

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Bkcy. In re HELSBY. Jan. 12.

Appeal (with leave) against an order of the Divisional Court (Vaughan Williams and Kennedy, JJ.), noted Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 189.

The order was pronounced on the 20th of November. The engrossment was signed by the registrar and sealed with the seal of the Court on the 1st of December, and was filed with the proceedings in the matter on the 2nd of December. The notice of appeal was served on the 23rd of December.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Waugh, for the appellant.

Muir Mackenzie, for the respondent, objected that the appeal was brought too late. The order was perfected on the 1st of December, and the twenty-one days limited by rule 130 for appealing ran from that day and expired on the 22nd of December.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Waugh, for the appellant, argued that the order was not perfected until it was filed on the 2nd of December, and therefore the notice of appeal was in time.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, and Lopes and Davey, L.J.J.) held that the order was perfected on the 1st of December, when it was signed. The filing was not required to make it a complete and operative order. The appeal was therefore too late. There were no special circumstances which would justify the Court in extending the time. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Bill of Sale—Term for Maintenance of Security—Covenant to replace Chattels damaged or worn out—Bills of Sale Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 43), ss. 4, 6, 9—Form in Schedule.

Appeal from judgment of Day, J., at the trial of an interpleader issue without a jury.

The plaintiff in the issue claimed to be entitled under a bill of sale to certain personal chattels as against the defendant, an execution creditor. By the bill of sale the execution debtor assigned to the plaintiff the chattels specifically described in the schedule thereto, consisting of furniture in a dwelling-house, as security for a debt due to the plaintiff. The bill of sale contained a covenant by the grantor that, so long as any money should remain owing on the security of the bill of sale, he would not remove any of the said chattels from the said dwelling-house without the previous consent of the grantee, except for the purpose of necessary repair, and would replace any articles damaged or worn out with others of equal value to be included in the security. It was contended for the defendant that the insertion of this covenant made the bill of sale not in accordance with the form in the schedule to the Bills of Sale Act, 1882, and therefore void. The learned judge held the bill of sale good, and gave judgment for the plaintiff.

O. C. Scott (Gully, Q.C., with him), for the defendant, cited Thomas v. Kelly (13 App. Cas. 506), and contended that that case overruled Consolidated Credit Corporation v. Gosney (16 Q. B. D. 24) and Furber v. Cobb (18 Q. B. D. 494).

Smyly, Q.C., and Langdon, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lopes, L.J., and Kay, L.J.) held that the covenant in question was one which might be inserted in the bill of sale as being for the maintenance of the security; that the case was governed by Consolidated Credit Corporation v. Gosney (16 Q. B. D. 24) and Furber v. Cobb (18 Q. B. D. 494), Thomas v. Kelly (13 App. Cas. 506) being distinguishable; and that the bill of sale did not deviate from the form in the schedule to the Bills of Sale Act, 1882, and was consequently good. They therefore dismissed the appeal.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. RAPLEY v. SMART. Dec. 20.

Covenant—Restriction on Trade—Offensive Trade or Business—Slaughter-house.

This was a motion for an interim injunction, to restrain the defendant, a butcher, from erecting a slaughter-house on land belonging to the plaintiff, and from carrying on therein the trade or business of a slaughter-house keeper, or any other noisome or offensive trade or business.

The land in the occupation of the defendant was subject to a restrictive covenant against carrying on certain specified offensive trades, that of a slaughter-house not being mentioned, or "any other noxious, noisome or offensive trade or business."

Levett, Q.C., and Carson, for the motion.

W. Clode, for the defendant, contended that a slaughter-house per se was not an offensive trade.

CHITTY, J., said that the trade of a slaughter-house keeper was not specifically mentioned and forbidden by the covenant, and that it was clear, both on the authorities, such as Jones v. Thorne (1 B. & C. 715), and Cleaver v. Bacon (4 Times L. R. 27), and otherwise, that the trade in question was not per se an offensive one. The action was purely a quia timet one, and he could not infer that the defendant's business would necessarily be carried on, so as to be offensive. The application therefore failed, and must be refused.

Chitty, J. PIDDOCKE v. BURT. Dec. 21.

Attachment—Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62), s. 4. sub-s. 3 —Fiduciary Capacity—Partner.

The plaintiff and defendant had been in partnership as solicitors: this action was for a dissolution of partnership, and a receiver had been appointed.

The defendant had obtained a four day order on the plaintiff to pay to the receiver a sum of 479l., being moneys in his hands belonging to the outstanding partnership estate, or to the clients of the partnership business. The plaintiff having failed to comply with this order, the defendant now moved that a writ of attachment might issue against the plaintiff.

Part of the sum of 479l. consisted of rents, admittedly received by the plaintiff in a fiduciary capacity, and part consisted of money received on account of costs belonging to the partnership business.

Church, for the motion, contended that the money received by the plaintiff, on account of costs owing to the firm, had been received by him in a fiduciary capacity, just as much as money received by a London agent for a country solicitor: Litchfield v. Jones (36 Ch. D. 530), or by an auctioneer: Crowthier v. Elgood (34 Ch. D. 691); and, consequently, that the plaintiff was liable to be attached, as the whole of the money would then have been received in a fiduciary capacity.

W. Baker, for the plaintiff, argued that a partner would not be considered as an agent for the other members of the firm, or as standing in any fiduciary relationship to them, having a legal right to receive any money belonging to the partnership business.

CHITTY, J., held that one partner, receiving money on account of himself and his co-partner, did not receive it in a fiduciary capacity, and that on this ground the defendant's application failed, and must be dismissed.

Company—Director—Qualification Shares—Rectification of Register.

Motion.

This was an application by Mr. C. Cammell to have his name removed from the register of members of the company as the holder of certain shares, on the ground that he had never applied for or agreed to take or accepted the allotment to him of such shares, and that such allotment, if made, was improper and invalid.

The articles of association of the company provided that the qualification of a director should be the holding of 200l. of share capital, in respect of which all calls for the time being due should have been paid; that the first directors should be allowed one month from the first general allotment of shares in which to acquire their qualification; and that the office of a first director should be vacated if he failed to get the requisite number of shares within the prescribed time.

The applicant signed the memorandum of association for one share, and was appointed a first director. He attended several board meetings, but never applied for his qualification shares. After the prescribed period had elapsed, he was requested by the secretary to sign an application for them; but he declined to do so, and sent in his resignation.

At a meeting of the directors, at which he was not present, his qualification shares were allotted to him, and he was placed on the register of members. He was not aware until after the expiration of the prescribed period that any shares had been allotted to him, and as soon as he heard that his name was on the register he wrote to the secretary asking to have it removed. He never attended a meeting or acted as a director after the expiration of the period prescribed for acquiring the qualification.

Hastings, Q.C., and George Lawrence, for the motion.

Buckley, Q.C., and Edward Ford, for the company.

STIRLING, J., held, following In re Wheel Buller Consols (38 Ch. D. 42), that although the applicant had acted as a director, that was not enough to shew that he had impliedly agreed to take the shares. The decisions in Brown's Case (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 102), and Ex parte Lord Inchiquin ([1891] 3 Ch. 28), shewed it to be essential, in order to fix a director with liability to take his qualification shares, that he should be found acting as such at a time when he could not properly so act without possessing the qualification. The applicant had not so acted in this case, and was not estopped from denying that he had agreed to take the shares. The motion must succeed.

WILSON v. ANN.

Married Woman—Debts—General Power of Appointment—Separate Estate—Liabilities—Assets—Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 1, sub-ss. 3, 4; s. 4.

Ralph Bradley, who died in 1878, by his will gave his residuary estate to trustees in trust for sale, and to divide the proceeds equally among his four children, of whom Alice Bradley was one; but her share was to be retained by the trustees, upon trust to pay the income to her for life for her separate use without power of anticipation, and after her death in trust for such persons as she should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment in trust for her next of kin according to the statute.

In 1879 Alice Bradley married Frank Ann. She died in 1892, having by her will, made in 1886, in pursuance of all powers, given, after certain legacies, all the residue of her estate to trustees in trust for sale, and to hold the proceeds in trust for her two infant children equally. She had no property whatever other than what she derived under her father's will. She had, during her coverture, and subsequently to the passing of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, incurred various judgment and other debts.

The question—in an action for administration of her estate—was whether the property appointed by her will under the general power given by the will of her father was, under sect. 4 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, liable for her debts "in the same manner as her separate estate was made liable under that Act."

Boome, for the plaintiffs, the executors of Mrs. Ann.

Clayton, for the defendants, the infant children of Mrs. Ann, contended that this was not a case within sect. 4; that it was a condition precedent to the effect of the section that the married woman should, at the time of contracting liability, be actually entitled to some separate estate free from anticipation: Palliser v. Gurney (19 Q. B. D. 519). Here she had no "separate estate": the property appointed by her will never become her "separate estate," for the appointment did not operate until after her death. The case was governed by In re Roper (39 Ch. D. 482, 491), rather than by In re De Burgh Lawson (41 Ch. D. 568).

Method, and Chester, for creditors.

KEKEWICH, J., said that, although the narrow construction attempted to be put upon sect. 4 was possible grammatically, yet the Court would not adopt it unless driven by authority to do so, which, in his opinion, it was not. His Lordship thought that sub-sects. 3 and 4 of sect. 1 ought to be read into sect. 4, and that the proper reading of sect. 4 was that when the will of a married woman made in exercise of a general power had come into operation by the death of the donee of the power, thenceforward the property so appointed became liable to her debts and liabilities in the same manner as if it had been separate estate at the time she entered into the contracts. Accordingly, in the present case, the appointed property must be treated as assets of the testatrix just as if it had been separate estate at the time she contracted the debts in question.

Practice—Security for Costs—Person out of Jurisdiction—Petition for Revocation of Patent.

This was a petition, under sect. 26 of the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, for the revocation of a patent. The patentee, who was stated to be the nominee and trustee of a foreign company, was resident out of the jurisdiction, and, in accordance with the practice established by In re Drummond's Patent (43 Ch. D. 80), had been named as a respondent to the petition, if he should see fit to come in. He had come in and submitted to the jurisdiction, and the petitioners now applied that he might be ordered to give security for costs in the matter prior to his appearing as a party therein.

Warmington, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the petitioners, relied upon Apollinaris Company v. Wilson (31 Ch. D. 632) and Vavasasseur v. Krupp (9 Ch. D. 351).

Lawson, for the patentee, was not called upon.

KEKEWICH, J., refused the application, observing that the principle on which the Court, in the cases cited, had acted, in requiring security for costs, simply was that a person resident out of the jurisdiction is not allowed under ordinary circumstances to institute proceedings in the Supreme Court here without reasonably satisfying the opposite party that, supposing the application fails, there will be an opportunity of recovering the costs of it. In the present case the patentee was brought before the Court to defend his right. He made no application to the Court whatever, and was in no sense an "actor" within the meaning of the observations of the Court in Apollinaris Company v. Wilson. The fact that upon the hearing of the petition the patentee would or might, according to the peculiar practice under sect. 26, be required to begin, did not for the present purpose put him in the position of a plaintiff; and the fact that he was, or might be, defending the action on behalf of others was equally immaterial.

TURNBULL v. WEST RIDING ATHLETIC CLUB (LEEDS), LIMITED.
Company—Director—Interest in Contract—Declaring Interest—Vacating Office—Articles of Association—Ejecting Director—Injunction.

The defendant company having entered into a contract with one McQuone for the construction by him of certain works, the plaintiff, who was a director of the company, advanced money to McQuone for payment of wages to the workmen, and also agreed with him to take an interest or share in the contract.

By article 70 of the company's articles of association it was provided that "the office of any director shall be vacated, if"—amongst other things—"he contract with the company, or be concerned in, or participate in the profits of, any contract with, or work done for, the company, without declaring his interest at the meeting of the directors at which such contract is determined on or work ordered, if his interest then exists, or in any other case at the first meeting of the directors after the acquisition of his interest; and no director so interested shall vote on any question relating to such contract or work . . ."

On the 14th of April, 1893, at the first meeting of the directors held after the work had been commenced and the plaintiff's agreement with McQuone, the plaintiff, who was present, stated at the outset that, as he was "jointly interested" with McQuone, his intention was not to vote or take part in the business on the agenda paper, which was to pass a resolution for payment to McQuone of an instalment of the contract price on the certificate of the company's architect. Accordingly the plaintiff took no part in that business, and was entered on the minutes as "neutral." The plaintiff did not at the meeting specify the precise nature of his interest. It appeared that he and McQuone had taken out a patent for the materials used in carrying out the contract. At board meetings held subsequently to the 11th of April, the plaintiff again took no part in any business relating to the contract. The work was completed in August, 1893. On the 11th of August a board meeting was held at which all the directors were present except the plaintiff, who had received no notice of it, and a resolution was then passed declaring his seat as a director vacant under article 70. In spite of the plaintiff's protests, the board refused to acknowledge him as any longer a director, and accordingly he commenced this action, and now moved for a perpetual injunction (the motion being treated as the trial) to restrain the defendants, the directors, from excluding him from any board meeting and from holding any such meetings without notice to him, and from interfering with him in the discharge of his duties as a director.

Warmington, Q.C., and Stewart-Smith, for the plaintiff, contended that he could not be ejected from the board without notice.

Walton, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the defendants, contended, first, that under article 70 the plaintiff's office became vacated, ipso facto, by his non-disclosure of the specific nature of his interest in the contract; and, secondly, that the directors were not bound to give him notice of a fact of which he was already cognizant.

KERKEWICH, J., said that on the first point he was entirely in favour of the defendants. It was settled by Imperial Mercantile Credit Association v. Coleman (Law Rep. 6 H. L. 189) that a director, under such a rule as this, was bound, not only to declare that he had an interest, but to specify what his interest was. Here the plaintiff did not specify his interest, and therefore, on that ground, he was out of Court. But it did not follow that what the defendants did was right. In his Lordship's opinion it was not fair or proper, or within the meaning of the article, that a man should be ejected from the board of directors without being given an opportunity of justifying his conduct. Possibly it might be, as contended, the literal meaning of the rule that the director's seat would be vacant by the mere fact of non-disclosure, without further steps being taken; but, in his Lordship's opinion, the fair construction of it must be that something more must be done to render the seat vacant; and moreover, natural justice required that the director should have an opportunity of saying what occurred to him on his own behalf. The proper course was to give notice to the director, and to have a board meeting specially summoned for the purpose of considering his position—that is to say, the matter should be placed on the agenda, in order that the director might have the opportunity of explaining and justifying his conduct. There must be a perpetual injunction as asked; but his Lordship would not make a declaration that the plaintiff was a director. Richardson v. Methley School Board ([1893], 3 Ch. 510) shewed that the Court had jurisdiction in such a case. As the plaintiff had entirely failed on one point, his Lordship would not give him any costs.

The directors of the A. Company, acting ultra vires of their powers, but not fraudulently, invested funds of the company in the purchase of shares in the B. Company. More than six years afterwards the liquidator in the winding-up of the A. Company issued a summons under sect. 10 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, for a declaration that the directors were liable for the amount employed in the purchase of the shares.

It was contended on behalf of the respondents that the Trustee Act, 1888, enabled them to set up the defence of the Statute of Limitations in answer to the claim.

Finlay, Q.O., E. S. Ford, and M. Muir Mackenzie, for the applicant.

Boydell Houghton, Ingpen, Woodfall, and Herbert Reed, Q.C., and O. E. E. Jenkins, for the respondents.

WRIGHT, J., said that he inclined to the opinion that the only persons who were within the Act of 1888 were those who, in contemplation of law or equity, were trustees, and doubted whether the Act applied to directors quâ directors. But, having regard to the decisions, under sect. 165 of 1862 and sect. 10 of 1890, that directors were taken out of the benefit of the Statute of Limitations by reason of their having been guilty of a breach of duty—their position being likened to that of trustees—it was only right that they should now have the same protection which the Act of 1888 gave to trustees. Since their liability depended on their being somewhat assimilated to trustees, it would be wrong to hold them entitled to less protection than that which would have been afforded to them if they had been actually trustees. There being no evidence that the claim was founded "upon any fraud or fraudulent breach of trust," to which the directors were parties or privy, the summons must be dismissed with costs.

A petition presented by a company was intituled, "In the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division—Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams. In the Matter of the Aluminium Company, Limited and Reduced. And in the Matter of the Companies Acts, 1867 and 1877;" and it asked for the sanction of the Court to the reduction of the company's capital to the extent of 320,000*l.* by cancelling lost capital, such reduction not involving diminution of liability on unpaid capital, or payment to any shareholder of paid-up capital. The petition was filed in the office of the Registrar in Companies Winding-up, and came on for hearing, during the absence of Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams on Circuit, before Mr. Justice Wright, in pursuance of the Order of the Lord Chancellor of the 7th of November, 1893.

W. F. Hamilton, in support of the petition.

WRIGHT, J., ordered the petition to stand over for the production of certain evidence. His Lordship said that, having regard to the conflict of opinion as to the jurisdiction referred to in In re Mining Shares Investment Company ([1893] 2 Ch. 660), and In re Ocean Queen Steamship Company ([1893] 2 Ch. 666), he had consulted with Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams, who agreed that Mr. Justice Wright, while acting under the order of the 7th of November, 1893, had jurisdiction to sanction reductions of capital. Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams also agreed that it was absolutely necessary that the petition, besides being intituled as above mentioned, should be intituled, "In the Matter of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890," as without that Act, and the orders made under it, neither Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams nor Mr. Justice Wright would have jurisdiction to hear the petition. The title of the petition must, therefore, be amended.

Jan. 11, 1894. Buckley, Q.C., and W. F. Hamilton, further argued the case.

WRIGHT, J., said that on further considering the case he thought it was unnecessary to intitle the petition in the matter of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890. His Lordship made the order asked for.

Landlord and Tenant—Breach of Covenant to Repair—Liability of Underlessee for Costs of Lessor's Solicitor and Surveyor—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1892 (55 & 56 Vict. c. 13), s. 2.

Appeal from City of London Court.

The plaintiff in 1884 leased a number of houses to different tenants, the leases containing covenants to repair and provisoes for re-entry on breach. Subsequently the several tenants mortgaged their respective houses by way of underlease to the defendants.

The premises being out of repair, the plaintiff served notices upon the tenants under sect. 14 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881; and the defendants, in order to avoid a forfeiture, executed the required repairs. The plaintiff then brought an action in the City of London Court against the defendants, under sect. 2 of the Conveyancing Act, 1892, to recover a sum of fifty pounds for the costs of a solicitor and surveyor employed by him in reference to the breach of the covenant to repair. Sect. 2 of the Conveyancing Act, 1892, provides that "a lessor shall be entitled to recover as a debt due to him from a lessee all reasonable costs and expenses properly incurred by the lessor in the employment of a solicitor and surveyor or valuer, or otherwise, in reference to any breach giving rise to a right of re-entry or forfeiture." It was contended on behalf of the defendants that the above section did not apply to an underlessee. The judge gave judgment for the plaintiff. The defendants appealed.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Q. B. D. Dec. 1, 2, 18, 1893.
FURNESS, WITHEY, & Co., LIMITED v. W. N. WHITE & Co., LIMITED.

Mercantile Law—Foreign Goods—Bill of Lading—Shipowner—Consignee—Freight—Lien—Warehouse Owner—Deposit—Delivery of Goods—Action for Freight—Right to Sue—“Legal Proceedings”—“Owner of Goods”—Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 63), ss. 66-72.

The deposit with a warehouse owner, made under sect. 70 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, by a consignee of goods shipped from abroad for sale, is not equivalent to payment of freight to the shipowner, it being only a security for such payment, and therefore the fact of such deposit having been made does not deprive the shipowner of any right of action which, apart from the deposit, he may have against the consignee on his obtaining the goods from the warehouse owner.

The expression “legal proceedings” in sect. 72 includes an action for freight, and the expression “owner of goods” in that section includes, under sect. 66, a consignee of goods for sale.

A cargo of apples was shipped abroad in a ship belonging to the plaintiffs, shipowners in London, and was consigned to the defendants, fruit brokers, also in London, for sale; the bill of lading making the goods deliverable to the defendants “or their assigns, freight and charges payable by consignees.”

The ship arrived in the London Docks on the 10th of December, 1892, without the defendants’ knowledge, and the goods were landed into the dock company’s warehouse. On the landing of the goods the plaintiffs gave notice to the dock company that the goods were to remain subject to a lien for freight. On the 13th of December, before the landing was completed, the defendants, having in the meantime heard of the ship’s arrival, deposited with the dock company, under sect. 70 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, a sum equivalent to the freight, accompanied by a notice to retain it pending further instructions; and the next day, the 14th, the landing into the warehouse having then been completed, they obtained delivery of the goods from the dock company. On the 13th notice of the deposit and of the defendants’ notice to retain was given by the dock company to the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs being unable, in consequence of the defendants’ notice, to obtain the deposit from the dock company, they on the same day, the 13th, after the landing into the warehouse had been completed, issued a writ against the defendants for the amount of freight. After action, the defendants directed the dock company to tender the deposit to the plaintiffs less a small sum for damaged cargo, which was refused.

Held, by LINDLEY and A. L. SMITH, L.J.J. (affirming Day, J.), DAVEY, L.J., dissentiente, that, notwithstanding the deposit made by them, the defendants were still personally liable to the plaintiffs for the freight.

This was an appeal from a decision of Chitty, J. (Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 170; [1894] 1 Ch. 53).

A petition was presented for payment out of Court of the purchase-money of property which had been purchased by the Commissioners of Sewers under the compulsory powers of a special Act, 57 Geo. 3, c. xxix. The Act contained no provision as to the costs of applications for payment of the purchase-money out of Court. Chitty, J., held that under sect. 5 of the Judicature Act, 1890, the Court had jurisdiction over the costs, and ordered them to be paid by the Commissioners. The Commissioners appealed.

J. Henderson, for the appellants.

Turnour Murray, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) agreed with Chitty, J., and dismissed the appeal.

Chitty, J. In re GASKELL'S SETTLED ESTATES. Jan. 18.
Application of “Capital Money”—Improvements—Mansion-house—Alterations and Additions with a view to Letting—New Roof—Warming-pipes—Settled Land Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 38), s. 25—Settled Land Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 69), s. 13, sub-s. ii.

This was an application by the tenant for life of settled land, asking that the trustees might be authorized to pay, out of capital moneys in their hands, for works executed by the applicant on the mansion-house, as additions and alterations reasonably necessary or proper to enable the same to be let. In October, 1889, when the present tenant for life succeeded to the settled estates, the mansion-house was old-fashioned and in a bad state of repair; the tenant for life, having decided to let the mansion, was advised that certain works were necessary before he could reasonably expect to obtain a tenant at a fair rent. These consisted of (1) the restoration of the roof, which was in a most dilapidated condition, (2) an alteration in the main entrance which would provide a billiard-room and render the house less cold and draughty, and (3) a new and efficient method of warming the house, which was of large size, and, being built of stone and standing upon clay, was cold. These works had been carried out, and the house was now let. It appeared that 874*l.* had been spent upon re-roofing, 298*l.* on the structural alterations, and 391*l.* on the heating and warming apparatus and pipes. These were the three items of expenditure the tenant for life now asked to be repaid.

CHITTY, J., held that the restoration of the roof and the re-arrangement of the main entrance were "alterations" within the meaning of the Settled Land Act, 1890, s. 13, sub-s. ii., and allowed the first two items accordingly: with regard to the warming apparatus and pipes, his Lordship considered that, though they had undoubtedly rendered the house more comfortable and convenient for occupation, still this work was not an "improvement," directly or by analogy, authorized by the Settled Land Act, 1882, s. 25, and in his opinion it was neither an "addition" nor an "alteration" within the meaning of the Settled Land Act, 1890, s. 13, sub-s. ii., and that the expenditure on this head—$341.—could not properly be allowed out of capital money.

KEKEWICH, J., said that in consequence of a report of the Treasury and an intimation from the Lord Chancellor, and in view of the facilities which now existed for the transmission of money through the post-office and otherwise, the practice of the Court had now been changed, and in future no exception from the general practice would be made in the case of small sums of money. The minutes must therefore be altered accordingly.

Estoppel by Record—Assistance in prior Action by Person under Indemnity to Defendant—Privies in Estate—Debenture-holders—Compromise—Majority binding Minority—Receipt of Shares for Debentures.

The International Company of Mexico (incorporated in 1885 under a charter of the State of Connecticut), in pursuance of its powers, borrowed money on the security of debentures (each for 500 dollars at 6 per cent.), and a trust deed dated the 10th of March, 1883. The trust deed was made between the International Company, the River Plate, &c., Company (an English company who were made parties as "trustee"), and Messrs. Morris, Denny, and White, a committee on behalf of the debenture-holders. After reciting that to further secure payment of the money borrowed the company had agreed to make a special hypothecation in favour of the trustee of 17,500,000 acres of land in Lower California, therein recited to have been acquired by the company, the company by the trust deed covenanted with the trustee that such land should be charged with the principal moneys and interest secured by the debentures. And it was thereby further agreed—(1) that the company would pay the sums secured; (2) that the committee might convene meetings of the debenture-holders; (22) that a meeting of debenture-holders should have certain powers exercisable by special resolution including (ii.) "power to sanction the release of any of the mortgaged premises," (iii.) "power to sanction any modification or compromise of the rights of debenture-holders against the company or against its property, whether such rights shall arise under the debentures or under these presents." By clause 23, "special resolution" meant a resolution passed at a meeting of debenture-holders by a majority of not less than three-fourths of the persons present and entitled to vote thereat.

This deed gave the debenture-holders no charge on the land valid or binding according to the law of Mexico, as the charge was not registered.

The Mercantile Company held 125 of the debentures.

On the 4th of May, 1889, the International Company transferred all its assets, business, and liabilities to an English company called the Mexican Land and Colonization Company, Limited, subject as to the lands in Lower California to the debentures and trust deed, the consideration being fully paid-up shares in the Mexican Company, and a covenant by it against the liabilities of the International Company; but the transfer did not make the debenture-holders creditors of the Mexican Company.

On the 20th of September, 1889, a deed, made between the Mexican Company and W. E. Strickland (the secretary of the above-named committee), was executed to carry into effect a proposal of the Mexican Company that the debenture-holders should exchange their debentures for first fully paid-up preference shares in the Mexican Company, such proposal to be approved by special resolution of the debenture-holders, and providing for a release of the lands from the charge and for the allotment of the shares.

On the 8th of October, 1889, a special resolution was passed by the required majority of debenture-holders, "that all rights of the debenture-holders of the International Company of Mexico, whether against its property or against the company, be compromised by the acceptance in lieu of such debentures and the coupons accrued and not due, and in discharge of such rights, fully paid 6 per cent. cumulative preference shares" in the Mexican Company, "at the rate of 110l. in shares for every 500 dollars in debentures," and that the deed of the 20th of September, 1889, "be approved and confirmed, and be forthwith carried into effect."

The Mercantile Company did not attend the meeting, and always dissented from the resolution.

In 1890 the Mercantile Company alone commenced an action against the International Company to recover the half-year's interest due on their debentures on the 1st of January, 1890.

Day, J., gave judgment for the International Company; but on appeal his decision was reversed, and the Court of Appeal declared that the resolution was invalid and not binding on the plaintiffs, and gave them judgment for the amount claimed, the reason being, as stated by Lindley, L.J. (Mercantile Investment and General Trust Company v. International Company of Mexico, [1893] 1 Ch 484 n., 489 n.); that "the power to modify the rights of the debenture-holders against the company does not include a power to relinquish all their rights. A power to compromise their rights presupposes some dispute about them or difficulties in enforcing them, and does not include a power to exchange their debentures for shares in another company, where there is no such dispute or difficulty," and that "the circumstances were not such as to bring the power into play" (Ibid. 490 n.).

The International Company defended this action. The Mexican Company, by reason of their covenant of indemnity, were interested in assisting the International Company, and accordingly they did assist in the defence, and, when it failed, paid the costs.

The Mercantile Company now brought an action, on behalf of themselves and all other holders of the 6 per cent. debentures, against the River Plate Company (as trustee), the members of the debenture-holders' committee, the International Company, and the Mexican Company, claiming (inter alia) an account of interest in arrear and payment thereof by the International Company; a declaration that under the trust deed the plaintiffs and all other holders of outstanding debentures were entitled to a first charge on the land and property comprised in the trust deed, and to have all acts and deeds done and executed which were necessary to make the charge effectual; an account of what was due; execution of the trusts and realization of the property.

The name of the International Company as defendants was struck out, and they did not appear at the trial.

It was contended (inter alia) on behalf of the plaintiffs, that the defendants were estopped by the judgment of the Court of Appeal in the former action from contending that the special resolution was binding on the plaintiffs.

The evidence at the trial satisfied the Court that there were difficulties in the way of the enforcement by the debenture-holders of their rights of so substantial a character that the majority of them might bonâ fide come to the conclusion that it was desirable in the face of those difficulties to compromise their rights on the terms of the resolution.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., Chadwyck Healey, Q.C., and Vernon R. Smith, for the plaintiffs.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., and Kirby, for the Mexican Company.

Finlay, Q.C., and Creed; and Neville, Q.C., Whinney, and W. F. Hamilton, for the other parties.

ROMER, J., said that the Mexican Company, not having been parties to the former action, were, primâ facie, not bound by the judgment therein. Nor did their assistance and payment of costs in such action of itself put the Mexican Company in the position of defendants in that action or estop them in the present one. It was then said that the Mexican Company were bound as being "privies in estate" of the International Company, the estate being the land in Mexico purporting to be charged in favour of the debenture-holders. But they had obtained no valid charge. The claim in the former action was a personal one, and not one constituting, if established, a valid charge on the land. Nothing decided in the former action bound the land, and, even if the Mexican Company could be regarded as having acquired the land subsequent to the judgment, they could not be estopped as purchasers by a judgment not binding the land. Moreover, if the plaintiffs' claim was one affecting the land, notwithstanding no registration in Mexico (which alone could validly bind the land there), the Mexican Company were purchasers prior to the former action, and a purchaser could not be estopped as being privy in estate by judgment in an action commenced after the purchase. Lastly, in an action to which the International Company were not parties, and in which the Mexican Company were said to be directly liable to the plaintiffs, there was no ground for estoppel merely because the Mexican Company might be estopped as against the International Company if and when the latter sued on the covenant of indemnity. The Mexican Company were, therefore, not estopped as against the plaintiffs, and were now at liberty to try the question whether the debenture-holders were bound by the special resolution. The difficulties in the way of the debenture-holders enforcing their rights brought the present case within Sneah v. Valley Gold, Limited ([1893] 1 Ch. 477). The resolution was, therefore, binding on the plaintiffs, and the action must be dismissed with costs.

Local Government—Offences—Unwholesome Meat—Exposure for Sale—Guilty Knowledge of Seller, Necessity for—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55). ss. 116, 117—Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 59), s. 28.

Case stated by justices of the borough of Brighton.

The appellant had been convicted upon a summons under sects. 116 and 117 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and sect. 28 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, charging him with having in his possession and deposited upon his premises for the purpose of preparation for sale, and intended for the food of man, certain beef which was unsound and unfit for the food of man. The meat was seized on the appellant's premises while in process of conversion into sausages; but there was no evidence that the appellant had himself seen the meat or knew of his own knowledge what was its condition. The question for the Court was whether, in the absence of positive proof that the appellant had actual personal knowledge of the condition of the meat, he ought to have been convicted.

Gore, for the appellant.

The respondent did not appear.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Day, J.) held that it was not necessary to shew a guilty knowledge on the part of the appellant, and affirmed the conviction.

Form Ch. D. Jan. 20.

In re PONSFORD AND NEWPORT DISTRICT SCHOOL BOARD.Disused Burial-ground—Order in Council—Building—Metropolitan Open Spaces Act, 1881, s. 1—Disused Burial Grounds Act, 1884, ss. 2, 3—Open Spaces Act, 1887, ss. 2, 4, and Schedule.

Appeal from North, J.

In 1842 a deed of settlement was executed constituting certain persons a cemetery company, a piece of land having been purchased and vested in trustees for the company for the purpose of a cemetery, with power to sell or let any part of the ground. The ground was inclosed by a wall, and half of it was laid out and used as a cemetery, the other half remaining unused. No part of the land was ever consecrated. In 1878 an Order in Council was made closing the whole of the land for interments. In 1885 the whole of the land was conveyed to new trustees with the consent of all the persons then interested in the company in trust to sell such parts as should be agreed upon by the persons interested. In 1887 a wall was built separating the used from the unused portion. In 1890 another Order in Council was made excepting the unused portion from the prohibition in the previous order; but no interments ever took place in the unused portion.

In 1891, the trustees of the conveyance of 1885 sold and conveyed the unused portion to Ponsford in fee, and in 1892 Ponsford agreed to sell it to the Newport District School Board for the purpose of erecting a board school. The purchasers raised the objection to the title, that under the Metropolitan Open Spaces Act, 1881, s. 1, the Disused Burial Grounds Act, 1884, ss. 2, 3, and the Open Spaces Act, 1887, ss. 2, 4, and schedule, the unused portion agreed to be sold was a "disused burial-ground," and therefore no building could lawfully be erected upon it.

This was a summons by the purchasers, under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, asking a declaration that the objection was valid and that the vendor could not make a good title. North, J., allowed the objection. The vendor appealed.

Bailhache, for the vendor.E. Ford, for the purchasers.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal with costs, holding that the whole of the land, both used and unused, had been "set apart for interment," and that under the combined effect of the above Acts the term "disused burial-ground" included land set apart for interment in which no interment had ever taken place.

Motion.

In June, 1876, the applicants registered the word "Mollisoorium," as a trade-mark in respect of a preparation made by them for softening articles of leather. They registered it as an old mark which had been in use for two years and upwards before the 25th of May, 1876.

In 1886 Talbot registered as a new mark in respect of goods of the same class a label of which the distinctive part was the word "Emolliorum," that being the name which he applied to a manufacture of his own described as a fluid for rendering every description of leather thoroughly waterproof and supple.

The applicants moved to rectify the register by removing therefrom the mark registered by Talbot.

Buckley, Q.C., and Stokes, for the applicants.Hastings, Q.C., and O. E. E. Jenkins, for the respondent.

STIRLING, J., said that the word "Emolliorum" would convey to the mind of an ordinary Englishman the impression that the substance designated by it would act by softening the articles to which it was intended to be applied, and it was consequently a descriptive word. According to In re Van Duser's Trade-mark (34 Ch. D. 623), it was not therefore capable of being registered as a "fancy word" under sect. 64 of the Act of 1883, which was in force when the respondents' mark was registered. Neither was it capable of registration under sect. 10 of the Act of 1888 as an invented word, or a word having no reference to the character or quality of the goods: In re Meyerstein's Trade-mark (43 Ch. D. 604). His Lordship also held, on the authority of In re Powell's Trade-mark ([1893] 2 Ch. 389), that the applicants were persons aggrieved under sect. 90 of the Act of 1883, and entitled to have the register rectified by removing Talbot's mark.

SMALL v. NATIONAL PROVINCIAL BANK OF ENGLAND.

Bill of Sale—Personal Chattels—Mortgage of Land together with fixed Machinery—Trade Machinery—Non-Registration—Invalidity—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, ss. 4, 5.

Motion.

This was a motion by the plaintiff, asking that the defendants might be restrained by injunction from selling certain fixed machinery situated upon hereditaments in the occupation of one Steven son.

The plaintiff was the trustee of a deed of arrangement executed by STEVENSON in favor of his creditors.

The defendants were mortgagees under a deed whereby Stevenson had conveyed to them, by way of mortgage to secure advances, the hereditaments in question "together with all the fixed and moveable plant machinery and fixtures etc. now or hereafter fixed to or placed upon or used in or about the said hereditaments."

The mortgage deed contained a covenant by the mortgagor to keep the buildings which should from time to time be standing upon the hereditaments thereby assured, and "the said plant machinery and fixtures," &c., in good repair, and insured against loss or damage by fire.

The defendants, acting under their power of sale, had advertised the property and the fixed machinery for sale, and the question was whether they were entitled to do so, having regard to the Bills of Sale Acts, the mortgage deed not having been registered as a bill of sale.

Hastings, Q.C., and Broomfield, for the plaintiff.

Buckley, Q.C., and Beaumont, for the defendants.

STIRLING, J., applying the law as laid down by Lindley, L.J., in In re Yates (38 Ch. D. 112), held, that upon the construction of the mortgage deed the chattels being assigned quâ chattels, and not as incident to the land, the bank could seize and sever and sell them apart from the land, and, that being so, the deed was void because it was not registered. The defendants, therefore, had no right to sell the machinery either with or without the land, and must be restrained by injunction from so doing.

HAMILTON v. HAMILTON.

Infant—Maintenance—Contingent Interest—Gift to Class attaining 21—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, s. 43.

William Browne Caldwell by his will, dated in 1835, gave his residuary real and personal estate to trustees in trust for sale, and to stand possessed of the proceeds and the income thereof "in trust for the child, if only one, or all the children, if more than one, who shall be living at my decease, of G. R. Hamilton, and F. Hamilton, and all other of my nephews and nieces, and who, either before or after my decease, shall respectively live to attain the age of twenty-one years, all such children to take in equal shares as tenants in common, and according to the number of individuals, and not per stirpes: And I declare that, notwithstanding the provisions aforesaid, the income arising from time to time from the share of each of the said children, to which he or she shall for the time being be or become entitled under this my will, subject only to his or her attaining his or her majority, shall, notwithstanding such contingency, and during his or her minority, be paid over and belong to the parent related to me by consanguinity of such child for the exclusive benefit of such parent."

The testator died in 1893. He had six nephews and nieces only, five of whom were now living, and one died in the testator's lifetime and before the date of the will.

At the testator's death there were living nineteen children of his nephews and nieces, and all such children were still living, but only five children of one of the nephews and nieces had as yet attained twenty-one.

This was a summons taken out by the trustees of the will against the testator's next of kin, also some of the nephews and nieces, also the five children who had attained twenty-one, and the infant children of a niece, to have it determined whether the income then accrued and to accrue on the share of residue to which each of the infant defendants then was or might thereafter become entitled contingently upon his or her attaining twenty-one was, during the infancy of such defendants respectively, payable to the testator's next of kin, or to those grand-nephews and grand-nieces of the testator who had already attained twenty-one, and to such other of the grand-nephews and grand-nieces as, at the time of such income accruing, should have attained twenty-one; or whether such income was applicable, under sect. 43 of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, for the maintenance of the said infant defendants respectively until twenty-one.

Renshaw, Q.C., Warrington, Q.C., and àB. Terrell, Holland King, Bethell, and Cyprian Williams, for the parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held that there was no intestacy as to any part of the income of the residue. With regard to the question arising on sect. 43 of the Conveyancing Act, his Lordship referred to In re Jeffery ([1891] 1 Ch. 671), In re Burton's Will ([1892] 2 Ch. 38), and In re Adams ([1893] 1 Ch. 329), and said that, without expressing any opinion of his own upon the point, he felt bound, so long as the decision In re Jeffery stood, simply to follow that decision; but his Lordship expressed the hope that the point would be finally settled by the Court of Appeal.

Accordingly his Lordship made a declaration, that at present the income belonged to those of the class of grand-nephews and grand-nieces who had attained 21, in equal shares as tenants in common.

It was stated that the point would be taken to the Court of Appeal.

Trustee—Appointment of New Trustees—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), s. 31—Personal Representatives of surviving Trustee—Appointment of Special and General Executors by Will of Surviving Trustee—Effect of General and Special Probates.

Petition.

J. B. Parker, being the sole surviving trustee of the will of Cornelius Parker, by his will appointed general executors, and also special executors "for the purpose of executing in continuation of" himself "the trusts of the will of Cornelius Parker." At the death of J. B. Parker there was standing in his name a sum of Consols, representing part of the residuary estate of Cornelius Parker. The general executors obtained a grant of probate of the will of J. B. Parker to themselves as "general executors." They then by deed purported to appoint two persons to be trustees of the will of Cornelius Parker. The special executors subsequently obtained two separate grants of probate of the will of J. B. Parker, "for the purpose only of executing in continuation to the testator the trusts of the will of Cornelius Parker which vested in" the testator at the time of his decease, and they were sworn well and faithfully to administer "the same." The respondent, one of the special executors, having refused on request to concur in transferring the Consols to the trustees appointed by the deed, this petition was presented by them and the general executors asking for an order vesting the Consols in the trustees appointed by the deed.

On the petition coming on to be heard on the 1st of July (see Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 119), his Lordship held that the will of J. B. Parker did not operate as an exercise of the power of appointing new trustees conferred by sect. 31 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881; but that, as the general executors were, at the time when the deed of appointment was executed, in possession of a general grant of probate, they were "personal representatives" of a last surviving trustee within the meaning of the section, and therefore the deed was a valid appointment of trustees. After his Lordship's judgment had been delivered there was given to him, and by him communicated to counsel, some information respecting the practice of the Probate Division which suggested a doubt whether his conclusions were not, as regarded the second point, based on insufficient materials. The result was the re-argument of that point on the 11th and 12th of January, after which judgment was reserved.

Renshaw, Q.C., Bargrave Deane, and J. G. Wood, for the petitioners.

Warmington, Q.C., W. T. Barnard, and E. C. Macnaghten for the respondent.

Jan. 26. KEKEWICH, J., on the first point, again expressed his opinion that the language of section 31 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, was inapplicable to an appointment by the last surviving trustee in the place of himself, and to take effect at his own death. As to the second point, his Lordship said that he was unfortunately without an authoritative statement respecting the practice of the Probate Division in cases such as the present, or the reasons governing it; but as the result of statements made to him by competent gentlemen, confirmed generally by a reference to Mr. Coote's book (see Tristram & Coote's Probate Practice, 11th ed., pp. 151, et seq.), it seemed that the word "general" must not be regarded as meaning "universal," but rather as implying that there was or might be another executor who was not general. The special grants of probate were in a form somewhat embarrassing, and his Lordship was at a loss to know what the special executors were to administer. The only antecedent to which "the same" could refer was the trusts of the will of Cornelius Parker; and yet it could scarcely be conceived that the Probate Division intended to control the administration of those trusts which would not fall within its ordinary jurisdiction. Whatever effect in substance, irrespective of form, might be fairly attributed to these grants ought to be attributed to them; and it would seem that they must have operated as evidential confirmation of the appointment by J. B. Parker of executors of that part of his estate which he held as trustee of the will of Cornelius Parker. But that did not dispose of the question arising under sect. 31 of the Conveyancing Act. The section referred to the "personal representatives," and not the executors or administrators of the surviving trustee, and the distinction appeared to be all-important. His Lordship could not but think that those who could for the time being produce the only evidence of office and authority were intended by the Legislature to be the personal representatives of the testator for the purpose of appointing his successor as trustee. Nor could he see his way to holding that, within the meaning of the Act, a man might have one set of personal representatives for one purpose, and a different set for another purpose. This view was strongly confirmed by the 30th section of the same Act; and the term "personal representatives" ought to receive the same construction under both sections. In his Lordship's opinion the two general executors were, at any rate until the grants to the special executors, the personal representatives of J. B. Parker within the meaning of the Act, and therefore competent to appoint new trustees of Cornelius Parker's will, notwithstanding that J. B. Parker had also appointed special executors who might have applied, as in fact they afterwards did apply, for special grants. Accordingly, the appointment of trustees by the deed was good; and there must now be an order, such as the Court proposed to make on the conclusion of the first hearing, directing the respondent to execute a transfer of the stock into the names of the two petitioners appointed by the deed, to be held by them upon the trusts of the will of Cornelius Parker.

Romer, J. FEAST v. ROBINSON AND FISHER. Jan. 19.

On the 25th of March, 1892, one Wells gave a bill of sale, by way of mortgage, over his household furniture and effects. In the affidavit of registration he was described as of "Kingsdown House, Sittingbourne, in the county of Kent, gentleman of no occupation." At this time he was living, and for several years had been living, at Kingsdown House, the life of a country gentleman of apparently no occupation, but he was in fact a sleeping partner in the following concerns: Croft, Wells, & Co., general merchants, at Calcutta; Croft, Wells, & Co., general merchants, at Bombay; the Pure Beef Company, general merchants, at 5, Water Lane, in the City of London, and Belvedere, Kent. All the above were partnerships at will. He was also a sleeping partner in the firm of Reed & Co., florists, of King Street, Covent Garden, under article of partnership.

On the 30th of June, 1892, a receiving order was made against Wells and J. Croft, co-partners, trading as the Pure Beef Company aforesaid, and adjudication followed; and on the 5th of August, 1892, the plaintiff was appointed the trustee in bankruptcy. Between the date of the receiving order and the 5th of August, the defendants Robinson & Fisher, a firm of auctioneers, by the direction of the official receiver, took a transfer of the bill of sale and sold the furniture and effects, and, after retaining what was due to themselves as transferees of the bill of sale, handed over the balance to the official receiver. The plaintiff, as the trustee in bankruptcy, now claimed that the defendants should pay him the moneys they had retained as such transferees as aforesaid, on the ground that the bill of sale was void because the residence and occupation of the grantor were not correctly described. The defendants served the official receiver with a third party notice, claiming as his agents to be indemnified against all liability.

Channell, Q.C., and Ribton, for the plaintiff.

Sir C. Russell, A.-G., Ingle Joyce, and Muir Mackenzie, for the official receiver.

ROMER, J., held the bill of sale valid. The description of the residence and occupation of the grantor was substantially correct, and the requirements of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 10, had been sufficiently complied with. The Act did not intend that the grantor of a bill of sale should be required to state every undertaking in which he might be interested at the time, and in which he might possibly incur liability. But he must so describe himself that those who knew him would recognise him. Here the grantor had been living for years the life of a country gentleman of no occupation, and was known as such, and very few knew that he was a sleeping partner in the businesses that had been mentioned. There had been no deception of any kind. The action must be dismissed with costs.

Trade Name—Assignment in Gross—Infringement—Injunction.

For many years prior to his decease in February, 1871, John Forrest carried on the business of a watch manufacturer in London, and acquired a considerable reputation for his watches, and used to put his name, "John Forrest," on the watches made by him.

In June, 1871, G. Leitch, as the administratrix of John Forrest, deceased, by deed assigned to Carley & Co. the trade and goodwill in the business of a watch manufacturer that had been carried on by John Forrest. Carley & Co. were watch manufacturers in London, and after the said assignment put the name "John Forrest" on some of the watches made by them, but they never traded as John Forrest. In February, 1874, they by deed granted to S. & Co., watch manufacturers in Liverpool, the sole right to make watches with the name "John Forrest" thereon for the term of seven years. After the expiration of this license, Carley & Co. put the name of "John Forrest" on very few, if any, of the watches made by them. In August, 1890, Carley & Co. assigned to one Read the whole of their estate and effects for the benefit of their creditors, and in February, 1891, Read, as the trustee under the deed of assignment, sold and conveyed to the plaintiffs, watchmakers in Coventry, the name, title, and goodwill of the business of John Forrest. Under the circumstances aforesaid, the plaintiffs alleged that they were the successors in the business of John Forrest, and had the exclusive right to put that name on watches of their manufacture, and claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant, who was also a watchmaker at Coventry, from making and selling—as he was doing—watches with the words "John Forrest, London," upon them.

Moulton, Q.C., and Willis Bund, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held that the plaintiffs were not the successors in business of John Forrest. If the assignment to them passed anything, it only passed the right to use the name "John Forrest" unconnected with any business, which was merely an assignment in gross, and could not be supported. Assuming that Carley & Co. rightly marked their watches "John Forrest" up to the time they granted the license to the Liverpool firm of S. & Co., the Liverpool firm during their license were not John Forrest or his successors in business in London. After that Carley & Co. could not be heard to say that the name "John Forrest" on their watches meant that they were made by John Forrest or his successors in business. The action, therefore, failed, and must be dismissed, but, under the circumstances, without costs.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Director's Qualification Shares.

A. Richardson was one of the six persons named as first directors in clause 80 of the articles of association of a company registered on the 21st of July, 1891. By clause 84 the qualification of a director was to be the holding of shares of the nominal amount of 250*l.*, and this clause further provided as follows: "The first directors may act before acquiring their qualification; but unless, within one month of their appointment, they acquire such qualification, they shall be deemed to have agreed to take the same, and the same shall be allotted to them accordingly." Richardson was not one of the seven signatories of the memorandum and articles of association; but on the 21st of July, 1891, after the registration, he wrote a letter to the consulting engineer of the company, referring to the writer's having signed a proposed prospectus of the company (shewing the name of Richardson as a director) and the articles. The other directors attended board meetings; but Richardson attended no such meetings, and did not otherwise act as a director.

On the 8th of September, 1891, however, he wrote to the secretary of the company as follows: "After careful consideration, I find it impossible to attend to the duties of a director of your board. I am fearfully pressed with business, and, Swansea being so far from town, I cannot give the time. I therefore think it my duty reluctantly to resign, which resignation please place before my co-directors, and take any other proper steps. When I consented to join the board I was much freer, and could then, as matters stood, have acted; but matters have cropped up since which make it impossible."

In the winding up of the company the liquidator placed the name of Richardson on the list of contributories for the amount of a director's qualification shares. Richardson applied to have his name removed from the list.

Bingley, for the applicant.

WRIGHT, J., held that the fact that the applicant, by signing the letter of the 21st of July, 1891, had authorized the company to hold him out as a director, and had allowed himself to be named as a first director, was evidence that he agreed to accept office upon the terms of the articles, and that he had agreed to take the shares; that this conclusion was fortified by the letter of the 8th of September, 1891; and that his name must remain on the list.

IN THE GOODS OF JOHN CHAPPELL, deceased.

Will—Ambiguity—Extrinsic Evidence.

This was a motion on behalf of James Alfred Taylor, of Warmley Hill, in the parish of Bitton, in the County of Gloucester, bootmaker; James Lacey, of Oldland Common, in the same parish, hatter; and Samuel Guarman Gerrish, also of Oldland Common, accountant's clerk; that probate of the will, dated the 8th of September, 1893, of John Chappell, late of Mount Hill, in the said parish of Bitton, retired builder, should be granted to all or such one of them as might be entitled thereto, or for such further or other order as to the Court might seem proper.

Searle, moved the Court, and submitted, upon the authority of Charter v. Charter (Law Rep. 7 H. L. 364), In the Goods of Shuttleworth (1 Curt. 911); In the Goods of De Rosaz (2 P. D. 66), and In the Goods of Brake (6 P. D. 217), that evidence of surrounding circumstances was admissible for the purpose of shewing what person was intended by the testator, there being, in fact, no person surnamed Taylor and with the Christian name Robert residing at Warmley Hill and carrying on the business of a bootmaker.

Barnard, for Henry Arthur Williams, one of the substituted executors named in the will, who had received notice of this application, submitted that the affidavits as to surrounding circumstances were not admissible; and, particularly, the affidavit of a certain witness, who was since dead. There is a Robert Taylor in the Parish of Bitton, though he does not live at Warmley Hill.

THE PRESIDENT held that evidence of surrounding circumstances was admissible, but that declarations by the testator were not admissible, to clear up the ambiguity in the will as to the Christian name, address, and description of the intended executor, and, upon that evidence, granted probate of the will to James Alfred Taylor (and not to Robert Taylor), and allowed Williams' costs out of the estate.

IN THE GOODS OF WILLIAM JENKINS, deceased.

Testamentary Papers—Will and two Codicils—Clause in second Codicil revoking "all previous Codicils"—Probate—Construction.

This was a motion for probate. The testator, William Jenkins, late of Abergavenny, in the county of Monmouth, died on the 15th of November, 1893, having made and duly executed his will and two codicils bearing date respectively the 13th of June, 1868, the 21st of October, 1882, and the 14th of November, 1893.

By the will, the testator left, inter alia, 1000*l.* upon trust to pay the income to Alfred Flores, until he should attain the age of thirty years, and then to pay the principal to the said Alfred Flores.

By the codicil of 1882, the testator revoked the said bequest in his will and directed his trustees to pay the income arising from 5000*l.* Consols, and 3000*l.* Chilian Bonds to the said Alfred Flores for life, and, after his decease, as therein indicated.

By the second codicil he revoked "all previous codicils" made in favour of Alfred Flores, and directed the trustees to pay the interest on 1000*l.* sterling at 5 per cent. to him quarterly during his lifetime.

Upon the executors applying for probate in the usual way, a difficulty was raised in the registry, by reason of the words of revocation in the second codicil and the reference therein to previous "codicils," and the registrars intimated that the matter must be brought before the Court to shew that there was only one codicil prior to that of 1893.

Barnard, for the executors, submitted that no difficulty should have been raised.

THE PRESIDENT:—It is clear that all three documents must be admitted to probate. They will, of course, have to be construed hereafter.

STROUD v. WANDSWORTH DISTRICT BOARD OF WORKS.

Appeal from Charles and Wright, JJ. (Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 164; [1894] 1 Q. B. 64).

Jelf, Q.C., and Mattinson, for the appellant, Stroud.

Channell, Q.C., and J. C. Earle, for the respondents, the District Board.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) held that sect. 3 of the Metropolis Management Amendment Act, 1890, should be treated as in substance an addition to the group of sections in the Metropolis Management Acts, 1855 and 1862, relating to the paving of streets, and under which the local authority was to be the judge of the necessity or propriety of the work; and that the true construction of sect. 3 was that the same authority was to be the judge of the necessity of the repairs executed under that section; it not being the intention of the Legislature that two different tribunals should be judges of similar necessities.

Practice—Service out of the Jurisdiction—Notice of Motion for Injunction.

This was an action for an injunction to restrain the defendants from parting from certain stocks, shares, and other securities in which the plaintiff claimed to be interested. One of the defendants, Young, was abroad, and the plaintiff applied to North, J., for leave to serve the writ in the action, and also notice of motion for the injunction, on the defendant Young out of the jurisdiction. North, J., granted leave to serve the writ on Young, but refused leave to serve notice of motion for an injunction, being of opinion that he had no jurisdiction under Order XI, r. 1 (1883), to do so. The application was renewed by way of appeal before the Court of Appeal.

Eustace Smith, for the applicant, referred to R. Bullen-Smith (57 L. T. (N.S.) 924)

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) granted the application, and made the order without prejudice to any question that might arise upon it.

Prohibition—County Court—Want of Jurisdiction apparent on face of Proceedings—Acquiescence by Applicant in exercise of Jurisdiction—Discretion—Agricultural Holdings (England) Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 61), s. 24.

Appeal from the refusal of a Divisional Court to grant a writ of prohibition.

The facts were as follows:—By the terms of a lease, by which a farm was demised by the appellant to the respondent, it was provided that, upon the determination of the tenancy, the respondent should be entitled to compensation in respect of certain subject-matters not the subject of allowance or compensation under the Agricultural Holdings (England) Act, 1883, and that the clauses of that Act relating to procedure, and contained in sects. 7 to 28 thereof, should apply as well to any claim for allowance or compensation to be made under the lease as to any claim under the said Act. Upon the determination of the tenancy the claim of the respondent for compensation and the cross-claim of the appellant against the respondent were referred to arbitration in the manner provided by the Act, and ultimately an award was made by an umpire on the face of which it appeared that he had allowed compensation to the respondent in respect of subject-matters not within the Act as well as in respect of matters within the Act.

The appellant appealed to the county court against the award, under the Agricultural Holdings Act. The appeal was dismissed as being brought out of time, but the county court judge stated a case for the opinion of the High Court. When the case came on for hearing, the Divisional Court made an order by which it was ordered, apparently with the consent of the parties, that the matter of the appeal should be remitted to the county court judge to be re-heard upon the merits, and that he should deal with all matters of fact and law. Upon the case again coming before the county court judge he affirmed the award, and subsequently, upon the application of the respondent, made an order under sect. 24 of the Agricultural Holdings (England) Act, 1883, to enforce the award by execution.

The appellant applied to the Queen's Bench Division to prohibit the county court from further proceeding upon the order; but the application was refused on the ground that the applicant had acquiesced in the exercise of jurisdiction by the county court judge as if all the matters referred were within the Act, and had thereby precluded himself from taking objection to such jurisdiction.

Clavell Salter, for the respondent.

Feb. 2. THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, Lopes, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that, in cases where the want of jurisdiction appeared on the face of the proceedings, the Court were bound to grant the prohibition, although, as in the present case, the applicant had acquiesced in the proceedings in the inferior Court; that, the award shewing that it included matters not within the Agricultural Holdings Act, it was apparent on the face of the proceedings that the county court judge had no jurisdiction to make an order under sect. 24 of the Act to enforce payment under the award so far as it related to such matters; and that, therefore, the prohibition must issue.

This was an appeal from a decision of Wright, J. (Weekly Notes, ante, p. 5).

The directors of the above-mentioned company, acting ultra vires of their powers but not fraudulently, invested funds of the company in shares of another company. More than six years afterwards the liquidator in the winding-up of the company issued a summons, under sect. 10 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, for a declaration that certain directors were liable for the amount expended in the purchase of the shares. The learned judge held that they were protected by sect. 8 of the Trustee Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 59), and dismissed the summons. The official liquidator appealed.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) held that the directors were trustees within the meaning of the Act of 1888, and that, as the misapplication of the money was not a fraud in any sense, they were protected by the Act. The appeal was therefore dismissed.

In re HARRIS AND RAWLINGS' CONTRACT.

Vendor and Purchaser—Misleading Particulars—Adverse Claim.

This was a vendor's summons under the Act claiming a declaration that the purchaser was not entitled to insist on the release of an adverse claim to part of the property sold.

The vendors had sold a certain warehouse by public auction, but had not, in the particulars and conditions of sale, disclosed that the corporation of Bristol were asserting a claim to the sole ownership of one of the walls of the warehouse, and the purchaser had signed the contract without notice of such claim.

No legal proceedings had been commenced or threatened by the corporation.

Byrne, Q.C., and Christopher James, in support of the summons, contended that the vendors were not bound to give notice of mere claims, even though such claims might end in litigation, and further, that on the facts there was no substance in the claim of the corporation.

Farwell, Q.C., and Lowe, for the purchaser.

CHITTY, J., was of opinion that the purchaser was right on both points, and said that, assuming if the vendors knew of an idle and frivolous claim they were not bound to disclose it—as to which he expressed no opinion—yet it was clearly their duty to give notice of a claim which on the face of it was neither idle nor frivolous, and that the vendors had not made out on the evidence that the claim was clearly unfounded, and, in the absence of the corporation, he must decline to go into the question further, and dismissed the summons with costs.

FRENCH v. SPROSTON.

Practice—Order for Payment into Court—Admission by Defendant—Verbal Admission—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXXII., r. 6.

Motion by the plaintiffs that the defendant, who was the sole surviving executor and trustee of a will, might be ordered to pay into Court the sum of 535*l.*, admitted by him to be the amount of the share of the plaintiffs in the testator's residuary estate, and to be uninvested, and in the defendant's own hands, or under his control. The notice of motion was served on the defendant personally. It stated that certain affidavits, a list of which was given, would be read on behalf of the plaintiffs on the hearing of the motion. Copies of these affidavits were served on the defendant with the notice of motion. He filed no affidavit in answer, and he did not appear on the hearing of the motion.

One of the affidavits, made by a clerk of the plaintiffs solicitors, stated that, in an interview which he had with the defendant, he pressed the defendant for information as to the security upon which the trust fund was invested, "and he admitted that the trust fund (the plaintiffs' share of which he said amounted to about 535*l.*) was not invested, but that a portion of it was in a bank, and the remainder was in his own hands."

S. B. L. Druce, for the plaintiffs.

NORTH, J., held that, notwithstanding what was said by the Court of Appeal in Hollis v. Burton ([1892] 3 Ch. 226), the older cases, such as Freeman v. Cox (8 Ch. D. 148), and London Syndicate v. Lord (ib. 84), were authorities for holding that the verbal admission of the defendant (proved by an affidavit which he had not answered, though it had been served on him, and his attention had been directed to it by the notice of motion) was a sufficient admission within rule 6 of Order xxxii. His Lordship accordingly ordered the defendant to pay 535*l.* into Court.

Motion by solicitors to discharge an order of course obtained by their client to tax a bill of costs delivered by them to him on the 10th of May, 1893.

On the 24th of October, 1893, the client obtained an order of course to tax this bill, and another bill alleged to have been delivered to him by the solicitors on the 27th of October, 1892. The order contained the usual provision that no proceedings were to be commenced against the client in respect of the bills pending the reference, and that the Master was to make his certificate in a month (unless he should extend the time to enable him to make his certificate), or the order was to be of no effect. On the 29th of November, 1893, the Master gave notice that he had fixed the 7th of December, 1893, for the taxation of the bills. The parties attended on that day, and the Master then held that the alleged bill of the 27th of October, 1892, was not really a bill of costs, and that, as the order directed him to tax two bills of costs, whereas there was really only one bill, he could not proceed under the order to tax the one bill. He held also, that the order had become inoperative, because he had not extended the time for making his certificate, and that he had no jurisdiction to order the client to pay the costs of the proceedings. But he expressed an opinion that the client should pay the solicitors 2*l.* 2*s.* for their costs. The client's London agents offered the solicitors' London agents to pay the 2*l.* 2*s.* This offer was communicated to the solicitors, but, before any reply had been received from them, the client's London agents, on the 8th of January, 1894, obtained a second order of course to tax the bill of the 10th of May, 1893. This order was obtained without disclosing the first order. The solicitors now moved to discharge the order of the 8th of January as having been irregularly obtained.

Wurtzburg, for the motion.

H. M. Humphry, for the client.

NORTH, J., held that the order had been irregularly obtained. A serious mistake in practice had been made. After the first order had become abortive, a second order of course ought not to have been applied for. The right of taxation was not lost; but a special application should have been made, and an order to tax would then have been granted, but on the terms of the client's paying the costs of the proceedings under the first order. His Lordship would not, however, put the parties to the expense of obtaining a fresh order. He would direct the Taxing Master to proceed upon the existing order, and to tax the costs of the former order and of this motion, and to bring those costs into account.

Company—Reduction of Capital—Companies Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 131), ss. 9–11—Company which has ceased to carry on Business.

This was a petition for a reduction of capital. The company, according to its memorandum of association, was formed for the purposes of (1) the acquisition of land; (2) the working of clay; (3) the manufacture of bricks, and (4) the demising or letting to builders for building or improving or occupation purposes or otherwise, and the selling of all or any of the company's lands. The company carried on business until May, 1888, when it ceased to trade, and had not since traded. All the lands, machinery and plant, with the exception of one particular piece of land, had been sold, and the company now continued solely for the purpose of selling such land. It was stated that the land could be sold more advantageously if the company continued to exist than if it were wound up.

MacConkey, in support of the petition.

KEKEWICH, J., declined to entertain the petition, being of opinion that the provisions of the Companies Act, 1867, were not applicable to such a case. The company was not in any fair sense of the word a going concern; and if not defunct, was comatose. It did not wish to reduce its capital in order that it might carry on business more satisfactorily to its shareholders, or keep its accounts in a more complete or better form; but the sole object of the petition was to enable, by the machinery of this Act, the assets of the company to be distributed among the shareholders in proportion to the amounts paid up on their shares. The Act was not intended to effect any such purpose.

A testator who died in 1889 by his will, dated in 1888, devised certain land in N. to the use of several persons and the survivors of them as tenants for life, with remainders over, and declared that, notwithstanding any restriction contained in the Settled Land Act, certain powers additional to or larger than those conferred by that Act were thereby conferred on the tenants for life of the settled premises, and on the trustees or trustee of the settlement, and in particular that a lease for building purposes of any land in N. aforesaid which might form part of the settled premises might be made for any term not exceeding 999 years. The land of the testator in N. could be advantageously let on building leases for terms of 999 years. Several such leases had been granted by the testator in his lifetime, and others had been subsequently granted by those tenants for life who were of age, and by the trustees of the will on behalf of those who were infants, pursuant to the Settled Land Act, 1882, as extended by the will. Some of the tenants for life, however, were permanently resident abroad, and great risk and delay were occasioned by the necessity of communicating with them from time to time as leases were granted. A petition was accordingly presented by all the tenants for life, under the Settled Estates Act, 1877, asking that an order might be made vesting in the respondents, the trustees of the will, general powers of granting building leases for terms not exceeding 999 years.

Warmington, Q.C., and Arkle, in support of the petition, referred to In re Mansel's Settled Estates (Weekly Notes, 1884, p. 209) as being the only authority which appeared to be against them, but distinguished the present case on the ground that all the persons who were entitled to exercise the power, both under the will and under the Settled Land Act, were parties to the application.

On this action, which stood last on the day's paper for trial, being called on,

Warmington, Q.C., and A. Young, for the defendant, asked that it might stand over on the ground that the defendant, who, it was conceded, was a material witness, was, and had for some time been, seriously ill; the application being supported by an affidavit sworn that morning by the defendant's medical man.

Renshaw, Q.C., and F. T. Procter, for the plaintiff, did not oppose the application, but asked that the costs of the day should be paid by the defendant. No notice had been previously given to the plaintiff that the defendant would be unable to appear upon the case being called on, and thus it had been set down in that day's paper as effective.

KEKEWICH, J., said that the Court had been put to great inconvenience through the failure of the defendant's solicitors to give proper notice that he would be unable to attend if the case were put into that day's paper. His Lordship thought that the solicitors had shewn discourtesy to the Court, and put the parties to unnecessary expense; and he should therefore order them personally to pay the costs of the day. He thought he had jurisdiction to make such an order, either under Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order LXV., r. 11, or under the general jurisdiction of the Court over solicitors.

LIVER v. LAND SECURITIES COMPANY.

Company—Directors—Shareholder—Ultra vires—Dividend paid out of Capital—Internal Management—Accounts—Relief.

This was an action by a shareholder who had for twelve years held one share in the defendant company, claiming an injunction to restrain the company from paying any dividends except out of net profits; from applying in payment of dividends any portion of the assets of the company representing capital; from declaring any sum to be net profits without setting apart the sum necessary to meet all claims or contingent liabilities; also claiming accounts and other relief.

The company's articles provided that no dividend should be payable except out of net profits; that, before declaring net profits, the directors should set apart any sum in their judgment necessary to meet any claims or contingent liabilities; and that they might in their discretion set apart out of profits, before declaring any dividend, a "reserve fund" for meeting contingencies and other purposes. The plaintiff alleged in his statement of claim that in 1891 the company violated the articles by declaring a dividend, though the losses of the year were in excess of profits; also that the directors had further violated the articles by (amongst other things) not having, before declaring net profits, set apart any sum to meet claims or contingent liabilities, or any reserve fund.

The defendant company put in a defence, alleging in substance that the directors had acted throughout with careful consideration; that their accounts had been submitted to and approved by the shareholders in general meeting; that the plaintiff had acquiesced in the method adopted by the directors in carrying on the company's business; that no part of the dividend complained of was, in fact, paid out of net profits, and that the plaintiff himself had actually accepted and retained his proportion of dividend; that he was disentitled by acquiescence from claiming the relief sought; that the action was not brought bonâ fide, but for the purpose of harming the company and impeding its business; and that the action was improperly constituted by reason of the directors not being joined as defendants. In March, 1892, after the institution of the action, the plaintiff was adjudicated bankrupt, and in June following a trustee of his estate was appointed, and this action was thereupon continued by such trustee. In July the directors issued their annual report and balance-sheet for the year ending the 30th of June, 1892, shewing a dividend, which was accepted by the trustee. The action now came on upon a question of law raised by the defendant company, whether, upon the pleadings as they stood, the plaintiff was entitled to maintain the action.

Warmington, Q.C., and A. W. Rowden, for the defendants.

Lincoln Reed, for the plaintiff.

KEKEWICH, J., said that the question was, whether the plaintiff had established any act committed or threatened which was ultra vires of the company assembled in general meeting summoned by notice for the purpose. If the plaintiff established that position, he was entitled to some relief; but, if what was complained of was not strictly ultra vires, he must prove what was in law termed "fraud"—as, for example, that the accounts had been cooked, or that the results arrived at were not fair results, and such as any body of directors would honestly state to a company in general meeting, but had come from the appropriation of wrong items under wrong heads, and so forth, to say nothing of false arithmetic. Such matters might give him a right to complain, and the Court would be unwilling to dismiss him summarily, and say he was not entitled to investigation. Short of that, his Lordship did not know any case in which a shareholder, suing for himself and on behalf of other shareholders, could say that what the company had done was wrong, and that he was entitled to relief against the company in respect thereof. Looking at the plaintiff's statement of claim, the articles of association, and the directors' reports and balance-sheets for 1891 and 1892, although there might possibly be some errors of judgment, there was nothing to sustain an allegation of ultra vires unless it could be shewn that dividends had been paid out of capital, and that his Lordship did not see in the accounts. In fact, in working out the reports for 1891 and 1892, it seemed that the company had sufficient to pay the dividends they professed to pay. The broad principle was that capital must not be returned to the shareholders in any shape, and his Lordship did not see that that principle had in any way been transcended. What had been done was done with the assent of the shareholders in general meeting, and was a matter of internal management with which the Court would not interfere, and there was nothing ultra vires in what had been done. There was no ground on which the plaintiff could be entitled to any relief, and he must pay the costs of the action.

THE AFRICANO.

Feb. 5.

Ship—Necessaries—Priorities—Practice.

On the 10th of August, 1893, an action in rem for necessaries was instituted in the High Court by Fry & Co. against the owners of the foreign steamship Africano, and the vessel was arrested the same day. On the 30th of October judgment was obtained by default for 85*l.* 12*s.* 7*d.*, with interest at 4 per cent. and costs, but without prejudice to other claims against the vessel, and reserving all questions as to priorities.

On the 10th of August an action was commenced for wages in the Liverpool District Registry. On the 4th of October the report of the District Registrar (dated the 28th of September) was confirmed by the Vacation Judge (Kennedy, J.), and by that learned Judge's order the Africano was sold, the net proceeds, 1215*l.* 6*s.* 5*d.*, being brought into Court to the credit of that action.

On the 11th of August an action for necessaries was commenced in the Liverpool County Court, and the vessel arrested the same day. On the 19th of October judgment was obtained by consent for 146*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* and costs.

On the 12th of August an action for necessaries was commenced in the County Court by Grayson & Co., and on the 24th of August judgment was obtained by consent for 88*l.* 16*s.* 2*d.* and costs.

On the 17th of August an action for necessaries was commenced in the Liverpool District Registry, in which action judgment has not yet been given.

On the 16th of September an action for necessaries was commenced in the County Court, and on the 29th of September judgment was obtained by consent for 30*l.* 4*s.* and costs.

On the 13th of November all the proceedings were, by order of the President, transferred to the High Court, and it was referred to the Registrar to report upon the priorities of the various claims.

It was contended before the Registrar, on behalf of Fry & Co. that, in respect of the necessaries actions, priority depends upon the date of the writ and arrest: The Cella (13 P. D. 82). Therefore they were entitled to priority. On the other hand it was contended, on behalf of Grayson & Co., that it depends upon the date of the judgment: The Saracen (4 Notes of Case 498); The Desdemona (Swa. 158); The William F. Eafter (Lush. 69). Therefore they were entitled to priority.

On the 16th of December the Registrar reported that the claims ranked, and were payable out of the proceeds in Court in the following order: (1) Costs of Fry & Co. up to and inclusive of arrest of vessel; (2) costs and claim in wages action; (3) balance of costs of Fry & Co. and the costs of the other necessaries actions (excluding that of the 17th of August), to be paid pari passu; (4) the claims of Fry & Co., and of the other plaintiffs in the necessaries actions, to be paid out of the balance pro rata, in accordance with the practice in the Registry, except the claim of the plaintiffs of the 17th of August, who have not yet obtained judgment.

Jan. 23, 24. Sir Walter Phillimore, and F. Laing, for Fry & Co., in objection to the report so far as regarded the priorities of the claims for necessaries:—Where a vessel has been sold and the proceeds are in Court, claims for necessaries, in respect of which actions have been brought, take priority, inter se, in the order of the institution of the actions. Before The Henrich Björn (11 App. Cas. 270), it was supposed that a claim for necessaries conferred a maritime lien, but now, as the law stands, the only lien for necessaries arises on the institution of the action, that institution creates a security which, like mortgages, ranks in order of date.

Pickford, Q.O., and A. D. Bateson, in support of the Registrar's report.

Feb. 5. THE PRESIDENT (Sir F. H. Jeune) confirmed the Registrar's report on the ground that the Court held the property, not only for the first claimant, but for, at least, all creditors of the same class who asserted their claims before an unconditional decree was pronounced.

Application of Fry & Co. dismissed with costs, and costs in reference to Registrar to follow claims in each case.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. Feb. 1.
BROTHERTON v. METROPOLITAN DISTRICT RAILWAY JOINT COMMITTEE.

Practice—Costs—Costs of former Trial to abide "result" of new Trial—Recovery of one farthing Damages in Action of Tort—Refusal of Certificate for Co's.

Application for new trial.

The action, which was for false imprisonment, had been tried twice. On the first trial the learned judge before whom it was tried directed a verdict for the defendant. On application to the Court of Appeal, that verdict was set aside and a new trial ordered, "the costs of the former trial to abide the result of the new trial." On the case going down again for trial, the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for one farthing damages, and the learned judge before whom the case was tried refused to give the plaintiff a certificate for costs. The plaintiff applied again to the Court of Appeal for a new trial on the ground that the damages were inadequate. This application being refused,

F. H. Mello, for the defendants, asked for the direction of the Court as to the effect of their order upon the costs of the first trial, having regard to the result of the second trial.

Crispe, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that "result" in the order meant the result of the new trial with regard to costs, and, the result of that trial with regard to costs being that the plaintiff was not entitled to costs, the same result must follow as to the first trial, and therefore the plaintiff was not entitled to any costs of the first trial.

Order accordingly.

From Q. B. D. EDWARDS v. MARCUS. Feb. 6.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Lawrance and Wright, JJ.

The defendants, L. Marcus and his wife, executed a bill of sale of chattels in their house to Townend, the present claimant. The bill of sale, which was duly registered, was expressed to be in consideration of 800*l.*, and the chattels were to be redeemable on payment of that sum with simple interest by instalments as therein mentioned. By a mortgage of the same date, Mrs. Marcus mortgaged her interest under certain wills to Townend to secure the repayment of 800*l.* with compound interest by instalments, payable on the same days as the instalments provided for in the bill of sale. The instalments not being paid, Townend took possession of the chattels. A judgment creditor of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus afterwards levied execution, and the sheriff seized the chattels. Townend claimed them, and the sheriff interpleaded. A special case was drawn up by a referee for the opinion of the Court which set out the above facts, and contained the statement that "the bill of sale and the mortgage were given on the same day and to secure one and the same debt, and the bill of sale and the mortgage respectively were both given as part of the same transaction." The Divisional Court held that the registration of the bill of sale was bad, under sect. 10, sub-sect. 3, of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, on the ground that the bill of sale was subject to conditions contained in the mortgage deed, but not mentioned in the bill of sale as registered. Judgment was therefore given for the execution creditor. The claimant Townend appealed.

Jelf, Q.C. and Bonrer, for the appellant.

Channell, Q.C., and H. Kitch, for the respondent.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that it was impossible not to be guided by the clause in the special case which stated that the bill of sale and mortgage were given for the same debt and as part of the same transaction. The effect of this was, that the bill of sale did not contain all the conditions on which the chattels were to be redeemable, for by the true bargain the wife certainly could not redeem them except by paying compound interest. That being so, he was of opinion that the case was distinctly hit by the 3rd sub-section of sect. 10 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878. It was contended by the appellant, on the authority of a dictum of James, L.J., in Ex parte Collins (Law Rep. 10 Ch. at p. 372), that the condition referred to in the Act must be something that prejudicially affected the grantee; but he did not think that that view was correct, but that anything which affected the interest of either party was a condition within the meaning of the Act. That was the view taken in Counsell v. London and Westminster Loan and Discount Company (19 Q. B. D. 512), which in his opinion governed the present case. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

From Q. B. D. HUBBORN v. HILLMARY. Feb. 8.

Parliament—Borough Franchise—Description of Qualification—Amendment.

This was an appeal from a decision of a Divisional Court, consisting of Coleridge, L.C.J., and Lawrance and Collins, JJ., affirming the decision of the revising barrister for the borough of West Ham.

O. P. Hurcum claimed to have his name inserted in the list of voters for the borough in respect of a qualification which was stated in the claim to be "Dwelling House—Successive," and the description of the qualifying property was given as "13, Disraeli Road, from 31, Eglinton Road." It was proved that the claimant had been for the qualifying period the inhabitant occupier of 13, Disraeli Road, and that the claim was based on successive occupation of the two dwelling-houses by a bonâ fide mistake. The revising barrister would have made the correction by striking out the words "successive" and "81, Eglinton Road," but held that he had no power to make the amendment. The Divisional Court agreed with him, and the claimant appealed.

O. E. Jones, for the appellant.
Roskill, and E. Morten, for the respondent, were not called on.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the case was really concluded by authority. It had been held in Bartlett v. Gibbs (5 Man. & G. 81) and Foskett v. Kaufman (16 Q. B. D. 279), that the qualification in respect of the occupation of successive houses was a different qualification from the occupation of a single house, and that the revising barrister could not make the amendment in the description of the qualification; and he thought that it made no difference whether words were to be added or taken away. It had been argued that all the decisions on this point had been on applications to amend the list of voters, and not the claim of a voter; but in his opinion that made no difference for the present purpose. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

KAY, and A. L. SMITH, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

Trade-mark—"Somatos"—"Invented Word"—Descriptive Word—Registration—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, s. 6A—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1888, s. 10.

Appeal from North, J.

The question was whether the word "Somatose" could be registered under the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, s. 6A, as amended by the Patents, &c., Act, 1888, s. 10, as a trade-mark for an article in class 3, and called a "pharmaceutical production," made from meat and intended for purposes of nourishment: the word being derived from the Greek word "Soma" (body).

Kirby, for the appellant, the applicant.

Sir J. Bigby, S. G., and Ingle Joyce, for the Comptroller.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) held, Lindley, L. J., dissenting, that the word was not an "invented word" within the Acts, but was descriptive, and therefore not capable of registration.

Appeal dismissed, but without costs.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. Feb. 8.

In re KIDSGROVE STEEL AND IRON COMPANY.

Company—Winding-up—Lease of Mine—Rent—Payment in Full—Damages for Breach of Covenant—Option to purchase Assets—Mutual Credits—Set-off.

The company held certain coal mines and ironworks under a lease from the Norwich Union which provided, that the lessors, at the determination of the term, should have the option of purchasing certain plant, engines, and machinery at a valuation.

In February, 1891, the company went into voluntary liquidation, which was subsequently continued under the supervision of the Court.

In December, 1892, the lessors obtained an order giving them liberty to execute any rights they might have to distrain for rent accrued since the liquidation, and to exercise any rights of re-entry under the lease and take possession of the demised property. They distrained for rent and re-entered; whereupon an order was made, by arrangement, that the distress should be withdrawn, and a valuation made of such plant as the lessors were entitled to purchase, the amount to be paid or accounted for by them to the liquidator, and any question as to their right of set-off to be determined by the Court.

The lessors claimed to set off against the amount payable by them as purchase-money, damages in respect of breaches of the covenants in the lease, as to working the coal, on the ground that their debt to the liquidator, and the damages claimed by them against the company, came within the principle of mutual credits and set-off imported into winding-up by sect. 10 of the Judicature Act, 1875, and also that the liquidator having continued in beneficial occupation of the demised property since the winding-up, the lessors were as much entitled to payment in full of any damages for continuing breaches of covenant as to the rent accrued since the liquidation, the covenants being an equivalent for increased rent.

Byrne, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the liquidator.

Farwell Q.C., and Methold, for the lessors.

CHITTY, J., held that the lessors had under the lease, no right to the plant at the date of the winding-up; their right arose only when they exercised their option to purchase, nearly two years later; so that the rules as to mutual dealings and set-off had no application; that as the landlord's right to preferential payment of rent was based on his right of distress, it could not include what could not be distrained for, such as damages for breach of covenant; and that for these reasons the lessors' claim could not be allowed, though they might nevertheless set off any rent accrued since the liquidation.

MAYFAIR PROPERTY COMPANY v. JOHNSTON.

Jan. 31.

Partition—Tenants in Common—Party Wall—Trespass—Mandatory Injunction.

Trial of action for the partition of a wall of which the plaintiffs and the defendants were tenants in common. The wall in question was originally 6½ feet in height and 9 inches thick, and it separated the gardens at the rear of the plaintiffs' and the defendants' houses, respectively Nos. 37 and 36, Hyde Park Gate, which immediately adjoined each other. The plaintiffs had recently pulled down a portion of the garden wall, and had rebuilt it as part of the wall of an addition to their house, the new wall being very much higher than the old one. In rebuilding the wall the plaintiffs had placed concrete foundations and footings which extended into the defendants' garden further than the bottom of the old wall. At the height of 6½ feet from the ground the plaintiffs had set back the new wall 4½ inches towards their own premises; so that half of the wall (so far as it represented the old wall) was left uncovered, this being the half adjoining the defendants' garden. The defendants submitted that, if the wall were partitioned, they would be entitled to remove so much of it as might be allotted to them, and to remove the concrete foundations which had been placed in their garden. The result might be to let down the plaintiffs' buildings. The defendants counter-claimed for an injunction to restrain the plaintiffs from permitting the concrete foundations and footings to remain on the defendants' land, and for damages for the plaintiffs' wrongful acts.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., Curtis Price, and A. A. Hudson, for the defendants.

On behalf of the defendants, it was argued that a partition ought not to be granted, because, as the defendants would then be entitled to remove the part of the wall allotted to them, the effect might be that the plaintiffs' building would not comply with the requirements of the Metropolitan Building Acts.

NORTH, J., held that, though the writ of partition had been abolished, a tenant in common was entitled to a partition under the old Statutes of Hen. 8. His Lordship, therefore, decreed a partition of the wall. As to the counter-claim, he declined to grant a mandatory injunction. He thought that the plaintiffs had in effect made a present to the defendants of the materials which they had placed on their land. One difficulty in granting a mandatory injunction would be that the land was not in the plaintiffs' occupation. But it was not disputed that the plaintiffs had committed a trespass, and for this his Lordship awarded the defendants 15*l.* damages. The plaintiffs were entirely wrong in building as they had done, and they must pay the costs of the action.

The plaintiff and defendant were the owners of adjoining lands. On the land of the plaintiff there were certain ancient oak-trees, some of the branches of which overhung the land of the defendant, and, as he alleged, obstructed the entrance to his farmyard. The defendant, without giving any notice to the plaintiff, caused the overhanging branches to be cut down, the points at which some of the branches were cut being a few inches within the boundary line of the plaintiff's land. The plaintiff brought this action for damages, and an injunction to restrain the defendant from cutting any other branches. There was no evidence that the overhanging branches were likely to be dangerous to life or health, and the defendant had been aware of their existence for fifteen years. The defendant had been the owner of the land since 1878. It did not appear that the trees were visible from the plaintiff's residence, or that the cutting of the branches impaired the beauty of his property.

Warmington, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the plaintiff.

Marten, Q.C., and Bradford, for the defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., referred to Jones v. Williams (11 M. & W. 176), citing Penruddock's Case (5 Rep. 101), and to Earl Lonsdale v. Nelson (2 B. & C. 802), and said that those authorities shewed that trees overhanging the land of another constituted a nuisance of omission, it being negligence on the part of the owner of the trees to allow them to overhang, and that the person suffering from the nuisance was entitled to abate it, but only on giving reasonable notice to the owner of the trees, unless there was danger to life or health. The object of requiring the notice was to give the owner of the trees a fair opportunity of abating the nuisance, while preserving his own property. The defendant had acted wrongly in cutting the branches without giving notice to the plaintiff; but the justice of the case would be met by ordering the defendant to pay 5*l.* damages and the costs of the action.

Practice—Foreign Plaintiff resident out of Jurisdiction—Action on Foreign Judgment—Security for Costs.

Appeal from chambers.

The plaintiff, a Frenchman resident in France, brought an action against the defendant in the French Court. The defendant appeared there and litigated the matters in dispute. Judgment was given for the plaintiff, and such judgment was affirmed by the Court of Appeal in Paris. The plaintiff brought an action here upon such judgment, in answer to which the defendant alleged that the judgment had been obtained by fraud and perjury. The defendant applied for security for costs. The master made the order asked for, and his order was affirmed by Grantham, J. The plaintiff appealed.

THE COURT (Mathew and Collins, JJ.) held, that the defendant having appeared and litigated the matter in the French Court, the presumption that the judgment of that Court was properly obtained was sufficiently strong to justify them in refusing to order the plaintiff to give security for costs.

Appeal allowed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. HADDOW v. MORTON. Feb. 13.

County Court—Interpleader—Goods taken in Execution—Deposit in Court of Value of Goods by Claimant—Money deposited paid out to Judgment Creditor—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 156—County Court Forms, 1889, Form 187.

Appeal from decision of Divisional Court reported [1894] 1 Q. B. 95.

The facts were as follows:—Goods which had been taken in execution of the judgment of a county court were claimed by a person who, under the provisions of s. 156 of the County Courts Act, 1888, deposited the value of the goods with the bailiff to abide the decision of the judge upon the claim. On the trial of an interpleader issue, the claim was not established, and the money deposited was paid out to the judgment creditor. The money so paid out being insufficient to satisfy the judgment, the judgment creditor caused the goods to be seized again for the balance of his judgment.

The claimant again claimed the goods, and again deposited with the bailiff a sum of 25*l.* to abide the result of a second interpleader issue. The county court judge, on the trial of such issue, held that the judgment creditor was entitled to seize the goods.

On appeal, the Divisional Court (Charles and Wright, JJ.) reversed his decision, holding that by taking the money deposited in the first interpleader out of Court the judgment creditor had estopped himself from thereafter disputing that as against himself the claimant was the owner of the goods.

ROUSE v. BRADFORD BANKING COMPANY.

Feb. 20.

Debtor and Creditor—Partnership Debt—Retirement of one Partner—Taking over Debt by new Firm—Liability of retiring Partner—Principal and Surety—Giving time to Principal Debtor—Release of Surety.

This was an appeal by the defendant company from a judgment of Kekewich, J. (Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 194), holding the plaintiff released from a debt due to the bank from his late firm.

Finlay, Q.C., Warmington, Q.C., and Vernon R. Smith, for the appeal.

Renshaw, Q.C., and F. Thompson, for the plaintiff.

LINDLEY, KAY, and A. L. SMITH, L.J.J., all agreed with Kekewich, J., that there was no novation. LINDLEY and KAY, L.J.J., held that Kekewich, J., was right in holding the House of Lords to have decided, in Oakeley v. Pasheller (4 Cl. & F. 207), that if a creditor has two principal debtors, one of whom by subsequent arrangement between themselves becomes as between himself and the other a surety only, the creditor when informed of it must treat him as a surety, and releases him by giving time to the other. LINDLEY, L.J., however, held that a covenant in the deed of dissolution gave power to the continuing partners to make arrangements with creditors, including arrangements as to time, and that the plaintiff was therefore not released by time being given to the continuing partners. KAY, L.J., differed as to the effect of the covenant, and was of opinion that the plaintiff was released. SMITH, L.J., was inclined to the view that Oakeley v. Pasheller was correctly interpreted in Swire v. Edmund (1 Q. B. D. 536), and that apart from the covenant in the dissolution deed there would have been no release of the plaintiff; but that, even if there would have been, the covenant prevented it. The appeal was therefore allowed.

In re MAYOR OF LONDON AND TUBB'S CONTRACT.

Vendor and Purchaser—Conditions of Sale—Interest—Wilful Default.

By a contract of the 18th of March, 1892, for the sale of certain freeholds in the City of London, the date fixed for completion was the 24th of June, and "if from any cause whatever other than the wilful default of the vendor" the remainder of the purchase-money was not paid on that date, the purchaser was to pay interest thereon at 5l. per cent. per annum.

The conditions of sale stated that the property was purchased and taken by the vendors in the year 1824 under the powers of a private Act of 5 Geo. 4, c. cii., and was now being sold under a statutory power. It turned out that a material portion of the property offered for sale was not included in this Act, but was acquired by the vendors under another and much more recent Act. A further abstract was only delivered on the 26th of June, and the title was not finally accepted till the 29th of September.

The vendors claimed three months' interest for the delay; and this the purchaser refused to pay, on the ground that the purchase had not been completed owing to the "wilful default" of the vendors.

Whitehorse, Q.C., and A. J. Allen, for the vendors.

Lowitt, Q.C., and Vernon R. Smith, for the purchaser.

CHERRY, J., held that the omission by the vendors in not discovering that the whole of the property was not included in the Act of George IV., as stated by the conditions of sale, was not "wilful default" within the meaning of the condition in question, and that, consequently, the purchaser was liable to pay the three months' interest as claimed by the vendors.

Will—Specific Contingent Legacy—Right to Intermediate Income—Infants' Maintenance.

The testator by his will, dated July, 1886, after appointing executors and trustees and giving certain pecuniary legacies, bequeathed the sum of 4000*l.* Victoria 4*l.* per cent. stock, held by him at the date of his will, and as it happened at his death, to his trustees, in trust for such of his grand-daughters as should survive him and attain the age of 21 years, in equal shares between them. The testator devised and bequeathed the residue of his estate to the same trustees upon trust for conversion and division as therein mentioned. The question now raised was, whether the grand-daughters, who were infants, were entitled to maintenance out of the income of the contingent specific legacy of 4000*l.* Victoria 4*l.* per cent. stock.

Hickey, for the residuary legatees.

Lowitt, Q.C., and Underhill, for other parties.

CHITTY, J., said the result of the authorities was, that where there was a specific gift to an infant on his attaining 21, the intermediate income did not pass; but in the present case there was a segregation of this legacy from the rest of the testator's estate, and, according to In re Medlock (55 L. J. (Ch.) 738), if it was clear upon the will, that the testator had directed the contingent legacy to be immediately set apart, for the benefit of the objects of the gift when the contingency which he had indicated happened, when that contingency did happen, the fund set apart with all its accretions belonged to the contingent legatees. The result, therefore, in the present case was, that the grand-daughters, on attaining 21, would be entitled to the intermediate income, and therefore the 43rd section of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, as interpreted by In re Dutton (29 Ch. D. 831) applied, and the trustees had power to allow maintenance out of the income.

Settlement—Equitable Estate in fee—Limitations—No words of Inheritance—Construction.

By a settlement of August, 1845, the equity of redemption in certain freehold hereditaments was granted to trustees and their heirs, upon trust for the settlor's wife for life, with remainder to the settlor for life, and after his death "then as to and concerning the hereditaments and the rents and profits thereof" in trust for such child or children of the settlor as being a son or sons should attain the age of 21 years, or being daughters or a daughter should attain that age or marry. There being no words of limitation referring to the children's interest, the question now raised was, what estate they were entitled to under this settlement.

Alexander, Q.C., and Albert Jessel, contended that as the estates were equitable only, though the limitations were in form legal, words of inheritance were unnecessary, and that the children consequently took an equitable estate in fee.

Byrne, Q.C., Kenyon Parker, and Fawcus, contra.

CHITTY, J., said, that if the estates had been legal, the children would have taken life estates only. Some of the older writers (e.g. 1 Cruise, 348, and Hayes, 91) seemed to have been of opinion that equity regarded the intention, and did not follow the law in cases like the present; but modern text-writers (e.g. Lewin on Trusts, 9th ed. 114, and Elphinstone on Interpretation of Deeds, p. 276, r. 104) seemed to have come round in their opinions; and there was the case of Meyler v. Meyler (11 L. R. Ir. 522), which followed the more modern opinions. While admitting that he was not bound by the Irish authority, his Lordship considered that the reasoning of the Irish Vice-Chancellor was correct: for these reasons he held that the children took a life interest only under the settlement.

Mortmain—Pure Personality—Corporation Stock—Charge on Rent.

This was an originating summons to determine among other questions whether certain Leeds Corporation Debenture Stock, part of the residue of Hannah Pickard, who died before the coming into operation of the Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1891, was pure or impure personal estate. Hannah Pickard bequeathed her residue for charitable purposes. The debenture stock in question was authorized by an Act of Parliament passed in the year 1877. The Act provided that the stock should be a "charge upon the borough fund, borough rate, the waterworks and gasworks undertakings, and the improvement rates, and the revenues of all landed and other property vested in or belonging to the corporation respectively derived therefrom, and any other revenue which may be acquired by them, but such shall be distributable, transmissible and transferable as and in other respects have the incidents of personal estate."

The certificates of the stock were indorsed with conditions of issue, one of which stated the security for the stock and the payment of interest thereon to be the borough fund, borough rate, and the undertakings and revenues above mentioned, following the words of charge contained in the Act.

— NORTH, J., held that holders of Leeds Corporation Stock had a remedy to enforce their charge only by the appointment of a receiver; that such receiver could take the revenues of the corporation (including rent as it became due) before they went into the borough fund, but could not anticipate rent; and that as arrears of rent were pure personalty the stock could be bequeathed for charitable purposes.

In this case it had been decided by Wright, J., and the Court of Appeal ([1893] 3 Ch. 9), that the original allottees of certain bonus shares in the company ought to be settled on the list of contributories and treated as liable for the full nominal value of such shares.

This was an application by the liquidator seeking to settle the executors of Mr. Browning, a deceased transferee for value of some of such bonus shares, upon the list of contributories. It was contended on behalf of the respondents, the executors, that Mr. Browning had purchased the shares for value without notice and upon the faith of representations contained in the certificates, and that, in accordance with the decision in Burkinshaw v. Nicolls (3 App. Cas. 1016), the company and the liquidator were estopped from denying that the shares were fully paid up. In the original certificates, which on the completion of the transfers were handed to Mr. Browning, the shares were described as fully paid up; but each such certificate had the word "bonus" conspicuously written across it. Mr. Browning had become a director subsequently to the issue of the bonus shares, and had attended meetings at which resolutions were passed relating to the allotment of such shares.

Hastings, Q.C., and Younger, for the liquidator.

Buckley, Q.C., and Eve, for the respondents.

STERLING, J., adopted the definition of "bonus" given in the 'New English Dictionary,' viz: "a boon or gift over and above what is nominally due as remuneration to the receiver, and which is, therefore, something wholly to the good," and held that the occurrence of the word in a share certificate would lead any prudent man of business to inquire what was meant.

If the shares had been really issued in satisfaction of a debt or other liability, as the agreement which had been registered in respect of them purported to shew, then the word "bonus" was utterly inappropriate to them. Mr. Browning must upon the evidence be taken to have known the circumstances under which the shares were issued, and the case of Burkinshaw v. Nicolls did not apply; consequently, his representatives must be fixed on the list of contributories.

Trade-Mark — Registration — Distinctive Label — Essential Particulars — Disclaimer of Added Matter — "Own Name" — Patents, &c., Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 50), s. 10.

Appeal from a decision of the Comptroller-General of Trade-Marks referred to the Court by the Board of Trade.

The applicants were mustard manufacturers, trading under the firm name of J. & J. Colman, the firm consisting of five individuals all bearing the name of Colman. For many years past they had used the name Colman upon all their labels and trade-marks.

In January, 1893, they applied to register as a trade-mark a label which they had for some time previously used upon tins of mustard. The label consisted of a representation of the American flag and a bull's head, coupled with the words "Bull's Head" and the words "Colman's Mustard."

The question for the decision of the Court was whether the applicants were entitled to have registration of the label as a trade-mark, without disclaiming the exclusive right to the use of the word "Colman's." They were willing to disclaim the word "mustard," but contended that under sect. 64, sub-sect. 3, of the Patents, &c., Act, 1883, as amended by sect. 10 of the Patents, &c., Act, 1888, they were not bound to disclaim the right to the exclusive use of the word "Colman's," that being their own name.

Sir R. Webster, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Sebastian, for the appellants.

Sir J. Rigby, S.G., and Ingle Joyce, for the comptroller, relied upon Pirie v. Goodall (9 Rep. Pat. Cas. 20).

STERLING, J., declined to extend that decision to the present case. It merely dealt with the question of a name "printed impressed or woven in some particular and distinctive manner." In his Lordship's view, a person named John Smith might register a mark with the words "Smith's Mustard," and was not bound to disclaim the word "Smith's"; so, in the case of a firm, in order to escape the necessity of disclaiming the right to the exclusive use of the firm's own name, it was not necessary to put the whole of the firm's name on the mark; nor, treating the applicants here as a group of individuals, were they obliged to put upon the mark the whole name of every one of them. The comptroller's decision must be varied accordingly.

In re VENN AND FURZE'S CONTRACT.

Vendor and Purchaser—Title—Leaseholds—Sale of by Executor—Implied Power of Sale—Presumption.

By a contract dated the 6th of April, 1893, for the sale of certain leasehold property, it was provided (clause 1) that the title should commence with a lease dated the 29th of September, 1863, made between Sir L. V. Palk of the one part, and Taylor of the other part, for the unexpired residue of the term of years thereby granted. Clause 5 of the contract was as follows: "The aforesaid indenture of lease was granted in consideration (inter alia) of a surrendered term; the purchasers shall assume that all necessary parties concurred in surrendering the previous term . . . and shall not require an abstract or production of such surrender, nor evidence thereof, nor of any earlier title to the said indenture of lease, nor make any objection or requisition in connection therewith."

The abstract shewed that Taylor was described in the lease as executor of W. Peeke, deceased, and that the lease was granted in consideration of (inter alia) "the surrender of the term and interest of the said lessee as such executor in the hereditaments." It also appeared upon the abstract that, by an indenture dated the 7th of May, 1878, Taylor assigned the property to Venn by way of sale. By that deed Taylor entered into the covenants for title usually entered into by a beneficial owner, and no mention was made of his being an executor. The vendor derived his title from Venn, who was dead.

The purchasers in their requisitions required an abstract of the will of Peeke, and proof that Taylor had power to sell and convey to Venn. The vendor declined to furnish any further abstract, relying on clause 5; and the purchasers took out this summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, asking for a declaration that they were not precluded by clause 5 or otherwise from making the above requisition; or, in the alternative, for a declaration that a good title had not been shewn in accordance with the contract.

Carson, for the vendor.

The purchasers' objection in substance was, that inasmuch as twenty-six years had elapsed between the grant of the lease to Taylor and the sale by him to Venn, and nothing was known as to the date on which the testator died, it must be taken that, prima facie, Taylor's power to sell as executor was gone; and no other title was shewn. They relied on the rule in Tunqueray-Williams and Landau (20 Ch. D. 465), that where executors in whom real estate is vested in fee subject to a charge of debts are selling, and twenty years have elapsed since the death of the testator, a purchaser is entitled to inquire whether debts remain unpaid.

STIRLING, J., held, following the decision in In re Whistler (35 Ch. D. 561), that the rule in question was not applicable to the case of an executor selling leaseholds. The duties of an executor in connection with his testator's personal estate were not confined to payment of debts. In this case Taylor must be presumed to have acted in discharge of his duties as executor, unless there was something in the transaction to shew the contrary; and neither the circumstance that the conveyance of the 7th of May, 1878, did not purport to be executed by him as executor, nor the lapse of time, were sufficient to raise the presumption that he was acting otherwise. The abstract, therefore, shewed a good title in accordance with the contract, and the purchasers were not entitled to insist upon their requisition.

Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3), ss. 7, 8—Creation or Declaration of Trust of Lands—Assignment of Leaseholds by Wife to Husband for Limited Purpose—Intention to re-assign—Admission of Parol Evidence.

This was a creditor's action for administration of the estate of the late Duke of Marlborough.

By the judgment pronounced on the 10th of February, 1893, the following inquiry, inter alia, was ordered to be made, viz: (5) "An inquiry whether the leasehold house known as 8, Carlton House Terrace, in the county of Middlesex, belongs to the defendant, the Duchess of Marlborough, absolutely, or forms part of the testator's outstanding personal estate." Evidence was gone into in Chambers upon this inquiry, and the matter was adjourned into Court.

The facts relating to the house were as follows: The Duke and Duchess were married in New York in 1888, and about the same time the house in question was bought at the price of 21,000*l.*, which was paid by the Duchess out of her separate estate, and the lease was assigned to her by a deed dated the 19th of February, 1889.

In 1890 the Duke was desirous of raising money to pay off debts, but found difficulty, and the Duchess in her evidence stated that in the early part of 1890 she consented to allow him to borrow money on the security of the lease; but for certain reasons it was agreed between them that the mortgage should not be taken in her own name. In order to carry this out the lease was assigned by the Duchess to the Duke, who then mortgaged it for 16,000*l.* There was evidence that the Duke intended to re-assign the lease subject to the mortgage to the Duchess, but this was never done. The Duke died on the 9th of November, 1892. The defendants to the action were the Duchess and her solicitor, Mr. Whitehead, who were trustees and executors under the will of the Duke.

The plaintiff contended that the evidence was inadmissible having regard to sects. 7 and 8 of the Statute of Frauds; and the defendants replied that to exclude the evidence would be to permit the statute to be used to cover a fraud.

Buckley, Q.C., and Vernon R. Smith, for the plaintiff.
Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and W. O. Druce, for the present Duke of Marlborough, who was a legatee under the will and had obtained leave to attend the proceedings on the inquiry.

Hastings, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the Duchess of Marlborough; and Beale, Q.C., and Blackwell, for Mr. Whitehead.

STIRLING, J., held, on the evidence, that the house was transferred to the Duke for the limited purpose of enabling him to borrow money, and that, subject to the mortgage, it was intended that the house should continue to belong to the Duchess. If the question related to a sum of Consols transferred for the like purpose his Lordship would be of opinion that the equity of redemption belonged to the Duchess. Upon the point of the statute he held, following the decision in Hatgh v. Kaye (Law Rep. 7 Ch. 469), that if the late Duke had in his lifetime refused to convey the equity of redemption at the request of the Duchess, he could not have set up the statute. The plaintiff as claiming under him was in no better position, and the inquiry must be answered by finding that the equity of redemption in the house belonged to the Duchess.

A testator, by his will, appointed his wife and nephew executors and trustees thereof, and after directing payment by his executors of his debts and funeral and testamentary expenses, and making certain specific bequests, devised and bequeathed all his residuary estate to his executors upon trust for his wife for life, and after her decease to pay certain legacies and an annuity, and subject thereto, in trust for the nephew absolutely. The testator's debts and funeral and testamentary expenses were paid. The nephew subsequently applied to a reversionary company for a loan on mortgage of his reversionary interest. The company declined to make the loan unless new trustees of the will were appointed, and after some negotiation a deed was executed whereby the widow retired from the trust, and she and the nephew, under sect. 81 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, appointed two independent persons to be trustees of the will in her place. The nephew afterwards died, and this action was brought by the widow and other beneficiaries (not including the representatives of the nephew) against the trustees and the company seeking (inter alia) to have the appointment of new trustees set aside, and fit and proper persons appointed to perform the duties of executors of the will, and subject thereto, to be trustees thereof.

Warmington, Q.C., and T. Ribton, for the plaintiffs, referred to In re Moore (21 Ch. D. 778) as an authority to shew that trustees could not be appointed under the powers of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, to perform the duties of executors, but that such an appointment could be made by the Court by reason of the definition contained in sect. 2 of the Trustee Act, 1850 (see now sect. 50 of the Trustee Act, 1893). Reference was also made to Seton on Judgments, 1078, and Lewin on Trusts, 9th ed. 1148.

E. Beaumont, for the company.

KEKEWICH, J., said that he was unaware of any precedent for an order appointing persons to perform the duties of executors of a will, and such an order seemed to him inconsistent with all the practices of the Court as to the appointment of trustees. An executor, as legal personal representative, had certain duties to perform which could not be taken out of his hands. But when the estate was cleared by payment of debts and funeral and testamentary expenses, the Court, either under its general jurisdiction, or under the jurisdiction conferred by the Trustee Acts, had been in the habit of appointing trustees. The language of Kay, J., in In re Moore, had (as his Lordship thought) been misapprehended, and that learned judge must be taken to have meant no more than that the definition in sect. 2 of the Trustee Act, 1850, enabled him to make the order in the particular case before him, where there was no existing trustee. The trust property remained in the executor, and it must be taken that there had been a passage from the office of executor to that of trustee. Cotton, L.J., in In re Willey (Weekly Notes, 1890, p. 1; 84 Sol. J. p. 180), was reported to have intimated that In re Moore had gone too far, and that the Act did not authorize the appointment of a trustee to discharge duties which belonged, not to the office of a trustee, but only to that of an executor. His Lordship respectfully agreed with what was said by Cotton, L.J., but thought that possibly, if he had further examined the decision of Kay, J., he might have thought that there was some misapprehension of his meaning, and that the learned judge had really not gone too far, though his judgment was not expressed clearly. If the case of In re Moore were not in the LAW REPORTS it would scarcely deserve notice. In the present case, as the estate was clear, his Lordship thought that on the retirement of the widow there was power to appoint new trustees of the will, and that the deed of appointment was good. Judgment was then given allowing the trustees their costs as between solicitor and client out of the trust estate, and giving the reversionary company liberty to add their costs to their security without prejudice to any objection on the part of the representatives of the deceased nephew.

