ELECTION DELAYS N. M. D. A. OPENING

Session Opens With Record Number of Delegates at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—With a record number of delegates here to attend the thirteenth annual session of the Northern Minnesota Development Association, the gathering was called to order at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon by President John F. McLaughlin of Keewauwin. The opening was postponed this morning because of the inclement weather shown by delegates in the election returns.

C. C. McCarthy, on behalf of Grand Rapids, extended the welcome of the city to the delegates. Principal feature of the opening was the annual report of M. N. Hill of Cass Lake, secretary of the association, and addressed by A. J. McQuinn, former superintendent of the North Central experimental station, J. B. Gillison, J. H. Hay and Carolyn Avery.

This evening the delegates will be entertained at a big banquet at the Laxton hall, splendid musical programs are planned in addition.

The opening last evening of the industrial exposition held under the auspices of the Grand Rapids Commercial club in connection with the Development Association meeting, has been a center of attraction. The display is complete in every detail and depicts the progress of Itaska county and its resources.

KOLL REVIEWS WORK OF N. M. D. A. FOR YEAR

Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. N. Koll of Cass Lake, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development Association, which opened here today, reviewed the work of the association during the past season and recommended that serious consideration be given the question of taxation of privately owned lands which may be used for reforestation in his annual report. In part the report follows:

"In reviewing the work of the association for the past year briefly, I call your attention to the fact that through the efforts of the association there have been established stations for the marketing of summer picking crops in seven different towns this year. Arrangements are perfected for continuing this work and assuring the best of a market for more towns in the near future.

"The providing of a market for this crop furnishes to several thousand people the opportunity to realize a cash income in the several communities of which almost equal to the cash received from their butterfat. I have to report with regret that in an area of approximately 150 square miles in Northern Minnesota, the 1922 season was the driest during the growing season for many years. An analysis of the cucumber crop indicates that the crop this year was scarcely 20 per cent normal.

"I want to call the attention of the association to the problem which seems to me to be right in the offing and will be up for solution in the near future, after to the question of taxation of lands privately owned which may be used for reforestation. Since there are large areas in Northern Minnesota, which may eventually be used for this purpose on account of unfitness for agricultural purposes and the question of the use of taxes will be a great one, I submit that careful study should be made of it by this association, and that until such study has been made and reported upon, that the members of the legislature from Northern Minnesota be asked to proceed cautiously.

"It is my sad duty to advise you that the association has again lost by death one of its early members, refer to the death a few days ago, of Hon. Cyrus M. King of Deer River, who was president of this association from December, 1912, to 1915. I want to record here for your attention the fact that it was Mr. King who, together with Daniel Shaw of Thief River Falls and the writer of this report, offered the first resolution in favor of a trunk highway system for Minnesota. He was on a subcommittee with Mr. Shaw and myself, which reported this resolution to the full resolutions committee and secured its eventual adoption.

"I recall very well indeed when I returned to my home town after this action, and the business men upbraided this committee, which made it rather personal to myself. The business men in question were then very much opposed to the idea of trunk line highways. They wanted radiating lines to the farmers from the towns—and to hell with these half-brained schemes for trunk line highways. I remember that I frequently compared notes on the comments which were made and remarked, 'What a bunch of fools you will find a whole lot of fellows claiming the idea as their own. It will be the biggest set of ten years.' I leave it to you men, many of whom were present at the meeting, to determine whether or not we do not owe a debt of gratitude for the idea of trunk line highways to our departed friend and co-worker.

Hay Praised N. M. D. A. (By the Associated Press.)
Grand Rapids, Minn., Nov. 8.—Members of the Northern Minnesota Development Association, "who above all others, have unselfishly and persistently pressed the claims of the North country for public recognition, should be heartened by the more enduring and gratifying prospect," Mr. W. H. Hay, deputy state commissioner of agriculture, told delegates attending the annual fall meeting of the association here this afternoon.

Citing that their efforts, "which at times appeared hopeless, are now being crowned with success," Mr. Hay asserted that "related to these activities will always be the development of the great industry of diversified agriculture." "This," he said, "will give character and color and stability to this territory and will naturally stimulate and benefit every other industry with which it may become associated."

Calling attention to "the advantages and opportunities afforded for home-making in the North country," the speaker cited as definite assets "the St. Lawrence deep waterway route and all which this implies to Agriculture in this section, the apparent permanency of the iron industry in Northern Minnesota, the wonderful prospects for development of the tourist business, the establishment of a strong sentiment in favor of a vigorous public domain and forestry policy by the state, all of which have gripped public attention in a large way."

Farm Development Sound.
"Northern Minnesota farm development," said Mr. Hay, "is based upon sound farm management principles. In other words, the conditions which naturally accompany the development of farm homes in the wooded portions of the state compel the settler to adopt and follow a diversified farm program. He gets started right, and that is quite a part of the battle."

Declaring that "the experience of 1922 in the North country naturally suggest several activities which are closely related to development movements," Mr. Hay outlined these "activities" in part as follows:

1. It is essential that a broad and vigorous forest policy should be immediately adopted in the state. All the scattered forces directly or indirectly under control of state authorities should, when necessary, be mobilized to control fire hazards and as a protection to life and property.

