MAYOR MORLEY OUT FOR COMMISSION

PUBLIC OPINION WILL BE ASCERTAINED FIRST

Will Be Discussed in Council at Next Meeting and Then at Public Meeting

Will Victoria be governed by council or by commission? that is the question; the question that was but dimly yet none the less certainly adumbrated in the suggestion of Mayor Morley last night to the council in session; a commission consisting of the mayor and two aldermen, among whose particular duties would be that of looking ahead and arranging schemes of civic improvement, etc., which would be of value to the city, and which, under the present system was rendered impossible by the governing body having to devote all its time to the task of coping with the immediate business of the city.

In making the suggestion and asking the aldermen to think it over until the next meeting of the council, when he proposes to bring the matter before them for a full dress discussion, Mayor Morley stated that many of the movements which he had advocated in past years and which had been turned down by the then councils had now been conclusively proved to be pregnant with good for the city. Had they been carried out, he claimed that the city would have been in a much better position in regard to works of convenience and beautification than it was to-day. He said, in reference to the illustration which coronation day gave them, "After the experience which we had yesterday showing the city's growth we should have a standing committee or commission, independent of the council, except from year to year, to promulgate ideas and make plans for the improvement and beautification of the city in regard to the proper centres for public buildings, the radiating of trunk connections and matter of that sort, which could only be taken up after careful thought had been devoted to them. I am satisfied that the people will never act unless it be as a result of some concerted action. I feel that the people would realize the value of such a project if it was taken up in a definite and determined manner. Unless such a commission came into existence he did not believe that the people would ever take the necessary action to carry out the ideas he had in mind.

As an instance of what he meant he referred to the city hall which he said had long outlived its utility. He claimed that within two or three years something would absolutely have to be done for the provision of a new hall. Having in mind the fact that his previous suggestions in this regard had now become much more difficult matter than formerly to obtain a central site for the new city hall. All the prominent and suitable sites which were available when he suggested that action should be taken were now gone, and the prices asked for the remaining sites were almost prohibitive. Yet something would have to be done in order to relieve the congestion and he thought that this would be a good work to start the commission upon. He also stated his intention of calling a public meeting to find out the opinion of the people.

None of the aldermen spoke on the subject but it was tacitly agreed that the matter would come up for discussion and probably action next Friday.

The above proposal of the mayor arose out of a meeting in regard to the utility of carrying out the local improvement work on Belleville street to the Outer Wharf. The paving of this street has already been passed; in fact it is included in the work handed over to the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company, and it was brought up last for reconsideration on the motion of the mayor. The object of the proposal in bringing up the matter for reconsideration before the council a plan made in 1907 showing how this thoroughfare could be widened and straightened and made adaptable for the heavy traffic which it is believed will carry it in the future. When that plan was first up the estimated cost of expropriating the unnecessary corners, etc., was $12,000. Now of course, the cost would be much more but his worship thought that if it was delayed any longer it would be more expensive still.

The city solicitor pointed out that to extract that work from the contract of the Canadian Mineral and Rubber Company would leave the city liable in damages to the company for the cost of paving the street. As the cost of paving the street would be borne by the contractor it was thought that some arrangement could easily be come to which would make up the difference and reserve the street in question for treatment according to the 1907 plan.

Objection was raised to the mayor's proposition by H. M. Fullerton, who urged that the paving be gone on with as intended. He stated that to put the 1907 plan in operation now would cost too much, and also that it would be harmful to the streets abutting on it. The delay was another element which he strongly objected to.

Ald. Langley also objected to the operation of the 1907 plan, but the line of

UNDERSTANDING IS MUCH DESIRED

CONDUIT PLANS ARE CRITICISED

Installation of Conduit Telephone System to Be Subject to Approval of City Officials

That a better understanding between the city and the B. C. Telephone Company is necessary in connection with the installation of the conduit system which has already been started on Vancouver street was made manifest to the city council at last night's meeting, when the report of the city engineer upon the nature, substance and method of the installation of the system on that thoroughfare was submitted. The engineer was asked to report upon the matter for the information of the mayor and aldermen, who did not appear to be fully posted about the details of the arrangement with the company.

The report stated that the conduits and details were designed by the company's engineer and are supposed to be on the lines of good practice. It is said that creosote wood conduits never decay and are the only self-contained conduits made. Where they are employed no concrete is required to lay them (despite the criticisms on that point of his worship the Mayor at the last meeting) they are smooth inside and can be installed without damage to the water system, and they are also good insulators. Another report by the city electrician suggesting one or two ways in which the work of installation might be improved was also submitted.

The question of controlling the plans arose out of the ensuing discussion and it was found that at the present time the company does not require to have its plans approved by the city. This knowledge inclined Alderman Langley to argue that the plans of installation should be very carefully considered by the city officials before the work was started, as otherwise, if the work was gone on with and proved unsatisfactory in the end, the city would have no redress.

Mayor Morley suggested that it might be possible to come to some arrangement with the company whereby the plans of the installation might be submitted for the approval of the city officials. This suggestion was adopted by the council and the matter was left in the hands of the city engineer and the electrical superintendent.

On the recommendation of the finance committee overruling in all departments of the city hall will be paid at the rate of 55 cents per hour for clerical work and 50 cents per hour for stenographic work.

The street sweepers managed to get on the right side of the council with their petition for an increase of pay on Sundays and holidays. They wanted double time for these particular occasions. H. M. Fullerton put up a fight for the full amount demanded but after hearing the city engineer and going over fully into the question it was decided to grant the men time and a half. The wage of this class of men at the present time is fixed at $2.75 for eight hours. As the men often work during the night it was felt that they were none too well treated and that if they would accept time and a half the council would grant the petition.

WILL RAISE PRICES.
Ottawa, June 24.—Hotel men here are signing a round robin to increase the price of drinks over the bar. Recent Ontario legislation is given as the cause.

BALLOONIST RESCUED BY BOY SCOUT

Lad Assists Aeronaut Who Fell
Into River at Medicine Hat

Medicine Hat, June 24.—James Coakley, the balloonist connected with the Northwest Amusement Company's show, who fell into the Kootenay lake at Nelson and had three ribs broken at MacLeod, recently, met with another misfortune here when his balloon remained persistently over the river and eventually descended into the water with him. Norman Rossiter, a boy scout, swam out to the rescue and assisted Coakley to shore.

NEW DOLLAR BILLS.
Ottawa, June 24.—New $1 bills have been issued by the finance department, the distribution which will take place simultaneously in different centres.

Assistant receivers-general at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Victoria, have received the new bills on hand. Pictures of Lord and Lady Gray appear in the centre of the note, the old lumbering scene being abolished.

SLIDE FOR THE RECIPROCITY PLATE

HON. T. M. DALY DIES SUDDENLY

The Former Cabinet Minister
Passes Away at the Prairie
Capital

Winnipeg, June 24.—Hon. T. Mayne Daly, police magistrate, passed away here early this morning. He took court as usual yesterday, and did not complain of feeling ill.

Mr. Daly was taken ill at about 10 o'clock last evening. Dr. C. C. Field, who was called in, diagnosed the trouble as a stone passing through the bladder. He gave temporary relief, but about midnight the case becoming worse, Dr. Blanchard was called in consultation. Mr. Daly rapidly sank and died at fifteen minutes past five this morning, the direct cause being hemorrhage of the kidneys.

Thomas Mayne Daly was born at Stratford, Ont., August 18, 1852, was educated at Toronto and went to Manitoba in 1881. He was first mayor of Brandon in 1882. Mr. Daly was returned for Selkirk to the Commons in 1887, and held his seat until 1896. He was minister of Indian affairs from 1892 until 1896. Toward the close of the latter year he opened an office at Rossland for the practice of his profession. He was appointed judge of the Juvenile Court, Winnipeg, in 1909.

As a magistrate he was eminently successful in reducing crime, but among the boys of the city he carried on a work difficult to appreciate. Closely identified with all uplift movements, from courts of honor to boy scouts, Mr. Daly in a peculiar sense looked the youth of the city under his protection. Only last Thursday he played a conspicuous part in the big celebration by the school cadets on coronation day. He was prominently identified with the Children's Aid and Y. M. C. A., and as head of the police commission he was about to inaugurate the Cleveland experiment of police administration under the golden rule. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Kenneth R., a local lawyer, and Harold, a broker at Vancouver. Mr. Daly was president of the Western Canada Cricket Association, as well as of the local association, and as a mark of respect all local games to-day have been cancelled.

Mourning at Brandon.
Brandon, Man., June 24.—No happening in recent years as occasioned such profound sorrow as that which followed word this morning of the death at Winnipeg of Hon. T. Mayne Daly. Mr. Daly was looked upon here as a fair fighter, and many leading men of both parties are mourning his loss to-day. His death is the one topic of conversation on the streets, and leading citizens are concerning in what manner they can most fittingly pay tribute to one who devoted many years to the building of Brandon in the early days and to public affairs of Western Canada.

KING'S MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT TAFT

REPLIES TO GREETINGS
FROM UNITED STATES

Reciprocates Wishes That Friendly Relations Between Two Nations May Continue

Washington, D. C., June 24.—King George has sent the following reply to President Taft's congratulatory upon the occasion of his coronation:

"I heartily thank you and the people of the United States for the very kind congratulations which you offer me on this great and solemn day, and for the good wishes which you expressed for the prosperity of the British domain and for the welfare of myself and my family. I heartily reciprocate your wishes that friendly relations between the United States and my country may ever continue."
(Signed) GEORGE, R. I.

MUST NOT AMEND RECIPROCITY BILL

Taft Will Veto Measure If Changes Are Made by U. S. Senate

Washington, D. C., June 24.—It became known at the capitol to-day that president Taft, talking over the long distance telephone from Providence last night, repeated to several senators his determination to veto the Canadian reciprocity bill in case any amendment is added to it.

RAILROAD MERGER DECLARED LEGAL

U. S. Government Will Appeal in Suit Against the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific

St. Louis, Mo., June 24.—The merger of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads is legal according to a decision handed down to-day by the United States Circuit Court of the eighth district.

The government's suit in equity against the Southern Pacific Railway Company and the Union Pacific Railway Company sought to enjoin the control of the former by the latter. The bill charged conspiracy and the formation of a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act passed by congress to protect trade and commerce against unlawful monopolies. Judge Hook filed a dissenting opinion, in which he expressed the belief that the government's petition was well founded and should have been granted. Since the suit was entered Mr. Harriman and Mr. Rogers, two defendants named in the case, have died.

An appeal will be made directly to the United States Supreme Court.

SEATTLE NEWSPAPER FIGHT.

Judge Says He Will Instruct Prosecuting Attorney to Dismiss Actions.

Seattle, Wash., June 24.—Judge Wilson E. Gay in the criminal department of the Superior Court to-day announced that he would instruct the prosecuting attorney to dismiss the criminal libel prosecutions begun against the Seattle Post-Intelligencer at the instance of the Times, and against the Times at the instance of the Post-Intelligencer. The judge said he would not sanction waste of the county's money for the purpose of avenging private grievances.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE.

Munich, June 24.—A factory at Treutberg, employed in recovering glycerine from the atmosphere, was destroyed by a terrific explosion, originating from some unknown cause in a reservoir containing supplies, to-day. Three lives were lost and six other persons were dangerously injured.

LAUNCH PARTY SAFE.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 24.—The Joseph Nelson party, consisting of eight persons, whose launch was caught in a storm on Great Salt Lake last Thursday was found to-day on Antelope Island. All were well.

BRANCH LINE TO COWICHAN LAKE

CONTRACT FOR NEW ROAD IS AWARDED

Grading Operations Will Probably Be Commenced in Few Weeks

Vancouver, June 24.—R. Marpole, vice-president of the E. & N. railway, to-day announced the award of a contract for the construction of the proposed Cowichan Lake branch, to Messrs. Palmer Bros. and Hemming of this city. The line will be 20 miles long, extending from a point near Duncan Station to the lake. The right-of-way has already been cleared.

The successful tenderers expect to start grading operations within a few weeks and the task will probably occupy less than six months in completion as the route follows a water grade with no engineering difficulties.

The proposed line will give access to one of the best timber districts on the island and will greatly stimulate the logging industry. One New York financial corporation purchased 52,000 acres of timber lands from the railway company and will operate very extensively through a subsidiary corporation, the Empire Lumber Company, which will build a saw mill plant on the east coast of the island. It is intended later on to extend the line to the site of the proposed mill.

RAILWAY WORK STOPPED.

Winnipeg, June 24.—The railway commission has held up the Canadian Northern railway construction work in the mountains on the section at McLeod river, where the company has been building too close to the Grand Trunk Pacific line. Hundreds of men are idle in the construction camps, and many contractors are put to great expense.

SCALDED TO DEATH.

Fort William, Ont., June 24.—By the bursting of steam pipes on the steamer Turret Chief, a lad named Laughton, aged 15 years, was scalded to death. Another stoker was so seriously injured that he is not expected to recover. Laughton was not a regular stoker but was taking the shift of an injured coal passer.

DIES FROM INJURIES.

Winnipeg, June 24.—John Pettit, a signman of Norwood Bridge, who was injured Thursday night when a Canadian Northern freight train backed on to a street car he was trying to warn, died in St. Boniface hospital. An inquest will be held.

ELEVATOR COMPANY FINED.

Winnipeg, June 24.—Police Magistrate McMeiken yesterday fined the Northern Elevator Company $25 and costs for sending a ton of screenings, containing French weed, wild oats and buckwheat to Warren, Manitoba, for sale as feed.

ELECTRICAL ASSOCIATION.

Niagara Falls, June 24.—R. H. Sperling, Vancouver, was elected to the management committee of the Canadian Electrical Association. A. A. Dion, Ottawa, is president.

INCREASING CAPITAL.

Toronto, June 24.—The Dominion Bank to-day announced an early issue of $1,000,000 new capital stock at 200.

ANOTHER NORTHERN LINE PROPOSED

Company Applies for Charter to Build Railway to Hudson Bay

Ottawa, June 24.—Calgary and Edmonton railway asks power to build branches southerly from Redgwick and northerly from Battle River to the West-askatchewan branch.

The Pacific trans-Canada and Hudson Bay railway applies for a charter to build from Edmonton to Athabasca Landing, Fort Vermillion to Fort Smith, Wahsika or Loon river east to Fort Churchill, or Port Nelson on Hudson Bay.

ADMIRAL TOGO'S JOURNEY.

Washington, D. C., June 24.—Admiral Togo, the famous Japanese naval commander, will be able to stop only seventeen days in the United States on his way home to Japan from the coronation. The admiral, who will be the guest of the army, will arrive in New York August 4, where he will be met by Captain Temptin Poita, who will look after the visitor during his stay in this country. The only cities he will visit are New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Washington.

KING REVIEWS NAVAL FORCES

WARSHIPS AT SPITHEAD

Seventeen Nations Represented by Vessels Moored in the Roadstead

Portsmouth, June 24.—This was the day of ships and sailors. The King and Queen and foreign representatives at the coronation left the capital and came here for the great naval review at Spithead. Fine weather put finishing touches on one of the most magnificent displays of the week.

Their Majesties, accompanied by the official envoys of other countries, came from London in a special train. The King wore an Admiral's uniform with a ribbon of the Order of the Garter. The Prince of Wales was in a midshipman's uniform. The Queen, Princess Mary and nearly all of the royal ladies were dressed in navy blue. With their Majesties were all the other members of the royal family. Many special trains were run from London carrying Indian princes, peers and peeresses, members of parliament, lords of admiralty and diplomats. The regular excursion trains arriving during the morning added great numbers to the thousands already gathered here from all parts of the world.

Seventeen nations were represented by the vessels moored in Spithead roadstead in the English Channel, between the mainland and the Isle of Wight. Of this number ten were battleships of the Dreadnaught class, from the British navy and visiting Dreadnaughts. First, however, in size and armament was the American battleship Delaware. The British Dreadnaughts were the Colossus, Neptune, Hercules, Collingwood, St. Vincent, Bellorophon, Temeraire, Superb and Dreadnought. With these were four British cruisers of the Invincible class, the Indefatigable, the Indomitable and the Invincible.

Other foreign naval powers sent vessels of the pre-Dreadnaught class. France was represented by the Danubius; Germany by the Von Der Tann; Japan by the armored cruiser Curuma; Austria by the Radetzky; Italy by the armored cruiser San Marco; Russia by the armored cruiser Rurik; Spain by the cruiser Reina Regente; Argentina by the cruiser Buenos Ayres; Chile by the cruiser Chacabuco; Sweden by the armored cruiser Frygt; Turkey by the cruiser Hamidieh; and China by the cruiser Hai Chi; Denmark by the armored cruiser Wolfert Fischer; the Netherlands by the armored cruiser Jacob Van Heemskerck; and Norway by the armored cruiser Eldsvold. Greece sent the armored cruiser George Averof in addition to the official representatives of seventeen visiting nations there were secondary vessels from Japan, Italy and Chile.

Various types of warships added to the British units of Dreadnaughts and Invincibles made the total British contingent 170 ships. All the vessels at Roadstead, including the foreign warships and excursion steamers with spectators, were moored in lines supplemented by shorter lines of submarine and torpedo boats. The fleet occupied an area of about 18 square miles.

JOY PROVES FATAL.

New York, June 24.—A few hours after her husband had returned from the Mexican frontier, where he went four months ago with the coast artillery, Mrs. Ida Hardy died at midnight of heart trouble, according to the family, which was brought on by joy at seeing her husband. Sergeant Hardy was on the front porch of their home talking with his wife when she was stricken.

GIRL DROWNED.

Montreal, June 24.—While crossing the locks when the gates were being opened a small brother of little Ena Chaput toppled backwards into the gap behind him. The girl sprang forward and pushed him to safety, but herself fell into the locks. The body never rose to the surface and has not yet been found.

STRIKE RIOTS.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 24.—The strike of the six thousand garment workers here was intensified late yesterday when automobiles and taxicabs, in which guards were taking non-union workers from factories to their homes, were the targets of decayed eggs and vegetables in various sections of the city. As a result there were a few minor riots, followed by several arrests.

BLUEJACKETS FOR SHEARWATER

Vancouver, June 24.—A draft of 23 bluejackets for H. M. S. Shearwater arrived direct from England to-day and went over on the morning boat to Victoria. They are mostly apprentices from the training ships.

KILLED BY STREET CAR.

Tacoma, Wash., June 24.—J. T. Seidler, aged 25, a street car conductor, was instantly killed to-day by being thrown under the trucks as the car jumped a switch in going to the barn.

NO ALDERMEN ON HOSPITAL BOARD

CHARTER BARS THEM FROM THE DIRECTORATE

Mayor Suggests If City Cannot Get Representation There Should Be No Grant

The old story of representation being incidental to taxation was brought up in another guise at the city council meeting last night in connection with the appointing of their representatives to the board of directors of the Royal Jubilee hospital. For the first time the council discovered that any of its members were barred from taking a seat at that board, the charter of the hospital specifically stating that no aldermen, clergymen, or medical practitioners are permitted to sit on the board.

It so happened that last night someone suggested that it would be a good thing in view of the relationship, financially and otherwise, existing between the city and the hospital, to have at least two of the aldermen members of the board of directors. In fact, the council had almost decided to adopt the suggestion and appoint the delegates when Water Commissioner Raymur hinted that he did not think they had the right to do so under the charter of the hospital.

This sent the city collector looking for the charter and on returning to the council chamber, unable to notice the barring clause, the suggestion of having two aldermen on the board assumed an aspect of certainty. Right at the last moment Water Commissioner Raymur's conviction in the matter overcame his diffidence and he seized the charter and in a moment discovered the clause, to the chagrin of everyone present.

"Well, if that is the case," stated the mayor, "I don't see how we are expected to contribute to the funds of the institution."

