SECRETARIES TELL OF ATTRACTIONS IN SOUTHLAND

Glendale Is Host to Almost 100 Representatives of Civic Organizations

Almost 100 secretaries of Chambers of Commerce in southern California were the guests Saturday of the Glendale chamber at the regular monthly meeting of the Commercial Secretaries' Association of Southern California.

Arriving in Glendale during the morning, the delegates were entertained in the Chamber of Commerce rooms until about 12 o'clock when, after an automobile ride, they gathered at the Newport Pavilion, Verdugo Woodlands.

A Spanish lunch prepared by chefs of the F. P. Newport Company was served the secretaries, who, during the meal, renewed old acquaintances and enjoyed a general good time.

After the lunch, which was served under the trees, the members repaired to the picturesque pavilion, where the afternoon's addresses and discussion were to be held.

Story of Woodlands

In the absence of Secretary James M. Rhoades of the local Chamber of Commerce, Assistant Secretary E. F. Sanders introduced the host, W. L. Twining, manager of the Newport company. Mr. Twining welcomed the secretaries to Glendale and to Verdugo Woodlands, and presented R. P. Judy, also of the F. P. Newport company.

Mr. Judy told the secretaries in a very interesting manner the story of the Woodlands and its selection by the Verdugos out of their immense holdings, to be their home. Jose de Verdugo, he stated, with a grant from the Spanish king of 300,000 acres, had picked the spot which was exposed at night to the cool air of the mountains and in the daytime to the southern sea breeze, while protected from high winds and inclement weather.

He also told of the later developments in the Woodlands, and mentioned the fact that one of the oldest living members of the Verdugo family was still living there. His artistic description of the Woodlands as an ideal home place drew applause from the assembly.

Informal Discussion

M. J. Haig of Whittier presided over the meeting in the pavilion. He called on S. A. Skinner of Big Bear who made a short address, including in his talk a description of his mountain country. Lynn W. Ballard of Long Beach spoke of the work of the secretaries' association, and other secretaries told of their problems and solutions, and of the summer school for secretaries of the Chambers of Commerce to be held in Palo Alto beginning Monday, September 4.

Whether it's a case of "lost strayed or stolen," Hal doesn't know, but he's right sure he'd be tickled to death to see the canine's smiling face once more.

The wedding of Lieutenant Lawrence A. Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lawson of the Castle apartments, 225 N. Brand boulevard, and Miss Nancy Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Davis of Chicago, took place in San Francisco Friday morning, July 28, 1922, at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic church. The bride's father is an oil magnate of Chicago.

Lieutenant Lawson has a host of friends in Glendale, having resided in this city a number of years, and was a member of the graduating class of 1914 of Glendale Union High school. He has been in the United States army service for six years, two years of which were spent at eastern camps, two years at the balloon school at Arcadia and the past two years with the balloon corps at Hawaii.

Begins at Waikiki

The following excerpt from the San Francisco Examiner of July 28 is self-explanatory: "A romance that budded on Waikiki beach a year ago and lived in love letters while the bride-to-be and her mother traveled around the world was disclosed Thursday, July 27, when Miss Nancy Davis, of Chicago, greeted Lieutenant Lawrence A. Lawson, United States army, at the gangplank of the army transport, Chateau Thierry, upon its arrival from Honolulu.

While en route to the Orient with her mother, Mrs. William N. Davis, wife of William N. Davis, Chicago millionaire, Miss Davis met Lieutenant Lawson of the Twenty-first Balloon company, United States army. It was love at first sight, they admitted yesterday. They became engaged. Then Miss Davis and her mother proceeded on their tour of the world, while Lieutenant Lawson remained on duty in Hawaii.

Letters Around World

"Through Japan, China, India, Italy, France, England and on back to America and then on to San Francisco, Miss Davis corresponded with her fiance. Love lived in letters while the postmen of many countries played Cupid.

"Miss Davis, who is a social favorite in Chicago, is strikingly beautiful. Lieutenant Lawson is handsome and young. "Mrs. Davis was with her daughter at Fort Mason to meet the transport yesterday and will give her daughter away at the wedding today."

The bride's gown was a Parisian model, being an exquisite creation of soft blue silk heavily beaded. She wore a picture hat of black. The wedding was attended only by the immediate relatives of Lieutenant and Mrs. Lawson, who are now spending their honeymoon at Santa Barbara. Lieutenant Lawson is on a thirty-day furlough and he and his bride expect to motor to Southern California before returning to the northern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson and son, Jack Lawson, and daughter, Miss Edna Lawson, returned last night from San Francisco, where they attended the wedding. The trip was made in a Studebaker Special. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson and daughter going over the Ridge route and returning via the coast route. ## What Are Your Views on the High School Situation?

In view of the fact that the board of trustees of the Glendale Union high school has announced that another mass meeting will be held on August 10 for the purpose of discussing an additional bond issue, a preliminary public discussion might prove beneficial.

The people of the district have already voted $85,000 to purchase the site and $600,000 for the buildings, but the school board has announced that about $350,000 additional will be required to carry out its plans. The people are asked to give approval.

Up to the present tentative plans for the new school have been drawn, and, of course, the site has been purchased. No bids have been called for, the board stating that the additional bond issue being of big importance at the present.

Therefore, the Glendale Evening News suggests that communications either for or against the high school proposition would be of interest. Write your views in about 500 words or less and send them to this office for publication. Sign your name and address plainly.

As the mass meeting is to be held August 10, the discussion should start immediately in order that opinions might be thoroughly considered.

BOY SCOUTS WIN PRIZES IN CAMP

Outing on Catalina Island Proves Success In All Details, Is Report

"Practically every boy in the camp on Catalina Island learned to swim during the ten days we were there," stated H. P. Benner, local Scout executive, this morning.

The Scouts, with their leaders, arrived in Glendale at 8:10 Saturday evening after spending ten days at the summer Scout vacation camp at Howland's Landing, Catalina Island. Coming into the harbor at Wilmington, and on the Pacific Electric special train all the way to Glendale, the boys sang and gave Glendale yells, he says.

Not a single accident occurred in camp, states Mr. Benner, with the exception of the painful burning of his right hand by flashlight powder during the tour of the island. The boys' condition was on a high plane throughout the ten days, he declares.

On Friday, the day before leaving, all the boys helped to police camp, clean up the grounds, tighten tent ropes, set cots in order, and otherwise prepared the place for the next party of campers.

Built Scout Badges

The Bear Patrol, led by David Chandler of Troop No. 2, Glendale, built a large Boy Scout badge on the mountainside which may be seen for several miles out to sea. The Beaver Patrol, under the leadership of Edwin Richards, also of Glendale, Troop No. 2, built a monument containing the Scout laws. Others of the boys built bridges, made trails, and constructed other useful things about camp.

The camp efficiency contest, according to Mr. Benner, was a huge success in keeping the boys busy and happy, and in generally improving camp life. A camp ribbon bar pin was awarded to those making over 150 points, and this was earned by seven boys, Horace Brown, Dave Chandler, Floyd Craft, Charles Kausen of Glendale, Charles Lang and Edward Reich of Tujunga, and Stewart Walcott of Burbank.

To those who made 250 points or over was awarded the highest honor, a gold plated toy shield. Four boys earned this honor: Douglas Gregg, Robert Hatch and John Moulder of Tujunga, and Buffa of Burbank. With John Moulder as patrol leader and Leo Lang as tent leader had the highest patrol standing with 1421 points. They were closely pressed, however, by the Stag Patrol with Robert Hatch as patrol and Mayor Spencer Robinson as tent leader. This patrol made 1393 points.

Gets Camp Plaque

Two prizes had been awarded by Dr. Walter B. Scaife of Berkeley to the Scouts who had the best knowledge of the stars and constellations in the summer sky. Clifford Walcott of Glendale won the first prize, and was given an official Boy Scout axe. Robert Hatch, also of Glendale, was awarded the second prize, a Boy Scout sun watch.

The best essay on "What the Camp Was Meant To Be" was written by Douglas Gregg of Glendale. "Hundreds of tests were passed in camp," says Mr. Benner. "Every boy passed at least one test, and passed from three to eight of the tests. Several merit badge examinations were given in camp, including swimming, public health, personal health and pioneering."

