

DESIGNS FOR OMAHA STAMPS.

Suggestions for the Special Issues to be Made by the Government. There will probably be eight denominations of stamps of the special issue authorized for the Omaha exposition...

SEARCH FOR A HUSBAND

Buxom St. Louis Miss Who is Very Anxious to Wed. She is a Particular Sort of a Body and is Hard to Suit, However - Disappointed Swains Cause Trouble.

There is a woman in St. Louis looking for a husband. Her name is Grace Lulu Raines and she resides at 1344 Merchant street. Though Grace is fair and fat, she is not yet 40. She still puts the word "miss" before her name, as she has not yet succeeded in getting a man compatible with her tastes.

MAN'S VITAL FORCE.

Alleged Results of Experiments by a French Scientist. Dr. Baraduc, a French scientist, has just made public the results of his experiments to obtain exact knowledge in regard to the vital force of human beings.

By this method," says Dr. Baraduc, "the moral condition of the individuals can easily be diagnosed, for it is a fact that whenever sick or exhausted persons are photographed, their bodies attract toward them the strong forces of nature. In the case of a harmless person of moderate intelligence the luminous points assume the form of a handful of halistones which have been violently thrown together and again scattered, whereas in the case of a man of dominant character they assume the graceful form of a pearl. I operated some time ago on a lady who was suffering with gastric trouble. She had in vain consulted 22 physicians, and before coming to me she had taken to prayer as her last resource. I photographed her body, and the luminous points were plainly visible, most notable being a pointed jet of flames which appeared on her forehead.

Bulletin Financier. Bulletin Commercial

Jendredi, 21 avril 1898. Jendredi, 21 avril 1898.

COMPTOIR D'ECHANGES (CLEARING-HOUSE) DE LA NOUVELLE-ORLEANS.

Table with multiple columns listing exchange rates for various currencies and commodities, including gold, silver, and various bank notes.

Short rib sides, Long clear sides, Sides clear sides, etc.

COTON. Marché de la Nlle-Orléans.

Table listing cotton market prices, including various grades of cotton and their corresponding prices per bale.

PYTHONS BORN IN BOSTON.

First Snakes of the Kind Brought into Life in Captivity. Empress, an East India python, 15 feet long, on exhibition at a dime museum at Boston, and who for a year was made the cage-mate of Big Ben, the immense Florida python, now on exhibition in Philadelphia, laid a peck measure full of eggs, the other day, which shortly began to break and 100 little pythons squirmed out.

WALRUS LEATHER.

Used for Making Wheels for Polishing-Other Polishing Leathers. Walrus leather is used for making buffer wheels, for polishing brass, steel and silver. It has a peculiar, coarse grain that holds the emery or polishing powder well. It takes about five years to tan a walrus hide. Some walrus leather is made in this country, but the bulk of it is imported from England.

DRIVEN OUT BY GHOSTS.

Ohio Family Vacates a House Because of Strange Manifestations. Mace Gabbott and his family have been driven out of their home near Londonderry, O., by one of the most singular series of manifestations in the history of the county. The house is a one-story frame.

THE BIBLE IN CHINA.

Read by Statesmen and Students Because it is Classic. The American Bible society has received from its correspondent in Shanghai an account of the recent examination of students. In all former years the questions asked of the candidates have been on literary lines, and have been limited to the literature of China. The proficiency of the candidates is said to have been shown by their familiarity with the classics and the books of Chinese authors since the days of Confucius.

CLEVER RUSE OF A THIEF.

Escapes Capture by Throwing Chew-Gum at His Pursuers. Shortly before midnight Andrew McGuire, proprietor of the drug store at Blue Island avenue and Twelfth street, Chicago, saw a man pry open a gum slot machine on the opposite corner. Several other persons in the drug store ran out and chased the fellow, who ran northeast in Blue Island avenue. Boys, women and men from doors along the thoroughfare joined in the pursuit and Mr. McGuire turned and hurled a handful of gum on the sidewalk.

DODGING A LAW.

A German Historian Explains how young journeymen early in the present century used to dodge the law forbidding anyone to cross the boundary between two states unless he owned a certain small sum of money. They used to spend a night at a tavern near the boundary, borrow the sum needed from the host, leaving their bundles as pawn, whereupon they saw the officials, showed their money, got the permit, returned to the host, gave back the money, and shouldered their knapsacks.

SLAUGHTERING A MAN.

Postcard in Germany. An American in Germany says that there is hardly a city of any size in the German empire that does not have its distinctive postal cards. Whenever a great gathering is arranged for, almost the first thing that is done by the city is to have special postal cards made illustrative of the event.

CHRISTIANS IN JAPAN.

Bishop McKim, the Episcopal prelate of Tokio, says that of a total of 150,000 converts in Japan, the Roman Catholics are first with about 50,000, and the Greek Catholics second with 23,000. The Episcopalians number in the neighborhood of 10,000.

FRUITS AND NOIX.

Table listing prices for various fruits and nuts, including apples, oranges, and almonds.

PRODUITS DE LA CAMPAGNE.

Table listing prices for various products from the campaign, including oils, fats, and other commodities.

HAVE FUN WITH A CHINAMAN.

Drunkens Greeks on a New York "L" Train Try to Disrobe Him. A party of drunken Greeks, eight men and a number of boys, boarded the third car of the Sixth avenue elevated train at South ferry, New York, at 11 o'clock the other night, and routed all the passengers except a Chinaman. Finally one of them caught sight of him, knocked his hat off, and while some held him the others tried to take his clothes off, and undo his queue, which was braided and coiled on the crown of his head. They mauled him severely before he was able to wriggle away and get into the second car. The Greeks had the car to themselves as far as Eighth street, and cut up such high jinks that the noise was heard on the street below. The trainmen, after vainly trying to put the rioters off, summoned the policeman, who arrested four.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.

DISMANTLING OF MAINS.

Mainz is to be dismantled of its fortifications, and the ground they occupy will be turned over by the German government to the city authorities for 4,000,000 marks. The place will be protected by a more modern system of defense, like those at Cologne, which are far out in the country and disguised. Mainz, as a fortress, has been an objective point in nearly every great European war since Roman times.