

F. J. HENEY SHOT BY EX-CONVICT

SENSATIONAL CRIME DURING RUEF TRIAL

Graft Prosecutor May Die Through Revenge of Venieman He Exposed.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 14.—Francis J. Heney, a leading figure in the prosecution of municipal corruption in San Francisco, was shot and seriously injured at 4:22 o'clock yesterday in Judge Lawlor's court room by Morris Haas, a Jewish venieman who had been accepted as a juror in the trial of Abraham Ruef and afterwards removed. It having been shown in court by Heney that Haas was an ex-convict, a fact not brought out in his examination as a venieman.

The shooting of Heney occurred in the presence of many persons in the court room during a recess in the trial of Abraham Ruef, on trial for the third time on the charge of bribery. Heney was during a ten-minute recess of court, while the jury was out of the court room, and after attorneys for the prosecution and defence had returned to the court room from a short conference with Judge Lawlor in his chambers, that Heney having resumed his customary seat and entered into conversation with Chief Clerk McCabe, of the district attorney's office. Haas came forward from among the spectators, approached Heney and placing a revolver against Heney's right cheek, fired. Instantly the court room was the scene of the greatest excitement.

Haas was seized, and others hastened to administer first aid to Heney, the blood streaming from the wound. Medical aid was summoned, and Mr. Heney was first taken to the Central Emergency hospital, where it was ascertained that the wound was not necessarily fatal. Heney was then taken to the Lane hospital for more delicate treatment.

After Mr. Heney had been removed from the court room, Judge Lawlor called the court to order, and had Haas placed in custody. Haas had first been thrown down and held by the spectators who seized him, until the police arrived.

It is said he shot Heney because the latter ruined him by exposing the fact that he had been an ex-convict.

Haas, when a venieman in the third Ruef bribery trial, was put to severe examination by Heney while he was being examined for jury duty. Haas asserts that information brought out by Heney in his questions resulted in the ruin of his business.

Haas in the second Ruef trial had been passed as a juror, then one day in court Heney dramatically produced a photograph of Haas, taken at San Quentin penitentiary, in convict garb and with cropped head, with his number across his breast. Haas collapsed in court, admitting that he had been a convict. He was immediately discharged from the jury.

News of the shooting spread rapidly and immense crowds gathered in the corridors of the court building. A large force of police, headed by Chief Biggy, surrounded the building in which court was held and kept the crowd back. A number of arrests were made by the police, who took into custody men who were suspected of being Heney's wife and her mother hurried to the side of the wounded man, as did also Father Allen, of St. Ignace church.

Haas in a statement said: "I am the wronged man. I do not care what becomes of me now. I have sacrificed myself, not for my honor, but for the honor of those who are situated like myself. I would not have brought my four children into the world to bear such a brand if I had known the fact that I was a former convict would become known. Heney ruined me; that is why I shot him."

After the shooting Judge Lawlor called the court to order, and immediately ordered Ruef taken into custody. Attorney Asch and Attorney Dozier asked that Heney be taken into custody, but the court declined to issue the order. The judge then adjourned court until ten o'clock Monday morning.

Heney, as he lay on the operating table, said: "I would like to prosecute both Haas and Ruef."

Armed Men Guard Jail.

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 14.—Frequently since the earthquake and fire of 1906, have the people of San Francisco been startled and aroused by revelations and developments in the tangled maze of the prosecutions for bribery and corruption that followed the sudden overthrow of Abraham Ruef and the boozing supervisors of the Mayor Schmidt regime. Now, however, has the city been more profoundly stirred than by the attempted assassination late yesterday of Francis J. Heney, the special assistant of the district attorney's office, who was shot and seriously wounded in the court room by Morris Haas, an ex-convict. The past record of Haas who resides in this city had been exposed by Heney a few weeks ago, after Haas had qualified as a juror to pass upon the guilt or innocence of Abraham Ruef, now in the midst of his third trial for bribery.

Early to-day Mr. Heney was sleeping soundly in the Lane hospital, where he was taken after preliminary treatment had been given in the city hospital. The statement issued by his physicians declares that the patient has a good chance to recover. The gravest (Continued on page 16.)

ENGLISHMEN ARE NOT DISLIKED

LORD MILNER TALKS OF HIS TOUR IN CANADA

Tells Londoners How Dominion Regards Preference and Imperial Defence.

(Special to the Times.)
London, Nov. 14.—Viscount Milner interviewed here stated he had not discovered any prejudice against English emigrants in Canada. If such prejudice did exist, the explanation must be that certain English immigrants make themselves unpopular. There was nothing like a general feeling of dislike on the part of Canadians for immigration from the mother country.

Respecting preferential trade he said there was a universal feeling in Canada in favor of it. This was not due so much to a calculation of the particular benefits which might arise to Canada as to a general sentiment in favor of trade with Britain rather than with foreign countries and especially other European countries. He thought, however, that the preference movement in Canada had receded slightly since the present government took office.

Continuing, he said Canadians would not object to a duty on imports if at a lower rate than the corresponding foreign imports.

He had observed a strong feeling in Canada to do more regarding imperial defence, but it had not yet been taken up as a practical question. Canada had a very heavy expenditure in front of her for her own development but if the United Kingdom were in danger there would be an irresistible impulse to come to her assistance. Such assistance might not be as effective as it ought but Canadians would desire to give it.

Lord Milner added that while all Canadians would oppose emphatically annexation to the United States, there were many silent and unconscious influences at work which may bring them to the verge of annexation before they realize it.

Lord Milner was unrestrained in his enthusiasm for Canada, her resources, and potentialities.

Another Experience.

(Special to the Times.)
London, Nov. 14.—In an article in the Economist on his impressions of Canada, referring to the subject of graft, Mr. Hirst, the editor, says the provinces and municipalities, especially where French-Canadians predominate, have been worse than the politicians at Ottawa. Mr. Hirst did not meet a single man in favor of imperial tariff, and only one who favored contributing to the British navy.

WIFE TOOK SUN-BATHS, SO HE DIVORCED HER

Journalist Who is Prosecuted by Former Archduke Threatens Exposures.

Berne, Switzerland, Nov. 14.—Leopold Woelfling, formerly Archduke Leopold of Austria, is prosecuting a journalist here for defamation of character. The journalist in retaliation threatens sensational revelations by promising to read letters from the Emperor of Austria to the Grand Duke of Tuscany.

Archduke Leopold of Austria, the Grand Duke of Tuscany, was cast off several years ago by his father when he became enamored of Mme. Alamo-vols, a Bavarian actress, and married her. Emperor Francis Joseph ordered his name stricken from the army list and from the role of the Knights of the Golden Fleece. He then assumed the name of Woelfling, divorcing his actress wife in July, 1907, because she joined a sect of vegetarians and was in the habit of taking sunbaths without her clothes. Woelfling married Frau Ritter, daughter of a horse owner. Woelfling is a brother of ex-Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, whose escapades as the Countess Montignosa made her notorious.

"ANTI-TREATERS" LEAVE LOOPHOLE FOR ESCAPE

Will Not Touch Intoxicating Liquors in Places Where They Are Sold.

(Special to the Times.)
Toronto, Ont., Nov. 14.—Whether the pledge proposed to be taken by the members of the newly formed anti-treating league should prevent them from dispensing liquid refreshments in homes or from accepting drinks at weddings or parties, was the question discussed at a meeting of the organization in St. Anne's church last night. After a good deal of discussion a pledge was drafted as follows:

"Aware that treating system is one of the main causes of intemperance, I pledge myself neither to treat nor to be treated to intoxicating liquors at any place where they are sold."

Judge Riddell, to whom the application was made, did not yield to what must have been a natural inclination to grant the request supported by such convincing evidence but reserved judgment.

'PHONE BESIDE BED RESULTS IN OWNER'S DEATH

Man Knocks Down Revolver, Which Goes Off, Killing Him Instantly.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 14.—Charles Burmeister, undertaker and North Side politician, accidentally shot and killed himself last night in his home. He had retired about one o'clock and was awakened later by a telephone. The receiver swung on a little stand above his bed, and above it on a little hook hung his revolver. The arrangement was so that he could lie in bed and talk. After bidding good-by to his caller he was replacing the receiver when he accidentally knocked the revolver from the hook. The weapon struck the floor, there was a flash and Burmeister sank back dead on the pillow beside his wife, who had been awakened by the conversation. The bullet had entered Mr. Burmeister's right temple and lodged in the brain.

Since the government took over the system no reduction has been made in the Bell rates.

GRAND DUKE ALEXIS PASSES AWAY IN PARIS

Ex-Minister of Marine Grew Very Unpopular After Russo- Japanese War.

Paris, Nov. 14.—Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, an uncle of Emperor Nicholas, died in the city today of pneumonia. The Grand Duke has lived in Paris almost continuously since his retirement from the position of Russian minister of marine.

An Unpopular Minister.

Grand Duke Alexis was born in 1852. He resigned the supreme control of the marine department in June of 1905, following the savage criticism of his administration in the navy, and especially in the construction of ships. Charges of mismanagement against the marine department had been current for years, and after the war with Japan they increased tenfold. Grand Duke Alexis was several times the subject of public demonstrations, notably at the French theatre in St. Petersburg, the latter part of 1904.

The Grand Duke was a younger son of Emperor Alexander III. He visited America and made an extensive tour in 1872, and was given a warm reception.

TO THE ELECTORS OF VICTORIA.

Absence from the city since the election has prevented me sooner thanking heartily all who gave their time, services, and support to myself as the Liberal candidate. My chief regret is the disappointment which the result entailed on those loyal and true men or both political parties who worked so zealously for my return, believing it to be in the best interest of the country at large and of the city of Victoria. This element alone prevents me from accepting a respite from active politics, after many years of service, with equanimity. It is quite idle now to reflect on the influence exerted against me, further than perhaps to stimulate us all to greater industry and vigilance in the future. This lesson, I feel sure, will not be lost. On the eve of departing for the East, it is perhaps not amiss for me to indulge in a personal reference. The misrepresentation which was employed so effectively during the campaign is being continued, and it is now alleged that as a result of the adverse vote against the government there is some sinister desire to "hit" the city. I need scarcely point out that the place which has been my home for a quarter of a century, where most of my friends live, and where all my interests lie, is not likely to suffer from any malevolence which lies in my power to prevent. I was hopeful that I would be in a position for the next five years to serve Victoria and British Columbia in a way permissible only to one who enjoys the intimate advantages of a seat at the national council board. Where my work will lie in the future, whether in the Commons, or the Cabinet, or elsewhere, is something upon which I cannot at present speak. But wherever it is, such influence as I possess will be exerted as strenuously as ever, so far as the limitations of my position will permit, on behalf of the city which occupies the first place in my affections. In this, the only way in my power, I may be able to accomplish for the city some of the things which my supporters and myself so earnestly desire.

Faithfully yours,
W. TEMPLEMAN.

KIEL MEETING IS PORTENTOUS

ON KAISER DEPENDS FUTURE COURSE OF EVENTS

What Emperor Will Say to Von Buelow is Widely Dis- cussed.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Emperor William is still at Donaueschingen as the hunting guest of Prince Von Furstenberg. He is due at Kiel on Monday at noon to swear in a number of naval cadets. Chancellor Von Buelow will leave Berlin to-morrow and will be at Kiel to receive the Emperor. The audience between the Chancellor and His Majesty, upon which depends the future course of events, has been arranged for the afternoon.

While the agreement of the Chancellor with the position of the Reichstag and the federal governments is now clearly known, the Emperor's attitude is really in doubt and a subject of diversified prediction.

The Greenshield, a monthly political review published under the supervision of the foreign office, has taken up the defence of Chancellor Von Buelow, and in the current issue says:

"Calm consideration of Germany's interest does not permit us to judge the oversight of a trusted statesman as we would similar action by a clerk, whose error in such a case would be unpardonable. It would be the height of absurdity to expect the Chancellor personally to examine and control every manuscript that came to his hands. The misfortune is that such a conversation ever occurred."

Baron Von Jenische, who is a kinsman of Prince Von Buelow, is in the Emperor's suite as representative of the Foreign Office.

SPOONER VISITED BY FIRE.

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—A disastrous fire visited Spooner, a station on the line of the Canadian Northern railway, between Winnipeg and Port Arthur, on Thursday. The Shelvick-Metley Lumber Co. turned out their men to assist in fighting the fire. The fire was stopped at Weeks' hardware store. The Stockholm hotel, the station building and Northern News building, owned by the Northern News Co., were totally destroyed. Loss, about $15,000.

Fight at Nanaimo is Likely to Be Three-cornered One.

(Special to the Times.) Nanaimo, Nov. 12.—The entries for the mayoralty contest in this city are being made and now two men, both of them prominent in the city's affairs for several years, are in the field. Ex-Alderman Hodgson, who was so narrowly defeated in the contest last year, is again seeking mayoralty honors and is being opposed by Alderman Barlow. There is all likelihood of there being at least one more entry before many more days.

Word has been received here of the death of Richard Hilbert, grandson of Richard Hilbert, of this city, in the Georgetown hospital at Seattle yesterday, after a long sickness. Campbellton, N. B., Nov. 14.—By an explosion of dynamite on the Atlantic and Lake Superior railway at Port Daniel, Que., last night four men were killed and three seriously injured. The names of the victims have not been learned.

Three crews were working on a new tunnel at Port Daniel and just as the night crew were coming to work the blast was being set off. The man in charge had taken the dynamite from the box and made the charge ready, after which he threw the box on the ground, supposing it to be empty. The explosion followed, blowing the men who were nearest. Three men were injured by flying rocks. They will recover.

TENTS ARE DISAPPEARING.

New Houses Taking Place of Those Destroyed by Fire at Fernie.

Fernie, Nov. 12.—The temporary structures which were erected on the school grounds shortly after the fire and which were used for the feeding of the destitute and the distribution of clothing and provisions, have been taken down in order to make room for the erection of the provincial buildings. The tents also in different sections of the town are fast disappearing, most of the occupants having found more comfortable quarters in the new houses. A great many of the tents still standing are occupied by those engaged in the building trade and when this work is finished for the season they will probably leave town till the spring.

It is an impossibility to secure homes for rent now, and many families will be compelled to board during the winter. The laying of wooden sidewalks is progressing rapidly, most of the side streets being already supplied, but the main business thoroughfare is still without them.

