RUSHING NECESSARY REPAIR WORK ON CANADIAN NATIONAL GRAIN CARS

The Transcona yards and shops of the Canadian National Railways have for weeks been busily engaged in getting engines and cars into shape for the grain movement now opening.

No. 1—Photograph shows giant locomotives as they came from the Transcona shops after being "tuned up" for the greatest transportation effort of the year.

No. 2—Strings of box cars which have just been delivered from the repair yard.

No. 3—The busy "rip track," where gangs of men have been for months working on necessary repairs and in some cases almost rebuilding bad order cars in order to fit them for the grain-hauling rush. If all the engines which are ready for the grain movement were placed end to end they would stretch over some ten miles of track; while the aggregate length of the box cars which have been distributed through the western grain areas in preparation for the movement would be some 350 miles. Preparations for the movement of the crop have been made on a monumental scale and it is anticipated that this year the Canadian National will handle a greater proportion of Canada's wheat yield than ever before.

Runs "Clearing House" for Unemployed

Chicago, Aug. 29.—In the sheltered, comfortable, cultured suburb of Evanston, back in the eighties, lived a young woman whose brain hummed with questions to which schools and books gave no answer. She wanted to know why laborers were discontented and went on strikes. She wanted reasons for poverty, unhappiness and ignorance. She wanted to perform the miracle of transforming those conditions. So she left Evanston and went to live "back of the yards." Now, after more than thirty years there, with questions answered at least in part, she's holding the most important official welfare position in Chicago among women social workers. She's Miss Mary E. McDowell, city commissioner of public welfare. She served her apprenticeship in social work under Jane Addams at Hull House. Since 1893 she has been director of the University of Chicago Settlement. The public welfare department was intended to gather information and direct the work of private welfare agencies. In practice it has to answer calls for every variety of need of destitution. The woman who wormed her social service theories in practical helpfulness at her settlement house has to answer those calls without being perplexed at their novelty. And at the same time she is working out a plan for constructive aid to "Hobohemia." There are from 30,000 to 75,000 homeless, jobless men here all the time," she says. "We're going to open a 'clearing house' for the unemployed this fall. I think it will be the first of the kind anywhere. We don't expect to get the facts on all the thousands in the hobo ranks, but we shall get more and more as the weather gets colder. Those who need medicine will be treated and those who want work will be settled in jobs. This will prove a new thing in the way of aggressive carrying of help to those who need it, instead

Court is Like a Cafeteria; Prisoners Set Sentences

Youngstown, O., Aug. 28.—Cafeteria style justice! Police Judge Joseph L. Heffernan has originated it here. He permits prisoners to sentence themselves and their fellow offenders, too. And why? Well, he's said "Good morning, judge," no less than a dozen times himself. He knows how it goes with the "erring brother." Some folks don't put much stock in all this talk of environment being the influencing factor of crime. Heffernan does. Gets New View That's why he lets the men from the lineup take his place. He wants to know how they treat their fellows in misfortune. The experiment has proved successful. These prisoner-judges have been fair to their fellow offenders. And they've judiciously upheld the law. When sentences are necessary, they recommend them. Then the court officially imposes them. "We're too much inclined to clas-

BRITISH HARVESTERS

These are a few of the men recruited by the Canadian Pacific Railway in Britain for work in the Canadian harvest fields. As will be seen, they are a sturdy type, and as all are workmen, skilled in some trade, they will be a valuable addition to the Dominion's agricultural and industrial workers if they can be induced to remain in the country after the harvest. Nearly four thousand men were recruited in England by this Company and given passage at reduced harvesters rates on the Canadian Pacific Steamships.

sify offenders as outcasts." Heffernan muses. "We view them as stigmatized beings, apart from and antagonistic to society. They're not. Society ought to have a sympathetic interest in them. "Maybe I feel this more than some judges, because I've been in jail twelve times myself. My offences, thank goodness, were minor ones, such as train riding. But in some sections of the country that's a high crime. Sees Mercy Need "But did any judge ever say to me: 'My boy, what is that hidden impulse that takes you away from a good home and a loving mother to roam over the face of the earth?' "Not one. I was an offender, simply because I did not choose to stay in a rat a less adventurous society prescribed for me. "When a man appears before me, I always ask him about himself, his home and his family, but above all about his work. What does he do for a living? That gives me a line on him. "So far I have found few whose work I did not understand. I have worked in the steel mills, in railroad and construction camps, in pipe line and shovel gangs, in the galleys of Ohio River steamboats, in hotels from Atlantic City to Los Angeles. I have been a 'rough-neck' in the oil fields of Illinois and Oklahoma, and have sweated in the Mojave Desert and on the water front in San Francisco. I've been a bookkeeper and accountant, a newspaper man and a free-lance in Europe. "Now I'm called upon to sit as judge over my fellowman. And I'm thankful for the experience that has led me to understand their problems."

NEW KING SAYS HE'LL SUCCEED BEN

Boston Harbor, Mich., Aug. 29.—And now comes George Shoemaker with a "prophecy" of his own. It's this—that he's to be the chosen one to take the place of Benjamin Purnell, "king" of the House of David.

Shoemaker—once a member of the colony, and ousted 10 years ago—has been waiting these long years for the reign of Benjamin to end. In the state's investigation Benjamin and his colony, Shoemaker sees the end. "I shall rule," says the eighty-year-old erstwhile disciple of Benjamin. "Benjamin's blood will not be cleansed. Shoemaker has already called upon deserters from Benjamin's camp to gather round him. Shoemaker has been a familiar figure in Benton Harbor for ten years. He came here twenty years ago from South Bend, Ind., joined Benjamin's flock and then eventually was ejected. But Shoemaker never renounced the Israelite faith. He still believes that he will live forever. And at eighty he looks as if he might, for he's hale and hearty. Shoemaker says he put well patents into Benjamin's hands that were worth $40,000. Since coming out of the colony he's made his living putting down wells. Time and again the old well-digger has walked over a piece of ground and said: "There's water here." And when he put his well down he never failed to hit the right spot! That's why some of those who have deserted Benjamin's domain think the old man is inspired and that he will eventually head the 144,000 elect of the House of David.

To Restore The Apparently Drowned

With the advent of the Summer season, and indulgence in aquatic sports, to save the toll which the water annually takes from careless or exhausted persons in the water, The Times publishes some directions for the restoration of the apparently drowned. Those selected are those laid down by the St. John Ambulance Association, Canadian headquarters, Ottawa, and known as the Schafer method, are as follows:
1.—When the body is recovered from the water do not attempt to loosen or remove clothing, but immediately proceed to perform Professor Schafer's method of artificial respiration.
2.—Lay the patient in a prone position (i.e., back upwards) with head turned to one side, so as to keep his nose and mouth away from the ground. No pad is to be placed under the patient, nor need the tongue be drawn out, as it will fall naturally.
3.—Kneel at one side facing the patient's head, and place the palms of your hands on his lowest ribs, one at each side, the thumbs nearly touching one another in the small of the back. Lean your body forward, slowly apply firm but not violent pressure straight downwards upon the back and lower part of the chest, thus driving air out and producing expiration. Draw back your body somewhat more rapidly and relax the pressure, but do not remove your hands; this produces inspiration.
4.—Alternate these movements by a rhythmic swaying backwards and forwards of your body, twelve to fifteen times a minute, persevering until respiration is restored, or a doctor pronounces life to be extinct.
5.—Induce circulation and warmth after natural breathing has been restored. Wrap the patient in dry blankets or other covering and rub the limbs energetically towards the heart. Promote warmth by hot flannels, hot-water bottles, or hot bricks (wrapped in flannel) applied to the feet, to the limbs and body. When the power of swallowing has returned give hot tea or coffee, or meat extract. The patient should be kept in bed and encouraged to go to sleep. Large poultices or fomentations applied to the front and back of the chest will serve to assist breathing.
6.—Watch the patient carefully for some time to see that the breathing does not fall; should any signs of failure appear, at once begin artificial respiration.

HISTORICAL DATA ON ANTARCTIC ISLAND EXPEDITION

American Naturalists Will Set Sail in September

Austin, Texas, Aug. 29.—What is claimed to be the most extensive natural history expedition ever undertaken will be started in September under the direction of George Finlay Simmons, Texas naturalist. The expedition, which is sponsored by the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, will cover approximately 25,000 miles and will be in progress for two years.

The expedition will leave New London, Conn., on a specially constructed schooner commanded by George Comber, who commanded the McMillan relief expedition in 1917. The party will visit many volcanic islands and wild regions in the Antarctic and Indian Oceans.

After leaving New London the first landing of the expedition will be St. Paul rocks off the coast of Brazil. From here the course will lead directly south into the land of the Antarctic. Investigations will be made and specimens of bird and other life collected on the South Georgia island, Sandwich and Latter Islands. The last group is covered with ice and snow throughout the year and frequently visited by volcanic eruptions, it is stated.

After visiting several groups of islands in the Antarctic region, the party will move to Cape Town, Africa. The winter season will be spent in Africa. Expeditions will be made into the mountains along the west African coast and visits to St. Helena and Ascension Islands in the middle Atlantic.

On approach of the Arctic Summer the naturalists will go into the southern part of the Indian Ocean. Life on the Crozet, Desolation and Kerguelen Islands will be studied. An effort will be made to get specimens of the giant sea elephant of the Antarctic region.

The expedition party will include more than fifteen recognized naturalists. Director Simmons recently was named as curator of birds at the Museum of the Cleveland museum. He has attained distinction through investigations of bird life on gulf islands off the Texas coast. He was an instructor in the University of Texas here.

