

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

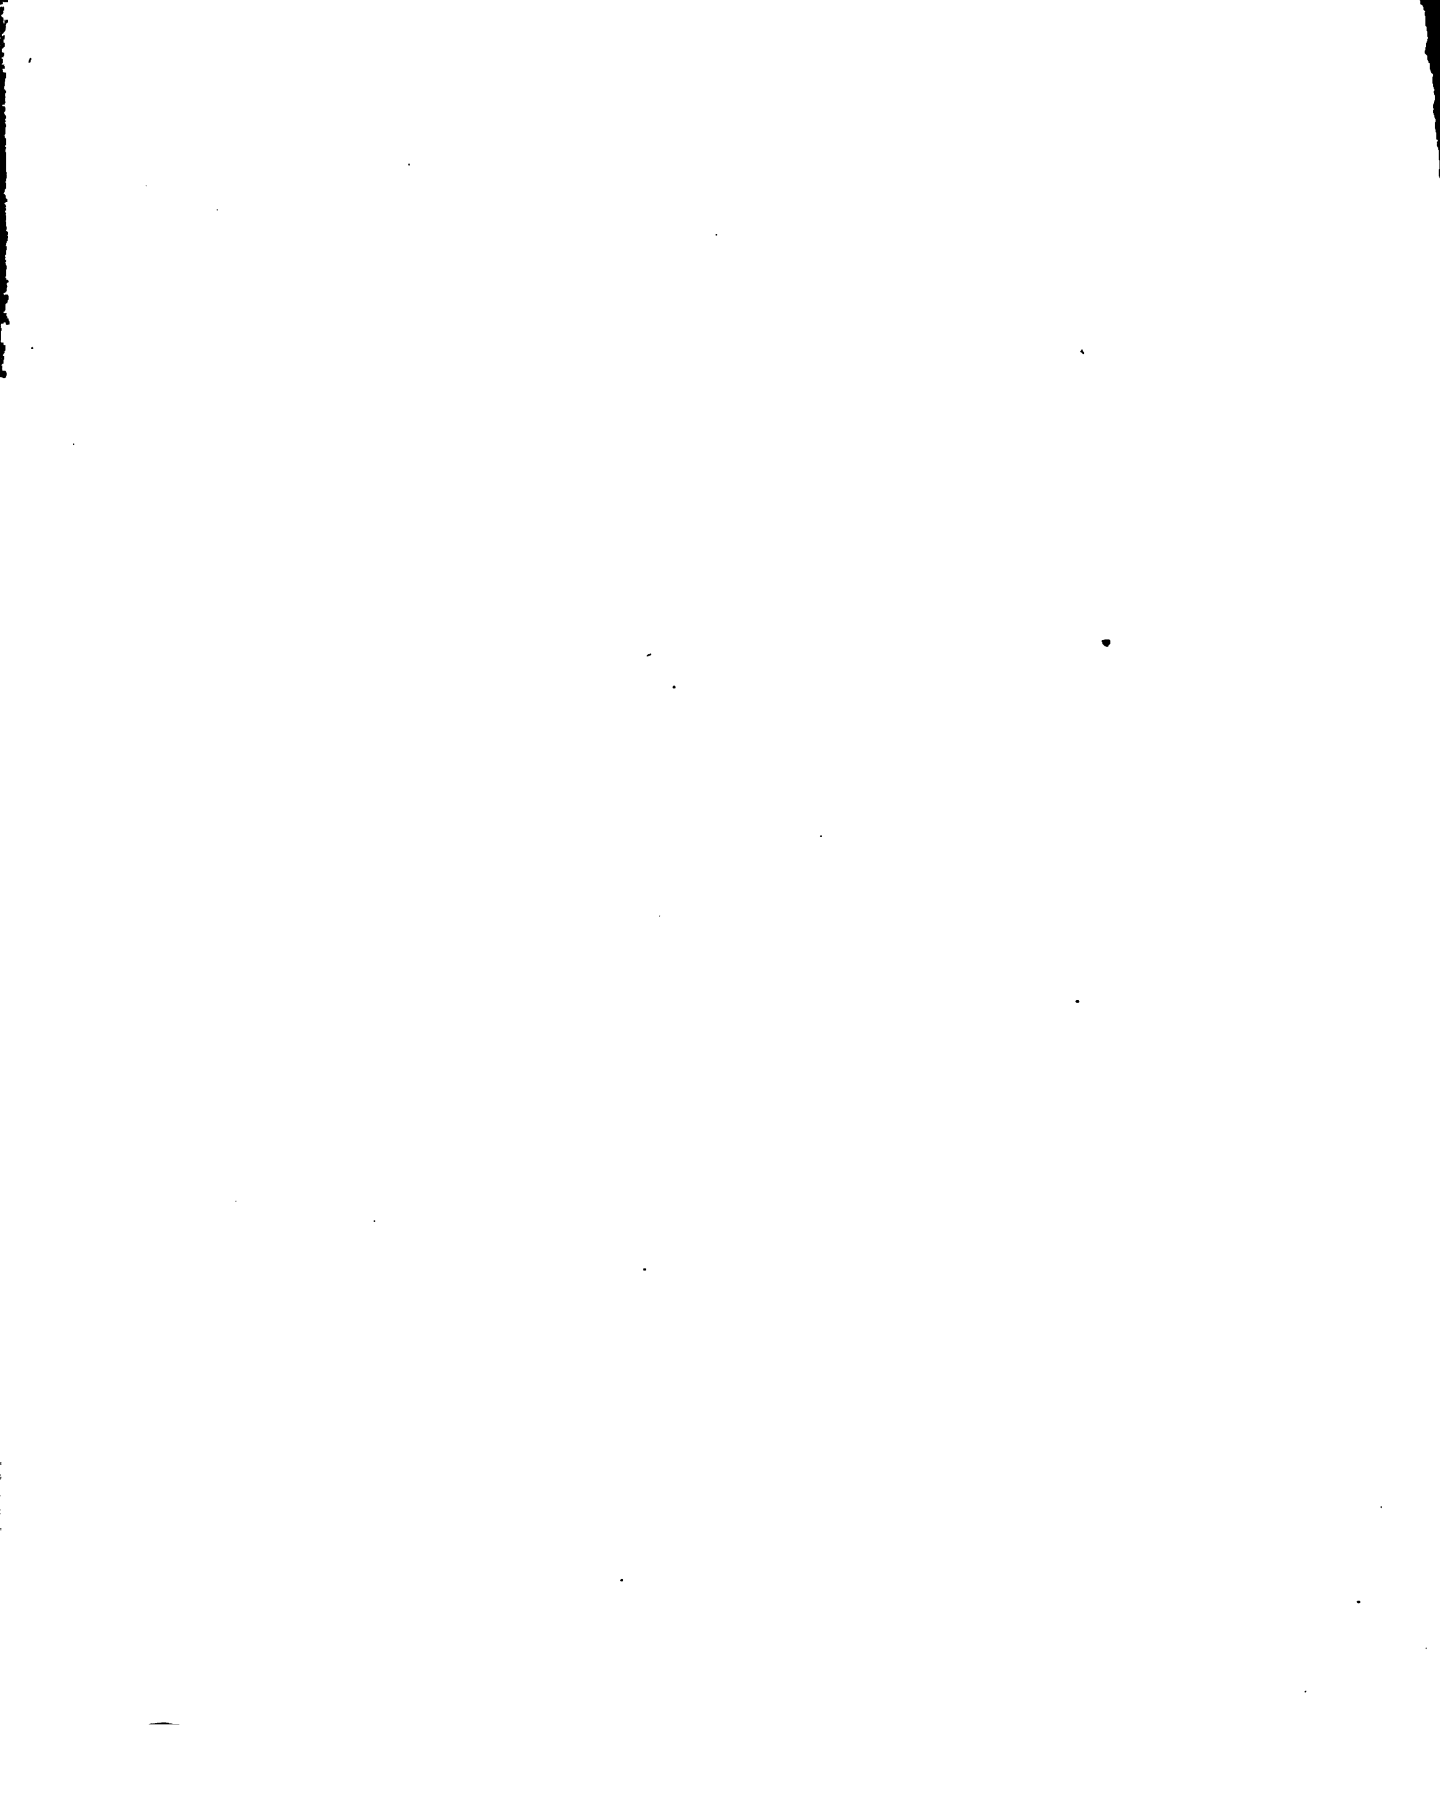

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. Equity.

L. C. ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. ELY, HADDENHAM, AND SUTTON RAILWAY COMPANY. Railway Company—Obstruction of Road—Convenience—Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, ss. 16, 46.	Jan. 11.

The Ely, Haddenham, and Sutton Railway was empowered to cross a fen road from Thetford to Grunty Fen. The railway company diverted the fen road, and made it cross by a level crossing at the same place as a turnpike road. Ten of the inhabitants of Thetford occupying land in Grunty Fen filed an information for an injunction to restrain the railway company from obstructing the fen road. The Master of the Rolls dismissed the information (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 106), and the relators appealed. Jessel, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the appellants.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Dryden, for the company. THE LORD CHANCELLOR commented on sections 16, 46, 53, 54, 55, and 56 of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, and said that, under section 46, if the company took the road directly across the railway, they must either make a bridge or a tunnel, but the other sections gave them power to divert it, and then they were not under that obligation, and might make a level crossing. The country being level, the road must be diverted horizontally or vertically. On the evidence and on general knowledge, His Lordship thought that the horizontal diversion made by the company No. 1.—1869.

pany would be less inconvenient to the public than the vertical diversion by a bridge, and that the Court ought not to interfere. The appeal would be dismissed with costs. Solicitors: Kingsford & Dorman; J. Wheeler.

Company—Winding-up—Bankrupt Contributory—Mutual Credit—Bill of Exchange—Set-off—Companies Act, 1862, s. 75.

This was an appeal by the official liquidator from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 223). Southgate, Q.C., Bagshawe, and Bush, for the appellant. Rozburgh, Q.C., and Bedwell, for the respondents.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that the mutual credit clauses in bankruptcy applied, and that the case was governed by the decision in In re Duckworth (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 578). They, therefore, reversed the decision of the Master of the Rolls, and rejected the claim.

Supply of Gas—Great Central Gas Consumers Act, 1861—Building situate partly in the District of one Gas Company and partly in that of another Gas Company.

This was an appeal by the plaintiffs from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 233). Jessel, Q.C., and Davey, for the appellants. Southgate, Q.C., and Wickens, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THEIR LORDSHIPS refused the appeal motion with costs, on the ground that, even if the plaintiffs were right in their construction of the defendants' Act, nothing but pecuniary damage, by reason of loss of profit on the supply of gas, was alleged, and that to grant an interlocutory injunction in such a case would be contrary to the practice of the Court.

Principal and Agent—Mortgage of Stock—Custom of Stock Exchange—Whether identical Stock must be returned.

This was an appeal by the defendants from the decree made at the hearing of the cause (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 165), and from a subsequent order made on petition. Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Pearson, Q.C., and Currey, for the appellants.

Cotton, Q.C., and W. Morris, for the plaintiff. THEIR LORDSHIPS dismissed the bill with costs, on the ground that the plaintiff had, after the institution of the suit, and before the bill was amended, sold the stock which the defendants had transferred to him, and thus made himself unable to fulfil the offer made by his bill, and embodied in the decree, to re-transfer the stock, which fact had been kept back until after the decree, but now appeared on the plaintiff's own petition. Their Lordships, however, considering that the suppression probably did not arise from any fraudulent intention, directed the dismissal to be without prejudice to a new suit.

PICKERING v. CAPE TOWN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Jan. 11.

Practice—Motion to dismiss—Assignment by Plaintiff for Benefit of Creditors.

Bedwell moved to dismiss for want of prosecution.

In May, 1867, the plaintiff had executed a deed of assignment, vesting his property in a trustee for the benefit of his creditors. In November, 1868, the Lords Justices refused to enforce the deed against dissenting creditors (Ex parte Pickering, Law Rep. 4 Ch. 58), whereupon the defendants served notice of motion to dismiss for want of prosecution.

A. E. Miller, for the plaintiff, opposed the motion:—

The defendants, with knowledge that the suit had abated by the transmission of all the plaintiff's interest in the subject-matter, as upon a bankruptcy, could not move to dismiss without bringing the assignee before the Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendants had not lost their right to move to dismiss; a voluntary assignment not having the same effect as a bankruptcy.

Insurance; Total Loss—Policy on Freight—Interest of Assured.

In September, 1865, Gladstone & Co. of Liverpool, on behalf of Whitworth & Co. of Manchester, chartered a vessel called the Savoir Faire, belonging to Fletcher & Co. of Liverpool, to carry a cargo of salt from Liverpool to Calcutta, at a freight of 28s. per ton on the quantity delivered; to be paid 1250*l.* in cash on the sailing of the vessel, less three months' interest and cost of insurance, and the remainder on right delivery of the cargo. The Savoir Faire sailed on her voyage (with 1961½ tons of salt on board) on the 6th of November, on which day Gladstone & Co. paid to Fletcher & Co. the 1250*l.* less three months' interest only, Fletcher & Co. themselves causing the insurance to be effected. The policy in question was accordingly effected by the plaintiffs, on the 3rd of November, for Fletcher & Co., being 1250*l.* "on freight valued at 2800*l.*" The residue of the freight was covered by another policy.

On the 7th of November the Savoir Faire struck on the Blackwater Bank, on the coast of Wexford, and was abandoned by the crew. On the 12th, she was got off by a steam-tug, after about 1000 tons of her cargo had been thrown overboard; and she arrived at Liverpool on the following day, when the remainder (about 960 tons) was landed, all being more or less damaged, and ultimately found on survey to be commercially incapable of being carried to Calcutta as salt. The 960 tons were, by consent of all parties, sold, and produced 81*l.* after payment of expenses.

The vessel was repaired and was ready for sea in about six weeks, when the owners applied to Gladstone & Co. for another cargo of salt. They having none to ship, Messrs. Fletcher shipped a cargo on their own account, which arrived in safety at Calcutta, and realised a considerable profit.

In an action upon the policy, averring a total loss, the defendants, having paid 450*l.* on account, contended that there was no total loss, inasmuch as a portion of the cargo was landed, and the voyage was only retarded and not lost. They further contended that the charterers had no insurable interest at the date of the policy, and that, if any existed, it was misdescribed.

The objections were overruled. No question was left to the jury; but a verdict was taken for the plaintiffs for the balance of the 1250*l.* and interest; the defendants being at liberty to move to enter a verdict for them, or to reduce the damages, if the Court should think such leave should have been reserved.

Quain, Q.C., moved accordingly. He referred to Hall v. Janson (4 E. & B. 500); Everth v. Smith (2 M. & S. 278); Arnould on Insurance (3rd ed. 28); and 2 Phillips on Insurance (4th ed. 344, 350).

THE COURT held that the interest was well described as "freight," and that the only inference they could draw from the evidence was, that the loss was total; and the rule was refused.

Election Petition—31 & 32 Vict. c. 125—Form of Petition—Particulars of alleged Bribery and Treating, &c.

The petition in this case alleged in general terms charged that the respondent had been guilty of bribery, treating, and undue influence by himself and by his agents, and other persons.

A summons was taken out by the respondent, calling upon the petitioners to shew cause why the petition should not be taken off the file of the Court on the ground that it was not in the form prescribed by the statute (s. 20), and the rules of Court made pursuant thereto (ss. 2—5); and, also, why the petitioners should not forthwith deliver to the respondent or his agent particulars in writing of all persons alleged by the petitioners to have given, offered, or received bribes, and of all persons to whom they were given or offered, or from whom they were received respectively, and of the times and places of the giving, offering, and receiving the same respectively, and of the nature of the bribes respectively; and of all persons by whom treating is, by the petitioners, alleged to have been practised, and of all persons by them respectively treated, and of the times, and places, and nature of such alleged treating respectively, in each of the alleged instances; and of all persons by and towards whom respectively undue influence is by the petitioners alleged to have been exercised; and the times, places, and manner of the alleged exercise thereof in each of the alleged instances; and also of all instances alleged by the petitioners of the hiring, engaging, paying money for and using conveyances for the purpose in the petition alleged.

Willes, J., refused to order the petition to be vacated, and as to the rest ordered "that the petitioners shall, three days before the day appointed for trial, leave with the master, and also give the respondent or his agent, particulars in writing of all persons alleged to have been bribed, of all persons alleged to have been treated, of all persons alleged to have been unduly influenced, and of all persons alleged to have been conveyed to the poll and the expenses thereof paid; and that no evidence shall be given by the petitioners of any objection not specified in such particulars, except by leave of a judge, upon such terms (if any) as to amendment, postponement, and payment of costs, as may be ordered.

Upon appeal against this order,

THE COURT held that the petition was sufficient in point of form, and that they saw no reason to find fault with the exercise of the judge's discretion as to the extent of the particulars ordered.

L. J.J. In re WARREN'S BLACKING COMPANY. Jan. 14.
PENTLOW'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Allotment of Shares—Repudiation.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins removing the name of Mr. Pentlow from the list of contributories of the above-named company (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 261).

The prospectus of the company stated that 3*l.* must be paid on each share—1*l.* on application, and the other 2*l.* on allotment. Pentlow applied for ten shares, and paid 10*l.* upon such application into the company's bank on the 25th of July, 1865. On the 5th of August he received a letter from the secretary stating that the directors had allotted him ten shares on his paying on or before the 11th of August into the Bank of London a further sum of 20*l.*, to make up 3*l.* on each share.

Before that day arrived Pentlow, having in the meantime discovered that some of the statements in the prospectus were misrepresentations, wrote to the secretary refusing to accept the shares, and requesting that the 10*l.* deposit might be returned to him. The company was subsequently wound up.

Under these circumstances the Vice-Chancellor held that Pentlow's name ought not to be put upon the list of contributories, and the official liquidator appealed from this decision.

Fry, for the official liquidator.

Glasse, Q. C., and Higgins, for the respondent.

THE LORDS JUSTICES held that the contract to take the shares was in fieri until the 11th of August, and as Pentlow had repudiated the shares before that date, his name ought not to be on the list of contributories. They therefore dismissed the appeal with costs.

L. J.J. TOOTH v. HALLETT. Jan. 18.

Building Contract—Equitable Assignment of Money due thereon—Bankruptcy of Builder—Assignee completing the Building—Priority.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins. Hampton, a builder, was, in 1866, engaged under a building contract in erecting some buildings at Brighton for Hallett & Abbey, brewers. Tooth & Co. were timber merchants, and in August, 1866, Hampton owed them 200*l.* for timber. Hampton required a further supply of timber from them, which they refused to give him without having security for the debt. Hampton thereupon, on the 29th of August, 1866, wrote an order to Hallett & Abbey as follows: "I will thank you to pay to Messrs. Tooth & Co. 200*l.* due on my building contract with you." Notice of this assignment was at once given to Hallett & Abbey, and they then stated that there might be nothing coming due to Hampton, as 25 per cent. of the price was retained till completion of the contract, and was subject to deduction in the nature of penalties for non-completion at the time fixed by the contract. On the 14th of September, 1866, Hampton executed a creditors' deed, whereby he assigned all his estate to one Woollett for the benefit of his creditors. After this Woollett completed the building, partly at his own expense and partly out of moneys advanced to him by Hallett & Abbey. If the expenses of completion were deducted there was nothing due to Hampton.

Tooth & Co. filed this bill against Hallett & Abbey and Woollett to obtain a declaration that they were entitled to the 200*l.*, and for an account.

The Vice-Chancellor having dismissed the bill with costs, the plaintiffs appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the appellants.

Glasse, Q.C., and Freeling, for the defendants.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that, as the assignment to the plaintiff was only of what was coming to Hampton under the contract, which was subject to the conditions of that contract, one of which was that, if the building was not completed at the time fixed, Hallett & Abbey should have a right to employ another builder to complete, the plaintiffs had no right to any voice in the selection of the person employed to complete. As Woollett advanced his own moneys to complete the building, the plaintiffs could stand in no better position than if a third person had been employed for that purpose. It would not be carrying too far the principle of Myers v. United Assurance Company (7 D. M. & G. 112) to apply it to this case. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

M. R. In re BROWNE'S WILL. Jan. 11.
Settlement—Covenant to Settle after-acquired Property—Irish Tontine Debentures.

Caroline Browne, widow, who died in 1842, by her will gave all her property to trustees upon trust, as to one half thereof, for her son, and as to the other half, for her five daughters, in equal shares. Part of this property consisted of four Irish Tontine Debentures, issued under the authority of an Act of the Irish Parliament held in the nineteenth and twentieth years of the reign of George III. The owner of one of the debentures so issued was entitled during the life of the person therein named to an annuity of 7*l.* 10*s.* Irish currency, together with a share of all other such annuities as might cease to be payable to the holders of other debentures by reason of the deaths of the persons named therein.

Three of the daughters of Mrs. Browne married after the death of their mother, and on the marriage of each a settlement was executed, containing an assignment of property to trustees, not including the Tontine Debentures by specific description, and also an agreement for the settlement of other property. The question upon this petition was whether the interests of the daughters in these debentures, which had latterly become very valuable, were subject to these covenants. For the purpose of this Note it will be sufficient to state the terms of one of them; viz. that contained in the settlement of Mr. and Mrs. Kynaston, dated the 13th of September, 1851. The recitals contained no reference to the debentures or to future property of Mrs. Kynaston; nor did the assignment of specific property contain any mention of the debentures. The covenant was a several one by Mr. and Mrs. Kynaston, that in case any personal property of the value of 200*l.* or upwards, at any one time (except jewels, trinkets, ornaments, plate, pictures, prints, and books, which it was thereby declared should belong to Mrs. Kynaston for her separate use), should at any time or times during the then intended coverture be given or bequeathed to or in any manner vest in Mrs. Kynaston, or in Mr. Kynaston in her right, then and in such case he and she respectively, and their respective executors and administrators, would make and execute all such acts and assurances as might be necessary for vesting the same in the trustees thereof upon the trusts thereby declared with respect to the property of Mrs. Kynaston thereby settled.

Jessel, Q.C., and Cookson, for the three daughters of Mrs. Browne and their husbands.

Gregory, for the trustees of Mrs. Browne's will.

Eddis, for the trustees of the marriage settlements.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the covenant extended only to property acquired after the coverture; that the interest under the debentures was vested in Mrs. Kynaston at the time of her marriage, and was not subject to the covenant.

Solicitors: Price, Bolton, & Filder.

M. R. HOPE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE, & CO. SOCIETY v. EDWARDS. Jan. 12.
Suit to impeach Judgment for Fraud.

In 1863 a petition was presented for the winding-up of the Hope Mutual Life Assurance, &c. Society, by J. Bowes, the assignee of a judgment obtained in 1858 against the Society by one Schlappfer. The petition was opposed on the ground that the judgment had been obtained by fraud, the action having been defended by the Mitre Assurance Company, to whom the assets and liabilities of the Hope Society had been transferred in 1855, and the judgment having been signed by the directions of the managing director of the Mitre Company, who had purchased from Schlappfer all his rights in the action with the money of the Mitre Company, and afterwards assigned by Schlappfer to him, and sold by him to L. F. Edwards, and assigned to Bowes as trustee for Edwards.

The Master of the Rolls made a winding-up order, which was discharged by the Lords Justices, and, on an appeal to the House of Lords, the petition was ordered to stand over, upon the Hope Company undertaking to take proceedings to impeach the judgment.

This was a suit instituted in pursuance of that undertaking against Edwards, Bowes, and the official manager of the Mitre Company (which was being wound up) to have the judgment declared void in equity as regarded the defendants.

Jessel, Q.C., and Hemming, for the plaintiffs.

Southgate, Q.C., Cracknall, G. O. Edwards, and Kekewich, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the plaintiffs had failed to prove the alleged fraud, and dismissed the bill with costs.

M. R. EARL BEAUCHAMP v. WINN. Jan. 14.
Warren of Conies—Tenement—38 Geo. 3, c. 60, s. 57—Suit to rescind Agreement on ground of Mistake.

In October, 1864, Henry Earl Beauchamp and Charles Winn made an agreement for the exchange of certain lands and rights in Lincolnshire, the agreement being based upon the assumption that Winn was entitled to the soil of and the minerals under a common called East Common, in the parish of Brumby, and that the Earl was entitled to a right of free warren over the East Common. The Earl subsequently, upon an investigation of his title-deeds, considered that he was the owner of the soil of the East Common, and thereupon instituted this suit to set aside the agreement on the ground of common mistake.

The Earl derived his title under a grant from the Duchy of Cornwall, dated the 27th of March, 1799, by way of sale for the purpose of the redemption of land tax under 38 Geo. 3, c. 60, s. 57, of "all that warren of conies, with all the rights, members, and appurtenances in Brumby, and all that lodge or house thereupon built, and all that warren of conies, with the rights, &c. in Redbourne, both which said warrens of conies are now commonly called or known by the name of Brumby Warren, and do extend themselves in and over the wastes or East Moors of Brumby, &c." Winn derived his title under a similar grant from the Duchy, dated the 6th of July, 1799, of the manor and soke of Kirton-in-Lindsey. In the agreement Winn was stated to be lord of the manor of Brumby, but in the suit he alleged that there was never a manor of Brumby, but that the parish of Brumby was parcel of the manor and soke of Kirton. There were deeds in the possession of the Earl, some of which were enrolled in the Duchy office, purporting to convey to the Earl's predecessors in title the manor or reputed manor of Brumby. A mass of documentary evidence was produced to shew the extent of the manor of Kirton, and the existence of a franchise of free warren over the East Common. Henry Earl Beauchamp died in 1866, and the suit was revived by the present Earl, who succeeded to his estates.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Jessel, Q.C., and Walford, for the plaintiff, contended that (1) no franchise of free warren had ever existed over Brumby Common; (2) having regard to the omission of the word "hereditaments" in 38 Geo. 3, c. 60, s. 57, the Duchy of Cornwall had no power to sell a franchise under the Act; (3) the grant of the 27th of March, 1799, conveyed, not a right of warren, but the soil of a district of land called Brumby Warren; and (4) the parish of Brumby, though within the soke, was not part of the manor of Kirton, but there was a distinct manor of Brumby, of which the plaintiff was the lord.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Mellish, Q.C., Speed, and Jeune, for the defendants, contended that the existence of the franchise had been proved by user from time immemorial; that such a franchise was a "tenement" within the meaning of 38 Geo. 3, c. 60, s. 57; that the franchise and not a right to the soil passed by the grant of the 27th of March, 1799, and that Brumby Common was part of the manor of Kirton; and that, even if the plaintiff had succeeded in proving the alleged mistake, it was not such a mistake as would entitle him to relief in equity.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held, that the Duchy of Cornwall had a franchise of free warren over Brumby Common, that it was a tenement which the Duchy was empowered by the Act to sell, that by the grant of March, 1799, the franchise only, and not the soil, passed, and that Brumby was part of the manor of Kirton. The alleged mistake therefore did not exist, and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

M. R. JOHNSON v. LANDER. Jan. 15.
Husband and Wife—Judicial Separation—Wife's Chose in Action not reduced into Possession at Time of Decree—20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, s. 25—Costs.

This was a suit to administer the trusts of a settlement, under which a sum of Consols was vested in trustees upon trust, after the death of a tenant for life, who died in March, 1867, for the plaintiff Mrs. Johnson and two other persons in equal shares. In February, 1868, after the institution of the suit, the plaintiff obtained a decree in the Divorce Court for judicial separation. The only questions were (1) whether, under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, s. 25, the plaintiff's share of the trust-fund had, by the decree for judicial separation, become her absolute property; and (2) whether the plaintiff's husband should be allowed his costs of the suit.

Karslake, Q.C., and Bristowe, for the plaintiff.

Jervis and Archibald Smith, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the plaintiff's share of the trust-fund, not having been reduced into possession at the time of the decree for judicial separation, had become her absolute property, as if she were a feme sole, and refused to give the husband his costs.

Solicitors for the plaintiff: Fielder & Sumner.

M. R. SWENNEY v. SMITH. Jan. 15.
Company—Forfeiture of Shares—Tender under Protest.

This was a suit by the plaintiff, on behalf of himself and all other the members of Spence's Patent Non-conducting Composition and Cement Company Limited, except the defendants, against the company and the directors, to set aside two purchases of patents by the company on the ground of the invalidity thereof, and to cancel an alleged forfeiture of the plaintiff's shares.

Spence's first patent was taken out in 1862, and in 1863 he assigned all his interest therein to the defendant Smith in consideration of a royalty thereby reserved. Shortly afterwards Smith granted to the defendant James the exclusive right of working the patent in consideration of a royalty. In 1865 Smith and James formed the company for the purpose of acquiring their respective interests in the patent, and also the plant, stock-in-trade, and goodwill of the business then carried on by the defendant James.

In 1863 Spence took out a second patent, which he soon afterwards assigned to the defendants Smith and Bayley. The company, after being incorporated, agreed to purchase both patents, and had in part paid the purchase-money, but no formal assignment thereof had been made.

In 1867 the plaintiff discovered that (as he alleged) the patents were worthless, the invention having been anticipated by a patent taken out in 1856 by one Mennon. Upon making this discovery he was desirous to bring the fact, and also the state of the company's affairs in general, under the notice of a general meeting to be held on the 17th of April, 1867; and he prepared and sent to the directors certain resolutions which he desired to be circulated among the shareholders, in accordance with the articles of association, and afterwards to be submitted to the meeting. The directors gave him notice that his shares would be forfeited unless a call, which was then due from him, was paid on the 10th of April, and they did not circulate his resolutions.

On the 10th of April the plaintiff sent to the secretary of the company a cheque for the amount of the call, along with a letter containing protests against being compelled to pay it; and requesting that the money be held in trust by the directors (whom he would hold responsible for repayment thereof) until the question of the vendor's patent rights had been settled. On the following day the directors returned the cheque, on the ground that they could not receive it under the conditions contained in the letter, and forfeited the shares. On the 15th of April the bill was filed. On the 17th the general meeting was held, and the plaintiff was allowed, under protest, to be present and to propose his resolutions, which were negatived.

The cause now came on to be heard.

Southgate, Q.C., and Mackeson, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., De Gex, Q.C., Jessel, Q.C., Roazburgh, Q.C., Horton Smith, Bowring, Rudall, Springall Thompson, and Freeling, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the tender on the 10th of April, 1867, was good, and the forfeiture bad; that the forfeiture ought, therefore, to be cancelled; but that no further relief could be given, as the purchase of the patents was not fraudulent or ultra vires. His Lordship also held that the bill, as to the cancellation of the forfeiture, was properly filed on behalf of the plaintiff and the other shareholders of the company.

Solicitors: Jones & Blaizland; Powell, Thompson, & Groom.

V.-C. M. In re BRANNEY'S TRUST. Jan. 16.
Presumption of Death.

The question in this case was one of presumption of death. The deceased being entitled to the interest on a legacy of 1000*l.*, which had been duly paid to him from 1857 to 1860, received payment of his April dividend, and was not seen or heard of after August in that year. It was proved that he was in great poverty, in ill health, and of intemperate habits, and the question arose as to whether he died before or after the 7th of November, 1860.

Glasse, Q.C., and Daly, for the petitioner.
G. O. Morgan, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, under the circumstances, he must presume that the deceased, who was in so poor circumstances, and in want of money, not having applied for his October dividend, had died before that time. It had been suggested that he had gone to America, but no proof of that had been given, and he had not the means of going there. He must therefore presume that the deceased, not having been heard of for more than seven years, had died, and that he died before the 7th of November.

V.-C. M. TURNOR v. CLOWES. Jan. 18.
Specific Performance—Agreement for Lease—Right of Shooting.

This was a suit for specific performance of an agreement to grant a lease of house and lands and right of shooting over other lands. Subsequently a lease was granted of the other lands, expressly reserving the right of shooting which had been so granted. Shortly before the expiration of the term for which the right of shooting had been granted, the tenant of the other land destroyed covers, cut down timber, and did other acts which, the plaintiff alleged, interfered with the right of shooting granted to him. The term of the lease had expired when the bill was filed, and it was admitted that the only object of the suit was to enable the plaintiff to proceed at law for damages.

Holmes (Cotton, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff.

Pearson, Q.C., and F. J. Wood, for the lessors, and Glasse, Q.C., and Loudon, for the defendants, were not called on.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the bill asked specific performance of an agreement for a lease which had expired, in order to enable the plaintiff to bring an action. By granting such a lease, a landlord did not tie up his hands as to the management of his estate. The plaintiff, had he so intended, should have insisted on an express covenant to protect his right of shooting, but he had not done so. The bill, therefore, must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. KETTLEWELL v. BARSTOW. Jan. 13.
Pleading—Title—Sufficient Averment—Demurrer.

Demurrer.

The bill was filed by the plaintiff, who alleged himself to be "as defendants well knew," the heir-at-law of Ann Fawcett, for the purpose of obtaining possession of estates to which Ann Fawcett was, at her death, entitled and seised of, and a delivery of the title-deeds into Court for safe custody and use by the plaintiff for the purposes of the ejectments brought by him against the defendants, and delivery of such title-deeds to himself as soon as the plaintiff should have established his title to the estates.

The bill also sought discovery from the defendants as to the persons in whom the estates comprised in a settlement of 1822, under which Ann Fawcett ultimately became entitled, were now vested, and prayed an account of rents received, and a receiver, and an injunction.

The defendants Fawcett and the Barstows had demurred, on the ground that the plaintiff, who simply averred himself to be heir-at-law of Ann Fawcett, without shewing any pedigree, was not entitled to discovery from the defendants, who, upon the authorities, were entitled to raise the objection by demurrer.

E. Russell Roberts (Druce, Q.C., with him) and Wickens, in support of the demurrer.

Kay, Q.C., and Cottrell, for the plaintiff, were not heard.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR overruled the demurrer, but gave the defendants leave to plead to the bill.

V.-C. J. In re HANNAH GREEN'S TRUST. Jan. 18.
Will—Construction—Gift by Implication.

Testatrix bequeathed to Ann Adam 400*l.*, to be paid to her at 21 or marriage, and 26*l.* Long Annuities for and during the term of her natural life, free from the debts, control, or engagements of any husband, with a direction to pay her 10*l.* per annum from her (testatrix's) death until Ann Adam should attain 21; but in case of the death of Ann Adam, without issue, under 21, then testatrix gave the 400*l.* and 26*l.* Long Annuities to Thomas Adam. In case of the death of Thomas Adam and Ann Adam before they attained 21, and without issue, then to the child or children of William Buckley, in such manner as he might direct or think proper.

The will contained a residuary gift.

Ann Adam attained 21, was married, had nine children, and died in 1843.

The dividends on the Long Annuities between the death of Ann Adam and their expiry in 1860 had not been received by anyone, and were, in 1854, transferred to the Commissioners for the Reduction of the National Debt.

A petition having been presented by the legal personal representative of the testatrix for a transfer of the accrued dividends (442*l.*) upon the Long Annuities, the question arose whether the children of Ann Adam or the residuary legatees were entitled.

Lindley, for the petitioner.

Wickens, for the Attorney-General and the Commissioners for the National Debt.

Eddis, for the children of Ann Adam, contended that there was a gift to them by implication, and cited Ex parte Rogers (2 Madd. 449).

Darby, for the residuary legatees, was not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that he could not extend the doctrine of gifts by implication. The case of Ex parte Rogers was very different, and it must be held that the residuary legatees were entitled.

Q. B. HENDERSON v. SQUIRE. Jan. 12.
Landlord and Tenant—Liability of Tenant for holding over by Sub-tenant.

The plaintiff let a house to the defendant from year to year under a parol agreement. The defendant occupied a part of the house, and sublet the other part. The term having expired, the plaintiff demanded possession; the defendant quitted the house, but was unable to give up possession, the sub-tenant refusing to go out. The plaintiff brought ejectment against the sub-tenant and recovered possession. The plaintiff then brought an action against the defendant for not having quitted and delivered up possession at the end of the term, claiming, as damages, a sum for being kept out of possession and the costs of the ejectment.

Hawkins, Q.C., and Ruymond, for the plaintiff.

Field, Q.C., and Cave, for the defendant.

THE COURT held that the contract implied by law between the parties was that the landlord should let and give possession of the house to the tenant, and that the tenant should quit and restore possession at the end of the term; and that the defendant, not having restored complete possession, was liable for the damages claimed.

Q. B. SHEPHERD v. HARRISON AND ANOTHER. Jan. 15.
Consignor and Consignee—Whether, under certain circumstances, property in goods shipped passes to Consignee or remains in Consignor.

The plaintiff at Manchester sent an order to P. N. & Co. at Pernambuco in 1867 to buy certain quantities of cotton within certain limits. They bought 747 bales on account of plaintiff, and wrote to plaintiff saying that they had purchased, inclosing two invoices for two lots amounting to 547 bales, adding: "We have drawn upon you, as per note at foot, for the same, to which we beg your protection. The bills of lading will be handed over to you by our agents." The invoices were made out "on account and risk of" the plaintiff. These two lots were received by the plaintiff, under bills of lading, which were forwarded by the agents of P. N. & Co. to the plaintiff, together with two bills of exchange for the respective amounts, with a letter saying: "We inclose bills, to which please do the needful, and return to us in course." The plaintiff accepted the bills, and returned them to the agents, but saying, as to one of the lots, "with a reservation as to the cotton not being according to instructions;" and a long correspondence ensued as to whether or not the plaintiff's order had been complied with. The plaintiff paid the bills at maturity.

The remaining 200 bales were forwarded later by a steamer, of which the defendants were the owners, and P. N. & Co. wrote to the plaintiff, inclosing an invoice (which was "on account and at the risk" of the plaintiff), saying they had drawn on the plaintiff for the amount. P. N. & Co. forwarded the bill of lading (which was drawn deliverable to consignors' order or assigns on payment of freight, and endorsed by them in blank) to their agents at Liverpool, together with the bill of exchange, and the agents forwarded them to the plaintiff, begging "his protection" to the bill.

The plaintiff returned the bill of exchange unaccepted, on the ground that his order had not been complied with as to price and quality; but he retained the bill of lading and forwarded it to his agents, and they, on the 9th of December, 1867, presented it to the defendants, paid the freight, and obtained a delivery order for the cotton signed by the defendants.

The defendants at this time knew nothing of the circumstances under which the plaintiff held the bill of lading; and on receiving information from the agents of P. N. & Co., and an indemnity from them, the defendants, on the 10th of December, refused to deliver the cotton to the plaintiff's agents, saying they should deliver to the agents of P. N. & Co. under a duplicate bill of lading, which those agents held.

The plaintiff then brought an action for the conversion of the cotton, to which the defendants pleaded, Not Guilty, and that the cotton was not the plaintiff's.

At the time the order for the cotton was given by the plaintiff, and up to the time of action brought, P. N. & Co. held in their hands, as agents for the plaintiff, money or goods of the plaintiff to the value of 3000*l.*, the value of the cotton in question being 125*l.*

On a case in which the Court were to draw inferences of fact:

Quain, Q.C. (Jordan with him), for the plaintiff.

Folker, Q.C., for the defendants.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C. J., Mellor, Hannen, and Hayes, JJ.) were of opinion that the question was, what was the intention of P. N. & Co. on shipping the cotton, and that the inference which ought to be drawn from the facts and documents (on the authority of Brandt v. Bouliby (2 B. & Ad. 982) and other cases with which the Court agreed) was, that P. N. & Co. did not intend the property in the cotton should pass to the plaintiff at once on the shipment, but that the acceptance of the bill of exchange by the plaintiff should be a condition precedent to or a concurrent act with the delivery of the bill of lading to him, and, therefore, that the plaintiff had not made out his right to the cotton, and that judgment should be for the defendants.

Q. B. PALMER'S SHIP BUILDING AND IRON COMPANY, APPEL; CHAYTOR, RESP. Jan. 20.

Factory Acts Extension Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 103), s. 3, sub s. 5 (b)—"Factory."

An information was laid against the appellants, charging them with an offence under the Factory Acts, for that they did in their factory employ a child, under the age of 11 years, more than six and a half hours per day.

The appellants carry on very large works, comprising the business of blast furnaces, iron rolling mills, engine building, and iron ship building, in all its branches. The whole of the several branches communicate, and are open from one to the other, and in each department more than fifty persons are employed. The child in question was employed as a rivet boy, and in the department where he worked steam machinery was in use for cutting and shaping iron plates, and rivets were heated there.

The justices found that the appellants' premises were a factory, and that articles of metal were made there by steam power, and convicted the appellants.

The question for the Court was whether the premises were a factory within the meaning of the Statutes.

Mellish, Q.C. (Beresford with him), for the appellants.

The Attorney-General (The Solicitor-General and Archibald with him), for the respondent.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C. J., and Hayes, J.) were clearly of opinion that the department where the child was employed was a "factory" within 30 & 31 Vict. c. 103, s. 3, sub s. 5 (b), which defines "factory" as "any premises in which steam power is used for moving machinery employed in the manufacture of any article of metal not being machinery;" and affirmed the conviction.

C. P. PEGLER, PET.; GURNEY AND HOARE, RESPS. Jan. 11.
Election Petition—31 & 32 Vict. c. 125, ss. 6, 49—Computation of Time.

The 6th section of the 31 & 32 Vict. c. 125, enacts that "the petition shall be presented within twenty-one days after the return has been made to the clerk of the Crown in Chancery," &c.; and section 49 enacts that, "in reckoning time for the purposes of this Act, Sunday, Christmas Day, Good Friday, and any day set apart for a public fast or thanksgiving, shall be excluded."

The return in this case was made on the 20th of November, and the petition was lodged with the master of this Court on the 14th of December, which would be too late, unless the three intervening Sundays were excluded from the computation of the twenty-one days. A summons having been taken out by the respondents, calling upon the petitioner to shew cause why the petition should not be taken off the file, on the ground, amongst others, that it was not presented within twenty-one days after the return, Willes, J., made "no order" thereon. Upon a motion in Court by way of appeal:

THE COURT held that the effect of section 49 was to exclude all Sundays, whether the last day or intervening days, and to give the petitioner twenty-one working days for presenting his petition. The rule was, however, granted upon another point, viz. the sufficiency in point of amount of the security lodged for costs.

C. P. SAXBY v. MANCHESTER, SHEFFIELD, AND LINCOLNSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY. Jan. 15.

Nuisance—Obstruction of Watercourse—Liability of Owners of Land for Continuance of an Obstruction by a Third Person.

The construction of the defendants' railway interfering with the course of a brook which supplied water to several neighhouring print works, the defendants were by their special Act required to make and to keep in repair the banks, &c. of an artificial, which was substituted for a portion of the old brook. In 1854, when two of the print works supplied by means of this cut were held (under different leases) by one Welsh, a weir was placed by him across the cut, so as to divert the water from one of the works. In 1858 the last-mentioned work came into the hands of the plaintiff, and he, in the assumed exercise of his right, removed the weir, and the tenant of the other print work (whose land adjoined the cut) replaced it. The plaintiff then called upon the railway company to restore the cut to its original state; and a long correspondence ensued between their respective attorneys, which resulted in the company expressing their desire to remain neutral, and intimating that so far as they were concerned, the plaintiff might go upon their land for the purpose of himself removing the obstruction. The plaintiff, however, fearing to risk a collision, declined to avail himself of this permission, and sued the company for the wrongful continuance of the obstruction.

THE COURT held that the company were not liable.

In re LONDON AND SOUTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Ex parte ILFRACOMBH PUBLIC CONVEYANCE COMPANY.

Railway Traffic Act (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31)—Costs of unsuccessful Application at Chambers—Review of Judge's Discretion.

In August last an application was made to Blackburn, J., at chambers, for an injunction to restrain the railway company from giving to other persons greater facilities than were accorded to the complainants; but the learned judge declined to grant a summons, thinking the matter one which ought to be brought before the Court.

An application was made to the Court, but unsuccessfully, the materials upon which it was founded being insufficient (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 289).

The railway company having incurred considerable costs in opposing the summons at chambers, applied to Blackburn, J., for an order upon the complainants to pay them. The learned judge (after time taken to consider) ordered that the complainants should pay the costs in question, provided they made another unsuccessful application to the Court; "otherwise no order as to costs."

Upon an application to the Court to rescind or vary this order,

THE COURT held that the granting or refusing costs at chambers was in the judge, and was not subject to review.

C. W. Wood, for the railway company.

HARDING v. INSKIP.

Jan. 14.

Deed under Bankruptcy Act, 1861—Process not available under s. 198—Staying Proceedings.

In this case, in which judgment had been recovered against the defendant,

F. M. White moved for a rule to stay proceedings or to set aside the writ of execution on the following grounds:—The defendant, shortly before trial, and (as was alleged) not in time to plead it to the action, executed and duly registered a deed under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, s. 192, containing a release. Judgment having been recovered, the plaintiff, without obtaining leave from the Court of Bankruptcy, issued execution, and the writ remained, by the consent of the parties, unexecuted in the hands of the sheriff in order to allow of this application being made.

It was contended for the defendant that, as section 198 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, prohibited process from being made available, and as it was clear that the writ was about to be immediately executed contrary to the statute, the Court would interfere to prevent its process from being abused, and Sadler v. Cleaver (7 Bing. 769) was cited.

THE COURT held that the exercise of the discretion whether execution ought or ought not to issue belonged to the Court of Bankruptcy, and refused the rule.

Attorney for applicant: Beetham Batchelor.

MAXTED v. PAINE.

Jan. 18.

Principal and Agent—Custom of Stock Exchange—Jobber's Liability—Shares—"Carrying over" without Authority—Name of Purchaser.

Special case.

The plaintiff, on the 24th of May, 1866, instructed his brokers to sell for him on the Stock Exchange 100 shares in Overend, Gurney, & Co. Limited (which had on the 10th of May stopped payment), and on the same day his brokers accordingly sold them to the defendant, a jobber, for the next account day, the 30th of May. The defendant had on the 11th of May sold 20 shares in the same company to one Witten for the same account. On the "name" day (the day preceding the account day) Witten gave to the defendant the name of one Maxwell as the nominee and ultimate purchaser of the 30 shares; and on the same day the defendant gave Maxwell's name to the plaintiff's brokers as nominee and ultimate purchaser of 80 of the 100 shares sold by him to them for the plaintiff on the 24th.

Witten had himself received Maxwell's name as nominee and purchaser from one North, a stock and share broker, on the 14th of May. Maxwell had on the 12th agreed with North and another person named Punchard, the nominee originally named, that he would allow his name to be handed to Witten on the approaching name day for as many as 80 shares, and that he would accept and pay for the shares if the dealers could deliver a legal transfer, as to the possibility of which he expressed doubt. Neither Witten, nor the defendant, nor the plaintiff, were aware that Maxwell's consent to his name being given was of this limited character. The shares were then, on the instructions of North, carried over to the 31st of May, North not having any authority from Punchard or Maxwell to give such instructions. On the 8th of June a transfer of 30 shares, duly executed by the plaintiff, was tendered to Maxwell for execution, but declined by him on the ground that no legal transfer could be made. The evidence as to the usage of the Stock Exchange given in Grissell v. Bristowe (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 112, at p. 118; Law Rep. 4 C. P. 36) was by consent made part of this case.

Two calls having been made on the shares sold, the plaintiff applied to Maxwell to pay them, but he refused to do so. The plaintiff was thereupon compelled to pay them; and the question for the opinion of the Court was whether, under the circumstances, he could recover from the defendant, the jobber from whom he had received Maxwell's name, the amount so paid.

Pollock, Q.C. (Herschell with him), for the plaintiff.

Mellish, Q.C. (Beresford with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT (Channell, Pigott, and Cleasby, BB.) were of opinion that the defendant was liable. Maxwell had never authorized the carrying over of the shares, and on the "name day" (the 29th of May) had ceased to be a person who was bound to buy the shares. The defendant, therefore, was not within the principle of the decisions in Grissell v. Bristowe in the Exchequer Chamber (Law Rep. 4 C. P. 36) or of Coles v. Bristowe (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 3), and by giving the name of Maxwell, under the circumstances, had not relieved himself from liability.

Judgment for the plaintiff.

L. C. WELLESLEY v. MORNINGTON. Jan. 22.
Mortgagee—Two Funds—Marshalling.

William Earl of Mornington being entitled to a life interest in the surplus of a sum of 462,000*l.*, and in a sum of 31,731*l.*, charged both with the payment of 1000*l.* a year to the Countess of Mornington. He then mortgaged his interest in the 462,000*l.* to one Robinson for 5000*l.*, and this sum was paid by William Richard Earl Mornington, and the security transferred to a trustee for him. Earl William also mortgaged his interest in both funds to one Beavan for 5000*l.* The securities were insufficient.

Earl William Richard's representatives contended that the Countess's charge ought to be thrown on the 31,731*l.*, as she could resort to either, and so relieve their fund. Beavan contended that the Countess's charge should be raised rateably.

The Vice-Chancellor Malins, before whom the question was not argued, made a decree that the Countess's charge ought to be thrown on the 31,731*l.*

The suit came before the Lord Chancellor on appeal on this and other matters.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Southgate, Q.C., and Nalder, for the executors of Earl William Richard.

Cole, Q.C., and Ince, for Beavan.

Osborne, Q.C., Freeling, and Lea, for the Countess.

Druce, Q.C., and Cates, for the executors of Earl William.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the whole doctrine of marshalling and tacking would ill bear the test of logic. He should follow the decision in Barnes v. Radder (1 Y. & C. Ch. 401), though it might not be in accordance with all the other cases, and the Countess's charge must be raised out of both funds rateably.

L. C. HAWKINS v. MALTBY. Jan. 25.
Custom of Stock Exchange—Sub-purchaser—Privity of Contract.

This case, which has been several times before the Court, now came on by way of appeal from the decree of the Master of the Rolls (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 505).

The plaintiffs had through their brokers, on the 21st of March, 1866, agreed to sell forty shares in the Imperial Mercantile Credit Association to one Mackenzie for 20*l.* 10*s.* On the 26th of March, the defendant through his brokers agreed to purchase fifty shares in the same company from Mackenzie for 14*l.* In accordance with the custom of the Stock Exchange, the defendant was named to the plaintiffs as purchaser of their shares, and on the 28th of March, the plaintiffs executed a transfer to him, the consideration being left blank, and afterwards filled in by the brokers with 14*l.*, the difference between that sum and 20*l.* 10*s.* being paid by Mackenzie. The transfer-deed and certificates were on the same day handed to the defendant, and were ever afterwards retained by him, but the transfer was never executed by the defendant. On the 26th of March, a call of 5*l.* per share was made, and formal notice thereof was sent by the plaintiffs to the defendant on the 7th of April. This call bore interest at the rate of 11*l.* per cent. On the 11th of May, the company stopped payment, and was afterwards ordered to be wound up.

On the 31st of August, 1866, a call of 5*l.* per share was made by the official liquidator, who gave notice that this call was also to bear interest at 11*l.* per cent. This notice was forwarded to the defendant.

In October, 1866, the plaintiffs, under pressure put on them by the official liquidator, paid both calls, with interest in the meantime at 11 per cent. In November, 1866, a bill was filed to obtain specific performance of the contract of sale, and to compel the defendant to indemnify the plaintiffs against the above-mentioned calls and all future calls.

The cause came on to be heard by the present Lord Chancellor, then Vice-Chancellor, and the bill was dismissed on the ground that the defendant was ignorant, when he bought the shares, that a call had been made on the 26th of March.

The Lord Chancellor (Lord Chelmsford) on appeal held that the defendant had waived his right to take advantage of that objection, but dismissed the bill on the ground that the contract alleged in the bill was not proved, and without prejudice to a new bill being filed.

A new bill was accordingly filed.

The Master of the Rolls held that the plaintiffs were entitled to be indemnified, but allowed them interest at 4*l.* per cent. only on the calls which they had paid.

The defendant appealed.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bush, for the appellant.

Jessel, Q.C., and Townsend, for the plaintiffs.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR, without calling on the counsel for the respondents, dismissed the appeal with costs.

L. C. CRAVEN v. BRADY. Jan. 25.
Will—Appointment—Forfeiture of Widow's Life Estate on Second Marriage and Acceleration of Remainder.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Law Rep. 4 Eq. 209).

The question related to a devise in the will of J. F. Dyson, by which he gave real estate to his wife for her life, and after her death to her son, with a proviso that his wife's estate should cease, as if she were dead, "if she should sell, release, or charge her life estate; or should do, make, or execute any deed, matter, or thing whereby or by means whereof she should be deprived of the rents and profits of the real estate, or the power or right to receive or control the same, so that her receipt alone should not at all times be a good and sufficient discharge for the same."

The testator's widow married C. Brady, and no settlement of her property was made; and the question arose whether by so doing she had forfeited her life estate, and, if so, who became entitled to the devised estates.

The Master of the Rolls held that, by marrying without a settlement, Mrs. Brady had forfeited her life estate, and that the forfeiture had accelerated the estate of the remaindermen.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady appealed.

Kay, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the appellants.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Cookson, and Wingfield, for the respondents.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR, without calling on the counsel for the respondents, dismissed the appeal.

L. JJ. In re ALDBOROUGH HOTEL COMPANY. Jan. 21.
SIMPSON'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Conditional Acceptance of Shares.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 266).

On the 23rd of October, 1865, Samuel Simpson, a builder, wrote a letter to the directors of the Aldborough Hotel Company in these terms: "In consideration of my being secured the contract for carrying out the alterations and additions to the Aldborough Hotel, and the contract amounting to 9000*l.*, I hereby agree to subscribe for and take 300 shares in the said company, and to pay the deposit on the said shares as soon as the secretary of the company shall satisfy me that 1500 shares (including my 300) have been subscribed for, and that the directors of the company have by resolution duly confirmed and agreed that I shall carry out the said alterations and additions," upon certain conditions.

On the 7th of November, 1865, the directors passed a resolution that Simpson should have the contract for carrying out the alterations, &c. upon the terms of his letter, and on the same day they allotted him 300 shares. On the 11th of November notice of the allotment was given to Simpson. On the 17th his solicitor, having ascertained by inspecting the allotment-book and the directors' minute-book that 1500 shares had been subscribed for, and that the directors had passed the above resolution, he sent in a formal application for 300 shares, and paid to the company 1*l.* per share deposit-money. No further notice of allotment was sent to him, and no contract was made for carrying out the alterations, &c. In January, 1867, the company passed and confirmed resolutions for its voluntary winding-up, and in February, 1867, the winding-up was ordered to be continued under the supervision of the Court.

The Master of the Rolls held that the contract to take the shares was conditional, and that Simpson's name ought not to be on the list of contributories. The liquidator appealed.

Swanston, Q.C., and Chitty, for the appellant.

Jessel, Q.C., Roxburgh, Q.C., and James Kaye, for Simpson.

THE LORDS JUSTICES, without calling on the counsel for the respondent, held that the case came within the authority of Pellatt's Case (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 527); that the contract to take the shares was conditional on Simpson having the contract to make the alterations in the hotel; and that, as the condition was not performed, his name must be removed from the list. They therefore dismissed the appeal with costs.

Dickinson, Q.C., Archibald Smith, and Bagshawe, for the societies.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the plaintiffs.

In re BIDDULPH.

Breach of Trust—Joint and Several Debt—Unknown Cestui que Trust.

This was an appeal from a refusal to admit a proof against the separate estate of A. G. W. Biddulph, one of the bankrupts, who was one of the executors of the Countess de Front. The proof was for the same sum which it had formerly been sought to prove against the separate estate of Jerningham, another of the bankrupts, who was not one of the executors. That case is reported (6 D. M. & G. 801), where the facts of the case will be found.

De Geer, Q.C., and Ramadge, for the appeal.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Elderton, for the assignees, in support of the order.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that, the investment being of such a nature as to be a breach of trust, the burden lay on the executors to shew that it had been sanctioned by all the persons beneficially interested. This they had failed to do, and the case was not altered by the fact that the persons whose concurrence they had not obtained were unknown to them owing to their not being aware of the eighth codicil. There having, therefore, been a breach of trust, the debt was several as well as joint, and the proof must be admitted.

L. JJ. LOCKETT v. LOCKETT. Jan. 22.

Pleading—Exceptions—Debt—Accounts.

The bill in this case was filed to set aside an agreement made on the dissolution of the partnership between the plaintiff and the defendant, on the ground of fraud and misrepresentation. The interrogatories asked whether the defendant had not received the amount of a certain debt, which had been represented by him as bad, and he was also asked to set out what sums he had received on account of that debt, and also for accounts of the partnership transactions. The defendant answered that he had received from the debtors more than the amount of the debt, but refused to say how much; and that the books could be inspected by the plaintiff, but that he (the defendant) had no personal knowledge of them, and could only set forth the accounts required by employing an accountant, which he submitted he was not bound to do.

The plaintiff excepted, and the Vice-Chancellor Malins overruled the exceptions.

The plaintiff appealed.

Glasse, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Little, Q.C., and North, for the defendant.

THE LORDS JUSTICES held the answer to be sufficient, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

L. JJ. WHITE v. SPRINGETT. Jan. 25.

Will—Construction—Gift to Next of Kin according to Statute excluding A.—A. sole Next of Kin.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 214).

Richard White, by his will, gave his property upon trust for his three grandchildren who should attain 25, equally. If only one should attain 25, the whole to that one; but if two out of the three should die under 25, and the property to which the survivor would be entitled should exceed 10,000*l.*, then the surplus was to go to the person or persons, exclusive of his surviving grandchild, who, under the Statute of Distributions, would immediately after the decease of the survivor of the other two grandchildren, be entitled to his personal estate in case he had at such time died intestate. Two of the three grandchildren died under 25, without issue, and the property in question exceeded 10,000*l.* The surviving grandchild was then the sole next of kin according to the Statute. The bill was filed by persons who would have been the next of kin according to the Statute if the testator had died immediately after the death of the survivor of the two deceased grandchildren, and the third grandchild had then also been dead. The Master of the Rolls held the plaintiffs entitled. The surviving grandchild and her husband appealed.

M. R. BULL v. VENTNOR HARBOUR COMPANY. Jan. 21.
Priority—Claim to Produce of Sale of Materials of an Unfinished Pier—Charge of Annuity on Works which should be Constructed.

This was a suit by certain judgment-creditors of the Ventnor Harbour Company, which was in course of liquidation, to enforce their rights to the moneys arising from the sale of loose timber and other materials, formerly part of the pier at Ventnor, which had been damaged by the sea and never completed.

One of the defendants, W. Griffiths, claimed priority over the plaintiffs under an agreement made in 1862, whereby he agreed to sell to the Ventnor Harbour Company certain rights over the sea-shore at Ventnor in consideration (among other things) of "a perpetual yearly sum of 40*l.* per annum, to be charged on all the lands, works, and hereditaments which the company should have acquired or constructed before the end of 1867, and on the tolls to be taken by the company."

In 1866 an order was made to wind up the company. The timber and other materials used in the construction of the pier, were sold, and realised 815*l.*

The question in this case was whether, under the circumstances, the defendant Griffiths had any charge or lien under his agreement in respect of the materials so sold.

Southgate, Q.C., and Cates, for the plaintiff, contended that, as the pier was not completed, there could now be no charge under the agreement.

Method, for the company.

Shapter, Q.C., and Edmund James, for the defendant Griffiths, supported his claim to a lien.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the word "constructed" in the agreement meant when the works were really constructed so as to be of use; that, as the works had never been finished, Griffiths was not entitled to any lien on the produce of the sale of the loose materials employed in their construction; and that the plaintiffs were entitled in priority to the sum in question.

M. R. STARR v. MAYOR, ALDERMEN, AND COMMONS OF THE CITY OF LONDON. Jan. 21.

City Improvement Act, 1847—Holborn Valley Improvement Act, 1864—Assessment of Purchase-money—Separate Properties belonging to one Owner.

The plaintiff was the lessee of the houses Nos. 4 and 5 Farringdon Road, and also, under a separate lease, of the house No. 87 Snow Hill.

The defendants, being authorized to take both of these properties for the purposes of the Holborn Valley Improvement Act, 1864, served the plaintiff with the usual notice to treat, and the plaintiff sent in separate claims for the two properties. The parties being unable to agree as to the purchase-money, the defendants, under the City Improvement Act, 1847, procured a warrant for the summoning of a jury to assess the purchase-money and compensation payable to the plaintiff in respect of both properties.

The plaintiff then instituted this suit, insisting on his right to have the properties separately assessed, and praying for an injunction to restrain the defendants from proceeding under the warrant.

Jessel, Q.C., and Bury, for the plaintiff, moved for an injunction.

Swanston, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the plaintiff was not entitled to have the properties separately assessed, and refused the motion with costs.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the applications under the Act were matters in which the Court ought to have the assistance of counsel, and that he would never hear them in chambers.

M. R. In re PHILPS' WILL. Jan. 25.
Will—Construction—Gift to Children living at the Death of A. or their Heirs.

By a settlement made in November, 1830, on the occasion of the marriage of Thomas Philps with Eunice, his fourth wife, it was declared that a sum of 1400*l.* New 3½ per Cent. stock then standing in the names of certain trustees should be held upon trust to pay the income to Eunice Philps during her life, and after her death upon trust for such persons as Thomas Philps should by will appoint.

In 1835 Thomas Philps made a codicil to his will in the following terms: "The marriage agreement between Thomas Philps and Eunice Philps, made in November, 1830, is that I, Thomas Philps, have transferred fourteen hundred pounds of the 3½ per Cents. stock of the Bank of England, the interest for the use of my dear beloved wife Enice Philips during her life, if I should die first, and after her death to be divided between my children than living or there heirs."

Thomas Philips died in July, 1836; Eunice Philips in December, 1866.

Thomas Philips had seven children; two were dead at the date of the codicil, one without issue, the other having left issue a son; three died in the lifetime of the tenant for life, and two survived her.

Upon the death of Mrs. Philips, the fund comprised in the settlement was transferred into Court under the Trustee Relief Act; and the question upon this petition was who were entitled thereto under the codicil to the will of Thomas Philips.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Britowe, Hanson, Rawlinson, and Hadley, for the different parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held (1) that two distinct classes were contemplated by the testator, viz. the children living at the death of his wife, and the "heirs" of the children then dead; (2) that the circumstance of two children being dead at the date of the codicil did not disentitle their "heirs" to a share in the fund; and (3) that by "heirs" were meant the statutory next of kin of each child at the time of his death, except in the case of those who died in the lifetime of the testator, whose next of kin were to be ascertained at the death of the testator.

Company—Resolution for Reduction of Capital—Service of Notice on Creditors under Rule 9 of General Order of 21st March, 1868—Unknown Debenture-holders—Advertisement.

This was an application, on behalf of the company, that the time limited by the General Order of the 21st of March, 1868, for serving notices of a proposed reduction of the capital upon the creditors of the company, might be enlarged, and that the unknown holders of debentures, for payment of which the company was liable, might be served with such notice by advertisement in the public papers.

Resolutions for the reduction of the capital of the company had been passed at extraordinary general meetings, but a difficulty arose in serving the notice upon every creditor, as required by Rule 9 of the Order, in consequence of the debentures issued by the company being payable to bearer, and the present holders being unknown.

In re CHINA STEAM SHIP COMPANY. MACKENZIE'S CLAIM.

Company—Winding-up—Calls—Debentures—Set-off—Companies Act, 1862, s. 75.

This was a claim by Mr. Mackenzie to prove against the company, now in the course of being wound up, for the sum of 1160*l.* and interest alleged to be due on fifteen debentures. The claim on five of these debentures for 210*l.* was opposed by the liquidator under the following circumstances:—

The debentures in question were issued on the 22nd of May, 1865, to J. B. Low, a holder of sixty shares in the company.

On the 19th of December, 1866, resolutions for voluntarily winding up the company were confirmed.

On the 1st of March, 1867, the debentures were assigned by Low to Mackenzie, the present holder; a notice of the assignment was given to the liquidator on the same day.

Subsequently, in June, 1867, and February, 1868, calls on Low's shares were made, which to the extent of 41*5*l. 10*s.* 7*d.* remained unpaid. In August, 1867, the winding-up was directed to be continued under the supervision of the Court.

The question was whether the company were entitled to set off the amount due from Low, in respect of calls against the sum due on the five debentures originally held by him, but afterwards transferred to Mackenzie. The debentures were in the form of covenants by the company to pay to J. B. Low, his executors, administrators, or assigns, the sums therein specified, on the 1st of January, 1872, with interest.

Jessel, Q.C., for Mackenzie.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Wickens, for the liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that by the 75th section of the Companies Act, 1862, it was enacted that the liability of any contributory, in the event of the company being wound up, should be deemed to create a debt accruing due from such person at the time when his liability commenced, but payable at the time when the call was made. At the date of the assignment in this case, which was subsequent to the commencement of the winding-up, there was, therefore, a debt actually due from Low to the company, though it was payable in futuro; and with respect to that debt, Mackenzie could stand in no better position than Low. The company were therefore entitled to set off what was due from Low against what was due on the debentures in question; and the proof by Mackenzie must be reduced by 210*l.*

TURTON v. MEACHAM. Equitable Mortgage, with Deposit of Deeds by Two Tenants in Common—Legal Mortgage of Moiety—Legal Mortgage by both Tenants in Common, with Transfer of Deeds—Priority—Evidence.

The plaintiff and James Batham (a solicitor) being tenants in common of certain lands in fee, borrowed of Thomas Lea 1000*l.*, and they deposited with him the title-deeds, with a memorandum in writing. Batham, in November, 1860, without the knowledge of the plaintiff, executed a legal mortgage of his moiety to his brother-in-law Meacham to secure 500*l.* and acted in the matter as Meacham's solicitor. The equitable mortgage to Lea was transferred by deed in 1861 to Dixon, by the plaintiff and Batham, and Batham having become bankrupt in 1865, the plaintiff was required in 1866, under his covenant, to pay off the 1000*l.* and interest, with certain costs. The lands were conveyed in trust for the plaintiff, and he claimed to hold Batham's moiety of the lands till repaid, or that Meacham should be foreclosed. The question was whether Meacham was entitled to priority, or the plaintiff. Batham deposed that Meacham was told by him that the deeds were in the possession of Lea as equitable mortgagee; but Meacham, who died shortly after filing his answer, stated therein that when he inquired of Batham, who acted as his solicitor, for the title-deeds, he was told that they were in the possession of the plaintiff.

Greene, Q.C., and W. R. Fisher, for the plaintiff.

Dickinson, Q.C., Pemberton, and Tremlett, for the representatives of Meacham.

Woodhouse, for the defendant Wood.

A. Smith, Streeten, and Story Maskelyne, for other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said, if the case were to be decided on no other ground than that of the evidence of Batham and Meacham, he should feel bound to come to the conclusion that Batham's outweighed that of Meacham's. But considering that Meacham admitted that Batham acted as his solicitor in the transaction, even if his statements were true, and he relied on the representation of Batham, and was deceived by him, the loss which he suffered from that deception by his own agent must fall upon himself. The plaintiff had sufficiently established his case, and he was entitled to priority over Meacham.

V.-C. S. GRIFFIN v. MORGAN. Jan. 21.
Practice—Decree—Abatement—Revivor—Unknown Marriage of Infant Female Plaintiff before Decree—Supplemental Bill necessary.

Bill filed on the 19th of December, 1866, by three infants, by their father as next friend, for the administration of an estate. A decree was made on the 19th of November, 1867. The first-named infant plaintiff, Joyce Griffin, on the 22nd of April, 1867, intermarried with Thomas Huntley. She attained the age of 21 on the 10th of September, 1868. At the time of the marriage the infant was unacquainted with the proceedings in this suit, and Huntley was unaware that his wife was a ward of Court.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiffs that the cause might be revived at the suit of the plaintiff, Joyce Griffin, now the wife of Thomas Huntley, and by James Griffin, her father and next friend, and the other plaintiffs, against all the defendants, and that Thomas Huntley might be bound by the decree in this suit, and by all the proceedings that had been taken thereunder.

Thomas Huntley had made an affidavit, inter alia, begging to apologise for having unwittingly committed a contempt of Court; offering to execute a proper settlement of his wife's share of the property under the will, and submitting to be bound by the decree, and all the proceedings that had been taken thereunder, and generally in this suit.

Kekewich, for the motion, said it was not known to any of the parties to the suit, except the infant herself, that she was at the date of the decree married; and he submitted that the order of revivor and supplement could be drawn up in such a way as to cure all defects, particularly as Thomas Huntley, who was adult, by his affidavit submitted to be bound by any order the Court might make: Capps v. Capps (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 1).

Fry, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—There is nothing in the Act of Parliament which makes any distinction between infants and persons who are adult in reference to orders of revivor. In the case of Capps v. Capps there was no abatement, but the suit was defective. Here the suit has become defective because a fact which existed at the date of the decree, and which altered the status of one of the parties, was not known to the Court, nor, indeed, to anybody but herself. This defect can be cured only by a supplemental bill. The Act of Parliament applies only to ordinary cases of abatement and to ordinary cases of revivor. I must refuse to make the order now asked for, as I am of opinion that it is necessary to file a supplemental bill.

V.-C. S. RAILTON v. EASEY. Jan. 21.
Appeal from County Court—Demurrer, no Forms and Rules in County Court, as to, under County Court Equitable Jurisdiction Act—Motion to take the Plaintiff off the File for want of Jurisdiction—Liberty to Defendant to put in a Statement in County Court limited to the Question of Jurisdiction.

Plaint in the Clerkenwell County Court, alleging that the defendant had improperly obtained from the plaintiff assignments of his furniture, and of a reversionary share of personal estate (since fallen into possession), and also alleging that the defendant had commenced an action at law against the plaintiff to recover 76*l.* for goods sold and delivered; that the plaintiff had pleaded a set off—the sum received by the defendant for the furniture—and that the defendant intended to set up the assignment of such furniture, and praying for a declaration that the assignments were invalid, and that they might be decreed to be delivered up and be cancelled; and for an injunction to restrain the defendant from receiving the said share of personal estate, and from setting up the assignment of the furniture in answer to the plea of the plaintiff in the action, and for costs.

The plaintiff applied to the judge of the County Court for an order in the nature of an injunction for the above purposes, and at the same time the defendant applied that the plaintiff might be taken off the file of the Court, or otherwise dismissed with costs for want of jurisdiction, without prejudice to the defendant's defence to the suit on its merits.

At the hearing on the 8th of January, 1869, the counsel for the parties and the judge signed a minute to the following effect: The defendant undertaking not to apply for or receive the share of the personal estate, or to prosecute the action until further order, ordered that the motion for an injunction do stand over till the 26th instant, the plaintiff undertaking to accept notice of motion, to be made before the Vice-Chancellor Stuart, to discharge this order on the ground of want of jurisdiction in the County Court, and let the costs be reserved.

This was a motion that the order of the 8th of January might be discharged, and that the plaintiff might be taken off the file of the County Court, or otherwise dismissed, with costs, for want of jurisdiction.

Cecil H. Russell, for the motion, said the plaintiff was one which shewed that the County Court had no jurisdiction to entertain it. A demurrer would have been put in, but the forms and rules framed under the County Courts Equitable Jurisdiction Act had not provided for demurrers, nor had those rules provided for appeals from interlocutory applications. As it was desired that no needless expense should be incurred, notice to take the plaintiff off the file for want of jurisdiction was given, and in order that the question might be raised in limine. The rules of the County Courts precluded the defendant from putting in an answer in the nature of demurrer without shewing merits.

Woodroffe, for the plaintiff, contended that the question raised was of the smallest possible; that the objection to the jurisdiction in this case was merely technical; and that the motion ought to be refused with costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The motion to take the plaintiff off the file for want of jurisdiction was misconceived. The County Court judge seems to have countenanced the view that a motion was the proper way to raise this question of jurisdiction, and that I could entertain this motion and order the plaintiff to be taken off the file; but I do not agree in that view. The proper way will be to put in a defence upon that ground, and therefore the order will be that the defendant have liberty to put in a statement in the County Court, limited to the question of want of jurisdiction, and that the costs of this motion be costs in the cause, and then, if the plaintiff be right, he will have his costs when the case is disposed of.

V.-C. S. DE NICOLS v. ABELA. Jan. 21.
Demise of Shop—Covenant, breach of, by altering front Elevation—Injunction.

The plaintiffs in August, 1866, demised unto the defendant a shop and parlour, part of a messuage and premises, No. 68 Regent Street, for eleven and a half years from the 25th of March, 1865.

The defendant covenanted that he would not make any alterations in the elevation of the premises, nor alter the decorations or iron railings in front thereof, nor make any addition thereto, without the previous consent in writing of the plaintiff De Nicols.

Early in March, 1868, the defendant commenced certain alterations in the front window of the shop, and removed the iron railings, and made a new doorway.

The bill, filed on the 31st of March, 1868, prayed for an injunction.

The defendant's case was that the alterations were a great improvement.

Karslake, Q.C., and Hadley, for the plaintiffs.
Greene, Q.C., and Villiers, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the case was clear. The injunction, as to these alterations, granted in April last, would be made perpetual, and the defendant must restore the front of the shop to the state in which it was before the bill was filed.

The question was whether the children need be served.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the children need not be served.

Companies Act, 1862, s. 115—Production of Documents—Solicitors of Company—Lien for Costs.

This was an application by summons from chambers by the official liquidator, under the winding-up of this company, that the firm who had been the solicitors of the company might be ordered to bring with them, and produce on their examination, the parliamentary subscription contract and other documents relating to the company. The solicitors objected to such production, on the ground that they had a lien for costs on such documents.

Cotton, Q.C., and Sturges, for the official liquidator.
Fischer, for the solicitors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the documents must be produced, as they were necessary for the winding-up of the company. The solicitors were officers of the company, and came within section 115 of the Companies Act, 1862, by which it was provided that the Court might order the production, but without prejudice to any lien which might be claimed. Costs of official liquidator out of the estate; solicitors to pay their own costs.

V.-C. J. JOHNSON v. BOVILL. Jan. 21.
Practice—Evasive Answer ordered to be taken off the File.

Motion to take an answer of defendants Messrs. Harrison off the file as being irregular, delusive, and evasive.

The bill was filed on the 1st of January, 1868. Interrogatories were served on the respondents on the 23rd of the same month, who then gave an undertaking to appear, and further time to answer was several times granted. Terms of compromise were proposed, and draft minutes of a decree were, on the 9th of July, sent by the plaintiff to the respondent.

The time for answering having, on the 1st of August, expired, without the minutes having been approved or returned, three weeks' further time was allowed, on the understanding (as plaintiff alleged) that the defendants would either return the minutes approved or answer.

On the 2nd of November the minutes were returned, approved as altered.

On the 6th of November the plaintiff's solicitors wrote to say he could not accede to the alterations.

The bill was filed to set aside certain contracts between the plaintiff and the late Mr. G. H. Bovill, who died on the 9th of May.

On the 8th of December the plaintiff appealed from an order of the chief clerk granting the defendants Harrison (Mr. Bovill's solicitors) fourteen days' further time to answer, and Vice-Chancellor Giffard made a peremptory order that the defendants' answer should be filed on the 21st of December.

The defendants Harrison filed an answer on the 22nd of December, denying, in substance, all knowledge of the matters complained of.

Kay, Q.C., and Rigby, for the motion.
Everitt, for the defendants Harrison.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the filing of this so-called answer was a plain device to escape the exigency of the order of Vice-Chancellor Giffard. It was quite clear that these defendants knew all along that they had to answer these interrogatories. The order must be, as in Read v. Barton (3 K. & J. 166), to have this document taken off the file, with costs, the plaintiff undertaking not to issue an attachment for a fortnight.

V.-C. J. LEWIS v. FOTHERGILL. Jan. 21.
Mining Lease—"Proper and workmanlike Manner" of Working—Drainage.

An agreement dated the 27th of April, 1864, between the plaintiff, a landowner, and the defendants, his lessees, for a lease for 99 years of coal mines under a farm of about 245 acres, reserved certain royalties, and a dead rent of 500*l.* if they should not amount to that annual sum; and provided that the rent of 500*l.* was not to be charged at all for the first three years, provided the necessary steps were bona fide taken with ordinary despatch to work and win the coal. The agreement also, amongst other things, provided that the lease should contain covenants for working the coal in a proper and workmanlike manner. The plaintiff stated that the defendants had begun to work the coal on the estate by instroke from an adjoining property, and that such mode of working was not proper or prudent unless pits were sunk, and an independent system of drainage was established on the plaintiff's property. He also complained that the defendants had not taken the necessary steps with ordinary despatch to work and win the coal.

Druce, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Marten, for the plaintiff.
Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Amphlett, Q.C., and Freeling, for the defendants, were not heard.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the agreement was an ordinary agreement, containing ordinary covenants, and the Court could not import into it such a covenant as that which the plaintiff's contention implied. The Court could not undertake to determine what was the best mode of working a mine. In this instance the evidence shewed that, by many experienced and competent persons, the defendants' mode of working was considered to be a usual and suitable mode, and the Court could not hold that it was other than proper and workmanlike. It was for those who prepared these agreements to insert provisions which should specify what they considered to be the best mode of working. As to the construction of the word "win," His Honour was of opinion that it meant, to arrive at the coal in such a way as to render it immediately raiseable to the surface. As to all the substantial portions of the relief asked, the bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. CHARLTON v. EARL OF DURHAM. Jan. 22.
Breach of Trust—Executor—Discharge—Notice.

At the death of the testator Thomas Glaholm, in January, 1849, 6000*l.* was owing to him by the trustees of Lord Durham's estate, upon their bond given in July, 1846.

Upon Lord Durham's coming of age in September, 1849, Lord Durham's bond for 5000*l.* to the executors of Thomas Glaholm was substituted for that given by the trustees of the Durham estate in 1846.

Thomas Glaholm's will was proved in December, 1849. In 1859, 2500*l.* of the money due upon the bond was paid off by Lord Durham, for which he received the joint receipt of Charlton and Wilson as executors of Glaholm. In 1862 the remaining 2500*l.* was paid to Wilson (who was in the habit of receiving the interest upon the bond and giving receipts "for self and co-executor"), and the bond was returned to Lord Durham, with a receipt for the money by Charlton and Wilson endorsed upon it. It turned out that Charlton's signature was forged by Wilson, who had appropriated the money, and was now undergoing penal servitude upon his own confession for the forgery.

The suit was instituted by Charlton and the persons interested in the testator's estate, to compel Lord Durham to make good the loss occasioned by Wilson's fraud, on the ground that the money was trust-money, and that payment to one of two trustees did not operate as a discharge to the person indebted, who had notice of the trust.

For the defendant it was contended that a payment of assets to one of two executors was a valid discharge both at law and in equity, and that the mere lapse of time did not convert this money from assets into a trust fund.

Kay, Q.C., and Haddan, for the plaintiffs.

Druce, Q.C., and J. W. Chitty, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the liability of the Earl was simply that of a legal debtor, upon a legal instrument, and was effectually discharged by his payment, both in equity and at law. His Honour was not disposed in any way to extend the relief granted by this Court to cestuis que trust against their trustees who had honestly dealt with trust funds. The bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. MERCER v. SAWYER. Jan. 23.
Bankruptcy—Bill of Sale—Security to Surety—Act of Bankruptcy.

Kinloch and Hollin, cotton spinners, in August, 1866, stopped payment, and with the concurrence of a meeting of creditors, by deed dated the 17th of August, 1866, assigned all their property to Boyd & Sutcliffe, as trustees for the creditors, with powers to arrange generally. The deed was not registered. The plaintiff, John Mercer, afterwards consented to become surety for payment by the firm of a larger composition, viz. 10*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, and on the 21st of August, Boyd and Sutcliffe gave to Mercer a memorandum of that date, stating that the undersigned had agreed to convey the estate to him and Kinloch, on receiving from them their joint promissory notes for the composition, amounting to 10*s.* 6*d.* Mercer then instructed his solicitors, who were then acting on behalf of the trustees and creditors under the deed of the 17th of August, to prepare a bill of sale, which was executed on the 5th of September. By this deed Kinloch and Hollin purported to assign all the property belonging to a particular mill to Mercer as a security, and he signed promissory notes for the composition to all the creditors, except two, who agreed to postpone their claims. The bill of sale was not registered under the Bills of Sale Act. On the 17th of January, 1867, the plaintiff took possession of the property. In May, 1867, Kinloch and Hollin were adjudicated bankrupts, the act of bankruptcy being an admission of debt on a trader-debtor summons. On the 7th of June, 1867, Mercer filed this bill against the assignees in bankruptcy, praying that they might be restrained from interfering with his possession.

These facts having been found,
De Gea, Q.C., and Jordan (of the Common Law Bar), for the defendants the assignees, on summons to vary, objected that the chief clerk had no power to draw a distinction as to the debts of those creditors "who had agreed to postpone their claims."

The Vice-Chancellor overruled this objection, and refused the motion to vary.

Swanston, Q.C., and H. A. Giffard, for the plaintiff, on further consideration.

De Gea, Q.C., and Jordan, for the defendants, argued that the execution of the bill of sale of the 5th of September was an act of bankruptcy, and that it was void for non-registration.

Swanston, in reply, was stopped.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that the contention that the execution of this deed was an act of bankruptcy could have no application to a case like this, where the so-called assignors had no property at all in them at the time, having previously assigned all they possessed. The true meaning of the transaction was, that the deed was to be a security to Mercer for becoming surety for Kinloch and Hollin. The defence that this was an act of bankruptcy had entirely failed. The plaintiff must be declared entitled to his security with costs.

Winding-up—Contributory—Transfer in Trust—Share Register.

In 1864 Balfour and Dunlop, residing in England, each transferred 150 shares to Macdonald, then residing in India, in order to give him a qualification as managing director of the company at Bombay. No money passed, and Macdonald undertook, by letter, to get the transfer into his name entered upon the Bombay register, and (retaining a sufficient number for his qualification) to hold the shares on account of Balfour and Dunlop for profit or loss as might be, and subject to their instructions as regarded disposal.

On the winding-up, the names of Balfour and Dunlop appeared in the shareholders' ledger at the registered office of the company in London as the holders of the 300 shares, and they had been accordingly placed on the list of contributories.

The question was whether they had been rightly placed.

Kay, Q.C., and Graham Hastings, for the official liquidator.

Druce, Q.C., and Walford, for Balfour and Dunlop.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that Messrs. Balfour and Dunlop, whose names appeared on the register of shareholders in this country, remained liable. It was intended to transfer them to Macdonald as a trustee, but somehow or other his name never got upon the register. The application to remove the names of Balfour and Dunlop must be refused with costs.

V.-C. J. FARRALL v. FARRALL. Jan. 23.
Administration—Executorship Account—Charge—Bankers' Advance.

Testator was indebted to the London County Bank at his death in the sum of 750*l.*, for which they held as security the title-deeds of a portion of his real estates. By his will, the executors were empowered to charge his real estates for payment of his debts. His widow, who as executrix had alone proved the will, had been allowed by the bank to draw upon her late husband's account from time to time, and had deposited the title-deeds of another portion of the testator's real estates as a security for the increased amount due to the bank and future advances.

It appeared that the widow had applied the sums thus drawn out [towards the maintenance of herself and children, and in carrying on the testator's farm.

In a suit to administer the estate, the bank claimed to hold the title-deeds as creditors upon the estate for the amounts drawn out by the widow and executrix.

The claim was opposed by the persons interested in the estate, who contended that the sums drawn out were merely personal advances to the widow, applied for her own and not for any purposes of the executorship, and consequently that she had no power to charge the real estate with their repayment.

Kay, Q.C., and F. Waller, in support of the claim by the bank.

Druce, Q.C., Haddan, Cottrell, and Higgins, opposed. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR allowed the claim. He could not draw any distinction between the drawing out the money in one lump sum or in any number of smaller sums, unless the bank had notice that the person drawing out was committing a breach of trust.

Q. B. BAILY v. DE CRESEIGNY. Jan. 20.
Covenant not to Build—Assigns—Assignment by Compulsion of Law.

Declaration: that the defendant by deed demised to the plaintiff a piece of ground and a messuage then recently erected thereon for eighty-nine years, from March, 1840, and covenanted with the plaintiff that neither the defendant, nor his heirs, nor his assigns, would, during the term, permit to be built in a certain paddock fronting the demised premises any erection; yet that the defendant did permit a railway station to be built on the paddock.

Plea: that, after the making of the deed, the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Company required to take and purchase the paddock under the powers given them by a certain Act of Parliament, and that the paddock was land which the company were empowered by the Act to purchase and take compulsorily for the purposes of their undertaking, and that the company did compulsorily purchase the paddock; and for the completion of the purchase the defendant did convey the paddock to the company, whereby the company, under the Act, became seized in their demesne as of fee of the paddock, and built on the paddock the erection complained of, which is an erection reasonably required by them for the purposes of their undertaking.

Replication: that, although reasonable, still it was neither necessary or compulsory for the railway company to build the station on the land in question.

Demurrers to the plea, and replication and joinders.

F. M. White, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendant was not discharged from his liability under the covenant by the Act of Parliament.

Raymond, for the defendant, contended that the company obtained a statutable right to do what is complained of without any consent on the part of the defendant; and, though the building was not compulsory or necessary, the defendant was not liable for what he could not help.

THE COURT held that the defendant was only liable on the covenant for his own acts and those of his voluntary assigns, and that the covenant did not extend to assigns by compulsion of law.

Q. B. SADLER v. SMITH. Jan. 21.
Boat Race—Jurisdiction of Referee—Action to recover Deposit.

This action was brought to recover 300*l.*, deposited by the plaintiff with the defendant as stakeholder, with a view to a race between the plaintiff and another waterman named Kelley, upon the terms contained in a written agreement that the race was to be a sculler's race, the winner to be entitled to the stakes, and the decision of the referee to be final. It was also agreed that the race was to begin by a start to be made by the men between themselves, and the referee was not to interfere in the start; but if the men failed to start through the default of either or both, the referee should have authority to interfere. There was a delay and difficulty in the men starting, and an application was made to the referee, who gave an order that Kelley should inform the plaintiff that the referee insisted upon a start being made, and that, if the plaintiff did not start, Kelley was to row over the course without him. This order, as the jury found, was not communicated to Sadler, and he had no opportunity of starting. Kelley, however, rowed over the course, and the referee, not knowing that his order had not been communicated to the plaintiff, decided that Kelley had won the race, and ordered the stakes to be paid over to him.

Hawkins, Q.C., H. James, and Brickwood, for the plaintiff.

Garth, Q.C., and Tennant, for the defendant.

THE COURT held that the order of the referee was conditional that Kelley was to communicate to the plaintiff that, if he did not start, then Kelley was to row over the course; and as that order had never been complied with, there never was such a start as the referee contemplated, and that there never was a race; and as it was necessary to give the referee jurisdiction that there should be a start and a race, the foundation of his authority to award the stakes failed; and that, as the stakes had been awarded without jurisdiction to Kelley, the plaintiff was entitled to recover back his deposit.

Special verdict in a quo warranto which found that one Wildes had been clerk of the peace for the county of Kent, and had been dismissed from his office upon a charge under 1 W. & M. c. 21, s. 6, of having misdemeaned himself in the execution of his office by refusing to record an order for the payment of a sum of money to F. S.

M. Chambers, Q.C. (Gates with him), for the relator, contended that Wildes had not misdemeaned himself, and the Court could inquire into the validity of the dismissal.

Mellish, Q.C. (Pollock, Q.C., and Archibald with him), for the defendant, contended that, the matter being within the jurisdiction of the Quarter Sessions, who were judges of both fact and law, their decision was final.

Q. B. SIMPSON v. MIRABITA. Jan. 25.
Bankruptcy—Discharge of Debtor as to Costs of Action, when Verdict and Judgment after Bankruptcy.

This was an action commenced on the 2nd of October, 1868, on a promissory note by plaintiff as indorsee against the defendant as maker, both being then resident in London.

The plaintiff obtained a verdict for 67*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.* on the 10th of December; the costs were taxed at 34*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*, and judgment signed on the 8th of January; and on the 13th of January the defendant was taken in execution on a ca. sa. for the debt and costs.

The defendant had been adjudicated a bankrupt in Ireland on the 20th of November, 1868, and passed his last examination on the 12th of January, and obtained a certificate of conformity on the same day.

On the arrest of the defendant, the plaintiff, for the first time, had notice of the bankruptcy.

Blackburn, J., made an order, on the 15th of January, for the discharge of the defendant out of custody, unless a rule was obtained to rescind the order within four days. The plaintiff obtained a rule accordingly.

Garth, Q.C., and Sharpe, shewed cause, and contended that the defendant was discharged by the Irish Bankruptcy Act (20 & 21 Vict. c. 60, ss. 243-5) both from the debt and costs; and as to the latter they relied on the cases cited in Griffiths and Holmes' Bankruptcy, vol. 1, p. 590, n. (t).

Shaw, in support of the rule, contended that the defendant was not discharged in England from the debt; and as to the costs, he relied on Maughan v. Vinesburgh (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 318), as directly in point.

THE COURT (Blackburn, C.J., Mellor and Hayes, JJ.) discharged the rule, being of opinion that the defendant was discharged by the certificate from the debt, and from the costs also, as incident and inseparable from the debt, though they might not be proveable under the bankruptcy; and they declined to act on Maughan v. Vinesburgh, preferring the older cases contra.

Q. B. WREN AND ANOTHER v. WILD. Jan. 25.

Practice—Action for Slander of Title—Particulars.

The plaintiffs, machine makers, charged the defendant in eight counts with having written to eight different customers of the plaintiffs, cautioning them not to use the spooling machines, which they had bought of the plaintiffs, as they were infringements of the patents of the defendant.

Plea, Not guilty.

Webster, Q.C. (Baylis with him), moved for a rule to shew cause why the defendant should not deliver to the plaintiffs "particulars shewing, by reference to the page and line, what part or parts of the specifications of the patents of 1858 and 1860, referred to in the letters set out in the declaration, the defendant alleges to be infringed."

T. Aston shewed cause in the first instance.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor and Hayes, JJ.) made the rule absolute. The defendant, instead of bringing an action for the infringement of his patents, had by the course he had pursued driven the plaintiffs to take the initiative, and they were entitled to the particulars they claimed.

A new trial being refused, he applied to this Court (being referred thereto from chambers) for a prohibition.

THE COURT held that they had no power to interfere; but that the defendant's proper course was to apply to the judge of the County Court, not for a new trial, but to set aside the proceedings on the ground of the absence of service.

The funds of the society consisted of the rents of freehold land amounting to 490l. a year, and payments by its members amounting to 50l. a year. The annuitants were entitled to receive 4s. a week if the funds of the society permitted, which it was found by the case that they did. The respondent was one of the annuitants.

Representation of the People Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 102)—Claim to be Rated, and Payment of Rates.

Henry Russell Streeter claimed to vote as the rated occupier of a dwelling-house in Horsham. He had not been rated at all in respect of the house in question, but he had at some time before the 20th of July, 1868, paid to the overseer all rates which would have been due previous to the 5th of January, 1868, in respect thereof. After the 5th of January, viz. on the 15th, a rate had been duly made in the borough, but in it the claimant was not rated. On the 24th of August, 1868, the claimant, finding that his name was not in that rate, and never having previously claimed to be put upon that rate, served upon the overseer a claim to be rated to "all rates made since the 31st of July, 1867," and in such claim stated that he tendered payment of all rates due prior to the 5th of January, 1868.

The revising barrister, in deference to two Irish cases—Agnew v. Reilly (2 Irish C. L. R. 560) and Muldowney v. Malcolmson (15 Irish C. L. R. 375)—held that the claimant was entitled to vote, and inserted his name on the register.

Garnishee Order under ss. 60, 61 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125)—Order of Court of Chancery for Payment of Calls.

Price was a shareholder in the Financial Corporation, Limited. The company being in course of winding-up in Chancery, a call was made by the liquidator, and an order of the Court made upon Price for payment of the amount. The official liquidator thereupon applied for an order under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, ss. 60, 61, to attach certain funds of Price in the hands of the China Steam Ship and Labuan Coal Company.

Blackburn, J., thought the Financial Corporation were not judgment-creditors of Price within the meaning of the statute, and referred the matter to the Court.

THE COURT held that, notwithstanding the 18th section of the 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, the order in question was not a "judgment of a superior Court," within the meaning of ss. 60, 61, & 90 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854. They also ordered the costs of the rule to be paid by the official liquidator of the Financial Corporation, at whose instance it was moved.

Railway Company—Scire facias against an alleged Shareholder—Primâ facie Evidence—Register.

The names of Lord Bateman and Mr. Lennox respectively appeared on the register of the company as shareholders.

In answer to rules for sci. fa., upon a judgment obtained against the company, the former swore that he never subscribed for any shares in the company, or authorized his name to be put upon the register; that, on receiving an intimation that the application was about to be made for a scire facias against him, his attorneys called upon the attorneys for the judgment-creditor, who referred them for information to the solicitor of the company, one Adcock, who informed them that Lord Bateman's name was put upon the register by the authority of one Moore, an attorney of Leominster, who was the local agent of the company; and that, on applying to Moore to ascertain who authorized him to cause Lord Bateman to be registered as a shareholder, that gentleman stated that he had no knowledge or recollection whatever upon the subject, and that he had so informed the attorneys for the judgment-creditor.

Mr. Lennox also swore that if he ever assented to become a shareholder in the company, he did so conditionally only, and upon a representation (which turned out to be false) that the railway would pass close to the town of Leominster.

Neither of the affidavits, however, in terms negated an application for shares.

THE COURT held that the register was, under the circumstances, sufficient primâ facie evidence to entitle the judgment-creditor to a sci. fa.

Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868—Security for Costs of Petition, under s. 6—Who may be Sureties—Deposit, under s. 9, to cure Insufficiency of Recognisance.

Upon this (Hull) and several other petitions the security given under s. 6 of 31 & 32 Vict. c. 125 (by recognisance in some cases, by deposit of money in others, and, in others, partly by recognisance and partly by deposit), having been objected to upon summons before Willes, J., at chambers, on the ground that, the petition being against two members, the amount of security should have been 1000*l.* in respect of each, and that, in some of the cases, the recognisances were entered into wholly or in part by the petitioners themselves, or some of them, the learned judge ruled that 1000*l.* was sufficient. He also ruled that the petitioners could not be "sureties," but he held that the "insufficiency" might be cured by a deposit under s. 9, and orders were made accordingly.

Upon motions to set aside these orders:

THE COURT held—1st, that security to the amount of 1000*l.* was enough, though the petition was against two members; 2nd, that the sureties must be others than the petitioners themselves; 3rd, that the objection that a petitioner was surety was an objection to the sufficiency of the security, within ss. 8 & 9, and that the learned judge was right in allowing the insufficiency to be cured by a deposit under s. 9.

*Entitled as Lessee or Assignee for the unexpired Residue of a Term originally created of not less than Sixty Years, of the clear yearly value of 5*l.

Land was agreed to be conveyed to the trustees of a building society for the erection thereon of one hundred dwelling-houses for workmen. The money to the extent of 7000*l.* was to be advanced by one Clayton; and by agreement (to which the owners of the freehold were no parties) the members were each to pay fortnightly instalments towards payment of 7*l.*, the estimated cost of each house, and interest, and when all the money and interest and fines for defaults should be paid, the owners of the fee were, at the request of Clayton, and with the consent in writing of the trustees, to grant leases to the members for ninety-nine years. The value was sufficient.

THE COURT held—reversing the decision of the revising barrister—that the members had no interest legal or equitable in any "term" until all the money had been paid and the leases granted.

Easements—Light—Unoccupied House—Prescription Act (2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 71, s. 8).

Special case stated in an action brought for the obstruction of lights.

The plaintiff's house was commenced in 1829, and before the end of the year 1830 the structural portions of it were completed, the floors laid, and the windows put in; but its internal fittings were not finished, nor was it painted, papered, or decorated, and in the state in which it then was it was not fit for habitation.

The house remained unfinished and unoccupied till, in 1852, it was bought by the plaintiff, who completed it, and, in 1853, commenced residing in it himself; but two years after he left it, and it has been ever since in the charge of a housekeeper.

In September, 1865, the defendant built a room on to his adjoining house, which had the effect of obstructing one of the original windows of the plaintiff's house, and for this obstruction the present action was brought.

Garth, Q.C. (Theiger with him), for the plaintiff, contended that it was immaterial whether the house was occupied or not; the actual enjoyment required by section 3 of the Prescription Act (2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 71) was an enjoyment as owner, by means of a house fit to receive the access of light and air through the apertures in question.

Pollock, Q.C. (Thrupp with him), for the defendant, contended that, to constitute actual enjoyment, there must be personal enjoyment by some one; and that, though a house in such a condition as to be occupied, though only by a housekeeper, might be a house in respect of which a right to light might be acquired, yet this could not be so with respect to a house which was "unfit for occupation;" and that therefore in this case no enjoyment for twenty years could be shown.

THE COURT (Kelly, C. B., Channell, Pigott, and Cleasby, BB.) gave judgment for the plaintiff.

DICKSON v. NEATH AND BRECON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Attachment of Debts—Examination of Judgment-debtor—Corporation—Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125) s. 60.

Rule calling on three directors and the secretary of the Neath and Brecon Railway Company to shew cause why they should not be orally examined as to any and what debts were owing to the company, under the provisions of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, s. 60.

By that section it is enacted that "it shall be lawful for any creditor who has obtained a judgment in any of the superior Courts, to apply to the Court or a judge for a rule or order that the judgment-debtor should be orally examined as to any and what debts are owing to him before a master of the Court, or such other person as the Court or judge shall appoint; and the Court or judge may make such rule or order for the examination of such judgment-debtor and for the production of any books or documents, and the examination shall be conducted in the same manner as in the case of an oral examination of an opposite party before a master under this Act."

The plaintiff having obtained a judgment against the defendants (an incorporated company), applied by summons at chambers to Hannen, J., for an order to examine three of the directors and the secretary as to what debts were owing to the company, with the view of attaching them to meet the judgment-debt. The learned judge referred the application to the Court.

Gates, for the directors, shewed cause in the first instance.

J. O. Griffiths supported the rule.

[Bridge appeared for the secretary, but the rule, so far as it was addressed to him, was abandoned.]

THE COURT were of opinion that, where a corporation is the "judgment-debtor," section 60 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, does not apply.

THE QUEEN v. FIRTH.

Jan. 23.

Larceny of Gas—Continuous taking.

Indictment that the prisoner stole 1000 feet of gas, the property of the corporation of Halifax.

The corporation of Halifax are owners of gas works in the borough of Halifax, and S. & J. Firth had a manufactory there, which was supplied with gas from those works. The prisoner took an active part in the management of the manufactory, and several years ago he laid a pipe from the main gas pipe to the manufactory in such a way as to draw off gas from the main without its passing through the meters. There was no cock where this pipe joined the main, and the pipe therefore always remained full whether the gas was being burnt or not. The gas in the manufactory was generally turned on all day, and turned off at night. This pipe continued in operation for several years.

It was objected for the prisoner at the trial that the evidence shewed a series of separate acts of larceny, and that the prisoner could not be called upon to answer such a case on one indictment, but that the prosecution must confine themselves to the charge of one or more separate takings, not exceeding three within a period of six months from the first to the last of such takings. The objection was overruled and the prisoner was convicted.

The question was whether there had been one continuous taking, or a series of separate takings, during the period in which the gas had been abstracted.

Manisty, Q.C. (Serjt. Atkinson and Forbes with him), for the prisoner.

Maule, Q.C. (Hannay with him), for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Bovill, C.J., Channell and Pigott, BB., Byles and Lush, JJ.) held that the taking was continuous, as the opening from the pipe to the main was never closed, and there was, therefore, a continuous taking in fact. They held further that, even if this had not been so, the taking would, from its nature, have been continuous, as it was substantially all one transaction.

Conviction affirmed.

THE QUEEN v. TYREE.

Jan. 23.

Embezzlement—"Clerk or Servant"—Treasurer to Friendly Society—24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 68.

Indictment that the prisoner was clerk and servant to Young and others, and that he embezzled money of the said Young and others.

The prisoner was treasurer, duly appointed to "The Weymouth Lodge Friends of Labour Loan Society." The rule under which he was appointed directed that all the moneys of the society should be paid to the treasurer, and that he should sign a proper receipt for it; that he should make no payments, except by an order signed by the secretary, and countersigned by the chairman or a trustee; and that he should give security. By another rule, all moneys of the society were vested in the hands of trustees, one of whom was Young. The prisoner was a member of the society, but received no payment for executing the office of treasurer, and there were no fixed periods for accounting.

In June, 1868, the trustees called on the prisoner to account to them for the society's moneys which he had received. A dispute arose between the prisoner and the trustees as to the amount of the balance due to the society, and, as he did not make any payment whatever, this charge was preferred, and he was found guilty.

The question was whether the prisoner was "clerk or servant" to the trustees of the society within section 68 of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96.

Ribton, for the prisoner.

Metcalfe, for the prosecution, relied on Reg. v. Murphy (4 Cox C. C. 101).

THE COURT (Bovill, C.J., Channell and Pigott, BB., Byles and Lush, JJ.) held that Reg. v. Murphy was distinguishable from the present case, and that the prisoner was not a clerk or servant to the trustees of the society.

Conviction quashed.

L. C. TENNANT v. TRENCHARD. Jan. 28.
Trustee and Mortgagee—Sale or Foreclosure.

By a deed of settlement made in 1835, certain property near Swansea was vested in trustees with extensive powers of management, the trustees being also beneficially interested; and it was provided that, if either of the trustees paid off any of the charges, he was to be entitled to a charge by way of mortgage. Charles Tennant, the managing trustee, paid off a charge and filed his bill in this suit for a foreclosure. The Vice-Chancellor Giffard made a decree for a sale in one lot, with a certain reserved price, if the defendants who asked for the sale deposited a sum of money for the costs, and, in default, for a foreclosure.

The defendants appealed, contending that in such a case a foreclosure could not be given.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Freeling, and Speed, for the appellants. Karlake, Q.C., and W. W. Karlake, for the plaintiff.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the terms of the deed were very peculiar, and that he did not think that the direction as to the mortgage gave any trustee the rights of a mortgagee so as to enable him to foreclose, and so destroy the trust. But, independently of this, it was a well-established doctrine that when, as in this case, the duties of a trustee conflicted with his personal interest as a mortgagee, the Court would control him and not allow him to foreclose, especially when the estate was under his control, and the cestuis que trust had no other means of raising money to pay off the mortgage. The decree must be altered, and only a decree for a sale made.

L. C. HORSLEY v. COX. Jan. 28.
Judgment-creditor—Equitable Debt—Garnishee Clauses of Common Law Procedure Act—Money in Hands of Trustees—Claim of Forfeiture in Will.

This was an appeal from a decree of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1867, p. 292).

Under the will of the proprietor of the Bulder newspaper, the testatrix bequeathed her copyright and interest therein, and the leasehold messuage where it was published, to trustees "upon trust, as to one fourth share of the profits of the publication, for the defendant G. A. Cox for his life, with a proviso for forfeiture if he should assign, charge, or encumber his share in the profits, or do or suffer anything whereby the same, if belonging absolutely to him, should become vested in or payable to some other person or persons."

The plaintiff was a judgment-creditor of Cox, and the present bill was filed against him and against the trustees of the will as defendants, alleging that the plaintiff had exhausted his remedies at law, and praying a declaration that the judgment obtained by him was a charge upon the arrears of the income under the will, which were in the hands of the trustees.

The Master of the Rolls was of opinion that, if the share of the profits belonged at law to the defendant Cox, his remedy was under the Garnishee Clauses of the Common Law Procedure Act; if to the trustees, it was an equitable debt, which the plaintiff could not reach by his judgment. In either view the bill must be dismissed.

From this decree the plaintiff appealed.
Jessell, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the appellant. Southgate, Q.C., Roxburgh, Q.C., and Edmund James, for the defendant Cox.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Faber, for the trustees.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that this was not an analogous case to those in which a Court of Equity required a judgment-creditor to enforce his remedy against a leasehold property, for then the Court simply removed an obstacle which prevented his enforcing his legal right; but in this case there was a special right created by the Garnishee Clauses of the Common Law Procedure Act, and unless the judgment-creditor came within those provisions, he had no right at all at law. It was not, therefore, a case for the interference of a Court of Equity. But, independently of that, the plaintiff could get no relief in respect of the funds in the hands of the trustees; for at the time the bill was filed there had been a recent division of the profits of the business, and very little of the money represented past profits; and as the accounts could not be made up till the end of the year, or, at the earliest, till the end of the quarter, there was no liquidated debt upon which the judgment-creditor could obtain a charge; and it was admitted that the judgment could not affect future profits by reason of the forfeiture clause.

The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

L. C. MOXON v. BRIGHT. Jan. 29.
Equity—Agent—Patentee.

The bill in this case was filed by a patentee against Messrs. Bright and against Messrs. Hall, who had agreed with the plaintiff to manufacture and sell looms made according to the patent, on payment to the plaintiff of a sum of money for each patent, and the bill asked for accounts and payment for the use of the patent. The Vice-Chancellor Giffard dismissed the bill with costs.

The plaintiff appealed.

J. H. Palmer, Q.C., and G. Hastings, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and Hadley, for the defendants Messrs. Hall, against whom the plaintiff contended that they were his agents.

Druce, Q.C., and Hemming, for Messrs. Bright, were not called upon.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that, as to Messrs. Bright, the plaintiff's remedy, if any, was by action at law, and he had no ground for coming to equity. As to Messrs. Hall there was more difficulty. It appeared that their only engagement was to pay a sum of money for each loom made and sold by them, but they did not sell the looms as agents for the plaintiff, and only incurred a personal liability to pay the sum agreed upon. This did not make them agents more than bankers are agents, and if the plaintiff conceived that money was due from them, his remedy was at law. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Retrospective Act—19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, s. 10—Practice—Appeal.

This was an administration suit, by the decree in which a debt was disallowed, on the ground that it was barred by the Statutes of Limitations, the question as ultimately decided depending on the question whether section 10 of the Mercantile Law Amendment Act (19 & 20 Vict. c. 97) was retrospective.

J. Cutler, for the creditor, the appellant.

E. Cutler, for the executors.

Hemming, for a creditor who had had leave to attend the proceedings, but had not appealed, was content with the decree as it stood, but if it was to be varied in favour of the appellant, wished to have it varied on another point.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR refused to hear counsel for this creditor, and as to the appellant, His Lordship decided that the 10th section of the Act was not retrospective, and dismissed the appeal.

PHELL v. MIDLAND COUNTIES RAILWAY COMPANY.

Vendor and Purchaser—Railway Company—Lien for unpaid Purchase-money—Substitution of other Securities.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 215, nom. Pell v. Northampton and Banbury Railway Company). The bill was filed by an unpaid vendor for specific performance of an agreement by a railway company to purchase land for the purposes of the railway. The Master of the Rolls made a decree in the same form as in Walker v. Ware, &c. Railway Company (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 195).

The railway company appealed.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Waller, for the appellants, objected to the decree, on the ground that the purchaser had accepted other securities, and thereby waived his lien on the land.

Southgate, Q.C., and T. C. Wright, for the plaintiff.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR held that the objection was not established, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

BEIOLEY v. CARTER.

Jan. 27.

Settled Estates Act (19 & 20 Vict. c. 120)—Persons whose Consent necessary—Contingent Remainderman.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 294).

By the marriage settlement of Mr. and Mrs. Heighton, dated the 13th of September, 1837, the property, the subject of the suit, was settled upon trust for the separate use of Mrs. Heighton during the joint lives of herself and her husband, with remainder as she should appoint (by will if she predeceased her husband, and by deed or will to be executed after his death if she survived him), and in default of appointment, in trust for the person whom she should leave her heir-at-law, and his heirs and assigns. In July, 1858, an order was made under the Settled Estates Act, on the petition of Mrs. Heighton, which was served on her husband and children and the trustee of the settlement, for the sale of the property, and it was purchased by and conveyed to the plaintiff.

In October, 1866, the plaintiff sold the property to the defendant, who refused to complete the contract on the ground that the heir of Mrs. Heighton, who would take by purchase under the settlement, would not be bound by the order for sale under the Act.

The plaintiff accordingly filed his bill for specific performance. The Master of the Rolls, being of opinion that the heir of Mrs. Heighton would not be bound by the order for sale, dismissed the bill with costs. The plaintiff appealed.

In addition to the question under the Settled Estates Act, the defendant contended that the original order for sale was obtained improperly, the plaintiff having been substituted for the original purchaser under circumstances which amounted to a fraud on the Court.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and C. W. Upton, for the plaintiff.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bristowe, for the defendant.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the title was good. The person who would be heir of Mrs. Heighton at her death could not, of course, now be ascertained, and could not therefore be served with the petition under the Act. They were clearly of opinion that the persons whose consent was required by the Act were persons whose consent could be obtained, and not persons who were not ascertainable, and therefore could not possibly be served. A contrary construction would deprive the Act of great part of its effect. Their Lordships also held that the defence of fraud had not been made out, and therefore that the appeal must be allowed, and a decree made for specific performance.

Contributory—Notice of Allotment.

These cases came by way of appeal from decisions of Vice-Chancellor Malins (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 304).

The Peruvian Railways Company was established in May, 1865, and in the same month entered into an agreement with the International Contract Company, under which that company agreed to take all their share capital, amounting to 3,340,000*l.* Accordingly the Contract Company applied for 15,000 shares in their own name, and 84,950 shares in the names of nominees. The facts are more fully stated in the note of Wallis's Case (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 169).

CRAWLEY'S CASE.

G. B. Crawley was applied to by John Pickering, the brother of Edward Pickering, the managing director of the Contract Company, to take shares in the Peruvian Railways Company as a nominee of the Contract Company. Crawley applied for 400 shares, and handed the application to Mr. J. Pickering, who sent it in to the company. The deposit and allotment money, amounting to 3*l.* on each share, was paid by the Contract Company. 300 shares were allotted to Crawley. On the 15th of July, 1865, the secretary of the company filed up notices of allotment for the shares which had been allotted, but the notices of the shares allotted to nominees of the Contract Company were not sent to the applicants, but to the office of the Contract Company. Crawley received no notice of any allotment of his shares until July, 1866, when the Contract Company was being wound up. Mr. J. Pickering then brought him a blank transfer of the 300 shares allotted to him, described as fully paid-up shares, and asked him to sign the transfer, to enable the Contract Company to deal with them. Crawley accordingly executed the transfers. Under these circumstances the Vice-Chancellor retained his name on the list of contributories for 300 shares, on which 3*l.* only had been paid. Crawley appealed from this order.

Cole, Q.C., and Hanson, for the appellant.

Glasse, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator.

THEIR LORDSHIPS were of opinion that Crawley's execution of the transfer of the shares was a waiver of the right which he otherwise might have had to repudiate them, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

ROBINSON'S CASE.

J. Robinson applied for 1000 shares, as the nominee of the Contract Company, at the instance of Edward Robinson, who undertook to hold him free from all liability, and gave him a cheque for the deposit money. 800 shares were allotted to Robinson, and the notice of allotment sent to the office of the Contract

Company under the same circumstances as in Crawley's Case, but he never signed any transfer of the shares. The Vice-Chancellor, however, placed him on the list for 800 shares, of which 3l. were paid up.

Kay, Q.C., and Ince, for the appellant.

Glusse, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that this was similar to Wallis's Case; that Robinson had no notice of the allotment, and there was, therefore, no contract. His name must therefore be removed from the list.

INTERNATIONAL CONTRACT COMPANY'S CASE.

Power of a Company to hold Shares in another Company—Contributory.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins placing the International Contract Company on the list of contributories of the Peruvian Railways Company in respect of 5198 shares (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 312).

The shares were taken under the circumstances mentioned in the last case. The only question was whether the Contract Company was empowered by its articles to hold shares in other companies. The memorandum of association stated the object of the company to be (inter alia) to assist in the formation of other companies, and generally to transact the business of a capitalist.

Pearson, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator of the Contract Company.

Glasse, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator of the Peruvian Company.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the terms of the memorandum of association were sufficiently wide to justify the company in taking shares in another company, and therefore dismissed the appeal with costs.

HASTIE'S CASE.

Contributory—Bankrupt—Winding-up after Bankrupt's Discharge—Liability for future Calls.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (Law Rep. 7 Eq. 5).

The General Estates Company was registered in 1865. Hastie was one of the original shareholders, and held 125 shares of 20l. each, on which 2l. only had been paid. In 1866 he became bankrupt, and in July, 1866, obtained his discharge. His assignee refused to take his shares. All the estate had been admitted in bankruptcy.

In November, 1866, an order was made for the winding-up of the company, and Hastie's name was placed on the list of contributories, which rendered him liable for 18l. per share. He contended that he was discharged from all liability under the 154th section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

The Master of the Rolls held that the applicant was not relieved from liability as to future calls by s. 154 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, and that, under s. 75 of the Companies Act, 1862, he must remain liable unless the assignee was substituted for him under the 77th section; and that, as the assignee repudiated the shares, Hastie must be put on the list of contributories.

Hastie appealed from this decision.

Jessel, Q.C., and Fischer, for the appellant.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Edmund James, for the official liquidator.

THE LORDS JUSTICES, without agreeing to all the observations of the Master of the Rolls as to the effect of the sections referred to, held that Hastie must be retained on the list. They said that a bankrupt must be retained as a contributory where the bankruptcy and the discharge precede the winding-up; the debt was not shewn to be capable of valuation; the assignee had repudiated the shares, and they had always remained vested in the bankrupt. They therefore dismissed the appeal with costs.

Solicitor—Lien—Production of Documents.

This was a motion on behalf of the official liquidator of the above-named company that S. Mayhew might be ordered, in obedience to a subpoena, to produce before the examiner certain documents.

The company was formed in January, 1863. By the articles of association C. Edmands was appointed the first solicitor of the company. In October, 1865, Edmands and Mayhew became partners. Mayhew never received a written retainer, but the firm acted as solicitors for the company until February, 1866, when a resolution was passed for its voluntary winding-up, and afterwards were employed by the liquidators. In July, 1867, an order was made for the compulsory winding-up of the company. In July, 1868, Edmands became bankrupt.

The documents in question had been delivered to Edmands & Mayhew for the purpose of the business transacted by them for the company, and Mayhew objected to produce them on the ground that he had a lien on them for the costs due to his late firm in respect of such business.

Jessel, Q.C., and Ince, for the applicant.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Caldecott, for the respondent.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that Mayhew never was the solicitor of the company. Edmands was their solicitor, and his taking a partner did not make the partner their solicitor. If Mayhew had been employed by the voluntary liquidators, that would not give him a lien against the company. He must produce the documents and pay the costs of the motion.

M. R. EDWARDS v. SMITH. Jan. 28.

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Costs—Abortive Negotiation for Transfer.

This was a redemption suit. The defendants having called in the mortgage-money, the plaintiff's solicitor had applied to the defendants' solicitors to find a transferee. The defendants' solicitors found a transferee, investigated the plaintiff's title with a view to the transfer, and prepared the draft of a transfer, but the negotiation went off in consequence of the plaintiff's solicitor refusing to comply with certain requisitions, and of a difference as to the rate of interest. The defendants' solicitors then demanded payment of the principal mortgage debt and interest and costs, including their costs in relation to the abortive negotiations for the transfer.

The plaintiff tendered the amount of the principal, interest, and costs, exclusive of the above-mentioned costs, but the defendants refused the tender, and threatened to sell the property under their power of sale. The plaintiff thereupon instituted the suit.

Southgate, Q.C., and Kingdon, for the plaintiff, contended that the costs relating to the intended transfer were not mortgagees' costs.

Schomberg, Q.C., and Dalton, for the defendants, contended 1st, that the costs in question were mortgagees' costs; 2nd, that the defendants' solicitors had a lien on the title-deeds for these costs, incurred at the request of the plaintiff.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the costs in question were costs for which the mortgagees were not liable to their solicitors, and, consequently, were not mortgagees' costs; and that, the solicitors, having the possession of the deeds on behalf of the mortgagees, could not have a lien for costs due to them from the mortgagor.

M. B. In re LATYMER'S CHARITY. Jan. 29.

Charity—Scheme—Trust to clothe and educate Poor Boys—Extension of Education—Capitation Fees.

This was an appeal by two inhabitants of the parish of Edmonton against an order of the Charity Commissioners establishing a scheme for the administration of a Charity.

The object of the Charity, as declared by the will of the founder, Edward Latymer, in 1624, was to provide clothing of a specified description "for eight poor boys inhabiting within the town of Edmonton, between the ages of 7 and 13, and to cause the boys to be put to some petty school, to the end they may learn to read English, and there be so kept until they should attain the age of 13 years, thereby to keep them from idle and vagrant courses, and also instruct them in some part of God's true religion."

A subsequent benefactor had provided a school-room for the purposes of the Charity, and the income of the Charity had increased from 60*l.* to 700*l.* a year.

The principal provisions of the scheme to which the petitioners objected were as follows: The trustees were to pay 70*l.* a year to some parochial elementary school, in each of three ecclesiastical districts, which had been taken out of the parish of Edmonton. There were to be two branches of the school—one for elementary instruction, open to the sons of all inhabitants of the mother parish of Edmonton between the ages of 7 and 14; the other for a superior class of instruction, open preferentially to the sons of all inhabitants of Edmonton, and then to other boys between the ages of 8 and 16. Capitation fees might be charged not exceeding 30*s.* (or, in the case of non-inhabitants, 50*s.*) a quarter for boys in the upper school, and not exceeding 6*d.* a week for boys in the lower school. Three boys were to be educated gratuitously in the upper school, to be selected by competitive examination from among boys in the lower school or in the assisted district schools. Twenty-five boys in the lower school were to be educated gratuitously in the lower school, and eight boys were to be provided with clothing, to be selected, in both cases, on the ground of proficiency or poverty, at the option of the trustees. A pension of 100*l.* a year was to be paid to a discharged master.

Southgate, Q.C., and E. Ward, for the petitioners, contended that the increased income ought to be applied in providing clothing and gratuitous elementary education for a greater number of poor boys, and that the effect of the scheme would be to benefit the lower middle class at the expense of the poor, for whom the Charity was intended.

Jessel, Q.C., for the trustees, and

A. Smith, for the incumbent of one of the districts, supported the scheme.

V. Hawkins, for the Attorney-General.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the principal object of the Charity was the education of the poor, and that the scheme would carry out that object. The upper school would probably be self-supporting, and would benefit the poor boys in the lower school by inciting them to compete for the free scholarships. The imposition of a moderate capitation fee, and the selection of a certain number of free scholars on the ground of merit, were also beneficial; but the founders' secondary object of clothing might be extended to about twenty or twenty-five boys. The payments for the benefit of the inhabitants of districts who lived too far off to avail themselves of the central school was only fair and reasonable. The pension to the discharged master could not be sanctioned.

[The following Judgment, recently delivered in Chambers by the Master of the Rolls, is inserted on account of its exceptional importance.]

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS:—This is a case where, by reason of the official liquidator not having been well advised, a great loss has been sustained by the shareholders in winding-up this company.

The case was this:—Captain A., one of the directors and chief promoters of the company, presented a petition to wind up the company, upon which an order was made.

The company had done no business; there were a few debts amounting to about 300*l.* other than that which the company owed for the purchase of the Tea Estate from a Mr. A., who had obtained a grant of it from the Government. The estate was really the property of Captain A., but it was registered in the name of the son of Captain A., and seemed to be his property. The purchase-money was 7300*l.*, which was to be paid 4300*l.* in cash, and 3000*l.* in shares fully paid up.

It seemed necessary to adopt means to pay this debt, and for that purpose to sell the estate and raise the balance by a call, when proposal was made that the claim of the vendor of the estate for his purchase-money should be compromised for 4500*l.*

This was approved by the official liquidator, who was cognisant of the whole matter, and, at his instance, confirmed by me, who was ignorant of the whole, and 1500*l.* was paid in respect of this 4500*l.*

But before any more money was paid the shareholders assembled; they intervened, and brought the case before me, contesting the propriety of the compromise. On hearing the case, and finding how much Captain A. was mixed up in the matter, I stopped the payment of any more money. It was proved to me that the estate was really the property of Captain A., though registered in the name of his son. I also came to the conclusion that the company was got up by Captain A. in order to sell the estate to the company, and that it was wound up at his instance to pay him the purchase-money for it; and, also, that the purchase-money, and even the 4500*l.* to be taken as a compromise, were both very greatly in excess of the real value.

In addition to the price to be paid to Captain A., the company was also to pay to the Indian Government the consideration for which they made the grant. Accordingly I set aside the whole transaction, and I ordered Captain A. to repay the 1500*l.* he had received. This he has not done; he has become insolvent, and the repayment cannot be obtained from him, and the Tea Estate is now worth nothing.

Had it not been for this insolvency, if Captain A. had repaid the 1500*l.*, the money of the company would have paid for the whole of the expense, and no call would have been necessary; that is not so now, and a call is required, and must be made to pay the expenses.

The question is whether the official liquidator should be allowed any remuneration. I have already determined that he must have all his costs and money out of pocket; but ought he to have any remuneration? I think not. It is unquestionably true that he has acted with perfect good faith, and he has merely made an error of judgment, and, in ordinary cases, this would not deprive him of his reward. But in this case he has not taken sufficient care to be well advised, and, in this, he has been guilty of culpable negligence.

This arises from the parties to the winding-up having followed what, I regret to say, is too usual a course, but one which the Court cannot control: viz. the solicitor of Captain A. presented the petition to wind up the company, and obtained the order. He proposed Mr. B. as official liquidator; Mr. B. is accordingly appointed official liquidator, and, in return, Mr. B. appoints the same gentleman to be his solicitor in the winding-up. The consequence is, that there is no adverse examination of the affairs on both sides, and no due attention to the interests of the company when they come in conflict with those of the promoters of the petition.

The same solicitor acted for all parties; he proposed the compromise on behalf of Captain A.; he advised Mr. B. to approve the compromise; he did not inform Mr. B. that, if he pleased, he might set aside the whole transaction relating to the sale of the property.

If the official liquidator had employed another solicitor (as he has done since), his solicitor would have told him that the compromise was to be regarded, subject to this consideration—that if he pleased he might, on behalf of the company, set the whole thing aside.

I think that the official liquidator must, in this state of circumstances, be answerable for the wrong advice he received, and on which he has acted; and that I cannot give him remuneration for an error which was occasioned by him, in consequence of his not employing a solicitor whose single duty would be to canvass strictly the transactions between the promoters of the petition and the company itself. It is this that has caused the principal expense, and the only loss sustained by the company.

Of this sum 26,000*l.* Consols was expended on the purchase of the Astwood Bury Estate, which, at the time of the purchase, was known to require the improvements. The tenants of the farm were willing to give an increased rent of 115*l.* The present tenant for life of the property was tenant for life without impeachment of waste, and not liable to bear the expense of these improvements.

Freeing, for the petition, asked that the improvements might be made. The only difficulty was whether, under the Act, the Court had jurisdiction to make the order.

CROW v. PEEINGILL.

Jan. 25.

Mortgage—Payment by Heir-apparent of Mortgaged Property—Presumption.

In 1852 Robert Crow, the elder, was the owner in fee-simple of a farm called Bradley, which he had purchased some years before, and which he had mortgaged, by way of term, for 8000*l.*, of which 500*l.* had been paid off. In 1852 Robert Crow, the elder, and his son Robert Crow, the younger, had made wills, each giving the share of his real and personal estate to the other. About this time the father had stocked an adjoining farm at considerable expense, and put his son in possession of it in the autumn of 1852.

Notice was given in 1852 (but whether by the father or son did not clearly appear) to the mortgagee, a person named Stone, to pay off the mortgage, and the son paid off first 1500*l.*, taking a receipt which stated that only 1000*l.* remained due. The son subsequently paid off the balance. Shortly after the payment the son was put into possession of the Bradley farm, and the father and son lived together.

In 1862 the father made a fresh will, by which the son only took an estate for life. In 1865 the father died, and in April, 1866, the son died, having, by his will, given the whole of his real and personal estate to his widow, the present plaintiff.

The farm was subsequently sold by the father's devisee, and the son's executrix filed this bill, claiming payment out of the purchase-money of the sum of 2500*l.* paid by the son to the mortgagee. The plaintiff alleged that there was an agreement that the son should be repaid the sum of 2500*l.*

The devisee of the father contended that there was an agreement that the son should be let into possession of the farm in consideration of his paying off the mortgage.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that neither of the agreements was proved; but that, having regard to the relation of the parties, and the circumstances under which the payment was made, it must be presumed that the son intended the payment for his own benefit, and not for the benefit of the father; and there must be a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to the amount claimed, and the costs.

WILLIAMS v. CARMARTHEN AND CARDIGAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Practice—Rectification of Decree.

A bill was filed by the plaintiff praying for specific performance of a contract; for a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled in equity to a lien on the lands taken by the railway company, for the balance of his purchase-money and costs, and the interest due, and to accrue due; for a decree against the company for payment by a short day of sums amounting to 489*l.* 9*s.* with interest, and the costs of the suit, or in default, for a sale, under the decree of the Court, of the lands, and for payment out of the proceeds.

At the hearing the Court decreed specific performance, and declared that the plaintiff was entitled to a lien on the lands for the amount due, and ordered the same to be paid, with costs, within one month, and in default, that the plaintiff should be at liberty to apply for payment to the receiver in the suit of Fontaine v. Carmarthen and Cardigan Railway Company.

The whole of the purchase-money, interest, and costs still remained due to the plaintiff. The decree had not been enrolled. This was a petition praying that the decree might be rectified by inserting therein liberty to the plaintiff to apply to the Court to enforce the lien thereby declared, by sale or otherwise, as he might be advised, or by inserting therein general liberty to apply to the Court as the plaintiff might be advised, and that an order might be made for the sale of the lands under the direction of the Court.

Speed, for the petitioner.

Phear, for the respondents.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after stating that the omission in the decree was through a mistake or error on the part of the petitioner, and that he must pay the costs of the petition, made the following order:—It appearing that so much of the decree as ordered that the plaintiff should be at liberty to apply for payment from the receiver in the suit of Fountain v. Carmarthen and Cardigan Railway Company, was inserted by mistake, order that it be struck out, and that the decree be rectified by inserting therein, that the plaintiff be at liberty to make such application as he may be advised for enforcing his lien in case of the non-payment of the purchase-money, and all parties to be at liberty to apply, and the petitioner to pay the railway company the costs of this application, to be set off against the debt and costs due from the company.

Ex parte PEEK.

Contributory—Allotment—Time allowed for Payment—Contract.

This was an application on behalf of the official liquidator to settle the name of Mr. Alfred Peek on the list of contributories in respect of 80 shares.

Mr. Peek had applied in the usual form for 100 shares, and had paid a deposit of 100*l.*, agreeing to take the 100 shares, or any smaller number that might be allotted to him, and to pay 4*l.* per share upon allotment.

By a letter dated the 7th of September, 1864, Mr. Peek was informed that the directors had allotted to him 80 shares, and that the money due in respect of such shares must be paid on or before the 15th of September. On the 10th of the same month Mr. Peek wrote to the company repudiating the allotment, and declining to take the shares, on the ground of certain material variations, which he specified, between the original prospectus of the company—upon which he was induced to apply for shares—and an amended prospectus which was issued subsequently; but his name was nevertheless placed upon the register of shareholders.

Cotton, Q.C., and Ferrers, for the official liquidator.

Glasse, Q.C., and Fischer, for Mr. Peek, contended that the company, by fixing a day for payment, had introduced a new term into the contract, which rested in fieri until the 15th of September, up to which day Mr. Peek was entitled to refuse the shares.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that, as Mr. Peek had bound himself to pay the money on allotment, the mere fact of the company allowing him a week for payment did not introduce any new term into the contract, and he was not justified in refusing the shares. The reasons he gave for repudiating the contract were not satisfactory, and his name must be placed on the list of contributories.

Infant Married Woman—Petition for Settlement—18 & 19 Vict. c. 43.

This was a petition by Elizabeth Potter, an infant 17 years of age and a married woman, by Alfred Walford, her uncle and next friend.

It stated that Elizabeth Potter was entitled to a moiety of a sum of about 4000*l.*, which was given by her grandmother's will to trustees, to receive and invest the annual proceeds until she should have attained 21, or been previously married with consent; and after she should have attained 21, or been so married, then to pay the annual proceeds of the said moiety and of the investments to Elizabeth Potter for life, for her separate use, without power of anticipation, and afterwards upon trust for such persons as she should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment, for her children equally; and if Elizabeth Potter should not attain a vested interest in the said moiety, then the same was given over.

In June last Elizabeth Potter married without consent to Richard Potter, a minor of 19 years of age, who was by trade a framework knitter, and was dependent for his subsistence upon his daily labour.

The petition prayed that a proper settlement might be made by virtue of the Act 18 & 19 Vict. c. 43.

The petition was presented without the consent of Elizabeth Potter.

Stirling, for the trustees of the settlement.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the Court had no jurisdiction, under the above Act, to settle the property of an infant married woman who was of an age to contract a legal marriage, and who was not a ward of Court. In the case of Powell v. Oakley the petitioner was a ward of Court, and in Worham v. Pemberton the conduct of the husband had been so grossly improper that Vice-Chancellor Knight-Bruce probably went farther than he would otherwise have done. At any rate, he should not follow that decision under circumstances which were not precisely similar. In this case the property was sufficiently secured to the infant, and the petition must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. GRISSELL v. SWINHOE. Jan. 25.

Will—Administration—Election.

By the marriage settlement of G. E. Higgins and his wife, dated the 12th of January, 1848, funds were settled to the separate use of the wife for life, and in default of children of the marriage, and of appointment by the husband (which happened), in trust for such person or persons who would under the statute be entitled to the estate of the husband in case he died intestate, and in like shares.

G. E. Higgins died in March, 1848, leaving his widow and father surviving. His widow afterwards married Henry Swinhoe. George Higgins, the father, died in April, 1855, having by will bequeathed the settlement funds, subject to Mrs. Swinhoe's life interest, to Henry Swinhoe and his (testator's) daughter Charlotte, wife of Major Charles Grissell, in equal shares; and directed that the bequest to neither of them should lapse. Mrs. Grissell died in her father's lifetime. Major Grissell died on the 3rd of July, 1855, having appointed the plaintiff Henry Grissell his executor. Mrs. Swinhoe died on the 11th of August, 1866, and letters of administration of her estate were granted to Henry Swinhoe. On the 20th of March, 1868, letters of administration of Mrs. Grissell's estate were granted to the plaintiff.

This bill was filed on the 27th of March, 1868, for execution of the settlement trusts, and the plaintiff claimed one half of the fund, contending that Henry Swinhoe was bound to elect whether he would claim his wife's moiety against the will of George Higgins or would confirm the will. Henry Swinhoe, on the other hand, claimed a moiety of the fund as administrator of Mrs. Swinhoe, and one fourth as administrator of Mrs. Grissell.

The plaintiff Roberts being indebted to the defendant Samuel Moreton, a solicitor and bill discounter, on a bill for 47l. odd, the defendant transferred the debt to his brother John, who brought an action in which the plaintiff suffered judgment, and, in 1844, was arrested under a ca. sa., and lodged in Lancaster castle. There he took the benefit of the Insolvent Acts, and the defendant was appointed creditors' assignee.

Under an order of the 27th of September, 1844, the sale of the property in question, being 17-140ths, belonging to the plaintiff, of a reversionary interest in a small freehold estate, was effected, as the plaintiff said, at an undervalue, for 150l., to an agent of John Moreton, who was, as alleged, a trustee for the defendant.

The debts under the insolvency, other than the defendant's debt, and a debt of John Moreton, amounting to 176l., were under 30l. After the sale the insolvency proceedings were dropped.

In 1845 the plaintiff, being a trader, was adjudicated a bankrupt on his own petition. All the creditors under the insolvency, except the Moretons, proved in the bankruptcy, and were satisfied.

In 1845 the property in question was conveyed by the defendant and the purchaser at the sale to John Moreton, who, by will, bequeathed it to the defendant. In 1848 the tenant for life died, and the plaintiff went into possession, so continuing till 1864. In 1853 a re-vesting order was made in the bankruptcy, and a surplus paid over to the plaintiff.

In 1864 the defendant contracted to sell the property, and the plaintiff instituted proceedings, first in the Lancaster Court, and now here.

Kay, Q.C., and North, for the plaintiff.

Swanston, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the defendant, said that an insolvent debtor could not file a bill against his assignee without alleging a surplus.

Kay in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that the sale might have been set aside at the proper time by a proper plaintiff. But it was objected that this was not the proper Court, and that the Court of Bankruptcy, succeeding that of Insolvency, was the proper tribunal. Although it was not easy to reconcile the cases, His Honour should have followed Troup v. Ricardo (5 N. R. 62; 13 W. R. 147), had it been possible to shew that the plaintiff had a resulting trust, arising from the fact of there having been a surplus in the insolvency after all debts paid. This, upon the evidence, it was impossible to hold. Therefore the bill must be dismissed, and, notwithstanding the conduct on the part of the defendant, with costs.

V.-C. J. GARTH v. TOWNSEND. Jan. 27.

Power—Intention to Execute—Imperfect Instrument.

Demurrer to a bill to establish a certain unattested memorandum as a valid execution of a power to appoint by deed or will.

Mrs. Garth having, in the events that happened, power to appoint two sums of stock amongst her children "by any deed or deeds, to be sealed and delivered in the presence of, and to be attested by, two or more credible witnesses, or by her last will in writing, or any writing purporting to be or being in the nature of her last will, or any codicil thereto, to be signed and published in the presence of, and to be attested by, the like number of credible witnesses," left, in an envelope addressed to her son, the following memorandum, dated July, 1860 (eight years before her death):—

"Memorandum for my son and daughters. Not having made a will, I leave this memorandum, and hope my children will be guided by it, though it is not a legal document. The 8000l. held by my trustees to the marriage settlement I wish divided as follows:

[Then followed a division of this fund amongst her children, and of bequests out of another sum of stock, and a gift of the residue, with this conclusion:]

"This paper contains my last wishes and blessings upon my dear children, and thanks for their love to me.

"CHARLOTTE GARTH.

"20th of July, 1860."

Mrs. Garth died intestate, without having in any way exercised the power, except so far as it might have been exercised by the memorandum, which the bill sought to establish as a valid execution.

A demurrer had been filed.

Willcock, Q.C., and W. Latham, for the demurrer, contended that, though the Court would supply defects in the execution of a power by deed, the rule did not apply to an attempted execution by an unattested will, which was absolutely inoperative.

Kay, Q.C., and G. O. Morgan, for the bill, contended that a defective execution of a power in favour of the specified class would be aided, where the intention to execute was clear, and the objects to take, and the proportions in which they were to take, were sufficiently pointed out.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the true test was, whether there was a distinct intention to exercise the power. The terms of the memorandum shewed distinctly that Mrs. Garth wished her children to be unfettered by any legal document, and therefore purposely abstained from executing her power. The case was not one in which the Court could remedy the defects of the memorandum, which were of purpose and not by mistake.

Demurrer allowed.

V.-C. J. DOBSON v. BOWNESS. Jan. 28.

Practice—Motion for New Trial—"Judge"—21 & 22 Vict.

c. 27, s. 5.

Motion for a new trial of questions of fact, the former trial having been heard before Lord Justice Giffard (when Vice-Chancellor) and a jury.

Kay, Q.C., and Fry, for the motion, submitted that the word "judge," in the last clause of the 5th section of the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 27, meant "Court," and that the circumstance of the judicial seat being now occupied by another individual was immaterial.

Druce, Q.C., and Macnaghten, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that the use of the word "judge" in the section referred to seemed to place the matter beyond doubt, and refused to hear the motion, holding that he had no jurisdiction under the Act to do so. If the Court of Appeal should say that he was wrong, and that he had jurisdiction, of course he should not shrink from the performance of any duty incident to his office.

Kay hoped that the respondent would not put the moving parties to the necessity of serving a new notice of motion.

The order ultimately taken was: The defendant consenting to treat this motion as a motion addressed to the Court of Appeal, let the motion stand over.

V.-C. J. GLAISTER v. GLAISTER. Jan. 28.
Will—Construction—“Estates” in a particular County—“Tenures thereof”—Gas and Railway Shares.

The question was whether, under the following devise in a codicil—“I give, devise, and bequeath to my son R. F. Glaister all my estates in the county of Cumberland, whether in possession, reversion, remainder, or expectancy, or over which I may have any disposing power at the time of my decease, unto and to the use of my said son, his heirs, executors, and administrators, according to the respective tenures thereof,”—gas shares and railway shares belonging to the testator passed to the plaintiff.

The gas company was established for the supply of the town of Wigton, and it was provided by the articles of agreement that the gasometers, apparatus, stock, &c. should be vested in the proprietors. The railway company was “The Maryport and Carlisle Railway Company,” and lay wholly within the county of Cumberland.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Hubert Lewis, for the plaintiff, argued that the shares passed.

Druce, Q.C., and C. J. Shebbear, for the defendant, contra, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the claim would not apply to property of which neither tenure nor locality could be predicated at all; and that the shares did not pass.

V.-C. J. HERD v. LUPTON. Jan. 28.
Practice—Motion to Dismiss—Appearance by same Solicitor.

A. W. T. Daniel moved on behalf of the two first defendants to dismiss for want of prosecution. The suit was an administration suit, and the three first defendants, Lupton, Herd, and Moon, were executors and trustees of the testator's will. Lupton, Herd, and Moon all appeared by the same solicitor, and the first two had put in their answer on the 25th of September, 1868, since when no step had been taken in the suit by the plaintiff. Moon refused to join his co-executors in their answer, and plaintiff had not been able to get in his answer.

Fooks opposed the motion, on the ground that the defendants were not entitled to move, where the delay was occasioned by a defendant represented by the same solicitor as themselves.

Daniel :—The answer of Moon is wholly immaterial, as Lupton and Herd have by their answer admitted the plaintiffs' whole case, and ought not to be kept with this suit hanging over their heads by the negligence of the plaintiff in taking the necessary steps to prosecute the suit.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the motion was an abuse of the practice of the Court, and refused it with costs.

V.-C. J. THE WILLCOX AND GIBBS SEWING MACHINE COMPANY v. WOOD. Jan. 28.

Misrepresentation—Personation of Goods—Caveat emptor.

Motion to restrain defendant from selling, as plaintiffs' sewing machines, “with the latest improvements,” old sewing machines manufactured by plaintiffs without the improvements and additions now adopted by them. The case made by the bill was that defendant was underselling plaintiffs and damaging the reputation of their goods by selling for 6*l.* as improved machines, old and unimproved machines (the plaintiffs' price for improved machines being 8*l.*), and had actually deceived several purchasers.

Druce, Q.C., and W. N. Lawson, for the plaintiffs.

Kay, Q.C., and Hunter, for the defendant, were not called on.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR refused the motion. He could not prevent the defendant from selling old machines under their own name. The case was not one of representing goods made by the defendant to be those of plaintiffs' manufacture, and the representation that the machines sold by defendant contained all the latest improvements was one which affected purchasers, but not the plaintiffs.

Motion refused. Costs, costs in the cause.

Lands Clauses Act, s. 74—Tenant for Life of Freeholds in Lease at Rack-rent—Costs of Appearance of Remainderman.

By the will of Jonathan Crane, who died in April, 1860, nine freehold houses, then under a lease of twenty-one years from Michaelmas, 1850, at a rack-rent of 160*l.*, were devised to a trustee and his heirs, upon trust to pay the rents to the use of testator's daughter Louisa, wife of Jefferson Henry Read, for her separate use for life; and after her death testator devised the houses to his grandson Jefferson Read and his heirs absolutely.

In 1868 the Great Eastern Railway purchased the property. On the 10th of November, 1868, they paid the purchase-money, 4800*l.*, into Court; and, by deed of the 4th of December, the houses were conveyed by the trustee and Mr. and Mrs. Read to the company, subject to the lease.

The trustee and Mr. and Mrs. Read now petitioned that the sum of 4800*l.* might be invested, and the dividends accruing during Mrs. Read's lifetime paid to her for her separate use; also that the company might be ordered to pay the costs of the purchase and investment, and of the petition, including the costs of appearance of Jefferson Read, the infant remainderman, who had been made a respondent, and appeared by his guardian.

Maidlow, for the petitioners:—

The application is under the 74th section, and it was necessary to make the remainderman a respondent.

Streeten, for the company, objected to pay the remainderman's costs of appearance, which, he said, was unnecessary. In this case there could be no arrears, for the dividends would amount to less than the 160*l.* rent.

Kaye, for the remainderman.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made the order as prayed, and directed the costs of the remainderman to be paid by the company.

Act of Limitations for India (xiv. of 1859)—Legal Ouster.

Samuel Peat died about 1802, possessed of house property in Calcutta, to which his five children became, under his marriage articles and will, entitled in equal shares as tenants in common. In 1825 the co-tenants were reduced to two, Richard and Eliza Peat. The property had all along been treated, and the income shared, as leasehold, according to which view Richard Peat would, in 1825, in the events which had happened, have been entitled to five-ninths, and Eliza Peat to four-ninths. In 1827 Eliza married John Sheppard, and her share (described as a moiety) was settled. In 1831 Richard died, having bequeathed his share upon certain trusts. In 1864, on the occasion of a proposed sale, it was found that the tenure was freehold, according to which Richard Peat's devisees would be entitled to four-fifths, and the trustees of Mrs. Sheppard's settlement to one-fifth only.

In June, 1866, the trustees and beneficiaries under Richard Peat's will presented this petition for advice, and with the sanction of the Court part of the property was sold in March, 1867, and the proceeds of the sale, and other moneys representing income, were now in Court.

Willcock, Q.C., and G. Williamson, for the petitioners, claimed four-fifths of the fund.

Druce, Q.C., for a respondent in the same interest.
Mackeson, Q.C., and Streeten, for respondents claiming under Mrs. Sheppard's settlement, contended that they were entitled to four-ninths of the fund, partly on the doctrine of legal ouster, and mainly on the Act of Limitations for India (xiv. of 1859).
Willcock in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, if the point had had to be decided on technical grounds of English law, he should have held that the assertion by Mrs. Sheppard in 1827 of her right to a moiety would, to the extent of her four-ninths, have operated as a legal ouster. But the question really turned upon the Act of the Governor-General in Council of India, which was purposely framed to sweep away the technicalities of English law. Under that Act, the period of twelve years' from the time when the cause of action arose, was made to operate as a bar to a claim of this kind. The petitioners must therefore be declared entitled to five-ninths only of the fund, and the principal respondents to the remaining four-ninths.

V.-C. J. In re WILLMOTT'S TRUSTS. Feb. 1.
Settlement—Construction—Vested Interest—"Due and Payable"—Gift over.

By a settlement of the 12th of August, 1807, trustees were directed, from and after the marriage, to pay the income of a sum of stock to the intended husband, James Willmott, for life; then to Susannah Pigram, the intended wife, for life; and after the death of the survivor, to hold the stock upon trust to "assign, transfer, and dispose of" the fund and income unto and amongst James William Willmott, the son of the said James Willmott by a former marriage, and all and every the children and child of the present marriage, "and the issue of such of them respectively, in case any of them shall be then dead leaving issue," as the husband and wife should jointly appoint; and, in default (which happened), then "unto and amongst" the said J. W. Willmott and the children of the marriage in equal shares; and in case either or any of them "shall happen to be dead leaving issue, unto the issue of such one or more which shall be then dead" (the child or children of the deceased to be entitled only to the share which his, her, or their father or mother would have been entitled unto "if living") equally "to be divided" amongst them "or their issue" respectively, "to each" being a son at 21, and "to each" being a daughter at 21, or marriage; and in the meantime, until their respective shares and proportions "shall become payable as aforesaid," upon trust to pay the dividends towards their maintenance and education; and in case the said J. W. Willmott, or either or any of such children of the marriage, should die "without issue" before his, her, or their share "shall become due and payable," upon trust to pay and divide such share or shares of him, her, or them so dying "without issue," unto and amongst the survivors and survivor of them, and the issue of any one or more of them who may happen to be dead leaving issue, in equal shares "in manner aforesaid, and when and as his, her, or their original or proper share or shares shall become due and payable;" and in case, at the time of the decease of the survivor of them, the said J. Willmott and S. Pigram, there should be neither the said J. W. Willmott nor any child or children of the marriage, nor any issue of the said J. W. Willmott or of such child or children living, or if there should be the said J. W. Willmott or any such child or children, or any issue of the said J. W. Willmott, or of such child or children "then living," yet if all of them should die "before his, her, or their share or respective shares are payable," then over.

J. Willmott died in 1818. There were four children of the marriage—Susannah, Maria, Eliza (who died under 21 and unmarried), and Charles.

Susannah married John Prior, survived him, and died in 1843, leaving two children, one of whom, William Sangster Prior, died in 1857, leaving a widow, Caroline (now Mrs. Cole), his administratrix; the other was John Prior.

Maria married Edward Staveley Briggs in 1830, and her share was settled.

J. W. Willmott died, leaving a widow and executrix, but without leaving issue, in March, 1867; and in October, 1867, Susannah Willmott, afterwards Allen, the surviving tenant for life, died.

The question was whether J. W. Willmott's original and accrued share (now one-fourth) passed to his executrix; or whether it accrued in thirds to the children of Susannah, to Maria, and to Charles.

J. W. Chitty, for the petitioners, Charles Willmott and John Prior, contended that it accrued.

F. T. White, for the executrix of J. W. Willmott, contended that it vested in him.

Chester, for the trustees of the settlement.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, J. W. Willmott having died without issue in the lifetime of the tenant for life, his share went over in thirds as claimed by the petitioners.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. MASTER AND OTHERS. Jan. 29.
Bankrupt—Overseer of Poor—Order of Discharge a Bar to Proceedings against Overseer to enforce Balance certified by Auditor under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, s. 32, and 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 99.

By 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, s. 32, every poor law auditor shall certify on the face of every account audited by him any money, books, deeds, papers, goods, or chattels found by him to be due from any person; and all books, money, &c. so certified to be due shall be delivered over or paid, within seven days of the same being certified, to the person authorized to receive the same; and if any such money, books, &c. be not duly paid or delivered over, the auditor shall proceed to enforce the payment or delivery; and all moneys so certified to be due shall be recoverable in the same manner as penalties and forfeitures may be recovered under the provisions of 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76.

By section 99 of 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, all penalties and forfeitures imposed for any offence under the Act are to be levied by distress and sale of the goods of the offender or person liable, by warrant of two justices; but if, upon the return of the warrant, it appears that there is no sufficient distress, then any two justices are by warrant to cause such offender to be committed to prison for any term not exceeding three months, unless the penalties and forfeitures be sooner paid.

An auditor, on the 14th of April, 1868, certified a balance of 82l. to be due from an overseer, and the same not having been paid within seven days, on the 5th of May the auditor caused an information to be laid against the overseer; and on the hearing, on the 18th of May, the overseer proved that he had obtained on the 11th of May an order of discharge from the Court of Bankruptcy, on an adjudication dated the 4th of January, 1868, and relied on the order as a bar to the proceedings. The justices declined to proceed without the sanction of the Court of Queen's Bench, and a rule was obtained calling on the justices and the overseer to shew cause why the justices should not issue a distress warrant to enforce the payment of the 82l. This rule was made absolute on the 25th of November, no cause being shewn. A distress warrant was accordingly issued, and a return of nulla bona made on the 19th of December. On the 11th of January an application was made to justices to commit the overseer to prison, and the overseer, as before, relied on his order of discharge as a bar to the proceedings. The justices again refused to act without the sanction of the Queen's Bench, as the former rule had been made absolute without argument.

A rule was then obtained, calling on the justices and the overseer to shew cause why the justices should not issue their warrant to commit the overseer to prison for a term not exceeding three months.

Grantham shewed cause on behalf of the justices. (The overseer did not appear.)

Jelf, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor and Hayes, JJ.) discharged the rule. The balance certified to be due was a debt; and, though the payment was to be enforced in the same manner as penalties, the non-payment was not thereby made an offence. The debt was therefore discharged, and the proceedings to enforce it were barred by the order of discharge in bankruptcy.

BAXENDALE AND OTHERS v. GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Carrier—Non-declaration of Value of Goods delivered under a Special Contract—11 Geo. 4 & 1 Wm. 4, c. 68, ss. 1, 6.

Declaration: that defendants were the owners of the ship Avalon, and plaintiffs caused to be shipped and delivered to defendants, and defendants received, certain pictures on the terms agreed between them, inter alia, that defendants should carry them on board the ship from Rotterdam to Harwich, with liberty to tranship them on any other steamer or railway, and deliver the same to plaintiffs at the port of London, certain perils, &c. excepted, for certain freight to be paid by plaintiffs to defendants; that the defendants did not deliver the pictures to the plaintiffs, although a reasonable time had elapsed, and they had not been prevented by any of the excepted perils.

Plea: That the pictures were goods within the Carriers Act (11 Geo. 4 & 1 Wm. 4, c. 68), s. 1, and were delivered to defendants, then being common carriers by land for hire between Harwich and London, to be by them, as such carriers by land, carried from Harwich to London, and delivered to plaintiffs in London; that the goods were contained in one package, and exceeded 10*l.* in value; that at the time of the delivery to the defendants' servants the nature of the goods was not declared by the persons delivering them; and that the non-delivery by defendants to plaintiffs was by reason of the same being lost out of the defendants' possession while on the way from Harwich to London.

The plaintiffs demurred and joined issue.

The facts proved were, that the defendants carried on the business of carriers between Rotterdam and London via Harwich, the sea journey being performed by their steam-ships, and the land portion between Harwich and London by their railway. On the 16th of October, 1865, a case of pictures was delivered to defendants' agents in Rotterdam for carriage to London, and the defendants' agents signed a bill of lading:

"Shipped in good order on board the Avalon . . . one small case pictures, marked, &c. . . with liberty to tranship the said goods on board any other steamer or railway, and are to be delivered in like good order at the port of London via Harwich ('the act of God,' and various sea perils, 'also railway accidents, being excepted') unto P. & Co. (the plaintiffs) or assigns . . . weight, contents, unknown, and not answerable for leakage, breakage, corruption, torn wrappers, and the wrong delivery of goods caused by error or by insufficiency in marks or number."

The case containing the pictures was placed on board at Rotterdam and unshipped at Harwich, and forwarded by the defendants' railway, and was lost in the course of transit between Harwich and London. No declaration of the value (8*l.*) was ever made.

The Court of Queen's Bench having held the plea good, and that it was proved: on error and appeal

Murphy (Edwyn Jones with him), for the plaintiffs, argued that the plea was bad, as no answer to the special contract in the declaration; and that the bill of lading was a special contract applying to the land carriage as well as that by sea, and was within the proviso of section 6 of the Carriers Act (11 Geo. 4 & 1 Wm. 4, c. 68); and that the defendants, therefore, having received the goods under a special contract, could not avail themselves of the want of the declaration as a protection under section 1.

C. W. Wood, for the defendants, argued that, though the bill of lading was a special contract within section 6, yet, as that section only enacts that nothing in the Act shall extend or be construed to annul or in any way affect any special contract between a common carrier and another for the conveyance of goods, the defendants were not deprived of the protection afforded by s. 1, by reason of their having entered into a special contract, which was not inconsistent with such protection; and that the plea was therefore good, and was proved.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Channell, Pigott, and Cleasby, BB., Byles, Keating, and Montague Smith, JJ.) affirmed the judgment on the grounds urged by the defendants' counsel.

C. P. FEYER, APP.; BODENHAM, RESP. Jan. 22.
Parliament—Representation of the People Act, 1867—Inmates of a Charitable Foundation.

The appellant was the occupier of one of eleven houses known as "Lord Conningsby's Hospital." The hospital was founded in 1614 by an ancestor of one Arkwright, and was governed by certain rules, one of which was that an inmate once appointed to a house was not removable therefrom "except for a murder or felony, or something of that kind." The inmates were rated and paid rates, and had the exclusive occupation of their respective houses. They had no duties or services to perform. They paid no rent; and clothes and coals were supplied to them out of the funds of the hospital.

The revising barrister held, upon the supposed authority of Hartley v. Banks (5 C.B. N.S. 40), that the occupation of the appellant was eleemosynary in its character, and that he did not occupy as "owner or tenant" within the meaning of the 30 & 31 Vict. c. 102, s. 3.

THE COURT, upon the authority of Simpson v. Wilkinson (7 M. & G. 50; 8 Scott N.R. 814) and Roberts v. Percival (18 C.B.

(N. S.) 86), held that the appellant occupied the house in question as "owner" within the statute, and reversed the decision.

THE COURT held that interrogatories, the answers to which might tend to criminate the persons interrogated, ought not to be allowed, unless some special grounds for it are shewn; and that Martin, B., having decided that the affidavits did not shew any circumstances which justified their being put, they would not interfere with his discretion.

This was an action brought by the chamberlain of the City of London against the defendants for penalties for acting as brokers without being duly licensed, as required by 57 Geo. 3, c. 60.

It appeared that the defendants were the book-keeper and secretary respectively to the Open Stock Exchange Company. A gentleman had applied to Cousins to sell some stock for him; Cousins sold the stock on the Stock Exchange, and himself drew up and signed the bought and sold notes. Similar facts were proved with respect to Inglis. Neither of the defendants were licensed brokers. C. P. In re MARTHA ROBINSON. Jan. 30.
Husband and Wife—Conveyance of Wife's Property under 8 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 74, s. 91—Form of Affidavit.

Crompton moved for an order to enable Mrs. Martha Robinson, a married woman, to execute a conveyance of property to which she was separately entitled, without the concurrence of her husband. The affidavit upon which he moved stated the marriage of the parties, the nature of the property and the lady's interest therein, that the husband deserted his wife several years ago, and went to Australia, leaving her here destitute, and that she had had no communication with or from him since, and did not know where he was now living.

THE COURT took exception to the affidavit, on the ground that it did not negative that the husband contributed to the support of the wife.

Crompton submitted that that want was abundantly supplied by the allegation that he had left her destitute. But

THE COURT said they had repeatedly intimated that, upon applications of this sort, the fact of the husband's contribution to his wife's support must be expressly negated, and that it was necessary that that requirement should be strictly adhered to; otherwise, there would be an argument in each case as to whether or not the affidavit contained some allegation which might be considered equivalent.

Upon the affidavit being amended in this respect, the rule was granted.

C. P. WALKER v. SOUTH EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY. Jan. 30.
Measure of Damages in Action for Assault—Assessment upon a probably mistaken Basis—New Trial.

In an action charging, 1, an assault; 2, false imprisonment; 3, malicious prosecution; the evidence failed to sustain the two latter charges; and as to the first, it appeared that the plaintiff (a medical student) was a passenger by the defendants' railway, from Gravesend to Cannon Street; that upon the arrival of the train at London Bridge station, it was necessary for the plaintiff to change to another train; that whilst he was on the platform, an altercation arising between some of the company's servants and another passenger, the plaintiff interposed in some way which gave offence to one of the officials, who thereupon pushed him through the wicket; and that, upon the plaintiff's insisting upon returning to the platform, and refusing to produce his ticket (considering the demand to be unnecessary and impertinent), he was seized by the collar, run down the incline and through the station-yard to the public street, and there ignominiously kicked.

At the close of the plaintiff's case, he was recalled, and, in answer to questions put to him, stated that he had been put to considerable expense, having paid his attorney 80*l.*, and having in various other ways expended 50*l.* more in defending himself against the proceedings taken against him by the company.

The judge ruled that there was not sufficient evidence to go to the jury upon the second and third counts; and he told the jury that the disbursements spoken of by the plaintiff were referable to the proceedings which formed the subject of those two counts, and that, in estimating the damages which the plaintiff was entitled to upon the first count, they must confine their consideration to the charge of assault.

The jury assessed the damages at 170*l.*, and the judge reported that he thought them excessive.

THE COURT (Keating and Montague Smith, JJ.), admitting the general principle that the question of damages in actions of tort is almost exclusively for the consideration of the jury, yet thinking it probable in this case that the jury had formed their estimate upon an erroneous basis, directed a new trial.

Ex. JOHNSON v. OSBENTON. Jan. 23.
Deed under Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 134) s. 192—Assent—Conveyance of Property—Execrou.

Interpleader issue tried before Martin, B., at Westminster, on the 8th of November, 1868. The defendant having recovered judgment against one Prior, Prior executed a deed, by which he and the plaintiff covenanted to pay a composition of 2*s.* in the pound to his creditors, and he conveyed to the plaintiff all his property upon trust—first, to pay costs; secondly, to reimburse himself all moneys paid by him in respect of the composition, with an ultimate trust of the surplus for the debtor. The deed was expressed to be intended to operate under s. 192 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861. After the execution of this deed the defendant levied on the property comprised in it.

Among the assents necessary to the validity of the deed under s. 192, was one given by one creditor on behalf of himself and others, without prejudice to their rights under a former trust deed. The deed so referred to was not produced.

A verdict having been taken for the plaintiff, a rule was obtained by the defendant (pursuant to leave) to enter a verdict for him, on the ground that the deed was not duly assented to, and that it did not operate as a conveyance of the property.

Serjeant Atkinson and Eyre Lloyd shewed cause.

Garth, Q.C., and C. H. Anderson supported the rule.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Cleasby, B.) held that the assent, being qualified, was not a valid assent within s. 192; but that the deed, notwithstanding the expressed intention that it should operate under the Act, was not an escrow, and that, notwithstanding the failure of that intention, it effectually conveyed the property to the plaintiff; and they discharged the rule.

Ex. PEARSE v. COAKER. Jan. 26.

Action for Mesne Profits—Evidence of Defendant's Possession—Judgment by Default in Ejectment—Damages—Costs of Ejectment—Pleading.

Declaration: Trespass for mesne profits, "whereby the plaintiff, during the time he was ejected and kept out of possession of his messuage and land by the defendant, lost and was deprived of the issues and profits and the beneficial use and occupation thereof, and was prevented from letting the same, and incurred great expense in bringing an action to recover possession of the said land and messuage, and in recovering possession thereof."

Pleas:—1, Not guilty; 2, Not possessed; 3, Leave and license.

Replication, joining issue on the defendant's pleas, and as to such of the second plea as relates to the trespasses complained of in the declaration, between the 25th of March, 1867, and the 29th of February, 1868, a further replication by way of estoppel; to the effect that a writ of ejectment was, on the 5th of February, 1868, issued out of the Court of Exchequer, directed to F. W. Coaker, and all persons entitled to defend possession of the said premises [The writ was in the ordinary form, and was set out verbatim in the replication. By its terms the plaintiff claimed to have been entitled to possession of the premises, and to eject all persons therefrom on and since the 25th of March, 1867]; that the said F. W. Coaker was the now defendant, and was tenant in possession between the 25th of March, 1867, and the 29th of February, 1868; that the plaintiff in the ejectment was the now plaintiff; that the writ was duly served on, but no appearance was entered by the defendant, whereupon judgment was signed, and afterwards, that is, on the 29th of February, 1868, possession was delivered to the plaintiff.

Issue.

The cause was tried before Channell, B., at the Exeter Summer Assizes, 1868, when the plaintiff adduced in evidence the judgment in the action of ejectment, and also proved that possession was re-delivered to him on the day named in the replication. There was also evidence that the defendant had a lease of the premises, which, however, was not produced, and that he had paid 327*l.* 10*s.* yearly rent. But there was no direct oral evidence of his having been in actual possession from the 25th of March, 1867. The costs of the ejectment were proved to be 26*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* A verdict was entered for the plaintiff for 325*l.*, that sum being made up of the estimated value of the premises, as derived from the rent from the 25th of March, 1867, to the 29th of February, 1868, and the costs of the ejectment; with leave to the defendant to move to enter a nonsuit, on the ground that there was no evidence of the defendant's possession from the 25th of March to the 29th of February; or to reduce the damages, on the ground that, at the most, there was only evidence of his possession from the date of the writ of ejectment to the 29th of February, and that the costs on ejectment could not be recovered, not being specifically claimed in the declaration. A rule having been obtained accordingly:

The Solicitor-General (Sir J. D. Coleridge) and Pinder shewed cause, and contended that the judgment by default in the ejectment (taken with the evidence that the premises were held on lease and at a yearly rent) was evidence of the defendant's possession from the 25th of March, 1867; or, if not, that it was evidence of his possession from the date of the writ; and that the costs in the ejectment were recoverable, though not claimed specifically as costs in the declaration.

Cole, Q.C., in support of the rule, contended that the evidence as to payment of rent was insufficient, and that the judgment by default in the ejectment was no evidence of the defendant's having been in actual possession either at the time when the writ was issued and served, or at any other time. As to the costs, they ought to have been declared for specifically.

THE COURT discharged the rule to enter a nonsuit, and made the rule absolute to reduce the damages to a sum to be arrived at by adding together such a proportion of the rent reserved as would accrue between the 5th and 29th of February, 1868, and the costs of the ejectment, which they held to be recoverable under the terms of the declaration.

Per KELLY, C.B.:—The judgment by default in ejectment, regarded by itself, is no evidence of the defendant's possession at any time, but the circumstances of the case together constitute sufficient evidence that he was in possession at any rate from the 5th of February, 1868.

Per CHANNELL and CLEASBY, BB.:—The judgment is primâ facie evidence, apart from any extrinsic circumstances, of the defendant's possession on the 5th of February, 1868.

Per PIGOTT, B.:—The facts proved constitute primâ facie evidence of the defendant's possession on the 5th of February, 1868.

Rule absolute accordingly.

Ex. ALEXANDER v. SIZER. Jan. 26.

Promissory Note—Signature as Secretary of a Company—Personal Liability.

Declaration on a promissory note in the following form:—

"1500*l.*: On demand I promise to pay Messrs. Alexander & Co., or order, the sum of one thousand five hundred pounds, with legal interest thereon until paid. Value received the 16th day of August, 1868.

"For Mistle, Thorpe, and Walton Railway Company,

"JOHN SIZER, Secretary.

"(Witness) CHARLES TAYLOR."

The defendant pleaded that the note was made by him only as the secretary of the company, and that he was not personally liable on it.

The money, for which the note was given, had been lent for the benefit of the company, but they were not empowered by their special Act to make promissory notes. The signature of their secretary, therefore, did not bind them; and the plaintiff sought in this action to recover from the defendant, the secretary, personally.

At the trial a verdict was entered for the plaintiff, with leave to move to enter a verdict for the defendant. A rule having been obtained accordingly,

H. Matthews, Q.C., and Joyce shewed cause.

Phülbrick supported the rule.

THE COURT held that it appeared on the face of the note that the defendant was not liable personally. He had signed the note as an officer of the company only, and was within the principle of the decision in Lindus v. Melrose (2 H. & N. 293; 3 H. & N. 177).

Rule absolute.

C. C. THE QUEEN v. SUMMERS. Jan. 30.
Misdemeanour—Prior Conviction for Felony not alleged in Indictment—Length of Sentence.

The prisoner was convicted of the misdemeanour of having indicted grievous bodily harm on a policeman.

The indictment did not contain any allegation of any previous conviction of felony, and it is not the practice to insert a previous conviction of felony in an indictment for a misdemeanour without some authority by statute, as it would be error on the record. The Larceny and Coinage Acts, but not the Act relating to personal injuries, recognise the insertion in the indictment of a previous conviction.

After the jury had found the prisoner guilty, some policemen and prison officers proved on oath that the prisoner had been previously convicted of felony, but no record or certificate of such previous conviction was produced. The conviction for doing grievous bodily harm was treated as a misdemeanour only, without any previous conviction of felony, and the ordinary sentence, five years penal servitude, was accordingly passed.

27 & 28 Vict. c. 47, s. 2, enacts, that when any person shall on indictment be convicted of any crime or offence punishable with penal servitude, after having been previously convicted of felony, the least sentence of penal servitude that can be awarded in such case shall be a period of seven years.

The questions were, 1st, whether the sentence was correct; 2nd, whether 27 & 28 Vict. c. 47, s. 2, authorizes the Court to pass a sentence of seven years penal servitude, whether a previous conviction of felony is alleged in the indictment or not.

No counsel appeared.

THE COURT (Bovill, C.J., Channell and Pigott, BB., and Byles and Lush, J.J.) held that the sentence was correct, and that this was the only question with which they had power to deal.

Conviction affirmed.

C. C. THE QUEEN v. HIBBERT. Jan. 30.
Abduction—Taking Girl under Sixteen out of the Possession of her Father—24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 55.

