PREFACE.

The tenth volume of the Naumkeag Directory, includes the cities of Salem and Beverly, and the towns of Danvers, Marblehead, Peabody, Hamilton, Wenham, Middleton and Topsfield.

The directory, upon consultation, will be found to contain all of the many features of former editions, with revisions and additions, which make a complete and up to date book.

The publishers wish to call special attention to the two plans of the new Salem Theatre (floor and balcony), also to the plan of the new Colonial Theatre of Boston. The map has been revised, and the population of the cities and towns of Massachusetts, according to the census of 1900—has been inserted.

In fact, the undersigned have in every way tried to make this edition compare favorably in style and corrections with the many previous editions issued by its late publisher, Mr. Henry M. Meek, and on presenting this their first publication of the book to the public, desire to extend their thanks to their patrons and to all who have assisted in the work.

The price of the Naumkeag Directory is $3.00. The Salem Directory, which has also been issued, is for sale at $2.00.

—THE OLDEST NEWSPAPER IN THE STATE.—

ESTABLISHED 130 YEARS AGO.

The Salem Daily Gazette.

THE SALEM GAZETTE enterprise was first shown in 1768, over 128 years ago, when the weekly started. Again it leaped forward in 1796, when it first issued the semi-weekly. Both flourished until 1892, when the daily was launched, holding the complete patronage of the semi-weekly, and jumping to the front as the favorite daily newspaper of Salem and its large suburban territory. The growth of a century and a quarter of commanding prominence in the whole county, gives a unique character to this paper, making it a very strong advertising medium.

To keep abreast with the times, you must read this Good, Clean, Bright
Family Newspaper.