There will be no lack of opera houses in this city this winter, two are already open and two more are under construction.

MANY BRIDGES ARE SWEEP AWAY

Damage Along Squamish and Chackmus River Exceeds $100,000.

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—Hairbreadth escapes were quite common among the settlers in the Squamish valley in connection with the disastrous floods there, according to statements by S. H. Ford and J. L. Martin, who have reached the city after a month's hunting trip along the upper reaches of the Squamish.

According to Mr. Ford the damage to bridges alone on the Squamish and Chackmus rivers will amount to over $100,000. Every bridge on both these streams has been either carried away or so badly wrecked that it will have to be rebuilt.

Over 100 head of cattle, besides many sheep and hogs, were drowned in the floods—there were three of them. The first heavy rain caused the river to rise just above the danger level. Then it dropped a couple of feet only to rise another four feet. Then the third flood came and the water rose 5 feet higher than it had ever been known before.

Messrs. Ford and Martin were fortunate in having retreated on an island near Grizzlyville—some thirty miles up the Squamish—the day before the first big flood. This island was covered that same night by a raging torrent over ten feet deep. They put in another anxious night a couple of days later at Mrs. Taylor's house. This is a substantial two-story log structure, situated on a point that makes a sweeping bend in the river. The river took a notion to take a short cut across the point and at one time the water was 8 feet deep in the lower floor of the house. The refugees retired to the top story, where many times they thought the end had come when big trees, nearly 200 feet long, and from 4 to 6 feet in diameter, would strike the house with a crash that often jarred it severely.

Mrs. Ray, who before the flood had a comfortable house and orchard located three miles up the river, is now minus both house and orchard. Both were washed away. The river literally scooped several acres of her orchard and garden away, besides doing other heavy damage. Mr. King and Mr. Harris, who have ranches some 20 miles up, were both heavy losers. Mr. King had a barn washed away with all its contents, including a good deal of the winter's feed. Mr. Harris lost 25 head of cattle.

Mr. Ford states that on the extreme upper reaches of the Squamish there are many miles of glaciers, many of them of very large size. The warmth of the recent torrential rains caused an unusual melting of these glaciers, which combined with the heavy rainfall and the melting snow on the hillsides all helped to cause the disastrous rush of water.

—Today Percy Watson, foreman of the Victoria Printing & Publishing Co., in this city, received a message from Teeswater, Ont., announcing the death of his mother. The deceased had been in delicate health for a long time, her death being not altogether unexpected. In consequence of her precarious condition Mr. Watson went east during the summer and spent a few weeks at home. Mrs. Watson was 52 years of age and was born in Oakville, Ont., where she will be buried on Monday. She is survived by her husband, R. M. Watson, two sons, Ellerton and Percy, and a daughter Nellie.

ASKS PROTECTION AGAINST HER HUSBAND

Wife Tells Startling Story—Case Adjudged Until Tuesday.

Alfred Taylor was this morning brought before Magistrate Jay on information laid by his wife that she was in jeopardy, her husband having threatened to shoot her and their children. She contended that her life was not safe unless Taylor was kept in custody.

Only part of the evidence was heard; the magistrate advising Taylor to secure a lawyer. The evidence of Mrs. Taylor this morning formed a story of shocking acts which were alleged on the part of her husband. Years ago Taylor, whom she understood had been previously married to her mother, brought witness out from England and adopted her in 1874, when she was about 15 or 18 years of age, and was in the city undergoing treatment for an injured eye. Taylor took advantage of her. Her evidence went so far as to implicate Taylor in infanticide.

In the spring of 1901 witness said Taylor went east and while he was away a man living in Goldstream asked her to marry him. She said she would as a chance to get away from Taylor. The latter refused his assent when she wrote him.

Witness said that in consequence of information she received she made up her mind to go to her sister in San Francisco and bought a ticket, coming to Victoria to leave. Taylor, however, arrived in the city and at night got possession of her purse while she was asleep and prevented her going. A quarrel ensued and Taylor pleaded with her not to go away. Witness had refused to go back to the ranch, and had found employment in the city for several months. Taylor pressed her to marry him. They were finally married and had now two children.

Witness told her husband at times threatened that he would shoot men against whom he held a grudge. The immediate cause of the case going into the court was ascribed to an occurrence of last Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, their two children and a border returned home about half past nine. The border, on request, carried one of the children into the house. Mr. Taylor, according to the evidence of Mrs. Taylor, which was corroborated by the border, became jealous and entering the house later made known the cause of his jealousy. Mrs. Taylor had swooned and asked to be taken to her room and the men had then gone out of the window, taking refuge under the bushes.

On Taylor's return to the house and the discovery that she had gone, search was started. When she was at length found Taylor, according to his wife's evidence, threatened to shoot her and the children.

The border in his evidence told of Taylor threatening to shoot his wife and children, having a rifle in his hand. Mrs. Taylor ascertained that it was not loaded. Mrs. Taylor returned from her hiding place when the husband laid the rifle down and said: "Alfred, why are you so mean to me?" Taylor put his arm about her, and replied: "Oh, Alice, I know I am a cur to you," and took her in out of the cold. Some time after Taylor came out to where witness was and burst into tears.

Supt. Huxsey asked witness if he had ever heard of Taylor making other threats beside those on Monday night. Witness replied that Taylor had spoken of shooting the family and even named, but it might only have been his way of speaking.

Magistrate Jay said the evidence disclosed was very serious, and he thought an adjournment had better be taken. Taylor asked if he would be allowed bail.

"Very serious charges are disclosed against you in the evidence," replied the magistrate, "and I should not be doing my duty if I were to grant you bail."

As Taylor was being led back to the lock-up he turned to his wife and said: "Alice, think this thing over before you press this case against me."

The hearing will be resumed on Tuesday morning, when all the witnesses were ordered to be present.

ASKS WOMEN TO DOFF HATS.

Pastor Says He Makes Request as Matter of Consideration for Others.

Failure on the part of the women of his congregation to accede to a request to remove their hats during the sermon prompted the Rev. D. Cortland Myers, pastor of the Baptist Temple, in Brooklyn, to remark at a Sunday service: "I must say that I think more of some women than of others."

After an impressive pause, during which there was a general unfastening and removal of headgear, the pastor continued:

"I have made this request as a matter of Christian consideration for others. I have had the experience of facing audiences here when, on account of the outlandish headgear now in vogue, I could not see the faces of a thousand of the persons who sat before me.

"I have received a message from a man living in Jamaica who had attended service here and who said he had been unable to see me throughout the sermon.

"If you do not desire to remove your hats in this church I wish you would go to some of the other churches where nine-tenths of the pews are vacant.

"It is in the name of God that I request that these hats be removed. It is easy enough, if the disposition is present, to remove that part of the headgear which obstructs the view. And now, God bless you all!"

Before the end of these remarks nearly every woman in the church had removed her hat, although some obdurate ones on the outskirts of the auditorium still retained their headgear in place. There was gasp and "Oh!" when the speaker hurried his ultimatum.

NEEDS OF PORT TO BE PRESSED

BOARD OF TRADE WILL HAVE DATA COLLECTED

The Position of the Naval Yard Made Clear by Hon. W. Templeman.

The board of trade is fully alive to the necessities of this port in the matter of increased dock accommodation, especially in view of the growing shipping trade of the Pacific, and yesterday afternoon decided to appoint committees to collect all the information available in connection with this important subject. The personnel of the committees will be decided on later.

Docks and dry-dock facilities were the only matters discussed at the monthly meeting of the board. Incidentally Hon. Wm. Templeman took occasion to correct the popular but mistaken impression that the Dominion government has control of Esquimalt naval yard. The members present were Simon Leiser, president; Hon. Wm. Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue and of Mines; J. J. Shallicross, J. A. Mara, George Carter, A. W. Knight, D. Jacob, C. H. Lugin, H. A. Munro, F. W. Vincent, H. G. Wilson, Walter Walker, Ald. Richard Hall, T. D. Veitch, R. H. Swinnerton, H. Macklin, C. Loewenberg, H. B. Thomson, M. P. P. W. T. Andrew and Secretary Fred Elworthy.

A Committee Proposed. C. H. Lugin, who had been chosen by the council of the board to open the discussion, said the question was rather more narrow than he had in mind. What he had thought of was not so much dry-dock or wharf accommodation, important as these were, as the general question of direct connection with transportation lines, land and water. There were two great railway systems already here and two others, the G. T. P. and Canadian Northern, were on the way, and with all of these it was important that Victoria should have close touch. The board of trade should at once set about collecting such reliable and trustworthy information as would be of assistance in securing the desired connection. As an instance of the value of such matter to railways Mr. Lugin cited the unwillingness of the C. P. R. to erect a hotel here until business men had such facts before the management as resulted in the work being undertaken. A committee should be appointed to go into the whole subject of the commercial possibilities of Vancouver Island, and in connection therewith the necessary facilities for handling traffic here. He would give it a roving commission and let it take its own time. Mr. Lugin concluded by moving the appointment of a committee.

J. A. Mara heartily endorsed all Mr. Lugin had said. Should Look to Future. J. J. Shallicross pointed out that a single committee would have to deal with two matters not quite in harmony. All boards of trade on the Island could unite on the development of the Island but Victoria could not expect rival ports to assist in its development as a port. Mr. Shallicross spoke of the development of the shipping of this port in the fifteen years he had known it, which he attributed in large measure to the fact that the port had been supplied with facilities

(in advance of its then requirements. There should always be an ample margin of facilities in a port like Victoria, he said. If a steamer had to be taken elsewhere to-day because there were not facilities here for it, it could not be expected that it would come back three or four years after when the facilities had been supplied. A shipping trade once lost it was almost impossible to recover. The committee whether it could not develop further as a repairing port, having in mind the great advantages the present marine shops at Victoria. Whether coal bunkers could not be established at Esquimalt or the outer wharf to attract vessels and whether we could not develop as a port of transhipment.

"If we wait until the trade is largely in excess of our facilities," repeated Mr. Shallicross, "the trade will not wait until, in the course of several years, we provide the facilities. If citizens are not prepared to act they cannot expect other people to do so as a commercial undertaking far in advance of demand."

Committee to be Named. George Carter agreed that the proposal for a committee was a good one. Victoria might think that they had fully entered into the shipping boom but they had not begun to develop it yet. Yokohama and other ports had twenty to thirty of the largest steamers in port every day and a great deal of this trade was swinging this way. It would be of immense benefit to the Island and to the city when that took place.

H. B. Thomson, M. P. P., suggested two committees, one to consider the development of this harbor and the other that of the Island. There was no doubt that such committees could do an immense amount of good. On Mr. Lugin amending his motion to "committees," Mr. Thomson seconded it and it was unanimously adopted. J. J. Shallicross asked if there was not a committee dealing with the subject of dry-dock facilities at Esquimalt and in reply Mr. Lugin read a memorial forwarded not long since to Hon. Wm. Pugsley, minister of public works, pointing out the need for better accommodation of this nature. It was as follows:

Sir—The Victoria, British Columbia, Board of Trade, asked permission to draw your attention to the following facts:

On March 16, 1905, this board had the honor of submitting to the acting minister of public works the following memorandum:

1. That the Esquimalt graving dock is not of sufficient size to meet the requirements of the naval and mercantile marine.

2. The ocean-borne commerce of the western coast of Canada is rapidly increasing, and the vessels engaged in the trade are of much larger tonnage than those recently employed in it, and there is no dockage upon the Canadian coast to which they may be taken.

3. The Esquimalt dock is not nearly large enough to accommodate modern ships of war, except of the smaller class, and in the event of hostilities there is no place nearer the Canadian coast than Hongkong where British ships of war could go for refitting and repairs.

4. The harbor of Esquimalt is large, deep, easy of access, very convenient to the open ocean, and can be rendered impregnable from the sea.

5. A large modern graving dock at Esquimalt would be utilized by merchant ships of foreign countries in need of repairs, whereby a large and profitable income would be brought to Canada.

6. The construction of the national trans-continental railway will very greatly increase the commercial importance of the western coast of Canada, and it is submitted that docking facilities should be provided equal to all probable requirements.

7. No other port on the western coast of Canada is as conveniently situated for the purpose of a dry dock as Esquimalt.

To this memorandum the Hon. A. S. Hyman, acting minister, replied on March 23rd of the same year and said that he would be pleased to lay the matter before his colleagues, at the first opportunity. Since then the board has not been advised that the subject matter of the memorandum has been considered by the government of Canada, and it takes this opportunity of once more urging it upon your attention. Since the above memorandum was submitted the importance of such action as is suggested therein has been forcibly shown.

8. The ocean-borne commerce of the western coast of Canada has greatly increased and the average size of the ships engaged in it is growing greater. The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. has announced its intention of either bringing the Empress ships now engaged in trans-Atlantic trade to the Pacific or building similar ships for service in the Pacific. The contract for the Grand Trunk Pacific calls for the completion of this line within the next three years, and it is the declared policy of that company to place large steamships on the North Pacific ocean to run in connection with the National Transcontinental railway. The board submits that it would be only the exercise of ordinary prudence on the part of the government of Canada to provide suitable dockage facilities in Canadian waters for the handling of vessels of the class that will be employed in Canadian trans-Pacific commerce, which is being developed because of the policy of the government in regard to railway construction.

9. The board further submits that the possession of ample dockage facilities at Esquimalt must of necessity form a part of the so-called "All-Red" steamship service.

10. The board desires to point out that the forthcoming visit of the United States fleet to the Pacific ocean must be construed as signifying that, from a naval point of view, the waters of that ocean will take on a new importance and that in consequence it is almost a foregone conclusion that the Imperial navy will be represented on the Pacific coast by a permanent squadron, or by visiting squadrons, and it most respectfully urges upon your government if it is not incumbent upon Canada to provide upon her western coast a dock where His Majesty's ships of the largest class can be repaired. The board ventures to suggest that the provision of such a dock (continued on page 2)

WARNING VOICE FROM THE POST

In view of the trend of political events in Great Britain it is perhaps not surprising to read that the minds of men whose thoughts and experiences are all of the past should view the situation with misgivings.

The London Daily Mail recently published an interview with Sir Theodore Martin, described as the veteran poet and litterateur, in which the prevailing sentiment was despair of the future.