Indictment that the prisoner took an unmarried girl, under the age of sixteen, out of the possession and against the will of her father.

The girl, who lived with her father and mother at Ashton, left home with another girl to go to school. The prisoner met the girls in the street, and induced them to go with him to Manchester, where he seduced the girl in question. He then accompanied them back to Ashton and left them. The girl then returned home, having been absent some hours longer than she ought to and otherwise would have been. The prisoner made no inquiry, and did not know who the girl was, or whether she had a father or mother living or not, but he had no reason to and did not believe that she was a girl of the town.

The prisoner was convicted.

The question was whether the case was within section 55 of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, which enacts that, "whosoever shall unlawfully take any unmarried girl, being under the age of sixteen years, out of the possession and against the will of her father or mother, or of any other person having the lawful care or charge of her, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour."

No counsel appeared.

THE COURT (Bovill, C. J., Channell and Pigott, BB., Byles and Lush, J.J.) held that the conviction could not be supported, as it did not appear that the prisoner knew or had the means of knowing that the girl was under the care of her father, as charged in the indictment, or of any other person.

Conviction quashed.

Will—Executor Abroad—Property sworn below its Value—Probate not issued—Affidavit of an Agent—Practice.

Damaso Francisco de Angulo y Urruela died domiciled at and resident in Guatemala, Central America, on the 13th of June, 1866. As he left considerable property in this country, an official copy of his will and codicil duly certified were forwarded to England, and the usual affidavits were prepared here and transmitted to Guatemala for the executor, who, having sworn to them, returned them to this country. In these affidavits the property belonging to the deceased in this country was stated to be under the value of 32,000*l.*, but it was subsequently discovered that, including the value of certain foreign securities which were supposed not to be, but which, in fact, were part of the testator's estate liable to probate duty, the amount ought to be taken at 40,000*l.* The agent of the executor offered to make an affidavit as to the full value of the estate, and to pay the proper duty and fees, but the registrar refused to allow the grant to be made on a stamp larger than sufficient to cover the amount under which the effects had been sworn by the executor.

C. A. Middleton moved the Court, on the affidavit of the agent, to allow the grant to be stamped, so as to cover the whole value of the property.

SIR J. P. WILDE:—I think there is nothing in the Stamp Acts to prevent my granting this application. It is plain, from the wording of the 38th section of 55 Geo. 3, c. 184, that the Court is not restricted to granting probate on the affidavit of the applicant, whether he be executor or administrator, but it may take the affidavit of any other competent person. The grant may go; but it is proper that an affidavit should be filed by the agent, explaining how it is that the oath of the executor, as to the value of the property, differs from that endorsed on the probate. The 41st section is applicable only when the mistake is not discovered until after probate has issued.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF HUTLEY. Jan. 26.
Citation—Affidavit to lead—Applicant Abroad—Agent—Practice.

John Hutley died on the 30th of October, 1866, having made a will, in which he appointed four executors, one of whom died in his lifetime. The other three took probate of the will, which was subsequently called in by Stephen Hutley, the next of kin and heir-at-law of the deceased, and a suit was commenced.

The questions at issue came on for trial before the judge and a special jury on the 25th of July, 1867, and a compromise was agreed upon between the parties. Mr. Stephen Hutley received 5000*l.* and his costs, and the Court pronounced for the will. Mr. Henry Grimston, who then resided and still resides at Hobart Town, Tasmania, was not cited or made party to that suit, although entitled in distribution if deceased had died intestate.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C. (E. C. Clarkson with him), moved the Court to order a citation to issue, calling upon the executors to bring in the probate, and shew cause why the will should not be declared null and void on the affidavit of Mr. Nunn, who had received a power of attorney from Mr. Grimston authorizing him to institute the suit. As the property was about to be distributed, the delay of waiting for an affidavit from Tasmania would be very injurious.

THE COURT granted the motion.

M. R. FREELAND v. PEARSON. Jan. 30.
Sale by Court—Legal Estate—Conveyance.

This was a summons to settle the draft conveyance of certain freehold and leasehold property sold under an order of the Court.

Benjamin Linsey, the testator in the cause, by his will gave all his real and personal property to his wife Elizabeth L. Linsey during her life, and directed her at her decease to make such distribution and disposal of his then remaining property amongst his children as might seem just and reasonable. The testator died on the 9th of January, 1841, leaving his widow and eight children him surviving. E. L. Linsey, by her will dated the 8th of August, 1861, gave all the property to trustees in trust for the children nominatim.

Joseph Linsey, one of the children, by an indenture dated the 13th of April, 1851, assigned all his share and interest under the will of B. Linsey to Mary Britten, her executors, administrators, and assigns, by way of mortgage.

Thomas B. Linsey, another of the children, by an indenture dated the 21st of November, 1858, granted, assigned, and transferred to William Holden, his executors, administrators, and assigns, his share of and in the real and personal estate of B. Linsey, to hold the same unto the said W. Holden, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, subject to redemption on payment of 500*l.* and interest.

Holden died shortly afterwards; his widow, Hannah Holden, became his administratrix; and by an indenture dated the 20th of March, 1855 (which contained a recital that the 500*l.* mentioned in the mortgage was in fact the money of John Troup), she assigned to Troup, his executors, administrators, and assigns, the mortgage-debt of 500*l.*, and also the share by the mortgage-deed purported to be assigned to Holden. Troup had come in under the decree in the suit and proved his debt.

The property was put up for sale under conditions which provided that the purchaser should bear the expense of getting in all outstanding legal estates, if any, and that no purchaser should require for any purpose the concurrence of any person in respect of any equitable or beneficial interest bound by the order of sale. The draft conveyance, as settled on behalf of the purchaser, made Troup, Mary Britten, and the heir-at-law of Holden, parties. The defendants, having the conduct of the sale, objected that these were unnecessary parties.

W. R. Ellis, for the defendants, relied on Craddock v. Piper (14 Sim. 310) and Sug. V. & P. 14th ed. p. 897, pl. 34, 37.

Langley, for the purchaser, was not called on.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, under the conditions of sale, Troup could not be required to concur in the conveyance, but that Mary Britten and the heir-at-law of Holden were properly made parties. The question by whom the expense of procuring their concurrence was to be borne was not now before him, and he would therefore say nothing as to that.

In re ARBITRATION BETWEEN DRURY AND LYNNE.

Agreement to submit to Arbitration—Refusal of one to Proceed—Revocation of Submission—Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, s. 17.

On the 31st of March, 1868, the Rev. George Drury and the Rev. J. L. Lyne, by an agreement in writing under hand only, agreed to submit certain disputes which had arisen between them, in reference to some messuages and other property at Norwich, to arbitration.

The arbitrators, in June, 1868, proceeded with the matter in the presence of all parties, and on the 18th of June an adjournment took place to November, when it was made known to them and to Mr. Drury that Mr. Lyne refused to go on with the arbitration, and in January, 1869, he, by deed-poll, revoked his submission.

This was a motion, on behalf of Mr. Drury, that the agreement should be made a rule of Court, under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, s. 17.

Greene, Q.C., and Francis Webb, supported the motion.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Herbert Smith, for Mr. Lyne, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said such an agreement as this was, under the old law, clearly revocable. This agreement was under hand only. It had been revoked by deed, and he had no doubt it was a good revocation. The 17th section of the Act referred to had not made any material alteration in the law, and it certainly contained no provision which would, under the circumstances, justify him in making the order asked.

Motion refused with costs.

LMAOCH v. WESTALL.

Jan. 30.

Partition Suit—Costs of all Parties out of Fund—Unequal Shares.

WRIGHT v. LARMUTH.

Jan. 30.

Disputed Debt—Jurisdiction—Equitable Circumstances—Costs.

This was an adjourned summons to vary the chief clerk's certificate, who had disallowed a claim for 3571*l.*, made by a solicitor and banker against the estate of the testator, which was being administered in this suit. The claim was for moneys alleged to have been advanced to the testator to enable him to prosecute a long series of litigation to upset a will, and was opposed by the executors on the ground that the evidence shewed that such litigation, though carried on in the name of the testator, was in fact carried on for the benefit of the claimant, and therefore that he was not entitled to recover from the testator's estate.

Glasse, Q.C., Serjeant Atkinson, and A. E. Miller, for the claimant.

Pearson, Q.C., and Bristowe, for the executors.

Osborne, Q.C., Woodhouse, Besley, and Dixon, appeared for beneficiaries, but His Honour declined to hear them.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that in a case like the present, where there was such a conflict of evidence, he should have been glad if he could have sent it to a jury; but in a very similar case the Lords Justices had held that the judge was bound to try the whole question of debt or no debt, and he (the Vice-Chancellor) considered that that decision bound him to decide all the equitable circumstances relating to the whole case. Being satisfied, upon the very conflicting evidence, that the litigation was carried on for the benefit of the claimant, and not for that of the testator, in whose name the proceedings had been taken, and that it was a claim which no jury would have allowed, he must disallow the whole claim, and the claimant must pay the whole costs occasioned by it except those of the beneficiaries, who ought not to have appeared, the executors appearing to protect the estate.

BRYFUS v. BULLOCK.

Feb. 9.

Bankruptcy—Deed to defeat Creditors—Injunction—Lis pendens—2 & 3 Vict. c. 11.

B. Bullock and his son W. E. Bullock, by an indenture dated in April, 1866, conveyed certain estates, which were then vested in the father for life, with remainder to the son in tail, to a trustee, to such uses as the father and son should jointly appoint, and in default of appointment, to certain uses in favour of the father and son.

By a deed-poll, dated in December, 1866, B. Bullock and his son, after appointing themselves to be the trustees of such deed, appointed the above property to the use of the father for life, and after his decease it was appointed and declared that, in case the son should be living at the decease of the father, then the property should, as from his decease, be to the use of the son absolutely; and it was provided that it should be lawful for the father and son, at any time during their lives, by deed, absolutely to revoke and make void all the uses and trusts therein limited and to declare new uses and trusts thereof.

In December, 1867, B. Bullock and W. E. Bullock executed another deed-poll, whereby they purported to revoke all the uses declared in the deed of December, 1866, in favour of the son, and to appoint and declare that the property should go to such uses as the father should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment, to the son absolutely. At the date of the execution of the last-mentioned deed, the son was largely indebted to various persons, and was adjudicated a bankrupt in May, 1868. The bill was filed by the creditors and assignees of the son, and it alleged that the last-mentioned deed was executed with the intention of defeating the creditors, and it prayed that such deed might be declared fraudulent and void as against the creditors, and might be set aside accordingly; and that the father, B. Bullock, might be restrained by injunction from exercising the power of appointment purported to be given him by the deed of revocation.

Cotton, Q.C., and Kisch now moved for the injunction, on the ground that before the hearing of the cause the father might exercise his power in such a manner as to defeat or embarrass the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q.C., and Boyle, for the defendants, contended that, since the Act of 2 & 3 Vict. c. 11, making the registration of a suit act as notice against purchasers for value, there was no case in which such an injunction as this had been granted.

Pearson, Q.C., and F. T. White, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, where there was a question to be tried at the hearing, it was the duty of the Court to protect the plaintiffs' rights, so that they should not be prejudiced by what might be done in the meantime. In this case it would be inequitable to prevent the father from making a settlement upon his family; but, at the same time, it would be unjust to the plaintiffs to allow him to exercise his power in favour of a purchaser for value. He did not consider that the Lis Pendens Act would afford much protection in such a case; therefore he should restrain the father from making any alienation of the estate in favour of a purchaser for value, but should not interfere with the exercise of his power under the deed in favour of volunteers. Costs to be costs in the cause.

V.-C. M. HAYWARD v. SMITH. Feb. 10.
Sale under Partition Act (81 & 82 Vict. c. 40)—Receipt of Money by Trustees.

This was a suit for the sale of an estate under the Partition Act (81 & 82 Vict. c. 40); and by the decree the trustees of the will—under which the property was given to be apportioned between three sets of persons—were directed to sell, and to pay one third of the proceeds to the plaintiff, and two thirds for the benefit of other persons.

The registrar had raised a difficulty, in drawing up the decree, as to whether the Court would permit the property to be sold without directions in chambers or bringing the purchase-money into Court.

Roberts, in asking that the decree might be confirmed, reminded the Court that the Partition Act incorporated the sections 23 to 25 of the Act 19 & 20 Vict. c. 120, for "facilitating leases and sales of settled estates," extending that Act to the application of money received upon any sale effected under the Partition Act.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR confirmed the decree.

V.-C. J. POSTLETHWAITE v. MARYPORT HARBOUR TRUSTEES. Feb. 1.
Harbour Rates and Duties—Mortgagee—Right to recover Principal—Receiver.

Bill by executors of a mortgagee of the tonnage rates and other duties connected with the harbour of Maryport, "on behalf of themselves and all other the mortgagees on the tonnage rates or duties, and other duties connected with the harbour of Maryport, under the statute of 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. cxliii., who shall come in and seek relief under and contribute to the expenses of this suit," praying for an account, for a receiver of all moneys arising from the rates and duties comprised in the mortgages (twelve in number for 100*l.* each), and that proper directions might be given to such receiver for applying the surplus revenue, after payment of the necessary expenses, and the interest on the mortgage debts, in satisfaction pari passu of the capital thereof.

By the mortgages, the form of which was prescribed by the special Acts, the harbour trustees purported to grant and assign to the mortgagee such proportion of the tonnage rates or duties as the amount advanced by him bore to the whole sum borrowed, and to be borrowed, and which should from time to time be owing upon the credit of the rates and duties.

Druce, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs.

C. Hall (Kay, Q.C., with him), for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the case could not be distinguished from Hopkins v. Worcester Canal Proprietors (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 437), and made the following order:—Refer it to chambers to ascertain amount of mortgages of tolls, rates, &c.; inquire what amount due to plaintiffs for principal on plaintiffs' security; ascertain aliquot proportion which amount of principal due to plaintiffs bears to total amount of mortgages subsisting under Act of 1833; plaintiffs to add costs to security; direct defendants to pay to plaintiffs an equal aliquot proportion of their total receipts (after keeping down costs, charges, and expenses of working the harbour, and interest on mortgages pari passu with plaintiffs as above ascertained); liberty to apply in respect of receiver or otherwise.

V.-C. J. BANK OF TURKEY v. OTTOMAN COMPANY. Feb. 1.
Company—Promotion-money—Breach of Trust.

Bill praying a declaration that a payment of 5000*l.*, and further sums amounting to 4000*l.*, to the Ottoman Company, was a breach of trust, and that the Ottoman Company and the directors of the Bank of Turkey might be ordered to repay the amount to the plaintiffs, with interest at 5 per cent. Alternative relief was prayed by way of account of all moneys paid by the Ottoman Company in respect of the expenses of forming and bringing out the Bank of Turkey.

The Bank of Turkey was formed in October, 1865, by the directors and promoters of the Ottoman Company, and it was arranged that the Ottoman Company should introduce to the public the Bank of Turkey on the following conditions: viz. that the Ottoman Company should provide for, in the first instance, all expenses incident to the formation of the bank, and of the introduction to the public, and of procuring the subscription of the capital; such expenses to be repaid to the Ottoman Company by the bank within ten days after the allotment of shares in the bank, or such further time as the directors of the company should resolve on—the production of the vouchers for such expenses to be conclusive as to the amounts thereof. The bank also agreed to pay to the company, independently of and in addition to such expenses, a net commission of 5000*l.* within ten days after such allotment, with a proviso that, if no such allotment took place, the Ottoman Company should bear all the expenses and receive no commission, and, in any event, the company was to indemnify the directors of the bank from such expenses.

In December, 1865, 5000*l.* was paid by the directors of the bank to the Ottoman Company for commission. The bill alleged that this payment, which was not communicated to the shareholders until April, 1866, when the winding-up was resolved upon, was improper and a breach of trust, there having been no proper and sufficient allotment of shares so as to justify the payment even upon the terms of the arrangement, while the payment was made by the influence of those of the defendants who were directors in both companies, not for the purpose of promoting the interests of the bank, but in order to benefit the company. Sums amounting to 4000*l.* were also paid to the company for expenses alleged to have been incurred in the formation of the bank. The bill alleged that the 4000*l.* greatly exceeded the real amount paid by the company; that no vouchers were ever produced; that the payment was not warranted by the terms of arrangement; and, being made in order to reimburse the company the moneys expended by it in respect of the shares of the bank allotted to the company and its nominees, was ultra vires and a breach of trust. Both the bank and the company were being wound up. The bill was filed in May, 1866, and a motion by the plaintiffs to restrain the company from dealing with the 5000*l.* was refused by Vice-Chancellor Wood, on the ground that the right to the money was the question to be tried at the hearing, and there was no admission of a trust so as to entitle the plaintiffs to an order for payment of the money into Court (Law Rep. 2 Eq. 366).

The bill had been amended, and the case now came on for hearing.

Kay, Q.C. (Lindley with him), for the plaintiffs.

Amphlett, Q.C., De Geaz, Q.C., Druce, Q.C., Swanston, Q.C., Wickens, C. T. Simpson, Eddis, A. E. Miller, H. M. Jackson, W. F. Robinson, Bevir, and A. T. Watson, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, assuming the case made by the bill to have been proved, it was simply this—that the money had been claimed by and paid to the Ottoman Company without their having rendered the services specified by the arrangement. This was a mere question of legal demand, and mere mistake in paying a legal demand or over payment did not afford any ground for relief in Equity. The mere fact that some of the directors of the Bank of Turkey, who were parties to the transaction, were also directors of the company, did not enable him to say that there had been a breach of trust.

Bill dismissed with costs.

Q. B. OSGOOD v. NELSON. Jan. 26.
Officer—Registrar of the Sheriffs' Court of the City of London, Removal of—Jurisdiction of the Court of Common Council.

The action was brought by the plaintiff to recover certain fees received by the defendant, and to which the plaintiff claimed to be entitled as registrar of the Sheriffs' Court of the City of London.

Certain charges had been preferred against the plaintiff, before the Court of Common Council, to the effect that he had neglected the duties of his office by absenting himself at times, by discharging his duties, not personally, but by clerks, and by neglecting the correspondence of the Court.

After hearing evidence on these charges, the Court of Common Council adjudged them proved, and dismissed the plaintiff from his office.

It was admitted that the Court of Common Council had jurisdiction to dismiss the registrar of the Sheriffs' Court, but the plaintiff contended that he had not been lawfully removed.

Montagu Chambers, Q.C. (Gibbons with him), for the plaintiff.

Mellish, Q.C. (Pollock, Q.C., and Archibald with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT held that, as the Court of Common Council had jurisdiction to dismiss the plaintiff, and as they had given him an opportunity of answering the charges made against him, their decision was final, and could not be reviewed.

Q. B. GRAY v. WEST. Jan. 28.
Costs—30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5—Slander.

30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5, enacts: "If in any action commenced after the passing of this Act in any of Her Majesty's superior Courts of Record the plaintiff shall recover a sum not exceeding 20*l.* if the action is founded on contract, or 10*l.* if founded on tort, whether by verdict, judgment by default, or on demurrer or otherwise, he shall not be entitled to any costs of suit unless the judge certify on the record that there was sufficient reason for bringing such action in such superior Court, or unless the Court or a judge at chambers shall by rule or order allow such costs."

An action for slander was commenced after the passing of 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, and a verdict found for the plaintiff for 10*l.* The judge declined to certify that there was sufficient reason for bringing such action in such superior Court. An application was then made to the Court for costs.

Anderson, for the plaintiff.

G. Francis, for the defendant.

THE COURT held that, as the plaintiff had recovered an amount beyond what would have entitled him to costs under the general law applicable to actions for slander in the superior Court, and as he could not have sued elsewhere, the plaintiff ought to be allowed his costs; and granted the application.

Ex. Ch. from Q. B. Feb. 3.
MORTON AND OTHERS v. WOODS AND OTHERS.

Landlord and Tenant—Effect of Mortgage not executed by Mortgagee with Attornment by Mortgagor as Tenant—Construction of Mortgage Deed—Estoppel.

B., being mortgagor in possession, executed a mortgage on the 12th of September, 1866, of the premises to the defendants to secure the repayment with interest of certain advances by the defendants. The mortgage was by indenture between B. and the defendants, but was not executed by the defendants; the deed recited the previous mortgage (which was in fee), and by it B. conveyed all the premises comprised in the recited mortgage to the defendants in fee, upon trust that the defendants should either immediately or at any time sell them, "and as a further security for the principal and interest for the time being due from B. to the defendants, B. did thereby attorn and become tenant to the defendants, their heirs and assigns, from the date thereof, of such of the premises thereby conveyed as were in his occupation, for and during the term of ten years, if that security should so long continue, at the yearly rent of 800*l.*, to be paid on the 1st of October, the first yearly rent to be payable on the 1st of October then next. Provided that, notwithstanding anything therein contained, and without any notice or demand of possession, it should be lawful for the defendants, their heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, before or after the execution of the trusts of sale, to enter upon the said mortgaged premises, or any part thereof, and to eject B., or any person claiming through him, and to determine the said term of ten years, notwithstanding any lease that might have been granted to B."

B. continued accordingly in occupation of the premises, and on the 15th of October, 1866, the defendants distrained for the first year's rent. B. was adjudged a bankrupt in November, and the plaintiffs, his assignees, paid the amount of rent and costs under protest, and then brought this action to recover the amount, on the ground that the defendants had no right to distrain.

The Court of Queen's Bench (Law Rep. 8 Q. B. 658) held that the intention of the parties, as evidenced by the deed, was to create a tenancy at will only, and not a term of ten years; that a deed being therefore unnecessary, the tenancy was created by the assent of the parties and the attornment and occupation by B., and that the fact that the defendants had not executed the indenture was immaterial. Secondly, that the parties having agreed that the relation of landlord and tenant should be established between them, the plaintiffs as representing B., the mortgagor, were estopped from setting up that the defendants had no legal reversion, and that it made no difference that the fact that B. had only the equity of redemption appeared on the face of the deed; and that the distress was therefore valid.

C. P. BRETT v. JACKSON. Jan. 5.
Bankrupt—Proof under 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 175—Annuity.

The defendant, by deed, covenanted to pay to the plaintiff during his life, if he should so long continue to perform, observe, and abide by the stipulations on his part thereafter contained, a clear yearly sum of 150*l.*, to be paid quarterly; and it was provided that, if the plaintiff should refuse, neglect, fail, or become incapable to perform, observe, or abide by all or any of the stipulations on his part thereafter contained, then and immediately thereupon the said annual sum should cease and be no longer payable. One of the stipulations was, that the plaintiff should "use his best endeavours to preserve and extend the (defendant's) business, and to promote the success thereof, and to carry on the same to the profit and for the benefit of the defendant, and should not by any act, neglect, omission, or default injure the same or impede the success thereof." There was a further stipulation that the plaintiff should not, whilst the defendant continued the business or any branch thereof, carry on or be concerned in any business of a similar kind within twenty miles of St. Paul's Churchyard; and also a clause for the referring of disputes to arbitration.

THE COURT held that the annual sum payable under the above deed was subject to such contingencies as prevented its being provable as an "annuity" under s. 175 of the Bankruptcy Act of 1849 (12 & 13 Vict. c. 106).

Ex. Ch. from C. P. MATHEWS v. DISCOUNT COMPANY. Feb. 5.

Damages—Weight Notes on Sale of Jute—Deposit.

This was an appeal from a judgment of the Court of Common Pleas, making absolute a rule to increase the damages from a nominal sum to 719*l.*, an amount agreed between the parties.

The facts were, that Steele, Scott, & Co., having purchased some jute which was warehoused in the London Docks, and paid a deposit of 5000*l.* thereon, and received weight notes, by which the Dock Company agreed to deliver the jute to the holder thereof, agreed with the plaintiff that if he would accept certain bills for them, to be discounted by the defendants, they would deposit with the defendants the weight notes as security for the plaintiff, and the defendants accordingly received the weight notes, and agreed to hold them for the plaintiff. They, however, handed them to Steele, Scott, & Co. on the latter retiring the bills, and it was for this breach of contract the action was brought.

The jute having been destroyed by fire, Steele, Scott, & Co. on receiving the weight notes took them to their vendor, and received a return of the deposit, and they shortly after became bankrupt.

The plaintiff alleged that if he had received the weight notes he would have been able to recover the deposit, or, at least, 719*l.*, part of it, and that he was, therefore, entitled to that sum as damages.

Ex. EASTWOOD v. AVISON. Jan. 28.
Will—Construction—Death without Issue.

This was an action of ejectment tried before Bramwell, B., at the Leeds Summer Assizes, 1868.

The plaintiff was John Eastwood, and the defendant claimed under a conveyance from Samuel Eastwood. John and Samuel were both grandsons of one Samuel Eastwood, the former being elder of the two, and the question arose on the will of Samuel, the grandfather, which was made in the year 1834, and which contained a devise of the property mentioned in the writ of ejectment "to Samuel, son of my son Samuel; and if he shall die without issue, that property shall return to the Eastwood family; but if he lives to have children, he shall have power to make a will of it for his children." The plaintiff, the heir-at-law of Samuel Eastwood, the grandfather, contended that these words conferred on Samuel, the grandson, an estate for life only. The defendant, on the other hand, contended that they conferred on him an estate tail by implication.

A verdict was entered for the defendant, with leave to move to enter a verdict for the plaintiff. A rule was obtained accordingly, against which:

Nov. 14, 1868. Manisty, Q.C., and Waddy shewed cause.

Field, Q.C., Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Wills supported the rule.

Jan. 28. THE COURT gave judgment, making the rule absolute. They held that, under the words of the devise, Samuel Eastwood, the grandson, took an estate for life only, and that he had no power to convey it to the defendant.

Ex. Ch. from Ex. SINGER AND WIFE v. GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY. Feb. 9.
Negligence—Railway Company—Train too long for Platform.

Appeal from the decision of the Court of Exchequer making absolute a rule to enter a nonsuit (Law Rep. 3 Ex. 150).

The plaintiffs (husband and wife) travelled by an excursion train from West Bromwich to Rhyd, and arrived there in daylight. At Rhyd the train was too long for the platform, and the engine with some of the front carriages, in one of which were the plaintiffs, overshot it. The passengers were not warned to keep their seats, nor was any offer made to back the train, nor was it in fact so backed, nor did it move again until it started for Bangor. After waiting a short time the husband, following the example of other passengers, alighted, without any communication with the company's servants. The wife, standing on the iron step of the carriage, took both his hands and jumped down, and in so doing strained her knee. There was a footboard between the iron step and the ground, which she did not use, but there was no evidence of any carelessness in the manner of descent except such as might be inferred from the above facts. In an action brought for the injury,

The Court of Exchequer held (Kelly, C.B., dissenting) that there was no evidence for the jury of negligence in the defendants, or that even if there was, the injury was caused solely by the female plaintiff's conduct. The plaintiffs appealed.

ADDITIONAL RULES AND REGULATIONS

FOR

HER MAJESTY'S COURT FOR DIVORCE AND MATRIMONIAL CAUSES.

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the session of Parliament holden in the twentieth and twenty-first years of the reign of her present Majesty, chapter 85, it is provided that there shall be a Court of Record, to be called "The Court for Divorce and Matrimonial Causes;" and whereas by the said Act it is further provided that the said Court shall make such rules and regulations concerning the practice and procedure under the said Act as it may from time to time consider expedient, and shall have full power from time to time to revoke or alter the same; and whereas by another Act passed in the session of Parliament holden in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth years of Her Majesty's reign, chapter 144, it is enacted that it shall be lawful for the Judge Ordinary of the Court for Divorce and Matrimonial Causes alone to exercise all powers and authority whatever theretofore exercised by the full Court.

Now I, the Right Honourable SIR JAMES PLAISTED WILDE, Judge Ordinary of Her Majesty's Court for Divorce and Matrimonial Causes, do make the following additional rules and regulations concerning the practice and procedure in the said Court for Divorce and Matrimonial Causes, to take effect on and after the 1st day of March in the present year.

Dated the 30th day of January, 1869.

JAMES PLAISTED WILDE.

ADDITIONAL RULES AND REGULATIONS.

Restitution of Conjugal Rights.

175. The affidavit filed with the petition, as required by Rule 2, shall further state sufficient facts to satisfy one of the registrars that a written demand for cohabitation and restitution of conjugal rights has been made by the petitioner upon the party to be cited, and that after a reasonable opportunity for compliance therewith such cohabitation and restitution of conjugal rights has been withheld.

176. At any time after the commencement of proceedings for restitution of conjugal rights the respondent may apply by summons to the judge, or to the registrars in his absence, for an order to stay the proceedings in the cause by reason that he or she is willing to resume or to return to cohabitation with the petitioner.

As to Costs.

177. In all cases in which the Court at the hearing of a cause condemns any party to the suit in costs, the proctor, solicitor, or attorney of the party to whom such costs are to be paid, may forthwith file his bill of costs in the registry, and obtain an appointment for the taxation, provided that such taxation shall not take place before the time allowed for moving for a new trial or re-hearing shall have expired; or, in case a rule nisi should have been granted, until the rule is disposed of, unless the Judge Ordinary shall, for cause shown, direct a more speedy taxation.

178. Upon the registrar's certificate of costs being signed, he shall at once issue an order of the Court for payment of the amount within seven days.

179. This order shall be served on the proctor, solicitor, or attorney of the party liable [or if it is desired to enforce the order, by attachment on the party himself], and if the costs be not paid within the seven days, a writ of fieri facias or writ of sequestration shall be issued as of course in the registry, upon an affidavit of service of the order, and non-payment.

As to Subpoenas.

180. The issuing of fresh subpoenas in each term shall be abolished, and it shall not be necessary to serve more than one subpoena upon any witness. Such subpoena shall be in the following form:—

Subpoena ad testificandum.

VICTORIA, by the grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, to [names of all witnesses included in the subpoena to be inserted], greeting. L. C. TURQUAND v. MARSHALL. Feb. 11.
Company—Directors—False Balance-sheets—Bad Debts—Misconduct—Pleading—Bill by Company.

This was a suit by the official liquidator of a company seeking to make the directors liable for neglect and default, and the Master of the Rolls had made a decree declaring the directors liable for not stopping the bank when three fourths of the capital was lost, and for an advance to one of the directors who had died insolvent (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 112).

The executors of two of the directors appealed. Druce, Q.U., and W. W. Cooper, for the executors of Mr. Crowther, one of the directors. Jessel, Q.C., and Everitt, for the executors of Mr. Smeeton, another director.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Roxburgh, Q.C., and Swanston, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the bill complained that the directors had published false balance-sheets, and had declared dividends when none had been earned, and that the directors had not stopped the bank when three fourths of the capital had been lost. As to the dividends, he could not order the directors to pay dividends over again to the shareholders. As to the publication of false balance-sheets, and including in them debts which were hopelessly bad, it was very difficult to say when a debt was hopeless; and, besides, if any shareholder was deceived into buying shares he might have his separate remedy, but each would have a different case, and the whole body could not sue. As to the not stopping of the bank, it appeared that much more than one fourth of the capital was lost in 1842, when the shareholders resolved to go on, and the directors could not, therefore, be held liable for not calling a meeting and stopping the bank immediately after the shareholders had resolved to go on. As to the loan to one of the directors, no case was made on the bill, the only statement on that subject being that the directors had improperly included that debt amongst the assets. If the money had been improperly advanced, the directors might be charged with it in the winding-up. The appeal must be allowed and the bill dismissed, but without costs.

L. C. MATTERSON v. ELDERFIELD. Feb. 13.
Benefit Building Society—Sale under Power in Mortgage.

This was a special case stated in the bankruptcy of G. Osborne, a member of the Minerva Permanent Benefit Building Society. The bankrupt was the holder of sixty shares in the society, in respect of which he obtained an advance of 1200l., and executed a mortgage in the form prescribed by the rules; the terms of which were, to pay monthly subscriptions of 14l. a month for a period of 120 months from the 23rd of November, 1868, making altogether 1680l. In August, 1867, the subscriptions being in arrear, the directors sold the mortgaged premises for 1610l. under the power of sale in the mortgage; and after repaying themselves the subscriptions and fines then in arrear, and the expenses of the sale, and also retaining 1255l. in respect of the future subscriptions to the end of the 120 months, paid over the balance to the assignees of Osborne.

By the rules of the society, any member who prepaid his subscription voluntarily, or redeemed his mortgage, was entitled to a rebate or discount in respect of the subscriptions prepaid; and the assignees contended that they were entitled to a similar discount in respect of the future subscriptions which had been taken by the society under the power of sale. Vice-Chancellor Giffard, before whom the special case was heard, allowed them a discount of 5*l.* per cent., and the trustees of the society appealed.

Druce, Q.C., and Eddis, for the trustees.

Kay, Q.C., and Chitty, for the assignees.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the mortgage was not an ordinary mortgage for the repayment of the money advanced, with interest, but to secure the payment of subscriptions through a series of months, which were calculated so as to pay a certain profit to the shareholders. It must be entirely governed by the rules of the society, which provided for an allowance of a rebate in case of voluntary prepayment, but not in the case of a compulsory sale. There was nothing unreasonable in this; therefore the question in the special case must be answered, that no rebate or discount could be allowed.

L. C. HICKS v. POWELL. Feb. 15.

Registration—Indian Registration Acts of 1864 and 1866.

This was an appeal from a decree of Vice-Chancellor Giffard under the following circumstances:—

Stephen Clark, on the 21st of April, 1865, executed a deed, conveying his interest in a house in Madras to the plaintiff, upon trust for sale for the benefit of his creditors. The deed contained a covenant for further assurance in the usual form.

By the Indian Registration Act, 1864, s. 13, it was enacted that no instrument, being a deed of gift of immovable property, should be received in evidence in any civil proceeding in any Court, or be acted upon by any public officer, unless it should be registered within four months after its date.

Clark came to England soon after the execution of the deed, and the deed was never registered in compliance with the Act.

After Clark returned to England he was called upon to execute a power enabling the execution and registration of a deed of confirmation. Before doing so, he executed a mortgage of the same premises to the defendants, which was dated the 7th of August, 1866, and was registered under the Indian Registration Act, 1866, in September, 1866. This Act repealed the Registration Act of 1864, except as regarded things duly done and penalties incurred under it, and enacted that all things duly done under it should be considered as having been done under the later Act; and the Act then made new provisions for the registration of deeds, and declared that no instrument thereby required to be registered should be received as evidence in any civil proceeding in any Court, or should be acted on by any public servant in India, or should affect any property comprised therein, unless registered in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

The bill prayed that the defendants' mortgage might be declared to be of no effect against the plaintiff's title under the deed of April, 1865, and for consequential relief. He insisted that the defendants had notice of the deed of April, 1865, and contended that the Registration Act of 1864 only prevented the deed being received in evidence in an Indian Court, and did not prevent the plaintiff's enforcing the covenant for further assurance in an English Court.

The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that, the deed being inoperative in India, the conscience of the defendants was not affected by the notice of the deed, and accordingly dismissed the bill with costs.

Druce, Q.C., and Hemming, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the defendants.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR agreed with the decision of the Vice-Chancellor, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

L. C. MARTIN v. WHITMORE. Feb. 15.

Practice—Appeal in formâ pauperis—Affidavit—Interest in the Sui.

In this case one of the defendants, Hendrick, was a mortgagee, not for his own benefit, but as trustee of money which he held upon the trusts of a will, the contents of which were not set out in the pleadings. During the progress of the suit Hendrick died, and the suit was revived against his widow as his administratrix. A decree having been made, the administratrix obtained from the Lord Chancellor an order, on an ex parte application, for leave to appeal in formâ pauperis. The application was based on an affidavit that she had a beneficial interest in the matter in question in the suit, and that she had no other property beyond 5*l.*

Glasse, Q.C., and T. Stevens, now moved to discharge the order, on the ground that it did not appear on the pleadings that she had any interest.

J. H. Palmer, Q.C., and Fry, for the administratrix.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the Court had undoubtedly jurisdiction to make the order, but in this case the affidavit was insufficient. The plaintiff was entitled to know what the nature of the interest of the administratrix was, and also to be satisfied that she had no assets of her husband sufficient to carry on the suit. If the plaintiff required it a fresh affidavit must be filed, stating these facts, otherwise the order applied for could not stand.

The counsel for the plaintiff waived the fresh affidavit, and accordingly the present application was refused; the costs to be costs in the cause.

M. R. DAVIES v. SEAR. Feb. 10.

Easement—Way of Necessity.

In October, 1865, Messrs. Yeo & Warner agreed to let to J. Butson a piece of building ground at Hampstead. According to the plan annexed to the agreement, rows of houses were to be built facing two roads, called Erskine Road and Ainger Road, with mews behind, the access to which was to be through an archway under part of one of the houses (No. 2) in Erskine Road. This house having been built with the archway, a separate lease of it was granted in July, 1866, and in March, 1867, Butson assigned it to the defendant.

In the plan on the lease no reference was made to the intended mews, but the archway was described as a "gateway." Neither the lease nor the assignment contained any reservation of a right of way through the archway.

When the defendant bought the house the stables in the mews were begun, and the words "Erskine Mews" were written on the archway; but there was access to the mews from Ainger Road over the other land comprised in the agreement of October, 1865.

In April, 1867, Butson assigned all the land comprised in the agreement, except No. 2 Erskine Road, to the plaintiff, who proceeded to complete the mews and the other buildings according to the plan, leaving no access to the mews except through the archway. After the buildings were finished the defendant blocked up the archway, and the plaintiff instituted this suit to restrain him from so doing.

Graham Hastings, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendant, when he bought the house, had notice that, according to the plan of the proposed buildings, the only access to the mews was to be through his archway, and consequently that there was an implied reservation of a right of way.

Southgate, Q.C., and Wickens, for the defendant, contended that there could be no implied reservation of a right of way, except in the case of a way of necessity, which the way in question was not at the time of the assignment to the defendant, the mews being then accessible from Ainger Road.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, having regard to the state of the property when the defendant purchased the house, he was put upon inquiry, and must be taken to have had notice that the plan for laying out the adjoining ground would not give any other means of access to the mews, and that, having lain by until the buildings were completed, he could not be allowed in a Court of Equity to deny that there was a way of necessity through the archway.

M. R. In re IBBITSON'S TRUSTS. Feb. 13.

Real Estate—Conversion—Personal Estate in Expectancy.

Thomas Ibbitson, by his will dated the 15th of January, 1840, devised all his real estate to trustees, upon trust to pay the rents and profits thereof to his wife, Jane Ibbitson, during her life if she should so long continue his widow, and from and after her decease or second marriage, the testator declared that the trustees and their heirs should stand possessed thereof, in trust for all his children who should be then living, and their respective heirs, as tenants in common, subject to the proviso for the sale and disposition thereof thereafter contained, being a power to sell the real estate upon the death or second marriage of his wife. The testator died on the 6th of May, 1840.

Henry Ibbitson, one of the testator's children, by an indenture dated the 4th of March, 1858, assigned all the personal estate and effects whatsoever of him, the said Henry Ibbitson, in possession, remainder, or expectancy, to trustees for the benefit of his creditors. In April, 1860, Henry Ibbitson took the benefit of the Insolvent Debtors' Act.

Jane Ibbitson died in October, 1867; and upon her death the trustees of the testator's will, in exercise of the power of sale contained therein, sold his real estate and paid the share of Henry Ibbitson into Court under the Trustee Relief Act. A petition was now presented by the trustees of the creditors' deed for payment of the proceeds to them.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the petitioners:—

The testator by his will did not absolutely convert his real estate into personalty, but he gave the trustees a power of sale, and thus left it with them to say whether the children should take their shares as realty or personalty. The trustees have exercised the power, and the share has come to Henry Ibbitson as personalty; this share, therefore, passed to the trustees as personal estate of Henry Ibbitson in expectancy.

R. W. E. Forster, for the assignee in insolvency.

W. C. Harvey, for the trustees of the will.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the assignee in insolvency was entitled to the fund.

V.-C. S. NANSON v. BARNES. Feb. 11.

Will—Lapse—Customary Estate—Descent—Heir ex parte Maternâ or Paternâ.

G. Blamire, in June, 1834, by will gave his estates (subject to legacies) to Sir James Graham, who died before the testator.

Part of the estates was customary held of the manor of Botchardgate, Cumberland. The testator was admitted tenant to this estate as heir of his mother. In the administration of the testator's estates the chief clerk certified that the heir ex parte maternâ was entitled to this customary estate. The evidence was that the testator conveyed this estate to W. Nanson absolutely; that after surrender by the testator, Nanson was admitted tenant; and that Nanson executed a deed of declaration of trust, which witnessed that he held the estate upon such trusts and for such persons as the testator should appoint by deed or will, and, in default, for the testator and his heirs.

The heir ex parte paternâ contended that the descent had by the execution of these deeds been broken, and claimed this estate.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Fry, for the claimant, were heard on motion to vary the certificate.

C. Hall and Mounsey, for the heir ex parte maternâ, were not called upon.

Greene, Q.C., and Salmon; Prendergast, Q.C., and Finch; and Lindley, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the descent had not, by the execution of these two deeds, been broken, and that the certificate of the chief clerk was right.

V.-C. M. In re BAILEY'S TRUSTS. Feb. 12.

Judgment-creditors—Priority gained by Execution under Writ of Elegit—Lien on Land—1 & 2 Vict. c. 110—Judgment Act, 1864 (27 & 28 Vict. c. 112, s. 4).

By indentures dated in March, 1865, and February, 1866, James Bailey mortgaged certain leaseholds to trustees of a benefit building society, and in October, 1867, mortgaged the equity of redemption therein to a person named Hart. The trustees of the building society sold the leaseholds under powers of sale contained in their mortgages, and paid a sum to Hart; but questions having arisen between Hart and Bailey as to the amount due to him, the trustees paid the money into Court. Bailey in January, 1868, executed a deed of inspectorship under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, s. 192, and he and his inspectors now petitioned for payment out of the fund in Court. A list of Bailey's judgment-creditors was scheduled to the petition, but none of them were served.

Hart's right to be paid was not disputed; but the question arose whether a judgment-creditor, who had registered his judgment in the Common Pleas and in the Middlesex Registry in June, 1866, but under which the land, the proceeds of the sale of which were in Court, had not been actually delivered in execution by virtue of a writ of elegit or other lawful authority in pursuance of such judgment, had a lien on the fund in Court.

Shapter, Q.C., and Yool, for the petitioners.

Glasse, Q.C., and Jervis, for the respondent Hart.

Ellis, for the judgment-creditor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the Judgment Act, 1864, was passed for the purpose of assimilating the law of judgments as affecting land with that affecting pure personalty, and it was necessary since the passing of that Act, before a judgment affected any land, that the land should have been actually delivered in execution by virtue of a writ of elegit or other lawful authority, and this had not been done in the present case. His Honour also held that the judgment-creditors who had not issued execution need not be served. The fund was therefore ordered to be applied in paying Hart, and the residue to be paid to the petitioners.

Practice—New Trustees—Vesting Order—Service on Co-heirs of former Trustee unnecessary.

Petition by a married woman by her next friend.

The petitioner had under a power appointed new trustees of real estate which was settled on herself for life to her separate use, and she now prayed for an order vesting the real estates in the new trustees. The former sole trustee of the settlement was dead, leaving two infant co-heirs.

These children had not been served.

Nalder supported the petition.

Badnall, for the husband.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after hearing the authorities, considered that service upon the infant co-heirs was unnecessary, and made the order.

V.-C. J. SLADE v. BARLOW. Feb. 10.

Partition Bill—Legal Estate—Question of Construction of Will—Bill retained, with liberty to bring an Action.

Motion for decree.

Jeremiah How surrendered copyholds to the uses of his will. Afterwards, in 1831, he exchanged part of the lands for a piece of copyhold (A.), which he did not surrender. By his will, dated in January, 1833, he devised his copyhold estate, "with the hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging," to his son S. J. How; and devised his residuary realty to his three sons and his daughter Alice Slade, in equal shares.

Plaintiffs claiming under Alice Slade filed this bill in March, 1868, alleging (on the supposition that no surrender to the uses of the will had been made by the testator of any of the copyholds) that Alice Slade on the testator's death became equitably entitled, under the residuary devise, to one fourth of (A.), and praying for a partition of the same.

Defendant, a purchaser in 1867, from the successor in title of S. J. How, of the formerly copyhold estate, which, including (A.), had in 1861 been enfranchised, put in an answer, stating the fact of the prior surrender, and submitting, on the construction of the will, that (A.) passed under the specific devise.

Plaintiffs then amended their bill, claiming to be legally entitled to one fourth of (A.), and praying, as before, for a partition of (A.).

Kay, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the plaintiffs.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and C. J. Shebbaire, for the defendant, objected that this was an ejectment bill.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that this, under colour of a partition suit, was an attempt to get a question of construction decided against a defendant in possession. He should direct the bill to be retained for a year, with liberty to the plaintiffs to bring an action as they should be advised.

Kay asked that the defendant might be put under terms not to set up the Statute of Limitations.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR refused.

V.-C. J. WARE v. GARDNER. Feb. 10.

Fraudulent Conveyance—13 Eliz. c. 5.

Bill to set aside as fraudulent and void a voluntary settlement made in March, 1861, by Richard Gardner, who was in trade at Exeter, in favour of the defendants, his wife and children. The schedule to this settlement comprised certain freehold and leasehold houses at Exeter, "and all other the freehold, leasehold, or other hereditaments now or hereafter to belong to or be bought or otherwise acquired by the said R. Gardner, all the stock-in-trade, implements, utensils, customers' credits, or book debts and ready money, or other personal property of or belonging to or hereafter to be acquired or belong to him, the said R. Gardner, in his trade of builder, but which the trustee or trustees, for the time being, are to suffer to remain under the control of the said Richard Gardner during his life."

Gardner was adjudicated bankrupt, on his own petition, in August, 1866, and died in the September following.

At the time of the voluntary settlement of 1861 the freehold and leasehold property was in mortgage, but it did not appear that Gardner was indebted beyond his means of payment.

Druce, Q.C., and W. Morris, for the plaintiffs, the assignees in bankruptcy of Gardner, contended that a deed by which the settlor gave up every particle of his property, present or future, was plainly a fraudulent conveyance within the Statute, 13 Eliz. c. 5.

Kay, Q.C., and W. W. Karslake, for the defendants, the widow and children of Gardner, contended that Gardner was perfectly solvent at the date of the settlement, and that a mere implied intention to defeat subsequent creditors, whose claims were not then in existence, was not sufficient to avoid the deed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, looking at the terms of the schedule, there could have been no other intent on the part of Gardner, who was then in trade and continued in trade, than to delay and defeat his creditors. The settlement fell within the Statute (13 Eliz. c. 5), and must be set aside.

Q. B. LAWLESS v. ANGLO-EGYPTIAN COTTON AND OIL COMPANY. Feb. 11.

Libel—Privileged Communication.

Declaration for libel, stating that the plaintiff was the manager of the defendants' company at a salary. Yet the defendants falsely and maliciously printed and published of the plaintiff, as such manager, a printed report of the trade finances and affairs of the company, as follows: "The shareholders will observe that there is a charge of 1906*l.* for deficiency of stock, which the manager is responsible for. His accounts have been badly kept, and have been rendered to us very irregularly." Alleging special damage.

Plea, Not guilty. Issue thereon.

The libel, as stated in the declaration, was contained in a report by the auditors of the company to the directors, and by the directors embodied in their annual report. By a resolution passed at a meeting of the shareholders the report was printed and used at a subsequent meeting. The question was whether the libel was a privileged communication.

Holker, Q.C., and Gorst, for the plaintiff.

Manisty, Q.C., for the defendants.

THE COURT held that, as it was the duty of the directors to make the statement, and the interest of the shareholders to hear it, the inference of malice, which is prima facie assumed to exist, was rebutted, and the communication was privileged.

Q. B. ELLIS v. McCORMICK. Feb. 12.

Deed under Bankruptcy Act, 1861—Setting aside ca. sa.—When Deed invalid—Certificate no Protection to Debtor—Bankruptcy Amendment Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 104), s. 3, not retrospective.

Rule to set aside the ca. sa. issued in this cause, and to stay all proceedings thereunder (unless the leave of the Court of Bankruptcy be obtained), upon the ground that defendant is protected from execution by the certificate of the registration of a deed of composition of the 13th of September, 1864.

It appeared from the affidavits on which the rule was obtained that the deed was a deed of composition under section 192 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, but as it contained no release by the creditors, it could not have been pleaded in bar to the action, although made before action brought.

From the affidavits filed on shewing cause, it appeared that the requisite assents of creditors as to value had been calculated on the principle of excluding from the calculation the amount of secured debts, and the assents were not sufficient in value if the secured debts were taken into account. There was a proviso in the deed itself that, if it were not signed or assented to by the statutable majority of creditors, it should be void.

Quain, Q.C., and R. G. Williams shewed cause, and contended that, although the certificate of the registration of a deed of composition under section 192 was a protection to the sheriff under section 198, and justified the release of the debtor, yet the certificate did not prevent the execution being "available" under section 198 if the deed was, in fact, void, and that, if there were any doubt upon the construction of statute alone, the proviso in the present deed put the matter beyond doubt: Baker v. Painter (Law Rep. 2 C. P. 493).

W. G. Harrison, in support of the rule, argued that 31 & 32 Vict. c. 104, s. 3 (which excludes the amount of secured debts), was retrospective, and that therefore creditors to the requisite amount had assented to the deed, and consequently that the deed was valid.

THE COURT (Mellor and Hannen, JJ.) were clearly of opinion that 31 & 32 Vict. c. 104, s. 3, was not retrospective, and discharged the rule with costs. Mellor, J., also protested against this being drawn into a precedent that the Court would entertain such a motion where the cu. sa. had only been issued, but no arrest made under it.

Q. B. LEVI v. SANDERSON. Feb. 15.
Costs—County Court Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 142)—Verdict for 5*l.*—Statute of Gloucester (6 Edw. 1, c. 1).

An action for goods sold, in which the Superior Court and the County Court had concurrent jurisdiction under section 128 of Act of 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, was commenced in the Superior Court before the passing of 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, and continued pending until after that Act came into operation, and was then ordered to be tried before a County Court judge, and a verdict was obtained for 5*l.*

The master having declined to tax the costs, a rule was obtained by the plaintiff for this purpose.

Pinder, for the plaintiff, contended that, as all the restrictive enactments as to costs in the former County Court Acts were repealed before the trial, and as the case stood unaffected by the new restrictions introduced by 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, the plaintiff was entitled to costs under the Statute of Gloucester.

Patchett, for the defendant, contended that the repeal of the former restrictions of the County Court Acts as to costs did not revive the Statute of Gloucester: Butcher v. Henderson (Law Rep. 3 Q. B. 335).

THE COURT held, in conformity with Mount v. Taylor (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 645), that, in cases of exclusive or concurrent jurisdiction, where the right to costs is substantially preserved by the former County Court Acts, the Statute of Gloucester could not be considered as repealed with regard to such cases, and on this ground, and because the transaction was incomplete before the repeal of the former County Court Acts, the plaintiff was entitled to costs.

C. P. PEPLOW, APP.; RICHARDSON, RESP. Feb. 5.
Lord's Day—Keeping open House for Sale of Beer, &c.—11 & 12 Vict. c. 49, s. 1—Travellers.

The appellant kept the Admaston Spa Hotel, near Wellington, Shropshire, which in certain months of the year was frequented on Sunday mornings by large numbers of colliers and others living in the Shropshire mineral district and the neighbourhood, for the purpose of drinking the mineral waters there. A police-constable visiting the place on Sunday, the 31st of May, 1868, at half-past seven in the morning, found several persons drinking ale in the house, and amongst them a man named Deakin, who was known to him and who lived at Ketley, which is about 2½ miles from the spa. The constable called the attention of the appellant's wife to Deakin, and told her where he lived. The appellant kept a book in which were entered the names and residences of the persons applying for refreshments on these occasions; and in this book on the day in question Deakin was entered as residing at Oaken Gates, which is about 5 miles from the spa.

The magistrates held that Deakin was not a "traveller" within the meaning of the statute.

THE COURT held that the facts did not warrant the conviction.

C. P. TAYLOR v. DUNBAR. Feb. 11.
Marine Insurance—Perils of the Sea—Retardation of Voyage.

Meat was insured from Hamburg to London, by steamer, against "perils of the seas," and "all other perils, losses, and misfortunes," &c. In consequence of tempestuous weather the voyage was considerably delayed, and the meat was spoiled, and was necessarily thrown overboard. Upon a special case, which stated that the meat was in no way affected by the storm or tempest, but that, owing to the length of time to which the voyage was protracted by the weather, it had become putrid, and that the damage was due solely to the delay so caused as above:

THE COURT held that the mere retardation of the voyage was not proximately a peril of the sea within the meaning of the policy.

C. P. SPEDDING v. THOMAS NEVELL. Feb. 11.
Vendor and Purchaser—Measure of Damages on Breach of a Contract to grant a Lease.

The plaintiff was in the occupation of a shop and premises at Pimlico, under a lease from one James Nevell (the defendant's brother), which would expire on the 25th of March, 1867. In November, 1863, the defendant, who had for a long period acted as agent for his brother in the collection of the rents of this and other property, assuming to be authorized by his brother to do so, agreed on his behalf to grant the plaintiff a renewed term of twenty-one years from the expiration of the existing term, at 70*l.* per annum, being an advance of 5*l.* per annum on the original rent, on condition of the plaintiff putting in a new shop-front at her own expense. The defendant had no authority from his brother to make this agreement. The plaintiff put in a new shop-front at an expense of 50*l.*, and spent other 10*l.* in permanent repairs to the premises.

In June, 1865, the plaintiff, in consideration of 150*l.*, sold all her interest under the lease and agreement to one Budd. James Nevell refusing to grant the renewed lease, the plaintiff filed a bill against him for specific performance, Budd joining as a plaintiff in the suit as co-plaintiff, being indemnified by her against the costs. The defendant stating on oath in that suit that he had no authority from his brother to enter into the agreement, the bill was dismissed with costs. Budd thereupon sued the plaintiff for the breach of her agreement of June, 1865. The action was referred, and the arbitrator awarded Budd 280*l.*, being 205*l.* for the value of the term he had lost, 22*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.* for loss on the re-sale of fixtures bought by him and put upon the premises, 35*l.* for loss by removal of business, and 17*l.* for his solicitor's charges.

The plaintiff paid Budd the 280*l.*, and 66*l.* 5*s.* for his costs of the action; and she also incurred costs to her own attorney therein to the amount of 80*l.*

An arbitrator to whom the plaintiff's claim in this action was referred awarded her 584*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*, which was made up as follows:—50*l.* costs of new shop-front; 10*l.* expended in permanent improvements; 28*l.* 13*s.* 2*d.* the costs of James Nevell in the Chancery suit; 70*l.* for the plaintiff's own costs in that suit (subject to taxation); 280*l.* the damages awarded and paid in Budd's action; 66*l.* 5*s.* the plaintiff's costs in the last-mentioned action and of the reference; and 80*l.* the defendant's costs of the last-mentioned action and reference.

Upon a case stated by the arbitrator for the opinion of the Court:

THE COURT held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover the costs of the Chancery suit and the value of the term which she had lost, but not the sum she had expended in repairs and improvements (which would be included in the value of the term), nor the costs incurred in Budd's action, these being too remote a consequence of the defendant's breach of contract to have been contemplated by the parties at the time.

Upon the authority of Taylor v. Humphreys (17 C. B. (N.S.) 539):

THE COURT held that, notwithstanding Jervis's Act (11 & 12 Vict. c. 43), s. 14, the burthen of proving that the innkeeper, upon an information against him, under the 11 & 12 Vict. c. 49, s. 1, for keeping open for the sale of liquors on Sunday, during the prohibited hours, knew that the persons he served were not "travellers," lies upon the informer.

P. & M. SHARPE AND SHARPE v. CRISPIN. Feb. 9.
Domicil of Deceased, originally Portuguese—Education in England—Lunatic from his Majority—Father died domiciled in England.

The plaintiffs, Frederick Sharpe and Sibella Sharpe, were executors of a will, bearing date the 26th of January, 1857, of George Richard Crispin, of Stoke Newington, Middlesex, who died on the 1st of September, 1862. The defendant Francisco José Cortes Crispin, as one of the parties entitled by the law of Portugal in distribution to the estate and effects of the deceased in case of an intestacy, in his declaration alleged, amongst other things, that the deceased was domiciled in Portugal at the time of his death. This question came on for trial before the judge himself, without a jury, on the 14th of January, 1869.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Dr. Tristram, for the plaintiffs.

Giffard, Q.C., and Inderwick, for the defendant.

SIR J. P. WILDM, after referring to the history of John Crispin, the father of the deceased, and stating that, in 1804, when the deceased was born, John Crispin was a domiciled Portuguese, continued:—Starting from this point, it was argued that George Crispin said nothing and did nothing in the course of his life from which the Court would infer a deliberate resolution on his part to surrender his Portuguese domicil and replace it with an English one. Now George Crispin certainly, in 1827 or 1830, and probably even earlier, was unfit from mental incapacity to manage his own affairs, or be employed in any business or occupation, and from that time to his death he was more or less constantly under medical supervision and control, as a person of unsound mind, and in the year 1858 he was found a lunatic under a commission. Assuming that from a time before his minority expired, that is, in 1824, and continually down to the period of his death, he was of unsound mind, the question arises whether anything, and if so what, happened to destroy his domicil of origin. His father having been British Consul in Portugal for many years, and therefore having disconnected himself with trade in that country, in the year 1843 claimed his pension from the British government, retired from active service, took up his residence in this country, and became a domiciled Englishman. The question then is, what effect this change of the domicil of the father had upon the domicil of the lunatic son. It seems to have been considered as tolerably certain that the domicil of a minor follows that of his father, and the better opinion seems to be that, after the father's death, even the mother may, by changing her domicil, affect the domicil of her minor children. I can find no authority which defines the effect of the change of domicil of the father upon a lunatic son. It would probably depend on circumstances. If a man had grown up, married, and established himself in business in the country of his original domicil, and had afterwards become a lunatic, and in that state had been taken charge of by his father, the migration of his father to a foreign country, with a view of his becoming domiciled there, and taking his son with him, might fail to work a change in the domicil of that son. But that is not the present case. I am assuming that George Crispin was of unsound mind throughout his majority; in other words, that there never was a period during which he could think and act for himself in the matter of domicil otherwise than as a minor could, and, if that be so, it would seem to me that the same reasoning which attaches the domicil of the son to that of his father, when a minor, would continue to bring about the same result after the son had attained his majority, if he was continuously of unsound mind. The son in this case continued under the control of his father, was presumably supported by him, and if he had not already been in England when his father returned hither in 1843, would, it may reasonably be presumed, have been brought with him. At no period, according to this hypothesis, could the deceased have acted for himself in choosing a domicil; and if his next of kin and those who had control of his movements and life were not capable of changing his domicil, that domicil would from the moment of his majority become indelible. The better opinion, in my judgment, is that the incapacity of minority, never having in his case been followed by adult capacity, continued to confer upon the father the right of choice in the matter of domicil for the son, and that in 1843, if not before, that right was exercised by the adoption of an English domicil for himself, which drew with it a similar domicil for his son. The learned judge then considered the hypothesis, that the deceased had had lucid intervals, during which he was capable of selecting a domicil, and held that by his acts he had shown a determination to acquire an English domicil, and that the issue taken on the domicil must be found for the plaintiffs.

L. C. HOPE ASSURANCE SOCIETY v. EDWARDS. Feb. 17.
Judgment—Fraud.

In 1855 one Galles insured his life with the Hope Assurance Society, the business and assets of which were shortly afterwards assigned to, and the liabilities undertaken by, the Mitre Insurance Company. Galles died, and his representative brought an action for the insurance-money. The action was defended by the solicitor of the Mitre Company, and was finally compromised by judgment being signed against the Hope Company for 1200*l.*, and this judgment was assigned to one Strousberg, who was the manager of the Mitre, under circumstances which amounted to fraud. Strousberg afterwards assigned the judgment to Bowes, as trustee for Mr. Edwards, a solicitor, for valuable consideration, and he presented a petition for winding-up the Hope Company on this judgment, which, on appeal to the House of Lords, stood over for proceedings to be taken to impeach the judgment: as reported in Bowes v. Hope Life Insurance Society (11 H. L. C. 389). The bill in this case was accordingly filed to restrain any proceedings on the judgment. The bill was dismissed by the Master of the Rolls, and the plaintiffs appealed.

Jessel, Q.C., and Hemming, for the plaintiffs.
Southgate, Q.U., Cracknall, and G. O. Edwards, for the defendant Edwards.

Kekewich, for the official liquidator.
THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that there was now evidence before him which had not been before the House of Lords. It was clear that the action had been defended by the Mitre Company through Strousberg, and that all parties had probably been deceived by Strousberg. Though Mr. Edwards had no express notice of any fraud, and no case of fraud was set up against him, he must take the judgment with its equities. The decree of the Master of the Rolls must be reversed, and an injunction granted. Solicitors: Terrell & Chamberlain; Edwards; Lake & Co.

L. C. CRUSE v. PAINE. Feb. 24.

Stock-jobbers—Registration guaranteed—Transfer—Indemnity.

The defendants in this case were stock-jobbers, and had agreed on the Stock Exchange to buy of one Cruse 100 shares in the Contract Corporation, with registration guaranteed. A transferee had been named by them, and the transfer deeds executed by Cruse, but the transferee had never registered the transfer. Cruse was dead, and his executors instituted this suit for indemnity, which the Vice-Chancellor Giffard had decreed (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 641).

The defendants appealed.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the appellants. Mellish, Q.C., and Marten, for the respondents.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the contract between Cruse and the defendants was not separable into two—a contract to buy or find a buyer, and a contract to indemnify, but was one and indivisible, and had not been complied with. The defendants, therefore, still remained liable as purchasers, and a decree must be made for indemnity to the vendor. There would, however, be a variation in the decree, and the defendants would only be bound to indemnify the estate of Cruse against all damages incurred by their default, and the executors would have liberty to apply in respect of any future damages.

L. C. Feb. 24.

In re SOUTH ESSEX ESTUARY AND RECLAMATION COMPANY.

Companies Act, 1862, s. 115—Production of Documents—Solicitor's Lien.

Messrs. Paine & Layton had been the solicitors of the South Essex Estuary and Reclamation Company, which had been ordered to be wound up. A summons was taken out by the official liquidator, summoning them to attend at the chambers of the Vice-Chancellor Malins to be examined as witnesses, and to produce certain documents. Messrs. Paine & Layton objected to produce the documents, on the ground that they had a lien on them for costs.

The Vice-Chancellor Malins ordered the production, and Messrs. Paine & Layton appealed.

Fischer, for the appellants.

Cotton, Q.C., and Sturges, for the official liquidator.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that under the earlier Acts production could not have been ordered, and that the official liquidator must rely on section 115 of the Act of 1862. That Act had made a great change in the principle of winding-up, and His Lordship must hold that the 115th section empowered the Court to order production. The decision of the Vice-Chancellor Malins must therefore be affirmed, and the appeal dismissed, but without costs.

L. C. CRAVEN v. CRADDOCK. Feb. 24.

Liability of Trustees—Conversion—Construction of Will.

James Craddock, by his will, in effect gave the sum of 2000*l.* to trustees on trust to invest in real estate; and he then gave certain cottages and hereditaments to the same trustees on the same trusts as he had declared as to the estate to be purchased with the 2000*l.* He then gave his thirty shares in the Leeds Banking Company to the same trustees upon the same or the like trusts as were declared concerning the sum of 2000*l.* and the cottages. The Banking Company failed, and the trustees had paid large sums out of the testator's estate on account of these thirty shares. A suit was instituted for the administration of the testator's estate, and the Master of the Rolls held the trustees of the will liable for not having converted the shares. The trustees appealed.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and J. T. Humphry, for the appellants. Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Swanston, Q.C., for some respondents.

Jessel, Q.C., and Phear, for other respondents.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the directions for investment contained in the will could not be taken to apply equally to the 2000*l.* and the cottages, and must be read reddendo singula singulis. The bequest of the Bank shares was specific, and the shares need not be converted unless the direction to convert was clear, which, His Lordship held, it was not. The order of the Master of the Rolls must be reversed.

L. JJ. MILLS v. TRUMPER. Feb. 11.

Statute 2 Geo. 2, c. 19—Apportionment—Tenant pur autre vie.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Stuart (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 671).

Joshua Williams, Q.C., Pearson, Q.C., and Kingdon, for the appellant.

Willcock, Q.C., and Blakemore, contra.

THEIR LORDSHIPS, reversing the decision appealed from, held that the rent was not apportionable.

L. JJ. INCHBALD v. ROBINSON. Feb. 19.

INCHBALD v. BARRINGTON.

Injunction—Nuisance arising from Noise—Circus.

The defendant Barrington appealed from the decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins in each of these suits (Weekly Notes, 1863, p. 308).

Glasse, Q.C., Swanston, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for the appellant.

Karslake, Q.C., and Elderton, for the plaintiff in the first suit.

Karslake, Q.C., and Martineau, for the plaintiff in the second suit.

THEIR LORDSHIPS allowed the appeal in the first suit, relating to the circus in the rear of the plaintiff's house, but dismissed the appeal in the second suit—holding that the evidence, though insufficient when the case was before Lord Cairns on the appeal motion, was at the hearing such as to entitle the plaintiff to an injunction.

In re TAYLOR.

Bankruptcy—Appeal from Order of Registrar.

In this case an appeal was brought from an order of Mr. Registrar Hill, of the Birmingham District Court of Bankruptcy. As it did not appear upon the order whether it was made by the registrar on his own authority or as deputy for the commissioner, the case stood over to amend the order in that respect. On the matter coming on again, it appeared that the registrar was acting on his own authority, and not as deputy for the commissioner in his absence.

Bardswell, for the respondent, objected to the appeal being heard, on the ground that the appeal from the registrar's order ought to have been brought to the commissioner, and not to this Court.

*Everitt, for the appellant, referred to Ex parte Moss (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 29) and Ex parte Barnett (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 68).*

THE LORD JUSTICE SELWYN said that in Ex parte Moss the order was made by the registrar sitting as deputy-commissioner, and in Ex parte Barnett the point was not brought to the attention of the Court, otherwise the appeal would not have been heard. He had no doubt that it was no part of the duty of this Court to hear appeals from the registrar, who was only an officer of the commissioner, and the commissioner was the proper person to review his decision. The appeal must be dismissed, with costs.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD concurred.

Solicitors: W. H. Duignan; J. M. Burton.

L. JJ. MARTIN v. POWNING. Feb. 19.
Bankruptcy Act, 1861—Creditors' Deed—Jurisdiction in Equity—Bill to administer Trusts.

This case came before the Court on two appeals by the defendants from the decision of Vice-Chancellor Stuart (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 311).

J. Hinde Palmer, Q.C., Greene, Q.C., and Ince, for the appellants.

Wickens and Russell Roberts, for the bill.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that, in ordinary circumstances, this Court ought not to entertain a suit for the administration of the trusts of a deed registered under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, and that there were not in the present case any circumstances sufficient to take it out of the general rule. The pleas, therefore, were allowed.

M. R. RANKIN v. HOP AND MALT EXCHANGE COMPANY. Feb. 15.
Conditional Contract to take Shares—Condition Broken—Right to be relieved from Shares lost by Delay.

In July, 1865, the plaintiffs, Messrs. Rankin, contractors, proposed to take the contract for building some warehouses for the above-named company, and the company accepted the proposal on condition that the plaintiffs should take 1500 shares. On the 22nd of July the shares were allotted to the plaintiffs, upon which they paid 3*l.* per share. On the 28th of July a contract between the plaintiffs and the company was executed, by which the company agreed to give the plaintiffs possession of the site of the proposed warehouses within six weeks, or so soon thereafter as might be practicable, and the plaintiffs agreed to complete the warehouses at certain prices, and the plaintiffs were to have the option of paying calls on their shares by the appropriation of moneys coming due to them under the contract. The company were not able to give the plaintiffs possession of the site until March, 1866. In November and December, 1865, the plaintiffs complained of the delay, and threatened to file a bill to be relieved of their shares. Negotiations ensued with a view to the variation of the terms of the contract, which lasted for several months, but came to nothing, and ultimately the company employed other builders. In April, 1867, the plaintiffs instituted this suit to be relieved of their shares, and for repayment of the money paid by them upon the shares.

Jessel, Q.C., and Robinson, for the plaintiffs, contended that the plaintiffs had agreed to take shares only upon condition of their being employed to build the warehouses, and that this condition had been broken by the defendants.

Southgate, Q.C., and Conybeare, for the defendants, contended, 1st, that the condition was that a building contract should be executed, and this had been fulfilled; 2ndly, that it was through the plaintiffs' own default that the building contract had not been carried out; and, 3rdly, that the plaintiffs had lost their right to relief by delay.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the taking of the shares was conditional; that the condition was broken by the defendants in not giving them possession of the ground within a reasonable time; and that, if the plaintiffs had filed their bill in December, 1865, they would have been entitled to relief, but that they had lost their right by delay.

M. R. DIXON v. MOBLEY. Feb. 19.
Practice—Trustee Relief Act—Payment out of Court under Decree in Administration Suit—Petition dispensed with.

This was an administration suit.

Before the institution of the suit the executors had paid part of the estate into Court, under the Trustee Relief Act.

At the hearing for further consideration, the question arose whether the Court would order the fund so paid into Court to be distributed without a petition being presented under the Act.

W. F. Robinson, for the plaintiff.

North and Field, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that a petition might be dispensed with. The order must be intitled in the matter of the Act.

M. R. MADRID BANK v. PELLY. Feb. 19.
Company—Directors—Promotion—money contingent on Allotment—Premature Allotment—Payment to Directors out of Promotion—money—Costs.

The Madrid Bank was formed and registered as a limited company in May, 1863, with a nominal capital of 1,200,000*l.*, in 60,000 shares of 20*l.* each.

By the articles of association the directors were empowered to commence the business of the company as soon as they should see fit; and it was provided that, so soon as the allotment of shares took place, the directors should pay 10,000*l.* to the promoters.

In June, 1863, 5143 shares having been subscribed for, the directors allotted the shares and paid 5000*l.* to the promoters, who immediately paid to four of the directors 500*l.* a piece, but this payment was not known to the other directors. In June, 1864, the directors paid 2000*l.* more to the promoters. The company did very little business, and in March, 1865, was ordered to be wound up. The promoters brought in a claim for 8000*l.*, the balance of the 10,000*l.*, but the claim was disallowed on the ground that the directors had made the allotment of shares prematurely and improperly. (See In re Madrid Bank, Law Rep. 2 Eq. 216.)

This was a suit by the official liquidator against the directors to obtain repayment of the 7000*l.* paid to the promoters.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and E. James, for the plaintiff, contended that under the circumstances the payment to the promoters was a misapplication of the company's funds.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Eddis, for the directors who had received money from the promoters.

Southgate, Q.C., Kenshaw, and Higgins, for the other directors.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the directors could not be made liable to repay the promotion-money, but that the money paid to the four directors by the promoters must be treated as money of the company, and must be repaid by them to the liquidator. As against the other directors, the bill must be dismissed with costs. Those costs would not be proved as a debt, but would be paid out of the assets of the company.

M. B. In re ESTATES INVESTMENT COMPANY. Feb. 20.
PAWLE'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Fraudulent Prospectus—Contributory—Proceedings taken before Commencement of Winding-up.

The above-named company was registered on the 15th of February, 1865, and shortly afterwards a prospectus was issued by the directors. On the 15th of May Mr. Henry Pawle applied for shares, and paid a deposit on making such application. On the 23rd of May the shares were allotted to him. In June, 1865, Pawle repudiated his shares, and refused to pay the allotment-money, on the ground that the prospectus contained fraudulent misrepresentations. Early in July actions were commenced by the company against Pawle and ten other shareholders (one of whom was a Mr. Ross) for the recovery of the allotment-money payable by them respectively. Immediately afterwards a suit of Ross v. Estates Investment Company was instituted by Ross, for the purpose of setting aside the allotment of shares to him and restraining the action against him. In filing this bill Ross acted in conjunction with the defendants to the other actions, who were represented by the same solicitor as Ross. On the 20th of July, 1865, an order was made at law staying proceedings in all the actions, except that against Ross, until the action against Ross was decided. On the 22nd of December, 1865, the solicitor of Ross and the shareholders acting with him wrote to the company's solicitors as follows:—"With reference to the case of the allottees other than Mr. Ross, shall we understand that I need not take separate proceedings in each case, but that, pending Mr. Ross' suit, the other allottees shall not be prejudiced by not taking proceedings in each individual case?" On the following day the company's solicitor replied: "It is understood that your clients are not to be prejudiced by their not taking proceedings pending the decision in Ross' case."

On the 20th of November, 1866, a decree in favour of the plaintiff was made in the suit of Ross v. Estates Investment Company (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 122). On the 24th of November the company issued a circular stating this fact, and the intention of the company to appeal. On the 20th of July, 1868, the decree was (in substance) affirmed (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 682). In the meantime, on the 16th of March, 1867, the company was ordered to be wound up. Pawle's name was on the register of shareholders at the commencement of the winding-up, and the question on this summons was whether his name was to be settled on the list of contributories.

Southgate, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator, admitted that Pawle had the same title to relief as Ross, but contended that, as he had not instituted proceedings against the company before the commencement of the winding-up, he must remain a contributory.

Jessel, Q.C., Swanston, Q.C., and Everitt, for Pawle, were not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the company had agreed to treat Ross v. Estates Investment Company as a representative suit, and had agreed that Pawle should not be prejudiced by not taking independent proceedings; Pawle was, therefore, entitled to have his name removed from the list of contributories.

V.-O. S. MILNS v. PICKSTONE. Feb. 23.
Agreement between Partners—Specific Performance of Part of Agreement.

The plaintiffs, Milns & Barbour, carried on, with the defendant, at Manchester and at Stand, Lancashire, the business of cotton spinners and manufacturers. Part of the premises held by the partners was leasehold; and it was alleged that the partnership property comprised certain reservoirs of water. In June, 1862, the partners entered into an agreement to dissolve partnership, and that was done; that Milns & Barbour should purchase the defendant's interest in the concern at a sum named

(and this sum was paid); that certain questions in dispute should be referred to an arbitrator named; and, among other things, that Milns & Barbour should, at the costs of the defendant, grant a lease to him of the partnership premises occupied by him at Stand, on the terms of a draft lease signed by the parties. It was also agreed that there should be mutual releases. In March, 1863, the arbitrator made an award, but there being still points of difference to be settled, another agreement was entered into to submit them to three other arbitrators named, but these gentlemen had made no award. The bill, inter alia, prayed for specific performance of the clause in the agreement to take a lease.

The case of the defendant was that the remedy of the plaintiffs was at law, as for breach of contract; that this Court would not specifically perform part of an agreement; that the reference to the three arbitrators ought not to be interfered with; that the plaintiffs could not supply the quantity of water which they had agreed to do; that the defendant had not been released from the plaintiffs' debts; and that lapse of time had barred the plaintiffs.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Bedwell, for the plaintiffs.

Greene, Q.C., and Ince, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he had asked whether the plaintiffs had declined to perform any one of the terms in the agreement. There was a refusal to answer the question, but an attempt was made to shew that the plaintiffs were not entitled to force this lease upon the defendant. He however must, upon the evidence, declare that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree, and order the defendant to pay all the costs.

Directors of a Company—Purchase of Shares out of Funds—Breach of Trust.

This was a bill filed by a shareholder in Laffitte & Co., which was established in December, 1865, for the purpose of purchasing the business of Mr. Laffitte, a banker of Paris, and it prayed a declaration that the directors, in applying 200,000*l.* of the funds of the company in repaying moneys advanced by the National Bank, had committed a breach of trust; and that the National Bank should refund the amount.

Mr. Laffitte declined to complete the sale of his banking business until 40,000 shares should have been taken up by the new company. The course of proceedings was as follows:—Laffitte & Co. arranged with the Ottoman Financial Association that they should take 35,000 shares. The Ottoman Association, being unable to fulfil this arrangement, agreed to give the International Contract Company 25,000*l.* if they would guarantee a subscription of 40,000 shares in Laffitte & Co. The International Company, being without funds, agreed with the National Bank that they should discount their promissory notes for 200,000*l.*; and Laffitte & Co. gave a guarantee that they would leave in the National Bank whatever sums of money should be paid for shares taken up until the promissory notes should be paid. By this means the International Company were placed in funds to take up the 35,000 shares. The committee of the Stock Exchange was then applied to to fix a settling day, without which the shares of the new company would have been unsaleable, and, in order to effect this end, a certificate was obtained from the National Bank that 200,000*l.* had been deposited with them in payment for shares taken up.

Huddleston, Q.C., Cotton, Q.C., and Fischer, for the plaintiff.

Jessel, Q.C., and Lindley, for the National Bank.

Sir Roundell Palmer, Q.C., Druce, Q.C., and Wickens; Clark, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins; Karslake, Q.C., and W. Pearson; Roxburgh, Q.C., and Caldecott; Glasse, Q.C., and Robinson;

Pearson, Q.C., and Waller; Jackson and Bowring, for the other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said there could be no doubt that the object of the arrangement was to give the appearance that the shares in the company had been subscribed for, and thus to impose upon the public and the committee of the Stock Exchange, when, in fact, the money was paid out of the funds of the company, which was contrary to their articles of association. It must be declared that the directors had committed a breach of trust; and the National Bank, being participators in it, must restore the money they had received, and the defendants must pay the costs of the suit.

STEELE v. MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY.

Supplemental Bill—Common Order to Amend.

This was a motion, on behalf of the defendants, either that the amended bill might be taken off the file for irregularity, or that the amendments might be struck out.

The original bill was filed in January, 1866, to restrain the defendants from taking possession of a piece of land for the purpose of constructing their railway, without also taking the whole of the land and his house, under the 92nd section of the Lands Clauses Act.

The bill was dismissed at the hearing before Vice-Chancellor Giffard with costs; but, before the cause came on, the plaintiff filed a supplemental bill, alleging that, upon the appointment of a practical surveyor, the magistrate who appointed such surveyor was himself a shareholder in the railway company, and was disqualified from acting. The supplemental bill was not brought to a hearing with the original bill, and the plaintiff had now obtained the common order to amend his supplemental bill, and had introduced statements which, it was contended, had had the effect of altering the bill entirely, and making it into an original bill.

Glasse, Q.C., and Speed, in support of the motion.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Cotton, Q.C., and Marten, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the object of the amendments was to establish the same facts and circumstances as the supplemental bill, all leading to a similar result. It was therefore not a reconstruction of the suit, and the motion must be refused with costs.

In re LONDON PERMANENT BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.

Winding-up—Laches—Costs.

This was a petition by a member of this society for a winding-up order. In 1854 the petitioner gave notice of withdrawal, which he was admittedly entitled to do under the rules of the society, and he was then entitled to be repaid 400*l.* which he had paid on his shares. This notice very injuriously affected the prosperity of the society; and in 1857, with the view of bettering its position, a resolution was passed excepting from participation in any previous losses of the society all subscriptions upon unadvanced shares after that year.

Cole, Q.C., and G. Miller, for the petition.

Cotton, Q.C., and Hemings, for the company, contra.

Glasse, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for creditors, also opposed the petition, and asked for their costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, although the resolution passed was ultra vires, the petitioner, having allowed eleven years to elapse, could not now come forward and insist on being paid in priority to those persons who had paid money to the society on the faith of the resolution. With regard to costs, His Honour said that he should adopt, in this case, the rule which he should adopt in all other cases where winding-up petitions were unjustifiably presented, and make the petitioner pay all the costs. The petitioner must, therefore, pay the costs of the creditors as well as those of the company.

Production of Documents—Letters between Architect and Solicitors of Plaintiff.

This was a motion to vary the chief clerk's certificate as to the production of documents.

The documents in question were letters written by an architect to the plaintiff's solicitors, and by such solicitors to the architect, in relation to building premises on the site of Saville House, by one of the late tenants of which the present suit was instituted; the main question being whether, under an alleged parol agreement, certain rooms must be provided for the tenant. The objections to production were that the architect was one of the plaintiff's principal witnesses in the suit, and that the letters so written were of a confidential character, and written as the plaintiff's professional adviser and architect, and were not intended to be seen by the defendant or any person on his behalf, but were all private and confidential.

Davey, in support of the summons.

Wickens, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the letters in question to be produced.

Maintenance—Restrictive Clause—Power of Court to increase Allowance.

A testatrix, by her will, directed her trustees to apply in each year a sum "not exceeding," during the lifetime of her son-in-law, the sum of 400*l.* a year, as her trustees should think fit, for or towards the maintenance and education of each of her grandchildren. The property was very large, and the question was whether the Court had power to increase the allowance for the grandchildren out of accumulations of income, there being a power to resort to former years' income.

Glasse, Q.C., and Waller, for the summons.

Shapter, Q.C., and Burgess, for the remaindermen, submitted that the Court could not increase the allowance out of property which might never vest in the infants, and which might belong to the remaindermen.

E. K. Karslake, Q.C., and Whitehead, for the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that he was bound by the restrictive terms in the will as to the allowance to be provided for maintenance, and therefore refused to increase the allowance for the grandchildren.

Specific and Residuary Devise—Estate by Curtesy—Bankruptcy of Husband—Assignees.

This was the suit of a devisee of a moiety of the testator's residuary real estate, asking a declaration that a mortgage-debt secured, not only on the residuary real estate, but also on an estate specifically devised, ought to be borne rateably by all the estates comprised in the mortgage; the specific devisee insisting that the residuary real estate ought to be applied exclusively in the payment of the mortgage-debt in exoneration of the specifically devised estate. A question was also raised whether the estate, by the curtesy of a bankrupt whose wife did not become entitled in possession till after the bankrupt obtained his certificate, passed to the assignees.

Cotton, Q.C., and Crossley, for the plaintiff.
Glasse, Q.C., De Gez, Q.C., J. Hinde Palmer, Q.C., Osborne, Q.C., Shebbear, Miller, Osborne Morgan, and Dryden, for the different defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided that, since the decision of Lord Chelmsford in Hensman v. Fryer (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 420), the Court must hold (as he had considered the law to be before that decision) that, notwithstanding the Wills Act, the rule that every devise of real estate was specific, was still to be followed. Upon the second question His Honour held that before the estate, which was subject to the curtesy, became vested in possession in the wife, the husband had no interest which could pass to his assignees.

VESTRY OF ST. PANCRAS v. GUARDIANS OF ST. PANCRAS.

Building held in Trust for Vestrymen of Parish—General Rate—Relief of the Poor—Transfer of Poor Relief Property—Metropolitan Poor Act, 1867.

Special case.

In 1829 a building was erected on leasehold property held under the Duchy of Bedford by the Vestry of St. Pancras for the purpose of holding vestry meetings, the election of vestrymen, and the transaction of business relating to the relief of the poor. In 1847 a new vestry hall was erected, and the building became disused for the above purposes. In February, 1850, the building was assigned to Mr. Cook, the then vestry clerk, for and on behalf of the vestrymen of St. Pancras. Down to June, 1867, the rent of the building was received by the vestry clerk for the time being. Until January, 1856, the rent was applied to the general credit of the directors of the poor, and in payment of the sums authorized by 39 Geo. 3 (Select Vestry of St. Pancras Act) to be paid out of rates made for the relief and maintenance of the poor. After January, 1856, the rent was carried to the credit of the general rate made by the vestry under the provisions of the Metropolitan Local Management Act. By section 75 of the Metropolitan Poor Act, 1867 (Gathorne Hardy's Act), it was enacted that the workhouses, goods, effects, and real and personal property belonging to a union or parish governed by a local Act, and held or used for purposes of the relief of the poor or of the business of guardians, should be transferred to and vested in and belong to the guardians of the union or parish, and be held and used for the purposes of such relief and business. The question was, whether the building passed under the Act to the Guardians of the Poor, or belonged to the Vestry.

Druce, Q.C., and Martineau, for the Vestry of St. Pancras.

Willcock, Q.C., and V. Hawkins, for the Guardians of the Poor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the leasehold premises were vested in Cook upon the trusts declared by the deed of February, 1850, and did not pass, by virtue of the Metropolitan Poor Act, 1867, to the Guardians of the Poor of St. Pancras.

BROOKENDEN v. WILLIAMS.

Feb. 12.

Marriage Settlement—Fund given as Wife should appoint, and in default to Next of Kin—General Appointment by Wife to her Executors in Trust to pay Legacies—Unexhausted Portion of Fund.

By a marriage settlement dated in 1823, funds, the property of the intended wife, were settled upon trust, after the decease of the survivor of the husband and wife, to assign and transfer the same as the wife should by deed or will appoint, "and in default thereof, and in case any such shall be made, then as . . . to so much of the trust moneys, stocks, funds and securities of which no such direction or appointment shall be made," in default of issue of the marriage (which happened), "in trust for such person or persons as at the time of the decease of such survivors . . . shall be the next of kin of the said (wife) under and according to the Statute of Distribution."

By a deed of the 9th of November, 1852, the husband demised certain tithes for twenty-one years; and by another deed of the 13th of November, 1852, the trustee declared that he stood possessed of the term on trust to pay the proceeds after the death of the wife as she should by deed or will appoint, and, in default, in trust for the persons who at her death would be of her kin, and entitled to the same under the Statute if she had died without having been married.

The wife died in 1855, leaving the husband surviving, and having by will devised and bequeathed "all the estate, both real and personal, over which I have any disposing power, to my executors hereinafter named, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns" upon trust to pay certain legacies, which did not exhaust the estate.

The questions were whether the unexhausted portions of the appointed funds belonged to the husband as part of his wife's general personal estate, or whether they went according to the trusts in default of appointment.

Everitt, for the plaintiffs, the wife's executors.

Druce, Q.C., and Freeling, for the executor of the husband:—

The appointment entirely divested the interests of the persons claiming in default of appointment, and made the fund part of the wife's general personal estate.

Hardy, Q.C., and Higgins, for the next of kin of the wife at her death, contra.

Bevir and Gardiner, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held the effect of the general devise in the wife's will to be, to convert all the property over which she had any disposing power into part of her general personal estate, the result of which was that the unexhausted portion of the appointed funds went to the husband.

SALISBURY v. METROPOLITAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Dividend.

Motion by the plaintiff, suing on behalf of himself and all other the shareholders, except the defendants, to restrain the defendants from declaring or paying any dividend, directly or indirectly, out of the capital of the company; and in particular from declaring or paying any dividend out of, or in respect of, the 42,600*l.*, or any other moneys which they should have received or should receive from the contractors, Messrs. Kelk & Co., under the provisions of their contract.

In 1865 Kelk & Co. entered into a contract to complete the Eastern Extension on or before the 31st of December, 1867, for 383,000*l.*, and 80,000*l.* for stations; "and in order to secure the punctual completion of the works, and in lieu of all penalties for non-completion thereof within the prescribed period, the contractors shall, until the works shall be completed and open for traffic, pay to the directors such sums as shall be equivalent to interest upon so much of the share capital created in respect of the railway as shall from time to time be called and paid up," at certain specified rates. "If in the opinion of the engineer there shall be such delay in the delivery of possession of the land by the company as shall render it impracticable to complete and open the railway by the 31st of December, 1867, such allowance in respect of interest shall be made to the contractors as shall be equivalent to the interest payable by them for the period of the delay so occasioned."

The Eastern Extension was not completed, and the bill alleged that the directors never had any real intention to complete it by the 31st of December, 1867, and charged that the agreement was a mere scheme concocted between the directors and Kelk & Co. for transmuting capital into dividends through the medium of Kelk & Co., contrary to the Metropolitan Railway Act, 1854 (s. 196), and the Companies Clauses Act, 1845, therewith incorporated; and, further, that in pursuance of this scheme the directors had, from the first creation of the Eastern Extension shares, paid all dividends thereon, directly or indirectly, out of the capital of the company.

In January, 1868, Vice-Chancellor Wood restrained the company from declaring or paying any dividend, except so far as the profits or income of the company might be applicable to such dividend, which order was affirmed by Lord Chancellor Chelmsford on appeal: Bloxam v. Metropolitan Railway Company (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 337). In the session of 1868, the Metropolitan Railway Act, 1868, was passed; by s. 22 of which, after reciting, amongst other things, that litigation had arisen with reference to the arrangements and payments made by the company in respect of the extensions, and inasmuch as the progress and completion of the undertaking might be delayed, and the company greatly embarrassed, if such litigation continued or were revived, it was enacted that "all moneys paid to the company or directors by the contractors, by way of penalty for the non-completion of the extensions, or arising under their contracts or engagements, and all net receipts from traffic and other sources of income arising in respect of the extensions, and not otherwise specifically appropriated, shall be carried to the revenue account of the extensions, and shall be deemed to be income and profits of the company applicable to interest and dividends on extension capital."

The plaintiff bought 200 shares on the 23rd of December, 1868, and on the 20th of January filed his bill to restrain the directors from paying or allowing out of capital, to Messrs. Kelk & Co., the sums which or sums equivalent to those which Kelk & Co. might supply for such dividend.

A motion to that effect was, on the 2nd of February, directed to stand over until the hearing, on the ground that no further payment would be made to Kelk & Co. before July next.

The plaintiff had since amended his bill, by stating that Kelk & Co., professing to act under the provisions of their contract, had paid to the directors 42,600*l.* as and for the dividend for the half-year ending the 31st of December, 1868, on the extension stock; and that the directors also, professing to act under these provisions, repaid to Kelk & Co. the like sum out of the capital of the company.

Against the distribution of the 42,600*l.*, as the dividend on the extension stock for the last half-year, the plaintiff now moved.

Amphlett, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, in support of the motion.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Druce, Q.C., and Bristowe, for the company, opposed the motion.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, after the decision in Bloxam's Case (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 337), there was no valid objection to the right of the plaintiff (though he held so small an interest, and had so recently purchased his shares) to raise this question. Section 22 of the Act of 1868 was not intended to include a mere sham payment by the contractors. Here the 42,600*l.* had been paid by Kelk & Co. out of money supplied to them for the purpose, or to be repaid to them out of money afterwards to be paid by the company, and was not money "paid to the company or directors by the contractors, by way of penalty or otherwise, for the non-completion of the extensions, or arising under their contracts or engagements," within section 22.

Injunction to restrain payment of any dividend out of the 42,600*l.*, or any other moneys the directors shall have received or shall receive from Messrs. Kelk under the provisions of their contract, and which have been repaid or are to be repaid to Messrs. Kelk by the company.

WALFORD'S CASE.

Company—Director's Qualification.

Adjoined summons taken out by the official liquidator under section 165 of the Companies Act, 1862, for the purpose of obtaining repayment from Cornelius Walford of the amount of fees received by him as a director of the company, on the ground that he was disqualified from acting as a director, and, consequently, not entitled to the fees in question by the want of a proper qualification.

The company was incorporated on the 20th of January, 1864, under articles of association, which contained the following provision as to the qualification of directors (clause 86):—

"No person, not being a director named in these articles, or added to the board previously to the ordinary meeting to be held in 1866, or who may hereafter be elected by the board to fill up any casual vacancy as provided by these presents, shall be eligible to the office of director, unless he be the holder of at least fifty shares, and shall have held the shares at least one month next preceding the day of election."

Walford, who was not one of the directors named in the articles, was on the 21st of March, 1864, appointed a director. On the 1st of April he applied for twenty-five shares, and on the following day paid the deposit of 25*l.* On the 22nd of April the shares were allotted to him, and on the 9th of August the money due on allotment (75*l.*) was paid by Walford.

Kay, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the official liquidator, submitted that Walford must, at all events, return the amount of fees received by him as director before the shares were allotted to him, and that it was against public policy that persons should be allowed to act as directors without holding a single share in the company.

Druce, Q.C., and Cozens Hardy, for Walford, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he could not add to the articles of association, which, by the terms of the exception contained in clause 86, provided that no qualification was necessary in the case of a director similarly circumstanced to Mr. Walford. Summons dismissed.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. RHYMNEY RAILWAY COMPANY. Feb. 15.

Poor-rates—Rateability of Occupier of Wharves for Tolls received by Proprietor.

The Rhymney Railway Company were the sole occupiers of certain land and wharves, under a lease from the trustees of the Marquis of Bute. The trustees, under a private Act of Parliament, were empowered to receive wharfage dues, for their sole use, in respect of goods shipped or unshipped at the land and wharves, and which they collected from the freighters and consignees.

The railway company derived no benefit from such dues.

The question was whether the Rhymney Company were rateable in respect of such dues, as occupiers of the land and wharves.

Buruer, Q.C., H. Allen, and T. Allen, for the appellants.

Field, Q.C., and Philbrick, for the respondents.

THE COURT held that the railway company, as sole occupiers of the wharves, were liable to be rated in respect of the full rateable value of the premises, without regard to the precise amount of benefit they themselves derived from such occupation.

Testator, after several bequests to his wife and other members of his family, proceeded to devise three houses (including that in dispute) to trustees, in trust, as to the first two, to receive the rents and to pay the same to his wife during her life or widowhood, and, after her decease or second marriage, as to the first, upon trust to convey and assign the same to his daughter Elizabeth Annie Martin, her heirs and assigns for ever; as to the second, in similar terms to his daughter Caroline Rogers Martin; and as to the house in question, upon trust to apply the rents for the advancement and benefit of his granddaughter Mary Annie Clarke until she should attain the age of 21 years; but in case his granddaughter should die under that age, then he devised the said dwelling-house to his daughters Elizabeth Annie Martin and Caroline Rogers Martin, their heirs and assigns, as tenants in common. The testator's son Henry and his daughters Mary Clarke and Annie Cropton to be executors and executrices of his will, to whom he bequeathed all the residue of his real and personal estate, not before specifically bequeathed, as tenants in common, such residue to be subject to the payment of his debts, legacies, and funeral expenses, and also to an annuity of 25*l.* 10*s.* to a Mrs. Seal for her life.

THE COURT held that the granddaughter Mary Annie Clarke took an estate in fee in the house devised to her, defeasible in the event of her dying before 21.

The plaintiff tendered the 5*s.* 8*d.*, but refused to pay the 1*s.* The defendants thereupon detained and sold the cow. In an action in the County Court the judge directed a verdict for the plaintiff for the value of the cow, and, upon appeal, Testamentary Paper—Execution—Signature not made or acknowledged in the Presence of Witnesses.

The deceased duly executed a will, and on the back of it wrote with his own hand a codicil, which was headed, "Memorandum added April 25, 1863." This writing was signed at its foot by the deceased, and had an attestation clause signed by two witnesses. The attestation clause was in the usual form, except that it did not state that the witnesses signed in the presence of the deceased. William Mascall, one of the witnesses, said that the testator asked him to sign his name to a paper; that the testator then called up his servant, and that deponent signed the paper in her presence. The deponent was unable to say whether the testator signed his name in deponent's presence, or whether it was on the paper when deponent signed. Nothing was said about the character of the paper he signed. Jane Kennett, the other witness, said she was only in the room a minute or two whilst she signed her name. She did not see the testator write his name, nor did he in any way refer to his signature in her presence.

She was unable to say whether the deceased's signature was on the will when she signed. She had no knowledge at the time what she was signing.

Dr. Tristram moved for probate of the memorandum as a codicil to deceased's will.

SIR J. P. WILDE rejected the motion. The parties interested might propound the paper if they thought fit so to do.

Testamentary Suit—Costs against the Defendant as Executor and as Party—Defendant Abroad—Sequestration—Money in the Funds—Dividends—20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 25.

This was originally a cause of interest, in which a decree had been given against the original defendant, Madame Doglioni, with costs. An appeal was prosecuted to the House of Lords by Madame Doglioni, and on her death by the defendant as her executor, but the appeal also was dismissed with costs. The defendant being out of the jurisdiction of the Court of Probate, a sequestration issued on the 22nd of December, 1868, against his estate. Large sums of money are standing, in the name of the defendant as executor of Madame Doglioni, at the Bank of England, but an injunction has issued from the Court of Chancery to restrain the transfer of such funds. Moreover, the defendant has brought an action to recover the dividends due on such stocks, and has given notice to the bank of his intention to claim a writ of injunction to restrain them from paying the dividends to any one else.

Dr. Deane, Q.C. (Mander with him), for the plaintiff, moved the Court to order the Bank of England to pay into Court the dividends now due on the stock standing in the name of the defendant.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Cecil Russell, for the defendant.

W. Williams and Kekewich, for the Bank of England.

SIR J. P. WILDE:—There is no way in which an order for the payment of costs can be enforced, except by a writ of fieri facias or by sequestration. The former, in this case, is inapplicable; the latter has issued, and I am applied to for an order upon the Bank of England to pay into Court the dividends in their hands. This order is opposed by Cumano. The Bank of England neither assent nor dissent to such an order being made. Has the Court power to make it? Has an adverse order ever hitherto been made in a Court of Equity on a third person to pay over to a creditor money which he owes the debtor? I cannot find that it has; and I must, therefore, with much reluctance, refuse to make such an order.

W. JACKSON AND JOHN HOLMES v. TURQUAND.
Winding-up—Contributories.

This was an appeal against a decree of Vice-Chancellor Kindersley, by which the two appellants were ordered to be retained on the list of contributories to the Leeds Banking Company.

The appellants were the executors of a Mr. Sugden, and they were also the executors of a Mr. Thomas Holmes, each of whom held shares in the bank.

The probates of the wills of these two deceased persons had been sent in the usual manner to the bank for registration, and the appellants, as executors, had received dividends upon them.

The bank, as originally intended, was to consist of 10,000 shares of 100*l.* each. Of these 7340 were really allotted, and held, with 15*l.* paid up on each share, and on the 1st of February, 1864, a printed report of the directors was issued, in which it was stated that "the profits for the past year amount to 44,633*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.*," which the directors proposed to appropriate by paying a dividend of 15 per cent. per share, and a bonus of 10 per cent. per share, both free of income tax, by adding to the reserved fund 10,000*l.*, and by placing in the contingent fund 7108*l.* 15*s.* 2*d.* At a meeting of the directors held in May, 1864, it was resolved to issue the remaining 2660 "reserved shares," and to offer them to the existing shareholders in proportion to the number of shares which each shareholder already held.

In June, 1864, the manager, under the orders of the directors, issued a circular, in which, in the particular copy sent to the appellants, it was said: "As you hold 145 shares you are entitled to 29 of the new issue." This circular was in name addressed to Mr. Sugden, not to his executors, and annexed to it was the usual printed form: "I agree to take 29 shares, being my proportion of allotment, and shares in addition, if I can have them on the terms stated in your circular."

The appellants returned this form with these verbal alterations: "We agree to take 29 shares, being our proportion of allotment, and six shares in addition," &c., and the names of the two appellants were signed to the altered form, with the bracketed words—"executors of the late Wm. Sugden."

On the 6th of July, 1864, Mr. John Holmes wrote to the manager the following letter:—"Sir, I find that Mr. William Jackson has only applied for the shares to be allotted to us as the executors of the late Mr. William Sugden, so that it appears that we have not had a paper to fill up as the executors of the late Mr. Thomas Holmes. Please forward one at your convenience." This was done, and the number of shares held by the deceased Thomas Holmes was stated at 35, and the proposed allotment at 7. The usual form of acceptance was likewise sent.

The appellants sent back the printed form of acceptance without any alteration of its words: "I agree," "seven shares," "my proportion," "if I can have," &c.; but they signed both their names as before, adding the words, "executors of the late Thomas Holmes." The allotment was made at a meeting of the directors, held on the 14th of July, 1864. On the 18th of July, 1864, the manager sent a circular declaring the allotment of the additional shares, but making the number 16, instead of 6, as the addition to the 29 shares. The appellants did not answer this letter of allotment nor pay any money in respect of the shares so allotted. Their names were not, individually or as executors, entered on the registry of the company. On the 19th of September, 1864, the banking company stopped payment. An order was afterwards duly made to wind up the company, and the official liquidator drew up two lists of contributories; the first containing the names of the original shareholders, the other (which was called the B list) containing those of persons who had applied for shares after and upon the circular of June, 1864.

The appellants contended that they had not by their letters contracted any personal responsibility, or that, if they had, it was in consequence of the false representations contained in the report which had declared the 15 per cent. dividend and the 10 per cent. bonus on each share. Vice-Chancellor Kindersley had been of opinion, on the facts proved in detail before him, that mistake, but not fraud, had existed on the part of the directors when they made that report; and that the communications between the manager and the appellants had constituted a contract under which the appellants were personally liable, and he directed their names to be retained on the B list of contributories.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Wickens, for the appellants.

Glass, Q.C., Cotton, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the respondent, were not called upon.

THEIR LORDSHIPS UNANIMOUSLY affirmed the decision of Vice-Chancellor Kindersley.

M. R. In re CONTRACT CORPORATION. Feb. 23.
Ex parte EBBW VALE COMPANY.
Company—Contract not under Seal—Notice—Breach of Contract—Damages.

The Contract Corporation was incorporated for the purpose, amongst others, of entering into contracts for the construction of railways. By the articles of association the directors were empowered to appoint a managing director, with such duties as might be agreed upon between the board and such managing director; and, subject to the powers of general meetings, the directors were to have the entire management of the company. The company purchased the business of John Watson & Co., contractors, and John Watson was appointed managing director. Certain of the contracts held by John Watson & Co., at the time of the purchase (including that for the Stonehouse Railway), were, by the terms of the agreement for purchase, to be completed by the corporation; others (including that for the Llanelly Railway Extension), by John Watson & Co.

On the 14th of November, 1865, two letters, dated from the Contract Corporation's office, and signed John Watson & Co., were sent to the Ebbw Vale Company. One inquired the terms on which the Ebbw Company would manufacture 500 tons of rails and 28 tons of fishplates, required for the Llanelly Railway; the other, the terms on which they would manufacture 360 tons of rails, required for the Stonehouse Railway. The Ebbw Vale Company replied by letter, dated the 21st of November. On the 24th of November the secretary of the Contract Corporation wrote as follows:—"In reply to your letter of the 21st instant, we agree to the terms for the double-headed rails, viz. 360 tons at 7*l.* 10*s.* per ton; also, for 500 tons of the flange rails at 17*l.* 15*s.* per ton, and 30 tons of fishplates at 7*l.* 15*s.* per ton. Terms: Three months' acceptance from date of each delivery." This letter was written by the direction of John Watson.

On the 5th of December the secretary of the Contract Corporation wrote to the Ebbw Company, stating that the Llanelly rails had been inadvertently included in the order of the 24th of November, and requesting that the order should be returned to be cancelled. The Ebbw Company declined to do this, and on the 11th of December the secretary of the Contract Corporation again wrote as follows:—"Referring to our order for rails and fishplates given on Monday, the 24th of November last, we request you will not send away from your works any of the materials named in said order, except the 360 tons of rails for the Stonehouse Railway, until further order."

One of the directors of the Contract Corporation was also a director of the Ebbw Company, and it was contended that the company were thus fixed with notice that the Llanelly Railway was not being made by the Corporation but by John Watson & Co., and, consequently, that the rails were not required for the purposes of the corporation.

The Contract Corporation was ordered to be wound up before any further orders were given with respect to the rails, which remained in the hands of the Ebbw Company, and that company now claimed damages for breach of the contract of the 24th of November.

Jessel, Q.C., and Ince, for the claimants.

Sir R. Buggallay, Q.C., and Chitty, for the official liquidator of the Contract Corporation, contended (1) that no contract binding the company had ever been given; (2) that, if it had been given, it was afterwards retracted; and (3) that the alleged contract had not been broken.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS decided all the points against the Contract Corporation.

SASSOON'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Infant Contributory.

In and previously to March, 1865, Mr. Sassoon was the registered holder of 1250 20*l.* shares in the Financial Corporation Limited. On the 17th of that month he, in consideration of 5 per cent., transferred his shares to one Feiling, the clerk of his stockbroker, and then an infant under the age of 21 years. The transfer was registered on the 20th of March. On the 28th of May, 1866, the company was ordered to be wound up. The usual notice of the settlement of the list of contributories was served on Feiling. He took no steps in opposition, and his name was settled on the list on the 20th of December, 1867.

Feiling attained the age of 21 years on the 5th of January, 1868. A balance order was taken out against him on the 26th of May, and was served on him on the 10th of November. On the 13th of November he took out a summons that his name should be removed from the list of contributories. The official liquidator subsequently took out a summons for the removal of Feiling from the list and the substitution of the executors of Sassoon, he himself having died in June, 1867.

It appeared that between October, 1864, and the commencement of the winding-up, a large number of shares had been transferred to Feiling; that, prior to the commencement of the winding-up, some of the said shares had been transferred by Feiling to purchasers for value; and that these transfers had been registered. Feiling had not been examined, and it did not appear whether the consideration-moneys for these transfers had been paid to him. The official liquidator deposed that the fact of Feiling's being an infant was not known to him until the day after the balance order was served.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Eddis, for the official liquidator.

Swanston, Q.C., for Feiling.

Southgate, Q.C., and Marten, for Sassoon's executors.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS, following Curtis' Case (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 455), held that Feiling must be taken off the list and Sassoon's executors placed on it.

M. R. BINDLEY v. MULLONEY. Feb. 26.
Separation Deed—Settlement on Wife and Children in Contemplation of immediate Separation, but no actual Separation.

By a deed, dated the 27th of January, 1858, and made between George Bindley of the first part, Elizabeth his wife of the second part, and two trustees of the third part, which recited that Mr. and Mrs. Bindley had agreed to live apart from each other during the remainder of their lives "upon the terms and conditions hereinafter contained," and that it had been agreed that Mr. Bindley should make such settlement on Mrs. Bindley and her children as thereinafter mentioned, Mr. Bindley covenanted with the trustees to allow Mrs. Bindley to live apart from him and enjoy her property as a feme sole, and he settled 3000*l.* upon trust for her for her life, and, after her death, upon trust for their children, with a proviso that if Mr. and Mrs. Bindley should mutually agree by writing to cohabit, the income of the settled fund should, during such cohabitation, be paid to Mr. Bindley; and the trustees entered into the usual covenants in separation deeds.

The contemplated separation never took place, and Mr. and Mrs. Bindley continued to live together until his death in May, 1868.

This was a suit for the administration of Mr. Bindley's estate, and the only question was as to the validity of the deed of 1858. Jessel, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for the plaintiffs, residuary legatees of Mr. Bindley, contended that the settlement, having been made in contemplation of separation, which never took place, was wholly void.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the widow, contended that it was a good voluntary settlement.

Bardswell, for one of the children, contended that the settlement was valid, at all events, as to the children.

Devenap, for the trustees and executors.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the whole of the settlement was based upon the contemplated separation, and consequently never took effect.

In re CHELTERHAM AND SWANSEA RAILWAY CARRIAGE AND WAGON COMPANY. LITTLE'S CASE.

Company—Shareholder—Rectification of Register—Unauthorized Allotment of Shares—Acquiescence—Delay.

This was an application by Robert Little to have his name removed from the register of shareholders of the above-named company.

In May, 1866, the secretary of the company, by the direction of Shackelford, one of the managing directors, signed the name of Little, without his knowledge or consent, to an application for 300 shares, which were accordingly allotted to him, Shackelford paying the deposit. In September, 1866, Little received an application for a call, and made inquiries of Shackelford, who told him that a mistake had been made, and that if he would execute a transfer of the shares he would be relieved from all liability, and Little thereupon executed a blank transfer and gave it to Shackelford, who filled it up for 200 shares only. These 200 shares were duly transferred, and the name of the transferee was registered. In March, 1867, Little having received an application for a call on the remaining 100 shares, informed the company that he had never applied for any shares, and asked to have his name removed from the register, and, in April, 1867, he explained to the company the circumstances of the unauthorized application, and asked them to declare the shares forfeited.

The company had from that time continued to apply to Little for calls, and Little continued to repudiate his liability, but neither party took any legal steps until the present application.

Swanston, Q.C., and Hastings, for Little.

Jessel, Q.C., and Millar, for the company, contended that Little, by executing the transfer, had adopted the application made in his name and the allotment of shares to him, and that he had deprived himself of any right to be removed from the register by acquiescence and delay.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the execution of the transfer was not an adoption of the allotment, that Little had not lost his right to relief by acquiescence or delay, and that his name must be removed from the register; and the company must pay the costs of the application.

V.-C. S. HOLLAND v. HOLLAND. Feb. 11.
Trustee—Breach of Trust—Execution of Deed—Specialty Debt.

Henry Clarke, by his will dated the 16th of April, 1853, after making certain dispositions, appointed Joseph Claypon and Bartholomew Claypon trustees of his will. By a deed-poll dated the 19th of January, 1857, Joseph Claypon disclaimed. By a deed dated the 30th of January, 1857, to which Frederick Cooke was a party, J. B. Millington was appointed a trustee in place of Joseph Claypon, disclaimed. Millington died on the 23rd of November, 1859. By an indenture dated the 10th of December, 1859, Bartholomew Claypon, with the consent of the parties beneficially interested and parties thereto, appointed Frederick Cooke a trustee in the room of Millington: "And the said Frederick Cooke did thereby testify and declare his acceptance of the trusteeship." He executed the deed and survived Claypon, who died on the 27th of October, 1866. Frederick Cooke died on the 18th of February, 1867. On the 27th of April, 1867, a creditor took out a summons to administer the estate of Frederick Cooke. In May, 1867, Lady Bellingham, one of the beneficiaries under the will of Clarke, filed a bill against the representatives of Claypon and Cooke, charging a breach of trust. The representative of Cooke put in his answer in the suit, in which he admitted a balance due from Cooke's estate to the trust estate of 4694*l.* 15*s.* 11*d.* capital, and 320*l.* 1*s.* for income. The trustees of Clarke's will thereupon made a claim in the creditors' suit for that amount against Cooke's estate, which the chief clerk certified to be due as a simple contract debt.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Davey now moved to vary the chief clerk's certificate by allowing the claim of specialty.

C. Hall and Speed, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that in all the authorities from Giffard v. Manley (Cas. t. Tal. 109) down to recent times, with the exception of two cases—Wynch v. Grant (2 Drew. 312) and Isaacson v. Harwood (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 225)—a claim of this description against a trustee in respect of a breach of trust had been allowed as a specialty debt. Those two cases must be regarded as exceptional, and he (the Vice-Chancellor) must follow the law as laid down by Lord Talbot, Sir Joseph Jekyl, Sir John Trevor, Lord Eldon, Vice-Chancellor Sir Launcelot Shadwell, and Vice-Chancellor Knight-Bruce, and must hold that the trustees were entitled to rank as specialty creditors.

V.-C. S. COOK v. ADDISON. Feb. 25.

Mortgage—Breach of Covenant in Lease—Re-entry—Trustee Reversioner, Confusion of Trustee Estate by, with his own—Trust Fund ordered to be made good.

Trustees of a settlement invested with the consent of the husband and wife (tenant for life) 520*l.* of the trust moneys on a mortgage of an underlease of a house, and a bill of sale of furniture in it. The mortgagors were subject to covenants to repair, and the trustees as mortgagees, and one of whom was owner of the immediate reversion of the house, had a right to enforce the performance of them. The mortgagors made default in payment of rent, and the trustee reversioner exercised his right of re-entry, and thereby destroyed the underlease vested in the mortgagors, and in him as mortgagee, and he subsequently sold his lease in the house, and received a sum by way of premium, and also for repairs. The result was, that he mixed and confounded the trust estate with his own interest in the reversion. The co-trustee did not concur in the proceedings.

Karslake, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the plaintiff.
Dickinson, Q.C., and Daly, for the defendant Addison.
Wickens and Davey, for the defendant the co-trustee.
Hanson, for the defendant Cook.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the doctrine was well established that if a trustee or agent mixed and confused the trust property, which he held in a fiduciary character, with his own, so that they could not be separated with accuracy, he was liable for the whole, and therefore the trust fund invested upon the mortgage must be made good by the trustee reversioner, with interest at 5 per cent. from the 30th of April, 1865, and he must also pay the plaintiff and his co-trustee's costs of the suit as between party and party, and the trustee must have his extra costs as between solicitor and client out of the trust estate. The defendant Cook would pay his own costs.

V.-C. S. HOPE v. BERESFORD HOPE. Feb. 25.
HOPE v. CARNEGIE.

Husband and Wife—Joint Appearance—Decree for Administration—Motion by Husband that his Wife should appear separately granted—Service of Wife out of the Jurisdiction.

This was a motion on behalf of the defendant, Admiral S. T. Carnegie, that the defendant Louisa Albertine, his wife, might be ordered to appear separately from him, in all further proceedings in this suit, and that he might not be in any manner responsible for any neglect or refusal by or on the part of his wife, in relation to such proceedings or any of them, nor liable to any attachment or process in consequence of such neglect or refusal.

It appeared in evidence that Mrs. Carnegie was now living separate from her husband and in Paris, and that the husband had no control over his wife's proceedings.

(See Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 295.)

Karslake, Q.C., and F. Waller, for the motion.
Dickinson, Q.C., and Hemming, for the plaintiff, contended that notice ought to be given by the husband to his wife of this application.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made the order.

Winding-up—Borrowing Powers—Advances made without complying with such Powers.

This was an adjourned summons on the question whether Messrs. Brandon, who had been solicitors to the company, and had a lien on a house, upon the deposit of the title-deeds, on which they had advanced 150*l.* to the company, were entitled to be let into possession of the property.

By their rules the company could borrow money on a resolution of the board of directors, and every mortgage was to be sealed with the seal of the company; but in this case these requirements had not been complied with.

The company having been ordered to be wound up, Messrs. Brandon now claimed to be entitled to enter into possession of the premises.

A. E. Miller, in support of the summons.

Higgins, for the official liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, although it was not disputed that the money was advanced, the company could not bind itself under its borrowing powers unless the forms prescribed had been complied with. In this case this had not been done, and therefore he could not give the direction asked, that Messrs. Brandon be let into possession of the property. That decision did not interfere with the title-deeds which were in Messrs. Brandon's possession. The claim must be disallowed with costs.

V.-C. M. MARRIOTT v. ABELL. Feb. 23.

Construction of Will—Survivors or Survivor—Divesting Clause.

A testator gave all his real and personal estate to trustees to invest and pay the income to Martha Barton for life, and after her death to transfer the whole fund to five persons therein named, in equal shares, their interests therein to be vested interests from the time of his decease.

By a codicil to his will the testator, after reciting the gift in remainder in his will, directed his trustees to transfer the said moneys, not only to the five persons named in the will, but also to three other persons in equal shares; and he directed that, in case of the death of any of them before the death of Martha Barton, the share or shares of him, her, or them so dying should go to the survivors or survivor of them equally, share and share alike.

The eight legatees survived the testator, but all died in the lifetime of Martha Barton, and the question was who became entitled to the residuary estate.

Cadman Jones, for the representatives of the last surviving legatee, contended that, as to each share, the survivors were to be ascertained at the time when the share went over, and the last survivor took the whole of the other shares.

W. Barber, Chitty, Rodwell, and Herbert Smith, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the divesting clause in the codicil applied to all eight legatees; but, as all died before the tenant for life, the divesting clause had no operation, and each took his original gift.

V.-C. M. DIXON v. HOLDEN. Feb. 24.

Injunction—Jurisdiction—Damage to Property.

The plaintiff, a merchant at Liverpool, filed his bill against the defendants, solicitors of Liverpool, for an injunction to restrain them from publishing and circulating, as advertisements, a printed notice, calling together the creditors of a firm who became bankrupts in 1850, such notice intimating in effect that the plaintiff was, at the time of such bankruptcy, a partner of the firm, and had concealed that fact from the creditors.

The bill alleged that the defendants well knew that the plaintiff had never been a partner in the bankrupt firm; that the publication of the notice would be most prejudicial and injurious to the mercantile reputation of the plaintiff and his firm, and would have the effect of seriously damaging his business.

An ex parte injunction had been granted.

Little, Q.C., and Procter, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Morris, for the defendants, contended that the Court had no jurisdiction, the plaintiff's remedy being by action for libel, and that the matter contained in the notice was not libellous.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that, wherever advertisements or other documents tended to destroy or deteriorate property, tangible or intangible, this Court had jurisdiction to interfere. A man's reputation was a most valuable part of his property, and, in this case, it was charged that the plaintiff's business would also be injured. The injunction must, therefore, be made perpetual, and the defendants must pay the costs.

Cotton, Q.C., and Millar, in support of the motion, asked that the proprietors of the paper should be ordered to pay the costs.

KELLY v. WYMAN.

Practice—Exception to Answer.

Bill, filed to restrain the defendants from pirating the plaintiff's directory, charged as follows:—"The defendants pretend that they obtained all the information contained in their said directory by personal inquiries made by their canvassers or agents at the places of business of each and every of the persons named . . . The plaintiff charges that the number of persons employed by the defendants in making personal inquiries for the purpose of obtaining original information for their directory was wholly insufficient for the purpose of compiling the defendants' directory from original sources . . ."

Upon this charge was founded the following interrogatory: "Did the defendants employ any, and, if any, how many persons, and who by name and address, in making personal inquiries for the purpose of obtaining original information for their directory? Against the name of each such person let the defendants set forth the name of each town, village, and place visited by each such canvasser or agent, and the time during which he remained at each such town, and village, and place, making personal inquiries for the purposes of the defendants' directory." The answer stated that "upwards of fifty" persons had been employed as canvassers; that 24,000 stamped private circulars, including blank forms, were issued by post; that sixty principal towns were personally canvassed by defendants' paid agents and canvassers; and that 800 local correspondents assisted in correcting the proofs and furnishing late information. It did not set out the names and addresses of the canvassers or of the towns visited, &c.

The plaintiff excepted.

Kay, Q.C., and H. S. Leeson, for the exception.

Druce, Q.C., and Ince, for the answer:—

The real object is to discover who will be our witnesses. The names and addresses of these persons cannot affect the question of insufficiency of number.

Kay, in reply, was stopped.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the whole case of the defence was, "We got our information from original sources." The plaintiff had a right to know what those original sources were. To that end it was necessary he should know who the defendants' canvassers were, and what towns they visited, and how long. The exception must be allowed, with a month to answer.

HOSKINS v. CAMPBELL.

GIBBON v. CAMPBELL.

Leasehold Property—Trustees—Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Receiver—Possession.

These were suits for administration of the estate of a testator who died in August, 1860. By his will certain specific portions of his property, consisting of small leasehold houses, were given to trustees, upon trust, as to each portion, "to pay" the rents and profits to one of his children for life, and after his or her death to stand possessed of the same for all the tenant for life's children who should attain 21 or marry, and if there should be no such child, in trust for six of testator's other children, who should have attained 21 or married. There was a trust to pay debts out of the property; and a life estate as to part was given to the widow. The property of female married tenants for life was given for their separate use, without power of anticipation.

Decrees had been made in both suits, and a receiver appointed; and the only question now on further consideration was, whether the receiver should be continued, or whether the tenants for life should be allowed to go into possession of the rents and profits.

Begg (Druce, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiffs in the first suit, infant children of one of the tenants for life, asked that the receiver might be continued, in order that the infants' interests might be protected. The tenant for life was a daughter of the testator, living separate from her husband.

Willcock, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for the plaintiff in the second suit, a purchaser of the life interest of one of the tenants for life, asked that the receiver might be discharged. If the trustees were willing to undertake to pay the ground rents, it was desired that they should remain in possession.

Andrew Thomson, for all the other parties entitled to a present income, supported the same view.

Hemming, for the trustees.

Begg in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order discharging the receiver, and letting all the equitable tenants for life (including the married woman) into possession, without prejudice to the right of the trustees to resume possession.

V.-C. J. TAYLOR v. PILLOW. Feb. 25.
Copyright—Assignment—Right to dispose of Stock printed before Assignment.

Motion for an injunction to restrain the sale by defendant of a song called "I Heard a Spirit Sing."

The song was composed by plaintiff Taylor, and in July, 1866, he entered into an agreement by which he agreed to assign to defendant Pillow the sole copyright of the words and music of the song in consideration of certain royalties to be paid to him. No legal assignment was made to defendant, who carried on the business of music publisher, in partnership with one Bath, under the firm of Sinclair & Co.

In November, 1868, the musical copyrights and other stock-in-trade of Sinclair & Co. were sold by auction, and the plaintiff Williams purchased the copyright of "I Heard a Spirit Sing" for 241. 10s. He also purchased 200 copies of the song, which were included in the catalogue, upon an alleged understanding, from what was said by the auctioneer, that he was buying the whole stock of the song. This statement was, however, denied by the auctioneer, and the evidence upon this point—and as to an alleged custom of the trade that in buying the copyright of a song the purchaser was entitled, in the absence of special contract, to all copies in the possession of the vendor—was in conflict. Since his purchase Williams had discovered that the defendant had sold, and was offering for sale, copies of the song at a greatly reduced price, so as to injure the sale by Williams and deprive Taylor of his royalties. The defendant insisted that all copies sold by him since the sale had been printed prior to the sale, and upon this point there was an issue of fact.

A. E. Miller, in support of the motion, contended (1) that any sale of copies by the defendant, after parting with his interest in the copyright, was an infringement of the copyright assigned to Williams; and (2) that it was a breach of the defendant's contract with Williams, who had made his purchase on the faith that, beyond the 200 copies sold separately, there were no other copies in the possession of the vendor.

Eddis, for the defendant, contended that he was entitled to retain in his possession and sell all copies of the song printed before the date of the sale. In this case there had been no attempt to mislead purchasers, the conditions of sale saying nothing whatever as to copies of the song already printed going with the copyright, while the custom of trade relied upon by the plaintiff was not supported by the evidence.

Miller in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, referring to the Copyright Act (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45), held that, unless there were some stipulation to the contrary in the conditions of sale, the vendor was entitled to retain in his possession and sell any number of copies printed by him prior to the sale. There was no evidence that defendant had sold any copies printed since the sale, and therefore the case of alleged infringement of copyright failed entirely. Nor did any case for relief in equity arise upon the second point raised for the plaintiff, viz. that he had bargained for all copies which defendant had in his possession, and did not get that which he bargained for.

No order upon the motion. Costs, costs in the cause.

MARLBURG v. STONEHOUSE AND NAILSWORTH RAILWAY COMPANY.
Vendor and Purchaser—Lien for unpaid Purchase-money—Railway Company—Overrunning Powers—Heads of Arrangement.

Bill by landowner against the Stonehouse and Nailsworth Railway Company and the Midland Railway Company for specific performance of agreements, whereby the Stonehouse Company agreed to take certain parcels of land for various sums of money, of which 1466l. 9s. 6d. still remained unpaid, and for payment of this balance and interest. The company had accepted the title.

The bill also prayed for a declaration that the plaintiff, as vendor, had a lien for the balance on the lands, and that the lien might, if necessary, be enforced by a sale, and for a receiver; also that, until payment, both companies might be restrained from continuing in possession of or interfering with the lands. It appeared that, under certain heads of arrangement which are scheduled to the Stonehouse and Nailsworth Railway Act, 1863, the Midland Company had maintained, managed, manned, stocked, worked, and used the Stonehouse Line; and it was thereby provided that, after certain deductions from the gross receipts for the traffic, the residue should be divisible in equal shares between the companies. No formal agreement, however, had been entered into.

Kay, Q.C., and Fry, for the plaintiff, contended that the Midland Company must be treated as if they were lessees.

Winterbotham, for the Stonehouse Company, submitted to a decree.

Druce, Q.C., and Speed, for the Midland Company, said they ought to be dismissed with costs. This was a mere traffic arrangement, which gave the Midland no interest in the land.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he could not distinguish this case from that of a lease. The following were the minutes of the decree:—Declare that the agreements ought to be specifically performed, and that the Stonehouse Company have accepted the plaintiff's title, and waived their right to an inquiry. Order the Stonehouse Company on or before the 26th of May to pay the balance with interest at 5 per cent.; the plaintiff's costs to be taxed and paid; upon payment of the balance, interest, and costs, the plaintiff to convey, the conveyance in case of difference to be settled by the judge in chambers; declare that the plaintiff is entitled, as against both companies, to a lien on all the estate and interest of the plaintiff in the hereditaments comprised in the agreements for the said amounts; in case the sums are not paid, the plaintiff to be at liberty to apply for the rescission of the contracts, or the enforcement of the lien by sale, appointment of a receiver, or injunction, as he shall be advised.

V.-C. J. Row v. Row. Feb. 27.
Administration—Costs—Insufficient Personality—Real Estate specifically devised—Real Estate descended.

Suit for the administration of the estate of Thomas Benison Row, who died on the 23rd of November, 1858, having by his will given and bequeathed to his executors thereafter named all his estate called Know House and three cottages, and all the money in a particular bank, upon certain trusts; and having appointed three executors. The estate called Know House and the specified cottages were the whole of his real estate. The will contained no disposition of the residue of the estate either real or personal.

An administration decree having been made on the 11th of March, 1865, it was found that the personal estate was, by a small amount, insufficient to pay the debts.

The real estate having been sold, this petition was presented by the plaintiff in the suit, who was entitled to a share of the proceeds of Know House.

Kay, Q.C., and Jolliffe, for the petitioner.

W. Pearson, for a respondent.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR having held that, as to a sum of 100l., and as to a portion of the proceeds of the sale of Know House, there was an intestacy, and that the same passed to the heir-at-law:

Schomberg, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for several respondents, argued that the costs of administration ought to come first out of whatever fell to the heir-at-law.

Rowcliffe, for the heir, contra.

J. L. Bird, for an infant legatee.

Kay in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed, that here the whole estate was vested in trustees. The Court, therefore, had a discretionary power to make an order as to the costs.

His Honour directed the 100*l.*, and the share of Know House descended, to go first in payment of the costs of the administration suit.

V.-C. J. HILL v. HIBBIT. Feb. 27.

Practice—Administration Suit—Suit to have evidence taken de bene esse—Cross-examination of Witness—Application to have the Evidence read in Administration Suit refused.

Hill v. Hibbit was a suit for the administration of the real and personal estate of an intestate, John Wight Wight (formerly Hibbit), who died on the 10th of May, 1867. The bill was, in substance, to ascertain the co-heirs and next of kin.

On the 30th of July, 1868, the common administration decree was made, but was not drawn up till the end of November.

On the 12th of November, 1868, Sarah Angus Hay, spinster, claiming to be a co-heir through her mother, filed a bill against all the parties to Hill v. Hibbit and Others, praying for administration, but virtually to have the evidence of her father, James Hay, who was stated to be upwards of 80, and in infirm health, taken de bene esse. Examinations of James Hay had been taken on the 28th of November, 1868, and on the 16th of January, 1869, on both which occasions he was cross-examined on behalf of the defendants in Hay v. Hill, who had been served with notice.

On the 22nd of January, 1869, advertisements in Hill v. Hibbit were issued, under which Miss Hay had entered an appearance as claimant.

On the 19th of February Miss Hay took out this summons in Hill v. Hibbit, that the further examination of James Hay in Hay v. Hill might be taken in Hill v. Hibbit; and that the past examinations might be read as evidence on the part of the plaintiff, and be treated as if taken in Hay v. Hill.

F. Waller, for the summons:—

We wish to avoid the expense of taking all the de bene esse evidence over again in Hill v. Hibbit.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Bedwell, for Mrs. Hill, said that, if the applicant would undertake to pay all the costs in Hay v. Hill, they would not oppose the application.

This was not acceded to.

W. W. Cooper and A. E. Miller, for defendants in Hill v. Hibbit

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he had no jurisdiction to make the order asked.

Summons refused with costs.

V.-C. J. ETOHELLS v. WILLIAMSON. March 1.

Will—Construction—Vesting—Period of Distribution—Right to Conveyance of Legal Estate.

A testator, who died in 1844, gave all his real and personal estate to the defendant, upon trust to stand possessed thereof for the benefit of his widow during her life, in case she so long continued his widow; and in case she married again, he charged the real estate with a yearly rent of 25*l.*, to be paid to her, with a power of distress. Testator directed that, upon the decease or marriage of his wife, the trustee should stand seised and possessed of the property (subject to the rent-charge) upon trust, "after making a comfortable provision for maintenance and education for" his children named, until they attained 21, in case his said children "should not be disposed to divide and equalise" his property, "provided my said wife shall be then dead, but not otherwise, it being my will and mind that the same shall not be sold during her lifetime," to sell and divide the proceeds amongst his four children (naming them) "as shall be living at the time of such distribution taking place," and the issue of such of them as should then be dead leaving issue.

In 1851 the widow married again. On the 1st of September, 1859, the youngest of the children named attained 21, whereupon the four children, being desirous that the estate should not be sold, and having elected to take it as realty, desired the defendant to account and convey to them. The defendant refusing to comply, in November, 1865, the four children took the estate into their own hands, and the accounts were submitted to arbitration. Since April, 1868, the defendant had issued and sent distress warrants to the tenants; and this bill was filed by the three surviving children for a declaration that they were entitled to the estates in equal shares, subject to the rent-charge of 25*l.*; and for a conveyance accordingly.

Phear, for the defendant, was called upon to represent the interests of persons not in esse, who might become interested if the period of distribution was not until the death of the widow, but was not heard.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he could not hold the plaintiffs entitled to an immediate conveyance, upon words which postponed the sale of the estate and distribution of the proceeds to the death of the widow. He would not, however, interfere with the possession. The costs of all parties would come out of the estate; with liberty to apply at chambers as to raising such costs by sale or mortgage; and as to rents due from the defendants, and appointment of a new trustee.

V.-C. J. FRILDEN v. SLATER. March 1.

Lessor and Lessee—Covenant against carrying on specified Trade—Breach of Covenant by Under-lessee—Inquiry.

In April, 1854, plaintiff and another sold to the defendant Slater and three others a plot of land and six messuages thereon in the New Market Place, Blackburn, in consideration of a perpetual yearly rent-charge of 40*l.*; and the purchasers for their heirs, executors, and administrators, jointly and severally covenanted with the vendors, their heirs and assigns, that they would not "use or occupy, or permit to be used or occupied, any of such buildings as fronted the said New Market Place, as an inn, public-house, or tap-room, or for the sale of spirituous liquors, or ale, or beer."

In 1859 the plaintiff became the sole owner of the rent-charge. In 1862 the defendant Slater, who had become the sole owner of one of the houses, demised the same to the other defendant, Sefton, a grocer, for twenty-one years, from the 12th of November, 1862. In March, 1866, Sefton began to sell wine on the premises, as agent of a London house.

The bill was filed on the 14th of March, 1868, and, as amended, charged that, prior to the granting of the lease, Sefton was informed of the covenant; and praying that the defendants might be restrained from using the house "for the sale of spirituous liquors, ale, or beer."

Slater, by his answer, said he had used his utmost endeavours to induce Sefton to discontinue. Sefton, by his answer, said that by the lease he was under covenant to carry on "no offensive business, or occupation, or nuisance," and that he had no knowledge or notice that Slater was under any restrictive covenant. A solicitor's clerk deposed, on behalf of the defendant Slater, that in 1862, on reading over the draft-lease to Sefton, he informed him of the nature of the covenant.

Kay, Q. C., and T. C. Renshaw, for the plaintiff.
Amphlett, Q. C., and Rowcliffe, for the defendant Slater.
Druce, Q. C., and Simmonds, for the defendant Sefton.
Kay in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he should, had it been necessary, have held the defendant Sefton to have had no actual and no constructive notice of the covenant, beyond what was attributable to a man who did not inquire. He should not have allowed the evidence of Slater's witness to be read against Sefton. But it was not necessary for the plaintiff to prove notice. According to the ruling of the Court of Appeal in Wilson v. Hart (Law Rep. 1 Ch. 463), every under-lessee was bound to inquire into the covenants of the lease. If not, any under-tenant from year to year, or for a short term, might set the lessor at defiance. His Honour must hold the defendant Sefton bound to the strict letter of the covenant, according to which, "spirituous liquors" would include wine. It had been argued that no damage had been shewn, but of that the plaintiff was the best judge. Therefore there must be an injunction against Sefton, with costs; but as to Slater, there was no ground for making him a party, and the bill as against him must be dismissed with costs. The injunction not to go for six weeks, to enable the defendant to sell his stock on the premises.

EARL OF JERSEY v. BRITON FERRY DOCK COMPANY.

Specific Performance—Sale in Consideration of Perpetual Rent and Royalties—Unpaid Rents—No Lien.

Bill by representatives of George, fifth Earl of Jersey, against the Briton Ferry Floating Dock Company, and the Great Western Railway Company, for specific performance of a contract dated the 5th of April, 1851, and made between the plaintiffs' testator and the first defendants for the sale by the former to the latter, for the purpose of making docks and a railway, of a piece of mud-land, near Baglan Bay, Glamorganshire, for rents, increasing to a perpetual annual rent of 400*l.*, and royalties.

The agreement was sanctioned by the Dock Company's special Act, and the company had entered into possession, and constructed docks.

No rent or royalty had as yet been paid, and the Great Western Railway Company were managing the Dock Company's business, under an agreement, and were in receipt of the rates and tolls.

The plaintiffs prayed for specific performance of the agreement; for a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to a lien on the lands, and that such lien might be enforced by a sale of the lands or a competent part thereof; for receiver of the rent and royalties; and for inquiries and accounts.

The title had not been accepted by the first defendants.

Druce, Q. C., and Kekewich, for the plaintiffs.

Wickens, for the Dock Company.

Speed, for the Great Western Company.

Druce in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, upon the question of lien, that the case was governed by Winter v. Lord Anson (1 S. & S. 434), and that it was quite contrary to the intention of the parties that possession of land like this, upon which public works were to be constructed, was to be resumed by the vendor if the purchase-money were not paid. The question of a receiver was very different; but that did not arise now.

There must be a decree for specific performance of the contract, with a reference as to title, the conveyance to be settled, if the parties differed, in chambers; reserving further consideration and costs. The decree to be without prejudice to any question as to the appointment of a receiver.

Will destroyed with an Intention to Revive a Will of Earlier Date—Declaration—Intestacy.

The deceased duly executed a will in August, 1863, by which she gave her property to trustees for the use of her only child, a daughter, absolutely, and appointed executors.

In March, 1866, she executed another will, in which she left the whole of her property absolutely and directly to her daughter, and made her and another person executors. In the month of February, 1868, the daughter, on entering the deceased's room on one occasion, found her mother alone, and the will of March, 1866, lying torn in pieces in the fireplace. The deceased then told her daughter that she had torn up and destroyed the will with the intention that the former will might take effect.

Dr. Middleton moved for probate of the draft of the will of March, 1866: Powell v. Powell (35 L. T. [N.S.] P. & M. 100).

Will—Executor renounced—Attorney for other Executors—Practice—Rules and Orders, 1862, Rule 50.

Andrew Russell executed a will, in which he appointed Peter Inglis, William Taylor, and Archibald Fiskin, executors. He also executed two codicils, in the last of which he appointed Donald Larnach and David Moore to act in conjunction with the executors named in his will.

In November, 1863, Donald Larnach, Peter Inglis, and David Moore executed renunciations of their office of executors, and probate was granted in the Supreme Court of Victoria, in which colony the deceased was domiciled, to Messrs. Taylor and Fiskin. On the 3rd of December the acting executors executed a power of attorney empowering Donald Larnach to take administration, with the will and codicils annexed, in this country.

C. A. Middleton moved accordingly.

SIR J. P. WILDE allowed the grant to issue. The 50th Rule (Rules and Orders, 1862) only refers to cases in which a man under a will occupies, in reference to the testator, two different characters. In such case he cannot select which he pleases, but must take the grant which gives him the greater authority.

John Howard, of Staley, Cheshire, cotton spinner, made a will bearing date the 5th of February, 1859, in which he appointed Samuel Cocker and William Sunderland trustees and executors and guardians of his three minor children. He also executed two codicils, dated respectively the 19th of November, 1863, and the 23rd of July, 1868. The last was to the following effect:—"This is a second codicil to the last will and testament of me, John Howard, of, &c., which will bears date the 5th day of February, 1859. I absolutely revoke and make void all bequests and dispositions in my said will, and I bequeath all my property to my housekeeper, Margaret Wright, and I appoint Mr. Henry Heap one of my executors, Mr. Robert Heap another of my executors, and Margaret Wright aforesaid my executrix."

Bayford moved for probate of the will and two codicils to be granted to Mr. Robert Heap and Margaret Wright, as two of the executors named therein.

SIR J. P. WILDE decreed probate of the three papers.

 THOMPSON AND OTHERS v. HUDSON AND OTHERS.
Agreement, Construction of—Penalty.

This was an appeal against a decree of the Master of the Rolls, which had been affirmed on appeal by Lord Chancellor Chelmsford, the Lord Justice Turner dissenting. The case altogether depended on the construction of the words of various agreements entered into between the appellants (representing the York and North Midland Railway Company) and Mr. George Hudson. There had been litigation between the parties, and Hudson had been found liable to pay, and had been, by orders of the Court of Chancery, directed to pay in August, 1854, certain large sums of money ascertained and settled as due from him to the company.

In January, 1854, an agreement was made between the appellants and Hudson, by which the former consented to receive a less sum than they were legally entitled to, if, on or before a certain day, Hudson should pay a fixed sum, and should give security by way of mortgage for payment of the remainder.

It was provided by the deed of January, 1854, that if the payments stated therein were not made and the mortgage duly given, "or if the defendant (Hudson) shall fail in performing all or any of the stipulations on his part hereinbefore contained, then the plaintiffs (the now appellants) shall be at full liberty to recover the said principal sums, interest, and costs decreed in or claimed to be due to them in the said several suits, or otherwise, for aiding their recovery of their said claims as they may be advised."

By a deed of October, 1854, the terms of the previous arrangement were, at the request of Hudson, varied to a certain extent; but here again was a proviso in these words: "but nevertheless without prejudice to the right of the said company to recover the whole of the moneys which the said company are entitled to recover," in the suits named in that deed, "in case the principal sum and interest hereinafter secured, or any part or parts thereof, are not duly paid on the respective days hereinafter appointed." The terms of these deeds of arrangement were not complied with, and, other proceedings being taken, the case came before the Master of the Rolls (Law Rep. 2 Eq. 612), who held that the accounts were to be taken on the footing that the company was bound to accept the smaller sums in full satisfaction, and that the above provisos were in the nature of penalties which equity would not enforce. On appeal, Lord Chancellor Chelmsford took the same view of the case, but Lord Justice Turner came to an opposite conclusion, on the ground that the doctrine of penalties did not apply to such a case (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 255).

This appeal was then brought.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Mellish, Q.C., and Williamson, for the appellants.

Jessel, Q.C., and Jackson, for the respondents.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR (Lord Hatherley) adopted the opinion of Lord Justice Turner, and moved that the judgment of the Master of the Rolls should be reversed.

LORD WESTBURY and LORD COLONBY concurred.

Will, Construction of.

This was an appeal against a decree of the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, pronounced in a suit instituted to obtain the construction of the will of William Edgeworth of Edgeworthstown, who died in the year 1829. By that will the testator gave his estate of Lisduff to "my brother Charles Sneyd Edgeworth for life, and in default of his having issue living at the time of his death, to my younger brother Francis Beaufort Edgeworth for life, and in default of his having issue living at the time of his death, to his younger brother Michael Parkesham Edgeworth, and his heirs for ever; but in case the said Charles Sneyd Edgeworth should die leaving issue, my intention is that such issue, if a son, should take the same estate to him and his heirs, and, if more than one son, then to the eldest and in case the said Francis Beaufort Edgeworth should come to the possession of the said estate hereinbefore limited to him, and should die leaving issue, the said issue to take in like manner life estates as hereinbefore limited to the issue of the said Charles Sneyd Edgeworth."

The testator died on the 7th of May, 1829, leaving all the three brothers named in the will him surviving—Charles Sneyd Edgeworth being also his heir-at-law. Francis Beaufort died during the life of Charles Sneyd, leaving a son William, who died in 1863, leaving the respondent his heir-at-law. Charles Sneyd Edgeworth died on the 31st of March, 1864, without leaving issue, having in November, 1863, made his will, by which he appointed the appellant the devisee of all his real estates. A cause petition was filed in Chancery as to this Lisduff estate, the appellant claiming under the will of Charles Sneyd Edgeworth, who was not only the first devisee, but the heir-at-law of the original testator, William Edgeworth. The respondent claimed as the heir-at-law of the eldest son of Francis Beaufort Edgeworth, one of the devisees of that testator. The cause was heard before the Lord Chancellor of Ireland on the 27th of November, 1866, when His Lordship declared the respondent entitled. This appeal was then brought.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and A. J. Wood, for the respondent, were not called upon.

MANBY v. ROBINSON.

March 5.

Interpleader—Affidavit denying Collusion.

This was an interpleader suit brought by the plaintiff against the two defendants, Robinson and Webster, who formerly carried on business as solicitors in partnership, praying that they might interplead respecting the right to receive the amount of a bill of costs due from the plaintiff for business done by the firm.

The defendants had dissolved partnership, and a suit was pending in the Court of Chancery for taking the accounts of the partnership, and the plaintiff alleged that both partners claimed to receive the amount of the bill of costs. On filing the bill the plaintiff filed the usual affidavit, that he was not colluding with either of the defendants; and he afterwards moved for leave to pay the amount due from him into Court, and for an injunction. The motion was supported by an affidavit by the plaintiff verifying the statements of the bill, and the defendant Webster filed an affidavit in answer, alleging that the plaintiff was colluding with the defendant Robinson to prevent Webster from receiving the debt. The Vice-Chancellor Malins, by whom the motion was heard, refused the application, the defendant Webster undertaking not to take any proceedings to recover the debt for a month, in order to give Robinson the opportunity of moving for an injunction in the partnership suit. The plaintiff appealed from this decision.

Pearson, Q.C., and Currey, for the appellant, contended that the affidavit of the defendant Webster could not prevail against the plaintiff's affidavit denying collusion. They relied on Langston v. Boylston (2 Ves. 101).

Glasse, Q.C., and Townsend, for Webster.

Peck, for Robinson.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the question was concluded by the authority cited, which had long ruled the practice of the Court; but they thought it reasonable that the plaintiff should be put under an undertaking to abide by any order as to damages. On such undertaking being given, the usual order was made for payment of money into Court, and for an injunction.

ARMITAGE v. ASHTON.

March 1.

Will—Construction—Gift to A. and the Children of B. born or hereafter to be born—Codicil—Revocation of Will—Settlement of Shares of Children.

Betty Lees, widow, by her will dated the 7th of November, 1863, gave her residuary personal estate to trustees upon trusts for sale and conversion, and upon further trust to stand possessed of the proceeds, as to one fourth part thereof, for her granddaughter, Alice Eva Ashton, when and so soon as she should attain the age of 21 years; and as to the other three fourths, to pay and apply the income thereof for the maintenance, education, and advancement of the children of the testatrix's daughter, Alice Armitage, until they should respectively attain 21 or marry; and so soon as the youngest child of Alice Armitage should attain 21, upon trust to divide the said three fourths among such of the children of Alice Armitage as should be then living, and the issue of such of them as should be then dead, leaving issue, such issue to take the share only to which their parents would have been entitled if living; and the testatrix directed that if Alice Eva Ashton should die under 21 without leaving any children, then the share bequeathed to her should be held upon the same trusts as those declared with respect to the remaining three fourths of the estate. And in case all her said grandchildren should die under 21 in the lifetime of Alice Armitage, without leaving any child or children then surviving who should attain 21, then the testatrix directed the trustees to pay the income of the residuary estate to Alice Armitage during her life for her separate use, and after her death to stand possessed of the corpus in trust for the persons who would be entitled to the estate of Alice Armitage under the Statute of Distributions, in case she had died a spinster and intestate. On the 26th of July, 1865, the testatrix made a codicil to her will in these words:—"I desire my will to be altered so that, instead of my granddaughter, Alice Eva Ashton, receiving one fourth of the trust estate, as therein mentioned, such estate shall be equally divided between the said Alice Eva Ashton and the children now born or hereafter to be born of my daughter, Alice Armitage." The testatrix died on the 27th of July, 1865.

At the date of the will Alice Armitage had three children living; a fourth was born on the 2nd of July, 1864, and a fifth on the 7th of November, 1865.

The suit was instituted for the purpose of ascertaining the persons who were entitled to the residuary estate of the testatrix, and their rights and interests therein. Three questions were raised: (1) whether Alice Eva Ashton was entitled to a moiety of the trust funds, or to an equal share therein, along with the children of Alice Armitage; (2) whether the children of Alice Armitage in esse at the death of the testatrix were alone entitled, or whether children who might thereafter come into existence were to be admitted to share; (3) whether the shares of the children of Alice Armitage were to be settled in the same manner as provided with respect to the three fourths of the estate given by the will.

Woodhouse, for the plaintiff.

Phear, for the defendant, Alice Eva Ashton.

Sladen, for the defendants, the trustees of the will.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held (1) that Alice Eva Ashton took a moiety of the estate; (2) that children in esse at the death of the testatrix (including the child born on the 7th of November, 1865) were alone entitled to share; (3) that the shares of the children were to be settled as provided by the will.

M. R. DARE VALLEY RAILWAY COMPANY v. REYS. March 8.

Lands Clauses Act, s. 23—Award—Reference back to Arbitrator.

On the 1st of August, 1864, the Dare Valley Railway Company served the defendants with the usual notice to treat for a portion of certain lands, of which the defendants were in possession as lessees. On the 1st of January, 1867, the defendants sent particulars of their interest in the lands to the company, and the parties not being able to agree as to the price, the differences between them was referred to two arbitrators, in accordance with the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act. The arbitrators refused to appoint an umpire, and Mr. Clutton was appointed umpire by the Board of Trade. Clutton duly made his award on the 1st of January, 1868; and in April following the defendants moved, before Vice-Chancellor Giffard, to set aside the award; and on the 9th of July, 1868, the Vice-Chancellor made an order, that upon the defendants undertaking not to claim more than 5s. for damage done to the surface of the land bought by the plaintiffs, it should be remitted back to Clutton to reconsider and redetermine the matters referred to him. Since the date of the order no further proceedings had been taken in the matter of the arbitration; but on the 5th of February, 1869, the defendants served the company with a notice requiring that the value of their interest in the lands in question should be settled by the verdict of a jury. Thereupon the company filed this bill to restrain the defendants from proceeding on this notice, or bringing any action to recover the compensation claimed by them.

The defendants demurred.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Freeling, for the demurrer.

Southgate, Q.C., and Field, for the plaintiffs.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that Vice-Chancellor Giffard must have been of opinion that the arbitrator had miscarried, otherwise he could not have referred the matter back. The matter being thus referred back, the arbitrator was bound (under s. 23 of the Lands Clauses Act) to make his award within three months from the date of the order; that had not been done, and the question of compensation must be settled by a jury. The demurrer must, therefore, be allowed.

Liquidators—Division of Remuneration.

This was a summons by Mr. Galsworthy, one of the liquidators of the above-named company, taken out for the purpose of obtaining the opinion of the Court as to the manner in which a sum which had been awarded to him and his co-liquidator, Mr. Graham, by way of remuneration for their services in winding-up the company, ought to be divided between them. Mr. Galsworthy claimed to be allowed a larger share than Mr. Graham, on the ground that he had devoted more time and attention to the matter.

Jessel, Q.C., and Hastings, for Galsworthy.

Southgate, Q.C., and Baldwin Smith, for Graham.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, where two or more persons were appointed joint liquidators, a species of partnership was created; and unless some arrangement was made by the liquidators themselves as to the division of the remuneration, the Court could only divide it equally between them. No order could be made on the summons.

REESE RIVER SILVER MINING COMPANY v. ATWELL.

13 Eliz. c. 5—Fraudulent Deed—Creditor—Pleading.

Joseph Atwell was chairman of the Reese River Silver Mining Company, which was ordered to be wound up on the 28th of May, 1866. On the 23rd of January, 1867, the official liquidator took out a summons in the winding-up that Joseph Atwell and the directors of the company might be ordered to pay into Court a sum of 6000*l.*, alleged to have been improperly paid by them to Peter Aaris, the promoter of the company, out of the assets of the company. The summons was returnable on the 6th of February, 1867, and was adjourned from time to time, and ultimately came on to be heard in Court on the 1st and 6th of May, 1867, when an order was made that Joseph Atwell, Sidney Edward Clarke, and Capel Coape should pay the sum of 6000*l.* into Court. The 6000*l.* was not paid into Court, and Sidney Edward Clarke and Capel Coape were in insolvent circumstances.

By an indenture dated the 13th of February, 1867, Joseph Atwell assigned to trustees (1) a sum of 2000*l.*, part of a mortgage debt of 3000*l.*; (2) a policy of assurance on his life; (3) a debt of 156*l.* 17s.; (4) a leasehold house, No. 72 Bedford Gardens, Kensington, contracted to be purchased by him; (5) 100 shares in the Queen's Hotel Company Limited; (6) a sum of 800*l.* secured by bonds of the Government of Victoria, upon trust to pay out of the income thereof such sums to Joseph Atwell, the settlor, as the trustees might think fit, and subject thereto, upon trusts, as to part thereof, for the benefit of Catherine Atwell, an infant grandchild of the settlor; and as to the residue thereof, for the benefit of Gregory Haines Atwell and William Quin Atwell, children of the settlor. William Quin Atwell was a person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition.

This settlement comprised the whole of the property of the settlor at the date of its execution, with a trifling exception; and this suit was instituted by the company and the official liquidator, seeking to set it aside as fraudulent under the 13 Eliz. c. 5, and to have the property comprised therein sold and applied in payment of the 6000*l.* No steps had been taken to enforce payment thereof from Atwell.

Atwell alleged that the settlement was executed with the view of making a provision for his infant grandchild and imbecile son.

Southgate, Q.C., and Hastings, for the plaintiffs.

Jessel, Q.C. (Bagshaw with him), for one of the trustees, contended that the plaintiffs were not in a position to obtain a decree, not having sued out a writ of elegit as to the leaseholds, or obtained a charging order as to the shares or a garnishee order as to the debts.

Caldecott (Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., with him), for the beneficiaries, urged that there was no evidence of Atwell being insolvent or unable to pay the 6000*l.*, and that the plaintiffs ought to have exhausted their remedies against him before the bill was filed.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the deed was fraudulent, and that it was not necessary that a creditor should have a judgment or other lien on the property comprised in the deed in order to enable him to set it aside; but that the plaintiffs were not entitled to have the property sold or applied in satisfaction of the 6000*l.*, or to have the deed delivered up to be cancelled. The trustees must, however, be ordered to concur in all acts and things necessary for making the property available to satisfy the claims of the plaintiffs and other creditors of Joseph Atwell. His Lordship also was of opinion that the bill ought to be on behalf of the plaintiffs and all other the creditors of Joseph Atwell, and gave leave to amend in this respect.

M. R. In re DYKES' ESTATE. March 9.
Power to Appoint by Deed—Contract of Sale—Defective Execution of Power.

By an indenture dated the 22nd of March, 1844, certain real estate in Cumberland was settled to such uses as F. L. B. Dykes should by deed appoint, and in default, to such uses as F. L. B. Dykes should by will appoint in favour of his children or issue, and in default of any such appointment, to the use of F. L. B. Dykes, and the heirs of his body, with divers remainders over.

In 1862 F. L. B. Dykes, in exercise of the power of appointment vested in him, appointed parts of the real estate, subject to the settlement, to the use of two persons therein named, in fee, by way of security for the payment of a sum of 20,000*l.*, which sum was to be deemed a charge on the estates, and not a personal debt of F. L. B. Dykes.

In 1865 the Maryport and Carlisle Railway Company required for the construction of their line part of the lands subject to the settlement, and also part of certain other lands, to which F. L. B. Dykes was entitled in fee. An agreement of reference to arbitration, dated the 26th of March, 1866, was entered into between F. L. B. Dykes of the one part, and two of the directors of the company of the other part; and this agreement contained recitals, amongst others, that F. L. B. Dykes was the owner of certain lands in Cumberland, parts of which specified in the schedule thereto were required by the company, and that the amount of purchase-money and compensation to be paid to F. L. B. Dykes in respect of the taking of the lands so required had not been ascertained, and that it had been agreed to refer these matters to certain arbitrators and an umpire. The schedule comprised both the lands subject to the settlement and those to which F. L. B. Dykes was entitled in fee; and by the award the sum of 2711*l.* 2*s.* 1*d.* was awarded as the purchase-money for all such lands. Before a conveyance was executed F. L. B. Dykes died, having by his will devised the property contracted to be sold to the railway company to his wife in fee, subject to the equities affecting the same, and having appointed her executrix of the will. In July, 1868, the company paid the purchase-money and the interest thereon into Court. A petition was now presented for payment of the fund out of Court; and the question was whether the portion of the fund which represented the settled property was subject to the trusts of the will of F. L. B. Dykes, or remained subject to the trusts of the settlement.

Jackson, for the executrix of the will and the mortgagees under the deed of 1862.

Fischer, for the infant son of F. L. B. Dykes, tenant in tail under the settlement of 1844.

Droop, for the railway company.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the agreement of the 26th of March, 1866, was a contract to execute the power in the settlement of 1844, which equity would carry into effect; and that the purchase-money, consequently, formed part of the testator's personal estate.

This was a suit for a sale of Arkley Hall Farm, Hertfordshire, and for a distribution of the proceeds among the parties interested, according to their several rights, or for a partition and allotment of the hereditaments among the parties interested.

The property was held under trusts for all the children of William Dodds (who was tenant for life, and now deceased) as tenants in common. The defendant Laura Dodds, one of the children of William Dodds, was an infant, and by reason of her disability the parties interested in the property were unable to make any sale or partition without the assistance of the Court. All the parties interested were plaintiffs (who represented one moiety of the property, and who desired a sale) or defendants, excepting one child of William Dodds, now a married woman, whose share was vested in trustees.

W. C. Druce, for the plaintiffs, asked for an order for sale or partition, and referred to ss. 4 & 9 of 31 & 32 Vict. c. 40.

E. P. C. Hanson, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said all the parties interested must be plaintiffs or defendants before a decree could be made, directed the cause to stand over, and gave leave to amend by adding parties.

This was a suit by a creditors' assignee in bankruptcy of a mortgagor against the mortgagee, who had under a power in the mortgage deed sold the property, for, inter alia, accounts of the rents and of the proceeds of the sale. The evidence shewed, in the view of the Court, that the mortgagee entered into possession of the property, and that he had sold it under circumstances which made it impossible to expect that full or even a fair value could be obtained.

Sargood (Serjt.) and Ince, for the plaintiff.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Jackson, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said, the question was whether, in directing the accounts to which the plaintiff was clearly entitled, there should be a particular direction with reference to the manner in which the sale of the property had been effected; and declared that, having regard to the particulars of sale and the course which had been pursued in offering the property for sale, the same was not sold under circumstances calculated to produce the best price that could reasonably be obtained, and ordered that the chief clerk should ascertain and certify whether the money produced by the sale was a fair and proper price, or more or less than the sum that would have been fixed if there had been a reserved price, in case the property had been sold under the direction of the Court; and also ordered that the defendant should be charged with so much that the chief clerk should ascertain and certify was a less sum than would have been fixed for a reserved bid as aforesaid.

In November, 1868, an amendment was made to an order whereby general powers of leasing coal mines, quarries, and minerals in or under the whole or any part of the settled estates (called Asholme), devised by the will of Lord Wallace, or which are now or may become subject to the trusts of the will, in conformity with the Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Acts, were vested in the lessors, trustees under the will.

Osborne Morgan now applied, ex parte, that the order might be again amended by adding words giving "general powers to grant way-leave leases, either in connection with or independent of such leases," and "leases of way-leaves in, under, or over the whole or any part of the said settled estates, whether the same estates be, or be not, part of the Asholme estates, either for the convenient working of all or any such coal mines, quarries, or minerals aforesaid, or for purposes independent thereof, or unconnected therewith," and referred to 19 & 20 Vict. c. 120, s. 2. The object of the amendment was to enable the lessees to carry coals gotten from other estates over these settled estates.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed the words, "and for the purposes of such leases, to grant way-leaves over any part of the said settled estates," to be added to the order.

V.-C. M. BYDEN v. WILLETT. Feb. 25.

Construction of Will—"Leaving" read "having" "such Issue."

A testator devised and bequeathed the residue of his real and personal estate to trustees, to convert the same into money, and invest in government or real securities, and to pay one equal fourth part or share of the dividends unto each of his four sisters, all married women, during their lives; and when and so soon as either of them should die without leaving issue, then the share of such sister so dying without issue to be divisible among the survivors or survivor, and the issue of any who might then be dead, in equal shares, but such issue to take only their parent's share therein. And when and so soon as either or any of his said married sisters should depart this life, and leave issue, then upon trust to call in the original and accruing share or shares in the said money of her or them so dying leaving issue, and pay the same unto such respective issue, if more than one child, equally to be divided between them for their respective absolute benefit.

One of the testator's sisters died, having had two children. One of the children died before her mother, leaving three children surviving.

The question was whether the child who so died was entitled to a moiety of her mother's share in the testator's estate.

Pearson, Q.C., and Currey, for the surviving daughter of the testator's deceased sister.

Cotton, Q.C., and Lau, for the children of the deceased daughter.

Windle, for another party.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the words "leaving issue" must be read "having issue," and held that the property vested in the two daughters of the testator's deceased sister, and that the children of the one who died before her mother were entitled to their mother's share.

Solicitors: Senior, Attree, & Johnson.

V.-C. M. BULMER v. HUNTER. March 2.

Ante-nuptial Settlement set aside for Fraud.

In the year 1847, the plaintiff lent the defendant R. Hunter 150*l.* on his promissory note, bearing interest. R. Hunter paid the interest up to August, 1862, but not afterwards, and consequently the plaintiff, on the 25th of January, 1867, commenced an action for the amount due for principal and interest. On the 12th of February, 1867, notice of trial was given to the defendant. On the 15th of February, the defendant R. Hunter, in contemplation of a marriage with the defendant Sarah Pounder, settled the whole of his property upon trust for Sarah Pounder for life, and afterwards for his son by a former marriage, and who was one of the trustees, absolutely. The marriage took place between them on the 18th of February.

On the 1st of March the plaintiff recovered a verdict in the action. On the 14th of May R. Hunter was arrested and committed to prison, and on the 17th of July was adjudicated a bankrupt, the plaintiff being appointed assignee of his estate.

The bill alleged that Sarah Pounder had lived alone with R. Hunter since the year 1856, and that they cohabited together as man and wife from that period down to the time of their marriage; and it prayed a declaration that the settlement was executed by R. Hunter with intent to defraud his creditors, and was therefore fraudulent and void.

Bagshawe, for the plaintiff.

Herbert Smith, for the defendants, the husband, wife, and trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was clearly established that the consideration of marriage could not be made the means of committing a fraud. He was satisfied, from the evidence in this case, that the parties were cohabiting together as man and wife, and that there was no contemplation of marriage till after the notice of the action, which the defendant knew would result in a verdict against him, and the intended wife was cognizant of all the circumstances. The object evidently was to commit a fraud upon the creditor; and the settlement must be declared void. The plaintiff's costs to be paid by the defendant R. Hunter. No costs to the other defendants.

This was a suit instituted against the defendant railway company for specific performance of an agreement to purchase certain land which the company had already taken possession of under the powers of their Act. Pearson, Q.C., and Fry, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Winterbotham, for the defendant railway company.

Cotton, Q.C., and Speed, for the Midland Railway Company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was admitted there must be a decree for specific performance, and he was of opinion that, as the Midland Railway Company were in possession of the railway under parliamentary powers of working the railway and receiving the tolls, they were properly made parties, and must pay their own costs.

V.-C. M. STUART v. COOKERELL. March 5.

Construction of Will—Remoteness.

Elizabeth Edgley Hewer, who died in 1785, by her will gave all her real and personal property to trustees, to convert and invest the same upon Government securities, and to pay the dividends thereof to Sir Simeon Stuart for life, and after his decease, upon trust to pay the dividends to the eldest son of Sir Simeon Stuart (then unborn) for his life; and after the decease of such eldest son, to pay the same dividends to Elizabeth Stuart for life; and after the decease of the survivor of them, the said Sir Simeon Stuart, his eldest son, and Elizabeth Stuart, then upon trust to pay and transfer the said Government securities unto all the children of the said Sir Simeon Stuart, share and share alike, if more than one, and if but one, then to such one child, and the child or children of such of the children as should be dead.

Sir Simeon Stuart died in 1816, leaving Sir Simeon Henry Stuart, his eldest son, who was born in 1790, and the petitioner, his only children. Elizabeth Stuart died in 1846. Sir Simeon Henry Stuart died in 1868, leaving six children.

The petitioner prayed that he might be declared entitled to the whole of the fund included in the above devise, or, if not, then to a proportion of the property, as next of kin of the testatrix.

For the respondents it was contended that all the gifts after the life estate to the eldest son of Sir Simeon Stuart were void for remoteness.

Cotton, Q.C., and Riddell, for the petitioner.

Shapter, Q.C., and Woodroffe, for a person claiming under Sir Simeon Henry Stuart.

Fleming, Q.C., Wickens, and Cottrell, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the life interest to the unborn son of Sir Simeon Stuart would have caused no difficulty if those who were to take in remainder, subject to that life interest, could have been ascertained with certainty within the allowed period of a life or lives in being at the death of the testator, and twenty-one years after; but the gift was to a class of persons, consisting of the children and grandchildren of Sir Simeon Stuart, who should be living at the death of the survivor of the three persons named. That necessarily postponed the ascertainment of the class to take, and, consequently, the vesting of the property till after the expiration of a life not in being at the death of the testator; and the gift was void for remoteness.

Construction of Will—Substitution for Parents.

George Potter by his will, dated in August, 1830, gave all the residue of his estate and effects to trustees to pay the interest to his daughter for life, and after her decease to pay, distribute, and divide his estate and effects, as to one fourth part or share thereof, to his nephews and nieces, the children of his late sister, Mary Lamb, in equal shares and proportions as tenants in common; and in case of the death of any of his said nephews or nieces leaving issue, then he directed that such issue should take the share that his, her, or their deceased parent would have taken if living. Some of the testator's nephews and nieces died before the date of the will, leaving children. One died after the date of the will, and before the testator's death, leaving children, and the others survived the testator.

W. Pearson, for the children of one of the nephews who survived the testator.

Mackeson, Q.C., for the child of a nephew who was dead at the date of the will.

Chitty, for the children of a niece who died in the interval between the date of the will and the death of the testator.

J. Hinde Palmer, Q.C., for another party interested.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR referred to the numerous authorities that had been cited, and in commenting upon Christopherson v. Naylor (1 Mer. 320) said that the case had been for many years a standard authority on the subject; but his opinion was that it had always done violence to the intention of testators. Vice-Chancellor Stuart had in terms overruled that case; and His Honour's opinion was that that case could no longer be treated as law. He should therefore decide that the children of nephews or nieces, who were dead at the date of the will, and of those who died after the will was made, and before the testator's death, would take by substitution the share which their parents, if living, would have taken.

Copyright—Registration—Date of First Publication—Demurrer—Costs.

Frederick Lillywhite composed and published a sheet of letter-paper, entitled "Lillywhite & Sons' Registered Cricket-Scoring Paper," and the same was registered under the Copyright Act in March, 1851. Upon a dissolution of partnership between F. Lillywhite and others in 1863, the Cricket-Scoring Sheet was re-registered, and the date of first publication was entered the 26th of May, 1863.

F. Lillywhite became bankrupt in 1866, when the copyright in the scoring sheet was sold by the assignee in bankruptcy to the plaintiff for 20*l*. The aforesaid scoring sheet contained (according to the evidence) an addition to the common scoring sheets in ordinary use, of a column for setting down "the total of runs at the fall of each wicket," and also a tablet for registering an analysis of bowling, which was the principal feature in the plaintiff's publication.

The defendant was selling a scoring sheet which, in addition to the common matter, contained the column for "total of runs at the fall of each wicket," but not the analysis of bowling.

The bill was filed for an injunction to restrain the publication by the defendant of his scoring sheet.

Glasse, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff.

Chitty, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the only novelty in the plaintiff's publication being a column for the "total of runs," it was too insignificant to be the subject of a copyright; but, assuming there could be a copyright in such a work, then the entry on the register giving the date of first publication as the 26th of May, 1863, was erroneous, since it was the same publication as that which was registered in 1851. This objection was fatal to the plaintiff's right to sue. The bill must, therefore, be dismissed with costs, including the costs of the motion.

