

NEWS & EVENTS

Rochester Institute of Technology

Vol. 14, No. 26, September 16, 1982

Discussion of Colonization in Space To Open 1982-83 Institute Forum Series

Can we really live in outer space?

The possibilities for space colonization will be explored by Dr. Gerard O'Neill during the Institute Forum lecture at 7 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 23, in Ingle Auditorium.

Dr. O'Neill, professor of physics at Princeton University, will open the year-long lecture series. Institute Forum brings to campus noted speakers who are experts in their fields. The series theme is "Technology and Values," and each lecture is an exploration of the future impact of technological advances on world issues. All lectures are at 7 p.m. in Ingle Auditorium; admission is $1.

The schedule for the remainder of this year's series, arranged by Elaine Spaul, director of Complementary Education:

Oct. 21 Dr. Joseph Weizenbaum, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; director, Computer Science Laboratory; Nobel laureate
Nov. 4 Dr. Lewis White Beck, 1982-83 Caroline Werner Gannett Professor at RIT; University of Rochester professor of philosophy emeritus, "Technology and Morals"

Dec. 9 U.S. Senator Mark Hatfield, Republican, Oregon, "The Nuclear Freeze"
Jan. 20 Dr. Peter Filene, University of North Carolina professor of history, "Impossible Manhood: Work and Family in Men's Lives"
Feb. 10 Andrew Lippman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology Media Technology Laboratory, "Video Imaging"

Continued on page 8

RIT's Horton Child Care: 'One of the Best'

RIT's Horton Child Care Center, included in a recent study of on-campus child care programs, was described by the author of the study as "clearly one of the best in New York State."

In a letter to Lita Boudakian, director of Horton, announcing release of the study, Dr. Lawrence Podell stated, "I was very impressed with what you have done at RIT. The program is responsive to needs and, at the same time, (very) professional...."

The study was funded by the Ford Foundation after authorization by Henry D. Paley, president of the Commission on Independent Colleges and Universities (CICU), to examine on-campus child care provided by such institutions in New York State. The project was conducted between June 1981-May 1982 and included programs on the campuses of Adelphi, Columbia, Cornell, and

Lita Boudakian, director, makes sure there's plenty of time for fun, but learning about responsibility is important, too.

Continued on page 8

Reno Antonietti, assistant vice president, Academic Services, and Leslie Berkowitz, Staff Training and Development, were among RIT's Lend-a-Hand vendors who raised $900 for the fund, which helps those in the area with one-time special needs.

Educational Travel Plans for Year

"This year is really going to be an exciting one for Educational Travel," says newly appointed coordinator Mary Ann McCarthy.

Now in its second year, the program—part of the Department of Complementary Education—is designed to bring hearing and deaf participants, students, faculty, staff and alumni and the general community together in informal educational and recreational experiences.

"We are planning trips that involve both overnight and day or half-day travel at varying costs to enable everyone to participate in an Educational Travel adventure," explains McCarthy. Reservations are accepted on a first-deposit-down basis, and there are a limited number of openings for non-RIT participants. Spouses and friends of RIT participants are always invited. Many of the programs will be jointly sponsored with student clubs and organizations, other components of Complementary Education and various academic divisions.

The fall schedule includes:

Wonderful Whale Watch, Oct. 8-10. A chance to view the gentle, graceful creatures of the sea. The program's second outing to picturesque Provincetown, Mass., includes lectures by whale specialists, a day-long "whale sighting" on the ocean, a behind-the-scenes look at the New England Aquarium in Boston, and a chance to explore the beaches, dunes, museums and shops of Provincetown.

Celebrate-Fall-Harvest Tour, Oct. 23. Travel to the heart of New York State's domestic wine producing region. Learn how wine is made by the various wineries and sample the various vintages. A stop will be made at Wild Winds Farm and Restaurant in Naples to explore the gardens, country store and gift shop, maple sugaring huts and nature trails and enjoy a delicious, nutritious Wild Winds lunch.