"AM. Peden was also of the opinion that the city should have at least two aldermen on the board. At the present time the city has five outside representatives on the board of hospital directors, and while there was no suggestion made against their competence or interestedness it was generally thought that to have two aldermen on the board would place the city council in a more reasonable position in their dealings with the hospital.

After further discussing the point it was decided to reappoint the present city representatives for another year. They are as follows: Messrs. J. A. Mara, H. Robertson, R. S. Day, F. W. Vincent and D. E. Campbell.

On the recommendation of the finance committee the sum of $500 was contributed toward the construction of a new road connecting the Spanish municipality with the city. It is estimated that the total cost of the road will not exceed $1,000.

A number of tenders for the erection of the Gorge swimming pavilion and the Foul Bay dressing-room were opened and referred to the proper officials for report and recommendation.

CORNER STONE OF NEW CHURCH LAID

An Imposing and Picturesque Ceremony Took Place on Burns Street Yesterday

An imposing and spectacular ceremony was witnessed yesterday afternoon on Burns street, Oak Bay, when the corner stone of the new St. Mary's church was well and truly laid. A large gathering took part in the dedication, which was conducted by Very Rev. Dean Doull, assisted by a number of the clergy. The party reached the site of the new church in a number of trolleys, and as the weather was at its best, the gay costumes of the ladies, blended with the garish decorations of the Masons and the simple white of the ministerial surplices and made the scene one of animated color.

The site of the new church is a most prominent one, and when the edifice is completed it will possess a commanding appearance by virtue of its position as well as architecture. Lying off the main road about a hundred yards or so it is based on a framework of rocks which give it an unusual elevation, and which will certainly ensure it a permanent attractiveness even when the surrounding area is much more closely built on than it is at present.

The dedication service was simple and sincere. The party gathered round the stone upon an improvised platform and formed a lane for the passage of the clergy and the Free Masons. Dean Doull read the lesson, appropriate to the occasion, and E. H. Paul, retiring Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of B. C., laid the stone amid the prayers and thanksgivings of the spectators.

The dean, after dedicating the stone, presented a silver trowel to the Grand Master with which to perform the ancient ceremony of laying the stone.

In accepting the trowel Mr. Paul expressed his appreciation of the privilege accorded him. While conscious of the high honor which the deed itself implied he was more gratified to know that he was laying the corner stone of the house in which the Grand Master of all would be worshipped in time.

The testing, sprinkling, squaring and oiling of the stone was then performed by attendant Masons, and the stone was declared laid according to tradition and custom.

The usual practice of depositing under the stone a copy of the list of church members, the clergy, and copies of the local newspapers, was followed. After the ceremony was concluded the Bishop of Oregon offered up a short prayer, and the Rev. F. H. Fatt delivered a short address.

NAVY CASE AGAINST JOHN DAY COMMENCED

Paint and Candles Sold to the Victoria Machinery Depot, by Accused

John Day, formerly an hotelkeeper at Esquimalt, was arraigned in the police court yesterday afternoon on a charge that in September, last year, he did unlawfully retain in his possession certain public stores, the property of the admiralty to-wit: A quantity of candles and paint of the value of $452, and which had been obtained by theft, the said John Day knowing the same to have been so obtained.

The information is laid by Commander Vivian, head of the Pacific naval station, and arises out of the seizure made by the customs officers at the Victoria Machinery Depot in April last. Day is defended by Stuart Henderson and H. D. Helmeke, K. C., while Hon. C. E. Pooley, K. C., and J. A. Alkman are appearing for the crown.

Stewart Williams, auctioneer, testified that he had been auctioneer at the naval sales for several years past, and during that time there had been no sales of paint and candles in large quantities. He was not aware of having sold broken cases of candles or opened tins of paint. The goods sold at the sales were condemned goods, but not necessarily damaged.

To Stuart Henderson he said the goods were done up in parcels by the navy authorities and numbered and sold by him. He did not examine the contents of each parcel. He had sold empty paint tins. When a ship went out of commission a large part of her stores would be sold. He had not been auctioneer at the sale when the navy yard went out of commission.

Collector of Customs John C. Newbury gave similar evidence of the seizure at the Machinery Depot as that he gave at the hearing of the charges against Spratt and Houston. The Machinery Depot and Day had each paid in $1,000 by cheque to the collector, who assessed them after finding the amounts from the goods seized. From invoices the goods were shown to have been purchased from Day, but he was unable to say they were navy yard stores.

Mr. Henderson raised a vigorous objection to the production of the Victoria Machinery books as evidence in this case. The books had been seized under a search warrant the previous afternoon, and Mr. Alkman said the books were in court and would stay there till the defence obtained authority to take them away.

The magistrate told Mr. Henderson he could apply for a ruling to a higher court, but that if he did so the prosecution would then, he supposed, get out another warrant and seize the books again. "Then what is the use of your objection?" asked the magistrate.

W. P. Winsby, customs appraiser, examined the books and showed a number of invoices showing sales by Day to the Machinery Depot of paint and candles in September last. On the 5th of September 42 cases of candles, 50 pounds per case, and 700 pounds of paint and also 73 tins of paint were purchased from Day.

The witness was asked to produce copies of the warrant on which the seizure was made, and did not do so. In the Spratt-Houston case he had been told to have them ready, but Collector Newbury had instructed him he was not to prepare any copies, said the witness.

The court adjourned the hearing until Monday morning.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—Chas. Smith, formerly second mate on the brigantine Makolvel, was arrested by the United States marshal yesterday as he stepped off the Orangi. He is charged with the murder of a Japanese steward on the high seas. The vessel on which Smith was mate plies between Puget Sound and South African ports, carrying lumber. Last April, while off the coast of Australia, bloodstains were found on the deck of the vessel, and the Japanese was missing. Smith was taken ashore at Newcastle and deported here for trial.

LODGE PROTEST

Object to Chinese Bound for States Being Inspected at Vancouver

Washington, D. C., June 24.—For some time the immigration service has been considering the advisability of establishing a branch of the service at Vancouver, B. C., for the purpose of supervising the entrance of Chinese into this country. Senator Jones, of Washington, has been in consultation with the department several times in connection with the matter, and is informed that the new arrangement is merely an application to the case of Chinese of a system which has been in force for many years with regard to the examination of all alien persons coming from the Orient through Canada to the United States. Memorandum has been prepared by the bureau of immigration and naturalization and submitted to the senator for his information, in which it is pointed out that the adoption of this plan was urged by certain of the American steamship and railway lines nearly two years ago, and the reason why it was not put into operation sooner was because of the failure of the Pacific companies to accede to the department's wishes.

This plan places the business upon an efficient, economical and convenient plane from the government's point of view, and puts a certain Pacific company in a position where it must carry on its business in the transportation of Chinese handicapped with the same disadvantages and, at the same time, enjoying many of the advantages which accrue to the lines plying directly between Oriental and United States ports.

Officers of steamship lines operating between the Orient and ports of the United States on Puget Sound say that they regard the "memorandum" furnished Senator Jones as so much junk. The establishment of the station at Vancouver will allow the Canadian Pacific to bring Chinese across the Pacific destined for points in the eastern part of the United States, pass them at Vancouver, and enter them at any point along the northern border of the United States. On the other hand, the American steamship companies and lines operating to the United States can only enter their Chinese for Canada at Vancouver. They are not allowed to carry them east over American railroads and enter them at any point on the southern border of Canada. It is a discrimination, say the steamship men, that will result in practically all of the Chinese being diverted to the Canadian Pacific.

A letter to Senator Jones from Dowell & Co., in protest against the plan of operating the station at Vancouver, B. C., reads: "We consider that the opening of the port of Vancouver for the entry of the Chinese destined to the United States is an advantage to our competitors in the steamship carrying trade across the Pacific, but the Canadian railways as against our American railway lines."

"We consider that as we operate steamers to and from American ports, building up the trade to and from this country, we are entitled to more consideration than the steamship lines operating from Canadian or foreign ports entirely."

"We maintain that to open Vancouver for entry of Chinese to the United States is giving Canada an advantage that we do not enjoy. It is not permissible for us to bring Chinese passengers destined to Canada to a United States port, have them passed by Canadian inspectors here, and then routed east via the American railroads. In that they may enter Canada, we will say, at Montreal."

"If we share in Chinese passenger business for Canada we are obliged to land the Chinese at a Canadian port, and our Canadian steamship competitors should be required to do likewise. That is, if they wish to carry Chinese passengers for the United States they should be required to land them at an American port, or else send them to the nearest American port of entry for Chinese, which at the present time is Seattle."

"We maintain that it is hardly fair to open the Canadian port of Vancouver, establishing United States immigration officers there, and releasing Chinese at that port when we operate a line of steamers to Seattle and Tacoma, make this our terminus, and our application to have Tacoma made a port of entry for Chinese is denied."

"You understand of course that after the Chinese are passed by the United States immigration inspectors at Vancouver, they would be able to enter the United States at any point along the entire northern border, and it seems to us that this will open up a large field for fraudulent entry."

Says Government Inconsistent. Tacoma, Wash., June 24.—When the dispatch from Washington, D. C., was shown to A. F. Haines, representative of Dowell & Co. at this port, he said: "I notice that the department points out for Mr. Jones' information the fact that the new plan is merely an application to the case of Chinese of a system which has been followed for many years with regard to the examination of all other aliens coming from the Orient through Canada to the United States. This is the first time that I have known the government to regard Chinese in the same light as other aliens. Others are admitted freely, while there are strictest regulations against Chinese, and we have always been informed by the Chinese that they were in a special class."

"We wanted a detention station in Tacoma, wanted this port made a port of entry for Chinese in the United States, but were told that the government wished to centralize the work of the bureau in dealing with Chinese, and thus prevent the chances of fraudulent entries."

THINKING THEMES

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

The prime human want is to get full. The drunkard uses this word properly; when he is saturated with alcohol, he calls it "getting full." Another significant slang phrase is, "being all lit up." Artificially and temporarily, he attains an exaltation of spirit. Drunkenness is so persistent because it meets a real want of the human soul, meets it by fraud and poison, but meets it.

An intelligent person, of course, cannot consent to this. He seeks some normal way of illumination. And he finds it in the cultivation of the simpler tastes. Since Nature designs that we have a high and vivid life, and to that end implants in us a craving for it, Nature's ordinary processes ought to be capable of bringing this condition about.

And they are. Love, for example, is an intoxicant. It is the inebriation that fans all young people into flame. The wireless currents flash continually between man and maiden.

Poetry is the champagne of literature. Poetry, when sober, is not poetry. It is no poet's eye if it be not "in a fine frenzy rolling." Fighting is a stimulant, and necessary to rich life. Among primitive folk it is with fists, clubs or guns. As we grow out of barbarism, and cease war and brawling, we fight still, but in more tenuous ways. We contend in business, in the world of thought, and in the clash of personalities. Nature herself is an intoxicating thing, if we can be simple and patient enough to learn to love her.

And Religion is the supreme tonic. The negro who gets "shouting happy" at camp meeting is nearer the truth than those to whom religion means respectability.

ALLEGED "SALTING" OF GOLD CLAIMS

Supposed Rich Vein on Steamboat Mountain Ends Abruptly

Vancouver, June 24.—Was the discovery of high gold values on the claims of the Steamboat Mountain Gold Mines, Limited, at Steamboat Mountain last July a fraud which, but for the timely action of the directors of the company in refusing to sell stock after their suspicions were aroused, would have assumed gigantic proportions? This is a question which will doubtless be answered at a meeting of the shareholders of the company which has been called for next Monday evening.

For the past two months rumors have been current that there was something amiss with the property of the company. Questions began to be asked as to the whereabouts of W. A. Stevens and Dan Greenwalt, the two men who brought the alleged rich discoveries of Steamboat to the attention of the western mining world and Vancouver investors. Since March nothing has been heard of either of them, though both left Vancouver after having given plausible reasons for their departure. Their continued absence gave rise to a great deal of gossip, which has finally crystallized in the suspicion that the properties of the company at Steamboat were scientifically "salted."

It is rumored at Steamboat, at Hope and on the streets of Vancouver that the "salting" was most elaborately done at a cost of between $500 and $1,000, but even rumor fails to cast a breath of suspicion against any particular person in connection with the alleged faking of the ore of this property. So far as is known in Vancouver, both Stevens and Greenwalt possess absolutely clean records. Indeed, there are men in this city who have known Stevens since he was a boy and they declare that he has occupied some very responsible positions as mining engineer to large companies operating in the west. Of Greenwalt not so much is known, but it is declared that he has been a prospector and miner in the west for many years. The prolonged absence of these two men, and the fact that they have never communicated with any officers of the Steamboat mines since they left Vancouver, is looked upon as most peculiar.

So far as officers of the company are aware, Stevens did not derive any pecuniary benefit from the sale of the property at Steamboat. Something over $20,000 was paid to Greenwalt by a Vancouver syndicate, whose members are now shareholders of the company. What he did with that sum, which was paid before the arrival of the ore from Steamboat, which gave the famous rich assays, is unknown.

It is learned that the workings from which the rich ore was said to have come were recently proved to be barren in the rock in places, or barren to the extent that they did not carry any higher values than may be obtained in the rock in almost any part of the district. The high values had disappeared. They were not to be found in place after the "wash" which carried them had been thoroughly scoured off. The "wash" was the rich material, and there were some high values in the soft crevices of the rock on the surface.

Several months ago some doubt as to the genuineness of the discoveries at the Steamboat gold mines existed in the minds of a few people. Then came the discovery of the rich surface ore, which was said to have deceived such men as Messrs. W. A. Lewis and F. J. Crossland. It is alleged that the "salting" had been done so skillfully that the rock appeared to carry a genuine bearing high values. As the snow melted, however, the rich vein was found to end abruptly and a little work proved that beyond a few inches in depth there was nothing but the ordinary rock of the country, nearly all of which will assay 50 cents to the ton.

REAL ESTATE MAN FLEEDED.

Yonkers, N. Y., June 24.—The police here are looking to-day for two slick strangers who fledged William Morton, an aged real estate man, out of $500 Thursday. While discussing the purchase of some property the men proposed a poker game. After an hour's play Morton won $2,000 from his companions. These winnings, together with the $500 which he had put into the "bank" when the game started, were tied up in a cigar box by one of the courteous strangers and handed to Morton. When he reached home and opened the box he found nothing but red clay in it, and a note which read: "Don't try next time to beat a wise one. Its been tried before. Take your medicine like a man. Don't tell the police, just think what unpleasant notoriety it would cause."

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

Santa Cruz, Cal., June 23.—The women's doubles championship of the Pacific States Lawn Tennis Association was won with ease to-day by Misses May Sutton and Mary Brown, the Los Angeles team, who defeated Mrs. Niemeyer and Miss Anita Meyers, of San Francisco, by a score of 6-1, 6-1.

FALLS DEAD AT SOCIAL.

Anacortes, Wash., June 24.—Warren W. Keyes, 65 years old, fell dead of heart failure at a community social in the Mutual Benefit hall at Summit park. Mr. Keyes was a rancher in that vicinity. Mrs. Keyes is visiting relatives in Iowa. Five daughters live in Anacortes.

THE DAILY TIMES

Published daily (excepting Sunday) by THE TIMES PRINTING & PUBLISHING CO., LIMITED.

CONCEPTIONS OF THE DEITY. No man hath seen God at any time.

Every conception of Him must be a conception of the intellect. He cannot be objectively known and must therefore be subjectively known.

The philosophy of this limitive condition of the human mind in its relations with the Deity—we prefer the Christian's term God—was forcibly impressed upon the writer on one occasion when he visited a magnificent Chinese temple.

"And which god is this?" the writer respectfully asked. The devout Chinese guide who accompanied and interpreted the priest of the temple said, "Oh; any god," and, interpreting the look of mystified introspection, the mental attitude of his guest, he continued, "Every man makes his own god."

There is nothing inherently irreverent in the suggestion that another apostle or agent of revelation may come. Moses was good enough—and necessary—to save a conception of truth which was almost sterilized by the mental darkness and corruption into which it was thrust.

We do not wish to be understood as meaning that God has made no objective revelation of Himself. But that He Himself is understood only as we comprehend the meaning of His revelations, and these are by no means confined to the revelations commonly accepted by Christians as the only, authoritative and final ones.

reasonings of the most brilliant mind. The inductive science is as yet in its infancy and will never be an infallible guide until we know more of psychical science than we do at the present time.

There are beginning to be striking confirmations of the expectation that the members of the human family will develop a sixth sense—one which will qualify them to perceive truth in a hitherto unrevealed aspect and application. We refer to the Cosmic consciousness which was possessed by the Hebrew and other prophets in a marked degree.

There is nothing inherently irreverent in the suggestion that another apostle or agent of revelation may come. Moses was good enough—and necessary—to save a conception of truth which was almost sterilized by the mental darkness and corruption into which it was thrust.

MORMONS IN CANADA. The people, called Mormons are being heard from and their influence felt. Recently in England drastic measures were adopted to discourage the missionaries of the sect, who were seeking converts there.

are not desirable immigrants and may become a menace to our citizenship and national life. If we may accept their political history elsewhere as indication of what they may be expected to attempt, to accomplish in Canada, the prospect is devoid of complacency.

While we do not believe that the history of Utah could be repeated in Canada, there is no need for such folly as to suggest that it will not be attempted. It is germane to the religion of the Mormons to obey the church implicitly, even before rendering obedience to the state.

We see less cause for alarm, however, than many of those who profess to be frightened at the outlook. The present immigration is almost wholly to the Northwest, and immigration from all countries is so rapid in that part of Canada that the commingling elements may prevent the segregation of any particular sect or the advancement of any specific political purpose.

Mr. Borden cannot seem to keep away from the "chilled meat" question on the prairies. Can it be that "a fellow feeling"?

The Hudson's Bay Co. has kindly granted the use of the grounds and the B. C. Electric Co. has arranged to have a special car at the corner of Foul Bay road and Oak Bay avenue at 9.30 in the morning.

—Among the local students who received normal school diplomas are the following: Second grade diploma with honors, Winnifred M. Fox and Eileen M. Mulcahy; second grade diploma, Irene C. Ald, Annie E. Andrews, Marie E. Bailey, Kathleen McK. Coates, Ethel M. Hardie, Myrtle M. Hendry, Nellie Jones, Maude L. Knappet, Evelyn LeClercq, Eva M. Margatis, Arthur H. Marrion, Robert McInnes, Edith M. Percival, Rhoda H. Shorwood, Ruby A. Thomas, Ruby Tubman. Third class diplomas, Mavis V. Hanna, Edith G. Maltrevers.

—In the police court this morning Johnny, an Indian, was fined $25 for having a bottle of whiskey in his possession yesterday when arrested while drunk. Marx Benson, on remand, charged with theft of an overcoat from the Victoria hotel, desired to plead guilty, but the magistrate refused to accept the plea, as the man yesterday said he was too drunk to know what he was doing at the time. He was remanded until Tuesday. Two men named Welsh and Bogart paid fines of $5 each for fighting on the street last night, and an action against employees of the Worstwick Printing Company, brought by the municipality of South Saanich, charging them with blasting on Mt. Tolmie without a permit, was remanded for a week.

GATHERED THE FRUIT

Mearns & Fuller Always Held the First Option on Semi-ready.

The "grapes are sour" to others now that Mearns & Fuller have gathered to themselves the sole right to sell semi-ready clothes in Victoria. When Mr. Williams decided to sell out no one else ever had a real chance to get this valuable franchise for themselves, as the chief men in the old store were promised first consideration. They knew the traditions and the policy of Semi-ready tailoring, and the Semi-ready Company felt that they were higher class men than the average. While awaiting the opening of their new store Mearns & Fuller are showing their special order samples in their temporary offices in the Times Block.