MAITLAND v. CHARTERED MERCANTILE BANK OF INDIA.

March 5.

Bills of Exchange—Marginal Letters of Credit.

The plaintiffs, London correspondents of Fletcher & Co., of Shanghai, in 1861 agreed with the defendants, the National Bank of Scotland, that the bank should grant to Fletcher & Co. marginal letters of credit. This was done in the following way:—Bills were drawn at Shanghai by Fletcher & Co. upon Glyn & Co. Annexed to each bill was a memorandum addressed to Fletcher & Co., China, in these terms:—"I hereby, for the National Bank of Scotland, authorize you to draw the annexed bill of exchange at months' sight, for £ sterling, on Messrs. Glyn & Co., bankers, London, who will honour the same in conformity with its tenor, if presented along with this letter of credit. THOMAS ANDERSON, Secretary."

The bill alleged that in 1863 the defendant Gilfillan, then a clerk of and a partner in Fletcher & Co., on behalf of himself, one Webster, Laidlaw, then the bookkeeper of the firm, and a Chinaman, purchased a ship on private speculation, which was paid for out of moneys advanced by the Shanghai branch of the defendants, the Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London, and China. To secure the bank, securities were given which were renewed, and finally became a promissory note for 40,000 taels, dated the 25th of April, 1864, signed by Gilfillan, and endorsed to the bank by a partner of Fletcher & Co. in the name of the firm. Before this fell due, another renewal of the security was made in the form of a promissory note for 40,000 taels, signed by a partner of the defendants Fletcher & Co., who were a new firm, which had in the meantime succeeded to the old firm of Fletcher & Co., and of seven drafts on Glyn & Co., signed by the same partner in favour of the bank for 14,000*l*. Of these drafts five were some which had been procured by the plaintiffs under the above agreement with the National Bank of Scotland.

Plaintiffs filed this bill against the Chartered Bank, the new firm of Fletcher & Co., Glyn & Co., and the National Bank of Scotland, stating that, if Glyn & Co. should pay the drafts, the plaintiffs would be liable; and praying that the five drafts now held by the first defendants might be delivered up to be cancelled, and for injunctions against the other defendants.

Cotton, Q.C., and Methold, for the plaintiffs.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Willcock, Q.C., and Bouring, for the Chartered Bank.

De Gez, Q.C., and Stirling, for Fletcher & Co.

Druce, Q.C., for Glyn & Co.

Druce, Q.C., and W. Morris, for the National Bank.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, without hearing the defendants, said that the plaintiffs' bill had entirely failed. Every question in the case was ruled by In re Agra and Masterman's Bank (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 391). Independently of that authority, the terms of these instruments showed that they were contracts to pay the holder.

The bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. HALL v. HARGREAVES. March 6.

Production of Documents—Partnership.

Adjourned summons for the purpose of compelling production by the defendants of certain plans, sections, and accounts relating to collieries in Lancashire, worked in partnership by the plaintiff and defendants, under a licence from the Duke of Buccleuch, which expired in March, 1867, and had been renewed for an additional term in favour of the defendants, who had excluded the plaintiff from all participation in the business, and treated the partnership as dissolved from the 25th of March, 1867.

The bill prayed a declaration that the partnership was not dissolved on that day, and that, in any event, proper accounts might be taken, with liberty to the plaintiff to surcharge and falsify; that a receiver might be appointed, and the defendants enjoined from getting in or dealing with the partnership assets, or interfering with the collieries.

By the answer it was submitted that the partnership between the defendants and plaintiff was a partnership at will, capable of being dissolved at any moment; that the same was properly dissolved on the 25th of March, 1867 (since when the plaintiff had never acted as a partner with them), and that he had assented to a recital to that effect in an agreement for a reference to arbitration of all matters in difference between himself and the defendants.

It was admitted that the defendants had, since the termination of the old licence, worked the collieries, and used in such working the plant on them when the licence terminated. They declined to give the plaintiff any benefit of the profits made by such working, but had made their own valuation, from the plaintiff not appointing any valuer to act for him, of the machinery, plant, buildings, and stores, which valuation was open to the inspection of the plaintiff.

Summonses had been taken out by the plaintiff for the production of documents, including: 1. A set of plans, which were handed by the defendants to the agents of the Duke of Buccleuch after bill filed, but were not mentioned in the affidavit as to documents. 2. A set of plans still held by the defendants, over which they alleged a right in the duke to prohibit inspection of them by any third party. 3. Books of account of the dealings with the mines since March, 1867, when the new licence was granted to the defendants by the Duke of Buccleuch.

The contest was confined to No. 3, the plaintiff insisting upon his right of inspection, which was resisted by the defendants, on the ground that the plaintiff ceased to be a partner in March, 1867, and that these books and plans had no reference whatever to any works done prior to that date, and would not evidence any of the matters in question in the suit.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Bedwell, for the plaintiff. Little, Q.C., Pearson, Q.C., and Lindley, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiff was entitled to the production of the books of account, &c. relating to the working of the collieries since March, 1867, as it was a discovery of profits made by the use of his capital since that period.

V.-C. J. HALDANE v. ECKFORD. March 6.

Practice—Production of Documents—Contempt—Form of Summons.

Adjourned summons, requiring the plaintiff, who as one of the executors, had filed the bill for administration of his testator's estate, to make the usual affidavit as to documents.

The testator (whose domicile was an important question in the suit) left assets in France, India, and other places, and appointed four executors, two of whom were resident in Jersey. The Jersey executors had appeared in the suit, but were in contempt for refusing to obey various orders of the Court made upon them from time to time, directing them to concur with the other executors in executing powers of attorney and other acts to enable the receiver appointed in the suit to get in the outstanding estate.

Attachments had been issued against them.

Eddis, in support of the application.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Crossley, for the plaintiff, objected that defendants being in contempt, not for non-payment of costs, but for defiance of the process of the Court, by disregarding orders which they were perfectly able to comply with, were not entitled to the order.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, although the contempts committed were of the most flagrant character, yet these documents, being required by the defendants for the purpose of defending themselves, he had no jurisdiction to refuse the order.

It being then mentioned that the plaintiff had obtained an order upon these defendants to make a similar affidavit, it was ordered that, within seven days after the defendants should have made a full and sufficient affidavit as to documents, the plaintiff should make an affidavit as to documents.

Upon the form of the summons:

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that after decree (as here) the summons should specify particularly the points as to which discovery of documents was required, and in this case the summons must be confined to documents relating to the inquiries as to domicile and next of kin.

BURRELL v. SMITH.

Mortgage—Sub-mortgage—Death of Mortgagor—Sale by Executors to Mortgagor—Foreclosure—Disclaimer—Claim of Sub-mortgagor against Mortgagor's Estate.

In 1862 Burrell, the owner of a lease for twenty-one years from the 3rd of April, 1860, of a hotel, mortgaged it by assignment to Deakin, to secure 3000*l.* and interest. In 1863 Deakin sub-mortgaged the debt and house, by demise of the term less three days, to Eyton, to secure 1200*l.* and interest. In 1863 Burrell died, and this suit was instituted against his executors for administration. In the suit Deakin and Eyton claimed for 3000*l.* and interest.

In 1864 the defendants, the executors, contracted to sell to Deakin for 900*l.*, and Deakin was let into possession. In the same year Deakin made a second sub-mortgage of the debt and premises to a loan company. In 1866 Deakin executed a deed of assignment to trustees for the benefit of his creditors, which was duly registered. In 1867 Eyton filed a bill in the Palatine Court against the trustees and the loan company for foreclosure. In May, 1867, the trustees ceased to carry on business, and in June, 1867, they disclaimed all interest. The loan company were foreclosed. Since May, 1867, the hotel had been unoccupied, and the original lessors had entered.

The claim, now of Eyton alone, was adjourned into Court.

Druce, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for Eyton.

Kay, Q.C., and Coxen-Hardy, for the plaintiff in the administration suit, opposed the claim.

Boyle, for the defendants, the executors.

The Court ruled that he could not be heard.

Kay in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Eyton's claim could not be prejudiced by the sale to Deakin, nor by the foreclosure suit, nor by the non-payment of rent. He was in no default, not being under any obligation to pay rents or perform covenants. The default was on the part of the mortgagor. Claim allowed to the extent of the amount due on the sub-mortgage; Eyton to add his costs to his debt; plaintiff to have his costs out of the estate; defendants to have no costs.

P. & M. B. v. L. (FALSELY CALLED B.) March 2.
Nullity of Marriage—Order for Inspection of Person—Refusal to Submit—Attachment—Practice.

This was a suit for nullity of marriage by reason of the malformation of the respondent. On the 16th of June, 1868, the Judge Ordinary made the usual order appointing inspectors to examine the person of the respondent, and to report whether she had any impediment to prevent the consummation of marriage. This order was personally served upon her, but on the 11th of September, 1868, through her attorney, she formally declined to submit to any examination. On the 1st of February, 1869, another copy of the order was served upon her, and she was informed that if she did not obey it an application would be made for an attachment against her, but she absolutely refused to comply.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., now moved for an attachment, which he agreed should remain in the registry until after the petition had been heard. Possibly it would be found that the evidence would satisfy the Court without enforcing the order for inspection.

THE JUDGE ORDINARY thought the better course would be for the motion to stand over until the hearing, but if the respondent attempted to leave the jurisdiction, the attachment would be granted at once.

Attorney: T. H. Dixon.

P. & M. TOPPER v. TOPPER. March 2.
Dissolution of Marriage—Cruelty and Adultery—Condonation.

This was a suit for dissolution of marriage brought by the wife, by reason of the adultery and cruelty of the respondent, who traversed the charges.

Dr. Tristram, for the petitioner.

Pritchard, for the respondent.

THE JUDGE ORDINARY:—I think the evidence in this case fails. The parties lived together for ten years; during that time the petitioner speaks of two or three occasions upon which respondent used some violence to her. On no occasion, in my judgment, is it established that he did her any serious hurt, and I believe her statements to be exaggerated. These isolated acts, not accompanied with any general ill-treatment, and of no very serious nature, do not establish a case of legal cruelty. But, further, the last act of cruelty imputed took place at Easter, 1863, and the petitioner continued to cohabit with respondent until February, 1864, and then left him because she was jealous of a female servant. The cruelty therefore, if any, was condoned, and cannot now be relied upon, unless revived by subsequent adultery, which, however, has not been proved. It was proposed, after the case had been closed and the Court had taken time to consider its decision, that the petitioner should be re-examined to prove further acts of cruelty calculated to take off the effect of the condonation. But on the trial she had been several times asked if the occurrence which took place at Easter, 1863, was the last act of which she had to complain, to which she had uniformly answered in the affirmative. Moreover, on turning to the petition, I find that Easter, 1863, is the latest date given for an act of cruelty. I therefore think the further evidence ought not to be received; and as the evidence on neither of the two charges is sufficient to sustain the petition, it must be dismissed.

Proctor for petitioner: Ring.

Proctor for respondent: Brooks.

GENERAL ORDER

OF THE

HIGH COURT OF CHANCERY,

AS TO

AMENDMENT OF GENERAL ORDER OF MARCH 21, 1868.

Tuesday, the 2nd day of March, 1869.

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE WILLIAM PAGE BARON HATHERLEY, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, with the advice and consent of the RIGHT HONOURABLE JOHN LORD ROMILLY, Master of the Rolls, the HONOURABLE the VICE-CHANCELLOR SIR JOHN STUART, the HONOURABLE the VICE-CHANCELLOR SIR RICHARD MALINS, and the HONOURABLE the VICE-CHANCELLOR SIR WILLIAM MILBOURN JAMES, doth hereby, in pursuance and execution of the powers given to him by "The Companies Act, 1867," and of all other powers and authorities enabling him in that behalf, order and direct in manner following:—

The General Order of the 21st of March, 1868, shall from henceforth take effect and be read as if the following rules had been inserted therein, instead of rules 8 and 14 thereof.

8. Copies of such list containing the names and addresses of the creditors, and the total amount due to them, but omitting the amounts due to them respectively, or (as the judge shall think fit) complete copies of such list, shall be kept at the registered office of the company and at the offices of their solicitors and London agents (if any), and any person desirous of inspecting the same may at any time during the ordinary hours of business inspect and take extracts from the same, on payment of the sum of 1s.

14. The result of the settlement of the list of creditors shall be stated in a certificate by the chief clerk, and such certificate shall state what debts or claims (if any) have been disallowed, and shall distinguish the debts or claims the full amount of which the company are willing to set apart and appropriate, and the debts or claims (if any) the amount of which has been fixed by inquiry and adjudication in manner provided by section 14 of the said Act, and the debts or claims (if any) the full amount of which is not admitted by the company, nor such as the company are willing to set apart and appropriate, and the amount of which has not been fixed by inquiry and adjudication as aforesaid; and shall shew which of the creditors have consented in writing to the proposed reduction, and the total amount of the debts due to them, and the total amount of the debts or claims, the payment of which has been secured in manner provided by the said 14th section, and the persons to or by whom the same are due or claimed, but it shall not be necessary to shew in such certificate the several amounts of the debts or claims of any persons who have consented in writing to the proposed reduction, or the payment of whose debts or claims have been secured as aforesaid.

 THE LORD ADVOCATE OF SCOTLAND, APP.;
 WALTER STEVENSON, RESP.

Succession Duty—Inland Revenue—Beneficial Interest in Possession.
 Miss Janet Finlay, owner of a house in Edinburgh, died on the 5th of June 1862, leaving Miss Williamina Finlay—a younger and only sister—her surviving heiress-at-law.

Four months afterwards, on the 22nd of September 1862, Miss Williamina herself died, having made her last will and settlement, which, however, as a conveyance of the house in question, was ineffectual and inoperative, the instrument having been executed on death-bed.

In these circumstances the respondent claimed the house as nearest heir of Miss Janet; passing over Miss Williamina, who had neither derived any benefit from the property, nor made up any title to it, nor had she done anything to incur representation.

The respondent, in December 1862, completed his title to the house by a writ of clare constat duly registered; and having then taken possession, he subsequently, at Whit Sunday 1863, received the rent of the preceding half year, that is to say, the rent from the 11th of November 1862, to the 15th of May 1863—the prior rents having belonged exclusively to the executors of Janet Finlay; so that Williamina could not have come into possession or derived any benefit from the succession, she having died nearly two months before her right could have become available.

When a year had expired from Whit Sunday 1863, the respondent paid to the Inland Revenue Office at Edinburgh the two first half-yearly instalments of duty exigible from him as successor (not of Miss Williamina, but) of Miss Janet Finlay. The Board of Revenue, however, insisted that Mr. Stevenson took the house as the successor of Miss Williamina, who herself had succeeded Miss Janet; thus making out that, not one, but two successions were to be accounted for.

The Court of Session gave judgment in favour of the respondent, holding that Williamina's succession was imaginary, and that the respondent's succession was to Janet alone.

 ELLEN DARSIE, APP.; SCRALES, RESP.
Alleged Scotch Marriage, by Acknowledgment and Reputation.

The contention of the appellant was that, in 1852 or 1853, the parties had become husband and wife by mutual consent, and that their subsequent conduct, with the consequent repute and certain specific acknowledgments, were sufficient by the law of Scotland to establish the matrimonial relation.

The answer was, that the proofs disclosed an immoral connection carried on with external decency, but falling short of what the Scotch law required to constitute a marriage.

The Court of Session gave judgment against the appellant, who appeared before the House in formâ pauperis.

Brand and Junner, for the appellant.

H. L. COLLINGWOOD v. STANHOPE. March 9.
Eldest Son—Clause of Exclusion.

The manor of North Dissington had been devised to Edward Collingwood for life, remainder to his sons successively in tail male. The will contained a proviso that if any person to whom an estate was thereinbefore limited should come into possession of certain estates comprised in the marriage settlement of the devisee, the limitations in favour of such person should cease, and the North Dissington property go over to the person next beneficially entitled in remainder. He married, and on the marriage a settlement was made, in one part of which provision was made for the younger children of the marriage, the father or mother, or the survivor, being entitled to appoint it. One portion of this provision consisted of policies on the life of Edward Collingwood, the premiums of which were to be secured by a term created on the North Dissington property. The trust-funds were, in the absence of appointment, to be divided equally among the children other than an eldest son entitled to the Dissington property.

The marriage took place, and there were three children, a son and two daughters. One of these daughters, Arabella, married a Mr. Calthrop; and on her marriage half of the trust-fund was settled on her. The other daughter, the present appellant, was unmarried.

By deeds, to which the father and son were parties, the estate tail in the Dissington estate, under the will, was barred; new arrangements were made, and the father was made tenant for life, and the son tenant for life in remainder, with remainder in tail to his issue, and a sum of 500*l.* a year was given to him during the life of his father. The policies were assigned to trustees under the trusts of the father's marriage settlement. Edward Collingwood, the father, died in 1866, having made no farther appointment of the trust-fund than that which he had made on the marriage of his daughter Arabella. Disputes having arisen as to the disposition of the second moiety of the trust-fund, the trustees filed a bill against all the necessary parties, asking for the direction of the Court upon the matter. The cause was heard before Vice-Chancellor Wood, who, in July, 1867, declared that it was to be equally divided between the son and his sister, for that, in the events that had happened, the son was not excluded from a share in the personal estate.

This was an appeal against that decision.

L. C. CHARLTON v. EARL OF DURHAM. March 17.
Executor or Trustee—Receipt by One Executor—Forgery.

The trustees of the Earl of Durham borrowed 5000*l.* from one Glaholm, who died shortly before the earl attained 21. The earl on coming of age undertook the liability, and gave to the two executors of Glaholm a bond for the payment of the 5000*l.* Some years afterwards he paid off 2500*l.*, and in 1862, on the application of Wilson, one of the executors, he sent to Wilson a cheque for the remaining 2500*l.*, and received back the bond apparently signed by both executors, but in fact only by Wilson, who had forged the signature of the other executor and took the money. The forgery was afterwards discovered, and the other executor and the persons interested under the will filed the bill in this suit against the Earl of Durham, claiming payment of the second 2500*l.* as having been improperly paid to Wilson.

The Vice-Chancellor James dismissed the bill with costs, and the plaintiff appealed.

Kuy, Q.C., and Hadden, for the plaintiff.

Druce, Q.C., and Chitty, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that, though the Earl of Durham might have intended, as was usual, to have the receipt of two executors, the receipt of one was in fact sufficient. It had been argued that at the time when the payment was made all the testator's debts had been paid, and the executors had become trustees; but it was not proved that the Earl of Durham had notice of this, and he had a right to treat them still as executors.

The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

BRITISH EQUITABLE ASSURANCE COMPANY v. GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Policy of Life Assurance—Invalidity—Suppression of material Fact.

This was an appeal from a decree of Vice-Chancellor Malins (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 261).

The bill was filed by the plaintiffs against the defendants, who were assignees of a policy of assurance upon the life of John Bird, effected in the plaintiffs' company, praying that the policy might be declared void, and delivered up to the plaintiffs, on the ground that the insured had, between the time of his answering the questions as to his health on the occasion of his making a proposal for the policy, and the time of the payment of the first premium, become aware that he was afflicted with a dangerous disease, and that he had not communicated that fact to the insurance company. The insured died eight months after the policy was effected.

The case turned upon the evidence as to the information suppressed by the insured regarding his state of health, the defendants contending that he did not suppose himself in any danger, and they submitted that the validity of the policy was a question which ought to be determined at law.

The Vice-Chancellor, being of opinion that the insured had suppressed a material fact, granted the relief prayed.

The defendants appealed.

Pearson, Q.C., and T. Stevens, for the appellants.

Glasse, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the plaintiffs, were not called on.

Rowcliffe, for the widow of the insured.

THE LORDS JUSTICES dismissed the appeal with costs.

L. J. J. Crow v. PETTINGILL. March 16.
Mortgage—Payment by Heir-apparent of mortgaged Property—Presumption.

This was an appeal by the defendant from a decree of Vice-Chancellor Stuart (ante, p. 26).

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Dickinson, Q.C., and North, for the appellant.

Greene, Q.C., and Bird, for the plaintiff.

THEIR LORDSHIPS assented to the views of the Vice-Chancellor as to the rules of law applicable to the case, but differed from his view of the result of the evidence. Their Lordships considered that the conduct of the son shewed the understanding between the parties to have been that the money should be advanced by the son for the purpose of satisfying the mortgage, and that he should not have any charge upon the estate or claim against his father in respect of it.

 TANN v. TANN.
 GRAVATT v. TANN. (No. 1).

Agreement for Partition—Death of Co-owner—Costs of Partition.

In 1831 fourteen freehold houses were purchased by Edward Tann and James Lill, and were conveyed, as to one undivided moiety thereof, to uses to bar dower in favour of Edward Tann, and, as to the other undivided moiety thereof, to uses to bar dower in favour of James Lill.

Shortly afterwards an agreement for partition was entered into between Tann and Lill, and Tann entered into possession of seven of the houses and Lill of the others, but no deed of partition was executed. Lill predeceased Tann; and Tann, by his will, devised three of the seven houses of which he was in possession to James Tann, and the remaining four to John Tann, and he appointed James and John Tann executors. The legal estate in Edward Tann's moiety of the houses in the possession of Lill passed to Edward Tann's heir-at-law.

A deed of partition having been executed by all parties interested in the property, the question arose whether the costs incurred by James and John Tann in reference thereto were to be borne by them personally, or by the estate of Edward Tann.

Jessel, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for James and John Tann.

Southgate, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs in Gravatt v. Tann.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the costs must be borne by James and John Tann personally as the devisees of the property.

 TANN v. TANN.
 GRAVATT v. TANN. (No. 2).

Administration Suit—Estate partly Administered—Costs.

Edward Tann died in 1862, having by his will appointed his sons, James and John Tann, executors. He left fifty-five persons interested in his residuary estate, of whom thirty-one were adults and twenty-four infants. In 1864 the executors accounted for and divided the residuary estate among the adults, who joined in a release to the executors. The share of each infant amounted to 65*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* Of this 10*l.* was set apart to form an indemnity fund against the claims of certain grandchildren of the testator, who were supposed to be in Australia, and who had not been taken into account in making the distribution; the residue was invested in the name of the child entitled thereto and the executors in a Post Office Savings Bank.

In 1866 the suit of Gravatt v. Tann was instituted by six infant grandchildren of the testator who were interested in the testator's residuary estate. The object of the suit was to obtain administration of the estate. No application was made to the executors for any account or explanation previously to the institution of the suit. Some delay having taken place in the prosecution of the suit, the ordinary administration decree was obtained on a summons in January, 1867; and in March, 1867, an order was made staying all proceedings in Gravatt v. Tann, but the plaintiffs in that suit were to have the conduct of the cause.

Under an order, the indemnity fund, amounting to 400*l.*, was paid into Court. The result of the accounts and inquiries was, that the accounts rendered by the executors, on which the division made in 1864 was founded, were found to be substantially correct. The suits now came on to be heard on further consideration, and the question was how the costs were to be borne.

Southgate, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs in Gravatt v. Tann.

Jessel, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for the executors.

Langley, Higgins, and R. W. E. Forster, for other parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the costs must come out of the fund in Court, but that no person who had been paid his share of residue should have any costs without bringing in and accounting for the share so paid. This would extend to the executors who had retained their shares of residue; but if there was any surplus after payment of the costs of the plaintiffs and other persons who might be entitled to costs, that surplus was to be paid to the executors in satisfaction of their costs of suit.

V.-C. S. PEARSON v. BRIGGS. March 8.
Wife's Interest in Moiety of Real Estate—Devise by Husband of Entirety for the Benefit of his Wife for Life—Enjoyment by Wife of Benefits under the Will—Election—Claim by Heir-at-law of Right to Elect refused.

In 1827 real estate, subject to a mortgage, devolved on the death of John Pearson, intestate, upon his two daughters, one of whom (Ann) was the wife of William Pearson, and the other (Mary), in 1828, sold her moiety to William Pearson. There was no evidence to shew that Ann ever sold or conveyed her moiety to her husband, but for many years before his death he considered himself the absolute owner of the entirety, subject to the mortgage. William Pearson by will, in 1859, appointed his wife and a son executrix and executor, and gave them all his farming stock and interest in and cropping of the farm in trust for the benefit of his wife for life, and after her death, in trust to sell and divide amongst his sons and daughters named; and he also gave all his other personal estate upon trust, after paying off the mortgage debt, to employ the surplus in carrying on his business of maltster for the benefit of his wife for life, and after her death such surplus was to be divided among such sons and daughters; and he devised the entirety of the real estate above referred to, to his wife for life, and after her death for sale and division of proceeds amongst such children.

The testator died on the 19th of January, 1862, and his eldest son, William, on the 27th of that month, intestate. The widow of the testator died in February, 1866. The bill was filed for administration of the estate.

The chief clerk, in pursuance of an inquiry, certified that the widow was entitled to a moiety of the estate; that after her husband's death she entered into the receipt of the rents and profits of the whole of the estate; and that, though the amount received during her life was not equal to the value of her moiety, yet that, under the circumstances, she must be deemed to have elected to accept the provision made for her by the will.

This was a summons on behalf of the infant defendant, George Pearson, the eldest son of William Pearson, and grandson of the testator and of his widow, and heir-at-law of all, to vary the certificate, on the ground that the widow did not elect, and that he had a right to elect.

Greene, Q.C., and Bowring, for the infant.

Dickinson, Q.C., and C. T. Simpson, for the plaintiffs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR declared that, having regard to the acts and conduct of the widow, the infant had not a right to elect to take a moiety of the estate as her heir-at-law.

V.-C. S. WRIGHT v. TANNER. March 9.

Articles of Partnership—Agreement by an Infant to Contribute to Capital—Division of Profits amongst all the Partners—Dissolution—Non-liability of Infant—Costs.

A partnership was entered into in July, 1867, between the plaintiff and the defendants, Tanner, Way, Pountney, and Coling, for the purpose of working a patent for the manufacture of "Diphosphate" of lime. The plaintiff agreed to contribute 5000*l.*, and Pountney and Coling each 2500*l.* Tanner and Way agreed to conduct the business, and for skill and services the former was to be paid 500*l.* and the latter 250*l.* a year. The plaintiff was to keep the books, and be paid 250*l.*; Pountney was to render services, and be paid 150*l.* The profits, after providing for 5 per cent. per annum on the contributed capital, was to be divided into five equal parts, three of which was to be paid to Tanner and Way, and two to the partners contributing capital, till the capital should be increased to 15,000*l.*

Pountney was at the time an infant of about 20 years of age, but that was not known to the plaintiff.

The partnership not being successful, a decree was by consent (on a motion coming on for an injunction) made in April, 1868, on a bill filed the previous month, for a dissolution.

It was asked by the bill that all the defendants should contribute towards the losses, and that Tanner (he having introduced Pountney to the plaintiff) should contribute not only for himself but for Pountney, if he did not; Coling did not dispute his liability.

Pountney attained 21 on the 2nd of August, 1868, and the certificate of the chief clerk, dated the 4th of that month, stated that the plaintiff was the only person who had contributed capital; that the sum which Pountney had agreed to contribute was irrecoverable; and that Pountney was entitled to a sum of 96*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* for salary for services rendered.

The cause came on first upon a motion on the part of Pountney that, he disaffirming the articles of partnership, and disclaiming all interest therein, all further proceedings might be stayed, on the ground of his infancy at the date of the articles.

Bagshawe, for the motion.

Higgins, for the plaintiff.

Whitehorne, for Coling.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR refused the motion, the certificate having been made in Pountney's presence after he came of age, and there being no motion to vary it, and the plaintiff being entitled to go on with the hearing on further consideration.

The cause was then heard on further consideration.

Higgins, for the plaintiff:—

Pountney was, though an infant, just under 21 years of age when he entered into the partnership, and he was liable to contribution towards the payment of the debts; and as the articles provided that Tanner and Way should be entitled to a proportion of the profits, they ought also to be held liable to contribute towards the losses.

Whitehorne, for Coling, said he did not dispute that he was liable to be called upon for a proportionate part of the sum he agreed to contribute, and when the losses which had resulted had been fully ascertained, it should be borne by all parties in the proportion in which they had contracted to divide the profits if there had been any.

Bagshawe, for Pountney, was not heard.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The defendant Pountney could not, by reason of his infancy at the date of the partnership, and of what had since taken place, be held liable for his share of the capital; and as regarded the debts of the partnership, they must be paid out of the assets, which consisted of the capital subscribed by the plaintiff and Coling. There was no express stipulation that Tanner and Way should pay anything towards losses, and therefore the declaration would be, that the debts of the partnership, must be paid out of the assets, and that, if there should be any surplus, it must be divided between Wright and Coling in the proportion of two parts to one. All parties must bear their own costs on the motion and in the cause.

V.-C. M. APPLETON v. ROWLEY. March 10.

Bequest to A. and her Heirs or Representatives—Lapsed Legacy—Curtesy—Property to separate Use.

Samuel Duffield devised and bequeathed his real and personal property to trustees upon trust, as to sixteen houses, to sell the same, and, after directing various legacies to be paid thereout, he gave the remainder or overplus arising from such sale unto and in equal moieties between Sarah Gaywood and Alice Key, as tenants in common, and their respective heirs or representatives; and upon trust, as to five other freehold houses, to stand possessed thereof unto and to the use of Alice Key, her heirs and assigns for ever, free from the control, intermeddling, debts, or engagements of any husband with whom she might intermarry, and her receipt alone was to be a full and effectual discharge to the trustees for all purposes and on all occasions; but in the event of her dying without leaving any child or children, then for certain other persons therein named.

The questions in the suit were, first, whether the share of Sarah Gaywood (who died before the testator) in the overplus arising from the sale of the sixteen houses lapsed, or whether it went to her heirs or representatives. The second question was, as to the five houses, whether the husband of Alice Key, who died intestate leaving a child, was entitled as tenant by the curtesy.

Charles Hall, Laing, Baseigetie, Q.C., Whitehorne, Humphrey, Pearson, Q.C., and Langley, for different parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said if the gift, after the life estate to Sarah Gaywood and Alice Key, had been "or" their heirs or representatives, he should have held that the children of Sarah Gaywood took in substitution for their parent; but here the words "or representatives" were introduced in substitution for heirs, not in substitution for the parent. As Sarah Gaywood died before the testator, he must declare that her share lapsed.

On the question of curtesy:

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that, whenever a wife was entitled to an estate in fee simple in possession, whether legal or equitable, the husband was entitled to the curtesy. The separate use clause was only introduced as a benefit and protection to the wife against her husband, and could not be held to deprive him of his rights; and he should declare that the husband of Alice Key was entitled to the curtesy.

V.-C. M. WESTON v. COHEN. March 11.

Further Time to Answer—Form of Order—Attachment.

This was a motion to discharge an attachment. On the 5th of February, 1869, the defendant's time for answering "would have expired," and on the 1st of February he got the usual order for one month's further time. On the 2nd of March the defendant took out a summons for further time, returnable on the 4th; but the plaintiff having, on the 2nd, issued an attachment, the summons was not heard by reason of the defendant being in contempt. (Cons. Ord. xxxv. Rule 32.)

Bush now moved to discharge the attachment, on the ground that the "further time" given by the order was four weeks from the day when the time for answering would expire, that is, from the 5th of February, and not from the 1st of February, the date of the order.

Shapter, Q.C., and Bilton, for the plaintiff, contended that, the order being silent as to the day when the "further time" would date from, it must be the date of the order itself.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said his own impression as to the meaning of the order was, that the four weeks should run from the date of the order for further time, and he understood from his chief clerk that the officers of the Court were of the same opinion. But as the terms admitted of some uncertainty, he should direct the form to be altered in such a manner as to leave no doubt about the expiration of the time. In the present case he thought that the plaintiff should have waited till the 5th of March, when he would have been entitled to the order quacunque via. He should, therefore, discharge the attachment, but without costs.

V.-C. M. PEATFIELD v. BARLOW. March 12.

Costs—Country Attorneys and London Agents.

By a decree in this suit, dated the 3rd of June, 1867, it was ordered that the costs of the defendant, Mr. Barlow, amounting to 142*l.*, should be paid out of the fund in Court to Messrs. Few & Co., who were the London agents acting on behalf of Mr. Esam of East Retford, the defendant's solicitor. At the date of the decree, Mr. Barlow had a sum of 228*l.* in the hands of Mr. Esam, carrying interest. In June, 1868, Mr. Esam executed a deed under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861. Mr. Barlow now presented a petition in the suit praying that his costs might be treated as satisfied by the amount in the hands of Mr. Esam, and that the sum ordered to be paid to Messrs. Few & Co. might be directed to be paid over to the petitioner. Messrs. Few & Co., on the other hand, claimed a lien on the fund in Court for the amount of costs, and insisted that the decree directing payment to them created a special right, independently of any rights there might be between Mr. Barlow and Mr. Esam.

Schomberg, Q.C., for the petitioner.

Pearson, Q.C., and Bardswell, for Messrs. Few & Co.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that Mr. Barlow's right was at any time to have the money in Mr. Esam's hands applied in payment of his bill of costs, and that right was not divested by the virtual bankruptcy of Mr. Esam. The order directed payment of Mr. Barlow's costs to Messrs. Few & Co. solely as the London agents of Mr. Esam, who was the petitioner's solicitor, and it created no new right in Messrs. Few & Co. He should therefore make the order asked for, but, as it was enforcing an extreme right upon a novel point, there would be no order as to costs.

V.-C. M. LESTER v. ALEXANDER. March 13.

Partition Suit—Sale—31 & 32 Vict. c. 40.

This was a suit for partition. The bill prayed in the alternative for a sale, and the minutes of decree proposed to take inquiries as to who were the parties entitled to the property, and whether they had assigned or encumbered their shares,

Higgins, for the plaintiff, asked for an order for immediate sale, according to the form of the order made in Hayward v. Smith (ante, p. 37).

C. Browne, for the assignee of two of the shares, submitted that under the 31 & 32 Vict. c. 40, ss. 3, 4, the Court had jurisdiction to order a sale only in a suit for partition where, if this Act had not been passed, a decree for partition might have been made, and that, independently of the Act, the Court could only have made a decree for partition in a suit in which all persons interested in the estate were before the Court. The 9th section of the Act plainly shewed this to be the intention, and therefore no sale could be ordered until all persons interested were before the Court.

Pearson, Q.C., Morris, Brooksbank, W. Pearson, and Hallett, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made a decree for the usual inquiries as to the persons entitled to the estate, and their assignees and incumbrancers; and if it should appear that all parties interested were before the Court, then it was ordered that the estate should be sold in such manner as the judge in chambers should direct.

V.-C. J. TURNBULL v. GARDEN. March 11.

Principal and Agent—Custom of Trade—Account.

Plaintiff was the widow of an Indian officer. Defendant was an accoutrement maker and army contractor, and also an East India and general agent, in which capacity he had acted for plaintiff's husband, and after his death in 1858 for the plaintiff, who remained in India until 1866. In 1865 plaintiff authorized defendant to provide her son (a minor) with his outfit in a cavalry regiment, hoping that he would do everything as reasonably as possible. Defendant had charged the plaintiff in account with 699*l.* 17*s.* 3*d.* for this outfit, which was alleged by plaintiff to be at least double the necessary price, and as including a great number of unnecessary and extravagantly-expensive articles, for which defendant had charged plaintiff more than he had actually paid. In particular, a gun and rifle had been ordered by plaintiff's son and supplied to him by a gun maker, who sent in a bill for 83*l.* to defendant. Defendant insisted upon a discount of 25 per cent., in order to meet which the bill was increased to 131*l.*, of which the gunmaker received 83*l.* by three months' bill, while the 113*l.* was charged against plaintiff in the account. Other instances to the same effect were adduced.

After plaintiff's return to England, defendant, on an affidavit of debt, obtained an attachment against plaintiff in the Mayor's Court for 93*l.* 8*s.* 8*d.* (alleged to be due to him on the balance of account). Under these circumstances the bill was filed for an account of all dealings and payments between herself and defendant, for the purpose of getting the discounts received by defendant disallowed, and the bills for the outfit moderated.

The defendant's case was that he was entitled, as an army agent, to receive the trade discount which it is the custom for the tradesmen supplying the goods to allow to the tradesman or agent whose customer has given the order; that he was responsible for the bills, and had received no other remuneration than this discount for his very onerous duties as agent of the plaintiff.

Druce, Q.C., and Graham Hastings, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and Blackmore, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after commenting upon the extravagant sum charged to plaintiff for her son's outfit, expressed himself strongly against the custom of trade put forward by defendant in justification of his paying one sum and charging the plaintiff another and a higher sum for goods supplied to her son. An agent had no right to make any profit out of his fiduciary position at the expense of his principal. These discounts were profits to the defendant, which were intended to be, and actually were, concealed from plaintiff. There must be an account as prayed by the bill, charging defendant with all discounts received by him, with a reference to ascertain how much ought to be disallowed him.

V.-C. J. NOWELL v. NOWELL. March 12.

Law of Partnership—Liability to Losses.

The testator, Thomas Nowell, was partner in business with Jacob Nowell, who survived him. There were no articles and no written agreement of partnership; but the profits of the business had been shared equally by the partners. The bill was filed in 1865 for administration of the testator's estate. No settlement of the partnership accounts had been made; but a cash account had been taken in respect of the advances of the respective partners' interest, and allowance for management, the result of which was a balance of 1900*l.* due to the surviving partner. The available net assets amounted to only 1400*l.*

The question was whether the deficiency of 500*l.* was to be borne by both partners equally, or by the testator's estate alone; in other words, whether the debt due to Jacob Nowell from the testator's estate in respect of the deficiency was 250*l.* or 500*l.*

Willcock, Q.C., Druce, Q.C., Bird, Bagshawe, Ince, and Casson, appeared.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that community of profit involved community of loss; and it was wholly immaterial whether moneys of different amounts were brought in originally as capital, or advanced subsequently, or paid at the winding-up; consequently, that Jacob Nowell was bound to pay half the deficiency.

Permanent Alimony—Settled Property—Large proportion of Property belonging to Wife—Rate of Allowance.

The wife had obtained a decree of judicial separation on the ground of cruelty, and the case now came before the Court on the question of permanent alimony.

The income of the respondent was derived from property comprised in a marriage settlement, part of which was brought into settlement by the wife, and part by the husband. By the settlement the income of the whole of the property was receivable by the husband during their joint lives.

The question of the amount of income was referred to the registrar, who reported that the respondent's income was 341*l.* per annum, of which 210*l.* was derived from property formerly belonging to the petitioner.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Searle, for the petitioner, moved that the income of the whole of the wife's property might be allotted to her as permanent alimony. The Court is not bound by the obsolete rules of the Ecclesiastical Courts, but is at liberty to make such an order as it may deem just.

Dr. Tristram, for the respondent:—

One moiety of the joint income is the utmost that the Court is at liberty to allot, and there is no reason why the Court should depart from the usual rate of one third. He referred to s. 22 of 20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, and Cooke v. Cooke (2 Phillim. 40).

THE JUDGE ORDINARY:—The question is on what principle the Court is to act in allotting permanent alimony in suits for judicial separation. The Court is invited to adopt, by analogy, the principle on which it acts in suits for dissolution; but the powers given to the Court in suits for dissolution are defined by certain sections of the statute, and the Legislature has advisedly not extended the powers contained in these sections to suits for dissolution. The 22nd section of the statute defines the principles and rules by which the Court is to be guided in suits for judicial separation; namely, "the principles and rules on which the Ecclesiastical Courts have heretofore acted and given relief." I should have thought it very equitable to say that, where a wife has brought a sum of money, large or small, to the husband, and the cohabitation contemplated at the time of the marriage has become impossible by reason of the husband's misconduct, she should receive back the money which she had brought to the common fund. That, at any rate, would have been an intelligible principle. But the Ecclesiastical Courts never proceeded on any such principle; there is no trace of it in the reports. The rule laid down by those Courts was to take all the circumstances of the case into consideration, and, having regard to those circumstances, to allot a certain proportion of the joint income. The highest proportion ever allotted in any case was one moiety, and that is the highest that I am at liberty to allot. Taking the joint income at 340*l.*, I allot 170*l.*, payable quarterly.

Lands Clauses Act—Sale of Surplus Lands—Right of Pre-emption—Arbitration—Costs.

By an agreement dated the 5th of May, 1864, and made between two directors named in a bill then in Parliament for the construction of the Metropolitan and St. John's Wood Railway of the one part, and the petitioner, George John Eyre, tenant for life of certain estates in the parishes of St. Marylebone and St. John, Hampstead, of the other, after reciting that the intended railway would, if constructed, pass through the estates, it was agreed that, notwithstanding the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act, the petitioner was to have the right of pre-emption of all surplus lands of the company, although situate within a town, or built upon or used for building purposes, and for that purpose that sections 125—131 of the Lands Clauses Act should apply to the lands to which such right of pre-emption might attach. The Act having passed, the company took some of the settled land. Afterwards the company called upon the petitioner to exercise his option of purchasing some of the surplus lands so taken, which, with the sanction of the Court, he exercised. There was a reference to arbitration as to value, and the umpire gave as a price the sum of 15,912*l.*, and directed either party to pay his own costs of the arbitration.

The sole question in the petition now presented—asking the Court to approve the purchase, to direct the usual reference as to title, and to settle the conveyance—was whether the umpire's order as to costs was right, or whether the company ought to pay the costs of the arbitration.

Amphlett, Q.C., and O. M. Roupell, for the petitioner:—

The costs of the arbitration are payable by the company as costs of reinvestment.

NICHOLAS STUBBER v. SEWELL MAILLARD STUBBER AND ROBERT HAMILTON STUBBER.
Will—Administration.

This was an appeal against an order of the Court of Chancery in Ireland, by which that Court refused to interfere with a previous order of the Court of Probate there. The appellant had applied to have the grant of administration with the will annexed of Robert Stubber (who died in February, 1820), made to the Rev. Sewell Stubber in November of that year, revoked, and also that another grant of administration made to the goods unadministered of the said Robert Stubber, and which was made to the respondent Sewell Maillard Stubber in January, 1844, might likewise be declared void. The first administration was said to have been made on the ground that the grantee was named in the will as the residuary legatee of the deceased—a ground which the appellant denied. There were other objections to the grants of the letters of administration.

The appellant conducted his case in person. Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the respondent. THEIR LORDSHIPS held that, as to the first objection, though the grantee of the first letters of administration was not named in the will as residuary legatee, he really did, by implication from various parts of the will, stand in that character; and as to the other objections, that they were merely technical, and were not such as in law could be sustained. Appeal dismissed with costs. Solicitors for the respondent: Freshfields.

REESE RIVER SILVER MINING COMPANY v. SMITH.
Company—Misrepresentation—Contributory.

This was an appeal against a decision of the Lords Justices, which had in substance reversed a previous decision of the Master of the Rolls. The case had also been, for another purpose, before Vice-Chancellor Wood (Law Rep. 2 Eq. 264; 2 Ch. 604). Mr. Smith had received a prospectus of an intended mining company, with a very flattering statement of a mine, which the projectors and directors had contracted to purchase in the district of Nevada. The articles of association stated the objects of the company to be to obtain mines, to work them, to import machinery, and to engage in the business of crushing minerals. The prospectus and the articles were both dated on the 5th of June, 1865. Mr. Smith wrote to apply for shares; they were allotted to him; he paid deposits, &c.; and he was registered as a shareholder on the 2nd of August, 1865. Shortly after the allotment the directors sent out a deputation to America to examine the mine which they had contracted for, and had described on the faith of the vendors' statements. They received a report in December, 1865, declaring that the mine contracted for was valueless, but that the deputation had purchased another and a really valuable mine. A call was made on the 30th of December, 1865, to be paid on the 24th of January, 1866. On the same 30th of December Mr. Smith received an intimation of the report of the deputation, and on the 19th of January a full account of it. Mr. Smith refused to pay the call, and on the 6th of February filed his bill against the directors, claiming, on the ground of misrepresentation, to be relieved from his shares, and to restrain them from taking any proceedings against him to enforce the call. On the 20th of April, 1866, Vice-Chancellor Wood granted an injunction to restrain the directors from proceeding to enforce the call. On the 27th of April another person, likewise a shareholder, presented a petition to wind up the company. On the 28th a winding-up order was made, and on the 14th of March the Master of the Rolls refused to remove Mr. Smith's name from the list of contributories. The Lords Justices reversed that refusal; hence this appeal.

Southgate, Q.C., and Graham Hastings, for the company and official liquidator.

Cotton, Q.C., and Eddis, for the respondent.

THEIR LORDSHIPS, without calling on the respondent's counsel, affirmed the decision of the Court below, ordering the respondent's name to be removed from the list of contributories.

HERBERT v. HARRISON.

Will—Construction—Residuary Gift—"Securities of any kind and description whatsoever."

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Stuart, upon the construction of the will of Charles Dutton, dated the 24th of March, 1864. The testator, after directing his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses to be paid by his executors, proceeded to make the following bequest:—"I give and bequeath all and every my household furniture, linen, and wearing apparel, books, plate, china, pictures, horses, carts, and carriages, and also every sum and sums of money which may be found in my house, or be about my person, or due to me at the time of my decease, and also all my stocks, funds, and securities for money, money due on bonds, bills, notes, or other securities which I may die seized, possessed of, or entitled to, and of any kind and description whatsoever: my will and intention is that my said executors hereinafter named, and the survivor of them, do and shall pay the same to my present housekeeper, Martha Herbert, to and for her own sole and separate use and benefit absolutely." The testator then gave several small pecuniary legacies, and appointed F. Harrison and J. Furtado executors of his will. There was no gift of the residue of the testator's property beyond what has been already stated.

The testator possessed shares in the London and County Bank and in the Kent Coast Railway, and was also entitled to a reversionary share in the proceeds of real estate, devised to be sold, and 1025*l.* in the hands of the administrator de bonis non of his brother's estate. The Vice-Chancellor decided that all these particulars passed under the gift in the will to Martha Herbert, and from this decision the next of kin appealed.

Kay, Q.C., and Ellis, for the appellants.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Solomon, for the plaintiff.

J. Mander, for the executors.

THE LORD JUSTICE SELWYN said that he entertained no doubt that the shares in question were intended to be included in the gift to the plaintiff. The appeal must therefore be dismissed with costs.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that he was satisfied that this bequest was intended to have the effect of a complete residuary clause, and that the testator intended the plaintiff to take all his personal estate after payment of his debts and legacies. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

WEBSTER v. MANBY.

March 18.

Practice—Costs of Motions—Application to review Taxation.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor James. The defendant in this case was a mortgagee who had brought an action against the mortgagor for principal and interest. The mortgagor filed a bill for redemption and discovery, and to restrain the action, and obtained an injunction, which was dissolved on the answer coming in. The plaintiff succeeded in the suit, but was ordered to pay the costs of the suit up to a certain day, which was after the injunction had been dissolved. The taxing master included the costs of the motions to obtain and to dissolve the injunction in the costs to be paid by the plaintiff. The plaintiff moved before the Vice-Chancellor to have the taxation reviewed, and the Vice-Chancellor dismissed the motion with costs. The plaintiff appealed.

Druce, Q.C., and Townsend, for the plaintiff.

Pearson, Q.C., and Currey, for the defendant.

THE LORDS JUSTICES held that the usual rules as to costs of motions did not apply in this case, and that the taxing master was right in including the costs of these motions amongst the costs to be paid by the plaintiff. Their Lordships also held that the application ought to have been by summons in chambers, and not by motion before the Vice-Chancellor.

CUMBERLAND v. CLARK.

Practice—Administration Suit—Costs of Plaintiff whose Suit is Stayed.

Webber, in November, 1866, filed a creditors' bill to administer the estate of Jonathan Clark, deceased. On the 26th of November, 1866, an order for administration was obtained on summons by Cumberland, another creditor. The executrix then obtained an order staying proceedings in Webber v. Clark, and directing Webber's costs to be taxed, and "that the said costs, when taxed, be paid to the said A. Webber by the defendant S. E. Clark out of the assets of the said Jonathan Clark." An order on further consideration in Cumberland v. Clark was afterwards made, not providing for these costs, but directing payment of the costs of the executrix, then of the testator's funeral expenses, then of the plaintiff's costs, and directing payment of the surplus assets to a specialty creditor. Webber then applied by summons for payment of his costs of the stayed suit, and declined to accept an order for payment of them pari passu with those of the plaintiff in the present suit; upon which the Master of the Rolls refused his application altogether, from which decision he appealed.

Greene, Q.C., and Nugent, for the appeal motion.

W. W. Cooper, for the executrix.

Fischer, for the plaintiff.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that the appellant had refused an order which would have given him all he was entitled to, and that the appeal motion must be refused, without prejudice to any application he might make to the Master of the Rolls.

In the course of winding-up this company it was discovered that a transfer of shares, without consideration, from Capper, a former director, to Noble, who was now on the list of contributors, had been managed by Gordon, and that Gordon had furnished Noble with money to pay the calls. The liquidators being desirous of tracing the moneys so supplied, applied for a summons under section 115 of the Companies Act, 1862, for the secretary of the banking company, with whom Gordon kept his banking account, to attend and be examined, and produce all books containing entries as to Gordon's affairs. The Master of the Rolls, doubting whether such a summons could be issued, desired that the question might be mentioned to the Lords Justices.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Westlake, for the application.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that the summons might be issued, leaving it open to the witness, when attending, to raise, as a witness served with subpoena duces tecum might do, any objection to the examination of the books.

Fooks, for the plaintiff, objected.

THEIR LORDSHIPS made the order, and made the costs of the applicant and the consenting parties costs in the cause, but gave no direction as to the costs of the plaintiff; and stated that, where a consent to a transfer was unreasonably refused, costs would be given against the refusing party when asked by the notice of motion.

The case came before the Lords Justices Wood and Selwyn in November last, by way of appeal from a decree of the Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine of Lancaster, and the applicant proposed to shew special circumstances to establish the propriety of such a rehearing.

THE LORDS JUSTICES said that the appeal from the County Palatine was not a rehearing, but strictly an appeal under the provision of the statute, and there was no power in the Court to hear that appeal a second time. They therefore refused the application.

L. JJ. WHITNEY v. SMITH. March 19.
Trustee—Wilful Default—Profits made out of Trust-estate—Solicitor—Service with Copy of Decree.

This was an appeal from a decree of Vice-Chancellor Stuart.

The plaintiff was beneficially interested in remainder, after the death of certain tenants for life, in the proceeds of the residuary personal estate given by the will of J. Willett. The bill was filed to carry into effect the trusts of the will, and charged the defendant, who was a solicitor, and was the now trustee, with breaches of trust and wilful default. Besides other charges, which were disproved by the evidence, the plaintiff charged the defendant with having sold out a sum of 3 per Cent. Stock, and invested the proceeds in a stock mortgage at 3 per cent. interest, and in having invested portions of the proceeds of the testator's estate in leasehold securities, which were not authorized by the will, for the purpose of making profits to himself in his business as solicitor; and the plaintiff prayed that he might be charged, in taking the accounts, with wilful default as to both capital and income, and with the profits which he had made by employing the moneys belonging to the estate.

The defendant objected to account with respect to the amount of interest, for which he had accounted to the tenant for life, who was not a co-plaintiff; and as to the charge respecting the investments, he stated that no part of the funds had been lost by the investments on leasehold securities, which had been made at the request of the tenants for life; and that he had made no profits out of the testator's estate, although he had been paid for his professional services by some of the mortgagors, to whom loans had been made, and by certain of the persons beneficially interested in the estate, under a private arrangement with them. Under these circumstances the Vice-Chancellor made a decree, granting the relief prayed by the bill; and from this decree the defendant appealed. The tenants for life were served with the decree.

Karlsruhe, Q.C., and Cookson, for the appellant.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Bush, for the plaintiff.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the tenants for life, having been merely served with the decree, and not being co-plaintiffs, no decree could be made as to wilful default affecting the income. As to the profits made by the defendant, they were not made out of the estate; and there was no authority that, merely because a trustee happened to be a solicitor, and the execution of the trust brought custom to his office, he was to be made to account to the estate for the profits. The decree of the Vice-Chancellor must therefore be varied.

BOULTER v. MUTUAL LOAN FUND ASSOCIATION.

Purchaser for Value without Notice—Mortgage by Equitable Tenant for Life in Possession of Title-deeds—Mortgagee restrained from Selling.

George Boulter, by his marriage settlement in January, 1852, assigned a leasehold estate to the trustees upon trust for himself for his life, or until he should become bankrupt, and after his death or bankruptcy, upon trust for the separate use of his wife if she should survive him "or be then living," for her life, and after the death of the survivor upon trusts for the children of the marriage.

In 1865 Boulter, who had been allowed to retain the title-deeds of the leasehold estate, executed a mortgage of the estate, purporting to assign the absolute interest to the Mutual Loan Fund Association, who had no notice of the settlement, and delivered the deed to them.

In September, 1868, Boulter became bankrupt. In February, 1869, the mortgagees sold the estate by auction under a power of sale in their mortgage. Just before the sale they received notice of the settlement from Mrs. Boulter's solicitor.

This was a suit by Mrs. Boulter and her children to obtain the title-deeds from the mortgagees, and for an injunction to restrain them from completing the sale.

G. A. Young, for the plaintiffs, now moved for an injunction.

Whitehorne and Yearsley, for the defendants, contended that the trustees of the settlement having allowed Boulter to retain the title-deeds, and Mrs. Boulter having allowed him to mortgage the property without giving the mortgagees notice of the settlement, the Court would not interfere to prevent them from realising their security.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that he could not allow the defendants, by completing the sale, to create fresh rights before the hearing of the cause, and granted the injunction.

Production of Documents—Privilege.

This was a summons to produce documents.

The bill related to certain transactions in Spain, and the documents which the defendants refused to produce were communications between the defendants and non-professional persons with reference to the matters in dispute, but not for the purpose of giving instructions to the defendants' legal advisers. The defendants had been applied to to produce such documents, but had refused on the ground that they were privileged.

Dickinson, Q.C., Karlake, Q.C., and Homersham Cox, now moved for the production of those documents which had passed between the defendants and non-professional persons, whether with a view to litigation or not. Such documents were not privileged. The object of the rule was to enable a party to have unfettered communication with his legal advisers, and the principle could not be infringed on by the production of these documents. In all the cases it was assumed that all the documents held to be privileged were used for the purpose of instructing the party's solicitor.

Greene, Q.C., and Sayer, contra, were not called on.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the notion that documents to be privileged must have been obtained or used in connection with a solicitor was countenanced by no principle or authority except a dictum in Greenough v. Gaskell (1 My. & K. 98, 102). The privilege was the privilege of the client, and not of the solicitor; and information relative to litigation, and with a view to it, was as much privileged as if it came direct through the solicitor. The defendants therefore were not bound to produce the documents passing between the defendants and non-professional persons with reference to the litigation.

Enfranchisement of Ecclesiastical Leaseholds—23 & 24 Vict. c. 124, ss. 36, 37—Sale and Purchase under Order of the Court.

H. W. Adams, who died in December, 1854, by will, in December, 1850, devised all his real estate to the use of two trustees, their executors, &c., for 1000 years, upon certain trusts, and he bequeathed certain leasehold tenements, which he held under the Dean and Canons of Windsor, upon such trusts as might the nearest correspond with the limitations concerning his freehold estates. The testator left no issue; and under the limitations of the will the petitioner was tenant for life in possession of all the estates, and he and the trustees had entered into negotiations with the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for the enfranchisement of the said leasehold tenements on payment of a sum of 9650*l.*, to be raised by the sale of a freehold estate and a certain sum of Consols.

The petitioner presented this petition under the 23 & 24 Vict. c. 124, "an Act further to amend the Acts relating to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and the Act concerning the management of Episcopal and Capitular Estates in England;" praying that he might be empowered by the Court to sell, by public auction or private contract, for such sum as the trustees should approve, and to convey to the purchaser, as he might direct, the freehold estate mentioned in the will; that the proceeds of such sale might be received by such trustees, and, when received, be applied towards purchasing the reversion of the leasehold tenements mentioned above; and that any surplus proceeds (if any), after payment of all costs, might be invested in Consols, and the dividends paid to the petitioner.

The 36th section of the Act empowered trustees, with the consent of the person entitled to the dividends, to raise out of the funds a sufficient sum for the purpose of enfranchising the property comprised in the lease; and the 37th section, in effect, provided that where any such lease might be vested in trustees, and other lands, freehold, copyhold, or leasehold, were vested in the same trustees upon the like trusts, or where any person was, under a will, in the actual possession of the lands comprised in such lease, and of other lands settled to like trusts, it should be lawful for such trustees, or such person with the sanction of the Court, to raise money by sale or mortgage on any part of the property in the lease, and the other lands vested in such trustees as the Court should direct, for the purpose of purchasing the reversion of, or otherwise enfranchising, the property comprised in such lease, in such manner and subject to such provisions for protecting the equities arising under such purchase or enfranchisement as the Court should think fit; and all sales and mortgages effected for the purpose should be valid, and binding on all persons interested under the trusts.

C. Hall, for the petitioners, submitted that, after the order for sale had been made, everything necessary for carrying it out could be done out of Court.

Goren, for the trustees, contended that everything must be submitted to the Court for its sanction.

Method, for the infant tenant in tail.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered that the sale of the freehold and the purchase of the reversion in the leasehold should be carried out under the sanction of the Court, and empowered the trustees to apply towards the purchase a sum of stock in addition to the proceeds of the sale.

POYSEB v. HARRISON.

Sequestration of Property not of Party to Suit—Inquiry pro interesse suo—Affidavit of Documents ordered.

On the 18th of December, 1868, possession was taken, under a sequestration, of a warehouse and the stock-in-trade of E. B. Harrison, who was not a party to the suits.

On a motion on the 11th of January, 1869, on the part of E. B. Harrison, possession of the property was ordered to be, on certain terms, restored, and an inquiry was directed whether E. B. Harrison was interested in the property. This was an adjourned summons on the part of the plaintiffs that E. B. Harrison should make the usual affidavit of documents relating to the matters in question on the inquiry directed on the 11th of January.

The defendant, T. L. Harrison, was in contempt for not paying into Court sums of money directed by an order made on the 1st of August, 1868, amounting to 1300*l.*, and the plaintiffs issued a sequestration against the warehouse and stock-in-trade of E. B. Harrison, and property worth about 800*l.* was seized. T. L. Harrison formerly carried on the business under the style of John Harrison and Sons; but E. B. Harrison deposed that a transfer of the business was made to his brother T. G. Harrison and himself by their father T. L. Harrison, in January, 1864, and that the premises in which he carried on his business were occupied jointly with some held by T. L. Harrison.

Mackeson, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the plaintiffs:—

T. L. Harrison was at one time the owner of the business, and at least the books of the business ought to be produced.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Solomon, for E. B. Harrison:—

The Court had no jurisdiction to make an order for the affidavit and for the production of the documents required. The 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, ss. 18, 20, which gave the jurisdiction, was confined to parties to a suit.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the affidavit to be made, and said that E. B. Harrison would be at liberty to shew that the books ought not to be produced or opened after he had made such affidavit.

This was a motion, on behalf of the defendant, that all proceedings in this plaint in equity in the County Court of Dorsetshire, holden at Shaftesbury, between these parties, might be stayed pending the appeal of the defendant from the decision of the County Court judge on the 18th of November last. The decree made was for the administration of the estate of a Mr.

Cheesewright, deceased, and accounts were ordered; and, further, that the defendant should be charged with certain moneys in respect of a life policy. The defendant appealed against that decree; but, notwithstanding such appeal, an order was made in February last requiring the defendant to pay a sum of money into Court or give security for the same, and to pay certain costs or give security for them.

Dauney, for the motion.

Hughes objected to the application being made to this Court, and submitted that it ought to have been first made to the County Court judge.

Dauney submitted that the Orders allowed the motion to be made to this Court, and that it would be a mere waste of time to ask the County Court judge to stay the proceedings.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he thought it should not be necessary to apply to the County Court judge to stay his own decree. As it had not been shewn that any bad result would happen by staying all proceedings pending the appeal, or that it was a fictitious appeal, or one for delay, he should allow the motion. The costs of the motion would be reserved until the hearing of the appeal.

Voluntary Settlement set aside—Costs of Trustees, Cestui que Trusts, and Settlor.

This was a bill to set aside a voluntary settlement by a trader upon his wife and children, on the ground that the settlor was indebted at the date of the settlement.

A decree was submitted to, but questions arose as to costs.

Glasse, Q.C., and Jervis, for the creditors, consented to pay the costs of the trustees of the settlement, on the ground that they had protected the fund, but objected to the cestuis que trust having their costs, and asked that the settlor might be ordered to pay costs.

Mackeson, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the cestuis que trust.

Eddis, for the settlor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he should act in conformity with the decision in Goldsmith v. Russell (5 D. M. & G.), in the principle of which he entirely coincided, in allowing the cestuis que trust their costs out of the fund. The settlor would pay his own costs, but he should make no further order against him as to costs.

Practice—Insufficient Affidavit—Costs.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff in the suit that the defendant might be ordered to amend his affidavit, on the ground of insufficiency.

Glasse, Q.C., and Townsend, in support of the motion, cited Morgan's Chancery Practice (last ed. p. 164) and Lazarus v. Moseley (5 Jur. [N.S.] 1120).

Peck, for the defendant, contended that the sufficiency of an affidavit was not a question to be brought into Court upon motion, but ought to have been raised upon a summons in chambers. He therefore asked that the plaintiff might be ordered to pay the costs of the motion.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the practice was at all times to bring the question of the sufficiency of an affidavit before the chief clerk in chambers, and if the parties were not satisfied with his decision, then to appeal to the judge in chambers, or by adjournment into Court. The plaintiff was wrong in the course he had adopted, and could have no costs except such an amount as he would have had if the matter had been dealt with in chambers.

V.-C. M. In re JOINT STOCK COAL COMPANY. March 21.

Winding-up—Companies Act, 1862, s. 79—Just and equitable Clause—Meeting of Shareholders.

These were two petitions for winding-up this company, which was established in 1864, on the co-operative principle, for the supply of cheap coal. The balance-sheet of the company, up to December, 1868, exhibited a loss upon the business of about 14,000*l.* for the four years. It was then resolved, at a meeting of the shareholders, that the company should be carried on under a new management for six months longer, with a view to ascertain whether, by a more economical system of carrying on the business, it would still be desirable to continue the undertaking. The shares were for 1*l.* each, of which 15*s.* had been paid up.

The first petition was presented by a holder of fifty shares, and the second by several shareholders residing at Norwich, where a depot was formerly established, but which was now discontinued. Both petitions alleged that, in consequence of the heavy losses already sustained, and the want of proper management, it was unlikely that the business could ever be made remunerative, and it was asked, under the 79th section of the Act, that the Court would order the winding-up, it being "just and equitable" that the shareholders should no longer be exposed to the loss of any further capital. It was not alleged that the company was insolvent, because, if all their liabilities were paid out of their existing assets, the balance would be greatly in favour of the company.

Cotton, Q.C., and Higgins, in support of the first petition, said that they would be satisfied if the Court would direct a meeting to be held, at which the opinion of the shareholders could be fairly ascertained.

Karslake, Q.C., and Chitty, for the Norwich shareholders.

Bradford and Bardswell, for other shareholders, supported the petitions.

Glasse, Q.C., and Roberts, on behalf of the company, opposed the petitions.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that there was no ground alleged upon which the Court could make an order for winding-up under the 79th section of the Act. It was not an insolvent company; and, although it might have been a losing concern, and might be continuing to lose, that would not be a ground for winding-up the company according to the decision of the Lords Justices in the Suburban Hotel Company (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 737).

If, then, the Court could make no order for winding-up, it could not direct a meeting to be held except with the sanction of the shareholders, a majority of whom were, as it appeared, opposed to such a course being adopted. Moreover, it was in the power of the shareholders themselves to take measures for calling a meeting, under their articles of association, without coming to the Court. The first petition he should dismiss with costs, on the ground that he was not satisfied with the bona fides of the petitioner; and the second he should dismiss with costs, on the ground that there were no circumstances which justified the presentation of a second petition with the same objects as the first.

Voluntary Winding-up—Inspection of Documents.

An application was made upon summons on behalf of a shareholder in the company, which was being wound up voluntarily under the Act, for an order to inspect documents, which was opposed on the ground that the Court had no power to make the order except upon a compulsory winding-up of a company. The 58th and 156th sections of the Companies Act, 1862, were referred to.

Glasse, Q.C., and Higgins, in support of the motion.

Waller, for the official liquidator, and Fooks, for the company, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR in making the order, with certain restrictions as to notice, expressed his opinion that in all cases, whether in a voluntary or compulsory winding-up, the Court had power to direct inspection of documents—in the former case under the 58th section, and in the latter case under the 156th section, of the Act.

Directors—Improvident Declaration of Dividend—Payment out of Capital—Companies Act, 1862, s. 165.

This company was formed in the year 1863 for the purpose of providing vessels to run the blockade of the American ports and supply the Confederate Government with such articles as they required, bringing back cotton in return. At the end of five months the directors, with the sanction of a general meeting, declared a dividend of 25 per cent., which was accordingly paid to the shareholders. At this period the company had realised large profits upon some of their ships; but their losses had also been considerable, and their bankers' pass-book shewed that they had overdrawn to a large amount. The Agra Bank, with a knowledge of their business, nevertheless advanced money for payment of the dividend. Several of the ships belonging to the company were afterwards destroyed, and the cotton which had been stored for them in the Southern States, and which they had taken credit for in their balance-sheet, had been burnt during the war.

When the Confederate Government came to an end the company failed, and a winding-up order had since been made. All the shares were paid up in full.

The articles of association of the company were framed upon Table A. of the Companies Act, 1862, providing that no dividend should be paid out of capital, and there was a special provision that no dividend should be declared except out of money "in hand."

Cotton, Q.C., and Higgins, now moved on behalf of the official liquidator, under the 165th section of the Act, that one of the principal directors of the company, who was selected as a representative case, should be ordered to repay the dividend of 25 per cent., on the ground that, under the peculiarly dangerous nature of the company's business, and in the then state of their assets, having no money "in hand," they were not justified in declaring any dividend; and that the payment was consequently in the nature of a return of capital to the shareholders, who ought to be liable to that extent to the creditors of the company.

Glasse, Q.C., and Jackson, contra, submitted that the Court had no power under the 165th section to make this order; and that the anticipated profits of the company were such as to justify the declaration of the dividend, notwithstanding that subsequent events turned out unfavourably.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the directors had taken too sanguine a view of their expected profits, and were not justified in declaring such a dividend. If a bill had been filed he should have ordered a return of the money so paid without hesitation, but he was unable to give any relief upon this motion, since the 165th section of the Act applied only to recalcitrant directors who had committed a breach of trust towards the shareholders, and not where, as in this case, the company themselves were participators. The motion must be dismissed, but without costs.

 STACE AND WORTH'S CASE.
Company—Attempted Amalgamation.

Feb. 22. Adjoined summons for the purpose of varying the list of contributories by omitting the names of Colonel Stace and Mr. Worth.

These gentlemen, whose cases were identically circumstanced, were shareholders and directors in the Life Investment Company.

In August, 1867, an agreement was entered into between the Life Investment Company and the London and Northern Corporation for an amalgamation, by the sale and assignment to the London and Northern, of the business and assets of the Life Investment, it being provided that holders of fifty shares or upwards in the Life Investment should receive fully paid-up shares in the London and Northern, at the rate of two 5*l.* shares in that company for every five 2*l.* shares in the Life Investment Company.

This agreement was confirmed by the Life Investment Company, but had never been confirmed by the London and Northern Corporation.

Certificates for shares in the London and Northern Corporation were handed to Colonel Stace and Mr. Worth, but the agreement for amalgamation was not registered before the winding-up order.

Kay, Q.C., and Bagshawe, in support of the application, relied on Alabaster's Case (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 271; 17 W.R. 134), and insisted that, in any case, no liability attached to the applicants, as it was a condition that any shares in the London and Northern Corporation should be fully paid-up shares.

Druce, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator, as to the shares being fully paid-up, relied upon 30 & 31 Vict. c. 135, s. 25, and contended that there had been an allotment and acceptance of shares by the applicants, who were estopped from repudiating their liability to the London and Northern Corporation.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, following Alabaster's Case, held that the names of the applicants must be taken off the list of contributories.

March 16. The Vice-Chancellor having desired that the case might be re-argued, it now came on again.

The following clauses of the articles of association of the London and Northern Corporation were referred to as material:—

Clause 78. "The directors may also at any time, or from time to time, take over and purchase the whole or any part of the business and assets of any other company or society, either for a consideration in money to be paid or received or by the issue of shares."

Clause 133. "If at any time it shall be thought expedient that the company shall be dissolved or amalgamated with any other company, or its business, estate, and effects disposed of to any other company, it shall be lawful for an extraordinary meeting to declare that such dissolution or amalgamation of the company, or disposition of the business, estate, and effects thereof, shall take place, and the same shall take place accordingly upon such terms and conditions as such extraordinary meeting shall determine or approve."

Kay, Q.C. (Bagshawe with him), for Messrs. Stace and Worth, contended that the agreement was for an amalgamation, and, not having been confirmed pursuant to clause 133, it was void, as were all arrangements based upon it.

Druce, Q.C. (Higgins with him), for the official liquidator, contended that it was a mere purchase of assets falling under clause 78, and consequently was valid, without any confirmation by the shareholders. He also relied upon the subsequent acts of the applicants as directors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the agreement was for an amalgamation, and not for a mere purchase of assets under clause 78. It required confirmation by an extraordinary meeting, had not been so confirmed, and was consequently void. All the acts done by the applicants—such as acceptance of shares, and taking part in the proceedings as directors—were acts done in their provisional position of shareholders and directors in the amalgamated company, which never came into actual existence. The agreement was void, the acting upon it was void, as were also the recognition and ratification of it. This aggregate of nothings did not render Messrs. Stace and Worth liable as contributories in the London and Northern Corporation, and their names must be removed from the list.

Winding-up—Contributory—Call—Composition Deed.

Application to discharge an order obtained by the official liquidator against Morton for payment of calls under the winding-up.

In April, 1868, a call of 1*l.* per share was made. In May the company was ordered to be wound up.

On the 30th of July Morton executed a composition deed for the benefit of his creditors, which was registered, and assented to by the requisite number.

In January, 1869, a call of 2*l.* per share was made, and orders were obtained against Morton for payment of this and the previous call, amounting in all to nearly 10,000*l.* Morton himself claimed to be a creditor against the company for a debt of 9000*l.*, which was not admitted by the liquidator.

Ince, in support of the application, contended that, by executing the composition deed, Morton was discharged from all personal liability, and that the proper course was for the official liquidator to obtain leave to prove for the amount of calls against the trustees of the deed.

Higgins, for the trustees of the deed.

Druce, Q.C., for the official liquidator, submitted the question to the Court, and also suggested a stay of all proceedings on either side as a set-off between the parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order that, on the trustees abandoning all claims against the company, and the official liquidator giving up all claim against Morton's estate, all proceedings should be stayed. Morton must have his costs, as he had been brought here to release himself from a liability which ought not to have been thrown upon him.

 TATTON v. LONDON AND LIVERPOOL INSURANCE COMPANY.
Practice—Cause set down by Defendant.

E. Rodwell appeared for one of the defendants in this cause who had set down the cause for hearing, from the plaintiff not having taken any steps since the trial of an issue which had been directed in the suit.

It was proposed to take a decree dismissing the bill with costs against the defendant, who had set down the cause.

Bardswell, for two other defendants, objected to being retained on the record, and asked that the bill might be dismissed with costs as against his clients also; the cause having been brought to a hearing after issue joined, and it being competent for the Court to make any order it could have made if the cause had been set down by the plaintiff.

Rodwell submitted that he was not bound to do anything as to his co-defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order dismissing the bill with costs as against those defendants who had set down the cause, and also as against the two defendants who had appeared; but without costs as against the other defendants.

[This part of the order was made subject to a reference to the registrar to ascertain what the correct practice was, viz. "with costs," or "without costs," as against non-appearing defendants.]

V.-C. J. ARMSTRONG v. ARMSTRONG. March 20.

Will—Construction—Joint Tenants.

John Armstrong, late of Singapore, died in October, 1852, having made his will, dated the 5th of August, 1850, in the following terms:—

"I do hereby devise and bequeath unto my wife, Eliza, her heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, absolutely, for ever, all my real and personal estate whatsoever and wheresoever, of what nature, kind, or quality soever the same may be, and which I may be possessed of, interested in, or entitled to, for the benefit of herself and children. I do also hereby constitute and appoint my said wife sole executrix of this my last will and testament; and in the event of her death during my lifetime, then and in such case I nominate and appoint Thomas Owen Crane and Gilbert Bain to be my executors, requesting that they will kindly act in the winding-up of my affairs, for and on account of my children, to whom I bequeath all such property as I may die possessed of, as above stated—say two-thirds of all such property to be divided amongst the girls, and the other third amongst the boys."

He left his widow surviving, who proved his will, and died on the 15th of June, 1867. He also left three sons and three daughters. Of these John William was indebted to the testator's estate more than his share under it, whatever that might be; Farleigh, another son, who was legal personal representative of his mother's and father's estates, was a defendant; Mary Ann married the defendant William Mactaggart, and died; and the remaining three children, George, Isabel Jane (wife of the plaintiff Samuel Gilfillan), and Harriet Eliza, were plaintiffs.

The property was all personalty, or distributable as such; and the first question was, whether the widow and children took in equal shares, or whether the widow took for life, with remainder to her children—a question which, since the widow's death, was only of importance as to the apportionment in account of shares of past income, and as leading to the second and substantial question whether the children took as joint tenants or as tenants in common.

Wickens, for the plaintiffs, contended for a joint tenancy.

F. C. J. Millar, for Farleigh Armstrong.

Winterbotham, for William Mactaggart, argued that it was a tenancy in common; or, if a joint tenancy, that it had been severed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made a declaration that, in the events that had happened, the surviving children were entitled to the testator's estate as joint tenants.

The trustee having transferred the sum of stock, which exceeded 3000*l.*, into Court, under the Trustee Relief Act, the legatee now petitioned for payment out of Court of the arrears of the annuity, and for future payments of the annuity itself out of the dividends.

Langley, for the petitioner, asked that the costs of the petition might be paid out of the surplus dividends.

Speed, for the trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, as the gift of the annuity was made free of legacy duty, the costs were payable out of the surplus dividends; and ordered accordingly.

Railway Company—Landowner—Vendor and Purchaser—Agreement for Sale—Variation of Agreement—Remittance of Liability on Shares.

Before the passing of the defendants' Act in 1860, the plaintiff, at the request of Savin, a promoter, signed the subscription contract, and thereby agreed to take 100 shares of 10*l.* each. In October, 1860, the company gave the plaintiff notice to treat for some of his land. In November, 1860, the plaintiff agreed verbally to sell, and Savin, on behalf of the company, to buy, for 1800*l.* On the 27th of November, 1860, Lloyd, the company's solicitor, Savin, Jenkins, the company's valuer, and Hill, their land agent, met the plaintiff at his solicitor's office, and the former, on behalf of the company, asked the plaintiff to take a rent-charge of 72*l.* in lieu of 1800*l.* cash, and suggested that the plaintiff should be released from his responsibility in respect of his 100 shares (except 20 director's qualification shares). The plaintiff agreed, and on the 30th of November, 1860, the plaintiff's solicitor sent to Savin a draft agreement (afterwards executed) between the plaintiff of the one part, and Savin, for and on behalf of the company, of the other part, whereby the plaintiff agreed to sell, and the company to buy, the land for 1800*l.* With this draft was sent a letter from the solicitor to Savin, in part as follows:—"The agreement, you will perceive, makes the purchase-money payable; but it is quite understood that the purchaser takes a rent-charge at 4 per cent. on the 1800*l.* from this day, and 200*l.* in shares." The conveyance, purporting to be in consideration of the rent-charge of 72*l.*, payable half-yearly, was executed on the 21st of February, 1861, and the company took possession.

Five calls of 2*l.* each were made on all the shares by the company, amongst the rest on the plaintiff's 100 shares. The plaintiff ceased to be a director.

In May, 1868, the company brought an action for the calls. The company had paid the rent-charge up to and including the half-year ending the 30th of May, 1867.

In August, 1868, the bill was filed, charging that the action ought to be restrained, or, if necessary, the indenture of conveyance rectified, and praying for an injunction; or, in the alternative, for specific performance of the agreement of the 27th of November, 1860, and payment of the 1800*l.* and interest—the plaintiff allowing, in part payment of such interest, all payments made to him in respect of the rent-charge; and in default of payment, for delivery up of the lands, for a declaration of lien, and other subsidiary relief.

Druce, Q.C., and Methold, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and Dryden, for the company:—

Savin was not our agent in this agreement; we cannot cancel our shares; the substitution of a rent-charge for a fixed sum is no benefit to us, only to the contractor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the defence was untenable. The plaintiff was clearly entitled to substantial relief, and the order would be: The company repudiating the contract between Savin and the plaintiff, so far as it related to the discharge of the plaintiff's liability on the 80 shares—declare that the company is to be relieved from further payment of the rent-charge; that the plaintiff is entitled to 1800*l.* and interest, against which he must set off what was due from him for calls, and what had been paid to him by way of rent-charge; the company to pay the difference within three months of the date of the certificate; the plaintiff to be entitled to a lien for the balance, if unpaid, the deed not to be set up; and the plaintiff to have his costs of the suit.

Accommodation Acceptance—Guarantee—Appropriation of Securities.

In November, 1865, P. Levi & Co. obtained from the New Zealand Banking Corporation a credit to the extent of 6000*l.*, to be availed, by acceptances of the corporation, at ninety days after sight; and it was agreed that Levi & Co. should provide the corporation with funds to meet the acceptances, and deposited with them certain shares and other securities; and that, in default of payment of the money to be provided as aforesaid, or any money at any time owing by Levi & Co. to the corporation, the corporation should sell and realise the securities. Under this credit three bills were drawn by Levi & Co., and accepted by the corporation, and duly retired by means of funds provided by Levi & Co.; but the shares which had been deposited were retained by way of security for the payment of other liabilities of Levi & Co. to the corporation.

By an agreement dated the 14th of February, 1866, in consideration of the corporation granting to Messrs. S. F. White & Co. a credit for 12,000*l.*, to be availed by acceptances of the corporation at ninety days after sight, Levi & Co. engaged to keep the corporation out of cash advances, and to furnish them with cash sufficient to meet the bills. Under this agreement three bills were drawn, one of which was discounted with the London and Westminster Bank, and the other two with Overend, Gurney, & Co. Before the bills arrived at maturity the corporation was ordered to be wound up, and Levi & Co. had executed an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. The bills had been proved against both the corporation and Levi & Co. In the winding-up a dividend of 7*s.* 4*d.* in the pound had been paid, and arrangements had been made for the payment of another dividend of 6*s.*, by promissory notes payable at various times extending over eighteen months. To this arrangement the liquidators of Overend, Gurney, & Co., as the holders of two of the bills, had assented, with a reservation of their rights as against Levi & Co.; but they now joined with the trustees of Levi & Co. in an application that the proceeds of the securities in the hands of the corporation (which had been sold and realised) might be applied in payment of the bills rateably. It was deposed that Levi & Co. were not liable to the corporation in any other way than under these bills.

LAND CREDIT COMPANY OF IRELAND v. FERMOY.

Company—Liability of Directors for unauthorized Purchase of Shares of the Company.

This was a suit by the official liquidator to recover from the directors of the Land Credit Company of Ireland the sum of 3739*l.*, being moneys of the company alleged to have been improperly applied by them in the purchase of shares of the company.

The company was [incorporated on the 25th of April, 1864. The memorandum of association stated the objects of the company, among others, to be "to buy, sell, or loan on all descriptions of properties and of shares, including shares issued by the company (not being purely speculative transactions for the rise and fall of shares)." By the articles of association this power was given in similar terms to the directors, who were also empowered "to invest any moneys of the company not immediately applicable for any payment to be made by the company on such securities or investments as the board might from time to time think proper."

Immediately after the company was incorporated 535 of the company's shares were purchased in the market, on behalf of the company, at a premium, by Jay, who was the principal promoter of the company, and paid for by three cheques—one for 2000*l.*, signed by two of the directors, Finch and Richardson; another for 1733*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*, signed by two other of the directors, Collins and D. L. Lewis; and another for 5*l.* 8*s.* 9*d.*, signed by Finch and Lewis.

By a resolution of the directors all cheques drawn by the board were to be signed by two directors, and countersigned by the secretary, and all payments on account of the company were to be voted at board meetings.

At a meeting of the board on the 2nd of August, 1864, at which almost all the directors were present, the said cheques, which had been already drawn, were sanctioned.

The shares so purchased were first placed in the names of two persons on behalf of the company; they were then transferred to Richardson, one of the directors, and afterwards to Lewis.

In 1865 the company was ordered to be wound up.

The bill alleged that the purchase of the shares was unauthorized by the articles of association, and was a breach of trust, for which the directors were liable; and prayed that the directors might be declared liable to repay the amount in question.

The defendant Lewis died pending the suit.

The main defence was that the transaction complained of was not a breach of trust, and was intra vires. Some of the directors stated that they did not know the purpose for which the cheques were given when the payment was sanctioned; and some that, though present, they expressed disapproval of the transaction, but that it was too late to annul it.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Swanston, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the plaintiff.

The Solicitor-General (Sir J. D. Coleridge), Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., De Gex, Q.C., Southgate, Q.C., Roxburgh, Q.C., Wickens, Speed, Cracknall, Locock Webb, H. M. Jackson, Robinson, and Waller, for the several defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the payment in question was not justified by the memorandum or articles of association, and that all the directors who were present at the meeting of the 2nd of August were jointly and severally liable to refund the money; and that the defendant Finch, who was not present, was liable for the cheque that he had signed.

The plaintiff in this suit was the owner of an old house having, by small windows, an easement in respect of access of light and air over the property of the defendant. The plaintiff had rebuilt his house, with windows of a much larger size, occupying but little of the space of the former windows, which were ancient lights. The defendant subsequently erected buildings on his property in such a manner as to obstruct the access of light and air to the new windows of the plaintiff's house.

The suit was instituted to restrain the defendant from interfering with the access of light and air to the plaintiff's house which had been so rebuilt.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Jessel, Q.C., and E. Rodwell, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the plaintiff, by altering the character of his own property, had debarred himself from any right to relief in equity against the defendant in respect of the buildings complained of; that the case of Tupling v. Jones (11 H. L. C. 290) only applied to such compensation, in the shape of damages, as the plaintiff might obtain; and that the bill must be dismissed without costs, leave being given to the plaintiff to bring such action for damages as he might think fit.

Company—Winding-up—Change from Compulsory Winding-up to Winding-up under Supervision.

This company had been ordered to be wound up on the 17th of October, 1868. Since that time resolutions for a voluntary winding-up had been passed, and an application was now made to the Court that such voluntary winding-up might be continued under the supervision of the Court.

All the creditors and shareholders of the company assented. No transfer of shares had taken place for upwards of twelve months before the 17th of October, 1868, so that it was unlikely that the liability of any person to be placed on the list of contributors would be affected by the change in the date of the commencement of the winding-up.

JODRELL v. JODRELL.
Settled Estates—Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Apportionment—Timber Fund.

John William Jodrell, by his will dated the 22nd of May, 1858, devised certain real estates to Francis Charles Jodrell for life, subject to impeachment for waste, with remainder to Edmund Henry Jodrell, without impeachment of waste, with remainder to Thomas Jodrell Philips Jodrell for life, without impeachment of waste, with remainder over. The testator died on the 25th of May, 1858.

On the devised estates were woods and plantations of great extent and value, and the suit was instituted by the first tenant for life for the purpose of having the timber properly felled. Under the direction of the Court a considerable quantity of timber was felled and sold, and the proceeds of sale were invested, and the dividends ordered to be paid to Francis Charles Jodrell during his life.

Francis Charles Jodrell survived Edmund Henry Jodrell, and died on the 4th of June, 1868, when Thomas Jodrell Philips Jodrell succeeded to the estates. A dividend on the fund arising from the sale of timber became due on the 5th of July following. A petition was now presented by Thomas Jodrell Philips Jodrell for payment to him of the corpus of the fund, and also the July, 1868, dividend thereon.

Rigby, for the petition.

Dryden, for the representative of Francis Charles Jodrell, asked for an apportionment of the July, 1868, dividend.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that there was no apportionment.

HORSLEY v. COX.
Costs—Taxation—Three Counsel.

This was a summons to review the taxation of costs by the taxing master, and the question was whether he was right in disallowing three counsel to the defendant.

The defendant had retained a leading counsel; during the pendency of suit his junior counsel, who had given great attention to the cause, was appointed one of Her Majesty's counsel. At the hearing, the defendant gave a brief to him as well as to the leading counsel he had previously retained, and a new junior counsel.

Southgate, Q.C., and Edmund James, in support of a summons that the costs thus occasioned should be allowed, were not called upon.

Locock Webb contended that the taxing master was right.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the costs ought to be allowed. The defendant had retained a leading counsel, and would have lost his retainer if he had not given him a brief; a junior counsel was absolutely necessary; and if he had not employed, in addition, the gentleman who had been called within the bar, the other side might have employed him, after he had acquired great knowledge of the case.

Practice—Settled Estates Act (19 & 20 Vict. c. 120), s. 37—Examination of Married Women not dispensed with.

This was a petition, under the Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act (19 & 20 Vict. c. 120), s. 37, by three married women, who were entitled to the property in the petition mentioned for their lives, praying that an order might be made enabling the parties to make a repairing lease. The trustees under the petitioners' marriage settlements had joined in the petition.

It was now asked that the order might be made without the necessity of previously examining the married women, two of whom were residing near Boulogne.

Horsey, for the petitioners.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the 37th section of the Act was imperative upon him, and that it prevented him from dispensing with the examination; and ordered that the British Consul at Boulogne should take the examination of the two married women residing near that place, and that the third, who resided in Surrey, should attend in Court to be examined.

Will—Gift to a Class.

Colonel Delamain, by his will dated in 1830, after giving certain legacies, gave the residue of his property "to be divided equally between and among the children of my sister Elizabeth Thompson and my brother E. S. Delamain." The testator died at sea in 1830. The sister had several children who survived the testator. The brother also had children, some of whom survived the testator, but had since died, and were represented by their father. The residue of the testator's personalty had been paid into Court under the Trustee Relief Act. The question now raised was whether the brother took one moiety with the children of the sister, or whether the brother's children took one moiety or whether the brother's children and the sister's children shared equally.

Bowring, for the sister's children.

Sladden, for the brother.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the gift was obviously to a class, because it was given equally between and among the children of the testator's sister and his brother; and the only question was whether that class consisted of the sister's children and of one other person, the brother, or of several persons, viz. the brother's children. The omission of the word "of" amounted to nothing. The language of the present Lord Chancellor in Mason v. Baker (2 K. & J. 567) shewed that a gift of this kind was to a class, and not to an individual. There must be a declaration that the children of the sister and the brother were entitled.

V.-C. S. TAYLOR v. WEMYSS. April 17.
Plea—Outlawry—Interest of Crown—Enrolment.

This bill was filed by a creditor of the defendant C. T. Wemyss against the administratrix of his mother, and prayed that his debtor's share of the personal estate of his mother might be ascertained, and the debt paid out of such share. The bill also prayed for a receiver.

On the 4th of May, 1866, the plaintiff recovered judgment. In the 30th year of Victoria defendant was outlawed. On the 2nd of December, 1868, he registered the judgment, and sued out a fi. fa. and placed it in the hands of the sheriff, who was unable to find any goods to levy. In July, 1868, the defendant's mother died intestate, and the defendant obtained letters of administration of her estate. The plaintiff then filed this bill.

The administratrix filed a plea in bar and abatement to the bill, that C. T. Wemyss was an outlaw, and that, by reason of the outlawry (as appeared by the outlawry sub pede sigilli annexed to the plea), all his personal chattels were vested in the Crown, and the defendants submitted whether they should answer until the outlawry should be reversed.

Karslake, Q.C., and Waugh, for the plea, were stopped by the Court.

Fry and Edwyn Jones, for the bill, contended that the plea was in bar, and, at the same time, in abatement, which was bad. Thus, if the plea in bar were allowed, and the outlawry were reversed, the record would be inconsistent. Again, the plea in abatement was bad, because the relief asked was against the administratrix, and not against the outlaw. Secondly, the plea ought to have gone on and alleged that the outlawry had been enrolled, without which the title of the Crown was incomplete.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the plea was nearly in the terms of that in Walters v. Mayhew (1 S. & S. 220), in which Sir John Leach allowed the plea, which had been amended. This plea must therefore be allowed with costs.

In re SKIPTON AND WHARFDALE RAILWAY COMPANY.
Railways Abandonment Act (13 & 14 Vict. c. 83)—Compulsory Winding-up.

This company was formed in 1865 for the construction of ten miles of railway; but as it had been found impracticable to raise more than 3482*l.* by the sale of shares, which sum had already been expended in preliminary expenses, the company obtained an order, under the Abandonment of Railways Act (13 & 14 Vict. c. 83), authorizing the abandonment of their scheme.

A petition was now presented by a holder of one share for a compulsory order to wind up the company. It appeared that three out of the four directors were in favour of the winding-up.

The petition was opposed on the ground that, after the abandonment of the railway, the company should be left to themselves to wind up their affairs, and the Court had no power to make a compulsory order. It was also asked that a meeting of shareholders should be convened to ascertain their wishes. An objection was further raised to the petition being by the holder of only one share.

Cotton, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for the petition.

Bradford, supported the petition.

Glasse, Q.C., and Caldecott, and Higgins, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that, in consequence of the hostile feelings existing between some of the parties, a meeting would be useless. The Railway Companies Act of 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 127) enacted that the Railways Abandonment Act should be read as if it had been passed in 1867, and embodied all the provisions of the Act of 1862. His opinion was that the Court had power to make a compulsory order for winding-up; and, as the petitioner was supported by several of the directors, he should not refuse the order on the ground of his having but one share.

The testator died in 1858. At the date of his will the son had a wife and one child, but the wife died in 1855. The son married again in 1859, and died in 1868, having had no other children. His widow presented a petition praying that she might be declared entitled to a moiety of the fund.

Hastings, in support of the petition.

Cotton, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, contra.

Trustee Relief Act (22 & 23 Vict. c. 35)—Costs of Payment into Court.

A testator directed that the interest upon a sum of 1200*l.*, owing to him by his son, should be paid to his wife for her life, and after her decease he bequeathed the 1200*l.* to his grandson and granddaughter, equally. The widow received the interest for seventeen years till December, 1867, when she died, and the 1200*l.* was then paid to the testator's executors.

The two legatees, the grandson and granddaughter, applied to the executors for payment of the legacy, but they refused payment without having a release and indemnity, on the ground that certain general legatees had claimed that their legacies ought to be made good pro rata out of the 1200*l.*, the estate of the testator being otherwise insufficient. The release being declined, the money was paid into Court under the Trustee Relief Act, minus a sum of 88*l.*, alleged by the trustees to be due to them in respect of costs and expenses in relation to the testator's estate.

Woodhouse, in support of a petition by the legatees for payment of the money out of Court to them, submitted that, as the 1200*l.* was a specific legacy, the money ought never to have been brought into Court, and asked that the trustees might pay the costs occasioned thereby.

Willis, for the trustees, said that, as one of the legatees was a married woman, she had an equity for a settlement, and according to the case of In re Swan (2 H. & M. 34), it was the duty of trustees, under such circumstances, to pay the money into Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the legacies, being specific, ought to have been paid over at once, and without any deduction whatever, and the executors had no right to demand an indemnity. He disapproved of the decision in In re Swan, since it would lead to most unnecessary expense to bring every married woman before the Court. Here the legatee had given her consent to the executors that the money should be paid to her husband, which was sufficient. The executors were not justified in bringing the money into Court, and must pay all the costs occasioned thereby.

V.-C. J. EARL OF DUNDONALD v. MASTERMAN. March 24.

Solicitor and Client—Misappropriation—Liability of Firm.

In 1866 the plaintiff, being pressed by his creditors, applied to the firm of Masterman, Brutton, & Uffill to undertake the management of his affairs by realising his assets and arranging for their distribution amongst his creditors. Brutton had the almost exclusive management of the plaintiff's affairs, and acquired his personal confidence.

Deeds of arrangement with the plaintiff's creditors were executed, in which Masterman and Brutton were named as trustees. Large sums of money were realised from the plaintiff's outstanding assets, and, passing through Brutton's hands, were applied partly in satisfying the plaintiff's creditors, and partly by Brutton, who had since absconded, for his own purposes.

The question in the suit was whether the innocent members of the firm, Masterman and Uffill, were liable to the plaintiff for the loss occasioned by Brutton's defalcations; or whether, as was contended by the defendants, Brutton had received the money as the personal friend and agent of the plaintiff, and not as a member of the firm.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the plaintiff.

Garth, Q.C., Druce, Q.C., Cottrell, and Freeman, for the defendants Masterman and Uffill.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Brutton had received the money as a member of the firm in the course, and within the scope, of professional business undertaken by the firm, and that the plaintiff had not precluded himself by the course of dealing between himself and Brutton from enforcing this liability against the innocent members of the firm, who must be accordingly held liable to account for all moneys of the plaintiff received by Brutton. The firm, however, were not liable for moneys which were received by Masterman and Brutton as trust-moneys.

Arbitration—Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, s. 8—Power to send back to Arbitrator—Lands Clauses Act.

Motion to enlarge the time within which the umpire, to whom Vice-Chancellor Giffard had, on the 9th of July, 1868, remitted back the matters referred for reconsideration and redetermination, should make his award for the compensation payable by the company to the defendants for taking their land.

No further proceedings had been taken in the arbitration, and, on the 5th of February, 1869, the defendants served the company with a notice requiring that the value of their interests in the land should be settled by the verdict of a jury.

The company had filed a bill to restrain the defendants from proceeding on their notice, or bringing any action to recover the amount of compensation claimed by them.

The Master of the Rolls had allowed a demurrer to the bill (ante, p. 65), and, on appeal, His Honour's order was affirmed by the Lord Chancellor.

The question now argued was whether, having regard to the fact that the reference to arbitration was originally made under the Lands Clauses Act, the Court was thereby precluded from acting under the provisions of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, and enlarging the time.

Druce, Q.C., and Leonard Field, in support of the motion.

Kay, Q.C., and Freeling, opposed, and contended that the Court had no jurisdiction.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the Court had jurisdiction to make the order asked, viz. to enlarge the time within which the umpire should make his award, even although the reference took its inception under the Lands Clauses Act. It might be observed (though he was not disposed to attach great weight to the circumstance, as the question was not argued) that the language of the order made by Vice-Chancellor Giffard in July, 1868, was only to be justified by reference to section 8 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854. After the delay, however, that had occurred he should not deprive the respondents of the opportunity of bringing the question before a jury.

An affidavit had been framed in the following manner:—Five statements, by as many different persons, had been written out in succession, and signed by the respective deponents, preceded by a heading in the proper form, and followed by one jurat, in the form of a certificate. This certificate was headed "United States of America, State of West Virginia, Kanawha County," and proceeded to state that Romeo H. Freer, a notary public in and for the county and state, thereby certified that the five persons, all of whom were to him well known, had that day personally appeared, and each of them had made oath in due form that the affidavits thereinbefore written and subscribed by them respectively were true, and that they were persons to whom faith and credence ought to be given. The document was signed by the notary, and sealed with the notarial seal; but the signature of the notary had not been verified.

The question was whether the affidavit could be admitted.

Lawson mentioned the point.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he thought there was sufficient evidence to satisfy him that this affidavit had been made by the persons named before the notary; but the notary's signature must be verified. As the amount in dispute was between 400l. and 500l. he could not dispense with this, as Vice-Chancellor Kindersley had once done, where the amount was much smaller. If the applicants would get from the United States Legation some evidence that credit would be given in the Courts of America to a document in this shape, it might be admitted here.

SABIN v. EAST AND WEST JUNCTION RAILWAY COMPANY.

Specific Performance—Unpaid Purchase-money—Current Decree—Execution-creditor—Scheme—Railway Companies Act, 1867.

Motion on behalf of the defendant company to restrain execution.

The bill was filed on the 18th of June, 1867, by the plaintiffs, who were unpaid vendors of land to the company, for specific performance and payment of the purchase-money. On the 24th of July, 1868, an order was made by consent that the plaintiffs should postpone the rest of the subject-matter of their suit for a year, on the terms of having their principal carried to their account, and their costs and the surveyor's fees paid. After the taxing master's certificate was made, the defendants, in reply to numerous applications, made promises of payment; but without having done so they, in August, 1868, filed a scheme, under the 30 & 31 Vict. c. 127, s. 6, the effect of which was that no proceedings could be continued without leave of the Court. At length, on the 23rd of February, 1869, a summons was taken out by the plaintiffs for leave to issue execution for the costs.

On the 26th of February an order was made for the change of the defendants' solicitors.

On the 8th of March Vice-Chancellor Malins, without making an order, directed the plaintiffs to "go on under their order" of the 24th of July, 1868. On the same 8th of March, 1869, the directors of the company filed a second scheme.

This motion was made in the cause, and in the matter of the company and of the Railway Companies Act, 1867.

Fry, for the motion.

Kay, Q.C., and Lindley, for the plaintiffs.

Fry in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the motion must fail. It was quite clear the matter was before Vice-Chancellor Malins, and, if there had been any irregularity, the motion to discharge the order should have been made before him. His Honour did not think it was competent for a company, after an order had been made, to go on filing one new scheme after another, and so defeat the rights of the execution-creditor. Upon the merits of the scheme the case was also with the plaintiffs, and the motion must be refused with costs.

V.-C. J. WILLIAMSON v. WILLIAMSON. April 19.

Banking Account—Commission—Interest.

Adjourned summons upon a claim by the Manchester and Liverpool District Banking Company against the estate of the testator H. H. Williamson, raising the question as to the amount of commission to which the bank were entitled, and their right to continue charging compound interest after the testator's death.

The testator had for many years kept a banking account with the Manchester Bank, and from about 1862, until his death in December, 1867, his account was largely overdrawn, the amount having increased from 34,000*l.* in 1863 to 106,000*l.* in December, 1866, while the "turnover," or amount drawn out irrespective of advance, had greatly diminished.

From 1863 down to June, 1868, interest had been charged by the bank upon the balance due from the testator at the rate of 1 per cent. above the Bank of England rate of discount, but with a minimum rate of 5 per cent.

From June, 1863, to December, 1866, the bank had charged one-half per cent. commission upon the "turnover," and from that time (the amount of turnover having been greatly reduced, while the balance owing was greatly increased) they had since made a fixed charge of 500*l.* for commission in each six months.

It appeared that the testator was in very infirm health for some time before his death in December, 1867, and unable to attend actively to his affairs; but evidence was given that this increased charge, which was entered in the pass-book, or balanced half-yearly by the bank, was brought to his notice and not openly objected to.

The question as to the commission to which the bank were entitled, and whether the mode of computing the interest upon the balance, with annual rests, was to be continued after the death of the testator, was raised by adjourned summons.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Little, Q.C., and Bedwell, for the bank.

Amphlett, Q.C., Batten, and Bristowe, for the representatives of the testator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR allowed the first charge of 500*l.* for commission, as a matter of contract between the bank and the testator, called to his attention by the entry in the pass-book, and not objected to by him before his death. That contract, however, was confined to the particular half-year (ending June, 1867), and did not extend to future half-years. The second and third charges of 500*l.* (December, 1867, and June, 1868) would, therefore, be disallowed; but in lieu of the second charge, one-half per cent. on the turnover for that half-year would be allowed. With respect to the claim for interest, compound interest was entirely incidental to the continuance of the relation of banker and customer, and when that relation terminated by the death of the customer, the right to charge compound interest ceased also. Accordingly, simple interest only at 5 per cent. would be allowed to the bank from the death of the testator.

Company—Winding-up—Action by leave against Liquidator—Liquidated Damages recovered—Costs of the Action and of coming into Court.

Adjourned summons from chambers, on behalf of Messrs. Bailey and Leetham, that the official liquidator might be ordered to pay to the applicants, in addition to the dividend in respect of a sum of 6083*l.*—being the amount awarded in an action brought in pursuance of an order made in the matter—the sum of 516*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*, the amount of the taxed costs of the action, and also their costs of proving their claim in the matter; the latter costs to be taxed by the taxing master.

In May, 1864, the company entered into a contract with the applicants for the building of a ship, to be paid for by instalments, and to be delivered not later than August, 1864. The contract was not completed within the time specified, nor up to the 4th of August, 1865, when an order was made to wind up the company. On the 25th of August, 1865, the official liquidator obtained leave to complete the contract, and on the 7th of December, 1867, the applicants obtained leave to bring such action against the company, in respect of the non-delivery of this and other vessels in a similar situation, as they might be advised. The amount recovered in the action for liquidated damages was 6083*l.*, the damages having been laid at a much higher amount. The costs of the action were taxed at 516*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.* Judgment was signed on the 19th of December, 1868.

The question was whether the applicants were entitled to payment of these costs in full.

Q. B. TAYLOR v. CHESTER. April 20.
Pledge—Bailment—Immoral Consideration.

The plaintiff declared on a bailment of the half of a 50l. Bank of England note to the defendant to be redelivered on request, alleging a refusal by the defendant to redeliver the half note. The second count was in detinue for the same half note.

The defendant, after traversing the delivery and detention of the note, and pleading to the second count a denial that it was the property of the plaintiff, pleaded specially to both counts, in effect, that the half note had been deposited by the plaintiff with the defendant by way of pledge to secure the repayment of money due and money then advanced by the defendant to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff joined issue on the defendant's pleas, and also replied that the alleged debt, in respect of which the defendant justified the detention of the half note, was for wine and suppers supplied by the defendant in a brothel kept by the defendant for the purpose of being consumed there by the plaintiff and divers prostitutes in a debauch, to incite them to riotous, disorderly, and immoral conduct, and for money knowingly lent for the purpose of being expended in riot and debauchery and immoral conduct.

The defendant took issue on the replication, and also demurred. At the trial the jury found that the half note was deposited by the defendant, as alleged in the special plea, and the debt was incurred, and the money advanced, as alleged in the replication to the plea. The judge then directed the verdict to be entered for the defendant. A rule was obtained, pursuant to leave, to enter the verdict for the plaintiff, and the rule and the demurrer were argued together.

Holker, Q.C., and Hopwood, for the defendant.
Pope and Herschell, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Mellor and Hannen, J.J.) held that the plaintiff could not recover without shewing the true character of the deposit; and that being upon an illegal consideration, to which he was himself a party, he was precluded from obtaining the assistance of the law to recover the half note back; that the verdict must stand for the defendant on the issues taken on the special pleas; and for the plaintiff on the issue taken on the replication; but as upon the whole record the plaintiff could not recover, judgment would be entered for the defendant.

Poor-rate—Valuation List—Appeal against second Rate—Second Notice required under Union Assessment Committee Amendment Act, 1864 (27 & 28 Vict. c. 39), s. 1.

The Union Assessment Committee Amendment Act, 1864 (27 & 28 Vict. c. 39), s. 1, provides that no person shall be empowered to appeal to any Sessions against a poor-rate made in conformity with the valuation list approved by the assessment committee, unless he shall have given to the committee notice of objection against the said list, and shall have failed to obtain such relief in the matter as he deems just.

The assessment committee of the Cardiff Union, on the 24th of April, 1865, approved a valuation list for the respondent parish, in which the appellants were assessed for a wharf in their occupation at a rateable value of 1421l. The respondents, on the 15th of May, 1867, made a rate, and assessed the appellants on the wharf according to the list.

The appellants, having previously given the proper notices, objected before the committee, who refused to alter the amount of the appellants' assessment.

The appellants then appealed against the rate to the Quarter Sessions held on the 11th of October, 1867, and, the only question being whether the appellants were liable to be rated in respect of certain wharfage dues, the rate was affirmed, subject to a case for the opinion of the Queen's Bench.

The respondents made another rate on the 19th of October, 1867, and the appellants, having given twenty-one days' notice of appeal to the respondents and to the assessment committee, applied to the Quarter Sessions held on the 31st of December, 1867, to enter and respite the appeal against this second rate, on the ground that the case granted on the first appeal was not yet disposed of, and the same question was at issue.

The appellants had not, after the making of the second rate, gone before or failed to obtain relief from the assessment committee; and it was contended on behalf of the respondents that a fresh notice of objection should have been given to the committee against the valuation list, as a condition precedent to an appeal against the second rate.

The appellants contended that, on the true construction of 27 & 28 Vict. c. 39, s. 1, the second rate having been made on a valuation list, and on the figures in it, to which they had objected before the committee prior to the appeal against the first rate, it was unnecessary that they should again give notice of objection to the valuation list and go again before the committee.

The Quarter Sessions refused (subject to a case) to enter and respite the appeal.

Field, Q.C., and Philbrick, for the respondents.

J. W. Bowen, for the appellants.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) were of opinion that 27 & 28 Vict. c. 39, s. 1, required a second application to the assessment committee against the valuation list as a condition precedent to the right of appeal to the Quarter Sessions against the second rate, and that the Quarter Sessions were therefore right in refusing to allow the appeal to be entered.

Married Woman—Certificate of Acknowledgment—3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 74, s. 79.

Harrington applied for a rule to file the certificate of acknowledgment of a married woman on the sale of certain property, pursuant to 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 74, s. 79.

From affidavits used by him, it appeared that the woman resided in the island of Lewis. The acknowledgment had been duly taken before two special commissioners under the Act, one of whom had sworn an affidavit verifying the certificate before a person who had the threefold character of sheriff's substitute, justice of the peace, and notary public. By the practice of the Court, however, the affidavit was required to be sworn before a commissioner appointed to administer oaths in the Court of Common Pleas. No such commissioner resided in the island, and communication with the mainland was difficult, and often interrupted.

THE COURT held the affidavit sufficient under the circumstances, and granted a rule absolute in the first instance.

DIXON v. WRENCH.
Debtor and Creditor—Charging Order—1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, s. 14; 3 & 4 Vict. c. 82, s. 1.

Rule to discharge an order made at chambers on the 12th of March, 1868, by which Willes, J., charged the sum of 223l. 4s. 10d. 3 per cent. Reduced Annuities, standing in the joint names of

C. Hilhouse and Matilda Wrench, deceased, and the dividends thereon, with the payment of 281*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.*, the amount for which judgment had been recovered by the plaintiff against the defendant, with interest, to the extent of the defendant's interest therein; and a similar order of the same date, charging with the same judgment-debt seventy-eight preference shares, Clauses B. & C., in the Stockton and Darlington Railway, standing in the name of Matilda Wrench, deceased, to the extent of the defendant's interest therein.

The interest of the defendant arose under the will of Matilda Wrench, executed in the Scotch form, and dated the 3rd of February, 1865, by which the testatrix gave, granted, assigned, and disposed to and in favour of B. W. Wynne and G. W. Skyring, or the acceptor or survivor of them, as trustees, all and sundry lands, &c., and in general the whole means, estate, and effects of the testatrix: on trust, in the first place, for the payment of debts, funeral and trust expenses; secondly, for the payment of certain specific and pecuniary legacies; and, with regard to the residue and remainder of her said estate and effects, upon trust to pay, assign, and dispose the same equally between the defendant and two other persons, when they should attain the age of 21 years respectively; and the testatrix directed her trustees to pay or invest, as thereinbefore directed, the legacies thereby bequeathed, so soon after her decease as her means could be judiciously converted into cash, and, in any event, that this be done not later than twelve months after her death.

The testatrix died on the 18th of October, 1866, being at the time of her death absolutely entitled to the stock and shares charged by the order in question.

R. G. W. Wrench, the defendant, having mortgaged his share to one Banks, Wrench and Banks, on the 16th of April, 1867, filed a bill against Wynne, the surviving trustee, for the administration of the testatrix's estate; and on the 27th of July, 1867, a decree was made directing the usual inquiries, and ordering that the personal estate not specifically bequeathed be applied in payment of debts, funeral expenses, and legacies in a due course of administration.

The plaintiff having afterwards recovered judgment in this action, and obtained the orders in question, the course of administration was impeded, the trustee being no longer able to deal with the stock and shares; and this rule was now moved in pursuance of an order made in the suit by Vice-Chancellor Malins.

The rule having been obtained in Michaelmas Term, 1868, and argued in Hilary Term by

McIntyre against the rule, and

Day in support of it, the Court, after examining the will, directed the case to be re-argued.

April 16. It was re-argued accordingly.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Bramwell and Cleasby, BB.) made the rule absolute to discharge the order, holding that the case was not within 3 & 4 Vict. c. 82, s. 1, and distinguishing the case of Cragg v. Taylor (Law Rep. 2 Ex. 131), on the ground that the judgment-debtor was there entitled to an interest, though a remote one, in the stock itself, which might remain in specie, the trustees not being bound to convert it; but that here the interest of the debtor was only in the proceeds of the stock and shares, which the trustees were by the will directed to realise, and which they must realise to carry out the purposes of the trust.

ATTER AND OTHERS v. ATKINSON AND ANOTHER.

Testamentary Suit—Will—Knowledge and Approval of Contents—Evidence to Prove the same.

The plaintiffs propounded a will of Sarah Newcombe, widow, dated the 3rd of July, 1865. The defendants, amongst other pleas, alleged that the deceased did not know and approve of the contents of such will at the time of the execution thereof, and in explanation of this plea they stated that the will was not read over or explained to the deceased before she signed it, and that she did not know that James Atter was, nor did she intend that he should be, named residuary legatee in it. The cause was tried before Sir J. P. Wilde and a special jury. James Atter, the residuary legatee, who took the instructions, being dead, the attesting witnesses only were called by the plaintiffs. No evidence was given that the deceased knew the contents of the will, except that she told the attesting witnesses, at the time of the execution, that she had read it. Declarations from the deceased as to her surprise at and disapproval of the residuary clause made after the execution of the will were proved (without objection) by the defendants.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Bayford, for the plaintiffs.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Pritchard, for the defendants.

SIR J. P. WILDE in summing up observed:—Where a person who has signed a will is admitted to have been at the time of sound mind, it is extremely dangerous to enter upon an inquiry how far he understood the contents of such will. At the same time such an inquiry is within the functions of a jury; and the question you have now to determine is—assuming that this old lady did undoubtedly execute the will propounded—Did she at the time know and approve of the clause in it which gave the residue to Mr. Atter, who himself drew it? In no previous will had she left him the residue, and there is no proof before you that she gave any instructions for or had any conversations as to the bequest of residue, before she executed the will, or, indeed, that the will was read over to her. Two questions arise on the evidence. Are you satisfied that at the time of execution Mrs. Newcombe said she had read the will? Are you satisfied that, in fact, she had read it? It is possible that, having confidence in Mr. Atter, and having noticed that the legacies were given as she intended, she may have skipped the latter part of the will under the impression that it contained mere formal clauses. But if she read the will, being of sound mind, memory, and understanding, and put her signature to it, it ought to be held, in my judgment, that she knew and approved of the contents.

The jury were unable to agree upon a verdict, and were ultimately discharged.

IN THE GOODS OF J. RISDON.

March 23.

Administration granted to a Female Creditor—Subsequent Marriage and Death of the Administratrix—Debt not reduced into Possession—Right of Husband to Administration de bonis non.

John Risdon died on the 15th of March, 1865, and administration of his effects was granted to Mary Ann Sarah Hooper as a creditor. She sold some horses and carriages belonging to the deceased, and raised money on mortgage of two leasehold houses, and expended the proceeds for the purposes of the administration; but she did not set apart any particular fund in payment of her own debt. On the 26th of July, 1868, the administratrix married Edward Hibberd, and in September, 1868, she died, leaving the estate of John Risdon partly unadministered and a debt of 300*l.* still due to herself and Edward Hibberd in her right.

Bayford moved for administration of the unadministered effects to be granted to Mr. Hibberd as a creditor of the deceased John Risdon.

SIR J. P. WILDE:—It is obvious that no debt is due to Edward Hibberd unless it passed to him jure mariti and he reduced it into possession. But although he may have taken possession of some part of the estate of the deceased, and retained it, he did not reduce into possession the chose in action which belonged to his wife. Nothing was done to satisfy that claim; no part of the estate was set apart for its payment. Moreover, the present application is inconsistent with the position that the debt has been reduced into possession. The applicant can only obtain a grant as representative of his wife.

H. L. McCORMICK v. GROGAN. April 23. Trust.

This was an appeal against an order of the Court of Appeal in Chancery (Ireland), which had reversed a previous order of Lord Chancellor Blackburne.

Mr. Abraham Walter Craig of Belfast made in July, 1851, a will in these words: “I devise and bequeath the whole of my property, real and personal, to my most sincere and valued friend, Mr. W. Grogan, of Wellington Place, Belfast, and appoint him my sole executor.” He did not communicate the existence of the will to any one. Being taken suddenly ill in September, 1854, he sent for Mr. Grogan, mentioned to him the existence of the will, and described it, and also mentioned a letter which, he said, would be found in a desk. Mr. Grogan, on hearing the description of the will, said, “Is that right?” to which Craig answered, “He would not have it otherwise,” and not long after died. The letter, when found, named a great many persons to whom the testator wished annuities to be paid, among whom was “my present foreman hackler, James McCormick,” 10*l.* per annum for life. “After arranging for the due payment of the foregoing, in whatever manner you may think best, I wish the remainder of my property to go to yourself and to my brothers Thomas, James, and John, in equal proportions.” Many other similar expressions occurred in the letter, and Mr. Grogan, assuming that the property was left to him, and that he had an absolute discretion as to disposing of every part of it, paid some of the annuities, but did not pay that of the appellant. On a cause petition being presented in Ireland, the late Lord Chancellor Blackburne declared his opinion to the effect that the letter constituted a trust, and made Mr. Grogan a trustee, and ordered payment of the annuity. On appeal, the Lord Justice of Appeal Christian and the Lord Chancellor Brewster reversed that order. This appeal was brought against that reversal.

H. Law, Q.C. (of the Irish Bar), and Jessel, Q.C., for the appellant. Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and May, Q.C., and A. M. Porter (both the latter of the Irish Bar), for the respondent.

After the appellant’s counsel had been heard: THE LORD CHANCELLOR (LORD HATHERLEY), LORD WESTBURY, LORD COLONBY, and LORD CAIRNS expressed their opinion, on the words of the letter and on the evidence, that no trust had been created, and affirmed the order of the Irish Court of Appeal with costs.

L. JJ. In re ESTATES INVESTMENT COMPANY. April 16.
PAWLE'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Fraudulent Prospectus—Laches.

This was an appeal by the official liquidator of the above company from an order made by the Master of the Rolls, removing the name of Mr. Henry Pawle from the list of contributories on the ground of fraudulent misrepresentations contained in the prospectus, on the faith of which his application for shares was made. In February, 1865, the company was formed, and in May the shares were allotted. In June Mr. Pawle and other shareholders repudiated their shares, and in the same month actions were commenced by the company to recover the allotment-money, which the allottees had refused to pay. On the 14th of July Pawle formed a committee to defend the actions and institute a suit to relieve themselves of their liability. On the 20th of July Baron Martin made an order to stay the proceedings in all the actions then pending against Pawle and others, except those in the action against Ross, one of the repudiating shareholders, until after the trial of that action. In the same month a bill was filed by Ross against the company to set aside his contract to take shares, and to restrain the action against him.

On the 23rd of December the company's solicitors, in answer to a communication from Pawle's solicitor, wrote as follows:—"It is understood that your clients are not to be prejudiced by their not taking proceedings pending the decision in Ross's case." In November, 1866, Vice-Chancellor Wood made a decree in favour of Ross in his suit, and this decree was, in July, 1868, affirmed by the Lord Chancellor. In the meantime, on the 16th of March, 1867, an order was made to wind up the company. Under these circumstances the Master of the Rolls held that Pawle was not liable as a contributory, and the official liquidator appealed.

Southgate, Q.C., Roxburgh, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator.

Jessel, Q.C., Swanston, Q.C., and Everitt, for Pawle.

THE LORD JUSTICE SELWYN said that it was well settled that in a case of fraud, where a shareholder repudiated his shares as soon as he became aware of the fraud, and took active proceedings against the company to be relieved of his shares, he was not prejudiced by the fact that an order had been made to wind up the company before he had obtained a decree in his favour. The only question, therefore, was whether it was necessary that there should be a separate proceeding by each of the persons so entitled to repudiate his shares. In His Lordship's judgment it would be contrary to the principles on which this Court had always acted to hold that this was necessary. If Pawle had not been bonâ fide resisting the company's claim, the case would have been different, but he was, in fact, substantially a party to Ross's suit. His Lordship agreed with the Master of the Rolls, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD concurred.

In re LONDON AND NORTHERN INSURANCE CORPORATION.
STACE AND WORTH'S CASE.

Company—Contributories—Amalgamation—Ultra vires.

By the deed of settlement of the Life Investment Company, provisions were made for the election of directors by the shareholders; and it was also provided that the company might be amalgamated with or sold to any other company upon such terms as an extraordinary meeting of shareholders might approve. In 1867 the directors agreed with the directors of the London and Northern Insurance Corporation for an amalgamation, on the terms that there should be twelve directors of the amalgamated company, five being directors of the Life Investment Company, and seven being directors of the London and Northern Corporation. This agreement was never approved of by an extraordinary meeting of the Life Investment Company, but Stace and Worth, two of the directors of the Life Investment Company, became directors of the amalgamated company, and acted as such. An order having been made for winding-up the London and Northern Corporation, the names of Stace and Worth were placed upon the list of contributories, but their names were removed by Vice-Chancellor James (anté, p. 83).

The official liquidator appealed.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Higgins, for the appellant.

Kay, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the respondents.

THE LORDS JUSTICES considered that the directors of the Life Investment Company had not power to amalgamate on terms which deprived their shareholders of the right to elect directors. The agreement for the amalgamation was therefore absolutely void, and the appeal must be dismissed.

L. JJ. HOLLAND v. HOLLAND. April 26.
Trustee—Specialty.

The question in this case was whether the amount due to the trust from a trustee, who had been appointed trustee, and had accepted by deed containing no declaration of trust by him, was a specialty debt as against his estate.

The Vice-Chancellor Stuart decided that it was a specialty debt.

The executors of the trustee appealed.

C. Hall and Speed, for the appellants.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Davey, for the respondents.

THE LORDS JUSTICES held that the debt was not a specialty debt, and reversed the order of the Vice-Chancellor.

M. R. HAYWARD v. PILE. April 20.
Renewable Leaseholds—Purchase of Reversion—23 & 24 Vict. c. 124, ss. 20, 89.

Betty Hayward, by her will, gave all her estate (including a leasehold estate at Marden) to trustees, upon trusts for conversion of so much of her personal estate as should not be leasehold, and for investment of the proceeds, and for payment of the rents and income of the freehold and leasehold estates, and the investments of her personal estate, to Philip Hayward for life, with remainder over; and she directed that her trustees or trustee for the time being should, if they or he should think fit, but not otherwise, at the usual times and periods, or at such other times or periods as they or he should deem expedient, procure a renewal of the lease or leases for the time being of all or any of her leasehold premises; and for that purpose she directed her trustees, with and out of her said trust-funds, or the rents and profits of her leasehold hereditaments, or, if need be, by mortgage of the said hereditaments or any part thereof, or by any other ways or means they might think proper, to raise such sum or sums of money as might be required for obtaining such renewals, and to apply the same accordingly.

The leasehold estate at Marden, mentioned in the will, was held under a twenty-one years' lease from the Dean and Chapter of Bristol, renewable by custom every seven years. The estates of the dean and chapter became vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who declined to renew. Thereupon the trustees of the will, purporting to act under the powers conferred by 23 & 24 Vict. c. 124, ss. 20, 39, entered into an agreement whereby the trustees were to surrender part of the leasehold property, and also to pay a sum of 407*l.* to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners; and, in consideration of this, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners were to convey the reversion of the residue of the property to the trustees upon the trusts of the will; and they now applied for the sanction of the Court to this arrangement.

The income of the leasehold estate was about 400*l.*, and the effect of the proposed arrangement would be to reduce it to about 200*l.*

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Bevir, in support of the application.

Jessel, Q.C., and C. A. Holmes, for the tenant for life, contended (1) that the Act did not confer a power on any person to buy or exchange the reversion of ecclesiastical leases: it only authorized persons who had power to buy to apply moneys which they were authorized to raise for renewal of leaseholds in such a purchase; (2) that, even if the Act did confer a power to buy, it did not empower trustees to buy without the consent of their cestuis que trust; (3) that, at all events in the present case, the sanction of the Court was necessary to the purchase, and that, under the circumstances, the Court would not give its sanction to the agreement.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the clauses of the Act were most singularly framed, and if his decision had depended on the construction of them he would have taken time to consider. But this was a matter of discretion, and it appeared to him that the agreement ought not to be carried into effect against the wishes of the tenant for life. His income would be very much diminished, and there was no power in the Court to give him any compensation.

M. R. PLUMLEY v. HORRELL. April 21.
Compromise of Suit—Specific Performance.

This was a suit for the specific performance of an agreement to compromise certain suits in the Probate Court, the terms of such compromise being endorsed on the briefs of counsel.

The suits related to the validity of the will of a testator of the name of Flower, whose property, had he died intestate, would have been divisible as follows:—One third would have gone to the plaintiffs, Ellen Russ and Matilda, the wife of Thomas Plumley; one third to J. Witts and his three sisters; and the remaining third to the defendant Eliza, the wife of C. J. Horrell. By a will he gave substantially the whole of his property to Mrs. Horrell; and upon his death Mrs. Plumley and J. Witts entered caveats against the probate, on the ground that execution of the will had been procured by undue influence. Suits to establish the will were instituted by Mr. and Mrs. Horrell against Mr. Thomas Plumley and J. Witts, and these were consolidated, and came on to be heard together. After the evidence in support of the will was closed, a compromise was arranged; and the following endorsement made on the briefs of the leading counsel on each side, and signed by them:

“Verdict for plaintiff. Plaintiff undertaking to charge the property passing under the will with six several sums of 500*l.* in favour of the two defendants, and three Misses Witts, and a Miss Russ. Immediate notice to be given to Mr. Pullen to hold the deeds subject to these charges. Any question as to the proper carrying into effect of these terms to be settled by the Queen's Advocate and Mr. Coleridge.”

These terms were communicated to the Misses Witts and Miss Russ, and appeared to have been assented to by them; but shortly afterwards they entered caveats against the probate, and suits were thereupon instituted against them by Mr. and Mrs. Horrell for the establishment of the will. Miss Russ applied to the Probate Court to have her name struck out of the record, on the ground that she had no intention of disputing the will, but merely wished to prevent probate being granted until the compromise had been carried into effect; but the Court refused the application. The result of the litigation in the Probate Court was the establishment of the will; and Mrs. Horrell having declined to pay to Mrs. Plumley and Miss Russ the sums of 500*l.* agreed to be paid to them, they instituted the present suit to obtain payment.

Jessel, Q.C., and Waller, for the plaintiffs:—

If the Misses Witts were bound by the compromise originally, it is nothing that they have since broken their agreement; the defendant should have obtained an injunction. If they were not bound by it, we have given good consideration for the agreement, inasmuch as, by allowing a verdict to pass for the plaintiffs, we are for ever prevented from disputing the will; and, though the defendants succeeded in establishing the will against other people, it does not follow that it would have been established against us. We ought, therefore, to have the benefit of the agreement.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Mander, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that when an agreement was entered into for a compromise, one would suppose, prima facie, that the case was not to be tried over again. That it was the object of the agreement in question to put an end to the whole dispute, was clear from the evidence in the cause; and His Lordship was of opinion that the agreement was to be binding only in the event of all persons interested in the estate consenting to be bound by it, and if any of them did not consent, the agreement was to be null and void. Now the Misses Witts were not parties to the suit in the Probate Court; the counsel who appeared in it could not bind them, and they chose to repudiate the compromise. Then it was said that the plaintiffs, at all events, had given up their chance of benefiting by the will; but that was not so: if the will had been set aside, the plaintiffs would have claimed their share of the testator's estate. The plaintiffs' case failed entirely; and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

M. R. WILDAY v. SANDYS. April 22.
Will—Personal Estate “invested in any of the Public Funds or Government Securities”—Long Annuities.

Robert Lindley, who died in 1855, by his will, made in 1846, gave his residuary real and personal estate to trustees in trust to convert into money such parts thereof as should not at his decease consist in money, or be invested in any of the public funds or Government securities, and to invest the same, or such part thereof as should not be required for the immediate purposes of his will, in such public funds or Government or real securities as to them should seem most advantageous, and from time to time to vary such securities as might to them appear discreet, and to stand possessed of such residue, and the stocks, funds, and securities in or upon which the same or any part thereof should be invested, and the interest, dividends, and annual produce thereof, upon trust to pay the interest, dividends, and annual produce of such residue to his children in equal shares for their lives, and after their deaths upon other trusts.

The testator died possessed of 412*l.* Long Annuities, and the question in this suit was, whether the Long Annuities ought to have been converted or received in specie by the tenants for life of the residuary estate.

Southgate, Q.C., Round, Bathurst, and Yate Lee, for the tenants for life.

Swanston, Q.C., and Rotch, for the remaindermen.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Sandys, for the trustees.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the Long Annuities were excepted from the trust for conversion as part of the testator's estate "invested in any of the public funds or Government securities," and were payable to the tenants for life as part of the annual income of the residuary estate.

M. R. ADNEY v. GREATREX. April 22.

Will—Construction—"Nephews and Nieces"—Wife's Nephews and Nieces.

The testator, having given several legacies to persons whom he described as his nephews and nieces, though they were, in fact, his wife's nephews and nieces, bequeathed his residuary personal estate to his "nephews and nieces." He had himself only one nephew and one niece; and the question was whether his wife's nephews and nieces were entitled to share.

It appeared that at the date of the will the testator had no brothers and only one sister living, and that she was of great age.

Jessel, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, and Fry, for the testator's nephew and niece.

Southgate, Q.C., Chitty, and Woodroffe, for the wife's nephews and nieces.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the case was distinguishable from all others by the following circumstances:—The testator, having only one nephew and one niece, made a gift to his nephews and nieces in the plural; he was aware that his sister was of advanced age, and that he was unlikely to have any other nephews and nieces; and he had already described some of his wife's nephews and nieces as nephews and nieces simply. Under these circumstances His Lordship was of opinion that the wife's nephews and nieces were entitled to share; but, in thus deciding, he did not intend to affect any other cases; and if the present case should ever be cited before any judge, it was not to be considered as an authority unless the circumstances were precisely similar.

M. R. ASTBURY v. BEASLEY. April 23.

Trustees—Liability for Trust-fund lost by Failure of Bank—Will—Hotchpot Clause—"Moneys Advanced."

This was an administration suit.

Thomas Astbury, the testator in the cause, by his will made in April, 1862, gave all his property in trust for his children equally, and directed that "any moneys which he might have advanced to his children, or any of them, or to his sons-in-law in his life, and also any sums of money which might be owing from them, or any of them, to him at the period of his death," should be brought into hotchpot.

In 1860 the testator had lent to Andrew Hunter, one of his sons-in-law, 1787*l.* In December, 1861, Hunter became bankrupt; in January, 1862, the testator proved under the bankruptcy for the amount of the loan; in May, 1862, Hunter obtained his discharge, and in October, 1862, the testator died, having received no dividend under the bankruptcy.

The question was now raised whether the 1787*l.* ought to be deducted from Mrs. Hunter's share of the estate.

Jessel, Q.C., and Archibald Smith, Southgate, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, and Bush, for the testator's other children, contended that the 1787*l.* was "money advanced" to the son-in-law within the meaning of the hotchpot clause.

Swanston, Q.C., and Higgins, for Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, contended that the word "advanced" was used by the testator with reference not to loans, but to gifts by way of portion; and that as the 1787*l.* was not so advanced, and by reason of the bankruptcy was not owing to the testator at his death, it did not come within the terms of the hotchpot clause.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Eddis, for the trustees.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the word "advanced" was not used by the testator in a technical sense, and that the money lent by the testator to Hunter, though, by reason of the bankruptcy, it was not owing to the testator at his death, must be brought into hotchpot.

The testator had for many years kept a banking account with Attwood & Co. of Birmingham. The executors continued the account, and in March, 1865, Attwood & Co. stopped payment, having in their hands 2958*l.* belonging to the testator's estate, of which 1*l.* 3*d.* in the pound only could be recovered from them. The chief clerk, considering that 1000*l.* was a sufficient balance for the executors to have kept at the bank, charged them with 856*l.*, being the loss on 1958*l.* The executors now applied to vary the certificate, by allowing them the 856*l.*, on the ground that they were under notice at the time of the failure of the bank to pay off a mortgage debt of 6330*l.* on part of the testator's estate.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Eddis, for the executors.

Jessel, Q.C., and A. Smith, Southgate, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, Swanston, Q.C., and Higgins, and Bush, for the residuary legatees.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the executors were not justified under the circumstances in keeping so large a balance at the bankers, and refused to vary the certificate.

M. R. MILDRED v. AUSTIN. April 23.

Foreclosure—Redemption—Judgment-creditor not having issued Execution—27 & 28 Vict. c. 112.

This was a foreclosure suit.

Several judgment-creditors of the mortgagor, who had not issued execution, had been made defendants.

Jessel, Q.C., and Ellis, for the plaintiffs, contended that as, under 27 & 28 Vict. c. 112, s. 1, the judgments did not affect the land of the mortgagor, no writs of elegit having issued, the judgment-creditors were not entitled to redeem.

Bevir and Langley, for the judgment-creditors.

W. W. Cooper, for the mortgagor.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, if the judgment-creditors should issue execution, and the returns to the writs should be made before the expiration of the six months allowed for redemption, they would be entitled to redeem.

Trustees—Investment—Power to invest in Land—Freehold Ground Rents.

Under this settlement the trustees were empowered to invest "in manors, lands, or hereditaments, to be situate in England and Wales, of a clear and indefeasible estate of inheritance in fee simple in possession;" and they were desirous of investing a sum of 8866*l.* in the purchase of plots of land in Kensington on which fifty-five houses had been built, and which were demised for terms of ninety-nine years at rents amounting to 40*l*. A question having been raised whether such freehold ground rents were "lands or hereditaments in fee simple in possession," the trustees presented a petition under Lord St. Leonards' Act for the opinion of the Court whether they had power to invest in freehold ground rents.

Jessel, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the petitioners.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS had no doubt that the trustees had power.

Patent—Novelty.

This was a suit to restrain the infringement of a patent for improvements in the construction of cartridges for breech-loading fire-arms. The plaintiff's invention, as described in his specification, consisted in "forming a cartridge case by combining with a base cup or capsule a powder case made from a strip of thin rolled sheet metal soldered or cemented up at its overlapping edges, and so formed into a tube."

The defendants denied the novelty of the plaintiff's invention, and alleged that it had been anticipated by the prior publication of a similar invention by one Rochatte.

Manisty, Q.C., Jessel, Q.C., Russell Roberts, and Macrory, for the plaintiff.

Grove, Q.C., Southgate, Q.C., Aston, and Langley, for the defendants.

V.-C. S. CATT v. TOURLE. April 20.
Demurrer—Covenant—Restrictions on Trade.

This bill was filed by the vendor of certain land at Brighton, who carried on the business of a brewer, seeking to enforce by injunction a covenant entered into by the Conservative Land Society. On the 22nd of September, 1853, the plaintiff sold a piece of land at Brighton to the Conservative Land Society, and the society on their part undertook to perform certain covenants, which it was agreed should be so noticed in the conveyance as to run with the land. An indenture of even date was executed, in which the following covenant was contained: "That the said C. Catt, his heirs and assigns, shall have the exclusive right of supplying all ale, beer, and porter on any premises which may be erected on any other part of the said piece of land, and which shall be opened or used as an inn, public-house, or beer-shop."

The defendant purchased a plot of the land from the society, and built a house to be used as a beer-house, which he called the Duke of Edinburgh, and, being a brewer, also supplied the public-house with beer.

The plaintiff then filed this bill.

Karslake, Q.C., and Ayrton, for the bill.

Greene, Q.C., and Townsend, for the demurrer, contended that the covenant was bad on three grounds: first, that it was too vague and indefinite; secondly, that there was no mutuality, inasmuch as the plaintiff was not bound to supply beer; thirdly, that the covenant was bad as being in restraint of trade.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR overruled the demurrer, and gave a month's time to answer.

V.-C. S. In re WILKINSON'S SETTLEMENT TRUSTS. April 23.
Settlement—Power—Appointment—Legacies—Gift of Residue—Wills Act, s. 27.

Anne Wilkinson, in September, 1843, assigned funds to trustees upon trust for herself for life, and after her decease to transfer them as she should by deed or will direct, and, in default, in trust for George Wilkinson, his executors, absolutely.

George Wilkinson, who was a trustee, died in November, 1859. The two surviving trustees in 1860 transferred the trust-funds into Court.

Anne Wilkinson, who died in December, 1868, by will in November, 1848, after bequeathing three legacies of 100*l.*, 500*l.*, and 1000*l.*, bequeathed "the residue of the property, subject to the payment of her just debts, funeral and testamentary expenses," to her sisters, Rosetta Pointing and Emma Wilkinson, equally.

Emma Wilkinson died in March, 1863, and the petitioners—Rosetta Pointing and her husband and certain trustees—charged that the residuary bequest in her favour became inoperative, and that one moiety of the funds passed to George Wilkinson's representatives, and prayed accordingly; or that the funds might be divided amongst the parties in such shares as they should appear to be entitled to.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Millar, for the petitioners, submitted that, under the first part of the 27th section of the Wills Act, the residuary bequest was good; that one moiety of the funds enured to the residuary legatee surviving; but that as to the pecuniary legacies, they were not a proper appointment of any part of the funds, as they might be answered out of other funds.

Hughes, for the representative of George Wilkinson, also argued that the gift of legacies was bad, and claimed a moiety of the residue.

Greene, Q.C., and Cookson, for the legatees, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the residuary gift shewed to his satisfaction that the testatrix by her will dealt with her power of appointment, and fully exercised it; and that, to hold that she exercised her power only as regarded the gift of residue, would be to do that which would be wholly inconsistent with the general scope of the will and with that of the Wills Act; and, therefore, he should order the legacies to be paid.

V.-C. M. In re PERUVIAN RAILWAYS COMPANY. April 19.
SAWAR'S CASE.
Summons—Fictitious Payment of Calls.

This was an adjourned summons upon a claim made by the official liquidator that Robinson Sawar should be held liable for the payment of 2200*l.* in respect of unpaid calls upon one hundred 2*l.* shares standing in his name as a contributory of the company.

Under two agreements between the Contract Company and the Railway Company, dated the 8th of May and the 27th of September, 1865, the former sold to the latter the concessions of the Peruvian Government to make the railway in Peru, and bound themselves to construct the same for the Railway Company, and pay all expenses in relation thereto, in consideration of 3,340,000*l.*, which was to be paid by the Railway Company to the Contract Company by certain instalments; and the Contract Company subscribed in their own name, and in the names of certain nominees (of whom Sawar was one), for the great bulk of the shares of the Railway Company, and they were appointed the exclusive bankers thereof; and it was by Article 4 of the latter agreement provided that the Contract Company might at any time pay up any of such shares in full, but that the sum so paid up should thereupon be at once paid over to the Contract Company as such bankers, and be held on deposit as security for the instalments.

Sawar's shares were allotted to him in October, 1865, as a nominee of the International Contract Company, and 3l. were then paid upon each share. The remaining 22l. per share was, in October, 1865, professed to be paid up by the following means:—The Contract Company drew cheques in favour of the Peruvian Company for 488,598l. upon the National Bank, and the Peruvian Company, on the same day, drew cheques to precisely the same amount in favour of the Contract Company upon the same bank, with whom they also had an account. All such cheques were honoured by the National Bank, who debited and credited the same in the pass-book of each company, and thereupon the Contract Company credited the Railway Company in their ledger with the 488,598l. as a sum held by them from that time on deposit as the bankers of the Railway Company under the agreement; and the Railway Company in their ledger debited the Contract Company with the same amount. The acts so done were in conformity with the said agreement.

After both companies had been ordered to be wound up, the official liquidator of the Railway Company carried in a claim for the 488,598l. as a creditor of the Contract Company, but such claim is still undecided. He now claimed as against Sawar and the other nominees, who had been treated by the Railway Company since October, 1865, as having had their shares fully paid up, to have them treated as if no such payment had been made, and he contended that the mode of payment was a scheme resorted to for the purpose of making it appear that the whole of the money due upon the shares taken by the nominees of the Contract Company had been fully paid up.

This was a representative case, and it was admitted that, unless the above interchange of cheques could be called a payment, then Sawar and all the other nominees were liable for the 22l. upon each of their shares.

Glasse, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator, submitted that this case was entirely governed by Crawley's Case (ante, p. 23), the only difference being that, in Crawley's Case, the cheques were drawn after the winding-up order had been made, and were indorsed and handed back, whereas here they were passed through a banker.

Cole, Q.C., and Ince, for Sawar.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said this case was not distinguishable from Crawley's Case. The pretended payment by means of these cheques was altogether fictitious, as no money passed on either side, and neither party had any balance at their bankers sufficient to pay the cheques. Sawar was therefore liable for the amount claimed, and he must pay the costs of adjournment into Court.

V.-C. J. BADGER v. GREGORY. April 19.

Will—Construction—"Survivors" read as "Others."

Eleanor Heath, by her will dated the 11th of February, 1804, devised and bequeathed to trustees all her freehold and personal estate upon trusts for sale and conversion, and directed her trustees, out of the proceeds, to stand possessed of 1000l. upon certain trusts, and as to the residue, to stand possessed of the same, and the investments thereof, upon trust, as to one fourth, to pay the income to her daughter Frances Cooke for life for her separate use, and after her death upon trust to assign and transfer and make over the same unto and amongst all and every the child or children of the said Frances Cooke, equally, if more than one, to be assigned, transferred, or paid when and as they should attain their respective ages of 23 years. Testatrix provided that, if any such child or children should attain 23 in the lifetime of the said Frances Cooke, the interest and interests of such child or children should be considered as vested, and should be transmissible: provided that, if any such child should die under the age of 23, then the share intended for such child so dying should go and accrue to the survivors or survivor and others or other of the same children, and the respective executors, administrators, and assigns of such of them as should be dead having first acquired a vested interest. Testatrix then gave powers of maintenance, education, and advancement; and directed that, in case of the death of Frances Cooke without leaving any such child or children as aforesaid, the trustees should pay the income of the said one fourth part "to and amongst her surviving daughters" in equal shares during their respective life or lives, for their respective, sole, and separate use, and such benefit of survivorship should extend to the surviving as well as to the original shares; and the principal should, after the deceases of such "surviving" daughters, go amongst their children in like manner as the original shares. Testatrix then gave the three remaining fourth shares in like manner, by reference, in trust for her three daughters, Charlotte Cooke, Mary Cooke, and Maria Heath, with like "benefit of survivorship." If only one daughter should die leaving any child or children who should attain 23, the whole was to go to such child or children in equal shares, if more than one. In case of the death of all her said four daughters without leaving such children as aforesaid, and they should all happen to die under 23, testatrix gave the property in trust for her next of kin.

Testatrix died shortly after the date of her will. Frances Cooke married Benjamin Newbury, and died on the 6th of April, 1847, leaving four children. Charlotte married John Wilcox, and died on the 7th of June, 1864, having had eight children. Mary Cooke died on the 20th of February, 1819, never having been married. Maria Heath died on the 6th of September, 1855, never having been married.

The question was whether, when Maria Heath died, her share went to Mrs. Wilcox, as survivor, and her children only, or whether it went in moieties to the Newburys and Wilcoxes; in other words, whether "surviving" could be read as "other."

Amphlett, Q.C., and Millar, for the plaintiffs, a daughter of Mrs. Wilcox and her husband.

Wickens, for one of the children of Frances Newbury.

Badcock, for the executors of Mrs. Wilcox.

Speed, for the representatives of one of the children of Mrs. Wilcox, who attained 23, and died in her lifetime.

Winterbotham, for the trustees of the will.

Amphlett in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held, in favour of the general intention of the testatrix, that the word "survivors" must be construed as "others;" and, consequently, that the Newburys took a moiety.

In re LONDON AND PROVINCIAL STARCH COMPANY.

Companies Act, 1862, s. 165—Jurisdiction.

Application by official liquidator, under section 165 of the Companies Act, 1862, that Messrs. Barnett, Sunley, Todd, and Thornhill, formerly directors of the company, might respectively be ordered within fourteen days to pay to the liquidator the sum of 400l., alleged to have been paid out of the funds of the company, and retained or misapplied by them.

The application arose out of an arrangement between the promoter of the company, one Turner, and the four persons in question, by which, in consideration of their signing the memorandum of association for ten shares each, he verbally promised to give them ten fully paid-up 10l. shares in the company, or the equivalent amount in money. A cheque for 400l. was drawn by the company, and handed to Turner as part of a sum of 1200l. to be paid to him under the articles of association. The cheque was given by Turner to Thornhill, who got it cashed, retained 100l. for himself, and paid 100l. to each of the other three directors, to be applied by them in paying the amount due upon their shares. One of them (Sunley), before the cheque for 400l. was given, wrote resigning his office of director, and refused to receive the 100l. He afterwards transferred the ten shares originally allotted to him and standing in his name as fully paid up.

Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, in support of the application.

Caldecott opposed on behalf of Sunley.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that section 165 of the Companies Act, 1862, was a very beneficial enactment, and he was not disposed to throw any difficulty in the way of a company in their recovering money from the directors when the case fell within the provisions of the Act. Here there had been a clear misfeasance by the directors in this agreement, by which 400*l.* was to be divided between them in money or in shares, and Mr. Sunley could not relieve himself from the liability attaching to him by resigning his office as a director. The four respondents were accordingly declared jointly and severally liable to pay the 400*l.*, with interest at 5 per cent. from September, 1865, with an order for payment within fourteen days.

V.-C. G.} WOLLASTON v. KING. {Nov. 9, 1868.
V.-C. J.} {April 23, 1869.

Power—Remoteness—Rule against Perpetuities—Election.

On the marriage, in 1815, of J. W. King with Caroline Cleaver, property was settled in trust for the husband for life, and after his death for the wife for life (if she survived), and after the death of the survivor, in trust for the children of the marriage as husband and wife should jointly appoint, and in default of joint appointment, as the survivor should appoint, with remainder in trust for the child or children of the marriage equally.

J. W. King died in 1848.

Portions of the property (which consisted of personal estate) were appointed by husband and wife, and also by the widow (Caroline King), in favour of some of their children.

In 1858 Caroline King, by her will, after reciting the settlement and the appointments already made in pursuance thereof, appointed 5000*l.* (part of the fund subject to her appointment) in trust for the benefit of her son J. E. King during his life, or until his bankruptcy or alienation or charge of the fund, in which events the trust for his benefit was entirely to cease, with remainder during his life to testatrix's three daughters; after the death of J. E. King, upon trust as he should by will appoint, and, in default, in trust for the three daughters of testatrix as tenants in common. Certain other funds were also appointed by the will in favour of two of the daughters, and the residue of the trust-funds, and of her personal estate, was given to the three daughters equally.

J. E. King survived testatrix, and died in 1866, having by his will disposed of the 5000*l.* appointed for his benefit.

The bill was filed by the trustees for the purpose of ascertaining the rights of the parties in the 5000*l.*

Willcock, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the plaintiffs.

W. M. James, Q.C., and Horton Smith, Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, contended that the power to appoint by will given to J. E. King was void for remoteness.

Druce, Q.C., and T. Hughes, for the legatees under the will of J. E. King, contended that the appointment by Caroline King was perfectly valid.

C. C. Barber, for other parties.

VICE-CHANCELLOR GIFFARD held that the power of appointment by will given to J. E. King by the will of Caroline King was void for remoteness, and that the fund was well appointed to Mrs. King's three daughters. In order to raise the question of election, the case would stand over, with liberty to amend the bill by setting out more fully the will of Mrs. King and the state of her property.

Druce, Q.C., and T. Hughes:—

Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the daughters of Mrs. King:—

No case of election arises where the claim of the parties whom it is sought to put to their election arises under, and not against, the will.

April 23. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the daughters were not put to their election. The failure of the first dispositions of the will, so far as they failed, enured for the benefit of the legatees, who were allowed to retain both benefits, because they took both as legatees under the will itself, without calling in aid any other instrument or any adverse title; the rule as to election not being applicable when the claim of the parties (whom it was sought to put to their election) was not dehors the will, and adverse to it, but arose between one clause in a will and another clause in the same will.

THE QUEEN v. CAMBRIAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (8 Vict. c. 18), ss. 25, 35, 68 — Railway Company—Mandamus to take up Award—Return that Land was not injuriously affected.

Mandamus, reciting that the defendants by several Acts were empowered to make a certain railway, and that the prosecutor claimed to be owner of an exclusive right of ferry over a certain river or estuary, and that the defendants had built a railway bridge and a bridge for foot-passengers over the river or estuary adjacent to the ferry; that the prosecutor, on the 3rd of May, 1867, sent a notice, under the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, of his interest in the ferry, and that it had been injuriously affected by the defendants' works, and claiming 1700*l.* compensation; that the prosecutor appointed an arbitrator, and the defendants also appointed an arbitrator, but without prejudice to their right to dispute the claim. That the arbitrators appointed an umpire; and it was agreed between the prosecutor and the defendants that the umpire should proceed to determine the claim according to the provisions of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act; that on the 4th of October, 1867, the defendants and the prosecutor attended before the umpire by their respective counsel and attorneys, and that it was agreed that the umpire should make his award on or before the 18th of December, 1867; that the umpire duly made his award. The writ then commanded the defendants to take up the award.

Return, that the exclusive ferry and the interest of the prosecutor therein have not, nor has either of them, been injuriously affected by the defendants' works within the meaning of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, as alleged, and that the prosecutor was not and is not, under the provisions of the said Act, entitled to claim or recover compensation from the defendants.

Demurrer and joinder.

Morgan Lloyd, for the prosecutor.

McIntyre, for the defendants, was not heard.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Lush and Hannen, JJ.) held that the defendants were entitled to judgment. The demurrer admitted that the prosecutor's ferry had not been injuriously affected at all within the meaning of the Statute, and that the prosecutor was not entitled to any compensation: so that the award must be a nullity; and the Court would not, by mandamus, compel the defendants to incur useless expense in taking it up. The return was therefore good.

Q. B. ASHWORTH, APP.; HENWORTH, RESP. April 21.
Markets and Fairs Clauses Act, 1847 (10 Vict. c. 14), s. 13—Exposing Goods for Sale—" Dwelling-place or Shop."

The Local Government Act, 1858 (21 & 22 Vict. c. 98), having been adopted in the town of Baoupi, the Local Board, under section 50, provided a market house for the district, which was opened in 1867.

By section 13 of the Market and Fairs Clauses Act, 1847 (10 Vict. c. 14), which is incorporated with 21 & 22 Vict. c. 98, "after the market place is opened for public use, every person other than a licensed hawkers who shall sell or expose for sale in any place within the prescribed limits, except in his own dwelling-place or shop, any articles in respect of which tolls are authorized to be taken in the market," is made liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s.

The appellant was the tenant of a dwelling-house and shop, and a piece of ground in front of the shop; there was a wooden shed affixed to the house, and supported on wooden posts, which had been erected over the piece of ground for eighteen years, and, previous to the erection of the shed, stone flags had been built into and formed part of the house, which projected three feet from the house, and these flags helped to support the wooden shed.

The appellant, having exposed potatoes and other vegetables for sale outside his house and shop upon the piece of ground and beneath the wooden shed, was convicted by justices on an information charging that he had contravened 10 Vict. c. 14, s. 13.

Crompton Huston, for the appellant.

Quain, Q.C. (J. Kay with him), for the respondent.

COCKBURN, C.J., LUSH and HAYES, JJ. (MELLOR, J., dissenting), held that the facts stated shewed that the shed was part of the appellant's dwelling-house or shop, and the justices were wrong in convicting him.

Q. B. DENT AND OTHERS v. SMITH, P. O. OF MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY. April 23.

Ship and Shipping—Marine Insurance—Change of Nationality of Ship—Perils of the Seas—Sum paid for Salvage under compulsion of Local Court.

The plaintiffs, in November, 1858, made arrangements with the owners of the British steamship Dutchman for the conveyance from London to Constantinople of five cases of bar gold, and on the 26th of November they effected with the defendant's company a policy of insurance to the amount of 10,000*l.* "upon five boxes, containing bar gold, value 52,000*l.*, in the ship or vessel called the Dutchman, at and from London to Constantinople, with leave to call at Havre and intermediate ports, including all risks from the Bank of England until safely delivered to the consignees at Constantinople." The perils insured against were, inter alia, of the seas . . . arrests and detentions of all kings, princes, and people of what nation soever . . . and all other perils, losses, &c., with the usual suing and labouring clause.

The Dutchman had been, on the 22nd of November, entered outwards at the Custom House as a British ship for the ports of Malta, Constantinople, &c. On the 27th of November the owners sold and transferred her to a Russian company, and she was duly certified as a Russian ship. The five cases of gold were loaded on board on the 4th of December under a bill of lading of that date, and on the 6th of December the Dutchman was cleared outwards as a Russian vessel for the same ports. Neither the plaintiffs nor the defendants knew, until after the termination of the voyage, that she had ceased to be an English vessel. The Dutchman sailed from London on the 8th of December, and on the 4th of January, 1859, she was stranded about two and a half miles from Gallipoli, in Turkish territory, and about 100 miles from Constantinople, within the jurisdiction of that port. The water gaining fast, the captain ordered the boats out, and he sent the chief officer, about two hours after the ship had struck, with two female passengers and the cases of gold, to Gallipoli, at the same time writing for assistance from the Russian consul there. The chief officer landed the cases at Gallipoli at once, and deposited them in the care of the Russian consul, and the gold remained in his charge for twelve days, and the fees demanded upon delivering it up were two and a half per cent. on its value. The gold was forwarded to the Russian consul-general at Constantinople, and ultimately was delivered to the consignees on their making a deposit of 10,110*l.*, or 20 per cent. on the value, as a security to pay whatever should be awarded against them for average or salvage expenses by the Russian consular Court.

In Turkish territory, by capitulations with the Great Powers, all matters touching ships and their cargoes are decided by the consular Court of the country to which the ship belongs.

After the gold had been landed on the 4th of January, operations were commenced to get the vessel off, but these proved ineffectual, and she ultimately was broken up by storms. The rest of the cargo, however, was landed, and many parts of the ship saved. Three persons were appointed by the consul to decide upon the average to be paid by all parties concerned. These persons found it not a case of average, but a case of salvage, and they awarded that the cargo, including the gold, must contribute to the whole expenses in proportion to the value; this threw by far the greater proportion of the expenses on the gold. The agents for the plaintiffs and the defendants protested against this award, as the gold had been landed before any of the operations had been commenced; but the award was ultimately homologated by the Russian minister at Constantinople, and, no notice of appeal to the Court at St. Petersburg having been lodged within eight days, it became a definitive judgment, binding on all parties. Had the ship remained under the English flag, the salvage charges would have been adjusted according to English law, and the greater part of the sum charged against the plaintiffs would not have been charged.

The plaintiffs, having been thus obliged to pay the sum awarded against them, sought to recover a proportionate part of it against the defendants, as a partial loss by perils insured against.

Watkin Williams (English Harrison with him), for the plaintiffs.

Sir G. Honyman, Q.C. (Mellish, Q.C., and Lodge with him) for the defendants.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J.; Mellor, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) gave judgment for the plaintiffs. The fact of the change of nationality of the ship could not affect the contract of insurance. There was no express condition in the policy that the ship should continue English, and such a condition certainly could not be implied. It was unnecessary to go into the question whether or not the judgment of the Russian consular Court was strictly according to the law: the ship having been wrecked, the consequence was that the gold had got into the hands of the Russian authorities, and, in order to get it back, the plaintiffs had had to pay the sum claimed, and this was the immediate and by no means too remote consequence of the wreck, and the plaintiffs were therefore entitled to recover the money as a loss by the perils of the sea.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. METROPOLITAN BOARD OF WORKS. April 24.
Lands Clauses Consolidation Act (8 Vict. c. 18), s. 68—Compensation—Obstruction to Trade.

The claimants were possessed of a factory in Ferry Street, Lambeth, and carried on the business of potters. They sought to recover compensation from the defendants, under section 68 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, for injuriously affecting their premises by erecting the Thames Embankment and cutting off the access from their premises to the river Thames, and thereby preventing them from sending and dipping for and fetching water from the river to use in their business, and also from carting sand from the river to their premises brought in barges for their use.

No land of the claimants was taken by the defendants.

A warrant having been issued to the sheriff of the county of Surrey to summon a jury to assess compensation, the jury returned a verdict for the claimants for 90*l*. The inquisition having been removed by certiorari, a rule was obtained to quash it, on the ground that, as no part of the claimants' premises were taken, and no private right or easement was injuriously affected by the works of the defendants, the claimants were not entitled to compensation.

Montagu Chambers, Q.C., and Bridgman, for the claimants.

Parry, Serjt., and Philbrick, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Mellor, Hannen, and Hayes, JJ.) held that the question was decided by Ricket v. Metropolitan Railway Company (Law Rep. 2 H.L. 175), and that, to entitle a claimant to compensation under section 68 of the Lands Clauses Act, the injury must be actual injury to the land itself; as by loosening the foundation of buildings on it, obstructing lights or drains, making it inaccessible by lowering or raising the ground immediately in front of it, or by some such physical deterioration; that the claimants' premises not being injuriously affected in this sense, they were not entitled to compensation; and that the rule must be made absolute.

Ex. ISITT v. BRESTON. April 22.
Act of Bankruptcy (12 & 13 Vict. c. 106), s. 67—Removal of Goods
—Delivery of Goods.

This was an action of trover brought by the plaintiff, as creditors' assignee of one Lockett, to recover the value of goods removed by the defendant from Lockett's premises to his warehouse under circumstances alleged by the plaintiff to amount to an act of bankruptcy in Lockett. The goods consisted of furniture and stock-in-trade, and were removed by defendant from Lockett's premises by his direction at 4 A.M. on the 12th of August, 1868, and taken to the London Repository Company's warehouse, kept by the defendant. On the same morning, but subsequently to the removal, Lockett left his house with his family, and on the 20th of August he was adjudicated bankrupt. After the goods were deposited with the defendant, he advanced money upon them to the bankrupt. The plaintiff claimed the goods without tendering the amount of the defendant's lien.

The case was tried before Martin, B., at Westminster, on the 3rd of December, 1868. No evidence was given of any knowledge by the defendant of Lockett's circumstances, or such as would shew fraud in him; and the learned judge, following the case of Cotton v. James (1 Mood. & M. 273), held that, as the removal of the goods on the 12th of August was not intended to pass any property in them, it was not a fraudulent "delivery or transfer" within 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 67, and therefore not an act of bankruptcy; and he nonsuited the plaintiff, giving him leave to move to enter a verdict for 40*l*., the value of the goods.

A rule having been obtained accordingly:

Francis shewed cause, and contended that the mere act of removal was not an act of bankruptcy, and that a mere delivery without the transfer of property was not within section 67 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1849.

Pollock, Q.C., and Day, supported the rule, distinguishing Cotton v. James, and contending that no decision on this point was then come to.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Martin, Bramwell, and Cleasby, BB.) following Cotton v. James, made the rule absolute.

Corporation—Common Seal—Lease by Corporation—Tenancy from Year to Year—Agreement to Repair.

Appeal from the Westminster County Court.

The defendant entered and occupied premises of the plaintiffs under an agreement for a three years' tenancy, by which he agreed to keep and deliver up the premises in tenantable repair. After the expiration of the three years he continued in possession, and paid rent until the 25th of March, 1868, when his tenancy was determined by a six months' notice to quit.

The plaintiffs sued the defendant for dilapidations. The case was tried before the learned judge and a jury. It was objected that the plaintiffs were a corporation, that the agreement was not sealed with their common seal, that therefore no tenancy was created, and the defendant could only be made liable for use and occupation, but not on any stipulations entered into in consideration of a tenancy; and a nonsuit was claimed. On the other hand, it was contended that a yearly tenancy was created on such terms of the agreement as were applicable to a yearly tenancy, and that the stipulation as to repairs was applicable.

The learned judge refused to nonsuit the plaintiffs, and the jury found a verdict for them for 15*l*.

The defendant appealed.

April 26, 28. The case was argued by

Anstie, for the appellant, and

C. C. THE QUEEN v. JENKINS. April 24.
Evidence—Admissibility of dying Declaration—"No hope at present of recovery."

Indictment for the murder of one Fanny Reeves.

The dying declaration of F. Reeves was put in evidence for the prosecution at the trial. The declaration was made on oath to a magistrate's clerk, who took it down in writing, which was then signed by F. Reeves, who died about thirteen hours afterwards.

The end of the declaration contained the following statement:—"From the shortness of my breath, I feel that I am likely to die, and I have made the above statement with the fear of death before me, and with no hope at present of my recovery." The words "at present" were interlined, and were put in under the following circumstances:—When the magistrate's clerk came to take the deceased's statement, he found her in bed, breathing with considerable difficulty, and moaning occasionally. He administered an oath, and she made her statement. He asked her if she felt she was in a dangerous state—whether she felt she was likely to die. She said, "I think so." He said, "Why?" She replied, "From the shortness of my breath." Her breath was extremely short—the answers disjointed from its shortness. The clerk said, "Is it with the fear of death before you that you make these statements?" and added, "Have you any present hope of your recovery?" She said, "None."

The clerk then took down her declaration, but he did not put in the words "at present" in the part of the declaration above set out, where the deceased stated that she had no hope of recovery. He then read the declaration over to her, and asked her to correct any mistake that he might have made. She then suggested the words "at present." She said, "No hope at present of my recovery." He then interlined the words "at present," and she signed the declaration.

Without the declaration of the deceased, there was no evidence to go to the jury; but the other evidence of the prosecution, so far as it went, was confirmatory of the deceased's statement.

The case was left to the jury, who found the prisoner Guilty. The question was whether the declaration was admissible in evidence.

Collins (Norris with him), for the prisoner.

T. W. Saunders (Bailey with him), for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Byles, Lush, and Brett, JJ., and Cleasby, B.) held that the declaration was not admissible in evidence, as the circumstances under which it was made shewed that the deceased was not then absolutely without hope of recovery.

Conviction quashed.

C. C. THE QUEEN v. TAYLOR. April 24.

Misdemeanour necessarily including a lesser Misdemeanour—Indictment for "unlawfully and maliciously wounding," and for "unlawfully and maliciously inflicting grievous bodily harm"—Verdict, "Guilty of an Assault."

First count of indictment, that the prisoner did "unlawfully and maliciously wound" T. Meek. Second count, that he did "unlawfully and maliciously inflict grievous bodily harm" on T. Meek. There was no other count.

The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty of an Assault."

The question was whether the prisoner could be convicted of a common assault on that indictment.

Shepherd, for the prosecution.

No counsel appeared for the prisoner.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Byles, Lush, and Brett, JJ., and Cleasby, B.) held that the prisoner could be properly convicted of a common assault on that indictment, as the offences charged in the indictment were misdemeanours which necessarily included the lesser misdemeanour of an assault.

Conviction affirmed.

P. & M. GRAHAM v. GRAHAM AND GRIFFITH. April 22.

Marriage Settlements—Issue—22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, s. 5.

A decree dissolving the marriage was pronounced on the 8th of May, 1861. At that time there was living issue of the marriage one child, who died on the 6th of June, 1867. On the 19th of February, 1869, the petitioner filed a petition under the 5th section of 22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, praying for an inquiry into the execution of an ante-nuptial settlement, and for an order with reference to the application of the property settled thereby.

Searle moved that the petition might be dismissed, on the authority of the decision of the full Court in Corrance v. Corrance (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 495).

Stavely Hill, Q.C., and R. Blaine, for the petitioner:—

The words "either for the benefit of the children of the marriage or of their respective parents," are words descriptive of the property with which the Court is empowered to deal, not limiting the power of the Court as to the orders which it has to make.

[THE JUDGE-ORDINARY:—Then it would follow that the Court might make what orders it pleased with regard to the property, and give it not only to the parents or the children, but to any one else, without a restriction of any kind.]

That was the intention of the Legislature, and such a construction would get rid of the difficulties felt in Corrance v. Corrance, and the previous cases, as to the meaning of the section.

THE JUDGE-ORDINARY:—I repeat what I said in Corrance v. Corrance, that I much lament that the Court is not invested with full power of dealing with marriage settlements, whether there is issue of the marriage or not. I very much doubt whether, when the statute was passed, attention was directed to the legal effect of the language used in the section; but it is needless to indulge in that speculation, for the Court is bound by the language and its proper legal interpretations. That language has received the interpretation of the Court in three cases: in Thomas v. Thomas (2 Sw. & Tr. 89), in which the full Court were unanimous; in Bird v. Bird (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 231), where I followed the decision in Thomas v. Thomas; and in Corrance v. Corrance (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 495). In the last case the full Court, upholding Thomas v. Thomas, held further, that the circumstance that there had been a child which was not living at the date of the divorce made no difference. And the Court had this alternative—either it must have decided that it had power under the section, whether there was issue of the marriage or not, or that it only had power where there was a child existing, who might be benefited by the order of the Court. That was the only reasonable interpretation of the language of the Legislature. It seems to me that it would be unreasonable to hold that the Legislature intended the Court to have the power of opening settlements if there ever were children of the marriage, although none were living at the time of the order, but that it did not intend it to have that power if there were never any children. The Court had no alternative but to come to the conclusion to which it came in Corrance v. Corrance. That decision governs this case. The only difference between them is, that there the child died before the decree absolute, and here it died after the decree. A new view of the structure of the section has been presented to the Court, and it has been suggested that the words "for the benefit" must be coupled with the word "settled," and disconnected with the words "may make such orders." The result of that construction would be that the Court would have power to make orders in favour of anybody, and to invest it with an enormous and unreasonable power over settled property. I cannot acquiesce in the suggested construction, and I dismiss the petition with costs.

Solicitor for respondent: W. Raimondi.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF G. CASMORE. April 27.

Will—Execution—Signature in Attestation Clause—Second Signature beneath Names of Witnesses.

George Casmore, of Clerkenwell, Middlesex, on the 16th of April, 1864, made his will on a printed form. The name of the deceased was written by him in the attestation clause, and also beneath the signatures of the attesting witnesses. The witnesses in their affidavit stated that Mr. Casmore on that day informed them that he wished to make a will in favour of his wife, and produced a printed form, which he filled up in their presence, and, having written his name in the attestation clause, he asked them to subscribe and attest the will, which they did in his presence; that, after they had done so, the testator signed his name underneath, remarking that they were witnesses of his will.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., moved for probate of the will. He referred to the case In the Goods of Walker (2 Sw. & Tr. 354).

LOLD PENZANCE:—The case cited is in point; substantially it is the same as this. Probate may be granted, for I think the testator intended, by signing his name in the attestation clause, to execute his will. The probate will issue; the signature of the deceased under the names of the witnesses being omitted.

L. J. In re MERCANTILE TRADING COMPANY. April 28.
Winding-up—Repayment of Dividend by Director—Delusive Dividend—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 101, 165.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins, refusing an application by the official liquidator in the winding-up of the above-mentioned company to compel one of the directors to repay a dividend of 25 per cent. received by him (ante, p. 82).

The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the balance-sheet was delusive, and the dividend improperly paid, but that the Companies Act did not confer on him any jurisdiction to order the money to be repaid in a summary way without a bill being filed.

Cotton, Q.C., and Higgins, for the appellant, relied on the 101st and 165th sections of the Companies Act, 1862.