Series on Communication, Nov. 2-4. This three-part series takes a look at modern media. Beginning with the printed word, a visit to Gannett Rochester Newspapers will reveal the various processes in newspaper publishing and provide an inside view of the life of a news reporter. In the broadcast medium, a visit to radio station WPXY will allow a look at the faces behind the voices, how DJs decide what to play and how thousands of records are stored. The series will close with a tour of WROC, Ch. 8, an NBC affiliate.

For further information contact Mary Ann McCarthy at 6937.

RIT Orchestra Invites Musicians

If playing classical music is your special interest, why not consider joining the RIT Philharmonia?

Now beginning its second year, the RIT Philharmonia is a college-community orchestra that is becoming a major contributor to the Rochester musical scene.

Ascher Temkin, its music director and conductor, needs musicians in the string, woodwind, brass and percussion sections. There are no auditions to join the Philharmonia, says Temkin. Each string section is coached by a professional musician.

The RIT Philharmonia rehearses Monday evenings, beginning Sept. 20, from 8 to 10:15, in Ingle Auditorium. For the first rehearsal and concert, Temkin has chosen the "Unfinished Symphony" by Schubert and the "L'Arlesienne," Suite No. 2 by Bizet.

Professor of music and coordinator of music for the College of General Studies, Temkin has conducted major orchestras throughout the world. He is also the music director of the internationally-known New York Festival and Conductors' Orchestra. Formerly a professional violist and violinist, Temkin has extensive experience in building and conducting community orchestras.

RIT to Host Seminar

The RIT community is welcome to attend a one-day professional development seminar, "Keeping Up with the Changing Times," hosted by RIT and sponsored by the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers (EACUBO).

The seminar will be held on Thursday, Sept. 30, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Rochester Hilton (Inn on the Campus) and will feature presentations by President Rose, Dr. Robert Quinn, vice president for Academic Affairs, and James Miller, associate vice president for Institutional Advancement.

President Rose will talk on "Higher Education Headlines of the Future," Dr. Quinn on "Computer Implications of the 1980s," and Miller on "An Institutional Approach to Financial Aid Resource Development."

Continued on page 8

STAFF TRAINING & DEVELOPMENT

Fall Planting: A Look at Spring Bulbs

Sept. 21, College-Alumni Union, 1829 Room, noon-1 p.m.

An overview of spring bulb varieties, planting requirements, uses of bulbs in the garden, basic techniques of "forcing" bulbs for late winter bloom, presented by Frank Robinson, horticultural foreman, Physical Plant.

Discussion Group for Supervisors: Decision Making

Sept. 21, College-Alumni Union, 1829 Room, 1-4 p.m.

Brief presentation regarding some of the tools of decision making; description of the rational decision making process; group discussion will focus on the kinds of decisions supervisors must make and how they are made; presented by James Speegle, director, Personnel Dept.

Mail Seminar

Sept. 22, College-Alumni Union, 1829 Room, 10 a.m.-noon

Useful information on RIT mail services, including postal programs and services, interoffice mail handling, postage cost savings, various postal procedures; presented by Art D'Angelo, manager, Mail Services

To preregister or for further information on any of the above workshops, call Staff Training and Development, 6956 or 6124.

SELF-DEFENSE FOR WOMEN

A faculty/staff class in assertiveness training, avoidance, home and apartment security and physical self defense will be held on Fridays from noon-1 p.m. in the wrestling room under the main gymnasium. The first class will be Friday, Sept. 17. To register, call Ron Baker, 3398, or attend the first class. The fee is $20.00.

SAVER SPECIAL

A bus trip to Cohoes Manufacturing Company, a discount clothing outlet in Cohoes, N.Y., is planned for interested faculty, staff, students or spouses on Nov. 6. The bus will leave RIT at 7 a.m. and return at approximately 9 p.m. The cost is $8.

Reservations will be taken by Paula Tormey, City Center, Development Office, immediately. There will be one bus.

New Fact Line, Expanded Calendar Supply Campus Information

A new academic information service is being offered on campus this fall—the Academic Fact Line. This telephone service, in operation from 1-4 p.m., Monday through Friday, will provide the RIT community with fast, up-to-date information on general academic questions such as registration, scheduling, policies and procedures, according to William DuBois, director, Faculty Development. If Fact Line staff don't have the information requested, they will assist the caller in finding the answer. If the question deals with a specific problem or situation, the name and telephone number of the person best qualified to answer will be provided.

