Skydivers, Art Show For Homecoming '73

Skydivers (weather permitting) and a clothesline arts and crafts sale, firsts this year, are bonuses of Homecoming '73 at Rochester Institute of Technology.

The annual Homecoming October 19, 20 and 21 is planned for the whole RIT community--alumni, students, parents, faculty, staff and their guests.

The first major event of the weekend will be the Class of 1923's Golden Reunion Luncheon at noon Friday, Oct. 19.

On Friday evening, the RIT Sports Hall of Fame Dinner will be at 7 p.m. in the dining hall at the College-Alumni Union.

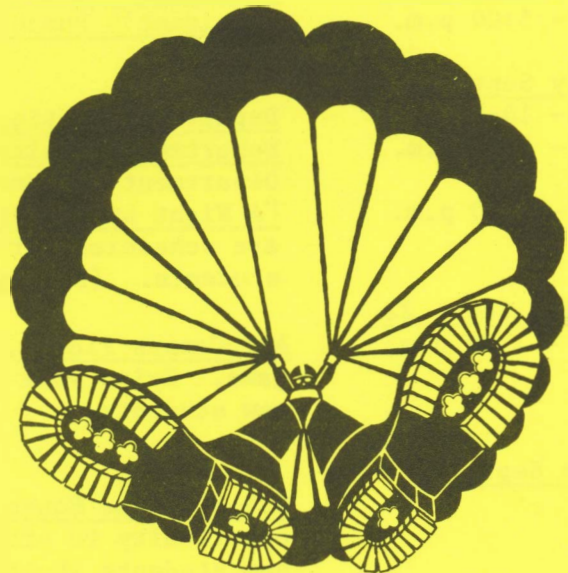

George Cook of Avon, N.Y., BA '58, and Gary "Kraut" Dotzler of Sunnyvale, Calif., EL '55, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame this year. Cook, considered a play-maker and defensive specialist, was an outstanding basketball and baseball player at RIT. He was offered a minor league contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates, but turned it down. Dotzler ended a four-year wrestling career at RIT with a 10-0 record his senior year.

Later Friday evening, at 8 p.m. in Booth Auditorium in the Frank E. Gannett Memorial Building, the Frederic W. Goudy Distinguished Lecture in Typography will be delivered by Dr. Robert L. Leslie, who has been a leader in the graphic arts industry in New York for 50 years. He has organized and presented a series of lectures called "The Heritage of the Graphic Arts."

At the awards luncheon at noon Saturday in the main dining room of the College-Alumni Union, Joseph A. Jiloty, PH '48, and Daniel J. Pasto, CH '58, will receive the Outstanding Alumnus Awards of the Alumni Association.

Jiloty has capped a 25-year career with

Newspaper Course Cancelled

Because of the shortage of newsprint, the Democrat & Chronicle has postponed publishing the 20-week series, "America and the Future of Man," which was to be offered as a credit-granting course by the College of Continuing Education. According to Fred Gardner, coordinator of the pilot Courses by Newspaper series, the course will be offered by the D&C as soon as the paper shortage is over.

Arts Council Offers Cultural Resource Course

Teachers and school personnel who would like to know more about Rochester cultural institutions are invited to register for a nine-week inservice course offered by the Arts Council of Rochester.

Emphasis will be on getting to know community arts resources and how to use them in the classroom. Highlights of the course will include a behind-the-scenes tour and show at the Strassenburgh Planetarium, a Third Ward Walking Tour with the Landmark Society, and a music performance by Young Audiences.

The course will meet Tuesday afternoons from 3:30 to 5:30 beginning October 2. Enrollment is limited to 50 persons from schools in Monroe County.

Course fee is $6 and registration deadline is Friday, September 21. To enroll, contact the Arts Council, 373 Westfall Road, 442-0570.

Psychic Phenomena Courses Offered

The Extended Services Division will offer two courses dealing with psychic phenomena this fall. They are:

"A Practical Workshop with Experiments in Psychic Phenomena," which will study and manifest various psychic phenomena such as telepathy, aura-seeing, healing techniques, psychokinesis and meditation.

The course is geared to persons who have already participated in previous RIT Extended Services courses dealing with the same subjects, or others who have an equivalent background in programs dealing with fundamental aspects of E.S.P.

It will be offered on 10 consecutive Wednesdays beginning on Sept. 26 from 8:30 to 10 p.m. on RIT's Henrietta campus.

Instructor for the workshops is Diana Robinson, a member of the American Society for Psychical Research, the local chapter of Spiritual Frontiers Fellowship and a

Funeral Forum

Set September 18

A public forum, entitled "New Directions for the American Funeral," will be conducted by RIT's Extended Services Division Sept. 18 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. on the Henrietta campus.

The purpose of the forum, which is geared to attorneys, clergy, health services personnel and the general public, is to discuss the options available when death occurs. Topics will include cremations, the Uniform Gifts Act, death benefits and expenses, grief therapy and modes of memorializing the deceased.

An opening address will be given by Paul E. Irion, professor of Pastoral Theology at Lancaster (Pa.) Theological Seminary, United Church of Christ.