ST. LOUIS PREPARES FOR AERIAL DERBY

International Meet to be Held Early in October

St. Louis, Aug. 29.—Preparation of St. Louis field for the international air races to be held here October 1, 2 and 3, is rapidly nearing completion. The work is in charge of Col. Albert T. Perkins and represents, virtually, the construction of a new field.

The site is the old Bridgeton field, formerly a commercial field but now the home of the Missouri National Guard air unit.

A unique ceremony was held last month by way of formally dedicating the field. Major Albert B. Lambert took aloft a 150-pound stone and dropped it where the first hangar is being built. Officials said this was the first corner-stone ever laid by airplane.

The amount of grading being done to level off the field is equivalent to about fifty miles of ordinary railroad grading. Six steel hangars, sixty-six by 120 feet, a machine shop and a water tower with a 10,000 gallon capacity also are under construction. Housing arrangements also will be made for the 800 regular army troops, military and civilian flyers and their mechanics, who will be at the field during the meet.

Seating arrangements will be provided by the erection of 3,200 boxes, holding six persons each and will accommodate 50,000. Parking space for 6,000 cars also will be arranged.

Col. Perkins is chairman of the grounds committee of the St. Louis Aeronautic Corporation. He is a prominent railroad man of St. Louis, the southwest. During the war he was attached to the engineers and was twice decorated.

Major F. M. Scanlon, personal representative of Major-General Mason T. Patrick, chief of the U.S. Army air service, is at the field supervising arrangements for the army entrants.

TORONTO EXHIBITION DRAWING CROWDS

About three hundred children were reported lost on the grounds during the day, but most of them were claimed by their parents before night.

WHEAT CUTTING IS GENERAL ON PLAINS

FREE STATE MAY HOLD CAPTIVES FOR SIX MONTHS

Political Prisoners, Giving Pledge, Gradually Being Released

Dublin, Aug. 29.—Recent powers granted the Irish Government have made it clear that there will be no immediate release, in a body, of the 12,000 De Valera followers, including 300 women, who were seized during the late rebellion. The government announces it will continue the present practice of releasing 200 a month. These prisoners are given their liberty on pledge of quiet behavior.

The government made its attitude known following the enactment of a parliamentary law, permitting the authorities to hold untried prisoners for six months longer. Government officials also pointed out that they have power to make further arrests, if necessary.

Treatment of prisoners continues to be a subject of much discussion and investigation. Protest meetings are held every Sunday in Dublin, where Mrs. Maude Gonne MacBride and Mrs. Despard, sister of the Earl of Yprea, are the chief speakers. They charge that the rebel prisoners suffer from overcrowding in jails, from lack of proper sanitation and insufficient food. Beating of prisoners is frequent, the women claim.

The government brings answers from ministers to the effect that the Republican prisoners are waging a deliberate campaign of disorderliness in their resulting discomforts. Such was the procedure of the ministers themselves against the British in the old days. The Free State officers say, and they charge that the rebels are imitating the tactics which they employed.

At a recent session, government officials read letters from prisoners to their wives saying they were well fed and cared for. Critics of the present charge that the letters, contending that the captives made light of their suffering to reassure relatives.

Little has developed to substantiate the charges, but these appeared to be isolated cases. Numerous prisoners, on being freed, have told newspaper correspondents that they found the jails insupportable, but were not inhumanly treated.

Congestion in the prisons is traceable to the lack of space and the fact that the total of prisoners is far in excess of Ireland's jail accommodations.

The government says its representative is making every reasonable effort toward humane treatment of those in detention. To criticism of the imprisonment of prisoners, however, the government says the 12,000 captives "have taken part in reasonable revolt, have shot down soldiers and carried on a campaign of terrorism which throws the Black and Tan regime into the shade."

ENDS CAREER OF NOTORIOUS GUNMAN

Jack Kaplan Killed by Youth as Detectives Waited

New York, Aug. 29.—A striping with a gun took the law out of the hands of the New York police yesterday and wrote a dramatic finale to the career of Jack Kaplan, alias "Kid" Dropper, notorious gunman and leader of the "Kaps" or "Dropper gang."

The wily gangster chief, on whom the police had been trying to fasten something for months, swamged from a room in the Market Court.

He had just defeated the latest effort to connect him with the shooting of two members of a rival gang. Some of the police officers had crowded the court to guard against a rumored attempt at his rescue, nailed him with a warrant charging violation of the Bureau Anti-Pistol Law.

The Dropper stepped cheerfully to the taxicab in which his captors planned to take him to another court, but it was evident that he was lurking behind the cab, straightened up, drew a pistol and blazed away through the back window of the cab.

The Dropper slumped down in his seat with two bullets in his head. The taxicab driver was laid out with a scalp wound. Detective Captain Williams' hat was pierced by another shot. Two other shots went wide.

Louis Cohen, the assassin, by killing Dropper, may have saved the lives of several policemen and possibly injured by bystanders. For, in the roundup made by detectives in the crowd that gathered after the slaying, a half-dozen armed members of the "Dropper gang" were taken. The courtroom had been heavily guarded because of reports that the "Dropper" men were coming to free him. But it had been impossible to take any elaborate measures outside.

Officially, the police had nothing to say about the slaying of "Kid" Dropper, but it was evident that they were not among the mourners at his passing. He long had been a thorn in the side of officials who tried to "get him."

The kid was one of the foxiest men we ever had to contend with," one police official said.

CHICAGO TO TEACH FUNDAMENTALS OF SAFETY IN SCHOOLS

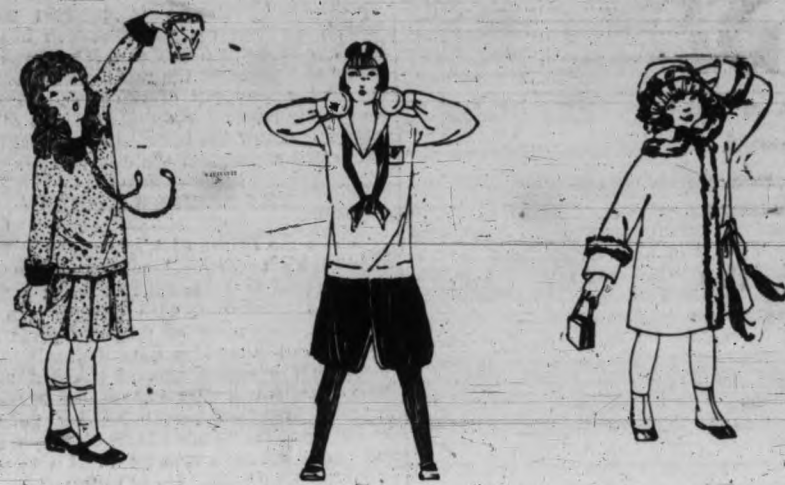

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Systematic classroom work in safety education for every child in the public schools is Chicago's plan in the nation-wide campaign to check the mounting toll of accidental death and injury.

A plan for schooling in accident prevention, safety methods, and frat aid activities drawn by a committee appointed by Superintendent of Schools Peter A. Mortenson will be put into practice in the elementary schools at the opening of the fall term.

Safety education through slogans and games, class room and gymnasium, dramatization and debates is a part of the plan. In addition, an effort will be made to relate accident statistics with the students' work in arithmetic, grammar and geography.

THE HELP THAT WON

A steamship recently brought to Vancouver from England, a fine new racing boat for the Vancouver Rowing Club, the gift of a public-spirited citizen of the Terminal City. Practically all of the excellent equipment of that club, so conspicuously in evidence at the N. P. A. O. regatta at Shawinigan last month, was provided in this way, the aim of the donors being, of course, to help the young oarsmen of Vancouver to win for their city the rowing supremacy of the Pacific Northwest.

THE DREAMER

Shortly before his arrest Eamonn de Valera informed an American newspaperman that an overwhelming majority of the people of Ireland desire independence and the maintenance of the Republic. He contended that the conditions of the election that has since taken place were totally unfair and that the republicans would not contest it at all if it were not for the fact that abstention would convey the idea that republicans were an insignificant minority in the country.

This is all very interesting. But if there is such an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the Republic—which naturally implies that there are many thousands willing to continue to bear arms in defence of their belief in their cause—how is it that, presumably before the interview referred to, de Valera himself virtually threw up the sponge and made what was nothing short of a peace offer to the Government? And how came it that when the people had their first opportunity to show their dislike or approval of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, at a time when the republican element was in a position to, and did, use every means of intimidation, they saw to it that the supporters of the Griffith-Collins policy were elected to the Dail in sufficient number to guarantee no turning back from the course that promised the goal towards which their vision had been directed for centuries?

How comes it that the rebel cause is not flourishing at this later date? How will de Valera reconcile the large majorities which the Free State Ministers have obtained with the declaration that "an overwhelming majority of the people desire independence and the maintenance of the Republic?" And how can he suggest that an election is unfair which permits the nomination of candidates sworn to wreck the Free State and set up a republic? When he has studied the complete returns a few days hence he may decide that he is on the wrong track after all.

BACK TO CONFERENCES

Only a relatively small number of people at this juncture are interested in the reason why Mr. Lloyd George changed his attitude towards Germany and what Germany should either do of her own free will or be made to do under pressure. He continues to fashion a case that is more or less masterfully presented. He differs from the prevailing French point of view and he already knows that a large body of public opinion in Great Britain refuses to be persuaded that all would be well if the army of occupation were to be withdrawn and Germany allowed to carry out the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles as if she were still a nation to be trusted.