COMPLETE FRUIT EXHIBIT FOR EAST

Commissioner Brandrith Preparing for Fairs—Estimate of This Year's Crop

Busy in preparing to adequately represent the fruit-growing possibilities of the province at the Eastern Fall exhibitions W. J. Brandrith, exhibition commissioner of the B. C. Horticultural department, has spent a week in the city. Mr. Brandrith will leave Vancouver on July 5 for Winnipeg and will there arrange his exhibit in time to be ready for the opening of the big show which commences on July 12. After the Winnipeg exhibit he will show his collection of fruits successively at Brandon, Regina and Edmonton transferring them later to Toronto and London in Ontario. During the fall exhibitions at each of these cities he will spend the whole period of the fair.

The exhibit, this year will be the most complete yet sent out by the government to eastern points. It will comprise an ample supply of the various fruits for which the province is noted and Mr. Brandrith has arranged with growers and horticulturists in various parts of British Columbia for continuous shipments of fresh fruits in season and as rapidly as they follow each other in maturing. In addition to the fresh fruits which have been arranged for and which will be sold as soon as new supplies arrive in each case, the exhibit will comprise some 200 specimens of bottled fruits of the choicest varieties. In addition to these fully selected and arranged photographic display of horticultural and garden scenes as well as views of other industries of the province.

Timber, logging, fishing—both line and seine—with farming illustrations will present the attractions of the province and these will be adequately supplemented with descriptive matter compiled under the direction of the department. The value of this work each year is illustrated in a letter which Commissioner Brandrith showed to the representative of the Times. It was written by a lady who supplied some of the fruit for the exhibits of former years and in it she states that a large number of inquiries have been received and answered by her as well as several families having been induced to embark in horticultural operations in her neighborhood. No doubt many others could supply similar testimony to the efficiency and resulting returns from the commissioner's work.

The present incumbent of the commissioner's office desires to pay to his predecessor the highest compliment possible for the keen interest in and capability with which the duties of the office were discharged. Mr. Brandrith has been assistant commissioner for six years and this year has been promoted to the commissionership himself as a recognition of his qualifications for the work of the office. He has just returned from a tour which has covered every fruit-growing locality on the mainland, Phoenix being the only neighborhood unvisited. The commissioner makes an official estimate of the probable fruit crop for the present season. Taking an average as the basis of his estimate he states that the crop of this year will reach: apples 65 per cent, pears 75 per cent, plums 50 per cent, cherries 80 per cent; peaches a partial failure, apricots and nectarines, where planted, a full crop, Penticton and Kootenay being the gardens for this variety of fruit. Raspberries and blackberries will yield a full crop and strawberries 70 per cent. Only in Kootenay is the prospect that the average will be reached. There is much more extensive acreage under small fruit this year than at any former period.

NEWS OF SPORT

BUSY TIME AHEAD FOR BAY OARSMEN

Three Regattas Within One Month—John P. Sweeney's Affair on July 22

With three regattas ahead of them, all within the space of one month, a busier or a prostrator set of athletes could not be found than those members of the J. B. A. A. who have been chosen to row in the various regattas.

On July 22 a regatta will be held at Shawnigan Lake, under the auspices of the management of the Strathcona hotel or, in other words, John P. Sweeney, John P. deciding that coming down to Victoria to indulge his love for athletic sports is too wearisome.

W. N. Kennedy has received a letter from Portland in which the secretary of the Portland Rowing Club states that the Rose City will be exceedingly well represented at the regatta—and barring accidents, would make a strong bid for premier honors.

Mr. Kennedy has also been notified of the fact that Blaney Scott, one of the Bays' most promising oarsmen who was unfortunately obliged to renounce his allegiance to the local club when he left town for the Terminal City, has been given a place in the Vancouver junior four.

RAGGED PLAY LOSES GAME FOR VICTORIA

Beavers Now at Top in Team Standing—Islanders Out-hit Beavers

By taking yesterday's game from Victoria, 6 to 4, Vancouver went to the top in the team standing, both Spokane and Portland being pulled down by their opponents. The Islanders' defeat after they had out-hit the Beavers has been attributed to several causes, the fact that they did not bunt their hits, an unfair deal from the umpire and plain bad luck, but all who are not prejudiced do not hesitate to set it down to ragged play.

Why the management cannot get a man to cover that first sack and why they cannot put a man in left field with some batting ability and a little life in him is beyond all comprehension. The hit Davis was credited with yesterday was so scratchy that it might just as correctly be called an error on Adams. A little delay can be understood but if those positions are never going to be strengthened the fans would like to know about it, so that they may resign themselves to seeing Victoria trailing along winning about one game in nine or ten until the end of the season.

Because there are one or two good men on the team, Goodman and Millon for instance, who tear off a sensational play once in a while, the fans are tricked into believing that their club is as good as any, but is running in a streak of hard luck. That story is just about played out.

There is Jacobs, the new man, who, although over-anxious, was as only natural, handled himself like a ball-player in the short-stop's garden on Thursday and because through nervousness he made an overthrow he has now been taken out and there is no telling when he will be given another chance. Kellar may go along making two or three errors every day and yet the management persists in saying that he is too good a man to leave on the bench.

To Williams, the acquisition from Sacramento, was given the task of dispensing benders to the Beavers yesterday, and not only had he a good variety of shots and a beautiful slow ball but he used his head to good purpose. Unfortunately the visitors got to him for three hits in the third, one of which, by the way, was very doubtful but was a sure enough hit according to the umpire, and these, combined with an inexcusable error of Householder's part and a hit-by-ball, gave them three runs.

Talking about Householder, his work in right field was nothing short of rotten, and the Beavers may thank him for at least two of their runs. They got one in the second on two errors, for which Kellar and Ward were responsible, and two more in the seventh on two hits, a base-on-balls and Householder's bobble of a grounder.

Victoria counted two in the second on a couple of hits, a pass and an error, one in the third, Householder singling and going all the way around on Ward's single and Brinker's wild throw-in, and another in the fifth, Goodman getting a life on Sharnweber's fumble and coming home on Householder's three-bagger.

Dashwood made a nice play in the fourth when, with a man stealing second and another on third, he made a bluff at throwing to second to cut the runner off and threw into the pitcher's hands instead.

Cates pitched a good game, particularly in the last three or four innings. The score: Vancouver.

Table with columns: A.B.R., H.P.O.A.E. for Vancouver players: Harrison, I.F., Adams, I.B., Bennett, R.F., Swain, R.F., James, S.B., Brinker, C.F., Sharnweber, S.B., Lewis, C., Cates, P.

Summary: Sacrifice hit—Dashwood. Two base hits—Harrison. Three base hit—Householder. Double play—Sharnweber to Adams. Struck out—By Cates, 1; by Williams, 3. Bases on balls—By Cates, 2; by Williams, 2.

BLOOMFIELD SAVES GAME

The Pippins hit Gordon, Tacoma's new pitcher, for four hits in the seventh and all of them resulted in runs, switching the score from 2 to 1 against the Pippins to 5 to 2 in their favor. After getting one in the eighth the Tigers had a chance in the ninth by landing on Tonneson, pounding out a home run and afterwards filling the bases. Bloomfield, at this critical moment, replaced Tonneson and retired the side.

Table with columns: A.B.R., H.P.O.A.E. for Tacoma players: Bassey, I.F., Coleman, S.B., Rockenfield, T.B., Morse, S.A., Abbott, R.F., Lynch, C.F., Burns, C.F., Fisher, I.B., Gordon, P., Kennedy, P.

Innings pitched—By Tonneson, 8 (bases full in ninth); by Bloomfield, 1. Base hits—Off Tonneson, 8. Time—1:45. Umpire—Baumgarten.

GIANTS WIN IN TENTH

The Giants won a thrilling ten-inning game from the Spokane 'Indians' at Seattle yesterday, by a score of 3 to 2. The home team took the lead in the third inning, when Bues' home run brought in two scores, but Spokane came back with one in the fourth and tied the score with one in the seventh. In the last half of the tenth Cruickshank struck out, but the ball went through the catcher and the batter reached first. He went to second on a wild pitch and Weed brought him in with a two-base hit between centre and right.

The score: Seattle. Leard, 2 b., 5 0 0 0 1 0 0; Cruickshank, I. F., 5 1 2 1 0 0 0; Coesah, C. F., 4 1 1 2 3 1 0; Bues, S. B., 4 1 1 0 0 0 0; Weed, R. F., 5 0 2 1 1 0 0; Ort, I. # CHESTERFIELDS OF THE CHALK-BARRED COURTS

ROBERT D. WRENN

In most sports there are some devices and tricks employed to rattle the opponent or opponents. In prizefighting and wrestling the successful man knows a multitude of these. There are numerous artifices of the prizefighter, such as rosinning the glove, drugging, &c. They all go to make up the game.

In baseball it is considered ethical to resort to all sorts of means and ways to make a pitcher not a pitcher. Professional baseball is honeycombed with tricks. Managers are always trying to think of a device to get an advantage over an opponent. Most of these are fair. Some are not—signal stealing, for example.

But there is one sport which has been absolutely expurgated. No tricks are tolerated. The ethics of the game decree that a man give his opponent every possible advantage that can be accorded to him. It is the Chesterfieldian game of all sports. Its name is tennis.

Baseball crowds yell when a pitcher begins to weaken, when an opponent wobbles. In tennis the man waits for his shaky opponent to recuperate. Spectators at ball games cheer hysterically, stamp their feet and wave their hands and bits of apparel. Everything goes. In tennis spectators applaud a good shot with the hands alone, and gently, oh, so gently! Otherwise it might disconcert the target of the stroke.

So this sport is very refreshing in its fairness, which is so much a part of the game that it is politeness. There is an iron bound etiquette of tennis. Yet in spite of its courteous nature tennis is one of the hardest games to play ever invented. It embodies so many qualities—a quick eye, a lithe body, lightning wit and temperance—but above all, a quick eye.

To show how strictly all tricks are discouraged an incident of a tournament at Lake George in the season of 1904 might be related. The affair had been progressing with the smoothness of most tennis tournaments when a Columbia student, Hamlin Hatch, called "Ham" by those who cared to be brief, enrolled among the competitors. He was at Lake George on a geological expedition with some of his fellow students. Those were the days when Columbia had a football team, and this same Mr. Hatch used to delight in trying to change the facial maps of opponents in the fall of each season.

Now in some way Mr. Hatch had picked up the game of tennis. It was only a by-product of his athletic ability. So he enrolled in the Lake George tournament. His style was not of the light and airy sort, but his strokes were telling. He achieved the finals. So did a student from Yale who was stopping at the summer hotel, and who spent his evenings trying to take the wax off the ballroom floor. Sad as it is to relate, Mr. Hatch devoted many of his evenings and even nights to an endeavor to remove the polish from a certain mahogany bar.

To skip over a lot that followed, the day of the finals in this tournament dawned bright and fair. The Yale man appeared in white trousers, a silk shirt, white shoes and socks, with a band about his head after the fashion made popular by the Roman chariot-racers. Now Mr. Hatch did the first thing that the best tennis players do not do. He kept his opponent waiting on purpose. He "stalled." That is considered good form in rowing, running, baseball, &c., but in tennis decidedly not. It may make the opponent nervous.

Startled the Spectators.

After the Yale man had waited some half an hour Mr. Hatch appeared. He was clad in his geological clothes. These were not things of beauty. A couple of aged sneakers—not a pair—one black and one brown, in an advanced state of decomposition; canvas trousers of an old vintage, a flannel shirt, a slouch hat, and you have his tout ensemble. The costume gave the spectators a start. Further, Mr. Hatch "horsed" on one leg. That is, he limped as if in great pain. Mr. Hatch's sympathizers were few. He looked at his opponent and smiled.

The set was started. The first time that Mr. Hatch came to the net he addressed his opponent in this way:

"You look like a startled fawn." The voice was loud. The spectators were shocked. A Salome dancer at a mothers' meeting could not have done more damage. But Mr. Hatch had an irresistible serve, his returns were accurate and his conception of the position of the back-line was finely drawn. He limped except when it was necessary for him to hurry to get a ball, and then he had speed and his leg was well. It was probably the most amusing tennis match ever played. And through it all ran this jolly and spoofing of Mr. Hatch. As a certain strain of humor is repeated again and again, so every time that

UNLIKE Other Sports, Tennis Is Distinguished by the Courtesy of the Players, as Exemplified Notably by the Doughertys, and Contestants Never Accept an Advantage Over One Another

Mr. Hatch came close to the net he would remark to his opponent:

"You resemble a startled fawn." His limp excited no sympathy for him. When it became urgent that he hurry he seemed to touch the Shrine of St. Anne, for his leg was well. The gallery was serious and the spectators were against Mr. Hatch and his tactics. They were all for the Yale representative. Only a few of the ruder spirits laughed. And Mr. Hatch eventually won. He received a cup, and that was all—no glory. The promoter of the tournament gave it to him about as willingly as he would have surrendered his right eye. And Mr. Hatch was told that his name would not be considered for another tournament. In a certain fraternity house in Columbia the cup may still be seen. Its displacement is about a quarter of a ton. But it was won after a fashion not countenanced by the ethics of the game.

So it will be seen that tennis is the game of sportstant player. Most American players are erratic—good one day and very bad the next. The English players are less temperamental. They are the same right through—not so brilliant as the Americans when they are good, but very, very steady. Now, 'Bill' Larned has acquired a whole lot of certainty in the last few years. He is very steady now. He is a sure player and puts up about the same game day after day. Our other best players are inclined to be erratic.

"Of course you understand that England, South Africa and America have challenged for the Davis Cup. England has drawn the bye, so that America at home. He has lost only two matches in the last three years. He takes good care of himself. A man must train to be a good tennis player. He may be in poor physical condition and last one set, but he cannot stand the hard, grueling match unless he is in tip-top shape. What combinations of players shall represent America in the doubles will be decided after the team reaches Australia. The men to go have not been selected yet.

"Tennis," went on Mr. Wrenn, "is not a game for weaklings, as many persons think. As I have said, a first class player must train, and train carefully, in order to stay up at the top. Larned trains. Wright trains. They all do. Of course, they do not go at it as an oarsman does or a football player. But by training I mean that these men take good care of themselves. They may smoke a little if they want to, but not too much, and they cannot drink heavily, for it dulls the eye and slows a man up, besides taking away his endurance. The first and essential attribute of a tennis player is a quick eye. The message to his brain must be transmitted rapidly by the optic nerve, and that cannot be done if he is going to gambol with Bacchus.

"There are few first class tennis players to-day. It is just a passing of the old generation, and the new has not yet developed into top notch shape. There are many in the chrysalis state now who will be good in a few seasons. A star isn't made in one summer. But the best men in this country to-day are Larned and Wright. If the latter goes to Australia as well as Larned they might as well hand us the Davis Cup without playing.

use a ball player's expression, to put on the "span-gles" and go at the best tennis player the best day that he ever lived and give him the beating of his life. But Mr. Wrenn says he is not, and that he is through, although his interest in tennis is as warm as ever. He explained that several changes had been made in the rules recently, so that the English and American games now coincide almost exactly. A new rule which will be tried out this year for the first time is one giving a player the right to reach over the net and hit the ball, provided he do not touch the barrier with his racquet.

"This will make little difference in play," pronounced Mr. Wrenn, when asked about the effect that the rule would have on the game. "At best it will make a difference of only a few inches, and while it apparently gives an advantage to long armed players, this is not practically so. The thing to do is to make the rules international, so that there will be no difference in the game as played in various parts of the globe and no special rules will have to be laid down for international matches."

Mr. Wrenn is very much interested in revising the rules to this end, and is strongly in favor of universal regulations of the game. In fact, even though he has retired from active participation, he is one of the most ardent exponents of tennis and is deeply interested in the game yet.

Many experts declare that tennis requires a greater combination of qualities than any other game. Of course most participants in any sport make this similar assertion for their favorites, but facts seem to bear out the allegation in regard to tennis. Football requires nerve and strength and some quickness, but to certain positions on a team this is not essential. To row a man must have unbounded nerve—"stomach," the oarsmen call it—and fighting qualities. He must never give up. That is the greatest requirement. After that the good coach can turn out the mechanical part of the oarsman. To fight a man must have nerve and quickness. Most other sports require only one or two essential qualities.

But tennis demands strength linked with endurance, a temperament combined with a spirit of fairness, the quickness of the cat and the steadiness of the reliability of the truck horse, and beyond all the tennis player needs nerve. This is a hard combination to find in one man, and that is why the really good tennis player is a luxury to-day.

W. A. LARNED

W. J. CLOTHIER

That it is not by any means a mollicoddies' game is shown by the wear and tear and strains that there are on a man in a big tournament played in the baking heat of a broiling August sun. To start and stop quickly is hard on the feet and legs. Sometimes men have gone through long and grueling matches in great pain.

The serves of the best players come like cannon balls. During a set of doubles one day in a big tournament the server, noted for the speed and viciousness of his delivery, had an opponent playing up close to the net. He delivered a wild one at terrific speed, and the net man did not allow for the big cut, which gave the ball a tremendous in curve, of which "Christy" Mathewson would be proud. The ball swerved and caught the unfortunate player at the net square in the temple a terrific smash. He willed down and knew nothing for a few minutes. It was necessary to call a doctor to revive him, while the audience asked questions solicitously, much as the crowd does at a football game.

Finally the man was revived, walked around the court a few turns on the arms of friends, and then insisted on finishing the match, as a football hero will. There was the much advertised nerve of the football player in that man. He received a great round of applause for his gameness, and with his partner finally won the match. This accident has happened again and again, and oftentimes it is preferable to be hit by a rifle bullet.

There are all sorts of strokes in tennis which have to be mastered by the successful player. A great trick of a man familiar with the game is to watch an opponent's wrist and forearm to see what kind of a cut he gives to the ball when he hits it. In this way a man can be prepared for eccentric bounces and guess which way the ball will jump after it hits the ground. There is a great deal in outguessing an opponent. A good player gets so that he watches an opponent's wrist and forearm instinctively. Otherwise the player never for a minute takes his eyes off the ball. He gets so that he knows exactly how hard to hit a certain sort of bounce to land it on the back line—a desirable place—and how to drive the ball with a cut that will twist out of an opponent's reach.

Miss May Sutton is the wonder of the women players in this country. Her strokes have the power behind them of a man. Experts regard her as a marvel handicapped by the conventional skirts.

Tennis has an odd history. Handball, court tennis and racquets are all members of the same family. It is said that the game was begun years ago, when two Englishmen began to bat a ball over a fence with their hands first. Next the crude racquet and the back line appeared. Finally from this the game grew and developed until tennis became the game that it is to-day.

"You look like a startled fawn."

men who carry the idea of a superlative degree. So he enrolled in the Lake George tournament. His style was not of the light and airy sort, but his strokes were telling. He achieved the finals. So did a student from Yale who was stopping at the summer hotel, and who spent his evenings trying to take the wax off the ballroom floor. To skip over a lot that followed, the day of the finals in this tournament dawned bright and fair. The Yale man appeared in white trousers, a silk shirt, white shoes and socks, with a band about his head after the fashion made popular by the Roman chariot-racers. fairness to opponents to a Robert Wrenn, four times. He was asked recently if there were any little tricks used by the top notch players and recognized as fair by tennis authorities.

"No," he replied, "I do not do anything that I do not think a man may legitimately do in his game. To show how loath tennis players are to take advantage of opponents, I will recall an incident of several years ago which was gotten by now. The Dougherty brothers were playing out of the court by seeing the shot and calling it their own fault, called it the point by the Dougherty were called of the prescribed serve a double was up. That double set, ultimately the match and lost a match with advantage of a set than any other of the game."

"What do you think of the chances of America to win the Davis Cup?" Mr. Wrenn was asked.

"We are going to win the cup if 'Bill' Larned goes. I saw him a few days ago, and he assured me that his affairs were in such shape that he could make the trip this year. He told me that he has been so tied down by business in Wall street that he could not get away. I think he is the greatest tennis player in the world to-day. In the last few years he has steadied down a lot. He was never better than he is right now. He used to be erratic, but he has become very much more reliable. He is just the right age, too, for he has taken good care of himself.

