Dr. Skinner pointed out ways in which his audience could help to offset the bad effects of prejudice; first by a solemn personal introspection to learn whether we are helping by our habit of prejudging to spread the evil effects of racial and religious hatred; and secondly, by cultivating the scientific attitude of mind, which tries to see things as they really are, and not as our prejudices lead us to

To encourage the saving habit, the SOUTH WEY-MOUTH SAVINGS BANK has always made a feature of small deposits. It accepts any amount from $1.00 to $3000. We believe it is more important to the individual that he accumulate a bank account than to offer him large inducements in the line of interest, although recent dividends have been at the rate of FOUR AND ONE-HALF PER CENT.

If you will make it a habit to deposit weekly, if only a dollar, you will find that every dollar counts.

Zoning Operates to the Benefit of Entire City

The justice and legality of zoning under police or community power and the impracticability of zoning when attempted through property condemnafield. Mass. It appears to be difficult for some property owners to grasp the fact that zoning, in addition to its usefulness in stabilizing real estate values, is primarily a public welfare measure, and that its benefits are too numerous and too general to leave any occasion whatever for particular compensation through condemnation proceedings.

The legality of zoning, wherever it has been tried under reasonable conditions, has been established beyond doubt. The principle has been upheld, on two separate occasions, by the United States Supreme court, in one instance the approval of the high court being given where a zoning ordinance was retroactive. The principle goes back to the inherent right of the people of a state "to pass laws for the public safety, health, morals and general welfare." Exercise of the right is simply community power. It is known also as police power, although the police are in no way directly connected with it. Zoning authorities point out that this power is that which the state may use for protection against fire or the spread of disease. for Saturday The high court of the nation has held that this power may embrace regulations aimed at promotion of public convenience and prosperity. How zoning has to do with both public safety and prosperity may be readily seen. Through regulations governing the location of buildings and certain kinds of business and the nature of structure that may be erected in

Compression Important Detail to Keep Eye On

An important detail to watch, and that which keeps the engine running efficiently is compression. An engine with faulty compression may appear rolling at a reasonable speed or when it is working hard. Lost compression shows up when the car is being driven at comparatively low speed.

Under either of these conditions the engine will run with an irregularity that makes the car jerk or jump instead of running steadily, as it should. This condition indicates that there is considerable loss of power and that much more gasoline is being burned than when the engine is developing its full power.

Thousands of gallons of gasoline are wasted every day by motorists because of the inefficient operation of their enstrength. Mr. Dollar Bill says "don't gines. In fact, gasoline mileage may

Norfolk, ss. Probate Court To the Honorable the Judge of the Probate Court in and for the County of Norfolk:

Respectfully libels and represents Frank A. Harlow of Weymouth, in said County, that he was lawfully married to Mary A. Harlow now of parts unknown last reported as somewhere in Pittsburg, Pa., at Boston the eleventh day of October, A. D. 1895, and there-after your libellant and the said libellee lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit, at Hull and Wakefield and other places: that your libellant has always been faithful to their marriage vows and obligations, but the said libellee being wholly regardless of the same at Wakefield on or about the fifteenth day of April, A. D. 1918, utterly deserted the libellant and has not since returned to the said libellant although the libellant has always been ready and willing to resume marital relations, and the libellant further alleges that the said desertion has continued for a period of more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of the libel; that there has been born to them no children.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bond of matrimony between your libellant and the said libellee, Mary A. Harlow, be decreed. Dated the tenth day of May, A. D. 1924.

men's Auxiliary to Weymouth Post. CHAUTAUQUA NOTES The Chautauqua wil be held this summer from Wednesday, August 20 to Tuesday, August 26, inclusive. Did you know that last year our Junior Chautauqua won the banner for excellence in their work. Mrs. Newman Page is to be congratulated upon her leadership. Our Weymouth-Braintree Junior Town has kept its organization thru the winter. Meeting of the Board of Guarantors at the Clapp Memorial Friday, June 6, at 8 P. M. promptly to elect officers and committees and outline policy and plans.

"Why does the Chautauqua Association take the single admissions?" is sometimes asked. As Chautauqua has no endowment it must depend on its income to meet its expenses. The guaranteed sale of season tickets $1800 equals about three-quarters of the cost of putting on Chautauqua in our town. The other one-fourth must The Weymouth Veteran Firemen's be realized from possible oversales ing all the towns together the onefourth is about made up; some turning in above the average, some below it. In effect, the cost of Chautauqua is only three-fourths pledged in advance. Over a period of years it has been demonstrated that the other fourth will come in without advance subscription. The only arrangement whereby the Chautauqua Association would not need to take the single admissions would be where the whole cost of Chautauqua was subscribed for in advance.

COLLECTION OF ASHES Editor Gazette-Transcript:

On page 13, edition of May 16, of your paper, is an article entitled "Civic Tidiness" that may well be read by the town government and acted upon.

I refer to the matter of ash heaps that are to be seen on every hand; the house owner or householder naturally takes pride in his surroundings such as well-kept lawns, shrubbery and flower beds, but as matters are now he must have an unsightly pile of ashes somewhere on his premises. This should not be so; it is the duty of the town to remove these accumulations in the interest of health and a pride in having a town one can

Only an Idea Is Needed to Put Town on the Llap

In Oberammergau, long ago, they found something else to do besides going to the post office four times a day or sitting around the stove in the grocery store, or dallying in the village poolroom.

Any small town can become famous and busy, only let it find an idea. declares F. H. Collier in "Echoes of the Streets," in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The world may be too much with us, as Wordsworth said—in the cities, but it is a vague, far-off matter of languid Interest in the village. Very well, then, let the village go about interesting itself in something. Every one of them would do well to get a hobby. We think of one town in Kansas. which has a huge chorus that offers a musical festival every year that has now become famous. Another in a different state is devoted to a narrow but fascinating line of horticulture. There is East Aurora, N. Y., which Elbert Hubbard gave something to talk about.

If a small community can do nothing else it can organize a botany class and carry on until it attracts attention as a scientific center in its chosen field. Science, literature, art and music ; horticulture, the liberal arts, mechanics, the drama and metaphysics are all open to villagers to devote their intellectual powers to a special feature. They can't all be Oberammergaus, but they know not what they can be until they try. And "trying" itself breaks the deadening husk of the small-town existence.

To Direct Growth of Gotham The Russell Sage Foundation now proposes a magnificent plan for the future growth of New York. It looks forward to a time when as many as thirty million people will be living within a radius of fifty miles of Madison square. Radical changes on Manhattan island and in the older part of Brooklyn are unlikely, but it is the ambition of the foundation to direct the anticipated growth / ! the metropolis in the most convenient manner and provide transit facilities, street and park systems and commercial and industrial districts for the newer parts of the city, according to the best judgment of some of the most eminent engineers and architects. Its plan will not only make the newest New York tan island, especially on the East side. The territory that it will study is virtually covered by the proposed Port of New York authority, from Newburgh on the north to Monmouth county in New Jersey on the south, and from Morristown on the west to Bridgeport and central Long island on the east.

It is hard to conceive of a great metropolitan population of thirty million or more, and it may be that events will falsify the prediction of the Sage foundation in that respect; but New York grows steadily. The region described already contains some nine million people. It will be an additional source of pride to the future citizen if he can think of New York as the most beautiful and commodious of great cities as well as the largest. The report of the Sage planning commission will be awaited with interest. It can hardly be ready for several years. And when it does appear it will remain to be seen whether the authorities of New York and of all the other municipalities concerned will be willing to adopt its suggestion.

Pays Teachers Highest Wage High school teachers in Newark, N. J., receive the highest salaries paid for regular public school instruction in the United States, for they begin at $2,100 and reach $4,400 by annual increase, according to City School Leaflet No. 15, just issued by the Department of the Interior through the bureau of education. Casper, Wyo., a city of only about 12,000 people, pays to beginning elementary teachers $1,600 a year, which is $100 more than New York and Chicago pay for like service.

In general the great cities offer the best salaries, but their highest entrance salary, $1,500, is matched in some of the smaller places in the West. including San Jose, Richmond and Pledmont, Cal. Many other cities do nearly as well, and the sum which is paid most often to beginners is $1,000. At the lower end of the list is Savannah, Ga., which is reported in the leaflet as paying only $490, with annual increases of $36 to a maximum of $1,143. Colored elementary teachers in Rome, Ga., receive even less, for they begin at $382, and their maximum is $450.

Look Ahead in Planting

A big consideration in your spring tree-planting plans is beauty, says the American Tree association of Washington, D C. This involves form, vigor, and suitability to location and environment. Factors of beauty also in clude the coloring of the leaves and the nature and appearance of flowers or fruit. The gorgeousness of the maples in autuinn coloring makes these trees general favorites for street plant ing of moving pictures.

Gradually Elizabeth's financial policy developed. Her club dues were so small that they could wait. Her dressmaker's bills were too big to pay all at once-she would have to put them off entirely for a while. She consulted a woman friend. The friend assured her that the shops were too dependent upon such customers as they, to make indebtedness disagreeable! She opened up the subject with a debonnair man of her acquaintance and he laughed and said that he paid his bills once a year and his creditors just had to wait.

Then Elizabeth found that having forgotten her purse was very convenient when she and two or three friends were out together and it was a question of paying for tea. A month after Christmas she sold her watch, a present from her father, in a desperate resolve to begin to get square. But she found herself after all putting the money into a new hat, and the situation was just as bad as ever.

Then one day she went home to find the little Englishman who made her shoes for her waiting in the hall. As he stood there with his hat in his hand he told her the story of his wife's illness, for the necessity of her going away to the country if she was to get well, of the doctor's bills that they must meet. Elizabeth's long overdue account would make all this possible to them. "Aes alienum," "another's money," came from the forgotten but never obliterated records in Elizabeth's subconscious mind-"debts" means "another's money."

For the first time she went thoroughly over her accounts; for the first time she planned a budget. She was appelled at the unfairness of her own methods. With intelligence, foresight and a stiff backbone her income would be quite sufficient to meet her needs. Denial she must practice till s' 2 got even. And then she swore that in future she would acquire the habit of "Pay as you go. Right spending and right paying."