DuBois says that, if the service proves successful, the hours of operation will be expanded. The number for Fact Line is 6175.

The calendar will have a new format, including a name change to "Preview," and it will list activities for two months instead of one. The first "Preview," the October/November issue, will be available Oct. 1.

Georgiana McGlitchey is staff coordinator for the calendar, a project of Student Activities' Union Services, Student Affairs Division. Jane Stopha, fourth-year printing student, is student coordinator.

They invite Institute colleges and divisions to list their programs, including academic and social events, by Nov. 15 for inclusion in the December/January "Preview." Listings should be sent to the College-Alumni Union Information Desk. For more information, phone 2864.

Coming Events

The familiar "Calendar of Events" will be expanded to include all RIT activities open to the public and the RIT community and will serve as an Institute-wide guide to what's happening at RIT.

POLICY & INFORMATION

COMPARISON OF NEW UNDERGRADUATE ENROLLMENT DEPOSITS

Sept. 1, 1981, to Sept. 1, 1982

	1981	1982	% Change
BUSINESS	656(a)	434	- 30.7
CAST	598	821(b)	+ 37.1
ENGINEERING	390	496	+ 27.2
FINE & APPLIED ARTS	194	202	+ 4.1
GENERAL STUDIES	91	51	- 44.0
GRAPHIC ARTS & PHOTO	477	492	+ 3.1
NTID(c)	39	42	+ 7.7
SCIENCE	210	303	+ 44.3
TOTAL DEPOSITS	2655	2841(d)	+ 7.0

Actual New Matriculants 2638 available after 21 day report

(a) Includes 141 Food, Hotel/Tourism students

(b) Includes 161 Food, Hotel/Tourism students

(c) Most NTID students enter summer quarter for SVP

(d) 1982 college and Institute totals include 59 internal transfers from Eisenhower College

NOTE: In addition to 1982 totals, 180 students from Eisenhower have indicated their intention to continue Eisenhower course work at RIT for 1982-83.

Anyone wishing source or additional information, please call 2527.

Eisenhower Student and Faculty Transition

When RIT Board of Trustees Chairman Frank M. Hutchins and President M. Richard Rose announced the closing of Eisenhower College on July 22, a major task was at hand: the relocation of the Eisenhower students who selected the one-year option to study in their programs at RIT and their faculty and staff to the RIT campus in Rochester.

In his announcement of the closing President Rose emphasized that his first concern centered around the academic future of students and the welfare of faculty and staff. "A personalized system will be in place," he explained, "to take into account the different needs of freshman, sophomore, junior and senior class students." Arrangements also were to be made for all Eisenhower College faculty to teach on the RIT campus during this academic year.

The Eisenhower Transition Team

Immediately a group of individuals from RIT and Eisenhower, known as the Eisenhower Transition Team, was given primary responsibility for accomplishing a smooth transition for students, faculty and staff. Chaired by Dr. Thomas R. Plough, executive dean of Eisenhower, the team served as an agent of Dr. Robert Quinn, vice president for Academic Affairs. Plough was the designated representative of Dr. Quinn for all aspects of the transition of Eisenhower personnel, property and programs from the Seneca Falls campus to the Rochester campus of RIT.

The charge of the transition team, which is still operating, consists of four primary objectives:

1. To facilitate to completion the optimal match between personnel talent at Eisenhower and employment opportunities at RIT
2. To offer Eisenhower courses taught by Eisenhower faculty at RIT which allow a successful completion of a BA degree by Eisenhower seniors and a full Eisenhower course load by other Eisenhower transfers to RIT during the 82-83 year
3. To monitor the close-down of the Eisenhower campus in such a way as to facilitate the work of those searching for an appropriate disposition of the campus
4. To exploit opportunities for new program development at RIT made possible by this influx of additional talent in combination with resident talent at RIT (degree programs, graduate and undergraduate;

Dorothy J. Dougan-Widmer, physical education instructor at Eisenhower, now teaches bowling and swimming on the Rochester campus. Widmer (known as Dixie) was enthusiastically greeted by Eisenhower students during orientation week.

contract research; electives)

In addition, the team will develop a communication network for the personnel of RIT to keep them abreast of the facts about the transition and for Eisenhower personnel and students to orient them to Rochester campus operations.