Sir Theodore has just celebrated his ninety-second birthday, and the reader need not be surprised to learn that he lives in the past, intellectually and politically, and has but little faith in what the immediate future has in store for Great Britain and her people.

The poet, we are told, was one of the most distinguished literary personages of the Victorian era. He was a close personal friend of Queen Victoria, and by Her Majesty was selected to write the "Life of the Prince Consort." Early in the present year he completed and published an interesting volume of his personal reminiscences of his friend the late Queen.

Sir Theodore, the Mail also notes, was the intimate friend of Dickens, Thackeray, and the other giants of that age, and his late wife, the brilliant actress, Miss Helen Faucit, was one of the most remarkable figures of the Victorian stage. He is thus exceptionally well equipped for contrasting the past with the present.

"You ask me," he stated, "what I think of the outlook for the present to the future. Let me tell my day and generation it is a sad and saddening spectacle. I have been reading to-day the debates in the House of Commons. For years I have studied this great problem of unemployment, but Parliament will never solve it by present methods."

"Why? Because you are inculcating in the working man principles of dependence, and the whole trend of your legislation is to discount the value of honest work. Yes, I have followed your Victor Graysons, your Keir Hardies, your John Burnises. But what is the logical outcome of all their preachings and prophecies? Surely that this grand old England of ours must decline—that is, if the demagogue has his way."

"But he will not have his way. At the core the great heart of the nation is sound, and things will right themselves with time. We may yet see the glitter of the bayonet in Piccadilly. We have heard that civilization is based on bayonets; and if demagogues have their way, peace may only be restored in London as in Warsaw. These firebrands are goading the people on to deeds of unthinkable barbarism, and how near the debacle may be in our loved country, God only knows."

"From the threshold of nine decades I can look back upon the decay of a grand old age. With the Victorian era departed much that was sweet and pure and admirable in the social life of our country has been lost."

through a phase of its existence. The ultimate destiny of the race is assured. It may be that, with peoples as with individuals, men must rise on their dead selves to higher things. "Let us sing out to our day and generation the clear, strong note of hope, the golden strain of faith. We of the old order see much to deplore in the new. The stately manners of spacious Victorian days are gone. Men with brass mouths and iron lungs come with their mechanical attention. Today, haste, bustle, noise, the jangling of the sibilant, the thousand and one mysterious allurements of the age have for a time dimmed the fair mirror of English life, but it will pass. I give this as my message to my countrymen: Your destiny is assured through, toil and tribulation. Though for a time tricksters and plimies may impede, your march is onward to the consummation of your great Imperial destiny."

THE NEW EMPRESSES.

The C. P. R. has decided to anticipate the inauguration of the all-red Imperial steamship line, at all events as far as the Atlantic section of that great project is concerned. The company has given orders for the construction of two new Empresses for the Atlantic ferry business, which when completed will release the Empress of Britain and the Empress of Ireland for operation in Pacific waters, thus confirming the announcement of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, made in Victoria, that presently we shall have the pleasure of halting the advent of the steamers which have made records on the eastern Canadian route. It would possibly have been more satisfactory had the company decided to place new and specially constructed craft in commission between British Columbia and Asiatic ports. It is not entirely flattering to our position to have the cast-off, although possibly not obsolete, Atlantic boats set aside for service upon the ocean which is sometimes rhetorically described as the future great highway of commerce. But our day will come. In the meantime we must submit to the decrees of the autocrats of transportation. There is no question that the Empresses of Britain and of Ireland are in every respect superior to the nearly twenty-year old Empress of India and her consorts. They are about a hundred feet longer and two or three knots faster. But the supremely satisfactory feature of the shuffle is that possibly both upon the Atlantic and the Pacific routes the ships will demonstrate the supremacy of the all-Canadian lines. The Empress of Britain has proved beyond cavil that passengers and mails crossing the Atlantic in an eighteen-knot ship can be delivered at destinations in every part of western Canada and the United States many hours sooner than passengers and mails carried by the ocean greyhounds plying between Liverpool and New York. That being the case, we may naturally expect sensational performances from the new Empresses, developing a speed of not less than twenty, possibly twenty-one knots. For these reasons the enterprise of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will be hailed with satisfaction by the people of Canada. They will bring the day of our anticipations nearer to hand, the day which will establish beyond peradventure the supremacy of the Canadian route across the Atlantic and across the Pacific as well.

The Times has frequently expressed the opinion, based upon what it sees in the columns of technical journals, that the steam locomotive must pass and yield to machines of greater power and higher economic value. This notwithstanding local conditions in respect of the cost of operation of electric and steam locomotives, enough has transpired to indicate that the electric locomotives cost considerably less. It takes 20,000 miles of running to wear down the tires of an electric locomotive, 1-32 of an inch, whereas that amount of wear will take place in from 4,000 to 5,000 miles on steam locomotives. It is not necessary to give the electric locomotive a roundhouse inspection at the end of every day's work. They are inspected at the end of every thousand-mile run, and the work can be done in about three and a half hours. According to J. P. Kelly, speaking before the Travelling Engineers' convention, the roundhouse examination consists in blowing out the electrical apparatus with an air blast, examining the motors; cleaning the commutators, contactors, switches, and controllers; sagging the contact shoes, and oiling the journals. The inspection can be commenced at once, since there is no fire cleaning, coaling, or watering to be done.

The Briton may be constitutionally slow from the point of view of some of his nervous, rapid-working neighbors, but he can yet do some things without letting the grass grow and come to maturity under his feet. The Scientific American points out that the rapidly with which England builds her warships is shown in the remarkably short time occupied in the construction of each of the six "Dreadnaughts," which she will have afloat by next month, when the Collingwood has been launched. The average time of construction, from the time of laying the keel to the launch, was seven and one-third months. With this rate of building and the large number of government and private dockyards at her disposal, she could pretty well replace the wastage of war, as it occurred, with new ships, if she should ever be forced to a protracted struggle.

According to all accounts, says the Ottawa Free Press, the arrival of the Cameron Highlanders in Pekin to replace the Middlesex regiment as legation guards created something of a sensation among the inhabitants. The Chinese Times asserts that the natives are hard at work trying to assimilate the Scotch language. They are reported as already making favorable progress. Instead of their favorite expression, "Me no savvy," they now employ "I dinna ken," and they greet the foreigners with "Gud Mornin'" with an excellent Auechtermuchty accent.

There is a hopeful sign in the tremendous agitation which has resulted from the Kaiser's interference in international affairs. It is the evident desire of responsible statesmen to maintain the peace of the world. The Imperial Senate of the United German Empire has been called in extraordinary session, and will probably join the Reichstag, or highest legislative body, in condemning the action of Emperor William. It is not so easy a matter for monarchs to provoke war as it was half a century, or less, ago.

THE COST OF ADVERTISING

The unwise merchant often wonders how some rival "can afford to spend so much money for advertising." He asks himself, "How could not—that it would bankrupt him in short order to 'plunge' into publicity of the kind that the other fellow does?" "The other fellow" is not worrying about the "cost" of his advertising for the simple reason that he doesn't have to pay it. The competitor who cannot "afford" to advertise really, in effect, pays the bills of the man who can "afford" it.

He pays them in the loss of business caused by his failure to advertise. The business he ought to have—his "share" of the trade in his line—goes, in large part, to the competitor who seeks it, who can afford to advertise for it. The profits on the trade drawn away from the third advertiser by the aggressive one pays the latter's advertising bills—and leaves a comfortable surplus. This is a fact which progressive merchants are proving all the time. So it ought to have some personal significance to the over-cautious business men who are waiting to get rich before "risking" adequate advertising campaigns.

any session, and will probably join the Reichstag, or highest legislative body, in condemning the action of Emperor William. It is not so easy a matter for monarchs to provoke war as it was half a century, or less, ago.

The Vancouver World speaks of some open spaces in this city. Indubitably the property of the provincial government, which passed into possession of the municipality. We would be delighted if our contemporary could point specifically to property of any considerable value the provincial government has at any time conveyed to the city. Is the World thinking of the old cemetery?

Winter is upon the East, and skating fatalities are succeeding accidents upon the unfrozen waters.

HARD ON OPPOSITIONS.

(Montreal Herald.) Oppositions are still running—in hard luck, in Quebec, in Ontario, in Canada, in the States, and now in Newfoundland, they have all fallen down. New Brunswick is the exception that proves the rule, unless we count that the new rule came into force after New Brunswick had declared herself.

A BROOM THAT FAILED.

(Moncton Transcript.) One of the most significant and gratifying features of the elections was the increase in the Liberal representation from Ontario. The Tory talk about "sweeping Ontario" was all moonshine.

DARE HE?

(Hamilton Herald.) It is announced that Mr. Taft will now take a long rest. But dare he? Think of the hundredweight of fat that he would probably take on.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES

STREET IMPROVEMENTS

Sitting as a Committee Various

Proposals Are Considered.

Several matters of permanent street improvements were discussed by the streets, bridges and sewers committee last evening, and a couple of deputations of citizens were received.

Cecilia street property owners walked upon the committee to ask for the grading and macadamizing of the street, the laying of permanent sidewalks and the construction of a bridge over the ravine crossed by the street. After discussion the committee decided to recommend that the work be done, provided the owners pay the whole cost, and this proposal will be submitted to the parties interested.

The owners interested in the widening and straightening of Belmont avenue, and the subsequent laying of permanent roadway and walks, are to be invited to meet the council on Monday evening at half-past seven. The work will cost a great deal more than was at first thought, owing to the necessity for purchasing strips of adjoining lots to straighten the street, and some proprietors are of opinion that the benefits to be derived will not warrant the expense.

The committee to recommend that the city pay one-third of the entire cost of the improvements, including in the cost the price paid for expropriating the land price for widening the street. The committee feel that this is as far as the city should go.

Harbinger avenue is to be graded and macadamized, the city paying one-fifth of the cost. John street, from Government to Pleasant, will be boulevardized with curb and gutter, and Esquimalt road, between Mary street and the city limits, which is in bad condition, will be repaired at a cost of $50.

The Sidney Ladies' Guild will hold a sale of work in White's hall, Sidney, on the afternoon of Saturday the 21st. The articles for sale will be very suitable for Christmas presents. The proceeds will help to swell the funds for the purpose of erecting an Episcopal church at Sidney.

A musical service will be held at the Centennial Methodist church tomorrow evening. Besides the regular music a quartette by Misses Palmer and Blakeway and Messrs. Blakeway and Dunford will be sung. A solo will also be given by Miss Blakeway entitled "Eye Hath Not Seen," from Handel, "Holy City." Miss Blakeway has just recently arrived in this city from Winnipeg.

The funeral of the late John Raymond, jr., took place yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of his father, 419 Belleville street. There was a very large attendance of sympathizing friends, the late Mr. Raymond being widely known throughout the city, and a large number of beautiful floral offerings were sent.

Which showed the esteem in which he was held, was held. The A. O. U. W. of which Mr. Raymond was a valued member, turned out in full force and escorted the remains to the cemetery, where the last rites of the order were observed. Rev. Mr. Sweet officiated. The following acted as pallbearers: Walter Lumey, R. Goodacre, J. H. Austin, J. Collier, W. B. Hall and P. Keown.

—A concert will be given on Friday evening, Dec. 4th, in the school room of the Metropolitan Methodist church in aid of the funds of the Sunday school library. A good programme is being prepared and all are cordially invited to attend.

—For the last six weeks J. G. Brown, the conductor of the orchestra "St. Paul" has been putting his chorus of 120 fine voices through some of the hardest practice that could be devised. Mr. Brown believes in hard work and strange to say his chorists like it and are very enthusiastic about it. Not only are the weekly rehearsals to be held, but special rehearsals for the various parts are now arranged. The first of these for the second soprano being slated for Tuesday evening at the First Presbyterian church schoolroom, and as indicating the zeal of the basses at last Wednesday's rehearsal, they volunteered to remain for half an hour to an hour after the regular practice next Wednesday to get a special drill on their part. The soloists are all hard at work and no effort is being spared to make this production something to be remembered in Victoria. An outstanding feature is the fact that everyone taking part is a Victorian and there is a spirit of enthusiasm in the whole organization directed and controlled by a veteran musical director that can only have one ending and that complete success.

POSTS ASSIGNED FOR "THE PIXIES"

Two Hundred Young Victorians Will Take Part in Extravaganza in Theatre.

The past ten days have been spent drilling the choruses, myriads of drills and the ability of the two hundred young ladies and children who take part. All have now been assigned to their posts. Director Sims has expressed himself as well pleased with the talent of the young people who are working so hard to make it a great success.

The leading roles will be played by Miss Nellie M. T. Lugin, as Queen Titania; Miss Violet Goodwin as Prince Florinel; Miss Lilian J. Clarke as Ariel; Miss Myrtle, the Harmless dupe; Miss Lugin will be heard in two solos, "Cradle Song" and "The Plan of a Woman," and in two duets with Miss Goodwin, "When Hearts Are True," and "When We're Together." Miss Goodwin has two rousing solos, "I am the Prince," and "Love is Tyrant." Miss Switzer will sing "Maybe," and with Miss Clarke, the beautiful duet, "Tell Me, Will My Dream Come True." Other soloists will be George Pauline, who as the Italian minister will sing "A Happy Roving Pair." Victor Pauline as Wui Lung in "Chinaman Will Mailly," Gypsy Switzer in "Can't Forget You," and Mr. M. E. Cowan in "Pipky Panky Foo," a Japanese specialty in which she will be assisted by the Misses Sybil Bagshaw, Lilias Bagshaw, Nora Lugin, Vivian Blackwood, Gilda Leary, Maude McB. Smith, Constance Fisher, Lilian Holden, Maude Holden, Anna McQuade, Loretta Spring and Aileen Spring, as Japanese maidens. An Amazon march and drill, consisting of eighty military movements, will be given by the Misses Winona Troupe, Vyvan Bolton, Susette Blackwood, Thornton Fell, Elizabeth Lubbe, Mary Bayliss, Ellen Riekey, Blanche Spith, Phyllis Jay, Mary Allott, Charity Ruschfort and Frowie Angus, costumed in "natty wild west" attire. A scrip drill will be given by the Misses Erma Cesarford, Ola Balcom, Dorothy Forrester, Jeannette Reilly, Lily Nichols, Edna Gray, Rhoda McGary, Eva Le Blanc, Gladys Fulton, Hilda Simpson, Elsie Sparrow, Zilla Balcom, Mary Sturgees, Phyllis Turrah, Gemma Gray and Violet Morohy, with a special dance prepared by Mrs. George Simpson and given by Grace Cameron, Frances Briggs, David Ramsey and Agnes Robertson. It will be presented at the Victoria theatre on Friday and Saturday nights, November 20th and 21st, and at a matinee on Saturday, in aid of the building fund of the Victoria Seamen's Institute.