Then there is the sweater which is really a short coat with the edges of the fronts and the collar bordered heavily in an embroidered design, and a coat sweater with the collar faced in plain material, edges bound in the same manner

A checked design in the weave as well as in the color is used for a suit with slipover coat, slashed at the throat and bound in white. A wide collar and large cuffs are also in white. A scarf of the same material makes this a very practical suit for the street or country.

Checked or Striped

Hosiery for Spring The plaids, block checks, square and diamond shape-and ribbed effects seen in the woolen stockings that have been so fashionable are being duplicated in the lighter weight wool and silk stockings for spring.

Colored socks are the rage, the sand color, tan, flesh, beige, gray and brown being the most popular. The most conspicuous styles are checked or striped in darker tones or contrasting colors. and the drop-stitch rib is the newest weave.

The orchid, flesh and seashell, twotone and others of the more delicate shades in chiffon silk stockings are very smart for dress occasions and will be much in demand later in the season with lightweight frocks.

Shoulder Cape to Match New With Sports Apparel

If one is addicted to the use of capes, there is one of the very newest models in sports clothes which comes with a shoulder cape to match. Both dress and cape are in soft white wool, knitted in broad bands, to give the effect of plaits. The dress, a plain chemise model, is fastened at one side with a five-button slash and has two slashed hip pockets bound with the material. Quite as simple in design is the cape, which hangs well below the low waistline and has a high standing collar fastening with one button.

Mends Lace Curtains

To mend fine lace curtains starch a piece of mesh as near like the curtains as possible. Cut the starched patch one inch larger each way than the place to be mended and with a warm iron press it over the hole. If done carefully it will be difficult to detect the hole.

when he reached home that evening; for hardly before he had arranged himself comfortably with his evening paper, Arley sought him out.

She stood before him, a slight light of the library lamps making her brown hair shimmer with elusive lights.

"Father," she said, quietly, "I must see Dick-I simply must. He has kept his word to keep away from me-just as he promised you he would. But I know he loves me, and-oh !- I know I love him !"

"Look here, honey. Leland is a dreamer and poor. He's of use to us, because in our importing work we need some one who is handy with foreign languages. But he will never amount to anything. I want you to marry-" "You don't understand-"

"Oh, I guess I do, all right." He smoked his cigar musingly for a moment. "I tell you. You can see him tomorrow night."

"You-do-do you mean it?" she cried, her dark eyes alight.

"Why-er-yes," he said, a bit sheepishly.

She left him with a happy step. He listened as it tripped down the hall. "Confound it !" he muttered to himself. "I can't have her marrying that boy !-- and I guess she won't! There'll be a long distance between him and her by tomorrow night; and she'll learn to forget-they all do in time. Then I'll have to make up for fooling her-a bit mean, that was," he added, turning to his paper.

The next evening, when he reached home, he found that the game of love is not played like the game of business. He had barely stepped into the house when his wife came to him, breathless and frightened.

"John, I've been in the city shopping, and I just found this in Arley's room. It's a note. She says you've sent Leland to Tahori-to get rid of him-and she's gone with him. Oh, John, she's found out! And that terrible place-why, I've heard you say it was a death hole for white men. Now she's going and he with her. She says you sent him-John, are you as heartless as that? Did you do such a thing?" He put his arm over her trembling shoulder. "Mother, I am heartlessnobody ever gave me a helping hand in old and bitter days; but I'm not so bad as you think. Listen: I told Leland I was sending him to Tahori. I thought the boy with his poet's face was a coward. He never batted an eye when I told him. Said he would go. I thought he would beg off-but evidently he didn't, and Arley was game enough to go with him. Well, I guess they put something over on me. Probably got married in a rush."

"But Tahori, John-"

He laughed. "Those kids have spunk, all right. No, dear, I am not sending Leland' to Tahori. He had some sealed orders he is to read on shipboard, and those orders will take him to some pleasant places in the In-

"Twenty shillings' worth of bread to be given on this stone to the poor of the town on the second day of February forever."

These words are on the tombstone of George Carlow, a Woodbridge Suffolk (England) corn broker, who died in 1738.

The ceremony was observed for 184 years, but this year, for the first time within living memory, it was carried out over the actual vault where Carlow was buried. No one could say exactly where the vault was until Cecil Paget, owner of the Bull inn, built nearly 700 years ago, recently discovered one in his stables and found the coffin of Carlow. The stables stand on the ground that was prepared before his death.

"He left no money to provide the bread," added Mr. Paget, "and although it is a permanent charge on the owner of the property, the condition has always been observed. No one can say why the tombstone is so far away from the vault."

The bread-giving ceremony, which is carried out in the presence of the vicar and church wardens, consists of prayers and address, after which 120 quarter loaves are distributed to the poor .- Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Go-Between

There was a pretty city damsel spending the summer on the R. F. D. route and the village postmaster was a little afraid she might damage the heart of his youthful carrier. So he called the young man in for a conference.

"Now, Abner, don't take that summer boarder too seriously." "I won't."

"She may mean no harm," continued the postmaster, "but she's a bit of a flirt. I know for a fact that she has love and kisses sent her from three city fellers."

"That's all right," said the young carrier. "All I do is deliver 'em."

Has It Come to This?

There has just come to Honolulu the story of the maid who went to the lady of the house and said she feared she would have to find another place. "But why?" her alarmed employer asked. "Because," the maid replied, "I fear your husband is losing his mind. I found him on his hands and knees in the living room, and when I asked him what he was doing he said he was looking for the East Wind."-Honolulu Star-Bulletin

MEETING OF SELECTMEN

The meeting of the Selectmen was held Monday afternoon. Season dance licenses were voted the King Cove and North Weymouth Yacht club. Daniel F. Long was granted a fish, fruit and vegetable license and Lawrence C. Schofield Jr. a victualler's license.

A communication was received from the Old Colony Grocers Association calling the attention of the board to alleged violations of the law by parties holding victuallers' licenses and stating that it was illegal to sell bakery products on Sunday except by the bakers or their employes, and farm products either by the producer or dealer is prohibited by the law on Sundays. The matter was referred to the Chief of Police.

Ina H. Brackett, A. E. Brackett, George Smith, Charles S. Jackson and Katherine Smith asked for a rehearing on the case of the permit granted last week for a filling station to Wilton A. Lord. It was voted to give a re-hearing next Monday afternoon. Another petition was received, signed by about fifteen residents of South Weymouth, stating that it was practically the unanimous request of that vicinity and the signers stated

Our dear cousins in England are professing to be much shocked by the way in which cattle are handled by certain cowboys, real or professed. who are illustrating our Wild West in London by a daily exhibition which they call a "rodeo."

The spectadles presented in these shows do seem to the sensitive to have elements of cruelty, and it hardly can be questioned that the steers disfike the treatment which they receive. They are not notably delicate beasts, however, and rarely, if ever, are they seriously injured. Incidentally, the troubled Britishers might look nearer home and consider the amenities of fox-hunting. In that there is no question whatever about the suffering of the animals when, after long chases, they are torn to pieces by dogs, and the excuse for doing it is much less than the one the cattlemen have for dealing as they do with stock in the asual course of an essential business.

Why Black Sea Is Different?

The existence of sulphuretted hydrogen in great quantities below 100 fathoms, the extensive chemical precipitation of calcium carbonate and the stagnant nature of its deep waters serve to make the Black sea unique. The depths of this sea are lifeless. Another peculiarity is that there is a layer of water between 25 and fathoms which is colder than the deeper water. This is because the deep water is saltier than the surface water and practically motionless. In winter time the surface water reaches freezing point and in the spring sinks to the top of the saline deeper water

Why They Call It "Big Ben" "Big Ben" was christened "St. Stephen." In £851 the new houses of parliament were erected. Sir Benjamin Hall, president of public works, had much to do with carrying out the plans of the architects. When in 1856 the question arose as to the name of the bell to be hung in the tower, a member shouted. "Why not call it 'Big Ben'?" Laughter and applause

To Halt Shifting Sands

Oil is being used to prevent sand from being drifted by the wind across the tracks of the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company and impeding or even preventing traffc. Dunes near the tracks in the Columbia river valley are sprayed with craide petroleum which has been heated so as to secure the required fluid ity. A thin layer of asphaltic material then forms on the sand and so prevents the drifting of the surface. One application serves for at least a year and in some locations for as many as two or three.

ODD FELLOWS SERVICE

Last Sunday evening the First Universalist church had as guests the members of Wompatuck encampment,

Steadfast Rebekah lodge, when the annual memorial service was held with Rev. J. L. Dowson as preacher.

The subject of the sermon was, "The Unselfish Life". The speaker spoke highly of the practical Christian work done by these lodges in caring for the sick and aiding the distressed and referred to the fact that Odd Fellowship had as basic principles three of the finest words in the English language, namely, "Friendship, Love and Truth", represented by the emblem of the three links. Membership in such lodges is a fine training in developing unselfishness, the very es-

BUSHY'S SURPRISE

BUSHY SQUIRREL had, all his storehouses full. He was not lazy, even if he was too fond of mischief. After his work was done Bushy began to look about, peeking into the pantries of all his neighbors.

Grandpa Squirrel lived all alone, so of course he had to look out for his stores and take care of his home all himself, and such a neat and tidy place as it was quite provoked Bushy when he peeked in through the shutters and saw everything in apple-ple order. Bushy's eyes began to twinkle. "I'll have some fun," he said to himself. "I will turn everything in Grandpa's house topsy-turvy and I will hide all his nuts and put stones in place of them." So the bad fellow went to work. He upset everything in Grandpa's sitting room first, and then he began on the pantry. But of course he could not carry away all the nuts in one day, so he didn't begin with those in plain sight. He dug a hole under the pantry and took the nuts that were stored the deepest.

Tropical Plants More Deadly Than Snakes.

WHY=

In some tropical jungles there are plants whose stings are dreaded quite as much as the bite of a poisonous snake. In Central America there is a terrible nettle which is a distant cousin of that which grows in our own hedges. the state of the second The stem, leaves and flowers are hairs, really tubes made of very brittle tissue. When one of these is fouched it breaks diagonally, leaving kind of sharp-pointed funnel.

