NO FOUNDATION FOR REASSURING STATEMENTS

Vice-President Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine, Tried to Have Early Reports Regarding Titanic Disaster Held Up.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—Vice-President Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine Company, told the Senate investigating committee to-day how he had asked to have the earlier reports of the Titanic disaster held up to avoid unnecessary alarm. He denied any knowledge of the message addressed to Representative of Hughes of West Virginia, about the ship being towed to Halifax, and gave other details.

Senator Smith presided. After denying that officers of the White Star Line had any knowledge of a misleading telegram being sent to Mr. Hughes, it was explained by Mr. Franklin that he had issued reassuring statements while he had no facts on which to base them.

The witness read from a great sheet of wireless telegrams received Monday morning. None of them contained any information of value, but it was on this date that the line issued its statement. In an effort, said Mr. Franklin, to reassure inquirers. Later when the news came he sent immediately for reporters and proceeded to begin reading to them the long Marconiograms from the Carpathia giving the gruesome news in considerable detail.

"I began to read: 'Titanic went down this morning at 2.30, and then I looked up,' said Mr. Franklin. 'There was not a reporter in the room. They were all running for telephones to get the news out to the world.'"

Bit by bit Mr. Franklin contributed to the night the Senate is seeking to throw on the catastrophe that sent the Titanic and almost 1,600 persons to their death and plunged the world into mourning.

The inquiry was resumed here to-day with J. Bruce Ismay, president of the International Mercantile Marine Company; P. A. S. Franklin, vice-president of the White Star Line; H. T. Cottam, wireless operator of the Carpathia; and four officers and twenty-eight sailors of the Titanic's crew, waiting to be called as witnesses.

Many of the Titanic's surviving passengers will be called to give evidence before the committee. It is expected that among the witnesses will be Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mrs. J. B. Thayer and Col. Archibald Gracie.

Hours before the resumption of the inquiry, crowds swarmed to the senate office and made a rush for the caucus room. Hundreds were women and, as in the Titanic disaster, "women first" were admitted to the hearing.

Capitol police took charge of the arrangements and by 10 o'clock there were no available seats and standing room was exhausted. Even senators and representatives who had sought places of vantage for their families were unsuccessful.

No Survivors on Celtic.

William A. Smith, chairman of the sub-committee, reached the building late and went into conference with Senators Newlands, Burton, Perkins, Simmons and Fletcher. J. Bruce Ismay arrived with P. A. S. Franklin and had difficulty getting in.

"There were no persons picked up by the Celtic," Mr. Ismay said, "nor were there any bodies taken aboard that ship."

Mr. Ismay, as he sat talking to his attorney, C. C. Burlingham, and Vice-President Franklin, appeared sad and haggard.

After Senator Smith had cautioned the crowd against demonstrations, J. S. Boxhall, fourth officer of the Titanic and one of the four officers to survive the disaster, was called to the witness stand as the first witness.

P. A. S. Franklin Called.

When Third Officer Boxhall entered the room, Senator Smith asked him to step aside and called P. A. S. Franklin, vice-president of the International Mercantile Marine Company. He began to question Mr. Franklin as to the companies comprising the corporation, its connections and its capitalization.

"You are the real representative of the White Star Line in this country," Senator Smith asked Mr. Franklin. "Yes, sir."

"Does any one share the responsibility with you?" "I am mainly responsible," answered Franklin. "There are directors in this country and meetings are held frequently."

"So far as you know, did you or any of your subordinates have any communication with Captain Smith on his last voyage?" "None at all."

Mr. Franklin said he had received no communication from Mr. Ismay except one cable from Southampton announcing the success of the Titanic's trial trip.

"This is the only attempt at communication, so far as you know of any attempt of officers, crew or passengers to communicate with you after they left Southampton?" the senator asked. "Yes."

No Knowledge of Message.

Senator Smith then showed Mr. Franklin the telegram received by Congressman Hughes of West Virginia from the White Star Line, dated New York, April 15, and addressed to J. A. Hughes, Huntington, W. Va., as follows:

"Titanic proceeding to Halifax. Passengers probably land on Wednesday. All safe."

"I ask you," continued the senator, "whether you knew about the sending of that telegram, by what authority and from whom it was sent." "I do not know, sir," said Franklin. "Since it was mentioned at the Waldorf on Saturday I have had the entire passenger staff examined and we cannot find out."

Asked when he first knew that the Titanic had sunk, Mr. Franklin said he first knew it at 6.27 p.m., Monday.

"About five minutes of two, on Monday morning," said Mr. Franklin, "a reporter telephoned that the Titanic had met with an accident and was sinking. The information he told me had come by wireless from the steamship Virginian, which had been appealed to by the Titanic for aid."

Mr. Franklin said the White Star Line docks had no information; and he then appealed to the Associated Press and there was read to him a dispatch from Cape Race advising of the accident.

"I asked the Associated Press," said Mr. Franklin, "not to send out the dispatch until we had more definite information to avoid causing unnecessary alarm. I was told, however, that it had already been sent."

Message to Olympic.

"How did you ascertain the location of the Olympic, Baltic and others?" asked Mr. Smith. "We worked that out on our charts. We had no direct communication from any of the ships. Our first endeavor was to communicate with our big ships, and the following message was sent April 15 at 3 o'clock a.m.: 'Haddock, Olympic. Make every endeavor to communicate Titanic and advise position and time. Reply within the hour.' That was the first message. We followed it with others Monday morning and also endeavored to get information from the Montreal and Cape Race wireless stations. At 10.37 a.m. we got word from the Olympic, announcing that at 9 a.m. she had been unable to reach the Titanic; was 310 miles south of her and would maintain efforts to get in communication with her. Between 9 and 10 o'clock on the 15th the following message was received from the Olympic:—"

Based on Rumors.

"Parisian reports Carpathia in attendance. Picked up twenty boats with passengers and Baltic returning. Position not given—Haddock, Olympic."

The reassuring statement sent out by the line in the early hours of the disaster were made subject of inquiry. "Tell the committee on what you based those statements," directed Senator Smith. "We based them on reports and rumors received at Cape Race by individuals and by the newspapers. They were rumors and we could not place our finger on anything authentic."

"Had you heard from the Carpathia at that time?" "No, sir."

Mr. Franklin declared the Olympic was sent this message: "Haddock, Olympic—Rumored here Titanic sunk. Cannot confirm here. Expect Virginian alongside—Franklin."

"At 2.40 p.m., we wired Haddock to endeavor to ascertain the whereabouts of Mr. Ismay and to advise us as soon as possible," continued Mr. Franklin. "We followed this dispatch with another to Haddock, in which we urged, 'Do your utmost to ascertain condition of Titanic. Advise us fully disposition of Titanic's passengers and where they will be landed.'"

The Fatal News.

"At 4.30 Monday evening," said Mr. Franklin, "a message was received telling the fatal news that the Carpathia reached the Titanic and found nothing but boats and wreckage, that the Titanic had foundered at 2.29 a.m. in 41.5 north, 50.14 west; that the Carpathia picked up all the boats and had on board about 675 Titanic survivors, passengers and crew. This message was from Haddock also."

"It was such a terrible shock that it took me several minutes to think what to do. Then I telephoned two of the directors, Mr. Steele and Mr. J. P. Morgan, Jr., then I went downstairs to the reporters. I began to read the message, holding it high in my hands, which said that the Titanic had sunk when there was not a reporter left. They were so anxious to get to the telephones."

"After that we got another message from Haddock stating that 'Yams', meaning Ismay, was on the Carpathia."

Mr. Franklin then explained how the company wired the Olympic to get the names of the survivors and to stand by and relay them from the Carpathia.

Considered Ship Unsinkable.

"I want to say that during the entire Monday after our first message concerning the Titanic, we considered the Titanic absolutely unsinkable. We never dreamed of such a thing, and that there had been loss of life never entered our minds until we got Haddock's awful message at 6.30 o'clock that evening."

One by one Mr. Franklin related telegrams that had been sent through the air from shore-to-ships, and from them back to the anxious ones on shore. All hope that some other vessel besides the Carpathia had picked up some of the Titanic's survivors was dismissed when the Olympic flashed word that neither the Tunisian nor Baltic had any of the Titanic's people aboard.

Did Not See Operator.

Senator Smith then sought to discover whether he had not had a conference with the wireless operators, or had been responsible for the failure of the wireless to get the news to shore earlier.

Mr. Smith repeatedly asked the witness whether he had not had a conference Monday morning with Mr. Marconi or Mr. Sammis, chief engineer of the Marconi company.

"No, most emphatically," said the witness. "I in no way attempted or caused to be attempted any censorship of wireless."

"When you went aboard the Carpathia when she docked," suggested Senator Smith, "did you see either Mr. Marconi, Mr. Sammis or the wireless operators?" "No, I did not. I went direct to the captain's room and asked to be shown Mr. Ismay's room. He took me there. I talked with no one else."

Senator Smith inquired whether the witness was familiar with the workings of the wireless on the ships of the line, and if he knew what were the safety precautions on the same ships.

"No," he said, "we really are only agents for the line in America."

"Do you know of any chart or documents showing the equipment or safety appliances of the Titanic?" "I know of none."

PLANS FOR GIGANTIC WILL BE ALTERED

London, April 22.—It is understood that the plans of the White Star Gigantic, which is now being built at Belfast and which was to have been 1,000 feet in length, will be modified.

It is possible that the new plans will provide for double-cellular bottom, such as the Mauretania and Lusitania have, as a stipulated condition of receiving the government subsidy.

The Olympic has been provided with forty collapsible boats and will carry 18 additional lifeboats.

Canadian subscriptions to the Titanic fund are: James Ross, director of the Bank of Montreal, £1,000; Canada Club, £50; Hugh Allen, £50; J. W. Flavell, Lindsay, Ont., twenty-five guineas.

TO PAY TRIBUTE TO LATE C. M. HAYS

Montreal, April 22.—It is planned to pay a tribute to the late Charles M. Hays during the coming week, unique in the history of Canada, when every wheel on the Grand Trunk, Grand Trunk Pacific and affiliated lines in Canada and the United States will simultaneously stop for several minutes during the course of a memorial service. This is not merely to emphasize the loss these railroads have sustained, but to give thousands of men employed in the two countries an opportunity to join the memorial service in spirit, for the chief they had lost.

Definite plans have not yet been made, pending an expression of the wishes of the late Mr. Hays' family, but it is expected that memorial services will take the form of a special service during the latter part of the week at the American Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Hays was for many years a member. So far as possible the headquarters offices will be closed down so as to give the officials and staff an opportunity to join in the services. While the memorial service will be probably for the colleagues and staffs of the late Mr. Hays in the various railway enterprises of which he was the head, it will also be one for his friends. It is also likely that the other great transportation systems centering in Montreal will be represented.

Vice-President Kelly of the Grand Trunk issued a statement on Saturday. Mrs. Hays, in her story of the wreck of the Titanic, said: "There was absolutely no confusion. The men stood quietly aside." Mrs. Hays and Mrs. Davidson were in the second last boat to leave the ship, and their husbands helped them in. The last seen of Messrs. Hays, Molson and Davidson they were standing together. The only indication the women had of the foundering of the vessel was the extinguishing of the lights. They suffered extreme cold in the lifeboats and did not realize till the next day that their husbands were lost.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL.

Winnipeg, April 22.—Ernest J. Hutchins, aged about 28 years, who roomed at 403 Balmoral street, received such serious injuries by being struck by a street car that death resulted in an hour and a half later at the General Hospital.

Hutchins left a westbound street car at the corner of Portage avenue and Hamilton street and attempted to cross in front of an eastbound Portage street car. He was hurled to the ground with terrific force, and never regained consciousness.

Mr. Hutchins came to Winnipeg from Saskatoon about 9 months ago, and became connected with the post office shortly after his arrival.

Hutchins was to have been married next month to Miss Dornington, of London, Eng., and Miss Dornington had arranged to sail from England April 19, to be married in Winnipeg on her arrival.

SHOT BY YOUNG SON.

Brookville, April 22.—Mrs. Samuel Hollingsworth was shot by her young son Saturday. The boy's mother was sitting and the lad was playing with a rifle, and discharged the weapon accidentally. The bullet entered the woman's shoulder. She may recover.

EXPRESS ROBBERY.

Grand Junction, Colo., April 22.—Although 38 suspects have been arrested the county authorities here admit that they are unable to explain the story of theft of $14,000 from the depot office of the Globe Express Company last night.

CABLE SHIP REPORTS FINDING MANY BODIES

Continues Search in Vicinity of Titanic Disaster— Fireman on Liner Declares Orders Were to Break Record for Maiden Voyage.

St. John, Nfld., April 22.—Sixty-four bodies have been recovered by the cable steamer Mackay-Bennett, which has been searching the vicinity of the Titanic disaster, according to a report that reached this city last night. It is said a number of bodies recovered were sunk again, as they were without identification marks. The names of those identified could not be obtained through the Cape Race wireless station.

The sixty-four bodies recovered are regarded as identifiable, according to the report. Those that were sunk were presumably in a condition making their presentation impossible.

Sighted Many Bodies.

Halifax, April 22.—Confirmation of reports that numerous bodies of victims of the Titanic were afloat in the vicinity of the disaster was received last night in a wireless message from the steamship Bremen by the Cape Race wireless station. The message reads:

"The steamer Bremen, bound for New York, and the steamer Rhein passed on Saturday afternoon in 42.10 north latitude, and 49.30 west longitude, in the neighborhood of three large icebergs. Sighted numerous pieces of wreckage and a great number of human bodies with life-preservers on, floating in the sea. Sighted and spoke the cable ship Mackay-Bennett on the way to recover floating bodies."

(Sgd.) "CAPT. PREGGER."

No direct word has been received here up to a late hour last night from the steamer Mackay-Bennett in confirmation of the reports from St. John, Nfld., that sixty-four or more bodies had been recovered, but from the fact that a large number were seen Saturday night and that the Mackay-Bennett is in the vicinity, it is believed that the searchers probably have met with success. The cable steamer probably is unable to communicate with Cape Race, which is 350 miles away, because its wireless range is only about 200 miles.

Before his departure from Washington, Mr. Ismay, after reading the two messages, said:

"The cable ship Mackay-Bennett has been chartered by the White Star Line and ordered to proceed to the scene of the disaster and to do all she can to recover bodies and glean all information possible."

"The cable ship has been ordered to remain on the scene of the wreck for at least a week, but should a large number of bodies be recovered before that time she will return to Halifax with them. The search for bodies will not be abandoned until not a vestige of hope remains for any more recoveries."

Official Report.

New York, April 22.—The White Star Line announced to-day that it had received the following wireless message from the cable ship Mackay-Bennett, which is on the scene of the Titanic disaster searching for bodies:

"Heavy southwest gull has interfered with operations. Fifty bodies recovered. All not embalmed will be buried at sea at 3 p.m. with divine services. Can bring only embalmed bodies to port."

The White Star Line officials said that any information from the Mackay-Bennett, which is under orders to remain in the vicinity of the wreck for a week, would be made public on receipt. Only bodies that have been identified or admit of being identified will be brought back. Some of the victims have undoubtedly been mutilated by ice and identification is impossible.

The steamer Rhein reported to the White Star Line by wireless that wreckage and bodies were passed in 42.01 latitude, 49.13 longitude, and that the Mackay-Bennett was hurrying for that position. This message indicates that the Gulf Stream is carrying the bodies and wreckage fifty miles east of where the Titanic sank.

Leave Hospitals.

The survivors who were taken to the hospitals on their arrival on the Carpathia have now practically all recovered and many of them have left for their homes. Relief societies have gathered more than a quarter of a million dollars and the relief committee has been swamped with clothing.

Boats Only Half Filled.

"That many of the boats of the Titanic were sent away only half-filled, and that, if Captain Smith's orders had been obeyed, many more lives would have been saved, has been disclosed by Peter D. Daly, of Lima, Peru, a first-cabin survivor. Daly states that he saw the captain rush to the railing after the boats had been put off from the ship and call 'Bring those boats back. They are only half-full.' How many boats obeyed the captain's orders to return Mr. Daly was unable to tell.

Orders to Break Records.

John Thompson, a fireman on the Titanic, suffering with a broken arm at St. Vincent's hospital, may be an important witness at the senatorial inquiry into the wreck. Thompson comes from Liverpool and he asserts that the Titanic was out "to break all records of maiden trips."

"From Queenstown out," Thompson is quoted as saying, "all the firemen had been talking of the orders we had to fire her up as hard as we possibly could."

"We had to make as quick a passage as possible, the orders ran. I heard that these orders came from the engineering department. We were carrying full pressure from the time we left Queenstown until the moment of the shock. We never ceased to make 74 to 77 revolutions. During that whole Sunday we had been keeping up the 77."

Denied by Officials.

General Passenger Agent Jeffrey, of the White Star Line, to-day denied the report that an officer and woman stowaway passenger of the Titanic were picked up by the Celtic which arrived here Sunday, as related in a dispatch from Muncie, Ind.

Says Warnings Were Ignored.

Three warnings that an iceberg was ahead were transmitted from the crow's-nest of the Titanic to the officer in command on the steamship's bridge, according to Thomas Whitley, a first-class steward, who now lies in St. Vincent's Hospital with frozen and lacerated feet. Whitley, who was whipped overboard from the ship by a rope while helping to lower lifeboats, finally reached the Carpathia aboard one of the boats that contained, he said, both of the crow's-nest lookouts. He heard a conversation between them, he asserted, in which they discussed the warnings given of the presence of icebergs.