MISS MAY SUTTON

and South Africa will have to meet to decide which one can play the winner. Australia took the cup away from England in 1907, and it has been there ever since. Of course we are not going to send a team to Africa to play, and I suppose that the South Africans will object to coming here. Therefore the match between America and South Africa will have to be played in Australia. We should have no trouble in beating the South Africans, as they have no good tennis players over there. I honestly believe that if Bill Larned goes America will have the cup. He will be the cornerstone of the American team. He has gone out of business now because his father died recently, and he is sure to represent America unless something unforeseen happens. W. J. Clothier may go, and as to the makeup of the rest of the team no one is certain yet.

"But if Bill Larned doesn't go they may as well stay

BEALS C. WRIGHT

"No, I don't think that the game is in the doldrums. I believe that it was never more popular than it is right now, but the players are for the most part mediocre. Watch the parks and tennis clubs this summer, and you will see them fighting for the courts. Everybody wants to play tennis. It is gaining in popularity as that overworked and classic snowball increases in size rolling down hill. The game just has not turned out any players in the last few years to class with Larned and Wright."

"How about yourself?" "Oh, I am out of the game for good—quit two years ago. My business interfered with me keeping it up. I play a little racquets now and some court tennis and the game for fun, but I have entered in my last tournament. I am thirty-seven years old, and while that is not too late in life to play the game, I hate to think of age getting me."

Changes in Rules.

Mr. Wrenn looked as if he could go through a few good tournaments yet. He had just finished playing racquets at the Racquet Club and he was the picture of condition. He had said that the successful tennis player required a quick eye. His tone with the clearness of perfect health. He seemed to be "right" to

TO IMPROVE C. P. R. WHARF AT SEATTLE

Owners Shortly to Let Contract for Repairs Amounting to $100,000

Arrangements for the letting of a contract for $100,000 worth of improvements to Pier 1 at Seattle are now being made by the Northern Pacific, owners of the wharf, so as to make it suitable for the docking of the big steamers of the C. P. R. fleet, which company has leased the pier. After the first of next month the steamers on the triangular run will call there instead of at the present wharf, which has been found to be inadequate.

Officers of the ferry steamers state that at the present only a new passenger and freight chute has been installed, but that within a brief time work on the extensive improvements will be started. The dock is to be re-modelled much on the style of the new Grand Trunk Pacific wharves, which are looked upon to be the finest on the coast. The shed will be converted into a two-story affair with galleries on either side, running from the street out to the end of the pier, and a pontoon gangway. Ticket offices, luncheon rooms, news stands and waiting rooms will be arranged on the second floor.

As has been the case in this city the C. P. R. has outgrown the old quarters at Seattle and it has become necessary for them to look for much larger docks in order to keep pace with the enormous amount of traffic, which is continually on the upbuilding, over its lines. In Victoria the company owns its own docks but at the Sound metropolis it is necessary for them to lease a pier, so that they cannot extend their wharves as they do here.

Work will very shortly commence on the extensions to the docks here. The contractor, Matthew Dow, of Seattle, has all his material here and as soon as operations are underway the work will be rushed ahead with all speed.

TERRIFIC GALES IN HARBOR OF IQUIQUE

Ships at Anchor Fare Badly—Strathdene Drops Three Blades in Storm

San Francisco, June 24.—A cable from Iquique yesterday says a cyclone passed over the port sinking the Italian ship Cavalleroclampa and 100 lighters and stripping nearly every other vessel in port.

The British steamer Centurion of the Harrison line left for Victoria and Vancouver, yesterday to finish discharging. Arrivals yesterday include the Pacific Mail liner Korea from the Orient, Union liner Aorangi from New Zealand and President from San Diego.

The barkentine Jane L. Stanford, in from Australia with coal, has been chartered by G. W. McNear, to load lumber on Grays Harbor for the west coast of South America.

The British steamer Strathdene, one of the chartered boats of the Java-Asia line, will be dispatched from Java to Vancouver with sugar and not to this port as was first intended. The Strathdene of the same line will come to San Francisco from Java.

The British steamer Strathdene, en route from Newport News to Mare Island with coal, put into Bahia, South America, yesterday, with three propeller blades broken off during a storm.

The British ship Scottish Moors, at Antwerp June 1, from Portland, Oregon, reports having encountered heavy weather during which damage was done to her deck fittings and sails. One of her life boats was completely smashed.

Loaded check-a-block with cargo and passengers, the two-mast power schooner Bender Bros., after several deferred sailing dates, got away late Thursday night for Bethel, the Kuskoowim and her cargo at the command of the local federal steamboat inspection board, who had not made her annual survey.

TAKES MUCH CARGO FROM SOUND PORTS

Tacoma Maru Leaves for the Orient With Diversified Freight List

After loading about six tons of White Swan soap, which will be used to remove the grime and dirt from the hands and faces of the brown men, women and children in the land of the rising sun, besides a great deal of general freight, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Tacoma Maru, Capt. Yamamoto, left the Outer wharf at noon to-day with a full cargo for Yokohama, Hongkong and other points in the Orient. Two first-class and eleven Japanese steerage passengers joined the steamship at this port.

While at Tacoma the Maru took on a good cargo of freight, including a big shipment of machinery consigned to different parts of Japan. Much heavy machinery is being shipped into that country at the present time and gradually the old time hand-driven machines are being replaced by the latest and most modern methods. The Japanese are using electricity mostly as the propelling power and before long they will be one of the leading nations interested in the developing of this invisible power from its present stage.

At this port the Maru loaded about twenty-five tons of outward freight. The steamships bound for the Orient very seldom take on any cargo at this port, but with the opening up of the island it is expected that the boats will fill their holds here with more freight than at any other point on the Sound.

FIVE LINERS COMING HERE WITH CARGOES

Centurion Monday, Makura Tuesday, and Panama Maru Arrives Wednesday

Some time in the forenoon on Monday the new Harrison liner Centurion will reach the Outer wharf from San Francisco and will remain here until late in the evening before proceeding to Vancouver, for which port she has about 1,500 tons of cargo. While at the Outer wharf she will discharge about 200 tons of freight, which includes 100 tons of coke for the Victoria Chemical Works.

On Tuesday the Canadian-Australian liner Makura, Capt. Gibb, is expected to arrive from the Antipodes with a full passenger list and a good cargo of freight. The vessel is scheduled to reach here on Wednesday but she will undoubtedly come a day ahead of time. She has not yet been spoken by wireless but the land stations will be established in communication with her either to-morrow or Monday.

Early Wednesday morning the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Panama Maru will arrive from the Orient. According to advices received by the local agents of the line she is bringing a cargo of nearly four hundred tons of tea, and many Orientals are coming as steerage.

The following day the Kumeric, of the Weir trans-Pacific fleet, will reach the Outer dock from the Orient with a good cargo of general freight, consisting of the products of the Far East. She also has a number of passengers. Hemp forms a large part of her cargo, she having taken on a big shipment while at Manila. Her silk cargo amounts to about a quarter of a million dollars.

Towards the close of next week it is expected that the steamship Henley, Capt. Turner, under charter to the Canadian-Mexican line, will put in an appearance on her return from Salina Cruz. She is bringing north the usual cargo.

INSTALL MACHINERY ON HARBOR DREDGE

Lobnitz Rock Crusher Ready for Service Very Shortly—Work Nearly Finished

Work on installing the machinery on the new Lobnitz rock-crusher, which only recently was launched from the ways in the upper harbor, is proceeding apace at the yards of the Victoria Machinery Depot, and it will not be long before the new acquisition to the dredging fleet of the Dominion Government on the Pacific coast, will be ready to commence service.

Nearly all of the big pieces of the machinery have been placed in position and the task in connecting the winches and other steam-driven mechanism with the boiler, situated on the after end of the rock breaker is being carried out. The big driller has not yet been in position but within a very few days it will be connected to the big steam winch with the heavy steel cable. The Machinery Depot, which secured the contract for placing the crusher together upon its arrival from Scotland on the Blue Funnel liner Ningchow, agreed to have the work completed in two months time and as they commenced the task on May 1 their time is almost up.

Within a short period the crusher will be given the opportunity to demonstrate its powers in the way of displacing rocks. It will be anchored over one of the rocks in the harbor here for a test and permitted to pound away until the inspectors are convinced that it meets the requirements. Following the acceptance of the craft by the government officials she will continue to work in the harbor. The rock-crusher will settle down to a big task, that of freeing the waterway of the big boulders which obstruct the passage. It will be a big job, requiring several years to complete, but nevertheless, shipping men of this port will feel relieved of a great burden, when it is announced that the harbor is navigable in all parts.

MARINE NOTES

Word has been received here stating that the Allan liner Corsican arrived at Quebec yesterday morning from Liverpool and at Montreal last night.

With a full cargo of general freight and many passengers, the Bosworth steamer Venture, Capt. Morehouse, left the Evans, Coleman & Evans dock last evening for Northern British Columbia ports.

The names of the ferry steamers operating between Vancouver and North Vancouver have been changed. The North Vancouver will hereafter be known as Ferry No. 1 and the St. George has been changed to Ferry No. 2.

As the outcome of a conference secured at Ottawa by J. A. Young, of Boston, one of the owners of the American schooner J. R. Atwood, seized off the coast of Nova Scotia recently, an arrangement has been made by which the vessel will be released. The owners have given a bond for the full value of the schooner and have agreed that in the future the vessel will not fish off the Canadian coast.

Reinsurance of 75 per cent. is being quoted on the Russian ship Clan MacFarlane, which has been out from Port Talbot for Antofagasta with a cargo of coal 180 days, and is regarded as long overdue. It is thought locally that she may have been driven back by a storm while attempting to round Cape Horn and is completing the passage via Cape of Good Hope. After delivering her cargo on the west coast, it is probable the Clan MacFarlane will come to Portland to load wheat for the United Kingdom.

C. P. R. to Give Permanent Service in Place of Iroquois, Commencing Next Week

Commencing Wednesday morning next a regular service among the Gulf Islands from Sidney to Nanaimo will be commenced by the C. P. R. which will place the City of Nanaimo on the route formerly served by the wrecked steamer Iroquois.

Representations have been made by the board of trade for some time to the C. P. R., asking that the company take up the Gulf Islands run permanently, and a notification was received by the board to-day that the company has decided on placing a boat on the run and commencing Wednesday of next week. The City of Nanaimo is to be for temporary use only, and is named for the service because the company at the present time has no other available boat. Another boat is to be placed on the run as soon as it can be procured and is expected to be ready for commission before the winter.

Imperfect Kidney Action Causes Rheumatism

Rheumatism with its kindred ailments—Lumbago, Wry Neck, Neuralgia, etc., usually results from lodgments of uric acid in the joints and muscles. Now the chief function of the kidneys is to properly filter this poison from the blood. Only when they fail to do this is Rheumatism probable. Kidney weakness starts in various ways. A sudden chill, after perspiring freely, sometimes settles in the kidneys—or an unusual strain may cause it. Poisons which should be filtered out of the system are pumped back into the blood, causing Uric Acid, the real cause of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Wry Neck, Neuralgia, etc. In the early stages Nyal's Stone Root Compound will stop it. Will start your kidneys working properly so that the Uric Acid is reabsorbed and eliminated. Away goes your Rheumatism with it. Perhaps these early warning twinges have passed unheeded, and your Rheumatism has become deep seated. Muscles all snarled up in knots as it is. When you'll need Nyal's Rheumatic Cure. ## SPRATT AND HOUSTON GO TO HIGHER COURT

Defence Lawyers Fail in Getting an Acquittal for Victoria Machinery Depot Directors

Charles J. V. Spratt and William Houston, directors of the Victoria Machinery Depot, were yesterday afternoon formally committed for trial at the next assizes on charges of having stolen goods in their possession, the goods in question being British navy stores from the navy station at Esquimalt. The preliminary hearing commenced June 16 and was completed late yesterday afternoon. Arrangements were made for bail and accused were released on their bondsmen's sureties last night. There was no hesitancy regarding his intention of sending the two accused for trial on the part of Magistrate Jay, who had, before the defence commenced calling the witnesses to discredit the witness-Bullock, said he would exercise his right of sending the case to the higher court. Yesterday Magistrate Jay, when the final addresses had been delivered, said that at the close of the evidence he had intimated that he thought there was evidence to send accused up. They were not on trial before him but on a preliminary hearing, and it was not for him to say if there was evidence sufficient to convict the men. The evidence given by the defence, he said, did not go far concerning the gist of the case except where Spratt denied knowledge. There had been an attempt to discredit Bullock in three ways. First, extortion. On this, he said, it would not be right for him to give any expression, as Bullock was now out on bail on a charge of that nature arising from the prosecution. The second was theft, for which they relied on the evidence of a rig driver who said he had handed an affidavit to Solicitor Moresby before the information charging Bullock with theft was laid. If the prosecutor had seen fit after that to withdraw the charge, he, the magistrate, said he could not see any serious reflection on Bullock. The third matter casting discredit on Bullock was the alleged theft of a ton of coal. He did not think Bullock was so stupid a man as to steal coal from the company and try to arrange to have the company pay the cartage on it. It did not look like the action of a thief, for it was so apparent and it would be easily detected. The defence, said Magistrate Jay, had not changed his opinion that there was evidence to commit the accused and they would therefore be committed. Clerk Brooks from the Victoria hotel, who was on the stand when the court adjourned the previous afternoon, identified Bullock, who was sitting in court, as the man who saw "Doc" Howard in the room at the hotel. Brooks said Spratt had been to see him in regard to the present case but had offered him no money. In rebuttal the prosecution called Charles E. Wilson, solicitor, and a member of Fred. Peters, K. C. He remembered a conversation with their offices with Andrew Bechtel about the settlement of the Bullock claim for compensation against the Victoria Machinery Depot. Mr. Peters, in witness's hearing, had told Mr. Bechtel that Bullock wanted $750 in settlement and Bechtel said he would go away and see about it. Proceedings had not started and no writ had been issued for malicious prosecution or damages. Lawrence Clarke was called to rebut the statement of Spratt that he had not been at the works at night and that he was not present at a meeting with Day outside the Rock Bay hotel in April. Clarke said he saw Spratt meet Bullock and John Day near the door of the hotel, where they talked for a few moments, when Day took the Esquimalt car and Bullock and Spratt went towards the city. He had seen Spratt at the works between 9 and 10 p. m. one night in April. W. C. Moresby, for the defence, made a similar address to that of W. J. Taylor, K. C., who addressed the court before the defence entered its evidence. Mr. Moresby claimed no guilty knowledge on the part of Spratt, no evidence of stolen goods or that the stores found on the depot premises, were known by Spratt to have been stolen, and he asked for an acquittal. J. A. Atkman said he did not consider it necessary to address the court at any length.

BULLET CARRIES RABIES.

Newark, N. J., June 24.—Mrs. Pastine of this city, is in a hospital here suffering from rabies as the result of a slight bullet wound in the head. The bullet, which was fired by a policeman at a mad dog, passed through the dog's head before it grazed Mrs. Pastine's forehead and apparently carried the germs of the disease with it. Mrs. Pastine was injured while sitting on the front steps of her home. The policeman had chased the mad dog up to the second floor of the house adjoining and out on to a fire escape. He grabbed it by the neck, carried it down stairs and while he held it with one hand fired four shots from his revolver.

LORD MORLEY ON HEREDITY.

Viscount Morley, as he is termed to Lord Lansdowne's admission that an hereditary peerage should no longer of itself confer a right to sit in the House of Lords, may probably have remembered a speech of his own in the House of Commons on March 2, 1888, on a resolution moved by Mr. Labouchere in condemnation of the hereditary element in legislation. Mr. Morley, as he then was, thus concluded his speech: "Experience shows that along whichever path we may ultimately choose to move in dealing either with the position or the composition of the House of Lords, the first step that we have to take in ### that direction is to affirm that the accident of birth no longer confers the right to make laws for a free and self-governing people."

MIKKLESEN STILL LOST.

With the discovery of the North Pole by Commander Peary most people lost all interest in the exploration of North Pole regions, but there is much work yet to be done in the Arctic, more important than Pole-finding, about which there are people who still have their doubts. Early in 1899 Captain Mikkelsen went to the Polar basin to carry out investigations in the neighborhood of the Beaufort Sea, and as he has not returned it is proposed to send search expeditions to the north coast of Greenland, where it is thought he is waiting a relief vessel. It is known that his own vessel was wrecked last year while he and a member of the expedition were exploring inland, and it is thus impossible for him to return until help arrives. Before Captain Mikkelsen left for Greenland in 1899 he lectured before the Royal Geographical Society in London. —Meet your friends to-night at the J. N. Harvey, Ltd., clothing, hat and furnishing sale, 614-616 Yates street. * Elijah Claxton, 1st Batt. 1st Foot (now Royal Scots), is still drawing a pension which he first received October 15, 1885. WORKMEN RECOVER GOLD.

Cherokee, Wyo., June 24.—Reuben Stockwell and S. W. White last night won a suit against William Taylor for $10,000 in gold, which they found buried in Taylor's cellar. The two men were employed by Taylor to deepen and enlarge the excavation under his house, a doing the work they dug up a pot containing the money. Taylor claimed they gave it to him. Later Stockwell and White decided to sue for the return of the gold.

argument he adopted did not coincide with that of H. M. Fullerton. He pointed out that the streets leading to the Outer wharf followed the water line and that to straighten them out as proposed would divert them from the warehouses which he felt confident would be situated there before long, and would consequently defeat the very object for which the road was intended. He also took occasion to point out that there was a section of this combination thoroughfare lying between Dallas road and the point at which the proposed pavement was to end, which had been entirely omitted from the authorization by-law. On this latter point it was decided to bring in another by-law, and Ald. Langley will give the customary notice.

In view of the apparent difference of opinion prevailing as to the best manner in which to dispose of the street Ald. Okell thought it would be advisable to lay the matter over for further consideration.

Finally, however, the motion of H. M. Fullerton to have the paving proceeded with at once carried, so that the 1907 plan which has hung fire so long will now be permitted to consume itself.

REDUCE LUMBER RATES.

Seattle, Wash., June 24.—A reduction on lumber rates from points in Washington on the Harriman lines to points on the Southern Pacific in California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico was announced yesterday by officials of the railway company. The new rate becomes effective July 8. The reduction amounts to 75 cents a ton on through rates from Seattle and Tacoma and 60 cents a ton from Gray's Harbor points.

Heretofore the rate from these points has been the combination of locals to Portland. The rate applies on all standard grades of lumber. Local lumbermen say that Washington lumbermen will be placed on a closer competing basis with Oregon lumbermen. Effective on the same day rates to some points south of Roseburg, Oregon, will be reduced to the basis that was in effect before May 22, 1910. Some of the reductions are quite heavy. For example, the present rate for lumber, Portland and Willamette river valley, to Placerville, Cal., is $5 per ton; the new rate will be $5.

KATALLA OIL TANKS READY FOR OUTPUT

General Manager A. F. Gwin of Amalgamated Development Company Tells of Big Task in Northern Fields

PROJECT REPRESENTS GREAT INVESTMENT

Standard People Have Contract for First 100,000 Barrels Produced by Wells of Newly Opened Region

"Our three steel oil tanks, to hold more than a million and a half gallons of oil, have just been completed at Katalla, and as soon as our pipe line is in place we will begin pumping preparatory to filling our contract with the Standard Oil Company for the first 100,000 barrels of Katalla oil," said A. F. Gwin, general manager of the Amalgamated Development Company, upon his return from Katalla Thursday. Mr. Gwin is the leading spirit in the development of the Katalla district, and in spite of tremendous odds has just about brought his enterprise to the point of accomplishment.

