AMERICANISM AND LETTER CARRIERS ITS MEANING PERFECT PLANS DISCUSSED FOR PICNIC

Edward F. Trefz Speaks to Saturday's Annual Affair is Replete With Features of Entertainment

"Americanism is service to the community, the state and the nation."
This definition marked the climax of a brief lecture on political economy delivered yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, before the members of the Glendale Exchange Club.

The speaker was Edward F. Trefz of Los Angeles, representative of the Better America Federation of California.

"There isn't any profound thinking man but who is more or less disturbed over the situation as he finds it in United States today," he declared with vigor.

"There appears to be no definite program in United States."
"There seems to be no definite idea as to what can be done to bring order out of chaos."
"We find people here and there and everywhere defying authority in United States, so we are asking ourselves what is the real difficulty in this country."
"If harmony and prosperity are not walking hand and hand in this country it is just simply because the foreigner does not understand just what is meant by Americanism."

Student Under Wilson
Mr. Trefz, who assisted in the organization of the Chamber of Commerce of United States, studied political economy at Princeton university under Woodrow Wilson. He admitted, however, that he "held no brief" for the former national administration.

The kaleidoscopic view of economic events in United States during the past year or two was emphasized by Mr. Trefz. He called attention to the unprecedented prosperity followed by the curse of unemployment which was followed by first the miners' strike and now the railroad strike.

High tax rates impressed Mr. Davis unfavorably. He found that taxes in Kansas are considerably higher than in California. In one extreme case they are seven times as much. The reason for the higher taxes seems to lie in the fact that the first rate was fixed when land values had been inflated in the war time prosperity.

"I don't want anybody to get the idea that we are not paying high enough taxes here," said Mr. Davis. "We are paying enough all we should pay here. The thing that Glendale and Southern California wants to do is to watch its step."

Sewer systems were investigated by Mr. Davis and he admits that he has returned for this trip with some "pretty strong opinions" on the subject. He was surprised and disgusted to find that Kansas City, Mo., dumps its raw sewage into a small creek only about four blocks from one of the city's important municipal parks.

CHINESE CIVIL WAR PROCLAIMED AT AN END
SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—The Chinese civil war was officially proclaimed at an end today. Dr. Sun said that all fighting now has been concluded.

ELEPHANT STARTS CIRCUS WAR IN SAN FRANCISCO
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Extra police were called out today because of a circus war in which an elephant was used as a battering ram to open up a way to the local circus grounds. A circus due to appear here next month leased the main entrance to the grounds "up and until after" their appearance. Another circus arriving today found the entrance guarded and employed the elephant to make an opening.

SEVENTEEN REDS ARRAIGNED IN MICHIGAN TODAY
ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Aug. 24.—Seventeen alleged "red" agitators, caught in the raid in the woods near here by government agents, were to be arraigned before Judge Davis this afternoon on charges of violating the state syndicalist act. The prisoners were silent, calmly awaiting developments. William Z. Foster, arrested in Chicago, was not expected to be brought here. Extradition papers, it was said, had been asked for him.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Arguments in the case of the thirty-six Ku Klux Klansmen on trial before Judge Frederick W. Houser on indictments charging assault to commit murder, kidnaping and unlawful imprisonment, in connection with the Ingleside raid of April 22 on the home of Fidel Elduayen were scheduled to begin today, following the introduction of a chemical analysis of liquor said to have been seized at the Elduayens' place during the raid.

ATTEMPT TO OUST VOLSTEAD MEETS FAILURE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—An attempt to oust Representative A. J. Volstead, Republican, Minnesota, father of the prohibition law, from the chairmanship of the house committee on judiciary, failed today. Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, introduced a resolution calling upon Representative Volstead to resign his chairmanship, charging that Wayne B. Wheeler, a lobbyist for the anti-saloon league, had spent "sums of money in Volstead's campaign for re-election." The house voted 141 to 3 not to consider the resolution.

SECRET SESSION HELD FOR SETTling RAIL STRIKE
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Secret negotiations between the mediation committee of the five railroad brotherhoods and a committee of executives representing about a score of roads were in progress today trying to reach a settlement of the shophmen's strike. Following the breakup of the meeting the brotherhoods' representatives departed through a rear door and it was reported that they had gone to the Yale club to meet the committee of executives. The committee was self-appointed for the purpose of giving further study to the seniority proposals of the mediation committee.

OSER GETS READY TO ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE BANNIS
BASLE, Switzerland, Aug. 24.—Major Max Oser, Swiss riding master and middle aged suitor for the hand of Miss Mathilde McCormick of Chicago, pretty grand daughter of John D. Rockefeller, today deposited his citizenship papers with the proper government bureau preparatory to the announcement of the marriage banns. The banns must be proclaimed for a certain period of time before the marriage can take place. Major Oser has obtained passports to visit virtually all the important countries of the world, including the United States.

CASH BONUS FOR BOYS WHO WANT IT, URGED
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Senatorial advocates of straight out compensation for ex-service men went to bat today when the senate resumed consideration of the McCumber-Fordney soldiers' bonus bill with little prospect of a final showdown before the week-end. Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, chairman of the senate-pensions committee, led the fight for a cash bonus with his substitute which would provide immediate payment of 50 per cent of the amount due ex-service men on the basis of $1.25 a day for overseas and $1 a day for home service, according to the length of that service. The remaining 50 per cent would be paid five years later. "Pay the boys who want it—spot cash—instead of offering them promissory notes for what is owed them," was the keynote of Bursum's speech.

GARMENT FACTORY FEUD SUSPECTED IN SLAYING
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Police centered their efforts today on the location of a bundle of missing papers which they believe will give them a "lead" in hopes of solving the mysterious murder of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee garment manufacturer, slain in his pretensions Andrews boulevard home while his wife was locked in an upstairs clothes closet. The missing papers—said to be documents that cannot be replaced—are said by the police to have been stolen from the safe of the Gaiety Garment company. The police also entertained the theory that the murder of Oesterreich might have been the result of a long standing feud, extending back to Milwaukee and again to California, locked in the hearts of only those whom it involved. In this connection, a young man, whose identity is closely guarded, is being sought by the police.

HOUSEBOAT MURDER MYSTERY IN PHILADELPHIA
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Detectives today were working on one of the most gruesome murders encountered here in recent years, following discovery of the body of John Buckley, 57, of Twenty-fourth street and Magazine Lane, in a marsh near Girard Point, on the Delaware river, covered with knife wounds. Mrs. Elizabeth Sabott, occupant of a houseboat in the vicinity, believed to be demented, is under arrest, as a suspect. According to Mrs. Leontina Agas, who occupies another houseboat, she was on her way along the Penrose ferry road near Mrs. Sabott's houseboat last night when she heard agonized groans, then the voice of a woman shrieking "go away—away from my house." Instead, Mrs. Agas said, she walked nearer to the Sabott houseboat and heard a man's voice crying, "Help! She's stabbing me; won't someone help me?"

BOND ISSUES ARE AUTO DEALERS IN SPARR HOLDINGS COMPRISING FAVORED BY OUTING HAVE REALTORS BIG TIME

Board Members of Different Sections in City Make Progress for Unity
Glendale Jinks Party Enjoys Picnic and Boating at Arrowhead

The most important definite action of yesterday's Realty Board meeting was the adoption of resolutions favoring all three of the municipal bond issues to be voted upon in Glendale, Tuesday, August 29.

Some opposition arose to the $40,000 bond issue for improvements to the city hall building, on the basis that a campaign is under way or contemplated for establishing an adequate civic center. However, it was eventually agreed that the $40,000 addition to the city hall building would not be a loss, would greatly facilitate the municipality's business, and would probably be used to capacity before the proposed civic center could be established.

Improvement Bonds Favored
The two other bond issues favored are the $25,000 for a comfort station and $35,000 for paving streets fronting school-building properties, for which latter purpose it is stated that neither the city nor the school board has sufficient funds. Dr. Jessie A. Russell was a strong supporter for the bond issues.

A communication from the lumbering interests asking that the referendum state housing bill be voted down. The secretary was instructed to present full details at the next meeting. The chamber of commerce last Tuesday evening passed resolutions condemning the state housing bill.

Attention was called to this bill, whose terms practically exclude the use of wooden shingles in California, through the latest "Cappy Ricks" story by Peter Kynne. The author's plot was laid around the bill, and is based almost absolutely upon the abstract of what has actually occurred to date, including the referendum of the bill to the people.

Secretary Hayward read a request from the Merchants' Credit association for a $100 donation to the community picnic fireworks fund. The letter appeared to presume that $100 had been subscribed, but Mr. Hayward said that it had not. The subject was artfully dodged by the members.

English Discovers Ireland In Office of a Merriken Here
Three countries were represented in the office of S. A. Merriken, realtor, at 123 South Central avenue, yesterday afternoon when Mr. Merriken's business visitor, E. F. Ireland, were joined by Mr. English.

"There you are," declared Mr. Merriken, "you're Ireland, he's English and I'm 'Merican."
Mr. Ireland, whose former home was at 339 Oak street, Glendale, has just returned from Santa Maria where his son, A. E. Ireland is employed as superintendent of leases of the Brooks Oil company. Last April the elder Mr. Ireland went to Santa Maria to join his son, and it is thought that he will probably return there soon. His visit in Glendale is to transact business matters, it is said.

A property owner in Glendale already, it is understood that Mr. Ireland is considering investing in other Glendale real estate before his return to his northern home.

Up in Santa Maria I still subscribe for the Glendale Evening News," says Mr. Ireland. "It keeps me posted on what Glendale is doing."

The other guests included members of the Dartmouth Club of Southern California and their wives, and also Miss Frances Smith of Whittier, who is to be bridesmaid at the wedding. The table decorations were of dahlia, with little bride and groom place cards.

The committee in charge is hoping to secure special speakers and an invocation has been extended to all interested.