The land classification project now being administered by the state department of agriculture with the cooperation of the Federal authorities should be extended so as to complete the task of classification at an early date. Reforestation and private lands should follow immediately upon the land classification. A soil survey might well be made a part of the classification movement.

2. California has capitalized its winter climate and accompanying attractions to the extent that a tremendous volume of money is distributed in that state by tourist ventures. In similar fashion enterprising citizens of Northern Minnesota are effectively placing before the tourists of the Minneapolis valley the attractiveness of Northern Minnesota as a summer and fall camp ground. The income from this enterprise will assume such large proportions that every settler, professional citizen and business man will become beneficiaries of the movement. Attention should be directed to the necessity of preserving the wild life of both woods and waters.

3. The Northern settler is undercapitalized. A credit system carrying amortization loans on long-term payments and at low interest rates is required to provide the essential improvements in the field, buildings and stock which will insure a profit on farm operations. Favorable action on the proposed Amendment No. 1 will accomplish this. Further, it is hoped that congressional action this winter will provide farming with a credit to correspond with the farm turnover.

4. Taxation is a burning issue everywhere in the state. Agriculture is hardest hit when taxes are levied and this despite the fact that agriculture is somewhat, as against other property, favored when assessments are made. Equalization of taxation in Minnesota is a subject worthy of the attention and study of all patriotic citizens.

OLYMPIC GAMES ESTABLISHED 776 B. C.
Dateline News: The Olympic games were a series of athletic contests in ancient Greece, celebrated every fourth year in honor of Zeus, at Olympia in Elis. They were instituted, according to tradition, by Hercules, and although established in very early time did not become a truly national festival until 776 B. C. The games at first comprised chariot races, foot races, boxing, wrestling, leaping, running, etc., but after 456 B. C. dramas were prepared and works of art exhibited in addition. The victors were crowned with garlands of olive twigs, cut from a sacred tree, and were welcomed home with triumphant processions. The festival of the Olympic games was abolished by Emperor Theodosius I in 394 A. D. The Olympic games have been successfully revived as an international contest in the present century.

JOSHUA AND AN OLD LEGEND OF THE STEER
Kansas City Star: The Talmud and all Jewish chronicles bear witness that Joshua was a very big man. He was so big that there wasn't a mule in all Israel strong enough to stand up under his weight—to say nothing of carrying him on a forced march. When the twelve tribes came to the entrance to the Promised Land there was a scurrying about to find an animal strong enough to carry the leader over to Jericho. But none could be found. Every kind of four-footed animal was brought up to him and all discarded as no good. At last, Dan, the Adder in the Path, led up a likely young steer and presented him to Joshua.

The steer's back was strong, and it carried the warrior seven times around the beleaguered city without flinching. Joshua was so pleased with the honest behavior of his steed that when the walls of the city had fallen, he sprang from the animal's back and in the exuberance of warlike joy rushed to its head and, in Oriental manner, kissed it on the nose. Since then no steer has ever had any hair on its nose.

DON QUIXOTE, PHRASEMAKER. Indianapolis News: "I have other ish to fry," is a novel phrasing of the thought that one has other things to do beside the one proposed by the questioner. It was uttered by the Mad Knight Don Quixote—immortal hero of the novel by that name, which had for its purpose the ridiculing of knight errantry, and the glorious days of chivalry. Cervantes makes his hero read romance and adventure into everything he sees during his journeys through a prosaic countryside, and as a result some painful experiences befall the knight. Don Quixote's memorable tilt with the windmills is a classic story of literature, and the naive way he explains after the unfortunate tilt, that they were knights when he attacked them, but that an evil influence converted them into windmills to avert defeat and humiliate him, is laughable to the last degree.

WINTER WORK WILL SPEED GOOD ROADS

Babcock Continues Plan to Give Work When Most Needed.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 8.—Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, today announced a program of winter work on the trunk highways, covering more than 160 miles of gravel surfacing, some grading, improvements, and several new bridges. Highway work is to be pushed as far as conditions will permit under a plan to put the newly improved sections in the best shape by spring, according to John H. Mullen, assistant commissioner and chief highway engineer.

The winter program of highway work is in line with the policy inaugurated last year to furnish employment to farmers and teams when it is most needed in many localities. The plan is to have the work done by the labor of more than 1,000 men and teams or proportionate numbers of tractors and trucks during the winter or part of the winter. They are to be undertaken following knowledge last winter that snow and ice made it impossible to carry on the work of the highway department during the winter months.

WOLVES BOLD, KILL SHEEP IN DAYLIGHT; FARMERS PLAN HUNT

Coudray, Wis., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald).—Farmers in the Metcalf settlement, ten miles southwest of here, report stock damage from timber wolves worse this fall than ever known of before since they located in that section.

H. C. Bruase, Chris Zercher, Joe Echele and George Oro have lost in all ten sheep this fall that were killed by the wolves. The animals are very bold, come out in the clearing in broad daylight and kill their sheep. Chris Zercher shot one wolf while standing on the door step and killed him. The large timber wolf had killed the sheep in a few seconds, tearing him open and devouring the heart and part of the lungs before he was shot.

The farmers in that section are planning to make a concentrated effort in getting the animals cleaned out, will make an old-time wolf hunt and cover a wide territory and attempt to rid the locality of the animals.