In re WEST LONDON AND GENERAL PERMANENT BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.

Building Society—Unincorporated Society—Winding-up—Insolvency—Ordinary Creditors and Depositors—Liability of Advanced and Unadvanced Members.

By the rules of a building society, registered under the Act of 1896, its affairs were to be managed by directors and paid agents and officers. Every member was to pay an entrance fee, and an annual sum for postage, &c., and was liable to fines in certain events. He was also entitled to receive at once, as an "advanced member," a 50l. share on undertaking to pay for it by monthly contributions and giving security for the payments by mortgage of property; or he might, by making monthly payments, as an investing or "unadvanced member," acquire that sum at a future date, fixed by tables in relation to the amounts of his payments. Only the unadvanced members shared profits; and there was no provision for making advanced members liable to contribute to losses. By rule 21, advanced members could redeem their mortgages "on payment of the total amount due to the society for principal, interest, fines, and other payments." The trustees, directors, and officers were to be indemnified out of the society's funds and property against all losses, costs, charges, damages or expenses. By rule 17, the trustees might from time to time, as might be necessary for the purposes of the society, borrow at interest from any bankers with whom the funds of the society might be deposited, or from any other persons, and for such loans might give their own personal security, and were to be indemnified out of the first funds of the society which should be received; provided that the whole sum to be borrowed under this rule should not at any one time exceed two-thirds of the amount for the time being secured by the mortgages of the society. In the deposit-receipts given to lenders there was no stipulation that the moneys were to be borrowed on security of the society's funds or assets.

Some of the mortgages by advanced members were "for securing the discharge of the" principal sum by the mortgagor, "and such sums as may become payable by him to the said society under or by virtue of these presents or the rules or bye-laws of the said society, or in any other way," and were not redeemable until the principal, and any expenses properly incurred for the mortgagor by the society, and interest and fines, "and all other moneys" then or thereafter due to the society from the mortgagor "in respect of any share or shares in the said society, shall have been duly paid."

Other mortgages merely contained a covenant by the mortgagor to pay his instalments, "subscriptions, fines, and other sums of money payable according to the rules of the said society."

The society having been ordered to be wound up, it was found that it owed about 1200*l.* to ordinary creditors, and about 70,000*l.* to depositors. After realization of all its assets and securities, there was an estimated deficiency of about 6000*l.* (the assets being more than sufficient to pay the ordinary creditors).

The advanced members claimed a right to redeem on payment of the amounts due or to become due in respect of principal, interest, and other matters, according to the society's rules and tables, without any further liability, either directly for the society's debts, or for contribution to losses in aid of the unadvanced members.

The liquidator and the depositors contended that all the members were liable to contribute in respect of all the society's debts, and that the advanced members could not redeem without providing for this liability.

The unadvanced members contended that if they were under any liability as contributories, the advanced members were under the same liability.

Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and Warrington; Buckley, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis; Haldane, Q.C., and Macnaghten, and Eve, for the parties.

WRIGHT, J., said the first question was whether the members, advanced or unadvanced, could be called on to contribute, towards discharge of its ordinary debts, anything beyond such subscriptions or instalments and fines as remained unpaid on their shares and mortgages, according to the society's rules and tables; and, in the absence of express decision, held that, the doctrine of partnership being inapplicable, the doctrine of principal and agent applied where such ordinary debts were properly incurred, and that if the assets (including the unadvanced subscriptions of the unadvanced members and the unadvanced instalments of the advanced members) were insufficient, all persons who were members, whether advanced or unadvanced, when such debts were incurred, would be personally liable, and must be settled on the list of contributories. The second question was, What were the liabilities of members under rule 17, to the depositors? If a rule giving power to borrow had to be construed as giving power to bind the members personally for borrowed money, and not as binding merely the assets of the society, it would be ultra vires, so far as it purported to go beyond binding them individually for the necessary purposes of the society's business. Therefore, the members, advanced or unadvanced, were not personally responsible, in respect of loans from depositors, beyond the amounts payable under the terms of the rules and tables. The third question was whether the advanced members could redeem without providing for the liabilities to the ordinary creditors. The mortgages, per se, did not subject the advanced members to any liability beyond that to which they were subject as members under the rules and tables; but they were bound by the mortgages and rule 21, taken together, as a condition of redemption to satisfy every liability to which they were subject to the society or its liquidator as members, whether by express provision in the rules, or by implication from the fact of membership under rules of this kind. To the extent to which the assets were made insufficient by the authorized borrowing, the obligation to pay was not satisfied by reason of the member's own act in authorizing the borrowing. The claims were to be met as follows: (1.) Costs of the winding-up, including costs of all parties on the present applications, as these were test cases (except the costs of one person already sufficiently represented). (2.) The ordinary creditors and depositors to be paid pari passu out of the remaining assets. (3.) Any deficiency due to ordinary creditors to be made up by contributions from all members advanced or unadvanced. (4.) Advanced members not to make any further contributions to the losses of the unadvanced members, but to be entitled to redeem on payment according to the rules and tables, and of their proportion under head 3.

On the hearing of a creditor's petition for winding-up, it was alleged on behalf of the company that a receiver had been appointed in a debenture-holders' action, that the security of the debenture-holders was insufficient, and that there would be no assets to meet the petitioner's debt. It was stated that funds to meet this debt might be provided by the debenture-holders.

George White, for creditors opposing the petition.

WRIGHT, J., said that the Registrar's Office objected to the practice of making winding-up orders which were not to be drawn up until a future date. No order would be made at present; but the petition must stand over for a fortnight, the company undertaking to inform the receiver that the Court was of opinion that he ought not to do anything to alter the position of the parties before the expiration of that period. The petition must be placed in the paper again on the 28th of February, and if it was then mentioned, a winding-up order would be made, unless the claim of the petitioner had been satisfied in the meantime. If the petition was not then mentioned, the winding-up order would not be made.

One of the above-named companies was being wound up under the supervision of the Court, and the other was being wound up voluntarily. In each case more than a year had elapsed from the commencement of the winding-up, and undistributed assets had remained in the hands of the liquidators for more than six months after the receipt of them. The question arose, whether under sect. 15 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, the Board of Trade could require the liquidators to pay the moneys into the Companies Liquidation Account at the Bank of England, it being contended on behalf of the liquidators that the section only applied in the case of companies being wound up by order of the Court.

Sir C. Russell, A.G., Ingle Joyce, and Reginald Smith, for the Board of Trade.

Boome, and T. Bateman Napier, for the liquidators.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held that sect. 15 applied to voluntary liquidations whether continued under the supervision of the Court or not. There was nothing in the words of the section to limit its operation to companies in course of winding up "by order of the Court," though in many other sections the operation of the Act of 1890 was so limited.

Licensing Acts—Offences—Permitting Drunkenness on Premises—Ignorance of Licensed Person—35 & 36 Vict. c. 94, s. 18.

Case stated by justices.

The respondent, a licensed person, was charged under sect. 18 of the Licensing Act, 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 94), with permitting drunkenness on his licensed premises. The evidence satisfied the justices that the person found on the premises, and who was alleged to have been drunk, was in fact drunk, but that the respondent did not know that she was drunk, and dismissed the information.

Special case stated by justices raising the question whether a coal mine was "land" within the meaning of sect. 33 of the Lighting and Watching Act, 1833 (3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 90), or came within the words "houses, buildings, and property (other than land) rateable to the relief of the poor," in the same section, in which latter case the section provides that the owners and occupiers shall be rated at and pay a rate in the pound three times greater than that which the owners and occupiers of land shall be rated at and pay for the purposes of that Act. The portions of the mine which were in the respondents' parish consisted of deep underground workings, and there were no shafts in the parish, but the coal worked was conveyed by underground rails, and was brought to the surface by shafts situate outside the parish. The appellants had no houses or buildings in the parish.

Poland, Q.C., and W. Graham, for the appellants.

Castle, Q.C., and William Mackenzie, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Mathew and Collins, JJ.) held that, as the Poor Relief Act, 1601 (43 Eliz. c. 2), s. 1, expressly imposes the liability to poor-rates on "lands, houses, tithes impropriate, appropriations of tithes, coal-mines, or saleable underwoods," the specific mention of coal mines in the above enumeration excluded coal mines from the term "lands," and therefore they were "property (other than land) rateable to the relief of the poor," and the rate was payable on the higher scale.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. D. PRYOR v. PETRE. Feb. 22.
Highway—Conveyance of adjoining Land—Presumption as to Ownership of Soil ad medium filum vis—Circumstances rebutting Presumption.

This was an appeal from a decision of Romer, J. (Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 183).

In a conveyance made in 1890 from the defendant to the plaintiff, a wood called King Wood, which abutted on a highway known as Coldhall Lane, was described by its acreage and by reference to a map, which did not include any part of the lane. The property was also described in a schedule by reference to the numbers in the ordnance map, in which the wood and the lane were marked with different numbers.

By the recitals in the deed it was stated that part of the contract for sale was that the trees on the land sold should be paid for as part of the consideration at a valuation; and that valuation had been made and the amount paid by the plaintiff. The lane was very little used as a highway, but was a grassy lane with trees and underwood on the side adjoining King Wood, in which game lay and nested. None of the trees in the lane were included in the valuation. Under these circumstances, Romer, J., held that the presumption of law that a conveyance of land passed the right to the soil of an adjoining highway ad medium filum vis was rebutted, and dismissed the plaintiff's action. The plaintiff appealed,

Neville, Q.C., and Begg, for the appellant.

Miller, Q.C., Hopkinson, Q.C., and Ribton, for the respondent, were not called on.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that in Berridge v. Ward (10 C. B. (N.S.) 400) it was decided that where a piece of land which adjoined a highway was conveyed, the presumption of law was that the soil of the highway ad medium filum vis passed by the conveyance, even though reference was made to a plan the measurement and colouring of which would exclude it; but here there were additional circumstances which in his opinion were sufficient to rebut that presumption. In the first place, in the ordnance map which was referred to in the deed, the wood and the highway were numbered separately. In the second place, the valuation of the timber, as was shewn by the evidence, did not include the trees on the highway. The effect of these circumstances, added to the fact that it was not included in the acreage or in the map of the land sold, were sufficient to rebut the presumption. The appeal therefore failed, and must be dismissed.

FROM Q. B. D. Feb. 23
 ALLINSON v. GENERAL COUNCIL OF MEDICAL EDUCATION AND REGISTRATION.

Medical Register—Erasure of Name—Jurisdiction of Medical Council—"Infamous Conduct in a professional respect"—Judicial Inquiry—Domestic Forum—Personal Interest of Member of Tribunal—Medical Act, 1858 (21 & 22 Vict. c. 90), s. 29.

Appeal by the plaintiff against the refusal of Collins, J., at the trial of the action, to grant an injunction to restrain the defendants from allowing the plaintiff's name to remain struck out from the Medical Register kept by them under the provisions of the Medical Act, 1858.

The defendants, at a meeting on the 28th of May, 1892, considered a charge made against the plaintiff by a society, called the Medical Defence Union, and, after hearing the plaintiff, resolved that he had been guilty of "infamous conduct in a professional respect," and directed the registrar to erase his name from the register. The offence proved was, that the plaintiff had systematically published advertisements in newspapers, with his name and address, in which he had cast reflections upon medical men generally, and the methods of treatment pursued by them, and had recommended their patients to throw away the drugs prescribed for them, as being injurious. The advertisements also recommended the public to consult the plaintiff, and stated the amount of the fee which he charged. One of the members of the defendant council present at the meeting on the 28th of May was Dr. Philipson. He was appointed a member on the 3rd of May, 1892. He had been a member of the Medical Defence Union and one of its vice-presidents, and as such was an ex-officio member of the committee in which the management of its affairs was vested. He had, however, never attended any meeting of the committee, and immediately on his appointment to be a member of the defendant council he sent in his resignation of his membership of the Defence Union; but, by the rules of that body, he did not cease to be a member until the expiration of two calendar months from the date of the notice of resignation. Dr. Philipson had taken no part in formulating the charge against the plaintiff, and did not know of it until after he had become a member of the defendant council. The plaintiff alleged that Dr. Philipson, by reason of his connection with the Defence Union, had acted as prosecutor and judge in regard to the charge made against the plaintiff, and that the resolution of the defendant council was therefore void. The plaintiff also alleged that there was no evidence upon which the defendants could reasonably find that he had been guilty of infamous conduct in a professional respect. Collins, J., decided both points in favour of the defendants, and refused to grant the injunction which the plaintiff claimed. The plaintiff appealed.

The Hon. B. Coleridge, Q.C., and Schultess-Young, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., and Lopes and Davey, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD ESHER, M.B., said that, having regard to the decision of this Court in Leeson v. General Council of Medical Education and Registration (43 Ch. D. 366), a person who was acting in a judicial character must stand in such a relation to the matter of the inquiry that he could not reasonably be suspected of any bias. In his Lordship's opinion, Dr. Philipson could not reasonably be suspected of any bias. His Lordship was also of opinion that there was evidence on which the defendants could reasonably find that the plaintiff had been guilty of "infamous conduct in a professional respect." That being so, the decision of the defendants could not be reviewed by the Court.

LOPES and DAVEY, L.JJ., concurred.

THE COURT said that "if a medical man in the pursuit of his profession has done something with regard to it which would reasonably be considered as disgraceful or dishonourable by his professional brethren of good repute and competency," this would be "infamous conduct in a professional respect."

GOUGH v. WOOD.

Feb. 27.

Trade Fixtures—Purchase and Hire Agreement—Rights of Mortgagee against the Owner of the Fixtures.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Wright, J.

Edmonds was a nurseryman carrying on his business on land which he held under a lease. The defendants were engine manufacturers, and agreed to supply Edmonds with a boiler and hot-water pipes for his hot-houses, on the hire and purchase system, for 96*l.* 19*s.*, payable by quarterly instalments; and it was agreed that until the payment of the last instalment this hot-water apparatus should remain the property of the defendants, and that in default of payment they should be at liberty to enter and remove the apparatus. The landlord joined in the agreement for the express purpose of giving the defendants the power to enter and remove the apparatus in default of payment, and he agreed not to distrain for rent on the apparatus to the detriment of the defendants. This agreement was not under seal, and therefore did not amount to a grant of an easement. A few days after the agreement, Edmonds mortgaged his land to the plaintiff, who had no notice of the agreement. Shortly after the date of the mortgage the defendants, who had no notice of the mortgage, set up the hot-water apparatus, the boiler being fixed in the brickwork and the pipes cemented into a wall. Edmonds made default in paying the instalments, and the defendants entered and removed the hot-water apparatus. Edmonds was still in possession as mortgagor. The plaintiff then brought an action against the defendants for wrongfully taking away part of the property mortgaged to him. The action was tried before Wright, J., who gave judgment for the defendants, and the plaintiff appealed from his decision.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the plaintiff's contention was that he was not a party to the agreement between Edmonds and the defendant, and was not bound by it either in law or in equity, and that the apparatus, when affixed to his property, ceased to be a chattel and became part of the soil, and could not be removed without his consent. He relied on cases which shewed that trade fixtures put up by a mortgagor could not be recovered by him as against his mortgagee, and that the defendants were in no better position than the mortgagor, Edmonds, himself would have been. None of those decisions, however, covered the present case. The Court had to consider, not the right of the mortgagor to remove property of his own which he had fixed but the right of a third party to unfix and carry away a chattel of his own which he had fixed at the request of the mortgagor in possession, and for the purpose of enabling him to carry on his trade—a chattel, moreover, which had been fixed upon the terms that the owner might remove it if not paid for, and which had been removed while the mortgagor was still in possession. After reviewing numerous authorities relating to the old maxim, Quicquid plantatur solo, solo cedit, some of which were difficult to reconcile, his Lordship said, that in his opinion the present case was governed by two decisions relating to trade fixtures put up by mortgagors in possession. The first was Sanders v. Davis (15 Q. B. D. 218), in which it was held that a tenant of a mortgagor in possession might remove trade fixtures put up by himself, and that those fixtures did not belong to the mortgagee. The other case was Cumberland Union Banking Company v. Maryport Hematite Iron and Steel Company ([1892] 1 Ch. 415), which was very similar to the present in all material respects. There North, J., decided against the mortgagees on the ground that they could have no better title to the fixtures than their mortgagor. In his opinion, that case was rightly decided having regard to the fact that the mortgagor was still in possession, which was the case here also. By leaving him in possession, the mortgagee impliedly authorized him to carry on his business, and to hire and bring in such fixtures as were necessary for his trade, and to agree with the owners as to their removal. On the whole, he was of opinion that the judgment appealed from was right, and the appeal must be dismissed.

KAY, L.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Petition by the Midland Railway Company for payment out of Court to them of five sums, deposited by way of security under sect. 85 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845.

Three of the sums were deposited in 1848 by the North-Western Railway Company, whose undertaking was, in 1870, conveyed to the Midland Company under statutory powers.

The other two sums were deposited in 1873 by the Midland Railway Company.

In each case the compensation or purchase-money payable to the landowner, for whose security the deposit had been made, had been either agreed or ascertained by a jury and paid. In four cases the conveyances to the companies (with indorsed receipts) were exhibited to an affidavit. In the fifth case the landowner's receipt was exhibited.

DAVIS v. CORPORATION OF LEICESTER.

Feb. 27.

Restrictive Covenant—Building Scheme—Municipal Corporation—Alienation of Corporate Property—Consent of Treasury or Local Government Board—Municipal Corporations Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 50), ss. 108, 109—Local Government Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 41), s. 72.

Motion by the plaintiff for an injunction to restrain the defendant corporation, and the other defendants, who were the trustees of a Presbyterian church, from erecting, or permitting to be erected, on land sold by the corporation to the trustees, any church or building other than a dwelling-house or houses, and the domestic offices required for the same.

In March, 1888, the corporation offered some building land belonging to them for sale by auction in lots, subject to conditions, one of which provided that the purchaser of each lot should erect thereon a dwelling-house or houses within two years after he entered into possession, and should not erect any building thereon other than such house or houses, and the domestic offices required for the same. None of the lots were sold at the auction; but in June, 1888, the plaintiff agreed with the corporation to purchase lots 31 and 32, subject to the conditions. The consent of the Treasury to the sale (required by sects. 108, 109 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882) was obtained, the statutory notices having been given, and the lots were conveyed to the plaintiff, two of the Lords of the Treasury being parties to the conveyance, which contained a covenant by the plaintiff to observe and perform the conditions; but there was no covenant by the corporation to be bound by the conditions as regarded the unsold lots. When the consent of the Treasury was obtained, they were not informed that there was a building scheme relating to the land purchased by the plaintiff and other land of the corporation, the effect of which would be to give the plaintiff rights in relation to that other land. In 1893 the corporation agreed to sell lots 18 and 19 to the defendant trustees, for the purpose of their building a church upon it. The Local Government Board (which, by sect. 72 of the Local Government Act, 1888, had been substituted for the Treasury) consented to this sale. The plaintiff by this action claimed an injunction as above stated.

S. Hall, Q.C., and Dunham, for the plaintiff.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and F. Thompson, for the corporation.

Everitt, Q.C., and MacSwinney, for the trustees.

NORTH, J., refused to grant an injunction. He said that, if the corporation had been a private individual, the plaintiff would clearly have been entitled to the injunction which he claimed, on the ground that the corporation could not violate the provisions of the building scheme subject to which he had purchased, the other defendants having purchased with notice of that scheme. But his Lordship said that the Treasury were never informed that the corporation had embarked upon any such building scheme, and had never sanctioned the disposition by the corporation in favour of the plaintiff of any other lands than those actually conveyed to him, or of any right or interest in other lands. The Treasury, when asked to sanction a sale of corporation land, was not in a position to express approval when kept in ignorance of the fact that the conveyance not only disposed of the land sold, but also disposed of and conferred rights over other lands of the corporation. The Treasury had given their approval to all that could be found within the four corners of the conveyance to the plaintiff; but nothing to be found in that conveyance gave him any right of action against the defendants. He claimed larger rights outside the conveyance, but those rights depended upon a disposition of corporate property which had not been approved by the Treasury, and the absence of that approval was a fatal defect.

By a private Act of 1825 the Duffryn, &c., Railway Company were authorized to make a "railway or tram-road," and to take lands for that purpose; but by sect. 25 all mines were to be deemed to be excepted out of any conveyance, and might be worked by the owners, though in such a manner as not to injure the company's works. The provisions of the Act appeared to contemplate a tram-road for running trams, drawn either by horse-power, or a stationary engine. In 1830, certain surface lands were conveyed to the Duffryn Company; subsequently, by amalgamation Acts, the undertaking of that company became vested in the Llynvi Valley Railway Company, and by the Llynvi Valley Railway Act, 1855, the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, and the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, were incorporated with that Act; and, there being only a horse tram-road in existence, provisions were made for repealing the previous Acts, and altering the line so as to be suitable in curves and gradients for locomotive engines and carriages; and it was thereby provided that everything done before the passing of the Act under the repealed Acts should be as valid as if they were not repealed, and that the Act should be without prejudice to everything so done, and to all rights consequent on everything so done. In 1866, the Llynvi Company became the Llynvi and Ogmores Railway Company, and a broad-gauge line of railway was laid down; and by an Act of 1883 that company was amalgamated with the plaintiffs, the Great Western Railway Company.

The defendants were the lessees of the coal and other mines under the surface lands conveyed in 1830, and, in working the mines, had, it was said, caused subsidences on and near the railway; but they insisted on their right to continue such working unless the mines were bought by the plaintiffs under the provisions of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845. The plaintiffs, however, contended that their rights to subjacent and adjacent support were preserved by the Act of 1825. On the other hand, the defendants contended that the Act of 1825 was no longer applicable to the altered character of the plaintiffs' undertaking; that by the Act of 1855, the plaintiffs, or their predecessors, made a "new start," and took up an entirely new position, that of a railway company proper, running heavy trains calculated to cause subsidences, and were therefore subject to the provisions of the Railways Clauses Act, requiring them, if they wanted subjacent and adjacent support, to purchase the mines under their surface lands.

This was an action by the plaintiffs for an injunction to restrain the defendants from working their mines in such a way as to injure the plaintiffs' line of railway by taking away the necessary support, and for damages.

Cripps, Q.C., and Butcher, for the plaintiffs.

Warmington, Q.C., and Carson, for the defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., found that the subsidences were caused by the defendants' works, and, adopting Lord Cranworth's view in Caledonian Railway Company v. Sprott (2 Macq. 462), also found, on the evidence, that the subsidences had been very little accelerated by the working of the railway. His Lordship also held that the defendants' predecessors had made their bargain in 1830 under the Act of 1825, and that there was no reason for saying that, because the railway was used in a somewhat different manner, the rights then reserved to the plaintiffs' predecessors were gone. The plaintiffs were certainly governed by the Railways Clauses Act from the date of their Act of 1855, so far as the general Act was applicable to any particular case; but the Act of 1855 had, neither by express words nor by implication, altered the express contract entered into in 1830 under the Act of 1825, the rights under which Act were expressly reserved by the Act of 1855. There must accordingly be an injunction and an inquiry as to damages.

ing-up Rules of March, 1893, r. 2—Companies Winding-up Rules (April), 1892, rr. 20, 21.

A creditor who had petitioned for a winding-up order was personally willing to withdraw his petition. His solicitors had received notice from another creditor of his intention to appear and support the petition, and they also represented one Davis, another person claiming to be a creditor; but no notice under rule 20 of April, 1892, had been given of Davis's intention to appear. The solicitors had, however, at the foot of the list of appearances required by rule 21 of April, 1892, written a statement that Davis also intended to appear and support the petition.

Frank Evans, asked that Davis might be substituted as petitioner in the place of the original petitioner, under rule 2 of March, 1893.

George Cave, for the creditor who had given notice, said that such creditor ought to be substituted as petitioner instead of Davis, who had not given the notice required by the rule.

Frank Evans, contended that as the same solicitors represented both the original petitioner and Davis, it was unnecessary for the solicitors to give themselves notice of Davis's intention to appear.

Macnaghten, for the company, said that Davis's debt was disputed, but that the debt of the other creditor was not, and asked that the latter might be substituted as petitioner.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., ordered that Davis should be substituted as petitioner. A winding-up order might be made at once, without any adjournment; but as the debt of the substituted creditor was disputed, he had better make an affidavit in support of it, and the petition must stand over for a week.

Bill of Sale—Operation—Payment by Instalments—Power of Seizure—Default in Payment of one Instalment—Right to seize whole of Property.

Appeal from the decision of the judge of the County Court at Derby refusing to order that the proceeds of the sale of certain goods comprised in a bill of sale should be paid over to the holder of the bill of sale.

On the 4th of March, 1893, the appellant lent the debtor 67*l.*, which, together with interest, was secured by a bill of sale over the goods of the debtor, and was payable by monthly instalments. There was no express provision entitling the grantee to seize the whole of the goods on default in payment of one instalment. A monthly instalment of 10*l.* being in arrear, on the 17th of April the appellant demanded payment, and on the 19th of April he seized the goods. On the 21st of April a receiving order was made against the debtor. The official receiver claimed the goods, and offered to pay 10*l.* It was arranged that the goods should be sold, and the proceeds should abide the order of the Court.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and W. B. Yates, for the appellant.
The official receiver did not appear.

THE COURT (Vaughan Williams and Wright, JJ.) held that the seizure was rightful, and the appellant in consequence of the default in payment of one instalment was entitled to the whole of the goods, and therefore an order for payment to him of the proceeds of the sale of the goods must be made.

Bankruptcy—Assets—Money paid to Solicitor—Defence on Criminal Charge—Agreement for Payment of a Lump Sum—Right to retain for Services rendered after Knowledge of Act of Bankruptcy.

Appeal by Masters, the trustee in bankruptcy of Charlwood, from an order of the judge of the county court at Tonbridge Wells, dismissing the appellant's application for an order directing repayment by Mr. Cripps, a solicitor, of all money representing work done by him on behalf of the bankrupt after knowledge on his part of an act of bankruptcy committed by the bankrupt.

On the 30th of November, 1892, a coroner's jury found a verdict of wilful murder against Charlwood, in respect of the death of a woman who was alleged to have died in consequence of an illegal operation which it was alleged Charlwood had caused to be performed. Thereupon Charlwood caused some property which he had to be sold, and on the 3rd of December, 1892, an agreement in writing was entered into between Charlwood and Cripps, reciting that Charlwood had already paid 25*l.* to Cripps, and agreed to pay him a further sum of 250*l.* within a week, and in consideration of the total of 275*l.* Cripps undertook to conduct Charlwood's defence on the charge of murder, and to provide for all the necessary expenses. The sum of 250*l.* was accordingly paid to Cripps. On the 20th of December, 1892, Charlwood committed an act of bankruptcy by execution being levied by seizure of his goods, of which Cripps had notice on the following day, and a receiving order was afterwards made. Cripps conducted the defence of Charlwood before the magistrates, and at the trial, which resulted in a conviction for manslaughter.

Dickens, Q.C., C. F. Gill, and Upjohn, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Vaughan Williams and Wright, JJ.) held that the agreement of the 3rd of December, 1892, was valid and binding, and that Mr. Cripps, the solicitor, was entitled, as against the trustee in bankruptcy, to retain the sum of 275*l.*, which he had received under that agreement.

This was an appeal by the vestry from the decision of a Divisional Court, and its object was to obtain a review of the decision in Summers v. Holborn District Board of Works ([1893] 1 Q. B. 612), that sect. 65 of Michael Angelo Taylor's Act is repealed by the other Acts above mentioned.

Avory, for the appeal.

W. M. Thompson, for the plaintiff.

H. Courthope-Munroe, watched the case for the Holborn Board of Works.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) held that sect. 65 of Michael Angelo Taylor's Act was not repealed. LINDLEY and A. L. SMITH, L.JJ., however (dissentiente KAY, L.J.), held that under the Act of 1867 costermongers, so long as they conformed to the police regulations, were at liberty to carry on their business, and could not be interfered with under Michael Angelo Taylor's Act; but that if they violated those regulations, they could be proceeded against under that Act, or the Act of 1867. KAY, L.J., was of opinion that the clause relied on in the Act of 1867 only relieved costermongers from the prohibition of that statute whi'e they conformed to the police regulations, and did not affect the operation of sect. 65 of Michael Angelo Taylor's Act.

MOUNSEY v. BUSTON.

Settlement—Construction—Power of appointing Income.

This was an originating summons, to determine, among other questions, the scope of a power of appointment over personal estate contained in a settlement made in 1863 in contemplation of the marriage between Benedict Luys L'Herminier and Elizabeth Mounsey.

By the settlement in question the trustees of personal estate were directed, after the death of Mrs. L'Herminier, "to stand possessed of the dividends interest and income of the said trust funds in trust for such person or persons as the said Elizabeth Mounsey shall by her last will and testament in writing, or any codicil thereto, direct limit or appoint, and subject to such appointment (if any) of the said dividends interest and income" to "stand possessed of the said trust premises and the dividends interest and income thereof on trust for such person or persons as under the statutes of distribution would have become entitled thereto at the death of the said Elizabeth Mounsey had she died possessed thereof intestate and without having been married, and if more than one as tenants in common." Mrs. L'Herminier died in 1877, having by will appointed the trust funds on trust to pay the income to her husband for life, and to hold the property after his death as therein directed, so as to exhaust the whole interest in the funds. Mr. L'Herminier was now dead.

One question raised on the summons was whether Mr. L'Herminier had power to appoint the capital of the funds.

Butcher, for some of the next of kin of Mrs. L'Herminier.

GILSON v. GILSON.

Practice—Third Party Notice—“Person not a party to the Action”—Premature Application for Leave—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XVI., r. 48.

Motion by two of the defendants to discharge an order made in Chambers, refusing the application of those defendants by summons for leave to issue a third party notice under rule 48 of Order XVI.

The action was brought by Marianne Gilson, widow, who, under the will of Ann Gilson, was tenant for life of the income of one-third part of the residuary estate of the testatrix. The plaintiff's infant children, who were contingently entitled to the one-third in remainder, were co-plaintiffs, by their mother as their next friend. The defendants were R. A. Gilson and F. Cheswright, who were the executors and trustees of the will of the testatrix, and other persons interested in the residue. The plaintiffs claimed (inter alia) to make the trustees liable for an alleged loss to the estate by reason of an improper investment of a part of the trust funds. E. R. Gilson, the deceased husband of the plaintiff Marianne Gilson, had been the prior tenant for life of the one-third share of the plaintiffs. His executors were, his widow, the defendant R. A. Gilson, and H. D. Roberts, who was not a party to the action. The trustees claimed to be indemnified out of the estate of E. R. Gilson against any liability in respect of the investments in question, on the ground that they were made by him on behalf of the trustees with notice that the moneys so invested were subject to the trusts of the will, and upon his undertaking that the investments were proper ones to be made by the trustees. By their summons the trustees asked for leave to issue a third party notice under rule 48, and to serve it upon the plaintiff Marianne Gilson and H. D. Roberts. No defence had yet been delivered.

H. Terrell, for the motion.

W. M. Conn, for the plaintiffs.

NORTH, J., refused the motion. He said that the application was premature, being made before the delivery of the defence, and also that the case was not within the rule, the plaintiff being already a party to the action, and the application being to serve the notice on two only of the three executors. Moreover, his Lordship was not satisfied by the evidence that the third executor ought to be brought before the Court in this way. In the exercise of his discretion, he did not think it right to allow the notice to be served.

MAYOR, & CO., OF BIRMINGHAM v. FOSTER AND OTHERS.

Statutory Market—Rival Market—Disturbance—Injunction.

The Corporation of Birmingham, under the Birmingham Corporation Consolidated Act, 1883, were empowered to continue and to enjoy the cattle-market theretofore held and exercised by the corporation. The 90th section of the Act imposed a penalty on every person who should sell or expose for sale within the borough of Birmingham, "except in some market or fair lawfully authorized, or in his own dwelling-place, shop, or place of business, or the dwelling-place, shop, or place of business of the buyer or intended buyer, or on any farm or land in his occupation, or in the occupation of the buyer or intended buyer," any animal . . . in respect of which tolls, rents, stallages or charges were by that Act authorized to be taken. The corporation had from time immemorial held a weekly market for pigs and other animals; but in the year 1892 the market, so far as concerned the sale of pigs, was, under the provisions of the above Act of 1883, removed to and held in a suitable place in Montague Street in Birmingham.

The six defendants were the principal pig-dealers in Birmingham, and entered into a deed of partnership under the name of the "Birmingham Pig Salesmen's Association," and opened an establishment in Birmingham for the sale of pigs. The premises consisted of a large covered yard divided into pens, with a glass roof, a caretaker's house, and a room for the use of the public, who were admitted on the premises at all times during business hours. Each defendant rented from the association a certain portion of the pens and premises for the purposes of his business. The corporation alleged that the defendants were infringing their statutory market rights, and brought this action claiming an injunction and damages. The defendants alleged that they came within the above exception in sect. 90 of the Act.

Sir R. Webster, Q.C., Neville, Q.C., and R. J. Parker, for the plaintiffs.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., Haldane, Q.C., and Hugo Young, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., held on the evidence that what the defendants were doing, both collectively and individually, did not come within the exception, but was an infringement of the plaintiffs' statutory market rights, and granted an injunction accordingly.

Romer, J. LOCAL BOARD OF MINEHEAD v. LUTTRELL. Feb. 24.

Drainage of Town—Sewers constructed by Private Individual for his own Profit—Title of Local Authority—Public Health Act, 1875, s. 13.

Prior to the year 1878, the town of Minehead in Somerset had no system of sewerage, and what drainage there was was carried by a brook that ran through the town and emptied itself into the Bristol Channel. The defendant was the owner of nearly all the land on which the town of Minehead was erected, and in the year 1878 he constructed at his own expense a system of sewerage for effectually draining the town, and extended the system of sewerage to new streets as the town from time to time increased. His total outlay was about 5000*l.* and he imposed and received a voluntary sewerage rate from the owners and occupiers of the houses in the town. In 1891, the plaintiffs were constituted the Urban Sanitary Authority of the Local Government District of Minehead, and alleged that by virtue of sect. 13 of the Public Health Act, 1875, the sewers constructed by the defendant were now vested in them, and claimed a declaration to that effect. The defendant alleged that the sewers constructed by him were so constructed for his own profit, and that he came within the exception in sect. 13 of the Act.

Neville, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held that the defendant had constructed the sewers not merely for the purpose of draining his property and looking only to be compensated by the advantage that might accrue from its being properly drained, but he had laid out his money as a speculation, intending to be compensated and paid directly for his expenditure by taking a payment from everybody, whether his tenant or not, who used his sewers. He intended and received direct remuneration for his expenditure by means of the voluntary sewer rate which he levied, and which he could enforce by preventing the use of his sewers by persons if they would not pay. It was undoubtedly a case in which the defendant had laid down the sewers for his own profit within the meaning of the exception in sect. 13 of the Public Health Act, 1875. The action therefore failed, and must be dismissed with costs.

Company—Winding-up—Voluntary Liquidation—Stannaries Court—Jurisdiction—Transfer—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, ss. 1 (sub-ss. 1, 4) 3; 32.

In the voluntary winding-up of a company formed for working mines in Cornwall or elsewhere in England, a contributory applied, under sects. 138 and 141 of the Companies Act, 1862, for the removal of the liquidator. A previous application, by a different contributory in respect of other matters in the winding-up, had been made in the Stannaries Court, and on that application a consent order had been made.

Micklem, for the liquidator, raised a preliminary objection that the application ought to have been made to the Stannaries Court, that being "the Court" referred to in sects. 1 and 92 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890; and that, even if the High Court had jurisdiction to retain the proceedings, the fact of an application having been already made in the Stannaries Court was a reason for the High Court not so retaining them.

*Oswald, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the applicant, contended that, having regard to In re Silver Valley Mines (18 Ch. D. 472), the Stannaries Court had no jurisdiction. Even if it had, the registered office of the company, the liquidator, and all the parties were in London, and the Court ought therefore* to exercise its power, under sect. 8 of the Act of 1890, of retaining the application.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said the law laid down in the case cited had been overruled by sect. 1, sub-sect. 4, of the Act of 1890. The jurisdiction was in the Stannaries Court unless it was shewn that the company was "actually working mines beyond the limits of the Stannaries." As this had not been shewn, the jurisdiction was prima facie in the Stannaries Court; and, having regard to the fact that proceedings had already been taken in that Court, this was not a case in which the power to retain, under sect. 8 of the Act of 1890, ought to be exercised. The present application would, therefore, be transferred to the Stannaries Court.

PUBLIC EXAMINATIONS.

Company—Winding-up—Public Examination—Duty of Official Receiver—Control of Board of Trade—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, s. 8, sub-s. 2.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., made the following statement as to the control of the Board of Trade over the official receivers, with reference to public examinations under sect. 8 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890:—"Some doubt seems to have arisen as to whether the official receivers should receive directions from the Board of Trade as to whether or not they should make reports under sub-sect. 2 of sect. 8 of the Act of 1890, for the purpose of obtaining orders for the examination of persons who have taken part in the promotion or formation of the company, or who have been directors or officers of the company, and also as to whether or not official receivers should receive directions from the Board of Trade as to the time when such reports should be made. I think it right to say that; in my judgment, no such directions should be given or received. It is quite true that sect. 66 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, says that the Board of Trade may appoint such persons as they think fit to be official receivers, and may remove any persons so appointed from such office, and that the official receivers shall act under the general authority and directions of the Board of Trade. But the same section also says that the official receivers shall be officers of the Court to which they are respectively attached; and, in my opinion, the function which official receivers perform when they make a report under sub-sect. 2 of sect. 8, and apply for an order for public examination, is a function which they perform as officers of the Court. It is a quasi judicial function. The report is made on the personal responsibility of the official receiver, and is the basis on which the order for public examination is founded. This being so, the Board of Trade ought not, in my judgment, in any way to interfere with, or give directions to, the official receivers in the performance of this function. The official receiver must, on his own judgment, decide whether the circumstances of the company make it right that a report should be made, and an application for public examination applied for. I do not think it desirable or proper that the official receiver should consult the Board of Trade in the matter. I therefore now direct the official receivers that, in future, they shall act on their own responsibility exclusively in these matters."

EDINBURGH UNITED BREWERIES COMPANY AND OTHERS, APPS.; MOLLERSON AND ANOTHER, RESPS.

On the 11th of November, 1889, A. arranged for the sale of a brewery in Edinburgh to B. The purchase was to take place as from the 15th of November, 1889, at the price of 20,500*l.*, the price to be paid by the 31st of December, at which date a conveyance was to be executed either to B. or to any company to which he might assign his interest. On the 14th of December B. entered into an agreement to sell the brewery to the C. Company; the price to be paid to B. by the C. Company was 28,500*l.* On the 31st of December a conveyance was executed by A. at the instance of B., in implement of the contract of the 11th of November, 1889, to the C. Company, and B. ceased to have any interest in the brewery. A clause of the original agreement between A. and B. provided that "the arrangement proceeds upon the basis that the net profits of the brewery amounted during each of two years, ending the 31st of December, 1888, to 3750*l.*, or thereabouts, upon an average." It further provided, that in the event of its being ascertained that that was not the fact, the arrangement was to be at an end. Also, B. was to be at liberty to have all the books connected with the business examined. All the books were examined by accountants selected by B., and a profit near the amount was reported. More than a year after the conveyance to the C. Company, it was discovered that the books had been improperly dealt with by a clerk in A.'s employment without A.'s knowledge. The clerk had altered some of the items in the books with the view of making the profits appear greater than they really were.

Under these circumstances, the C. Company, with the concurrence of B., raised this action for reduction of the sale; the C. Company offered to hand back the brewery. The ground of their contention was, first, that between A. and B. the amount of the profits was made the basis of the agreement. And, secondly, that all the rights of B. were passed by him to the C. Company.

Sir J. Ligy, S.G., and Asher, Q.O. (with them, T. Shaw* (the two latter of the Scotch Bar)), heard for the appellants.

The Lord Advocats (Balfour, Q.O.), and Ure (of the Scotch Bar), for the respondents, not heard.

THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Ashbourne, Macnaghten, and Morris) affirmed the decision of the First Division of the Court of Session, Scotland (20 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Rettie), 581), that the C. Company and B. had no title to maintain the action, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., was of opinion that the contract did not provide for the insertion in the disposition of any clause making that disposition void if the profits were ascertained to be less than was stated; that the parties contemplated that the time given down to the 31st of December would be sufficient for ascertaining whether the alleged profits had been made. Within that time the arrangement would have come to an end if it had been ascertained that the alleged profit had not been made. But when the disposition was executed the contract ceased to be in fieri and the rights of the parties fell to be ascertained upon the terms of the disposition. That, secondly, even assuming B. was entitled to obtain reduction of the sale, the books not being genuine, he was not entitled in the circumstances, he having parted with the property.

LORD WATSON :—According to the ordinary rule of law, the stipulations of a contract with respect to the terms of a conveyance must, in order to be transmitted, be embodied in the conveyance. B. had no right to sue. He had made a remunerative sale, and had no interest in the subject-matter in dispute—the brewery. It had been transmitted and directly passed by him from the seller to the C. Company, and his title to challenge this transaction with A. came to an end the moment the conveyance was completed. His Lordship entirely differed from the view expressed in the Court of Session, that although the contract between B. and the C. Company might not be reducible, B. might by some arrangement with the C. Company be enabled to bring an action for rescission upon tendering restitution. Though it might be that if that contract had been thrown back upon his hands by the C. Company, and was legally reducible at their instance in a question with him, he might have been remanded to his original position and have been entitled to the remedy which he could have pursued before he parted with the brewery.

Ship—Collision—Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea, 11th of August, 1884, Articles 15, 18, 19, and 21.

The steamships "Thorsa" and "Otto" were approaching each other, generally speaking, on opposite courses in daylight in a narrow channel. In a manoeuvre by the "Thorsa" to pass another vessel, the "Thorsa" and "Otto" became nearly end on. When about a mile apart, the "Thorsa" signalled; she was going to starboard, and at the same time put her helm to port to pass the "Otto" on the port side. This brought her head nearly a point to starboard. The "Otto" heard, but kept a steady course. Two minutes or so afterwards, when the ships were within half a mile, the "Thorsa" repeated the signal, and again ported her helm. The "Otto" immediately afterwards starboarded her helm, bringing her head to port, and went across the bows of the "Thorsa." The "Thorsa" immediately stopped and reversed, but she ran into and sank the "Otto." The owners of the "Otto," while admitting that their vessel had been in fault, alleged fault also against the "Thorsa" in not stopping and reversing at an earlier period.

THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Halsbury, Ashbourne, Macnaghten, and Morris) held, affirming the decision of the Second Division of the Court of Session (20 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Rettie), 876), that no fault was attributable to the "Thorsa," and dismissed the appeal with costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. D.

INGHAM v. RAYNOR.

Will—Construction—"My Niece"—Wife's Grandniece—Legitimacy.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Vice-Chancellor of the Lancaster Palatine Court.

The testator gave the residue of his property in trust to pay the income to "my niece Eliza Waterhouse" during her life. Neither he nor his wife had any niece named Eliza Waterhouse but his wife had two grandnieces of that name, one of whom was legitimate, and the other illegitimate. The illegitimate grandniece, who had married J. Raynor, claimed the benefit of the gift on the ground that she was the person intended by the testator; and the surviving trustee filed an originating petition to obtain the opinion of the Court upon the question. The Vice-Chancellor refused to admit evidence to prove that the illegitimate grandniece was the person intended, and declared the legitimate grandniece to be entitled.

Mrs. Raynor appealed.

Upjohn, for the appellant.

Macnaghten, for the legitimate grandniece.

Mansfield, for the trustee.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that there was no person who accurately answered the description of the testator's "niece Eliza Waterhouse;" but the legitimate grandniece of his wife could take under the gift, and she answered the description more nearly than the illegitimate grandniece. It would therefore be wrong to admit evidence on behalf of the illegitimate grandniece in competition with the legitimate one, who but for her would be unquestionably entitled. There was no latent ambiguity at all in the case, and the Vice-Chancellor was right in refusing to admit the evidence. The appeal must be dismissed.

From Ch. D. HARBIN v. MASTERMAN. March 6.
Will—Construction—Accumulations—Thellusson Act (39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 98)—Charity.

This was an appeal from a decision of Stirling, J. (Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 181).

A testator bequeathed several annuities payable out of his residuary personal estate, and declared that they were to abate rateably if such income should prove insufficient; and he directed the surplus income to be accumulated till the death of the survivor of the annuitants. He gave his residuary personal estate, subject to the payment of the annuities, in trust to divide the same between five public charities, according to the amounts set after the name of each charity. The sum of 100l. only was set after the name of each charity. There was a considerable surplus of income after paying the annuities. The testator died in 1865, and a suit was brought for the administration of his estate. In 1871, the suit came on for further consideration before Wickens, V.-C., who held that the charities were entitled to the whole of the residuary personal estate, and directed the surplus income to be accumulated till further order (see Law Rep. 12 Eq. 559). Two of the annuitants were now dead, and the next of kin presented a petition asking for the payment to them of so much of the surplus income as had been accumulated since the expiration of twenty-one years from the death of the testator, contending that that income was undisposed of under the Thellusson Act. Stirling, J., held, on the authority of Saunders v. Vautier (Cr. & Ph. 240), that the whole fund, principal, interest, and accumulations, belonged to the charities as residuary legatees.

The next of kin appealed.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., Hopkinson, Q.C., Hastings, Q.C., Costelloe, and Ribton, for the appellants.

Haldane, Q.C., Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., Buckley, Q.C., Dickinson Hadley, Fellows, and T. B. Napier, for the respondents.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the Thellusson Act prohibited an accumulation of income beyond twenty-one years, and enacted that the funds accumulated contrary to the provisions of the Act were to go to the persons who would be entitled thereto if the accumulations had not been directed. The question, therefore, in this case was, who would have taken the surpluses if the accumulation had not been directed? If the charities would have taken them, then they were entitled to the accumulations. Again, if the trust for accumulations was invalid apart from the Act, and could be properly disregarded, this direction to accumulate the annual surpluses did not postpone the beneficial enjoyment of them, and the Act had no application to the case. Notwithstanding the general principle that a donee or legatee can only take what is given to him on the terms on which it is given, yet by our law there was a remarkable exception to the general principle. Conditions which were repugnant to the estate to which they were annexed were absolutely void, and might be disregarded. Applying that doctrine to the present case, the charities were not entitled to the capital of the trust estate before the annuities ceased, because the annuitants were interested in the income of that capital. Nor would the charities have been entitled to the annual surpluses if in any event the annuitants could have recourse to them. But inasmuch as the terms of the will precluded any such recourse, and the accumulations were directed to be made for the benefit of the charities only, it followed that each annual surplus as it arose was their absolute property, and the direction to accumulate might properly be disregarded, not only after, but during the period of twenty-one years from the death of the testator. This certainly would be the case if the charities were to be regarded as ordinary individuals. Wickens, V.-C., had some doubt whether they ought to be so regarded; but he thought there was no room for such doubt either in the case of that charity which was a corporation, or of those which were managed by trustees. He was of opinion that all the accumulations, both before and after the expiration of twenty-one years, were the property of the charities. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

KAY, L.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Practice—Writ of Summons—Partnership Firm—Foreign Partnership—“Carrying on business within the jurisdiction”—Order XLVIII., rr. 1, 3, 8.

Appeal from the order of a Divisional Court (Mathew and Collins, J.J.)

The facts were as follows: The action was on a promissory note against a partnership in the firm name. The firm, which consisted of two partners, carried on business in Natal, and one of the partners resided there. They also, however, carried on business in England. An application was made at chambers to set aside the writ on the ground that there was no power under Order XLVIII., r. 1, to issue it against the firm, no leave having been obtained, and one of the partners being resident out of the jurisdiction. The master referred the application to the judge at chambers, who set aside the writ.

On appeal, the Divisional Court reversed his decision.

RANSAY v. MARGRETT.

March 9.

Bill of Sale—Registration—Sale of Goods—Receipt for Purchase-money—Possession—Husband and Wife—Separate Estate of Wife—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, ss. 4, 8.

Appeal by the defendant against the judgment of Wright, J., at the trial of an interpleader issue, in which the plaintiff, a married woman having separate estate, claimed some furniture which had been taken in execution by the defendant, a judgment creditor of her husband. Wright, J., held that the furniture was the property of the plaintiff, and that the defendant could not take it in execution. The furniture had belonged to the husband, and it was in the house in which he and his wife lived together. He was in want of money to pay some pressing creditors, and she agreed verbally to purchase the furniture for 1700*l.*, and she accordingly paid the 1700*l.* to him out of her separate estate. She stipulated that he should give her an ordinary receipt for the purchase-money, and she asked her solicitor to prepare the receipt.

The money was, however, paid before the receipt was given. The receipt, as drawn up by the solicitor and signed by the husband, was an ordinary receipt for the 1700*l.*; but, after an enumeration of the goods purchased, the following words were added: "Which I hereby acknowledge are now absolutely her property." After the sale the furniture remained, just as it had been before, in the house in which the husband and wife lived together, and there it was seized by the defendant under a fi. fa. against the husband. It was contended on behalf of the defendant that the property in the furniture passed to the wife by means of the document which the husband signed, and that, as that document had not been registered as a bill of sale, it was void under sect. 8 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878. Wright, J., held that the property in the goods passed to the plaintiff independently of and antecedently to the receipt, which was intended to be nothing more than an ordinary receipt for money, and that it did not require registration. The defendant appealed.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and A. T. Lawrence, for the defendant, relied upon the non-registration of the receipt, and also upon the fact that there was no change of possession after the purchase.

Douglas Walker, Q.C., and Muir Mackenzie, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Davey, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD ESHER, M.R., said that the learned judge had found on the evidence, and there was no reason to doubt that he had found rightly, that the property in the furniture had passed to the wife by a bargain and sale independently of the receipt, and that she only stipulated for an ordinary receipt for the money, the giving of the receipt not being a condition precedent to the payment of the money, which was paid before the receipt was given. The receipt, not being a document by virtue of which alone the property in the goods passed, was not in fact a bill of sale, and it was not, under sect. 4 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, to be deemed to be a bill of sale, because it was not intended by the parties to be part of the bargain to pass the property in the goods. This was the result of Charlesworth v. Mills ([1892] A. C. 231), and it was sufficient to dispose of the case. But, if it were necessary to consider the question of possession, since the passing of the Married Women's Property Act a husband and a wife stood in the same position as two men formerly did, and if the possession was doubtful, it would follow the title to the goods, and the law would consider the goods to be in the possession of the wife.

LOPES, L.J., agreed as to the passing of the property, but expressed no opinion on the question of possession.

DAVEY, L.J., agreed with the Master of the Rolls on both points.

Bankruptcy—Discovery of Debtor's Property—Private Examination—Application to take Depositions off File—"Proceeding"—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 27—Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 12.

Appeal by the bankrupt against the refusal by Mr. Registrar Giffard of his application that the depositions of certain witnesses which had been taken by the registrar at a private examination, at the instance of the official receiver, under sect. 27 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, might be taken off the file of proceedings in the bankruptcy. The bankrupt had not been allowed to be present at the examination. Upon the report of the official receiver, which was founded in part upon the depositions, the registrar had refused to grant the bankrupt a discharge. The depositions were not filed till after that refusal.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Macaskie, for the bankrupt, argued that the depositions were not a "proceeding" within rule 12, and ought not, therefore, to have been filed; that the bankrupt had not seen the depositions, and had not had an opportunity of answering them; and that, as under rule 12 any creditor who had proved, or any person on his behalf, could inspect the depositions while they were on the file, they might be used to his prejudice in some other proceeding.

Muir Mackenzie, for the official receiver, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Davey, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD ESHER, M.R., said that such an examination was taken for the purpose of obtaining information and enabling the Court of Bankruptcy to come to a conclusion, and ought to be placed on the file. The depositions could not be used to the injury of the bankrupt, and their being on the file would be rather an advantage to him, for, if they were to be used against him, he would be able to inspect them and to answer them, if he was able to do so. At any rate, it was a fundamental rule that everything which had been done in the bankruptcy should be placed on the file.

LOPES and DAVEY, L.JJ., concurred.

Co-Plaintiffs—Taxation—Separate Retainers.

Thirty-four persons gave separate retainers to Salaman to take proceedings to get their names removed from the register of shareholders in a company on the ground of misrepresentations in the prospectus. The arrangement was that they should contribute to the costs in proportion to the number of shares they had taken. After the litigation had ended, some of the thirty-four persons applied to have Salaman's bill taxed. Kekewich, J., made an order for taxation, but directed it not to be drawn up till evidence was produced that the applicants had communicated with all the other of the thirty-four parties, and they were made respondents to the summons, or were shown to desire to take no further part in the matter. The applicants endeavoured to comply with this, but some of the parties could not be found. Kekewich, J., thereupon dismissed the summons. The applicants appealed.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Gatey, for the appeal.

George White, for the solicitor.

THE COURT (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) referred to In re Colquhoun (5 D. M. & G. 35), and said that the strict right of the applicants was to have the bill taxed without serving anybody beside the solicitor; but that Kekewich, J., was quite right in endeavouring to secure a taxation at which all parties were present, so that there could not be any subsequent application to tax by another party. His Lordship, however, was wrong in dismissing the summons when it was found impracticable to communicate with the other parties. The Court therefore made an order for taxation, the applicants submitting to pay what should appear to be due from them respectively.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

North, J. In re JACKSON. March 3.
Practice—Order LV., r. 2 (7)—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 80—Petition for Payment of Income—Costs.

This was a petition for the payment of the income of funds in court representing part of the purchase-money of lands taken by the Manchester Corporation for the purpose of their waterworks undertaking. The land taken had been subject to the settlement created by the will of Wilson Jackson, deceased. An order had previously been made for the payment of the income of the fund in court during the joint lives of Wladimir Bovis Jackson and another. That order had become inoperative by the death of Wladimir Bovis Jackson. The present application was for an order to pay the income to the trustees of the will.

The application was made in the first instance by summons in chambers. The chief clerk thought that the matter was so complicated owing to the nature of the settlement that the application ought to be made by petition.

Everitt, Q.C., and O. L. Clare, for the petitioners.

Stewart-Smith, for the Manchester Corporation, asked, that as the petition was caused by the complication of the settlement, the undertakers should not be ordered to pay the costs of the petition.

NORTH, J., thought the corporation must bear the costs of the petition according to the Act.

North, J. In re ALDRIDGE. March 13.
ALDRIDGE v. ALDRIDGE.

Partnership—Death of Partner—Business carried on by Surviving Partner—Remuneration for Services—Business carried on at a Loss.

Summons by the executors and trustees of a testator against the beneficiaries under his will and the brother of the testator, who had carried on business in partnership with him, raising (inter alia) the question, whether the brother was entitled to remuneration for his services in winding up the business. After the death of the testator the brother, who under the partnership articles had had the management of the business, continued for nearly two years, with the concurrence of the executors, to carry on the business, with the view of its being sold as a going concern. He and the executors endeavoured to sell it, but without success, and ultimately he withdrew from the business premises, and the executors realized the assets. The sum realized was not sufficient to pay the testator's capital. The brother had no capital in the business. He claimed an allowance for his services in carrying on the business after the testator's death. It had been carried on at a loss.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Gatey, for the trustees.

Oswald, Q.C., and Pochin, for the brother.

Gatey; and Houghton Brown; for the other defendants.

NORTH, J., held that a partner, who carried on a business after the dissolution of the partnership for the benefit of the firm, was not entitled to any remuneration for his services, unless the business had been carried on at a profit. In the cases which had been cited (vide Lindley on Partnership, (6th ed.) p. 394) as authorities for allowing remuneration, profits had been earned.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. In re HOLFORD. March 15.
 HOLFORD v. HOLFORD.

Infants—Contingent Interest—Maintenance—Intermediate Income—Conveyancing Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), s. 49.

A testator by his will dated in 1888 gave his residuary estate, consisting of a mixed fund made up of the proceeds of sale of real estate and of personal estate, to trustees upon trust for the child or children of T. H. living at his (the testator's) decease, and who should attain the age of 21 years, in equal shares if more than one, and if but one the whole to be in trust for that one child. The will contained no maintenance clause.

At the testator's death there were living six children of T. H. who were all infants. One daughter had recently come of age and had settled her interest under the will.

The income of the residuary estate was very large, and the accumulations of income during the period which had elapsed between the death of the testator and the time when the eldest daughter came of age, and not expended in maintenance, amounted to about 40,000*l.*

The daughter and her trustees claimed to be entitled to her sixth share of the original residuary estate, and of the fund accumulated during her minority; also to the whole of the income of the residuary estate, accruing from the time she came of age until the next child came of age, and from that time to one half of the same income until another child came of age, and so on until the youngest child attained its majority, and to the income of the accumulated fund in the same manner.

CHITTY, J., declared that the daughter was entitled to receive her one-sixth share of the original capital, and of the accumulated fund and income down to the time of her taking a vested interest, but that she was not entitled to receive the income of the remaining five-sixths of the original capital and accumulated fund during the suspense of vested, but that such income was applicable during the suspense to the maintenance of the infants.

 BOOTH v. BOOTH.

Will—Construction—Gift of Income to Wife of Testator "during her Life for her Use and Benefit, and for the Maintenance and Education of his Children"—Right of Adult Children to Maintenance during Life of Widow.

A testator gave the residue of his estate to his executors, on trust "to pay to his wife or permit her to receive the annual income thereof during her life, for her use and benefit and for the maintenance and education of his children," and after her decease upon trust to divide his residuary estate equally between all his children living at his decease. A power of advancement to the children was given to the widow, under which advances had been made to some of them, but no advance had been made to either of the plaintiffs. The wife survived the testator, and he left seven children, all of whom attained 21. The widow and one of the sons continued to carry on the testator's business of a coal merchant, but they were ultimately adjudicated bankrupts. This was a summons by two of the daughters, who were unmarried, and were living with their mother, raising the question whether they were entitled, during the remainder of the life of their mother, to maintenance out of the income of the testator's residuary estate. A similar summons had been issued by another of the daughters who was married.

Everitt, Q.C., and C. Macnaghten, for the trustee in the bankruptcy.

Leveson, for the trustees of the will.

NORTH, J., held that the widow took the income with a trust for the maintenance of the children, and that the trust was not confined to those who were under 21 or unmarried. And his Lordship directed an inquiry what the trust property consisted of, and what was the income thereof; whether any and (if so) what advances had been received by any of the children on account of their shares; what provision ought to be made for the maintenance (omitting education) of any and which of the children out of the income. Further consideration was reserved.

VERNER v. GENERAL AND COMMERCIAL INVESTMENT TRUST, LIMITED.

Company—Depreciation of Assets—Reduction of Capital—Payment of Dividends—"Profits."

The defendant company was incorporated in 1888 with a capital of 600,000*l.* in 60,000 shares of 10*l.* each. They had also borrowed 300,000*l.* on 4 per cent. debenture stock, secured by a floating charge upon the whole assets of the company.

The whole of the share capital was issued and fully paid up in cash and converted into preferred and deferred stock.

The 900,000*l.* forming the capital of the company was invested in securities authorized by the memorandum of association. Owing to depreciation, over which the company had no control, the present value of the investments was only 654,776*l.*, shewing a loss of about 240,000*l.*, and of this 75,000*l.* was irrecoverably lost.

During the past financial year the investments of the company had produced an income which exceeded the expenses of management by 23,000*l.*

The object of the company, as defined by the memorandum, was to raise money and invest it, and hold certain specified investments. The company had power to vary any such investments, and "to receive dividends, income, profits, bonuses, of every description from time to time payable or receivable in advantages of respect of the company's investments, and to apply the same respectively according to the provisions of the articles."

Art. 84 provided that "the receipts of the company from the dividends, income, profits, bonuses, and advantages payable in respect of the company's investments should be applicable" in payment of dividends.

Art. 85 provided that the trustees might, before recommending payment of any dividend, set apart out of the profits of the company such sum as they thought fit as a reserve fund to meet contingencies or equalize dividends. Art. 86 provided that when the profits of the company permitted interim dividends might be declared and paid. Various changes had been made in the original investments resulting in the whole in a profit of 37,000*l.*, which had been carried to a reserve fund.

The directors proposed to pay a dividend out of the 23,000*l.* profit arising from the income of the investments.

This was a motion by a stock-holder, seeking to restrain the payment of any dividend in respect of the past financial year of the company.

Hastings, Q.C., and Kirtz, for the plaintiff.

Buckley, Q.C., and Eve, for the defendant company.

STIRLING, J., held, upon the authority of Lee v. Neuchatel Asphaltic Company (41 Ch. D. 1), that it was not necessary for the company to apply to reduce its capital under the Companies Act, 1877, before paying any dividend, and that it would be wrong for the Court to interfere and prevent a declaration of dividend under such circumstances, provided it was made in accordance with the articles of the company. Upon the construction of the articles, he was of opinion that the expression "profits, bonuses, and advantages" in the memorandum and articles meant profits, bonuses, and advantages in the nature of income, and the word "profits" must be read as meaning excess of income over expenses of management; and, so reading it, such excess was applicable for payment of dividends, notwithstanding shrinkage in the value of investments or loss of capital occasioned thereby. Under these circumstances, the payment of dividend for the past year was not beyond the powers of the company. His Lordship based his decision on the nature of the company's constitution, and it must not be assumed that his conclusion would have been the same if he had been dealing with an ordinary trading company.

The plaintiff appealed from this decision, and the appeal was heard on the 14th, 15th, and 16th of March.

March 20. LINDLEY, L.J., stated that the Court (Lindley, Kay, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) were unanimously of opinion that the appeal must be dismissed, and would give their reasons on a future day.

LESLIE v. ROTHES.

March 13.

Will—Construction—Shifting Clause—Gift over on Succession to Earl—Person for the time being entitled to Possession or receipt of Rents and Profits—Infant Tenant in Tail.

A testatrix, who died in 1861, by her will devised hereditary estates to uses in strict settlement, and, after directing that every male person who under the will should become beneficially entitled to the possession or to the receipt of the rents and profits of the hereditaments, should take and use a certain name and arms, with a gift over in default of compliance, directed that if any person who under the will "would (if this present proviso had not been inserted) for the time being be entitled to the possession, receipt or enjoyment of the rents issues and profits" of the hereditaments, as tenant for life or in tail by purchase, should be under the age of 21, the trustees of the will should enter into possession of the rents issues and profits of the hereditaments, and during such minority hold and continue such possession or receipt with full powers of management; and the testatrix declared that if "any person for the time being entitled to the possession or to the receipt of the rents and profits" of the hereditaments should succeed to a certain earldom, then, and in such case, and immediately thereupon the hereditaments should go over as if such person were dead without issue. In 1882 the defendant, an infant, who was born in 1877, became entitled as tenant in tail in possession by purchase, and in September, 1893, he succeeded to the earldom. The plaintiff was the person who would have been entitled as tenant for life if the infant defendant had been dead without issue; and the question for the opinion of the Court was whether, upon the succession of the infant defendant to the earldom, the plaintiff became entitled as tenant for life.

KEKEWICH, J., held, upon the construction of the will, that as, by reason of the infancy of the earl, the possession or receipt of the rents and profits was by the terms of the will taken from him, and given to the trustees, he was not, when he succeeded to the earldom, a person "for the time being entitled to the possession or to the receipt of the rents and profits" within the meaning of the shifting clause, and that therefore the gift over had not taken effect, and the title of the earl had not been displaced.

Kekewich, J.                      SADLER v. WORLEY.                      March 14.
Limited Company—Winding-up—Debenture-holder—Charge on uncalled Capital—Foreclosure.

The plaintiff was the registered holder of the whole of the first issue of debentures of the Idlesleigh Mansions, Limited. Each debenture was made payable in November, 1896, with interest payable quarterly, and was a floating security in the usual form, making the money secured a charge on all the property of the company both present and future, including its uncalled capital, and was subject to a condition that the principal money secured should immediately become payable if the company made default for one month in payment of interest, or if a winding-up resolution was passed. The property of the company consisted mainly of a leasehold block of houses, already subject to a mortgage for 12,000. Interest having fallen into arrear and a resolution passed for a voluntary winding-up, the plaintiff commenced this action against debenture-holders of the second and third issues, and the company, claiming an account of what was due on his debentures, foreclosure or sale, possession, and a receiver and manager.

The question was whether the remedy by foreclosure was applicable to the uncalled capital of a limited company.

Bramwell Davis, for plaintiff.

Eve, for defendants.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the remedy of foreclosure was applicable, not only to the company's leasehold property, but also to the uncalled capital, and made an order directing the company, at the plaintiff's request, to assign to him the several items of property comprised in the debentures, but providing for redemption by any parties entitled to redeem.

WALLACE v. UNIVERSAL AUTOMATIC MACHINES COMPANY, LIMITED.

Company—Debenture—Covenant for Payment on specified Day—Winding up of Company before such Day—Principal Money not thereby rendered due and owing.

This was a debenture-holder's action claiming a declaration of charge and an account of what was due to the plaintiff and other debenture-holders for principal and interest. By each of the debentures the company covenanted for payment of the sum thereby secured on the 31st of December, 1894, and of interest until payment, and charged all their undertaking and property with repayment of the principal and interest; but the debentures contained no condition making the principal money payable on default in payment of interest or in the event of a winding-up. The interest was in arrear, and an order had been made for the winding up of the company. The statement of claim alleged that "the whole of the principal monies" secured by the plaintiff's debentures, together with interest thereon, were still "unpaid and owing" to the plaintiff.

On the action coming on to be heard, his Lordship took objection to this allegation.

Eve, for the plaintiff, relied on Hodson v. Tea Company (14 Ch. D. 859, 862), where Hall, V.-C., said: "It appears to me that, when a company comes to be wound up, the arrangement for the continuance of the loan for a certain time necessarily comes to an end; the money becomes immediately payable, and the security immediately enforceable."

March 14. KEKOWICH, J., said that upon consideration he did not feel at liberty to accept the statement of Hall, V.-C., in the case cited. It was not necessary for the decision, and was unsupported by authority. It was inconsistent with what his Lordship understood to be the law, and he did not feel bound to follow the judgment, notwithstanding that it was fourteen years old. He did not himself see why, where there was a covenant to pay upon a certain day not yet arrived, that covenant became enforceable for a debt in presenti because there was a winding-up. If the covenant had been by an individual, his bankruptcy would not have made the money presently payable; and for this purpose there did not seem to be any distinction between a bankruptcy and a winding-up. His Lordship accordingly directed that the proposed minutes of judgment should be altered by treating the interest only and not the principal moneys as due and owing to the plaintiff.

Kekowich, J.                      In re HICKS.                      March 17.
Practice—Petition or Summons—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order LV., r. 2 (1), (18)—Title depending upon Construction of Will,

This was a petition for the payment or transfer to the petitioners of one-fifth of a sum of 2487*l.* Consols representing the proceeds of land taken by a railway company under the Lands Clauses Act. The title of the petitioners was derived under a will whereby the residuary real and personal estate of the testator was given upon trust for conversion and division into fifths. One fifth was given to the testator's son W. for life, and after his death in trust for "such of the sons of the said W. as should be then living, and the issue male then living of such sons of the said W. as should be then dead, who either before or after determination of the previous trusts should attain the age of twenty-one years, and if more than one equally." Another fifth was given upon such trusts in favour of the testator's son M. and his sons and more remote male issue as should correspond with the preceding trusts in favour of the said W. and his sons and more remote male issue. M. was dead, and the petitioners were his two sons, and only issue. An originating summons asking for the relief sought by the petition was issued and came before his Lordship in chambers, but was dismissed on the ground that there was no jurisdiction to make the order upon summons notwithstanding the submission of all parties.

Gatey, for the petitioners.

W. Baker, and Lavington, for the respondents.

KEKOWICH, J., said that the title of the petitioners depended upon the construction of the will. That construction might be perfectly plain to any judge, counsel, or chief clerk, but it was one which required to be worked out by a lawyer. It appeared to his Lordship that Order LV., r. 2 (1), was not applicable to a case where there was a question of construction, though that question might be an easy one. The rule appeared rather to contemplate cases such as that of a gift to the eldest son of A., or to A. if he survives B. Nor was the matter one which could be brought within the general clause (18), which appeared to refer to classes of business other than those previously mentioned, and not to enable the judge to direct that any particular matter should be disposed of at chambers. His Lordship continued: These are my own views; but I was apprised that there was some want of uniformity of procedure, and I therefore thought it right to reserve consideration of the matter, and consult my brother judges. I did so, with the result that I found that there was a want of uniformity. If we had all agreed, or if my colleagues had agreed in any one view, I should certainly have adopted it. But I found so much difference of opinion, that I came to the conclusion that my only proper course was to follow my own view. That I have done, and must do again. If cases of this kind are to be brought before the Court on originating summons, a new rule for that purpose must, in my opinion, be framed by the Rule Committee. His Lordship then made the order as prayed.

Romer, J.                      MINTER v. CARR.                      March 16.
Mortgage—Consolidation—Assignment of one Equity of Redemption before Union of both Mortgages in one Person.

Banks mortgaged property A. to Sedgwick, and properties B. and C. to other people, who were the predecessors in title of the defendants in the action.

Banks then gave a second mortgage on A. and a mortgage on properties D. and E. to Stunt. After Stunt's mortgage, but before the commencement of the action, Sedgwick's mortgage on A. and the mortgages on B. and C. became vested in the defendants.

Prior to the 14th of July, 1890, Pledge and the plaintiff were respectively puisne mortgagees of A., B., and C., subject to the first mortgages thereon and to Stunt's mortgage on A. On the 14th of July, 1890, Stunt transferred his mortgage to Pledge.

On the 8th of October, 1890, Pledge, under his power of sale, sold and conveyed A. to the plaintiff, subject to Sedgwick's mortgage, but otherwise free from incumbrances.

In 1893 the plaintiff brought the action against the defendants, and claimed to redeem A. without redeeming B. or C.

Bramwell Davis, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and Edwin Ward, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., held that he must apply the principle of Harter v.

Colman (19 Ch. D. 630), viz., that where two mortgages on different estates, by the same mortgagor to different mortgagees, become united for the first time in one person after the mortgagor has (by way either of sale or mortgage) assigned the equity of redemption of one of them, the owner of the two mortgages cannot consolidate them as against the assignee of that equity of redemption, although both mortgages were created before the assignment. There would have been no right of consolidation against Stunt if he had remained mortgagee of A.; and, the plaintiff having purchased all Stunt's rights, prima facie the defendants had no more right to consolidate against the plaintiff than they would have had against Stunt. His Lordship also held that Pledge's right to resist consolidation had not been lost or interfered with because he was also a puisne mortgagee; and that he was entitled to sell A. to the plaintiff subject to Sedgwick's mortgage. Nor had the plaintiff, as purchaser subject to that mortgage, lost his right to resist consolidation because he was also a puisne mortgagee. The plaintiff was therefore entitled to redeem A. without redeeming B. or C.

Mortgage—Consolidation—Mortgages by one Owner to different Persons—Unity of both Mortgages in [one Transferee—Subsequent Assignment by one Deed of all Equities of Redemption to one Person.

The owner of several properties mortgaged them to different mortgagees for distinct sums, and by deed dated the 20th of August, 1868, mortgaged all the properties (subject to the prior mortgages above mentioned) to the plaintiff's predecessors in title to secure one sum. At this date several of the prior mortgages were vested in different mortgagees. On the 1st of April, 1885, the 1868 mortgage was transferred to the plaintiff.

Prior to the commencement of this action all the prior mortgages had been transferred to the defendants.

In this action the plaintiff claimed to redeem one of the prior mortgages without redeeming the others.

Bramwell Davis, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and Edwin Ward, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., held that the defendants' claim to consolidate the prior mortgages was supported both by principle and authority. As to principle, if the owner of two properties mortgaged one to A. and the other to B., and A.'s mortgage was transferred to B., or both were transferred to C., the right to consolidate existed against the mortgagor. And the right to consolidate was enforceable not only against the original mortgagor, but also, as a rule, against his assignee of the equity of redemption. The original mortgagor could not, after the transfer, have redeemed one property without the others, and the plaintiff as his assignee, by one deed, of all the equities of redemption, was in no better a position.

As to authorities, the case was governed by Tweedale v. Tweedale (23 Beav. 841) and Vint v. Padget (1 Giff. 446, on appeal 2 De G. & J. 611). In White v. Hillare (3 Y. & C. Ex. 597), Jennings v. Jordan (6 App. Cas. 698), and Harter v. Colman (19 Ch. D. 630), the assignee whose right of redemption was in question was the assignee of one property only.

In re BEYTS & CRAIG.

Bankruptcy—Lump Sum paid to Solicitor by Debtors to defend them against Criminal Charge—Subsequent Bankruptcy of Debtors—Title of Trustee to Money in hands of Solicitor.

On the 29th of June, 1892, the debtors, Messrs. Beyts & Craig, were arrested on a charge of felony, and the same day they instructed Messrs. Irvine & Hodges, a firm of solicitors, to defend them against the charge and to look after their affairs in the meantime, and for that purpose handed them a sum of 250*l.* Messrs. Irvine & Hodges undertook the business and conducted the defence of the debtors on several days during July in the police court, which ultimately resulted in a committal for trial. On the 4th of July the debtors filed their own petition in bankruptcy, on which they were adjudicated bankrupt, and Mr. Cooper became the trustee. This was a motion by the trustee asking that Messrs. Irvine & Hodges should pay over to him the 250*l.*, less any costs properly incurred by them for the bankrupts down to the commencement of the bankruptcy.

H. Reed, Q.C., and Hansell, for Messrs. Irvine & Hodges.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said it was a hard case; but in his opinion the authority given by the bankrupts to Messrs. Irvine & Hodges was revoked and determined on the presentation of the bankruptcy petition on the 4th of July, and, subject to any claim for costs incurred before that date, the solicitors must pay over the balance of the 250*l.* to the trustee. The fact that the money was to be expended on matters affecting the personal liberty of the bankrupts did not take the case out of the general rule.

DAVIS v. CORPORATION OF LEICESTER.

Restrictive Covenant—Building Scheme—Municipal Corporation—Alienation of Corporate Property—Consent of Treasury or

Local Government Board—Municipal Corporations Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 50), ss. 108, 109—Local Government Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 41), s. 72.

This was an appeal by the plaintiff from a decision of North, J., ante, p. 88.

S. Hall, Q.C., and Dunham, for the appellant.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and F. Thompson, for the corporation, and Everitt, Q.C., and MacSwinney, for the trustees, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal on the ground that sect. 109 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, required the terms and conditions under which any corporate property was sold to be approved by the Treasury, and that here no approval had been given by the Treasury of the plaintiff's land being sold to him upon the terms of his having rights over other land of the corporation.

High Court of Justice.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Romer, J.                      SIMS v. LANDRAY.                      March 15.

Vendor and Purchaser—Memorandum—Purchaser's Name filled in by Auctioneer's Clerk—Statute of Frauds.

At a sale by public auction of land in two lots, subject to printed conditions of sale, with memorandum of contract indorsed in blank in the usual way, the defendant was the highest bidder for Lot 2, and it was knocked down to him by the auctioneer, who directed his clerk to go to defendant and obtain his name and address as the purchaser. The defendant gave his name and address to the clerk, and followed him to the auctioneer's table, where the clerk filled in the blanks in the memorandum in the usual way, commencing: "I, Joseph Gilbert Landray, of 6, Cedars Road, Beckenham, Kent, do hereby acknowledge that at the sale by auction this day I was the highest bidder for, and was declared the purchaser, &c." The defendant was asked to sign the memorandum in the usual way and to pay the deposit. He excused himself on the ground that he had not his cheque-book with him, and made an appointment for the next day, which he did not keep, and ultimately he declined to complete. The plaintiff, as vendor, brought this action for specific performance. The defendant relied on the Statute of Frauds.

Haldane, Q.C., and W. Barnard, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and Stallard, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., said it was now settled on the authorities that it was not necessary that a purchaser should subscribe the memorandum, but it was a sufficient signature and compliance with the statute if his name appeared in the document as the purchaser, written in by himself or by his duly-authorized agent, and that for this purpose the auctioneer might be the agent for both parties. Under the circumstances, the auctioneer's clerk was authorized to write in the memorandum the name of the defendant as the purchaser. There was, therefore, a sufficient signature on behalf of the defendant, and there must be judgment for specific performance.

Romer, J.                      JONES v. DANIEL.                      April 3.

Vendor and Purchaser—Correspondence referring to a Contract—Statute of Frauds.

Prior to the 22nd of April, 1894, the defendant verbally offered the plaintiff the sum of 1450*l.* for certain property of the plaintiff's, and on that day the defendant wrote the plaintiff: "I may say, in respect to this property, the offer I made you of 1450*l.* is my fullest." In reply the plaintiff's solicitors on the 26th of April wrote the defendant: "Mr. Jones has considered your offer of 1450*l.* for his reversionary interest in this property . . . He accepts it, and we enclose contract for your signature. On receipt of this signed by you across the stamp and deposit, we will send you copy signed by him"; and on the 29th of April the solicitors wrote the defendant further as follows: "Kindly let us know whether we shall send abstract of title to you or to a solicitor for you. At the same time, perhaps you will send us deposit. In order to define time for delivery of abstract and for completion, the contract sent you had better perhaps be signed, though the correspondence is a sufficient contract. Will you please send it us?" On the 4th of May the defendant wrote in reply, returning the contract unsigned, and declining to purchase. This was an action for specific performance. The defendant relied on the Statute of Frauds.

Neville, Q.C., and Challis, for the plaintiff, relied on Rossiter v. Miller (3 App. Cas. 1138), and Gibbins v. North Eastern Metropolitan Asylum District (11 Beav. 1).

Haldane Q.C., and David, for the defendant, cited Crossley v. Maycock (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 180).

ROMER, J., held that the above correspondence did not constitute a binding contract within the Statute of Frauds. Although the simple acceptance of an offer accompanied by a statement that the acceptor desired the arrangement should be put into some more formal terms would not prevent the Court from enforcing specific performance, yet here the document enclosed in the letter of the 26th of April went much further. It did not merely embody the terms that were contained in the letter, but it contained stipulations restricting the commencement of the vendor's title, limiting the date for completion of the contract, and requiring a 10 per cent. deposit to be paid. In his Lordship's opinion no definite agreement had been arrived at between the parties, and the action must be dismissed with costs.

Romer, J. MELLIN v. WHITE. April 3.
Rival Traders—Proprietary Article—Advertisement—Trade Libel—Injunction.

The plaintiff was the proprietor and manufacturer of the food known as "Mellin's Infants' Food," which he supplied wholesale to the trade. The defendant was a chemist and the proprietor of "Dr. Vance's Food for Infants and Invalids." The defendant was a customer of the plaintiff's, and was in the habit of affixing to the wrappers in which the plaintiff's goods were sold the following label: "Notice. The public are recommended to try 'Dr. Vance's Prepared Food for Infants and Invalids,' it being far more nutritious and healthful than any other preparation yet known." The plaintiff alleged that the statement in the label was made with the object of depreciating his food and inducing the public to believe that his food was inferior to the defendant's; and the plaintiff claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from selling or offering for sale the plaintiff's food otherwise than under the original wrappers, and from selling or offering for sale such food under the plaintiff's wrappers with any unauthorized additions thereto or alterations thereof.

Sir E. Clarke, Q.C., Neville, Q.C., and O. Macnaghten, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held that the plaintiff was not entitled to relief. Although what the defendant had been doing was no doubt most annoying and most aggravating to the plaintiff, it could not be said to amount to a trade libel. It was merely the puff of a rival trader. The action must be dismissed with costs.

BANKRUPTCY.

Vaughan Williams, J. In re HALLETT & Co. March 20.
Ex parte COOKS, BIDDULPH & Co.

Bankruptcy—Proof—Secured Creditor—"Security"—Guarantee by Third Party—The Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 168.

In November, 1892, the Agence Dalziel gave a promissory note for 16,000*l.*, payable at six months to Hallett & Co. for money lent, and at the same time handed them the written guarantee of the National Insurance and Guarantee Corporation, Limited, to pay "Hallett & Co., or the holders for, value for the time being of the promissory note," the 16,000*l.*, if that sum was not paid by the Agence Dalziel when the note fell due. Hallett & Co. indorsed the note and handed it with the guarantee to their bankers, Cocks, Biddulph, & Co., who lent them money. The note was dishonoured at maturity. The National Insurance and Guarantee Corporation, Limited, went into liquidation, and Hallett & Co. became bankrupt. Cocks, Biddulph, & Co. proved in the bankruptcy as unsecured creditors for 12,000*l.* odd, being the balance due to them from Hallett & Co. on their current account. The trustee rejected their proof on the ground that they were secured creditors in respect of the guarantee, and were bound to deduct its value from their proof. Cocks, Biddulph, & Co. appealed against the decision of the trustee.

Farwell, Q.C., and Vernon B. Smith, for Cocks, Biddulph, & Co.

Beed, Q.C., and Whately, for the trustee.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said it was plain that the guarantee was part of the property of the bankrupts which was transferred to Cocks & Co. as security for the advances they made to the bankrupts. The contention of the trustee was right, and the application must be dismissed with costs.

PROBATE, DIVORCE, AND ADMIRALTY DIVISION.

Divorce. POLLARD v. POLLARD. March 5.

Dissolution of Marriage—Variation of Settlements.

Petition by a wife who had obtained a divorce from her husband on the ground of adultery and cruelty to vary the settlement made upon the marriage. The wife had brought into settlement an amount of real and personal property of which the present income amounted to about 900*l.* The husband had brought into settlement no property except a policy of insurance of 1000*l.* The deed authorized the raising of 4000*l.* to establish him in business, the repayment of such sum to be secured by a policy. The money had been raised, but both policies had been allowed to lapse through non-payment of the premiums, and the husband had been adjudicated a bankrupt, and had not obtained his discharge.

The trusts were of the ordinary kind, and the settlement contained a provision enabling the petitioner, if she survived her husband and married again, to appoint a life interest in half the income to her second husband, and to appoint half the capital among the children of the second marriage. The petitioner had married again. There were five children—infants—of the first marriage. The registrar recommended that the husband's beneficial interests and his powers of consent and otherwise under the settlement should be extinguished as if he were dead, but did not recommend that the wife should be allowed to appoint as upon his death in favour of the second husband and children.

J. T. Prior, for the wife, contended that the Court ought to give the wife this power of appointment. He suggested, as limitations, that no appointment should be allowed to be made to a child of the second marriage, unless upon attaining 21, or if a daughter, upon marriage, or that the children of the second marriage should not be allowed to take more than the children of the first marriage.

C. Maonaghten, for the guardian ad litem of the children of the first marriage.

F. Inderwick, Q.C., as amicus curie, said that he and a learned friend had recently considered the matter, and that they could find no instance of a power of appointment having been given in an order for the alteration of a settlement.

THE PRESIDENT was of opinion that the wife's power to re-settle should not be accelerated, and ought only to be exercised on the death of her first husband, and confirmed the registrar's report.

Probate.

Jan. 30, 31; Feb. 1, 26; March 12.

FINCH AND OTHERS v. COOMBE AND OTHERS.

Probate—Words in Will concealed by Pieces of Paper pasted over them when "apparent"—Nature of Expert Evidence admissible—Wills Act (1 Vict. c. 26), s. 21.

Question as to the admissibility to probate of four passages in a will over which pieces of paper were pasted after execution. The case came before Sir James Hannen in 1874 (see In the Goods of Horsford (Law Rep. 3 P. & M. 211)), and he decided that probate of the will should be granted with the covered passages in blank. The plaintiffs had not been parties to these proceedings.

Sect. 21 of the Wills Act provides that "no obliteration, interlineation, or other alteration made in any will after the execution thereof shall be valid or have any effect, except so far as the words or effect of the will before such alteration shall not be apparent, unless such alteration shall be executed in like manner as hereinbefore is required for the execution of the will."

Expert evidence was called on each side to prove by what means, and how much of, the concealed passages could be read. The President referred the matter to Mr. Scargill-Bird, the Assistant Keeper of the Public Records, with instructions for the mode of examination to be adopted, and accepted as his own finding the following report:—

"1. When the document is simply held up in the air against the light, the writing under the slips is visible, but not legible.

"2. When the document is held against a pane of the window, a few words can be made out, but not sufficient to convey an intelligible meaning.

"3. When the document is held against a pane of the window, and the light is concentrated on the passage to be read by surrounding it with cardboard or a similar opaque material, the whole of the concealed portion may be read with the exception of two or three words.

"4. When, in addition to these conditions, the room is darkened by drawing down the blinds, the legibility of the passage in question is not materially affected.

"I used no magnifying glasses, or other artificial aids to sight, as I did not need them. I find also that the words in question are not more legible now than at any previous period."

Sir Walter Phillimore, and Searle, for the plaintiffs, parties interested in the admission to probate of the concealed passages.

Priestley, for the defendant T. R. Coombe, the representative of the executor of the will.

Bargrave Deane, for the defendants A. H. Davies and O. W. Davies, beneficiaries under the will.

Uj John, for the defendant, J. P. Finch, the representative of one of the next of kin of the testator.

March 12. THE PRESIDENT said that the only question to be decided was whether the words concealed were "apparent" within the meaning of sect. 21 of the Wills Act. If they were so, they formed part of the testamentary disposition. No case precisely like the present seemed to have hitherto arisen, but there were several cases which shewed when words altered or erased in wills were considered to be "apparent" within the meaning of the statute, and by what means they might legally be made "apparent." He referred to In the Goods of Sir C. Ibbetson (2 Curt. 337), and In the Goods of James Beavan (2 Curt. 369), Townley v. Watson (3 Curt. 761), Lushington v. Onslow (6 Notes of Cases, 187), decisions of Sir Herbert Jenner Fust; In the Goods of MacCabe (Law Rep. 3 P. & M. 94), and the present case, In the Goods of Horsford (Law Rep. 3 P. & M. 211), decisions of Sir James Hannen; and stated that the result of the authorities appeared to be that words beneath obliterations, erasures or alterations on a testamentary document, are "apparent" if experts using magnifying glasses, if necessary, can decipher them and satisfy the Court that they have done so; but that it is not allowable to resort to any physical interference with the document, so as to render clearer what may have been written upon it. Mr. Scargill-Bird, in the instructions given to him, had been prohibited from using chemicals. If magnifying glasses might be used, a fortiori the means resorted to by Mr. Scargill-Bird in accordance with these instructions might be employed. Therefore the words deciphered ought to be admitted to probate.

Ex parte CROMMIE.

Bankruptcy—Public Examination of Bankrupt—Order to file Account of Bankrupt's Dealings in a Business alleged to have been carried on by him—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, ss. 17, 24—Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 338.

Appeal by the bankrupt against an order made by Mr. Registrar Giffard, in the course of the bankrupt's public examination, that the bankrupt should file an account of his dealings as "W. Freeman."

The bankrupt formerly carried on business as an outside stockbroker. In 1885 a receiving order was made against him, and he was afterwards adjudicated a bankrupt. In March 1886, an order was made adjourning his public examination sine die. He did not obtain a discharge.

In 1894 information was given to the official receiver that the bankrupt had since 1889 been carrying on business as an outside broker under the name of "W. Freeman." Thereupon the official receiver obtained from the Court an order for the public examination of the bankrupt. The bankrupt attended, and was questioned about this business. He asserted that the business belonged to and was carried on by his wife, and that he had only acted as her clerk. In consequence of the bankrupt's answers, the official receiver asked the registrar to order the bankrupt to file an account of his dealings as "W. Freeman." No previous notice had been given of this application, and the bankrupt's wife was not present. The registrar made the order, from which the bankrupt now appealed.

H. Reed, Q.C., and F. Cooper Willis, for the bankrupt, argued that the public examination was only for the purpose of obtaining information about the dealings of the bankrupt, and that the registrar had no jurisdiction on that occasion to adjudicate upon the title to a business which prima facie was not that of the bankrupt, and which he asserted was not his. Such an adjudication could only be made upon notice to the wife. She was not entitled to be present at the examination.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and A. L. Smith and Davey, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD ESHER, M.R., said that the public examination was held for the purpose of collecting from the bankrupt evidence upon which the Court might afterwards act. Nothing was then to be finally determined or concluded for or against him. The registrar had, for the purpose of the examination, and for that purpose only, determined that the business of "W. Freeman" was the bankrupt's. Upon a subsequent application to enforce compliance with the order, it would be open to the bankrupt to prove by evidence that the business was not his; and, if the Court were satisfied that it was not, they would not commit him for contempt for non-compliance with the order.

held that it was clear upon the facts that the bankrupts had parted with the property both in the promissory note and in the guarantee to Cocks, Biddulph & Co., and that the guarantee had not been handed over to the latter merely by way of a mortgage, charge or lien on the property of Hallett & Co.; that it was therefore plain that Cocks, Biddulph & Co. were not secured creditors within the meaning of sect. 168 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and that their proof was therefore wrongly rejected.

Appeal from judgment of a Divisional Court (reported [1894]
1 Q. B. 567) upon a special case stated in an appeal to quarter sessions under 12 & 13 Vict. c. 45, s. 11.

The question raised was as follows.

By the Lighting and Watching Act, 1833, s. 33, "owners and occupiers of houses, buildings, and property (other than land) rateable to the relief of the poor in any such parish shall be rated at and pay a rate in the pound three times greater than that at which the owners and occupiers of land shall be rated at and pay for the purposes of this Act."

The appellants, who were colliery proprietors, had been rated under the above-mentioned Act in respect of their coal mines at the higher rate, and had appealed against such rate to the quarter sessions.

The Divisional Court (Mathew and Collins, J.J.) held that they were rightly so rated.

Tramways Company—Debenture-holders' Action—Order for Sale of Tramways—Tramways Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 78), s. 44.

This action was brought by debenture-holders of the defendant company to enforce their security.

The action now came on for further consideration, and upon a motion by the plaintiffs for an order for the sale of the undertaking of the company.

The company was incorporated by a special Act (45 & 46 Vict. c. ccv.), with which sect. 44 of the Tramways Act, 1870 was incorporated. By his certificate the chief clerk had found that the property comprised in and charged by the debentures consisted of the undertaking of the company, and all the tolls and sums of money arising therefrom, and all the estate, right, title, and interest of the company in the same. By their notice of motion the plaintiffs asked that the undertaking of the company, &c., might be sold as a going concern.

HANFSTAENGL v. THE EMPIRE PALACE, LIMITED, AND OTHERS.

HANFSTAENGL v. NEWNES AND ANOTHER.

Copyright—Picture—Representation by means of Tableaux Vivants —Illustrations sketched from Tableaux Vivants—Infringement —Fine Arts Copyright Act, 1862, ss. 1, 2, 6—International Copyright—Foreign Picture—Applicability of Foreign Law—Berne Convention—International Copyright Act, 1886, s. 2, sub-s. 3—Order in Council, November 28th, 1887.

The plaintiff in these two actions was the owner of the copyright in certain pictures originally produced in Germany.
The defendants, the Empire Palace, Limited, had exhibited on the stage of their theatre a series of "living pictures," some of them being more or less exact copies of the plaintiff's pictures, and the plaintiff in the first action sought to restrain them by injunction from continuing such exhibition. It was, however, decided by the Court of Appeal, affirming Stirling, J., that the "living pictures" did not constitute an infringement of the plaintiff's sole right of copying and reproducing his pictures within the meaning of the Fine Arts Copyright Act, 1862.

The defendants, other than the Empire Palace, Limited, were the proprietors and publishers of two illustrated newspapers entitled the Daily Graphic and the Westminster Budget. These defendants had sent artists to the Empire Theatre, who had made sketches of the "living pictures," and from these were made drawings, of which reproductions by mechanical means were published in the defendants' newspapers.

The plaintiff now moved in the two actions for interim injunctions to restrain these infringements of his copyright. In the opinion of the Court the illustrations appearing in the papers so closely resembled the original pictures as to be in fact "copies," "reproductions," or colourable "imitations" of them. Three questions arose upon the motions, which were heard together on the 16th of March:

(1.) What were the rights of the plaintiff under English law?

(2.) Was the German law, having regard to the provisions of the Berne Convention, the International Copyright Act of 1886, and the Order in Council of the 28th of November, 1887, to any and what extent applicable?

(3.) What were the rights of the plaintiff under German law?

Hastings, Q.C., Scrutton, and A. H. Jessel, for the plaintiff.

Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and Forman, for the Westminster Budget.

STIRLING, J., held, first, that according to English law the illustrations in question were copies of the plaintiff's pictures, and not mere representations of scenes or objects, within the meaning of sect. 2 of the Fine Arts Copyright Act, 1862. It made no difference that the illustrations were not copied directly from the original pictures but from intermediate representations which were not in themselves infringements. Consequently, the defendants' illustrations were a violation of the plaintiff's copyright.

Upon the other points, his Lordship did not think it necessary to decide whether the plaintiff's rights were governed by the German law; but, assuming that they were, he held upon the evidence before him, as to the effect of such law, that the plaintiff was equally entitled to succeed. He accordingly granted an injunction in each case restraining the defendants from printing, publishing, selling, or offering for sale or otherwise disposing of any copies or colourable imitations of the plaintiff's copyright pictures.

Vendor and Purchaser—Brewery—"Fixed Plant and Machinery."

Upon the sale of a freehold brewery it was provided by the conditions of sale that the purchaser should pay for the "whole of the fixed plant and machinery at the brewery," notwithstanding any description thereof in the sale particulars, according to a valuation to be made. A dispute arose between the vendors and the purchaser as to whether the following articles ought to be included in the valuation: (1) a chimney-shaft, which was built just outside the boiler house but formed no part of it; the shaft was sunk in the ground, and connected with the furnace and boiler by a flue under the ground, was used solely for the purpose of discharging the fumes and smoke from the furnace and boiler (which were included in the valuation and not objected to), and could be removed without injury to the brewery; (2) a double-boarded partition forming a malt and grain store: this partition divided a portion of the top floor of the brewery, and had been erected solely for the purposes of the business, and to prevent the dust from the malt mills getting into the brewing vessels; (3) staging erected by placing joists on the stout bearers built into the walls of the brewery premises (which bearers were not treated as fixed plant): this staging was shaped to the various brewing vessels (included in the valuation and not objected to), and was placed there for the purpose of having access to such vessels; it could easily be removed; and if the vessels were removed, large openings would be left in the stages. In an affidavit made by an experienced valuer it was stated that articles of the several kinds enumerated were invariably included under the head of fixed plant on sale of freehold breweries.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the articles in question were not "fixed plant" or "machinery" at the brewery, and therefore ought not to be included in the valuation. His Lordship observed that he had consulted dictionaries of authority on the meaning of the word "plant," but could not find anything which helped him, all the definitions being a great deal too wide. He thought that as, speaking generally, "machinery" included everything which by its action produces or assists in production, so "plant" might be regarded as that without which production could not go on. It was, so to speak, dead stock; it did not itself act, but was that through and by means of and in which action took place, and included such things as brewers' pipes, vats, and the like.

Partnership—Novation—Transfer of Sum from Current to Deposit Account—Liability of Deceased Partner.

This was an appeal by A. Tester from the judgment of Chitty, J.

The testator, G. Head, and his son were formerly partners in a bank at East Grinstead. The testator died on the 10th of December, 1890, and his son continued to carry on the bank. Tester was a customer of the bank, and at the time of the death of the testator had a balance to his credit on a current account of 501*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* On the 24th of December Tester told the surviving partner that he wished to draw out his money and invest it upon interest. The surviving partner persuaded him not to do so, but to pay it to a deposit account in the bank at interest. Tester accordingly transferred 500*l.* from his current account to a deposit account, and received from the surviving partner a deposit note for that amount bearing interest. The bank stopped payment in February, 1892. Between the date of G. Head's death and the stoppage of the bank Tester had drawn out of his current account more than 501*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.*, without taking into account the transfer of the 500*l.* to the deposit account, and had also paid in considerable sums. He now claimed to prove against the estate of the testator, as the deceased partner, for the 500*l.* which he had on deposit. Chitty, J., refused the application. Tester appealed.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Eve, for the appellant.

R. F. Norton, for the executors of the testator.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the transaction was exactly the same as if the appellant had drawn a cheque for the 500*l.* and paid it in again to a deposit account. It was entirely a fresh contract, and the character of the debt was changed. The case, therefore, differed from In re Head ([1893] 3 Ch. 426), and the other cases which had been cited. The testator's estate was discharged, and the appeal must be dismissed.

Defamation—Libel—Privileged Occasion—Absence of Interest or Duty in Person to whom Statement is made—Belief of Defendant in existence of such Interest or Duty.

Application by defendants for judgment or new trial.

The action, which was for libel, was tried before Vaughan Williams, J., with a jury. The defendants pleaded that the alleged libel was a privileged communication.

It appeared that the plaintiff had been elected to the office of guardian of the poor for the parish of South Petherton. The defendants, who were ratepayers of the parish, signed and sent to the board of guardians a letter complaining of irregularities, which they alleged to have occurred at the election, viz., tampering with voting-papers and treating, and suggesting that the matter ought to be inquired into.

It was alleged by the plaintiff that this letter imported that he had been a party to these irregularities. It was admitted that the board of guardians had no power or duty to take any action on the communication so made to them by the defendants. The jury found that the defendants honestly and reasonably believed that the board of guardians were the proper authority to whom to apply in the matter. The learned judge ruled that the occasion was not privileged, and on such ruling the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for 10*l.* damages.

J. Alderson Foots, for the defendants, contended that, where a person who has a grievance complains in respect thereof to a person or body whose duty he honestly and reasonably believes it to be to inquire into and redress such grievance, the occasion is privileged, and that the learned judge ought to have so ruled.

Blakes Odgers, Q.C., and Olavell Salter, for the plaintiff, contended that, in order to make the occasion privileged, the person or body to whom the defamatory statement is made must have an interest or duty in respect to the subject-matter of such statement, and that it was not sufficient that the defendants honestly and reasonably believed the board of guardians to have such an interest or duty.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., A. L. Smith, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that the contention for the plaintiff was correct, and therefore refused the application.

Practice—Non-payment of Costs—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XLIII., r. 7—Sequestration.

On the 15th of January, 1894, North, J., in chambers, made an order "that the respondent Mary Cathcart do pay to the said H. H.-Barrs within four days after service of this order" the several sums therein mentioned, being the amounts of the taxed costs directed by the several orders therein mentioned to be paid by her, "and in default of such payment it is ordered that the said H. H.-Barrs be at liberty to issue a writ of sequestration against the separate estate of the said Mary Cathcart, not subject to any restriction on anticipation, unless by reason of sect. 19 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1883, the property shall be liable to sequestration notwithstanding such restriction." On the 2nd of March, 1894, Mrs. Cathcart applied to North, J., in Court to set aside this order, and the application was refused with costs. Mrs. Cathcart appealed.

Mrs. Cathcart in person, for the appeal.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and H. Terrell, for Barrs, referred to Snow v. Bolton (17 Ch. D. 433).

LINDLEY, L. J., said, that as to form the order was manifestly wrong, as it was not competent to a judge to make an order for attachment or sequestration on a future uncertain event; he must exercise his judgment on the facts as they stand when the order is disobeyed. It appeared, however, that in the present case an application had been made for leave to issue sequestration against Mrs. Cathcart for taxed costs which she would not pay, and the intention of North, J., was to give leave then and there to issue sequestration, but to give Mrs. Cathcart four days' grace. This might have been done by directing the order not to be drawn up for four days, or to lie at the office for four days; but by mistake the order had been drawn up in this improper form. The question was whether the Court had jurisdiction to make an order for sequestration. Under Order XLIII, r. 6, sequestration to enforce payment of money could be issued without leave if the order directing payment limited the time for payment; but that did not apply here, no time being limited. As regarded costs, the case was different. Under the old practice where an order for costs was made without limiting a time for payment, a four-day order might be obtained; but it was more usual to issue a subpoena, which might be followed by sequestration. By Order XLIII, r. 7, the subpoena for costs was abolished, and under that rule a sequestration could be issued at once on special application. There was, therefore, jurisdiction to order a sequestration. The right course in the present case would be to strike out the four-day order which had erroneously been embodied in the order under appeal, leaving an order giving leave to issue sequestration.

IN AN ARBITRATION BETWEEN THE LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL AND THE LONDON STREET TRAMWAYS COMPANY.

This was an appeal by the London County Council against an order of the Divisional Court, consisting of Mathew and Collins, J.J., by which they referred back to the arbitrator, Sir F. Bramwell, his award fixing the price to be paid by the County Council for the purchase of the undertaking of the London Street Tramways Company. The question in the case depended upon the construction of the 44th section of the London Street Tramways Act, 1870, by which it was enacted that the Metropolitan Board of Works, whose powers had been subsequently transferred to the London County Council, might, within six months after the expiration of twenty-one years prior to passing of the Act, with the approval of the Board of Trade, by notice require the company to sell, and thereupon the company should sell, to them their undertaking, upon terms of paying them the then value (exclusive of any allowance for past or future profits of the undertaking, or any compensation for compulsory sale, or other consideration whatsoever) of the tramway, and all lands, buildings, works, materials, and plant of the Company, such value to be in case of difference determined by an engineer or other fit person nominated by the Board of Trade on the application of either party; and when any such sale had been made, all the rights, powers, and authorities of the company, in respect of the undertaking sold, should be transferred to and vested in the Metropolitan Board of Works. The powers of the Metropolitan Board of Works are now vested in the London County Council.

The County Council gave notice to the company of their intention to purchase the undertaking; and the Board of Trade appointed Sir F. Bramwell, the arbitrator, to determine the price to be paid by the County Council. The arbitrator in the award stated as follows:—"I determine and award that the sum of 64,540*l.* is the value of the purchased tramways and the works thereof, exclusive of any allowance for past or future profits of the undertaking, or any compensation for compulsory purchase, or other consideration whatsoever, except the consideration of the value to the tramways company or to the County Council, measured by what it would cost either the tramways company or the County Council to establish the purchased tramways if such tramways did not now exist, but taking into account a proper deduction in respect of depreciation." From this award the tramways company appealed; and the Divisional Court differed from the arbitrator, and held that the principle on which the value should be ascertained was to take the rental which a tenant would give for the tramways, and to capitalize it; they therefore decided that the matter must be sent back to the arbitrator for reconsideration. The London County Council appealed.

Finlay, Q.C., and G. M. Freeman, for the appellants.

Sir R. Webster, Q.C., Cripps, Q.C., and H. Sutton, for the London Street Tramways Company.

LINDLEY, L. J., said that the question raised in the appeal turned on the true construction of the 44th section of the London Street Tramways Act. The substance of the section was as follows: (1) The County Council was entitled, in the event specified, to require the company to sell to them their undertaking; (2) The sum to be paid was the value at the time of the tramways and other property mentioned in the section; (3) No allowance was to be made for past or future profits of the undertaking, nor for compulsory sale, nor for any other consideration; (4) When the sale was made the County Council were to have the same right to work the undertaking as the company had. How, then, was the tramway to be valued? The first thing to ascertain was the meaning of the word "tramway." It did not mean the undertaking, nor did it include the power of making rails, nor the business of the company. "Tramway" meant, in his opinion, the line of rails which the company had laid down at the date of the notice to purchase. The next thing to ascertain was, what was the value of the tramway in that sense? The arbitrator had answered that question by saying that the value was what it would cost the purchasers to lay it down. After much consideration, his Lordship had arrived at the same conclusion. Excluding the value of the rails as old iron on the one side, and all allowance in respect of past and future profits on the other, there seemed to him no other alternative but to say that the present value of the tramway was either what it cost the company to make it, less some deduction for depreciation, or what it would cost the purchasers to make it for themselves. Taking all things into consideration, he was of opinion that the arbitrator had taken the correct view, and the appeal must be allowed.

This was a petition presented by the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain asking for the revocation of a patent which had been granted to T. Kay, G. A. Shaw, and Kay Bros., Limited. The petition had not been served upon T. Kay, who was without the jurisdiction, but he was expected to return to this country within a few weeks.