FAR NORTH STORY BY JACK LONDON PICTURIZED

Striking Film Based Upon Famous Novel Shown on T. D. and L. Screen

A wild, rough, snow-covered country where might makes right and men are not slow to use their fists furnishes a striking background for Norman Dawn's stirring picturization of Jack London's famous novel, "The Son of the Wolf," which had its initial presentation last night at the T. D. and L. theatre.

The story of "The Son of the Wolf" has to do with the adventures of one Scuff Mackenzie, a stout-hearted young man, amid the vast snows of the northland, and his love for Chook-Ra, an Indian maid. About these characters has been woven a gripping tale that glows with vitality.

Thrillingly depicting life in the raw beyond the last frontiers of civilization Jack London's great novel, "The Son of the Wolf," came to life on the screen at the T. D. and L. theatre when it was presented for the first time.

Friend W. Richardson, Tried Business Man, Is One to Cut Expenditures

The following is an editorial taken from The Enterprise, a daily newspaper published at Riverside:

There is one group of people in California who knew Friend W. Richardson, state treasurer. They are the editors of the country newspapers, whose battles he has fought at Sacramento for more than twenty years, as president of the state press association.

The crooked politicians are not for Friend W. Richardson. They know that the sort of campaign he is conducting is no promise for them. The office holders on the many state commissions are not for Richardson because they know that his record in office in the past is a sure sign that he will do a lot of house cleaning if he gets to be governor of California.

Record Not Assailed The present governor is making no attack upon the record of Friend W. Richardson as an official because that record is above reproach. He is, however, making bitter attacks against others because they have the temerity to oppose him as the head of the present administration.

Suppose your books at the end of the year showed that your indebtedness had increased 500 per cent in the past ten years. Would that question occasion you any concern? Suppose your expenses were 259 per cent greater in the same period. Would you consider that efficient business management, or would you merely be "surprised that it was so cheap?"

That is the condition of the state government in California today—or rather in 1919, when the total indebtedness amounted to $13.98 for every man, woman and child in the state. In 1921 it was far worse, the per capita indebtedness being $15.66.

Table with 2 columns: State, Per Capita Net Debt. Includes New Jersey (.64), Pennsylvania (.19), Indiana (.11), Iowa (.03), Illinois (.33), Minnesota (.45), Wisconsin (.72), Washington (.36), Texas (1.13), CALIFORNIA (13.98).

In Governor Stephens' terms the debt rate has been piling up rapidly. Now he wants a third term as governor, but that is not likely, as the people are going to select Friend W. Richardson, a tried business man, and whose platform is "economy based on efficiency."

Local People Return From Trip to North

A party of Glendale people who have just returned from a two weeks' trip north included Mr. and Mrs. Bert Speers of 718 East Acacia avenue, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Boyer and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Speers and son Harry of Los Angeles.

The left Glendale by motor traveling north by the inland route going through Sacramento, Auburn and Truckee Lake Tahoe, where they spent four days. They returned south through Sacramento to Vallejo by the Placer route. At Vallejo they took the boat to San Francisco, and from there motored to the celebrated big trees and their south to Monterey and on home.

While his parents were taking this trip Donald Speers traveled north with Henry Blanchard and Edward Smith of Los Angeles. The boys made a record run from Glendale to Portland, Ore., covering the ground in fifty-six hours. They arrived home last night, with reports of a fine motor trip.

CRUDE OPIUM The United States alone imports ten times more opium than Germany, France and Italy together. It is estimated there are 5,000,000 drug addicts in this country today.

REDUCING THE OVERHEAD

During the present state administration the budget has been increased from $35,000,000 to $91,000,000 and the number of state employees from 4000 to 11,000. Friend W. Richardson, as governor, will give the state real economy.

PARK NAME CALL CAUSE OF POEM BEING WRITTEN

Phil Felton Bursts Into Verse and Suggests It Be Made 'Joyland'

Enthusiasm in naming Glendale's new municipal park had taken a prose form up to Saturday when one Glendale resident voiced his sentiments in verse. It was Phil Felton of the Parkside Refreshment counter on North Verdugo road, and his suggestion goes like this:

"With its flower spangled hill-sides And its evergreen appeal To our varying moods; With the tang of the woodlands, The whiff of the sea The song of the birds In the old oak tree; With its rustic nooks And its beaky shells Where fancies and elves Weave their mystic spells; Its silvery brook As it glides on its way With its rippling song To a joyous day; Its hall of joy With its dance and song Of music and mirth For the happy throng; While out in the field Where spirit holds sway Light-hearted youth Shall gather and play. So, ladies and gents, I rise to remark My choice of a name Is Joyland Park."

Another Glendale resident suggests the name of Glen Early or Glen Eric Park, while still another, while not given to poetry, writes two pages of suggestions. Her ideas are: Glen Park, Rest More Park, Glendale Recreation Park, Elite Park, Glendale's Park of Flowers, East View Park, Glendale's Pleasure Park, Verdugo Woodland Canyon Park, Grand View Park, Glendale Wilderness Park, Glendale's Park of Amusement, Rose Bud Park, Rest E.Z. Glendale's Park of Pleasure, Ye Golden State Beauty Spot, Melrose Park, Ye Beauty Spot of the West, Forest Lawn Park, Alvin Park, Palm Tree Park.

Glendale's Beauty Spot Park, Monte Vista Park, Eucalyptus Park, Glendale's Get Acquainted Park, Sunshine Park, Eutopia Park, The Little Park of Flowers, Japanese Design Park, Ye Lily Park, Honeymoon Park, Queen's Park, Blue Stone Park, Silver Spray Park, The Golden West Park, Villa Park, Morningside Park, Shade Side Park, Come One—Come All Park, Highland Park, Park of Paradise, Lincoln Park.

Another Glendelian has suggested the name Glendale Verdugo park. SOMETHING IN HER FAVOR "Jack tells me he kissed you last night," he said, when they reached the dark end of the veranda. "Does he?" she replied. "I'm glad he thinks it's something to boast about."

CUTTING DOWN HER WORK Somebody has published a "Business Man's Guide to English." It should be a great relief to his stenographer.

It is doubtful if there is any similarity between a fair weather friend and the one who makes hay while the sun shines.

N. Y. Firm Jumped by Trade Commission

WASHINGTON—The Federal Trade Commission has issued an order to cease and desist against Ballas, Hess and Company, of New York City.

The order requires the respondent to entirely stop using the term "Sea Plush" in its catalogues, advertising matter, or in its trademarks, trade names, labels, devices, in connection with the sale of coats manufactured from cotton plush fabrics with a cotton nap or pile.

"Honesty is the best policy," quoted the Wise Guy. "Yes, but you've got to keep your premiums paid up," added the Simple Mug.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio—Solution is being sought for a local mystery.

Cleaning the main sewer, between Brier Hill and Spring common, city workmen found three dead goats, a number of railroad ties, some baby buggies, tin cans, bottles and various kinds of refuse.

The municipal employees are at a loss to account for the presence of the goats, railroad ties and baby buggies in the sewer.

WHERE IS HEAVEN? DON'T WORRY, IS PASTOR'S PLEA

Hope of Hereafter No Empty Dream; Future Is Sure, Says Rev. Preston

"If the hope of the hereafter were an empty dream, then of course, the sooner we give up hoping for heaven the better for us," asserted Rev. Harley M. Preston yesterday morning at the Pacific Avenue Community Methodist church.

"But, in that event, what a calamity would befall us. Think of the things that would have to go."

"When I ask myself, 'If a man die will he live again?' the question meets with an immediate response from within, 'I shall live and not die.'"

"So far as I am personally concerned the handiest, if not the best proof of immortality, is the witness of this inward voice. If you ask a boy, whose kite has flown beyond his scope of vision, how he knows that his kite is really up yonder, he will tell you with an unanswerable logic that he feels it pull. In vain shall frivolous objectors argue against my faith in the hereafter, so long as I can feel the pull of immortality within me."

"One Saving Clause—'If there were no life beyond, a dark, dark world this would indeed be. The light of the sun that makes life worth living and the moon and stars that cheer us when the sun goes down, would all be extinguished if it were not so.' But the Master speaks on: 'If it were not so, I would have told you.' Thank God for that saving clause!"