Mr. Lloyd George's personal interest in the reparations controversy, however, will take on new life now that the Prime Ministers of the four principal Allies are preparing themselves for a face to face discussion once more. For it will have to be admitted that the conference idea was peculiarly the little Welshman's own. His critics ridiculed it and pounded him incessantly. All they could see in it was a new way of advertising Mr. Lloyd George. It was an assault upon the stronghold of diplomacy and interfered with the little schemes in which statesmen have indulged for centuries. It was international dealing vulgarized and cheapened. Some of the strictures were no doubt quite true. Mr. Lloyd George never was guilty of neglecting any opportunity that could be turned to his own political advantage. At the same time progress was made and round table discussion has proved a great deal more direct and beneficial than the long range diplomacy that is represented by the dialectic interchange of more recent days.

Nor is it likely that we have seen the end of international conferences. Disarmament will never be brought about by an exchange of notes. The Washington gathering was immediately successful because all cards were on the table at one time for the representatives of every nation to see. All that was expected and hoped for may not have been accomplished, but a very large number of powerful battleships are already scrapped and others will soon be in the hands of the breakers. The results so far obtained by following the conference plan justify its continuance. However small and however intangible the progress made, if there is progress made, and the way to international concord is brought that much nearer, the face to face discussion has justified itself. And if the four Prime Ministers interested in the settlement of the reparations question cannot find a way out of the present impasse by meeting together for discussion it is difficult to understand how the interchange of lengthy documents will accomplish the desired end.

THE PRINCE'S HOLIDAY

When the Prince of Wales spoke at the Canadian Club's armistice luncheon in London last year he said that his Alberta ranch was always to him a great link with Canada. In fact he considers that piece of property gives him the right to call himself a Canadian.

These are expressions of pleasant sentiment from one who will some day succeed to the British Throne. His forthcoming holiday to the Dominion gives the people of this country a new and still more intimate interest in this exceedingly popular young man. He is undoubtedly eagerly looking forward to a rest from the exacting round of official and semi-official duties and he may be sure that his desire for absolute privacy will be rigidly respected from the moment he arrives until he leaves his Western home. One could wish that it were possible for him to renew those pleasant associations which seem to have afforded him more than ordinary satisfaction when he made his triumphant pilgrimage through this country four years ago.

It is not to be, however, and the Canadian people will content themselves with the hope that before the time comes for the Prince to take up the sceptre he will come back to his ranch for another holiday when the need for rest may not be as insistent as it undoubtedly is at present.

Note and Comment

Mr. Charles Wright, secretary of the passenger agents' organization that is now meeting in conference in Glasgow, informed the gathering this morning that it was largely a man's own fault, if he did not find work in Canada. Mr. Wright came to this Dominion on a tour of personal inspection a short time ago and he speaks with authority. He can find support in the fact that few people who come to this country return to their native land.

Vladimir de Pachmann, the celebrated Russian pianist, admits that he is the greatest pianist living. When he arrived in New York yesterday he said "I am the great player—the greatest player. Nothing could be finer or more superb than what I play. It is marvellous. When I hear what I play, I say: 'It is finished—a perfect thing. Thank God.' This reminds us of that pathetic little ballad entitled, 'I Love Me' or 'Blessed are the Meek.'"

There is now no longer the question as to what Mr. Reginald McKenna would have had to say at the forthcoming Imperial Conference on the subject of imperial preference. He was always a stout opponent to the Chamberlain policy and it is inconceivable that he has undergone any change of heart since he has been more directly associated with finance than with politics. And his presence at the gathering in question as Chancellor of the Exchequer would not have permitted him to differ with the Prime Minister, or from the British Government's unit, on such an important question. Consequently in selecting Mr. Chamberlain the Prime Minister has obviously simplified matters. The new Chancellor follows in the footsteps of his late father and his brother.

DRUG CASE GROWS MORE COMPLICATED

Accused Granted Remand on Bail of $2,000 in Opium Seizure

Assertions That Policemen Were Acting Under Orders Refuted

Assertions that F. W. Eccles and W. L. Smith, officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Vancouver, were acting as police officers under instructions of a superior created an unexpected turn when the trial resumed in the City Police Court this morning. They were charged with Frank Fernandez, longshoreman, of Vancouver, with illegal possession of opium valued at $1,500.

It was further stated by H. G. S. Heisterman, acting for the accused, that he as counsel had been informed that the opium seized by Custom Officer Norris and other officers was in the hands of the accused. Heisterman stated that the accused was in the hands of the accused when they were seized by them in the City Police Court. The assertions made by the accused that the opium was in the hands of the accused when they were seized by them in the City Police Court. The assertions made by the accused that the opium was in the hands of the accused when they were seized by them in the City Police Court.

"An Outrageous Matter" The hearing opened with a statement by Mr. Heisterman. "Eccles," he said, "I have been instructed to actually carry out his duty at the time of arrest. The whole thing was done under instructions. The arrest of the accused in fact is an outrageous matter."

"There has been no perversion of justice at all. I can assure you," replied Mr. Harrison for the Crown. "I have gone into the case very carefully, and I am going to submit that the change was well founded. At all events the accused will have a fair trial. If they were acting under orders it is still more serious matter. I submit, and bail if granted should be in a substantial amount. At this stage Mr. Heisterman stated that Detective Staff Sergeant Mundy, of the Vancouver squad of the R.C.M.P., would give his personal undertaking that the accused if they were released on their own recognizances. This was flatly rejected by the court, bail being set in the sum of $2,000.

The difference over the granting of bail developed a retort from the two counsel for the defence and the two policemen were acting under orders. This drew from the City Prosecutor the direct question: "If an offence has been committed at all it is very serious indeed," concluded Mr. Harrison. "The hearing adjourned at this point. The case is so strange that I cannot see any reason for making an exception in the amount of the bail," remarked Major Mackay. The proceedings were watched by Special Customs Officer Norris, and officials of the Customs Department, as well as a considerable number of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The proceedings to-day further culminated with the arrest of the three accused on Friday last. The arrest was effected by Customs officers and the driver of the motor car which the passengers were expelled, and the driver ordered to watch a suspect placed beside him on the steps of a downtown building.

Later, when the driver of the car, who was absent guarding his prisoner for some hours, failed to return, the city police were notified by his relatives and the city detective department ordered to find his abductors. Finally this phase of the question was adjusted to the satisfaction of all. Meanwhile, it is understood, the authorities lost sight of others whom they were led to believe were confined in the motor car. It is not clear how the resulting confusion, made a get-away.

NEW DISCOVERY MAY REVOLUTIONIZE THE FINDING OF DEPTHS

Will be Given Experiments by Dr. W. G. Duffield

To Revolutionize Existing Methods of Finding Depth

Dr. W. G. Duffield, Professor of Physics in the University College, Reading, England, is visiting Sydney, Australia, in accordance with an arrangement with the Board of Scientific Research in London, England, to evolve a scheme which, if successful, will revolutionize existing methods of finding the depth of the seabed. The experiments will determine the force of gravity at sea, and are being carried out in the refrigerating chamber of the steamer Nestor, which arrived from the United Kingdom on Saturday. In addition, if successful, they will be of help in the tabulating and mountain ridges of the earth and composition of the earth's crust; also of the nature of the tabulating and mountain ridges along the seabed.

Professor Duffield is an Australian by birth, and received his early education in Australia. He is a prominent figure in the scientific circles of England, where he has been associated with Trinity College, Cambridge, the Victoria University, Manchester, and the National Physical Laboratory. He was largely responsible for the establishment of a solar physics laboratory at Canberra. During his stay in England he conducted a number of important researches in physics, notably respecting the effect of pressure on the spectrum. Professor Duffield is assisted in his research work by T. H. Littlewood, M.A., of Oxford University.

It is pointed out that the problem which concerns Professor Duffield has never been satisfactorily solved. During the visit of the British Association to Australia in 1914, Professor Duffield, who was a member of the party, obtained a series of interesting results which he expects to confirm with the aid of more refined apparatus on the present expedition. The experiments he performed on that occasion seemed to show that the force of gravity varied according to the depth of the water.

If this is found to be the case, the sounding process now universally employed on vessels for ascertaining the depth of the sea may be dispensed with in lieu of a more improved method based on scientific calculation. The idea of making the experiments on board ship is to find how the attraction of the earth varies with the depth and shallow parts of the ocean. Arrangements have been made to neutralize the disturbances caused by the rise and fall of the vessel.

Delicate Apparatus The apparatus in use by Dr. Duffield has been designed to take minute "accurate measurements." With this aid the scientist is endeavoring to measure to five parts in 1,000,000. They are hoping to obtain an automatic record of the complete voyage from Brisbane to England. Tests conducted on the outward trip suggested various alterations required to be made in the apparatus, and these were carried out in the physical laboratory of the University of Adelaide, with the co-operation of Professor Kerr Grant.

Three distinct machines, representing three distinct methods of measuring the force of gravity, are installed in the refrigerating room, so as to be kept at a uniform temperature. One is a photographic recording apparatus which takes a series of photographs of the height of the mercury in the barometer. The other two machines are connected by wires with the force of the machine in which a stalled delicate electrical apparatus. Its function is to receive signals from the mechanism in the refrigerators, and, in accordance with them, automatically adjust the apparatus so as to be in accordance with the variations in the force of gravity. It is probable that other expeditions in other spheres will be made later. In the words of Professor Duffield: "Should my expedition succeed, it will be followed by the despatch of others across the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, and we shall not be thorough until all the oceans have been thoroughly tested."

CALLS PARLEY TO CUT DOWN MENACE OF SAWMILL FIRE

Fire Marshal Asks Municipal Leaders and Lumbermen to Co-operate

Sparks From Mills Are Real Danger, He Tells Mayor and Fire Chief

Plans for reducing the fire menace created by sawmills in the business districts of British Columbia cities were mapped out here to-day at a conference between Fire Marshal J. A. Thomas, Mayor Reginald Hayward and Fire Chief Vernon Stewart. After this meeting it was announced that a further conference of mayors and sawmill operators from cities all over the Province will be held in Vancouver next week to consider methods of reducing the fire hazard.