HEAR KEREKJARTO. TO Jeno Hubay, the famous maestro of Budapest, the violin is a thing with a soul. To be accepted as his pupil is a recognition of unusual talent, for the aged master will not traffic with less. Some fifteen years ago Duci de Kerekjarto, a little Hungarian boy of seven, his violin under his arm, was led before the great Hubay. The maestro listened and when the studio doors closed on the departing visitors, Kerekjarto and his fiddle remained. Two years ago musical New York assembled at Carnegie Hall to be entertained. The occasion was the American debut of a new violinist. They awoke to the fact that this youth, fresh from uninterrupted successes throughout Europe, had his fingers on their heart-strings, across which he drew his bow with sudden transitions from fire to romantic sentiment. At the end of the recital the audience stormed the platform. Kerekjarto is playing this week at the Orpheum Theater Under the management of the Orpheum Circuit. TO hear him is to listen to one of the violinistic wonders of this generation. Master of a miraculous technique, he seems to use it only as a means, never as a mere display of skill. While Kerekjarto has amazed his thousands in appearances throughout the country, he has played his way into the hearts of tens of thousands through the medium of Columbia Records. When you have heard Kerekjarto, go to a Columbia Dealer and listen to this young wizard of the violin again. As examples of his best ask for the following selections: Serenata, Op. 15, No. 1. 79749 Souvenir (Drdla). 79708 Nocturne, D Flat Major, Op. 27. 49901 Romanza Andaluza. 49900 To these records Kerekjarto has given the utmost of his genius. As Columbia has recorded them they are the real violin vibrating under Kerekjarto's marvelous touch; lustrous in tone with all this great artist's dynamics and emotion. Kerekjarto makes records exclusively for Columbia. COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE COMPANY, New York

TEACHING DULUTH FIRST AID SYSTEM

Capt. Hyatt, Red Cross
Life-Saving Director, Organizing Classes.

Failure on the part of onlookers to render first aid caused the unnecessary deaths of 2,500 swimmers in the United States last year, according to Capt. C. A. Hyatt, director of the Red Cross life-saving department, who addressed a gathering of representatives from local organizations at a meeting this noon at the Chamber of Commerce.

Because of the fact that most of the people have no knowledge whatever of first-aid work, especially for drowning persons, Capt. Hyatt announced that the Red Cross has instituted a national campaign of education.

"We propose to organize first-aid classes everywhere and educate every man, woman and child in the United States so that they can be of service to one another," said Capt. Hyatt.

Forming Special Classes.

Those who attended the meeting this noon included representatives from the police and fire departments, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Boat Club and the Boy and Girl Scout organizations. These representatives were instructed in first-aid work and then directed in the formation of classes within their own organizations. Later classes will be formed among the older school children of the city, Capt. Hyatt said.

In Chicago the Red Cross has created a special examining board that gives first-aid tests for those desirous of receiving life-saving certificates from the chapter of that city. This has stimulated interest in the various courses, especially among the Junior

Red Cross members of the city. In addition, a Red Cross corps has been organized of all the men and women, who have successfully passed the board examinations.

In addition to the first-aid taught the general public, the Red Cross has established schools in factories, mills, department stores and shops in Chicago, Capt. Hyatt said.

Capt. Hyatt plans to remain in Duluth for several days, after which he will make a tour of the range towns. The local demonstration and meeting and the range tour were arranged by George H. Crosby, chairman of the Duluth chapter.

HUNT FOR BODY OF BROWN GIVEN UP

Iron Mountain, Mich., Nov. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—All hope of finding the body of George K. Brown, who was lost off Fox Island in Lake Michigan when a launch capsized, has been given up, and vessels engaged in the search have left the scene of the accident. Two men who were with Mr. Brown and came out safely in the battle with the heavy sea have recovered from their trying ordeal and returned to work.

Mrs. Fredericks was WORRIED

And no wonder! Visitors were coming out that afternoon and the old, old problem had come up again—"What shall I serve for refreshments?"

For the last party, she had worked feverishly all morning and had served an elaborate luncheon. She didn't mind the work so much, although it did leave her nervous and excited. But it was so expensive! And somehow, the afternoon had seemed stiff and formal—so different from the party at Mrs. Bradley's.

"What is it that makes everyone feel at home at the Bradleys?" she mused. Then suddenly—an idea! "Yes, yes; that must be it," she said to herself. "I'll serve the same sort of a luncheon."

Never had there been such a happy party as Mrs. Fredericks gave that afternoon. "I have learned something," she told her husband later. "The secret of successful entertaining is to serve good Coffee and plenty of it. Good Coffee, with something simple like sandwiches and cake, seems to suit most people much better than an elaborate collation without Coffee. There is something about Coffee that makes everybody feel at home."

FAVORS NEUTRAL ZONE IN THRACE

Roumanian Believes It Would Preserve Peace in the Balkans.