Another Case Proving You Quickly Get Better Health From Ferrozone.

There's a real reason why Ferrozone cures.

It's true nerve tonic—not a stimulant—it feeds the nerves with nourishment gives them vital activity.

No other tonic in the world like Ferrozone, nothing else is so quick and labing in its effects on a run-down, nervous system. "I used enough medicine to appreciate an honest one," writes J. B. Beattie, from his home in Newcastle. "From babyhood I was not overly strong and was always nervous. I smoked a good deal, but on the whole my habits were good. My trouble first began with a shortening of the hours of sleep. I would awaken too early, my appetite was poor, and to whip it up I used highly spiced and sweet foods. First thing I knew I had palpitation on doing a little extra work, and then an awful tiredness came upon me, and a strange feeling of dread—almost of fear—made me think I was losing grip of myself. My power of memory weakened and I lost my position. Then I read about Ferrozone. Say, it's awfully good to get a medicine that helps you right off. I don't mind telling you I was badly scared, and every dose was almost like sunshine. At once I began to feel better, and permanently better. I really was, for less than a dozen boxes made me a well man and I am grateful to Ferrozone."

Ferrozone corrects all enfeebled conditions of the system, builds up and gives the body great restorative power against disease. To use Ferrozone assures lasting robust health. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers. Try Ferrozone, do it today.

For strength and interesting qualities in dramatic form, there is nothing to surpass the coming presentation of the latest New York success, "The Squaw Man." In which Dustin Farnum will appear at the Victoria theatre on Monday night next. In writing this play, Mr. Farnum has gone a step farther than many dramatists, and has succeeded in putting together a comprehensive structure. There is always a strong interest in the west, but few plays have shown that life of the plains of twenty years ago as it really was, with its atmosphere of arid heat, strong passions and faithful friendships.

The story of "The Squaw Man" is of exceptional strength, and the cast that has been secured to interpret it is one of superior ability. Mr. Farnum, known for years as one of the best actors on the American stage, plays the title role. Human emotion is shown at every turn, and yet it is all handled so delicately, so ably, that there is not one discordant note to be found at any point. Throughout only absolute strength and virility, with clean-cut human passion and a certain element of self-sacrifice upon which the play hinges is to be found. So vital is the tale that runs athwart the stage, that the interest of the spectator is held as by a spell, and that the artist receives a satisfaction to the auditor that is hard to duplicate. It has been said that "The Squaw Man" is the greatest American play, but that question the audience is to be left to decide itself.

"Hip! Hip! Hooray!" is the starring vehicle in which Rice and Cady, the two greatest comedians ever produced by the Pacific coast, will be seen at the Victoria theatre on Tuesday next, supported by a company of fifty people. This is the latest of the Weber successes, having run at last season at Weber's Broadway music hall. It is by Edgar Smith and Gus Edwards, and is described on the programme as a "college yell in two shouts."

In "Hip! Hip! Hooray!" the life in a college town is satirized very humorously and very good naturedly. Everything within the range of reason has been done in providing a superbly realistic setting; elaborate costumes, handsome show girls and pretty choruses. Julian Mitchell's stage novelties have alone made the performances celebrated. One does not expect realism in a musical comedy; amusement is its sole purpose, and "Hip! Hip! Hooray!" is gloriously diverting. Rice and Cady have won national fame as comedians in their new vehicle "Hip! Hip! Hooray!" and the entire country has ratified the declaration of San Francisco theatregoers that they are the cleverest German dialect comedians on the American stage. In the company are such Broadway favorites as Max Phelps, William Mack, Belle Dale, Rose Leslie, Harry Shunk, Thos. Murray, Marie Trumbull, the famous dancing academy and a chorus taken from Weber's forces.

The rose garden in the fourth act of "On Parole," the military drama which Wilbur Mack and Miss Maude Leone are appearing in this season, is said to be one of the most finished pictures of stage craft presented of late years. It represents the garden of the Pickney household, near the Rappahannock river in Virginia, a week after the fall of Richmond. The Pickneys are of the loyal South and they have given their men's lives and their women's hearts to the cause they espoused. When the curtain rises on the fourth act the family are waiting to hear the final news as to the success or failure of their idol, Gen. Rob. E. Lee, and finally, when the crushing news is brought to them by a battered Confederate soldier who stands in the midst of this garden beautiful, and to the music of the birds in the trees overhead, tells the story of a great struggle with a hopeless end, lost past all hope.

The curtain descends with Gen. Pickney's words echoing through a nation's tears, "God's will be done." "On Parole" will be at the Victoria theatre on Thursday, November 19th. Bioscope Pictures.

Victorians, especially those who are fathers or mothers, will be pleased to hear that the management of the Victoria theatre has arranged for the London bioscope animated pictures to be shown every night when the theatre is not presenting one of its other attractions. A splendid programme is assured; one of the latest and best machines procurable has been purchased and arrangements made with a well-known firm in Seattle for the supply of high-class films, which will be shown by the same operator who toured the world with the London Bioscope Company. A highly trained vocalist, who has already gained quite an enviable reputation in musical circles, has been engaged to render the illustrated songs, and will be accompanied by the well-known Victoria theatre orchestra, which during the progress of the moving pictures from 7 o'clock to 10.30, will give selections from the many musical plays that have appeared at the Victoria theatre this and last season. This is a new departure, which will fit a long-felt want owing to the splen-

TOUR OF CALIFORNIA SOCCER MEN PROBABLE Small Guarantee Asked if Dates to Suit Can Be Fixed.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 13.—Success appears likely to attend the proposal of Secretary Goodman, honorary secretary of the California Football Association, that the C. F. A. send a picked team on tour through Portland, Tacoma and Seattle into British Columbia. The only rock on which the scheme may split is that of time. Goodman is insistent that the trip, if made, be during the Christmas holidays.

Portland, which was the first city to respond to Secretary Goodman's letter, urged strongly that the proposed tour be held off till spring, on the following grounds: The five cities in the North Pacific Coast Football League—Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and Ladysmith—have scheduled either district league or coast league games for both Christmas and New Year's, the days which would bring the biggest guarantee money for games like those with the picked Californians would be.

The weaker northern teams, such as Portland and Tacoma, would be in better condition to give the Californians a run for their money after a winter's work. These five arguments were advanced in Portland's response to Mr. Goodman, urging postponement of the tour to March or April. Several other suggestions were made, to all of which he assented readily. His second letter, however, still holds out for holiday fixtures, saying cup ties in the California Football Association last May and that it would be hard for the southerners to get away in March or April.

ME Goodman spoke with pride of the quality of football in the south, saying he thought the men from California could hold their own with the best British Columbia teams. Soccer has flourished for years around San Francisco Bay and in the Sacramento valley. The California Football Association now has jurisdiction over 1,900 players. There are eight teams in the earlier league around the bay and a league has just been organized, so Geo. J. Mountz, secretary in fact of the C. F. A., writes to a Portland friend, in the high schools of central California. It is believed guarantees of $750 would get the C. F. A. men north, and this amount divided among Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo and Ladysmith would net, it is believed here, be impracticable.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR NEW VICTORIA UNITED Island League Soccer Team in Hands of Alex Rutherford.

Two hundred odd men crowded into the J. B. A. Club rooms last night in response to the call of the Victoria United Association team organizers for a meeting of all who were interested in the leading team to represent the city in the Island Association league. The meeting was enthusiastic and those present in a discussion of the chances of Victoria gaining the Island premiership this year were optimistic. It was learned that Victoria West players were heart and soul with the new organization, that the Garrison were prepared to step in and give their best men to fill any places, and that the James Bay team also offer their combination to Alex. Rutherford, the manager and trainer, to select from.

Alex. Peden was elected president of the club with Alex. Rutherford secretary and manager, and both selections were wise ones. Rutherford has shown his experience to those who did not know it before by his actions the last three weeks at the various matches he has attended, and his advice to Sam Lorimer on Saturday last when Prevost was given the penalty kick which scored the winning goal against Nanaimo proved that Rutherford is a man of knowledge and judgment. Under his direction the new organization looks to be a bright future and last night's meeting was of opinion that he is the right man in the right place.

Of those present there were several who offered the new team financial support should that be required beyond the gate receipts. The club will not lack money, supporters or players of the first grade and ability, so that Victoria has a bright chance of winning out head of the list in the Island league this season. A second meeting will be called as soon as the Island schedule, to be formed to-night, is made known and it is seen how soon Victoria will have to be ready for the first game. At that meeting the team captain will be selected, players listed for registration, and training quarters duly selected. Rutherford intends picking out the men he will need at once, offering them places on the team and getting them to work at once, under the understanding that all get the same measure of fair play just as they deserve it. Ability and condition will stand as the first rule on which a man will be selected on the team, while favoritism and friendship will not be placed to the benefit of one man to the detriment of another.

Ed. Whyte left this afternoon on the 3 o'clock train to attend the Island league meeting at Nanaimo to-night, and had with him three entries from senior Victoria teams, Victoria United, Equimault and the Fifth Regiment. It

Matured as whisky should be.

The Most Up-to-date Distillery on the American Continent is at Corbyville, Ont.

HIS new distillery erected on the site of the old one, which was destroyed by fire a few years ago, has a distilling capacity of THREE MILLION gallons per annum and every possible facility for the making of good Whisky.

Fortunately the fire which destroyed the distillery did not reach the great storehouse in which Corby's favorite old brand—"Special Selected"—had been accumulating for many years and this good old Rye Whisky is what the people of Canada are now getting.

The Whisky now being distilled by the new plant is being stored away for future use.

In Whisky, MATURITY is essential to PURITY.

The Canadian Government demands that Canadian Whisky must be at least two years old before it is offered for sale, and every bottle that leaves the Corby Distillery bears the Government Stamp certifying the age of the Whisky.

If you do not know why age is so essential to that mellowness you hear so much about,

SPORTING NOTES

This afternoon Victoria West is playing Cedar Hill at Clark's field, Esquimalt and the Garrison are playing at Work Point barracks and the Regiment and Bays are engaged at the Royal Athletic ground. Victoria West second team is playing, Baraca and the North Ward juniors are playing the High school. All the games are under the Victoria and District Association league.

At Oak Bay, the Bays and the City team are playing in their first serious Rugby competition of the season. Both teams are strongly represented. The first international hockey match is being played this afternoon at Oak Bay between the local club and Seattle. The match is the first of the season under the B. C. Hockey League. There will be a hockey dance to-night at the A. O. U. W. hall, which from the large demand for tickets, promises to be a big success. Equimault Athletic Association have a meeting at the Gantzen ground rooms Tuesday night to organize the second senior team for the Island league. A full attendance is requested of all interested in the club and the success of the city in the Island league.

It is possible that an entry will be declined as the up island teams will more than likely object to three times travelling against once for the Victoria teams. Should such be the case the Fifth Regiment entry will have to be the one to stand out, as that team will be an organization of Fifth Regiment and Cedar Hill players, which are at present the two tail end teams of the local league.

The Island league meets to-night at Nanaimo, when the schedule will be drawn for this season. Ed. Whyte resigns and a new secretary will be appointed. Ernest Barry, the winner of the English sculling championship, has announced his intention of going after the world's championship. Richard Armit, of New Zealand, rows Webb, the present champion, on the Wanganui river on December 15th. Barry will challenge the winner and the race should be rowed in New Zealand waters early next year. The Australian Rugby team in England has defeated London 3 to 6. There were 8,000 spectators present. London papers say the play was poor and never rose above the standard of an ordinary game.

The Jam Sahib of Nawanganar (Prince Rajjitsinhji) has returned to India. He was accorded a farewell dinner in the Guildhall, Cambridge, at which there were present many celebrities and prominent cricketers. "Ranjis" averages were the top ones on eight occasions, including last season, his highest being 87.57 in 1900 for Sussex. Everton and Newcastle United are still leading in the English league with sixteen points each. The last list gave Everton a lead which Newcastle has since regained. Birmingham leads the second division and Southampton the Southern.

John Roberts, the wizard of the cue, is back in London playing a billiard match with Harverson, whom he gives 4,000 in 18,000. Roberts is now 62 years of age and is still brilliant. Mortimer and McNamee, who are matched for a twenty-round boxing contest at the A. O. U. W. hall on December 8th, are now in steady training. Both men established their quarters outside the city after posting for-felts with Alex. Monteth, of the Victoria West Athletic Club, and have now settled down to work. To-morrow what will be one of the closest games of the new Pacific Coast league is to be fought at Ladysmith between the team of that city and Nanaimo. These old rivals are both about as keen on winning the premiership as the other clubs in the league, and they are more keen than ever on beating each other. The result of the game will have a strong bearing on the places of the teams in the league for the premiership. AN INTERESTING

A pleasing feature of modern life is the perfection of the color-printer's art, which gives fine pictures a far wider publicity than used to be possible. A beautiful work, formerly little known to the general public, is "Waiting," by Reutlinger. It is the figure of a girl and the cleverness with which the artist has treated his subject is apparent in every detail. The look of patient expectancy, the attitude—with the cheek resting on the palm of the hand—all bespeak the sweetheart waiting for her lover. Such pictures furnish subject matter for thought, and awaken an interest that makes the observer linger with sympathetic admiration. A clever reproduction of Reutlinger's painting in the beautiful colors of the original, may now be seen in many of the tobacco stores, where its purpose is to advertise "Pedro," the new Virginia cigarette, which is being placed on the market under these happy auspices.