"The purpose of the round-table conference in Vancouver is to find a way to reduce the fire hazard created by sawmills without interfering seriously with sawmill operations," the Mayor explained after he had talked for some time with the fire marshal. "It is proposed that the sawmills install more effective screens to prevent sparks and charred embers from being emitted. The Fire Marshal's plan to call municipal leaders and sawmill operators into conference was pronounced by recent sawmill fires in Vancouver, the Mayor explained. These fires, according to Mr. Thomas, menaced a large part of the sawmill district of Vancouver.

The Mayor announced that he would recommend that Victoria be represented at the fire conference in Vancouver and had no doubt that this recommendation would be adopted. "If we can get results on this matter the small expense of sending a delegate will be well worth while," the Mayor declared.

Victoria sawmill operators also will be asked to attend the conference and advise plans for cutting down the fire hazard without interfering with mill operations.

EX-SERG. RANDALL BURIED YESTERDAY

The remains of Sergeant Thomas Randall were laid to rest yesterday afternoon. The casket, draped with the Union Jack, was conveyed to the Royal Canadian Legion, where service was conducted by Very Rev. Dean C. S. Quinlan at 2:30 o'clock. The 90th Psalm was sung by the choir. The hymn was "Abide With Me." Eden Quinlan presided as the officiating minister. There were many sympathizing friends present, and many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket. Among those present at the service were: C. C. Tunnard, representing the S.C.R.; Canon Hinchliffe, M.P.P., and members of the Canadian Legion. The following acted as pallbearers: J. R. Saunders, Alan B. Ford, H. S. Morris, E. S. Mitchell, W. E. Niblock, W. H. Blane, all members of the Masonic craft, the late Sgt. Randall being a member of Acacia Lodge, No. 11, A.P. & A.M., Edmonton South.

VICTORIANS ATTEND ROTARY CONFERENCE

Frank Sehl and T. J. Goodlake, secretary of the Victoria Rotary Club, left the city to-day for Olympia where they will attend a meeting of presidents and secretaries of Pacific Northwest Rotary Clubs. This meeting is of considerable importance in the work of Pacific Northwest Rotary, the Victoria delegates believe. James Adam, president of the Victoria Rotary Club in Eastern Canada at present, and cannot attend the meeting.

MR. AVERILL IS APPOINTED TO STAFF OF UNIVERSITY SCHOOL

Following the announcement of the addition of Capt. Baring (Oxon) to the University School staff as an expert in teaching Spanish and French by conversation, it is announced that A. S. Averill is to occupy a position in charge of the English subjects. Mr. Averill is a son of the rector, his father being Rev. G. Averill, M.A. (Oxon), of Lincolnshire, England. After receiving his education in that well-known boys' school, Marlborough College, he proceeded to Cambridge, and in due course took his B.A. with a first in history and an excellent standing in classics and science.

He served in the war from the beginning, having qualified for a commission in October, 1914. In 1916 he was invalided home after the Somme campaign, where he commanded a trench mortar battery. He has done very good work as a master, and comes highly recommended from the last residential school in which he taught. Mr. Averill is popular with boys and has proven himself a success with them in class and on campus. He is also very keen on scouting and will be an aide to Mr. Scarrett, another member of the staff, who is commissioner for the Scouts on Vancouver Island.

The appointment of still another graduate who has won his degree with high standing in B.C. University is likely to be announced shortly. This young man was offered a lectureship at his alma mater, and was one of the leading candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship. The added strength of such highly qualified men places the University School in an enviable position to face its work during the ensuing year.

EX-SUFFRAGETTE NOW TURNS EVANGELIST

Christabel Pankhurst, England's first and leading woman lawyer and suffragette, who during her visits to Vancouver, began to make known her conversion to religion, is now raising the second coming of Christ, has launched forth into an evangelic career.

"Suffrage" means religion, she says, and then she adds brightly, "but I know I'm on the right track now."

By which Christabel means religion, she says, and then she adds brightly, "but I know I'm on the right track now."

Three times or so a week she mounts the platform inside a huge tent over West End Avenue and tells a portion of New York's fairly exclusive residential district that religion is the only thing that can save the world.

She says that she believes in a personal devil and the second coming of Christ.

There should be one universal religion," she says, "and it's the religion that I preach."

"The world is hurrying to destruction and nothing but religion can save it. Social workers will find their work coming to naught unless they are animated by this true religion."

"We've had our statesmen and we've had our philosophers, but neither philosophy nor statesmanship will be able to save us. There's a great battle coming, the battle of Armageddon, and before that—who knows how many other wars?"

It was during the World War, she says, that she became interested in religion, and the manner in which Biblical prophecies had been fulfilled.

And though she had vowed never to make another speech, friends induced her to take to the platform again to make known her new convictions.

Now she gives sermons, not speeches. She goes wherever the churches invite her.

Christabel dismisses the theory of evolution with a couple of pooh-poohs.

"It says in the Bible, doesn't it, that God created man? Well, I stand on that. Any scientist who believes that is only a second-hand scientist anyway."

Woman Scientist Starts Clinic For Cell Research

Berlin, Aug. 29.—Dr. Rhoda Erdmann, who was formerly connected with the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute and Yale University, and was compelled by the war to give up her work there in the investigation of the creation of primitive life by artificial means, is in charge of an institute for cell research which has lately been opened at the institute for cancer research in connection with the Berlin University Infirmary. In 1919 Dr. Erdmann returned to Berlin and became a lecturer in the university. She also began investigations in the cultivation of tissues in continuation of the work done by Leo Loeb and others in the development of parts of the embryo removed from it under the microscope. By degrees the work of Dr. Erdmann has progressed until it has now been officially inaugurated as a distinct institute. Dr. Erdmann has been helped by the American Emergency Society in financing and organizing her important work. She studied zoology under the late Professor Koch and is directing her investigations especially along lines followed by Professor Alexis Carrel.

NEW USE FOR PRUNES

Oregon Varieties to Flavor American Tobacco

Vancouver, Wash. Aug. 29.—A possible permanent outlet for Clarke county prunes is uncovered in the sale here of a carload of small, or cub, prunes to one of the Eastern manufacturers of plug tobacco. These will be used instead of southern molasses in favoring the company's product.

The Clarke county prune is noted for its sweetness, and it is thought that a permanent market can be developed to use forty to fifty cars of these prunes annually.

It was a rather small circus and carried but one lion, one tiger, one elephant, and so on, down the list. After the trainer had put the lion through his paces, an elderly lady appeared at the cage door and remarked:

"Aren't you afraid that this ferocious beast will attempt to make a meal of you some day?"

"To tell you the truth, ma'am," confided the man in the dazzling uniform, "if business doesn't get any better, I'm afraid I'll have to make a meal of this ferocious beast."

APPLIES CLAY TREATMENT TO MODERN NEEDS

The Vanity Box Column of the Canadian Home Journal, in its August issue, has this to say regarding the use of Clay. "A maiden in the north country has written to say that she has tried the clay treatment faithfully, every night for a month, and finds that it is doing her skin a great deal of good. That has been the experience of many who have found that the skin needs something more thorough than cream, to freshen and invigorate it. The clay is not awkward to apply, if you go to work in a business-time treatment. Even handling clean sand shows up that there is something cleaner than anything else in the world. The clay used in the treatment has been so prepared that it has special cleansing and refreshing qualities.

The old belief that the earth has a certain restoring power has much to establish it. The healthiest occupation in the world is gardening—so long as you do not indulge in it too fiercely at once. Again and again, Mother Earth has brought her tired and nerve-wrecked children, who have gone back to the soil for rest and healing. So, it was no far-fetched idea which brought the clay treatment to modern needs and put up little tubes and jars which contain the cleansing material, all of us do not understand how to prepare the clay for toilet use. So modern science does it for us. We cannot all journey to famous mineral springs to partake of health-giving water. So, modern industry and transportation bring the bottle of mineral water to our door."

YOUR HOME AND YOU

By HELEN KENDALL Evading Labor Day Travel

Labor Day—that great American holiday, marking the end of Summer and the return to industry, and supposed to be spent in one last fling of outdoor gaiety before setting back to the domestic and office routine, is really spent by most of the dear public in the hardest kind of labor. If there is anything more like real work than traveling with a family of youngsters, I don't know what it is. During the last day or two before Labor Day, the entire transportation system is clogged as at no other time of the year. The trains are packed, the stations seething with distracted commuters, the streets thronged with hot perspiring, pushing people. Every motor road is congested with cars, mostly going in one direction. Everything is in a hurry, and the result is that you then wait until the very last minute before starting home? By leaving a day or two earlier, the family can travel in comparative quiet and comfort, whether by rail, water or motor. Nothing is gained, and the stored-up energy of the whole Summer is all but lost by waiting until the eve of Labor Day to make the mad rush for home. Especially with little children to look out for, traveling in a crowd is confusion worse confounded. So this year, if you read this in time (which is to say, if your favorite newspaper has followed you to your haunt in the woods), do slip in a little ahead of the throng and make the trip in comfortable quiet. You will be less worn out when you arrive, and better able to start in on the busy weeks ahead of you.