Eisenhower College members of the team include Dr. Thomas R. Plough, M. Joseph Donoghue, Dr. David L. Dresser, Dr. David D. Murdoch, Clifford E. Velte and Russell B. Wright. From RIT at large, members include Reno Antonietti, Dr. Lawrence W. Belle, Dr. Paul Kazmierski, J.S. Lawson, Joseph Pickard and Dr. James R. Speegle.

The Eisenhower program headquarters is now located on the third floor of the George Eastman Memorial (administration) Building (01) and is fully operational. The phone number is 6068.

During the past six weeks the transition team has worked diligently to meet the challenge, similar to a large jigsaw puzzle, and all of the pieces have come together.

Welcome Aboard

"The Eisenhower College students came, and we were ready," says Ann M. Hayes, director of Student Orientation and Special Programs. Through the special assistance of the SOS Committee, Executive Board, Dr. David Dresser and Eisenhower College students Sandra Castello and Sandra Frisina, a series of orientation programs were designed and implemented to acquaint the Eisenhower students with the facilities and operations of the Rochester campus.

"The success of these programs was made possible through the overwhelming cooperation of the Institute community and the receptiveness of the Eisenhower students," says Hayes. "Planning began from the day of the Eisenhower closing announcement, we all pulled together to make it work, and we are very pleased with the outcome."

Approximately 330 Eisenhower College students are attending RIT (see News & Events, Sept. 9). Of the total number of students, 224 are housed in the residence halls: 67 in Sol Heumann-Gibson, 2 in Ellingson-Peterson-Bell, 75 in NRH-Fish, 37 in Baker-Colby-Gleason and 43 in the Greek areas. A small number are located in apartment housing, and the remainder have made other arrangements off campus. Due to the shortage of space in the residence halls, Eisenhower College freshmen were tripled in rooms, just as were other RIT students. A listing of Eisenhower College student phone numbers can be found in the College-Alumni Union.

Reflects Institute Teamwork and Good Will

The Eisenhower Faculty: Where They Can Be Found

A major obstacle in relocating the Eisenhower program was the shortage of available space on campus. J.S. Lawson, director of facilities and planning utilization, applauds the College of General Studies, which is housing 23 of the 33 faculty members. "They have done a yeoman's job in accommodating the faculty," states Lawson. The College of Science has made room for seven faculty and the remainder are at various locations on the campus. "With few exceptions, we feel the Eisenhower faculty are housed in their final location," Lawson says.

A listing of Eisenhower faculty and their locations can be found in the Eisenhower program headquarters.

Transportation for Eisenhower Faculty and Staff

There is a shuttle service for Eisenhower faculty and staff from Seneca Falls to Rochester. The two Eisenhower vans leave the Physical Plant facility at Eisenhower College at 7 a.m. and then stop at the Geneva thruway interchange for additional passengers. The van leaves the Rochester campus at 4:30 each afternoon. For further information, faculty and staff can contact Shirley Dombrowski, Eisenhower program headquarters.

The Eisenhower Academic Program

"Eisenhower students are receiving virtually the same academic program at RIT as that they would have had on the Eisenhower campus," states Dr. David Murdoch. "Overall we're running about 80 percent of the courses we scheduled for fall. The 20 percent not being taught would have been cancelled on the Eisenhower campus as well for lack of student enrollment." Eisenhower students also have the advantage of attending RIT courses in each of the nine other colleges. The Eisenhower College seniors will receive an Eisenhower College of RIT degree upon graduation in 1983.

Classroom Facilities

"Most of the Eisenhower classes have been absorbed in existing RIT facilities," states Registrar Dan Vilinski. He adds that he believes that classroom facilities are permanently set for Fall Quarter and that there will be little change.

Dr. Thomas R. Plough, chairman of the Eisenhower Transition Team, was found during lunch hour to be continuing his fitness routine.

Services Available to Eisenhower Students

The RIT community stands ready to assist the Eisenhower student with the following services.