Close to a quarter of a million dollars has been spent by Mr. Gwin in obtaining ownership of about 3,000 acres of land about Controller Bay, five producing oil wells that were drilled several years ago but whose further development was retarded by conflicting interests, and in the steel tanks with a miles pipe line conveying the oil from the wells to the shipping point on Katalla Island, which lies between Controller Bay and the ocean.

Rare Gasoline Oil

The Katalla oil is of a high percentage of gasoline—equaling or perhaps exceeding that of any other flow ever opened on the American continent and even leading the petroleum of Sumatra, Borneo and India, whence much gasoline has been imported in the last few years by the Standard Oil Company for the Pacific Coast; the remainder of the United States is supplied from the comparatively limited flow of the Pennsylvania and West Virginia wells. Texas, Oklahoma and Alaska, as well as California, produce a petroleum that is thick and heavy, chiefly valuable for fuel and road oil. The California oil is worth about 65 cents a barrel delivered at the refinery, and the Copper River & Northwestern Railway is preparing to make use of it for operating the railway at a cost of only a little more than $1 a barrel delivered.

"The late season has greatly hampered our work at Katalla," said Mr. Gwin, "as it is fully six weeks behind. Snow is still on the ground, in some places as deep as three feet. We had hoped to begin shipping oil even before this, but the snow has held our construction up so that it will be August before we will be ready to fill a tank steamer with oil."

System of Pipe and Tanks.

The smallest of the tanks is of 2,000-gallon capacity. It has been placed right at the producing wells. The pipe line runs to Point Hey, where the second largest of 300-barrel capacity is located, probably three miles from the first. The line then crosses the tide flats to the island. The shipping reservoir there is eighty-six feet in diameter and stands thirty feet high, with a capacity of 30,000 barrels of oil.

"From this big tank we have yet to lay a 5,000-foot pipe line out to deep water, in Controller Bay, and we are arranging to build a wharf there for the mooring of tank vessels. The Katalla Refining Company has a small refinery, or still, which is capable of handling a limited amount of oil a day—thirty-six barrels I believe. We are selling our oil to this company at $2 a barrel."

"What we have done at Katalla is only the beginning. Indications are that oil will be obtained in quantities in the Katalla belt; such is also the opinion of experts who have made detailed reports of the geological formation and reserves of the oil from the well and that which reaches the surface in many places through fissures in the rocks. When the former operators were drilling the wells on our property they followed directions given by Dr. H. F. Buris, the London oil authority, and found oil in the first five drills; they stopped work because of internal strife among the owners and lessees of the ground, before they had completed the sixth bore. After they left it well filled with oil, and tests show it to be a remarkably high grade of lubricant."

"We plan to go ahead and drill ten more wells on our property. This will mean big purchases of equipment and tankage in addition to our present supply. We had hoped to be able to purchase structural steel tankage here in Seattle, but found it necessary to go to the Libbey Iron Works, in Los Angeles, that concern turning out most of the big steel tanks on the coast. Most of our pipe line has come from Seattle."

Means Much to Seattle.

"I do not believe Seattle people realize what this Katalla oil development will mean for this city. California's oil fields yield approximately 75,000,000 barrels of oil annually, worth from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000. If Alaska's oil is worth from three to five times as much, and is capable of any large development at all, see where Seattle stands. Alaska's total output totals only $20,000,000 a year."

Other development work is proceeding in the Katalla district. The Katalla Oil Company, the Pioneer Oil Company, the National Oil Company of Alaska, the Alaska-Canadian Oil Co., and others either having rigs on the ground or preparing to install them. The Katalla company, of which Mr. Gwin is the president and Major Hunt, in the Alaska Building, is secretary, is making arrangements to drill on a section west of Katalla that Dr. Buris picked as the most likely spot in the entire district to produce oil. It was the first place drilled by the former owners of the property, but unfavorable weather interfered, and the operators had to choose the next best location, where they found the oil that is soon to be shipped.

W. B. Vanderlip, cousin of Frank Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, has acquired executive holding in the Katalla district and is preparing to develop them. He is now on his way to Fairbanks to investigate some mining properties for F. Augustus Heinze, who has just made himself another fortune in the Porcupine mining district, of Northern Ontario.

Dutch Company Enters.

Strangely significant is the entry of the Shell-Royal Dutch Companies into the Pacific Coast oil situation. They plan big works in San Francisco, to refine the oil from their own fields in California, and they also will bring oil across the Pacific from Sumatra in their invasion of the Standard's own territory. These foreign corporations, in the name of the Asiatic Oil Company, have bought thirteen acres of land at Richmond Beach, north of Seattle, where they are to make large expenditures for a distributing station that will supply British Columbia, all the Northwest, and eventually the territory as far back as the Mississippi River.

The Standard's contract for importing gasoline from Sumatra, to begin next year, and for that reason the Rockefeller interests are particularly desirous of gaining a new supply of gasoline-producing petroleum from Alaska. A man close to the Shell-Royal organization—which is really the Rothschild—admits that one reason the rivals of the Rockefeller desire to gain a firm foothold in the Puget Sound territory is because of the strategic position with relation to the new Alaska oil fields.

The Standard is expected to announce plans in the near future for expenditures of hundreds of thousands of dollars on a plant and distributing station for the Northwest, to be located near Seattle.

MISSOURI OIL MAN HAS HIGH OPINION OF FIELD

Charles A. Barber, of Kansas City, Mo., and well known in the oil territory of the Southwest, returned to Seattle from Katalla last week with the assurance that the Alaska oil fields are to become among the greatest in the world. Mr. Barber went north three weeks ago, to make personal inspection of the Katalla district, and to supervise the operations of a crew of oil drillers which he had sent out earlier in the month to complete the drilling of the Less-Graf well, and to sink other wells near Katalla.

After receiving from his superintendent, Roy T. Duffield, announcing that 1,500 feet the drill has encountered oil. The Less-Graf bore, which was owned by the Alaska Petroleum & Coal Company, has been taken over by Mr. Barber and his associates in the National Oil Company of Alaska, promising to be one of the best producers in the northern district.

Will Return to Seattle.

"I am on my way to Kansas City," said Mr. Barber, just before leaving for the East, Friday. "I expect to return to Seattle and make this city my headquarters within about thirty days. In the meanwhile I have opened offices in the Alaska Building, and these are to be in charge of J. A. Hagen, of the Western Exchange Bank, of Kansas City. Mr. Hagen is leaving his banking interests to enter these northern operations, so attractive is the outlook for oil development. He is secretary and treasurer of the Alaska Oil and Refining Company."

"Our operations will be on a large scale before the season is over," continued Mr. Barber, "especially in the province of claims 'A' and 'E' of the Alaska Petroleum & Coal Company's property, and confidently expect to have some producing wells there as soon as we can drill the holes."

Experts Like Prospects.

"Some of the most widely known oil experts in the world have passed their opinion on the Katalla fields, and say observation convinces me that their optimism was well founded, and that the future of Katalla oil will astonish the oil interests. The quality of the product, as analyzed by me, is superior to anything yet found on the American continent—unless it is the best of the Pennsylvania product—especially in the proportion of high grade lubricants and in the volatile oils like gasoline, benzine and naphtha. "I can say that in my years of experience as an oil operator I have never been so favorably impressed with the outlook for a new field, and feel that developments in the Katalla section will be next in importance, as far as the expansion of oil is concerned, to the output of Alaska gold."

While here Mr. Barber had several conferences with the president of the National Oil Company of Alaska, whose offices are in the Eilers Building.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS CONFERENCE

Addresses at Convention of International Association at San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—But one regular session of the International Sunday School Convention was held today, the delegates devoting the afternoon and evening to recreation and excursions. At the morning session "Dividends on Our Investment" was the subject discussed briefly by Justice MacLaren of Toronto, John R. Pepper of Memphis, F. N. Harshorne of Boston and E. K. Warren of Three Oaks, Mich.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman of New York, spoke on "Soul Winning and Christian Service," and Marion Lawrence of Chicago, general secretary of the association, discussed "The Responsibilities and Opportunities of Our Association."

The report of Treasurer Wells showed that the receipts since the last convention amount of $170,234, nearly all of which has been expended. Pledged and contributions to the general fund brought in $461,297, and life memberships $31,609. The sum of $17,192 was contributed by states and provinces toward field workers. The chief disbursements were $61,287 for salaries, and $21,937 for travelling expenses.

Rev. H. H. Bell, chairman of the local arrangement committee, presided at the morning session and the Rev. William Raden, also of this city, gave a short address. A feature of the meeting to-morrow will be a meeting in the Greek theatre of the University of California.

In aid of its work for the coming three years, the delegates to the International Sunday School convention today raised the sum of $44,000. W. N. Harshorne, of Boston, the newly elected president of the association, personally pledged $5,000 a year for this period to be used in promoting religious education among the southern negroes.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

Suppose a man had a beautiful garden on one side of his house, and on the other an unsightly dump, and suppose he always sat by a window where he could look out on the dump instead of the flower garden. What would you think of him? And yet how many people look out from the windows of the House of Life in just that way.

A young girl in our neighborhood lost her grandfather recently.

She had been very fond of him and put on black at his death.

Whereupon the neighborhood glibly assured itself:

"Hm, it's easy enough to see, why Elsie feels so terribly about her grandfather. She thinks black is becoming to her."

Now Elsie is a very pretty young girl, and she undoubtedly does look even prettier, in a quaint, pathetic way, in the somber gowns.

But she is also a very sensitive, affectionate young person, and was deeply touched by her grandfather's death.

Why isn't it just as easy to believe that sincere grief and not vanity is what actuates her?

The other day I forgot to take the change from a five dollar bill after making a small purchase. I did not find out my mistake for a day or two, but when I inquired for the money I found that the girl with whom I had traded had kept it intact for me.

I came home all-enthusiastic over her honesty to be dampened by "She probably was afraid she'd lose her job if she took it."

Perhaps.

And yet the honesty was an equally possible motive.

Why look beyond it for the less creditable one?

There is a woman in our neighborhood who does more for charitable affairs and entertainments than any other two women in the town.

We were speaking of her the other day and someone said, "I wonder if she really does it because she likes to help or because she likes to be in everything and likes to tell about it."

I suppose either motive is possible, but isn't it much pleasanter to believe that she was actuated by the former?

There is much bad in the world and there is much good.

If you want to be happy and sweet and lovable, train yourself to always see as much of the good and as little of the bad as possible.

If you want to be cynical and sour and disagreeable — well, be always looking out of the windows that overlook the dump.

JUBILEE OF THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Fifty Years Ago To-Morrow First Services of That Faith Were Held in Victoria—History of the Congregation

The Presbyterian church is one of the great historic churches of the Reformation, whose polity has come down from the Jewish synagogue through the Apostolic church and nineteen centuries, to the present time. The polity of the Presbyterian church is equality of the ministry, popular government and ecclesiastical unity. This form of church government is compact and symmetrical, and protects the church against unreasonable divisions and multiplication of congregations; provides for the doctrinal purity of her teachers, and by a graduation of courts gives an opportunity to every member to have justice. If any is dissatisfied with the decision of the session, he can appeal to the presbytery, and then to the synod, and then to the general assembly, which is the court of final appeal, and includes in

Over fifty years ago the Canadian Presbyterian church and the colonial committee of the Church of Scotland began to turn their attention to Vancouver Island as a field for mission work. So remote was this island then regarded that it was put under the foreign mission board. While these churches delayed definite action, the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in Ireland sent out an energetic, talented young minister from Belfast, the Rev. John Hall. He conducted the first service on the last Sabbath of June 1861, in the city of Victoria. He was the first Presbyterian missionary west of the Rockies. Thus fifty years ago to-morrow the first sermon under the auspices of the Presbyterian church was preached in British Columbia, which makes this tion of the meeting, a resolution which brought Presbyterianism into visibility on the shore of the great Pacific, was moved by Alex. Lowry and seconded by Alex. Wilson: "That this meeting do organize itself into a congregation to be called the First Presbyterian Church of Vancouver Island."

ville, organized St. Andrew's church, which has become a strong factor in church work, not only in Victoria but also in British Columbia generally. Their ecclesiastical mother, First church, feels proud of them, for "in appearance and manner, in intelligence and true piety they constitute a fine congregation of men and women."

After a few years of faithful pastorate, Dr. Somerville resigned and accepted a call to Blackfriars, Glasgow, and was succeeded in turn by Revs. E. McGregor, R. Stephen, P. McF. McLeod, and the present pastor, M. Leslie of McGill University, whose pastorate extends over a period of sixteen years, being the second longest in the synod of British Columbia, the longest being that of the minister of First church.

In 1876 First church was reopened by Rev. Dr. Reid, who by education and ordination was a Congregationalist, but became identified with the Presbyterian church. He did good work, and was much esteemed by the people, being a popular preacher and a faithful pastor. Dr. Reid is still in Victoria, claimed by all the churches, and beloved by all the people. He was succeeded by Rev. D. Gamble, of the American Presbyterian church, and on his resignation the con-

REV. JOHN HALL The Irish Presbyterian clergyman who conducted the first service of that faith in Victoria, on the last Sabbath in June, 1861.

With such expansion as the west was experiencing the Presbyterian church realized that she needed a theological college, and the General Assembly in 1907, in response to an overture, organized Westminster Hall in Vancouver city, but the permanent site of which will be at Point Grey, where the provincial university is to be erected. Rev. John Mackay, D. D., is principal. He is a man in the prime of life, a native of Oxford county, Ontario, and a distinguished graduate of the University of Toronto, and in theology a graduate of very marked standing of the Free Church College, Glasgow. He is just the right man for his position, being energetic, resourceful, practical, and of strong personality, much resembling the late Principal Grant, of Queen's College. Associated with Principal Mackay is Professor Pidgeon, D. D., a graduate of high standing of the University of McGill, and Montreal Presbyterian College. He is a strong man as a preacher, a scholar, and a lecturer.

Among the Churches

REFORMED EPISCOPAL Church of Our Lord.

Coronation Service.—To-morrow morning there will be a special coronation service. The music will be adapted for the occasion and the rector, Rev. T. W. Gladstone, will preach a special sermon on the text "He has not dealt so with any nation" in the evening Mr. Gladstone's subject will be "The Return to Egypt," a continuation of the series on the life of Moses.

Ministerial Association.—On Monday next a banquet will be given under the auspices of the Ministerial Association, when the Rev. Dr. Stalker, of Aberdeen, will be the guest of honor. The banquet will be held in the Alexander club and will commence at 12:30, noon.

BAPTIST First Church.

S. S. Picnic.—The annual picnic of the Sunday school, including the Burnside and Victoria West missions, will be held on Saturday next, July 1, at Macaulay Plains. The attention of all interested is called to the fact that this year it will be a basket picnic, each family bringing their own baskets and serving their meals.

B. W. P. U.—On Monday evening the regular missionary meeting of the young people will be held. It is expected that Associate Pastor Thorpe will give an address on the subject "Personal Objections to Mission Service."

Garden Party.—On Wednesday evening next, under the management of the Ladies Aid Society, a garden party will be held at the home and grounds of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spofford, North Pembroke street. Refreshments of strawberries and cream, ice cream, etc., will be on sale and a suitable programme provided.

METHODIST Metropolitan.

W. M. S.—Next Tuesday the ladies of the Metropolitan Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society will complete their house to house canvass for new members which was so successfully started some weeks ago. The ladies who are taking part in the canvass are asked to meet in the vestry at 9:30 a. m. ready for their work, and the members of the congregation who were not called upon the last time the canvass was made may expect a visit from the committee on Tuesday next.

Centennial.

Sunday Services.—To-morrow morning Mrs. Vermilyea, of Vancouver, will assist the choir of Centennial church and sing a solo in connection with the regular services.

An Old World Hero.—On Sunday, July 2, the pastor, Rev. A. Henderson, will commence a series of sermons in the course of which he will tell the story of "An Old World Hero."

Canada the church from ocean to ocean.

While the Presbyterian church maintains her polity to be scriptural, she does not hold presbytery as much as Christianity to be the fundamental principle of her religious church government. She does not unchurch other churches formed on different models as necessarily anti-scriptural, but maintains that although no church polity in detail is laid down in the New Testament, Presbyterianism is in entire harmony with the general principles of that supreme rule of faith and practice. Presbyterians do not unchurch other churches, although they prefer their own.

While the Presbyterian church, formed on the model of the Geneva church, is the established church of Scotland, she is by no means confined to Scotland, for she is to be found in every part of the civilized world.

The Hudson's Bay Company, the great fur-trading corporation of the West and Middle West, in 1843 established a trading post at the Indian village of Camosun, now the beautiful city of Victoria. The factor-in-chief, and those associated with him were Scotchmen, as their names, Douglas, Findlayson and Munro indicate. They were not only Scotchmen but also Presbyterians. They were young, energetic and well-educated, and as their loyalty to the church of their fathers show, they were well instructed in the book of books, and in the shorter catechism. They were nearly twenty years on the Pacific coast before a minister was sent them to conduct divine service according to the simple but impressive service of the Presbyterian church, for the church of the home land was not then as careful in looking after the spiritual welfare of her children away from home as she is now.

year, 1911, the jubilee of Presbyterianism on the Pacific slope.

The first business meeting to organize a congregation was held in Moore's hall on Government street, on February 3, 1862. Fourteen men were present. The Honorable Chief Justice Cameron presided, and the first mo-

JOHN G. BROWN Choir-Master of First Presbyterian Church, who has led the service of praise there for nearly twenty-five years.

This was the first Presbyterian church west of Kildonan, where the Rev. Dr. Black began ten years previously to preach the gospel in the old Selkirk settlement.

In the year following Mr. Hall's arrival in Victoria the Church of Scotland sent out as missionary to the city, Rev. Mr. Nimmo, and the Canadian Presbyterian church sent Rev. Robert Jamieson, who began work in New Westminster, where he organized St. Andrew's congregation and erected the first church. After two years he removed to Nanaimo, and there organized a congregation, and also built the first church, after which he returned to New Westminster.

The First Presbyterian congregation of Victoria purchased a church site for $1,100 at the corner of Pandora and Blanchard streets. The corner stone of the church was laid in March, 1863, by the Honorable Chief Justice Cameron, to whom a silver trowel was presented for the occasion. The church was opened for public worship on Sunday, November 15, of the same year. Mr. Hall being assisted at the dedication service by Rev. Mr. Nimmo, who took as the subject of his sermon Solomon's sublime prayer at the dedication of the Temple in Jerusalem. In the evening the preacher was Rev. Dr. Evans, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist church, whose text was Rom. 1, 16.

In 1865 Mr. Hall resigned to go to Australia, and on the recommendation of the colonial committee of the Presbyterian church in Ireland, the Church of Scotland withdrew Mr. Nimmo, and Rev. Thomas Somerville, of the Church of Scotland, accepted a call to First church, and all Presbyterians in the city worshipped there together, being joined also by the Congregationalists. After a short pastorate trouble arose in the church over the church property, and a large portion of the congregation, under the leadership of Rev. Dr. Som-gregation extended a call to Rev. Donald Fraser, M. A., in 1864.

ALEXANDER WILSON A familiar figure among the pioneers of Victoria, who seconded the motion for the organization of First Presbyterian Congregation.

Mr. Fraser was a strong man, a man of deep piety, a faithful pastor, an evangelical preacher, and an indefatigable worker. He died in 1891, and was succeeded by the present pastor, Rev. Dr. Campbell, who was educated at the University of Toronto and Knox College, where he carried off the first prize in public speaking.

It is a noteworthy fact that J. G. Brown has been leader of the service of praise as choir-master in First church for nearly a quarter of a century, and John Meston has been even longer superintendent of the Sunday school.

REV. DONALD FRASER Pastor of First Presbyterian Church From 1864 Until His Death in 1891.

