrABA $\Lambda \Lambda A \Leftrightarrow O C$ C. A@HNOX (as Triftan fays he found it upon feveral Medals,) but Patin has the laft word only $A \oplus H$. I fhould be glad to perufe fome of thefe curious Coins, efpecially if found in or near Palmyra: but I am inclinable to believe that his true Name was Eranes Waballathus (as was one of his Progenitors, in Infcription. pag. 88.) though perhaps the remoter Cities of Afia and Ionia might by miftake write it Hermias And 'tis probable that A@HN might be for the firft Letters of the Name of O $\triangle$ HNA $\odot O C$, which in Syriack begun with an Aleph; and the $\Delta$ was with thofe People ufed inftead of $\Theta$, as we fee the Month Xantbicus, written Eavours in many of thefe Infcriptions, which doubtlefs was pronounced like D blafum or the Saxon $\boxplus$.

Though this City were at that time fo roughly treated by Aurelian, yet it is certain that he did not burn it, or deftroy the Buildings thereof: And though zooró fas, yet that feems only to relate to his demolifhing the Walls and Defences of the Place; and that Emperors own Letter extant in Vopifcus, doth fufficiently fhew that he fpared the City it felf, and that he took care to re-inftate the beautiful Temple of the Sun that was there, which had been plundered by his Soldiers. However, the Damage then fuftained was never retrieved by the Inhabitants, and I do not find that ever this this City made any figure in Hiftory after it : yet the Latin Infription, (pag. Ior.) feems to intimate, as if Dioclefian had reftored their Walls within thirty years after. About the Year of Cbrift 400, it was the Head Quarters of the Legio Prima Illyricoram; and though Stephanus gives it no better Title than epzeouv, yet it appears to have been an Archbihop's See, under the Metropolitan of Damafcus. To fay in what Age or from what Hand it received its final Overthrow, which reduced it to the miferable Condition it now appears in, there is no light in any of our Hiftorians; but it is probable it perifht long fince, in the obfcure Ages of the World, during the Wars of the Saracen Empire ; and being burnt and defolated, it was never rebuilt; which occafions the Ruins to lie fo entire, in a manner as they were left, neither being ufed to other Structures on the place, nor worth carrying away, becaufe of the great diftance thereof from any other City.

As to the Geographical Site of Palmyra, Ptolemy places it in the Latitude of Tripoly on the Coaft of Syria, and four Degrees more Eafterly, viz.

\text { Пaлucieg . oar s'. } \lambda \delta_{\text {. }}

and he makes it the Capital of fixteen Cities in Syria Palmyrena, whereof Alalis, Danaba and Evaria were afterwards Bifhops Sees. Pliny places it CCIII Miles from the neareft Coaft of Syria, and CCCXXXVII from Seleucia ad Tygrim near Bagdat, (which Numbers are erroneoully printed 252 and 537 in moft Editions, contrary to the Authority of the MSS.) fofepbus places it one day's Journey from Euphrates, and fix from Babylon ; which muft be underftood of Horfe-man's Journeys of about fixty Miles per diem, it being more than 5 much from this City to Eupbrates. Ptolemy alfo mentions a River running by Palmyra; which did not appear to our. Travellers, unlefs that Gutt or Chanel wherein wherein they were overflowed by the Rain-Waters, were the Bed thereof ; which may, poflibly, run with a conftant ftream in the Winter or times of much Rain : But this (as the Rivers of Aleppo and Damafcus at this day) is made by Ptolomy to have no exit; but to go off in Vapour, and to be imbibed by the thirfy Earth of thele Defarts.

The ZEra or Accompt of Years obferved by the Palmyreni in thefe Infcriptions, is evidently that of Seleucus, call'd afterwards Dbilcarnain or Bicornis by the Arabians, and by them kept in ufe till above 900 Years of Cbrift (as appears by the Obfervations of Albatâni, publifhed in Numb. 204. of thefe Trainactions,) and not that of the Death of Alexander. This may be demonftrated from the Infcription (pag. 97.) wherein Alexander Severus is ftiled $(\subseteq \in O C$; that is, after the Death and Confecration of that Emperor, or after the Year of our Lord 234 ; and from the Name of Fulius, who, when this Inicription was put up, was Prafeitus Pretorio, (and could be no other than fulius Pbilippus Arabs who might be efteemed by the Palmyreni as their Countryman,) it follows, that it was in the laft Year of Gordian, Anno Cbrifi 242, or 243 : And that Emperor being foon after murder'd by the Treachery of this Pbilip, who fucceeded him : and his Treafon coming afterwards to light, 'tis not ftrange that his Name was purpofely effaced in this Infcription. The Date thercof, Anno 554, hews the beginning of this Accompt 311 or 312 Years before Cbrist, coincident with the $\not \subset$ ra of Seleucus, which was likewife obferved by feveral other Cities in the Eaft.