Central Placement Services: for off-campus summer or permanent job placement and alumni placement, call this office at 2301 or 6309.

Financial Aid: all Eisenhower students have received the same financial aid awards through RIT's Office of Financial Aid. For further assistance in such matters, phone 2186.

Student Employment: RIT is making an effort to develop incremental jobs for those students eligible for the College Work/Study Program.

In addition, all Eisenhower students are invited to make use of the Student Employment Office when seeking part-time, on-campus and off-campus employment (Ice Rink Conference Room, Bldg. 2).

In addition, Peter Farrow, formerly assistant director of admissions at Eisenhower, has been named special assistant for Eisenhower students in the Office of Student Affairs. Eisenhower students needing assistance of any kind are encouraged to contact Farrow in the Student Directorate Office at 2203.

Library Services

The Ellis D. Slater Library card catalog has been moved to the Wallace Memorial Library, as have all reserve books ordered by faculty members. Additional study aids can be obtained from the Slater library on a 48-hour return courier basis. These books can be reserved through the Wallace library.

Eisenhower College Security

A staff remains on the Eisenhower College campus to maintain the facility. Early in the transition, Plough requested that needed furniture and equipment for faculty and staff be relocated expeditiously to the Rochester campus, and this has been done.

The disposition of the Eisenhower family memorabilia has yet to be determined and will be arranged through discussions with the Eisenhower family.

Student Activities

Edward Weber, acting vice chairman of the RIT Student Directorate, and Chairman Jon Wolfert met with Eisenhower students immediately after

Dr. James I. Campbell lectures on "How to Survive Academically" to the freshman class as part of the orientation program offered to all new RIT students. Campbell, professor of philosophy, is among the Eisenhower College faculty now on the Rochester campus.

Eisenhower

Continued from page 5

the closing was announced. The purpose of their visit was to apprise the students of what was available through the RIT Student Directorate.

"We are anxious to provide as many services as possible to Eisenhower students," states Weber. "We've already had preliminary discussions regarding articles in Reporter magazine and year-book concerns. We also would like to integrate similar Eisenhower clubs into the RIT Clubs as well as try to find funding for those that would remain separate.

"We are glad that the Eisenhower students are here and are looking forward to working with them. If any of the students should have any questions at all regarding academic counseling or advising, personal problems or whatever, we want them to know that we are here to help. Jon and myself can be reached at the Student Directorate Office at 2204.

Conclusion

"While students and faculty are disappointed that they are not opening the school year in Seneca Falls, they are nevertheless appreciative of the kind of greeting they have received from the people here on the Rochester campus," Dr. Plough comments. "We feel that all of the students and faculty have been extremely cooperative in assisting the transition team in its charge and that they are maximizing efforts to make the best of an initial adjustment period. We thank everyone for their cooperation and especially thank all of the SOS people for their generous hospitality in making the Eisenhower students feel welcome."

Postal Notes

RIT Mail Service has developed two cards to be used when an individual or a group moves from one area to another.

One is an in-house change-of-address card that requires specific information. This will be kept on file at Mail Service. The second is a card that should be sent to your correspondents by way of our interoffice mail.

Mail Service will supply, upon request, a packet of cards containing one change-of-address card and five cards to advise your correspondents of the move. More of the latter are available if needed.

Matt Woods (middle) goes after ball during the RIT Soccer Tournament last weekend. The Tigers won the first annual tourney, shutting out powerful Cortland State, 1-0. Mike Virts scored the game's only goal in the first half, assisted by Paul Schojan. McMaster University and Stony Brook State also competed in the two-day event. RIT was 2-0 after the tournament play and faced Hamilton on the road Wednesday, Sept. 15.

A First For Photo Students

All of the photographs submitted by RIT students to the 1982 Youth Invitational Exhibit sponsored by the American Society of Photographers were included in the exhibit.

"It was the first time that all the entries from any one school were hung," said Linda Lapp, chairperson for the ASP Youth Activities, who was in charge of the juried show.

The show was on exhibit during the 91st International Exposition of Professional Photography in Las Vegas during July.