By A. R. DECKER.
(Special Cable to The Duluth Herald and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1922.)
Bukares, Roumania, Nov. 8.—John Duca, foreign minister of Roumania, told the correspondent today that he favors forming a neutral zone in Thrace between the Turks and the Bulgars for the purpose of preserving the peace in the Balkans. At the Near East conference several states, probably including the Little Entente, will intervene to carry through the project of a neutral zone either under the control of the League of Nations or neutralized as an independent region.
"Roumania," says Minister Duca, "is imbued with a great desire for peace with all countries. We have realized our national unity and have nothing further to claim. We would be glad to demobilize the army and reduce the heavy financial burden caused by the army expenditures but it is impossible for Roumania alone to demobilize. We cannot reduce the army without first obtaining guarantees against aggression. As we have already started a reduction of armaments conference in Moscow but it is useless to discuss the reduction of armaments before we know which line Russia considers to be the frontier between Russia and Roumania. Therefore, we made the condition that Russia must first recognize all present frontiers and I forbore difficulties on that score."
"We have an alliance with Poland but it is only a defensive alliance because we wish peace and all our interests call for peace while we build up our country and consolidate the national unity. Roumania's attitude at Lausanne will be clear. We will intervene for the liberty of the straits for this is of vital importance in our economic and political life. We also have an interest in preventing a direct frontier between Bulgaria and Turkey."
"The Little Entente was organized purely as a defensive group and its purpose is to maintain peace. It has no other aim. The members are associated to work for the common good and to maintain the peace upon which our internal consolidation and political future depends. I believe it is for the good of the whole of Europe, especially in this time of unrest, to have in the center of Europe such a factor of solidarity and peace."

Prof. W. E. Peterson of University of Minnesota demonstrating nose print operation.

If "Teasie," the family bossy, has wayward spells and is prone to stay out late at night, take some prints of her nose and peddle them around so neighbors can identify Teasie when she visits them. The "nose print" idea, taken from the fingerprint system of identifying crooks, is being used by the state of Minnesota to identify cows being tested for milk records.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.
Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.
Just rub it on with your finger tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.
Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 25c and 65c in jars and tubes.
Better than a mustard plaster.

The evenness of performance so often remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

A trained staff of 800 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5285 individual inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation either in workmanship or material is instantly discovered and rejected.

Late Arrived Chiffon Velvets

Very attractive are the new Chiffon Velvet Dresses, and the showings of this material are at their best now. It is beginning to be difficult to secure dresses of good chiffon velvet. In fact, it is doubtful if late arrivals will equal those which we now have.

The styles are charming. The dresses are many of them trimmed with filet at neck and cuff, and decked with dainty bits of gold and silver brocading. Touches of fur add distinction to others, while some depend upon long panels lined with silver cloth to establish their claim to fashionable favor.

Beyond a doubt this is the best time to buy chiffon velvets.

Poirot Twills Are Also New

Pleasant draped models, designed with the touches of extra care and good taste that distinguish the models of genuine quality—are newly come.

The last arrivals favor the full skirt though some prefer panels. Three-quarter or longer sleeves are flaring at the cuff and trimmed with braid and stitching.

Pricings always moderate.

GREAT DANGER OF STRIFE CONTINUES

Russian Leader Sees Menace From Japs in Vladivostok.

By F. A. MACMURDO. (Special cable to The Duluth Herald and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1922.) Moscow, Nov. 8.—Despite the Russian proclamation at Vladivostok the situation in the Far East today presents great dangers of international strife. That was the view emphasized to one writer in an interview with Foreign Minister Tchitcherin.

"A strong Japanese force still lies in Vladivostok harbor," he said. "White guards backed by Japan with arms, ammunition and men still occupy Manchuria, particularly in the rich northern regions of that province. They stand facing us across the banks of the Amur river and their positions and activities may bring on a conflict at any time."

"Various positions along the coast, such as Dairen, are now occupied by mixed forces of Japanese and whites. The Japanese question is one of supreme importance for Russia as the country occupying Northern Manchuria will dominate the Amur provinces and Eastern Siberia. Northern Siberia remains unoccupied by the Far Eastern republic. Japan, however, refuses to evacuate it and is strengthening her hold there by every form of military preparation."

"Supporting by Japanese. Our government is establishing good relations with the Far East government which stands close to them. We feel that with Gen. Chang Tsiang, who rules Manchuria, our position is different. It is no secret that Japan is supporting him in many ways."

"Old Japanese friends, the correspondent inquired, 'write assuringly that Japan has abandoned her dreams of imperialist expansion and is now making serious efforts to establish friendly relations with her neighbor, your government. Your experience evidently does not confirm this?'"

"Japanese friends," replied Mr. Tchitcherin, "while able to bring about certain surface modifications of the situation, they have been ineffectually trying to curb Japan's military spirit. Japan, while apparently abandoning her idea of a white empire, concentrates her strength upon holding various important positions strategically well over. Before peace can be fully established Japan must surrender Northern Siberia to its real owner and the white guards must be cleared out of Manchuria."

"And when peace is established, what will follow?" the correspondent asked.

"Industrial development. First, there must be big industrial developments. With the restoration of peace and a good government there will be a big demand for manufactured goods. Russia alone cannot supply them, for we do not manufacture much for ourselves. The natural country, from which we would like to import, is Eastern Siberia, which is the United States. We look next for American cooperation in developing the enormous, unworked natural resources of these great areas. We cannot expect to develop these by ourselves alone. In concessions in Northern Siberia is an example of the business opportunities we shall have to offer. We do not propose to abandon the same system of state monopolies in Eastern Siberia as now exists in Russia. Conditions there are different and similar opportunities will be afforded to big American business enterprises."