Whitley did not know either of the men's names and believed they have returned to England with the majority of the survivors of the crew.

"I heard one of them say that at 11.30 o'clock, fifteen minutes before the Titanic struck, he had reported to First Officer Murdoch that he fancied he saw an iceberg," said Whitley.

"Twice after that the lookout said he warned Mr. Murdoch that a berg was ahead. I can't remember the exact words, but they were indignant that no attention was paid to their warnings. One of them said: 'No wonder that Mr. Murdoch shot himself.'"

Whitley, in telling various incidents of the disaster that had come to his notice, said that one of the first boats lowered, the only passengers aboard were a man whom he was told was an American millionaire, his wife, child and two valets. The others in the boat were firemen and coal trimmers, he said, seven in number, whom the man had promised to pay well if they would man the lifeboat.

"I do not know the man's name," said Whitley. "I heard it but have forgotten."

"But I saw an order for five pounds which this man gave to each of the crew of his boat after they got aboard the Carpathia. It was on a piece of ordinary paper addressed to the Coutts Bank of England.

"We called that boat the 'money boat.' It was lowered from the starboard side and was one of the first off. This man paid the firemen to lower a starboard boat before the officers had given the order."

DID NOT REPORT TITANIC IN TOW

Wireless Operator of Liner Carpathia Gives Evidence at Investigation

New York, April 22.—The first witness before the Senate investigating committee Saturday was Thomas Cottam, the wireless operator on the Carpathia, who was recalled to the stand. Senator Smith sought to clear up the messages that had passed between the Carpathia and the Titanic.

"What was the last message sent to the Titanic?" asked Senator Smith. "We sent word to have your lifeboats ready," said the witness. "That our lifeboats were ready and that we were steaming to them as fast as we could."

Sixty strikers on Friday attempted to drive the steam shovel crew off the grade near Spence's Bridge. A force of constables arrested three of the ringleaders, sent them to Ashcroft and drove the rest of the mob back to Lytton.

Two station men were killed near North Bend by a rockslide in the cut where they were working. Their names are John Bergstrom and Phillip Soderholm. An inquest will be held in North Bend. Soderholm's body was buried under tons of rock and has not yet been recovered.

Airpipe Line in Tunnel Near Yale Damaged by Dynamite

Work has not been resumed except in a few places by station men between Claco and Kamloops, but only with promise of police protection, contractors are preparing to re-open operations, and it is possible that trouble will result in the neighborhood of Ashcroft.

The airpipe line at the big tunnel near Yale was damaged by a dynamite explosion Friday, the charge having been placed by outsiders. No arrests were made.

Edmonds, Wash., April 22.—James Brady, one of the most prominent residents of Edmonds, was shot by his wife after they had gone to bed. She then killed herself with the same revolver. Both seem to have died instantly.

MURDER AND SUICIDE. Woman Shoots Her Husband and Ends Own Life.

Edmonds, Wash., April 22.—James Brady, one of the most prominent residents of Edmonds, was shot by his wife after they had gone to bed. She then killed herself with the same revolver. Both seem to have died instantly.

Thursday night she planned the tragedy it appears, with an insane cunning. As her husband lay with his back to the middle of the bed he faced a large mirror. Apparently in pursuit of her plan, this had been covered by a bedspread, and he was unable to see what she might be doing behind him and she could not see herself reflected as she ended her husband's life.

PREPARING FOR QUEBEC ELECTIONS

Nominating Convention Will Be Held Throughout Province This Week

Quebec, April 22.—The work of organization for the provincial elections is being actively pushed in both political camps in the Quebec district, and it is likely that all the conventions will have been got through by the end of this week. Both parties speak with confidence of the coming struggle, but it is generally conceded here that the opposition stands to make gains and that if the Gouin government is returned there will need to be some new blood infused into the cabinet in order to strengthen it against the attacks of a more representative opposition.

The following Liberals who are at present members of the legislature are likely to run in their old counties: Sir Lomer Gouin, Portneuf; Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Montmorency; Hon. J. C. Kaine, Quebec West; Hon. E. J. Caron, L'Islet; Hon. C. F. Delage, Quebec County; Mr. DeClare, Quebec Centre; D. Caron, Matane; J. A. Godbout, Beauce; A. Gallipault, Bellechase; J. H. Kelly, Bonaventure; A. Morisset, Dorchester; L. A. Thercault, Magdalen Islands; H. Petit, Chicoutimi; P. M. L. Rays, Lewis, and J. M. Francoeur, Lotbiniere. L. A. Latourneau is again presenting himself in Quebec East.

FIELD MICE DESTROY TREES.

Ellensburg, Wash., April 22.—Crops in the Kittitas Valley are facing the most serious menace in the history of the country, according to Herbert Talbot, a well-known rancher, who reports the total loss of a number of young fruit trees, due to depredations of the field mice.

OPPOSE HOME RULE.

Melbourne, Australia, April 22.—Ustermen throughout the State of Victoria, have despatched a cable to Sir Edward Carson, in which they state that they view the Home Rule with abhorrence and distrust. They are convinced, they state, that under an Irish parliament every public official in Ireland would be an open enemy of Great Britain. The message concludes: "Do not surrender to Patrick Ford and the enemies of Britain."

SEDON EXECUTED.

London, April 22.—Frederick Henry Seddon, the first Mason ever sentenced to death in England by a brother Mason, so far as is known was hanged on the gallows of Pentonville prison.

When Seddon was taken into court for sentence, after an eloquent speech declaring his innocence, he raised his hand in a Masonic sign and exclaimed: "Before the Great Architect of the Universe, I solemnly swear my innocence." Justice Bucknell in pronouncing sentence was deeply moved. In concluding, he said: "You and I know that we both belong to the same brotherhood, but that brotherhood condemns crime. I pray you to make your peace with the Great Architect."

Seddon and his wife were tried jointly for the murder of Ellenborough who lived with them and who died of arsenic poisoning.

RIVAL TONGS ARE AGAIN AT WAR

Three Chinamen Killed and Two Wounded in Californian Cities

San Francisco, Cal., April 22.—War between the Bing Kongs and Sing Suey tong was started anew Saturday in San Francisco, Stockton and Fresno. Three killed and two mortally wounded were added to the tally.

There have been so many tong shootings this year that the police department admit frankly that it has lost track of the fatalities. Eight in this city alone was the estimate. There were three separate affrays in San Francisco alone to-night.

In the Chinese Methodist Episcopal church a pitched battle was fought. At least 50 shots were fired. One man was seen to be wounded in the neck and another in the leg, but their friends hid them from the police. Gee Wing, a Sing Suey man, and Louie Wing, a Bing Kong man, were arrested. Louie Look, a Bing Kong man was shot four times while hiding in a lodging house close by. He will die. His murderer escaped.

Chin Sing, also a Bing Kong man and part proprietor of a saloon, was shot while standing near his place of business. Three of the bullets perforated his abdomen. His assassins were seen, but fled up a narrow way known as "Murderers" alley, and escaped.

INQUIRY INTO POISONING CASE.

Officials Are Inquiring Into Mysterious Death of Five Children

Charlottetown, P. E. I., April 22.—The interest in the McGee poisoning case at St. Marys Road, where five children out of six died in one day in such a manner as to mystify the doctors, has been further aroused by the illness of the sixth child, Johnny, aged 10. He has shown the same symptoms as the others. Johnny was staying with his uncle on the day his brothers and sisters partook of the meal at which they ate berries, which at first were thought to have caused their deaths. Doctors Fraser and McIntyre reported Johnny's illness to the Attorney-General, who ordered the boy to be taken to the hospital at Charlottetown. Further investigation into the case will be made by the government.

SOCIALIST EDITOR PUNISHED.

Fined $400 and Sentenced to Serve Eight Years in Prison.

Madrid, April 22.—Juan Mella, editor of the Socialist magazine, Vitis Socialista, has been condemned to pay a fine of $400 and to serve eight years in prison for publishing a cartoon which, it is asserted, reflects on the personal character of King Alfonso. The Socialists are agitated and have started a popular outcry against this "military justice," as they term it. Even many of those who say that Mella is guilty consider the penalty too severe.

The cartoon in question was sent to the magazine by Pablo Iglesias, a Socialist deputy who received it from an unknown artist. The central figure is an extremely thin huntsman with excessively thin legs. Iglesias cannot be prosecuted because of his official position, and Mella was made to bear the brunt of the whole affair, which it is likely will have a sequel.

KILLED ON TRACK.

Fort Frances, Ont., April 22.—At Mathieu siding, fifty miles east of here, John Dent, of the C. N. R. building and bridge construction gang, was killed. Dent was on his speeder, and had stopped off with it to allow the local mixed train to back up, and not noticing that another train was passing the opposite way on another track, he was knocked down and run over, both legs being taken off. Medical aid was wired for, but Dent died before the doctor arrived.

GIRL DISCHARGED.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 22.—Miss Viola Carver, the Tacoma girl charged with the murder of J. Edwin Edge, a young realty operator, several weeks ago, was discharged from custody at the close of her police court examination. Police Judge Chambers said that he took that action as no motive was shown for murder and the killing seemed to have been an accident.

Early Summer News

FROM "THE FASHION CENTRE"

The leadership of CAMPBELL'S as the principal show room for late spring and early summer fashions, must be conceded. As a matter of fact, that leadership has long been taken for granted, among the best dressed women of Victoria and suburbs, and among those who are fashion's most ardent devotees. This store was established with that object, and each succeeding season has seen its pre-eminence more firmly established, its supremacy as style centre more widely recognized.

We regard our display this season as a signal triumph for our ahead-of-date methods. For in this store you can always find the very latest, the most striking novel style conceptions that it has been possible for the best designers to conceive and for the best equipped establishments to produce

Comparison

Even if we gave you in print the price list of every garment in the store, it would be simply giving you a rough idea. What we earnestly seek is COMPARISON—that's our best advertisement. See what we have, compare our values, then your decision can be made with ease, with pleasure and with positive satisfaction.

Smart Suits

Even those acquainted with rare suit values we have offered heretofore, are surprised and delighted with our success of giving better values. Our Suit racks are just full of the most stunning Costumes for early summer wear, for both ladies and misses, and then, too, we have all the outside sizes. No matter whether you pay $16.50 or the highest price for a Campbell Suit you are getting the most possible for the money.

INVESTIGATION INTO DISASTER

STATEMENT ISSUED BY THE CHAIRMAN

Committee Visited New York in Order to Secure First Hand Information

New York, April 22.—Senator Smith, the chairman of the Senate committee investigating the Titanic wreck, has issued the following statement:

"The object of the committee in coming to New York coincided with the arrival of the Carpathia, and was prompted by the desire to avail itself of first hand information from the participants in this sad affair. Our course has been guided solely by this purpose—to obtain accurate information without delay. We were told that some of the officers of the Titanic were British subjects and reside in England and intended to return to their homes immediately upon their arrival at this port. We concluded that it would be most unfortunate if we were to be deprived of their testimony for any indefinite period and their removal beyond the jurisdiction of our authority might complicate, and possibly defeat our purpose."

"We went directly to the Carpathia upon her arrival; were received courteously by the captain and officers of the ship, and were accorded a prompt interview with the managing director and vice-president of the White Star line. We satisfied ourselves that their promise to appear ensured their presence at the hearing and have not been called upon to use more drastic measures to accomplish this result."

"Mr. Ismay intended to return to England forthwith, but at our request has remained here, as have several other officers and members of the crew."

"It was found necessary to take the testimony of the captain of the Carpathia immediately that he might not be further detained in his departure with his ship after his most creditable conduct worthy of the highest praise. We felt that it would not be an evidence of our appreciation to detain him and his ship and passengers after he had brought survivors of the Titanic voluntarily to this port. We examined the second officer because he was in command during the hours immediately preceding the collision and we thought it wise to take his testimony immediately. Mr. Bride, the wireless telegrapher on the Titanic, who survived, has been injured and was unable to be conveniently moved from New York, as his testimony and the testimony of the wireless operator of the Carpathia were so intimately related we concluded to take the testimony of both forthwith, and in order that we might beyond peradventure have the statement of Mr. Ismay formally on record, we decided to take his testimony immediately. All were notified of the fact that we had not finished with them and they were requested to remain."

"After conferring with our associates we concluded to exercise our authority and formally subpoena the officers together with twenty men of the ship's crew, and take the further testimony at least for the time being, at Washington, where the entire sub-committee could be present."

"I want to acknowledge our debt of gratitude to the representatives of the press for their marked courtesy, to assure them that everything that has transpired has been entirely in their presence and that this course will be pursued so far as I am concerned, in the future hearings of the committee."

Third Officer Called.

Herbert John Pittman, third officer of the Titanic, was called before the committee on Saturday afternoon.

"Did you know on your own knowledge whether the Titanic's ship log was preserved or taken from the Titanic?" asked Senator Smith.

"I do not."

Senator Smith then announced the closing of the hearing in New York. J. Bruce Ismay declined to accede to a request to allow his men to relate to the press their stories of the last dramatic moments before the Titanic sank, on the ground they had not yet given their evidence.

Neither Senator Smith or Senator Newlands would comment on the line of cross-examination followed, it was evident, however, that the testimony sought was intended to form a basis for a sweeping and thorough reform of the laws governing the use of wireless on steamships. Whether this would be accomplished through restrictions placed on vessels of foreign register entering the United States ports or to be the subject of diplomatic negotiations with other nations neither would say.

Minneapolis Woman's Story.

Chicago, April 22.—J. Bruce Ismay was held responsible for the Titanic disaster by Mrs. Walter D. Douglas of Minneapolis, whose husband was drowned. She spent several hours here Saturday en route from New York to her home. Mrs. Douglas was rescued in a life-boat with Mrs. Arthur Ryerson of Philadelphia.

"On Sunday before the night of the wreck," said Mrs. Douglas, "Mrs. Ryerson told me Mr. Ismay had said:

"I have just had wireless word that we are in the icebergs," Mrs. Ryerson said. "Of course, you're going to slow down?"

"Oh no," Mr. Ismay replied. "We are going to put on two more boilers and get out of it."

"The day before the wreck I saw one of the steamer's crew letting down a bucket to dip up ocean water and take the temperature. I saw that the pall touched the water and that he pulled it up empty. He then took the pall to the waterpipe on deck and filled it with the ship's water."

"I asked my husband at the time if he did not think we had better report the matter to the officers, but it was not important and we said nothing about it."

Mrs. Douglas told her story to Senator Smith and Newlands of the investigating committee before leaving New York. They told her that what she had said was important and she agreed to return and testify before the committee when wanted.

Regulation of Traffic.
Washington, D. C., April 22.—The United States Senate Saturday adopted the amended Martine resolution looking to a more complete international regulation of ocean traffic. The resolution advises the president that the senate would favor treaties with the great maritime powers to govern the course, speed, lifesaving apparatus, wireless and other equipment of ocean liners.

Relief Funds.
London, April 22.—The fund for the benefit of the Titanic sufferers on Saturday totalled $260,000. Subscriptions are coming in fast and England undoubtedly will subscribe over half a million.

Winnipeg Fund.
Winnipeg, April 20.—Mayor Waugh has opened a city hall fund in aid of the general subscription for the relief of sufferers and relatives of victims of the Titanic disaster. The Winnipeg real estate exchange is opening a memorial fund for its members. Russ Ross, Thompson Beattie and Mark Fortine, who perished.

THE DAILY TIMES

Published daily (excepting Sunday) by THE TIMES PRINTING & PUBLISHING COMPANY, LIMITED

COINCIDENCES.

The Times reproduces below a part of an election address published during the first week in January and prior to Mr. J. L. Beckwith's election as mayor of Victoria.

Perhaps before the British people get through with their analysis of the report of their Board of Trade they will have another thought or two about adopting the proposals of the Tariff Reformers.

The Hamilton Herald, an independent Conservative newspaper, is inclined to the opinion that Mr. Rowell is right in holding to the principle that the money for development work in Northern Ontario should be voted by the legislature from time to time as it is required.

Under the contract with the company it was stipulated that 5 per cent of the work should be done within three months of the signing of the contract.

The campaign slogan of the political machine which dominates Victoria was during the entire campaign "We must elect Beckwith because we can handle him."

TRADE WITHIN EMPIRE.

A report issued by the British Board of Trade affords some instructive comparisons respecting the trade between the Mother Country, the overseas dominions and with other continental countries.

The figures show that the total of exports to Germany amounts to no less than $26,505,000. But that to Australia is second, amounting to $15,405,000, considerably surpassing that to the United States, which is only $13,000,000.

That is to say, as a general purchaser, Australia is more valuable to the British nation than any other country except Germany, while as a patron of British manufactures, which are the most important part of the British trade, Australia is the most valuable of all.

The Winnipeg Telegram, a protectionist organ, deduces a moral from these figures, but we cannot see that it lies in the straight line of logical deduction. It says:

the demand for imperial preference or for an imperial customs union for protection against the outside world is obvious. With the rapid development of the overseas dominions it will not be many years before the best market for British manufacturers will be in those dominions.

Our own deduction is that if these figures prove anything they prove that free trade England does a bigger business with protected countries than these do among themselves.

One of two things must be obvious, if tariffs regulate trade relations to the extent suggested by the deduction of the Winnipeg paper, the thing for Canada to do in order to multiply her foreign commerce would be to adopt free trade.

Perhaps before the British people get through with their analysis of the report of their Board of Trade they will have another thought or two about adopting the proposals of the Tariff Reformers.