"We are given to understand that Jesus knew whereof he spoke. Heaven was His native clime; He had been there before the world was."

"Another of the implications of our text is that Jesus really wanted his disciples to know about the life beyond; that is to say, as far as this knowledge is necessary for their well-being here and hereafter."

"No mortal man can exhaust the content of any spiritual truth. If we had the eyes of an eagle, we want not the wings of an eagle to fly away. There are numberless questions that cannot be answered: 'Where is heaven? God knows. Enough for us to know that there is plenty of room for it somewhere in the vast universe of God.'"

"What is heaven? 'In that day ye shall know.' Meanwhile, let this suffice: 'Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him.'"

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Owens Valley Paradise Cattle Is Big Business Just Fhat Sherman Said Take the Desert First

By Gil A. Cowan

HAVING arrived safely home after doing 1255 miles of California highways, roads and trails, Comment can be written with greater peace of mind. Owens Bridgeport to Mojave is one of the hardest day's drives imaginable, for every type of road is traversed, including the new type of ten foot strip highways with half mile turn outs. Good time can be made on this road, but a person dare not fall asleep at the wheel for there is sand, sand, sand.

Independence, county seat of Inyo county, is a pleasant village with a little more life than Bridgeport and many tourists are enjoying the fishing and hunting of Owens river valley. Owens valley is a great retreat and to see the headwaters of Los Angeles aqueduct is interesting. Up among the hills the water first trickles forth from mountain springs, icy cold, the result of melting snows in the high Sierras which are real mountains.

Bishop is the biggest town in the valley and it is typical of the old west with its rough fellows enjoying a life that would be uninteresting, indeed, to a resident of Glendale. However, there are good stores and restaurants in Bishop and one must forget the things which are objectionable. Some day someone will clean up the place and put it on the map as the metropolis of a great back country.

Big Pine and Lone Pine are other stopping places in the desert hills where water makes orchards bloom. Pears and apples abound and alfalfa is raised in great quantities. Of course, cattle raising is the big business.

Little Lake on the edge of the desert is the last stand before the big grind across the burning sands begins. It has a hotel with accommodations that are not the least encouraging to the early riser who hits the trail at 4 a. m. It is wise to follow a pilot car into the desert for there are many trails and only an experienced driver can make out which is the right one, it would seem.

And when that car starts out at 25 miles an hour in the skidding sands you carry your heart in your mouth and your life in your hands. It is a gruelling race into Mojave and the cars are few and far between. It is necessary to drive with the foot throttle and turn off power instantly when the machine skids and the whole trip affords more thrills than a roller coaster at Coney Island.

To describe the desert one must use the term Sherman applied to war. You wonder if the road ever ends, if the next hill will be worse and in Red Rock canyon it never grows cool. Surely, a transcontinental motorist must think that the desert town of Mojave and it is with a degree of thankfulness that you drive through the hills into the metropolitan area and begin to see the sights so familiar to the family parties who ride around week ends and little know the trials of the transcontinental trails.

As was tritely remarked in Auto Club notes in Saturday's News there is every need for improving the back door of Southern California. Pavement across the desert is going to be a necessity. One thing about the trip must be said and that is the efficient sign posting done by the Auto Club of Southern California. The Northern Association, called "state", is not to be compared with the work done by the local organization.

The Auto Club maps, also, are reliable and the membership fee is well worth the service to the motorist. Others who want a week or two of pleasure should head out to Inyo and Mono counties first, if that be in the itinerary, for the enjoyment will be more lasting with the best scenery until last. And, truly, the coast route between San Francisco and Los Angeles is the prettiest strip of highway in the state so far seen.

S. P. Lines Free of Congestion, Is Claim

In commenting on the recent order of the Interstate Commerce Commission directing the railroads to forward traffic by any route available to its movement and prevent congestion, A. L. Morgan, 148 East Colorado, Pasadena, freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific stated:

"The order is mandatory only when necessary to prevent congestion and while applying to all railroads would seem to be unnecessary insofar as the Southern Pacific lines are concerned. There is no congestion on these lines, owing to the fact that oil is used for fuel in its locomotives and the shortage of coal does not affect this road. Traffic conditions on Southern Pacific lines are in good shape and business is moving along as usual."

Many inquiries have been received by the road, Morgan says, regarding the effect of the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission will have out here.

Conscience cannot be compelled.

Rattlesnake and Rat In Terrific Battle

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Charles Johnson, a farmer, living south of Clyde, caught a rattlesnake and housed it in a box. He had planned to bring the snake to Rochester and turn it over to Pete Gruber, better known as "Rattlesnake Pete."

A rat of enormous size ventured into one of Johnson's steel traps. The rodent was so large that he could not enter the trap. The springs held him by his front legs. Astonished at the size of the rat, Farmer Johnson thought a little sport would be appreciated.

Writing several farmer friends, Johnson managed to drop the rat into a potato pit and then shook the box holding the rattler over it. The snake soon fell into the pit and coiled up in a corner. It was expected that the snake would make short work of the rat.

For a few minutes nothing happened, both snake and rat taking opposite corners and eyeing each other very carefully. Suddenly the snake began an attack. With lightning swiftness it shot out its head, caught the rat unawares and sank its fangs in the animal's nose. The rat squealed with pain and rage and actually tore itself loose in a desperate struggle in which both rat and rattler rolled over the floor of the pit.

Next the rat sprang at the snake. As the snake squirmed the rat leaped into the air and caught the snake back of its head, tearing the flesh and inflicting a deep wound with its teeth. The energy of the rat's attack apparently puzzled the snake, which was bitten time and again. Finally the rat secured a firm hold on the snake directly under its head and hung on until the serpent fairly choked to death.

The farmers covered the pit with cordwood and left rat and dead snake alone overnight. The rat was found to be alive and active in the morning. Much surprise was expressed that the rat was alive, as it was believed the snake's poison would have ended the rat's life in the night. Johnson decided that the rat had earned a right to live. Accordingly the rodent was enticed into a box containing a quantity of dry bread and cheese. From the farm it was carried to the Montezuma swamp, a mile away, and given its liberty.

Claims Matrimony, Diplomacy Won't Mix

LONDON, July 31.—If a woman wishes to enter the diplomatic service and succeed she must give up all thought of marriage, according to Mile. Nadejda Stancioff, daughter of the Bulgarian minister to Great Britain, who has been appointed first assistant secretary of the Bulgarian legation.

"Matrimony and diplomacy did not mix," said Mile. Stancioff today. "I believe that my appointment is a victory for womankind. The day is near at hand when women will be doing every kind of work, manual and intellectual, that man does. The difficulties between women and men are rapidly disappearing. They are becoming more and more alike in every way."

"If a woman wishes to succeed as a diplomat she must remain single. I have made up my mind to do so. It is not a question of desire but of expediency."

"As I realize I have been chosen to explore this new field, I cannot help but feel very happy and shy. I know that because I am a woman, men will expect more of me than of a man. They will think to find in me more balance, more acuteness, more 'old head on young shoulders.' For, of course, an exception has to be an exception. I shall try to do my best. Perhaps a woman is better able to bring the human touch into diplomacy than a man. It may be even easier in America."

"Diplomacy has undergone a change since the war. No longer can the charge be made that they merely flit from one country to another making official reports. Nowadays a diplomat must study the country in which he is living to learn ways of benefiting his homeland."

American Passport Fee Reduced to $1

MADRID.—Spain has added herself to the list of nations which have concluded to grant American transit visas for $1. But a transit visa, as in the case of the other countries, that have made similar reductions, merely entitles a visitor to a train-ride through the country's territory. If he so much as takes a stroll from the railroad station platform, he has "visited" the country—price $10.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FIRE STONE

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, one day came around the corner of the hollow stump bungalow, walking on the shady porch. In her paws Nurse Jane clicked a pair of scissors.

"Do it! Do what?" the muskrat lady wanted to know with a smile, as she kept on clicking the scissors. "Don't you want to do me a favor, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Well, be careful you don't fall down and stick yourself on the sharp points of the scissors," begged Nurse Jane. "The points are sharp enough, even if the edges are so dull they won't cut cloth."