PROVINCIAL POLICE HAVE STEEL CELLS IN NEW QUARTERS

Cost of Fitting Out Menzies Str. Hall Will be Saved in Four Years by Change

Although the finishing touches remain to be given, the new armories quarters of the provincial police in the former Drill Hall on Menzies Street are now taking definite shape. In addition to a handsome set of offices for each branch of the department, the reconstructed interior of the building will provide accommodation for every phase of police work with room to spare. In addition the police have the use of an excellent floor space in the main hall for indoor games or drill purposes. To the Times to-day Inspector Walter Owens expressed satisfaction at the new quarters, which are in one sense the beginning of the re-organization of the force under Superintendent Col. J. H. McMullen since Attorney-General Manson undertook to revitalize the service. Establishment in their own quarters means a saving of nearly $2,000 for the provincial police.

It permits also of still further savings, as the space vacated by the police in the Court House will, it is understood, be used for sheriff's offices and an extension to the Land Registry quarters shortly. At the present the sheriff occupies rented premises.

The administration offices of the police are in the north wing of the building, occupying the whole side of the Drill Hall. Storage space has been made on the south side in a series of wooden cubicles which will be used for the motor license plates.

Commencing at the west entrance from Menzies and walking east a visitor would come first to the general police office and inquiry bureau. The motor and game license branch is next with a separate entrance on the north side of the building.

Between the license office and the general office is a separate room for the chief constable. A courtroom, where will be held all sessions of the Provincial Court adjoining the license office on the east side, and is now being fitted up for immediate use. The magistrate's room is beside the courtroom, but at present there is no connecting door between, and only one entrance or exit to the courtroom.

The cells, four in number, are steel cages set in a block in a room facing the guardroom in the east wing of the building. Beside the cells, though not yet fitted, will be a shower bath. The cells give on to a large guardroom and are fitted with the usual conveniences. The cells, a model of the Oakalla pattern, are enclosed steel cages with two drop bunks, with enough room alongside to permit a man to stand erect.

On the balcony above the main offices are the filing rooms, the game office, the chief clerk's office and the rooms of Inspector Owens and Col. McMullen. It is estimated that the cost of fitting out the former drill hall will be made up in four years, by saving thus affected.

GARDENERS ENTER EXHIBITION HERE

The Victoria and District Gardeners' Association, at a meeting in the City Hall last night, decided to enter an exhibit at the Provincial Exhibition here. It is planned to excel all previous exhibits which have brought premier honors to the association in other years. The association accepted an invitation from the Dominion Experimental Farm to visit that institution on its annual field day, September 3, when an entertaining programme will be provided.

MOVIE METHODS

"Do you think the films are educational?" "They may be in some lines," answered Cactus Joe. "But they don't give any lessons in the way to use firearms. The average film hero handles a rifle like he had accidentally picked it up instead of his walking stick."

B.C. CITIES CUT TAX ARREARS

the questionable ground, apparently that they can be by that means made to pay a higher share of the burdens of the municipality. Value of improvements again shows an increase representing chiefly cost of new buildings erected.

"Totals of arrears of taxes show a reduction from $6,844,144 at the end of 1921 to $6,058,031 at the beginning of this year.

"A good deal has been accomplished, in recent years in making arrears of taxes a substantial asset," Mr. Baird explained. "Since inauguration of compulsory tax sale in 1919, taxes that were considered as coming under the consolidation schemes of 1919 and 1920 cannot be more than two years in arrears until the property is sold and arrears which are allowed to go to tax sale for two years' taxes.

"Municipalities have now on their hands properties representing taxes to the amount of $8,078,535, and these properties will in course of time become valuable assets in many cases when held in the form of individual lots can be turned to good purposes when wholly in the possession of the municipalities.

Increased Revenue—Money received from taxes during the last year are approximately the same as in the previous year, but substantial amounts received from the Government on account of liquor profits, motor licenses and pari-mutuel returns have increased the total of moneys at the disposal of municipalities from $21,341,041 to $23,147,223.

Expenditures for the last year have been slightly less than moneys received. In most cases municipalities have kept within their estimates, although there are one or two important exceptions, the returns show.

"It is always a mistaken policy to incur deficits in order to keep the rate down," Mr. Baird said, "the resultant accumulation of liabilities invariably becomes an embarrassment to the municipality." Gross taxes levied for all purposes were $14,224,644 last year compared with $13,257,890 the previous year.

Greatest increase in expenditures has arisen in connection with streets, administration of justice and schools. This is explained by the fact that many streets constructed from 1911 to 1915 are now requiring substantial repairs for the first time, and the increase in motor traffic is making the street problem serious for municipal administrations.

Money By-Laws—Money by-laws certified during the year totalled $2,578,094, compared with $1,567,272 the previous year. Of this, however, $1,000,000 consists of extension securities issued by Victoria to replace debentures which are maturing.

Moneys from public utilities show an increase, the total being $3,038,124, compared with $2,911,165 the previous year. The burden of water enterprises is becoming lighter year by year.

Mr. Baird said that he is not yet in possession of the financial statement of Victoria for the year 1922, but has obtained his figures from notes kindly loaned him by the auditors.

"With few exceptions municipalities have made good progress in recent years, and in my opinion the contributions made by the Provincial Government have made it possible for every municipality to carry on successfully if unnecessary expenditures are avoided." Mr. Baird said in discussing the situation. "But it is still most urgent that no further liabilities be incurred without most serious consideration by the councils, and that no proposed undertakings be submitted to the ratepayers unless it is assured that they are profitable to the municipality, and that they do not constitute an undue burden on the taxpayers."

"Unfortunately it is being demonstrated at times that even the vote of ratepayers is not infallible in these matters, and unfortunately also only a few ratepayers have sufficient information on the subject, or are sufficiently interested to cast their ballots. I have cases before me in which the vote on money by-law was so small that it could be held was an expression of opinion; in one case in particular less than two per cent. of the qualified voters came to the polls."

SUICIDE AT SASKATOON

Saskatoon, Aug. 29.—John McLatchie, an employee of the city since 1913, whose wife is reported to be living at 222 Twenty-First Avenue East, Vancouver, committed suicide yesterday afternoon with a 22 rifle. The body was found on the river bank by Captain A. Jones, of the fire department. McLatchie took his wife to the coast two months ago, but returned recently and asked for his old position at the car barns here. Disappointment at finding no vacancies, and financial worries are believed to have been the motives for the suicide.

PEOPLE HURT WHEN EXPRESS SIDESWIPED BULGING FREIGHT CAR

Pittsburg, Aug. 29.—A number of persons were injured, principally from flying glass, when a Philadelphia express sideswiped a bulged freight car on an adjoining track last night. $80,000 is known no one was seriously injured. Several cars of the freight train had been wrecked a short time before. One of the cars had bulged over to the adjoining track but not sufficiently to obstruct it. Railroad officials said the trainmen had not had sufficient time to prepare for flagging the passenger train when the express came through from Pittsburg.

CURE FOR LEPROSY REPORTED DISCOVERED

Toronto, Aug. 29.—In a word received by the Presbyterian church offices in Toronto, it is announced that Dr. F. F. Carr-Harris, the Presbyterian medical missionary at Wai Hwi Fu, China, who is home on furlough and at present in Montreal, has given publicity to the fact that a cure for leprosy had been discovered. Dr. Carr-Harris stated a drug called Earseno had been experimented with by French physicians and in one test made by a series of injections, particularly on victims of the nodular type of leprosy, fifteen out of eighteen were completely cured.

Higher Water Rates

At Monday night's meeting of the city council it was made evident that with the completion of the new water system, water rates would necessarily be higher for the city of Duncan, according to the new water rates by-law submitted by the water committee. This is in order that the new water system may be paid for by the consumers rather than by the taxpayers.

Under the new by-law, the minimum price for water service in a house of five rooms will be $1.50 per month, for a six-room house $1.65, and for seven rooms or over $1.75. An extra charge of 50c per month will be made for each bath and toilet convenience.

Water may be supplied to business houses and for business purposes generally, also to private residences subject to the approval of the water committee at the special rates by meter. Higher rates will be charged to consumers outside the city limits.

SS. FRONTIERSMEN AWARDS ARE MADE IN FINE DISPLAY AT THE WILLOWS

Setting Out Outpost Depots For Round-the-World Air Flight

It is expected that in the immediate future Captain Roger Pocock will bring the steam yacht Frontiersmen into the harbor of Victoria and spend some time here looking over the country in connection with the choosing of a depot on Vancouver Island probably in this city, for the flight planned by aviators around the world. The initial flight which the Legion of Frontiersmen planned was a failure, but the crew of adventurers, under Captain Pocock, are establishing posts all over the world, which will aid the aviators in their task of a world flight. The local squadron of the Legion of Frontiersmen is preparing a programme of entertainment for the voyagers, who have traveled many thousands of miles across the oceans of the world, placing their outposts for the aerial craft to call upon for supplies and other necessities. A smoking concert will be given on the arrival of the yacht, with Captain Pocock and her crew, in honor of the mariners who have set out upon so novel an undertaking. The date of the arrival of the Frontiersmen has not yet been set, but it will in all probability dock here in the very near future. Victoria is the only city in Canada where the Legion of Frontiersmen is actively organized, and for this reason the local authorities of the organization expect that this will be the place chosen as a depot for the round-the-world flight. The choice rests between Nanaimo, Vancouver, Victoria and one or two other places along the coast.

BOND MEN FIGHT CUT IN CITY'S BOND INTEREST

But Council Stands Firm Against Payments in American Money

Canadian bond dealers whose clients hold Victoria city bonds have filed emphatic protest in writing at the City Hall over the action of the City Council in refusing to pay bond interest in American funds, as it has done for some years, on certain debt-bonds. The city authorities, it was learned today, are remaining firm in their determination to pay interest only in Canadian and British funds, and will so inform the bond dealers. City Solicitor H. S. Pringle will draw up a statement showing that the city cannot legally make payments in American money. The bonds in question were issued some years ago for repayment in Britain. Later city officials gave the city a promise that the city would meet interest payments in American money, and this promise was contained in a letter that bore the city's official seal. But the latter, the present council has been advised, was valueless and illegal as officials had no power to alter the provisions contained on the face of the debentures. On the strength of the illegal promise, however, the interest actually was paid in American funds for a number of years until the Council ordered this practice to stop this year. Now bond men are protesting against the council's decision, and demanding that interest payments be made in American funds as usual. As the council's legal advisers have advised that payments in American money would be absolutely illegal the council will not alter its stand.