The point penetrates into the flesh and the poison is poured into the wound from a gland in the plant. The "cruel nettle," as the plant is called, does not often cause death, though its stings result in sores that are painful for a long time. But there are other plants in South America and in the East whose poison is so deadly that it will kill human beings in a very short time. In every case nature has devised the sting as a protection. The plant is juicy, and but for its poisonous weapons would be eaten by insects and animals; as it is, it is allowed to grow undisturbed. 1 19-10

Skirts Constitute Real Peril to Their Wearers

"Safety first" may mean knickerbockers for women. On the other hand, it may merely mean asbestos skirts. Burns kill more women than men. Skirts are the reason. Don't you believe it? Then listen. Why is it that during the first three years of life more boys die of burns than girls, while with the fourth year the scale turns sharply?

Isn't it because the boys about the time they are three or four drop the garb of femininity and blossom out into their first knee pants? Figures for the United States registration area covering a period of twenty-one years, show that in the fourth year of life the relatively high death rate from burns among girls begins. After that the fatal skirts and frilly waists which girls and women affect play their incendiary role, while the somber, sensible habiliments of masculinity protect their brothers from peril. Burns, not fires in the sense of conflagrations or house and factory burnings, but just plain burns and scalds, are the only kind of accidents which number the majority of their victims among the weaker sex. Three out of every five deaths from burns are deaths of women and girls. If this happened for a single year it might be considered a mere matter of chance, but the mortality figures show that the ratio has continued constant over a long period .- New York Sun.

Hawaiian Gods Punish Desecrators of Temple

The gods of ancient Hawaii again wreaked their vengeance upon the whites who made merry upon the site of a former heiau, or oldtime temple of worship, according to Hawaiian superstition, when the famous clubhouse of the Order of Elks on the beach at Waikiki was damaged by fire to the extent of $65,000.

The flames, caused by defective wiring, were the last of a series of untoward events, including murder, that occurred at the site of the heiau. which nestles at the foot of Diamond Head, says a Honolulu correspondent of the New York World. According to Hawaiian medicine men only evil will come to those who desecrate the site of an ancient helau.

The clubhouse was built many years ago by the late James B. Castle, a descendant of the missionaries who came from New England to the islands in 1820, as a residence for his family. During the occupancy of the Castle family two Japanese were murdered in the grounds and attention was called at that time to the tradition of

PERSONAL

NMrs. Abbie R. Gibson, classmate of Susan Jane Tirrell (now Mrs. William H. Zeigler) recently received a copy of the Spokane (Wash.) Review, in which was an article which will be read with interest by people of Lovell's Corner and South Weymouth.
Mrs. Zeigler attended the South High school. Read of her success:

Mrs. W. H. Zeigler, owner of the Zeigler building, gave a tea at her office in the building yesterday afternoon as an informal housewarming for the tenants in honor of the completion of the recent renovations in the building. The event was new in the annals of the business buildings here and during the afternoon 75 of the business men of the city called. The big flat-topped desk was covered with a tea cloth of filet lace and embroidery. There was a centerpiece of yellow and pink rosebuds combined with forgetmenots.

The Ziegler silver tea service and the hostess' best china were used.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

A Boston evening paper on Saturday had this to say over the signature of three prominent Boston real estate men,—

This is Presidential election year, but let us not talk ourselves into a state of collapse on that account To be sure, business has slackened some during the last three months.

But general business conditions are better than during most Presidential years of the last quarter century.

The Bonus Bill has been greatly magnified as a hardship on the taxpayers, but it is now the law of the land and it is futile to growl about it. We must pay it, and we will pay it in the next twenty years.

The effect in a staid office building was unique. The walls had pictures of pioneer times in Spokane and a cartoon by Morris of Louis Ziegler, who built the building, originally paying $400 for the land at Howard and Riverside which is today worth almost that many hundred thousand. Mrs. Ziegler was assisted in serving by Miss Daisy Cooper, Mrs. Charles Brown and Mrs. Grace Booker. The building is to be painted a Caen stone color and inside the hallways have had new plaster wainscoting and decorating in the Caen stone effect. There has been complete rewiring throughout the building and new droplights and the office suites are being redecorated, wall paper being used, as is the custom in the east. There has also been a new entrance completed. The Spokane Daily Chronicle adds: Putting individuality into one's business is the successful method employed by Mrs. W. H. Ziegler, owner of_the Ziegler block, Riverside and Howard.

Mrs. Ziegler has just completed the expenditure of $15,000 in remodeling and redecorating the building, which makes it one of the most attractive in the business district. The work was done under the personal supervision of Mrs. Ziegler.

All the building has been replastered and redecorated. The oak wainscotting has been removed and a modern and more artistic plastered panel installed. All the floors have been refinished. As a climax to the work Mrs. Zeigler gave a tea to a hundred or more business friends at her office Tuesday afternoon.

THE LEGISLATURE

The Legislature of 1924 is entitled to credit for reducing the State tax. It voted to extend the limited town meeting law to certain towns and ordered a referendum on daylight saving and child labor. The Legislature did not make an appropriation for the Pilgrim highway, did not regulate railroad fares, did not regulate jitneys, and did not curtail working hours on street railway.

-A little bit every day in the garden is better than temporary neglect with later struggles to cultivate it and keep down the weeds.

-Plenty of shade should be provided for growing chicks. When allowed to range in an orchard or corn field they will not only find ample shade and green feed, but will benefit the trees or corn, by destroying bugs and worms.

-Now is the time to become an annual subscriber of the Bazette-Transcript, and have the paper sent by mail every Friday noon. Less than 5c per copy by the year. Secretary Mellon's highest estimate places its per capita cost at less than two-thirds of a cent per day. It takes a great deal more than an item of this kind to warrant any great financial disturbance in the United States.

The new Tax Bill has just become effective. Reduction in taxes for the year beginning July 1 will be over $360,000,000 and after the Bonus requirements are met there will still be a saving to the taxpayers of over $135,000,000 annually.

If you think our taxes are heavy, consider the man across the sea. On $5000 income we pay $51, an Englishman $320, a Frenchman $900. On $25,000 income we pay $1812, the Frenchman $2816, and the Englishman $7000.

Deposits in the mutual savings banks of the United States are over $6,000,000,000, an increase of over 30 per cent. in the last five years. Adding the savings departments of the trust companies and other forms of cash savings it is apparent that the total runs close to $10,000,000,000.

You may be sure business is on a sound basis when savings bank deposits are increasing steadily.

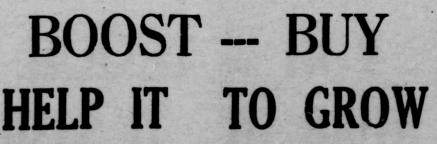

The Dawes Plan for the settlement of European conditions is bound to be accepted in the very near future. This will mean the opening of European markets which have been practically closed to us for the last three years.

The immediate prospect of this country is for the greatest development in every line of industry.

While real estate development goes hand in hand with general business it is a fact that the prospects are now for the greatest conceivable development in real estate in this vicinity.

Work—work hard—and extend every business enterprise in accordance with the dictates of good business judgment. Study and seize the possibilities of your business and work.

What better sign or evidence have we than this splendid report just issued: The Government will close its books for this fiscal year on June 30 with a surplus of between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000, Director Lord of the Budget Bureau Tuesday informed President Coolidge.

> Air magazine. For example, we can have a cylindrical mass of metal, technically known as a "ladle set," more than six feet in diameter, of equal length, and 1 1 weighing more than forty-five tons. A most hopeless case. A long piece of 3 3 one-quarter-inch iron pipe is connected by flexible hose with a "bottle" of oxygen. The free end of the pipe is made red hot and the oxygen slowly 2 2 and carefully turned on. The end of the pipe begins to burn with intense heat and when thrust against the block it begins to bore a hole right into the mass to a depth of three feet or more. The hole will be, say, an inch in diameter, and the molten metal will flow out of it in a little stream. In this way a considerable number of holes are quickly burned. These are charged with gelignite and fired all at once after the block has been placed in a special pit. Thus is obtained a mass of pieces that are generally as small as required.

K. OF P. SERVICE

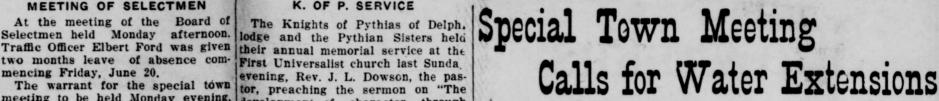

The speaker gave a brief history the fraternity and explained the principles of the order. He said that the practical exercise of Friendship, Charity and Benevolence was bound o have a fine effect upon the character and that in the battle with the forces of evil from within and from without men need the stimulus of service for others. This service of ministering to the needs of others greatly helped to counteract the nardening effect of the daily gring of business life and helped to keep sweet the springs of human actio. The regular church quartette enriched the service with appropriate musical selections.

Major General Andre W. Brewster, commanding the First Corps Area, announces that the quota allotted by the War Department to New England for the 1924 Citizens' Military Training Camps has been filled. Over 2900 applications have been received. Of these 2100 will go to Camp Devens, Mass., and 300 to Fort Adams at Newport, R. I., and Camp Vail, N. J. Any applications received over and above those necessary to fill the quota will be held as alternates and places given them should any of the 2400 withdraw before Aug. 1 which is the day the camps open.

MARKET REPORT

As a guide to the busy housekeeper the Gazette-Transcript will publish the prices in the Boston market as of Tuesday of the week the Gazette-Transcript is printed:

At the vegetable counter: Southern outdoor tomatces, new cabbage, string and wax beans, new potatoes, native cucumbers, radishes and scallions. Cold unfavorable weather has shortened native asparagus crop and helped to boost prices. The shipping season will probably extend to July 15. At the fruit counter: Southern strawberries and pineapples and cantaloupes; native rhubarb; navel oranges. The native st. awberry season is late and picking will not begin for another week. The million quarts strawberry patch on the Cape promises a good crop of excellent quality. Berries should be plentiful and reasonable.