IT PAYS TO KNOW

A woman I know who is a splendid housekeeper has never taught her two girls cooking or any of the household arts. The reason she gives is: "I don't propose to housework all their lives the way I have been. I want them to do something better. Eleanor is musical and Irma is good at figures and I guess they can earn their own living if they don't know how to cook."

"But suppose they marry?" I asked her.

"I hope they won't marry anyone who can't get them some to do the work for them," she said.

Poor woman, I suppose all that bitterness and false outlook is a reaction against the overwork of a drudgery she has had herself. Nevertheless, I am sorry that it expresses itself in a determination to let her girls grow up ignorant of the essentials of homemaking.

That Day Will Come

If they never marry, it may not matter so much though even the unmarried woman is frequently faced with situations where it would mean a great deal to her to be able to step into some breach and run a house. But if they marry, the day is going to come when they are going to say: "Oh, how I wish my mother had taught me to cook and run a house."

The supply of young men who can get their wives someone to do the work for them from the beginning is exceedingly small. When maids cost $3 a week and their food (perhaps a couple dollars more, people of the upper middle class looked upon a maid as a matter of course. But today, when to keep a maid means anywhere from $12 to $20 a week outlay, only those who absolutely need service or who are distinctly well-to-do, have it. One of the

I remember one of our professors telling this story to his class when we were studying the subject of constipation. He was in college during the time when women were first entering the medical profession. His professor of intestinal disorders was scheduled to lecture on constipation, but he changed the subject after he got to the class. On being asked why he did not talk on the subject of constipation, he said: "D— it. I couldn't. There was a woman in the class."

Now the time has long since passed when any instruction in medical colleges is looked on as something indelicate. The women students get exactly the same instruction as the men students, for it is not considered that there is anything indelicate in any subject that pertains to the welfare of the patient whose lives may be entrusted to their hands. It is necessary that women physicians receive the same training, both in the colleges and in the hospitals, and nearly all of the big colleges and hospitals are now open to women. Harvard, while it has not opened its doors to the woman student yet, has opened its professional school to them. Dr. Alice Hamilton, a wonderful woman, is professor of industrial diseases. This may be an opening wedge. Just as there are no subjects that are considered indelicate for the woman medical student to study, so the time has come when there are no subjects pertaining to their welfare that the layman, both men and women, should not have a knowledge of.

Now I do think there are subjects that never will be topics of general conversation. For, while these subjects may not be indelicate at all, still they may not be altogether pleasant, and good taste alone would be a deterrent in bringing them into a conversation in a mixed audience. Probably constipation would come in this list. While we talk freely about the injection of food, or the beginning of alimentation, the defecation or the ending of alimentation will probably never be a topic for general conversation, for both men and women, should be accompanied by a good deal of natural satisfaction.

We do not ordinarily talk much about

KONSIDER the GRAPE--

The GRAPE asks less in the way of care and attention than any other of our fruits. It asks no fertilization. From a warm, sandy soil it extracts pure sugar, high flavor, rich color, year after year, and a big tonnage, with but little water.

The grape sits close to the warm ground. Winds do not disturb it, nor do frosts often find its blossoms.

SUMMER EVENING FROCKS

The summer is by no means over, it is only well under way. Vacations are just beginning, and the mountain and seashore hotels are at their liveliest. The girl who has spent her morning bathing and boating and lying in the sun and her afternoon following some mountain trail or walking along by the sea, finds an evening of dancing the ideal finish to her day.

If she is economical, she is using up all her last winter's evening frocks. But if she is both wise and economical she has simplified the more elaborate frocks and freshened up those which were too shabby. Summertime dance frocks should be simple. The ideal dress for these warm evenings is made of either organdie or lace. Last winter's silk or satin gives an ideal foundation for this summer's dance frock.

Last winter we used a great deal of embroidery and beading, glittering sequins and tassels, and other things which now look somewhat hot and inappropriate. Why not nip off as many of these trimmings as possible, and make a simple overdress straight and without sleeves, to be held into the waist by a girdle, out oforgette, lace or organdie. A white organdie, chiffon, or cream color lace will look stunning over last winter's black satin.

Flesh color organdie over an old blue silk will be delightful. There are innumerable combinations of colors and materials. For a trifling cost and a few hours' work you can have a fresh, new frock. It is not necessary to spend money on new evening frocks. Old ones can be done over so easily and economically. There are too many other things to spend one's money on that will be of greater benefit to one's health and beauty.

Waffles—Mix and sift one and one-quarter cups of flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon sugar together, then add enough milk to make a batter to beat and beat until perfectly smooth; add one tablespoon of melted butter and finally whip in one egg which has been beaten very light.

Cheese Timbales in Spaghetti Molds—Have a saucepan of rapidly-boiling, salted water. Take twenty-five sticks of spaghetti in the hand, making the ends even, and put one end of them into the sauce pan of water, and, as they soften, bend them round so they may lie on the bottom of the saucepan, and let them cook until tender. When done, let them drain and rinse in cold water. Spread on a cloth. Butter timbale molds (or small cups); commence at the center of the bottom, and coil the spaghetti around to completely line the mold; it will stick to the soft butter. Set in a cool place until the cheese preparation is ready. Make a white sauce of one and one-half tablespoons butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour, one-half cup cream and one-half cup white stock or hot water and when thick add three-fourths cup grated cheese; stir until cheese is melted, then add one whole egg and the yolks of three which have been well beaten together, and one-fourth teaspoon each of salt and paprika. Fill mixture into spaghetti molds, set molds in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven until firm.

Tomato Sandwiches—Cut thin slices of bread with mayonnaise. Peel and slice tomatoes and put one slice between. This should be done just as you are ready to serve.

Stuffed Shoulder of Mutton—Have the butcher remove the bone from a shoulder of mutton weighing from three to four pounds. Wipe the meat with a clean cloth wrung out of cold water. Spread the meat with a dressing made of one and one-half cups of bread crumbs, two tablespoons melted butter, one-third cup cold water, one egg, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon each of pepper, thyme, savory and onion. Roll up and fasten with skewers. Place it on rack of roasting pan. Put the bones that have been taken from the meat and one-half cup of water in the pan. Cook in the hot oven about one and one-quarter hours, basting often.

Perfection Salad—Soften two tablespoons gelatin in one-half cup cold water. Mix one-half cup vinegar, the juice of one lemon, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt and two cups boiling water, bring all to the boiling point and add the softened gelatin. When the mixture begins to thicken add two cups chopped celery, one cup shredded cabbage and one-fourth cup chopped pimientos and turn into a ring mold. Chill; serve with mayonnaise dressing.

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 31.—A neatly engraved bank note of suitable denomination will fly from the pennant pole at the Polo grounds in the event that the 1922 world's series is a strictly private New York institution, which seems likely. It will serve as an appropriate emblem for both New York clubs.

It is not probable that officials of either the Giants or Yankees will accept the emblem as their own, even tacitly, but it will be like the uninvited guest. It will be there, anyhow.

This much was determined as the result of the latest New York gold brick, otherwise known as a deal whereby the Boston Braves gave up right and title to Hugh McCulligan, a fine young right hander, for the passe Fred Toney, Larry Benton and Walter Houli-

John Farrell
YOUTHFUL PRO, WHOSE STEADY PLAY AND LOW SCORES, IN THE NATIONAL OPEN AT SKOKIE, PROVED HIM TO BE ONE OF THE GAMES REAL COMERS.

Every fan has read column after column about Gene Sarazan, the young pro from Pittsburg who won the open championship at Skokie last month. But there were a few other comparatively unknown youngsters—unknown until their golfing ability was brought out by steady play and low scores at Skokie—who might have turned the trick.

One of these was John Farrell, a protege of Tom Kerrigan's. I say protege because John was a caddy, and later assistant, to Tom at Swinoy and perhaps learned most of his golf there.

Farrell paired with Hagen, made the low score at 68 in the qualifying rounds at Skokie, and his 144 was beaten by only three strokes, Hagen having

Sports Chatter

By Bill Unmack

There has been a lot written about Tom Blake, the youthful Los Angeles swimmer. There has been a lot said that he is in a class with Weismuller, Kahana-moku, Ross and other stars of aquatics.