LIQUOR SENTENCE

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 29.—Sentence of eight months in Central Prison was yesterday imposed on Bernard Scott, twenty, who was arrested in the Canadian National Railway yards with fifteen bottles of whisky, five bottles of gin and a small amount of beer in his possession.

BODY RECOVERED

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 29.—The body of a woman about sixty years old was taken out of the Niagara river at the Maid of the Mist landing yesterday. The body has not been identified.

GYMKHANA SET FOR SATURDAY

Fine Horses From All Parts Will Attend. The finest jumping and steeple-chasing horses in Western Canada will be seen in action at the Willows on Saturday afternoon, when the Grand Gymkhana organized by General Clark, Capt. Proby and other Victorians will take place. Owners of fine horses from Vancouver, Calgary and many other sporting centres are bringing their best to Victoria, and it is promised that efforts will be made to break some of the jumping records during the afternoon. Peter Welsh, of Calgary, is bringing two of his phenomenal jumpers, and some steeplechasers, which will be ridden by his two youthful sons, E. C. Russell, of Calgary, is also bringing two prairie nags, in an effort to take away the Esquimalt steeplechase, the event of the day. Mr. Russell is an owner-riider. Major Maclean, of Vancouver, is also attracted to the gymkhana by the hope of winning the local class, and he will bring two horses, and will be accompanied by Major Brock, another member of the Vancouver Riding and Driving Club, who is also a rider-owner. The famous Salt Spring Island grey are Judy, owned by Mrs. Best, will be ridden by Lieut. B. Carney. This entry won both the May steeple chase here, and is a strong favorite with many fanciers. The six furlong flat race is the second item of interest in the running events, and is attracting almost as much attention as the steeplechasing event.

HASTEN TO PREPARE FOR FAIR OPENING

Fall Exhibition Will Include Display of Silver Foxes. Silver foxes raised in Victoria district will be exhibited at the Willow Fair next week. Secretary George Sangster announced to-day. Two pairs of foxes, raised by W. B. Morrison, of Royal Oak, will be on view in the Commercial Building, these being the first animals of this strain to be raised on Southern Vancouver Island, although the breeding of crosses and red foxes is already established. These animals are bred from stock imported from Alaska some years ago, when Mr. Morrison was experimenting at Lacombe, Alberta. When the foxes were shown at the Ward Five exhibition last Saturday, they proved to be entries of prime importance to visitors. Mr. Morrison asserts that there is a big future for silver fox breeding on Vancouver Island, as the animals are comparatively easy to raise and litter average four pups, often running as high as eight.

LOST HIS LIFE DEFENDING RIGHTS

Avant, Okla., Aug. 29.—Defending his right to hitch his horse on a corner of the public square, just as he did years ago, when the town of Avant sprang to life on his horse, a fifty-year-old, his life here. He was shot and killed by City Marshal Homer Penquite. Swinging into Avant stride on his horse, the town founder rode up to the square and started to hitch where only automobiles now are parked. Marshal Penquite objected. He threatened to arrest Avant. Hot words ensued and Avant is reported to have gone home and returned to the spot armed. Marshal Penquite's gun spurted fire and Avant fell dead. Witnesses would talk but little about the shooting, but it was said that the Marshal "just beat Avant to the draw."

FOUND IN RIVER

New York, Aug. 29.—The body of a three-months-old female child found in the Hudson River to-day, which at first was thought to be that of Lillian McKennie, kidnapped twelve days ago, was not Lillian, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKennie, declared after viewing the remains.

SOVIET ANXIOUS TO TRADE WITH JAPAN

Possibility of Renewal of Russo-Japanese Negotiations. Moscow, Aug. 29.—Discussing the possibility of a renewal of the Russo-Japanese negotiations, the newspaper Ivestia says Russia does not oppose reopening the conversation. The only condition, it adds, is that Japan formulate in the recent memorandum which Toshiko Kawakami, acting for Japan, handed to A. A. Joffe, the Soviet representative. M. Joffe refused these terms.

TO TEACH IN WALDO

Harley Sargent, son of Alderman and Mrs. W. J. Sargent, will leave Victoria to-day for Waldo, in East Kootenay, to take a position in the high school section of the superior school there. Mrs. Sargent is accompanying her son as far as Seattle.

London, Aug. 29.—A dispatch from Reuters in Holland, says it was not the Gaekwar of Baroda, the richest prince in India, who died on board a train near Flushing last night, but his son, Jai Singh Rao. The dispatch says the mistake in announcing the Maharajah's death evidently was due to the habit of his son traveling in the Maharajah's train. The correspondent recalls that similar confusion prevailed when another son of the Maharajah died. It is added that the error in stating that it was the Maharajah who died on board the train was discovered to-day when the British consul at Flushing, in issuing a detailed statement regarding the death, gave his age as thirty-five, whereas the Maharajah is sixty. Jai Singh Rao was thirty-five. The Indian Office says the Maharajah is traveling on the continent. As both sons are now dead, the heir to his great fortune is a grandson.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself. A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief. Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

POLICE INVADE 200 BEER CLUBS; GAMBLERS BUSY

Squad Finds Most of Liquor in "Joints" to be Boot-leg Stuff

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Acting under instructions, provincial police officers have been visiting the clubs in this city for some time past, and on good authority it is stated that evidence in almost 200 cases has been handed over to the city police for action.

In nearly every case a club is involved, and over seventy-five per cent. of the clubs now operating are said to have been gathered in the drag net, which has been spread for weeks past.

Following the meeting of the police commissioners on Monday, when Chief Anderson was instructed to "get busy," four arrests were made by the dry squad.

In addition the provincial police staged a one-man raid on the Transportation Club at the corner of Richards and Hastings Street, as a result of which a steward named Reynolds was taken to police headquarters. Unsealed whisky, contained in two beer bottles, is said to have been found in the club.

According to officers who have been working on the clubs and collecting the evidence which has been handed to the city police, at least 75 per cent. of the liquor sold at the clubs is purchased illegally.

"Of the spirits, over 75 per cent. has paid neither a Federal nor provincial tax," said one official. "It is simply liquor that has been released here by the federal authorities in bond for export, and which has never left here, or has come back from Discovery or some other island in the gulf."

Gambling Hangouts Found Dark
"That the activity in police circles has thrown consternation into the ranks of bootleggers and gamblers alike was evident from police reports. Several known gambling hangouts were visited, but were found "dark."

Against this it is alleged that one prominent bookmaker was paying out early in the evening on Grandville Street, his patrons being paid out in the open in front of one of the hotels with no attempt at concealment.

Both Inspector Jackson and Inspector Sutherland, in charge of the gambling and dry squad clean-up, respectively assert that the notice of intention to clean-up the city which followed Monday's meeting of the police commission would have the result of tightening up all round.

"Gamblers and bootleggers will take a temporary lay-off," they said, "and the work of apprehending them will be very difficult. Clubs that are violating the regulations will also stiffen up their rules, and it will be practically impossible to get further evidence against them."

Provincial police officers, however, assert that enough evidence to keep the courts busy for some time has already been handed over, and nearly 200 cases are expected to be brought forward as a result of this evidence.

B.C. TO OPPOSE PAROLE SYSTEM

Mr. Justice Morrison to Represent Bar Association at Montreal

Vancouver, Aug. 28.—Mr. Justice Morrison, of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, has left here for Montreal, where he will oppose on behalf of the Benchers of the British Columbia Law Society, a proposal by the Canadian Bar Association at its forthcoming convention, to introduce into Canada the parole and probation systems as a feature of proposed prison reform. A committee of the Canadian Bar Association has prepared a report, it is stated, recommending these systems for the Dominion, but a committee of the Vancouver Bar Association has taken a strong stand against any such recommendations, and the committee's position has been endorsed by the law society.

The resolution which Mr. Justice Morrison will introduce, will state that the working-out-of-the-parole and probation system, and the imposition of indeterminate sentences in the United States, has been severely criticized by law enforcement officers in that country, and that a committee of the American Bar Association last year had declared that the system had weakened the administration of criminal justice.

The resolution will ask that the probation and parole systems in Canada be not extended until the matter has been carefully considered, and that in such consideration the law enforcement officers of Canada be consulted.

REPORT ON TESTS AT SIDNEY STATION

Annual Statement is Issued From Superintendent

In view of the field day to be held on Monday at the Sidney Experimental Station, the report of Superintendent E. M. Straight, to hand from Ottawa to-day, will be read with considerable interest. The report covers the activities of the farm in 1922, and the superintendent points out that the season was an exceptional one for Vancouver Island.

The tests with certain classes of plants from which much has been expected in the way of developing uncommon lines of horticulture are set out at length, as for instance sweet peas for seed production, nut growing, figs, grapes and cascara.

Owing to the importance of poultry on the island special attention is given to this auxiliary line at Sidney. The report points out: "The work is not only comprehensive, but exact." This section of the report should be read by every poultry man on this island, for the details contain information of value to all those engaged in this important industry.