$200,000 a year of interest will have to be paid by the province. Nothing like preparing the people for the shock.

The Toronto World, which is of the faith, believes that there will be a Dominion election at an early date. It came to such a conclusion at the close of the session. It believes that Mr. Borden made a mistake in not introducing a redistribution bill and a real tariff measure during the recent session.

Six of the seven Australian provinces have adopted in some form or other the principle of government advances in order to settle the people upon the land. In New Zealand the experiment has been attended with marked success.

NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP.

By Katherine Dangerfield. Day was done, and I was sitting Dreaming in the fading light When I heard a soft voice tell me "Mamma, me is tired to-night, Me is tired of all day playin'— Put my soldiers all away: Tell the pussy 'at me's sleepy, But to-morrow me will play."

On my bed I climbed and nestled, Laid his head upon my breast, Said he loved his small gray pussy, But he loved his mamma best. Then I sang a by-lady, Gave him to the Angels' keep And he went to dreamland saying, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

On the hearth, through many years, Staunch and steadfast for my sake, Soldiers still await the morning, When their captain shall awake, Pussy, old and blind and lame, Sits beside me while I weep For the little boy who said: "Now I lay me down to sleep."

From Harper's Weekly. "How does it happen that you are five minutes late at school this morning?" the teacher, asked, severely. "Please, ma'am," said William, "I must have overwashed myself."

Ivy Club Dance.—A complimentary Flannel Dance will be given to the members of the Ivy Club on Monday evening, April 22. It will close a most successful series of dances which have been very popular and needless to say this one will not be among the least.

If you want good auto service phone the new auto and taxi cab stand, 2310, corner Fort and Douglas streets.

Owls Meet To-night.—Members of the Order of Owls, Nest 1383, are reminded of the regular meeting to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the A. O. F. hall, Broad street. Initiation will be put on, and at the conclusion of the meeting a mock auction will be held to which the members are requested to contribute parcels.

Money to Loan.—We have money to loan at 8% interest on improved city residence property on easy repayment terms. Builders will do well to inquire. The B. C. Permanent Loan Co., 1210 Government St.

Firemen's Dance.—The firemen will hold their last monthly dance of the season at headquarters to-morrow night. Arrangements have been made which will insure this dance being a big success. Those having invitations are promised a good time.

St. John's Entertainment.—An entertainment will be held in the St. John's Sunday school room on Friday evening next, April 26. The Western Star Amateur Dramatic Club will present the play "Her Gloves," and there will also be instrumental and vocal selections during the evening. Refreshments will be served at the close of the entertainment. All scholars and their parents and parishioners of St. John's are invited.

Hanna & Thomson, Pandora Ave.—Leading funeral furnishing house. Connections, Vancouver, New Westminster and Winnipeg.

Appeal for Stewardesses.—In his appeal for subscriptions for the widows of the officers and crew of the ill-fated Titanic, Dean Doull yesterday called attention to the fact that a number of stewardesses went down with the doomed vessel, as being part of the crew, they remained behind at their posts when the boat sank. For the dependent relatives of these women, who were also called, as it was known that many of the women assisted in supporting others.

Reopened Studio.—Prof. Claudio has returned and has reopened his studio at 1894 Cook street (corner North Park), and will hold the usual orchestra practise on Sunday evenings from 7 to 9 p. m. All amateurs are invited to attend.

Complimentary Concert.—One of the best programmes of a Scottish concert ever arranged under the auspices of the First Presbyterian church choir will be given to-morrow evening next in the hall of the church, when it is expected that the building will be filled to overflowing both on account of the merit of the entertainment and the object for which it is being given. Among those taking part will be found such well known fun-makers as J. Melville and J. Dobie; among the lady vocalists will be Mrs. G. A. Downard of the Metropolitan Methodist church choir; Mrs. Wentworth, Mrs. Perry, Miss Watson, Miss Harkness and Miss Sexsmith, all of First Presbyterian church choir; Mrs. J. B. Callen and Miss Andrews, the latter a recent arrival in Victoria, will recite. Highland piping and dancing by Norman McDonald and Miss Christie; trios and quartettes, in which Messrs. Redman, Fraser, Petrie and Brown will take part; selections by Mr. Plowright's orchestra; vocal solos by Geo. Brown, J. G. Brown; violin selections by Mr. Henghan; part songs by First Presbyterian church choir, and accompaniments by Mrs. Lewis Hall will make a bill of fare very hard for the Scottish folk of Victoria to resist partaking of.

ENJOYABLE SALE OF WORK

Was Held in Christ Church School-room on Saturday.

An interesting and successful tea and sale of work was held in Christ Church Cathedral schoolroom on Saturday afternoon last by the Girls' branch of the Women's Auxiliary, as a result of which about $140 was paid over to the treasurer at the end of the afternoon.

The sale was opened by the Very Rev. Dean of Columbia, who, in a few well chosen words, explained the objects for which the girls were working. The usually cold and cheerless schoolroom had, through the efforts of the members, been completely transformed, and presented a most attractive appearance. Jonquills, daffodils and tulips had been tastefully arranged in moss, adding a real touch of spring to the surroundings.

Immediately on entering the room, the visitor was confronted with five damsels in Welch costumes (not forgetting the hat)—Misses P. Wollaston, W. Anthony, D. Frampton, M. Muir, and N. Shi, who were selling candy in charming boxes which had been made by these ladies. The stall was most artistically arranged with green and yellow streamers, gathered into loops terminating in Prince of Wales plumes and motto.

The Irish fancy work stall, decorated green and white, was in charge of Miss Cooke, ably assisted by the Misses Wollaston, Frampton, Barlow and Armstrong. These "colleens" were kept hard at work all the afternoon, disposing of the varied articles.

Over the English fishpond waved "the flag that's braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze," and the angling was presided over by Miss Morton and Miss Hill, who were gracefully attired in Union Jack costumes.

Tea, under the direction of Miss Hill, was served in a portion of the room screened off by trellis work in red and yellow, in which gorse and broom had been effectively employed. Mrs. Love and Mrs. Pearce poured, and the waitresses, the Misses Jones, Wootton, Anthony, Choate, M. Frampton, F. Bagg, and Miss Hill, attended in white with the Scotch national emblems, were doing great business.

A gramophone, very kindly supplied and operated during the entire afternoon by Mr. Fulham, discoursed sweet music, which added greatly to the pleasure of the company.

MUNICIPAL OFFICERS.

Changes in Personnel Have Been Frequent—New Officials Necessary.

The changes in the ranks of the civic officials have been considerable of late. This year has seen a change in the city solicitorship, after F. A. McDiarmid had held office for a couple of years, and a change in the engineering department is also anticipated, when Mr. Smith's term runs out at the end of May. Now comes the resignation of Dr. Hanks, who was appointed from 46 applicants when the new Carnegie library was opened on its present site, as librarian of the new building, which in seven years has completely outgrown its accommodation.

The reorganization of the civic departments, which has been slowly effected, will entail other changes, such as the appointment of Mr. Galt as purchasing agent as well as storekeeper, a natural combination of offices, and of the appointment of a building inspector when those duties are removed from Mr. Northcott. New officials have become necessary with the increase of the city's work, and for the first time in the estimates the council has passed a vote for an analyst. An assistant medical officer is to be appointed, though his salary will be a private arrangement between the medical officer and his deputy. A land purchasing agent becomes a permanent appointment with so many widening schemes going through, and other officers will be required, as the city progresses and steps into the new development which the twentieth century has in store for her.

CHEAP THINGS.

Everybody likes to buy things that are cheap, provided the article is good; but it must be remembered that very often things that appear to be cheap at first are dear in the end, while others not so cheap at first sight, are the cheapest in the long run. It is the "long run" that counts. A contractor of Victoria took out a life insurance policy in the year 1887 in the Mutual Life of Canada, on the limited payment life plan. Had the policy become a claim by death at any time during the period, his wife would have received the full face value of the policy, and for the protection thus afforded him during the 24 years, the actual average annual cost has been at the rate of $12.50 per $1,000, so that even for the protection afforded, if nothing more, this insurance has proved to be cheap. But that is not all; for in addition to being protected for 24 years, should the policy-holder now wish to take the cash value for his policy, he can draw $173 in gold coin for every $100 he has paid the company; and further, should he wish to keep the insurance policy, it is paid up in full for its face value (an amount more than three times what he has paid in premiums); no more premiums to be paid and instead he himself receives an annual cash dividend on the policy as long as he lives, and the full face of the policy will be paid at his death.

Such grand results as these are only to be obtained in the Mutual Life of Canada.

Full particulars of the above mentioned policy can be seen in the records of our office, 915 Government street, The Mutual Life of Canada.

Church of Our Lord Service.—At the Reformed Episcopal church yesterday morning the Rev. T. W. Gladstone preached from the text, "There is sorrow on the Sea." Several appropriate hymns were sung, including "Nearer My God to Thee," "Glorious Father Strong to Save," "God Moves in a Mysterious Way," while special hymns and lessons were given. Mr. Gladstone preached an eloquent and impressive address on the terrible calamity.

MRS. DALY'S ADDRESS.

Lady National Director A.O.H. Spoke Here Yesterday.

A large and representative gathering of the Catholic ladies of the city met last night in the Institute hall, View street, to hear an address by Mrs. M. Daly, of Minneapolis, national treasurer of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The chair was taken by Right Rev. Bishop McDonald, who was supported on the platform by President McLernan and officers of Division No. 1, A.O. H. Victoria.

Mrs. Daly, on rising to speak, was accorded a very flattering reception; her subject, "Aims and Objects of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians," was most ably and eloquently delivered, and received the close attention of the large audience present.

His Lordship Bishop McDonald spoke strongly in favor of the formation of a branch of this society here, and Messrs. McKenna, McLernan, Shanahan and Carroll also advocated the project. After a hearty vote of thanks had been accorded the speaker of the evening the meeting concluded with the enrolment of a large number of candidates.

The formal organization and initiation of candidates will take place to-night in the A.O.H. Club rooms, St. Louis College, Pandora street, when the election of officers will take place.

CITY AND CEMENT.

Gang From Smith's Hill Refused to Handle Cement When Longshoremen's Case is Presented.

The differences of opinion between the Longshoremen's Union and the Vancouver-Portland Cement Company spread to the handling of cement for the city last week-end, as the longshoremen refused to handle the cement on order for the concrete being put in at Smith's Hill reservoir.

The city accordingly sent down a gang of cement workers to unload the best cement, but on the men discovering that the longshoremen, who are also affiliated to the Trades and Labor Council, were refusing to handle the material, they also declined the work, and the city had to take other means of securing cement. The longshoremen's grievance dates back to Good Friday, when there was trouble over the payment of extra time for a holiday, and since then the longshoremen have held aloof from handling material of this company.

The longshoremen are bitter over the trouble with the company, which at present appears to afford little prospect of settlement.

Giants Won in Eleven Innings

Seattle, April 21.—In one of the most exciting eleven-inning games ever seen in Seattle, Seattle defeated Portland to-day 3 to 2. With the score 1 to 1 in the eleventh and one man out, Portland got two men on bases and Mentor scored on Strait's infield out. Cruckshank, batting for McMullin, opened for Seattle with a safe hit. Raymond walked and the two next men went out. Stidello came to bat and, after two strikes and three balls had been thrown, hit the next ball pitched for two bases, scoring Barry, who ran for Cruckshank, and Raymond, winning the game.

U. S. MARATHON TEAM. Announced After Saturday's Boston A. Race in Which Ryan Set New Record.

Boston, April 22.—The team of long-distance runners which will represent the United States at the Olympic marathon race at Stockholm, July 14, was announced Saturday night, following the sixteenth running of the Boston Athletic Association's marathon race.

Michael J. Ryan, Irish-American A. C., New York, winner of the race, heads the list of eight runners.

The certain members of the team are: Andrew Sockalexis, the Old Town, Me., Indian, running with Thomas H. Lilley, another choice, under the colors of the North Dorchester A. A.; Fritz Carlson, Minneapolis; Harry F. Jenson, Pastime A. C., New York; Richard F. Pignott, Medford; John J. Gallagher, Yale University; and Sidney Hatch, of Chicago.

Clarence H. Demar, of the North Dorchester Club, last year's Boston A. A. winner and holder of the record which Ryan broke Saturday; Lewis Townanna, of Carlisle Indian school, and L. Hillivant, of Chicago, probably will be chosen, it was said by the officials, and the winners of the New York Evening Mail modified marathon race and the Los Angeles marathon run also will be made members of the team.

Ryan ran the twenty-five miles Saturday in two hours, twenty-one minutes and eighteen seconds, a one-fifth second. The former record was two hours twenty-one minutes and thirty-nine and three-fifths seconds, held by Clarence Demar.

Andrew Sockalexis ran a close second to Ryan and missed equalling Demar's record by fourteen seconds.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL SHOOT.

The first shoot of the University school cadets was held at Clover Point Saturday morning. Capt. Crawford was high man with 60 out of 70, thus winning a silver spoon presented by Mr. Harvey. The scores were as follows:

Capt. R. Crawford, 60; Col.-Sgt. C. Wirtg, 56; Band Sgt. N. York, 56; Sgt. G. Tupper, 53; Capt. H. Wade, 52; Batt. Sgt. Maj. C. Creery, 51; Cadet J. Stewart, 50; Lieut. J. Anderson, 49; Sergt. R. Wallis, 46; Cadet R. Wagner, 34.

NANAIMO UNITED WINS.

Nanaimo United defeated Nanaimo City in an Island League football fixture yesterday five goals to one.

SPORT NOTES

The Garden Athletic Club, of New York, has posted $2,000 to insure the meeting in the ring of Packey McFarland and Matt Wells next Friday night.

By winning the Los Angeles Times' modified Marathon of twelve miles in one hour, twelve minutes and eight seconds Saturday, Philip Zeayouma, of the Sherman Indian school, not only established what officials said to be a new world's record for cross-country running for twelve miles, but probably insured himself a place on the United States team of runners that will be sent to compete in the Olympic games in Stockholm.

If Johnny Coulon, king of the banian weights, isn't a game fighter there aren't any in the game to-day. Recently Coulon returned to Chicago from a trip which took him to California and New Orleans. He fought and defeated tough Frankie Copley at Los Angeles, then hurried to the Crescent City, where he won a decision over Frankie Burns.

Shortly after Wolganst and Rivers had signed articles at Los Angeles Tommy Ryan, the undefeated middle-weight champion of the world, entered the club's quarters. McCarey approached him and asked him if he would act as referee of the bout. "No, I won't," said Ryan, "I don't like Wolganst or Jones and I would be a prejudiced person, so I cannot do it."

CRICKET

VICTORIA C. C. DEFEAT OAK BAY PLAYING IN DRIZZLING RAIN—ALBIONS MEET DEFEAT.

It must be confessed that Saturday was not an ideal day for cricket. The chill in the air and drizzling rain made fielding uncomfortable and difficult work. But notwithstanding these conditions some interesting cricket was played, when Victoria met Oak Bay at the Jubilee grounds and secured a well deserved victory over a strong home side by four wickets and four runs. For Victoria the first and last wickets put on half the runs, Mr. Greenhill disposed of half the team for 33 runs.

With a formidable list of bowlers against them one would have thought the visitors would have fallen an easy prey. Capt. Horton kept up the real spirit of the early tests by trying out his new material, which seemingly cost him the game. On the other hand Oak Bay played such an excellent game in the field and at the bat to give promise of even greater things to come. Blandy and Cooper were the not outs, with 29 and 20 to their respective credits.

Garrison Start With Win.

As usual the Garrison started with a win at Work Point, defeating the Albions by about 48 runs. Skipper Scott was top scorer with 18, none of his clubmates getting into double figures. It is hardly necessary to say Q. M. S. Askey secured most of the Albion wickets. Capt. Foulkes scored 42 and Sergt. Roterson 32.

Prince George Comes South in Fast Time—Brings Brother of Mr. Hays

Cutting three hours off her regular time for the run the Grand Trunk Pacific steamer Prince George, Capt. Frank Saunders, which arrived here yesterday morning reached Vancouver on Saturday night at 6 o'clock from Prince Rupert after one of the fastest trips of the season. The vessel was driven at a faster gait in order that she might make the Terminal City in time to permit David Hays, of Prince Rupert, who is in charge of the land department of the G. T. P. in British Columbia, and who is a brother of Charles M. Hays, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster, to catch the east-bound train on Saturday night. Mr. Hays will proceed to the home of his brother in Montreal, where Mrs. Hays and her daughter have arrived.

After making her regular run to Seattle yesterday the George sailed from here this morning for Prince Rupert. She had a good crowd of passengers and among those who joined the vessel here were the following: Miss Anna Williams, Miss Sadie Roy, J. C. Kinghorn, E. P. Farling, Mr. and Mrs. Y. Basse Bort, H. A. Miller, Duncan Ross, E. J. Tingley, G. H. Franklin, W. L. Flewin, J. W. Baker, W. Love, D. Robertson, H. Jones, Mr. McConnell, J. B. Shaw, Mrs. J. M. Shaw, Mrs. J. M. Squire, Mrs. W. Fiddle, C. M. Squire, S. C. Stephenson, F. Wurim, M. Albert and G. H. Brown.

W. E. Duperon, general agent of the passenger department for southern British Columbia, came over on the George yesterday, accompanied by Harold Brown, dock agent at Vancouver, who like Mr. Duperon also held a position in connection with the G. T. P. in Victoria. Neither of the officials can forget the capital-city and they are forced to pay frequent visits to the town.

