PRIDAY MORNING, SEPT. 26, 1836. The death of one of our carriers in the lower fau bourg may have deprived some of our subscribers of their papers during the week. They will please call at the office to recrive them, and lasen directions.

We received late last night a notice of the death of Mrs Community beyond the river; and of shanisful neglect result. by the partner of her sick husband during her indisposition: | but want of room prevents its being inserted.

The Carrolton railroad will be opened to the public to-morrow at 11 A. M.; when visitors of the introded discorner Biro ne . eet.

In noticing this project, we would also suggest to the This is the second vailron treaty for trade and travel

But if the city council ordered the surveyor to locate streets throughout the section, the draining would be greatly fact itstell and the corporation be benefited—as much of the lands belong to the city.

Business is becoming brisk again in New Orleans; and the continuance of a healthy season placed beyond a doubt. During the past week, there were indeed about 18 deaths at an avorage each day; but there has been no epidemie; and we trust and think that the period of yellow fever as an epide nic in this city has now elapsed. Will some yankees of capital and enterprize pay us a visit?

This determination on the part of southern states to open railroad intercourse from the different agricultural regions to the principal seaports will promptly conduce to the interests of trade and travel.

The impostor Matthias recently drowned himself in cross ing the river from Newark to New York.

The citizens of New York and Philadelphia are richty enjoying themselves in noble sports, while those in the south are fretting themselves with the ghosts of abolition, dissension, disunion! In Philadelphia, the company of United Bowmen' or archers held an anniversary of their society. During the afternoon they had trials of archery skill for premiums; and in the evening rejoicing and feasting. The trial conte t was attended by about 200 carriages; and a goodly assemblage of visitors of both sexes. At New York, there was to have been a splendid regatta on the 17th inst by the members of the various boat clubs in that city, Phila-