In addition to the two congregations already mentioned in Victoria there are St. Paul's, Knox and St. Columbia, of which the pastors are Rev. Dr. Donald MacRae, Rev. Joseph McCoy and Rev. Robert MacConnell, all doing good and aggressive work. Knox was organized by the Y. S. C. E. of First church, and St. Columbia by that of St. Andrew's church. The pastors of the three suburban churches are men who have the work well in hand and are faithful, scholarly and evangelical men, being supported by a loyal people, who are doing their share of the work nobly. The general assembly of the Presbyterian church in Canada has reason to congratulate itself on its representatives in Victoria, and the status and influence of Presbyterianism in the capital city of British Columbia.

The progress which the Presbyterian church has made in British Columbia, and especially that during the last decade, has been very great. Indeed, marvellous. In 1892 the Presbytery of Columbia, which was then the only Presbyteries west of the Rockies, was divided in three Presbyteries—Victoria, Westminster and Kamloops—to constitute the synod of British Columbia, to which has since been added the Presbytery of Kootenay. There are now in the synod over one hundred ministers with three hundred congregations and mission fields.

REV. JOHN CAMPBELL, D. D. The Present Honored Pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

The other on the staff is Professor Taylor, Ph. D., who is a graduate of the University of Toronto, and in theology of Knox College. Before coming to Westminster Hall he was lecturer in Oriental literature at his alma mater, the University of Toronto, and has been recently offered a professorship there in Semitic languages. Although Dr. Taylor is the youngest professor in any of the Presbyterian colleges, he has already become an outstanding teacher in Old Testament exegesis.

This summer Professor Stalker, D. D., of Glasgow, and Principal Garvie, D. D., of London, are giving a special course of lectures at Westminster Hall. These are two of the leading teachers in the theological colleges of the old land, and are the worthy successors at Westminster Hall of the other special lecturers from across the sea, George Adam Smith and James Denny, men whose praise is in all the churches.

To commemorate the jubilee of Presbyterianism in British Columbia, First Presbyterian church is making extensive preparations. To-morrow forenoon the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed, when the Rev. Dr. Stalker will preach, and Principal Mackay will give a post-communication address. They will also address a mass meeting of Sunday school pupils and their friends at 3 p. m. In the evening Principal Mackay will conduct the service at 7:30. On Monday evening a social father-

The series will last during the warm summer evenings and will be of a specially interesting nature.

James Bay.

Epworth League.—Last Monday evening the members and friends of the Epworth League had a very enjoyable social evening at Horse Shoe Bay. The splendid weather materially assisted in making the evening a success and the large crowd thoroughly enjoyed the games, etc., which occupied their attention during the evening.

Coronation Services.—Last Sunday evening the service was of a special nature in keeping with the coronation event.—The pastor, Rev. A. N. Miller, preached a sermon dealing with the subject and the music was appropriate.

W. M. S.—The monthly meeting of the W. M. S., which was postponed last week, will be held on Tuesday next at the home of Mrs. C. Spencer, Government street, at 3 p. m.

Woman's Educational Club.—A meeting of the Woman's Educational club will be held on Wednesday afternoon in the parlor of James Bay church.

Victoria West.

Strawberry Social.—A Very successful strawberry social was held last Monday evening under the auspices of the Epworth League. The lot next the church was prettily decorated for the occasion and the Boy's Scout band rendered delightful music. There was a large crowd and the evening was greatly enjoyed.

the fiftieth anniversary of the Presbyterian church in British Columbia will be of a very interesting nature. In the morning the Rev. Prof. Stalker, of Aberdeen, Scotland, will preach, and in the evening the Rev. Principal Mackay, of Westminster Hall, Vancouver. In the afternoon a mass meeting of the Presbyterian Sunday schools of the city will be held at which addresses will be given by Drs. Stalker and Mackay. On Monday evening there will be a public meeting in the church, when addresses will be delivered by the representative of the Synod of British Columbia; Rev. A. E. Roberts, president of the Methodist Conference of British Columbia; and Dean Doull, representing the Anglican church. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province will preside and an address will be given by Acting Premier Young. At the conclusion of the meeting the ladies of the congregation will serve refreshments in the spacious school room.

SURRENDER AFTER TWO HOURS FIGHT

Hundred Americans, Members of Mexican-Liberal Army, Lay Down Their Arms

Tijuana, Cal., June 24.—Armed resistance to the authority of the Mexican government in Lower California has practically ceased. Gen. Jack Mosby and his men, comprising the second division of the Mexican liberal army in Lower California, are prisoners of Company D, 30th Infantry, U. S. A. Capt. Frank A. Wilcox commanding. About 100 men in all surrendered at the line—all Americans. They report their loss in the battle with 500 Mexican troops under Celso Vega, jefe politico of Lower California, and Col. Miguel Mayot, as three killed and one dying. The dead are: George Morgan, Fred Rogers, Frank Smith; mortally wounded, Capt. Holland, of troop C; wounded and disabled, Lieut. Barkalo, shot in groin.

The rebel prisoners of the United States troops were taken to San Diego this afternoon and conveyed to the guard house at Fort Rosecrans to await disposition of their case by the government at Washington. In the meantime they will be treated as prisoners of war.

So far the Mexicans have scattered below the line and some of them are said to be fleeing before scouting parties of the Mexican troops.

The Mexican force under Vega and Mayot has occupied Tijuana, L. C. According to stories told by the rebel prisoners at the American troop camp, the Mexican federal force had three machine guns and one field piece in action against them. The field piece was using canister and shrapnel alternately, they say. It was the machine guns and field piece that caused the retreat of the rebels. The federal force was well placed three miles from Tijuana. It occupied hills commanding all approaches from Tijuana, and, greatly outnumbering the rebels, made an attack a forlorn hope at best.

The battle lasted little more than two hours and was witnessed at a distance by a great throng of spectators from San Diego and intermediate points.

There was an imposing sight at the monument on the boundary line as Gen. Mosby and his men rode up from the scene of the battle and advanced to meet Capt. Wilcox.

"We have come up to surrender," were the first words of the insurgent leader. Tears could be plainly seen on his cheeks. He was disheartened and discouraged.

"They have 1,500 men and three machine guns," continued Mosby in speaking of the federals. "We put up as good a fight as we knew how, but we can't withstand the work of those terrible machine guns and the forces out to such an extent that it would be suicide to put up a further struggle. We surrender to you unconditionally, asking only that you afford such protection that an American can guarantee another human being who is struggling for a fair hearing."

Arrangements were then made for Mosby and his men to cross over the line, deposit their arms and ammunition at a place near the monument and place themselves in the custody of the American soldiers. The defeated rebels were cheered as they crossed over, for the long line of spectators who had gathered to witness the battle were plainly in sympathy with the losers.

The federals insist that only two of their men were killed; that three were badly wounded and several slightly. Seventeen insurgents, all Americans, were captured when Vega's forces occupied Tijuana.

TAFT AND RECIPROcity.

President Confident Measure Will Pass With Good Majority.

Providence, R. I., June 24.—Two of the flourishing cities on Narragansett Bay were visited yesterday by President Taft. The presidential yacht Mayflower brought him first to Fall River, as one of the closing features of that city's cotton industry centennial, and later the yacht steamed to Providence, where the president toured the city and spoke on his favorite public topic, Canadian reciprocity, at the Conservative Club banquet. The president sailed last night for New York.

The president is not worrying particularly about things in Washington, and in spite of predictions freely made in the last few days, is still convinced that the reciprocity bill will pass with a good majority.

There is much doubt in the minds of his friends as to what Mr. Taft would do if Congress insisted upon passing the "farmers' free list" bill and the woolen bill. He has asserted many times that the revision of the tariff should be based upon scientific data obtained by the tariff board. That data will not be available until December, and the president's attitude has not changed. He still is opposed to what he believes is "unscientific tariff tinkering."

MUSHROOM IMPERIALISM.

(Ottawa Free Press)

These last few days the Imperial Conference has been furnishing evidence enough of the difficulties of building an Empire to open the eyes of even the blindest of Imperialists. These sessions have not been devoted to the discussion of sensational questions, such as those of defence and an Imperial council. The issues under debate have been almost humdrum. For that reason, however, they have been all the more enlightening. For they show that there are shoals even in apparently the calmest waters of Imperial relations.

Take for example the long debate on naturalization within the Empire. The evil is as plain as a palmetto, and apparently the remedy should be equally plain. At present, for instance, an American citizen who settles in Canada and takes out naturalization papers, is a British subject as long as he stays in Canada. But if he goes over to the Mother Country, or to any of the other Dominions, he at once reverts to the position of an American citizen. Now what could be more obvious than that this was a cobweb of affairs that needed a remedy? And one would have as little doubted, before reading the discussions in the Imperial Conference, that the remedy could have been easily found.

But let us see what happened. And right here we would like to point out to our Jingo-Imperialist friends, that in this case it was the Canadian government that took the advanced stand towards Empire organization. Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed that the principle should be adopted that a British subject in one part of the Empire was a British subject in all parts of the Empire. It looked like a very reasonable and simple solution of the difficulty. But was it accepted? Objections came at once from two sources—South Africa and Great Britain. Both these countries have a different basis of naturalization to that of Canada, and they were not ready to give the rights of British citizenship to all who have that right in Canada. So the best that could be done was to manufacture a brand new Imperial citizenship, which must be obtained separately from the naturalization within any particular Dominion. The full adoption of the wider principle of mutuality, which Canada was willing to have go into force at once, must wait for a later time.

Another example of the same principle—that Empires are not built in a night, as mushroom Imperialists would have us believe—was furnished by the discussion on the Imperial Court of Appeal. The Dominions wanted representation on the court and the Mother Country was willing to grant it. But some of the Dominions hesitated at the cost. Sir Joseph Ward said he would not object to a Canadian judge sitting on New Zealand appeals; but it would not be worth while for that little colony to pay a representative to sit only on appeals from his own Dominion. Sir Edward Morris said Newfoundland had so few cases in appeal that it would not be worth her while to pay for a representative at all. So, another apparently simple problem must wait for solution till a more convenient time.

Now be it noticed that neither the problems mentioned nor the obstacles

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is receiving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of cod liver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among natural fats, butter easily takes first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

THE BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs. Callard & Bowser (Duke's Road, Euston Road, W. C. 1) have prepared for fifty years, is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, so palatable, in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any substance to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 11.7 per cent. of fat and 79.3 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures. Further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This confection can therefore be recommended not only as a harmless sweetmeat, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases. In all the Principal Candy Stores in Victoria.

to solution involve vital issues. Yet the Empire is not ready to adopt the obvious remedy. Is it strange, then, that some of the Imperial statesmen hesitate before they plunge into plans for Imperial councils, however advisory in character, or for consultation on diplomatic questions, guarded though the consultations be. Both these problems touch the vital matters of defence and responsibility for defence.

"Make haste slowly" is an excellent motto for statesmen who build an empire. Here is no place for mushroom Imperialists.

THE PHENOMENA OF WATERSPOUTS

SCIENTIFIC EXPLANATION OF THE MARVELS

Analogy With Cyclones and Aerial Vortices as Commonly Seen in Land Whirlwinds

In the waterspout the medieval mariner saw a malevolent living monster—a "sea dragon."

El Masudi, writing in 954 A. D., thus records the beliefs current in his day: "There are Timmins (dragons) in the Atlantic seas. Some believe this is a wind arising in a whirling column from the bottom of the sea. Some say it is a black serpent rising in the air, and succeeded by a terrible wind; some say that it is a terrible animal living in the bottom of the sea; some say they are black serpents, passing from the desert into the sea, and living five hundred years. Abu Abbas says they are killed in the clouds by cold and rain."

There were various means of combating them. Once all sailors carried black-handled knives, which the monster was believed to hold in special abhorrence. When a spout made its appearance these knives were produced and pointed in its direction, waved in the air so as to make the sign of the cross, or, according to the recommendation of certain contemporary authorities, driven several times into the side of the ship. Certain passages from the Gospel of St. John were recited as charms against waterspouts. A loud noise of any kind was also believed to be efficacious against them; shouts, the clash of swords, the beating of drums and gongs, etc. The custom of firing cannon against waterspouts dates back at least as far as the sixteenth century, as it is alluded to by Camoens, in the "Lusiad" (1572). The original idea appears to have been to frighten them away by the noise of the report; but in later times it was believed that the watery column could be cut in twain by the cannon ball, and the spout thus dissipated. It would be interesting to know whether the cannonading of waterspouts is still sometimes practiced. It was certainly common much less than a century ago. It is hardly necessary to say that it is entirely futile.

Many misconceptions concerning waterspouts are still widely prevalent, and these are kept alive by the loose and inaccurate statements to be found in many professedly authoritative scientific works that touch upon this subject. For example, one commonly meets with the statement that the waterspout (like its terrestrial congener, the tornado) is precisely analogous to the widespread cyclone, or "low," on the one hand, and to the tiny whirl of dust, dry leaves, and the like over hot dry ground, on the other. This statement is misleading. All three phenomena are, to be sure, vortices in the atmosphere, and inequalities of temperature are their primary cause; but the immediate forces at work in producing them are quite different. The great cyclones of middle latitudes—i. e., systems of winds revolving around centres of low barometric pressure, and extending over areas of hundreds or thousands of square miles—are episodes in the eastward whirls of the whole atmosphere around the poles of the earth, and are evidently not due to excessive heating of the ground beneath them, since they are more frequent and more intense in winter than in summer. Just how they are produced and maintained is one of the great moot questions of physics and meteorology. On the other hand, the little whirls so often seen on a dusty road, for example, result from an unstable condition of the air immediately over the ground. On a warm, sunny day the ground becomes intensely hot, and heats the lower layer of air by conduction. If the air as a whole is tranquil, this layer may remain undisturbed for a time, constantly growing hotter, until at some particular point it suddenly upsets—upward—i. e., rushes up to its natural level, in accordance with law of gravity, above the colder and denser layer to which the ground had not imparted its heat by conduction. At the surface of the ground the air flows in from all sides toward the point where upward movement is in progress; a point that may be compared to the vent at the bottom of a wash basin discharging its water. Local (so-called "accidental") circumstances prevent the flowing air currents from being exactly convergent, and a central whirl or vortex is the result. In a cyclone the rotation of the wind around the vortex is always from right to left in the northern hemisphere, and vice versa in the southern, because the inflowing currents are deflected in a constant direction by the rotation of the earth. In the dust whirl the paths of the air currents are so short that the defective effect of the earth's rotation is insignificant in comparison with the local effects of topography, etc., and hence these whirls turn sometimes to the right and sometimes to the left, in the same hemisphere. From the foregoing paragraph it will be seen der the diminished pressure within a vortex in the atmosphere; but in the landspout this vapor is mingled with dust and other terrestrial objects sucked up by the spout from the surface over which it passes. The term "tornado" is applied specifically to the particularly violent landspouts that are common in certain parts of the United States.

We have seen that dust whirls occur only when the surface of the ground is excessively heated, and during their brief existence they are fed by the inflow of the lower air. The sharp contrasts of temperature that produce them are characteristic of a land surface as compared with a water surface; yet it is over the latter that spouts are most frequent. Here, then, is one point of difference between the dust whirl and the spout. Another is the fact that no surface inflow of the air is observed about a spout, except immediately within it. A waterspout may pass within a few hundred feet of a vessel when the latter is absolutely becalmed. Both of these circumstances prove the inaccuracy of the common statement that spouts are due to an unstable condition of overheated air at the earth's surface.

Both theory and observation indicate that the vortex of a spout originates at a considerable altitude above the earth—viz., at the level of the middle or lower clouds—and is thence propagated downward. The explanation of its origin must be sought in the contrasts of temperature occurring, at high levels, on the margin of a large cyclone; the zone in which spouts originate being identical with that in which squalls (vortices with horizontal axes) are also most common. Frequently it fails to reach the earth's surface. Incomplete waterspouts are often observed dangling from the clouds, with no agitation of the water beneath such as would indicate that the vortex extended to the lowest stratum of the air. Waterspouts are common within the tropics, especially in the equatorial region of calms and baffling winds known as the "doldrums." The East India, the Guinea, the Red Sea and the Mediterranean are some of their favorite haunts.

It is hardly necessary to state that a waterspout does not consist of water in the ordinary sense of the term. A vortex in the air, formed as described above, is gradually pushed downward. If it reaches the surface of the ocean the latter will be violently disturbed; the water will be dashed upward in the form of waves and spray to a height of many feet, forming the characteristic broad base of the spout. Extending above this to the level of the clouds the centrifugal action of the vortex causes, within its core, a rarefaction of the air—a region of diminished pressure—in which water vapor, previously gaseous and invisible, is condensed, by the cooling due to expansion, into a column of mist. This column is often a mere watery film, so that vessels, mountains and the like, lying beyond the spout, can be distinctly seen through it.

Although the vortex, and the resulting visible column of mist, grows downward, the air in the spout moves chiefly upward, in spiral paths, often with force enough to carry heavy objects aloft, as is commonly seen in the tornado.

When a waterspout suddenly breaks, owing to cessation of its vortical motion, its moisture may be discharged downward in the form of a torrential rain. This has sometimes happened over a ship, and the water was observed to be fresh, not salt, proving that no considerable part of it was drawn directly from the ocean.

The forms of waterspouts are various. Sometimes they are seen singly, sometimes in groups. As many as twenty have been observed at one time. Their height, in extreme cases, may reach nearly a mile.

Some of the most interesting descriptions and pictures of waterspouts are to be found in a memoir published in 1893 by the late H. C. Russell, government astronomer at New South Wales. In one case cited by this author fourteen complete spouts and six others more or less incomplete, were seen within the space of five hours. Russell also records a case in which the shaft of a waterspout formed a complete loop; a phenomenon that has occasionally been mentioned by other writers. The description follows:

"August 18, 1884. Mr. Richard Taplin, master of the steamship Burrarong, writes: 'When fifteen miles south of Seal Rocks a waterspout in the midst of a black and heavy-looking rain cloud, it looked like a bright funnel and the tube descended to the sea, which it lashed into a fierce whirlpool. The spout was travelling to the northwest, and passed us three-quarters of a mile to westward. I estimated the speed it was travelling forward at about twelve to fifteen miles per hour, but otherwise very similar, and it passed, and the second one was not so large, but otherwise very similar, and it passed, and the last one was very beautiful; it formed under the southeastern extremity of the very dark rain cloud, and it travelled in the same direction as the other two. Its funnel-like shape was like the first one, but it was much longer and closer to the ship, so that we could see it very well. As it came howling along at the rate of twenty miles per hour, we could see the water

In New Brunswick, GIN PILLS have cured hundreds of men and women of Rheumatism. Mr. Wilson of Hartfield, N. B., is one of the many who owes his good health and strength to GIN PILLS. He writes: "It affords me great pleasure to convey not only to you, but to all sufferers from Back Ache and Rheumatism the great relief I have obtained from the use of GIN PILLS."

I am sounding the praises of GIN PILLS to everyone suffering as I did."

Robert M. Wilson of Nova Scotia for the fourth letter from D. J. Lawler of Ogden.

"I have been bothered with Rheumatism so bad that I could not work. A doctor tended me and told me to go to the hospital but all to no good until a cousin told me to try GIN PILLS. I did so, and after taking a few boxes, I am perfectly well."

These written words and signed statements from well known people are the best possible guarantee of the value of GIN PILLS. Could Not Work

His Father Was Troubled

Alex. Moore, Esq., is one of many hundreds who know that GIN PILLS will cure Rheumatism. He writes from Newburgh, Ont.

"My father had been troubled with Rheumatism for a number of years. He tried two doctors but got no relief, when my uncle insisted on him trying GIN PILLS. He purchased a box and after taking GIN PILLS for a week, found that they were giving him much relief. He then bought three more boxes, which were the means of curing him. He is now a strong man—in good health—and able to attend to his daily work—and all the credit is due to GIN PILLS."