Every swimmer has to make a start to climb the championship ladder. Many swimmers have sprung from obscurity to fame overnight. Others like Norman Ross had a big uphill battle before they attained prominence, and now comes Tom Blake with more preliminary publicity on his doings than any other star before him and to date Blake has not shown the class that the publicity would warrant. True, he won the national long distance title over 10 miles two weeks ago, but when Johnny Weismuller, swimming on his back, can beat Blake over fifty yards, the latter swimming the crawl, it does not indicate that at this time, at least, Blake can be classed in the first rung ladder of champions.

Blake is a good prospect and may develop into a national champion other than a long distance swimmer. We well remember the early career of Norman Ross and many other of the noted swimmers. Ross up to 1915 was known on the Pacific Coast as a good average swimmer and able to win events among the local talent at Portland, Ore., and he was so good in that class that he won practically all the Northwestern Pacific Association's district titles. That year he swam in the various national championships at the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco but did not place in any of them. His first success in a national championship came the next year when he took second in the one-mile to Lady Lagoon. From that date on Ross made name and fame for himself and his first record to be recognized as a national mark was made November 24, 1916, when he swam 220 yards in a hundred foot tank in 2 minutes, 21 3/5 seconds. From that time on Ross broke record after record and won national titles galore at all distances.

That is a brief sample of what a large number of men and women have had to go through before they gained recognition. Weismuller is an exception to this class as his jump into the limelight was meteoric. Now comes Tom Blake, heralded as a great swimmer, but he yet has to make his mark as far as distances of the usual standards are concerned.

Blake has a future, of that there seems no doubt, but he still has the future before him in which to prove all the fine things said about him. He is today about the same caliber and standards in competition as Norman Ross was when the latter first started out. Blake holds most of the Southern California Association district championship titles, several district records and the mile Pacific coast championship. He has already started on the national fame by winning a ton mile A. A. U. title but he still has to show his versatility in the similar distances which are surrounded with more glory and add more to a swimmer's reputation than the long distance grinds. There are many who believe he is capable of rising to the same heights in the swimming world that Ross and others have done.

The World Over

Hints which scarcely could be termed veiled were made after the recent Strangler Ed Lewis vs. Renato Gardini wrestling match that the former was performing under wraps in order not to place the Italian to stay the two-hour limit in order that a return match might be staged. Those who have seen the difficulty of getting away from a head lock once it has been firmly applied by Lewis, marveled at the ease with which Gardini repeatedly pulled out.

The wrestling game at the present time is not so well supplied with first-class performers that it can afford to play fast and loose with the public. The fact that there are so few opponents for Lewis is the temptation to make a semblance that his opponent is a harder nut to crack than he really is. While the wrestling game admits of a lot of "soldiering" the thing also can be overdone. It is a dangerous proposition to fool with. The game has been in bad odour before because of this.

At the risk of getting himself more or less disliked by members of the female persuasion, a correspondent writes in to ask why it is that practically every photograph he has seen of a girl or woman athlete presents a face that is plain if not exactly homely? While we are willing to admit we have seen no rare beauties among the female athletes pictured, we must decline to answer the query for the simple reason that we are unable to do so. Are women athletes, as a whole, plain looking? If so, why so? Perhaps some one can answer.

The poor Portland baseball fan seems forever to be denied the pleasure of having a team about which he can do some crowing. All last year his representatives were dragging along in the cellar and getting deeper and deeper into it. This year the Portland club started out as if it were going to do something for itself and there was high elation in all ranks.

Sport High Spots

Gaining a game and a half on the Vernon Tigers, and incidentally on the league leading San Francisco Seals, Wade Killefer's Angels were enjoying a prosperous week at Oakland, finishing their seven-game series with the trans-bay squad by copping a double-header yesterday. William Wrigley's pets, by winning nineteen of their last twenty-two starts, have advanced from fifth place to a strong third, where they are now but eight and a half games from the top. Surely not a threatening position, but sensational when it is considered that they were some fifteen contests from the pinnacle but three weeks ago.

This week will bring the Angels and Salt Lake Bees together at Washington park in Los Angeles' first series of a three weeks' home stay. If the "Spearmint" boys are to overtake the Seals by September 9, as was the assertion made last week by Killefer, it will practically necessitate a decisive victory in every series to be played, provided the Seals and Tigers continue to play the same brand of ball which they are now performing. Killefer is planning on at least a 5 to 2 victory for his cohorts over the Utah fence busters.

"Lefty" Herman, former Glendale high school all-around athlete, is reported to be the season's sensation in the Western League, where he is playing outfield for the Omaha club. Besides hitting in the neighborhood of .350 Herman is leading the circuit in home runs and is playing a bang-up game in the field for his team. Herman, who is the property of the Detroit Americans, is being "farmed" to the Western League team and is expected to be recalled by Ty Cobb next year. It is also likely that the pre-closing weeks of the present season will find him coveting in a Detroit uniform, as the Western League season closes prior to the majors.

A three-run uprising at the expense of Cadore gave the Cards a 3 to 2 victory over the Dodgers.

John A. Cobb's Hired Hands Put Up Great Contest; Fans Like Brand of Ball

Exhibiting bits of the most flashy ballplaying seen in these parts for some time, John A. Cobb's Glendale Merchants yesterday won a torrid battle from Los Angeles Post No. 8, American Legion, winning out in the eleventh inning by a 6 to 5 margin. Ira King, who enjoyed a little field day all his own at the bat, drove the winning marker across the rubber with a vicious two-bagger to centerfield. "Chuck" Flanders was the player on base at the time.

SECRETS OF GOOD MEMORY TO BE TOLD PUBLIC Charles W. Hamley, Expert With U. S. Army In France at C. of C. Tonight

"It took me three weeks to learn to think," says Charles W. Hamley, memory wizard, who is to demonstrate his ability at 8 o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, "and when I learned to think I was able to qualify for the compliment of being chosen the only memory expert with the United States Army in France.

"The secret of my capacity," adds Mr. Hamley, "is to insert mental action into whatever I wish to remember.

"I treat names, dates, figures and other abstractions as if they were physical objects. I 'fix' them by linking them up with fantastic imaginary adventures as a child might a fairy tale, so that I can see them vividly with my mind's eye.

"When I want to retain in sequence 100 names, for instance, I see a HEN wearing a big plumed HAT and turning to peck at a julep HAM on which sits a ludicrous RABBIT who proceeds to chase a green COW up the HILL over a bee HIVE. By this process anyone can remember surprising things.

"Things you yourself have done are easiest to recall. Things you have seen are next easiest. Things read, or acquired second-hand, are not so intimate or vivid, hence they must be translated into personal experience by imaginary pictures and mental action.

"I have literally thousands of long picture chains, embracing a wide range of knowledge, securely tied to my mental hitching post, to be released at will. If you want to remember an accurate description of a building, mentally climb it like a human spider, grasping each cornice, peering in at the windows, tearing your fingernails on the bricks. If you feel the exploit and thrill to it, you'll remember that building in detail always.

Some More Tips "If the name of a person isn't impressive, substitute a familiar and similar name, concentrating for ten or twenty seconds on the difference and similarity. Mentally file Mr. Tuttle away as Mr. Turtle, which links him to a familiar image. Convert Mrs. Peake into Mrs. Mountain, a mountain snow-capped like her silver hair.

"Try acting out a poem with appropriate and exaggerated gestures, and see how that helps fit the words together.

"Mentally enlarge what you wish to recall, make it huge; a mouse as big as a moose.

"Every memory expert uses a code to recall figures, a code in which consonants represent digits. Numbers are thus translated into words. These codes can be learned in a few days."

TOKIO, July 31.—All Japan looked with interest today upon the domestic battle being waged by the family of Tamaki Miura, pretty Japanese prima donna, to prevent her from sailing for the United States August 2 to resume her opera engagements in the role of Madame Butterfly. The nation from press comment appears to side with the family.

Members of her family have cabled Honolulu that she will be unable to open her tour there "because of illness."

Madame Miura "frantic" over the opposition from her family said today.

"After I have brought fame to my family, they are acting in an unreasonable manner. They have supported my husband for ten years, yet now he insists that I give up my career. I am determined to go."