1500 ACRES NORTH OF CITY TO BE THROWN ON MARKET

Senator Francis From Des Moines, Iowa, Buys Half Interest In Property and Associates H. E. Barnum and M. Walters In Deal

UPWARDS of $2,000,000 in real estate development covering 1500 acres of foothill property, lying, for the larger part, within the city limits of Glendale, today is announced as an assured fact. This vast project, second only to E. G. Lewis' Palos Verde, is to mark another stepping stone in the progress of Glendale, it is confidently expected, and, in brief, the facts are these:

The Sparr holdings, lying principally along Verdugo road, northeast and west of Verdugo Woodlands, have been placed in the hands of Senator Leslie E. Francis, formerly of Des Moines, Iowa, and his associates, H. E. Barnum of Eagle Rock, and M. Walters of Hollywood, who will form a firm known as the Francis-Barnum-Walters company.

Senator Francis purchased a half interest in the property from Mr. Sparr, widely-known fruit man, and the new owner brings to Glendale a reputation for business organization in Iowa which raised him to high position.

Convinced as to Possibilities
Mr. Barnum several years ago interested the senator in almost 1500 acres of land in the famed Green Valley, which are becoming equally as well known in the east as they are in Southern California. Mr. Walters is a highly successful real estate dealer, who has specialized in subdivisions in Hollywood, Glendale and Eagle Rock recently. He will be the motivating force of a great sales campaign which will further Glendale's claim to being the fastest growing city in America.

Work Starts at Once
It is stated by Mr. Barnum that development work will commence immediately and that water already is on the ground ready for piping to 40,000 people. Gas and electricity, as well as winding drives, parkways and other improvements will be afforded free of charge in order that it will appeal to the highest class of home-seekers.

At this time there is little need for details of this great decision on the part of Mr. Sparr, but to impress the people of Glendale with the magnitude of the holdings to be offered to the buying public. It is stated that one of the boundaries is at Glendale avenue and Verdugo road, another at Montrose and the line of demarcation follows the mountain ridge clear over to the neighborhood of L. C. Brand's Miradero castle in northwest Glendale.

Two Rich Men Die
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Two wealthy Chicagoans were killed in a terrific smashup between two automobiles early today. The dead are: Emil Kuhn, 50, general manager of the Continental Paper Bag company, and James B. Morrow, president of the Auto Supply company.

Move to End War

Bridge Burns
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Partial destruction by fire of the Western Pacific bridge over the Humboldt river, east of Elko, Nev., was reported to the railroad headquarters here today. A rigid investigation of the cause of the fire was ordered. Western Pacific traffic was maintained by detouring trains over the Southern Pacific lines between Elko and Death, Nev., a distance of twenty miles.

The social is in charge of Atty. George H. Kings, E. S. Melzer and M. J. Edwards.

Katherine Taylor, Noted Athlete, Weds C. F. Weisgerber
Katherine Norma Taylor of 715 South Louise street, Glendale, and Charles F. Weisgerber of Los Angeles, were united in marriage Sunday morning, August 20, 1922, at a simple wedding at the home of the bride, Rev. W. E. Edmunds officiating. Only the immediate relatives of the bride witnessed the ceremony which took place in the pretty living room which had been decorated for the occasion with quantities of dahlia and smilax. The wedding breakfast was served just before the young couple left for Catalina at a table garlanded with the same flowers.

Mrs. Weisgerber is the youngest daughter of Walter L. Taylor, a well-known architect of Fort Worth, Texas. She is a graduate of the College of Industrial Arts of that state and two years ago came to California to continue her studies at the University of California, making her home in Glendale. She has won considerable fame in athletic circles in Los Angeles as a swimmer and during the past year has assisted in the physical training department of the Southern Branch and of a select girls' school in the Westlake district. She has a host of friends in Glendale and Los Angeles.

Charles F. Weisgerber, who recently left Philadelphia to enter business with a large chemical firm in Los Angeles, is a graduate of the Carnegie Technical School and of George Washington university. He is already prominent in the chemical world.

SAM DAVIS HOME WITH NEW IDEAS

Councilman Investigates Sewer and Street Work in Kansas Cities

Chock-full of ideas on municipal government Councilman Sam A. Davis of 118 West Colorado street returned last night from a two months' trip through eastern Kansas and tonight will attend the regular session of the city lawmakers.

Economic conditions in the middle west are far from satisfactory according to Mr. Davis. He asserted that all crops are good this summer but that "they don't contain with any money." This failure to realize a profit on their labor is most displeasing to the farmers and they are considerably disgruntled over the failure of the national administration to formulate a definite program instead of allowing affairs to drift along as heretofore.

High tax rates impressed Mr. Davis unfavorably. He found that taxes in Kansas are considerably higher than in California. In one extreme case they are seven times as much. The reason for the higher taxes seems to lie in the fact that the first rate was fixed when land values had been inflated in the war time prosperity. Now that real estate has decreased in value, the tax rate remains the same.

Miss Goertz and Mr. Everett are to be honored guests this evening at a dinner given by Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Frensen at their home in Los Angeles. Other guests from Glendale will be Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Goertz, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Goertz and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wiebe.

$50 Fine Assessed for Violating City Building Restriction

Failure to have her new home placed far enough from the property line was the cause of Mrs. Cecilia E. Moore being defendant in a suit brought against her yesterday in Judge F. H. Lowe's court at the city hall.

The complaint, which was sworn to by E. G. Spaulding, building inspector, asserted that "Cecilia E. Moore is erecting or causing to be erected at 1915 Vassar street in the city of Glendale a five-room dwelling house; that the northerly line of said dwelling house is less than four feet from the northerly property line; that windows have been or are being placed in the rooms on the northerly side of said dwelling house, contrary to the provisions of section 14, chapter 737 of the 1917 statutes of the state of California."

The regulation referred to reads as follows: "In every dwelling hereafter erected every room used for living or sleeping purposes and every kitchen or bathroom shall have at least one window opening directly upon a street or unoccupied area not less than four feet in its least dimensions and containing an area of not less than 36 square feet and located on the same lot."

An attempt was made to show that Mrs. Moore had gone ahead with the building in good faith and had merely been ignorant of this particular building regulation. This evidence was overruled by Judge Lowe who reminded the defendant that it was her duty to investigate the building code first.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty and a fine of $50 was assessed. Application was made to appeal the case.

DUBLIN WEEPS FOR HEROIC SOLDIER SLAIN IN FIGHT

Body of Michael Collins at Rest, Guarded by Free State Troops

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
For International News Service.
DUBLIN, Aug. 24.—Guarded by a death watch, a little handful of Irish free state troops—the body of Michael Collins arrived here early today from Cork and was at once taken to St. Vincent hospital to be prepared to rest in state in the city hall until Sunday.

The steamer King, bearing the remains of the Irish patriot and former commander-in-chief of the Irish regular army, reached Northwall at 2 o'clock. General Richard Mulcahy, who has succeeded Collins as commander-in-chief, was waiting with two companies of troops. There were about 50 civilians on hand also. They had waited all night to pay honors to the fallen statesman and soldier.

Draped in Tri-Color
Tender hands lifted the coffin to the deck and placed it upon a gun carriage. He was then draped with the tri-color of the Irish free state. Irish pipers, playing a mournful dirge, preceded the procession to St. Vincent hospital, where the embalming was done.

Collins' horse was led behind the coffin and in the procession was officers of the army and practically all the ministers and many members of the Dail Eireann. The music and the lamentations of mourners drew large numbers of men and women into the streets, where they watched with streaming eyes the funeral procession pass by.

Hundreds of men and women filled the morning church during the morning praying for the late statesman.

It is reported that Collins' last as chief of the cabinet might be offered to Lord Mayor O'Neill. The lord mayor is a Sinn Feiner, but opposed the policy of the republicans under De Valera. He is noted for his diplomatic qualities and has long been endeavoring to establish peace between the free staters and the republicans.

Youth Flock to Arms
General Mulcahy reported that the youth of the country, angered by the killing of Collins, are flocking to the standard of the free state army, vowing to avenge the slaying on the irregulars.

Satisfaction was caused here by a message from Colonial Secretary Winston Spencer Churchill, which intimated that Great Britain would not interfere in Irish affairs, but will allow the Irish to work out their own destiny in their own way.

Nothing has been heard of De Valera since Collins was shot down. It is not even definitely known where De Valera is hiding. It is certain, however, that he is no longer fighting at the head of his troops.

Sniping in Dublin
There was some sniping in Dublin throughout the night while further fighting between regulars and irregulars was reported from the border of County Cork and County Limerick.

Irregulars at Lisecarroll were reported to have wounded Commandant Cregan of the free state forces and then set fire to the military motor car, in which he was lying helpless. Cregan's companions rescued him before he was burned to death. He died a few minutes later, however, at the roadside.

Collins' companions on his fatal trip to the military outposts beyond Cork gave further details of his death. After being struck in the head and mortally wounded, Collins remained conscious. He knew that the end was at hand and his last request was:

His Dying Request
"Let the Dublin guards bury me."

Driver Quinn of the military car in which Collins was riding, gave the following account of the battle and Collins' brave end:

"Collins died a brave man. His conduct was superb. When the attack began we thought that there must be about 250 men in the ambulance. We asked Collins to retire to a place of safety but he replied:

"No, I stick to my men to the last."

"Collins was standing up firing with his service pistol when a bullet struck him. He collapsed, but as he did so he cried out: 'Don't worry about me. Fight on.'"

Name of Client Is Not Known to Builder of Home

A contractor applied at the Eagle Rock city hall yesterday afternoon for a permit to build a residence, but could not give the name of the owner for whom the structure was to be built. The permit was held until the builder could locate and find the name of his employer.

Among the permits issued yesterday was one for the erection of a $2,500 dwelling at 161 Eagle Rock road. A. T. Gray, contractor of Glendale, is to build the structure for A. J. Hutchinson of Eagle Rock. Plans drawn by N. M. Knaus, architect, call for a five-room house. It is understood.

Henry Nash is to erect a temporary home for F. Fortin of Los Angeles. The site for the structure, which will include four rooms, is at 305 West Sycamore. It will be built at the rear of the lot, leaving space for the erection of a permanent residence later on, it is stated. The total investment will be about $1,000.

Alterations and additions to the home of Captain James S. France of 117 West Adams street are to be made by Fred W. Schlueter. The cost of the improvements is estimated at about $265.