The horticultural experimental work is of considerable value, owing to the importance of soft fruit production in the neighborhood. All those who have admired the Himalaya berries at the farm will agree with what Mr. Straight says that the Himalayan stands in a class by itself as far as yield is concerned. Recognizing the changed conditions in the glasshouse industry around Victoria the superintendent indicates that gardening under glass will receive more attention in future at the Station.

A wide interest will be aroused by the list published of the best roses and ciphers to be planted in this neighborhood, the roses being those recommended by leading local growers, and those which have proved the best at the Station. In connection with bulb culture, Mr. Straight says that bulbs grown at Sidney have been sent to all the experimental farms in Canada for test beside those grown from European stock.

Ambitious experimenters have invented patent pie plates, non-shrinkable moustache tenders, noiseless fat exterminating devices and similar gadgets, but here's a new one.
Ad Saniel, former world's middle-weight wrestling champion and Lambert Hillier, Goldwyn picture director, have doped out a wrestling hold which, they assert, will revolutionize the grappling profession. It is called the "Sant-Hill" special.
Saniel and Hillier have been working on the trick, an expurgated edition of the headlock, for months and recently decided to give it a workout on an expert wrestler.
Kashi Mori, Japanese mat champion recently visited the Goldwyn studios, where Hillier directed "The Spoilers," the attraction at the Dominion Theatre and the Japanese and the director Kashi, granted loudly and tossed his opponent into the lap of Ford Sterling, one of the cast who watched the match.

Kashi carried with the inventors that the hold is a "wow" and aided them in instructing Milton Sills how to use it when he staged his fight with Noah Berry in "The Spoilers."

It was "Sporting Life," a superb picturization of the famous Drury Lane melodrama which has held the stage in this country and in England for more than twenty years.

Before taking on the athletic director, Kashi protested from being barred from using his favorite Jui-Jian mat-slaughter methods. Hillier agreed to let him use any known hold if he in return could try out the "Sant-Hill."
After a few moments of wrestling, the director clamped his trick grasp on

PANTAGES HAS STRONGEST BILL SEEN FOR WEEKS

Six Big Acts Form Unusually Fine Company

Manager Jameson, of the Pantages Theatre, was a proud man last night, when scores of the patrons congratulated him on the splendidly collected for this week's offering at the popular vaudeville house.
Transportation difficulties causing the late arrival of the company, only one show was given last night, and that was only possible by abandoning any attempt at rehearsal.
Nevertheless, the bill this week was a fortune, a thorough sportsman, he is interested in boxing, and he wagers huge sums on Joe Lee, a gipsy boxer, and upon his horse, Lady Love, to win the Derby. His sworn enemy, De Carteret, determines to ruin the earl by frustrating both chances open to him to become wealthy.

He forces his wife Olive to attempt to make Joe Lee cease training for his ring fight. Kitty Cavanagh, daughter of the earl's head trainer, loves Lee not wisely but too well, and when Olive begins to draw Lee into her toils, she runs away to London, where she attempts suicide. Olive arranges to have Lee drugged by Kitty's father just as he steps into the ring, and this plan might have succeeded in ruining the earl had he not entered the ring himself and fought a winning battle to a victorious finish.

De Carteret then decides to steal Lady Love and thereby disqualify the earl at the Derby, and to render this doubly sure, he causes the earl to be kidnapped and held a prisoner aboard an old ferry boat. Norah Cavanagh, the fiancée of the earl, learns of the kidnapping of the earl and his horse, and she sets the machinery in operation by which both are rescued in time for the great race which Lady Love wins despite the fact that the mare is nearly left at the post. De Carteret is ruined while the earl's fortune is restored.

The photoplay is filled with stirring action from start to finish, and there are numerous splendidly photographed scenes. Excellent views are shown of the Earl of Woodstock's country estate, the gipsy camp, racing stables, tally-ho, the National Sporting Club of London, and last, a splendid picture of the famous English Derby at Epsom.

Wood Spilling Parties.
Gordon and Healy possess a laugh-making method of presenting their conversational act "Wedded Bliss" and delight everybody. Later in the evening Davis & McCoy present another string of patter, equally as amusing but of a vastly different type, well named "Egg and Spoonology," with Morgan Davis a most convincing "boob." Lulu McCoy also plays the accordion pleasingly.

Surprise in Store
Ruth Stonehouse and Harry Von Meter, with the playlet "Be Yourself," pleased the house immensely. This little act is built upon reactions between a rouse and a chorus girl, with the lady more wise than she is lovely and, at that, charming every eye in the audience from the instant the act commenced until the most surprising conclusion.

Peppy Dance Party
Six dancing girls in the Revue La Petite present the latest steps, mingling jazz, Russian and ballet dancing. The girls are young and full of energy, and despite the troubles the orchestra experienced in handling the unfamiliar and difficult music without rehearsal, the girls made a great impression as to their skill, two of the dancers being particularly graceful.

The movie comedy Skeletons, with which the show opens, proved a laughmaker with its rough and tumble burlesque, while a travelogue picture showing the David Thompson Memorial Celebration at Lake Windermere proved of great interest.

ROYAL VICTORIA
"My Wild Irish Rose" will be the attraction at Royal again to-day. Those who love the land of the shamrock will go wild over this splendid photoplay, which tells a thrilling story of life in the Emerald Isle in the early days of Queen Victoria's reign.
"My Wild Irish Rose" was adapted from the famous old stage success, "The Shaughraun," by Dion Boucicault. It made its debut at the Grand Theatre, London, in 1876 and since then has been played all over the world in an absorbing one; there are spies, infomrants, head-on collisions, and in addition there are three love stories, three heroes and three heroines. The picture has been lavishly produced under the skillful direction of David Smith, who has such successes as "Black Beauty," "Flower of the North" and "The Little Minister" to his credit. It has brought out all the picturesqueness and old-world charm which is inherent in the subject and has made "My Wild Irish Rose" a masterpiece of colorful atmosphere. The all-star cast includes O. Malle, Howard, Madge Emery, Pauline Starke and Little Richard Daniels, the champion "fricked" boy of the screen.

"A ROYAL DIVORCE" WILL BE SHOWN AT THE ROYAL

The story of "A Royal Divorce," which we had the pleasure of reviewing at the Alhambra Theatre, is a beautiful photoplay. The story, "A Royal Divorce," is well known to old and young alike, and we are quite confident that the public will fall over themselves to see it and will be more than satisfied with what they see. Humor plays a great part in the historical side of the production, but of course that does not really matter. The picture is the thing, and as a picture we have no hesitancy in saying that it really is a most interesting photo-drama beautifully staged and wonderfully well acted. This great English picture will be the attraction at the Royal Victoria all next week, commencing Monday.

"TO THE LAST MAN" AT CAPITOL THEATRE ALL NEXT WEEK

Rarely has a picture been heralded with the praise which Paramount West Coast studio executives are bestowing on the first Zane Grey Paramount picture. "To the Last Man," to be shown at the Capitol next week, which has just been completed in the Lasky studio under the direction of Victor Fleming. Studio officials in wires to the New York office, proclaim "To the Last Man" one of the finest productions ever made by Paramount, and declare that the sequences, shot in the Tonto of Basin, Arizona, make just been one of the best outdoor productions ever screened. In a telegram to Adolph Zukor Jesse L. Lasky makes the following report on "To the Last Man": "Am proud and happy to advise you our first Zane Grey picture, "To the Last Man," ranks beyond shadow of doubt, as the greatest outdoor Western picture ever produced."

COLUMBIA

Lamp black is the latest thing that has been added to the list of necessities for the movie star's make-up box. It has come into vogue with the guaranteed of the finest screen actor in captivity, a little white mouse that is a pet on the lot of the Thomas H. Ince Studios.
Even a mouse has to "make-up" for a successful screen appearance. A bewhiskered little fellow has an important role in Ince's great human interest story, "Soul of the Beast," which is being shown at the Columbia Theatre for the last time to-night.
Out in the woods the mouse meets

"Oscar," the elephant who has run away from the circus and is playful in uprooting trees, taking splash baths in all the streams and having a generally hilarious time.
"Oscar" has been king of the forest until he meets the tiny field mouse and they meet his equal.
Get out of the way, you big stiff! squeaks Gray Coat as he runs innocently in front of the elephant.
"Certainly, sir," quavers the elephant as he beats a hasty retreat to the tallest timber in the Canadian backwoods.
When the white mouse, playing this important role, was to be filmed, the question of make-up seemed to present difficulties. Then Horace Williams, the casting director, had an inspiration. He got a box of lamp black and put the mouse into it. A few minutes later an indignant little gray mouse climbed out of the box into which a white mouse had been put.

The Ince pet has not yet regained the spotless whiteness which it boasted before its tremendously successful screen appearance in the Metro picture "Soul of the Beast" was written by C. Gardner Sullivan, and directed by John Griffith Wray.

Maker Goes "Broke" and We Are Caught With 1400 Pairs of Regal Shoes For Men!

There are just two ways in which we can sell this stock of Regal Shoes—call in the dealers of job lot shoes or pass the values on to our customers. We have chosen to give our customers the benefit of the bargains which are going. The reason for this tremendous sacrifice of fine shoes can be told in a few words. The makers of Regal Shoes in Canada have gone into liquidation and we are left with a stock which we cannot "fill in" when sizes are depleted, therefore there is only one thing to be done:

Sell every pair regardless of cost. Our loss will be big but we are prepared to take it now.

Regal Shoes are good shoes. This fact is established beyond a doubt. Many men in Victoria have worn no other brand of shoes for nine years, and to them we issue a special invitation to stock up with their favorite style. When this stock is sold it will be impossible to obtain Regal made-in-Canada shoes in the city of Victoria.

The complete clearance of this great stock of Regal Shoes for men commences to-morrow morning.