New on the market: Okra 30c lb. Blackberries 30c quart basket. Watermelons $1.25-$1.50 each; peaches from Georgia 30c-35c dozen. At the fish counter: A large supply of fresh eastern salmon arrived on the market retailing 30-35c lb. Salmon has never been better at this time of the year. Mackerel is popular, two lbs. for 25c. Fresh eastern halibut 28c lb. Small 35c lb. Try this recipe for Aloha Cream-

1/2 cup rice, one cup grated pineapples; 1/4 cup sugar; 3/4 cup heavy cream. Cook rice in boiling salted water. Door and Window Rattles Eliminated Diain and pour cold water over to separate the kernels. Cool, add sugar and pineapple. Let stand in a cold place for an hour. Fold in cream which has been beaten until stiff.

"TUST one weak spot, and a whole new tire gone! That's what a lot of motorists complain of. The tread barely worn off-yet a blow-out ruins the entire shoe!

"What's the cause, you ask? What is it that makes an apparently sound tire wear thin at one point in this way?

"You could actually see the answer to this question if you had samples of tire rubber under a microscope In ordinary rubber compounds, the rubber does not mix smoothly and evenly with the necessary strengthening materials. 'Lumps' are formed—every 'lump' a weak spot that helps bring a blow-out like this some day."

Discovery of a remarkable rubber compound

At last a rubber has been produced that reduces these "lumpy" formations to a minimum - that eliminates premature tire troubles.

Two research chemists and two practical tire-builders in the Thermoid Rubber Company spent months in labora-tory work and road tests. They finally discovered Crolide —an even-texture rubber that does not weaken with the stretching and straining that goes on inside a tire in use.

Crolide Compound is today used exclusively in the manufacture of Thermoid and Rezoid Cord Tires.

We have compared the Thermoid and Rexoid Cord Tires carefully, point by point, with other tires on the market today, and we confidently believe that no other

"Betty," said Jack's wife to her pretty caller, "I wish you'd telephone my husband and ask him if he thought I'd mind if you were to dine with us tonight."

"But, dear, you know I can't dine with you. What's the idea, anyway?" "I asked him today to get a haircut and a shave and spruce up a bit, but he said he was too busy."

Far From It

The story is told of a famous Boston lawyer who, one day after having a slight discussion with the judge, deliberately turned his back upon that personage and started to walk off. "Are you trying to show your contempt for the court, sir?" asked the judge, sternly.

"No, sir," was the reply; "I am trying to conceal it."

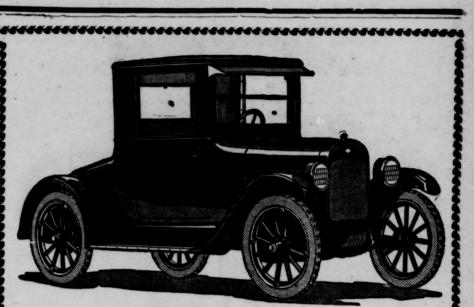

"You know that fellow you called a hound the other day?" "Yes."

"Well, he's been dogging your steps ever since.'

a certain dish to which, he discovered, his prospective bride strongly objected, and it was on this score that he broke off the engagement. A well-known man of letters once confessed that he had consistently shirked the ordeal of marriage because it involved what was to him a still greater ordeal, that of proposing. And there were at least a score of women known to this man and his friends who would have been only too glad to have been led to the altar by him! That none was destined to be so escorted was due, simply and solely. to his rooted aversion to proposing. An actor, famous in his day, once declared that his reason for remaining a bachelor was that he preferred breakfasting in absolute peace and quietness! It was his custom, on rising at nine o'clock, to have his breakfast by the fire, instead of at the table in the usual fashion. The meal was laid ready, and he simply helped himself, papers' in silence.

To marry, he said, would mean the Weymouth. The couple were attend breaking of a long-established habit, and girls under direction of Mrs. and because of this he declined to take the step.

Why Fish Are Slippery?

Simple, Says Authority "Why are fish so slippery?" was a question put to a fishmonger the other day by a woman customer. The fishmonger did not know. Three out of four of the people who monger; they don't know. The reason, however, is simple, says London Answers. The slipperiness is due to a sort of mucus exuded through the scales. It is of the greatest importance in protecting the fish from fungus, a skin discase to which they are liable.

If the fish is so injured that some spot becomes uncovered by the protective mucus a barely visible fungus will probably lodge there; and thereafter it spreads very rapidly, finally extending over the gills and killing the fish

Another use of the mucus is to diminish friction when the fish is in motion through the water, and so to increase its speed.

friends the other evening. They located a minister somewhere, the station not being given, and things were coming in fine when all at once everything stopped dead. One of the guests asked if anything was the matter.

"Oh, no," replied the radio fan. "Just got a station where religious services are being conducted and the minister is leading the congregation silent prayer."-Columbus Disin patch.

Why France Economizes

Since the great war France has realfzed that all the resources of the country must be systematically exploited, and she is giving attention to the development of her regional electric works so that already they show the outline of a great national system. This system will have as its chief feature a north and south line from Lille to the Pyrenees, and a belt line binding together the networks in the north, east and Savoie. It is proposed to develop these outstanding features within the next three years. At present the French electric system shows nine sections.

Why Waste Gas?

Every time a ton of coal is burned in the family furnace, 17 tons of gas go up the chimney. Of these tons, 16 are gases of the atmosphere. More than 12 are of nitrogen. Nearly four tons of oxygen used in burning the coal go up as carbon dioxid, sulphur dioxid, and water vapor. Most of the coalabout 1,500 pounds or so-also goes up the chimney as carbon dioxid. Less than one part in 100 forms smoke .-Popular Science Monthly.

Why No More Sulphur Matches Sulphur formerly was used in matches-the eight-day kind. People got tired waiting for these to burn, so the matchmakers began to leave out the sulphur. Nowadays they use it for vulcanizing rubber and making gunpowder and sulphuric acid. Likewise sulphur is good for killing the bugs on trees, so they put it in sprays .- Popular Science Monthly.

Why He Beaned Him "Why did you strike the telegraph operator?" the judge asked the defendant.

"Well, yo' honah," said the culprit, "It was jest like this: I hands him a telegram for mah girl, an' he starts in readin' it. So I jest nachurally ups an' hands him one."-Country Gentleman.

Why Were Vikings So Called? "Vik" means a flord or inlet, and vikings were the "inlet men" from the deep inlets of the Scandinavian coast.

Why It Is Called "Rotten Row" "Rotten Row" in London is supposed to have been derived from "B Rot," or King's drive.

THE FROZEN TRUTH

 By MARTHA WILLIAMS

(C. 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"No! I don't believe it ! I can't ! But-who says so?" Mrs. Lent ejaculated as her gossip, Miss Merton, halffell into the nearest chair. She gasped from it : "Well, it's so! I didn't be- She had no doubt of her sweetheartlieve it neither, until Sim Crane swore good and hard he was tellin' the frozen stances. She knew his ardent and aftruth." "Does he know it? I doubt it!"

Mrs. Lent said pointedly.

Miss Merton sat straighter: "He. knew it this time," she said. "On the way here I met Judge Shields-whom I asked what the Jess Allens were doin' up at the courthouse, he snapped -you know his mean way : "Tendin' to ly, leaving a message, as Jess was their own affairs, madam-a mighty fine example to all of us.' That shows they must a-had affairs-"

"I don't just see it that way," Mrs. Lent interrupted.

over her shoulder: "Of course you them the ring-tied with the blue truedon't! Fact is, Becky, you're mad because I got the big news first-seem to think it's your privilege to head off the stand-she had only to say, "I knowrest of us tellin' anything. This time all about everything." and wish him I'm ahead-and I'll stay there if my godspeed. He was too true bred to legs hold out. Good-by now-and don't complain. As she got thus far in her you try any 'phone tricks. I can see musings, she was suddenly seized upthree people while you're gettin' Central to give you one." A speechless Mrs. Lent looked after Jess the while whispering ecstatically :

the way she went. But Miss Merton had darted round the corner. An hour later early hearers of the news-that old Jess Allen's missing will had been found-when they came to repeat it, added to it. Thus by the time it reached the end of Main street, and turned the corner of Market, the tale ran that the missing will cut off to marry. All the truth is-the will young Jess-who was no real grandson but a third cousin adopted-with a bare thousand dollars; that he got fifty thousand outright-the rest going to charity-hence it was clear somebody had had to do with hiding the document so long; that his share was contingent upon whom he married. After that the favorite version was that Old Jess had picked a bride for him. Unless he found her right away he'd find himself a pauper. So fascinating was this it went almost straight through half a dozen tellings -the hearers all agreeing that the will-finding was lucky, yet a shame. Young Jess was as good as engaged to Molly Bean-one or two knew posi-

Original Source. He grinned at ner, swept off his hat in its wildest flourish and called across the street: "We've been makin' history up at the courthouse today, Miss Molly. Providence town ain't been so stirred up by nothin' else that's happened since Wilson was first 'lected." Molly fancied he leered at her-so she waved in return and even called over her shoulder to him: "Don't forget to come and tell me all about it."

She was determined to send back the winking diamond Young Jess had put on her finger less than a month back. She had not worn it except in the privacy of her own room-so nobody need know she had ever had it. he was in the grip of cruel circumfectionate gratitude to the pair who had given him everything. He would break with them, break Granny's heart, if Molly bade him do it. She could not do it-she would not. Not if it broke her own young heart, and kept her alone all her life. So she called over the telephone quite clearaway from Judge Shield's office, then busied herself making a small, dainty packet-a string of pink coral given her at graduation, a tiny wrist watch long past use, a litter of frivolous an-Miss Merton rose, saying acidly niversary gifts, and in the midst of love knot from which it had hung about her neck. "Frozen truth?" Molly asked, tremulously. "Frozen truth!" Jess echoed, hugging her again.