Madame Miura has had much success in the United States on the operatic stage and in concert. She is chiefly known for her work in Madame Butterfly. She left the United States several months ago for her first visit to Japan in several years and was expected back late in August to open her

Iowans to Picnic at Long Beach Aug. 12

"Wake up, Hawkeyes!" is the startling greeting Judge Charles S. Crail, president of the Iowa Association of Southern California, gives to all former Iowans in calling them to a mammoth picnic reunion, Saturday, August 12, in Bixby park, Long Beach.

Judge Crail, who will preside, is desirous of having the 200,000 California Iowans present. A social feature will be the community singing led by Ralph H. Lyman, head of the music department at Pomona college.

There will be county headquarters, college reunions and addresses by Gov. Kendall of Iowa and Hanford McNider, head of the Iowa American League. Also all candidates who lived in Iowa will be introduced.

C. H. Parsons, 910 South Main street, Los Angeles, is general chairman arranging for the gathering.

Local Violinist Is Lauded at Grauman's

Miss Hazel Linkogel, Glendale's talented young violinist, was accorded a most flattering ovation Sunday morning, when she was presented at Grauman's theatre in Los Angeles as one of Sid Grauman's "Discovery Program" artists.

Miss Linkogel played "Movement from Concerto" (Bruch) and as encores "Old Refrain" (Kreisler), and "Melodies" (Dawes). The success attained by the young violinist was evidenced in her experience of being the first artist presented at Grauman's ever to be encored twice.

A large number of Glendale people, including Miss Linkogel's mother, Mrs. Priscilla Linkogel, and her sister, Mrs. Pearl Curran, attended the program.

Family Wants Opera Star to Quit Stage

"Well, why not? Because 'there is none good; no not one.' If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." And what is more, the true follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene does not claim to be good; he does not even claim to be better than others.

"He is only a poor, miserable sinner and with the Apostle Paul is inclined to cry out: 'This is all faith in saying and worthy of shame.' And that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners of whom I am chief."

"In short, we are saved only by the righteousness of Christ, which exceeds the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees.

"What then is the difference between the Christian and the non-Christian? Both are sinners, but one is a saved sinner while the non-Christian is without Christ and without hope in the world."

Fortune Teller Is Asked by Detective

AKRON, Ohio.—A suggestion that a fortune teller be placed on the payroll of the city detective department here has been made to Chief of Detectives Harry Welch.

"I had my fortune told last night by Oles," reads a letter received by Chief Welch from H. M. Reatty, No. 1188 Manchester road. ADMISSION RIGHT INTO HEAVEN IS SERMON TOPIC

Enter Only by Righteousness of Christ, Declaration by Dr. H. C. Funk

"Admission to Heaven" was the topic of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

"The Gospel lesson for the sixth Sunday after Trinity sets forth the conditions upon which we may enter heaven," asserted Dr. H. C. Funk.

"It is evident that no righteousness of our own will admit any one to the Kingdom of God. I have noticed an attractive, but very deceptive card hanging on the wall in the offices of some of our business men. It reads, 'So many doctrines and so many creeds—when just to be good is all a man needs!'

"That is precisely what the Pharisee taught. But Jesus said: 'Except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.'

"Others say, 'All you need to do is live up to the rules of the order to which you belong and you will be all right.' Well, brother, I don't care how many lodges you may belong to or to how many churches you may have belonged. Living up to the rules of the order is not going to save any man's soul. And, if you think that 'just being good' is going to save you, you are certainly all wrong.

Makes No Claims "Well, why not? Because 'there is none good; no not one.' If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." And what is more, the true follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene does not claim to be good; he does not even claim to be better than others.

"He is only a poor, miserable sinner and with the Apostle Paul is inclined to cry out: 'This is all faith in saying and worthy of shame.' And that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners of whom I am chief."

"In short, we are saved only by the righteousness of Christ, which exceeds the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees.

"What then is the difference between the Christian and the non-Christian? Both are sinners, but one is a saved sinner while the non-Christian is without Christ and without hope in the world."

Merchants Report Sale Is Successful

The "Get Acquainted Sale" is proving a big success, according to W. C. Waring and H. H. Johnson, proprietors of the establishment at 201 South Brand boulevard, known as the Army and Navy store.

"I haven't a kick in the world," declared Mr. Waring this morning. "I am thoroughly satisfied with the way the sale is going.

"Camping equipment is going particularly well because it is right in the middle of the camping season. If a man can save three or four dollars on a tent it means something.

"Overalls at $1.49 are being appreciated by the working men who have been paying about $1.85 for them."

A large business was done by this store Saturday and, in spite of the assistance of four extra clerks, it was necessary for it to remain open until 11 o'clock to handle the trade. The sale will continue today and tomorrow.

Glendale Is Chosen I. C. S. Headquarters

Glendale has been chosen by the International Correspondence Schools as the future location for the permanent office of this district of Southern California and offices are to be opened shortly at 131 South Brand boulevard, C. E. Hall is superintendent of the district, while J. W. Angell is local representative.

The I. C. S. has offices in other nearby cities and Mr. Hall states that he thinks Glendale the ideal place for the district office.

"We are greatly pleased with Glendale," says Mr. Hall, "and are enthusiastic about locating our district office in what is widely recognized as one of the most progressive cities in the west. We have a wide patronage in Southern California and we expect to increase it greatly by our new location."

Bakery Business Is Purchased by Kansan

Henry Schuh of Hutchinson, Kan., who arrived in Glendale about a week ago, has purchased the "Perfect System Bakery" at 128 North Brand boulevard. Mr. Schuh has had a large experience in the bakery business, having operated a chain of bakeries in the state of Kansas, prior to which time he was manager of the Fred Harvey system of eating houses. Mr. Schuh states that it will be the policy of his place of business to put out only the highest grade of goods.

Mr. Schuh and his wife and son are now located at 314 West Colorado street. They were accompanied to California by Mrs. Brazzell, who will be assistant manager of the Perfect Bakery system. Mr. Schuh states that an entirely new principle in baking is incorporated in the "perfect system," which is just being introduced.

Florida Family Holds Triple Birthday Party

PENSACOLA, Fla.—What is claimed to be the world record for triple birthday celebrations on the same day of the month, held by the family of O. S. Norman here.

On July 5 the family staged a triple birthday celebration for the three children of the family, all of whom were born on that day of the month, but in different years.

Helen was born July 5 at Kansas City in 1908; Cleo Elizabeth July 5 at Fort Smith, Arkansas, in 1919, and O. S. Jr., was born here July 5, 1921.

OBSERVE SABBATH! DR. CRIST SPEAKS IS WARNING BY REV. EDMONDS OF BIG GROWTH OF METHODISM

Day of Lawlessness Is Here, Says Pastor in Talk to Presbyterians

"S. O. S." last night at the Presbyterian church was interpreted to mean "Save Our Sabbath."

The Church Federation of Los Angeles and vicinity, made up of laymen as well as ministers, says officially:

"We particularly deplore the open and violent defiance of Christian Sabbath ideals on the part of those who undertake to sell real estate through the use of the Sunday barbecue. We wish, for humanity's sake, that all such practices might be eliminated."

"This is the day of lawlessness," declared Rev. W. E. Edmonds. "I'll do as I please. Many simply don't care what God wants. But a day of reckoning comes.

"As to students, suggestions come to them that they should do their studying on the Sabbath. But this gift of brain is a gift of God. Give Him a square deal.

"What are you doing Saturday nights? Don't let your work and your pleasuring Saturday nights crowd over and spoil your Sabbath and rob you of your best blessing.

Says Fighting Lost Art "Paul said, 'I have fought with beasts at Ephesus.' With backbone of steel he had to live a life of fighting. But these days, fighting is a lost art. Mostly we just slip along. When we come to matters of conscience it is, 'What's to be gained?'

"These are days when the church needs to stand 'four square.' If we are going to be true, we can't carry water on both shoulders. If a thing is wrong, it is wrong and has to be fought.

"One of the greatest heritages handed down to us is the Sabbath. There needs to be a revival of the fact that desecration of the Sabbath is a sin with other sins—it is stealing the day that belongs to God. Sin always is against our best interests for God made it for our good and Sabbath desecration is filled with the threat of moral decline.