According to Douglas A. Lyttle, professor in the School of Photographic Arts and Sciences, the level of student work traditionally equals or surpasses that seen in the Professional Photographers of America show. In addition, Lyttle points out, the students' work was seen by the thousands of studio owners, professional photographers and support personnel who attended the show.

Entries by Christopher Gambrell, Jim Huibregtse, Stefan Oberschelp and
Continued on page 8

NEWS & NEWSMAKERS

The Wichita Art Museum has purchased the five-foot bronze Astaire in Tails by Fred Meyer, professor of painting, College of Fine and Applied Arts.

Bruce A. Austin, assistant professor in the College of General Studies, has had an article published in the Journal of Social Psychology, Vol. 117, August 1982, pp. 221-217. Austin's article, "A Factor Analytic Study of Attitudes Toward Motion Pictures," reports the results of a study in which RIT students served as respondents to an Attitude Toward Movies scale.

Austin also has had an article published in the Journal of Arts Management and Law, Vol. 12, Summer 1982, pp. 51-74. His article, "G-PG-R-X: The Purpose, Promise and Performance of the Movie Rating System," evaluates the Motion Picture Association of America's film classification policy on the basis of results of behavioral research. Austin concludes that on only one of three counts is the MPAA's self-regulatory policy judged adequate.

The RIT community knows how courteous Cheryl Baldwin and Susan

Chan are, but their reputations for helpfulness have extended beyond the campus. Baldwin and Chan, who manage the Visitor Information Center, were among five Rochesterians who received scrolls citing "their ability and desire to be helpful and courteous to everyone they come in contact with each and every day" from the Rochesterians, a division of the Rochester-Monroe County Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Jean Powell, third-year graphic design student, and Norman Coombs, professor of history in the College of General Studies, have works in Pyramid Arts Center's "Dynamics" show, a curated exhibition of the works of disabled New York State contemporary artists. The exhibit, Sept. 10-Oct. 15, includes five mixed media (pencil and watercolor) works by Powell and four clay sculptures by Coombs. Powell also will be one of the artists participating in demonstrations in the gallery's "Meet the Artist" program, from 11 a.m.-4 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 9. Pyramid Arts Center is at 163 St. Paul St.

PROFILE

Institute Information Center: There's Never A Dull Moment for the 'Pulse of RIT'

Their work day consists of answering an endless stream of questions, talking to hundreds of people they've never met before and handing out job applications. In a flurry of questions and ringing telephones they must keep their sanity and be pleasant to everyone. It's all part of a typical day at the Institute Information Center, located in the lobby of the George Eastman Memorial Building.

It's doubtful that many of us would, or could, tackle a job like this, so the question is, who does?

A special group of three women, Mary Menard, Admissions; Marcia Slutzky, Personnel; and Pat Wolff, Admissions, are part of a cooperative effort of the two offices to operate what they call "the central point of the Institute...the pulse of RIT." They are a very close and dedicated group—a team—very supportive of each other. They find their work fun, exciting and challenging, enjoy working together and helping each other and wouldn't change jobs with anyone. They will do whatever is necessary to get an answer to someone's question, no matter how long it may take, and all three know sign language.

Mary, only on the job since June, says, "The Information Center provides a very important service for RIT and the community. We're a vital part of the campus because so many people depend on us for a wide variety of information. We are also the lost-and-found center of the Institute."

Pat, the "veteran" of the group, has worked at the center for one year and says, "You have to like people to work at this desk. We are the first impression people get of RIT so we try to make sure it's a good one. Quite often we change the mood of people who come to us upset about something."

"It's a difficult job, but we love it," says Marcia, an "informant" since the end of November. "It's nice to be able to put nervous new students and their parents at ease when they first arrive on campus...we never have a dull moment at this desk." About her first day on the job, Marcia says, "My very first phone call was from someone on campus saying they had no heat—I told them to bang on the pipes." Marcia is now renowned for her directional signals, however, and usually handles the calls for directions on how to get to campus. She is known as "the dean of direction-giving."

(Left to right) Pat Wolff, Mary Menard and Marcia Slutzky

The staff of the Institute Information Center could be called know-it-alls, since they have to know everything going on around campus in order to do their job. It's from the center, too, that campus tours originate. They'd like to remind the rest of us that it's important to keep them up-to-date on all activities, moves and changes in telephone numbers.