When babies are restless and sleepless it is the surest possible sign of illness. Well babies sleep soundly and wake up brightly. Mothers need not be afraid of this medicine as it is guaranteed by a government analyst to contain no opiate or narcotic. Mrs. Louis Reville, Gawas, Ont., says: "I am never without Baby's Own Tablets in the house. "I have brought up a large family and have always enjoyed good health until the last two years. I am fifty-four years of age and at the critical time of life that comes to every woman, I had pains in my right hip and shoulder. I could not lie down two minutes at a time without suffering the greatest agony. Sometimes I awakened with a feeling as if some one had laid a piece of ice on my head. Another time it would be a burning pain under the shoulder.

"I took many medicines but could get no relief, till reading of cases of similar cases to my own by Dodd's Kidney Pills, led me to try them. They did wonders for me.

"I want all women to know what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me."

ONE WOMAN'S STATEMENT

THESE HIGHLY EFFECTIVE REMEDIES TO USE—DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

They Prove a Blessing to Her Aching Her Pains and Weakness Were Almost More than She Could Bear.

St. George, Man., Nov. 9.—(Special.)— Hoping to save her sister women in the West from pains and aches which come at the critical times in a woman's life, Mrs. Arsene Vinet of this place has given the following statement for publication:—

"I have brought up a large family and have always enjoyed good health until the last two years. I am fifty-four years of age and at the critical time of life that comes to every woman, I had pains in my right hip and shoulder. I could not lie down two minutes at a time without suffering the greatest agony. Sometimes I awakened with a feeling as if some one had laid a piece of ice on my head. Another time it would be a burning pain under the shoulder.

"I took many medicines but could get no relief, till reading of cases of similar cases to my own by Dodd's Kidney Pills, led me to try them. They did wonders for me.

"I want all women to know what Dodd's Kidney Pills did for me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. The woman who has sound kidneys is safeguarded against ninetenths of the suffering that makes life a burden to the women of Canada.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN MEETS MONDAY

New Officers Will Be Elected at Morning Session.

The annual meeting of the Local Council of Women will be held in the Board of Trade building on Monday, Nov. 15, at 10 o'clock and the afternoon at 2:30.

After the preliminary opening of the Monday morning session, the election of officers will take place, a matter of special importance being the selection of a new president in place of Mrs. Day, who, owing to ill-health, has been forced to decline being re-appointed to the office, much to the regret of her fellow workers. The nominees for the presidency are as follows: Mrs. Fitzgibbon, Mrs. C. E. Cooper, Mrs. W. C. Sheldon, Mrs. Dr. Young, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Forster, Mrs. T. Burns, Mrs. Justin Gilbert, Mrs. Williscroft, Mrs. Crease, Mrs. Perrin, Mrs. Spofford, Mrs. F. Andrews.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. C. Sheldon.

Recording secretary, Mrs. M. Jenkins.

Treasurer, Mrs. Wm. Grant.

Announcements of the result of the election will be made immediately after the opening of the Monday afternoon session. Mrs. Day will follow with the opening address, after which the secretary's reports will be read and there will be a discussion of council work. Mrs. Day will then give a full report of the meeting of the National Council at Ottawa, in which she will make a special feature of the Juvenile Delinquent Bill, recently passed by the Dominion parliament. She will also speak of the arrangements for the quinquennial meeting of the International Council to be held in Toronto in June.

During the morning and afternoon sessions a number of resolutions will be brought before the meeting. They will deal with the franchise, local option, the bringing before the city council the necessity of keeping the streets free from weeds and grass, the establishment of an infirmary hall in connection with the Jubilee hospital, the passing and enforcing of a workable curfew by-law for the purpose of keeping young people off the streets at a late hour, the organizing of a Woman's Canadian Club on the same lines as those existing in other parts of the Dominion, and calling the attention of the civic authorities to the necessity for a woman's building at the agricultural exhibition.

There will also be a discussion on a number of amendments to the constitution of the Local Council of Women as it now stands.

All meetings of the council will be open to the public, and it is hoped by the executive that many will avail themselves of the opportunity to be present.

TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR BELLA COOLA

Blocks in Valley Being Cut Into Twenty and Forty Acre Tracts.

B. F. Jacobsen, who on October 31st, fourteen years ago, established the Norwegian settlement at Bella Coola, is in town at the Balmoral hotel. He is on business connected with the colony and is negotiating the introduction of a telephone system from Bella Coola township to a point about twenty miles up the valley. Mr. Jacobsen is advocating the division of the settlement blocks in the Bella Coola valley into twenty and forty-acre lots, which also he maintains is more suitable for fruit settlement, the one hundred and sixty-acre blocks being beyond the control and cultivation of the fruit growers. The settlers want to get more of the country opened and settled and think the plan proposed and now being put into effect is the best means of succeeding.

Mr. Jacobsen figures the cost to new settlers of clearing the land at from $90 to $100 per acre, as there is now no open land left idle. The settlers have received great benefit from the Dominion government grant of stumping powder. Several lots of the reduced sites have been sold and are being put under cultivation, principally by Californians who claim that the land is equal to any on the continent for fruit growing. There are now in Bella Coola settlement between 350 and 400 settlers who are all doing well, many of whom entered the valley with a very moderate capital at their command and who are now independent.

Mr. Jacobsen is an advocate of having the land up the valley surveyed, cut into forty-acre lots and opened up by the government. He says settlement will follow quickly and that there will always be a good market for the produce at Prince Rupert and along the coast. The whole product of the settlement at present goes north and that market will be the principal one until cheap transportation with the south is established.

The timber business is likely to develop and become an important item in the future of the district. There is some of the finest timber, says Mr. Jacobsen, in that district and it is passing into the hands of American buyers rapidly. It is probable, he says, that the log jams in the river will shortly be cleared when the settlement will be able to compete with any market. Meantime new settlers are wanted as there will under the new departure of cutting up the land be plenty of forty-acre lots for disposal and settlement that will repay investment.

Court Northern Light, A. O. F., at its regular meeting on Wednesday evening, held initiation and received applications for membership. The whist tournament which has been inaugurated by the social committee is proving a success, being largely attended by visiting members and lady members of Court Maple Leaf. Prizes are given at each meeting, with extra prizes at the close of the competition for those with the largest score. Next Wednesday evening the members will attend in a body Court Victoria meeting, the occasion of an initiation and smoking concert. Several new courts have recently been organized at Nelson and Duncan and one is to be instituted next week at Sidney, and at an early date in Ladysmith, and at other points on the Island and mainland.

A WOMAN'S SUFFERING

CONSULTATIONS WITH DOCTORS AND SPECIALISTS GAVE BUT LITTLE RELIEF.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 13.—Mrs. R. J. Rawlings, of 12 Argyle street, gives the following statement which should be of interest to every reader: "No one could know what I have suffered with torturing headaches, faint feeling, and lassitude. In the mornings I was scarcely able to do my work and when night came I felt too miserable to sleep. The doctors did me little good, so I decided to buy Dr. Hamilton's Pills about which I have heard so much good. In a week I improved. My headaches were less severe, my appetite increased, and faintness passed away. Day by day I gained strength and increased in weight. The trouble I am sure was in my stomach, and Dr. Hamilton's Pills did what was necessary. I used twenty boxes and in consequence will live twenty years longer."

Just the prescription for every tired, ailing woman, — try Dr. Hamilton's Pills and see if this isn't so. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box.

—Miss Grylls will give the fifth of the series of eight recitals for which she has been engaged at the Empress hotel this evening. The following programme will be rendered by her: "Who is Sylvia?" Schubert; "Since I Have Loved Thee," Noel Johnson; "Danton," Max Stange; (a) "Love's Benediction," Aylward; (b) "Love," E. R. Pack; "Woodland Madrigal," Batten; "The Ballad of the Daughter of Islington," Old English.

Gillette Safety Razor
If You Want To Know What "An Easy Shave" Feels Like, Use the "New Process" Blades
NO doubt you thought perfection had been reached when you shaved with the Gillette Safety Razor and the usual Gillette Blade. We thought so, too—at first. But four years ago, we started out to make a better blade. That was a big undertaking.
First of all, we were then using the hardest steel that the greatest steel makers in the world could produce. We set experts at work to create a new steel, that would take a keener shaving edge than had yet been possible and still be rolled as thin as a sheet of paper.
It took nearly three years before our steel experts perfected the formula for this super-fine steel.
Then the tempering process had to be regulated to give increased hardness to the steel. And finally, automatically regulated machines had to sharpen the blades on both sides with unsweaving precision.
All this was accomplished in four years. Today, we offer you, in "New Process" Blades, the keenest, most durable razor edge that the world has ever known.
If you want to realize what a real easy shave feels like—if you want to enjoy, to the full, the supreme luxury of an absolutely smooth, comfortable shave—get a box of "New Process" Blades on your way home and shave with one in the morning.
"New Process" Blades are put up in handsome nickel-boxes, which hermetically seal themselves when closed—and which make convenient match-boxes when empty. 12 "New Process" Blades (24 shaving edges) for a dollar.
Gillette Safety Razor and 12 "New Process" Blades, $5. At leading Jewelry, Drug, Cutlery, Hardware, Sporting Goods and Department Stores, or from

"THE LEGEND OF THE WEST"

By Mrs. Simpson-Hayes.

(Reviewed by Marguerite Evans.)

Mrs. Simpson-Hayes has just issued a cleverly written and charmingly illustrated booklet entitled "The Legend of the West."

The book is a full and complete history of the West, from the first of the pioneers to the present day.

Mrs. Hayes is herself a citizen of Victoria. The numerous illustrations are by a clever young Victorian artist, Miss Lillian J. Clark, who has succeeded not only as an artist, but as a writer, in catching the spirit of the West, and the illustrations are to the book what a properly conceived accompaniment is to a song, an interpretation, and a complement. The cuts have been admirably executed by the B. C. Photo Engraving Company, soft, sepia tones, and the booklet has been set up by a local firm in a manner which leaves nothing to be desired. The cover is a most catchy and suggestive one, being cleverly conceived and admirably carried out. Made of golden brown leather in a simple, tied with things of white shagreen, and having the title and a broken pipe of peace fastened to the pages inside, as a cover should, but seldom does.

"The Legend of the West" is not only a meritorious production, but it is the first attempt made to record the history of a race now passing into oblivion. CHAPTER III

The half-breed made her entrance into the store, as she had made her exit by way of the window, and presently called through the opened door.

"What is it?"

"Nan wants you."

"Can't I'm too busy, I am."

"Oh, come for just one little minute. Nan wants to see you."

"Now, what is it? I'm in a hurry, I am," said William presenting himself at the door of the office, and looking rather the worse for his recent trussing, from which he had only a few minutes before been released by an Indian who happened to drop in.

"Nan wants to see you something."

"Well, hark away, but you'd better be quick about it," returned Billy, whose morning's work, owing to his recent enforced idleness was badly behind.

"Nan wants to see you."

NEEDS OF PORT TO BE PRESSED

would be a very valuable contribution to imperial defence.

4. The repair of ships at this port is a very large and increasing factor in its business. Private enterprise has done a great deal to provide facilities for such work, but the cost of a drydock sufficient to accommodate vessels of the large class now in common use for commercial as well as naval purposes is beyond the reach of local capital, and the board suggests that under any circumstances it would not be desirable for national reasons to have such a dock in private hands when it is evident that for a long time to come there is not likely to be more than one.

5. The board desires to point out further that as the construction of such a work would require considerable time and that, if work were begun forthwith, it would hardly be completed before it might be urgently required.

The board therefore respectfully requests that the subject matter of this memorandum may be taken into consideration by the government of Canada and that an appropriation may be made at the present session of the parliament so that the construction of such a drydock as will meet the requirements of the case, may be begun during the present year.

Esquimalt Drydock.

Mr. Shallcross said there had been a feeling that since the withdrawal of the navy from Esquimalt it had not been maintained in anything like the efficiency of former days, and it was felt more strongly because by the terms of union the Dominion government promised to use its influence to preserve Esquimalt as a naval station. The policy of Britain at present was to withdraw its fleets, though from a report in that day's paper of the sending of cruisers to South Africa, it might be that the same thing would be done on the Pacific. However, vessels like the Invincible were sent out they could not dock at Esquimalt. In addition to the naval question, which was largely in the hands of the admiralty, the dock being a port once was largely a dock to private enterprise. There had been an extraordinary development since it was first started by the small to dock either men-of-war or merchantmen of large size. Both on naval and commercial grounds, therefore, he thought the board of trade was justified in asking serious consideration for and a favorable decision upon their request.

The Naval Station.

Hon. Mr. Templeman thought it right to correct Mr. Shallcross as to the naval station at Esquimalt.

"This is not under the control of the Dominion government. It has never been transferred to Canada, and we have no jurisdiction over the naval yard. It is in the hands of Imperial officers, who are in charge of it as naval property. It is true the navy was withdrawn from Esquimalt, as it was from Halifax and from Bermuda, and other outlying stations, but that was in pursuance of the policy of Sir John Fisher, or of the admiralty, to concentrate the fleet in the home waters. No doubt it was contemplated that the admiralty property at Halifax and Esquimalt should be transferred to Canada. That at Halifax has been transferred legally, and a long document has been signed under which the Dominion government took charge of the naval works, docks, etc., with the responsibility of maintaining them, the Imperial government reserving the right to retake possession of them at any moment in case of war. That agreement has not been arrived at in respect to Esquimalt. There is a mistaken public idea in that regard. We have sometimes thought that probably the admiralty may design in the near future to bring the fleet back to Esquimalt; at least that idea has been in my mind. The only thing we have ever done with in regard to Esquimalt cove, which was reserved by the Dominion government for the use of the fleet altogether, it is now thrown open for commercial shipping. That is the only thing we have done."

Need For a Drydock.

Respecting the need for a drydock, Mr. Templeman said he quite concurred in everything in the report which had been read, but he did not think members of the board and shipping men understood properly the tremendous difficulties in the way of a private company organizing a drydock. That at Halifax had been heavily subsidized by the Imperial government and the old Nova Scotia government. St. John, with a large shipping business, the winter port of call for the C. P. R. Empresses, had no drydock. Half-a-dozen years ago Mayor Robertson, a strong promoter, with a Dominion government guarantee of 2 1/2 per cent. on a million dollars subsidies from the city and province, a free site and tax exemption, was unable to raise the money to construct a drydock, although he spent a year in England in the effort. Four years ago Mr. Thompson, of Vancouver, tried to take advantage of the same government guarantee to build a dock there, and it was understood he had been able to raise all but $500,000, which the London financiers considered should be raised in British Columbia. Nothing more was heard of that proposal. Montreal had no drydock, Quebec had none worth speaking of, and Vancouver none.