Recommends Winding of Watch in the Morning

There has always been a mystery about the breaking of the mainsp.ing of the watch and while many efforts have been made to solve the problem and many explanations offered, none is regarded as entirely satisfactory. What seems to be a very logical one tively Molly's mother was just about has been recently made by Harry Holo announce the wedding day. More ton, a watchmaker of Wells River, Vt.

conservative hearers shook their heads who has made some special observaover this-but all minds agreed that If the will had to be found it was well to have it in evidence before things were done past undoing. Then the gossip-wind veered to make Granny Allen the storm-center. As she'd have only her legal third if ever she even thought of marryin' again. Over that it was to laugh-Granny was all of sixty-five, and not the least bit flirty, even if she was mighty spry for her age. But if she had got the place, and most of the property, no tellin' what mightn't happen. Plenty of men would try to marry anybody with a hundred thousand in cold cash, not to name a fine farm ! Old Jess had known what he was about -it was really right down touchin'his takin' thought this way for the wife he had builted so stoutly all through their forty years together." But with all the money hers she could make Young Jess walk chalk-and three people at least were sure she'd have him walking away from Molly Been.

Mid-afternoon found all the better residence streets buzzing and milling over the case. Curiosity as to how Molly would take it was so great the Bean knocker sounded at least once in each five minutes. At first the callers made simple errands-Molly sat smiling and happy, playing with the puppy that was her latest anonymous gift. Nobody dared ask leading questions, but presently the stream of anxlous if dumb inquirers made Molly's mother turn on the ninth person, asking sharply; "See tere! What's up? Has the bank broke? Or Judge Shields eloped with Billy Bayly-she's the only woman he's ever allowed in his office? Or are there new twins at the parsonage? Must be somethin' mighty strange to set all of you runn'n' about like ants when water's spilled on 'em!" "Why. don't you know? Haven't you heard?" came in varying chorus. Molly got up, her cheeks flaming and stood tall and defiant before hersmall mother, as she flung back: "We know-nothing. We have heardnothing. And we don't care to know -unless it concerns us-intimately." Unwise truly-but she was a girl of spirit-it was young Jess' boast that she "didn't know how to be afraid." With lifted heads or shaking ones the inquisitors melted away. Then Molly herself went news gathering-and came back with a sorry grist. For by that time the story had solidified into a stout declaration that Young Jess needs must choose between love and money. Love was not concretely mentioned-the gossips let it be understood. But categorically they agreed "upon the best authority, my dear girl." that the young fellow was honor-bound, and fortune bound, by the dead hand of his benefactor. Molly's head was as high as ever when she left her informants-she was on the point of going elsewhere for news, when she met Sim Crane-the tions relative to the behavior of watch springs. As a result he recommends persons who carry fine watches to wind them in the morning instead of at night, which seems to be the universal custom. Persons are more likely to arise at a regular hour than they are to retire regularly and his 'n estigations seem to indicate that this, in a measure, is responsible for the breaking of the mainspring. In 70 cases out of 75. springs have broken at might after winding. The watch is wound at night after it has been in contact with the body for many hours and has acquired the temperature of the latter. It is wound and then hung in a closet, perhaps. where the temperature is quite different. The rapid cooling of the timepiece affects the mainspring as much as any other part and the change of temperature puts it to a strain which it is unable to withstand .- Providence Jou: nal.

Dental Too's of Go'd

Dental tools of gold and ebony, used on the royal molars of Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the great Napoleon and husband to an American girl from Baltimore, Elizabeth Patterson, whose marriage was later annulled because of political reasons and Napoleon's prejudice, are the latest acquisitions in the dental museum of Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill.

Dr. William Rebb. the museum curator, has just returned from Europe, where he picked up dental curios in odd corners of England, France and Italy. One of these is a stone statue of Ste. Apollonia, patron saint of the art of dentistry. This Apollonia, the legend runs, leaped voluntarily into a fire rather than curse her Lord. Previously her captors had struck her in the mouth, knocking out all her teeth. and it is this incident which gained her a place as patroness against toothache.

Trapped

A Weary Willy called at an office the other day. "Can't give you a job," said the merchant; "two other men here on the same errand."

Just then another man came in and said to the merchant: "I can find work for one of these men." Then. pointing to the last comer, he said: "You come along with me and I'll find i you something to do."

In pained and surprised tones, Weary Willy inquired: "Why me?"

Who's Looney Now? "I suppose we think we are smarter than the Chinese." "Aren't we?"

"The Chinese are not saying a word. They are getting wheat and pork in exchange for mah jong sets."--Lou's ville Courier-Journal.

"You were only three years older yourself," Lotta interposed. "Oh never mind," repressing a smile at Berenice's pained expression. "Go on !"

"Well, she had yellow pigtails and plenty of freckles, and that's all. There, I hope you're satisfied !"

"No, I'm more curious than before. I want to see her. Evidently, from your description, she's the original ugly duckling."

"All I can say is they must be crazy to think of sending her to New York. Who is to look after her, and where she will get the money I don't see."

"You don't see very much of your relatives, anyway, seems to me," Lotta | where its trial was made and was then said dryly.

Berenice's eyes flashed indignant protest. "When I'm occupied the whole time with social duties, how do you suppose I can keep track of the entire Brainard family unto the third and fourth generations? What I'd Ellen when he comes? She won't get here until the last minute."

"Lend her some of your things and can accomplish wonders. She will make the girl presentable. Then leave the rest to the handsome hero," Lotta tion at the Smithsonian Institution -laughed aloud. "By the way, Berenice, have you heard that Alan Traynor has finished his studies abroad and is expected home any day? He is a top notch artist, I understand."

"Oh, yes," with an elaborate care lessness that did not deceive her friend. "I've invited him to my party." "Oh, ho! that's who the party's for Alan's to be reigning lion! Queer I never heard any hints floating around. Are you planning to lay siege to his heart the moment he arrives?"

"You forget that Alan and I were pretty good friends before he ever went away. He has been gone only three years."

"Maybe. But the male of the species is a fickle creature and much can happen in three years."

Berenice sniffed. "Just wait until you see the orange frock I'm going to wear. If that doesn't attract his artistic eye, nothing will."

"I hope it won't put his eye out. Do you think he will like being lionized? He may be a modest man." Lotta': shy glance was provocative. "The lion and the duckling." She chuckled "How do you suppose they will ge on together?"

"Don't. Lotta: gou sound like ; menagerie," Berenice shuddered. "I'm script.

Do You Pay Your Bills ?

Being One of a Series of Talks on Bills and the Prompt Payment Of Them. Do you owe any Bills That Are Overdue?

"LET'S HAVE AN UNDERSTANDING"

No credit man will turn a debtor down who tells the TRUTH. For TRUTH is the foundation of CREDIT.

YOU owe an account-YOU have owed it for several months-it is long past due-You want to pay it-circumstances, perhaps, have been against you-then in all fairness to the credit man make a frank statement of your conditions.

You will find the credit man willing to help the honest debtor, if he can. More often his hands are tied. The debtor will not make any attempt to make PROMPT PAYMENT of his account. He, there-fore, can not expect any consideration at the hands of the Credit Man.

If you are not willing to make a 'clean breast" of your actual conditions, you have not good reason for thinking you will receive any consideration ot the hands of the credit man.

It is useless to dodge the issue for every credit man in Plymouth, Norfolk and Barnstable Counties are acquainted with your method of paying credit obligations. He knows just how you stand with every firm doing business in both counties.

Care of Fruit and Vegetables Is Important.

Most fresh truits and vegetables need to be kept clean, well ventilated and, if possible, at a temperature between 60 degrees and 40 degrees F. These conditions help to prevent spollage by wilting and by molds, bacteria and yeasts, and to check ripening changes. Fresh fruits and vegetables are living materials, even after they are picked from the plant or the soil where they grew, and certain substances, called enzyms, continue to work in the cells and bring about ripening. From the standpoint of edible quality, there is a certain stage of ripeness when every fruit and vegetable is considered prime, and the care it receives in the home oftentimes is very important in maintaining this period or in handling foods that have passed It.

novelist and biographer, born in tired by disordered and confused surroundings, whether at work or not. For the same reason one may get through a relatively long hard task without undue fatigue if it is performed under pleasant, orderly conditions. This is particularly true of lroning, which is one of the longest tasks in the week's routine. One woman may attempt to iron in an atmosphere of confusion, with unwashed dishes nearby, coats or other out-ofdoors clothing thrown over a chair, food standing about and children's playthings under her feet; time is lost making room among collections of untidy articles on the table or tubs. Another woman waits to put her kitchen in order before starting to fron. She sits on a high stool for most of the work. She is also particular to have her ironing board steady and placed at the right height, instead of across two chairs as one so often sees; she has a hamper for the pile of dampened clothes and a clothes horse on which to air the freshly ironed garments. It is safe to predict, says the United States Department of Agriculture, that the second woman will be less tired than the first one when she has finished the same amount of ironing.

Other little ways of making ironing easier are having the board well pad ded and smoothly covered, never standing with one's back to the light: using clean smooth irons, occasionally rubbed with wax or parafin; wearing comfortable shoes with moderate heels in good condition. Rubber heels are liked by many people.

An ideal ironing board is one which is hinged permanently to the wall at the best height for the worker so that it can be folded back into a small flat closet out of the way when not in use. This type of ironing board has an extendable leg to rest on when palled down. It should be set as near as possible to the stove where the irons are heating or to the plug or outlet where the electric iron is attached. For best results and greatest comfort in work light from a window should fall across the ironing board. Put the clothes horse and hamper within easy reach.

Spiced Prune Preserve

After soaking dried prunes from 4 to 6 hours, or overnight, using 2 pints of water to each pound of prunes, the water should be drained off. In it should be put, for each 2 pounds of prunes, 1 pound of sugar, 1/2 cup of vinegar, 1/2 teaspoonful of cinnamon. 14 teaspoonful each of allspice and cloves. Put the spices in a bag or cloth. Boil all together without the prunes for 15 or 20 minutes, until sirupy, then add prunes, and cook slowly about thirty minutes. This recipe is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture as a variation for ordinary stewed prupes.