Roger Wallace, for the petition.

Lawson, for the respondents, submitted that the Court could not revoke the patent in the absence of T. Kay, nor could it give leave to serve the petition upon him out of the jurisdiction. He suggested, however, that the order made in In re King & Co. ([1892] 2 Ch. 462), under the Trade Mark Acts, might be followed by analogy in this case.

Will—Direction to carry on Business till Gravel pits worked out, and then to Sell—Trusts of Proceeds for Children—Perpetuity—Residue.

W. Wood, gravel contractor, by his will, dated in February, 1872, gave his real estate and residuary personal estate to trustees, directing them to carry on his business of a gravel contractor until his gravel-pits were worked out, and then to sell them, and the freehold land on which they were situate, and the horses, carts, and stock-in-trade, by auction, with power for his sons, or any of them, to bid at such sale; and to hold the proceeds "in trust for such children of mine then living, and such issue living of any child or children then deceased, as shall, being sons, attain 21, or being daughters attain that age or marry, in equal shares," per stirpes. And until such sale his sons should continue to be employed in the business as theretofore at the usual wages, and he gave his ultimate residue upon trusts for his children equally.

The testator died in March, 1872, leaving several children. His gravel-pits, mentioned in his will, were about six acres in extent, and at the time of his death he had worked out all but half an acre. After his death his trustees continued to carry on his business, and in May, 1878, the pits became exhausted; whereupon the trustees sold the horses, carts, and stock-in-trade, and from time to time sold portions of the pits and land.

The question, raised by originating summons, was whether the gift of the gravel-pits was void as within the law against perpetuities.

C. E. E. Jenkins, Bowden, Warrington, and Benn, for the parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the gift of the gravel-pits was void as a perpetuity, and that the proceeds of sale fell into the residue.

In re HOLLOWAY, A SOLICITOR.
Ex parte PALLISTER.

Practice—"Originating Summons"—Solicitor—Summons for Delivery of Papers—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LIV. r. 4, LXXI. r. 1—Rules of the Supreme Court, November, 1893, Order LIV. rr. 4 B., 4 C., 4 D., 4 E.; Order LIV. A.

Appeal by a solicitor against an order made by a master, affirmed by Grantham, J., in chambers, and afterwards affirmed by a Divisional Court (Mathew and Cave, JJ.), that the solicitor should deliver up deeds and papers to a former client.

The summons was entitled only "In the High Court of Justice, Queen's Bench Division," and in the matter of the Solicitor, and it asked only for the delivery up of the documents. The summons bore a 3s. stamp, and it was served on the solicitor on the 27th of January, and required him to attend the master on the 31st of January. The solicitor did not attend, and the order was made in his absence. He sought to set it aside as irregular, on the ground that it was "a summons by which proceedings are commenced without writ," and, therefore, an "originating summons" according to rule 1 of Order LXXI. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, and that, consequently, by Order LIV., rules 4 B. and 4 C. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, November, 1893, the summons ought to have limited eight days after service for appearance, and an appearance should have been entered, and also that the summons should have borne a 10s. stamp.

H. Newson, for the appellant.

Vindal Atkinson, Q.C., and Howland Jackson, for the client.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., and Lindley, Lopes, Kay, A. L. Smith, and Davey, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal. They held that the meaning of the definition in Order LXXI. is, a summons by which proceedings, which under the old practice would have been commenced by writ or bill, are now commenced without writ; in other words, an "originating summons" is a substitute for an action or suit. The present summons was, therefore, an ordinary summons, and was governed by rule 4 E., not by rules 4 B., 4 C., and 4 D. of Order LIV., and there was no irregularity.

FLOWER v. LONDON AND NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Infant—Contract, not for Benefit of—Agreement that Railway Company shall not be liable for Negligence towards Infant Passenger.

Application by defendants for judgment or new trial.

The action was brought by an infant by his next friend to recover damages for personal injuries sustained through the negligence of the defendants' servants.

At the trial before Kennedy, J., at Cardiff Assizes, with a jury, the facts, so far as material, appeared to be as follows. The plaintiff, who was a boy between thirteen and fourteen years of age, was employed at the Hollybush Colliery. It appeared that, by arrangement between the owner of the colliery and the defendants' company, the latter ran trains for the carriage of colliers employed at the colliery, who resided at a place called Blackwood, to and fro between that place and Hollybush, the owner of the colliery paying the defendants a certain agreed amount according to the number of colliers carried, and the colliers themselves receiving free passes. Except by train, there was no practicable mode of access to the colliery from Blackwood. The plaintiff, who lived at Blackwood, had signed an agreement with the defendants similar to that signed by other colliers employed at the colliery who lived there, which was in the following terms:—"I, the undersigned, in consideration of you (the London & North-Western Railway Co.) permitting me to travel by your railway between Blackwood and Hollybush stations, either by the mineral, goods, or passenger trains, as may be most convenient to you, at certain agreed reduced rates, do hereby agree that neither I nor my executors or administrators or relatives shall have any claim against you by reason of any accident, injury, or loss which may happen to me or my property while joining, travelling by, or alighting from such trains, or while upon your railway or property, notwithstanding that any such accident, injury, or loss is occasioned by the negligence of you or any of your officers or servants; and further, that I, my executors and administrators, will indemnify you from and against all loss, costs, damages, and expenses which you may incur by reason of any such accident, injury, or loss to me or my property, or by reason of any claim or legal proceedings instituted or taken by me or them against you or any of your officers or servants in respect thereof."

The plaintiff, who had travelled by a train of the defendants from Hollybush to Blackwood, while crossing the line by a level crossing in order to leave the station, was knocked down by an engine belonging to the defendants and sustained injury. The jury found that the accident was occasioned by the negligence of defendants' servants, and that the agreement was not beneficial to the plaintiff, and assessed the damages at 175*l.* The judge entered judgment for the plaintiff for that amount.

Bailhache (B. F. Williams, Q.C., with him), for the defendants, contended that the above-mentioned agreement, taken as a whole, was not to the detriment of or unfair to the plaintiff, and therefore was binding upon him.

Abel Thomas, Q.C., and S. T. Evans, for the plaintiff, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., A. L. Smith, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that the agreement was so far prejudicial to the infant as to be unfair to him, and was therefore not binding upon him; and that consequently the application must be dismissed.

From Q. B. D. COULSON v. DISBOROUGH. April 20.

Practice—Evidence—Witness called by Judge—Cross-Examination.

Motion by the plaintiff for judgment or a new trial of the action. At the trial by Bruce, J., with a jury, a verdict was found for the defendant. The action was for false imprisonment and malicious prosecution. The plaintiff was a domestic servant, and she was engaged to be married to the son of the defendant. The defendant kept a public-house. The plaintiff was spending some hours one evening at the defendant's house, and while she was there the defendant charged her with stealing 1l. 4s. 6d. belonging to him. He said that the money had been taken out of a bag which was hanging up in the bar parlour, and that the coins which had been taken were marked. A police constable was sent for, and the plaintiff was taken to the police station, and was there searched. The sum of 19s. 8d. was found in her possession, and it consisted in part of three florins, which were marked. The plaintiff said that these florins had been given to her the same evening by the defendant's son, in payment of a debt which he owed her. The plaintiff was tried for the alleged theft, and was acquitted. She then brought this action. The defence was, that the defendant had reasonable and probable cause for what he had done, and that he did not act maliciously. At the trial, after the witnesses on both sides had been examined, and counsel on both sides had addressed the jury, the learned judge desired that the defendant's son, who was in Court, but had not been called as a witness, should be called. He was called, and the learned judge asked him whether he had taken the money out of the bag, and whether he had given any money to the plaintiff on the evening in question. The son answered both questions in the negative.

The plaintiff's counsel asked the judge to allow him to cross-examine the son; but the learned judge refused the application.

Warburton, and Sydney Knox, for the plaintiff, asked for a new trial, mainly on the ground that the judge ought to have allowed the witness, whom he had himself called, to be cross-examined.

Candy, Q.C., and Calvert, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and A. L. Smith and Davey, L.J.J.) refused the motion, on the ground that the judge had a right to call a witness who had not been called by either of the parties to the action, and that when a witness was so called by the judge, neither party had a right to cross-examine the witness without the leave of the judge. The judge must exercise his discretion. If the evidence of the witness was adverse to either party, leave should be given to that party to cross-examine him with reference to his answers, but a general fishing cross-examination should not be allowed. In the present case the answers of the witness were irrelevant to the matters in issue in the action, and, though it would have been better if the judge had not called the witness, he had rightly exercised his discretion in refusing to allow a cross-examination.

Practice—Arbitration—Staying Proceedings in Action—"Step in Proceedings"—Unfitness of Arbitrator—Arbitration Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 49), s. 4.

Appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. ([1894] 1 Ch. 68; Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 158), who held that a defendant in an action relating to a matter agreed to be referred to arbitration is not precluded, merely by having required the plaintiffs to deliver a statement of claim, from applying under sect. 4 of the Arbitration Act, 1889, to stay further proceedings in the action; his Lordship being of opinion that requiring the delivery of a statement of claim was not a "step in the proceedings" within that section. His Lordship also held that the fact that the arbitrator named in the contract between the parties was the engineer of the company for whose undertaking the works contracted for were done, or the fact that he had previously expressed an opinion as to some of the matters in dispute, did not, in the absence of evidence of fraud or collusion, render him unfit to act as arbitrator.

The plaintiffs appealed.

Renshaw, Q.C., and A. F. Peterson, for the appellants.

Will—Construction—Lapse—Settlement of Shares.

The testator devised and bequeathed his real and personal estate to trustees upon trust for sale and conversion, and to stand possessed of the residuary estate in trust for his four sisters, by name, in equal shares, "Provided always and I declare that my trustees shall retain the share of each of my sisters of and in the residuary trust funds upon the trusts following"—then followed trusts for the sister for life, with power to give a life interest to a husband, and after her death for her children at 21 or marriage, and in default of children who should attain a vested interest, upon trust for such persons as should be next of kin to her at her decease.

Solicitor—Costs—Taxation—Retainer.

Summons by a client to review a taxation of costs.

The solicitor, in pursuance of an alleged agreement with the client under sect. 8 of the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, had retained 80*l.* in settlement of his costs. After this had been done, the client obtained an order for the delivery of a bill of costs. The solicitor then delivered ten bills of costs, amounting altogether to 140*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.* The client applied for an order to tax the ten bills. The solicitor set up the agreement; but North, J., held that the alleged agreement was not sufficiently definite in its terms, and made the common order for the taxation of the ten bills. The Court of Appeal held that there was an agreement under the Act, but that it must be referred to the taxing master to certify whether the agreement was fair and reasonable, and that for this purpose the bills must be taxed. The Court varied the order by directing the taxation of the ten bills, notwithstanding the agreement, and that the taxing master should certify whether the agreement was fair and reasonable, and all the costs were reserved: vide In re Fraps ([1893] 2 Ch. 284). The taxing master reduced the amount of the bills to 65*l.* 19*s.* 10*d.*, and said that in his judgment the agreement was fair and reasonable. He allowed the whole of Bill No. 2. On the taxation, the client alleged that he had never retained the solicitor to do the work to which Bill No. 2 related, and that it was done without his knowledge. The taxing master came to the conclusion that in fact there had been no retainer as to Bill No. 2, but that it was not open to the client to dispute the retainer as to any of the ten bills, as he had obtained an order to tax the ten bills, and the order had not reserved any right to dispute the retainer, though it would be open to him to dispute the retainer as to particular items in any one of the bills. The client applied to review the taxation, on the ground (inter alia) that he ought to have been allowed to dispute the retainer as to the whole of Bill No. 2.

T. L. Wilkinson, for the client, argued that there ought to have been only one bill, and then it would, on the authority of In re Herbert (34 Ch. D. 504), have been open to the client to dispute all the items included in Bill No. 2. The retainer as to these items had, as the affidavits shewed, been in dispute from the first, and the client ought not to be deprived of the right to dispute the retainer by the mere fact that the solicitor had chosen to deliver ten bills instead of one.

Pelle, for the solicitor.

NORTH, J., held that the taxing master was right. By obtaining an order to tax ten bills, without any reservation of a right to dispute the retainer as to the whole of any one bill, the client had admitted that there was something due on each bill, and could not, therefore, dispute the retainer as to the whole of any bill, though he could do so as to particular items. The Bill No. 2 related to a separate, independent, and isolated transaction. The summons must be dismissed.

HARVEY v. HART.

April 19.

Gaming—Agreement to share Profits in Betting Transactions—Right to Account of Winnings—Principal and Agent—Gaming Acts (8 & 9 Vict. c. 109, s. 18; 55 Vict. c. 9).

The plaintiff and defendant had entered into an agreement of partnership under which they were to share the profits upon bets to be made by the defendant upon horse-races. In pursuance of the agreement the plaintiff had placed money in the defendant's hands, and the defendant had employed the same in making bets. The partnership had been determined under the provisions of the agreement, and the plaintiff issued the writ in this action, and took out this summons, asking that an account might be taken of what was due to the plaintiff from the defendant under the agreement, and that the defendant might be ordered to pay to the plaintiff the amount certified to be due to him on the taking of such account, together with the costs of the action.

Bramwell Davis, for the plaintiff, contended that the defendant was the agent of the plaintiff, and was bound to account for the moneys received on his behalf. He relied on Bridger v. Savage (15 Q. B. D. 363). That case was good law unless it had been affected by the Gaming Act, 1892; but that that was not so was shewn by the recent decision in De Mattos v. Benjamin (63 L. J. (Q.B.) 248).

Edgar Robertson (W. H. Stevenson, with him), for the defendant, submitted that the plaintiff, in order to obtain an account, must proceed upon the contract, which was in itself null and void, and could not be enforced. He relied upon Higginson v. Simpson (2 C. P. D. 76).

STIRLING, J., held that the case was covered in principle by the decision in De Mattos v. Benjamin. The case of Higginson v. Simpson was totally different. There the whole agreement really amounted to a betting transaction; while in this case the defendant, as agent of the plaintiff, had received moneys on his behalf for which he was bound to account. The betting part of the transaction was simply collateral, and the plaintiff was entitled to the account which he claimed.

Motion, under the Fines and Recoveries Act, on behalf of a married woman for liberty to convey her estate or interest in certain hereditaments without the concurrence of her husband.

The question arose whether his Lordship, as a judge of the Chancery Division, had jurisdiction to make the order.

By sect. 91 of the Fines and Recoveries Act, the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster was empowered in certain events, upon the application of the wife, to dispense with the concurrence of the husband in any case in which such concurrence was required by the Act.

By sect. 16 of the Judicature Act, 1873, the jurisdiction of the Court of Common Pleas was transferred to the High Court of Justice; by sect. 34, all matters which would have been within the exclusive cognizance of the Court of Common Pleas if the Act had not passed were assigned to the Common Pleas Division of the High Court; and by an Order in Council dated the 16th of December, 1880, the Queen's Bench, Common Pleas, and Exchequer Divisions of the High Court were consolidated into one division—the Queen's Bench Division.

Edward Ford, in support of the motion, referred to In re Mary Jane Hart (Weekly Notes, 1882, p. 36), in which Hall, V.-C., had made an order similar to that now asked for.

STIRLING, J., declined to make the order. He would not interfere with the arrangements which had been made for the distribution of the business of the Courts. This was a matter which, by virtue of the Act and the Order in Council, was assigned to the Queen's Bench Division. It might be that he had jurisdiction under special circumstances to make such an order; but this was not a case for exercising that jurisdiction, if he had it.

KIDD v. KIDD.

Administration—Business of Testator carried on after his Death—Creditors—Indemnity—Default of Executors.

This was an action for the administration of the estate of a testator who had carried on the business of a licensed victualler. The executors and trustees of the will, in pursuance of a power contained in the will, carried on the business after the death of the testator, and incurred debts to trade creditors. The trade creditors applied by summons in the action for an order declaring that they were entitled to the benefit of the trustees' right of indemnity, according to the principle of Dowse v. Gorton ([1891] A. C. 190), and other cases. It appeared that the trustees had made default in rendering proper accounts, but it did not appear that they had made any default in payment of money. Kekewich, J., on the hearing of the summons, said that in order to deprive the trustees of their indemnity, according to the authority of the cases cited, there must be a default in payment of money, and not merely a default in the rendering of accounts or other discharge of duty; and as in this case there was no default of the former kind, he came to the conclusion that the creditors were entitled to prove against the estate through the right of the trustees to indemnity, and intimated that he would make a declaration to that effect when the action came on for further consideration. The public-house in which the business was carried on was subsequently sold, and realized an amount sufficient to pay all the debts, including those due to the trade creditors. The action now came on to be heard on further consideration.

Gatey, for the plaintiffs.

Benshaw, Q. C., and A. Cross, for the defendant.

E. S. Ford, for the trade creditors.

KEKEWICH, J., now made one order on the summons and the further consideration, such order to contain a declaration that the trade creditors were entitled to be paid the amounts due to them respectively.

Practice—Execution—Contempt—Attachment—Foreclosure Action—Possession given under Writ of Possession, and retaken by Defendant—Order not indorsed pursuant to Order XL. r. 5.

This was an action for foreclosure, commenced by originating summons in April, 1889. The usual foreclosure judgment was made on the 4th of July, 1889. On the 10th of November, 1893 (after some delay, in order to give the defendant time to pay) an order was made for foreclosure absolute, and for delivery of possession of the mortgaged premises by the defendant to the plaintiffs. The order, as drawn up by the registrar, did not name any time within which possession was to be given, and consequently no memorandum could be indorsed thereon in conformity with Order XL. r. 5. The order of the 10th of November, 1893, was personally served on the defendant, but was not obeyed. On the 3rd of March, 1894, a writ of possession issued, and on Monday, the 12th of March, possession was given by the sheriff's officer. On the following Saturday the defendant retook possession. The plaintiffs moved that a writ of attachment should issue against the defendant for his contempt, and the notice of motion with copies of the affidavits were personally served on him.

W. D. Rawlins, for the plaintiffs, submitted that in a case like the present, attachment was the proper remedy, notwithstanding the absence of an indorsed order.

The defendant appeared in person, and asked for time.

KEENEWICH, J., ordered that the writ of attachment should issue, but should lie in the office until Thursday, the 26th of April.

Practice—Description of Female Parties.

This was an action for specific performance. In the writ of summons the names of the plaintiff, "Kathleen Mary Clifford Tofield," and of the defendant, "Mrs. Armstrong Roberts," were given without any other words shewing whether they were spinsters, married women, or widows.

In the statements of claim and defence the plaintiff's name only was given, and the defendant was stated to be "Rose Armstrong Roberts (sued as 'Mrs. Armstrong Roberts.')

At the trial the evidence disclosed the fact that both plaintiff and defendant were widows.

The action was dismissed with costs.

Neville, Q.C., and W. F. Hamilton, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., on being referred by Mr. Registrar Jackson to In re Poinons (Weekly Notes, 1891, p. 139), said that when an action was commenced by or against a woman, she ought to be described as a spinster, a married woman, or a widow. The plaintiff's advisers knew at any rate which of these three descriptions applied to their client, and ought therefore to state in the writ of summons to which class she belonged.

Criminal Law—Undischarged Bankrupt—"Obtaining Credit"—Intent to Defraud—Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52), s. 31.

Case stated by the Chairman of the West Riding Quarter Sessions.

The defendant was indicted under sect. 31 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, for unlawfully obtaining credit to the extent of 20l. and upwards from one Isaac Naylor without informing him that he was an undischarged bankrupt.

At the trial the facts were not in dispute; but the defendant's counsel proposed to cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution with the view of shewing that the credit had been obtained by the defendant without intent to defraud, and submitted that, in the absence of an intent to defraud, the defendant was entitled to an acquittal. The Court held that the existence of an intent to defraud was immaterial, and refused to allow questions to be put solely with a view to shew the absence of such an intent. The defendant was convicted.

B. W. Harper, for the defendant.

Lowenthal, for the prosecution, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Hawkins, Mathew, Cave, and Grantham, JJ.) held that an intent to defraud was not a material ingredient of the offence, and affirmed the conviction.

Criminal Law—Uttering Counterfeit Coin—Previous Conviction—Meaning of "Conviction"—24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, ss. 9, 12.

Case stated by the Common Serjeant of London.

The prisoner was tried upon an indictment under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, s. 12, for feloniously uttering counterfeit coin in 1894, after a previous conviction for uttering in 1888. She pleaded guilty to uttering the coin in 1894 (which, by itself, is only a misdemeanour), and not guilty to the previous conviction. A police officer was called to give evidence, who identified the prisoner as the person previously convicted and produced a certificate of the previous conviction, from which it appeared that she had been released upon her recognizance to come up for judgment when called upon. The prisoner's counsel then submitted that to constitute a conviction there must be both verdict and judgment, that it was apparent from the certificate that no judgment had been pronounced against the prisoner, and that there was therefore no case to go to the jury. The Common Serjeant overruled the objection, and the jury found that the prisoner was the person named in the certificate.

By 24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, s. 9, a person who utters counterfeit coin is guilty of a misdemeanour, "and being convicted thereof shall be liable to be imprisoned," &c.

By sect. 12 a person who has been convicted of a misdemeanour under sect. 9 and afterwards commits a misdemeanour mentioned in that section is guilty of felony, "and being convicted thereof shall be liable to be kept in penal servitude," &c.

Burnie, for the prisoner.

H. Sutton and Partridge, for the prosecution, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Hawkins, Mathew, Cave, and Grantham, JJ.) held that it was clear from the language of sects. 9 and 12 that the word "conviction" as there used meant only the finding of a verdict of guilty by the jury, or a plea of guilty by the prisoner, and did not include a judgment or sentence, which was to follow on the conviction.

Conviction affirmed.

In re PRINTING, TELEGRAPH AND CONSTRUCTION COMPANY OF THE AGENCE HAYAS.
Ex parte CAMMELL.

Company—Director's Qualification—Register—Allotment Sheets.

This was an appeal from a decision of Stirling, J., by which he ordered the register of members of the above-named company to be rectified by the removal of the name of C. Cammell, as the holder of forty shares, which had been allotted to him as his qualification as one of the first directors of the company: ([1894] 1 Ch. 528; Weekly Notes, ante, p. 3). The company appealed. Some fresh evidence was adduced before the Court of Appeal, from which it appeared that Cammell's name was entered for the forty shares on certain loose sheets of paper called allotment sheets, which were laid before the board and signed by the chairman and secretary on the 29th of March, 1893, when the shares were allotted to him, and that the entries on these sheets were copied into the formal register on the 23rd of May, which was after the time when he had refused to make an application for shares, and had sent in his resignation of the office of director.

Buckley, Q.C., and E. Ford, for the company.

Hastings, Q.C., and G. Lawrence, for Cammell.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) held that, having regard to the new evidence, Cammell's name had not been placed on the register of members in respect of these shares until after he had resigned his office as director; and that he had entered into no binding agreement to take the shares. They therefore affirmed the decision of Stirling, J., and dismissed the appeal.

Mortgage of Book Debts—Foreclosure Action—Receiver—Injunction—Lis pendens—2 & 3 Vict. c. 11, s. 7.

¶ In December, 1885, the defendants, being traders, mortgaged certain present and future book debts to the plaintiffs.

In June, 1892, the plaintiffs commenced this action for foreclosure, and the action was registered as a lis pendens on the 1st of July, 1892.

On the 29th of July, 1892, a receiver was appointed of the book debts, and the defendants were restrained by injunction from dealing with them. By arrangement with the defendants, the receiver did not take possession or give notice to the debtors till December, 1893. In the interim between June, 1892, and December, 1893, the defendants assigned the book debts to the London Banking Corporation, who immediately gave notice to the debtors.

This was an application by the corporation in effect for a declaration that they had priority over the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs relied on the registration of the action as a lis pendens, and on their injunction.

The applicants contended that the doctrine of lis pendens had no application to personal estate.

Horace Kent, for the applicants.

Levett, Q.C., and A. W. Rowden, for the plaintiffs.

Ward Coldridge, for the trustee in bankruptcy of the defendants.

CHITTY, J., held that the doctrine of lis pendens could not properly be confined to real estate, but also included personalty, and that accordingly the plaintiffs had priority by virtue of the registration of the action as a lis pendens and their injunction, and dismissed the application with costs.

Solicitor's Lien—Partnership.

This was a summons in an administration action, on behalf of the plaintiff in the action, for an order on Mr. J. B. Cobb, a claimant in the action, to deliver up certain documents of title relating to land to which the testator in the action was beneficially entitled. The respondent claimed to have a solicitor's lien on the documents in question in respect of a sum of 71*l.* 1*l.* 8*d.* The respondent had carried in a claim in the action for 81*l.* 1*l.* 5*s.* 8*d.* He was allowed 100*l.* 4*s.* The other part of his claim was disallowed on the ground that it was statute-barred. The claim was in respect of solicitor's work done by him for the testator as member of a firm of solicitors, of which he was no longer member. The title-deeds in question related to a moiety of a farm purchased by the testator in 1881. The property was conveyed to the respondent as trustee for the testator. The conveyance did not disclose the trust. The title-deeds were kept by the respondent together with documents relating to other property of the testator. The respondent dissolved his partnership in 1883; he retired, and a new partnership was formed. He retained the documents in his own possession after the dissolution of the partnership. The documents relating to property other than the moiety of the farm were subsequently delivered by the respondent to a mortgagee of the testator. The costs in respect of the purchase of the moiety of the farm were included in the 100l. 4s. the respondent had received.

Married Woman—Sequestration—Separate Property—Income subject to Restraint on Anticipation—Income accruing due after Date of Order—Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 1, 19.

Motion by H. H. Hood-Barrs, a solicitor, for an injunction to restrain Mary Cathcart, a married woman, from receiving the rents due and payable on the 25th of March, 1894, by the tenants of certain estates of which she was tenant for life, for her separate use without power of anticipation.

On the 15th of January, 1894, an order was made giving leave to Hood-Barrs to issue a writ of sequestration against the separate estate of Mrs. Cathcart, not subject to any restraint upon anticipation. This order was made because Mrs. Cathcart had failed to obey three previous orders for the payment by her of three sums of taxed costs, amounting in the whole to 115l. 1s. 2d. On the 8th of February the writ of sequestration was issued. After the 25th of March one Lewis, an agent of Mrs. Cathcart, had received from some of the tenants the rents which became due from them on that day, and had since paid over a sum of 300l. which he had thus received to Mrs. Cathcart. In the alternative, the notice of motion asked for leave to issue a second writ of sequestration against the estate of Mrs. Cathcart, not subject to any restraint upon anticipation, for her non-compliance with the order for payment of costs.

There was a second motion by Hood-Barrs and the sequestrators for an order that Lewis should pay over the amount which he had received to the sequestrators.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Ribton, for the first motion, argued that, as regarded the rents which became due on the 25th of March and were after that day in arrear, the restraint upon anticipation had ceased to operate, and therefore these rents were subject to the sequestration.

Mrs. Cathcart, in person.

Bartley Dennis, for the second motion.

Oswald, Q.C., and St. John Clerke, for Lewis, were not called upon.

NORTH, J., held that the material date was that of the order giving leave to issue the sequestration. At that date the March rents were not due, and could not be affected by the sequestration without anticipating them, and that could not be done. He refused to give leave to issue a second sequestration, being of opinion that it would not affect anything which the first did not affect, and he dismissed both motions, with costs.

Practice—Further Consideration—Setting Down—Notice to Persons served with Notice of Judgment, but not having entered Appearance—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XVI, rr. 40, 41, 42; Order XXXVI, r. 21.

Further consideration of an originating summons for the administration of the estate of a testator who died in 1860. The plaintiff was a residuary legatee; the defendants were the executors of the surviving executor of the testator. An order was made in June, 1893, for accounts and inquiries. Notice of this order was served upon the other residuary legatees, but they did not enter an appearance. A memorandum of this service was entered in compliance with rule 42 of Order XVI. The chief clerk having made his certificate, the action was set down for further consideration. The question now arose, whether notice of the setting down for further consideration ought to have been given to the residuary legatees who had not entered appearances.

Bramwell Davis, for the plaintiff.

L. Ryland, for the defendants.

NORTH, J., held that it was not necessary to give notice to the persons in question. There might, he said, be cases in which a judge would not make an order especially affecting a person who had not entered an appearance without requiring notice of the setting down to be first given to that person. But that would be a matter within the discretion of the judge. In the absence of some such special reason, his Lordship did not see why the notice should be given.

ALDIN v. LATIMER, CLARK, MUIRHEAD &amp; Co.

Lessor and Lessee—Lease of Premises for express purpose—Derogation from Grant—Easement—Access of Air—Definite Aperture or Channel.

In this action plaintiff sought (inter alia) to restrain the defendants from interfering with the access of air to certain premises of which he was lessee, and which adjoined premises occupied by the defendants. The plaintiff and defendants derived title under M., who, previously to 1873, carried on business as a timber merchant upon the premises now occupied by the plaintiff. In 1873 M. sold the goodwill of his timber business to the plaintiff and granted him a lease of the premises. The lease contained a covenant by the plaintiff to carry on upon the premises throughout the term of the lease the business theretofore carried on by M.; and M. covenanted for quiet enjoyment in the usual terms. There were upon the premises included in the lease certain sheds used in the business for the purpose of stacking and drying timber. M. remained in occupation of the adjoining premises till his death in 1892, after which his whole property, including the plaintiff's premises, was sold by his devisees to the defendant company, who erected upon the land adjoining the plaintiff's premises certain buildings, which, as the plaintiff alleged, interfered with the access of air to his drying sheds, so as to render them substantially less useful for the purpose of the timber business which he was bound to carry on upon the demised premises. It was contended on his behalf that the acts of the defendants constituted either a derogation from the grant contained in the lease, or else a violation of the covenant for quiet enjoyment contained therein.

Finlay, Q.C., Beale, Q.C., and Murey, for the defendants.

STIRLING, J., said that the case was governed by the principle recognised in North Eastern Railway Company v. Elliot (1 J. & H. 145), Caledonian Railway Company v. Sprot (2 Macq. 449), and Robinson v. Kilvert (41 Ch. D. 88), viz., that the grantor of land to be used for a particular purpose is under an obligation to abstain from doing anything on the adjoining property belonging to him which would prevent the land granted from being used for the purpose for which the grant was made.

With regard to the access of air, the authorities shewed that under a grant expressed in general terms, and not made for any specific purpose, the grantee would not acquire a right by way of easement to the access of air, except where such right was enjoyed through a definite aperture, or through a definite channel over adjoining property; but there was nothing in those authorities inconsistent with the principle first above stated. That principle accorded with the general rule that a grantor may not derogate from his own grant. Here the defendants, as assigns of M., were subject to the obligation to abstain from doing anything on the adjoining property which would substantially interfere with the carrying on of the business. Upon the evidence, his Lordship held that there had been some interference with the access of air, but not enough to justify an injunction; the plaintiff, however, was entitled to inquiry as to damages.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. CORPORATION OF CARDIFF.

Corporation—Borough Fund—Misapplication of Fund—Increase of Mayor's Salary for Illegal Purpose—Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, s. 143—Cardiff Corporation Act, 1884, s. 32.

This was an action by the Attorney-General, at the relation of certain burgesses and ratepayers of the borough of Cardiff, against the corporation, claiming a declaration that certain payments out of the borough fund were unlawful and ultra vires. The payments complained of were—(1) the sum of 650*l.*, which in the year 1893 was added to the mayor's salary for the purpose of celebrating the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of York; and (2) the sum of 400*l.*, being the amount of interest at 4*l.* per cent. upon 10,000*l.* (the proposed contribution to University College), which in the year 1892 was added to the mayor's salary on his undertaking to pay over the same to the credit of the college. By the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, s. 143, the corporation were empowered, if the borough fund was more than sufficient for the purposes for which it was applicable under the Act, to apply the surplus "for the public benefit of the inhabitants and the improvement of the borough." By the Cardiff Corporation Act, 1884, s. 32, the corporation were authorized to contribute 10,000*l.* towards the purchase of a site for the University College of South Wales, or towards the cost of erecting suitable buildings for the college.

Haldane, Q.C., and O. L. Clare, for the plaintiffs.

Neville, Q.C., and Woodfall, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., held that the payment of the 400*l.* was unauthorized. In his judgment, there was nothing in the special Act of 1884 which justified the payment of interest on the 10,000*l.* before that sum was paid, although the corporation had passed a resolution that that sum should be paid as a contribution to the college in a certain event which had not yet happened. Neither was the payment of the interest authorized by the general powers of the corporation. No doubt it was an advantage to some of the tradespeople of Cardiff to have a flourishing college in the town in which they lived; but he failed to see how the payment in question was "for the public benefit of the inhabitants and improvement of the borough" within the meaning of sect. 143 of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882. As to the 650*l.*, it was clear that the corporation were entitled to make a reasonable addition to the mayor's salary if it was anticipated that in his year of office, by reason of the occurrence of some event of national importance, his expenditure as mayor in festivities was likely to be increased. In the present instance, his Lordship felt some doubt as to the legality of the transaction by reason of the manner in which the matter had been carried out; but, under the circumstances, he should give the corporation the benefit of the doubt. On the corporation giving an undertaking not to pay any sum in future by way of interest on the 10,000*l.*, there would be no order, except that the costs of all parties be paid out of the borough fund.

CORRECTION.

In re LUMLEY.

In the note of this case (ante, p. 77), it should have been stated that Mr. Justice North held that the material date was the date of the order for payment of the costs—not, as was erroneously stated, the date of the order giving leave to issue the sequestration. The order of the 15th of January, 1894, originally contained an order for payment of the costs; but that part of the order was struck out by the Court of Appeal, the order, as thus altered, only giving leave to issue a sequestration in respect of the costs, which had previously been ordered to be paid.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. May 1.
 NIND v. NINETEENTH CENTURY BUILDING SOCIETY.

Landlord and Tenant—Breach of Covenant to repair—Liability of Underlessee for Costs of Lessor's Solicitor and Surveyor—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), s. 14, sub ss. 1, 2—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1892 (55 & 56 Vict. c. 13), s. 2, sub-s. 1.

Appeal from the judgment of a Divisional Court (Day and Lawrence, JJ.), reported [1894] 1 Q. B. 472.

The action, which was brought in the City of London Court, was under sect. 2, sub-sect. 1, of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1892 (55 & 56 Vict. c. 13), by the original lessor against underlessees of premises to recover costs and expenses incurred by the lessor in the employment of a solicitor and surveyor as after mentioned. That sub-sect. provides that "a lessor shall be entitled to recover as a debt due to him from a lessee, and in addition to damages (if any) all reasonable costs and expenses properly incurred by the lessor in the employment of a solicitor and surveyor or valuer, or otherwise, in reference to any breach giving rise to a right of re-entry or forfeiture which at the request of the lessee is waived by the lessor by writing under his hand, or from which the lessee is relieved, under the provisions of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, or of this Act."

The lease of the premises contained a covenant for repair, and the usual proviso for re-entry on breach of the same. The premises being out of repair, the lessor employed a surveyor to inspect the premises and prepare a schedule of the works necessary to remedy the breach of covenant. He also employed a solicitor to prepare a notice under the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, s. 14, sub-s. 1, which notice was served by leaving it on the premises. The defendants, in order to avoid a forfeiture, complied with the notice and put the premises into repair.

The judge gave judgment for the plaintiff.

On appeal the Divisional Court affirmed his decision, holding that the defendants were lessees within the meaning of sect. 2, sub-sect. 1, of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1892, who had been relieved under the provisions of the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881.

Hopkinson, Q.C., and D'Eyncourt, for the defendants.

Jelf, Q.C., and Terrell, for the plaintiff.

May 1. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., A. L. Smith, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that the defendants, being underlessees, were not lessees from whom the plaintiff was entitled to recover the expenses in question under sect. 2, sub-sect. 1, of the Act of 1892.

LORD ESHER, M.R., and DAVEY, L.J., further expressed an opinion that the defendants had not been "relieved" within the meaning of the sub-section, that expression referring, not to sub-sect. 1 of sect. 14 of the Act of 1881, but to relief granted by the Court under that Act or the Act of 1892. The Court therefore allowed the appeal.

Liverpool Court of Passage—Appeal—Liverpool Court of Passage Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 37), s. 10.

Appeal of plaintiff from the judgment of the learned judge of the Liverpool Court of Passage on the trial of the action without a jury.

Sect. 10 of the Liverpool Court of Passage Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 37), provides that "an appeal shall be allowed upon the trial of any issue in the Court of Passage in every case where an appeal would be allowed on a trial at nisi prius and subject to the same rules, regulations, and provisions."

Montague Lush, for the defendant, took the preliminary objection that the appeal should have been to a Divisional Court, as in the case of other inferior courts, not to the Court of Appeal in the first instance.

Shepherd Little, for the plaintiff, contra.

May 1. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., A. L. Smith, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that, under the above-mentioned section, an appeal lay from the Passage Court to the Court of Appeal as in actions in the High Court. They therefore proceeded to hear the appeal, and ultimately sent the case down for a new trial.

From Prob. Ct.                      ALLEN v. ALLEN AND BELL.                      May 2.

This was a suit by a husband for dissolution of marriage on the ground of the wife's adultery with the co-respondent and a person unknown. The suit was tried before the President and a special jury. The jury found that the respondent had committed adultery with the co-respondent, and that the co-respondent had committed adultery with the respondent, and also that the respondent had committed adultery with a person unknown. The President granted a decree nisi, and condemned the co-respondent to pay the costs of the petitioner.

The co-respondent applied for a new trial on the ground (inter alia) of misdirection, in that the judge had omitted to tell the jury that the evidence of the respondent was not admissible against him.

The respondent in the course of her evidence had given an account of certain matters at Ostend, where the adultery was alleged to have been committed, which the counsel for the co-respondent knew would be at variance with the account which would be given by the co-respondent, and he asked leave to cross-examine her. This was refused by the President. In his summing-up the President called the attention of the jury to the complete discrepancy between the story given by the respondent and that given by the co-respondent in certain particulars. It was now contended, on behalf of the co-respondent, that the President was wrong in contrasting the evidence of the respondent and the co-respondent after refusing liberty to cross-examine the respondent.

Murphy, Q.C., Bigham, Q.C., and Bargrave Deane, for the co-respondent.

Sir H. James, Q.C., Sir E. Clarke, Q.C., Lockwood, Q.C., and Searle, for the petitioner.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) granted the application. In their Lordships' opinion, it was contrary to all rules of evidence and opposed to natural justice that the evidence of one party should be received as evidence against another party without the latter having an opportunity of testing its truthfulness by cross-examination. If, on the other hand, the right to cross-examine were allowed, the admission of the evidence of the respondent and co-respondent against each other would be unobjectionable. Their Lordships were disposed to think that the co-respondent ought to have been allowed to cross-examine the respondent, and they had grave doubts whether Glennie v. Glennie (3 Sw. & Tr. 109) could be relied upon as establishing a contrary practice since the passing of the Evidence Further Amendment Act, 1869. It was, however, unnecessary to express any concluded opinion on the point, because their Lordships were already of opinion that, if the judge refused to allow the co-respondent to cross-examine the respondent, he ought to have distinctly directed the jury to disregard the respondent's evidence in considering the case against the co-respondent. There must be a new trial.

Bankruptcy—"Property of Bankrupt"—Undischarged Bankrupt trading without Knowledge of Trustee—Second Adjudication—Right of Creditors to Property acquired by Trading—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, ss. 44, 54.

Appeal against a decision of a Divisional Court (Vaughan Williams and Wright, J.J.), reversing an order of the Hanley County Court, by which it was directed that the net assets of J. T. Clark, who had been twice adjudicated a bankrupt, should be distributed as assets in the first bankruptcy.

Clark was adjudicated a bankrupt on the 23rd of May, 1884. No dividend was paid to the creditors, the assets not being sufficient to pay costs. In September, 1887, the trustee was released, and thereupon, by sect. 82 (4) of the Bankruptcy Act 1883, the official receiver became trustee in the bankruptcy. The bankrupt did not obtain a discharge, but, without the knowledge of the trustee or the official receiver, he commenced trading again, and in so doing acquired some property. On the 11th of May, 1893, he executed a deed by which he assigned all his personal property to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors, and in consideration of the assignment the creditors thereby released him from their debts. On the 16th of June, 1893, a receiving order was made against the bankrupt on the petition of a creditor, the act of bankruptcy being the execution of the deed, and on the 11th of July he was adjudicated a bankrupt a second time. The official trustee became the trustee in this bankruptcy also. On his application for the direction of the Court as to the distribution of the bankrupt's assets, the above-mentioned order was made by the county court. The Divisional Court held that the assets of the bankrupt must be administered by the trustee in the second bankruptcy, without prejudice to any claim of the creditors in the first bankruptcy to rank as creditors in the second bankruptcy. The Divisional Court were of opinion that the case was governed by Cohen v. Mitchell (25 Q. B. D. 262).

The creditors in the first bankruptcy appealed.

Muir Mackenzie, and Ringwood, for the appellants.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Clayton, for the creditors in the second bankruptcy.

Arthur Russell, for the official receiver.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and A. L. Smith and Davey, L.J.J.) allowed the appeal and restored the order of the county court. They held that the case was governed by Ex parte Ford (1 Ch. D. 521), and that there had been no "dealing for value" with the bankrupt after the first adjudication within the meaning of Cohen v. Mitchell, and therefore nothing to interfere with the title of the trustee in the first bankruptcy, under sect. 44, to all property acquired by the bankrupt before his discharge. The trustee did not even know of the bankrupt's trading.

In this case a creditor had obtained judgment against the debtor, a lunatic, not so found.

The lunatic was a married man 36 years of age, but there were no children of the marriage. The creditor obtained judgment on the 16th of March. On the 17th a writ of f. fa. was delivered to the sheriff, who, on the morning of the 19th, took possession and levied execution. In the afternoon of the same day the wife obtained an order in lunacy appointing her interim receiver pending a summons which had been taken out by her on the 12th of March to have the lunatic's property sold and a scheme of maintenance sanctioned allowing maintenance out of the lunatic's property both to herself and her husband, the lunatic; and thereupon the sheriff gave up possession to the receiver. On the 3rd of April the scheme was approved by the Master in Lunacy. An application was now made to the Court to sanction the scheme, the main question being whether the wife was entitled to an allowance for maintenance.

E. S. Ford, for the lunatic, relied on In re Pink (23 Ch. D. 577) and In re Plenderleith ([1893] 3 Ch. 332.)

Ernest Pollock, for the judgment creditor.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) struck out of the scheme the allowance of maintenance to the wife, pointing out that sect. 117 of the Lunacy Act, 1890, under which the Court could grant allowances for maintenance out of the lunatic's property, did not mention the wife as one of the objects. It was a strong thing even to prefer a lunatic debtor to his creditors, but to prefer his wife and family to his creditors would be stronger still. In such a case as the present, which was of frequent occurrence, the execution creditor was not entitled to take the lunatic's property from the jurisdiction of the Court and turn the lunatic into a pauper, but was only entitled to the property so long as the lunatic was properly maintained. That had been the rule of the Court from time immemorial. Accordingly, the rights of the execution creditor in this case must be subject to the maintenance allowed to the lunatic. But the order would be without prejudice to the execution creditor's rights as between himself and the other creditors, notwithstanding that the sheriff had given up possession to the receiver.

UNDERWOOD v. LEWIS.

May 6.

Solicitor and Client—Retainer in Common Law Action—Refusal of Solicitor to act further during the pendency of the Action—Action for Costs previously incurred—Entire Contract.

Application by defendant for judgment or new trial in an action tried before Grantham, J., with a jury.

The action was by a solicitor upon a bill of costs. The defendant appeared to be as follows. The plaintiff had retainers from the defendant to act as his solicitor in three actions brought against the defendant, of which one was by contractors for certain work done on premises of the defendant, and the other two were actions brought respectively for libel and for con-mission by the architect employed by the defendant to superintend the works. While these actions were pending, the plaintiff declined to act further for the defendant in the actions. The plaintiff sued the defendant for costs in respect of the conduct of the actions by him previously to his so declining to act. The plaintiff alleged certain reasons for declining to act further for the defendant; but the learned judge at the trial ruled that a solicitor was entitled, if he chose, to throw up his retainer during the pendency of an action, giving reasonable notice to his client of his intention so to do, and was not bound to shew any reason for so doing; and that he could then recover costs in respect of his previous conduct of the action. He therefore directed a verdict for the plaintiff, without going into any question as to the validity of the reasons alleged by the plaintiff for the course he had taken.

Str Henry James, Q.C., and Jelf, Q.C. (Bankes, with them), for the defendant.

Lockwood, Q.C., and H. Tindal Atkinson (Winch, Q.C., with them), for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., A. L. Smith, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that the contract of a solicitor upon a retainer in an action in the nature of a common law action was an entire contract to act for the client until the action was finished, and, though there might be reasons which would entitle the solicitor to throw up his retainer during the pendency of the action, giving reasonable notice to his client of his intention to do so, and nevertheless recover costs in respect of his conduct of the action up to that point, yet he could not do so at his mere will and pleasure without reason. They therefore directed a new trial.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) allowed the appeal, holding that a landowner is entitled to cut off the branches of his neighbour's trees which overhang his land, however long they have been there, and that he is not bound to give the neighbour notice of his intention to cut them unless he has to go on the neighbour's land for the purpose. The action was therefore dismissed.

H. in her right should during the coverture or afterwards become entitled, amounting to the sum of 100l.

At the date of the settlement A. H., who was then a spinster and an infant, was entitled to a contingent reversionary interest in a share of the proceeds of sale of real estate directed by the will of her grandfather to be sold on the death of the tenant for life, but which had been in fact sold by the tenant for life under the Settled Land Acts.

The settlement was not sanctioned by the Court under the Infants' Settlement Act.

In June, 1880, A. H., shortly after she came of age, executed a deed in which her husband concurred whereby she ratified the settlement, declaring that the several covenants therein contained should take effect in the same manner as they would have done if she had been of full age when the settlement was executed.

This deed was not acknowledged by A. H. under the Fines and Recoveries Act or Malins' Act.

The husband, C. M. H., died in April, 1893, and the tenant for life in June of the same year.

The question was whether the sum of 1880l., being the share of A. H. under her grandfather's will, was bound by the settlement.

Byrne, Q.C., and Ingpen, for the wife, contended that she was absolutely entitled to the share, on the ground that a married woman was incapable, with or without the concurrence of her husband, of affirming her covenant made while an infant.

Bovill Smith, for the trustees of the settlement.

Chubb, for the trustees of the will.

CHITTY, J., held that the fund was bound by the settlement of 1879.

McDERMOTT v. BOYD.
BARKER'S CLAIM.

May 3.

Statute of Limitations (21 Jac. 1, c. 16), s. 3—Mortgage—Sale.

This was a creditor's action to administer the estate of James McHenry, a testator who died in May, 1891. A claim was carried in by Barker, a money broker, in respect of two advances made to the testator in 1881 and 1882 respectively. The chief clerk disallowed the claim on the ground that the whole of it was statute-barred. H. J. Barker took out a summons, now heard, to vary the chief clerk's certificate by admitting his claim to proof.

The second debt was incurred for the purpose of purchasing scrip for Western Extension Bonds of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway. At this time McHenry signed a letter to Barker in the following terms:—"In consideration of your advancing to me the sum of 13,865*l.*, at 6½ per cent. per annum, repayable with interest on the 30th of November, 1882, I hand you herewith the under-mentioned securities, of the nominal value of 13,500*l.*, to be held by you as collateral security for the due repayment of the said loan and the interest thereon. In the event of the loan remaining unpaid after it becomes due, I hereby authorize you to realize the securities as you may deem fit, for the purpose of repaying yourselves the amount due to you; and I undertake to pay you any difference between the net proceeds of the securities and the amount due to you, as well on account of the sum advanced as for interest thereon, and all charges and expenses of realization." A schedule to the letter described the scrip, which was given into the possession of Barker. Barker exchanged the scrip for bonds; he received the dividends on the bonds from time to time. The loan was not paid off, and Barker realized the bonds in September, 1889. No payment was made or acknowledgment given by McHenry in respect of this loan for more than six years before the action was commenced. One question raised on the summons was, whether the claimant Barker was entitled to prove for the balance of his account in respect of the loan of 1882, or whether he was statute-barred.

S. Hall, Q.C., and Herbert Brown, for the claimant.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Gregson, for the estate.

NORTH, J., held that there was a separate contract to pay the balance that should be due on a sale by the mortgagee, and that, as the obligation did not arise till the sale took place, time did not begin to run under the statute till September, 1893. He therefore admitted the claimant in respect of this part of his claim.

May 4.

Bankruptcy—Fraud on Bankruptcy Law—Annulment of Adjudication with Consent of Creditors—Purchase of Debts of Creditors—Secret Agreement with one Creditor.

Summons by one of the defendants, an executor of the testator, whose estate was being administered in the action, to vary the chief clerk's certificate by disallowing a debt of 6000*l.* which had been certified to be due to Emil Levita. The plaintiff was a creditor. The testator died in 1891. In March, 1886, he had been adjudicated a bankrupt. In May, 1888, a proof by Levita in the bankruptcy was admitted for 25,000*l.* In 1889 the testator desired to obtain an annulment of the adjudication, and for that purpose he arranged with H. L. Bischoffsheim, against whom he had a large claim, that Bischoffsheim should provide money to buy up the debts of the creditors who had proved in the bankruptcy. Accordingly, Bischoffsheim paid 40,000*l.* to two trustees, who employed it in buying up a number of the proved debts, the debts which they thus purchased being assigned to them. Levita, by deed dated the 20th of December, 1889, assigned his debt to the two trustees, the consideration stated in the deed being 2000*l.* paid to him by them. The testator, on the 31st of January, 1890, presented a petition to the Court of Bankruptcy for annulment of the adjudication. The petition stated the names of the creditors whose proofs had been admitted in the bankruptcy, and that their debts had been paid, satisfied, or assigned in the manner appearing in a schedule, and that the persons in whom those debts were then vested consented to the annulment, and had signed consents at the foot of the petition. Among the debts thus stated was that of Levita, and the trustees signed a consent in respect of that debt. On the 24th of February, 1890, an order was made annulling the adjudication, the order containing a recital that it appeared to the Court that all the creditors who had proved in the bankruptcy (except one whose debt was disputed, and the amount of whose claim had been paid into Court) had been paid or settled with, or had assented in writing to the annulment. Levita claimed to prove in the action for 6000*l.*, on the ground that he had assigned his debt to the trustees upon the undertaking of the testator that, in consideration of his so doing, he would pay him 6000*l.* The testator wrote a letter to Levita giving this undertaking.

H. Reed, Q.C., and Broholm, for the summons.

Sir A. Watson, Q.C., and Olafson, for Levita.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and A. Young, for the plaintiff.

NORTH, J., held that Levita's claim must be rejected. The order annulling the adjudication was made on the footing that all the creditors whose proofs had been admitted in the bankruptcy had been satisfied or assented, and that the debtor would thenceforth be free from liability to them. In the case of Levita, this statement was not true if the claim for 6000*l.* was outstanding. If the payment of this 6000*l.* was part of the arrangement for the assignment of the debt, it should have been stated in the deed. If this had been done, the other creditors might have made further inquiries about it. In his Lordship's opinion, the deed was prepared for the purpose of concealing the real facts. Levita, having chosen to represent that 2000*l.* was the whole purchase-money, could not now say that he was entitled to something more. His Lordship referred to Jackman v. Mitchell (13 Ves. 581) and Hall v. Dyson (17. Q. B.

785), as supporting his view. He thought that for the present purpose there was no distinction between a petition for the annulment of an adjudication and a deed of composition.

MORRIS v. ATHERDEN.

Will—Construction—Devise of Real Estate for Life—Appointment of Devisee as "Residuary Legatee."

The testator directed that all his funeral expenses and just and lawful debts might be paid. Then he gave his "residence called The Hurst, as well as all my lands, tenements, and hereditaments, to my dear wife M. E. Morris, for and during the term of her natural life, wherever and whatsoever, real and personal." Then, after giving several pecuniary legacies, he concluded, "and to this my last will and testament I appoint and direct and make my dear wife sole executrix to this my will, and also at the same time I appoint and make her my residuary legatee."

The plaintiff, as heir-at-law, claimed a declaration that the testator's widow took the real estate for her life only, and that upon her death such real estate devolved upon him.

The defendant claimed the property in question as sole trustee and executor of the will of M. E. Morris.

Hastings, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the plaintiff referred to Windus v. Windus (6 D. M. & G. 549), Singleton v. Tomlinson (3 App. Cas. 404), In re Methuen & Blore's Contract (16 Ch. D. 696), and Hughes v. Pritchard (6 Ch. D. 21).

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendant.

STIRLING, J., held, upon the construction of the will, that the title of the plaintiff as heir-at-law prevailed. Primâ facie, the words "residuary legatee" did not extend to real estate, and there was here no context to take them out of the general rule.

STARKEY v. EYRES.

Will—Construction—Power of Appointment—Gift to Wife's "Relations" as she should appoint—Donee of Power Illegitimate and Childless—Exercise of Power in favour of Children of her "Brothers and Sisters"—Validity.

T. Deakin by his will, dated the 6th of December, 1854, gave all his property to his wife for life, and after his death directed payment of certain legacies, and then gave one moiety of the residue "to my wife's relations as she may direct."

He died on the 14th of February, 1855, leaving his wife, Lydia Deakin, him surviving. Lydia Deakin by her will, dated the 11th of November, 1891, purported to exercise the power in favour of children of persons described as her brothers and sisters.

Lydia Deakin was born in 1807 out of wedlock; but her mother in May, 1808, intermarried with J. Wilkinson, who recognised Lydia Deakin as his child, and made no difference between her and the children born after the marriage. In 1825 she married T. Deakin, and at the date of his will she was 47 years of age and childless, and he knew that she was illegitimate. She died in November, 1892, and the question raised upon this summons was whether her will was a valid exercise of the power conferred upon her by her husband's will.

Seddon, for the summons.

Hastings, Q.C., R. J. Parker, C. E. E. Jenkins, Arnold Herbert, Peterson, and Clydesdale, for the various parties interested.

It was contended that the word "relations" meant primâ facie legitimate relations; that Lydia Deakin might have had issue by a subsequent marriage; and that consequently T. Deakin could not be taken to have authorized her to make an appointment in favour of persons not legally her "relations."

STIRLING, J., held, in accordance with the principles laid down in Crook v. Hill (Law Rep. 6 Ch. 311; 6 H. L. 265), and In re Jodrell (44 Ch. D. 590; [1891] A. C. 304), that the word "relations" ought, having regard to the terms of the will in connection with surrounding circumstances, to be read otherwise than in its strict primary meaning; and so reading it, he thought that by his wife's "relations" the testator meant those persons who would have been her relations in case her birth had taken place after, instead of before, the marriage of her parents. The case of In re Standley's Estate (Law Rep. 5 Eq. 303), relied upon in support of the opposite contention, was inconsistent with Crook v. Hill, and his Lordship declined to follow it, having regard to the more recent authorities which were binding on him. The appointments made by Lydia Deakin consequently were good, except one in favour of "the natural son of my sister." There was nothing in the will or the external circumstances to justify the inference that the testator included him among the persons designated as his wife's "relations."

This agreement is to be irrevocable and to be sufficient in itself to authorize you, in the event of my not subscribing, or finding responsible subscribers as above mentioned, to subscribe for the said shares in my name, and to authorize the directors of the company to allot such shares to me, and to enter my name in the company's register in respect thereof." Ormerod was never called upon to subscribe or find subscribers for shares; but on the authority of the letter an application for shares was made, and on this the shares were allotted, and in respect of them his name was entered on the register of shareholders. In the winding-up of the company the liquidator placed Ormerod on the list of contributories, and Ormerod applied by summons for an order to vary the list by excluding his name from it.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said that the letter did not amount to an application for allotment like the letter in Ex parte Audain, but was only an authority to subscribe for shares in the name of Ormerod if he did not subscribe or find responsible subscribers if and when called upon to do so. The intention was that he should be called upon before he was put on the register, so that he might have an opportunity of finding responsible subscribers if he did not subscribe himself. He had not been so called upon, and he had been registered as a shareholder without his authority, and his name must therefore be excluded from the list of contributories.

The referee awarded that nothing was due from the defendants to the plaintiff, and directed that the defendants recover against the plaintiff the costs of the action and of the award.

Appeal from the order of Lawrance, J., at chambers, granting a charging order to a solicitor under sect. 28 of the Solicitors Act, 1860.

The solicitor had acted for the plaintiff in an action, which was compromised on certain terms as to payment by instalments, judgment being given for the plaintiff. The plaintiff then assigned for valuable consideration the money payable to him under the compromise to a person who had been a witness in the action. The assignee gave notice of the assignment to the plaintiff's solicitor, who thereupon applied for a charging order on the money payable under the compromise. It was not proved that express notice of the solicitor's claim was given to the assignee.

Crispe, and Hawtin, for the solicitor.

THE COURT (Charles and Collins, JJ.) held that the provision in sect. 28 of the Solicitors Act, 1860, avoiding conveyances to defeat a charging order, "unless made to a bonâ fide purchaser for value without notice," means, without notice of the solicitor's right to a lien, and not, without notice of the existence of a charging order, that the assignee of the judgment debt, being aware of the existence of the action and that the solicitor was acting in it for the plaintiff, must be taken to have had notice of the solicitor's right to a lien on the property recovered in the action, and therefore was not a "purchaser for value without notice," within the meaning of the Act, and the solicitor was entitled to a charging order.

This was an appeal from interlocutors of the Court of Session, Scotland (21 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Bettie) 204). The action was brought in the Court of Session by a Scotch distiller, who died during its dependence and who was represented in the appeal by the respondents, against the appellant firm, who are merchants in London, concluding for damages in respect of the appellants' alleged breach of a mercantile contract, made in England, but to be mutually performed in Scotland. The contract contained this stipulation: "Should any dispute arise out of this contract, the same to be settled by arbitration by two members of the London Corn Exchange, or their umpire in the usual way." The appellants contended that the Scotch action was excluded by the arbitration clause. This contention was repelled by the Lord Ordinary; and Lords Adam and McLaren, (dissenting Lord Kinnear), of the First Division, who held that, the place of performance being Scotland, the whole stipulations of the contract, including the clause of reference, must be governed by Scotch Law. And in that view the agreement to refer being to arbitrators unnamed, it was by the Law of Scotland invalid, (see Tancred, Arrol & Co. v. Steel Company of Scotland, 15 App. Cas. 125), and could not prevent the trial of the merits in the Scotch Courts.

Sir Henry James, Q.C., and A. Graham Murray, Q.C. (the latter of the Scotch Bar), with them A. H. Ruegg, heard for the appellants.

The Lord Advocate (J. B. Balfour, Q.C.), and Danckwerts, heard for the respondents.

THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Ashbourne, Macnaghten, Morris, and Shand) holding, that the law of England and not the law of Scotland applied to the arbitration clause, and made it obligatory, REVERSED the interlocutors appealed from, and remitted the case back to the Scotch Court to stay procedure in hoc statu, in order that the matter in dispute may be settled by arbitration. Such order leaving the parties at liberty in the course of the reference to avail themselves of the provisions of the Arbitration Act of 1889, and enable the Court of Session, in the event of any lapse of the reference, to dispose of the merits of the case. The respondents to pay the costs of the appeal and the costs in the Court of Session from the date of the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor. The other costs remaining to be determined by the Court when the cause comes finally to be dealt with after the arbitration is completed.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said:—Where a contract is entered into between parties residing in different places, where different systems of law prevail, it is a question in each case with reference to what law the parties intended that their rights, either under the whole or any part of the contract, should be determined. And in the present case the language of the arbitration clause indicated clearly that the parties intended that that particular stipulation should be interpreted and governed by the law, not of Scotland, but of England, and there was nothing in the way of that intention being carried out. That when once it is admitted that the Courts in Scotland do enforce arbitration clauses (the arbitrators being named), and hold their hands from the determination of the merits, it followed that this arbitration clause falling to be interpreted by the law of England—and therefore a valid arbitration clause—there was no reason why the Courts of Scotland should not give effect to it just as much as if it were a valid arbitration clause according to the law of Scotland.

LORD WATSON said:—The jurisdiction of the Scotch Courts is not wholly ousted by such a contract. It deprives the Court of jurisdiction to inquire into and decide the merits of the cause, whilst it leaves the Court free to entertain the suit and to pronounce a decree in conformity with the award of the arbitrator. Should the arbitration from any cause prove abortive, the full jurisdiction of the Court will revive to the effect of enabling it to hear and determine the action upon its merits. The law of Scotland has from the earliest times permitted private parties to exclude the merits of any dispute between them from the consideration of the Court by simply naming their arbitrator. The rule that a reference to arbitrators not named cannot be enforced does not rest upon any essential considerations of public policy. Even if an opposite inference were deducible from the authorities by which it was established, the rule has been so largely trenched upon by the legislature of the last fifty years, both in general and in local and personal Acts, that his Lordship, would hesitate to affirm that the policy upon which it was originally based could now be regarded as of cardinal importance.

Factors Acts—Pledge of Goods—Hire and Purchase Agreement—Possession of Goods under Agreement to purchase—Factors Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 45), ss. 2, 9.

Appeal of defendant from judgment of a Divisional Court

(Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Day, J.) affirming the judgment of a county court judge.

The action was for wrongfully detaining a piano from the plaintiff. The facts were as follows. By an agreement in writing made on the 23rd of December, 1892, between the plaintiff, thereafter called the "owner," and one Brewster, thereafter called the "hirer," it was witnessed that the owner agreed to let the piano in question on hire to the hirer, in consideration of which the hirer agreed to pay the owner, on the 23rd of December, 1892, a rent or "hire instalment" of 10s. 6d., and 10s. 6d. on the 23rd of each succeeding month; that, if the hirer did not duly perform the agreement, the owner might (without prejudice to his rights under the agreement) terminate the hiring and retake possession of the piano, and that, if the hiring should be terminated by the hirer as after mentioned, and the piano should be returned to the owner, the hirer should remain liable to the owner for arrears of hire up to the date of such return; and that the owner agreed that the hirer might terminate the hiring by delivering up the piano to the owner; and that, if the hirer should punctually pay the full sum of 18l. 18s. by 10s. 6d. at the date of signing, and thirty-six monthly instalments of 10s. 6d. in advance, as aforesaid, the piano should become the sole and absolute property of the hirer; but unless and until the full sum of 18l. 18s. was paid, the piano should be, and continue to be, the sole property of the owner. Possession of the piano was given under that agreement to Brewster, who subsequently pledged it with the defendant to secure an advance, the defendant having no notice that the piano did not belong to Brewster, or that the plaintiff had any right to it. The plaintiff demanded the piano from defendant, who refused to deliver it up except on payment of the sum advanced.

The plaintiff thereupon brought the action. The county court judge gave judgment for the plaintiff. On appeal the Divisional Court affirmed his judgment. By the Factors Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 45), s. 9, "Where a person, having bought or agreed to buy goods, obtains with the consent of the seller possession of the goods or the documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer, by that person or by a mercantile agent acting for him, of the goods or documents of title, under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, or under any agreement for sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, to any person receiving the same in good faith and without notice of any lien or other right of the original seller in respect of the goods, shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were a mercantile agent in possession of the goods or documents of title with the consent of the owner."

Jelf, Q.C., and O. L. Attenborough, for the defendant, contended that the case fell within the terms of sect. 9 of the Factors Act, 1889, and, therefore, the defendant was entitled to succeed.

Finlay, Q.C., and Joseph Walton, Q.C. (Hextall, with them), for the plaintiff, contended that the agreement above mentioned was not within the section, there being no agreement by Brewster to buy the goods, inasmuch as he could at any moment terminate the hiring by returning the goods before the total sum of 18l. 18s. was paid.

May 9. THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., A. L. Smith, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) held that by the agreement Brewster had agreed to buy the piano within the meaning of sect. 9 of the Factors Act, 1889, and therefore the pledge of it to the defendant was valid by reason of the provisions of the section. They therefore allowed the appeal.

Moulton, Q.C. and A. à B. Terrell, for the appeal.

Neville, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) said that Romer, J., who had heard only the plaintiff's evidence, had gone too far in giving judgment for the defendant on the materials before him. If it was made out that the defendant had made statements disparaging to the plaintiff's goods, that such statements were untrue, and that they were likely to cause injury to the plaintiff's trade, the plaintiff would be entitled to an injunction. The case must go back to Romer, J., for a new trial.

Practice—Motion for Injunction by Defendant—No Counter-claim filed—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order L., r. 6—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 8.

Appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J.

The action was brought by the plaintiff to restrain the defendant from carrying on the business of a wine-merchant in the city of Winchester, or within a radius of two miles. The defendant appeared in the action, and, before any statement of claim had been filed or any defence put in, he moved for an interlocutory injunction against the plaintiff, restraining him from using the defendant's name on any vans, signboards, labels, or otherwise in his business. The plaintiff and defendant had been partners, but their partnership had been dissolved, and it was stipulated in the deed of dissolution (among other things) that the defendant should not carry on the business of a wine-merchant in Winchester, or within a radius of two miles, and that the plaintiff should erase the defendant's name from the name of the old firm on all vans, signboards, &c. Kekewich, J., dismissed the defendant's motion, being of opinion that he had no jurisdiction to entertain the application until the defendant had either filed a counter-claim or issued a writ in a new action. The defendant appealed.

Le Riche, for the appellant.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that the defendant grounded his application upon sect. 25, sub-sect. 8, of the Judicature Act, 1873, and Order L., r. 6, which authorized any party to an action to apply for an injunction at any time after appearance on giving notice to the plaintiff. But in his opinion the order applied only to a case in which the injunction related to or arose out of the relief sought in the action. The case cited by the appellant, Sargant v. Road (1 Ch. D. 600), did not support his contention, for there the motion was made for the protection of the property which was the subject-matter of the action. In the present case the motion had no relation to the relief claimed by the plaintiff. The defendant must either bring his claim before the Court by counter-claim, or else he must issue a writ in a new action. The order appealed from was right, and the appeal must be dismissed.

LOPES and DAVY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect. Solicitors: Ordolph Wheable, for Scotney & Shenton, Winchester; W. H. Hales.

CORPORATION OF BRADFORD v. PICKLES.

Injunction—Interference with Flow of Water—Tunnel for Draining Mine—Mala fides—Attempt to Extort Money.

Trial of action by which the plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from diminishing the flow of water from some springs, called Many Wells, which supplied a reservoir belonging to the plaintiffs, who were the owners of waterworks which supplied the town of Bradford with water. The defendant was the owner of land near the plaintiffs' reservoir, and he had begun to sink some shafts, and intended to construct a tunnel, for the purpose, as he alleged, of draining the water from some beds of stone which he desired to work. The plaintiffs alleged that the defendant was not acting bonâ fide, and that his object was not to work the stone, which they said was of no value, but to compel the plaintiffs to purchase his land, or to compensate him for not working the stone.

The special Act of the water company, whose undertaking the plaintiffs had acquired, provided, by sect. 49, that "It shall not be lawful for any person other than the company to divert, alter, or appropriate, in any other manner than by law they may be legally entitled, any of the waters supplying or flowing from certain streams and springs called Many Wells arising or flowing in and through a certain farm called Trooper or Many Wells Farm in the township of Wilsden in the parish of Bradford, or to sink any well or pit, or do any act, matter, or thing, whereby the waters of the said springs might be drawn off or diminished in quantity; and if any person shall illegally divert, alter, or appropriate the said waters or any part thereof, or sink any such well or pit, or shall do any such act, matter, or thing whereby the said waters may be drawn off or diminished in quantity, and shall not immediately on being required so to do by the company repair the injury done by him, so as to restore the said springs and the waters thereof to the state in which they were before such illegal act as aforesaid, he shall forfeit to the company any sum not exceeding 5*l.* for every day during which the said supply of water shall be diverted or diminished by reason of any work done or act performed by or by the authority of such person, in addition to the damage which the company may sustain by reason of their supply of water being diminished."

It was proved that the effect of the defendant's intended works would be to diminish seriously the flow of water from the springs in question.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., B. Eyre, and C. M. Atkinson, for the plaintiffs.

Everitt, Q.C., Tindal Atkinson, Q.C., and Butcher, for the defendant.

NORTH, J., held on the evidence that the defendant was not acting bonâ fide, but that, if he were otherwise entitled to do what he intended, his motive was immaterial, and that he could not be restrained on the ground that his object was to extort money from the plaintiffs. But his Lordship held that sect. 49 prohibited the defendant from doing that which he intended to do, and on this ground the injunction asked was granted.

HAMBRO v. HAMBRO.

May 10.

Settlement—Jointure Rent Charge—Sale.

This was an originating summons.

The plaintiff was entitled, under a settlement made in 1861 on the occasion of her marriage with Charles J. Baron Hambro, deceased, to a jointure of 3000*l.* a year, out of the rents and profits of certain real estate, with powers of entry and perception of rents and profits, and distress in case of non-payment for twenty-one days.

The defendant was entitled, subject to the jointure rent charge, to the real estate in fee. The rents of the premises were not quite sufficient to provide for the jointure, and the jointure was to a small extent in arrear.

The plaintiff asked for a declaration that the jointure and any arrears thereof were charged on the corpus as well as the rents and profits of the premises, and for a sale or mortgage. It was admitted, on the part of the defendant, that the arrears were a continuing charge on the rents and profits; but it was contended that there was no jurisdiction to order a sale or mortgage of any part of the corpus of the estate to provide for the jointure.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and C. E. E. Jenkins, for the plaintiff.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and J. G. Wood, for the defendant.

NORTH, J., held that there was jurisdiction to order a sale or mortgage of the land to provide for the arrears of the annuity, but that at present a case for making such order had not arisen.

MACK v. POSTLE. April 13, 14; May 9

Practice—Stop Order—Fund in Court—Mortgage by Tenant for Life—Prior Settlement not disclosed by Mortgagor—Stop Order obtained by Mortgagees—Priority.

In this action a fund was standing in Court "To the account of the legacy bequeathed to A. P. Mack and his children if any." A. P. Mack was only entitled to the income of the fund, and had no interest in the capital. In 1887 he married and assigned his life interest to the trustees of his marriage settlement. In 1888 he mortgaged his life interest in the fund, without disclosing the settlement, to the trustees of the Legal and General Life Assurance Company, who on the 24th of March, 1888, obtained a stop order on the fund. He afterwards executed other mortgages to the same mortgagees, who on each occasion obtained stop orders. The trustees of the settlement had taken no step to obtain a stop order.

The stop orders were all expressed to be upon the share of A. P. Mack generally, and in none of them was the income of the fund expressly mentioned.

This was a summons taken out by the trustees of the marriage settlement, asking for payment to them of the income of the fund in Court, and the question was whether the stop orders affected the income of the fund, it being contended on behalf of the applicants that they did not.

Hastings, Q.C., and Hadley, for the summons.

Buckley, Q.C., and E. F. Norton, for the respondents.

STIRLING, J., said, that in ascertaining the effect of the stop orders the Court could go beyond the language of the orders themselves, and, looking at the will of the testator, which was recited in the orders, and at the mortgages which were entered therein as read, it was found that the only share of the fund to which A. P. Mack was entitled was the income arising therefrom; the stop orders must therefore be construed as affecting that income. It seemed to be the practice in the Paymaster-General's Office to treat stop orders as not affecting income except when income was mentioned on the face of them; and his Lordship thought that practice was wrong. Here, however, the settlement was prior to all the mortgages and all the stop orders, and the trustees of it had neglected to take the ordinary and proper step to make the assignment to them effectual, and the mortgagees were consequently entitled to priority. His Lordship added that it deserved consideration whether in future care should not be taken in drawing up stop orders to express plainly on the face of them whether capital or income was to be affected; and whether, in all cases where their operation was not so limited, they ought not to be treated at the Paymaster's Office as extending to both capital and income.

Partnership Action—Further Consideration—Costs of Action, how payable.

On the further consideration of an action for the winding up of a partnership between two persons who were equally entitled to capital and profits, it appeared that the partnership assets consisted of a fund in Court of about 1370*l.*, that there was a debt of 649*l.* due to the plaintiff, and that there was due from the partnership in respect of capital to the plaintiff 1405*l.*, and to the defendant 80*l.* The question was whether, after payment of the 649*l.*, the fund should be applied first in payment of the costs of the action, or in placing the partners on a footing of equality as to capital.

Dunham, for the plaintiff.

S. Dickinson, for the defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., referred to Seton on Judgments, 5th edition, vol. 3, p. 1812, and cases there cited, and held that after payment of the 649*l.*, the fund should be applied first in placing the partners on a footing of equality as regarded capital, that the surplus (if any) should be applied in payment of the costs, and that the rest of the costs should be borne by the partners equally.

Building Society—Instrument of Dissolution—Building Societies Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 42), s. 32—Alteration of Priorities of Members—Liability of Advanced Members on Dissolution to pay up whole Balance due.

By an instrument of dissolution of a building society, duly made in pursuance of sect. 32 of the Building Societies Act, 1874, and signed by not less than three-fourths of the members holding not less than two-thirds of the number of shares; it was amongst other things provided that the term "member" should mean and include all members of the society whether they had given notices of withdrawal or not, and members who had given notice of withdrawal should have no preference or priority over members who had not given such notice. There were several withdrawing members of the society, who had duly given notice of withdrawal, and who were entitled by the rules of the society to priority of repayment. There were also advanced or mortgagor members, who, according to the rules and the terms of their mortgages, were entitled and bound to repay their loans by instalments in the usual manner. An action was brought by the trustees of the instrument of dissolution for the ascertainment of the rights and liabilities of the members under such instrument.

MacConkey, for the plaintiffs.

F. Thompson, F. Broadbridge, J. Rutherford, and T. B. Hughes, for the several defendants, who were withdrawing, non-withdrawing, and advanced members.

KEKEWICH, J., held, first, that it was competent for the society by the instrument of dissolution, and without any alteration of the rules, to vary the priorities of the members, and that therefore the instrument was effective to deprive the withdrawing members of their priority as regarded repayment; and, secondly, that the advanced or mortgagor members could be compelled to pay up forthwith the balances due from them respectively.

Company—Winding-up—Supervision Order—Terms and Conditions—Examination of Company's Officers—Undertaking by Voluntary Liquidator—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 115, 147.

Two petitions were presented, one asking that the voluntary winding-up of the company might be continued under the supervision of the Court; and the other that the company might be wound up by order of the Court, on the ground that an investigation of its affairs under the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, was necessary.

The second petitioner was, however, willing to accept a supervision order if he could under such an order obtain a proper investigation.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., in making a supervision order, expressed the opinion that the Court could, of its own motion, direct an examination under sect 115 of the Companies Act, 1862. If it could be shewn that under a supervision order there would be an efficient administration by the voluntary liquidator, it would be of great advantage to the commercial world. The liquidator must give an undertaking to make an investigation and report whether an examination ought to take place, and the order would give liberty, in case he reported in the negative, for any creditor or contributory to apply that an examination might be directed.

Company—Winding-up—Supervision—Liquidator—Appointment by Court—Security—Companies Act, 1862, s. 151.

The Hampshire Land Company passed an extraordinary resolution in favour of voluntary winding-up, and appointing S. as liquidator of the company. An order was afterwards made continuing the voluntary winding-up under the supervision of the Court.

On the application of a building society, which was the only creditor of the land company, and was also in liquidation, the Court appointed one of the liquidators of the building society to be an additional liquidator of the land company.

The question was raised in chambers, on the drawing up of the order, whether the additional liquidator should be required to give security; and this question was brought before the judge in court.

Frank Evans, for the building society, said that the voluntary liquidator had not given security, and that it had been decided that in such cases an additional liquidator appointed by the Court should not be required to do so: In re European Bank, Ex parte Paul (19 W. B. 268). To require the additional liquidator to give security would cause further expense.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said the more recent practice had been to require security to be given, and referred to the order in In re Private Investors' Association, 4th of March, 1892 (Palmer's Winding-up Forms, 2nd ed. p. 624). The liquidator must give security.

Practice—Two Estates—Same Trustee appointed by Creditors of each Estate—Conflicting Interests—Objection by Board of Trade—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 21, sub-s. 2.

On the 24th of January, 1894, a Mr. Gregson was appointed trustee of the estate of one Emerson, a bankrupt; and on the 31st of January he was appointed trustee of the estate of G. Lamb, a bankrupt. Gregson was a creditor of Emerson's estate for about 3000*l.*, which was partly secured, and he was also a creditor of Lamb's estate for a small amount. Practically the only asset that either bankrupt had, was his interest in a property known as the Maplin Sands, one-third of which was vested in a Colonel Moffat. The remaining two-thirds was vested in Emerson; but Lamb alleged that one of such two-thirds was held in trust for him by Emerson. The Board of Trade approved Mr. Gregson's appointment as trustee of Emerson's estate, but objected to his appointment as trustee of Lamb's estate on the ground that his connection with or relation to the bankrupt, or his estate, made it difficult for him to act with impartiality in the interests of the creditors generally, and notified their objection to the Court.

Sir J. Rigby, A.-G., and Muir Mackenzie, for the Board of Trade.

H. Reed, Q.C., and Carrington, for the trustee.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said that, as a general rule, the Court ought to support the objection of the Board of Trade in such cases, but under the circumstances of the present case he thought the objection ought not to be upheld. The facts were peculiar. The only asset was a tract of waste land, which might be very valuable if properly realized. The only possible purchaser was the War Office, and everything depended on the negotiations with them being skilfully conducted. The creditors of both estates were of opinion that there should be unity of interest in conducting the negotiations, and that Mr. Gregson was the best person for that purpose, and that all questions between the two estates could afterwards be adjusted. His Lordship was not prepared to differ from the views and wishes of the creditors, and, under the circumstances, the appointment of Mr. Gregson must be confirmed.

Appeal of the purchaser from Chitty, J. (ante, p. 28).

Whitehorne, Q.C., and A. J. Allen, for the vendors.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, but on different grounds: LINDLEY and LOPES, L.J.J., holding that, although the vendors had been guilty of "default," such default was not "wilful"; KAY, L.J., holding, on the other hand, that, according to the evidence, the statement made of the vendors' title in the conditions of sale had been so made without any attempt on their part to verify it; that the omission to do so was not only a "default," but a "wilful default," because it was a deliberate neglect of a duty to the purchaser which the vendors, by making the positive statement, voluntarily assumed; but that the delay in completion was really occasioned by the voluntary delay of the purchaser in sending in requisitions on the further abstract, and in examining the deposited plan referred to in the Act of 5 Geo. 4, c. 11.—the Act under which the vendors were selling—and which plan the vendors had offered for the purchaser's inspection.

Ex parte VITORIA.

Bankruptcy—Bankruptcy Petition—Refusal to make Receiving Order—Second Bankruptcy Petition in respect of same Judgment Debt—"Res judicata"—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 7.

Appeal by J. F. Vitoria against a receiving order made by Mr. Registrar Linklater upon the petition of the Spanish Corporation.

On the 20th of February, 1893, the corporation recovered judgment against Vitoria, in an action in the Queen's Bench Division, for 13,049*l.* They served him with a bankruptcy notice in the Croydon County Court. He did not comply with the notice, and the corporation presented a bankruptcy petition against him in the Croydon County Court in respect of the judgment debt. The registrar was of opinion that there was not a good petitioning creditor's debt, and refused to make a receiving order. On appeal to the Divisional Court, this decision was reversed, and a receiving order was made. The Court of Appeal reversed the decision of the Divisional Court and restored the order of the County Court, on the ground that proper notice of the appeal to the Divisional Court had not been given, and that that Court had therefore no jurisdiction to hear the appeal: In re Vitoria ([1894] 1 Q. B. 259). The corporation served a second bankruptcy notice on Vitoria for the judgment debt. He failed to comply with the notice, and they presented a second bankruptcy petition against him in the London Bankruptcy Court, within the jurisdiction of which he then was. It was objected that it was res judicata that there was not a good petitioning creditor's debt. The registrar overruled the objection, and heard the petition on its merits, and made a receiving order. The debtor appealed.

Jelf, Q.C., and F. Cooper Willis, for the appellant, took the preliminary objection, that, by reason of the decision of the Registrar of the County Court, which was in the same position as if it had not been appealed against, it was res judicata that the judgment debt was not a good petitioning creditor's debt.

Fynlay, Q.C., and A. Romer Macklin, for the corporation.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., and Kay and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.), overruled the objection. They said that the Registrar of the County Court did not, and could not, decide that the judgment debt was not a valid debt. The judgment, so long as it was not set aside, was conclusive that there was a debt as between the judgment debtor and the judgment creditors, and the registrar had no jurisdiction to set the judgment aside. All that he could do, and all that he did do, was, to exercise his discretion under sect. 7 in refusing to make a receiving order. There was no res judicata that there was not a valid debt.

The hearing of the appeal upon its merits was adjourned.

Settlement—Provision for future Illegitimate Children.

In 1843 the ceremony of marriage was gone through between William Shaw and Emma Bentley, who was his aunt by the half-blood. By a settlement dated April, 1844, expressed to be made between William Shaw and Emma his wife of the one part, and trustees in whom 15,000*l.* that belonged to Emma Bentley or Shaw was vested of the other part, trusts of the settled fund were declared, after the death of the husband and wife, for the children of the marriage as the wife should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment for the children of the marriage equally, and in default of issue for Emma Shaw absolutely. William Shaw and Emma Bentley (or Shaw) lived as husband and wife down to the time of his death in 1890. They had ten children: the eldest, Emmeline, now the wife of T. A. A. Hughes, was born on the 5th of May, 1814. Emma Bentley (or Shaw) died in 1892, having made a will by which she gave her residue and appointed the settled fund in favour of some of her children (including Emmeline Hughes) and a grandchild.

This was an originating summons to determine to whom the settled fund belonged. The plaintiffs were the present trustees of the settlement. The defendants were the trustees and executors of Emma Shaw's will, Mr. Hughes, and the surviving children and grandchildren.

Strickland, for the plaintiffs.

Vernon R. Smith, for Emmeline Hughes and her husband:— The provision in the settlement for unbegotten illegitimate children was void as being contrary to public policy; but it was good so far as Emmeline Hughes was concerned. It is lawful to provide for an illegitimate child already begotten, and the conduct of the parties gave Emmeline a reputation of being the legitimate offspring of her parents.

Fellows, and Christopher James, for other defendants, contra, were not called upon.

NOBLE, J., held that, though an illegitimate child in ventre sa mère could be provided for by apt words, there was not sufficient in this settlement to indicate any provision for Emmeline Hughes otherwise than as a member of a class for whom such provision could not be made, and that an unborn child could not have the reputation of being the lawful child of any particular person. He held that the settled fund was personal estate of Mrs. Shaw.

In re EATON.
DAINES v. EATON.

Will—Residuary Gift—Tenant for Life—Wasting Securities—Gift in Specie—Sale—Rule in Hows v. Earl of Dartmouth.

John Eaton, by his will dated the 7th of December, 1886, after bequests of his furniture and plate, devised and bequeathed his residuary estate to his executors, upon trust for his wife for life, and after her death to pay certain legacies; and, subject thereto, the testator declared that his trustees should hold "all my residuary estate, and the investments and income thereof, in trust" for his nephew Joseph Eaton (since deceased) absolutely. There was no trust or direction for conversion, nor any investment clause.

The testator died on the 21st of March, 1892. Part of his residuary personal estate consisted of sums of Consolidated and Preference Stock of the Brentford Gas Company to a considerable amount—investments which had been made by the testator himself, and at present standing at upwards of 100 per cent. premium.

This was an originating summons by the present trustees of the will, raising the question whether the plaintiffs ought to sell the gas stock, and invest the proceeds in Consols, according to the rule in Hows v. Earl of Dartmouth (7 Ves. 137) requiring the sale of wasting securities.

Warmington, Q.C., and T. Ribton, for the defendant, the widow, the tenant for life.

E. Beaumont, for the defendants, Joseph Eaton's mortgagees.

KEKEWICH, J., said the question was whether the testator had so expressed himself as to give to his wife, during her life, the income of the funds constituting his residuary personal estate in the state in which those funds existed at the time of his death. If the reported decisions were out of the way, no one would doubt that this testator intended that his wife should take the income of the property as he left it, and should enjoy it as he left it. But it had long been decided that the tenant for life under a will could not take in specie the income of property which was of a wasting or a perishable nature. On the other hand, the Court had from time to time striven to find expressions in the will which would enable the presumed intention of the testator to take effect, notwithstanding the existing state of the law; and the question was, whether such expressions could be found in the present will. It was settled that, in order to give the wife in such a case as this the income of the property as it stood, you must find something equivalent to a specific gift. But it was impossible to find here a specific gift or anything equivalent to it: the gift was general only. The case came precisely within Meyer v. Simonsen (5 De G. & Sm. 723), an authority always cited in cases of this kind, and therefore the rule recognised in that case must be applied in this. Accordingly the trustees must not sell the gas stock, but set a value upon it and give the tenant for life 4 per cent. on the value; then the difference between the 4 per cent. and the actual income of the stock must be invested, and the dividends of such investments paid to the tenant for life; the corpus going to the remaindermen.

BANKRUPTCY.

Bkcy. FIGG v. MOORE BROS. May 24.

Execution Creditor—Possession by Sheriff for more than 21 Days—Payment out—Act of Bankruptcy—Notice—Title of Trustees in Bankruptcy—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 45—Bankruptcy Act, 1890, ss. 1, 11.

The defendants were judgment creditors of Lichtenstein & Breeze, trading as the Alliance Iron Company, and on the 24th of September, 1892, issued a fi. fa. for their judgment debt and costs, and on the 26th of September the sheriff seized under the fi. fa. certain goods of the judgment debtors. On the 17th of October the sheriff had been in possession for 21 days, and on the 19th of October he was paid out. The sheriff held the money for 14 days, and then, not having received notice of any bankruptcy petition, paid it over to the defendants. On the 30th of November, 1892, a receiving order was made against the judgment debtors, and the plaintiff was the trustee in their bankruptcy. The plaintiff now claimed repayment from the defendants of the money they had received from the sheriff, on the ground that on the 17th of October, 1892, the judgment debtors committed an act of bankruptcy of which the defendants had notice, the sheriff remaining in possession for 21 days being by sect. 1 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1890, an act of bankruptcy.

Sinclair Cox (Lawson Walton, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff.

H. Wace, for the defendants, contended, that as the act of bankruptcy relied on was occasioned by the proceedings instituted by the defendants, the case fell within the principle of Ex parte Villars (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 432), and that the defendants were entitled to retain the benefit of the execution.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said the point was a new one, but in his opinion the plaintiff was entitled to succeed. No doubt a judgment creditor who levied execution obtained by the common law a good security for his judgment debt unless his rights were displaced by some express statutory enactment. Now the 45th section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, provided that an execution creditor should not be entitled to retain the benefit of the execution unless he completed the execution by seizure and sale of the goods before the date of the receiving order, and before notice of the commission of any available act of bankruptcy by the debtor; and in Ex parte Villars (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 432) it was held that where the act of bankruptcy relied on was the seizure and sale under the execution levied by the judgment creditor, that fact alone was not to deprive the latter of the fruits of his diligence. But that case did not apply to the present. Here there had been no sale; and, assuming that the execution was completed by the sheriff being paid out on the 19th of October, yet two days previously—viz., on the 17th of October—an act of bankruptcy had been committed by the sheriff having remained in possession for 21 days, of which the defendants must be taken to have had notice. The plaintiff, therefore, was entitled to judgment.

Habeas Corpus—Costs—Jurisdiction to order Payment—Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 44), ss. 4, 5.

Application for a habeas corpus.

The application had been heard on a former day before Cave and Wright, J.J., and had been granted. A doubt having been suggested as to the power of the Court to order the defendants to pay the costs of the application, and the Court being of opinion that, under the circumstances of the case, payment of costs ought to be ordered if there was power to make the order, it was directed that the case should be put in the list for argument on the question of jurisdiction to order payment of costs.

English Harrison, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Cave and Collins, J.J.) held, that since the commencement of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 44), the Court, when granting an application for a habeas corpus, has jurisdiction under sect. 5 of that Act to order payment by the defendant of the costs of the application, and that such jurisdiction is not affected by the provisions of sect. 4.

MACFARLANE AND OTHERS (DUNLOP'S TRUSTEES), APPS.;
THE LORD ADVOCATE, RESP.

Revenue—Legacy Duty—Personalty directed to be invested in purchase of Land to be Entailed—Disentail—36 Geo. 3, c. 52, ss. 12, 19.

This was an appeal from the First Division of the Court of Session (19 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Rettie) 461). Alexander Dunlop of Doonside died on the 30th of September, 1883, leaving a will by which he directed his trustees to accumulate the whole rents and proceeds of the residue of his estate for six years after his decease, and during those six years to realize the whole moveable estate of the testator and the specified heritable property to the extent of about 340,000*l.*, and therewith at their discretion, within the six years or not, to purchase land in Scotland and entail the same on William Hamilton Dunlop and the heirs male of his body, whom failing to other substitutes in succession, declaring that after the six years had expired the heir of entail in possession (W. H. Dunlop) should be entitled to receive the interest of the entire property until the lands were purchased. The six years expired on the 30th of September, 1889. Afterwards W. H. Dunlop presented a petition to the Court for disentail under the Scotch Disentailing Acts of 1848-1882. Having by private arrangement obtained the consent of the three next heirs (his sons), he obtained an order directing the trustees to convey in fee simple the lands and the moneys held by them. The trustees had only laid out about 21,000*l.* in land before the six years had expired; and another sum of 12,000*l.* in building a mansion-house.

The Crown thereupon claimed from the trustees legacy duty upon the capital of the whole residue of the moveable estate, under sects. 12 and 19 of 36 Geo. 3, c. 52, on the ground that

W. H. Dunlop had a right to the whole residue, and had "become entitled to an estate of inheritance in possession in the real estate to be purchased therewith." The Crown did not now claim duty on the sum of 21,000*l.* laid out in land.

The appellant maintained, (1) that the duty fell to be charged only by way of annuity under the will, the proceedings by which he had acquired a right in fee simple being transactions of purchase carried out at his own instance, and that he did not by virtue of the trust disposition become possessed of an estate of inheritance. He claimed—(2) to deduct the compensation to which the three next heirs were entitled—a sum of 81,960*l.*, and (3) the amount laid out in the building of the mansion-house.

Supreme Court of Judicature.

COURT OF APPEAL

In Lunacy.

May 28

In re X. (A PERSON INCAPABLE OF MANAGING HIS AFFAIRS).

Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 Vict. c. 5), s. 116, sub-s. 1 (d); ss. 120, 128—Person incapable of managing his Affairs—Person appointed by Judge to exercise Powers—Settled Estate—Incapable Tenant for Life—Power of Sale in Settlement—Order authorizing exercise of Power.

This was an application by the son of a person who had been proved to the satisfaction of the Judge in Lunacy to be incapable of managing his affairs within the meaning of the Lunacy Act, 1890, s. 116, sub-s. 1 (d). This person was tenant for life of certain settled estates, and under the settlement had power to sell or exchange them with the consent of the trustees. By an order made by Halsbury, L.C., on the 15th of June, 1891, the son was, under the powers of the Lunacy Act, 1890, ss. 116, 120, authorized (inter alia) to receive the rents of the settled estates, to keep down the charges thereon, and to let and manage such estates; and he now applied to the Court in Lunacy for an order authorizing him to sell the same.

Cosens-Hardy, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, in support of the application, referred to In re Nevill (31 Ch. D. 161, s.c.; 54 L. T. (N.S.) 290) and In re Blake (Weekly Notes, 1887, p. 1).*

C. T. Mitchell, for the trustee, was willing to consent to the sale, but suggested that, having regard to In re Baggs (96 L. T. Journ. (Notes of Unreported Decisions), p. 198), it was questionable whether the Court had jurisdiction to make the order.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Kay, L.JJ.) said that In re Baggs had nothing to do with the present case. That case was decided exclusively upon the fact that, by the terms of the Settled Land Act, the statutory jurisdiction to authorize a sale was confined to the case of a lunatic so found by inquisition. But in the present case the Court was not asked to run counter either to In re Baggs or the Settled Land Acts; and there was no difficulty in holding that, by the combined effect of sects. 120 and 128 of the Lunacy Act, 1890, together with the power contained in the settlement, the Court had power to authorize the applicant to exercise the power of sale vested in his father by the settlement.

In January, 1891, D. N. Adams lent the firm of S. Budgett & Son a sum of 1500*l.* In October, 1892, the individual members of the firm of S. Budgett & Son executed an assignment of all their joint and separate estate to a trustee, for the benefit of their creditors. There being no joint estate, Adams claimed to be entitled to have his debt paid out of the separate estates of the individual partners, on an equality with the separate creditors.

C. E. E. Jenkins, for the trustee of the deed of assignment, contended, that inasmuch as sect. 40, sub-sect. 3, and sect. 59, sub-sect. 1, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (which embody the old rule laid down by Lord King, contained in Lord Loughborough's Order of 1794, as to the distribution of joint and separate estate), made no mention of the exception that the rule did apply where there was no joint estate, it was the intention of the Legislature to put an end to this exception, and consequently that Adams' claim to compete with the separate creditors could not be allowed.

F. Thompson, for Adams, agreed that the old law remained unaffected.

CHITTY, J., said the question was, whether the Court ought not to interpret sect. 40, sub-sect. 3, of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, which was practically the same as the language of Lord Loughborough's order, in the same way as the order had been interpreted under the old law. In his Lordship's opinion, it was reasonable to infer that when the Bankruptcy Act of 1883 was passed, and the substance of the old order was, for the first time, placed on the Statute Book, the Legislature intended the law to stand on the construction of sect. 40, sub-sect. 3, in the same way that it stood previously to the passing of the Act; and consequently he was of opinion that, as there was no joint estate in the present case, a joint creditor was entitled to rank as a separate creditor against the separate estate of the individual partners, and therefore that Adams' claim to draw dividends in competition with the separate creditors was right, and should be allowed.

SKINNER & Co. v. SHEW & Co.

May 31.

Patent—"Threats" Action—Injunction—Inquiry as to Damages—Loss of Contract—Evidence—Admissibility—Measure of Damage.

Summons by the defendant to vary the chief clerk's certificate as to damages.

The plaintiff carried on business as Skinner & Co.; the defendant carried on business as Shew & Co. The plaintiff and the defendant were both manufacturers of photographic apparatus. The plaintiff had obtained a patent for a camera, and on the 16th of May, 1892, he brought this action, under sect. 32 of the Patents Act, 1883, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendant from threatening him with legal proceedings in respect of his camera, which the defendant alleged to be an infringement of a patent of his own. On the 1st of July, 1892, the plaintiff moved for an injunction, and it was agreed to treat the motion as the trial of the action. North, J., granted a perpetual injunction against the defendant. An inquiry was also directed, whether the plaintiff had sustained any and what damages by reason of the defendant's threats. The decision was affirmed by the Court of Appeal ([1893] 1 Ch. 413). The defendant then brought an action against the plaintiff for the infringement of his patent; but he discontinued that action on the 4th of May, 1893. The plaintiff then proceeded with the inquiry as to damages. The plaintiff alleged that he had sustained damage by the loss, through the defendant's threats, of a contract with the London Stereoscopic Company, for the exclusive use by them of the plaintiff's camera at certain specified prices, a minimum amount per annum being guaranteed for three years.

A number of letters were put in evidence before the chief clerk (inter alia), a letter dated the 19th of February, 1892, from the solicitors of the Stereoscopic Company to the plaintiff, in which they sent him a copy of a letter written by the defendant to the company, saying that he considered the plaintiff's camera an infringement of his patent, and that he was prepared to stop the sale of it. The solicitors added, "Under these circumstances, it is absolutely impossible for our clients to continue any negotiation for an agreement. We are instructed to inform you that our clients decline to continue the negotiations."

There were affidavits as to the amount of the damage, and the manager of the company (with other witnesses) was examined orally. The manager was not asked what was his reason for abandoning the proposed contract with the plaintiff. The chief clerk held that the contract was abandoned because of the defendant's threats. And he held that the proper measure of damages was the amount of profit which the plaintiff would have derived from the contract with the Stereoscopic Company if it had been carried out. The chief clerk estimated the damages at 700*l.*, and ordered the defendant to pay that amount to the plaintiff. The defendant sought to vary the certificate by disallowing the 700*l.*, on the ground that there was no evidence to support the finding, or in the alternative to reduce the damages.

T. Terrell, for the defendant, argued that the letter of the Stereoscopic Company's solicitors of the 19th of February, though it was evidence of the fact that the company abandoned the proposed contract, was not evidence as against the defendant that they abandoned it because of the defendant's threats. The manager ought to have been asked why the company abandoned the contract. He was not asked that, and there was no legal evidence of the reason why the contract was abandoned. And the proper measure of damages was the difference between the contract prices and the price which the plaintiff could have obtained for his cameras in the market. His evidence shewed that there was a market for them. At any rate, the damage ceased when the plaintiff obtained the injunction on the 1st of July, 1892.

Moulton, Q.C., and Micklethwait, for the plaintiff:—The correspondence clearly shewed that the negotiations for the contract were broken off because of the defendant's threats. Until the defendant discontinued his action, the plaintiff was prevented by him from selling his cameras in the market, and the profit lost was the true measure of damages.

NORTH, J., held that the chief clerk was right, and dismissed the summons with costs. His Lordship held that the letter of the 19th of February was evidence of the reason for the abandonment of the contract. The defendant ought, if he could, to have adduced evidence to shew that the letter did not state the true reason. The defendant's counsel might have asked the company's manager what the reason was; but in the exercise of his discretion he did not do so. His Lordship had not the least doubt that the defendant's threats were the real reason. And His Lordship held that the chief clerk had adopted the proper measure of damages.

Practice—Chancery Court of County Palatine of Lancaster—Ex parte Motion to make Judgment a Judgment of High Court—Production of "Transcript" of Judgment of Palatine Court—Costs—13 & 14 Vict. c. 43, s. 15.

This was an action in the Court of Chancery of the County Palatine of Lancaster. The action had been dismissed with costs, and the costs of the defendant had been taxed. The plaintiff did not reside, and had no goods, within the jurisdiction of the Palatine Court, and the defendant was unable to levy execution for his costs.

Rawlins, for the defendant, now moved ex parte that the judgment of the Palatine Court might be made a judgment of the High Court.

The original judgment of the Palatine Court was produced.

SECT. 15 of the Act 13 & 14 Vict. provides that in such a case a decree or order of the Palatine Court may be made a decree or order of the High Court of Chancery, upon the application of any person entitled to the benefit of such decree or order, and (inter alia) "upon the production of a transcript of such decree or order, under the signature of the Registrar of the said County Palatine Court," and it is provided that "all the reasonable costs and charges of and consequent upon such application shall and may be recovered in like manner as if the same were part of such decree or order."

NORTH, J., held that the motion was properly made ex parte. But he said that sect. 15 must be strictly complied with. It was not sufficient that the original judgment should be produced; a "transcript" must be produced as required by sect. 15. The order would be made on production of the transcript to the Registrar. And by sect. 15 the order would carry with it the costs of the motion.

Partnership—Partner of Unsound Mind—Pending Action for Dissolution—Interference with Business—Injunction—Jurisdiction.

This was an action for dissolution of a partnership. The defendant was of unsound mind, but at the hearing, the Court being of opinion on the evidence that he was not permanently insane, declined to make an order for dissolution, and directed the action to stand over till after the Long Vacation. In the meantime the defendant, who was under medical care and restraint, eluded his attendant and went to the business premises, and interfered with the carrying on of the business, by drawing cheques on the partnership account and in other ways. Under these circumstances, the plaintiff moved for an injunction to restrain the defendant from dealing with the partnership assets and from issuing bills or notes, or drawing cheques in the name of the firm, or from coming to or remaining on the partnership premises, or from in any way interfering with the partnership business.

Hestings, Q.C., and Robertson-Macdonald for the plaintiff. Bates, for the guardian ad litem of the defendant, contended that the Court had no jurisdiction to grant an injunction against a person of unsound mind.

The following cases were referred to:—Anon. (2 K. & J. 441), in re B— ([1892] 1 Ch. 459), and Robinson v. Galland (Times L. R. 504).

Stirling, J., held that the Court had jurisdiction to interfere, so as to prevent the defendant from injuring the partnership business. He accordingly granted an injunction in the terms set out, until judgment in the action or further order.

Statute—Enactment for Limited Period of Time—Interference with Public Rights—Repeal—Effect as to Revival of Rights—Highway—Turnpikes—Closing Roads.

A turnpike Act (59 Geo. 3, c. x.), passed in 1819, provided for the straightening of an old road, and for blocking up certain portions of it, and also several other roads (including a bridle-way across Wootton Farm), on the ground that they were useless, and would, if not stopped up, "be the means of enabling persons to evade the tolls" granted by the Act. The same statute vested the bridle-way in the then owner of Wootton Farm, and other roads in other persons, in exchange for their lands which were to be taken and used for the purposes of the Act, and declared it to be unlawful for persons to use or claim any of them as a highway, bridle-way, or footway—penalties being imposed in respect of such user. The Act was to commence and continue from the 25th of March, 1819, during the term of twenty-one years.

The Act of 1819 was continued from time to time by subsequent turnpike Acts; but by a turnpike Act (19 & 20 Vict. c. xvi.), passed in 1856, the Act of 1819 was repealed, the provisions of the new Act being substituted for it, and the property vested in the trustees under the old Act being vested in the trustees under the new Act.

In an action brought by the owner of Wootton Farm, to restrain the defendants from crossing it in the direction taken by the old bridle-path, the defence was set up that there was still a highway across the farm in that direction.

Neville Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the plaintiff.
Hopkinson Q.C., and Dale Hart, for the defendants.

Romer, J., said the Act of 1856 did not revive the old ways which had been stopped up and discontinued under the Act of 1819. The effect of the Act of 1819 was to discontinue them forever as highways, and to vest them in the persons referred to free from any public way whatever. This Act contained a variety of provisions which had to be continued from time to time; but blocking up the old ways and vesting them in the landowners was something which was done once for all, and which was not undone by the Act of 1856.

On a summons taken out by the official receiver and liquidator under sect. 10 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, and adjourned into Court, one of the respondents was ordered to pay the applicant's costs. The hearing lasted several days, and the papers were very voluminous. Part of the evidence was visà voce.

- The registrar disallowed or reduced the following items:—
- (1) Instructions for official receiver's special report under rule 78 of the Companies (Winding-up) Rules, 1890.
  - (2) Drawing such report at 1s. per folio.
  - (3) Making copy of same for printer.
  - (4) Instructions for brief.
  - (5) Fees of applicant's third counsel, and costs incidental to his employment.
  - (6) Fees to counsel for consultations (after the first one) during the hearing.
  - (7) Refreshers to counsel.

The official receiver and liquidator applied to vary the registrar's certificate of taxation.

M. Muir Mackenzie, for the official receiver and liquidator.
C. E. E. Jenkins, for the respondent.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held: As to (1), (2), and (3), that the registrar had rightly refused to treat the report as a pleading, or equivalent to a pleading; that it was not an affidavit, or within the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LXV., r. 27, and that it was rightly held to be a statement of facts, for which the only charges which could be made were for drawing at 8d. a folio, and copying at 4d. a folio. As to (4), that the registrar was right in holding that this charge could not be made, inasmuch as the hearing of the application was not "the hearing or trial of an action upon notice of trial, or notice of judgment given" (Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Appendix N., r. 81), and was right in allowing for drawing and copying all the necessary proofs and statements of the witnesses and observations at the rate of 1s. for drawing, and 4d. for each copy for counsel. His Lordship, however, expressed an opinion that the rule ought to be altered so as to allow instructions for brief on a misfeasance summons. As to (5), reversing the registrar's decision, that it was essential to justice, having regard to the issues raised and the probable and actual length of hearing, that the fees of and costs as to three counsel should be allowed. As to (6), that the registrar was right in refusing to allow for consultations day by day. As to (7), that the registrar was mistaken in supposing that he had no power to allow refreshers on a summons adjourned into Court, for that such a case, where oral evidence was adduced, was a matter within the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LXV., r. 27, sub-r. 48, and sect. 100 of the Judicature Act, 1873; and that on this point the matter must be referred back to the registrar, but without any intimation of the judge's opinion as to whether it would be right to allow any refreshers.

Practice—County Court—Costs—Action commenced in High Court—Payment of part of Claim—Transfer as to Residue to County Court—Recovery of Sum less than 20l.—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 65.