Eagle Rock Wins From Glendalians

Tuesday the indoor baseball team from Eagle Rock playground went to Glendale and again defeated their rivals by a score of 11 to 8.

Both teams played a tie game until the eleventh inning, when Eagle Rock broke the tie.

The boys celebrated their victory with a swim in Brookside park the same evening. Mrs. Collins accompanied the boys on both trips.

Building Rush Is Bringing In Cars

The latest addition to the equipment of the Eagle Rock Lumber company in that city is a new seven-speed Fageol truck, which was delivered to the local concern Tuesday.

Substantial increases in the business of the company made the addition of the new truck necessary. Building is on the increase now and it was found that the former equipment would not handle all the deliveries and give the prompt service which it is the policy of the company to maintain.

Kafeteria Shoe Store to Open Here Soon

The Kafeteria Shoe Store, which is to open at 126 North Brand boulevard on or about September 1, is the tenth store of a chain which has an interesting history.

Seven years ago the first Kafeteria shoe store was started in Long Beach, with a capital of $500. The policy of those in charge of the organization, it is said, caused a tremendous growth in business, and the formation of a chain of the stores, so that at the present rate, the chain is expected to do a business this year of $600,000.

The organization, starting with the one store in Long Beach, has grown so that there are now nine stores in southern California, and one to be opened here soon making the tenth. The stores are at Long Beach, San Pedro, Los Angeles, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Pasadena, Ontario, Riverside and San Bernardino, with a wholesale house in Los Angeles.

The plan of the stores is semi-self-service, the customers having the privilege of looking over the stock. Shoes for everyone, from babies' to men's and women's, are to be carried in the local store, it is announced, and the buying power of the large organization is such that the highest price for shoes in the store will be $4.85.

Street Mail Boxes Soon Will Be Here

Glendale's long looked-for street mail boxes are at last soon to arrive, according to a communication received at the local postoffice from the postoffice department in Washington, D. C. The communication stated that the manufacture of the boxes had been unavoidably delayed, but that now they are being shipped. They should arrive in Glendale within a week or two, it is said. The boxes, the installation of which has become an urgent necessity due to the growth, were ordered last spring.

"HELLO BOY" GETS JOB

CANBY, Ore.—John Wells, farmer, of this district, has become a "hello boy." The Canby Co-operative Telephone company advertised for bids, agreeing to give the job of "Central" in its local office to the lowest bidder. Nine bids were received, ranging from $1,900 to $2,000 a year. Wells' offer was a thousand even, the lowest, and he threw the job. John said he was tired of the farm.

REGULATION URGED FOR COASTWISE SHIPPING

EX-SOLDIERS TO COLONIZE HAWAII

Farming Will Be Taught Under Gen. Summerall's Military Project

General Agent of Shipping Board at Manila Says All Will Benefit

MANILA.—Joseph F. Marias, general agent of the United States shipping board in Manila, believes that for the benefit of Filipinos and Americans coastwise shipping regulations should be in force here at once.

"I believe," he said, "it is possible to prove to any fair-minded Filipino that extension of the coastwise shipping regulations to the Philippines will benefit Filipinos and Americans alike."

"Let us take the actual situation. Filipinos now have no ocean ships and only a portion of the inter-island ships. If the coastwise regulations go into force all ships, including those in the inter-island service, will be under American registry; no cargo between the islands and the United States will be carried in foreign vessels. Filipinos will have the same opportunities as Americans to acquire and operate both inter-island and ocean ships. They can operate ships economically, and they can man and officer them; too, there is no reason to believe that with the coastwise laws extended to the islands they would not soon have an important part of the ocean carrying trade between the Philippines and the United States in their own hands."

World Help Employment
"They have the same rights under the American flag that Americans have. As to seamen, their chances for employment would be greatly increased."

"The Philippines are capable of developing into an important manufacturing country, but cannot do so as long as the islands are held in the grip of foreign ship lines. Rates are generally in favor of the shipping out of raw products; for this reason alone manufacturers already established here find the going difficult."

"The coconut oil industry is an example. Unfavorable rates are caused the oil mills in Manila to close. It is advantageous to ship the raw copra to Europe and America and extract the oil there rather than to extract it where the copra is produced. Europe, in other words, garners profits that it would be to the mutual advantage of Filipinos and Americans to leave in the Philippines. Until the coastwise laws are enforced here, however, the situation cannot be controlled for the benefit of Filipinos and Americans. The foreign lines govern the rates, which are made at haphazard. They should be scientific and give the domestic manufacturer an even break with the manufacturer abroad."

Foreigners Oppose Law
"A great deal of opposition to the law comes from foreigners in the inter-island shipping business. Such opposition ought not to weigh an instant with the authorities."

The oppositionists want to perpetuate the status quo in inter-island shipping—to continue to charge double ocean rates from many ports of the Philippines to Manila, where it ought to be possible for ocean ships to call and load cargo direct for the ports of the world.

Now as long as the minor ports are left unimproved American ships can haul cargo to Manila from these ports no cheaper than the present boats can. But the ports will not be left unimproved, whether the coastwise laws are applied here or not. The situation is intolerable; it lies an onerous and constant charge against the Filipino producer and the American consumer, foreigners reaping the benefits in many instances. Some of the inter-island ships are owned by Spaniards, some by Chinese and some by other foreigners.

Promise Prosecution
The damage caused yesterday and on previous occasions by boys who either wilfully or unthinkingly destroyed the property will amount to a large sum. City officials of Eagle Rock state that in the future reports of boys breaking windows and otherwise destroying unoccupied houses will be thoroughly investigated and the guilty youths punished.

HONOLULU.—Colonization of the rural districts of Hawaii by "citizen farmers" recruited from among discharged soldiers of the United States army who have seen service in the islands and have there received as a part of their military training, will probably result from a conference held at Honolulu between Major-General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A., commanding the Hawaiian Department of the United States Army, Executive George P. Cooke, of the Hawaiian Homes commission, and Dr. Elwood Mead, noted land-settlement expert, of the University of California, according to announcements made following the conference.

The need of Hawaii for a class of citizen farmers to offset the influence of the large number of Oriental now holding land in Hawaii, coupled with the expressed wish of hundreds of soldiers who annually receive their discharges in the islands, to remain there and settle down, caused the army authorities and those in charge of homesteading the agricultural lands of the territory to get together with a view to outlining a working plan by which both objects might be accomplished.

The project, as now outlined and endorsed by General Summerall and Dr. Mead, contemplates the establishment, as a part of the Regular Army schools, of courses in tropical agriculture to be given throughout the enlistment term of three years. Experts from the faculty of the University of Hawaii would give the courses as a part of the extension work now maintained by the university. As an incentive to the enlisted men to take the agricultural courses, arrangements will be made to secure considerable areas of arable lands, which may be apportioned in small sub-divisions on long-term leases to those making application. It is also planned to arrange for financing those who take up the land in this manner, as well as for furnishing them with free advisory service when they are actually on the land.

It is stated by General Summerall that large numbers of soldiers discharged from the army in Hawaii remain in the islands. Most of these men go into mechanical trades, and practically all of them make good, the General states.

KEY WEST, Fla.—Evidently they believe down here that advertising is advertising, just as some people believe that pigs is pigs. In one of the local restaurants located less than a block from the main street there is a large poster with the words: "Prepare to Meet Thy God." No matter where one sits in the restaurant he cannot help but see this poster with its message. And no matter how good the soup tastes or how tantalizing is the aroma from the roast, the diner cannot help but sit and eat and wonder. Possibly the proprietor believes that forewarned is forearmed.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

"LIKE A SHOP GIRL"

Do you remember the old days when "she looked (or dressed or acted) like a shop girl" was a term of reproach?

The shop girl type in those old days was supposed to be a pert young person speaking bad grammar, wearing cheap clothes in exaggerated styles, and probably chewing gum.

The idea was exaggerated, as all such ideas are, but it did have some foundation—as all such ideas do.

The Ideal Saleswoman
Today—well, let this advertisement for saleswomen inserted by a progressive store, bring vividly to your mind, as it did to mine, the tremendous gap between the old type of selling force and the new!

"We seek refined and educated 'college type' young women of unusual sincerity and courtesy."

Young women who will instinctively express the store's unalterable policy, to be friendly but not forward, helpful, but not intrusive—in a word to make all who come here feel free to buy or not as they prefer.

Of course that is the advertisement of only one shop but it shows what the ideal of a saleswoman is coming to be.

A Career for the College Girl
A few years ago if a college woman went to work in a shop it was something unheard of. Today we all know college girls who are entering business careers through the doorway of selling.

Two women from my college were pioneers in this line; one became the head of the advertising of women's stuff in a big shop, another became a buyer.

Authorities on Dress
As for clothes, "to dress like a shop girl" (only we should say "saleswoman" today, and that difference in terms is itself an illustration of the change that has taken place) is very far from a reproach. The average shop girl in a good shop has as good taste, as much restraint and as keen a sense of style as her customers—more than most of them. True, she has no variety of clothes, but what she has are of the best and chosen with fine sense of fitness.

If I can get a shop girl to give me what I feel to be sincere and interested advice I take it like a shot. One girl said to me the other day when I had not seen just what I wanted: "I have one model laid aside that I was going to buy for myself, but I can order another. Would you like to see it?" I bought it at once, because I felt it must represent a better sense of style than mine—if she chose it.

Good taste, well modulated voices, good manners, all these things are coming to be necessary to a successful saleswoman. Small wonder that selling has long ceased to be a job which means loss of caste as compared with teaching or office work. It could only bring about the same change in attitude toward domestic work! But that is a different and more complicated story.

Newest Fashions for California Women

Left: Much dash and originality is featured in this charming costume of rose and grey. The hand embroidery goes far to make it one of the dressy sport models. Right: White linen of the coarser kind is cleverly combined with brilliantly colored cretonne (of red, green, and orange) and, since bright colors enjoy high favor at present, it would seem that these extreme combinations will be worn by those of average quiet taste a bit this season.