They know about GIN PILLS down in Nova Scotia, too. In fact, GIN PILLS are the old standby all over the Maritime Provinces because GIN PILLS really cure Rheumatism. An old gentleman in Yarmouth, N. S., says: "I have been bothered with Rheumatism for the past year and have taken a good many kinds of medicine, but found no relief. One day, a friend advised me to try GIN PILLS and after taking a few boxes, I felt like a new man—and would advise all sufferers to take

For next week there are three attractions looked at the Victoria...

Passing items of news are that David Warfield has ended his year's work with "Peter Grimm" and that he will reappear in the piece next autumn in New York...

A London paper notes that a meeting to be held at the Portman rooms by the West Marylebone branch of the National League for Opposing Woman Suffrage will be of dramatic as well as Their song programme is arranged to fit every taste and the soprano and baritone voices render the numbers beautifully.

The Franco troupe is something new, something from Paris and something with several thrills besides. They are living lithographers with a new idea. Human billposting athletically done, with the S. and C. guarantee of quality behind it.

The David Warfield of vaudeville is Murry Livingston, who comes to us with "The Man from Italy," a novelty in which, according to New York critics, he has done his greatest work. Tony, the chief character, is a vendor of statuettes in the midst of the life of New York east side, and the character gives him an opportunity for a display of his rare talent. Supported by a company of exceptional strength he is heard in a charming song, "Rose Marie."

Remarkable dancers are the three Browns, according to report, both artistic and acrobatic and also excellent singers. They have had good supporting notices and are billed a good supporting act.

Emerald and Dupree are already known. They are the Hot Scotch that raised the laugh riot here last year in Scotch song and dance. Never was there such another "Hielander" with such a lot of impersonations and with such a dainty little comedienne along to help entertain as is Miss Dupree. The Grandiose pictures and new orchestral music under Herr Kunn's direction are billed.

"The Old Homestead."

Up at West Swansey, six miles below Keene, New Hampshire, is the original "Old Homestead," but made over and modernized into an ideal country home, by the late Donnan Thompson. The village itself is a cluster of old-fashioned houses with two or three stores, a couple of churches, a school house, a blacksmith shop and a grist mill, the latter turned by the waters of the brook. The Thompson family all live in West Swansey. Mrs. Kilpatrick and Mrs. McFarland having each handsome places in the grove near the lake, while Franklin, the late Donnan Thompson's son, and business manager, lives in a very attractive house on the borders of the lake.

Millions of people have seen Swansey, the village portrayed on the stage, for it is the scene of "The Old Homestead," which has been played almost as many times as Uncle Tom's Cabin, or Rip Van Winkle. They know Joshua Whitcomb and are personally acquainted with the other characters, some of which are taken bodily from the streets and farms of old Swansey, yet to the general mind Swansey is a place having no existence save behind the foot-were more or less taken from life. "The Old Homestead" will occupy the stage at the Victoria theatre on Monday, June 25.

"The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." Miss Robson certainly stands alone in the impersonation of eccentric old women. She has created an ideal Aunt Mary, as no other actress could have done with the same material. There are no dull moments, no ambiguous plot, no problems, simply a very funny story well told and well acted.

The play is in three acts and concerns an aunt of a somewhat humorous nature who is finally expelled from college for crashing a back-driver, who had insulted him. The man was about to sue him and expose the entire affair, when he offered to settle for a few hundred dollars. Now Jack is in a dilemma; he rushes off to his aunt, and explains; she sympathizes with him and promises to pay the money if he will promise to be a good boy. Of course he promises and is elated, when Aunt Mary's lawyer arrives with the information that Jack is to be sued for $15,000 for breach of promise by a girl in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Aunt Mary is simply astounded, then is furious and orders her lawyer to draw up another will. Jack is sent back to college. Returning to New York he calls on his "boy" chum, who insists upon his remaining, making his home with him. Betty, who is deeply in love, but the young lady offers no encouragement, and will never marry

JOHN DREW HERE IN A MAUGHAM COMEDY

"SMITH," a comedy in four acts, by W. Somerset Maugham. Thomas Freeman, John Drew, Herbert Dallas-Baker, K. C. Morton Ellen, Lewis Casson, Algonon Pappacorn, Howard Short, Fletcher, Isakel Irving, Mrs. Dallas-Baker, Sybil Thordike, Emily Clappan, Jane Laupl, John Smith, Mary Boland.

Another of W. Somerset Maugham's comedies was seen here last evening, John Drew, master of light comedy, presenting "Smith" at the Victoria theatre to a well filled house which chuckled over Maugham's acid comments on society and appreciated the fact that these were interpreted by a popular actor, supported by a capable and a well-balanced company.

In "Smith" Maugham not only indulges in a deal of gentle satire at the expense of the idle rich, their follies and bobble, but he comments upon their perversion of life, upon their selfishness, shallowness, bridge-playing and, above all, upon their childlessness—and comments with direct-ever becoming a notable one the combination of John Drew and of his polished and finished acting in light comedy is a great pleasure to watch. In Tom Freeman he is provided with a part in which he is happily cast, and his comedy sense enables him to keep it from becoming farce, the borderline of which is never far away in "Smith." In the scenes with Smith the play is all of the sort which Drew does so well, and in what might be called the "preaching" scenes he carries them through so as to hide their prosiness even though he does not convey the same conviction in them that a subtler actor would.

Miss Boland is an entrancing Smith. She is the simple, honest, wholesome girl, tender-hearted and good, and suggests her position in life cleverly. She never for a moment becomes the "lady," never for a moment becomes vulgar, "she knows her place," does smart and holds it fairly as a yeoman farmer's daughter between society and the lowly-born. While we get glimpses through Miss Boland's excellent acting of the true womanliness behind the servant she never allows it to become obtrusive, and only for a moment at the close do we see the final submission of the servant in the woman and affianced wife. Miss Boland has been here once before, appearing in support of Robert Edeson some four years ago. In the interval her work has matured greatly and adds in no small measure to the success of the play has had.

Miss Irving draws a convincing picture of the callous bridge fiend, who will not allow her brother's arrival home to spoil a game by drawing her away to meet him, and who even hides from the fact of her friends the fact that the latter's infant is dying so that her party will not be disturbed. In this delineation of a heartless, selfish type she is ably assisted by Miss Thordike and Miss Laurel. The scene at the bridge party when the tense moment in the play, the telephone call that Smith brings to the drawing room is all-time to the players, her insistence that it is important is resisted by her mistress, and when she, the only one who is moved by a little child's danger, blurs out with a sob that it is dead the feeling lesson of irritation that this breaks up the game. The acting of all those concerned is most admirable in its entire naturalness.

Mr. Short gives not only an amusing but a carefully worked-out characterization of a perfect cad, a little beast, one of those "stame cats" or "poodle dogs" whom some married women allow to dandle after them. It is not too much to say that it is the best bit of individual work in the play. Mr. Selten as the complaisant husband and Mr. Casson in the cow-comedy part of Smith's servant-sutor are good. Altogether the flow of clever dialogue and delicate satire, an excellent company and the ample store of fun they extract from the comedy for the pleasure of their audiences make a very merry evening.

THE FRANCOLI TROUPE

him unless he reforms. He promises sincerely and a truce is agreed upon; as it is her birthday, Jack consults his friend and decides to give Betty a party.

At this juncture a telegram is received notifying Jack that his Aunt Mary is on her way to the city. Betty rushes away to meet the old lady. Betty sends her maid away and assumes her place in order to cultivate the aunt, the boys miss her in the crowd and she arrives at the house tired out and inclined to be cross. She asked how her nephew is and then it is discovered that someone has written to her that Jack was laid up with the measles and not to come until later. She discovers preparations being made for a grand supper for Betty, when Jack explains that this is in honor of her visit. After enjoying the dinner Aunt Mary is invited out for a ride in an automobile. She does not wish to appear slow, nor very dumb, so she cultivates cigarettes and cocktails.

After several days of sight-seeing, Aunt Mary returns home, but her life finds life monotonous and sends for Betty, the supposed maid. On her arrival she is questioned about Jack, and whether she smokes cigarettes. As she is just furnished with one, while they are exchanging confidences, Jack arrives and explains and confesses his love for Betty. They appeal to Aunt Mary and she forgives them and consents to move to New York and live with them.

Such is the story of this exceptional comedy which has been so successful in New York and London. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" will be seen at the Victoria theatre on Tuesday, June 27th.

Miss Billie Burke in "Mrs. Dot." Charles Frohman will present his most popular star, Miss Billie Burke, in "Mrs. Dot" at the Victoria theatre on Thursday evening, June 29th.

This play is a wretched comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, one of the most talented of the contemporary English playwrights. "Smith," John Drew's offering this season, is another example of his work. In "Mrs. Dot" he tells an amusing story of how a young and pretty widow lays her tolls for and captures a handsome Englishman. Of course, like Barks, he is "willy" from the start, but there is a previous engagement. He refuses to jilt the other girl and the widow reports to strategem. If he will not jilt her, she must jilt him.

That is the widow's scheme and how she works it provides the material for the play. Miss Burke plays the widow and no one, after seeing her in the role, can doubt the wisdom of the elder Weller's famous advice to his son—"Beware of the widder! Santivel, beware of the widder!"

The role calls for a display of all the wonderful charm for which Miss Burke is celebrated and it also gives her an opportunity to prove her ability as a comedienne. Mrs. Fiske coming. An indefatigable as she is brilliant and imaginative, that wonderful woman and consummate artist, Mrs. Fiske, is again touring the western country instead of resting or visiting Europe for the coronation, or of her professional or artistic supremacy have arranged to do. She is giving the west a view of "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," the striking comedy success which was enjoyed with such favor in New York and which she brings to the Victoria theatre on Thursday, July 20.

NANCE O'NEIL IN "THE LILY"

In the adaptation to the English-speaking stage of the play we know as "The Lily" it is to be feared that David Belasco hardly does credit to "The Lily" of Wolf and L'Heroux, and faults in his adaptation helped to mar Miss Nance O'Neil's presentation of the play at the Victoria theatre last Saturday evening.

"The Lily" blooms in four acts. The first is really a sort of prologue, and unless it exists to enable the adapter to stage a very fine outdoor scene it has no raison d'etre. It explains little

Family Cured of Eczema By Cuticura Remedies

"The Cuticura treatment has absolutely cured me and family of eczema which I, my wife and two-year-old child had for eight months. It started with small pimples on the head of my child which gradually broke out in sores, and it was not long before I and my wife got the same. Our heads were one mass of sores, we could not sleep and the itching was terrible. We suffered for eight months. We tried different kinds of ointments and medicine but it did us no good and soon it began to break out on our bodies until a friend who had the same trouble told me about Cuticura of which I used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent, and I was surprised. After the first few days our heads began to heal and in two months we were absolutely cured of this terrible eczema."

social and political interest. For after the speeches there will be produced the league's first play, "When the Vote Was Won," written by a lady who calls herself, "for the occasion only," by the name of "E. Lock." The action of the play is supposed to take place just prior to the first election after the granting of universal suffrage, and the whole thing is of a light and airy nature, verging upon farce. This is as it should be. Such a play could only be of such a nature. The drama can never be used to teach a political lesson or further any political doctrine. The stage is a great educative force in other ways, but it never can be in this. Even if it were possible it would be a great mistake to so use it.

The Advance Man

The songbirds of songland, Spencer Kelly and Marion Wilder, who were headlined from New York to San Francisco on this tour and who open here at the Empress-Grand Monday matinee, have drawn a profusion of praise from all critics, both American and Canadian. One and all have placed the Kelly-Wilder combination at the head of the bill enthusiastically, and that should be enough to say of two who have been favorites since they started out, until they are here on Monday.

lights, though the characters have trod its mimic streets are reminiscent, the average theatregoer is certain that they survive in actual life no more.

Joshua Whitcomb, however, is an actual reproduction of two personages in Swansey known as Captain Otis Whitcomb and Joshua Holbrook. Captain Otis furnished the comedy and Joshua the more serious elements of the combination. The original of Aunt Matilda was a sister of Joshua Holbrook and known to all the people of Swansey as "Aunt Rhody"—a tender, honest, faithful, respectful old lady who transmuted the joys and sorrows of her life and home into pure gold.

"Cy" Prime was a fellow townsman who had the reputation of being the biggest liar in Cheshire county, and Seth Perkins was a composite of several characters, such as can be found in every New England village. Henry Hopkins, the city man, was an old New Hampshire playfellow of Donnan Thompson, who used to sit on the same bench with him in the little red school-house. He went to New York and got rich. The other characters in the play and its preaching, at the hands a young middle-aged artist, is of an ethical type popularly known as French—but which is no more French than the views of an ultra-fast set of British or American society are representative of the sober-thinking mass. The second act begins to further the action, which reaches a climax in the third in a strong scene. The fourth act is flat and profitless, leading nowhere. Belasco leaves us in doubt as to whether the girl in the case lives conventionally for three years under the chaperonage of her old-maid sister—a type more gallantly termed "the lily" in France—or goes on unconventionally for that period till her lover can legally marry.

Since Miss O'Neil has been under Belasco's management his training has smoothed the old harshness of her intonation and softened the old roughness of her movements. She still retains the largeness of utterance and the power of body, and these serve her well in such an outburst of long-pent up rebellion as that which she utters upon her father when he would drive his younger daughter from the house because she has sought outside the love she has no opportunity of finding within. She has a fine command of vehement speech and has, as noted, softened in some respects, but she does not appear to have reached any closer to the heart of things dramatic, either in keenness of imagination or subtlety of perception.

Charles Cartwright is a fine actor, who has played in the Fiske and New Theatre companies, but in the portrayal of the Comte de Malincy, "an outside angel but a home devil," he is hampered by the adapter. Belasco, with a trick he has of elaborating on the count's characteristics that he almost makes him a clown. Cartwright had to struggle against this and the effort marred what should have been a fine opportunity for a character actor had the playwright sketched instead of overloading with details.

Miss Julia Dean displayed much skill and great sincerity in her delineation of the younger sister, and is in fact, though not in name, the leading woman of the company. Oscar Eagle and Elliott Dexter, one the lawyer who straightens tangles out, and the other the lover, acted capably.

The scenic surroundings and lighting effects were excellent, as is always the case with a Belasco production. LA'ID ACT. DISTRICT OF COAST, RANGE III. Take notice that Samuel G. DISCUSS QUESTION OF CAFE LICENSES

New Westminster Commissioners Make Policy Clear as to Hotel Dining Rooms

New Westminster, June 23.—The application for a restaurant license by the proprietors of the Royal cafe which came before the license commissioners in the mayor's private room was the means whereby the intentions of the board of reference to the sale of drinks in this city were to a large extent made public.
J. P. Hampton filed application on behalf of Messrs. Seabrook & Jones, proprietors of the Royal cafe, Columbia street, for a license in conjunction with that business. Mr. Bole applied under section 175, sub-section 5 of the Statute of the Dominion, which he said gave the commissioners power to grant such a license. In speaking for his clients, he said that Vancouver, Victoria, and other cities on the coast had all the facilities for supplying drinks in cafes and restaurants. The solicitor asked that a provisional license be granted and the board had in its power at any time to cancel this if things were not carried on in a manner satisfactory to the commissioners.
Mayor Lee, replying to the application said that the city council had not yet introduced a by-law which would give the commissioners power to grant such a license as was that day being applied for. The latest ruling by the court at Burnaby had made that very clear. What could be done would be to have the commissioners suggest to the city council the advisability of introducing a by-law which would give them the necessary power to give a license to a restaurant.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bellefleur, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I feared like a martyr as I thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and my appetite came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—Mrs. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Bellefleur, Quebec.
Another operation avoided.
Poughkeepsie, N.Y.—"I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for womb trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did more for me than the doctors did. I have gained five pounds. I hope that everyone who is suffering from female trouble, nervousness and backache will take the Compound. I owe my thanks to Mrs. Pinkham. She is the working girl's friend for health."

SCHEME TO IMPROVE COLUMBIA RIVER

Early Survey Will Probably Be Undertaken by Dominion Government

Nelson, June 23.—W. R. Farris, the proponent on the Nelson board of trade of the Columbia river navigation scheme, has received a letter from Hon. William Pugsley, minister of public works, stating that the proposal for Canadian co-operation with the United States government in the matter of making the Columbia navigable in its upper course is receiving the government's consideration, and that he hopes to have provision made for an early survey of the Columbia from the Windermere to the international boundary. This confirms the intention made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier when here last fall, that the government would make an estimate of the cost involved.
A. B. Mackenzie, secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia, has just issued from Rossland a circular to the chambers of commerce throughout the states of Oregon and Washington, inviting information as to the influence this great water route would have in the determination of railway rates between the salt water and the interior.
The American government is constructing works at Kettle Falls and at the Dalles, and at the present rate of progress will have the great river completely navigable to the Canadian boundary in a very few years. On the Robson side the river is navigable to four feet above dead low water, and from Robson to Arrowhead, a distance of 128 miles, it is broadened into the Arrow lake. From that point to the Windermere is 700 miles, traversing a country of great native wealth.

WILL BUILD NEW CHURCH

Queens, June 23.—The missioners, under the charge of Rev. Canon Deedes, have settled down here. A church is to be erected together with a rectory alongside. Until then services are being held in Mr. Shephard's new barn, which has been temporarily fitted up as a church, and the clergy are for the present occupying the residence recently vacated by Wm. Blair. The party includes the Canon, Rev. H. C. T. Pelham, Rev. W. B. Drake and Rev. R. H. T. Williams, together with three laymen. There will always be one of the clergy resident here and from time to time they will do mission work at Chilcoteen, Barkerville and Fort George.

WAS CASE OF SUICIDE

Vancouver, June 23.—That James Oliver Bratt came to his death in the city of Vancouver on June 19 from corrosive poisoning, self-administered, while he was temporarily deranged, this was the verdict returned by Coroner Jeff's jury at the inquest. The witnesses were Mrs. Bratt, widow of the deceased, and Doctors Cartwright, W. H. Land and Curtis. Mrs. Bratt testified that deceased had been overcome by a fit of maniacal rage and had tried to injure or kill her, but she had managed to escape from the house. The deceased had then gone in to the bath room, where he took poison.

DIES FROM WOUND

Lytton, June 23.—A stabbing affair took place about five miles from Lytton, as a result of which a man is dead. His deposition was taken by Constable McGaan in the hospital before he died. This is another case of liquor having been supplied to Indians. The two men were quarrelling, when John Daniel is alleged to have stabbed William Mitchell in the abdomen. The wounded man was brought to the hospital, where he passed away. Daniel is under arrest.

NELSON POWER PLANT

Nelson, June 23.—The second unit of the city of Nelson power plant at Upper Donnington Falls, 10 miles down the Kootenay river, has just been through the severe test named in the contract with the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock people, and is on the point of being taken over. About 125,000 has been expended to date on the plant, apart from the distributing system, and in addition to industries within the city, and the street railway, its juice drives the Lambert sawmill at Taghum, and the concentrator of the Granite-Portman gold mine at Granite, while other contracts are pending. This brings the development to 3,600 horse-power, and, being the pivot of the Kootenay, the city is definitely set up on what it hopes, with good reason, will be an industrial career.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Vancouver, June 23.—That John P. Locke came to his death through injuries accidentally received, was the verdict returned by Coroner Jeff's jury at the inquest held into the circumstances surrounding his death. While holding a team of restive horses near the city stables on Saturday night, June 17, deceased was knocked down, the vehicle to which they were attached passed over him. He was taken to the General Hospital and died later. Dr. Weid, who conducted the post-mortem examination, testified that deceased's spinal cord had been severed, resulting in paralysis, and eventually death.

THROWN FROM BUGGY

Lytton, June 23.—Messrs. D. and F. Loring were thrown from their buggy while driving round the big bluff and both men sustained injuries. They, however, managed to walk back to the farm and send for Doctor Johnson, of Lytton, to attend to them. F. Loring's arm is broken and his brother has sprained his ankle and injured his hip.

