Dear Sir:

We have been requested by our head office to transfer thirty-two (32) sets of our idle machines as per attached list. These machines in question are not being in use and are lying idle in our shops. Therefore, we hereby beg of you to favor us with your valuable confidence in making it possible to let the Yokohama Shipyard & Engine Works have the said machines.

Trusting to be favored, we remain,

Yours truly,

Subject: Recommendation to Transfer Reparation Machines

In order to expedite the work on U.S. Government vessels having repair work done at the Yokohama Shipyard & Engine Works, it is requested that permission be granted to transfer some machines from the Yokohama Shipyard & Engine Works, Yamanashi Factory, 7458 Aza Shirasu, Sugawara-mura, Kitakoma-gun, Yamanashi Pref. to the Yokohama Shipyard & Engine Works, Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Ltd. 4-2, 3-chome, Midori-cho, Nishi-ku, Yokohama.

Many of the present machines in the shipyard are in very much of a rundown condition not from neglect but from old age. Many of these machines are of the old type, and have been repaired so much that it is very herd to do a very accurate job on them. In many instances we have been delayed from 4 to 12 hours on a job because the machine has broken down and a like machine has a job in it, so we have to wait either until the job is finished or remove it and put our job in its place, thereby causing much delay.

So by granting this request, it will speed up our repair work very much. We are enclosing an attached sheet of the number of machines required and types.

Trusting that this application will receive your favourable consideration.

1. Selections within the precision bearing industry for reparations removal were made by the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers on the basis of reducing the overall productive capacity in this industry. This plant was selected as an integrated facility for such removal.

2. In view of the fact that the movement of the machinery indicated in paragraph 2 of the basic communication occurred prior to the selection for reparations and that the reorganization of this company has been directed by SCAPIN 1375, the return of this machinery is not considered within the intent of the reparations selection. No instructions have been given for the inventory of precision bearing plants.

3. Further recommendation may be made should the return of this machinery be desired for other reasons than the custody and control for reparations removal.