They Say That

There has been a lot of agitation in the country districts of California during the past two years against the encroachments of two or three of the great cities upon the country districts, in the possible control of power and water. There is another encroachment that is still more dangerous and that is the control of the state legislature by the machine politicians of the great cities and the dominance of the chief executive of the state by a group of job holders, most of them from the political wards of the cities, who run this state government while the executive makes such pitiful speeches as the one to a Glendale audience the other day.

If Governor Stephens has spent as much time doing politics and making comforting speeches in the other fifty-seven counties as he has in this one during the past four years, he hasn't spent very much of his time at Sacramento, where the affairs of state are supposed to be run. When the legislature was in session, the ward politicians of Los Angeles and San Francisco have been there to dominate the situation. No independent legislator from the country districts asking for economy and efficiency and the carrying out of the pledges made by the administration when it went into power, could have gotten to first base. There was no show. What chance could there be with an administration that has increased the number of employes from 4000 to 11,000, when all of it could be done with 3000 people properly organized.

Farmers are foolish who allow themselves to be fooled on this issue by grandfatherly pats on the heads of their kids while the public utilities are getting their money in high service rates, allowed by the state railroad commission as a proper charge because of the taxes being assessed upon these companies by the state. It will take more than promises of a few fat jobs to convince the rank and file that the spoils system in state politics is efficient or economical. Friend W. Richardson offers the first opportunity the people of California have had in years to get a real executive, whose record as a state official gives real promise of statewide economy in government.

BEAUTY CHATS

THE MOUTH AS A CLUE TO CHARACTER

A number of psychologists are claiming that the mouth reveals the character more than any other feature; and that to make an exact character study the face must be in complete repose. This is because such extreme sensitivity is attributed to the mouth that its expression is affected by each passing physical or mental reaction. Psychologists even claim that the mouth is such a "tell-tale" feature that certain qualities and tendencies are revealed by the movement of the lips.

A mouth that is contracted, with the corners drawn inward, often denotes that the person is conservative to a degree and inclined to be self-centered. These people do not usually care for society but are very loyal to their friends.

Full, moist lips, slightly protruding and of a deep, healthy color are a sign of an impractical nature; however, these people will be generous and very optimistic. They are often very sensitive and considered "temperamental" and somewhat lacking in self-control.

The mouth with lips that are dry and easily cracked is frequently discovered as belonging to a person with an irritable disposition. But this condition may also arise from some physical cause—in which case it should not be considered in the sense of character revelation.

Suspicion and secretiveness are denoted by the mouth that slants to either side. A mouth may not be the infallible guide to character, since there are many other points to be weighed in this study, but that it is the feature most easily affected is certain. It is also the first feature to show the effect of years.

Next week I will give a talk on how to keep your mouth from aging.

Emma—The little lines under the eyes are not due to a bad disposition. These people are only teasing you and the next time they do, you may quote me as having said that they are laughing lines that appear and disappear at any age. You are probably a little run down at the present, due to working so many months without a vacation.

Miss B. N. M.—The best soap for shampooing are castile or tar. If your hair is oily, it shows an unhealthy condition of the scalp which you should remedy by massage and a tonic.

Ellen—The tiny lumps under the skin are much the same as pimples and may be cured by treating them in the same way as pimples are treated.

Beat the white of 4 eggs until stiff and dry and fold them into the first mixture. Heat omelet pan (or smooth bottom frying pan) and butter sides and bottom. Turn in mixture and cook very slowly. When well puffed and delicately browned underneath, place on grate of warm oven to finish cooking on top. The omelet is cooked. Peel and slice 3 firm ripe tomatoes, cook to a delicate brown in hot butter and pour on omelet just before folding. Turn out on hot platter and place fresh tomatoes, cut in quarters, around it. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Luncheon Toast—Cut as many slices of bread as there are persons to be served; cut into rounds and delicately brown them in a little hot butter. On each round place a piece of cooked chicken liver, which has been carefully browned, and on this place a poached egg. Sprinkle lightly with finely chopped chives and serve hot.

String Bean Salad—Marinate 2 cups of string beans which have been cooked, drained and rinsed in cold water, add 1 tablespoon of chopped onions with French dressing. Let stand 2 hours. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Cocoanut Cookies—Cream 1-2 cup butter with 1 cup of sugar; then add 1 well beaten egg and mix thoroughly. Mix 1-2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, and 1-2 teaspoon salt together and add to first mixture alternately with 1-2 cup milk. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla extract, cover and chill thoroughly. Add 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-4 teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon salt. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add 3 tablespoons flour, and pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, hot mixture. When ready to serve, pour tomato mixture in 1 quart of scalded milk.

Ginger Ice Cream—Mix 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup of sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, and 1 egg, slightly beaten. Add gradually, 2 cups scalded milk, and cook in double boiler 20 minutes, stirring constantly at first, and afterwards occasionally. Cool, and add 1 quart thin cream. Strain and add 1-2 cup Canton ginger cut in small pieces, 3 tablespoons ginger syrup and 1 tablespoon vanilla extract. Freeze, using 3 parts ice to one of rock salt.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

THE PREVENTION OF TOXEMIAS OF PREGNANCY

The so-called morning sickness during pregnancy—the vomiting in the morning which begins the end of the first month and ends in the third or fourth month—is present in about 50 per cent of the cases. When it is so violent that the patient rapidly loses weight and becomes acutely ill, it is known as pernicious vomiting of pregnancy.

The old medical literature gives considerable about this condition of vomiting and says it is due to "humours."

Mauriceau, writing in the seventeenth century, says: "The cessation of the menstruation causes corrupt humours cleaving to the insides of the stomach which being impossible to be evacuated because they adhere so fast. They must be purged away, to effect which they need a dissolvent, which may be a gentle purge."

We do not believe this "corrupt humours" theory now. What the morning sickness is due to is not fully known. Of course it has something to do with the development of the new life and the changes that take place to accommodate this new growth. The system at that time is in a more unstable condition and, therefore, is more easily disarranged than usual.

I have a very husky belief, which is shared by many of the obstetric specialists, that a large per cent of the ordinary morning sickness is due to incorrect and over-abundant diet caused by the popular idea of eating for two. In some cases there are displacements of the uterus and when these are corrected, there is a relief. Other cases are of the neurotic or hysterical origin and rest and quiet and suggestion and auto-suggestion will relieve these.

Salivation
In some cases during early pregnancy there is an increased secretion of saliva which may be very annoying. I have had a letter from a woman recently who says that she felt she would go out of her mind if she could not stop spitting.

Kosmak, in his book on "Toxemias of Pregnancy," says that he has usually found in these conditions that the teeth needed attention and that the gums were inflamed. Salivation may also be due to nervous or reflex action. If there is a catarrhal condition of the nose and throat, that may cause both the increased saliva and the vomiting. In these cases the teeth should be attended to and the catarrhal condition should be treated.

Eclampsia

This is a very serious condition which may appear in the latter part of pregnancy. The word eclampsia is derived from the Greek, meaning flash. It used to be thought that the convulsions of this state appeared in a flash without any warning. But that is not true. There are warnings of this condition and if they are heeded there is no need of having this serious illness.

The following facts have given us important data concerning eclampsia: 1. Obstetricians of Germany reported that during the war, when food was not so plentiful and there was considerable less fat and protein to be had, there was a great lessening of the cases of eclampsia. 2. Overweight, full-blooded women are more frequently affected with eclampsia than thin and less well-nourished women. 3. There is less eclampsia in the summer when less meat and more fruit and vegetables are eaten, than in the winter, and there is less eclampsia in the south than in the north for the same reason. These cases that I have enumerated show that there is a direct relationship between eclampsia and diet.

It seems from this data that over-eating can cause the poisoning which affects the system so seriously. Last week I gave you some general instruction for diet in pregnancy. If you did not get them, if you will send a stamped and self-addressed envelope to me, I will send them. But all during pregnancy you should be under the care of your family physician, and if it is the first baby you should be under the care of a specialist, if possible.

If you have severe headaches or swelling of the feet and ankles or trouble with your eyes—that is, spots before them or temporary blindness or dizziness—you should see your physician. Meanwhile, go on a fruit juice or skimmed milk diet—not over 500 calories during the day—for a day or two.

Book Reviews

A book which lovers of nature, whether professional, impassioned or merely philandering, will enjoy is "The Open Spaces," by John C. Van Dyke, which will soon be released at the Glendale public library on Harvard street. Incidents of nights and days under the blue sky are told in this interesting volume.

"The Masque of Poets," edited by Edward J. O'Brien, is a collection of new poems by leading American contemporary poets. "The Tapestry Book," by Helen Churchill Candee, makes up the various types of tapestry, identifications, borders, tapestry marks, how tapestry is made and modern tapestry.

"When the Workman Helps You Manage," by William A. Bassett. The author explains the principles upon which he believes can be based a settlement of the feud between capital and labor.

RUSSIAN RAILWAYS IN DEPLORABLE FIX, CLAIM

Sixty Per Cent of 18,000 Engines Declared to Be Out of Commission

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The deplorable state of Russia's railways was outlined by Colonel C. S. Gaskill, of Moorestown, N. J., former chief of the American Relief administration traffic division, who recently was in London en route to the United States, where he is to resume his position with the Pennsylvania railroad.

There are only 61,000 versts (a verst is two-thirds of a mile) of railroad in all Russia under soviet control, Colonel Gaskill stated. This means about one-twelfth of the United States mileage in a country far larger. Enormous stretches of territory, including many fair-sized cities, have to depend for their connection with the outside world on wagon and river transport, being absolutely untouched by railroads.

"The total number of locomotives," Colonel Gaskill said, "according to soviet official figures, is only 18,700, of which sixty per cent are out of commission. Of the remaining forty per cent fifteen per cent are fully fifty years old. The number of cars is estimated at 440,000, of which thirty per cent are out of service. The condition of the others is dilapidated in the extreme."

Evidences of former wealth in rolling stocks are seen in some fine large American and other cars, which one constantly finds piled up on sidings, where they are used as houses by refugees and even by railroad officials.

Make Homes from Cars

"These cars have been turned in many cases into quite comfortable homes," he declared. "Whole families conduct a regular menage in them. Presumably many of these cars were seized during the various wars and never returned to their proper uses."