I hall not undertake the part of a Critick on thefe Infcriptions, but chufe rather to leave them to the more profeffedly skilful in that part of Learning, and fhall only make fome few Remarks on them, fuch as occurred whilft they paft through my hands.

1. That the more ancient of thefe Infcriptions dated before the Year 500, do no where make ufe of Roman Prenomina, which yet are very frequent in them that follow; particularly Fulius, Aurelius and Septimius, taken up by thefe People out of Refpect to the Emperore that bore thofe Names; and confequently that Septimius Odenathus (the Infcription of whofe Tomb we have, pag. 88.) was moft probably the fame who was afterwards Auguftus. That Name growing in ufe in the Reign of Septimius Severus, under whom or his Son Caracalla this Odenathus was certainly born. And this Monument being erected by him whilft he was yet a private Man; and he afterwards attaining the Imperial Dignity, it was neceffary the Infcription of his Tomb (which perhaps was that fingle one that was all of Marble) fhould be changed : upon which occafion this Stone might be brought back into the Town, and after its Deftruction, be clapt up cafually over the little Gateway where now it ftands.
2. Pag. 95. KATE $\uparrow$ ©ONTEC EIC O OOTECIA $\triangle A$ ENIOPOIAN ECTHEAN : Defcendentes Vologefiada Commercium fabiliverunt, Anno 558, five Anno Clriflti 247. Whereby it appears, that this People having had their Trade interrupted by the Wars between the Romans and the Perfians, under Gordian; did now fend an Embaffie to the Court of Sapores King of the Perfians, to get it re-eftablifhed; which fucceeded according to their Defires. Vologefias was a City built by Vologefes King of the Parthians in the time of Nere, on the Euphrates below Babylon : Ptolemy calls it Ojò入 reac̀s ; Stepbanus, Bo-入ozeracs; Ammianus, Vologefia; and Pliny, lib. 6. Vologefocirta.
3. Pag. 97. KAI OYKONIC $\omega N A$ ФEIDHCANTA XPHMATcoN. I fubmit it to the Judgment of the Criticks, whether this faulty place may not be amended, by reading it ork OIKEI $\omega \mathbb{N}$ AФ́IDHCANTA, Ěc. as likewife wiether $\triangle I C M A A X O \Upsilon$ in the fame Infeription may not be inftead of MAAXOY TOY MAAKOY, which is the ingenious Conjecture of that excellent Grammarian Mr. William Baxter.
4. Pag. 98. Septimium Vorodem Procuratorem Ducenarium Augufi $\mathcal{G}$ APOAПヒTHN. This word, if Greek; is faultily tranfribed; and in one Copy I have feen, the $O$ is very fmall, as I fuppofe it on the Stone; which might occafion the tranfcribing thereof without it in the former Vayage (pag. 137.) So that 'tis moft probable that 'tis the remains of fcme other letter almont worn out. I conjecture it to have been APTATETHN, $\Pi$ being taken for $\bar{\Gamma}$, and that this Septimius was Preefectus Annonce, having the care to fee that the City were fufficiently provided with Bread; which was a moft neceflary Officer in a Place that muft needs be farnifh'd with Corn from Abroad. And this fame Septimius, (in the Infcription, pag 99) is ftiled ..... EOAOTHN THC MHTPOKO $\omega \omega \mathrm{N} \in I A C$. lege KPEOAOTHN, which fhould fignifie that he was Diftributor of the Emperor's Munificence in Elefh to the People. Thefe Infcriptions bear date in April, Ayino Dom: 267, not long before the Death of Odonathus, who is herein ftiled CEBACTOC: and 'tis not improbable but he might inftitute fuch a Cuftom, as at the Publick Charge, to give the People a Largefs in Fleth on particular Days, to reconcile them to the Dominion of their Fellow-Citizen. This is certain, that Auretian fiff inftituted fuch a Cuftom of giving Fleth at Rome: The words of $\overline{\text { E }}$ opifous are, Idem Aurelianus $\mathfrak{E}$ porcinam carnem populo Romano diftribuit, quae bodieque dividitur; which Cuftom continued till the time of Conftantine, when (according to Zofmus) one Lacian, who had this Office of diftributing Swines Flefh at Romeror bad Intereft enough among the People to fet up Maxentius for Emperor ; and Salmafius affures us, that it was not difcontinued till the time of Henalius.,