Appeal from an order of the judge of the Southwark County Court allowing the plaintiff his costs upon Scale C, applicable where a sum over 50l. has been recovered.

The action was originally brought in the High Court to recover 104l. 19s. 9d. for goods sold and delivered. Upon an application under Order XIV. for leave to sign final judgment an order was made that unless the defendants paid to the plaintiff's solicitor within five days 90l. 7s., the plaintiff should be at liberty to sign judgment for that amount; that the defendants should be at liberty to defend the action as to the residue of the claim, and that the action as to such residue should be transferred to the Southwark County Court. The 90l. 7s. was paid in compliance with the order, and the action as to the residue (14l. 12s. 9d.) went to the county court; the 14l. 12s. 9d. was paid into the county court shortly before the day fixed for the trial, and the plaintiff made an application to the county court judge under Order IX., r. 11 (3) of the County Court Rules for an order for costs; and the judge, being of opinion that the plaintiff had recovered more than 50l., made an order for costs upon Scale C. The defendants appealed.

Cababé, for the defendants, contended that the effect of the order made upon the application under Order XIV. was to determine the action finally as to 90l. 7s., and to convert it to an action for the residue only; that in that shape it had been transferred to the county court, with the result that the plaintiff had recovered less than 20l., and was only entitled to costs upon Scale A, which is applicable to actions where less than 20l. is recovered. He cited Harris v. Judge ([1892] 2 Q. B. 565); White v. Cohen ([1893] 1 Q. B. 580).

Page, for the plaintiff, was not called upon.

THE COURT (Cave and Collins, JJ.) held that the plaintiff had recovered the whole amount in the action, the 90l. 7s. having been recovered by virtue of proceedings taken in the action while it was still in the High Court, and the 14l. in the county court; that the plaintiff had therefore recovered more than 50l. in the action, and the order of the county court judge as to costs was right.

Case stated by justices.

Two informations were preferred by the appellant against the respondents, a limited company who carried on the business of a chemist and druggist, under sect. 2 of the Medicines Stamp Act, 1812, for selling certain medicines, namely, Doctor Gregory's Powder and Tincture of Nux Vomica, without a paper cover duly stamped for denoting the duty, as required by the Medicines Stamp Acts, 1802, 1812, and the Stamp Act, 1804. The respondents issued a price-list, which was distributed gratis to the public, and which described the medicines in question as being beneficial for certain specified ailments; and the bottle of Tincture of Nux Vomica sold was wrapped in a hand-bill, which described the tincture in terms similar to those used in the price-list.

The justices thought that no offence had been committed, and dismissed the informations.

Dankewerts, for the appellant.

T. Willes Chitty, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Cave and Collins, JJ.) held, that, by distributing the price-list, the respondents had held out or recommended the medicines to the public, by a public notice or advertisement, as beneficial for the cure of disorders, within the meaning of the schedule to the Act of 1812, that it was not necessary that the notice or advertisement should be affixed to or delivered with the medicine, that the case did not come within any of the special exemptions in the schedule, and that the justices were wrong in dismissing the information.

Case remitted.

This was an appeal from an interlocutor of the First Division of the Court of Session, Scotland (31 Sco. Law Rep. 350), ordering the wife, the respondent, who had raised an action in England for judicial separation for alleged cruelty, to give up the custody of the children of the marriage, the eldest of whom was under 8, whom she had taken out of Scotland on a visit to their grandparent, but where they had often visited before.

THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Ashbourne, Macnaghten, Morris, and Shand), on the undertaking of the appellant to abandon the proceedings in Damages for Negligence—Joint Delinquents—Joint and several Decree against both—Action by Payee of the whole Damages for Contribution from the Co-debtor.

This was an appeal against a judgment of the Second Division of the Court of Session, Scotland, in an action of relief at the instance of the respondents against the appellant (20 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Bettie), 275).

The respondent company were owners of the steamship "Fergus," which, in April, 1891, carried a cargo of pig-iron from Middlesborough to Grangemouth, where it was discharged by the appellant. In the course of that operation, David Fowles, one of the workmen in his employment, was killed by the fall of a block, which formed part of the ship's tackle used in unloading.

The family of the deceased brought an action of damages against the company, in which, besides alleging that the ship's tackle was of slighter make than is usually employed in vessels built for carrying pig-iron, they attributed the fall of the block to the defects of an iron hook to which it was attached. They raised a second action of damages against the appellant, in which they repeated some of these averments, and further alleged that it was the obvious duty of the appellant either to reject the tackle, or to use it with great caution; and that, in breach of such duty, he recklessly subjected the tackle to severe and unnecessary strains, by putting loads upon it which would have been sufficiently heavy for tackle made for the express purpose of unloading pig-iron.

The cases were sent to trial together, when the jury found against each of the defendants, that the fall of the block, and its fatal consequences, were due to their fault; and they assessed the total damage sustained by the pursuers at 600*l.*

The Court applied the verdict by decerning against the parties to the present appeal, jointly and severally, for the full amount of the damages fixed by the jury, and found the pursuers entitled to expenses in both actions. These were subsequently taxed at 237*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*, for which sum also the pursuers obtained a joint and several decree. They extracted both decrees, and gave a charge to the respondent company, who paid their demands in full, and took an assignation to the decrees. The appellant having declined to relieve them of any part of the sums thus paid by them, the company brought this action, in which they ask decree against him for a moiety of these sums. The Lord Ordinary (Wellwood) dismissed the action, on the ground that the company, being joint wrongdoers with the appellant, had no claim of relief. Their Lordships of the Second Division unanimously recalled his judgment, and gave the company decree as craved.

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Asher, Q.C.), and Salvesen (of the Scotch Bar) (with them T. F. Dawson Miller), heard for the respondents.

June 5. THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Halsbury, and Shand) affirmed the decision of the Court below in favour of the respondents, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said it was now too late to question the decision in the English case of Merryweather v. Nixan (8 T.R. 186), but it did not appear to be founded on any principle of justice or equity which justified its extension to Scotch jurisprudence, and there certainly had been a tendency to limit its application in England.

LORD WATSON said:—In this case the respondents do not require to allege and prove either delict or quasi delict as the foundation of their claim, which rests upon a decree constituting a civil debt against the appellant as well as against themselves.

This was an appeal from a judgment of the First Division of the Court of Session, Scotland (20 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Rettie), 1077), reversing an interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Low) in an action for an injunction raised by Duncan Leslie, the appellant, against Messrs. J. Young & Sons, printers, Perth, the respondents, for alleged infringement of the appellant's monthly railway time-tables.

The question was, whether the respondents, instead of going to the common and public sources, substantially copied the appellant's time-tables, and thus took advantage of the appellant's skill and labour in condensing into a small space a huge mass of general information as to the train service in the neighbourhood of Perth. It was practically admitted that the appellant's circular tours were taken and reprinted in the respondents' time-table.

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Shaw, Q.C.) and J. Wilson (with them T. Trotter) (all of the Scotch Bar), heard for appellant.

R. W. Campbell (with him, J. Graham Stewart) (both of the Scotch Bar), heard only on the point as to the circular tours.

THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Ashbourne, and Shand) recalled the interlocutor appealed from, and varied the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary to the effect of restricting and confining the interdict to the matters printed on pages 63, 65, 67, and 69 of the respondents' book complained of. These parts of the book contained the information re circular tours. The respondents to pay the costs of the appeal, and one-third of the appellant's costs in the Courts of Session.

June 7. LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said:—In regard to the time-tables, the appellant could only claim copyright in them if they were the result of independent work, and if there had been an advantage substantially taken of that labour. The mere publication in any particular order of the time-tables, which are to be found in the railway guides and publications of the railway companies, cannot be claimed as a subject-matter of copyright. That in regard to some of these tables, no more could be said, looking at them as a whole, than that the respondents had published the same tables between the same stations in the same order; but then these tables were to be found in the railway companies' books, and neither party would have anything more to do than to copy them in order, leaving out what stations they thought fit, to arrive at the information which is to be found in both books. Therefore there could not be said to be appropriation of the appellant's work, such as to entitle him to obtain the interdict he claimed.

But the original matter containing the information about the excursions was of a very different character. This was a compilation containing an abridgment of information of a most useful kind, and such as would lead to the purchase of the book by those travelling in the neighbourhood of Perth. And although they formed but a small portion (four pages out of forty) of the whole book, nevertheless they might be treated as an independent work and protected by copyright law.

Statute—Tax—Ultra vires—Board of Trade Jurisdiction—Title to sue—Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 57), s. 101, and 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 50), s. 1—Register of Patent Agents Rules, 1889.

This was an appeal from a judgment of the First Division, of the Court of Session, Scotland (20 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Rettie), 315) which assoilzied the defender from the conclusions of the action.

The Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 50), which incorporated and amended the Act of 1883, enacted, sect. 1, that "after July 1st, 1889, a person shall not be entitled to describe himself as a patent agent . . . unless he is registered as a patent agent in pursuance of this Act." And by sub-sect. 2, "The Board of Trade shall . . . make such general rules as are in the opinion of the Board required for giving effect to this section, and the provisions of sect. 101 of the principal Act" (the Act of 1883) "shall apply to all rules so made as if they were made in pursuance of that section." By sub-sect. 3, Every person proving to the satisfaction of the Board of Trade that, prior to the Act, he had bonâ fide practised as a patent agent should be entitled to be registered in pursuance of the Act. By sub-sect. 4, "If any person knowingly describes himself as a patent agent in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding 20*l*."

Section 101 of the Act of 1883 enacted: "The Board of Trade may from time to time make such general rules and do such things as they think expedient, subject to the provisions of this Act, (a) for regulating the practice of registration under this Act." Sub-sect. 3: "General rules may be made under this section, and shall (subject as hereafter mentioned) be of the same effect as if they were contained in this Act." Sub-sect. 4: "Any rules made in pursuance of this section shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament." And sub-sect. 5: "If either House of Parliament, within the next forty days after any rules have been laid before such house, resolve that such rules or any of them ought to be annulled, the same shall after the date of such resolution be of no effect."

The Board of Trade made certain rules known as the Register of Patent Agents Rules, 1889, which were laid before Parliament, and no objection was taken to them within the forty days specified by the principal Act. They provided for the mode by which a patent agent practising before 1888 should be entered in the register; and also for the payment of an entrance fee, and an annual fee by all patent agents continuing on the register, and for erasure from the register if these were not paid. The fees were for the purpose (inter alia) of keeping up a chartered Institute of Patent Agents incorporated by charter in 1891, and the expense of keeping a register. The appellant had practised before 1888 as a patent agent, and had been registered as such; but he declined to pay the annual fee, maintaining that the rules imposing the annual fee were ultra vires of the Board of Trade.

The Institute of Patent Agents and others raised this action against the respondent in the Court of Session for declarator and interdict. The Court, recalling the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor for interdict, held that the rules as to the fee were ultra vires.

Byrne, Q.C., and A. Graham Murray, Q.C., heard for appellants.

McCall, Q.C., and C. H. Landon (with them, Crossfield), heard on one point for respondent.

June 11. THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Morris, and Russell) recalled the interlocutor of the First Division so far as it assolized the respondent, but otherwise affirmed it, but not on the same grounds.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

LORD HERSHELL, L.C., said:—When the rules made by the Board of Trade have been sanctioned by Parliament by lying on the table of both Houses for forty days without being annulled, they then become under the words "shall be of the same effect as if they were contained in this Act" for all purposes of construction or obligation as if they were in the Act; and that it was not within the province of any Court to question their authority.

LORDS WATSON and ASHBOURNE concurred, but LORD MORRIS, while agreeing the rules were intra vires, dissented from the further proposition that it is not competent for the Court to consider whether these general rules are intra vires or ultra vires.

On the second point, all their Lordships were of opinion that this action by the appellants was clearly incompetent, the remedy given being a fine on summary conviction.

Practice—Time for Appaling—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LVIII., r. 15 (amended November, 1893.)

Judgment in the above-mentioned action was given by Kekewich, J., on the 23rd of May, 1893, and was passed and entered on the 24th of August following.

On the 2nd of June, 1894, E. E. Meakin, one of the defendants, gave notice of application to the Court of Appeal for special leave to appeal from the judgment, being apprehensive that it was too late to appeal without such leave. Order LVIII., rule 15 (1883), provides, that no appeal to the Court of Appeal from any interlocutory order, or from any order in any matter not being an action, should without special leave be brought after twenty-one days; and no other appeal except by such leave after the expiration of one year. By the Rules of November, 1893, rule 27, it is provided, that in Order LVIII., rule 15, "fourteen" shall be substituted for "twenty-one," and "three months" for "one year."

E. E. Meakin, in person, in support of the application.

Ingle Joyce, for the plaintiff, contended that the case came within the amended rule, although the judgment was given before the amendment came into force, namely, the 1st of January, 1894; and that on the merits the applicant was not entitled to the indulgence asked for.

THE COURT (Lindley and Davey, L.JJ.) were of opinion that the amended rule did not apply to judgments perfected before the amendment came into force, and that the defendant might appeal without leave. The application was therefore refused.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine of Lancaster.

An order was made in the action for the taxation of the costs of all parties. Among the items in the plaintiffs' bill of costs were the costs of their solicitors in conducting a sale of the property by auction in July, 1886. A sum of 13*l.* 13*s.* was paid to the auctioneer who presided at the sale and took the biddings, which was allowed. The solicitors claimed the remuneration payable to them as solicitors conducting the sale under Schedule I., Part I., of the Rules under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, which would amount to 33*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* The registrar disallowed this claim, giving as his reason that, although the solicitors had, according to the practice in Lancashire, done everything in conducting the sale except taking the biddings, which they were unable to do not having an auctioneer's license, they were disqualified from claiming the remuneration by rule 11, which provided that the scale for conducting a sale by auction should apply only in cases where no commission is paid by the client to an auctioneer; and he considered that the fee of 13*l.* 13*s.* paid to the auctioneer was such a commission. It appeared, however, that this fee was not calculated according to the value of the property sold, but according to the number of lots put up: namely, 2*l.* 2*s.* for each lot sold, and 1*l.* 1*s.* for each lot unsold. The plaintiffs objected to the certificate of the registrar. The Vice-Chancellor felt himself bound by the decision in In re Peace & Ellis (36 W. R. 61; Weekly Notes, 1887, p. 186) to agree with the registrar and to refuse the plaintiffs' application. The plaintiffs appealed.

Coxes-Hardy, Q.C., and Norton, for the appellants, contended that the fee paid to the auctioneers was not a commission within rule 11 of the schedule, but a charge which was allowed to be paid by rule 4 of the General Order without affecting the right to remuneration under the scale.

T. R. Hughes, for the defendants.

LINDLEY, L.J. said that the main question was what was the difference between a charge in rule 4 of the General Order and a commission under rule 11 of Schedule I. It was contended that a commission only applied to a payment in proportion to the value of the lots sold; but he thought that was too narrow a construction, and that a commission was a general term which included any payment to an auctioneer other than a salary. It was true that the two rules seemed inconsistent; but if so, rule 11 of the schedule, which was specific, must control the general rule. The appeal must be dismissed.

Copyright—Pictures—Sketches made from Tableaux Vivants—Fine Arts Copyright Act, 1862, ss. 1, 2, 6—International Copyright Act, 1886, s. 2, sub-s. 3.

This was an appeal from an order of Stirling, J. (ante, p. 63), by which he granted an injunction to restrain the defendants, the proprietors of the Daily Graphic newspaper, from publishing sketches of certain tableaux vivants representing the plaintiffs' pictures which had been exhibited at the Empire Theatre. The proprietors of the Daily Graphic appealed. It was agreed that the appeal should be treated as an appeal from the judgment on the trial of the action.

A similar injunction was granted at the same time against the proprietors of the Westminster Budget newspaper, but they had not appealed.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and H. A. Forman, for the appellants.

Hastings, Q.C., Scrutton, and A. H. Jessel, for the plaintiff.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that there were three points contended for by the appellants. First, that as the plaintiff was not registered as the proprietor of the copyright of the pictures in question, he could not maintain the action; secondly, that the extent of the right of the plaintiff, who was a German, must be determined by German, and not by English, law; and, thirdly, that what the defendants had done was not an infringement of the plaintiff's rights according to English, and still less according to German, law. With respect to the first question, it was one of much difficulty on which there were conflicting decisions, and it was not necessary to decide it on this occasion, if the Court should be of opinion that there was no infringement of the plaintiff's right. With respect to the second point, the plaintiff's right depended on the International Copyright Act, and the Berne Convention of the 9th of September, 1886, under which the plaintiff was entitled to the rights conferred on British subjects by sect. 1 of the 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, the Act relating to paintings, drawings, and photographs, but subject to the qualification that the author of any artistic work should not have any greater right or longer term of copyright than that which he enjoyed in the country in which the work was first produced. The plaintiff's right, therefore, in this case, must be measured by the German law, and not by the English. In one respect the German law of copyright was less extensive than the English, for by German law copyright in a painting did not extend to reproductions in literary works provided such reproductions were explanations only of the text. His Lordship did not think that the evidence as to the German law was sufficiently clear to enable him to base his decision upon it; nor was it necessary to do so, as he was of opinion that the defendants had not infringed the plaintiff's right even according to English law, which was more extensive than his right according to German law. With respect to the third question, namely, whether there had been any infringement by the defendants, it must be remembered that it had been already decided that the representations of the tableaux vivants at the Empire Theatre were not infringements of the plaintiff's copyright; and the sketches published in the Daily Graphic were rough sketches

Of those representations, and did not in any way represent the artistic merit of the plaintiff's pictures, nor were they reproductions of his designs. He was unable to hold them to be infringements of the plaintiff's rights. He did not decide the case on the ground of the absence of any intention to copy the plaintiff's pictures, though that was an element not wholly to be disregarded. Nor did he base his decision on sect. 2 of the 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, which he did not think was applicable to the present case; but he considered that those sketches were not such copies of the pictures or such reproductions of the designs thereof as were struck at by the statute which conferred the copyright. His Lordship added, that he did not consider the test of competition to be conclusive, for cases might occur in which sketches of a picture might be intended to convey, and might convey, tolerably correct ideas of it, but could not compete with the original; and yet these might be infringements of the copyright. But here there was no intention of copying the picture or reproducing the designs, and the fact that there could be no competition might be fairly taken into consideration. The appeal must be allowed, and the action must be dismissed.

Drainage Expenses—Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63), ss. 2, 49, 90—Owner of Premises—Settled Land.

Originating summons.

The testator by his will, dated in November, 1846 (inter alia) devised and bequeathed certain messuages at Fareham, unto and to the use of trustees, their heirs and assigns, upon trust to permit his wife and his son S. and the survivor of them to occupy and enjoy the same and to receive and take the rents thereof, and after the decease of S., or the decease or marrying again of the testator's wife (if S. should be then dead), in trust for the first and other sons of S. in tail, with divers equitable remainders over; and the testator gave the residue of his estate to A. and B. absolutely, and by the last clause of his will declared that "the parties beneficially entitled to the rents and profits of any of my houses or property should see that the same be kept, or that they should keep the same, in good and absolute repair, and properly insured from fire."

The testator died in December, 1846.

Between 1861 and 1869, and during the life of one of the persons beneficially entitled to the rents, the trustees of the will paid the sum of 24*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.* out of capital moneys belonging to the testator's estate, for drainage and other expenses under the Public Health Act, 1848 (11 & 12 Vict. c. 63), ss. 49, 90, in respect of some of the messuages devised upon trust as aforesaid; and one of the questions raised on this summons was whether this was a proper payment, or whether it was unauthorized and constituted a breach of trust.

Godefroi, for the plaintiff, who was the legal personal representative of the surviving trustee of the will, and also of one of the persons beneficially interested for life, argued that the expenses in question were not payable out of income, and had been properly paid out of capital.

E. Beaumont, for the present equitable tenant for life, and one of the remaindermen.

Creed, for another party.

STIRLING, J., held that the trustees were under the circumstances the persons to receive the rack-rents of the messuages and hand them over to the beneficiaries, and consequently were "owners" within the definition clause in the Public Health Act, 1848, from whom drainage expenses might have been recovered if they had not done the works. The works in question were not repairs within the last clause of the will, and the sums expended by the trustees must be treated as properly expended and as a charge upon the property.

BROOKE v. BROOKE.

Will—Administration—Executor—Receiver and Manager—Carrying on Testator's Business—Executor's Right to Indemnity—Priority—Mortgage of Mill and Machinery—Fixtures—Sale—Substituted Machinery—Bill of Sale—Validity.

By an indenture of mortgage, dated in 1887, after reciting a conditional surrender of even date of a copyhold paper-mill to the mortgagee, the mortgagor, a paper manufacturer, "granted and conveyed" the mill and the "fixed machinery and fixtures" therein (which machinery and fixtures were specified in the schedule thereto) to the use of the mortgagee, his heirs and assigns, subject to the will of the lord according to the custom of the manor, to secure 10,000*l.* and interest. And the mortgagor covenanted to keep the mill, machinery, and fixtures comprised in the security, and all buildings, machinery, fixtures, and property which might from time to time be so comprised, in good and substantial repair and in perfect working order, and insured against fire. The deed was not registered as a bill of sale.

The mortgagor died in 1888, having by his will given his residuary real and personal estate to his trustees and executors, one of whom was his wife, upon trust for his wife for life, and after her death to sell and divide the proceeds among his children. The will contained no power to carry on the testator's business. The will was proved by the widow alone, and after the testator's death she carried on his business at the mill, in the course of which she sold some of the fixed machinery comprised in the schedule to the mortgage for 400*l.*, which she expended, with other moneys, in the purchase of certain new machinery for the mill, offering to account to the mortgagee for the 400*l.*

In 1889 an action was commenced by two of the testator's daughters, who were also creditors of his, against the widow for administration, and by the judgment the widow was appointed receiver and manager of the business.

In 1890 the mortgagee, who was also a bond creditor of the testator, obtained liberty to attend the proceedings. Subsequently an order was made appointing another receiver and manager in the place of the widow, and under a direction in that order she paid the 400*l.* into Court.

By his certificate the chief clerk found that the testator's personal estate was insufficient for payment of his debts in full, and that the defendant, the widow, had properly incurred debts and liabilities to a large amount in carrying on the business.

On the further consideration the questions arose, first, whether the defendant was entitled, in priority to the persons whom the testator was indebted at the time of his death, to be indemnified out of the estate against the amount certified for debts and liabilities properly incurred by her in carrying on the testator's business; secondly, whether the mortgage deed was a bill of sale of the machinery, and therefore whether the 400*l.* paid into Court as the proceeds of sale of machinery did or did not belong to the mortgagee.

Renshaw, Q.C., Warmington, Q.C., A. Whitaker, Upjohn, and Maonaghten, for the parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held, upon the first point, that the case was covered by Dowse v. Gorton ([1891] A. C. 190), and therefore that the defendant, the widow, was entitled to an indemnity according to the principle of that case; and, upon the second point, that the case fell within In re Yates (38 Ch. D. 112), and not within Small v. National Provincial Bank of England ([1894] 1 Ch. 636), the latter case being distinguishable on the ground that the mortgage included "moveable" plant, machinery, and fixtures. Accordingly the mortgage was valid as to the fixed machinery and fixtures comprised therein, and therefore the 400*l.* in Court belonged to the mortgagee and must be paid out to him; but without prejudice to any question as to the substituted machinery.

Marriage Settlement—Covenant to settle Wife's Property coming to her "during her life"—Supplying words "during Coverture"—Property coming to Wife after Death of Husband—Funds in Court.

By the antenuptial settlement in 1839 of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson, after reciting that it had been agreed that they should covenant in manner hereinafter expressed as to any personal property which during their "joint lives" should be given or bequeathed to the wife or the husband in her right, they jointly and severally covenanted with the trustees that, if at any time after the marriage, "and during the life of" the wife, any moneys or other personal estate should be "given or bequeathed or come to or devolve upon" the wife, or the husband in her right, then the wife and husband would vest the same in the trustees, in trust for the separate use of the wife during the joint lives of herself and her husband, and, after the decease of either, in trust for the survivor, and, after the decease of the survivor, upon the trusts therein mentioned for the issue of the marriage.

Mr. Lawson died in 1850, leaving his wife and four children surviving.

In 1892, H. T. Coghlan, a cousin of Mrs. Lawson, died intestate, and his estate was being administered in this action. Mrs. Lawson being one of his four next of kin, certain funds representing part of her share were carried to the separate account of herself or the trustees of her settlement.

The question, upon a summons by Mrs. Lawson for payment out to her, was, whether those funds were or were not bound by the covenant in the settlement: in other words, whether the covenant operated only "during the coverture."

Renshaw, Q.C., and Creed, for Mrs. Lawson.

Warmington, Q.C., and W. F. Hamilton, for beneficiaries under the settlement.

Marten, Q.C., and De Morgan, for the trustees.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the question was covered by In re Edwards (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 97), where the Court of Appeal, after consulting Lord Chancellor Selborne, decided that, in the absence of any expressions shewing that a covenant of this nature was intended to have a more extended operation, it was to be construed as if the usual words "during the said intended coverture" had been inserted. Accordingly, those words must be read into the covenant in the present case, and therefore the funds in Court must be paid out to Mrs. Lawson.

Kekewich, J. SMITH v. LANCASTER. June 5.
Tenants for Life—Sale—Numerous Vendors—Separate Solicitors—Costs—Settled Land Act, 1882, s. 2, sub-s. 6.

This was a motion in an administration action by the trustees of the will of a testator to vary an order made by the judge in chambers disallowing more than one set of costs out of the proceeds of the real estate of the testator, as vendor's costs, on a sale by several tenants for life under the Settled Land Act, 1882. By an order under the Act, twenty-five persons had been declared by the Court to have "the powers of a tenant for life within the meaning of the Act"; and the sales were made and conveyances executed by all of them accordingly. One solicitor, a Mr. Fowle, had conducted the sale and signed the contracts as agent for all the vendors, none of whom ever disputed his authority to do so. In carrying out the sales, which were in six lots, to six different purchasers, twenty-one of the twenty-five vendors employed no other solicitor than Mr. Fowle; but the remaining four, or their inoumbrancers, employed one firm of solicitors, and others of them employed another firm of solicitors, to peruse and complete the conveyances as regarded their shares; so that, in addition to the costs of Mr. Fowle, who conducted the sale, two additional sets of costs, for perusing and completing, were claimed out of the entire purchase-money of the estate.

The four vendors whose costs had been disallowed now moved as above stated.

H. Terrell, for the motion.

G. Williamson, for other vendors.

KEKEWICH, J., said the analogy of the practice under the Partition Act, under which the owner of every share was, on a sale, entitled to be represented by a separate solicitor and to be allowed separate costs (see Humphreys v. Jones, 31 Ch. D. 30), did not apply to a sale such as this, under the Settled Land Act, since the parties selling had not separate shares, for they together constituted one tenant for life (sect. 2, sub-sect. 6); and a sale under the powers of the Act was necessarily the operation of all acting conjointly and not concurrently. He saw no reason why some few of a large body of tenants in common for life should indulge in the luxury of separate solicitors at the cost of the corpus. The settlement of conveyances to purchasers might reasonably and safely be left to the solicitor acting for the main body.

Motion refused with costs.

Patent—Exclusive License—Non-payment of Royalty—Revocation of License—Injunction.

By deed, dated the 28th of February, 1891, and made between the defendant of the one part and the plaintiffs of the other part, after reciting that the defendant was the proprietor of certain letters patent for improvements in the apparatus for effecting circulation in and supply of water in marine boilers, the defendant, in consideration of 150*l.* paid him by the plaintiffs, and of the royalties thereafter reserved, granted to the plaintiffs the sole and exclusive license to use and exercise his inventions for the residue of the term of the letters patent, and to manufacture and sell all circulators manufactured according to the letters patent when and as the plaintiffs should think fit. And the plaintiffs covenanted, (1) to pay the royalties therein mentioned, (2) to advertise and push the sale of the said invention, and (3) to keep proper books of account. In October, 1893, the defendant, by notice in writing, purported to revoke the license (1) for non-payment of the royalty, (2) for failing to properly advertise and push the sale of the invention, and (3) for wilful deviation from the specifications and plans of the invention, whereby the apparatus was rendered inefficient; and gave notice that he should manufacture and sell his invention as though the license had not been granted. Thereupon the plaintiffs brought this action, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendant from directly or indirectly during the continuance of the license exercising or putting in practice the invention comprised in his letters patent, and from manufacturing or selling the apparatus constructed according to the invention. The defendant counter-claimed for a declaration that the license had been revoked by his notice, and for payment of the royalty.

Haldane, Q.C., and W. N. Lawson, for the plaintiffs.

Neville, Q.C., and A. R. Rudall, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held that non-payment of the royalty did not entitle the defendant to revoke the license. He had his remedy on the covenant. As to the other breaches complained of, the evidence shewed that the plaintiffs had fairly advertised the invention; and it was also clear that the modifications introduced into the apparatus by the plaintiffs did not deviate from the principle of the defendant's invention, but were, in fact, material improvements, rendering it more efficient. The plaintiffs, therefore, were entitled to the injunction they claimed. With regard to the counter-claim, the defendant was entitled to judgment for the royalties that were due, but the rest of the counter-claim would be dismissed.

 PORTSEA ISLAND BUILDING SOCIETY v. BAROLAY.
Building Society—Power to lend on First Mortgage—Postponement of Charge for Part of Money advanced—Ultra vires—Subrogation.

The directors of a building society, the borrowing powers of which were exhausted, being desirous of borrowing money from an insurance company, entered into the following arrangement. H. was indebted to the society in a sum exceeding 6000*l.*, which had been advanced to him as a member of the society, in pursuance of its objects and rules, on a mortgage of his property. It was arranged that H. should borrow 6000*l.* from the company on the security of this property, and that the society should join in the security to release its charge in favour of the company, so as to give the company a first charge in respect of the 6000*l.*, and should further secure the company by depositing with it the deeds and securities held from H. The 6000*l.* was paid to H., and immediately handed by him to the society, which credited him with the amount in part payment of the money due by him to the society. The society was afterwards ordered to be wound up, and an action was brought by it and its liquidators to have the arrangement set aside as being ultra vires.

Haldane, Q.C., Carson, Q.C., and Edward Ford, for the plaintiffs.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and A. W. Rowden, for the company.

Edward Clayton, for H.

ROMER, J., said the rules provided that property should not be deemed a sufficient security, for moneys advanced by the society, which should be subject to previous mortgages otherwise than to the society. The rules did not expressly authorize such a transaction as this, and prima facie negatived its validity. By such transaction the directors of the society had accepted for the balance of H.'s debt a second charge, which was an insufficient and improper security. In the absence of express rule, the deed could only be supported by shewing that the directors had implied authority to execute it. But it was not within their general powers, to be implied from the nature and objects of the society, and it was not authorized on the suggested ground that the directors were only exercising the ordinary remedies of mortgagees, or only doing what was necessary to work out their legal rights or remedies as mortgagees. Nor was the company entitled to be admitted as a creditor in respect of so much of the 6000*l.* as was applied in payment of the society's debts, because that sum was not lent to the society, but to H., and was applied in crediting him and discharging part of his debt. The transaction, therefore, was not binding on the society, though H. was liable for the amount advanced to him.

Company—Winding-up—First Meetings of Creditors and Contributories—Differences—Majority in Value against that in Number—Appointment of Liquidator—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, s. 6—Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890, r. 63—Companies Winding-up Rules, April, 1892, r. 25.

A compulsory winding-up order was made on a creditor's petition. The petition and the affidavits in support of it contained allegations against the directors of the company.

At the first meeting of contributories, a resolution was unanimously passed that the official receiver should apply to the Court to appoint himself the liquidator of the company.

At the first meeting of creditors there were eighteen creditors present, whose proofs of debts for voting purposes amounted to 4,800*l.* The first question submitted to the meeting was whether the official receiver should apply to the Court to appoint himself liquidator or should apply for the appointment of W. B. Peat, a chartered accountant, as liquidator. Eight creditors whose debts amounted to about 11,821*l.* voted for the official receiver, and nine creditors whose debts amounted to about 779*l.* voted for W. B. Peat. The meeting was unanimously in favour of appointing several persons as members of the committee of inspection; but as to one other proposed member, J. Gothard, there was a majority in value in favour of his appointment, and a majority in number against it.

The official receiver reported the results of the two meetings to the Court, and took out a summons asking that the reports might be considered, and such appointments made thereon as might be deemed expedient.

The petitioner and other creditors, however, opposed the appointment of the official receiver, and alleged that of the eight creditors who opposed Peat's appointment five, whose debts amounted to 9503*l.*, were directors of the company, and that the directors were the only creditors who voted in favour of Gothard.

The official receiver reported that the winding-up must result in there being a very large deficiency, without taking into account the liabilities to unsecured creditors, but that further inquiry was not desirable as to the formation or promotion of the company, though a further inquiry was necessary as to its failure and the conduct of its business. The petitioner and the creditors supporting him were willing to undertake to pay Peat's expenses of investigating the charges against the directors.

The summons was adjourned into Court.

W. B. Lindley, for the official receiver, stated the facts.

Farwell, Q.C., and Howland Jackson, for the petitioner and other creditors supporting Peat's appointment:—Rule 25 of April, 1892, requires that the resolution shall be passed by "a majority in number and value" of the creditors or contributories present. As no such majority was obtained here in favour of the appointment of either proposed liquidator, the Court, under sect. 6 of the Act of 1890, must "decide the difference and make such order thereon as the Court may think fit." A majority in number of the outside creditors have confidence in Peat, who has made inquiries into the company's affairs, and is the proper person to make the required investigations. His appointment will cause no additional expense; the expense of investigation will be borne by those supporting his appointment. [They cited In re Jorannisberg Ltd and Gold Trust Company ([1892] 1 Ch. 588); In re The Varieties, ([1893] 2 Ch. 235).]

Butcher, for the contributories and the creditors supporting the appointment of the official receiver:—The allegations against the directors have not been substantiated. All the contributories, and a large majority in value of the creditors, ask for the appointment of the official receiver. He is the proper person to make the investigations and to take any proceedings under sect. 8 of the Act of 1890. There is no necessity for a second investigation by an outside liquidator, and no case has been shewn for deviating from the ordinary course, which is to appoint the official receiver.

WRIGHT, J., said that, an overwhelming majority being in favour of the appointment of the official receiver, who was prima facie the person to be appointed, while a substantial minority were in favour of Peat's appointment, the question was whether the view of the majority should prevail, or whether, under the circumstances, it should be disregarded. At present there was no prima facie case of fraud or misconduct against the persons whose conduct had been impugned, and their views could not be disregarded. Effect must be given to the view of the majority in value, especially as they were in favour of the official receiver, on whom lay the duty to report to the Court, under sect. 8 of the Act of 1890, if in his opinion any fraud had been committed. The costs of all parties must be costs in the winding-up.

SALISBURY-JONES AND DALE'S CASE.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory Directors—Period allowed for Qualifying—Resignation within Period.

The articles of association of a company provided (art. 89) that the vendor to the company and the remaining six subscribers to the articles should be the first directors; (art. 91) that the qualification should be 100*l.* in shares, and that a director "may act before acquiring his qualification, but shall in any case acquire the same within three months from his appointment, and unless he shall do so, he shall be deemed to have agreed to take the said shares from the company, and the same shall be forthwith allotted to him accordingly"; (art. 94) that the office of a director should be vacated if by notice in writing to the company he resigned his office.

Three of the subscribers of the articles acted as directors—one of them by signing some share certificates, and all of them by signing a paper appointing another person to act as a director in their stead; but not in any other way. These acts were done before the period for qualifying had elapsed. In the winding-up of the company the three subscribers were placed on the list of contributories in respect of their qualification shares, and applied to have their names removed from such list.

Rufus Isaacs, for the applicants, contended that resignation before expiration of the qualifying period distinguished this case from Isaacs' Case ([1892] 2 Ch. 158), and In re Hercynia Copper Company (ante, p. 76).

O. L. Clare, for the liquidator, was not called upon.

WRIGHT, J., said the applicants had agreed to become directors; and signing the instrument appointing a new director in their place, which could only validly be done by them as directors, was sufficient evidence of such an agreement. By doing this they had agreed to take their qualification shares, and the fact of their having resigned within the three months allowed for qualifying did not release them from their obligations. Their names must therefore remain on the list.

Ship—Merchant Shipping Acts—Offences—Overloading Ship—Liability of Owner for Act of Master—Merchant Shipping Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 80).

Case stated by stipendiary magistrate.

By sect. 28 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, "any owner or master of a British ship who allows the ship to be so loaded as to submerge in salt water the centre of the disc," is to be guilty of an offence.

The appellant was the owner of a British ship called "The Opah," which in December, 1893, at Hymassi, in the island of Negropont, took on board a cargo with which she sailed for Garston. At the time of leaving Hymassi the ship was so loaded as to submerge in salt water the centre of the disc to the knowledge of the master. The said master had been appointed by the appellant, but the appellant was not aware of the overloading of "The Opah." The appellant was summoned, under the above section, for allowing the ship to be so overloaded before the stipendiary magistrate of Liverpool, who convicted him subject to a case for the opinion of the Court.

County Court—Appeal—Judge's Notes—Costs—Shorthand Notes—Practice of City of London Court.

Application that the costs of a shorthand note of the evidence given at the trial, and of the summing-up of the judge, be allowed to the plaintiff.

The action, which was brought under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880 (43 & 44 Vict. c. 42), was tried in the City of London Court before the deputy judge and a jury, when a verdict was found for the defendants. The plaintiff appealed on the ground of misdirection, and a Divisional Court ordered a new trial, declining to allow the costs of the shorthand notes, but giving special leave to the plaintiff to make the present application. The practice of the City of London Court was shown to be that the corporation employ a shorthand writer to take notes of the proceedings in cases heard in the Court, and the parties can obtain a transcript of the shorthand notes on payment. In the present case the plaintiff had obtained a transcript of the notes of the evidence and the summing-up.

W. M. Thompson, for the plaintiff.

Rose-Innes, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Cave and Collins, JJ.) held, that, as the case was one in which it was impossible to request the judge to make a note at the time when the point on which the plaintiff appealed arose, because the point did not arise until after the close of the summing-up, the judge was not bound, under sect. 121 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), to furnish a copy of his note, and the plaintiff was therefore entitled to obtain the transcript of the shorthand notes, and the costs ought to be allowed, but only such costs as were necessary; that in the present case a note of the evidence was necessary, but that in ordinary cases tried with a jury only the costs of the summing-up ought to be allowed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. D. In re LUMLEY. June 18.

Married Woman—Separate Property—Restraint on Anticipation—Order for Payment of Costs—Sequestration—Income accruing after date of Order—Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 1—Married Women's Property Act, 1893, s. 2.

This was an appeal from an order of North, J., refusing a motion for an injunction to restrain Mrs. Cathcart, a married woman, from receiving the rents due and payable on the 25th of March, 1894, by the tenants of certain estates of which she was tenant for life for her separate use without power of anticipation, and also refusing to allow a fresh writ of sequestration to be issued (ante, pp. 77, 80). Mrs. Cathcart had been ordered to pay certain costs out of any property which she might have to her separate use, without restraint of anticipation, and a writ of sequestration had been issued against such property; but the rents now in question had become due after the orders for payment of costs were made, which was in June and October, 1893. H. H. Hood Barrs, the solicitor to whom the costs were due, appealed against this decision.

Hopkinson, Q.C., and B. Denniss, for the appellant.

Mrs. Cathcart, in person, opposed the appeal.

DAVEY, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (Lindley and Davey, L.J.J.). He said that the general question at issue had been decided in the other branch of the Court of Appeal on the 16th of June in the case of Hood Barrs v. Cathcart, and it followed from that decision that North, J., had taken a correct view of the question. The appellant had, however, raised another point, founded upon sect. 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893, which came into operation on the 1st of January, 1894. It was provided by that section that the Court should have jurisdiction in any action or proceeding instituted by a married woman to order payment of costs to the opposite party out of property which was subject to a restraint on anticipation, and it was contended that these orders for payment of costs came under this section, as they were made on motions or summonses by Mrs. Cathcart. It was unnecessary to decide whether that contention was correct, because the Court was of opinion that the section did not give the Court jurisdiction to alter the effect of an order made before the Act came into operation, which was the case with these orders. The appeal must, therefore, be dismissed.

Practice—Leave to issue Attachment—Service of Notice of Motion—Defendant who has not appeared—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XLIV., r. 2; Order LII., rr. 3, 4; Order LXVII., r. 4.

Motion by the plaintiff for leave to issue a writ of attachment against the defendant for his contempt in not complying with an order dated the 27th of April, 1894, that he should, within fifteen days after service of the order, leave at the chambers of the judge certain accounts and statements. The defendants had not entered an appearance in the action. The order of the 27th of April was served on the defendant personally on the 12th of May. The notice of motion was dated the 8th of June. It was not served on the defendant, but was filed with the officer of the Court pursuant to rule 4 of Order LXVII.

E. Clayton, for the plaintiff, referred to In re Morris (44 Ch. D. 151) and In re Evans ([1898] 1 Ch. 252).

The defendant did not appear.

NORTH, J., said that, as the plaintiff evidently knew where to find the defendant, he would not give leave to issue an attachment, unless notice of the application was served on the defendant. In a case in which the applicant for leave did not know where to find the party whom he desired to attach it might be very proper to give leave to issue an attachment upon filing the notice of motion. His Lordship declined to adopt that course in such a case as the present.

SNAITH v. SNAITH.

Will—Construction—Contingent Legacy—Interest.

Summons by Nicholas Snaith, a legatee under the will of Thomas Snaith, who died on the 20th of June, 1885, to determine whether the applicant was entitled to interest upon a legacy (originally contingent on his attaining 21) given to him by the will. He had attained 21, and the legacy had been paid to him with interest. The defendants to the summons were, the surviving executor and trustee of the will, and the personal representatives of the residuary legatee.

The testator by his will appointed his brother Nicholas Snaith, Thomas Snaith Hall, and Michael Snaith, junior, executors and trustees thereof; and he bequeathed all the residue of his real and personal estate unto his executors, to hold the same upon trust in good security for certain specified legacies and annuities, and the will proceeded: "And my trustees will hold the sum of 2000*l.* upon trust to invest the same in good security, and to pay the same to the five sons of my late brother John Snaith, that is to say, to Richard Snaith, to Riddle Snaith, to Nicholas Snaith (the plaintiff), to John Snaith, and to Alfred Young Snaith, 400*l.* each, when they shall attain the age of 21 years respectively. And, if one or more of them die before reaching the said age, their shares to be equally divided among their survivors. And as to all the rest and residue and remainder of my estate and effects, both real and personal, I give and devise and bequeath the same to my nephew Thomas Snaith Hall, my heir and residuary legatee."

Richard Snaith and Riddle Snaith had both attained 21, and each of them had received his share of the 2000*l.*, but without interest. John Snaith and Alfred Young Snaith were both still under 21. The residuary legatee was dead.

Theobald, for the plaintiff.

Yate Lee, for the surviving executor.

Micklem, for the representatives of the residuary legatee.

The following cases were cited: Dundas v. Wolfe-Murray (1 H. & M. 425); In re Inman ([1893] 3 Ch. 518); In re Judkin's Trusts (25 Ch. D. 743); Kidman v. Kidman (40 L. J. (Ch.) 359); Johnston v. O'Neill (3 L. R. Ir. 476); Festing v. Allen (5 Hare, 573); In re Medlock (55 L. J. (Ch.) 738).

NORTH, J., said that the law was clear, and the cases were clear; the only question was about their application. He understood the law to be this—If a contingent legacy was given, and it was severed from the rest of the testator's estate merely for administration purposes (e.g., because the residue was to be paid over before the legacy), the severance would not be sufficient to carry the intermediate income of the fund to the legatee until the happening of the contingency. But, if the severance was made for the purposes of the fund itself, then the gift carried the intermediate income to the legatee. In the present case, His Lordship thought the language of the will shewed an intention that the fund should be severed for the benefit of the legatees. There was no direction in the will that the fund should fall into the residue if the contingency failed. No doubt the residuary gift would include this fund, but the testator had not expressed any intention about it. Other circumstances led to the same conclusion. His Lordship could not distinguish the case from In re Medlock, except that it was rather stronger. His Lordship made a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to interest at 4 per cent. per annum on his share of the 2000*l.*, as from a year after the death of the testator, until the investment of the fund, and thereafter to a fifth share of the income of the fund until the payment of the one-fifth to him. The costs of the application to be paid out of the residue.

MILLS v. JOHNSTON.

Will—Construction—Trust for Benefit and Advantage of Legatee—Discretion given to Trustee as to Application—Legatee absolutely entitled.

The testator, who died in April, 1891, by his will gave to trustees all his property upon certain trusts, and directed that 1200*l.* should be invested for the benefit of his son J. A. on his attaining 21, or as soon after as practicable—such sum to be applied to his professional or other advancement at the discretion and judgment of the trustees. And further, that 1000*l.* should be invested for the benefit and advancement of his son C. S. on his attaining 21—such sum to be applied as the trustees in their discretion might think fit. And he further directed that the before-specified sums should be judiciously invested, as they were intended specially for the advancement and promotion in life of the respective recipients. Both the legatees had attained 21, and had created charges upon their interests under the will. This was a summons raising the question whether the legatees were absolutely entitled to the legacies, so that the money ought to be paid to them, or the persons deriving title under them, or whether the trustees had a discretion as to the application of it.

Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and Philippotts; Hastings, Q.C., and Upjohn; Buckley, Q.C., and Bardswell; O. E. E. Jenkins; Fooks; Morsehead; and Romer, for the various parties.

STIRLING, J., held that the legatees were absolutely entitled upon two grounds, (1) that the legacies were directed, by the testator's will, to be taken out of his estate, that the legatees were the only persons to take any benefit under the bequests, and that the law would not permit the enjoyment of interests which were absolute to be fettered by the imposition of a discretion; (2) that where, as in In re Skinner's Trusts (1 J. & H. 102), the main object of a gift is to benefit the person to take, and him only, and the testator only points out the way in which the legacy is to be enjoyed, the Court will not insist upon its being applied modo et forma in the manner prescribed by the testator if satisfied that the legatee desires to dispose of the legacy otherwise.

With reference to the above case (noted ante, p. 108), his Lordship now said that Mr. Justice North had informed him that he had never intended to lay down any rule such as that which he was stated to have laid down. What had happened was that in one or two cases recently before him he had come to the conclusion that the evidence adduced to prove the passing of resolutions by the companies then in question was not sufficient, and he (Mr. Justice North) had not laid down any rule which was inconsistent with what his Lordship (Mr. Justice Stirling) had held in this case, viz., that the minute of a meeting of a company duly signed was, under sect. 67 of the Companies Act, 1862, prima facie evidence of the regularity of such meeting and the correctness of the resolutions passed thereat.

*In re HUDDLESTON.
BRUNO v. EYSTON.*

June 12.

Special Power of Appointment—Execution of Power—Will—General Bequest—Specific Gift—Intention—Evidence, Admissibility of—Property at date of Will.

Edward Huddleston, who died in 1852, by his will bequeathed a share of his residuary personal estate in favour of his daughter, Agnes Countess Faà di Bruno, with directions to his trustees that, after her decease, they should hold the capital of the said share upon trust for her children, or any of them, as she should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment, upon trusts for her children and their issue per stirpes, equally.

Agnes Countess Faà di Bruno died in June, 1892, having by her will, dated in May, 1892, made the following bequest: "I undersigned, being in the full possession of my mental faculties, direct that all my property of every kind including rents, certificates, securities or investments, &c., deposited with my bankers and trustees, Glyn, Mills, Witham, Lambert & Co. of London, and, in a word, all I may be seized of at the time of my death, nothing being excluded or excepted, shall be divided as follows:" Then followed directions for division among three of her children and the children of one of them, a son. The testatrix made no reference in her will to the special power of appointment given to her by her father.

This was an originating summons by the son in his own right, and also as administrator of a deceased child of the Countess, and also as administrator with the will annexed of the Countess, against the trustees of the will, and the infant children of the son, raising the question whether the will of the Countess was a valid execution of the special power given to her by the will of her father.

The Countess died possessed of property of her own, including a small cash balance at her bankers, Glyn & Co. There was also deposited with Glyn & Co., in the names of the trustees of Huddleston's will, some Consols and mortgage and other securities representing the share of the Countess under the will.

At the hearing of the summons, the question arose whether evidence in the shape of an affidavit filed by the solicitor to the late Countess and the defendants was admissible to prove that by the words "including rents, &c.," the Countess meant to describe the funds held by Glyn & Co. in the names of the trustees, and over which the Countess had a power of appointment.

Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiff, contended that the will did not operate as an execution of the special power: and that the gift being general and not specific, evidence as to the state of the property was not admissible, according to the rule settled by Andrews v. Emmot (2 Bro. C. C. 297) and that clear of cases.

G. Lawrence, for the defendants, contended that the gift was prima facie specific: and operated as an execution of the power; and he relied on Wigram on Extrinsic Evidence (1st ed. p. 51; 4th ed. p. 65), and Innes v. Sayer (3 Mac. & G. 606) as authorities that, where a gift was prima facie specific, evidence was admissible to shew the state of the property at the date of the will.

Kekewich, J., said the will was in terms nothing more than a general residuary devise and bequest; that "specific," whatever else it meant, must mean something segregated and distinguished from the generality; that in the present case there was nothing specific in that sense, but a general disposition by the testatrix of her whole property, and there was nothing whatever to shew that she was exercising her special power. Accordingly he must hold that the will did not operate as an execution of the power. Then the question was, whether evidence was admissible to shew that the testatrix was intending, at the time she made her will, to dispose, not only of her own property, but also of that over which she had the special power. But Innes v. Sayer (3 Mac. & G. 606) was conclusive on the point. There Lord Truro pointed out that where the gift in a will was—as in the present instance—not primâ facie specific, but could be satisfied by reference to the testator's own property, the Court would not take into consideration the state of the property at the date of the will. The rule was settled by that case, and it was not now his duty either to explain or to criticize it, but simply to follow it, which he therefore did by holding that the proposed evidence was not admissible. Accordingly the property subject to the power must go as in default of appointment.

CHAMBERLIN v. SPRINGFIELD.

Will—Residue—Gift “after decease” of Wife to Persons Next of Kin—Life Estate—Implication—Intestacy.

George Osborn Springfield, who died in 1893, by his will, dated in 1892, gave his residuary personal estate to trustees in trust for investment, and out of the income to pay an annuity to each of his two daughters, on attaining 21 or marrying, “for and during the remainder of the life of” his wife, if she should be then living: “And from and after the decease of” his wife, to convert such residuary personal estate and divide the proceeds between his son and two daughters.

The testator left surviving him his widow, and four children.

The question, raised by originating summons, was whether the widow took a life interest by implication in the residuary personal estate.

Hadley, Methold, and Drury, for the parties.

KEKEWICH, J., said that Lord Justice Cotton's reasoning in Ralph v. Carrick (11 Ch. D. 873) applied to the case, and held that the widow took no life interest by implication. Accordingly, there was an intestacy as to the income of the residuary personal estate during the life of the widow.

Practice—Concurrent Writ—Service out of Jurisdiction—Irregularity—Evidence in Support of Application for leave to issue Concurrent Writ—Action properly brought—Separate Relief against different Defendants—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order VI., r. 1; Order XL., rr. 1 (g); 4.

The plaintiff in this action was the trustee in the bankruptcy of a person who was beneficially entitled to a share in property in Canada under the will of a Canadian testator. The property was vested in a sole executor and trustee who was domiciled and resident in Canada, and had proved the will there. The bankrupt had previously to the bankruptcy mortgaged his interest under the will to persons resident in this country, and the plaintiff brought this action against the mortgagees and the Canadian trustee seeking to redeem the mortgages, and claiming accounts as against the mortgagees, and as against the Canadian trustee that out of the property in his hands as such trustee in trust for the bankrupt he should be directed to pay the sum found due to the mortgagees, and pay and account for the value of the property to the plaintiff as trustee in bankruptcy of the property of the bankrupt. Before the writ had been served on the English defendants, the plaintiff applied for and obtained leave to issue a concurrent writ for service on the Canadian defendant. In his affidavit in support of the application, the plaintiff did not state that the Canadian defendant was a necessary or proper party to the action, nor the belief of the deponent that he had a good cause of action against such defendant as required by Order XI., r. 4. The concurrent writ was duly issued and marked as “concurrent,” pursuant to Order VI., r. 1; but the copy served on the Canadian defendant was not marked “concurrent.” The Canadian defendant did not enter an appearance, but a motion was now made on his behalf that the order giving leave to serve him should be discharged, and the service of the writ set aside on the grounds that the writ was irregularly served, and that the action was not one in which service out of the jurisdiction ought to be allowed as against the Canadian defendant under Order XI., r. 1, clause (g), or otherwise.

Warmington, Q.C., and J. H. Reisman, in support of the motion.

Muir Mackenzie, for the plaintiff.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the service of the writ was irregular, inasmuch as the application for the order for service was not supported by proper evidence, the copy served on the Canadian defendant was not a true copy, and the English defendants had not been served before the application was made. Upon the last point his Lordship followed the decision of Pearson, J., in Yorkshire Tunnery v. Eglinton Chemical Company (54 L. J. (Ch.) 81), being of opinion that the authority of that case was not affected by Tassell v. Hallen ([1892] 1 Q. B. 321). These, he observed, were comparatively technical objections which might be overcome by obtaining the leave of the Court afresh and beginning de novo. But there remained the objection of substance that the action was one in which service out of the jurisdiction ought not to be allowed at all, inasmuch as the Canadian defendant was not, within Order XI., r. 1 (g), a “necessary or proper party to an action properly brought” against some other person duly served within the jurisdiction. According to the principle of Wittel v. Galbraith ([1893] 1 Q. B. 577) that objection must prevail. In order to bring a case within the rule, the relief sought against the defendant out of the jurisdiction must be connected with the relief sought against the defendant within the jurisdiction. It was never intended that a plaintiff should be able to make a defendant out of the jurisdiction a party to an action simply because the plaintiff had a cause of action against a defendant within the jurisdiction. This action was really two actions rolled into one—an action for redemption against the mortgagees and an action for accounts against the Canadian trustee. The plaintiff might have a very good cause of action against the latter, but the action must be brought in Canada where he was, and not in this country where he was not. His Lordship accordingly directed that the order should be discharged and the service set aside.

Three persons were liable as co-sureties for the payment of a debt. One of them executed a deed of arrangement with his creditors, and the other two paid off the principal creditor and took an assignment of his debt, and then sought to prove under the deed of arrangement for the whole amount of the debt, but on the footing that they should not actually receive more than one-third of the amount. The trustee of the deed of arrangement contended that the proof ought to be limited to the one-third.

Hadley, for the co-sureties, referred to Ex parte Stokes (1 De G. 618).

T. B. Napier, for the trustee, referred to Ex parte Snowden (17 Ch. D. 44); Wolmershausen v. Gullick ([1893] 2 Ch. 514); In re Ennis ([1893] 3 Ch. 238); and the Mercantile Law Amendment Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 97), s. 5.

KEKEWICK, J., held that the effect of sect. 5 of 19 & 20 Vict. c. 97, was to confer upon the two co-sureties a full right of action for the whole amount of the debt, subject only to the qualification that they should not put into their pockets by means of any judgment obtained by them more than the just proportion payable by the third surety, and that they were, therefore, entitled to prove for the whole amount of the debt assigned to them on the footing contended for on their behalf.

By a deed dated the 22nd of August, 1884, a freehold house and land (with other hereditaments) were voluntarily conveyed by C. to his wife. C. died in December, 1886, and his wife retained possession of the title-deeds. In July, 1888, she conveyed the house and land for value to M., and in January, 1889, M. conveyed them for value to N.

In September, 1893, N. agreed to sell the house and land to P. The abstract of title delivered to P. did not set out the deed of gift, but it was mentioned, and it was stated that there was a covenant to produce it. On a requisition being made by P. he was furnished with an abstract of the deed of gift. P., who in the meantime had taken possession of the house, then repudiated the contract on the ground that a good title had not been shewn, inasmuch as, between the date of the voluntary deed and his death, C. might have made a conveyance for value. N. brought an action to specifically enforce the contract.

Oswald, Q.C., and Boome, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and Eve, for the defendant.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus to bring up and discharge a prisoner who had been committed for surrender to the French Government under the Extradition Acts.

The offences charged against the prisoner were causing two dynamite explosions in France, one at a café, causing the death of two persons, and the other at certain barracks. The evidence shewed the prisoner to be an anarchist.

The grounds of the application were, (1) that there was no evidence of the identity of the prisoner with the person accused of the crimes in France; (2) that the charges depended on the evidence of an accomplice, which was not corroborated; (3) that there were two charges and only one committal; (4) that the outrage at the barracks was an offence of a political character, and therefore the prisoner was not liable to extradition.

Burnie, for the prisoner.

The Attorney-General (Sir J. Rigby, Q.C.), The Solicitor-General (B. T. Reid, Q.C.), and H. Sutton, for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Cave and Collins, JJ.) held, that the evidence of identity was sufficient, that the evidence of the alleged accomplice was corroborated, but that, even had it not been, that would not be a sufficient ground for granting the application, for absence of corroboration was not conclusive in favour of a prisoner's right to acquittal, but the magistrate had a discretion as to whether the evidence was sufficient to justify a committal, which had been rightly exercised; that separate committals were not necessary; and that the outrage at the barracks was not an offence of a political character, for to constitute a political offence there must be two parties in the State each seeking to impose the government of their own choice on the other, which was not the case with regard to anarchist crimes.

Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 62), ss. 2, 7—Lease—Compensation for Improvements—Notice—Meaning of "Determination of Tenancy."

This was an appeal from a judgment of the First Division of the Court of Session, Scotland (21 Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Rettie), 41).

Section 2 of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 62), confers upon a tenant of agricultural or pastoral lands, "on quitting his holding at the determination of a tenancy," the right to obtain from his landlord compensation for certain improvements. It is provided by sect. 7 that a tenant shall not be entitled to compensation under the Act, unless "four months at least before the determination of the tenancy he gives notice to the landlord in writing of his intention to make a claim." The only difference in sect. 7 of the English Agricultural Holdings Act, 1883, is, that the notice required is two months instead of four.

The respondent was tenant of a farm in Berwickshire under a lease for nineteen years which commenced in 1860. The term of nineteen years was extended for thirteen years beyond that period by tacit relocation. The stipulations of the lease as regards entry and removal were that the farm was thereby let "for the space of nineteen years from and after the entry of the said John Clay, which, notwithstanding the date or dates hereof, is declared to be to the houses (with the exceptions after-mentioned) grass and fallow lands, on the 26th of May, in the year 1860; to the arable land in corn crop at the separation of the crop of the same year from the ground; and to the barns and barnyard and two cothouses at Whitsunday, 1861, from these periods respectively to be possessed by the said John Clay and his foresaids during the space above written."

In May, 1891, the appellant, who was owner of the farm, obtained a decree ordering the respondent to remove (following the stipulations in the lease) from the houses, grass and fallow land, at the term of Whitsunday, 1892; from the arable land at the separation of the crop of the same year from the ground; and from the barns and barnyard and two cothouses at Whitsunday, 1893.

The respondent quitted possession of the houses (with the exception of the barns, barnyard, and two cothouses), and also of the grass and fallow lands, at the term of Whitsunday, 1892. He thereafter, on the 6th of June, 1892, gave the appellant notice of a claim for improvements under the provisions of the Act of 1883, which notice was followed by an application to the sheriff for the appointment of a referee, in terms of sect. 2 of the Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act, 1883 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 20). The appellant then instituted this action for interdict to restrain all further procedure towards the assessment of compensation, upon the ground that the notice served upon him was not in time under sect. 7 of the Act of 1883; his contention being that the lease determined at Whitsunday, 1892, when the respondent ceased to hold the grass and fallow lands, and that his subsequent possession of the arable land was not a possession as tenant, but only a privilege accorded to one whose tenancy was already at an end.

The First Division adhered to the Lord Ordinary's judgment, refusing the interdict sought by the appellant.

Asher, Q.C., (with him J. J. Cook, of the Scotch Bar, and Mark Napier), for the respondent, were only asked for cases.

June 22. THE HOUSE: (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson, Morris, and Shand) affirmed with costs the decision appealed from.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said:—It appeared impossible to avoid the conclusion that, as to the barns, barnyard, and cothouses, a tenancy is created a year later, and terminates a year later than the tenancy of the grass lands; and if there be a separate lease or determination of the tenancy as to these, how could the lease be construed otherwise than as creating a tenancy in the arable lands which is to continue until the "separation of the crop" after the Whitsunday? The words of the demise are the same with regard to all three subjects, which are to be possessed for the space of nineteen years from the periods named "respectively." For these reasons he came to the conclusion that the contention could not be supported, that under the lease there was to be but one lease, and that, as from the Whitsunday when the tenancy of the grass lands came to an end.

LORD WATSON said—That the contract embodied in the lease made effectual provision for three terms of entry, and three terms of lease, in regard to different portions of the subjects let; and that, until the arrival of each term of lease, a proper right of tenancy exists, with respect to such part of the subjects let as the tenant is bound to quit possession of at that term. That the "separation of the crop" ought to be read as signifying the term of Martinmas, they being in popular language and legal effect equivalent expressions when they occur in a Scotch lease. That the "determination of a tenancy," as that expression occurs in sects. 2 and 7 of the statute, refers to the time when the tenant finally gives up possession of the subjects which in the statute are described as his "holding." A holding which entitles the tenant to the benefit of its provisions must, according to sect. 35 of the Act, be "either wholly agricultural or wholly pastoral, or in part agricultural, and as to the residue pastoral." The respondent's holding, in so far as it consisted of lands in crop, after Whitsunday, 1892, was agricultural, and that was sufficient for the disposal of this appeal. But His Lordship entertained serious doubts whether, after his removal in the autumn of 1892, the respondent remained in possession of any holding within the meaning of the Act, being of opinion that the bare possession of a barn, barnyard and two cothouses, unconnected with any land either pastoral or agricultural, was not a possession of a holding recognised by the Act.

COURT OF APPEAL

From Q. B. D. HOOD BARRS v. CATHCART. June 16.
Married Woman — Judgment against — Execution — Separate Estate, subject to Restraint on Anticipation — Income becoming due after date of Judgment, arrears of — Receiver — Married Women's Property Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 75), s. 1, sub-ss. 1, 2, 3, 4; s. 19.

Appeal from order of a Divisional Court (Charles and Bruce, JJ.), affirming an order made by Lawrance, J., in chambers, for the appointment of a receiver. The facts were as follows. On the 20th of April, 1893, judgment was obtained in the action against the defendant, who was a married woman, for the sum of 1723*l.* 7*s.* 9*d.*, and costs, the execution being "limited to the separate property of the defendant not subject to any restriction against anticipation, unless, by reason of sect. 19 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, the property should be liable to such execution notwithstanding such restraint." On the 11th of April, 1894, Lawrance, J., in chambers, made an order appointing a receiver to receive in respect of the judgment the rents which became due to the defendant on the 25th of March, 1894, from the tenants of her Stourbridge and Wootton estates, and were received by one Lewis, the defendant's agent. These estates were settled upon the defendant as tenant for life for her separate use without power of anticipation. The defendant appealed against this order, but the Divisional Court dismissed the appeal.

The defendant appeared in person.

Bartley Dennis, for the plaintiff.

June 16. KAY, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (Lord Esher, M.R., Kay, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) to the effect that the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, did not enable a judgment against a married woman to be enforced against arrears of her separate estate accruing due after the date of the judgment, in respect of which she was restrained from anticipation, either by a receiver, sequestration, charging order, or any kind of process, and that the order for the appointment of the receiver must therefore be discharged.

Practice — Amendment — Writ for Service out of Jurisdiction —

Statement of Claim indorsed on Writ — Power to Amend Statement of Claim — Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XI.; XXVIII., rr. 1, 6.

Appeal from the order of a Divisional Court (Cave and Collins, JJ.) affirming the order of Lawrance, J., at chambers allowing the plaintiffs to amend the statement of claim indorsed upon the writ.

The defendant was a foreigner residing out of the jurisdiction. The plaintiffs had obtained leave to issue the writ for service out of the jurisdiction, the claim indorsed being upon a bill of exchange accepted by the defendant. The writ was duly served by serving notice of it upon the defendant abroad. The defendant entered an appearance and a defence was put in. The plaintiffs (after the expiration of their time for reply), applied for leave to amend the statement of claim indorsed on the writ by altering the amount and date of the bill of exchange as described therein, and the learned judge granted their application. On appeal the Divisional Court affirmed his decision.

Watt, for the defendant, contended that such an amendment could not be allowed in the case of a writ issued for service out of the jurisdiction.

R. V. Bankes, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Kay, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) affirmed the decision of the Divisional Court, holding that an amendment of the indorsement on the writ could be made under Order XXVIII. in the case of a writ served out of the jurisdiction, the amendment sought to be made not introducing a cause of action in respect of which leave for service out of the jurisdiction could not in the first instance have been given.

Appeal dismissed.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

North, J. June 21.
In re QUEENSLAND LAND AND COAL COMPANY.
 DAVIS v. MARTIN.

Deed — Debentures in Blank — Equitable Security.

Previously to October, 1883, the Queensland Land and Coal Company had issued a number of debenture bonds to the extent of 64,000*l.*, part of an issue of 7 per cent. first mortgage debentures of 120,000*l.*, to rank pari passu, charged on the land and coal-mines of the company in Queensland.

In October and November, 1863, they borrowed from the Queensland National Bank 6000*l.*, under an agreement to issue debenture bonds of the first issue to the Queensland National Bank as security for repayment of the loan with interest. In pursuance of the agreement for the loan, the Queensland Land and Coal Company executed a number of debenture bonds in blank as to the name of the obligee, and delivered them to the Queensland National Bank as security for the loan. This was the further consideration of a debenture-holder's action for the administration of the trusts of a covering deed executed to secure the debentures.

The question arose between the Queensland National Bank and the other debenture-holders as to whether the bank were entitled to rank pari passu with the other debenture-holders against the property subject to the covering deed.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Alexander Young, for the Queensland National Bank.

NORTH, J., held, that the debentures held by the bank were void at law, but that the bank had an equitable right to debentures, and a right as between themselves and the holders of legal debentures to participate pari passu in the property realized under the covering deed, to the extent of their loan and interest.

Commonable Lands—Rights of Turbary—Purchase of Lands by Railway Company—Allotment of Waste Lands to Lord of Manor upon Charitable Trusts—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 4, 150, 151, 257—Expenses of Structural Works—"Owner."

Adjourned summons.

By an award made in 1806, the Commissioners, acting under the powers of the Christchurch Enclosure Act, allotted unto the lord of a manor part of the waste lands thereof for the purpose of a turf common. It was established by the decisions of the Court of Appeal and of the House of Lords (see In re Christchurch Enclosure Act, 38 Ch. D. 520; and S. O. sub nom, Attorney-General v. Meyrick, [1893] A. C. 1) that the soil of this turf common was vested in the lord of the manor, subject as regards the surface to certain charitable trusts created by the Act in favour of certain cottagers.

In the year 1890, the local authority of B., under the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1875, gave notice to the lord of the manor requiring him to sewer, level, pave, metal, flag, and channel portions of two roads adjoining the turf common. As the lord of the manor did not do the work, the local authority did it themselves, and the question on the summons was whether the lord was liable for the expense.

Buckley, Q.C., and Ribton, for the lord of the manor, contended that he was not liable to pay the expense of the works done by the local authority, because the provisions of the Enclosure Act prevented the turf common from being let at a rack-rent, and consequently the lord was not the "owner" thereof, within the definition of that word in the Public Health Act, 1875, s. 4.

Hastings, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the local authority, contra.

Ingle Joyce, for the Attorney-General.

June 21. STIRLING, J., held, in accordance with the principle of Bowditch v. Wakefield Local Board of Health (Law Rep. 6 Q. B. 567), that a claim for expenses such as these might be sustained in respect of property vested, under the authority of Parliament, in a trustee for charitable purposes, even although the property cannot be let by reason of a special condition imposed by the Legislature. He therefore allowed the claim of the local authority against the lord of the manor for the expenses in question.

Stirling, J. BOLTON v. CURRIE AND OTHERS. June 22.

Practice—Receiver—Jurisdiction—Estates in Ireland—Trusts—Breach of Trust at Instigation of Beneficiary—Lien of Trustee upon Interest of Beneficiary—Equitable Mortgagees of Beneficiary—Priority—Trustee Act, 1893, s. 45.

By a settlement dated the 25th of July, 1877, made on the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Blood, two funds were settled: (1) a sum of 5000*l.* secured by a mortgage of certain estates in Ireland belonging to the husband; and (2) a legacy of 5000*l.* payable to the wife under her father's will. The wife's fund was subsequently invested in 4000*l.* Great Western Railway Rentcharge Stock.

By the settlement the husband and wife each took the first life interest in the property respectively settled by them, with remainder in each case to the survivor, and on the death of the survivor there were the usual trusts for the issue of the marriage. There was issue of the marriage one child who was living.

In 1885 the trustees, at the request of the husband and wife, committed a breach of trust by selling out the stock and advancing the proceeds to the husband upon an equitable mortgage of his Irish estates, subject to other incumbrances.

On the 12th of August, 1893, the husband, in consideration of 1500*l.*, assigned his life interest under the settlement in the mortgage debt brought into settlement by him to C. Studdert. This action was brought by the legal personal representative of a deceased trustee of the settlement against the surviving trustees, the husband and wife, and C. Studdert, claiming (inter alia) a declaration that, on bringing into Court 4000*l.* Rentcharge Stock, the plaintiff and his co-trustees were entitled to a lien on the life interest of the husband under the settlement in priority to any claim by C. Studdert, and also to a lien upon the life interest of the wife; and a declaration that he and the surviving trustees were entitled to a charge on the mortgage of 1885 for all sums expended by them in replacing the 4000*l.* stock.

This was a motion for the appointment of a receiver of the Irish estates, and two questions arose upon it—(1) Whether the Court would exercise its jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of estates in Ireland; and (2) whether the trustees had a right to the appointment of a receiver as against C. Studdert. It was proposed to appoint the present agent of the estates, who lived in Ireland, and had no difficulty in collecting the rents. The parties were all resident in England.

Hastings, Q.C., and Frank Wright, for the plaintiff.

Carson, Q.C., and Butcher, for Mr. and Mrs. Blood, contended that the appointment of a receiver of estates in Ireland by this Court would be futile, and productive of much more expense than proceedings which might be instituted in the Irish Land Court to whom, under sect. 75 of the Irish Judicature Act, 1877, all matters relating to the appointment of receivers had been transferred, and by whom all questions in this action might well be decided. Mr. and Mrs. Blood were willing that the agent should be appointed receiver by a deed out of Court.

Henry Fellows, for O. Studdert, contended that his client was a purchaser for value without notice of the breach of trust, and that although on the doctrine of Raby v. Ridehalgh (7 D. M. & G. 104) the trustees upon making good the breach might be entitled to stand in the position of the cestui que trust in remainder, yet here at the date of the assignment to O. Studdert the trustees were in default, and had no equity which could give them priority over that assignment, and that no after-acquired equity would prevail against the assignee: Stephens v. Venables (30 Beav. 625).

Brooke, for the surviving trustees, stated that his clients were willing to pay into Court their share of the fund.

STIRLING, J., said that if the property in question were in England, the appointment of a receiver would be almost a matter of course. The jurisdiction of this Court, however, was not ousted, and, having regard to the fact that it was proposed to appoint the agent who had been in the habit of collecting the rents without difficulty, the proper course was to make the appointment. Upon the second point, his Lordship held that at the date of the assignment to O. Studdert there was an existing equity in the cestui que trust in remainder which became vested in the trustees upon their making good the breach, and, in the absence of special circumstances, O. Studdert took the assignment subject to that equity. The appointment of the receiver would therefore extend to the interest of O. Studdert under the assignment. The action must be amended by making the remainderman a party.

two bills of costs, one for the scale fee under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, on a purchase by his clients for 2550*l.*, and the other for the scale fee on a sale by his clients for 1800*l.* The district registrar on taxation reduced the charges by allowing a scale fee only in respect of a contract for 750*l.*, being of opinion that, according to the decision in In re Lacey & Son (25 Ch. D. 301), the solicitor, not having perused and "completed" a conveyance for more than that sum, had not, as to the rest of the transaction done, substantially the whole of the work of "deducing title and perusing and completing the conveyance" mentioned in Schedule I., Part I., of the rules under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881. One of the bills of costs included an item of 10*s.* as estimated amount of law-stationer's charges for the preparation of a plan indorsed on one of the deeds. It appeared that this plan was merely a copy of one already in existence, and that the preparation of it did not require the skilled labour of a surveyor. The registrar disallowed this item, being of opinion that the charge was covered by the scale fee. The solicitor took out a summons for the review of the taxation.

Warmington, Q.C., and P. O. Lawrence, in support of the summons.

KEENEWICH, J., said that the conveyance to the sub-purchaser was, in his opinion, substantially a conveyance by the original vendors to the purchasers. If the transaction had been carried out by one conveyance of the whole to the purchasers, and a subsequent conveyance by them of part to the sub-purchaser, the matter would have been beyond question, and the mode of conveyance actually adopted was in substance, though not in form, the equivalent of that suggested. The solicitor had done all that was necessary for the completion of the conveyance, and had substantially carried it through from beginning to end. In re Lacey & Son had, therefore, no application, and the solicitor was entitled to two scale fees, on a purchase for 2550*l.* and on a sale for 1800*l.* In reference to a contention which was raised, that in respect of the sub-sale the solicitor had not done any work of deducing title, his Lordship observed that he had deduced the only title which could be deduced. Fortunately for him, it was an easy matter, but it might have been otherwise; and the principle of the Act was that solicitors must take the rough with the smooth. As there were in all probability overlapping charges in respect of the purchase and sub-sale, the matter must be referred back to the registrar. As to the charge for the plan, his Lordship held that, as the preparation of it did not involve the skilled labour of a surveyor, it was covered by the scale fee. In cases where it was necessary to employ a surveyor, and a surveyor was employed to prepare a plan, the charge would not come within the scale; but his Lordship would not personally look with favour on the employment of a surveyor with the view of increasing costs.

Purchasers of land for the sum of 2550*l.* employed a solicitor to act for them in the matter of the purchase. The solicitor prepared the contract of purchase, and perused the abstract of title delivered by the vendors. The purchasers subsequently sold part of the land to a sub-purchaser for 1800*l.* The solicitor prepared the contract with the sub-purchaser, and delivered to him an abstract of title consisting of the abstract furnished by the vendors, together with an abstract of the equitable title of the purchasers. The transaction was carried out by two conveyances, which were practically contemporaneous, one being by the vendors, direct to the purchasers, of part of the land in consideration of 750*l.*, and the other by the vendors, by the direction of the purchasers, to the sub-purchaser of the rest of the land in consideration of 1800*l.* The first mentioned of these conveyances was prepared by the solicitor; the other was not prepared by him, but was perused and approved by him on behalf of the purchasers. The solicitor delivered terms. To his son A. and his heirs he devised "All that newly-built house being No. — Sudeley Place"; to his son B., "All that newly-built house being No. — Sudeley Place," using a similar description of the remaining two houses in the gifts to his other sons C. and D. The four houses in Sudeley Place were not numbered at the date of the will, which contained no residuary devise.

The eldest son now claimed all four houses as the testator's heir-at-law.

Neville, Q.C., and G. Broke Freeman, for the eldest son, contended that the specific gift of these four houses was void for uncertainty, and that consequently they were undisposed of by the will, and descended on the eldest son as heir-at-law.

Hopkinson, Q.C., W. Cowell Davies, and F. Whinney, for the other three sons, contended that the gift was not void, but that the specific devisees were entitled to elect according to the priority of the gifts, and relied on Duckmanton v. Duckmanton (5 H. & N. 219) and Tapley v. Eagleton (12 Ch. D. 683).

ROMER, J., said that he could not come to the conclusion that the testator intended to give one of these four houses to each son without any selection on the part of the testator: indeed, it appeared clear on the will that what the testator intended was, to give a particular house to each son, but, owing to the houses being unnumbered at the date of the will, and the descriptions as given in the will being undistinguishable, it was impossible to tell from the will which house the testator intended for each of his sons: on this ground the case was distinguishable from the cases relied on for the younger sons. For these reasons, his Lordship held that the gifts were void for uncertainty, and that the four houses descended on the eldest son as heir-at-law of the testator.

Q. B. D. THE QUEEN v. SNAGGE. June 20.
County Court—Practices—Solicitor—Managing Clerk—Right of Audience of—County Courts Act, 1888, s. 72.

In an action of Simmonds v. Turner, brought in the County Court of Oxfordshire, judgment having been obtained by the defendant, a Mr. Addison, who was the managing clerk of Messrs. Mallam & Co., solicitors, of Oxford, appeared by the instructions of his principals and with the consent of the defendant in the said county court, to oppose on behalf of the defendant an application by the plaintiff for a new trial.

Mr. Addison was himself a solicitor, who had taken out his annual certificate and had subscribed the roll of the Court as required by the County Court Rules, and he had had the entire management of the proceedings in the action on the behalf of the defendant; but his principals, Messrs. Mallam & Co., were the solicitors retained by the defendant for the purposes of the action, and Mr. Addison was not so retained. Mr. Addison claimed to be entitled as of right to address the Court, as being "a solicitor acting generally in the action" for the defendant within the meaning of sect. 72 of the County Courts Acts, 1888. The county court judge held that he was not so entitled, and refused to hear him as of right. A rule having been obtained in the High Court calling on the judge to shew cause why he should not hear Mr. Addison,

Sutton, for the county court judge, shewed cause.

Sir Richard Webster, Q.C., and F. W. Hollams, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Cave and Collins, JJ.) held that Mr. Addison, not being the solicitor retained in the action by the defendant, was not "a solicitor acting generally in the action for such party" within the meaning of sect. 72, and was not entitled to address the Court except by leave of the judge.

Appeal from an order made by Grantham, J., at chambers.

A receiving order having been made in the county court, the debtor appealed against that order, and, whilst the appeal was pending, obtained from the judge at chambers in the Queen's Bench Division, in the absence of Williams, J., on circuit, an order extending for one month the time within which the official receiver should advertise the receiving order in accordance with the directions of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (45 & 47 Vict. c. 52), s. 13, and rule 183 of the Bankruptcy Rules, 1886 and 1890, with liberty to apply. Before the month expired, Grantham, J., at chambers, discharged the prior order of the judge at chambers, and the debtor appealed to a Divisional Court (Cave and Collins, JJ.).

By sect. 2 of the Bankruptcy Appeals (County Courts) Act, 1884 (47 Vict. c. 9), "An appeal shall lie in bankruptcy matters . . . from the order of a county court to a Divisional Court of the High Court of Justice, of which the judge to whom bankruptcy business shall for the time being be assigned shall for the purpose of hearing any such appeal be a member."

By rule 134A of the Bankruptcy Rules, 1886 and 1890, "When there is an appeal to the High Court from an order of a county court in a bankruptcy matter, any order or direction incidental thereto, not involving the decision of the appeal, may be given by the judge of the High Court for the time being exercising bankruptcy jurisdiction, but any such order or direction may be discharged or varied by the High Court."

H. Kisch, for the debtor, in answer to the suggestion of the Court that the appeal should have been brought before a Divisional Court constituted to hear appeals in bankruptcy matters, contended that under rule 134A the appeal might be heard by any Divisional Court of the High Court.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. D. GUILD & Co. v. CONRAD. June 21.

Guarantee—Indemnity—Verbal Promise—Promise to indemnify against Liability generally—Promise to answer for the Debt of another—Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3), s. 4.

The plaintiff, William Binney, traded as Guild & Co.; the defendant was a partner in a firm of Hermann Conrad & Co. In March, 1888, the defendant's son, J. W. Conrad, became a partner in a firm of Conrad, Wakefield & Co., in Demerara. In June, 1888, the defendant gave the plaintiff a written guarantee for 5000*l.* in consideration of the plaintiff's allowing Conrad, Wakefield, & Co. to draw upon him. Conrad, Wakefield, & Co. gradually increased their overdraft until March, 1891, when, according to the plaintiff, he met the defendant, who then verbally agreed to increase his guarantee to 6000*l.* on condition that the plaintiff should give credit to Conrad, Wakefield, & Co. up to 10,000*l.* In December, 1891, the plaintiff declined to go on taking up the bills of Conrad, Wakefield, & Co., as their overdraft exceeded 4000*l.* The defendant thereupon, at an interview with the plaintiff in December, 1891, verbally undertook to provide funds to meet a batch of bills of Conrad, Wakefield, & Co. for 5950*l.* which were then falling due, and in January, 1892, at another interview with the plaintiff, the defendant undertook in the same way to provide funds to meet another batch of bills for 5280*l.* which were then falling due.

This action was brought to recover 17,230*l.*—viz., 5000*l.* under the written guarantee of June, 1888; 1000*l.* under the increased guarantee of March, 1891; 5950*l.* under the verbal undertaking of December, 1891; and 5280*l.* under the verbal undertaking of January, 1892. At the trial there was a direct conflict of evidence between the plaintiff and the defendant as to what took place at the two interviews in December, 1891, and January, 1892, the defendant denying that he gave any promise whatever to the plaintiff either of guarantee or indemnity. The jury having intimated that they believed the plaintiff, the judge put the following questions to them:—(1) Was the 5000*l.* guarantee extended in March, 1891, to 6000*l.*? (2) Did the defendant undertake to provide funds to meet the 5950*l.* in December, 1891? (3) Did the defendant undertake to provide funds to meet the 5280*l.* in January, 1892? The jury answered all these questions in the affirmative, and the parties then agreed that the jury should be discharged and that the remaining questions in the case should be dealt with by the judge on further consideration. The judge held that the extension by 1000*l.* of the guarantee of March, 1891, ought, as required by the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3), s. 4, to have been in writing, and that, as it was not, the plaintiff could not recover that 1000*l.* But he held that the undertakings of December, 1891, and January, 1892, were not "guarantees," and were not, therefore, within the requirement of the statute, and that the plaintiff was entitled to recover upon them. Consequently, judgment was given for the plaintiff for all the sums in question except the 1000*l.* The defendant now applied, by way of appeal, for judgment or a new trial of the action.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and J. F. P. Rawlinson, for the defendant. Robson, Q.C., and Scrutton, for the plaintiff.

LINDLEY, L.J., said the case was very near the line. The difficulty was to know what took place at the interviews of December, 1891, and January, 1892; but his Lordship was inclined to think that the true result of the interviews was that the defendant did promise that if the plaintiff would accept the bills of the foreign firm he would take care that they should be met, and that the plaintiff accepted the bills on the faith of that promise. If that was the true view of the facts, this case was not distinguishable from Thomas v. Cook (8 B. & C. 728), where it was held that a promise to indemnify was not within the words or the policy of the Statute of Frauds. Thomas v. Cook was not followed in Green v. Cresswell (10 A. & E. 453), but it was treated as right in Hargreaves v. Parsons (13 M. & W. 570) and Beader v. Kingham (13 C. B. (N.S.) 344). In his Lordship's opinion Thomas v. Cook and the modern cases of Wiles v. Dudlow (Law Rep. 19 Eq. 193) and In re Bolton (8 Times L. R. 668), which were founded upon it, were rightly decided. The application would be refused.

LOPES, L.J., concurred. The question was whether this promise was a guarantee or an indemnity. A promise to become liable conditionally on the principal debtor making default was a guarantee and was within the statute; on the other hand, an independent promise to become liable in any event was not within the statute. This was a promise to indemnify, and came within the principle of Thomas v. Cook.

DAVEY, L.J., was of the same opinion. He agreed that, in considering whether the Statute of Frauds applied, there was an essential difference between a promise to pay a creditor if the principal debtor made default, and a promise to indemnify against a liability without regard to the question whether anybody else made default or not.

Marine Insurance—Collision—Proximate Cause of Injury.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Kennedy, J., who tried the action without a jury. The action was brought against the underwriters upon a policy of marine insurance by which the paddle-wheel steam-tug Rosa was insured against "the risk of collision and damage received in collision with any object including ice." The policy did not include perils of the sea. During the currency of the policy, the Rosa was engaged upon a trip on the Danube. In the course of that trip she came into collision with a floating snag which struck the bottom of the ship and then entered one of the paddle-wheels and damaged the vessel. The damage included serious injury to the machinery, and, among other things, the breaking of the cover of the condenser, which left an opening about twenty square inches in area. In consequence of this damage, the water came in through the ejection-pipe into the condenser, and thence through the hole into the vessel. The captain anchored the ship, and as soon as he was able plugged the ejection-pipe; and this was found to be sufficient so long as the ship was at anchor to stop any dangerous influx of water. He then applied for assistance to the owners, who sent a tug to tow the Rosa to the nearest dock. But the effect of the wash of the water while the vessel was in motion was, that the plug in the ejection-pipe was thrown out and the water came in rapidly and the vessel began to sink. The captain found it impossible to plug the pipe again; and in order to save the crew the ship was run aground.

The defendants paid into Court a sum sufficient to cover their liability for the damage sustained by the collision up to the time when the ship was taken in tow, but denied liability for the subsequent damage on the ground that the proximate cause of that damage was not the collision, but the towing to the port of repair. Kennedy, J., gave judgment for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed, and the defendants appealed.

Pickford, Q.C., and J. A. Hamilton, for the defendants.

Cohen, Q.U., and O. C. Scott, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Davey, L.J.J.) were of opinion that the collision with the snag was the proximate cause of the whole of the loss occasioned. The hole in the cover of the condenser was the continuing source of danger from first to last, and was the real cause of the ultimate loss of the ship. The appeal was therefore dismissed.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. June 29.

THE NATIONAL DWELLINGS SOCIETY v. SYKES.

Company—General Meeting—Conduct and Power of Chairman.

At the annual general meeting of this company, the chairman, the defendant Sykes, one of the directors, moved a resolution "that the report and accounts be received." To this an amendment was moved, that a committee of investigation be appointed to ascertain the position of the company. After some discussion, the chairman put the original motion to the meeting, and took a show of hands: the resolution was lost, whereupon the chairman said, "I declare the resolution lost, and I dissolve the meeting," and left the chair and the business of the annual meeting, had not been disposed of.

The meeting then appointed another shareholder to be chairman, and passed a resolution in effect asking the Board of Trade to appoint inspectors to examine into the affairs of the company, and then the meeting was adjourned for six weeks. At the adjourned meeting which the defendant did not attend a committee of investigation was appointed to look into the affairs of the company. This committee commenced the present action against the directors, and now moved for an interim injunction to restrain the defendants from preventing the plaintiffs, other than the company, from having full access to the books of the company, and from prosecuting the investigation authorized by the meeting as aforesaid. There was some doubt as to whether the plaintiffs had any right to use the name of the company, and another general meeting of the company was suggested to settle this question, and the question as to the validity of the appointment of the committee of investigation was also adjourned till after this general meeting; but CHITTY, J., held that it was not within the power of the chairman to stop the meeting, and in his opinion the meeting was competent to resolve to go on with the business for which it had been convened and appoint another chairman to conduct the business which the original chairman, forgetful of his duty, had tried to stop because the proceedings had taken a turn which he himself did not like. The other questions raised by the motion would stand adjourned till after the general meeting, as arranged.

Statute of Limitations—Legacy charged on Contingent Reversionary Interest in Land—Right to recover—Foreclosure or Sale—"Present right to receive"—Real Property Limitation Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 57), ss. 1, 2, 8.

David Owen, who died in 1823, by his will devised his real estate upon certain trusts for the benefit of Mary Postlethwaite for life, and after her death, in the event, which happened, of her not leaving issue, upon trust for the four children of his brother Edward Owen, as tenants in common in fee.

Mary Postlethwaite died on the 28th of February, 1893, and thereupon the devise in favour of the children of Edward Owen took effect in possession. One of these children was Edward Owen the younger, who died on the 29th of March, 1854, having by his will, dated in 1853, devised all his real estate, including his contingent reversionary interest under the will of David Owen, to his wife Mary for life, and after her decease he charged the same with the sum of 8000*l.*, which he bequeathed in equal shares to his four children, and subject thereto he devised all his real estate and contingent reversionary interest to his son. Mary Owen, the widow of Edward Owen the younger, died in 1880. Shortly after her death the sum of 1844*l.* was paid in respect of each of the legacies of 2000*l.*, but no steps were taken to realize the testator's interest under the will of David Owen during the life of Mary Postlethwaite, and no further payments were made in respect of the legacies. Part of the real estate of David Owen having been sold, and the proceeds paid into Court under the Lands Clauses

Consolidation Act, the question now arose upon this summons, whether all claims in respect of the balance of the legacies were not barred by the Statute of Limitations.

Hastings, Q.C., and Gaselee, for the summons.

Warrington, for the legatees.

STIRLING, J., said that there was nothing to prevent the legatees from requiring at any time that the reversionary interest should be sold and the proceeds applied in satisfaction of the unpaid balance of the legacies. A "present right to receive" the legacies within the meaning of sect. 8 of the Real Property Limitation Act, 1874, accrued in 1880, and the balance of the legacies might have been raised by sale or mortgage; the right to recover such balance was therefore barred by that section. In opposition to that, Hugill v. Wilkinson (38 Ch. D. 480) was relied on, where it was held that an equitable mortgage of a reversionary interest in land is not barred until twelve years after the interest falls into possession. But that case did not apply unless the persons entitled to the benefit of the charge had in respect of it a right of foreclosure. Here the remedy was to have the legacies raised by sale or mortgage of the property charged and not by way of foreclosure; consequently the period of limitation depended on sect. 8 and not upon sects. 1 and 2 of the Act, and the claim in respect of the legacies was barred.

Practice—Costs—Taxation—Common Order—Application by Summons—Special Circumstances.

This was a summons by a solicitor for taxation of his bill of costs delivered to the client, Mrs. Cathcart. When the summons came on before the chief clerk, the client objected that the application ought to have been made by petition of course. The applicant thereupon offered to bear any additional cost which might be caused by proceeding by summons; but the chief clerk was of opinion that the objection ought to prevail, and the summons was ultimately adjourned for hearing by his Lordship. The client made an affidavit in opposition to the application, denying the retainer as to several of the matters comprised in the bill, and alleging that she had a counter-claim for damages for negligence and mala fides on the part of the applicant, and collusion by him with her adversary in litigation to which the bill related.

Warmington, Q.C., and H. Terrell, for the applicant.

The client appeared in person and read her affidavit.

KEKEWICH, J., said, that a common order to tax was made according to the ordinary practice for the convenience both of client and solicitor, to avoid expense and delay, and enable either party to obtain an order for taxation cheaply and speedily. But as regarded the jurisdiction of the Court, there was no reason why the order should not be made on summons or motion or petition; it could be made on bill of complaint in Chancery under the old practice, and on writ since the Judicature Acts. The question in the present case was, which was the fairest way as between the parties. His Lordship thought that the course taken was a right one, and he ordered that on the solicitor undertaking not to issue execution without the leave of the Court, the taxation should proceed, with liberty to the client to question the retainer as to any items, and that the costs of the application should be costs in the taxation.

LE BAS v. HERBERT.

Will—Marshalling—Order of Administration of Assets—Specific Devises and Bequest—Charge of Debts on Real Estate—General Direction for Payment of Debts—Stock specifically bequeathed charged by Testatrix in her Lifetime.

A testatrix, by her will, after directing that all her just debts and funeral and testamentary expenses should be paid as soon as might be after her death, but not otherwise specifically charging them on any part of her property, made specific devises of real estate and a specific bequest of certain stock. The testatrix had in her lifetime charged the stock with the repayment of a sum of money borrowed by her from her bankers. The general personal estate of the testatrix was insufficient to pay the debt due to the bankers in addition to her other debts; and in the administration of her estate, the question arose as between the specific devisees and legatees whether the debt to the bankers was chargeable on the real estate or the stock, or on both rateably.

D. Jones, for the plaintiffs, executors of the will, and one of whom was a devisee of the real estate, referred to O'Neal v. Mead (1 P. Wms. 693) and Hallivell v. Tanner (1 Russ. & My. 633) as authorities to shew that where a debt is specifically charged by a testator in his lifetime on specific property, the specific legatee of such property must, as between himself and another specific legatee or devisee, take subject to such charge. He submitted that the general direction for payment of debts was insufficient to vary in this respect the rights inter se of the specific devisees and legatees.

Vernon R. Smith, for another devisee of the real estate.

E. Beaumont, for the legatee of the stock, contended that the direction for payment of debts operated as a charge of the debt on the real estate, and that therefore the cases cited were inapplicable. He referred to In re Stokes (67 L. T. (N.S.) 22) as shewing that In re Bates (48 Ch. D. 600) was erroneously decided.

KEKEWICH, J., after referring to Seton on Judgments, 5th ed. vol. ii. p. 1406, and Jarman on Wills, 5th ed. vol. ii. p. 1430, stating that as to the effect of the general direction for payment of debts, the state of the authorities appeared to be in an unsatisfactory condition, and that he must leave the matter there, said that the cases of O'Neal v. Mead and Hallivell v. Tanner shewed that the question must be treated as depending on the presumed intention of the testatrix that none of the objects of her bounty should be defeated, but that she should take the property bequeathed to him. The only indication of intention to the contrary was to be found in the general direction for payment of debts, which, though it might constitute a charge of the debts on the real estate, did not, if looked at as an indication of intention, mean more than that the debts were to be paid consistently with the other dispositions of will. His Lordship therefore held that the burden of the charge to the bankers must be borne by the legatee of the stock.

Copyright—Serial published in Periodical—Separate Publication—Registration—Copyright Act, 1842 (5 & 6 Vict. c. 45), ss. 2, 3, 18, 19.

Plaintiff contributed to a periodical called the Weekly Dispatch a series of short stories collectively called "Birds of the Night," the first story appearing in the number for the 8th of September, 1893. On the 19th of November, 1893, one of the stories, called "The Cabman's Story," appeared in the periodical. The arrangement between the proprietors of the periodical and the plaintiff was that the plaintiff should be paid for the stories, and should retain the right to re-publish them, on the condition that no re-publication should take place till after the whole series had appeared in the periodical.

On the 2nd of December, 1893, "The Cabman's Story" appeared in a paper published by the defendants, who had no knowledge that it was not original matter.

On the 7th of December, 1893, the plaintiff registered his copyright in "Birds of the Night," stating the date of first publication to be the 8th of September, 1893, and he subsequently commenced an action against the defendants to restrain the infringement. At the date of the trial the plaintiff had not published "Birds of the Night," or any portion thereof, save as above mentioned.

Hopkinson, Q.C., and Frank Dodd, for the plaintiff.

Neville, Q.C., and Francois Watt, for the defendants.

ROMER, J., said the plaintiff was clearly the author of "The Cabman's Story," which was one of a series of stories in which the proprietors of the Weekly Dispatch did not acquire the copyright. The case was not within the portion of sect. 18 of the Copyright Act, 1842, which related to cases where the author had parted in the first instance with the copyright to the proprietors of the periodical; and the copyright therefore belonged to the plaintiff. Then, had the author the right to sue an infringer before publication of his story in a form apart from that in the periodical? It was contended that there was no separate publication within sect. 2 of the Act; but where in a volume there were several parts, each distinguishable from the other parts, and the volume was published, each part which was separate and clearly distinguishable was separately published within the meaning of sect. 2. There was, therefore, a separate publication, and the plaintiff was entitled to the copyright under sect. 3. As to the registration, it was said it was not sufficient because "The Cabman's Story" was a separate work which first appeared on the 19th of November, whereas the date of first publication was stated to be the 8th of September, 1893. But "The Cabman's Story" was only part of a series constituting one work, and the plaintiff was, within sect. 19, the proprietor of a copyright in a work in books or parts, the first of which was registered on the 8th of September, 1893. The plaintiff was, therefore, entitled to an injunction.

Company—Shares—Application—Verbal Withdrawal—Authority of Clerk of Company—Stopping Cheque—Winding-up—Contributory.

On the 4th of November, 1890, T. handed an application for ten shares in a company to a clerk of the company at its office, with a cheque for the aggregate amount of the application and allotment moneys. On the same day T. again called at the office, and told the clerk that he withdrew the application, and asked him to return the cheque. The clerk said he could not do so as the secretary was out. T. called again the same day, but the office was closed. The following morning T. told his bankers to stop payment of the cheque, and this was done.

The directors allotted the shares to T. on the 7th of November, and on the following day he received and returned the letter of allotment.

It was not shewn that the directors were aware that the cheque had not been paid when they allotted the shares; but the fact of non-payment appeared from the bankers' pass-book of the company and their other books.

The company never attempted to enforce payment of the application or allotment moneys, or the first call, which was made in January, 1891.

In November, 1892, resolutions were passed for voluntary winding-up. The liquidator having put T. on the list of contributories, the latter applied to have his name removed therefrom.

Tanner, in support of the summons.

Arthur J. O'hitty, for the liquidator.

WRIGHT, J., said that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, it must be inferred that the clerk was so far in charge as, in the absence of others, to have authority to receive the statement of T., which must therefore be taken to have been communicated to the company. His Lordship also said that directors who allotted shares on the basis of payments made to their bankers ought to make inquiries as to such payments. The stoppage of the cheque was on record; and if the directors had ascertained this fact they would have been put on their guard. The allotment to T. was made without his authority, and his name must be removed from the list.

SOMERSET v. LAND SECURITIES COMPANY.

Company—Deposit of Securities at Land Registry to secure Mortgage Debentures—Winding-up—Debenture Action—Order on Registrar for Delivery up of Securities—Mortgage Debenture Act, 1865 (28 & 29 Vict. c. 78), ss. 9, 10, 45, 46—Mortgage Debenture (Amendment) Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 20), ss. 8, 9.

The Land Securities Company, Limited, borrowed money on mortgage debentures, issued under the authority of the Mortgage Debenture Acts, 1865 and 1870, and in pursuance of those Acts deposited in the office of the Land Registry the securities held by the company for moneys lent by it and the deeds and documents of the borrowers. The Acts contained no express provision as to the manner in which such securities, deeds, and documents were to be dealt with in case a company availing itself of the provisions of the Acts was being wound up. The Acts, however, enabled the Court to appoint a receiver to act on behalf of the debenture-holders, who was, subject to the Court's direction, to be entitled to receive and recover the moneys payable to the company in respect of their securities.

In an action by the debenture-holders against the company for the realization of their security, E. Waterhouse was appointed receiver of the property therein described.

Shortly afterwards the company passed an extraordinary resolution for voluntary winding-up, and appointing Waterhouse liquidator; and an order was afterwards made continuing the voluntary winding-up under the supervision of the Court. The plaintiff in the action took out a summons, asking that the registrar of the Land Registry might be ordered to deliver up to the receiver in the action all the deeds and documents in his possession under the Mortgage Debenture Acts.

On the summons being adjourned into Court, it was conceded that the appointment of a receiver under the Acts was required before the application could be regularly made; but the Court was asked to express an opinion as to its jurisdiction to make an order on the summons, subject to such appointment being made and other formalities being complied with.

Farwell, Q.C., and Kirby, for the plaintiff.

A. W. Bouden, for the receiver and liquidator, supported the application.

Ingle Joyce, for the registrar, said that if there was jurisdiction to make any order, the application should be by way of mandamus.

WRIGHT, J., said the Court must have power to direct the registrar to hand over the deeds, when such handing over was necessary for carrying out the purposes of the Acts. Sect. 46 of the Act of 1865 contemplated circumstances which would require such handing over. It was contended that the action and the liquidation necessitated the handing over of the securities en bloc; and as it seemed more convenient and desirable, when all the affairs of the company were to be dealt with, that they should be dealt with at one time, to save expense his Lordship would make the order asked for, subject to any proper safeguards which might be suggested, such as bringing the documents into Court. The registrar would not incur any liability or risk for anything done by him in good faith under the order of the Court.

Adm. THE THETA. July 5
Jurisdiction—Action in rem for Personal Injuries—Admiralty Court Act, 1861 (24 Vict. c. 10), s. 7.

The plaintiff, William Yule, chief engineer of the steamship Faithful, issued a writ in rem against the owners and parties interested in the Norwegian barque Theta, and arrested the vessel, claiming damages for personal injuries sustained by him whilst on board the Theta, in consequence of the negligence of the defendants' servants.

On the evening of the 5th of June, the Theta was lying moored in the Regent's Canal Dock, having completed her discharge. The Faithful was moored outside the Theta, and the injuries sustained by the plaintiff resulted from his falling down into the hold of the Theta, owing to the hatch being only covered with a tarpaulin at the time that he was crossing the deck of the Theta to reach his own vessel.

The owners of the Theta appeared under protest, and—H. Parker Lowe, moved on their behalf to dismiss the action for want of jurisdiction.

Sir Walter Phillimore, for the plaintiff, contended that the case fell within sect. 7 of the Admiralty Court Act, 1861 (24 Vict. c. 10): "The High Court of Admiralty shall have jurisdiction over any claim for damage done by any ship."

BRUCE, J., held that, although the word "damage" would include personal injuries, the damage was not done by a ship within the meaning of the Act, as the damage must be done by those in charge of the ship, with the ship as the instrument.

Writ set aside. Action dismissed with costs. Plaintiff directed to take out release of vessel.

Bill of Exchange—Payment—Dishonour—Days of Grace—Notice of Dishonour—Accrual of Right of Action—Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (45 & 46 Vict. c. 61), ss. 14, 47.

Appeal by the defendant against the judgment of Cave, J., for the plaintiff.

The action was brought by the holder of a bill of exchange against the acceptor. The bill was dated the 16th of October, 1893, and was made payable three months after date. It was accepted the same day, "payable at the London and South-Western Bank." On the 19th of January, 1894, the last of the days of grace, in the afternoon, the plaintiff, who was the holder for value of the bill, presented it at the bank. Payment was refused, on the ground that the acceptor's account was closed. At a later hour on the same day the plaintiff issued the writ in this action. By his defence the defendant took the objection that the action was commenced prematurely, and that no cause of action accrued against him until after the expiration of the last day of grace, because he was entitled to the whole of that day within which to pay the bill.

Calvert, and Lister Drummond, for the defendant.
Germine, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Davey, L.J.J.) allowed the appeal, and entered judgment for the defendant, with costs. They held, on the authority of Wells v. Giles (2 Gale, 209), that no cause of action accrued against the acceptor until after the expiration of the last day of grace. The action was, therefore, premature. In Lefley v. Mills (4 T. R. 170), in which Mr.

Justice Buller expressed an apparently contrary opinion, the Court was dealing with the right to protest a dishonoured bill of exchange or to give notice of dishonour to the drawer and the indorsers, not with the time of accrual of a cause of action. Under sect. 47 of the Bills of Exchange Act, 1882, the holder of a bill of which payment was refused was entitled to give immediate notice to the drawer and indorsers; but a right of action against those persons would not accrue until after the expiration of the last day of grace.

Limitations, Statute of—Agreement for Lease, Possession under—Time from which Period of Limitation runs—Equitable Right to Lease—Right of Recovery at Common Law defeated by Equity—Real Property Limitation Act, 1833 (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27), ss. 2, 7.

Appeal from judgment of Wills, J., at the trial without a jury.

The action was brought for trespass to and to recover possession of two houses in Camden Town. The facts were as follows. On the 2nd of June, 1790, the trustees of the Marquis of Camden's estates entered into an agreement with Messrs. Kirkman & Hendy, the plaintiff's predecessors in title, the effect of which agreement, so far as material, was that Messrs. Kirkman & Hendy were to be let into possession of certain land by the trustees, and were within the term of three years from Michaelmas then next to build thereon in manner following, that is to say, they were to build in the first year of the said term so many and such messuages and buildings as should be of the clear annual rent or value of 200*l.*; and in the next two years of such term they were to lay out so much money in building on the said land so many other messuages and buildings as should, together with the money expended in building in the first year of the said term, amount to the sum of 50,000*l.*; and the trustees were to grant, when required, to Messrs. Kirkman & Hendy, or their nominees, leases of the houses and buildings when erected for the term of ninety-nine years from Michaelmas, 1790, in the manner and subject to the conditions mentioned in the agreement. Messrs. Kirkman & Hendy were let into possession of the land, and erected houses and buildings thereon in accordance with the agreement. The site of the houses in respect of which the action was brought was part of such land. The full amount of the rents, which were by the agreement to be secured to the trustees, having been reserved by leases of other houses granted thereunder, Messrs. Kirkman & Hendy became entitled under the agreement to a lease or leases of the premises in question for ninety-nine years at a peppercorn rent, but no lease was ever asked for or granted. No rent was ever paid in respect of them. The interest of Messrs. Kirkman & Hendy in the premises was in 1830 assigned to John Warren, the plaintiff's father and predecessor in title, who entered into possession. The possession of the plaintiff's predecessors in title and subsequently of the plaintiff continued till 1891, when the defendants, as trustees of the Camden estates, entered and took possession of the houses. The plaintiff contended that his predecessors in title, when he into possession under the agreement of 1790, became at law tenants at will, and that tenancy must, under sect. 7 of the Real Property Limitation Act, 1833 (3 & 4 Wm. 4 c. 27), be deemed to have determined a year after their entry into possession; and consequently, that the title of the trustees had been barred and he had acquired a title under the Statute of Limitations. The learned judge gave judgment for the defendants.