Glasse, Q.C., and H. M. Jackson, for the respondent.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the Court had jurisdiction in this case to order a return of the dividend both under the 101st and 165th sections of the Act, and if they had thought that the balance-sheet was delusive, and that there was really a payment out of capital, they would have had no hesitation in exercising that jurisdiction. But they were of opinion that, considering all the circumstances, the valuations in the balance-sheet were substantially fair; and having regard to the lapse of time, and the fact that the application was made at the instance of creditors who were parties to the payment of the money, they considered that the application could not be supported, and was rightly refused by the Vice-Chancellor, although not on the grounds on which he rested his decision. The appeal must therefore be dismissed with costs.

HEARD v. PILLEY.

May 3.

Specific Performance—Contract by Agent appointed by Parol—Statute of Frauds.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins, overruling the demurrers of the two defendants in the suit.

The bill stated that the plaintiff employed the defendant Pilley, as his agent, to obtain a lease of a house in the city of London belonging to the defendant Sugden; that Pilley accordingly agreed with Sugden for a lease of the house; but that Pilley refused to give the plaintiff the benefit of the agreement, denying that he acted as his agent, and claimed the lease for his own benefit. The bill made no allegation of any written appointment of Pilley as the plaintiff's agent, his authority resting entirely on parol evidence. The bill prayed that Pilley might be declared to have made the agreement with Sugden as agent for the plaintiff, and that Sugden might be decreed to grant the lease to him.

The two defendants demurred for want of equity, and the Vice-Chancellor overruled the demurrers.

The defendants relied principally upon Bartlett v. Pickersgill (4 East, 577, note), cited by Lord St. Leonards and Mr. Dart in their treatises on "Vendors and Purchasers."

Glasse, Q.C., and Lawrence, for Sugden.

Glasse, Q.C., and Jolliffe, for Pilley.

Cotton, Q.C., and Berkeley, for the plaintiff.

THE LORDS JUSTICES said that, whether Bartlett v. Pickersgill was or not a binding authority, of which they expressed some doubt, they were clearly of opinion that it was not applicable to the present case; for there the estate had been conveyed to the agent, and the object of the bill was to compel him to reconvey it to the plaintiff; but the present bill was simply a bill for specific performance of a contract made by an agent, where the agency was proved by parol. To hold that specific performance in such a case was precluded by the Statute of Frauds, would be to make that statute itself an instrument of fraud. The Vice-Chancellor's decision was right, and the appeals must be dismissed with costs.

L. JJ. LAMB v. NORTH LONDON RAILWAY COMPANY. May 3.

Injunction—Railway Company—Compulsory Powers—Object not authorized by Special Act.

This was an appeal from an order made by Vice-Chancellor James, granting an injunction to restrain the above-mentioned company from compulsorily taking certain lands of the plaintiff.

In 1864 the company obtained an Act to enable them "to construct additional works in Poplar, and for other purposes;" by the 6th section of which they were empowered to take the lands mentioned in the Book of Reference, which included the plaintiff's land, but it provided that the compulsory powers should not be exercised beyond the period of three years from the passing of the Act. By the 19th section of the same Act the company were prevented from stopping up a street called Albert Street, without the permission of the Islington Vestry.

The company were not able to obtain this consent, but in 1865 they obtained another Act for the purpose of enlarging their Highbury Station, by which they were empowered to stop up Albert Street on condition of their constructing another road in a direction specified by the Act. For the purpose of this Act they were empowered to take certain lands, which however did not include any of the lands of the plaintiff.

The company, shortly before the expiration of the powers of the Act of 1864, gave notice to the plaintiff to take some of his land; but the plaintiff, having ascertained that they wanted the land, not for the purposes of the Act of 1864, but for the purpose of making the new road, filed the present bill to restrain them; and the Vice-Chancellor granted the injunction.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Rodwell, for the company, who appealed, contended that they had power to take the plaintiff's land for any of the purposes of the undertaking authorized by Parliament.

Kay, Q.C., and Woodhouse, for the plaintiff, contended that the company could not take the land under the powers of the Act of 1864 for the purpose of the Act of 1865, which was quite distinct, and of which the plaintiff had had no notice, and which he had no opportunity of opposing when the bill was before Parliament. They also argued that the plaintiff's land was not necessary at all for the purpose of the Act of 1865, as the company had other land through which they could make the new road without touching his land.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that, although the fact that the company had some other land which they might apply for the purpose of making the new road would not be a sufficient ground for an injunction, yet the plaintiff was entitled to one, on the ground that the compulsory powers given by the Act of 1864 were only given them for the purposes of that Act, and did not extend to the purpose of making the new road. It was important that compulsory powers interfering with private rights should not be extended beyond what was necessary; and when railway companies required such powers, they ought to tell the public plainly for what purpose they wanted them. The appeal was therefore refused with costs.

GRAHAM v. JOHNSON.

April 26.

Voluntary Bond—Purchaser of Chose in Action—Forbearance to Sue—Promise to Pay made in Ignorance of Rights.

On the 6th of March, 1862, T. Graham, an officer in the Indian army, executed and gave to H. Johnson, a barrister in India, his bond for the payment on demand of 10,000 rupees. The parties were intimate friends, and had previously accepted accommodation bills for each other, and Johnson had been consulted by Graham professionally. The bond was prepared by Johnson and executed at his chambers, and, according to Graham's evidence, was executed by Graham at Johnson's request, without any consideration, in ignorance of its legal effect, and under the belief that it was a means to enable Johnson to raise money, like the bills of exchange. At the same time Graham, at Johnson's request, wrote and gave to Johnson a letter to the effect that he owed Johnson a good deal of money, not only for money paid but for services performed, and that he wished to give Johnson a promise in writing to pay him 10,000 rupees, "so that Johnson could raise the wind on it." In February, 1864, Graham asked Johnson about his liabilities in respect of the transactions between them, and Johnson wrote him a letter stating that, except a bill for 6000 rupees, there was nothing for which Graham could become liable for him. In December, 1864, Johnson assigned the bond to C. Barlow for valuable consideration, at the same time shewing to Barlow Graham's letter of the 6th of March, 1862, and assuring him that valuable consideration had been given for the bond. In August, 1865, Barlow's solicitors applied to Graham for payment of the bond, and he replied that he expected soon to obtain some property, and he would then settle the matter. In January, 1866, Graham instituted this suit against Johnson and Barlow to have the bond cancelled, and shortly afterwards Barlow commenced an action in Johnson's name against Graham on the bond. In December, 1866, an order was made in the suit that Graham should allow judgment to be entered against him in the action, and that execution should be stayed until the hearing of the cause.

Southgate, Q.C., and Cates, for the plaintiff, contended that the plaintiff was entitled as against Johnson to have the bond set aside, as having been executed without consideration and in ignorance of its effect, and that Barlow took it subject to the equities subsisting between the plaintiff and Johnson.

Cracknall, for Johnson, contended that upon the evidence the bond was intended by the plaintiff as a gift to Johnson.

Jessel, Q.C., and Hemming, for Barlow, contended, 1st, that the letter of the 6th of March, 1862, having been written by the plaintiff for the purpose of inducing third parties to advance money to Johnson on the bond, precluded him from asserting against a bonâ fide purchaser of the bond the equity he might have against Johnson; 2ndly, that the plaintiff was bound by his promise to Barlow's solicitors to settle the bond, upon the faith of which they had forbore to sue him until after he filed his bill.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, as against Johnson, the plaintiff was clearly entitled to have the bond cancelled, and that, as there was nothing on the face of the bond to shew that it was meant to be a negotiable instrument, Barlow took it subject to the equities between the plaintiff and Johnson, and that the plaintiff was not bound by his subsequent promise, which was made in ignorance of his right to relief in equity against Barlow.

M. R. LLOYD v. LLOYD. April 26.

Will—Construction—"Property"—Real Estate.

Edward Lloyd, by his will, devised a house and lands to his wife for life, and after her death to his eldest daughter, her heirs and assigns, or, in the event of her dying in the lifetime of her mother, to his second daughter, her heirs and assigns for ever; and after a specific bequest of certain personal property to his wife, he devised and bequeathed all his other property whatsoever and wheresoever to his brother, the Reverend Yarburgh Gamaliel Lloyd, and his nephew, Yarburgh George Lloyd, upon trust to continue the same in the investments on which it should be standing at the time of his decease, or at their discretion to call in the same and invest it in their names in Government or real securities, or debentures of railways or municipal corporations, and to apply the same in manner following:—To set apart such portion of the said residue as, with the sum of 800*l.* a year settled on his said wife, would amount to one half of the total income arising from his residuary estate and the said settled property united, and to pay the interest of such sum to her during her natural life; and he bequeathed the income of the remainder of his said residuary estate to his said two daughters; and he directed that his trustees should pay to his wife, and after her decease should apply for their maintenance and education such part of their income as they should think proper until they attained respectively the age of 21 years, or married with their mother's consent, and that on their respectively attaining that age or marrying as aforesaid, the said remaining trust-fund should be equally divided between them, and the sum reserved as aforesaid for their mother's life should be divided in the same manner at her decease.

The testator was, at the time of making his will, entitled to no other real estate than that specifically devised; but between that time and the 4th of February, 1869, when he died, he became entitled to real estate of great value; and the question was whether such real estate passed by the will.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Brodrick, for the plaintiffs, contended that it did not. They relied on Coard v. Holderness (20 Beav. 147), and submitted that the terms in which the trusts to the residuary estate were expressed were wholly inapplicable of real estate.

Jessel, Q.C., and Babington, contra.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that testator gave real estate specifically; then he devised and bequeathed all his other property to trustees; though he did not use the word "heirs," at the same time he did not use the words "executors and administrators," as was the case in Coard v. Holderness; more than that, he spoke of the income of his residuary estate. And under these circumstances the real estate must be held to pass.

Contributory—Infant Transferee—Substitution of Transferor.

This was an application by the official liquidator to remove the name of Charles Maitland from the list of contributories of the company as the holder of fifty shares, and to substitute the names of J. H. Richardson and Thomas Richardson, or the name of James Maitland, as the holders or holder of the said shares.

Messrs. Richardson were the transferors of the shares, which were sold by their brokers on the Stock Exchange in the usual way. The transfer was prepared and executed in the name of Charles Maitland, who afterwards proved to be an infant. It afterwards appeared that Charles Maitland never signed the transfer, but that it was signed, sealed, and delivered by his father, James Maitland, or by his direction, on behalf of Charles Maitland.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the official liquidator.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Lawson, for Messrs. Richardson, contended that James Maitland was liable to be made a contributory.

Jessel, Q.C., and Ince, for James Maitland, were not called on.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that Messrs. Richardson's names must be put on the list, but without prejudice to any proceedings either at law or in equity which they might be advised to take against James Maitland.

M. R. RUSHBROOK v. LAWRENCE. April 30.

Mortgage—Release of Equity of Redemption.

In 1825 F. Rushbrook mortgaged land to J. Ingle for 1000 years to secure 600*l.*, and in 1835 he gave Ingle a further charge for 200*l.* In 1837 he mortgaged the same property to A. Chevall to secure 200*l.*, the mortgage being in the form of a trust for sale. In 1853, the mortgagor having died intestate, the first and second mortgages brought an action of ejectment against his son and heir, F. H. Rushbrook, who was then in possession of the mortgaged property. On the 14th of July, 1853, Rushbrook signed a cognovit confessing the action, subject to terms specified in a consent signed by his attorney. By this consent he undertook to give up to the plaintiffs in the action possession of the mortgaged property on the 29th of September, 1853, and "(if required) to release to the plaintiffs all his right, claim, and interest (if any) in the said hereditaments and premises, the said release to be prepared at the expense of the said plaintiffs; and the plaintiffs thereby agreed to forego all claim in respect of the costs of the action; but if Rushbrook made default in giving such possession, or in the execution of such release (if required), the plaintiffs were to be entitled to costs.

The mortgagees signed judgment in the action, but did not enter into possession, or require Rushbrook to execute a release.

In 1865 the second mortgagees sold the mortgaged property, under the trust for sale, for 3245*l.*, and the first and second mortgagees conveyed it to the purchaser, the first mortgagee receiving out of the purchase-money his principal debt, interest, and costs, including his costs of the action of ejectment, and the balance being paid to the second mortgagee.

The second mortgagee having refused to account to Rushbrook for the surplus proceeds of the sale, alleging that he had, in July, 1853, released his equity of redemption, Rushbrook instituted this suit against the second mortgagee for an account and payment to him of the balance after satisfying the defendant's mortgage debt and costs.

Southgate, Q.C., and Rigby, for the plaintiff, contended that the agreement of July, 1853, was not intended to affect the equity of redemption, but that, even if it gave the mortgagees the right to require a release of the equity of redemption, they had abandoned that right by subsequently acting as mortgagees and not as owners, and that, being an executory agreement, it could not be set up as a defence to a redemption suit.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the defendant, contended that the agreement was a complete release of the equity of redemption, which was merely the right to the possible surplus proceeds of a sale of the property, and that, although the mortgagees might have required the plaintiff to execute a formal release if a purchaser had required it, such formal release was unnecessary.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the agreement of 1853 was an agreement in fieri, which had been abandoned by all parties, and could not now be set up to deprive the plaintiff of the surplus proceeds of the sale. The plaintiff was, therefore, entitled to the decree asked, and to the costs of the suit up to the hearing.

Married Woman—Reversion—Assignment—Fraud.

Charles Lush, by his will, gave a certain fund to trustees upon trust to pay the income to his daughter for life, and after her death to divide the same among her children.

The tenant for life died in 1867, and the fund became divisible into sixths, and one of these, representing the share of Mrs. Bowron, was paid into Court.

A petition was now presented by the Law Reversionary Society for payment of the share to them, upon the ground that, by a written instrument executed previously to the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Bowron, the fund had been assigned by Mrs. Bowron to her husband absolutely, and that he had afterwards sold the fund to the society. They also relied on the circumstance that, in a suit by Mr. Bowron against one Collins and Mrs. Bowron, a decree had been made by the Court of Chancery for specific performance of an agreement by Collins to purchase the reversion.

Mrs. Bowron, in opposition, deposed that the alleged settlement had, in fact, been executed after her marriage, and that she had been compelled by her husband, under threat of desertion, to antedate it, and sign it in her maiden name. She admitted, however, that she knew that her husband's object in procuring her to sign the document was to raise money on the reversion.

It appeared that Collins had formerly been a clerk in the office of the solicitor who conducted the suit in Chancery on behalf of Bowron the plaintiff, that Collins and Mrs. Bowron both appeared by the conveyancing clerk to the same solicitor, and that the evidence on which the decree was made was the answer of Collins put in without oath or signature.

Immediately after the decree the agreement between Bowron and Collins was abandoned, and the reversion sold to the petitioners. Bowron had since left the country and had not been heard of for some time.

Jessel, Q.C., and Bristowe, for the petitioners, contended that the written document ought not to be set aside merely on the evidence of Mrs. Bowron, an interested party; and, even if her story were true, that she had been party to a fraud, she could not be heard now to say that she was a married woman at the date of the assignment.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for Mrs. Bowron, were not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the society, though innocent purchasers, had been misled by placing too much trust in a decree of the Court, which was clearly obtained by collusion. Mrs. Bowron's account of the matter was no doubt true, and, though she had been party to a fraud, still she had acted under the coercion of her husband, and therefore she could not be made to suffer. The fund must be treated as if Mrs. Bowron had been deserted by her husband, and the order would be that the dividends be paid to her until further order.

Sale by Court—Purchase-money—Purchaser kept out of Possession—Compensation.

By the will of the testator in the cause, certain real estate in Cornwall was devised to trustees upon trusts for sale and investment, and payment of the income to the plaintiff for his life.

Under an order of the Court the estate was sold, and the purchase-money paid into Court; but the plaintiff, who was in possession, declined to give up the property to the purchaser, who was kept out of it for a year, and at last only obtained possession by virtue of a writ of assistance issued by the Court.

The purchaser now applied by summons for payment to him out of the purchase-money in Court—(1) of the costs incurred by him in obtaining possession; (2) of a year's rent for the property; (3) of damages in respect of deterioration of the property during the year he had been kept out of possession; (4) of certain arrears of tithes which he had been compelled to pay.

The plaintiff did not appear.

Cookson, for the purchaser.

Rowcliffe, for the trustees, asked that the plaintiff's life-income should be applied in making good any sum which might be paid out of the purchase-money.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the purchaser was entitled to have sums paid to him out of the purchase-money in respect of the items in question, the amounts to be agreed upon or ascertained by inquiry in chambers; and that the plaintiff's life-income must make good the loss thus occasioned to the corpus of the fund.

V.-C. M. OVERBEND, GURNEY, & Co. v. GURNEY. April 28.

Demurrer—Alleged Breach of Trust by Directors—Proceedings under the Companies Act.

This was a bill filed by the above company against the four surviving directors of the company and the representatives of a deceased director Gibbs, seeking to render them liable for a neglect of duty and a breach of trust in having carried out the powers given them by the company in purchasing the business of the old firm of Overend & Gurney after they knew that such firm was insolvent; and also with having neglected to enforce a guarantee by the said firm sufficient to cover any losses that might have arisen upon the realisation of the debts due to the firm, and set down by them as good debts.

The four surviving directors submitted to answer the bill; but on behalf of the representatives of Gibbs a general demurrer was put it, on the grounds that it was incompetent for a company to sue its own directors for a breach of trust (Turquand v. Marshall, Law Rep. 6 Eq. 112, and ante, p. 41); that there were no means by which this Court could carry out the objects of the bill, and the only remedy was by action at law for damages; but that, if the Court could give relief, it should have been obtained by proceedings under the Companies Act, and not by the expensive process of a bill.

Glasse, Q.C., Jackson, and McLean, in support of the demurrer.

Cotton, Q.C., and Ferrers, for the bill.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that upon principle this bill, containing as it did allegations of misconduct and breach of trust by which at least a million and a half of money was lost, required to be answered, and he could not accede to the argument that a company could not under such circumstances sue its own directors. He considered the contrary to be established by authority. It had been submitted that by a very recent decision a bill in such a case was not necessary, but he could not think that a simple process under the Companies Act was sufficient for settling claims of such magnitude, and questions involving such important considerations.

Demurrer overruled.

Contributories—Receipt of Letters of Allotment—Conditional Agreement to take Shares.

This was a motion on behalf of four persons to have their names removed from the list of contributories upon the winding-up of the above company.

The first case was that of Mr. Harwood, who had signed an agreement to take twenty shares in case the company should be floated successfully, and that two thirds of the shares were bonâ fide taken up. There was no evidence that this gentleman had ever applied in the usual manner for shares, or had received any letter of allotment, or had paid any money by way of deposit, though it was stated by the secretary that a letter of allotment had been filled up, and delivered to a third person to be posted.

Rooburgh, Q.C., and Holmes, for the motion.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cottrell, for the official liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the agreement to take shares was purely conditional, and the condition was unperformed; there was no evidence to fix Mr. Harwood with liability, and his name must be taken off the list of contributories; but as his conduct had not been satisfactory, he should decline to allow him any costs.

The three other contributories had signed the usual form of application for shares, but there was no evidence that they had received letters of allotment, or paid any deposit. It was shewn, however, that a second allotment letter had been sent, and received about three months after the application for shares, and immediately before the order for winding-up; but upon that occasion the shares were refused.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said there was no evidence, either direct or to be implied by the conduct of these persons, that they had received letters of allotment. The second allotments were too late to fix any liability. These names would, therefore, be taken off the list, and the applicants would have their costs.

Winding-up Petition—Alleged Insolvency—Just and equitable Clause.

This was a petition for the compulsory winding-up of the company. The petition was filed by the Rev. Mr. Johnston, the holder of ten shares, whose liability amounted only to 20l. The company was formed in 1866, for the purchase of the business of Messrs. Shackleton, Ford, & Co., and the amount paid for goodwill was 18,415l. The business was afterwards found to have been greatly overrated; the conduct of some of the directors was called in question, and the company was in extreme difficulties.

A meeting took place in May, 1867, at which the management was, with the assent of the shareholders, re-constituted. The evidence in support of the petition went to shew that the company was now insolvent, and that the affairs were in such a state as to render it just and equitable that the company should be wound up. This was opposed by evidence shewing that the company was able to meet its liabilities; that there were no creditors who supported the petition; and that the business, in which 250 men were now employed, was supposed by a large majority of the shareholders to be in a prosperous state.

Glasse, Q.C., and Higgins, for the petitioner.

Pearson, Q.C., and Eddis, for shareholders in support of the petition.

Cotton, Q.C., and Millar, for the company.

Jessel, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for the directors.

Hastings, for shareholders who opposed.

Winterbotham, for the Gloucestershire Bank.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that, whatever might have been the position of this company prior to May, 1867, when the meeting of shareholders took place, it was now proved by the balance-sheet and other evidence that it was not insolvent. It was also in evidence that a large business was actually being done, and that there was a fair prospect of future success. He could not, therefore, hold that it was just and equitable to grant a winding-up order. The petition must be dismissed with costs against the company, and the costs of the directors who appeared in consequence of unfounded charges of fraud made against them must be also paid by the petitioner.

Will—Legal Devise—Tenant for Life—Gift in Remainder to the Children and Child of A. born or to be born, with Cross Remainders.

William Bedford died on the 13th of July, 1841, having by his will, dated the 3rd of August, 1838, devised his residuary realty to the defendants, R. S. Harvey and G. Glasier, and their heirs, in trust for his wife Lydia Bedford and her assigns for her life, and after her decease, in default (which happened) of children of his own, after some specific devises, "in trust for all and every the lawful children and child of Mary Glasier, the wife of the said G. Glasier, by her present or any after-taken husband, born or to be born, and their heirs, executors, and administrators, according to the nature and quality of the same estates respectively, in equal shares if more than one, as tenants in common, with cross remainders and benefit of survivorship between the same children, if any of them should die under the age of 21 years without leaving lawful issue of their respective bodies living at the time of their respective deaths;" and the testator appointed his wife Lydia his sole executrix.

Lydia Bedford, the widow, died on the 1st of December, 1847.

Mary Glasier (who was now 53) at the date of the filing of the bill (16th of May, 1868) had had eight children; namely, the plaintiffs—George William, born on the 12th of June, 1837; John Samuel Bedford, born on the 22nd of February, 1839; and Fanny, born on the 2nd of November, 1840; William Bedford, who was born on the 11th of November, 1841, and died in April, 1852—and the defendants, Charles, Elizabeth, Lydia, and William Bedford, who were all born after the decease of Lydia Bedford, and before the plaintiff George William attained 21.

The plaintiffs submitted that the trusts of the residuary realty were confined to the children of Mary Glasier born during the life of the testator or during the life of Lydia Bedford.

The defendants submitted that all the children of Mary Glasier, who had attained or should attain 21, or die before attaining 21 leaving issue, were or would be entitled; or, if not, all who had been born before G. W. Glasier attained 21, who had attained or should attain 21, or die before attaining 21 leaving issue.

Everitt, for the plaintiffs.

Edward Ford, for the trustees.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Gaselee, for the infant children.

Everitt in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the devise was a legal devise, and the remainder a contingent remainder; and that the gift accrued to the benefit of all the children of Mary Glasier who had attained or should attain 21, or who should die before attaining 21 leaving issue.

In re LONDON MARINE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Mutual Insurance Association—Winding-up—Rights of Contributory Inter se—Rights of Creditors—Costs of Winding-up.

On the 1st of July, 1865, an order was made for the winding-up of the above association, which was a mutual assurance society, established in 1862, and renewed from year to year. The object of the company was not to make profits, but to indemnify against losses; it was never incorporated or registered; and the members were associated together by virtue only of several mutual contracts, whereby each member, on effecting an insurance of his own ship, became bound to contribute to the loss of any other member. Applications for insurance were made to the secretary, and thereby the applicant authorized the secretary to underwrite the policies of all the other members. Generally a power of attorney was executed by every new member, authorizing the secretary to receive and pay all sums due to and from the member. Policies of insurance (generally in practice, unstamped) were issued to the new members; and where a loss occurred, two committee-men and the secretary used to draw upon each member for his share, after setting off any counter-claims of persons who might be suffering members. There was also a fund in the hands of the secretary out of which were paid losses arising from deaths and insolvencies of members.

In June, 1865, it was found that the claims of suffering members considerably exceeded the funds which the secretary had in hand or could recover, and the above order was made.

The official liquidator proposed to make a call in respect of (1) claims by suffering members on account of sums which had been received by the secretary in respect of such claims, but had not been paid to the claimants; (2) claims by suffering members for sums which ought to have, and had not, been paid by other members; (3) claims of outside creditors; and (4) the costs of the winding-up; and questions were now submitted to the Court on behalf of the official liquidator and of the contributories.

Eddis and Lindley, for the official liquidator.

Kay, Q.C., and North, for four classes of contributories.

Higgins, for creditors.

Eddis in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he must assume the propriety of the winding-up order, but it did not follow that the Court had jurisdiction in the winding-up to alter the contract between the parties. According to that contract, in His Honour's view, each man's liability extended only to his quota of loss: he did not make himself liable for any debt of the association to a suffering member. The effect of the power of attorney was merely to establish a contract whereby a man said, "I undertake to pay A.B. for you; and I undertake that A.B. shall receive for me." That rendered it necessary only to inquire whether each member had paid his quota of loss. If he had so paid to the secretary, he was discharged. As to the outside debts, His Honour thought the association had no power to contract them, and they must be treated, as in the club case, as the debts of the persons who ordered the goods or services claimed for. The costs were the most troublesome question, there being no shares according to which to apportion them. Considering that the winding-up had been for the convenience of all parties, His Honour would direct the costs to be divided equally amongst the payers and receivers, and to be distributed pro rata according to the amounts paid or received.

Settlement—Consideration of Marriage—Covenant to settle one Moiety of the Property of which the Settlor should be seised at his Death—Subsequent Conveyance set aside.

Bill by Colonel W. T. R. Powell and the trustees of his marriage settlement, dated in 1839, against the executors of the will of his wife's father, W. G. Cherry, who died in November, 1868, the trustees of a deed of conveyance and assignment by the late W. G. Cherry, dated September, 1858, the trustees and beneficiaries under the marriage settlement of another daughter of W. G. Cherry, and the solicitor who carried out the conveyance, to enforce the performance of a covenant in the deed of 1839, whereby W. G. Cherry covenanted to settle one moiety of all the real and personal estates which he should be seised or possessed of or entitled to at law or in equity at his decease (subject to payment of a moiety of his debts and of any jointure), upon the trusts of the settlement, amongst which was one whereby, expectant on the death of Mrs. Cherry, the survivor of Colonel Powell and his wife took a life interest in the property.

Differences having arisen between Colonel and Mrs. Powell, W. G. Cherry, by the deed of September, 1858, in consideration of natural love and affection for his wife and daughters, granted to two of the defendants and their heirs certain real estates, to the use of W. G. Cherry and his assigns for life, without impeachment of waste, and after his decease to the use of the said grantees and their heirs, upon trust to permit Mrs. Cherry to enjoy the same for her life, and after her death, or during her lifetime with her consent, upon trust to sell, and pay one moiety of the net proceeds to such persons and for such intents as Mrs. Powell should, notwithstanding coverture, appoint, and in default, into her proper hands for her separate use. By the same deed there was an assignment of household goods and property upon like trusts.

The answers admitted that the object of this deed and the reason for executing the same were to protect the property therein comprised from the trusts of the settlement and the claims of the plaintiffs.

Mrs. Cherry died in 1859.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Cookson, and Willcock, Q.C., and B. L. Chapman, for the principal defendants.

Kay, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the defendant, the solicitor:—

The authorities relied on by the plaintiffs were not disputed, but the defences were a release and acquiescence.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the right of the plaintiffs to a decree was not disputed, except on the grounds of the release and alleged acquiescence. But from the terms of the release it did not appear, and the evidence did not shew, that Colonel Powell was aware of the rights which he purported to release, or had any intention of releasing such rights. The release, therefore, could not bind him, and the alleged acquiescence failed on the same ground. The plaintiffs were entitled to a decree with costs, except the costs occasioned by an unfounded charge made in the bill against the solicitor. These costs must be paid to the solicitor personally by the plaintiffs.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY. April 24.

Poor-rate—Railway—Contributive Value.

The Ely Valley Railway commences at Dinas, which is situate a short distance from the parish of Llantrissant, and, running through that parish, forms a junction with the South Wales Railway a short distance out of the parish. It has branches which lie wholly within the parish. The Great Western Railway are the occupiers of the South Wales Railway and the Ely Valley Railway and branches. The parish of Llantrissant assessed the Great Western Railway Company in respect of the Ely Valley Railway and branches at 400*l.* On appeal, the question was whether the value of the traffic contributed by the Ely Valley Line and branches, to any portion of the Great Western Railway Company's South Wales Line, was to be taken into consideration in estimating the amount of the rate in the parish of Llantrissant. If it was, the rate was to stand; if it was not, the rate was to be reduced to 270*l.*

Field, Q.C., and J. W. Bowen, for the respondents.

Michael, for the appellants.

THE COURT held that the case was governed by Great Eastern Railway Co. v. Haughley (Law Rep. 1 Q.B. 666), and that the Great Western Railway were to be rated only in respect of the profits which the Ely Valley Railway earned within the parish, and that the rate must be reduced to 270*l.*

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. OVERSEERS OF MALDEN. April 28.
Parochial Assessments—Union Assessment Committee Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 103)—“Rateable Hereditaments.”

One of the inhabitants of the parish of Malden had erected upon land within the parish five houses, and afterwards the overseers, under 25 & 26 Vict. c. 103, made a supplemental valuation list for the parish, and returned it to the assessment committee of the Union, and in it was no mention of the above houses. At the time the list was returned to the committee the houses were completely finished and ready for occupation, but none of them had been ever let or occupied.

The committee altered the list by inserting the five unoccupied houses, and assessed them at a certain sum, thereby increasing the rateable value of the parish by that sum. The overseers objected, under the Statute, to the insertion of the houses, on the ground that they were not and never had been occupied. The committee overruled the objection, and confirmed the list.

On appeal to the Quarter Sessions, the appeal was dismissed, subject to the opinion of the Queen's Bench.

Bush Cooper (Edward Clarke with him), for the appellants.

Field, Q.C. (Thesiger with him), for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lush, Hannen, and Hayes, JJ.) held that the houses were rightly inserted in the list, though they had never been occupied. “Rateable hereditaments,” in 25 & 26 Vict. c. 103, meant hereditaments capable from their nature of being rated, and not merely hereditaments actually rateable to the poor-rate at the time. The decision of this Court in the case of Reg. v. Hammersmith (7 W. R. 524; 33 L. T. 183) as to the county rate (15 & 16 Vict. c. 81, ss. 2, 5, & 6), was not distinguishable.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. LORD MAYOR OF LONDON. April 29.

Writ of Restitution—Jurisdiction.

This was a rule calling upon the Corporation of London to shew cause why a writ of restitution should not issue, commanding them to restore to a Mr. Walker the sum of 270*l.*, the proceeds of the sale of certain goods stolen from him.

Certain persons had been convicted at the Central Criminal Court of breaking and entering into Walker's shop, and stealing property therein, but the Central Criminal Court refused to order restitution of the 270*l.* found in possession of the prisoners, and supposed to be the proceeds of the larceny.

The statute 21 Hen. 8, c. 11, enacts that if any felons robbed any money, goods, or chattels, and thereof were indicted and found guilty by reason of evidence given by the party so robbed . . . the party so robbed shall be restored to his money, goods, or chattels; and the justices of gaol delivery, before whom any such felons shall be found guilty, should have power “to award from time to time writs of restitution for the said money, goods, and chattels in like manner as though any such felon or felons were attainted at the suit of the party in appeal.”

By 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 100, it is enacted that if any person guilty of any such felony or misdemeanour as is mentioned in this Act . . . shall be indicted for such offence by or on behalf of the owner of the property, or his executor or administrator, and convicted thereof, in such case the property shall be restored to the owner or his representative; and in every case in this section aforesaid, the Court before whom any person shall be tried for any such felony or misdemeanour shall have power to award from time to time writs of restitution for the said property, or to order the restitution thereof in a summary manner.

Appeals of felony were abolished by 59 Geo. 3, c. 46.

Mellish, Q.C., and Archibald, for the defendants.

Sir J. D. Coleridge, Q.C. (S. G.), and Crompton Hutton, for the Crown.

THE COURT held that at Common Law the Court of Queen's Bench had no jurisdiction to issue a writ of restitution to another Court, and that the only power which it had was to issue a writ of restitution as a part of its judgment in an appeal of larceny; that the statute of Hen. 8 did not confer upon the Court of Queen's Bench a jurisdiction to issue a writ of restitution apart from an appeal; and that, although appeals of felony were subsequently abolished, yet the statute of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 100 could not receive a wider construction than the statute of Hen. 8; and discharged the rule.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. SIR TRAVERS TWISS. May 3.

Prohibition to Ecclesiastical Court—Faculty to desecrate Consecrated Ground.

In 1778 a burial-ground was duly consecrated and dedicated for the parish of St. Leonard, Shoreditch. In 1865, by an Order in Council, burials were ordered to be discontinued; no burials having, in fact, been made there for forty years.

In 1865 the Guardians of the parish, under certain Acts of Parliament, rebuilt the workhouse of the parish, and erected some of the buildings, including the chapel for the inmates, on part of the burial-ground, but no corpses had ever been buried on this part.

The Guardians afterwards instituted a suit in the Consistory Court of London praying for a faculty authorizing and confirming the erection of the buildings on the burial-ground.

A rule was then obtained by B., who was an entire stranger to the parish, for a prohibition to the judge of the Court, prohibiting further proceedings in the suit, on the ground that when land had been consecrated no faculty could be granted to apply it to secular purposes.

Barnard, G. Tayler, and R. A. Pritchard, shewed cause on behalf of the Guardians.

Sir J. D. Coleridge, Q.C. (S. G.), in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Hannen and Hayes, JJ.) discharged the rule under the peculiar circumstances of the case. The Court expressed a decided opinion that, when ground has been once consecrated and dedicated to sacred purposes, the judge has no power to grant a faculty to sanction the use of it for secular purposes: Campbell v. Paddington (2 Rob. Ecc. at p. 559). But there were two grounds for discharging the rule: 1st, the faculty was applied for both as to the secular buildings and as to the chapel; as to the latter, being an ecclesiastical purpose, there was a distinction, and it could not at the present stage be presumed that the Ecclesiastical Court would act beyond its jurisdiction; 2ndly, the applicant was an entire stranger to the parish, and in no way aggrieved, and therefore not entitled ex debito justitiæ to the interference of the Court: Forster v. Forster (4 B. & S. 187, 203).

C. P. BEDDALL v. KING. April 16.

Bankrupt—Deed of Composition—Alteration after Assents given.

A deed of composition between the defendant and his creditors was prepared, by the terms of which the composition was to be payable on the 1st of May, 1868. The creditors met, and the required majority assented to the deed. All the assents were given by the 16th of April; but, in consequence of some doubts being suggested as to the correctness of the claims of two of the creditors, the deed was not actually executed until the 2nd of May; and the time for payment of the composition was altered to the 1st of June. The deed was registered with the usual affidavit, and the registrar certified.

THE COURT held that, notwithstanding the certificate of registration, it was competent to a non-assenting creditor to object that the affidavit was untrue, and that section 192 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 134), had not been complied with; and a rule was made absolute to enter a verdict for the plaintiff.

C. P. BEW v. REED. April 22.

Agreement, Construction of—Contemporaneous Writing to explain Ambiguity.

The plaintiff, a creditor of one Gracey, who had been adjudicated a bankrupt upon his own petition, being advised that a bill of sale which Gracey had given to one Bell for a past consideration was void, and that the money realised by the sale of his goods thereunder might be recovered for the benefit of the creditors, proposed that a creditors' petition should be presented, and accordingly an agreement was signed by three or four out of a large number of the creditors, whereby each of them undertook that the expenses incurred by the plaintiff should be borne and paid by him and the other creditors "rateably and in proportion to the amount of debt set opposite their respective names." Gracey was adjudicated bankrupt upon the plaintiff's petition, and the plaintiff was appointed creditors' assignee, and unsuccessfully sued Bell.

In an action against the defendant, who was one of the parties signing the agreement, for his proportion of the costs thus incurred:

THE COURT held that, the agreement being incomplete and ambiguous on the face of it, it was competent to the defendant to shew, by a previous correspondence in writing between the plaintiff and himself, that he signed the undertaking upon the faith of the general body of creditors becoming parties to it.

C. P. YOUNG v. AUSTEN. April 29.

Bill of Exchange—Contemporaneous Oral Contract inconsistent therewith.

To a count by drawer against acceptor of a bill of exchange for 21l. 14s. 2d., dated the 20th of December, 1867, and payable two months after date, the defendant pleaded that he accepted the said bill in consideration that the defendant would set apart a sum of money sufficient to pay the said bill at maturity out of certain moneys due, owing, and about to be paid to the defendant by the corporation of the city of London, as a certain compensation, the plaintiff promised and agreed that if, when the bill should become due, the defendant should not have received payment from the corporation of the city of London of the said moneys and compensations then due to him, the plaintiff would renew the said bill for a further term of two months; that, at the time the bill became due, and at the time this action was brought (28th of February, 1868), the defendant had not received the said compensation, of all which the plaintiff had notice; and that the defendant did all things necessary to entitle him to have the bill renewed according to the said agreement, yet the plaintiff did not renew the said bill, but wholly refused so to do, and commenced this action contrary to the terms of the said agreement.

On demurrer:

THE COURT held the plea to be bad, as attempting to vary the written contract on the face of the bill by a contemporaneous oral agreement inconsistent therewith.

C. P. GRAHAM v. JOSEPH COLLINS. April 30.
Ejectment: disputing Landlord's Title—Evidence: Res inter alios acta.

Ejectment for a messuage and premises at Fulham held by the defendant under a lease from the plaintiff, dated the 4th of December, 1866.

One Hook, who was let in to defend as landlord under a judge's order, proved that one Moore, the freeholder, on the 15th of August, 1856, granted a lease of the premises to one Wells, under whom he (Hook) derived title as mortgagee. Hook had brought ejectment against Thomas Collins (who, there was evidence to shew, was in possession merely as servant to his brother Joseph), and recovered judgment against him; and Thomas Collins had since paid rent to Hook.

Hook offered in evidence the record of the judgment in ejectment against Thomas Collins. This was objected to on the part of the plaintiff, on the ground that he was no party to it, and not affected by notice.

The learned judge rejected the proposed evidence, and left it to the jury to say whether Hook had made out that he was the legal owner of the premises, and that he, and not Graham, was the landlord of Joseph Collins; and whether Thomas Collins held as tenant in possession or as servant to Joseph Collins. The jury found that Hook had proved his title from Moore, the freeholder, but that he was not landlord to Joseph Collins, and that Thomas Collins did not occupy otherwise than as servant to Joseph. The learned judge thereupon directed a verdict to be entered for the plaintiff.

Upon a rule to enter the verdict for Hook,

THE COURT held that Joseph Collins could not dispute the title of the landlord under whom he entered, and that Hook was bound by the same estoppel; and the rule was discharged.

C. P. JENNER v. SMITH. April 30.
Sale of Goods by Sample—Passing of Property—Appropriation—Assent—Part Delivery.

The plaintiff, on the 14th of October, 1867, sold to the defendant at Wayhill Fair two pockets of Carpenter's Sussex hops at 9*l.* per cwt. These, being at the fair, were delivered to the buyer on the spot. The defendant at the same time agreed to buy (by sample) of the plaintiff, at 7*l.* 15*s.* per cwt., two pockets of Thorpe's Sussex hops, which were then lying in the warehouse of Prid & Son in London, and which the plaintiff agreed to send down to the defendant free of cost when he should direct. On the 4th of November the plaintiff sent the defendant an invoice of the weight and price of the four pockets, with an intimation that the "two last pockets (Thorpe's) were lying at his order," and inclosing a bill of exchange for the amount for the defendant's acceptance. The defendant on the 8th returned the bill unaccepted, repudiated the two pockets of Thorpe's, and in due course paid for the two pockets of Carpenter's. The only evidence of appropriation of the Thorpe's for the defendant was this:—The plaintiff, having then three pockets of Thorpe's hops at Prid & Son's warehouse, sent his son there on the 21st of October, who instructed the warehouseman to place what are called "wait order cards" on two of the pockets, Nos. 1 and 3. On these cards was written "To wait orders," and the defendant's name: but no entry was made in the warehouse-keeper's books to indicate a change of ownership, and the hops remained in the warehouse at the plaintiff's charge.

At the trial it was objected on the part of the defendant that there was no binding contract, there being no note in writing, no delivery, no part-payment, and no acceptance. For the plaintiff it was insisted that the contract was entire, and consequently there had been a delivery of part of the goods and a part-payment, and that the property in the two pockets of Thorpe's hops passed by the contract and the subsequent appropriation.

BRETT, J., ruled that the contract was one entire contract, and that therefore there had been a part delivery so as to make a contract binding within the Statute of Frauds; but that, though there was a binding contract to deliver two pockets of Thorpe's hops equal to sample, the price to be determined according to the weight, the property did not pass, there having been no appropriation of the two pockets in question with the assent of the defendant, and the warehouse-keeper never having bound himself to hold for him instead of for the plaintiff; and the plaintiff was nonsuited, with leave to move to enter a verdict; the Court to draw inferences of fact.

Upon a rule to enter a verdict for the plaintiff, the Court upheld the learned judge's ruling.

C. P. COLLINS v. MIDDLE LEVEL COMMISSIONERS. May 3.

Negligence—Proximate Cause of Damage.

Upon a special case stated in an action against the defendants, the commissioners acting under the 7 & 8 Vict. c. cvi., for damage done to his land in consequence of the waters of the river Ouse, through the negligent and unskilful construction of the cut and the banks and sluice thereof erected by the defendants, breaking through the wall, it appeared that a part of the works which the commissioners were bound by the Act to make and keep open consisted of a culvert running from east to west, which was constructed for the purpose of draining the lands to the east occupied by the plaintiff and other persons; that, the sluice being destroyed by force of the tidal waters of the Ouse, the water flowed over the lands to the west of the culvert, and as the tide increased in height each day, flowed through the culvert over the lands of the plaintiff; that the plaintiff and others occupying lands to the east of the culvert placed a dam at the lower end thereof, in order to pen it back; and that, the persons occupying lands to the west of the culvert, erroneously supposing that the closing of the culvert would cause the flood to attain a greater height on their lands, broke down the dam, and thereby allowed the water to flow through the culvert on to the lands of the plaintiff.

THE COURT held that the defendants, having wrongfully suffered the waters to escape from their cut, were responsible for all the damage thereby caused to the plaintiff's land, notwithstanding the removal by third persons, whether wrongful or not, of the dam erected by the plaintiff, might have augmented such damage.

C. P. MORTIMER v. BROADWOOD. May 3.

Insurance of Profits—Wager Policy within 19 Geo. 2, c. 37.

Action upon a policy upon profits upon a cargo of timber per the British ship Lizzie Jones from Quebec to Newry, such profits being valued at 800*l.*

In the margin of the policy was written the following memorandum:—"This policy is warranted free from average, being against total loss only, and without benefit of salvage; and, in the event of the non-arrival of the ship at her home port, such non-arrival to be treated as a total loss."

THE COURT, upon the authority of Smith v. Reynolds (1 H. & N. 221) and De Mattos v. North (Law Rep. 3 Ex. 185), held that the policy was within the prohibition of the statute, and gave judgment for the defendant with great reluctance, strongly censuring the fraud practised by the underwriters upon the assured in making a policy in such terms that they might at their pleasure repudiate all responsibility upon it.

C. P. BRIDGES v. GARRARD. May 4.
Principal and Agent—Payment by Cheque—Copyholder—Fine on Admittance.

This was an action by the lord of a manor against a copyholder for the fines due on his admittance.

The steward of the manor had authorized the defendant's solicitor, Mr. Craig, to act as deputy-steward, and admit the defendant, and he had done so, and the defendant shortly after paid to Craig a cheque for 87l. 10s. 8d., which included the amount of the fine due to the lord, the steward's fees, and a sum of 4l. 4s. due to Craig himself. At Craig's request he crossed the cheque with the names of Craig's bankers. The cheque was duly paid by the defendant's bankers when presented; but, Craig's account at his bankers being against him, they refused to pay over the amount.

At the trial the jury found that Craig had authority to receive the lord's fine, and that the crossed cheque was a good payment to the lord within the authority to pay Craig, and a verdict was entered for the defendant, with leave to the plaintiff to move to enter it for himself.

Garth, Q.C., having obtained a rule accordingly:

Denman, Q.C., and Cohen shewed cause.

Garth, Q.C., and Digby supported the rule.

The majority of the Court (Bovill, C.J., and Montague Smith, J.) held that the payment by a cross cheque was not a good payment as against the lord, and that there was no evidence to go to the jury that Craig was authorized to receive payment in that form.

Bylles, J., held that the payment by crossed cheque was good, and that there was, at any rate, evidence for the jury that Craig was authorized to receive payment in that form.

Ex. CRAVEN v. SMITH. April 27.
Costs—30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5—Action for Slander—Damages not exceeding 10l.—Certificate—Practice—Power of Court to refer to its own Records.

Action for slanderous words imputing a felony. The defendant having suffered judgment by default, a writ of inquiry was issued, which was executed on the 7th of January, 1869, before the under-sheriff of Middlesex, when the jury assessed the damages at 5l. The under-sheriff, on being applied to for a certificate for costs, promised to certify if he had the power, but eventually declined to do so, on the ground that he had no such power. Thereupon a rule was obtained calling on the defendant to shew cause why the plaintiff should not be entitled to his costs. It was drawn up in the form usual in the Court of Exchequer "upon reading the affidavits" of the plaintiff and another person, and contained no reference to the declaration. The affidavits also were silent as to the nature of the cause of action; and the only mode in which the fact that the action was for slander was brought before the Court, was by reference to a copy of the declaration produced by counsel unverified by affidavit.

Francis shewed cause, and contended, 1st, that the record should have been produced, with an affidavit verifying its accuracy. Neither the rule nor the affidavits stated the cause of action, and the Court, therefore, could not take notice that it was for slander.

[The Court intimated that the record being in the Exchequer must be considered as before them, and that they might notice its contents although it was not verified by affidavit.]

2ndly, he contended that there were no facts before the Court on which they could exercise a discretion to grant a certificate. By the 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5 it was enacted that, "if in any action commenced after the passing of this Act in any of Her Majesty's Superior Courts of Record, the plaintiff shall recover a sum not exceeding 10l., if the action is founded on tort, whether by verdict, judgment by default, or on demurrer or otherwise, he shall not be entitled to any costs of suit unless the Court or a judge at chambers shall by rule or order allow such costs." This section was general, and applied to all actions, whether capable of being commenced in the County Court or not. But although an action for slander could only be commenced in a Superior Court, costs, nevertheless, ought to be awarded unless some specific reason were assigned: Gray v. West (Law Rep. 4 Q.B. 175).

Anderson, in support of the rule, contended that there was a prima facie case entitling the plaintiff to costs, and that the defendant had shewn no reason why a certificate ought not to be granted.

THE COURT held, 1st, that 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5 applied to all actions of tort, whether they were or were not actions in which the County Court had concurrent jurisdiction; and, 2ndly, that, under the circumstances, the plaintiff was entitled to a certificate.

Ex. WALKER v. CORY. May 4.
Practice—Rule to enter Nonsuit—Power of Defendant to object to a Verdict for Plaintiff being entered, on the ground that it would be against the Evidence.

This cause was tried at the London Sittings after Hilary Term before Kelly, C.B., when, upon certain findings of the jury, the learned judge directed a nonsuit to be entered, with leave to move to enter a verdict for the plaintiff.

A rule was obtained accordingly, on the argument of which the Court expressed an opinion that the nonsuit should be set aside.

J. Brown, Q.C. (Holl with him), then contended that the verdict, if entered for the plaintiff, would be against the evidence, and therefore that it ought not to be entered, but that the rule should be made absolute not to enter a verdict for the plaintiff, but for a new trial.

F. M. White, contra, contended that the defendant, not having informed the Court within the first four days of Term of his intention to object to a verdict being entered for the plaintiff, on the ground that it would be against the evidence, was now precluded from doing so. At least, notice should have been given to the plaintiff that this objection would be taken.

THE COURT held that the defendant was entitled ex debito justitiae to object to a verdict being entered, on the ground that it would be against the weight of the evidence.

O. C. THE QUEEN v. LUMLEY. May 1.
Presumption of Continuance of Life—Trial for Bigamy—Absence for less than Seven Years.

The prisoner was indicted for bigamy.

In 1836 the prisoner married one Victor in Jersey. In 1843 they separated. In 1847 the prisoner went through the ceremony of marriage with one Captain Lumley. Nothing was heard of Victor from the time the prisoner left him in 1843, and no evidence was given of his age, or of that of the prisoner, except that a witness, who stated that she herself was 48 years old, said that the prisoner was her senior.

The jury were directed that, there being no circumstances leading to the impression that Victor had died, he must be presumed to have been living at the date of the second marriage.

The jury found the prisoner Guilty.

The question was whether the direction was right.

Keane, Q.C. (Collins with him), for the prisoner.

Giffard, Q.C. (Bealey and Gough with him), for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Byles, Lush, and Brett, J.J., and Chesby, B.) held that the direction was erroneous, and that it ought to have been left to the jury to say whether or not, as a matter of fact, Victor was alive at the date of the second marriage. Conviction quashed.

P. & M. CLEARE AND FORSTER v. CLEARE. April 27.
Testamentary Suit—Plea—Want of Knowledge or Approval—Notice—Rule 41—Practice.

The plaintiffs propounded the will of Charles Cleare, late of Croydon, Surrey, bearing date the 27th of October, 1863.

The defendant pleaded that the will was not executed in accordance with the Statute, and that the deceased was not of sound mind, memory, or understanding on the day it was alleged to have been executed; and, lastly, that the deceased, at the time of the execution of the will, did not know and approve of its contents. With the pleas the defendant gave notice under Rule 41 (Rules and Orders, 1862) that he only intended to cross-examine the witnesses produced in support of the will.

Bayford moved that the third plea should be struck out, or the notice be withdrawn.

Scarle, for the defendant.

LORD PENZANCE:—I hold it to be clear that in all cases, whether through the medium of a presumption unrebutted, or of positive evidence to that end, the party who propounds a will must establish the fact that the testator was competent to make a will when he executed it. This competency forms part of the proposition that a will was made. I am of opinion also that the testator's knowledge of the contents of the alleged will stands upon the like footing. That he knew and approved of the contents is a proposition implied in the assertion that a will was made by him; for if a man were to sign a paper of the contents of which he knew nothing, it would be no will. That the testator did know and approve of the contents of the alleged will is, therefore, part of the burthen of proof assumed by everyone who propounds it as a will. The burthen is satisfied prima facie in the case of a competent testator, by proving that he executed it. But if those who oppose it succeed on cross-examination or otherwise in meeting the prima facie case, the party propounding must satisfy the tribunal affirmatively that the testator did know and approve of the contents of the will in question before it can be admitted to probate. It follows from this reasoning that the next of kin may cross-examine the witnesses brought to support a will upon this matter, as well as upon the capacity of the testator, or the execution of the will, without exposing themselves to costs, provided they give the notice required by the Rules. The application must be rejected with costs.

LIQUIDATION ACT, 1868

GENERAL ORDER OF THE HIGH COURT OF CHANCERY.

April 29, 1869.

1. Every scheme to be filed in the Court of Chancery pursuant to the Statute 31 & 32 Vict. c. 68, and every declaration, affidavit, petition, summons, notice, or other proceeding relative thereto, shall be intitled in the matter of the Liquidation Act, 1868, and in the matter of the debtor, bankrupt, or company, to whose assets the same relates, and, if the same relates to the assets of a company which is being wound up under the Companies Act, 1862, and any Act amending the same, then such scheme shall also be intitled in the matter of the Companies Act, 1862.

2. Every such scheme shall be marked either with the words "Lord Chancellor," and the name of one of the Vice-Chancellors, or with the words "Master of the Rolls;" and the matter of such scheme (unless removed by some special order of the Lord Chancellor or the Lords Justices) shall accordingly be attached to the Court of such Vice-Chancellor, or to the Court of the Master of the Rolls, as the case may be, in like manner, and for the same purposes, as Causes are attached to a particular Court.

3. Where such scheme relates to assets of a company which is being wound up under the Companies Act, 1862, and any Act amending the same, by the Court of Chancery or under the supervision of the Court of Chancery, the scheme shall be marked so as to be attached to the Court of the judge to whose Court the matter of such winding up is attached.

4. Every scheme to be filed as aforesaid shall be printed on paper of the same size and description and in the same style and manner as Bills in Chancery are required to be printed; and every fifth line of each page thereof shall be numbered.

5. Every such scheme shall be filed in the office of the Clerks of Records and Writs, and shall have indorsed thereon the name and address of the solicitor and London agent (if any) of the liquidators, and also the address for service of such solicitor in cases where an address for service is required by the General Orders of the Court.

6. At any time after the expiration of four days from the filing of any such scheme, any person claiming to be interested as a creditor or contributory in the affairs of the debtor, bankrupt, or company to whose assets the scheme relates, may, by a requisition in writing delivered at the office of the solicitor of the liquidators, or of his London agent (if any), and stating the nature of the interest which such person claims, demand any number, not exceeding ten, of printed copies of the scheme; and the copies so required shall, within twenty-four hours after such demand, and on payment for each such copy at the rate of one half-penny per folio, be delivered to the person so requiring the same, with a certificate thereon by such solicitor or his London agent, that they are true copies of the scheme filed.

7. Except in cases where an affidavit verifying a list of creditors shall already have been filed, or a list of creditors shall have been made out under the direction of the Court, the liquidators, on the day on which the scheme is filed, or within such further time as the judge shall allow, shall file, in the office of the Clerks of Records and Writs, an affidavit made by some person competent to make the same, verifying a list containing the names and addresses of the creditors, and the amounts due to them respectively, so far as the same can be ascertained, and leave the said list, and an office copy of such affidavit, at the chambers of the judge.

8. Copies of the scheme, and copies of the list of creditors, containing the total amount due to them, but omitting the amounts due to them respectively, or (if the judge shall so direct), complete copies of such list, shall be kept at the offices of the solicitor of the liquidators and his London agent (if any); and any person claiming to be interested as creditor or contributory may, at any time during the ordinary hours of business, inspect and take extracts from such scheme and copy list on payment of the sum of one shilling.

9. The liquidators shall, within seven days after the filing of the scheme, or within such further time as the judge may allow, send to each creditor whose name is entered in the said list, or to such of them as the judge shall think fit, and in cases of winding-up, to such of the contributories as the judge shall think fit, a notice of the filing of the scheme. Such notice shall state the time when the scheme was filed, and the place or places where the scheme may be inspected, and copies thereof obtained; and shall be sent through the post in a prepaid letter addressed to each of the persons to whom the same is to be sent at his last known address or place of abode.

10. Notice of the filing of the scheme may also, if the judge shall think fit, after the filing thereof, be published at such times and in such newspapers as the judge shall direct. Every such notice shall contain such particulars as are mentioned in the preceding rule.

11. After the expiration of one calendar month from the filing of the scheme, or at such earlier time as the judge shall think fit, the liquidators may present a petition for confirmation of the scheme. It shall not be necessary in such petition to set forth the scheme, but it shall be sufficient to refer thereto.

12. When any petition to confirm any such scheme is presented, the liquidators shall apply to the judge in chambers to appoint the day on which the same is to come into the paper for hearing, such day not to be before the expiration of three weeks from the time of such application, and shall cause a notice of such presentation to be inserted in such two newspapers as the judge in chambers shall direct. Such notice shall state the day on which the scheme was filed, and the day on which the petition was presented, and the day on which the same is directed to come into the paper for hearing, and the name and address of the solicitor and London agent (if any) of the liquidators.

13. The petition shall not come on to be heard until at least fourteen clear days after the first insertion of such notice as aforesaid. Such notice shall, at least once in every entire week, reckoned from Sunday morning till Saturday evening, which shall have elapsed between the first insertion thereof, and the day on which such petition is directed to come into the paper for hearing, be again inserted in such newspapers as aforesaid, on such day or days as the judge in chambers shall direct.

14. Any creditor, contributory, or other person whose rights or interests are affected by such scheme, and who shall be desirous to be heard in opposition to the confirmation thereof, shall, at least two clear days before the day on which the petition for confirmation is directed to come into the paper for hearing, enter an appearance in the office of the Clerks of Records and Writs, and, in default of so doing, shall not be entitled to be heard, unless by the special leave of the Court.

15. Any person so entering an appearance shall be deemed to have submitted himself to the jurisdiction of the Court as to payment of costs, and otherwise.

16. No order for confirming a scheme, whether with or without alteration or addition, shall be enrolled until the expiration of thirty days from the day of the same having been pronounced, exclusive of Vacations.

17. No caveat shall be entered to stay the enrolment of any order for confirming a scheme with or without alterations or additions; but every such order may be enrolled after the expiration of thirty days from the day of the same being pronounced, unless in the meantime a petition for a rehearing shall have been presented, and an order for setting down such petition obtained and served upon the liquidators, such thirty days to be exclusive of Vacations.

18. No petition for a rehearing, either before the same judge or before the Lord Chancellor or the Lords Justices, of the case on which any order confirming a scheme, with or without alterations or additions, or order refusing to confirm a scheme, has been made, shall, unless by special leave of the Lord Chancellor or the Lords Justices, be presented after the expiration of thirty days, exclusive of Vacations, from the day on which such order was pronounced, notwithstanding that such order may not have been enrolled.

19. When an order has been made for confirming a scheme, with or without alterations or additions, no person who neither has entered an appearance as aforesaid, nor has by virtue of such special leave as aforesaid been heard in opposition to the confirmation of the scheme, nor is the legal personal representative of a person who has entered an appearance or been heard in opposition as aforesaid, shall be at liberty to present a petition for rehearing before the same judge, or before the Lord Chancellor or the Lords Justices, unless the Lord Chancellor or the Lords Justices shall by special order, to be applied for by motion on notice to the liquidators, to be served on their solicitor or London agent, give leave to such person to present a petition for a rehearing.

20. All orders made in chambers under the Liquidation Act, 1868, shall be drawn up in chambers, unless specially directed to be drawn up by the registrar, and shall be entered in the same manner and in the same office as other orders drawn up in chambers.

21. In cases not expressly provided for by the said Act, or by the rules of this Order, the general orders and practice of the Court (including the course of proceeding and practice in the judges' chambers, and the course of proceeding and practice as to rehearings before the same judge, or before the Lord Chancellor or Lords Justices), shall, as far as such general orders and practice are applicable and not inconsistent with the said Act or this Order, apply to all proceedings in the Court of Chancery under the said Act.

22. The power of the Court and of the judge in chambers to enlarge or abridge the time for doing any act or taking any proceeding, to adjourn or review any proceeding, and to give any directions as to the course of proceeding, shall be the same in proceedings in Chancery under the said Act as in proceedings under the ordinary jurisdiction of the Court.

23. Solicitors shall be entitled to charge, and be allowed for all duties performed under the Liquidation Act, 1868, such of the fees on the higher scale, authorized by the 2nd Rule of the 38th of the Consolidated Orders and the regulations as to solicitors' fees subjoined thereto, as are applicable, unless the Court or judge shall otherwise specially direct.

24. The fees of Court set forth or referred to in the Schedule hereto shall be paid in relation to proceedings in Chancery under the said Act, and shall be collected by means of stamps in manner provided by the general orders of the Court.

25. This Order shall come into operation on the 1st day of May, 1869.

26. The General Interpretation Clause in the Consolidated General Orders shall apply to the rules of this Order; and in this Order the term "liquidators" has the same meaning as in the Liquidation Act, 1868, and the word "contributory" has the same meaning as in the Companies Act, 1862.

 Arbitration—Common Law Procedure Act, 1854—Lands Clauses Act—Power to enlarge Time.

This was a motion by the company by way of appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor James (ante, p. 89).
H. Matthews, Q.C., and Leonard Field, for the appeal motion.
Kay, Q.C., and Freeling, contra, were not called upon.

THEIR LORDSHIPS agreed with the Vice-Chancellor as to his view of the Statutes, and considered that they had jurisdiction to enlarge the time; but in the circumstances they considered that the order of the Vice-Chancellor refusing to enlarge it ought to be affirmed, the matter being one within the discretion of the Court.

Ex parte WARRANT FINANCE COMPANY.
 Debt—Principal and Interest—Dividend—Appropriation of Payment.

The Humber Iron Works Company being in the course of winding-up, a dividend had been declared on the debts owing by them. To the Warrant Finance Company a considerable sum was due in respect of interest as well as principal; and the object of this application was to determine whether the dividend was to be applied in payment of the interest or the principal, or both.

Southgate, Q.C., and Wickens, for the Humber Iron Works Company.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Eddis, for the Warrant Finance Company.

Westlake, for other creditors.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that a dividend ought to be paid on principal and interest pari passu; that is to say, if the dividend was 2s. in the pound, and 100l. was due for principal and 100l. was due for interest, 5l. was to be paid in respect of principal, and 5l. in respect of interest.

Winding-up—Special Examiner—15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, ss. 31, 40.

In December, 1866, an order was made for winding-up this company. In May, 1868, an ex parte order was obtained by the official liquidator appointing a special examiner to take the evidence of witnesses to be examined orally in the winding-up.

In January, 1869, a summons was taken out by the official liquidator for the purpose of placing a Mr. Hakim on the list of contributories. Notice was given to Mr. Hakim to appear before the special examiner and be examined; but he declined, on the ground that he could not be required to appear before a special examiner who had been appointed ex parte, and without his being heard.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, now moved that Hakim should be ordered to attend before the special examiner and be examined, or that he should be committed for contempt of Court. They stated that the practice had been, in all cases where a winding-up was likely to extend over a length of time, and to involve much litigation, to appoint a special examiner once for all. If it were necessary to obtain the consent of every person who might be required to attend before an examiner, the business of winding-up a large company would never be got through.

Jessel, Q.C., and Marten, were heard on the question of costs only.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the practice of appointing a special examiner once for all in a winding-up was a highly improper one; this was the first time he had ever heard of it, and if he had known anything of it he would never have sanctioned it. A special examiner was only appointed upon evidence that the regular examiners had no time to take the examination; that was a necessary preliminary. Then, if the parties agreed on an examiner, he was appointed; if not, the Court would appoint one; but every party had a right to be heard as to the appointment. Of course the Court would not give effect to a capricious refusal to consent to an appointment: any objection of the slightest weight was entitled to a hearing. The present motion must be refused; but, under the circumstances, the costs of all parties must come out of the estate.

Solicitor and Client—Agreement as to Payment—Services not Professional—Taxation.

In August, 1868, Dr. Reid, a medical practitioner, being about to go abroad, was desirous of selling his medical practice immediately, and for that purpose applied to Mr. Seal, of the firm of Hobbs & Seal, to undertake the sale of it for him. Seal agreed to do so upon the following terms:—The price was to be not less than 350l.; any sum obtained by Seal in excess of that and less than 400l. was to go to Seal as remuneration for his services, and any sum in excess of 400l. was to be divided between him and Reid. The business was sold for 500l., and two sums of 25l. each paid to Seal by Reid in pursuance of the agreement between them.

The sale was carried into effect by means of certain deeds which were prepared by the firm of Hobbs & Seal, and for which they sent in a bill of costs. A common order for taxation was obtained, and, after the taxation was completed, Reid brought in the two payments of 25l. by way of surcharge. The taxing master allowed the items, holding that the case fell within the rule that a solicitor cannot bargain for any remuneration beyond his costs. Seal took out a summons to review the taxation.

Everitt, in support of the summons, urged that the payment was made to Seal personally, under an agreement distinctly proved for services rendered before the relationship of solicitor and client commenced.

C. Parke, for Reid, was not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS agreed with the taxing master, and dismissed the summons.

Moneys in Court belonging to a Charity—Payment to Trustees ordered.

By an indenture of feoffment dated the 19th of March, 1832, being a deed of appointment of new trustees of the Tid St. Giles' Charity, certain freehold lands were conveyed to the two petitioners and eleven other persons, all deceased, in fee, upon trust for the benefit and advantage of the poor inhabitants of the parish of Tid St. Giles. By an indenture of lease dated the 26th of March, 1849, the Bishop of Ely demised certain lands to the petitioners, and other persons since deceased, their executors, for the term of twenty-one years, at a yearly rent of 1s. 4d. an acre, upon trust for the use and behoof of the poor of Tid St. Giles, or according as the said bishop or his successors should direct for the advantage of the said poor. The Peterborough, Wisbeach, and Sutton Railway Company, under the powers in their Act of 1863, purchased in May, 1865, part of the said freehold and leasehold lands for the price of 800l., and in June, 1865, the company paid the purchase-money into Court.

The petitioners, the surviving trustees of the charity, prayed that the money in Court might be paid to them as such trustees, or that the same might be invested in Consols, and the dividends paid to them.

Hemming, for the petitioners, asked that the moneys might be paid to them.

Bovill, for the railway company, did not object.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the money to be paid to the petitioners, and the company to pay the usual costs.

SANDS v. LYNE.

Will and Codicil, Construction of—Insufficient Estate—Lapsed Legacy—Pecuniary and Residuary Legatees, Rights of.

Edward Lyne bequeathed 1000l. to two trustees, upon trust to invest and to pay the income unto his wife for life, and after her decease to apply the income for the maintenance of Sarah Sands until she should attain 21, and after that age to pay the income to her for life, and after her death to divide the principal amongst her children as she should appoint. But in case such children should die before 21, then he directed that the 1000l., and all securities for the same, with all accumulations, should fall into his residuary estate. The testator also bequeathed to his trustees the sum of 800l., upon trust to invest and to pay the income to his son G. E. Lyne for life, and after his decease to divide the principal amongst his wife and his children equally. The testator bequeathed to each of his daughters, Eliza and Sophia, the sum of 800l., and to each of his trustees the sum of 250l., and he bequeathed the sum of 500l. upon trust to divide the same amongst the children of one of his trustees, J. G. Lyne; and the residue of his estate he bequeathed to his trustees upon trust, after payment of debts, to invest for the benefit of Sarah Sands and the children of J. G. Lyne equally.

By a codicil the testator bequeathed to his son-in-law, the plaintiff R. Sands, the sum of 800*l.*; and he declared that, in case his personal estate should be insufficient to pay the legacies bequeathed by his will and codicil in full, all the legacies should abate proportionably.

The estate was under administration upon a summons.

The personal estate in possession was not sufficient to pay the legacies in full, and consequently there was an apportionment, and a sum of 598*l.* was set apart to answer the legacy of 1000*l.*; and the question was—both the widow of the testator and Sarah Sands having died, the latter without issue—whether under the words of the codicil this reduced amount should be applied towards the payment of the pecuniary legacies, or whether it formed part of the residue. The chief clerk proposed to certify that the residuary legatees were not entitled till the pecuniary legatees had been paid; and thereupon the matter was, upon a summons, adjourned into Court.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Cookson, for the residuary legatees.

Hastings, for the pecuniary legatees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that this fund belonged to the pecuniary legatees, and that it must be divided amongst them proportionately, and he directed that the certificate in that respect should stand as prepared.

CATLING v. GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Arbitration—Lands Clauses Act—Interest on Purchase-money—Costs of Arbitration.

This bill was for the specific performance of an agreement dated the 19th of April, 1866, between the plaintiff and the Great Northern Railway Company, whereby the company, in consideration of the plaintiff's withdrawing his opposition to a bill then promoted by the company for the construction of certain works, agreed to purchase, at a price to be ascertained as after-mentioned, the leasehold interest of the plaintiff in five acres of land, subject to an apportioned rent in respect of the ground and buildings thereon; and the company were to pay compensation for damage to the adjoining building property of the plaintiff, and also to pay the cost of altering the existing mode of drainage; the purchase to be completed and the purchase and compensation moneys and costs to be paid within six months after the passing of the Act; the value of the property and the amount of compensation and the cost of the drainage to be referred, in case of difference, to a surveyor, to be agreed upon between the parties in the usual manner. But it was agreed that the amount to be paid for the ground should be ascertained by taking the value thereof at twenty-five years' purchase of the improved rents which could be made by the plaintiff beyond the ground rent payable by him, subject to deductions on account of the time occupied in making such improved rents, and the plaintiff was at once to cease any further buildings on the said property.

The railway company subsequently agreed with the plaintiff's landlord for the purchase of his interest in the land.

The Railway Act then pending, which incorporated the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, became law on the 28th of June, 1866, and the company were thereby authorized to take the plaintiff's land, which they had agreed to purchase.

A difference having arisen between the plaintiff and the company, the matters comprised in the agreement were referred to the arbitration of Mr. Clutton, a surveyor, who, having made the declaration before a magistrate prescribed by the Lands Clauses Act, proceeded to consider his award, which was signed on the 13th of March, 1868. The amount fixed by him in respect of all the matters comprised in the agreement was in the whole 16,765*l.*, but no award was made as to the costs of the arbitration. The land was still in the occupation of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff now insisted by his bill that the company should repay to him the apportioned rent paid from the expiration of six months after the passing of the Act, and also interest from the same date upon the amount of the sum awarded to him, as well as the costs of the arbitration.

The company, on the other hand, contended that they were not liable to the apportioned ground rent; that interest was not payable till the date of the award; and that the costs of the arbitration should be borne equally between them and the plaintiff, on the ground that the award was made under the agreement, without reference to the Lands Clauses Act.

Glasse, Q.C., Waley, and Maidlow, for the plaintiff.

Cotton, Q.C., and Stevens, for the railway company.

[The defendants proposed to read the shorthand writer's notes of what took place before the arbitrator to shew that the claims now made by the plaintiff were inconsistent with the sum awarded; but the Court ruled that such evidence was not admissible, since nothing but the award could be looked at.]

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the arbitrator had fixed the amount payable at the date mentioned in the agreement, as he was bound to do, and not at the date of the award; and that, according to the well-known principles of the Court, interest upon the purchase-money was payable from the time fixed for the completion of the contract; and the apportioned ground rent should also be repaid to the plaintiff from that date. It was true the company had not taken possession, but the plaintiff had been precluded by the terms of the agreement from continuing his building operations, and had therefore had no use of the land. The arbitrator evidently believed he was acting under the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act, and on that supposition had omitted to make any award as to costs, which would otherwise have been usual. The company must therefore pay the costs of the arbitration and the costs of this suit.

IN re SOUTH EASTERN OF PORTUGAL RAILWAY COMPANY.

Companies Act, 1862, ss. 95, 96—Summary Powers to the Official Liquidator.

This company was formed for the purpose of constructing a railway in Portugal; and after a million and a half had been spent in its construction, the Portuguese Government claimed a right to confiscate the line in consequence of the non-fulfilment of the contract. Negotiations had been entered into with the Government of Portugal, and it was anticipated that about half a million would be repaid. Upon the compulsory winding-up of the company, a liquidator was appointed, with power under section 96 of the Companies Act, 1862, to act without the sanction of the Court, it being alleged by a large majority of the shareholders that it would require the most summary power to be vested in some individual to negotiate with the Portuguese Government, and that, unless prompt measures were taken, the expected payment would not be realised.

Cotton, Q.C., and Roueliff, now moved on behalf of certain creditors that the order appointing the official liquidator might be varied so far as it conferred upon him the power under the 96th section to act without the sanction of the Court, on the ground that he was about to enter into an improvident compromise of the claims of the company against the Portuguese Government at an amount which would be only sufficient to satisfy the debenture-holders, leaving nothing for any other claimants; and, further, that the Court had no power to delegate the right to enter into such a compromise as this.

Glasse, Q.U., and Higgins, for Mr. Rodocanachi, a creditor to a large amount.

C. Hall, for the official liquidator.

Pearson, Q.C., and Fry, Wickens, Townsend, and Kekewich, for creditors and bondholders.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was clearly of opinion that the facts of this case rendered it expedient that the official liquidator should be armed with summary powers under the 96th section of the Act, and it was at the request of a very large majority of shareholders that he had made the order in this form. The only question was whether he had power under the Act to make the order. The 95th section gave the official liquidator the fullest powers to sell the property and transact other business therein specified, and "to do and execute all such other things as may be necessary for winding-up the affairs of the company," and the 96th section enabled the Court to authorize the official liquidator to exercise any of the above powers without the sanction of the Court. This transaction amounted to a sale of the property, which was included in the words of the Act; but if it was a compromise, that also would be included in the terms used. The motion must be refused with costs.

V.-C. J. NICKALLS v. FURNEAUX. May 6.
[Contract to purchase Shares—Infant Transferee—Winding-up—Bill by Vendor for Indemnity.]

On the 6th of April, 1866, the plaintiff, by his agent, sold to the agent of the defendant, John Furneaux, forty shares in the Oriental Commercial Bank. A transfer was prepared as to Furneaux, leaving the Christian name in blank. The defendant filled up the blank with the names, "Alexander John," which were the names of one of his sons, who was a boy at school. When the bank came to be wound up on the 4th of August, 1866, it was found out that the transferee was a minor, and the register was rectified by placing on it the name of the plaintiff. This bill prayed for a declaration that Alexander John Furneaux held the shares as a trustee for the defendant, or that the defendant purchased the fifty shares on his own account, and not as agent for the infant; and for indemnity.

The defence was that this purchase was intended by the defendant as an advance for his son; also that the vendor ought to have taken care there was a proper transferee.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Simmonds, for the plaintiff, were stopped. Kay, Q.C., and Hastings, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the defence in this case would have been a joke had it not been for the fraud with which it was tinged, the melancholy waste of money which it had involved, and the melancholy waste of time which it had inflicted upon the Court and the public. There must be a decree as prayed, with costs.

V.-C. J. DAUN v. CITY OF LONDON BREWERY COMPANY. May 6.

Mortgagor and Mortgages—Brewers' Mortgage—Distillers' second Mortgage—Subsequent Trade Debts to Brewers—Right to further Charge—Alleged Custom.

In March, 1858, the defendant George Smith, a publican, deposited with the first defendants, brewers, the lease of his public-house, situate in the City of London, to secure 200*l.* and interest at 5 per cent., as well as any other sums, with interest as aforesaid, in which he might become indebted to the firm on any account not exceeding 500*l.* On the 7th of July, 1865, the brewers made Smith a further advance of 100*l.* On the 11th of July, 1865, Smith signed a memorandum of equitable mortgage to the plaintiffs, distillers, whereby he declared that the documents deposited with the brewers should stand charged (subject to the security to the brewers) with the payment of 120*l.* and interest at 5 per cent., and of all other sums that might thereafter be due from Smith to the distillers' firm. In November, 1867, Smith, with concurrence of the brewers and distillers, agreed to sell to the defendant Jackson; but the purchase-money, though sufficient to pay the brewers 300*l.* and interest, was insufficient to pay the additional amount alleged to be due for trade debts incurred by Smith to the brewers since the receipt by them of notice of the distillers' second mortgage.

The brewers set up a custom of trade between brewers and publicans, that a brewers' mortgage, by way of memorandum and deposit, should be a security to the brewers for all sums due to them from the publican for beer supplied, in priority to any further advance made, by way of second charge, by the distillers. The distillers denied the custom.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Marten, for the plaintiffs.

Kay, Q.C., and Decimus Sturges, for the first defendants, the brewers.

Edmund James, for the purchaser.

W. Pearson, for the broker.

Amphlett in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the alleged custom not only would be bad in law from unreasonableness and want of properly defined limits, but was imperfectly established by the evidence; and held that, after notice of the distillers' mortgage, the brewers were not entitled to priority as to further supplies. His Honour directed the priorities to follow the rule in Hopkinson v. Bolt (9 H. L. C. 514), and, after that, to be according to the dates of supply. The plaintiffs were ordered personally to pay the costs of the broker, except in so far as he was made party in his character of stakeholder; the defendants to pay the rest.

V.-C. J. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA v. McRAE. May 6.
Foreign State—Rebellion—Public Property Account.

Bill by the United States of America stating the formation of divers persons owing allegiance to the plaintiffs into an association for the purpose of carrying on a rebellion against the Government of the United States; the usurpation of plaintiffs' authority, and formation of a pretended Government; the possession, by such pretended Government, of moneys, goods, and treasure, partly public property of plaintiffs and partly contributed by persons owing allegiance to plaintiffs, and acquired by such pretended Government in the exercise of their usurped authority—all which moneys and goods became part of the public property of such pretended Government, and were employed in aid of the rebellion.

The bill proceeded to allege that the pretended Government and their agents sent money and goods to the defendant McRae in this country, and that McRae sold a large part of such goods and received the moneys from such sale, and at the dissolution of the pretended Government had in his possession or power money and goods which had been sent to him, or which had arisen from goods so sent to him.

The bill then stated the suppression of the rebellion, and the submission by the persons forming the pretended or so-called Confederate Government to the authority of the United States Government; that all the joint and public property of the pretended Government had vested in plaintiffs; that no claim was set up on behalf of the pretended Government; and that the said moneys and goods were now the absolute property of plaintiffs, and ought to be delivered to them.

The bill accordingly prayed an account of all moneys and goods which came to his hands as agent for or otherwise on behalf of the pretended Confederate Government during the late insurrection, and of his dealings therewith, and payment by defendant of the moneys which, on taking such account, might be in his hands, and a delivery over of the goods in his hands.

To this bill the defendant had put in a plea both to the discovery and to the relief, on the ground that, by American legislation, the acts stated in the bill exposed him to penalties and forfeitures: United States v. McRae (Law Rep. 4 Eq. '327; 3 Ch. 79).

On appeal, the plea to the relief was overruled, but the plea to the discovery was allowed. The defendant had not put in any answer, and the case now came on for hearing.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs.

Kay, Q.C., Marten, and Benjamin, for the defendant:—

The agency of defendant in this country was entirely limited to the Confederate loan, and he never received either money or goods from America, and no property of the Confederate Government was in his hands at the end of the war. In any case, as the plaintiffs had, by proclamation, declared that all debts and obligations incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States were illegal and void, they could not, after repudiating the liabilities, claim any benefit by account in respect of this insurrectionary loan.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR dismissed the bill with costs, holding that the United States, at the termination of the rebellion, had no right to the property contributed to or acquired by the suppressed Confederate Government except by title derived from or through the Confederate Government, and could not claim from an agent of the Confederate Government an account of his agency and, at the same time, repudiate all privity of title with him and his former principals, and the liability to pay to such agent the balance which might be found due to him in the result of the account as between himself and his former principals.

Practice—Costs—Petition for Payment of Dividends—Trustee's Costs.

Petition by persons claiming to have life interests in a fund of which the trusts were declared by a voluntary settlement in 1843, and which had been paid into Court by the surviving trustee of the settlement. The petition prayed for taxation and payment of the petitioners' costs, charges, and expenses, out of a small sum of cash standing in Court to the credit of the matter; and for taxation and payment of the trustee's costs, charges, and expenses in and about and preliminary to the payment into Court out of the proceeds of the sale of so much of the fund standing in Court in trust in the matter as would be sufficient; and for payment of the dividends of the residue of the fund to the petitioners.

G. Miller, for the petitioners, supported the prayer, asking that the trustee's costs might be paid out of the capital.

W. Latham, for the trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order for payment of dividends and income to one of the petitioners during his life, and made no order as to the other petitioner. His Honour ordered the costs of the petitioners to be paid out of the sum of cash; the costs of the trustee in and about and preliminary to the payment into Court to be paid out of the capital fund, and the costs of the trustee's appearance on the petition out of the sum of cash in Court.

V.-C. J. In re EAST AND WEST JUNCTION RAILWAY COMPANY. May 7.
Railway Company—Railway Companies Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 127)—Scheme.

Petition for the purpose of obtaining the confirmation of a scheme of arrangement between the company and their creditors filed under the provisions of the Railway Companies Act, 1867.

The company was unable to meet its engagements and liabilities, and for want of funds the works upon the uncompleted line had been stopped since August, 1866. The whole of the original share capital had been issued and called up, and a large amount had been borrowed on debentures. Power was given by the East and West Junction Railway (Capital) Act, 1866, to raise additional capital, and resolutions had been passed, but no part was yet raised.

The main features of the scheme were, that the directors should be at liberty to enter into a contract for the completion of the railway within two years for 280,000*l.*, and that for this purpose a preferential debenture stock to the amount of 400,000*l.*, called first debenture stock, and having priority over existing debentures, should be created, with provisions for conversion of the existing debentures into a second debenture stock, and the creation of a third debenture stock to be allotted to and taken at par by the outside creditors, who, as the scheme stated, "would, it is believed, agree to accept" the same.

The scheme had been assented to at a meeting of shareholders; the written consent of three fourths of the debenture-holders had been obtained, and most of the outside creditors consented.

Willcock, Q.C., and Fry, in support of the petition.

C. Dale, for assenting outside creditors.

Westlake, for an outside creditor, opposed the petition.

[The Vice-Chancellor said that it was settled by authority that the scheme did not bind dissenting outside creditors.]

Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, for a debenture-holder, also opposed, and contended that he was not bound by the vote of the majority, which was not composed of persons properly entitled to a vote, but was a constituency fraudulently created by the company, which was a mere sham, and, as such, not entitled to ask for the intervention of the Court under the Act of 1867.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the scheme would be confirmed, but prefaced the order with a declaration that it did not, and did not purport to, bind any of the outside creditors to take the third debenture stock. With respect to the debenture-holders, the Act of 1867 provided that a scheme should be deemed to be assented to by the debenture-holders when assented to in writing by three fourths in value of the holders of such stock. That assent had been here given; and unless it could be shewn that fraud had been practised in obtaining the vote, it was binding upon the minority. No such fraud had been shewn; it was merely alleged that the debentures had been recklessly and improvidently issued, not that the three fourths who assented were not holders of mortgages or debentures.

Joint Stock Company—Winding-up—Transfer of Business of Old to a New Company—Arbitration to Assess the Value of Shares of a Dissenting Shareholder—Umpire, Appointment of—25 & 26 Vict. c. 89, s. 16L.

Declaration stated that the defendants were a banking company, incorporated under the Companies Act, 1862; that a resolution was passed at a meeting of the company for a voluntary winding-up, for the appointment of liquidators, and the transfer of the business to another company; that the plaintiff was a shareholder in the company who did not vote for the resolution, but expressed his dissent from it, as required by s. 161 of 25 & 26 Vict. c. 89, and required the liquidators to abstain from carrying the resolution into effect, or to purchase the plaintiff's interest; that Article of Association 196 provided that, in the event of any difference arising between the company and any of the shareholders, such difference should be referred to two arbitrators; Article 197, that one of the arbitrators shall be named by each of the parties; Article 200, that arbitrators should appoint umpire; Article 201, that if the arbitrators did not, within fourteen days after their appointment, appoint umpire, an umpire might be appointed by a judge under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854; that the disputes relating to the purchase of the shares were referred to arbitration; that the arbitrators did not appoint an umpire, and on an application to a judge he appointed one; that the arbitrators did not agree, and the umpire made his award, adjudging the price to be paid for the purchase of the plaintiff's interest in the shares at 2100*l.*, which sum he directed to be paid to the plaintiff, and further directed that the defendants should pay to the plaintiff the costs of the reference and award; and the declaration alleged that the defendant did not pay the money.

Demurrer to the declaration on the grounds—1st, that a judge had no power to appoint an umpire; 2nd, that the award was void; 3rd, that an action did not lie against the company.

Holl, for the plaintiff.

Mathews, Q.C. (H. James with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT held that the judge had power under the Articles of Association to appoint an umpire; that the umpire had not exceeded his powers in directing the defendants to pay the plaintiff the value of his interest and the costs of the reference, and that the award was not therefore void; and that an action would lie against the company, as there was nothing in s. 161 of 25 & 26 Vict. c. 89 which took away the plaintiff's right of action.

Q. B. MARKS v. FELDMAN. May 7.

Bankrupt—Fraudulent Preference—Relative Fact—Title of Assignee—Money had and received.

On the 26th of July, 1867, J., being indebted to defendant and other creditors, voluntarily gave him a bill of sale of all his personal property, with a power to enter and sell if the amount owing were not paid on demand. On the 19th of October the defendant, after demand, entered and sold the goods. On the 16th of November J. was adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition of the same date. On the 11th of December the plaintiff was appointed creditors' assignee.

The plaintiff having brought an action, as such assignee, for the conversion of the goods, and for money had and received, at the trial the above facts were proved; and in answer to the question left to them by the judge, the jury found that the bill of sale was given to the defendant as a fraudulent preference. A verdict was entered for the plaintiff for the amount of the proceeds of the sale, with leave to move to enter a verdict for the defendant, on the ground that there was no relation back (the adjudication having been on the bankrupt's own petition) so as to entitle the plaintiff to recover.

Overend, Q.C., and Forbes, for the plaintiff.

Field, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT were clearly of opinion that, as in the case of an adjudication on the bankrupt's own petition, there was no relation back so as to make the giving of the bill of sale an act of bankruptcy, under section 67 of 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106; the bill of sale was voidable only as a fraudulent preference, and passed the property in the goods until the assignee elected to avoid it; that, as the goods were sold before any such election could be exercised, the goods were the goods of the defendant at the time he sold them, and the money received for them was his own, and was never money had and received to the use of the plaintiff, who was therefore not entitled to recover on either count.

Q. B. STOREY v. ASHTON. May 7.

Master and Servant—Negligent driving of Servant—Course of Employment.

Action for injuries caused to the plaintiff by the negligent driving of a horse and cart by the defendant's servant.

The defendant was a wine merchant, having offices in Vine Street, Minories, and he sent his carman and clerk with a horse and cart to deliver some wine at Blackheath, and bring back some empty bottles. On their return, when they had got as far as the statue in King William Street, about a quarter of a mile from the defendant's offices, the carman, instead of performing his duty and driving to the offices, depositing the bottles there, and taking the horse and cart to the stables in the neighbourhood, was induced by the clerk to drive in quite another direction, to the clerk's house, near the City Road; and while driving back along the City Road the plaintiff, a child of 6 years old, was driven over, owing, as the jury found, to the negligence of the carman. On these facts a verdict was directed for the defendant, with leave to move to enter the verdict for the plaintiff.

Prentice, Q.C., and A. L. Smith, showed cause, and relied on Mitchell v. Crassweller (13 C. B. 257; 22 L. J. [C. P.] 100).

D. Seymour, Q.C., and Finlay, in support of the rule, endeavoured to distinguish the above case, on the ground that there the servant had arrived at home, and had then made a fresh start; and they relied on Sleath v. Wilson (9 C. & P. 607).

THE COURT held the case came within the principle of Mitchell v. Crassweller; the master was responsible for the negligence of his servant in doing any act only so long as the servant can be said to be doing the act in the course of his employment as servant. Here it could not be said that the servant was so acting, as he was driving in a directly contrary direction from that which his employment required him to take, and was not merely making a detour.

Q. B. DIGNAM v. BAILY. May 7.

Debtor and Creditor—Sheriff—Escape—Certificate of Registration of Composition Deed—A running Bill of Exchange, a Debt bound by Composition Deed—Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 134), ss. 192, 198.

Declaration: that the plaintiff on the 11th of December, 1866, obtained judgment against B., that a ca. sa. was delivered to the defendant as sheriff of Kent, that he arrested B., but allowed him to escape.

Plea: that B. produced to the defendant's officer a certificate of the registration of a deed between B. and his creditors within the meaning of section 198 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, whereupon the officer released B.

Replication: that the plaintiff's cause of action against B., in respect of which judgment was recovered, first accrued after the making of the deed, and the plaintiff was not a creditor of B. when the deed was made, nor until after the certificate was granted, and the defendant was not one of the creditors referred to or intended to be bound by the deed.

Issue thereon.

At the trial it appeared that the plaintiff's action against B. was commenced on the 27th of November, 1866, and was on a bill of exchange dated the 17th of April, 1866, at three months, drawn by C. on B., and accepted by him, and which, therefore, became due on the 20th of July. On the 20th of June, 1866, the defendant had executed a valid deed of composition under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, containing a release by the creditors, which was duly registered immediately. B. however did not appear to or plead to the action, and on the 11th of December judgment was signed. The bill was endorsed by C. to the plaintiff after the execution of the deed. B. was arrested by the defendant, the sheriff, on the 16th of December, and was immedially discharged on his producing the certificate of registration, and giving a copy of it to the officer.

On these facts a verdict was entered for the plaintiff for the amount of the judgment, &c., with leave to move to enter a verdict for the defendant, on the ground that B.'s debt was bound by the deed, and the certificate was a sufficient justification to the sheriff for discharging B.

A rule was obtained accordingly.

D. Seymour, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

Raymond, for the defendant, contended that the bill, though running at the time of the execution of the deed, was a debt bound by it, as it would have been proveable in the case of a bankruptcy, although not due at the time, and that, although B. ought to have pleaded the deed, and therefore would not be entitled to the protection of the certificate, it was still a justification to the sheriff for discharging him.

THE COURT pointed out that, on the pleadings, the only question was whether the plaintiff's debt was bound by the deed; and being of opinion that it was, they made the rule absolute to enter a verdict for the defendant.

Q. B. HUDSTON v. MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY. May 10.

Carriers by Railway—Passenger's Luggage.

The plaintiff took a first-class return ticket from Beeston to King's Cross; he took no luggage with him, but on his return journey required the defendants to carry, as his luggage, a child's toy, called a spring-horse, which he wished to take back as a present for his child. The defendants refused to carry it without the payment of 2s. 6d. The "spring-horse" weighed 78 lbs., and was 44 inches in length. On the railway ticket delivered to the plaintiff there was printed the following:—"This ticket is issued subject to the regulations and conditions stated in the company's time-tables and bills." The following are the regulations referred to:—"Luggage: First-class passengers are allowed 112 lbs., second-class 100 lbs., and Government passengers 56 lbs. of personal luggage only (not being merchandise, or other articles carried for hire or profit), free of charge."

The question was whether the "spring-horse" was personal luggage to be carried free of charge.

Macnamara, for the plaintiff.

Wills (J. C. Carter with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT held that those articles only which, having regard to the customs and habits of society, a traveller usually carries with him, come within the definition of personal luggage; that a spring-horse is not a description of goods that passengers usually carry about, and therefore was not personal luggage.

Gaoler—Discharge of Prisoner in Custody for Contempt—11 Geo. 4 and 1 Wm. 4, c. 36, s. 15—Action—Trespass.

The 11 Geo. 4 and 1 Wm. 4, c. 36, s. 15 enacts that, if the defendant in Chancery, under process of contempt for not appearing or not answering, be in actual custody, and shall not be sooner brought to the bar of the Court, under process, to answer his contempt, the plaintiff in Chancery, if the contempt be not sooner cleared, shall bring the defendant by an habeas corpus to the bar of the Court within thirty days from the time of his being actually in custody . . . and if the last day of such thirty days shall happen out of Term, then within the four first days of the ensuing Term . . . and in case any such defendant shall not be brought to the bar of the Court within the respective times agreed, the sheriff, gaoler, &c. in whose custody he shall be shall thereupon discharge him out of custody . . .

The plaintiff was committed for a contempt of Court for not answering to a bill in Chancery. She was taken to gaol on the 4th of November, 1864; the plaintiff in Chancery did not bring her to the bar of the Court as required by the above Statute; the gaoler did not discharge her until the 7th of June, 1865.

The plaintiff brought an action of trespass against the defendant.

The question was whether an action of trespass would lie against the defendant for not discharging the plaintiff from custody without any order from the Court of Chancery.

Powell, Q.C., and Anderson, for the plaintiff.

Huddleston, Q.C., and Bullen, for the defendant.

THE COURT held that the defendant must have known that the plaintiff had not been brought to the bar of the Court, and, in that event, the Statute made it the duty of the person in whose custody the plaintiff was to discharge her; that the defendant had kept the plaintiff in custody for a longer time than he ought, and an action of trespass would lie against him.

Q. B. LEVERSON v. THE QUEEN. May 11.

Central Criminal Court, Jurisdiction and Constitution of.

A writ of error having been brought by the defendant to set aside the verdict and judgment obtained against her in the Central Criminal Court, error was assigned on the following grounds:—1. That two commissioners being necessary, under 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 36, to constitute the Central Criminal Court a Court for the trial of an indictment, an alderman sat for this purpose with Mr. Commissioner Kerr, who tried the indictment in question, and, the trial having lasted several days, a different alderman was substituted in the course of the trial for the alderman previously attending, whereas the Court should have consisted of the same two judges throughout the trial. 2. That the trial took place in a second Court, while the General Sessions were being held before other justices in their ordinary place of sitting; whereas by 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 36, a single Court only is established and authorized to be held. 3. That, in consequence of the changes which had been made by different Acts of Parliament in the jurisdiction of the Sheriffs' Court—as a judge of which latter Court Mr. Commissioner Kerr acted as a judge at the Central Criminal Court—Mr. Commissioner Kerr, who presided at the trial, had ceased to be a commissioner under the 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 36, and was therefore incompetent to act as a judge under the Commission of Oyer and Terminer in the trial of this indictment.

Carrier of Passengers—Railway Company—Measure of Obligation as to Roadworthiness of Carriages.

The plaintiff brought an action for damage caused to him from an accident while travelling as a passenger on the defendants' railway. The cause of the accident was the giving way of one of the wheels of the carriage in which the plaintiff was riding, owing to a latent defect in the tire, which could not be discovered either in the manufacture or afterwards.

The Court of Queen's Bench (Blackburn, J., dissenting) held the defendants not liable, as there was no warranty by a carrier of passengers that the carriage should be absolutely roadworthy, and the defendants had used all due diligence in providing a safe carriage, and examining it before starting and in the course of the journey. (See Law Rep. 2 Q. B. 412.)

May 11.

Principal and Agent to buy—Consignor and Consignee—Bill of Lading—When Property in Goods shipped is intended to remain in Consignee.

The plaintiff, in England, sent an order to P. & Co., at Pernambuco, to buy cotton for him within certain limits. They bought cotton on account of the plaintiff, and shipped it in the defendants' vessel; the invoice was made out as shipped on account and risk of the plaintiff, but the bill of lading was taken deliverable to P. & Co.'s order, or assigns, paying freight. P. & Co. wrote to the plaintiff advising the shipment, and price and quality of the cotton, and saying: "Enclosed please find invoice and bill of lading; we have drawn upon you for the amount in favour of our agents, to which we beg your protection." The invoice was sent direct to the plaintiff; but the bill of lading (which had been indorsed in blank by P. & Co.) was sent with the bill of exchange to P. & Co.'s agents in England. The agents wrote to the plaintiff enclosing the two documents, and requesting his protection to the drafts. The plaintiff retained the bill of lading, but returned the bill of exchange unaccepted, on the ground that P. & Co. had not complied with the plaintiff's order. The plaintiff presented the bill of lading to the defendants; but they, having been informed of the circumstances under which the plaintiff held it, refused to deliver the cotton to him, saying they should deliver it to P. & Co.'s agents under a duplicate bill of lading which the agents had retained.

On a case stating the above facts (the Court having power to draw inferences of fact), the Court of Queen's Bench held that the inference to be drawn was, that it was the intention of P. & Co. that the property in the cotton should not pass to the plaintiff unless he accepted the bill of exchange; that no property, therefore, passed to the plaintiff; and the defendants were right in refusing to deliver to him (Law Rep. 4 Q.B. 196).

Parliament—Election Petition—Effect of Decision of Judge at Trial.

This was a rule to shew cause why the petition presented by the petitioners against the return of the respondent to serve in Parliament for the borough of Taunton should not be taken off the roll. The election took place on the 18th of November, and there were three candidates, Cox, Barclay, and James. Cox and Barclay were returned by the returning officer as duly elected, and thereupon a petition was presented by two voters against the return of Cox, on the ground of bribery and treating, and claiming the seat for James. Before the trial Cox gave notice to the petitioners that he intended to object to James's return, on the ground of bribery and treating. At the trial the counsel for Cox cross-examined the petitioners' witnesses with the view to prove bribery and treating on the part of James's agents, but called no witnesses himself. In his speech, however, he contended that, if the evidence shewed that Cox had been guilty by his agents of bribery, it shewed that James had been so likewise. The judge decided that Cox had been guilty of bribery by his agents, and was not duly elected, and that James had not been guilty of bribery or treating; and, after a scrutiny, he further decided, on the 5th of March, 1869, that James had been duly elected, and he certified the same to the Speaker; and the return was, on the 9th of March, amended by order of the House, as provided by the Act—Cox's name being erased and James's name inserted in its place.

On the 29th of March, being less than twenty-one days after the 5th, omitting Sundays and Good Friday, the petitioners, being two voters, presented the petition now in question against the return of James.

Munisty, Q.C., and Cohen shewed cause against the rule.

Mellish, Q.C., Giffard, Q.C., and Griffiths supported the rule.

THE COURT held that the judgment at an election trial was in the nature of a judgment in rem, and binding on all persons; and that no petition could be presented against a candidate who had been certified to the Speaker as duly elected by the judge who heard the petition. They therefore made the rule absolute with costs, but directed it to be drawn up as a rule to stay all further proceedings, and not as a rule to take the petition off the roll.

Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 125)—Register conclusive as to Right to Vote.

Prior to the passing of the Representation of the People Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 102), a system of compounding for the poor-rates prevailed in the three city parishes of the borough of New Sarum, under a local Act of 11 Geo. 4, c. lxxvi.

On the 26th of August, 1867, a rate was made and charged upon, and paid by the owners of a number of small tenements, the occupiers' names not appearing in the rate-book. The names of the occupiers or tenants were, however, inserted by the overseers on the register of voters, and were not objected to before the revising barrister. It was admitted that these persons were respectively (within the meaning of the Representation of the People Act, 1867) inhabitant occupiers or tenants of dwelling-houses within the borough, and had been so from a time prior to the 31st of July, 1867, down to the time of voting, and that, except so far as their not being rated by the rate of the 26th of August, 1867, was a disqualification, they were in every respect entitled to vote.

Upon a case stated for the opinion of the Court under the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, it was held that, in the absence of objection before the revising barrister, the votes were properly received, and the respondent had judgment, with costs.

Appeal from Justices under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43—Friendly Society.

A dispute between a member of the Loyal King's Lodge Friendly Society and one of the officers of the society was decided by a magistrate; but, at the instance of the officer of the society, the magistrate stated a case for the opinion of this Court, under the 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43. Upon the case coming on to be heard, it was objected by the respondent that there was no power in the magistrate to state a case, on the ground that he acted as a referee, and that his decision was without appeal.

The 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, s. 40, enacted that any dispute between a member and officers of the society should be decided in the manner directed by the rules of such society, and that "the decision so made shall be binding and conclusive on all parties without appeal." Then followed a proviso that, where the rules of any society shall have directed disputes to be referred to justices, such disputes shall be referred to, and decided by, the County Court. This proviso was repealed by the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 101, s. 5, and it was thereby enacted that, where the rules of any society shall direct disputes to be referred to justices, then a justice, upon complaint made, may summon the persons against whom complaint is made, and may proceed to hear and determine the said complaint in the manner directed by the 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43.

By one of the rules of the society in question, it was provided that disputes arising between members and any officers of the society shall be referred to justices, pursuant to the 21 & 22 Vict. c. 101, s. 5.

THE COURT held that the decision of the magistrate under the last-mentioned statute was not subject to appeal under the 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43.

C. P. MAKIN v. LONDON RICE MILL COMPANY. May 8.
Construction of Contract—Rejection of Evidence.

The defendants contracted to sell the plaintiff 800 bags of clean Siam rice, to be packed "in double bags," meaning double gunny bags. The rice, which was to be shipped for New York, was sent out in single cotton bags, and was on that account rejected by the plaintiff.

There was evidence to the effect that it is of importance to rice, as an article of commerce in the American market, that it should be packed in double bags; that rice in single bags would not readily sell; and that double bags are considered as absolutely essential in New York for transit to the West.

THE COURT held that the mode of packing affected the quality and description of the thing sold, and that the plaintiff was entitled to reject the rice by reason of its being packed in single bags only; and that a question whether the single bags in which the rice had been sent out were as effectual for the preservation of the rice as two ordinary gunny bags, was immaterial, and was properly rejected.

EX. FREEMAN v. JEFFRIES. May 6.
Action for Money had and received—Mistake—Valuation—Award.

Action for money had and received.

By agreement between the outgoing tenant of a farm, the defendant, and the incoming tenant, the plaintiff, the amount to be paid by the latter to the former was referred to two valuers. A promissory note for the amount of the valuation, after deducting 2000*l.* paid on account, was given by the plaintiff to the defendant; and the plaintiff entered into possession. On the occasion of his selling his interest in the farm to a third person, the plaintiff discovered that errors had been made in the former valuation by including items that ought not, by the custom of the country, to have been valued to him, and items that did not exist. He, nevertheless, paid the promissory note at maturity, without objection. Afterwards, without having given the defendant any information as to the nature of his complaint of the valuation, and without having made any demand, he brought this action for money had and received as for money paid by mistake. At the trial before Bramwell, B., at the Chelmsford Spring Assizes, a verdict was taken for the plaintiff, with leave to the defendant to move to enter it for him. A rule having been obtained accordingly:

J. Brown, Q.C., Sir George Honyman, Q.C., and Finlay, shewed cause against the rule.

Hawkins, Q.C., and Philbrick, were not called on to support it.

THE COURT made the rule absolute—Kelly, C.B., and Pigott, B., holding the valuers' award to be final between the parties; Kelly, C.B., and Martin, B., holding that, as the plaintiff had by his own acts made it impossible to restore the parties to their original condition, or to do justice between them, the plaintiff could not maintain the action; and Martin and Bramwell, B.B., holding that, to maintain an action for money had and received for money paid by mistake, notice of the mistake must be given to the defendant, and a demand made.

EX. COURTAULD v. LEGH. May 6.
Practico—Error—Case stated by Arbitrator—Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125), s. 32.

The arbitrator to whom this case was referred was required by the order of reference to state a case for the opinion of the Court of Exchequer, at the request of either party. He stated a case accordingly, which was heard and decided by the Court (Law Rep. 4 Ex. 126), and the case was remitted to him for his final award.

The defendant having brought error, the plaintiff obtained an order setting aside the proceedings in error, on the ground that such a special case was not within section 32 of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854, and that no final judgment had been pronounced.

The defendant having obtained a rule to rescind this order:

Garth, Q.C., and Thesiger shewed cause.

Pollock, Q.C., and Thrupp supported the rule.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Martin, Bramwell, and Pigott, B.B.), following Gumm v. Fowler (2 E. & E. 890), discharged the rule.

Ex. MAYTED v. PAINE. May 8.
Sale of Shares—Stock Exchange—Liability of purchasing Jobbers.
Special case.

On the 24th of May, 1866, the plaintiff, by his brokers, sold on the Stock Exchange to the defendant, a jobber, 100 shares in Overend, Gurney, & Co. On the same day the defendant gave to the plaintiff's brokers the name of one Goss as transferee of 10 of the shares, having himself received that name from Messrs. Foster & Co., certain other brokers, to whom he had sold the shares. Goss's name was given by his authority; but it was given in pursuance of an arrangement, by which Sir S. Sprye, the true principal of Messrs. Foster & Co., and the purchaser of shares, stipulated with Goss that Goss should, in consideration of a sum of money, allow his name to be given. The name was not objected to by the plaintiff or his brokers, who were ignorant of this arrangement, and a transfer to Goss was duly executed and delivered to Messrs. Foster & Co. Calls having been made on the shares, which Goss, being a person of no means, was unable to meet, the plaintiff was compelled to pay the calls; and now brought this action against the defendant for indemnity.

April 21. The case was argued by
Pollock, Q.C. (Herschell with him), for the plaintiff.
Macnamara (Beresford with him), for the defendant.

May 8. THE COURT gave judgment for the plaintiff—Kelly, C.B., Bramwell and Pigott, B.B., holding that, though the plaintiff might have objected to Goss's name within the time allowed by the rules of the Stock Exchange for that purpose, yet, not having objected, but having executed the transfer to Goss, he was now bound by his act—Cleasby, B., dissenting, and holding that the usage of the Stock Exchange, allowing a name to be passed in lieu of the original buyer, only applied to the case of one who was really and bonâ fide the ultimate buyer; that it did not therefore govern this case, Goss not being in fact a buyer at all, but only a person paid to represent him.

P. & M. GRANT AND GRANT v. GRANT. April 27.
Will—Appointment of Executor—Petition—Receiver of Real Estate—20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 71—Practice.

John Grant died on the 22nd of February, 1868, having duly executed a will and codicil. In the will he appointed an executor in the following terms:—"I appoint my nephew, Joseph Grant, executor of this my will." One of the plaintiffs, Joseph Grant, was the nephew of the deceased's wife, had been brought up and educated by the deceased, and latterly had managed the deceased's business. The defendant, Joseph Grant, was a son of the deceased's brother.

A petition, answer and replication had been filed, in which the parties respectively claimed to be the executor named in the will, but the validity of the will was in no way questioned by them.

Dr. Swabey, for the defendant, moved on affidavit for the appointment of an administrator pendente lite, and of a receiver of the real estate of the deceased.

LORD PENZANCE called attention to 20 & 21 Vict. c. 77, s. 71, which authorizes the Court to appoint a receiver only pending a suit touching the validity of any will of the deceased person by which his real estate is affected. As there is no such suit pending in this case, he had no authority to appoint a receiver.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF THOMAS BRIGHTMAN SHARMAN. May 4.
Will—Residus—Signature of Legatee written under Attestation Clause—Omission of Name in Probate—Practice.

Mr. Sharman executed a will a few hours before he died, in which he said: "I give and bequeath unto my sister Adelaide Sharman absolutely all my houses and land and book debts, household furniture, plate, linen, books, china, glass, books of art, drugs, hay, straw, potatoes, and everything on the said premises, horse, gigs, &c., and all other chattels." Opposite the attestation clause were the names of two witnesses; beneath the attestation clause the signature of the legatee, A. Sharman.

From the affidavits it appeared that Miss Sharman signed her name after the will had been executed, at the request of one of the attesting witnesses, who had drawn the will, and who thought that it was proper she should, as legatee named therein, so sign her name.

Inderwick moved that administration with the will annexed should be granted to Miss Sharman, as the residuary legatee named in the will, and that the probate should issue without Miss Sharman's signature appearing thereon.

LORD PENZANCE:—There are two questions in this case. First, whether Miss Sharman is residuary legatee; and, secondly, whether a grant should be made with or without her name appearing on the will. In a case before Sir C. Cresswell he decided that it was not the duty of this Court to ascertain, if there be two attesting witnesses, whether the name of a third person appearing on the face of the will was written as attesting the signature of the testator or not—that such a question would be more properly raised in a Court of Construction; but in this case it is my duty to determine that point, because the question to whom the grant shall go depends upon the previous one, whether Miss Sharman has any interest or not under the will, and that further depends upon the question whether she attested the signature of the deceased. I am satisfied from the evidence she did not sign her name as an attesting witness. As regards the other point, I think the fair meaning of the will is, that the testator intended to give his sister everything, and that she is residuary legatee. Administration with the will annexed will issue to her, but the grant will not include her name written at the foot of the will.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF F. C. IRVING. May 4.
Administration Bond—One Surety—Property re-sworn under an increased Value—Second Bond—New Sureties—Leave to sue on first Bond—Refusal.

Miss Irving died on the 2nd of July, 1867, a spinster, without parents and intestate.

On the 19th of December, 1867, administration was granted to her nephew, Mr. Johnston, who made oath that the whole of her property did not amount in value to the sum of 20*l.*, and he gave bond jointly with Mr. Ward in the penal sum of 40*l.* Subsequently the property was re-sworn under 600*l.*, and a fresh bond was entered into by Mr. Johnston, together with two sureties, Messrs. Nuttall and Hutton, in the penal sum of 1200*l.* Mr. Johnston having received funds sufficient to pay all the debts of the deceased, and for distribution amongst the next of kin, failed duly to administer her estate, and in August, 1868, was adjudicated a bankrupt on his own petition. There was no estate under his bankruptcy.

Application was made to the Court of Probate in April, 1869, for a rule nisi calling upon the sureties of both bonds to shew cause why they should not respectively be assigned to L. F. Foulkes for the purpose of being sued upon.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., appeared for Mr. Ward, the surety in the first bond, to shew cause.

Searle, for the parties applying for leave to sue.

LORD PENZANCE:—I think it would be more equitable and fair if the sureties in the second bond were proceeded against first. I shall, therefore, order that bond to be assigned, and shall hold my hand as regards the first bond until I know the result of the suit.

	Mortgage—Priority—Marshalling.

A mortgagor being entitled to properties A. and B., mortgaged them three times. Mortgage 1 comprised both properties; Mortgage 2, A. only; Mortgage 3, both properties. Mortgages 1 and 2 were in the form of trusts for sale and payment of the mortgage-debts out of the proceeds, and payment of the surplus to No. 16.—1869.

the mortgagor. Mortgage 3 was in the form of an assignment of properties A. and B., subject to and after satisfaction of the moneys secured by Mortgages 1 and 2 and the trusts thereof respectively.

The whole of property A. was absorbed in payment of Mortgage 1. The proceeds of property B. having been paid into Court under the Trustee Relief Act, the question arose between the owners of Mortgages 2 and 3 in what way the fund was to be applied in satisfaction of their claims.

Faber, for the owner of Mortgage 3, contended that it must be considered that Mortgage 1 had been satisfied out of properties A. and B. rateably, and that the surplus of A., on this principle, should be paid to the owner of Mortgage 2, and the surplus of B. to his client: Barnes v. Rastor (1 Y. & C. Ch. 401).

W. Pearson and Bovill, for the owners of Mortgage 2, admitting the general rule to be as laid down in Barnes v. Rastor, contended that, in this case, the mortgagor had, by Mortgage 3, assigned only the surplus which should come to him after paying Mortgages 1 and 2; and that their clients were therefore entitled to be paid in full before any payment was made to the owners of Mortgage 3.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, under the circumstances, Mortgage 2 must be satisfied before any payment was made in satisfaction of Mortgage 3.

V.-C. J. KING OF HANOVER v. BANK OF ENGLAND. May 8.
Bank of England—Transfer of Fund standing in Name of a Non-corporate Body—Appointment of New Trustees of the Fund, with Direction to them to Transfer.

Bill by the King and Crown Prince of Hanover against the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Duke of Brunswick, praying that the first defendants might be directed to transfer a sum of 600,000*l.* Consols standing in their books to the credit of "The Lords of His Majesty's Royal Regency of Hanover," into the names of the plaintiffs and the last two defendants, to be held by them upon certain trusts declared by a law and convention in the bill mentioned; also that the dividends accrued since the last payment, and to accrue until the transfer, might be paid to the first-named plaintiff.

Sir R. Palmer, Q. C., and Edlis, for the plaintiffs.

Cotton, Q. C., and Kekewich, for the Bank, did not oppose the prayer of the bill, but shewed from the evidence that the "Royal Regency of Hanover" were probably not a corporate body, but only a fluctuating association of official persons; although the bank had been in the habit of dealing with the fund under the authority of instruments bearing what purported to be the seal of the "Corporation" of a body so named. For the protection of the Bank, they asked the Court to appoint two new trustees of the fund under sections 32 and 35 of the Trustee Act, 1850, and to direct them to transfer, in order to avoid any question that might be raised as to a conflict between the provisions as to vesting orders in the same Act and the special provisions of the Bank Acts.

Sir R. Palmer did not oppose.

O. Morgan, for the last two defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order, appointing as new trustees of the fund two persons to be named by the Royal personages, parties to the suit, empowering and directing such new trustees to transfer the fund, and to receive and pay over the arrear of dividends.

Q. B. PRIDEAUX (P. O.) v. CRIDDLE. May 11.
Cheque—Presentment, Time of—Country Banker and Customer.

The plaintiff was the public officer of the D. & C. Banking Company, who carry on the business of bankers in Cornwall, and have a branch bank at Truro, and the defendant kept an account at that bank. The D. & C. Company have no bank at Falmouth. One Anderton, who had an account with H. & Co. at Falmouth, on the 4th of June drew a cheque in favour of the defendant, who received it at Truro on the afternoon of the same day. On the 5th of June the defendant paid the cheque to the Truro Branch Bank, and the manager of that bank sent it the same day by post to London, and it was received on the 6th of June by B. & Co., their London agents. On the same day B. & Co. handed the cheque, through the clearing-house, to the Agra Bank, the London agents of H. & Co., upon whom the cheque was drawn. The Agra Bank the same day forwarded the cheque to H. & Co. at Falmouth, and stopped payment on the 7th of June. H. & Co. received the cheque on the 7th of June, and stopped payment on the 8th of June. The defendant had notice of dishonour on the 8th of June. The cheque still remains unpaid. The D. & C. Banking Company had, on the 5th of June, credited the defendant with the amount of the cheque. The question was whether they were entitled to recover the amount back from the defendant.

Cocoon (Field, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff.

Sir G. Honyman, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT held that if, instead of sending the cheque to their agents in London, the Truro Bank had sent it to an agent at Falmouth, that agent would have been entitled to another day to present the cheque for payment; sending the cheque to London through the clearing-house did not take any longer time; and that, therefore, there had been no delay in the presentment of the cheque, and the plaintiff was entitled to recover.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. WALLASEY LOCAL BOARD. May 11.
Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63) ss. 69 & 144—Compensation—Damage—Altering Level of Street.

Rule for a mandamus to the defendants to cause compensation to be paid to Thomas Evans for damage sustained by him from exercise by the board of the powers of the Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63).

The board, under section 69, had required Evans and other owners of houses in a street to level and pave it. Evans did not do as required, and the board executed the work themselves; the effect of which, it was alleged, was to obstruct the entrance to his house and make the access to his door dangerous and inconvenient; and he claimed compensation under section 144.

Milward, Q.C., and R. G. Williams, for the defendants.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. PLENTY. May 11.
Municipal Corporation—Election of Town Councillor—Validity of Voting Papers—Candidates' Christian Names designated by Initials.

This was a quo warranto to try whether the defendant or the relator, William Penford, was elected town councillor of Newbury, and the relator had a majority of votes if he was entitled to count as valid certain voting papers in which the candidate voted for was designated as "W. Penford."

By 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 32, each burgess is to vote by delivering a voting paper containing the Christian names and surnames of the persons for whom he votes, with their respective places of abode and descriptions; by s. 142, no misnomer or inaccurate description of any person . . . in any voting paper shall hinder the full operation of the Act with respect to such person . . . provided that the description of such person . . . be such as to be commonly understood.

A. Rogers, for the relator.

Gray, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lush, Hannen, & Hayes, JJ.) gave judgment for the relator. The designation of William Penford as W. Penford was a misnomer within s. 142, and therefore cured by that section; the term "misnomer" was wide enough to include the faulty indication of a Christian name by means of an initial.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. THE GUARDIANS OF EXETER UNION. May 12.

Evidence—Declaration against Proprietary Interest—Settlement by renting a Tenement—Evidence of Payment of Rent—6 Geo. 4, c. 57, s. 2.

An order was made for the removal of James McGinn from the Strand Union to Exeter Union, on the derivative settlement of his maternal grandfather, by renting a tenement in a parish in the Exeter Union, under 6 Geo. 4, c. 57, s. 2.

On appeal, it was proved that the grandfather had rented a house in the parish for four years up to Midsummer, 1830; and the pauper's mother proved that she had heard her father say, while occupying the house, that he held the house of J. Brook at 22s. a year rent, and had paid the rent; and she produced a book containing entries in his handwriting, stating he had paid Brook two sums amounting to 5l. 10s. for a quarter's rent due Midsummer, 1830. This evidence was objected to by the appellants.

Poland, for the respondents.

Lopes, for the appellants.

THE COURT (Lush, Hannen, and Hayes, JJ.) were of opinion that the evidence was admissible as a declaration against proprietary interest, and to prove the payment of rent. Reg. v. Birmingham (1 B. & S. 763; 31 L. J. [M. C.] 63) was not distinguishable. The proof of occupation as tenant for four years, without disturbance, was also prima facie evidence that the rent had been paid.

Q. B. HARROWER v. HUTCHINSON. May 12.
Policy of Insurance—Words to "Port or Ports"—Concealment.

The plaintiff requested the defendant to insure his vessel "at and from Buenos Ayres, and port or ports of loading in the province of Buenos Ayres to port or ports of discharge in the United Kingdom," and the defendant did insure the vessel. At the time the plaintiff made this request he knew that his vessel was going from Buenos Ayres to a place called Laguno, a port in the province of Buenos Ayres, to complete her loading, but he did not communicate this fact to the defendant, and the defendant did not know that there was a port in the province of Buenos Ayres called Laguno. The vessel sailed from Buenos Ayres to Laguno, but, being unable to get any cargo there, she left to return for Buenos Ayres, and was lost before she reached that place.

The question was whether, the plaintiff not having communicated to the defendant the fact that the vessel was going to Laguno, it was a concealment which vitiated the policy.

Milward, Q.C., and Baylis, for the plaintiff.

Cohen, for the defendant.

THE COURT held that the plaintiff was not bound to communicate to the defendant the fact that the vessel would go to Laguno; that the words "port or ports" were very large; and if the defendant intended to limit the risk to those ports only which he knew to exist, he should have done so.

FLEET, ADMINISTRATRIX OF M. A. ROSS v. PERRINS.

Action—Husband and Wife—Chose in Action of Wife after Coverture.

The defendant received in 1864 money from G., to be appropriated to the use of Mary Ann Ross, a married woman, who, with her husband, was in India; the defendant wrote to the wife, saying he had received the money, and held it at her disposal.

The wife soon afterwards died, and the husband died in 1866. The plaintiff having taken out administration to the wife, sought to recover the money from the defendant, as money had and received to the use of M. A. Ross.

It was objected for the defendant that the money at once became the property of the husband, and the action ought therefore to have been brought by the representatives of the husband.

The plaintiff contended that, the money never having got to the possession of the wife, it was merely a chose in action of the wife, which the husband had not reduced into possession, and therefore survived to the wife's representatives.

The Court of Queen's Bench held that there was a chose in action conferred on the wife, with which the husband had not during coverture interfered, and that the action was therefore rightly brought (Law Rep. 3 Q. B. 586).

On appeal:

Prentice, Q.C. (W. G. Harrison and Gorst with him), for the defendant.

BUTTON v. THOMPSON.

May 8.

Ship and Shipping—Construction of Ship's Articles—Wages—Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 104).

The plaintiff shipped as mate on board the Sea Skimmer, for a voyage from Shields to Alexandria and, if required, to any port or ports in the Mediterranean and several other places, and home to her final port of discharge in the United Kingdom, &c.—the voyage not expected to exceed twelve months. By the ship's articles, "in consideration of the services to be duly performed," the master agreed to pay the plaintiff "5*l.* 10*s.* per calendar month." Whilst the ship was at Sulina, the plaintiff was drunken and insolent; and, on the day on which the ship sailed from that port, he was left behind, though he shortly after arrived at the quay intending to go on board, and he actually did follow the ship to Constantinople for that purpose, but without success. At the trial the jury found that the plaintiff had been guilty of drunkenness and abusive language subversive of discipline, and that he was not left behind by the wilful misconduct or negligence of the captain, but through his own negligence and misconduct. The judge directed the jury to find for the plaintiff for the balance of wages due to the time of the sailing of the ship from Sulina. Upon a rule to enter the verdict for the defendant:

BYLES, J., and MONTAGUE SMITH, J., held that the plaintiff was entitled to recover wages pro rata for the period during which he had actually served on board the vessel—the finding of the jury not establishing such an amount of misconduct or neglect of duty as to incur a forfeiture.

BRETT, J., was of opinion that, construing the articles by the statute, the plaintiff had by his misconduct forfeited all right to wages, the contract being entire for the voyage out and home, and the entire performance of it being the consideration for the payment of any part of the stipulated monthly wages.

TWIBELL v. LONDON SUBURBAN BANK.

May 8.

Banker—Special Contract as to mode of drawing by a Firm—Measure of Damages.

The plaintiff and his partner at the time of opening an account at the defendants' bank stipulated that no cheque drawn in the name of the firm by one of the partners should be honoured by the bank unless it bore the initials of the other partner.

The bank having, in violation of this contract, paid a cheque drawn in the name of the firm by the plaintiff's partner, without having the initials of the plaintiff:

THE COURT held that the plaintiff was entitled to sue for this breach of contract, and that the proper measure of damages was a moiety of the sum for which the cheque was drawn; and refused a rule for a new trial.

Libel—Privileged Communication—Actual Malice—Evidence for Jury.

Bill of exceptions to the ruling of Martin, B., in an action for libel tried at Middlesex on the 18th of June, 1868.

The defendant had written of the plaintiff that his conduct was "most dishonest and disgraceful." It appeared on the examination of the plaintiff that the defendant was a creditor of the plaintiff's firm, the affairs of which were being wound up; that the words occurred in a letter written by the defendant to another creditor engaged in the winding-up; and that they referred to the following transaction:—Disputes having arisen between the plaintiff and his partner, Mr. Briggs, both before and in relation to the winding-up, the plaintiff took from the cash-box of the firm certain bills, directing the clerk to tell Mr. Briggs to debit his account with them. This being the plaintiff's case, the learned judge directed a verdict to be entered for the defendant; and a bill of exceptions was tendered to his ruling by the counsel for the plaintiff, on the ground that, though the communication was privileged, yet the terms used in the letter were evidence of actual malice, and ought to have been left to the jury.

Huddleston, Q.C. (J. O. Griffiths with him), supported the bill of exceptions.

Butt, Q.C. (Ballantine, Serjt., and Giffard, Q.C., with him), contra.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Keating, Lush, Hannen, Hayes, and Brett, JJ.) affirmed the judgment of the Court below; holding that, although under some circumstances the terms of the libel might be evidence of actual malice, yet here the uncontroverted facts shewed conduct on the part of the plaintiff which might bear a double construction, either that of honesty or of dishonesty; that the communication being privileged, there was a presumption of innocence in favour of the defendant, who must therefore, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be taken to have honestly believed the plaintiff's conduct to be such as he had described it; and that the terms of the letter did not, therefore, furnish any evidence of actual malice which could be left to the jury.

Keane, Q.C. (Barnard with him), for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Keating, Lush, Hannen, Hayes, and Brett, JJ.) reversed the judgment of the Court below; holding that, since section 3 of the special Act excluded the provisions of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, "relating to the purchase and taking of lands otherwise than by agreement," it excluded all the sections of that part of the general Act which was introduced by those descriptive words, and amongst them section 68, under which compensation was claimed.

MORGAN v. MORGAN AND PORTER.

May 4.

Dissolution of Marriage—Adultery of the Respondent and Petitioner proved—Discretion—20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, s. 31.

The petitioner asked for a dissolution of marriage by reason of his wife's adultery, which was alleged to have taken place between September, 1866, and January, 1868.

The respondent in her answer denied the adultery, and alleged that the petitioner had himself been guilty of adultery in the years 1856, 1857, and 1858. The marriage between the parties was celebrated in the year 1855.

The points in issue were tried before the Judge Ordinary and a common jury, and it was found that both the petitioner and the respondent had been guilty of the adultery charged against them respectively.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Inderwick applied to the Court to exercise its discretion, under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, s. 31, and to grant a decree nisi, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury against the petitioner.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Searle, for the respondent.

MAY 4. LORD PENZANCE:—There is no doubt that the Legislature has invested this Court with a discretion on this subject, and that there are cases in which the adultery of the petitioner has been committed under such circumstances that it ought not, in justice, to stand in the way of a decree. But in cases where the adultery complained of has no special circumstances attending it, and no special features placing it in some category capable of distinct statement and recognition, there would, I think, be great mischief in this Court assuming to itself the right to grant or withhold a divorce upon the mere footing of the petitioner's adultery being, under the whole circumstances of each case, more or less pardonable or capable of excuse. A loose and unfettered discretion of this sort upon matters of such grave import is a dangerous weapon to entrust to any Court, still more so to a single judge. I hold, therefore, that the discretion to be exercised under the 31st section of the Divorce Act should be a regulated discretion, and not a free option subordinated to no rules. It was probably reposed in the Court because the Legislature found it impossible to foresee and specify the classes of cases fit for its application which might arise under the new law. The duty of reducing its exercise to method devolves upon the Court. Past experience has already pointed out some classes of cases to which it is fitly applied, and the future may probably furnish more. But the facts of this case present no definite features beyond mere lapse of time to justify its exercise, and the Court must refuse a decree.

Matrimonial Suit—Alimony pendente lite—Wife found Guilty of Adultery—Delay—Refusal.

On the 29th of May, 1868, Mr. Noblett filed a petition for a dissolution of his marriage with the respondent by reason of her adultery. The respondent filed an answer, and on the 21st of July, 1868, the Court gave directions in the suit as to the mode of trial. In March, 1869, Mrs. Noblett presented a petition to the Court for alimony pendente lite, which the petitioner answered on the 13th of March. On the 20th of April the respondent applied to the Court to order her husband to give fuller and further answers, which order was made and complied with on the 5th of May, and on the 7th of May the respondent was found guilty of adultery, and a decree nisi was pronounced. On the 11th of May she applied for alimony pendente lite.

Searle, for the respondent.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., for the petitioner.

THE JUDGE ORDINARY:—I shall make no order as to alimony in this case. The basis of such an application is that the wife is without means. If the respondent was in that state, why did she not apply earlier? The original petition was filed in May, 1868, the petition for alimony in March, 1869; and even after that the respondent did not push forward her claim, for she waited a whole month before she asked for further answers to the petition for alimony. She has now been found guilty of adultery, and I cannot make an order upon her husband to pay to her alimony.

Will—Wrong Date—Probate granted—Alteration of Date—Endorsement on Probate.

On the 19th of August, 1865, on the renunciation of the executors, administration with a will annexed of the effects of Christopher Allchin was granted to his eldest son. In this grant and in the original will the date of the will appears to be the 11th of January, 1863. In the course of proceedings in the Court of Chancery to administer the estate, it was discovered that the real date of the will, the day on which it was executed, was the 11th of January, 1864, whereupon the Vice-Chancellor suspended proceedings in his Court until the matter had been set right in the Court of Probate. Undoubted evidence was forthcoming that the will was engrossed in December, 1863, and the year put in by the clerk who engrossed it, but the remainder of the date was added by one of the attesting witnesses at the time of execution in January, 1864.

Pritchard moved the Court to order the true date to be notified on the letters of administration.

LORD PENZANCE:—I think it is part of the function of this Court to inquire as to the true date of a will as well as into the question whether it was duly executed. I am satisfied in this case that the true date of execution was the 11th of January, 1864, and I shall order the grant to be so amended as that it will shew on the face of it that is the true date.

Patent—Two Provisional Specifications.

This was an application by Messrs. Bates & Redgate to have the Great Seal affixed to a patent, and to have the patent dated on the 2nd of October, 1868.

The applicants had entered a provisional specification on the 2nd of October, 1868. On the 2nd of November, one Bertie entered the provisional specification of a patent for a similar invention, and obtained a patent on the 12th of December. On the 19th of March, the present applicants had applied to the commissioners to have the Great Seal affixed to their patent, and now presented a petition for that purpose to the Lord Chancellor.

Webster, Q. C., and Everitt, for the petitioners.
Grove, Q. C., and T. Aston, for Mr. Bertie, opposed.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the effect of a provisional specification was merely to protect the person obtaining it from the consequences of any publication on his part, but did not protect him from an independent inventor. Bertie had obtained his patent, and was in the same position as he would have been under the old law, and there was no reason to invalidate his patent by antedating another patent. The present applicants might have watched the advertisements of provisional specifications, and if they saw one which would affect their invention might have applied for a caveat. There was no reason why the Attorney-General should stop provisional protection because there was already a provisional specification for a similar invention; if that were done, it would be in the power of any inventor to prevent another from taking out a patent for an indefinite time. The petition must be dismissed, unless the petitioners chose to go before the Attorney-General and obtain a patent for any part of their invention not covered by Bertie's patent, and their patent would then be dated the 19th of March, 1869.

In re PRIOR.

Application for Leave to issue Execution, notwithstanding Creditors' Deed—Delay in impeaching Deed—Proceedings at Common Law.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Commissioner Bacon, refusing leave to Osenton to issue execution against Prior on a judgment obtained by him, notwithstanding a creditors' deed executed by the debtor.

The judgment was obtained on the 1st of August, 1868, and the deed was executed on the same day, and by it the debtor assigned all his property to a trustee in trust to pay a composition of 2s. in the pound to his creditors. The deed was registered on the 3rd of August, the usual affidavit having been sworn that the required majority of creditors had assented. Osenton disputed the validity of the deed, and proceeded to issue execution on the judgment, but the sheriff interpleaded, and the issue was tried between Osenton and the trustee.

It was ultimately decided by the judges of the Court of Exchequer, on the 23rd of January, 1869, that the assents to the deed were not sufficient, and that it could not be supported as a deed under the 192nd section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861; but that as the property in the goods of the debtor passed under it to the trustee, the issue must be decided against the creditor. Having failed at law, Osenton proceeded to examine the debtor in bankruptcy in order to impeach the deed, and on the 24th of March gave notice of an application for leave to issue execution notwithstanding the deed. The commissioner having refused the application, Osenton appealed from his decision.

Ince, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and Reed, for the debtor, relied upon the delay which had taken place since the registration of the deed as a bar to the present application.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the appellant had been guilty of no delay in impeaching the deed. From the beginning he had disputed the validity of the deed at law, and so long as the proceedings at law continued, it would have been vexatious to have proceeded also in bankruptcy. It was now decided that there was a legal impediment to his asserting his right, and he was entitled to the assistance of this Court to have it removed. The order of the commissioner must, therefore, be discharged, and the application granted.

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Policy of Assurance—Lien of Mortgagor's Personal Representative for Moneys expended in keeping up Policy.

In 1846 R. Lalor gave to John Sadleir a judgment to secure 900*l.* In 1847 Sadleir gave to Scully a charge for 8000*l.* on various securities, including Lalor's judgment. In 1850 Lalor's administratrix assigned to Sadleir a policy of assurance for 5000*l.* belonging to Lalor's estate, as a security for 1010*l.* then due on the judgment, and 396*l.* due to Sadleir from Lalor's estate on other accounts. In 1856 Sadleir died intestate, and the plaintiff took out administration, and instituted a suit in the Court of Chancery in Ireland for the administration of his estate, in which the common administration decree was made in December, 1856. The premiums on the policy were paid by Sadleir up to his death, and afterwards by the plaintiff. In 1867 the assured life dropped, and various claims having been made upon the policy moneys, the plaintiff instituted this suit against the insurance company and the claimants to have the rights of all parties ascertained. The principal question was whether, as against Scully, the plaintiff was entitled to a lien on the policy moneys for the amount of the premiums paid by Sadleir and himself.

Hardy, Q.C., and Higgins, for the plaintiff, contended that Sadleir and the plaintiff were trustees of the policy, and were entitled as against all persons beneficially interested to a lien for what they had expended in keeping it up.

Mackeson, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for Scully, contended that Sadleir and Scully were in the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee of the policy, and that neither Sadleir, nor the plaintiff as his representative, could have any lien as against his mortgagee for money expended in preserving the mortgaged property.

Bird and Ramadge, for other claimants, whose claims were rejected by the Court.

Smart, for the company.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that there could be no lien on the fund for premiums paid by Sadleir, but that the plaintiff as his representative could not without the sanction of the Court, after he had instituted an administration suit, properly apply Sadleir's assets in keeping up a policy which was mortgaged; and, therefore, that the first charge on the fund was the repayment of the premiums paid by him, with interest at 5 per cent.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Mistake—Purchaser misled by Particulars of Sale and Plan.

This was a vendor's suit for specific performance.

In May, 1867, the plaintiff, who was the owner of an estate at Chislehurst, in Kent, consisting of an ancient manor house, a villa, and about thirty-five acres of land, put up the whole of the estate (except a small piece of land about 100 yards from the manor house, containing about a rood) for sale by auction in lots, the first lot comprising the manor house and grounds, the second lot comprising the villa, and the rest of the land being divided into seventy-two lots for building purposes. The particulars described the property as "The Manor House Estate," and on the plan all the lots were coloured, and the names of the adjoining owners were inserted; but the plaintiff's name was not printed on the piece of excepted land, and upon a cursory inspection of the plan it might appear to be part of the adjoining property of Lord Sydney. By the conditions of sale, the purchasers of the building land were to covenant to observe certain general stipulations, one of which was, that no house should be used as a public house, and no business, trade, or manufacture should be carried on on the property. The property was not sold at the auction, and in May, 1868, the defendant agreed to purchase Lot 1 according to the conditions of sale, so far as applicable to a sale by private contract. He then supposed that the whole of the plaintiff's property was comprised in the particulars of sale, and that the small piece of excepted land belonged to Lord Sydney, or was part of Chislehurst Common. In August, 1868, having discovered his mistake, he refused to complete the purchase unless the plaintiff by his conveyance would enter into covenants in the terms of the conditions of sale, not only as to the building lots, but also as to the piece of excepted land. The plaintiff was willing to covenant as to the building lots, but not as to the excepted land.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the plaintiff.

Jessel, Q.C., and H. M. Jackson, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the particulars and conditions of sale and the plan had induced the defendant to believe that no part of the plaintiff's property would be exempted from the restrictive covenants, and that the plaintiff must either enter into such covenants including the piece of excepted land, or have his bill dismissed; and, in either case, must pay the costs of the suit.

Plaint in County Court—Appeal—Costs of successful Appellant not allowed.

This was a motion on behalf of Mr. Coote to vary the order as drawn by the registrar. Mr. Coote was made a defendant in this cause—a plaint in the County Court of Huntingdonshire—and on his appeal, which was heard in March last, he obtained a decision that he had been improperly made a defendant, with costs up to the decree of the County Court.

Bristowe submitted that Mr. Coote was entitled to his costs of the appeal, and stated that at law the practice was to make unsuccessful respondents in appeals from County Court orders pay the costs of the successful appellants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the rule at law that costs should follow the result was not the rule of this Court; but the rule was to take into consideration the conduct of the parties and other circumstances before determining the question of costs. To make a party respondent who had been successful in the County Court pay the costs of a successful appellant, would be to make him pay for the mistake of the judge. The rule laid down at law he was not disposed to follow. The motion must be refused.

V.-C. S. In re UNION CEMENT AND BRICK COMPANY. May 22.

Winding-up of Company—Change of Solicitor by Liquidator—Claim by late Solicitor to lien on File of Proceedings in, and on the Documents relating to, the Winding-up.

This was an application on the part of the official liquidator of the Union Cement and Brick Company Limited that his former solicitor might be ordered, within four days after service of the order to be made hereon, to deliver up to the said liquidator upon oath the file of proceedings in this matter, and all the documents relating to the winding-up of this company in his possession, and that the said solicitor might pay the costs of this application.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the liquidator.

Greene, Q.C., and Brookbank, for the solicitor, resisted the application, on the ground that he had a lien for his unpaid bill of costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that both liquidators and their solicitors were appointed by or with the sanction of the Court, and everything done in the winding-up of a company was done under the Act of Parliament, and could not be done without the sanction of the Court. This solicitor would not concur in the proceedings which were necessary, and therefore he was, with the sanction of the Court, dismissed, and another solicitor was appointed. The late solicitor could not be allowed to baffle the proceedings necessary in the winding-up, and his claim to have a lien upon the documents which came into his possession in the character of solicitor to the liquidator could not be recognised. The order would be that the documents must be delivered up by the late solicitor as asked, and that he must pay the costs of this application.

ROBSON v. DODDS.

May 22.

Publication of a Libel—Contempt of Court—Motion to Commit.

This was a motion to commit Mr. R. Ward, the printer and publisher of The North of England Advertiser, for a contempt of Court in publishing in his newspaper, on the 1st of May last, the following article, having reference to the above suit:—

"It will be remembered that at the last election of officers the members of the Northern Counties Building Society refused to reappoint Mr. W. L. Harle as solicitor. This unusual course was adopted at the recommendation of the directors, unanimously arrived at, but the grounds of the decision were never made public, as Mr. Harle threatened one of the members with an action for libel if he did so. We understand that Mr. Harle is the solicitor to bills in Chancery which have been filed both against the Northern Counties and the Newcastle Societies, for the purpose of preventing them from borrowing money. In one case the husband of the woman who cleans Mr. Harle's offices is the ostensible party to the proceedings. Of course we are bound to suppose that this person is acting from the very best of motives, but it is a very curious coincidence that a solicitor under whose advice the Northern Counties Society has borrowed so much money is now engaged to demonstrate its illegality, and by a person who occupies towards him so humble a relationship. The Northern Counties has borrowed and invested immense sums of money under one of its rules, devised and approved by Mr. Harle himself, and which has been sanctioned by Mr. Tidd Pratt. The Newcastle Society, although established more recently, has had a most successful career, and has borrowed under the more approved process of preference shares; and it is satisfactory to know that, whatever the result of Mr. Harle's efforts, both societies have been conducted with so much care that, although their usefulness may possibly for a time be crippled, their stability cannot be affected in the slightest degree. We refrain from predicting what may be the effect of the proceedings upon Mr. Harle himself, but we think it is peculiarly unfortunate that his duty to his clients should have forced him into a position of antagonism to societies which have done so much for working men, whose champion he has so long professed to be."

Glasse, Q.C., and Hastings, in support of the motion, contended that this article was calculated to prejudice the plaintiff and his solicitor in the conduct of the suit, and to influence the Court and the public in the matters in litigation between the parties.

Cole, Q.C., and Marten, contra, urged that the article was not written with any intention to injure the plaintiff or to prejudice the suit, and only contained fair and legitimate comments upon a case interesting to the public.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he fully admitted the propriety of giving the fullest liberty to the press; at the same time it was necessary to prevent any comments from being published relative to pending litigation which could impede the course of justice. Nothing should be stated to prejudice people against parties in suit not yet heard. This article was calculated to create prejudice against the plaintiff and to hold the solicitor up to contempt. He should make an order for committal, but not to be enforced if an apology should be published by Mr. Ward within three weeks.

INGLIS v. CAVE.

May 24.

Benefit Building Society—Installments for Money advanced.

The plaintiff, who was a member of a benefit building society represented by the defendants, applied for a loan of 250*l.* Notice having been given by the society that the money would be ready at the end of three months from the notice, the plaintiff, in accordance with the rules, paid 12*s.* per week until a satisfactory security should be provided, and these weekly payments amounted to 16l. 4s., when the mortgage was eventually executed for 220l. The rules further provided that a sum amounting to 10 per cent. upon the money advanced should be paid quarterly from the date of the mortgage; but the plaintiff refused to pay the three first quarterly instalments, on the ground that they must be considered as satisfied by the previous weekly payments.

The society, on the other hand, maintained that the 16l. 4s. should be allowed at the end of the ten years, which would elapse before the payment in full of the 220l., and brought an action of ejectment against the plaintiff.

This was a bill to restrain the action.

Yate Lee, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Everitt, for the society.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the society were not justified in demanding the instalments without first setting off the 16l. 4s. paid previously. He did not think, therefore, that the society were right in bringing an action of ejectment; but as the plaintiffs might have stopped the action without filing a bill, he should dismiss the bill without costs.

V.-C. M. HILL v. ROYDS. May 25.
Bill of Exchange—Amount paid to Bankers—Suit by Drawer of Bill—Privity.

The plaintiffs, Hill and Warren, were the drawers of a bill of exchange for 738l., payable at four months after date, which bill was accepted by Robert Kershaw of Rochdale, and became due on the 8th of August, 1867. On the 7th of August R. Kershaw, requiring funds to take up the bill, applied to the plaintiffs, who advanced the sum of 150l., and this amount, together with the remainder of the money, was paid into the bank of Clement, Royd, & Co., at Rochdale, by a clerk of R. Kershaw's, who at the same time left with the bankers an advice note of the bill for 738l. so accepted by Kershaw, to become due the following day at the London and Westminster Bank, [the London agents of the Rochdale bank] and requesting them to order payment thereof. On the 7th of August, Clement, Royd, & Co. accordingly advised their agents of the acceptance so due, but on the following day, when they heard that R. Kershaw had died suddenly—R. Kershaw being at the time indebted to them, upon his general banking account, to a much larger sum than the amount of the bill—they telegraphed to London to stop the payment of the bill, which was accordingly returned dishonoured to the plaintiffs, who were obliged to pay the full amount.

This bill was filed for a declaration that the defendants received the amount of the bill of exchange upon trust, and it was their duty to have applied the same in payment of the aforesaid bill of exchange, and that, under the circumstances, the defendants were liable to make good to the plaintiffs the whole amount with interest, and to indemnify the plaintiffs against all damages occasioned by the dishonour of the bill.

Osborne, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q.C., and North, for the bankers.

Dixon, for the representative of R. Kershaw.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that in his opinion the merits of the case were entirely against the defendants, whose duty it was to have given notice of their intention to dishonour the bill, and not to have received the money for the purpose of taking it up, and then credited the amount to Kershaw's general account. Unfortunately, upon a technical point, he could not make a decree against the defendants; for in the case of Moore v. Bushell (27 L. J. (Ex.) 3) it was decided, under very similar circumstances, that the drawer of a bill could not sue the bankers for the amount, there being no privity to sustain the action. The bill must therefore be dismissed.

V.-C. J. HEYGATE v. THOMPSON. May 22.

Practice—Plea—Coverture—Leave of Court.

W. Barber moved on behalf of the defendant, a married woman, that she might be at liberty to file a plea of coverture.

The bill was filed for specific performance against a married woman, living apart from her husband, but not judicially separated, and she was sued as if she were a spinster.

The Clerks of Records and Writs had refused to receive the plea unless under an order of the Court.

The only case to be found on the point was Higginson v. Wilson (17 L. J. (Ch.) 22), from which it would seem that leave of the Court was necessary in order to file a plea of coverture.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made the order.

V.-C. J. WILLIAMS v. IVIMEY. May 22.

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Judgment at Law—Different Rates of Interest—Right to Sue on Covenant.

On the purchase, in 1846, by the plaintiff, the Rev. James Williams, from the Rev. John George Storie, of the advowson of St. Giles', Camberwell, it was agreed that the purchase-money (15,000l.) should remain on the security of the living, and Williams executed to Storie eight mortgage deeds for sums amounting together to 15,000l., with interest at 5 per cent, and a warrant of attorney to enter up judgment in an action of debt for money borrowed, for 30,000l. and costs. These securities were all dated the 21st of February, 1846. Judgment was entered up on the 6th of March, 1846. On the 4th of December, 1846, interest to the amount of 322l. 4s. was in arrear, and a writ of fi. fa. de bonis ecclesiasticis was issued to the Bishop of Winchester, who was directed to levy 15,322l. 4s., with interest at 4 per cent. The bishop directed the living to be sequestrated; but, owing to previous sequestrations, no fruits were obtained till May, 1850, when the defendant Ivimey, the assignee of Storie, was paid 500l. He had now received altogether 21,683l. 2s. 9d.; and 3851l. 16s. 10d., and interest at 4 per cent. since the last rendering of account, was still due under the sequestration. Ivimey, however, claimed 8000l. and upwards as due to him under the mortgage deeds, the difference being attributable in part to the circumstance of the judgment-debt carrying interest only at 4 instead of 5 per cent. He also claimed a sum of 3643l. 7s. 8d., being the amount of payments made by him to Williams under a deed dated in 1851, the validity of which was disputed on grounds partly equitable. Ivimey, accordingly, had on the 17th of December last brought an action upon the covenants in the mortgage-deed, and this bill was filed on the 21st of April to restrain the action.

Prideaux, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Herbert Smith, for the motion:— Judgment, followed by execution, having been obtained already in respect of the same sums which are now sought to be recovered, the action is unnecessary and oppressive.

Little, Q.C., and Everitt, contra.

Prideaux in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, whatever was due to the defendant at law was due to him in equity; and neither the judgment nor the execution was any bar to his right to sue. Whatever might have been received by the defendant would be allowed to the plaintiff, and the defendant was entitled to sue for the difference. The Court of law, also, would decide the question as to whether the defendant was entitled to add to his demand what he had paid the plaintiff under the deed.

The motion must be refused; the costs to be reserved till the hearing, unless the bill were sooner dismissed, when defendant's costs would be costs in the cause.

 "not the Son" of Tenant for Life—Plea overruled.*

' Bill by an infant by his next friend, stating a settlement under which real estates were settled to the use of a defendant, W. L. Wilson, for life, with remainder, to the use of his first and other sons in tail male, with remainders over; that on the 12th of January, 1858, W. L. Wilson married another defendant, Barbara Catherine Wilson, "by whom he has one son only, namely, the plaintiff," and that the plaintiff was tenant in tail in remainder of the estates; that by a deed dated in 1860, to which W. L. Wilson was a party, reciting that "there is at present one child only of the marriage," W. L. Wilson charged the estates with 500*l.* a year for the separate use of his wife, the defendant Barbara C. Wilson, during their joint lives; that the real estates had been sold; that the defendants other than Barbara C. Wilson disputed the plaintiff's right, and pretended that he had no estate in the property, but refused to discover the grounds on which such pretences were made; that the sales were not beneficial to the plaintiff, and ought not to have been made; and praying that the trusts of the settlement might be performed under the direction of the Court; for an account of the sales; that the purchase-moneys might be secured for the benefit of the plaintiff and other parties interested under the settlement; and other relief.

The defendant W. L. Wilson pleaded to both relief and discovery, that the plaintiff was not his son.

C. Hall and Fischer, for the plea.

Speed and T. A. Roberts, for the bill.

Hall in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought the plea must be overruled. It was somewhat remarkable that the bill should have been so framed as to invite the plea, by not pointing out the facts upon which discovery was sought. Taking the bill and interrogatories together, however, it was quite clear that certain facts had been alleged for the purpose of making out the issue that the plaintiff was—what the plea said he was not—the son of the defendant. That could only have been done with a view to the discovery of facts, which the plaintiff was entitled to have discovered. He was also entitled to discovery as to the deed. On the whole, the plea must be overruled with costs; a month's time being given to answer.

V.-C. J. BROWNJOHN v. GALE. May 24.
Legacy—Society Defunct at Death of Testator—Parent Society—Cy-près.

William Hollins, by a codicil dated in May, 1852, gave a legacy of 500*l.* Reduced Annuities to "the treasurer for the time being of a certain voluntary society formed in London in the year 1822, entitled 'The Irish Society of London for Promoting the Education and Religious Instruction of the native Irish through the medium of their own Language.'"

Testator died in April, 1865. At the date of the codicil there was in being a society named as above, but it ceased to exist, or at any rate to exist eo nomine, at the date of the death. There were now existing two societies: one a London society, called "The Irish Society for Church Missions to Roman Catholics;" the other, a Dublin society, called "The Irish Society for Promoting the Scriptural Education and Religious Instruction of Irish Roman Catholics chiefly through the medium of their own Language," each of which claimed the legacy.

Eddis and Fischer, for the plaintiff.

Amphlett, Q.C., for the Dublin Society:—

The London Irish Society, now defunct, was originally only an affiliated branch of the Dublin Society, which absorbed, and now represents it.

Everitt, and Edwyn Thomas (of the Common Law Bar), for the Church Missions Society:—

The Dublin, or parent Society, cannot claim a gift to its deceased daughter. That being so, we are entitled as cy-près.

Karslake, Q.C., and Lindley, and Kay, Q.C., and Simmonds, for residuary legatees:—

Neither society is entitled.

Willcock, Q.C., and Everitt, for another party.

The case having stood over for further evidence, and been reargued:

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held the gift to have failed. The objects of the two claiming societies were quite distinct from that of the London Irish Society, which was to instruct and educate the Irish people in their vernacular tongue. That was not the practical intention of either of the claimants, notwithstanding the retention of the words "chiefly through the medium of their own language" in the title of one of them. The legacy, therefore, passed to the residuary legatees.

V.-C. J. PIKE v. NICHOLAS. May 24.
Copyright—Injunction—Damages.

This was a suit by the author of a work called "The English and their Origin," for the purpose of restraining the publication of portions of the defendant's work, called "The Pedigree of the English People," on the ground that such portions were piratically copied from the plaintiff's book, so as to amount to an infringement of his copyright.

Both books arose out of a competition for a prize of 100 guineas offered by the Welsh National Eisteddfod, in 1865 and 1866, on "The Origin of the English Nation, with reference to the question how far that nation is descended from the Ancient Britons."

The plaintiff sent in an essay in 1865, and, although no prize was awarded, the arbitrators strongly recommended the publication of his essay, which he accordingly brought out in April, 1866, under the title of "The Origin of the English People."

The defendant competed for the prize in 1865, and again in 1866, when (as in 1865) the prize was not awarded, but special attention was called, in the judgment of the arbitrator, to the defendant's essay. The defendant after submitting his MS. to various scientific persons, and adopting their suggestions, published his book, called "The Pedigree of the English People," in March, 1867.

The bill alleged that this work was, in a considerable portion of it, a mere copy of the plaintiff's work, especially having regard to the peculiar theory advanced by the plaintiff, the arguments by which it was supported, and the authorities referred to—all which was reproduced in paraphrased language by the defendant, who, as it was alleged, had altered his views after seeing the plaintiff's book, re-written his essay, and adopted the plaintiff's theory, and quoted his authorities without consulting them for himself.

The defendant, on the other hand, denied having made any unfair use of the plaintiff's work.

The question was almost entirely one of evidence.

Grove, Q.C., and Jemmett, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and Osborne Morgan, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendant's work was in the parts complained of a palpable crib from the plaintiff's book. Although plagiarism did not necessarily amount to a legal invasion of copyright, and although there was no monopoly in the main theory of the plaintiff, or in the theories and speculations by which he had supported it, nor even in the use of the published results of his own observations, no one could be permitted, whether with or without acknowledgment, to take a material and substantial portion of his work for the purpose of making or improving a rival publication. Injunction, with costs, against publication of the defendant's book in its present state, or of any book containing certain specified parts, with an order for cancellation of such parts. With respect to damages, the defendant must account for every copy of his book sold as if it had been a copy of the plaintiff's, and pay to the plaintiff the profit which he would have received from the sale of so many additional copies.

Costs—County Courts Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 142), s. 33, Sch. (C.)—Action before Verdict after Act—County Courts Acts (9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 128; 13 & 14 Vict. c. 61, ss. 11, 12; 15 & 16 Vict. c. 54, s. 4)—Statute of Gloster (6 Ed. 1, c. 1)—Lord Brougham's Act (13 & 14 Vict. c. 21), s. 5—Revival of repealed Statute.

This action for goods sold and delivered was commenced in the Court of Queen's Bench before the passing of the County Courts Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 142), and a verdict was recovered for less than 20% after that statute came into operation.

There were no facts giving the superior Court concurrent jurisdiction under 9 & 10 Vict. c. 95, s. 128, nor any ground for an order or certificate that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in the superior Court.

A rule having been obtained calling on the defendant to shew cause why the plaintiff should not be allowed his taxed costs:

Nov. 15, 1868. Holl shewed cause.

Kemplay, in support of the rule.

May 12, 1869. LUSH and HAYES, JJ., held that as to such an action the Statute of Gloster had been repealed by the restrictive sections in the former County Courts Acts, and that Lord Brougham's Act (13 & 14 Vict. c. 21), s. 5, prevented the Statute of Gloster reviving on the repeal of those enactments by 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142; and the plaintiff was, therefore, not entitled to costs.

HANNEN, J., was of opinion that the restrictive sections of the former County Courts Acts only added conditions to the general enactment of the Statute of Gloster; and the repeal of those sections by 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142 removed those conditions, and left the plaintiff entitled to costs under the Statute of Gloster; and 13 & 14 Vict. c. 21, s. 5, had no application to such a case.

Railway Company—Carrier—Passenger's Luggage—Conditions as to Liability—Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31), s. 7.

The plaintiff took a ticket of the defendants from London to Paris. The ticket was in three coupons: 1, from London to Dover; 2, from Dover to Calais; 3, from Calais to Paris. On the ticket was printed as follows: "The English railway companies are not responsible for loss or detention of or injury to luggage of the passenger travelling by this through ticket, except while the passenger is travelling by their trains or boats. . . Each company incurs no responsibility of any kind beyond what arises in connection with its own trains and boats, in consequence of passengers being 'booked' to travel over the railways of other companies, such through 'booking' being for the convenience of the passenger."

The plaintiff's luggage was lost in transit between Calais and Paris, on a French railway.

The question was whether, in order to exempt the defendants from liability, the condition ought to have been signed by the plaintiff, under section 7 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31).

H. James, Baker Greene, and Moir, for the plaintiff.

Field, Q.C., and M. White, for the defendants.

THE COURT held that the Railway and Canal Traffic Act only applies to lines which the company are working themselves, and not to contracts to carry over other lines; and although the condition was not signed by the plaintiff, the defendants were not liable for the loss of plaintiff's luggage.

Arbitration—Mistake—Reference back to Arbitrator.

This was a rule to refer back an award to the master on the ground of mistake. The master had awarded that nothing was due to the plaintiff, forgetting for the moment a payment of 60% which it was admitted had been made by the plaintiff to the defendant. The defendant had subsequently offered to pay the plaintiff 40%, and the mistake was admitted by both sides.

Willis shewed cause, and contended that the authorities shewed that an award could not be sent back on a question of fact, though the mistake was admitted.

Marriott supported the rule.

THE COURT held that they could send the award back, the arbitrator never having, in fact, exercised his judgment upon the question, but come to his decision from an oversight admitted by all parties; and made the rule absolute.

Bankruptcy—Partnership—Joinder of Plaintiffs.

This was an action of trover by the assignees of a bankrupt partner and the solvent partner to recover back certain bills of exchange which had belonged to the partnership, but had been indorsed by the bankrupt to the defendant in payment of a private debt, the defendant being aware of the fraud, and the payment amounting to a fraudulent preference as against the other creditors. The plaintiffs were nonsuited, on the ground that the assignees were in no better position than the bankrupt, who would have been estopped from denying the validity of his indorsement, and could not therefore recover, and that the solvent partner could not recover either without joining them, leave being given to the plaintiffs to move to enter the verdict.

Butt, Q.C., for the plaintiffs, having obtained a rule to enter the verdict accordingly:

Keane, Q.C., and Barnard, shewed cause.

Butt, Q.C. (Archibald with him), supported the rule.

THE COURT held that, the indorsement being void as against the solvent partner because of the fraud, and as against the assignees of the bankrupt because it was a fraudulent preference, no property passed by it, and the plaintiffs were tenants in common of the bills, and entitled to recover.

Ex. CHAPMAN v. JONES. May 24.
Private Chapel—Chapel part of Parish Church—Freehold of Inheritance—Immemorial Use—Prescription—Reparation.

Trespass for breaking and entering a certain "chapel aisle or private or lesser chancel" in the parish church of Mottram, Cheshire, and carrying away the lock of the door.

Plea (among others) not possessed. Issue.

The plaintiff was the grantee from the Earl of Stamford, under a conveyance in the year 1858, of a side chapel at the south-east end of Mottram church, called the "Staley or Stamford Chapel." A door led into it from the churchyard, and between it and the body of the church there was no separation. By the door, therefore, access might be gained to the body of the church through the chapel. The church and chapel formed to the eye parts of the same edifice, and it was admitted they had been built at the same time. The defendant was the vicar of the parish, and he claimed the right of entry through the door of the chapel, and, in the assertion of his right, removed the lock from it and passed through it into the church. The plaintiff, who claimed to be owner of the freehold of the site of the chapel, and of the chapel, and as such entitled to an exclusive right to the use of the door, thereupon brought this action.

The cause was tried before Kelly, C.B., at the last Cheshire Spring Assizes, when it appeared that from time immemorial the Earl of Stamford and his predecessors had repaired the chapel in question. The parishioners had never repaired it. They had also occupied, by themselves or their tenants, the seats and pews within it, and at times had let some of these pews to other persons. Other acts of ownership of minor importance were proved, with a view of establishing that the Earls of Stamford had been seised in fee of the soil of the chapel, and were the owners of it. In answer to this case it was contended by the defendant—1st, that a private individual could not have a freehold in a chapel or lesser chancel of a church; 2ndly, that, if he could, it could not be conveyed to the plaintiff in gross, but could only be enjoyed as appendant or appurtenant to some messuage or dwelling-house; and it was suggested that the Earls of Stamford had enjoyed the use of the chapel as lords of the neighbouring manor of Staley, which was in Mottram parish, but which, however, did not include the parish church within its limits. Some evidence was given in support of this suggestion, to the effect that the repairs of the chapel had been done by the Earls of Stamford in their capacity as lords of the manor. The learned judge ruled against the defendant on both these points, and directed a verdict for the plaintiff, with leave to move to enter a nonsuit.

A rule was obtained accordingly upon the following (among other) grounds:—That there was no evidence to go to the jury of any exclusive right in the plaintiff as against the defendant to the door of the alleged chapel, and no proof that the said alleged chapel is not a portion of the parish church of Mottram; and, also, that the plaintiff had no legal right to the chapel, if there be one, inasmuch as it was and is appurtenant to the manor of Staley, and that the said manor and manor-house thereto belonging are still the property of Lord Stamford.

A. J. Stephens, Q.C., McIntyre, and B. Shaw, shewed cause, and contended that the freehold of a lesser chancel or chapel could be in a private person, and might be conveyed in the ordinary manner. It was not necessarily appurtenant to a dwelling-house, and, in this respect, differed from a pew. The plaintiff, therefore, as the freeholder, had a right to close the door against the vicar.

Giffard, Q.C., and H. Lloyd, in support of the rule:—The vicar has a right of access to the parish church through any door which leads immediately into it; and the circumstance that the door in question is in a lesser chancel or chapel, and not in the great chancel, as in Griffin v. Deighton (33 L. J. (Q. B.) 181), is immaterial; for there can be no freehold in a private person in a chapel which is part of a parish church; or, assuming there can be, it cannot be conveyed apart from the dwelling-house (manor-house or otherwise) to which it was primarily attached.

THE COURT held, 1st, that the Earls of Stamford had a freehold of inheritance in the chapel site, and were the owners of the chapel; and, 2ndly, that the chapel was well granted to the plaintiff, although the manor-house in connection with which it had formerly been used and enjoyed remained in the grantor.

Rule discharged.

Dec. 3, 1868. The case was argued by Munisty, Q.C. (Holker with him), for the defendants.

T. Jones, Q.C. (J. A. Russell with him), for the plaintiff.

May 14. THE COURT (Willes, Keating, Hannen, Hayes, and Brett, JJ.) reversed the judgment of the Court below; holding that the defendants were justified by section 22 of the Nuisances Removal Act, 1855, in making the new sewer, though not made in the line of the old one; and that they were not disabled by reason of having previously had, under their local Act, a similar power of making such sewer after notice to the landowner; and also holding that the compensation clause in the general Act was applicable.

PARKES v. PRESCOTT AND ANOTHER.

Libel—Publication—Authority to Publish—Evidence.

Declaration: 1st count, for a libel published by the defendants in the Marylebone Mercury; 2nd, for a similar libel published by the defendants in the Paddington Times.

Plea: Not Guilty. Issue.

The cause was tried before Martin, B., at the Middlesex Sittings after Trinity Term, 1868. It appeared that the libels complained of were reports of certain proceedings at a meeting of the Board of Guardians for the parish of Marylebone, which were published in the above-named newspapers. At this meeting a discussion took place respecting the plaintiff's conduct towards his daughter, and remarks were made on the case of a highly defamatory nature. The defendant Prescott was chairman of the meeting, and Ellis, the other defendant, was also present, taking an active part in the proceedings. Reporters for the local press were in attendance. The only evidence given to connect the defendants with the publication was, as to the defendant Ellis, that he had said he hoped the local press would take notice of "this very scandalous case," of which he requested the other defendant to give an outline; and, as to the defendant Prescott, that in the course of his statement he had said: "I am glad gentlemen of the press are in the room, and I hope they will take notice of it." At another time Prescott had also expressed a hope that publicity would be given to the matter.

The learned judge was of opinion that there was no evidence for the jury of publication of the particular libels alleged in the declaration, and directed a verdict for the defendants accordingly.

A bill of exceptions was tendered to this ruling, on the ground "that the learned judge should not have directed the jury that there was no evidence to go to them, and should have directed the jury that there was evidence for them that the defendants' intended defamatory statements should be published of the plaintiff, and that the libels which appeared were what the defendants meant should be published."

Feb. 9. Giffard, Q.C. (Mathew with him), for the plaintiff, contended that there was evidence of publication, which should have been left to the jury.

Philbrick, for the defendants, contra.

May 14. THE COURT (Keating, Montague Smith, and Hannan, J.J.—Byles and Mellor, J.J., dissenting) were of opinion that there was evidence for the jury of publication by the defendants of the libels complained of, and therefore directed a verdict de novo.

EX. CH. FROM EX. POPPLEWELL v. HODKINSON. May 15.
Right to Support—Support from Subterranean Water—Adjoining Owner.

Error on special case.

The question raised in this case was whether a person is liable for making an excavation in his own land whereby certain subterranean water beneath adjacent land belonging to another is removed, and thus a subsidence is caused in that land, and the buildings thereon become cracked and otherwise damaged.

The land of the plaintiff, and of those under whose authority the defendant, who was a builder, acted, had originally belonged to the same owner. He conveyed it in 1835 to S. H., who in April, 1864, conveyed the plaintiff's portion, which was of a wet and spongy character, to O. for building purposes, subject to a chief rent. Some cottages of inferior construction were afterwards built upon it, but before their erection nothing had been done with the land to make it more suitable to bear the weight of the cottages either by draining or otherwise. The plaintiff was mortgagee in receipt of the rents of the land and cottages. S. H. in June, 1864, conveyed the adjoining land to E., and by successive conveyances it subsequently became vested in certain trustees for the purpose of erecting a church thereon. The defendant was the builder employed to carry out this object. In order to secure the safety of the church it was necessary for the defendant to excavate down to the natural soil, and during the progress of this operation the wet and spongy land on which the plaintiff's cottages were erected was drained and its surface subsided. The subsidence was solely attributable to the defendant's excavations, whereby the underground water which had previously supported the land was withdrawn. The land would have subsided even if no buildings had been erected on it.

The case was argued in the Court of Exchequer on the 20th of June, 1868, when judgment was given for the defendant, the Court being of opinion that, under the circumstances of the case, the plaintiff was not entitled to recover. From this decision error was brought.

Holker, Q.C., for the plaintiff in error, contended that the plaintiff was entitled to the support of the underground water.

Quain, Q.C. (Crompton with him), for the defendant in error, was not called on.

THE COURT affirmed the judgment of the Court of Exchequer.

The act of draining done by the defendant was one naturally incident to the use of land, and although the effect had been to draw off subterranean water from the land of the plaintiff adjoining, and thus cause its subsidence, the plaintiff had no right of action at common law. The only mode in which it was conceivable that he should have such a right would have been under the express terms of the conveyance of the land to him. If it had been conveyed to him for some special purpose, which absolutely required that it should be left in the same condition, then, on the principle that a man cannot derogate from his own grant, the adjoining owners, who derived their title from the same grantor, might perhaps have been prevented from so using their land as to deprive the plaintiff of the support he received from the underground water.

Judgment affirmed.

P. & M. WORSLEY v. WORSLEY. May 11.
Dissolution of Marriage—Deed of Separation—Post-nuptial Settlement—22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, s. 5.

On the 25th of February, 1868, a decree nisi was made to dissolve the marriage of the petitioner and respondent, and such decree was made absolute on the 17th of November, 1868. In December, 1868, Mrs. Worsley petitioned the Court, under 22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, s. 5, to vary a post-nuptial settlement or deed of separation bearing date the 4th of December, 1865, in such manner as the Court should think meet. In this deed Mr. Worsley covenanted to allow his wife to live separate and apart from him, and not to interfere with, molest, or disturb her, directly or indirectly, and not to compel her by legal process to renew cohabitation with him. He further covenanted to pay her during their joint lives an annuity of 200*l.* per annum, and after his death to be paid to her 150*l.* per annum, or, if she should marry again, 50*l.* per annum for the remainder of her life; and to permit her to dispose, by will, of any property which during their joint lives should come to or devolve upon her under any will or as next of kin of any person, or should come to him in her right; or in case she should die intestate, that such property should be administered as if he had predeceased his wife. He further covenanted to take charge of the children. Mr. Dudley, as trustee, covenanted that the respondent should not molest or annoy Mr. Worsley, or sue him for restitution or alimony other than what was contained in the deed. A provision also was inserted that the husband and wife might, by any writing under their respective hands, revoke the deed and its contents. The petition having been referred to one of the registrars, he made a report, calling the attention of the Court to the nature of the deed, and setting out the proposal of the husband, namely, to reduce the annuity of 200*l.* one third, and the other two, one half.