"Commissions and boards appointed by our government are already conducting the problems involved in developing the country. Several issues were, for example, what are we to do with the different monopolies granted by the old czarist regime and by the white guards during their temporary occupation? It is hardly to be expected that the concessions granted by the white guards will be recognized. Our aim is to occupy the land belonging to us, establish a stable government there and then invite the aid of Americans and others to develop their resources."

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—bilious look to your face—bulging eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you to eat per se but he excludes causes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to cleanse the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for natural, new gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 50c.

NEW CHAPTER IN ITALIAN HISTORY

Revolt a Sweeping Movement Against Clique of Opportunists.

By MARIO BORSA.
(Special Cable to The Duluth Herald and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1922.)
Milan, Nov. 8.—It was not a revolution. It was something less and something more. In a sense it was a ministerial crisis with arms in hand. In another sense it was a bloodless battle against the old governing classes. There is no doubt that, either for the best or the worst, a new chapter in Italian history has begun.

In its first period Fascism was a legitimate reaction against the criminal follies of Italian Bolshevism and it saved Italy from Leninist dangers. In its second period it was a class movement of manufacturers and agrarians directed not so much against Bolshevism as against all legitimate forms of labor organization. In its third and last period it was undoubtedly a sweeping national movement or revolt against a clique of insipid opportunists who did not know how to govern the country.

The first impression one has from the declarations of Benito Mussolini, the new premier, is that he intends to inaugurate a policy of retrenchment in the interior, to restore the financial balance and to improve economic conditions. He will have to impose heavy taxes and hard sacrifices on all classes of people but he seems determined to do so. In his foreign policy he shows here doubts that Mussolini will show a full sense of his great responsibility. The high words and phrases used in his articles and speeches are chiefly intended for home consumption.

Friendly Collaboration.
He declares that he will not pursue an adventurous foreign policy and according to the Corriere della Sera he wishes to establish relations with Jugoslavia on a basis of friendly collaboration. There is no question as to abrogation of the existing treaties and Count Stora's resignation as ambassador to France reflects only the count's general divergence of views from those held by Mussolini and must not be interpreted as indicating a possible change in Italy's relations with France.

LACK OF EMIGRATION BRINGS DEPRESSION

By WILLIAM E. NASH.
(Special Cable to The Duluth Herald and Chicago Daily News. Copyright, 1922.)
Geneva, Nov. 8.—Local connection exists between lack of emigration and business depression. Continuance of the present unemployment menace threatens the very foundation of industrial nations like Great Britain, Germany and Belgium. The existence of this new aspect of the industrial problem, as well as ways in which to meet it, is one of the pressing objects for consideration before the international labor conference.

The overcrowded states as a rule are industrial states. Brains, energetic young men, who before the war emigrated in the New World in search of economic advancement are now unwillingly kept at home through various causes, such as depreciated currency, political pride and restrictions on the right of immigration. They add to the discontent always simmering in the Old World, and they contribute directly to unemployment by taking work out of the hands of less capable competitors.

In immigration countries like Canada, Australia and the United States, on the other hand, the tendency toward labor shortages, caused by the decrease in immigration, is held to boost wages, put up prices and play a part in so-called consumers' strikes, of which the world has heard so much in the last few years.

Proof that European nations consider emigration a partial remedy for depression is said to be contained in the British imperial emigration

Does Every Day Bring the Same Old Backache?

Are You Lame and Stiff; Worn-Out and Discouraged? It's Time, Then, You Looked to Your Kidneys.

ARE you dragging around, day after day, with a dull, throbbing backache? Do you feel old and slow, tired-out and dispirited? Do you wonder why you are so miserable—so utterly lacking in vim and vitality?

"Use Doan's," Say These Duluth Folks:

Y. M. LEVINE, Prop. Second-Hand Store, 709 West Superior Street, Says: "Heavy lifting started my kidney trouble. My back got so lame I couldn't get about to my work and was laid up for several weeks. I had dull headaches and dizziness and my kidneys were inactive. I had large circles beneath my eyes. Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Smith & Smith's Drug Store, cured me. I have had no return of the trouble." (Statement given on Sept. 20, 1919.)
On July 26, 1921, Mr. Levine said: "I am free from kidney trouble due to using Doan's Kidney Pills."

MRS. JOHN DESROCHES, 2520 West Second Street, Says: "My back became tired and pained and the first thing in the morning I knew Doan's Kidney Pills had helped a friend and that prompted me to use them. It has never taken more than a few Doan's to rid me of kidney trouble and cure the attack so that I am not troubled for a month or so again. I think there is nothing like Doan's Kidney Pills."

Quaker Oats won their world-wide fame through flavor. They dominate all the earth over, because people love that flavor. They are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. We get ten pounds of these luscious flakes from a bushel of choice oats.

Instant Quaker is flaked from the same queen grains. But the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

OW that it has become fairly well established that skirts will be somewhat shorter for the winter, probably powers that be in the dress industry are wondering about the waistline of the new season's modes.

The straightened waistline has struck the fancy of the American woman, and she has given its freedom and comfort evident approval.

"For several seasons she has swished around with never a thought of whether she was a perfect 36 or a robust 42," he continued.