The railroad beds, the colonel stated, apparently did not suffer much as a result of war, but now they are showing the need of repair. The ties are rotting, and so far the people have not had the strength to cut the wood for manufacturing new ones. The same lack of strength was largely accountable for the dearth of fuel which at first threatened to handicap seriously the movement of American Relief administration supplies.

"Our salvation," he declared, "lay in the fact that the government was able to transform the engines from wood or coal to oil burners. Canadian tank cars are now bringing sufficient fuel from the oil fields of Baku."

The utter destitution of the country affects the railroads in many small as well as large ways. For example, cotton waste for cleaning purposes is unobtainable, and workers have to content themselves with the tucker tape used for Russian telegrams. Paint, of course, is now an unknown luxury.

"But the Russian railroad officials are as keen as ever," the colonel stated. "The government fortunately for us retained most of the old experts, and we have to thank their energy and efficiency for the fact that our stocks got moved. These men have been cut off for years from the outside world."

Asked for Literature

"They all begged me to send them literature, particularly on American methods of signaling."

In considering the movement of American Relief administration supplies during the Spring, Colonel Gaskill said it must be remembered that they were the only freight, outside of the soviet seed cargoes, moving over the roads.

"It is ridiculous to say that any more material could have got in than we sent," he declared. "Ours got in only by almost superhuman efforts."

The recent improvement in the transportation situation he ascribes to the opening of the rivers. The supply of barges is better than cars, and the American administration, feeding in other districts, have established excellent relations with the river transport department.

Before leaving Russia Colonel Gaskill spent some months as supervisor of the American Relief administration, feeding in Saratov, where American food is keeping 1,183,000 people alive.

"You can feel the results of our feeding in the very atmosphere," he declared. "We've given those peasants a new lease on life, and I suppose one would have to be saved from starvation himself to realize the intensity of their gratitude."

Colonel Gaskill is now returning to America after an absence of five years, during which time he served with the engineers in France under General Atterbury, later becoming technical adviser to the Polish government. He has been eight months in Russia with the American Relief administration. His home is in Moorestown, N. J.

Reading From Lord's Prayer on Pinhead

Charles Howard Baker of Spokane, Washington, a former employe of the bureau of engraving, D. C., spent three years and eleven days in engraving the Lord's prayer on the head of a pin. And as a result he is now blind. The pin is being exhibited throughout the country by Charles J. Seymon, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Alma Fraenkel is shown above reading the inscription through a microscope.

WHAT P. E. THINKS ABOUT SECTION CAMP HERE

Location at Intersection of Glendale and Burbank Lines Considered

Real estate values near the wash will be increased by the section camp contemplated there according to the following letter received yesterday by City Manager W. H. Reeves from E. C. Johnson, chief engineer of the Pacific Electric railway:

"Referring to your communication of August 1 to Mr. Pontius, our vice president, in connection with the construction of a camp for our section men just west of Central avenue on the north bank of the Verdugo flood control canal.

"This site was selected after considerable investigation, the first requisite being that it should be as close to the intersection of the Glendale and Burbank lines as possible, as the men that work out of this camp maintain both these lines, and, naturally, a centrally located camp cuts down operating expense which ultimately show themselves in the tariff fares received by the company.

Speaks of Location

"The location seemed to be in a semi-industrial district as on the south we have the flood control canal, on the north a coal and wood yard and on the west a steam laundry.

"This is the only available land close to the junction owned by the railroad company on which one could place the camp and the ground in the vicinity will really be considerably improved several hundred per cent when the camp is finished, as trees, shrubbery, etc., will be planted. Ornamental trellises will be erected on which will be vines and the bare, uneven ground constituting this bank of the wash will be entirely done away with by the contemplated improvements.

"We commenced the construction of this camp in good faith with no ulterior motive, having considered the public well, as indicated above, before commencing the work, and really feel there should be no great objection to the contemplated construction.

Offers Alternative

"However, if a site not far to the west of this location would be furnished and the expense of moving the buildings already constructed to that site be met, I would be disposed to recommend to our vice president for his serious consideration a proposal to move the camp to the new location.

"I will be glad to cease any more active work at this point for the next week or so pending receipt of advice from you in regard to this matter."

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

History Keeps Repeating Looking for Unusual Comparative Value of News Substantial Buildings

By Gil A. Cowan

WHILE the vacation season is on the writer has had the pleasure of editing the International News Service leased wire copy—and we mean it is a real pleasure, for that was our work for several years.

And in the news of today—as it was yesterday—there are certain stories you expect as regularly as breakfast, dinner and supper. The first shot out of the box, to use a hackneyed expression, is the declaration of some new strike or resumption of the labor war in some section of the country. That is a daily occurrence only equaled by the assassination, ambushing or just common murder of several more sons of Erin.

Then comes the baseball stuff with Babe Ruth, Ken Williams, or some other son of swat soaring another home run or two. As for the fight news, it runs something like this: Dempsey will fight, Dempsey won't fight, Dempsey will be there, Dempsey is not going to be there, etc.

If it were not for an occasional fire, or the regular Los Angeles murder mystery, or somebody trying to stop a train with their automobile, it would be a dull day, for news is nothing more or less than history repeating itself.

While there is much the sameness in everything which occurs, we still get a great deal of enjoyment out of reading the weather report. As you know, it seldom changes so we always look to see if the unusual has occurred.

Should the weather man predict rain for tomorrow he would be the most-talked-about man in town, but no one would believe it. The same is true when we sit here on the sidelines in Glendale and read of someone offering a panacea for labor troubles.

There is only one desire a perfectly normal person should have while hibernating here in this favored spot. That is to travel and see how good Glendale really is. That's old stuff, but it remains a fact that a true perspective cannot be obtained of this marvelously developing city without comparative values.

Comparative values must be used in judging the worthiness of news which appears on the front page of a newspaper, too, folks.

You would be surprised at the number of requests we have to publish this and that here and there—and it is some job to say that your soul is your own.

But you may rest assured that the first page of The Glendale Evening News is not for sale; that the publisher of this paper is not reaping one cent, one ounce of political strength or any other emoluments from this campaign.

In other words, this is a people's paper, but not dictated, or in any way controlled by interests foreign to its management.

That explains why The Glendale Evening News is favorable to Senator Hiram Johnson and several other candidates.

Speaking of substantial building in California, the Pasadena Star-News says editorially:

"Many structures are going up in California cities and towns which are very substantial and which are ornate additions to the improvements of the state. Some of these are public buildings—city halls, libraries, and county buildings. Many of them are business structures and manufacturing plants. It is gratifying to know that structures of substantial type are being erected. Cities and towns are vying with each other in the character of buildings they are constructing. Some of the most sightly and imposing buildings in the west are going up in this state.

"That improvements made here are of such enduring nature, is a welcome phase of California development. It is not flimsy. It is not of a kind to make Californians blush and apologize. Quite the contrary. Every city and town in the state can 'point with pride' to handsome public buildings and private business blocks, hotels and residences."

Joy for Motorists Using Boulevard in Angeleno's Letter

Joy for motorists of Glendale who go over the hill and far away to Los Angeles is contained in the following letter received yesterday by City Manager W. H. Reeves from D. M. True, office engineer, in behalf of John A. Griffin, city engineer of the city of Los Angeles:

"I have delayed answering your letter of the 15th instant in order to give you some good news.

"The council has ordered the proceedings again started for the paving of Glendale boulevard from Cove avenue to Alessandro street.

"Unfortunately, these proceedings, under the Act of 1911, require about three months to complete, so work should start about the middle of November. Every effort will be made to keep the time down to the minimum.

"For your information, proceedings, as perhaps you know, were originally started in the first part of 1921, but were abandoned April 11, 1922."

MILLIONS TO FIGHT DISEASE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—To make fighting disease attractive, Representative Sproul, Republican of Illinois, introduced a bill in the house today to provide a government reward of $1,000,000 for any person discovering an infallible cure for any one of five so-called "scourges of the white race." Sproul would have the government pay this sum for cure of tuberculosis, cancer, pneumonia and epilepsy.

GRIM COMEDIAN CONTINUES TODAY

Mothers' Sacrifice Is Told in Film Story Now at Glendale Theatre

There is an unusually well produced photoplay at the Glendale Theatre, where the Goldwyn picture, "The Grim Comedian," by Rita Weiman, will hold forth again today. This Frank Lloyd production is a story of theatrical life coupled with a mother's sacrifice to keep her content-bred daughter in ignorance of the mother's former manner of living.

The conflict is well worked up between the mother, her daughter, and the mother's discarded lover. It is a situation uncommon on the screen, and has been admirably handled by the director, Frank Lloyd, and a cast of eminent players, including Phoebe Hunt, Gloria Hope, Laura Lavarini, Mae Hopkins, Jack Holt, John Harron, Bert Woodruff and Joseph J. Dowling.

The story is not unrelenting drama, for there are moments of comic relief that are unforced, genuine and highly amusing. "The Grim Comedian" is a picture you will enjoy seeing.

His 'Poet's License' Permits Fishing for Lilies in City Pond

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—

His "poet's license" saved George Sterling, well-known writer of poetry, from arrest as a result of a nocturnal dip in the city lily pond in quest of pond lilies for a lady fair.

According to the story told by Sterling's friends, the poet, Theodore Dreiser, novelist, and two ladies, were autoing through the park when one of the ladies fair cast covetous eyes on the graceful pond lilies. Sterling, doffing his outer garments, waded in and nipped a lily. Just then a park cop hove in sight and demanded what license the pond intruder had for such an act in such unconventional garb.

"My poetic license," Sterling is said to have explained—and got away with it.

The Riddle of the Frozen Flame

By M.E. & T.W. HANSHEW

CHAPTER XIII.

A Gruesome Discovery

Through the long watches of the night Cleek sat there thinking, his chin sunk in one hand, his eyes narrowed down to pin-points, the whole alert personality of the man vitally dominant. No he would not tell any one of the happening except Dollops and Mr. Narkom. It would only invite suspicion, throw the house into a state of unrest which was the very thing that he was anxious to avoid. As dawn broke, and the danger for that night was past, he got to his feet, plunged his face into cold water, which cleared away the cobwebs, undressed, and then tackled the question of the injured bedding.