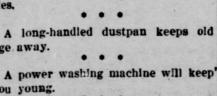

tion by the process. Once freed from infestation, clothes should be protectbe ed, if they are not to be used during the warm season, by being immediate> ly wrapped in paper or placed in tight chests or treated closets. The public is familiar with "mothproof" paper bags of various types that appear upon the market each summer. These bags, if not torn and if properly used, are excellent for keeping moths from reaching clothing. They are of no value in killing moths that may be in the clothing when it is placed in the bag, and those made of plain paper are just as good us those containing tar. The value of such bags as protectors against infestation ceases largely as soon as they are torn, even slightly, or are left unscaled.

> Ordinary firm wrapping paper is satisfactory, or several thicknesses of newspapers will serve. Clothes moths do not eat into paper to reach clothing. For this reason, if woolens and other fabrics subject to moth attack are cleaned and freed from moths by any of the methods mentioned above, they will remain safe if wrapped at once and tightly in several thicknesses of firm wrapping paper or in newspapers. There is a general belief that the print on newspapers keeps moths away. This is not true. Any paper of moderate thickness and 'upbroken will protect clothing. Care must be exercised to bend back the folds of the paper upon themselves at the ends of the bundles so that the moths cannot crawl into the bundles at the ends. After clothing has been made inte bundles or sealed in boxes, these bundles and boxes may be left exposed in garrets or on storeroom shelves without danger of infestation from without. If flake naphthalene is wrapped among the folds of clothing made into bundles, any small larvae that may have got into the cloth before it was wrapped will be killed. The main point about using naphthalene flakes or any substance that is expected to kill moth larvae by giving off fumes is that the bundle, trunk or container must be absolutely tight in order to confine the fumes of they will not be effective.

Use silk thread when basting on silk, velvet or cloth. It will not leave an impression under the tron. Cotton thread does.

-plus extraordinary riding comfort — the comfort that comes of correct design; scientific balance; plenty of room in both the front and rear seats; deep, luxurious cushions and long, strong, resilient semi-elliptic springs.

-plus instant get-away, smooth, vibrationless performance at all speeds; a feature due to a specially designed crankshaft, machined on all surfaces — a feature found in no competitive car under $2,500.

-plus long life and dependability, due to four large crankshaft bearings, carefully precisioned cylinders and pistons, perfectly balanced reciprocating parts, and specially prescribed Studebaker steels.

-plus obvious quality in every detail: hand-tailored top and side curtains; lasting, durable, genuine leather upholstery. Carefully selected fittings, lustrous black enamel finish.

These are a few of the "plus" features that make the Studebaker Light-Six an investment-not merely an expenditure. A car of recognized value that commands, at all times, the top price and ready sale in the used car market.

Faith is the resolution to stand by the noblest and highest and best. Faith is the first and great principle of saving Christianity. Faith is the foundation structure of

Hope is the mother of faith.

Hope carries us from the present "now" to the bright and glorious "then".

Hope leads to accomplishment, but its foundation must be sure.

Harry Lauder before the grave of his soldier son, saying "Thank you, my boy, thank you". A friend asked, "Does God weep when a laddie dies?" "There are three roads a man can travel when he has been struck as I have", said Lauder. "There is the road to despair, the road to drink and the road to God. I have chosen the road to God. That is the road to hope."

Hope built the Pyramids, erected the Ethurian tombs, led men to em. balm their dad. From lowest depths to greatest heights men have cherished the hope of immortality.

How Piling Is Destroyed

Wood in general, and valuable piling along waterfronts in particular, are the favorite delicacies of those destructive wood-boring marine pests, scientifically called "Limnoria." Against them the resources of the United States Forest Service's Forest Products laboratory are being marshaled.

These tiny creatures, the largest never more than a quarter of an inch long are a serious problem on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Coming in contact with piling through the chance of tide or drift, and lodging in a crevice or on the surface, they ent away the soft wood, leaving the remainder in riblike ridges. After a time a pile may snap in two. Limnoria are harder to combat than are other marine pests with a taste for wood, because they will penetrate wood impregnated with creosote .-Popular Science Monthly.

CUPID AND THE CRIMINALS

By H. IRVING KING

 (@. 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Billy the Rat was a hard-working second-story man who, in spite of all temptations to become a bootlegger and thereby acquire riches, preferred to keep the even tenor of his way in his humble and dishonest calling rother than lose caste by purveying illicit booze. Bootlegging society is very mixed, you know.

In the course of business The Rat paid a visit to Percival Jones-Percy being asleep at the time-and having gathered in the watch, bills and loose change lying on Mr. Jones' bureau, and such articles of solid silver as had not been sent to the safety deposit company, put in his pocket the half dozen sealed, stamped and directed letters left ready for mailing on the library table and unostentatiously departed to his modest abode in a rooming house patronized by fellow workers in the various branches of his particular industry. The Rat never neglected documents of any sort which came to hand in the prosecution of his somewhat extensive operations, finding them a rather profitable by-product because of his association with Jimmy the Skin, who did a conservative little business in the blackmailing

Now it happened that among the letters gathered in by the industrious and painstaking William there was one addressed to Miss Clara Walton, the missive inside being signed by "Your loving and repentant Percy." Percival and Clara had been having a row. Lovers' quarrels always are about some silly little thing. But they They will in fact see defeat very near, should be made up without undue delay. If the misunderstanding is allowed to drag on it is liable to develop into something really serious; just as a neglected cold may develop into pleurisy or pneumonia.

In the making-up process it is a necessary preliminary that one of the parties should "come off the high horse." The last time Percy and Clara had disagreed it had been Clara who had capitulated-this time it was Percy. It was his turn, anyway. Clara watched for the postman, day after day, to come bearing the expected articles of capitulation, but watched in vain. While Percy, on his part, awaited just as eagerly and just as vainly should have marked him as the man for the letter which would inform him that "all was forgiven." Then Clara cried a good deal and "got mad," and Percy, I regret to say, swore a little, and "got mad," too. But anger is a poor cure for unrequited love, though it does take the edge off of the suffering, temporarily, and the anger of our lovers cooled rapidly, leaving the sorrow and dismay predominating. And little of anger must have remained, however, or Clara would have mailed one of the three several letters she wrote to Percy, acknowledging her fault and begging for a restoration of the old relations. And Percy would have carried out his resolutions to go to Clara's house, demand an audience, and throw himself upon the mercy of the court. So Clara did not mail the letters, saying to herself, "I wrote the last time. Self-respect demands that he make the first approaches for a reconciliation this time." And Percy got as far as Clara's door one night, but walked on down the block, saying to himself, "Hang it, my letter was humble enough. If she loved me at all she loined by the burglar who had looted his house. Here was a written confession to that effect which he, Mr. Davis-The Skin so called himselfhad got from the burglar to that effect. Mr. Jones could see that the letter had never been through the post. Mr. Davis was a philanthropist, doing uplift work among the criminal classes. The burglar, who could not read writing, had, the other day, asked him to read this letter. Mr. Davis saw at once the importance of the missive to Mr. Jones, and had obtained it from the burglar, together with the confession, by the payment of five hundred dollars.

Percy felt that there was something "fishy" about the story, but he was too overjoyed to be critical, reimbursed "Mr. Davis" for his alleged expenditure, and rushed away to Clara with the letter, when all was at once explained, forgiven and forgot.

Roberts Picked Foch to Win the World War

General Foch was almost unknown in England before he became generalissimo of the allied forces. Not until after 1918 did the editors of Who's Who include him among the thousands of notable men and women. But there was one Englishman at least who years before the war understood his remarkable qualities. In "Celebrities" Mr. Coulson Kernahan pays tribute to the prescience of Lord Roberts, the "man who knew.

Lord Roberts, writes Mr. Kernahan, was not only a great soldier but also a keen observer and shrewd judge of character; he took a man's measure wholly uninfluenced by what was or was not written or said of the man. He had his own opinion of Foch. Speaking on July 29, 1908, he said:

"They refuse to believe me, and we sleep under a false security, for I do not hesitate to affirm that we shall have a frightful war in Europe, and that England and France will have the hardest experience of their existence. but the war will finally be won by the genius of a French general named Ferdinand Foch, professor at the milltary school at Paris."

Thus almost exactly six years before the war Lord Roberts predicted precisely what would happen in the war when it came. That in itself was a memorable feat. But that he should thus have marked out a professor and a lecturer in the schools, who was a second lieutenant in 1874, between which time and 1908 he had had no opportunity of proving his military abilities by commanding troops in actions of any importance, if indeed he had seen any action at all, and that he who was to lead the allied cause to victory, is surely one of the most re markable examples of prescience in all history .- Youth's Companion.

would answer it." When Percy, the morning after entertaining The Rat unawares, saw that the letters which he had left on the library table were gone, he supposed that his valet-all the other servants had gone with the family to the country-had mailed them, as was his wont. And in the little excitement which ensued upon the discovery that the house had been burglarized he made no particular inquiry about them, it, of course, never occurring to him that a burglar would waste his time by walking off with a few letters. All the letters except the one to Clara were of a nature to require no answer, and of such a character that it did not matter whether they reached their destination or not-so he got no hint from their nonarrival.

Meantime the matter was in the able hands of that eminent expert, Jimmy the Skin. In going over the letters with Billy the Rat he had thrown into the fire contemptuously all the missives except that addressed to Clara. "In this," said he, "I see profit. Properly handled, it will bring a pecuniary return-a rather small one, perhaps, but still a return." The Skin used excellent English, dressed richly but quietly, wore no jewelry and had most engaging manners-his business required it.

"Don't see how you can make de guy or de goil come across wid dat," replied The Rat. "'Tain't compromising."

"My dear rodent," said The Skin, "are you aware that there is such a thing as gratitude in this world-and that it may be capitalized? At the psychological moment I shall proceed -for a price-to unite two loving hearts, now, alas, sundered."

The Skin was an expert on psychological moments. Just at the proper time he appeared before Percival and told him a yarn. The letter -which he now had the pleasure of restoring to Mr. Jones-had been pur-

Decades of Newe Worlde

"The Decades of the newe worlde, Wrytten in the Latine Tounge by Peter Martyr of Angleria, and tranflated into Engylyffe by Rycharde Eden, Londoni, Anno 1555"-was the first book in the English language to give any full description of America.