TRIBUTE TO SIR WILFRID

The London Daily Express publishes an interesting sketch of Sir Wilfrid Laurier under the caption of "Le Grande Canadien." The Express, which is a Conservative paper, describes Sir Wilfrid as "the most interesting and authoritative figure in the Imperial conference, and says he has built his career as a politician on the harmonizing of apparently antagonistic tendencies. He is the perpetual taker of middle courses. A French-Canadian and a Catholic is nearly always the most hidebound of Tories. Sir Wilfrid is a French-Canadian, a Catholic, and the leader of the Liberal party! He is a Free Trader, a Cobden Club gold medalist—and the head of a strong protectionist government. He stands for Canadian nationality—he has indeed created a nation out of a colony—and yet he is, a thorough and sincere Imperialist. He is intensely proud of his French descent, and just as proud of his British citizenship.

"He learned English from a Scotch Presbyterian. He was born in the strictest of Catholic families. His first school was Protestant. His second was Catholic. Thus, when he was a young man, Sir Wilfrid had 'come into close personal contact with the thought, the

MEDICAL SYSTEM OF THE FUTURE

Nationalization is New Scheme Proposed for Reorganization of Old Science

It was inevitable that we should some day have to face the problem of medical reorganization on a social basis. Along many lines social progress has led to the initiation of movements for the improvement of public health. But they are still incomplete and imperfectly co-ordinated, writes Havelock Ellis in the London Chronicle. We have never realized that the great question of health cannot safely be left to municipal tinkering and the patronage of Brompton. The result is chaos and a terrible waste, not only of what we call "hard cash" but also of sensitive flesh and blood, a commodity even more precious than cash. Health, there cannot be the slightest doubt, is a vastly more fundamental and important matter than education, to say nothing of such minor matters as the post office, or the telephone system. Yet we have nationalized these before even giving a thought to the nationalization of health.

At the present day medicine is mainly in the hands, as it was 2,000 years ago, of the "private practitioner." His mental equipment has, indeed, changed. To-day he is submitted to a long and arduous training in magnificently equipped institutions; all the laboriously acquired processes and results of modern medicine and hygiene are brought within the student's reach. And when he leaves the hospital, of the physician's place in life, what do we do with him? He becomes a "private practitioner," which means as Duclaux, the late distinguished director of the Pasteur Institute put it, that we place him on the level of a retail grocer who must patiently stand behind his counter (with the privilege of advertising himself) until the public are pleased to come and buy advice or drugs which are usually applied for too late to be of much use, and may be thrown away at the buyer's good pleasure, without the possibility of any protest by the seller. It is little wonder that in many cases the doctor's work and aims suffer under such conditions. His nature is subdued to what it works in; he clings convulsively to his counter and its retail methods.

The fact is—and it is a fact that is slowly becoming apparent to all—that the private practice of medicine is out of date. It fails to answer the needs of our time. There are various reasons why this should be the case, but two are fundamental. In the first place medicine has outgrown the capacity of any individual doctor; the only adequate private practitioner must have a sound general knowledge of medicine with an expert knowledge of a dozen specialties; that is to say, he must give place to a staff of doctors acting co-ordinately, for the present system, or lack of system, by which a patient wanders at random from private practitioner to specialist, from specialist to specialist ad infinitum, is altogether mischievous. Moreover, not only is it impossible for the private practitioner to possess the knowledge required to treat his patients adequately; he cannot possess the scientific mechanical equipment nowadays required alike for diagnosis and treatment, and every day becoming more elaborate, more expensive, more difficult to manipulate. It is installed in our great hospitals for the benefit of the poorest patient; it could, perhaps, be set up in a millionaire's palace, but it is hopelessly beyond the private practitioner, though without it his work must remain unsatisfactory and inadequate.

In the second place, the whole direction of modern medicine is being changed and in a direction away from private practice; our thoughts are not now mainly bent on the cure of disease, but on its prevention. Medicine is becoming more and more transformed into hygiene, and in this transformation, though the tasks presented are larger and more systematic, they are also easier and more economical. These two fundamental tendencies of modern medicine—greater complexity of its methods and the predominantly preventive character of its aims—alone suffice to render the position of the private practitioner untenable. He cannot cope with the complexity of modern medicine; he has no authority to enforce its hygiene.

The medical system of the future must be a national system co-ordinating all the conditions of health. At the centre we should expect to find a minister of health, and every doctor of the state would give his whole time to his work and be paid by salary which in the case of the higher posts would be equal to that now fixed for the higher legal offices, for the chief doctor in the state ought to be at least as important an official as the Lord Chancellor. Hospitals and infirmaries would be alike nationalized, and in place of the present antagonism between hospitals and the bulk of the medical profession, every doctor would be in touch with a hospital, thus having behind him a fully-equipped and staffed institution for all purposes of diagnosis, consultation, treatment and research, also serving for a centre of notification, registration, preventive and hygienic measures. In every district the citizen would have a certain amount of choice as regards the medical man to whom he may go for advice, but no one would be allowed to escape the medical supervision and registration of his district, for it is essential that the central health authority of every district should know the health conditions of all the inhabitants of the district. Only by some such organized and co-ordinated system as this can the primary conditions of health, and preventive measures against disease, be genuinely socialized.

These views were put forward by the present writer 20 years ago in a little book on "The Nationalization of Health," which, though it met with wide approval, was probably regarded by most people as Utopian. Since then

Every General Store-keeper Needs "Fruit-a-tives"

"Inkerman, Ont., Sept. 23, 1910. "I am in the General Store business and have been a resident of Inkerman for thirty-seven years. Since I started this store four years ago, I have found your remedy 'Fruit-a-tives' the most satisfactory one I have sold. Many of my customers have used 'Fruit-a-tives' with the most beneficial results and I know of two cases that have been completely cured of Dyspepsia. "I recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' on every possible occasion and would say that if every general store-keeper, who stocks medicine, would keep 'Fruit-a-tives' prominently displayed, he would increase his business many fold.

"ALEX. LARUE." "Fruit-a-tives" is the only remedy in the world made of fruit and the only remedy that will positively cure Constipation, Indigestion, Pain in the Back, Headaches, Rheumatism and all Kidney and Bladder Troubles. Fifty cents a box, $ for $2.50; trial size, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

The times have moved, and a new generation has sprung up, and ideas which, 30 years ago, were brooded over by isolated thinkers are now seen to be in the direct line of progress; they have become the property of parties and matters of active propaganda. Last year Professor Benjamin Moore, in his able book, "The Dawn of the Health Age," anticipated the actual march of events by formulating a state insurance scheme which would lead on, as he pointed out, to a genuinely national medical service.

Now Dr. MacCallum in a little book just published, again advocates the same changes; the establishment of a Ministry of Health, a medical service on a preventive basis, and the reform of the hospitals which must constitute the nucleus of such a service. It may be said that for medical men no longer engaged in private practice (and in this matter I am in the same case as Professor Moore and Dr. MacCallum) it is easy to view the disappearance of private practice with serenity; but it must be added that it is precisely that disinterested serenity which makes possible also a clear insight into the problems and a wider view of the new horizons of medicine. Thus it is that to-day the dreamers of yesterday are justified.

The great scheme which Mr. Lloyd George has placed before the nation is certainly an important step towards the socialization of medicine. It comes short, indeed, of the complete nationalization of health as an affair of state. But that could not possibly be introduced at one move. Apart even from the difficulty of complete reorganization, the two great vested interests of private medical practice on the one hand and friendly societies on the other would stand in the way. A complicated transitional period is necessary, during which those two interests are conciliated and gradually absorbed. It is in this transitional period which Mr. Lloyd George is inaugurating.

To compare small things to great—as we may, for the same laws run all through Nature and Society—this scheme corresponds to the ancient system of astronomy, with its painfully elaborate epicycles, which preceded and led on to the sublime simplicity of the Copernican system. We need not anticipate that the transitional stage of national insurance will endure as long as the ancient astronomy. Professor Moore estimated last year that it would lead to a completely national medical service in 25 years, and since Mr. Lloyd George introduced his bill he has, too optimistically, reduced that period to ten years. We cannot reach simplicity at a bound; we must first attempt to systematize the recognized and established activities and adjust them harmoniously. Mr. Lloyd George has made a magnificent attempt to achieve this complicated task; the more his scheme is examined the more numerous will be found its useful features, the more numerous, above all, the germs it offers for future development.

Undoubtedly there are difficult and dubious points in the National Insurance Bill. It seems awkward, for instance, that the insurance of unemployment, however excellent in itself, should be included in a bill which otherwise deals entirely with questions of health and disease. We should also be glad to know, for we have not yet been told, where the hospitals and poor-law infirmaries (the state hospitals of the future) come in this scheme. The hospitals must form the backbone of any sound system of medical service; one may even say that they form its whole body, for medical men, apart from a hospital, are only the limbs which must still be in connection with a body. The question of the capitation grant, again, is far from simple, for the existing contract fees (even apart from the fact that the contract system has long been under condemnation) do not form a basis for estimation under the new conditions; medical insistence on this point need not blind us to the fact that in no field is so much work cheerfully and ungrudgingly done for nothing as in that of medicine, but it remains true that a large sum of money is invested in the training of every medical man.

Then we have not been told how the Central Commission is to be constituted. The Insurance Commissioners, who will really be Health Commissioners, are rightly given a supreme authority; they are concerned with vital questions of health and disease, and some unnecessary opposition might have been avoided if it had been made clear at the outset that they are to be predominantly, if not exclusively, experts in hygiene and medicine, whose decisions may be received with respect alike by the subordinate "County Health Committees" and by the medical profession generally.

WOMAN'S LAST BID FOR EMANCIPATION

The Mutual Self-Supporting Women's Bank is Successful in Germany

These are fast moving times and if the slower going of the male sex were disposed to dispute the fact he would be snuffed out instantly by the rapidity with which woman, his quondam helpmeet and sharer of his joys and sorrows, is making the pace on her own account.

The suffragette movement showed that the gentle feminine nature could go some distance, but with suffrage now assured to all whose zeal is tempered by the restraining influence of property, the British suffragette has already become old-fashioned, and it is to Germany we must now go to behold women in the radiant glory of the pioneer—the economic pioneer.

The first bank in the world, conducted exclusively by and for women has just finished its first year's existence in Berlin. The significance of the fact is not to be underestimated. It is woman's latest bid for complete emancipation from man's rule.

Its profits in dollars when the first annual balance is struck in the coming month of June will barely run into five figures but the "Genossenschaftsbank selbstandiger Frauen" or Mutual Bank for Self-supporting Women, has already demonstrated that it has a mission and a future.

Wars and emigration have for decades caused a chronic surplus of women over men in Germany; the result that an extraordinary high percentage of females have been driven into the bread-winning class. War has not ravaged the Fatherland for many years, and emigration has practically ceased, but very many girls and women are still self-supporting. Tens of thousands of them have gone into trade on their own account, and it is to the needs of this ever-growing community of business-women that the "Genossenschaftsbank selbstandiger Frauen" particularly ministers.

Hitherto they have been practically helpless as far as credit and other banking accommodations are concerned. German men are constitutionally incapable of taking the matter seriously as business factors, and as "credit risks" they have had no status at all. The crying need for providing proprietresses of groceries, laundries, millinery and dressmaking establishments, butcher shops, and countless other undertakings with financial facilities enjoyed by male competitors called the women's bank into existence.

Womanlike, the bank has begun modestly. Its present capital is only £5,000, with an additional shareholders' liability of £10,000. Membership in the co-operative corporation which owns and conducts the bank is available to all women in Germany and the German colonies, and is obtained by subscribing for at least one £5 share of capital and the payment of a membership fee of five shillings.

One woman may not hold more than £500 of capital. Nominally, according to the bank's statutes, no woman may avail herself of the institution's credit facilities unless a shareholder, but the rule is not rigidly enforced. Broad-minded help for deserving, self-supporting business women is the bank's guiding principle. When a German married woman, for example, wants to open an account at an ordinary bank she is confronted with this often repellent restriction: "Written Permission of Husbands Indispensable." There is no such slavish inhibition in the lexicon of the "Genossenschaftsbank selbstandiger Frauen."

The bank has established itself in commodious and dignified quarters in a ground-floor apartment in the heart of the best West End residential district. As they are prepared over exclusively by women, it is needless to add that the quarters are practical, comfortable and tasteful. The feminine hand is omnipresent. A serviceable mirror is the most conspicuous feature of the blue-and-white walled vestibule. The bank's windows are hung with immaculate white lace curtains, and there are potted plants and creeping vines on the sills and the balcony, and vases full of fresh-cut flowers at strategic decorative points all over the premises. Here debts are contracted over a counter redolent of marguerites and lilac.

The bank undertakes every form of business transaction common to its older male contemporaries. It accepts interest-bearing deposits, makes loans on approved securities, executes Stock Exchange orders, discounts bills of exchange, and collects interest and dividend coupons. As its initial resources are small and its experience limited, the bank has elected to pursue an ultra-conservative policy until it has had time to feel its way and gain a foothold. No loan higher than £25 is made to any one borrower. All advances over 50s. require collateral security.

The management of the bank is vested in a board of control consisting of four women; its actual conduct is in the hands of two managing directresses and a staff of seven young women clerks.

The woman manager, Fraulein Hoffman, in her review of the bank's operations, remarked: "I never knew till we launched this undertaking how suspicious of women's reliability and integrity women really are. Half the women who hesitate to come to our support say they don't 'trust a woman.' Our Stock Exchange department is frequently called upon. German women invest eagerly."

"May a mere man do business here?" a male visitor ventured to inquire. "Gewiss, gewiss!" was Fraulein Hoffman's ready rejoinder, "and I don't mind saying that many do!"

WILL EXTEND THE CITY FIRE LIMITS

Ald. H. M. Fullerton and Mayor Morley Have a Wordy Bout Over the Real Estate Values

The advisability of extending the fire limits of the city of Victoria was discussed by the council at its meeting last night, and was finally left in the hands of a committee to investigate the matter and report back to the council. The question of the fire limits did not arise of its own accord but out of a proposal to grant a building permit to H. E. Nelson, who wanted to erect a stabling establishment on Flanagan street. The building inspector had recommended that the permit be not granted, as the plans for the proposed building did not conform to the regulations.

While Alderman H. M. Fullerton thought that the permit should be granted Mayor Morley thought that the proper course to follow was to extend the fire limits so as to cover the proposed site of the building. He thought it was time in any case, that the fire limits be extended to Cook street on the east. As a matter of fact, he had advocated that that should be done last year but he was voted down. Then again, he did not think they should grant permits on sentimental grounds. If they started granting permits to everyone who wanted to build such structures outside the fire limits merely because it was cheaper he did not see where the matter would end.

Ald. H. M. Fullerton read into the remarks of the mayor that he was attempting to knock the city, and he retorted that if that was the opinion of his worship and the rest of the aldermen then they had no right to go granting a thirty-six mile paving contract. They were taking a big chance in spending the people's money. Turning to the main question, he pointed out that the business section of the city had increased and spread over a much larger area of late, and that therefore the fire limits should be altered to meet the case. He cited real estate values in proof of this statement.

Mention of real estate, in which, of course, the alderman is interested, brought the mayor back with bells. He retorted that if property continued to go up they would all have to get up and "hike" elsewhere.

The last word on the subject was reserved to H. M. Fullerton, who reiterated his opinion about the future of the city.

The committee appointed to look into the matter of extending the fire limits consists of Aldermen Langley, H. M. and W. F. Fullerton, and the building inspector.

City Assessor Northcott submitted a report showing the interests of the petitioners against the proposed city pipe yard being located on Chambers street on the site of the present saloon. As the bylaw is now passed this consideration of the petitioners resolved itself into sentiment.

Alderman Bishop endeavored to have the whole matter reconsidered, in view of the assertion that the yard was going to be detrimental to the interests of the property owners in that locality, but Alderman Langley spiced his objection by facetiously suggesting that the yard would be a nice open space.

The report was filed. It is now tolerably certain that the matter of purchasing the Lion Saloon and the adjoining property for a city yard will go through.

LOGGERS ELECT OFFICERS.

Vancouver, June 24.—Having selected Tacoma as the next place of meeting the Pacific Coast Logging congress yesterday concluded its business and today will make various excursions, including one to New Westminster. Among the questions debated at yesterday's session was that of employers' liability both in the United States and in British Columbia. J. B. Kerr of Portland, read a paper on the American laws governing the question. A voluntary subscription amounting to $1,800 was taken up to repay the congress shortage and to provide for next year.

The following officers were elected: President, E. P. Blake; vice-president, F. H. Lamb; executive secretary, G. M. Cornwall; secretary for Idaho, W. Dreary; secretary for Montana, W. E. Wells; secretary for Washington, E. G. English; secretary for California, W. W. Feed; secretary for British Columbia, J. H. Parks; secretary for Oregon, J. S. O'Gorman.

In a paper read at the morning session, E. G. Robinson of Arlington, Washington, strongly favored the use of electricity in preference to steam in the operations of logging.

The Improved ACME Washer

This machine is made of superior materials, and into them is put the best workmanship.

TUBS—The tubs are made of selected VIRGINIA WHITE CEDAR, which will last a lifetime. Tub is corrugated on inside only, are steam-tight and rest on ball bearings, which reduces friction to a minimum.

MOTOR SPRINGS—Underneath the tubs are placed two motor coiled springs, operating from right to left, and do about 90 per cent of the actual work.

STANDS—The Acme stands are made of nicely dressed hardwood timber, securely bolted together, well braced and handsomely varnished.

HOOPS—Extra heavy steel hoops.

TRIM AND CRATING—In addition to the many other strong points in favor of the "ACME" is the excellent trim and finish to these machines. They are trimmed with best malleable iron casings, which cannot break, and are finished up in black Japan gloss and coach varnish.

This machine will run so easily that a small child can operate it without the least trouble. It will wash the finest fabrics without tearing or breaking a thread, and the heaviest blankets and quilts with perfect ease. Your clothing is washed perfectly clean without the slightest wear or tear on it or on yourself. Read the guarantee the makers of the ACME give—it means just what it says. You will get your money refunded if it does not do all they claim for it.

Ask a friend who uses one—and they are many. Don't buy a washer until you have examined the ACME. We are sole Victoria agents and sell the machine the same as we herewith illustrate at $10.00.

SPEAK ON WORK OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Women Discuss Problems Connected With Religious Education of Children

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—Women delivered the principal addresses at yesterday morning's session of the International Sunday Schools convention which was given over to the beginners, primary and junior departments. The representatives of the elementary department were presented by Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner of Chicago, international elementary superintendent. Addresses on subjects involving the elementary classes were made by Mrs. Maud Junkin Baldwin of Philadelphia, Mrs. J. W. Barnes of Newark, N. J., Miss M. Brockaway of Los Angeles, Miss Helen Park of Winnipeg, Mrs. Phoebe A. Curtis of Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. A. A. Lamoreaux of Chicago.

Miss Brockaway told the story of the founding of the first infant class of teachers when it was organized by Mrs. Clark of Ohio, 40 years ago. It was she who introduced the use of the blackboard. From this home study circle came the primary union and later the more advanced unions. The problems connected with the religious education of the little children, older children and adults are now recognized as quite different from each other, said the speaker, each demanding special treatment. The graded lessons were called a part of this great scheme based on true educational principles. The main thing to be guarded against now, in the belief of Miss Brockaway, is the danger of making the scheme too complicated. She thinks it could be simplified to its advantage.

Miss Bryner reviewed the work of the elementary department, which she said now covers most of all of North America. The new international graded lessons she believed, are a great improvement over the old. One of its practical results is to put the Bible itself into the hands of junior pupils instead of lesson leaves, encouraging home study. A total of 29,899 Sunday schools have introduced the series.