J. G. Joseph, for the plaintiff.

J. F. P. Rawlinson, for the defendants.

Drummond v. Sant (Law Rep. 6 Q. B. 763), Doe v. Rock (4 M. & G. 30), and Sands v. Thompson (22 Ch. D. 614), were cited.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Kay, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) held that, inasmuch as under the circumstances any proceedings by the trustees to recover the premises during the term of the intended lease could have been immediately defeated by an application by the tenants to a Court of Equity to enforce specific performance of the agreement for a lease, no effectual right of entry or action accrued to the trustees during that period, and therefore the statute did not begin to run.

KAY, L.J., was further of opinion that a person let into possession under an agreement for a lease such as that of 1790 was cestui que trust within the meaning of the proviso to sect. 7 of the Real Property Limitation Act, 1833, and therefore the section did not apply.

The Court therefore dismissed the appeal.

GRAND JUNCTION WATERWORKS COMPANY v. BRENTFORD LOCAL BOARD.

Waterworks Company—Fixing and Maintaining Fire-Plugs—Liability of Local Board—Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847 (10 & 11 Vict. c. 17), ss. 38-41—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), s. 66.

Appeal against a decision of Lawrance, J., at the trial of an issue by the plaintiffs to recover from the defendants the expense of maintaining in repair certain fire-plugs in the streets of the Brentford district for the period of six years before the commencement of the action. The question of the liability of the defendants was fully turned upon the construction of sects. 38 to 41 of the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, and the 66th section of the Public Health Act, 1875. The Waterworks Clauses Act enacted that the company should, at the request of the town commissioners, to whose powers the defendants had succeeded, fix fire-plugs in their mains and pipes as therein specified, that the cost of "such fire-plugs," and the expense of fixing, fixing, and maintaining the same in repair, should be defrayed by the town commissioners. By sect. 66 of the Public Health Act, 1875, the duty was imposed on every urban authority of fixing and maintaining fire-plugs in their district, and they were empowered to enter into agreements with any waterworks company. It was admitted that most of the fire-plugs were fixed before the Brentford Local Board were constituted, and there had been no actual request by the defendants to fix the fire-plugs; but it was contended by the plaintiffs that a request ought to be implied from the user of the plugs by the defendants, and from the statutory duty of the defendants to fix and maintain plugs.

Lawrance, J., gave judgment in favour of the plaintiffs to the full amount of their claim, and the defendants appealed.

Murphy, Q.C., and J. Earle, for the appellants.

Jef, Q.C., and Baugh Allen, for the plaintiffs.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that with respect to the statutory obligation which was imposed on the defendants by the Public Health Act, 1875, on which the learned judge relied in the Court below, that might be enforced by the Attorney-General, but it imposed on them no duty towards the plaintiffs. Looking at the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, which threw the expense of maintaining "such fire-plugs" as were mentioned in sect. 40 on the town commissioners, the scheme of the Act was this: that a statutory duty was imposed upon the water company to fix and maintain fire-plugs if requested by the town commissioners or by private owners; and if these fire-plugs were fixed at the request of the town commissioners, it would be at their expense, but if, on the other hand, they were fixed at the request of a private owner, it would be at his expense. The question, therefore, was whether there had been any request by the present defendants, who now represented the town commissioners. It was admitted that there was no actual request, and in his opinion there was nothing in the evidence to lead the Court to imply any request by them under the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, or any agreement under sect. 66 of the Public Health Act, 1875. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed, and judgment entered for the appellants.

LOPES and DAVEY, L.J.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

Bankruptcy—Appointment of Trustee—Objection by Board of Trade—Notification to High Court—Objection declared Invalid by Court—Right of Appeal—Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52), ss. 21, 104.—Bankruptcy Rules, 1886, r. 299.

Appeal by the Board of Trade against an order of Vaughan Williams, J. (ante, p. 92), declaring that an objection made by the Board to the appointment of Joseph Gregson as trustee in the bankruptcy of G. Lamb was invalid.

Gregson had been also appointed trustee in the bankruptcy of John Emerson, and the Board had confirmed this appointment, but they declined to confirm his appointment as trustee in the bankruptcy of Lamb. Gregson claimed to be a creditor of Emerson for 3000*l.*, and to be a creditor of Lamb for 400*l.* The principal asset of Lamb was two third shares of the Maplin Sands Estate, the other third share of which belonged to a Colonel Moffatt. Emerson claimed that, as to half of Lamb's interest, Lamb was a trustee for him. Lamb denied this. At the request of a majority in value of Lamb's creditors, the Board of Trade notified their objection to Gregson's appointment to the High Court, stating that they objected on the ground that Gregson's "connection with or relation to the bankrupt and his estate make it difficult for him to act with impartiality in the interest of the creditors generally," and they further explained that Gregson's interest as a creditor of Emerson would conflict with his duty as trustee of Lamb in the litigation of Emerson's claim to one-third of the Maplin Estate. Upon this notification, the Board of Trade and the creditors of Lamb were heard by counsel by Vaughan Williams, J., and he made a declaration that the objection of the Board was invalid. The Board appealed.

Sir J. Rigby, A.G., and Muir Mackenzie, for the Board of Trade.

H. Reed, Q.C., and Carrington, for the creditors, took the preliminary objection, that the decision was not an appealable order, and that the Board were not "persons aggrieved" by it.

Haldinstein, for a creditor.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Kay and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) overruled the objection, holding that there was an appealable order, and, on the authority of Ea parte Official Receiver (19 Q. B. D. 174), that the Board were "persons aggrieved," and therefore entitled to appeal.

The appeal was then heard upon its merits.

THE COURT held that the objection taken by the Board of Trade was a valid objection, and reversed the decision of Vaughan Williams, J.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

North J. BRINDEN v. WILLIAMS. July 4.

Solicitor—Trustee de son tort—Mortgage—Insufficient Security.

The plaintiff in this action was a widow, now the sole beneficiary under a settlement made in 1840 on the marriage of her father and mother. The action related to the sum of 2500l. subject to the settlement advanced to the first defendant, Williams, in January, 1882, by Baxter, then the sole trustee of the settlement. The security on which the money was advanced was a mortgage of a freehold brickfield, and a mortgage of some freehold houses. The firm of Ford, Lloyd, & Bartlett acted as solicitors for both parties in the mortgage transaction. Mr. Bartlett, the surviving partner of Ford, Lloyd, & Co., was made a defendant. The mortgage security was insufficient. The plaintiff claimed an order against Williams for payment of principal and interest, and also to make the defendant Bartlett personally liable to replace the trust money, on the ground that the money had passed through his firm's bank, and they had advised the breach of trust. The deeds relating to the mortgaged property were at the time of the negotiations in the possession of the mortgagors' bankers, and together with the deeds relating to other property held by them as security for advances exceeding 2500l. The bankers agreed to give up the deeds relating to the proposed mortgages on payment of the 2500l. to them.

On Saturday, the 7th of January, 1882, Mr. Baxter handed to Mr. Bartlett a cheque for 2500l. for the purpose of completing the mortgages. Mr. Bartlett on that day placed the cheque to the credit of his firm's banking account. Early on the morning of Monday, the 9th, he called at the mortgagors' bankers, and in exchange for his cheque on his firm's bankers for 2500l. received the deeds. The mortgages were executed on the 12th of January, and dated the 9th of January, 1892.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and A. à B. Terrell, for the plaintiff.
Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., S. Hall, Q.C., and Davenport, for defendant Bartlett.

The defendant Williams did not appear, and judgment given against him.

NORTH, J., held that Baxter, the trustee, had in fact acted entirely on his own responsibility in lending the 2500l. on security of the brickfield and houses, and not under the advice of his solicitors. That the fact that the defendant Bartlett had been employed to carry out the transaction, and the money had been paid through the defendant's firm, did not make him liable for the insufficiency of the security, and gave judgment for the defendant Bartlett.

Kekewich, J. LUSK v. SEBRIGHT. July 4.

Practice—Foreclosure—Receiver appointed—Credit given by Plaintiff for Sum certain in order to avoid opening Foreclosure—Form of Judgment—Liberty to apply as to Money in hands of Receiver.

This was a foreclosure action in which a receiver had been appointed. The plaintiff moved for judgment, and the terms of the proposed judgment were in the form in Barber v. Barber (Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 91; Seton on Judgments, vol. 1, p. 2142, addenda to p. 1577), whereby, in order to avoid opening of the foreclosure, the plaintiff submits to be ad-account with a sum certain in the hands of the receiver, but included (in accordance with the form in Seton, vol. ii., 1877, No. 4) with the words: "Liberty to the defendant, or to the plaintiff in the event of foreclosure, to apply at chambers for payment of any money paid into Court by the receiver or in his hands."

The plaintiff, submitted, that as the plaintiff gave credit for a sum certain in the hands of the receiver, irrespective of the event of foreclosure, so that in the event of redemption there might be money come to the receiver's hands which belonged to the plaintiff, the concluding words ought to be as follows: "Liberty to any party to apply at chambers for payment of any money paid into Court by the receiver or in his hands."

The defendant did not appear.

KEKEWICH, J. In re ORWELL PARK ESTATE. July 7.

Settled Land Act, 1882—Improvements—Capital Money—Supply of Water to Building Estate—Sale of Land to Water Company for consideration of fully paid-up Shares.

This was an application by the tenant for life of a settled estate for the approval by the Court of a provisional agreement with the applicant with a projected water company, embodying a scheme for the execution of improvements on, or in connection with the estate by supplying the same with water, and that the trustees of the settlement might be authorized in pursuance of the agreement to apply 6510% capital money in their hands for the payment of 651 fully paid-up shares of 10% each in the intended company. It appeared that the settled estate comprised extensive and valuable lands at Felixstowe, Suffolk. A portion of the estate had been sold to builders, who had erected a large number of houses thereon. On the unsold part about 100 houses had been erected, and there was about a mile of open space, which was available and intended for development for building purposes. In order properly to develop the estate, water supply for the estate and the town of Felixstowe was required, and water had been found on land subject to the settlement. The agreement which the Court was now asked to sanction provided for the sale of this land, and of certain rights and leaves and rights required for the supply of water, to the intended company for the consideration above stated. The capital of the intended company was 50,000%, divided into 5,000 shares of 10% each. It was a term of the agreement that the trustees should supply two-thirds, and the tenant for life one-third, of the necessary working capital which might from time to time be required by the company.

Stephen Hawkins, in support of the application, referred to section 25 (xiii.) of the Settled Land Act, 1882, providing that capital money can be spent on machinery for distribution of water, and to section 27, providing that a tenant for life may concur with any other person in executing any improvement or in contributing to the cost thereof, and submitted that the practical result of the proposed arrangement was, that the trustees concurred with the builders in effecting improvements, and derived a benefit from their expenditure, not directly from the improvements, but indirectly through holding shares in the company.

KEKEWICH, J., being satisfied as to the prospects and stability of the projected water company, granted the application.

Building Estate—Adjoining Lessees—Covenants against Building and against Annoyance—Erection of Trellis Screen—Injunction.

By deed dated the 11th of November, 1878, the plaintiff, as lessor, demised a piece of land with the dwelling-house thereon to one Bailey for a term of ninety-nine years from Michaelmas, 1878, at a certain rent; and Bailey covenanted (inter alia) that he and those deriving title under him would not, without the written consent of the lessor, erect or build upon the demised premises any other building whatsoever save and except a stable and coach-house, and would not do any act or thing on the demised premises which might be an annoyance, nuisance, or disturbance to any tenant of the lessor. In 1887 this lease became vested in the defendant for the unexpired residue of the term thereby granted.

By deed dated the 14th of September, 1881, the plaintiff, as lessor, demised the piece of land adjoining the northern boundary of the premises demised by the said lease of the 11th of November, 1878, to one Grice for a term of ninety-nine years from Michaelmas, 1881, at a certain rent, and Grice covenanted for himself and his assigns within twenty-one years to erect a dwelling-house on the demised land in accordance with plans to be approved by the plaintiff's architect. This lease contained covenants as to further buildings and as to annoyance similar to those contained in the lease of November, 1878. The land comprised in these two leases formed part of the building scheme of a freehold estate, and all the other leases contained similar covenants.

In 1892 the premises comprised in the lease of September, 1881, became vested in one Neale, and he thereupon, with the approval of the plaintiff, built a house thereon. This house faced south, and was about twenty feet from the boundary-fence between Neale's land and the defendant's land, and overlooked the defendant's garden. The boundary-fence was a brick wall eight feet high. As soon as Neale completed his house, the defendant ran up a trellis screen on his land fifty-six feet in length and running twelve feet high above the top of the boundary-fence. Neale complained to the plaintiff, who brought this action, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendant from permitting the screen to remain.

Neville, Q.C., and T. H. Carson, for the plaintiff.

Bigham, Q.C., and F. Thompson, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held, upon the construction of the lease of November, 1878, that the words "erection" and "building" were used throughout the lease as convertible terms; that, therefore, the screen was an erection or building within the meaning of the covenant, and, having been put up without the consent of the plaintiff, was a breach of the covenant. His Lordship further held, upon the evidence, that the screen interfered with the pleasurable enjoyment by Neale of his house, and was therefore an annoyance within the covenant to that effect, and granted an injunction accordingly.

ALT v. LORD STRATHEDEN AND CAMPBELL.

Will—Charitable Bequest—Contingent Gift to Volunteer Corps—Validity.

William, Lord Stratheden and Campbell, died in January, 1893, having by his will bequeathed an annuity of 100*l.* to be provided to the 22nd Middlesex Rifle Volunteer Corps, otherwise known as "The Central London Rangers." The testator was, at the date of his death, honorary colonel of the said volunteer corps, and the plaintiff was, at the date of the will and of the death of the said testator, the colonel of the corps. The defendant was the executor and sole residuary legatee under the said testator's will. The plaintiff claimed a declaration that the said annuity was a valid bequest, and was now vested in him as the commanding officer of the said corps. The defendant alleged that the gift of the annuity was void for uncertainty, and also because it infringed the rule against perpetuities.

Neville, Q.C., and St. J. Clarke, for the plaintiff.

Birrell, Q.C., and Methold, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., held, with great reluctance, that the gift was void. It was a charitable bequest, and it was uncertain when it might take effect, and in fact it might never take effect, as another colonel might not be appointed and therefore it also infringed the rule against perpetuities.

IN re MIDLAND COAL, COKE, AND IRON COMPANY.

CRAIG'S CLAIM.

Company—Winding-up—Scheme of Arrangement—Transfer to New Company—Proof of Debt—Contingent Liability—Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 104), s. 2.

C., the lessee of certain coal mines, in 1890 assigned the leases to a company, for a valuable consideration, the company covenanting to indemnify him from all claims by reason of the non-payment of the rents and royalties reserved by the leases, or the breach of any of the covenants therein contained.

In May, 1893, the company went into voluntary liquidation, which in July, 1893, was continued under the supervision of the Court.

In August, 1893, the Court directed separate meetings to be convened of (1) the unsecured creditors, (2) the debenture-holders, (3) the contributories of the company, for the purpose of considering, and, if thought fit, approving, of a scheme under the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870. The requisite majorities at the meetings approved of the scheme, and on the 12th of October, 1893, the Court made an order sanctioning the scheme and declaring it to be binding on all the creditors, contributories, and liquidators of the company. The scheme provided (clause 2) that a new company should "take over all the assets and business of the existing company, and undertake all its liabilities, including the costs of winding-up," in consideration of shares in such new company to be allotted to the shareholders in the existing company.

By clause 8 of the scheme the new company was to pay in cash or satisfy, within three months of the Court's approval, (a) certain debentures of the company, (b) "the unsecured creditors of the existing company, (c) the costs of the winding-up of the existing company, including the liquidator's remuneration, and all costs, charges, expenses, and claims in connection with the negotiating and carrying into effect of the scheme." By clause 10, upon payment or satisfaction of the debentures, debts, costs, charges, and expenses mentioned in clause 8, the existing company was to be wound up and dissolved.

The new company was incorporated in November, 1893, and pursuant to the scheme and an agreement with the old company and its liquidators, took over the assets and liabilities of the old company.

In December, 1893, C. took out a summons in the winding-up of the old company asking that his claim for over 45,000*l.* might be admitted. He estimated the amount of rents, royalties, and liabilities under the leases at 2400*l.* per annum payable for twenty-eight years, 800*l.* per annum payable for eight years, and 30*l.* payable for three years, and to have his claim secured by a deposit of cash or other security to meet the same, and alleged that the amount required to secure such claim by a cash deposit at 4 per cent. was the amount claimed.

Kenyon Parker, in support of the summons.

Kirby, for the liquidators of the old company.

WRIGHT, J., said that sect. 2 of the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870, was intended to apply to any person who could be treated as a creditor of any sort, certain contingent. C., being some sort of a creditor, so that he could be bound by the scheme, was either bound by it when it was sanctioned by the Court, or had some means of obtaining the protection of his interests. His Lordship must take it that C. was to be regarded as a party to and bound by the scheme. Clause 2 of the scheme meant that the creditors had agreed that the new company should in effect be a continuation of the old one, and the old company's liability attached in the same manner to the new one. Accruing liabilities of the old company were to be accruing liabilities of the new company. Clause 8 of the scheme added to the difficulty. If C. was a creditor at all, he was an unsecured creditor; but "unsecured creditors" within the meaning of that clause meant creditors for moneys actually due and payable, and those having merely contingent claims. If that was so, C. had agreed that his remedy should be to call on the new company to indemnify him as from time to time he might be called upon to pay under any of the leases. Probably he might from time to time bring an action in his own name. His application failed; but the Court could not declare his rights, as the company was not a party to the proceedings.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. D. In re MCHENRY. July 9.
 McDERMOTT v. BOYD.
 BARKER'S CLAIM.

Mortgage—Deposit of Securities—Authority to Sell—Undertaking to pay any Difference on Sale—Realisation—New Obligation—Statute of Limitations (21 Jac. 1, c. 16), s. 3.

Appeal from North, J. (supra, p. 84).

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C.; and Gregson, for the appellants McHenry's executors.

S. Hall, Q.C., and Herbert Brown, for the claimant, Barker.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Davey, L.JJ.) disagreed with North, J., holding that it was impossible to say that a new, separate, and independent course of action had arisen under the second clause, or undertaking, in the letter. That clause did not create a new debt: it merely prescribed what was to be done upon the realisation of the securities. The words gave the creditor no right which would not equally have existed without them. The argument on his behalf must be carried to this length—that the operation of the Statute of Limitations could be indefinitely postponed by a mere statement of the legal rights which he would have had without any such statement. That argument could not be maintained. The appeal must be allowed, and the claim rejected.

Vendor and Purchaser—Title—Rent-Charge—Perpetual Rent payable by a Corporation as consideration for Land and Easement purchased by them from Limited Owner—Charge on Rates leviable by Corporation—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, ss. 10, 11.

Appeal by a purchaser against a declaration made by Chitty, J., upon a summons issued by the vendor under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, that a good title had been shewn to the property comprised in the contract of sale, which was described in the contract as "an aggregate yearly rent-charge of 215*l.* 9*s.*, payable in perpetuity by the Corporation of Liverpool in respect of a waterpipe rent created under the authority of the Liverpool Corporation Waterworks Act, 1855, and secured by covenants of the corporation, and by a statutory charge on the rates leviable by the corporation" under their Acts.

The abstract of title shewed that in 1856 the vendor's predecessors in title (one of whom was an absolute owner, and the other a tenant for life under a settlement) had respectively granted lands and easements to the corporation in consideration of two rents of 1*l.* 5*s.* and 250*l.* respectively payable in perpetuity by the corporation, and that the corporation had covenanted to pay those rents respectively. The rent comprised in the present contract of sale consisted of the rent of 1*l.* 5*s.* and 214*l.* 4*s.*, part of the rent of 250*l.* The present vendor was tenant for life under a settlement, and had sold under his statutory powers. The Act of 1855 (with which the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, was incorporated) empowered the Corporation "to purchase, either absolutely for a sum in gross or at an annual or other rent," certain lands "or any easement over the same," and the Act provided by sect. 3 that "the persons empowered by the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, to convey lands shall have full power to convey or grant in perpetuity, at an annual or other rent, any lands, for the purposes of this Act or the Acts incorporated therewith, or any easement over such lands." The purchaser took the objection that the vendor had not shewn a title to a "rent-charge," and that there was nothing to shew that the rent which was sold was by sect. 11 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, charged upon the water rates levied by the corporation. Mr. Justice Chitty overruled the objection and made the above declaration. The purchaser appealed.

Byrne, Q.C., and Theobald, for the appellant.

Leveti, Q.C., and T. C. Wright, for the vendor.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Davey, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said that he did not think the Legislature intended any stress to be laid upon the expression "rent-charge" in sect. 10 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act; the distinction was between a gross sum and a rent-charge. Sect. 11 said that the rent was to be charged on the tolls or rates payable under the special Act. It appeared to him that whenever a rent, as distinguished from a gross sum, was reserved upon a sale of land to promoters, that rent became ipso facto by sect. 11 charged upon the tolls or rates. And whenever land was sold reserving a rent, it seemed to him that since the Act of 4 Geo. 2, c. 28, it might properly be described as a "rent-charge," there being by sect. 5 of that Act a right of distress in case of non-payment of the rent. The terms of sect. 11 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act would apply to such a case. But for the special Act there was no power for a limited owner to sell in consideration of a rent. His Lordship thought that the object of sect. 3 of the Act of 1855 was to give to a limited owner the power, which an absolute owner had already, of selling land in consideration of a rent, and also to enable an easement to be sold in consideration of a rent, and when a sale was made by such an owner of land or an easement, sect. 11 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act applied, and, if so, it was clear that, as regarded the deed of 1856 which conveyed land, the rent was properly described as a "rent-charge," and was charged on the water rates. As to the deed which dealt with an easement, it was urged that a rent-charge could not at common law issue out of an easement. But, when the Legislature provided that an easement might be sold reserving a rent, it could not have been intended that the provisions of sect. 11 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act should not apply, even though the rent reserved could not in strictness be described as a "rent-charge." The decision of Mr. Justice Chitty was quite right.

LINDLEY, L.J., and DAVEY, L.J., concurred.

ROGERS v. HARDING.

Power of Appointment—Revocation—Joint Appointment—Revocation by Survivor.

This was an appeal from a decision of North, J.

By the marriage settlement of Mr. and Mrs. Harding certain lands were settled in trust for the husband and wife during their respective lives, and after the death of the survivor in trust for the children of the marriage as the husband and wife should, by any deed, with or without power of revocation and new appointment, jointly appoint, and in default of such joint appointment as the survivor should by deed or will, with or without power of revocation and new appointment, appoint. The husband and wife made a joint appointment of part of the trust fund, to which was appended this clause: "The appointments made by these presents are made subject to the power of revocation and new appointment mentioned in the hereinbefore-recited indenture," namely, the marriage settlement. Mrs. Harding soon afterwards died; and her husband then by deed poll revoked the joint appointment, and made a new appointment of the fund comprised in it. The question submitted to the Court was whether the revocation and new appointment by the husband was valid. North, J., decided that it was valid; and one of the defendants who was entitled under the joint appointment appealed.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Butcher, for the appellant.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and G. Lawrence; Methold, and B. B. Myers, for the respondents.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said that the appeal had been supported on two grounds—first, that the husband and wife had not, in executing their joint appointment, reserve a power of revocation and new appointment to the survivor; and, secondly, that if they had the power they had not made such a reservation. With respect to the first point, he was of opinion that there was no validity in the objection. The law was clearly laid down in Brudenell v. Elwes (1 East, 442), and there was no substantial difference between the settlement in that case and in the present. With respect to the second point, which turned on the construction of the reservation contained in the joint appointment, he felt no doubt that it was the intention of the appointors to reserve whatever power of revocation was contained in the original settlement. It was true that the joint deed of appointment, in reciting the original settlement, only recited the joint power; but he was of opinion that the recital could not control the clear effect of the words of the operative part. The judgment of Kekewich, J., was affirmed, and the appeal must be dismissed.

LINDLEY and DAVEY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. (ante, p. 91).

The action was brought for winding up a partnership between two partners who were equally entitled to capital and profits. The assets consisted of a fund in Court amounting to 1370*l.*, out of which a debt was due to the plaintiff on a loan of 649*l.* There was due from the partnership in respect of capital to the plaintiff 1405*l.*, and to the defendant 804*l.* Under these circumstances, Kekewich, J., held that, after payment of the debt of 649*l.* to the plaintiff, the fund in Court must be first applied in putting the partners on an equality as regarded capital, and the surplus applied in payment of the costs. The defendant appealed.

Benshaw, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the appellant, contended that the fund should be first applied in payment of the costs.

Warmington, Q.C., and Dunham, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Davey, L.JJ.) agreed with the learned Judge in the Court below, and dismissed the appeal.

July 11.

WEST SURREY WATER COMPANY v. CHERTSEY UNION.

Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), s. 52—Water Works—Supply of Water.

The districts of the plaintiff water company and the defendant rural sanitary authority comprised the parish of Weybridge and the district of Oatlands. The defendant authority were constructing a system of sewers and sewerage works for Weybridge and the district of Oatlands. As part of such works they were putting up steam-engines and pumping machinery for the purpose of pumping the sewage, and also for pumping water for flushing the sewers. The works at the pumping station provided for the abstraction of a large quantity of water from the River Thames, under an arrangement with the Conservators of the Thames, to be used for flushing the sewers and condensing steam. The defendants were also making a well and pumping apparatus at their sewage outfall to raise water intended to be used in treating the sewage. The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from constructing or using the proposed works for the supply of water on the ground that, plaintiffs being able and willing to supply the required water, the defendants were prohibited by sect. 52 of the Public Health Act, 1875, from constructing their proposed works.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Mulligan, for the plaintiffs.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and F. Gore-Browne, for the defendants.

NORTH, J., held that the kind of waterworks which a local authority is prohibited from constructing by sect. 52 of the Public Health Act, 1875, in the district of a water company able and willing to supply the water required, is confined to waterworks for the supply of water to the general public, and it was lawful for the defendants to construct works for the supply of water for their own purposes, such as watering roads, or flushing sewers, or condensing steam, and gave judgment for the defendants.

LLOYD v. TARDY.

Real Estate—Trust for Sale—Sale—Investment of Proceeds to be held on like Trusts—General Power of Appointment—French Will—Gift of "tous les biens et droits mobiliers"—Exercise of Power.

Ezekiel Harman, who died in 1845, by his will, made in 1843, bequeathed to his trustees the sum of 15,000*l.*, upon trust to invest the same and pay the income to his daughter Emma Harman during her life for her separate use, and after her death to hold the capital upon trusts for her children, and, in default of children, in trust for such persons as she should, whether covert or sole, by deed or will appoint, and, in default of appointment, for her next-of-kin. By a codicil made in 1844, the testator devised his freehold Bowden Park Estate in Wiltshire to his son for life with remainder to his children, and, in default of issue, then, as to one-ninth of such estate, to the use of his trustees upon the same trusts for his said daughter and her appointees as were by his will declared of the 15,000*l.* legacy.

The testator's daughter Emma survived him and married one Cazin, a domiciled Frenchman. By a private Act the Bowden Park Estate was vested in trustees for sale, and, the same having been sold, the proceeds were invested in the purchase of other freehold land, which was conveyed upon the same trusts as the Bowden Park Estate had been held.

In 1858 Mons. Cazin died, leaving his widow surviving him. In 1876 the testator's son died without issue, and a partition action was then commenced, in which the freehold land was sold, the proceeds being paid into Court. The share of Emma Cazin was paid out to the trustees of the will and invested in Metropolitan Board of Works Stock. Emma Cazin died in 1892, in France, without ever having had children. By her will, made in the French language, she gave to the defendant Tardy "all the personal property and rights (tous les biens et droits mobiliers) which I may have at my death and which may constitute my estate."

The question was whether the stock in the hands of the trustees representing Emma Cazin's share of the Bowden Park Estate passed by her will; in other words, whether her will operated as an exercise of the general power of appointment given by her father's will over her share of the Bowden Park Estate.

Warrington, Q.C., Stock, C. T. Mitchell, and T. H. Carson, for the parties.

KEKEWICH, J., held that the case was covered by Chandler v. L'ocock (15 Oh. D. 491); that the power was well exercised by Emma Cazin's will; and that accordingly the fund passed to her appointee.

Practices—Four-day Order—Contempt—Attachment—Notice of Motion—Affidavits, Service of—Notice—Irregularity—Ruin of Supreme Court, 1888, Order LII., r. 4.

On the 9th of May, 1894, a four-day order was made in chambers on the defendant to pay 200*l.* into Court; and on the 18th of June that order was served on the defendant. On the 22nd of June the plaintiffs' solicitor filed an affidavit of service of the order. On the 25th of June the plaintiffs served the defendant with a notice of motion for leave to issue a writ of attachment against him for contempt in not having complied with the order, and on the same day the plaintiffs' solicitor filed an affidavit of non-payment of the money into Court. The notice of motion contained no notice of the affidavits intended to be read on the motion; nor did it state that the order for payment had been served on the defendant; nor was there any evidence to shew that the affidavits had been served with the notice of motion. The plaintiffs' solicitor wrote a letter to the defendant's solicitor, stating their intention to read the affidavits of non-payment, but did not mention any affidavit proving service of the order.

On the morning of the day on which the motion was to be brought on the defendant paid the 200*l.* into Court.

Eastwick, for the motion.

Eustace Smith, for the defendant, took the objection that the motion was irregular under the Rules of Supreme Court, Order LII., r. 4, because no notice had been given of an affidavit of service of the order.

KEKEWICH, J.—In my opinion the first point to consider in these questions, is, that the practice should be uniform. My own notion is that it is very much better—unless gross injustice would result—that one judge should follow another, even if he thinks the other judge is wrong, rather than disturb the practice. Here I have a considered judgment of Mr. Justice North, in In re Lysaght (Weekly Notes, 1887, p. 23), delivered after argument and the citation of the earlier cases, as long ago as February, 1887. There is nothing to shew that the decision has since been departed from. The Registrar informs me that he has no note shewing that it has been departed from, although it is usual for the Registrars to have notes of such cases; and the result is that I am bound to consider the earlier decisions, notwithstanding the earlier decisions, Mr. Justice North's ruling has stood ever since the 1st of February, 1887, more than seven years ago. Without considering in the abstract whether it is right or wrong, or whether it would work hard in this particular case or not, I think it is my clear duty to follow that decision, because it is much better for suitors that there should be no variation in the practice. But I feel bound to say that, in my opinion, Mr. Justice North's view is the right one. You cannot enforce an order of this kind until served. What service is necessary—whether it should be on the defendant personally, or on his solicitor, or simply by filing—is quite another question. Somehow or other you must serve the order; and here the evidence is not sufficient to shew that the order was served. Mr. Eustace Smith is entitled to take advantage of the technicality, namely, that the plaintiffs have not, under Order LII., r. 4, served with the notice of motion copies of all the affidavits they intend to use upon this motion. That ought to have been done. I desire to repeat what I have often mentioned before—that in all these cases much the safest course is to specify the affidavits that are intended to be used, and to specify them in the notice of motion itself. Here I am told by the plaintiffs' counsel that he is instructed to say that copies of the affidavits were in fact served with the notice of motion; but in my opinion I must act upon the strict interpretation of the rule. Accordingly, as it appears that the defendant has paid the 200*l.* into Court, there will simply be no order on the motion.

Practice—Trial—Witness—Evidence—Cross-examination—Production of Documents—Putting in Documents en bloc or seriatim—Rejection of Evidence—New Trial—Rules of Supreme Court, 1833, Order XXXIX., r. 6.

This was a petition for payment out of Court of purchase-money paid in by the Crown, under the Artillery Ranges Act, 1832, in respect of part of the Maplin Sands. There being numerous rival claimants to the fund, the matter was, by consent, referred to Mr. S. Hall, Q.C., as special referee. After a hearing extending over nine days, the referee held that the petitioners had established their claim to the fund, and reported accordingly.

During the hearing before the referee, a witness, not a party to the petition, was examined and cross-examined. In the course of his cross-examination by counsel for one of the respondents, he was asked whether he had any letters in his possession relating to the Maplin Sands. Thereupon the witness refused to produce a mass of correspondence, which counsel then proposed to call for seriatim and read before the referee, questioning the witness upon each. This the referee declined to do, on the ground of the length of time such a course would occupy. Counsel then submitted that he was entitled to put the correspondence en bloc, then have copies, and examine them at his leisure; but the referee disallowed this also.

The matter now came before the Court upon a motion to quash the referee's report, on the ground that he had improperly admitted the above-mentioned correspondence.

M. Tarral, for the respondent.

Warrington, Q.C., and Sheldon, for the petitioners.

Mr. J. Bigby, A.-G., and Ingle Joyce, for the Crown.

Kekewich, J., said the difficulty arose from there being no power to get discovery from a witness who was not a party to the litigation. That was a difficulty inherent in the present mode of procedure. As to the letters produced by the witness in the present case, the proposal by the cross-examining counsel to put them all in en bloc was entirely contrary to all practice, and would be most dangerous if allowed. The trial would never come to an end, and the costs would be greatly increased by the introduction of a number of possibly irrelevant matters. Such a course had never, in his Lordship's experience, been proposed before, and he would not encourage such an application as this. Counsel, however, put another point, namely, that he was entitled to ask the witness to produce in succession document No. 1, 2, 3, and so on. The referee objected to that on the ground that it would occupy an inordinate time. There the matter was left. His Lordship was now asked to find fault with the report and send it back to the referee because he did not receive that evidence. There might have been a miscarriage if one could see that these documents would have been of any use; but his Lordship did not think that there had been any miscarriage on the part of the referee. His Lordship thought that the proper course in such a case as the present, when it came either before a judge or a referee, was for counsel to say, "I am entitled to have these documents produced; I am entitled to look at the documents that are material; and I ask for a reasonable adjournment in order that I may look into them and then ask the witness such questions upon them as I think are material to my case." That was the reasonable course to pursue; and if such an application had been made to the referee, it should have been granted. But the referee was not asked for an adjournment for the purpose. This motion was somewhat analogous to that for a new trial under Order XXXIX., r. 6, on the ground of the improper rejection of evidence; but that rule did not apply unless substantial wrong had been done by the rejection. Looking at the referee's report, his Lordship was satisfied that the production of these letters would have been useless, and would have only caused a waste of time. The result was that the report must stand, and the motion must be refused with costs.

This was an action for the purpose of raising certain legacies charged upon real estate. The proposed minutes of judgment contained a declaration of the rights of the parties grounded on the admissions.

Kekewich, J., said that a declaration by the Court was a judicial act, and ought not to be made on admissions of the parties or on consent, but only if the Court was satisfied by evidence. His Lordship had always so held, and intended so to hold until corrected; but in order to avoid expense, he would adopt a course which he had adopted on other occasions. Evidence that all parties were before the Court and of the title might be produced to the chief clerk, who, without making any certificate, would look into the matter and inform the Court whether he was satisfied with the title, and, if he was, the order might then go.

Ex parte KEMP.

Company—Dividend—Payment out of Capital—Balance-sheet—Bona fide Estimate of Value of Assets—Winding-up—Subsequent Discovery of Worthlessness of Assets—Validity of Resolution in favour of Dividend—Directors' Percentage on Dividend.

By one of the articles of association of a limited company, formed in 1876, it was provided that, after payment of a certain dividend out of net profits, 10 per cent. of the residue of the net profits should be paid and applied as remuneration to the directors, and that the ultimate residue of the net profits should be applied in payment of such dividend on the ordinary shares of the company, or in such other manner as (subject to the regulations) a general meeting might determine.

At a general meeting of the company held in April, 1883, it was resolved that a balance of 185,243*l.*, treated as the residue of net profits, should be dealt with, appropriated, and paid in accordance with the above provisions. No part of the balance was distributed, as the company, in May, 1883, passed a special resolution for voluntary winding-up.

All the creditors having been paid, one of the directors and the executors of two deceased directors claimed to be entitled to 10 per cent. of the residue of net profits, and the voluntary liquidator issued a summons asking that the claim might be determined by the Court, and that he might be at liberty to distribute the assets as if the claim had not been made.

If the balance-sheet, on which the meeting of 1883 acted, was correct, the dividend was properly declared; but it was alleged that certain items of assets had been largely over-estimated, and had afterwards turned out to be worthless, and that, if the proposed dividend were paid, a large proportion of it would come out of a capital.

Haldane, Q.C., and C. E. E. Jenkins, for the liquidator, contended that the remuneration by way of percentage to the directors was payable only on such portion of the dividend as was properly payable—viz., out of the net profits.

M. A. uir Mackenzie, for a director, contended that the balance sheet had been made bona fide, and on a fair estimate of the assets, and was binding on the shareholders. [He was stopped.]

Bramwell Davis, Stewart-Smith, and George Scott, for the executors of deceased directors.

WRIGHT, J., said that the general meeting having so decided, it followed from the articles that the directors had become entitled to what they claimed, and he could not deprive them of it unless he attacked the resolution passed nearly twelve years ago. At that time it was not impossible for business men to suppose that a reasonable estimate had been placed on the assets. His Lordship was not sure that under any circumstances he could say that the resolution was not valid; but if he was entitled to do so, there was not sufficient proof before him that the valuation made was not substantially correct, or that the directors could not take the view that the items were not of substantial value. There was nothing imaginary about these items. They appeared in a balance-sheet made up almost entirely of estimated items. The directors were acting on the report of the auditor, and after consultation with him, and they openly came to the conclusion that a certain amount could be legitimately applied as dividend, because an estimated amount would probably be realized. It was difficult, after twelve years had elapsed, to say that that view was wrong. At that time, litigation, which was ultimately disastrous to the company, was favourable to them. They had obtained a judgment in their favour in Belgium, and were advised that they would probably be equally successful in England; and there was nothing to shew that the circumstances were such as to prevent the company from returning the whole capital to the shareholders. The shareholders wanted a winding-up, and the directors agreed as to this. Before steps were taken to wind up the company, the directors, after consulting the auditor, decided what was the proper sum to be appropriated to dividend. The directors were entitled to the remuneration, by way of percentage, claimed by them.

Q. B. D. ROBINSON, KING & Co. v. JYNES. July 13.

Appeal from chambers.

The defendant, a married woman, was sued alone upon a bill of exchange accepted by her before her marriage. On application by the plaintiffs for summary judgment under Order xiv., the only fact alleged by the defendant by way of defence to her affidavit was, that she had married since the date of the acceptance. The master gave unconditional leave to defend. On appeal, the judge, Charles, J., referred the matter to the Divisional Court.

Turrell (Kisch, with him), for the plaintiffs. At common law, the plaintiffs, in the absence of a plea of abatement or nonjoinder of the husband, would have been entitled to personal judgment against her alone. That form of remedy has not been taken away by the Married Women's Property Act. At all events, the plaintiffs are entitled to judgment in the form laid down in Scott v. Morley (20 Q. B. D. at p. 111). No counsel appeared for the defendant.

THE COURT (Wills and Vaughan Williams, JJ.) held that the plaintiffs were entitled to judgment against the defendant personally.

Appeal from a decision of the President of the Probate Division.

A petition was presented by a wife for judicial separation from her husband on the ground of adultery. A decree for judicial separation was made, and the custody of the five children was given to the wife. An order was also made for permanent alimony at the rate of 266*l.* per annum for the petitioner and 23*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* for each of the four younger children, the registrar having refused to make an order for maintenance of the eldest child, who was a daughter, on the ground that she was above 16. This order was not appealed from. The second child, who was a son, attained the age of 16 in March, 1894, and the registrar then ordered that the amount payable for his maintenance should cease. The President affirmed this decision, and the wife appealed.

Inderwick, Q.C., and Searle, for the appellant.

Bayford, Q.C., and Barnard, for the husband.

LINDLEY, L.J., after considering the jurisdiction exercised as to infants by the Courts of Common Law and Equity before the Judicature Act, 1873, said, that by that Act each Division of the High Court could exercise the jurisdiction of the High Court of Chancery, and it was enacted that in questions relating to the custody and education of infants the rules of Equity should prevail. This enactment enabled all Divisions of the High Court, even on habeas corpus, to regard more than the strict rights of fathers and guardians, and to recognise the cardinal principle on which the Court of Chancery always proceeded, namely, that in dealing with infants the primary consideration was their benefit. Then the Divorce and Matrimonial Causes Act (20 & 21 Vict. c. 85), by sect. 35 gave power to the Court, before or at the time of the final decree for divorce or judicial separation, to make such order for the custody, maintenance, and education of the children as it might think fit; and by the 22 & 23 Vict. c. 61, s. 4, this power was extended to applications made after decree. The jurisdiction thus conferred was greater than any which had been previously exercised by any Court. He could discover no ground for saying that infants between the ages of 14 or 16 and 21 were not children within these enactments. The necessity for providing for their maintenance and education did not stop at the age of 14 or 16, nor did the language of the statutes admit of a construction which limited the power of the Court to provide for children under 14 or 16. However, there were decisions to the effect that the power of the Court was so limited, and the President held himself bound by those decisions. His Lordship then considered at some length the case of Ryder v. Ryder (2 Sw. & Tr. 225), Webster v. Webster (31 L. J. (P. & M.) 184), Mallinson v. Mallinson (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 221), Benyon v. Benyon (1 P. D. 447), and Blandford v. Blandford ([1892] P. 143), and said that in his judgment the wide discretion conferred by the Divorce Acts had been unduly restricted by these judicial decisions. Such discretion ought to be exercised in each particular case as the circumstances of that case might require, and ought not to be fettered by any supposed rule that it had no power to make orders under the Acts concerning the custody, maintenance, and education of children who being males were over 14, or being females were over 16. He was clearly of opinion that the jurisdiction conveyed by the Divorce Acts could, at all events since the passing of the Judicature Act, be exercised during the whole period of infancy, both in the case of males and females, though he did not say that a child who had attained years of discretion ought to be ordered into the custody of either parent against such child's own wishes. The appeal must therefore be allowed, and the case must be remitted to the Judge to be dealt with on its merits.

LOPES, L.J., gave judgment to the same effect.

CADOGAN v. LYRIC THEATRE, LIMITED.

July 18.

Appointment of Receiver—Equitable Execution—Profits of Business—Receipts of Theatre.

Appeal against a decision of Kekewich, J.

The plaintiff was a judgment creditor of the defendant company, who carried on the business of theatrical proprietors. They held a lease of the theatre, and they had mortgaged the lease. The judgment not having been satisfied, Kekewich, J., upon the motion of the plaintiff, appointed a receiver of the rents and profits of the company by way of equitable execution. There was evidence that the company had no rents to receive; but his Lordship was of opinion that the money paid at the door of a theatre, for a licence to enter there and remain for a certain time, was strictly analogous to rent, and might be properly called "rents and profits" of the theatre. The defendants appealed.

Inghen, for the appellants.

Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and Cecil Chapman, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Dawkins, L.J.J.) varied the order, holding that the plaintiff was only entitled to have a receiver appointed of the rents and profits of the company's land, and that, without prejudice to the rights of prior incumbrancers, the company must deliver possession of the theatre to the receiver. A receiver could not be appointed of the earnings of a business, as was decided in Holmes v. Millage ([1893] 1 Q. B. 551), and the receipts at the door of a theatre did not differ from the earnings of any other business. But, if the interest of the defendants in the theatre had been legal, instead of only equitable, the plaintiff could have taken it under an elegit, and therefore, as was shown by Ex parte Brown (13 Ch. D. 252), he was entitled to have a receiver appointed by way of equitable execution of the defendants' equitable interest. The receiver when placed in possession would be able to prevent the defendants from carrying on the business of the theatre, except on the terms of their paying him an occupation rent, and in that way the plaintiff would obtain satisfaction of his judgment debt.

North, J. In re PEAKE'S SETTLED ESTATES. July 24.

Settled Estate—Authority to exercise Statutory Power of Sale—Settled Estates Act, 1877, ss. 16, 20, 21.

Further hearing of a petition under the Settled Estates Act, 1877, and the Settled Land Acts, 1882 to 1890, asking that Mrs. Murly (a widow) and Miss Peake (a spinster), the then trustees of the will of Thomas Peake, deceased, or other the trustees for the time being of the will, might be authorized to sell for cash, or to grant at fee farm rents, the whole or any portion or portions of an estate called the Tileries, and other lands, devised by the will, with power from time to time to make proposals for separate sales, and with power, also subject to the approval of the Court in each case, to lay out any part or parts of the same estate and lands for streets, roads, paths, squares, gardens, or other open spaces, sewers, drains, or watercourses. The petition was presented by beneficiaries and the two trustees, and was served upon an infant beneficiary. Mrs. Murly and Miss Peake were daughters of the testator, and had been appointed trustees of the will since his death. Miss Peake was aged 47; Mrs. Murly was older. She had no children.

When the petition first came before North, J., for hearing, he declined to confer the authority asked for upon two ladies and the petition was ordered to stand over with the view of finding some other suitable persons who might be willing to act as trustees (vide [1893] 3 Ch. 430). The petition was now restored to the paper. There was evidence that the petitioners had endeavoured, but without success, to induce other suitable persons to act as trustees. No one but the two daughters could be found who was willing to do so. There was also evidence that Miss Peake was a woman of exceptional business capacity, and that for several years during the latter part of her father's life, when he was paralyzed, she had had the management of a large business belonging to him.

Swinfen Eady, Q. C., and Tyssen, for the petition.

R. F. Norton, for the respondent.

NORTH, J., said that the evidence as to the exceptional capacity of Miss Peake was not before him on the former occasion. There was not similar evidence as to Mrs. Murly, but she was associated with her sister as a trustee of the will. Under these circumstances he would confer the authority asked for on the two ladies during their joint lives. But the words "or other the trustees for the time being of the will" must be admitted, and the words "subject to the approval of the Court in each case" must be inserted after "authorized."

Executor—Debt.

The testator in this summons, A. H. Hyslop, appointed his brother-in-law, the Rev. H. H. Chamberlain, a defendant to the summons, and his sister, Emma Hyslop, the plaintiff to the summons, executors. He gave his brother-in-law 500*l.* in consideration of his undertaking to be "my executor and carrying out my instructions and wishes to the best of his ability."

The defendant Chamberlain owed the testator 100*l.* Two letters of instruction written by the testator addressed to the defendant Chamberlain were found in a box after his death with his will. In one of these the words occurred, "The hundred pounds I lent you does not form part of the money left you; it is cancelled." This document had not been communicated to the defendant Chamberlain during the lifetime of the testator.

One question in the summons was whether the defendant Chamberlain was accountable to the estate for the 100*l.* he owed to the testator.

Upjohn, for the plaintiff.

Theobald, for the defendant Chamberlain.

Gore-Browne, for one of the next of kin—a defendant.

NORTH, J., distinguished this case from Strong v. Bird (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 315) in that the expression of intention to cancel the debt had not been communicated to the debtor; he considered that the letters of instruction were testamentary documents not duly executed, and were not admissible in evidence. He held that the defendant Chamberlain was accountable to the estate for the 100*l.*

POWELL v. BIRMINGHAM VINEGAR BREWERY COMPANY.

Trade Name—Secret Preparation manufactured under Name not registered as a Trade Mark—Right of Sole Manufacturer to restrain dealing in similar Article under same Name—Injunction.
Motion.

The plaintiff and his predecessors in title had for more than thirty years manufactured and sold a sauce (the composition of which was a trade secret) under the name of "Yorkshire Relish." Prior to 1884, the plaintiff and his predecessors had successfully prevented any one else from using the words "Yorkshire Relish" in connection with any sauce not of his or their manufacture. In 1884 the words were registered as a trade-mark, and down to 1893 the plaintiff remained the sole manufacturer of "Yorkshire Relish." In 1893, the defendants succeeded in getting the plaintiff's trade-mark removed from the Register (see In re Powell's Trade Mark [1893] 2 Ch. 388; [1894] A. C. 8), and thereupon commenced to make and sell a sauce which they described as "Yorkshire Relish." The defendants' sauce was sold in bottles bearing a label not, in its general appearance, resembling the plaintiff's label, but having the words "Yorkshire Relish" in large letters at the top, and the statement "Manufactured by the Birmingham Vinegar Brewery Company, Limited, Successors to Holbrook & Co., London and Birmingham." The defendants' sauce was a different preparation from the plaintiff's.

This was a motion by the plaintiff for an injunction to restrain the defendants from passing off, by the use of the term "Yorkshire Relish" or otherwise, sauce not of the plaintiff's manufacture, as and for the goods of the plaintiff. On the evidence, the Court was of opinion that until the defendants entered the field the dealers in the trade and the public who ordered "Yorkshire Relish" expected to get sauce of the plaintiff's manufacture; and that an unwary [purchaser who purchased the defendants' sauce might well be deceived into thinking that the label was a new one, and that he was getting the plaintiff's sauce.

Moulton, Q.C., Buckley, Q.C., and Vernon R. Smith, [for the defendants.

STIRLING, J., held, that although the plaintiff was not entitled to the exclusive use of the words "Yorkshire Relish," yet the term by its use, in a secondary sense, had come to denote the plaintiff's goods, and he, being the maker of a secret preparation, was entitled, while the secret remained undiscovered, to restrain the sale of goods under the name by which his preparation was known. His Lordship accordingly granted an injunction in the form approved of by Lords Watson and Macnaghten in Montgomery v. Thompson ([1891] A. C. 221, 224), restraining the defendants from using the words "Yorkshire Relish" as descriptive [of, or in connection with, [any sauce or relish manufactured] by them, or sauce or relish (not manufactured by the plaintiff) sold or] offered for sale by them, without clearly distinguishing such sauce or relish from the sauce or relish of the plaintiff.

STARKEY v. EYRES.

Will—Construction—Power to appoint amongst "Relations"—Next of Kin—Powers Law Amendment Act (87 & 88 Vict. c. 37).

T. Deakin by his will, dated the 6th of December, 1854, gave all his property to his wife for life, and after her death directed payment of certain legacies, and then gave one moiety of the residue "to my wife's relations as she may direct."

The wife survived the testator, and by her will she purported to exercise the power of appointment in favour of children of persons whom she described as her brothers and sisters. She was in fact illegitimate, her parents having married after her birth. She died childless in November, 1892.

Stirling, J., had held (ante, p. 85), having regard to the terms of the will in connection with surrounding circumstances, that the word "relations" meant those persons who would have been her relations if she had been born after the marriage of her parents, and consequently that the appointments made by her were good, except one in favour of an illegitimate child of her sister.

The further question now arose whether the class of persons who could take under the description of "relations" of the testator's widow included all persons who at her death would have been related to her in blood in any degree had she been legitimate, or whether it was limited to such persons as would at her death have been her next of kin under the Statute of Distributions had she been legitimate.

Seddon, C. E. E. Jenkins, and A. F. Peterson, for the various parties.

STIRLING, J., held that the power conferred by the testator upon his widow was non-exclusive—that was to say, it was merely a power of distribution, and not of selection. Therefore, according to the cases decided before the passing of Lord Selborne's Act, that power could only be exercised in favour of her next of kin living at her death. Lord Selborne's Act had not altered any rule of construction laid down as to the meaning of powers, nor did it affect the class of objects to take; it was not therefore directed to a case of this kind, and the class of persons to take in this case was the same as it would have been before the passing of that Act.

Practice—Trial of Action—Re-hearing—Material Evidence.

This was an action for the rectification of a settlement. On the 8th of April last his Lordship gave judgment refusing rectification, but the judgment had not yet been drawn up. The plaintiffs now moved to have the action re-tried on the ground that, at the trial, material facts had not been drawn to his Lordship's attention.

Covens-Hardy, Q.C., and Beddall, for the plaintiffs, submitted that the Court had jurisdiction to re-hear the case so that the material facts might be brought before the Court.

Macnaghten, for the defendants, the trustees of the settlement, raised no objection to the motion.

KEKEWICH, J.:—As the order has not yet been drawn up, I have no doubt I may re-hear the case. If there are material facts which were not brought to my attention at the trial, then I ought to hear them. On the assurance of the plaintiffs' counsel that there are material facts, and as the defendants do not object, I will give the plaintiffs an opportunity of having the case re-heard. The plaintiffs' counsel may apply on a future day to have the case restored to the paper.

BRIDGES v. SHAW.

Will—Probate Action—Costs "out of the Estate"—Real Estate—Administration Action—Costs of Probate Action.

An action was brought in the Probate Division propounding the will of one Henry Shaw who died in 1892, the defendant—who disputed the will—being George Shaw, his heir-at-law and one of his next of kin. At the trial the President gave judgment establishing the will, and, upon the application of the defendant, George Shaw, directed his costs to be paid "out of the estate," but no order was made as to the plaintiffs' costs. The testator's estate consisted of real estate, of which part was specifically devised by his will, and part was undisposed of and so devolved upon the defendant, George Shaw, as his heir-at-law. The personal estate was of small value. An action having been brought for the administration of the testator's estate, the question arose as to whether the costs of George Shaw and the other parties to the Probate action were payable (the personal estate being insufficient) out of the real estate, whether descended or specifically devised.

Martin, Q.C., Renshaw, Q.C., Warmington, Q.C., Charles Browns, Bardswell, S. B. L. Druce, and Tanner, for the parties.

KIRKWOOD, J., said that, in ordering the costs of the Probate action to be paid "out of the estate," the Probate Division meant, out of the estate over which it had jurisdiction, namely, the personal estate. Accordingly that order could not be read as extending to the real estate. Neither had the Chancery Division jurisdiction to order those costs to be paid out of the real estate. Therefore, the costs of contesting the Probate action must be borne exclusively by the personal estate, and no part of them was payable out of the real estate, either descended or specifically devised.

In re GLORY PATER MILLS COMPANY.
DUNSTER'S CASE.

Company—Shares—Memorandum of Association—Signature by Member of a Firm—Application by Firm for same Number of Shares—Companies Act, 1862, s. 23.

Dunster, who was a member of the firm of Dunster & Wakefield, signed his own name to the memorandum of association of the company, which was dated the 2nd of May, 1887, for 100 preference shares of 10*l.* each. He was also one of the first directors of the company.

Dunster & Wakefield acted as agents of the company from the time of its formation, at a commission of 2½ per cent.

On the 17th of May, 1887, an application in writing, signed by Dunster with the firm's name of "Dunster & Wakefield," for 100 preference shares, was sent to the directors of the company. The shares applied for were allotted to Dunster & Wakefield, and were fully paid up on allotment.

On the 27th of June, 1887, Dunster & Wakefield offered in writing to undertake the agency at 2½ per cent. commission.

Dunster's name was never placed on the register of shareholders; he was never asked to pay, and never did pay, anything in respect of the 100 shares for which he had signed the memorandum of association; and there was evidence that in May, 1887, it was agreed that the firm should take and pay in full for 100 shares in consideration of having the agency of the company, that in pursuance of such agreement

Dunster signed the agreement on the understanding that it was to be signed by an individual and not a firm, and that it was considered necessary that he should sign an application in the firm's name, so that the 100 shares mentioned in the memorandum might be allotted in the firm's name—the action of the directors, and the firm and its members, being that there should only be one transaction as to the holding of shares.

At the winding up of the company the official receiver and liquidator placed Dunster's name on the list of contributories in respect of 100 shares, and Dunster applied to have his name removed from the list.

Solicitors: Mackley, Q.C., and Methold, for Dunster.

Farwell, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the official receiver and liquidator.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said that Dunster on signing the memorandum of association became liable as a member for 100 shares under sect. 23 of the Companies Act, 1862, and as a director he had failed in his duty in not putting his own name on the register of shareholders for the shares. No arrangement between the members of the firm, though communicated to the company, could affect Dunster's statutory liability, which was not altered by putting the name of the firm on the register in respect of 100 shares. The application for and allotment of the shares to the firm were both unconditional. The case was distinguishable from Notes' Case (16 W. R. 1135), on which the applicant relied, and his application must be refused with costs.

In re SOUTH AMERICAN AND MEXICAN COMPANY.

Ex parte BANK OF ENGLAND.

Estoppel by Record—Judgment by Consent—Action for Instalment under Agreement—Effect of Judgment as regards Establishing Agreement.

In April, 1891, a firm of Murrieta & Co. owed the Bank of England about 585,000*l.*, and in June, 1891, arrangements were made with the result, as the bank alleged, that the company became liable to the bank for the debt of the firm, which was payable by instalments.

The first instalment of 100,000*l.* was paid by the company to the bank early in 1892; and in July, 1892, the bank sued the company for the second instalment of 100,000*l.* The company denied the existence of any agreement by them to pay the money, and counter-claimed for a return of the instalment already paid.

At the trial a compromise was come to, in pursuance of which, by consent, a judgment was entered which, so far as material, was as follows:—"This action having... been tried before Mr. Justice Kennedy, without a jury (by consent),... and the said Mr. Justice Kennedy having by consent ordered that judgment should be entered for the plaintiffs on the claim for 100,000*l.* and costs, and dismissed the counter-claim with costs, and the said judge having also ordered by consent that execution should be stayed except as to the costs, and that if within three weeks from the... 30th of June, 1893, the sum of 60,000*l.* was paid to the plaintiffs," or secured as therein mentioned, "the plaintiffs should accept it... in full discharge of all claim on the defendants... It is this day adjudged that the plaintiffs recover from the defendants 100,000*l.* and costs to be taxed. And that the defendants' counter-claim be dismissed, with costs to be taxed."

The amount was not paid, and on the 2nd of August, 1893, an order was made for the winding up of the company.

In the winding-up the bank claimed to prove for the balance of their debt remaining due after payment of the first instalment and of certain interest, such balance being 401,595*l.*, against which certain securities were valued at 170,000*l.* The official receiver rejected the proof, and the bank appealed from such rejection, the principal question argued being whether the official receiver and liquidator was estopped by the judgment from disputing that there was a binding agreement on the company to pay the bank the above-mentioned balance.

Finlay, Q.C., H. D. Greene, Q.C., R. Bray, and Howard Wright, for the official receiver and liquidator.

Moulton, Q.C., and George Lawrence, for the Bank of England.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said the first point was whether a judgment by consent, upon which the Court had not exercised its mind, could create an estoppel between parties. He was of opinion that it could, and had never heard it suggested that it could not. It had always been the law that a judgment obtained by consent raised an estoppel just as much as in a case where the Court had exercised a judicial discretion in the matter after hearing an argument. The basis of the law of estoppel in these cases was that, when once the parties had litigated a matter, the judgment should put an end to the litigation; and if the parties agreed on a judgment, that raised an estoppel just as much as if all the questions raised had been fought out. The other question was as to what matters the judgment was conclusive. The action was for 100,000*l.*, which was an instalment of a debt alleged by the statement of claim to have been agreed to be paid by the defendants to the plaintiffs at certain specified dates, the identity being established by the particulars delivered with the statement of claim. It seemed impossible that the plaintiffs could have recovered in that action without establishing the agreement. He would have had no doubt that the judgment was for the 100,000*l.* claimed even if there had been no counter-claim; but that made it all the more clear that the 100,000*l.* mentioned in the judgment was the 100,000*l.* claimed under the same agreement, the non-existence of which was the basis of the counter-claim. The effect of the judgment was that there was such an agreement, and, therefore, that judgment for 100,000*l.* must be entered for the plaintiffs, and the counter-claim for the return of the first 100,000*l.*, which was based on the non-existence of the agreement, must be dismissed. Under these circumstances it was clear that the existence of this particular agreement was of the essence of the plaintiffs' claim in the action. It would have been impossible that the plaintiffs should have recovered the 100,000*l.* in the action unless they had established that the agreement existed. The judgment on the claim and counter-claim affirmed the existence of the agreement, and the official receiver could not now be allowed to question it. The proof must therefore be admitted.

DAVIES v. R. BOLTON & Co.

July 23.

Company—Debenture—Articles of Association—Irregularities—Valuable Consideration.

R. Bolton and G. L. Davies were, sometime prior to April, 1893, in a partnership, which they dissolved on the terms that 64*l.* was payable by Bolton to Davies.

Bolton in April, 1893, sold his business to a company, the signatories to the memorandum of association of which were himself and his friends.

The articles (55 to 57) gave the directors power to borrow money on debentures which might be made assignable free from equities.

By the articles Bolton was to be the managing director, and he and the other six subscribers of the articles (one of whom was Millington) were to be the first directors (art. 89).

No director was to vote in respect of any contract in which he was interested, and if he did vote, his vote was not to be counted (art. 95). One director was sufficient to form a quorum (art. 104). Any debenture bearing the common seal, issued for a valuable consideration, was to bind the company, notwithstanding any irregularity touching the authority of the directors to issue the same (art. 115); the common seal was not to be affixed to any document except in the presence of two directors, or of one director and the secretary, in pursuance of a resolution of the directors (art. 118).

Under pressure from Davies, Bolton agreed that the 64*l.* should be secured by a debenture granted by the company to Bolton, and transferred by him to Davies to secure the amount, and before it was issued the solicitors of Davies were furnished with a print of the articles.

Under the agreement for the sale of the business to the company more than Davies' debt was due by the company to Bolton; but the amount was to be paid by instalments which had not become due at the date of the debenture, and interest was payable on instalments unpaid at the rate of 6*l.* per cent. The debenture was issued on the 31st of July, 1893, and the interest payable on the 64*l.* thereby secured was at the rate of 5*l.* per cent.

The debenture was signed only by Bolton and Millington, the latter, in the opinion of his Lordship, not being then a director, but only the secretary of the company.

The company was afterwards ordered to be wound up, and an action by Davies to enforce his debenture was defended by the company, acting by the official receiver and liquidator. The objections to the debenture were (a) that the seal was never affixed to it, and that it was never sealed or delivered with the authority of, or so as to bind the company; (b) that no resolution under art. 118 had been passed; (c) that no meeting of directors was held at which such a resolution could have been passed; (d) that the seal was affixed by the sole authority of Bolton, in whose favour the debenture was issued; (e) that art. 95 prevented Bolton from passing any resolution required by art. 118; (f) that the moneys purported to be secured could not be secured under arts. 55 and 56.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Eastwick, for the plaintiff.

O. L. Olare, for the company.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held, (a) that the seal was affixed pursuant to art. 118 in the presence of one director and the secretary; (b) that, having regard to art. 95, it was doubtful whether the articles had been complied with, inasmuch as no disinterested director was present when the seal was affixed, but that the objection (b) and the objections (c) to (f) were in respect of irregularities which were caused by art. 95. His Lordship also held, that the change from 6*l.* to 5*l.* per cent. was a sufficient consideration to support the debenture; that, as there was nothing on the face of the debenture to show a non-compliance with the articles, the fact of Davies' solicitors having a print of the articles was not sufficient to affect Davies, with notice of the infirmities attending the issue of the debenture, inasmuch as an examination of the articles furnished would not shew that other directors besides Bolton were present when the debenture was issued.

The debenture was therefore declared to be valid.

COURT OF APPEAL.

FROM PROB. DIV. FODEN v. FODEN. July 25.

Husband and Wife—Divorce—Alimony pendente lite—Suit for Nullity of Marriage—Jurisdiction.

Appeal against an order of the President of the Divorce Division for the payment of alimony pendente lite by a husband to his wife in a suit for nullity of marriage.

In October, 1890, Foden went through the ceremony of marriage with a niece of his deceased wife. In August, 1892, he petitioned for a decree of nullity of marriage. The wife did not enter an appearance. On the 7th of February, 1893, a decree scdct of nullity was made. The husband did not apply at the expiration of six months to have the decree made absolute. In April, 1894, the wife obtained leave to enter an appearance in the suit, and then presented a petition for alimony pendente lite. The registrar made an interim order for the payment of alimony pendente lite, at the rate of 60*l.* per annum, to commence from the date of the service of the citation on the wife. The husband appealed to the President, and also applied to have the decree made absolute. The President dismissed the appeal, and ordered that the decree should not be made absolute until an order had been issued for alimony pending suit to commence from the date of service of citation. The husband appealed.

Indorwick, Q.C., and E. T. Holloway, for the husband.

Bayford, Q.C., and B. H. Pritchard, for the wife, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Davey L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal, holding, on the authority of Bird v. Bird (1 Lee, 209) and the subsequent practice of the Ecclesiastical Courts in accordance with that decision, that there was jurisdiction to make the order in a suit for nullity of marriage, and that there was a lis pendens until the decree was made absolute. The Court thought that in Blackmore v. Mills (16 W. R. 893) Lord Penzance did not intend to lay down that there was no jurisdiction; if he did, they could not agree with him. And, there being jurisdiction, they declined to interfere with the exercise of discretion by the President.

Practice—Order for Payment into Court on Admission—Admission in Letters.

Appeal by the defendant against an interlocutory order of Chitty, J., that he should pay a sum of 1000*l.* into Court to the credit of the action, on the ground that in certain letters written by him he had admitted that he had that sum in his hands. The defendant was the surviving executor and trustee of a will, by which the testator directed a sum of 1000*l.* to be held on trust for his daughter and her children. The daughter and her infant children (by a next friend) were plaintiffs, and they claimed to make the defendant liable for a breach of trust in not properly investing the 1000*l.*

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Alexander Young, for the defendant.
Farwell, Q.C., and Abraham, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Davey, L.J.J.) allowed the appeal.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., was not satisfied that the letters relied upon taken alone amounted to an admission that the defendant had in his hands 1000*l.* belonging to the plaintiffs. But the Court must have regard to the whole evidence before it, and, looking to an affidavit which the defendant had made, it would be monstrous to treat the letters as an unequivocal admission that he had in his hands 1000*l.* belonging to the plaintiffs. Under the old practice of the Court of Chancery such an order could only have been made upon admission in the defendant's answer. This was afterwards extended to admission in an affidavit; and in Freeman v. Cow (8 Ch. D. 148) Jessel, M.R., extended it to an admission by not answering an affidavit of the plaintiff which said that the defendant had a sum of money in his hands. The present order went much further than any previous decision, and it could not be maintained.

Company—Winding-up—Contributory—Director's Qualification —Resignation during Period of Qualification.

Appeal from a decision of Wright, J., noted ante, p. 112.

The articles of association of a company provided (art. 89) that the vendor to the company and the remaining six subscribers to the articles should be the first directors until such time as the latter, or a majority of them, should nominate, by an instrument in writing, another director to act with the vendor in the place of the remaining six subscribers (art. 91); that the qualification should be the holding of shares of the company of the nominal amount of 100*l.*; that a director "may act before acquiring his qualification, but shall in any case acquire the same within three months from his appointment, and unless he shall do so, he shall be deemed to have agreed to take the said shares from the company, and the same shall be forthwith allotted to him accordingly."

Three of the subscribers of the articles acted as directors, one of them by signing some share-certificates, and all of them by concurring in signing a paper appointing another person to act as a director in their stead, as required by art. 89, but not in any other way. These acts were done before the period for qualifying had elapsed. In the winding up of the company, the three subscribers were placed on the list of contributories in respect of their qualification shares, and applied to have their names removed from such list. Wright, J., held that the applicants had agreed to take their qualification by acting as directors, and could not escape from liability by ceasing to become directors within the three months. The applicants appealed.

O. L. Clare, for the respondent, the official liquidator.

LORD HERSHELL, L.C., and DAVEY, L.J., were of opinion, upon the construction of the articles, that the appellants, having ceased to be directors within the three months, could not be deemed to have agreed to take the qualification shares from the company, and that they were improperly settled upon the list of contributories. If the appellants could be shewn to have entered into an absolute contract to take shares from the company, they could not relieve themselves of their obligation by resigning; but that was not the true construction of the articles. The qualification of a director was the holding of a certain number of shares, and so long as a person acted as director he was bound to hold the qualifying shares; but the obligation to hold the shares ceased on the resignation of the director, and the obligation to acquire the shares was merely ancillary to the obligation to hold them.

LINDLEY, L.J., differed. He thought that every director who accepted office was under an absolute obligation to acquire shares, although he might act for a given period without having acquired them. The object of the articles was to prevent persons from becoming directors of the company unless they bound themselves to take shares.

Practice—Evidence taken in other Causes—Notice of Intention to read such Evidence—Order xxxvii., r. 3.

Appeal from an order of the Queen's Bench Division confirming an order made at chambers for the issue of a commission to examine witnesses in Paris on behalf of the defendant.

Buckley, Q.C., and Edward Ford, for the plaintiffs, contended that the order was unnecessary, as the evidence required had been taken on commission in an action by the plaintiffs against Lord Windsor, and under Order xxxvii., r. 3, the depositions so taken could be read by the defendant, by giving notice to the plaintiffs.

Horne Payne, Q.C., and Bremner, for the defendant, were not called on.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Kay and A. L. The evidence which it was suggested could be read was not admissible evidence in this action, and therefore its existence had no bearing on the question whether a commission was necessary. They dismissed the appeal.

Married Woman—Separate Estate—Restraint on Anticipation—Unsuccessful Appeal—Costs of opposite Party—"Proceeding instituted"—Married Women's Property Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 63), s. 2.

On the 5th of December, 1893, the Married Women's Property Act, 1893, came into operation. Sect. 2 enacts as follows: "In any action or proceeding now or hereafter instituted by a woman or by a next friend on her behalf, the Court before which such action or proceeding is pending shall have jurisdiction by judgment or order from time to time to order payment of the costs of the opposite party out of property which is subject to a restraint on anticipation, and may enforce such payment by the appointment of a receiver and the sale of the property or otherwise as may be just."

Held, affirming North, J., that the section does not apply to a case where, in an action brought against a married woman before the date of the Act coming into operation, an appeal by her since that date has been dismissed with costs. The words "proceeding instituted" mean a proceeding, such as an action or originating summons, in which the married woman is the actor or prime mover in the sense of starting it, and do not include a motion or an appeal by a married woman who is a defendant.

A word already in existence cannot properly be said to be an invented word because the person claiming to have invented it was not aware of its existence. The word "Eboline," which was in fact compounded of "Eboli" (the name of a town in Italy) with the English suffix "ne," is not an invented word within the meaning of sub-sect. (d) of sect. 64 of the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, as amended by sect. 10 of the Act of 1888, and it is a geographical name within the meaning of sub-sect. Option to Purchase—Conversion—Intestacy—Heir-at-Law or Legal Personal Representative.

Isaac Isaacs, being seized of freehold premises in Nevill Street, Abergavenny, by an indenture of lease of August, 1880, devised the same to one T. A. Cadle, his heirs and assigns, for the life of the said Isaac Isaacs, at the yearly rent of 40l. The lease provided, that after the decease of the said Isaac Isaacs, the said T. A. Cadle, his heirs and assigns, should have the option of purchasing the demised premises for 750l.; such option to be declared in writing, within six months from the decease of Isaac.

On the 9th of January, 1894, Isaac Isaacs died intestate.

On the 25th of April, 1894, T. A. Cadle gave formal notice in writing to the heir-at-law and legal personal representative of Isaac Isaacs of his intention to exercise his option to purchase, and the question now submitted to the Court was whether this sum of 750l. belonged to the plaintiff as the legal personal representative, or to the defendant as the heir-at-law, of the said Isaac Isaacs.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. CHRIST CHURCH, OXFORD.

Charity Commissioners—Jurisdiction—Endowed School—Public School—Educational Endowment—Endowed Schools Act, 1869, s. 8—Endowed Schools Act, 1873, s. 9—Endowed Schools Act, 1874, s. 6—Public Schools Act, 1868—Statute Law Revision Act, 1883.

Adjourned summons by the trustees of an educational endowment founded by the will of Edward Careswell, made in 1689. The testator devised land in trust for the maintenance of eighteen scholars at Christ Church, Oxford, the scholars to be chosen from Shrewsbury School and five other free schools in the county of Salop, at Bridgnorth, Newport, Shifnal, Wem, and Donnington, respectively, and to pay 10l. a year to the minister of the parish of Bobbington. The charity has from time to time been modified under schemes settled by the Court, the last of which was made in 1861.

The income of the charity is now about 900l. a year. The payment to the minister has been increased to 40l. a year, and there are eighteen exhibitions to Christ Church, Oxford, tenable by scholars from Shrewsbury and the other five schools mentioned in the will, and an annual prize of 100l. to be competed for by boys from the six several schools. The exhibitions are distributable primarily among the several schools in certain proportions, but, if there are not scholars at any school up to a certain standard, the exhibitions applicable to that school are thrown open to boys at the other schools. In fact, recently, about four-fifths of the exhibitions have been held by Shrewsbury boys.

The Charity Commissioners have recently taken steps to make a new scheme for the administration of the charity. This was a summons by the present trustees of the charity, asking in effect that the applicants might be at liberty to bring in a scheme of their own, and for directions. Shrewsbury School is one of the schools dealt with as a public school under the Public Schools Act, 1868, and, therefore, is generally exempted from the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners. The question was in substance, whether the Charity Commissioners had jurisdiction under the Endowed Schools Acts (subject only to appeal to the Privy Council), or whether, by reason of Shrewsbury School (a public school under the Public Schools Act, 1868) having an interest in the charity, the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners was excluded by the Endowed Schools Act, 1869. The point was also raised that the object of the charity was not the "maintenance" of the several schools, and, therefore, not within the Endowed Schools Acts.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the Charity Commissioners.

Ingle Joyce, for the Attorney-General.

NORTH, J., held that the word "maintenance" used in the Endowed Schools Act, as applied to endowments for the maintenance of schools, was not confined to direct maintenance of the school but extended to a provision to enable scholars from the school to go to a University, and that the exhibitions were part of the "endowment" of the schools, but that as the benefit of the endowment was not confined to Shrewsbury School, but extended to other schools which were not "public schools," the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners under the Endowed Schools Acts, 1869, 1873, was not excluded. The trustees could not, therefore, proceed with their own scheme.

Debtor and Creditor—Shareholder—Testator—Call on Shares—Legal Personal Representative—Residuary Legatee—Administration—Fraudulent Conveyance—Defeating Creditors—18 Eliz. c. 5.

R. Troughton died in October, 1889, possessed of 500 shares of 5l. each in the plaintiff company, on which 3l. 10s. then remained uncalled up. By his will he gave all his property to his wife the defendant, Mrs. Troughton, and in November, 1889, administration was granted to her with the will annexed; whereupon she possessed herself of his personal estate, which was of considerable amount, but she did not have the shares transferred into her name. On the 10th of April, 1893, the plaintiffs gave Mrs. Troughton notice of a call of 1l. per share. This fact she communicated to a friend, Miss Lightly; and on the 15th of April, 1893, they both consulted a solicitor, with the result that on the 17th three deeds were executed whereby Mrs. Troughton assigned the whole of her personal estate, except the shares, to Miss Lightly, the consideration being expressed to be the covenants entered into by Miss Lightly to indemnify Mrs. Troughton against all liabilities and to provide her with board, lodging, and wearing apparel and amenities suitable to her position, and on her death to provide a decent funeral. Mrs. Troughton having failed to pay the call, the plaintiffs recovered judgment in the Queen's Bench Division against her as administratrix of her husband, for 500l. and costs, and then, as she had denuded herself of all her available property, brought this action against both Miss Lightly claiming to have the deeds declared fraudulent and void under the statute 18 Eliz. c. 5, and the debt paid out of the testator's estate; and, if necessary, administration.

Marten, Q. C., and O. L. Clare, for the plaintiffs.

Cooper Willis, Q. C., Warmington, Q. C., and Ross-Innes, the defendants, contended that the claim was not a debt due to the testator's death; that no claim having been made for four years after the death, Mrs. Troughton was entitled to assent to the legacy to herself, and that, as she had done so, she thus made the personal estate absolutely her own property, and was no longer subject to any debts or liabilities of the testator.

KEKEWICH, J., said that, as legal personal representative Mrs. Troughton was bound to administer her husband's estate according to law, and that as residuary legatee she took what was left after due administration, and no more—that is to say, the whole of the estate less the debts, the word "debts" including liabilities of the testator which sooner or later may have to be discharged. Except in due course of administration she could not part with any part of the estate without making proper provision for those debts. It was impossible for the legal personal representative, notwithstanding that he was a residuary legatee, could, in due course of administration, transfer over the whole estate to another person for his, the legatee's own benefit, and then say to a creditor of the testator, "The estate is gone, and I have not wherewith to pay." True, the estate was gone, but not according to law. The testator's estate in the hands of Mrs. Troughton still remained available for the payment of his debts. These deeds must be declared void as against the plaintiffs, and there must be the ordinary accounts in a creditor's action. What was wanted would go in payment of the debts, and what was not wanted for that purpose would go according to the provisions of the deeds. The plaintiffs were entitled to be paid the full amount of their debt, both principal and interest, together with the costs of this action.

On a summons taken out by the official receiver and liquidator, under sect. 10 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, and asking for a declaration that certain persons had been guilty of misfeasance and were liable to pay moneys to the company in respect thereof, the applicant proposed to read the deposition of a witness taken at a public examination under sect. 8 of the Act, not only against the witness himself, but against such of the respondents as had had the opportunity of being present at and taking part in the examination; and relied on rule 27 of the Companies Winding-up Rules, April, 1892, and on Instituts of Patent Agents v. Lockwood (ante, p. 105). The respondents objected to the deposition being read against them on the ground that the rule was ultra vires, inasmuch as it was not made "for carrying into effect the object of the Act" of 1890, sect. 8, sub-sect. 7, of which only enables the deposition of a witness at a public examination to "be used in evidence against him."

Vaughan Williams, J., said that rule 27 of April, 1892, was not ultra vires. He had only to decide that there was no such conflict between a rule purporting to be made under sect. 26 of the Act of 1890 and the enactment contained in sect. 8, sub-sect. 7, of the same Act, as to call on him to hold that the rule, in so far as it allowed the deposition to be read, was controlled by the words of the Act. He had not to say what was the proper canon to be applied when the rules and the Act were in conflict, or to say whether a rule was valid when it was drawn in manifest contravention of the principles on which the law of England is founded. Some of the observations made in the case cited seemed at first sight rather to tend in that direction; but it was to be hoped that was not their real meaning. If the rule laid it down that a witness's deposition was to be absolute evidence against persons other than himself, the question whether it was valid would require serious consideration; but in effect the rule only said that the deposition was to be treated like an affidavit—that is to say, the witness must be produced for cross-examination if his attendance was required.

Company—Winding-up—Official Receiver and Liquidator—Proceedings in Name of—Indemnity.

In this case a misfeasance summons was taken out in the name of the official receiver and liquidator, but really by certain persons who had given the official receiver and liquidator an indemnity against the costs. At the hearing the summons was dismissed with costs.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and T. Boston Bruce, in support of the summons.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said he did not intend to blame the official receiver on the present occasion because he had allowed his name to be used, on an indemnity being given, before his Lordship had made observations as to the practice. But the practice ought not to be continued—at any rate, unless the official receiver had satisfied himself, by taking counsel's opinion, as to the propriety of the proceedings—because as soon as he allowed his name to be so used, he ceased to be master of the litigation and to have control over the proceedings.

Ex parte NATIONAL INSURANCE COMPANY.

Bankruptcy—Disclaimer by Trustee of Shares in a Company—Proof for Damages caused by Disclaimer.

The bankrupt on the 2nd of June, 1893, the date of the receiving order against him, held 1000 shares of 5*l.* each in the National Insurance Company, on which only 10*s.* per share had been paid up. In July, 1893, a call of 1*l.* per share was made, and shortly before the call became payable the trustee in bankruptcy disclaimed the shares. In September the company went into liquidation, and the liquidator lodged a proof against the bankrupt's estate for 4500*l.*, being the whole amount unpaid on the shares. The trustee admitted the proof for 500*l.*, the amount of the call, but rejected the rest of the proof. The liquidator then tendered a fresh proof for the 4000*l.* as damages caused by the disclaimer, which the trustee rejected. The liquidator appealed.

Moulton, Q.C., and Scrutton, for the liquidator.

Reed, Q.C., and Whately, for the trustee.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., reversed the decision of the trustee. The liquidator was entitled to prove against the bankrupt's estate for the damage caused by the disclaimer. If there had been no disclaimer, the liquidator would have had a right of proof for the whole amount unpaid on the shares, as it was probable under the circumstances that that sum would be required, and would be called up for the purposes of the liquidation, and it did not appear that the shares were of any value. The proof must be allowed.

REG. v. SILVERLOOK.

July 28.

Criminal Law—False Pretences—Form of Indictment.

Case stated by the chairman of the Worcestershire Quarter Sessions.

The defendant was tried upon an indictment for obtaining a cheque by false pretences. The first count was admittedly good; the second count charged that the defendant, by causing to be inserted in a newspaper a fraudulent advertisement (setting it out) did falsely pretend to the subjects of Her Majesty the Queen that (setting out the false pretence), by means of which last-mentioned false pretence he obtained a cheque from Rosa Alice Coates. The defendant's counsel applied before plea to have the second count quashed as being bad in law, upon the ground that it was not stated that the false pretence was made to any particular person; but this objection was overruled. The defendant was convicted, and the verdict of guilty was entered generally, and not separately on each count.

*Le Marchant, for the defendant, contended that a count for obtaining money, &c., by false pretences must contain an allegation that the false pretence was made to a definite person, and that the allegation of a false pretence made to all the Queen's subjects was too vague, and could not be cured by the subsequent averment that the cheque was obtained from a particular person. He cited Reg. v. Sowerby ([1894] 2 Q. B. 117).*

O. F. Vachell, for the prosecution, contended that, though being no intention at the time of advertising to deceive any particular person, the averment was sufficient; that the count stated the real facts; and that it should be inferred from the averment that the money had been obtained from a particular person that the false pretence had been made to her.

THE COURT (Lord Russell of Killowen, C.J., Mathew, and Vaughan Williams, and Kennedy, JJ.) held that the count, though inartistically drawn, was sufficient, and distinguished Reg. v. Sowerby on the ground that in that case both the essential averments of the person to whom the false pretence was made, and the person from whom the money was obtained, were wanting.

Conviction affirmed.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. D. In re McHENRY. July 27.
 McDERMOTT v. BOYD
 LEVITA'S CLAIM.

Bankruptcy—Annulment of Adjudication with Consent of Creditors—Purchase of Debts of Creditors—Secret Agreement with one Creditor—Validity—Fraud on Bankruptcy Law.

Appeal from a decision of North, J., reported [1894] 2 Ch. 428.

A bankrupt under the Act of 1869, desiring to obtain the annulment of his bankruptcy, induced some of his creditors to assign their debts to two trustees, who were as assignees of the debts to consent to the annulment. The debts were accordingly assigned in consideration of sums paid by the trustees to the creditors out of money provided by a third person, who had also an interest in procuring the annulment of the bankruptcy. On the petition of the bankrupt the Court made an order annulling the bankruptcy with the consent of the persons in whom the debts which had been proved were vested. One of the creditors whose proof had been admitted in the bankruptcy for 25,000*l.* assigned his debt to the two trustees by a deed in which the consideration for the assignment was expressed to be 2000*l.*, and the schedule to the petition for annulment also contained a statement to this effect. The creditor had in fact agreed with the bankrupt to execute this assignment on the written undertaking of the bankrupt to pay him a further sum of 6000*l.* at a future date. This agreement was not made known to the Court or to the other creditors at the time when the petition for the annulment of the bankruptcy was heard. The bankrupt having died, the creditor claimed to prove against his estate for 6000*l.* North, J., held that the agreement as to the payment of the 6000*l.* ought to have been disclosed in the deed of assignment, that the deed was designed to conceal the real facts from the Court and the other creditors, and that the claim ought to be rejected. The claimant appealed.

Finlay, Q.C., and A. C. Clouston, for the appellant.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., Lindley, L.J., and Davey, L.J.) allowed the appeal. The argument that this agreement as to the 6000*l.* could not be sustained on the ground that it was concealed from the Court and from the creditors was not well founded. There was no duty to communicate to the Court anything beyond the fact that all the creditors had consented to the annulment. Assuming that the statement made to the Court as to the consideration was false, it was a mis-statement as to an immaterial fact, and that could never be a ground for voiding a transaction. There was, therefore, no ground for saying that the Court was deceived. Nor were the other creditors prejudiced. If this had been a case in which all the creditors were understood to be acting on a common basis, any creditor who was secretly bargaining for better terms than the rest could not maintain the transaction; or again, if any bargain made by any creditor with the debtor were to be kept back in order to induce other creditors to consent to an annulment on the supposition that such creditor was receiving less than he was, that would be a fraud on the creditors. But there was no suggestion of that kind. Moreover, there was here no evidence that the claimant was a party to any concealment. This case was distinguishable from Jackman v. Mitchell (13 Ves. 581) and Hall v. Dyson (17 Q. B. 785), and was within the principle of Smith v. Salsmann (9 Ex. 535).

Practice—Time for Appealing—Interlocutory Order—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LVIII, r. 15—Rules of November, 1893.

Appeal against an order of North, J., pronounced on the 9th of May, and passed and entered on the 12th of June, 1894. The notice of appeal was served on the 30th of June. The action was for the administration of the estate of a testatrix. The order on further consideration was made on the 17th of January, 1893, and by it the subsequent further consideration of the action was adjourned. The order appealed from was made upon a summons by the plaintiffs, the executors of the will, and it declared that, as between certain specific legatees and the residuary legatees under the will of the testatrix, the charge of certain annuities must be borne exclusively by the property bequeathed to the residuary legatees, and gave the plaintiffs liberty to make certain payments to Charles Franklin, one of the annuitants, accordingly.

Everitt, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the appellant.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and P. S. Gregory, for Franklin, took the preliminary objection, that the order was an interlocutory one, and that the notice of appeal ought to have been given within fourteen days from the 12th of June, and was therefore given too late.

Method, for other parties.

Arthur Dryden, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lindley, Lopes, and Davey, L.J.J.) held that the order was an interlocutory one. They accordingly allowed the preliminary objection, and dismissed the appeal.

Patent—Exclusive License—Revocation—Non-payment of Royalty—Injunction.

Appeal from a decision of Romer, J. (noted ante, p. 110).

By deed dated in February, 1891, and made between the defendant of the one part and the plaintiffs of the other part, after reciting that the defendant was the proprietor of certain letters patent for improvements in the apparatus for effecting circulation and supply of water in marine boilers, the defendant, in consideration of 150*l.* paid to him by the plaintiffs, and of the royalties thereafter reserved, granted to the plaintiffs the sole and exclusive license to use and exercise his inventions for the residue of the term of the letters patent, and to manufacture and sell all circulators manufactured according to the letters patent when and as the plaintiffs should think fit. And the plaintiffs covenanted (1) to pay the royalties therein mentioned; (2) to advertise and push the sale of the said invention; (3) to keep proper accounts of the circulators manufactured and sold under the license. And it was thereby agreed that the plaintiffs might determine the license on giving six months' notice. The deed contained no express power for the defendant to revoke the license. The defendant, by notice in writing, purported to revoke the license on the ground of the non-payment of the royalties and of other alleged breaches of the covenants, and claimed to manufacture and sell his invention as though the license had not been granted. The plaintiffs brought an action for an injunction to restrain the defendant from directly or indirectly exercising the invention during the continuance of the license. Romer, J., held that the non-payment of the royalties did not entitle the defendant to revoke the license; that the other alleged breaches were not proved, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to an injunction. The defendant appealed.

A. R. Rudall, for the appellant, contended, first, that the document in question was a mere license, revocable at the will of the licensor: Heap v. Hartley (42 Ch. D. 461); Wood v. Leadbitter (13 M. & W. 838); secondly, that the continuance of the license was conditional upon the performance of the conditions in the deed.

Haldane, Q.C., and W. N. Lawson, for the respondents, contended that effect ought to be given to the intention of the parties that the license should last during the term of the patent.

THE COURT (Lindley, L.J., Lopes, L.J., and Davey, L.J.), dismissed the appeal. They held, upon the construction of the license, that there was an implied covenant by the defendant not to revoke. The obligations imposed by the document were inconsistent with the idea of its being a revocable license. They also agreed that the non-payment of the royalties did not entitle the defendant to revoke.

From Ch. D. NUTTER v. HOLLAND. Aug. 2.

Practice—Order for Payment into Court—Money not in the hands of Trustees.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Vice-Chancellor of the Palatine Court of Lancaster. An application was made by originating motion by the plaintiffs, under the order of the Palatine Court, which corresponds to Order LV., r. 3 (d), that the defendant, who was a trustee, should pay into Court a sum of money which had been received by him and for which he was responsible, but which he had not then in his hands. The Vice-Chancellor refused to make the order, and the plaintiffs appealed.

Hopkinson, Q.C., and Mansfield, for the appellants, cited In re Chapman's Estate (Weekly Notes, 1886, p. 17).

Oozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Whinney, for the defendant.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that he was of opinion that such an order as the plaintiffs asked for could not be made on an originating summons or motion under Order LV., r. 3 (d). That rule meant what it said, and only applied to money in the hands of the trustee. He thought that Kay, J., went too far in In re Chapman in the order which he made in that case. The application in the present case ought to have been made under Order LV., r. 4 (c), which sanctions an application by originating summons for "the administration of the trust." In the present case the defendant wished to have the accounts taken, and the best course would be to vary the order of the Vice-Chancellor and to order an administration of the trust, and to reserve the costs of the motion and the appeal to be dealt with by the Vice-Chancellor.

LOPES and DAVEY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J. (ante, p. 118), by which he held that two sureties who had paid the principal debt could prove against the estate of their co-surety for the whole amount of the debt, although they could only receive dividends to the amount of one-third. The trustee of the deed of arrangement appealed.

T. B. Napier, for the appellant.

Bankruptcy—Deceased Debtor—Order for Administration of Estate in Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Petition presented before Constitution of Personal Representative—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 125.

Appeal against an order made by Mr. Registrar Linklater for the administration in bankruptcy, under sect. 125 of the Bank ruptcy Act, 1883, of the estate of W. Sleet, who died intestate on the 8th of May, 1894.

The petition for administration was presented by creditors on the 8th of June, 1894. At that time no administration of the estate of the intestate had been granted. Leave was given to serve the petition upon the widow of the intestate, who was alleged to have possessed herself of his assets. On the 22nd of June the widow, who had been served with the petition, gave notice of her intention to dispute the statements therein contained, and in particular that the estate of the intestate was insufficient to pay his debts. On the 23rd of June administration of the estate was granted to the widow. On the 28th of June the registrar made the order for administration in bankruptcy. The administratrix appealed.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Gregson Ellis, for the appellant, argued that, as the petition was presented before a legal personal representative of the intestate had been constituted, the Court had no jurisdiction to make the order.

Muir Mackenzie, and F. M. Abrahams, for the petitioners.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Kay and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) held that it was sufficient that a legal personal representative had been constituted before the order was made, and that there was jurisdiction to make it. Upon the evidence they held that the order had been rightly made, and they dismissed the appeal.

Lis Pendens—Mortgage of Book Debts—Foreclosure Action—Receiver—2 & 3 Vict. c. 11, s. 7.

Appeal from a decision of Chitty, J., by which he held that the doctrine of lis pendens could not be confined to real estate, but applied to an action for foreclosure of a mortgage of book debts. The London Banking Corporation, who claimed priority notwithstanding the registration of the lis pendens, appealed.

Levett, Q.C., and Rowden, for the plaintiffs.

Ward Coldridge, for the trustee in bankruptcy.

LENDLEY, L.J., who stated that the Lord Chancellor agreed in the judgment about to be delivered, said that the plaintiffs contended, and the learned judge had held, that as the action to recover the debts was registered as a lis pendens, and the defendants had been restrained from dealing with them, the title of the defendants, which would otherwise have had the priority, could not be allowed to prevail over that of the plaintiffs. He was of opinion that this doctrine was unsound, and could not be supported. His Lordship then considered the leading authorities on the subject of lis pendens, and said that, as far as goods and chattels were concerned, the doctrine that a defendant could not make a title to them, pending litigation to recover them, had no foundation in common law, and that equity must allow the law. Any such doctrine would practically embarrass ordinary trade, and bankers and others could not safely make advances on bills of lading, or upon stock or share certificates, without making searches in the Judgment Registry Office. All the reported cases on lis pendens related to realty, and there was no case applying to personal property except leasehold property. The appeal must be allowed.

TUCKER v. TUCKER.

Trust—Unauthorized Investment—Loan to a Firm—Change in Firm—Breach of Trust—Payment of Interest by Firm—Liability of Partners—Statute of Limitations—Mercantile Law Amendment Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 97), s. 14.

This was an appeal from a decision of Romer, J. ([1894] 1 Ch. 724).

A testator, who died in 1870, by his will authorized his trustees to invest his personal estate either by placing it on deposit in the hands of the firm of Baker, Tucker & Co., if they should be willing to receive it, at interest; but if not, then upon usual securities with liberty to vary investments. At the time of his death the testator had money on deposit with the firm, which his trustees, Howitt and Kayess, continued after his death, and they allowed it to remain with the firm, although a change of partners took place. Romer, J., held that it was a breach of trust to continue the loan after a change took place in the members constituting the firm for which the trustees were responsible.

H. Tucker and W. Tucker were the members of the firm at the time of the testator's death. H. Tucker died, and W. Tucker carried on the business with other partners till 1888, when W. Tucker retired. The remaining partners continued to carry on the business till 1891, when the firm was turned into a limited company. Down to that date the firm paid interest to the testator's estate on the loan by cheques drawn by the firm. The plaintiffs in the action were the beneficiaries under the testator's will. Romer, J., held that the payment of interest by W. Tucker's partners after his retirement kept the debt alive against him, and that the Statute of Limitations was no defence to the plaintiffs' claim.

Two appeals were brought against this judgment, one by W. Tucker, and the other by the [executors of Kayess, the trustee (his co-trustee having become bankrupt).

Neville, Q.C., and P. F. Stokes, for W. Tucker.

Haldane, Q.C., and G. F. Hart, for the executors of Kayess.

Chadwyck Healey, Q.C., and W. B. Heath, for the plaintiffs.

HERSCHL, L.C., said, that with respect to the appeal by the executors of Kayess, the question whether any liability attached to his estate for his breach of trust depended upon the inquiry whether the estate of the testator had really been diminished by it. If W. Tucker discharged the debt, no loss would accrue to the testator's estate. Therefore the Court could express no opinion as to the points raised in that appeal until the result of that inquiry was known. The appeal must therefore stand over pending that inquiry.

With respect to the appeal of W. Tucker, he agreed with the learned judge that the case was taken out of the Statute of Limitations by the payment of interest by the firm after W. Tucker's retirement, and that he must be held responsible for the loan.

LINDLEY and DAVEY, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

EARP v. BRIGGS.

July 31.

Administration—Insolvent Estate—Executor—Right of Retainer—Hinde Palmer's Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 46).

This was the further consideration of an action by a creditor for the administration of the testator's estate, which was insolvent: the assets were now to be distributed among the creditors under the following circumstances. It appeared that the testator died owing a specialty debt of 1937*l.*, and a simple contract debt of 1146*l.*, to his executrix; he also owed the Union Bank, Derby, a specialty debt of 1745*l.*; his other simple contract debts amounted to 7854*l.*, making the total amount of simple contract debts 9000*l.*; his assets were about 4700*l.* The executrix claimed to exercise her right of retainer in respect of both debts, and minutes had accordingly been prepared which allowed the executrix to retain her specialty debt in full, first, out of the whole assets; the Union Bank then took a dividend on their specialty debt out of the balance; out of the second balance the executrix then retained her simple contract debt in full, and the residue was distributed in a dividend to the other creditors.

Byrne, Q.C., and Lyttelton Chubb, for the executrix, submitted that the method of distribution proposed by the minutes was correct.

Willis Bund, for one of the simple contract creditors, argued that the distribution gave too large a dividend to the bank, and put the other creditors in an unfair position, whereas Hinde Palmer's Act, 1869, was intended to put all the creditors upon the same footing.

CHITTY, J., said he should follow the principle of In re Jones (31 Ch. D. 440) in the distribution of this estate. True it was, that in this case there happened to be two specialty creditors, one of whom was the executrix, who happened also to be a simple contract creditor too; but that made no difference to the principle, which appeared to have been correctly worked out by the plaintiff in the minutes. The order would therefore be, Retain the specialty debt of 1937*l.* out of the entirety, and apportion the balance between the specialty and simple contract creditors in the proportion of 1745*l.* to 9000*l.*; then, as the executrix could not retain further against the specialty creditor, the Bank would take the whole of the specialty apportionment the rest would go among the simple contract creditors but for the executrix's right of retainer against them; consequently she was entitled to retain her debt of 1146*l.* out of the second balance; and after this, what was left would go amongst simple contract creditors. The result was, that they would get but a very small dividend; but, upon the principle of In re Jones, this method of distribution seemed to be the right one.

Vendor and Purchaser—Wilful Default—Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 78), s. 9—Compensation.

This was a purchaser's summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act to have it determined (1) whether the purchaser was liable to pay interest under a condition of sale, providing that if the contract should not be completed on the 29th of September, 1893, from any cause other than the vendors' wilful default, the purchaser should pay interest at 5 per cent., and (2) whether the purchaser was entitled to compensation by reason of the default of the vendors in not completing on the stipulated day. The property sold was partly copyhold. The vendors were selling as mortgagees of one Rayner, who had not been admitted to the copyhold premises. To complete the conveyance it was necessary that Rayner should be admitted, surrender to the vendors, and that they should be admitted.

The vendors did not take any step to get in the legal interest in the copyhold till the 10th of October, 1893, when they opened negotiations with the lord of the manor. They were admitted on the 14th of December, 1893; the conveyance was completed on the 7th of January, 1894. The purchaser insisted that the vendors were in default till the middle of December, and that no interest ought, therefore, to be paid on the unpaid purchase-money, which had been placed on deposit down to that date, other than the interest earned on the deposit interest. The purchaser claimed compensation for loss occasioned by delay in completing, for loss of opportunity of getting rid of her former house, and loss of opportunity of letting a part of the property purchased.

NORTH, J., held, that the vendors were not entitled to interest beyond deposit interest for the period between the 29th of September and the 17th of December. That the loss sustained by the purchaser was in the nature of damages, and could not be assessed as compensation under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, s. 9.

Practise—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXV., r. 4—Reasonable Cause of Action—Partition Action—Parties—Mortgage.

The plaintiff was entitled to one undivided share of the real estate devised by the will of W. S. C. Standish, deceased, subject as to the whole estate to two overriding mortgages created in the lifetime of the testator, and as to his undivided share subject to an annuity created by his marriage settlement and a mortgage made by himself to Thomas Brewis.

One of the overriding mortgages was vested in the Law Life Assurance Society, and affected part of the testator's estate. The other mortgage was vested in trustees called Hermon's trustees.

The defendants to the action were the persons interested in the two undivided thirds other than the plaintiff's third, the Law Life Assurance Society, Hermon's trustees, and the plaintiff's mortgagee, Brewis.

Two motions were made, one on the part of the defendants, Brewis and Hermon's trustees, the other on the part of the Law Life Assurance Society, that the statement of claim might be struck out and all further proceedings stayed against the applicants respectively, or, in the alternative, that the action might be dismissed against them.

Metropolitan Vestry—Misapplication of Rates—Injunction.

A conference of representatives of the vestries and local boards of South London resolved (1) that in the opinion of the conference the question of the right of the Lambeth Company to charge for water used in baths in private dwelling-houses was not fairly raised in the case of Walker v. Lambeth Water Company (before Chitty, J., April 11th, 1894), and that immediate steps should be taken to obtain a final declaration on the subject; (2) that pending obtaining a final declaration of law, the consumers of water supplied by the Lambeth Water Company should be advised to continue to refuse to agree to pay the charge for fixed baths; (3) that each vestry should be asked to contribute to the expense of obtaining such declaration of law.

At a meeting of the Camberwell Vestry, held on the 25th of April, 1894, it was resolved that the report of the conference should be received and printed, and the recommendation of the conference that the vestry should contribute to the cost of obtaining a declaration of law should be adopted. The vestry had spent money out of the rates in printing and circulating in the parish of Camberwell notices with the object of raising again the question of law whether the Lambeth Water Company are entitled to charge for a supply of water to fixed baths, and in advising those persons who used fixed baths to resist making any payment for water so supplied.

The plaintiffs were the Attorney-General at the relation of the Lambeth Water Company, and the Lambeth Water Company suing as ratepayers in Camberwell. They claimed a declaration that the defendant vestry were not entitled to expend money out of the rates in contributing to the cost of obtaining the declaration of law, or in doing any other act with the object of aiding persons to resist payment of the charge for fixed baths, and an injunction to restrain such expenditure.

The action was brought on on motion for an interlocutory injunction on the part of the Lambeth Water Company.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the motion.

Samuel Hall, Q.C., and Stokes, contra.

North, J., held that the vestry were acting illegally in spending money out of the rates for the purpose of inducing persons not to pay the charge for a fixed bath, and granted an injunction.

Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Income or Capital—Shares in Company—Dividend—Exercise by Trustees of Option to take New Shares in lieu of Dividend.

The testator, who died in 1889, by his will gave his residuary estate to trustees upon trust for his widow for life, and after her death for division amongst other persons. At the date of his death the testator was possessed of shares in a company. The trustees were empowered to postpone the conversion of any part of the estate so long as they thought fit. In March, 1893, the company in question passed a special resolution to increase its capital by the issue of new shares which the directors were empowered to offer to the existing shareholders in payment or part payment of any dividend for the time being. At a subsequent meeting of the company a dividend was declared out of profits. Half of this was paid in cash, and in respect of the other half new shares were offered to the shareholders, which they might take, if they liked, in lieu of cash. If any shareholder declined the allotment of new shares, the whole of the dividend was paid to him in cash. The trustees of the will accepted the allotment, treating it as the property of the tenant for life, and allowed the new shares to be allotted to her. On her death in 1894 the question was raised upon a summons whether the new shares, or the proceeds of the sale thereof, or any and what part thereof respectively, ought to be treated as capital or income of the testator's estate.

STIRLING, J., held, first, upon the evidence, that the company intended to distribute its accumulated profits as dividend, and not to capitalize them, and, secondly, upon the authority of Bouch v. Sproule (12 App. Cas. 385) and Rowley v. Unwin (2 K. & J. 138) that the tenant for life was not entitled to any portion of the proceeds of sale of the shares beyond the amount of the dividend which was applied by the trustees in taking up the allotment; the balance of the proceeds of sale must be treated as capital of the estate.

HAMILTON v. VAUGHAN-SHEERIN ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING COMPANY.

Infant—Contract to take Shares in Company—Reputation—Winding-up—Right to recover Money paid for Shares.

The defendant company was registered on the 16th of August, 1890, under the Companies Acts, and issued a prospectus, on the faith of which the plaintiff, who was then an infant, applied for shares, and paid 20l. on application. On the 6th of October twenty shares were allotted to her, and on the 18th of October she paid 40l., the amount payable on allotment. On the 18th of November she wrote to the secretary of the company requiring repayment of the 60l. paid by her; but nothing further was done by her or the company until the 19th of May, 1892, when she issued the writ in this action, claiming, (1) a declaration that the allotment was void; (2) the removal of her name from the register of shareholders; (3) repayment of the 60l. with interest; (4) an injunction restraining the company from enforcing any calls made or to be made upon her in respect of the shares.

On the 10th of June, 1892, the company went into voluntary liquidation; and on the 27th of June the liquidator removed the plaintiff's name from the register of shareholders.

The question upon this summons was whether she was entitled to recover the 60l. paid by her to the company.

Reginald Hughes, for the plaintiff.

P. F. Wheeler, for the defendant.

STIRLING, J., held, upon the authority of Corpe v. Overton (10 Bing. 252), that the true rule was to consider whether the infant had derived any advantage under the contract. No dividend had been declared by the company, and the only advantage which she got was the allotment of the shares and the fact that for a time her name was upon the register of the company. That was not such an advantage as was contemplated in Corpe v. Overton; and, there being no consideration, the plaintiff was entitled to recover by proof in the winding-up.