"The waistline has meant little or nothing in her daily attention to dress. For the most part, the fact of its location on the waistline has not been established, but common acceptance places it at what is normally considered the hipline. This is about four or five inches below what would have been considered the normal waistline a few years ago.

"But mutterings from Paris hint that the present order of things may be changed for next season. If that prophecy is borne out, the future waistlines will be more clearly defined and the willow waists of recent years may represent fashion's fancy for a dame and miss when the rolins chirp early in 1923.

"Just what size a normal 26-inch waist should be is a question. It is safe to assume, however, that it will not reduce to eighteen inches as in former days. There are indications enough of the straightening effect in the new modes to satisfy the universal demand for comfort. The old tight-fitting, laced-up will not supplant twentieth century styles, so American women need not worry.

"But where will the line be? That question is to be decided shortly. We cannot predict whether all women will be short waisted or long waisted or normal waisted. We are inclined to believe, however, that the waistline, now at the hipline, will be raised somewhat and that the figure will be slightly corrected so as to permit the draping of the dress, from bust to some degree.

"In the dress industry, he is the style what it may. I am confident of vastly improved business conditions in 1923, and designers are already preparing themselves for a good season. Some of the early numbers are about ready, and designers are working on others. The latest dresses from Paris, however, have not come over, and designers are marking time before making up their complete lines."—New York Times.

CHAPTER III. Vanishing Hazel Nuts.

Jack and Janet had plenty of fine, big hickory nuts to crack before the fire on winter evenings, but they wanted hazel nuts and walnuts as well.

"Where can we find hazel nuts?" said Janet to Jack.

"I don't know," I never saw a hazel nut tree," replied Jack.

"Let us go into the woods to find one," suggested Janet.

So they mounted their ponies and set out to find a hazel nut tree. They kept their eyes upward, but not tree did they see bearing hazel nuts.

"I don't believe there are any hazel nuts in this woods," said Jack at last. "I can see plenty of hickory trees, but not a single hazel nut tree."

Just then Hoppy-Hop Rabbit darted out of a bush into the path of Trixie, Jack's pony. Trixie was startled, she stopped short. Jack's eyes were up in the trees. He hadn't seen Hoppy-Hop Rabbit! He didn't know Trixie was going to stop.

So when Trixie set her feet suddenly, with a snort of alarm, Jack went right on over Trixie's head and flew into the bush from which Hoppy-Hop had darted.

"Oh, my goodness, are you hurt?" cried Jack. But Jack wasn't hurt. The bush had broken the force of his fall. This Janet began to laugh. Jack really had looked funny when he pitched over Trixie's head into the bush. But she had not felt like laughing until she knew Jack was not hurt.

Jack didn't mind Janet's laughing. He was ready to laugh himself. "As he got up he noticed something interesting about the bush into which he had fallen.

"Look at these little purses hanging from this bush!" he said. "I wonder what is in them?"

"Open one and see," said Janet. So Jack opened one of the purses, and what was his surprise to find therein a hazel nut.

"My, that is queer to find a hazel nut in that place," said Janet. "How did it get there?"

"Then Jack began to laugh. "I guess it grew there," he said.

"Can that be a hazel nut tree?" asked Janet.

"No, but it is a hazel nut bush. I remember now that hazel nuts grow on bushes and not on trees," said Jack. "While we were looking up in the trees we might have been passing by lots of hazel nut bushes."

Jack and Janet gathered all the nuts from the bush and galloped home with them. They found the nut that had got out of the little purses.

"You can get the nuts out better if you use the husks," advised Jack's father.

So Jack and Janet put the nuts out on the roof of the woodshed so the husks could dry.

But the next morning when they went to get some nuts to crack, what was their surprise to find half the nuts gone. Someone had taken them while the children slept.

Who could it be?

(Tomorrow's chapter will tell how the thief who has taken their hazel nuts.)

Jack went right on.

Jack really had looked funny when he pitched over Trixie's head into the bush. But she had not felt like laughing until she knew Jack was not hurt.

Jack didn't mind Janet's laughing. He was ready to laugh himself. "As he got up he noticed something interesting about the bush into which he had fallen.

"Look at these little purses hanging from this bush!" he said. "I wonder what is in them?"

NIGHT FOOTBALL TEAM TO PLAY THE KELLEY-DULUTHS

ORE DIGGERS TO MAKE BIG DRIVE FOR STATE TITLE

Great Mesaba Range Eleven Coming Loaded for Battle.

DULUTH IS READY

Players Are All in Good Shape and Rearing for Action.

By HEMLOCK PETERSON.
The Hibbing All-stars, the greatest collection of football talent ever assembled on the Mesaba range and a team which is seriously in the lead for the Northwestern professional grid title now held by the Mesaba Range, will come here Sunday to meet the Kelley-Duluth eleven in a contest which will be staged at Athletic park, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Hibbing was sent a victory here several weeks back when they lost to the Kelley-Duluths in the hardest-fought game staged here this season. Duluth was unable to cross the Hibbing goal line, but Hilbert, fullback of the Kelley-Duluths, a couple of weeks ago, was the hero of the game. Hilbert is coming here next Sunday with the same strong lineup which they used against the Kelley-Duluths and which led the St. Paul team to the title last Sunday on the Mesaba range. The Kelley-Duluths will be in center, St. Paul and Mesaba will be on the flanks. Hilbert and Hilbert will take care of the ends. Russ Spaulding, captain of the Kelley-Duluths, will be the best tackle ever seen in this area. Hilbert, one of the finest players in the Mesaba range, will be in the center. Hilbert is playing the end of the line in the center of the Mesaba range. Hilbert will be in the center of the Mesaba range. Hilbert will be in the center of the Mesaba range.