The offices of the Grand Trunk here have been draped in mourning for the company's late chief. The flags on all the steamers of the company have been lowered to half-mast and also the flag on the docks here.

FINE FREIGHTER IN PORT FROM ENGLAND

Craftsman Will Discharge 500 Tons—To Take Lumber—Arragon To-morrow

Finishing her long voyage from European ports to Victoria in the Harrison Direct Service the new steamship Craftsman, Capt. Maycock, tied up at the outer docks shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. The steamship had a good run up the coast from San Francisco and is the twelfth of the Harrison boats to arrive since the service was inaugurated last June. Coming around from the United Kingdom via the Straits of Magellan the Craftsman met fairly good weather throughout and what few storms were experienced were weathered in fine style by the big craft.

Capt. Maycock, who is master of the freighter, will be remembered by Victoria shippers as skipper of the Centurion, which was the first of the Harrison steamships to come here. He likes the run, and when the Craftsman was placed in service he was made commander of her, much to his own enjoyment. The big four-master will remain in port for several days, as she has to discharge not only 500 tons of iron, cement and general merchandise, but she is to take on 150,000 feet of lumber. At Sound ports when she has finished discharging she will take on a large shipment of wheat for the Old Country.

The Craftsman is the finest Harrison boat which has visited Victoria, and as a freighter it would be difficult to find a more modern and up-to-date vessel than the four-master. She is of 6,195 tons, and is 150 feet long, 52.6 beam and 31 feet depth.

ARRAGON WAS DAMAGED

Another Harrison liner is coming here; the Crown of Arragon, and the local agents expect that she will dock about 5 o'clock this afternoon. She left San Francisco about twelve hours before the Craftsman. The Arragon escaped destruction narrowly in a hurricane encountered in the Bay of Biscay. The vessel was sent limping into one of the channel ports and had to undergo extensive repairs before proceeding. Captain Prentice, master of the vessel, was injured badly by a sea that seriously damaged the bridge on which he was standing. He was sent to the hospital and Captain Herschel, who is bringing the steamship here, was placed in command.

The Crown of Arragon left Lethbridge December 2, and December 6 in the Bay of Biscay encountered the storm that wrought all the damage. Heavy seas swept the decks. Ventilators were torn out, stanchions bent, the bridge damaged, steam pipes carried away and the cabins flooded. It was with great difficulty that the freighter made her way to Falmouth, where she arrived December 23. Temporary repairs were made there and December 28 the Crown of Arragon left for Avonmouth to be dry-docked for survey and repairs.

HEAD LIGHTS

The British ship Coys is reported arriving at Valparaiso from New York on Wednesday last.

Bound for North Pacific ports the steamship Gifford, operating in the East Asiatic Steamship Company's service, left London on April 13, according to advices received here on Saturday.

With a cargo of coals for Santa Rosalia the German barque Adelaide left Hamburg on March 31. She may come to the Sound to load cargo for the United Kingdom.

Belated telegrams received from Hull announce the arrival of the British ship Celticburn from Puget Sound on April 15. Much anxiety was felt for the windjammer as she met with an accident off this coast shortly after clearing from the Sound.

The steamer Princess Victoria, Capt. Hickey, made a smart run from Seattle today. She left Seattle half an hour late, having been held to permit the Victoria ball players to make the trip, but was tied up at the docks before 1 o'clock. The Victoria was exactly three hours and thirty-seven minutes from dock to dock, the exact time from West Point to Broche, the former where she was opened out and the latter where she was slowed down, being just over the three-hour mark. The old time has thus been beaten yet.

REVISION OF ACTS GREAT NECESSITY

TITANIC CATASTROPHE SHOWS UP WEAKNESSES

More Lifeboats Should Be Carried—Local Ships Away Ahead of Requirements

The Times on Saturday contained the announcement of J. Bruce Ismay, the managing director of the International Mercantile Marine Company, that instruction had been given for all the company's trans-Atlantic ships to be equipped with sufficient life-boats and life-saving craft generally to accommodate all passengers and crew.

The other companies have already placed additional life-boats on their vessels.

The terrible calamity of the sea has disclosed the total inadequacy of the British Board of Trade regulations in the light of the development of modern ship-building and these regulations, which in almost identical the same form prevail in Canada, have come in for trenchant criticism. The need of a greater number of life-boats on these leviathans, in order to accommodate and protect the lives of all the passengers, in case of disaster is one of the vital questions which now will be dealt with by the various governments.

It is almost impossible to understand the fact that the Titanic carried no more life-boats than would be required to care for the passengers which the licence permits the Princess Charlotte to carry. The steamship companies cannot legally be held responsible for the catastrophe, as they comply with the requirements of the law, and moreover, endeavor to construct their vessels on such lines as to render them practically unsinkable. They, however, could never foresee such a catastrophe as that which has just appalled the world.

If the Titanic had carried sufficient boats to accommodate her licensed number of passengers there would have been but small loss of life if any at all. According to figures which have been wired to all parts of the world the Titanic was capable of accommodating in her life-boats less than one thousand passengers. She had been granted a licence by the Board of Trade, having been inspected and found to comply in every respect with the requirements, to carry almost 5,000 persons, and had she her full complement aboard on her fateful trip across the Atlantic, it is horrible even to think of what would have happened.

It is a sad and costly lesson which has been taught the nations of the world and in order that a repetition of it may not occur, it is imperative that active steps be taken immediately. The inquiry now being held in New York is revealing many facts in connection with the navigation of a vessel and the life-saving equipment carried by steamships, but the confidence of the public in the safety of crossing the ocean by water will not be wholly restored until many of the clauses in the Board of Trade rules and regulations are amended.

In a Board of Trade regulations provision is made for vessels up to only 10,000 tons, and since the big 40,000-ton liners have been built the rules have not been revised. The following is taken from the regulations dealing with the number of boats required to be carried by a steamer in either the deep sea or coasting trades, and these, by the way, govern shipping in Canadian waters:

| Gross Tonnage. | Minimum Number of Boats to be placed under Davits. |

| 5,000 | 10 |
| 4,750 | 10 |
| 4,500 | 8 |
| 4,250 | 8 |
| 4,000 | 8 |
| 3,750 | 8 |
| 3,500 | 8 |

Dealing with the kind of lifeboats which must be carried by a vessel, the regulations provide that one half must consist of boats built as follows: "A boat of this section shall be a lifeboat of whale-boat form, properly constructed of wood or metal, having for every 10 cubic feet of her capacity, computed as in rule (2), at least 1 cubic foot of strong and serviceable inclosed air-tight compartments, so constructed that water cannot find its way into them. In the case of metal boats an addition will have to be made to the cubic capacity of the air-tight compartments, so as to give them buoyancy equal to that of the wooden boat."

The remainder of the lifeboats may consist of boats built as follows: "A boat of this section shall be a lifeboat of whale-boat form, properly constructed of wood or metal, having inclosed and outside buoyancy apparatus together equal in efficiency to the buoyancy apparatus provided for a boat of section (a). At least one-half of the buoyancy apparatus must be attached to the outside of the boat."

In section 22 of part VIII, of the regulations, regarding life-rafts is the following: "If the boats placed under davits in accordance with the above requirements do not furnish sufficient accommodation for all persons on board, then additional wood, metal, galvanized, or other boats of approved description (whether placed under davits or otherwise), or approved life-rafts, of approved buoyant deck fittings, shall be carried at least such cubical capacity that they and the boats required to be placed under davits by the table provide together in the aggregate one-half more than the minimum cubic contents provided by column 3 of the table. For this purpose 3 cubic feet of air case in the life-raft is to be estimated as 10 cubic feet of internal capacity; provided always that the rafts will accommodate the persons for which they are certified under the rules, and also have 3 cubic feet of air case for each person."

Section 31, which also deals with life-rafts, contains the following: "The number of persons that any approved life-raft for use at sea shall be deemed to be capable of carrying shall be determined with reference to each separate pattern approved by the Board of Steamboat Inspection; provided always, that for every person so carried there shall be at least three cubic feet of strong and serviceable inclosed air-tight compartments, which shall be so constructed that water cannot find its way into them. Any approved life-raft of other construction may be used, provided that it has equivalent buoyancy to that hereinbefore described. Every such approved life-raft shall be marked in such a way as to plainly indicate the number of adult persons it can carry."

It is interesting to note that the officials of the C. P. R. and G. T. P. companies have done more than the regulations call for in equipping their steamers on this coast with life-saving apparatus. Steamers like the Princess Charlotte, Prince Rupert, Prince George, Princess Adelaide and Princess Alice rank in the under 3,250-ton class and are thereby required to carry eight lifeboats. The Charlotte, Adelaide and Alice carry ten medium-size metallic lifeboats 22 feet long, while the Prince Rupert and Prince George have eight large metallic boats, 28 feet long with copper air cases, and two smaller wooden boats, which are known as work boats. Besides these lifeboats and life-rafts are carried and the lifeboats are numerous. All the passenger boats are equipped with life-rafts. It would be remembered that the aforementioned vessels travel on courses within easy reach of land.

BODY WASHED ASHORE

Nanaimo, April 22.—The body of Charles Lowe, who had been missing five weeks, was washed ashore yesterday at Boat Harbor. Deceased, who was forty years of age, was employed by the Pacific Coast Coal Co. as wharfman at Boat Harbor. He was last seen leaving a ship which was supposed to have fallen overboard. He is survived by his wife and two children, who reside here.

The City of Great Possibilities

SIDNEY

The
Pasadena of Victoria

LIVES there a man on this Island who cannot see that the great developments now going on will eventually mean the building of more cities at advantageous points. Can't you see that the growth of Victoria is bound to have a marked influence on the growth of the Saanich Peninsula. Can't you see that eighteen miles out is just far enough away to admit of the building of another city? And where can you find a more beautiful spot, or one more adapted for your purpose? Nature has done everything to make it an ideal location for a city. Man must do the rest. The city slopes gently to the water, and provides excellent drainage. The absence of rock in the formation makes the laying of sewers an inexpensive matter. A breakwater for a short distance would make available more deep water dockage than any other point on the Island.

Electric car service and electric lights, with the added feature of cheap power, is bound to prove a magnet to small manufacturers. The growth of the town depends entirely on the progressiveness of her citizens, and I assure you they are tackling the problem in the most approved and aggressive manner.

Sidney will make good with a vengeance, and before you realize it will be a prosperous city of a few thousand people.

We have some choice building lots in the residential portion.

We have some excellent buys in business property.

And at prices that will make you handsome returns.

Our Sidney office is well equipped with a good selling force.

Full information as to prices, conditions, etc., can be had from either our Victoria or Sidney offices.

RAILROAD CONTRACTORS HERE.
P. Welch and Others in City on Government Business.
P. Welch, the well known railroad contractor, and member of the firm of Foley, Welch & Stewart, is in the city. He arrived yesterday afternoon, accompanied by A. R. Mann, president of the Northern Construction Company, and D. McPhee, another contractor, engaged in the construction of the Canadian Northern Pacific on the mainland. They are here to interview the acting premier, Hon. W. J. Bowser, on departmental business.
To a Times representative yesterday Mr. Welch said that Foley, Welch & Stewart were now gathering their surveying corps together, preparatory to starting the preliminary work, in connection with the Pacific & Great Eastern railway from Vancouver to Fort George. Actual construction he expects will begin next summer. A considerable amount of surveying at both ends of the proposed line has already been done by the Grand Trunk Pacific people.
Mr. Welch believes the construction will be heavy, especially along the Fraser river which the road will follow for several hundred miles.
Three years will be required to complete the line.
The firm of Foley, Welch & Stewart, which operates in different spheres under various names is one of the most extensive combination of railroad contractors in the world. Besides building the entire British Columbia portion and part of the prairie section of the G. T. P., they operate, at times, very largely in the United States. Just now they are building a branch road for the "Soo" line.

DESERT YIELDS ITS HIDDEN STORY
GREAT ARCHAEOLOGIST IS NOW IN VICTORIA

Professor C. T. Currelly, Visiting City—Will Lecture This Evening

The work of the archaeologist is in many respects the most dangerous, and the most wonderful in the world, and apart from all pecuniary gain whatsoever, full of the greatest rewards. It is his labor to wrest from the earth her story, to read in the sands of Egypt the ancient history of the great people who trod them thousands of years ago, and to compile from the discoveries that he makes, the annals of that race. All knowledge of the kings before the first dynasty, and of that of the second dynasty in the ancient land of Egypt is entirely derived from the discoveries of objects in the royal tombs of Abydos, from the deposit of Hierakonpolis, and from historic lists on a few monuments of a later date.
Of the men who have helped in this great work, one of the greatest is a guest in Victoria to-day, and will address a meeting to-night at the Y. M. C. A. building. Professor C. T. Currelly, who is here in the course of a lecturing tour under the auspices of the Ontario government, has had a very distinguished career, and has spent many years in Egypt and Palestine, particularly at Abydos, and his name is also associated with probably the most wonderful archaeological discovery of modern times, namely that of the statue of Hathor, the mother goddess, in whom the Greeks recognized their Aphrodite.
His First Discovery.
Seen by a Times representative this morning, the professor gave some interesting accounts of the work in which he has played so prominent a part. His first discovery was in the ruins of an old fortress, which with a small band of Egyptian helpers he was looking over. Several feet under the sand he found the mummy of a little child, belonging to the period about 1500 B. C. The child was evidently of rich parents, for in her arms were several dolls made of Cypriot clay, evidently by the hand of a Cypriot workman. Buried with her he found a great deal of valuable jewelry, including eight or ten necklaces, which were placed under the child's cheek, and on her fingers were several valuable rings.
The Tombs of Abydos.
Up to a year or two ago Professor Currelly was working for the Egyptian Exploration Fund, the society which has done more than any other body extant towards shedding light on the dark pages of the history of these ancient peoples. Operations with them were always on a large scale, and hundreds of men were employed as diggers in the caves and tombs of Abydos, where the professor's most important work was done. A light railway was generally constructed to carry away the debris. Sometimes the work had to be carried on five or six hundred feet underground, and was always attended with great danger, owing to the fact that out of every thousand tombs the archaeologist encounters, quite nine hundred had already been tampered with by bands of Roman soldiers, when the Legions swept Upper Egypt in the golden age of the Roman Empire. Out of the remaining hundred usually about fifty have been sacked by bands of predatory Egyptians intent upon treasure, and a very small percentage is left for the archaeologist. Sometimes horrible sights were witnessed when they reached the hidden mausoleums of these ancient people, as ruthless hands had ripped the mummies to look for treasures inside the bodies, had cut off the fingers to obtain the rings, and bracelets and had committed other sacrilege too terrible to describe.
Arduous Work.
The arduous work of excavation was always done in the winter days, and as soon as the spring came on the work was abandoned until the following winter. This was because the heat was far too intense to permit of it, the temperature rising even at that season of the year to 120 degrees in the shade, while at night the thermometer often rose for weeks on end to 110 degrees. As has been said, Professor Currelly's work was mostly done in Lower Egypt. He around Abydos and in the Thebaid. He has also paid two visits to Sinia. He has been engaged principally on the study of the life of the people, and in time he has made some most important and interesting discoveries.
The Tomb of Pharaoh.
One of these was the tomb of Aahmes the First, the Pharaoh "who knew Joseph." It is interesting to note that in the museum of Toronto is to be found a gold dagger belonging to the same ruler, which has been added in recent years. Another discovery was the unearthing, in a single day at Abydos, of over six hundred statuettes from a cave.
His Greatest Success.
But of all the professor's achievements the greatest undoubtedly was the finding, in conjunction with Naville of Geneva, of the statue of Hathor, made in the year 1475 B. C., at Derr Bahri, or "the Northern Convent." This famous goddess, who is the Aahthorah mentioned in Holy Writ, is portrayed in the form of a cow, and represents universal motherhood, and when discovered, was found with hundreds of gifts laid before her—jewels and precious stones of every description, of turquoise, which being the love-song, was the thing most precious in the eyes of the ancient Egyptians, of the apique emerald, amethyst, garnet, and sardonyx. All these were found in great profusion before the image of the great goddess before which thousands of mortals had prostrated themselves in the burning sands of the desert. The statue itself was taken to the museum at Cairo, and the dedication stone of the monastery in which it was found was brought by Professor Currelly to Toronto, where, with its quaint hieroglyphics, it can be seen to-day.