"Efforts were made last November to discredit the Lord's Day Alliance. But the Alliance was the means of procuring the Sunday observance in the postoffice."

"In college the term 'Methodist' came into vogue. It was given in derision as was the case when Christ's followers were first called 'Christians' in Antioch. John Wesley and his praying band were so methodical in the use of their time in their efforts to further the interests of the kingdom that they were called 'Methodists.'

"Methodism exists today as one of the most potent factors in the world's life. There are more than 3,000,000 in the United States. One of every twelve persons in this country attends a Methodist church and one out of every twenty-seven belong to this church."

The Cynical Bachelor observes that, inasmuch as marriage is a tie, it seems quite natural that a matrimonial alliance should have a string to it.

Eagle Rock Fire

The recent fire in Eagle Rock should cause every family to consider the matter of insurance.

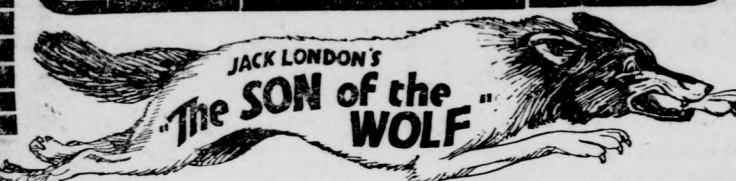

Supposing your house or furniture was to be destroyed by fire today, would you stand the loss or are you fully insured in a reliable company that pays losses promptly?

There is a great difference in insurance companies, but many do not know if the company they are insured, whether it is reliable or not, and to them the company is as good as another—until they have a fire. The best is the cheapest.

Two Railroad Men Wounded by Deputy

CHICAGO, July 31.—Two men were shot, another was kidnapped and a fourth was beaten here today in disorders attributed to the strike of railway shopmen.

The shooting occurred at the Burnside shops of the Illinois Central railroad when a squad of non-union workers under guard passed a group of strikers assembled in front of the home of Clifford Bailey. The strikers are alleged to have hurled missiles at the workers.

Deputy Marshal J. M. Morgan, guarding the workers, shot Bailey in the thigh. Carl Baltakis, also a striker, was struck by another bullet.

George Wilson, of Wabash, Ind., a non-union worker, was missing today, several hours after he and another worker were attacked by a crowd at the Wabash railway shops. He was seized while attempting to flee and carried off in an automobile. His companion was beaten.

PASTOR TELLS OF GREATEST POWER IN UNIVERSE

Only One Force Able to Break Sin's Strangle Hold, Says Rev. E. E. Ford

"The most glorious institution in the world is Christ's church," exclaimed Rev. E. E. Ford last night in his sermon at the Baptist church. "The message of the church is the gospel of the crucified and risen Christ. But the greatest demonstration of the power of God is in human lives. How may we know its power? Try it and see. Look about you and see the men and women, who are living brave, true lives against tremendous odds—living above the storms of sickness and loss, temptation and trials. "Do you know the power of God to cleanse from sin? To make you a child of God? Are you resting in the power of God? Are you working for the Master? All power is given unto Me, go ye, lo, I am with you always. "The Jews asked for 'signs'—some demonstration of physical power. 'Come down from the cross and we will believe.' To them the cross was a sign of weakness and was the stumbling-block that they could not get over.

Only One Great Power "We know the cross was and is the whole power of God for the salvation of the world. All the power of God to draw men out of the bog of sin is in the cross. Men in the quicksands of sin sink deeper and deeper as they struggle to get out. The suction of sin, the pull of Satan is stronger than morality, or education, or wealth, or social position or political preferment or all of them combined. There is only one power that can break the strangle hold of sin—It is the power of the lifted-up Christ. "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." That is the gospel message and it is a full gospel. "Nothing in My hand I bring, simply to the cross I cling. "Goodness is fragmentary and imperfect in every one but the Son of God. If you would look for the highest example of meekness, turn not to Moses but to Jesus; if wisdom, not Solomon but the Saviour; if zeal, not Paul but the Man of Galilee; if love, not John but Jesus. He is God's way to man and man's way to God.

"Christ is the power of God in history. The carpenter's Son has more influence in the world today than all the teachers of the earth combined. "You never can tell. The woman who is talked about is apt to be almost as unhappy as the woman who isn't.

CORNERSTONE FOR CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PLACED

Solemn Ceremonies Take Place Yesterday at Site of New Home

(Continued) Rev. George F. Kennigott, superintendent of the Southern California Congregational conference, was the speaker of the occasion. Expressive of Loyalty "It has become the custom to heckle the church," he declared. "It must be worth heeding. It has been charged with hypocrisy. One counterfeits only that which has value. "We may well evaluate anew the church as we lay this cornerstone. The criticism of an individual or an institution should come from its friends and be made in the spirit of good will. No one can be more critical of the organized church and ecclesiastical machine than myself, but criticism has played its part and the time for concerted action has come.

"Therefore, we lay this cornerstone today, expressive of our love and loyalty for Christ and His church, the beginning of the consummation of the plans made long ago for a worthy and adequate house of worship. "We lay the cornerstone of a Congregational church because as Congregational Christians we believe in democracy in church and state without a bishop; a state without a king—a church and state of the people by the people and for the people.

Scraping False Ideals "We believe in the scraping of false ideals and motives. Of primary importance is the scraping of certain theories, ideas, ideals and doctrines which have helped to create confusion of machinery. "The German bureaucracy and militarism was due to the conception of God as a patriarchal despot and themselves as His favorite children. "It behooves us as Congregationalists to scrap every idea and doctrine which would interfere with the Pilgrim fundamental dictum of the right of the individual conscience to determine all matters of faith and conduct and to declare anew that every man must worship God according to the dictates of his conscience.

"More truth will still break forth from God's word. Ancient creeds are about as valuable as last year's birds' nests. Where the spirit of the Lord is there is liberty. "No Christian society, least of all a Congregational church, should require more, certainly not less than Jesus required for membership in the company of His disciples. Nowhere does He require a creedal test but assent to the theory of inspiration, a doctrine of the Atonement, a belief in His second coming. He said, 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness.' He said, 'Come, take up the cross and follow me.' "Power of New Affection "The emphasis of the first Christian century fresh from the hands of Jesus was on character. Greek philosophy introduced the creedal controversy and Roman jurisprudence the governmental theory of the Atonement and the ecclesiastical machinery of the atonement. Even Paul said that the test of faith was not creed nor theory but charity and good-will.

"Let us get back, or rather forward to Jesus, who declared the fundamentals to be in service and ministry as He stooped down in the upper room and washed the feet of His disciples who were quarreling over the mastery of the mystery. "The greatest scrapping needed today is that of all ideals contrary to the life and spirit of Jesus in the interests of a democracy that must be made safe for the world. The scrapping of kings and kaisers, popes and bishops, of battleships and submarines boots but little, unless the explosive power of a new affection for God and man drives out envy and hate, race prejudice and class pride, ecclesiastical chicanery and creedal controversies and makes of all men brothers motivated by right reason and good-will."

SECRETARIES TELL OF ATTRACTIONS IN SOUTHLAND

Glendale Is Host to Almost 100 Representatives of Civic Organizations

(Continued) secretaries returned to their discussion. A. L. Olinger of Long Beach spoke of membership in the Chamber of Commerce. The work of the chamber, he stated, was dependent on three "M's": membership, money and methods. Membership, he said, was vital. He told of the methods employed in Long Beach in securing members with a five-minute canvass such as is employed in securing members.

Sanders Gives Talk Assistant Secretary E. F. Sanders of Glendale spoke of the work here. It is much harder to keep than to get members, he declared, and the work of a secretary who keeps a man who is on the point of dropping out is as creditable as that of one who secures new members. "The average man in the average town doesn't know what connection exists between his interests and the Chamber of Commerce," stated Mr. Sanders. He pointed out the building of numerous cities, accomplished largely through the Chambers of Commerce, and of his personal experience in convincing persons of the benefit of the chamber.

J. W. Hayden of Riverside commented in glowing terms of the two preceding speeches, but made the point that to get and keep members, a chamber must do something necessary and be a benefit to the community.