Contract—Construction—Covenant to pay a Sum of Money or transfer Shares in Company to be formed by Covenantor—Company formed with Preference and Ordinary Shares—Breach—Right of Covenantee to recover Sum of Money.

The defendant by deed, dated the 2nd of December, 1893, covenanted within twelve months from that date to pay the sum of 1000l., or transfer into the names of the plaintiffs 1000l. worth of fully paid-up shares in a company to be formed by the defendant within the same period for working certain mines, the capital of such company not to exceed 12,000l.

The defendant formed the company, and it was registered on the 20th of May, 1893, with a capital of 12,000l., divided into 600 (A), or preference, and 600 (B), or ordinary, shares of 10l. each. On the 23rd of November, 1893, the defendant executed to the plaintiffs a transfer of 100 (B) shares, purporting to be fully paid, but which had not been paid for in cash. No contract had been registered in respect of these shares before issue, as required by sect. 25 of the Companies Act, 1867. The shares of the company had never had any marketable value. Under these circumstances the plaintiffs declined to accept the shares, and now claimed payment of 1000l. in cash.

Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and Griffith Jones, for the plaintiffs.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the defendant.

STIRLING, J., held that the shares which the defendant had contracted to transfer were to be shares in a company in which all the shareholders should stand on a footing of equality. In forming the company with preference and ordinary shares the defendant had put it out of his power to comply with the branch of the covenant which related to the transfer of shares, and was therefore, on the authority of Studholme v. Mansel (1 Ld. Raym. 279), bound to perform the other alternative of paying the 1000l.

Will—Construction—"Die without leaving any male issue"—Estate tail or in fee simple—Wills Act (1 Vict. c. 26), s. 20.

A testator by his will made two specific devises of freehold hereditaments to each of two separate devisees, "his heirs assigns," with a proviso that if the devisees or either of them should "die without leaving any male issue," then the property so given and devised to them should after their respective deaths go to a class of persons in the will indicated. The question was whether the devisees took estates in tail or estates in fee simple, subject to executory devises over in the event of their respective deaths without leaving male issue.

J. Paul Rylands, and P. O. Lawrence, for the devisees, contended that sect. 29 of the Wills Act did not apply to a gift over on death without leaving "male" issue; that consequently an indefinite failure of issue was imported, and that the devisees took estates tail.

Roger B. Lawrence, contra, relied on Upton v. Hardman (Ir. R. 9 Eq. 157).

KEKEWICH, J., considered that, the question being one of title, the Irish case (decided in 1874) ought to be followed, and held that sect. 29 of the Wills Act was applicable, and the devisees took estates in fee simple subject to executory devises over.

H. Shepherd, by his will dated the 3rd of October, 1837, bequeathed to trustees 10,000*l.* New 3*l.* per cent. Bank Annuities in trust to apply the dividends in certain payments to his wife, and after her death, he directed that the said sum should be sold, and the proceeds equally divided between forty-six charities therein named; and he gave his residuary estate to his sister and her son equally.

By a codicil dated the 28th of February, 1891, the testator, after reciting the above bequest and that the said Bank Annuities had been converted into 2*l.* 15*s.* per cent. Consolidated Stock, bequeathed to his trustees 15,000*l.* 2*l.* 15*s.* per cent. Consolidated Stock then standing in his name, upon trust to apply the dividends in making the payments to his wife directed by his will; and he further directed that, in addition to those payments, his trustees should out of such dividends, during the life of his wife, make further annual payments to the charities therein mentioned, and in all other respects he confirmed his said will.

The testator's wife died in January, 1892, and he himself died in March, 1894. At the date of his will, the testator had standing in his name 14,000*l.* New 3 per cents., subsequently converted, under the National Debt (Conversion) Act, 1888, into 2½ per cent. New Consols. At the date of his codicil, and of his death, he had standing in his name 15,000*l.* 2½ per cent. New Consols, of which the converted 14,000*l.* formed part.

This was a summons by the residuary legatees against St. George's Hospital (as representing the several charities named by the testator) and the trustees and executors, to have it determined whether the legacy of 10,000*l.* New 3 per cents. given by the will had failed by reason of the conversion; and (2) whether the charities had any and what interest in the 15,000*l.* 2½ per cent. New Consols bequeathed by the codicil.

Warmington, Q.C. and Methold, for the plaintiffs.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for St. George's Hospital.

KEKEWICH, J., said the bequest to the charities by the will had not been revoked by the codicil. The gift was demonstrative, not specific, and therefore the latter part of sect. 25, sub-sect. 2, of the National Debt (Conversion) Act, 1888, had no application. He adopted Mr. Justice North's explanation of the sub-section in Duke of Northumberland v. Percy ([1893] 1 Ch. 298). The sub-section had no doubt been inserted to meet this particular case, which fell within the first branch of the sub-section. He accordingly held that there was a valid gift of 10,000*l.* 2½ per cent. New Consols in trust for the charities. The costs of the application would come out of the residue.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said that in future any scheme under the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870, must provide that the new company should undertake to obey the order of the Court as to any proceedings which the Court might think it right to have taken against officers of the old company. His Lordship's experience had satisfied him that, unless the scheme contained some positive provisions, not only that proceedings might be taken, but also that a portion of the assets transferred to the new company might be applied in payment of the costs of such proceedings, if there were any delinquent directors of the old company, they might escape altogether. In future he would not sanction any scheme which did not contain such clauses. These remarks, of course, would not apply when a company was perfectly solvent and what was being done was a mere operation of selling to a new company.

Company—Winding-up—Official Receiver—Proceedings in Name of.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., again alluded to the practice of Official Receivers allowing their names to be used in proceedings by other persons, simply on such persons giving an indemnity (see In re Anglo-Sardinian Antimony Company, ante, p. 156). His Lordship could not say too emphatically that the idea that such a practice should be continued was altogether wrong. The name of the Official Receiver should not be allowed to be used except in a clear case, and in doing so he ought never to act solely on an opinion of counsel obtained by the persons moving him, as it was not an independent opinion. His Lordship did not say that in all cases the Official Receiver should require an opinion of counsel; he should act on his own judgment. If there was a committee of inspection, or a committee representing the creditors, and such committee was of opinion that proceedings ought to be taken, the Official Receiver might act on such opinion.

Case stated by a metropolitan police magistrate.

The respondent was the owner of a building erected on the side of a new street, exceeding in height the distance from the external wall of the building to the opposite side of the street, contrary to sect. 85 of the Metropolis Management Amendment Act, 1862, which imposes a penalty for offences against the Act, and in case of a continuing offence a further penalty of forty shillings for every day during which such offence shall continue after notice from the appellants.

The builders completed their contract on the 8th of February, 1893, and were afterwards convicted of erecting the building to a prohibited height (see London County Council v. Lawrence, [1893] 2 Q. B. 228).

On the 23rd of December, 1893, the appellants gave written notice to the respondent that he would be held liable to penalties if the building were continued at the prohibited height. In March, 1894, they summoned him for penalties of forty shillings for each day from the date of the notice. The magistrate held that 25 & 26 Vict. c. 102, s. 107, and 11 & 12 Vict. c. 43, s. 11, applied, and that the summons was out of time.

Poland, Q.C. (Avory, with him), for the appellants.

Dickens, Q.C. (Charles Lloyd, with him), for the respondent.

THE COURT (Mathew and Kennedy, JJ.) held that the continuance at a prohibited height, after notice, of a building already erected was a continuing offence within the meaning of the Act, that complaint had been made within six months next after the commission or discovery of the offence, and the respondent was liable.

Case remitted to magistrate.

HUFFAM v. NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway—Bye-laws—Validity—Penalty—Using Ticket not available—Absence of Fraud, or Intent to Defraud—Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (8 & 9 Vict. c. 20), ss. 103, 104, 105, 109—Regulation of Railways Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 57), s. 5, sub s. 3 (a)—Statute Law Revision Act, 1892 (55 & 56 Vict. c. 19).

Case stated by justices, raising the question of the validity of a bye-law made by the respondent railway company, by which "any passenger using or attempting to use a ticket on any day for which such ticket is not available," or which had been used on a previous journey, was made liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings.

The appellant, when travelling on the respondents' railway, gave up the return half of a return ticket which was not available for the day on which he used it. He was not guilty of fraud, and had no intent to defraud. The justices convicted him under the above bye-law.

A. T. Lawrence, for the appellant.

Craies, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Mathew and Kennedy, JJ.) held that, in the absence of fraud or intent to defraud, the appellant was not liable to be convicted, that the bye-law was invalid, and the conviction must be set aside.

Judgment for the appellant.

From Ch. D. Aug. 9.
In re GLORY PAPER MILLS COMPANY.

Company—Shares—Memorandum of Association—Signature by Member of a Firm—Allotment to Firm of same number of Shares—Companies Act, 1862, s. 23.

This was an appeal by T. M. Dunster from a decision of Vaughan Williams, J., refusing his application to have his name removed from the list of contributors for 100 shares of 10l. each in the above-mentioned company (ante, p. 147).

The appellant, who was the member of a firm which acted as agents for the company, signed the memorandum of association for 100 shares, and was named as one of the first directors of the company. Afterwards, in the name of the firm, he applied for 100 shares, and they were allotted to the firm.

Vaughan Williams, J., held that he was liable for 100 shares besides those taken by the firm.

Buckley, Q.C., and Methold, for the appellant.

Farwell, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the liquidator.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that in his opinion the learned judge was wrong. Dunster signed the memorandum of association for 100 shares in pursuance of an arrangement that the firm should take 100 shares and should be appointed agents of the company; and the application by the firm was to carry out the same arrangement. If the company chose to accept the firm as members, that was not inconsistent with Dunster's agreement to take the shares; there was only an arrangement to take one set of shares. The appeal must be allowed.

LCPEs and DAVEY, L.J.J., concurred.

SOMERSET v. LAND SECURITIES COMPANY.

Company—Deposit of Securities at Land Registry to secure Mortgage Debentures—Winding-up—Debenture-holder's Action—Order on Registrar to deliver up Securities—Mortgage Debenture Acts (28 & 29 Vict. c. 78, ss. 9, 10, 45, 46; 33 & 34 Vict. c. 20, ss. 8, 9).

This was an appeal from a decision of Wright, J. (ante, p. 129), ordering the registrar of the Land Registry to deliver up to the receiver in a debenture-holder's action all the deeds and documents belonging to the Land Securities Company which were in his possession under the Mortgage Debenture Acts. The registrar appealed.

Ingle Joyce (with whom was Sir J. Rigby, A.G.), for the appellant.

Farwell, Q.C., and Kirby, for the receiver.

Rowden, for the liquidator of the company.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that, having regard to the provisions of sect. 10 of the 28 & 29 Vict. c. 78, the Court had no jurisdiction to order the registrar to hand over the deeds to the receiver. The case could not be put higher than this, that it seemed an extremely convenient course if there were no Act of Parliament to order these documents to be handed over; but the framers of the Act did not contemplate the winding up of the company, nor did they contemplate the case of a mortgagee desiring to realize his security by exercising his power of sale. The appeal must be allowed and the order discharged.

LOPES and DAVEY, L.J.J., concurred.

COLLINGHAM v. SLOPER.

FOREIGN AND AMERICAN INVESTMENT TRUST v. SLOPER.

Company—Debenture-holders—Administration of Debenture Trust—Failure of Object of Company—Power of Court to enforce Compromise.

On the 25th of January, 1893, North, J., gave judgment in these actions, which were brought for the administration of the trusts of a sum of 200,000*l.* in the hands of certain London commissioners, as trustees for the holders of debentures issued by a Spanish railway company ([1893] 2 Ch. 96; Weekly Notes, 1893, p. 13). Pending the inquiries directed by the judge, a petition was presented by the plaintiffs in the first-named action asking the sanction of the Court to a proposed scheme for the compromise of the litigation. North, J., on the 26th of April, 1894, refused to sanction the scheme. The Spanish company now appealed from the judgment of the 25th of January, 1893, and the plaintiffs in the first-named action appealed against the order refusing to sanction the compromise. The two appeals were heard together.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Martelli, for the Spanish company.

Crackanthorpe, Q.C., and Eve, for the plaintiffs in Collingham v. Sloper.

Moulton, Q.C., Byrne, Q.C., and Macnaghten, for the plaintiffs in the other action.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., and A. B. Kirby, for two of the commissioners.

C. T. Mitchell, for the third commissioner.

Macaskie, Butcher, and G. F. Hart, for other parties.

LINDLEY, L.J., said, that under Order XVI., r. 9 (a), the Court had power to approve a compromise in the absence of some of the persons interested, and he had no hesitation in saying that the proposed compromise was beneficial. It was admitted that the railway which the company was formed to construct could not be completed, and if the rights of all the parties interested were fought out to the end it would cause endless litigation and expense. The order of North, J., refusing to sanction the compromise, would therefore be discharged and the appeal allowed. The appeal from the judgment of the 25th of January, 1893, would be dismissed.

In re CLERGY ORPHAN CORPORATION.

Charity—Consent of Charity Commissioners—Endowment—Funds voluntarily contributed for General Purposes of the Charity—16 & 17 Vict. c. 187, s. 62.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J., on a petition presented by the Clergy Orphan Corporation for payment out of Court of a sum of 5000*l.* paid into Court by the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Railway Company as part of the purchase-money of a piece of land sold to them by the corporation. The petition was opposed by the Charity Commissioners on the ground that the fund represented land which could not be sold or disposed of without their consent. The corporation were empowered by their Act to hold land without any license under the Mortmain Act, and the land in question had been purchased by them out of funds voluntarily given for the general purposes of the charity, and which might if necessary be treated and applied as income. Kekewich, J., held that he was bound by the previous decisions to hold that the land, having been purchased out of funds voluntarily subscribed, was not an endowment within the meaning of the Charitable Trusts Act, 1863 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 187), s. 62, and granted the prayer of the petition. The Charity Commissioners appealed.

Sir J. Rigby, A.-G., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the appellants. Warmington, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the corporation.

DAVEY, L.J., delivered the judgment of THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and Davey, L.JJ.). He said that it was not disputed that the funds employed in the purchase of the land arose from donations and subscriptions which the corporation might have applied to income; and they could not hold that those donations and subscriptions lost their character by being invested in Consols, or by the subsequent investment in land, the retention of which was not essential to the existence of the charity. The funds did not cease to be applicable to income at the discretion of the governors, and they had no power to fetter the discretion of their successors in this matter. The land, therefore, was not subject to the jurisdiction of the Charity Commissioners, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs, including the costs of the railway company.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

Chitty, J. KEES v. DENNY. Aug. 11.

Ecclesiastical Law—Advowson—Quare Impedit—Right of Patronage—Exchange of Livings—Usurpation—Cycle of Turns of Presentation.

By a deed of August, 1871, the perpetual right of patronage of, and of nominating a minister to the Church of All Saints, Hatching Park, was vested in, and exerciseable by, the persons respectively thereafter mentioned, viz., for the first and second turns, by a set of trustees now represented by the defendants; for the third, by trustees now represented by the plaintiffs; for the fourth and fifth, by the defendants; for the sixth, by the plaintiffs; and so on for ever in this fixed and prescribed order throughout the cycle.

The first turn was exercised by the defendants in 1871 by presenting a Mr. Wynne to the living. In 1878 Mr. Wynne exchanged with a Mr. Smith, the incumbent of another living. The exchange was carried into effect in the usual way: each incumbent resigned the living he held, and was presented by the patron to the living he took in exchange.

In 1886 a similar exchange took place between Mr. Smith and a Mr. Holland, the incumbent of another living; and on this occasion also the presentation to the Church of All Saints was made by the defendants.

In 1891 Mr. Holland resigned the living, and the defendants again presented a Mr. Mylius. In January, 1894, Mr. Mylius died; and the question now submitted for the opinion of the Court was, whether the plaintiffs or the defendants were the right persons to nominate a minister to the benefice on the present vacancy thereof.

Sir Walter Phillimore, Q.C., and A. Whitaker, for the plaintiffs, argued, that the presentations on the two exchanges ought not to be counted, and consequently that the present vacancy was the third turn, and theirs; and secondly, that if those presentations were to count, the plaintiffs were not to be deprived of their right now, because the defendants had already had too many turns.

F. H. L. Errington, for the defendants.

CHITTY, J., held that the presentations by the defendants on the exchanges must be reckoned; no authority had been cited nor so far as he was aware existed, for excluding from the computation of turns a presentation on an exchange; the result therefore was, that the third turn, which of right belonged to the plaintiffs, was exercised by the defendants wrongfully, but it was now too late to recall what had been done, for the plaintiffs could not now usurp upon the defendants, by way of retaliation, and, consequently, that the right of presentation to this benefice on the present vacancy belonged to the defendants, it being now the fifth turn.

Petition by one of the trustees of a settlement, who was also a beneficiary, asking for a vesting order.

There were three trustees of the settlement, the petitioner, W. E. Parry, and W. R. Parry. The funds comprised in the settlement consisted of some sums of India 3 per cent. Stock, which stood in the names of the three trustees. W. R. Parry had gone to Australia some years ago, and could not now be found. The petition asked that the right to call for a transfer of, and to transfer, the sums of stock, and to receive any dividends due and to accrue due thereon respectively, might vest in the petitioner and W. E. Parry alone, to be held by them upon the trusts of the settlement.

Foster Coote, for the petitioner, referred, as to the form of the order, to In re Gregson ([1893] 3 Ch. 233).

E. J. Gibbons, for W. E. Parry.

NORTH, J., said that the proper form of the order would be, that the right to call for a transfer, &c., do vest in the petitioner and W. E. Parry alone, as trustees of the settlement, and that they do transfer the sums of stock into their own names, to be held by them upon the trusts of the settlement. This was the ordinary form of order.

Aug. 9.

Contempt of Court—Committal—Ward of Court—Proceedings in Camera—Publication in Newspaper.

Motions to commit for contempt of Court the publishers of several newspapers, for having published in their respective newspapers statements relating to proceedings in camera in the matter of a female ward of Court.

On the 1st of June North, J., made an order restraining all communications between the ward and a man named Hueffer, and requiring Hueffer to attend personally before the judge on the 6th of June. Hueffer did so, and the matter was heard in camera. It was then stated that Hueffer had been married to the ward two or three weeks previously. This was afterwards proved by the production of the marriage certificate, and North, J., thereupon stayed the operation of his previous order.

On the evening of the 6th of June there appeared in the Star newspaper a paragraph to the effect that on that day a rarely romantic story had been unrolled before North, J., sitting in private, with reference to a female ward, which proceedings might have been comparatively tame but for the fact that it turned out that the lady, whose name was stated, had been married to Hueffer three weeks ago. This paragraph was supplied by a contributor named Perris, from information furnished to him by Hueffer. There were also motions to commit Perris and Hueffer. On the 7th of June a similar paragraph appeared in a newspaper called Morning, but it did not state that the proceedings were in private. This paragraph was copied into the Pall Mall Gazette of the same day, and into a paper called the People of the 8th of June. The motions to commit were made by the next friend of the ward. She was still under 21.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and George Henderson, for the motions.

Boome, for the publisher of the Star, and for Perris.

S. Hall, Q.C., and G. Lawrence, for the publisher of Morning.

S. Hall, Q.C., and Vernon R. Smith, for the publisher of the Pall Mall Gazette.

Butcher, for the publisher of the People.

Job Bradford, for Hueffer.

NORTH, J., said, that though the paragraph did not interfere with or tend to obstruct the course of justice, yet there could not be a clearer contempt of Court than that a party concerned, or any person, should proceed forthwith to make known to the world the very matter which the Court had deliberately in the exercise of its discretion decided ought not to be published. In the present case his Lordship did not believe that any contempt of Court was intended, though that in itself would be no excuse for contempt actually committed. There was no contempt in announcing the fact that the ward had become the wife of Hueffer; the contempt was in purporting to give to the public information, though meagre, of what the judge had decided ought not to be disclosed, by determining to hear the case in private. His Lordship did not regard the contempt as a serious one, and a proper apology had been expressed, if the Court should be of opinion that a contempt had been committed. Looking at all the circumstances, his Lordship thought that justice would be met by ordering the publisher of the Star to pay the costs of the motion to commit him. Hueffer was equally responsible for the publication of the paragraph, and he must pay the costs of the motion to commit him. The other motions his Lordship considered to be vexatious and an abuse of the process of the Court. As to Perris, the part he had taken in the transaction might have been sufficient to render him liable to committal, if the contempt had been a flagrant one. But, if action was necessary, the proceeding against the Star and Hueffer would have answered every purpose. The motion against Perris would be dismissed with costs. The article in Morning did not shew, and the publisher swore that he did not know, that the proceedings referred to were not in open Court. The article in the Pall Mall Gazette stated on its face that they were, and that in the People was also simply copied from the paragraph in Morning, and they were inserted without any knowledge or means of knowledge that the proceedings had been in private. The motions against these three newspapers must be dismissed with costs.

In re BANK OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

Company—Winding-up—Supervision Order—Debt incurred after Voluntary Winding-up—Companies Act, 1862, s. 117.

Early in 1892 the Bank of South Australia entered into negotiations with the Union Bank of Australia which resulted in an agreement being prepared, under which the latter were to take over the assets and liabilities of the former. In March and April, 1892, the Bank of South Australia passed special resolutions for voluntary winding-up and empowering the liquidators to enter into the above-mentioned agreement. After the agreement had been entered into the Union Bank paid a number of the other bank's liabilities, and in respect of such payment there was an admitted debt of about 250,000, owing to the Union Bank. The liquidators were in doubt whether they could make a call to satisfy this liability, and the Union Bank filed a petition asking that the voluntary winding-up might be continued under supervision, so that, as creditors they might apply to the Court to have the question determined. Finlay, Q.C., Beale, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the petitioners.

Ingle Joyce, for the Bank of South Australia.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said that, as the debt had not been incurred before the commencement of the voluntary winding-up, he had no jurisdiction to make a supervision order; but he said the liquidators ought to apply to the Court themselves in the voluntary winding-up, to determine the question whether they had power to make the call; and that if they required to do so, their refusal would be a good ground for the petition asking that a compulsory winding-up order should be made. LOVELL AND ANOTHER, APPE.; Aug. 14
GILBERT WALTER BEAUCHAMP, RESP.

Bankruptcy — Receiving Order — Partnership Firm — Infant Partner — Bankruptcy Act 1883 ss. 4, 5, 6, 9, 110, 115, 148, 163 — Bankruptcy Rules 1886 rr. 260, 262, 264.

The respondent, an infant, was a partner in the firm of Beauchamp Brothers, consisting of Ralph Beauchamp and the respondent. The appellants brought an action against the firm in the firm's name for the price of goods supplied to the firm, and under Order XIV. an order was made for judgment, that the plaintiffs recover against the defendants the amount claimed and costs. The appellants served upon Beauchamp Brothers a bankruptcy notice founded on the judgment, and the money not having been paid presented a petition for a receiving order in respect of the estate of Beauchamp Brothers. Upon this petition a receiving order was made against Beauchamp Brothers upon the ground that an act of bankruptcy had been committed, Beauchamp Brothers having failed to comply with the requirements of the bankruptcy notice. The Court of Appeal (Lord Esher M.R., Lopes and Kay L.J.J.) rescinded the receiving order and dismissed the petition, upon the ground that one of the partners being an infant the receiving order could not properly be made against the firm ([1894] 1 Q. B. 1).

Finlay Q.C. and Cooper Willis Q.C. (Wedderburn with them) for the appellants.

Sir H. James Q.C. and Arthur Powell for the respondent.

THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell L.C. and Lords Watson, Ashbourne and Macnaghten) after consideration varied the order of the Court of Appeal by directing that the judgment in the action be amended by adding after the word "defendants" the words "other than Gilbert Walter Beauchamp," and that the bankruptcy proceedings be amended similarly by adding those words after the words "Beauchamp Brothers." No costs on either side.

Practice—Appeal—Order of Single Judge of Court of Appeal—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 52—Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894, s. 1 (b).

The action in this case was dismissed with costs by North, J. in July, 1894, as being frivolous and vexatious. The plaintiff appealed from this judgment. The defendants applied to Lord Russell, C.J., sitting in the vacation as a judge of the Court of Appeal, that the plaintiff might give security for the costs of his appeal, and that the appeal might be postponed till the security was given. His Lordship ordered the plaintiff to give security to the amount of 100*l.* to each of the defendants, but declined to order that the appeal should not be proceeded with till the security was given.

The plaintiff now moved to discharge the order of the Lord Chief Justice, and the defendants also moved to vary it.

The order was made under the 52nd section of the Judicature Act, 1873, which enacts that "in any cause or matter pending before the Court of Appeal, any direction incidental thereto, not involving the decision of the appeal, may be given by a single judge of the Court of Appeal; and a single judge of the Court of Appeal may at any time during vacation make any interim order to prevent prejudice to the claims of any parties pending an appeal as he may think fit; but every such order made by a single judge may be discharged or varied by the Court of Appeal or a Divisional Court thereof."

By the Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 16), s. 1, sub-s. 1 (b), it is enacted that no appeal shall lie without the leave of the judge, or of the Court of Appeal, from any interlocutory order made by a judge, except in certain cases therein specified, none of which were applicable to the order made in the present case. No leave had been obtained to make the present application.

THE COURT (Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) held that the motion to discharge or vary the order of the Lord Chief Justice sitting as a judge of the Court of Appeal was not an appeal within the meaning of sect. 1 of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894, and did not require the leave of the judge or of the Court of Appeal. Their Lordships disallowed the plaintiff's motion, and ordered that the appeal should be postponed till security had been given.

Practice—Evidence—Trade Marks Rules, 1890, r. 23.

In 1893 James Henry Roger applied for a trade-mark, No. 177,259, for whisky. The application was opposed by the Bodega Company, Limited. The Registrar of Trade Marks, acting for the Comptroller, decided to register the trade-mark. The Bodega Company having appealed, the Board of Trade referred the appeal to the Court; and their notification of such reference to the appellants concluded as follows: "That upon the hearing and determination of any such application as aforesaid, the appellants, the said James Henry Roger and the Comptroller, be respectively at liberty to adduce such evidence by affidavit, examination, or cross-examination of witnesses and otherwise as the Court may see fit to direct or permit, in addition to the statutory declarations used at the hearing before the Comptroller, which for this purpose are, if necessary, to be verified by affidavit."

Notice of motion by way of appeal was given on the 12th of October, 1894, and the motion came on before North, J., for directions as to evidence.

NORTH, J., directed the motion to be set down forthwith in the witness list, and gave leave to the appellants to file affidavits within a week, and to the respondent to file affidavits in answer within fourteen days afterwards, and to the appellants to file further affidavits in reply within seven days, and directed that the motion should be heard on the evidence mentioned in the order of the Board of Trade, and the above affidavits and the cross-examination in Court of any deponent as to whom notice to cross-examine should be given by the other side.

Improvements authorized by the Settled Land Act, 1882—Glebe Lands—Temporary Rent-charge—Redemption—Lands allotted to Vicar "and his Successors"—Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 69—Settled Land Act, 1882, ss. 2, 21, 32—Settled Land Acts Amendment Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 30), ss. 1, 2.

Adjourned summons.

By an award dated the 18th of September, 1807, made in pursuance of an Inclosure Act (43 Geo. 3, c. lxxxiii.), the commissioners under the Act allotted and awarded "unto and for T. F. M. and his successors, vicars of Castle Bytham," certain plots of land, which from that time were treated and enjoyed as part of the glebe lands of the vicarage. Between 1878 and 1884, the present vicar, with the consent of the patrons and the sanction of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, borrowed certain sums of money for the purpose of making improvements

(all of which were improvements within the meaning of the Settled Land Acts) upon the glebe lands. The sums so borrowed were charged upon the glebe lands, and, in compliance with a condition imposed by the patrons, were secured by rent-charges payable half-yearly, for the period of twenty-five years.

This was an application by the present vicar, asking, inter alia, that a fund in Court, representing the purchase-moneys of a portion of the lands comprised in the award which had been taken by a railway company, might be applied in the redemption of these rent-charges.

Yate Lee, for the vicar, in support of the application.

Wace, for the patrons.

STIRLING, J., said, that the words "and his successors, vicars of Castle Bytham," in the award to the vicar for the time being, were words of limitation and not of purchase, introduced, no doubt, to shew that the vicar was to take in his corporate capacity as an ecclesiastical corporation sole, and not as an individual. There was, consequently, no settlement within the definition clause in the Settled Land Act, 1882. Under the 32nd section of that Act, however, money in Court under any Act "liable to be laid out in the purchase of land to be made subject to a settlement" might be applied as capital money arising under the Settled Land Act; and there were decisions that the 32nd section must read together with the 69th section of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, and that the purchase-money of land belonging absolutely to a charity was money liable to be laid out in the purchase of land to be made subject to a settlement (see In re Byron's Charity (23 Ch. D. 171); Ex parte Jesus College, Cambridge (Weekly Notes (1884) 37); In re Bethlehem and Bridewell Hospitals (30 Ch. D. 541)). Having regard, therefore, to those decisions, his Lordship would hold that he had jurisdiction to deal with these purchase-moneys in the same way, and, with the aid of the powers conferred by the Settled Land Acts Amendment Act, 1887, to sanction the application of the fund in Court in the redemption of these terminable rent-charges. The only question therefore was, whether the Court in the exercise of its discretion should make the order. Now the consent of the patrons had been given to the creation of a rent-charge which was to subsist for a particular period, and the present patrons objected to this application of the fund upon the ground that it would diminish the value of the advowson. The vicar, on the other hand, had made the bargain with his eyes open. Under these circumstances the case did not appear to be one in which the discretion of the Court ought to be exercised in favour of the application.

Kekewich, J.                      MOBLEY v. RENNOLDSON.                      Aug. 7.

Will—Life Interest—Restraint of Marriage—Children—Gift over—Void Gift.

William Rennoldson, who died in 1837, by his will, dated in 1834, bequeathed his residuary estate in trust for his daughter, Margaret Rennoldson, on attaining 21 or marrying, for her separate use for life; and after her death in trust for all her children who, being sons, should attain 21, or, being daughters, should attain that age or marry, in equal shares, with a gift over to certain persons in default of such children. By a codicil, dated in 1836, the testator expressed his will to be that, in consequence of the nervous debility of his said daughter Margaret, she should not marry; and in case of her "marriage or death" he bequeathed his residuary estate to the persons taking under the gift over in his will, in certain shares.

Margaret Rennoldson survived her father, and in 1842 married Robert Linkson. Shortly afterwards a suit was instituted for the administration of the testator's estate, and at the hearing in 1843, before Wigram, V.-C. (2 Hare, 570), it was decided that the limitation over by the codicil, being in general restraint of marriage, was void as to Margaret Linkson's life interest, and accordingly, by the decree, a declaration was made that her interest did not determine by force of her marriage, and it was ordered that the income of the testator's residuary estate should be paid to her for her separate use until further order, the question whether the interest in remainder given to her children by the will was revoked by the codicil being expressly left open.

Mrs. Linkson died on the 10th of June, 1894, having had by her marriage ten children, of whom four died under 21 and unmarried, and the remaining six were still living and had attained 21 or married.

The testator's residuary estate was represented by a sum of 4561l. 4s. 6d. New Consols in Court to the credit of the action.

This was a petition by the persons entitled under the gift over for the payment out of the fund to them.

Haldane, Q.C., and Hadley, for the petitioners.

Renshaw, Q.C., and Barnard Layley, for the respondents, Mrs. Linkson's surviving children.

KEKEWICH, J., said there was no reason for him to expose the law as to restraint of marriage, or as to conditions precedent or subsequent: all that could be found in the judgment of Wigram, V.-C., in this case. The first question was one of construction. That seemed to have been already decided, for he read the Vice-Chancellor's judgment as including the question of construction as to the effect of the codicil, since he said that in conclusion he had arrived at was that the codicil "did, in part of fact, recognise and confirm the prior bequests by the will." Mr. Haldane said that the Vice-Chancellor was only regarding the gift for life; but he (Kekewich, J.) did not so read the judgment: there was no reservation there as to the construction, though, in a subsequent part of the judgment, he left open the question of the children's right to take. Therefore, upon the question of construction, the Vice-Chancellor's considered judgment was clear. It would be inconvenient for him (Kekewich, J.) to take any other view as to the construction, even if he saw any reason to do so. Then, the gifts by the will being confirmed by the codicil, the testator sought to avoid them by imposing a condition in restraint of marriage. The Vice-Chancellor held that, as to the life interest, he could not do that. A gift to a stranger might be defeated in that way; but were children in the same position as third persons? Could a man say, "I give property to my daughter for her life, and then to her children"—whom she could only have by marriage; "I know I cannot defeat my daughter's interest, but she marries and has children, then I will defeat their interest." His Lordship thought not, for the children claimed only that their mother. There must be an order for payment out of and to the six children in equal shares, after payment of the debts of all parties. The proportion of any dividends accrued to Mrs. Linkson's death must be paid out to her legal personal representative.

Will—Gift of "New 3l. per cent. Annuities"—Specific or Demonstrative—Codicil—Conversion—Gift of "2l. 15s. per cent. Consolidated Stock"—Revocation—National Debt (Conversion) Act, 1883, s. 25, sub-s. 2.

A testator by his will, dated in 1887, bequeathed 10,000*l.* New 3*l.* per cent. Annuities to trustees upon trust to apply the dividends in making certain payments for the benefit of his wife, and after her death to sell the stock and divide the proceeds among certain charities.

By a codicil made after the passing of the National Debt (Conversion) Act, 1883, after reciting that since the date of his will the 10,000*l.* New 3*l.* per cent. Annuities given by his will had been converted into 2*l.* 15*s.* per cent. Consolidated Stock, the testator bequeathed 15,000*l.* of such stock to his trustees, upon trust to apply the dividends in making the payments directed by his will for the benefit of his wife out of the dividends of the 10,000*l.* 3 per cents., and in making further annual payments to certain charities; and in all other respects he confirmed his will.

At the dates of his codicil and death the testator had 25,000*l.* 2*l.* per cent. Consolidated Stock standing in his name.

KEKEWICH, J., held, that there was no revocation by the codicil of the legacy given by the will; and that, under the second part of sub-sect. 2 of sect. 25 of the Act (but not under the first part, the gift not being specific) there was, on the death of the widow, a good gift of 10,000*l.* new stock to the charities named in the will. While the second part of sub-sect. 2 dealt exclusively with specific bequests of stock, the first part included every other disposition of stock, whether by a will or any other instrument. His Lordship adopted North, J.'s, explanation of the sub-sect. in Duke of Northumberland v. Percy ([1893] 1 Ch. 282, 303).

By an agreement in writing between the plaintiff and defendant the latter agreed to employ the former as manager in his business of a carrier, and the agreement contained a clause providing that the employer would not, except in the case of misconduct or a breach of the agreement, require the manager to leave his employ. moved the Court for an injunction to restrain the defendant from acting on the notice.

Warmington, Q.C., and James Bacon, for the plaintiff.

Marten, Q.C., and Ribton, for the defendant.

KEKEWICH, J., said, that the principle of Lumley v. Wagner (1 D. M. & G. 604) ought not to be applied to an agreement which, though negative in form, was affirmative in substance, and held that as the clause above mentioned was affirmative in substance, being in effect equivalent to a stipulation by the employer that he would retain the manager in his employ, an injunction ought not to be granted.

WOODROFFE v. MOODY.

Infant—Legacy by Parent to Infant Child—Interest by way of Maintenance—Exception to General Rule—Other Provision by Testator for Maintenance—Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 41), s. 43—Incorporation of Section into Will.

A testator who had one son, an infant, and seven daughters, one of whom was an infant, by his will bequeathed to the son a legacy of 10,000*l.* to be paid to him on his attaining 21, and to the infant daughter a legacy of 7500*l.* The testator bequeathed similar legacies to his other daughters, making provision for equalization of the amounts received by the daughters, having regard to sums received from him by his married daughters by way of marriage portion. The testator devised and bequeathed his residuary real and personal estate upon trusts in favour of his children equally; and declared that his trustees might at their discretion raise any part not exceeding one moiety of the expectant share of any child, and apply the same for his or her advancement, preferment, or benefit. The will contained no express provision for the maintenance of infant children out of income or otherwise, but the statutory provision contained in sect. 43 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, was applicable. The question was whether the legacies to the infant children carried interest by way of maintenance from the death of the testator.

Warmington, Q.C., and R. H. Hodge, for the infant children, contended that there was nothing in the will to take the case out of the ordinary rule whereby legacies by a parent to infant children carry interest from the death of the testator.

*Jason Smith, on behalf of the adult daughters, contended that as the testator had made other provision for the maintenance of the infant children, the case fell within the recognised exception to the general rule. (See In re George, 5 Ch. D. 837, at p. 843.) The testator had made express provision for the advancement, preferment, and "benefit" (which word must extend to maintenance) of the infant children out of their shares of residue, and, further than that, sect. 43 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, must be read as part of the will, and consequently there was a provision by the testator for the maintenance of his infant children, not only out of the income of their legacies but also out of their shares of residue.*

KEKEWICH, J., said that the provision in the will for the advancement of children out of their shares of residue could not, in his opinion, be regarded as a provision for their maintenance within the exception referred to. He held further that, although sect. 43 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, must be read as part of the will, yet there was no provision for maintenance such as would bring the case within the exception; for, in the first place, there was no authority to shew that a provision for maintenance out of the legacy itself could have that effect, and in his Lordship's judgment it could not; and, secondly, there was no authority to shew that a provision for payment of maintenance to a child out of the income of a share of residue (necessarily variable and uncertain in amount) given to him with the other children could have the like effect, and in his Lordship's judgment it could not. The legacies to the infant children, therefore, carried interest as from the death of the testator.

Kekewich, J.                      WILLIAMS v. JENKINS.                      Oct. 26.

Settled Estate—Tenant for Life—Undivided Moiety—Sale—Appointment of Trustees—Settled Land Act, 1882, s. 38.

This was a summons by Elizabeth Williams, a tenant for life under the Settled Land Act, 1882 ([1893] 1 Ch. 700), that two persons named in the summons might be appointed trustees of the will of her father, John Jenkins, for the purposes of the Act. Part of the testator's estate consisted of an undivided moiety of a freehold farm, with subjacent minerals, in the county of Glamorgan, subject to certain mortgages, the other undivided moiety being vested in one other person. The affidavits in support of the application went to shew that the state of trade in South Wales afforded a favourable opportunity for a sale of the applicant's moiety of the farm; and it was stated by her counsel, though not in the evidence, that she had actually expressed an intention to sell. The application was supported by the usual affidavits of fitness.

Badcock, for the applicant, submitted that under sect. 38 of the Settled Land Act, 1882, the Court was bound to appoint trustees for the purposes of the Act at the instance of a tenant for life, so as to enable him to exercise the large powers vested in him by the Act.

Warmington, Q.C., S. B. L. Druce, W. Baker, and Warter Horne, for other parties.

KEKEWICH, J., said that Mr. Badcock's argument went a little too far. It was this—that if the tenant for life of a settled estate, where there were no trustees, for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1882, wished to sell, the Court must, without more, appoint trustees at his instance in order to enable an attempt to be made to sell. That put the duty of the Court at an extremely low footing—a little lower, it would seem, than was put by Mr. Wolstenholme in his notes on sect. 38 (6th ed. pp. 289, 290). His Lordship did not think that the Court was bound to supply machinery to effect an attempted sale if the Court was satisfied that the sale itself was impossible. In the present case the tenant for life was entitled to an undivided moiety of a settled estate, and—as it appeared from the statement of her counsel, though not from the evidence—had expressed an intention to sell. Now an undivided moiety could not readily be sold, and apparently there was very little probability of the entirety being offered for sale; but it might be right to give the tenant for life an opportunity of offering her moiety for sale. His Lordship was not affected by In re Collinge's Settled Estates (36 Ch. D. 516) before Mr. Justice North, whose judgment had been correctly interpreted by Mr. Wolstenholme in his notes (6th ed. p. 240) to sub-sect. 6 of sect. 2 of the Act. His Lordship, however, saw very little prospect of this property being sold. If this lady desired, as had been stated by her counsel, to sell, he did not think any case was made by the owner of the other moiety for prohibiting any attempt on her part to sell, for there was no suggestion by him of want of bona fides, or of injury to him, or of any impropriety, to prevent the Court from giving her an opportunity of doing what she desired to do. No doubt the object of the Act was to enable a tenant for life to sell property to which the Act applied. But if this tenant for life came, as she might hereafter, to ask for her costs to be thrown upon the settled land, it did not follow that those costs should prejudice the security of the mortgagees. He should appoint the persons nominated by the applicant trustees for the purposes of the Act, and the costs of the present application would be charged on the settled land dealt with by this application, but subject to the existing mortgages.

From Q. B. D. WEGG PROSSER v. EVANS. Nov. 1.

Appeal from judgment of Wills, J., reported [1894] 2 Q. B. 101.

The facts were as follows.

The defendant had jointly with one Thomas guaranteed to the plaintiff payment of rent by a tenant of the plaintiff's. A half-year's rent being in arrear, Thomas gave the plaintiff his cheque for the amount. The plaintiff sued Thomas on the cheque and recovered judgment, but such judgment was not satisfied. The plaintiff then sued the defendant on the guarantee. Wills, J., held at the trial that the causes of action upon the cheque and the guarantee being different, the principle of Kendall v. Hamilton (4 App. Cas. 504) did not apply, and that the unsatisfied judgment against Thomas in the action upon the cheque afforded no defence to the action against the defendant on the guarantee.

J. E. Bankes, and A. Mackintosh, for the defendant, cited Cambefort v. Chapman (19 Q. B. D. 229).

A. T. Lawrence, for the plaintiff, cited Drake v. Mitchell (3 East, 251).

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes, L.J., and Bigby, L.J.) affirmed the judgment of Wills, J., following the judgment in Drake v. Mitchell (3 East, 251), and overruling Cambefort v. Chapman (19 Q. B. D. 229).

Appeal dismissed.

From Ch. D. MONTFORTS v. MARSDEN. Nov. 1.

Practice—Agreement to permit a Third Party to conduct Defence—Injunction to enforce—Revocation of Retainer of Solicitor.

This was an appeal from an order of the Deputy of the Chancellor of the Palatine Court of Lancaster.

The plaintiff, Montforts, was a manufacturer of machines carrying on business in Germany. Through his agent in Manchester he sold one of his machines to the defendant, Marsden. E. Moser, who was a maker of similar machines for which he had an English patent, brought an action (Moser v. Marsden) against Marsden for infringing his patent. Marsden informed Montforts that he should not defend the action unless he was indemnified against costs and damages by him. After some negotiation, an agreement was signed by which Marsden agreed to allow Montforts to have the sole conduct of the defence of the action in his name, and Montforts agreed to indemnify Marsden against all costs and damages, and to supply all the necessary money if the solicitor of Montforts conducted the defence. Marsden accordingly gave a retainer to Mr. Walker, Montforts' solicitor, to act for him "in the action and any appeals therefrom;" and the defence was conducted by the solicitor. The action proceeded in the Palatine Court, and on the 24th of March, 1893, it was dismissed with costs. Marsden appealed from this judgment, and the judgment was reversed by the Court of Appeal. A petition of appeal was presented to the House of Lords in the name of Marsden, which was still pending; but Marsden was unwilling to go on with the defence without further security, and after some correspondence he withdrew his retainer from Mr. Walker, and, acting through another solicitor, endeavoured to withdraw the petition of appeal to the House of Lords. Montforts accordingly brought the present action, asking for an injunction to restrain Marsden from acting in breach of his agreement and from withdrawing his retainer from Mr. Walker. He then moved for an injunction in the terms of the writ, which was refused by the Court. Montforts appealed from this decision.

Finlay, Q.C., Hopkinson, Q.C., and Astbury, for the appellants; Oswald, Q.C., and Eastwood, for the defendant.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said that it was part of the agreement between the plaintiff and defendant that the plaintiff's solicitor should conduct the defence in Moser v. Marsden; and it was shewn from the retainer which the defendant gave Mr. Walker, that he was empowered to conduct any appeal that might be necessary. The injunction must, therefore, be granted; but he thought that, under all the circumstances, it plaint was entitled to some further security for the costs in the House of Lords. On the plaintiff undertaking to do this appeal would be allowed.

Lunacy.

Nov. 5.

Re E. J. Hinchcliffe, A PERSON OF UNSOUND MIND, DECEASED.

Practice—Evidence—Affidavit—Exhibit—Right of Inspection.

A, B., and C. were sisters. C. was a lunatic, and A. was her executrix. A. and B., thinking that X., who was trustee for the three sisters, had dealt improperly with the trust funds, sought the counsel's opinion on behalf of themselves and of C., and he advised that proceedings should be taken against the trustee, and that C. should be joined as co-plaintiff. A. and B. then applied in the Lunacy for leave to join C. as a co-plaintiff; in support of that application A. made an affidavit, in which she referred to "the case and opinion hereunto annexed," without setting either of them out, but merely making them an exhibit to the affidavit.

Upon that affidavit the requisite leave to join C. was given, and an action was commenced against the trustee by a writ issued on behalf of all three sisters.

A then died, and the surviving plaintiffs made the executor of her will a defendant to their action. The executor then applied in the Lunacy asking A., the committee, to hand over to him all the books, papers, and property of the lunatic. She then handed over (amongst other papers) an office copy of the affidavit so made by her, but refused to shew the executor the case and opinion which were referred to therein, upon the ground that they were documents of title, the property, not of the lunatic, but of the committee, and that the defendant ought to make any application for discovery in the action. The executor then applied to the Master in Lunacy for an order that he might be at liberty to inspect and take copies of the case and opinion. The application was refused, and the Master's decision was upheld by Kay, L.J., in chambers. It was stated that it was not the practice in Lunacy to file with an affidavit the exhibits thereto.

Henry Terrell, for the executor of C., now moved in the Master of the Lunacy, by way of appeal from the Lord Justice, for an order that the executor might be at liberty to inspect and take copies of the case and opinion.

Willie Bead, for A., the committee of the deceased lunatic, conceded.

THE COURT (Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) said that, irrespective of any questions as to discovery, property, or privilege, if a person chose to make a document an exhibit to an affidavit, it formed just as much part of the affidavit as if it had been copied out therein or actually annexed and filed with the affidavit itself, and anybody who had a right to see the affidavit had the right to see the exhibit also. An order must accordingly be made.

Building Society—Instrument of Dissolution—Effect upon Rights of Members—Mortgagor Members—Liability of Mortgagor Members under Rules to pay Principal by Instalments—Building Societies Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 42), s. 32; Building Societies Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 47), s. 10.

This was an appeal from part of a decision of Kekewich, J., reported [1894] 2 Ch. 462. The society was a terminating building society incorporated under the Act of 1874, and by its rules it was provided that the rules might be altered by a majority of the members in special general meeting. Two of its rules were (rule 25) that mortgagor members were to repay the principal of their debts by monthly instalments, and (rule 30) that subscriptions were to be returned in full to withdrawing members in the order in which notice had been given by them.

These rules were never varied by resolution of the members in general meeting; but by an instrument of dissolution under sect. 32 of the Act of 1874, dated the 1st of January, 1894, and signed by the majority required by the Act, it was agreed and declared (inter alia) that for all the purposes of the instrument members who had given notice of withdrawal should have no preference or priority over members who had not given such notice.

It was held by Kekewich, J., that the rights of the members had been altered by the instrument of dissolution, so that members who had given notice of withdrawal had no longer any priority over members who had not given such notice; and his Lordship held also, upon the authority of Brownlie v. Russell (8 App. Cas. 235), that the instrument of dissolution operated to make an immediate withdrawal by reason of the compulsion introduced by the winding-up, and that the mortgagor members could be compelled forthwith to pay up the balance due from them on their securities.

The mortgagor members appealed against the second part of this decision.

Covens-Hurdy, Q.C., and T. R. Hughes, for the appellants.

F. Thompson, for the respondent Jessie Wright.

MacConkey, for another respondent.

THE COURT (Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) said this was not the case of a winding-up, but of an instrument of dissolution. Under sect. 32 of the Act of 1874 a majority might agree to sign an instrument of dissolution which would bind the minority. But there was no provision in the Act dealing with the rights of members upon the dissolution, or laying down that those rights should be other than those provided by the rules of the society. There was nothing either in the Act or in the deed of dissolution to shew that the mortgagor members who had covenanted to pay their mortgage debts by instalments had their liability altered by the dissolution, and were bound to pay at once. An instrument of dissolution was not equivalent to a winding-up order. The Court, moreover, considered that sect. 10 of the Building Societies Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 47), applied to the case. The appeal was accordingly allowed.

GRAHAM v. NOAKES.

Nov. 1.

Receiver—Receiver's Recognizance—Rents and Profits of Real Estate—Sureties—Extent of Liability.

A receiver of "the rents and profits of the real estate" of a testator made default in passing his final account, and in paying into Court the balance certified to be due from him. Security, with two sureties, had been given in the usual way on the appointment, the condition of the bond being, that if the receiver "shall duly account for all and every the sum and sums of money which he shall so receive on account of the rents and profits of the real estate of the said testator," and duly "pay the balances certified to be due, &c.," the recognizance shall be void.

The question now raised was, whether under the terms of this recognizance the sureties were liable for anything more than "rents and profits," and, particularly, whether they could be surcharged in respect of the following items:—

(1) 82*l.* for fire-insurance moneys, as to which it appeared that the receiver had insured some farm buildings in his own name, describing himself in the policy as receiver of the rents and profits of the testator's estate; that he had charged and been allowed the premiums in his accounts; a fire having occurred, that he had received and misapplied the insurance-money.

(2) 100*l.*, representing several sums paid to him, under orders of the Court, out of dividends on Consols in Court, derived from the proceeds of sale of real estate, and which he had not accounted for.

(3) 21*l.*, balance of a sum of 220*l.*, paid to the receiver under an order of the Court out of the personal estate account, to be applied in repairs on the real estate, 19*l.* only having been spent in repairs.

Byrne, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, for the sureties.

Levett, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the plaintiffs, contra.

CHITTY, J., held that the three items in question were all moneys for which the receiver was properly liable in his accounts, and that, as the sureties were liable to make good all sums which the receiver himself was liable to pay into Court or account for, the surcharges made in respect of these three items were proper and must be allowed.

Solicitor and Client—Costs—Taxation—Lease or Agreement for a Lease—Tenancy Agreement for less than three years—Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881 (44 & 45 Vict. c. 44), s. 2—General Order under Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, Schedule I., Part II.

Summons to review a taxation of costs.

In April, 1894, a tenancy agreement was prepared by one W. Negus, the landlord's solicitor, by which the landlord agreed to let, and the tenant agreed to take, a flat in Bond Street, for three years from the 25th of March, 1894, at a rent of 290*l.* per annum, and upon the terms specified in the agreement. The agreement had been signed by both parties, but had not been handed to the tenant, though he had been let into possession in the middle of April last.

At the request of the tenant, the landlord's solicitor delivered to him an item bill of his costs for preparing the agreement, and an order of course for taxation, under the 3rd party clause of the Solicitors Act, was obtained by the tenant. On this bill of costs coming before the taxing master, he decided that the scale prescribed by Schedule I., Part II., of the General Order under the Solicitors' Remuneration Act, 1881, applied, and taxed the bill on that footing.

The tenant objected that the fee prescribed by Schedule I., Part II., was not applicable, as this was a mere tenancy agreement under hand only for a term not exceeding three years, and that such an agreement was neither "a lease" nor "an agreement for a lease" within the meaning of Schedule I., Part II., and, further, that the bill contained items, such as the stamp and the cost of the duplicate or counterpart, which the tenant had not undertaken and was not liable to pay, and therefore could not be taxed under the scale fee system. The taxing master overruled these objections, considering that the case was covered by the decision of In re Emanuel and Simmonds (33 Ch. D. 40), as an agreement on which the parties intended to rely without having a formal lease executed.

Whitehorn, Q.C., and E. Ford, for the tenant, in support of the objections.

Manson, contra.

CHITTY, J., held that the taxing master was right in applying the scale fee if he considered the scale applied, notwithstanding the fact that an item bill had been originally delivered; that the agreement operated as a present demise, and was therefore a lease within the meaning of Schedule I., Part II.; and, further, that it was a document on which the parties intended to rely as sufficient for the purpose of stating the terms on which the property was held without having a formal lease executed, as defined by Cotton, L.J., in In re Emanuel and Simmonds (33 Ch. D., at p. 47), and that on these grounds the scale fee applied, and the taxing master's view of the case was correct. Inasmuch, however, as the tenant was not liable to pay the costs of the counterpart or duplicate agreement, the Lordship directed that the cost of the stamp and of engraving the duplicate (which was agreed between the parties) should be deducted from the amount certified by the taxing master of the scale fee payable in respect of this transaction. For the reasons the tenant's application must be dismissed, and the costs.

Practice—Motion for leave to issue Attachment—Service of Order—Indorsement on Copy served—Prohibitory Order—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XLII., r. 5.

Motion by the plaintiffs for leave to issue a writ of attachment.

against the defendant for his contempt in disobeying an order of the 10th of August, 1894, restraining the defendant, in his judgment in the action or further order, from removing sand, gravel, &c., from the foreshore at Ryhope and Hendon beach, in the county of Durham, where such foreshore or beach formed the lands of the plaintiffs.

The order had been duly served upon the defendant.

Nickles, for the plaintiffs.

Gale, for the defendant, took the preliminary objection that the copy of the order which was served upon the defendant had not upon it the indorsement required by rule 5 of Order XL., and therefore the service was not effectual.

Nickles:—Rule 5 applies only to judgments or orders which require a defendant to do some act; it does not apply to a merely prohibitory order; Selous v. Croydon Rural Sanitary Authority (53 L. T. (N.S.) 209).

Stevich, J. BUDGETT v. BUDGETT. Oct. 27.

Cobb—Taxation—Copies of voluminous Correspondence used at Trial—Discretion and Duty of Taxing Master.

At the hearing of an action a voluminous correspondence was referred to and a considerable portion of it read. The correspondence was entered as read in the judgment. The taxing master allowed one-third only of the costs of the copies of the correspondence. Objections were carried in to his certificate, and in answer to the objections the taxing master said that he had exercised his discretion, and that he had allowed the particular amount as the equivalent of a specified number of folios, which in "his judgment and discretion appeared all that it was necessary and proper to allow." This was a summons to review the taxation.

Engle Joyce, for the applicants.

Butcher, for the respondents, contended that the matter was merely one for the discretion of the taxing master, and referred to Turnbull v. Janson (3 C. P. D. 264).

Kerwin, J., said that, as the result of his experience as a judge in trying witness actions, he entertained a strong opinion that in many cases well-arranged copies of correspondence, which could be furnished to the judge and to counsel on both sides, of the same character and paged in the same way, were of the utmost utility, and he had often urged upon solicitors the advisability of agreeing that such copies should be made. His lordship agreed that it was within the discretion of the taxing master to say what was a proper copy of the correspondence. That involved his mastering the whole case, and seeing how it had been dealt with by the Court and by the counsel engaged, and no doubt it might sometimes be his duty to make a rough copy. But he ought to ascertain what part of the correspondence was, having regard to all the circumstances, necessary for the proper argument and decision of the case. It did not clearly appear from the taxing master's answer that he had done that, though he might in fact have done it. The matter must go back to him with a request to him to reconsider it from the point of view above stated.

Company—Deceased Shareholder—Scotch Sequestrator—Title to Shares—Winding-up—Contributory—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 80, 77—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XVI, r. 46.

J. P. Alston, a domiciled Scotchman, was at the time of his death the registered holder of shares in a company in voluntary liquidation.

The shares were held by him in trust for other persons.

After his death sequestration was issued in Scotland against his estates, and in the sequestration proceedings J. Muir was appointed trustee.

In a Scotch action of multiplepounding and exoneration, the claims of Muir (as trustee in the sequestration of the estates of a Scotch firm of merchants) and of R. L. M. Brown (as assignee in bankruptcy of another firm) were allowed. No claim was made in this action by the Scotch executor of J. P. Alston, and he had no legal personal representative in England.

By the law of Scotland the legal title to the shares was vested in Muir as sequestrator of J. P. Alston's estate, which legal title was unaffected by the decision in the Scotch action; and the sequestrator was able to give a title to a purchaser of the shares from himself without the assistance of the Scotch executor.

The liquidator had in his hands moneys payable to persons entitled to shares in the company, and asked for directions as to the person to whom the proportion due in respect of J. P. Alston's shares was payable.

J. G. Wood, for the liquidator.

A. W. Watson, for Muir.

J. D. Crawford, for Brown.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said that it was unnecessary to make any order under Order XVI, r. 46, and that the title to the shares was vested in the Scotch sequestrator. And he directed the money to be paid to him on the receipt of himself and Brown.

Mine—Coal Mines Regulation Act—General Rules—Examination of Machinery, &c.—Report of Result of Examination—Record of Report—Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 58), s. 49, rule 5.

Case stated by a stipendiary magistrate.

By the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 58), s. 49, rule 5, a competent person appointed for the purpose shall, once at least in every twenty-four hours, examine (inter alia) the state of the guides and conductors in the shafts, and shall, once at least in every week, examine the state of the shafts by which persons ascend or descend; and shall make a true report of the result of such examination, and every such report shall be recorded in a book kept for the purpose.

The respondent was charged for that—he being the owner of a coal mine—the competent person appointed did not record in the book the result of his examination of the guides and conductors in the shafts.

The magistrate dismissed the information.

Henry Sutton, for the appellant.

The respondent did not appear.

THE COURT (Mathew and Charles, JJ.) held that rule 5 required a report to be recorded of the examination directed to be made once in every twenty-four hours, as well as of that directed to be made once in every week, and that, by neglecting to cause a report of such examination to be recorded, the respondent had been guilty of an offence against the Act.

Case remitted.

Bankruptcy—Petitioning Creditor's Debt—Merger in Judgment—Existence of Original Debt for purpose of Bankruptcy Proceedings.

Appeal of the debtors from a receiving order made by the registrar of the Birmingham County Court.

On the 20th of April, 1894, the debtors executed a deed of assignment for the benefit of their creditors. There was at that time an action pending against them at the suit of the petitioning creditor in respect of goods sold and delivered and of a dishonoured bill of exchange, and on the 27th of April judgment was signed in the action by the plaintiff. On the 28th of April the petitioning creditor filed a petition against the debtors relying on the assignment as an act of bankruptcy; the petition alleged that the debtors were indebted to him in the sum of 12l. 18s. for goods sold and delivered, and 64l. for principal and interest on a dishonoured bill, and that the creditor held a security save and except a final judgment, execution upon which had not been stayed.

It was contended on behalf of the debtors that the petitioning creditor's debt must be the same at the date of the act of bankruptcy and at the date of the hearing of the petition; that in the present case the original debt which existed at the date of the act of bankruptcy had been merged in the judgment, and was therefore no longer available to support a bankruptcy petition. The registrar made the order, and the debtors appealed.

Mutr Mackenzie, for the debtors.

Yate Lee, for the petitioning creditor.

THE COURT (Vaughan Williams and Kennedy, JJ.) held that the merger of the debt in the judgment did not operate as an extinguishment of the debt for the purpose of supporting a petition in bankruptcy, and dismissed the appeal.

RYMER v. STANFIELD.

Will—Charity—Failure of Object in Testator's Lifetime—Cy-près—Charitable Intention.

This was an appeal from a decision of Chitty, J. (ante, p. 114). A testator bequeathed a legacy of 5000*l.* to the rector for the time being of St. Thomas's Seminary for the Education of Priests in the Diocese of Westminster for the purposes of such seminary. Shortly before the testator's death the seminary referred to ceased to exist, and the students were removed to a seminary at Oscott, near Birmingham. Chitty, J., held that the gift related to a particular seminary, and that, the seminary having ceased to exist in the testator's lifetime, the gift had lapsed, and could not be applied cy-près to any similar institution.

The Attorney-General appealed.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce (Sir R. T. Reid, A.-G., with them), for the Attorney-General.

Levet, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, for the executors of the will and the residuary legatees, were not called on.

Estoppel by Record—Judgment by Consent—Action for Instalment under Agreement—Effect of Judgment in establishing Agreement.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vaughan Williams, J. (ante, p. 147), by which he held that judgment by consent in an action for an instalment, payable by the South American and Mexican Company under an agreement, acted as an estoppel on the company, so as to prevent them from disputing the agreement in further proceedings to enforce it. The official liquidator of the company, which was in liquidation, appealed. Moulton, Q.C., and George Lawrence, for the appellants.

Finlay, Q.C., Bray, and Howard Wright, for the Bank of England, were not called on.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said that there could be no doubt that a judgment by consent acted as an estoppel like any other judgment; and it was clear that in this case the agreement was distinctly in issue in the previous action, for the instalment which the company were ordered to pay by the judgment was only payable under the agreement. The company was therefore estopped from now disputing it. The appeal must be dismissed.

Practice—Evidence—Production of Documents—Documents produced by Witness on Cross-examination.

Appeal against a decision of Kekewich, J. (ante, p. 141).

A sum of money having been paid into Court by the Crown under the Defence Acts, as the purchase-money of part of the Maplin Sands, various persons made claims to the fund, and a petition for payment out was presented by one of them. The matter was referred, by consent, to a special referee, who, after a lengthened hearing, reported that the petitioners had established their claim. One of the respondents to the petition moved to vary the report, on the ground (inter alia) that the referee had improperly rejected certain correspondence. During the hearing by the referee, a witness, not a party to the petition, was examined. In the course of his cross-examination by one of the respondents' counsel he was asked whether he had in his possession any letters relating to the Maplin Sands. He offered to produce a mass of correspondence. Counsel then proposed to call for those letters seriatim, and to question the witness upon each. The referee declined to allow this, on the ground that it would occupy too much time. Counsel then contended that he was entitled to put in the correspondence en bloc, and to examine it. There was nothing to shew that the letters were material to the point at issue, beyond mere suspicion, and no application was made to the referee to adjourn the hearing. Kekewich, J., refused the motion. The applicant appealed.

Haldane, Q.C., and H. Terrell, for the appellant.

Warmington, Q.C., and Sheldon, for the petitioners, were not called upon.

The Court (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision.

Lord HERSCHELL, L.C., said that there was nothing to shew that the letters in question were material; this was mere speculation. If it had been shewn that there was something material in the letters it might have been right to grant an adjournment of the hearing; but no application was made to the referee for that purpose. The referee could not be kept waiting while counsel was trying to find out something material in the letters. The referee's decision was quite right.

BRENDALL AND OTHERS v. GRUNDY.

Practice—Discovery in aid of Execution—Judgment Debtor ordered to be examined—Conduct Money—Order XLII., r. 32; Order XXXVII., r. 9—Attachment—Irregularity—Copies of Affidavits not served with Summons—Waiver—Order LII., r. 4; Order LXX., r. 1.

Appeal from an order of Wright, J., at chambers, giving leave to issue a writ of attachment against the defendant.

The facts were as follows.

Judgment in the action having been obtained against the defendant, who was a surveyor, an order was made for his examination as to his property or means of satisfying the judgment under Order XLII., r. 32. The attachment was applied for on the ground of his disobedience of such order. It appeared that the defendant, on attending an appointment for his examination before the master, objected to be examined on the ground that the conduct money, which had been given to him, viz., 1s., was insufficient, and that, as a surveyor, he was entitled to a guinea for conduct money and expenses under Order XXXVII., r. 9. The plaintiffs offered him a further sum of 4s. The master held that the sum of 1s. 4s., which was sufficient to cover his railway and omnibus fare from Lewisham, where he resided, to the Royal Courts of Justice, was, under the circumstances of the case, a reasonable sum for conduct money. The defendant, nevertheless, refused to be examined. Copies of the affidavits on which the application at chambers for an attachment was founded were not served on the defendant with the summons. The defendant's solicitor, who appeared for him before the judge at chambers, objected on that ground to the application. The judge thereupon adjourned the case till the following day in order that the defendant might have an opportunity of answering the affidavits. The affidavits were shewn to the defendant's solicitor, who on the further hearing admitted that the defendant could not make any affidavit in answer to them. The judge then made the order for an attachment.

Order XXXVII., r. 9, provides that "any person required to attend for the purpose of being examined or of producing any document, shall be entitled to the like conduct money and payment for expenses and loss of time as upon attendance at a trial in Court."

George Wallace, for the defendant, contended that the above rule applied to a judgment debtor for whose examination an order had been made under Order XLII., r. 32, and therefore the defendant was not bound to submit to examination unless he received conduct money and expenses on the scale applicable to a professional man called as a witness at a trial. He further contended that Order LII., r. 4, which requires service of copies of the affidavits intended to be used with the notice of motion for an attachment, included a case where the application for an attachment was made in chambers, and that the failure to comply with the rule was an irregularity which could not be waived.

J. D. Crawford, for the plaintiffs, contended that Order XXXVII., r. 9, did not apply, and the defendant was only entitled to a reasonable amount for conduct money; and that the Court would not interfere with the master's exercise of his discretion as to what was reasonable under the circumstances of the case. With regard to the second point, he contended that the irregularity had been waived.

The Court (Lord Esher, M.R., and Rigby, L.J.) held that Order XXXVII., r. 9, did not apply; that the judgment debtor was only entitled to what under the circumstances was a reasonable sum for conduct money; and that they would not interfere with the master's exercise of his discretion as to what was reasonable. With regard to the second point, they held that, assuming that the provisions of Order LII., r. 4, applied and therefore copies of the affidavits should have been served with the summons, nevertheless the defendant, having, by reason of what subsequently happened, had the equivalent of the advantages intended to be conferred by the provisions of the rule, was not entitled to insist on the irregularity. They therefore dismissed the appeal.

THE DELANO.

Admiralty—Practice—County Court Appeal—County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), s. 31—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 120.

By sect. 31 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), "No appeal shall be allowed unless the amount decreed or ordered to be due exceeds the sum of fifty pounds."

By sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), the party aggrieved by the decision of the judge in point of law may appeal to the High Court.

On the 12th of December, 1893, the plaintiffs, the owners of the steamship Delano, commenced an action on the Admiralty side of the County Court of Durham, holden at Sunderland, for 49s. 4s., one day's detention of the vessel in the Tyne.

The county court judge gave judgment for the plaintiffs; and the defendants appealed to the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division of the High Court on the ground that on the true construction of the bill of lading under which they were consignees of cargo they were entitled to judgment.

The President (Sir F. H. Jeune) and Gorall Barnes, J., sitting as a Divisional Court, and following The Eden ([1892] P. 67), overruled the preliminary objection taken by the plaintiffs that the appeal was barred by sect. 31 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, and on the construction of the bill of lading reversed the decision of the county court judge.

The plaintiffs appealed to the Court of Appeal; and on the case coming on for hearing on the 13th of July, 1894, the preliminary objection raised in the Court below, that there was no appeal to the Divisional Court, was suggested by the Court as a difficulty, and the case stood over for argument.

T. Willes Chitty, and Frank Newbolt, for the plaintiffs, contended that, as the amount involved was under 50*l.*, sect. 31 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, prevented an appeal to the Divisional Court, and that the decisions of the Divisional Court in the cases of The Eden ([1892] P. 67) and The Hero ([1891] P. 294), to the effect that the County Courts Act, 1868, applied to Admiralty, were not binding on this Court, and were wrong.

H. F. Boyd, and Simey, for the defendants, contended that sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, supplemented sect. 31 of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, by giving a right of appeal to a party aggrieved by the decision of a county court judge in point of law although the amount was under 50*l.*

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., Lopes and Rigby, L.JJ.) held that sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, impliedly repealed sect. 31 (and also sect. 26) of the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868, to the extent of allowing the party aggrieved by the decision of the county court judge on a point of law to appeal although the amount was under 50*l.*, and though no security for costs had been first given.

TAYLOR v. MANCHESTER, SHEFFIELD AND LINCOLNSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Passenger—Personal Injury—Negligence of Company's Servant—Damages—Action in High Court—Contract—Tort—Costs—Taxation—County Courts Act, 1888, s. 116.

The plaintiff, a passenger by the defendants' railway, had his thumb crushed by a porter shutting the door of a railway carriage upon it. He then brought an action in the High Court, as a "passenger," claiming damages, and obtained judgment for 20*l.* damages and costs. By s. 116 of the County Courts Act, 1888, with respect to any action brought in the High Court which could have been commenced in the county court, if the action is founded on contract and the plaintiff recovers a sum of 20*l.* or upwards, but less than 50*l.*, he is only entitled to costs on the county court scale, but this provision does not extend to actions founded on tort. Upon the taxation of the plaintiff's costs, the master allowed the plaintiff costs on the county court scale only, holding that the action was founded on contract, and his decision was affirmed by Wright, J. The plaintiff appealed.

Morton Smith, for the plaintiff, contended that the action was founded upon the tortious act of the defendants' servant, and that the cause of action arose independently of any contract: Marshall v. York, Newcastle and Berwick Railway Company (11 C. B. 655); Austin v. Great Western Railway Company (Law Rep. 2 Q. B. 442); Bryant v. Herbert (3 C. P. D. 389);

Foulkes v. Metropolitan District Railway Company (5 C. P. D. 157, 170).

C. A. Russell, for the defendants, contended the cause of action arose out of the contractual relation between the parties, and that the case was covered by Alton v. Midland Railway Company (19 C. B. (N.S.) 213, 237).

THE COURT OF APPEAL (Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) held that the action was founded on tort, and that, as the plaintiff was lawfully on the defendants' premises, he could—contract or no contract—maintain an action for the misfeasance, or positive negligence, of the defendants' servant in jamming his hand. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed, with costs.

KITTS v. MOORE.

Nov. 10.

Contract—Partnership—Arbitration—Agreement for reference—Action impeaching Contract—Staying Arbitration—Injunction—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25.

The plaintiff and defendants, both corn merchants, entered into a joint speculation in a cargo of hay, under an alleged agreement consisting of a series of telegrams and letters culminating in a contract or "sold note" of the 15th of June, 1888, which purported to be a purchase by the plaintiff from the defendants of the cargo at 100*s.* per ton, subject to the printed rules of the Liverpool Corn Trade Association, which provided for the reference to arbitration of "all disputes arising out of transactions connected with the trade." The sold note was sent by the defendants to the plaintiff with a letter stating, "It is understood and hereby agreed that we take one half joint interest with yourself in this cargo"; and the plaintiff wrote in reply confirming the "contract." Disputes subsequently arose in reference to accounts furnished by the defendants to the plaintiff of freight and expenses in connection with the cargo on its arrival, and to a claim by the defendants to retain the themselves a profit of 5*s.* per ton, they having, it appeared, originally bought the hay themselves at 95*s.* per ton.

The defendants then gave notice of their intention to proceed to arbitration, whereupon the plaintiff issued the writ in this action claiming a declaration that a partnership existed between himself and the defendants: an account of all moneys received by the defendants belonging to the partnership; payment of what should be found due on such account; and an injunction restraining the defendants from proceeding to arbitration.

Upon a motion by the plaintiff, an order was made by Lord Russell, L.C.J., sitting as Vacation Judge, granting an injunction restraining the defendants, until the trial, from proceeding to arbitration. The defendants appealed from that order.

T. Willes Chitty, for the defendants.

Marten, Q.O., and Stokes, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT OF APPEAL (Lindley, and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) said that, according to Myins v. Dickinson (G. Cooper, 12 Q. B. 703), and Maunsell v. Midland Great Western Railway Company (1 H. & M. 130), it was the practice of the old Court of Chancery to restrain proceeding to arbitration in cases where the instrument containing the agreement for reference was impeached by proceedings in Chancery, and that jurisdiction had not been curtailed by sect. 25 of the Judicature Act, 1873. The jurisdiction of the Court to grant an injunction in such cases at the present day was not questioned in North London Railway Company v. Great Northern Railway Company (11 Q. B. D. 30), which was distinguishable from the other cases in that there was no attempt to impeach the document containing the agreement for reference. The decision in that case was merely that no jurisdiction was conferred by the Judicature Act in cases where, prior to that Act, no injunction had usually been granted by the Court of Chancery. In the present instance there was a clear case for the exercise of the jurisdiction, and the appeal must be dismissed, with costs.

CLEVELAND WATER COMPANY v. REDCAR LOCAL BOARD.

Waterworks Company—Local Authority—Restriction on Construction of Waterworks—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 55), ss. 51, 52.

The predecessors of the defendant board had had, in 1856, by virtue of the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1848, s. 75, which were similar to those of the Public Health Act, 1875, ss. 51, 52, constructed waterworks for supplying Redcar with water, and from time to time they had added to, and enlarged, their works.

In 1869, the Plaintiff Company, under their special Act, obtained powers for supplying a large area, which included Redcar; but they had not up to the present time supplied Redcar with water, though they were in a position to do so, as their pipes passed through Redcar on their way to supply a neighbouring town. The defendant board now proposed to construct an additional reservoir, to be connected with the existing system, capable of containing 6,000,000 gallons, for which purpose they were going to acquire additional land and a fresh source of water supply.

A motion was now made, on behalf of the plaintiff company, to restrain the defendant board from commencing or proceeding to construct waterworks in the district of Redcar, or elsewhere within the limits of supply of the plaintiff company, unless and until they had given notice to the plaintiff company, stating the purposes for, and the extent to, which water was required by them as the urban authority, pursuant to sect. 52 of the Public Health Act, 1875; the plaintiff company being able and willing to supply water in that district, sufficient for all reasonable purposes.

Whitehorse, Q.O., and Micklem, for the plaintiff company, argued, that the intention of the Legislature was, to preserve the regulated monopoly of the water company, and that the defendant board were "commencing to construct waterworks" within the meaning of sect. 52 of the Act of 1875, and must therefore comply with that section before commencing; and further, that as they were "able and willing" to supply any reasonable amount of water, the defendant board could not lawfully do what was proposed.

Byrne, Q.C., and A. T. Lawrence, contended that the works proposed were only an addition to, or extension of, existing waterworks, and therefore not within the restrictions imposed by sect. 52.

CHITTY, J., said sect. 51, enabling a local authority to supply water, must be read in connection with sect. 52, with the result, that the restriction contained in the latter section was not absolute, but only one of degree; and in his opinion sect. 52 was not intended to apply to a case where the local authority had, previously to the passing of the special Act incorporating the water company, substantial waterworks already in existence. It was unreasonable to suppose that sect. 52 of the Act meant that a local authority, having already existing waterworks, could not add to them or improve them; and in his Lordship's opinion the term "waterworks" in sect. 52 meant new waterworks, and did not apply to existing waterworks. For these reasons he was of opinion that the defendant board were not under the obligation, contended for by the plaintiff company, of giving notice before proceeding to execute the enlargement proposed; the application was therefore wrong, and must be dismissed with the usual consequences as to costs.

WELTHAM v. PIERCEY.

Administration—Land situate in Foreign Country—Devise on Trusts void under Foreign Law—Valid Trust for Sale—Application of Proceeds of Sale.

Summons to proceed upon an inquiry directed in an order for the administration of the estate of B. Piercey.

The testator died in March, 1888. He was a domiciled Englishman, and was the absolute owner of some land in Sardinia. By his will he devised and bequeathed all his real and personal estate, whatsoever and wheresoever, to trustees, upon trust to sell and convert the same into money. And he directed his trustees to hold the moneys thus to arise, upon trust thereout, in the first place, to pay expenses, and to apply a specified proportion of his estate to such charitable objects as his trustees might determine, and to stand possessed of his residuary real and personal estate until conversion, and the surplus of the said moneys, and all his estate after conversion, upon the trusts in the will mentioned. By the administration order an inquiry was directed—"What was the testator's estate and interest in lands situate elsewhere than in England, and whether such estates passed by the testator's will and were validly devised on the trusts thereof, and, if not, who are entitled to such lands, and for what estates and interests?" The inquiry was referred to the judge for decision. It was alleged that under Italian law the provisions of the will were altogether, or at any rate in part, invalid as regarded land situate in Italy. Opinions were obtained from a number of Italian advocates, but they did not agree as to the effect of Italian law.

Sir A. T. Watson, Q.C., and James Rolt; Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Badcock; and P. M. Walters; for the other parties.

NORTH, J., held, as the result of the opinions of the Italian advocates, that, subject to a life interest given by the will to the testator's widow, the trusts as regarded the land in Italy were invalid under the Italian law, but that the trust for sale was valid. And he was of opinion that the proceeds of sale must be held by the trustees upon the trusts declared by the will, which were valid under English law, and, as regarded the proceeds of sale, were not affected by Italian law.

Voluntary Settlement—Time of ascertaining Member of Class.

By an indenture between Arthur John Knapp, a voluntary settlor, and trustees, the settlor covenanted that he or his representatives would pay a sum of 14,000*l.* to the trustees upon such trusts as the settlor should appoint, and, in default of appointment upon trust, to divide the same equally among such of the younger children of Mathew G. S. Knapp, the tenant for life under a settlement of real estate, who, being sons, should attain 21 years, or, being daughters, should attain that age or marry, in addition to their portions under the settlement of real estate. There was a proviso cutting down the amount payable to younger children to 2000*l.* if there should be one only who attained a vested interest, and to 3000*l.* apiece if there should be two only who attained a vested interest. Arthur John Knapp died without having exercised his power of appointment. The sum of 14,000*l.* had been duly paid to the trustees of the voluntary settlement and invested. Mathew G. S. Knapp was still alive; he had five younger children, two of whom had attained 21.

This was a summons to obtain a declaration as to whether the two younger children who had attained 21 were now entitled to have money paid them out of the 14,000*l.* to the extent of 3000*l.* each, including a sum that had previously been paid to one of them; and as to what were the rights and interests of the five younger children of Mathew G. S. Knapp in the investments representing the 14,000*l.*

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Whately, for the plaintiffs to the summons, the two younger children of Mathew G. S. Knapp now of age.

Everitt, Q.C., and Warrington, for the trustees of the voluntary settlement.

NORTH, J., held that the members of the class of younger children to take under the voluntary settlement were ascertainable on one of them attaining a vested interest; and the two eldest, who had attained 21, were entitled now to be paid sums up to 3000*l.* apiece, subject to succession duty; that the trustees were entitled to apply the income of one-fifth of the investments representing the 14,000*l.* for the maintenance and education of each infant.

Vendor and Purchaser—Condition limiting Commencement of Title—Prior Title not to be objected to—Right to object to prior Title as shewn aliunde.

Summons, under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, by a purchaser of real estate, asking for a declaration that the vendors had not shewn a good title to the property, and that they might be ordered to repay the deposit, with interest.

The property was sold as an estate in fee simple, subject to this condition: "The title shall commence with an indenture of conveyance on sale, dated the 23rd of January, 1869, and the prior title, whether appearing in any abstracted document or not, shall not be required, investigated or objected to." The purchaser objected that, by reason of a will dated in 1865, which did not appear in the abstract of title, but which he had discovered aliunde, the vendors had only a title to a life estate, instead of an estate in fee.

Beaumont, for the vendors, contended that the purchaser was prevented by the condition from raising the objection.

NORTH, J., held that the purchaser was bound by the condition, and dismissed the summons, but without costs. His Lordship would not express any opinion whether the vendor could have enforced specific performance of the contract; that might have been a difficulty in their doing so. But the summons was in effect an action for the return of the deposit. Hume v. Bentley (5 De G. & Sm. 520) shewed that the condition was valid, and that it prevented the purchaser from raising the objection. And this was in accordance with the opinion expressed in Fry on Specific Performance (3rd Ed. p. 534). No doubt in Darlington v. Hamilton (Kay, 550) Lord Hatherley said: "It is quite clear, according to the doctrine referred to and confirmed in Warren v. Richardson (You. 1) and Shepherd v. Keatley (1 O. M. & R. 117), that, whatever may be the terms of the condition of sale, if the purchaser obtain information aliunde that the title of the vendor is not clear and distinct, he has a right to insist upon the objection." The two cases to which Lord Hatherley there referred did not bear out what he said; and in Dart's Vendors and Purchasers (6th Ed. p. 150) it was said that the doctrine laid down by Lord Hatherley (as above quoted) "appears to be too broadly stated." In Darlington v. Hamilton the actual decision was clearly within the authorities, for the condition was only that the purchaser should not require proof or production of the lessor's title, or any title prior to the lease. The other cases which had been referred to—Elsie v. Elsie (Law Rep. 13 Eq. 196), Waddell v. Wolfe (Law Rep. 9 Q. B. 515), Jones v. Clifford (3 Ch. D. 779), and Saunders v. Robinson (13 Ch. D. 148)—did not shew that such a condition as that in the present case was not valid. In his Lordship's opinion it was a valid condition, and it precluded the purchaser from making this application. The summons was to be dismissed, but it was not a case for giving costs.

ship was not now deciding that the purchaser was bound to accept the title, if it was bad; in fact, he did not know whether the title was good or bad.

James, J. KIBBLE v. FAIRTHORNE. Nov. 9.

Statutes of Limitation—Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Extinguishment of Right to Land—Second Mortgage—Mortgagor in Possession.

In 1864, E. F. Fairthorne conveyed land to a building society by way of mortgage. In September, 1874, he executed what purported to be a first mortgage of the same property to T. Kibble to secure 700*l.* and interest; and in 1877 he gave an additional mortgage on the same property to a bank. In 1881, on the trustee in bankruptcy of Pain delivered the mortgage deed of 1874 to E. F. Fairthorne.

In May, 1886, all the money secured by the mortgage of 1874 had been paid off, and the building society gave E. F. Fairthorne the mortgage deed of 1864, with the usual statutory endorsement on it. In 1890 T. Kibble, at the request of E. F. Fairthorne, paid off the charge of the bank, and shortly afterwards obtained from E. F. Fairthorne what purported to be a first mortgage to secure the amount advanced. Kibble afterwards took proceedings to enforce his mortgage as against the property and E. F. Fairthorne, and also against C. Fairthorne, F. Fairthorne, and F. Fairthorne, who claimed to have a prior right to the property.

These three persons had in June, 1893, obtained from E. F. Fairthorne what purported to be a conveyance of the property. The recitals in this deed shewed that no part of the principal or interest secured by the mortgage of 1874 had been paid by the mortgagor; and Kibble in his pleadings alleged that at the date of the conveyance not only were the trustees of Pain and those representing him to the money advanced barred by the Statute of Limitations, but that all their rights to the land was extinguished. E. F. Fairthorne was in continuous possession of the property from prior to 1864 until trial.

W. L. C., and S. Dickinson, for the other defendants.

James, J., said that under the Statutes of Limitation there were two sets of provisions, one of which dealt with the rights of mortgagors and others against the land itself, and the other with their personal remedies. In the former case, when the statutory limitation operated, not only was the remedy against the land barred, but the mortgagee's interest in it was extinguished. In the present case, no payment having been made or acknowledgment given in respect of the mortgage of 1874, the charge itself was extinguished, notwithstanding the existence of the prior legal mortgage. The legal mortgagees had never been in possession. Throughout the statutory period the mortgagor himself had been in possession, and those claiming under the mortgage of 1874 could have brought an action as regards the land, for a foreclosure action was such an action. Those claiming under Pain, therefore, could not set up any prior charge, and the plaintiff was entitled, against the legal mortgagee, to the usual relief.

Company—Voluntary Winding-up—Reconstruction—Shareholders—Option to take Shares in New Company—Reasonable Notice—Companies Act, 1862, s. 161.

C. Tarling was the registered holder of 500 fully paid shares of 1*l.* each in the company, his address being entered in the register of shareholders. He changed his place of abode without notifying the change to the company.

On the 28th of March and the 12th of April, 1894, the company passed and confirmed special resolutions that it was desirable to reconstruct the company, and for voluntary winding-up, on the terms of a scheme submitted to the meeting, and the appointment of W. Adams as liquidator "with power pursuant to sect. 161 of the Companies Act, 1862, to enter into an agreement with the new company to be formed in the terms of the draft agreement submitted to and approved at the meeting."

The scheme provided for the formation of a new company of the same name under articles to be approved by the liquidator and provided that of the 115,000 shares of 1*l.* each therein 99,905 shares "shall, in the first instance, be offered, share for share, to the holders of shares of the existing company, but any shares not accepted by them within the time to be named by the liquidator for that purpose are to be dealt with at the discretion of the liquidator," 17*s.* being credited as paid up on each share.

On the 28th of March, 1894, an agreement was entered into with a syndicate for the sale to the latter of the shares not taken up under the scheme.

On the 17th of April, 1894, the liquidator posted notices to the shareholders stating that the agreement provided that if a shareholder wished to avail himself of his right to an allotment of new shares, he must make his claim and send a certain amount on or before the 25th of April, in default of which the shares would be otherwise dealt with. By a subsequent notice issued by the liquidator the time was extended to the 28th of April.

On the 28th of April the new company was registered, but there was no agreement with it till the 3rd of May, when an agreement was entered into between the old company, its liquidator, and the new company, under which the liquidator was entitled to have allotted to his nominees 99,905 shares, to the intent that they might be offered for subscription to the members of the old company; and each such member was declared to be entitled as of right to one new share for every old share held by him. Unclaimed shares were to be at the disposal of the liquidator. But the agreement did not limit the time within which the old shareholders were to apply for new shares.

An agreement dated the following day, between the same parties, provided for the allotment of the 99,905 shares to the liquidator's nominees. Most of these shares were allotted to the old shareholders on Saturday the 5th of May.

The liquidator's notice to Tarling never reached him, owing to his not having notified his change of address, and he was unaware of what had happened till the 5th of May. On the 7th of May he attended at the company's office and asked for his proportion of new shares, offering to pay the amount due on them, but was told he had come too late.

Tarling applied by summons in the liquidation that the liquidator might be ordered to procure to him an allotment of shares pursuant to the agreement of the 3rd of May, 1894.

Kirby, in support of the summons, contended that under sect. 161 of the Act of 1862 the shares ought to be distributed amongst the shareholders of the old company; and although the liquidator might sell surplus shares, if he did so without the sanction of the Court it was at his own risk. Until the 28th of April, when the option to elect to take new shares expired, there was no new company in existence in which shares could be taken or agreed to be taken, and, until there was, no shareholder in the old company was bound to exercise his option, or could be debarred by not having done so. Therefore, no reasonable time within which to elect had been given to the applicant.

R. M. Bray, for the respondent, said that the liquidator had done all he could to give the applicant notice of what was being done, and if owing to his change of address the notice did not reach him, that was owing to his own negligence.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said the liquidator had been in too great a hurry. Fresh notices should have been sent to the shareholders after the agreement of the 3rd of May had been entered into. There had been a slip, and the liquidator must take the consequences of it. If he could not get the shares for the applicant, there must be an inquiry before the registrar as to the damage which the applicant had sustained by reason of the shares not being allotted to him.

[Salvage—Practice—Evidence of Value—Tender—County Court Rules, 1892, Order xxxix. B, rr. 30, 31, 32.

By Order xxxix. B of the County Court Rules, 1892—

Rule 30: "Where in an Admiralty action the amount sued for is paid into Court, together with costs, or the security completed, or the plaintiff requires it, the registrar shall deliver to the party applying for the same an order directed to the high bailiff of the Court, authorizing and directing him, upon payment of all costs, charges, and expenses attending the custody of the property, to release it forthwith."

Rule 31: "Notwithstanding the last preceding rule, the property in an Admiralty action for salvage shall not be released, except with the consent of the plaintiff, until its value has been agreed or an affidavit of value filed on behalf of the party seeking the release, unless the Court or the judge shall otherwise order."

Rule 32: "If the plaintiff is dissatisfied with the value mentioned in the affidavit filed under the preceding rule he shall be entitled to have the value ascertained by appraisement, and for such purpose shall file a præcipe. The costs of such appraisement shall be in the discretion of the Court."

On the 11th of November, 1893, the owners, master, and crew of the steam trawler Retriever instituted in the county court of Yorkshire, holden at Kingston-upon-Hull, an action for salvage, in the sum of 150*l.*, against the owners and parties interested in the smack Argo, her cargo and freight.

On the 15th of November the owners of the Argo, as defendants, gave notice of tender, and paid the sum of 75*l.* into Court, in settlement of the claim of the plaintiffs, but without costs, the amount having been tendered before action.

On the 20th of November the defendants filed an affidavit putting the value of the Argo at 140*l.*, and of the fish on board at 42*l.* 15*s.* On the 22nd of November the plaintiffs' solicitors wrote to the defendants' solicitors: "We have received affidavit. You cannot expect us to receive your affidavit as to value." And on the same day the defendants' solicitors wrote to the plaintiffs' solicitors: "Our estimate is ample. If you intend to dispute this at the trial we must ask you to give us notice that we may be ready at the trial."

No formal notice was given; but, on the hearing of the case on the 22nd of January, 1894, the plaintiffs tendered evidence of the value of the smack. The defendants objected on the ground that if the plaintiffs were dissatisfied with the value mentioned in the affidavit they should have applied, under rule 32, to have the value ascertained by appraisement, and that it was too late now to question the value. The learned county court judge, however, held that the rules referred to were solely connected with the question of arrest, and did not in positive words preclude evidence at the hearing, and therefore subject to granting an adjournment if required, he "was bound to let the evidence in."

Evidence was accordingly admitted with a view of showing that the value of the smack was 400*l.*, and the defendant produced evidence to shew that the value they put upon the vessel was correct. The learned county court judge fixed the value of the Argo, for the purposes of salvage, at 272*l.*, and the fish salvaged at 48*l.*, making 320*l.*, and made an award of 80*l.* (including the 75*l.* in Court), being 40*l.*, or one-eighth for salvage and 40*l.* for loss of fishing.

On appeal:

Sir Walter Phillimore, and A. E. Nelson, for the appellants (defendants).

Butler Aspinall, for the respondents (plaintiffs).

Held, by the DIVISIONAL COURT (Sir F. H. Jeune, President, and Bruce, J.), that under rule 32 the plaintiffs, if satisfied with the value given in the affidavit, had a right of appraisement for the purpose of determining what the value res should be taken to be at the trial, so as to avoid the expense of calling experts. Secondly, that, in the exercise of the discretion which the learned county court judge ought to have exercised, the evidence was, in the circumstances, inadmissible, and the affidavit of value conclusive.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Second Division of the Court of Session, Scotland (21 Oct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Bettie), 518), in an action of multiplepounding originating in the Sheriff Court of Lanarkshire, to determine the right to a fund held by A. Cross & Sons of Glasgow, which was claimed both by the appellants and respondents. The appellants are bankers at Liverpool, and C. Page & Co. were merchants at the same place. In April, 1892, C. Page & Co. obtained a loan from the appellants giving by way of security a bill of lading, blank indorsed, of 1623 tons of phosphate rock then afloat; with an immediate and absolute power of sale to the appellants, under which power the appellants authorized C. Page & Co. to enter into contracts for the sale of the merchandise on their behalf. Subsequently the appellants returned the bill of lading with a letter: "We transfer to you as trustees for us the bill of lading . . . to obtain delivery on our account of the merchandise referred to in such bill of lading. We further authorize you to enter into contracts for the sale of the merchandise on our behalf . . . and pay the proceeds to us towards the retirement of the advance."

The respondents, the Glasgow agents of Page & Co., had sold for them in 1891 similar merchandise to Cross & Sons of Glasgow, and on receiving back the bill of lading Page & Co. sent it to the respondents in order to deliver the same to Cross & Sons, and remit the price. Cross & Sons paid part of the price, which reached the bank through Page & Co.; but before the whole sum was paid the respondents arrested the balance in the hands of Cross & Sons in Scotland on dependence of an action at their instance against Page & Co. The appellants also claimed the fund in question.

The Court of Session decided that by Scotch law the appellants, by delivery of the bill of lading to the pledgors, Page & Co., lost their right of pledgees of the cargo, and had no preferable right of property therein entitling them to payment of the sum in question, and held the respondents entitled to the fund in medio.

Finlay, Q.C., and L. Sanderson (with them H. Aitken, of the Scotch Bar), heard for the appellants.

Sir R. Webster, Q. C., and D. C. Leck, heard for the respondents. THE HOUSE (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lords Watson and Macnaghten) reversed the interlocutors appealed from, holding the appellants entitled to the fund in question. The respondents to pay both the costs below and here. Tod & Son v. Merchant Banking Company (10 Court Sess. Cas. 4th Series (Bettie), 1009) distinguished.

LORD HERSCHELL, L.C., said that the rights of Page & Co. and the appellants must be determined, if the strictly legal course was to be followed, by the law of England, for there was nothing to be determined for the purpose of arriving at a conclusion in the action except what was the real nature of the transaction at Liverpool between Page & Co. and the appellants. Was it a sale for or on behalf of the appellants, or was it a sale of the goods of Page & Co. in respect of which the appellants could not claim to be principals? The only ground upon which the Courts below decided that it was a sale not of the appellants' goods, but of Page's, was,—That in order that a pledge may be effectual, possession must continue in the pledgee; that parting with the possession is parting with his security and with any property which the pledge gives, and that even if the pledge may be parted with to a stranger, so that the possession of the stranger should be still the possession of the pledgee, that possession cannot be so parted with to the pledgor himself, and that if the pledgor receive back possession of the goods pledged, however clear it may be that he was to receive them only as the agent of the pledgee to do something with them on the pledgee's behalf, the law of Scotland inexorably requires that it shall be held that the pledge is at an end, and that the entire property has reverted to the pledgor, because he has regained possession of the goods which he had pledged.—His Lordship continued: He need hardly say, that if the law of England applied, no such point would for a moment be arguable. There could be no doubt the pledgee could hand back to the pledgor as his agent for the purpose of sale the goods pledged without in the slightest degree diminishing the full force and effect of his security. If the rule alleged existed in Scotch law, it was one which ran counter to every-day commercial practice; but his Lordship was quite unable to see that the authorities cited were any authority for the proposition upon which the case was decided. Secondly, it was argued that this could not be a sale by the appellants of the appellants' goods to Cross & Sons, because Page's contract with Cross & Sons was of prior date to the appellants' interest in the goods. But if an owner of goods placed his goods for sale in the hands of an agent, and if that agent for the purpose of implementing an open contract which he has, delivers these goods to the person who has made that contract with him in such a way that, upon delivery, the sale becomes complete, and the obligation to pay the price arises, that is just as much a sale of his principal's goods to that person, and just as much makes the purchaser liable to his principal as if he had no contract before the goods were delivered, and had afterwards made the only contract that was ever made. This could not be doubted in either English or Scotch law. Therefore, the right of the appellants to these goods was still effectual at the time of delivery to Cross & Sons, and was also effectual at the time when the arrest of the price was made, and a creditor of Page & Co. could not in Scotland, any more than in England, insist that the price was a debt due from Cross & Sons to Page & Co. which he had a right to arrest as being a creditor of Page & Co. Thirdly, it was argued that at the time when the arrest was made (May 3, 1892) there was no debt due from Page & Co. to the appellants. Page & Co. had received part of the price of the cargo, and instead of paying it in upon the account of this advance, when they paid it in on the 20th of April, 1892, they paid it in in respect of another advance. It was argued for the respondents that the appellants were bound, as between them and Page, or at all events between them and the arrestors, to attribute this payment to the first advance, and, that so attributing it, there was nothing due. But the whole of this transaction took place before there was any arrest at a time when the question was a question between Page and the appellants. It was perfectly open to them to have arranged that that sum, though a part of the proceeds of the cargo, should go in discharge of another debt due to the appellants, and that the residue of the pledged goods should be the only security for the amount remaining due on the old debt. And although the appellants did not know that Page was allotting part of the price of the cargo pledged to another advance, yet it made no difference, for when they knew the fact they could adopt the arrangement which Page & Co. so made. There was another point as to a claim for 164*l.* for commission, &c., in relation to the sale, which his Lordship also held untenable in this action.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Bkcy. In re NORDENFELT. Nov. 9.
Ex parte MAXIM-NORDENFELT GUNS AND AMMUNITION COMPANY.

Bankruptcy Petition—Receiving Order—Debtor not domiciled in England—“ Dwelling-house in England ”—Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52), s. 6, sub-s. 1 (d).

Appeal against the refusal of Mr. Registrar Brougham to make a receiving order against T. Nordenfelt, on a bankruptcy petition presented by the Maxim-Nordenfelt Company.

There was no dispute as to the petitioning creditors' debt, or the commission of the act of bankruptcy alleged.

The debtor was not domiciled in England, nor had he within a year before the presentation of the petition been ordinarily resident in England, or had a place of business there. But the petition alleged that he had within the year had a dwelling-house in England, and was, therefore, under sub-sect. 1 (d) of sect. 6 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, liable to bankruptcy proceedings there. The petition was presented on the 9th of November, 1893. The debtor had resided at Beckenham, in Kent, in a house the lease of which he had purchased. On the 30th of November, 1891, he left that house, with his wife and servants, and went to reside in Paris. His furniture remained in the house, which was put in charge of a caretaker, and he instructed a house-agent to endeavour to let the house, either furnished or unfurnished. A board was put up at the house announcing that it was to be let. No tenant having been obtained, the furniture was in May, 1892, offered for sale by auction. The greater part of it was sold; but the rest (said by the debtor to be worth 500*l.*) was left in the house, packed up ready for removal. In December, 1892, the debtor sold the house. Since November, 1891, he had not resided in the house, though he could have done so at any time before the sale, if he had wished. He had during the interval been in England occasionally. On the 16th of November, 1892, he made two affidavits in an action which he had brought in England. In one of those affidavits he described himself as of the house at Beckenham, and in the other (which was made in answer to an application by the defendant for security for costs, on the ground that the debtor was resident abroad) the debtor stated that he owned the house at Beckenham, and that he could reside in it whenever he was so disposed.

The registrar was of opinion that the debtor had left the house in November, 1891, under circumstances which shewed an intention of never returning to it, and that he had not within the year had a dwelling-house in England within the meaning of sub-sect. 1 (d) of sect. 6, and the registrar on this ground dismissed the petition. The company appealed.

Jelf, Q.C., and F. Cooper Willis, for the company, contended that it was sufficient if within the year the debtor had had a "potential" dwelling-house in England—a house into which he could go and dwell at any moment he pleased. The question could not turn upon the debtor's intention.

Herbert Reed, Q.C., and Wace, for the debtor, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Rigby, L.JJ.), without giving any definition of "dwelling-house" as used in sub-sect. 1 (d), dismissed the appeal on the ground that the evidence proved that in November, 1891, the debtor had abandoned the house as his dwelling-house, and had never again within the year adopted it as such.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) said that Vint v. Padget, being the decision of a Court co-ordinate in its jurisdiction with that of their Lordships, could not be overruled by them; and they accordingly dismissed the appeal.

Solicitor—Partnership—Liability for Acts of one Partner—Deposit of Securities—Scope of Authority—Partnership Act 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 39), s. 11.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Kekewich, J.

The plaintiff, Rhodes, was a landowner in Northamptonshire. In 1891 Mr. Rew, a partner in the firm of Hughes Masterman, solicitors, was consulted by the plaintiff, who was a client of the firm, with the view of obtaining a loan of 6000*l.* on his estate. The defendants, Mrs. Moules and her son, who were also clients of the firm, agreed to advance the money out of funds which were in their hands as trustees. A mortgage was prepared by Rew, and duly executed by the plaintiff. Rew, however, represented to the plaintiff that the defendant considered the security insufficient and required collateral security. The plaintiff accordingly placed in Rew's hands twenty-eight share-warrants, each representing ten shares, the De Beers Consolidated Mines, of 5*l.* each, which were transferable to bearer. It was not true that the mortgage had required additional security, and they never heard of the share-warrants being deposited with Rew; nor had Rew partners any knowledge of their being so deposited with him. It appeared, however, that on two previous occasions the said share-warrants had been handed by the plaintiff to Rew, and by him transmitted to some brokers to secure advances from them to the plaintiff, which had been paid off; and these transactions had appeared in the partnership books.

In 1893 Rew absconded, having sold the shares and appropriated the money to his own use. The plaintiff then brought the present action against the mortgagees and Hughes Masterman, claiming as against the mortgagees redemption of the freehold estate and a re-transfer of the share-warrants, and as against Hughes & Masterman, in the alternative, a declaration that they were liable, jointly and severally, to make good to the plaintiff the loss which he had sustained by reason of the misappropriation of the share-warrants by Rew while partner in their firm. Kekewich, J., dismissed the action against all the defendants; and the plaintiff appealed.

Warmington, Q.C., and Dibdin, for the appellant.

Marten, Q.C., and Boome, for the defendants Moules.

Sir R. Webster, Q.C., Renshaw, Q.C., and Dickinson, for Hughes & Masterman.

LORD HERSHELL, L.C., said that the first question was whether the defendants Hughes & Masterman were liable to make good the loss to the plaintiff. It was argued that they were not liable because it was beyond the scope of the business of Rew, as a solicitor, to take shares payable to bearer from a client in this way, and therefore his partners, who were ignorant of what he did, were not liable for his act. It was clear, however, that on two previous occasions the firm had acted for the plaintiff in negotiating loans, and had received from him the very shares as security, and transmitted them to the loan and received them back when the loans were paid off. From facts which appeared in the evidence he thought it clear that these transactions were transactions of the firm. He was prepared to say, even apart from this evidence, that it would be outside the scope of the business of a solicitor, when negotiating a loan for a client, to receive securities from him for transmission to another client. But, without deciding point as a matter of law, he was of opinion that under these circumstances the plaintiff was justified in assuming that Rew had the authority of his partners to receive the shares for transmission to the lenders of the money. Cleather v. Twisden (28 Ch. D. 340) was distinguishable from the present case, because here the shares were not handed to Rew for safe custody, but for transmission to another client as security for a loan. He therefore held that the defendants Hughes & Masterman must be held responsible to the plaintiff for the loss of the shares. With respect to the defendants Moules, he agreed with the learned judge that they were not liable to the plaintiff. They never authorized Rew to receive the shares for them, nor did they know that he had received them. The judgment of Kekewich, J., must therefore be affirmed as to the defendants Moules, but reversed as to the defendants Hughes & Masterman.

Covenant—Construction—Covenant to pay 1000*l.* or to transfer 1000*l.* worth of Shares.

This was an appeal from a decision of Stirling, J. (ante, p. 164).

The defendant by deed covenanted to pay the plaintiffs 1000*l.*, or to transfer into their names 1000*l.* worth of paid-up shares in a company which he was to form. The company was formed with a capital of 12,000*l.*, divided into 600 preference and 600 ordinary shares of 10*l.*, each. The defendant transferred to the plaintiffs 100 ordinary shares expressed to be paid up. The shares of the company never had any marketable value. The plaintiffs refused to accept the shares, and claimed payment of 1000*l.* Stirling, J., held that the defendant had contracted to transfer shares in a company in which all the shareholders were on a footing of equality, which he could not do in the company which had been formed with preference and ordinary shares. He therefore gave judgment for payment of 1000*l.* The defendant appealed.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis, for the appellant.

Grossener Woods, Q.C., and Griffith Jones, for the plaintiffs.

LORD HALSBURY said that, independently of the ground on which the learned judge decided the case, as to which he gave his opinion, he thought that the true construction of the words "1000*l.* worth of shares" was shares which were worth 1000*l.* in the market. And as it was admitted to be impossible for the defendant to transfer shares of that value, he must pay the 1000*l.* in money. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

BARRY RAILWAY COMPANY v. TAFF VALE RAILWAY COMPANY.
Railway Commissioners—Jurisdiction—Ouster of Jurisdiction of Court—Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 25), ss. 9, 10—Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31), s. 6.

Appeal by the plaintiffs against a decision of Chitty, J.

The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from charging for the conveyance of goods and mineral traffic, destined for or coming from the undertaking of the plaintiffs, from or to certain places, rates per mile greater than the lowest rate which the defendants were, or should from time to time be, charging for like traffic to or from the docks at Cardiff or Penarth. The plaintiffs were incorporated by the Barry Dock and Railways Act, 1884. They conveyed goods and mineral traffic to and from their docks at Barry from and to certain points of junction where their railways joined those of the Taff Vale Company. The Taff Vale Company conveyed goods and mineral traffic to and from various collieries situate on or near their system from and to the several docks at Cardiff and Penarth, and also all goods and mineral traffic destined for and coming from the undertaking of the plaintiffs from and to the said collieries between those collieries and the junctions with the plaintiffs' lines. The plaintiffs had no direct communication by means of any railway of their own with the collieries. Sect. 23 of the Barry Company's Act, 1888, provided (1) that the Taff Vale Company should punctually and regularly forward, and afford all reasonable facilities for, goods and mineral traffic, destined for or coming from the undertaking of the Barry Company from or to certain specified places, at rates per mile not greater than the lowest rate which should for the time being be charged by the Taff Vale Company for like traffic to or from the docks at Cardiff, Penarth, or Barry. (2) That if at any time, on application made by the Barry Company to the Railway Commissioners sitting as arbitrators, the commissioners should decide that the Taff Vale Company had failed to give any of the facilities therein provided for, and should not, within reasonable time after notice, have remedied such failure, then the Barry Company might run over and use, with their engines, carriages and wagons, certain specified portions of the lines of the Taff Vale Company. The plaintiffs alleged that the defendants had been charging, and were continuing to charge, for the conveyance of goods and mineral traffic, destined for and coming from the plaintiffs' undertaking between their junctions and the collieries, rates per mile greater than they were justified by sect. 23 in charging. The plaintiffs claimed an injunction as above stated and damages.