In the "Address to the Reader" Eden refers to Peter Martyr's account of the Isthmus of Panama and points out the desirability of constructing a good road from ocean to ocean. He admits that it would be a very expensive undertaking, but argues that the new trade route would benefit all mankind.

"But certevnely the moft trewe and permanent glory procedeth of such monumentes as comodite and profite to the lyfe of men rather then of the hugious heapes of ftones of the Pyramides of Egypt, wherein is nought els to fee but the fonde and barbarous oftentation of fuperfluous riches."

Ballast for Airship

By condensing the exhaust gas from burning gasoline in airship engines and storing it as water in the ballast, loss in weight is prevented. This results in the saving of many thousands of dollars' worth of expensive helium gas that lifts the craft, and which otherwise would have to be released and wasted to keep the ship from rising to dangerous heights. A device for this purpose has been perfected and with its aid, the cruising radius of dirigibles is expected to be increased greatly. The weight of the water from the exhaust vapors more than equals that of the gasoline, which requires more than three times its weight in oxygen for proper combustion. More than one-third of this amount of the oxygen is formed into water to serve as ballast for the ship. -Popular Mechanics.

An inveterate poker player who hadn't been trotting in double harness very long went to an old married owl for some friendly advice.

"What is it, son?" asked his mentor. "Wife been jumping on you too severe-17?"

"No, that's just the point. That's what makes me uneasy. My wife doesn't say much, but when I have been out late with the boys she apparently does a lot of thinking. Now what should a husband do when his wife looks at him oddly?" "Look at her evenly."

A Snicker From Sweden "What do you take as a remedy for your insomnia?" "A glass of cognac at regular intervals." "Does that make you sleep?" "No, but it makes me satisfied to stay awake."-Boston Transcript.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Thursday evening, June 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Iliffe a reception was held in honor of their two daughters Alice and Edith. The sisters, who have just returned from their honeymoon spent in New York, were married at a double wedding on June 10 at West Medford by the Rev. Clark, formerly of North Weymouth. Miss Alice became the bride of Peter Tolan of Roxbury and Miss Edith the bride of Clark Page of North Weymouth. The house was prettily decorated while the lawn made a picturesque sight with its many illuminated jack o' lanterns, with the fountain sparkling in the midst.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE

A baccalaureate service was observed at the First M. E. church for the 1924 graduating class of Weymouth High school and a large number were in attendance. The pastor spoke on the theme "Looking Forward" and urged the graduates to consider carefully before they chose their life work-to remember that unless one considers his work the very best kind of work in the world he will not be able to put into it his best efforts. The fact of service rather than self was emphasized and this can only be brought about by a knowledge of the times in which we live, which will enable one to find the need able to help supply the lack.

Three of the graduates are connected with the organizations of this church.

POISON IVY

The country resident for the most part knows poison ivy and unless he chances to be one of the very few persons who are not susceptible to its poisonous effects, he gives the plant a wide berth. But the city person is likely to be attracted by the wonderful foliage in the spring time and the beautifully turned leaves in the early fall. The plant is everywhere in waste places. The writer recently stopped along the highway a little to the east of Palmer. At this point close beside the road a fine flowing spring of water attracts the autoist. But poison ivy is also there. Across the road from this point a climb of a few feet up the bank brings a beautiful view of the valley with the river flowing at one's feet. But the edge of the bank along the road is festooned with the beautiful but very

It grows It thrives in moist soil in low places. SELL or BUY And it flourishes in dry soil on hillsides. It is at home everywhere in New England. But in whatever form, vine, shrub or bush, wet or dry habitat, its leaves are always divided into three-never more, never less-leaflets. Woodbine which may be confused with it has five leaflets. While shunning all plants whose leaves are made up of three leaflets may lead to undue suspicion of a harmless Largest Real Estate Clearance Houses plant, ivy and its poisoning will be avoided. The old saying, "Leafflets three, Let it be" is easily remembered and to one who does not know the plant, offers a path of safety.

This is another member of the Rhus family, equally poisonous with but less common than poison ivy, which occurs in Massachusetts. This plant looks something like common sumac. It grows only in swamps and wet places. It grows as a shrub and as a small tree. The shrubs are usually in clumps with slender stems from six to ten feet in height. It may grow as a tree twenty or thirty feet tall with a trunk five or six inches in diameter. The leaves of the poison sumac are always divided into an odd number of leaflets. These range from seven to thirteen in number. They are distributed in pairs along the leaf stem. And always the leaf stem bears at its tip a single leaflet. Harmless sumac, which belongs to an al-together different group of plants, can readily be distinguished from poison sumac by its nine to thirty-one leaflets and by other equally conspicuous differences. Because poison sumac always grows in swamps or wet places the avoidance of all shrubs or trees in such location with leaves composed of leafiets, while it may lead to needless fear of some harmless plants, will make a safe rule for persons who do not know poison

To call attention to the danger of ivy poisoning and how to avoid it is the object of this article. Simple cooling remedies such as cooking soda i45 Broad St., East Weymouth or Epsom salts dissolved in water allay the irritation as well as any. In severe cases a physician should be consulted. Remedies that reduce the irritation and which prevent the spread of the poison from infected to uninfected portions of the body and methods of destruction of the plants are given in Farmers' Bulletin 1166 of the United States Department of Agriculture. This may be had by writing your Congressman at Washington or from the Division of Information, Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, State House, Boston.

By hard and faithful work some worth-while things have been accomplished. Thru their untiring efforts the Thomas Watson school on Quincy avenue was built; also the acquiring by the town of a 22 acre tract along the Fore River for a recreation and playground.

The building of the clubhouse, in which every board sawed, nail driven, poard painted or varnished, was done by the club members, except the floor in the dance hall, which was laid by experts in that business. Starting in July, 1922, and completing it ϵ arly in 1923, was an accomplishment to be proud of.

The clubhouse has a commodious dance floor, lobby, check-room, ladies' com on the second floor; a dining rocm. kitchen, large store room, boiler room and store on the first floor.

The spacious balcony on the second floor running half way around the building overlocks the water and is an ideal spot for rest and recreation.

They own the property on which the clubhouse stands; also a bathing beach adjoining, which for many years was known as the Old Red Pier property. People come from far and near to enjoy the bathing, although

They have many other projects under way which will make that section of Braintree one of the most desirable residential districts.

Their social affairs are always looked forward to with a delightful xpectancy and their field days do not take a back seat and the one to be held on Saturday, June 28, from 2.00 P. M. to 12.00 P. But best of all, they say, will be the home-cooked dinner, served by the wives of these men.

In the evening there will be dancing with music by De Neil's well known Jazz Orchestra, which makes dancing on the wonderful floor delightful,

This will be a chance for the public to lend a helping hand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Potatoes boiled, baked or fried, occasionally varied by mashed or creamed potatoes alternate on a good many family tables the year round. The United States Department of Agriculture suggests several ways of making plain mashed potatoes quite delicious by adding eggs to them. In the spring of the year when eggs are plentiful this is not an extravagance, as it adds real food value to the dish.

Mashed Potatoes "Different."

Mashed potatoes are usually made by beating them until light with hot milk and butter, and salt and papper, using four tablespeonfuls of hot milk and one teaspoonful of the fat for every medium-sized potato. Handling Crockery.

(Prepared by the United States Departs of Agriculture.)

Instead of carrying clean china round from the kitchen, where it is washed, to the dining-room cupboard, where it is put away, this housekeeper, living in Frederick county, Maryland, at the suggestion of the home demonstration agent, arranged to have a closet placed between the kitchen and dining room, opening into each room. While it is unlikely that the supplies and utensils shown on the lower shelves would be needed in any room but the kitchen, this arrangement eliminates many daily steps in handling the crockery used at each meal. When such a closet as this can be located close to the sink, instead of across the room from it, still fewer steps are needed in the daily routine.

Kitchen improvements in farm homes are being made in a number of states through the efforts of extension workers co-operatively employed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various state agricultural colleges. In Virginia, Maryland, Missouri, Wyoming and South Carolina a great deal of attention has been given recently to making the kitchen more convenient.

Fireless cookers eliminate those hot times over the kitchen range.

A cheery kitchen drives away wrinkles. Use paint for walls and floors. Too liberal serving at table may lead to two evils-waste of food and eating too much "just to save it."

When washing glass or earthenware place the articles in warm salted water. The cleaning is done quicker and Tel. 0019 | easier.

Even the sult is not exempt from period influence. It borrows from the directoire, and from the Puritan fathers with almost equal ease, and the slashed doublet of the Middle ages may be modernized so that the herald who originally wore it would hardly recognize his familiar garb.

The two-piece idea grows apace Even quite formal frocks are divided somewhere near the waistline, and tunics of the most abbreviated as well as elongated types are things with which to reckon. Blouses which are severely tailored do not tuck under the skirt half as often as they end outside

Fabrics Used in Court Costumes.

Unusual combinations of heavy and light fabrics were noted in the court gowns presented by Reville at a recent mannequin parade in London, where filmy georgette dresses were allied to trains of heavy shot metallic moire. On the other hand, heavily beaded and bejeweled matrons' gowns were finished with filmy tulle-like trains. One of the most interesting features of the display was the new contrivances devised by Monsieur Reville to enable shingled and bobbed debutantes to wear the regulation three feathers without a jeweled band or tiara. A return to favor of white gloves for evening wear is predicted by Reville, who provided all manne quins showing evening gowns as well as court attire with long-sleeved gloves ly simple lines and lined with printed crepe in black and white. The bottom of the coat has a deep band of the black satin; the frock combines these two materials just as successfully. A long beltless blouse of the printed crepe is banded at the bottom with the satin; this must be carefully measured so that the banding on coat and dress meet at the correct place. The sleeves of this frock should be long and well fitted, the neckline may be V or bateau-shaped, and narrow ties of crepe may tie at each side of the waistline if you desire to soften a bit the altogether beltless effect. We suggest having the coat of this costume made by a reliable tailoring establishment in order to achieve the correct lines. The dress is simple straight sleeveless frock of crepe, which is tucked from shoulder to hem; it has a narrow belt across the back,, which gives slight emphasis to the waistline. A tiny white linen collar and the bottom of the skirt are edged with narrow red lace. The accompanying coat is of the same shade as the gown but of slightly heavier material! It is straight and narrow, fitted in slightly at the waist; the red leather belt and the smart little collar of the frock, worn outside, lend it distinction.