Hugh R. Pomeroy of Redondo Beach also emphasized the fact that deeds and not talk are the proper method of building up the chamber.

John S. Knox, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Tulunga, told the secretaries of the fact that city for which he claimed the largest Chamber of Commerce in America per capita population of the city. Earl W. Porter of El Monte disputed Mr. Knox's claim as to a record Chamber of Commerce, and told briefly of the organization which he has built up in his city.

Admire Woodlands Following a five-minute recess during which the secretaries strolled about admiring the scenic beauties of the Verdugo Woodlands, F. H. Hamilton of Sawtelle was called upon to speak on the necessity for a fixed program of work for the monthly meetings of the secretaries. These "gatherings," he said, should not be mere outings, but should be rather formal schools for secretaries. He was delighted with the type of Saturday's meeting, and stated that his only wish was that the convocations in future should be planned along the same line.

A discussion and various proposals for the making up of programs followed the talk. Harry C. Ellis of Alhambra invited the secretaries to the business men's carnival to be held in this city September 4 to 9, inclusive. In describing the affair, he mentioned the dog show which will be held on the first two days of the exposition, and asked that dog owners be informed of that fact.

Assistant Secretary Sanders was called upon to tell the secretaries what was in store for them in the evening, and then a rising vote of thanks was tendered to Secretary James M. Rhoades, who was necessarily absent, being one of the Obenchain jury, and to the F. P. Newport Company.

Charles Bayer of Los Angeles told of the invitation of the Southern California Edison Company for the secretaries to visit its Big-Creek power project. It was decided that the invitation be accepted for September 15 and 16, the week-end preceding the summer school opening in Palo Alto.

To Visit in Calexico An invitation by R. B. Corcoran to hold the secretaries' meeting in Calexico the last Saturday in November was accepted, by acclamation.

Dwight F. Towne, president of the Chamber of Commerce of San Bernardino, spoke of the advantages of living there, and made a suggestion that if the presidents of all the Chambers were invited to attend the secretaries' meetings, greater co-operation and understanding might result.

The meeting adjourned in time for the delegates to drive through the Woodlands and canyon before returning to the Chamber of Commerce hall in Glendale for dinner at 5:30 o'clock.

It was necessary for some of the secretaries to return to their respective cities before evening, but dinner was served to over seventy-five delegates. Bottles of a new Sierra Club beverage were furnished by J. Francis Brown, and small souvenir jars of honey were presented to the guests by the Blossom Bee Honey company, also of Glendale.

Howard E. Cavanaugh of the Cavanaugh Music Studio, residing at 520 North Kenwood street, Glendale, led the guests in the singing of "America."

After introducing J. M. Paige of Pomona, who told of the country fair to be held there, M. J. Haig presented toastmaster E. F. Sanders, and a toast was drunk to the absent secretary, James M. Rhoades.

Miss Hazel Linkogel rendered two beautiful violin selections, and her finished performance was enthusiastically received.

Welcomes Guest V. H. Hollister, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, made the address of welcome to the guests.

"The Chambers of Commerce made our cities what they are today," he said, "and they are going to make them what they will become tomorrow."

The address was followed by two vocal selections sung by Mr. Cavanaugh, who is but recently from Paris. He responded to the applause with a beautiful little southern song, "Lili Moon."

M. J. Haig of Whittier responded to the address of welcome, and complimented the "fastest growing city in the world."

Mrs. Cavanaugh and Miss Waigham rendered a vocal duet from Madame Butterfly. The singing and accompaniment, furnished by Miss Mildred Pray, were both well received.

City Manager William Reeves made an address on the relation between the Chamber of Commerce and the city officials. He mentioned some of the latest developments in Glendale, including the purchase of ground for a park. Complimenting the local Chamber of Commerce and its secretaries, he stated that he knew some of the problems which confront the secretaries, and ended with an explanation of how the city and the chamber can best work together.

Program Pleased A piano solo by Miss Mildred Pray was rendered with rare technique, and a depth of feeling, which was appreciated by the guests.

Lon Haddock spoke of the development and changes in southern California, and the relation to them of the Chambers of Commerce.

"You are the composite citizenry of your respective communities," he told the secretaries. "It is a fine thing to be secretary of a Chamber of Commerce, but it is a much finer thing to be secretary of a Chamber of Commerce in Southern California."

He told of the rapid strides being made by this section of the country, and the prospects for much greater development in the future. The commercial conditions are all favorable for its continued growth, he said. Glendale is in a particularly strategic position, according to Mr. Haddock, being the key to the San Fernando valley which in ten years has developed from a big barley field to its present state.

After giving a number of almost startling statistics regarding the constant growth of southern California, he ended by telling the secretaries that they are, or should be, the "encyclopaedia of their community."

Miss Waigham rendered a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Pray, and responded with an encore.

Prof. Stonier of the University of Southern California then gave an address on "public speaking."

He told of the organization of various classes in public speaking by many business men, and the necessity for the knowledge of talking before an audience. "At some period in the life of everyone who is doing anything which amounts to much comes a time when he must address a group and put himself and his ideas over a definite and convincing manner," stated Professor Stonier.

He told of the many mistakes made by untrained speakers, and the things to be avoided in the preparation and delivery of a speech. Do not attempt to memorize your speech, he advised, but rather get the outline of the points which you wish to make definitely fixed in your mind. Have a good beginning and a definite place to end, and on no condition yield to the temptation to go on when you have reached the correct ending of your speech, he said.

He ended his interesting address with a short verse, "Just California."

Mrs. Cavanaugh rendered two vocal numbers, "To You" and "If I Knew You and You Knew Me."

The Torrance fair, August 12 to 15, the Downey fair, August 24 to 26, and the Imperial County Fair, October 23 to 25, were announced by representatives from the different localities.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh sang Tosti's "Good-bye," with a depth of feeling which left the guests a little hushed as Mr. Sanders ended the affair with thanks to all those who had contributed to its success.

B. C. Cogel Reports Increase of Business

The Peerless Cleaners & Dyers, at 221 East Broadway, are making such rapid strides in the growth of their business, it has become necessary to install more equipment to properly handle the increase. This added machinery is now in place and ready for operation, which will enable them to maintain a one day service. In the past the volume of business handled often prevented the prompt service which would have been given had it not been for the congestion due to inadequate equipment.

B. C. Cogel several months ago purchased this business from Schaffer & Miles. During these months his tireless efforts to give the public of Glendale a cleaning and dyeing establishment with satisfying service has been rewarded. He states that "this growth is, indeed, gratifying and it just convinces me that giving the public a square deal will win."

Youths Planned to See World on Bike

Harry Harshman of 707 East Elk avenue and William Berg of 634 East Elk avenue, Glendale, aged 7 and 10 years, respectively, started out to see the world Saturday, on a bicycle, and were missed by anxious parents, reported to the Glendale police, finally found in Venice, and brought back to their homes that night. They had made the trip on the wheel, and the elder lad using the pedals, and the other riding the handle bars.

Accepting gratuitous advice proves that the fellow who gets something for nothing must pay dearly for it.

F. A. Clarke Company Gets Larger Quarters

After eighteen months of successful business at 310 East Broadway, where they started as one of six branches, growing and expanding, until today they have outgrown quarters which at one time afforded ample room, the F. A. Clarke company now finds it necessary in order to provide for the rapid growth to seek a more commodious location, which was secured at 213 West Broadway, where they will be after August 1.

"This," says C. W. Hamman, manager, "has been made possible only by the confidence of the public which has been merited through our policy of handling only merchandise which we could conscientiously recommend. "We concentrated on the Easy vacuum electric washer, because in our judgment and in that of our many satisfied users, it gives better service and satisfaction, than any other washer on the market."

In addition to washers, they carry vacuum cleaners and major household appliances and instead of six, there are now sixty branches of the F. A. Clarke company, operating in southern California. The expansion of the local branch is evidence of Glendale's growth.

2 Duplex Bungalows Under Construction

Contractor A. T. Gray of 155 South Columbus avenue is constructing two six room duplex bungalows on the southeast corner of Vine street and Pacific avenue for J. R. Dotterer. Foundations have been completed and work is in progress on the upper structures.
