Address, to assure His Majesty that the House have long lamented the Condition of their unhappy Fellow Subjects in America, and took a sincere Part in His Majesty's Desire, rather to reclaim than to subdue the most refractory of His Colonies, but now see that no other Use has been made of the Forbearance of His Majesty, and His Parliament, but to strengthen the Preparations of this desperate Conspiracy, which are manifestly carried on for the Purpose of establishing an independent Empire; that they entirely concur with Him in thinking it is now become the Part of Wisdom to put a speedy End to these Disorders by the most decisive Exertions, and learn with Satisfaction that for this Purpose His Majesty has increased his Naval Establishment, and greatly augmented His Land Forces, in such Manner as may be the least burthensome; and that the House will cheerfully support Him in such necessary measures, and enable Him to avail Himself of the Offers He has received of Foreign Assistance; thanking his Majesty for sending a Part of His Electoral Troops to Gibraltar and Mahon, and for pointing out the constitutional Resource of our national Militia; assuring Him that the House hear with the highest Satisfaction His affectionate Declaration, that when the deluded Multitude shall become sensible of their Error, He will be ready to receive them with Tenderness and Mercy, and will give their Concurrence to such Measures as may best contribute to carry His Majesty's humane Intention into Execution, declaring that every Motive which can animate the Hearts of loyal Subjects, call upon them to grant such Supplies as the Exigency of Affairs may require, and trust that they shall, by the Blessing of God, put such Force into His Majesty's Hands, as may soon suppress this Rebellion, and enable Him to re-establish Order, Tranquillity, and Happiness, through all Parts of His united Empire; Amendment proposed, Neg.; Address resolved on; Committee appointed to prepare it; King's Speech referred; 26 Oct. Address reported; Question Neg. for re-committing it; Amendment proposed, Neg.; Address agreed to; to be presented by the whole House; 27.