The mattress could be turned—that was easy enough, and the silt would probably not be noticed. The bedclothes, too, might be turned the other way up and down, and the injured parts tucked in tightly at the bottom. It would leave them a little short at the top perhaps, but that couldn't be helped. Suspicion must be allayed at all costs. Time enough to bring the would-be murderer to justice when he had solved the riddle in its entirety. There were two pillows, so he took the damaged one, tore off its case, and tucked that away in his kit-bag, pushed the bag under the bed, and then set about the remaking, with some small success. At least for a time, the incisions in the blanket and sheets would not be noticed, and in the morning he would invent some excuse to have them changed.

The early morning cup of tea, brought at eight by a dainty chambermaid in cap and starched blue dress, supplied the need quite nicely. He nodded to her as she left the room, and then, when the door closed, upset the cup upon the coverlet, letting the liquid soak through. Then he got up and dressed himself with something like a smile upon his lips.

At breakfast, a housemaid waited upon them, and Cleek ate lustily, with the appetite that is born of good health, and a mind at peace with the world. Toward the end of the meal, however, Borkins came in. He glanced casually over the group at the table, let his eyes rest for a moment upon Cleek, and then—dropped an empty dish he was carrying. As he stooped to recover it, all chance of seeing how the appearance of the man who had so nearly met his death last night affected him, was gone. He came up again still the same, quiet, dignified Borkins of yore. Not a gleam of anything but the most obsequious interest in the task before him marred the tranquility of his features. If the man knew anything, then he was a fine actor. But—did he? That was the question that interested Cleek during the remainder of the meal.

After it was over, Mr. Narkom and Sir Nigel went off to the smoking room for a quiet cigarette before setting to the real business of the day, and Cleek was left to follow them at his leisure. Borkins was pottering about the table as the two men

ANTENNAE MASTS OF STEEL BETTER THAN WOOD

The electric field intensity, due to the presence of negative electrons in the space between the filament and plate, may at last be equal and neutralized that due to the positive potential of the plate so that there is no force acting on the electrons near the filament. This effect of the electrons in the space is called the "space charge effect." It must not be supposed that the space charge effect is caused by the same electrons all the time. Electrons near the plate are constantly entering it, but new electrons emitted by the filament are entering the space, so that a total number between filaments and plate remains constant at a given temperature. After the temperature of the filament has reached the point where the effect of the electrons present in the space between the filament and plate neutralizes the effect

ANTENNAE MASTS OF STEEL BETTER THAN WOOD

For the man desiring good antennae for a long range receiving set or as an aerial to transmit, these steel masts will be found a great aid. The manufacturer sells them ready to assemble. They are made in various sizes, which are becoming standardized to amateur work—namely, an over all height of approximately 60 to 90 feet. They are made in three sections. Material used is chosen for its strength. It is seamless steel tubing, which for its effective strength is about three times as strong as wood and weighs about 30 per cent less. Guy wires, shackles, bed plates, turn buckles, etc., are regular equipment, and the antenna is ready for erection when delivered.

Steve Never Thought About Garden of Eden

PORTLAND, Ore.—Steve Lucas, thirty-four, has been nominated as president of the Absent-Minded club.

Steve came here from Aberdeen, Wash., and lost little time in going to the court house, where he applied for a marriage license.

He fulfilled the customary requirements and answered the usual personal questions until confronted with the query:

"What is the name of the future Mrs. Lucas?"

"Let's see," stammered Steve. "Gee! I can't think of it; it has slipped my mind!"

So he had to go after the blushing damsel, who, speaking for herself, said her name was Eve Henderson.

Wonderingly several editors telephoned his home.

"Monsieur Bertillon just died!" a hushed voice told them.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BRUSH PILE

"Here is the rake, Uncle Wiggily," called Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning, as the muskrat lady housekeeper came to the front door of the hollow stump bungalow. The bunny rabbit gentleman was half asleep on the porch.

"The rake? The rake, Nurse Jane? Why in the world should you give me the rake?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Is the Skillery Scallery Alligator around here, and does his back need scratching?"

"Oh, nothing like that!" laughed Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "But there are some dried leaves and many dead branches of trees to say nothing of dried bushes around our bungalow. I thought it would be a good idea to rake them up into a brush pile and burn them. Then it would be more tidy around here."

"You are right," said Uncle Wiggily, after looking down on each side of his pink, twinkling nose, to make sure it was on straight. "I'll rake up a big brush pile and this evening I'll gather the animal children around it and we'll have a potato roast."

So saying, Uncle Wiggily took the rake from Nurse Jane, and soon was busy about his bungalow, raking the leaves and brush up into a pile to burn later in the evening.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, what are you doing?" suddenly asked a voice, as the bunny uncle was turning the rake from him, and then pulling it toward him, which is the way you do when making a brush pile. "Are you building yourself a new bungalow?" the voice went on.

At first the bunny thought perhaps, after all, the Skillery Scallery Alligator had come creeping in to nibble his ear. But after a second look, Mr. Longears saw Nannie Wagtail, the goat girl, prancing around the edge of the brush pile.

"No Nannie," answered the bunny. "I am not making a new bungalow. But if you could around tonight I'll make you some roast potatoes!"

"Oh, goodie!" bleated Nannie. Then Sammie and Susie Littleall, the two rabbit children, came out, and as soon as they saw the brush pile they gave little squeals of delight, and began running around and beneath it, as well as over it. For you know rabbits are very clever at hiding under brush piles. Wild rabbits like nothing better than to scuttle down in a pile of brush or a briar patch, for then the wolves and foxes cannot so easily catch them.

Though Sammie and Susie were not exactly wild, they knew how to wiggle their way under a brush pile much better than you could have done, and, in fact, better than Nannie Wagtail or any of the other animal children.

"My, how fast they go through the brush!" bleated Nannie, as she saw Susie first on one side and then on the other, while Sammie was just a quick get away through the brush that Uncle Wiggily had raked into a large mound.

"Yes, they are very speedy and quick," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "When I was a young rabbit I, too, used to wiggle my way under piles of brush. I could go from one side beneath it to the other side so fast that you could scarcely see me. But, alas, those days are long past!" and the bunny gentleman winked his pink nose somewhat sadly.

After a while Sammie and Susie became tired of running beneath the brush and playing tag, and they went to the six and seven cent store with Nannie to buy ice cream cones. Uncle Wiggily continued to rake up the brush until he had a very large pile. He was just going in his bungalow to get ready for the potato roast that evening when, all of a sudden, a harsh voice cried:

"Hold on there! Wait a minute!"

And there was the Fuzzy Wuzzy Fox!

"I s'pose you are wondering what I want?" growled the Fox. "Well, I'll tell you! I am going to nibble your ears!"

"Ha! Not if I know it!" cried Uncle Wiggily as he looked at the brush pile. "If Sammie and Susie could crawl into that pile I can do the same," thought the bunny. "I'll do it!"

No sooner said than done, as Uncle Wiggily made a jump for the brush pile, the bunny leaped beneath it.

"Where are you?" cried the angry Fox.

"Over here," answered the bunny. The Fox ran around that side, but Uncle Wiggily just dashed beneath and through the brush again, taking a short cut, so to speak, and he was on the side where he started, while the Fox was away around on the other side. For the Fox could not so easily go through underneath the brush, but had to run around, and this took a long time, for the pile was a large one.

In this way Uncle Wiggily kept the Fox chasing around the pile first to one place then another, until that Fox was so tired out he fell down and could not get up again. So Uncle Wiggily could go safely into his bungalow without getting his ears nibbled.

"I'm glad I didn't forget how to crawl through a brush pile," chuckled the bunny to Nurse Jane. And if the piece of cheese doesn't try to jump through the hole in the doughnut and tangle its legs in the tennis net, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the potato roast.

..FUN..

EASILY EXPLAINED

A former Socialist, who is now very anti, is known for his ready wit. Recently he was haranguing an open air meeting and referred to our boys who fought "over there."

A stout suffragette asked him in an acid tone: "Will you tell us why you didn't fight with the boys 'over there'?"

"Yes, madame," answered the ex-Socialist, "for the same reason you are not with the Follies—physical disability!"

AMIALE BIRDS

Bobby, dear, run out and shut the chicken house door for mother.

The little fellow went willingly and when he got back she asked, "What did the chickens say?"

"Oh, they didn't say anything—they just kinda smiled," said Bobby.

It's a Fact

COTTON TRADE

Narrower fluctuations in cotton prices have witnessed the most recent transactions in cotton, according to a review prepared by the United States department of Agriculture. There has been no new outstanding feature in the situation. While weather as a whole was reported a little more favorable for cotton, it was more propitious for the propagation of the boll weevil.

Port and interior stocks are diminishing rapidly. Increased activity is reported in the dry goods market with prices firmer.

HAIRCUT WRECKS HOME
 LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—The price of a hair cut wrecked the home of Philip and Fannie Weinger. At least this was the substance of the testimony Weinger gave before Judge Carey today and which won for him a divorce. As a result of his wife's alleged hold on his pay check Weinger declared he was forced to go three months without getting his locks clipped, which caused him great mortification and humiliation. Weinger also said his wife wielded a butcher knife and rolling pin with great effect when angered. Each week, Weinger declared, when he asked his wife for the price of a hair cut after giving her his check, she always said "Wait until next week."
CATTLEMAN CREMATED
 TULARE, Cal., Aug. 24.—Apparently caught in the flames while asleep, Fletcher, Dees, 25, well known cattle man, was burned to death last night when the home of J. O. Kendrick, near this city, burned. Dees was alone in the house at the time of the fire which is believed to have started from the explosion of an oil heater.