MINNESOTA TEAM UPSET DOPE

IOWA TUSSLE

Gophers Will Make Hard Fight Against Hawk-eyes.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 8.—With a chance to gain national fame by upsetting the dope and coming through with a victory over the undefeated Iowa team Saturday at Iowa City, Bill Spaulding and his Gophers are ready to stake all. The Gopher coach, displeased with the playing of his team Saturday against Wisconsin sent his squad through another strenuous workout yesterday.

Election day, a holiday at the university, gave Spaulding the opportunity to put in a full afternoon's work. He ordered the players to report an hour earlier. With two weeks in which to get ready for Michigan, Spaulding has practically decided to "shoot all" in the Iowa game. The Gophers have forgotten the Wisconsin game, they are looking forward to the chance to try conclusions with the Hawkeyes.

NEW CHAMPION'S GRAVING BATTLE

Mickey Walker is Not Keen for Acting and Writing.

By PAUL PLAY.
By Special Leased Wire to The Duluth Herald, Copyright, 1922.
New York, Nov. 8.—"Sure I'll fight Dave mixed any time he wants to meet me," said Mickey Walker today. "No, you won't," said manager Hugo. "There is a lot of other fellows waiting attention just now. Shady will come in his turn." "Well, no right," replied the water king with most unbecomingly humility. "I've been thinking of the water king for some time. I'm going to do a vaudeville turn and writing for the papers." "You may be champion at the writing game," says Mickey, "but what I mean my name to I write. Mickey that's a record at that. Here is my writing up of the Wlenert-Fitz battle." "Well, reader, read it yourself and give an opinion." "This champ stuff has got me dizzy. ## Head-of-the-Lakes All Conference High School Football Elevens

By SANDY MACDONALD.

While the picking of all-star teams, either in football or baseball, usually results in a grand guessing contest, in choosing representatives our best judgment for an All-Head-of-the-Lakes conference eleven, there is less question but what every player who has been named for the first team will feel that the selection has been well made while there will surely be some on the second team who will reason they should be in the first division.

The railroads had 8,693 cars at lake front Tuesday morning and 4,290 cars in transit. Shipments of anthracite coal for October were 487,410 tons, making the movement for the season 546,843 tons. In October last year the fleet loaded 417,483 tons of anthracite and the movement for the season up to Nov. 1 was 3,066,121 tons. One carrier is not spending much time in port at this end of the route, although there is a shortage of cars. The docks handled sixteen cargoes Monday and placed 1,618 tons on shore. Thirteen boats were in port yesterday morning with eight due by 7 o'clock and eleven due by 10 o'clock during the next twenty-four hours. The upper lake docks loaded thirty-four cargoes Monday.

Is Your Hair Now "Looking Its Best"?

How to Restore Beauty Lost During the Summer—At No Season of the Year Is It So Necessary to Give the Scalp Proper Treatment.

By Doris Doscher
Copyright, 1932

Have you noticed in the fall of the year how all of the animals shed their coats? Nature is preparing them for the coming winter by ridding them of a summer fur so that the new fur will be thicker, warmer and a better protection for the chilly winter. This is a universal law in all of the animal kingdom, and to a certain extent we also go through seasonal changes.

I have been trying to help you get rid of some of the ravages of summer and I want to put your mind at ease in regard to your hair because so many of you seem so distressed because your hair seems to be falling out so rapidly. There is no cause for worry if the comb shows a large amount of hair, provided you see at the same time new hairs taking their place. It is only when the hair that comes out is not replaced by a new growth that there is possibility of the thinning of the hair or permanent baldness.

At no season of the year is it so necessary for you to give your scalp the proper treatment as it is at this time. Many of you in your ardor to be expert swimmers have allowed the salt water to remain in your hair after the swim, and now find that your hair looks faded, that the ends are splitting and it has lost its glossiness. But a little attention to the scalp will soon remedy this.

There is nothing so stimulating to the growth of the hair and so encouraging to the natural functioning of the oil cells as massage. A few minutes spent each night before retiring in massaging the scalp will well repay you by glossiness, increased growth and, best of all, the retarding of the appearance of gray hairs.

Examine your hair carefully, and if the ends are split and the hairs seem coarse and lack luster, apply just a few drops of olive oil or liquid vaseline to the scalp. I do not mean to grease the hair, but to use a drop of oil directly on the scalp, and when you do the massage use a motion that loosens the scalp and not merely rubs the hair.

Brushing has a wonderfully stimulating effect and the added advantage of removing all dust from the hair as well. On the other hand, if you find that your hair is excessively oily and seems to give the effect of being plastered to the scalp, try lifting the hair as you run the comb through it so as to give it a chance to ventilate and dry.

This gives a fluffiness to the hair. The hair, like a mirror, reflects the general condition of the body. And so you've really got to keep yourself in good trim if you wish to have locks that crown the hair in a fluffy mass as they frame the face. Even so, the hair grows around the face means so much in giving expression and character. Each one of you should study your own hair line and arrange your hair so as to bring out its best points.