A Life of Danger.
As an example of the many risks run by an archaeologist in the performance of his duties, an adventure which happened to Professor Currelly just before the Turkish rebellion in Algeria, is illustrative. He was proceeding with a party of thirty well-trained Egyptian helpers to some important excavations in the Holy Land, when the party was captured by Turkish forces under Akabir. Threats and cajolery were of no avail. They were confined in their tent and a strong guard of sentries was placed right round it at a distance of only three feet between each man. The heat was terrible. The professor tried bribery on the officer, and offered large sums of money if he would allow the party to go free, but the officer had evidently had his orders and would listen to nothing. The young Turkish soldiers were good enough fellows, but they dared not disobey, and there the party were obliged to stay. It was explained to the professor that they did not believe he was a scientist, but a spy of the British government. By the time their imprisonment was ended the professor was in a dreadful state. On his body he counted 22 running sores. Even then they were made to go across the great T desert, the continued strain of the journey and the jolting of the camel told on the professor so much that when he reached Cairo he was on the verge of collapse. He made his report, and then broke down completely, and his heart beating like a trip-hammer for the same reason. An amusing sequel to the incident was that when the British government heard of his imprisonment, after his recovery, the war office sent for him, and so much had he learned during his enforced stay in the Turkish camp, that he was able to give them every bit of information that they wished.
Discoveries of Value.
"The bigger the work," said Professor Currelly, "the less there is in the way of interest attached to it, as the big work is generally taken up manual labor, and mechanical manipulation becomes all-important" things of colossal value are sometimes found in very small diggings, often when the archaeologist himself is not present. The professor mentioned a case in point that happened a few years ago. He was attending the building of a light railway, and superintending the gangs of men engaged on its construction. At the various points of excavation his assistants were looking after the debris. One of his most important treasures, a picture, was found on this occasion, and he did not know of its discovery until some days afterwards. Speaking of his helpers in the work, the professor said that the Egyptians were the best diggers but they were very cowardly, and when they wanted men of grit and courage he always turned to the Fuzzy-Wuzzies, who were afraid of nothing on earth. He had become very friendly with the tribe, and in fact, had been made one of them; and though this often entailed some inconvenience, yet in a time of stress he could be always certain of having a band of brave warriors at his back.
Professor Currelly has now given up, for the time at least, the work of active research along the line on which he has gained such a well-earned reputation, and he is now giving the benefit of his labors to the world. From Victoria, he will pass on to Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg. His subjects are "The Exodus of the Hebrews" and the "Tombs of Egypt." Victorians have a treat in store for them this evening in listening to the account of work of absorbing interest, done in the glare of the desert by an enthusiast and a man at the very top of his profession.

WEALTH OF FRANCE.
Even in England it is doubtful whether the general public, as apart from the great financial houses, could in one day put down £75,000,000 in applications for an issue of state bonds. Yet in France 105,000 persons lodged this huge sum on application for an issue of £12,000,000, a new railway loan guaranteed by the government to cover the expenses of improving the unfortunate Western State Railway. The bonds were for £20, bearing 4 per cent. interest, and were issued at three francs premium. Four pounds were payable on application, and the loan was subscribed for 32½ times over. The actual deposits were more than six times the total amount of the loan, and the government will at once return to subscribers, for more than 100 shares such proportions of their deposits as will not be required. This is in accordance with the practice of the French government to favor small capitalists, and it is good policy, for there is scarcely a peasant in France who has not a financial interest in the stability of the Republic.

MAY SEND U. S. CRUISER TO MEXICO

Many Americans Are Isolated and Unable to Escape—Revolution Spreads

Washington, D. C., April 22.—President Taft probably will send a warship to the west coast of Mexico to enable Americans isolated in Sinaloa and other states to leave the disturbed districts. A state department announcement Saturday declared this action likely in view of anxiety for Americans in those localities.

State department officials pointed out that with the suspension of railroad communication and the interruption of telegraphic service American citizens on the west coast of Mexico, especially at Los Mochis, in Sinaloa, where there are many Americans, as well as in the vicinity of Mazatlan, are isolated. This fact, together with many reports of increased lawlessness on the west coast, is causing much anxiety to Americans in the region affected and to their friends in the United States.

The armored cruiser Maryland, now at San Diego, Cal., probably will be the vessel selected.

Sinaloa in Rebel Hands

El Paso, Texas, April 22.—According to advices a week old, but just received here, the entire state of Sinaloa, like that of Chihuahua, is in rebel hands.

Thirty Americans who had concentrated at the Rhoades ranch at Navolato and had planned to escape to an island in the event of fighting, probably did so and by this time, it is thought, have been rescued by a boat which it was planned to send them from Guaymas at the time the advices arriving were mailed.

The fear of the Americans at Navolato that there would be fighting there was justified, for on the 9th 500 rebels attacked the town and drove out the garrison of 65 federals, 14 of whom were captured. The rebels were holding an orgy.

Suggests Changes

Topsham, Me., April 22.—Commander Marston Niles, U. S. N., retired, discusses modern steamship architecture in a statement prepared at his home after a study of reports of the Titanic disaster. He said in part:

"It is the architect that sinks a vessel. For passenger ships to have watertight compartments and mechanism to close them is far from enough for safety. All compartments should be closed always and they should be so placed that the deeper the ship sinks the more surely does she float.

"This ought to be done by mezzanine decks from two to four feet in height, underlying every deck above the water line and running from bow to stern, whenever machinery, etc., permits. Each of the mezzanines should be much subdivided. Each subdivision should be taken up, in part with water-excluding vessels of yielding substance which no distortion of the hull could ever make leaky. The height of these mezzanine decks should increase as one goes up.

"After the next great tragedy probably in the North or the East river at New York, the public will be wondering why that lofty space in the ferryboat cabins was not put to some use."

SAYS SOCIALISM INJURES THE HOME

Cardinal Vaughan States Grounds for Implacable Quarrel With Cult

Socialism, the enemy of the home, as contrasted with Catholicism, the enemy of divorce, was the theme of the Lenten conference sermons preached by Father Bernard Vaughan, the English Jesuit, at New York. A huge congregation filled to overflowing all the seats and aisle spaces of St. Patrick's Cathedral, for the day was the feast day of its patron saint, and, besides, Cardinal Farley celebrated the high pontifical mass for the first time since his return from Rome.

"My implacable quarrel with Socialism is this," said Father Vaughan, "that in its recognized classics, in its propaganda, in its press, and in its unguarded utterances it propounds and proclaims a gospel about wedlock and family life altogether subversive of the teaching of Christianity. No sane man can give himself up to the study of Socialism without coming to the conclusion that, taken as an ethical and as an economic theory of life, it is committed to doctrines about marriage which it would seem most inevitably destroy the home, and so undermine the state. Socialism is founded on a philosophy of life which makes the indissolubility of marriage ridiculous.

"When you rise up and fight Socialism you are fighting to save the child and the family, for it would make motherhood not a duty, but a trade, and would make of the children but tools of the state. Oh, my brethren, better the Massacre of the Innocents than that such a thing should be! It is an onslaught on the home."

Then in honor of the day, the preacher turned his discourse upon Ireland.

"The Irish are a great people," he

I am told by some that in this country the Irish are already rallying to the red flag. Oh, rally to the green flag; and if there be red at all upon it, let it be the blood of martyrs! Rally, oh, my brethren, to the faith of the fatherland!"

"Until Socialism shall have shifted its centre of gravity from anti-Christian premises, until Socialists shall have publicly renounced the philosophy of life as formulated by the founders of their cult, and until their men of flight and leading shall have made it clear to us that Socialism indorses, upholds, and enforces the time-honored traditions of the Christian family and the Christian home, we have no alternative but to denounce Socialism from pulpit and platform, in public and in private, as a most insidious menace to the state, which must rest on its own God-given foundation, the home."

each; if, in a word, their demands upon one another's lives, instead of being measured by what each wanted from the other, were, on the contrary, to be regulated by what the other could give, then, after long years of wedded life, in the words of my poet, to the wife's fond whisper, 'More years have made me love thee more,' there might far oftener be heard the husband's firm reply, 'There is none I love like thee.'

And not only, said he, is the Catholic faith forever opposed divorce, but ever opposed race suicide, and as he urged the repelling of the one from the home, so he appealed for the repulsion of the other from the chamber.

"Socialism, if we study it ethically, we shall find committed to a set of ideas about wedded life and its most sacred duties that are not only foreign but repulsive to those who have been trained in the school of Christ. I speak of the Socialist who is something more than a mere social reformer. The latter is a mere baron on the Ship of State—he may hinder progress, but he can never direct the course.

"The Socialist who is more than that cannot well avoid attacking the institution of the family as we know it. It is bred in him to do so, because it is an essential constituent of historical Socialism, and when I say this, I am borne out by a cloud of witnesses.

"Take the book called 'The Origin of the Family,' and referred to by Socialists as 'an intellectual treat,' a 'great Socialistic classic.' In this work we are assured that monogamy was not founded on nature, but on economic considerations, namely, the 'exclusive right of private property over primitive and natural collectivism.' The author informs us that under Socialism marriage will no longer be indissoluble. He informs us that marriage is moral only as long as love lasts.

"The duration," he writes, 'of an attack of individual sex-love varies considerably according to individual disposition, especially in men. A positive cessation of fondness, or its replacement by a new passionate love, makes a separation a blessing for both parties and society.'

"No passage in that Socialist classic could be made to fit in with the Gospel of Christianity. Again, take the Socialist's international textbook on the woman question. 'Woman' has run through more than fifty editions in Germany alone. In it are passages such as this:

"The satisfaction of the sexual impulse is as much a private concern of each individual as the satisfaction of any other natural impulse. No one is accountable to any one else, and no third person has a right to interfere.  If between man and woman who have entered into a union, incompatibility, disappointment, or revulsion should appear, morality commands a dissolution of the union which has become unnatural, and therefore immoral."

This Socialist classic, full of passages such as I have cited, differs in every line from the gospel of Christ, as all the world may see.

"Once more, in a work written by the greatest man the Socialist movement has yet claimed in England and entitled, 'Socialism, Its Growth and Outcome,' we read that under a Socialistic regime 'property in children would cease to exist, and every infant that came into the world would be born into full citizenship, and would enjoy all the advantages, whatever the conduct of its parents might be. Thus a new development of the family would take place on the basis, not of a pre-determined, life-long business arrangement, to be formally and nominally held to, irrespective of circumstances, but on mental inclination and affection, an association terminable at the will of either party."

"This teaching requires no comment from me. Lastly, we are told in 'Socialism, Positive and Negative,' a work described as 'brilliant, fearless, searching,' that the 'Socialist parties do not attack religion, the family, and the State,' but the would-be brilliant author makes a point of reminding us that 'Socialist Philosophy proves conclusively that the legislation of the positive political and economic ideals of Socialism involves the atrophy of religion, the metamorphosis of the family and the suicide of the state, as we understand it.' This quotation speaks for itself."

Father Vaughan said that if he were to be told by individual Socialists that he had misrepresented entirely the Socialist position with regard to marriage, its rights and its duties, he would reply that what he had said, he had drawn from their own very much read and very highly recommended classics. Instead of finding fault with him, they would do well, he said, first of all to issue an expurgated edition of their classics or else to withdraw them once and for all from the book market, repudiating as un-Socialistic the teachings which they unfold and propound.

"And publicly," he said, "I wish to express my indebtedness to the Socialist press for reporting my remarks so fairly and so fully."

Father Vaughan will omit the sermon on socialism on Palm Sunday and will preach the final one on Easter.

Henna Leaves and Sage Will Grow Hair

CAMPBELL HAS THE ARTICLE.

It has only recently been discovered that Henna leaves contain the ingredient to grow new hair. England and Paris have become flooded with preparations containing the extract of Henna to grow hair, and every one of these preparations have an enormous sale. All other hair tonics are practically at a standstill, and the ones containing the Henna are found in every home. Society ladies purchase them by the dozen bottles. On the streets of London and Paris can be seen women with beautiful, luxuriant heads of real, fluffy hair. The same women only a few months ago had their heads decorated with artificial hair. The first one of these preparations to reach Canada is called SALVIA, and is sold and guaranteed by Campbell, The Drugist. SALVIA will grow hair in abundance and cure Dandruff in ten days, or your money back. A large bottle, 50c.

CHANS FINED AND ENTER AN APPEAL

WONG A HUMBUG AND ARRANT HYPOCRITE

Thiel Detective Agency Employed to Get Evidence Against Carroll House

Solomon and Margaret Chan, 120 Niagara street, who were charged with keeping a disorderly house at their rented premises, were found guilty by Magistrate Jay this morning and were fined $100 each. Chan paid his own fine of $100 and left his wife with the police while he went out to Chinatown and obtained the hundred dollars necessary for her liberation. The solicitor for the convicted persons gave notice, that the fine would be appealed to the higher court.

Charges against the Chans of selling liquor without a license, and against the girl Alice Blake and the Chinese Wing, Peter and Wong of being inmates in the house were set over until Wednesday.

The magistrate's decision was to the effect that the weight of evidence was in favor of the prosecution, that their witnesses supported each other, and that the evidence of Constable Ireland who had watched the house was important and reliable. His worship said he believed the three Chinese went there together on several occasions, and that the girl Alice Blake was in the house on April 5.

The evidence of Wong he held to be suspicious, and did not set much value on the evidence of Chan and his wife. In referring to the conspiracy alleged by the defence his worship said that the other Wong, the tailor, was an arrant humbug and hypocrite. He had written to the mayor and chief of police requesting that gambling should be stopped and at the same time and afterwards was one of the most inveterate gamblers in Chinatown.

He believed Chan to be a man of no business except what he earned from interpreting, and according to his testimony his recent earnings had been but little more than to pay the rent of the house.

In regard to the evidence of Simpson, the chimney sweep, the magistrate believed there was considerable hesitancy in it and that the girl Alice Blake, had asked him to come to the court and give the evidence. His honor also said there was much circumstantial evidence to support the prosecution, and he believed the accused to be guilty. They were warned that if they came before the court again on similar charges they would go to jail without the option of paying a fine.

The police employed the Thiel Detective Agency of Vancouver, to get the evidence against Estelle Carroll, alias Durill, and two witnesses named Frank T. Williams and J. W. Cain, from that company, this morning testified to having bought and paid for liquor in the house on Herald street run by the accused.

The men said they paid several visits to the house and bought liquor on each occasion. On one occasion they went they were not admitted, the proprietress telling them she had received a "tip" over the telephone that the house was to be raided that night. The raid, however, took place the following night when the two men were in the house. Evidence was given as to the habits of the occupants and the case was continued until this afternoon.

DIRECT SERVICE TO ORIENT IS ASSURED

Frank Waterhouse Arranges for Run From Portland—
Weir Leaving Pacific

Having found more profitable fields for his ships, Andrew Weir on August 1 will withdraw his steamships from the trans-Pacific service, and Frank Waterhouse & Co. will take over the business operating a fleet of chartered freights. It is probable that Victoria will be omitted as a port of call from then on and business done direct between the Sound and the Far East. Frank Waterhouse is at the present time contemplating the establishment of a service between Portland and the Orient, and reports from the Rose City state that the steamship Clan Melvor has been chartered by the company.

For some time past shippers on the Columbia river have persistently requested Frank Waterhouse to give them a direct service to the Far East, so that Portland might recover herself and again become the largest exporting centre of the North Pacific. The steamship Hercules, now on the Sound, will follow the Clan Melvor across the Pacific from Portland, taking the May sailing. The vessels will carry cargoes consisting of lumber and flour. Waterhouse is now in England interviewing Andrew Weir, and he has stated that he has secured six steamships for the Oriental business.

Frank Waterhouse is gradually working his way into the steamship business on the Pacific, and only recently took over the Australian Mail Line from Andrew Weir. The cutting of freight rates for shipment of freight across the Pacific, it is said, has resulted in very small profits being made by the owners of the lines, and as Andrew Weir has found runs which will bring to him larger returns, he has decided to withdraw the Pacific

Don't Fail to Read About the Melon

It might be said that the C. P. R. supplied the melon when it decided to establish in Coquitlam its great supplementary terminals, yards and shops, and the Coquitlam Terminal and Townsite Company cut the melon for the benefit of the public when they offered the townsite. Slices of this melon are easy to get now but will be hard to get in the future.

The Value of Imagination

Successful men of business, poets and artists are alike in one respect; they possess imagination. Without imagination the business man is blind. Any person who has the price can buy a lot in the business centre of a city, and get something good, but the chances are he will have to pay every cent it is worth. The man with imagination is able to picture what is coming and buy future values for present day prices. Land values are established by population. Buy cheap uninhabited land where a city will be and you will build a fortune without effort. The secret of great fortunes consists of getting others to work for your success. That is exactly what the man of imagination does when he buys a lot in a new city like Coquitlam where there must be a large popular city in the near future.

World Commerce Thundering at the Gates of Vancouver

In another two or three years the west-bound commerce of half America will be thundering at the gates of Vancouver, clamoring for quick and efficient handling. The C. P. R. understands thoroughly what that means—hence COQUITLAM with its thousand of acres of terminal property, with its plans for a hundred miles of side-tracks, with its shops, its docks and its wharves, its manufacturing sites, its room for thousands of homes, its cheap power, with every equipment for a great operating terminus; hence Port Mann for the Canadian Northern Railway; hence Auburn for the Northern Pacific and so on.

The Man With Imagination Fully Understands That, Wonderful as Is the Development on the Vancouver Peninsula,
It Is Only in the Beginning

A Hint For Your Imagination

If a handful of people spread over the vast undeveloped West have already called into being a city of the size and opulence of Vancouver, what will happen when millions and millions occupy these great prairies—and they WILL occupy them—and they ARE occupying them at the rate of 300,000 a year. Vancouver, to keep up with the pace of Western Canada, will soon be a city of half a million, and Coquitlam as the great outlying base of the C. P. R. will go with it. We predict that Coquitlam will have not less than 50,000 people when Vancouver has half a million. To-day we can sell you a lot in the townsite surrounding terminals and fronting on the waterfront as low as $250. One of these lots is a nest-egg worth having. Buy one for yourself, buy one for each of your children and wait secure and content. Don't continue till the end of your life sitting idly by and see other people profiting through the wealth the whole world is creating. Get a lot in Coquitlam. The story of Coquitlam is too large, too long, too detailed to be told here. Call at our office or send for maps, folders and plans of the recognized townsite ever offered in Western Canada.

Prices: Business Property $600 to $1,500. Residential Property $250 to $900.

Terms, Some as Low as $10 a month.