His talk will be followed by a question-and-answer period and a panel discussion with the Rev. Oren H. Baker, Dean Emeritus of Colgate Rochester Divinity School; John J. Curran, first vice-president of the New York State Funeral Directors Association; and William C. Klein of the Rochester Memorial Society.

For information on tuition and registration, contact Brenda Reimherr, Extended Services Division, 50 West Main St. 262-2712.

columnist for the Columbia (Md.) LIFE.

"Psychic Phenomena in Biblical Literature," a course aimed to develop understanding and appreciation for the psychic experiences recorded by the ancients. Selected passages in the Bible describing psychic phenomena in the Near East will be discussed and opinions of biblical scholars will be presented when appropriate.

The course will be presented on six consecutive Thursdays from 7 to 8:30 p.m. beginning on Sept 27 on the RIT Henrietta campus.

Course instructor will be Roger K. Powell, an associate professor in RIT's College of Continuing Education, and a former instructor at the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School.

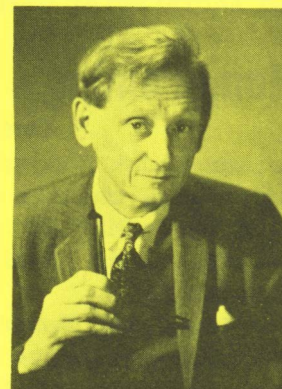

For further information on tuition and registration contact the Extended Services Division, 50 West Main St., (716) 262-2711.

Astronomy

Lecture

Planned

During SOS-3

Van de Kamp

The College of Science has invited Dr. Peter van de Kamp, professor of astronomy and director of the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore College, to present a general interest lecture during SOS '73.

Dr. van de Kamp will speak on "The Search for Extra-Solar Planets" at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 24, in Van Peursem Auditorium (08-1250).

Although everyone is invited, "the lecture is especially to welcome the freshman science and math majors and to allow them to meet the upperclassmen and faculty," said Dr. Thomas P. Wallace, College of Science dean.

Refreshments will be served.

Assistant Will Handle Scheduling, Registration In College Of Science

Witzel

Judy Witzel's appointment as administrative assistant in the College of Science could prove doubly effective.

Not only will Miss Witzel's talents be used for administrative responsibilities, but her assuming those responsibilities will free Dr. Thomas P. Wallace, dean, and Dr. John D. Paliouras, associate dean, to continue teaching and other professional activities.

It is rare for a non-faculty member to be appointed to an administrative role in a dean's office.

Miss Witzel will be responsible for scheduling, pre-registration, registration, student records and accounting.

"We haven't used Judy's talent as we should. She's been here 15 years and has demonstrated the capability of doing more than secretarial work," commented Dr. Wallace.

Eastman Kodak Company with his present position as manager of sales operations in the Graphic Markets Division. Dr. Pasto is a professor of chemistry at the University of Notre Dame.

The Sarah Margaret Gillam Award, recognizing a graduate of food administration for outstanding contribution to dietetics or food service administration, will also be awarded to an outstanding alumnus.

The football game at 1:30 p.m. at the athletic field will pit RIT against Brockport State. Half time will feature skydivers and the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

The first annual Homecoming clothesline arts and crafts sale will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday on the academic quadrangle.

The Homecoming buffet dinner will be from 7:30 to 9:30 Saturday in the dining hall of the College-Alumni Union. It will be followed by music for dancing by Vic Platti and the New Portrait.

If you want to attend specific events at Homecoming '73, please fill out the form on the reverse side and return it as soon as possible.

"At the same time, we haven't used academic talent as we should. Many times we 'rewarded' good teachers with administrative roles which haven't allowed them to continue to be teachers. We don't need Ph.D.s to do the scheduling, budgeting and administrative paperwork."

When Dr. Wallace decided to take the non-academic paperwork away from people who should be teaching, and give it to a capable person, Miss Witzel was the obvious choice, he said.

She's been at RIT since 1958, in the College of Science all but the first nine months. She was secretary to the late Ralph L. Van Peurse, who was head of the chemistry department and dean of the college. She recently completed an associate's degree in business at RIT and will continue to study toward a bachelor's degree.

PATTERNS Seminar Planned Monday

Faculty and administrators from community/junior colleges will participate in the first of a seminar series called PATTERNS sponsored by the Center for Community/Junior College Relations at RIT Monday, Sept. 17.

Dr. K. Patricia Cross, senior research psychologist for the Educational Testing Service, in Berkeley, Calif., will be the primary resource person at the seminar, which will last from 4 to 9 p.m. at the Hilton Inn on the Campus.

The presidents, deans of instruction and student affairs, directors of admissions and directors of counseling of community/junior colleges in an area from Buffalo across the Southern Tier to Albany and north to Watertown have been invited to PATTERNS. The seminar is intended to identify problems common to both community/junior colleges and RIT, and joint efforts toward their solution.

Following Dr. Cross's presentation on "Education for Diversity," there will be a question and answer session, a reception and dinner. After dinner, participants will be asked to identify issues and questions related to advising and counseling community/junior college students, and will be invited to form problem-solving groups.