Two Alternatives.

In respect to Esquimalt, a Victoria firm had put in an application over a year ago for a floating dock. That had been under consideration, and nothing done. He had been in doubt himself whether it was wise to subsidize a private concern in opposition to a government dock.

"I rather incline to the view that the present dock should be enlarged or a second dock constructed," continued the minister, "and I have so discussed the matter with my colleague, the minister of public works. The arguments are stronger in favor of a dock at Esquimalt to take in these large vessels, and be prepared to accommodate ships of the navy, than at any of the eastern ports. Esquimalt is the best port on the Pacific for this purpose, and for all other shipping purposes as well. The only difficulty in enlarging the present dock would be that it would have to be closed. I have not much doubt that if enlargement is feasible it would be done, and if not a second dock would be the alternative, which it would be harder to get the government to agree to. Anything I can do to impress the government with the necessity for action in this regard I will cheerfully do, as soon as this board has decided upon a policy in the matter."

Mr. Shallcross explained that he had more reference to the smaller military force here now. He had no doubt that if the board worked together and in conference with the minister it could get what it wanted. He thought, however, that the cost of enlargement would go a long way to constructing a new dock.

Mr. Lugin considered that it would be only a proper contribution to Imperial defence for the Canadian government to construct a new dock.

President Leiser, who had previously expressed the pleasure of the board at having their fellow member with them, thanked Mr. Templeman for the valuable information he had given the board.

"If we get together and stick together we can get a bigger dock," was his summing up.

Other Business.

Before the meeting closed the secretary announced the gift, by C. W. Rhodes, of a large photograph of H. D. Rhodes, who was president of the Chamber of Commerce from 1867 to 1878.

On motion of Mr. Mara a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Rhodes for the gift.

Mr. Mara was asked to let the board have his own photograph.

George Carter, at the outside of the meeting, drew attention to the dilatory

'FRUIT-A-LIVES' SAVES MRS. MCCREADY UNTOLD SUFFERING

"Dear Sirs, My wife suffered for over a year from Indigestion and Bowel trouble. Several doctors treated her for this trouble and advised her that only an operation would save her life, as they stated it was a tumor that was causing the trouble. The operation was to cost $300, and while she was debating in her own mind about being operated on, she was advised to try 'Fruit-a-lives,' which I procured for her from our local merchant. From the first box she improved, and after having taken four boxes she is completely cured and is now as well as ever. I decided then that 'Fruit-a-lives' was the most wonderful remedy in the world, and it certainly saved my wife's life. OXFORD O.K. RANGE.

Would you prefer to burn wood in preference to coal in your O. K. Range? You can lift out the grates without disturbing the top. The grate can be removed in an instant and the wood grate substituted. Any O. K. Range will take a stick of wood the full 24 inches in length. Then, too, there is always hot water in plenty with the O. K. There is a 'pin' water front, with projections on which the fire must impinge. There is capacity for a 60-gallon tank or a large reservoir.

Ask your dealer to show you these two features of the O. K.—the hot water supply, and the easy method of alteration from coal to wood or vice versa.

NEXT YEAR'S TRADE ACROSS THE PACIFIC

C. P. R. Plans to Cope With Increase Not Yet Known.

The trade of the Pacific is rapidly growing, and the recent rate changes will in all probability favor the Canadian route. It took two extra freighters to handle the traffic last year it will take more next year, unless there is some new competition. Should the Hill line come to this port, its coasters, which would cut into the C. P. R. trade considerably. There will be extra liners required, and where they are coming from cannot at present be seen. President Shaughnessy when he hinted that the Atlantic emporium would probably be round on this coast hereafter, but it is not likely that they can have a better line than the C. P. R. The two new Empresses being built on the Clyde are to be ready in the meantime something will have to be done to cope with the increased trade, and whatever it will be towards the close of the season, as she was reported by the other seamen to have only 300.

SEALING SCHOONER BECALMED OFF NOOTKA

Indians Report Dora Seaward to Have Catch of 560 Skins.

Sealing schooner Dora Seaward arrived off Nootka yesterday morning, according to a report received last night. She was belahmed so the Indians who have been out in her hunting took to their canoes and returned to their villages. They say that the schooner has a catch of 560 skins. If this proves to be correct, she has done well towards the close of the season, as she was reported by the other seamen to have only 300.

WESTERN FOLK LORE

The Legend of the Jay, by W. R. Anderson.

Many, many years ago, so runs the story when the world was young, and early in the day of the Great Maker, a young man named Jay was born. His father was a great hunter, a good fisherman, and an expert trapper. He was a skilful freemaker, and knew well how to choose the proper wood for the firestick. Also he was a clever householder, and early learned that a large house took much heating, whereas a smaller one could be made more easily tight and warm. Hence he made his beds small, and was warm and comfortable when the winter winds blew, and his neighbors shivered in their draughty homes.

So well modelled were this man's canoes that they were eagerly sought by many people from a distance, as well up in his native village. When the man married the pretty young daughter of a neighboring chief, their small world said that they were meant for each other, and Twimpean society went into ecstasies over the brilliant affair and wisely nodded its head and predicted long and unalloyed happiness for the young couple, much as it does in other circles in these latter days. For some years the couple lived happily together, despite the fact that no children came to cheer the home. The husband, being a clever craftsman and a man of business, as has been shown, was much of his time away, sometimes to remote parts where it was inconvenient to take his wife, and thus in consequence she was left a good deal alone, and in time, having no maternal ties, she got into the habit of wandering about and began to seek other society. The husband noticed the change, and remonstrated with her gently at first, and more firmly as he saw his advice was not taken. Finally, the woman burst out in a torrent of invectives, reproaching him with coolness and neglect. "If you care for me as you used, why are you away so often, and for so long?" she asked. "Here, at home, is your place, with me, not away in distant villages, where perhaps you seek other women." In reply he explained that his skill was sought, and his services well paid for, by reason of which their home was comfortable, their stores of food and clothing were always large, and their lot far better than most of their neighbors. She would not listen to anything but continued to rail at him, and then relapsed into sulky silence. Things continued in this way for some time, until he finally told her that should she stay away after nightfall again, she would have to stay away altogether. Her answer was a sulky pout and gloomy silence.

Not long after, the man departed on

EXPERIENCE IS BETTER THAN ARGUMENT

The world-wide fame of Mother Seigel's Syrup is based on the evidence of men and women whom it has cured of indigestion, biliousness, constipation, headaches, sleeplessness, flatulence, nervous depression, anemia, and other disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Compounded of roots and herbs, Mother Seigel's Syrup contains digestive ferments and gentle tonics for the stomach, liver and kidneys. These qualities render it invaluable to all who, through unhealthy surroundings, sedentary occupation, worry, overwork, or climatic changes, lack the vitality which only good food, well digested, can supply. When you are tormented with indigestion, so that you can't eat, can't work, can't think, can't sleep, you should at once give Mother Seigel's Syrup a trial. Tens of thousands of people testify to the curative qualities possessed by Mother Seigel's Syrup because it has cured them. Profit by their experience!

Here is some proof:—Mr. Christy Battersow, Mabon, Inverness Co., N.S., writing on August 13th, 1908, says:—About eighteen months ago I took a severe cold, while at work near Marble Mountain, C.B. Neglect brought on frequent headaches, a racking cough and a sore side. While visiting a friend at Lake Ainslie, I was induced to take Mother Seigel's Syrup. In a short time my cough vanished and apart from obtaining a cure, I increased my weight by thirteen pounds.

A journey to a distant village, where his services were required in making a giant war canoe which was the work of months. First the tree had to be felled, the stone axes requiring frequent sharpening during this operation. A platform was built some ten feet high, so that the chopper could work above the immense swelled butt. A channel about two inches wide was cut into the trunk at convenient working height, much as a carpenter cuts a mortise, a wooden mallet being used to drive the stone chisel. A foot or more above this, a similar channel was hacked out, each channel being made as deep as possible. Then the slab of wood between was split out, the channels cut deeper into the trunk, until the woodsman judged the "undercut" deep enough. The staging was then shifted to the opposite side of the tree and the operation of chivelling out repeated, until finally, after weeks of slow, patient toil, the immense tree would come crashing to earth. Frequently it would happen that after much patient labor, it was found that the tree picked out by the canoe maker was unsuitable, by reason of being unsound in the heart, then a fresh start would be made, and much work lost. After the tree was felled, the canoe builder's real work began, and from the time the top slab is removed on, through the various operations of following by firing and chipping, the shaping of the outside, inserting the high broad bow and stern pieces, both accurately fitted and held in place by cedar withes stitched through holes made in the wood, the heading of the craft by placing hot stones in water previously poured in the interior, the whole being covered with mats to confine the resulting clouds of hot steam, which renders the sides pliable, the spreading of the sides, the placing of the stretchers to hold the shape and strengthening the canoe, and the final smoothing and decorating.

Many long days have passed and the soft spring rains are replaced by autumn storms. Luk-waas, following the usual custom, after felling his tree, hollowed out his war canoe in the rough, leaving the sides and bottom thick. He cleared a track from this point to the sea, nearly half a mile, laid peeled skids along the course, then the tribal family men of the chief, for whom he was working, slid the unfinished craft to water and towed it to the village, where the canoe maker worked unobscuredly until the beautifully modelled craft was ready for sea. Black outside, vermilion inside, the chief's crest, a sea otter's head with a fish in its mouth, carved on the tapering snout, which rose high and broad as a shield to the row of paddling braves when they urged her swiftly to the attack.

Rows of operculum and squares of halibut shell were inserted in the gunwales, and when at last she floated, ready for war, the skilful builder was feasted and loaded with presents by the proud owner. Keen autumn winds were blowing, cold rains sizzling in his face as Luk-waas set out on his homeward voyage. His heart was light, for his canoe was loaded with warm furs and much provision for the coming winter. Five days he sailed and paddled steadily southward, camping at night in some sheltered nook, and ever keeping a watchful eye for chance enemies. Seldom in those days did Indians travel alone, but Luk-waas was a resolute, hardy spirit, and dared what few of the coast people would. And so in due time he arrived at his native village. Night had fallen ere he ran his craft up on the shingle beach. A southeaster was blowing, throwing roaring breakers up on the projecting point of land which protected the bay on which the village was built, and a cold driving rain beat against his face as he wearily carried load after load of chattels to his lodge. No cheerful fire greeted his entrance. No fond wife was there to set out dry raiment and warm food for his comfort. Luk-waas finished his task, saw that his canoe was safely beyond reach of the rising sea, carried the last of his earnings in doors, and then built up a fire, donned dry clothing and cooked his evening meal, though it was now far past nightfall. After his supper, as he lay stretched out on his mat, he thought of the wife he had left behind the door and he thought of the home he had left behind. He thought of the home he had left behind. He thought of the home he had left behind.

A MOTHER'S HAPPY THOUGHT.

A lady writing from Ireland says—"I went to see my sister's baby, who was very ill indeed. She had been up for nights with him without undressing; he was crying all the time as with some internal pain. The doctor told her he could do nothing except put him in a warm bath, which gave him a little ease for the time being. I thought of STEEDMAN'S SOOTHING POWDERS which I used for my own children; and next day I sent some to my sister, when she gave the child half a powder according to directions. For the first time for a fortnight she and the baby, and, in fact, all the household, had a good night's sleep, and the little fellow has continued to improve ever since." These powders do not contain poison, nor are they a narcotic; but they act gently on the bowels, thus relieving feverish heat and preventing fits, convulsions, etc. Please notice that the name STEEDMAN is always spelt with E.E.

Bygone Days of British Columbia

Building of Dewdney Trail

As Told by the Builder.

BY R. E. GOSNELL

(Copyrighted)

I regret that there has been a lapse in the "Bygone Days of British Columbia." For the past five weeks, owing to the demands imposed by the holding of the Simon Fraser Centenary Exhibition at New Westminster, and its subsequent holding and putting up in the Carnegie Library Museum at Vancouver, and the city hall, Victoria, I have been steeped in and completely saturated with old times. I have been present with them in daguerotype, carbon cabinets, epla enlargements, cartes de visite, panels, plaques, water colors, oils, full length, three quarters, busts, heads, vignettes, Rombrandts, Vandycks, and in the actual flesh and blood. I cannot truthfully say that I have "drawn" or "sketched" but I have "rubbed" nearly 2,000 of them. I have talked with them or their descendants—lived in an atmosphere of the past by day and by night. I have dreamed dreams in which figures of a century and over have crowded on an imagination favored with an excess of pioneer life—waking or sleeping—I can see myriads of faces looking from frames and card-board mounts, early people in all walks of life in the West, old men and young, fair women of fifty and sixty years ago, native boys and girls; men stern and resolute, beaming and benign, navigators, explorers, Hudson's Bay Company officials, the very earliest settlers, judges, politicians galore, missionaries, bankers, brewers, railway promoters—a human medley, yet true to life, the story of

The Province in Picture.
The story I have to tell to-day is the building of the Dewdney trail, which has never been told before, at least in owned by Mr. Wm. Armstrong. From there it went on to Rock creek, thence to Midway through Kettle River valley, up Boundary creek, and along the present road to Grand Forks, past Christina lake up to the summit of Sheep creek, down Sheep creek to Trail, thence to Fort Shepherd, and so on via Moyie and Cranbrook to Wild Horse creek. It was travelled for many years and still is in parts. For a long time it formed the main highway for miners and prospectors west of Rossland and through the Boundary country. Mr. Dewdney told me the story as follows:

Spence's Bridge.
"In the spring of 1866 the bridge over the Thompson river at what is known as Spence's Bridge was completed. Tom Spence, who built it, was a bit of a character, very active, enterprising, honest and respected by all the old-timers of his day. He was a contractor and helped to build the old Cariboo road and carry out other works before Confederation. After that he secured contracts from the Dominion government, and did considerable work in the inner harbor of Victoria for them. He fell down the stairs of one of our Victoria hotels many years ago and was killed. In March of 1866 I was asked by the chief commissioner of lands and works to go up and inspect the bridge on its completion for the government. I left in a canoe from New Westminster, it being too early for the steamers as the ice had not run out of the river. On getting as far as Hatzic, a few miles below Fort Langley, I had to leave my canoe, and I returned to New Westminster overland, crossing the Hatzic prairie, with its slough frozen (luckily for me), and Pitt river by boat, walked over the road to New through the Selkirk. I was held at New Westminster for about a week, when I again started up the Fraser to inspect Spence's bridge.