(171)

It will not therefore feem ftrange, if I fuppofe Aurelian might find that Cuftom at Palmyra, and at his return from thence inftitute the like at Rome.

I am enclined to believe, that not only thofe two Infriptions, pag. 98, and the laft of pag. 99, but alfo that of pag. 100, were in Honour of the fame Septimius Vo. rodes, who feems to have been a great Favourite of Odenatbus, and was without doubt refpected by the Romans on that account, whom I conclude to have effaced all the Memorials of Zenobia and Waballathus, infomuch that no one appears, among thofe many taken, that was fet up during the fix years they reigned. The Name Vorodes feems the fame with Orodes, which was the Name of the King of the Partbians that flew Crafus: and the Perfans having, about forty years before, expelled the Race of the Arfacida, 'tis not improbable but the Remains of that Royal Family might fly for fuccour to Palmyra, and this Vorodes might be one of them:
5. In two other Copies of thefe Infcriptions; the firft of pag. 99. is read, $\sum \varepsilon \pi$ ripucv Aiedives "O ouvcols, and not 'O $\delta$ ayvés as in the firf Copy, and perhaps ought rather to be 'Odaivesov, as being the Infcription under a Statue of the fame Odanatbus, who is here, as well as on his Tomb, filed Illaffrifimus Patricius, but without a Date.
6. ЋПO IAPIB $\sim A O \Upsilon$ © It cannot well be doubted, but that this Deus Faribolus is the fame with what Gruter (pag. 86.) and Spon (in the firt of his Infcriptions) reads ATAIBphco. By the Figure of the Iddel extant in Spon, it appears that this God was made with the Moon upon his Shoulders, and confequently was the Deus Lunus worhipped by the Syrians, whofe Name, in the Language of that Country, could not be better exprefed chan by farebbôl Dominus Lunus. Whence I am induced to buleve, that Gruter miftook it AFAlBwiw for ADAIBwas, the 1 an the leginning, and the lower part of the round ftroke of the $P$, being effaced, fo as to pafs for $\Gamma$. I have taken care to have the Stone purpofely viewcd, as alfo to get from thence the exact Figúre of the Syrian or Palmyrene Characters thereon, wherein there is an irreconcileable difference between Spon and Gruter. By the help of thefe, compared with two others taken at Palmyra, which I have by me, (they being all very near the fame Date, ) I hope we may be able, one day, to make out the Palmyrewe Alphabet: but it were to be wifht our Travellers had tranfcribed them with more curiofity, and taken more of them.

By the way, it is remarkable, that the Perfon who dedicated this Monument, in Gruter and Spon, is ftiled $\Lambda$. AYp. HAO $\mathrm{H} \omega \mathrm{POC}$ : and the fame Name occurs in a broken Infcription which Mr. Halifax omitted in his Letter to Dr. Bernard; as being too imperfect. It flood on the right-hand of the entrance to the little Temple defcribed pag. 104. and was thus,