During the summer in light, fluffy clothes these things were not so noticeable, but now that we have adjusted ourselves in autumn garb it is the hair that gives expression and character. Each one of you should study your own hair line and arrange your hair so as to bring out its best points.

Of course no hair can look pretty if there is the slightest indication of dandruff. This is so easily got rid of that no well-groomed woman should tolerate its remaining on the scalp.

Not every one of us is fortunate enough to be born with perfect features or a classical contour, but the plainest face is made attractive if the hair is healthy, well-groomed and tastefully arranged. In fact, she will far outshine her pretty sister who thinks she can afford to neglect her hair because of her natural beauty and color.

Fred Fernot: Good night, kidnap!

Fred Kidnapper: Not one that but you're 5000 feet up in the air and still going.

Fred Fernot: What, all ready?
2nd Kidnapper: That's a pretty good of a balloon.

Fred Kidnapper: None of your party, please.

Fred Kidnapper: Do you think your father will pay much ransom?
Fred Fernot: Not a cent, I'm mad at me just now. You'll just have all the expense of feeding me.

2nd Kidnapper: Feeding you nothing. If we don't get $1000 ransom in 3 days, you'll never be saw alive again to man or beast.

Fred Fernot: Hay, hay, you're going to bump into that steeple. Hay, hay.

Fred Kidnapper: Well, haff to throw out some ballast.

2nd Kidnapper: Holy smoke, we ain't got any to throw. We forgot the ballast.

Fred Fernot: Then you'll haff to throw me out.

Fred Kidnapper: Throw him out, Bill.

2nd Kidnapper: He's out, Al.

Fred Fernot: Much obliged. Its lucky it was a rainy day and I had this umbrella. Ill just open it and use it for a parachute. Good by and ad luck.

Fred Kidnapper: Felled, baffled, we wouldn't of hit the steeple anyway. We're nowdays near it.

Going Down!

Dear Reader: One of the fallacies of today is trying to make another person bow to your will. If you will keep in mind what you wish to accomplish instead of depending on some real human person who is here today and gone tomorrow, you will accomplish more.

Besides, there is always a reaction, provided the person whom you wish to bend does not care to do what you have in mind.

Why depend on others, anyway? Yours truly,
ALFALFA SMITH.

THE TREASURE HOUSE

THE BIRDS BUILT

Out on the face of the remote Pacific are two biennishes, two specks of islands now called respectively Ocean and Nauru islands, where the seabirds have built inexhaustible treasure houses.

The way this treasure was discovered reads like fiction. A sailor on a voyage in this out-of-the-way sea picked up on the beach a peculiar piece of rock. He took it along to the ship with the idea that it would do to make marbles for his children.

But the piece of rock ended its travels for the time being at Sydney in Australia. Somebody in a Sydney office thought the rock would do nicely as a door prop. So he laid it down to keep the door open.

An office worker who dabbled in amateur chemistry happened to notice the piece of rock, picked it up and made up his mind that it contained manurial properties.

His employer took up the matter, tracked the rock down and found out where the door-stopper came from. Then they promptly hid them, with chemists and workers, to Ocean Island.

The chemists found that the island was a mass of guano, that guano would make the earth yield richly, and that from this speck on the face of the ocean they could extract millions of tons of guano.

Of this valuable fertilizer the United States and Japan were soon consuming half a million tons between them.

And here the Germans lost a trick—they seldom lose a trick in matters requiring chemical knowledge. The British exploiters of Ocean Island informed the Germans, at that time masters of Nauru island, that there was plenty of guano to be found on Nauru—great mountains of it, deposited by the seabirds through thousands of years.

"Neh," said some German in commercial or political authority.

"Then won't you let us exploit your guano?" suggested the British corporation promptly.

"Ja," said the German in authority.

So the British brought their workmen over—Chinese, Japanese and natives—and set them to working, with pick and shovel and dynamite, to break into the treasure house which the birds had built through thousands of years—and then moved on to some other island of the Pacific.

These birds, in greatly diminished numbers, thanks to sailors, hunters and adventurers, are building up other mountains of treasure, here and there. But the chances are they never will accomplish what they accomplished on Ocean and Nauru islands.

AFTER DINNER TRICKS

The Two Squares

Twenty-four matches are laid, as shown in the drawing, so that they form nine squares. The trick is to remove eight matches, without disturbing any of the others, and leave two perfect squares.

The spectators will try a great number of ways, but it is rarely that they will succeed. The trick is done by removing the eight matches marked X in the drawing. Thus two perfect squares are left. One of them is the large square formed with twelve matches, while the other is a normal, four-match square. The spectators will always try to leave two small squares, which is impossible.

THINGS FOR BOYS TO MAKE

A Cardboard Screacher

A screacher of this kind makes a very hideous noise while it lasts. It is so simply and cheaply made that you may as well make several while you are at it.

A thin tough card is cut three inches by two and a half inches. Cut two corners entirely away as shown by diagram A, and fold as shown by the dotted lines, first creating all folds and bending the tongue up before the sides are brought around. Diagram B shows the position of the screacher, the dotted lines indicating the position of the screacher inside the mouth and. Place this end between the lips and blow. The screacher will do the rest!