A costume would be especially smart of blue bengaline combined with blue crepe de chine of the same shade. The coat, of three-quarter length, fastens at the collar and hangs straight or may be held in place. The cuffs and collar are finished with narrow stuffed rolls of the material, the whole lined with white crepe de chine. The dress is a tunic model, with a round neckline, tiny collar, and long sleeves. The front of the tunic and the sleeves are finished with round crystal buttons. This simple coat and frock may easily be made by one's own sewing woman. A costume of this sort will solve the problem of what to wear all sum-

About Lingerie.

Somebody said that real culture and refinement began only when people started to care for things which were ordinarily not visible, such as lingerie, for example. During the darkest centuries of the Middle ages coarse wool was in order for shirts; later came linen. We find that some sybaritic persons have worn silk chemises during the Twelfth century. These chemises were of heavy silk and differed from the outer garments that were worn next to the skin.

The slashed and wide-sleeved garment of the Middle ages gave opportunity to display the chemise in case one had any. It was still an article of great luxury and many a queen and princess did not own half a dozen. The garments were colorful, while the chemise was white.

"There I agree with you absolutely," said Billie Brownie. "I think," he added, "one of the rea-

SURE RESULTS FROM THE

Open Letter to Mrs. Housewife :---

Fair weather is with us again on the South Shore, and the fair weather bread pedlar is also with us. He is the fellow who calls at your door when the weather is good in the summer time, but who is among the missing when the wintry winds blow. That's the time you take your phone in hand and call upon your dealer to supply your wants.

Through rain, sleet, and snow, your dealer fights his way to supply you with your daily bread. Many a day in the winter he makes these deliveries at a loss on account of the hard going.

Think it over now and ask yourself if it is fair to your dealer to have him deliver in the wintry weather at a loss, and then buy your bread needs in the summer when the going is good from the fair weather bread pedlar who never shows up when the weather is bad.

Mrs. Housewife, if you stop and think this over you will see how unfair it is to your dealer. He is in business in your vicinity the year around. He stands the losses during the winter months due to the hard usage his delivery equipment is put to.

He pays taxes and helps support your churches, schools, and town, which the fair weather pedlar does not do. Don't you think it only fair that your dealer should enjoy the privilege of supplying you and your family with the bread, rolls, and doughnuts that you need in the summer time when it is easy for him to get around? The fair weather pedlar deserts you when the going is hard. Why should you support him when the going is easy?

Think it over, Mrs. Housewife, and give your support to your regular dealer. He is worthy of your support the year around. Ask him to send "King Bread"; Home Town Bread, rolls and doughnuts ALL THE YEAR!

Thank You,

Home-Town Bakery, Weymouth, Mass.

Dainty Novelties SUMMER STYLES DISCLOSE for Women's Wear

Collars, Cuffs, Veils and Beads Are Things That Aid Loveliness.

Quite new ideas in neckwear are llustrated in the collars and cuffs. vestees, chemisettes and guimpes shown among the latest things in acessories from Paris, says a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. Colored frills and plaitings are all the rage, and are to be had in unlimited variety, to be worn with one-piece frocks of wool, crepe and cotton. The flaming note of scarlet is introduced as a border or mere line of red on plaited batiste, crepe de chine or chifon by the yard, and done in needlework on the collars, round, square or V-shape.

New collars that are meant to serve s a finish and trimming on a plain iress are of net and lace, tucked batiste or embroidered linen, forming shallow collar in front, a much deeper one at the back. With the plaited leck ruffs of net and lace are cuffs of eep double frills, with a narrow ribbon passed through the middle, to make complete and dainty the long plain sleeve of the new one-piece resses.

Many of the latest collars, dain'lly mbroidered, all white or in colors, are perfectly round, emphasizing the shape of the new frocks for summer.

The latest styles in veils are beautiful and significant as a note in fashions, for the new veils are large, elaborate and fine, and are of such gen erous assortment as to warrant their vogue for some time to come. The nets, dotted and plain, are back and are worn with the close hats-the adapted cloche, toque, tricorn and narrow-brim hat. But the veil that adds distinction to the head and to the whole costume is the scarf of lace or net chiffon.

There are the novelty veils, wide bands of chiffon, or silk mesh veils. chiffon "sports" veils, scarf veils and the Italian lace and the chantilly lace veils. They are all intended to be worn in a flattering drapery about the hat, and to serve as a protection to the face, on occasion.

The newest necklaces are made of "block" beads. They are cut of rock crystal, amethyst, topaz, rose quartz and other semi-precious stones in lovely colors. The edges of the blocks, which in the most striking necklaces are very large, are beveled, and the beads, which resemble dice, are strung together with alternating disks of finely carved clear crystal.

These crystalline stones mal

comes into full bloom-and passes all too soon, when, under compulsion, and reluctantly, it is replaced with more staid and simple headwear that paves the way for autumn. But, while it lasts, the very best of its of erings are all within the choice of the younger matrons. They are privileged to go as far as they like in the direction of intricate and elaborate hats, or to affect simplicity, and "younger matrons" must be construed to include all those who have not yet graduated into the elderly

Black pearls are among the treasures offered in necklaces. They are excellent reproductions of the real thing, but are of such size that the camouflaging effect is quite lost. Even the shades of "black" as they are in real pearls are faithfully copied and are very smart, especially with black satin and black and white crepe gowns.

Lace Evening Gown Is Good for Summer Wear

For the woman who must make every penny count, especially in her expenditures for clothes, there is no more satisfactory purchase than an evening frock of lace for summer. To all appearances a fragile and del icate affair, a lace dress in reality is practical selection. It will stand any amount of wear and does not lose its freshness as a tulle frock is so apt to do.

This season one finds the lace eve ning frock very much among those present. In black it has marked dis tinction. In pale tones of cream and beige it has an elusive charm, while the dress of lace dyed in a pastel shade is extensively featured by several of the most exclusive designers. Delightfully youthful are frocks which have an overdress of fine black chantilly lace mounted over a slip of printed chiffon usually with a white ground and floral motifs.

Now is the time to step on the gas Linoleum for late spring and early summer stuff! Now, or never! Tell 'em what to plant in city gardens: it would surprise you to know how much green stuff is raised by householders (as it should be) even in our greatest cities. This is the season for hardware and naints.

Used cars are in the market, to make way for new ones. Roots need the plumber's attention. Home hunting is the objective of many of the springtime's Sunday afternoon outings.

"I wanted to test you, my boy," said the sly old man; "that is the reason I did not help you. And you have stood the test nobly. I am proud of you. And now, as you have stood the test, I have a proposition to make to you which, I am sure, you will find much to your future advantage. Have a cigar. Come out of the plazza. And, dinner being over, they went out and sat in the dusk on the broad veranda. It was coming now ! What in the "Godfrey," said Esra after a fow puffs of his cigar, "a young man plied Godfrey, "but so far my means a step." "Very right and prudent," said Ezra, "but if you could marry a girl with money now, see what a help that would be to you."

"Hum, yes-I suppose so," was the hesitating reply. "But I should not like to feel myself a dependent upon my wife-if I had one. I should at least like to know that I was making enough money to hold up my end." "Nonsense !" cried the uncle. "What difference does it make if the money is in the family? You haven't a cent and don't seem likely to have. I have a rich wife all picked out for you and I Plans made to cook 4000 pounds of want you to marry her. You mustthat's all there is about it."

"Must, eh?" cried Godfrey, angrily. "May I ask the name of this auriferous female with whom you intend to endow me?"

"Her name," replied old Ezra, "is Martha Bradstreet, and she's my ward. Her father was a business associate of mine. He died about two years ago and left her in my charge by will. She contes into her fortune, which is a very considerable one, when she is twenty-

"Wheel Lock" Guns About 1509 A. D. we find the wheel lock fitted to guns. This lock is wound with a key like a clock. Pulling the trigger releases a wheel, which spins round against a fint or iron pyrites. throwing a string of sparks into the powder pan. That mighty fighter but timit wover, Capt. Miles Standish, brought over two of these guns in the Mayflower, and it is the type of gun shown in conventional pictures of Pilgrim Fathers at heads of families going to "meeting." One striking char-acteristic of the wheel lock gun is its elaborate artistic decoration, which must have prevented any but the very wealthy from ownership. There are some beautiful examples in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York city.

Twain and Jane Aus'en

Robert Underwood Johnson, who was ssociate and editor in chief of the Century magazine for 40 years, and later ambassador to Italy, knew Mark Twain well. In his book, "Remembered Yesterdays," he relates this fine example .of the humorist's double-barreled wit. The discussion had turned on the literary merits of Jane Austen's books.

"Jane Austen's?" Mark Twain said ontemptuously. "Why, I go so far as to say that any library is a good ilbrary that does not contain a volume by Jane Austen." And when his auditors had had time to appreciate this, he added: "Even if it contains no other book."

LEGION FIELD DAY

Weymouth Post No. 79, A. L., is again planning a wonderful show for July 12, their fourth annual field day As in the past this field day is looked forward to as one of the big events of the season for Weymouth. After four years of experience in staging House lots for sale in a restricted such a large affair, it is only logical Our friends will find about the 4t,23,26 in the past, only "better than ever". Baseball, horse racing, automobile show, dancing, vaudeville, band con-A bargain, one sideboard, dining cert, attractive midway, fireworks de disting to make clear that the rice of admission will be 25 cents, children under 12 admitted free. Automobiles will be admitted and parked for the nominal charge of 25 cents. Unfortunately, some of our friends misinterpreted our charge last year and were somewhat peeved at the admission as arranged by the committee. There is no chance for confusion this year. Twenty-five cents admits you to the big show as scheduled. You can come in at noon and stay until midnight.