Had Two Experiences
on that trip. The first was a few miles below Hope at Italian Bar Bluff. Night came on as we reached this bad piece of water. I had in my canoe one of the Evans brothers, two of whom were carrying on a mercantile business in the upper country, and were nephews of that celebrated and kindly old missionary of those days, Dr. Evans. In another canoe accompanying us up the river was Mr. David Oppenheimer and Mr. Barnard, father of our two respected citizens in Victoria, Frank and Henry. A gale of wind started as we reached the bad water of the bluff. Luckily for the other canoe they had not crossed the river, and were enabled to land on a good beach and make a settler's house for shelter. We were blown against the bluff, and were not able to move. It became quite dark. One of our Indians, who knew the locality well, piloted us up along the bluff, and virtually placing our feet in the crevices of the rock where we had a foothold. (The Indians knew of a hole in the rocks, which is there to-day, and crept into it, and were thus sheltered from the wind. We, that is myself and Evans, had to make the best of it in the open—luckily the wind was a warm one, comparatively. I got my bundle of blankets, laid out one on the ice and put the other one over us. Poor Evans, for he was not accustomed to roughing it much, was a very stout man weighing at least 250 pounds, suffered severely, his teeth chattering, and he was in great agony. He wanted to get from under the blankets, but I would not let him, and persuaded him to remain where he was, where, at any rate, he could get a little warmth from me. If he got up I believe he would have perished. I remained in one spot without moving, and when the anxiously looked for daylight came and the Indians appeared, we got up. I must knocking at the door. Also went down when we heard a great 'wa-wa.' A couple of Indians had arrived, greatly excited, with their heads bound up in rags and blood all over them. They were two of a party of Indians who were assisting Mr. Ned Wadham and his wife through the canyons. The wife being delicate, and it being absolutely necessary that she be taken down to a doctor. They had come all the way from Lighthelm creek, where Ned Wadham had been clerking for a merchant of the name of Biede, and besides packing his goods down, had also packed gold dust with him, bringing it down for Biede. We called down to him and asked what was up. He said there has been a big snowslide up the road, and Ned Wadham has been carried into the Fraser—his wife, who was being carried in a chair with poles lashed to either side, had skidded down on top of the snow within a few feet of the Fraser, where the poles held her—to the chair was also tied the gold dust. The Indians were on their way to Yale to request the magistrate there (then Mr. Sanders) to send up a constable to take charge of the gold dust and arrange for the forwarding of Mrs. Wadham. We felt very deeply the loss of poor Wadham—we all knew him intimately—but we could do nothing at that time of night, so we turned in again after dispatching the Indians to Yale. We were all tired and slept soundly until about 4 a. m., when another racket at the door woke us. Up we all jumped, expecting to hear of another catastrophe. This was two more Indians of the same party, who were sent down to inform the magistrate that Ned Wadham had turned up all right. Of course, we were greatly overjoyed at this, and I have no doubt we took several refreshers while the Indians related the whole story of the slide.

Story of the Rescue.
"It had been snowing freely that day, and the bluffs were covered with fresh snow. As Wadham's party came along a wind sprang up and down the loose snow came like a flash. Some of the Indians jumped behind a big boulder on the outside edge of the road and received the cuts about the head. They declared they saw Wadham swept into the Fraser. The woman they rescued, as well as the gold dust as soon as the slide had settled, and took her to the road foreman's house, which was not as well as the gold dust as soon as the far from where the slide took place. The Indians were sent off to Yale with the news.

"We made a hurried breakfast and started on our journey. I was first at the boie where Wadham had lain. We lost no time in getting to Ryan's cabin, where we found both Mr. and Mrs. Wadham, who were the worse for the wonderful experience they had gone through in the last twenty-four hours. Wadham was found in this way: Pat Ryan, who was foreman, knowing how excited Indians become on an occasion of that kind, said: 'These fellows may own experience of that, to him, most memorable trip.

"I reached Spence's Bridge in due course, and was not long in getting there after getting out of the snow, which almost disappeared a few miles below Lytton, and entirely along the Thompson river. I found Mr. Spence anxiously awaiting my arrival. I inspected the work the day of my arrival, found the bridge a good substantial structure, and it proved to be so for it stood from 1865 to 1885, when the from Hope to Wild Horse without having to pass through American territory; at present they cannot do so, and when our pack trains cross the boundary line they are either seized or put to the expense and inconvenience of taking an American custom house officer to where the goods are delivered and return, charging $4 a day and food for same. If you take charge of this work you can select your own men, and I will instruct the Hudson's Bay Company officers at the several posts along the line of your work, and the government officials to advance to you from time to time what you may require. What I want is that we will be able to send our goods through without detention this autumn." With this understanding I agreed to take charge of the work.

Conditions in East Kootenay.
"The mines on Wild Horse creek were discovered by some American prospectors in 1864. They came into our country from Montana, and their friends followed them, and as the richness of the creek became known, merchants from Montana naturally followed the miners and got in with their goods almost before we realized that we had a gold country there. But soon the news spread, and many crossed the Hope mountain, followed down the Similkameen, and worked their way along the boundary, sometimes south and at others north. Our merchants endeavored to get goods through the same way, but the delays and expense of being held up by the customs officer were such that they could not compete with the American merchants. Upon this being represented to Mr. Seymour he determined to endeavor to get a road through our own country, and thus secure some of the trade, which was longed for by us. The reports were from the very favorable reports which continually reached the coast of Wild Horse creek diggings. I immediately, on coming to an understanding with Mr. Seymour, commenced to pick out my men. A good many of those belonging to the Royal Engineers and Sappers and Miners also, who came over with Colonel Moody in 1858, had taken their discharge, and I knew them all, having been brought in contact with them while they were engaged on the works in different parts of the colony, and I had

A Splendid Lot of Men to choose from. I selected as my asstant Mr. George Turner, now of the public works department at New Westminster. After forming my party and purchasing supplies sufficient to take me into the Similkameen country, I left for Hope, where I engaged Indians to pack our supplies and outfit over the Hope mountain. I picked out eighteen men, some were wild as well as some. The old Indians were quite as good, if not better, than the young ones. One couple, 'Polatee,' which means 'powder,' and his wife, each at least sixty years old, were two of my best. The old woman packed our provisions, and she was a small woman and very active. Her name was 'Wah-wah,' as the name. We had a stout, but pleasant trip, over the trail that I built in 1860 over a summit of some 6,000 feet. For about a quarter of the way we had snow, and made our snowshoes in the evenings out of vine maple for bows, and rawhide out into strips for the lacing. The Indians called them bear's feet, being nearly round, but well suited for the snow in those parts. On the summit it froze hard at night, and it was then we travelled so as to take advantage of the crust. I shall never forget what pleasure and enjoyment I had when walking over the frozen summits of a bright, sunny, early morning, the sun dazzling in the snow which seemed to give fresh life with every breath you drew. We reached Similkameen, having travelled on an average about seven miles a day, which meant about ten days. There I paid off the Indians, and they returned to Hope. There were a very few settlers in Similkameen at those days. Mr. Atkinson was settled at Princeton, and was almost the only one. The district was then as it is now, a fine cattle country with bunch grass knee high all over the ranges. Mr. Atkinson, with whom subsequently I became very intimate (and I having married two sisters), gave me every assistance. As there was a fair Indian trail down the valley of the Similkameen, I secured from him a dozen horses, which we packed and kept with us as long as we could use them. On the way down the valley I met Mr. Angus McDonald on his way into Hope. He was an old Hudson's Bay Company officer, who was in charge of Fort Colville, situated some forty-five miles south of the boundary line on the Columbia river.

a complete way. It was in the words of the man who built it, Hon. Edgar Dewdney. The old Hope trail to Similkameen was built by Mr. Dewdney in 1860. A very slight change has been made in its location since that time. It was built to give access to the mines of the southern interior. It had been the intention to complete it to Rock Creek, but the mining excitement there was short-lived and the project was abandoned.

Westminster, and reported to the government that it was impossible to get up the river on account of ice. The springs in those days, it appears to me, were later and more severe than now. I have walked from Hope to New Westminster on the ice late in February, and not got off the river except to camp. I have seen the Fraser frozen solid at New Westminster for six weeks with excellent skating on the river. It was in that year that Walter Moberly performed an unusual feat while skating, of dropping through one air hole and being carried some distance under the ice, struck another and bobbed up serenely, and was thus enabled to continue the good work he had undertaken, viz: assist in the development of the province. He was subsequently surveyor-general of the province. He discovered and named the Tacle Pass, explored the Hecelwet valley, and was the means of Rogers finding the pass which now bears his name.

HOPE IN EARLY DAYS.

be mistaken. Wadham may be in the snow and was not swept into the river. So he took all his men to the spot where the accident happened, and set them to work digging. It was several hundred feet between the road and the water, and they worked until they became exhausted, and returned to the cabin for a cup of tea. While there Pat said: 'Well, boys, we have hunted pretty well between the road and the water, but we have not looked in the road itself; let's go down there.' So off they went, and after working only a few minutes came on Wadham's boat. You can fancy their sensations. They quickly uncovered him, and there he lay quite comfortable, and he said, warm, with about eighteen inches of snow packed tightly about him. He told me he was quite comfortable and warm, and he thought he would have got his hand through the snow in a short time, as it was melting about his mouth, and one-hand was getting free. He had a small scratch on his right wrist, all the damage he had to show from the slide. Luckily it was fresh snow and only travelled a short distance before it enveloped him. He must have been extraordinary high water of that year carried it away. It has been replaced by another more substantial bridge than the first, under the immediate supervision of Mr. Stevenson, for so many years in charge of roads and bridges in the upper country.

"I returned to New Westminster much quicker than my trip. I made my report, and Tom Spence got his money.

The Dewdney Trail.
"The day after my return from Spence's Bridge I was sent for by Governor Seymour, who was then the governor of British Columbia, with headquarters at New Westminster. Colonel Kennedy being governor of Vancouver Island, Governor Seymour informed me that he was most anxious to construct a pack trail from Similkameen to Wild Horse creek (now Fort Steele), that he had been informed by Mr. O'Reilly that I had constructed the road from Hope to Similkameen a few years before, and he would like a similar one built from where I had left off to the new diggings at Wild Horse creek, and he would be glad if I would take charge of it, look out the route and have it finished by August or September, so that our own goods might be taken in from the coast through our own territory. Mr. O'Reilly had informed me previously of what had transpired between himself and the governor, so I had given some little thought to it before meeting the governor. I had come to the conclusion it was a pretty big job, particularly as I knew nothing of the country between the Similkameen and Wild Horse creek, but I determined to tackle it on conditions, one of which was that I might choose my own men, and the other was that I should be assured of a sum of money to pay as work progressed, and so I told the governor. He replied: 'I am very desirous that our own pack trains should be able to transport goods but I plucked up, and made up my mind I would not, and was able to direct the Indians who were working for all they were worth to get us over the rifle to land us on a sandy bar, which at that stage of water extended almost to Hope, about three miles. When we got on shore we soon recovered our circulation, and were only too glad to get into John Worth's comfortable hotel at Hope, where we found our friends of the other canoe, and took a rest there for the balance of the day. The following day we left for Yale, some thirteen miles up the river, remained the night there, secured snowshoes, and left for Spence's Bridge. The snowfall had been very heavy on the canons that winter; I am sure there has never been so heavy a one since. The wagon road around the bluff was snowed under and was not visible. To get around Jackass mountain we had to cut holes in the snow to get a foothold, and it was anything but pleasant to crawl round these bluffs with a sheer 1,500-foot deep below you. Not many miles from Yale we met an old squaw carrying a heavy pack. The snow-slides were coming down the mountain continuously, and she warned us not to go on. She said the Social Tythe (God) was very angry and sending lots of snow down the mountain; but we had to make the Chapman's Bar to put in the night, where 'Alec' kept a wayside house, and a very good one it was. We were all pretty tired after a thirteen-mile walk, though very soft and deep snow, so, after making a good meal, turned in.

for about six hours. He could hear the men walking over him, but he could not make himself heard. This was one of my many British Columbia stories which I used to tell when in Ottawa attending the session, and I could not help but see that on some occasions I was thought to be romancing when telling this one, but, while being minister of the interior a deputation from the cannery and fishermen of British Columbia came to interview the government in regard to some concessions they wanted, and my friend, Ned Wadham, was of the party. It was this enabled to present my friend in the flesh, and at a dinner which I gave to some of the interviewers, got him to relate his

WOMEN FOR ARMY.

French Woman Physician Advocates MILITARY SERVICE.

Mme. Madeleine Pelletier, a Parisian physician, demands of the French government that women be compelled to do military service just the same as men.

"In public meetings," says Mme. Pelletier, "when the claim is made for women to have the right to vote, very often some one will rise and shout: 'you wish to vote; then do your military service!'"
"I wish to furnish a response to this sort of person. It is objected that the guns are too heavy, the marches too long for women. Well, lighter guns can be made, and she doesn't need to march as much as men. Besides, women don't need to be soldiers; they can be nurses in the hospital and assist in secretarial work. But they must have uniforms. The uniforms give one prestige. Nuns are respected on account of their uniforms."
"In military education women will learn the necessity of violence. Women fear to inflict pain. They are wrong. Let them use violence. It alone will make our cause triumph."

Sharks were almost unknown in the Adriatic until the Suez canal was opened. Now the harbor of Fiume and Pola are so infested with them that residents dare no longer bathe in the open sea.