And after a blank of three lines all worn out except one fingle O , there followed.
 And that imperfect one in pag. 99. feems to have relation to the fame Name.
7. Pag. 105. masenton kai arpilitan lege manhn ton kat afpimian, it being written manhnton, with H in the two other Copies I have feen, whereby the fence is cleared.
8. Pag. 109. ataøanteaoc abiahnoc thC $\triangle \in$ Kamoigoc, Agathangelus Abilenus Decapolitanus, Patronymice.. There were in thefe Parts two Cities known by the Name of Abila; to diftinguift which, the one was called Abila $\mathbf{Z y}$. fanie, from the Name of the Tetrarch: St. Luke, ch.3. I. and is placed by Ptolemy (in his Coilofyria) about midway between Damaficus and Heliopolis: The other in Fudlaa, called Abila ad Fordanem, defcribed by fofepbus in many places, to lie over-againft fericbo, near the DeardSea. Decapolis was fo called from its Ten Cities, enumerated by Pliny (lib.5.18.) And with them he reckons up, among others, the Tetrarchy of Abila; in the fame Decapolis : which demonftrates the Abila Decapolis and Abila Ly fanize to be the fame Place. And tho' it cannot be denied, but that fome of Pliny's Ten Cities are not far diftant from that near fordan; yet it doth not appear that ever this other had the Title of a Tetrarchy. Here it is to be obferved, that what Pliny calls Decapolis, Ptolemy makes his Coele Syria; and the Cole Syria of Pliny, is that part of Syria about Aleppo, formerly call'd Cbalcidene, Cyrrbifice, \&c.

( 173 )

What this Town of Teibe was anciently call'd, is not fo eafily conjectured : but if the Numbers of Ptolemy may be confided in, it is very near the Situation of a City he calls Oriza; and perhaps his Adada may be our Soukney, and his Rheefapha what is now called ArJoffa:

It is taken for granted, that Old Aleppo was anciently the City of Berrbaa, and there wants not ancient Teftimony to prove it; which being granted, I think I may without fcruple conclude, that Andrene (pag. 131, and 139.) is the Ruines of the City of Androna; and Efree (pag. 141.) that of Seriane, both mentioned in the Itinerary of Antoninus, in the Journey à Dolica Seriane. But this whole Country is laid about Half a Degree more Southerly than it ought, by Ptolemy, who places Berrbeaa in Lat. 36 deg. For the Meridian Altitude of the Tropical Sun at Aleppo is found there but 77 deg. whence the Latitude 36 deg. 30 min. as it was obferved, Asso 1680, by three feveral Quadrants, in the prefence of a curious Gentleman, to whom I am abliged for this Communication.

By the fame Obfervation a much grater Error is amended in the Latitude of Aleppo, ia the Rudolfine Tables of Kepler; who fuppofes Aleppo to have been the Ancient Antiocbia ad Taurum, and accordingly places it in Lat. 37 deg. 20 min. wherein he is followed by Bul. lialdus and others; and feveral Maps have copied the Miffake. But a much greater ufe of it is, that thereby we are affured, that the City of Aralta, wherein Albatani made the Obfervations we have publifh'd in Numb. 204. was, without doubt, the fame which is now called Racca on the Euphrates; of which Town an Accountmay be feen in Rauwolf's Voyages, and which was not many Miles below the Place where our Travellers frit came on the River : And if Arecca, in the Language of this Country, relates to ViClory (as is faid ia pag. I48.) it was, doubtlefs, anciently the City Nicephorion, built by Alexander the Great; with which the Sixuation exaatly agrees. The Latitude thereof was obferved by that Albatäni with great accuratenefs, about eight hundred years fince; and therefore I recommend it to all that are curious of fuch Matters, to endeavour to get fome good Obfervation made at this Place, to determin the Height of the Pole there, thereby to decide the Controverfie, whether there hath really been any Change in the Axis of the Earth, in fo. long an Interval ; which fome great Authors, of late, have been willing to fuppofe. And if any curious Traveller, or Merchant refiding there, would pleafe to obferve, with due care, the Pbafes of the Moons Eclipfes at Bagdat, Aleppo and Alexandria, thereby to determine their Longitudes, they could not do the Science of Aftronomy a greater Service: For in and near thefe Places were made all the Obfervations whereby the Middle Motions of the Sun and Moon are limited: And I could then pronounce in what Proportion the Moon's Motion does Accelerate; which that it does, I think I can demonftrate, and fhall (God willing) one day, make it appear to the Publick.

The Pbilofopbical Reader is defired to excure our breaking-in upon the Subject of thefe Tratts, by intermixing Hiftorical and Pbilological Matters, as alfo our exceeding the Bounds of an Extract : But we hope the Curiofity of the Subject, joyned to the Defires of the Royal Society, may make an eafie Apology fuffice. There may be many other Inftructive Remarks made thereon, which ftill deferve the Confideration of the Learned, and from fuch the Publick may yet expect a further Account.