Dr. Tristram, for the petitioner, asked the Court to vary the deed in accordance with his proposal.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Searle, for the respondent.

THE JUDGE ORDINARY:—The Court will have great difficulty in saying that a deed which is a settlement of property, made after marriage and on the parties to the marriage, is not a post-nuptial settlement. The substantial feature to bring the case within the clause of the statute is, that a sum of money is to be paid to a woman in her character as wife, or is settled upon her in that character, and whilst she continues a wife. If a wife commits adultery, and the marriage is dissolved, she is no longer a wife, and the Court can, within the spirit of the statute, deal with the settlement. In this case the proposition made by the husband is a reasonable one, and I shall direct an order to be drawn up embodying that proposal.

L. C.	TENNANT v. TRENCHARD. Trustee—Leave to Bid.	May 25.
	In this case a trustee, who was also a mortgagee, had obtained a decree for a sale by the Court, and asked for leave to bid at the sale. Vice-Chancellor James refused the application, which was now renewed before the Lord Chancellor.
	Karslake, Q.C., and W. W. Karslake, for the application. Freeling and Speed opposed.
	THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the duty of the trustee was to communicate all the information he possessed for the benefit of the sale, which he might be induced not to do if he was allowed to become a purchaser at the sale; and refused the application. L. J.	TAYLOR v. DOWLEN. Practice—Appeal for Costs—Costs of Trustees.	May 26
	In this case the bill was filed by persons interested under a will against the trustees, asking that they might be decreed to assign certain leaseholds and pay certain sums of money to the plaintiffs, and might be ordered to pay the costs of the suit. Vice-Chancellor Malins ordered them to assign and pay the trust property to the plaintiffs, and to pay the costs of the suit up to and including the hearing. The defendants appealed from this decree so far as it ordered them to pay the costs. When the appeal came on for hearing, it was objected that the appeal, being only for costs, could not be heard.

Cookson, for the appellants, contended that the case came within the exceptions allowed to the rule against appealing for costs. It was well established that, if the costs had been ordered to be paid out of the estate, the persons interested in the estate might have appealed; and the converse ought, therefore, to be allowed, and the trustees ought to have liberty to appeal, and to ask for the costs to be thrown upon the estate.

Glasse, Q.C., and Hastings, for the plaintiffs.

THEIR LORDSHIPS were of opinion that there was no ground for considering the case of trustees who had been ordered to pay the costs personally an exception to the ordinary rule against an appeal for costs. They therefore must refuse to entertain the appeal.

Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction of County Court—Affidavit that Debts do not exceed 300l.—Bankruptcy Act, 1861, s. 94.

This was an appeal from an order of the judge of the County Court of Staffordshire, annulling the adjudication of the appellant.

The appellant was defendant in an action at law, in which the verdict was found against him, with 225*l.* damages. Fearing that he should be arrested, he filed a petition in the County Court to be adjudicated bankrupt. On that occasion he swore the usual affidavit necessary to bring the case within the jurisdiction of the County Court, "that he verily believed that his debts did not exceed 300*l.*"

It appeared that, before filing his petition, he had applied to his solicitors, who had calculated that the amount of damages in the action, together with the costs, which they estimated at about 55*l.*, and another small liability of 10*l.*, which constituted the whole of his debts, would amount to less than 300*l.*, and therefore advised him to make the affidavit. About a week after the adjudication, the costs were taxed at 85*l.*, which brought the amount of his debts to 320*l.* Under these circumstances the judge, considering that the appellant was not justified in swearing to the amount of his debts without waiting till their amount had been correctly ascertained, annulled the bankruptcy.

There was no other creditor except the plaintiff in the action.

Everitt, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., and Jelf, for the creditor.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that the bankrupt had taken sufficient pains to ascertain the amount of his debts, having taken the opinion of his solicitors; and, as he was acting bonâ fide, there was no ground for annulling the adjudication. The order must therefore be reversed, and the bankruptcy must proceed.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Eddis, for the respondents.

THEIR LORDSHIPS decided that creditors whose debts carry interest must receive dividends only on the amount due for principal and interest at the time of the winding-up order; but that, if there is a surplus, then the dividends will ultimately be attributed, first, in payment of interest, and then in reducing the capital, until the debts carrying interest have been paid in full, with interest subsequent to the date of the winding-up order.

Practice—Cause set down—Fixing a Day for Hearing.

This cause had been set down for hearing, and notice had been given for the cross-examination of witnesses.

Purke, for the plaintiffs, applied that a day might be fixed for the hearing of the cause.

Phear, for some of the defendants, opposed, alleging that a summons was now pending for the production of documents, and that the defendants, whom he represented, would be very much embarrassed by fixing a day for the hearing.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that if a cause in which witnesses were to be examined in Court was set down and ready to come into the paper, it was a matter of course to fix a day for the hearing, and no evidence in opposition to the application could be listened to. The only point to be considered in fixing the day was the convenience of the counsel and witnesses, always taking care that the cause should not come on earlier than it would in the ordinary course. If any defendant had any reason to shew why the hearing of the cause should be postponed, he must himself make a special application for the purpose.

Ex parte WRIGHT & GAMBLE.

Practice—Winding-up—Proof of Claim—Costs.

The above-named company having been ordered to be wound up, Messrs. Wright & Gamble carried into chambers a claim against the company, supported by an affidavit in the usual form. The official liquidator opposed the claim, and cross-examined Messrs. Wright & Gamble on their affidavit, and adduced evidence in opposition which was replied to by the claimants. Ultimately the chief clerk admitted the claim, which was then adjourned into Court at the instance of the official liquidator. The Master of the Rolls allowed the claim without calling on the counsel for the claimants, and, according to the endorsements on the briefs of all the counsel engaged, directed the costs of all parties to be paid out of the estate. The registrar drew up the order as containing a direction that the costs of all parties of the adjournment into Court should be paid out of the estate.

This was a motion that the order should be drawn up so as to include the costs of the opposition to the claim in chambers as well as those of the adjournment into Court.

Swanston, Q.C., and Cecil Russell, for the motion, admitted that they could not claim the costs of the affidavit originally filed in support of the claim; but contended that they were entitled to all costs occasioned by the opposition of the official liquidator.

Roeburgh, Q.C., and Edmund James, for the official liquidator, were not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the registrar had drawn up the order correctly. Under special circumstances, no doubt, the whole of the costs of a successful claimant might be paid out of the estate, or even might be ordered to be paid by the liquidator personally; but in such cases the order should distinctly state it. The general rule was, that when a claim was adjourned into Court, and the costs were ordered to be paid out of the estate, the costs only of the adjournment should be so paid; and the costs incurred in chambers must be added to the claim in the usual way. This motion must be refused with costs.

redeeming the loan according to the terms of the bonds; that the course pursued since 1865 was a violation of those terms; and that, as the subject-matter of the trust was in England, the Court had jurisdiction to deal with it, although it had no personal jurisdiction against either the Peruvian Government or the company.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the company, contended that both the contract of 1862 and the contract for the loan were Peruvian contracts, and that the Court had no jurisdiction in the matter; and also that the redemption, by cancellation, of bonds at 83½ was not contrary to the terms of the bonds.

Southgate, Q.C., and C. Hall, for Thomson, Bonar, & Co.

E. Herbert, for a bondholder of 1865.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the contract between the Peruvian Government and the company was a foreign contract between parties out of the jurisdiction, under which this Court could not take an account; that both that contract and the contract between the Peruvian Government and the bondholders must be construed according to the law of Peru, and the doctrine of English law as to trusts could not be applied to them; that, even if English law applied, the Court could not enforce such a contract against the property of a foreign Government in this country; and that, upon the merits, the course pursued in the redemption of the bonds was strictly in accordance with the terms of the bonds. The bill must, therefore, be dismissed with costs.

M. R. SMITH v. WEGUMLIN. May 27.

Jurisdiction—Foreign Government—Foreign Contract—Loan to Foreign Government negotiated in England—Charge by Foreign Government in favour of Bondholders on Property consigned to England under Contract between Foreign Government and Foreign Subject—Stipulation to redeem Bonds by Purchase or Drawing—Redemption by Issue of new Bonds.

In January, 1862, the Peruvian Government entered into a contract with a Peruvian company, by which the Government agreed to consign to the company for the term of eight years all the guano to be extracted from the Peruvian guano beds, to be shipped to Great Britain and Ireland, and the net proceeds of the sale of the guano were to be held in London at the disposal of the government, and from the proceeds of the guano exported for England the consignees were to set apart preferentially the amounts necessary to provide for the service of the Anglo-Peruvian debt. In August, 1862, the Peruvian Government contracted a loan in England upon bonds, by the terms of which, in addition to the guarantee of the government with all its revenues, the whole of the guano imported into the United Kingdom and its colonies, and Belgium, and the proceeds of the sale of such guano, were expressly hypothecated for the loan; the house to which the guano should be consigned were to pay half-yearly the sums necessary for the payment of the interest and of the redemption fund, and the surplus proceeds of the hypothecated guano were to remain at the disposal of the government, and a certain sum was to be applied half-yearly in redemption of the bonds by purchases at the market price whenever the bonds should be at or below par, and by drawing by lot and payment at par of the bonds drawn whenever they should be above par. In 1865 the government contracted another loan at 83½, and since that time Messrs. Thomson, Bonar, & Co., who were the London agents of the company, and also the agents of the government in respect of the loan of 1865, had, instead of applying the stipulated sum in buying bonds of 1862 in the market or drawing them at par, cancelled bonds of 1862, which had been given up in exchange for bonds of 1865 to the required amount at the uniform rate of 83½, which was considerably higher than the market price.

This was a suit by a bondholder of 1862, on behalf of himself and the other bondholders, against Thomson, Bonar, & Co., the company, and the Peruvian Government, to have all guano in Great Britain and Ireland and the colonies consigned to and coming to the hands of Thomson, Bonar, & Co., or the company or their agents, applied in the redemption of the loan of 1862, according to the terms of the bonds.

The Peruvian Government were served, but did not appear.

FINUCANE'S CASE.

Contributory—Non-delivery of Letter of Allotment—Companies Act, 1862, Table A. Rules 95, 97.

This was an application on behalf of John Finucane to remove his name from the list of contributories of the above company.

In 1863, when the prospectus of the company was issued, the applicant, who resided at 117 Aldersgate Street, applied for fifty shares, which were allotted to him, and a letter of allotment directed to him at the above address was posted. He stated in his affidavit that no such letter of allotment and no notice requiring payment had ever reached him or been delivered at his residence, and nothing had been paid in respect of his shares.

It appeared that there were two houses in Aldersgate Street, each of which was numbered 117, one of which was a shop, the applicant's name being over the door, and the other the office of the City Press; and that other letters of his had not been delivered.

Chitty, for the applicant, contended that, though the posting of a letter of allotment was presumptive evidence of delivery, it might be rebutted; that rules 95 and 97 in Table A. of the Companies Act, 1862, as to the posting of notices being sufficient service, did not apply to one who was not a "member" of the company; and that the applicant, not having made any payment, was not a member.

WILSON'S CASE.

Contributory—Infant Transferee—Acquiescence.

This was an application to strike out the name of Henry Wilson from the register of shareholders. The shares in question were transferred into the name of the applicant in September, 1865, when he was an infant. He did not attain 21 till January, 1867. He paid no call in respect of the shares, but took no steps to repudiate them.

In May, 1866, an order was made for the winding-up of the company.

The question was whether he had done any act since he had attained 21 which amounted to an acquiescence in the transfer. It appeared that in October, 1867, Messrs. Tucker & New, solicitors, attended at chambers on behalf of the applicant and a number of others, to oppose the making of a call, and this, it was alleged, amounted to acquiescence.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Ince, for the applicant.
Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that there must be a distinct act of acquiescence to render the applicant liable, and that the mere fact of solicitors appearing for him and a number of others at chambers in opposition to a call was not sufficient. His name must be removed from the register.

This was a petition by the official liquidator to obtain the sanction of the Court to a compromise between the creditors and contributories of the above corporation.

The corporation was incorporated in 1864, with a capital of 1,000,000*l.*, divided into 40,000 shares. The charter was obtained at the instance of persons acting for the Commercial Bank of India, called "The Old Bank," to whose business the corporation succeeded.

On the 28th of May, 1866, a winding-up order was made.

Various complicated questions arose in the proceedings under the winding-up between the different classes of creditors and the official liquidator as representing the corporation, and a suit was instituted by the official liquidator of the Old Bank to establish a claim to a large amount against the corporation.

In order to put a stop to the enormous litigation which the settlement of these claims involved, meetings were held of the various persons interested, under the sanction of the Court, and a scheme was at length agreed upon under which all proceedings were to be stayed; a specific sum was to be paid to a committee of contributories; the creditors were to accept 17*s.* in the pound; and the costs of all parties were to be provided for.

The scheme was assented to by a very large majority of the creditors, and by almost all the contributories.

The petition prayed that the scheme might be sanctioned by the Court.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Kekewich, in support of the petition, submitted that the Court had jurisdiction, under s. 160 of the Companies Act, 1862, to sanction the proposed compromise, and make it binding on all parties. They referred to the judgment of the Privy Council in the Bank of Hindustan, China, and Japan v. The Eastern Financial Association, on the 15th of March, 1869, where it was held to be competent to the Court to sanction such a compromise under s. 174 of the Indian Companies Act, 1866, which was similar to s. 160 of the Companies Act, 1862.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bristowe, for the official liquidator of the Old Bank.

Jessel, Q.C., Swanston, Q.C., Lindley, Robinson, and Ferrers, for other parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that he had jurisdiction to sanction the compromise; and being of opinion that it would be for the benefit of all classes of creditors and contributories, he sanctioned the same accordingly.

RAMSEY v. GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Bankruptcy—Composition—Injunction.

In February, 1867, plaintiff carried on business as a coal merchant at Norwich, and on the 28th of February, 1867, was adjudicated a bankrupt on his own petition.

The defendant claimed a debt of 4037*l.* 11*s.* 9*d.*

By a deed of arrangement, dated April, 1867, the creditors agreed to accept a composition of 8*s.* in the pound, by two instalments, but it was provided that the bankrupt and one R. Leamon, his surety, should, within seven days after the registration of the deed, deliver promissory notes for such composition. The deed was adopted by a sufficient majority of the creditors, and the bankruptcy was annulled.

The bill alleged that the company's debt was not ascertained, and the notes, consequently, not given; but sufficient funds were paid into Gurney's Bank to satisfy all the creditors, and all but the company were satisfied, and there remained a surplus sufficient to pay the composition to which the company were entitled.

It appeared that the company had converted certain coal and wagons which the plaintiff had mortgaged previously to his bankruptcy to a Mr. Hill. Hill disputed the validity of this transaction, and an action was commenced, in the plaintiff's name, against the company. The company thereupon commenced an action against the plaintiff for the full amount of their debt, ignoring the composition—the plaintiff being advised that, as the promissory notes had not been delivered within seven days from the registration of the deed, the plaintiff had no defence at law.

De Gex, Q.C., and Lindley, for the plaintiff.

Speed, for the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he was not quite satisfied that the plaintiff had not at law a good defence to the company's action. At the same time, the company must not be allowed to claim the whole amount of the debt, and there must therefore be an injunction.

V.-C. S. COOPER v. GORDON. May 28.

Dissenting Congregation—Appointment of Co-Pastor—Conduct of Co-Pastor—Right of Majority of Congregation to Dissolve—Bill by Majority of Trustees for Declaration and Injunction.

A congregation of Protestant Dissenters—Independents—for many years prior to 1707 used for religious worship a building in Broad Street, Reading, and in that year it became vested in twenty of the members of the body upon trust for the congregation. In 1808 other premises were purchased, and the building was enlarged, and the whole were conveyed to trustees upon trust for the use and benefit of the congregation; to permit the pastor to have the occupation of the same; to receive and pay the rents to him for so long a time as he continue pastor, and officiate as such, and no longer. In 1855 new trustees were appointed, and of them the plaintiffs were the great majority of the survivors. In 1865 the members of the congregation—not including mere seat-holders—invited candidates to preach, with a view to one being appointed co-pastor, and in April, 1866, the defendant Gordon was, by the plaintiff Barcham, acting deacon, in accordance with a resolution of the congregation, invited to become co-pastor, and he accepted the office. No arrangement was made with him as to the duration of the co-pastorate. Within a year dissatisfaction with the mode in which Mr. Gordon discharged his ministerial duties arose, and the deacons requested him to resign his office, but he refused; and after several meetings of the congregation to consider the matter, another was, on the 8th of September, 1868, with full notice to Mr. Gordon, holden, and by a resolution of the church members present, constituting a majority of the congregation, he was dismissed from the co-pastorate. There was only one person present who did not support the resolution, and he remained neutral. Mr. Gordon at the same time held a meeting of his supporters, but they formed only a small minority of the congregation. Notice was given to Mr. Gordon of the resolution, and the plaintiffs were, by another resolution of the congregation, required to carry the former one into effect; and, consequently, on the 11th of September, 1868, they served a notice on him not again to officiate as co-pastor, and the old pastor revoked his consent to his acting again. Mr. Gordon, however, continued to preach, and he appointed the defendant Pike and others to receive the pew rents: and on the 15th of October, 1868, this bill was filed, praying for a declaration that Gordon had been duly dismissed; for an injunction against his officiating in the chapel, or intermeddling with the trust premises, and against the receipt of rents, and for an account.

Hardy, Q.C., and Higgins, for the plaintiffs.

Greene, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the defendants Gordon and Pike.

Whitbread, for the defendant Christie, appointed a trustee, having never executed the deed, submitted that he ought not to have been made a defendant, and asked for his costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR declared that Mr. Gordon was not entitled to officiate in the chapel against the will of the majority of the congregation, granted an injunction as prayed, and ordered him and Pike to pay the plaintiffs' costs. The defendant Christie, having refused to join as plaintiff, had to bear his own costs.

Wife's Equity to a Settlement—Refusal of Wife to live with Husband.

This was a petition by Mrs. Robinson, claiming an equity to a settlement of a sum of 303l. 18s. 3d. Consols accruing to her and paid into Court. The petitioner had been living separate from her husband for ten years, and lived with her mother, and maintained herself by her labour.

Karslake, Q.C., and Martineau, for the petition.

Dickinson, Q.C., and T. H. Maclachlan, for the husband, contended that there was no desertion in this case. It was true the husband was not maintaining his wife, but the reason was because she would not live with him; she lived in her mother's house, and the husband had formerly resided with them, but had been turned out because he would not become a Roman Catholic.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the question of amount was one to be settled by the discretion of the judge. In this case the best order for all parties would be, to declare the wife entitled to have the whole fund settled upon her and her children in the usual way.

Legacy to Executor—Evidence of acting as such—Probate.

J. Lewis, by his will, gave his two executors thereafter named 200 guineas each, for their trouble in the execution of the trusts of his will, and he devised and bequeathed the residue of his real and personal estate to his brothers Benjamin and Wm.

Lewis upon the trusts therein set forth, and he appointed Benjamin and Wm. Lewis executors in trust of his will.

The testator died in 1859, and Benjamin Lewis died in his lifetime. Wm. Lewis left England in 1851 for New South Wales, where he resided till his death in September, 1862.

The plaintiff, Alfred Lewis, was another brother of the testator, and a residuary legatee under his will.

In August, 1854, Wm. Lewis executed a general power of attorney, enabling the plaintiff to act as his attorney in all matters.

Under this power letters of administration, with the will annexed, of the personal estate of the testator were granted in August, 1860, to the plaintiff, limited until Wm. Lewis should, by himself or his attorney, apply for or renounce probate. Shortly afterwards the plaintiff received a power of attorney, executed by Wm. Lewis in July, 1860, authorizing him, as the attorney of Wm. Lewis, to procure letters of administration to be granted to the plaintiff, but nevertheless for the use and benefit of Wm. Lewis, until he should obtain probate, to be granted to himself; but, in consequence of the previous grant of letters of administration, the plaintiff made no further application for probate on behalf of Wm. Lewis.

The bill was filed to administer the estate of the testator, and it stated that the plaintiff, as such administrator, had received a large portion of the personal estate, and had also, as the attorney of Wm. Lewis, received rents of the testator's freehold estates, and he was willing to account for the same; and, further, that Wm. Lewis had accepted and acted in the execution of the trusts of the will of James Lewis, by the plaintiff, as his attorney.

The plaintiff now submitted that the representatives of Wm. Lewis were not entitled to the legacy of 200 guineas bequeathed by the will, in consequence of Wm. Lewis never having obtained probate of the will, without which he could not sustain the character of executor.

Pearson, Q.U., and Ellis, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the representatives of Wm. Lewis.

Hastings, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that an executor, in order to entitle himself to a legacy, must either prove the will—which was the best evidence of an intention to act as executor—or must do some other unequivocal act to shew such intention. The plaintiff acted under the power of attorney sent from abroad by Wm. Lewis, and received the rents of the estate; and he alleged, by his bill, that Wm. Lewis had accepted the trusts and acted as executor. It was evident that all parties were under the impression that he had so acted. The legacy must therefore be paid.

Practice—Taking Bill off the File—Illusory Suit—Nominal Plaintiff.

This was a motion to take off the file a bill filed by a member of a benefit building society on behalf of himself and all the other members against the directors and trustees, to restrain them from borrowing money, on the ground that the suit was illusory, and the plaintiff was the puppet of his solicitor, who had instituted the suit for the purpose of annoyance and revenge.

Evidence was adduced in support of the motion, to the effect that the solicitor had a personal quarrel with two of the defendants, which culminated in January, 1869; that the plaintiff, who was the husband of his laundress, had in that month purchased one share in the society, on which he had paid 2l.; and that the solicitor had said that the object of the suit was to turn the two obnoxious defendants out of the society.

Cole, Q.C., and Marten, in support of the motion.

Glasse, Q.C., and Hastings, for the plaintiff, contended that the application was unprecedented, and the Court had no power to accede to it; that there was nothing to shew that the suit was not for the benefit of the plaintiff and the other members of the society; and, even if the facts alleged would be a ground for refusing relief at the hearing, the plaintiff had a right to bring the suit to a hearing unless stopped by demurrer.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that it was important that the Court should not allow any litigation to proceed which was not bonâ fide; that it was clear that this was the suit of the solicitor, and that the plaintiff was merely his puppet. Under these circumstances, as the bill would certainly be dismissed with costs if it came to a hearing, it was the duty of the Court to put a stop to the suit at the earliest moment. The bill must be taken off the file, and the plaintiff must pay the costs of the motion.

V.-C. M. POWER v. HAYNE. May 28.
Will—Reversionary Gift in Trust to purchase Life Annuity—Gift over of Annuity on Alienation or Bankruptcy—Death of Annuitant in Lifetime of Tenant for Life—Annuity vested or contingent.
Day v. Day (1 Drew. 569) not followed.

The testator in this cause bequeathed his residuary estate to trustees upon trust for his wife for life, and after her death upon trust to invest a sixth part thereof in the purchase of an annuity for his brother, J. T. Patience, and to pay the annuity into his brother's hands for his support and maintenance, without power of anticipation, and with a gift over of the annuity to the other residuary legatees, "in case his brother should anticipate, assign, charge, or incur the same, or should become a bankrupt, or take the benefit of any Act for the relief of insolvent debtors," and as to the other five sixths, upon trust for a nephew and four nieces equally.

The testator died in 1828, John Thomas Patience in 1843, and the testator's wife in 1869.

This was a petition for the distribution of the residuary estate, and the question was whether the one sixth bequeathed in trust to purchase the annuity was a vested interest in John Thomas Patience, or had become undisposed of by the event of his predeceasing the tenant for life.

Glasse, Q.C., and Caldecott, Osborne, Q.C., and Daune, Vincent, Woods, Cecil Russell, and Eddis, for persons claiming under the testator's widow and next of kin, contended that the grant of the one sixth share was contingent upon John Thomas Patience surviving the tenant for life.

Cotton, Q.C., and Begg, for the representatives of John Thomas Patience, contended that he took a vested and transmissible interest in the one sixth share, liable only to be divested by alienation or bankruptcy, and that his representatives were entitled to it; and that the case was governed by Day v. Day (1 Drew. 569).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, as the annuity to be purchased with this share was expressly given for the personal enjoyment of the annuitant, with a gift over if he did anything to deprive himself of it, his interest was contingent on his surviving the tenant for life, and there was consequently an intestacy as to this share. The case of Day v. Day was precisely in point, but His Honour could not assent to or follow it.

V.-C. M. In re CORK AND YOUGHAL RAILWAY. May 31.
Ex parte OVEREND, GURNEY, & CO., AND LONDON, HAMBURGH, AND CONTINENTAL EXCHANGE BANK.

Railway Company—Money borrowed ultra vires, and expended for Benefit of Company—Lloyd's Bonds—Equitable Debt.

In 1862 the Cork and Youghal Railway Company, having raised and expended all their share capital and the whole amount which they were authorized by their special Acts to borrow, borrowed from D. L. Lewis a large sum of money, which was expended for the purposes of the railway; and they gave him Lloyd's bonds for the amount.

Under a special Act passed in 1866, the undertaking and property of the company were sold, and the company was being wound up by this Court. The Act provided that, after the payment of various prior charges (all of which have been paid), the surplus proceeds of the sale should be subject to all the rights, equities, priorities, claims, and demands to which the property of the company would have been subject if the Act had not been passed.

There were applications by Overend, Gurney, & Co., and the official liquidator of the London, Hamburg, and Continental Exchange Bank, as assignees for value of some of the Lloyd's bonds given to Lewis, to rank as creditors of the company in respect of the money secured by the bonds.

Roeburgh, Q.C., and Lindley, and Cotton, Q.C., and Hastings, for the applicants.

Pearson, Q.C., and Waller, for the official liquidator of the company, and Jessel, Q.C., and Higgins, for preference shareholders, contended that the money secured by the bonds, having been borrowed in excess of the statutory powers of the company, could not be recovered as a debt either at law or in equity.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, although the money, having been borrowed in excess of the statutory powers, might not be recoverable against the company at law, yet that a Court of Equity, in administering the assets of the company, was bound to hold that money advanced with the sanction of the shareholders, and actually expended for their benefit, constituted a debt in equity against the assets of the company.

V.-C. J. JOINT STOCK DISCOUNT COMPANY v. BROWN. May 24.
Practice—Appointment by the Court of Representative of Estate of deceased Person—15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 44.

Application to the Court on the part of the plaintiffs to appoint some persons to represent the estates of two deceased defendants, named Dent and White.

The bill was filed on the 14th of July, 1866; by a limited company, by its official liquidator, against the late directors (of whom the above defendants were two), praying for an account in respect of three sums of money, the payment of which out of the company's funds was charged in the bill to be a breach of trust on the part of all the defendants, and that the defendants might be decreed to pay to the liquidator what should be found due. The deceased defendants were also shareholders, and their estates were therefore, nominally at least, interested in the recovery of the money. After the answers had come in the bill was amended on the 16th of November, 1867.

White died in 1868, since the notice of motion for decree, abroad; and the evidence shewed that his widow, living abroad, said she believed there was a will, and that she was named executrix; that she had not seen the will, which was in the possession of her friends, but whether in England or abroad she did not know; and she referred the plaintiffs' clerk to the firm who had represented her late husband in the suit, who, on being referred to, said they had received no further instructions.

Dent was also dead; and an application had been made to his nearest surviving relative for an affidavit that he died intestate and insolvent, but without success. His name was struck out of the prayer of the amended bill.

The name of another defendant, Elin, had been struck out of the list of defendants to the amended bill, but the charges respecting him had been by mistake left in, and his name had also by mistake been retained in the prayer of the amended bill.

Little, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the plaintiffs, now asked that White's and Dent's estates might be represented by the defendant Biden, who was the assignee in bankruptcy of one of the original defendants. They also asked that the bill might be amended by striking out the charges as to Elin.

Willcock, Q.C., and Eddis, for a defendant, opposed.
Kay, Q.C., Karslake, Q.C., Fooks, Cracknell, Hemming, Kekewich, and G. W. Lawrance, also appeared.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed notice to be given to Mrs. White, the widow, and to Mr. Hughes, the solicitor on the record, of White, that if within fourteen days after notice they or one of them should appear and elect to represent the estate, they, he, or she would be appointed. In default, the defendant Biden (who consented) would be appointed to represent White for the purposes of the suit. A similar notice was to be given to the solicitor who appeared for Dent; and a like order made. An order was made to revive the suit against the representatives when appointed. The costs of the application to be costs in the cause.

His Honour refused to give leave to amend whilst the suit was abated.

Will—Construction—Gift of Personalty to the absolute "use, benefit, and disposal"—Subsequent Reduction to Life Estate.

Testator, who died in 1857, by his will gave, devised, and bequeathed to his wife all his "lands, tenements, household goods, plate, furniture, linen, china, jewels, watches, wearing apparel, money, securities, and all and every other" his real and personal estate, "for her own absolute use and benefit and disposal." He appointed his wife and two other persons executors, and after revoking all former wills he went on to say: "I do publish and declare this to be my last will and testament. In witness whereof I, the said Joseph Raymer Battemer, have hereunto put my hand, this 16th day of June, in the year of our Lord 1856." Then followed a long blank, after which, on the third side of the sheet of paper, was the following: "And I hereby direct that, after my said wife's decease, that all and every other my real and personal estate whatsoever be given to my daughter Charlotte . . . for her sole use, free from the control or disposition of her present or any future husband." After the decease of his said daughter, testator directed the property to be equally divided amongst her surviving children.

The widow died in 1868; and the plaintiff, the daughter Charlotte, who had taken out administration to the widow, claimed the personalty absolutely. The children, on the other hand, claimed the personalty, subject to the life estate of their mother.

Willcock, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs, the daughter and her husband.
Higgins, for the defendants, the trustees.

Kay, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the defendants, the children.
THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendants, the children of the plaintiffs, were entitled to the residuary personal estate, subject to the life interest of their mother.

Winding-up—Railway Company—Railways Abandonment Act (18 & 14 Vict. c. 88)—Railway Companies Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 127).

Petition by two creditors for a compulsory winding-up of a railway, which had been abandoned by warrant of the Board of Trade, under the Railways Abandonment Act of 1850 (13 & 14 Vict. c. 83).

Higgins, for the company, took the preliminary objection that the Court had no jurisdiction to make an order for winding-up a railway except upon the petition of a shareholder: 13 & 14 Vict. c. 83, s. 31; the Companies Act, 1862, s. 199; the Railway Companies Act, 1867, s. 31.

Kay, Q.C., and Brudford, in support of the petition, contended that the Court had jurisdiction to make the order upon the petition of a creditor, just as in the case of an ordinary company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the objection was fatal, the words of the Act of 1850 being precise upon the point that shareholders alone were entitled to petition for an order for winding-up an abandoned railway company. His Honour added that he did not think that there had been any slip in the Act of 1867, which was very carefully prepared.

Q. B. BIRCH v. VESTRY OF ST. MARYLEBONE. May 28.

Action for Mandamus—Land bound by Notice to Treat, under 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix. s. 82, an Act for Improving the Streets of the Metropolis.

Declaration: that the plaintiff was possessed of a dwelling-house, &c., in the defendants' parish, and the defendants, by virtue of the powers of 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix., for better paving, improving, and regulating the streets of the metropolis, and 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120, gave the plaintiff notice that they required to purchase the said dwelling-house, &c., and were willing to agree with the plaintiff for the purchase; that no agreement was come to, and the defendants did not pay the sum she demanded, and that all conditions precedent, &c., had been performed, &c., to entitle the plaintiff to call upon the defendants to issue their warrant or precept to the sheriff of Middlesex, requiring him to summon a jury to inquire into the value of the said dwelling-house, claiming a peremptory writ of mandamus commanding the defendants to issue their precept.

Pleas: 4. That the plaintiff did not deliver, within twenty-one days from the service of the notice, the particulars of her estate and interest. 5. That the plaintiff did not deliver, within a reasonable time after such notice, the particulars of her estate.

Demurrers to the pleas.

By 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix. s. 80, the commissioners within any parish are authorized to purchase any houses, &c. necessary for improving the streets; and by s. 82, if the person or persons possessed of or interested in any such houses shall refuse to treat or agree, or shall not agree with the commissioners for the sale and conveyance of their respective estates and interests, "it shall be lawful for the commissioners, and they are hereby required, to issue a warrant or precept to the sheriff of the county in which or wherein the premises shall lye," who is hereby authorized, directed, and required to summon and return a competent jury to attend at Quarter Sessions, who shall inquire into the value of such houses, &c.

By 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120, s. 90, all the duties and powers of the commissioners were vested in the vestry.

J. H. Payne, for the plaintiff.

Keane, Q.C., for the defendants.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Mellor, and Lush, JJ.) gave judgment for the plaintiff. The pleas were clearly bad, as there was no section in 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix. requiring the plaintiff to give the particulars of her interest in the way the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act directs. That the declaration was good, as the notice of the defendants would bind the plaintiff's estate and interest, and the defendants must therefore also be bound as purchasers; and, consequently, the duty was imposed upon them of issuing their warrant to the sheriff, according to the principle of Ree v. Hungerford Market Company (4 B. & Ad. 327), and other cases.

C. P. WOOLLEY v. NORTH LONDON RAILWAY COMPANY. May 31.

Practica—Discovery and Inspection under 17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, s. 50—Privileged Communications—Costs at Chambers.

In an action against a railway company for a personal injury sustained by the plaintiff, a passenger, through their alleged negligence, the Court, upon appeal (cross rules) from an order of a judge at chambers under the Common Law Procedure Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 125), s. 50, ordered the production and inspection of the following documents:—1. "Report of J. A., one of the defendants' inspectors, to the defendants' general manager, dated the 16th of November, 1868 [the day of the accident], as to the accident for which the action brought,"—2. "Report of W. B., the guard of the train to which the accident happened, dated on the same day,"—3. "Report of W. A., the defendants' locomotive superintendent, to their general manager, dated the 19th of November, 1868, as to the accident;"—upon the ground that these reports were respectively made by officers of the company in the ordinary course of their duty, for the purpose of conveying to the company information upon the subject of the accident, without reference to whether they were made before or after the commencement of litigation, and not being opinions obtained confidentially with a view to litigation.

But they refused it as to—5. "Four reports of the said W. A., dated the 8th, 11th, 23rd, and 28th of December, 1868, from scientific men consulted by or on behalf of the defendants with reference to the cause of the accident,"—and 7. "Report, dated December, 1868, to the defendants' attorneys from one of the scientific men consulted by or on behalf of the defendants, with reference to the cause of the accident;" on the ground that they were reports and opinions of scientific men obtained confidentially with a view to the impending litigation.

As to 4.—"Copy of a letter, dated the 20th of November, 1868, written by the defendants' general manager to the secretary of the Board of Trade, railway department, as to the accident" [pursuant to 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, s. 3]; 8. "Guarantee, dated the 20th of September, 1861, of materials for locomotives, part of which, at the time of the accident, formed a portion of the engine to which the accident [breaking an axle] happened;" and 10. "The board and locomotive stores and traffic committee minute-books of the directors of the company, containing entries with reference to the accident,"—the judge at chambers having ordered inspection, the Court varied the order so as to limit the inspection to those entries in the minute-books relating to the accident before action which were not entries of communications between the defendants and their professional advisers, or the results thereof.

And the judge having, in the exercise of his discretion, ordered the defendants to pay the costs of and occasioned by the application at chambers, the Court declined to vary his order in that respect, and ordered that the costs of the rules should be costs in the cause.

Ex. HOLMES v. NORTH EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY. May 28.

Negligence—Licensee.

Action for negligence tried before Cleasby, B., at the York Spring Assizes.

At the East Cowtan railway station, on the defendants' line, wagons consigned to that station with coal or lime are shunted on to a siding, and there unloaded by means of drops or cells, into which the contents of the wagons are shot. There is but one porter at the station; and it is customary for the consignees of the goods, or their servants, to assist in the operation of unloading, and for that purpose to pass along a flagged way, which runs by the side of the shunted wagons, and above the cells into which they are unloaded.

A coal wagon was consigned to the plaintiff, a farmer in the neighbourhood, and was shunted on to the siding, but could not be immediately unloaded, no drop being vacant. On the 16th of September, 1868, the plaintiff, being in want of coals, went himself to the station and asked the station master whether his coal could not be shot. The station master replied that some lime must first be removed. The plaintiff then said he must have some of the coals, and would get on to the wagon and take what he needed thence. The station master made no reply, and the plaintiff, with his servant, proceeded towards the wagon, took some coal from the top, and then descended from the wagon on to the flagged way. The flag he stepped upon being worn, gave way, and the plaintiff was thrown to the bottom of the cell, and injured. A verdict was found for 75*l.*, with leave to the defendants to move to enter a verdict for them, on the ground that there was no evidence of negligence. A rule having been obtained accordingly,

Digby Seymour, Q.C., and Bohn, shewed cause.

Overend, Q.C., and Kemplay, supported the rule.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., and Cleasby, B., Bramwell and Channell, BB., hesitating) discharged the rule; holding that by the established practice and custom for the consignees to assist in unloading their coal wagons, they were entitled to claim that the defendants should provide a secure footway; and that the plaintiff, though not unloading the wagon in the ordinary way, was, with the sanction of the defendants, doing substantially the same thing, and was therefore entitled to the same privilege, and was not in the position of a mere licensee.

Ex. HARVEY AND OTHERS v. MAYOR, &C., OF LYME REGIS. May 29.

Tolls—Construction—Goods "landed."

Action for trespass to a boat.

Avowry by defendants, claiming a right to distrain the boat for non-payment of tolls due from the plaintiffs, its owners, to the defendants in respect of goods landed from the boat within their harbour.

Second plea to the avowry, denying the landing of goods from the boat within the harbour. Issue.

The defendants claimed toll under their Harbour Act (1 & 2 Geo. 4, c. xcix.), which empowered them to demand and levy on "all ships, vessels, and boats, of whatsoever description, which shall come into or use the said cobb or harbour, or shall lie at anchor within the said cobb or harbour, and for all goods, wares, and merchandise, and other things landed or shipped within the same cobb or harbour as aforesaid," the duties set forth in Schedules A and B. to the Act. Schedule A. contained "rates of tonnage" on vessels of ten tons and upwards coming into the harbour, and on vessels laid up unemployed within the harbour. Schedule B. contained the "rates on merchandise," including in the list, "for every ton of rough free-stone, limestone, or other stone, 6d."

The case was tried before Byles, J., at the last Dorchester Spring Assizes. The facts were that, in pursuance of a practice which had long been followed by the permission of the defendants, stones were shot from the plaintiffs' boat on a spot within the harbour appointed for that purpose by the corporation, and lying below high-water mark. The stones thus deposited were brought in boats coastwise from the neighbouring quarries; they remained where they were shot until they were put on board vessels for exportation from the harbour; and on this exportation, duty was paid according to the tonnage rates in Schedule B. The defendants now claimed duties on the stones thus shot as upon goods landed. A verdict was entered for the defendants, with leave to the plaintiffs to move to enter the verdict for them.

A rule having been obtained accordingly:

Cole, Q.C., and Bere, shewed cause.

Kingdon, Q.C., and Lopes, supported the rule.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Bramwell and Cleasby, B.B.; Channell, B., doubting) held that the stones were not landed within the meaning of the Act, and made the rule absolute.

Debtor and Creditor—Sheriff—Certificate of Registration of Composition Deed—Protection—Action for not Arresting.

Declaration against the defendants, as sheriffs of Middlesex, for not arresting on final process one R. A. Petley.

Plea: that subsequently to the accrual of the plaintiff's claim, for which judgment had been obtained by him against the said R. A. Petley, and before the delivery to them of the writ of ca. sa. for execution, the said R. A. Petley executed a composition deed under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, s. 192, and a certificate of the filing of registration thereof was obtained by him before the delivery of the said writ for execution to the defendants, whereof they always had notice.

Replication: that the said deed was a deed containing a release, and was, if valid, pleadable in bar of the action in which the said judgment was obtained, and was executed before the commencement of the action, and the said judgment was signed for want of a plea; and the said deed was not signed by the required number of creditors, and was void, and the defendant in the said action did not claim protection under the said deed, of which said several premises the defendants had notice.

Demurrer and joinder in demurrer.

Quain, Q.C. (Day with him), in support of the demurrer.

Morgan Lloyd, contra, was not called upon.

THE COURT gave judgment for the plaintiff. The replication shewed that the debtor might have pleaded the deed. Not having done so, it would have been no protection to him to defeat execution [Rossi v. Bailey (Law Rep. 3 Q. B. 621)] under s. 198 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861. The sheriffs, therefore, were not justified in not arresting the debtor.

Ex. CASE, APP.; STOREY, RESP. May 31.

Hackney Carriage—Railway Station—Public Place—Plying for Hire—1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 22.

Case stated by a metropolitan police magistrate, under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43.

The appellant took out a summons against the respondent, the driver of the hackney carriage No. 3435, "for that he, the said driver, did, on the 2nd of September, 1868, in a certain public place, to wit, the Great Northern Railway Station at King's Cross, within the Metropolitan Police District, refuse to drive the said carriage to a certain place, not exceeding six miles, to which he was required to drive the appellant."

The summons was heard before the magistrate of the Clerkenwell Police Court, when it appeared that the respondent, whilst within the Great Northern Railway Station, by the permission of the railway company, had refused to drive the appellant, on request, because he had not been a passenger by any train. The magistrate dismissed the summons on the ground that the respondent, whilst in a railway station, was not the driver of a hackney carriage "standing or plying for hire in any public street or road," within the meaning of 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 22, s. 4, and was not, therefore, liable to the penalty for refusing a fare imposed by section 35, on the driver of any numbered hackney carriage "found standing in any street or place." The question for the Court was whether the magistrate's decision was right.

Hon. G. Denman, Q.C. (Hume Williams and B. Hancock with him), for the appellant.

J. Brown, Q.C. (A. Wills with him), was not called upon.

THE COURT gave judgment for the respondent, being of opinion, 1st, that whilst within the railway station, under the license of the company, he was not "plying for hire;" and, 2nd, that the railway station was not a "public street or road" or "a street or place" within the meaning of 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 22, ss. 4, 35.

Ex. HOPKINS v. WARE. June 1.

Payment by Cheque—Presentment of Cheque—Laches.

Action against the defendant, as executor of Robert Ware, on a promissory note for 250*l.*, made by Robert Ware, with counts for money lent and on accounts stated.

Plea 3. Payment. Issue.

The case was tried at the last Bristol Spring Assizes, by consent, before Montague Smith, J., without a jury. The evidence was as follows:—The testator borrowed of plaintiff 250*l.* on his promissory note. On the 9th of May, 1868, the testator being then dead, G. L. Lang, the defendant's solicitor, forwarded to the plaintiff his own cheque for 258*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, the amount due on the note for principal and interest, and the plaintiff returned her receipt for the amount. She, however, retained the cheque till the 6th of June, when it was forwarded for presentation. On the 9th it was presented, and was dishonoured. Notice of dishonour was given to the plaintiff on the following day, and application was afterwards made to him for payment, which he refused.

It appeared from the evidence of the manager of Stuckey's Bank at Crewkerne, in Somerset, where Lang resided, that on the 13th of May, 1868, his account was overdrawn to the amount of 1287*l.*, and that between the 13th of May and the 6th of June he was never in funds to meet the cheque. The manager also stated that the account had for some years been overdrawn without adequate security, but that the overdraft was at this time covered to a considerable amount by securities which had been brought in by Lang, without any request from the bank, in December, 1867; and also that Lang had banked there since 1859, and that no cheque of his had ever been dishonoured. He further stated that, if the cheque had been presented, he would not have paid it without communicating with Lang, but that he could not say whether it would or would not have been paid in fact. Between the 13th of May and the 6th of June various sums were paid in by Lang, and cheques of his, including one of 200*l.*, honoured—the result being that on the latter day the overdraft had increased by 261*l.*

It was also proved by defendant that Lang had in his hands, at the time the cheque was forwarded by him, 166*l.* 11*s.* belonging to the estate, and that on the 16th of May the defendant paid to Lang, at his request, the balance of 91*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*

Upon these facts the learned judge found that there was a reasonable chance of the cheque being paid if it had been presented at the time, but no certainty of it; and a verdict was entered for the plaintiff, with leave to the defendant to move to enter the verdict for him.

A rule having been obtained accordingly :

Cole, Q.C., and Bere, shewed cause.

Kingdon, Q.C., and Pinder, supported the rule, and contended that the defendant, though not a party to the cheque, was in a position which entitled him to due presentment; and that, the plaintiff having delayed to present it, and the defendant's position having been altered in consequence, the defendant was now entitled to treat the cheque as payment.

THE COURT (Bramwell and Channell, BB.) held the contention of the defendant to be right, and made the rule absolute.

GENERAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY v.

BRITISH AND COLONIAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY LIMITED.

Shipping—Collision—Port of London—Merchant Shipping Act, 1854—General Pilot Act.

Error on the judgment of the Court of Exchequer, given in favour of the defendants, on a special case stated by an arbitrator (Law Rep. 3 Ex. 330).

The plaintiffs sued the defendants for injury caused by a collision. The defendants set up that their vessel was under the management of a pilot, in pursuance of the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and that the accident was due to his negligence, for which they were not responsible. The plaintiffs replied that the defendants' vessel was within her own port, the port of London, at the time of the collision, and the master therefore (by 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, s. 353 and 6 Geo. 4, c. 125, s. 59) not bound to have a pilot on board, and therefore not within the exemption of section 388 of 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104. The defendants rejoined, that the vessel was not within the port of London at the time of the collision, and therefore not within the exception of 6 Geo. 4, c. 125, s. 59; but that if she was, yet the pilot was taken on board at Dungeness, where the master coming up the Channel was compelled to take him, and that under the statutory arrangements, the employment of the pilot and the pilotage rates were from Dungeness to Gravesend, above the point where the collision took place, and that they were therefore within the exemption of section 388 of 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104.

The place where the collision took place was between Yantlett Creek and Gravesend. The plaintiffs alleged that the port of London extended to the former place; the defendants that, for pilotage purposes, it extended only to the latter.

The majority of the Court below decided in favour of the defendants; holding that the pilot having been taken on board, and being still on board, in pursuance of and in discharge of his duty under the statute, the defendants were not responsible for his negligence; and being equally divided on the question whether the port extended, for pilotage purposes, to Gravesend or to Yantlett Creek.

Feb. 6, 8. The appeal was argued by Pollock, Q.C. (M. Chambers, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiffs.

Watkin Williams (Sir J. B. Karlake, Q.C., with him), for the defendants.

May 14. BYLES, J., delivered the judgment of the Court, affirming the judgment of the Court below upon the first ground; and, on the second ground, holding, also in favour of the defendants, that the port of London extended, for pilotage purposes, only to Gravesend.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF M. A. MCVICAR. May 25.

Will made under a Power of Appointment—Subsequent Marriage—Revocation—1 Vict. c. 26, s. 18—Persons entitled as Next of Kin.

Nicholas Magraw, who died in 1856, by will gave and devised to his trustees, Morris Hore and Edmund Joseph Hore, certain property on trust to permit his great niece Mary Ann Magraw to have the use and enjoyment for life, and from and after her death in trust for her children; and in case there should be no child, in trust for such persons and in such manner generally as she should by will appoint, and in default of such appointment, in trust for the person or persons who at her decease should be her next of kin. On the 14th of January, 1863, Mary Ann Magraw executed a will, in which, having recited the power given to her by the above will, and that she was about to contract marriage with Duncan McVicar, she directed and appointed that the trustees of the will of her great uncle should stand seised and possessed of the trust property upon trust for Duncan McVicar, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns absolutely, and she appointed Duncan McVicar sole executor. She subsequently intermarried with Duncan McVicar, who died in her lifetime. Mary Ann McVicar died possessed of considerable personal estate in her own right in addition to the property over which she had a power of appointment.

Bayford moved the Court to grant administration with the will of Mary Ann McVicar annexed to Nicholas Magraw, her uncle and one of her next of kin. The will was not revoked by the deceased's subsequent marriage, as it came under the exception in 1 Vict. c. 26, s. 18.

LORD PENZANCE:—In Ilmesley v. Young (2 My. & K. 780) it was held that the words "next of kin" taken alone do not imply the same class as the words "next of kin under the Statute of Distribution." I think, therefore, this will falls under the exception in the 18th section of the 1 Vict. c. 26, for the persons to whom the property would pass in default of appointment by Mrs. McVicar are not strictly her next of kin under the Statute of Distribution. Upon the renunciation of the trustees under the uncle's will, who are made residuary legatees in trust by Mrs. McVicar, the grant may issue to Mr. Nicholas Magraw as prayed.

Proctor: Ayrton.

M. R. CARDWELL v. SEAMAN'S HOSPITAL SOCIETY. May 28.

Devise to Corporation—Mortmain—Private Act of Parliament—Construction.

This was a suit to administer the trusts of the will of the late Lady Truro, who gave her residuary estate to certain charities, one of which was the Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariner's Royal Benevolent Society, incorporated by a private Act of Parliament passed in 1850. The chief clerk certified that this Act did not enable the society to hold lands which might be devised to them, and thereupon a summons was taken out to vary the certificate.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, upon the true construction of the Act, the society was incorporated with power to acquire and hold land for a limited purpose only, and were not entitled to hold any lands which might come to them by the devise in the will.

FLOYER v. BANKS.

Real Estate—Infant Tenant for Life—Improvements.

This was a suit for the administration of the trusts of a settlement, by which real estate was settled upon several persons successively for their lives, with remainders over in tail, all the limitations (so far as is material for the purpose of this Note) being legal. During the minority of one of the tenants for life, considerable sums had been expended with the sanction of the Court in draining the estates, rebuilding houses, and executing other improvements—such sums being paid in the first instance out of the income, without prejudice to any question as to how they should be ultimately borne. The tenant for life having died an infant, his legal personal representative now desired to be recouped the sum so laid out.

Jessel, Q.C., and Fry, for the representative of the deceased infant.

Southgate, Q.C., and C. Broune, for the next tenant for life.

Rowcliffe, for the first tenant in tail.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and C. Hall, for trustees.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the Court had no jurisdiction to charge on the estate the sums expended in improvements. The Court had taken the infant's money, and laid it out in a manner which, it was supposed, would be beneficial to the infant; if the Court had laid out the money badly, it was much to be regretted, but the loss must fall on the infant.

Winding-up—Claim by Creditor to Prove on Collateral Security—Debentures.

This was an adjourned summons to establish a claim on the part of the bank, to whom the company was indebted in the sum of 4000*l.*, to be allowed to prove in the winding-up of the company, upon thirty-two debentures of 250*l.* each, for the amount of their debt, as well as upon certain bills of exchange for 4000*l.* accepted by the company, in respect of which they had already been admitted to prove.

The debentures had been made out by Captain Blakely, the manager of the company, in the name of Challis, the manager of the Albion Bank, in respect of some other transaction, but they were first issued to the bank as a collateral security for the debt.

The principal questions in the case were, whether the bank, if entitled to prove on these debentures, could do so except subject to such equities as might exist between Challis and the company; and, further, whether their right of proof extended to the debentures at all.

Southgate, Q.C., and R. E. Turner, for the bank.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator of the company.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, as the bank were not assignees, but holders of the debentures, their right of proof, if it existed, would be irrespective of any equities between the company and Challis; but as in the present case there was only one debt secured, partly by the company's acceptances and partly by the debentures, it did not come within the principle of Killock's Case (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 769); and the right of proof must be restricted to the bills for 4000*l.*, and the summons be dismissed with costs.

PETERS v. BACON.

June 8.

Partition Suit—Sale—Parties out of the Jurisdiction—31 & 32 Vict. c. 40.

Under the will of Edward Tann upwards of forty persons became entitled to certain leasehold houses in the parish of Bethnal Green, and some of the persons so entitled filed a bill against the executors of the will and others of the parties entitled for a sale or partition of the property.

At the hearing a decree was made for sale.

Some of the persons so entitled were not made parties to the bill, and were out of the jurisdiction, being, when last heard of, resident in California.

A summons was taken out in chambers to obtain the direction of the Court, pursuant to 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 42, Rule 8, as to how notice of the decree should be served upon those parties, and this summons was now adjourned into Court.

Higgins, for the summons, referred to 31 & 32 Vict. c. 40, ss. 3, 9, and Cons. Ord. xxxv. Rule 18.

Langley, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS ordered advertisements to be issued in such newspapers in California and elsewhere for such number of times as the chief clerk should direct; in the meantime all proceedings under the decree to be suspended, with liberty to apply in chambers with respect to such proceedings after the advertisements had appeared.

Debt—Purchase by Contributory—Proof.

The Humber Iron Works Company Limited was ordered to be wound up by the Court. After the winding-up order was made, some of the contributories bought up debts of the company, and they now claimed to prove for the full amount of such debts, although they had paid much smaller sums for them.

Westlake, for the claimants, was stopped by the Court.

Southgate, Q.C. (Wickens with him), for the official liquidator.

submitted that, as against their co-contributors, the claimants were only entitled to what they had given for the debts in question.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said he had no doubt the claimants were entitled to prove for the full amount of the debts they had bought.

M. R. ZAMBAO v. CASSAVETTI. June 9.
Practice—Exception to Answer.

This case came before the Court on an exception to an answer for insufficiency.

The first interrogatory to the bill was as follows:—"Set forth a full and true account of the personal estate of the testator, and the particulars of which the same consisted, and the interest and income which have been derived from such personal estate, and of the amount or value of such particulars, and which of such several particulars (distinguishing capital from income) have been passed or received by or come to the hands of A. C. and E. O., and how and in what manner, and when and where, and for how much, and by and to whom the same and every or any and what part thereof have or has been sold, disposed of, paid, applied, allowed, or administered, and whether any and what parts of the said personal estate, or the produce thereof (whether consisting of capital, profits, or income), have or has been, or are or is invested upon any and what securities, and in whose names or name, and who has or have received the interest of such securities, and when and to what amount respectively, and what has become of each and of every part of such personal estate and the produce thereof, whether consisting of capital, profits, or income, and the securities in or upon which the same or any part thereof has been invested."

The defendant by her answer referred to a voluminous schedule with many of the particulars required by the interrogatory, but omitting to state in whose names the investments were standing.

The plaintiff filed an exception, stating that the defendant had not, to the best and utmost of her knowledge and belief, set forth "a full, &c." (following the words of the first interrogatory, but not specifying wherein the insufficiency consisted).

Jessel, Q.C., and G. Chapman Barber, for the plaintiff, in support of the exception.

*Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Marten, for the defendant, contended that, as the interrogatory was in form one, but comprised many distinct questions, the exception went too far, as it did not specify which of the questions was insufficiently answered. They relied on Higginson v. Blockley (1 Jur. [N.S.] 1104).*

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the exception was regular, and must be allowed, as the answer was insufficient: the questions in the interrogatory were not separate and distinct, but arose naturally out of one inquiry.

V.-C. S. DINHAM v. BRADFORD. May 22.
Partnership Articles, Construction of—Dissolution—Valuation of Share of Partner—Accounts.

A partnership which existed between the plaintiff and defendant expired by effluxion of time on the 31st of March, 1869. By one of the articles of the partnership it was provided that, in case the plaintiff should die before the expiration of the term, the defendant should, within six months next after the decease of the plaintiff, settle with his representatives all accounts, and the value of the share of the plaintiff in the property and effects of the partnership should be ascertained by two persons to be chosen by the defendant and the plaintiff, and the defendant should become the purchaser of the share at such valuation, and should enter into a bond to secure the amount of such valuation by two equal instalments at three and six months, with interest at 5 per cent. from the time of decease, and also a bond indemnifying the plaintiff against all debts of the partnership on having an assignment executed for vesting in the defendant the share of the plaintiff in the partnership. Another article provided that, in the event of the determination of the partnership by effluxion of time, the defendant or his representatives should purchase the share of the plaintiff upon the same terms in all respects as was provided for in case of the death of the plaintiff. The deed contained no provision enabling the two valuers to appoint an arbitrator in case of difference. The capital was to consist of 6000*l.* (being the valuation of certain patents and stock-in-trade and credits of the defendant), and which were to be brought into the concern by him, and 1000*l.* to be brought in by the plaintiff. A dispute arose between the parties, the defendant insisting that the valuers should have power to fix the value of his share in the partnership at a much larger sum than 6000*l.* The plaintiff prayed, inter alia, for a declaration that the partnership determined on the 31st of March, 1869, except for the purpose of winding-up the affairs of it, and that, notwithstanding such determination, he was entitled to one-third share of the profits made since that date by the use of any of the partnership moneys and effects, and for an account.

A motion for an injunction was by consent turned into a motion for a decree.

Greene, Q.C., and L. Bird, for the plaintiff.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Dixon, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, looking at the terms of the partnership, which were clearly defined, the plaintiff had no right to such a declaration as was prayed by his bill. The defendant was by contract bound to purchase the plaintiff's share from the date of dissolution, the 31st of March, the price to be ascertained in chambers, with 5 per cent. from that date, and the plaintiff was entitled to an account from the commencement of the partnership to the same date, and the defendant must pay the sum certified to be due to the plaintiff by instalments at three and six months. No costs of either party up to the hearing.

V.-C. S. O'MALLEY v. BLEASE. May 26.

Marriage Settlement—Separation Deed—Marital Right—Re-cohabitation—Wife's Debts, Husband's liability to pay.

In August, 1855, the plaintiff intermarried with the defendant Middleton O'Malley; and by the settlement of the plaintiff's property executed by the parties it was provided that the husband should receive 50*l.* a year for life, that the rest of the income of her property should be paid to her for life, and that all the property should be reassigned in the event of her surviving; but if the husband survived, he was to have half the income for life, and the plaintiff the power of disposing of the whole of the property by will, and, in default of any, the husband was to have one half of it and the plaintiff's next of kin the other. It was also provided that the trustees should, by the direction of the plaintiff, sell the property mentioned, invest the proceeds thereof as therein directed, and pay such part of the produce as should not be invested to the plaintiff for her separate use, or apply it as she should direct.

The plaintiff was possessed, inter alia, of fifty railway shares, and of thirty-five Crystal Palace shares, but the latter were not included in the settlement, and subsequently to the marriage they were transferred into the name of the husband. In October, 1856, the plaintiff and her husband agreed to live separate, and on the 8th of that month a deed of separation was executed, and the husband agreed that the thirty-five shares should be transferred into the name of a trustee for the plaintiff for her separate use, and that was done. The trustee covenanted to indemnify the husband against his wife's debts, and it was agreed that the trusts of the settlement should remain unrevoked. In November, 1857, the trustees of the settlement, at the request of the plaintiff, sold the fifty railway shares, and the proceeds were invested in Great Western Railway stock, in trust for the plaintiff's sole use. From the 6th to the 27th of November, 1860, the plaintiff and her husband re-cohabited; then they again separated till the 23rd of January, 1861, when re-cohabitation was resumed and lasted till the July following. It was resumed again for a short time in 1863. During the separation the trustees paid to the plaintiff the dividends on the railway stock and shares till 1863, when they withheld them, but were willing to pay them to her on being indemnified.

The bill prayed for a declaration that the trusts of the separation deed ought to be carried out, and for administration of the trusts of the settlement so far as might be necessary; payment of arrears of dividends; a transfer of the railway stock to her for her separate use; and a transfer of the thirty-five shares to the trustees of the deed of separation.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Osborne Morgan, for the plaintiff.

Karslake, Q.C., and Crossley, for the husband.

Greene, Q.C., and G. O. Edwards, for the executors of the trustee of the separation deed, he having died since the institution of the suit.

Bagshawe and W. Barber, for the two trustees of the settlement.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the railway stock was subject to the trusts of the settlement; and that the husband, in consequence of his marital right and the re-cohabitation, was entitled to the thirty-five shares; and ordered that the railway stock should be sold, and the costs of all parties paid out of the proceeds.

Will—Real Estate—Bequest of personal Estate and "Properties"—Ejusdem generis—Heir-at-law—Railway Company—Costs.

Edwin Yates, who died in 1861 leaving a widow and a son, by will dated in September, 1858, gave to his wife, A. Yates, all his household furniture, personal effects, and properties of every description that he was or might be possessed of at the time of his decease, and also all moneys in his possession, or that might be due to him at that time. The testator was entitled to a sum in Court of 359*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.*, which represented real estate which had been taken by a railway company.

This was a petition by A. Yates praying that the fund might be transferred to her; or that the dividends might be paid to her during the minority of her son—the heir-at-law of the testator—on her undertaking to apply; the same towards his maintenance.

Jolliffe, for the petitioner:—

The word "properties," coupled with other words which carried the personal estate, had an extended meaning, and included the real estate.

A. E. Müller, for the heir-at-law:—

The testator died intestate as to his real estate, and therefore the heir is entitled to this sum. The word "properties" is ejusdem generis.

L. Bird, for the railway company, submitted that they ought not to pay more than one set of costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the word "properties" did not include real estate, but was ejusdem generis as the previous words used, and that, therefore, the order must be in the second alternative; also that, as this was a case of adverse litigation, the railway company must pay only one set of costs.

V.-C. S. BEAVAN v. COOK. June 7.
Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Bill for Redemption and Foreclosure—Interrogatory—Rate of Interest not stated in Answer—Exception allowed.

The defendant Beavan was entitled, under the will of his father, to a reversionary interest in a sum of stock (transferred into Court) expectant upon the death of his mother. The plaintiff, in March, 1866, without being aware of the defendant Cook's claims, advanced a sum of money to the defendant Beavan, who undertook to give a mortgage of his interest under the will, and the plaintiff obtained the usual stop order on the fund. The defendant Cook claimed to be entitled to mortgages by virtue of nine indentures dated between the 13th of April, 1864, and the 11th of May, 1866, inclusive. The plaintiff having been unable to obtain any of the particulars relating to the securities, filed this bill in February, 1869, praying for an account of what was due to himself and to the defendant Cook; that their priorities might be ascertained; for the usual decree for redemption and foreclosure, or for a sale; and for such further relief as the nature of the case might require.

The first interrogatory asked the defendant Cook to set forth the dates of his mortgages; what property was affected; the amounts secured; the rates of interest reserved; the amounts of money paid as a consideration; the sum now due on such securities, and the aggregate amount due.

The defendant Cook, by his answer, admitted that his co-defendant had executed to him nine mortgages, and he gave the dates and the amounts secured. He did not state the rates of interest nor the amounts actually advanced, but he stated that the amount due in respect of principal moneys secured was 127*l.*, and interest thereon, the amount of which would be best ascertained when the usual account should be directed to be taken.

This was an exception to the answer for insufficiency, on the ground that it was important to know the amounts advanced, what for, and the rates of interest.

Dickinson, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the plaintiff.

Greene, Q.C., and Daly, for the defendant Cook.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that in every bill for redemption and foreclosure the plaintiff was entitled to a discovery of the dates and nature of the securities, and the nature of the property comprised in them, the amounts of principal money claimed to be due, and the rate of interest secured; allowed the exception, with costs; gave leave to amend the bill; and ordered the defendant Cook to answer the amended bill and exceptions at the same time.

Cookson, in support of the motion.

Toogood, for the company, contended that, as the applicant had not appeared to dissent from the scheme, he was bound by it.

V.-C. M. In re KEMPTNER. June 4.
Partnership—Joint or Separate Estate—Bills purchased with Partnership Money for one Partner—Insolvency of Partnership.

In February, 1867, W. Kemptner, a partner in the firm of W. Kemptner & Co., at Yokohama in Japan, being about to go to Europe, proposed to draw out of the partnership funds 4000*l.*, which he was entitled to do under the articles of partnership. Accordingly bills of exchange for 4000*l.*, in sets of three, payable to the order of the firm, were purchased with partnership money. The first set of bills were endorsed by the firm to W. Kemptner's order, and were given to him; the second set were sent by post to London, addressed to W. Kemptner, but were not endorsed.

W. Kemptner died at New York on his way to Europe in May, 1867, and the first set of bills were lost. When the bills were purchased the firm had sustained heavy losses, and were engaged in speculative transactions which soon afterwards resulted in their insolvency, and in December, 1867, the surviving partners assigned all their property to trustees for the benefit of the creditors of the partnership.

The second set of bills being claimed, on the one hand, by W. Kemptner's executors as his separate estate, and, on the other hand, by the trustees of the creditors' deed as partnership property, were by arrangement placed in the hands of stakeholders, who received the money and paid it into Court under the Trustee Relief Act.

W. Kemptner's executors now petitioned for the payment of the fund to them.

Lindley, for the petitioners, contended that, by the endorsement to Kemptner of the first set, the bills were completely severed from the partnership property; that the firm was not insolvent at the time; and that, without proof of an intention to defraud them, the joint creditors had no right to the bills.

Locock Webb, for the trustees of the deed.

Stirling, for the stakeholders.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that at a time when the firm were engaged in speculative transactions, which might result, and which did, in fact, result in their insolvency, one partner had no right to withdraw a large sum of money from the firm; and, as the money had not actually got into his hands, the Court would preserve it for the benefit of the joint creditors. The fund in Court must, therefore, be paid to the trustees.

Will made in pursuance of Marriage Articles—Child of Marriage taking vested Interest under Articles, and predeceasing Testator.

By articles made in 1823, on the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Violet, Thomas Brookman, the father of Mrs. Violet, covenanted that, if she should survive him, he would by will devise to trustees a share equal to the shares of his other children of the real and personal estate of which he should die possessed, to the use of Mr. Violet for life, or until bankruptcy or insolvency, with remainder to the use of Mrs. Violet for life, with remainder to the children of the marriage as Mr. and Mrs. Violet or the survivor should appoint, and in default of appointment, to the children equally, with survivorship between them on death under 21; and if only one child attained 21, to such child, his or her heirs and assigns; and if there should be no child, or all of them should die under 21 without leaving issue, then to the heirs and administrators of Mrs. Violet.

T. Brookman, by his will made in 1840, gave the stipulated share of his real and personal estate to trustees, upon trusts corresponding with the trusts declared by the articles, except that "in case, by reason of the failure of issue of Mrs. Violet, there should be no person who, under the limitations thereinbefore contained, should attain a vested interest," he gave the property to the statutory next of kin of Mrs. Violet at the time of such failure of issue.

The only child of Mr. and Mrs. Violet who lived to attain 21 died in 1847 intestate; Thomas Brookman died in 1849; Mr. Violet became insolvent in 1850, and Mrs. Violet died in 1868. The surviving trustees of the will having paid into Court under the Trustee Relief Act the share of the testator's personal estate bequeathed on the above trusts, the next of kin of Mrs. Violet now petitioned for its payment to them.

Hardy, Q.C., and Everitt, for the petitioners, contended that the child, having died in the lifetime of the testator, could not take a vested interest, and the gift over in the will took effect.

Glass, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the assignee in insolvency of Mr. Violet, contended that the testator was bound to leave the property to trustees upon the trusts of the settlement, by which a child attaining 21 took a vested interest, which was transmitted to his father.

Speed, for the trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that by the articles the testator was bound to leave the property so that it would vest in a child of the marriage who attained 21, and consequently, that the assignees of Mr. Violet were entitled to the fund in Court upon taking out administration to the deceased child.

 GUSTARD'S CASE.

Company—Increase in Value of Shares—Notice—Laches.

The memorandum and articles of association of the European Central Railway Company, which was incorporated on the 20th of January, 1864, stated the capital at 1,400,000*l.*, subject to be increased or modified. "First issue, 700,000*l.* in 35,000 shares of 20*l.* each. The remaining 700,000*l.* to be raised hereafter in shares, bonds, or obligations, as the board of directors may from time to time deem advisable. But the board may from time to time, by a resolution passed by a majority consisting of not less than two-thirds of the whole number of directors, consolidate the shares into shares of a larger nominal value, so that the shares when consolidated shall together be equivalent in nominal value to the nominal value of the original shares before the consolidation." On the 24th of January, 1864, Gustard, at the request of H. A. Holden, the promoter and contractor for the works of the company, applied for twenty shares, which were on the 22nd of April, 1864, allotted to him on payment of 4*l.* per share. On the 24th of March, 1864, a resolution was passed by a majority of two-thirds of the whole number of the directors, whereby the nominal value of the shares in the company was increased from 20*l.* to 40*l.* This resolution was annexed in the form of a printed memorandum to certain copies of the memorandum and articles of association, but it was not registered by the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies. Mr. Gustard denied all knowledge or notice of this resolution, and stated in his affidavit that his application for shares was made on the faith of the statement contained in the memorandum and articles of association that the shares were 20*l.* each. In April, 1865, an agreement was made between the company and H. A. Holden, by which it was, among other things, provided that H. A. Holden should produce transfers to himself of 1250 shares, which were to be delivered up to the company on their issuing to him 7500*l.* of debentures payable in five years. Among other shares included in the 1250 shares referred to in this agreement were the twenty allotted to Mr. Gustard, which were transferred to Mr. Holden by deed of transfer dated the 16th of May, 1865, and left for registration at the office of the company. This transfer was never registered by the company, although Mr. Gustard was induced to execute it on the understanding that the agreement with Holden would be carried out, and that he would, upon execution of the transfer, be released from all liability in respect of his shares. The question now raised by adjourned summons was whether Mr. Gustard was liable as a contributory, and, if so, whether for 20*l.* shares or for 40*l.* shares.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for Mr. Gustard.

Bardswell (Kay, Q.C.), with him, for the official liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Mr. Gustard was liable for 20*l.* shares only, and not for 40*l.* shares—his application having been made on the faith of the memorandum of association, which described the shares as 20*l.* shares, while he swore positively (and had not been cross-examined) that he never heard of the resolution to increase the value of the shares until May, 1866. He was not affected by laches, as he had at the time executed a transfer of his shares, and might well suppose that he had nothing more to do with them. On the other hand, the company were under no obligation to send notice to the transferor of their refusal to accept the transfer; it was the business of the transferor to see that everything was complete. Mr. Gustard remained liable therefore, but only for 20*l.* shares.

V.-C. J. RABBITS v. WOODWARD. June 4.

Practice—Writ of Seq. fu. de bonis ecclesiasticis—Clerk with an Estate for Life of small annual Amount—Cons. Ord. XXX. Rule 11, Sched. (J.)

Motion on behalf of certain defendants that a writ of sequestrari facias de bonis ecclesiasticis be issued to the Bishop of Bath and Wells, commanding him to enter into the rectory and parish church of Wanstrow, Somerset, and to take and sequester and hold the same until he should have levied 21*l.* 1*l.* 1*d.* and interest of the rents, tithes, issues, and profits thereof, and other ecclesiastical goods in his diocese, of and belonging to the said rectory and parish church and to the plaintiff Cicero Rabbits, as rector thereof, with the usual directions.

By an order dated the 20th of February, 1868, the plaintiff was directed, within seven days of service, to pay into Court 32*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.* The money remaining unpaid, on the 10th of July, 1868, a commission of sequestration was issued of the plaintiff's personal estate, and the rents, issues, and profits of his real estate. The personalty was found to consist of certain household goods, and the only realty was a life estate in a farm worth 140*l.* a year. The sequestrators sold the goods, which realised about 40*l.*, and, having received some rents, were ready to pay into Court 11*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.*, and had taken out a summons for leave so to do.

B. B. Rogers, for the motion, said the difficulty was that it supposed that, under the Cons. Ord. XXX. Rule 11, a writ of seq. fu. de bonis eccles. could not issue until the sheriff had made a return of nulla bona, which was impossible in this instance, where the plaintiff had a life estate. The defendants ought not to be compelled to wait for satisfaction of the order of the Court out of the proceeds of a life estate, which might any day fail, and the hardship would be great if such a writ as this could never issue against a clerk in holy orders with any life estate, however small.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the writ to issue according to the notice of motion; the writ to contain, in lieu of the ordinary recital of return of nulla bona, a recital that it appeared that the property returned by the commissioners was insufficient for payment of the debt.

V.-C. J. PARKES v. STEVENS. June 4.

Patent—Infringement—Combination.

Trial by Court without a jury of issues in the suit as to the validity and alleged infringement by the defendant of the plaintiff's patent of 1865, for improvements in the construction of globular lamps, of a class forming the subject of a patent granted to the plaintiff in 1862, and particularly applicable for railway stations or large exposed areas, either enclosed or open; "the great object of the improvements being to produce a glazed lamp, the frame of which shall throw little or no shadow, and yet, at the same time, possess the requisite strength and facilities for lighting and cleaning the lamp."

One feature of the improvements embraced in the patent of 1865 was a sliding door, forming a segment of a sphere, and corresponding in form with the outer surface of the lamp. The claim, as stated in the specification, was for "the arrangement and combination of parts hereinbefore described, and represented in the drawings annexed, in the manufacture of railway station and other lamps."

The defendant, under a contract with Mr. Barry, the Government architect, had recently erected lamps in Palace Yard, globular in form, and with sliding or revolving doors. These lamps, especially in the form and arrangement of the doors, were alleged to be an infringement of the plaintiff's patent, and the bill was filed to restrain such infringement.

The following issues were directed, and now came on for trial: 1st. Whether the subject of the letters patent of October, 1865, was new? 2nd. Whether such invention was of public utility, and the proper subject for letters patent? 3rd. Sufficiency of specification; and, 4th. Infringement by the defendant.

Kuy, Q.C., Webster, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

Amphlett, Q.C., and W. H. G. Bagshawe, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR gave his verdict for the plaintiff on the issues as to novelty, utility, and fitness for a patent, and also held that, reading the specification of 1865 together with that of 1862, the invention was sufficiently described in the plaintiff's specification. On the question of infringement, his verdict would be for the defendant, on the ground that the substitution of a sliding door for a hinged door was not in itself a proper subject for a patent, and that a patent for an entire combination was not a valid patent for a part, when that part would not have itself been protected. Verdict for the plaintiff on the first three issues; for the defendant on the last issue.

HOLDEN'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Attempted Transfer.

On the 26th of March Henry Holden applied for 100 shares in the company, and 80 were allotted to him on the 22nd of April, 1864. 320*l.* (4*l.* per share) was paid, and on the 7th of July Holden signed a receipt for share certificates "for 80 shares of 40*l.* each." In November, 1865, Holden contracted to sell his shares to his cousin, H. A. Holden, and on the 14th of December executed a transfer to one Harris, the nominee of his cousin. Calls were then due upon the shares; and as by the articles of association the company might decline to register transfers while the transferor was indebted to the company, Holden remitted to H. A. Holden 320*l.*, to be applied by him in discharging the calls. H. A. Holden kept the 320*l.*, but tendered to the secretary, in payment of the amount due, twenty overdue coupons or interest warrants of 15*l.* each, payable in respect of debentures of the company, which had been issued to him for work done. The secretary refused to receive the coupons in payment of the calls, and the transfer to Harris was never registered. Under these circumstances, the question was whether Henry Holden was liable as a contributory for the 80 shares.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for Henry Holden, contended that he was not liable as a contributory. The company were bound to have registered the transfer, as the tender of the coupons, which after indorsement were payable on delivery and transferrable, was a valid tender of the amount due for calls. In any case Holden was only liable for 20*l.* shares, according to the decision in Gustard's Case.

Kay, Q.C., and Burdswell, for the official liquidator, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that H. Holden was liable as a contributory for 80 shares of 40*l.* each. The case was different from Gustard's Case (ante, p. 151), as it was clear that Holden got 80 40*l.* shares, and was accepted as the holder of shares of that value. As to the refusal of the company to register the transfer, the tender of the overdue coupons by H. A. Holden was not a payment, or anything equivalent to a payment, of the amount due from H. Holden. The transfer had never been registered, and the company were not bound to register it; and, therefore, H. Holden remained liable as the holder of 80 shares of 40*l.* each.

V.-C. J. WILKES v. COLLIN. June 5.
Will—Devise of reversionary Interest in Mortgage Debt—Merger—Money which Testator should die "possessed of or in anywise entitled to."

By a marriage settlement dated in 1809, trustees were directed to hold a sum of 3300*l.* stock, upon trust to continue the same on its actual state of investment, or vary the same by investment in Parliamentary stocks or real securities, but during the lives of Samuel Fiske and Lettice his wife, and the survivor, not without their, his, or her consent in writing; and out of the proceeds during the joint lives of Samuel Fiske and Lettice his wife, to pay 50*l.* a year to Lettice for her separate use, without power of anticipation, and after the death of the one who should first die, to pay the income to the survivor, and in default (which happened) of issue of the marriage, and after the decease of Lettice, to transfer the fund to Samuel Fiske, his executors, administrators, and assigns.

In 1830 the trustees sold out the 3300*l.* stock, and advanced the proceeds, 3073*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, to Samuel Fiske on the mortgage of an estate called Farmedine, of which he was seised in fee. Samuel Fiske died in 1856, having by will dated in 1844 devised Farmedine and all other his real estate to the use of Lettice his wife for life, without impeachment of waste, and after her decease, to his nephew, the plaintiff Robert Wilkes, absolutely. Testator also bequeathed "all and every the shares and sums of money in the public funds or upon Government or real securities which he should die possessed of, or in anywise entitled to," unto trustees upon trust to permit his wife for life, then the plaintiff for life, then the plaintiff's wife for life, to receive the proceeds, with remainder to the plaintiff's children. All other his personal estate not before disposed of testator gave to his wife absolutely. Lettice survived Samuel Fiske, and died in 1868.

The questions were, 1st, whether the testator's interest in the mortgage debt merged in his estate of Farmedine, upon which the debt was charged; and 2nd, if it did not merge, whether it passed under the bequest of "all sums of money upon real securities" which the testator should die "possessed of or in anywise entitled to."

Kay, Q.C., and H. Davey, for the plaintiff, contended for the merger.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there was no merger.

Rendall, for the executor of Lettice Fiske, contended that the testator's reversionary interest in the mortgage debt did not pass under the above bequest.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiff's children, were stopped.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the testator's interest in the debt passed under the above words.

V.-C. J. MACKENZIE v. COULSON. June 5.
Marine Insurance—Bill for Rectification of Policy—Alleged Error in drawing up Policy—Letters on "Slip" overlooked.

Defendants, members of a firm of iron merchants, employed Fellows & Co., carriers, of Gloucester, to ship a quantity of iron hoops from Walsall to Plymouth, cautioning them against the particular risk of rusting, who, on the 25th of October, 1867, wrote to say they had engaged a vessel, the Thomas and John, of Fowey, for the purpose; and, in reply to an inquiry as to terms, referred the defendants to B. C. Hargreaves, of 14 Bishopsgate Street, as an insurance agent. Hargreaves instructed Fleming, Seymour, & Co., of 4 Great St. Helen's, whose clerk Wightman, on the 28th of October, presented at Lloyd's a slip for insuring the sum of 890*l.* on 501 bundles of hoops, and 40*l.* on the freight of the same, by the Thomas and John, from Gloucester to Plymouth. The slip was underwritten by the plaintiffs for various sums amounting to 700*l.* On the same day a common printed form of policy was filled up by another junior clerk of Fleming, Seymour, & Co., named Vink, who inserted in it the words "average recoverable as customary," and this policy was executed by the plaintiffs.

The cargo having suffered loss through rusting from sea water, application was made to the plaintiffs, who refused to pay, alleging that the bargain was to insure "free from particular average," and asserting that the slip had on it the letters "f. p. a.," which were indorsed by Wightman, because Sercombe, the agent of the first plaintiffs, refused to underwrite the slip at all except on those terms. Defendants had brought actions.

The bill prayed that the policy of the 28th of October, 1867, might be rectified by inserting therein the words "free from particular average" in lieu of the words "average recoverable as customary," and for an injunction to restrain the actions.

The defendants denied all knowledge of the alleged error.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Marten, for the plaintiffs:—

This was a simple mistake of Vink, the clerk, who overlooked the letters "f. p. a." on the slip. Wightman said distinctly he wrote the letters on the slip, because Sercombe refused otherwise to underwrite it.

Kay, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, in giving judgment, remarked upon the doubtful character of the marks on the slip, said to be the letters "f. p. a.," and observed that the plaintiff did not seek to have a document rectified because it was not in accordance with the contract: he was seeking to have the contract itself rectified, on the ground that it was not in accordance with a certain offer, or terms of negotiation, called a "slip." There never was any contract till the policy was signed; and the defendants positively declared they never would have entered into the contract unless it had been what it appeared to be. The bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. COX v. COX. June 7.
Trust Fund—Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Insufficiency of Assets—Apportionment of Assets.

By a marriage settlement dated in 1859, G. H. Cox covenanted to pay to trustees, three months after his death, the sum of 6000*l.*, with interest from that date at 5 per cent. The trusts of the money were for the benefit of his widow for life, with remainder (in the events that happened) to the children of the marriage. In July, 1862, G. H. Cox died intestate; and shortly afterwards a suit of Hellaby v. Cox was instituted against the widow and administratrix by a simple contract creditor. In July, 1863, there was an administration decree; and the chief clerk certified that the above debt of 6000*l.* for principal, and 1625*l.* for interest, was the only specialty debt, and that the only assets were a sum of 1400*l.* due from the administratrix, and two sums of 372*l.* 2*s.* 3*d.* and 668*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.* stock in Court to the credit of the cause.

The question in this suit was how these insufficient assets were to be apportioned between the tenant for life and the children of the marriage.

Phar, for the plaintiffs, the children.

Speed, for the defendant, the widow.

R. Campbell, for the defendants, the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed that it should be ascertained, by calculation back, what sums, if received at three months after the death of the covenantor, would have produced the fund now recovered; and directed that 4 per cent. upon the sum so ascertained should go to the tenant for life, and the remainder be treated as principal. The costs of all parties would come out of the principal.

V.-C. J. TOPHAM v. DUKE OF PORTLAND. June 7.
Appointment—Power—Fraud.

On the 13th of October, 1848, the late Duke of Portland appointed a sum of 16,000*l.* to Lord Henry Bentinck. This sum was paid by the late duke out of his own moneys, and was invested by Lord Henry in the purchase of 18,686*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.*, 3*l.* per cent. Annuities, in the names of the present duke and Mr. Ellis, upon the trusts of a settlement dated the 24th of November, 1848, by virtue of which the dividends of one half the amount, representing the share of the plaintiff Lady Mary Topham (then Bentinck), a daughter of the late duke, were to be accumulated; such accumulation to be for the benefit of the plaintiff as the late duke might appoint, and, subject thereto, for Lord Henry Bentinck. In March, 1854, the late duke died, and in October of the same year the plaintiff married the defendant Sir William Topham.

The present duke by two deeds poll, dated the 21st of September, 1854, temporarily, and by two other deeds poll, dated the 19th of December, 1854, permanently, appointed an annuity of 2720*l.* and the income of a sum of 52,000*l.*, 3*l.* per cent. Stock, to the defendant Lady Harriett Bentinck, another daughter of the late duke, alone, exclusively of the plaintiff, subject to powers of revocation by the appointor, and new appointment in favour of Lady Harriett and the plaintiff. These appointments were all set aside by the Court of Chancery and by the House of Lords (on the 7th of April, 1864) as having been frauds upon the powers in exercise of which they were made. A similar appointment, made on the 28th of October, 1848, of a sum of 16,000*l.*, charged upon Scotch estates, was also set aside by the House of Lords.

By two deeds poll, dated the 6th of July, 1864, the present duke appointed the income of the funds comprised in the deeds of December, 1854, and the annuity of 2720*l.*, to Lady Harriett Bentinck, to the exclusion of the plaintiff.

The plaintiff prayed that these latter appointments might also be declared void and inoperative as against her.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., C. Hall, and Rowcliffe, for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Alfred Bailey, for the Duke of Portland.

Kay, Q.C., and F. P. Morris, for Lord Henry Bentinck.

Amphlett, Q.C., T. Stevens, and Baldwin Smith, for Lady Harriett Bentinck; and

C. Hall, for Sir William and Lady Topham's trustees.

Sir R. Palmer in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the few circumstances of novelty attending the appointments now sought to be set aside were not prejudicial, but rather advantageous, to the plaintiff's case; and the duty of the Court was to follow the decision of the House of Lords, and to declare the appointments void.

V.-C. J. JEWIS v. LAWRENCE. June 7.
Legacies of unequal Amount in identical Terms to Two Executors—Probate not necessary.

The testator W. H. Soare, who died on the 27th of June, 1867, by his will, dated the 9th of August, 1861, bequeathed a leasehold house in the following terms:—"Unto and to the use of William Lawrence, ham and tongue dealer, the now occupier of the same, and one of my trustees and executors hereinafter named, his executors, administrators, and assigns," subject to the payment of a life annuity of 20*l.* a year. He afterwards bequeathed a legacy as follows:—"To Joseph Thomas Paul, of No. 114 Sloane Street, auctioneer, one of my trustees and executors hereinafter named, 100*l.* for his own use and benefit." He then gave and bequeathed the residue of his personal estate to W. Lawrence and J. T. Paul, and the survivor of them, and the executors and administrators of such survivor, upon trusts for the benefit of the plaintiff for life, with remainder over; and he appointed W. Lawrence and J. T. Paul to be executors of his will.

On the 27th of August, 1867, W. Lawrence proved the will alone. On the 16th of September, 1867, J. T. Paul died without having proved the will, and without having disclaimed or renounced in any way.

The bill was filed on the 28th of September, 1867, by the tenant for life against the executor for administration; and one of the questions was whether J. T. Paul was entitled to the legacy of 100*l.*

A. E. Miller, for the plaintiff.

Bristowe, for the defendant.

Kay, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for one of the residuary legatees.
Brookbank, for the executors of Paul.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held the gift of the legacy to Paul to be good, on the ground that, where the gift to one of two executors was unequal to the gift to the other, though made in identical terms, there was enough to rebut the presumption that the testator meant the gift to be conditional on acceptance of the office of executor.

V.-C. J. SOWERBY v. FRYER. June 7.
Right of Vicar to cut Timber on the Vicarage Lands—Injunction.

Bill by plaintiff, the owner of the next presentation to the vicarage of Eltham, Kent, in the event of the same falling vacant during the life of Helen Elizabeth Fryer, now aged 48, to restrain the defendant, the Vicar of Eltham (aged upwards of 60), from cutting timber in the garden, pleasure grounds, and lands belonging to the vicarage, and for an account. Twenty trees had been cut. They had not been sold.

The motion for an injunction was on the 17th of December last ordered to stand over, on defendant's undertaking in terms of the notice of motion.

Defence: that the lands on which the trees stood had been in November, 1861, taken in exchange for outlying glebe; that the trees made the vicarage house damp, were required for wood-work repairs, and injured the meadow and the younger trees; that the defendant intended to apply the timber partly in specie, and the proceeds of the sale of the rest in repairs; that the plaintiff had made no remonstrance until bill filed; and that the defendant was entitled to do the acts complained of by the custom of the country and the right of vicars.

Kay, Q.C., and Osborne Morgan, for the plaintiff.

Karslake, Q.C., and Higgins, for the defendant the vicar.

Freeling, for a co-defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought the plaintiff clearly entitled to the interposition of the Court. The defendant had a right to cut timber only to a limited extent, namely, for the repairs of woodwork in the chancel and vicarage house; he had no right to cut timber to make a general repairing fund.

The injunction must be made perpetual; the timber to be sold and the proceeds brought into Court, with leave generally to apply; and leave to the defendant to apply in chambers as to the proceeds of such part of it as would have been applicable to woodwork repairs actually about to be done.

Q. B. WEST v. DODD. May 31.

Landlord and Tenant—Covenant not to Assign without License.

Ejectment on alleged forfeitures by breach of covenant not to assign.

The plaintiff demised the premises in 1860 to Tanner and Pridham for fourteen years. The lease contained a covenant by the lessees (not expressed to be on behalf of their assigns) not to assign or part with the possession of the premises without the written assent of the landlord, with a clause of re-entry in case of a breach.

By a letter of the 25th of March, 1865, addressed to the lessees, the plaintiffs assented to a transfer of the lease by them to Wade on the same terms as they held it. Wade, who had purchased the lease from them, entered into possession without any formal assignment of the term. Wade continued in possession, paying rent, until 1867, when, by the written license of the plaintiff, he assigned all his interest in the lease to Chagwin and Keamil, as trustees for his creditors. The plaintiff had assented to this transfer under the belief that the family of Wade were to be allowed to continue in possession; but the trustees, taking a different view, sold the term to the defendant, and he entered into possession.

Jan. 13. Pinder, for the defendant.

Kingdon, Q.C., and Charles, for the plaintiff.

May 31. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn and Mellor, J.J.) held that there had been no forfeiture. It was unnecessary to decide whether the covenant would have bound assigns, though not named, as the Court was of opinion that there never was any assignee of the whole term so as to be subject to the covenants in the lease. The parting with possession by the original lessees to Wade without a complete transfer was not a forfeiture, as the license of the 25th of March, 1865, did not in terms forbid such a parting with possession; and the possession by the cestuis que trust, and the subsequent dealing with the property by them, could not be considered the acts of the original lessees.

Q. B. June 2.

EDWARDS, APP.; OVERSEERS OF RUSHOLME, RESPS.

Poor-rate, Apportionment of, under 17 Geo. 2, c. 38, s. 12.

By s. 12 of 17 Geo. 2, c. 38, where any person shall come into or occupy any house, &c. out of which any other person assessed shall be removed, or which at the time of making the rate was empty or unoccupied, every person so removing from, and every person so coming into or occupying the same, shall be liable to pay to such rate in proportion to the time that such person occupied the same respectively, which proportion, in case of dispute, shall be ascertained by two justices.

A poor-rate for eleven months having been made by the respondents on the appellant on the 28th of October, 1866, in respect of a house which he was then occupying, he went out of occupation on the 8th of November following. The house remained unoccupied till the 10th of May, 1867, when a new tenant entered. The appellant was ordered by justices to pay to the rate for the time from the date of the rate up to the 10th of May, 1867.

J. Kay, for the appellant.

Ambrose, for the respondents.

THE COURT held the order right. But for the statute of Geo. 2 the appellant would have been liable to pay the whole rate, and he was only relieved so far as s. 12 relieved him, viz. for the period during which the new tenant occupied; and therefore, although the section did not in terms provide for the case, the appellant was bound to pay the proportion not only for the time he occupied, but also for the time during which the house remained unoccupied.

Q. B. THE QUEEN v. DIPLOCK. June 2.

Coroner, Election of—7 & 8 Vict. c. 92—Sheriff's Declaration of Election final.

Quo warranto calling on the defendant to shew by what authority he exercised the office of coroner of the western division of Middlesex.

Plea, that after 7 & 8 Viet. c. 92, on a vacancy occurring in the office, a writ was issued to the sheriff of Middlesex commanding him to elect a coroner; that the sheriff duly appointed and held a Court for the purpose; and that defendant, being duly qualified, was one of their candidates nominated, and a poll being demanded, was duly taken the next day for eight hours, and at the close of the poll, the poll-books were duly sealed and delivered to the sheriff; that the Court reassembled on the day next but one after the close of the poll, and the sheriff then opened the books and cast up the number of votes, and openly declared the state of the poll, and made proclamation that the defendant was duly chosen by a majority of such persons residing within the district as were duly qualified to vote.

Demurrer, on the ground that the plea did not allege that the defendant was duly elected by a majority of duly qualified voters.

Keane, Q.C. (Day with him), for the relator.

Gray, Q.C. (H. Shephard with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT gave judgment for the defendant. The sheriff exercises a judicial office in holding a court for the election of coroner; neither before nor by the statute is any appeal or scrutiny given to examine into the validity of the votes after the sheriff has exercised his judicial office and declared the election; and, therefore, the plea was good.

WELFARE v. LONDON AND BRIGHTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Negligence—Onus probandi.

The plaintiff, in an action for negligence against the defendants, proved that he went to the station to make some inquiries respecting the departure of certain trains, and was directed by a porter to look at a time-table suspended on a wall outside the station under a portico. While the plaintiff was looking at the time-table, a plank and a roll of fresh zinc fell upon him and injured him, and at the same time a man's leg was seen to come through a hole in the roof of the portico. At the trial, the judge ruled that there was no evidence of negligence, and nonsuited the plaintiff.

C. W. Wood, for the plaintiff.

Huddleston, Q.C., and Lopes, for the defendants.

THE COURT held that the plaintiff ought to have shewn, by affirmative evidence, that the defendants knew that the roof of the portico was in a dangerous state; that the evidence adduced by the plaintiff was not sufficient to enable him to maintain the action; and that the plaintiff was rightly nonsuited.

Q. B. EVANS v. BIGNOLD. June 4.
Insurance on Life—14 Geo. 3, c. 48—Person interested in Insurance—Husband and Wife.

Declaration by plaintiff as administrator of his deceased wife, M. A. Evans, on a policy of insurance effected with the defendant's office by the wife on her own life.

Plea: that the policy was in fact made by the plaintiff in the name and on the pretended behalf of M. A. Evans, for the use, benefit, and on account of the plaintiff, and not for and on account of M. A. Evans, and that the name of the plaintiff was not inserted in the policy as the person interested therein, and for whose use, benefit, or on whose account such policy was made, and the policy is an unlawful policy under 14 Geo. 3, c. 48.

Issue joined.

The plaintiff W. Evans was married to his wife during her minority, and was entitled to 227*l.* under the will of her father on attaining her majority; and, after the marriage and during her minority, the plaintiff was in want of 200*l.*, and the trustees of the will agreed to advance that sum in part payment of the wife's legacy, and upon the repayment secured by one Jacobs in the event of the wife dying before she attained 21 years, and Jacobs became security on condition of an insurance being effected on the life of Mrs. Evans. The money was advanced, and the policy in question was effected by the plaintiff with the defendant's office, simply in the name of M. A. Evans, wife of W. Evans, on her own life for 200*l.*

M. A. Evans died after having attained 21.

On a case stating the above facts, the Court to draw inferences of fact, the question was whether the plaintiff was entitled to recover.

Pinder, for the plaintiff.

H. T. Cole, Q.C. (Raymond with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) gave judgment for the defendant. The plea was proved, and the policy was illegal under 14 Geo. 3, c. 48; for, assuming it to be intended for the ultimate benefit of the wife, the policy was intended to operate for the present protection of the plaintiff, and was therefore for his benefit, and his name ought to have been inserted.

Q. B. GUARDIANS OF MACHYNLETH UNION, APPEL.; JUNE 5.
OVERSEERS OF THE LOWER DIVISION OF POOL, RESPONDENTS.

Poor Law—Irremovability of Pauper—Union—4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 109; 24 & 25 Vict. c. 55, s. 1.

By an order of justices certain paupers were ordered to be removed from the Lower Division of the parish of Pool to the parish of Penegoes, as the place of their last legal settlement. The Lower Division of the parish of Pool is a township separately maintaining its own poor, and the two other divisions of Pool, called the Middle and Upper Divisions, also separately maintain their poor; and neither division aids or contributes to the relief in the other townships or divisions.

By a Local Act 6 Geo. 4, c. cxxiii, the parish of Pool, and a number of other parishes and townships, were to be one incorporate and united district, called "The Montgomery and Pool United District." By s. 12 certain persons, called Guardians, are to hold a certain house of industry, established under former local Acts. By s. 24 the guardians are to elect "directors." By s. 39 each parish or other place within the united district shall have the separate care of the poor belonging thereto, or who shall be sent to or received into the house of industry from such place, and shall maintain or provide for them at the separate expense of such place, either in the house of industry by virtue of the Act, or elsewhere, pursuant to the general laws relating to the poor. By s. 43 the directors are to have the entire care, control, management, and government of the house of industry, and of all the poor who shall at any time be received therein, with power to provide for their better maintenance and employment there . . .

The paupers had resided in the Middle Division of the parish of Pool for several years, and were irremovable by reason of 9 & 10 Vict. c. 66, but they went into the Lower Division of the parish, and resided there when the order of removal was made; they are removable from the Lower Division if their residence there alone is to be considered.

The appellants contended that the residence of the paupers in the Middle Division might be joined with the residence in the Lower Division, and that they had resided for one year and upwards, under 23 & 29 Vict. c. 79, s. 8, in one or more parishes forming part of the united district, which is a Union within the meaning of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 55, s. 1.

The respondents contended that the united district is not a Poor Law Union contemplated by that Act, and that the duties of the directors are confined solely to the internal management of the house and of the poor who might be therein, and that the directors have no common fund at their disposal, nor have they the means of raising any out of which the paupers could be supported.

The words used in 24 & 25 Vict. c. 55 are, by s. 12, to be construed in like manner as in 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, and by s. 109 of that Act "Union" is to be construed to include "any number of parishes incorporated for the relief and maintenance of the poor under any local Act."

Poland, for the appellants.

M'Intyre, for the respondents.

THE COURT held the contention on behalf of the appellants was right, and that, although there was no common fund, yet, inasmuch as the directors of the united district had the sole care, management, and relief of the poor in the house of industry, that district was a Union within the meaning of 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, and 24 & 25 Vict. c. 55, and that the paupers were irremovable.

THE QUEEN v. KENNELL.
THE QUEEN v. SAUNDERS.

Salé of Bread otherwise than by Weight—"Fancy Bread"—6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 37, s. 4.

In the first case the appellant was convicted of selling bread otherwise than by weight, the same not being "bread usually sold under the denomination of French or fancy bread," contrary to 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 37, s. 4.

The Sessions affirmed the conviction, finding as a fact that the loaf of bread sold was not such as at the time of sale was usually sold under the denomination of French or fancy bread, but at the time of the passing of the Statute such bread was usually sold under the denomination of fancy bread.

Denman, Q.C., and Oppenheim, for the appellant.

June 7, 1869. LUSH and HAYES, JJ., confirmed the conviction, holding that the construction to be put on the proviso in section 4—"That nothing in the Act should be construed to extend to prevent a baker or seller of bread from selling bread, usually sold under the denomination of French or fancy bread, without previously weighing the same"—was that "usually sold" meant at the time of sale, and not at the time of the passing of the Statute.

HANNEN, J., was of the contrary opinion.

Attorney for appellant: J. Michael.

Attorneys for respondent: Dyne & Harvey.

The other two cases were similar convictions, and the Quarter Sessions affirmed them, stating that the bread was made of the same materials as batch bread, but was baked in a tin.

May 1. Mellish, Q.C., for the appellant.

Maule, Q.C., for the respondent.

June 7. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor and Hayes, JJ.) confirmed the convictions. It was unnecessary to decide whether or not the bread was fancy bread within the proviso; in each case the customer had asked for bread by weight, viz. "for a 4 lb. loaf," and "for a 2 lb. loaf," and the appellant in each case sold them as such; he could not, therefore, afterwards set up that he was selling fancy bread; and, the loaves turning out deficient in weight, it must be taken that they never were weighed, for it could not be assumed against the seller that he knowingly sold short weight.

Q. B. HARRIS AND ADAMS v. QUINN. June 7.

Lex fori—Statute of Limitations, and Judgment thereon in Country of Contract no bar to Action in English Court—Statute of Limitations, on Attorney's Bill for a Suit in an Inferior Court and on Appeal, runs from Conclusion in the Superior Court.

The plaintiffs were attorneys and advocates in the Isle of Man, and brought this action on the 9th of January, 1868, to recover the amount of a bill of costs for legal business done by them for the defendant while both parties were resident in the Isle of Man.

The defence was—1st, the Statute of Limitations; 2nd, that by the Statute of Limitations in the Isle of Man the action must be brought within three years after the cause of action; that an action on this bill had been brought in the Isle of Man Court, and judgment given for the defendant, on the ground that the cause of action was barred.

The chief items of the plaintiffs' bill were for a particular suit in the Consistorial Court of the island—the first item being, 15th of March, 1858, retainer and instructions. On the 25th of April, 1861, the suit was dismissed. In September, 1861, there was a retainer from the defendant to the plaintiff to proceed in the Court of Appeal, and the litigation continued in that Court up to and beyond the 1st of October, 1862, when the partnership between the plaintiffs was dissolved, and Adams was retained to continue it.

The action in the Court of the Isle of Man was commenced more than three years after the 1st of October, 1862, and judgment was given that the suit was barred by the Manx Statute of Limitations.

R. G. Williams, for the plaintiffs.

Baylis, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) gave judgment for the plaintiffs on both issues. The Manx Statute only barred the remedy, and did not extinguish the debt, and the judgment of the Manx Court was therefore no bar to the present action. As to the plea of the English Statute of Limitations, the plaintiffs might have been in a position to sue for their costs in April, 1861, when judgment was given in the Court below; but they not having done so, the retainer by the defendant in the appeal, and the acceptance by the plaintiffs, were a continuation of the original suit, and the Statute did not begin to run till the dissolution of the partnership in October, 1862, and was, therefore, no bar to the action which was commenced in January, 1868.

C. P. June 4.
A. SYKES AND W. H. SHAW AND WIFE, EXECUTORS AND EXECUTRIX, &c. v. SYKES AND ANOTHER.

Security for Costs—Plaintiffs suing in Representative Character, one out of the Jurisdiction, the other Bankrupt.

The plaintiffs, suing as executors and executrix of one Ellen Sykes, deceased, complained of a trespass to goods. Brett, J., upon an affidavit that the plaintiff Sykes resided in Scotland, out of the jurisdiction of the Court, and that the plaintiff Shaw had been adjudicated a bankrupt and had not obtained his discharge, and that he possessed no means of paying the costs of the action in case a verdict should be given against the plaintiffs, made an order that the plaintiffs should give security for costs.

Upon a rule nisi to rescind the order:

THE COURT held that the absence from the jurisdiction of one of two plaintiffs, and the bankruptcy of the other (though suing in a representative character), afforded no ground for requiring security for costs; and the rule was made absolute.

Kemplay, for the plaintiffs.

C. Russell and Forbes, for the defendants.

Ex. COX v. LIME. June 8.

Libel—Charge of Ingratitude—Statement of Grounds of Charge.

Action for libel tried before Pigott, B., at the Leicester Spring Assizes.

The libel sued upon was the report of a speech by Mr. Frewen, one of the candidates for the county, in which he charged the plaintiff (who was proprietor of the Leicester Advertiser) with ingratitude, adding that he would never have been proprietor of that paper but for the help of Mr. Frewen, and also adding that the loan thus advanced had been honourably repaid. It was not, in fact, true that Mr. Frewen had advanced money to the plaintiff under the circumstances stated by him, but it was true that he had lent him money on another occasion. A verdict was found for the plaintiff; and, in Easter Term,

Bulwer, Q.C., moved to arrest the judgment, on the ground that the declaration did not disclose any cause of action; or for a new trial, on the ground that the judge ought to have directed a verdict for the defendant.

O'Malley, Q.C., Keane, Q.C., and Merewether, shewed cause.

Bulwer, Q.C., and Jacques supported the rule, and contended that, even if a mere charge of ingratitude was libellous, yet, when it was coupled with circumstances shewing the foundation of the charge, and at the same time shewing it to be baseless, it was not so.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Bramwell, Pigott, and Cleasby, BB.) discharged the rule, holding that the libellous character of a charge of ingratitude was not taken away by a statement of the facts on which it was grounded, even assuming that the facts stated did not, in the absence of explanation, shew any ingratitude in fact.

Attorneys for plaintiff: Austen, De Gex, & Harding.

Attorneys for defendant: Dale & Stretton.

Ex. June 4.
IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE AND EFFECTS OF JOHN GREENWOOD, DECEASED.

Summons under Succession Duty Act, 1853, and Legacy Duty Acts—Right to begin.

Writ of summons to W. M., the executor of John Greenwood, deceased, and also trustee of certain property to which certain persons became entitled as successors upon the death of the said John Greenwood, calling upon him within fourteen days to deliver an account on oath of all the legacies, &c. of the said J. Greenwood, paid or to be paid by him, the said executor; and also an account of all the property to which the persons aforesaid became beneficially entitled as such successors as aforesaid on the death of the said John Greenwood, and to pay the legacy or succession duty chargeable thereon; or within the same time to appear and shew cause why he made default in the premises.

An appearance was duly entered to the writ, and an affidavit was filed in answer to it by the executor's attorney, on which Crompton appeared to shew cause.

Sir J. D. Coleridge, Q.C. (S. G.) (Sir R. P. Collier, Q.C. (A. G.) and C. Hutton with him), claimed, on the part of the Crown, the right to begin. The burden of proof lay on the Crown to establish that any duty was payable.

THE COURT, after making inquiries as to what the former practice was on writs of summons similar to the present, held that the most convenient course was to call on the Crown to begin.*

Attorney for the Crown: Solicitor of Inland Revenue.

Attorneys for the executor: Wright & Venn.

* Later in the same day, the Court adhered to their present practice of calling on the applicant to begin in cases stated by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, in order that there may be an appeal from their determination as to the stamp duties chargeable on certain instruments: such as deeds of conveyance, mortgages, &c.—See Lord Foley v. Inland Revenue Commissioners (Law Rep. 3 Ex. 268).

WINN v. MOSSMAN.
Penalties, Application of—Payment to Treasurer of County or Borough under 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43, s. 31.

Special case in an action brought by the treasurer of the West Riding of Yorkshire against the clerk to the Bradford Borough Justices, for penalties received by the latter on convictions by the justices within the borough for offences under the general law. The case was the same with that of the Mayor of Reigate v. Hart (Law Rep. 3 Q. B. 244), except that Bradford has a separate commission of the peace, though no separate Quarter Sessions.

Hannay (Lascelles with him), for the plaintiff.

Manisty, Q.C. (Kemplay with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Bramwell, Channell, and Cleasby, BB.) held that the case was not distinguishable from the case cited, and gave judgment for the plaintiff.

Attorney for plaintiff: Marsden, Wakefield.

Attorneys for defendant: McLeod & Cann, for McGowen, Bradford.

THE QUEEN v. DERING.

Larceny—Evidence—Animus furandi—Practise.

Case stated by the chairman of the Quarter Sessions for Kent. The prisoner was indicted for stealing six shillings, the money of Henry Simmons, his master.

The case stated as follows:—

The prisoner was a wagoner in the employment of Simmons, the prosecutor. On the 13th of February last the prosecutor's bailiff sent out four teams of horses with wagons, one of them being in charge of the prisoner. The prisoner and the other persons in charge were ordered to go with the teams to a place called Snodland to fetch coal. For the journey which these teams were to take they should have gone through two turnpike gates, called the Royal Oak and Snodland Gate; and before starting the bailiff delivered to the prisoner money to the amount of 8s. 8d., for the purpose of paying the tolls at the said gates in respect of all the teams.

On the 25th of February last the bailiff asked the prisoner if he had paid the tolls at the Snodland Gate. The prisoner said he had not. The bailiff asked him why he had not paid the tolls; and the prisoner replied, that by the road they went no toll was payable, and that he had spent the money, amounting to 6s., on beer for himself and the other wagoners and mates. The prisoner stated the teams had gone by a parish road which only crossed the turnpike road at the gate, and thus no toll was payable.

The jury convicted the prisoner; but, having some doubt whether these facts prove a larceny on the part of the prisoner, the Court reserved the point for the opinion of the Court for the consideration of Crown Cases Reserved.

The question for the consideration of the Court was whether, under the above facts, the prisoner could properly be convicted of larceny.

Barrow, for the prosecution.

No counsel appeared for the prisoner.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Bramwell, B., Mallor, Montague Smith, and Hannen, JJ.) quashed the conviction, on the ground that it did not appear from the case that the question whether the prisoner had appropriated the money to his own use animus furandi had been properly left to the jury.

Conviction quashed.

Attorney for prosecution: H. D. Wildes.

IN THE GOODS OF A. HICKS.
Will—Memorandum of Revocation—Probate.

Algernon Hicks died on the 26th of April, 1869. On his death a will, dated the 4th of August, 1864, was found, which had been duly executed, but in which several bequests and the signature of the deceased had been struck through with a pen. Beneath the signature was written:—

"This, my last will and testament, is hereby cancelled, and as yet I have made no other.

"Witnesses thereto:

"ANN CARTER, Cook.

"MARY COLES, Housemaid."

"A. HICKS.

"August 14, 1868.

There was evidence to satisfy the Court that this memorandum had been duly executed by the deceased in the presence of two witnesses.

Dr. Tristram moved for administration with this memorandum annexed, to be granted to the widow of the deceased. As the memorandum revokes the will, it is testamentary, and should be admitted to probate.

LORD PENZANCE refused to grant probate of the memorandum, as it neither disposed of property nor appointed an executor. The applicant could take administration.

H. L. GEORGE UDNEY, APP.; JOHN HENRY UDNEY, RESP. June 3.
Domicil of Origin—Its Revival by Legal Operation.

In this case, which involved the succession to a large estate in Aberdeenshire, the House determined that the simple relinquishment of an acquired English domicile created an instantaneous revival of the original Scotch domicile, without any act done or intention shewn to revert to it; the principle being that, the moment a foreign domicile is abandoned, the native domicile revives ipso facto.

The effect of this ruling is, that the respondent obtains the benefit of legitimatum per subsequens matrimonium according to the Scotch law, and takes the Udney estate, which has been for four centuries in the family.

The appellants case was argued by himself. Sir Roundell Palmer, Q.C., Mellish, Q.C., Fraser (of the Scotch Bar), and Bristowe, for the respondent. Solicitors for the appellants: Connell & Hope. Solicitors for the respondent: Loch & MacLaurin.

H. L. PARTINGTON v. ATTORNEY-GENERAL. June 11.
Stamp Duty.

This was a proceeding in error from the Exchequer Chamber. The plaintiff in error had been appointed, under a power of attorney from James Cook, of Vermont, in the United States, to obtain letters of administration which would enable James Cook to recover property to which he alleged his mother to have been entitled as next of kin to a Mrs. Shard, deceased. Mrs. Shard died in 1819, and no will being found, and no next of kin appearing, the then solicitor of the Treasury, Mr. Maule, took the proper proceedings—collected the assets, paid all claims on the deceased's estate, and handed over the surplus to the Treasury. Mrs. Isabel Cook of Vermont was then alive, but put in no claim, nor did her husband, Mr. Ellis Cook. Both were domiciled in the United States. She died intestate, and he did not administer to her. He died intestate, and after his death James Cook set up his claim. Mr. Partington took out two administrations on his behalf—one to his father and one to his mother. In a proceeding in Chancery the claim was established, and Vice-Chancellor Kindersley made an order for the payment of the money to his representative Partington. There was a considerable sum of money, and interest was also due and declared to be payable. On the accounts being brought in, the Stamp Office required payment of duty on the two administrations, and also on the interest or accretions. The Court of Exchequer (1 H. & C. 457) held that duty was payable on the estate of Isabel Cook as increased by the interest, but that no duty was payable in respect of the estate of Ellis Cook. The Court of Exchequer Chamber affirmed the first part of this decision, but reversed the latter portion, and declared duty to be payable in respect of both estates (3 H. & C. 193).

This proceeding in error was then brought. Cotton, Q.C., and Holl, for the plaintiff in error. The Attorney-General (Sir R. P. Collier), Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Crompton Hutton, for the Crown.

THEIR LORDSHIPS unanimously affirmed the decision of the Exchequer Chamber as to the payment of duty on the interest; and Lords Hatherley, C., Chelmsford, Colonsay, and Cairns affirmed it as to the two administrations—Lord Westbury dis-sentiente.

Attorney for the plaintiff in error: Ewbanke.

Will—Power—Legacies.

The testatrix in this case having a general power of appointment by will over a sum of 7000*l.*, gave by her will several pecuniary legacies, and then bequeathed the residue of her estate subject to her debts. The Vice-Chancellor Stuart held that the gift of the legacies operated as an execution of the power under 1 Vict. c. 26, s. 27 (ante, p. 97).

The residuary legatees appealed.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Millar, in support of the appeal.

Greene, Q.C., and Cookson, on the other side, were not called upon.

DAWES' CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Forfeiture of Shares—Liability to Calls.

This was an adjourned summons for the judgment of the Court on the question whether J. S. Dawes was entitled to receive back from the voluntary liquidator of the above company the sum of 40*l.* paid by him in respect of a call.

Dawes was the holder of forty shares in the company, and having made default in payment of the second call, he applied for his shares to be forfeited.

On the 28th of November, 1866, a third call was made, which was payable on the 20th of December, 1866. On the 17th of December, 1866, Dawes' shares were declared forfeited. On the 19th of December, 1866, the company went into liquidation.

An application was made by Dawes to cancel the forfeiture, but it was held to be good in Dawes' Case (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 232).

The present question was whether, the forfeiture of the shares having taken place after the third call was made, but before it became payable, it could now be enforced.

The 34th clause of the articles of association provided that, "any member whose shares should have been forfeited should, notwithstanding, be liable to pay to the company all sums or calls owing upon such shares at the time of the forfeiture."

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Wickens, for the liquidator, contended that the call became due from the time when it was made, not from the day when it was payable.

Jessel, Q.C., and Eddis, contra, contended that the call was not a debt due to the company till after the date of the forfeiture.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the third call was a debt due to the company at the moment it was made, and was payable notwithstanding the forfeiture.

M. R. ROEBUCK v. CHADEBRY. June 11.
Practice—Partition Act (31 & 32 Vict. c. 40)—Partition and Sale.

This was a suit for partition, and it was desired to have a decree for partition of part of the property and sale of the rest.

Wickens, for the plaintiff, said the question had been raised whether the Partition Act enabled the Court to decree a partition and a sale in the same suit, but submitted that the power of the Court was clear. Two bills might have been filed—one praying for partition of the property desired to be partitioned, and the other praying for sale of the property desired to be sold; and there could be no doubt of the power of the Court to make decrees according to the prayers of the two bills; if so, the same thing might be done in one bill.

M. R. FREEHOLD LAND AND BRICKMAKING COMPANY v. SPARGO. June 12.

Practice—Bill by Company—Winding-up—Costs.

This was a bill filed in the name of the Freehold Land and Brickmaking Company Limited, now in course of liquidation, by the official liquidator.

Higgins, on behalf of one of the defendants, moved to dismiss the bill for want of prosecution.

Locock Webb said that the assets of the company were quite insufficient for the payment of the liquidator's charges; and inasmuch as the bill had been filed with the sanction of the Court, the liquidator ought not to be made to pay the costs of the motion.

[The Master of the Rolls said that, if an official liquidator filed a bill against a person, and it was dismissed with costs, the official liquidator must pay them. The usual order must be made.]

Higgins said that, by the order of the Court, a fund of 250*l.* was standing to the credit of this cause, in order to answer the defendant's costs; and he asked that the costs might be paid out of that fund.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the official liquidator was personally liable and must pay the costs in the first instance; if there was such a fund as had been mentioned, the liquidator would probably succeed in establishing a right to stand in the place of the person to whom the costs had been paid, but the order must be drawn up in the usual form.

V.-C. M. PERRIN v. BURBEY. June 9.
"Mortgage Priority."

This was a suit by Alice Perrin, an infant, against a Mr. Kent, the question being one of priority.

Kent's case was this:—In September, 1864, G. Perrin was in the occupation of a leasehold house at Lee, called Cambridge House, and was possessed of a deed by which it was assigned to him. In the same month he made a charge on Cambridge House in favour of Mr. Kent, and deposited the deed with him. In January and April, 1865, G. Perrin charged Cambridge House with further sums, and, by a memorandum dated the 17th of May, charged it with the balance of all sums due from him to Mr. Kent. This balance on that day amounted to 2550*l.*

By a deed expressed to be dated the 7th of April, 1865, G. Perrin mortgaged Cambridge House to Mr. Burbey and R. Perrin for 2500*l.*, but without disclosing any trust. It was, however, ascertained that this deed, although dated in April, was not executed until after the middle of May.

In March, 1866, an arrangement was come to by which Burbey and R. Perrin gave up their claims under the deed of April, and they and G. Perrin, and some other persons who had claimed an interest in the property, conveyed Cambridge House to Mr. Kent in consideration of the 2550*l.* due to him from G. Perrin.

The plaintiff's case was this:—By a settlement dated in 1861, made on the marriage of G. Perrin, certain property had been conveyed to Burbey and R. Perrin on the usual trusts for G. Perrin, his wife and children. Mrs. G. Perrin died, and the plaintiff was the only child.

In March, 1865, a sum of about 1300*l.*, part of the trust property, got into the hands of G. Perrin. This sum, it was stated, was expended by him on Cambridge House. Other sums belonging to the trust also got into the hands of G. Perrin. The sums obtained by G. Perrin in this respect amounted to 2500*l.* The mortgage of April was made to secure the above-mentioned sum.

The contention of the plaintiff was that the settlement trustees had acquired certain equities on Cambridge House, that these equities had priority to Mr. Kent, and that the possession by Mr. Kent of the title deeds ought not to give him any advantage.

Pearson, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff.

Osborne, Q.C., and B. L. Chapman, for Kent.

Glasse, Q.C., and Turner, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after going fully into all the circumstances, held that on the ground of "conduct," Mr. Kent had priority. He said that the cases of Stackhouse v. Countess of Jersey (1 J. & H. 721), Cory v. Eyre (1 D. J. & S. 149), and Newton v. Newton (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 135), had been much pressed upon him. His opinion was that, if A., being in possession of real estate, and having deeds evidencing his title to it, dealt with B. by way of charge or conveyance, and gave B. the title deeds, B. ought to have priority to all equities created by A. before his dealings with B. If the cases cited were not in accordance with this, he must express his strong disapprobation of them, and he thought the doctrine ought to be fully reconsidered. His opinion, however, was, that he was relieved from these cases by the circumstances of the case before him, and that, whatever were the principles established by these cases, Mr. Kent was entitled to priority, and that the bill must be dismissed against him with costs.

SUTOLIFFE v. HOWARD.

June 10.

Will—Joint Tenancy—Tenancy in Common—Gift to several during their respective lives, and, subject thereto, in trust for their respective Children.

The testator in this cause devised real estate to trustees in trust to apply the rents to and for the benefit of his brothers James and Samuel Howard and his sister Lucy North during their respective lives in such manner as the trustees should think fit, and, subject thereto, in trust for the respective children of his said brothers and sister, as tenants in common. The testator died in July, 1848; James Howard died in October, 1848, leaving children; Lucy North died in 1867, leaving children; Samuel Howard was living and had children.

The questions were whether the testator's brothers and sister took as joint tenants during their joint lives and the life of the survivor, or whether each of them took one-third for his or her life, and whether the children took per stirpes or per capita.

Dunning, for the plaintiffs, the trustees.

Glasse, Q.C., and J. T. Humphry, for Samuel Howard and his children, contended that the brothers and sister took as joint tenants, and that upon the death of the survivor the children of the three would take per capita.

Nalder, for the children of James Howard and Lucy North.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that each of the brothers and sister took a life interest in one-third of the property, and that upon the death of each, one-third was given over to his or her children as tenants in common.

AMORY v. BROWN.

June 8.

Pleading—Patent—Necessary Averments—Novelty.

This was a suit to restrain the defendant from using a patented invention relating to the ornamentation of muslins and other fabrics, of which the plaintiffs, Messrs. Amory & Eaton, trading under the title of John Heathcoat & Co., at Tiverton, were exclusive licensees.

The defendant, who appeared in formâ pauperis, besides alleging that the patented invention was not new, took the objection that the bill did not contain any averment of novelty of invention, or anything beyond a statement of the grant of the letters patent.

Amphlett, Q.C., T. Aston, and Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiffs.

Tripp, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiffs were entitled to a perpetual injunction. It was proved by the evidence that the invention was entirely new and of public utility; and the defendant had failed to establish any case against the patent on these grounds. It was then objected that the bill contained no averment of novelty. But, although such averments were usual, it was not absolutely necessary that the plaintiff should aver these matters in his bill any more than in a declaration at common law. The allegation of the grant and production of the letters patent threw upon the defendant the onus of raising the issue as to the novelty of the invention, by his answer, if he relied upon that defence; and as the defendant had failed in his contention, the plaintiff was entitled to a decree.

V.-C. J.

GEPPE v. MAJENDIE.

June 9.

Settlement—Power of mortgaging—Compound Interest—Prior Advances—Valid Exercise of Power.

By an indenture of disentail and re-settlement, dated the 1st of October, 1858, real estates in Essex were conveyed to trustees and their heirs, subject to certain mortgages, and to an estate for life of Ashurst Majendie (the grandfather), and to other powers, estates, and charges, including a mortgage of the 6th of September, 1858, to the use that Lewis Ashurst Majendie (the son) should from and after the death and failure of issue of the grandfather, and during the joint lives of Henry Lewis Majendie (the father) and himself, receive an annuity; and, subject thereto, to the use of the father for life; remainder to the uses created by the powers of mortgaging therein contained; and, subject thereto, to the use of the son for life, without impeachment of waste, remainder to the use of his first and other sons in tail male, with remainders over. The first power of mortgaging was a power for the son and the father, or the son if he should be the survivor, and after the decease of the survivor for the trustees, to raise by mortgage such sums as might be requisite to redeem the mortgage of the 6th of September, 1858, and pay costs; and that it should be lawful for the son and the father, or the survivor, and after the decease of such survivor for the trustees, by the means aforesaid, to raise and levy "so much money as should be requisite to pay the interest and compound interest which might from time to time accrue or become due" during the lifetime of the son and the father, or the survivor, upon or in respect of the moneys which should be raised and levied for the purpose of redeeming the said mortgage and paying costs, and the costs of such last-mentioned transaction—"all which moneys so to be raised as last aforesaid should be paid and applied in discharge of such interest, compound interest, and costs." The second power of mortgaging was a power for the father during his lifetime to mortgage to the extent of 5000*l.* for his own benefit, which was followed by a similar clause as to raising and levying such moneys as should be requisite to pay compound interest on the 5000*l.* and costs.

On the 5th of February, 1859, the son and father, in exercise of their joint power of appointment, charged the estates by way of mortgage. On the 4th of March, 1859, and on the 18th of February, 1860, they again exercised their joint power by mortgaging to the extent of 4400*l.*, and interest at 4½ per cent. On the 23rd of July, 1861, the grandfather, father, and son joined in assigning a debt of 6556*l.* and interest at 4½ per cent. then due on the indenture of the 5th of February, 1859.

On the 6th of January, 1863, the father died. The son being unable to pay the interest which accrued due on the indentures of 1859, 1860, and 1861, the requisite moneys were advanced by the plaintiffs, then in partnership as solicitors at Chelmsford, on the faith of an agreement that these sums should be secured to them by a mortgage. The grandfather died in 1867, and a mortgage to the plaintiffs for 600*l.* was effected by the son on the 18th of March, 1868.

Upon the occasion of all these mortgages coming to be transferred, the intended transferee took the objection that the mortgage of the 18th of March, 1868, was not a valid exercise of the power. The plaintiffs thereupon filed this bill, with the concurrence of the defendants, to try the question.

Amphlett, Q. C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs.

Waley, for the defendants, submitted that the parol agreement with the plaintiffs could not amount to an equitable exercise of a power; and that if the deed were a valid exercise of the power, there was nothing to prevent a man in this position from himself advancing the money, and charging the estate with compound interest in his own favour.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that that case might be left to be dealt with when it arose. There was nothing illegal in compound interest, and this mortgage seemed to be directly within the power. There would be a declaration that the power had been validly exercised by the indenture of the 18th of March, 1868.

Lands Clauses Act, s. 69—Application of Purchase-money in permanent Improvements.

A portion of a settled estate consisting of about 8 a. 1 r. 30 p. having been taken by a branch of the Great Northern Railway Company, under the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act, the compensation money, amounting to 1454*l.* 16*s.*, had been paid into Court to an account of Ex parte The Company, In re the Special Act, and In re The Lands Clauses Act.

This petition, presented by parties interested under the settlement, stated that part of the settled estates consisted of two granaries situate in Double Street, in the town of Spalding, on the bank of the river Welland; that the granaries had been unlet for many years owing to the trade having left the river for the railway, and were worthless as granaries, but covered an excellent site for houses at 10*l.* a year; that it was proposed to take down the granaries and erect houses of the above class instead; also to lay out part of the money in removing and improving the stack-yard and buildings attached to part of the estate near which the railway passed; and prayed that the fund might be carried over in trust in the title of the petition, and that as much as might be necessary for the purpose might be laid out, with the approbation of the judge in chambers, in alterations and permanent improvements, according to the specifications and provisional contracts that had been entered into, or with such modifications as should be approved by the judge.

Marten, in support of the petition, said that a similar order had been made by Vice-Chancellor Stuart, but desired to inform the Court that some doubt as to the jurisdiction had been once expressed by the Master of the Rolls and one of the Lords Justices.

T. Stevens, for the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after hearing the cases read, said that in the absence of authority he should have been disposed to grant the prayer of the petition, and in this case he thought circumstances of a sufficiently special nature had arisen to justify the Court in doing what was asked.

Ordered accordingly.

V.-C. J. In re KERR'S POLICY. June 11.

Simple Contract Debt—Deposit of Policy to secure Loan—No Agreement as to Interest—Interest allowed at 4 per cent.

John Kerr having insured his life with the London Life Association for 1000*l.*, some time before the 8th of July, 1850, deposited the policy with William Grace, to secure repayment of a loan of 800*l.* On the 8th of July, 1850, Grace gave notice of the deposit to the association. On the 19th of October, 1862, Grace died, leaving the present petitioner, Thomas Bowman, his executor.

On the 12th of July, 1850, there appeared in the London Gazette a notice that, by an indenture dated the 14th of June, 1850, John Kerr assigned all his personal estate and effects to Samuel Lowell Price, as a trustee for such of his creditors as should execute the deed within three months, and that such deed had been executed by Kerr and Price, and was then lying at the office of a Mr. Husband, solicitor.

The result of inquiries was that Mr. Husband had left the country in 1852, and the deed could not be found.

Kerr died in January, 1867, intestate.

The directors of the association paid the money into Court.

Administration to the effects of Kerr was afterwards granted to Augustus G. E. Murray.

Grace in his lifetime, and since his death the petitioner, had paid the premiums on the policy.

The petitioner claimed 411*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.* for principal, consisting of debt and advances for premiums, and 352*l.* 5*s.* interest, being at the rate of 5 per cent.

North, for the petitioner.

Higgins, for Price, the trustee of the deed, disputed the petitioner's right to any interest whatever; there not appearing to be any contract for repayment of interest on the debt.

Daniel Jones, for the administrator of Kerr.

Robinson, for the trustees of the insurance company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he should follow a decision of the Master of the Rolls in Ireland, which appeared to be the only authority on the point, and allow interest on this debt, but at not more than 4 per cent. He could not after this lapse of time act upon the lost deed. There would be a declaration accordingly; the amount to be verified by affidavit, or, in case the parties differed, an account to be taken in chambers; with payment out of the fund in Court. The costs of all parties, those of the trustees as between solicitor and client (not including charges and expenses), to be paid out of the fund; and the balance to the representative of Kerr.

V.-C. J. GRUNWELL v. GARNER. June 12.

Practice—Supplemental Order.

R. R. A. Hawkins applied for a supplemental order under these circumstances:—

The bill was filed for the administration of a testator's real and personal estate, to the residue of the proceeds of which the infant plaintiffs were entitled. The decree was made on the 25th of May, 1868, and it appeared that of the class entitled one child was born in January, 1869, after the decree; and also that another child had been born in January, 1868, whose birth was not known of at the time of the decree.

The registrar having considered that a supplemental bill was necessary, the present application was made.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the case of an increase of members of a class entitled was distinguished from that of a new interest coming into existence, and made the order, prefaced by the declaration:—"It appearing to be for the benefit of the infants that they should be bound by the decree."

Q. B. CARY AND ANOTHER v. DAWSON. June 8.

Bankruptcy—Provable Debt—Liability to Pay a sum of Money on a Contingency—12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 178; 24 & 25 Vict. c. 134, s. 154.

In January, 1866, a company lent a large sum in consols to be deposited by the promoters of a bill then before Parliament. The two plaintiffs, the defendant, and three others, entered into an undertaking with the company that, if the bill was thrown out, the consols should be returned, and if it passed, an equal amount of stock should be transferred to the company, and that a sum in the nature of interest on the value of the consols at the time they were lent, from the end of six months to the date of the transfer, should be paid to the company.

In June, 1866, the defendant was adjudged a bankrupt; in July he obtained his order of discharge. In August the bill was passed, but the consols were not transferred till July, 1867, and the plaintiffs were compelled to pay under the undertaking 500*l.* as the interest.

An action was then brought to recover contribution from the defendant of one sixth of the 500*l.*: and the defendant relied on his discharge in bankruptcy.

May 31. Murphy, for the defendant.

E. James, for the plaintiffs.

June 8. THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) held that, as this liability to pay interest depended on an uncertain event, viz. the date at which the consols happened to be transferred, the amount of liability was incapable of being ascertained, and was not a debt provable under 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 178, nor under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 134, s. 154; and the defendant was therefore not discharged.

Surveyor of Highways—Adverse Possession—3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27.

First count, for injuring the plaintiff's reversion to certain land by digging gravel and stones thereon. Second count, trespass for seizing gravel.

Pleas: 1. To whole declaration, Not Guilty. 2. As to second count, a denial of the land being in the possession of the plaintiff's tenant. 3. As to whole declaration, a justification of the grievances and trespass, alleging the land to be the defendant's, as surveyor of the highways in the parish of Messingham.

The plaintiff joined issue on the 1st and 2nd pleas, and replied the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27) to the last plea.

At the trial a verdict was taken for the plaintiff, subject to a special case.

The question was whether the title of the defendant, as surveyor of highways, to a gravel pit and road to it, had become extinguished by the adverse possession of the plaintiff for more than twenty years. From the year 1837 down to 1863 the surveyor of highways had ceased to take gravel from the pit, or to use the road to it, but it was contended that the surveyor did not by such non-user lose his right to gravel, inasmuch as the plaintiff had not been in actual possession.

In 1837 the plaintiff's tenant, who occupied the greater part of the land in which the pit was situate, commenced filling up part of the pit by casting into it several hundred loads of earth and rubbish, and from that time took the surface of that part of the pit into cultivation, and in 1839 another tenant ploughed up the road which led to the pit, and abutted on land in his occupation.

Barker (Hannay with him), for the plaintiff.

Quain, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT held that since 1837 the gravel pit had been treated as practically exhausted, and that the possession of the gravel pit and road was actually taken by the plaintiff in 1837 and 1839, and consequently the time of limitation began to run from those years respectively, and that the surveyor's title to the gravel pit had been extinguished.

Q. B. Ex parte WASON. June 9.

Vexatious Indictment Act (22 & 23 Vict. c. 17)—Duty of Justice as taking Recognisance of the Prosecutor—Conspiracy by Member of Parliament.

Rigby Wason moved in person for a rule calling on one of the Metropolitan Police magistrates to shew cause why he should not take the recognisance of the applicant (under 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17, s. 2) to prosecute a charge preferred by him before the magistrate against Earl Russell, Lord Chelmsford, and the Lord Chief Baron for conspiracy.

The information laid before the magistrate was, in substance, that on the 5th of February, 1867, he gave to Earl Russell a petition from himself to the House of Lords, which the Earl had previously promised to present; the petition charged the Lord Chief Baron with having, when Queen's Counsel, told a wilful and deliberate falsehood to a committee of the House of Commons, sitting as a judicial tribunal, and prayed an investigation of the charge, and the removal of the Chief Baron from his office by addresses from both Houses of Parliament, if the charge should be proved to be true; that Earl Russell, Lord Chelmsford, and the Lord Chief Baron prevented the course of justice, and injured and prejudiced the applicant, by making statements which they knew were not true in order to prevent the prayer of the petition being granted, and made their statements after conferring together; and that Earl Russell, Lord Chelmsford, and the Lord Chief Baron did thus, as the applicant believed, conspire to prevent the course of justice.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) were of opinion that it was the duty of the magistrate, under the Statute, to commit the person charged, or take the recognisance of the prosecutor if the information made out a prima facie case of an indictable offence having been committed; and that the Court of Queen's Bench would interfere by mandamus if the magistrate wrongly exercised his discretion, and had refused to take either of those courses on a proper case being made out. But that in the present case no indictable offence was disclosed; as members of neither House of Parliament are liable, criminally or civilly, for anything done or said in Parliament or out of Parliament in connection with their duties as members of Parliament; and the Court, therefore, refused a rule.

Q. B. BERRIDGE v. FITZGERALD. June 9.

Bill of Exchange—Notice of Dishonour.

The plaintiff having supplied stationery to the Industrial London Loan and Interest Company Limited, was about to sue the company, but agreed to take a bill of exchange for the amount accepted by the company if two of the directors endorsed it. The plaintiff accordingly attended at the office of the company, and a bill was drawn on the company by the plaintiff, was accepted on behalf of the company by the manager, and the defendant and another director, both of whom were in the habit of attending at the company's office, put their names to the bill as indorsers. The bill was dated the 22nd of April, 1868, at three months.

When the bill became due in July, 1868, it was not paid, the company then being wound up, and the plaintiff sent a notice of dishonour addressed to the defendant at the office of the company; but the defendant did not receive it till long afterwards, he having ceased to attend on the company becoming embarrassed. The plaintiff, being unacquainted with the defendant's private residence, made inquiries of one of the directors, and also at the office of another company with which there were negotiations for an amalgamation, but was unable to obtain the address of the defendant; the plaintiff, however, did not inquire at the office of the company.

The plaintiff issued a writ against the defendant on the 29th of July, and the defendant's address having been obtained, which was at Petersham, Surrey, the writ was served on the 4th of August.

The question was whether there had been a sufficient notice of dishonour, or, if not, whether there had been sufficient diligence in inquiry made by the plaintiff so as to excuse notice of dishonour.

Warton, for the plaintiff.

Hodgson, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) were inclined to think that there had not been sufficient diligence by the plaintiff; but they held that, under the circumstances, notice of dishonour left at the office of the company was a good notice to the defendant. Inasmuch as the bill was given for goods supplied to the company, and the whole transaction was a business transaction for the company, and took place at the office of the company, it might be taken that the defendant, not having given any other address, intended the plaintiff should treat the office of the company as the defendant's place of business, for the purpose of giving notice of dishonour if the bill was not paid at maturity.

thereto, and allow or disallow the claim thereby determined according to the event of such trial, and the costs attending such trial shall abide the event of the trial."

On a motion to review taxation:

Gray, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

T. Jones, Q.C., for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Mellor, and Hannen, JJ.) were of opinion that, inasmuch as the commissioners were to allow or disallow the claim in conformity with the event of the trial, so that part would be in favour of the plaintiff and part in favour of the defendant, the same construction ought to prevail as to the costs, and that "event of the trial" did not mean "event" as if it were a common action; that neither party therefore was entitled to the general costs, but each party was entitled to the costs of that part of the issue on which he had succeeded.

A rule was then obtained to allow the plaintiff his costs.

Cook shewed cause.

Finlay, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Mellor, and Hannen, JJ.) held that s. 5 applied to all actions whether triable in the County Court or not; and the Court, in reviewing the refusal of the judge to give the plaintiff his costs in an action in which less than the statutory limit has been recovered, will take into consideration all the circumstances of the case, and the fact that the action could not be brought in the County Court will be one element in determining the exercise of their discretion; and in the present case they discharged the rule.

Vestry—Notice for holding Vestry—Election of Churchwardens—District created under Church Building Acts—Sturges Bourne's Act (58 Geo. 3, c. 69), s. 1.

Rule for a mandamus calling on the Vicar and Churchwardens of Bloxwich to hold a meeting in vestry and elect churchwardens. Bloxwich is a district created under one of the Church Building Acts, and does not relieve its own poor.

A vestry meeting was held in Bloxwich on last Easter Tuesday, and churchwardens were elected. The notice for holding the vestry had been posted on the church door on the preceding Good Friday. The vestries in Bloxwich for the election of churchwardens had for the last thirty years been always held on Easter Tuesday, and the notices for the vestries had always been posted on the church door on the preceding Good Friday.

The question was whether the election of churchwardens was invalid in consequence of the notice for the holding of the vestry being insufficient under Sturges Bourne's Act (58 Geo. 3, c. 69, s. 1), which provides that "no vestry or meeting of the inhabitants in vestry of or for any parish shall be holden until public notice shall have been given of such vestry . . . three days at least

Q. B. HARDY v. FETHERSTONHAUGH. June 11.

Inclosure Acts—Costs of Trial of an Issue under 8 & 9 Vict. c. 118, s. 56—"Costs to abide the event of the Trial."

The defendant had rights of pasture awarded to him by a valuer under 8 & 9 Vict. c. 118, inter alia, in respect of 198 acres of land, and this award was confirmed by the assistant commissioner.

The plaintiff appealed against this decision, under s. 56, and brought an action on an issue, in which the plaintiff affirmed, and the defendant denied, that the decision of the commissioner was erroneous, so far as such decision confirmed the allowance of the claims of the defendant to rights of pasture in respect of the 198 acres.

At the trial of the issue, the plaintiff denied, and called witnesses to disprove, that the defendant had rights of common in respect of any of the 198 acres, and the defendant gave evidence to prove that he was entitled to rights of common in respect of the whole of the 198 acres.

A verdict was returned for the plaintiff in respect of about half of the 198 acres, and for the defendant in respect of the residue—the value of the rights thus allowed and disallowed being about equal.

By 8 & 9 Vict. c. 118, s. 56, it is enacted that, after verdict and final judgment, "the commissioners shall act in conformity before the day to be appointed for holding such vestry, by the publication of such notice . . . on some Sunday" on the door of the church.

J. O. Griffiths shewed cause, and argued that 58 Geo. 3, c. 69, did not apply to a district created under the Church Building Acts for ecclesiastical purposes, but only to vestries in ordinary parishes maintaining their own poor; that the notice was reasonable; and, therefore, that it was a sufficient notice.

Harington, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Lush and Hayes, JJ.) held that 58 Geo. 3, c. 69, s. 1, did not apply to a district like Bloxwich, formed under the Church Building Acts, and that the notice, being reasonable, was therefore good.

Rule discharged.

THE QUEEN v. LORD NEWBOROUGH AND OTHERS.

Special Constables—Appointment and Payment of Special Constables—Order for Payment to Treasurer—1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 41, ss. 1 & 13—Certiorari—Practice.

Rule for a certiorari to bring up an order of justices, whereby the treasurer of a county was ordered to pay 95*l.* 3*s.*, the amount of expenses incurred in providing special constables.

1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 41, s. 1, provides that, under certain circumstances, justices may appoint in the manner therein mentioned special constables for the preservation of the peace.

Section 13 provides that justices, "at a special session to be held for that purpose," may order reasonable allowances to such special constables for their trouble, &c., and that such order shall be made on the treasurer of the county, who is thereby required to pay the same, and is to be allowed all such payments in his accounts.

Before the last elections, the justices appointed special constables, who subsequently acted. The justices, at a petty session, ordered allowances to them for their trouble, &c., and made an order on the county treasurer for the payment of the sum. The money was duly paid by the treasurer to the special constables, and the payment was allowed when the treasurer's accounts were passed at the Quarter Sessions.

The order to the treasurer was not made at a special sessions held for that purpose. The order was general in its form, and was a simple direction to the treasurer to pay the money. It did not state any facts which gave the justices making it power to do so under 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 41. It was also alleged that the special constables had not been appointed under the circumstances and in the manner required by s. 1 of 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 41.

The question was whether these were sufficient reasons for quashing the order.

Maule, Q.C., and McIntyre shewed cause.

Poland supported the rule.

THE COURT (Lush and Hayes, JJ.) held that it was not necessary to decide whether the constables had been properly appointed, or whether the order was originally valid, but they expressed an opinion that the order was not valid, as it had not been made at a special sessions held for that purpose. They also thought that the form of the order was correct, as it was not an order in a contentious proceeding between parties. They decided that, under the circumstances, the proceedings ought not to be reopened, as the constables had acted, an order had been made for their payment, that order had been acted on, the money paid by the treasurer, and such payment allowed at Quarter Sessions; and as the granting of a certiorari is a matter for the discretion of the Court, and not a matter of right, they, in the exercise of such discretion, discharged the rule.

Rule discharged.

Vendor and Purchaser—Sale of Real Estate—Measure of Damages for Breach of Contract by Vendor.

The defendants, as mortgagees of a house, with a power of sale, sold it by auction to the plaintiff, the particulars of sale stating that possession would be given on completion of the purchase. The plaintiff soon afterwards contracted for a re-sale at an advance of 105*l.* On investigation the title was satisfactory, but on the plaintiff's requiring possession before completing the purchase, it appeared that the mortgagor was in possession, and refused to give it up. The defendants were in a position to have ousted him by ejectment, but they refused to complete the sale. On this the plaintiff brought an action for a breach of the contract of sale.

The Court of Queen's Bench held that, as the breach of contract arose, not from inability of the defendants to make a good title, but from their not having taken the necessary steps to secure the possession, the case did not come within the principle of Pitureau v. Thornhill (2 W. Bl. 1078), and the plaintiff was entitled to recover not only the deposit and the expenses of investigating title, but also damages for the loss of his bargain; and that the measure of damages was the difference in the value at the time of sale and at the time of the breach of contract; and that the profit which it was shewn the plaintiff could have made on a re-sale, uncontradicted by other evidence, was evidence of the enhanced value; and that the plaintiff was therefore entitled to recover the 105*l.* (Law Rep. 3 Q. B. 314).

Poor-rate—Non-rateability of Iron Mines—43 Eliz. c. 2.

Action for seizing the plaintiff's goods as a distress for a poor-rate.

The question raised was whether iron mines were rateable to the poor-rate under 43 Eliz. c. 2, which enables overseers to tax, for the support of the poor, "every occupier in respect of lands, houses, tithes, coal mines, or saleable underwoods."

Judgment in the Queen's Bench was taken pro formâ for the plaintiff: on error.

H. James, for the defendant, cited Jones v. Mersey Docks (35 L. J. (M. C.) 1; 11 H. L. C. 443), as having been supposed to have decided that every tenement was rateable.

Manisty, Q.C., for the plaintiff, was not heard.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Channell and Cleasby, BB., Byles, M. Smith, and Brett, JJ.) pointed out that Jones v. Mersey Docks was only a decision as to what was a beneficial occupation so as to make the occupier rateable, not as to what subject-matters were rateable; and they "thought it wiser [in the language of Tindal, C.J., in Crease v. Sawle (2 Q. B. at p. 886)] to abide by the construction which numerous decisions have given to the words of the Statute, and which has been for a long time acted upon;" and which decided that the occupier of an iron mine (coal mines alone being mentioned in the Statute) is not rateable.

MAYOR, &C. OF DORCHESTER v. ENSOR AND ANOTHER.

Market—Disturbance of Market—Municipal Corporation Act (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 76), s. 8—Limit of Borough.

Action for a disturbance of the plaintiffs' market, tried before Channell, B., at the last Summer Assizes at Dorchester.

By usage previous to the reign of Edward III., and by a grant of that reign confirmed by a charter of Charles I., the plaintiffs had a right to hold three markets every week—on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. The Friday market had been disused, but a small market was held every Wednesday and Saturday, and a great market was held every alternate Saturday for sheep, horses, and cattle.

The Municipal Corporation Act (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 76), by section 7, made the limits of the municipal the same with those of the parliamentary borough for the purposes of that Act; and by section 8 provided that, "every place and precinct which shall be included within the mete and bounds of any borough as herein-before provided, and none others, shall be part of such borough," without saying "for the purposes of this Act." (See Rawlinson's Mun. Corp. p. 14, n. (1)). After the Act the market was held in a place within the parliamentary but outside of the old municipal borough.

Evidence was given of disturbance of this market by the defendants, in holding a fortnightly sheep and cattle auction in a neighbouring field; and a verdict was entered for the plaintiffs, with leave to the defendants to move to enter the verdict for them if there was no evidence in support of the plaintiffs' right to the market, or if there was no evidence to go to the jury of a disturbance by the defendants, or for either defendant against whom there was no such evidence.

A rule having been obtained accordingly:

Jan. 19. Mellish, Q. C., Kingdon, Q. C., and Lopes, shewed cause.

Cole, Q. C., and M. Bere, supported the rule, and contended that the right to hold a market was gone by disuse and by the transference of the market to a place which, as they contended, was without the borough; and they also contended that there was no evidence of a disturbance by the defendants.

June 10. THE COURT (Channell, Pigott, and Cleasby, BB.) gave judgment, holding that the right to the market was not lost, the place where it was held being, on the true construction of 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 8, within the municipal borough, and the right being unaffected by the market for cattle being held only on alternate Saturdays; also holding that there was evidence to go to the jury of a disturbance by the defendants: but—inasmuch as their auction was not held on the same day as the plaintiffs' market, and was not, therefore, by intendment of law a disturbance, and no power was reserved to draw inferences of fact—directing a new trial.

P. & M. PEHELL v. HILDERLEY AND OTHERS. June 8.

Will and Codicil not duly executed—Document indorsed upon back of Will, headed "2 Codicil," and executed in accordance with the Form of, although not valid by, Law of the Country where made—Confirmation—Foreign Law—24 & 25 Vict. c. 114.

Captain Pechell died on the 20th of December, 1867, leaving a will written on one side of half a sheet of paper. It was dated "East Indies, August 1st, 1863," and was signed in the presence of one witness. On the back, or second side of the paper, were two indorsements: one headed "Codicil, April, 1866," was in the handwriting of Captain Pechell, and signed by him. The other, headed "2 Codicil," also in his handwriting, was signed by him, and dated "Genoa, June 20th, 1867."

The defendant Hilderley, as representative of the residuary legatee named in the will, propounded these papers. The material allegation in the declaration was that the paper writings upon the face and back of the testamentary document are testamentary documents made by the deceased wholly in his handwriting, and signed by him; and that the last indorsement is a codicil and testamentary disposition confirming and incorporating the preceding written disposition, and was made by a British subject then residing in parts beyond the seas, to wit, Genoa, in the kingdom of Italy, and is wholly in his handwriting, and is executed in a manner valid according to the provisions of the laws of Italy.

Signor Ottolenghi, an Italian advocate, gave evidence that the document called a "first codicil," which purported to have been written at Florence, was not executed in accordance with the law of Italy, inasmuch as it had not a perfect date; and that the second indorsement would, taken by itself, so far as the extrinsic form is concerned, be valid as a testamentary disposition, but, as an amendment to a will, it could not have an independent existence, and would be valid or invalid according as the will to which it was related was valid or invalid; and, lastly, that a will itself invalid could not acquire validity by the fact that a testamentary disposition properly executed was afterwards indorsed upon the back of it, even although such indorsement should refer in express terms to the date or contents of such will.

Underdown, for the defendant Hilderley.

Dr. Middleton, for the plaintiff.

LORD PENZANCE:—The will being originally invalid, and the codicil having neither the effect of establishing it, nor the right to be considered a testamentary paper standing alone, neither of these papers would be held valid in Italy, the country where the codicil was made. It has been argued, however, that by regarding the validity of these papers partly according to the law of Italy and partly according to English law, a valid will and codicil would be the result. By the law of Italy the codicil is well executed; and then, by the law of England, it being indorsed upon the will, and referring to it, operates as a republication of such will, and establishes it. I am of opinion, however, that in determining the question whether any paper is testamentary, regard must be had to the law of one country only at a time, and that the mixing up of the legal precepts of two different countries can only result in conclusions conformable to neither. The Court, therefore, must pronounce against all the papers.

P. & M. NOBLE v. NOBLE AND GODMAN. June 8.
Matrimonial Suit—Decree nisi—Marriage of Petitioner before Decree absolute—Adultery—Discretion—20 & 21 Vict. c. 85, s. 31.

On the 28th of November last the Judge Ordinary made a decree nisi for the dissolution of the marriage of the petitioner and the respondent.

On the 11th of December the petitioner married by license, at St. Matthew's Church, Ipswich, a woman named Rebecca Howe. This fact having been brought to the notice of the Queen's Proctor, on the 26th of April he entered an appearance in the suit, under the direction of the Attorney-General, and filed affidavits to establish the second marriage of the petitioner.

Mr. Noble in explanation stated that from want of means he had conducted his own case at the hearing, and that he understood, when the decree was made, that he was then fully divorced from the respondent, and was at liberty to marry again; that what he did was solely done from ignorance of the law, and not wilfully; that he had never concealed his second marriage, but, on the contrary, had inserted an announcement thereof in two local papers.

The Attorney-General and C. A. Middleton, appeared for the Queen's Proctor.

Inderwick, for the petitioner.

LORD PENZANCE said he was inclined to give credence to the statement of the petitioner that he believed he had been released by law from his former wife, and had, therefore, contracted a second marriage, and so committed adultery. Being satisfied that the petitioner had acted bona fide, he thought, under the circumstances, such adultery ought not to stand in the way of a decree for dissolution of marriage; and the decree would be made absolute.

M. R.	In re ESTATES INVESTMENT COMPANY.	June 12.
	Ex parte TURNLEY AND OLIVER.
	Company—Winding-up—Order obtained by Stranger to Company—Discharge of Order—Companies Act, 1862, s. 124.

The Estates Investment Company Limited, having been ordered to be wound up, Messrs. Turnley & Oliver carried into chambers a claim against the company, supported by the usual affidavit, on the 29th of June, 1867. Mr. Alcock, whose name was on the register of shareholders of the company, obtained an order at chambers for the cross-examination of Messrs. Turnley & Oliver, under which Turnley had been cross-examined. Since that time Mr. Alcock's name had been removed from the register of shareholders; and a motion was now made by Turnley to discharge the order of the 29th of June, 1867.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the motion.
Jessel, Q.C. (Everitt with him), for Mr. Alcock:—
This is in fact a rehearing of the original application, and comes too late (Companies Act, 1862, s. 124). But even if the order could be discharged, it ought not under the circumstances. Mr. Alcock was one of a number of shareholders, appearing by the same solicitors, who sought to have their names removed from the list. Mr. Alcock's name has been removed on the authority of Pawle's Case (ante, pp. 50, 94); but others of the shareholders remain liable as contributories, and ought to have the benefit of the proceedings.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the order of the 29th of June, 1867, having been made at the instance of an entire stranger to the company, was a nullity, and that he was of opinion that he had power to discharge it; but under the circumstances he would allow any person admitting himself to be a contributory to give a notice of motion for the purpose of obtaining the benefit of the proceedings, and in the meantime the present application would stand over for that purpose.

V.-C. J.	PUGH v. DREW.	June 12.
	Settlement—Freeholds and Leaseholds—Words of Inheritance—Trust by Reference.

Leaseholds were assigned to trustees, and by a settlement dated the 7th of March, 1818, the trusts were declared to be during the life of J. R. Pugh, to pay her the surplus rents for her sole and separate use, and after her death to apply the same towards the maintenance and education of her three children, W. R. Pugh, Jane Pugh, and Margaret Pugh (afterwards Browne). On their attaining 21, or marriage, the surplus rents were to be paid to them in equal shares, free from the control of husbands, and without power of anticipation. Subject to these trusts, in trust for all and every the children of W. R. Pugh, Jane Pugh, and Margaret Pugh, who, being sons, should attain 21, or, being daughters, should attain that age or be married, in equal shares; but nevertheless so that the children of each of them might only have their parents' third share, with a direction for the maintenance of such children during minority after their parents' death. In case W. R. Pugh, Jane Pugh, and Margaret Pugh should none of them have children, who, being sons, should attain 21, or, being daughters, should attain that age or marry, then in trust after the several deceases of W. R. Pugh, Jane and Margaret Pugh, for the settlor, W. B. Pugh (if then living), for his own absolute use and benefit; but if W. B. Pugh should be then dead, then in trust for Andrew Mann (one of the trustees), his executors, administrators, and assigns absolutely, for his and their own use and benefit.

Two freehold houses and also four leasehold properties were subsequently assigned by W. B. Pugh to the trustees, their heirs and assigns, for ever, and by an indenture of the 25th of January, 1817 (endorsed on the settlement of the 7th of March, 1818), it was declared that the trustees, their heirs and assigns, should stand possessed of the freeholds so assured to them and their heirs, and also that they and the survivors and survivor of them, their executors, administrators, and assigns, should stand possessed of the several leasehold hereditaments so assigned to them for all the then unexpired residue of the several terms of years, "upon such and the same ends, intents, and purposes, and subject to such and the same powers, provisoes, and declarations as in the said indenture of the 7th of March, 1818, are expressed, declared, and contained of and concerning the premises therein mentioned and described, or as near thereto as the difference of the respective estates of the trustees and their respective heirs, executors, and administrators therein respectively would admit, to the intent that the rents, issues, and profits of the said hereditaments and premises might be had, received, and taken, and the said hereditaments and premises held, sold, conveyed, and assigned, and the produce thereof paid and applied unto such person and persons, and in such manner and at such time and times in every respect as in the said indenture of the 7th of March, 1818, is expressed and declared of and concerning the premises therein particularly mentioned and described."

Jane Pugh had died unmarried and intestate, and the question that now arose was as to her third of the freehold hereditaments, which was claimed by John Pugh, the only son and heir-at-law of W. B. Pugh, on the ground that such third became, on the death of Jane Pugh, subject to a resulting trust in favour of himself, as heir of the settlor. The plaintiffs, on the other hand, contended that the trust, by reference to the previous settlement of leaseholds, was sufficient to pass the fee and to disinherit the heir.

Fry, for the plaintiffs.

Q. B. IN THE MATTER OF WALKER AND GRAVES. JUNE 12.

Copyright in Works of the Fine Arts—Expunging Entry of Memorandum of Copyright—Conviction—"Person deeming himself aggrieved"—5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, s. 14; 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, ss. 4, 5, 6.

This was a rule obtained by one Walker "as a person deeming himself aggrieved" under s. 14 of 5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, to expunge a memorandum of copyright entered at Stationers' Hall. Walker had been convicted under s. 6 of 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68 of selling photographic copies of a certain picture. The copyright of such picture was vested in Graves, and a memorandum of such copyright was entered at Stationers' Hall under s. 4 of 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68. In order to prove his proprietorship of the copyright, Graves put in evidence a copy of such entry at the hearing before the magistrates, under s. 11 of the 5 & 6 Vict. c. 45, which provides that such copy shall be prima facie proof of the proprietorship. Walker claimed no title to the copyright, nor did he rebut by other evidence Graves' prima facie title.

Giffard, Q.C., and Poland shewed cause.

Underdown, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Blackburn, Mellor, and Hannen, JJ.) held that, as Walker did not set up any title in himself, nor adduce any evidence to rebut the prima facie title of Graves, he was not a person aggrieved by the entry within the meaning of s. 14; and that, in order to come within the words "person aggrieved," the person applying for a rule to expunge the memorandum must shew that the entry is inconsistent with some right existing either in himself or in some person from whom he claims title, or that the entry really interferes with an intention to make copies of the registered work of art; and discharged the rule.

MYERS v. VEITCH.

JUNE 15.

Bankrupt, Detention of, after Production of Certificate of Protection—12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 118—Words "any Officer"—Gaoler.

The plaintiff, a bankrupt, while protected by an order of the Court of Bankruptcy, was arrested and lodged in W. gaol. When in gaol, he shewed his protection to the gaoler, and demanded his discharge, which the gaoler refused. He was detained five days, and ultimately discharged by an order of the Court of Bankruptcy. An action was brought against the gaoler for penalties under s. 113 of 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, which enacts that, if any bankrupt shall be arrested for debt, or on any escape warrant in coming to surrender, or shall after his surrender, and while protected by order of the Court, be so arrested, he shall, on producing such protection to the officer who shall arrest him, and giving such officer a copy thereof, be immediately discharged; and if any officer shall detain any such bankrupt after he shall have shewn such protection to him, except for so long as shall be necessary for obtaining a copy of the same, such officer shall forfeit to such bankrupt, for his own use, the sum of 5*l.* for every day he shall detain such bankrupt, to be recovered by action of debt . . ."

The question was whether the action would lie.

C. Russell, for the plaintiff.

Crompton, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Blackburn, Lush, and Hayes, JJ.) held that, as the section only authorized the officer who arrested the bankrupt to discharge him, they would not, in a section imposing a penalty, hold by implication that any other officer detaining him had authority to discharge him; and that the section must be confined to the officer who arrested the bankrupt, and whose duty it was to discharge him on production of his protection, and that the action would not lie.

JUNE 3.

Game—25 & 26 Vict. c. 114, s. 2.

Case stated by justices.

The respondents were seen in a highway by a constable, who believed that they had been illegally in pursuit of game, and endeavoured to take them. The respondents ran away, and the constable having shortly after found them in a house, the residence of one of them, searched them, and found traces of game recently killed on their clothes, and he also found nets in the house. The constable having summoned them under the provisions of 25 & 26 Vict. c. 114, the magistrates found that the respondents had been illegally in pursuit of game, but dismissed the charge on the ground that they had not been searched in the highway, but stated this case for the opinion of the Court whether they could properly have convicted them.

Kemplay, for the appellant.

Sturges, for the respondents.

THE COURT held that, though an actual search might not be necessary if the game, or instruments for taking or killing game, were seen in their possession, yet that it was necessary that such game or instruments should be found on them in a highway, and probably also necessary for the jurisdiction of the magistrates that they should be taken from them and detained. That in this case, no game or instruments having been found on them in the highway, the magistrates were right.

C. P. FINANCIAL CORPORATION v. LAWRENCE. June 3.
Debtor and Creditor—Composition Deed—Company.

This was a demurrer to a replication.

The declaration was for calls due to the plaintiffs in respect of shares held by the defendant.

The plea set out a deed of inspectorship duly made and registered by the defendant, and which contained a release by the creditors of their debts. The plaintiff replied specially that the call was made after the registering of the deed and before the winding-up of the company, and was made on the defendant, who was then the holder.

To this replication the defendant demurred.

C. Russell (Milward, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiffs.

Thesiger (J. Brown, Q.C., with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT held that the liability for calls was not, previously to the winding-up of the company, provable in bankruptcy, and that calls made after the registration of the deed, and before the winding-up of the company, were not barred; and they gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

Parliament—Lodgers—Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

Registration appeals.

The appellants were members of the University of Cambridge, and claimed to vote for the borough of Cambridge in respect of rooms occupied by them in one of the colleges. The appellant was in the first case a scholar, in the second a fellow, and in the third an undergraduate, not being a scholar. The revising barrister in each case disallowed the vote.

McLish, Q.C. (Lord with him), for the appellants, contended that, since they were not entitled to vote as householders, the colleges and not the occupiers of rooms being rated, they were entitled to do so as lodgers, and that the provision of 2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 45, s. 78, providing that members of the universities of Oxford and Cambridge should not vote for the city of Oxford or the borough of Cambridge in respect of their rooms in the colleges, did not apply to the franchises created under the Representation of the Peoples Act, 1867.

Sir J. D. Coleridge, Q.C. (S. G.) (Cockerell with him), for the respondent.

THE COURT held that the rooms in the colleges being structurally separate, the appellants were householders, and could not therefore be lodgers; and that the provisions of the 78th section of the Reform Act were incorporated in the Representation of the Peoples Act, 1867, by the effect of ss. 56 and 59 of the latter Act; and that on both grounds the revising barrister was right.

C. P. June 8.
NEW QUEBRADA COMPANY v. CARE AND OTHERS.
Bankruptcy—Partnership—12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 171.

Action for calls.

Plea: a set-off. Replication: that, after accruing of the set-off and after action brought, and before the plea was pleaded, one of the defendants became bankrupt, and his interest in the set-off passed to his assignee.

Demurrer to the replication.

Holl, in support of the demurrer, contended that the bankrupt's interest in the set-off did not pass to his assignees, since, in respect to it, he was only a trustee for the plaintiffs; and that, if not, the 171st section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1849, in effect made the debt due to the plaintiffs cease to exist, the mutual credit of the defendants being set off by force of the Statute.

Archibald, in support of the replication.

THE COURT, upon the authority of Stanniforth v. Fellowes (1 Marsh. 184), held that the 171st section of the Bankruptcy Act did not apply to a case where one of several partners became bankrupt; and that the replication was good.

LAURIE, PUBLIC OFFICER OF THE UNION BANK OF LONDON
v. SCHOLEFIELD.

Guarantee, Construction of—Part-payment by a Co-surety after Action—Pleading Rules of H. T. 1853, r. 14.

The defendant and one Black signed the following guarantee:—"In consideration of the Union Bank of London agreeing to advance and advancing to the firm of Russell & Co. any sum or sums of money they may require during the next eighteen months, not exceeding in the whole the sum of 1000*l.*, we hereby jointly and severally guarantee the payment of any such sum as may be owing to the said bank at the expiration of the said period of eighteen months, and undertake to pay the same on demand, in the event of Russell & Co. making default in the payment of the same."

The bank, on receiving this guarantee, placed 1000*l.* to the credit of Russell & Co.'s account with them, which was then overdrawn to the extent of 217*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.* Russell & Co. continued to draw cheques and to pay in moneys to the credit of their account; and when the account was closed, in December, 1867, the whole 1000*l.* was absorbed, and a balance remained of 24*l.* 9*s.* 1*d.* to their debit. The sums paid in from time to time to the credit side of the account during that period (including the 1000*l.*) amounted to 2608*l.* 16*s.* 11*d.*

After the cause was at issue, the co-surety, Black, paid the bank 500*l.* on account of his liability on the guarantee.

THE COURT held that the guarantee was a continuing guarantee for any balance which might be due from Russell & Co. during the period of eighteen months, not exceeding in the whole 1000*l.*; and that, in the absence of a plea of payment, pursuant to Rule 14 of Hilary Term, 1853 (Pleading Rules), the defendant was not in strictness entitled to the advantage of the payment made by Black in reduction of damages; but, in the exercise of their power to amend, they discharged a rule for a nonsuit or to reduce the damages (which had been assessed at the full amount), the plaintiff consenting that the verdict should stand for the sum found by the jury, minus the 500*l.*

COSBY v. MILLINGTON AND OTHERS.

Devise, Construction of—Description of Property devised.

John Cosby, being possessed of certain copyhold property at Fradley, in Staffordshire, and also of a freehold cottage and half an acre of freehold land there, devised the same to his daughter, Sarah Baxter, for life, and, failing issue of her marriage, to his son William for life, with power to him to appoint by will.

William Cosby, by his will, devised as follows:—"I give, devise, and bequeath all that my copyhold messuage, cottages, lands, and hereditaments situate, lying, and being in Fradley, now in the occupation of my sister Sarah Baxter, and to which I am entitled from and after her decease, that is to say, the house, cottages, and outbuildings, and one moiety or equal half part or share of the assid lands and hereditaments," unto Ellen Dale, for life, remainder over.

A Lloyd's policy in the usual form, on the plaintiff's vessel Smyrna, was made "subject to the running-down clause," as per slip attached.

The slip was as follows:—"And we the assurers do further covenant and agree, that in case the said vessel shall by accident, or negligence of the master or crew, run down or damage any other ship or vessel, and the assured shall thereby become liable to pay, and shall pay, as damages any sum or sums not exceeding the value of the said vessel Smyrna and her freight, by or in pursuance of any judgment of any Court of Law or Equity given in any suit or action defended with our previous consent in writing, we the assurers shall and will bear and pay such proportion of three-fourth parts of the sum so paid as aforesaid as the sum of 6000*l.* hereby assured bears to the value of the said vessel Smyrna and her freight."

The Court of Common Pleas held that the plaintiff was not entitled to recover any portion of the costs of the defence, either under the suing and labouring clause or the running-down clause (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 630).

Railway Company—Negligence of Servants, causing Injury to a Passenger.

The plaintiff, a passenger by the defendants' railway, was in the act of getting into a third-class carriage at a station, the train not being in motion. Having a parcel in his right hand, he placed his left hand on the back of the open door to aid him in mounting the step. There was evidence that there was a proper handle affixed to the carriage for the purpose of assisting the passengers in entering; but the night was dark and the station ill lighted, and the defendant did not see the handle. Before he had completely entered the carriage, the guard, without any previous warning, forcibly closed the door and crushed the plaintiff's hand between the door and the door-post. In an action for the injury thus sustained, the majority of the Court of Common Pleas held that the jury were justified in finding in favour of the plaintiff that the guard was guilty of negligence; and that there was no evidence of contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff. Montague Smith, J., dissented from this latter view, conceiving that by putting his hand in the position he did, knowing that the door was about to be closed, the plaintiff was guilty of negligence which contributed to the injury, and therefore was not entitled to recover (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 368).