S. P. ANNOUNCE PROGRAM
 SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—A $29,000,000 development and betterment program for the Pacific system of the Southern Pacific railroad for the present year was announced today by E. F. Burkhalter, assistant general manager of the system. A total of $17,000,000 will be expended for new locomotives and new rolling stock, $11,300,000 for new rails, ties and ballast and $700,000 for plant betterments.
SWITCHMAN SLAIN
 SEATTLE, Aug. 24.—Daniel Taylor, switchman, is dead, and Grover Stacy, Northern Pacific yardmaster at Auburn, is dying as a result of a quarrel which took place in the yardmaster's office shortly before midnight last night. According to witnesses, Stacy ordered Taylor to move some cars in the yard. An argument followed after which Taylor shot Stacy and later committed suicide.

RANCHER'S SON KILLED
 VISALIA, Cal., Aug. 24.—Word was received here today of the accidental killing last night of Waldon Schofield, 14, son of a rancher, at his mountain ranch home at Three Rivers, 30 miles east of here. A shotgun which the lad was bringing into the house in preparation for a hunting trip, today was accidentally discharged, blowing the top of his head off.

FISHING BOAT FIRE
 SAN PEDRO, Cal., Aug. 24.—Twenty men probably fatally burned and a third narrowly escaped death in an explosion on board a fishing boat off Point Vicente early today, when the cannery tender "A-B" was destroyed by fire. Only the three men were on board at the time and all were forced to leap into the sea as the craft suddenly became a seething mass of flames when one of the gasoline supply tanks ignited. The men burned were: R. A. Mills, San Pedro; John H. Calvin, 252 East Broadway, Long Beach; Willard Christoferson, San Pedro.

In Africa native girls want American clothes. Somebody is going to get sunburned.

New Dining Room In G. A. R. Hall to Open
 The first dinner in the new dining room recently added to the G. A. R. and W. R. C. hall at 900 South Glendale avenue, will be enjoyed tomorrow during the all day meeting of the post and corps. A feature of the day will be the presentation of the final report on the addition and remodeling of the old building, by Mrs. Priscilla Houdyshel, chairman of the building committee. There will also be informal accounts of the encampment this week at Huntington Beach. In addition to sending a large delegation of members the Glendale post and corps had the honor of having two of their members direct the annual memorial services at the encampment on Sunday. Mrs. Priscilla Houdyshel, chaplain of the southern California auxiliary of Civil War Veterans, and Rev. C. R. Norton, chaplain of the veterans' organization, were the Glendaleans directing the service. Rev. Norton giving the memorial address.
 Among the Glendale people attending the encampment which closes today were Mesdames Julia Hayes, Augusta Patterson, Carlene Kretchmer, Susie Peck, Della Hatgood, Emma Hammon, Mary Stanford, Ella Richardson and Tom Hull; and Commander LeChair, Rev. C. R. Norton, Robert Taylor, P. M. Barrett, Tom Hull, J. C. Clark, N. W. Hammon and George Sanford.

Miss Hamilton Has Farewell Surprise
 Miss Lillian Hamilton, who left today for Berkeley to attend the University of California, has been complimented this week with two farewell affairs. The first was given Tuesday evening by Miss Julia Hull at her home at 224 North Cedar street, and the second by Miss Hamilton's sister, Miss Florence Hamilton at the Hamilton home on Ivy street.
 At the dinner and informal evening at which Miss Hull was hostess, heliotope was used to carry out an orchid color scheme. The guests were Misses Lillian and Florence Hamilton, Betty Avent, and Miss Hull's parents.
 The affair last night was a surprise for Miss Hamilton. Bunco and dancing were enjoyed and late in the evening a lunch was served. Those invited were Misses Cora Hilto, Marian Farland, Doris Moyle, Helen Sherwood, Grace Yarborough, Mary Josephine Phillips, Betty Higgins, Elsie Whitney, Marion Gray, Julia Hull, Betty Avent, Florence Hamilton, Carolyn Grey, Lillian and Peggy Hamilton.

Brush Blaze Quickly Doused on Hillside
 Fire of undetermined origin broke out shortly before noon today on the hill south of Windsor road between South Adams and South Verdugo roads. Firemen from Station No. 1 answered the call, and so rapidly did the fire spread that the entire south side of the hill was in flames before they arrived, although all possible speed was made in answering the call.
 Working systematically under the direction of Fire Chief A. H. Lankford in the blazing sun of noonday, the firemen checked the spread of the blaze toward the south and west, saving two homes on the west side of the hill. The families of H. C. Allen, who was working in Los Angeles, and F. W. Waldo moved the household furniture out of the houses, since for a time it seemed that the buildings were doomed.
 Surrounded by a ring of firemen and volunteers who checked its progress in every direction except toward the top of the hill, the fire burned itself out except on the north side. Late this noon, the blaze was still traveling north and northeast, but gradually was being brought under control.

Glendale Dogs Had Field Day at Show
 Additional honors in the recent kennel show in Pasadena were won by Pekinese dogs from the kennels of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Perry of 815 South Central avenue.
 The Perry's Champion Saraline Sha-mi, 4-year-old male, walked away with the fifty dollar trophy for the best Pekinese in the show.
 Shamus of Perie, 12-months-old male, was reserve winner, while Sunshi of Perie, 8-months-old male, won honors for the first puppy.

Births
 Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Lamar of 213 North Isabel street are the parents of a boy born yesterday, Wednesday, August 23, 1922, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.
 A baby girl was born this morning, Thursday, August 24, 1922, at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital to Mrs. C. E. Ziegler of Los Angeles.

Deaths and Funerals
 Mrs. P. F. Harwood
 Funeral services for Mrs. P. F. Harwood of Los Angeles, who was killed Tuesday by an automobile, will be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 26, 1922, in the Little Church of the Flowers under the direction of L. G. Sovern. The inquest will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Los Angeles.
 One objection we have to the plain people is that some of them are so darned plain.

Picnic Planned by Montrose C. of C.
 An informal meeting of the board of directors of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce was held last night at the home of Mr. Potts of Delmar avenue, at which time an extensive campaign was outlined to advertise Montrose, the new Chamber of Commerce, organized there and also what is being done in that district. Other matters were discussed informally, including that of holding a picnic and entertainment at the new Glendale municipal park in Verdugo canyon, and a committee was directed to make the necessary arrangements and set the date.
 After the business session Mr. Pott and Mrs. F. Young gave a short musical program of piano and vocal numbers. Mr. Potts later served punch.

Precinct 8 Polling Place Is Changed
 The polling place for the eighth precinct has been changed from 510 West California to the garage of Mrs. L. M. Stockbridge at 610 West California, according to an announcement this morning by City Clerk A. J. Van Wie. The change was necessary because of the absence of Mrs. Grace E. Holman from Glendale.

How does a harness horse train? Much the same as a champion athlete or a boxer! This may sound incomprehensible to the uninitiated, but it is a fact. There is much that race horses, athletes and boxers have in common when it relates to training. Just as much care must be exercised in training a horse as must be evidenced in getting Charlie Paddock, the world's champion sprinter, or Jack Dempsey, the world's champion boxer, into the best competitive condition.

The department now holds mediation hearings in labor controversies, but has not the authority to force witnesses to appear.

The Sport Crucible By Davis J. Walsh International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. - When speaking of great ball players, as he frequently does, Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, starts and finishes with one name only. That man is not Rogers Hornsby, although the good Mr. Rickey might be pardoned for being a bit partial toward the Texan in view of the fact that Hornsby is a member of his ball club. Neither is he George Sisler, whom Rickey really developed while coaching the University of Michigan ball team. If he had not been about the majors Mr. Rickey may be persuaded to admit that he did a good job with George and that certainly Hornsby is something of an asset to the Cardinals. But when it comes down to the greatest of them all, Rickey knows only one ball player, and his name is Cobb. One of Branch Rickey's favorite stories, if that noted raconteur can be said to favor any particular anecdote, deals with the game Cobb won from the Browns by a base on balls. At that stage of his checkered career Rickey happened to be manager of the Browns. Hence the occasion remains fixed in his mind much in the same manner that a cornerstone remains fixed in a building it has been his singular contention ever since that Cobb has brains in his feet. "The score was tied, with two out in the ninth," says Rickey, in his best platform manner, "when Cobb came up and worked Carl Wellman for a pass. He immediately took a long lead off first and drew a throw. Leary, our first baseman, lobbed the ball back to the box, and immediately Cobb dashed away from the bag again, drawing another throw. "Again Leary lobbed the ball back, and again Cobb streaked off first. Wellman snatched the ball out of the air and whipped it back. Too late. "At this stage of the proceedings I thought, I saw a chance to retire the side by catclawing Cobb napping. I stood up in the dugout and yelled: "Do it again!" "Leary drew back his arm and tossed the ball even higher than before, and away Cobb went. This time for second base, with no intermediate stops. Wellman reached high in the air, grabbed the ball and threw it in the dirt at Leary's feet. It went into short center, and Cobb rushed for third. "The center fielder had backed up the play, and Cobb figured to be out a mile. The ball beat him by yards, but Austin fumbled momentarily, and right then and there Cobb showed that he either has brains in his feet or he isn't human. "The ball was lying out there between Austin and the runner for only a fraction of a second, but in that instant Cobb did more thinking than the average ball player does in a season. Instead of sliding for the base he slid for the ball, feet first, gave it a kick that sent it into the dugout and then went on to the plate with the winning run. "It was a clear case of interference, but the umpires couldn't see it that way. And besides, the game was over. You never can win an argument after the umpires call it a day."

SPORTS CHATTER By BILL UNMACK PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Whether or not there is any real reason for it, the fact nevertheless remains that baseball followers in Portland, Ore., are more or less bitter against President William McCarthy of the P. C. L. Their grievance seems to be that McCarthy "has it in" for the Portlanders, and that he is not likely to be fair with them. Those who know McCarthy well practically are unanimous in voting him an excellent chap with a level head on his shoulders who is not given to discriminate or show favoritism. He has met a number of questions that have come up in a square and two fisted way, particularly in connection with the incidents having to do with game fixing. Generally speaking, he may be rated a favorite and stands well with the business community of San Francisco where he is a popular after-luncheon or dinner speaker on public and civic occasions.