One Year Ago

You could buy lots in Oak Bay for $700 each. To-day these same lots are easily worth double, and in many cases considerably more.

TO-DAY you can buy a quarter acre in Lake Hill Park for less than you could buy in Oak Bay a year ago—a year hence the story will be different, it will cost you nearly double, and the selection will be less.

LAKE HILL PARK

Is no further away from the business centre than Oak Bay (look at the city map) but the development has only recently started at the North end—and it must continue because the city can only spread out in a northerly direction.

Values are getting too high in James Bay and other close-in districts for homes—then too, developments are changing these districts rapidly into business and semi-business locations.

Railway sidings, warehouses, factories, etc., are not desirable in residential districts, and the present residents even now are looking for homesites further out. This means the early building up of LAKE HILL PARK and the surrounding subdivisions. There is money to be made by buying suburban property now. The man of limited means cannot buy inside property in Victoria to-day, it has outgrown his pocket book—but he can buy in LAKE HILL PARK. It is the golden opportunity for the wage-earner. The lots are all FULL QUARTER ACRES, and the prices and terms such that any industrious person can meet.

The time to buy this class of property is at the start of things. Don't wait for the finished streets and the electric cars—these things mean higher prices. Buy ahead of improvements and sell to the other fellow who didn't wake up in time.

We have a branch office at the junction of North Douglas street and Saanich Road, we shall be pleased to have you call there, or if more convenient, come to our down-town office and let us take you out to LAKE HILL PARK. Anyway, call and get our booklet, it will read interesting reading and costs you nothing but the asking.

If you live out of town, write and ask us for a copy, we will send it to you gladly by return mail.

AMATEUR LACROSSE MATCHES ON COAST

FIRST GAME IN VICTORIA MAY 25

New Club May Be Admitted—
Officers Are Elected—
Referees Appointed

At a meeting of the Pacific Coast Amateur Lacrosse Association, held in Vancouver Saturday evening, the schedule of games for the season of 1912 was drawn up. The application of the Fairmont club for admission to the league was given consideration, and a proposed amendment to the constitution dealing with the reinstatement of players penalized under the rules discussed. Mayor Findlay, of Vancouver, first vice-president, occupied the chair. Delegates were present from Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster.

Officers were elected as follows: Hon. president, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor; first hon. vice-president, H. G. Fowler; second hon. vice-president, J. Kingham; third hon. vice-president, J. J. Keary, New Westminster; second vice-president, S. Lorimer, Victoria; secretary-treasurer, H. W. Sangster, New Westminster; executive council, W. Clark, M. Oppenheimer, S. Lorimer, F. Taylor, B. Galbraith, B. W. Grimason. The schedule:

May 25—Vancouver at Victoria.
June 1—Victoria at New Westminster.
June 8—Open.
June 15—Vancouver at New Westminster.
June 22—Open.
June 29—Victoria at Vancouver.
July 6—New Westminster at Vancouver.
July 17—New Westminster at Victoria.
July 20—Vancouver at New Westminster.
July 27—Open.

CHAMPIONS FROM VANCOUVER COMING

V. A. C. Will Send Over at Least Four Boxers to Next Local Tournament

Vancouver, April 22.—Several boxers will go to Victoria for the big tournament which will be held on April 30 under the auspices of the James Bay Athletic Association. Officials of the V. A. C. received a communication from the Victoria club, asking them to send over seven or eight contestants, and particularly requested that the Barriac brothers, Paul Peterson and Gil Martin be included in the party. However, as this quartette pulls out for the East on May 1 it will be impossible for them to compete, but if possible three other local champions will visit the Capital City.

Chat McIntyre figures on sending Bob Jackson, lightweight champion; Charlie Patton, 125-pound champion; Billy Alexander, middleweight title holder, and Charlie Sevin, runner-up for the heavyweight championship at the recent B. C. tournament.

"Nine times out of ten, the foundation of a fortune, has been laid through judicious real estate investments."

Do you realize the full import of these words? It means that unless you invest in real estate, you only stand one chance in ten of ever becoming independent. Count up the wealthy men of your acquaintance, It is true, perhaps, that one or two made the bulk of their fortune from a factory or a store, but did not most of them obtain a position of wealth through real estate investments

TITANIC DISASTER AND LESSONS IT TEACHES

Sermons Were Preached Yesterday on Marine Tragedy—"Man's Control Stops With the Shore"—Tributes to Heroism.

The wreck of the Titanic was the subject of sermons preached in most of the Victoria churches yesterday. The pastors all paid eloquent tribute to the sublime heroism and self-sacrifice exhibited in the terrible disaster, and also drew some wholesome lessons from it which they commended to their congregations.

First Congregational Church. Rev. Herman A. Carson, B.A., in the First Congregational church, took as his subject "Speed Versus Humanity—The Continual Tragedy of Our Age."

"Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for his friends."—John 15:13.

Why this waste?—Mark 14:4. He said in part: "I am here tonight to attempt, in common with many others in this city and throughout the civilized world, to voice my humble tribute of respect and admiration to the memory of the brave men and women, passengers, officers and crew, who went down just one week ago to-night in the most appalling sea disaster of history. Before we proceed further let me point out two or three phases of the life of our day which are at once our glory and our shame."

"Our is certainly an age of action and rapid movement. Cardinal Vaughan called it, 'the automobile era.' It is a time when every possible device that mankind can fashion is used to banish space and weave the human web more closely. In some respects the whole human family is being more closely united than ever before in the history of the world. But in order to accomplish along mechanical lines that result the toll of individual lives is far too great. The same result of brotherhood and sympathetic understanding ought to be established along fraternal, mental and spiritual lines without such great sacrifice. During recent years many startling accidents, both by sea and by land, have occurred—events that are more than mere accidents, events that are really disasters. Examination of the cause of these accidents or catastrophes will almost invariably reveal that there has been either neglect of duty, too great risks taken, or too great speed, in order to live up to orders. So much so in this instance that it has come to be practically an open and shut case of speed versus humanity along all lines of our civilization."

"Put your finger on the pulse of life in any phase of development in our progressive age and you find the pulse beating at fever heat. On this continent we are living too fast. In the Orient from time immemorial it has not been so, nor has speed in the general sense been so manifest in the Old World. But for the last hundred years the New World has been trying to outclass the slow-moving Old World until this rivalry has succeeded in drawing forth tremendous efforts on the part of Old World companies to maintain the efficiency and dominance along many lines of activity, and particularly in marine transportation. The remarks of the late Charles M. Hays, uttered a few moments before the crash, have come true all too soon—'The White Star, the Cunard, and the Hamburg-American lines are directing their attention and ingenuity to vieing with each other to attain the supremacy in luxurious ships and in making speed records. The time will come when this will be capped by some appalling disaster.' The appalling marine disaster occurred, not half an hour after Mr. Hays had spoken those words, as a result of over-anxiety for speed coupled perhaps with an error or two in human judgment."

"But appalling railway disasters and appalling steamship disasters have been happening for years and still no radical changes take place. Why, we ask are there so few radical changes? The answer comes swift and clear—"speed mania," and behind that "greed mania,"—these two twin-microbes that infest the body politic and make it impossible to take time to effect radical and far-reaching changes. And thus our race drives forward. Our railways, electric as well as steam, our automobiles, our aeroplanes and steamship lines are sacrificing thousands upon the altar of speed—and men and women and little children are ground between the rapidly revolving wheels and flung aside as refuse or buried deep forever in the unfathomable sea."

But, hold! Is it true that men are flung aside as refuse from the flying wheels of commerce, or buried deep forever in the unfathomable sea? No, a thousand times no! In the wilderness of all the creaking, distressing experiences of land and horrors of sea, mankind is not dethroned from its kingly position, nor does it sink away with cowardice, fear and trembling in the presence of death.

To-night as we stand with unbared heads with our fellow-men of five continents, and glimpse humanity as personified in the 2,000 odd souls of the late S. S. Titanic, we have nothing to fear for the race as regards bravery and fortitude in the face of dire calamity. The recent stories that have appeared in our local papers, while bringing tears to the eye and a clutching sensation at the heart, have given buoyancy and elasticity to the step of millions who were being borne down by the awful stream attendant upon the early and discreditable reports.

Here the preacher paused and roundly denounced the people who spread the lying preliminary reports reflecting upon the self-control, fortitude and heroism of many of those who are now known to be dead and who died like heroes and heroines, every whit as bravely as ever any soldier died upon the battlefield. Continuing, he said:

"These latest reports have read like romantic and chivalrous deeds of forgotten ages, and serve as glorious illustrations of the manliness of men and the nobility of women. As one of our papers has splendidly said: 'The wife who stood by her husband, preferring to die with him than to be saved without him, although there was everything else to make life happy to her except a husband's love; the father whose only thought as he faced certain death was of the mother who was waiting for her little boys; the captain who stood upon the bridge and issued his commands knowing that in a few moments he would have gone to his death in the water; the muscicians who played their own death song in order that courage might be inspired in the hearts of others; the sailors who stood by the boats in which they could have sought refuge, but preferred their duty to life itself; we may lament the death of such as these and of the hundreds of others of whose noble courage we have not been and never will be told.'"

"But we are not ashamed of the way in which they met death. More than that, our lamentation is turned into rejoicing and hope, rejoicing because we are able to believe that our fellows when the great moment arrived, were true to the highest and best traditions of the race—hope for those who remain that they may emulate the worthy dead."

"In a powerful address at Christ Church Cathedral last evening Rev. H. B. Gray, D.D., spoke from the passage of Revelations xxi, 'There shall be no more sea.' He pointed out how St. John, looking out on the world from his exiled cave in the rock-bound islet of Patmos, regarded the sea as the barrier to freedom and the end of the waters, as the removal of the barrier to the heavenly Jerusalem, from which he alone was permitted to lift the covering veil. The sea was used in Revelation to typify the division which marks off the present from the future, and in its ever changing, boundless, unrelenting mystery mark apart this life from the fuller realization in the hereafter."

"There are some things," he said, "which lie too deep for speech or tears, which our imagination hovers around without realizing fully." They knew, he continued, why those words had been chosen in this hour of national mourning, nay passing the bounds even of an international catastrophe. "This day is one of signal defeat for human science and human enterprise, and comes as a blow which staggers humanity. It is too small to say, as some have, that social distinctions are blotted out, that political and international antipathies are converted by some strange alchemy into a world-wide sympathy." This defeat of man, this victory of nature over man's ingenuity, once again showed that remarkable as man's power was to bring to bay the agencies of nature, yet this great vessel wonderful in strength, equipped and fitted—one of the greatest of man's products in the conquest over the stubbornness of natural laws—goes down on her maiden trip. When man had sought out many things, and triumph seemed at last to have crowned his efforts, when the secrets had been wrested from nature by experience, by knowledge, and by infinite ingenuity, then nature asserted herself, and the catastrophe marked her dominant power. Still stands the ancient sacrifice of a broken and a contrite heart."

They had again in mind the awful suddenness of this unparalleled tragedy of the sea, of the fallen treasures which would never be recovered. He did not mean the great monetary wealth of the vessel and its equipment, but the wealth of men's lives. What a picture it was! The men looking over the bulwarks while the women floated away to some unknown haven of safety, and the music/sounding the beautiful melody of the hymn. Yet in that very morning those passengers were to sing a new song before the Throne. "For those who remain," he said, "the lesson is clear, that we should so remember our days as to apply our hearts to wisdom. Just as the awful unpreparedness of the end which came to those men last Monday morning should prepare us for whatever may perchance be in store, let us not weep for those who are gone, but rather remember those widows who have been bereft of husbands, of those who have lost brothers and friends, and to whom the sympathy of all is extended. Why should we recoil from sudden death? We like rather to arrange our affairs, to prepare the way, and to slip out of life in the quiet of old age." "It is not rather better to pass from the glamor of the streets into the presence of the Master, from the things of this life suddenly into the heavenly circles? We enjoy that vision of the hereafter in the Gospel message, in the Communion sacrament, but after all it is but in a glass darkly, and there alone face to face." Might not this accident have some cause in the unsearchable wisdom of God of teaching the nations of the world to depend more humbly and more entirely on the Almighty will. The Lord gives and the Lord takes away. Blessed be the name of the Lord. Might not some good come from this disaster, until at length, there will be no more pain, and no more sea, because we shall be all in all in the Lord Jesus Christ."

"The beautiful hymn of Baring Gould 'On the Resurrection Morning' was sung as a Recessional."

St. Andrew's Presbyterian. Rev. W. L. Clay, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, preached to a large congregation last night a sermon emphasizing the wreck of the steamship Titanic on the minds of his congregation in illustration of the uncertainty of life for human beings, and of the consequent necessity for being at all times prepared by living lives of rectitude and honor and holiness for the life to come that may descend upon individuals at any moment.

Rev. Mr. Clay recapitulated the facts of the wreck and drew a vivid picture of the mightiest of man's works, accomplished through ten centuries of research and labor, having employed the most accomplished and scientific minds, being obliterated in one short hour, and proved to be futile because of the sudden sharp touch of King Frost.

His text he took from Jeremiah, Chap. 49, Verse 23: "They have heard evil tidings; they are faint-hearted; there is sorrow on the sea; it cannot be quiet."

"The but too true we have heard tidings," said Mr. Clay, "and once again they are evil tidings. The whole world has heard evil tidings. There is a great sorrow on the sea, the restless billows sea, and there is sorrow among all men. Imperial disruptions have been forgotten and international questions set aside, for the time being overshadowed by the tragedy of the ocean. More than 1,600 human beings, and mostly men, have been snatched from the activities of life by the cruel fingers of an Atlantic iceberg. They are men of all classes of life. There is the emigrant, the man of great enterprise, the man of science, and the man of many millions; there was the skilled mariner, the traveller, and there was the man who had never before been aboard ship. The skilled experience of the mariner, the money of the millionaire and the science of the scientist were all of no avail. They stood on one common platform, one protected no more than the other. The conditions of life, of rank, of culture, were all obliterated, and the only thing that counted in that supreme moment was the moral and spiritual product of a lifetime. The thing we know as character, is the only thing that counted among them then."

"And what we know as sorrow has spread over the world. Hearts are tender to-night. A proud hope they had been complacently cherishing is shown to be an illusion. Men thought they had conquered the sea and had constructed a ship that Neptune could not sink. That hope is now shown to be a mere illusion. Every luxury in sea-going vessels of the past had been outdone, and added to it was the motive power of inventive men. The result was a great floating palace, competing among the ships of the world for the supremacy of the sea in speed and comfort. The Frost King ripped the mighty side of the vessel, and the highest achievement in the shipbuilding art, and a whole town of people, are lost."

"Man is conscious of defeat. He realizes how puny are his efforts. That cheap criticism that administers blame has no attraction for me. I trust the most searching examination will be made in the hope of discovering means of reducing the possibility of disaster to the minimum. A matter that comes into painful prominence with us landmen is that it is hard to understand how the ship passed inspection and carried life boats insufficient to give even a fighting chance to half of its company of crew and passengers."

Mr. Clay then touched on the action of the captain of the Carpathia in going to the rescue without orders. "Such an act he said redeems our race from contempt." Such stories as these would never be forgotten, and the gloom of the tragedy was relieved by the glorious heroism shown there.

"The lesson that stands in the tragedy of the sea for all men was made the third part of Mr. Clay's sermon. 'We are reminded by this disaster of what a razor's edge we live and walk on. How very brittle is the edge of life? It seems natural for the aged and the delicate among us to expect death, but for the hardy and the strong—why should they go? Yet some in this congregation before me to-night may be in the paralysis of death to-morrow. Brethren, we have no lease of life, but only moments, for in the midst of life we are in death. It is but the opening or a door into the bliss of God's own presence, or into eternal destruction.'"

"Into which of these realms shall it be?" asked the minister. "Till this question is settled, and settled forever, no sane man ought to give a thought to anything else. Settle it for yourself. There is only one way, by immediately putting away all thought of self and humbly, personally, accepting Jesus Christ, as he is offered to us in the gospel."

"I charge you in the name of Christ, I pray you, I adjure you, cast not away one moment longer your reverence of Him. Having settled that, what matters it whether it is life or death? It matters somewhat, I admit, but it is a comparatively small thing, for

UNDER THE CLOCK TOWER

The overshadowing cloud of a great international calamity made civic circles, as everything else, quiet last week, and the city decided to join with other communities in seeking aid for the sufferers of the Titanic disaster, and accordingly opened a municipal fund.

The most important matter passed last week was the civic estimate. For weeks the city has been marking time, unable to let contracts because there was no money to pay for the articles required, and the tenderers were getting impatient for the city to decide what they were going to do with the various bids put in. This has been the case particularly with the health and fire departments, neither the motor apparatus nor the Oak Bay hall being able to advance a stage, and all modern systems in at length to be installed. The horses gradually displaced from the fire department by the adoption of motor apparatus will be used for the garbage collection purposes. Hence the spectacle may be witnessed some day, perhaps of husky animals dashing to the scene of the conflagration with the dripping remnants of the household ashes and tin cans marking their course behind. However, the city may well take this risk with the high price of horse flesh, and the character of the animals now in the fire brigade service will render them excellent draft animals for the less dignified and equally essential purpose of the collection of garbage.

The motor apparatus contract has been put with a company which has done excellently for Victoria in the past, and the product of the Seagrave shops is certain to give good service. So far as the Oak Bay hall is concerned, the incident a week ago draws attention to urgency. On this occasion the chief declined to respond to a call to a burning automobile on one of the municipality's streets, although there has been in existence an agreement since last December for supplying Oak Bay with fire protection. Owing to the delay referred to, however, the agreement has not yet been put into operation.