The defendants denied that they had in fact charged rates higher than were permitted by sect. 23. And the defendants insisted that, if there had been any breach of sect. 23, the only remedy available to the plaintiffs was provided by that section, and further that, by reason of sects. 9 and 10 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1888, the Railway Commissioners alone had jurisdiction to deal with or give any remedy for any alleged breach of sect. 23, and that the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the action.

Chitty, J., following the decision of Day, J., in Taff Vale Railway Company v. Davis ([1894] 1 Q. B. 43), gave judgment for the defendants. The plaintiffs appealed.

Sir R. Webster, Q.C., Moulton, Q.C., and Joseph Shaw, for the plaintiffs.

Balfour Browne, Q.C., and W. J. Noble, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Herschell, L.C., and Lindley and A. L.

Smith, L.J.J.) allowed the appeal. They held that sub-sect. 3 of sect. 23, if it applied at all to a complaint of an excessive mileage rate, merely gave an option to the Barry Company to apply to the Railway Commissioners, and did not in any way oust the jurisdiction of the Court. They also held that sects. 9 and 10 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1888, did not confer exclusive jurisdiction on the commissioners, and that the exclusive jurisdiction given to the commissioners by sect. 6 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, applied only to a complaint of a violation of the provisions of any Act prior to that Act. Upon the construction of sect. 23 of the Barry Act of 1888 their Lordships held that the defendants had been charging rates higher than were permitted by that section, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to the relief which they claimed.

Revenue—Account Duty—Gift of Personality—Mortgage Debt—Benefit to Donor by way of Contract or otherwise—Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1881 (44 Vict. c. 12), s. 38, sub-s. 2—Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1889 (52 Vict. c. 7), s. 11, sub-s. 1.

Appeal from the judgment of a Divisional Court (Mathew and Cave, J.J.) upon an English information.

The facts were as follows. Certain freehold and copyhold hereditaments were mortgaged by the owners to the defendant's father to secure payment of a loan of 26,150*l.* A portion of the mortgage debt was paid off, but default being made in payment of the balance, the defendant's father brought an action in the Chancery Division for foreclosure. It was found in that action that a sum of 23,924*l.* remained due to him on the mortgage, and an order was made by which the mortgagors had six months for payment of the amount due before the foreclosure became absolute. Before the expiration of that period by indenture dated the 12th of January, 1886, and made between the defendant's father, the mortgagors, and the defendant, it was witnessed that in consideration of the sum of 575*l.* paid by the defendant to the mortgagors, and in further consideration of the covenant on the part of the defendant thereafter contained, such covenant being accepted by the defendant's father in satisfaction of the mortgage debt of 23,924*l.*, from which he thereby released the mortgagors and the defendant, the mortgagors and the defendant's father did thereby convey to the defendant the mortgaged hereditaments discharged from the mortgage debt, and by the same indenture the defendant covenanted with his father to pay to him during his life the yearly sum of 735*l.*

The defendant's father died on the 12th of July, 1890, and on the 23rd of September his will with two codicils was duly proved in the district registry at Manchester.

The Commissioners of Inland Revenue claimed from the defendant account stamp duty on the before-mentioned sum of 23,924*l.*, under sect. 38, sub-sect. 2 (a) of 44 Vict. c. 12, extended by sect. 11, sub-sect. 1, of 52 Vict. c. 7, and also estate duty under 52 Vict. c. 7, s. 5, which the defendant refused to pay. Sect. 33, sub-sect. 2 (a), provides that "the personal or moveable property to be included in an account shall be property of the following descriptions, viz. (a) any property taken as a donatio mortis causa made by any person dying on or after the 1st of June, 1881, or taken under a voluntary disposition, made by any person so dying, purporting to operate as an immediate gift inter vivos, whether by way of transfer, delivery, declaration of trust or otherwise, which shall not have been bonâ fide made three months before the death of the deceased." By sect. 11, sub-sect. 1, of 52 Vict. c. 7, the above-mentioned section is amended as follows: "The description of property marked (a) shall be read as if the word 'twelve' were substituted for the word 'three' therein, and the said description of property shall include property taken under any gift, whenever made, of which property bonâ fide possession and enjoyment shall not have been assumed by the donee immediately upon the gift and thenceforward retained, to the entire exclusion of the donor, or of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise."

The Divisional Court gave judgment for the Crown.

Byrne, Q.C., and T. Willes Chitty (F. Newbolt, with them), for the defendant, contended, first, that the subject-matter which passed from the defendant's father to the defendant under the indenture of 1886 was realty, not personality, secondly, that the transaction was a sale, and not a gift; thirdly, that, if it were a gift, there being nothing reserved to or retained by the donor out of the subject-matter of such gift, the case was not within sect. 11, sub-sect. 1, of 52 Vict. c. 7.

Sir R. T. Reid, S.-G., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the Crown.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) held that none of the defendant's contentions could be sustained; that the "benefit" to the donor contemplated by sect. 11, sub-sect. 1, of 52 Vict. c. 7, was not confined to a reservation properly so called out of the subject-matter of the gift, and that the case fell within the sub-section as being that of a gift of personal property of which bonâ fide possession was not assumed by the donee immediately upon the gift, to the entire exclusion of the donor, or of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise. They therefore dismissed the appeal.

NALW v. BURNS.

Nov. 17.

Appeal against a decision of Day, J., in chambers, dismissing an appeal from the refusal of the Master to order a commission to issue to Bathurst, in Canada, for the examination of the defendant. The action was brought by two bondholders of the Canadian Railway Company, a Canadian company, against the defendant, Burns, the chairman of the company, for alleged fraudulent misrepresentations contained in a prospectus issued in London inviting the public to subscribe for certain 6 per cent. mortgage bonds of the company. Burns was also the contractor for the railway. He resided in Bathurst, in Canada, and had no place of residence in England. The writ in the action was issued in February, 1891, at a time when Burns happened to be in England. Notice of trial was, however, not given till June 1894. The reason for the delay was that negotiations had be-ending for a long time between the parties with a view to settlement. In order to carry on these negotiations the defendant came to England in March, 1894. He, however, returned to Canada in April without having come to any final settlement, and the negotiations were continued for some time longer by letter. It was stated that the difference between the parties amounted to about 1000*l*. Shortly after notice of trial had been given, the defendant took out a summons for a commission to Bathurst. In support of this application he stated that he was a member of the Legislature in Canada, and that he held an important public position which made it difficult, if not impossible, for him to attend and give evidence at the trial, and that there were other material witnesses who were resident in Canada. The Master refused the application, and Day, J., in view of the fact that the defendant had been served with the writ in London and had been in London during the present year, affirmed the decision of the master. The defendant appealed.

Bigham, Q.C., and Tindal Atkinson, for the defendant, contended that, as he was domiciled abroad and was not the plaintiff but the defendant in the action, he ought not to be compelled to come over here to give his evidence.

Murphy, Q.C., and Fitzgerald, for the plaintiffs, contended that, having regard to the nature of the action, it was a case in which the defendant ought to be examined in open Court.

Lindley, L.J., did not think that this was a case in which the Court ought to refuse a commission. It was merely by a lucky accident that the plaintiffs were enabled to launch this action in this country at all. The defendant was resident in Canada, and, but for his temporary visit to England, the plaintiffs must have gone to Canada to sue him. Under those circumstances it was not for the defendant to shew why he should not come here, but for those who were suing him to shew why he should. The defendant had not gone back to Canada to escape justice, but because the negotiations for settlement of the action fell through. The general principle has been accurately enunciated by Chitty, J., in Ross v. Wood ([1894] 1 Ch. 38). In granting or refusing a commission to give evidence abroad, there was a material difference between a foreign plaintiff and a foreign defendant. Prima facie a foreigner who was sued in this country was entitled to a commission to the place where he lived. The appeal must be allowed.

L. SMITH, L.J., said, it was not suggested that this application was made for the purpose of delay, but it was said that if an Englishman sued in this country a person domiciled abroad, could force the defendant to come over to this country for trial of the action. His Lordship did not think that any such right existed. It was said that the object of compelling the defendant to come over here was to induce him to pay the money required to bring the parties to a settlement, as it was said that he would sooner pay the 1000*l*. than come to this country. It was said further that there were other gentlemen in this country who had lost their money in this company, and who wished to serve writs upon the defendant. In his Lordship's opinion, those were not legitimate motives for forcing the defendant to come over here. If Day, J., had been told that the defendant's presence in this country in March last was not for the purpose of defending the action, but for the purpose of carrying out negotiations for a settlement, which negotiations were still pending when he returned to Canada, that learned judge would probably have granted the commission. The appeal must be allowed.

SANGUINETTI v. STUCKEY'S BANKING COMPANY, LIMITED.

Bankruptcy—Priority—Voluntary Settlement "void as against the Trustee"—Extent of Avoidance—Bankruptcy Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vict. c. 52), s. 47.

In 1876, C. A. Messiter, being then tenant for life of certain real estates in the county of Somerset, executed a post-nuptial settlement, whereby his life interest was charged with an annuity of 500*l*. in favour of his wife and children.

On the 12th of March, 1883, C. A. Messiter executed another settlement, whereby an additional annuity of 800*l*. was settled on his wife and children.

On the 22nd of March, 1883, C. A. Messiter gave the plaintiff a charge in writing on his life interest in the said real estate for 1000*l*., and undertook when called upon to execute a legal mortgage. On the 23rd of February, 1885, C. A. Messiter was adjudicated bankrupt, and a trustee was appointed. On the 27th of June, 1888, an order was made in the bankruptcy proceedings, on the application of the trustee, with the consent of the parties beneficially interested under the said settlements, and by way of compromise, declaring that the settlement of 1876 should stand as valid, and that the settlement of 1883 should be "void as against the trustee" as a voluntary settlement.

The plaintiff having brought a foreclosure action to enforce his equitable charge, the trustee in bankruptcy now contended, that the effect of the order of the 27th of June, 1888, was, that the second settlement was void as against him only, and not generally, and consequently that he was entitled to receive the 800*l*. annuity for the benefit of the unsecured creditors in priority to the plaintiff's incumbrance.

Levett, Q.C., and George Henderson, for the plaintiff.

Farwell, Q.C., and Fossett Lock, for the trustee.

Kenyon Parker, and J. W. Baines, for subsequent incumbrancers.

CHITTY, J., said the second settlement had been set aside under the provisions of sect. 47 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883 as "void as against the trustee," but there was nothing in the section which entitled the trustee to stand in the place of the beneficiaries under the avoided settlement, or which gave him any priority, on behalf of the unsecured creditors, over incumbrancers subsequent to the settlement. The principle laid down by Ex parte Payne (11 Ch. D. 539) and Ex parte Blaiberg (23 Ch. D. 254), which were analogous cases under the Bills of Sale Act, applied. The contention therefore of the trustee failed.

Practice—Action by Married Woman—Dismissal—Costs—Restraint on Anticipation—Married Women's Property Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 63), s. 2—Form of Order.

This was an action for specific performance brought by a married woman which had been dismissed with costs.

The matter was now mentioned with respect to the proper form of order to be made having regard to sect. 2 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1893.

CHITTY, J., directed that the words "with liberty to apply for payment out of any property which is subject to a restraint on anticipation" should be added to the form of order in use before the Act was passed (vide Seton, 5th ed. p. 749, Form 1).

Practice—Payment of Money into Court—Payment by Plaintiff in Satisfaction of Counter-claim—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXII., r. 9—Supreme Court Funds Rules, 1886, r. 30; Appendix Form, No. 10.

This was an action of trespass. The defendant had delivered a defence and counter-claim. The plaintiff in the action desired to pay a sum of money into Court in satisfaction of the claim made by paragraphs 3 and 4 of the counter-claim. The Paymaster-General refused to receive the money, on the ground that rule 30 of the Supreme Court Funds Rules, 1886, and Form No. 10 in the Appendix to those Rules, did not provide for a payment into Court by a plaintiff.

Mayer, for the plaintiff, asked for a direction to the Paymaster-General to receive the money, and referred to Order XXII., r. 9.

NORTH, J., was of opinion that under Order XXII., r. 9, the plaintiff was entitled to make the payment into Court. The payment had better be expressed as made on behalf of Mary Hutchinson, the plaintiff in the action and the defendant to the counter-claim, in satisfaction of the claim made by paragraphs 3 and 4 of the counter-claim.

Will—Charity—Devise of Reversionary Interest in Land—Mortmain—Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1891 (54 & 55 Vict. c. 78), s. 5—Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 42), s. 4.

A testatrix, who died on the 6th of March, 1892, by her will, dated the 24th of October, 1890, under a power in that behalf appointed (subject to certain legacies) all her residuary real and personal estate to her husband for his life; and after his death she appointed three freehold houses to A. for life, and another freehold house to B. for life; and she declared that her trustees should hold her residuary real and personal estate upon trust to pay certain legacies, and subject thereto to retain or sell and convert the same with discretion to postpone such sale and conversion; and after creating other life-interests, and giving other legacies, she declared that upon the determination of the respective life-interests given by her will the whole of her property not thereinbefore disposed of, or such part or parts thereof as might be lawfully applicable for the purpose, should go and belong to the Croydon Rescue Association, and subject as aforesaid the trustees were to hold her residuary estate in trust for Y. absolutely.

Under the law of mortmain in force at the date of the will the disposition in favour of the charity would have failed as to such part of the residuary estate consisting of land; but between the date of the will and the death of the testatrix, the Mortmain and Charitable Uses Act, 1891 (54 & 55 Vict. c. 78) was passed and came into operation; and it was contended on behalf of the charity that under the provisions of that Act the residuary gift in its favour would take effect.

The question was raised upon summons taken out on behalf of Y.

Hastings, Q.C., and Alexander Young, for the plaintiff.

Buckley, Q.C., and Eve, for the Croydon Rescue Association.

Dibdin, for another charity; and

Mulligan, for the trustees.

STIRLING, J., said that the question arose upon sect. 5 of the Act of 1891, which provided that "land may be assured will to or for the benefit of any charitable use," which was appeared to his Lordship to enable testators to devise land in favour of charities for any estate or interest whatever they pleased. The statutory provision that land assured by will in favour of charities should be sold within one year from the death of the testator was relied on in argument as shewing that the gift or interest so assured must take effect in possession within that period: But a sale within a year was not imperative where there were provisions for extending the term, and a fee simple interest in land might be sold no less than an immediate interest. His Lordship therefore could not accede to the argument of the charity. He was of opinion that the charitable gift in the will of the testatrix was valid. In point of decision, the present case was covered by In re Bridger ([1893] 1 Ch. 44; [1894] 1 Ch. 297), where the question was not expressly dealt with in the judgment delivered therein.

Marriage Settlement—Covenant to settle Wife's other and acquired Property—Income—Accumulations—Purchase by Wife during Coverture—Loan—Charge in favour of Trustee.

By an antenuptial settlement certain property of the husband was settled upon the usual trusts, the first life interest being given to the wife for her separate use; and the settlement ained a covenant for the settlement, upon the same trusts, of any other property of which she should, at the time of the marriage, become seized or possessed. At the time of the marriage she was possessed of, besides the settled property, a leasehold house and some shares in a limited company. After the marriage, and during the coverture, she sold these properties and purchased certain other properties partly with the proceeds of sale, partly with accumulations of her income under the settlement, and partly with money borrowed by her from her bankers and afterwards repaid by herself and her husband. It was held, that the properties so purchased belonged to the wife absolutely, but subject to a charge, in favour of the trustees of the settlement, of the amount of income accumulations expended in the purchase, and also of the amount contributed by her towards the repayment of the loan from her bankers.

BUDGETT v. BUDGETT (No. 2).

Costs—Taxation—Items barred by Statute of Limitations—Costs, Charges, and Expenses of Trustees—Costs payable by Trustees to their Solicitors.

By the judgment in an action it was referred to the taxing master to tax as between solicitor and client the costs of the trustees of a settlement, including therein any charges and expenses that had been properly incurred by them as such trustees, and they were to pay and retain such costs when paid out of the capital moneys subject to the trusts of the settlement. The bill of costs carried in by the trustees included items which were statute-barred. Some of these amounts had actually been paid by the trustees to their solicitors; others remained unpaid, but the trustees desired to pay them. On taxation the tenant for life under the settlement objected to the allowance of all these items. The taxing master, however, allowed them in his certificate, but certified them separately. The tenant for life and the new trustees took out a summons to vary the certificate.

Butcher, for the summons.

Ingle Joyce, for the retiring trustees.

KEKEWICH, J., upheld the certificate. He referred to Green v. Milburn (42 Ch. D. 424), and said that although the common order to tax, or under a special order not making expressly with the question of statute-barred items, it is not right that the taxing master should not tax such items, the practice had no application to a case where there was a question to ascertain the costs, charges, and expenses properly incurred by trustees. Nor did the rule, whereby in an administration action an executor after judgment can be compelled to pay the statute, apply to such a case as the present, where the debt was that of the trustees. The Statute of Limitations gave the remedy, but not the debt. Here the object of the summons was to give effect to the trustees' right of indemnity, which extended not merely to claims which could be enforced by action, but to all fair claims of every kind. His Lordship therefore thought that these costs, which the trustees had properly incurred and which were paid or payable to their solicitors, ought, notwithstanding that they were statute-barred, to be included in the costs which were to be paid and retained out of the capital moneys subject to the settlement.

Costs—Taxation—Unnecessary Witness—Discretion of Taxing Master—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1833, Order LXV. r. 27, sub-r. 29.

This was a summons to review the taxing master's certificate in respect of the allowance of the costs of one of the witnesses at the trial of an action. It was alleged that the evidence of the witness was wholly unnecessary, and that the case came within the provision in Order LXV., r. 27, sub-r. 29, whereby no costs are to be allowed between party and party which appear to the taxing officer to have been incurred through over-caution, negligence, or mistake, or merely at the desire of the party.

Eve, for the summons.

W. Baker, for the respondent.

KEKEWICH, J., dismissed the summons, and said that his present impression upon the construction of the rule was that this was a matter for the discretion of the taxing master over which the Court had no jurisdiction. But even if the Court had jurisdiction, the case came within the rule that the judge ought not to go into matters of detail. The case was not like Budgett v. Budgett (ante, p. 181), for here it clearly appeared that the taxing master had gone through the whole of the pleadings and evidence, and had exercised his discretion.

HUDDESFIELD BANKING COMPANY v. HENRY LISTER & SON, LIMITED.

Mistake—Consent Order—Jurisdiction to set aside.

A petition for winding up the defendant company was presented on the 16th of January, 1892, and a winding-up order was made on the 30th of January, 1892.

On the 20th of January, 1892, a debenture-holders' action was commenced. In this action the official receiver, who was liquidator in the winding-up, was appointed receiver. The Huddersfield Banking Company were not parties to the action, but they claimed certain looms as passing to them under mortgages of certain premises held by the company on long leases. After inspection of the mortgaged premises by the bank and the parties to the action, the looms appeared to be loose chattels, and not fixtures or included in the mortgages; and on the 11th of October, 1892, a summons was taken out, on which the bank appeared, and on which, on the 17th of October 1893, a consent order was made that the looms should be sold and the proceeds paid to the receiver.

After such sale and payment the bank took out a summons to have the consent order set aside, the grounds alleged being that they had discovered that the looms were fixtures and were included in their mortgages, and that the consent order had been made under a mistake which was common to all parties.

Vaughan Williams, J., decided that he had no jurisdiction to deal with the matter; but on appeal an order was made by consent that the bank should be at liberty to bring such an action as they might be advised. They accordingly brought an action against the bank, the official receiver, and the debenture-holders, alleging that the looms had recently been detached from the floor of the premises by persons employed by the official receiver; that the arrangement for sale and the order giving effect thereto were agreed to and given under a mistake brought about by the wrongful acts of the persons so employed; that the looms belonged to the bank; and asking for an order setting aside the first consent order and ordering the proceeds of sale to be paid to the bank.

Cooper Willis, Q.C., and Kerahzu, for the bank.

Furvell, Q.C., and Alexander Young, for the defendants.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said he should allow the pleadings to be amended in such a way as to put the Court in a position to set aside the order if it could do so in an action properly constituted. Assuming the order was based on mutual mistake, the law would be in a very lamentable condition if the Court could not set the matter right, especially if no one had been injured by what had happened, or could be injured by the correction of the order. The technical difficulty had been removed by the bringing of the action by the bank. Although the consent order had been completed and acted on, the Court could set it aside on any ground which would justify the setting aside of an agreement. It was contended that the mistake resulted from the fraud of persons who were not before the Court, and Duranty's Case (26 Beav. 268) was relied on. It was further said that the order was a compromise. But Duranty's Case did not support the proposition sought to be based on it. When a party had been induced by a common mistake to consent to an order, the Court would give him relief unless his conduct had disentitled him to it. The mistake in the present case was that the persons who had inspected the premises had supposed that the machines were not and never had been fixtures. It was immaterial by whose fraud, if there was any, the mistake had been brought about. There had been no compromise; and holding, as he did, that the looms were fixtures and included in the mortgage the bank were entitled to the proceeds of the sale.

Company—Winding-up—Board of Trade—Official Receiver—Sanction to Proceedings—Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, ss. 4, 27, sub-s. 1—Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890, r. 165.

Pending an examination in Court of officers of a company which was being wound up by order of the Court, the Court gave its sanction to a scheme under the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870, in pursuance of which the assets of the company were transferred to a new company of the same name. This sanction was granted on a statement that the scheme and the carrying of it out should not interfere with the prosecution by the official receiver of such claims as it might be deemed right to make against officers of the old company.

After the conclusion of the examination an order was made giving the official receiver and liquidator liberty to take such proceedings under sect. 10 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, against all or any of the directors or other officers of the old company as he might be advised, and giving him and the new company liberty to apply.

The official receiver proposed to issue a misfeasance summons against certain directors and other officers of the old company and issued a summons against the new company which (as amended by the consent of the new company) asked for a declaration that, under the scheme and the agreement made with the new company in pursuance of it, the new company were liable to pay the costs, charges, and expenses to be incurred by the applicant in the proceedings on and incident to the proposed misfeasance summons, and that the applicant might be at liberty to continue such proposed proceedings.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and Eve, for the new company.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said the questions raised were proper for judicial rather than departmental decision. The official receiver could not take any forensic step in the performance of his duties which would impose upon the Board of Trade, through him, an obligation to pay costs, without the sanction of the Board; and he could not be allowed to take forensic steps at his own risk for costs. It might not be easy to draw a hard-and-fast line defining the matters as to which the Board would properly determine what legal proceedings ought or ought not to be taken by the official receiver, and what were the cases in which the decision of these matters ought to be left to the Court, and the Court had no jurisdiction to draw such a line for the Board. But whenever there was an omission by the official receiver to take a forensic step in the due course of liquidation proceedings, the Court had the right and the duty to ask the official receiver, who was its officer, to explain in open Court why the step had not been taken. Generally, the answer would be sufficient that he had abstained from taking the step in question by the direction of the Board, his official superiors, and the Court would have no right to control his discretion exercised by the Board. These observations had no application to the presentation of a report under sect. 10 of the Act of 1890, which was a duty which the official receiver owed to the Court. In the present case the Board had ultimately authorized the official receiver to proceed with the summons against the new company in its amended form. His Lordship then held, under the particular circumstances of the case, that an order ought not to be made on the new company to provide the costs of the misfeasance proceedings, and that such proceedings should not be taken.

County Court—Jurisdiction—Remitted Action—Counter-claim for Unliquidated Damages—Power to order Trial in County Court—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 43), s. 65.

Appeal from decision of a Divisional Court (Hawkins and Lawrence, J.J.), affirming the order of Mathew, J., at chambers. The facts were as follows. The action was brought to recover £1, the price of a mare sold by the plaintiff to the defendant. The plaintiff, having failed in an application for judgment under Order XIV., before delivery of defence, applied for and obtained from a master an order that the action should be tried in the county court under the County Courts Act, 1888, s. 65. The defendant then delivered a counter-claim, claiming 30*l.* for the keep of the mare, and for damages for breach of a warranty that the mare was quiet, the damages alleged being injury to the defendant's cart and harness caused by the kicking of the mare, and appealed from the order of the master to the judge at chambers, who affirmed the order. The defendant then appealed to the Divisional Court, who dismissed the appeal.

W. E. Hume-Williams, for the defendant, contended that there was no jurisdiction to send a case to the county court for trial under the section where a counter-claim for unliquidated damages was set up.

The Court (Lord Esher, M.R., Lopes, L.J., and Rigby, L.J.) held that, the case coming within the plain words of the County Courts Act, 1888, s. 65, the jurisdiction of the Court to order the case to be tried in the county court under that section was not taken away by reason of the defendant's setting up a counter-claim for unliquidated damages; and they affirmed the decision of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal.

Equitable Execution—Appointment of Receiver—Equitable Reversionary Interest in Proceeds of Sale of Land—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-s. 8.

Appeal against the refusal of Lord Russell, C.J., acting as Vacation Judge, to appoint a receiver of an equitable reversionary interest belonging to the defendant.

In April, 1894, an order was made by the President of the Probate Division, that the defendant should within seven days after service pay to the plaintiff the sum of 213*l.*, the amount of his taxed costs of the action. This order was not obeyed. The defendant was entitled under a will to an equitable reversionary interest, and the plaintiff applied for the appointment of a receiver of this interest for the purpose of satisfying the amount due to him for costs. Lord Russell, C.J., was of opinion, on the construction of the will, that the defendant's interest was an interest in land which was held in trust for him, within the meaning of sect. 11 of the Act 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, and that it could therefore be taken under a writ of elegit, and on this ground he refused to appoint a receiver. The plaintiff appealed.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) reversed the decision. They were of opinion, upon the construction of the will, that the defendant's interest under it was an equitable reversionary interest in the proceeds of the sale of land, and that such an interest could not be taken under an elegit. But they held, following Fuggle v. Bland (11 Q. B. D. 711) and Westhead v. Riley (25 Ch. D. 413), that there was jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of such an interest, and they made the appointment accordingly.

Chitty, J.                      BELL v. EARL OF DUDLEY.                      Nov. 20.

The plaintiff was the owner of certain premises erected on land which had been allotted to his predecessors in title under the Kingswinford Inclosure Act, 1784.

The Act reserved to the lord of the manor the right of working the mines and minerals under the land, and conferred on him and his successors the fullest powers of working such mines and minerals, "together with full and free liberty to him and them to do any other reasonable and necessary acts and things in and upon the same lands for the discovery, getting, working, &c., of the said mines and minerals in such manner as he or they shall think fit, proper, and expedient, without any molestation or interruption, and without paying or making any satisfaction to any person whomsoever for the same or for the damage to be done thereby, he and they doing as little damage thereby as may be."

By the next clause, after reciting "That whereas great damage may be done to some of the allotments" by such working, it was provided that the damage caused to any particular allotment by the working of the mines or the exercise of any of the powers reserved to the lord should be borne rateably by all the allottees, including the owners for the time being of the allotment damaged, and the allotment specially made to the lord.

The defendant, who was the present lord of the manor, having proposed to work the mines under the plaintiff's premises with the probable result of letting them down, the plaintiff now moved to restrain him from so doing.

Levett, Q.C. and Ashton Cross, in support of the motion, relied on Bell v. Levs (10 Q. B. D. 547; 9 App. Cas. 286).

Byrne, Q.C. and W. F. Hamilton, for the defendant, relied on Duke of Buccleuch v. Wakefield (Law Rep. 4 H. L. 377) and Consett Waterworks Company v. Ritson (22 Q. B. D. 702).

CHITTY, J., said that the question was simply one of right, depending on the true construction of the Inclosure Act; that questions of this kind turning on Inclosure Acts had often been before the Courts of late years, and that the Acts which had received judicial interpretation had not all been drawn in the same model, but presented points of resemblance and difference leading to different results; that the authorities cited afforded great assistance, the result of them being that the method of construing such Acts of Parliament was as follows: Where the ownership of the minerals and of the surface was severed the prima facie inference was that the owner of the surface should enjoy the surface allotted, and should have the common right of support for his tenement; that this inference was strong, and in order to rebut it the burden lay on the owner of the minerals to shew affirmatively and by clear words that he had the right to let down the surface; by "clear words" it was not meant that the Act must say in express terms that the owner of the minerals might let down the surface. The presence or absence of a compensation clause was an important element. The prima facie inference in favour of the surface owners was strengthened by the absence of any provision for compensation; but the presence of a limited compensation clause was not sufficient to rebut the inference. Such, stated shortly, was the method pursued in interpreting Acts of this class. Whether the propositions stated ought to be called a method of interpretation, or be termed canons or rules, or subordinate rules, for construing these Acts, it was a matter of no moment. The object was the same whatever was the correct phrase, viz., to ascertain the intention of the parties to the contract embodied in the Act of Parliament. His Lordship then referred to the above clauses, and pointed out that great damage was expressly mentioned and contemplated, and a special scheme was provided for relieving the allottee suffering the damage from all but his aliquot proportion. It was impossible to say that great damage did not include damage caused by subsidence. For these reasons His Lordship refused to grant the injunction, and dismissed the motion.

Will—Construction—"Estates and Hereditaments subject to Limitations" of a Settlement—Moneys subject to the Limitations.

Adjourned summons.

At the date of the will and of the death of G. L. B. hereafter mentioned, and under the limitations of a family settlement dated the 3rd of March, 1851, and the will of J. F. B. (by which other hereditaments had been settled to the uses of such settlement), G. L. B. was tenant for life, and his son A. F. B. (a minor) was tenant in tail male in remainder expectant on his decease, of the manor of T. and certain estates in the county of O., and under the provisions of the said settlement and will certain moneys were in the hands of the trustees of the settlement to be laid out in the purchase of other lands in England convenient to be held therewith, to be settled to the uses of the settlement.

By his will made in 1888, G. L. B., after reciting that he was tenant for life, and his son tenant in tail of the manor of T. and certain estates in the county of O. held therewith, and his desire that the same should be settled in a particular way, directed his son A. F. B., within six months after his death, or attaining 21, which should last happen, "to effectually disentail the said manor and estates, and all other estates and hereditaments then subject to the limitations of the said settlement of the 3rd of March, 1851, and the said will of the said J. F. B., or either of them, and to execute within the time aforesaid an effectual resettlement thereof" to carry out the uses therein specified. The testator then gave the trustees discretionary power to extend the period within which the disentailing assurance and resettlement were to be executed, and, after devising and bequeathing his residuary real and personal estate upon trust for sale, conversion, and invest-test, directed that in case his son should, within six months after the testator's death or the attainment of 21, execute the insuring assurance and resettlement, the capital of the testator's residuary real and personal estate should (subject to the payment of a sum to his widow) be held in trust for his son absolutely; but in case his son should refuse or neglect to do so, then both capital and income were to be held upon trusts for the Campion family.

The testator died on the 25th of July, 1888. His son F. B. attained 21 on the 29th of January, 1891, and by indenture dated the 16th of February, 1894, he barred his son's tail in the settled lands, and the quasi entail in the moneys, conveying the lands to himself in fee, and declaring that the moneys should be held in trust for himself absolutely.

The son admitted that in compliance with his father's will he must resettle the manor of T. and all the real estate in the subject to the limitations of the settlement; but he did not admit that he was bound to bring in the moneys liable to be invested in the purchase of lands; and the principal question in this summons was, what was the proper subject-matter of the new settlement.

Exhibits, Q.C., Ingle Joyce, and Challis, for the son.
Giffard, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the trustees of the will.
W. Freeman, for the Campion family.

Stratton, J., said that the question was one of construction. The direction to disentail and resettle had been limited to the manor of T. and the estates in the county of Cornwall, those which could scarcely have been held to include moneys liable to be invested in land not in the county of Cornwall; but there were the additional words, "and all other the estates and hereditaments subject to the limitations of the settlement," and these words, in his Lordship's opinion, sufficiently described the moneys in question. These moneys must accordingly be brought into the settlement.

Company—Winding-up—Bates—Payment in full—Beneficial Occupation—Caretaker's Possession.

A company, at the time when it went into voluntary liquidation, had ceased to carry on business, but possessed leasehold premises on which was certain plant.

The liquidator placed a caretaker in possession to prevent trespass and injury, but had no intention to sell the business as a going concern, though he intended, as soon as possible, to sell the premises and the plant. The possession resulted, not in profit, but in expense to the company.

The vestry, after the commencement of the winding-up, made a poor rate, a lighting rate, a general rate, and a sewers rate, and threatened to distrain for the amount assessed on the company's premises.

An injunction having been obtained to restrain the vestry from distraining, they applied to discharge the order.

Charles Jones, for the vestry.
J. G. Wood, for the liquidator.

Vaughan Williams, J., said the vestry were entitled to payment of the rates in full. All the decisions on this branch of company law could not stand together. He should adopt the view taken by Bowen, L.J., in In re National Arms and Ammunition Company (28 Ch. D. 482), which was as follows:—"I wish to add that I am not satisfied that the test given by Bacon, V.-C., in the case of In re West Hartlepool Iron Company (34 L. T. (N.S.) 568) is the true one. I am disposed to think that the true test is whether there has been a beneficial occupation within the ordinary meaning of those words in cases as to rating, and I wish to leave this question open, in case it should ever call for decision." If that test was adopted, it could not be contended that there had not been a beneficial occupation; indeed, it was admitted there was such an occupation within the rating statutes. This was not a case where the obligation had been incurred before the winding-up, and, therefore, it could not be said the vestry ought to prove pari passu with other creditors. If the liquidator had taken other premises, he would have had to pay the rent for them, and he ought to pay the rates in respect of his continued occupation of these premises. After In re National Arms and Ammunition Company it could not be said that In re Watson, Kipling & Co. (28 Ch. D. 500) could stand as an authority so far as it distinguished rent from rates; nor, having regard to subsequent cases, could the test applied by Bacon, V.C., in In re West Hartlepool Iron Company be considered as the right one.

In re ISSUE COMPANY.

By the articles of association of a company registered in March, 1893, it was provided that the first directors should be appointed by the signatories of the memorandum of association; that the qualification of a director should be the holding of shares in his sole name of the nominal value of 500*l.* at the least; and that his office should be vacated if he ceased to hold the required share qualification.

The applicants were appointed first directors of the company and all accepted office; but none of them ever applied for shares; no shares were allotted to any of them, and no notice of allotment was received by them. No business was ever done by the company, and no shares in it were taken beyond the seven shares in respect of which the signatories of the memorandum were liable. There was no register of shareholders.

In the winding up of the company under an order made in December, 1893, the liquidator placed the names of the applicants on the list of contributories in respect of their qualification shares, and they applied to have the list varied by excluding their names from it.

Channell, Q.C., and Clarendon Hyde; Farwell, Q.C., and G. F. Hart; and Macnaghten, for the applicants.
Bramwell Davis, for the liquidator.

Vaughan Williams, J., said that the names ought not to be placed upon the list unless it could be made out that they had agreed to become members of the company within the meaning of sect. 23 of the Companies Act, 1862, and it could not be made out that any of them had so agreed. The agreement, if there was one, must be an implied agreement. It could not be implied from the fact that they had accepted the office of director in a company the articles of which contained a clause requiring the directors to hold a certain qualification in shares, coupled with the fact that they had all more or less acted as directors. The proper contract to be implied from those facts was a contract to qualify—i.e., to take the necessary shares from the company or some outside person within a reasonable time—but that was not a contract of membership. Then it was said that, assuming that the contract to be implied was merely a contract to qualify within a reasonable time, when that time had elapsed there would be a contract for membership. But that was not the view he took. At the most there was at the end of the reasonable time an offer to take the qualification shares, but not a completed contract to take the shares at that moment. There might be something else to fix it—i.e., something to shew that the offer had been accepted—out of which a completed contract might be obtained; but the mere lapse of time did not make a completed contract. It was said that that point was left open in Hewitt's Case and Brett's Case (25 Ch. D. 283); but the decisions in In re Wheel Buller Consols (88 Ch. D. 42) and Ex parte Cammell ([1894] 2 Ch. 392) involved the holding that the agreement to qualify which arose from the acceptance of the office of director, and acting as director of a company, the articles of which contained a provision as to the qualification of the directors in shares, did not amount to a completed contract to become a member, and did not become so merely by the lapse of a reasonable time for taking the shares. Whether a man was or was not a member of a company depended on the circumstances at the time of the liquidation, and if he was not so then, nothing that the liquidator could do afterwards could make him one. In the present case a reasonable time for the directors to take their qualification shares had not elapsed. The object of the provision as to qualification was the protection of the members of the public who should take shares. Here there had been no allotment of shares, so a reasonable time could not be said to have elapsed, and the applicants were entitled to have their names removed from the list.

BLACK v. WILLIAMS.

Nov. 23

*Ship—Mortgage—Registration—Priority—Equitable Charge—Debenture—Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, ss. 43, 69—Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, s. 3—Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, ss. 83, 56, 57.**

In 1889 a steamship company issued debentures charging its undertaking and present and future property with payment of the amount lent, which was further secured by a debenture trust deed which provided that the company would execute to the trustees of the deed a legal mortgage, to be duly registered, of each of the steamboats specified in a schedule to the deed, and of every other steamboat to be acquired by the company. In the years 1891 to 1893 the company gave legal mortgages of steamships, acquired by them after the execution of the trust deed, to a corporation, and these mortgages were registered before the registration of mortgages to the trustees of the steamships acquired by the company after the date of the trust deed. In a debenture-holders' action, in which receivers had been appointed, the corporation applied for leave to take possession of the steamships mortgaged to them and to realize their mortgages.

Farwell, Q.C., and W. Baker, for the corporation, argued that the mortgages of the corporation had priority over the debentures and the mortgages by virtue of sect. 69 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Alexander, Q.C., and Dundas Gardner, for the debenture-holders, contended that sect. 69 of the Act of 1854 was partly repealed by sect. 3 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and that the result was that the equitable charge given by the debentures and trust deed had priority over the mortgages to the corporation.

Upjohn, Stokes, and Solomon, for other parties.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., said it had been held on the Act of 1854 that the Courts could not recognise equitable titles. Liverpool Borough Bank v. Turner (1 J. & H. 159; on appeal 2 D. F. & J. 502) was not a case of priorities, but was one in which a shipowner had given a letter which in equity would have been a good charge. The question arose whether it was good against assignees in bankruptcy, and it was held that an equitable title could not be given effect to. The commercial world had thought this decision had worked a great hardship, and the Act of 1862 gave effect to this view, and said in effect that equitable titles were to prevail. This was not done by way of enacting what was to take place in the future, but the Act of 1862 declared what was the true meaning of the Act of 1854. Section 3 of the Act of 1862 must be read as if it had been originally incorporated in the Act of 1854, and it did nullify any part of the Act of 1854. He was bound to give effect to every word of sect. 69 of 1854, reading it, however, by the light of sect. 3 of 1862. It was impossible to give effect to sect. 69 if Mr. Alexander's argument (that it only to have effect given to it where the legal mortgage was complete, but not where such a mortgage was in competition with an equitable mortgage) was acceded to. The title of legal mortgagees must be held to have priority over the equitable title of the debenture-holders, and there was no hardship in deciding, as the Acts were passed for the benefit of commerce and to facilitate dealings with ships and shares in ships.

Case stated, raising the question whether a sum of 900*l.*, which had been received by the appellant in respect of fines on the renewal of certain leases, and had been paid into a bank, as deposit at interest, in the name of the trustees of the will of the late Lord Mostyn, had been applied as productive capital, in which a profit had arisen otherwise chargeable for the year in which the assessment was made, within the meaning of the rule in sect. 60, Schedule (A.), No. II., of the Income Tax Act, 1842, so as to be exempt under the proviso contained in that rule. By the will, fines on renewals of leases were to be invested in the purchase of freehold, copyhold, or leasehold property.

R. B. REG. v. BROWN. Nov. 10, 17.
Betting House Acts—Bets made by Letter or Telegram—Resorting to House—Betting Act, 1853 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 19), s. 1.

Case stated by the recorder of Plymouth. The defendant was tried upon an indictment containing four counts for offences under sect. 1 of the Betting Act, 1853. The first count charged him, as the occupier of a certain house and rooms therein, with unlawfully opening, keeping, and using the rooms in the said house for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto. The second count charged him, as the occupier, with opening, keeping, and using the rooms for the purpose of money being received by him and on his behalf and for the consideration of an undertaking, promise, and agreement to pay thereafter money on the contingency of and in connection with horse-races. The third and fourth counts merely repeated the first and second by charging the defendant, not as the occupier of the house and rooms, but as being a person who opened the rooms for the purpose of betting, &c.

The evidence proved that the defendant was the occupier of the house, and that he used it for the purpose of betting with any persons who wrote or telegraphed to him, asking him to bet with them, and also for the purpose of money being received on his behalf as the consideration for an agreement to pay thereafter money on the event of a horse-race. There was no evidence that any person had actually gone to the house for the purpose of betting with the defendant other than those who had gone to pay money under the circumstances described in the second count. It having been objected that there was no evidence under the first count of the defendant having betted with persons resorting to the house, the learned recorder directed the jury that it was not necessary for a conviction under that count that the house should have been used for the purpose of betting with persons who physically came to the house, but that if it was used by the defendant as an office to which any persons who wished to bet with him were to send their communications, and if persons were in the habit of sending letters and telegrams to him there, directing him to make bets with them, such persons resorted to the house within the meaning of the Act, and the jury might find him guilty of using the house for betting with persons resorting thereto. The jury returned separate verdicts of guilty upon the first and second counts.

The Court also overruled certain technical objections to the second count, the conviction upon which was affirmed.

Appeal against an order of the President confirming the report of the registrar dismissing a summons by the petitioner under sect. 17 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, claiming from the respondent a number of valuable jewels which she alleged were her separate property. They had been given by the petitioner to the respondent during the marriage, which took place in 1884. The parties were examined before the registrar, when the petitioner stated that he had given the respondent the use only of the jewels, the respondent that they were absolute gifts. The registrar believed the evidence of the respondent, and considered that it was supported by the circumstances of the case.

Inderwick, Q.C., and Priestley, for the petitioner, contended that before the passing of the Act the jewels would have been paraphernalia, and that the Act made no difference.

Whately, for the respondent, relied on the facts as found, and on the 1st and 2nd sections of the Act.

THE PRESIDENT held that the Act had not rendered a gift of paraphernalia impossible, but that the evidence did not shew an intention on the part of the petitioner that the jewels should be paraphernalia, and that they were, therefore, the property of the respondent.

Appeal dismissed.

DIVORCE.

Nov. 8, 9, 21.

CHURCHWARD v. CHURCHWARD AND HOLIDAY (THE QUEEN'S PROCTOR INTERVENING).

Divorce—Collusion—Matrimonial Causes Act, 1857 (20 & 21 Vict. c. 85), s. 30—Matrimonial Causes Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict. c. 144), s. 7.

Intervention of the Queen's Proctor under sect. 7 of the Matrimonial Causes Act, 1860, alleging collusion between the petitioner and the respondent.

The facts were briefly as follows:—In June, 1893, the respondent left her home with the co-respondent. Shortly afterwards she wrote to the petitioner that "he had often told her to go, and now she had done so." There was one child of the marriage. The petitioner's solicitors communicated with the respondent's solicitors, with a view to obtaining a settlement of the respondent's property for the benefit of the child, before commencing divorce proceedings. In the result the petitioner's solicitors laid the following case before counsel. "We are instructed in a matter between husband and wife, where the latter is now living in adultery . . . We, acting for the wife, have suggested that, in consideration of certain things to be done by the wife (i.e., the settlement in the child's favour), the husband shall covenant to sue for a divorce, and prosecute his suit to completion, claiming no damages against the co-respondent, and the wife and co-respondent agreeing not to defend, and the husband agreeing to these terms on condition that the sum of 100*l.* is secured in the joint names of the solicitors in the case, to cover his costs." Counsel advised that this arrangement would be "liable to the suspicion of collusion." It was acted upon, and was brought to the notice of the Court at the trial of the undefended action. The Court granted a decree nisi, but ordered the papers to be laid before the Queen's Proctor.

Inderwick, Q.C., and Guy Stephenson, for the Queen's Proctor.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and R. H. Pritchard, for the petitioner.

THE PRESIDENT delivered a written judgment in favour of the intervention. He cited Macqueen's definition of "collusion" (Divorce, 2nd ed. p. 67); Lord Stowell's in Crews v. Crews (3 Hagg. 123, 129); those given by Dr. Lushington and the Lord Advocate of Scotland before the Select Committee of the House of Lords in 1847; the dicta of Lord Chelmsford in Shaw v. Gould (Law Rep. 3 H. L. 55, 57); the cases of Hunt v. Hunt (47 L. J. (P. D. & A.) 22); and Facon v. Bacon (25 W. R. 560), before Lord Hannen; Chisim's and Edwards's cases in the House of Lords (Macqueen, pp. 582, 583); Midgley v. Ward (30 L. J. (P. M. & A.) 57), before Sir C. Cresswell; Lloyd v. Lloyd and Chichester (30 L. J. (P. M. & A.) 97), before the full Court; and Barnes v. Barnes and Grimwade (Law Rep. 1 P. & M. 505), before Lord Penzance. His Lordship said: "On the whole it appears to me that the authority of the House of Lords, as shewn by its practice, and of Sir Cresswell Cresswell, is decidedly in favour of the position that, if the initiation of a suit be procured, and its conduct (especially if abstention from defence be a term) provided for by agreement, that constitutes collusion, although no one can put his finger on any fact falsely dealt with or withheld; and I do not think that the authority of Lord Stowell, Dr. Lushington, Lord Penzance, or Lord Hannen can be invoked in favour of a contrary opinion." . . . "No doubt the protection to the Court, afforded by the mutual watchfulness of hostile parties, often does not exist, because the petitioner and the respondent may, independently of each other, be of the same mind. Against results of that unanimity no legislation can guard. But it may well be worth while to prevent the parties to a suit from binding themselves to an agreement, which, if there be anything to hide, renders it obligatory on both of them to keep the veil drawn. At least, if a petitioner makes the institution of the suit and its proceedings a matter of bargain, stifling defence and recrimination by a covenant of silence, he cannot wonder if the Court declines to be satisfied that it has before it all the material facts. Such a petitioner has mistaken his real position. Pacem et duellum miscuit. He appears before the Court in the character of an injured husband asking relief from an intolerable wrong; but if, at the same time, he is acting in concert with the authors of the wrong, and is subjecting his rights to pecuniary stipulations, he raises more than a doubt whether, in the words of Lord Stowell, he has received a real injury, and bonâ fide seeks relief. In the present case, being of opinion, as I have said, that the institution of the suit was procured and its results as to costs and damages settled by agreement, I think it must be held that there was collusion. If it be necessary to constitute collusion that there should be a compact not to defend, that also was present in this instance. Further, if it be needful that suspicion of the concealment of some facts should be entertained, I entertain suspicion (I do not wish to say more) as to the facts of the husband's conduct from the expressions used by the wife in her letters. But I do not think it has been shewn, nor in my opinion need it, that any special facts of a material character exist which might have been brought before the Court."

From Bkcy. In re DAVIDSON. Nov. 23.
Ex parte DAVIDSON.

Bankruptcy—Receiving Order—Rescission—Discretion of Court—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 104.

Appeal against the refusal of Mr. Registrar Hope to rescind a receiving order which had been made against G. L. O. Davidson upon the petition of a creditor for 219*l*.

The debtor was not a trader. Since the making of the order a friend of the debtor had bought up his unsecured debts and had released them, and out of three secured creditors two had agreed to rely only on their securities; the third had estimated his security to be deficient in value by 10*l*., and that sum had been paid to him by the debtor's friend. No public examination of the debtor had taken place, though notice of the time appointed for it had been gazetted. It had been adjourned pending the application to rescind.

Carrington, for the debtor.

Muir Mackenzie, for the official receiver.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Rigby, L.J.J.) affirmed the decision. They said that the registrar had a discretion, and had to take into consideration all the circumstances of the case; and when he had exercised his discretion it would require a very strong case to authorize or to induce the Court of Appeal to interfere. No such case had been shewn here.

The way in which the debts had been bought up gave rise to suspicion, and if a public examination had taken place it might have appeared that there were other creditors. As was pointed out in In re Hester (22 Q. B. D. 632), the Court must consider the consequences of rescinding the receiving order, not only to the debtor's existing creditors, but also to his future creditors.

FROM Q. B. D. OWEN & Co. v. CRONK. Nov. 23.

Principal and Agent—Personal Liability of Agent—Receiver of Business appointed by Trustees of Debenture Trust Deed.

Appeal by the plaintiffs against the judgment of Charles J., at the trial of the action.

The action was brought to recover, as money had and received on behalf of the plaintiffs, a sum paid by them under "duress of goods." The defendant was the receiver appointed under a trust deed to secure debentures issued by a company, called Judd & Co., Limited. The deed empowered the trustees thereby appointed, on the happening of certain events, to carry on the business of the company in the name of the company, and, as if they were mortgagees within the meaning of the Conveyancing Act, 1831, and had become entitled under that Act to exercise the power of sale thereby conferred, to appoint a receiver, who was to have all the powers of the trustees. The deed provided that the receiver should be deemed to be the agent of the company, and should as such agent for all purposes be deemed to be in the same position as a receiver duly appointed by a mortgagee under the Conveyancing Act, 1881. In December, 1892, the defendant was appointed by the trustees receiver of the mortgaged premises and to exercise all the powers given by the trust deed to a receiver, and he took possession and carried on the business in the name of Judd & Co., and opened a banking account in the name of "Judd & Co. (Limited), Sidney Cronk, receiver." The plaintiffs were the printers and proprietors of railway time-tables, and in June, 1893, their printing works were destroyed by fire; and they arranged with one Mackintosh, who was the manager under the defendant of the printing department of Judd & Co., to have their time-tables printed by the company, and the plaintiffs delivered to him their types and blocks for that purpose. Mackintosh had been manager of the printing department before the defendant was appointed receiver. In August the defendant sent to the plaintiffs an account for 498*l*. for the printing done for them. The plaintiffs considered the amount charged excessive, and they gave the defendant a cheque drawn to the order of the company for 250*l*. on account. The defendant indorsed this cheque "pro. Judd & Co. (Limited), Sidney Cronk, receiver," and paid it to the account which he had opened. The plaintiffs asked Mackintosh for a reduction of the account, but he refused to allow it. The plaintiffs then demanded from him their types and blocks; but he refused to give them up, except upon payment of the whole balance of the account. The plaintiffs' solicitor then went to the company's office and saw Mackintosh and tendered him 67*l*. as the balance due upon the account. This sum Mackintosh refused to accept; and the solicitor there-gave Mackintosh, under protest, a cheque for the full amount, payable to Judd & Co., Limited, and the type and ink were given up to the plaintiffs. The defendant received the cheque from Mackintosh and indorsed it "Judd & Co. (Limited), Sidney Cronk, receiver," and paid it into the banking account which he had opened as receiver. He paid the cheque to the bank before he knew anything of the circumstances under which it had been paid to Mackintosh. The action was brought to recover so much of the amount paid as the plaintiffs alleged to be an excessive charge.

Charles, J., held that, assuming the payment to have been excessive, the defendant was not liable, on the ground that he was only an agent, and by paying the cheque into the bank he paid the money to his principals before he had received notice of the duress and of the protest.

Solicitors: Walton, Q.C., W. R. Benson, and Ford, for the plaintiffs.

Nichols, Q.C., and Reginald Brown, for the defendant, were called on.

The Court (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Rigby, L.J.J.) dismissed the appeal. They said that the defendant did not act in the same position as a receiver appointed by the Court to carry on a business, or as trustees or executors carrying on a business. Those persons were personally responsible to the Court, and were entitled to an indemnity out of the estate. The defendant was by the terms of his appointment a mere agent, and, as he had paid over the money in question to his principals before he had any notice that it had been wrongfully claimed from the plaintiffs, he was not personally liable to them.

Room's Day Observance—Room used for "Public Entertainment" on Sunday—Action for Penalties—"Keeper" of Room—"Person managing or conducting Entertainment"—21 Geo. 3, c. 49, s. 1, 2.

Appeal by the plaintiff against the judgment of Mathew, J., in the defendants.

The action was brought to recover penalties under sect. 1 of 21 Geo. 3, c. 49.

At the instance of a society formed for the purpose of giving lectures on Sunday evenings, a lecture was given on Sunday the 7th of January, 1894, by a Mr. Villiers, "Chicago, Past and Present," at a hall in Leeds, which was hired for the purpose by the society, the public being admitted for a small payment. The hall belonged to a company which was in liquidation. The defendant Wilson was solicitor to the liquidator, and he, on behalf of the liquidator, had arranged for the letting of the hall to the society. Wilson had also procured in his own name a license from the local authorities for music and dancing, for which purposes the license did not permit the hall to be used on Sunday. The defendant had taken the chair at the lecture, and had introduced the lecturer to the audience, but had taken no other part in the proceedings. The jury found that the hall was on the occasion in question a place "opened or used for public entertainment or amusement" within the meaning of the Act. The defendant Wilson was sued for a penalty, as being the "keeper" of the hall within the meaning of sect. 1 of the Act, or the person who by sect. 2 was to be "deemed to be the keeper," as having "the care, government, or management" of the hall. The defendant Ward was sued as being "the person managing or conducting the entertainment." Mathew, J., gave judgment for the defendants, holding that neither defendant came within the description contained in the Act of the persons who were to be liable to penalties. The plaintiff appealed.

Sir R. E. Webster, Q.C., and Cecil Chapman, for the plaintiff.

Robson, Q.C., Corrie Grant, and J. A. Johnston, for the defendants, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Rigby, L.J.J.) took the same view of the construction of the Act, and dismissed the appeal.

FOSTER v. LONDON, CHATHAM AND DOVER RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Line carried over Arches—Temporary letting of Interiors of Arches for purpose of Profit—Implied Powers.

Appeal from Mathew, J.

In 1861 the defendants under their compulsory powers took from the plaintiff a long narrow piece of land. Upon part of it they constructed a railway carried upon arches, and upon a strip running along one side of the arches they laid out a footpath, which afforded to the plaintiff and others access to certain places. The defendants afterwards let the interiors of these arches to various persons under yearly, monthly, or weekly tenancies, with power to resume possession upon short notice; and these persons had, according to the plaintiff's case, and without his consent, but with the consent of the defendants, taken in portions of the footpath and raised erections thereon which it was alleged encroached upon other lands belonging to him.

The plaintiff complained that this was a nuisance and inconvenience, and alleged that the company were using the land in an unauthorized manner, and he brought this action for an injunction to restrain the defendants and their tenants from obstructing the footpath, and for a mandamus commanding the defendants to restore and maintain the strip of land as a footpath. The action was tried before Mathew, J., and a special jury in Middlesex on the 30th of June, 1894, when the jury found that the strip of land was acquired by the company without any restriction as to its use, and the learned judge decided that the use of the arches and the adjoining strip of land under short tenancies was not inconsistent or incompatible with the purposes of the railway company's undertaking, because, if necessary, the company could at any time recover possession of them; and he delivered judgment for the defendants, but gave no opinion as to whether the plaintiff could maintain an action for nuisance against the company.

The plaintiff appealed.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and G. M. Freeman, for the appellant.

Kemp, Q.C., Mansel Jones, and Croft, for the respondents.

Upon the hearing of the appeal the case as to bargain and nuisance was abandoned, and the question argued was whether the company, in so letting the strip of land in question, were exceeding their statutory powers, and had given the plaintiff a cause of action either for damages or an injunction.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.J.J.) held that, according to all the authorities except Norton v. London and North Western Railway Company (9 Ch. D. 623), with which they did not agree, any user by a railway company of its land was lawful so long as it did not interfere with the business for which compulsory powers had been entrusted to them by the Legislature, and was not prejudicial to the legal rights of others. There was no law which prevented this railway company from letting the interiors of their arches to produce a profit to themselves so long as their so doing did not interfere with the use of their railway; and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

BURT, BOULTON, & HAYWARD v. BULL AND ANOTHER.

Receivers and Managers appointed by the Court—Goods supplied, Liability for.

Appeal from judgment of Mathew, J., at trial without a jury.

The action was brought for goods sold and delivered under the following circumstances. The defendants were persons named Bull and Ward, who had been appointed by the Court receivers and managers of the business of a company called Joseph Bull, Sons, & Co., Limited, in a debenture-holders' action brought in the Chancery Division. In the course of such business they ordered the goods in question from the plaintiffs. The order, which was in writing, was expressed to be given "For Joseph Bull, Sons, & Co., Limited," and was signed, "E. C. Bull—R. J. Ward, Receivers and Managers." The learned judge gave judgment for the plaintiffs for the price of the goods.

Farwell, Q.C., and Beven, for the defendant Bull; and

Upjohn, for the defendant Ward, contended that the true inference from the facts of the case was that the defendants had not pledged their personal credit for the goods, but the plaintiffs had supplied them looking to the assets of the company for repayment.

Lawson Walton, Q.C., and O. A. Russell, for the plaintiffs, contra.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.B., Lopes, L.J., and Rigby, L.J.) were of opinion that, prima facie, when receivers and managers of a business were appointed by the Court of Chancery and ordered goods in the course of such business, they pledged their personal credit for such goods, looking for an indemnity to the assets; that there was nothing in the terms of the order in the present case to rebut that inference; and that therefore the defendants were personally liable, and the judgment of the learned judge was correct.

PILLERS v. EDWARDS.

Dec.

Married Woman—Restraint on Anticipation—Rents in Arrear.

This was an appeal from a decision of Wright and Collins, J. sitting as a Divisional Court.

Mrs. Edwards, the defendant, was entitled under a settlement to the income of real estate with a restraint on anticipation, and on the 29th of September last certain rents became due to her. Some of these rents had been paid to her trustee and some were still unpaid, but none had come to her hand. The plaintiffs were creditors who obtained judgment against Mrs. Edwards on the 21st of October. On the following day they took out a summons for a receiver of the rents by way of equitable execution. The summons was referred to the Divisional Court, who decided that the restraint on anticipation attached to the rent which was due, but had not been received by the defendant, and refused to appoint a receiver. The plaintiffs appealed.

R. Wallace, Q.C., appeared for the plaintiffs. He referred to an unreported case of Hood Barrs v. Cathcart in the other branch of the Court of Appeal, and to some observations in the judgment in the case of Hood Barrs v. Cathcart, reported in [1894] 2 Q. B. 559.

Bartley Dennis, and Barling, for the defendant.

LINDLEY, L.J., said that but for the unreported decision and the observations in Hood Barrs v. Cathcart ([1894] 2 Q. B. 559) in the other branch of the Court of Appeal referred to in the argument, he should have thought that the moment the rents became due and payable to the married woman the restraint on anticipation was gone. That was his impression, and it was confirmed by Claydon v. Finch (Law Rep. 15 Eq. 256) and other cases; and that seems to have been the opinion of the Court in Cox v. Bennett ([1891] 1 Ch. 617); but it would never do for one branch of the Court of Appeal to decide one way and the other branch to decide the other way. He therefore thought that he ought to decide in the same way as the Court had decided in the unreported case; and if that case was to be reversed, it ought to be reversed by the House of Lords. The appeal must be dismissed.

NORTON v. COUNTIES CONSERVATIVE PERMANENT BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY.

This was an appeal from a decision of Day, J.

The plaintiff, who was a member of the defendant building society, gave notice of withdrawal. Payment was refused by the directors on the ground that there were other members entitled to be paid in priority to the plaintiff. The plaintiff brought the present action to enforce payment of her demand. The rules of the society provided that the directors should appoint five standing arbitrators, and that any dispute should referred to three of the arbitrators chosen by lot. The defendants obtained an order for stay of proceedings in the action, on the ground that the jurisdiction of the Court was ousted by the joint effect of the rules of the society and the Building Societies Act, 1874, s. 16, sub-s. 9. The plaintiff appealed.

At the time when the action was brought there were only three arbitrators, the others having died or retired; but the defendants had since made up the number to five by appointing two others.

North, and Shortt, for the plaintiff, relied on Christie v. Northern Counties Building Society (43 Ch. D. 62).

Tindal Atkinson, for the defendants.

LINDALEY, L.J., after referring to the Building Societies' Act, 1874, and the rule of the society as to settling disputes by arbitration, said that in the result the only tribunal for settling disputes between the society and a member was a board of arbitrators. The appellant had relied on a decision of North, J. in Christie v. Northern Counties Building Society; but in that case he did not find that the decisions on sect. 16 of the Act had been called to the attention of the Court, and the argument was addressed chiefly to a different point. His Lordship referred to two passages in North, J.'s judgment which he thought open to criticism. One was as to members being deprived of the remedy by arbitration in case of the default of the society in filling up the number of arbitrators. It appeared to him that this was a mistake, for the remedy would be by mandamus to compel the society to appoint them. The other passage related to the objection that the society ought not to appoint members of the tribunal of arbitrators after the disputes had arisen. It did not matter whether the appointment of arbitrators was made sooner or later; when once they had got the principle that the proper tribunal was that of arbitration. He was not prepared to follow that decision. The appeal must be dismissed.

Striking out Statement of Claim—Frivolous and Vexatious Action—Breach of Trust—Trust whether Express or Constructive—Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 27), s. 25.

There was a motion by the defendants to strike out the plaintiff's statement of claim, as disclosing no reasonable cause of action, and for the dismissal of the action as frivolous and vexatious.

The plaintiff sought to recover possession of a copyhold farm of some 170 acres, held of the Manor of Wentsland and Brungwyn, Monmouthshire, and by her statement of claim she alleged that on the death of one Roger Phillips in 1759, the farm passed by the custom of the manor to his widow Margaret Phillips for her life, and on her death in 1771, to their only son John Phillips, then a minor; that Margaret Phillips, by her will, constituted one David Phillips and another trustees and guardians of the estate and person of John Phillips; that David Phillips, in his character as one of the trustees and guardians of the said John Phillips, thereupon took possession of the farm, and fraudulently and in breach of trust retained possession thereof till 1820, when he died; that the farm had, through divers members of David Phillips' family, descended or devolved by will to the present defendants, as the lineal descendants of David Phillips; that John Phillips, the ward and cestui que trust, was an unlettered man of feeble intellect, and was kept in ignorance of his real rights: that he died in 1811, and his customary heir Henry Phillips in 1869; that the plaintiff was the only daughter and customary heiress of Henry Phillips.

Byrne, Q.C., and Upjohn, for the motion, contended that the plaintiff's claim was barred by the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Will. 4, c. 27), and that there was no express trust to bring the case under the 25th section.

Farwell, Q.C., and Allen Upwood, for the plaintiff, argued that there was an express trust; that David Phillips was guardian and trustee, and that having taken possession as trustee, he was estopped from denying the validity of the title under which he had entered, and could not now be heard to dispute his cestui que trust's title.

CHITLY, J., said the only question he had to decide was, whether the conduct and behaviour of David Phillips as guardian and trustee was sufficient to make out a case of express trust. In his Lordship's opinion it did not: the most it came to was a constructive trust. According to Lord Cairns in Cunningham v. Foot (3 App. Cas. 984), "The land must be vested in a trustee upon an express trust, and then the right of the cestui que trust to bring an action is saved in the manner pointed out by the 25th section. There must be a trustee in whom the land is vested; there must be an 'express trust,' by which I understand the Legislature to mean a trust which arises upon the construction of the written instrument, not upon any inference of law imposing a trust upon the conscience: a trust arising upon the words of the instrument itself." Applying these words to the present case, it could not be said that the plaintiff's claim came within Lord Cairns' exposition of the law. The plaintiff's case depended on circumstances, and not on any written document, and there was no duly constituted trust with regard to this farm, which could, in the proper sense of the term, be considered an express trust. On this ground the motion ought to be allowed, and the action dismissed with costs.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Power to Rescind on Persistence with Requisitions—Necessity of Prompt Action—Playing "Fast and Loose" with Purchaser.

The plaintiff agreed to purchase from the defendant certain cement works and fixtures for 13,500*l.* The agreement provided that the purchaser should pay a deposit of 1350*l.*, and contained (in clause 3) a provision that if the purchaser should take any objection or make any requisition which the vendor should be unable or unwilling to remove or comply with, and should not withdraw the same within seven days after being required so to do, the vendor might by notice in writing, and notwithstanding any intermediate negotiation, rescind the agreement. The time fixed for completion of the purchase was the 24th of March, 1894. The purchaser had made certain requisitions on the title to the fixtures when the defendant's solicitors, on the 7th of March, wrote, giving formal notice under clause 3 that the defendant was unwilling to remove or comply with, and calling upon the purchaser to withdraw his requisitions. On the 9th of March a reply was sent refusing to withdraw them. The vendor's solicitor however, delayed informing the purchaser whether the contract was to go on or not, and proceeded to negotiate with another person for a sale to him of the same property, it being intended on behalf of the vendor, if he could effect a contract, to rescind the contract with the plaintiff. The negotiations were going on from prior to the 9th of March until after the date fixed for completion. The plaintiff was unaware of the fresh negotiations; but on the 15th of March wrote asking whether the vendor was going to rescind or not, and, if not, requiring him to proceed with the requisition and on the same day the vendor's solicitors replied to the plaintiff's solicitors asking for a delay to the end of the week. Other letters followed, the vendor's solicitors, in fact, playing fast and loose with those of the plaintiff, until the 19th of March, when the latter wrote rescinding the contract, and asking for a return of the deposit. Even then the vendor's solicitors delayed, and on the 21st the plaintiff's solicitor wrote that they must issue a writ. This followed on the 29th of March, and the plaintiff claimed a return of the deposit. Even after the writ had been issued the vendor's solicitors attempted to treat the contract with the plaintiff as binding. The vendor counter-claimed for specific performance.

Neville, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the plaintiff.

Hopkinson, Q.C., and Sargant, for the defendant.

ROMER, J., said that the plaintiff when he issued his writ was entitled to treat the contract as rescinded, and to have the deposit returned to him. At the expiration of seven days after the notice to withdraw the requisitions the vendor might have given formal notice to rescind the contract. This power was a powerful weapon in the vendor's hands, and he was bound to exercise the rights given him by clause 3 fairly, and to determine promptly whether he would exercise the power or not. He was not entitled to take advantage of his position, and to leave the purchaser in ignorance whether the contract was to be treated as rescinded or not. He certainly was not entitled intentionally to delay deciding whether the contract was to be gone on with or not, and still less was he entitled to use that delay for his own purpose in trying to effect another and more beneficial contract for the sale of the property to a third person. It was unnecessary to point out the hardship on the purchaser in allowing the vendor to play fast and loose with him in such a matter. The purchaser would not know whether he was to be ready for completion or not, whether his requisitions were to be further answered, or how they were to be dealt with, or what step he should take, and this at a time when the day fixed for completion was close at hand, and he might be held liable under the contract to pay interest on his purchase-money if the contract was not completed on the day fixed. The deposit must be returned, with interest from the date of the writ, the counter-claim must be dismissed, and the defendants must pay the costs of the action and counter-claim.

Practice—Payment of Money into Court—Liability not denied in Defence—Verdict for Smaller Amount—Payment of Balance to Defendant—Power of Judge to make Order—Rules of Supreme Court, 1883, Order XXII., rr. 5, 22.

Appeal from an order for the payment out of Court to the defendant of money paid in by him.

The action was for slander. The defendant paid 5*l.* into Court, and his liability was not denied in the defence. Appeal by the trustee in the bankruptcy of Isaacson against the affirmance by a Divisional Court (Vaughan Williams and Kennedy, JJ.) of the refusal of the judge of the Monmouthshire County Court to make a declaration that a deed of assignment executed by the bankrupt was void under the Bills of Sale Acts because it had not been registered, and was not in the statutory form.

The bankrupt had been in the habit of selling pianos on the "hire purchase" system. On the 2nd of May, 1892, the bankrupt as owner, entered into an agreement with T. Yeomens as "hirer," whereby he agreed to let on hire to the hirer a specified piano. And the hirer agreed to pay to the owner a hire instalment of 5*l.* on the date of the agreement, and 4*l.* 10*s.* on the second day of each succeeding quarter. If the hirer did not duly perform his agreement the owner might terminate the hiring and retake possession of the piano; and for that purpose license was thereby given to him to enter any premises occupied by the hirer, and to retake possession of the piano. The owner agreed that the hirer might terminate the hiring by delivering up the piano to the owner; that if the hirer should punctually pay the full sum of 71*l.* 8*s.* by the instalments before mentioned the piano should become his absolute property; but, unless and until the full sum of 71*l.* 8*s.* should be paid, the piano should continue to be the sole property of the owner.

On the 11th of February, 1893, the bankrupt executed a deed by which, in consideration of 25*l.*, he, as beneficial owner, assigned unto E. Bishop absolutely the piano, and also the agreement for hire of the 2nd of May, 1892, relating to the piano, and the full benefit and advantage thereof. It was admitted that, though this assignment was in form absolute, it was in fact intended only as a security for the 25*l.* in it expressed to be paid.

The trustee alleged that the deed was void in toto under the Bills of Sale Acts as an assignment of "personal chattels," on the grounds above stated. The judge of the county court held, on the authority of In re Burdett (20 Q. B. D. 310) and Cochrane v. Entwistle (25 Q. B. D. 116), that the assignment of the hiring agreement could be severed from that of the piano itself, and that, if the latter assignment was made void by the Act, the assignment of the agreement remained valid. The Divisional Court affirmed the decision, but gave leave to appeal. The trustees appealed.

Moulton, Q.C., and F. Cooper Willis, for the trustee, contended that the piano and the hiring agreement were so intimately connected that it was impossible to sever the assignment of the one from the assignment of the other, and therefore the deed was void altogether.

H. Reed, Q.C., and Johnston Watson, for Bishop, relied on the cases above mentioned. [They were stopped by the Court.]

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Rigby L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal. They said that the assignment of the piano gave to the grantee all proprietary rights relating to it, while the assignment of the hire agreement passed to the grantee the contractual rights created by that agreement. The two things were distinct and severable, and the case was governed by the authorities cited.

Appeal against the refusal of Wright, J. (ante, p. 136), to admit a claim of 45,000*l.* in the winding up of the above company.

claimant was lessee of a colliery, and in 1890 he assigned the lease to the company; and the company covenanted to pay rent and royalties reserved by the lease, and to perform the covenants contained in it, and to indemnify the claimant therefrom. This covenant covered the whole period of the lease.

The company took possession under the lease, and in 1893 the company went into voluntary liquidation, which was subsequently continued under the supervision of the Court. In November, 1893, a scheme of arrangement was adopted by the creditors and contributories for forming a new company to take over the assets and liabilities of the old company, and to satisfy within three months of the approval of the scheme the Court the debentures and unsecured creditors of the old company, and the costs of the winding-up, and it provided for the liquidation of the old company on payment of such debentures, debts, and expenses.

On the 9th of December, 1893, after the scheme had been approved by the Court, and the new company had been formed and agreed with the liquidators of the old company to take over its assets and liabilities, the claimant took out a writ against the liquidators of the old company asking for a claim of upwards of 45,000*l.*, which, except as to 336*l.*, was based upon the covenant of the old company to indemnify him against future rent and royalties under the lease, might be admitted. The summons was not served upon the new company. Wright, J., disallowed the claim except as to the 336*l.* The claimant appealed.

Wright, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the appeal.
Wright, Q.C., for the respondents.

Wright, L.J., delivered the judgment of the Court (Lord Wright, Lindley, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) dismissing the writ. Dealing first with the rights of the claimant against the old company apart from the scheme of arrangement, he said that the claimant based his case on a series of decisions in which a lessor of a company in the course of its liquidation had been held entitled to enter a claim for future rent and royalties, and to an injunction to restrain the company from distributing its assets and dissolving without providing for his payment; but those decisions had been based upon the view that the lessor could not prove for a certain ascertainable sum. The effect of Hardy v. Fothergill (1887, App. Cas. 351), taken in conjunction with sect. 10 of the Companies Act, 1875, upon those decisions would require their reconsideration at some future time. But assuming that apart from the scheme the claimant would have been entitled to enter a claim for indemnity and to have assets in the hands of the liquidators set apart to answer his claim (although it was not what his summons asked), he was a creditor within sect. 2 of the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1890, and was therefore bound by the scheme. Lastly, his writ was made too late, as the scheme had been approved by the Court, and before his summons came on to be heard the assets of the old company had been distributed. There being no assets of the old company to impound, nothing could be done by staying its dissolution.

Practice—Order in Chambers—Motion to Discharge—"Appeal"—Leave from Judge or Court of Appeal—Judicature Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 66), s. 50—Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 16), s. 1.

The right of a litigant to move to discharge an order made in Chambers by a judge of the Chancery Division was expressly reserved by sect. 50 of the Judicature Act, 1873, and that right, exercisable without leave, if notice is given within fourteen days, has not been taken away by the Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894, s. 1. Accordingly, in the Chancery Division, an unsuccessful litigant in Chambers still has three alternatives—either to move to discharge the order in Chambers, or to have the matter adjourned into Court, or to obtain leave from the judge to go to the Court of Appeal direct upon the certificate of the judge that no further argument is required. But, with a view to preventing delay and expense, the Court will, as far as possible, discourage motions to discharge orders made in Chambers.

A motion to discharge an order made in Chambers is not an "appeal," but a rehearing. See In re Giles (43 Ch. D. 395).

Company—Winding up by Order of the Court—Petition—Debt due under Agreement with Voluntary Liquidator—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), ss. 95, 183, 145, 161.

At general meetings of the company held in March and April, 1892, special resolutions were passed for voluntary liquidation, and appointing certain liquidators who were authorized to enter into an agreement with the Union Bank of Australia for the transfer of the company's assets and liabilities to the latter. Under the agreement subsequently entered into the Union Bank undertook to discharge certain debts and liabilities, the amount, so far as it was not covered by proceeds of realization of the company's assets, to be deemed and treated as a debt due by the company to the Union Bank. If the assets should not be sufficient to pay the debt, the liquidators were, so far as they legally could, to make such calls on the contributories of the company as should be necessary to raise the amount required.

The liquidators having declined to make a call to pay the amount which had become due under this agreement, the Union Bank presented a petition asking that the voluntary winding-up might be continued under supervision, so that, as creditors, they might be in a position to apply to the Court under sect. 147 of the Companies Act, 1862, with reference to having the call made; but the Court held that the debt was insufficient to support the petition (ante, p. 170).

The Union Bank then presented a petition asking that the company might be wound up by the Court, their object still being to have it decided whether the call could be, and to have it, made. The question whether the call could be made was argued on the hearing of the petition.

Finlay, Q.C., Beale, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the petitioners.

Buckley, Q.C., and George Lawrence, for the liquidators.

Cozens-Hardy, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for other persons.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, J., held, on the construction of the company's deed of settlement, charters, and special Act, that the call could be made, and made a compulsory winding-up order. He said there was, under sects. 95 and 133 of the Companies Act, 1862, power to sell on the terms of the agreement; and if the liquidators considered that the best mode of realizing the assets, there was nothing in principle or the Acts to prevent them undertaking to make the call in order to carry out the agreement. The debt of the petitioners was a debt of the company, though created after the commencement of the voluntary winding-up; and, though not for that reason provable in that winding-up, it was sufficient to support the present petition.

C. C. R. REG. v. WORTON. Dec. 8

Case stated by the Recorder of Birmingham.

The defendant was convicted on three counts, which charged him with using the bar of a beerhouse on three different days for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto, contrary to sect. 1 of the Betting Act, 1853.

It was proved that on each of the three days the defendant was in the bar, and a number of persons came in, took slips of paper that were hanging on the wall, wrote on the slips the names of the horses they wished to back for races, wrapped up in the slips the money they staked, and handed the slips containing the money to the defendant. Usually the defendant went outside, and received the slips and money on the doorstep of the house; but on one of the three days he received two slips containing money in the bar.

No counsel appeared.

THE COURT (Lord Russell of Killowen, C.J., Pollock, B., Hawkins, Lawrance, and Wright, J.J.) held that there was evidence to go to the jury that the defendant had used the bar for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto.

Conviction affirmed.

PROBATE, DIVORCE, AND ADMIRALTY DIVISION.

Admiralty.

THE TYNWALD.

Dec. 4

Collision—Practice—Trial by Judge with Assessors or Jury—County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 71), ss. 10, 11—County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 48), s. 101.

By the County Courts Admiralty Jurisdiction Act, 1868 (sect. 10), an Admiralty cause shall be heard as ordinary civil causes are heard, except that in any Admiralty cause of salvage, towage, or collision (sect. 11) the judge shall, upon request of either party, summon to his assistance two nautical assessors.

By the County Courts Act, 1888 (sect. 101), “in all actions, except actions of the nature assigned to the Chancery Division “where the amount claimed shall exceed five pounds, it shall be lawful for the plaintiff or defendant to require a jury to be summoned to try the said action.”

On the 12th of September, 1894, the plaintiffs Kelly and Hardy, owners of the flat Gibson, instituted an action personam under the Admiralty jurisdiction of the county court of Lancashire, holden at Liverpool, against the defendants, the Isle of Man Steam Packet Company, Limited, owners of the screw steamer Tynwald, for damages for injuries to their flat by collision with the defendants' steamer.

On the 19th of September, on the demand of the plaintiffs the registrar gave the defendants notice that the action was to be tried by a jury. On the 21st of September the defendants filed a request that two nautical assessors be summoned to assist the judge at the hearing of the action; and on the 1st of October gave the plaintiffs notice of their intention to apply to the judge for directions as to the mode of trial.

On the hearing of this application the learned county court judge held that—as under sect. 101 of the County Courts Act, 1888, there was no other exception than in respect of causes or matters of the nature assigned to the Chancery Division if a jury was asked for, he was obliged to allow the case to be so tried. He accordingly made no order on the application but gave the defendants leave to appeal.

Supreme Court of Judicature

COURT OF APPEAL

From Palatine Court.

PRESTON BANKING COMPANY v. ALLSUP & Sons.

Practice—Order Passed and Entered—Re-hearing.

Appeal from a decision of the Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine of Lancaster.

By an order made in a debenture-holders' action the Vice-Chancellor directed the sale out of Court of the business assets of the defendant company to satisfy the several series of debentures charged thereon. L., who was one of the receivers and managers appointed in the action, and was also a holder of a debenture of the third series for 1000*l.*, subsequently applied in the action that the sale might be carried out in the direction of the Court. By an order of the 11th of Dec. 1894, made upon this application, it was ordered that upon the applicant paying into Court within a week 250*l.* as security the costs and damages of and consequent upon the application, it should be referred to the registrar to appoint some fit and proper person to conduct the sale out of Court, no order to be made upon the application if default should be made in the payment of the 250*l.*, except that the applicant should pay the costs of it.

L. having made default in paying the 250*l.*, applied by summons that, notwithstanding the order of the 11th of July, the costs thereby directed to be paid by him might be costs in the action, and that all further proceedings under the order might be stayed. At the date of this application the order of the 11th of July had been passed and entered. L.'s case was, that the assets of the company had been sold since the order at a price which left a considerable sum for distribution amongst the third debenture-holders, and that the order of the 11th of July had been obtained by a misrepresentation as to the value of the assets. The Vice-Chancellor held that he had no jurisdiction to entertain the application. L. appealed.

Hopkinson, Q.C., and T. E. Mansfield, for the appellant.

Asbury, for the defendant company and the other receiver and manager.

Rumber, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, Lindley, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) dismissed the appeal. Their Lordships held that this was in substance an application to re-hear an order after it had been passed and entered. But when an order had been perfected and it expressed the real decision of the Court, the Court had no jurisdiction to alter it. The Vice-Chancellor was asked to alter an order which he intended to make, but which, it was said, he would not have made if he had known all the facts. But it had been held that the Court had no jurisdiction to re-hear an order even when it had been obtained by fraud. If such a jurisdiction existed it would be most mischievous. It was most important that an order which had been passed and entered should be final. The appeal would be dismissed, but without prejudice to any application which the appellant might make to the Vice-Chancellor for leave to take the costs which he had been ordered to pay out of the proceeds of the sale of the assets of the company.

CORPORATION OF BRADFORD v. PICKLES.

Watercourse—Underground Springs—Injunction—Tunnel for draining Mines—Mala fides—Purpose of extorting Money.

This was an appeal from a judgment of North, J. ([1894] 6 Ch. 53; ante, p. 90).

The action was brought to restrain the defendant from diminishing the flow of water from certain springs called "Many Wells," which supplied a reservoir belonging to the plaintiffs, who were the owners of waterworks which supplied the town of Bradford with water.

The defendant had begun to sink some shafts for the purpose, he alleged, of drawing the water from some beds of stone which he was desirous of working. The plaintiffs complained that he was not acting bona fide, but with a view to extort money from them; and, further, that he was forbidden to divert the water by the 49th section of the Bradford Waterworks Act, 1854. By that section it was declared to be unlawful for any person other than the company to divert, alter, or appropriate in any other manner than by law they might be legally entitled, any of the waters supplying or flowing from the "Many Wells," or to sink any well or pit, or do any act, matter, or thing whereby the waters of the said springs might be drawn off or diminished in quantity. North, J., granted the injunction, and the defendant appealed.

Everitt, Q.C., Tindal Atkinson, Q.C., and Butcher, for the appellant.

Coxens-Hardy, Q.C., Eyre, and C. M. Atkinson, for the plaintiffs.

LORD HERSHELL, L.C., said that the 49th section of the Act of 1854 was difficult of construction; but he was of opinion that it was not intended to interfere with the legal rights of a landowner who was always entitled to intercept water percolating under ground through his own land. With respect to the objection that the defendant's act was not done bona fide for the purpose of draining the water from his stone, but either with the object of injuring the plaintiffs or of forcing them to purchase the land, he was of opinion that neither motive, if it were proved, would prevent him from insisting on his legal rights. The appeal must therefore be allowed, and the injunction dissolved.

LINDLEY and A. L. SMITH, L.JJ., gave judgment to the same effect.

TRUSTEE IN BANKRUPTCY OF JOHN BURNS-BURNS v. BROWN.

Bankruptcy—Act of Bankruptcy—Goods taken in Execution—Holding by Sheriff for Twenty-one Days—Title of Trustee in Bankruptcy—Bankruptcy Act, 1883, s. 45—Bankruptcy Act 1890, s. 1.

Appeal by the defendants from a decision of Vaughan Williams, J., upon an interpleader issue to try whether the plaintiff, the trustee in the bankruptcy of Burns, or the defendants, judgment creditors of Burns, were entitled to the proceeds of sale of goods which the sheriff had seized under a fi. fa. issued upon a judgment which the defendants had recovered against Burns. The sheriff had held the goods for more than twenty-one days, and thus, under sect. 1 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1890, an act of bankruptcy had been committed, and the question was, whether this act of bankruptcy operated, under sect. 45 of the Bankruptcy, 1883, to avoid the execution as against the trustee in bankruptcy of the debtor, and whether in Figg v. Moore ([1894] 2 Q. B. 690) Vaughan Williams, J., had rightly held that this was the effect of sect. 1 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1890, in conjunction with sect. 45 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883.

H. Reed, Q.C., and Gore Browne, for the appellants.

Lawson Wallon, Q.C., and Edward Clayton, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, and Lindley and A. L. Smith, L.JJ.) held that the decision in Figg v. Moore was right, and that Ex parte Villars (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 432) was distinguishable.

W. L. C.

From Q. B. D. REG. v. VESTRY OF MARYLEBONE. Dec. 14.
Church Rate—Compulsory Church Rate Abolition Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 109), s. 5—Reservation of Right to levy Church Rate levied under authority of local Act "upon any contract made or for good or valuable consideration given"—Application of Burial Fees for Repair of Church—Burial Act, 1852 (15 & 16 Vict. c. 85), s. 36.

Appeal against the judgment of a Divisional Court (Mathew and Day, JJ.) upon an application, on the prosecution of Canon Barker, the Rector of the parish of St. Marylebone, for a mandamus calling upon the vestrymen of the parish (1) to make under their statutory powers a rate for the repair of the parish church; or, in the alternative, (2) to take proper steps to recover from the burial board of the parish certain fees said to be applicable for the purpose of repairing the church.

The power to levy the church rate was conferred by two local Acts—51 Geo. 3, c. ciii., and 1 & 2 Geo. 4, c. xxi. The question arose whether the power to levy this rate was preserved by the Compulsory Church Rate Abolition Act, 1868, s. 5, which provides that that Act "shall not affect any enactment in any private or local Act of Parliament under the authority of which church rates may be levied . . . upon any contract made or for good or valuable consideration given." The above-mentioned Acts did not shew that any contract had been made or any consideration given for the right to levy church rates; but it was alleged that there had in fact been a contract or agreement outside the Acts, and that there was consideration in the fact that the Duke of Portland had given a site for a new parish church; but this consideration did not appear in the Acts.

The Act of 51 Geo. 3 was passed to enable the vestry to build a new parish church and for other purposes. It authorized the vestry to fix the fees for burials, and to borrow money for the purposes of the Act on the credit of the burial fees and of the church rates which they were authorized to levy, the fees and rates being assigned as security to the lenders of the money. By sect. 80 it was provided that if at any time thereafter the borrowed money should be paid off, and the burial fees and rates should be more than sufficient for paying the annual charges thereon and the repairs of the intended new church, then it should be lawful for the vestry to apply the surplus to such parochial purposes as they should think right for the use and benefit of the parishioners, and the rates should thenceforth cease to be levied. The new church was afterwards built. The Act 15 & 16 Vict. c. 85 provided for the creation of a burial board in the parish, and the acquisition of a new cemetery, and the closing of the old burying grounds. Sect. 19 provided that the expenses of the burial board should be payable out of the poor rates. Sect. 34 empowered the burial board to settle the fees for interments, and with the consent of the vestry to alter the fees. Sect. 36 provided that burial fees by law payable to churchwardens, trustees, or other persons for or towards the payment of any stipend to the incumbent, or any other parochial purpose, or the discharge of any debt or liability, should be payable in the burial ground to be provided under the Act, and should be received by the burial board and paid to the parties entitled to receive the same. The Divisional Court refused the mandamus as regarded the church rate, but granted it as to the burial fees. The prosecutor appealed from the refusal, and the vestry appealed as to the burial fees.

Sir H. James, Q.C., Dr. Tristram, Q.C., H. Sutton, and A. H. Dennis, for the prosecutor.

Sir R. E. Webster, Q.C., English Harrison, and, Dicks, for the vestry.

THE COURT (Lord Esher, M.R., and Lopes and Rigby, L.JJ.) dismissed both appeals.

LOPES, L.J., read a judgment in which he said that in his opinion the "contract made" or "good consideration given" must be found in or gathered from the private or local Act which authorized the levying of the church rate. In the present case he could find neither the one nor the other in the private Acts, nor outside them. Therefore sect. 5 of the Compulsory Church Rate Abolition Act, 1868, did not apply. And his Lordship was of opinion that by sect. 36 of the Act 15 & 16 Vict. c. 85 it was the duty of the burial board to hand over the fees received by them (except service fees to the incumbent &c.) to the vestry to be applied as provided by the private Act.

RIGBY, L.J., read a judgment to the same effect.

LORD ESHER, M.R., concurred.

Lunacy.

Dec. 14.

In re SHORTRIDGE (A PERSON OF UNSOUND MIND).

Lunatic—Settlement of Stock—Power to appoint new Trustees—Lunatic Donee of Power—Order authorizing Persons to exercise Power on behalf of Lunatic by appointing two named Persons as new Trustees, and also vesting in them when appointed the right to call for a Transfer of the Stock—Jurisdiction—Bank of England—"Clean Order"—Lunacy Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 5), s. 116, sub-ss. 1, 2, 3, 128, 129.

L. J. S. was entitled to a life interest under a settlement of Consols, made in 1864, which provided (inter alia) that in the event of the trustees thereby appointed should die it should be lawful for her to appoint any other persons to be trustees instead of the trustees so dying.

L. J. S. became of unsound mind. She was not so found by a medical inquisition, but was lawfully detained in an asylum. The surviving trustee of the settlement died in March, 1892, and an order of one of the Masters in Lunacy dated the 19th March, 1894, the only sister of L. J. S. was authorized (inter alia) in her name and on her behalf to exercise the power of appointing new trustees, vested in her by the settlement, appointing A. B. and C. D. as trustees of the settlement in the place of the deceased trustees, and to do and execute such deeds, and instruments as might be necessary and proper in the opinion of the Master in Lunacy might approve of. The order then went on to direct that upon the appointment of A. B. and C. D. as such new trustees, "they be and are hereby appointed to call for a transfer of" the Consols standing in the books of the Bank of England in the names of the deceased trustees.

In pursuance of this order the sister by deed appointed A. B. and C. D. new trustees of the settlement, and a copy of the order was lodged with the Bank of England; the Bank objected to act upon it upon the ground that it was a "prospective order," and that there should have been separate orders, the first authorizing the sister to appoint new trustees, and the second vesting in the new trustees by the right to call for a transfer of the stock; so that the Bank might have a "clean order" which they could act upon without being obliged themselves to look into the deed of appointment in order to see the effect of it and to ascertain that it had been duly executed. It was also objected that there was no jurisdiction under the Lunacy Acts to make the order because the power of appointing new trustees was neither a beneficial nor a fiduciary power, but was a ministerial power only.

This was an application by the sister that the order of the 10th of March, 1894, might stand and be duly passed and entered, and that the Bank of England might be ordered to give full effect to the same.

Rowden, in support of the application.

Latham, Q.C., for the Bank of England, contra.

THE COURT (Lord Halsbury, and Lindley and A. L. Smith, JJ.) said that there was jurisdiction to make the order in question, and that it was a proper order. In In re Bowmer (De G. & J. 658) a similar order had been made under sects. 137 and 138 of the Lunacy Regulation Act, 1853, which sections corresponded to sects. 128 and 129 of the Lunacy Act, 1890; and in In re Skeats' Settlement (42 Ch. D. 522), Kay, J., held that a power of appointment was a fiduciary power. Their Lordships accordingly granted the application, but thought that hereafter in similar cases there should be for the guidance of the Bank something in the nature of a certificate by the Master of the execution of the deed of appointment. They declined to order the Bank to pay the costs of the application.

Q. B. D. HENDERSON v. WILLIAMS. Dec. 19.

Conduct—Attornment—Warehouseman—Trove—Just Title—Contract for Sale of Goods—Non-delivery—Measure of Damages.

Appeal from a decision of Cave, J., dated the 10th of August at the Liverpool Assizes without a jury.

The plaintiffs sued the defendant for damages for the detention and conversion of 150 bags of sugar. G., a Liverpool merchant, having 150 bags of sugar warehoused in his name in the defendant's warehouse, was induced by the fraud of F. to authorize the defendant to hold them according to F.'s order. G. agreed to sell these bags with some other sugar to the plaintiffs; but before the plaintiffs paid him for them, they refused on having them transferred into their own name. When this was done, and the defendant informed the plaintiffs that he would deliver the sugar at the plaintiffs' order and disposal. The plaintiffs then paid F. for the whole amount of the sugar which he had bought from him by extinguishing a debt of 181*l.* due to F. to the plaintiffs, and by giving him a cheque of 167*l.* as the balance of the price. G. afterwards discovered that he had been defrauded, and gave notice to the defendant not to deal with the 150 bags of sugar; and the defendant, on being notified by G., refused to deliver these bags to the plaintiffs, but delivered the other sugar. The plaintiffs brought this action to recover the value of the 150 bags. The defendant pleaded the action for and on behalf of Gray.

Cave, J., held that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover damages for the non-delivery of this sugar; but he held that the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover the market value of the sugar, but merely to be put in the same position as they were in before the defendant's statement that he held the sugar at the plaintiffs' disposal. In estimating the damages on this footing, he found that the debt from F. to the plaintiffs was of no value, and that the plaintiffs were therefore only entitled to recover the sum of 167*l.* less the value of the sugar which had been delivered to them. The defendant appealed from the whole judgment. The plaintiffs also appealed so far as the learned judge refused to allow them the market value of the sugar.

Forbes, Q.C., Scott Fox, and Lacey Smith, for the plaintiffs.

Pickford, Q.C., and T. Willes Chitty, for the defendant.

Their LORDSHIPS (Lord Halsbury, Lindley, L.J., and A. L. Smith, L.J.) held that the attornment of the defendant to the plaintiffs estopped him from setting up G.'s title. The cases beginning with Stonard v. Dunkin (2 Camp. 344) and ending with Knights v. Wiffen (Law Rep. 5 Q. B. 660) were conclusive upon this point. Attenborough v. London and St. Katharine's Dock Company (3 C. P. D. 450) was distinguishable, because there the defendants had not attorned to the plaintiffs. It was therefore unnecessary to determine whether G. or the plaintiffs had the better title. With regard to the measure of damages this was in substance an action of trover, and the plaintiffs were therefore entitled to the market value of the goods at the date of the defendant's refusal to deliver. The defendant's appeal would be dismissed, and the plaintiffs' appeal would be allowed with costs.

Practice—Judgment Creditor—Application for Sale of Judgment Debtor's Interest in Land—Petition or Summons—Costs—27 & 28 Vict. c. 112—Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, Order LV., r. 9 B; Order LXX., r. 1.

Petition, under the Act 27 & 28 Vict. c. 112, by judgment creditors for the sale of the judgment debtors' interest in land. A receiver of the rents and profits of the land (which was subject to mortgages) had been appointed, without prejudice to the rights of any prior incumbrancers; and the order appointing the receiver had been registered under the Land Charges Registration and Searches Act, 1888.

Swinfen Eady, Q.C., and T. A. Nash, for the petitioners, said that, according to rule 9 B of Order LV. the application ought to have been made by originating summons, not by petition. But this was a mere irregularity in procedure; and rule 1 of Order LXX. enabled the Court to make the order on the petition, though, of course, the petitioners would be allowed only such costs as would have been incurred if the application had been made by summons.

F. Ritter, for the judgment debtors, contended that rule 1 of Order LXX. applied only to an irregularity in the course of proceedings which had been properly commenced. In this case the proceeding was wrongly commenced and was void.

NORTH, J., held that there had been only an irregularity, and that rule 1 of Order LXX. applied. This was shown by In re Bethlehem and Bridewell Hospitals (80 Ch. D. 541). The order for sale would be in the form adopted in In re Cooper (37 W. R. 330; Seton on Decrees, 5th ed. vol. ii. p. 1713, Form (No. 2), except as regarded costs. The taxing master must tax the costs of the petitioners and the respondents, certifying in each case what costs would have been incurred if the application had been made by summons. The petitioners would be allowed only the costs which would have been incurred upon a summons, and the sum to be allowed to them must be reduced by the amount by which the costs of the respondents exceeded the costs which would have been incurred by them if the application had been by summons.

Vendor and Purchaser—Sale by Liquidator of Company—Unregistered Society—"More than seven Members"—Winding-up—Jurisdiction—Companies Act, 1862 (25 & 26 Vict. c. 89), s. 199.

Summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

The purchaser had contracted to buy certain freehold property from the official liquidator of the Leeds and Yorkshire Permanent Benefit Building Society. That Society was established in 1851 under the Building Societies Act, 1836, and was not incorporated under the Act of 1874.

On the 27th of July, 1893, an order was made by the judge of the Leeds County Court for the compulsory winding up of the society; and on the 13th of November, 1893, an order was made vesting all the property of the society in the official liquidator.

The purchaser objected that at the date of the winding-up order there were less than seven members of the society; that both the winding-up order and the vesting order were consequently made without jurisdiction and invalid; and that therefore the official liquidator had no title. This summons was taken out by the liquidator to determine the validity of the objection. At the date of the winding-up order, the society's register showed that there were fewer than seven members; but the list of contributories contained the names of four living members, the personal representatives of some deceased members, and the trustee in bankruptcy of a bankrupt member.

Percy Wheeler, for the summons, contended that the objection could not now be raised, because the point had been taken before the county court judge and decided by him; that the winding-up order could not now be appealed from; and that the Court would not interfere by way of prohibition.

Dibdin, for the purchaser.

STIRLING, J., said that unless there was jurisdiction to make the winding-up order, the liquidator could not convey the legal estate, and the purchaser was entitled to raise the objection. Although there were not seven members on the register, yet if there were more than seven persons whose names ought at the date of the winding-up order to have been on the register, there was jurisdiction to make the order: In re South London Fish Market Company (39 Ch. D. 924). Representatives of deceased members and the trustee of a bankrupt member were properly put on the list of contributories; but the question whether they ought to have been on the register of members depended on whether they could have been placed there before the winding-up against their will. Having regard to the society's rules upon this point, his Lordship thought they could not. There were not, therefore, seven members; the order to wind-up had been made without jurisdiction; and consequently the liquidator had no title, and his summons must be dismissed.

STEPHENS v. GREEN.

GREEN v. KNIGHT.

Equitable Interest in Personal Estate—Fund in Court—Administration—Stop Order—Priority—Notice.

Petition.

In the first above-named action a fund was in Court representing certain legacies bequeathed by the testator for the administration of whose estate such action was instituted. The second action was for the administration of the estate of the original testator's son, who was entitled to a reversionary interest in the fund in Court. The second testator, by his will, gave his residuary estate upon trust for all his children in equal shares. His daughter, by a post-nuptial settlement, covenanted to assign her share under the will to the trustees of such settlement, and afterwards mortgaged her share to the Mutual Life Assurance Society, who had no notice of the settlement.

On the 5th of October, 1883, the Society obtained an order in the first action upon the fund in Court.

On the 14th of December, 1883, the trustees of the second action obtained a stop order in the same action, upon the fund. No stop order was obtained by any one in the first action. On the 16th of January, 1884, the trustees gave notice of the settlement to the legal personal representative of the second testator, who, at that time, had no notice of any incumbrance upon the fund.

This was a petition presented by the trustees, asking for payment out to them of the fund in Court, and the question was whether they were entitled to be so paid in priority to the insurance society.

Grosvenor Woods, Q.C., and A. Cordery, for the trustees; Kirby, for the society.

Methold, and J. Holt, for other parties.

STIRLING, J., said that according to the authorities the persons to whom notice ought to be given for the purpose of giving priority were those who had the control and custody of the fund. Here the Court had that custody and control for the purposes of the first suit, but not for any other purposes. For the purpose of notice as regarded the interests of persons claiming under the second testator, the fund was not under the control of the Court in the first action. The order obtained by the society was insufficient, therefore, deprive the trustees of the priority to which they were entitled by virtue of the earlier date of the settlement.

By the will of a testator, who died in 1877, property was bequeathed to trustees upon trust to invest and pay the income to the testator's two daughters, in equal moieties, during their lives for their separate use; and, as to the capital, the testator directed that the same being divided into two equal parts, should, as to each moiety thereof, be subject to the appointment of the will of his said daughters respectively, and be assigned and sold over by his trustees according to such appointment, and in default thereof to their executors, administrators, or assigns respectively. The testator's daughters, not having released their powers of appointment, were both married subsequently to the passing of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, and now applied to the Court, without the concurrence of their husbands, for a declaration that they were entitled to have their respective shares transferred and paid to them absolutely and paid, for the married women.

SALISBURY, J., held that the effect of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, was to place the married women for the said purpose in the same position as if they were femes sole or men, and that by virtue of the Act the life interests and interests in reversion were alike limited to the separate property of the married women; that any such equitable doctrine as that in Whittle v. Henning (2 Ph. 781) was therefore not applicable, and the married women, on releasing their powers of appointment, would be absolutely entitled to their shares.

Damages—Absence of Direct Evidence as to Cause of—Contributory Negligence—Onus of Proof.

Appeal from county court of Cheshire.

The defendants were the owners of a shop adjoining a highway in front of a window of the shop, and immediately leading on the footway, was a low wall eighteen inches high, the property of the defendants, on the top of which wall was a row of sharp iron spikes four and a half inches high. On the 1st of May, 1894, the plaintiff, a little girl aged five years and six months, was found standing by the side of the wall with blood bleeding from a recent wound, such as might have been caused by her falling upon the spikes. No person was seen at the accident. The plaintiff brought an action in county court for damages, for the injury, which was alleged to have been caused by reason of the defendants having maintained a state of things which was a nuisance to the highway. At the trial the plaintiff, who, was ill, was not called as a witness, nor was any other evidence than the above given on behalf of the plaintiff as to how the accident happened. But there was evidence that shortly before the accident the defendants' shop-boy saw the plaintiff climbing up upon the wall between the spikes, and told her to get down, which she did. The defendants' counsel submitted, upon the authority of Wakelin v. London and South-Western Railway Company (12 App. Cas. 41), that there was no case to go to the jury; for that assuming the spiked wall to be a nuisance, the facts proved were as much consistent with the plaintiff having fallen upon the spikes whilst wrongfully climbing upon the wall—in which case she would, upon the authority of Hughes v. Macfie (2 H. & C. 744), be disentitled to recover—as with her having so fallen whilst lawfully using the highway. The judge, however, refused to non-suit, and left the case to the jury, who found for the plaintiff.

The defendants appealed.

A. P. Thomas, for the defendants.

Broadbridge, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Pollock, B., and Grantham, J.) held that there was evidence to go to the jury that the wrongful act of the defendants in maintaining the nuisance was the cause of the injury, and dismissed the appeal.

Master and Servant—Employment of Young Person in Shop—Non-Exhibition of Statutory Notice in Shop—Shop Hours Act, 1892 (55 & 56 Vict. c. 62), ss. 3, 4, 5.

Case stated by justices for Warwickshire.

The respondent had been summoned to answer an information under sect. 4 of the Shop Hours Act, 1892, charging him with having employed a young person in or about a shop contrary to the provisions of the Act, by reason of having employed her in a shop in which a notice referring to the provisions of the Act and stating the number of hours in the week during which a young person might lawfully be employed in that shop was not kept exhibited in a conspicuous place by the respondent, the employer of such young person.

By sect. 3 of the Act, no young person may be employed in a shop for more than seventy-four hours in a week; sect. 4 provides for the exhibition by the employer in a conspicuous place in the shop of a notice stating the number of hours per week during which young persons may be employed; and sect. 5 imposes a fine where any young person is employed in a shop contrary to the provisions of the Act of 20s. in respect of each young person so employed.

The evidence shewed that the notice required by sect. 4 to be exhibited was not exhibited in the respondent's shop, and that he did there employ a young person within the meaning of the Act, but that she was not employed for an improper number of hours. The appellant contended that although no penalty was specifically provided by the Act where default was made in exhibiting the notice required by sect. 4, the penalty enacted in sect. 5 was to be read and made applicable to neglect of the provisions of sect. 4 in cases where a young person was employed in a shop in which no notice was exhibited.

The justices dismissed the information.

Q. B. D. BURY v. THOMPSON. Dec. 13.

Landlord and Tenant—Lease—Proviso to determine by Notice—Sufficiency of Notice.

Special case.

The writ claimed a declaration that the term of years created by a lease had been determined by notice.

By the lease the defendant demised a house to the plaintiff for twenty-one years from Christmas, 1887, subject to a proviso "that if the lessee shall be desirous of determining this demise at the end of the 7th or 14th year of the said term, and of such his desire shall give to the lessor six calendar months' notice next before the expiration of such 7th or 14th year," the lease should determine.

On the 21st of October, 1893, the plaintiff wrote to the defendant, "I see that my first 7 years will be determined on 25th December, 1894 . . . I understand that the rent is 50l. too high, and I shall not be able to stop unless some reduction is made. I give you an early intimation of this, so that you may have ample time to consider what course you would like to adopt." Further correspondence followed at intervals, the defendant making offers to reduce the rent, and the plaintiff holding out for a greater reduction than the defendant was willing to give, until the 7th of July, 1894, when the defendant wrote, "I can see no reason now for altering the terms of the lease."

Bray, for the plaintiff.