NICKEL SANDWICH APPEARS

FORD CITY, Pa. - The five-cent ham sandwich reappeared here the other day in restaurants after several years' absence. "We're back to normalcy," chirped some of the hungry ones. Pie-hounds are not quite optimistic about the normalcy stuff. They declare it will be time to whip it up about normalcy when they can once more get "a big wedge for a nickel."

Novelty Is Injected
 In Band Music by Susie's Kitchenware

Novelty in the way of band music, rather in the instruments giving forth the music (?), was injected into the program given last night by the members of the Glendale order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, entitled "Susie's Kitchenware," at Masonic Temple, Mrs. Evelyn Pierce, with long, white, linen coat and tall cap topped with feathers, was director of the band, the members of which wore butchers' aprons and caps. The instruments, which not only created a great deal of interest, but also amusement, were horns disguised as kitchen utensils, including muffin pans, funnels, and all sorts of things. The men's section of the White Shrine formed the committee which had general charge of the affair, with E. F. Bourne as chairman.

The program for the evening included the following numbers, all of which were greatly appreciated, judging from the continued applause: 1. Entrance March, "Stars and Stripes," by Susie's Band. 2. Violin solo, "Souvenir," by Mary Barbara Taylor. 3. Popular Medley, by Susie's Band. 4. Trombone solo by Ralph A. Smith, with George Peirce furnishing the music from a clarinet. 5. Bagpipe solo by Harry Fraser. 6. Scotch dance by Howard Kenneth Fraser. 6. Old-Time Medley, by Susie's Band. 7. Banjo solo by B. F. Bourne. 8. Tenor solo, "Maushila Asthore," by D. Ripley Jackson. The program closed by the "committee" rendering "Sing Me to Sleep," instrumental music for which was furnished by Susie's band.

Arthur Kearne and Family Tell of Ice
 Mine in New York

Arthur Kearne and family of 1004 East Wilson avenue are Glendale residents that recall with interest a visit to the ice mine at Coudersport, N. Y., relative to which an article from the International News Service appeared in the Wednesday issue of the Glendale News.

The caves were not far distant from their former home and were the objective point of one of their last outings before they left two years ago to come to the coast and make their home in Glendale. They describe many interesting details of this curious, place that is a puzzle to the geologists as well as the casual visitor. The opening, through shale that is laid almost as though built by masons, leads first into a small cave, and from there you enter the deeper one where the "atmosphere" is so intensely cold that when the warm air from the entrance comes in contact with it a thick fog quickly forms.

One can remain in this cold atmosphere but a few moments without becoming severely chilled. The appearance of the icicles hanging from every crack and crevice presents a most wonderful sight. Strange to say they are to be seen only during the summer months and disappear during the winter.

"Topeka, Kansas, has the best paved residence street of any city in the middle west," declared Mr. Davis. "Why? Because an engineer some twelve or fourteen years ago had some sense and honesty."

The streets referred to have concrete spread with a two-inch mixture known as "Topeka-Mix." This was utilized in the paving of North Brand boulevard.

CARMEL WANTS DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Carmel Myers, widely known film star, will seek a divorce from Isidore B. Kornblum, attorney and song writer, through a suit which was on file today. They were reported to have separated about a year ago, but became reconciled and parted the second time last May. They were married in New York July 19, 1919. The plaintiff charged desertion.

ST. LOUIS—Ye imbibers of "bad hootch," take heed. Blaming the conceptions now being sold promiscuously, Dr. Charles E. Bauer referred to statistics of the City Sanitarium here, which show a marked increase in the number of insane patients.

On July 24, 1921, there were 2,565 patients registered, while on the same date this year there were 2,707 patients. This number will show a big increase the next two years, Dr. Bauer predicts.

Edward F. Trefz Speaks to Board Members of Different Glendale Exchange Club Sections in City Make Progress for Unity

 it places the human being above everything else. He commented on the Magna Charta, which placed fundamental law in the hands of a majority, and on the agreement made by the Pilgrim fathers before they left the Mayflower, by which they agreed not only to make the laws, but to obey them as well.

Gives Views on Laws
 According to Mr. Trefz, every time the Constitution has been "tampered with," it has been weakened. He said that 14 out of the 18 amendments were matters of purely legislative control. He denied that prohibition or even the granting of the franchise to the negroes after the Civil War were matters affecting the Constitution. He said that they should have been attended to by the state legislatures.

"The Constitution provides that congress shall take care of the welfare of the people through representative government," asserted Mr. Trefz. "There is no such thing as complete democracy. At the instant you reach the border of democracy you also reach the border of 'mobocracy.'"

The referendum was denounced by the speaker who endorsed a quotation made by Babson that only 5 per cent. of the people in this country do any real thinking in governmental affairs. Mr. Trefz introduced an illustration at this point to show that a candidate for office can be elected if he will make enough promises to his constituents.

"You all know something about baseball, the national game," suggested Mr. Trefz. "How long would baseball last if you had the referendum upon the decisions of the umpire?"

Questions Voters' Intelligence
 Speaking about leaving lawmaking to the voters, he called attention to the thirty proposed amendments to the constitution of the state of California. He said that he had spent two and a half hours studying one of them and inquired how the Mexicans and other foreigners in this state could be expected to vote intelligently upon them.

The direct election of United States senators also was denounced by the speaker. He reminded his audience that the popular election left the advantage entirely with the demagogue and crony. He asserted that a brainy man like Herbert Hoover, who is not a public speaker, would be under a tremendous handicap.

Boss rule will always exist in this country regardless of the person or name of the boss, according to Mr. Trefz, who tersely described the Anglo-Saxon race as "hero worshippers." He said that this trait has a tendency to elevate some above the common level of mediocrity. He said that the power of political bosses depends upon their promotion of good candidates for office because they are responsible for them and lose their authority as soon as their candidates fail to make good. This statement was questioned after the meeting by several members of the club.

 ship, and much amusement resulted as Mr. Hayward's several attempts to get action were unsuccessful.

And the Canyons Roared!
 Only an expert in local politics, a student of Glendale assessments or an owner of property in one of the two canyons involved could have found anything but a jumble of amusement from the discussion which belched forth over the virtue and crime of assessing people in the mountains at the other end of town for the improvement work proposed for Sycamore Canyon as opposed to the fact that theoretically the city and county flood-control board paid for the Verdugo canyon improvements. Howgover, W. L. Twining got another laugh when he stated that theoretically somebody was supposed to have paid for it, but, to date, the F. P. Newport company is holding the sack for something like $75,000.

This discussion ended without action, but—due to Mr. Twining—in general amusement and laughter.

Sycamore canyon's flood waters don't run uphill and I don't see why the people in the upper canyon should be assessed to control the waters which only damage the lower stretches and splash below the canyon," was a remark that one member created a laugh with.

Economy Plan Urged
 Chairman Guthrie furnished the members with suggestions that will give them food for thought until some action is taken in the matter of instituting, by proper legal process, a revolving fund that will enable the municipality of Glendale to conduct its own street improvement work and eliminate the present alleged unsatisfactory contract system and its presumably higher costs.

An arrangement which had been made with W. A. Twining and the F. P. Newport company, to have paid $15 for certain services, was brought up by President Guthrie. The board insisted upon meeting the bill, and Mr. Twining insisted upon donating the amount. The board voted to pay it anyway, and the recipient promptly announced that a like amount would, therefore, be donated to the fireworks fund of the community picnic.

Sham Battles Fought
 The luncheon meeting, attended by a score of members, was filled with the roar and flash, with the acrid odor and blinding smoke of verbal battle, but no casualties resulted.

Differing opinions were freely laid bare with the lack of embarrassment and the freedom of expression that can exist only between people who thoroughly understand each other and who are firmly convinced that their opponents in debate are sincere in their respective viewpoints. This free intercourse resulted in adjournment in harmony and equanimity.

Charles B. Guthrie was in the chair, but twice or thrice abandoned the honored piece of meeting-room furniture to express his views on subjects under discussion.

Greater co-ordination of effort between the various sections of the city was urged, and when Assistant Secretary E. F. Sanders of the chamber of commerce was called upon for comment, he cited numerous instances wherein the chamber had used its efforts and weight to unify the various interests. His telling of the difficulties encountered and his suggestions for securing an even greater unity than at present prevailed were met with hearty applause.

A horse ran away on Broadway, New York. It saw another horse.

I play golf for the exercise only. As badly as that?

ANOTHER TONOPAH FIRE
 SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—Two blocks in the heart of the business district of Tonopah, Nev., mining town, burned yesterday in a fire that threatened the town, according to dispatch received here this afternoon. The damage had not been estimated, but it was said it would be heavy. It is the third fire which has swept the mining town in a few months.

Beaten by Master, Dog Saves His Life

DEXTER, Maine—"I hated to do it," said Elmer Rogatello, with tears in his eyes as he stroked the large head of his faithful Regis, "and it has taught me a great lesson."

Shortly after giving a severe flogging to his hound Elmer Rogatello, a miller, lost his footing while crossing a sluiceway and fell into the millpond. He could not swim. The faithful beast, attracted by his cries, bleeding from the whipping, painfully leaped to the rescue and dragged his master to safety.

Rogatello had beaten his dog under the belief that the animal had killed a neighbor's lamb and later found it to be false.

Howls of Protest
 Over London Statue
 LONDON—New York may have its "Civic Virtue," but London has its "Eve."
 A large marble statue of Eve, minus even her fig leaves, has been presented to the London County Council, to be erected in its new hall.
 The statue has been accepted, but "Eve" is so immodest that there have been howls of protest against her being given a place in the county hall, lest modern flappers might gain some new ideas from this ancient woman.
 "Eve" is mounted on a revolving pedestal, and it has been suggested that perhaps she will turn her back to the too curious.

Gertrude Cleophas on Program at Bowl
 Miss Gertrude Cleophas of 337 North Central avenue, talented pianist, who has attracted considerable attention among the music lovers of Southern California, is to take a prominent part in the program at the Hollywood Bowl on Friday night, September 1, at 8 o'clock. It is anticipated that there will be a large delegation attending from Glendale that night, especially in view of the fact that the Tuesday Afternoon club building fund is to receive a certain percentage of the tickets sold. Mrs. E. Cleophas has charge of the Glendale tickets.