The Times Nature Club

This seems rather late in the season for frogs but a tree toad was found in the woods a few days ago. It was a pretty little green fellow with bronze markings on the back and was about an inch long. He was very lively and was able to cling to anything. His toes were something like the feet of a frog. That is, each of these feet has a web-like structure which the frog could cling to anything it wished. The tree toad is really a frog. It lays its eggs in the water in a swamp or pool in much the same way that the other toads and frogs do. The young hatch out into tadpoles just like the others and are at that time true fishes, taking oxygen from the water by means of gills. When its legs have grown and its tail and gills disappeared it leaves the water and lives in the woods feeding on the very small insects that abound everywhere. Later in the season it climbs into the bushes, probably because the smaller insects are found on the leaves and stems of the bushes and trees rather than on the ground. It, like most other animals and birds, is largely influenced in its movements by the question of food. What happens to the tree toad in the winter does not seem to be known. The other toads and frogs bury themselves in the mud and live in a dormant condition during the cold weather but it is doubtful if the tree toad does that. Information on this subject would prove of interest to readers of the club. Grass Spiders. Editor Nature Club—A week or two ago someone made an inquiry about the funnel shaped spider webs that may be seen in the gardens. Morang's Modern Nature Study, the book used in the schools of British Columbia, refers to this spider I think and I quote the reference: "If we walk about in the early morning before the dew has been dispersed by the sun's rays, the grass will be seen to be carpeted with little sheets of glistening silk, and again: "To learn late in life from other observers that the accepted explanation of a familiar phenomenon is false, fills one with a sense of loss. What joy might be ours, if we could make the discovery for ourselves, but we guess at the explanation and lose the joy. Such is my feeling regarding the work of the grass spider, whose funnel webs seem to be made anew each night, to be destroyed by day, whereas the dew makes visible that which, when dry, escapes the careless observer." Hoping the above may be of interest to your readers I am, Yours very truly SCHOOL TEACHER. Keeping Pets. The editor of this column has been asked to say something about the keeping of pets. This is a wide subject and one that is difficult to deal with in a general way. There are, however, a few principles which apply to the keeping of one pet just as much as another. In the first place the pet must be a pet and not an incumbrance, a nuisance, or a thing to be hated, but which is not really liked. If there is no love for the rabbit or canary, cat or dog, or whatever the dumb creature be, it should be given away or sold at once, for it is sure to be neglected. There are a number of boys and girls, too many I am sorry to say, who pretend to like the animals they call pets, but yet often forget to feed them and often neglect to keep them. The result is that the rabbit is smelly, the canary cage is a filthy condition, the cat and dog are not fit to appear in public, and the guinea pigs from so often going hungry show their little ribs through their skin. Of course this is all bad, it seems even worse to ill treat an animal or bird than to ill treat a human being, because the dumb creatures are helpless. They cannot tell us what they like or what they do not like. They cannot protect themselves and a low call when near the young ones, which wake up and join the flock. NATURE STUDENT.

Killed By a Tick. The editor of the club is glad to have received three little stories from boys who are attending school. The incidents are between the ages of 12 and 12½, and the work is very good for boys of that age. Observations made by any one are always welcome, boys or girls, young or old. The following are the stories.

As I was coming home from school one dinner hour I saw a robin fly across the street to a red berry tree. As it reached the tree it fell to the ground dead. I ran and picked it up and found a lump on its neck. When I made the lump through it I plucked the bird and ere enough I found a tick on its neck. That was what killed it. ARTHUR ANDERSON.

All Puffed Up. When I was on a farm I saw a frog in the garden. I took a small stick which was a little bit crooked and began to wiggle it towards the frog. The frog thinking that it was a small snake began to swell out. After he was all puffed or swollen out he began creeping backwards. He must have swelled out so that the snake would think he was too big to swallow. ARTHUR MUIRHEAD.

The Fight. One day in Manitoba I was walking along the railway track, when a large garter snake crossed my path. It had a young gopher, a kind of ground squirrel, in its mouth. I ran after it, but I was not the only pursuer. The mother gopher heard the cries of her young one and gave chase. Just then the snake was stopped by a fence and before it had decided what way to turn the mother gopher was upon it. She caught it close up to the head, and sank her long rat-like teeth into its neck. This forced the snake to open its jaws and the young gopher had a chance to escape.

The snake maddened by pain and the escape of its prey writhed and twisted, endeavoring to free itself, but the gopher held on with the determination of a bulldog. The snake's struggles grew weaker and weaker and the gopher put forth all its strength bit the snake's backbone. After that nothing moved but the tail which twitched and tied itself into knots. The gopher then let go its hold and bit the tail several times until it also was motionless. When she ran to her young one and they both disappeared down a neighboring hole. KEITH LYONS.

Reforestation. A good deal has been written from time to time on the criminality of loggers in indiscriminately destroying the forests of this country and of the lack of any attempt to replant the country that has been logged off. Much of this is written because of a lack of knowledge of the real conditions prevailing. As a matter of fact there is very little of the so-called carelessness, carelessness and the only means necessary to ensure complete reforestation is to give Nature a chance by keeping the fire from over-running the country. While it is true that trees which are not mature are often cut while the large timber is being felled, it is also true that very few trees are cut when they are so long and slim, having been drawn upward with the bigger sticks in their fight for existence, they would most assuredly be blown down by the first big wind that might happen to blow across that part of the country. Then there would be no means of carrying them away as the donkey engine and light railways would be all removed. The result would be that they would be allowed to rot on the ground and would benefit no one.

Nature does its own reforestation. Of course if fire is allowed to burn up the often shallow soil the young trees get no chance. If fires are prevented the year following the cutting of the timber sees thousands of seedlings springing up, covering the land almost like a clover crop. They are much more likely to thrive well as they grow older and larger, but nature does her own thinning. The trees need to be close together or they grow too many branches and the timber is useless. The motto of all this is that the government should take more vigorous measures to protect the logged off part of the forests from fire that is the part where an outbreak is most liable. The other can usually take care of itself except during an unusually dry season. Language Among Animals. Editor Nature Club—I think most naturalists will agree with me that animals and birds have certain means of expressing themselves. Some people can by carefully observing the actions following certain sounds made by lower creatures in part understand them. So we conclude they can communicate with others of their kind by sounds as well as signs. One incident I well remember. We had raised a pair of little wild tinamous which were very tame, so wild that we could allow them loose in the room. They would fly about and on to a person's finger and return to their cage when tired. One day I put down a dish of water, to see if they would bathe as canaries do. Only one of the birds could see the water, the other was out of sight at the opposite end of the room. When the first one saw the water it seemed very pleased and after tasting it cautiously at first, it

CHILDREN'S TYPICAL PETS

Animals, so far as I have noticed, certainly do make each other understand by means of sounds. Sheep and goats are very interesting in their habits. The latter are very easily tamed—and in early days in and near Victoria they were kept by many families instead of cows. Like other domestic animals there are wide differences in their dispositions and habits. They are timid, but once tamed they make nice pets. I will give one incident I witnessed. A flock of 12 goats were apparently trying to start off for a long walk without taking the "kids." There was a lot of talking in their way among themselves. Then one mother called in a peculiar way to her young ones which came to her. Several other little ones whose mothers were going away also came. In about half an hour there were nine little ones in her care. Meanwhile the rest of the flock had wandered far out of sight. Occasionally the flock would take a long march off in that way. If they staid out over night one old one would always stand on some high rock while the flock slept. When anyone approached the one on sentry makes visible that which, when dry, escapes the careless observer." Hoping the above may be of interest to your readers I am, Yours very truly SCHOOL TEACHER. ### F. J. HENEY SHOT BY EX-CONVICT danger appears to be from blood poisoning and to-day an effort will be made to locate the bullet and the exact course of the wound.

Mr. Heney was shot in the right side of the head as he leaned forward over a table. The bullet entered half an inch in front of the right ear, ranged downward and lodged somewhere in the muscles on the left side of the neck. In the opinion of the doctors his constitution is sufficiently strong to add to his chances of recovery.

Haas, who did the shooting, was last night confined in the county jail, at Ingleisle, several miles from the centre of the city. Abraham Ruef, who was ordered into custody immediately after the shooting, is also a temporary prisoner in the jail, having been locked up for fear he might be made the victim of renewed violence from some excited and unexpected quarter.

While a guard of thirty policemen, armed with rifles, guarded the approaches to the jail during the night, the excitement of the early evening, when muttering crowds gathered about the city prison and the court room where the would-be murderer was being interrogated, subsided and there was no attempt at a demonstration reported from any quarter. An untrilling stream of inquiries as to Mr. Heney's condition poured into the hospital during the night. At the newspaper offices men lingered for hours to read bulletins and await the coming of the first papers from the presses.

The news that Heney had been shot spread like wildfire through the city even before the extra editions of the papers reached the residential sections and people in every walk of life hurried to swell the crowds in the downtown districts. Few of those in the street knew what disposition had been made of Haas, who was spirited away out of a rear door of the city prison, while the crowds stood in front, and driven by a circuitous route to the distant county jail. Another subterfuge enabled the officers to take Ruef out of the city without attracting attention.

Morris Haas, the man who shot Heney, is a native of Wurtemberg, Germany, and has resided here since 1876. He is 48 years old, and for nearly ten years, or ever since his release from the penitentiary, where he served a two-year sentence for embezzlement of his employer's funds, has been engaged in the retail liquor business.

In the course of a lengthy statement made to the police after his arrest, the prisoner declared: "Heney pronounced his own death sentence the moment he denounced me in the court."

This, as far as appears from the facts now made public, is the attitude of Haas. He alludes constantly to the shame and disgrace he has experienced since Heney several weeks ago confronted him as he sat in the jury box before a crowded courtroom with a photo of himself in convict's stripes. He has expressed a desire to be shot or hanged for what he has done. He has accounted for his movements of yesterday in a more or less straightforward manner and he has steadfastly declared that no one except himself knew of his preconcerted determination to slay the man who had exposed his sin of the past.

No effort was made in the statement as made public to associate any other person with Haas' attempt, although it is believed that the prisoner in the seclusion of the county jail was during the early hours of the morning, subjected to a more rigorous examination. Prominent citizens and attorneys of the city gathered last night at a meeting where invited addresses were delivered counselling moderation and calling upon the public to protect the cause of justice. The outcome was a call for a mass meeting to be held to-night in Dreamland Pavilion.

Attorneys Hiram Johnson and Matt Sullivan, two of the speakers, announced that they had offered their services to the district attorney as substitutes for Mr. Heney. At the outset of the meeting there were unmistakable expressions of hostility to the courts and predictions that Haas would not lack aid in his defence. Former Mayor James Phelan charged directly that the crime must have been inspired through "special" "crime" "anti-crime" theory, who financed the prosecution of the supervisors and Ruef and who had been in frequent attendance at the trials, said: "It is time that drastic measures were used to suppress the stigma of lawlessness."

The police are to-day convinced that Haas had planned carefully his attempt on Heney's life. In the basement of his home was the marks of numerous bullet holes, indicating that some person had been firing at a target. In the courtroom two private detectives, assigned to Heney as body guards, were within ten feet of him when Haas approached, and while both observed the man's intention in time to spring for his extended arm, they were too late. Haas had the weapon within a few inches of Heney's head when he fired, and it is the danger of blood poisoning, resulting from the burned powder or other matter in the wound, which is most feared.

President's Sympathy.

Washington, Nov. 14.—President Roosevelt, upon learning of the attempt made upon the life of Francis J. Heney, sent telegrams to Mrs. Heney and Rudolph M. Speckles, expressing his horror and detestation of the deed.

To Mrs. Heney he wired: "Am inexpressibly shocked at the news of the attempted assassination of Mr. Heney and am greatly relieved at the news this morning that he is doing well and will probably recover. I hope you will accept my deepest sympathy. Like every good American I hold your husband in peculiar regard for the absolutely fearless way in which he has attacked and exposed corruption without any regard to the political or social prominence of the offender, or to the dangerous character of the work. Your husband has taken his life in his hands in doing this great task for our people, and he is entitled to the credit and esteem, and above all to the hearty support of all good citizens. The infamous character of the man who has assaulted him should add not only to the horror and detestation felt for the deed, but to the determination of all decent citizens to stamp out the power of all men of this kind."

Bonaparte Shocked.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 14.—U. S. Attorney-General Charles J. Bonaparte, who was in Baltimore to-day was shocked when he learned of the attempt on the life of F. J. Heney at San Francisco yesterday. Mr. Bonaparte in an interview placed a high value on the services Mr. Heney had rendered to the Department of Justice, saying: "I was shocked to hear of the attempted murder of Mr. Heney and deem it a matter of the gravest public interest that his life should be spared. His services have been of great value to the Department of Justice, and he is emphatically a man to be esteemed because of the enemies he has made. His talents and courage made him a terror to evil-doers, so that it is not really surprising if an attempt has been made to take his life. I know of no one who has shown more hatred of iniquity or done more effective work in making the way of the transgressor hard. America sorely needs more men of his type and can ill-afford to lose one like him."

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION MAY SOON BEGIN

C. P. R. Officials Will Inspect Route Between Couitee and Penticton.

Vancouver, Nov. 13.—The inspection to be made next week by C. P. R. officials of the route which was last summer surveyed between Couitee and Penticton is looked upon as being significant of the start of construction on this line during the coming year.

It was learned to-day that R. Marpole, general executive assistant of the C. P. R., will leave next Monday to go over the route in company with H. J. Cambie, consulting engineer, and H. E. Carry, the engineer who directed the survey last summer. This survey was started in April and lasted till the close of October, the distance covered being in the neighborhood of 180 miles.

Messrs. Marpole, Cambie and Carry will proceed from Vancouver to Couitee, on the Spence's Bridge branch line, and from there they will drive over the entire distance to Penticton, at the foot of Okanagan Lake. The exact route of the line is of course secret, but it is generally known that the Coldwater river will be followed for some distance over the Couitee, and that the line will pass quite close to Summerland, on Okanagan lake.

—E. Christopher, secretary of the local basketball league, announces that a meeting of the league will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday at 8 p. m., by which time all entries must be in.

GENUINE OR IMITATION CUT GLASS? CAN YOU TELL?

They have a way of polishing pressed glass nowadays that is decidedly ingenious—so nearly does the process produce a facsimile of cut glass, the expert can distinguish, but the public cannot. And the guileless public pays the same price for it as is asked for the genuine "cut-from-a-solid-blank" kind by reliable merchants. Of course it is sold as "cut glass"—you wouldn't buy it as "pressed" and pay "cut glass" prices for it. Come in and we will put you wise—and show you the "real stuff." Honest cut glass that never loses its brilliancy. It is produced in the "Libbey" workshops—the home of the world's best Cut Glass. We are sole Victoria agents.