The threatened developments in connection with the Sooke Lake contract, to which reference was made early in the week, may soon dwarf all other civic matters, and place the Sooke Lake scheme in the forefront of municipal politics. The report promulgated for this evening's meeting may more than likely demonstrate Mayor Morley's contention that the scheme will have to be watched carefully in every phase, and that the relentless opponents who have fought the proposal from the beginning will never cease till the waters of Sooke flow through the pipes into the city. Fighting a big corporation is not an easy task, and the city is yet a long way out of the wood.

SENT TO PENITENTIARY.

Cornwall, Ont., April 22.—For brutal-ly ill-treating an eleven-year-old niece, Catherine St. Pierre, who died last February as a result, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bickford were each sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Mr. Justice Kelly. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter after three hours' deliberation.

TITANIC DISASTER AND LESSONS IT TEACHES

having accepted Christ, mortals can approach the grave as one lying down on his couch to meet pleasant dreams. At the conclusion of the service the organist impressively played the Dead March in Saul.

Christ Church Cathedral. Very Rev. Dean Doull conducted the memorial service held at four o'clock yesterday afternoon in Christ Church Cathedral. Choosing as his text those verses referring to the calamity upon the Galileans: "Or those eighteen, upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwell in Jerusalem?—I tell you, nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." (Luke 13, 4 and 5). Dean Doull said:

"It is a right and fitting impulse, my brothers and sisters, that has brought us here this afternoon. As children of the Heavenly Father we have come into the Father's house to lay before Him the great sorrow of our hearts as it goes out in sympathy and affection for those who were lost, and for those who survived to mourn their loss in the recent disaster to the Titanic. The increased facilities of transportation and communication between one part of the world and the other, which is such a striking feature of our time makes the world seem small indeed, and a great disaster happening in any part of the world meets with a quick and sympathetic feeling on the part of hundreds of those who are far removed from the actual scene of the tragedy; and so to-day in Europe, England, the United States and Canada, men and women are bowing their heads before the Almighty Father and laying before Him their perplexities and sorrows, asking Him to bestow His blessing on those who are mourning in sadness for those who have been so tragically taken from them. We can thank God for the rescue, even whilst we deplore the cause of sorrow."

"In the few minutes that I intend to speak to you this afternoon I do not purpose to praise the dead, although we thank God very humbly for the heroic example that they were enabled to set. We thank Him for that spirit of chivalry which saw to it that the women and children were saved first. But I am not come to praise the dead, still less to utter one word against the living. Neither do I wish to utter one word against a Company which has so well served the travelling public, although we trust that when the proper authorities are called upon to investigate the reason of the disaster they will not fail to administer censure where such is required, and that such regulations will be made for future obedience as will protect those who travel by land or sea."

"Father is it my duty this afternoon to try to see if our Heavenly Father sent some very special lesson for us, His children, as we are gathered together in His presence—some lesson to make us better men and women than we have been in the past. In the lesson read in the New Testament at this service we have a lesson from Jesus Christ himself as He stood in the presence of those who were telling Him of two great disasters which had occurred in Jerusalem. We do not know the special circumstances attending those two disasters, but the Jews of the day believed that the punishment was sent by God on those men for their sins. But Jesus said: 'These men upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, think not that they were sinners over and above those who went with them in their native city. They were victims of the breach of some natural law of God, and God's laws in nature violated exacted the full penalty.'"

"This is where the lesson comes in. Jesus turned to them and said: 'You would do well to remember this; you would do well also to remember that there is a spiritual law as well as a natural law; that the God of nature and the God of the spiritual realm are one and the same, and that as surely as the transgression of the natural law brings with it certain punishment, so does the transgression of the spiritual law. Think ye that those eighteen upon whom the tower fell were sinners above all who dwell in Jerusalem? I tell you, nay; but unless ye repent ye will all likewise perish.'"

"Then Christ preached his great call to the Jewish nation for national repentance, but his warning was disregarded. The men who heard him speak scoffed at his word. In the years that followed the disaster came, and Jerusalem was levelled to the ground, and the Jew has been a wanderer in the earth ever since."

"To-day Jesus Christ stands and preaches to us precisely the same lesson. The great liner which foundered carried to their death over sixteen hundred persons; they met that terrible fate as the result of the disregard of an ordinary precaution to avoid conflict with a natural law. To drive a steamer at the rate of eighteen or twenty knots an hour through an ice-field either by day or night is to court almost certain disaster and destruction. We all to-day feel that nature is exonerated, and that man—and man alone—is to blame. But, the God of the natural realm and the God of the spiritual realm are one and the same, and there is a spiritual law just as truly as there is a natural law, and the same principle holds true in the one case as in the other—the transgression of the law brings its sure penalty. 'Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.' Just as Jesus Christ preached His great sermon—His call to national repentance—in the presence of the disaster to the Galileans and those beneath the tower of Siloam, I would preach to you to-day the call to national repentance."

"Would it not be well in the presence of such a great national disaster that we should ask ourselves where we as a nation stand regarding obedience to the laws of God? What of our national life to-day with God forgotten, with the proud implied boast of man that he is able to take care of the world and run it for himself? What of the national life with God's Holy Day turned into a day of pleasure? We are coming into conflict with the laws of God, and to come into conflict with the law of God means disaster and destruction. Whether is our national life tending? What can be the nature of a life of a nation which has forgotten God and His law, and which scoffs and sets His commandments at naught? 'Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.'"

"But we thank God for that word, 'Except ye repent.' There is after all with God a difference between His law with nature and His law with the spiritual. With the first there is no forgiveness, but when we enter the domain of the spiritual we find in operation a divine law which counteracts the first. Jesus Christ, the Eternal Son of God, suffered upon the cross for the salvation of all men, and because of the death of Christ we have an advocate with the Father for the propitiation of our sins. Thank God for the law of divine forgiveness which comes in the message: 'Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.'"

FIRE PREVENTION

Attention is hereby called to the following provisions of the "Fire Prevention By-Law," namely:

"24. It shall be unlawful for any person to deposit any ashes or cause the same to be deposited or placed, or permit the same to be, or remain in any wooden vessel, or upon the floor of any building, or in any place, or premises, belonging to, or occupied by him or her, or others, or in any metallic vessel within two inches of any woodwork, or structure, or place, or permit any hay, straw, or other combustible material uncovered within his courtyard, or lot of ground, within ten feet of any building."

"25. Every owner or occupier of a building shall at all times keep the roof of such building free and clear from moss or vegetable growth, and particularly shall, in the month of May in each year, clear the roof from such growth."

The above provisions will be strictly enforced, and the penalties attendant upon non-observance, or violation of same, imposed upon conviction.

COMES TO CITY AS ORGANIZER

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY WILL BE FORMED

Female Division of Ancient Order of Hibernians Proposed

The general treasurer of the Women's Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Mrs. M. Daly, of Minneapolis, arrived from the Mainland on Saturday afternoon in order to address a meeting of the lady friends of members of the Order of Hibernians, and generally ladies of Irish origin and of the Catholic faith who desire to form an auxiliary in this city. Mrs. Daly met them yesterday evening and laid before them the objects of the society, which, like the organization of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, is benevolent and patriotic in its scope and objects.

Mrs. Daly, in the course of a conversation with a Times man, said that the organization of women Hibernians numbered about 65,000 in Canada and the United States, and while its membership did not extend like that of the senior body to other parts of the world, as the United Kingdom and Australia, doubtless these developments would sooner or later follow. There were a number of lodges in Eastern Canada and in the West, and it was from a visit to Calgary division that she came on to the coast. There had been up to the present no divisions in this province, but in addition to Victoria she had already addressed a gathering in Vancouver, and would further advance organization work before completing her mission on the coast. She was satisfied there was room for operations in the larger centres of this rapidly growing province, and was sure that the grand officers would give attention to this section of the work during their present two-day tour.

Mrs. Daly expressed her pleasure to be in a city of which so much was heard in the Middle West, and for the cordial reception accorded to her.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

To the Editor:—The letter in your Friday's issue signed "A Mere Man" is so paltry and apparently so personal an attack that it would have been ignored, except that it is so misleading. Whether or not Mrs. Christie voices the sentiments of "A Mere Man," or the whole of the Political Equality League, she certainly has done the cause much good service both by her pen and influence. We must have all grades of opinions amongst individual members, orthodox and otherwise, but so long as they are sound and in earnest on the great woman's movement, we cannot afford to offend any one of them, especially those who have brains and leisure to think out and write about the great fundamentals of our glorious cause.

Old Country, "Men's Suffrage Leagues." The Liberals have woman's suffrage on their platform, and Mrs. Christie's appeal to the voters on the eve of the election—though eliciting no reply—must have borne fruit. We wish there were more women in Victoria willing to give their time and pen to help on our work as ably and earnestly and fearlessly as Mrs. Christie has done.

Signed on behalf of the P. E. L.,
 WINIFRED BROMLEY-JURR,
 Hon. Secy.

A NEW HOSPITAL.

To the Editor: I am directed by the president and committee of the Woman's Auxiliary Society, P. E. L., to approach you on behalf of the campaign which our society, with the support of the hospital directors, is about to begin, in order to build the greatly needed new hospital.

It is our intention to ask the City, the Provincial Government, and the people of Victoria for contributions. The present institution is utterly obsolete and inadequate to supply the growing needs of the population, or the demands of modern science, and we feel that the time of patching and adding bits here and there has gone by.

We have already collected $15,000 towards a maternity ward, which will be a most welcome addition to the hospital, both for the public and for the instruction of the nurses in the training school attached to the hospital.

We need at least $300,000, and would like more, and we also want help in rousing the public to a sense of the necessity of building and equipping a hospital which will meet the requirements of the city.

We hope it is not encroaching too much upon your kindness to ask for as much advertising in your valuable columns as possible, and most earnestly beg that you will lend to our enterprise all the aid possible. It will afford us great help and satisfaction if we feel we can depend on your paper.

 GLADYS BALLANTINE,
 Honorary Secretary.

IF THE HAIR ROOT IS NOT DEAD, DO NOT DESPAIR

Falling hair means scanty hair, and scanty hair means baldness. The whole trouble is caused by dandruff germs that destroy the natural nourishment that is supplied to the hair root.

PARISIAN SAGE, the scientific hair nourisher, penetrates into the roots of the hair and not only kills the dandruff germs but supplies the hair root with just the kind of nourishment it should have.

If you are getting bald, if your hair is falling, don't wait till too late but get a bottle of PARISIAN SAGE to-day.

It is possible to save your hair and prevent baldness if the hair root is not dead.

PARISIAN SAGE is guaranteed to satisfy every user, or money back. It stops falling hair, scalp itch and dandruff in two weeks. It is a refined hair dressing that puts a radiant luster into faded, dull hair. Fifty cents at D. E. Campbell and dealers everywhere.

A man is seldom so level headed that he can't get a hat to fit him.

THE I. W. W.
To the Editor—I would like to say a little on the recent strike we have experienced in our city, in reply to all the noise about this I. W. W. I always understood they were a very dangerous element of undesirables. In your recent strike I notice there was no loss of life, property, or, in fact, disorder of any kind to prove that they were as mentioned. Now up in the Canadian Northern, where 4500 walked out, a very large number of men, it was the same story. I read in the papers some days past where they made arrests and found weapons, consisting of knives and knives, which they threw into the river. Now, in this strike, noticed also there was no loss of life or property. Now if your government would look after those contractors and give workmen better sleeping apartments, it would be more to their interest. In fact the idea of men depending a bath to camp seemed very funny. Who is better entitled to it? I have worked in some of those camps and know what I am speaking about. Now, don't think for a moment I am favoring the I. W. W. I am a member of an union. Now your Canadian Rubber comes over here and brings this Southern Europe type, and I notice this is the people that are responsible for all this trouble, and when fall comes they depart and take them along. You have your city paying a wage scale of $2.25 and $3, why not make those unloyal contractors follow suit and pay a decent wage scale so a man can exist in these high cost of living times? Lots of strange young fellows come around daily and can't get work; good loyal subjects at that. Why not the city make those contractors pay decent wages and hire decent help, and as I said before, avoid all this noise? Give some of those British boys a chance to better their condition.
HUGH McGINTEE.
Victoria, Saturday, April 23.

Rebecca—eighteen years—will lead the group of fascinating girls, playing the heroine, the delicious, jolly, warm-hearted Rebecca. Klaw and Erlanger's production is a massive one, almost equalling in point of magnitude in stage settings, their own presentation of "Ben Hur." An excellent supporting company will interpret the important roles, and includes such well known players as Maud Ream Stover, Loyola O'Connor, Fannie D. MacCullin, Ruth Findlay, Lillian Ross, Sam Reed, Sidney Blair, Henry Carlin and Alfred Hudson, Jr., along with many others.
Flonzaley Quartette.

"If any one wants to witness an exhibition of the spirit of music as manifest where the muse really strays," writes Walter Anthony, of "The Call," let him hear the Flonzaley Quartette. For close communion with the spiritual—of music—these four strange appearing foreigners have travelled far and labored splendidly. They have reached their goal, too, as nearly as the merely human can. Their playing is a revelation. They are a quartette wherein the finest secrets of the orchestra are whispered. They are, indeed, the essence, the impalpable soul of the orchestra. The skeleton of music disappears and the flesh vanishes; there are no drums nor sounding brass; there remains only those four instruments which constitute the central fact of an orchestra—the violin, the second violin, viola and violoncello. With these they suggest everything that the orchestra can say and they whisper things too fine and rare for the idiom of any orchestra to articulate.

"It is almost uncanny—the degree to which they succeed. One would swear that there is only one player on the stage. The eye believes the thought and you notice that, however much they play like one, each is an entity as different from the other as the 'cello is different from the viola or the viola from the violin." Yet it is amazing to observe how one player takes the lead during a brief portion of a phrase, only to retire in favor of another whose tone wells up and the fountain of harmony splashes a new beauty under the quite clairvoyant vision of these players, who, I almost would say, discover hidden wonders in their compositions, the existence whereof the very composers did not dream. Now the 'cello rides above the harmonies and the subordination of the other three is as instinctively granted as merited courtesy is shown to beauty always; then the viola cuts through the fourth part harmony and a cadence is made clear as limped water; then the first violin soars upward and then all is perfect beyond the power of 'mere words to describe.

"Is this a rhapsody, I wish it could give some adequate idea of the seraphic beauty of the work of this quartette. At the close of each movement an inarticulate sigh could be heard over the room such as is uttered only in the presence of the wonderful and the perfect." The Flonzaley Quartette will play here early in May under the auspices of the Victoria Ladies' Musical Club.

IDEAS OF A PLAIN MAN

BY DR. FRANK CRANE

There are people who are never happy without a Programme. They get no pleasure out of a concert or a theatre, a trip abroad or a display of fireworks, unless they can make their experiences tally with a printed list. A friend of mine rode all about Paris working like a nailer at a map and a Baedeker; he hardly looked up to see the Eiffel Tower as he passed.

I am rather inclined to be programmatical (if there be such a word, and if not let us create it), myself, but it is easy to carry the matter too far. There is, we can be so eager to know what we are supposed to enjoy, that we fail to find what we do enjoy.

So there are people who are unhappy unless their days are all marked out. They are distressed if they do not know where they are to be this day next year. Unless Saturday is provided for they have no pleasure in Tuesday. They have no joy in the future except it be mapped. And there are others of us who sail on the prow of to-day as Columbus on his little ship, to whom to-morrow is a perpetual discovery, and life an uncharted main, who are ready for anything, India or America, gold or spices—anything, provided it is not on the Programme, but new, and strange, and different. And there are others to whom even Heaven will be no surprise.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."
At the Victoria theatre to-night theatregoers of this city will have their first glimpse of Kate Douglas Wiggin's charming young heroine, Rebecca Rowena Randall, the central figure in the dramatization of Mrs. Wiggin's "Rebecca" books called "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." The comedy deals with the girlhood of five young misses in a Maine village and shows their development from pigtails and bread and jam to puffs and the more sedate desire of young women.
"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" has enjoyed a unique experience of two years existence on the stage with performances in but two of the great cities of the country—Boston and New York—and a few of the New England towns surrounding the first named. The play, which is a dramatization by the author and Charlotte Thompson, has been one of the most successful theatrical offerings recorded in American theatres.

TRADING DULL IN STOCK MARKET

Professional Operations Form Bulk of Transactions in New York

New York, April 22.—Trading during today's session was dull and uninteresting, with professional operations contributing greatly toward the bulk of transactions. It is generally admitted that fundamentals are sound and that the improving tendencies noted in trade and industry should in time be reflected by an expansion of enterprise. However, the crop damage reports are still a disturbing factor, and tend to hold the stock market in check. This was fully in evidence in today's trading, for although the bear side was not followed, yet any slight strength was recessionary in most of the issues.

Chicago Market Holds Firm—Reports of Damage to Grain Continue to Arrive

Chicago, April 22.—Damage reports in wheat continue coming, which sustain the high level of prices in wheat futures. Today saw a bull market of consequence, but the market held quite firm. Trading in May is only lean, but July was stronger, more so than September. Conservative interests regard wheat as a 10-cent overbought on the 10 cents advance in two weeks. Some reaction is due, but the situation looks serious enough to prevent any break of note.

