ROOSEVELT CALLS PRESIDENT'S WAR MESSAGE GREAT STATE PAPER

Washington, April 3.—Colonel Roosevelt stopped off here today on his way home from Florida to call on President Wilson at the White House and congratulate him on his address to Congress. Colonel Roosevelt went to the main door of the executive mansion, where he learned that the President had gone over to his office. The Colonel left his card and departed without seeing the President. Colonel Roosevelt standing in the midst of a great crowd in the railway station here dictated the following statement: "The President's message is a great state paper which will rank in history among the great state papers of which Americans in future years will be proud. It now rests with the people of the country to see that we put in practice the policy the President has outlined and that we strike as hard, as soon, and as effectively as possible in aggressive war against the government of Germany. "We must send troops to the firing line as rapidly as possible. Defensive war is hopeless. We must by vigorous offensive warfare win the right to have our voice count for civilization and justice when the time for peace comes. "I, of course, very earnestly hope that I may be allowed to raise a division for immediate service at the front. I guarantee that no finer body of fighting men could be gathered than there would be in that division, but of course the men to whom I would appeal will come forward only if it is understood that the division is to be sent at the earliest practicable moment into the fighting line."

Just So It's Beefsteak.

Paul, who lived in the country, where at his house pork is the predominant meat throughout the year, had gone to the city to visit his aunt. Thinking, of course, she must have things he liked best to eat, she asked him what kind of meat she should get for dinner, and Paul's reply was, "I don't care, aunt, whether it is horse or cow, just so it is beefsteak."

The Date Palm.

No tree is more graceful and beautiful than a date palm, and the plants the Arizona university have concluded make stately ornaments for lawns and parks. At the same time they grow an appetizing article of food. In northern Africa, the native habitat of the date palm, the fruit is a common article of daily diet.

Growing Dates.

Dates are imported to the United States from the warm countries of southern Europe and Africa, but it is the efforts of western experimenters that have been full of fruit. It may be expected that this country will hereafter grow long all its own dates, according to a writer in the Scientific American.

As Charley Saw It.

Charley, aged three, was spending the day with his grandparents. The grandfather wanted to read, but Charley was playing boisterously. "Charley, sit down and keep quiet!" said the grandfather sternly. Charley dropped on the nearest seat and sat looking from one to the other for possibly a minute, then said, "Grandpa! Grandpa!" "Well, what is it?" said the grandfather. "Why, you and grandpa, just sound as if you were dead!"