Upon appeal:

THE COURT OF EXCHEQUER CHAMBER affirmed the judgment of the majority, holding that, though the plaintiff might have been somewhat incautious in placing his hand where he did, that did not absolve the company from responsibility for the consequences of their servant's negligence in shutting the door upon him without some previous warning, as in Richardson v. Metropolitan Railway Company (Law Rep. 3 C. P. 374, n).

JUNE 18.
FOWLER AND ALLEN v. BISHOP OF GLOUCESTER, ANDERSON, AND WALLACE.

Church Building Act (5 Geo. 4, c. 103), Construction of—Election of Life Trustees.

By section 6 of the 5 Geo. 4, c. 103, for promoting the building of additional churches, it is enacted that "the several and respective persons proposing to build or purchase any such church or chapel, and their assigns, respectively subscribing for that purpose sums of not less than 50*l.* each, shall elect three trustees from amongst themselves, for the management and general regulations of the temporal affairs of such church and chapel, and for the nomination to the bishop, for a limited period, of a spiritual person to serve the same; and such trustees shall be called life-trustees of such church or chapel, and shall continue such trustees so long as any spiritual person nominated by them under the provisions of this Act shall serve such church or chapel."

Section 7 enacts that, "in case any of the persons first appointed life-trustees of any such church or chapel shall during the period above mentioned happen to die, or shall signify to the other life-trustees his resignation of such trust, it shall be lawful for the majority of the persons who have subscribed towards the building or purchasing such church or chapel sums not less than 50*l.* each, and being owners or renters of pews in the same, who shall be present at any meeting to be called for that purpose, and which meeting any one or more of such trustees are hereby authorized and required to call and appoint, upon fourteen days' notice at the least being affixed to the door of such church or chapel upon the two Sundays next preceding the day on which such meeting is intended to be held, from time to time to nominate and appoint, by writing under their hands, any other person having subscribed a sum not less than 50*l.*, and being an owner or renter of a pew in such church or chapel, and a member of the Church of England, a life-trustee in the place of the life-trustee so dying or resigning; and every such new life-trustee shall in every respect be vested with such and the like powers and authorities, to all intents and purposes, as the person to whose place he may be nominated and appointed as aforesaid."

Section 8 enacts that, "if the number of persons subscribing to build or purchase such church or chapel shall not exceed three, such person or persons shall be and be deemed to be the life trustee or life-trustees of such church or chapel under the provisions of this Act, and shall have, use, and exercise all such and the like powers and authorities to all intents and purposes as any such life-trustee as aforesaid chosen under the provisions of this Act may use and exercise; and, in case of the death or resignation of any such life-trustee, the person nominated by him, being a member of the Church of England, by his last will and testament, or by any instrument signed by him, shall be a life-trustee in his place."

Section 12 enacts that "the life-trustee or trustees of any such church or chapel which shall be built or purchased by private subscription may nominate for the first two turns which shall occur after the consecration of the church or chapel, or for any number of turns which may occur during the space of forty years after the same, to the bishop of the diocese, for his approbation and license, a spiritual person to serve the same; and all subsequent nomination shall be in the incumbent of the parish or extra-parochial place in which such church or chapel shall be built or purchased, unless in case of such chapel being made a district church as hereinafter mentioned, in which case such subsequent nomination shall be in the patron of the church of the original parish; and, in case of any neglect of any trustee or trustees, patron or incumbent, respectively to make such nomination, the same shall lapse, as in the case of actual benefices; and if all the subscribers entitled to elect trustees shall die before such nominations shall have been made, or such forty years shall have elapsed as aforesaid, then and in every such case the nomination shall be made by the incumbent during such period: Provided also, that, if all such subscribers shall die, so that no such election of any trustee can be made, and any one of the trustees for the time being shall die or vacate, then and in every such case the incumbent for the time being shall be and become a trustee, to use and exercise all powers and authorities given to trustees under the provisions of this Act."

The plaintiff Fowler and several others, more than three in number, in 1830 subscribed each 50*l.* and upwards towards the building of the church or chapel of the Holy Trinity, Hotwells, Bristol. In October in that year, three life-trustees, duly elected, nominated the Rev. John Hensman to the incumbency. He resigned in January, 1845, and was replaced, upon the nomination of the then three life-trustees, by the Rev. H. Allen. In April, 1864, the three then life-trustees being Hensman, Harford, and Hilhouse, the first-named trustee (Hensman) died; and at that time the only surviving subscribers of 50*l.* and upwards were the two elected trustees, Harford and Hilhouse, and the plaintiff Fowler. On the 16th of April, 1866, Harford died; and in July, 1866, Fowler, without communicating with Hilhouse, gave fourteen days' notice of a meeting to elect trustees, and, on the day named, attended and nominated himself a life-trustee. Hilhouse died on the 9th of April, 1867, leaving Fowler the only surviving subscriber of 50*l.* and upwards.

The Rev. H. Allen resigned on the 11th of August, 1867; and on the 19th, the defendant Anderson, the incumbent of the parish, nominated the co-defendant Wallace to the incumbency. On the 22nd of the same month Fowler nominated the co-plaintiff, the Rev. John Allen.

On the 5th of September, 1867, Fowler gave fourteen days' notice of a meeting to elect life-trustees, and on the 20th again nominated himself.

The Court of Common Pleas (Brett, J., dissenting) held that the nomination by Fowler of himself as a life-trustee was not warranted by the Statute, and gave judgment for the defendants.

ASTLEY AND ANOTHER v. GURNEY AND OTHERS.

Bankruptcy—Mutual Credit—12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 171—Deposit of Goods, with Authority to Sell, and of Bills as Collateral Security for Advances.

The defendants accepted bills for J. & Co., who undertook to provide funds to meet them before maturity, and, by way of collateral security, deposited with the defendants goods and bills, which bills were indorsed by J. & Co. to the defendants, and became due on the same day as the defendants' acceptances. Before the maturity of the bills, J. & Co. became bankrupt, having previously given their assent to the sale of the goods, and to the proceeds being received by the defendants. The bills which had been deposited with the defendants as collateral security were paid at maturity, and these together with the proceeds of the goods left a balance, after providing for the defendants' acceptances for securing which the deposit had been made.

In an action by the assignees of J. & Co. to recover such balance, the Court of Common Pleas, upon a special case stated for their opinion, held that, as regarded the proceeds of the goods, J. & Co. had given credit to the defendants, within the meaning of the Mutual Credit Clause (s. 171) of the 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106; but that, as regarded the proceeds of the bills so deposited as collateral security, there was no such credit given, and consequently the defendants were not entitled to retain that money as satisfaction pro tanto of a debt due to them from the bankrupts.

The majority of the Exchequer Chamber, on error (Kelly, C.B., dissenting), affirmed their judgment.

CAREW v. DUCKWORTH.

June 21.

Cheque—Reasonable Expectation of Cheque being Paid.

Action by the plaintiff, as holder of the defendant's cheque for 30*l.*, admitting that there was no notice of dishonour, but averring that there were not sufficient or any funds to meet the cheque, and that the defendant had no reasonable expectation of the cheque being paid.

Plea, traversing these allegations. Issue.

The cause was tried before Pigott, B., in the Middlesex Sittings in Trinity Term. It was proved that the cheque was given on the 26th of February, and it was then agreed that it should not be presented for several days. The cheque was presented on the 10th of March, and dishonoured. Between the 2nd and 10th of March there was a fluctuating balance at the bankers, but never sufficient, either at the beginning or the end of the day, to meet the cheque. Sums of money were from time to time paid, which would have been sufficient to meet the cheque, but the sums so paid in were so far drawn out in the course of the day by cheques or bills as to leave insufficient to meet the cheque held by the plaintiff.

The jury found that the defendant never had any reasonable expectation of the cheque being paid. A verdict was entered for the plaintiff, with leave reserved to the defendant to move to enter a verdict for him. A rule having been obtained accordingly, and for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against evidence:

Francis shewed cause.

Sharpe (Parry, Serjt., with him) supported the rule.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Channell, and Cleasby, BB.) discharged the rule, holding that the finding of the jury was right; and that, so far as the excuse of notice of dishonour depended on the ground that there were no assets, it was enough to show that there were no practically sufficient assets during the time within which the cheque ought to be presented.

WHEELER AND OTHERS, CHURCHWARDENS OF THE PARISH OF ST. ANN'S v. METROPOLITAN BOARD OF WORKS.

Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (8 Vict. c. 18), s. 133—Poor-rate.

Special case, raising the question whether under s. 133 of 8 Vict. c. 18, the defendants were liable to make good the deficiency of the poor-rate in the plaintiffs' parish, caused by their having taken lands for the purpose of making new streets, under special Acts incorporating that section. The improvements were incomplete, and it was not at present known how much, or whether any portion, of the land would be ultimately used in such a way as to be incapable of beneficial occupation.

Prentice, Q.C. (Mortimer with him), for the plaintiffs, relied upon Muyor of London v. St. Andrew's, Holborn (Law Rep. 2 C. P. 574).

Raymond, for the defendants, contended that the decision cited only established that under s. 133 the defendants could not be rated, not that they could be sued; that acting in the interest of the public they were not within the reason or meaning of the section, which referred only to private speculators; and, further, that the section only applied to land which, when the works were finished, would be liable to be rated.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Channell, and Cleasby, BB.), without deciding whether the section would apply after the completion of works incapable of beneficial occupation, held that it certainly applied in the present state of things; and followed and approved of the case cited.

Lloyd, Q.C. (W. G. Harrison with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Channell, and Cleasby, BB.) gave judgment for the defendants, holding that the rule applicable in an ordinary case of purchase and sale was applicable to the case of a compulsory purchase under statutory powers, and that before conveyance the plaintiff could not recover for the price, but could only sue the defendants for refusing to complete.

P. & M. WRIGHT v. ROGERS AND GOODIEON. June 15.
Will—Execution—Signature of Witnesses in Presence of Deceased—Adverse Evidence of surviving attesting Witness.

Mr. Pearce died on the 4th of April, 1868, and on the 23rd of April, 1868, probate of his last will, dated the 2nd of April, 1868, was granted to the defendants, the executors therein named. Subsequently a citation, on the application of the plaintiff, was served upon them to bring in the probate, which they did, and propounded the will. The plaintiff thereupon pleaded that the will was not executed in accordance with the provision of the Statute 1 Vict. c. 26.

The will propounded was signed by the testator, and had a complete attestation clause, with the names of two witnesses subscribed; namely, of Mr. Bell, an attorney, and of his clerk, Mr. Haynes. Before probate issued an affidavit as to interlineation and as to due execution was made by Mr. Bell. This affidavit was a printed form, filled up in the handwriting of Mr. Haynes. Mr. Bell died on the 17th of March, 1869, and a few days afterwards, in consequence of a request made to Haynes by his then employer to write down on paper the circumstances attending the execution of this will, he, for the first time, stated that, although Mr. Pearce signed his name to the will in the presence of Mr. Bell and himself, in consequence of Mr. Pearce's exhausted state, and their anxiety to get another document executed by him before his death, he and Mr. Bell omitted to attest the will in the presence of the deceased, but subscribed the same afterwards in Mr. Bell's office. No other witness was produced either to disprove or corroborate him as to this fact; but his statement was shewn to be inaccurate as to some unimportant matters which preceded the execution.

Serjt. Ballantine (Inderwick with him), for Mrs. Winterburn, an intervener.

Keane, Q.C. (Dr. Swabey with him), for the plaintiff.

LORD PENZANCE:—As it has been proved that the testator signed his will in the presence of two witnesses, one an attorney of large experience, and that the witnesses subscribed a full attestation clause, the strongest presumption arises that the will was duly executed. This presumption can only be rebutted by very clear evidence to the contrary. I have here the evidence of only one witness to the effect that the witnesses did not sign their names in the presence of the deceased, whilst both the witnesses subscribed an attestation clause, which states that they did so. Moreover, the witness who now deposes against due execution immediately after the death of the testator, stood by and assented to an affidavit made by his fellow witness to the effect that the will was duly executed. I cannot rely upon his recollection of what took place; and, taking all the circumstances into consideration, I have come to the conclusion that the will was duly executed, and I grant probate of it.

Contingent Legacy—Infant—Direction for Maintenance.

By a codicil to his will Dr. Daubeny gave a sum of 1800*l.* unto and equally between such of the children of his nephew, Edward Richards, deceased, as should live to attain 21 years, or, being a daughter or daughters, should marry under that age; and he empowered his executors to apply all or any part of the expectant share of any of such children, or the income thereof, towards his or her maintenance or education, or otherwise for his or her benefit during minority, as they, his executors, should think proper.

The acting executor, who was also residuary legatee, paid into Court, under the Trustee Relief Act, the corpus of the legacy, together with interest thereon from the death of the testator, without prejudice to the question whether the legatees were entitled to such interest.

The question was now raised on a summons that the interest should be applied towards the maintenance of the legatees, who were infants.

Chapman Barber, for the infants.

Fooks, for the residuary legatees.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the legacy carried interest from the death of the testator.

Practice—Amending Bill—Order of Course—Cons. Ord. ix. Rule 10.

In this case the plaintiff, after the answer to the original bill had come in, obtained special leave to amend; and, the answer to the amended bill having been put in, now applied for an order of course to amend a second time. The secretary of the Master of the Rolls declined to draw up the order, being doubtful whether Cons. Ord. ix. Rule 10 applied.

Southgate, Q.C., now mentioned the point, and referred to Wharton v. Swann (2 My. & K. 362).

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS directed the order to be drawn up. Solicitors: Miller & Miller.

M. R. WILKINSON v. LINDGREN. June 28.
Will—Trust “for any other Religious Institution or Purposes as A. & B. may think proper”—Trust for uncertain Objects.

Testator, by his will, gave legacies to various religious societies and institutions, and bequeathed his residue to his executors, T. Fletcher and J. Wilkinson, upon the following trust:—“To divide the same to and amongst the different institutions, or to any other religious institution or purposes as they (the said T. Fletcher and J. Wilkinson) may think proper, which disposition I leave entirely to their discretion.”

The question was whether the residuary gift was void, as being a trust for uncertain objects.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the surviving trustee of the will.

Rozburgh, Q.C., and Phear, for the next of kin.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held, on the authority of Morice v. Bishop of Durham (10 Ves. 522), that the gift of the residue failed, and that it went to the next of kin.

Solicitors: Gregory & Co., agents for Cooper & Son, Manchester; Masterman.

M. R. WAGSTAFF v. WAGSTAFF. June 29.
Will—Construction—Residuary Gift of personal Estate of which Testator is “now” possessed.

This was a suit for the administration of the estate of James Wagstaff, who, by his will dated the 22nd of July, 1865, and after making certain specific bequests, proceeded as follows:—“I desire that all my ready money, bank and other shares, freehold property, plate (family), pictures, and coins, books, and any other property that I may now possess, except the house situated at Plumstead, in the county of Kent (this belongs to my daughter Elizabeth), shall be valued, and if necessary sold, the proceeds to be divided into eight parts, in the following manner:—First to my only and loveable daughter, Elizabeth Wagstaff, two eighth shares; the remaining six parts to be equally and jointly divided among my six sons” (naming them); “all debts that are now due, or that may fall due on any liabilities that may arise out of this my estate to be equally divided among and settled by the said six sons above named.”

The testator died on the 13th of August, 1867. He was entitled to certain real estate at the date of his will, but did not acquire any subsequently. The question was whether the residuary bequest was confined to personal estate, of which the testator was possessed at the date of his will, or extended to all personal estate of which he was possessed at the time of his death.

Jolliffe, for the plaintiff, and

W. W. Cooper, for the defendant, contended that only the personal estate of which the testator was possessed at the date of his will passed thereby.

Southgate, Q.C., and Marten, contra, were not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the will must be construed as speaking from the death of the testator, and that it passed all the personal estate of which he was then possessed.

Solicitors: Shearman; Bennett & Paul; Morten & Meadow.

M. R. KIRKMAN v. LEWIS. June 29.
Will—Statute of Mortmain—Residue after Gift for illegal Purpose.

This was a suit for the administration of the estate of a testator, who by his will directed the residue of his personal estate and effects to be converted into money, and the money applied in the construction of a well and the erection of a pump and tank in any convenient place in the village of Llangorse; and if there was any surplus, he directed the same to be paid to the rector for the benefit of the schools there.

The question was whether this gift was valid to any and what extent.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C. (Bagshaw with him), for the plaintiff the executors.

Wickens, for the Attorney-General, submitted that there was a good charitable gift for supplying water to the parish of Llangorse; or, at all events, if that were bad, still it could easily be ascertained how much the sinking of a well would cost in that place, and the gift of the surplus would be good.

Jessel, Q.C. (Kingdon with him), contra.

Southgate, Q.C., E. Cutler, Bury, and Sladen, for other parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the gift for making a well was void by the Statute of Mortmain. It was impossible to ascertain how much a well would cost without sinking it; it was therefore impossible to ascertain of how much the surplus would consist; and the whole gift therefore failed.

Solicitors: Cutler & Turner; Raven & Bradley; Ralph Watson; G. H. Oliver; Kynaston & Gasquet.

M. R. ROWLAND v. CUTHBERTSON. June 30.
Dower—General Devise of Real Estate—Dower Act (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 105), ss. 4, 9.

This was a creditor's suit for the administration of the trusts of the will of Alexander Cuthbertson, dated the 8th of November, 1864. After directing that all his just debts and funeral and testamentary expenses should be fully discharged and paid by his executrix and executor thereafter named, the testator devised and bequeathed all his freehold and personal estate and effects whatsoever and wheresoever situate, and of what nature, quality, or kind the same might be, subject as aforesaid to Howell Gwyn and David Howell Morgan, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, upon trust to permit the testator's wife and his five children to use the testator's personal estate (as should not consist of money), and receive and take the rents, interests, and profits of his said estate and effects, subject as aforesaid, in equal shares as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants; but it was his will and meaning that the share and interest so given to his said wife should, upon her death, cease and determine, and from and immediately after her decease, then to hold the same upon trust for the testator's said five children, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, equally to be divided between and among them, share and share alike, as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants. And he appointed his wife and his son Howell executrix and executor of his will.

The testator married subsequently to the time when the Dower Act came into operation, and he had had real estate conveyed to him without any declaration against dower. The question was whether his widow was entitled to dower out of the lands so conveyed to him.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Salmon, for the plaintiff.
Southgate, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the widow.

V.-C. S. SHARP v. DE ST. SAUVEUR. June 9.
Deed, Construction of—Trust for Sale of Realty—Will—Alien—“Landed Property”—Realty or Personalty.

By a deed dated the 10th of March, 1862, certain freeholds and copyholds to which the Baroness De St. Sauveur was entitled were conveyed by her and her husband to trustees upon trust to sell, exchange, or make partition of them, and in case of a sale to pay the purchase-money as therein directed; but until the sale the trustees were to pay the rents as the baroness should by deed or will appoint, and in default they were to be hers absolutely. The baroness by her will, dated in August, 1862, bequeathed to her husband, the Baron De St. Sauveur, all her landed property situate at Ealing, for life. The baron was an alien. The Ealing property, which was subject to the trusts, had not been sold. The questions were whether the property passed under the will as realty or as personalty, and whether the baroness, by using the words “landed property” in her will, had or had not elected to treat the Ealing property as realty, notwithstanding the trusts in the deed, and the rule in Equity that what was directed to be done must be considered as done in reference to the conversion of property.

Karslake, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the plaintiff, the trustee.
Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Cookson, for the defendant, the baron, submitted that the property must be dealt with as personalty.

Hardy, Q.C., and Higgins, for the customary heir of the baroness.

Greene, Q.C., and G. T. Edwards, for the co-heiresses-at-law and an annuitant under the will.

Wickens, for the Crown.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, upon the construction of the deed, the property must be treated as personalty. The words “landed property” might be considered as equivalent to all the testator’s “estate and interest in land” at Ealing, and if those words had been used by the testatrix, they would have passed the purchase-money or the right to receive the purchase-money of land subject to the trusts. The testatrix must be considered as having by her will elected to treat her unsold land as personalty, and there would be a declaration to that effect, and an order for sale of the property.

V.-C. S. WOOTTON v. WOOTTON. June 9.
Marriage with a deceased Brother’s Widow—Settlement made on the Marriage cancelled.

The plaintiff Henry Wootton and the defendant Hannah Wootton (who was the widow of William Wootton, a brother of the plaintiff, and who died in 1853), in December, 1860, went through the ceremony of marriage, and they subsequently cohabited together.

In contemplation of the marriage a settlement of certain property of the plaintiff and the said defendant was made, and certain trusts were declared.

The bill alleged that the settlement was void, and that the plaintiff was ready to give up to the said defendant all her property; and the plaintiff prayed that the deed might be declared to be founded on a bad and illegal consideration, and void and of no effect; that it might be set aside and delivered up to be cancelled; and that, if necessary, the trustees might be ordered to reconvey the trust property, the plaintiff being willing to account to the said defendant for all her property which had come into his possession.

There were no children of the marriage, and the defendant Hannah was 53 years of age.

Davey, for the plaintiff.
Rendall, for the defendant Hannah Wootton.
Wickens, for the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made a decree in the terms asked, and ordered the plaintiff to pay all the costs of the suit.

V.-C. S. SKIDMORE v. BRADFORD. June 11.
Contract to Buy by way of Advancement—Death of Testator.

Jacob Bradford, who had adopted his nephew, on the 14th of February, 1867, directed the vendor of certain warehouses, for the purchase of which he had been in treaty for 5000*l.*, to alter the draft agreement by inserting, as purchaser, the name of his nephew, Edward Bradford. He paid 1000*l.* deposit, and told the vendor his nephew should call and sign the agreement. A few days afterwards the nephew called and signed the agreement, which was made out in duplicate. The testator gave his nephew the receipt for 1000*l.*, and shortly afterwards gave him a further sum of 500*l.* on account of the purchase-money. In May, 1867, the testator died without completing the purchase, leaving a will executed long prior to the contract, and a bill was filed to administer his estate, in which a decree was made directing certain inquiries. The chief clerk certified that the testator had adopted the nephew, and intended, by the contract, the purchase by way of advancement.

On a summons by the executor to complete the purchase out of the testator’s assets, the summons was adjourned into Court.

Charles Hall and Russell Roberts, for the plaintiff.
Dickinson, Q.C., and Fischer, for the nephew.
Karslake, Q.C., and C. T. Simpson; Greene, Q.C., and Haddan; and Schomberg, Q.C., Jackson, and T. A. Roberts, for parties interested in the testator’s assets.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said this was a case in which the nephew had incurred liabilities on the faith of the testator’s promise, and the balance of the purchase-money must be paid out of his estate.

Solicitors for the plaintiff and the nephew: Chester & Urquhart.
Solicitors for parties interested in the assets: Randell; Pinnell.

V.-C. M. PRONJÉ v. MATTHEWS. June 12.
French Settlement—Settlement of Wife’s Savings.

The plaintiff, a Frenchman, married Harriet Pronjé, an Englishwoman, in 1829, at Paris, and a settlement was then executed according to the French law, providing for a community of goods acquired during marriage, and the property of the one who died first was to belong to the survivor.

In 1830 Mdme. Pronjé eloped from her husband, and in 1832 she gave birth to a child called Léon. In 1838 Mdme. Pronjé went to Calcutta with a M. Chevrot (not the man with whom she eloped), and lived with him as his wife till his death in 1847. She afterwards continued at Calcutta, and entered into trade, which was successful, and she realised about 10,000*l.* Her son Léon died in 1856, leaving an illegitimate daughter, who was brought up, maintained, and educated by Mdme. Pronjé, with the knowledge and concurrence of the plaintiff. Mdme. Pronjé, having returned to France, communicated with Messrs. Matthews (solicitors in London), and expressed a desire that her property should be secured for her grandchild. These communications amounted, as it was alleged, to a settlement of her property upon herself for life, and then upon her grandchild; and a sum of 2800*l.* was transmitted by her to Messrs. Matthews, and invested by them upon these trusts. Securities for a further sum of between 5000*l.* and 6000*l.* were deposited by Mdme. Pronjé with a friend, for the purpose of being delivered to the defendants, but upon her death at Bordeaux, in 1865, the plaintiff obtained a decree from the French Courts ordering these latter securities to be delivered up to him.

The plaintiff now filed his bill to set aside the alleged settlement, and to obtain possession of the 2800*l.*, upon the ground that the whole of his wife's property belonged to him upon her death, and that she had no right to dispose of any portion of it.

Glasse, Q.C., and Hastings, for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Speed, for the trustees.

Cotton, Q.C., and Langley, for the infant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he was of opinion that, by the law of England, the conduct of M. Pronjé amounted to acquiescence in his wife's disposing of the property as she had done; but the case involved a question of French law, upon which many learned French lawyers had given evidence. The conclusion he came to was, that it was never contemplated by the French marriage settlement to include property which the wife might, by her own exertions in trade, acquire during coverture, while living apart from her husband, and which she might have disposed of as she pleased. He considered that the plaintiff, by never attempting to interfere with her free disposition of the property, had acquiesced in this view; but, by the French law, it was clear that the wife had a right to dispose of some portion of her property, "for recompense or otherwise;" that there was a natural obligation upon her to provide for the support of her grandchild, towards whom she had placed herself in loco parentis; and that it was for the judge to decide what amount would be a moderate and proper support under such circumstances. He thought that 2800*l.* out of the property was not too much for this purpose, and he should therefore dismiss the bill with costs.

V.-C. M. In re LAND SHIPPING COLLIERY COMPANY. June 23.

Contributory—Negligence—Delay.

This was a motion on behalf of David Jones that the certificate of the chief clerk, dated the 7th of May, 1868, settling the list of contributories in the above company, might be altered by striking out his name from the schedule as a contributory for twenty shares.

Before the chief clerk made his certificate the usual summons had been served upon D. Jones, and his name appeared in the schedule as having been represented by his solicitor. On the 27th of June a summons was issued for a call of 10*l.* per share, which was served upon D. Jones, and an order for such call was made on the 7th of July. On the 8th of January last a summons was taken out on behalf of D. Jones that his name might be omitted from the list, but this summons was dismissed by the chief clerk, and his decision was confirmed by the Vice-Chancellor in chambers.

D. Jones, by his first affidavit in support of this motion, stated that he had never signed any application for shares in the company, nor did he at any time ever authorize any person to take shares for him, or intimate to any person in any manner that he would become a shareholder.

By a second affidavit he stated that he never received any notice of allotment of shares to him in the company, and was never made aware that any were allotted to him or any one else on his behalf, and that he was quite taken by surprise when he learned that his name was upon the company's book as a shareholder. On being served with a summons to settle the list of contributories, he did not instruct any solicitor to appear for him to oppose his being settled on the list, because he thought that he could not be placed upon the list, not having done or said anything that could lead any one to suppose that he should become a shareholder.

In answer to this affidavit it was sworn by the solicitor of the official liquidator that Messrs. Eyre & Co. had appeared for D. Jones before the chief clerk, and had opposed his name being placed on the list upon the ground that he had been induced by fraud to take the shares, and that the present ground of defence was never raised.

Osborne, Q.C., and Bevir, in support of the motion.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cottrell, for the official liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said, if the case had rested only upon the affidavits of Mr. Jones, he should not have allowed his name to remain on the list, as in that case he would only have been guilty of negligence in not attending to the summons. But it appeared that Mr. Jones was no stranger to this company; he was a creditor of the company, and had instructed Messrs. Eyre to take proceedings for the recovery of the sum due to him. It also appeared that he was represented before the chief clerk by Messrs. Eyre, who submitted a case of fraud as a ground for having his name removed, which was quite inconsistent with the present contention. Moreover, he had been guilty of inexcusable delay in not coming earlier to have his name expunged, and this conduct could only be reconciled upon the supposition that he knew he had no case, or that his present affidavits were a mere afterthought. Upon these grounds he should refuse the motion with costs.

In re MORLEY.

June 24

MORLEY v. SAUNDERS.

Settled Estate—Incumbrance—Tenant for Life and Remission—Retainer.

This was the further consideration of a suit for the administration of the estate of Mary Morley, who by her will left to her brother Francis Morley a legacy of 1000*l.*

It appeared by the chief clerk's certificate that the father of the testatrix's father (who died in February, 1827) by his will devised certain real estate in Yorkshire to the use of trustees for a term of 500 years, and, subject thereto, to the use of Francis Morley, then an infant of the age of 16 years, for his life. The trusts of the term were, by mortgage, sale, or otherwise, to raise a sum of 9000*l.* with interest at 4 per cent. from the death of the testator, and in the meantime, until such sum was raised, to receive the rents of the estate, and after keeping down thereout the interest on the charge of 9000*l.*, to pay certain annuities, and to permit the residue of the rents to be received by the person for the time being entitled to the reversion expectant on the term: and the sum of 9000*l.* was declared to be for the benefit of the testatrix's three children therein named (of whom Mary Morley was one) in equal shares, to be vested at 21 or on marriage, with benefit of survivorship. Under this will Mary Morley became entitled to 4500*l.*, part of the 9000*l.* charge, and interest thereon. Upon the testator's death the trustees of the term entered into possession, and they received the rents until 1832, when Francis Morley was let into possession. He failed to pay the interest on the charge in full, and at the death of Mary Morley arrears of interest to an amount much exceeding 1000*l.* were due to her.

Under these circumstances the executors of Mary Morley claimed to retain the legacy of 1000*l.* in satisfaction of the arrears of interest due to her; but this claim was resisted by the representatives of Francis Morley, who had died after Mary Morley.

Cotton, Q.C., and Jolliffe, for the representatives of Francis Morley.

Glasse, Q.C., and North, for the representatives of Mary Morley.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Francis Morley was in a position similar to that of a mortgagor who had been permitted by the mortgagee to receive the rents of the mortgaged estate without paying the interest on the mortgage debt; in such a case the mortgagee could not call on the mortgagor to account for the back rents, but was entitled to have the principal and arrears of interest raised out of the estate. This might give rise to a claim by the remainderman against Francis Morley, and his estate might ultimately be called on to recoup the arrears of interest; but there was no personal liability on the part of Francis Morley, as between him and Mary Morley, to keep down the interest, and consequently there could be no restainer.

V.-C. M. Loxley v. Donne. June 21.
Administration Suit—Annuity Creditor—Insolvent Estate—Proof.

This was the further consideration of an administration suit, and the question was in what way the payment of an annuity of 300*l.*, covenanted to be paid by the testator, was to be provided for. The assets were about 10,000*l.* The debts (which were all specialty), exclusive of the annuity, amounted to about 4500*l.*, and there were some arrears of the annuity.

Osborne, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the annuitant, said that, if the estate were solvent, the right of the annuitant would be to have a fund of 10,000*l.* Consols set apart to answer the future payment, and to prove for the arrears; and as the estate was insolvent, the assets ought to be distributed rateably in providing for the debts, exclusive of the annuity, the arrears of the annuity, and a fund to answer the future payments.

Glass, Q.C., Schomberg, Q.C., Dundas Gardiner, Rudall, and B. B. Rogers, for other parties interested in the estate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed the value of the annuity to be ascertained by a reference to chambers, and ordered the assets to be applied rateably in payments of the debt proved, the arrears of the annuity, and the value of the annuity when ascertained.

Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act—Lease in Possession—Surrender of Old Lease—Underlease.

This was a petition, under the Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Acts, for a power to be vested in the trustees of a settlement to grant a building lease of part of the settled estate upon a surrender of an existing lease. The lessee had underlet part of the property, and the question was whether, without a surrender of the underlease, the new lease would take effect in possession within the meaning of the 2nd section of the Act 19 & 20 Vict. c. 120.

Renshaw, for the petitioners, contended that as by 4 Geo. 2, c. 23, s. 6, a new lease made upon the surrender of an old lease was valid without a surrender of the underlease, and the new lessee was entitled to the rents, the new lease would be a lease in possession.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the new lease would take effect in possession, and made the order.

Solicitor: W. Clarke.

V.-C. M. SCRIVENER v. SMITH. June 25.
Practice—Petition—Payment of Dividends—Costs.

This was a suit for the administration of the estate of a testator who bequeathed a fund, now represented by 997*l.* 0*s.* 7*d.* Consols, to a trustee upon trust to be invested in land, which was to be settled to the use of several persons successively for their respective lives, with remainders over. The fund was found to be too small to be advantageously invested in land, and had remained in Court. On the death of one of the tenants for life the succeeding tenant for life presented a petition for payment of the dividends, and the question was how the costs were to be borne.

The remainderman was out of the jurisdiction, and was not served with the petition.

Everitt, for the petitioner, submitted that the decisions under the Trustee Relief Act, In re Marner's Trusts (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 432) and In re Gordon's Trusts (Law Rep. 6 Eq. 335), did not apply to a case where the fund had been paid into Court in a suit, and asked for payment of the costs out of corpus.

Cracknall, for the trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, if the fund had been invested in land, the tenant for life would have simply entered into possession without incurring the expense of coming to the Court, and he ought not to be in a worse position because the fund was kept in Court for the benefit of all parties interested. The costs ought therefore to be paid out of the corpus.

V.-C. M. In re WATMOUGH'S TRUSTS. June 25.
Mortmain—Charitable Legacy—Gift of Money to be applied in or towards Erection of a Chapel—Booth v. Carter (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 757) not followed.

Abraham Watmough, by his will made in March, 1861, gave all his personal property (subject to a life interest to his wife) to his executors, "to be given, used, or employed by them towards the erection of a new Wesleyan chapel in the town of St. Helen's, instead of the one now in use, when such an erection shall take place."

The testator died in 1863, and his widow died in February, 1868. After her death his executors paid 534*l.*, representing his personal estate, into Court under the Trustee Relief Act.

The testator was a Wesleyan minister, and occasionally preached at the chapel at St. Helen's, which was too small for the congregation, and at the date of his will it was probable that a new chapel would be built as soon as the necessary funds could be obtained.

In 1868 the trustees of the chapel took a piece of land on a lease for 999 years, and a chapel was in course of erection upon it, which was intended to be substituted for the old chapel.

This was a petition by the trustees of the chapel for the payment of the fund in Court to them.

Glass, Q.C., and Rowcliffe, for the petitioners, and Wickens, for the Attorney-General, contended that the bequest did not necessarily involve the purchase of land, and was not therefore void under the Mortmain Act, and they relied on Booth v. Carter (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 757).

Cole, Q.C., and Bird, for the testator's next of kin, contended that the bequest was void.

Badnall, for the executors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the bequest was void, as there was nothing on the face of the will to prohibit the application of the fund in the purchase of a site for the new chapel. His Honour could not distinguish the present case from Booth v. Carter, but he thought that case was inconsistent with all the other authorities, and declined to follow it.

V.-C. M. PUGH v. AETON. June 29.
Landlord's Fixtures—Removal before Expiration of Lease.

The plaintiff demised a house, shop, and other premises to J. Vaughan from the 25th of March, 1865, for seven years, with a proviso that, in case the lessee should become bankrupt or assign his estate and effects, or enter into a composition for the payment of his debts, or should fail to perform his covenants, then the lessor should have power to re-enter and take possession of the premises. On the 2nd of March, 1868, the lessee executed a deed, assigning all his estate and effects to the defendant for the benefit of his creditors, and the deed was registered in bankruptcy on the 11th of March. At the date of the lease there were certain fixtures on the premises belonging to the lessor, and the lessee had affixed to the freehold other fixtures which were not removed on the 12th of March. The defendant advertised for sale, under the authority of the deed of assignment, all the stock-in-trade of the lessee, and also all the fixtures that were upon the premises on the 12th of March. The plaintiff gave the defendant notice that all the fixtures on the premises belonged to him, and that, as the interest of the lessee had been forfeited by breach of the conditions, he claimed possession of the premises, and all the fixtures, articles, and things affixed thereto. Notwithstanding this notice, the defendant threatened to sell the fixtures, and this bill was filed to restrain such sale.

The plaintiff attempted to take possession of the premises on the 14th of March, 1868, but was prevented from doing so by the defendant.

Glasse, Q.C., and Elderton, for the plaintiff.

Pearson, Q.C., and Hadley, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was a settled rule that if the tenant did not remove his fixtures before the expiration of the tenancy he could not do so afterwards. The only case in which time was allowed to the tenant for removal, was where there was an express reservation of fixtures. Here there had been no such reservation: there was an absolute forfeiture of the lease, and the power of re-entry had been acted upon. The plaintiff was, therefore, entitled to a decree. But as his conduct in filing such a bill was, in His Honour's opinion, harsh and unconscionable, he should give him no costs.

V.-C. M. LLEWELLYN v. ROSE. June 29.

Will—Pure and Impure Personality—Charitable Bequests.

In this case a question arose upon the construction of the will of Mary Billinge, who, after providing for the payment of her debts, gave pecuniary legacies to the amount of 1200*l.* to individuals, and one of 200*l.* to the Liverpool Infirmary. She then bequeathed all the residue of her estate, subject to the legacies and bequests aforesaid, equally between the Bluecoat School Hospital, of Liverpool, and the Orphan Boys Asylum and the Orphan Girls Asylum, both of Liverpool, and directed that "the several charitable bequests given by her will should be paid out of such parts of her personal estate only by law applicable to bequests of that nature."

The testatrix left 890*l.* of impure and 3159*l.* of pure personality. Fooks, Q.C., and Villiers, for the plaintiff, the trustee of the will, stated the case.

Cotton, Q.C., and Bardwell, for the Orphan Asylums, and Russell Roberts, for the Bluecoat School Hospital, contended that the word "several" must comprise the residuary bequests, and that the intention of the testatrix was that the fund of pure personality should not be resorted to for payment of the pecuniary legacies (except that to the Liverpool Dispensary) until the fund of impure personality was wholly exhausted; thus leaving, in accordance with the directions, as much as possible of the pure personality for the residuary charitable legatees.

Field, for the Liverpool Infirmary.

*Osborne, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the next of kin, contended that the pecuniary legacies, except that to the Liverpool Infirmary, were payable rateably out of the two funds in proportion to their respective amounts, the result of which would be that there would remain about 500*l.* of the impure personality unexhausted, to which the next of kin would be entitled.*

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the circumstance of the bequest to the charities being residuary only, rendered the direction contained in the will as to the mode of payment nugatory; and that the pecuniary legacies and other charges upon the property of the testatrix must be paid out of the general fund to be formed of the pure and impure personality combined before any part of the estate became applicable to the residuary gifts. The mode of payment was therefore rateable, and the charities were entitled only to that proportion of the surplus of the combined fund which was attributable to pure personality. The residuary gift failed as to that proportion of the surplus of the combined fund which consisted of impure personality by the operation of the Mortmain Act, and the next of kin were therefore entitled to it as undisposed of.

HOLDEN'S CASE.

Practice—Adjourned Summons—Costs.

Bardwell, on behalf of the official liquidator, applied to the Court in reference to the costs of this matter. Mr. Holden was fixed on the list of contributories as the holder of eighty shares upon the application (adjourned from chambers) on the part of the official liquidator, and ordered to pay the costs "of the application." (See ante, p. 152.)

The question was what costs were payable under this direction.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—When I made the order, I said that Mr. Holden must pay the costs of the application, and the registrar at the time said to me, "I suppose you mean the costs of the adjournment into Court?" If the matter had been disposed of in chambers, no costs would have been given. The costs, therefore, payable by Mr. Holden are simply those of the adjournment into Court.

V.-C. J. DRAKE v. COLLINS. June 25.

Will—Construction.

Sarah Hawes, by her will dated the 2nd of June, 1836, after a specific bequest, devised four freehold houses and all her personal estate to trustees, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, upon trust out of the personal estate (after payment of debts and funeral and testamentary expenses) to set aside or invest such a sum of money as would produce an annuity of 100*l.* a year, to be paid towards the maintenance and education of her daughter Sarah C. L. Hawes until she should attain 21, and, upon her attaining that age, to be paid to her for her separate use for life, without power of anticipation, and upon her death, leaving a husband and any child or children, to be paid to her husband for life, and after his death the principal was to be paid to the children in equal shares. If her daughter should marry and die without leaving children, the annuity was to be paid to the husband, if she should so appoint. Upon his death, or in default of appointment, or if the daughter should die without leaving a husband, child, or children, the principal was to be paid to the children of testatrix's brother. As to the residue of her realty and personality, she directed her trustees to receive "the rents and annual produce thereof," and from time to time to invest "the same," and so that "the same" might accumulate as compound interest until her daughter should attain 21, and then to pay "the same" to and for her sole and separate use and benefit. If her daughter should die without leaving any child or children, testatrix directed "the same" to be paid to the children of her brother, if more than one, in equal shares.

Testatrix died in 1837, leaving Sarah C. L. Hawes, her only child, heiress, and sole next of kin.

Sarah C. L. Hawes attained 21 on the 8th of October, 1843. On the 1st of January, 1846, she married John Taylor, and on the 30th of December, 1845, she entered into marriage articles.

Sarah C. L. Taylor had ten children, one now of age; the testatrix's brother had two living children, of whom one was imbecile.

The bill was filed by Mrs. Taylor and her trustee against the representatives of the surviving trustee of the will, her brother's children, and her own husband and children, praying for a declaration that she (the plaintiff) became absolutely entitled, on attaining 21, to all the real and personal estate except the fund set apart to meet the 100*l.* annuity.

C. Browne, for the plaintiff:—

In the residuary gift the words "the same" are strictly confined to the accumulations; as to all the rest there is a deliberate intestacy.

Various other constructions are suggested.

Amphlett, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the representative of the original trustee.

F. J. Wood, for the brother's children.

James Weston, for the plaintiff's children.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the gift was an absolute gift of the real and personal estate to the plaintiff, defeasible in the event of her dying without leaving children. There appeared to be no gift at all to the plaintiff's children.

V.-C. J. HARVEY v. LLOYD. June 25.
Will—Devise—Revocation by Settlement—Remainder to Testator in Fee—Codicil—Revivor.

Special case.

Testator, by will in 1821, devised two freehold houses to his niece Elizabeth Lloyd and her heirs. By a settlement in April, 1823, in consideration of the marriage of his niece with J. W. James, he granted the same two houses to a trustee, from and after the marriage, to the use of himself for life, remainder to her husband for life, remainder to the wife if she should survive for life, remainder to the issue of the marriage, remainder to his own right heirs. By a codicil in 1826 he made certain revocations (not affecting the two houses), and in other respects ratified and confirmed his will. There was only one child of the marriage, who died an infant and unmarried; the husband survived his wife, and died on the 7th of December, 1865, so that the ultimate use to the testator's right heirs took effect.

The question was whether the testator died intestate as to the two houses, or whether his codicil had the effect of reviving the devise of them in his will to Elizabeth James and his heirs.

Kay, Q.C., and Freeling, for the plaintiffs claiming under Elizabeth James, contended for the revivor.

F. J. Wood, for the defendants claiming under the testator, argued for an intestacy.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, even had it not been for the case of Jackson v. Hurlock (2 Eden, 263), which ruled the point, it was quite clear that this codicil operated as a republication of the will, and passed the reversion.

V. C. J. BRUCE v. GARDEN. June 25.
Principal and Agent—Account—Policies of Assurance.

Bill for an account against the agent of an intestate Indian officer, of whom plaintiff was administrator, in order that the defendant in taking such account might be charged with the moneys received by him upon certain policies of assurance effected by him on the life of the intestate, to secure the balance due, the premiums paid upon such policies having been charged against the intestate in the defendant's books of account. The defendant, who was an army accoutrement maker, was agent of the intestate Major Bruce, and supplied him with goods and advanced money to him from time to time. In order to secure himself for the amount of the balance due to him, the defendant effected assurances upon the life of Major Bruce and kept up the policies, charging him, however, with the premiums paid, in his (defendant's) books of account. Upon the death of Major Bruce the defendant received upon these policies a sum admittedly exceeding the balance due to him from Major Bruce at the time of his death.

The object of the suit was in effect to recover for the estate of Major Bruce this surplus.

Amphlett, Q.C., and R. Horton Smith, for the plaintiff.

Willcock, Q.C., and L. Field, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the defendant, by charging the intestate in his books with the premiums paid upon these policies, had brought the case within the principle of those authorities in which it had been held that a creditor effecting a policy of assurance on the life of his debtor at the debtor's expense holds it as a security for payment of his debt, and that subsequent payment of the debt renders the policy the property of the debtor. In taking the account of what was due to him from the estate of the intestate, the defendant must be charged with the moneys received by him upon the policies.

V.-C. J. BARNES v. WOOD. June 29.
Vendor and Purchaser—Husband and Wife—Specific Performance.

In February, 1868, the plaintiff agreed to purchase from John Stringer certain freehold property for 710*l.*, and signed a memorandum of agreement, and paid a deposit of 50*l.* in the belief that John Stringer was absolute owner and able to convey the property.

It appeared that John Stringer was only entitled to an estate pur autre vie, with remainder to the use of himself and Betty his wife, in her right in fee simple, so that Mrs. Stringer's acknowledgment was necessary. This was not obtained, and on the 25th of April the deposit-money was returned to the plaintiff's house, and the property was sold to the defendant by deed executed on the 25th of April, 1868, and duly acknowledged by Betty Stringer.

Under these circumstances the bill was filed to obtain a declaration that the premises were purchased by and conveyed to the defendant, subject in equity to the plaintiff's contract for the purchase thereof, and that the defendant held the property bound by such contract to the extent of the fee simple, or, if not to that extent, then to the extent of such estate and interest therein as John Stringer was able to sell, a proportionate abatement of the purchase-money being made to plaintiff in respect of such estate and interest therein as John Stringer could not convey.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendant could not continue to hold the estate which he had purchased collusively and with fraudulent knowledge of the plaintiff's antecedent contract with the Stringers. In any case, the plaintiff was entitled to get that interest in the property which John Stringer was able to convey.

Kay, Q.C., and G. Williamson, for the defendant, contended that the plaintiff had no binding bargain for the purchase of the property of which specific performance could have been enforced against Stringer and his wife, and that the defendant, who was the first to obtain a binding contract, was entitled to retain possession of the property, unaffected by any claim on the part of the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, although Betty Stringer was in no way bound as to her remainder in fee, John Stringer was bound to convey to the plaintiff all the interest that he had in the property, and there must be a decree against the defendant for a conveyance of that interest, with costs. Reference to chambers to ascertain the amount of compensation to be paid to the plaintiff for the interest not conveyed to him.

V.-C. J. RABBITTS v. WOODWARD. June 30.
Practice—Writ of Sequestrari facias de bonis ecclesiasticis—Sheriff's return of nulla bona.

This case (noted ante, p. 162) was again mentioned to the Court.

B. B. Rogers said that great, and it was believed insuperable, difficulties had been found to exist in the Record and Writ Clerks' office to the issue of the writ, without a recital of the sheriff's return of nulla bona, as prescribed by Sched. J. (III.) to Order XXIX. Rule 11.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, after conferring with the clerk of the Records and Writs and with the registrar, said he thought he could not order the writ to issue. The matter might, if counsel thought fit, be mentioned to the Lord Chancellor.

Q. B. JOHNSON v. SKAFFE. June 24.
Bankrupt—Order of Discharge—Unliquidated Damages—Provable Debt—Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 134), s. 153.

The defendant occupied, as tenant to one P., a warehouse at a certain yearly rent. Whilst the defendant was such tenant, the plaintiff became his sub-tenant of one of the rooms, into the occupation of which room the plaintiff entered and placed therein his goods. In February, 1868, whilst the defendant's tenancy and the plaintiff's sub-tenancy continued, the defendant's rent being then in arrear to the amount of 30*l.*, his landlord lawfully distrained the goods in the warehouse, including those of the plaintiff. To obtain the release of his goods, the plaintiff paid the defendant's landlord 15*l.* After payment of this sum the defendant became bankrupt on his own petition, and obtained his order of discharge. The plaintiff had not proved under the bankruptcy, nor had any steps been taken under section 153 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, to obtain an order of the Court of Bankruptcy, directing an assessment of the damages which the plaintiff sustained by reason of the entry of bailiffs into his room and the seizure of his goods. After the defendant had obtained his order of discharge, the plaintiff commenced an action in the County Court against the defendant, and claimed as special damages the 15*l.* At the trial it was contended that the plaintiff's right of action for damages was barred by the order of discharge.

The judge ruled it was not.

The question for the Court was whether that ruling was correct.

Wheeler, for the plaintiff.

R. G. Williams, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lush and Hayes, JJ.) held that the defendant was not "liable by reason of any contract or promise to a demand in the nature of damages," within the meaning of section 153, that that section only contemplated express contracts, that the plaintiff's claim for damages was not provable under the bankruptcy, and therefore not barred, and that the judge's ruling was right.

Q. B. COMMINGS v. HEARD. June 25.
Pleading—Award—Res judicata.

Declaration for work done and materials provided.

The plaintiff claimed 200*l.*

Plea: except as to 145*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.*, parcel of the money claimed, the defendant ought not to be admitted to allege that, at the commencement of this suit, any more than the sum of 145*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.* was due from the defendant to the plaintiff in respect of the causes of action in the declaration mentioned, because that, after the accruing of the causes of action in the declaration mentioned, and before this suit, a dispute arose between the plaintiff and the defendant as to how much was due from the defendant to the plaintiff in respect of the causes of action, and thereupon, by agreement made between them before this suit, they referred the question of how much was due from the defendant to the plaintiff in respect of the causes of action to the award of W. W., and agreed to be bound by his award as to such amount; and that W. W. made his award in writing of and concerning the premises so referred to him, and thereby awarded that the amount due from the defendant to the plaintiff in respect of the causes of action was 145*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.*

Demurrer and joinder.

Anstie, in support of the demurrer, contended that the plea was bad, as it did not allege payment or tender of the sum awarded.

Jelf, contra, contended that the plea did not profess to answer the entire claim, but was only pleaded to the amount awarded, and that the defendant was by the award concluded from contending that a larger sum was due.

THE COURT (Lush and Hayes, JJ.) held the contention on behalf of the defendant was right, and that the plea was good.

Attorney for defendant: Moore.

Q. B. WRIGHT v. PEARSON. June 25.
Action—Mischievous Animal—Scienter—28 & 29 Vict. c. 60, s. 1—Word "Cattle."

Action against the defendant for keeping a fierce dog, which bit the plaintiff's mare. No proof was given that the defendant knew that the dog was accustomed to bite horses, or was of a savage or ferocious character; but the plaintiff relied on the 28 & 29 Vict. c. 60, s. 1, which enacts that the owner of every dog shall be liable in damages for injury done to any cattle or sheep by his dog; and it shall not be necessary for the party seeking such damages to shew a previous mischievous propensity in such dog, or the owner's knowledge of such previous propensity.

The question was whether the term "cattle" in the above section included horses and mares.

Kemplay, for the plaintiff.

A. Wills (Blake Steele with him), for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lush and Hayes, JJ.) held that "cattle" in its primary sense included horses, and that there was nothing to shew an intention on the part of the Legislature to restrict the meaning of the word; and that "cattle" in the above section did include horses.

Attorneys for plaintiff: Bell, Brodrick, & Gray.

C. P. HEFFIELD v. MEADOWS. June 24.
Guarantee, Construction of, with Reference to the surrounding Circumstances.

One York, the younger, had succeeded to the business of his father, a butcher at Stamford, dealt with the plaintiff, a farmer, for stock, and being desirous of purchasing a lot consisting of two beasts and ten sheep of the value of 9*l.*, the plaintiff declined to deal with him without security; whereupon the defendant, the uncle of York, signed a guarantee in the following form:—

"50*l.* I, John Meadows, of Barwick, in the county of Northampton, will be answerable for 50*l.* sterling that William York, of Stamford, butcher, may buy of Mr. John Heffield, of Donington."

THE COURT held that this was a continuing guarantee, and that the defendant was liable upon it, although goods to a greater amount than 50*l.* had been supplied to and paid for by William York.

Mellor, for the plaintiff.

Boden, Q. C., and Beasley, for the defendant.

Attorneys for defendant: Wright, Bonner, & Wright, for W. F. Law, Stamford.

Equity.

L. J. J. WILSON v. BELL. June 25.
Will—Direction that A. "shall reside with and be maintained by" B.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor James. Richard Bell, by his will, gave legacies to his son George Bell and each of his daughters, and his residuary personal estate to his son Thomas Bell, whom he appointed his executor, and he gave all his real estate to his said son Thomas Bell for life, and after his death to his issue, and in default of issue, to his son George Bell and his issue in like manner. And the testator directed that "his daughter Ann should reside with and be maintained by his son Thomas Bell so long as she should remain single and unmarried."

The testator had a freehold house and farm at Argam, at which he was residing at his death, and his widow and daughter Ann continued to live there till 1855, when the widow died. Thomas Bell resided at Grimdale, a short distance from Argam. After her mother's death, Ann Bell went to reside with her married sister, Mrs. Wilson, although Thomas Bell offered to allow her to remain at Argam, but, as she declined to do so, he let the house to another person.

In 1857 Ann Bell claimed an allowance for maintenance from her brother, which he refused, but offered to receive her into his house and support her there. She, however, continued to reside with Mrs. Wilson till the death of Thomas Bell, which happened in 1868. Ann Bell then filed a bill against his widow and executrix to administer the estate of the original testator, Richard Bell, in which she claimed maintenance from the time when she left Argam.

The Vice-Chancellor considered her entitled to such maintenance, and directed an inquiry as to the proper amount to be allowed; and the defendant appealed from this decision.

Karslake, Q.C., and O. Morgan, Q.C., for the appellant.

Kay, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the plaintiff.

THE LORDS JUSTICES were of opinion that the direction that Ann Bell should reside and be maintained could not be divided; and that, as she had declined to reside with her brother, he was not bound to maintain her. They, therefore, reversed the decree of the Vice-Chancellor, and dismissed the bill so far as it sought for such maintenance.

L. J. J. BOYD v. PETRIE. June 26.
Production of Documents—Plaintiff's Title—Confidential Communications.

This was an appeal by the plaintiff from an order made by the Master of the Rolls, directing the production by him of documents. The plaintiff claimed in this suit certain property by reason of the invalidity of certain deeds, and claimed protection from production of some of the documents on the ground that they related to his title exclusively, and of others on the ground of their being confidential communications.

C. Parke, for the plaintiff.

Phear, for the defendant.

THE LORDS JUSTICES said no general rule could be laid down, but that in this case it was clear that, as the defendant's case was that the plaintiff had no title, any document which related to the plaintiff's title must relate to the defendant's, and the defendant must therefore have a right to see such documents. As to the documents which were said to be confidential communications between the plaintiff and his solicitors, though they might not have been made immediately with a view to this litigation, they did relate to the dispute, and must be protected. The order would be varied accordingly.

Bankruptcy—Trade Fixtures—Rolls in Iron Rolling Mill—Weighing Machines—Straightening Plates.

In this case there were two appeals from a decision of Mr. Registrar Tudor, of the Birmingham Court of Bankruptcy.

Messrs. Richards & Hill, who were manufacturers of iron at Smethwick, became bankrupt in January, 1868, having previously made an equitable mortgage, by deposit of the lease of their mills, to Lloyd's Banking Company.

The question now in dispute was whether certain iron rolls used in the machine, of which there were several duplicates, and also certain weighing machines and straightening plates, were trade fixtures, and, as such, passed to the mortgagees. The registrar held that the duplicate rolls were part of the machinery, and passed to the mortgagees; and from this decision the assignees appealed. But he was of opinion that the weighing machines, which were simply laid in a hole in the ground, faced with brickwork, and the straightening plates, which were broad iron plates bedded in the floor, were not fixtures, and passed to the assignees; and from this decision the mortgagees appealed.

Jessel, Q.C., Little, Q.C., and A. Smith, for the assignees.
Fry, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for Lloyd's Banking Company.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD was of opinion that all the rolls which had been fitted to the machine must be taken as belonging to the machinery, and therefore passed to the mortgagees, but that such of the rolls as had not been fitted to the machine passed to the assignees. With respect to the straightening plates, His Lordship held that they were part of the flooring, and passed with the mills to the mortgagees, but that the weighing machines were only movable chattels, and not fixtures, and belonged to the assignees.

V.-C. S. WESTMORELAND v. TUNNICLIFFE. June 30.
Settlement—Breach of Trust by one Trustee—Administration Suit—Specialty or Simple Contract Debt.

Sums of money were by a settlement vested in trustees upon certain trusts, and they executed the deed, and "agreed and declared" that they would perform the trusts. One of the trustees received and misapplied the trust-funds, and had since died. In a suit for the administration of his estate, the chief clerk certified that the breach of trust constituted a specialty debt.

Karslake, Q.C., and Jolliffe, moved to vary the certificate by having it declared that this was a simple contract debt.

Bevir, for the plaintiffs.

Simmonds, for the defendants, the executors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that this case was not like that of Holland v. Holland (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 449), for there the trustee did not execute the original deed, but was a substituted trustee, and the deed by which he was appointed did not contain any declaration or agreement for the performance of the trusts. If he decided that this debt was not a specialty one, he should overrule Lord Eldon upon the point, and therefore he should declare that the cestuis que trust must be paid pari passu with the specialty creditors, and in priority to the simple contract creditors.

V.-C. S. CLIFF v. BULL. July 1.

Affidavit in Support of Motion for Injunction—Documents—Cross-examination—Refusal of Plaintiff to produce a Document not included in Affidavit—Order for Production, with Costs.

This bill was filed on the 11th of May, 1869, and the interrogatories were filed and served on the defendant on the 21st of May. The plaintiff then gave notice of motion for an injunction to restrain the removal or interference with certain pipes belonging to him or in which he was interested.

The affidavit filed in support set forth several documents which were in the possession of the plaintiff, and an order having been made for the appointment of a special examiner, the defendant subpoenaed the plaintiff to be cross-examined on his affidavit.

The plaintiff attended, and was asked to produce a document admitted to be in his possession, but not included in his affidavit, and he refused to do so, but did not object to the cross-examination.

The examiner was of opinion that the plaintiff ought to produce the document.

The matter was adjourned into Court.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Eddis, Q.C., moved for an order directing the plaintiff to produce the document at his own cost.

Alexander, for the defendant Green, who had attended before the examiner, and been served by the defendant with notice of this motion.

Greene, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff:—

The defendant is not entitled to an order for production of documents by the plaintiff till he has put in a full and sufficient answer, and the defendant has not yet answered the interrogatories. The document in question will, if produced, introduce new matter, and, if the order be made, the plaintiff seeking the protection of his property will be able to move for an injunction till the hearing of his cause, or he may be compellable to furnish the defendant with matter which may support his case.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—It is a general rule that a defendant is not entitled to production by the plaintiff of any document before he has answered fully and sufficiently. The rule is a just one, for a defendant ought not to require a plaintiff to furnish him with matter whereby he may shape his defence. The rule is, however, not a useful one; for if the discovery which the defendant seeks now be the same as that to which he will be entitled after filing his answer, the only result will be to protract unnecessarily this litigation. This is, however, not a motion for the production in support of the defendant's case at the hearing. The defendant, although he has not answered, is not in default. The plaintiff is about to move for an injunction, and he has made an affidavit in support of his motion, upon which he has regularly been cross-examined. No objection was made to that course, nor to produce the documents included in the affidavit; but he refused to produce the one in question, which, if not produced, would, in effect, cause the cross-examination to be a nullity. The refusal of the plaintiff was a mistake. He must produce the document and pay the costs of the motion, except the costs of the defendant Green. His Honour was of opinion that motions, on these points of practice such as this, ought to be discouraged.

The motion for injunction was ordered to stand over till after the cross-examination.

V.-O. S. JONES v. JONES. July 1.

Administration Decree—Infant Plaintiffs—Marriage of Next Friend—Abatement—Motion to appoint Husband next Friend refused.

This was an administration suit. There were five plaintiffs, four of whom were infants, and the fifth was their sister and next friend. A decree was made, and the next friend had since married. The registrar had objected, to draw up an order as of course, by which it was proposed to appoint the husband next friend.

Bedwell moved for an order to revive, and asked that the husband might be appointed the next friend.

Woodroffe, for the defendants the trustees, did not oppose.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR refused the motion, and said that, in the existing condition of the authorities upon the question of abatement and revival, he was anxious not to depart from the usual course. The four infant plaintiffs must find another person to act as next friend, and then revive the suit, and make their sister and her husband defendants.

V.-O. M. MERRY v. MERRY. June 30.

Construction of Will—Vesting of Shares—Attaining 21.

A testator gave the residue of his property to trustees to assign and transfer the same unto and amongst all and every such child or children of Mary Merry as should be living at the testator's decease, or born in due time after, to be equally divided among them, if more than one, when they should attain the age of 21 years; and if there should be but one child who should attain 21, then to such only child.

There were several children of Mary Merry, two of whom had attained the age of 21, and another of whom had died under that age.

The only question now argued was whether the shares of the children were vested at the death of the testator, to be paid as they should attain 21, or whether those children only who attained 21 were entitled to take.

Glasse, Q.C., and Mitchell, for the infant children.

Cotton, Q.C., and Rowcliffe, for the personal representatives of a child who died under 21.

Osborne, Q.C., and Whitty, for two of the children who attained 21.

Watson, for the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that only those children who attained 21 were entitled to take shares; and they would have the whole residue, to the exclusion of any who should die under 21.

V.-O. M. IN RE COLES' TRUSTS. July 2.

Will—Legacy free of Duty—Gift of Stock sufficient to produce clear yearly sum.

Thomas H. Coles by his will gave his residuary personal estate to his executors, upon trust out of £7,000. Consols, part thereof, to set apart and appropriate so much as would produce the clear income or sum of 100*l.* a year, and pay such income or yearly sum to a certain charity.

A question was raised whether the above bequest was free of legacy duty.

Pearson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the legatees.

Waley, for the executors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, as it would be impossible for the trustees to pay a clear yearly income of 100*l.* to the charity if legacy duty was deducted from the fund to be appropriated, the bequest implied a direction that it should be free from legacy duty.

Solicitors: W. & H. P. Sharp.

V.-O. M. IN RE COTTERILL'S TRUSTS. July 2.

Trustees Act—Appointment of New Trustees—Appointment of Trustees of Part of Trust Fund.

Thomas Cotterill by his will directed six equal twelfth shares of his residuary personal estate to be invested in the names of three trustees; as to one of such shares upon trust for his niece, Maria Hounsfield, for life, and after her death for her children, or (in default of children) her statutory next of kin; and as to each of the other five shares, upon similar trusts for five other nephews and nieces, and their families.

This was a petition under the Trustee Act, 1850, by Maria Hounsfield, for the appointment of separate trustees of the share bequeathed in trust for her and her children or statutory next of kin.

Glasse, Q.C., and Waller, for the petitioner.

Speed, for the trustees, did not object to the appointment of separate trustees if the Court had jurisdiction to appoint them.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the Court could appoint separate trustees of a share of the fund, and made the order.

V.-O. M. STUART v. COCKERELL. July 2.

Priority—Stop Order—Assignee in Bankruptcy.

In April, 1867, Sir S. H. Stuart, the tenant for life of a fund in Court, mortgaged his life interest to secure the payment of an annuity of 100*l.* Sir S. H. Stuart became bankrupt in May, 1866, at which time the mortgagee had not obtained a stop order.

In October, 1868, Sir S. H. Stuart died, and in November, 1868, the mortgagee, whose annuity was in arrear, obtained a stop order on a sum of cash in Court, representing dividends which accrued in the lifetime of Sir S. H. Stuart.

This was a petition by the mortgagee for payment of the arrears of his annuity out of the cash to which his stop order applied. It was opposed by the assignee in bankruptcy of Sir S. H. Stuart.

W. Karslake, for the petitioner, contended that he was entitled to priority over the assignee in bankruptcy.

Woodroffe, for the assignee, contended that, as the mortgagee had not obtained a stop order at the date of the bankruptcy, the bankrupt's life interest was in his order and disposition, and vested in the assignee, and that the subsequent stop order could not divest the title of the assignee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, as the assignee had not obtained a stop order, the mortgagee, having obtained a stop order, was entitled to priority.

Solicitor for the petitioner: Dolman.

Solicitor for the respondent: W. A. Ford.

V.-O. M. ROSS v. TATHAM. July 2.

Executor—Liability for Testator's Covenants after Distribution of Assets by the Court.

R. Ross, the testator in this administration suit, who died in 1864, was lessee for 99 years from Christmas 1860 of land, on which he covenanted by the lease to expend 1800*l.* in building a messuage or warehouse of certain dimensions within twelve months from the date of the lease, and to keep the building so to be built in good repair, and give it up in good repair at the end of the term. The testator was prevented by an injunction of the Court of Chancery from building according to this covenant.

The usual administration decree was made in December, 1864, and in March, 1866, the executors sold the leasehold property, and obtained from the assignee a covenant for indemnity against the breaches of covenants in the lease.

The whole of the testator's estate was in Court, and a petition was now presented by the residuary legatees of a moiety for the payment out of such moiety; and the question was whether any part of the fund should be retained to meet the liabilities under the covenants in the lease.

Owen, for the petitioners, and

Nalder, for the plaintiff, in the same interest, contended that the executors were indemnified by the decree of the Court, and that no part of the fund should be retained.

Wickers, for the executors, and Romer, for the widow, who was tenant for life of the other moiety of the residuary estate, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the executors were protected from liability, in respect of the covenants, by the decree and order of the Court, and ordered the whole of the moiety to be paid out.

The nephew had five children, all of whom attained 21. One of them, a son, died unmarried and intestate; afterwards a daughter married; and on this occasion the father covenanted that he would, in exercise of the power, appoint by will to the trustees of her settlement one fifth of the 5000*l.* The daughter, by the same deed, assigned to the trustees all that her fifth part or share, in default of any testamentary appointment, of and in the said sum of 5000*l.*

The father died without having exercised the power in any way. Upon the death of the widow, the plaintiffs, the trustees of the daughter's settlement, claimed not only the sum of 1000*l.* covenanted to be appointed, but also one fifth of the remaining 4000*l.*, as being a part of the fund not completely and entirely disposed of by the appointor.

MASKELYNE v. RUSSELL.

July 5.

Covenant for Payment of Money after Death—Power to pay during Life.

By a marriage settlement, dated in October, 1860, the plaintiff, who was the father of the intended husband, covenanted that he would, during his life, pay or cause to be paid, or that his heirs, executors, and administrators should, immediately after his decease, pay to the trustees of the settlement one sum of 5000*l.*, and within five years from the time of his decease one other sum of 5000*l.*, with interest on the said two several sums from the day of his decease until the said two sums should be fully paid.

The said two sums of 5000*l.* were secured upon an estate belonging to the plaintiff, which he had lately contracted to sell, and his intention was at once to pay to the trustees of the settlement these two sums.

The purchaser, however, raised a doubt whether the plaintiff had power to pay off the second sum of 5000*l.* during his life, and required the authority of the Court.

The bill was filed against the trustees and against the husband and wife.

Cotton, Q.C., and Cookson, for the plaintiff.

C. Browne, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said, if the trustees could be trusted with the money after the plaintiff's death, they could as well be trusted immediately, and declared that the plaintiff was at liberty to pay both or either of the sums of 5000*l.* mentioned in the bill to the trustees of the settlement at any time or times during his life, and that by such payment the plaintiff would be discharged pro tanto from his covenant. The trustees would be indemnified, and the estate would be discharged from the security.

June 23.

Power of Appointment by Will—Covenant to Appoint—Non-performance of Covenant—Gift in Default of Appointment.

Testatrix bequeathed a sum of 5000*l.* upon trust for her nephew for life, and then for his wife for life. She then gave to her nephew a power of appointment by will over the 5000*l.* amongst his children, and in default of appointment, or subject to any such as should not be a complete and entire disposition of the whole sum, she gave the same to all her nephew's children absolutely, to become vested at 21 or marriage.

COOPER v. COOPER.

June 23.

Power of Appointment—Benefit to Appointor.

By the marriage settlement of Mr. and Mrs. Daniell, executed in 1806, property was settled for the benefit of the husband and wife successively; and after the death of the survivor, in trust for all and every the children of the marriage, as Mr. and Mrs. Daniell should jointly appoint; and in default of such joint appointment, as the survivor should appoint; and in default of any such direction or appointment, in trust for all the children, in equal shares.

There were five children of the marriage; and upon the marriage of one of them, Gertrude Maria, to A. S. Trevanion, in 1832, Mr. and Mrs. Daniell, in pursuance of articles of agreement for a settlement, appointed a fourth part of the settled fund, as the portion of Mrs. Trevanion, to become a vested interest immediately, so as to be transmissible to her executors and administrators, and to be transferred to her after the death of the survivor of Mr. and Mrs. Daniell. In further pursuance of the articles, Mr. Daniell executed a bond to the trustees of his daughter's marriage settlement for payment of 4567*l.* in or before 1840, with interest, which was to be held by such trustees on the trusts of Mrs. Trevanion's marriage settlement. By that settlement the trusts of the appointed share, and also of the 4567*l.*, were declared to be for Mr. and Mrs. Trevanion successively, and after the death of the survivor of them, in trust for the children of the marriage. In case there should be no child of the marriage, who or whose issue should become absolutely entitled to the trust-funds, then as to the 4567*l.* secured by Mr. Daniell's bond, and also the appointed share, in trust for Thomas Daniell, his executors, administrators, and assigns.

There was no issue of the marriage, and Mr. Trevanion died in the same year.

Mrs. Trevanion was, in 1841, married to the plaintiff, and her life interest under her first settlement was vested in trustees.

In 1836 Thomas Daniell became bankrupt. In 1849 his assignees in bankruptcy executed an assignment of his reversionary interests to the trustees of the Economic Life Assurance Society.

An appointment was made by Mr. and Mrs. Daniell of another portion of the settled fund to another of the daughters, then an infant, on her marriage (Mrs. England), with a similar ultimate remainder in favour of Thomas Daniell in the event of failure of issue. There were children, however, of this marriage, and the appointed share of Mrs. England had been dealt with in their favour.

On the death of Thomas Daniell in 1866, the funds had been divided by the surviving trustee, and a release taken from the parties.

The bill was filed for the purpose of setting aside the appointments made by Mr. and Mrs. Daniell, on the ground that the reservation of an ultimate interest in favour of Mr. Daniell was not warranted by the terms of, and was a fraud upon, the power of 1806.

Kay, Q.C., and W. C. Druce, for the plaintiff Mr. Cooper, the second husband of Mrs. Trévanion.

Fischer, for Mrs. Cooper.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Hemming, for the trustees of the Economic Life Assurance Society, contended that the appointment was valid.

Eddis, Q.C., and Hamilton Humphreys, for Mrs. England and her children, also supported the appointment.

W. F. Robinson, W. H. Deverell, and Swan, for the trustees and other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the appointment was perfectly valid, and could not be set aside. The bargain was intended substantially for the benefit of the daughter, and that slight contingent benefit which the father got was a thing for which he gave value over and over again. Independently of any considerations as to the plaintiff not being in a proper position for maintaining this suit, and the numerous devolutions of property and family arrangements based upon the validity of the appointments, he rested his judgment on the broad ground that there was no corrupt, fraudulent, or sinister purpose on the part of the father, and that the appointment was a good and honest appointment, and substantially for the benefit of the daughters. Bill dismissed with costs.

In re READING WHOLESALE CLOTHING COMPANY.

Company—Winding-up under Supervision—Petition by Two out of Three Liquidators—General Meeting.

Petition by two out of three liquidators to have a voluntary winding-up continued under supervision.

Hardy, Q.C., and A. K. Miller, for the petitioners, stated that, at a meeting summoned at the instance of the opposing liquidator, a majority of shareholders supported the proposal to present the petition, which challenged some transactions between the opposing liquidator and the vendor to the company.

They were stopped.

Kay, Q.C., and Bovill, for the opposing liquidator:—

The Court has no jurisdiction to act on a petition presented by two liquidators only, where there are three. Nothing remains to be done in the liquidation except to ascertain the amount due on a single claim of 2000*l.*, made by the vendor against the company in respect of purchase-money. What is now desired might be accomplished at less expense by means of an "originating summons" under s. 188 of the Companies Act, 1862. The meeting was irregularly summoned and held, and no binding resolution was passed.

Amphlett, Q.C., and W. G. Lemon, for the creditor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the order was almost one of course. The authorities that had been cited to him had nothing to do with a case of voluntary winding-up. Here the majority of the shareholders came to the Court, and said that the liquidation could not be carried on without supervision. When the persons, whom the company themselves had selected, were found applying to the Court on the ground of difficulties that had arisen in the liquidation, the Court would not pay attention to any alleged informality in summoning a meeting. Nor did it appear there was any great difference between the costs of this proceeding and those of an "originating summons." The order would be as prayed.

After some discussion:

His Honour said he would not allow the opposing liquidator his costs. He ought to have submitted to the opinion expressed at the meeting.

JOINT STOCK DISCOUNT COMPANY v. BROWN.

Bill by Official Liquidator against former Directors—Transactions ultra vires—Breach of Trust.

Bill by the official liquidator of a company against (as amended) twelve persons—nine of whom had been directors, a tenth was the assignee in bankruptcy of another director, and the other two were the secretary and assistant manager of the company—praying for a declaration that the directors had no power to take 3000 shares, and 500 bonus shares in another company, called Barned's Banking Company Limited, or to give certain letters of guarantee or indemnity in the bill mentioned, and that such letters ought to be delivered up to be cancelled; also, that the appropriation of three sums of 10,000*l.*, 3000*l.*, and 15,000*l.* out of the funds of the company to pay for such shares, was a breach of trust, and for an account and payment.

The case was substantially this: That Barned's Banking Company Limited was formed by the defendants out of an existing banking business at Liverpool, upon the terms of an agreement, which was concealed from the company, that the plaintiff company should assist the formation by applying for 10,000 shares in the proposed new company; it being further understood that, of the 10,000 shares so to be applied for, the applicants should not be bound to take more than two-sevenths of what were not allotted to the public, and that they should have the option of taking not more than 2000 shares even if the entire capital should be applied for by the public. Further, that the defendants, in pursuance of this arrangement, took amongst themselves 3000 shares in Barned's Banking Company, for which they paid 30,000*l.* out of the company's assets; and that they also took 500 paid-up shares as the consideration for an agreement not to sell any of the company's shares under 2*l.* per share premium before the 1st of July, 1866, or, if the directors had no objection, a six months' later date.

The plaintiff company had powers by its articles of association of investing in securities.

A demurrer to the bill by one of the defendants (Brown) was overruled on the 7th of November, 1866, by the Lord Chancellor, then Vice-Chancellor Wood (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 139).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, on the 80th ultimo, held that the transaction was ultra vires, and the appropriation a breach of trust. His Honour said that the further features of the transaction, as disclosed by the evidence, did not improve the case as it stood on the bill; and he was consequently bound by, whilst he acquiesced in, the decision of his predecessor. He would, however, hear arguments as to the degrees of liability of the various directors.

Ship and Shipping—Freight, Apportionment of—Consideration, Failure of.

The plaintiff shipped 766 packages of merchandise on board the defendants' ship, which were stated by the bill of lading "to be carried and conveyed via Colon (Aspinwall) and Panama to San Francisco; that is to say, by arrangement between the West India and Pacific Steam Ship Company Limited, the Panama Railroad Company, and the Pacific Mail Steam Ship Company; to be carried to Colon (Aspinwall) by the packets of the West India and Pacific Steam Ship Company Limited, from Colon (Aspinwall) to Panama by the Panama Railroad Company, and thence to the port of destination by the Pacific Mail Steam Ship Company . . . freight being paid at 14*l.* 5*s.* per ton, payable in Liverpool. Freight and primage to be considered as earned, ship lost or not lost." The bill of lading was signed by the agent of the ship for the service from Liverpool to Colon (Aspinwall), and by the agent of the Panama Railroad Company and Pacific Mail Steam Ship Company for the service from Colon (Aspinwall) to San Francisco. The arrangement between the respective companies for the division of the freight from Liverpool to San Francisco was—to the defendants' company, 8*l.* 5*s.* per ton; to the Panama Railroad Company, 4*l.*; to the Pacific Steam Ship Company, 7*l.* The plaintiff paid the whole freight to the defendants' company at Liverpool. The ship sailed from Liverpool, but was lost with all her cargo at St. Thomas (before arriving at Colon). The defendants had notice of the loss on the 13th of November, and on the 30th of November they paid over to the two other companies their proportion of the freight. The plaintiff applied to the defendants for a return of the proportion of freight payable in respect of the carriage of the goods from Colon to Panama, and from Panama to San Francisco, but the defendants refused to entertain the claim.

The question was whether the defendants were bound to return those proportions of the freight.

Benjamin, for the plaintiff.

Mellish, Q.C. (Day with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lush and Hayes, J.J.) held that the bill of lading contained separate contracts with each company to carry, and that the freight was apportionable; that by the loss of the ship and goods at St. Thomas the contracts with the Panama Company and the Pacific Steam Company were rescinded, and the plaintiff was entitled to recover back the proportion of the freight paid over to those companies on a consideration which had failed.

Q. B. FARRER, APP.; CLOSE, RESP. July 8.

Friendly Society—Enforcing Rules—Settlement of Disputes—Trades Union, Illegality of—18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, ss. 9, 24, 44.

The appellant, on behalf of "The Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners," a copy of the rules of which society had been duly deposited with the Registrar of Friendly Societies, laid an information under s. 24 of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63, against the respondent, an officer of the society, charging that he had in his possession 40*l.* of the money of the society, and had wilfully misapplied the same.

On the hearing before the justices for the borough of Bradford the charge was proved, but the justices dismissed the complaint on the ground that the rules of the society, as shewn by the evidence, were illegal and in restraint of trade, and that the society was not within 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63.

Section 9 of that Act makes it lawful for any number of persons to establish a friendly society for raising voluntary subscriptions of the members:—"1. For insuring a sum to be paid on the birth of a member's child, or on the death of a member, or for the funeral expenses of the wife or child of a member. 2. For the relief or maintenance of members, their husbands, wives, children, brothers or sisters, nephews or nieces, in old age, sickness, or widowhood, provided the rules of the society be certified by the registrar."

By section 24:—"If any officer or member having money of such society in his possession shall misapply the same, jurisdiction is given to two justices to hear the complaint as under 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43, and adjudicate upon it."

By section 44:—"In the case of any friendly society established for any of the purposes mentioned in section 9, or for any purpose which is not illegal, having written or printed rules, whose rules have not been certified by the registrar, provided a copy of such rules shall have been deposited with the registrar, every dispute between any member and official, &c. of such society shall be decided as in the Act mentioned, and also section 24 shall be applicable to such uncertified societies."

Rule 18, section 6, of the society was:—"Any officer being discharged from employment for holding office, if he sign the vacant book each day, shall be paid at the rate of wages he was receiving when discharged, such remuneration to continue till he receive employment. Section 7:—"Any free or non-free member or members leaving his or their employment under circumstances satisfactory to the branch or executive council, shall be entitled to the sum of 15*s.* per week. Section 9:—"Any member refusing work from private objections, unless he can shew sufficient reason to a committee of a majority of the members at the next branch meeting, shall be suspended from donation until after he has been employed."

Rule 25, section 1:—"In the event of an application to the executive committee from other trades for assistance, the general society shall obtain information respecting the same, and on the executive committee being satisfied as to the genuineness of the case, shall grant such assistance as the state of the funds warrants, or the case may in their opinion deserve."

The evidence of the appellant stated that "Strikes are reported Members of our society would not be allowed to go to places where there are strikes if we can prevent them. We would give a member 2*l.* or 3*l.* to send him somewhere else; if he were out of work at Bradford, rather than a man should go to Keighley (if a strike was on), we would grant money to send him a thousand miles another way. We can pay this money at our discretion. We would send men to Halifax or Leeds, pay their railway fares, and keep them on, if it should be a case satisfactory to the branch. Any man can see from our monthly report where there are strikes, and where to avoid. If I am on strike, or we draw men out, and money is paid to me or them by the society, all such payments are trade privileges, and justified by the rules."

On appeal under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43:

Quain, Q.C., for the appellant, contended that the rules were not illegal, and that the society was a friendly society within 18 & 19 Vict. c. 63.

The respondent did not appear.

COCKBURN, C.J., and MALLON, J., held that the evidence shewed that the rules in practice were applied so as to render the funds of the society available for the purpose of supporting strikes by allowing sums of money to workmen wanting employment, in order to prevent them from seeking work in districts where men are on strike, and also by giving assistance to other branch associations in districts where strikes are going on; that such purposes are not of a friendly society, but of a trades' union, and such as would be illegal, as being in restraint of trade; according to Hornby v. Close (Law Rep. 2 Q. B. 158); and that the decision of the justices was right.

HANNEN and HAYES, J.J., held that strikes are not necessarily illegal, and that there was nothing in the evidence to shew that the funds of the society had ever been applied to the support of illegal strikes; that no obligations in restraint of trade were imposed by the rules; and that the society was not shewn to be established for an illegal purpose; and that the decision of the justices was erroneous.

Q. B. SIMPSON v. YEMOND. July 3.
"Bribery" — Municipal Election — 17 & 18 Vict. c. 102, s. 2 — 22 Vict. c. 85, s. 12.

By 22 Vict. c. 85, s. 11, if any person at any election of mayor, councillors, &c. for any borough shall be guilty of bribery, he shall forfeit 40s. to any person who shall sue for the same in the County Court; by section 12, "bribery" shall include anything done before, at, or after, or with respect to any municipal election which if done before, at, or after, or with respect to any parliamentary election, would render the person doing the same liable to any pains, penalties, &c. on conviction for bribery under any Act for the time being in force with respect to parliamentary elections.

By 17 & 18 Vict. c. 102, s. 2, the following persons shall be deemed guilty of bribery:—1. Every person who shall directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person on his behalf, give, lend, or agree to give or lend, or shall offer, promise, or promise to procure, or to endeavour to procure, any money or valuable consideration to or for any voter . . . in order to induce any voter to vote or refrain from voting . . . at any election.

The plaintiff brought a plaint in a County Court, claiming 40s. against the defendant, as having been guilty of bribery by offering one Marshall, a voter, a bribe before the election for town councillors in Lichfield in November, 1867.

The judge of the County Court found a verdict for the defendant; and on appeal the question for the Court was whether the transaction as described by the defendant is "bribery" within 17 & 18 Vict. c. 102, s. 2. The evidence of the defendant was: "I saw Marshall's wife, and told her I called to solicit a vote; she said he did not intend to vote; if he did he should offend Messrs. —. She also said, he had been offered something very handsome on the other side, and 'I am sure he will not vote.' She also said he would lose much time by going to vote. I said, he would be remunerated for what loss of time might occur. I never mentioned money—7s. 6d. I saw Marshall next morning. I again said, I solicit your vote. He told me he did not intend to vote. I did not offer him money; I said, he would be remunerated for loss of time."

Gray, Q.C. (R. Henn Collins with him), for the plaintiff.

Manisty, Q.C. (F. A. Boanquet with him), for the defendant.

The Court, after consultation with the election judges, were clearly of opinion that the "transaction was bribery within the Statute." The words used by the defendant, that the voter "should be remunerated for loss of time," did, under the circumstances amount to an "offer" or "promise" to "procure, or endeavour to procure, money or valuable consideration to a voter" in "order to induce him to vote." The expression "remuneration for loss of time" would necessarily convey to the apprehension of the voter, that if he would vote for a particular candidate he should receive, either directly from the person offering, or by his procurement, money or valuable consideration, which he would not otherwise obtain; and any assurance of that kind which can only be so understood, is calculated to operate upon the mind of the elector as a direct inducement to vote for such candidate.

Q. B. PLAYFORD v. UNITED KINGDOM ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH COMPANY LIMITED. July 3.
Negligence—Telegraph Company—Message, Mistake in—Privy of Contract.

The plaintiff, a merchant in London, had a cargo of ice on board a schooner at Grimsby, and on the 28th of May, 1866, wrote to Messrs. R. & K. at Hull, informing them that the cargo consisted of about 100 tons, and requesting from them an offer for the same by telegraph. Messrs. R. & K. went to the defendants' office the following day, and filled up a printed form as follows: "We can give you 25s. for cargo now at Grimsby; small ice the same. Cash. Thirty tons day." The printed form was directed to the directors of the defendants' company, and headed: "Gentlemen, I request you to send the following message according to the conditions printed hereon, and I agree to abide by the same." And at the foot was: "All messages taken by this company are received subject to the following conditions:—

[The judgment of the Court renders the conditions immaterial.]

Messrs. R. & K. delivered the printed form, filled up, to the defendants' company, and paid them 1s. 6d. for the transmission. The message was telegraphed by the defendants' company to their office in London. Their clerk, in reading off the slip, mistook the number 3 for the number 7. The message was therefore forwarded to the plaintiff:—"We can give you 27s. &c."

On receipt of this telegram the plaintiff ordered the schooner to proceed to Hull with the cargo of ice for Messrs. R. & K., but they refused to accept it at 27s.

The question was whether the defendants were liable to the plaintiff for the mistake.

Littler, for the plaintiff.

Pollock, Q.C. (A. L. Smith with him), for the defendants.

The Court (Cockburn, C.J., Lush, Hannen, and Hayes, J.J.) held that, as the message was sent by Messrs. R. & K. on their own account, and not on behalf of the plaintiff, there was no privity of contract between the plaintiff and the defendants, and that the defendants were therefore not liable to the plaintiff.

Q. B. POOLE v. WILLIAMS. July 3.
Debtor and Creditor—Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 134) —Deed under Section 192—Reservation of Rights against Sureties.

Action by an indorsee against the acceptor of a bill of exchange, to which the defendant pleaded a composition deed registered under the Statute. The deed was set out in the plea, and contained no reservation of rights against sureties.

The plaintiff replied that the bill was accepted for value, and indorsed to him for value; and that, if he had assented to the deed, he would have discharged the drawers.

To this the defendant rejoined, that, before the registration of the deed, the drawers consented to the plaintiff executing and becoming bound by the deed.

Issue was joined upon this allegation, and found in favour of the defendant.

The plaintiff then moved and obtained a rule for judgment non obstante veredicto, on the ground that, as the deed did not reserve his right against the drawers, he was not on equal terms with the other creditors, and that the consent of the sureties to the composition did not remove the inequality.

Murphy, for the plaintiff.

Pearce, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cookburn, C.J., Lush, Hannen, and Hayes, JJ.) held that a composition deed is not necessarily invalid for not containing a reservation against sureties, because it cannot be assumed that there are any creditors with sureties—Johnson v. Bennett (Law Rep. 1 Ex. 65)—and that is a fact which must be shewn by averment; that the plaintiff was such a creditor was shewn by the replication; and were it not for the rejoinder, that would vitiate the deed, because if he had executed it without the consent of the drawers of the bill, he would have discharged them, and would thus have been in a worse position than the other creditors, who must be supposed to have no remedy over for the balance of their debts. But the rejoinder removed that objection, and left the deed as it would have been if that fact had not appeared; that the plaintiff was bound by the deed; and they therefore discharged the rule.

Holborn Valley Improvement Act, 1864 (27 & 28 Vict. c. lxi.), Construction of—Lands injuriously affected by the Works done under the Act—Compensation.

The plaintiff was possessed of premises in Saffron Hill, where he carried on the business of a timber merchant. The defendants, in executing the works authorized by the Holborn Valley Improvement Act, and the Acts incorporated therewith or extended thereto, permanently blocked up certain streets near to the plaintiff's premises, and thereby diminished the facilities of access thereto, so as to render them of less value for the purpose of the plaintiff's trade, and also of less value for general business purposes.

Upon a case stated for the opinion of the Court without pleadings, it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to compensation either under s. 68 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (8 Vict. c. 18), or under the local Acts, nor was he entitled to maintain an action for the injury sustained, the acts done by the defendants being done in exercise of the powers conferred on them by the Acts of Parliament.

Truck Act (1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 37)—Artificer or Workman.

The plaintiff, a tinman, was by a verbal agreement engaged by the defendants, a company carrying on the business of mining and iron working, to work for them either by the day or at piece-work at their option, at fixed wages or prices, at making kettles, saucepans, oil-cans, and the like, the defendants supplying the materials.

The defendants' course of business in paying their workmen (including the plaintiff) was as follows:—"There were settlement or pay-days at intervals of about eight weeks, and intermediate weekly draw-days. At these intermediate draw-days cheques for small amounts on account of wages were given to the men, and an account kept on a card; and on the settlement or pay-days accounts on printed forms called tickets were made out, crediting the men with the work done, and debiting them with the amount of the cheques as "cash advances," and stoppages for the doctor's, sick, and school funds; the balance, if any, in favour of the workman was paid in cash. The cheques were drawn upon a bank more than nine miles from the works, and were invariably (or the workman would be discharged) taken to a shop of the defendants' at the works, and there exchanged for money and goods, at the rate of one fifth in money and the rest in goods. There was no written consent to the stoppages, as required by ss. 23, 24.

THE COURT held that the plaintiff was an "artificer or workman" within the meaning of s. 5, his personal skill and labour being the essence of the contract; that the mode of payment was a violation of the Act; and that the stoppages were unauthorised.

EX. MAYOR AND CORPORATION OF CARLISLE v. GRAHAM. July 2.

Several Fishery—Tidal River—River changing Course—Following Fishery—New Channel.

This was an action of trespass, in which the plaintiffs claimed the right to a several fishery in a portion of the river Eden, called the "Goat."

The river is tidal, and it appeared that the plaintiffs had been at one time unquestionably entitled to a several fishery in a part of the river called the "Loop." About the year 1693 the waters began to recede from the "Loop," and to take their present direction through the "Goat," which previously had been a ditch, with little and at some places no water in it. The soil of the "Goat," the lands on both sides of it, and the fishery throughout the whole course of the river, from the lower end of the "Goat" to the sea, have belonged from the earliest times until now to the Earls of Lonsdale, under whom the defendant claimed.

The question between the parties was whether the plaintiffs could follow their several fishery from the former to the present channel of the tidal river.

Manisty, Q.C., T. Jones, Q.C., and R. G. Williams, for the defendant.

July 2. THE COURT held that the several fishery of a subject in a tidal river, the waters of which permanently recede from a portion of its course, and flow into and through another course where the soil and land of the new channel belong to another subject, could not be transferred from the old to the new channel.

H. L. July 18.
HAMMERSMITH RAILWAY COMPANY v. BRAND.
Railway—Damage from Vibration caused by passing Trains—Compensation.

In this case, which was argued some time since, error had been assigned on a judgment of the Court of Exchequer Chamber, which had affirmed a previous judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench. When argued in the Court of Queen's Bench there had been a difference of opinion among the judges.

The defendant in error was the owner of a house lying close to the line of the Hammersmith Railway, and complained of injury caused by vibration occasioned by the passage of railway trains. A verdict had been given in favour of the defendant in No. 24.—1869.

error (plaintiff in the case), and had been ultimately sustained in the Court of Exchequer Chamber. Here again there had been a difference of opinion, not only in the Court of Exchequer Chamber as to the right of the plaintiff to recover from the company compensation in respect of this cause of injury, but there was also a difference of opinion among the judges who were summoned to attend the arguments in this House.

The Attorney-General (Sir J. B. Karlake), and J. A. Russell, Q.C., for the plaintiff in error.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and J. Dixon, for the defendant in error.

July 13. LORD CHELMSFORD now stated his opinion (though with much regret) that the Lands Clauses Act, the Railway Clauses Act, and the private Acts of the company, had left a person who complained of an injury of this sort without any legal right to demand compensation.

LORD COLONNAY went through most of the sections of these Acts, and came to the same conclusion as Lord Chelmsford.

LORD CAIRNS remarked on the difference of opinion which had existed in the Courts below, and among the judges consulted by this House, and said that under such circumstances it was not wonderful that difference of opinion should be found in this House itself. His Lordship then went into a very elaborate consideration of the clauses of the Lands Clauses Act and the Railway Clauses Act and the private Acts of this company, and expressed his opinion that on all these, taken together, there was a right given to the owner of property adjacent to a railway, injuriously affected by the ordinary working (without negligence) of the railway, to recover compensation in respect of such injury.

The judgment of the Court of Exchequer Chamber in favour of the original plaintiff was reversed.

L. J. GIFFARD. July 9.

In re UNION CEMENT AND BRICK COMPANY.
Ex parte PULBROOK.

Winding-up—Change of Solicitor of Liquidator—Solicitor's Lien on File of Proceedings.

In this case (noted ante, p. 131) an appeal was brought by Mr. Pulbrook from the decision of Vice-Chancellor Stuart.

Greene, Q.C., and Brooksbank, for the appellant.
Dickinson, Q.C., and Everitt, for the liquidator, were not called upon.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that every liquidator was appointed subject to the 58th rule of the General Order of the 11th of November, 1862, which directed the file of proceedings to be kept by him, and any solicitor who acted for him must be supposed to know the extent of his powers under that rule. The liquidator could only deal with those documents as the judge should direct, and the solicitor could not have a higher right than his client had. Mr. Pulbrook could have no lien on the documents, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

V.-O. M. MACKIE v. EUROPEAN ASSURANCE SOCIETY. July 6.

Interim Policies of Assurance—Intention—Agency.

The plaintiff was the owner of a woollen mill, bonnet factory, and wool store near Glasgow, which were insured in the Commercial Union Company through J. Waddell, the agent of the company, up to November, 1866. In that month the plaintiff made alterations in his premises, and then applied to J. Waddell to reinsure the several premises for 2700*l*. J. Waddell consented to insure the premises at 10*s*. per hundred, and the plaintiff, having paid 4*l*., received a deposit-receipt from Waddell, whereby it was declared that his property would be held insured in the European Assurance Society in virtue of such deposit for one month. When the plaintiff discovered that the receipt was from the European Assurance Society instead of the Commercial Union, he wrote to J. Waddell a letter to this effect, dated the 28th of November, 1866:—"Sir,—I see from your receipt that you seem to change our insurance from the Commercial Union to the European. Now you did not acquaint me of that, and I expected that you were continuing us in the old office. Do they refuse to take it now? I do not want any change in the office if they are willing to take all or part. As for the European, I know nothing about them, and would require to be satisfied of their respectability and standing before I would consent to give them over all the sums. Please write me and say if the old office refuse to take the assurance still, and if they also refuse the bonnet work, which I would prefer not to change at all events, and wait our reply before proceeding with the change. (Signed) R. MAOXIM & Co."

On the 1st of December, 1866, a fire broke out in the plaintiff's woollen mill, which was burnt to the ground, and the loss sustained by the plaintiff exceeded the amount of his insurance. The European Company refused to pay the sum claimed, on the ground that the plaintiff never intended to effect, and never did effect, an insurance with that company, and that he had repudiated any such insurance by his letter of the 28th of November; and also that J. Waddell had no power, under the rules of the office, to effect insurances upon hazardous goods without first obtaining the sanction of the company.

The bill was filed to compel the European Company to make good to the plaintiff the amount of damage sustained by him to the extent of the amount insured.

Glasse, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the plaintiffs.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Cotton, Q.C., and Bevir, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, whether the plaintiff was satisfied with the insurance office selected for him by J. Waddell or not, the insurance for one month was effectually secured, and was not forfeited or repudiated by the plaintiff's letter; and, further, that the defendants were bound by the acts of their agent, J. Waddell, and their delay in repudiation confirmed their liability.

V.-C. M. BOWERS v. BOWERS. July 7.
Construction of Will—Period of Distribution—Dying in Testator's Lifetime.

A testator gave the residue of his real and personal estate to trustees to be sold and converted into money, and then divided between and amongst his four children, William, Elizabeth, Henry, and Richard, share and share alike, as tenants in common, and not as joint tenants, with benefit of survivorship in case any of them should die without issue; and in case any of his said children should die leaving any child or children, then he directed that the share, whether original or accruing, of him, her, or them so dying, should belong to and be divided between such children in equal shares.

All four children were alive at the testator's death, all had attained 21, and three had families.

The question was whether the four children were entitled absolutely to one fourth each of the residue, or whether they were entitled for life only in equal shares; and that, upon the death of either, the share, as well original as accruing, of the one so dying should become the absolute property of his or her children, or, in case of no children, then of the survivors.

Shapter, Q.C., and Vincent, for the plaintiff.

Pearson, Q.C., Hardy, Q.C., Whitworth, Humphry, and Brodrick, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided that the four children took absolute interests in the property, and that the contingency of death leaving issue meant death in the testator's lifetime.

V.-C. M. PARSONS v. PARSONS. July 9.
Will—Construction—"Hereditaments"—Annuity for Life, or Perpetual—Annuity charged on Real and Personal Estate—Substitutionary Gift—"Or their Heirs."

This was the further consideration of an administration suit.

James Parsons, the testator in the cause, devised and bequeathed all his real and personal estate, brewery plant, farming stock, household furniture, and plate, unto his wife, for her benefit as long as she lived; but in case of the death of his wife, then he "devised the above hereditaments to his eldest son James Parsons and his heirs male of his body, but subject to this condition, that from the rents and profits of the farm and brewing business the several annuities of 25*l*. should be paid by him to each of the testator's six sons and daughters, or their heirs respectively; and in case the said James Parsons refused to take the property and the business, subject to the above conditions, or died without issue, then he devised the above hereditaments to his daughter Mary Parsons and her heirs, and to be subject to the said conditions; and he devised that the above annuities should commence at the death of his wife, and be paid quarterly."

The testator had five sons and daughters (including James) living at the date of his will, all of whom survived him. Another daughter had died before the will was made, leaving several children, who survived the testator.

The following questions were raised: 1st. Whether, after the widow's death, the personal estate passed to the son James under the devise of "the above hereditaments," or was undisposed of. 2nd. Whether the annuities were confined to the lives of the annuitants, or were perpetual. 3rd. Whether the annuities were charged on the whole of the property given to James, or only on the rents and profits of the farm and brewing business. 4th. Who took under the substitutionary words "or their heirs respectively."

Cole, Q.C., and Rawlinson, for the testator's younger children.

Cotton, Q.C., and Hemming, for James Parsons.

Pearson, Q.C., for the eldest, and Glasse, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the younger children of the deceased daughter.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held (1) that, having regard to the context, the devise of "the above hereditaments" carried the personal as well as the real estate; (2) that, having regard to the substitutionary gift to the heirs of the sons and daughters, the annuities were perpetual; (3) that the annuities were charged on the whole real and personal estate; and (4) that the annuities were personal estate, and, consequently, under the words "or their heirs," the statutory next of kin and not the heir-at-law of the deceased daughter, would take the annuity which she would have taken if living.

V.-C. M. JOHNSTON v. BROWN. July 10.
Practice—Special Case—Marriage of Female Defendant after Case set down.

This was a special case.

After the case had been set down for hearing, a female defendant, who was unmarried when the case was set down, married. Her husband was made a defendant, and the case was heard, and a decree was made, but the registrar raised a question whether, upon the marriage of the female defendant, the leave of the Court ought not to have been obtained under the 13th section of 13 & 14 Vict. c. 35 to set down the case again.

Lawson mentioned the matter to the Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the 13th section did not apply to the case of a woman who married after the case had been set down, and that it was not necessary to set down the case again.

V.-O. M. HAYHOW v. GEORGE. July 12.
Trustees' Costs—Vexatious Conduct of Trustees.

A testator gave all his property, which consisted of his business of a boot and shoe maker, and his stock-in-trade, to trustees, to sell and invest the proceeds and pay the interest to his wife for life, and then to his children. The testator died in November, 1866, and his property, when realised, produced 350*l.* The trustees, having wound up the affairs, paid the money into a joint stock bank on deposit at 1*l.* per cent.; but, although the widow of the testator was almost starving, and had several children to support, they refused, upon one pretext and another, to pay her any portion of the income, and this bill was filed against the trustees for an account.

Glasse, Q.C., and Hunter, for the plaintiff, asked that the trustees might be ordered to pay the costs of the suit.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said, where people were poor, the grossest breach of trust you could commit was to refuse payment of money to which they were entitled. There was no excuse for the conduct of the trustees, and they must pay the costs of the suit.

Solicitors: James May & Son; Shearman.

V.-O. M. SOUTHWILL v. MARTIN. July 12.
Duty of Trustees—Trustees' Costs.

A testator gave all the residue of his property to the defendants, in trust to pay the same to his niece Ann Haslop, daughter of his brother, William Haslop. The facts were that the testator's brother William had three daughters, Elizabeth, Martha, and Mary Ann; that Mary Ann the plaintiff was usually called Ann, but she was married thirty years before the date of the will, and her married name was Mary Ann Southwill. The trustees, under these circumstances, refused to pay the money to the plaintiff without the sanction of the Court, and they alleged that the testator's brother, William, had two sons, both of them married and having families, and that one of these brothers might have a daughter named Ann, who as the great niece of the testator might be entitled; but there was no allegation that any such great niece existed.

Ince, for the plaintiff, asked that the Court would declare Mary Ann Southwill entitled to the fund, and that the trustees might be ordered to pay the costs of the suit for having raised a frivolous and vexatious defence, and obliged the plaintiff to file this bill.

Glasse, Q.C., and Busk, for the trustees, submitted that there was sufficient doubt under the words of the will to render the defendants' conduct perfectly justifiable.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he considered this one of the clearest cases, and there could be no doubt whatever that the plaintiff was the person entitled. The trustees had committed a great wrong in forcing the plaintiff to institute this suit, and they must pay the whole of the costs.

Solicitors: Spyer & Son; Thompson, Pickering, & Styan.

V.-O. J. FINCH v. FINCH. July 8.
Practice—Administration—Infant out of Jurisdiction—Adopting Proceedings.

This was a suit to administer the estate of Austin Finch, under whose will an infant named Frederick Emmanuel Finch took an interest. The infant was made a defendant, but was out of the jurisdiction, and the bill was not served upon him. An administration decree was made, directing the common and some special inquiries. A guardian having been appointed to the infant, he appeared by the guardian to the suit, and was desirous of adopting the proceedings. If he had been of full age he would have been entitled to submit to the decree, and adopt the proceedings as a matter of course; but, being an infant, it was necessary that the Court should consider whether it would be for his benefit.

Ince, for the infant, said that in the only reported case on the question the Court directed a reference to the master to inquire whether it would be for the infant's benefit to adopt the proceedings: Copley v. Smithson (5 De G. & Sm. 588). It was desired, if possible, to avoid the circuitry of this course.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order that the proceedings should be adopted on behalf of the infant, if the judge in chambers should so direct.

Solicitor: Oehme.

Q. B. DENSTON v. ASBTON. July 3.
Costs, Security for—Insolvent Plaintiff—Assignee of Bankrupt suing for Benefit of Estate.

A rule had been obtained to set aside an order of Willes, J., requiring the plaintiff to give security for costs in an action of ejectment brought by the plaintiff, as assignee of one Horwood, a bankrupt, to recover some premises formerly occupied by the bankrupt, and claimed by the plaintiff for the benefit of the estate. The order had been made on the ground of the plaintiff's poverty and alleged inability to pay costs if he failed, and because he was suing, not for his own benefit, but for that of the creditors.

Bere shewed cause, and relied on the general rule requiring security for costs in the case of an insolvent who is suing as a mere nominal plaintiff for the benefit of a third person.

Day, in support of the rule, contended that the case was withdrawn from the general rule on the ground that the plaintiff had, as assignee, a duty to collect the assets for the benefit of the estate, and that there was no instance in such a case of requiring security for costs.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Hannen and Hayes, JJ.) held that the circumstances of the case afforded no ground for requiring security; and made the rule absolute to rescind the order.

C. P. FOSTER v. MACKINNON. July 5.
Bill of Exchange—Indorsement obtained by Fraud—Negligence.

In an action by indorsee against indorser of a bill of exchange for 3000*l.*, the defendant pleaded a traverse of the indorsement, and that his indorsement was obtained by fraud.

The acceptor of the bill, who was called by the plaintiff, stated that he produced the bill (which was drawn, accepted, and indorsed by the payee, one Cooper) to the defendant, a gentleman advanced in life, and asked him to put his name on the back after that of Cooper, telling the defendant it was a guarantee, and that the defendant put his signature to the instrument in ignorance that it was a bill of exchange.

The judge, in summing up, told the jury that, if the indorsement of the defendant was obtained upon a fraudulent representation that it was a guarantee, and the defendant signed it without knowing that it was a bill, and under the belief that it was a guarantee, and if the defendant was not guilty of any negligence in so signing the paper, he was entitled to the verdict.

The jury found for the defendant.

THE COURT held that the direction was right, but granted a new trial upon the evidence as to negligence.

C. P. MORRIS v. OGDEN. July 5.
Church Discipline Act (3 & 4 Vict. c. 86)—Effect of a Suspension ab Officio et à Beneficio.

The plaintiff, who had been duly appointed incumbent and perpetual curate of St. Peter's, Ashton-under-Lyne, was by a decree or sentence of the Bishop of Manchester, dated the 13th of December, 1861, "suspended ab officio et à beneficio for the space of three years, to commence from Sunday, the 15th of December, 1861," he having been shewn to be guilty of having within two years last past, to wit, in the month of January last, committed adultery or fornication with a person named Bertha Lee at the city of Worcester, and having caused great scandal to the church, contrary to the Statutes," &c.—such sentence to remain in force until he should produce a certificate to the satisfaction of the bishop, signed by three neighbouring beneficed clergymen of the diocese of Manchester, of his good conduct during the period of suspension; and such suspension not to be taken off until he should produce such certificate. The sentence was duly published, and remained unrevoked. A sequestration of the profits of the living was issued by the bishop in September, 1864, for the purpose of satisfying the costs of the proceedings, and providing for the performance of the duties of the incumbent. A further sequestration was issued by reason of the plaintiff's non-residence. Both were, however, revoked in March, 1865, when the defendant was appointed to the living.

Upon a special case:

THE COURT held that the sentence of suspension operated per se to incapacitate the suspended clerk from bringing any action or instituting any suit to recover the profits of the benefice; and that, whether a sequestration were issued or not—or, having issued, was afterwards relaxed—the clerk was not restored until the sentence was revoked or satisfied.

It was further held that the offence was defined in the sentence with sufficient certainty, the charge substantially being incontinence with the female named; that the jurisdiction of the bishop was sufficiently shewn; and that it was no objection to the proceedings that the sentence was not pronounced in the presence of the plaintiff, or served personally upon him.

Brown, Q.C., and C. Crompton, for the plaintiff.

Holker, Q.C., and J. E. Edwards, for the defendant.

P. & M. BLACK v. JOBLING. June 29.
Testamentary Paper called a Codicil—Will not forthcoming—Revocation of Codicil—Independent Testamentary Paper.

Ebenezer Black died on or about the 8th of May, 1868. On the 14th of February, 1865, he executed a will, and a codicil thereto on the 1st of October, 1866, but neither of these papers was found on his death. On the 19th of October, 1867, the deceased duly executed a paper to the following effect:—"I, E. B. &c., having already bequeathed to my five grandchildren, issue of my daughter Anne Jobling, the lease, stock, and profits, with everything relating to the farm of Fenham Hill, they paying all rates, taxes, and whatever charges may come against such farm of Fenham Hill, in addition to which I now bequeath to each of the above-named children of my daughter Anne the sum of 300*l.* sterling money, when they attain the age of 21 years, out of my capital, to be paid to them individually by my executors.

"Signed by the testator as a codicil to his last will and testament, &c."

This document was given to the defendant by the deceased, and remained in the custody of the defendant until after the death of Mr. Black. He now, as a legatee named therein, pro-pounded it, and the plaintiff pleaded that it was not executed in accordance with the provisions of the Statute 1 Vict. c. 26, and that, if the deceased executed the said testamentary paper, he executed it as a second codicil to his last will and testament, and that the deceased afterwards destroyed the said will and first codicil with an intention to revoke the same, and also the said alleged codicil.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Pritchard, for the plaintiff.

Staveley Hill, Q.C., and Dr. Tristram, for the defendant.

LORD PENZANCE, having reviewed all the cases reported both before and since the passing of the Statute 1 Vict. c. 26, as to the effect of the revocation of a will by destruction upon a codicil to it, continued:—"Now, in reviewing these decisions, I cannot perceive that the effect of the Statute has been fully considered by the Court. Sir C. Cresswell seems to have thought that it had been decided that the Statute made no difference, and passed it by as having been so; and Sir H. J. Fust dismissed the point without any reasoning whatever, merely affirming that the Statute had made it necessary that there should be an affirmative intention to revoke. But the Statute says nothing of the kind; and unless it makes an actual revocation necessary, it does not interfere with the existing law at all. In the unsatisfactory state of the decisions, I think I shall do best in such a case as the present by adhering to the Statute, and by holding that, as the codicil has never been revoked in any of the modes indicated by the Statute as the only modes by which a codicil is to be revoked, it remains of full force, and is entitled to be admitted to proof.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF D. JENKINS. July 6.
Testamentary Suit—Guardian ad litem—Next of Kin of Minor interested—Citation.

David Jenkins died on the 23th of November, 1867, having made a will bearing date the 26th of November, 1867, in which he appointed his wife guardian to his only child, eight years of age, and sole executrix. Mrs. Jenkins proved the will on the 14th of December, 1867.

Bayford moved the Court to appoint the paternal uncle to the minor his guardian, for the purpose of calling in the probate and contesting the validity of the will of the deceased. As the minor is living with his mother, he is not in a position to elect an independent guardian. He referred to the practice in the Court of Chancery: Sidney Smith's Chancery Practice (7th ed. vol. i. pp. 271-273).

LORD PENZANCE refused to allow a suit to be instituted on behalf of the minor until the mother had been cited to shew cause why the uncle should not be appointed guardian for that purpose.

House of Lords.

H. L. June 18.
 MRS. SINGLETON SCOTT, APP.; LORD NAPIER, RESP.
Rights of Riparian Proprietors.

Mrs. Singleton Scott of Rodono, in the county of Selkirk, sought a judicial declaration that, as the owner of an estate on the north side of St. Mary's loch, she was entitled, with the other adjoining riparian proprietors, "to the joint or common right of using boats, fowling, fishing, floating timber, and exercising all other riparian privileges over said loch."

Lord Napier resisted this application, maintaining that the soil of St. Mary's loch, and the loch itself, with the right of actually draining it if he should think proper, was vested exclusively in his lordship by charter from the Crown, fortified by exclusive and uninterrupted possession.

There were, in fact, two lochs which formed the subject of litigation—one called St. Mary's, the other the Lowes; surrounded by lands belonging to four distinct proprietors—namely, the Duke of Buccleuch, Mr. Murray of Cringletie, Mrs. Singleton Scott (the appellant), and Lord Napier (the respondent). The question, moreover, was not only interesting to them, but also to the owners of property on the banks of the river Yarrow issuing out of these lochs, which appeared to be its main feeders.

The Court of Session (First Division) pronounced judgment in favour of Lord Napier; one, however, of the learned judges (Lord Curriehill) strongly dissenting.

Mrs. Singleton Scott appealed to the House.

The Lord Advocate (Mr. Moncreiff), and Pearson, Q.C., for the appellant.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Anderson, Q.C., and Mark Napier, for the respondent.

In delivering his opinion:

THE LORD CHANCELLOR (LORD HATHERLEY) examined the title-deeds on both sides with great care and minuteness, expressing a clear opinion that neither in them nor in the evidence as to possession was there anything to justify Lord Napier's exclusive pretensions. The Lord Chancellor was followed to the same effect by LORD CHELMSFORD, LORD COLONSAY, and LORD CAIRN, who all concurred in holding that the position of Mrs. Singleton Scott was that of an ordinary riparian proprietor, of which position she was entitled to enjoy all the benefits claimed by her. The decision, therefore, pronounced by the Court of Session was reversed.

Solicitors for the appellant: Connell & Hope.

Solicitor for the respondent: Preston Karslake.

H. L. FOREMAN v. FREE FISHERS OF WHITSTABLE. July 13.

Anchorage Dues—Port.

This was a proceeding in error in respect of a judgment in the Exchequer Chamber, which had sustained the right of the defendants in error to levy a toll of 1s. on each vessel that cast anchor within the limits of the port of Whitstable. There had been a previous litigation—Gann v. The Free Fishers of Whitstable (11 H. L. C. 192)—in which the allegation of the Free Fishers was that an anchorage due in respect of the ownership of the soil of the manor of Whitstable, in which the bay of Whitstable was situated, was leviable from vessels casting anchor in this spot. This House had decided that the right of navigation was a paramount public right, which could not be affected by the interest of the Crown as lord of the manor of any place where such right could be exercised, or by the grantees of any such manor. But it was intimated at the same time that such a toll might be sustainable in respect of anchoring within the limits of a port. The present proceeding was, in fact, the result of that intimation, and the Free Fishers alleged the existence of a port, and gave evidence in support of that allegation. The judgment of the Court was in their favour, and hence this proceeding in error. The judges who were consulted had given an unanimous opinion in favour of the present claim of toll.

Prentice, Q.C., and F. M. White, for the plaintiff in error.

Hon. G. Denman, Q.C., McLish, Q.C., and Raymond, for the defendants in error.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR, adopting fully the previous decision of this House, and declaring the right of navigation and safe anchorage to be paramount to any interests of the Crown or its lessee in the soil of any manor, held that, if the existence of a port was proved, the right to demand toll in respect of the use of that port would have a legal origin. He went through the evidence to shew that the existence of a port had here been proved, and consequently that the demand for toll was legally justifiable.

LORD CHELMSFORD and LORD COLONSAY concurred. Judgment affirmed.

Attorney for the plaintiff in error: Towne.

Attorneys for the defendants in error: Nethersole & Speechly.

L. J. GIFFARD.

ALTON v. HARRISON.

July 16.

POYFER v. HARRISON.

Fraudulent Conveyance—13 Eliz. c. 5—Fraudulent Preference.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Stuart. The defendant T. L. Harrison was a trustee, against whom an order in this Court had been made on the 8th of June, 1868, for the payment, on or before the 2nd of November, of a sum of 1827*l.*, being the balance due from him to the trust funds.

On the 24th of October Harrison called a meeting of five of his creditors, and on the 29th of October he executed a deed, by which he assigned the whole of his property to trustees, by way of mortgage, for the benefit of those five creditors, with a proviso that he should be allowed to remain in possession for six months, "but not so as to let in any execution, sequestration, or any other process; and in case any such process should be enforced, or attempted to be enforced, his possession should cease and determine."

On the 18th of December a writ of sequestration was issued for non-payment of the money due from him under the order of the 8th of June, 1868, but the sequestrators were met by the claim of the trustees of the deed.

The Vice-Chancellor directed an inquiry into the circumstances, and, on the matter being brought before him, held that the deed, although executed for the purpose of giving preference to the five creditors, was not void under the Statute of the 13th Elizabeth; and from this decision the sequestrators appealed.

Muckerson, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the appellants.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Solomon, for the respondents.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said the only question was whether the deed was bona fide. He was of opinion that there was nothing in the present case to shew that the debtor intended any benefit to himself, although the effect was to give a preference to the five creditors. The fact that the possession was reserved to the debtor for six months, which was consistent with the frame of the deed as a mortgage deed, and that the whole of the debtor's property was comprised in it, did not, in His Lordship's opinion, invalidate the deed. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed with costs.

BROWN v. ADAMS.

July 16.

Appropriation of Payments—Trust Fund—Bankers' Account.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor James. William Hale, late a solicitor at Bristol, received a sum of 5000*l.* from the plaintiff Mrs. Brown, who was his client, for the purpose of investment in mortgage. He paid it into his bankers, Messrs. Drummond, to his general account, on the 29th of October, 1868. At that time about 4000*l.* was standing to his account, and between that time and his death, which took place in May, 1869, he paid in various other sums amounting to more than 12,000*l.*, and drew out sums to the amount of more than 18,000*l.*, so that at his death there was a balance standing to his account of 2847*l.* He never applied the sum of 5000*l.* to the purpose intended by his client; and she filed the present bill against his administrator, claiming the balance at the bankers as trust-money. The Vice-Chancellor granted an injunction till the hearing, restraining the defendant from drawing the balance from the bankers; and the defendant appealed from this decision.

Kay, Q.C., and Roberts, for the appellant.

Willcock, Q.C., and C. Broune, for the plaintiff.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that there was nothing to take the case out of the ordinary rule, that in bankers' accounts the first sums drawn out must be appropriated, in the absence of special directions, to the first sums paid in. The sum of 5000*l.* had been drawn out long before the death of Hale, and no part of the balance could be considered trust-money. The injunction must, therefore, be dissolved.

M. R. WOOLLISBROFT v. SLANEY. July 6.
Settled Account—Setting Aside—Action at Law.

In this case the plaintiff had employed the defendant Slaney and his late partner as his solicitors from 1860 down to the beginning of 1867. In January, 1867, the defendant sent to the plaintiff a bill of costs, shewing a balance of 453*l.* due from the plaintiff. In April, 1867, the defendant commenced an action at law for the amount of the balance. On the 27th of April, 1867, this action was settled by the plaintiff giving his acceptance at six months for 395*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.*, and on that day a memorandum was signed by the defendant, stating that such settlement had been made "with the understanding that, in the event of any moneys being found to have been wrongly entered as against Mr. Woollisbroft" (the plaintiff), "or any credits omitted in the account hereunto annexed (marked A.), that the same shall be refunded to him."

The plaintiff subsequently, as he alleged, discovered serious errors in the account, and filed this bill, seeking to have the settled account set aside and a proper account taken.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Chester, for the plaintiff.

Jessel, Q.C., and Bevir, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that no case of fraud was alleged, and that the plaintiff had, by entering into the agreement of the 27th of April, 1867, deprived himself of the right to have the account taken over again. If any errors were discovered in the account, the plaintiff would be entitled, under that agreement, to bring an action at law, and recover any amount which might be found due to him; but he had no further right, and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

M. R. WILKINSON v. LINDGREN. July 13.
Will—Trust "for any other Religious Institution or Purposes as A. and B. may think proper."

This case (noted ante, p. 174) was reargued. The question arose on the construction of a will, whereby a testatrix gave legacies to various religious societies and institutions, and bequeathed her residue to her executors, T. Fletcher and J. Wilkinson, upon the following trust:—

"To divide the same to and amongst the different institutions, or to any other religious institution or purposes as they, the said T. Fletcher and J. Wilkinson, may think proper, which disposition I leave entirely to their discretion."

The question was whether the residuary gift was void, as being a trust for uncertain objects.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the trustees.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bunting, for the charities interested under the will, contended that the gift was good, as the word "religious" was to be extended to the word "purposes."

Rosburgh, Q.C., and Phear, for the next of kin, contended that it was a gift "to any other purposes" generally, and was therefore void.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, upon looking at this case more carefully, he was of opinion that his former decision was wrong, and that the word "religious" in the residuary clause governed the whole sentence; so that the gift was "to any other religious purposes," not "to any other purposes" generally. His Lordship, therefore, held it to be a good charitable bequest.

FORWOOD'S CLAIM.

Winding-up—Time when Second Creditor must send in his Claim—General Order of the 11th of November, 1862, Rule 20.

In this case, which came before the Court on an adjourned summons, Messrs. Forwood claimed to be creditors of the above company for the sum of 15,000*l.* It was admitted that they were entitled to prove for that amount if their claim was sent in at the time they alleged.

In March and April, 1866, Messrs. Forwood advanced two sums of 9000*l.* and 6000*l.* to certain ship-owners on the security of two ships, and took bills for those amounts, payable respectively at three and four months after date.

At the same time they took two guarantees from BARNED'S Banking Company, dated the 27th of March and the 4th of April, 1866, whereby, in consideration of their accepting the drafts for those two sums and agreeing to renew the same, the banking company agreed to provide them with funds to meet the drafts seven days before maturity, on having, if called upon to pay, a transfer of the securities.

On the 27th of April, 1866, an order was made to wind up the banking company, and the usual advertisement was issued for claims against the company to be sent in by the 22nd of July following.

On the 25th of June, two days before the draft for 9000*l.* reached maturity, the clerk of a notary public employed by Messrs. Forwood presented the guarantee of the 27th of March, 1866, at the office of the banking company, and requested payment; which was refused by the official liquidator, and he then affixed to it the notarial memorandum, "Cannot be paid."

The same was done with the second guarantee.

No further claim was made till a formal account was sent in on the 18th of March, 1868, after the ships had been sold for a sum less than the amount secured, for which smaller amount the claimants were admitted to prove.

The question was whether the notarial presentment constituted a claim sent in within the meaning of the 20th Rule of the General Order of the 11th of November, 1862, and the decision in Kellock's Case (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 769).

Jessel, Q.C., and Hemming, for the claimants, contended that the claim was duly sent in at the time when the guarantees were taken to the office, and that they were entitled to prove for the full amount.

Southgate, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator, contended that no proper claim was sent in till the 18th of March, 1868.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that no claim had been sent in when the guarantees were presented, and that the summons must be dismissed. No costs to be allowed to the claimants.

M. R. In re HEYFORD COMPANY. July 13.
PELL'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Liability for Shares allotted to a Vendor to the Company as Purchase-money.

This was an adjourned summons.

The question was whether George Pell was to be put on the list of contributories for 1350 shares.

By the memorandum of association it was stated that the capital of the company was 120,000*l.*, in 6000 shares of 20*l.* each, and Pell's name was mentioned in the list of subscribers as having agreed to take 1350 shares.

By clause 86 of the articles of association an agreement was ratified, and declared to be binding on the company, by which Pell sold to the company the goodwill and stock-in-trade of certain businesses carried on by him, and it was agreed that, as part of the consideration to be paid to him, the company were "to issue to Pell or his nominees 1500 shares, of the nominal value of 20*l.* each, which shares should be credited in the books of the company as fully paid up, in part payment of the purchase-money."

The books of the company shewed no payment for the shares standing in his name except the handing over of the goodwill and stock-in-trade of the business.

Roeburgh, Q.C., for the official liquidator.

Westlake, for Pell, contended that he was not liable, as the public had notice from the articles that the shares were to be treated as fully paid up.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that he must be put on the list for all the shares, and was entitled to an inquiry as to what was the value of the property handed over by him to the company, and to be allowed such value, but no more, towards payment of his shares.

CREYKE'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Past Member—Forfeiture of Shares—Companies Act, 1862, s. 38.

This was an application on the part of the official liquidator of the above-named company to settle Mr. Creyke on the list of contributories as a past member of the company. Mr. Creyke had been registered as a holder of forty shares, and these shares, while standing in his name, had been forfeited within a year from the commencement of the winding-up.

The clause of the articles of association which related to the effect of forfeiture was as follows:—"The forfeiture of any share shall involve the extinction at the time of the forfeiture of all interest in and all claims and demands against the company in respect of the share, and all other rights incident to the share; but any member whose shares have been forfeited shall notwithstanding be liable to pay to the company all calls owing on such shares at the time of such forfeiture."

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator, relied on Bridger's Case and Neill's Case (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 266).

Jessel, Q.C., and Speed, for Creyke, contended that the effect of the articles of association was to provide that by forfeiture the shares should be extinguished, and, consequently, that no one could be made liable in respect of a forfeited share.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the case fell within Bridger's Case and Neill's Case, which in effect decided that, in determining whether a person was to be put on the list of contributories as a past member, the Act of Parliament must be looked to, and not the articles of association. Consequently Creyke must be settled on the list.

M. R. In re BLAKELY ORDNANCE COMPANY. July 14.
BAILEY'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Past Member—Agreement to take Shares.

This was an application by the official liquidator of the above-named company to place Mr. Bailey on the list of contributories as a past member.

It appeared that in August, 1865, Captain Blakely, the managing director of the company, applied to Mr. Bailey to accept a transfer into his name of certain fully paid-up shares, and then to execute a transfer of them to a purchaser, to whom Captain Blakely alleged he had sold the shares, and from whom he was desirous of concealing the fact that he (Blakely) was the real vendor. Bailey agreed to comply with Blakely's request, upon the understanding that the shares were fully paid up, and that the transfer to the purchaser should be registered immediately. Accordingly, on the 20th of August, Bailey executed a transfer by Blakely to himself of shares, the numbers of which were left in blank. The numbers were afterwards filled up by Blakely with shares not fully paid up, and the transfer was registered on the 31st of August. On the 31st of August Bailey executed a transfer from himself, the numbers of the shares and the name of the transferee being left in blank. In May, 1866, Bailey discovered that the second transfer had never been registered; and he applied to Blakely to cause it to be registered, which he accordingly did, filling in his own name as transferee. In June, 1866, the company was ordered to be wound up.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator.

Jessel, Q.C., and Springnall Thompson, for Bailey.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that Bailey could not be put on the list, as he had never agreed to accept these shares. The transfer he accepted was a nullity, being in blank; and the only contract to take shares, which was proved, was a contract to take fully paid-up shares, which these were not.

HOLLAND'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Past Member—Debts of Company—Payment in Debentures.

This was an application on the part of the official liquidator of the above-named company to settle Colonel Holland on the list of contributories as a past member.

The application was resisted on the ground that all the existing debts or liabilities of the company had been contracted after the time when Colonel Holland ceased to be a member; and it was admitted that this was the case, unless the debt due on certain debentures issued after the time when Colonel Holland ceased to be a member could be regarded as having been contracted before that time.

By a contract entered into in June, 1865, Messrs. Blakely & Dent, then carrying on business under the firm of the Blakely Ordnance Company, agreed to sell their business to the above-named company (when formed) for 350,000*l.*, of which 150,000*l.* was to be paid by the issue and delivery to Blakely of debentures to that amount, payable to bearer, and the residue as in the agreement mentioned. Subsequently to the time when Colonel Holland ceased to be a member the requisite debentures were issued in pursuance of the agreement, and were assigned by Blakely to holders for value. The rest of the purchase-money was paid in accordance with the agreement.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator, contended that the debentures were not payment of the debt to Blakely, which must be treated as still subsisting.

Jessel, Q.C., and Jackson, for Colonel Holland, contra.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the debt had been paid by the debentures, and that Colonel Holland could not be put on the list.

M. R. In re HORSLEY AND KNIGHTON'S PATENT. July 15.

Patent—Assignment—Entry in Register—Expunging Entry—Patent Law Amendment Act, 1852, ss. 35, 38.

This was a motion by Thomas Horsley, under the 38th section of the Patent Law Amendment Act, 1852, that an entry made under colour of that Act in the register of proprietors kept at the patent office might be expunged, vacated, or varied.

It appeared that a patent for improvements in core bars or barrals, dated the 8th of November, 1866, had been granted to Thomas Horsley and George Knighton, their executors, administrators, and assigns. By an indenture dated the 24th of December, 1868, and made between George Knighton of the one part, and Thomas Haden Oakes of the other part, Knighton assigned his estate and interest in the patent to Oakes, covenanting for title in the usual manner, and he also purported to release and discharge Oakes, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, "from all incumbrances, suits, causes of action or suit, claims or demands whatsoever, which they, the said George Knighton and Thomas Horsley, or either of them, or their or either of their executors or administrators," had, or but for the indenture might have had, against Oakes, his heirs, executors, or administrators, for or by reason or on account of the letters patent, or the invention, the subject thereof, or any matter or thing in anywise relating thereto. This deed was entered in the register at full length; and such entry was the subject of the motion.

Jessel, Q.C., Rodwell, and Astca, for the motion, said that, by s. 35 of the Patent Law Amendment Act, copies of the entry were admissible as prima facie evidence; and, that being so, the entry might seriously prejudice the rights of Horsley against Oakes.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Cracknall, for Knighton and Oakes, contended that one of two joint owners of a patent was by law entitled to give such a release as was contained in the indenture; but, if not, Horsley could not be injured by the entry, and therefore was not entitled to have it expunged.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that Horsley was entitled to have all matter prejudicial to his rights expunged; and inasmuch as the whole deed had been entered verbatim, and the Court could not alter the deed, the whole entry must be removed from the register.

WARRANT FINANCE COMPANY'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Debt—Principal and Interest—Double Proof.

This was an application by the official liquidator of the Joint Stock Discount Company Limited, that the Warrant Finance Company, who were creditors of the Joint Stock Discount Company, might be excluded from further participating in any dividends paid to the creditors of the company until all the creditors had received 20s. in the pound.

The Warrant Finance Company were the holders of certain bills of exchange drawn upon and accepted by the Contract Corporation (also in liquidation), and indorsed by the Joint Stock Discount Company. The bills had been proved both against the Contract Corporation and the Joint Stock Discount Company. By the former company, 4s. 6d. on the principal due on the bills had been paid, and by the latter 15s. 6d., so that the principal debt was satisfied, but not the interest thereon.

Jessel, Q.C., and Locoock Webb, for the official liquidator, relied on In re Humber Iron Works Company (ante, pp. 115, 138).

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Langley, for the Warrant Finance Company, contended that this was the case of a creditor having security for his debt, who was entitled to take interest only out of his security, and proceed against the debtor for the principal, as in Kellock's Case (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 769); consequently their clients were entitled to go on receiving dividends until both principal and interest were satisfied.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the case was governed by that of the Humber Iron Works Company, and made the order as prayed.

M. R. In re SOUTH BLACKPOOL HOTEL COMPANY. July 16
Ex parte JAMES.

Company—Winding-up—Debenture—Proof—Set-off—Debt—Damages.

This was an application by the holder of three debentures for 100l. issued by the company, to prove against the company for the amounts due thereon. The official liquidator claimed a set-off.

It appeared that by clause 56A of the articles of association the directors were authorized to pay a certain sum to the promoter of the company, as remuneration to him for all costs and expenses incurred about the promotion of the company, he "indemnifying the directors from all costs, damages, and expenses, down to the allotment of the shares." The debentures in question were three out of seventeen such debentures issued to the promoter in payment of such sum, and had been by him assigned to the present applicant. The promoter had not paid all the costs and expenses against which he was to indemnify the company; and such costs had been proved to a considerable extent against the company in the winding-up.

Jessel, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the claimant, admitted that the debentures were not such as to exclude a right of set-off, if there was one, but they contended that a claim for damages arising out of a breach of agreement to indemnify could not be set-off against the debt due on these debentures.

North, for the official liquidator, was not called upon.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the company was entitled to set off against the debt due on each debenture one seventeenth part of the amount of the claims proved against the company, but against which the promoter was liable to indemnify the company under clause 56A of the articles of association.

V.-O. S. WATERLOW v. SHARP. July 6, 13.

GARDNER v. SHARP.

THE LONDON, CHATHAM, AND DOVER RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Administration—Specific, General, and Loan Accounts with Bankers—Cash Credit—Rent-charge—Creditors—Priority—Shareholders—Trust to pay all Debts due excludes Debentures not then payable, though Interest in Arrear.

These causes, which were instituted for the administration of a certain deed for the benefit of creditors, and in which one decree was made, and the carriage of it given to the plaintiff Gardner, now came on upon a motion to vary the chief clerk's certificate.

In taking the accounts, the London and County Banking Company sought to come in as creditors of the railway company for the sum of 65,420l. 7s. 7d., but the claim was opposed on the grounds that the moneys had been advanced as a loan to the company by their bankers, and that the railway company could not, under their Acts of Parliament, obtain advances from their bankers, or otherwise borrow money than upon mortgages or bonds.

The question in reference to the claim came on upon an adjourned summons on the 11th of June, 1868, when it appeared that the railway company had been constructing their works and carrying on their undertakings under numerous Acts of Parliament, and that they had thirty special and separate accounts, and one general account, with their bankers; also that the bankers had allowed the railway company to overdraw their account to a fixed amount, and that the sums so from time to time overdrawn had been entered in the books of the bank under an account headed "Loan Account." It further appeared that the bankers relied for payment upon the railway company's income.

On that occasion, after hearing

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and F. Waller, for the bankers, and Bacon, Q.C., and Martineau, against the claim:

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, being of opinion that an entry in the books of the bank of sums of money under the heading "Per Loan," against which the railway company could draw cheques, was a cash credit, and that he could not assume there was nothing due to the bankers, ordered that the bankers should be admitted to the benefit of the deed, and to prove as creditors of the railway company for any sum that might be due to them as bankers of the railway company.

On appeal the Lords Justices considered that this order left the question open; and directed the petition to stand over.

The chief clerk now certified that the bankers were creditors for 64,769*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*

The question was whether this sum was really a loan in excess of the borrowing powers conferred on the railway company by their Acts of Parliament or not.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Martineau, for the plaintiff Gardner's motion to vary the certificate:—

The evidence shews that this large sum is made up of clear and distinct advances of money just as much as if they had been advanced upon a mortgage or bond, but the chief clerk has allowed the sum claimed as being due upon a drawing account. Our proposition is that this sum is not due to the bankers from the railway company upon proper banking transactions.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—I was of opinion last year that a cash credit was not a loan. I have repeatedly considered the question since that time, and am of opinion that a private account with bankers, though called a loan account, does not make it a less proper transaction with bankers.

Dickinson:—Though the claim may have the appearance of arising as upon an overdrawn account, yet in fact, at particular dates, credit was given by the bankers to the railway company for sums which carry interest, and if the bankers had placed in the hands of the directors the whole sum on a certain day, it would have been in every sense of the word a loan.

F. Waller (Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., with him), for the London and County Banking Company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The bankers allowed their customer to overdraw to a certain extent. I still hold the opinion that this was an overdrawn account, and not a loan.

The chief clerk also certified that the debts of the railway company ranked equally, and amounted in the aggregate to 5,192,156*l.* 6*s.* 4*d.* Included in that amount were the holders of Common Fund and Western Extension Stocks, whose claims had been allowed for 86,874*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.* and 14,159*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* respectively. By an Act passed in 1861, provision was made that the Western Extension undertaking might, by a resolution of the holders of shares and stock therein entitled to dividend out of profits, be united with the general undertaking for such consideration, by way of perpetual rent-charge, which should be subject to all mortgages, bonds, and dividends, stock created by the company before the time at which such union was to take effect, and then charged on the profits of the general undertaking. On the 15th of November, 1861, the necessary resolution was passed, uniting the Western Extension with the general undertaking for the consideration of an annual sum, by way of rent-charge, equal to the interest payable in each year upon the existing mortgages, bonds, and debentures charged on such undertaking, and also a further sum per annum by way of rent-charge for the payment of interest or dividend upon the shares or stock in such undertaking, and such holders of shares or stock were not to participate further in the profits of the company.

An Act passed in 1862 carried into effect such resolutions, and such holders had a right to vote at meetings, and they also had a right to recover what was due, by distraint on the company. As to the holders of Common Fund Stock, they were in a similar position to the holders of Western Extension Stock.

The railway company, by various Acts, were empowered to construct particular undertakings. Having expended the capital raised by shares and borrowing, they required, and the Act of 1862 enabled them to obtain, additional capital by the issue of new shares, and the profits of the particular branch undertakings were to be paid to the holders of these new shares. After a time the company desired to, and did, infuse these branches into the general undertaking, and the consideration for the fusion was the giving to the branch shareholders a rent-charge.

The question was whether these persons, who were original shareholders in the branches, should be considered as creditors with the other creditors of the railway company, and their claims allowed on that footing.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Martineau, moved to vary the certificate to the extent that the holders of Common Fund and Western Extension Stocks did not rank equally with the other creditors.

Hemming, for Mr. Drawbridge, supported the motion.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Speed, for the plaintiff Waterlow.

Greene, Q.C., and Stock, for holders of Common Fund Stock, and Cookson, for holders of Western Extension Stock, opposed the motion.

Bagshawe, for the trustees of the deed of January, 1867.

Fry, Q.C., for the General Credit Company.

Kekewich, for the railway company.

Higgins, Langworthy, and Westlake, for other parties.

JULY 6. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, in delivering judgment this day, said that, as to the claim of the bankers, there was no sufficient reason for varying the certificate; the being permitted to overdraw, but not beyond a fixed amount, was in the ordinary course of dealing between bankers and customers. Although this was called "Loan Account," there was no borrowing or lending in the proper sense of the word "Loan," or within the meaning of the Acts of Parliament. The motion as to this claim must be refused, with costs to be added to the debt. As to the right of the holders of the Common Fund Stock, he was of opinion that they ought to be admitted to prove as creditors. The company were bound to pay the money called the Common Fund. The shareholders in this fund had a right to compel payment, and, that being so, they were properly certified as creditors. As to the right of the holders of Western Extension Stock, the company were bound to pay them a rent-charge, and he knew no other character in which they could stand than that of creditors when they claimed payment. The right to vote at meetings did not interfere with the right to payment. Their position as creditors was conclusive, as they had a right to distrain on the company.

JULY 13. These causes now came on upon further consideration, and two questions were raised as to the construction of a deed dated the 19th of January, 1867.

By a deed dated the 30th of June, 1866, the company assigned its rolling stock to trustees for the benefit of all its creditors. One of the trustees, who was a creditor, executed, and some other creditors assented. On the 19th of January, 1867, the company assigned the rolling stock to trustees upon trust "to pay to the creditors of the said company the several sums now payable to or receivable by them respectively pari passu, and without any preference or priority whatever." This trust the Court, by its decree, ordered to be performed; and the question was whether debentures, on which interest was in arrear, but the principal not yet payable, were entitled to be paid rateably. The second question turned on the construction of the 6th clause of the deed, in which the principle of payment was declared to be that "of the Court of Chancery in the administration of intestates' estates."

Dickinson, Q.C., and Martineau, for Gardner, and Hemming, for Drawbridge, now contended that the Court must put such a construction on the deed as was consistent with the decree and with the practice of the Court. It was quite clear that the first deed included all creditors, and therefore the second deed, unless it was held co-extensive, was void, or, at all events, impeachable. The Court, therefore, was bound by its construction to exclude that which involved a breach of trust and fraudulent preference.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Speed, for the general creditors, contended that the Court could only look to the language of the deed, which was quite clear; and, moreover, as this formed only a small portion of the property, it was the only course consistent with justice.

Greene, Q.C., and Stock, Cookson, Bagshawe, Fry, Q.C., Keke-wich, Higgins, Langworthy, and Westlake, appeared for other parties, but took no part in the argument.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the first deed was entirely superseded by the second. The trustees were directed to apply the fund in payment to the creditors of the several sums now payable to or receivable by them respectively pari passu, and without any preference or priority whatsoever. The language was plain, and could only include those whose debts were due at the date of the deed. On the second point, it was clear that the practice of this Court was intended to prevail. The decrees must be dated the 6th of July, when the case was before the Court.

V.-C. S. ROSE v. ROWE. July 7.

Will—Gift of Rents, with Power to Sell—Life Interest.

Joseph Swann, by his will dated the 23th of February, 1834, made the following disposition:—"I give to my dear wife the rents and interest of all my property whatsoever and wheresoever for her life, but still giving her liberty to sell and dispose of the whole or any part of the said property if she shall think proper so to do; and what property remains at her death, my will is that the freehold and copyhold estates be then sold, if not sold before, and, with all the other property remaining, to be divided into two equal parts." He then gave that property over to certain persons specified in the will.

The testator died in 1843. Part of his personal estate consisted of 700*l.* stock, which the widow sold in order to lend 200*l.* to a friend, which, on being repaid, she placed to her own credit in the London and County Bank. She died in 1865, and upon her death her representative claimed the property.

Hallett, sen., for the plaintiff in the suit.

Karslake, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for the legal personal representative of the widow.

Renshawe, Hemming, and Hallett, jun., for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the widow of the testator took, under his will, a life interest only in his property, and that on her death it must be divided among the parties to whom he had bequeathed it.

V.-C. S. ROBINSON v. WOOD. July 7.

Warrant of Attorney—Interest.

On the 2nd of May, 1864, the testator executed a warrant of attorney to one Cook in the following terms:—"The within warrant of attorney is given to secure the payment of the sum of 1330*l.*, with interest thereon at and after the rate of 5*l.* per cent. per calendar month on the 2nd of June next. Judgment to be entered up forthwith; and in case of default of payment of the said sum of 1330*l.* principal and interest thereon on the day aforesaid, execution or executions and other process may then issue for the said sum of 1330*l.* and interest, with costs of entering up judgment, &c."

The testator died shortly after executing the said instrument. Judgment was not entered up. The chief clerk allowed the full amount claimed for interest. This was a summons to vary the certificate in this respect.

Greene, Q.C., and F. J. Wood, in support of the summons, asked that the interest on the loan, after the 2nd of June, 1864, might be reduced to 4*l.* per cent.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Daly, for Mr. Cook.

Bristowe, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

Karslake, Q.C., and Fischer, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that upon the contract Cook was entitled to interest on his advances at 6*l.* per cent. for one month only, viz. from the 2nd of May to the 2nd of June, 1864, when it was assumed that the judgment would be entered up, and after that date he was, in the absence of any express agreement, only at liberty to claim interest at 4*l.* per cent., and that the certificate must be varied accordingly.

V.-C. S. COLLINS v. LEWIS. July 10.

Will—Specific Legacies—Insufficient Personality—Gift of Residue of Realty—Legatees not entitled to resort to Realty or to marshal Debts.

James Dew, who died in 1864, in 1861, by will, gave certain specific legacies, and then devised to the use of his wife for life all his real estate situate at Woodlands, in the parish of St. Briavels, Gloucestershire, and after her death he gave the same to his trustees, with all the residue of his real and personal estates, upon trust for his niece for life, with remainder to her children. The executors renounced probate, and the niece, who was the testator's heiress-at-law, became legal personal representative; and finding insufficient personality to pay the testator's debts, but considerable real estate, she filed this bill for an administration of the trusts. The question was whether the legacies were payable out of the realty. The pecuniary legatees contended that the legacies were charged upon the real estate in case the personality should prove insufficient to satisfy them. It now appeared that the personal estate amounted to 483*l.* 10*s.* 2*d.*, and the debts to 2063*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*

C. Broune, for the plaintiff, contended that the legacies were not charged on the realty.

Hughes, Q.C., for the defendant's trustees, referred to the case of Hensman v. Fryer (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 420), and upon the authority of that case said that, where the personal estate was insufficient for the payment of the legacies, the legatees had a right to resort to the realty or to have the debts marshalled.

Bedwell, for the testator's widow.

The legatees had been served with notice of this hearing, but did not appear.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the decision in Hensman v. Fryer was at variance with the previous authorities, and was clearly a mistake, and that he must decline to follow it. The declaration would be that these legatees had no right to resort to the real estate for payment of their legacies.

V.-C. S. BOTTEN v. CODD. July 10.

GOODMAN v. CODD.

Will—Illegitimate Child, Gift to—Bequest of Residue to a Class—Share of Married Woman asserted by her Husband—Protection Order—Separate Account.

Henry Goodman, who died in April, 1858, by will in August, 1857, bequeathed the sum of 200*l.* to Edmund Goodman, the son of Mrs. Ann Davis before her marriage with her present husband, and, after other bequests, he directed that the income of his residuary estate should be paid to his brother John for life, and bequeathed the capital for the benefit of such children or child of his brothers and sisters and his deceased wife's sisters respectively as should be living at the decease of his brother John, and who should attain the age of 21 years, as tenants in common.

The testator had three brothers and two sisters, all of whom, excepting John, died long before the date of the will, and he died in March, 1867.

Ann Davis had two legitimate children, who died long before the date of the will, and she had one illegitimate child, Edmund Goodman. The testator was well acquainted with the state of the families of his brothers and sisters at the time of making his will, and of his death; and he was well aware, at the time of making his will, that his sisters were dead, and that Ann had had one illegitimate child, and that he was then living.

Under these circumstances Edmund Goodman, as the only child of the testator's sister Ann, claimed to be entitled to a share of the residuary estate, and to participate therein with the children of the testator's brothers and wife's sisters. But on application to the trustees they refused to pay him any share of such residue, and, consequently, a bill was filed for the administration of the estate, and another bill by Edmund Goodman for a declaration that he was entitled to a share of such residue.

The cause now came on upon further consideration.

The certificate of the chief clerk stated that, excepting Edmund Goodman, an illegitimate child of Ann Goodman (afterwards the wife of William Davis), who was born in February, 1828, there was no child of any sister of the testator living at the time of the decease of John Goodman; further, that the testator had only two sisters—Mary Ann, who predeceased the testator, an infant and unmarried, and Ann, the wife of W. Davis, by whom she had two daughters, only one of whom died in her lifetime, an infant, and the other shortly after her death, in 1887, an infant. Ann left her surviving Edmund Goodman, who, on his mother's death, when he was 9 years old, went to reside with the testator, and remained with him till he attained the age of 16.

The question whether Edmund Goodman was one of the persons entitled to share in the residue was submitted to the Court.

Greene, Q.C., and Higgins, for the plaintiff Botten.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Berkeley, for the plaintiff Goodman.

J. Hinde Palmer, Q.C., and Mackeson, Q.C., Karlake, Q.C., and Cradnell, C. E. Hawkins, and Phear, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that there was a distinct gift to this illegitimate child of the sister, under a description which shewed that the testator knew of his illegitimacy, and that he was clearly prevented from taking under the description of a class which must have been intended to mean legitimate children only. The declaration would be that Edmund Goodman was not entitled to any share of the residue.*

His Honour, in reference to the share of a married woman who had been deserted by her husband, and who had obtained an order of protection from a magistrate, said that the dividends could be paid to her; but he could not, under the order of the magistrate, order the share (277l.) to be paid to her: that would be carried to a separate account, with liberty to apply.

CROOK v. HILL.

July 14.

Marriage with Deceased Wife's Sister—Bequest to a Class—Illegitimacy.

* John Hill, who died on the 22nd of March, 1859, by will on the 9th of that month bequeathed certain leaseholds to trustees, and directed them to pay the rents to his wife for her life, and after her decease to pay the rents and profits of three of the leaseholds to his daughter Mary, the wife of John Crook, for life, for her separate use, and after the decease of his daughter Mary Crook, the "last-mentioned hereditaments shall go, remain, and be upon such trusts for the benefit of all and every, or such one or more exclusively of the other or others of the children or child of my said daughter Mary Crook, as she, my said daughter Mary Crook, shall" by will appoint, and, in default of appointment, "for the child, or all the children, if more than one, of my said daughter Mary Crook" equally; "but if there shall not be any child of my said daughter Mary Crook," who should attain 21 or be married, the leaseholds were given over to another daughter for life, with remainder to her children. The testator directed his trustees to stand possessed of one half of his personal estate, excepting some bank shares, upon trusts for his daughter Mary Crook for life, and for her children after her decease, similar to the trusts of the leaseholds; and there was a similar gift over.

John Crook had been married to Sarah Ann, a daughter of the testator; and she having died in 1851, he, in 1854, married Mary, her sister, with the full knowledge of the testator. The plaintiffs were two children of the second marriage, born before the death of the testator; and a third, a defendant, was born after that event. The testator recognised and treated the plaintiffs as his grandchildren. Mary Crook died in March, 1868, having appointed the property above-mentioned in favour of her children by name, and including one begotten and born after the date of the will.

A doubt having arisen as to whether the plaintiffs were sufficiently indicated as legatees, two of the children, by their father as next friend, filed this bill for a declaration that the plaintiffs and, if the Court should be of such opinion, that the defendant Robert Crook, were intended to take as children of Mary Crook, and that the testatrix's personal estate might be administered, having regard to such declaration.

The cause came on upon demurrer for want of equity.

Greene, Q.C., and A. Smith, for the demurrer.

Fooks, Q.C., and F. H. Colt, for the plaintiffs.

J. Hinde Palmer, Q.C., for the infant defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the children, being illegitimate, the testator had not sufficiently described them, and therefore they were not entitled.

Demurrer allowed.

HAMMONDS v. BARRETT.

July 14.

Post-nuptial Settlement—Consideration—Provision against Husband's Bankruptcy.

Samuel Barrett in March, 1844, intermarried with Isabel Clark. There was no settlement. William Clark, the father of Isabel Barrett, bequeathed a legacy to her, and died in November, 1861. The money was paid to the husband and wife. 990*l.*, part of the sum paid S. Barrett, was invested in the purchase of stock in the Madras Railway Company. The brother of Mrs. Barrett, being desirous of making further provision for her and her children, a settlement, dated the 4th of July, 1862, was prepared and executed by Samuel Barrett and his wife, and thereby the 990*l.* stock, and a sum of 4000*l.* paid by the brother, were vested in trustees upon trust for the benefit of Isabel Barrett for life, with remainder for S. Barrett for life, "or until, or in case he should become bankrupt or take the benefit of any Act for the relief of insolvent debtors, or commit or do any such deed, matter, or thing whatsoever, whereby the interest, dividends, and annual profits of the said stock, funds, and securities, should become vested in any other person, then and in such case the estate for life of Samuel Barrett therein shall cease and determine in the same manner as if he were actually dead," and after his decease upon trusts for the children. The wife died in October, 1862, leaving several children. In 1867 S. Barrett was adjudicated bankrupt.

The plaintiff, the trustee, by his bill prayed for a declaration of the rights of the parties under the settlement, and for accounts.

Babington, for the plaintiff.

Hughes, Q.C., and Tanner, for the defendant, the assignee in bankruptcy, claimed the stock, and contended that the settlement was not valid as against creditors.

Karslake, Q.C., and W. W. Karslake, for the children.

F. H. Colt, and Moulton, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the settlement was not obnoxious to any rules under the bankruptcy law; there was no fraud upon creditors, therefore the assignee had no right to the stock; and the bankruptcy put an end to the husband's life estate.

V.-C. S. HAYNE v. ALLIANCE BANK. July 15.

Registrar of Stannaries Court a Defendant, Death of—Order of Revivor against succeeding Registrar.

The bill in this case was filed against the Alliance Bank Limited and Others, amongst whom was William Mitchell, who was the registrar of the Stannaries Court. The Tywarnhaile Mining Company in Cornwall, upon the cost-book principle, was in August, 1865, on petition, ordered by the vice-warden of the above Court to be wound up, and William Mitchell, as alleged, according to the practice of that Court, represented the company, and advertised for the creditors, and settled the list of contributories. This suit being one for certain accounts in reference to the company, William Mitchell was made a defendant to represent the company and the shareholders therein.

William Mitchell died in April last, and Frederick Marshall was on the 16th of June appointed registrar of the above Court in his stead.

Kekewich, for the plaintiff, moved for an order of revivor against Frederick Marshall.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made the order.

V.-C. S. In re OTTOMAN FINANCIAL ASSOCIATION. July 16.
CHEETHAM'S CASE.

Winding-up—Transferee at Time of Transfer a Minor—Negotiations for Compromise—Liability of Transferor.

On the 15th of June, 1865, Edwin White became the transferee of fifty shares in the Ottoman Financial Association Limited, John Cheetham being the transferor, having received 400*l.* for the shares through his stockbroker. Edwin White was duly registered as a shareholder, and the name of John Cheetham was removed from the register. In November, 1865, a call of 5*l.* a share was payable to the company, and 250*l.* was paid by Edwin White.

On the 6th of March, 1866, a resolution was passed by the company to wind up voluntarily, and in September, 1866, a list of contributories was settled by the liquidators, White's name being put on the list. On the 3rd of November, 1866, an order was made to continue the winding-up under supervision. Another call of 5*l.* was made, and it became payable to the liquidators in October and December, 1866, and the sum of 250*l.* was paid by Edwin White. Another call of 5*l.* was made, and it became payable on the 14th of April, 1868. Soon afterwards White represented that he was unable to pay the sum of 250*l.* On making inquiries on the subject, the liquidators ascertained that he was a minor at the date of the transfer, and when settled on the list of contributories, he having attained the age of 21 on the 4th of August, 1867.

In November, 1868, the solicitors of the liquidators offered to compromise the claim against White for 150*l.* The sum of 100*l.* was refused by the liquidators.

On the 2nd of July, upon an application of the liquidators by summons, dated the 30th of April, 1869, an order was made removing the name of White from the list of contributories, and substituting the name of John Cheetham for the same, with costs.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Higgins, for Mr. Cheetham, moved that the order of the 2nd of July might be discharged, and that the application of the 30th of April might be refused with costs.

Greene, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the liquidators.

In re GENERAL PROVIDENT ASSURANCE COMPANY.

CROSS'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Transfer of Shares to Directors on behalf of the Company.

This was an application to place B. Cross on the list of contributories of the above-named company for 200 shares.

In July, 1867, Cross, who was then the registered holder of 200 shares, executed transfers in the usual form to Heywood and Clift, two of the directors, of 100 and 50 shares respectively, which were executed by the transferees, and entered in the register on the 7th of August.

On the 29th of August, in pursuance of a resolution of a committee of the directors, the words "on behalf of the company" were inserted in the register against the names of the transferees. The transfers were part of an arrangement by which Cross became surety for a debt of the company for which the directors were personally liable, and, according to Cross's evidence, he stipulated that the shares should be transferred to the directors personally; but, according to the evidence of the secretary of the company, that stipulation was not agreed to by the directors, and Cross was informed that the transfers would be registered as made to the transferees "on behalf of the company." The company had no power to purchase its own shares.

In June, 1868, it was ordered to be wound up.

Glasse, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator.

Cole, Q.C., and Bush, for Cross.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, although Cross originally intended the shares to be transferred to the two directors personally, they never agreed to accept the shares except on behalf of the company, and that Cross was, in August, 1867, informed of this, and, consequently, that there had been no valid transfer of the shares; and Cross must be made a contributory in respect of them.

V.-C. M. DEAN AND CHAPTER OF ELY v. July 17.
PETERBOROUGH, WISBEACH, AND SUTTON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Purchase of Land by Agreement from Corporation—Valuation by Surveyor dispensed with—Lands Clauses Act, 1845, s. 9.

This was a suit for specific performance of an agreement by a railway company for the purchase of land from the Dean and Chapter of Ely. The amount of purchase-money had been agreed upon between the parties, but had not been determined by surveyors according to section 9 of the Lands Clauses Act, 1845.

Rodwell, for the plaintiffs.

Bovill, for the defendants, said the only question was whether it would be necessary to have a valuation under section 9; the defendants did not desire the valuation.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that as the defendants, who were the only parties interested in requiring section 9 to be complied with, did not require the valuation, it might be dispensed with.

COOPER v. LAROCHE.

July 20.

Earnings of Ships—Capital or Income.

Thomas William Laroche, by his will dated the 1st of May, 1860, gave, devised, and bequeathed to trustees all his estate and effects upon trust, if they should think fit, to continue such part of his estate as might at the time of his decease be invested in any mine, ship, mortgage, or other investment or security, of whatever kind the same might be, in such investment, and, subject to such discretion, to collect, get in, and convert into money, all other his estate and effects, and such part of his invested estate as they should think proper, to dispose of, and thereout to pay all his debts, funeral and testamentary expenses, and the sum of 2000*l.* to his wife, and then to lay out the residue in the purchase of Government stock, railway shares, or shares in any joint stock or public company, or on mortgage, and then in trust to pay, or permit his wife and her assigns to receive, the dividends, interest, and annual produce to arise from the stocks, funds, and securities upon which his estate might from time to time be invested, for her life.

At the death of the testator, part of the assets of his business was invested in three ships, which were all sold within a year and a half; but, previously to their being sold, they were employed in the ordinary manner, and a considerable profit arose from the freight and earnings of such ships. This profit was invested by the executors as part of the capital of the testator's estate, and interest upon the amount at the rate of 5*l.* per cent. had been regularly paid to the widow of the testator.

The widow now claimed to be entitled to the testator's share of the profits earned by the three ships as income and not capital.

Cotton, Q.C., and Hall, for the trustees.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cecil Russell, for all the defendants except Mrs. Laroche.

Pearson, Q.C., and Cracknall, for Mrs. Laroche.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the case was governed by Brown v. Gellitly (Law Rep. 2 Ch. 751), and that the widow was not entitled to any proportion of the profit which had arisen from the sale, freight, or earnings of the three ships, but only to interest upon the amount after investment as capital.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. CORPORATION OF HALIFAX.

July 8.

Injunction—Nuisance—Pollution of Stream—Sewage—Acquiescence.

This was an information at the relation of Messrs. Holdsworth, manufacturers and owners of property on the banks of the Hebble brook, which runs through and drains the valley in which Halifax is situated, for the purpose of restraining the corporation from pouring the sewage of the borough into the Hebble brook through certain outfalls A and B, or otherwise, and from causing or permitting the sewage of Halifax to pass into the Hebble brook, or to become a nuisance, or injurious to the public health.

Outfall A was completed in 1858, and discharged itself into the brook at the extremity of the then borough, about 160 yards above the plaintiffs' mill. The nuisance from sewage pollution was stated to be at first slight. In 1865 an Act was passed by which the limits of the borough were greatly extended, and W. I. Holdsworth, one of the relators, who was then mayor, and had been a member of the Town Council since 1860, took an active part in procuring the passing of this Act. After 1865 the number of houses draining into outfall A was greatly increased, and, according to the information, towards the end of 1867 the nuisance from sewage pollution first became serious.

In December, 1867, the relators made their first complaint to the corporation, calling attention to the alleged existing nuisance from outfall A, and to the proposed new outfall B for draining the outlying districts, which was to discharge itself into the Hebble about eighty yards below outfall A. In the course of 1868 outfall B was opened, and, no steps satisfactory to the relators having been taken by the corporation to abate the alleged nuisance, the information was filed in May last.

The case turned mainly on the evidence, which was conflicting. The defendants' evidence went to shew that the Hebble had been for a long time a foul polluted stream, but that the pollution was due, not to the sewage poured into it at outfalls A and B, which was so diluted with water as actually to improve the condition of the stream at the outfalls, but to the manufacturing refuse, and filth from privies, allowed to drain into the stream above the outfalls, and especially to the poisonous refuse from the grease-extracting works on the plaintiffs' property, and the drainings from cottages belonging to them immediately adjoining their mill and works.

Kay, Q.C., and Ince, in support of the information, were not called upon to argue the case.

Grove, Q.C., Amphlett, Q.C., Bristowe, Q.C., and G. Williamson, for the defendants, in addition to the contention raised by their evidence, contended that the plaintiffs were estopped, inasmuch as one of them, W. I. Holdsworth, had been a member of the Town Council since 1860, twice mayor, and was himself mainly instrumental in procuring the Halifax Extension Act, 1865, the necessary result of which, by increasing the area of the borough, was to compel the construction of additional drainage outfalls. Having acquiesced in what was done, and allowed the expense to be incurred, the plaintiffs, who were bound by the estoppel of one of their number, were not now entitled to stop the only available system of draining the town. In any case, ample time should be given to the corporation to enable them to deal with the whole question comprehensively, and in accordance with the long-promised report of the Rivers Pollution Commission in relation to this district.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was clearly of opinion, upon the evidence, that a most serious and offensive nuisance had been occasioned by the drainage system of the defendants. With respect to acquiescence, the corporation, in constructing the outfalls, were exercising public powers which the Legislature considered and insisted could be exercised without creating any public nuisance, and the plaintiffs were entitled to take the same view as the Legislature, and were not bound to assume that a nuisance must result from the construction of these works. Nor could it be maintained that, because one of the relators had been twice mayor, and a member of the Town Council from 1860 to 1868, he thereby gave up the property, which belonged to himself and the other relators, to be dealt with by the corporation so as to waive any right of afterwards complaining when he found it affected by a nuisance which was not originally contemplated. There would be an immediate injunction against causing or permitting any new outfall into the Hebble, or any new sewer communicating with any outfall into the Hebble, or any drain or other communication with such sewer whereby any sewage water might be passed into the Hebble, and an injunction from and after the 1st of June, 1870, to restrain the defendants from causing or permitting the sewage of the borough to pass by outfalls A or B, or any new outfall, unless and until the same should be sufficiently purified and deodorised. Defendants to pay the costs of the information.

Metropolis Street Improvement Act—57 Geo. 3, c. xxx. ss. 80, 89—Widening Street—Costs of Petition for Payment out of Court.

Petition by persons interested under the will of the late John Saunders in three houses on the north side of Cable Street, in the parish of St. George's-in-the-East, Middlesex, to have paid out of Court, and paid to separate accounts, certain sums, being the value of the shares of the petitioners and certain infants, in an amount which had been assessed by a jury as the value of the three houses, and had been paid into Court by the vestry of the parish, as representing the value of the houses which had been taken by the vestry, by virtue of enactments contained in the 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix., the 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120, and the 25 & 26 Vict. c. 102, for the purpose of widening the street.

The petition prayed that the costs might be paid by the vestry; and the only question was as to the costs.

Elderton, for the petition.

Poynter, for the vestry, said there was no jurisdiction under the 89th section of the 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix. to give costs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that the Act enabled the Court to order payment by the vestry of the expenses of all purchases, or so much of them as the Court should deem reasonable, and said he would exercise his discretion by making an order for the payment of such expenses to the petitioners as would indemnify them in costs.

Company—Winding-up—Petition dismissed—Costs.

This was a petition by fully paid-up shareholders for the common winding-up order.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Fischer, for the petitioners.

De Gex, Q.C., and Marten, for shareholders, in support.

Wickens and Davey, for the company, and Fry, Q.C., for shareholders in opposition, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR dismissed the petition with costs.

Fry asked for the costs of the opposing shareholders.

Kay opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that no encouragement ought to be given to the incurring of wanton expense in winding-up matters. In no case did the Court give more than one set of costs to the same class of persons opposing. Thus creditors had only one set, whether they were 10 or 1000. But here the opposing shareholders had a distinct right from the company, and there was a direct conflict between two classes of shareholders, and on that ground he would give one set of costs to the opposing shareholders as well as to the company.

V.-C. J. In re DUGGAN'S TRUSTS. July 17.

Practice—Petition—Costs of Respondents served.

Petition.

Charlotte Duggan, who died on the 16th of April, 1854, by her will appointed executors, and by a codicil directed them to retain 10,000*l.* out of her estate and hold the same upon trust for her great niece Charlotte Alington Pye for life, and after her death, in default (which happened) of a child of hers who should attain a vested interest, for the next of kin of O. A. Pye, according to the statute, in like manner as if she had died sole and unmarried.

On the 17th of July, 1868, the petitioner, the Rev. John Alington, who was a co-trustee with Henry Pye, father of Charlotte A. Pye, of various trust funds, which he had allowed Pye to manage, discovered that parts of such funds, to the amount of at least 10,000*l.*, were in Pye's hands, and peremptorily required Pye to give him security to that amount; and by a deed of that date, executed at about 1 o'clock in the day, Pye assigned to the petitioner all his interest under the will of Charlotte Duggan, to secure 10,000*l.* and interest. On the same day, but not, as the petitioner alleged, before 6 o'clock in the afternoon, Henry Pye executed to Robert Ranshaw and Charles Michell Nesbitt an assignment of all his estate and effects for the benefit of his creditors. The deed was executed by Ranshaw, but not by Nesbitt, and was, on the 11th of August, 1866, registered under the 194th section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

On the 80th of January, 1869, Charlotte Alington Pye, then Barnard, died, married, but without having had issue, and leaving Henry Pye her sole next of kin.

The executor and trustee of Charlotte Duggan's will having received certain sums in respect of her estate, and paid the balance of the same into Court, the petitioner prayed that, after taxation and payment of costs, the residue of the fund in Court might be paid to him.

The respondents to the petition were the executor and trustee of the will, and the assignee under the trust deed.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the petitioner:—

Our deed, which was obtained under great pressure, is prior in date to the trust deed; and, moreover, this is not such an interest as would pass to assignees in bankruptcy.

H. F. Shebbeare, for the trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the interest claimed by the assignee, though something more than a spes successionis, was not such an interest as would have passed under the trust deed. The order would be as prayed.

Willcock, Q.C., and Nalder, for the assignee who had been served, asked for his costs of appearance.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the rule which he had laid down on a former occasion was this: if a petitioner, when he serves a petition, at the same time offers the respondent 40*s.*, in order to enable him to get the advice of his solicitor as to whether he shall appear or not, and the respondent after that appears, the Court will consider whether such appearance be justified or not; and if it finds that it is not justified, will not order the petitioner to pay the costs of the respondent's appearance; otherwise it will. In this case it did not appear that the petitioner had made any such offer, and he must, therefore, pay the assignee's costs of appearance.

V.-C. J. In re DYNE'S ESTATE. July 17.

Testamentary Power of Appointment—Gift in Default—Settlement purporting to Release the Power—Subsequent attempted Appointment by Will.