The Information Center staff are also responsible for handing out job applications and pre-screening the applicants. Applications are accepted at the desk only between 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

A story on the Information Center wouldn't be complete without knowing what questions the women are asked most: where's the Admissions Office; where are the restrooms; and where's the Job Mart?

Backup assistants to Mary, Marcia and Pat are Linda Perry and Martha O'Neill, both receptionists in Admissions.

A good example of how current—if not futuristic—their knowledge has to be and what people expect of them is that they are already being asked the date for Commencement 1983.

'Minolta Mirror' Features Lytle

"Grecian Encounter" is the title of an 11-page photographic and written essay in the 1982 Minolta Mirror by School of Photographic Arts and Sciences professor Douglas A. Lytle.

Gathered over visits during the past 12 years, Lytle's photographs and prose impressions represent his feelings for Greece and its people. "The photographs I selected for Minolta Mir- ror share the experiences of the places and people I've enjoyed in Greece—from mountains and villages, to family life and scenics," Lytle says.

Minolta Mirror notes, "The active, upbeat lifestyle of this warm and thoughtful photo professor can surely give inspiration to a good many of us."

The publication is available at World Wide News in Rochester.

Rochester Institute of Technology

One Lomb Memorial Drive
Post Office Box 9887
Rochester, NY 14623

Institute Forum

Continued from page 1

- March 17 Gil Noble, New York City television journalist and host of a weekly television public affairs series, "Technology and Values"
- April 21 Dr. Amitai Etzioni, George Washington University sociologist, director of the Center for Policy Research, "Values in an Age of Re-Industrialization"

Child Care

Continued from page 1

Hofstra universities and Bard, Marist, Russell Sage, St. Thomas Aquinas, Union, Vassar and Wells colleges (in addition to RIT).

According to the study: "By 1980-81 (Horton) had 44 children enrolled, 34 under 5 years of age and 10 over 5 years. Most of the parents were affiliated with the Institute (faculty, staff, and students) . . . There is a 6:1 child-adult ratio. The children of the center were racially and ethnically heterogeneous."

Seminar

Continued from page 2

The registration fee (deadline tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 17), including lunch, is $15. Contact either John Brodie or William Welch in the Controller's Office.

Photo Students

Continued on page 6

Kevin Reilly received Awards of Excellence. Huibregtse was honored for best color photograph in the show.

To give the RIT campus a chance to view the RIT photos in the exhibit, the photographs are on display in the lobby of the Frank E. Gannett Memorial Building through Sept. 24.

RIT Women's Club Extends Invitation

The RIT Women's Club invites all women employees of the Institute and wives of the faculty and staff to join them. The club welcomes anyone who is interested in serving the RIT community, including newcomers, present, former, active or inactive members.

The Women's Club has helped provide scholarships for RIT students and has provided financial assistance to the Horton Day Care Center. Work with RIT's international students is also a continuing project.

Four general meetings will be held this year as well as numerous special events (of which members will be notified). In addition, within the club there are several small interest groups, which enable members to get to know one another better.

Interested women are invited to the Welcoming Coffee, Thursday, Oct. 7, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Richard Rose, 2201 Lehigh Station Road. Any questions or requests for transportation to any club function should be directed to Virginia Herring, membership chairman, at 223-8505.

If you wish to join the Club as a new member or to renew your membership, please complete the registration slip and mail to Agnes Lipsett.

JOIN NOW (Oct. 18 deadline for directory listing)

Please make checks payable to RIT Women's Club and mail with this form to:

Agnes Lipsett
207 Curtice Park
Webster, N.Y. 14580

Please Print

Name _____

Spouse's Name _____

Address _____

Telephone _____ College/Department _____

Special Interests or Talents _____

Type of membership _____ Active (regular) _____ Sustaining*
($5.00 dues) ($5.00 + $2.00 minimal donation)

*The sustaining membership is a new category for individuals who want to support the club but, due to time limitations, cannot participate as active members. Their names and addresses will be included in the directory and they will receive the club newsletter; however, they will not be placed on the phone calling list or be asked to participate in the individual club functions.