REPORT UPON SOOKE LAKE CONTRACT

ACTION ANTICIPATED AT TO-NIGHT'S COUNCIL

Company Has Not Completed Portion Assigned Under Specification

As a result of a conference between Mayor Beckwith, several of the aldermen, the water commissioner, and Consulting Engineer Wynn Meredith and his engineers, on Saturday, a recommendation will be made to the city council, it is stated, in connection with the Sooke Lake waterworks contract, drawing attention to the fact that the Westholme Lumber Company has not completed with the specifications by which six per cent. was to have been completed within three months, whereas thirty-seven one-hundredths of one per cent. is the work completed to date.

The city has to decide whether the contract accordingly shall be voided, and new tenders called. When the tenders were opened in December the Westholme Co. was recommended, its tender being $1,165,720 for a concrete flow line and riveted steel pressure pipe, and the Graff Construction Company second, with $1,354,652 for the complete contract, using a concrete flow line and lap welded pressure line.

Under these circumstances, the absence of storage facilities for the present will entail economy in street sprinkling and similar work, and at an early date the water department should issue stringent regulations for the use of sprinklers, restricting the waste which is an annual thing. Beautiful gardens and verdant turf are all very well, but there are other domestic requirements which must be provided for by the department during the coming dry season.

Four Per Cent.—You can deposit your money at 4 per cent. interest with The B. C. Permanent Loan Company and be able to withdraw the total amount or any portion thereof without notice. Cheques are supplied to each depositor. Paid-up capital over $1,000,000.—assets over $2,000,000. Branch office, 1210 Government Street, Victoria, B. C.

GLASSING SHOW

Majestic Theatre. The programme for to-day and Tuesday will be found above the high standard shown at the Majestic theatre. "A String of Pearls" is a biograph subject which shows the difference between the material string of pearls and the spiritual. A multi-millionaire presents his wife with a string of pearls worth a quarter of a million dollars; so doing he pampers the vanity of his spouse. But of what use is this string of pearls when sorrow comes—will it save her from the grave? This is a big worthy picture, one well worth going some distance to see. "Two Convict Brothers" is a picture which shows two brothers leaving the jail the same day. One reforms and becomes a useful citizen, while the other returns to the haunts of his erstwhile companions. "The Melody of Love" is a story that tells of the love of a composer for a young society belle. The composer through an accident is stricken blind and the girl refuses to marry him. Several years pass by and the lonely musician finds company and solace with his music, but ever before him is the face of his former sweetheart. Not so with her. The musician is soon forgotten in the whirl of social activities. "Walk, You Walk" is an hilarious funny comedy.

The feature sketch at the Empress theatre this week is by one of the most successful of modern humorists, Geo. Ade, the clever author of the "Fables in Slang," and various comic operas and plays, all of which have proved successful. This skit, entitled "The Mayor and the Manicure," is being well played by James F. Fulton and Mattie Cheate, both of whom have had much experience on the legitimate stage? They are supported by two capable players, and the stage direction is in the hands of Edwin Holt. "The Mayor and the Manicure" has been most favorably commented upon all over the circuit, and it bristles with humor, as bright as all the works of the author responsible for it. Barnes and Barron, two Hebrew comedians, who bring out laugh after laugh with their quaint conversation, amuse the audiences with their droll dialogue regarding their experiences at a reception, and they dance well. Some novelties in the dancing line are introduced by this couple of comedians. Some humorous parodies are introduced by them, and they will doubtless duplicate the success they have been making all along the line at the Empress this week.

Alma—not the young lady whose place of abode was a mystery—but a lively, young comedian from the Oxford theatre in London, is furnishing fifteen minutes of good entertainment with her singing and dancing. Alma makes a number of changes of costume, and a novelty in her performance is that her changes are made without leaving the stage. She is a young woman with excellent stage appearance, and was a great favorite in the English music halls. Dealy and Barlow, a team of singers and dancers, and piano players, have a merry singing and dancing number. Miss Mattie Barlow, who is not only a winsome and clever comedian, but a good pianist, ably assists Jimmy Dealy in the number. Dealy, who is an original comedian, dances very well, and the couple furnish an amusing turn. Arturo Ballerini and his troupe of dogs, monkeys and cat, furnish a turn which will interest all animal lovers, and will doubtless be of great interest to the children at the matinee. Mr. Ballerini has spent considerable time in educating his canines which show wonderful sagacity. He has five dogs, two monkeys and a cat. The Empress theatre shows several films brought from London for the Empress theatre.

THE DAILY TIMES

goes into every home in Victoria, and a great many people read these columns who have not homes that they own. If the real estate man, or property owner will advertise the houses they have for sale in these columns steadily and persistently, the advantages they have to offer will appeal to some of the thousands who are willing to buy when the right price and right terms are submitted to them. Every man who is paying rent wants to learn how he can stop doing so, and instead of rent pay monthly instalments on the purchase price of a home. Almost every real estate man has just such property for sale. Here is the way to sell it.

MORE BODIES HAVE BEEN PICKED UP

WORK OF IDENTIFICATION PROVES DIFFICULT

Proposal to Send U. S. Revenue Cutters to Assist in Search

St. John's, Nfld., April 22.—The work of picking up bodies of the victims of the Titanic disaster was continued today by the cable ship Mackay-Bennett according to wireless dispatches received here. Most of the bodies cannot be identified because clad only in sleeping garments. A number of bodies have been identified and placed in coffins.

Washington, D. C., April 22.—Acting upon information that the bodies of several of the victims of the Titanic disaster had been picked up near the scene of the catastrophe, Senator Martine, of New Jersey, today introduced a resolution requesting the president to send to the place several revenue cutters, and to keep them there at least a month in the hope of finding other bodies.

POWDERMAN KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Frightfully Mutilated When Dynamite Detonators Explode—Two Other Men Injured

Lytton, April 22.—With his left hand blown off at the wrist, thumb and two fingers gone from his right, both eyes blown out and a number of ghastly wounds in his abdomen, Geoffrey Rugg, powderman for J. S. Washtok, was brought in from Cisco Saturday night and taken to the Kamloops hospital, where he died yesterday morning.

Just before quitting time he started to open a box of dynamite detonators in the rock-cut where Washtok's steam shovel is operating and in some unaccountable manner the caps exploded. There were one hundred caps, exerting a force of ninety pounds.

Contractor Washtok, who was near Rugg, had his left eye badly injured and several of the copper caps penetrated his left arm. He went to Vancouver for treatment. The blacksmith helper was also wounded in the legs.

Rugg was a German and married. His family lives in Hartford, Wis. He had a reputation of being a careful man. He was conscious and able to converse after the accident, but was unable to assign a cause for it.

CASE OF DR. NESBITT.
Chicago, April 22.—The deportation aspect of the Nesbitt case is something which conveys more or less dread to the doctor and his friends. Dr. Prentiss, immigration officer, has forwarded a statement to Washington containing the facts and the report of his own officers that the doctor entered the United States without inspection. This latter term may mean anything under the regulations of the department.

A strong presentation of the reason why Dr. Nesbitt should not be deported had been made out by his lawyer and forwarded to the department at Washington.

THIRTY-FIVE KILLED.
Chicago, April 22.—Thirty-five persons are reported killed and nearly 200 others injured by a tornado which swept over the central part of Illinois and northwestern Indiana on Sunday.

ENGINEERS TO STRIKE.
New York, April 22.—Chief Stone announced late today that a strike of engineers of fifty railroads east of Chicago and north of the Potomac river would go into effect thirty-six hours hence.

NO DESIRE TO SUPPRESS FACTS

WHITE STAR OFFICIAL MAKES STATEMENT

Denies Company Had Any Intention to Spirit Away Officers or Sailors

Washington, D. C., April 22.—Testifying before the Senate committee today Vice-President Franklin, of the International Mercantile Marine, denied that the White Star Company had any intention to spirit away from the country any Titanic officers or crew or that the plans to return the survivors of the crew were prompted by any desire to suppress the facts.

Senator Smith said he thought the data regarding the stability of the ship in loaded and damaged conditions should be furnished the committee, and Mr. Franklin said he would try to get the figures.

"Did you receive at any time from anyone a request that the Cedric be taken to New York until the arrival of the Carpathia?" "Yes, sir."

"What time was it received?" "At 1:15," said the witness, who said the telegram asked that the Cedric be held because the sender said it was desirable that the members of the crew be sent back on the Cedric, and declared his intention of sailing on that ship himself. The sender also asked that clothing and shoes be brought to the dock for him when the Carpathia got in.

"By whom was that signed?" "Yamsi."

"Do you know who Yamsi is?" "Yes, sir; it's either for Mr. Ismay's signature. I sent in reply the following: 'Yamsi, Carpathia: Have arranged forward crew Lapland sailing Saturday. Call at Plymouth. We all consider most unwise to delay Cedric, considering the circumstances, Franklin.'"

Mr. Franklin read all the messages that passed between himself and Ismay on the Carpathia on April 18. These included a request that he join the Carpathia at quarantine, and several messages urging that the Cedric be held. Franklin sent this wireless message to Ismay: "Think it most unwise to detain Cedric in New York."

This was followed by a reply from Ismay which included: "Unless you have good and sufficient reasons not to hold the Cedric, kindly do so."

Franklin then sent a message expressing his regret that the Cedric could not be held, and added: "Expect to join you at quarantine. All arrangements made for Carpathia at dock."

mistake made about that matter," said Franklin. "I would like to clear it up."

"The criticisms have been made that we were trying to keep those men from testifying. That is not so. That was not the reason at all."

"As far as the crew are concerned, it was our duty to return them to their homes. If they were permitted to roam around here, men would besiege them for news, give them presents, take them away and many of them would get lost. We assured you that we would hold any officers or men that you wanted for this committee. We made that promise to you, Senator Smith, as soon as the boat docked. There was no attempt on our part to spirit away any member of the crew, to the best of my knowledge and belief."

"What possible harm could these men do us in an inquiry? They could not tell any more than the particulars, many of them probably not so much. The worst they could say couldn't help matters."

CONTRIBUTION TO LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS

New Resolution Will Be Submitted—South Douglas Street Widening

At the meeting of the city council to-night principal interest centres in the action of the council with reference to the Sooke Lake waterworks scheme. The report of Consulting Engineer Wynn Meredith on the subject is awaited with interest. In accordance with a recently passed resolution of the council, a formal motion to rescind the resolution of April 21 last year dealing with the contributions of the city to local improvement work is to be moved. Under this motion the city will contribute one-fifth to all such work, except expropriations for widening and similar purposes in which ultimately the owners benefitted pay the whole cost, while, of course, there is an exception made to this new rule in the case of sewers, surface drains and water laterals.

Notices for abandoning the widening of South Douglas street to 100 feet, and for permanently paving the present 66 feet, have been duly posted. The council has been so long held up over this matter, and the improvement of the approach to the park has been so repeatedly delayed, that the final decision on this subject will be welcome. No decision has yet been reached by the committee on the car for the water commissioner for service to Sooke Lake. Apparently the city is to further extend its adventures in the realm of providing officials' cars, this course being determined upon with the passage of a report from the health and morals committee on the purchase of a car for the medical officer of health.

LOCAL NEWS

Building Permit—A building permit has been granted by the Oak Bay municipal council to A. R. Graham for an eight-roomed house on St. Patrick street. The architect is W. D. Rochefort, and the builders, Messrs. N. Benneck & Sons. The estimated cost of the structure is $5,500.

Building Permits—Building permits were granted this morning to W. S. Wood for a five-roomed house on Fisgard street costing $2,000; to S. G. Russell for a six-roomed house on Hutton street costing $2,200; to Mrs. Winkler for a five-roomed house on Vancouver street costing $1,900, and to N. H. Canfield for a six-roomed house on Fernwood road costing $2,500.

Builders' Notice—Doors, windows, glass, Lath etc., in stock. Get our estimate. R. A. Green & Co. Phone R1988. Shop 1037 Fisgard St.

Judgment for Defendant—The action brought by George J. Lee against the Grand Trunk Pacific Transfer Company for damages in lieu of notice of dismissal was concluded before Judge Lampan this morning, his honor deciding for the defendant with costs. The company had paid $35 into court in settlement of the accused's demand of $150, and out of that amount will receive back the costs of the action.

Mrs. L. Réess, B. D., will lecture in Eagles' Hall, Government street, Sunday evening. Subject: "What is true Spiritualism? Soul messages at close."

Afraid of Strikers—A Herschlick, an employee, was fined $10 in the police court this morning for carrying a loaded revolver. The accused said he carried the weapon for his own protection and was afraid he would be molested by the strikers. He was warned not to carry a revolver and told that in the event of trouble he would have police protection.

Notice of Removal—The Victoria Botanic Beverage Co. wishes to inform their customers and the public generally, that they have removed to their more commodious premises, 2626 Cedar Hill road, and are now in a position to cope with the demands that have been made for their beverages.

Stole Bicycle—Neil G. Clarke, a boy from Seattle, who admitted stealing a bicycle, was to-day allowed to go on suspended sentence for one year. He will probably be returned to Seattle. A companion named Claude Edwards, charged jointly, pleaded not guilty to bicycle theft and the prosecution after an investigation withdrew the information.

Y.M.C.A. Baseball—On Saturday evening at the Y.M.C.A. a meeting of the baseball enthusiasts appointed a nominating committee for officers for the next meeting, which is to take place on Wednesday night at 8.30 o'clock. The meeting also decided to practice at North Ward Park on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week, beginning at 5.30 and continuing until dark. Every Saturday afternoon a match will be decided, beginning at 2.30.

Business Sold—The business of H. Smith & Company, biscuit manufacturers, Vancouver, has been bought by the Mooney Biscuit Company, of Stratford, Ont., and Winnipeg. The transfer of the Vancouver company to the new interests has not been yet completed, but W. C. Mooney, vice-president of the Mooney Biscuit Company, is now on his way west from Winnipeg to Vancouver to close the deal. The price paid to the holders of stock in the H. Smith company for their interest was about $200,000. The Vancouver company formerly operated extensively in Victoria with headquarters here.

Development League—Letters at the Vancouver Island Development League's local branch this morning included a large batch from the British Isles, and a number from Eastern Canada. Of the former the most interesting was from a Birmingham shopkeeper who is desirous of setting up a business in this country with a fair amount of capital at his disposal. The league is discouraging all emigrants without capital from coming to Victoria, except they be single men and workmen of some skill. Promiscuous settlers are neither welcome nor desirable. From Exeter in the west of England comes a communication from a gentleman who is going to set up a fruit farm on the island, and will take up market gardening on a fairly large scale. A Saskatchewan farmer states that he intends taking a trip through British Columbia with the object of viewing the farm lands and will include in tour this island and city. Another letter is from the site of the Pattle of Bannockburn, near Stirling, in Scotland, where a Scotsman asks for information and literature about the resources of Vancouver Island.

OBITUARY RECORD

The funeral of the late James D. Robinson, one-time mayor of Victoria, took place on Saturday afternoon from the B. C. Funeral parlors, Rev. Dr. Campbell officiating. There was a large attendance of friends and city officials, the latter including the city clerk, W. J. Dowler, representing the mayor; the city treasurer, E. C. Smith; the city assessor, W. W. Northcott, and several of Victoria's ex-mayors, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," and "Rock of Ages" were the hymns sung. There were numerous beautiful wreaths and flowers, the following acting as pallbearers: H. Catcath, E. C. Smith, H. Burde, W. J. Clark, G. Anderson and H. Moss.

The death occurred at the Jubilee hospital on Saturday last of James C. Little, Little is known of the deceased, save that he was a laborer, was born in Birmingham, and that he is survived by his mother in that city. His home in Victoria was at 11 Carpenters' cabins, Hill street.

The funeral of the late Joseph Hunter took place yesterday afternoon at 3.15 from the residence of his sister-in-law, 2666 Cook street, and fifteen minutes later from St. Barnabas' church, where the Rev. E. G. Miller conducted the service. The hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung. There were numerous flowers and a very large attendance of friends and sympathizers. The Knights of Pythias, of which order the deceased was a member, attended in a body, while there were delegations from the Victoria fire department and also from the Stationary Engineers. At the graveside the K. of P. service was conducted by Brother George W. Allison, vice-chancellor of the order, assisted by Brother Thos. Gould, acting prelate. The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. C. Watts and J. Cookley (K. of P.), A. Aitken and F. Rogers (Stationary Engineers), and E. Palmer and G. Bates (Victoria fire department).

DROWNED IN WELL.
Reeder, N. D., April 22.—Warning her little girl back from the well to which she had gone for a pail of water, Mrs. Henry Sielar was drowned when the ground caved in. The children, a girl aged two, and a boy aged seven months, were but a few feet away when the accident happened.

Mr. Sielar was absent from the claim at the time and when he returned several hours later found the children crying and the mother dead in the well. The well had not been curbed up and was nearly filled with water. She was 22 years old and they had been married about three years.

FREIGHT CAR DERAILED.

Accident on V. & S. Ties up Traffic Nearly Three Hours.
Yesterday the evening train from Sidney was delayed about two hours and a half by an accident on the V. & S. which caused the derailment of the last freight car attached to a freight passing southbound into the city.

The occurrence happened about three o'clock, and the freight train, made up of seven cars, was bound for the city, and when near the crossing of the Saanich road the last car broke loose from the couplings, and rolled off the track into the right-of-way. The damage done to the track as the car left the line involved a lengthy delay, while a gang made repairs, before it was possible to send the evening passenger train through in safety. Naturally the accident caused a good deal of inconvenience, as the train is unusually crowded on Sundays, and the passengers had a weary wait before they could return to town.