Sophia Dyne, by her will dated in 1807, gave all her residuary personal estate to trustees upon certain trusts, and in the events which happened directed them to pay the proceeds of one sixth to Margaret Dyne for life, and in case (which happened) she should die without leaving any daughter, to pay and assign such one sixth unto such persons and for such uses, intents, and purposes as Margaret Dyne should by will or codicil appoint, and in default, to pay and assign the same to the person who should be the legal representatives or next of kin of the said Margaret Dyne.

The will was proved in 1810.

In 1826 Margaret Dyne married Peter Fry, and by a settlement prior to the marriage, she assigned her sixth to trustees upon trust for Peter Fry for life, then for herself for life, and in case (which happened) there should be no child of the marriage, for all or any one or more of her brothers and sisters as should then be living, and the issue of any one or more of them as should then be dead leaving issue, as Margaret Fry should by deed or will appoint; and in default, for all the brothers and sisters who should be then living, and the issue of any who should be then dead, in equal shares as tenants in common. And it was declared that the power of appointment vested in Margaret Fry under and by virtue of the will of Sophia Dyne should be "deemed and considered as wholly released and extinguished" by the now stating indenture.

Margaret Fry survived Peter Fry, and died in February, 1856, having by will, dated the 4th of December, 1853, purported to appoint her sixth, "so far as the same was subject to the trusts of the marriage settlement," to her great-nephew William Brutton, who died in her lifetime, and her great-niece Mary Ellen, wife of Henry Atkins McCallum, absolutely; and gave the residue of her personal estate to her cousin Henry Dyne.

The fund representing the sixth had been paid into Court, and the question was, between the petitioners, the next of kin of Margaret Fry, Mrs. McCallum, and Henry Dyne, who was entitled to the sixth.

B. D. Rogers, for the petitioners:—

The declaration in the settlement operated as an absolute release of Margaret Dyne's (afterwards Fry) power of appointment.

Freeman, for Henry Dyne.

G. O. Williamson, for Mrs. McCallum:—

The words, "so far as the same was subject to the trusts of the settlement," must be rejected.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he could not reject these words. Nor could he hold that the release of the power was binding as against strangers. The fund passed by the residuary clause, and Henry Dyne was entitled.

EX. IN THE MATTER OF DE LANCEY'S SUCCESSION. July 2.

Succession Duty Act, 1853 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 51)—Legacy Duty Act (36 Geo. 3, c. 52)—Money to be laid out in land—Conversion—Practice.

This was a petition of appeal under the Succession Duty Act, 1853, s. 50, by Edward Floyd De Lancey, a legatee of, or successor to, personal estate directed to be laid out in land under the will of James De Lancey.

James De Lancey, by his will dated the 15th of November, 1799, gave to trustees 10,000*l.* Consols, and certain other sums, upon trust that they should lay out both principal and interest in the purchase of land, the same to be conveyed to the use of Charles De Lancey, his eldest son; remainder to trustees, to preserve, &c.; remainder to first and other sons of the said Charles De Lancey and the heirs male of his or their body or bodies successively in tail male, and in default of such issue, to the use of James De Lancey, another son of the testator, and his assigns; remainder to trustees, to preserve, &c.; remainder to first and other sons of James De Lancey the son, and their heirs male successively in tail male; and in default of such issue, remainder to the testator's own right heirs for ever.

The testator died on the 8th of April, 1800, leaving two sons, of whom the said Charles was the elder and the said James, the younger. The moneys directed to be laid out in land was never so laid out, and Charles during his life received the dividends upon the whole real estate fund. In 1840 he died a bachelor and intestate; whereupon the dividends were paid to James up to May, 1857, when he also died a bachelor and intestate. At this time the only lineal descendant of the testator was Susan De Lancey, his surviving child. She died in April, 1866, having refused during her lifetime to receive either dividends or principal of the money left under her father's will. Shortly afterwards the "real estate fund" was paid into the Court of Chancery in an administration suit, and eventually was directed to be paid out to the petitioner, a grandson of a brother of the testator, who was heir-at-law of Susan De Lancey at the time of her death, and who then became (Charles and James having died without issue) also heir-at-law of the testator. [The accumulated dividends which accrued to Susan in her lifetime were directed to be paid to her legal personal representative.]

The Commissioners of Inland Revenue required the petitioner

to pay succession duty on the real estate fund at the rate of 5 per cent., on the ground of the same being a succession to him derived from Susan De Lancey, the "predecessor." Against this assessment the petitioner appealed.

June 5. Sir J. B. Karlake, Q.C. (Townsend with him), for the petitioner, contended that legacy and not succession duty was payable by him, as being a descendant of a brother of the testator, at the rate of 2½ per cent., under 36 Geo. 3, c. 52; or that, if succession duty was payable, it should be at the rate of 3 per cent. only, as being a succession derived from James De Lancey, the testator, and not from Susan.

Sir R. P. Collier, Q.C. (A. G.) (C. Hutton with him), for the Crown.

July 2. THE COURT gave judgment. Kelly, C.B., and Channell, B., held that succession duty was not payable, but legacy duty only. Bramwell and Cleasby, BB., held that the duty was payable under the Succession Duty Act.

Seemle, per Bramwell, B.:—Under whichever Act duty is payable, the amount charged by the commissioners is correct.

[Some discussion took place as to the mode in which judgment ought to be entered, the Court being equally divided, and it was suggested that the Crown were entitled to maintain the assessment. Eventually, however, the usual course was taken. Cleasby, B., the junior baron, withdrew, and judgment was given for the petitioner.]

Trade Fixtures—Mortgage—Rights of Mortgagor and Mortgagee.

Appeal from a decision of the Court of Exchequer, making absolute a rule to enter a verdict for the defendant.

The question was, whether trade fixtures which had been annexed to the freehold for the more convenient using of them, and not to improve the inheritance, and which were capable of being removed without any appreciable damage to the freehold, passed under a mortgage of the freehold to the mortgagee.

The Court of Exchequer decided that they did so pass, and directed a verdict to be entered for the defendant, who claimed under the mortgagee (Law Rep. 3 Ex. 257).

L. C. OVEREND, GURNEY, & Co. v. GURNEY. July 28.

Public Company—Liability of Directors—Imprudence—Shareholders—Liability at Law.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins, overruling a demurrer.

The bill was filed in the name of the company, Overend, Gurney, & Co. Limited, against the surviving directors and the representatives of Mr. Gibb, one of the directors, who was dead, and claimed repayment of 2,500,000*l.* paid-up capital of the company, which had been lost, and of further sums paid by the company to the creditors, on the ground that the purchase by the directors of the business of Overend, Gurney, & Co. had been ultra vires, and grossly improvident.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Glasse, Q.C., and Jackson, for the appellants.

Cotton, Q.C., and Ferrers, for the plaintiffs.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the relief asked was divisible into two parts: one relating to the 2,500,000*l.* capital which had been lost, the other to the further sums which had been called up and paid by the company. As to these latter sums it was clear that no remedy could be obtained in equity, and the remedy, if any, was at law for damages. As to the money actually placed in the hands of the directors, the case was different; but even there it was difficult to see how the company could recover, though any individual shareholder might, perhaps, have a remedy for the loss he had suffered. No fraud was alleged by the bill, and the only ground for relief was, that the directors had acted ultra vires, and improvidently. But the company was formed for the express purpose of buying the business of Overend & Co., and the directors were empowered to take a guarantee against liabilities, as they had done. It is true that Overend & Co. were insolvent in the sense that, if called upon to pay their debts, they could not do so; but very large debts were due to them—many perhaps bad and many doubtful—still it was not clear that the money which would be received on account of these debts, and the private estates of the partners, would not have been sufficient to pay the debts. The business had once been very profitable, and might be so again, and the shareholders must have been aware there was always risk in such a business. Any individual shareholder might have a remedy against the directors for having been deceived, but the company had no right to relief against the directors; and the demurrer must be allowed.

L. J. GIFFARD. July 26.
In re CHINA STEAM SHIP AND LABUAN COAL COMPANY.
DRUMMOND'S CASE.

Subscriber of Memorandum—Contributory—Paid-up Shares.

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls, settling Mr. Drummond's name on the list of contributories of the above-named company in respect of 25 shares.

The company was formed in 1865 to purchase the business of the China and Japan Steam Navigation Company and the Labuan Coal Company. It was agreed that the property of the old companies should be paid for by means of fully paid-up or partly paid-up shares in the new company. Mr. Drummond was a shareholder in the Labuan Company, and he signed the memorandum of association of the new company for 25 shares, and became a director. He afterwards applied for shares, and 479 were allotted to him, and it was arranged that he should take 478 of them as fully paid-up, and one as partly paid-up, in satisfaction of his interest as a shareholder in the Labuan Company. He made no payment in money on the 479 shares, and the company now being wound up, the Master of the Rolls placed Mr. Drummond on the list of contributories for 25 shares in addition to the 479, on the ground that the obligation into which he had entered by signing the memorandum of association was not satisfied by the taking of the 479 shares.

Jessel, Q.C., and Speed, for Mr. Drummond, the appellant.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Wickens, for the liquidator.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that there could be no doubt that, if a man signed the memorandum of association, he must take the number of shares for which he subscribed, if there were any such to be allotted to him; but it made no difference whether a subscriber paid for the shares in cash or in some other form. In the present case His Lordship could see no distinction between the case of Mr. Drummond and that of a person who, having signed the memorandum for 25 shares, had then applied for 479 ordinary shares, and had afterwards paid them up in full. In such a case the taking of the 479 shares would surely satisfy the obligation to take the 25 shares. The order of the Master of the Rolls must therefore be reversed.

L. J. GIFFARD. July 26.
In re HORSLEY AND KNIGHTON'S PATENT.

Patent Law Amendment Act, 1852, s. 38—Appeal—Jurisdiction.

In this case an appeal was brought from an order made by the Master of the Rolls, on a motion under the 38th section of the Patent Law Amendment Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 83), to expunge an entry in the register of patents (ante, p. 196).

Sir R. Baggalay, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the appellants.

Jessel, Q.C., Rodwell, and Aston, for the respondents, took the objection that there was no right of appeal in this case, inasmuch as the order made by the Master of the Rolls was not in the ordinary jurisdiction of Chancery, but under the special statutory jurisdiction given "to the Master of the Rolls or any of the Courts of Common Law at Westminster" by the 38th section of the Patent Law Amendment Act.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that he thought the matter was quite clear, although it was much to be regretted. The Act created an entirely new register of the proprietors of patents, and gave the power to make an order for expunging an entry to the Master of the Rolls without saying anything about an appeal from his decision. As no right of appeal was given by the Act, this Court had no power to interfere. The application must, therefore, be refused with costs.

M. R. PEARCE v. MORRIS. July 16.

Mortgage—Redemption—Legal Estate—Conveyance.

In this case the defendant Morris was mortgagee of an estate in the neighbourhood of Maidenhead. Pearce, the plaintiff, had contracted to buy part of the estate from the mortgagor, and had accepted the title, subject to confirmation by certain persons appearing to be beneficially interested therein. In this state of circumstances Morris gave notice that he intended, under the powers vested in him as mortgagee, to proceed to a sale of the mortgaged property. Pearce thereupon tendered to Morris the amount of his principal, interest, and costs, and Morris accepted the tender. Pearce then applied to Morris to convey to him the legal estate in the mortgaged property, and deliver up the title-deeds; but Morris refused. Pearce then filed this bill against Morris alone, praying that Morris might be decreed to execute a conveyance and deliver up the deeds.

Southgate, Q.C., and Villiers, for the plaintiff.

Jessel, Q.C., and Nalder, for the defendant, contended that the legal estate ought not to be conveyed to one only out of many parties interested in the equity of redemption, but that it ought to be vested in each of the persons so entitled according to his equitable interest, and that, at all events, no relief could be given in the absence of the other parties interested in the equity of redemption.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that Morris, having accepted Pearce's tender, could not dispute his right to redeem, and was therefore bound to convey the legal estate to him and deliver up the deeds; and made a decree accordingly. The costs of the suit to be paid by the defendant.

In re NATIONAL PROVINCIAL MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY.
SINGERS' CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Retirement of Shareholders—Powers of Directors.

This was an application by Mr. Singers to amend the list of contributories by altering the number of shares, in respect of which the applicant was settled thereon, from 260 to 115.

The above-named company had its head office in London, but a large number of shareholders (including the applicant) were resident in Newcastle. In 1864 the applicant held 250 shares, on each of which 2*l.* 10*s.* had been paid up. In September of that year the London directors sold the Newcastle branch of the business to a new company then formed at Newcastle. The applicant and other Newcastle shareholders were much dissatisfied with this sale, and expressed a wish to retire from the company, and an arrangement was made between the company and the dissatisfied shareholders, in accordance with which the shareholders were to transfer to nominees of the company a certain number of their shares (in the case of Singers 135), and to receive from the company the amount paid thereon.

In accordance with this agreement Singers, in November, 1864, transferred 135 of his shares to one Mordaunt, a clerk of the company, who was registered as the owner thereof. The company continued its operations for three years afterwards, and during that time some of the shares so transferred to Mordaunt were sold by him, and the others transferred to nominees of his.

By the 126th clause of the articles of association the directors were empowered to do all such acts, enter into all such contracts and engagements, and pay and apply and dispose of any of the moneys of the company, and generally act in such manner as they should from time to time deem necessary or expedient for carrying out all or any of the objects or purposes of the company. The transaction with the dissatisfied shareholders was never communicated to the company, either by report or at a general meeting.

The company was now being wound up, under supervision, and the liquidators settled Singers on the list for the full number of 250 shares, disregarding entirely the transactions of 1864.

Jessel, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the applicant.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the transaction must be treated as a sale of shares to the company, and fell within the powers given to the directors by clause 126; that, although it had not been communicated to the shareholders, as it ought to have been, still there was no trace of anything like fraud; and, having regard to these circumstances, and to the difficulty of replacing parties in their former position, he was of opinion that the list of contributories must be altered in accordance with the summons.

 DIXON'S CASE.
Winding-up—Contributory.

This was an application on behalf of Thomas Dixon that his name might be removed from the list of contributories of the above company.

In 1846 Dixon consented to take ten shares in the company on the assurance of Wilkie, the managing director, that an Act of Parliament would shortly be obtained limiting the liability of shareholders. His name was accordingly placed on the register, and he received dividends.

In 1849, the Act of Parliament not having been obtained, Dixon applied to be relieved of his shares, and in that year the directors resolved that, on payment of all calls, they would allow him to part with his shares. His name was then removed from the register, but the official liquidator now sought to place him on the list of contributories.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the applicant.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bush, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the name of the applicant must be taken off the list.

M. R. BROWN v. OAKSHOTT. July 27.
Sale by Court—Opening Biddings—Impropriety or Conduct in Management of Sale—30 & 31 Vict. c. 48, s. 7.

This was an application, adjourned from chambers, to open the biddings at a sale by order of the Court, on the ground of “improper conduct in the management of the sale.” (See 30 & 31 Vict. c. 48, s. 7.)

It appeared that the biddings for the property in question commenced with 5000*l.* and ran up to 9000*l.*, at which price the auctioneer knocked down the property, and then said that he must look at his instructions as to the reserved bidding, which he accordingly did, and then declared that the bidder at 9000*l.* was the purchaser.

It was in evidence that a person was willing to give 12,050*l.* for the property.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Briggs, for the summons, contended that the auctioneer ought to have informed himself of the reserved price beforehand; without knowing what the reserved price was, he could not conduct the sale properly.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Higgins, for the purchaser, were not called upon.

Southgate, Q.C., Roxburgh, Q.C., and Lindley, for parties to the suit.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, under the old practice of opening biddings, no doubt this application must have succeeded; but the right of opening biddings was now abolished by the Act of Parliament, except in case of fraud, which was not suggested here, or of improper conduct in the management of the sale. To bring a case within the Act, there must be such impropriety as seriously to depreciate the value of the property: as, for example, if the sale had been concluded before the time fixed by advertisement for beginning it, so that intending purchasers might be disappointed. In this case, no such impropriety was proved, and the summons must be refused with costs. The parties to the cause (except the plaintiff, who had the conduct of the sale), however, had no right to appear, and would not be allowed their costs.

In re BARNED'S BANKING COMPANY.
 COUPLAND'S CLAIM.
Winding-up—Proof by secured Creditor.

This was a claim by Messrs. Coupland that the amount for which they had been admitted to prove as creditors of the banking company might be increased by the amount realised by their securities.

In November, 1865, and March, 1866, certain Liverpool merchants instructed the claimants, who were merchants at Bombay, to purchase for them a quantity of cotton, and sent them letters of credit from the banking company, authorizing them to draw for the amounts therein mentioned, to be covered by bills of lading, on receipt of which the banking company agreed to accept their drafts.

The cotton was purchased and shipped to England, and the claimants drew six bills upon the banking company, amounting in the whole to 56,785*l.*, which were negotiated at Bombay and remitted to England. Two of these bills were accepted by the banking company; the others were presented after the bank had stopped payment, and refused acceptance.

On the 27th of April, 1866, the bank was ordered to be wound up, and on the 8th of June, 1866, the claimants sent in the particulars of their claim for the amount of the bills.

At that time they were not the holders of the bills, and the cotton was not sold, but they subsequently took them up, and received 39,035*l.*, the amount realised by the sale of the cotton. In April, 1867, they sent in a statement of account, giving credit for the sum so realised.

They were admitted as creditors for 17,778*l.*, the amount remaining due to them after deducting the sum of 39,035*l.* They now claimed to be admitted as creditors for the further amount which their securities had realised.

Jessel, Q.C., and Westlake, for the claimants.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, as the claim of the 8th of June, 1866, was sent in when the claimants were not holders of the bills, and before the cotton was sold, they could only be admitted to prove for the balance, after deducting the amount realised by the sale of the cotton.

V.-C. S. CHRISTIAN v. ADAMSON. July 10.

Breach of Trust—Executor of Trustee—Refusal to admit Assets—Costs ordered to be paid by Executor personally.

A bill by cestuis que trust against the executor of a deceased trustee for a declaration that an investment of trust funds upon a mortgage security, which turned out to be insufficient, was a breach of trust, and that the insufficiency ought to be made good out of the assets of the trustee.

At the hearing a declaration was made to that effect, and the defendant was ordered to sell the property comprised in the security; and, in case he should not admit assets sufficient to meet the plaintiffs' claim, an account was ordered of the estate of the deceased trustee.

The defendant did not admit assets. The account taken shewed that at the date of the decree there were assets sufficient to pay the amount then due.

The cause now came on upon further consideration, and the material question was whether the defendant (the executor) was, under the circumstances, personally liable to pay the costs of taking the account occasioned by the refusal to admit assets.

Greene, Q.C., and W. W. Knox, for the plaintiffs.
Dickinson, Q.C., and Chitty, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the executor—his refusal to admit assets having occasioned the subsequent proceedings—to pay all the costs personally.

V.-C. S. SAMPSON v. SAMPSON. July 16.

Will—Specific Bequest of Four Leaseholds—Five Houses in Four Leases—Uncertainty—Residuary Bequest.

Richard Sampson, who died in March, 1861, by will dated in February, 1861, bequeathed to trustees his four leasehold messuages in Laxton Place, and his two other tenements, numbered respectively 6 and 7 Little Charles Street, Munster Square, with the appurtenances, upon trust, out of the rents of the same premises, to pay the ground-rents, as well in respect of the said messuages and tenements as in respect of the two tenements in Little Charles Street, and one tenement in York Passage adjoining, also comprised in the lease under which he held two of the houses in Laxton Place; and he desired his trustees to invest the surplus rents of the said premises for the benefit of the children of his son William Sampson, and after payment to them of sums of 500*l.* at the age of 25, he desired his trustees to stand possessed of the said leaseholds and any surplus accumulations upon trust for his son William Sampson. The testator in a subsequent part of his will specifically bequeathed his two tenements in Little Charles Street and one in York Passage, which he held under the same lease as he held the two messuages numbered 6 and 7 in Laxton Place, upon trust out of the rents to pay an annuity to Jane Deadman; and he bequeathed the residue of his estate unto the children of his son William and his deceased son John.

On the 18th of December, 1824, a demise of a piece of land, with four houses erected thereon—the two in Laxton Place and the two in Little Charles Street—was granted to a Mr. Davies, and he created four under-leases, one of which—it being in respect of one of the houses in Laxton Place—was granted to the testator, and he, in 1850, purchased the whole of the property comprised in the lease of December, 1824, subject to the under-leases.

The testator also possessed a lease (dated the 30th of November, 1825) of a house in Laxton Place, and which adjoined the two houses in that place comprised in the lease of December, 1824. The houses in Laxton Place above mentioned were numbered 5, 6, and 7. The houses numbered 2 and 3 in Laxton Place also belonged to the testator, and were held by him under separate leases.

The material question was whether the five houses in Laxton Place were included in the above bequest of four.

The chief clerk certified that four of the houses in Laxton Place, comprising those numbered 6 and 7, were bequeathed as above mentioned, and that the remaining house, being one of those numbered 2, 3, and 5, was not disposed of by the will.

This was an adjourned summons.

Robinson, for the children of William Sampson.

Greene, Q.C., and Villiers, for the residuary legatees.

Dickinson, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the defendant, the executor.

Hemings, for an annuitant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, after looking at the context in the will, there was no reasonable degree of uncertainty as to the testator's intention. He held five houses under four leases, and he was of opinion that it would effectuate the intention by declaring that the houses in Laxton Place, held under the four leases, passed to the specific legatees.

In re BANK OF HINDUSTAN, CHINA, AND JAPAN.
Ex parte ANDERSON.

Contributory—Unpaid Calls—Transfer.

The company was formed under the Companies Act, 1862, and by the articles of association the company recognised no other right in its shareholders than the ownership of the share, and might decline to transfer any shares of which the owner had not paid his calls. In 1865 Mr. Anderson held ninety-five shares, and executed a transfer in blank of his shares to Messrs. Brodie & Grant, to secure an amount due from him to them; he subsequently went to China. In March, 1866, Messrs. Grant & Brodie transferred the shares to a Mr. Elliott by filling-in Mr. Elliott's name. The transfer was registered on the 18th of April, 1866. Subsequently Mr. Elliott was called on to pay a call due prior to the transfer, which he refused to do. The officer thereupon, and one of the directors, a month after the transfer, ran a pen through the transfers, and also through Mr. Elliott's name in the register, and replaced the name of Anderson. The company was ordered to be wound up on the 21st of December, 1866, and it was not till 1868 that Mr. Anderson learned that his name had been placed on the register. This was an application to remove it.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Ince, for Anderson, contended that his name had been properly removed, and it was not competent to the company to replace it.

Greene, Q.C., and Lindley, for the official liquidator, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The evidence clearly shews that the registration of Mr. Elliott's name was a mistake, against which this Court would relieve. The application must be refused with costs.

GIFFARD v. WILLIAMS.
Partition—Disputed Title.

July 20.

The plaintiff claimed to be entitled to an undivided moiety of a four-acre field, called Wereglood Fudog, situate in the parish of Mold, in the county of Flint, which he alleged to have been in possession of his predecessors in title for more than a century. He also alleged that his predecessors in title let the undivided moiety to the owners of an adjoining estate, called Tyntrull, now represented by the defendant, who paid rent for it. The plaintiff tendered as evidence the book kept by the stewards of his predecessors, where the payment by the defendant's predecessors was acknowledged. Since the 25th of March, 1861, the defendant had excluded the plaintiff from the receipt of the rents of the undivided moiety.

The plaintiff thereupon filed this bill, praying that it might be declared that the plaintiff was entitled to an undivided moiety of the said field, and for a partition.

Fry, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, opened the case for the plaintiff, but were stopped by the Court.

Morgan, Q.C., and J. Williams, for the defendant, objected, first, that, this being a bonâ fide question of title, the Court had no jurisdiction to decide. The most the plaintiff could ask was to have the bill retained for a year, to allow him to try the question at law: Slade v. Barlow and Bolton v. Bolton (Law Rep. 7 Eq. 296; and Note), and Potter v. Waller (2 De G. & Sm. 410). Secondly, they contended that the entries in a steward's book were not admissible. There were only two cases in which this kind of evidence was admissible: 1st, where the evidence was against the interest of the party making it; 2ndly, where these entries were made in the ordinary course of business.

R. C. Palmer, for the mortgagees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, in the case of Bolton v. Bolton, he thought that the material question was one of title, and therefore he made the order which the Lords Justices had maintained. In Slade v. Barlow it was sought to recover possession by a suit for partition, which plaintiff was not permitted to do. But it was a mistake to suppose that there was a rule that a plaintiff could not maintain a bill where the title was denied and said to be legal. Of course the plaintiff must prove his title, and Sir Thomas Plumer once allowed additional evidence to be adduced to establish the plaintiff's title. On the question of jurisdiction, therefore, the objection must be overruled. With regard to the evidence, he thought the entries clearly admissible, and clearly established the title. There must be a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to an undivided moiety of the lands, and the common order for partition; but the defendant must pay the costs of the suit.

Solicitor and Client—Privileged Communications—Envelopes of Letters addressed by Client to Solicitor—Concealment of Ward of Court.

In this case the mother of two infant wards of Court, with whom the wards were living, had absconded, and her address could not be found. Her solicitor did not know her address, but he had in his possession the envelopes of letters addressed to him by her, the letters themselves not disclosing her address.

This was a summons taken out by the plaintiffs, the trustees of the will of the father of the wards, for the production by the solicitor of the mother to the plaintiffs' solicitors of the envelopes, with a view to discovering the address from the post marks.

The solicitor objected to produce the envelopes as being privileged communications.

Prendergast, Q.C., and Renshaw, for the plaintiffs.

Pearson, Q.C., and Wickens, for the solicitor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the solicitor could not refuse, on the ground of the client's privilege, to give information which might assist the Court in getting possession of the wards, and made the order for the production of the envelopes.

BURTON v. EARL OF DARNLEY.

July 22.

Solicitor and Client—Privileged Communication—Client concealing Ward of Court—Duty of Solicitor to disclose Client's Place of Abode.

In this case an order had been made for the delivery up of a ward of the Court by her mother, but the mother had absconded with the ward, and the guardian appointed by the Court could not discover her place of abode. Service of the order for delivery of the ward upon the solicitor of the mother had been, by leave of the Court, substituted for personal service.

Cotton, Q.C., and Fischer now moved, on behalf of the guardian, to commit the mother for contempt. The mother's solicitor was subpoenaed to give evidence in support of the motion, and being asked where the mother was now living, objected to answer, on the ground that he had obtained the knowledge of her place of abode in the course of his employment as her solicitor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that a solicitor could not be allowed, either directly or indirectly, to conceal any fact which might enable or assist the Court to recover possession of its ward, and that he must therefore answer the question:

The solicitor having thereupon disclosed the place of abode,

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order that the mother should deliver up the child on the following day, or, in default, stand committed.

Mortgage—Power of Sale—Trust to Mortgage—Right of Trustee to give Power of Sale.

This was a petition under Lord St. Leonards' Act (22 & 23 Vict. c. 35), by the trustees of a will, who were thereby directed to raise a sum of money by mortgage of an estate thereby devised to them in such manner as they should think fit, for the judicial opinion of the Court upon the question whether they could execute a mortgage giving the mortgagee a power of sale.

Wingfield, for the petitioners.

Streeten, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that a power of sale was incidental to a mortgage, and therefore that the testator must be taken to have intended that the mortgage to be created by the trustees should contain such a power, but the power must not be exercisable until after six months' notice.

Solicitor: Beck.

V.-C. M. DICKINSON v. DILLWYN. July 26.
Covenant to Settle after-acquired Property—Marriage Settlement—Will of Husband—Gift to Wife.

This was a special case.

By a settlement dated the 23rd of August, 1828, made upon the marriage of George Dillwyn and Sarah Dillwyn, there was a joint and several covenant by Mr. and Mrs. Dillwyn with the trustees, that they and all necessary parties would concur and join in conveying, assigning, settling, and assuring all property, whether real or personal, to or in which Sarah Dillwyn or George Dillwyn in her right might thereafter become entitled or interested under the will or intestacy of or by gift from her father, or under the will or intestacy of or by gift from any other person or persons whomsoever, unto and for vesting the same in the trustees upon the trusts of such settlement.

George Dillwyn, the husband, died in August, 1843, and there were two children of the marriage, one of whom died in 1865, and the other was the defendant, now Sarah Clark.

George Dillwyn made his will, whereby, after expressing his satisfaction that his children's interest would in no respect be permitted to suffer by the unlimited power over his property with which he desired to invest his wife, as well for their benefit as her own, he gave, devised, and bequeathed all his real and personal estate unto his said wife Sarah Dillwyn absolutely and for ever.

Upon the death of a sister of Sarah Dillwyn in 1849, she became entitled to receive under the will of her father 100*l*.

The question for decision was whether the covenant to settle after-acquired property comprised in the settlement applied to the property given to Sarah Dillwyn by the will of her husband, and also to the 100*l*. to which she became entitled under her father's will after the death of her husband.

C. Hall, for the surviving trustee, stated the case.

Cotton, Q. C., and Fry, Q. C., for the widow, Mrs. Dillwyn.

Murray Browne, for the only surviving child of the marriage, declined to contest the question, and submitted to act as the Court should direct.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said, although the words of the covenant literally applied to the whole life of the wife, the settlement applied to the contemplated marriage only. The obvious intention of the settlement was to exclude the husband's rights, and the covenant contemplated a concurrence of both husband and wife. The covenant could never have been intended to apply to the husband's own property. The widow was, therefore, not bound to settle that property which she acquired under her husband's will. But the 100*l*. derived from her father's will was expressly mentioned and included in the covenant, and must therefore be settled by the widow. The costs to be paid out of the settled funds.

V.-C. J. MUNNS v. ISLE OF WIGHT RAILWAY COMPANY. July 19.
Railway Company—Unpaid Landowner—Railway Companies Act, 1867—Scheme—Sale of Land.

This was a petition by an unpaid landowner, who had obtained a decree against the company for specific performance, declaring his lien for the balance of his purchase-money, praying that, notwithstanding the filing of a scheme of arrangement under the Railway Companies Act, 1867, the land of the petitioner, of which the company were in possession, might be sold, and the company ordered to pay to the petitioner the deficiency upon such sale; and that in the meantime, and until such sale or payment to the petitioner of the balance of purchase-money, interest, and costs by the decree ordered to be paid, and of the subsequent interest, the defendants might be restrained by injunction from running any engine over or otherwise using or continuing in possession of, or otherwise interfering with the land.

The petition prayed alternatively the appointment of a receiver of the rents and profits.

Amphlett, Q. C., and Cates, in support of the petition.

Kay, Q. C., and Kekewich, for the company, opposed, and contended that the petitioner ought not to be allowed to proceed against the company until the scheme of arrangement, by which the claims of the petitioner and of all other creditors of the company were dealt with, should have been discussed in Court.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the petitioner, who had obtained a decree against the company, was fully entitled to say to them, "Either pay me the balance of my purchase-money or give me back my property." There would be an order for a sale and an injunction; not, however, to be enforced before the Second Seal Day in Michaelmas Term.

V.-C. J. HALDANE v. ECKFORD. July 20.
Domicil—Domicil of Origin, Abandonment of.

Robert Eckford, the testator, was born in 1779, of Scotch parents, at Dunfermline, in Fife, and was educated at Edinburgh. He went out to India as a surgeon, and obtained a medical appointment in the company's service. After visits to Europe on leave (including a residence in Edinburgh of about three years, from 1823 to 1826), Dr. Eckford finally left India in 1832. Between 1832 and 1841 he lived alternately at St. Servan in Brittany, and in Jersey. From 1841 until his death in 1866 he resided continuously (with the exception of short excursions to England and Scotland) in Jersey. He purchased a vault in a cemetery in Jersey, and caused the bodies of two children that had been born to him, and been buried at St. Servan, to be removed and buried in this vault, where he was himself buried, as also (during his lifetime) the nurse of his children and her daughter.

In 1864 he paid a visit to Scotland, with some intention of purchasing property for his grandson; but finding that the climate did not agree with him, he only stayed a fortnight instead of a month, as he originally intended.

In his will, which bore date the 28th of March, 1862, the testator described himself as "late President of the Medical Board of Bombay, now residing in Jersey."

Shortly before his death the testator consulted an English solicitor practising in Jersey with respect to certain accumulations of his property that he wished to make by codicil. The solicitor explained to him that, if he were domiciled in England at the time of his death, the proposed accumulations would be prohibited by the Thellusson Act, but that if he died domiciled in Jersey such a disposition would be valid. The testator executed the codicil containing this direction to accumulate, and died a few days afterwards in Jersey, where he was buried.

The question (raised by adjourned summons) was whether the testator's domicil at his death was Jersey or Scotch.

Amphlett, Q. C., and Villiers, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q. C., De Gex, Q. C., Eddis, Q. C., and W. Dundas Gardiner, for persons interested in supporting a Jersey domicil.

Mackeson, Q. C., Willcock, Q. C., Crossley, and Cates, contended that the Scotch domicil of origin, which reverted on the testator's leaving India in 1832, had never been abandoned.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the domicile of the testator at the time of his death was a Jersey domicile. As was observed by Lord Westbury in Udney v. Allat (June 5, 1869), residence "originally temporary, and intended for a limited period, may afterwards become general and unlimited, and in such a case, so long as the change of purpose, or the animus manendi, can be inferred, the fact of domicile is established." Now, in this case, beyond all question the testator resided in Jersey for a great number of years. It was the place from which he went out when he made excursions, and to which, as his home, he returned from excursions or visits. It was the place in which he had set up his family, and to which he invited his grandchildren to come and reside with him. He did at one time, no doubt, contemplate a change of residence, but that was in order to be near his favourite grandson, who had then got an appointment in a bank in London, and with respect to this grandson, the will contained this very important provision, that he was to have an annuity of 500*l.* a year while he lived in Jersey, but if he left the island the provision was to be reduced to 350*l.* a year. Then, again, nothing could be more important, as indicating his choice of a permanent residence, than that circumstance of disinterring the bodies of his children and bringing them from St. Servan to be buried in a vault that he had bought in Jersey. It must be declared that the testator was domiciled in Jersey at the time of his death.

WILKINSON'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Transfer to Man of Straw—Nominal Consideration.

Summons by liquidators to substitute the name of Wilkinson for that of Kimpton on the register and list of contributories as member and contributory for thirty-five shares.

In May, 1866, during the panic, Wilkinson, holding 500 shares, "in order to get rid of his liability," instructed Scott, a broker, to sell the shares. Scott prepared a transfer of the shares to Kimpton, who was a messenger in his office at a salary of 28*s.* a week, for the stated consideration of five shillings. Wilkinson and Kimpton executed, and the company registered, the transfer on the 10th of May, 1866; and Scott afterwards disposed of all but thirty-five of the shares to other purchasers. On the 11th of May the association stopped payment. Resolutions for voluntary winding-up were passed on the 28th of May, and confirmed on the 14th of June; and on the 26th of June, 1866, the winding-up was ordered to be continued under supervision.

It appeared that Wilkinson had no personal knowledge of Kimpton, but "knew he was a person in Mr. Scott's firm."

Kay, Q.C., and Lindley, for the liquidators.

Jones-Bateman, for Wilkinson.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order, putting Wilkinson's name on the register and list, and directing him to pay the costs of the adjournment into Court.

WILLIAMS' CASE.

Company—Contributory—Transfer to Man of Straw—Misdescription of Transferee—Untrue Statement of Consideration—Non-approval by Directors.

Summons by liquidators to substitute the name of William Hole Williams for that of Wiles on the register and list of contributories, as member and contributory for twenty shares.

In May, 1866, W. H. Williams, an accountant, of Bristol, was the holder of twenty shares. In the same month his brother Philip Henry Williams, a broker of Bristol, prepared a transfer of the shares from W. H. Williams to Richard Wiles, who was a clerk with a salary of 2*l.* a week in P. H. Williams' office. Wiles was described as of "Blenheim Terrace, Bristol, Public Accountant," and the consideration was stated as 45*l.*; but it was admitted that no money passed. The transfer was executed by both parties, and forwarded to the office for registration on the 10th of May, 1866.

The articles of association provided that "the directors may decline to register any transfer of shares . . . if the transferee is not approved of by the directors."

Kay, Q.C., and Lindley, for the liquidators.

Chitty, for W. H. Williams.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order, putting Williams' name on the register and list, and directing him to pay the costs of the adjournment into Court.

MISS EDWARDS' CASE.

Company—Contributory—Transfer to an Infant.

Summons by liquidators to substitute the names of Smith for five, Lovett for ten, and Padwick for twenty shares, in lieu of that of Emilie Josephine Edwards for thirty-five shares, on the register and list of contributories as members and contributories; and cross summons by Padwick and Smith to substitute the name of Francis Edwards for that of Emilie J. Edwards on the register and list for twenty-five shares.

In the course of November and December, 1865, Francis Edwards, then one of the solicitors of the company, ordered these shares to be purchased on the Stock Exchange in the name of Emilie Josephine Edwards, who was his daughter, and then and still an infant; and transfers from Smith, Lovett, and Padwick respectively to Miss Edwards were executed by the respective parties.

Miss Edwards had since married.

Kay, Q.C., and Lindley, for the liquidators.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Badnall, in support of the cross summons.

Higgins, for Francis Edwards.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the names of Smith, Lovett, and Padwick to be put on the register and list, instead of that of Miss Edwards, for the number of shares respectively transferred by them; and ordered them to pay the costs of the adjournment into Court.

On the cross summons:

His Honour directed the applicants to pay the company's costs of the adjournment into Court; gave no costs to Edwards; and made no other order.

In re EUROPEAN CENTRAL RAILWAY COMPANY.

PARSONS' CASE.

Transfer of Shares—Infant Transferee—Notice—Laches—Winding-up Order—List of Contributories.

Parsons, a shareholder in the company, in June, 1864, instructed a country broker, who employed a London broker, to sell sixty-five shares in the company, which were accordingly sold by him in three lots. One of the transfers, which was for twenty shares, was executed by Parsons to William Spong, who was then a youth of 16 years of age, and a messenger in a bank of which Glanville, one of the real purchasers (Cousins being the other), was deputy manager; but neither the company nor Parsons were aware of these facts.

On the 26th of May, 1865, a writ was issued at the suit of the company against Spong in an action for calls, to which Glanville appeared as Spong's next friend.

Declaration was served, and on the 18th of July, 1865, the defendant, by his guardian, pleaded infancy, whereupon no further step was taken in the action.

On the 20th of January, 1868, the company was ordered to be wound up; and on the 12th of October, 1868, Spong attained 21.

In January last the official liquidator took out a summons (now adjourned into Court) that the register of members and list of contributories might be varied by substituting Parsons' name for that of Spong.

Kay, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the official liquidator.

Wilcock, Q.C., and F. H. Law, for Parsons.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the company, having in May, 1865, known the fact of Spong's infancy, were precluded by laches and delay from enforcing the right which they would otherwise have had of substituting the purchaser's name for that of Spong; and dismissed the summons, giving the official liquidator his costs of the application out of the estate.

V.-C. J. PORTS v. SMITH. July 23.

Administration—Abatement and Apportionment of Legacies and Annuities.

Further consideration.

In the administration of an insufficient estate, there being legacies, an annuity to the testator's wife for life, an annuity to testator's brother for life, and in case his (the brother's) wife should survive him, unto her the same annuity during her life; and other annuities—some years having elapsed since the death of the testator, and the testator's brother having died, leaving his wife and some children surviving, one of whom was an infant—the question arose how the fund was to be apportioned amongst the legatees and annuitants.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Jason Smith, for the plaintiffs, contended that, in estimating the value of annuities, the Court must be guided by the events that had happened, as was done by the Master of the Rolls in Todd v. Bielby (27 Beav. 353, 6). Thus the widow's annuity must be valued as being no longer reveraionary, but as an annuity in possession.

Kay, Q.C., and F. P. Morris, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he must adopt the rule in Todd v. Bielby; and the apportionment must be made accordingly.

V.-C. J. JONES v. RHIND. July 23.

RHIND v. JONES.

Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Priorities.

Thomas Smith, the owner of a lease of a house for a term of thirty-four years from Lady Day, 1841, on the 4th of December, 1841, demised the same for the residue of the term, less one day, to Benjamin Jones, by way of mortgage, to secure 300*l.* and interest. The lease and mortgage were both registered, the house being in Middlesex.

In 1865 Smith, who had become a member of a building society, borrowed 121*l.* 16*s.* from the society; and by a deed dated the 12th of December, 1865, Smith re-demised the house to the trustees of the society for the residue of the term, less ten days, to secure repayment of the loan. He also handed over to the trustees the original lease, without notice of any prior dealing with it.

In June, 1867, Smith executed a deed for the benefit of his creditors, which was registered under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

The bill was filed in January, 1868, by the executors of Jones against the trustees of the building society and the trustee of the deed, stating (as amended) that the plaintiffs were ignorant of the existence of the mortgage to their testator until the end of the year 1867, when the deed was discovered in an old safe; and praying for accounts and inquiries, practically for the purpose of establishing their priority.

The trustees filed a cross bill.

Eddis, Q.C., and Willis, for the executors of Jones.

Schomberg, Q.C., and Hemings, for the trustees of the building society.

B. B. Rogers, for the trustees of the deed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR remarked upon the circumstance that Smith, who had made an affidavit on the part of the plaintiffs in the first suit, had not been called upon to explain how it was that the lease got back to him or remained in his power. No explanation could be had from Jones, who was dead; and in the absence of information from any other quarter, and after the lapse of time that had occurred, the Court must presume that the deed was given back for the purpose of enabling the mortgagor, as absolute and unincumbered owner, to make the disposition of the property which he afterwards did make. The case of the executors of Jones, therefore, failed; and they would add their costs to their debt. As to the trustee, who, though he offered to disclaim, had been most improperly interrogated under threat of attachment, his costs, from the time of his offer, must be paid by the plaintiffs in the first suit.

Judicial Separation—Custody of Children—Maintenance—22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, s. 4.

A petition for dissolution of marriage, presented by the wife by reason of her husband's adultery and cruelty, was heard before the Judge Ordinary, without a jury, on the 23rd and 24th of November, 1866, and on the 18th of December following the Judge Ordinary found that no cruelty had been established, and pronounced a decree of judicial separation only by reason of the adultery of the respondent. The petitioner appealed to the House of Lords against this decision, but her appeal was dismissed with costs. In the decree of the Judge Ordinary an order was made that the petitioner should have the custody of her children—two daughters, aged respectively at that time 10 and 8 years—until further order. On the 3rd of December, 1868, the petitioner presented a petition for permanent alimony; and on the 24th of March, 1869, a further petition under 22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, s. 4, praying the Court to order the respondent to pay her such sum or sums of money for the past and future maintenance of the children as to the Court should seem meet. In answer to this last petition the respondent asked the Court to order that the custody of the children should be given to his father and sister, who are quite willing to receive the children, and to provide at their own costs for their maintenance and education.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Dr. Tristram, for the petitioner.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Searle, for the respondent.

THE JUDGE ORDINARY refused to take the children from their mother, whose conduct had been entirely blameless, in order to hand them over to the father's family; the father having been proved to have led a life of profligacy. Taking the joint income at 798*l.* per annum, of which 248*l.* was separate income belonging to the wife, he ordered the respondent to pay to his wife 18*l.* per annum permanent alimony, and 30*l.* per annum towards the maintenance of the two children; the payment to commence from the date of the decree for judicial separation.

M. R. EVANS v. BAGSHAW. July 29.
Pleading—Bill for Partition—Want of Title—Amendment.

Under the will of Ann Wragg, Sarah, the wife of Thomas Evans, was entitled to one undivided sixth share of certain real estate. By an indenture dated the 8th of February, 1868, Thomas Evans and his wife, by deed duly acknowledged by her, mortgaged her sixth part to William Gibson. In March, 1868, Evans, his wife, and Gibson filed a bill against the owners of the other sixths, praying for partition.

By the answer of the defendants the objection was taken that the plaintiff Thomas Evans was adjudicated bankrupt on the 20th of November, 1866.

The plaintiffs thereupon amended their bill by stating the bankruptcy; and, further, that by an indenture dated the 8th of December, 1868, the assignee in the bankruptcy conveyed all the estate and interest of Thomas Evans in the real estate in question to the plaintiff Gibson.

The cause now came on to be heard.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Speed, for the plaintiffs.

Jessel, Q.C., and W. Pearson, for the defendants:—

At the time when the original bill was filed the plaintiffs were only reversioneers, the interest of Thomas Evans in right of his wife being vested in his assignee. Consequently the plaintiffs had at that time no right to a partition, and they cannot, by amendment, set up a title subsequently acquired.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the objection taken by the defendants was fatal, and dismissed the bill with costs.

V.-C. S. GIBBS v. HARDING. July 27.
Husband and Wife—Agreement for Separation—Suit by Father of Wife as Next Friend—Specific Performance.

The plaintiffs were Joseph Gibbs and Alice Harding, his daughter, and the wife of T. A. Harding, by her father as next friend, and the defendants were T. A. Harding and his infant daughter V. M. Harding. The bill was filed on the 2nd of June, 1868.

On the 1st of March, 1857, T. A. Harding intermarried with Alice Gibbs. No settlement was executed on the marriage. The defendant V. M. Harding, born on the 31st of October, 1860, was the only surviving child of four of the marriage. Some time after the marriage differences arose between the defendant Harding and his wife, in consequence of which an agreement, dated the 5th of July, 1865, between T. A. Harding of the one part and J. Gibbs of the other, but signed by T. A. Harding, J. Gibbs, and Alice Harding, was come to, whereby T. A. Harding, and J. Gibbs, on behalf of his daughter, agreed that T. A. Harding and his wife should live apart, and T. A. Harding also agreed with J. Gibbs, when required, to execute a deed of separation to contain all usual and proper clauses, and also to secure the sum of 40l. a year, to commence from the date, and to be paid by equal quarterly payments by T. A. Harding for the maintenance of his wife and child; but if the wife should have another child within eight months from that time, the sum of 40l. was to be increased to 50l., to be paid in like manner so long as such child should live. The separation took place. No other child was born. The 40l. a year was paid, excepting the last two quarters. The wife, from the above date to the 12th of October, 1865, resided with her father, but since the latter date she had maintained herself as a domestic servant. The child had, since July, 1865, resided with and been chiefly maintained by her grandfather J. Gibbs, who caused to be prepared a deed of separation, which contained provisions charging the annuity on certain real estate of T. A. Harding; but T. A. Harding refused to execute it, and to pay the annuity for the future.

The plaintiffs prayed for specific performance of the agreement, and the execution by T. A. Harding of the deed prepared, or some proper separation deed to be approved by the Court.

Greene, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the plaintiffs.

Dickinson, Q.C., and W. W. Karlake, for the defendant T. A. Harding.

Langley, for the infant defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decreed specific performance of the agreement; referred the matter to chambers, in order that a proper deed might be prepared; and ordered the defendant T. A. Harding to pay the costs of the suit.

V.-C. M. COUTTS v. AOKWORTH. July 21.
Voluntary Settlement—Power of Revocation.

This suit was instituted for the purpose of setting aside a voluntary deed of settlement, executed by Mercy Branchley in August, 1853, under a general power of appointment contained in her father's will, on the ground that the deed was prepared without independent professional advice, that it contained no power of revocation, and that the settlor believed at the time she executed it that she was signing a will and not an irrevocable instrument.

Mrs. Branchley was 53 years of age, and a married woman, but separated from her husband, when she executed the voluntary deed, by which she gave her property, consisting of 3000*l.*, to her sister's husband and children. The solicitor who prepared the settlement was a cousin of the appointee. It was not, under the circumstances, an improvident disposition at the time it was executed, but it contained no power of revocation. Mrs. Branchley's husband subsequently died, and she married again, and then executed a marriage settlement, under the belief that the previous voluntary settlement was a will.

Glasse, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the plaintiff.

Fooks, Q.C., and Bevir, in the same interest.

Cole, Q.C., and Dixon, for the trustees of the deed.

Cotton, Q.C., and A. E. Miller, for the other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was the duty of every solicitor to see that his client was properly protected, and had a due control over the capital of her property. Under the circumstances of this case it was in the highest degree improper that she should have been advised to execute a voluntary settlement containing no power of revocation. There was no evidence to prove that she was made aware of the fact that the deed was irrevocable; on the contrary, it was more probable, from her conduct in making a settlement upon her subsequent marriage, that she believed the first instrument was a will and not an irrevocable deed. The solicitor in such a transaction should have insisted upon inserting a power of revocation in the settlement. The deed must, therefore, be set aside.

V. C. M. WHITTEMORE v. WHITTEMORE. July 29.

Vendor and Purchaser—Conditions of Sale—Mis-statement as to Quantity—Right of Purchaser to Compensation.

This was an application by a purchaser at a sale under a decree of the Court, to have an abatement of 200*l.* from his purchase-money by reason of a mis-statement in the particulars of sale, or to have the contract rescinded.

The property, which consisted of seven houses and two builders' yards, was stated to contain "753 square yards, or thereabouts," but in fact contained 573 yards only. The purchase-money was 1000*l.*

The vendor relied on the following conditions of sale:—

14. Every lot is believed and shall be taken to be correctly described as to quantity and otherwise . . . and if any error, mis-statement, or omission in the particulars be discovered, the same shall not annul the sale, nor shall any compensation be allowed by the vendor or purchaser in respect thereof.

20. If any error, mis-statement, or omission shall appear to have been made in the above particulars or any of them respectively, such error, mis-statement, or omission is not to annul the sale nor entitle the purchaser to be discharged from his purchase, but (except as to matters in respect whereof the right to compensation is hereby excluded) a compensation is to be made to or by such purchaser, the amount to be settled by the judge at chambers.

It was admitted that the mis-statement was unintentional.

J. H. Palmer, Q.C., for the purchaser.

Cotton, Q.C., and Lawson, for the vendor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the 20th condition prevented the contract from being rescinded; but the 14th condition only applied to small errors, and did not preclude the purchaser from the right to compensation for a material deficiency in the quantity stated; and he assessed the compensation at 100*l.*

Apportionment—Tithe Rent-charge—4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 22, s. 2.

William Gratwicke, who died in 1821, by his will made in 1819 devised certain tithes to his granddaughter for life, with remainders over. In 1849 an award was made under the Tithe Commutation Act, commuting the tithes for a rent-charge. The testator's granddaughter died on the 26th of September, 1867.

This was a summons in a suit for the administration of W. Gratwicke's estate, raising the question whether the personal representative of his granddaughter was entitled to an apportionment of the half year's tithe rent-charge which became due on the 1st of October, 1867.

C. Hall, for the granddaughter's representative, contended that the tithe rent-charge was payable under the award, which was an instrument in writing executed after the passing of the Apportionment Act (4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 22), and was therefore apportionable.

Green, for the remaindermen, contended that as the will, under which the tenant for life was entitled to the tithe rent-charge, was executed before the Act, there could be no apportionment.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the Act ought to receive a liberal construction, and that, although the instrument creating the life interest was prior to the Act, yet, as the instrument creating the rent-charge was subsequent to the Act, there must be an apportionment.

V.-C. M. CARTER v. CARTER. July 31.

Marriage Settlement—Covenant to settle after-acquired Property—Property acquired by Wife under Husband's Will.

This was a demurrer for want of equity.

By the settlement made on the marriage of T. M. Carter and F. J. Fagan, Mr. Carter and Miss Fagan jointly and severally covenanted with the trustees that if Miss Fagan, her executors or administrators, or Mr. Carter, his executors or administrators, in right of Miss Fagan, should at any time thereafter become absolutely entitled to any real or personal estate of the value of $200., they respectively, or their respective executors or administrators, would do all such acts, &c. as the trustees should think proper for vesting such real or personal estate in the trustees upon the trusts of the settlement.

Mr. Carter having died, and having by his will left all his property in trust for such person or persons as his wife should appoint, and Mrs. Carter having executed a deed appointing to herself absolutely all the property of her late husband, this bill was filed by the trustees of the settlement and the children of the marriage against Mrs. Carter, for the purpose of having the property acquired by her under the will and appointment settled in pursuance of the covenant in the settlement.

C. Hall and Williamson, for the demurrer, contended that the covenant did not affect property acquired by the wife after the death of the husband.

Wickens and Cusson, for the bill, contended that the covenant affected property acquired by or in right of the wife at any time after the marriage.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the covenant only affected property acquired during the coverture; and allowed the demurrer.

Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act—Advertisement of Petition—Omission of Petitioners' Names.

This was a petition under the Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act.

There were twenty-six petitioners, and in the advertisements of the petition the names, addresses, and descriptions of the petitioners were not set forth as directed by the General Order (Cons. Ord. xli. r. 14), but the petition was stated to be presented by "Robert Tolson and Others." The question was whether an order could be made without a fresh advertisement.

W. Barber, for the petitioners.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the insertion of the names, addresses, and descriptions of the petitioners would not give persons interested any further material information; and made the order.

V.-C. M. TALBOT v. KEAY. July 31.
Practice—Plea of Outlawry—Dismissal of Bill pending Summons for further Time to Amend.

The bill in this suit was filed on the 7th of June, 1869, and interrogatories were served on the 21st. On the 24th the defendant filed a plea of outlawry. On the 12th of July the plaintiff took out a summons, returnable on the 14th, for further time to amend his bill. Upon the hearing of the summons the application was opposed by the defendant's solicitor on the ground of the plaintiff's outlawry; but upon the statement of the plaintiff's solicitor that the debt in respect of which the plaintiff had been outlawed had been long since paid, the summons was ordered to stand over, without prejudice to any question, until the 22nd. On the 15th of July the time for setting down the plea elapsed, and on the 19th the defendant, under Cons. Ord. xiv. r. 17, obtained an order of course dismissing the bill. On the 19th of July the plaintiff obtained a reversal of his outlawry.

Harvey, for the plaintiff, now moved to discharge the order dismissing the bill, on the ground that it ought not to have been obtained while the summons was pending, and the plaintiff was taking steps to reverse his outlawry.

Glasse, Q.C., and Jolliffe, for the defendant, contended that the order was regular, and could not be discharged.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendant had been guilty of bad faith in obtaining the order when he knew that the plaintiff's debt had been paid, and that he was proceeding to get the outlawry reversed; and discharged the order with costs.

V.-C. M. In re SHEPHEARD'S SETTLED ESTATE. Aug. 4.
Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act—"Settled Estate"—Estate devised to Trustees upon Trust to Manage during Minority of Children, and, subject thereto, in Trust for Children.

Samuel Sheppard, who died in 1866, by his will made in 1858 devised an estate unto and to the use of trustees and their heirs upon trust to let and manage the same to the best advantage in their discretion during the life of his wife and the minority of any of his children, and to pay to or permit his wife to receive one moiety of the net rents (after allowing for repairs and insurance) during her life, and, subject thereto, in trust for all his children.

In November, 1868, an order was made under the Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Acts upon the petition of the trustees, the widow and the testator's children, two of whom were infants, for the sale of part of the estate. The purchaser raised an objection, that a moiety of the estate was not a settled estate within the meaning of the Act.

W. W. Cooper, for the petitioners.

Humphreys, for the purchaser, contended that the beneficial interest in a moiety of the estate was vested absolutely in the testator's children; and consequently that, as to this moiety, there was no settlement by way of succession.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the children were not entitled in possession so long as any of them were under age; and that the whole of the estate was a settled estate within the Act.

Will—Construction—Trust—Absolute Gift.

General De Pontes, by his will dated the 21st of February, 1865, gave, devised, and bequeathed all his estates and effects, real and personal, whatsoever and wheresoever, unto Euphemia Sullivan (wife of General William Sullivan), David MacLoughlin, and T. F. Robins, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, upon trust, as soon as conveniently might be after his death, to sell all such parts as should not consist of money in such manner and subject to such conditions as they should think proper; "and I direct that the moneys arising from the said sale, and otherwise forming or representing my estate and effects, after payment of my just debts and funeral and testamentary expenses of carrying out the trusts of this my will, shall be paid by my said trustees, and I hereby give and bequeath the same, to Mrs. D'Arcy Irvine, widow, absolutely, trusting that she will carry out my wishes with regard to the same, with which she is fully acquainted."

Shortly before the date of his will the testator expressed to Mrs. Irvine—to whom, as it was alleged, he had been for some time engaged to be married—his wish that she would, out of the property to be left to her, make certain gifts (including to his three executors the sum of 1000*l.* each). The testator repeated his wishes verbally, and Mrs. Irvine wrote them down, but not in his presence.

The question now raised, upon further consideration, was whether Mrs. Irvine (the plaintiff) took the residuary real and personal estate beneficially; or whether she held it upon a trust intended, but ineffectually created, so as to entitle the co-heirs and next of kin of the testator.

Willcock, Q.C., Amphlett, Q.C., and F. H. Law, for the plaintiff, contended that she was beneficially entitled to the residue.

Muckeson, Q.C., and T. Stevens, for Robins, one of the executors, contended that a trust had been created.

Little, Q.C., and Caldecott, for Macloughlin, another of the executors (who had been compelled to sever in his defence, from having a claim against the estate for medical attendance, which was disputed), supported the claim of the plaintiff to take the property absolutely, subject only to the payment of the legacies verbally mentioned by the testator.

C. M. Roupell, for other parties.

Kay, Q.C., Fry, Q.C., and H. W. Busk, for the co-heirs of the testator, contended that Mrs. Irvine took the property not beneficially, but affected by a trust; and as there had been no valid declaration of trust, the heir-at-law and next of kin were entitled.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, having regard to all the circumstances, to the contemplated relation of marriage that existed between the testator and Mrs. Irvine, and especially to the introduction of the word "absolutely," it must be held that Mrs. Irvine took the residue of the testator's estate for her own use beneficially, but subject to the performance of the wishes communicated to her by the testator.

V.-C. J. BLOUNT v. WHEBLE. July 28.
Will—Construction.

Edmund Joseph Wheble, who died on the 20th of April, 1866, by his will dated the 27th of April, 1861, after declaring that his estate of Hippencombe should be deemed and taken as personal estate, devised all such estate to his executors and trustees, Daniel O'Connell Wheble and Gilbert Robert Blount, upon trust as follows:—"for the second surviving son of my brother James Wheble, on his arriving at the age of 25 years, the annual rental in the meanwhile (after all just and necessary expenses for the benefit and maintenance of the estate being deducted) to be annually divided between my surviving brothers. In failure of such second surviving son of James Wheble, I leave the said estate of Hippencombe to my brother Daniel O'Connell Wheble, and his heirs male. Failing such heirs male, I leave and bequeath the said estate to the heirs of the Wheble family."

He gave to the Right Rev. Dr. Thomas Grant, of St. George's, Southwark, "or other the person who, at the time of my death, shall be officiating Roman Catholic Bishop of Southwark, 1000*l.* free of legacy duty, the entire interest thereof to be annually applied to the maintenance and support of the officiating chaplain of the Roman Catholic Church of St. James', Reading, in the county of Berks."

He then made the following bequest:—"I leave and bequeath to my brother James Wheble 3000*l.* in trust to his surviving child or children; to my brother Robert Wheble 3000*l.* in trust to his surviving child or children; failing issue, I leave the said 3000*l.* to my brother William Wheble in trust to his surviving child or children, who failing such issue, I leave the said 3000*l.* to my brother Daniel O'Connell Wheble in trust to his surviving child or children; failing issue, I leave the said 3000*l.* to the children of my brother James Wheble. To my brother William Wheble 3000*l.* in trust to his child or children; failing issue, I leave the said 3000*l.* to my brother Daniel O'Connell Wheble in trust to his child or children; failing issue, to my brother Robert Wheble in trust to his surviving child or children; failing such issue, to the surviving children of my brother James Wheble. To my brother Daniel O'Connell Wheble 3000*l.* in trust to his surviving child or children; failing such issue, to my brother William Wheble in trust to his surviving child or children; failing such issue, to my brother Robert Wheble in trust to his surviving child or children; failing such issue, to my brother James Wheble and his children."

Daniel O'Connell Wheble died in the testator's lifetime without having had a child.

The testator's next of kin were his brothers, James Joseph Wheble (his heir-at-law), Robert Wheble, and William Francis Wheble, and Maria Jane Wheble, and Lucy Catherine, wife of Michael Henry Blount.

At the date of the filing of the bill, Robert and William F. Wheble had never been married. James Joseph Wheble had seven children, of whom Ernest Joseph Wheble was the second son.

The bill was filed on the 16th of June, 1866, by Gilbert B. Blount, the surviving executor and trustee, against J. J. Wheble, Robert Wheble, William Francis Wheble, Michael Henry Blount and Lucy Catherine, his wife, Maria Jane Wheble, and the children of James Joseph Wheble, for execution of the trusts of the will.

J. H. Palmer, Q.C., and Stephen Blount, for the plaintiff.

Amphlett, Q.C., Fry, Q.C., Wickens, Francis H. Riddell, Martineau, G. Williamson, and Whitehorne, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendant Ernest J. Wheble was entitled in fee simple absolute to the Hippencombe estate, subject to a term from the death of the testator until such day as E. J. Wheble should attain, or but for death would attain, 25 years of age; which term was vested in the testator's three brothers, Robert, William, and James, as tenants in common; and gave liberty to apply in chambers as to the conveyance. His Honour also declared that, in the four gifts of 3000*l.*, the word "surviving" meant surviving at the death of the father of the children referred to, and that the fathers were respectively entitled to life interests in the legacies. The legacies were directed to be brought into Court, and the interest of 3000*l.* directed to be paid to Robert Wheble, of 3000*l.* to James Wheble, and of 6000*l.* to W. Wheble. It was also declared that the legacy of 1000*l.* to Dr. Grant abated in the proportion which the value of the impure personalty bore to the whole personal estate; and the legacy, after such abatement, was directed to be paid into Court to a separate account, with liberty to apply in chambers as to the payment of the income.

V.-C. J. HOOD v. NORTH EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY. July 29.

Specific Performance—Railway Company—Jurisdiction.

Bill for specific performance of a covenant by a railway company, that a piece of land purchased by them in 1838 from the plaintiff's predecessor in title should be for ever thereafter used as a goods depôt, and as a first-class station for taking up and setting down passengers travelling along the company's line of railway. The bill also prayed an injunction against the use of the land in any other manner than as a first-class station for taking up and setting down passengers, and as a depôt for goods.

The plaintiff's case was, that the company had not performed their covenant, inasmuch as none but third class or merely local trains were advertised to stop at the station erected on the land in question, that no sufficient accommodation was provided for horses or carriages conveyed along the line, and also that there was no depôt for goods.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Jones-Bateman, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and G. Williamson, for the company, contended that the Court could not specifically perform a covenant of this sort; that there was no negative term, express or implied, on which an injunction could be granted, and that the plaintiff must be left to his remedy at law; that "first-class station" was an ambiguous and indefinite term; that the altered conditions of railway travelling and increase of long-distance traffic since 1838 rendered it impossible to hold the company to a strict performance of the covenant; that the plaintiff had every reasonable accommodation at the station that he could expect; and that the Court would not disarrange the whole system of traffic on the line for the purpose of stopping every train at a small village station.

Huynes, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there had been, on the part of the railway company, a clear breach of the covenant which was expressly stipulated for by the plaintiff's predecessor in title as one of the terms on which the land was sold to the company. The words "first-class station" had a sufficiently definite meaning, viz. a station at which all trains other than express, mail, or special, were in the habit of stopping. The company had clearly broken their covenant, not only in not causing fast trains to stop at the station, but in gradually withdrawing the accommodation originally provided, and the case was one in which substantial relief could be given to the plaintiff without imposing any unnecessary or unreasonable burden on the railway company. The order would be to declare that the company had committed a breach of the covenant. Refer it to chambers to inquire what rooms and conveniences ought to be supplied by the company for the accommodation of a first-class station, and order the company to supply the same accordingly. Injunction to restrain the company from allowing any of its ordinary or fast trains, other than mail, express, or special trains, to pass the station without stopping, for the purpose of setting down and taking up passengers. Liberty to apply to Court for relaxation of this injunction if it should be made to appear that sufficient accommodation was provided without stopping all the ordinary or fast trains.

V.-C. J. MARSHALL v. ROSS. July 30.

Trade Mark—Injunction—"Patent Thread."

Motion for an injunction to restrain the defendant Ross, a shipping agent, from parting with certain packages of thread in wrappers bearing labels in imitation of the plaintiff's labels. The thread in question was manufactured in Belgium, and consigned by the defendants Messrs. Dietz to Ross, in this country, for the purpose of being shipped to Australia. The plaintiff's label contained the words, "Marshall & Co., Shrewsbury.—Patent Thread." The spurious label was thus worded: "Marchal Schrewsbury.—Patent Thread." The plaintiff's thread was not patented, but it was stated in explanation that "patent" was the name by which thread of a certain class was known in the trade, and that the term had for many years past been used by manufacturers and the trade as distinguishing thread of a certain class.

Kay, Q.C., and Marten, in support of the motion.

Davey, for the defendant Ross, said that he was merely the innocent consignee, without any knowledge that the label was an imitation of the plaintiff's label. In any case, the plaintiff, by the misrepresentation on his label—calling his thread patent, when it was not so—had deprived himself of any right to relief.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the word "patent" might be used in such a way as not to deceive any one into the belief that the goods so called were protected by a patent: for instance, "patent leather boots." In this case, the term "patent thread" had been so long used in the trade generally as to become a word of art, and there was no such misrepresentation, designed or undesignated, as to deprive the plaintiff of his right to have his label protected. Injunction against parting with goods in wrappers bearing the spurious labels.

In re OXFORD AND CANTERBURY HALL COMPANY.

Company—Winding-up—Claim by Mortgagees to Prove for the whole of their Mortgage Debt, after Contract for Sale of the Mortgaged Property.

This was a claim to prove in the winding-up of the Oxford and Canterbury Hall Company Limited, by the London and County Joint Stock Banking Company, for the sum of 11,652*l.* 8*s.*

The winding-up order was made on the 7th of May, 1868. On the 12th of January, 1869, the official liquidator received a letter from the solicitors of the Banking Company, who were first mortgagees of the Oxford and Canterbury Music Halls for 11,000*l.*, under a mortgage dated in 1867, that they had sold the Oxford Music Hall for 8500*l.* to Morris R. Syers, and that 1000*l.*

had been paid by way of deposit. This purchase was to have been completed on the 4th of March, 1869; but the purchase-money was not forthcoming, and it was not completed.

On the 24th of March the official liquidator received notice of the present claim for principal and interest.

On the 29th of June an agreement was entered into between the mortgagee-vendors of the first part, George A. F. Syers and Edwin Taylor, purchasers, of the second part, and Morris Syers of the third part, whereby, after reciting that it had been agreed that the former agreement should be cancelled, it was agreed that the purchasers should purchase the property for 9025*l.*, they accepting the title which had been investigated by Morris Syers, and agreeing to take the 1000*l.* deposit in part payment.

Kay, Q.C., and F. Weller, supported the claim.

Erdis, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator:—

Proof can be allowed only for the amount of the claimants' debt, less the sum which has been virtually realised by the sale of the property.

Kay in reply:—

We are entitled to prove for the whole debt. We may never get the purchase-money. Mortgagees are entitled to pursue all their remedies at once.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the proof must be for the amount of principal, interest, and costs, less the amount of the net proceeds of sale of the mortgaged property; and directed the costs of both parties to come out of the estate.

Winding-up—Practice.

W. N. Lawson moved to discharge an order made on the 1st of May, 1869, to continue a voluntary winding-up, subject to supervision, and that the petition might be reheard before His Honour.

Since the above-mentioned order the liquidator had sold the works of the company.

The purchaser, in his requisitions as to title, took the objection that the voluntary winding-up was bad, by reason that the notices convening the meetings, at which the resolution for a voluntary winding-up was passed and confirmed, were irregular, and, consequently, that the supervision order of the 1st of May, 1869, founded upon it, was void. Hence the present application.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order discharging the former order, and on the following day (31st of July) made an order on the petition for a compulsory winding-up, without requiring any fresh advertisement of the petition to be made.

H. A. Giffard, for the liquidator and the company (the parties originally served), consented to the order on the motion and petition.

Presumption of Death after Seven Years' Disappearance—Presumption of Death within that Period.

Nicholas Phene Mill, who was born in 1829, was in the habit of corresponding with his mother up to the 15th of August, 1858, which was the date of the last letter she received from him. At that time he was on board the Roanoke, in the American marine service.

It appeared from the ship's books that, on the 16th of June, 1860, a serjeant of marines named Nicholas Mill left the Roanoke to "join a station" at Philadelphia, and was never heard of afterwards. If this Nicholas Mill was the same person as Nicholas Phene Mill, and if he survived the testator Francis Phene, who died on the 5th of January, 1861, the petitioner as his administrator would be entitled to a share of residue, which was given amongst the testator's nephews and nieces; if not, certain respondents would be entitled.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the petitioner:—

The presumption of law, after the disappearance of a person for seven years, is not only that such person is dead, but that he survived any one who happened to die during that period.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he should have thought that, after seven years' disappearance, the death of the person would be matter of presumption, but that the date of his death within that period would be matter of evidence to be adduced by the claimant. But, having heard the authorities, he must call on the other side. His Honour said he felt no difficulty as to the identity.

Everitt, contra.

G. O. Edwards and Langworthy, for other parties.

C. J. Hill, for trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he should have agreed with the view taken by Lord Justice Rolt in In re Benham's Trusts (Dec. 6, 1867); but, after the decisions of Vice-Chancellor Kindersley in Thomas v. Thomas (2 Dr. & S. 298), and other cases, and of Vice-Chancellor Malins in In re Benham's Trusts (Law Rep. 4 Eq. 416), he could not hold otherwise than that it must be presumed Nicholas Phene Martin survived the testator, who died within the period of seven years after the 16th of June, 1860; in which case the petitioner would be entitled; and he would declare accordingly, but would retain the fund till Michaelmas Term, in order to give the parties an opportunity of taking the opinion of the Court of Appeal, if they should be so advised.

V.-C. J. In re KEARSLEY'S TRUSTS. Aug. 2.
Will—Construction—Vested Interest—Gift Over.

Ann Kearsley, at the date of her will, had eight daughters:—four unmarried: Mary, Harriet, Henrietta, and Elizabeth—and four married: Anne, wife of Septimus Gorst; Catherine, wife of Samuel Younge; Margaret, wife of John Gorst; and Charlotte, wife of Charles Robinson.

By her will dated the 25th of January, 1833, she bequeathed the residue of her personality to trustees upon trust to invest and pay the income unto and equally amongst her daughters, Mary, Harriet, and Henrietta, and the survivors and survivor of them, during such period of their lives and life as they should continue unmarried. If any of her said daughters, who should be unmarried at her death, should afterwards marry, her or their life estate was to cease, and be in trust for her other unmarried daughters in equal shares during such period of their lives as they should continue unmarried. Testatrix made a provision for daughters who should marry after her decease; and directed that, in case the last survivor of her same unmarried daughters should die without having been married, then "immediately after her decease" the residue should be in trust for "all my daughters who shall have been married, in equal shares and proportions; but in case any one or more of my said last-mentioned daughters shall be then dead," as well the original as every other share or shares of her or them so dying, should be in trust for the children or child, and of such daughter or each of such daughters respectively, in equal shares if more than one, to be vested at 21. Testatrix afterwards directed as follows:—"In case such deceased daughter or daughters respectively shall not have had any child or children, or, having such, all of them shall die under the age of 21 years, and without leaving any issue him, her, or them surviving," the original and other shares of each such daughter should be upon such trusts for the others or other of the married daughters and their children as were therein declared concerning the original share or shares of such daughters.

In 1836 a daughter of Anne Gorst, who had attained 21, died unmarried.

In 1837 Henrietta Kearsley married George Alderson, and was still living.

In 1839 the testatrix died, leaving all her eight daughters surviving.

In 1841 Mary Kearsley died.

In 1848 Catherine Younge died, leaving a child who had attained 21.

In 1849 Elizabeth Kearsley died.

In 1852 Margaret Gorst died, leaving three children who had attained 21.

In 1862 Charlotte Robinson died, leaving ten children who had attained 21.

In August, 1865, Anne Gorst died, leaving no child.

In September, 1865, Harriet Kearsley died, and the fund fell into possession.

The trustees of the will paid the fund into Court, and the petition was presented by the executors of Anne Gorst, submitting that, on the death of the testatrix, Anne Gorst's reversionary share became vested, and was not divested at her death.

Kay, Q.C., and B. L. Chapman, for the petitioners:—

A vested interest cannot be divested except by express words. It cannot be said that Anne Gorst did not have a child, nor that such child died under 21; consequently her share did not go over.

De Gex, Q.C., Cutler, and Francis Otter, for respondents opposing, were not called upon.

Peck, for the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the intention of the testatrix was plain. If either of these ladies should have a child at her death, it was to take; if she should leave none, the share was to go over. The declaration, therefore, would be that, upon the true construction of the will, in the events that had happened, Mrs. Anne Gorst's share went over.

Testamentary Paper—Conditional—Validity dependent upon the Option of an Individual.

The deceased died on the 3rd of June, 1869, having made and executed a will and codicil bearing date respectively the 24th of August, 1844, and the 21st of February, 1860.

On the 15th of May, 1867, the deceased, with his own hand, drew out and executed a paper, which he described as a second codicil to his last will and testament, and this paper concluded as follows:—"I give my wife the option of adding this codicil to my will or not, as she may think proper or necessary." The widow (who was also the sole executrix appointed by the will), in an affidavit, stated that she had decided not to add the same to the testator's will, or to avail herself of the powers intended to be thereby given to her.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., moved the Court to decree probate to issue of the will and first codicil only.

LORD PENZANCE:—The testator in this case has endeavoured to leave to his wife authority to say whether or no this paper shall be testamentary. He has declared it to be testamentary or not, according as she shall determine. Is his object illegal? It is true a testator cannot confide to another the right to make a will for him, nor can he authorize any one to revoke his will after his death—for that the Statute does not allow; but there is nothing in the Statute to prevent a man from saying that the question whether a paper shall be testamentary or not shall depend upon an event to happen after his death, and that event may be the assent of an individual. I think, in this case, the testator's object was lawful; and as the widow has exercised her option by refusing to recognise the validity of the second codicil, I shall decree probate of the will and first codicil only.

LAING v. REED.

Building Society—Power to Borrow—Legality of Rule—Certificate.

This was a demurrer to a bill filed by a shareholder in the Northern Counties Permanent Benefit Building Society, in order to have it declared that a rule of the society, by which the trustees of the society were empowered to borrow money, was illegal and invalid. The rule was certified by the barrister appointed to certify the rules of friendly societies, and under it the society had borrowed upwards of 66,000*l.*

The Vice-Chancellor Malins overruled the demurrer, being of opinion that the question ought to be disposed of at the hearing. The defendants appealed.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Chitty, in support of the demurrer, contended that the rule was legal within the Building Societies Act (6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 32), and that, at all events, the certificate of the barrister made it legal.

Glasse, Q.C., and Hastings, in support of the bill.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that he could not hold that the certificate of the barrister was conclusive as to the legality of the rule. But His Lordship did not think that the rule was illegal. It was not contrary to the general policy of the law, nor was borrowing expressly prohibited by the Act. It had been argued that borrowing was contrary to the intention of the Act, and that such societies were intended only to have such capital as was subscribed by the members. But His Lordship thought that it might be very convenient to the society that money might at times be borrowed, and he did not consider it to be against the intention of the Act.

On taking his seat, the LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD referred to the death of the late LORD JUSTICE SELWYN in these terms:

"It is impossible that this Court can resume its sittings without recurring to that which, on this day, is doubtless present to the minds of every one in both branches of the profession—the loss we have all sustained by the death of the late Lord Justice Selwyn. Called to the Bar in 1840, he became a Queen's Counsel in 1856, attained the office of Solicitor-General, and was appointed to the Bench, having had in these Courts a practice of seven-and-twenty years, successful from the very commencement of his career, and not, on the whole, inferior to that of any of his contemporaries. It was, therefore, to be expected that he would administer that branch of the law, in which he was so much experienced, with ability and with decision; nor was that expectation in any respect disappointed. It was my lot, and, I may add, my happiness, to be associated with the late Lord Justice as his junior on the Bench; and, though for a few—a very few—short months, I may be permitted to say how certain I am that no man could have brought to the discharge of his duties a more complete and ready knowledge, a more manly judgment, or a more anxious desire that in every case truth and justice and right should prevail. His memory is dear to most of us as being that of a personal friend; it will ever be held in honour by us all."

SNELL'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Cancelling Shares before Entry on Register.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls settling Mr. E. Snell on the list of the contributories of the above company.

Mr. Snell was one of the original directors of the company, and subscribed the memorandum of association for twenty shares, the necessary qualification. He sent in an application for these shares, and paid the deposit of 1*l.* per share, but his name was never entered on the share register. Soon afterwards he attended a meeting of the directors, at which he discovered that the company was in a different position from that which he had expected, and he accordingly wrote a letter to the secretary resigning the office of director, and withdrawing his application for shares.

The directors accordingly cancelled the application, and returned the deposit-money.

The articles of association gave power to the directors to accept the surrender or forfeiture of any shares.

The company being now wound up, the Master of the Rolls held that Snell was liable as a contributory in respect of the twenty shares for which he had subscribed, and Snell appealed from this decision.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Marten, for the appellant.

Jessel, Q.C., and F. Kelly, for the liquidator, contended that, under the 23rd section of the Companies Act, 1862, no one could be a shareholder until his name was entered on the register; and, therefore, that the attempted cancellation of Snell's shares was invalid.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD held that the clause in the Act did not present any obstacle to the cancellation of the shares, as the transaction was bonâ fide, and both parties desired to sever the connection of Snell with the company. His name, therefore, must be removed from the list of contributories.

DIXON'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Power to cancel Shares.

This case (ante, p. 207) was brought before the Court on appeal from the decision of the Master of the Rolls.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bush, for the official manager, who appealed. Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for Dixon.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD was of opinion that, as there was no question that Dixon was a shareholder of the company at the time when his shares were cancelled, the case did not come within the directors' power of compromising disputed claims, and they had, therefore, no authority to cancel the shares. The case was governed by the authority of Spackman v. Evans (Law Rep. 3 H. L. 171), and could not be brought within Lord Belhaven's Case (3 D. J. & S. 41). The order of the Master of the Rolls must be reversed, and Dixon's name placed upon the list of contributories.

HERITAGE'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Transfer not executed by Transferee.

The above-named company was formed about October, 1865, and in the course of that month Mr. Heritage applied for 100 shares, which were duly allotted to him. Previously to and in contemplation of the allotment, he instructed his brokers to sell the 100 shares, which they did in the ordinary way on the Stock Exchange; and on the first settling day the purchasing brokers paid for the shares, and passed the name of one Hankey as the purchaser. Heritage duly executed a transfer to Hankey, but the latter never executed it. Notwithstanding this, the transfer was registered by the company, and the shares transferred into Hankey's name in December, 1865.

In August, 1866, Hankey's name was removed from the list of shareholders by an order of the Court of Chancery, on the ground that Hankey had never accepted the shares. Heritage was no party to the application to the Court, and his name was not restored to the list.

In November, 1866, the company was ordered to be wound up, and Heritage, having been placed on the list of contributories, now applied to be removed therefrom.

Jessel, Q.C., and Everitt, for Heritage.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Lindley, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that a person who became a shareholder remained such until either his shares were forfeited or were duly transferred. Forfeiture did not enter into this case. It must be assumed that the order of 1866 was rightly made, and, consequently, that the transfer was not duly executed. The effect of this was that, on Hankey's name being removed, the shares immediately returned to Heritage; and he was properly placed on the list of contributories. The application must therefore be refused, with costs.

DRYDEN v. DAWES.

Administration Suit—Costs of Creditor's Solicitor—Accountant-General's Cheque, Delivery of, to Creditor restrained on Ex parte motion of Solicitor till Order made on a Petition to be presented.

In 1862 a decree was made in a creditors' suit for the administration of the testator Matthew Dawes's estate; and subsequently in that year John Whittle, a creditor, through his solicitor, obtained allowance of his claim against the estate, and the same, with interest, amounted to 62*l.* 3*s.* 7*d.*, and the taxed costs to 25*l.* 16*s.* 6*d.*, making together 88*l.* 0*s.* 1*d.*

In 1864 Whittle received out of Court the sum of 29*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*, being the first dividend on his claim, and his solicitor shortly afterwards delivered his bill of costs in respect of the proof of the claim and other matters, amounting to 64*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*

On the 6th of March, 1866, Whittle paid his solicitor 5*l.* on account of such costs, and gave a six months' promissory note for the balance of 59*l.* 4*s.* 7*d.*, which not being paid at maturity, a writ was issued against Whittle, but, in consequence of his having left his usual place of residence, it could not be served upon him.

On the 29th of February, 1869, an order was made for final distribution of the testator's estate, and a cheque was drawn by the accountant-general for 43*l.* 14*s.* 5*d.* in favour of Whittle, and the cheque could be received by him at any time on applying for it. The solicitor had not received more than the 5*l.*, and the said promissory note in respect of costs was still unpaid.

E. S. Ford now moved ex parte on the part of the solicitor for an order to restrain the delivery of the cheque to Whittle until a petition could be presented under the Solicitors and Attorneys Act, with the view of obtaining a charging order.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an interim order, restraining the delivery of the cheque to Whittle till a petition could be presented and heard, the solicitor undertaking to submit to any order that might be made by the Court, and to indemnify Whittle against damages.

HANKEY v. GRAY.

In re F. BRIDGES'S SETTLEMENT.

Administration Suits—Petition by Lunatic (not so found by Inquisition) and Trustees (desirous of retiring) for a Scheme for Maintenance.

These were suits for the administration of the estates of a Mr. George and Mrs. Bridges, under whose wills their son, the defendant Edward Bridges, a person of unsound mind, but not found so by inquisition, was absolutely entitled to large sums of stock.

The causes came on to be heard as short, and with them a petition of Edward Bridges, by the trustees of his parents' marriage settlement, as his next friends, praying that certain dividends to accrue due on the stock might be applied to Edward Bridges' maintenance or for his benefit; and that, if necessary, a proper scheme might be settled at chambers for that purpose, having regard to other moneys of Edward Bridges arising from other property, and to which he was entitled. Part of the funds had been paid into Court, and the income of them had been applied, together with the income of other funds, amounting to upwards of 60,000*l.*, to the maintenance and for the benefit of Edward Bridges, as one common fund.

The trustees, who were also the plaintiffs in the causes, stated that, notwithstanding the difficulties which necessarily arose in the administration of the trusts declared for the benefit of Edward Bridges, they had been duly performed by them to the present time; and that they, being advanced in years, were desirous of retiring from all the trusts declared by the wills, and still unperformed, and of being released from their responsibilities. The trustees also stated that the trusts were such that most persons would be unwilling to undertake, and that, in fact, they could not obtain the consent of any other fit and proper person or persons to act in their places if they should retire.

The minutes agreed upon by counsel were, in addition to those for administration—1st, that certain sums of stock standing in the names of the trustees might be transferred into Court to the credit of the causes; 2nd, that a reference might be made to chambers to appoint a receiver of the rents and profits of certain real estate, and that a direction might be given to such receiver to continue the payments out of such rents and profits for the benefit of Edward Bridges as had been made by the plaintiffs; and, 3rdly, that a reference might be made to chambers for the settlement of a scheme for the maintenance of Edward Bridges, and that, in settling such scheme, the chief clerk might have regard to all the income to which Edward Bridges was beneficially entitled.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Robinson, for the plaintiffs and petitioners, asked for a decree according to the minutes.

Greene, Q.C., and Hemming, Hallett, Jones-Bateman, Vaughan Hawkins, and Druce, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made a decree according to the proposed minutes, omitting the paragraphs set forth above, and directed the petition to stand over till next Term.

BRADBURY v. BEETON.

Nov. 3.

Title of a Publication—Right to use a Name.

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiffs Messrs. Bradbury & Evans, the publishers and proprietors of a weekly illustrated comic periodical, entitled "Punch," for an injunction to restrain the defendant Mr. Beeton, who had recently published a weekly periodical under the title of "Punch and Judy," from printing, publishing, and selling any copies of any weekly journal or other periodical with or under the name or title of "Punch and Judy," or any other name or title of which the word "Punch" should form part, or which should be a colourable imitation of the name or title of the plaintiffs' said periodical.

The bill alleged that the periodical called "Punch" had existed for twenty-five years, and the plaintiffs derived great profit from the sale thereof, and the plaintiffs' right to use such name as the title of a periodical publication had become a very valuable property; that the first number of the defendant's periodical, entitled "Punch and Judy," was published on the 9th of October last; that the name or title would be injurious to the plaintiffs' property in the publication called "Punch," and the defendant had selected the title for his periodical for the express purpose of deception, and with a view to selling to and passing off upon the public a rival publication of a similar but inferior description under such a title, and in such a manner as was calculated to induce incautious purchasers and the public generally to believe that the defendant's periodical, either was or included the plaintiffs' periodical called "Punch," or otherwise was a continuation therein, or in some other way or manner connected therewith, to the damage and injury of the plaintiffs. It was also alleged that the two periodicals were so similar in outward appearance that the public, especially the travellers by railway, who were generally much hurried when purchasing newspapers, might be misled, and might therefore purchase the defendant's publication in the belief that they were purchasing that of the plaintiffs, and particularly that the public might be induced to think that the plaintiffs' publication called "Punch," and another and separate publication called "Judy," were united under the one name of "Punch and Judy."

Jessel, Q.C., Charles Hall, and Lindley, for the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q. C., and Langley, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he could not conceive it likely that any person of ordinary intelligence who might be desirous of purchasing the periodical called "Punch," which was sold for 3d., and which had been so long established, and so well known to the public, could purchase in mistake for "Punch" the defendant's new periodical "Punch and Judy," which was sold for 1d. He did not think that the appropriation by the defendant of the whole title of the popular exhibition called Punch and Judy could be considered to trench upon the plaintiffs' right to use that portion of the title called Punch. He should, therefore, refuse the motion.

Company—Winding-up—Leave to Contributory to prosecute Suit instituted by Company.

In August, 1866, the Thames and Mersey Marine Insurance Company obtained a judgment against the Peruvian Railways Company for 15,000*l.* on bills drawn by the International Contract Company and accepted by the Peruvian Company. The Peruvian Company thereupon instituted a suit against the other two companies to have the bills declared void and cancelled, and to restrain the Thames Company from enforcing their judgment. The Thames Company then presented a petition to wind up the Peruvian Company, and on the 17th of April, 1867, the Vice-Chancellor Malins refused a motion in the suit for an injunction, and on the same day made an order for the winding-up of the Peruvian Company. On the 13th of June, 1867, an appeal by the Peruvian Company from both these orders was dismissed by the Lords Justices.

In January, 1869, George Crawley was settled on the list of contributories of the Peruvian Company for 300 shares. Crawley now presented a petition for leave to appeal in the name of the company to the House of Lords from the orders of the Vice-Chancellor and Lords Justices, and to prosecute the suit against the two other companies.

Cole, Q. C., and Hanson, for the petitioner.

Glasse, Q. C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator, opposed the petition.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that it was too late to allow proceedings to be taken to discharge the winding-up order, and the petition must be dismissed so far as it sought for leave to appeal to the House of Lords; but that, as the petitioner was interested in disputing the debt of the Thames Company—and that could only be done by impeaching the transactions between the Peruvian Company and the International Contract Company, for which purpose a suit had been instituted by the Peruvian Company before the winding-up—he would give the petitioner leave to prosecute that suit upon his indemnifying the company against the costs, and undertaking to prosecute it with diligence. The liquidator must deliver to the petitioner all documents in his hands relating to the suit, and the petitioner must pay the costs of this petition.

V.-C. J. PROVINCIAL BANKING CORPORATION v. TILLET. Nov. 3.

Practice—Bankruptcy of Defendant pending Suit—Order to carry on Proceedings against Assignee.

Bill filed the 29th of May, 1868, to realise an equitable mortgage against seven defendants, amongst whom was John Laverence Cook. All the defendants appeared. The bill was jointly and severally answered by all the defendants, and amended; and on the 24th of February, 1869, a decree was made, pursuant to which the chief clerk's certificate was made, and filed the 10th of August. At this date Cook was a bankrupt, having been adjudicated on the 5th of March, but of this fact the plaintiffs were not aware at the date of the certificate. No creditors' assignee had been appointed.

Cozens-Hardy now moved ex parte that the proceedings taken in the suit subsequently to the date of the bankruptcy might be confirmed as against the official assignee, and that the suit might be carried on and prosecuted against the defendants and the official assignee as if the defendant Cook had not become bankrupt. An order of course confirming the subsequent proceedings as against the assignee could not be obtained.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he should prefer not making a special order, and would follow the precedent of Freeman v. Pennington (3 D. F. & J. 295), by making an order to carry on further proceedings against Cook's assignee in the same manner as if he had been originally a defendant, notwithstanding the circumstance that the assignee would not originally have properly been a party.

Specific Performance—Railway Company—Agreement to Make and Maintain.

Demurrer.

The bill prayed specific performance of an agreement by defendants, a railway company, by which, in consideration of the landowners obtaining from the Admiralty a waiver of an obligation imposed upon the company by their Act to construct certain works, and upon conveyance of the necessary land by the landowners, the company agreed to make a carriage road between certain specified points, as shewn on the plan annexed, and when completed to pay yearly to the Corporation of K. 5*l.*, to be applied in keeping the road in repair, and also to make and maintain a wharf for loading and discharging vessels at the place shewn on the plan annexed, sixty feet in length, and of a suitable and convenient height.

The agreement also contained provisions for referring to arbitration any difference as to the sufficiency of the works, and that the landowners would forthwith use their best endeavours to procure from the Admiralty the waiver of the obligation imposed upon the company by their Act.

The bill stated that the obligation had been waived by the Admiralty; that the land required for the road had been conveyed to and was now in the possession of the company; that the company had commenced but had not finished the road, and that they had not commenced the wharf.

The landowners, parties to the agreement of the first part, had filed the bill to enforce specific performance of the agreement, and the company had demurred on the ground that the agreement was not one of which the Court could enforce specific performance.

Fry, Q. C., and Currey, in support of the demurrer.

Kay, Q. C., and Nalder, for the plaintiffs, were not heard.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR overruled the demurrer. The company had not only obtained the benefit of the agreement by being thereby released from an onerous obligation, but had actually had the land conveyed to them on which the works in question were to be executed. In such a case the Court would struggle with any amount of difficulties to prevent an evasion of the agreement. It might see its way to a specific performance of the agreement, for instance, by ordering the company to allow the plaintiffs to do the work. There was no principle on which such an agreement could be said to be ultra vires the company. Being under an onerous obligation to give to the public a certain easement, they entered into an agreement by which they were allowed to substitute something less onerous.

Demurrer overruled.

Q. B. FITZGERALD'S CASE. Nov. 3.

Corrupt Practices at Elections—Power of Commissioners to hold Sittings without Adjournment—15 & 16 Vict. c. 57, s. 4.

A habeas corpus having issued to the keeper of the gaol at York to bring up the body of F., he returned that F. had been committed into his custody by a warrant under the hands and seals of the three commissioners appointed by the Queen under 15 & 16 Vict. c. 57, to inquire into the alleged corrupt practices at the late election for the borough of Beverley, for contempt of the commissioners on the 21st of October in refusing to be sworn and give evidence.

It appeared from the affidavits, filed in support of the motion for the discharge of the prisoner, and in reply, that the commissioners had duly held sittings from time to time up to the 25th of September. Consent having been obtained on the 22nd of September from the Home Secretary to adjourn the inquiry from the 27th of September to the 19th of October, the three commissioners agreed to adjourn from the 25th of September to the 27th of September, and from the 27th of September to the 19th of October. On the 25th of September the three commissioners accordingly adjourned the meeting to the 27th of September. On that day two only of the commissioners sat, and took evidence, and then adjourned the inquiry to the 19th of October. On that day the three sat and adjourned to the 20th; and again on that day, when they adjourned to the 21st; on which day F., being summoned as a witness, refused to be sworn, on the ground that the commissioners had no jurisdiction, owing, as he contended, to the informal adjournment by two only of the commissioners on the 27th of September.

By 15 & 16 Vict. c. 57, s. 4, "the commissioners appointed under this Act to make inquiry in relation to any county or borough, shall, upon their appointment, or within a reasonable time afterwards, go to such county . . . borough . . . and shall from time to time hold meetings for the purpose of such inquiry at some convenient place within the same, or within ten miles thereof, and shall have power to adjourn such meetings from time to time, and from any one place to any other place within such county . . . borough . . . or within ten miles thereof, as to them may seem expedient; and such commissioners shall give notice of their appointment, and of the time and place of holding their first meeting, by publishing the same in some newspaper . . . provided always that such commissioners shall not adjourn the inquiry for any period exceeding one week without the consent and approbation of one of Her Majesty's principal secretaries of state."

Sir J. B. Karlake, Q.C. (Sleigh, Serjt., and M. Howard with him), supported the motion.

Sir R. P. Collier, A.G., and Archibald, shewed cause on behalf of the commissioners.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Mellor, Lush, and Hannen, JJ.) were of opinion that, under s. 4, the commissioners were empowered to hold sittings from time to time without adjournment, and that the commissioners had, therefore, jurisdiction on the 21st of October, and it was unnecessary to decide whether or not, if a formal adjournment had been necessary, the adjournment on the 27th of September would have been informal, being made in the absence, though with the consent, of the third commissioner.

The prisoner was accordingly remitted to custody.

Q. B. DIGNAM v. BAILY. Nov. 8.

Practice—Costs—Verdict on Issus going to the Merits, entitles Defendant to the General Costs, although founded on a Bad Plea.

Declaration that the plaintiff obtained judgment against B., and the defendant, as sheriff, arrested him, but allowed him to escape.

Pleas: 1. Not guilty. 2. That B. produced to the defendant's officer a certificate of the Court of Bankruptcy of the registration of a deed between B. and his creditors, within the meaning of s. 198 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 134), whereupon the officer discharged B.

Demurrer; and replication, that the plaintiff's cause of action against B., in respect of which judgment was recovered, first accrued after the making and after the registration of the deed, and the plaintiff was not one of the creditors of B. bound by the deed.

Issue joined; and demurrer.

The demurrers were argued, and judgment given for the plaintiff, on the 17th of January, 1868, that the plea was bad, and the replication good.

The issues of fact were afterwards tried, and a verdict found for the plaintiff on Not guilty, the jury assessing the damages at the amount of the judgment-debt; and leave was reserved to move to enter the verdict for the defendant on the replication to the second plea, if the Court should be of opinion, on the facts, that the debt of the plaintiff was barred by the deed. A rule was obtained, and the Court decided in favour of the defendant.

A judge's order was then obtained, ordering the verdict to be entered for the plaintiff on the plea of Not guilty, but the postea to be delivered to the defendant, as he had succeeded on the issue on the replication to the second plea.

A rule was obtained to rescind the latter part of this order.

Raymond shewed cause.

Griffiths, in support of the rule.

THE COURT held the order right; although the damages had been assessed on Not guilty, and the second plea had been held bad, the facts, as disclosed on the record by the replication, and the finding thereon, shewed that the defendant had succeeded on the merits, and was entitled to the general costs.

Q. B. RICHARDSON v. DU BOIS. Nov. 8.

Husband and Wife—Authority of Wife when Husband a Lunatic—Necessaries.

The plaintiff, a house decorator, sued the defendant for repairs done to the inside of defendant's house. The orders were given by the defendant's wife, the defendant being at the time a lunatic, and in an asylum. After some of the repairs had been done, the plaintiff became aware that the defendant was a lunatic, but he continued to do the repairs under the wife's directions.

The defendant held the house under a long lease; and it was proved that the defendant's income, owing to his lunacy, was reduced to 350*l.* a year, that the whole of the income, after paying for his maintenance in the asylum, was paid over to the wife (who continued to reside in the house with her children), and in addition, she had received an allowance from the defendant's partner and others, making in the whole 2219*l.* in two years and four months.

At the trial, in answer to questions by the judge, the jury found that the repairs were necessary to the house, and the charges reasonable and proper; and that the allowance which the wife had received was sufficient for all purposes (including the repairs).

Keane, Q.C., and Robins, for the defendant.

O'Brien, Serjt., and Beasley, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT were clearly of opinion that on the above findings

the defendant was entitled to the verdict. The agency of the wife of a lunatic and the authority to pledge the husband's credit did not differ from those ordinarily implied from the relation of husband and wife; and as it was found that the wife had received money sufficient and applicable to the payment of these necessary repairs, the defendant was not liable any more than if he had been sane, and had given the wife the money and directed her to give the orders for the repairs and pay for them.

Bill of Exchange—Contemporaneous Oral Contract to Vary or Contradict.

To a declaration by the payee against the drawer of a bill of exchange for 200*l.*, accepted by one Arthur Crux, payable twelve months after date, the defendant (amongst other pleas) pleaded, that he drew the bill and delivered the same to the plaintiff for the accommodation of one Arthur Crux, and as surety for him for the payment of the said bill, and that, save as aforesaid, there never was any value or consideration for the drawing, delivery, or payment of the bill by the defendant; that, at the time the defendant so drew and delivered the bill to the plaintiff, it was agreed by and between the plaintiff and the defendant and the said Arthur Crux, that the said Arthur Crux should deposit with the plaintiff certain securities, that is to say, a lease of a messuage and premises situate, &c., and four dock-warrants, for the delivery of certain goods, to be held by the plaintiff as security for the due payment of the said bill, and, in case the said bill should not be duly paid, that the plaintiff should sell and dispose of the securities, and apply the proceeds thereof in payment and liquidation of the bill, and that, until the plaintiff should have so sold and disposed of the said securities, the defendant should not be liable for or be sued upon the bill; and that the said Arthur Crux deposited the said securities as aforesaid with the plaintiff, and he received and had the same for the purpose and on the terms aforesaid, and that the plaintiff did not, before the commencement of this suit, sell, realise, or dispose of the said securities, or any part thereof, and the plaintiff still held the same.

Issue thereon.

At the trial before Keating, J., at the Sittings in Middlesex after last Trinity Term, evidence was offered by the defendant of a contemporaneous oral agreement to the effect stated in the plea. The learned judge rejected it, reserving leave to the defendant to move.

THE COURT held that the proposed evidence was inadmissible, inasmuch as it sought to vary or contradict the express contract on the face of the bill.

Malicious Prosecution—Reasonable and probable Cause—Onus of Proof.

This was an action for a malicious prosecution.

The defendant had given the plaintiff into custody on a charge of embezzlement. The plaintiff had been the defendant's traveller, and, after he had been dismissed, one of the plaintiff's customers, named Porter, told the plaintiff's new traveller that he had paid the plaintiff 20*l.* more than had been allowed in his account, and shewed him a receipt for it, signed by the plaintiff. The defendant wrote twice to Porter, who reiterated his statement, and the second time sent up the plaintiff's receipt. The plaintiff had never accounted for the 20*l.* The defendant then consulted an attorney, and on his advice applied for a warrant against the plaintiff.

It appeared at the hearing that Porter was mistaken, and that the receipt was for part of a larger sum of 51*l.*, which the plaintiff had accounted for, and which had been allowed Porter in his accounts. It was proved at the trial that the plaintiff had acted suspiciously with respect to money he had received from two other customers, White and Kniverton, having failed to enter it in his books, but there was no evidence whether the defendant did or did not know of this when he commenced proceedings against the plaintiff.

A verdict having been found for the plaintiff for 200*l.*, with leave to the defendant to move to enter a nonsuit:

O'Brien, Serjt., obtained a rule accordingly.

Digby Seymour, Q.C., and J. C. Lawrence shewed cause.

O'Brien, Serjt., and Cave supported the rule.

THE COURT held that the facts respecting Porter's case amounted to no evidence of the want of reasonable and probable cause, and that, at any rate, it was for the plaintiff to prove that the plaintiff's conduct respecting White's and Kniverton's payments was not known to the defendant; and, he not having done so, it must be taken that it was so known, and that the defendant therefore had good grounds for acting as he did; and they made the rule absolute to enter a nonsuit.

Bill of Exchange—Proof of Authority to Accept—Estoppel.

Action by indorsee against acceptor of a bill of exchange for 600*l.*, drawn by one Richard Bethell, the brother of the defendant, on the 22nd of July, 1868, payable three months after date, and purporting to be accepted by the defendant.

At the trial the plaintiff proved that he had discounted the bill for Richard Bethell, and that he had in 1867 discounted for him another bill for 800*l.* similarly drawn, and purporting to be accepted by the defendant, and which had been paid by the defendant's bankers, Coutts & Co., at maturity. It was further proved that the defendant had paid two other bills (held by strangers) which Richard Bethell had drawn upon him and accepted in his name in the same manner. It was thereupon contended for the plaintiff that the defendant, having thus held his brother out as a person having authority to accept bills in his name, was estopped from saying that the bill sued upon was not his acceptance.

The defendant swore that the acceptance to the bill in question was not in his handwriting or written by his authority, that he had never given his brother authority to accept any bill in his name, and that he had paid the former bills in order to relieve his brother from the consequences of his act, and upon a solemn promise that it should not occur again.

The jury found that the acceptance to the bill sued on was not in the defendant's handwriting or written by his authority, that the signature had not been adopted by him, that he did not know that the bill of 1867 had been held by the plaintiff, and did not lead the plaintiff to believe that the acceptance sued on was his. A verdict was thereupon entered for the defendant, leave being reserved to the plaintiff to move to enter it for him if the Court should be of opinion that the jury ought to have been directed, as matter of law, that the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict upon the above evidence.

THE COURT refused a rule.

Equity.

L. C. PARKES v. STEVENS. Nov. 12.
Patent—New Combination.
 This was in form a motion for a new trial by way of appeal from the Vice-Chancellor James, who had decided against the plaintiff, a patentee (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 358). The patent was for the manufacture of globular lamps, and the infringement complained of was the user of a sliding door to the lamp, which formed part of the arrangement described in the specification. Webster, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Everitt, for the appellant. Amphlett, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the respondent.
 THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the plaintiff claimed for a new combination. There had previously been globular lamps with doors on hinges, which were found inconvenient, and the plaintiff had adopted a sliding door, with an arrangement which was certainly ingenious. But it was shewn beyond dispute that sliding doors to cylindrical lanterns had long been used, and there was not so much difference in fitting a sliding door to a globe as to make it the subject of a patent. The motion must be refused.

L. C. RUSHBROOKE v. LAWRENCE. Nov. 16.
Mortgage—Release of Equity of Redemption.
 This was an appeal from a decree of the Master of the Rolls (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 25). Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and G. N. Colt, for the defendant, the appellant. Southgate, Q.C., and Rigby, for the plaintiff.
 THE LORD CHANCELLOR held that the agreement in question in the suit was not an absolute release of the equity of redemption. Moreover, it had not been acted upon for twelve years, and the plaintiff was entitled to a decree. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.
 Solicitors: Stanford & Anderson; Kingsford & Dorman.

L. C. PICARD v. HINE. Nov. 16.
Practice—Petition of Appeal—Next Friend.
 This was an appeal by the defendants, one of whom was a married woman, and another had become bankrupt since the petition of appeal had been presented. Dickinson, Q.C., and Willis, for the respondent, objected that the married woman ought to have petitioned by her next friend.

Schomberg, Q.C., and Bush, for the appellants.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR made an order that the petition should stand over for a week, with liberty to amend on the solicitor of the married woman undertaking to pay the costs of the day. In default, the petition to be dismissed with costs.

Winding-up—Secured Creditor—What is a sufficient Claim.

This was a motion by Messrs. Forwood by way of appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls (ante, p. 195).

Jessel, Q.C., and Hemming, for the appeal motion.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the official liquidator, were not called upon.

WARRANT FINANCE COMPANY'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Double Proof—Principal and Interest.

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls (ante, p. 197) excluding the Warrant Finance Company from any further participating in any dividends paid to the creditors of the Joint Stock Discount Company until all the creditors had received 20s. in the pound.

The Warrant Finance Company had already received 15s. 6d. in the pound from the Joint Stock Discount Company and 4s. 6d. from the Contract Corporation, but they claimed to prove for the full amount of the debt against the Joint Stock Discount Company, although they had received the full amount of capital due to them.

The Master of the Rolls accordingly made the order appealed from.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Eddis, Q.C., and Langley, for the Warrant Finance Company, who appealed.

Jessel, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the official liquidator.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD was of opinion that this case was not governed by In re Humber Iron Works Company (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 643), on which the Master of the Rolls had relied, but was similar in principle to that of a secured creditor, as in Kellock's Case (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 769). The order of the Master of the Rolls must therefore be reversed, and the appellants allowed to prosecute their proof.

In re NEW ZEALAND BANKING CORPORATION.
Ex parte HANKEY.

Winding-up—Claim against Directors—Compromise—Action at Law—Motion to stay Proceedings—Jurisdiction—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 87, 160.

This was an application by Henry Alers Hankey, formerly a director of the above company, that an inquiry might be directed to examine into the conduct of the late directors, and that in the meantime certain actions commenced in the Court of Common Pleas against them might be stayed.

In this case questions had arisen between the directors and the shareholders, and a compromise had been agreed upon, to which forty-nine out of fifty-one contributories had assented, under which Hankey had agreed to pay a certain sum of money in satisfaction of claims against him. This compromise had been sanctioned by an order of the Court dated the 30th of July, 1869.

The actions had been commenced by the two dissentient contributories, whose claims were excepted from the release.

Jessel, Q.C., and Jackson, for the motion, contended that, under ss. 87 and 160 of the Companies Act, 1862, the Court had jurisdiction to stay the actions.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Jackson, for the assenting contributories, supported the motion.

Roxburgh, Q.C., for the dissentient contributories, contra.

Wickens, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that he had no jurisdiction to stay the actions at law, and refused the application.

GRENVILLE-MURRAY v. EARL OF CLARENDON.

Pleading—Allegation of Trust—Demurrer.

This was a bill by E. C. Grenville-Murray against the Earl of Clarendon, the principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and James Murray, the permanent Under Secretary for the same department.

The bill alleged that in 1841 the plaintiff entered the diplomatic service, and after serving for some time without emolument, was appointed to various posts, and ultimately became Consul-General for the Russian Ports in the Black Sea and the Sea of Azof; that, for divers reasons, he had incurred the animosity and dislike of the defendant James Murray; that the same defendant conspired with others to procure his dismissal from Her Majesty's service; and that he was, in fact, wrongfully dismissed by Lord Stanley, the late principal Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in July, 1868, having been for some time previously suspended from performing the duties of his office of Consul and having been deprived of the salary enjoyed therewith, and had, since such dismissal, been refused the pension to which he was entitled in respect of his services.

The bill then alleged that the Foreign Office Department of Her Majesty's Government draws annually from the Treasury the sum of 600,000*l.* or upwards, for the purpose of paying the salaries and pensions of the diplomatic and consular services, and the expenses relating thereto, and that such sum was received by the defendants as a trust fund, in trust to pay thereout such salaries, pensions, and expenses.

The bill prayed for an account of the disposal and application of this trust fund; and for payment thereout to the plaintiff of any sums which might be found due to him, as damages or otherwise, in respect of the various matters complained of in the bill.

The Earl of Clarendon demurred.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Wickens, in support of the demurrer.

Southgate, Q.C., and Gill, for the plaintiff.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, in order to give the Court jurisdiction, it was necessary not merely to allege a trust in which the trust originated, and that it was impossible to take such an account as asked for; and he allowed the demurrer.

A demurrer by the defendant James Murray was allowed without argument.

Trustees Relief Act—Services on Trustees.

This was a petition for payment to the parties entitled of funds which had been paid into Court under the Trustees Relief Act in 1857. The place named in the trustees' affidavit at which they might be served had been pulled down, and the trustees themselves had not been heard of for ten years, and could not be found.

Pitcairn asked that, under the circumstances, service on the trustees might be dispensed with.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said he would dispense with service on the trustees, but the matter must be referred to chambers to inquire who were the parties entitled.

In re SPENCE'S PATENT NON-CONDUCTING COMPOSITION AND CEMENT COMPANY.

Company—Winding-up—Petition—Practice.

This was a petition by three holders of fully paid-up shares for the compulsory winding-up of the company, on the ground that it had ever since its formation carried on business at a loss, and that it was impossible to carry it on profitably.

The petition did not allege that the company was insolvent, but evidence was given in support of it tending to shew that such was the case.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Bond Cox, for the petitioners.

Higgins, for a creditor on an unpaid bill of exchange, supported the petition; and urged that, it appearing by the evidence that the company was insolvent, his client was entitled to an order.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said it was quite clear the petitioners had not made out a case for winding-up the company; but the question was whether he ought not to make an order and give the conduct to Mr. Higgins' client.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C. (Horton Smith with him), for the company, said that the company had met the case which the petitioners had raised; and if a creditor chose to come and support the petition, he must support the case made out by the petitioner, and not, without any notice to the company, start a fresh one, which they had no notice was to be brought forward. The creditor in question had only filed an affidavit proving his debt the day before, and the company had not a copy of it.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said he could not make an order in favour of the creditor, and dismissed the petition with costs.

BERRIE v. HOWITT.

Nov. 18.

Solicitor and Client—Lien for Costs—23 & 24 Vict. c. 127, s. 28.

By a settlement made in 1797 certain real estate was settled to the use of William Howitt for life, with remainder to the use of the children of William Howitt in such shares and manner as he should by deed or will appoint, with remainder to the children of William Howitt as tenants in common in tail, with cross remainders between them.

By his will dated in 1839 William Howitt purported to exercise his power of appointment. He died in 1840, leaving four children.

The suit was instituted by the heir-at-law of one of the daughters of William Howitt for the purpose of setting aside the appointment purported to be made by the will on the ground of remoteness, and of determining a question of election which would arise in that event.

At the hearing it was declared that the appointment was in part void for remoteness; but the Court being of opinion that all parties to the suit should pay their own costs, nothing was said in the decree as to costs.

By virtue of the decree, George Enoch Howitt, a defendant in the suit, became entitled to an estate tail in an undivided share of the settled property. He had since died without issue, and without having executed a disentailing deed.

A petition was now presented by the solicitor of George Enoch Howitt, praying that he might be declared entitled to a charge on the share of George Enoch Howitt in the settled property, for the amount of the bill of costs due to the petitioner from George Enoch Howitt or his estate.

Jolliffe, for the petitioner.

Ware, Methold, and Rendall, for the parties to the suit.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that he could only give a charge on the client's interest; and, inasmuch as that interest had determined, His Lordship dismissed the petition with costs.

POWELL v. ROBERTS.

Nov. 9.

County Court Appeal—Redemption Suit—Right disputed—Jurisdiction.

By an indenture dated the 1st of January, 1863, one John Jones mortgaged certain allotments, numbered 17 and 19, in the county of Denbigh, to G. Roberts, with a power of sale, upon giving six months' notice, to secure 160*l*. By an indenture dated the 28th of November, 1862, but, in fact, executed the 28th of November, 1863, Jones mortgaged the same property to John Powell to secure 110*l*., Roberts having given notice of his intention of selling the property, Powell claimed the right as second mortgagee to redeem the mortgage; but Roberts, before the expiration of the six months, on the 31st of August, 1866, agreed to sell the property to J. C. Jones.

On the 23rd of May, 1867, Powell filed his plaint against Roberts alone, praying that the defendant might be ordered to convey the mortgaged premises to the plaintiff upon payment of 160*l*. and interest, and for an injunction.

On the objection of the defendant, the plaint was amended by making the purchaser a defendant, and by praying that the sale contract and conveyance might be set aside, and that the said defendants might be ordered to convey the property to the plaintiff.

On the 8th of February, 1868, the Court made a decree in favour of the plaintiff, against which the defendant now appealed.

Freeling, for the appeal, submitted that the plaint asked to set aside the deed, which the County Court had no jurisdiction to do. The Act only gave the County Courts jurisdiction to entertain suits for redemption, but not to cancel a deed.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the respondent.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that a redemption suit was not the less a redemption suit because the right to redeem was resisted, and was always so regarded by the authorities. The learned judge who made the decree doubted whether he had jurisdiction to cancel a deed, but it was not necessary to set aside the deed. In his opinion, when the Legislature gave power to the County Courts to entertain suits for redemption, it must be taken to have conferred on the County Courts power to do all things required for such redemption decrees. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Solicitors for the appellant: Rooks, Kenrick, & Harston.

Solicitor for the respondent: J. D. Finney, for Louis, Ruthin, Denbighshire.

In re ASIATIC COMPANY.

Nov. 11.

Ex parte COLLUM.

Winding-up—Provisional Certificate—No Obligation to take Shares—Forfeiture.

This was an adjourned summons that the name of Dr. Collum might be removed from the list of contributories in respect of 10 shares in the company.

The company was established by charter, dated the 10th of February, and by a deed of settlement, dated the 11th of April, 1864. The original capital consisted of 500,000*l*., in 25,000 shares of 20*l*. each. In January, 1865, the directors, with the consent of the Commissioners of the Treasury, passed resolutions to increase the capital of the company from 500,000*l*. to 1,000,000*l*., by the creation of 25,000 new shares of 20*l*. each, to be issued at a premium of 15*l*.. On the 25th of January, 1865, Dr. Collum, having seen the prospectus, applied on one of the printed forms for 100 of the new shares, and on the 10th of February, 1865, the acting manager wrote to him stating that he had been allotted 35 shares, and requiring him to pay to the company's bankers 2l. 10s. per share for capital and 7l. 10s. per share premium. On the 15th of February, 1865, Dr. Collum paid 350l., and before the provisional certificates were issued sold 25 of the shares to a person who was registered as the owner. The certificate contained a clause that, in default of payment of the second instalment of 2l. 10s. of capital, and the balance of the premium of 7l. 10s., on or before the 30th of June, 1865, all the rights and privileges of the certificate would be forfeited. The said sums were not paid, and nothing was done for two years; but the company having been ordered to be wound up, the liquidator placed Dr. Collum on the list of contributories, and this summons was accordingly taken out.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., A. E. Miller, and Chitty, on behalf of Dr. Collum, submitted, first, that no obligation attached to the certificate to take shares, and the holder was under no obligation to take shares; secondly, that on non-payment of the balance there was an absolute forfeiture.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the liquidator, submitted that there was a clear contract to take shares; that provisions for forfeiture were for the benefit of the person with whom the contract was made, and not for the benefit of the person who was bound to do the act for breach of which forfeiture was to take place.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it had been decided that these scrip certificates involved no obligation to take shares. Moreover, there was here a clear forfeiture on the non-payment of the money due. Dr. Collum's name must be taken off the list, with costs; the liquidator to have his costs out of the estate.

V.-C. M. SOLLORY v. LEAVER. Nov. 11.
Annuity charged on Real Estate—Power of Distress—Refusal to appoint Receiver—4 Geo. 2, c. 28, s. 5.

John Sollory, by his will dated in April, 1824, gave and bequeathed to his son Thomas Sollory for his life an annuity of 36l., which he directed to be paid by his son James Sollory, his heirs, executors, or administrators; and, subject to the payment of his debts and the legacies or sums of money and annuity thereinbefore mentioned, the testator gave, devised, and bequeathed all his lands and tenements situate in Nottingham, and all his goods, chattels, personal estate, and effects, to his son James Sollory, his executors, administrators, and assigns.

After the death of the testator, James Sollory took possession of all his estate. James Sollory died in January, 1843. The annuity of 36l. had been regularly paid to the plaintiff Thomas Sollory up to June, 1867, but had then been discontinued, and the plaintiff had been unable to obtain any further payments.

He now filed his bill against the representatives of the estate of James Sollory for payment of the arrears of his annuity, and for the appointment of a receiver of the estate so charged with such annuity.

A. E. Miller now moved, on behalf of the plaintiff, for the appointment of a receiver.

Field, for a mortgagee of the estate, supported the motion.

Chitty, for the defendants, opposed on the ground that the plaintiff's remedy was by distress, the annuity being a legal rent-charge, with power of distress superadded by the statute (4 Geo. 2, c. 28, s. 5).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the annuity was clearly charged upon all the real estate of the testator, and under the statute of 4 Geo. 2, c. 28, a power of distress was in such cases provided. The plaintiff had, therefore, the remedy in his own hands, and the Court would not help him by appointing a receiver when he had the power to help himself. He must, consequently, refuse the motion, though he believed that it would be better for all parties that a receiver should be appointed.

V.-C. J. TWYNAM v. PORTER. Nov. 9.
Practice—Order to Revive—15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 52.

E. Thurstan Holland applied ex parte, on behalf of the plaintiff, under the 52nd section of the Chancery Jurisdiction Improvement Act, for an order to the effect of the usual order to revive the suit.

The bill was originally filed against George Twynam Porter, seeking to make him account, as a trustee and manager of real and personal estate belonging to the plaintiff, the defendant Edward Twynam, and Emily, the wife of the first defendant, as tenants in common. Emily Porter was made a defendant to the suit by amendment, in order that she, as being beneficially interested in the estates in question, might be present at the taking of the account.

On the 9th of August, 1869, the defendant Emily Porter died, and no representation had been taken out to her estate, the husband being the accounting party.

The bill did not pray for a partition, and Emily Porter's share of the real estate was in settlement.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR felt some doubt as to whether the Court had jurisdiction to make the order without notice to the defendants; but ultimately made an order, under the 52nd section, that the proceedings in the cause might be carried on notwithstanding the absence of any representative of the defendant Emily Porter, deceased.

Solicitors: Walker, Twyford, & Belward.

V.-C. J. HUDSON v. OSBORNE. Nov. 11.
Injunction—Sale of Goodwill—Bankruptcy.

The defendant Osborne had for many years carried on business as a cheesemonger, on premises on Ludgate Hill known as "Osborne House." In May, 1867, Osborne was adjudicated bankrupt, and in August, 1867, the plaintiffs purchased from his assignees in bankruptcy the lease of the business premises on Ludgate Hill, with the fixtures therein, and the trade utensils employed by Osborne in his business of cheesemonger, together with the goodwill of the business.

On obtaining his discharge in bankruptcy in May, 1869, defendant had set up in business as a cheesemonger with the defendant Parker, formerly his foreman, in premises in the Old Bailey, three doors from Ludgate Hill, called the place of business "Osborne House;" and issued advertisements and circulars calculated, as the bill alleged, to induce the public to believe that the business carried on in the Old Bailey was identical with, or a continuation of, or in succession to, the business formerly carried on by the defendant Osborne at Ludgate Hill.

The plaintiffs had filed their bill against Osborne and Parker, and now moved for an injunction to restrain the acts in question.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Chitty, in support of the motion.

Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the defendants:—

1. Plaintiffs had no right to prevent the defendant from setting up in business again, and calling his house of business by his own name. 2. Plaintiffs had been guilty of misrepresentation in retaining the name of the defendant and his coat of arms in and about the shop. 3. A sale of the goodwill of a business by a man's assignees in bankruptcy was not a voluntary act on his part, so as to imply any engagement that he would not interfere with what had been sold.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiffs were entitled to an injunction. No distinction was to be taken between a sale of his business by a man in trade himself and a sale by his assignees, in whom, upon bankruptcy, all the business became vested, together with the right to sell it. After the goodwill of a man's business had been sold, he had no right to represent himself as carrying on that identical business, or to represent himself as being the continuer of it. In the present case the defendant had no right to call his house "Osborne House," that being the trade designation of the house and business which had been sold. The advertisements put forward by the defendant contained a most distinct statement that it was the same business as that which was carried on by the old firm. The plaintiffs were not stopped from obtaining relief by any misrepresentation, as they were entitled to retain the brass plates, &c. which were on the premises at the time of the purchase.

V.-C. J. NOV. 11.
LONDON AND NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY v. GARNETT.
Covenant—"Beerhouse."

Motion to restrain the use of certain premises as a beerhouse for the sale of beer or other liquors, or otherwise, in contravention of the covenant entered into by the defendant with the plaintiff company in March, 1860.

By this covenant, which was contained in the deed by which certain building land was conveyed to the defendant by the company in fee simple, the defendant covenanted that the land to be conveyed, or the buildings to be erected thereon, should not be used "as a beerhouse, inn, or publichouse for the sale of spirituous liquors," and that no other trade or business should be carried on which should be a nuisance or annoyance to the company, or the owners or occupiers of the neighbouring premises.

A house was erected on the land conveyed, and in August last defendant applied for a license for the sale of beer under 32 Vict. c. 27 (Beerhouse Act, 1869), and had commenced selling beer by retail.

The question was whether a house in which beer was sold by retail not to be drunk upon the premises was a beerhouse within the meaning of the covenant.

Speed and Ince, for the plaintiffs, in support of the motion.

Jones-Bateman, for the defendant, referred to "Burn's Justice," where, in the editions of 1845 and 1867, a beerhouse was described as "a place where beer is sold by retail to be drunk upon the premises."

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR adopted the definition given in the edition of "Burn's Justice" current at the time when the covenant was entered into, and held that there had been no breach of covenant by the defendant in selling beer by retail which was not consumed upon the premises.

Motion refused.

V.-C. J. LEATHER CLOTH COMPANY v. LORSONT. NOV. 12.
Covenant in Restraint of Trade—Public Policy.

In May, 1857, an agreement was entered into by which the parties of the first part (of whom defendant Lorsont was one) agreed to sell to the plaintiff company, then in the course of formation, for 20,000*l.*, all the letters patent obtained in France and England for the manufacture of American leather cloth, and then belonging to the parties of the first part (as representing an American company called the Crockett International Leather Cloth Company), and the full benefit and advantage thereof, and also the exclusive right of soliciting similar patents in Belgium and in all other countries of Europe, together with all the processes of manufacture used by them, or their agents or workmen, up to that day, and also the business premises and machinery at West Ham.

It was also agreed that the parties of the first part, or any of them, would not, "directly or indirectly, carry on, nor to the best of their power allow to be carried on by others, in any part of Europe, any company or manufactory having for its object the manufacture or sale of productions in any way similar to the productions which are the subject of the letters patent, and now manufactured in the business or manufactory carried on at West Ham, and will not communicate to any person or persons the means or processes of such manufacture so as in any way to interfere with the exclusive enjoyment of the intended company of the benefits hereby agreed to be purchased."

The defendant subscribed for 100 shares in the company, and was appointed general manager and superintendent of the factories of the company.

In 1863 he was dismissed from his post of general manager, and was not re-elected a director at the expiration of his term of office.

In 1868 the defendant commenced manufacturing leather cloth on his own account at North Woolwich, with offices in Cannon Street (where also the offices of plaintiff company are), and issued circulars in which he described himself as "Manufacturer of Crockett's Leather Cloth," and stated that the goods supplied by him were "in every respect similar to those made by the Crockett International Leather Cloth Company (since known as the Leather Cloth Company) while their works were under my management."

The bill alleged that the defendant in his business had adopted and used trade-marks in imitation of those used by plaintiffs, and issued price-lists similar in form to those of plaintiffs, and with fac-similes of their trade-marks in the margin.

The bill was filed to restrain such proceedings, as being in breach of the covenant in the agreement of May, 1857, to which the defendant was a party.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Murten, for the plaintiffs.

Eddis, Q.C., Fischer, and Cohen, for the defendant, contended, 1st, that the plaintiffs had no right to be protected in the use of their trade-marks, as the decision of the House of Lords was conclusive as to two of three trade-marks (Leather Cloth Company v. American Leather Cloth Company (11 H. L. C. 523)), while the other one, not within that decision, contained manifestly false representations; 2ndly, that the defendant had not, in fact, infringed the trade-marks, or acted in contravention of the agreement; and, 3rdly, that the covenant being in restraint of trade generally, without limit of time or space, was void as against public policy, and could not be enforced.

Kay in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiffs' case as to the three trade-marks failed, the judgment of the House of Lords being conclusive as to the first and third, while the second contained an untrue representation. There was nothing in the agreement that violated the rules of public policy or the decided cases. A man was not to be compelled to deprive himself of the means of earning his living; but, again, where he had obtained or invented any secret or process by his labour and skill, he was entitled to sell it to the best advantage. When that advantage required him to enter into stipulations, even so as to bind himself, he was entitled to do so, provided such stipulations were not unreasonable, having regard to the subject-matter of the contract. Looking at the subject-matter of the contract in this case, there was nothing unreasonable in the stipulations that the defendant would not carry on the process so as to interfere with the exclusive enjoyment by the plaintiffs of the benefits purchased by them. The covenant, therefore, was capable of being enforced; and, as there had been a clear violation of it by the defendant, he must be restrained from carrying on any manufacture or sale of Crockett's leather cloth, or from being engaged in any company for the sale of Crockett's leather cloth, or any production similar thereto, and from holding himself out as the manufacturer of such leather cloth, or any production similar thereto.

V.-C. J. LINDSAY v. GLADSTONE. NOV. 18.
BROOKE v. GLADSTONE.

Practice—Production of Documents—Accountant.

The plaintiff Lindsay, a member of a partnership firm in India, which in 1859 was dissolved, in 1867 filed a bill against his former partners, and in November, 1868, obtained the usual order for production of documents. In 1869 he became bankrupt, and his assignee Brooke, who had revived the suit, now applied on summons that the plaintiff Lindsay "and his accountant" might be at liberty to inspect and take extracts from or copies of the books and documents.

It appeared that the books had been sent over from India, and that the accounts at Calcutta had been kept mainly by Lindsay himself in the currency of India. The defendants did not object to an accountant, but wished a professional accountant to be taken in.

Woodroffe, for the application, said that the accounts would be inspected by Mr. Lindsay for nothing, and that the estate ought not to be saddled with the costs of a professional accountant.

Bedwell opposed:—

The application was always a very special one. No complication of accounts had been shewn; and Lindsay was, in fact, a witness in the cause.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that, although it was not said that the accounts were complicated, it appeared they were very extensive and voluminous. The assignee was entitled to the assistance of an accountant, and if he chose to avail himself of the services of Lindsay, His Honour saw no reason why he should not be permitted to do so. He could not allow the plaintiff Brooke to take in both Lindsay and an accountant; but there would be an order that the plaintiff Brooke was to have the same liberty of inspection as was given to the plaintiff Lindsay by the order of November, 1868, with power to employ Lindsay as his accountant in such inspection.

Q. B. KENT, APP.; ASTLEY, RESP. Nov. 13.
Factory Acts Extension Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 103), s. 5, subs. 7
—Factory—Quarry.

An information was laid against the respondent, charging him with an offence under the Factory Acts, for that he did in his factory employ a young person requiring a surgical certificate of age without the certificate of age required by the said Acts.

The respondent is the owner of a slate quarry which extends over an area of 400 acres, and is situate on the side of one of the Welsh mountains in the parish of Llanberis. The quarry is worked on the open system, and has no underground workings, and the whole of the business is transacted in the open air. It is not enclosed by a fence of any kind, and there is nothing to define the area, which is gradually being extended in every direction. Upwards of 2600 men and boys are employed.

The young person in question was employed at an open shed in splitting and squaring blocks of slate into roofing slates.

The justices dismissed the complaint, on the ground that a slate quarry was not a factory within the meaning of the Factory Acts.

The question for the Court was whether the quarry and premises are within the operation of the Factory Acts.

Sir J. D. Coleridge, S. G. (Archibald with him), for the appellant.

Milward, Q.C. (Hance with him), for the respondent.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C. J., Mellor and Hannen, JJ.) held that the Factory Acts were not intended to apply to the carrying on of a business in the open air, and that the quarry and premises were not a "factory" within 30 & 31 Vict. c. 103, s. 5, subs. 7, which defines "factory" as "any premises in the same occupation, situate in the same parish, &c., and constituting one trade establishment in, on, or within the precincts of which fifty or more persons are employed in any manufacturing process," and dismissed the appeal.

Q. B. OAKE AND ANOTHER v. MOORECROFT. Nov. 15.
Practice—Appearance to Writ by Defendant in Person—Common Law Procedure Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 76), ss. 29-31.

A writ was taken out in this action and served, under the Bills of Exchange Act (18 & 19 Vict. c. 67). The defendant obtained leave to appear, the last day for appearing being Saturday, the 6th of November.

On Monday, the 8th of November, at the opening of the office, one Edward Perry handed in the memorandum of the appearance of the defendant in person, with the defendant's address, as required by the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 76), ss. 29-31. The plaintiffs not having any notice that the defendant had obtained leave to appear, or that he had entered an appearance, signed judgment a little later on the same morning, and execution was immediately taken out, and the defendant was arrested on the same day.

Application was made on behalf of the defendant to Lush, J., at chambers, but he refused to interfere, being of opinion that the appearance entered by a third person was not a good appearance in person.

A rule was then obtained calling on the plaintiffs to shew cause why the judgment should not be set aside, and the defendant discharged out of custody, on the ground that the judgment was signed after appearance entered.

Day shewed cause.

Lumley Smith, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C. J., Blackburn, Hannen, and Hayes, JJ.) were of opinion that the appearance of the defendant in person need not be by the own proper person of the defendant, but might be entered on his behalf by a third person. The judgment was therefore irregular, and the Court made the rule absolute without costs; no action to be brought.

Acknowledgment by Married Woman under 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 74—One Commissioner only Acting.

One of the two commissioners for taking an acknowledgment being interested as the solicitor in the transaction, the examination of the lady took place before the other only, and he died before he could make the affidavit required by the rules of Hilary Term, 1834. The deed was acknowledged before both commissioners. The registrar having declined to receive and file the certificate of acknowledgment with an affidavit by the surviving commissioner stating that, to the best of his knowledge and belief, the requirements of the statute and of the rules had been duly complied with by the deceased commissioner—application was made to the Court for an order authorizing the reception and filing of the documents.

Per curiam. There is nothing in the Act or in the rules to authorize the taking of the acknowledgment and the examination of the married woman by one commissioner only. Whatever the practice may heretofore have been, it is desirable that it should be known that the acknowledgment should be taken before both commissioners; and that one who is interested as solicitor in the transaction should not be a commissioner. The 17 & 18 Vict. c. 75 amounts to a legislative declaration that both commissioners must be acting together.

Rule refused.

VIVIAN AND OTHERS v. MERSEY DOCKS AND HARBOUR BOARD.
Mersey Docks Act, Construction of—Wreck.

Section 59 of the Mersey Docks Acts Consolidation Act, 1858 (21 & 22 Vict. c. xcii.) enacts that "the board may raise, destroy, remove, and take away any wrecks of vessels, and any vessels that shall be sunk in any dock or elsewhere within the port of Liverpool, or any of the sea channels leading thereto, and be in their judgment an obstruction to the safe and convenient navigation or use thereof, and may also remove any stone, timbers, anchors, or other obstructions or impediments to such navigation that may be found or arise therein; and in case the master or owner of such vessel or other obstruction shall refuse or neglect to pay the charge of removing the same for the space of three days after demand, or in case any such master or owner cannot be found, then the board may sell the same, and out of the proceeds of such sale retain the expenses incurred in raising, destroying, and removing such wrecks or other obstructions, and the charges of detainer and sale, rendering the overplus to the person entitled to the same: and if from such proceeds sufficient to pay all the aforesaid charges shall not be recovered, then the deficiency shall be recoverable from the master or owner of such vessel or articles so raised, destroyed, or removed, in like manner as penalties are by this Act authorized to be recovered."

A vessel was sunk in the Mersey, having goods on board belonging to the plaintiffs and to other persons.

THE COURT held, upon the construction of s. 59 of the Act of 1858, that the defendants were not justified in detaining and selling the plaintiffs' goods raised by them from the wreck to satisfy the expenses incurred in removing or destroying the hull of the vessel.

Sheriff—Attachment—Form of Affidavit.

Upon motion for an attachment against the sheriff of Essex for not returning a writ, the affidavit alleged service of a rule to return the writ to have been made "on Messrs. H. & Co., of, &c., who then were, and now are, the agents for the deputy for the sheriff of the county of Essex, appointed under the Act of Parliament in that behalf for, amongst other things, accepting service of all rules and orders made on or touching the execution of any process or writ directed to such sheriff."

C. P. HOOPER v. MARSHALL. Nov. 15.

Composition Deed—Surety—Right of Action against Principal.

Action on a bill of exchange by the drawer against the acceptor.

Plea of a composition deed, containing a release of all the defendant's debts, with the usual reservation of the rights of the creditors against sureties.

Replication: that at the time the deed was made the bill was outstanding in the hands of third parties, whom the plaintiff had been since compelled to pay.

Demurrer to the replication.

W. T. Barnard, in support of the demurrer.

Raymond, in support of the replication, contended—1, that the plaintiff was not a creditor at the time of the making of the deed within the meaning of the Bankruptcy Acts; 2, that the deed must be interpreted in the same way as a Common Law deed would be, and contained therefore an implied exception of the rights of the sureties against the defendant, since that was implied by the Common Law from a reservation of the rights of creditors against the sureties.

THE COURT held, on the authority of Wood v. De Mattos (Law

Rep. 1 Ex. 91), that the deed was binding on the plaintiff, and was a bar to his right of action against the defendant for the money he had paid as his surety.

C. P. LONDON AND SOUTH WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY, APPEALS; MYERS, RESP. Nov. 15.

Carriers—Interpretation of Statute—Rate per Mile.

Appeal from the County Court judge for Hampshire.

The appellants carried some goods of the respondent from Southampton to Luton, and in the course of the journey carried the goods past the Clapham Junction to Nine Elms Station, and then back again, thus making the journey six miles longer than it need have been. This course was, however, usual and reasonable, there being a Goods Station at Nine Elms. By 9 & 10 Vict. c. cxxxi. s. 13 it is provided that the London and South Western Railway Company shall not charge more than 3d. per ton per mile for goods. The company having charged 3d. a mile per ton for the whole distance, including the distance from Clapham Junction to Nine Elms and back, the respondent brought this action to recover back the amount charged in respect of these six miles.

The County Court judge having decided in the plaintiffs' favour, and granted leave to the appellants to appeal:

Hon. G. Denman, Q.C., and Mangles, appeared for the appellants.

Montague Bere, Q.C., for the respondent.

THE COURT held that the appellants were entitled to charge 3d. per ton for every mile which they carried the goods, if carried by a usual and reasonable route.

EX. CONYBEARE v. FARRIES. Nov. 8.

County Court Appeal—Costs—Notice to Produce.

This was an appeal from the decision of Mr. Commissioner Kerr, upon the question whether a notice to produce "all letters relating to your tenancy of a room" included a letter which, with the plaintiffs' reply, constituted the tenancy. One letter was specified in the notice, which was written during the tenancy, and it was contended that this limited the generality of the terms.

The learned commissioner held that the notice was insufficient, and nonsuited the plaintiff, who appealed.

THE COURT being of opinion that the notice was sufficient, and that there must be a new trial:

Bowen asked for the costs of the appeal, relying on Schroeder v. Ward (13 C. B. N. S. 410), where the Court of Common Pleas laid down an opposite rule to that laid down in this Court in Gee v. Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company (6 H. & N. 221), and held that, on appeals from the County Court, the successful appellant was, in all cases, entitled to costs, although a new trial was directed on the ground of misdirection.

Kemp, contra.

THE COURT (Kelly, O.B., Channell, Pigott, and Cleasby, BB.) gave costs to the appellant, but declined to lay down a general rule; and held that it was a matter of discretion in each case.

EX. GEORGE AND WIFE v. SKIVINGTON. Nov. 15.

Action by Husband and Wife—Misfeasance towards Wife arising out of Contract with Husband—Scienter.

Declaration by Joseph George and Emma his wife that the defendant carried on the business of a chemist, and professed to sell a chemical compound made of ingredients known only to himself, which he professed to be fit and proper to be used for washing the hair, and might be so used without personal injury to the person using the same, and to have been carefully and skilfully compounded by him, the defendant; and thereupon the plaintiff Joseph George bought of the defendant a bottle of the said compound, to be used by the plaintiff Emma for washing her hair, as the defendant then knew, and on the terms that the compound was fit and proper to be so used without personal injury, and that it had been skilfully and properly compounded; yet the defendant so unskilfully, &c. conducted himself in making and selling the said compound that the same was not fit to be used for washing hair, nor could it be so used without personal injury; by which premises, and by reason of the defendant's unskilfulness and improper conduct, the plaintiff Emma, who used the said compound for washing her hair, suffered pain, and was injured in her health.

Demurrer, and joinder in demurrer.

Nov. 10, 15. Lord, in support of the demurrer, contended that, in the absence of an allegation that the defendant knew the compound he sold was deleterious, there was no breach of duty on his part towards the female plaintiff shewn on the declaration, such as would make the action maintainable. He cited Langridge v. Levy (2 M. & W. 519; 4 M. & W. 337) and Longmeid v. Holliday (6 Ex. 761).

Ingham, in support of the declaration, was not called on.

THE COURT held that the circumstances disclosed by the declaration constituted a good cause of action by the husband and wife, according to the principle of Langridge v. Levy (2 M. & W. 519; 4 M. & W. 337).

C. C. THE QUEEN v. WILLIAM RITSON AND SAMUEL RITSON. Nov. 13.

Forgery—Antedated Deed.

Indictment under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, s. 20, for forging a deed.

W. Ritson was the father of S. Ritson, and was the owner in fee of certain land. W. Ritson gave an equitable mortgage of the land to the prosecutor as security for money advanced to him by the prosecutor. Subsequently, on the 5th of May, 1868, W. Ritson executed a deed of assignment under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, conveying all his real and personal estate to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors.

On the 7th of May, 1868, W. Ritson and the trustee executed a deed conveying the land in fee to the prosecutor.

Subsequently S. Ritson claimed the land, and produced as his title the deed charged as a forged deed.

This deed was dated the 12th of March, 1868, which was prior to the two before-mentioned deeds, and purported to be made between W. Ritson and S. Ritson. It recited the original conveyance in fee to W. Ritson, and that W. Ritson had agreed with S. Ritson to grant to him a lease of a part of the land; and the deed then professed to demise to S. Ritson a large and the most valuable part of the land for 999 years from the 25th of March, 1868. The deed contained no notice of any title, legal or equitable, of the prosecutor, and contained the covenants usual between a lessor and lessee. It was executed by both W. and S. Ritson.

The jury were told that, if the deed of the 12th of March, 1868, was executed after the conveyance to the prosecutor, and was antedated with the purpose of defrauding the prosecutor, the deed would be a forgery. The jury found the prisoners guilty.

The question was whether the prisoners were properly convicted of forgery, inasmuch as the deed was really executed by the parties between whom it purported to be made.

Torr, for the prisoners.

Addison, for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Martin, B., Blackburn, Lush, and Brett, JJ.) held that the prisoners were properly convicted, as it is forgery to fraudulently make a deed which purports to be something quite different from that which it really is, even although it is executed by the parties between whom it is expressed to be made.

Conviction affirmed.

A. & E. THE YOUNG JAMES. Nov. 9.
County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), ss. 3, 9—Costs.

This was a cause of damage.

The action was entered in the sum of 1000*l.* The damage actually sustained by the plaintiff's vessel amounted to 800*l.* After the institution of the suit the defendants availed themselves of the provisions contained in section 54 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 63), and filed an affidavit, which stated the facts necessary to entitle them to have their liability limited to 8*l.* per ton. After the affidavit was filed the sum of 252*l.* 2*s.*, which was the value of the defendants' vessel calculated at 8*l.* per ton, was tendered by the plaintiffs, and accepted by the defendants in satisfaction; the question of costs being reserved.

Clarkson, on behalf of the plaintiffs, moved the Court to condemn the defendants in costs.

Gibson opposed the application, on the ground that the suit might, without agreement, have been brought in a County Court, and that the plaintiffs had not recovered a sum exceeding 800*l.*

THE COURT held that the suit was not a proceeding which might, without agreement, have been taken in the County Court, and condemned the defendants in costs.

A. & E. THE BENGAL. Nov. 17.
County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), s. 9—Order to take Proceedings in the High Court of Admiralty.

Clarkson applied, in pursuance of the 9th section of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, for an order to institute a suit in the High Court of Admiralty. The application was made on behalf of the owners of two steam tugs, who claimed to have rendered salvage services to the Bengal, a vessel of 1800 tons burden. The application was supported by an affidavit, from which it appeared that agreements had been made between the masters of the tugs and the master of the Bengal to tow the Bengal into port for a specific sum; that after the making of the agreement the difficulty of the enterprise had increased; and that a question of law was likely to arise whether, under the circumstances of the case, the towage contract was superseded by the right to salvage.

THE COURT made the order.

In re BLAKELY ORDNANCE COMPANY.
HOLLAND'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Past Member—Debts of Company—Payment in Debentures.

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls (ante, p. 196) striking the name of Colonel Holland off the list of contributories as a past member of the company.

The only debt now due from the company, which was alleged to have existed when Colonel Holland ceased to be a member, was a debt of 150,000*l.* to Messrs. Blakely & Dent, being part of the purchase-money to be paid for their business. Colonel Holland transferred his shares on the 1st of August, 1865, and the transfer was registered on the 11th of August. Debentures were issued to Messrs. Blakely & Dent in satisfaction of this debt, which, although bearing date the 8th of August, were not sealed and issued till the 17th of August. The Master of the Rolls held that the debt was satisfied after Colonel Holland had ceased to be a member.

The official liquidator appealed.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the appellant.
Jessel, Q.C., and Jackson, for Colonel Holland.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD dismissed the appeal with costs.

In re HUMBER IRON WORKS COMPANY.
WARRANT FINANCE COMPANY'S CASE. (No. 2.)

Company—Winding-up—Double Proof—Principal and Interest—Secured Debt—Practice—Appeal from Judge in Chambers.

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls made in the winding-up of the Humber Iron Works Company Limited, directing the Warrant Finance Company to refund a sum of 1195*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.*, paid to them under the following circumstances:—The Warrant Finance Company accepted bills drawn by the Humber Iron Works Company for 25,000*l.*, and by way of security received promissory notes and debentures to that amount, and also an assignment of the arrears of calls due on the 22nd of December, 1865. The bills were to become due on the 22nd of March, 1866, and if not then paid interest was payable at the rate of 20*l.* per cent.

The order for winding-up the Humber Iron Works Company was made on the 13th of March, 1866.

The Warrant Finance Company had received altogether up to the 18th of January, 1869, in respect of the arrears of calls, 11,104*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*, and had also received dividends under the winding-up amounting to 15,090*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.*, so that they had received 1195*l.* 8*s.* 10*d.* more than the principal of their debt. This they claimed to retain towards payment of interest from the 22nd of March, 1866. The Master of the Rolls, considering that the case came within the principle of In re Humber Iron Works Company, Warrant Finance Company's Case (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 643), ordered them to refund the money paid in excess of the principal.

The case having been heard by the Master of the Rolls in chambers, and having been argued by solicitors:

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., on the 12th of November, applied to the Court for permission to bring on the appeal, although the case had not been argued in Court.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD gave leave to bring on the appeal; but stated that in future no appeal would be heard from an order made in chambers unless the judge certified that the case had been so fully argued before him in chambers that he did not require it to be reargued in open Court.

On the 19th of November

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Eddis, Q.C., and Langley, appeared for the Warrant Finance Company, who appealed.

Southgate, Q.C., and Wickens, for the official liquidators of the Humber Iron Works Company.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD was of opinion that this case was not governed by In re Humber Iron Works Company, Warrant Finance Company's Case (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 643), but was similar to In re Joint Stock Discount Company (ante, p. 226). A secured creditor was entitled to prove for the full amount of his debt, and also to retain his security till the full amount of principal and interest had been paid. The order of the Master of the Rolls must, therefore, be discharged.

CREYKE'S CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Past Member—Forfeiture of Shares.

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls (ante, p. 196), settling Mr. Creyke on the list of contributories of the above-named company. Mr. Creyke was an original member of the company, and a holder of forty shares, which had been forfeited within twelve months before the winding-up of the company.

Jessel, Q.C., and Speed, for Mr. Creyke, who appealed.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD considered the case governed by Bridger's Case (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 266), although the facts in that case were somewhat different. He therefore dismissed the appeal with costs.

Bankruptcy—Privilege of Parliament.

This was an appeal by Morris, the petitioning creditor, from a decision of Mr. Commissioner Winslow that a person having privilege of Parliament, and not being a trader, could not be adjudicated bankrupt under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

De Gez, Q.C., Sargood, Serjt., and Bagley, for the appellant.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Reed, for the Duke of Newcastle.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD held that the general words of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, s. 69, included non-traders having privilege of Parliament; and reversed the decision appealed from.

M. R. WOLLASTON v. TRIBE. Nov. 15.
Marriage Settlement—Collateral Relatives—Power of Revocation.

This suit was instituted for the purpose of obtaining a declaration that certain trusts and provisions in favour of the nephews, nieces, and next of kin of the plaintiff, contained in the settlement made in contemplation of the marriage of the plaintiff with her late husband, were void as against the plaintiff; and for a retransfer of the property comprised in the settlement to the plaintiff.

The settlement bore date the 27th of September, 1858, and thereby certain real and personal estate belonging to the plaintiff was settled upon certain trusts for the benefit of the plaintiff and her husband during their respective lives and the children of the then intended or any future marriage of the plaintiff, and in default of such issue, upon trust for the children of the plaintiff's two sisters in equal shares, and in case there should be none, for the next of kin of the plaintiff. All leases and variations in the investments of the trust property were to be made at the sole discretion of the trustees, in whom was also vested the power of appointing new trustees. The settlement contained a covenant by the plaintiff to settle all her future property upon the like trusts. The plaintiff's husband brought no property into settlement.

The plaintiff's husband died in 1865; there was no issue of the marriage, and the plaintiff had not married again.

The settlement was prepared upon the instructions of one of the plaintiff's brothers-in-law, whose children took a benefit thereunder. The solicitor who prepared the settlement stated that he read over the settlement and explained it to the plaintiff; but he admitted that he did not explain to her what would be her position in the event of her surviving her husband and having no issue by him, and that he did not suggest the propriety of inserting a power of revocation in that event. It was admitted that the plaintiff was inexperienced in matters of business; and she denied that she understood the effect of the settlement at the time when she executed it.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., and Ware, for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., Southgate, Q.C., and Bovill, for the defendants, the sisters of the plaintiff and their husbands and children.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, as regarded the defendants, the settlement was purely voluntary, and, under the circumstances, could not stand; and made a decree as prayed for.

M. R. In re GLEBE LANDS OF GREAT YELDHAM. Nov. 20.
Lands Clauses Act—Purchase-money paid into Court—Insolvent Company—Petition for Payment of Costs.

This was a petition by the rector of Great Yeldham that part of a sum of stock, representing the purchase-money of certain glebe lands in the said parish taken by the Colne Valley and Halstead Railway Company, and paid into Court under the Lands Clauses Act, might be sold for the payment of certain costs remaining due to him.

By an order of the Court the purchase-money had been ordered to be invested, and the dividends to be paid to the rector for his life, and the company were ordered to pay his costs, which were taxed at 143*l.* Part only of this sum had been paid by the company.

The petition stated that the company was now insolvent, and prayed that a sufficient part of the fund in Court might be sold for payment to the petitioner's solicitors of the balance remaining due in respect of his costs.

Rowcliffe, for the petitioner.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that the order might be made.

Solicitors: Gregory, Rowcliffes, & Rawle.

M. R. CADBURY v. SMITH. Nov. 22.
Legacy—Lapse of Time—Statute of Limitations—Admission of Assets—Trust.

This was a suit on behalf of the General Hospital at Birmingham to obtain payment from the representatives of Frances Wade of a legacy of 1000*l.* bequeathed by her will.

Testatrix by her will gave all her real and personal property to her trustees, whom she also appointed her executors and residuary legatees, upon trust to convert the same and invest the proceeds, and pay thereout certain charitable legacies, including 1000*l.* to the Hospital at Birmingham and 1000*l.* to the Infirmary at Leeds.

The testatrix died in 1836, and in 1866 the present bill was filed. The defendants relied on the Statute of Limitations. The plaintiffs alleged that the claim was taken out of the operation of the Statute, first, because there had been an admission of assets by the executors, and, secondly, because it was a trust.

In support of the first contention they relied on the fact that the legacy of 1000*l.* to the Leeds Infirmary had been paid by two of the executors, one of whom, Smith, was a medical officer of that infirmary; and, further, that Smith had received from the estate of a deceased co-executor 700*l.* for his share of the residue. In support of the second contention they maintained that lapse of time was no bar to a trust.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Speed, for the plaintiffs.

Jessel, Q.C., W. W. Karlake, and U. Chapman Barber, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that, upon the facts of the case, there had been no admission of assets, as the payment of the other legacy was a gift by Smith, and that the payment to him of 700*l.* was not an admission of assets for this particular legacy; also that, as there had been no fund set apart for the payment of the legacy, it was not a case of trust; that the claim was barred by the Statute; and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

Nov. 16.

WILLIAMS v. EAST LONDON RAILWAY COMPANY.

Lessee and Railway Company, Agreement between—Apportionment of Rent between Lessor and Lessee—Lands Clauses Act, 1845, s. 119.

In September, 1844, two pieces of land were demised by C. S. Butler for terms of sixty-one years, subject to the rents of 40*l.* and 41*l.* 12*s.*, and certain covenants on the part of the lessee, who died in 1861, leaving the plaintiff his legal representative. In May, 1866, the East London Railway Company gave the plaintiff notice to treat for the purchase of parts of the property, and after negotiations the plaintiff and defendants in November, 1867, entered into an agreement for the sale and purchase of the property, required, at the sum of 1250*l.*, and the rents payable by the lessee under the leases were to be apportioned under the 119th section of the Lands Clauses Act, if necessary. The schedule to the agreement stated that the property was sold subject to apportioned rents of 24*l.* 12*s.* and 20*l.* 9*s.* as between the lessor and the vendor and the company, if necessary. C. S. Butler was not a party to the agreement, and he would not consent to any apportionment. The defendants having declined to take steps for an apportionment under the Lands Clauses Act of 1845, the plaintiff issued summonses against the defendants and C. S. Butler, and they came on to be heard before a police magistrate, and all three parties attended before him; but as it appeared that the defendants had not given notice to C. S. Butler to treat for the purchase of his interest, the police magistrate, after adjournments, dismissed the summonses without costs. The plaintiff prayed for a decree for specific performance, and that the defendants might be decreed to do all necessary acts for the apportionment of the rents, including the giving of the notice to C. S. Butler to treat for the purchase of his interest, and for costs. The defendants in their answer stated that the rents could have been apportioned by agreement between the plaintiff and themselves, and that they would have been contented with the plaintiff's covenants; and, as regarded the lessee's covenants with his lessor, that the Lands Clauses Act, 1845, contained no machinery for the purpose of apportioning them further than, when an apportionment of rent was made, that Act prescribed that the covenants in the lease should remain in force with regard to that part of the land not required by the company.

Dickinson, Q. C., and W. R. Ellis, for the plaintiff.

Greens, Q. C., Fooks, Q. C., and W. Fooks, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he could not make a decree that the defendants should serve a notice upon the lessor to treat for the purchase of his interest; but, as under the Lands Clauses Act an apportionment could be made, he would decree that the plaintiff and defendants should do and concur in all acts necessary to obtain it under the agreement and the 119th section of the Act. As the view taken by the police magistrate had, through mistake common to both parties, occasioned the suit, there would be no order as to costs. There would be liberty to apply at chambers.

V.-C. M. POUFARD v. FARDELL. Nov. 17.
Validity of Patent—Specification—Practice—Time for closing Evidence—15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, ss. 38, 39.

This bill was filed by the patentee of a skid or drag for the wheels of carriages for an injunction to restrain the defendant from infringing his patent. The invention consisted in making the skid with a tailpiece projecting from the back part of the top of the skid-chamber; and the inventor in his specification stated: "The tailpiece may be carried entirely through to the front of the shoe. I prefer to form it of wrought iron or steel, while the body of the shoe may be of cast or wrought iron. The best results to be obtained from the projecting tailpiece is curved upwards, but I do not limit myself to so shaping it."

The defence was, first, want of novelty; in support of which evidence was brought forward to shew that the principle of the plaintiff's skid had been in use for twenty years; and, secondly, that the specification was insufficient, inasmuch as it stated that the plaintiff did not limit himself to forming the projecting piece with an upward curve though, it was proved by the evidence that that was the only form in which the invention was valuable for the purpose of facilitating the entrance of the wheel into the skid-chamber.

The cause now came on at the hearing.

Glasse, Q. C., and Bovill, for the plaintiff.

Mackeson, Q. C., Stevens, and W. W. Cooper, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR came to the conclusion, upon the evidence, that there had been no prior user of the plaintiff's invention, and that the defence of want of novelty could not be supported. He was of opinion that the plaintiff's specification, with the drawings that accompanied it, explained his invention with sufficient clearness to prevent the public from being misled. The words, "but I do not limit myself to so shaping it," would have been better omitted; but he came to the conclusion, both upon the authorities cited and the general principles of justice, that the patent was not on that account vitiated. The plaintiff was, therefore, entitled to a perpetual injunction, and the defendant must pay the costs of the suit.

The plaintiff having filed replication, the defendant filed affidavits on the last day before the time for closing evidence, to prove instances of prior user not mentioned in the answer. The plaintiff thereupon took out a summons under 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 38, for leave to file further affidavits to contradict the defendant's affidavits on these points; and the summons was ordered to stand to the hearing.

At the hearing:

Glasse, Q. C., and Bovill, for the plaintiff, applied for leave to examine witnesses orally, for the purpose of disproving the alleged instances of prior user, on the ground that the plaintiff was taken by surprise by the defendant's evidence.

Mackeson, Q. C., Stevens, and W. W. Cooper, for the defendant, opposed the application on the ground that the plaintiff, having chosen to file replication, could not complain of being taken by surprise.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he had power under the 39th section of the Act to require the witnesses to be examined, and that justice would be prevented by refusing the plaintiff's application.

The witnesses were thereupon examined; and at the close of the evidence the defendant's counsel applied for leave to adduce further evidence; but the Court, being of opinion that the matter as to which such evidence was proposed to be given was irrelevant, refused the application.

V.-C. M. WALTERS v. WEBB. Nov. 17.
Copyholds—Seizure quousque—Demurrer—Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27).

The bill stated that the plaintiff was entitled to be admitted as tenant in fee simple, according to the custom of the manor of Wentland, to certain lands and tenements, portion of such manor. That for many years previously to the year 1819, and down to the time of the seizure afterwards mentioned, William Walters, the grandfather of the plaintiff, had been in possession of and entitled as tenant in fee simple to such lands, but he had never been admitted. While he was so in possession, the then lords of the manor caused successive proclamations to be made for the heir, according to the custom, to come in and be admitted as a tenant; and, no one having appeared to demand admittance thereto, the said lands were duly seized quousque, and thereupon an entry was made upon the Court Rolls thereof. William Walters died in July, 1831, intestate, leaving Charles Walters, his only son and heir, surviving him; Charles Walters never made any demand to be admitted, and he died in 1864, leaving the plaintiff, his eldest son, surviving, who thereupon became entitled to be admitted as a customary tenant of the manor.

The bill prayed that the defendants, who were the present lords of the manor, might be decreed to admit the plaintiff as tenant of the lands in question; the plaintiff offering to pay what should be due to the defendants in respect of such admission.

To this bill demurrers were put in, on the ground that the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27) barred the claim.

Wickens and Cracknall, Osborne, Q. C., and Riddell, and Bristowe, Q. C., and Kekewich, in support of the demurrers.

Glasse, Q. C., Cotton, Q. C., and Bradford, in support of the bill, contended that the bill was not for the recovery of lands, but for compelling the lord to admit the plaintiff. The statute did not therefore apply. By the seizure quousque the lord held the estate in trust for the heir; there had been no forfeiture, and there was no adverse possession, consequently no length of time would bar the plaintiff's right.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the object of this bill was to compel the lord to admit the plaintiff, which would have the effect of putting him in possession of the lands or of enabling him to recover possession. It was not necessary there should be adverse possession; but there had been a discontinuance of possession for more than twenty years, and this was fatal to the plaintiff's bill. The demurrers must therefore be allowed.

V.-C. M. In re HEATON STEEL AND IRON COMPANY. Nov. 18.
SIMPSON'S CASE.

Shareholders—Motion to rectify the Register—Companies Act.

This was a motion on behalf of J. Simpson that the Heaton Steel and Iron Company might be ordered to rectify the register of shareholders by striking out therefrom the name of J. Simpson so far as regarded 1708 preference shares purported to have been allotted to him on the 28th of June, 1869.

The Heaton Company was formed with a nominal capital of 400,000*l.*, in 40,000 shares, for the purpose of purchasing the buildings, implements, and effects of another company called the Langley Mill Company, and a contract was entered into between the two companies, which contained this proviso: that if before the 1st of July, 1869, there should not have been allotted to shareholders of the Heaton Company at least one fourth of the shares, either company might, within ten days, give notice to determine the contract. J. Simpson, who was chairman of the Langley Mill Company, and a director in the Heaton Company, signed an undertaking at the same time that, in the event of 1708 shares not being taken up by the shareholders in the Langley Mill Company, he would himself apply for and take an allotment of such shares.

These 1708 shares not having been taken up, a notice was served on Mr. Simpson that they had been allotted to him. He, however, repudiated the allotment, and submitted that, under the circumstances, the undertaking was not binding upon him.

It appeared that, exclusive of the 1708 shares, no more than 2470 had been entered upon the register of the Heaton Company. No notice to rescind the original contract between the companies had been given on either side.

The Langley Mill Company were not parties to this motion.

Cotton, Q.C., and Simpson, in support of the motion.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cracknall, for the company, submitted that, there being a difficult question respecting the construction of the documents, it could not be decided on motion in a summary manner under the 35th section of the Act of 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), but there must be a bill filed to determine the rights of the parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the question was one of so much doubt and difficulty, and was of so complicated a description, that, although he thought Mr. Simpson was wrong in his contention, he should not consider himself justified in deciding it upon motion. Motion refused.

V.-C. M. In re POTTERIES RAILWAY COMPANY. Nov. 18.

Scheme under Railway Act, 1867—Debenture-holders—Judgment—Execution.

This was a motion on behalf of the above company for an injunction to restrain the sheriff from continuing in possession of the rolling stock of the company.

Under the Railway Companies Act, 1867, a scheme had been agreed upon by the company, which was approved by the required number of shareholders, and affirmed by the Court.

Mr. Minor was a debenture-holder, and had brought an action against the company, and recovered judgment, before the Act of 1867 was passed. After the scheme was enrolled and advertised, Mr. Minor issued execution upon his judgment, and seized part of the rolling stock of the company, and the sheriff was now in possession.

Osborne, Q.C., and Dryden, in support of the motion:—

The 9th section of the Act of 1867 provides that, after publication of a scheme, no execution, attachment, or other process against the property of the company shall be available without leave of the Court. Mr. Minor, being a debenture-holder in the company, is bound under the 10th section by the scheme, three fourths of the debenture-holders having assented to it.

Glasse, Q.C., and Loock Webb, for Mr. Minor, contended that he was more than a debenture-holder, for he had by superior diligence acquired personal rights by having obtained judgment, and the Court would not deprive him of this advantage. Mr. Minor was in the position of an outside creditor, and in that character he could exercise his legal rights apart from his interest as a debenture-holder.

Bedwell, for the sheriff, asked for costs.

There was a separate motion by Mr. Minor for leave to proceed under the judgment.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that, notwithstanding Mr. Minor had obtained judgment in respect of his debt, still he was a debenture-holder or mortgagee within the definition of the 10th section of the Act; and though he did not assent to the scheme, he was bound by the three fourths of the debenture-holders who did assent. There must be an injunction to restrain his proceeding to sell, and the motion that he may be allowed to make his judgment available must be refused.

Hood v. Hood.

Nov. 19.

Will—Construction—Gift over on Death referred to Death in Testator's Lifetime—Legacy payable within Six Months after Death of Tenant for Life—Interest.

Samuel Hood, by his will dated the 6th of May, 1843, gave to his brother William Hood 1000*l.*, and to his brother Alexander Hood 1000*l.*, and directed that, if any legatee should die in his lifetime, his legacy should be paid to his children, and that the legacies should be paid within six calendar months next after the decease of his wife, and he gave his residuary estate to his wife.

The testator, by a codicil dated the 6th of June, 1844, after reciting the above-mentioned bequests and directions, and stating that his brother William was dead and had left a widow, directed that his legacy, when payable, should be held for the benefit of his widow for her life, and the principal afterwards to be paid to his children; and also directed that if his brother Alexander should die leaving a widow, such widow should have a like interest in the legacy given to him, in like manner as the testator had thereinbefore directed in respect to the widow of his brother William, and the principal afterwards to be paid to the children of Alexander.

The testator died in June, 1844. Alexander Hood died in January, 1851, leaving a widow, who died in 1856, and four children. The testator's widow died on the 14th of December, 1867.

By the decree in the cause made in 1845, 1000*l.* was ordered to be carried to a separate account, entitled "The Legacy Account of Alexander Hood, his wife and children," and the interest to be paid to the testator's widow for life.

This was a petition by the executor of Alexander Hood for payment out of Court of the 1000*l.* and the interest accrued thereon since the death of the testator's widow.

Glasse, Q.C., and H. B. Howard, for the petitioner, contended that the gift over in the codicil of Alexander Hood's legacy was only to take effect in the event of his death in the testator's lifetime.

Pearson, Q.C., for the children of Alexander Hood, contended that the gift over was intended to take effect in the event of the death of Alexander Hood at any time, leaving a widow.

Kingdon, for the representative of the testator's widow, contended that the interest of the 1000*l.* for six months after the widow's death was undisposed of, and fell into the residuary estate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that in the codicil the words "shall die leaving a widow" referred to death in the testator's lifetime, and consequently that Alexander, having survived the testator, became absolutely entitled to the legacy; and that the legacy carried interest from the day of the widow's death.

Solicitors for the petitioner: Howard & Gillespie.

V.-C. M. DUNN v. FERRIOR. Nov. 20.

Production of Documents—Suit between adverse Claimants of Legal Title.

This was a summons by the plaintiff for the production by the defendant of documents which he admitted to be in his possession, but objected to produce, on the ground that they related exclusively to his own title.

Both the plaintiff and the defendant claimed to be entitled to real estate as heirs-at-law of Mary Ferrior, a lunatic, who died in 1867. The bill prayed for a receiver of the estate until the question of the heirship should be determined, for an injunction restraining the defendant from receiving the rents, and for an issue as to the heirship. The defendant after the institution of the suit got into possession of the estate and granted several leases, which were among the documents in question. In February, 1868, Vice-Chancellor Malins made an order in this suit, and a similar suit of Carrow v. Ferrior, appointing a receiver, but the order was discharged by the Court of Appeal (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 719). A sum of 243*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.*, which the defendant had received for rent after an interim order had been made restraining him from receiving rent, had been paid by him under an order in the suit to two stakeholders, to be dealt with as the Court should direct.

Schomberg, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

Osborne, Q.C., and Bevir, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that as the bill, so far as it prayed for a receiver, had failed, it was simply an ejectment bill, upon which no relief could be granted at the hearing; and, that being so, the Court would not compel the defendant to produce documents to assist the plaintiff in impeaching his legal title. The summons must be dismissed.

V.-C. M. BRITNELL v. WALTON. Nov. 22.

Will—Construction—"Then living."

Susanna Southam, by her will dated the 21st of July, 1841, gave her real and personal estate to Elizabeth Walton for life, and after her death to her husband, Nathaniel Walton, for life, and after his death to five children of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Walton named in the will, or such of them as should be "then living," their heirs, executors, &c., as tenants in common.

By a codicil, dated the same day, the testatrix empowered Elizabeth and Nathaniel Walton, or the survivor, to sell her real estate, and to invest the proceeds, and take the interest for her or his own use during her or his life or the life of the survivor, and "after the decease of the survivor" she gave the residue of the proceeds "equally between the children of the said Elizabeth and Nathaniel Walton in the same manner as was directed by her will as to the residue of her real and personal estate."

The testatrix died in 1842, Nathaniel Walton in 1851, and Elizabeth in 1868. Susanna Gomme, one of the five children of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Walton named in the will, survived Nathaniel, but predeceased Elizabeth.

This was a bill by the personal representative of S. Gomme against the representatives of the testatrix and the other four children of N. and E. Walton, for administration of the testatrix's estate.

The defendants demurred for want of equity.

Pearson, Q.C., and Higgins, for the demurrer, contended that only the four children living at the death of the survivor of N. and E. Walton took shares in the testatrix's residuary estate.