Lytelton, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Pollock, B., and Grantham, J.) held that the letter of the 21st of October, 1893, was sufficient to determine the term created by the lease, and the plaintiff was entitled to a declaration that the lease had been determined.

Case stated by justices.

The appellant had been summoned to answer two informations under sect. 6 of the Margarine Act, 1887, the first for not having the requisite label on a parcel of margarine exposed for sale; the second, for selling margarine by retail without delivering it to the purchaser in or with a paper wrapper marked "Margarine."

The evidence given proved the facts stated in the information, and it was further shown that the wife of the appellant's manager had sold the article, and had admitted to the inspector, who made the purchase, that the substance was margarine before he gave her notice that it was bought for the purpose of analysis. In consequence of this admission the inspector did not give notice that it was bought for analysis, and did not cause any analysis to be made.

By sect. 12 of the Margarine Act, 1887, all proceedings under that Act, save as expressly varied, are to be the same as prescribed by sects. 12-28 inclusive of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875. By sect. 14 of the Act of 1875, "the person purchasing any article with the intention of submitting the same to analysis shall, after the purchase shall have been completed, forthwith notify to the seller or his agent selling the article his intention to have the same analysed by the public analyst . . ." The justices convicted the appellant.

Bonsey, for the appellant, contended that the provisions of sect. 14 of the Act of 1875 were incorporated in the Margarine Act, that compliance with those provisions was a condition precedent to a prosecution for the offence, and that the requirement of notice could not be dispensed with even in cases where the offence was admitted at the time. He cited Barnes v. Chipp (3 Ex. D. 176); Parsons v. Birmingham Dairy Company (9 Q. B. D. 172).

J. C. Earle, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Wills and Wright, JJ.) held that the requirements of sect. 14 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act were peremptory, and that non-compliance with the condition precedent was fatal to the conviction.

ARTHUR CHARLES, J.

COMPANIES (WINDING-UP) ACT, 1890.

ORDER OF COURT.

Monday, the 1st day of January, 1894.

WHEREAS by an Order, dated the 7th day of November, 1893, it was ordered that the several Causes and Matters assigned, or to be assigned, as in the said Order mentioned, to Mr. Justice VAUGHAN WILLIAMS, as an additional Judge of the Chancery Division, should, during his absence on Circuit, be transferred and assigned to Mr. Justice WRIGHT, and that such of the said Causes and Matters as remained undisposed of on the return of the said Mr. Justice VAUGHAN WILLIAMS should be re-transferred (without further order) to the said Mr. Justice VAUGHAN WILLIAMS. And whereas it has been represented to me that certain applications in some of such Causes and Matters having been partly heard by the said Mr. Justice WRIGHT, it is expedient that the same should be dealt with by him. Now I, the Right Honourable FARRER, BARON HERSCHELL, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, Do, pursuant to Order XLIX., Rule 4, of the Rules of the Supreme Court, hereby order and direct that such part heard applications be, notwithstanding such re-transfer, heard and disposed of by the said Mr. Justice WRIGHT, who has consented so to do. And this Order is to be drawn up by the Registrar, and set up in the several Offices of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice.

HERSCHELL, O.

RULE OF THE SUPREME COURT.

Rules 1 and 7 of the Rules of the Supreme Court, November, 1893 (Order XI. Service out of the Jurisdiction, and Order XVI., Rule 40), and so much of Rule 31 as annuls Order XI. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, and also Forms No. 1, C., D. and E. of Appendix K. of the Rules of November, 1893, are hereby annulled: and, whereas the immediate operation of this Rule is urgent, this Rule shall come into operation forthwith.

The 10th day of January, 1894.

TRUSTEE RELIEF ACTS.

DIRECTION OF THE JUDGES OF THE CHANCERY DIVISION.

WE, the undersigned Judges of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, direct that all applications dealing with funds lodged in Court on affidavit under the Trustee Act, 1893, or under the repealed Trustee Relief Acts, be in ordinary cases served upon the Trustees and the persons named in the Trustees' affidavit as interested in or entitled to the money or securities. When a special direction is required it should be so stated on the Petition or Summons, and the Petition should when presented be referred to Chambers for such direction to be given before it is answered for hearing in Court.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE.
QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE JUDGES.

The following Resolutions were passed by the Judges of the Queen's Bench Division on the 24th of May, 1894:—

1. That it is of the utmost importance, for the purpose of avoiding unnecessary delay and expense in the administration of justice, that there should be at least three Courts of Nisi Prius sitting continuously throughout the legal year—one for special jury causes, one for common jury causes, and one for causes without juries—and that all other judicial business should be considered as secondary to this.

2. That, next in importance to the sittings at Nisi Prius, it is desirable that there should be at least one Court in Banc sitting continuously throughout the legal year; but that, if it should become absolutely necessary either that the sittings of one of the three Courts at Nisi Prius or of the Court in Banc should be suspended for a few days, it is better that the three Courts at Nisi Prius should continue to sit and the sittings of the Court in Banc be suspended.

3. That, when more than five judges are available, there shall be four, five, or more Courts of Nisi Prius, or two or more Courts in Banc, as the business to be disposed of may require.

4. That, when only one Court in Banc is sitting, such Court shall sit for the first three days of the week on the Crown side and for the last three days on the Civil side; that, when two such Courts are sitting, one shall sit on the Crown side and the other on the Civil side; and that, when a third Court is sitting, it shall sit for a week at a time on the Crown or Civil side, as the state of the business on either side may require.

5. That no Court shall sit on Saturdays for the trial of jury causes unless to finish a part heard cause, when the Judge thinks it advisable so to do; but that as far as possible the Short Cause List, the Cause List under Order XIV., causes on further consideration, cases for the Court for the Consideration of Crown Cases Reserved, and Registration and Bankruptcy appeals shall be taken on Saturdays.

6. That the Court for the Consideration of Crown Cases Reserved shall be formed of the Lord Chief Justice and four other Judges to be taken from the Judges assigned to sit in Banc or to try jury causes.

7. That the Court for the hearing of Registration appeals shall be formed of the Lord Chief Justice and two other Judges to be taken in the same way.

8. That causes in the list for trial, if postponed, shall not keep their places in the list unless the Judge shall on special grounds so order, but shall go to the bottom of some week's list.

9. That any cause in any list for trial may be marked urgent or fixed for a day certain on special grounds.

10. That no cause in the week's list shall be ordered to be removed from it by stay or postponement, or have its position in the list altered, except on special grounds, and that any such cause, if postponed, shall be put off to some date beyond the week's list, except on special grounds.

11. That no cause shall be ordered to be interpolated in the weekly list, after that list has been made up and transmitted to the printer, except on special grounds.

12. That no cause which is marked as not to be taken before a certain day later than the first working day of a week's list shall be ordered to appear in that week's list except on special grounds.

13. That any application to postpone or mark urgent a cause not in the week's list shall be made to the Judge in Chambers; and that any application to postpone or mark urgent a cause in the week's list, or to fix a day certain for the trial of any cause, shall be made to the senior Judge who is sitting at Nisi Prius for the trial of the list in which such cause may stand; but applications which will affect the next day's list shall be made before noon on the preceding day, where practicable.

14. That it is desirable that a list should be made of commercial causes to be tried at the Royal Courts of Justice by a Judge alone, or by jurors summoned from the City; and that a Commercial Court should be constituted of Judges to be named by the Judges of the Queen's Bench Division.

15. That any cause may be entered in the Short Cause List, and tried by a Judge without a jury, when the parties agree, and counsel on each side certify that the trial will not, in their judgment, occupy more than an hour.

16. That when a cause is settled a fee of 3s. 4d. shall be allowed on taxation for notifying such settlement to the officer in charge of the list, provided such notification is given before the cause has appeared in the week's list.

17. That a sessional list in the form in the Appendix shall be published by the officer in charge of the lists at least seven days before the commencement of each sittings.

18. That the arrangements made in the weekly list shall not be altered, except when the change is unavoidable; and that two days' notice of such alteration shall be given in the daily cause list, where practicable.

19. That any change of arrangements which may be found to be necessary shall be made as at present, and with the sanction of the Lord Chief Justice or the senior Judge in town for the time being.

20. That the cause lists for each day shall be made up before the midday adjournment of the previous day, and shall be published at 2 o'clock p.m.

21. That the foregoing Resolutions shall be published forthwith, and shall come into operation on the 15th day of June next.

RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT,

AUGUST, 1894.

ORDER XXX., RULE 7.

1. [Evidence.].—On the hearing of the summons, the Court or a Judge may order that evidence of any particular fact, to be specified in the order, shall be given by statement on oath of information and belief, or by production of documents or entries in books, or by copies of documents or entries or otherwise as the Court or Judge may direct.

ORDER XXXV., RULE 5A.

2. [District Registrars.].—At the end of Order XXXV., Rule 5, add:—

(f.) Interpleader Orders.

ORDER LIV., RULE 4B.

3. [Form and Issue of Originating Summons.].—An originating summons shall be in the Form No. 1A or B, Appendix K, or in the Form G or H, Appendix K, to these Rules, with such variations as circumstances may require. It shall be prepared by the applicant or his solicitor, and shall be sealed in the Central Office, or in Probate matters in the Probate Registry or in Admiralty matters in the Admiralty Registry, and when so sealed shall be deemed to be issued. The person obtaining the summons shall leave at the Central Office, Probate Registry, or Admiralty Registry, as the case may be, a copy thereof, which shall be filed and stamped in the manner required by law. In Probate and Admiralty matters the signature of the President shall be deemed to be equivalent to sealing.

ORDER LIV., RULE 4C.

4. [Appearance to Originating Summons.].—The parties served with an originating summons shall, except as hereinafter provided, before they are heard, enter appearances at the Central Office, or in Probate matters at the Probate Registry, or in Admiralty matters at the Admiralty Registry, and give notice thereof. A party so served may appear at any time before the hearing of the summons. If he appears at any time after the time limited by the summons for appearance he shall not, unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order, be entitled to any further time for any purpose, than if he had appeared according to the summons.

ORDER LIV., RULE 4D.

5. [Attendance under Originating Summons.].—The day and hour for attendance under an originating summons to which an appearance is required to be entered shall after appearance be fixed by notice, sealed with the seal of the Central Office in the case of a summons issued in the Queen's Bench Division, or of the Chambers of the Judge to whom such summons is assigned in the case of a summons issued in the Chancery Division, or of the Probate Registry in the case of Probate matters, or of the Admiralty Registry in the case of Admiralty matters. Such notice shall be in Form No. 1r, Appendix K. The notice shall be served on the defendant or respondent by delivering a copy thereof at the address for service named in the memorandum of appearance of such defendant or respondent not less than four clear days before the return day. The day and hour for the hearing of an ex parte summons shall in the Chancery Division be fixed at the Chambers of the Judge to whom the matter is assigned on production of the originating summons.

ORDER LIV., RULE 4E.

6. [Service of Summonses not being Originating Summonses.].—Every summons, not being an originating summons to which an appearance is required to be entered, shall be served two clear days before the return thereof, unless in any case it shall be otherwise ordered. Provided that in case of summonses for time only, the summons may be served on the day previous to the return thereof.

ORDER LIV., RULE 4F.

7. [When Appearances not Required.].—A respondent to an originating summons:—

- (1.) Under the Solicitors Act, 1843;
- (2.) For solicitor to deliver papers;
- (3.) Under the Arbitration Act, 1889;
- (4.) Under Order LVII., Rule 1, for interpleader relief;
- (5.) Under Order LXI., Rule 27, to enter memorandum of satisfaction;
- (6.) Relating to parliamentary or municipal elections petitions;
- (7.) For inspection of register of Joint Stock Company;
- (8.) For relief under Bills of Sale Act, 1882, by grantor of bill of sale;
- (9.) Under section 17 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882;
- (10.) In Probate matters (where there is no pending cause or matter) relating to—
  - (a.) Acceptance of foreign securities,
  - (b.) Applications for grant notwithstanding caveat,
  - (c.) Leave to withdraw caveat after warning;

shall not be required to enter an appearance.

ORDER LIV., RULE 23.

8. [Appeal from Chambers.].—In the Queen's Bench Division, except in matters of practice and procedure, the appeal from a decision of a Judge at Chambers shall be to a Divisional Court.

ORDER LIV., RULE 24.

9. [Eight day Motion.].—In the Queen's Bench Division, except in matters of practice and procedure, every appeal to the Court from any decision at Chambers shall be by motion, and shall be made within eight days after the decision appealed against, or if no Court to which such appeal can be made shall sit within such eight days, then on the first day on which any such Court may be sitting after the expiration of such eight days.

ORDER LXII., RULE 2.

10. [Chancery Records.].—(1.) Every order which, according to the practice at the time when these Rules come into operation, would require to be entered in the office of the Chancery Registrars, shall for the future be filed under the direction of the Senior Registrar. An entry of the filing thereof shall be made in books to be kept for that purpose, and all orders made throughout any year shall be numbered consecutively in the order in which they are filed. Every order so filed shall be deemed to be duly entered, and the date of such filing shall be deemed the date of entry. In the case of procedure orders drawn up in Chambers, no entry thereof shall be necessary before an attachment can be issued for disobedience thereof.

(2.) A duplicate of every order shall, one clear day after the same shall have been left at the Chancery Registrar's office, or in urgent cases sooner, if so directed by the officer by whom the same has been drawn up, be supplied out of the said office without fee to the solicitor or person having the carriage of the order; and wherever any Rule or Order, or the practice of the Court, requires the production or service of the original order, it shall be sufficient to produce or serve the duplicate.

(3.) In the case of printed orders, a printed copy shall be marked as a duplicate and duly examined before sealing the same. In the case of written orders, a duplicate shall be written without abbreviations, and carefully examined by writers specially selected for that purpose, under the direction of the Scrivenery Board, and the examination thereof certified in such manner as the Board shall direct; and no duplicate shall be sealed unless such examination shall have been so certified. Every duplicate shall be sealed before being issued, and there shall be noted thereon the number of the order, the date of entry, and the amount of the stamp on the original order.

(4.) A further duplicate may at any time, with the sanction of the Senior Registrar and on payment of the prescribed fee, be issued on the Senior Registrar being satisfied of the loss of the duplicate, and that the person applying is properly entitled to it.

(5.) Calendars or indexes of the orders entered in pursuance of this Rule shall be made under the direction of the Senior Registrar, so that the same may be conveniently referred to when required, and the original orders made in each year when filed shall from time to time be bound up in volumes. Such volumes and calendars, or indexes, shall from time to time be transmitted to the Filing and Record Department of the Central Office, to be there preserved, and shall at all times during office hours be accessible to the public on payment of the usual fee.

(6.) An order shall not be amended except upon production of the duplicate last issued, which shall, after the original order has been amended, be also amended in accordance therewith under the direction of the Senior Registrar, and the amendment in the duplicate shall be sealed under the like direction.

(7.) For the purposes of this Rule "order" shall include judgment; and the Senior Registrar and the Scrivenery Board respectively shall give such directions as may be necessary for carrying this Rule into effect.

ORDER LXXI., RULE 1A.

11. [Definition.].—Originating summons means every summons other than a summons in a pending cause or matter.

12. [Repeal.].—The following Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, are hereby annulled:—

Order LIV., Rule 4, B, C, D, and E, and Rules 23 and 24.

Order LXII., Rules 2 and 3.

Order LXXI., so far as it provides that an originating summons means a summons by which proceedings are commenced without writ.

MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT, 1894.

RULES OF THE SUPREME COURT (MERCHANT SHIPPING), 1894.

1. [General jurisdiction under the Act.]-The jurisdiction of the High Court under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (in these Rules referred to as "the Act"), with the exception of that under sections twenty-eight, thirty, and five hundred and four of the Act, shall be assigned to the Probate Divorce and Admiralty Division.

2. [Application under s. 80 of Act.]-Any application under section thirty of the Act, 1894, may be made by summons or otherwise, and either ex parte or upon service of notice on any person as the Court may direct.

3. [Application as to excess of wages paid on seamen volunteering into the Navy.]-
(1.) Any application to the High Court under section one hundred and ninety-seven of the Act shall be made to the Admiralty Registrar, and shall be in such form, and shall be accompanied by such documents and by such statements, whether on oath or otherwise, as the President of the Probate Divorce and Admiralty Division directs.

(2.) The Registrar shall, on receiving the application, give written notice thereof and of the sum claimed to the Admiralty, and shall proceed to examine the application, and shall, if necessary, apply to the Registrar-General of Shipping and Seamen to produce any papers in his possession relating thereto, and may call for further evidence.

(3.) If the Registrar considers that the whole of the claim is just, he shall give a certificate accordingly, but if he considers that the claim or any part thereof is not just, he shall give notice of his opinion in writing under his hand to the person making the application, or his solicitor or agent.

(4.) If within sixteen days from the giving of the last-mentioned notice the person to whom the notice is given does not cause to be left at the Admiralty Registry a written notice demanding that the application be referred to the Judge, the Registrar shall finally decide thereon, and certify accordingly.

(5.) If the notice is left as aforesaid, the application shall stand referred to the Judge in Chambers, and his decision thereon shall be final, and the Registrar shall certify the same accordingly.

(6.) The Judge and Registrar shall in any proceeding under these Rules have full power to administer oaths, and to exercise all the ordinary powers of the Court, as in any other proceeding within its jurisdiction; and the Judge or Registrar (as the case may be) may, if he thinks fit, allow for the costs of any such proceeding any sum not exceeding five pounds for each seaman in respect of whom application is made; and that sum shall be added to the sum authorized to be repaid under the Act, and shall be certified by the Registrar accordingly.

4. These Rules may be cited as the Rules of the Supreme Court (Merchant Shipping), 1894.

SUPREME COURT OFFICES.

MANCHESTER DISTRICT REGISTRY.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Court at Windsor, the 12th day of December, 1894.

PRESENT,

The Queen's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS Her Majesty by and with the advice of Her Privy Council did on the third day of March one thousand eight hundred and nine order that on and after that date the then District Probate Registrar should be and was thereby appointed one of the persons to perform the duties of District Registrar of the High Court of Justice in Manchester, and the then District Registrar and the District Probate Registrar aforesaid should be deemed accordingly to be District Registrars, and should perform all the duties of District Registrar in the District Registry in Manchester in such manner as they might with the approval of the Lord Chancellor and the President of the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division of the High Court of Justice from time to time arrange:

And whereas the office of the then District Registrar lately became vacant; and the present District Registrar was appointed in his place:

And whereas it is desirable that the duties of District Registrar in Manchester should continue to be performed by two persons, and the present District Probate Registrar and the present District Registrar in Manchester should be such two persons.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty by and with the advice aforesaid pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, that the present District Probate Registrar and the present District Registrar aforesaid should be deemed to be Joint District Registrars, and shall perform all the duties of District Registrar in the District Registry in Manchester in such manner as they may with the approval of the Lord Chancellor and the President of the Probate Divorce and Admiralty Division of the High Court of Justice from time to time arrange.

I, the Right Honourable Farrer, Baron Herschell, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, do hereby, in pursuance of the powers contained in "The Court of Chancery Funds Act, 1872," "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875," "The Supreme Court of Judicature (Funds, &c.) Act, 1883," "The Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894," and of every other power enabling me in that behalf, make the following rules:—

I. OPERATION OF RULES AND INTERPRETATION OF TERMS.

1. [Commencement of rules and short title.] These Rules shall come into operation on the 1st day of January, 1895, and may be cited as "The Supreme Court Funds Rules, 1894."
2. [Repeal of existing rules.] All other Rules or General Orders prescribing the mode of dealing with funds in Court, and containing any provisions relating to funds in Court inconsistent with these Rules, are hereby revoked and these Rules substituted therefor, as from the same day:—Provided that the Rules hereby revoked shall continue to apply to Orders made but not fully acted upon before these Rules come into operation, so far as is indispensable for the purpose of duly giving effect to such Orders.
3. [Interpretation of terms.] In these Rules and in Orders as herein prescribed and defined terms shall have the same meaning as the same terms are defined to have in the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, and the following words shall have the several meanings hereby assigned to them, viz.:—
"Paymaster" means Her Majesty's Paymaster General for the time being for and on behalf of the Supreme Court of Judicature, or the Assistant Paymaster General for Supreme Court business for the time being deputed by the Paymaster General to act on his behalf for such business :

- "Pay Office" means the Paymaster General's Office for business of the Supreme Court of Judicature :
  - "Pay Office Account" means the account of the Paymaster General for the time being for and on behalf of the Supreme Court of Judicature :
  - "Audit Office" means the Office of the Comptroller and Auditor General in which the audit of the accounts of the Pay Office is conducted :
  - "Bank" means the Bank of England, or the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, and includes for District Registry purposes the branch banks of the Bank of England in Liverpool and Manchester :
  - "Company" includes corporation or body corporate :
  - "Person" includes a firm :
  - "Government Securities" means New Consols, or 2½. per centum Annuities, or 2½. per centum Annuities, or Local Loans Stock :
  - "Funds" or "funds in Court" means any money, Government stock or annuities, or other securities, or any part thereof standing or to be placed to the Pay Office Account in the books of the Bank of England or of any other company, and includes boxes and other effects :
  - "Lodge in Court" means pay or transfer into Court, or deposit in Court :
  - "Lodgment in Court" means payment or transfer into Court, or deposit in Court :
  - "Title of the cause or matter" means the short title of the cause or matter, with the reference to the Record :
  - "Ledger credit" means the title of the cause or matter and the separate account (if any) opened or to be opened under an Order or otherwise, in the books of the Paymaster, to which any funds are credited or to be credited :

II. PREPARATION OF ORDERS IN THE CHANCERY DIVISION AND IN LUNACY TO BE ACTED UPON BY THE PAYMASTER, AND PARTICULARS RELATING THERETO.

4. [Application of Rules 5 to 27 inclusive.]—The rules next following, numbered severally 5 to 27 inclusive, shall apply only to causes and matters in the Chancery Division, and (so far as the same are applicable) to matters in Lunacy.
5. [Order for funds to be brought into Court to have a Lodgment Schedule.]—Every Order which directs funds to be lodged in Court, shall have annexed thereto as part thereof a Schedule, to be styled the Lodgment Schedule, which shall be headed with the title of the cause or matter, the date of the Order, and the title of the ledger credit to which the funds are to be placed ; and shall set out in a tabular form :—
  - (a.) The name, or a sufficiently identifying description of the person by whom the funds are to be lodged :
  - (b.) The amount, if ascertained, and the description of the funds.

The authority for a lodgment of the proceeds of the sale of any property which has been directed by an Order to be sold, and for a lodgment of Receivers' balances, may be a Lodgment Schedule signed by a Chief Clerk ; and such Lodgment Schedule shall operate in the same manner as a Lodgment Schedule annexed to an Order.

The Lodgment Schedule shall be prepared upon a printed form according to the Form No. 1 in the Appendix to these Rules, and as nearly as may be in the manner shown by the specimen entries appended to such Form ; and may direct the investment and accumulation of the funds or the dividends or interest on the funds to be lodged ; and may also direct that the funds shall not be dealt with without notice to the purchaser or other person named in such Schedule.
6. [Order for funds to be paid out, &c., to have a Payment Schedule.]—Every Order which directs funds in Court to be paid, sold, transferred, or delivered, or carried over to any other ledger credit than that to which the same are standing, or to be otherwise dealt with by the Paymaster, shall have annexed thereto as part thereof a Schedule, to be styled the Payment Schedule, which shall be headed with the title of the cause or matter, the date of the Order, and the ledger credit to which the funds dealt with are standing. The Payment Schedule shall contain as part of the heading a statement of the funds with which, or with part of which, or with the interest or dividends on which the Paymaster is to deal, describing them if already in Court as they appear in the Paymaster's certificate, or if not already in Court stating the source from which they are to be derived. The Payment Schedule shall set out in a tabular form :—
  - (a.) The name of each person to whom a payment, transfer, or delivery of any funds is to be made : unless the name is to be stated in a certificate of a Chief Clerk or a Master in Lunacy or a Taxing officer, or unless such payment, transfer, or delivery is to be made to trustees or other persons in succession, or to representatives when no probate or letters of administration shall have been taken out at the date of the Order. The name shall be in full (the christian name preceding the surname) except in the case of a payment to a firm, when the business title of such firm may be stated ; and when a payment is to be made to a person named in the Schedule, the address (if known at the time of preparing the Schedule) of such person, or in the case of a payment to two or more persons jointly of one of such persons, shall be stated in the Schedule :
  - (b.) The title of the ledger credit or separate account to which any funds are to be carried over :
  - (c.) The amount and description of the funds in each case to be paid, sold, transferred, delivered or carried over, so far as the same can be ascertained at the date of the Order, except in the case of aliquot parts of an ascertained amount ; and where the actual amounts to be dealt with cannot be ascertained at the date of the Order, and are not to be subsequently ascertained by any means provided for by the Order or by these Rules, the aliquot parts to be dealt with :
  - (d.) The nature and necessary particulars of any other dealings with such funds by the Paymaster.

In the body of the Schedule short descriptions may be used, and it shall not be necessary to add that the specific amounts dealt with form part of the larger amount of any like funds mentioned in the heading. The word "interest" in the Schedule shall, unless otherwise specified, mean the dividends and interest on all the funds mentioned in the heading.

The Payment Schedule shall be prepared upon a printed form according to the Form No. 2 in the Appendix to these Rules, and as nearly as may be in the manner shown by the specimen entries appended to such Form.

7. [When a separate account is opened.] When funds in Court are by an Order directed to be carried over to a separate account, the title of the ledger credit to be opened for the purpose shall, unless the Order otherwise directs, commence with the title of the cause or matter to which such funds are standing.

8. [When both a Lodgment and Payment Schedule to be annexed.] Every order which directs or authorises the lodgment of funds in Court and also deals with such funds or any part thereof, or with any funds already in Court to the same ledger credit, shall have annexed thereto as part thereof a combined Lodgment and Payment Schedule, in the Form No. 3 in the Appendix to these Rules.

9. [Separate Schedule for each ledger credit.] When funds to be lodged in Court under an Order are by the same Order directed to be placed to two or more ledger credits, separate Lodgment Schedules shall be made out for such respective ledger credits; and when funds standing to two or more ledger credits are dealt with by the same Order, separate Payment Schedules shall be made out for such ledger credits respectively.

10. [Instructions to Paymaster to be solely contained in Schedule.] The Lodgment and Payment Schedules, respectively, shall contain the whole of the instructions intended by the Orders of which they severally form part to be acted upon by the Paymaster, and all particulars necessary to be known by him, so far as such instructions and particulars are capable of being expressed at the date of the Order, and the Paymaster shall only be responsible for giving effect to such instructions so intended to be given by the Order as are expressed in the Lodgment or Payment Schedule thereto. The instructions and particulars contained in a Lodgment or Payment Schedule shall not be set forth in the body of the Order, but shall only be therein referred to as appearing by the Schedule, unless for any special cause it shall, in the opinion of the Judge by whom the Order is made, or the Registrar by whom the same is drawn up, be necessary to set forth some part of such instructions or particulars both in the body of the Order and in the Schedule.

11. [When sums are to be ascertained by certificate, &c.] When an Order directs any sums to be ascertained by the certificate of a Chief Clerk or Taxing officer, or a Master in Lunacy, or in any other manner, and to be afterwards dealt with by the Paymaster, it shall be so expressed in the Payment Schedule; and such certificate or other authority, or a duplicate or an office copy of the same, or of so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be sent to the Paymaster. Such certificate shall be printed, or partly printed, and as nearly as may be in the Form No. 4 appended to these Rules.

12. [Certificate for payment of taxed costs.] When an Order directs payment out of a fund in Court of any costs directed to be taxed by a Taxing officer, the Taxing officer shall state in his certificate the name and address of the person to whom such costs are payable. Such certificate shall be printed, or partly printed, and as nearly as may be in the Form No. 5 appended to these Rules, and a duplicate or an office copy thereof shall be sent to the Paymaster.

13. [Interest how ascertained.] When interest not directed to be certified is payable in respect of any money in Court directed by an Order to be dealt with by the Paymaster, there shall be stated in the Payment Schedule the rate per centum at which, and (if the day to which interest is payable can be fixed by the Order) the day (inclusive) to which such interest is to be computed, and the amount of such interest.

14. [When the day to which interest is payable cannot be ascertained.] If the day to which interest is payable cannot be fixed by the Order, the day from which (exclusive) such interest is to be computed shall (except in the case of a computation of subsequent interest in the certificate of a Chief Clerk, or a Master in Lunacy) be stated in the Payment Schedule, and such interest may be directed to be computed and certified by a Chief Clerk, or a Master in Lunacy, or (where the computation is dependent upon the taxation of costs) by a Taxing officer.

15. [When interest certified by a Chief Clerk, &c.] Interest certified by a Chief Clerk, or a Master in Lunacy, or a Taxing officer, may, unless the Order otherwise directs, be computed to a day subsequent to the date of the certificate and to be named therein as the day for payment, so as to allow a reasonable time for doing all necessary acts to enable the payment to be made; and the Chief Clerk, or Master in Lunacy, or Taxing officer, may, if he thinks fit, require a statement in writing of such computation, authenticated by the signature of the solicitor of the person having the carriage of the Order, to be produced before preparing the certificate, but no affidavit verifying such computation shall be required.

16. [When interest to be ascertained by affidavit.] When the day for payment is not fixed by the Order, and the interest is not directed to be certified as in the last preceding Rule mentioned, such interest shall, without any provision in the Order for that purpose, be ascertained by an affidavit, or by a statutory declaration, in which case such interest shall be computed to a day (inclusive) to be named in such affidavit or declaration, as the day for payment; which day shall not be more than 14 days after the day of swearing such affidavit, or making such declaration; and such affidavit or declaration shall be a sufficient authority to the Paymaster to pay or apply the amount of interest so ascertained in the manner directed by such Order.

17. [Deduction of income tax from interest.] In every case in which interest is to be computed, income tax (if any) shall, in making such computation, be deducted therefrom at the rate payable during the time such interest accrues, unless the Order otherwise directs; and if income tax has been deducted, it shall be so stated in every such affidavit or declaration as is mentioned in the last preceding Rule.

18. [When dealings by the Paymaster are made contingent upon the execution of particular documents.] Whenever the dealing by the Paymaster with funds in Court is, by an Order, made contingent upon the execution of some document, it shall be so expressed in the Payment Schedule. The execution of such document shall be certified by a Master in Lunacy, or by a Chief Clerk; provided that in the case of a document in existence at the date of the Order and sufficiently identified in the Schedule, the execution may be directed to be verified by affidavit. Such certificate or affidavit shall state the particular amount of funds to be dealt with, and such certificate shall be printed, or partly printed, and as nearly as may be in the Form No. 6 appended to these Rules.

19. [Periodical payments.] When an Order directs the payment of dividends, annuities, or other periodical payments, to be made by the Paymaster, there shall be stated in the Payment Schedule (except in the case of dividends payable as they accrue due), the time when the first of such payments and all subsequent periodical payments, whether quarterly, half-yearly, yearly, or otherwise, are to be made.

20. [Legacy, estate, and succession duty.] When an Order directs the payment, transfer, or delivery of funds in Court, in respect of which duty shall be payable to the revenue under the Acts relating to legacy or estate or succession duty, and does not direct the payment of such duty, it shall be stated in the Payment Schedule that such payment, transfer, or delivery is subject to duty, and in such case the Paymaster is to have regard to the circumstance that such duty is payable; and when by an Order funds in respect of which such duty may be chargeable are directed to be invested, carried over, or placed to a separate account, the words "subject to duty" shall be added in the Schedule to the separate account directed to be opened.

21. [Payment, transfer, or delivery to trustees, &c.] When a person to whom payment, transfer, or delivery of funds in Court is directed is entitled thereto as real estate, or as trustee, executor, or administrator, or otherwise than in his own right or for his own use, the fact that he is entitled to the same as real estate, or the character in which he is so entitled, shall be stated in the Payment Schedule to the Order, or in the certificate of a Chief Clerk, or of a Taxing officer, or of a Master in Lunacy.

22. [Draft Schedule to be prepared by party having conduct of proceedings.] When an Order is made dealing in any way with funds in Court or to be brought into Court in accordance with minutes agreed upon by the parties, the solicitor of the party whose duty it is to procure the Order to be drawn up and entered shall prepare and lodge with the Registrar or other proper officer, for his consideration, draft Lodgment and Payment Schedules, as the case may be, in the same form as the Lodgment and Payment Schedules to an Order, and containing the particulars, so far as the same have been ascertained, which are required by these Rules to be contained in the Lodgment and Payment Schedules of the Order.

23. [Orders how drawn up and entered.] Every Order which is to be acted upon by the Paymaster shall be drawn up and entered by the Registrar, unless the Judge otherwise directs, and shall either be wholly printed, or, in cases in which printed forms can be used, may be partly in print and partly in writing.

24. [Copy of Schedules for Paymaster.] When any Order to be acted upon by the Paymaster is left for entry, a further copy of the Schedules thereto, initialised by the Registrar and stamped with his official seal on every leaf, shall be left therewith. Such further copy of the Schedules shall be examined and sealed and marked with a reference to the Order as entered, and shall be sent to the Paymaster.

A copy of a Lodgment Schedule signed by a Chief Clerk (under Rule 5 of these Rules) shall be sent to the Paymaster by the Chief Clerk.

25. [Paymaster to act on copy of Schedules.].—The copy of the Schedules to an Order sent to the Paymaster pursuant to the last preceding Rule shall be the Paymaster's authority for giving effect to the several operations directed therein. No part of the Order other than the Schedules thereto shall be sent to the Paymaster.

26. [Additional copies of printed Orders.].—Additional printed copies of Orders or Schedules may be made according to the requirements of the parties or their solicitors, and when such Orders have been entered, such additional copies shall be transmitted to the Central Office, and upon being duly completed and signed or certified by the proper officer, may be issued as office or certified copies.

27. [Amendment of accidental errors in printed Orders.].—Clerical mistakes or errors, or accidental omissions in printed Orders, may be amended in writing: Provided that no amendment shall be made in any Order to provide for a new state of circumstances arising after the date of the Order; nor shall any Order be amended for the purpose of extending the time thereby limited for making any lodgment of funds in Court.

When any such amendment is made in a Schedule to an Order, the copy of such Schedule to be sent to the Paymaster under Rule 24 (if not already so sent) shall be amended and sealed in the manner above provided. If such copy has prior to the amendment been sent to the Paymaster, a notification of the amendment, signed by a Registrar, shall be delivered to the solicitor having the carriage of the Order, who shall leave such notification at the Pay Office, and produce therewith the amended Order; and the Paymaster shall note such amendment on his copy of the Schedule and act in accordance therewith.

III. FORM OF ORDERS FOR THE PAYMENT OF MONEY IN THE QUEEN'S BENCH AND PROBATE, DIVORCE, AND ADMIRALTY DIVISIONS.

28. [Form of Orders in Queen's Bench and Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Divisions.].—In the Queen's Bench and Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Divisions an Order for the payment of money to be acted upon by the Paymaster shall be in the Form No. 7 in the Appendix to these Rules, or as nearly as may be, and shall be signed by a Master or a Registrar, or by an Official Referee, or by a Clerk of Assize, or an Associate, as the case may be.

V. LODGMENT OF FUNDS IN COURT.

29. [All funds lodged in Court to be placed to the account of the Paymaster.].—All funds to be paid into or deposited in Court shall be paid or deposited at the Bank of England (Law Courts Branch), or in the case of funds to be lodged in Court in the District Registries of the High Court in Liverpool or Manchester, at the branch banks of the Bank of England in Liverpool or Manchester, and placed in the books of the Bank to the account of the Paymaster General for the time being for and on behalf of the Supreme Court of Judicature; and the Bank shall cause a receipt to be given to the person making the payment or deposit.

All securities to be transferred into Court shall be transferred to the said account in the books of the Bank or other company in whose books such securities are registered.

Any effects brought to the Bank to be so deposited in Court shall be deposited in locked boxes, or in such other secure manner as shall satisfy the Bank; and before taking custody of a box the Agent, or other officer acting on behalf of the Bank, may at his discretion require an inspection of its contents in presence of the person depositing it.

Cheques for lodgment of money are to be made payable to the Bank of England, Law Courts Branch, for the account of the Paymaster General (and not to the Paymaster personally).

30. [Manner of lodgment of funds in Chancery Division; and particulars to be stated in request.].—In the Chancery Division a direction for a lodgment directed by an Order, or in a Lodgment Schedule signed by a Chief Clerk (in the case of purchase moneys or receivers' balances), shall be issued by the Paymaster upon receipt of a copy of the Lodgment Schedule; and a direction for a lodgment under the Trustee Act, 1893, shall be issued by him upon receipt of an office copy of the Schedule mentioned in Rule 41, or upon receipt of the request and certificate of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue mentioned in that Rule.

The Paymaster, on a request to that effect signed by or on behalf of a person directed by an Order to make a lodgment, may issue a separate direction for lodgment of a part of the sum so directed to be lodged: Provided that the Paymaster shall not further deal, under such Order or under these Rules, with the amount so lodged until the full lodgment directed by the Order has been made; and provided that such lodgment of part of a sum shall not affect or prejudice any liability, process, or other consequences which such person may have become subject to by reason of his default in not lodging the whole sum.

Directions for lodgments in the branch banks of the Bank of England in Liverpool or Manchester may be issued by the District Registrars of the Court in Liverpool and Manchester.

A lodgment of funds in Court not directed by an Order may be made upon a direction to the Bank or other company, to be issued by the Paymaster on a request signed by or on behalf of the person desiring to make such lodgment: Provided that no such lodgment shall be placed in the Pay Office books to a separate account in a cause or matter (except to a security for costs account) unless an Order has directed such separate account to be opened.

The request for a direction under this Rule shall state the name of the person by or on whose behalf the funds are to be lodged, the ledger credit in the Pay Office books to which the funds are to be placed, and the date of the authority or certificate (if any) in pursuance of which the funds are to be lodged.

In cases of funds to be lodged in pursuance of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, or of the Copyhold Acts, the further particulars required under Rules 39 and 40 shall be stated in the request. And when (otherwise than as hereinbefore provided) funds are lodged in Court in pursuance of an Act of Parliament, under which some specific authority is necessary for such lodgment, the request for a direction for lodgment shall contain a reference to such Act and authority, and the requisite authority shall be left at the Pay Office.

Except in the cases next mentioned, the requests under this Rule shall be in the Forms No. 8 (for money) and No. 9 (for securities), in the Appendix to these Rules.

[Lodgments under Orders XXII. and XXXI. of R. S. C. 1883.] When money is to be lodged under the provisions of Order XXII. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883 (in any action brought to recover a debt or damages), or under the provisions of Rule 26 of Order XXXI. of the said Rules, the request shall be in the Form No. 10 in the Appendix to these Rules, and shall contain a statement of the circumstances under which the money is to be lodged, in such of the following terms as may be applicable to the case, viz.:—

- (A.) When the money is to be lodged subject to the provisions of Rule 5 of Order XXII, a statement in the following terms:—
"Paid in on behalf of defendant in satisfaction of claim of above-named [name of party]," (or "with defence setting up tender").
- (B.) When the money is to be lodged subject to the provisions of Rule 6 of Order XXII, a statement in the following terms:—
"Paid in on behalf of defendant against claim of above-named [name of party], with defence denying liability."
- (C.) When the money is to be lodged under the provisions of Rule 26 of Order XXXI., a statement in the following terms:—
"Paid in to security for costs account on behalf of [name of party]."

31. [Conditional lodgment of money at the Bank in urgent cases.].—When it is desired to bring money into Court in the Chancery Division, whether under an Order or otherwise, without waiting the time necessary to obtain a direction for the Bank to receive such money, it may be lodged at the Bank to the credit of a Supreme Court Suspense Account (subject to being dealt with as hereinafter mentioned, and not otherwise), upon an application signed by the person desiring to lodge the same, or his solicitor, and addressed to the Bank, specifying the amount, and the title of the ledger credit to which it is desired to be lodged, and upon such lodgment being made one of the cashiers of the Bank shall give a certificate that the amount has been lodged to the credit of the said Suspense Account; and in every case the person making such lodgment, or his solicitor, shall forthwith request the direction of the Paymaster for the Bank to receive the money in the manner provided by the last preceding Rule, and shall leave such direction at the Bank for the purpose of having the money so previously lodged transferred to the Pay Office Account, and placed in the books of the Pay Office to the ledger credit mentioned in such direction.

32. [Manner of lodgment of funds in the Queen's Bench Division.—In the Queen's Bench Division a lodgment of money to the account of the Paymaster shall be made on presentation at the Bank (Law Courts Branch) of a request signed by or on behalf of the person desiring to make such lodgment. Such request for lodgment shall be in the Form No. 11 in the Appendix to these Rules, or as nearly as may be, and shall specify the title of the cause or matter to the credit of which the lodgment is to be placed, and shall also contain a statement of the circumstances under which the money is lodged in such of the following terms as may be applicable to the case, viz. :—

- (A.) When the money is to be lodged subject to Rule 5 of Order XXII. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, a statement in the following terms :—“Paid in on behalf of defendant in satisfaction of claim of above-named” [name of party], (or “with defence setting up tender”).
- (B.) When the money is to be lodged subject to Rule 6 of Order XXII. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, a statement in the following terms :—“Paid in on behalf of defendant against claim of above-named” [name of party] “with defence denying liability.”
- (C.) When the money is to be lodged under Rule 26 of Order XXXI. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, a statement in the following terms : “Paid in to security for costs account on behalf of [name of party].”
- (D.) When the money is to be lodged in pursuance of an Order or otherwise than as above specified, a statement of the nature and date of the authority under which the lodgment is made, as for instance :—“Paid in under Order dated the day of 18 ” or “Paid in on notice of appeal [in Bankruptcy], dated the day of 18 ”

If the lodgment is made upon a notice or pleading, such notice or pleading must be produced at the Bank, and the receipt for the lodgment shall be given thereon; and if the lodgment is made in pursuance of an Order, such Order, or an office copy thereof, must be produced at the Bank by the person making the lodgment.

A lodgment of funds other than money shall be made upon a direction to be issued by the Paymaster upon receipt of a copy of the Order directing such lodgment.

33. [Lodgments under Orders XXII. and XXXI. to be distinguished in Pay Office books.—In every case of a lodgment in the Chancery and Queen's Bench Divisions under the provisions of the said Orders XXII. and XXXI., as provided in the preceding Rules 30 and 32, the Paymaster shall cause an entry to be made in his books indicating the circumstances under which the money is stated to be lodged.

34. [Manner of lodgment of funds in Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division; such lodgments to be notified to Registrar.—In the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division a lodgment of funds to the account of the Paymaster shall be made upon presentation at the Bank (Law Courts Branch) of an authority signed by or on behalf of a Registrar. Such authority shall be issued upon a request signed by or on behalf of the person desiring to make such lodgment. The request shall specify the title of the cause or matter (which in Admiralty actions shall include the name of the ship), and any particulars of the lodgment which may be necessary, and shall be in the Form No. 12 in the Appendix to these Rules.

When the receipt of funds authorised to be lodged as above has been certified to the Paymaster by the Bank, the Paymaster shall cause a notification of the lodgment to be sent to the Registrar by whom or on whose behalf such lodgment was authorised.

35. [Requests and directions may be sent by post.—A request or authority for the issue by the Paymaster of a direction for the lodgment of funds in Court may be sent to the Paymaster by post, and, if so desired by the person sending the same the Paymaster shall send such direction by post to the address specified by such person.

36. [Persons may bring funds into Court in Chancery Division though time limited by Order has expired.—A person directed by an Order in the Chancery Division to make a lodgment in Court shall be at liberty to make the same without further Order, notwithstanding the Order may not have been served, or the time thereby limited for making such lodgment may have expired; and if any further sum of money has by reason of such default become payable by such person for interest, or in respect of dividends, he shall be at liberty to lodge in Court such further sum upon a request as hereinbefore provided: Provided that any such subsequent lodgment shall not affect or prejudice any liability, process, or other consequences which such person may have become subject to by reason of his default in making the same within the time so limited.

37. [Upon receipt or transfer of funds, direction to be returned to Paymaster.—When funds have been received by the Bank and when securities have been transferred in the books of the Bank or any other Company to the Pay Office Account in accordance with a direction, the Bank or other Company shall forthwith send such direction to the Paymaster with a certificate thereon that the funds specified have been received or transferred as therein authorised, and (in the case of such other Company) shall therewith send the stock or share certificate (if any) of the securities so transferred.

38. [Certificate of lodgment in Chancery Division to be filed.—In the Chancery Division, when any direction or other authority for the lodgment of funds in Court is returned to the Paymaster, with a certificate thereon that the funds therein mentioned have been lodged, the Paymaster shall as soon as practicable file at the Central Office a certificate of such lodgment, and shall therein state the ledger credit to which such funds have been placed in the books at the Pay Office; and an office copy of such certificate of the Paymaster shall be received as evidence of the lodgment.

Certificates or notifications of lodgments at the branch banks of the Bank of England in Liverpool and Manchester (in Chancery and Admiralty causes and matters) shall be transmitted by the Paymaster to the respective District Registrars, and shall be filed in the District Registries (instead of in the Central Office).

39. [When money is lodged under Act 8 Vict. c. 18, s. 69, disability to be stated.—Money lodged in Court in the Chancery Division pursuant to the 69th section of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, in respect of lands in England or Wales, shall be placed in the books at the Pay Office to the credit of Ex parte the promoters of the undertaking, in the matter of the special Act (citing it), and some words shall be added in each case briefly expressive of the nature of the disability to sell and convey, by reason of which the money shall be so paid in, which particulars shall be stated in the request for the direction for the lodgment.

40. [Money lodged under the Copyhold Acts to be specially described.—Money lodged in Court in the Chancery Division pursuant to the Copyhold Acts shall be placed in the books at the Pay Office to the credit of “Ex parte the Board of Agriculture,” and of the particular manor in respect of which the money shall be so paid in; and in the request for a direction for the lodgment the name and locality of such particular manor shall be stated.

41. [Lodgments under the Trustee Act, 1893.—When a legal personal representative desires to lodge funds in Court, under the Trustee Act, 1893, without an affidavit, he shall leave with the Paymaster a request signed by him or his solicitor, with a certificate of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue; such request and certificate to be in the Form No. 16 in the Appendix to these Rules, with such variations as may be necessary, or, as regards such certificate, in such other form as shall from time to time be adopted by the said Commissioners with the consent of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury. The money or securities so lodged shall be placed to the credit mentioned in such request.

When a trustee or other person desires to lodge funds in Court under the Trustee Act, 1893, upon an affidavit, he shall annex to such affidavit a Schedule in the same printed form as the Lodgment Schedule to an order, setting forth :—

- (a.) His own name and address :
- (b.) The amount and description of the funds proposed to be lodged in Court :
- (c.) The ledger credit in the matter of the particular trust to which the funds are to be placed :
- (d.) A statement whether legacy or estate or succession duty (if chargeable) or any part thereof has or has not been paid :
- (e.) A statement whether the money or the dividends on the securities so to be lodged in Court, and all accumulations of dividends thereon, are desired to be invested in any and what description of Government securities, or whether it is deemed unnecessary so to invest the same.

An office copy of such Schedule is to be left with the Paymaster.

42. [Credit to which proceeds of securities and dividends are to be placed.—Any principal money or dividends received by the Bank in respect of securities standing to the Pay Office Account shall be placed in the Books at the Pay Office, in the case of principal money to the credit to which the securities whereon such money arose were standing at the time of the receipt thereof, and in the case of dividends to the credit to which the securities whereon such dividends accrued were standing at the time of the closing of the transfer books of such securities previously to the dividends becoming due.

V. APPROPRIATION IN THE QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION OF MONEY LODGED UNDER ORDER XIV.

43. [Appropriation of money lodged under Order XIV. of R. S. C., 1883.] In the Queen's Bench Division, when a defendant has lodged money in Court under Order XIV. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, as a condition of liberty to defend, and desires to appropriate the whole or any part of such money to the whole or any specified portion of the plaintiff's claim pursuant to Rule 11 of Order XXII. of the said Rules, he or his solicitor shall leave at the Pay Office a notice of such appropriation in the Form No. 13 in the Appendix to these Rules, specifying the title of the cause or matter to the credit of which the money is standing, the date of the Order under which the money was lodged in Court, and the amount to be appropriated; and whether so appropriated, (A) in satisfaction of a claim, or (B) against a claim, with a defence denying liability; and thereupon, for the purposes of payment out of Court, the money mentioned in the notice shall be subject to the next following Rule. The person leaving such notice must produce therewith the original receipt of the Bank for the amount lodged.

VI. PAYMENT, DELIVERY, AND TRANSFER OF FUNDS OUT OF COURT, AND OTHER DEALINGS WITH FUNDS.

44. [Payment out of Court of money lodged under Orders XXII. and XXXI. of E. S. C., 1883.] In the Chancery and Queen's Bench Divisions, when money has been lodged under Orders XXII. and XXXI. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883 (as described in Rules 30 and 32 of these Rules), and when and so far as money lodged under Order XIV. of the said Rules of the Supreme Court has been appropriated in the manner provided in the last preceding Rule, payment of the money shall be made to the person in satisfaction of whose claim it has been lodged, or to the person otherwise entitled thereto, or, on the written authority of either such person respectively, to his solicitor, as under:—unless an Order restraining such payment has been lodged at the Pay Office prior to the issue of the Paymaster's direction for payment.

(A.) When the money has been lodged or appropriated in satisfaction of a claim (or with defence setting up tender), under Rules 30 (A.) and 32 (A.) of these Rules, or the last preceding Rule, a direction for payment shall be issued by the Paymaster upon a request or authority in the Form No. 14 (A.) in the Appendix to these Rules, or as nearly as may be.

(B.) When the money has been lodged or appropriated against a claim, with a defence denying liability, under Rules 30 (B.) and 32 (B.) of these Rules, or the last preceding Rule, a direction for payment shall be issued by the Paymaster upon receipt of a notification that the plaintiff accepts the sum lodged in satisfaction, and that due notice has been given of such acceptance, and upon a request or authority for payment of the same; such notification and request or authority to be in the Form No. 14 (B.) in the Appendix to these Rules, or as nearly as may be.

(C.) When the money has been lodged to a Security for Costs Account under Rules 30 (C.) and 32 (C.) of these Rules, a direction for payment shall be issued by the Paymaster upon receipt of a certificate of a Taxing officer, Master, or Chief Clerk (as the case may be) as to the person who is entitled to have paid out to him the money so lodged; such certificate to be printed, or partly printed, and as nearly as may be in the Form No. 14 (C.) appended to these Rules.

When a request is made for payment of money lodged in the Chancery and Queen's Bench Divisions on a notice or pleading, the original receipted notice or pleading must, whenever so required, be produced at the Pay Office.

In the Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division when money has been lodged to a Security for Costs Account, under the provisions of Rule 26 of Order XXXI. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, a direction for payment shall be issued by the Paymaster upon receipt of a certificate or other authority of a Registrar as to the person entitled to payment of the money so lodged.

Except as in this Rule is provided, the money so lodged or appropriated as mentioned herein, shall only be paid out in pursuance of an Order.

45. [In other cases funds to be dealt with only in pursuance of an Order.]—Except as provided in the last preceding Rule, and subject to the provisions contained in Rules 55, 56, 57, 70, 73, 74, and 109, funds in Court shall not be paid, delivered, or transferred out of Court, nor invested, sold, or carried over, unless in pursuance of an Order, or in the case of an investment of money or application of dividends unless in pursuance of an authority contained in a certificate of a Master in Lunacy.

46. [A copy of every Order dealing with funds in the Q. B. and P. D. and A. Divisions to be left at the Pay Office.]—A duly authenticated copy of every Order in the Queen's Bench and Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Divisions which directs funds to be dealt with, shall be left at the Pay Office, by or on behalf of the person entitled to payment or interested in any other dealings with such funds directed or authorised by the Order, and shall be the Paymaster's authority for the issue of directions giving effect to such Orders.

47. [Paymaster to prepare directions giving effect to Orders upon receipt of the necessary authority and information.] The directions of the Paymaster for the payment of money under these Rules, and for the delivery of securities out of Court in pursuance of an Order shall be prepared by the Paymaster forthwith, or from time to time, upon receipt of a copy of the Order and any further necessary authority or information; and except as provided in the next following Rule such directions shall be delivered upon the personal application of the persons entitled thereto.

Investments of money, transfers of securities out of Court, and carrying over of funds, in pursuance of an Order, shall be made by the Paymaster upon receipt of the necessary authority and information.

Sales of securities in pursuance of an Order of which a copy has been received in the Pay Office, shall be made by the Paymaster upon application by or on behalf of the persons interested therein, and such application may be sent by post.

48. [Payments may be made by Post.]—Subject to the conditions as to limitation of amount and otherwise in this Rule mentioned, and to any variation of such conditions which the Treasury may from time to time direct, persons entitled to payment of money may receive from the Paymaster, by post, a direction or other document by which payment may be obtained:—

(a.) When money, not exceeding a sum of 1,000l. (other than a periodical payment hereunder in this Rule mentioned), is payable to a person having an account at a bank in the United Kingdom, whose name and address are stated in the Order or other authority under which the money is payable, or in a certificate of a Chief Clerk, or of a Taxing officer, or of a Master in Lunacy, to be acted upon by the Paymaster, or whose address, in the case of a payment under an Order in the Chancery Division, is certified to the Paymaster by a solicitor having carriage of the Order which authorizes the payment, the Paymaster shall remit the same by post to such person to the address so stated, upon receipt of a request to that effect in the prescribed form, in which is specified the name of the bank at which the money is to be placed to the account of such person. The Paymaster's direction for payment will be payable to the order of such person; it will be specially crossed to his account at the named bank and will not be negotiable.

(b.) When money, not exceeding a sum of 500l. (other than a periodical payment hereunder in this Rule mentioned), is payable to a person residing within the United Kingdom, who has not an account at a bank, or whose address is not ascertained by the Paymaster in the manner above prescribed, the Paymaster shall remit the same by post to such person upon receipt of a request to that effect in the prescribed form, signed by such person and attested by a justice of the peace, or a commissioner to administer oaths, or a clerk in holy orders, or a notary public. The Paymaster's direction for payment will be sent to the address stated in the request, and will be crossed so as to be payable only through a banker.

(c.) When money, not exceeding a sum of 10l. (other than a periodical payment hereunder in this Rule mentioned), is payable to a person residing within the United Kingdom, whose name and address are stated in an Order under which the money is payable, or in a certificate of a Chief Clerk, or of a Taxing officer, or of a Master in Lunacy, to be acted upon by the Paymaster, or whose address, in the case of a payment under an Order in the Chancery Division, is certified to the Paymaster by the solicitor having carriage of the Order, the Paymaster upon the written request of such person (without attestation) may remit the amount by post to such person at the address so ascertained. The direction for payment will be crossed so as to be payable only through a banker.

- (d.) Any person residing within the United Kingdom, entitled under an Order to any dividend, annuity, or other periodical payment, may send to the Paymaster a request, in the prescribed form, for the remittance of the same by post from time to time as it accrues due, such request to be signed by such person and attested in the manner required in the preceding part of this Rule (b), and the Paymaster shall thenceforward, as such periodical payment falls due, (and upon receipt of evidence of life or of the fulfilment of any conditions of payment as referred to in Rule 95), remit the same by post to the address stated in the request. The Paymaster's direction will be crossed so as to be payable only through a banker.
- (e.) [No less sum than one shilling to be paid.]—Except in the cases of periodical payments of annuities, or of dividends or interest on funds in Court, no sum of less than one shilling shall be paid by the Paymaster.

Provided that the Paymaster may refuse to make a remittance under this Rule in any case in which he sees reason for so doing, and provided also that the transmission by post upon a request of any crossed direction or other document for obtaining payment shall be at the sole risk of the person at whose request it is sent.

Requests and solicitors' certificates of addresses under this Rule and notifications of changes of addresses of persons entitled to periodical payments, shall be in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by or with the approval of the Treasury.

49. [Paymaster's directions to be sufficient authority to the Bank or other company.] The directions of the Paymaster issued under these Rules (signed and countersigned by such officers as may be prescribed or approved by the Treasury, under Rule 107) shall be sufficient authority to the Bank for the payment of the money specified in any such directions, and shall be the necessary and sufficient evidence of an Order of the Court to authorise the Bank or other company to transfer, on sale or otherwise, or to deliver, any securities or boxes or other effects standing to the Pay Office Account which may be specified in any such directions.

50. [Discharge to Paymaster.]—A direction or other document by which payment of money is effected, when endorsed or signed by the payee or his lawful attorney, shall be a good discharge to the Paymaster for the amount therein expressed.

51. [Authorities for payments to others than named persons to be witnessed.]—When money is by an Order in the Queen's Bench Division directed to be paid to a person therein named, or, on his authority, to a solicitor or other person, the signature to the authority must be attested by a witness, whose residence and description must be added to his attestation.

52. [Payments to official persons to be made by transfer.]—When money in Court or any sum payable thereout is by an Order directed to be paid to any public officer or department or to the official liquidator of any company, or any other official persons for whom an account is kept at the Bank, payment thereof shall, on a request to that effect, be made by a direction to the Bank to transfer the amount of such payment to the proper account at the Bank accordingly.

When any duty is directed to be paid out of funds in Court such duty shall, without any words in the Order to that effect, be assessed, and, on a request made by or on behalf of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, be transferred to the proper account at the Bank.

When a person to whom money is payable in his own right under an Order becomes bankrupt, the Paymaster, upon the request of the Official Receiver, or Trustee, or other duly authorised person, shall transfer the amount so payable to the proper account at the Bank.

53. [Payments for securities purchased; and transfers of securities sold.] When money in Court is invested by purchase, the payment for such investment, which (unless otherwise ordered) shall include brokerage, shall be made conditionally upon the transfer or deposit to the Pay Office Account of the securities purchased. And when securities in Court are sold, the transfer or delivery of such securities shall be conditional upon the payment to the Pay Office Account of the proceeds of such sale, after deduction (unless otherwise ordered) of brokerage.

Provided that the Bank shall not be answerable for any default of the Broker of the Supreme Court in respect of such transfer to the Pay Office Account of securities purchased, or of such payment to the Pay Office Account of the proceeds of securities sold.

54. [Accounts to which investments, sales, &c., are to be credited.]

Upon an investment of money in Court or the sale of securities in Court, the securities purchased by such investment or the money realised by such sale, respectively, shall in every case be placed to the credit to which the money invested or the securities sold previously stood, unless, in the case of an investment, otherwise specially ordered.

55. [Application of dividends accruing on securities transferred.] When securities in Court are directed to be transferred, delivered out, or carried over, dividends accruing thereon subsequently to the date of the Order directing the transfer, delivery, or carrying over (when the amount of the securities to be transferred, delivered, or carried over is specified in such Order, or if not so specified then subsequently to the time when the amount of such securities shall be ascertained) shall be paid to the persons to whom or carried over to the credit to which the securities are to be transferred, delivered, or carried over, unless such Order otherwise directs. When securities in Court are directed to be realised, and the whole of the proceeds paid out or carried over in one sum, or in aliquot parts (except when the realisation is to raise a specific sum of money), any dividends accruing on such securities subsequent to the date of the Order directing the realisation (if the amount of such securities is specified in the Order, or if not so specified, then subsequently to the time when such amount shall be ascertained) shall be added to such proceeds, and applied in like manner therewith, unless such Order otherwise directs.

56. [When such dividends have been invested.] When such dividends as in the last preceding Rule mentioned have pursuant to a general or other previous Order been invested, the securities purchased with such dividends shall, unless otherwise directed, be transferred or delivered, and any dividends accrued in respect thereof be paid, to the persons to whom or carried over to the credit to which such first-mentioned dividends would if uninvested have been paid or carried over.

57. [When dividends otherwise applicable have been invested.] In every case (other than that provided for by the last preceding Rule), when by an Order money or dividends are directed to be dealt with so that the same ought not to be invested, and subsequently to the date of such Order such money or dividends or any part thereof shall have been invested, the securities purchased with such money or dividends shall, unless otherwise directed, be sold, and the proceeds of such sale and any dividends accrued in respect of such securities shall be applied in the same manner as the money or dividends so invested would have been applied under such Order, if they had not been so invested.

58. [Dividends on residue.] When under any Order dividends on securities in Court are directed to be dealt with, and a subsequent Order is made dealing with part of such securities, the dividends on the residue shall, unless such subsequent Order shall otherwise direct, continue to be dealt with in the same manner as the dividends on such securities were by the prior Order directed to be dealt with.

59. [Application of money or dividends placed on deposit after date of Order dealing therewith.] When subsequently to the date of an Order dealing with money in Court such money shall have been placed on deposit, as hereinafter provided, or when dividends accruing subsequently to the date of an Order under which such dividends are applicable shall have been placed on deposit, the same when withdrawn from deposit, and any interest credited in respect thereof, shall, unless the Order otherwise directs, be applied in the same manner as such money or dividends would have been applied had the same not been so placed on deposit.

60. [Application of interest on money placed on deposit after date of Order directing its investment.] When an Order directs money in Court to be invested, and subsequently to the date of such Order the money shall have been placed on deposit, interest accruing in respect of such money shall be applied in the same manner as the dividends arising from such investment are directed to be applied.

61. [Funds ordered to be paid or transferred to women who afterwards marry.]—When funds in Court are by an Order directed to be paid, transferred, or delivered to a woman in her own right who is not married at the date of the Order, or who, being married at that date, shall become a widow, and such woman shall marry before payment, transfer, or delivery of such funds, upon an affidavit of such woman and her husband that no settlement or agreement for a settlement whatsoever has been made or entered into, before, upon or since their marriage, or in case any such settlement or agreement for a settlement has been made or entered into, then upon an affidavit of such woman and her husband identifying such settlement or agreement for a settlement, and stating that no other settlement or agreement for a settlement has been made or entered into as aforesaid, and an affidavit of the solicitor of such woman and her husband that such solicitor has carefully perused such settlement or agreement for a settlement, and that, according to the best of his judgment, such funds are not, nor is any part thereof, subject to the trusts of such settlement or agreement for a settlement, or in any manner comprised therein or affected thereby, such funds shall be paid, transferred, or delivered to such woman without the intervention or concurrence of her husband in the same manner as if she had remained unmarried. When payments not exceeding 50*l.* per annum are by an Order directed to be made to a mother as guardian of her infant children, and such mother marries after the date of the said Order, such payments may be made to her, notwithstanding her marriage, on her separate receipt.

62. [Payments, &c., to representatives of deceased persons.] When funds in Court are by an Order directed to be paid, transferred, or delivered to any person named or described in an Order, or in a certificate of a Chief Clerk, or of a Taxing officer, or of a Master in Lunacy (except to a person therein expressed to be entitled to such funds as real estate, or to be entitled thereto as a trustee, executor, or administrator, or otherwise than in his own right, or for his own use), such funds, or any portion thereof for the time being remaining unpaid or untransferred or undelivered, may, unless the Order otherwise directs, on proof of the death of such person, whether on or after, or, in the case of payment directed to be made to creditors as such, before the date of such Order, be paid or transferred or delivered to the legal personal representatives of such deceased person, or to the survivors or survivor of them.

If no administration has been taken out to any such deceased person who has died intestate and whose assets do not exceed the value of 100*l.*, including the amount of the funds directed to be so paid, transferred, or delivered to him, such funds may be paid, transferred, or delivered to the person who, being widower, widow, child, father, mother, brother, or sister of the deceased would be entitled to take out administration to the estate of the deceased, upon a declaration by such person in the Form No. 15 in the Appendix to these Rules.

63. [Payments, &c., to partners.]—When money in Court is by an Order directed to be paid to any persons described in the Order, or in a certificate of a Chief Clerk, or of a Taxing officer, or of a Master in Lunacy, as co-partners, such money may be paid to any one or more of such co-partners, or to the survivor of them.

64. [Payments, &c., to surviving representatives.]—When funds in Court are by an Order directed to be paid, transferred, or delivered to any persons as legal personal representatives, such funds, or any portion thereof for the time being remaining unpaid, untransferred, or undelivered, may, upon proof of the death of any of such representatives, whether on or after the date of the Order directing such payment, transfer, or delivery, be paid, transferred, or delivered to the survivors or survivor of them.

65. [Within what time probate or letters of administration must have been granted.] No funds shall, under Rules 62 and 64, be paid, transferred, or delivered out of Court to the legal personal representatives of any person under any probate or letters of administration purporting to be granted at any time subsequent to the expiration of six years from the date of the Order directing such payment, transfer, or delivery, or in case such funds consist of interest or dividends from the date of the last receipt of such interest or dividends under such Order.

66. [Payment of legacy or estate or succession duty.]—The Paymaster, before acting upon an Order for the payment, transfer, or delivery of funds in respect of which legacy or estate or succession duty is (under Rule 20) stated to be payable, shall require the production of the official receipt for such duty, or a certificate from the proper officer of the payment thereof, or that no such duty is payable; and the Paymaster, on receiving notice from the proper officer in any case that such duty is payable, shall cause a memorandum to that effect to be made in his books.

67. [Carrying over fees on proceedings and taxation, and unpaid sums of less than one shilling.]—When costs are by an Order directed to be paid out of funds in Court, the Taxing officer shall certify the names and addresses of the persons respectively to whom such costs are payable, and the amount of any fees which have not been paid but are payable, and are proper to be paid out of such funds, in respect of any proceedings in the cause or matter, whether the amount shall or shall not have been previously ascertained, and in respect of the taxation of such costs. The Paymaster shall carry over the amount so certified to be payable from the account to which such funds are placed to an account in the Pay Office books for fees on proceedings and taxation; and the amount so carried over shall from time to time, as the Treasury may direct, be paid to the account of Her Majesty's Exchequer.

Sums of less than one shilling held by the Paymaster under Rule 48 (e) shall be placed to a special account in the Pay Office books.

68. [Deduction of income tax on payments of annuities or maintenance.]—In acting on Orders directing any annuities or maintenance to be paid out of dividends to accrue on securities in Court (other than securities specifically carried over to provide for such annuities or maintenance), the Paymaster shall draw only for so much of the sums directed by such Orders respectively to be paid as shall remain after making a deduction therefrom for income tax at the rate payable when such annuities or other payments became due, unless such sums shall be directed to be paid without making any such deduction.

VII. INVESTMENTS.

69. [Investment of accruing dividends under an Order.]—When an Order directs the investment and accumulation of dividends accruing on securities in Court, or to be transferred into Court, or directed to be purchased with money in Court, or to be lodged in Court, the Paymaster upon receipt of the copy of such Order shall, without any request, from time to time (until he shall receive a request or copy of an Order to the contrary), invest such dividends, if amounting to or exceeding 40*l.* half yearly, together with all accumulations of dividends thereon, as soon as conveniently may be after they shall accrue due and have been received, in the particular description of securities named in the Order directing such investment and accumulation.

70. [Purchase of Exchequer bills or bonds.]—When money in Court is invested in Exchequer bills or Exchequer bonds, and when Exchequer bills or Exchequer bonds are, in pursuance of an Order, lodged in Court, any principal money or interest which may thereafter be received and paid into the Bank in respect of such bills or bonds, or in respect of any such bills or bonds for which the same may be exchanged, shall from time to time, as the same shall be so received and paid into the Bank, be also invested by the Paymaster, unless such Order otherwise directs, or until he receives a written request or notice of a further Order to the contrary, in Exchequer bills or Exchequer bonds which shall be placed to the same credit.

71. [Bank to renew Exchequer bills, and to receive principal and interest of securities when paid off.]—When and so often as any Exchequer bills or other securities deposited at the Bank to the credit of the Pay Office Account shall be in course of payment, the Bank shall, without any direction from the Paymaster, cause all such bills or other securities so in course of payment to be delivered to one of the cashiers of the Bank, who is to receive the principal money or interest due thereon, or in the case of Exchequer bills to exchange the same for new bills, if new bills are issued, or otherwise to receive the principal money and interest due on such of the said bills so in course of payment as cannot be exchanged, and pay such interest, or principal and interest (as the case may be), into and deposit all such new bills in the Bank to the Pay Office Account; and the Bank shall forthwith after every such exchange or receipt of principal or interest certify to the Paymaster, without any direction from him for that purpose, the numbers, dates, and amounts of the Exchequer bills or other securities so exchanged or paid off, and also the numbers, dates, and amounts of the new bills taken in exchange, and the amount of the interest, or principal money and interest (as the case may be), received on each bill or set of bills or other securities; and upon receiving such certificate the Paymaster shall place such new bills and such principal money and interest to the credit in the books at the Pay Office to which the bills or other securities so exchanged or paid off were placed.

72. [Limit of amount to be invested.]—A sum of money in Court less than 40*l.* shall not be invested in securities, except in the cases provided for by the Rule next following, and unless an Order directs such investment notwithstanding the smallness of the amount; but such sum if not less than 20*l.* shall be placed on deposit until, with the interest accrued thereon, it shall amount to 40*l.*, and shall then be invested as directed. This Rule shall extend to the investment of dividends accruing on securities in Court which are directed to be invested.

73. [Investment of money lodged under the Trustee Act, 1893.]—A sum of money lodged in Court without an affidavit, as provided in Rule 41, if or so soon as such money and the interest, if any, to be credited in respect thereof shall amount to or exceed 40*l.*, and the dividends accruing on any securities so lodged, if and when they shall amount to or exceed 20*l.*, shall be invested without any Order or request in New Consols, and the dividends accruing on such New Consols and all accumulations thereof shall, if or so soon as they amount to 20*l.*, be invested in New Consols.

When it is stated in the Schedule to the affidavit made pursuant to Rule 41 that it is desired that any money to be lodged in Court, and the accumulations thereof or any dividends to accrue on any securities to be so lodged, should be invested in any description of Government securities, such money, if or so soon as such money and the interest, if any, to be credited in respect thereof shall amount to or exceed 40*l.*, and the dividends accruing on such securities, if or so soon as they shall amount to or exceed 20*l.*, shall be invested accordingly, without any Order or further request for that purpose.

Dividends accruing on funds or on investments or accumulations of funds lodged in Court under the 32nd section of the Act 36 Geo. III. c. 52, or under the Act 10 & 11 Vict. c. 96, prior to the commencement of the Chancery Funds Rules, 1872, shall, when or so soon as they amount to or exceed 20*l.*, be invested without any request.

74. [Lodgments under 36 Geo. III. c. 52, s. 32, and 10 & 11 Vict. c. 96, prior to 1st Jan. 1894, to be dealt with as if lodged under Trustee Act, 1893.—Money or securities lodged in Court under the 32nd section of the Act, 36 Geo. III. c. 52, or under the 10 & 11 Vict. c. 96, prior to the 1st January 1894, and securities purchased with such money, or the income thereof, shall, subject to any Order affecting the same made prior to the 1st January 1894, be dealt with in the same manner as if such money or securities had been lodged in Court under the 42nd section of the Trustee Act, 1893.

75. [Investing stayed or discontinued on request.—In all cases, upon a request signed by a solicitor acting on behalf of any person claiming to be entitled to or interested in securities in Court, that the dividends or interest accruing on any specified securities may not be invested, being at any time left at the Pay Office, the Paymaster shall be at liberty to cease to invest any more dividends or interest accruing on such securities or to place the same on deposit until he has received a copy of a Schedule in that behalf.

VIII. MONEY ON DEPOSIT, AND INTEREST THEREON.

76. [Money to be placed on deposit.—Subject to the two Rules next following all money to be lodged in Court in the Chancery Division, including dividends received in respect of securities in Court and not otherwise directed to be dealt with, shall be placed on deposit without a request. But money arising by the sale, conversion, or payment off of securities in Court in that Division shall only be placed on deposit upon a request to that effect.

77. [Money not to be placed on deposit in certain cases.—Money shall not be placed on deposit in the following cases:—

- (a) In any cause or matter in the Queen's Bench or Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Divisions;
- (b) When lodged in the Chancery Division under the provisions of Order XXII. or of Rule 26 of Order XXXI. of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883;
- (c) When lodged under the standing orders of either House of Parliament, pursuant to the Act 9 & 10 Vict. c. 20 or any Act amending the same, in respect of works or undertakings to be executed under the authority of Parliament, or when lodged under any Rule or Provisional Order made by the Board of Trade;
- (d) If lodged prior to the commencement of the Court of Chancery Funds Act, 1872, pursuant to the Copyholds Acts, or to section 69 of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845;
- (e) When the amount is less than 20*l.*;
- (f) When a Payment Schedule dealing with the money otherwise than by directing it to be placed on deposit or carried over has been left at the Pay Office;
- (g) When a request that the money shall not be placed on deposit, signed by a solicitor acting on behalf of a person claiming to be entitled to or interested in the money, is left at the Pay Office: Provided that the person making such request may at any time withdraw the same, and request that the money may be placed on deposit.

78. [When money shall be withdrawn from deposit.—Money shall be withdrawn from deposit in the following cases:—

- (a) When and to such an amount as the money is by an Order directed to be dealt with, otherwise than by carrying over;
- (b) When the amount is reduced below 20*l.*;
- (c) Upon a request signed by a solicitor acting on behalf of a person interested, and countersigned by a Registrar or Chief Clerk, containing a notification that the money is about to be dealt with by an Order.

79. [Time for placing money on deposit.—The placing on deposit of money lodged in Court shall not be deferred beyond the last day of the month in which it shall be lodged in Court, and in the case of money lodged in Court on the last day of a month, the placing on deposit shall not be deferred beyond the last day of the following month; and when a request to place money in Court on deposit shall be sent to or left at the Pay Office, the money shall be so placed on the day next following that on which such request shall be so left or received at the Pay Office.

80. [As to placing on deposit cash arising from conversion of Government securities.—When an Order directs Government securities to be sold and the whole of the money arising thereby to be placed on deposit, and when such securities are realised by exchange as hereinafter provided, such money shall be deemed to have been placed on deposit (without a request for that purpose) on the day on which such exchange shall be effected.

81. [*No interest computed on a fraction of 1*l.—Interest upon money on deposit shall not be computed on a fraction of 1*l.*

82. [For what periods interest is to be computed.—Interest upon money on deposit shall accrue by calendar months, and shall not be computed for any less period than one month. Such interest shall begin on the first day of the calendar month next succeeding that in which the money is placed on deposit, and shall cease from the last day of the calendar month next preceding the day of the withdrawal of the money from deposit.

83. [When interest is to be credited.—Interest which has accrued for or during the half-years ending respectively the 31st of March and the 30th of September in every year on money then on deposit shall, on or before the 15th days of the months respectively following, be placed by the Paymaster to the credit to which such money shall be standing on every such half-yearly day. And when money on deposit is withdrawn from deposit, the interest thereon which has accrued and has not been credited shall be placed to the credit to which the money is then standing.

84. [Modes of calculating interest in certain cases on parts of money withdrawn.—When money on deposit consists of sums which have been placed on deposit at different times, and an Order is made dealing with the money, and part of such money has to be withdrawn from deposit for the purpose of executing such Order, the part or parts of the money dealt with by such Order last placed and remaining on deposit at the time of such withdrawal shall, for the purpose of computing interest, be treated as so withdrawn, unless the Order otherwise directs.

85. [Placing of interest on deposit.—Unless otherwise directed by an Order, interest credited on money on deposit shall, when or so soon as it amounts to or exceeds 20*l.*, be placed on deposit, and for the purpose of computing interest upon it shall be treated as having been placed on deposit on the last half-yearly day on which any such interest became due.

IX. EXCHANGE OR CONVERSION OF GOVERNMENT SECURITIES AND TRANSACTIONS WITH THE NATIONAL DEBT COMMISSIONERS.

86. [Exchanges of securities in lieu of actual purchases and sales.—When Government securities in Court are directed to be sold, such securities may be realised by exchange in the Pay Office books in the manner hereinafter provided. And when money in Court is required to be invested in Government securities, such investment may be made by exchange in like manner.

87. [Manner of recording such exchanges.—For the purpose of effecting any such exchange, an account of each description of Government securities shall be kept at the Pay Office, entitled "Exchange Accounts," and such accounts shall contain on the one side thereof the amount of securities received in exchange for money, and the amount of money received in exchange for securities, and on the other side thereof the amount of money and securities given in exchange for such securities and moneys respectively. The money value of the securities received or given in exchange under this Rule shall be determined by the price of the day next following that on which the Paymaster is required or authorised to make the sale or investment; or if the money invested consist of dividends accrued on securities in Court, and previously to the accruing thereof required or authorised to be invested in Government securities, the price of the day next following that on which such dividends shall be placed by the Bank to the Pay Office Account, or if no price can be ascertained for such day, then the price of the next following day for which it can be ascertained. The price herein mentioned shall be the Bank average price of the Government securities appearing in the account transmitted to the Controllor General of the National Debt Office by the Cashiers of the Bank, a copy whereof shall be sent daily by the Bank to the Pay Office.

88. [Commission to be charged on exchanges and paid to the Exchequer.] Upon every such exchange a commission shall be charged of one-eighth per cent. on the amount of money realised or invested, in lieu of any brokerage provided for by the Order or usually charged upon the sale or purchase of such securities; but no such charge for commission shall in any case be less than sixpence; and unless the payment thereof is otherwise provided for by the Order, such commission shall be deducted from the proceeds of the realisation or the amount to be invested respectively, or in case a specific amount of money is to be realised, the commission upon it shall also be realised by the exchange of an additional amount of the securities by which the realisation is to be effected; and when the payment of brokerage is otherwise provided for, the Paymaster shall not be required to give effect to any such exchange until such commission has been paid into the Bank to the Pay Office Account. Such commission when so paid in or realised and deducted as aforesaid shall be placed to an account in the Pay Office books for Commission on exchanges; and the amount so placed shall from time to time, as the Treasury may direct, be transferred to the account of Her Majesty's Exchequer.

89. [Periodical adjustment of exchange account.]—The Paymaster shall from time to time, but not less than once in every year, prepare and transmit to the National Debt Commissioners a statement of the result of the exchange operations under these Rules, showing the total amounts of each description of Government securities purchased by exchange and realised by exchange, respectively; and the total amounts of the cash charged and credited, respectively, in the Pay Office books as the money value of the securities exchanged. And the difference so arising between the amount of any description of Government securities standing to the credit of the Pay Office Account at the Bank and the amount of such securities appearing by the books of the Pay Office to be in Court, and also the difference between the money value nominally paid and nominally received for such securities, shall be forthwith adjusted as follows:—

(a.) If such statement shows that the total amount of any description of Government securities purchased by exchange is in excess of the total amount of the same description of securities realised by exchange, the amount of such excess of securities purchased by exchange shall be transferred by the National Debt Commissioners from their account at the Bank on behalf of the Supreme Court to the Pay Office Account at the Bank. And such transfer of securities shall be treated as a repayment by the said Commissioners, out of the money placed in their hands by the Paymaster on behalf of the Supreme Court, of the difference between the cash charged and credited respectively in the Pay Office books in respect of such exchanges, as shown in the said statement.

(b.) If such statement shows that the total amount of any description of Government securities purchased by exchange is less than the total amount of the same description of securities realised by exchange, the amount of the excess of securities realised by exchange shall be transferred by the Paymaster to the account at the Bank of the National Debt Commissioners on behalf of the Supreme Court. And the money value of the securities so transferred (being the difference between the cash charged and credited, respectively, in the Pay Office Books in respect of such exchanges, as shown in the said statement), shall be placed by the National Debt Commissioners to the credit of the account kept by them of money placed in their hands by the Paymaster on behalf of the Supreme Court.

90. [Adjustment of dividends on Government securities in Court.]—The Paymaster shall from time to time prepare and transmit to the National Debt Commissioners a statement showing the amount of the dividends, less income tax, which became payable in the period to which such statement relates, on the Government securities in Court (at the closing of the Bank books for such dividends) as shown by the Pay Office books, and the amount of the dividends received in the same period on the Government securities standing to the credit of the Pay Office Account at the Bank; and the difference appearing thereby shall be adjusted as follows:—

(a.) If the amount of dividends payable shall have exceeded the amount of dividends received, the amount of the difference shall be credited by the National Debt Commissioners to the account kept by them of money placed in their hands by the Paymaster on behalf of the Supreme Court.

(b.) If the amount of dividends received shall have exceeded the amount of dividends payable, the amount of the difference shall be transferred by the Paymaster to the account at the Bank of the National Debt Commissioners on behalf of the Supreme Court.

91. [Surplus of money on the Pay Office Account to be transferred to the National Debt Commissioners.]—When the money to the credit of the Pay Office Account is, in the opinion of the Paymaster, in excess of the amount required for the purpose of making current payments, he shall transfer the amount of such excess from the Pay Office Account to the account at the Bank of the National Debt Commissioners on behalf of the Supreme Court, and shall notify such transfer to the said Commissioners.

92. [Deficiency of money on the Pay Office Account to be made good by National Debt Commissioners.]—When the money to the credit of the Pay Office Account is, in the opinion of the Paymaster, insufficient for the purpose of making current payments, the National Debt Commissioners, upon a request in writing of the Paymaster, shall forthwith transfer from their account at the Bank on behalf of the Supreme Court to the Pay Office Account the amount of money specified in such request.

93. [National Debt Commissioners to give credit for interest on money on deposit.]—The Paymaster shall, after the 31st March and 30th September in every year, certify to the National Debt Commissioners the amount of interest on money on deposit which has accrued for or during the half years respectively ending on those days; and the National Debt Commissioners, as soon thereafter as may be, shall place such amount to the credit of the account kept by them of money placed in their hands by the Paymaster on behalf of the Supreme Court, and shall cause the amount of income tax (if any) chargeable on such interest to be paid to the account at the Bank of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue.

X. CALCULATION OF RESIDUES, EVIDENCE OF LIFE, &c.

94. [Calculations of residues to be made in Pay Office.]—For the purpose of ascertaining the amounts of any residue or aliquot part of money or securities dealt with by an Order, when such amounts cannot be stated in the Payment Schedule and are not directed to be certified, the necessary calculations shall be made in the Pay Office: Provided that the Paymaster may require such calculations to be first stated in a certificate signed by the solicitor of the party interested.

95. [Evidence of life, &c.]—When any person is entitled, under an Order, to receive dividends or other periodical payments from the Pay Office, and the Paymaster requires evidence of life or of the fulfilment of any conditions affecting such payments, such evidence may be furnished by a declaration signed by a solicitor acting on behalf of such person, or by a declaration signed by the person entitled to the payment, and attested by a justice of the peace, commissioner to administer oaths, clerk in holy orders, or notary public; and the Paymaster shall act on such evidence unless in any case he thinks fit to require such evidence to be by statutory declaration or affidavit. The Paymaster may prescribe, with the approval of the Treasury, the terms in which such declarations or affidavits shall be made, and the forms to be used for that purpose. The provisions of this Rule shall apply to Orders made before these Rules come into operation, notwithstanding anything as to evidence in such Orders contained.

96. [Affidavits in other cases.]—When in carrying into effect the directions of an Order evidence is required by the Paymaster for any purposes other than those included in the immediately preceding Rules, he may receive and act upon an affidavit, or upon a statutory declaration, and every such affidavit or statutory declaration shall be filed in the Central Office when the Paymaster shall consider it necessary.

XI. COPIES OF ORDERS AND OTHER DOCUMENTS FOR AUDIT OFFICE.

97. [Office copy of Schedules, &c., to be sent to Audit Office.]—An office copy of the Schedules to every Order in the Chancery Division and in Lunacy, and, when requested, an office copy of any Order in the Queen's Bench and Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Divisions, to be acted upon by the Paymaster, shall be transmitted by the proper officer to the Audit Office; and in case of any amendments being made in any such Schedule or Order, such office copy shall be likewise amended.

98. [Office copy of certificates and other documents to be sent.]—An office copy of every certificate or other authority of a Master of the Supreme Court, Chief Clerk, or Taxing officer, or of a Master in Lunacy, which is to be acted upon by the Paymaster, or so much thereof as may be necessary, and an office copy of any certificate, affidavit, or statutory declaration which may be received in evidence by the Paymaster, shall, when requested, be transmitted by the proper officer to the Audit Office.

XII. MISCELLANEOUS.

99. [Paymaster to give Certificates of Funds in Court.]—The Paymaster, upon a request signed by or on behalf of a person claiming to be interested in any funds in Court standing to the credit of an account specified in such request, may, in his discretion, issue a certificate of the amount and description of such funds, and such certificate shall have reference to the morning of the day of the date thereof, and shall not include the transactions of that day, and the Paymaster shall notify on such certificate the dates of any Orders, restraining the transfer, sale, delivery out, or payment, or other dealing with the funds in Court to the credit of the account mentioned in such certificate, and whether such Orders affect principal or interest, and any charging Orders, affecting such funds, of which respectively he has received notice, and the names of the persons to whom notice is to be given, or in whose favour such restraining or charging Orders have been made. The Paymaster may re-date any such certificate, provided that no alteration in the amount or description of the funds has been made since the certificate was issued. And when a cause or matter has been inserted in the list referred to in Rule 101, the fact shall be notified on the certificate relating thereto.

100. [Paymaster may issue transcripts of accounts and furnish other information.] Upon a request signed by or on behalf of a person claiming to be interested in funds in Court, the Paymaster may, in his discretion, issue a transcript of the account in his books specified in such request; and if so required by the person to whom it is issued, such transcript shall be authenticated at the Audit Office. He may also upon a like request supply such other information or issue such certificates with respect to any transactions or dealings with funds in Court as may from time to time be required in any particular case.

101. [List of dormant funds, &c., to be made triennially and published.]—On or before the 1st day of March in every third year the Paymaster shall prepare, in such form and with such particulars as the Treasury may from time to time direct, a list or statement of the accounts in the books of the Pay Office (other than those referred to in the next following Rule) to the credit of which there stood on the 1st day of September then next preceding any funds not less than 50l., which have not been dealt with, otherwise than by the continuous investment or placing on deposit of dividends, during the 15 years immediately preceding the last-mentioned date.

The said list or statement shall be filed in the Central Office, and a copy thereof shall be inserted in the "London Gazette" and exhibited in the several offices of the Court.

The Paymaster may, in his discretion, give any information respecting any funds in Court mentioned in such list or statement upon a request signed by the person applying for such information or by his solicitor. If such request be made by a solicitor, such information shall not be given unless the request states the name and address of the person on whose behalf it is made, and that such person is in the opinion of the applicant beneficially interested in such funds. If such request be made by any person other than a solicitor, such information shall not be given unless the applicant is able to satisfy the Paymaster that the request is such as may in the particular case be properly complied with.

102. [Transfer of small balances a special account.]—The Paymaster may from time to time carry over to a special account for small balances such balances of money and securities as do not together amount to 5l., and on which the money or securities shall not have been dealt with during the preceding five years. When an Order dealing with funds carried over under this Rule is to be acted upon, the Paymaster shall carry back such funds and any dividends accrued thereon to the account from which they were so carried over, and shall deal therewith as directed by such Order.

103. [Titles of accounts not to exceed 36 words.]—The length of the title of any ledger credit shall not exceed 36 words, exclusive, in the case of a separate account in a cause or matter, of the title of the cause or matter in which such separate account is opened: Provided that such title may be extended beyond 36 words if a sufficient reason be assigned to the satisfaction of the Registrar or Master of the Supreme Court; and the Registrar or Master shall in such case add to the instruction to open such credit the words "notwithstanding Rule 103"; and provided also that the Paymaster may extend any such title if in his opinion a sufficient reason be assigned for so doing. In such title four figures shall be reckoned as one word.

104. [Outstanding cheques of late Accountant General.]—Unpaid cheques signed by the late Accountant General, or any of his predecessors, shall be a sufficient authority to the Paymaster for making the payments therein purporting to be intended to be made.

105. [Index of documents filed.]—An index shall be made and kept in the Central Office of all documents by these Rules directed to be filed there.

106. [Names and addresses of suitors.]—Upon the request of any person, or of a solicitor acting on behalf of any person, named in an Order and entitled to or interested in funds in Court, the Paymaster shall record, in such manner as he shall consider convenient for reference, the name and address of such person, or of the solicitor for the time being acting on his behalf, and also any change of such address which may be notified to him.

107. [Paymaster's directions to be issued and signed as Treasury may prescribe.]—The directions of the Paymaster for giving effect to these Rules shall be prepared and issued in such form and manner as the Treasury may from time to time direct, and shall be signed by such officers as the Treasury may prescribe or approve.

108. [Identification of persons to be paid, &c.]—It shall be the duty of the Paymaster to comply with any instructions which may be given to him by the Treasury as to the means of identifying any person to whom a direction for payment of money or for delivery of securities out of Court is issued, when such identification may be deemed necessary.

109. [When stocks or shares of companies or other securities are converted.] Whenever any amount or number of stock, shares, or other security in Court (in this Rule referred to as the original security) is converted into any other stock, shares, or other security (in this Rule referred to as the substituted security), so that the description thereof will differ from the description given of the original security in the Order or other authority under which the Paymaster acts respecting the same, the Paymaster shall write off from the account to which the same may be standing the original security so converted, and shall place to the same account a proportionate part of the substituted security; and except in so far as any original security may be affected by any Order brought to the Pay Office in due time for that purpose, the Paymaster shall, as far as may be practicable, give effect to every part of any Order or other authority under which he has been acting which shall refer to any such original security so converted as aforesaid, or the dividends thereon, as if it referred to the substituted security or the dividends thereon. Provided that payments of income shall not be made in pursuance hereof, without an Order, in any case where the substituted security is a terminable annuity, unless such terminable annuity is based upon a deduction for sinking fund intended to replace the capital of the original security.

110. [When allotments of new stock are made by companies.] Whenever any allotment letters, scrip allotments, or other securities are allotted or assigned in respect of any sums of stock, or of any shares or other security in Court, such allotment letters, scrip allotments, or other securities (excepting such of them, if any, as may be affected by any Order of which the Paymaster has notice) shall be sold. The money to arise by the said sale shall be paid (without deduction for brokerage) by the broker to the Pay Office Account at the Bank and placed in the books of the Pay Office to the respective accounts to which the said stock or shares or other security are standing, in respect of which such allotment letters, scrip allotments, or other securities have been allotted or assigned.

111. [Rules to apply to District Registries at Liverpool and Manchester.]—These rules shall apply to funds in Court or hereafter lodged in Court in the District Registries in Liverpool and Manchester; but shall not apply in other District Registries.

(Signed) HRSCHHELL, C.

December 4th, 1894.

We certify that these Rules are made with the concurrence of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury.

SUPREME COURT OF JUDICATURE.

HILARY SITTINGS, 1894.

THE COURT OF APPEAL.

APPEAL COURT I.—NOTICES.

Queen's Bench Interlocutory Appeals will be taken in COURT I. on Thursday, Jan. 11, and afterwards on every Monday in Hilary Sittings. Bankruptcy Appeals will probably be taken on Friday. There will be no Sitting in COURT I. on Saturday, January 13th.

Queen's Bench Final Appeals and New Trial Motions will be taken in COURT I. in alternate weeks during the Sittings. New Trial Motions will probably be taken in COURT I. on Monday, Jan. 15, and following days in that week. Final Appeals in the week after.
N.B.—As soon as the course of business is definitely settled, notice will be given in the Daily Cause List.

On Mondays and Fridays Final Appeals or New Trial Motions will be taken if there are not enough Interlocutory or Bankruptcy Appeals for a day's Paper.

Admiralty Appeals (with Assessors) will be taken in COURT I. on days specially appointed by the Court, notice of which will appear in the Daily Cause List.

APPEAL COURT II.—NOTICES.

N.B.—Interlocutory Appeals from the Chancery and Probate and Divorce Divisions will be taken in COURT II. on Thursday, Jan. 11, and afterwards on every Wednesday in Hilary Sittings. As there are not at present any Chancery Interlocutory Appeals ready for the first day, Chancery Final Appeals will very likely be taken on that day.

N.B.—Subject to Chancery Interlocutory Appeals on Wednesdays, Chancery Final Appeals will be taken every day in COURT II. until further notice.

N.B.—When the Interlocutory Appeals are not enough for a day's Paper, Chancery Final Appeals will be added on Interlocutory days.

APPEALS from the Lancaster and Durham Palatine Courts (if any) will be taken in COURT II. on Thursday, Jan. 18, Thursday, Feb. 1. and on Thursday, March 1.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—In consequence of the limited state of the Chancery Appeal List, the above general arrangement will be subject to modification by the Judges, of which due notice will appear in the Daily Cause List.

From the Queen's Bench Division.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE. CHANCERY DIVISION.

HILARY SITTINGS, 1894.

NOTICES RELATING TO THE CHANCERY CAUSE LIST.

Motions, Petitions, and Short Causes will be taken on the usual days stated in the Hilary Sittings Paper, with the following exceptions, viz. :—

- MR. JUSTICE CHITTY.—In consequence of Mr. Justice Chitty sitting for the disposal of his Lordship's own Witness List, from Tuesday, February 27, until Saturday, March 10 (inclusive), his Lordship's Motions and Unopposed Petitions during that time will be taken by Mr. Justice North—that is to say, Motions on Thursday, March 1, and Thursday, March 8; Unopposed Petitions on Saturday, March 3, and Saturday, March 10.
- MR. JUSTICE NORTH.—In consequence of Mr. Justice North sitting for the disposal of His Lordship's own Witness List from Tuesday, January 16, until Saturday, January 27 (inclusive), his Lordship's Motions and Unopposed Petitions during that time will be taken by Mr. Justice Chitty—that is to say, Motions on Thursday, January 18, and Thursday, January 25; Unopposed Petitions on Saturday, January 20, and Saturday, January 27. N.B.—His Lordship has selected 20 Witness Actions from the early part of his own Witness List for trial during the fortnight commencing Tuesday, January 16, which will be published in the first Daily Cause List.
- MR. JUSTICE STIRLING.—In consequence of Mr. Justice Stirling sitting for the disposal of his Lordship's own Witness List, from Tuesday, January 30, until Saturday, February 10 (inclusive), his Lordship's Motions and Unopposed Petitions during that time will be taken by Mr. Justice Kekewich—that is to say, Motions on Thursday, February 1, and Thursday, February 8; Unopposed Petitions on Saturday, February 3, and Saturday, February 10.
- MR. JUSTICE KEKEWICH.—In consequence of Mr. Justice Kekewich sitting for the disposal of his Lordship's own Witness List, from Tuesday, February 13, until Saturday, February 24 (inclusive), his Lordship's Motions and Unopposed Petitions during that time will be taken by Mr. Justice Stirling—that is to say, Motions on Thursday, February 15, and Thursday, February 22; Unopposed Petitions on Saturday, February 17, and Saturday, February 24.
- MR. JUSTICE KEKEWICH.—Subject to the special arrangement for the disposal of Witness Actions, the Order of Business in Mr. Justice Kekewich's Court will be as detailed on the Sittings Paper. His Lordship will also take Witness Actions on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, as soon as the Non-Witness Business has been disposed of, and probably on Tuesday, January 23.

MR. JUSTICE ROMER will take Witness Actions every day in the order as they stand in His Lordship's Cause Book.

MR. JUSTICE WRIGHT (sitting as an additional Judge of the Chancery Division) will dispose of any remaining transferred Chancery Actions at present standing over generally on application to His Lordship in Court to fix a day for trial.

Summonses before the Judge in Chambers.—Justices CHITTY, NORTH, STIRLING, and KEKEWICH will sit in Court the whole day on every Monday during the Sittings to hear Chamber Summonses.

Summonses Adjourned into Court will be taken (subject to the Witness List) as follows:—Mr. Justice CHITTY, with Non-Witness Actions, except Procedure Summonses, which (if any) are taken every Saturday; Mr. Justice STIRLING, with Non-Witness Actions. Mr. Justice NORTH on Fridays and Saturdays. Mr. Justice KEKEWICH on Fridays and Saturdays, and also on other days as the Judges may direct.

SPECIAL NOTICE WITH REFERENCE TO THE CHANCERY WITNESS LISTS.

During the Hilary Sittings the Judges will sit for the disposal of their own Witness Lists as follows :—

- Mr. JUSTICE NORTH will begin on Tuesday, January 16 and sit continuously (Monday, January 22, excepted) until Saturday, January 27.
- Mr. JUSTICE STIRLING will begin on Tuesday, 30th January, and sit continuously (Monday, the 5th February, excepted) until Saturday, the 10th February.
- Mr. JUSTICE KEKEWICH will begin on Tuesday, the 13th February, and sit continuously (Monday, the 19th February, excepted) until Saturday, the 24th February.
- Mr. JUSTICE CHITTY will take his Witness List for the ensuing fortnight, beginning on Tuesday, the 27th February, and will sit continuously (Monday, the 5th March, excepted) until Saturday, the 10th March.

During the fortnight when a Judge is engaged on his Witness List, Motions in Causes or matters assigned to him (including Ex parte Motions but not including Motions relating to the postponement of the Trial or hearing of any cause or Matter in his Lordship's List), and also Unopposed Petitions assigned to him, will be heard by one of his colleagues as follows :—

- Those assigned to Mr. Justice NORTH will be heard by Mr. Justice CHITTY.
- Those assigned to Mr. Justice STIRLING will be heard by Mr. Justice KEKEWICH.
- Those assigned to Mr. Justice KEKEWICH will be heard by Mr. Justice STIRLING.

SUMMARY.—Actions for Trial . . . 65; Appeals to Divisional Court . . . 0.—Total . . . 65

MEMORANDUM.—No complete List of Actions to be tried in this Division during Hilary Sittings can be given in advance, as the number and order in which they will be tried are necessarily dependent on the presence in this Country of the Seafaring Witnesses whose movements are unavoidably uncertain. The List will therefore be subject to alterations and additions.

COUNCIL CHAMBER, LINCOLN'S INN,
 11th January, 1894.

COUNCIL OF LEGAL EDUCATION.

EASTER EXAMINATION, 1894.

EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR PASS CERTIFICATES.

The attention of Students is requested to the following Rules:—

No Student shall receive from the Council the Certificate of Fitness for call to the Bar required by the four Inns of Court unless he shall have passed a satisfactory Examination as follows:—

Candidates will be examined at their option in any three of the following subjects, in addition to Roman Law—

- I. Elements of the Law of Real and Personal Property.
- II. Elements of the Law of Contracts and Torts.
- III. Principles of Equity, Trusts, and Easements.
- IV. Procedure and Evidence.
- V. Constitutional Law and Legal History.

Such Candidates will also be examined in one of the following groups of subjects, A, B, C, such group to be selected by the Candidate.

- (Purchases and Leases.
- A. { Mortgages.
- { Settlements and Wills.
- (Negotiable Instruments.
- B. { Agency in Mercantile Contracts.
- { Contracts of Sale of Goods.
- (Administration of Assets on Death.
- C. { Specific Performance.
- { Partnership and Winding-up of Companies.

No Student (except such as come under the next-stated Rule) shall be examined for call to the Bar until he shall have kept nine Terms;

but Students shall have the option of passing the Examination in Roman Law at any time after having kept four Terms.

A Student who, previously to his admission at an Inn of Court, was a Solicitor in practice for not less than five years, may be examined for call to the Bar without keeping any terms, and may be called to the Bar upon passing the public Examination required by these Rules, without keeping any Terms;

Provided that such solicitor has given at least twelve months' notice in writing to each of the four Inns of Court, and to the Incorporated Law Society, of his intention to seek call to the Bar, and produces a certificate signed by two members of the Council of the Incorporated Law Society that he is a fit and proper person to be called to the Bar.

The Council may accept as an equivalent for the Examination in Roman Law—

- i. A Degree granted by any University within the British Dominions, for which the qualifying Examination included Roman Law;
- ii. A Certificate that any Student has passed any such Examination, though he may not have taken the Degree for which such Examination qualifies him; and
- iii. The Testamur of the Public Examiners for the Degree of Civil Law at Oxford that the Student has passed the necessary Examination for the Degree of Bachelor of Civil Law;

Provided the Council is satisfied that the Student, before he obtained his Degree, or obtained such Certificate or Testamur, passed a sufficient Examination in Roman Law.

An Examination will be held in March next, to which a Student of any of the Inns of Court, who is desirous of becoming a Candidate for a certificate of Fitness for being called to the Bar, or of passing the Examination in Roman Law, will be admissible.

Each Student proposing to submit himself for Examination will be required to enter his name, in full, personally or by letter, at the Treasurer's or Steward's Office of the Inn of Court to which he belongs, on or before Monday, the 5th day of March next; and he will further be required to state in writing whether his object in offering himself for Examination is to obtain a Certificate preliminary to a call to the Bar, or whether he is merely desirous of passing the Examination in Roman Law under the above-stated Rule.

Each Student offering himself for Examination to obtain a Certificate preliminary to a call to the Bar will be required, at the time of entry, to state the subjects selected by him in pursuance of the option before referred to.

The Examination will commence on Tuesday, the 13th day of March next, and will be continued on the Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday following.

It will take place in the Hall of the Inner Temple; and the doors will be closed Ten Minutes after the time appointed for the commencement of the Examination.

BRETT'S COMMENTARIES

ON THE # PRESENT LAWS OF ENGLAND.

By THOMAS BRETT,

Of the Middle Temple, Barrister-at-Law; LL.B. London University; B.A., late Scholar and Student of Trinity College, Dublin; Exhibitioner in Real Property and Equity; Holder of the First Certificate of Honour, Michaelmas, 1869; Joint Author of Clerke and Brett's Conveyancing Acts; Author of Brett's Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and of Leading Cases in Modern Equity; and late Lecturer in Equity to the Incorporated Law Society.

** The main idea of this book is to bring into special prominence the present and living law, and only to deal with past law, or that which is practically obsolete, so far as it is necessary to enable the reader to understand the present.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"We are glad to observe in the present edition the marks of careful revision. . . . It is a comprehensive outline of existing English Law, contained in a marvellously small compass, well arranged and so contrived, by the insertion of illustrative cases and extracts, as to be interesting, instead of repulsive, to the student. On some subjects a list of leading recent cases is added, the effect of them being shortly stated. The account of the Settled Land Act, at pp. 145-156, may be commended as a very good piece of exposition. The index has been improved, and a word must be said as to the attractive type and convenient size of the volumes."—Solicitors' Journal.

"The success which we predicted for this book on its first appearance, only a year ago, seems to be now fully assured, for we already have before us a second edition. . . . Mr. Brett is singularly fortunate in being called upon so soon to bring out a new edition, because he has thus been afforded an opportunity of availing himself of the suggestions of his friends and the criticism of his reviewers by correcting the errors which were inevitable in a first edition, and also of incorporating the numerous Acts which have, since the publication of his first edition, been placed upon the statute-book by an exceedingly active Legislature."—Law Journal.

"The compilation has been done with care, and the new edition is up to date, and is altered to include the legislation of last session."—Law Notes.

EMDEN'S PRACTICE AND FORMS IN WINDING-UP COMPANIES.

A Concise and Practical Treatise upon the Law and Practice relating to the Winding-up of Companies from the commencement of the Winding-up Proceedings to Dissolution, with a Chapter on Reconstruction,

BY

MR. REGISTRAR EMDEN,

AUTHOR OF "THE LAW RELATING TO BUILDING, BUILDING LEASES, AND BUILDING CONTRACTS," "A COMPLETE COLLECTION OF PRACTICE STATUTES, ORDERS, AND RULES," "SHAREHOLDER'S LEGAL GUIDE," ETC.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"The whole work is thoroughly well done. . . . We have rarely met with a work in which so much pains have been taken not only to set forth the whole of the law and practice to which it relates, but to do so in the most lucid and concise manner. The book will be of great assistance to all who are concerned in the Winding-up of Companies, particularly to those who are comparatively new to the work. If the practitioner goes wrong with Mr. Emden's book in his hand it will be his own fault."—Law Times.

"We think the arrangement of this book is very good. Each step in winding-up proceedings is traced. . . . The statutes are printed at length in the appendix. . . . There is a very good time table, and also a convenient tabulated summary of the leading cases upon the liability of contributories. . . . With regard to the treatment of the very numerous cases with which company law abounds, it is always intelligent, and the style is easy and perspicuous."—Law Journal.

"Mr. Emden is already well known as a legal author, and his book on the winding-up of companies will, we think, increase his reputation. This treatise is judiciously confined to the important branch of company law which relates to 'winding-up'; and the author is thereby enabled, within the compass of a moderate volume, to supply the practitioner with a very complete work. In arrangement, little is left to be desired; and, by variations of type and marginal references, the eye is assisted in its search for any particular subject. The appendix of forms cannot fail to be practically useful."—Solicitors' Journal.