Cotton, Q.C., and Hastings, for the bill, contended that all the children living at the death of N. Walton were entitled.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, in the will, the words "then living" referred to the death of N. Walton, and that the codicil did not alter the will in that respect; consequently S. Gomme took a vested interest in a share of the residue, and the demurrer must be overruled.

V.-C. J. MILLINGTON v. HOLLAND. Nov. 15.

Partnership Account—Statute of Limitations.

Bill for a partnership account filed by the representative of Millington, one of the partners, who died in 1859.

The surviving partner Cooke continued to carry on the business until his death in 1867.

In 1862 a statement of the assets and liabilities of the firm was prepared by the plaintiff's solicitor, and in 1865 such solicitor made various memoranda and notes upon this statement, and the statement, together with the memoranda and notes, was approved and signed by Cooke, the surviving partner.

The right to a partnership account was disputed by the defendant, the executor of Cooke, on the ground that it was barred by the Statute of Limitations.

Kay, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff, were stopped.

C. Hall and Speed, for the defendant, contended that the Statute of Limitations was a complete answer to a bill for a partnership account after six years from the death of the plaintiff's testator, and that there was no acknowledgment or admission by Cooke, whose estate was sought to be charged, sufficient to take the case out of the operation of the Statute.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the surviving partner would be bound to get in the assets. The statement of 1862 shewed clearly that there were outstanding assets remaining to be got in, as well as liabilities to be discharged. There must be a decree for the usual partnership account.

V.-C. J. PREES v. COKE. Nov. 17.

Sale set aside—Misrepresentation and Want of Professional Advice.

Bill to set aside a conveyance executed on the 29th of March, 1854, whereby the plaintiff (now in his 78th year), in consideration of 50*l.*, granted to Coke his equity of redemption in certain estates in Wales, of which he was tenant for lives, the estates being leased for 120*l.* a year, subject to a head-rent, and being in mortgage.

The mortgagee filed a bill for foreclosure, in which a decree was made, and the report found the amount due to be 686*l.* 17*s.* 4*d.*; but no decree absolute was made, owing to the death of the mortgagee and non-revival of the suit. The plaintiff, however, was turned out of possession. He said that, in 1854, he was sent for by Coke, a member of a firm of Coke & Jones, the mortgagee's solicitors, who told him he had no substantial interest left in the property, and asked him to execute the deed in question, offering him 50*l.*, partly as a gratuity and partly for the surrender of his nominal rights. Plaintiff being, as he said, poor, ignorant of his rights, and without professional assistance, assented. Coke & Jones dissolved partnership. Coke was dead, and the defendants, his representatives, denied the facts as to the plaintiff's ignorance, maintained that 50*l.* was all the equity of redemption was worth, and suggested that the real plaintiff in the suit was Jones, who had quarrelled with his former partner, and was using Prees as his instrument in this litigation.

Jones had not been called by either side.

Kay, Q.C., and Fischer, for the plaintiff.

Eddis, Q.C., and Marten, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he believed the plaintiff's statements as to the misrepresentation made to him by Coke, and as to his want of professional advice; but the evidence was, in His Honour's view, corroborated by the undisputed facts. His Honour further thought that the interest sold by the plaintiff in 1854 was a substantial interest, and that 50% was an inadequate price for it. He also thought either party was well excused from calling Jones. There must, therefore, be a decree setting aside the transaction as a sale, and directing an account on the footing of its having been entered into as a security for 50%., with interest. The plaintiff to have the costs.

In re ISLE OF WIGHT RAILWAY COMPANY.

Company—Scheme—Shares issued by way of Security or Indemnity.

A scheme of arrangement between this company and their creditors, filed on the 13th of May, 1869, recited that "a large portion of the ordinary and preference shares of the company have been issued by way of security only, or are held in trust by way of indemnity;" and that the company were threatened with suits and actions, "and the shares which have been issued by way of security and indemnity as aforesaid are liable to be sold at a ruinous discount." The scheme then provided that "so soon as the requisite assent shall be obtained from the holders of the shares issued as collateral security, the same shall be called in and cancelled, and these shares shall not be re-issued."

Kay, Q.C., and Kekewich supported the scheme.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he considered the issue of shares "by way of security or indemnity" to be illegal.

Kay said that, if that were so, the provision for their cancellation would be the proper course.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said his only difficulty was as to the rights of outside creditors to proceed against the nominal holders of these shares; but upon consideration, being of opinion that such rights, if any, would not be affected by the confirmation and enrolment of the present scheme, thought that the article providing for the cancellation of such shares might be retained; and made the order confirming the scheme accordingly.

Webster, Q.C., Eddis, Q.C., Wickens, Robinson, and Bedwell, also appeared.

V.-C. J. Nov. 24.
In re FAMILY ENDOWMENT SOCIETY.
Contract—Evidence of Novation—Unregistered Company—Jurisdiction to Wind up—Legal Remedies.

The Family Endowment Society, formed in 1835, and never registered under the Companies Act, 1862, is regulated by a public Act of Parliament, which provides that the persons whose names shall be last memorialised by enrolment in Chancery as directors of the society shall, until the memorialising of their successors, continue liable to all proceedings.

In 1849 and 1850 the petitioner General Pott bought two annuities of the society. In 1861 the business of the society and "all its money, property, credits, securities, and effects" were sold and transferred to the Albert and Medical Life Assurance Company, now the Albert Life Assurance Company, which, by an order made in 1869, is in liquidation.

The annuities being unpaid, this petition was presented for an order to wind up the society under the Companies Act, 1862.

Fry, Q.C., and Westlake, for the petitioner.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Higgins, and Hon. W. Bethell, for some of the society's shareholders.

Kay, Q.C., and Jackson, and Eddis, Q.C., and Watson, for others of the same.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Kekewich, for the last memorialised directors of the society.

Willcock, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the Albert Company and its official liquidator.

Fry in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR observed that, as the petitioner's annuities were in arrear to the amount of more than 50%., and the company had ceased to carry on business, so far the case was brought within the Act of Parliament. The answer to the petitioner's case had been threefold: 1st, that the petitioner had ceased to be a creditor of the society; 2ndly, that the society was not a company capable of being wound up under the Act of 1862; 3rdly, that the Court ought, in the exercise of its jurisdiction, to leave the petitioner to his remedy at law. The first question was an issue of fact, whether or not there had been a novation of the original contract with the society. Upon this His Honour thought there had been no new or substituted contract with the Albert Company in place of the original contract; and that the respondents had failed to make out their first proposition. Upon the second, His Honour was of opinion that the society had not ceased to exist, so as to prejudice the rights of its creditors, when the Act of 1862 came into operation, and that the office of the Albert Company was for all intents and purposes the principal place of business of the society at that date. It therefore seemed that there was no difficulty as to the Act of Parliament. As to the third suggestion, His Honour thought he could not properly or justly leave the petitioner to his legal remedies; and, on the whole, held that the petitioner had made out his case, and that a winding-up order was ex debito justitiæ. The petitioner must have his costs; one set of costs would be allowed to Mr. Amphlett's clients; the Albert Company to take their costs out of their own estate; only one set of costs to the other respondents.

Common Law.

Q. B. Nov. 15.
BARBER v. FLEMING.
Ship and Shipping—Marine Insurance—Policy on Freight—When Interest in Freight commences.

The plaintiff on the 7th of August, 1866, chartered to P. his "ship Cambodia, now lying in the harbour of Bombay . . . for a voyage from Howland's Island to a port of discharge in Great Britain . . . for a full cargo at 65s. per ton delivered of guano, freight to be paid at port of discharge. . . . The ship to be at Howland's Island on or before the 1st of June, 1867, or the charterer to have the option of declaring this charter null and void."

At the time the charterparty was signed the ship was at Bombay, and on the 7th of September, 1866, the plaintiff effected a policy of insurance, which the defendant underwrote for 100%: "At and from Bombay to Howland's Island, while there, and thence to any ports of call and discharge in the United Kingdom, . . . on the ship Cambodia, with power to stop at any ports . . . the insurance being 2000% on freight, chartered or otherwise, valued at 3600%," against the usual perils.

The Cambodia sailed from Bombay for Howland's Island (one of the Cincha Islands) on the 4th of October, 1866, in ballast, and on her way made for New Zealand to complete her stock of provisions, and was stranded off the coast of New Zealand on the 25th of December, and was so much injured that she could not be repaired at a reasonable expense, and was properly abandoned.

The plaintiff then brought this action to recover against the defendant his insurance on the chartered freight.

Manisty, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

Milward, Q.C., and Fullarton, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Cockburn, C.J., Blackburn, Hannen, and Hayes, J.J.) were of opinion that the plaintiff was entitled to recover. The doctrine laid down in Phillips on Insurance, §§ 323, 335, was accurate. The vessel having sailed from Bombay for the purpose of performing the chartered voyage, the plaintiff had taken steps and incurred expenses towards earning the freight, and therefore the interest in the chartered freight had commenced on the vessel sailing from Bombay, and could be recovered under the policy which covered any freight between Howland's Island and the United Kingdom, as well as from Bombay.

Nuisances Removal Act, 1855 (18 & 19 Vict. c. 121), s. 12—Nuisances Removal Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict. c. 77), s. 13—The Sanitary Act, 1866 (29 & 30 Vict. c. 90), ss. 14 & 21—Complaint of Nuisance by an Inhabitant—Notice.

Information under s. 13 of 23 & 24 Vict. c. 77 by the appellant, an inhabitant of the place in which the nuisance complained of existed, and the question was whether any previous notice was necessary, as required by s. 21 of 29 & 30 Vict. c. 90.

By 18 & 19 Vict. c. 121, s. 12: The local authority may cause complaint to be made, and the justices may order an abatement of the nuisance. By 23 & 24 Vict. c. 77, s. 13: Upon complaint before a justice by any inhabitant of any place of the existence of a nuisance in the place, the justice may issue a summons requiring the person by whose act the nuisance arises to appear before two justices, who shall have power to inquire into the complaint, and act with relation thereto as in cases where complaint is made by a local authority under s. 12 of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 121, and as if the person making complaint were such local authority. By 29 & 30 Vict. c. 90, s. 21: The nuisance authority shall, previous to taking proceedings before a justice under s. 12 of 18 & 19 Vict. c. 121, serve a notice on the person by whose act the nuisance arises to abate the same within a time to be mentioned in the notice. By s. 14: Part 2 (ss. 14-34) of the Act is to be construed as one with the Nuisances Removal Acts.

The justices having refused to make any order, holding a notice necessary:

Jelf, for the appellant.

The respondent did not appear.

THE COURT were of opinion that, on the construction of the three statutes, no notice was necessary previous to a complaint by an inhabitant; and they remitted the case accordingly to the justices.

Q. B. MEROER, APP.; WOODGATE, RESP. Nov. 17.
Highway—Limited Dedication—Right of Owner of Soil to plough up Footpath.

The appellant was the occupier of a field over which a public footpath crossed. In due course of farming he ploughed the field and destroyed all trace of the footpath. As long as living witnesses could speak—and there was no other evidence as to the existence of the footpath—the occupier for the time being had always exercised this right of ploughing up.

The justices having convicted the appellant under 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50, s. 72:

Harrington, for the appellant.

Rew, for the respondent.

THE COURT held that the conviction was wrong. The evidence showed that as long as the footpath was proved to have existed the right of ploughing up had also been exercised, and the inference to be drawn was, that the highway had been dedicated with the reservation of the right of the owner of the soil to plough at proper times; and there could be in law such a limited dedication.

C. P. GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY v. JACOB. Nov. 11.

Railway Company—Consignment Note—Demurrage of Trucks.

Coprolites were sent by one Headley, a coprolite manufacturer at Cambridge, by the plaintiffs' railway, to be delivered by them to the barges of the defendant at Blackwall, as lighterman and agent for the consignee. The freight or carriage was paid to the plaintiffs by Headley. The freight-note—of which the defendant had notice—was made subject to certain conditions printed on the back thereof, one of which, the 15th, was as follows:—

“And in respect of all goods suffered to remain upon the company's premises, or placed in shed or warehouse, or not removed from the company's waggons, whether so remaining by direction of the consignors or consignees, or while awaiting an opportunity of further transmission, or until the consignee can receive the same, the company hereby give notice that such goods will be subject to the current rate of charge payable to the company for shed-room, warehouse-room, wharfage, demurrage of waggons, labourage, or use of sidings.”

The trucks which contained the coprolites were, by the defendants' delay in unloading them, detained for a considerable time at the Blackwall Station, and demurrage to the amount of 42s. was thereby incurred.

There was no evidence that the defendant was the owner of the coprolites, or that he had any interest therein save as lighterman or agent for Headley, the consignee.

Upon a special case stated for the opinion of the Court, it was contended for the plaintiffs that the defendant, by receiving the goods with knowledge of the conditions upon which the company contracted to carry them, became liable for all the charges which the goods were subject to, by analogy to the acceptance of goods by the consignee of a bill of lading.

THE COURT, however, held that there was no contract either express or implied, as between the plaintiffs and the defendant, in respect of which the latter became liable for the demurrage in question.

C. P. BRISTOW AND ANOTHER v. BOOTH. Nov. 19.

Copyhold—Fine on Admission of a substituted Trustee under the 13 & 14 Vict. c. 60, s. 32, and 15 & 16 Vict. c. 55, s. 9.

P. P., the younger, devisee in trust under the will of his father P. P., the elder, of copyhold tenements of the manor of Woodford, in Essex, was duly admitted as tenant and paid his fine. He died, having by his will devised all his estate of what nature or kind soever to S. P., his widow, whom he named sole executrix.

S. P. proved the will, but was never admitted to the copyhold tenements, and shortly afterwards executed a deed of disclaimer as to them.

The customary heir-at-law of P. P., the younger, was his nephew P. J. P.; but, he being abroad, a decree was made by the Master of the Rolls (affirmed on appeal by the Lords Justices), whereby the defendant was appointed "a trustee of the will of P. P., the elder, so far as it related to the copyhold or customary hereditaments devised thereby, in substitution for P. P., the younger, deceased," under the powers of the Trustee Acts (13 & 14 Vict. c. 60, s. 32, and 15 & 16 Vict. c. 55, s. 9).

Upon the admittance of the defendant, the substituted trustee under the above decree, the lords of the manor claimed two fines—one for his admittance, and another as for the admittance of P. J. P., the customary heir.

Upon a special case stated for the opinion of this Court, it was held that they were entitled to one fine only.

C. P. HORSEY v. GRAHAM. Nov. 19.

Statute of Frauds—Contract or Sale of an Interest in Land—Memorandum in Writing.

This was an action on a contract, that the plaintiff would pay 60*l.*, and the defendant would procure for the plaintiff for that sum a lease of a public house and certain furniture, &c. The plaintiff relied on a parol agreement, and also on a contract in the following terms:—"Messrs. Mann, Crossman, & Co., having refused to see Mr. Horsey into the Builder's Arms, New Road, for 50*l.*, Mr. Horsey now informs me he is in possession of 60*l.* cash, and, such being the case, I hereby agree to get the lease and everything for such sum of 60*l.* cash. Mr. Horsey has this day paid a further deposit of 10*l.* Signed, J. M. GRAHAM."

The defendant alleged that at the time he signed it the contract contained the words, "subject to the consent of the brewers," and that they had been subsequently erased.

At the trial before Byles, J., the judge told the jury they might find in the plaintiffs' favour on the parol or the written contract. The jury found a verdict generally for the plaintiff, but stated they were divided in opinion whether at the time the written memorandum was given to the plaintiff it had in it the words, "subject to the consent of the brewers;" and the judge gave leave to the defendant to move to enter the verdict.

Garth, Q.C., having obtained a rule accordingly:

H. James, Q.C., and F. Turner, shewed cause, and contended that, as the defendant had no interest in the land, and was not under the contract required to convey one, the contract did not require to be in writing.

Garth, Q.C., and A. L. Smith, supported the rule, and contended that the contract was one which required to be in writing, and that the writing, even if signed in the form alleged by the plaintiff, was too indefinite, as it did not mention the term of the lease or what was included in the word "everything."

THE COURT held that the contract was within section 4 of the Statute of Frauds, and required to be in writing, but that the writing, if signed in the form alleged by the plaintiff, was sufficient; and they ordered a new trial, that the jury might determine what was in fact the written contract, if any, between the parties.

O. P. COLES v. PAGE. Nov. 22.

Construction of Guarantee—Consideration and Duration.

The plaintiff, a coal factor, had supplied coals to one French upon three several guarantees (limited to twelve months each) signed by the defendant. During the currency of the last of these guarantees, French being largely indebted to the plaintiff, and being pressed by him for payment, the defendant signed the following memorandum, addressed to the plaintiff:—

"July 23rd, 1867.

"Memorandum. Whereas Mr. D. French, of Chatham, Kent, coal merchant, is and stands indebted to you, the said E. R. Coles, in the sum of 2205*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*, upon an account this day stated and settled between you and the said D. French, in addition to his liability upon two certain acceptances of mine to his drafts, each for 750*l.*, dated the 3rd of July, 1867, and payable three and four months after date, and respectively indorsed to you by the said D. French: And whereas you are pressing for the immediate payment of the said sum of 2205*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*: Now I do hereby, in consideration of your forbearing to take immediate steps for the recovery of the said sum, guarantee the payment of and agree to become responsible for any sum of money for the time being due from the said D. French to you, whether in addition to the said sum of 2205*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* or no."

The dealings between the plaintiff and French continued down to February, 1869, when the balance due from French to the plaintiff for coals was 2053*l.* 6*s.*—the two bills for 750*l.* each, as well as the balance due at the date of the last-mentioned guarantee, having in the meantime been paid off.

A verdict having been found for the plaintiff for that sum:

THE COURT, upon a rule for a new trial, held that the agreement to forbear to sue French, and the continued supply of coals to him, were a sufficient consideration for the defendant's guarantee, and that it was a continuing guarantee, being unlimited as well in point of time as in point of amount.

Statute of Frauds—Sale of Goods—Acceptance.

The defendant agreed to purchase of the plaintiff certain glass for 23*l.* 11*s.* The cases in which the glass was packed were opened for the defendant's inspection, and three sheets were taken out, which, by accident, were not restored to the cases when they were fastened up again. On Monday, the 24th of May, the glass was sent to the defendant's premises with an invoice receipted, the sale being for cash. The plaintiff's carman left the cases at the defendant's shop, but the latter refused to pay the amount unless an allowance was made for the three missing sheets. The carman, having no authority to receive less than the sum specified in the invoice, took the invoice back to the plaintiff with the words "three sheets short" written on it by the defendant; and on the following day the plaintiff's brother called on the defendant and agreed to make the required allowance. The defendant, however, did not pay for the glass, and on the following Friday sent it back to the plaintiff, who declined to receive it. The plaintiff thereupon sued the defendant for goods sold and delivered; and at the trial before the judge of the Whitechapel County Court obtained a verdict, which the defendant sought to set aside, on the ground that there was no contract in writing and no acceptance to take the case out of the operation of the Statute of Frauds.

THE COURT held that there was abundant evidence of delivery and acceptance, and the rule for a new trial was discharged.

C. P. FEARON v. FLINN. Nov. 24.
Award—Excess of Authority—Uncertainty.

Matters in difference were by agreement referred to two arbitrators, or, in the event of their not agreeing, to an umpire; the costs of the reference and award to be in the discretion of the arbitrators or umpire. The umpire made an award, finding that 6*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.* was due to Fearon, who claimed 26*l.*; and the award went on to direct that "the costs of the reference and also the costs of the award, amounting to 13*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.*, should be paid by Fearon.

Upon a motion to set aside the award, on the ground that the umpire had exceeded his authority in awarding costs against the successful party, and also that it was uncertain whether the sum awarded for costs included the costs of the reference, but was confined to the expenses of the award:

THE COURT held that the discretion given to the arbitrators or the umpire on the subject of costs could not be made the subject of review; but they intimated that the matter might go back to the arbitrator upon the second objection. The counsel, however, declined this, and the rule was refused.

Ex. Nov. 16.
WHITEHOUSE AND ANOTHER v. WOLVERHAMPTON AND WALSALL RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Compensation to Mineowner—Railway Clauses Consolidation Act (8 Vict. c. 20), s. 81.

Special case.

The plaintiffs were lessees of certain lands which had been taken by them for mining purposes exclusively, and which, after they had entered on the occupation of them, were cut into two parts by the defendants' railway, the one part lying to the north and the other to the south of the railway. The parties not being able to agree as to the amount of compensation which ought to be paid by the defendants to the plaintiffs for damage sustained by reason of the execution of the defendants' works, and of the severance of the plaintiffs' property, the matter was duly referred to an arbitrator, who, amongst other sums, awarded, subject to the opinion of the Court, certain specified amounts for expenses not then actually incurred by the plaintiffs, but which, in the opinion of the arbitrator, would soon be necessarily incurred by the plaintiffs in the working of their mine. The question for the opinion of the Court was whether the arbitrator was at liberty to include in the amount of compensation by him awarded to the plaintiffs sums of money for expenses or losses which, at the time of the award, the plaintiffs had not actually sustained, but which were capable of ascertainment, and would be sustained at a period not remote, assuming that the plaintiffs continued the working of the mines.

The 8 Vict. c. 20, s. 81, enacts that "the company shall from time to time pay to the owner, lessee, or occupier of any mines extending so as to lie on both sides of the railway, all additional losses or expenses which shall be incurred by such owner, &c. by reason of the severance of the lands lying over such mines."

H. Matthews, Q.C. (J. O. Griffiths with him), for the plaintiffs, relied on the 8 Vict. c. 20, s. 81, and contended that under that section prospective but ascertainable damage was recoverable.

Macnamara (Holl with him), for the defendants, contended that, on the true construction of 8 Vict. c. 20, s. 81, only actual present expenses and losses were recoverable.

THE COURT held that, inasmuch as the arbitrator had found as a fact that the expenses and losses for which he had given the plaintiffs compensation were capable of present ascertainment, and must be incurred at an early date if the mines were continued to be worked, those expenses and losses were rightly included in the amount awarded.

C. C. THE QUEEN v. MACGRATH. Nov. 13.
Larceny—Mock Auction—Money given unwillingly—Fear.

Indictment for stealing 26*s.*

The prosecutrix entered a sale room where the prisoner was acting as auctioneer. A piece of cloth was put up for sale by the prisoner. 25*s.* was bid for it, when a man standing between the prosecutrix and the door said that the prosecutrix had bid 26*s.* The prisoner then knocked down the cloth to the prosecutrix. She refused to pay for the cloth, and endeavoured to leave the room. The prisoner insisted that she had bid, and said she should not leave until she paid. Ultimately she paid the 26*s.* to the prisoner, because she was afraid, and because she was not allowed to leave. No actual force was used towards the prosecutrix. She then took the cloth and went away.

The jury were directed that, if the prisoner had the intention to deprive the prosecutrix of her money, and in order to obtain it was guilty of a trick and artifice by fraudulently asserting that she had made a bid when she had not, as he well knew, and that he obtained the money by such means, he was guilty of the offence charged. The jury found that no bid had been made by the prosecutrix, which the prisoner knew, and that he obtained the money from her by a trick and artifice. A verdict of Guilty was then entered.

The questions were, first, whether the facts proved a larceny; secondly, whether the jury were rightly directed.

Torr, for the prisoner.

McConnell, for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Martin, B., Blackburn, Lush, and Brett, JJ.) held, first, that the facts proved a larceny. If the keeping of the prosecutrix in the sale room amounted to such force as to make the taking of the money a robbery, larceny had been committed, because robbery includes larceny. If there had been no such force, still, as the prosecutrix had parted with the money against her will and out of fear, there had been a sufficient "taking" to amount to larceny. Secondly, that under the circumstances there was no misdirection, as there could have been no doubt that the prosecutrix did, in fact, give up her money against her will.

Conviction affirmed.

C. C. THE QUEEN v. HODGKISS. Nov. 20.
Perjury—Affidavit under Bills of Sale Act (17 & 18 Vict. c. 36)—
Making False Oath—Common Law Offence.

Indictment for perjury in an affidavit under the Bills of Sale Act, sworn before a commissioner for taking affidavits in the Queen's Bench.

The question was whether such an affidavit could be the subject of an indictment for perjury, as it was not sworn in a judicial proceeding.

No counsel appeared.

THE COURT (Kelly, C.B., Martin, B., Byles, Blackburn, and Lush, JJ.) held that taking a false oath in such an affidavit was not strictly perjury; but that the taking of a false oath in an affidavit required for the purposes of a statute is a misdemeanour at common law, and that the conviction therefore should be affirmed. The prisoner could not be sentenced to any punishment which could only be inflicted for perjury, but he might be sentenced to the punishment awarded to the common law misdemeanour of taking a false oath.

Conviction affirmed.

P. & M. BECKETT v. HOWE AND OTHERS. Nov. 16.
Will—Execution—Signature of Testator not seen by Witnesses—Acknowledgment.

The plaintiff propounded a will of the deceased, dated July, 1868. The defendants pleaded that it was not duly executed in accordance with the statute 1 Vict. c. 26. The will, which was in the handwriting of the deceased, covered the three first sides of a sheet of paper, and three lines on the top of the fourth side. Beneath was written: "Witness my hand, HENRY JOHN LONG.

"In witness whereof we the undersigned have, at the request of the testator, in his presence and in the presence of each other, severally subscribed our names.

"Witness our hands { HENRY PRESTAGE.
ISAAC OAKLEY."

The writing altogether occupied the upper half of the fourth side; the lower half was blank. It appeared from the evidence of the attesting witnesses that, a few days before the day the paper was executed, the testator Mr. Long asked one of the witnesses, Isaac Oakley, to step across one evening to Mr. Prestage's and see him sign his will; to the other, Mr. Prestage, he said he wanted him to sign a paper. On the 16th of July they all met. Mr. Long produced a paper from his pocket, and then proceeded to fold it up, so that the writing on it was completely covered. He then said, "You know there has been a change in my circumstances, which causes an alteration in my affairs;" and placed the paper before each witness, and, pointing to a blank space, directed them to sign their names there; which they did. Both witnesses agreed that they saw no writing, not even the words "Witness our hands" opposite their signatures.

Dr. Tristram, for the plaintiff.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Searle, for the defendants.

Nov. 16. LORD PENZANCE:—The sum and substance of this case is, that the witnesses did not see the testator's signature, nor did the testator say it was there, but he did tell one that he was going to execute a will, and indirectly to both he expressed that intention when he told them that some alteration was necessary in his affairs, by reason of his wife's death. I think the circumstances in this case come up to the requirements laid down in Gwillim v. Gwillim (3 Sw. & Tr. 200). What the testator said was tantamount to saying, "This is my will;" and I am satisfied that the signature was there at the time. If I am asked what evidence there is that the signature was there, I must answer, there is no direct evidence, but I judge from the surrounding circumstances and the appearance of the paper. The testator himself wrote an attestation clause, which, although not in the ordinary terms, show that the testator knew what forms are required in executing a will.

THE COURT decreed probate, and refused to make any order as to costs.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF J. S. GILL. Nov. 16.
Will—"Written Directions affixed hereto"—None affixed—Insufficient Reference.

In August, 1866, the deceased executed a will, and three days afterwards a paper, which was addressed to the executors named in his will, and commenced: "I have written the following directions for your guidance with respect to things and goods not mentioned in my will. . . . I feel confident that all my wishes will be carried out faithfully, and that this will form a part or portion of the afore-mentioned will." This paper then disposed of certain books, sketches, pictures, fishing-tackle, double-barrelled gun, presentation jewels, and wearing apparel.

On the 2nd of November, 1868, the testator executed another will, which revoked all former wills and codicils. This will contained the following clause: "All my books, pictures, sketches, guns, rods, goods, and chattels in and about the rooms I shall occupy at the time of my decease, I wish my executor to dispose of faithfully and conscientiously, according to the written directions left by me, and affixed to this my will." No written directions were ever affixed to the will, and none were found except the codicil above mentioned.

C. A. Middleton moved for probate of the will of November, 1868, and the directions executed in August, 1866.

LORD PENZANCE:—I am not satisfied that the articles mentioned in the paper produced were those in the rooms the deceased occupied at the time of his death, although possibly a great many of them were the same; nor is there a sufficiently distinct reference to that list in the words "left by me, and affixed to this my will;" for in fact, when the will was found, there was no paper affixed thereto. The list, therefore, is not identified, and I decree probate of the will alone.

P. & M. SMITH v. FLETCHER. Nov. 16.
Testamentary Suit—Revocation of Probate—Widow—Costs.

Thomas Fletcher died at Iroquois, Canada, on the 13th of May, 1868. On the 14th of June, 1869, the defendant, his widow, took probate in this country of a will dated the 23rd of October, 1865, in which she was named executrix. On the 31st of July, 1869, a citation was taken out by the plaintiff, as the attorney for James Aspinall, the sole executor named in a will of the deceased dated the 2nd of May, 1868, calling upon the defendant to bring in the probate granted to her. On the 10th of August she entered an appearance, and brought the probate into the registry. On the 22nd of September, 1869, the plaintiff filed a declaration propounding the will of May, 1868, and on the 14th of October the defendant sent to him a formal notice that she proceeded no further in the suit.

Dr. Swabey moved the Court to revoke the probate, and to condemn the defendant in the costs.

Practice—Form of Tender—Costs.

This was a cause of salvage. The defendants made a formal tender of a sum of money by act in Court. The tender was expressed to be made, "with such costs, if any, as may be due by law." The plaintiffs refused to accept the tender. At the hearing of the cause, the Court held that the amount tendered was sufficient to satisfy the claim for salvage. Thereupon the question arose which party was liable to pay the costs of the cause.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Gibson, for the plaintiffs.

Milward, Q.C., and E. C. Clarkson, for the defendants.

THE COURT held that it was competent to the defendants to tender a sum to satisfy the claim for salvage, and reserve the question of costs, and that such was the intention of the tender; and ordered that the plaintiffs should have costs up to the time when the tender was made, but refused to make any order as to costs subsequent to the tender. The Court intimated that, in future, the practice should be as follows:—When a tender is made, it shall state that the sum tendered is tendered in satisfaction of the cause of action and costs, or it shall state that the sum tendered is tendered in satisfaction of the cause of action only. Where the sum tendered is tendered in satisfaction of the cause of action only, it shall contain an unconditional offer to pay costs, or it shall state that the defendants contend that they are not liable to pay costs, and shall state the grounds upon which the defendants contend that they are not liable to pay costs, and shall refer the question of costs to the consideration of the Court.

Practice—Inspection of Documents—Costs.

This was a cause of salvage.

The plaintiffs alleged that in the performance of the salvage services their vessel had been obliged to deviate from her course, and relied upon the possible risk in respect to the vacation of policies of insurance, &c., as an ingredient to be considered by the Court in fixing the amount of salvage remuneration.

W. G. F. Phillimore, on behalf of the defendants, moved for an order for the inspection of the policies of insurance on the plaintiffs' ship, and the charterparty of the ship, and the bills of lading.

E. C. Clarkson, on behalf of the plaintiffs, did not oppose the application, so far as it related to the documents in the possession of the plaintiffs, but asked that the defendants should be ordered to pay the costs of the motion, on the ground that the motion was unnecessary, as the defendants had made no previous application to the plaintiffs for leave to inspect.

THE COURT made an order for the inspection of such of the documents asked for as were in the possession of the plaintiffs; but condemned the defendants in the costs of the motion, and intimated that it would follow the same rule as to costs in all cases where the applicant moved the Court for an order for the inspection of documents without making previous application to the party in whose possession the documents were alleged to be.

Nov. 23.

Limitation of Liability under Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 63), s. 64—Interest.

This was a suit for limitation of liability.

On the 20th of August, 1869, the Northumbria came into collision with the ship Hesperia, and in consequence thereof the Hesperia, which was at the time outward bound and laden with cargo, sunk, and her cargo was lost.

The plaintiffs prayed the Court to pronounce that they were liable only in respect of loss or damage caused by the collision to an aggregate amount not exceeding 8*l.* per ton of the registered tonnage of the Northumbria, and that all further proceedings in two damage suits, which had been instituted against the Northumbria on behalf of the owners of the Hesperia and on behalf of the owners of the cargo of the Hesperia, should be stayed.

E. C. Clarkson, for the owners of the Hesperia, and

G. Bruce, for the owners of the cargo of the Hesperia, contended that the plaintiffs were liable to pay, in addition to the aggregate amount in the petition mentioned, interest thereon from the date of the collision, and the costs of the owners of the Hesperia and owners of the cargo of the Hesperia in the present suit, and in the suits which the Court was asked to stay.

Butt, Q.C., and D. F. Steavenson, for the plaintiffs, admitted that the plaintiffs were liable to pay the costs asked for, but contended that interest was not payable; and that, if interest was payable, it was payable only from the date of the probable arrival of the Hesperia at her port of discharge.

THE COURT held that interest was payable on the aggregate amount mentioned in the petition from the date of the collision.

THE QUEEN v. THE JUSTICES OF THE WEST RIDING.
Wine and Beerhouse Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 27), s. 7—Notice of Application for Certificate.

This was a rule for a mandamus to the Quarter Sessions of the West Riding of the county of York to enter continuances upon an appeal of one Thomas Drake against the decision of the justices at the adjourned general licensing meeting, holden on the 17th of September, 1869, for the borough of Halifax, refusing the application of Thomas Drake for a certificate under the Wine and Beerhouse Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 27).

The general annual licensing meeting for the borough of Halifax was holden on the 20th of August, and by adjournment on the 17th of September. One Boocock, the occupier of a house called the Nag's Head, applied on the 20th of August, at the general annual licensing meeting, for a certificate under the Wine and Beerhouse Act, 1869, which was refused on the ground that he had, five years ago, forfeited a license for misconduct. Drake then became occupier of the house, and on the 25th of August gave notice of his intention to apply to the adjourned general annual licensing meeting for a certificate. A copy of the notice was, twenty-one days before the 17th of September, served upon the overseers of the poor and constable, as directed by s. 7 of the above Act, and also, twenty-eight days before that day, a copy of the notice was affixed to the door of the house and of the church. At the adjourned annual licensing meeting on the 17th of September the certificate was refused. Drake appealed to the Quarter Sessions; but they declined to hear the appeal, on the ground that the notice of the 25th of August of an intention to apply to the adjourned annual licensing meeting was insufficient, and that the notice must be given twenty-one days before the day appointed for the general annual licensing meeting.

Section 7 enacts: Every person intending to apply to the justices for a certificate under this Act shall, twenty-one days at least before he applies, give notice in writing of his intention to one of the overseers of the parish, and to some constable acting within the parish . . . and such person shall also, within the space of twenty-eight days before such application, cause a like notice to be affixed . . . on the door of such house and on the principal door of the church . . . of the parish.

Waddy shewed cause.

Hannay, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Blackburn, Mellor, and Lush, JJ.) held that a notice given twenty-one days before the adjourned meeting was a sufficient compliance with s. 7, and made the rule absolute.

Q. B. (BAIL COURT.) NOV. 24.
HARLAND v. THE MAYOR, &C. OF NEWCASTLE.
Costs—Arbitration—30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 5—Certificate of Arbitrator—Case sent back—Practice.

Rule to shew cause why the plaintiff should not be allowed his costs in this action, or why the award in this case should not be sent back to the arbitrator that he might certify for costs.

Action for trespass, and thereby causing a nuisance. Defence, justification under a local Act.

The cause and all matters in difference were referred to an arbitrator, who was to have all the powers of a judge at Nisi Prius. The arbitrator found in effect that the alleged trespass was justified under the local Act, but that the defendants had acted in excess of the powers given them by that Act. The arbitrator, by an award on June 30, 1869, gave to the plaintiff 2*l.* 1*s.* as damages for the injury caused by the defendants' wrongful acts. The costs of the reference were disposed of in the award, but no mention was made of the costs in the action, nor was any certificate given for such costs.

About six months after the award was made, the plaintiff, in the absence of the defendants, applied to the arbitrator for a certificate for costs. The arbitrator gave the plaintiff a document certifying that, "It appeared to me that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in the Court of Queen's Bench."

Subsequently this rule was obtained. There was no affidavit by the arbitrator. Except from the form of the certificate, it was not shewn that the arbitrator intended at the time of the arbitration to give the plaintiff costs.

The questions were, first, whether the Court had power, under s. 5 of 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, to give the plaintiff his costs in a cause like this, which had been referred to and determined by an arbitrator; secondly, whether, if that power existed, the Court would exercise it; and, if not, whether there was any sufficient ground for sending back the case to the arbitrator.

Herschell shewed cause.

C. Crompton supported the rule.

THE COURT (Hannen, J.) held that it had power to give the plaintiff his costs in a case like this, but that the bare statement of the arbitrator that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in a Superior Court was not enough to induce the Court to allow such costs to the plaintiff. The Court, however, thought that, under the circumstances, the arbitrator ought to have an opportunity of certifying for the plaintiff's costs if he thought fit to do so, and for that purpose sent the award back to him.

Rule absolute to send back the award.

THE QUEEN v. THE JUSTICES OF SURREY.

Highway Act, 1864 (27 & 28 Vict. c. 101), s. 21—Appeal—Order that Highway shall cease to be a Highway which Parish is liable to repair.

Rule for a mandamus to the Justices of Surrey to hear an appeal, under s. 21 of the Highway Act, 1864 (27 & 28 Vict. c. 101), against the making of an order under that section directing that a certain highway should cease to be a highway which the parish in which it is situated is liable to repair.

Section 21 of 27 & 28 Vict. c. 101 enacts that, "when any highway board consider any highway unnecessary for public use, they may direct the district surveyor to apply to two justices to view the same, and thereupon the like proceedings shall be had as when application is made under the Highway Act, 1835, to procure the stopping-up of any highway, save only that the order to be made thereupon, instead of directing the highway to be stopped up, shall direct that the same shall cease to be a highway which the parish is liable to repair," &c.

The Highway Act, 1835 (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50), s. 88, gives to any person thinking himself aggrieved by the stopping-up of a highway under that Statute an appeal to the Quarter Sessions against the making of the order for that purpose.

The question was whether the words, "the like proceedings," in s. 21 of the Highway Act, 1864, included the right of appeal given by s. 88 of the Highway Act, 1835.

Robinson, Serjt., and Thesiger shewed cause.

Garth, Q.C., and Gates supported the rule.

THE COURT (Hannen, J.) held that "the like proceedings," mentioned in s. 21 of the Highway Act, 1864, included the right of appeal which existed under s. 88 of the Highway Act, 1835.

Rule absolute.

Arbitrator, Decision of, when Final—Boat Race—Jurisdiction of Referee—Action to recover Deposit.

The plaintiff deposited a stake with the defendant with a view to a sculler's race between the plaintiff and K., upon the terms "that the race was to be a right-away sculler's race, and the decision of the referee to be final." In such races the start is made by the men themselves; but if they fail to start through default of either or both, the referee has power to interfere. There was a default in the start, and the referee, who was stationed at some distance from the starting-post, ordered that K. should inform the plaintiff that, if he did not start, K. was to row over the course without him. K. rowed over the course without having communicated this order to the plaintiff, or given him any opportunity of starting, and the referee, without inquiry, ordered the stakes to be paid to K.

The plaintiff then brought an action against the defendant to recover his deposit.

The Court of Queen's Bench held that, as the order of the referee was conditional on its being communicated to the plaintiff, the order not having been communicated, there never was such a start or race as was contemplated; the referee's jurisdiction to award the stakes, therefore, did not attach, and his decision was not final; and the plaintiff was entitled to recover (Law Rep. 4 Q. B. 216).

Pleading—New Assignment—Common Law Procedure Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 76), ss. 51, 79, 87.

Declaration, that the defendant broke and entered certain land of the plaintiff, called the Maiden Croft, the abutments of which were set out, and broke open and broke to pieces the plaintiff's gates and fences standing and being upon the said land of the plaintiff, and destroyed the grass and herbage thereof.

Plea, that there was, and of right ought to have been, a common and public footpath over the land of the plaintiff for all persons to go and return on foot at all times of the year at their free will and pleasure; and the defendant, having occasion to use the way, then entered into and upon the land of the plaintiff and along the footpath there, using the same, as he lawfully might, for the cause aforesaid; and because the gates and fences had been erected, and then were wrongfully in and across the highway, and obstructing the same, and preventing the convenient use thereof, the defendant necessarily pulled down and destroyed the gates and fences for the purposes of using the footpath, doing no unnecessary damage.

Joinder of issue.

At the trial the defendant proposed to give evidence of a common public footpath running east and west over the land of the plaintiff in the declaration mentioned. The plaintiff admitted such common public footpath, but offered to prove that the trespasses complained of were committed elsewhere. The plaintiff offered to prove that there were no gates or fences erected across the admitted footpath, or obstructing the same, but that there were such gates and fences on the plaintiff's land across the track by which the defendant passed, and that some of the gates and fences had been pulled down by the defendant.

It being admitted that a public footpath existed over the land, the judge ruled that the defendant, without further evidence, was entitled to a verdict, and directed a verdict accordingly.

The plaintiff applied to the Court of Queen's Bench for a rule for a new trial, on the ground that the judge had misdirected the jury.

The Court of Queen's Bench, on the authority of Glover v. Dixon (9 Ex. 158; 23 L.J. (Ex.) 12), refused the rule, on the ground that the plaintiff ought to have new assigned, but gave the plaintiff leave to appeal.

On appeal:

Quain, Q.C. (Kempay with him), for the defendant.

C. P. FORD v. HARRINGTON. Nov. 23.
Parliament—Borough Vote—Qualification—Corporation Aggregate—Canon—Occupation of Residence as Corporation Sole.

Appeal from the revising barrister for the city of Exeter.

The respondent was one of the canons of Exeter, and claimed to vote in respect of his residential house, which was held by him in respect of his canonry.

The appellant duly objected to his vote. The dean, canons, and non-residential prebends are a corporation aggregate. There are five canons appointed for life, and five houses which the canons are entitled to occupy, and with their enjoyment of which the chapter as a body cannot interfere. At the election of a canon he produces the key of the house occupied by his predecessor, and prays to be admitted. The senior canon has the right of occupying the vacant house if he chooses. Each canon repairs his house outside and in at his own expense.

The revising barrister having decided that the respondent was entitled to vote, this appeal was brought.

Kingdon, Q.C., for the appellant.

Phillpotts, for the respondent.

THE COURT held that the respondent occupied the property in right of his canonry as a corporation sole, and not as a member of the corporation aggregate, and confirmed the decision of the revising barrister.

EX. MANN v. HARBORD AND ANOTHER. Nov. 13.
Costs—Taxation of Costs—Provisional Entry of Cause at Assizes—Appeal from Master—Costs in the Cause—Judge's Discretion—Reg. Gen. Michaelmas Term, 1867.

In this action Herschell, for the plaintiff, obtained a rule to review the master's taxation, under the following circumstances:—On the 17th of March, 1869, the cause was entered provisionally for trial at the Liverpool Spring Assizes. Before commission day the record was withdrawn, an order for a commission to examine witnesses in India, and for a stay of proceedings in the meantime, having been obtained by the plaintiff from a judge at chambers in London. One of the masters had been applied to in the first instance to make this order, but had refused. Thereupon the plaintiff appealed, and the master's decision was reversed by Mellor, J., who directed a commission to issue. The order was silent as to the costs of the appeal, which, by the Reg. Gen. of Michaelmas Term, 1867, made under 30 & 31 Vict. c. 68, are to be "in the discretion of the judge."

On the return of the commission the defendants withdrew their pleas, and judgment was signed by the plaintiff for an agreed sum in respect of the claim in the action, and for costs.

On taxation, the master refused to allow the plaintiff the costs incidental—1st, to the provisional entry of the cause; and, 2ndly, to the appeal to the judge from the master's decision.

Lord shewed cause, and contended that as to the costs of the provisional entry the master's discretion ought not to be overruled, and as to those of the appeal that, the judge not having made an order as to costs, the master would not have been justified in allowing them as costs in the cause.

Herschell, in support of the rule, contended that the plaintiff was entitled to the costs of the provisional entry; if not, it would render the order permitting such an entry entirely nugatory; 2ndly, that the judge must be taken to have exercised his discretion by his silence. To make no express order as to the costs of the appeal was equivalent to saying they should be costs in the cause.

THE COURT held that the master was wrong in disallowing the costs of the provisional entry of the cause, and right in disallowing the costs of the appeal, the judge having made no order as to them.

Rule accordingly.

P. & M. MILLER v. MILLER. Nov. 23.
Suit for Restitution—Unfounded Charges made in Answer of the Wife—Separate Income of Wife—Costs.

The petitioner, the husband asked that the respondent should be ordered to return home, and to render to him conjugal rights. She filed an answer in which she alleged against him serious misconduct; but on the petition being brought before the Court, her counsel admitted that he could not support the charges made. The Court decreed restitution of conjugal rights, and reserved the question of costs. The respondent being abroad it had not been possible to serve the decree upon her. There was evidence before the Court that the respondent has a separate income of 760*l.* per annum, and that at her desire the husband had given up his professional practice.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., and Dr. Tristram moved the Court to condemn the respondent in the costs of the suit.

Dr. Deane, Q.C. (E. Browning with him), for the respondent.

LORD PENZANCE:—There are two questions for my decision. First, have I any power to condemn a wife in the husband's costs of suit? I have no doubt such power is given to the Court by section 51 of 20 & 21 Vict. c. 85. Secondly, ought I to exercise it against the wife in this case? I see no reason why the wife, having a sufficient separate income, should be permitted to enter into any amount of litigation, however vexatious, and then retire from the contest, getting clear off without bearing any part of the burthen of the costs. In this case the wife has 760*l.* per annum separate income, and the costs are not likely to be large. I shall condemn her in the costs of these proceedings, and of the present application.

DEBTORS' ACT, 1869.

REGULÆ GENERALES

FOR REGULATING THE PRACTICE UNDER AND CARRYING INTO EFFECT THE FIRST PART OF THE SAID ACT.Michaelmas Term, 1869.

IN PURSUANCE of the Common Law Procedure Act, 1852, and the Debtors' Act, 1869, it is ordered that on and after the 1st day of January, 1870, the following Rules shall be in force for regulating the practice under and carrying into effect the first part of the said Debtors' Act, 1869.

1. All applications to commit to prison under section 5 shall, in the first instance, be made by summons before a judge, which shall specify the date and other particulars of the judgment or order for non-payment of which the application is made, together with the amount due, and be indorsed with the particulars required by Rule 73 of H. T. 1853.

2. The service of the summons, wherever it may be practicable, shall be personal; but if it appear to the judge that reasonable efforts have been made to effect personal service, and either that the summons has come to the knowledge of the debtor, or that he wilfully evades service, an order may be made as if personal service had been effected, upon such terms as to the judge may seem fit.

3. Proof of the means of the debtor shall, whenever practicable, be given by affidavit; but if it appear to the judge, either before or at the hearing, that a visá voce examination, either of the debtor or of any other person, or the production of any document, is necessary or expedient, an order may be made commanding the attendance of any such person before the judge, at a time and place to be therein mentioned, for the purpose of being examined on oath touching the matter in question (or, and), for the production of any such document, subject to such terms and conditions as to the judge may seem fit. The disobedience to any such order shall be deemed a contempt of Court, and punishable accordingly.

4. The order of committal (which may be in the form A. in the schedule, or to the like effect), shall, before delivery to the sheriff, be indorsed with the particulars required by Rule 73 of H. T. 1853. Concurrent orders may be issued for execution in different counties. The sheriff and officer shall be entitled to the same fees in respect thereof as are now payable upon a ca. sa.

5. Upon payment of the sum or sums mentioned in the order (including the sheriff's fees in like manner as upon a ca. sa.), the debtor shall be entitled to a certificate in the form B. in the schedule, or to the like effect, signed by the attorney in the cause of the creditor, or signed by the creditor, and attested by an attorney on his behalf, or a justice of the peace.

6. Orders to arrest under the 6th section (which may be in the form C. in the schedule, or to the like effect) shall be made upon affidavit and ex parte, but the defendant shall be at liberty, at any time after the arrest, to apply to rescind or vary the order, or to be discharged from custody, or for such other relief as may be just; such orders shall, before delivery to the sheriff, be indorsed with the particulars required by Rule 73 of H. T. 1853. Concurrent orders may be issued for arrest in different counties. The sheriff and officer shall be entitled to the same fees in respect thereof as are now payable upon a capias.

7. The security to be given by the defendant may be a deposit in Court of the amount mentioned in the order, or a bond to the plaintiff by the defendant and two sufficient sureties (or, with leave of a judge, more than two), or, with the plaintiff's consent, any other form of security. The plaintiff may, within four days after receiving particulars of the names and addresses of the proposed sureties, and the form of the proposed bond, give notice that he objects thereto, stating therein in what particulars; and, in case of his so doing, the sufficiency of the security shall be determined by the master, who shall have power to award the costs of such reference to either party. It shall be the plaintiff's duty to obtain an appointment for that purpose, and unless he does so within four days after giving notice of objection, the security shall be deemed sufficient.

8. The money deposited, and the security, and all proceedings thereon, shall be subject to the order and control of the Court, or a judge.

9. Unless otherwise ordered, the costs of and consequent on an order to arrest shall be costs in the cause.

10. Upon payment into Court of the amount mentioned in the order, a receipt shall be given by the proper officer; and upon receiving the bond, or other security, a certificate to that effect shall be given, signed or attested by the plaintiff's attorney; and the delivery of such receipt or certificate to the sheriff shall entitle the defendant to be discharged out of custody.

11. The sheriff or other officer named either in an order of committal or an order to arrest under the 6th section shall, within two days after the arrest, indorse on the order the true date of such arrest.

L. C.	BUTLER v. GRAY.	Nov. 25.
	Will—Power—Default of Appointment.

Thomas Lewis by his will gave the residue of his estate amongst his daughters, and directed that each daughter should have the dividends on her share for her separate use, with power to dispose of the principal among her children, and if any daughter left no child, her share was to fall into the residue. Sarah Gray, one of his daughters, by her will, after reciting her father's will, gave the sum of money which she had power over under the will of her father amongst her children, giving nominal sums to some of them, and giving a specified sum of 6000*l.* Consols to one, on his covenanting to pay the interest to two of his sisters. The testatrix then gave certain legacies, and directed her just debts to be paid, and gave the residue of her personal estate and effects to her son, John E. Gray. A question arose whether the will of Sarah Gray operated as an appointment of the remainder of the No. 32.—1869.

share of Thomas Lewis's estate, or whether it went to her children equally in default of appointment. The question was brought before the Court by a special case, and the Vice-Chancellor Malins decided that J. E. Gray took the remainder, either under the appointment by the will as a valid appointment under the power, or as a gift of what became part of the testatrix's estate in default of appointment.

The other children appealed. Cotton, Q.C., and S. P. Butler, for the appellants. C. Hall, for J. E. Gray. Freeling, for the trustees.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR held that, under the first will, Sarah Gray had a life interest, with a power of appointment amongst her children, and that, if she did not exercise that power, equity would imply a gift in default. His Lordship further held, upon the construction of the will, that the testatrix did not intend this money to go amongst the residue of her personal estate. It remained therefore unappointed, and would be divided amongst the children.

PICARD v. HINE.

Married Woman—Specific Performance—Separate Estate.

This was a suit against a married woman who had separate estate, and the trustee of the separate estate, for the specific performance of a contract to purchase as against the separate estate.

The Vice-Chancellor Stuart decreed specific performance, and the defendants appealed.

Schomberg, Q.C., and Bush, for the appellants.

Dickinson, Q.C., and Willis, for the plaintiff.

THEIR LORDSHIPS said that for a long time there had been some doubt whether a married woman's separate estate was to be made liable to her contracts. Now, however, it was settled that if she had contracted as a feme sole, or if there was nothing out of which the contract could be performed except the separate estate, then the separate estate would be made liable as on an ordinary contract. In this case the plaintiff seemed to have thought that he was contracting with a widow, and it appeared that there was nothing but her separate estate by which the contract could have been performed. The decree had, however, gone too far, as it did not appear that at the date of the decree there was any separate estate. There must be a declaration that the separate estate was liable for the debt and interest and the costs up to the hearing, and an inquiry of what the separate estate consisted. The other costs would be reserved.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. CORPORATION OF HALIFAX.

Practice—Withdrawal of Appeal—Costs.

In this information and suit an appeal was brought from the decree of Vice-Chancellor James (ante, p. 202), and the defendants, who were the appellants, now applied for leave to withdraw the appeal. No objection was made by the plaintiffs and relators to the application, except with regard to the question what costs should be paid by the appellants.

It appeared that after the appeal had been set down the appellants applied to the Attorney-General to withdraw his fiat from the information, and both sides were heard by counsel before the Attorney-General on the 30th of November, and considerable costs were incurred. The Attorney-General refused to withdraw his fiat, but held that he had no jurisdiction to make any order as to the costs. The relators now wished these costs to be included in the costs to be paid by the appellants.

Bristowe, Q.C., for the appellants.

Ince, for the plaintiffs and relators, said that, unless the Court gave a direction as to these costs, the relators would be deprived of them altogether. The application was a matter of favour to the appellants, and the costs were in the discretion of the Court.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR gave leave to withdraw the appeal, and ordered that the appellants should pay all such costs as they would have had to pay if the appeal had been dismissed this day, including the costs of the present application; the deposit to be applied in payment of the costs as far as it would extend. The costs of the application to the Attorney-General were either costs in the cause or they were not. If they were, the taxing master had jurisdiction to deal with them; if not, the only hardship would be that the Attorney-General had no jurisdiction to deal with the costs of the application before him.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD concurred.

TOPHAM v. DUKE OF PORTLAND.

Void Appointment—Influence—Fraud on Power.

This was a suit to set aside certain appointments made by the Duke of Portland to his sister Lady H. Bentinck, and the Vice-Chancellor James declared the appointments void (ante, p. 154). The defendants appealed.

Amphlett, Q.C., T. Stevens, and B. M. Smith, for Lady H. Bentinck.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and A. Bailey, for the Duke of Portland.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., C. Hall, and Rowcliffe, for the plaintiffs.
Key, Q.C., Pearson, Q.C., Morris, and Lindley, for other parties.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the defendants, in support of the appointment, relied on the difference in the circumstances between these and the former appointments, which had been declared void. Here the intention of the duke had been communicated to Lady H. Bentinck, and the appointments were irregular; and both the duke and Lady H. Bentinck had sworn—and His Lordship gave full credence to them—that there was no secret agreement between them, and that the money was absolutely Lady H. Bentinck's. But from her cross-examination it was clear that she was a mere instrument to carry into effect the wishes of the present duke, and knew that he wanted to carry into effect the wishes of the late duke. The Court could not allow the present duke to interpret the wishes of the donor in a manner different from that in which the Court would interpret the instrument giving the power. His Lordship relied on the continued tenacity of the duke to his purpose; on the fact of the former deeds having been set aside, because Lady Harriet was a mere instrument of his wishes, and that she still remained so; and on there being no evidence of any change of purpose in the duke. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that after the former appointment had been set aside no new appointment could be valid unless it was shewn that the donee of the power and the appointee were placed in a new position. But it was clear that Lady H. Bentinck still remained under the influence of the duke, and would simply carry his wishes into effect. The onus, in fact, lay on the defendants to shew that the appointment was valid, and that they had not succeeded in doing. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

BAILEY v. HOBSON.

Dec. 3.

Tenant in Common—Injunction to restrain Injury to Property—Removing Hay and Turnips.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Stuart. The plaintiff was the owner of four sixths, and each of the defendants, Hobson and Sedgwick, of one sixth, of a farm in Yorkshire. The defendant Sedgwick was in possession of the entirety of the farm, but under no lease or agreement for a lease from his co-tenants. The plaintiff filed a bill for sale or partition, and obtained a decree for sale. Sedgwick then advertised a sale of all the hay and turnips grown last year on the farm, to be taken off the land.

The Vice-Chancellor granted an injunction to restrain him from removing the hay and turnips, which was contrary to the custom of the country.

Phear, for the defendant Sedgwick, who appealed.

Dickinson, Q.C., and G. Williamson, for the plaintiff, contended that the act complained of was in the nature of destruction to the property, and the Court would therefore protect it from the injury.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said the act complained of was not a destruction of the property, nor a violation of any obligation binding on the defendant. The injunction must, therefore, be dissolved.

JAMES v. LICHFIELD.

Dec. 3.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Contract to sell Property as Freehold—Misdescription—Leasehold Interest—Knowledge of Tenancy by Purchaser—Right to Compensation.

This was a suit by a purchaser for the specific performance of a contract, with abatement in respect of a portion of the property which was subject to a lease.

The defendant had accepted an offer made to him by the plaintiff for the purchase of the property in question by a letter which was in the following terms:—"I accept your offer of 5000*l.* for my property at Hanwell, consisting of five houses and about six acres of land, provided a deposit of 500*l.* be paid to me to-morrow, and for the above sum I agree to deliver to you the said property as freehold, and to enter into a formal contract for carrying out the same."

When the defendant's contract was delivered to the plaintiff he discovered, as he alleged for the first time, that one of the houses which the defendant had agreed to sell him as freehold was subject to a lease, and he claimed to be entitled to compensation in respect of that part, as the fact of its being so subject to a lease had not been disclosed.

It was not denied that the plaintiff, at the time of the contract, knew that the property was in the occupation of a tenant, and the question was whether he was bound to ascertain the extent of the tenancy.

Southgate, Q.C., and Waller, for the plaintiff.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and W. W. Cooper, for the defendant.

Southgate in reply.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the plaintiff, being aware that the property was in the occupation of a tenant, was bound to inquire what was the tenant's interest in the land, and was not entitled to any abatement. The bill must be dismissed with costs, unless the plaintiff elected to take the land without compensation.

Solicitor and Client—Bill of Costs—Taxation on Order of Course obtained by Client—Charges for Business done while Solicitor was Uncertificated—6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, s. 26.

This was an application on behalf of Richard Jones, a solicitor, that the taxing master might be directed to review his taxation of a bill of costs relating to a suit in respect of certain items which had been disallowed.

The order of course for taxation had been obtained on the petition of the client on the usual submission, "to pay what should appear to be due in respect of the bill."

It appeared that, during six months of the time over which the business done by the solicitor extended, his certificate, through a mistake of his London agents, had not been renewed, and the taxing master, following the invariable practice, disallowed all the items during that period, on the ground that the case came within s. 26 of 6 & 7 Vict. c. 78.

Jessel, Q.C., and Bevir, in support of the application, contended that, although the solicitor was disabled by the Act from "maintaining any action or suit for the recovery of any fee or disbursement" for business done while he was uncertificated, yet the debt was not destroyed, and as his client had submitted to pay what should appear due, he was entitled to have the items allowed.

Begg, contra, supported the decision of the taxing master.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the Act did not extinguish the debt, though it took away the remedy; that it did not apply to the case of an order for taxation obtained by the client; and that the taxing master must be directed to tax the items which he had disallowed by reason of the solicitor being uncertificated.

Winding-up—Appointment of Official Liquidator.

This case came before the Court on an adjourned summons to determine who should be appointed official liquidator of the company, which was ordered to be wound up in July last on the petition.

There were two gentlemen proposed: namely, Mr. Samuel Barrow, who was nominated by the petitioner, by creditors of the company to the amount of 572*l.*, by the holders of 1990 shares, and by the Universal Life Assurance Company, who were holders of debentures for 15,000*l.* as a security for 6000*l.* which they had advanced.

The other candidate, Mr. J. B. Gibbons, had acted as provisional liquidator since August last, under an order of the vacation judge, and was proposed by shareholders holding 3360 shares, and creditors to the amount of 20,000*l.*, and supported by an unpaid vendor to the company of an estate for 30,700*l.*

Swanston, Q.C., and Higgins, for the petitioner and other creditors, and for certain shareholders, and Jessel, Q.C., for the Universal Life Assurance Company, supported the nomination of Barrow.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Graham Hastings, for the majority of the shareholders and creditors, and

W. W. Karlake, Fitzroy Kelly, and Lindley, for other parties, supported the nomination of Gibbons.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that he should follow the rule adopted by Vice-Chancellor Malins in the case of In re General Provident Assurance Company (Weekly Notes, 1868, p. 241), and that, where there was no material difference between the candidates proposed, the nomination ought to rest with the petitioner who had the carriage of the winding-up order. His Lordship accordingly appointed Mr. Barrow.

Practice—Motion to Dismiss—Trust Deed under Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

Motion to dismiss for want of prosecution.

The bill was filed in September, 1868. Notice of motion for decree had been served on the 23rd of June, 1869, and, although the plaintiff's time for filing affidavits in reply had expired, the plaintiff had not set down for hearing the motion for a decree.

It appeared that on the 13th of July, 1869, the plaintiff executed a deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors, and on the 15th of September this deed was duly registered pursuant to the Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

The defendant now moved to dismiss for want of prosecution. Amphlett, Q.C., and Deere Sulman, in support of the motion.

Decimus Sturges, for the plaintiff, opposed the motion, and cited a 197 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, for the purpose of shewing that the plaintiff had no longer any interest in the subject-matter of the suit.

Amphlett in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, as the deed of assignment had been duly registered, and had not been set aside, it operated under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861, as a statutory transfer of the property, and divested all the plaintiff's interest. The motion must be refused, but without costs, as the defendant appeared to have been misled by Pickering v. Cape Town Railway Company (Law Rep. 7 Eq. 224). Leave would be given to amend the notice of motion, and serve it upon the trustees of the deed.

V.-C. J. In re ASHMORE'S TRUSTS. Dec. 4.

Will—Construction—Gift to Issue "on their attaining 21"—Intermediate Gift of Income "towards their maintenance."

The question was whether a gift of a share of residuary personal estate to the issue of a grandchild, in the event, which happened, of the grandchild's death within a certain period, in equal shares and proportions "on their attaining the age of 21 years," with a gift of the income "in the meantime" to be applied "in or towards" their maintenance and education, vested an interest in the share in the infant issue immediately on their birth, or whether the share vested in such of the issue only as attained 21.

Hardy, Q.C., and Byrne, supported the latter construction, and Everitt the former.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the interest of such of the issue as died under 21 did not vest, but enured to the benefit of the survivors.

V.-C. J. DEEKS v. BAYLEY. Dec. 7.

Practice—Pleading—Local Boards to be sued in their own Names.

Demurrer for want of equity.

The bill was filed on the 2nd of November last against "William Henry Bayley, clerk to the Aldershot Local Board of Health," in conformity with section 138 of the Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63), which provides that a district local board may be sued in the name of the clerk. It appears that now by section 46 of the Sanitary Act, 1866 (29 & 30 Vict. c. 90), local boards are incorporated, and may be sued in their own names.

H. M. Jackson, for the demurrer.

Whitbread, for the bill.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, of course, there must be leave to amend.

Jackson asked that Mr. Bayley's name might be removed from the record.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he saw no reason why the clerk's name should be removed. He would have to answer only in his official capacity. The demurrer must be allowed; the usual costs to be paid by the plaintiff, with liberty to the plaintiff to amend as he should be advised.

V.-C. J. CHICHESTER v. LORD DONEGAL. Dec. 8.

Bill for Discovery—Mortgages Defendants—Extent of Right to compel Disclosure of Deeds.

Exceptions to answer of two defendants, who were mortgagees under a power of mortgaging reserved to the defendant the Marquis of Donegal, and the late Earl of Belfast, by an indenture of settlement dated the 23rd of July, 1851. The mortgage deed was dated the 5th of May, 1852, and recited the settlement. The bill was for an account and discovery.

The defendants, on being interrogated as to the execution and purport of the settlement, and on being asked to set forth the date, parties' names, and material contents of the deed, answered that they believed some such deed as was in the bill mentioned to bear date the 23rd of July, 1851, was executed, but for the reason thereinbefore mentioned they declined to state what were the hereditaments comprised in it, or what was the purport or effect of it, or who were the parties. The reason before mentioned was that they were not bound to produce any of the documents inquired after by the interrogatories, or to disclose the contents to the plaintiff till they had been paid their principal, interest, and costs.

Freeing, for the exceptions.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Cookson, for the answer.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the defendants, the mortgagees, were bound to answer the interrogatory so far as it went to the disclosure of the contents of deeds which formed the common title of the plaintiff and themselves. The plaintiff had no right to interfere with the defendants' mortgage deed; but in this settlement the plaintiff had an interest. The exceptions that went to this part of the answer must therefore be allowed.

Solicitor for the plaintiff: Charles Appleyard.

Solicitors for the answering defendants: Cookson, Wainwright, & Co.

V.-C. J. FINNEY v. GODFREY. Dec. 8.
Exceptions—Scandal.

A bill filed against three defendants, named Godfrey, Turner, and McCraw, praying that a bill of exchange might be delivered up to the plaintiff to be cancelled, such bill having been indorsed by the plaintiff for the accommodation of a person not a party, contained a charge that the bill had come into possession of Godfrey, who was suing on the bill, by means of a fraudulent contrivance between the three defendants, without consideration; and contained also by amendment the following charge:—"The defendants Turner and McCraw are in concealment, and the plaintiff has been unable to ascertain where they are to be found. Both such last-named defendants were and are, to the knowledge of the defendant Godfrey, men of no means, and each or one of them has been declared bankrupt. The defendant McCraw has in particular, to the knowledge of the defendant Godfrey, been mixed up with several irregular transactions connected with bills of exchange."

To the last paragraph in this charge, about McCraw having been to Godfrey's knowledge mixed up with irregular transactions, the defendant Godfrey excepted for scandal.

Kay, Q.C., and Horsey, for Godfrey.

Graham Hastings, for the plaintiff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that there was nothing in this charge of which the defendant Godfrey could complain, whatever ground of complaint the defendant McCraw might have. For anything that appeared, McCraw might answer the bill. As to the general ground which had been taken for the exception—that the Court was bound to keep its records clean—His Honour said he did not ask the defendant Godfrey to assist the Court in arriving at this result; and upon the question of discretion he would hear no argument. He considered it was not the duty of the Court to strike out this matter; and the exception must be overruled, with costs.

Parliament—County Vote—Qualification—Benefice.

Appeal from the revising barrister for Middlesex.

The appellant claimed to vote as incumbent of a district church. The freehold of the church was vested in him, but he derived no value from it except that, as incumbent, he was entitled to a stipend paid by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and to fees in respect of marriages, baptisms, and churchings performed in the church.

The revising barrister held that he was not entitled to vote, and he appealed.

Sir J. B. Karlake, Q.C. (Morgan Howard with him), for the appellant.

Simon, Serjt. (Michael with him), for the respondent.

THE COURT held that the stipend could not be connected with the church so as to give it value, and that the fees were paid in respect of the services performed, and not for the use of the church, and were therefore open to the same objection; and affirmed the decision of the revising barrister.

Attorneys for appellant: Marriott, Jordan, & Cooper.

Attorney for respondent: J. Robinson.

P. & M. IN THE GOODS OF HARRIET CROFTS. Nov. 30.
Will of Married Woman—Not Republished after Death of Husband—Probate—Extent of Limitation.

On the 21st and 22nd of September, 1837, by a post-nuptial settlement, Robert Crofts, the husband of the deceased, secured to her, her executors, administrators, and assigns, an annuity for life for 150*l.* In the year 1840 Mrs. Crofts, who was then resident in London, obtained a decree at Edinburgh divorcing her from her husband by reason of his adultery in Scotland, and giving her the usual authority to marry again. Before such decree was obtained, the husband had left Scotland and returned to England, and he continued to live in London until his death on the 21st of July, 1868. The parties never cohabited together after August, 1838. On the 22nd of June, 1868, the deceased executed a will, in which she named executors. She commenced her will by saying that she had certain separate property, namely, in the Consolidated 3 per Cent. Annuities, which she was entitled to dispose of by will; and that, in exercise of the power vested in her, she thereby disposed of the same in the manner that follows therein. By this will she left several legacies, amongst others one of two shares in the Grosvenor Hotel Company, and the residue she gave to Louisa Maria McDole. The deceased survived her husband, and died in March, 1869, without having re-executed her will. Her property consisted of furniture and money in the funds, the whole value of which did not amount to 800*l.* Part of this was saved from her annuity, and part arose from a legacy paid to her after the date of the Scotch decree.

Dr. Spinks, Q.C., moved for probate of the will to be granted to the executor. He submitted that, as the whole property was made up from the savings of the annuity and the legacy, which, having been paid to the deceased after the date of the Scotch decree, was separate estate, the executors were entitled to a general grant.

THE COURT ordered that probate should issue, limited to such property as the applicant on his oath should state he believes to have belonged to the deceased's separate estate.

L. C. BRUCE v. GARDEN. Dec. 15.
Agent—Debtor—Policy of Assurance.

This was a suit by the administrator of an officer in the army, claiming from the agent of the officer the balance of the sums received on policies of assurance effected in the name of the agent on the life of the officer after deducting the amount due by the officer to the agent. The Vice-Chancellor James declared the plaintiff entitled to the balance, and made a decree accordingly (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 430).

The defendant appealed.

Willcock, Q.C., and L. Field, for the appellant.

Amphlett, Q.C., and R. Horton Smith, for the plaintiff.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the law on the subject was clear, that the sums secured by a policy belonged to the creditor, unless there was a contract between the creditor and the debtor that the debtor would pay the premiums. It was therefore a question of evidence; and though the defendant had in his books debited the officer with the premiums, there was no evidence that the officer was aware of this, or had assented. On the authorities His Lordship could not do otherwise than dismiss the bill, but without costs.

Scheme of Arrangement—Railway Companies Act, 1867—Debenture-holders—Judgment Creditors—Execution.

This was an appeal from two orders of Vice-Chancellor Malins made under the scheme of arrangement of the above company (ante, p. 237).

Mr. Minor, the appellant, was a debenture-holder, and had brought an action against the company, and recovered judgment before the Act of 1867 was passed. After the scheme of arrangement was enrolled he issued execution, and seized part of the rolling stock of the company.

The Vice-Chancellor granted an injunction to restrain the sheriff from continuing in possession of the property, and at the same time refused a motion by Minor to be allowed to make his execution available.

Glasse, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for Minor, who appealed.

Osborne, Q.C., and Dryden, for the company.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD refused both motions with costs. But in order to give the company the opportunity of filing a bill, the Vice-Chancellor's order would be discharged as from the 16th instant.

L. J. GIFFARD. Dec. 10.
STONE v. STONE.
Statute of Limitations—Breach of Trust—Covenant by Settlor.

This was a claim by the children of J. Stone in an administration suit to be admitted as creditors for two sums of 1000*l.*

Under a settlement made subsequently to Stone's marriage, but in consideration of an agreement made before marriage, after reciting that Stone had paid 1000*l.* to R. Gatcombe, Gatcombe covenanted with Stone to invest the said sum, with the approbation of Stone, either in the public funds or in Government or real securities, in the joint names of Stone and Gatcombe, upon trust for Stone and his wife for their respective lives, and after their death upon trust for their children. And Stone also covenanted that he would, within twelve months from the date of the settlement, pay a further sum of 1000*l.* to Gatcombe, to be held upon the same trusts as the former sum of 1000*l.* Gatcombe died in 1821, and Stone, having survived his wife, died in 1868. Neither of the said sums of 1000*l.* were invested in the names of Stone and Gatcombe.

A suit having been instituted for the administration of Stone's estate, his two children claimed to be creditors on his estate for these two sums, on the ground that Stone had constituted himself a trustee of them, and that the Statute of Limitations was therefore no bar to the claim. Vice-Chancellor James refused to admit the claim, and the claimants appealed.

Eddis, Q.C., and Dumergue, for the claimants.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Lindley, for Stone's executors.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD agreed with the Vice-Chancellor as to the second sum, which was simply secured by the covenant of the settlor, and the claim was now barred by lapse of time. But, as to the first sum, he was of opinion that the settlor had constituted himself a trustee of Gatcombe's covenant, and was bound to see that it was carried out; his estate was, therefore, bound by the breach of trust, and the Statute of Limitations was no bar to the claim. The order of the Vice-Chancellor must therefore be varied.

L. J. GIFFARD. Dec. 11.
In re CUMING.
Trustee Act, 1850—Covenant to surrender Copyholds.

In this case Henry Cuming, in 1867, agreed to sell a copyhold to the petitioner, and the purchase was completed, the vendor covenanting to surrender forthwith to the use of the purchaser, but the covenant contained no declaration that he would hold in trust for the purchaser. Before any surrender had been made, the vendor died intestate, leaving a customary heir, who was of unsound mind, but not found so by inquisition. The purchaser now petitioned for an order appointing a person to convey the copyhold to him.

F. North, for the petitioner.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD held that, as this was not a case of a mere executory contract for sale, but of an executed contract, the order asked for could be made without the necessity of a suit to have the heir declared a trustee.

Solicitors: Westall & Roberts.

L. J. GIFFARD. Dec. 11.
In re HOLLYFORD COPPER MINING COMPANY.
Companies Act, 1862, s. 123—Winding-up—Irish Order.

In this case an order had been made by the Court of Chancery in Ireland to wind up a company, and the proceedings had been transferred to the Irish Court of Bankruptcy. An order for a call having been made by the latter Court, the liquidator applied to Mr. Commissioner Bacon to make it an order of the Court of Bankruptcy in England, in order to enforce it against the English contributories; which His Honour declined to do, being of opinion that he had no jurisdiction. The liquidator now moved by way of appeal before Lord Justice Giffard.

Lindley, for the appeal motion.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD held that the decision of the commissioner was correct, and that the order could not be made an order of the Court of Bankruptcy in England; but His Lordship sitting in Chancery directed it to be made an order of the Court of Chancery in England.

M. R. LAND CREDIT COMPANY OF IRELAND v. FERMOY. Dec. 4.
Practice—Service of Decree—Writ of fi. fa. against Defendant not Served—Motion to Discharge.

This was a motion on behalf of Henry Munster, one of the defendants in the suit, to set aside a writ of fi. fa. on the ground of irregularity.

By the decree in the cause on the 24th of March, 1869 (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 7), the defendants, the former directors of the company, were declared to be jointly and severally liable to repay to the company the sum of 3733*l.*, and it was ordered that they should, on or before the 30th of June then next, pay the sum for which they were so liable, with interest from the date of the decree, and the costs when taxed.

The decree was passed on the 10th of May, 1869, but it was not served on the defendant Munster.

On the 24th of November, 1869, the plaintiff issued a writ of fi. fa., directed to the sheriff of Sussex, directing him to levy the goods and chattels of the defendant Munster for the sum of 5733*l.* and interest from the date of the decree, and also for the sum of 582*l.*, being the costs of the suit. The execution had since been levied, but the sheriff had been stayed from proceeding till after the present motion.

Jessel, Q.C., and Hemming, for Munster, moved to set aside the writ on the ground that the decree had not been served, and that the writ ought to have followed the decree, and been issued against all the defendants.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the plaintiff, the official liquidator, contra.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that when a day certain was fixed for payment, the practice was not to require service of the decree, and that under the decree it was competent to issue the writ against one only of the defendants; the motion therefore must be discharged.

M. R. In re NORVALL, A SOLICITOR. Dec. 7.
Solicitor—Bill of Costs—Order to Tax before Action commenced—Service—Ignorance of Order—Foreign Attachment—Breach of Injunction.

On the 4th of August, 1869, Mr. Richardson, a client of Mr. Norvall, presented a petition for the taxation of his bill of costs.

On the 9th of August the common order before action commenced was obtained, directing a taxation, and restraining Norvall from commencing any proceedings at law or otherwise in respect of the bill pending the taxation. On the same day the order was taken to Norvall's office before 7 o'clock in the evening, but Norvall and his clerks had left for the day, and it was handed to a female who was engaged in cleaning out the building in which the office was situated, who promised to deliver it to Norvall. On the 19th of August the order was brought to Norvall by the clerk of a firm having offices in the same building, and it was not until then that Norvall knew that the order had been made.

On the 14th of August Norvall attached Richardson's balance with Messrs. Barnett & Co., bankers, in the City of London. On the 19th of August Messrs. Barnett appeared to the attachment proceedings. On the 27th of August Richardson applied to the registrar of the Lord Mayor's Court to stay further proceedings in the attachment. The application was refused. On the 31st of August Messrs. Barnett put in a plea to the attachment. On the 2nd of September the order to tax was served personally on Norvall. On the 3rd of September bail was given in the attachment, and on the 4th of September Norvall delivered the record.

Jessel, Q.C., and Speed, now moved to commit Norvall for a breach of the injunction.

Southgate, Q.C., and Bagshawe, contra.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that the proceedings in the Lord Mayor's Court were commenced on the 14th of August. At that time the order had not been properly served on Norvall, and he did not know that it had been made; and, further, it did not restrain him from prosecuting proceedings already begun. Consequently there was no breach of the injunction on his part, and the motion must be refused; but as neither side had acted properly, there would be no costs.

M. R. In re POOLEY HALL COLLIERY COMPANY. Dec. 9.
Company—Debenture-holders—Simple Contract Creditors—Priority—Debentures issued ultra vires—Lien of Directors for Money advanced.

This was a summons on behalf of the debenture-holders of the company, which was being wound up under supervision, that the liquidators might be directed to apply the proceeds of the sale of the lease of the colliery towards payment of what was due to the debenture-holders, in priority to other claims.

Under the articles of association and a general resolution of the company, by which the borrowing powers were extended, the directors were empowered to incur debts in the ordinary course of business, and to borrow on mortgage and other securities to an amount not exceeding 8000*l.*

The debentures in question were issued on the 2nd of January, 1866, and purported to be a first charge on the present and future property of the company. They were for the most part issued to shareholders.

The application was opposed by the unsecured creditors of the company, who impeached the validity of the debentures on the ground that, at the time they were issued, the liabilities of the company exceeded 8000*l.* It was contended on their behalf that the holders could only rank pari passu with the other creditors. Three of the former directors, who were trustees of the company, also opposed on the ground that they were entitled to a lien on the property for liabilities incurred by them on behalf of the company.

Roeburgh, Q.C., and Rowliffe, for the debenture-holders, contended that, even if the debts of the company exceeded 8000*l.* at the time the debentures were issued, their issue had been ratified by a general meeting, and that the unsecured creditors, whose debts were incurred since the debentures were issued, and who had the means of ascertaining the charges on the company's property, could not contest the validity of the debentures as between the directors and the shareholders.

Jessel, Q.C., and Lindley, for the other creditors.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and W. W. Karslake, for the directors.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the directors were entitled to be indemnified, in priority to all other charges, for payments on behalf of the company to which they might have been made liable compulsorily, such as rent, but not for payments made merely at the request of the company; also that, as the liabilities of the company at the time the debentures were issued exceeded 8000*l.*, the debentures were absolutely void, and the holders could only rank pari passu with simple contract creditors.

EBBETTS' CASE.

Winding-up—Contributory—Infant.

On the 9th of November, 1863, Mr. Ebbetts, being an infant, applied for shares in the above-named company. The shares were duly allotted to him. On the 8th of April, 1864, Ebbetts attained the age of 21. On the 3rd of June, 1865, the winding-up of the company commenced. On the 12th of December, 1865, Ebbetts executed a transfer of the shares to one Wood. This transfer was never registered, Wood claimed no benefit under it, and Ebbetts alleged that it was merely executed for the purpose of relieving himself from liability. Ebbetts, having been settled on the list of contributories, now applied to be removed therefrom.

Bagshawe, for Ebbetts.

Bevir, for the official liquidator, was not called on.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said he was not aware of any case in which an infant had been relieved from shares for which he had applied personally. An infant could bind himself by fraud; and if the Court could come to the conclusion that an infant applied for shares, with the intention of keeping them if the company succeeded, and repudiating them if the company did not succeed, it would probably hold him fixed with a liability. But, however that might be, the execution of the transfer was clearly a confirmation of the transaction; and the application must be refused with costs.

Solicitor and Client—Bill of Costs—Bankruptcy of Client—Taxation by Assignee—Undertaking to Pay.

A client of Messrs. Elmslie & Co., having deposited with them certain deeds to secure their bill of costs, afterwards became bankrupt. The assignee now applied for an order to tax the bill, without prejudice to the lien of the solicitors, and undertaking to pay the dividends to which the solicitors should be entitled under the bankruptcy.

Ince, for the assignee in bankruptcy.

Jessel, Q.C., for the solicitors.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, as the solicitors had not proved in the bankruptcy, but simply rested on their lien, an order to tax their bill could not be made upon the application of the assignee unless he undertook to pay the whole amount of the bill, and not the dividends merely.

M. R. ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. DRAPERS' COMPANY. Dec. 10.

Costs—Taxation—Surveyor's Charges—Ryde's Scale.

The South Eastern Railway Company having taken, under the powers of their Acts, part of certain real estate belonging to the Drapers' Company, and being called on to pay the costs of the company in relation thereto, required that the bill should be taxed. Upon taxation the master allowed one item of 70*l.* in respect of surveyor's charges, being the amount to which the surveyor would be entitled according to a scale prepared by Mr. Ryde, a surveyor in the city of London. This scale was framed on the principle that a commission of one-half to one per cent. on the amount of the purchase-money should be paid to the surveyor according to the nature of the case. A summons was taken out that the master should review his taxation in respect of this item.

Phear, for the railway company, submitted that the surveyor was entitled to be paid as on a quantum meruit, and not by a commission on the purchase-money.

Bouring, for the Drapers' Company, was not called on.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS said that, in reality, this was an application to the Court to set aside the master's decision, not on a matter of principle, but simply on a question of amount. The Court would not do that; but, even if this were a question of principle, His Lordship would not have been inclined to interfere. Brokers were paid by commission; and if a similar practice had arisen with respect to surveyors, it should not be disturbed, the adoption of Ryde's Scale tending to prevent any dispute as to the amount, and the charges thereby fixed not being excessive.

M. R. WALL v. ROGERS. Dec. 11.

WALL v. OGLE.

Trust Fund—Breach of Trust—Reversionary Interest—Married Woman—Compromise.

Julia Amelia, the wife of Cornelius Wall, was entitled to an undivided share of a trust fund, subject to the life interest therein of her mother, Mrs. Ogle. A breach of trust having been committed, the suit of Wall v. Rogers was instituted by Cornelius Wall and Julia Amelia his wife, and three other persons, who were sui juris and interested in the trust fund against Rogers, the trustee of the fund, and Mr. and Mrs. Ogle.

The bill prayed that Rogers might be removed from his office of trustee, and new trustees appointed in his place; and that he might be ordered to replace the trust fund which had been lost.

The suit of Wall v. Ogle was by the same plaintiffs against Mr.

and Mrs. Ogle. Its object was to compel Mr. Ogle to replace a trust fund which had been improperly paid to him.

An agreement for the compromise of both suits was entered into and signed by all parties, including Mrs. Wall. The chief terms of the agreement were that Mr. Ogle should pay 100*l.* to Mrs. Wall and each of the other plaintiffs, that Rogers should pay the costs of both suits, that all further proceedings therein should be stayed, and that Rogers and Ogle should be released from all further liability.

Upon a petition presented in the suits by the plaintiffs and Mrs. Ogle for the purpose of carrying the compromise into effect, the question arose whether the Court had jurisdiction to bind Mrs. Wall by the compromise, her interest in the funds being reversionary.

Jessel, Q.C., and D. Jones, for the petitioners.

Stirling, for Rogers, the trustee.

Cottrell, for Mr. Ogle.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that he had power to sanction the compromise on behalf of Mrs. Wall, but that she must appear separately on the petition, which was ordered to be amended by making her a respondent.

M. R. GILLIAT v. GILLIAT. Dec. 13.

Sale by Auction—Reserved Bidding—Employment of Puffer—30 & 31 Vict. c. 48.

Under the decree in this cause certain real estate was set up for sale by auction subject to conditions of sale, the second of which was as follows: "The sale is subject to a reserved bidding, which has been fixed by the judge to whose Court this cause is attached."

The property was knocked down to a purchaser for 29,000*l.*, the reserved price.

It afterwards transpired that a person had been directed by the auctioneer to bid for the property up to the reserved price, and that this person did actually bid up to 28,900*l.*

The purchaser now applied to be relieved from his purchase on the ground that the employment of a puffer was illegal under the Act (30 & 31 Vict. c. 48).

Jessel, Q.C., and Whitehorne, for the purchaser.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the parties having the conduct of the sale.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the purchaser must be discharged.

M. R. In re COMMERCIAL BANK CORPORATION Dec. 13.
 OF INDIA AND THE EAST.

FERNANDEZ'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Foreign Creditor—Death—Probate.

The Commercial Bank Corporation of India and the East was incorporated by Royal Charter in 1864, for the purpose of carrying on the business of banking. Its principal office was in Bombay, but it had also an office in England. In 1866 it was ordered to be wound up by the Court of Chancery.

One of the creditors was a Mr. Fernandez, a gentleman resident and domiciled in Bombay. He received a dividend on his claim, and afterwards died, having made a will, which was duly proved in Bombay, but not in England.

The question on this adjourned summons was whether the Court could pay a further dividend to the executors without requiring them to take out probate in England.

Bagshawe, for the executors of Fernandez.

W. W. Karlake, for the Crown.

Sir R. Baggallay, Q.C., and Kebewich, for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that, as the bank was really an Indian bank, with a branch here, and the transaction out of which the claim arose had taken place in India, and the funds out of which the dividend was to be paid were not in Court, he could direct the official liquidator to transmit a sum to India to be paid there to the executors. The cost of probate would thus be avoided; but the cost of transmission must fall on Fernandez's estate.

M. R. DEARE v. SOUTTEN. Dec. 15.

Husband and Wife—Desertion—Liability of Husband to repay Moneys advanced by a Friend for Necessaries.

This was a suit by a friend of Mary Soutten, a married woman who had been deserted by her husband, to make the husband, the defendant, liable to repay to the plaintiff the sums which he had advanced to Mrs. Soutten, since her desertion, for her maintenance, and which had actually been laid out in the purchase of necessaries.

Mary Soutten was entitled at the time of her marriage to some property, of which no settlement was executed. After her desertion she, by her next friend, filed a bill against her husband, who had received the dividends on a sum of 9336*l.* stock to which she had become entitled, praying that a settlement might be directed; and a decree was made by which all dividends, after the 5th of July, 1868, were directed to be paid to her for her life.

The present bill alleged that up to the 5th of January, 1869, when the first dividends under the order became payable, Mary Soutten was without the means of support, and that during that time the plaintiff had paid to her 193*l.*, which was proved to have been expended in necessaries for her maintenance.

Archibald Smith, for the plaintiff.

Idle, for the defendant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS considered that it was a proper suit, and that the plaintiff was entitled to a decree with costs.

V.-C. S. FENWICK v. BULMAN. Dec. 8.

Agreement and Sub-agreement—Bill by Sub-purchaser making original Vendor a Party—Demurrer overruled.

On the 4th of September, 1868, T. W. Bulman and the Rev. G. R. Bulman, trustees for sale, entered into an agreement with the defendant William Wilson, a builder, to sell to him certain freehold lands (coloured pink on the plan), situate near Newcastle-upon-Tyne, for the sum of 1200*l.*, and the purchaser had the option, which he exercised, of purchasing at 300*l.* an acre some adjacent lands, coloured green on the plan.

On the 3rd of March, 1866, the defendant Wilson, having been let into possession for the purpose of carrying on his building operations, entered into an agreement with the plaintiff Fenwick to sell to him two acres of the lands coloured green for 600*l.*, and he was let into possession, and he had since expended nearly 3000*l.* in the erection of a house. The solicitor of the plaintiff Fenwick prepared a draft conveyance of the two acres, and it was settled and approved of by the solicitor of Wilson, and also by the solicitors of the defendants Bulman; but owing to differences arising between the plaintiff Fenwick and the defendant Wilson out of the building operations, the latter refused to execute the conveyance till certain moneys had been paid to him by the former. The engrossment was however, in 1867, executed by the defendants Bulman, and it had remained in their hands.

In June, 1868, the defendant Wilson was adjudicated bankrupt, and the defendant Stephenson was appointed creditors' assignee.

On the 27th of May, 1869, the plaintiff Fenwick tendered to the defendants Bulman the purchase-money (678*l.*, principal and interest) in respect of the two acres, but they declined to accept it, as they had not been paid the purchase-money comprised in the agreement with Wilson.

Negotiations took place with a view to a settlement of the differences, but, they having failed, this bill was on the 22nd of October, 1869, filed against the Messrs. Bulman, Wilson, and Stephenson, praying that the agreement of the 3rd of March, 1866, and so much of the agreement of the 4th of September, 1868, as related to the piece of land comprised in the agreement of March, 1866, might be specifically performed, and that the defendants Bulman might be ordered to deliver to the plaintiff the conveyance of the two acres.

The bill contained an allegation that on the 19th of November, 1868, the Messrs. Bulman filed a bill against Stephenson and Thomas Wilson, who claimed to be an incumbrancer, and by amendment, on the 27th of April, 1869, against Fenwick, praying for the specific performance of the agreement of the 4th of September, 1868, as against all the defendants, or some or one of them, or, in default, that the agreement might be rescinded.

This was a demurrer by the defendants Bulman, on the ground that they were improper parties to this suit.

Greene, Q. C., and Davey, for the demurrer.

Dickinson, Q. C., and Marten, for the bill, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that, as the defendants Bulman had made the plaintiff Fenwick a party to their suit for the specific performance of the whole contract with Wilson, the demurrer must be overruled, and with costs.

V.-C. M. WHEATLEY v. WESTMINSTER BRYMBO COAL AND COKE COMPANY. Dec. 8.

Mines—Sinking Pits—Lease—Dead Rent—Obligation to Work uninterruptedly.

A lease was granted in July, 1862, by the plaintiffs to the defendants of certain coal mines which adjoined other coal mines then actually worked by the defendants. The lease was for twenty-one years, determinable by the defendants at the end of the first five years on their giving twelve months' notice, and there was a minimum fixed rent of 500*l.* for the first year, 600*l.* for the second year, 700*l.* for the third, and 720*l.* for the fourth and every subsequent year during the term, with an additional royalty of 30*l.* per acre for all the coal actually raised when it exceeded the above rent. Power was given to sink pits for the purpose of working the coal; but in case of such pits being sunk, the minimum rent was raised to 1000*l.* The lease contained a covenant by the lessees that they would work and carry on the said mines "uninterruptedly, efficiently, and regularly, according to the usual or most approved practice adopted in the working of coal mines."

The defendants had worked the mines to a small extent only since the granting of the lease by means of down-brows driven from their pits on the adjoining coal field, but had sunk no pits on the plaintiffs' land, and had not obtained sufficient coal to raise the royalties to the fixed minimum rent. This rent, therefore, was all that had been paid.

The bill prayed that the defendants might be decreed during the continuance of the lease to work and carry on the mines uninterruptedly, efficiently, and regularly, according to the usual or most approved practice adopted in the working of mines, and according to the terms and provisions of the lease.

The defendants submitted that they were not bound to sink pits on the plaintiffs' land while they could obtain the coal through the pits on the adjoining land, and that they were at liberty to leave the coal ungoten for as long a time as they thought proper and convenient, so long as they paid the minimum rent fixed by the lease.

Evidence was given on both sides as to the mode of working the mines adopted by the defendants, and as to the necessity of sinking pits for the purpose of efficiently obtaining the coal.

Glasse, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiffs.

Cotton, Q.C., and Freeling, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion, upon the evidence, that the coals on the plaintiffs' land could not be worked to the full extent without pits being sunk; but it was clearly the intention of the plaintiffs, at the time of granting the lease, to discourage the sinking of pits by the increased sleeping rent, and there was nothing in the lease to make this course compulsory. There was no obligation upon the defendants to work the mines beyond the minimum rent, and no authority had been cited to shew that the defendants might not leave the mines unworked so long as they paid the sleeping rent. There was no suggestion as to improper working, and the Court could not determine what would be an efficient working, for this would be throwing upon the Court the management of the mines, which the Court could not undertake. If the plaintiffs had desired that the fullest amount of coal should be obtained, the lease should have contained a covenant to that effect. The plaintiffs had no remedy in this Court, and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. M. LEE v. HALNY. Dec. 9.
Right to an Established Name—Injunction.

The plaintiffs, Messrs. Lee & Jerdein, carried on business as coal merchants at No. 22 Pall Mall, under the name and title of "The Guinea Coal Company."

The defendant was in the service of the plaintiffs as manager of their business for some years, but quitted them voluntarily in January, 1869, when he set up in business with his son in Beaufort Buildings, under the style of "The Pall Mall Guinea Coal Company;" and upon being remonstrated with by the plaintiffs, he added a note to his advertisements to the effect that his company had no connection with "The Guinea Coal Company" in Pall Mall, which had always belonged to Messrs. Lee & Jerdein.

In August last the defendant took an office at 46 Pall Mall, where he continued his business under the title of "The Pall Mall Guinea Coal Company," and the note of disclaimer was omitted from his advertisements.

This bill was then filed; and a motion was now made on behalf of the plaintiffs for an injunction to restrain the defendant from continuing to use the name of "The Pall Mall Guinea Coal Company," or any other colourable imitation of the title of the plaintiffs' company, in such a manner as was calculated to mislead the public.

There were affidavits to shew that a number of people had been deceived, by the defendant's use of the above title, into the belief that they were dealing with the plaintiffs, while in fact they were dealing with the defendants.

Morgan, Q.C., and C. Jones, in support of the motion.

Glasse, Q.C., and Nalder, for the defendant, contended that the plaintiffs could have no right to the exclusive title of "The Guinea Coal Company," since that name was adopted by several other firms in London, and they had no right to the title of "The Pall Mall Guinea Coal Company," since they had never used it themselves. There was no such imitation of the plaintiffs' title as would be calculated to deceive the public.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was satisfied that the defendant, in leaving the plaintiffs' service and setting up in business under the title he had assumed, had done so for the purpose of taking away the plaintiffs' customers, and of deceiving the public into the belief that they were dealing with the original firm. The evidence was conclusive as to the fact that many persons had been so deceived. The principle of the Court was, that when a man had established a name, by which reputation and property were obtained, no person could use that name and conduct his business in a manner calculated to induce the public to believe they were dealing with the original firm, and thus avail himself of another man's property. He was clearly of opinion that the defendant had brought himself within this principle, and the injunction must be granted to restrain the defendant from using the title of "The Pall Mall Guinea Coal Company" in Pall Mall.

V.-C. M. ALLEN v. BONNETT. Dec. 10.
Act of Bankruptcy—Fraudulent Preference—13 Eliz. c. 5.

On the 22nd of February, 1865, Elias Bonnett executed a deed conveying and assigning all his real and personal estate to his uncle, the defendant, by way of mortgage for securing the payment on demand of 450*l.*, stated to have been then due to, and 300*l.*, stated to have been then advanced by, the defendant. On the 20th of July, 1866, Elias Bonnett became bankrupt. This was a suit by his assignees in bankruptcy to set aside the deed of February, 1865, as a fraud upon his creditors. The plaintiffs alleged that the defendant's debt and further advance were fictitious, and that the deed was in fact executed without consideration and for the purpose of defrauding the creditors, and that, even if consideration was given, the deed was void as against the creditors.

Glasse, Q.C., Higgins, and Chute, for the plaintiffs.

Cotton, Q.C., and Everitt, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that upon the evidence he was satisfied that some money was advanced by the defendant to E. Bonnett upon the execution of the deed, and therefore, upon the authority of Atton v. Harrison (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 622) he must hold that the deed was valid, and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. GLOVER v. MOORE. Dec. 8.
Assignment of Proceeds of Future Sale of Commission—Subsequent Bankruptcy—Sale of Commission—Priority of Assignees—Order and Disposition—Notice.

Bill by trustees of a deed dated the 20th of August, 1866, whereby Mr. C. L. Lane, then a lieutenant in the army, at Quebec, assigned to the plaintiffs, merchants and traders at Quebec, certain specific personal chattels upon trust for all his creditors who should agree and become parties; and further, in order to secure to the said creditors the due payment of their debts, promised to "make over and secure" to the trustees "the proceeds of his commission as a lieutenant."

On the 2nd of January, 1867, notice by Mr. Lane of this assignment, addressed to Cox & Co., his army agents, was received by them. On the 8th of August, 1867, Mr. Lane was adjudicated a bankrupt. The commission was sold, and on the 15th of October, 1867, the proceeds, amounting to 570*l.*, were received by the army agents, who, on the 4th of November, paid the sum over to the defendant, the assignee in bankruptcy. On the 25th of November the plaintiffs' solicitors sent to the defendant's solicitor notice of their claim, and this bill was filed on the 29th of January, 1868, praying for a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to the 570*l.* in the hands of the defendant.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Caldecott, for the plaintiffs:—

We did all we could to perfect the assignment. This property was not in the order and disposition of the bankrupt with the consent of the true owner.

Morgan, Q.C., and Jemmett, for the defendant:—

The notice to the army agents was nothing; and if an assignment of a chose in action is not followed by notice, whether or not there be a debtor or trustee to whom notice can be given, the assignment is incomplete.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the case was clear. The only ground upon which the assignee could claim was the order and disposition clauses; but this property was not in the order and disposition of the bankrupt by the consent and permission of the true owner. There must be a declaration of the plaintiffs' right, with an order on the defendant to repay the fund, with interest at 4 per cent., and the costs of the suit.

V.-C. J. SILVER v. UDALL. Dec. 9.
Partition Suit—Partition Act, 1868—Sale.

This was a suit praying a sale under the Partition Act, 1868, of leasehold property held for short terms of years.

Plaintiff was owner of one tenth and defendant was owner of seven tenths, the persons entitled to the remaining two tenths not being known.

The defendant resisted a sale, and had refused to purchase the plaintiff's share at a valuation, as provided for by section 5 of the Partition Act, 1868.

J. H. Palmer, Q.C., and Crossley, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and W. P. Dickens, for the defendant.

W. R. Ellis (am. cur.) referred to a case of Silver v. Frost, in which the Master of the Rolls made an immediate decree for sale without waiting for the further consideration of the cause.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR intimated that, if the persons entitled to the two tenths of the property had been proved to be abroad, he should have made an immediate decree for a sale; but that, as there was no evidence to shew that they were not within the jurisdiction, all he could now do was to direct an inquiry as to who were interested in the property besides plaintiff and defendant, and in what shares, and whether they were out of jurisdiction or not. An account must be taken of what was due to plaintiff from defendant in respect of his one tenth in the property, reserving further consideration.

V.-C. J. EADE v. MORGAN. Dec. 10.
Practice—Dismissal of Bill—Subpœna to hear Judgment.

The bill in this case was filed in April, 1868, and the answer of the defendant was put in on the 31st of December, 1868. On the 18th of March, 1869, the defendant's solicitors received a letter from the plaintiff's solicitor stating that he had set down the cause on bill and answer, and would serve a subpœna to hear judgment.

Up to the present time no subpœna had been served, and on the 20th of November the plaintiff's solicitor wrote stating that it was not intended to proceed further with the cause, and that he sent this notice that the defendant might avoid any further costs by appearing on the hearing of the cause, when it would simply be struck out of the paper.

Caldecott now applied (the cause being in the paper for hearing), on behalf of the defendant, for a dismissal of the bill with costs. By setting down the cause for hearing on bill and answer, the plaintiff had prevented the defendant from moving to dismiss, and in order to obtain his costs the defendant must get them at the hearing. The case was different where replication had been filed, and no subpœna to hear judgment had been served (Order XXXIII. Rule 10).

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—You are entitled to have the bill dismissed with costs on production of an affidavit as to notice by the plaintiff to the defendant of having set down the cause on bill and answer.

V.-C. J. BAKER v. WAIT. Dec. 11.
County Courts Acts, 1865, ss. 1, 3, 9, 10, and 1867, s. 1—Transfer of Plaintiff—In what Court Proceedings to be taken.

Summons on behalf of W. Wait and Alice his wife, B. Garrard, and A. Prowse, who with J. Brooks were defendants to a plaint in equity filed in the County Court of Gloucestershire, held at Bristol, that the plaint might be transferred to the Court of Chancery. Mr. and Mrs. Wait resided at Bournemouth, Hants, Prowse resided at Plymouth, and Garrard resided at Chew Stoke, Somerset. They were the substantial defendants, the fifth defendant, Brooks, being in the plaintiff's interest. He was out of the jurisdiction, but was alleged still to have a residence at West Clifton Terrace, Bristol. The object of the plaint was to charge the separate estate of Mrs. Wait with a sum of 300*l.*, 500*l.*, or 800*l.* (the amount being in dispute), and the defendants desired to interrogate the plaintiff.

Locock Webb, for the defendants.

Ford, for the plaintiff, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the intention of the Legislature was that the County Courts should dispose of matters bonâ fide within their jurisdiction, the motive being to bring justice home to every man's door, that is to say, to the doors of defendants. Here none of the substantial defendants were in the jurisdiction, the only one residing in the County Court district being a sort of pocket defendant of the plaintiff, and in his interest. His Honour should consider any order made on this plaint to be wholly void. He would make a simple order for transfer, saying nothing about security for costs; the order to be subject to any order the Court might hereafter make as to costs.

Q. B. DAWKINS v. PAULET. Dec. 13.
Libel—Privileged Communication—Malice.

The declaration was for libel, and stated that the plaintiff was an officer in the army, and held a commission as captain in the regiment of Coldstream Guards, and that the defendant falsely and maliciously wrote and published of the plaintiff certain letters [which were the libels complained of], whereby the plaintiff lost his commission.

Plea: That the defendant was the superior military officer of the plaintiff, and the plaintiff was under his command; and it was the defendant's duty, as such superior military officer, to forward to the adjutant-general of the army certain letters written and sent to him, as such superior officer, in relation of their military conduct, duties, and qualifications, by the officers under his command, and to make, for the information of the commander-in-chief, reports in writing to the adjutant-general on the subject of such letters; and the defendant, as such superior officer, had received from the plaintiff certain letters in relation to the military duties of the plaintiff, and to certain orders received by the plaintiff as such officer, and to his conduct and competence and fitness for his duties as such officer, in which letters the plaintiff requested that the same might be forwarded by the defendant to the adjutant-general for the information of the commander-in-chief of the army; and thereupon the defendant, in the ordinary course of his military duty as such superior officer, and because it became and was necessary and incumbent upon him, by his duty to Her Majesty as such superior officer, so to do, and as an act of military duty, and not otherwise, forwarded the letters to the adjutant-general; and for the information of the commander-in-chief, when forwarding such letters, made certain reports in writing in relation to the letters of the plaintiff, which are the letters of the defendant, and the writings and publications complained of.

Replication: That the words in the declaration mentioned were written and published by the defendant of actual malice on his (the defendant's) part, and without any reasonable, probable, or justifiable cause, and not bonâ fide, or in the bonâ fide discharge of the defendant's duty as such superior officer, as in the plea alleged.

Demurrer, on the ground that no action is maintainable against the defendant in respect of words written and published under the circumstances alleged in the plea, even though they were written and published maliciously, and without reasonable or probable cause.

Sir R. P. Collier (A. G.) (Dowles v. H., Q.C., and Archibald with him), in support of the demurrer.

A. S. Hill, Q.C. (Holl with him), contra.

COCKBURN, C.J., held that the replication was good, and an answer to the plea.

P. & M. KELLY v. KELLY. Dec. 7.
Judicial Separation—Cruelty—Undue Exercise of Marital Authority.

This was a suit for judicial separation instituted by the wife by reason of the cruelty of her husband. He filed an answer denying cruelty, and alleging that what he had done to her was in the legitimate assertion of his marital rights. The petition occupied the attention of the Court for six days in November.

Dr. Deane, Q.C., and Inderwick, for the petitioner.

Mr. Kelly conducted his own defence.

Dec. 7. THE JUDGE ORDINARY:—The peculiar feature of this case is the adoption by the respondent of a deliberate system of conduct towards his wife with the view of bending her to his authority. A man who sets about to achieve this end by purposely rendering a woman's daily life unhappy is in danger of overstepping his rights, as he is pretty sure to fall short of his duties. The respondent in this case has, in my judgment, done both. Without disparaging the just and paramount authority of a husband, it may be safely asserted that a wife is not a domestic slave, to be driven, at all cost short of personal violence, into compliance with her husband's demands; and if force, whether physical or moral, is systematically exerted for this purpose in such a manner, to such a degree, and during such length of time as to break down her health and render a serious malady imminent, the interference of the law cannot be justly withheld. In cases of this kind everything depends on degree. Acts venial, even justifiable in themselves, may become reprehensible if they form part of a system, and are continuously and purposely repeated. If, upon a general review, this Court is of opinion that cohabitation could not be resumed with safety to the wife, it is bound by the dictates of common sense, as well as upon principles repeatedly avowed and acted upon, to step in and forbid its resumption. The decisions of my predecessors have, however, imported a further proposition as a condition of the Court's interference:

namely, that the troubles of the wife are not owing to her own misconduct. In that I entirely concur. There is little variance about the leading facts in this case. Mrs. Kelly, being anxious to ascertain her rights and those of her son in reference to a legacy which had been left to her, entered into a correspondence with her brother-in-law, which fell into the hands of the respondent, and was the cause, directly or indirectly, of the troubles which followed. The respondent took up the idea, which he afterwards allowed to fill his whole mind, that his wife was plotting and conspiring against him. He thereupon commenced to open her letters, used violent language to her, refused to occupy the same bedroom, or to permit the servants to obey her orders. Her health having given way under this treatment, she left his house without his sanction, and stayed with her friends for some months. On her return she was entirely deposed from her position as mistress of the house; she was debarred the use of money even for her own necessary and personal expenses. An interdict was placed upon her going into the town at her will. Sometimes the house-door was kept locked, or she was followed by a servant or accompanied by the respondent. On these occasions he appears to have occupied the short time they were together in what he called putting her sin before her in strong, coarse, abusive terms. He took no meals with her, or passed the smallest portion of the day in her society. She saw no one, and was prohibited writing letters unless her husband saw them before they were posted. Under these circumstances her health gave way again, and her nervous system was so shattered that the medical witnesses declared paralysis or even madness to be imminent. The husband does not deny these facts; but he suggests that the miserable condition of his wife was brought about not by his treatment, but by vexation at the discovery of her own treachery. It appears to me that Mr. Kelly had suffered his mind to become filled and mastered by notions utterly extravagant, both as to the authority of a husband and the legitimate means of enforcing it. He asserts that he is within the law if he, refraining from physical violence, puts such a pressure upon his wife as shall force her to obey him; but such pressure must be reasonable; and, although insufficient for its purpose, the law can sanction no more. It cannot recognise in its failure a justification for a system of treatment which places the wife's health in jeopardy, and sets at nought, not only the husband's obligations in matrimony, but the very ends of matrimony itself, by rendering impossible the offices of domestic intercourse and the mutual duties of married life. The cruelty of the husband is established, and the Court decrees a judicial separation with costs.

P. & M. PARKINSON v. PARKINSON. Dec. 7.
Suit for Dissolution of Marriage—Desertion and Adultery—Desertion not Proved—Subsequent Amendment of Petition—Charge of Cruelty added—Practice.

This was a petition by the wife for a dissolution of her marriage by reason of her husband's adultery and desertion. At the hearing the adultery was proved, but not the desertion, and the further hearing was adjourned for the petitioner to consider whether she would ask for a judicial separation. Affidavits were now filed to prove that in September last the petitioner was, for the first time, informed that a complaint from which she had suffered for the greater portion of her married life, and from which she still suffers, is syphilis, and that she was ignorant that the wilful communication of such a complaint by her husband is legal cruelty, until November last, when, being in Court awaiting a decision in her own case, she heard it so laid down in another one. On the following day she mentioned the facts to her solicitor.

Dr. Swibey moved the Court to allow her to amend her petition by adding a charge of cruelty.

THE COURT granted the motion.

L. C. PEARCE v. MORRIS. Dec. 16.
Mortgagee—Payment—Reconveyance.

The plaintiff in this case had contracted to purchase part of an estate, and tendered to the defendant, a mortgagee over the whole, his debt, interest, and costs, which the defendant accepted. The plaintiff then applied for a transfer of the estate, which the defendant refused to make without the concurrence of the other mortgagors, and the plaintiff filed the bill in this suit to compel a conveyance. The plaintiff did not finally accept the title or obtain a conveyance of his purchase until after the bill was filed. The Master of the Rolls made a decree for a conveyance by the defendant, and ordered him to pay the costs of the suit (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 217). The defendant appealed.

Jessel, Q.C., and Nalder, for the appellant. Southgate, Q.C., and Villiers, for the plaintiff.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiff had been premature in filing his bill before he had obtained his conveyance, but that he was now entitled to have the estate transferred by the mortgagee; he must, however, pay the costs of the suit. Solicitors: Gurney & Son; Coverdale & Co.

L. C. In re CONTRACT CORPORATION. Dec. 17.
Ex parte EBBW VALE COMPANY.
Winding-up—Proof—Interest.

The Ebbw Vale Company proved, under the winding-up of the Contract Corporation, for a debt due to them, and an order was made on the 26th of April, 1869, allowing the claim of the company for the principal, together with interest to the date of the order, amounting altogether to 7950l.

In June, 1869, the Warrant Finance Company's Case (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 643) was decided, in which it was laid down that creditors could not prove for interest against an insolvent company beyond the date of the commencement of the winding-up. It being intended to make a call on the shareholders, a certificate was prepared under the order, declaring the company entitled to 7950l.; but in consequence of the decision above referred to, the official liquidator objected to the company being declared entitled to any interest later than the commencement of the winding-up.

The Master of the Rolls held that the order of the 26th of April, 1869, was binding until it was reversed.

Chitty now applied to the Court for leave to appeal from that order, the time limited by the Act being now expired.

Jessel, Q.C., and Huish, opposed the application.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR said that the subsequent decision of the Warrant Finance Company's Case was a sufficient reason for giving leave to appeal; and on the counsel for the respondents not insisting on an appeal being actually presented, His Lordship made an order discharging the order of the 26th of April, 1869.

L. J. GIFFARD. Dec. 17.
In re NATIONAL PERMANENT BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.
Ex parte WILLIAMSON.
Winding-up Petition—Debt of petitioning Creditor—Benefit Building Society—Power to borrow Money.

This was an appeal from an order made by the Master of the Rolls in July, 1867, to wind up the above society. The petitioning creditor was the official liquidator of the National Savings Bank Association, which had advanced money to the amount of about 1300*l.* to the society. The society had no power to borrow money, and it was therefore contended that the petitioning creditor had no legal debt to support the petition. On the other hand, the petitioner contended that the shareholders of the society had had the benefit of the money, and could not be heard to dispute the legality of the debt. The appeal was made by special leave of the Lord Justice.

Roazburgh, Q. C., and Cottrell, for the shareholders, who appealed.
Sir R. Baggallay, Q. C., and Higgins, for the petitioner.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that this case did not come under the class of cases in which money had been advanced to pay a debt of the company, and the persons advancing the money had been allowed to stand in the place of the creditor. Here the petitioner had no legal or equitable debt, and the petition must be dismissed.

M. R. In re COUNTY LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY. Dec. 10.
Company—Winding-up—Creditor—Directors—Irregular Election.

The memorandum and articles of association of the County Life Assurance Company were registered in January, 1863. By the articles it was provided that five persons, named Ambler, Munro, Bassett, Bolton, and Prowett, should be the first directors of the company, three to be a quorum; that they should allot the shares, procure a common seal to be made, and conduct the business of the company until a general meeting was held.

Prowett refused to act as a director; and thereupon in June, 1863, three of the other directors met and resolved that no shares should be allotted, and that the business of the company should not be carried on. Notwithstanding this resolution, the promoter of the company and other persons acting with him proceeded to allot shares; and the shareholders elected new directors, who caused a common seal to be made, and commenced business in January, 1864. They carried on the business for some time, and then transferred it to another company. In 1867 Ambler, Munro, and Bassett obtained an order for the compulsory winding-up of the company, on the ground that it had never carried on business. Under this winding-up the Briton Assurance Company carried in a claim on a policy purporting to be sealed with the seal of the company; and the question now was whether the claim was valid.

Southgate, Q. C., and F. Webb, for the claimants.
Sir R. Palmer, Q. C., Jessel, Q. C., and Ince, for the official liquidator, contended that the company never carried on business after June, 1863, that the shareholders and directors were improperly elected, and that the use of the company's seal was, in fact, a forgery.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the claimants were not affected by any irregularity in the election of the shareholders or directors, and allowed the claim.

M. R. KERSHAW v. KERSHAW. Dec. 10.
Vendor and Purchaser—Interest—Appropriation of Purchase-money.

This was a summons calling on the purchaser of certain real estate, part of the estate of the testator in the cause, to pay interest on his purchase-money at 5 per cent. The contract for sale contained the following clause: "Amount of purchase-money 38,500*l.* Purchase to take effect from the 30th of June, 1868, and interest at 5 per cent. to time of payment, and timely notice to be given as to requirement of the purchase-money." The purchaser was let into possession on the 30th of June, 1868. Difficulties afterwards arose in making out a title, and on the 12th of November the purchaser gave notice to the vendors that he had appropriated for the purposes of his purchase, and transferred to a separate account at a bank, the sum of 38,000*l.*, and that he would not pay any further interest. Next day the vendor's solicitors replied: "We beg to acknowledge the receipt of a notice from you in this matter, dated the 12th instant, the sufficiency of which we deny." In September, 1869, the purchaser discovered that he ought to have paid in 38,500*l.*, and he thereupon paid into the bank 500*l.*, together with interest thereon at 5 per cent.

Hamilton Humphreys (Southgate, Q. C., with him), in support of the summons.

Jessel, Q. C., and Ince, for the purchaser, were not called on. THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the purchaser must pay interest at 5 per cent. on his purchase-money up to the 12th of November, 1868, but not afterwards.

M. R. In re PATENT PAPER MANUFACTURING COMPANY. Dec. 11.
ADDISON'S CASE.
Company—Contributory—Conditional Allotment of Shares—Ultra vires.

This was a summons by Joseph Addison, seeking to have his name removed from the list of contributories of the above-named company, which was being wound up under the supervision of the Court.

The company was registered in 1856. In February, 1858, the board of directors passed a resolution authorizing the directors to negotiate with parties "for the investment of capital in the shares of the company, on condition of such shares being cancelled, and the amounts so invested therein being returned to the parties on their giving notice of their requiring the same to be done, one calendar month previous to the 31st of December, 1859."

On the faith of this resolution Mr. Addison applied for and accepted 100 shares in the company, and paid 500*l.* thereon, and was duly registered as the holder thereof. He afterwards gave notice that he required the shares to be cancelled, and accordingly the directors repaid him his 500*l.*; and he, in January, 1860, executed a transfer of the shares to a nominee of the directors for and on behalf of the company, and his name was removed from the register, and did not appear in any return of shareholders subsequently to 1859.

The articles of association of the company did not authorize investments of the company's funds in the purchase of its own shares. The winding-up commenced in 1869.

Swanston, Q. C., and Higgins, for Addison.
Jessel, Q. C., and H. M. Jackson, for the liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the directors had no power to annex to the allotment of the shares to Mr. Addison a condition that these shares should be cancelled upon notice given by him; and consequently that Addison must remain on the list of contributories.

M. R. In re HEYFORD COMPANY. Dec. 20.
FORBES AND JUDD'S CASE.
Winding-up—Contributory—Signing Memorandum—Vendor's Shares.

The company was formed in 1865. The memorandum was signed by George Pell for 1350 shares, and by three persons named Isaac, Forbes, and Judd, for fifty shares each. The articles of association embodied and ratified a contract by the company with Pell, for the sale by him to the company of a certain mine in consideration of (amongst other things) the issue to him or his nominees of 1500 fully paid-up shares of 20*l.* each.

Upon the company being wound up, the Master of the Rolls held that Pell must be placed on the list of contributories for 1350 shares, but was entitled to be allowed the value of any property handed over by him to the company (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 222). On appeal, Pell's name was removed from the list of contributories (ante, p. 220). Forbes and Judd now applied to have their names removed from the list on the ground that they and Isaac had signed the memorandum on the footing of an agreement with Pell, to which the company was privy, that the shares in respect of which they signed the memorandum should be allotted to them out of those to be issued to Pell, in accordance with the agreement embodied in the articles of association.

Westlake, for the applicants.

Roxburgh, Q.C., for the official liquidator.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS dismissed the summons with costs, on the ground that this case could not be distinguished from Migotti's Case (Law Rep. 4 Eq. 238); adding that the subject was of such importance, and the decisions so unsatisfactory, that it was his wish that this case, if appealed, should be brought under the notice of the Lord Chancellor.

V.-C. M. DUGDALE v. DUGDALE. Dec. 11.
Administration of Assets—Marshalling—Pecuniary Legatee and Residuary Devisee.

This was a suit for the administration of the estate of a testator, who by his will gave his wife a legacy of 500*l.*, and gave all his real estate to trustees upon trust, as to a moiety, for his wife during her widowhood, and subject thereto to his children. The personal estate being insufficient to pay the debts, it was proposed to insert in the decree, in accordance with Hensman v. Fryer (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 420), a declaration that the deficiency ought to be paid out of the legacy of 500*l.* and the real estates rateably.

Pearson, Q.C., and Bedwell, for the plaintiffs, the testator's children.

Ford, for the widow and the executors.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the decision in Hensman v. Fryer, upon the question of marshalling, appeared to be founded upon a misapprehension of the decision in Tombs v. Roche (2 Coll. 490), and he could not allow the proposed declaration to be inserted in the decree; but he did not intend now to decide the question, and it might be raised upon the hearing for further consideration.

V. C. M. PRICE v. HUTCHISON. Dec. 16.
Committal for Contempt—Violence towards the Person serving Process—Cons. Ord. XLII, Rule 2.

Glasse, Q.C., and Chitty, moved under Cons. Ord. XLII, Rule 2, that Wm. Hutchison and Middleton Cowart might be committed for contempt of Court in using violent and abusive language to a person serving the process of the Court.

It was stated in the affidavit of G. L. Vanderpump, clerk to the plaintiff's solicitors, that he had been sent by his employers to the office of Wm. Hutchison to serve him with an order for an injunction granted by the Vice-Chancellor. The witness was desired by Mr. Hutchison to take the order to his solicitors, which he refused to do, the order requiring personal service. Wm. Hutchison then refused to allow Vanderpump to leave the room unless the papers were taken away, and he called in from an adjoining room M. Cowart, and both of them used violent language and threats, and kept the door fastened for twenty minutes in order to compel Vanderpump to carry off the papers. Eventually Vanderpump, by calling at the door and window, procured the assistance of two policemen, who prevented his further detention.

Jones Bateman opposed the motion, and read an affidavit by Hutchison and Cowart, in which, although they admitted the forcible detention, they denied any violence.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the evidence of Mr. Vanderpump had been corroborated, and that the conduct of Hutchison and Cowart had been of so disgraceful a character that he should order them both to be committed for contempt of Court.

V.-C. M. Dec. 18.
In re GENERAL COMPANY FOR THE PROMOTION OF LAND CREDIT.
Company—Winding-up—Foreign Company registered under Companies Act, 1862—Jurisdiction—Discretion.

These were two petitions by creditors for the winding-up of the above-named company.

The company was registered as a limited company under the Companies Act, 1862, with a registered office in London, but the subscribers to the memorandum of association and all the registered shareholders and the directors were foreigners, living out of England, and the whole of the business of the company was transacted out of England, and it had no assets in England. The company had ceased to carry on business for more than a year, and was insolvent.

Glasse, Q.C., and Waller, and Fry, Q.C., and C. J. Hill, for the petitioners, contended that, as the company was registered under the Act, and had a registered office in England, the Court had jurisdiction over it, and that it was bound ex debito justitiae to make the order.

Bond Coxe, for a creditor, and Locock Webb, for the company, supported the petitions.

Cotton, Q.C., and Kekewich, for a holder of paid-up shares, contended that, as the company was essentially a foreign company, it was not within the jurisdiction of the Court; or that, if the Court had jurisdiction, it would, in the exercise of its discretion, refuse to make a winding-up order, and would leave the parties to seek a remedy in the foreign Courts.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that this was essentially a foreign company, and it could not have been the intention of the Act that such a company should be registered under it. But, even if the Court had jurisdiction to make a winding-up order, it had a discretionary power of refusing to do so where it was satisfied that it would do more harm than good by making the order; and as in the case of a foreign company it would, in His Honour's opinion, be impossible to give any practical effect to a winding-up order, he must dismiss the petitions.

V.-C. M. BOWYER v. GRIFFIN. Dec. 20.
Practice—Costs—Bankrupt defaulting Trustee.

This was a suit to recover a trust fund from a defaulting trustee. Five days before the bill was filed, the defendant executed a creditors' deed under the Bankruptcy Act, 1861.

A petition was now presented by the cestuis que trust for the appointment of a new trustee in the place of the defendant, who was willing to retire, and for the stay of proceedings. The only question was whether the bankrupt trustee was entitled to his costs of the suit.

Batten, for the bankrupt trustee, contended that, as all his costs had been incurred since his bankruptcy, he was entitled to them.

A. Smith, for the petitioners, and Glasse, Q.C., and Cracknell, for the plaintiff, a co-trustee, who had replaced the trust fund, contended that, though a defaulting executor was entitled to his costs after bankruptcy, the same rule did not apply to a defaulting trustee.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there was no distinction between a trustee and an executor in this respect, and that, as the trustee upon his bankruptcy ceased to be an accounting party, he was entitled to his costs.

V.-C. M. In re BRADFORD NAVIGATION COMPANY. Dec. 20.

Company—Winding-up Petition—Respondent neither Creditor nor Contributory—Right to be heard.

This was a petition by a canal company, incorporated by Act of Parliament, for the winding-up of the company, on the ground that, in consequence of an injunction restraining them from obtaining a supply of water, they had been prevented from keeping their canal open for nearly three years.

The petition was opposed by the Town Council of Bradford, in which town part of the canal was situated, and by the Aire and Calder Canal Company, whose canal communicated with the Leeds and Liverpool canal, which communicated with the petitioners' canal.

Pearson, Q.C., and Hastings, for the petitioners, contended that the respondents, being neither creditors nor contributories, had no right to be heard.

Glasse, Q.C., and Streeten, and Cole, Q.C., and Freeling, for the respondents, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that each case must depend on its own circumstances. In this case there were no creditors, and if the respondents were not heard there would be nobody to oppose the petition. The respondents were interested in the matter; and, although they were neither creditors nor contributories, he thought they were entitled to be heard.

The petition was ultimately ordered to stand over, with a view to an arrangement.

V.-C. M. In re TIMES LIFE ASSURANCE AND GUARANTEE COMPANY. Dec. 20.

Company—Creditors' Petition to Wind up—Tender of Debt and Costs—Right to withdraw Petition—Provisional Liquidator—Costs.

This was a petition by the holder of an overdue policy for 100*l.* in the above-named company, which was in 1857 amalgamated with the Albert Assurance Company, for the winding-up of the company. The petition was by the direction of the Court served upon H. B. Sheridan, who had been the managing director of the company, and a provisional liquidator had been appointed. After the petition had been advertised and served, Sheridan, through his solicitors, tendered to the petitioner the amount of her debt, and offered to pay her costs up to that time; but she declined to withdraw the petition until the day appointed for the hearing. The petition now came on to be heard, and the only question was whether the costs of the petitioner and the provisional liquidator, subsequent to the tender of the debt and costs, should be paid by the company.

Glasse, Q.C., and Solomon, for the petitioner, contended that she had no right to withdraw the petition before the hearing, as other persons might appear and be entitled to costs.

Cole, Q.C., and Lindley, for the provisional liquidator.

Speed, for creditors.

Rozburgh, Q.C., and Higgins, for the company and Sheridan, contended that the petition ought to have been withdrawn upon the tender of the debt and costs.

Pearson, Q.C., for the liquidators of the Albert Company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he should not allow the petitioner any costs incurred after the tender had been made. The provisional liquidator would be allowed the costs of appearance by one counsel, but no costs of a brief of the petition or affidavits.

BRIDGER'S CASE.

Company—Contributory—Agreement to take Shares—Collateral Agreement to set off Calls against Commission.

This was an application by the official liquidator of the above-named company to put William Bridger on the list of contributories for 100 shares. Bridger, who was the agent of the company at Southampton, had signed and sent in an application for 100 shares in the regular form, and the shares had been allotted to him, and notice of the allotment had been given to him. But according to his own statement and the evidence of the manager of the company, he took the shares for the purpose of inducing other residents at Southampton to take shares, and upon an agreement that he should not be called upon to pay anything in respect of the shares, but that the deposit and allotment moneys and calls should be paid out of his commission as agent. He had never paid anything in respect of the shares, but had, at the request of the manager, signed a proxy paper, accompanied by a letter stipulating that it should not cancel the agreement that he should not pay for the shares.

Cotton, Q.C., and Higgins, for the official liquidator, contended that Bridger had agreed to become a shareholder, and that the collateral agreement did not relieve him from his liability.

Glasse, Q.C., and Alexander, for Bridger, contended that the agreement to take shares was conditional on the shares being paid for out of commission.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there was an absolute agreement by Bridger to take the shares, and that he could not get rid of his shares by reason of the collateral agreement; moreover, the fact of his having agreed to become a nominal shareholder for the purpose of inducing other persons to take shares, deprived him of the right of denying that he was the real holder of the shares. He must, therefore, be put on the list of contributories, and pay the costs occasioned by the application being adjourned into Court.

V.-C. J. In re IMPERIAL GUARDIAN LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY. Nov. 20.

Company—Winding-up Petition—Action pending in respect of Petitioner's Debt—Costs.

Petition by an alleged creditor for a compulsory winding-up of the company, already in voluntary liquidation.

The alleged debt was now the subject of an action at law which had been commenced before the resolution for voluntary winding-up was passed. The petition having been presented on the 28th of September, it appeared that in November there had been an offer on the part of the liquidators to undertake to pay the debt, and to indemnify the petitioner in costs.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Hemming, for the petitioner.

Kay, Q.C., and Higgins, for the company.

Amphlett in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the petitioner must satisfy him that the defence at law was a sham defence. A winding-up order was not to be used as machinery for trying a common law action. The petition must stand over till the action had been tried; the liquidators continuing their undertaking to be personally answerable. The order would be that the petition stand over in all respects, except that the petitioner must pay all costs incurred subsequently to the offer. His Honour added that, if he could, he meant to prevent these petitions being the means of creating unnecessary costs.

V.-C. J. TRAPPEE v. MEREDITH. Dec. 9.

Bankruptcy—Annulment of Adjudication—Forfeiture.

Mrs. Graham having a power of appointment over certain property, subject to the life interest therein of her mother, Mrs. Payne, by her will dated the 16th of February, 1863, directed the trustees to pay to her husband, out of the income of the trust property, and, if insufficient, out of the capital, an annuity of 100*l.* (increased by a codicil to 150*l.*) during his life; but if he should become bankrupt, or should assign, charge, or incur, or suffer any act whereby the same or any part thereof would, if belonging absolutely to him, become vested in any other person or persons, then and in such case the said annuity should not be payable, or should cease to be payable, as the case might require, in the same manner as if her said husband were dead.

Mrs. Graham died in June, 1864. In January, 1868, Mr. Graham was adjudicated bankrupt on his own petition.

On the 4th of April, 1868, Mrs. Payne, the tenant for life of the trust property, died, and on the 21st of July, 1868, upon the petition of Graham, with the consent of his creditors, an order was made by the Court of Bankruptcy annulling his adjudication as bankrupt.

The question was whether Graham was entitled to the annuity, or whether the clause of forfeiture took effect by reason of his being bankrupt at the death of the tenant for life.

Willcock, Q.C., and W. H. Townsend, for the plaintiffs.

Bristowe, Q.C., and C. C. Barber, for the trustees.

Kay, Q.C., and Bradford, for Graham, contended that he was entitled to the annuity, the bankruptcy having been annulled before the first payment of the annuity became due.

De Gez, Q.C., and C. Pontifax, for parties interested in remainder, contended that the annulment of the adjudication did not operate retrospectively, and that, as Graham was a bankrupt at the time when his title accrued (the death of the tenant for life), the annuity was forfeited.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the general intention of gifts of this kind was personal enjoyment by the legatee, and if that personal enjoyment became defeated by the bankruptcy, or any act on the part of the legatee, then the clause of forfeiture took effect. On the 4th of April, 1868, when the tenant for life died, Graham was a bankrupt, and if that state of things had continued the annuity would have been forfeited. But in July following he got rid of the adjudication, so that before the annuity first became actually payable, in April, 1869, he had ceased to be a bankrupt; the result being that, before the forfeiture could arise, the cause for forfeiture was gone. The annuity, therefore, was not forfeited.

V.-C. J. JABROLD v. HEYWOOD. Dec. 14.

Copyright—Common Sources.

Bill to restrain an infringement by defendant, a bookseller at Manchester, and owner of the copyright in "The Class Book of Modern Science," of the plaintiff's copyright in Dr. Brewer's "Guide to Science."

Plaintiff's work, which was first published in 1848, and has reached twenty-five editions, is written in the form of question and answer, and professes to deal with familiar facts, and to explain the ordinary phenomena of life in simple language.

Defendant's work, "The Class Book of Modern Science," first published in March, 1868, and also in the form of question and answer, was written by two brothers (schoolmasters) as a school treatise on modern science. Messrs. Bullock, the authors, denied having in any way copied or imitated the plaintiff's book. They admitted having read and examined it, and stated that the assistance derived from it was confined to the suggestion of points to be considered, the result being to lead them to independent investigation and experiment on the points so suggested. A long list of scientific and other works, alleged to have been used in the compilation of defendant's work, was produced in Court, and the history of almost every question and answer was thus traced out.

Plaintiff, on the other hand, insisted that the treatment of the subjects was so identically similar, with merely colourable variations of language, that this resemblance was beyond the range of accident and independent reading and thought.

Kay, Q.C., and Westlake, for the plaintiff.

Fry, Q.C., and F. C. J. Millar, for the defendant.

Dec. 14. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he had to determine the question of literary piracy as a question of fact, as if he were a jury; and the direction to a jury in such a case would be: "Take the two books into your hand, weigh all the facts and circumstances connected with the defendant's work, and then ask yourselves the question, Is any material and substantial part of the defendant's work a transcript of the plaintiff's work, with colourable additions and colourable variations; and without any honest and real literary labour bestowed by the defendant in the composition of it as original literary work? If so, it is piracy." Applying those tests, he was of opinion that the plaintiff had failed to prove that the defendant had been guilty of the literary larceny with which he had been charged, and the bill must be dismissed with costs.

V.-C. J. ELMSLIE v. BOURSIER. Dec. 15.

Letters Patent—Sale of Foreign Product of the patented Process restrained.

Bill to restrain the defendants Boursier and Irlanda, during the continuance of letters patent, dated the 23rd of March, 1859, from importing into or selling in England any tinfoil made in any foreign country according to the invention. The patent, which was for improvements in apparatus for the manufacture of sheet tin, was obtained by J. H. Johnson, as an agent for Jean B. F. Masson, of Paris, who had patented the invention in France; and by a French agreement, dated in 1865, Masson agreed to sell to Boursier his French patents, the agreement containing a clause permitting Boursier to work (prendre a son profit) the patent in all other countries as well as France, "England only excepted." Plaintiffs, who were assignees of Masson & Johnson, had discovered that Irlanda, as Boursier's agent, was selling in England tinfoil made in France according to the patented process.

The validity of the English patent had been admitted in the suit.

Grove, Q.C., and W. N. Lawson, for the plaintiffs.

Willcock, Q.C., and Locock Webb, for the defendants, admitted that, if the goods had been made in England according to the patented process, they must submit; but said this was not a patent for a product, but only for a process, and the plaintiffs could not restrain the sale in England of the product, though they might its manufacture.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, as it had been conceded that nobody in England can use the plaintiffs' process of making cast tinfoil instead of rolled tinfoil, it would be a very strange thing if anybody could send to France, get the article from thence, and sell it here in competition with the patentee. That would be a short mode of destroying the very benefit sought to be secured by the letters patent. Very probably the product of one process could be distinguished from the product of the other; if not, it might be difficult for the plaintiffs to stop the sale: but they were entitled to an injunction, an account, damages, and costs.

FREEMAN v. POPE.

Dec. 17.

Voluntary Settlement—13 Eliz. c. 5.

Bill by a subsequent creditor to set aside a voluntary settlement of a policy of assurance by a clergyman who was indebted at the time; had no property but his living, worth 815*l.* a year, and an annuity of 180*l.*; and had given a bill of sale over his furniture to secure an advance of 350*l.*, which was employed in paying off his unsecured creditors.

The policy of assurance (for 1000*l.*) was, by deed dated the 3rd of March, 1863, settled by the Rev. John Custance upon his god-daughter, Mrs. Pope, in return for her kindness and attention. At this time the settlor was indebted to his bankers in the sum of 489*l.*, and to other creditors, who were paid off by means of the money borrowed, upon security of the bill of sale, from his housekeeper, mother of Mrs. Pope. An arrangement was made with the bankers, by which 100*l.* a year was paid to them in liquidation of their debt, but 110*l.* remained due to them on the death of the settlor in March, 1868. His living was, subsequently to the execution of the voluntary settlement, put under sequestration, and he died indebted to the petitioner, a grocer, in the sum of 63*l.* There being no assets, the bill was filed to set aside the voluntary settlement, and render the proceeds of the policy available for creditors of the estate.

It appeared that some years previously Mr. Custance had settled the policy upon Mrs. Pope, but revoked such settlement in order to receive a bonus upon the policy.

Kay, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiff.

H. Fellows, for the administrator, supported the plaintiff's case.

Morgan, Q.C., and H. A. Gifford, for the defence.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was satisfied that the settlor had no intention whatever of defeating or delaying his creditors. But he was bound by the authorities—Jenkyn v. Vaughan (3 Drew. 419) and Spirett v. Willows (3 D. J. & S. 295)—the effect of which was, that a subsequent creditor had the same right to file a bill for the purpose of setting aside the deed as the prior creditors had. The suit was to be regarded, therefore, as if it had been the suit of the bankers, who were creditors prior to the deed; and according to Spirett v. Willows, if the remedy of the creditor was defeated or delayed by the existence of the settlement, it was immaterial whether the settlor was solvent at the time, or had any intention or not of defeating his creditors. He was bound by the decisions, and must set aside the voluntary settlement.

Dec. 20. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR mentioned the case again, and directed an inquiry whether any and which of the creditors of the settlor had assented to or acquiesced in the voluntary deed.

GRANT AND GRANT v. GRANT.

Dec. 14.

Appointment of Executor—My Nephew A. B.—Wife's Nephew of that Name resident with Testator—Brother's Son—Parol Evidence.

The testator, in February, 1868, executed a will in which he appointed his nephew Joseph Grant executor.

The question for the determination of the Court was whether one of the plaintiffs, Joseph Grant, the nephew of the testator's wife, or the defendant, Joseph Grant, his brother's son, was entitled to probate.

Field, Q.C., and Dr. Middleton, for the plaintiffs.

Dr. Swayne and Chapman, for the defendant.

Dec. 14. LORD PENZANCE:—The facts to be found in the affidavits filed in this case make the testator's real meaning abundantly clear. The question is how far, and to what extent, these facts can be properly used by the Court to aid in construing the will. It appears that, at the date of the will, there was living a son of the testator's brother, whose name was Joseph Grant, and also another Joseph Grant, who was the nephew of the testator's wife, and consequently, in ordinary parlance, a nephew of the testator. If the word "nephew" can be properly construed by the Court to include the wife's nephew, so that there are two persons to either of whom the words of description might be applied, it is not denied that some further parol evidence will be admissible to ascertain which of the two the testator meant, and, if such an inquiry be entered upon, the facts will show that the testator intended his wife's nephew, who lived with him, and not his own nephew, with whom he had no intimacy. It is said that the Court is bound by the primary signification of words used in a will, unless such signification would produce an absurdity or render the meaning insensible. But what is meant by the expression primary signification? It will not do to carry it too far. When a man makes his will, it is fair to presume that he uses ordinary language in its ordinary sense; and if the original signification of a word is scrupulously followed in all cases to the exclusion of that which, by the common consent and use of mankind, it has in process of time acquired, the Court would be carried in some cases a long way from the testator's intention in the endeavour strictly to follow it. Furthermore, the use and custom of particular countries and places affix to certain words and terms particular meanings. Evidence of such meanings has always been permitted in the construction of written contracts, and why not in that of a will? And if the popular use of a word in a particular locality may be proved and accepted, why is the popular use of a word all over the country to be rejected? Another thing is to be considered when the Court is dealing with a personal description. It may be that the testator has been in the habit of applying a particular designation to an individual, as indeed, if the evidence can be referred to, the testator in this case did. If this designation then, so used, is not at variance with its ordinary and popular meaning, it seems unreasonable to reject it wholly in favour of some primary meaning which excludes that individual. It may be that the word "nephew," when used as the sole description of a class, must be construed to include only the sons of brothers or sisters; but that does not preclude a wider signification being attached to the word when used as an additional description of a person specified by name, to whom the word is in an ordinary and popular sense applicable. I am of opinion that so much of the evidence as shews the relation and circumstances in which the respective parties stood to the testator, and the sense in which he habitually used the word "nephew" when referring to Joseph Grant, his wife's nephew, is admissible; and acting on that evidence, I decree probate to Joseph Grant, the nephew of the testator's wife.

L. C.	SIMPSON v. BATHURST.	Dec. 17.
	SHEPHERD v. BATHURST.
	Power of Leasing—Right to take Fines—Rents and Profits—Effect of Bankruptcy on Power.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor James. By a voluntary settlement dated the 7th of August, 1834, the plaintiff in the original suit, V. B. Simpson, conveyed certain freehold houses to a trustee in trust to pay the rents, issues, and profits to his wife, Catherine D. Simpson, for her separate use during their joint lives, and after the decease of either, to the survivor during his or her life, and after the decease of the survivor, upon certain trusts for the benefit of the children. And the settlement contained a power to the plaintiff during his life, and after his decease, to his wife during her life, and after the decease of the survivor, to the trustee, to demise any of the premises comprised in the settlement for ninety-nine years, determinable on one, two, or three lives, and to take any fine or money for granting such lease, so as there should not be reserved on any such lease less yearly rent than has been theretofore usually reserved. Provided always, that the trustee should stand possessed of any fine or money to be taken by him for such lease in trust for the child or children who should be entitled to the freehold of the said premises.

On several occasions the plaintiff granted leases for lives, and took fines on the renewals; but in 1847 he ceased to reside with his wife, and after that time he charged the trustee with disputing his right to take the fines for his own use, and with preventing the tenants from taking renewed leases from him. He accordingly filed the present bill, praying a declaration that he was entitled to grant leases and take the fines on renewals for his own use, and that the trustee might be removed. After the filing of the bill the plaintiff became bankrupt, and his assignee, Shepherd, was made plaintiff by supplemental order. The Vice-Chancellor, in consequence of the bankruptcy, declined to make any order as to the plaintiff's right to grant leases, and dismissed the rest of the bill with costs.

Morgan, Q.C., and Montague Cookson, for the plaintiffs, who appealed.

Kay, Q.C., Willcock, Q.C., Jolliffe, and W. Pearson, for the defendants.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiff Simpson was entitled to a declaration as to his right to grant leases and take the fines notwithstanding his bankruptcy, inasmuch as his power to grant leases remained in him subject to the rights of the assignee; and on the construction of the deed His Lordship was of opinion that the fines were not included in the rents and profits payable to the wife, and that the plaintiff Simpson was entitled to take them for his own use.

L. C.	COOPER v. COOPER.	Dec. 22.
	Power—Fraudulent Appointment—Benefit to Appointor.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor James (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 312).

The question in the suit related to two appointments by Mr.

Daniell on the marriage of his daughters, Mrs. England and Mrs. Trevanion, which the plaintiff, who was Mrs. Trevanion's husband by a second marriage, impeached as frauds upon the power on the ground that they were based on a corrupt bargain between Mr. Daniell and his daughters to reserve a benefit to himself.

The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that there was no corrupt bargain, and dismissed the bill.

Jessel, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and W. C. Druce, for the plaintiff, who appealed.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., Eddis, Q.C., Hemming, Fischer, H. Humphreys, Robinson, and Deverell, for the defendants.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR agreed with the Vice-Chancellor that there was no bargain by which the England appointment could be vitiated, and that, under the circumstances, the plaintiff was not entitled to file a bill to impeach the Trevanion appointment, and dismissed the appeal.

L. J. GIFFARD. LEE v. HALBY. Dec. 18.
Colourable Imitation of Style of Firm—Injunction—Delay—Misconduct of Plaintiffs.

This was a motion by way of appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Malins (ante, p. 258).

The defendant set up the case that the plaintiffs had systematically deceived the public by habitually and intentionally selling short weight. He also relied on the delay of the plaintiffs, because he had to their knowledge carried on business at 46 Pall Mall ever since the 30th of August, and the bill was not filed till the 24th of November.

Glasse, Q.C., and Nalder, for the appeal motion.

Morgan, Q.C., and H. Cadman Jones, for the plaintiffs, were not called upon.

THE LORD JUSTICE held that there was an imitation of the business style of the plaintiffs, which was proved to deceive the public, and that the defendant could not be acquitted of an intention to cause such deception. As to the defence on the ground of under weight, His Lordship said that, if it had been proved that the plaintiffs intentionally sold coal under weight, the Court would not have assisted them; but it was clearly proved that they took every precaution to secure their customers having full weight, and that the few instances of under weight were owing to accident or the dishonesty of carmen. As regarded delay, His Lordship considered that in a case of this nature a plaintiff was not bound to come to the Court until he had had time to collect some instances showing that the public were actually deceived by the proceedings complained of, and that the less weight was to be attached to delay where the plaintiffs did not ask the Court to do anything which would compel the defendant to discontinue or remove his business, but only to restrain him from carrying it on in a name so similar to that of the plaintiffs' firm as to deceive the public and the plaintiffs' customers. The appeal motion must be refused with costs; but if the defendant wished for it, he might have the usual undertaking as to damages.

L. J. GIFFARD. STAIRG v. BURN. Dec. 22.
Light and Air—Injunction—Alteration of Easement.

The plaintiffs in this case renewed a motion for an injunction, which had been refused by Vice-Chancellor Stuart.

The plaintiffs, who were the owners of premises in Charles Street and Kirby Street, Hatton Garden, complained that the defendants obstructed the light coming to the windows of their house in Kirby Street, by building a wall at right angles to the plaintiffs' house, on the north of it. The defence set up by the defendants was, in the first place, that the obstruction of light would be immaterial; and, secondly, that the plaintiffs had themselves diminished the light coming to their windows, by rebuilding other parts of their premises in such a way that the light from the south and south-west was in great measure shut off. The Vice-Chancellor, for the last-mentioned reason, refused the injunction, and the plaintiffs appealed from his decision.

Dickinson, Q.C., and G. W. Collins, for the plaintiffs, relied on Heath v. Bucknall (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 1).

Greene, Q.C., and Hemming, for the defendants.

THE LORD JUSTICE GIFFARD said that there could be no doubt that the diminution of the plaintiffs' light was material. The only question was whether they were precluded from relief in a court of equity by the alteration in their easement caused by their own buildings. The case of Heath v. Bucknall was cited to establish the proposition that, although a plaintiff who had himself altered the extent of his easement might have a clear legal right, he could not come to this Court for an injunction to protect his right. He did not think that any such proposition could have been intended to be laid down in that case; and if it was, he entirely dissented from it. The plaintiffs representing that they intended to retain their windows in their present position, and giving the usual undertaking as to damages, an injunction till the hearing of the cause must be granted.

V.-C. S. WALLINGER v. WALLINGER. Dec. 20.
Will—Appointment—Residuary Gift.

Serjeant Wallinger, by his will dated the 15th of April, 1858, after giving certain bequests and legacies, gave the residue of his real and personal estate to his brother and his nephew, on trust to pay the income to his wife for life, and on her death to pay the corpus among his children as she should by deed or will appoint, in such shares and proportions, and whether to one only or to some or all, as she should direct, and in default of appointment, then to his children equally. The testator died in April, 1860, leaving three sons, Henry, James, and Arnold Wallinger, and the plaintiff Amelia Wallinger. The testator's widow, by her will dated the 24th of May, 1867—reciting that it was made in pursuance of every power, authority, direction, estate, or interest in anywise enabling her in that behalf, of which she appointed her daughter Amelia executrix, and C. J. Fisher, one of the trustees of her husband's will, executor—appointed certain property, being a portion of her late husband's property, to Amelia Wallinger and C. J. Fisher upon trust, inter alia, during the life of her son James, to pay the income at their discretion for the use of the said James or his children by his first or second marriage, and subject to such trusts, upon trust for all or any of the children of her son James by his first or second marriage, in such proportions and in such manner as James should by will appoint, and in default, in trust for the said Amelia absolutely. Then came the following clause: "And I appoint, devise, and bequeath all my real and personal estate not hereinbefore specifically and absolutely appointed or bequeathed unto and to the use of my daughter Amelia absolutely, for her own or separate use."

Under her marriage settlement Mrs. Wallinger was entitled to considerable personal property, over which she had a general power of appointment. She died on the 17th of January, 1869. This bill was filed by her daughter Amelia to administer her estate, but on its coming on on the 13th of December it stood over to the 20th, in order to have the trustees of her settlement before the Court.

Dickinson, Q.C., and C. Hall, for the plaintiff, contended that the appointment to James and his children was clearly bad, and the plaintiff was therefore entitled under the last clause, which was sufficient to carry everything.

Karslake, Q.C., and Dumergue, for some of the children, contended that this was a limited power, and the words did not amount to an appointment.

Greene, Q.C., and Waller, for James, submitted that the intention only could be looked at, and the Court could not impute to Mrs. Wallinger that the appointment just before made was bad; and, if so, she could not have intended to pass more than what she had not attempted to appoint.

Frasman, for the children of James, submitted that, as the plaintiff took large benefits out of Mrs. Wallinger's own property, she could not be permitted to defeat the appointment without election.

J. T. Humphrey, for the trustees.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the residuary clause was a sufficient appointment of the whole property referred to, to the plaintiff.

V.-C. M. Dec. 21.

COX v. LAND AND WATER JOURNAL COMPANY.

Copyright—Newspaper—Registration under Copyright Act (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45).

This was a motion on behalf of the plaintiff, the proprietor of the Field newspaper, for an injunction to restrain the defendants from printing, publishing, or selling any copies of the Land and Water Journal containing the list called "The Hunting Field of 1870," or any part of such list copied or colourably altered from "The List of Hounds" contained in the plaintiff's newspaper.

Glasse, Q.C., and Brooksbank, in support of the motion.

Pearson, Q.C., and Loudon, for the defendants, raised a preliminary objection that the plaintiff's newspaper, the Field, had not been registered under the Copyright Act (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45) at Stationers' Hall, and consequently that the plaintiff had no right to sue. The word "book," as used in the 18th section of the Act, was explained by the 2nd section to mean "every volume, part, or division of a volume, pamphlet, sheet of letter-press, sheet of music, map, chart, or plan separately published." These words were sufficiently extensive to include a newspaper, which would therefore require registration to enable the proprietor to sue. There could now be no copyright except under that Act.

Glasse and Brooksbank contended that a newspaper was not such a document as required registration under the Act.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that, as the word "newspaper" was not used in the Copyright Act, it was designedly omitted, and that the plaintiff's publication did not therefore require registration. The proprietor of a newspaper, without registration, had a copyright in all the articles contained therein, and might sue for a piracy in respect of any of the contents of the paper. The objection must therefore be overruled.

Glasse and Brooksbank then endeavoured to make out a piracy of the article published in the Field, by shewing that various errors contained in that paper had been copied verbatim in the defendants' journal.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought the evidence was strong in support of the copying; but, considering the nature of the alleged piracy, he did not think it was a case for an injunction before the hearing of the cause. A question of damages might, no doubt, arise at the hearing, but at present he should refuse the motion.

V.-C. M. Dec. 22.

In re PANAMA, NEW ZEALAND, AND AUSTRALIAN ROYAL MAIL COMPANY.

Debenture-holders—Charge on Property of the Company.

This was an adjourned summons in the winding-up of the above company, and the question raised was whether the debenture-holders of the company had any charge upon the property as against subsequent mortgagees and general creditors.

The company, having power to raise money upon debentures issued a prospectus in 1865, stating their desire to raise a sum of 100,000*l.* over and above the sum of 50,000*l.*, which had been previously borrowed upon similar security. The prospectus stated that the property of the company consisted principally of fifteen steam vessels, besides sailing and coal ships; that the cost of this fleet amounted to upwards of 525,000*l.*, and the company possessed other available assets to the amount of 50,000*l.*, affording ample security to the debenture-holders. Each debenture, when issued, stated that the company were bound in the sum of 100*l.*, which was charged upon "the undertaking, and all sums of money arising therefrom, and all the estate, right, title, and interest of the company therein." The ships and other property had been realised under the winding-up, and the debenture-holders claimed to have a first charge upon the proceeds.

The question now argued was the right of the debenture-holders as against the general creditors, leaving the rights of the mortgagees to future discussion.

Pearson, Q.C., and Graham Hastings, for the debenture-holders.

Colc, Q.C., and Westlake, for the official liquidator, submitted that the debenture-holders had no power over the property of the company, but only over the undertaking, and all moneys arising therefrom. They could have had no power to prevent the sailing of the ships while the company was a going concern, and they could have no more right now over the proceeds derived from the sale of the ships.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was evidently the intention of the company to hold out to the public, as the ample security for their 150,000*l.*, the whole property of the company. By using the word "undertaking" in the debentures, it was clear that they meant to describe all the ships and property set forth in the prospectus. The property having been sold, the debenture-holders had the same right to a security upon the proceeds as they had upon the property itself. He should therefore declare that, as between the debenture-holders and the general creditors, the debenture-holders had a prior charge upon the proceeds of the ships and other property of the company.

V.-C. J. Dec. 8.

PARKES v. STEVENS.

Practice—Trial of Issues—Costs.

In this suit, which was instituted for the purpose of restraining an infringement of a patent, five issues were tried before the Court without a jury, and the first four (relating to novelty, utility, proper subject for a patent, and sufficiency of specification) were found for the plaintiff, but the fifth, as to infringement, for the defendant (Law Rep. 8 Eq. 358). The defendant being therefore entitled to have the bill dismissed as against him with general costs, the only question was as to the costs of the issues.

Webster, Q.C., Kay, Q.C., and Everitt, for the plaintiff.

Amphlett, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, in dismissing the bill, directed the defendant to have the general costs of the motion for an injunction; but the plaintiff was to have the costs of the issues found for him, which were to be set off against the costs allowed to the defendant. The taxing master was to tax the costs upon the same principle as they would be taxed at law.

V.-C. J. LINDSAY v. GLADSTONE. Dec. 21.

BROOKE v. GLADSTONE.

Practice—Production of Documents—Solicitors or Agent.

The plaintiff in the first of these suits, after having obtained an order that documents in the defendants' possession should be brought over from India, and that he, "his solicitors or agent," might have liberty to inspect such documents, became bankrupt, and the plaintiff in the second suit was appointed his assignee. On the 13th of November, the plaintiff Brooke obtained an order (afterwards dated the 25th or 26th of November) that he should be at liberty to have the same inspection as was given to Lindsay, and that he (Brooke), "his solicitors or agent," be at liberty to inspect, "with the assistance of the plaintiff" Lindsay, "as his accountant" (ante, p. 229).

On the 9th of December, Lindsay and a clerk of his solicitors went to the office to inspect, and were refused to be allowed to do so except in the presence of Brooke or his solicitor.

This was a summons on behalf of Brooke that a clerk from the plaintiffs' solicitors' office, and Lindsay, as the accountant of Brooke, might be at liberty to inspect.

Woodroffe, for the application, said it would be a great hardship to compel the assignee, who knew nothing of the details, or a principal in his solicitors' firm, to attend every occasion of examination through a protracted inspection of accounts.

Bedwell, for the defendants, submitted that the Court would not hold the order to be satisfied by the attendance of a mere office-boy.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR made an order to the effect that a duly authorized clerk of the plaintiffs' solicitors be allowed to accompany Lindsay on each occasion of the inspection. The costs to be costs in the cause.

KELK'S CASE.

COUNT PAHLEN'S CASE.

Unregistered Company—Forfeiture of Shares.

Applications by John Kelk and Count Pahlen to have their names removed from the list of contributories.

The company was formed in 1835 for the working of a copper mine, the property in which was divided into 12,000 shares, of which the former proprietors retained 5500 for themselves, and allotted the remaining 6500 to the public at 40*l.* a share. The allotment moneys were paid to the former proprietors. The deeds of settlement gave powers to augment the amounts of the company's shares, and the shares were made to pass by simple delivery of the certificates. In 1866 it was resolved to register the company as a limited company, and to increase the existing shares from 40*l.* to 50*l.*, so as to raise 120,000*l.*; also that, if any person holding existing certificates should not give in his name and residence to the office of the company before the 3rd of December, 1866, his shares should be forfeited. Of the holders of the 12,000 certificates, 9595 sent in their names, and the rest were, by a resolution of the 6th of December, 1866, declared to be forfeited. Among those who did not send in their names were the applicants, who were found to have been in 1865, the owners of 202 and 60 shares respectively.

The company was now in liquidation under supervision.

Lindley, for Mr. Kelk.

Fischer, for Count Pahlen.

Kay, Q.C., and Bagshawe, for the liquidators.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the shares had become forfeited, and granted the application, giving the liquidators their costs out of the estate.

V.-C. J. ALCOCK v. GILL. Dec. 21.

Practice—Production of Documents—Further Affidavit—Witness—Costs.

Plaintiff had obtained from a Mr. Baker, the secretary of a railway company who were co-defendants to the suit, discovery of documents by affidavit in the usual way. The railway company answered, upon which the bill was re-amended, and a second, followed by a third, affidavit as to documents was obtained from Mr. Baker. This last affidavit was dated in June, 1869. In August following Mr. Baker was examined ex parte, on the part of the plaintiff, before one of the examiners, and on the 1st of November this summons was taken out that the company should, by their secretary, be ordered to make a further affidavit, "accounting for the documents mentioned and referred to" by the secretary in his examination.

Kay, Q.C., and Chitty, for the application.

Fry, Q.C., and James Kaye, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said this was a mere experiment, which Wright v. Pitt (Law Rep. 3 Ch. 809) ought to have prevented. No doubt, if an affidavit referred to five documents as scheduled, and then the schedule comprised only four, there would be something on the face of the affidavit to shew it was insufficient; but to accede to an application of this kind would be simply to say that a defendant might be cross-examined upon his affidavit as to documents, which was contrary to the practice. The summons must be refused with costs.

Fry asked for all the costs.

Kay said it was not the usual practice.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that, in general, when he refused a summons, he should allow the respondents all the costs, not only of the adjournment, but of the summons in chambers. He could see no reason for making any distinction.

V.-C. J. LONDON AND BRAZILIAN BANK v. JEFFRYES. Dec. 22.

Bills against Consignments—Suspension of Payment—Ex parte Waring.

Bill by holders of bills drawn by Southall, Mellor, & Co., a Pernambuco house, which stopped payment on the 1st of August, 1867, upon and accepted by Mellor & Southall, a Liverpool firm, which suspended payment on the 6th of July, 1867, against consignments of cotton, seeking to make the amount unpaid on their bills a first charge upon the proceeds of consignments received since the stoppage by the trustees of the Liverpool firm, under a creditors' deed dated the 22nd of October, 1867. A third house, called Mellor, Southall, & Co., of Bahia, were also in the habit of consigning to and drawing upon the Liverpool firm. The Liverpool firm consisted of two persons named Pearson and Lilly, and the Pernambuco and Bahia houses each consisted of the same two persons, and two others named Fennelly and Messeder. The trustees of the Liverpool firm resisted the application of the principle of Ex parte Waring (19 Ves. 845), on the ground that the consignments were made on the footing of an independent partnership between the four persons above named, distinct from the three firms. The Bahia house stopped payment on the 30th of July, 1867, and the Bahia bill-holders supported the plaintiffs' case, but claimed to participate with them in the proceeds of the consignments, contending that the two Brazilian firms were to be treated as, in fact, one.

Jessel, Q.C., and Wickens, for the plaintiffs.

Sir R. Palmer, Q.C., and Robinson, for the trustees of the Liverpool firm.

Fischer, for the assignee of the Pernambuco firm.

Kay, Q.C., and Procter, for the Bahia bill-holders.

Kekewich, for the assignees of the Bahia firm.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, without hearing a reply, said that, beyond all question, these were distinct and separate firms, and the principle of Ex parte Waring must apply. As to the Bahia bill-holders, he could only act between the parties as they had acted themselves. He could not consolidate the two Brazilian firms, but must let the Pernambuco consignments go to meet the Pernambuco bills, and the Bahia consignments to meet the Bahia bills. There would be a declaration as prayed.

V.-C. J. DUGDALE v. MEADOWS. Dec. 22.

Succession Duty—16 & 17 Vict. c. 51—Sale under Power.

Bill for specific performance of a contract to purchase property (part of a settled estate) sold by the trustees under a power of sale contained in the settlement, with the consent of Sir H. Bromley, the tenant for life. The whole property was charged with a jointure to Dame Anna Bromley, mother of the tenant for life; and the purchaser insisted upon having the succession duty that would become payable upon the extinguishment of the jointure provided for before completion of the purchase.

Kay, Q.C., Morgan, Q.C., and E. W. Byrne, for the plaintiffs, the trustees for sale.

Eldis, Q.C., and Waller, for the defendant, the purchaser.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that there was no foundation for the purchaser's objection, which was disposed of by s. 20 of the Succession Duty Act. Upon the determination of the jointure, the duty payable in respect of the increased value would have to be assessed upon the successor, or on some person in his right, or on his behalf. The purchaser had not contracted to purchase, and would not take from the successor (the tenant for life), but from the trustees of the settlement. The duty could never be imposed upon him, but would fall upon the tenant for life, who had given his consent to the exercise of the power of sale, and become payable out of the moneys arising from the sale (s. 42). There was no ground for the objection, and the purchaser must complete.

Q. B. LONGBOTTOM v. BERRY AND ANOTHER. Dec. 13.

Fixtures—Mortgage—Rights of Mortgagor and Mortgagee.

Special case.

The question was whether the plaintiff became entitled to certain machines and articles under a bill of sale, or whether they passed to the defendants as fixtures annexed to the freehold under a mortgage, which was prior to the bill of sale. The plaintiff at the time of the bill of sale had notice of the mortgage. Kershaw, under whom both parties claim, was owner in fee as well as occupier of a mill and premises. He built the mill and fitted it with engines and machinery, as well as shafting and pipes for the purpose of supplying steam power and gas throughout the building. And he also supplied and affixed all the machinery and articles necessary for adapting the mill for the business of a woollen manufacturer.

It was admitted by the plaintiff that the engines and machinery fitted for the purpose of supplying steam and gas passed to the defendants under the mortgage; but it was contended on the authority of Hellawell v. Eastwood (6 Ex. 296; 20 L. J. (Ex.) 154), that the rest of the machinery and articles did not so pass, as the object and purpose of their annexation was, not to improve the inheritance, but to render the machines steady and more capable of convenient use as chattels; and that they were so slightly annexed as to admit of their removal without injury to the building.

Mellish, Q.C. (Mackeod with him), for the plaintiff.

Manisty, Q.C., for the defendants.

THE COURT held that it was well settled by a series of decisions, both at law and in equity, that in the case of such an annexation by the freeholder of machinery or other fixtures, the things so annexed will pass to a mortgagee with the freehold, and that this applies equally to articles which, as between landlord and tenant, would be considered trade fixtures, as to any other articles which are really in the nature of fixtures: Mather v. Fraser (2 K. & J. 536; 25 L. J. Ch. 361); Wulmsley v. Milne (7 C. B. 115; 25 L. J. Ch. 97); and the earlier cases in bankruptcy and chancery cited in the judgment of the latter case: Cullwick v. Swindell (Law Rep. 3 Eq. 249), and especially the late case of Climie v. Wood (Law Rep. 3 Ex. 257; 4 Ex. 328); and they gave judgment for the defendants.

Q. B. Dec. 13.
THE COMMISSIONERS FOR ADMINISTERING THE POOR LAWS IN IRELAND, APPEARS; THE SELECT VESTRY OF LIVERPOOL, RESPONDENTS.

Poor—Removal—Desertion by Husband—Irish Pauper—8 & 9 Vict. c. 117, s. 2.

Case stated under 12 & 13 Vict. c. 45.

The 8 & 9 Vict. c. 117, s. 2, enacts "that if any person born in . . . Ireland . . . not settled in England, become chargeable to any parish in England by reason of relief given to himself or herself, or to his wife, or to any legitimate or bastard child, such person, his wife, and any child so chargeable, shall be liable to be removed to . . . Ireland . . . and two justices . . . if they think fit, may make and issue a warrant under their hands and seals to remove such person."

A warrant was made by two justices of the borough of Liverpool for the removal of Ellen Keating and her two children from the parish of Liverpool, where they had become chargeable to the Union of Tullamore, in Ireland, the birthplace of Ellen Keating.

Ellen Keating was the wife of John Keating, who was an Irishman. Neither of them had acquired any settlement in England. The children were legitimate, and born in Ireland: they were infants, and unemancipated. At the time when Ellen Keating and the children became chargeable, and also at the time of making the warrant of removal, John Keating was not living in the parish of Liverpool. He had some time previously deserted his wife, and was living at Hull, in Yorkshire. He was not born at Tullamore, nor had he resided there for three years. It did not appear that inquiry was made as to him or as to his place of birth.

Mellish, Q.C. (Leofric Temple with him), for the appellants, contended that Ellen Keating and her children could not be passed to Ireland without her husband.

G. Francis, for the respondents, contended that Ellen Keating, having been deserted by her husband, she and her children could be removed to her maiden settlement.

THE COURT held that the language of s. 2 of the above Act, according to its plain and natural meaning, required that, where there is a husband, as well as a wife, and children liable to be removed, they are all to be removed together, and that, unless the husband could be removed, the wife and children could not, and that the warrant was invalid.

Attorneys for appellants: Field, Roscoe, & Francis.

Attorneys for respondents: Monckton & Monckton.

A. & E. THE PRINCESS ROYAL. Dec. 21.
Practice—Amendment—Costs.

On the 24th of November, 1869, a cause was instituted on behalf of the owners of the cargo of the Princess Royal against the Princess Royal and her freight. In the præcipe to institute the cause was described as a "cause of damage to cargo." At the time the cause was instituted a warrant was issued. The affidavit to lead the warrant stated that the plaintiffs had sustained considerable damages by the breach of duty and breach of contract on the part of the master and crew of the Princess Royal. The vessel was arrested on the 25th of November, and an appearance was afterwards entered on behalf of her owners.

H. H. Shephard now moved to amend the form of action by striking out of the præcipe to institute the words "damage to cargo," and substituting the words "breach of duty on the part of the owner, master, and crew of the ship."

W. F. G. Phillimore, for the defendants, contended that the effect of the amendment would be to alter entirely the nature of the cause, and that the amendment should be allowed only on the condition that the plaintiffs paid the costs of the cause up to the time of the application to amend.

THE COURT granted leave to the plaintiffs to amend on payment of the costs occasioned by the misdescription.

Proctors for plaintiffs: Dyke & Stokes.

Solicitor for defendants: H. C. Barker.

THE NORTHUMBRIA.

Dec. 21.

Jurisdiction—Limitation of Liability—Admiralty Court Act, 1861 (24 Vict. c. 10), s. 13.

In this case two suits for damage were instituted against the Northumbria. The owners of the Northumbria having entered a caveat warrant, the vessel was not arrested, but bail was given.

The owners of the Northumbria afterwards instituted a suit for limitation of liability, under the 13th section of the Admiralty Court Act, 1861.

The question was raised whether the Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit, inasmuch as the vessel had not been under arrest of the Court.

Butt, Q.C., and D. F. Stevenson, for the plaintiffs.

E. C. Clarkson and G. Bruce, for the defendants.

THE COURT held that, as the bail represented the ship, it had jurisdiction to entertain the suit.

Solicitors for plaintiffs: Hillyer & Fenwick.

Solicitors for defendants: Lowless & Nelson; Waltons, Bubb, & Walton.