MORE PUBLIC BUYING ADVANCES LIST

(By Burdick Bros., Ltd.)
Price betterment was the rule today. There was an expansion in the turnover and public participation on the buying side was much more in evidence. The confident tone on the market has helped to restore more optimistic feeling and values and the rather well liquidated condition seems to be the best corroborated by the ease to which prices in many departments moved forward on only a moderate amount of buying.

There seems to be a growing idea that things are beginning to shape up in a more favorable way on the other side even though the surface appearance may not fully confirm this feeling.

The improvement in the textile line of trade and the one in which the most severe depression month quite during the Summer months naturally has restored the belief that the situation in general is on the up trend again.

Some corroboration of this is found in the reported improvement in the steel trade. There also seems to be good reason to believe that things in the oil industry have in large part gone through the most trying period.

This seems to be reflected in the much better tone exhibited by the market generally.

We believe the market generally speaking, is now going through the process of discounting an early revival of trade.

The Sandman Story For To-night

Harry was always wishing he was some other boy, or that he did not have to do this or that. He wished he did not have to go to school. He thought it must be much more fun to be a squirrel or a rabbit or any animal that lived in the woods where they could run about as they liked and not have to go to school.

And this was what he was thinking one morning as he sat under a tree in the woods on his way to do an errand for his mother in the willow grove on the other side of the grove. Harry stretched out on his back with his hands behind his head and looked up at squirrel in the tree above him. "Look at you, now," he said, "you don't have to comb your hair or wash your face. You can jump out of bed and eat your breakfast without all of that fussing. Gee, I wish I were a squirrel."

"You shall have your wish and see how you like it," said a little creature sitting on a bush near him. Harry had not seen her until she spoke.

Before he could reply, the little creature touched him with a small gold stick, with a star on the end of it, and Harry found himself scrambling up the tree. He wasn't a boy, though. He was a squirrel.

Harry was pleased with the change for a little while. He capered about and darted from limb to limb. Then he ran down on the ground to find something to eat, when from some-

"My friend," the other rejoined, "I wish I could make you believe this. There is room in the life of the busiest man in the world for an understanding woman. I'll go further. No man can do his best work without her."

"I believe you are right," Tallente assented.

His friend pressed his arm kindly. "You've ploughed a lonely furrow for a good many years, Tallente," he said. "Nora talks of you so often and so wistfully. She is such an understanding creature—No, don't go. Just one whiskey and soda. It used to be chocolate, but Nora insists upon making a man of me."

Tallente was a little in the shadow of the hall and he witnessed the greeting between Nora and her husband; saw her come out in the little circle of frelight gleaming through the open door. She threw her arms around Darterey's neck and kissed him.

"Dear," she exclaimed, "how early you are! Come and have an easy chair by the fire and tell how every one's been behaving."

Darterey, with his arm around her waist, turned to Tallente.

"An entirely unrequited exhibition, I can assure you, Tallente," he declared.

Nora pouted and passed her other arm through Tallente's.

"That's just like Stephen," she complained, "advertising his domestic bliss. Never mind, here is room for each of you."

Tallente took a whiskey and soda but declined to sit down.

"I walked home with Stephen," he said, "and then I felt I couldn't go away without seeing you just for a moment, Nora."

"Dear man," she answered, "I should have been terribly hurt if you had. Do make yourself comfortable by the fire. You will be able to check all that Stephen tells me about the debate to-night. He is so inexact."

Tallente's restless Nora, he said simply, "I shall walk up to the club."

He let her out herself, holding his hand almost tenderly.

"Oh, you poor dear thing!" she said. "I do wish I knew—"

"What to wish you—what to hope for you."

He walked away in silence. They both understood so well. He found his way to the club and ate sandwiches with one or two other men, also just released from the House. He himself, the more he was conscious of a sort of fierce restlessness that drove the blood through his veins at feverish pace. He wandered from room to room, played a game of billiards, chafing all the time at the necessity of finishing the game. He hurried away, pleading an appointment. In the hall he met Greening, who led him at once to a secluded corner.

Prepared with your apology, Tallente," he squirmed.

"It's in your office at the present moment," Tallente replied, "finished this morning."

Greening stroked his beard. He was a lank, rather cadaverous man, with a face like granite and eyes like polished steel. Few men had anything to say against him. No one liked him.

"How are you regarding the appearance of these outpourings of yours, Tallente?" he asked.

"With equanimity," was the calm rejoinder. "I think I told you what I thought of you and your journalism for having any dealings with a thief and for making yourself a receiver of stolen property. I have nothing to add to that. I am ready to face the worst now and you may find the thunders recoil on your own head."

"No one will ever be able to blame us," Greening replied. "For publishing material of such deep interest to every one, even though it should incidentally be your political death warrant. As a matter of fact, Tallente, I was rather hoping that I might meet you here to-night. The chief and Horlock appear to have had a breeze."

"How does that concern me?" Tallente asked bluntly.

"It may concern you very much indeed. A few days ago I should have told you, as I did, that nothing in the world could stop the publication of that article. To-day I am not so sure. At any rate, I believe there is a chance. Would you care to see the chief?"

"I haven't the slightest desire to," Tallente replied. "I have made my protest. Nothing in the world can affect the morality of your action. At the same time I have got over my first dread of it. I am prepared with my defence, and perhaps a little in the way of a counterattack. No, I am not going hat in hand to your chief, Greening. He must do as he thinks well."

"If that is your attitude," Greening observed, "things will probably take their course. On the other hand, if we were inclined to have a heart-to-heart talk with the chief and our other editors, I believe that something might come of it."

"In other words," Tallente said coldly, "your chief, who is one of the most magnificent opportunists I ever knew, has suddenly begun to wonder whether he is backing the right horse?"

"Something like it, perhaps," Greening admitted. "Look here, Tallente, he went on, "you're a big man in your way and I know perfectly well that you wouldn't let me get a real advantage out of pique. Consider this matter. I can't pledge the paper or the chief. I simply say—see him and talk it over."

Tallente shook his head.

"I am much obliged, Greening," he said, "but I don't want to go through life with this thing hanging over me. Miller has a copy of the article, without a doubt. If you turn him down, he'll find some one else to publish the thunderbolt was going to fall. I am prepared now and I would rather get it over."

"Is Darterey going to back you?" Greening asked.

Tallente smiled.

"I can't give away secrets."

Greening turned slowly away. "I am off for a rubber of bridge," he said. "I am sorry, Tallente. Better dismiss this interview from your mind altogether. It very likely wouldn't have led to anything. All the same, I envy you your confidence. If I could only guess at its source, I'd have a leader for to-morrow morning."

Tallente walked down the stairs with a smile upon his lips. He put on his hat and coat and hesitated for a moment on the broad steps. Then a sudden wonderful thought came to him, an impulse entirely irresistible. He started off westward, walking with feverish haste.

The spirit of adventure sat in his heart, as he passed through the crowded streets. The night was wonderfully clear, the stars were brilliant overhead and the boisterous crowd of the yellow moon was showing. He was conscious of a sudden new feeling of kinship with the people he had seen come down from the chilly heights to walk the lighted highways of the world. The keen air with its touch of frost invigorated him. There was a new suppleness in his pulses, a queer excitement in his whole being, which he scarcely understood until his long walk came to an end and he found himself at a standstill in front of the house in Charles Street, his unadmitted destination.

He glanced at his watch and found that it was half an hour after midnight. There was a light in the lower room into which Jane had taken him on the night of her arrival in town. Above, the whole of the house seemed in darkness. He walked a little way down the street and back again. Jane was dining he knew, with the Princess de Fenaples, her godmother, and had spoken of going to a ball with her afterwards. In that case she could scarcely be home for hours.

Yet somehow he had a joyful conviction that history would repeat itself, that he would find her, as he had once before, entering the house. His fortune was in the ascendant. Not even the emptiness of the street discouraged him. He strolled a little way along with fast-beating heart. As he passed the door once more, something bright lying underneath the scraper attracted his notice. He paused and stared. Almost before he had realized what he was doing, he had picked up a small key, her latchkey, and was holding it in his hand.

He passed down the street again and there seemed something unreal in the broad pavement, the frowning houses, the glow of the gas lamps, the harmless little key burned his flesh. All the passionate acuteness of life seemed throbbing again in his veins. He retraced his steps, making no plans, obeying only an ungodly instinct. The street was empty. He thrust the key into the lock, opened the door, replaced the key under the scraper, entered the house and made his way into the room on the right.

Tallente stood there for a few minutes with fast-beating heart. He had the feeling that he had burned his boats. He was face to face with realities. There was no sound from anywhere. A bright fire was burning in the grate. An easy-chair was drawn up to the side of a small table, on which was placed a tumbler, some biscuits, a box of cigarettes and some matches. A copper saucenpan full of milk stood in the hearth, side by side with some slippers. Even these slight evidences of her coming presence seemed to thrill him. Time dissolved away into a dream of anticipation. Minutes or hours might have passed before he heard the motor stop outside, her voice blinding some friend a cheerful good night, the turning of the key in the door, the drawing of a bolt, a light step in the hall, and then Jane.

She was wrapped from head to foot in white fur, a small tarray of emeralds and diamonds on her head. She entered, humming a tune to herself, serene, desirable.

Her exclamation, the light in her eyes, the pleasure which swiftly took the place of her first amazement, intoxicated him. He drew her into his arms and his voice shook.

"Jane," he confessed, "I tried to keep away and I couldn't. I stole in here to wait for you. And you're glad—thank heavens you're glad!"

"But how long have you been here?" she asked wonderingly.

He shook his head.

"I don't know. I walked down the street, hoping for a miracle. Then I

Full Surveillance

W. J. Stevenson, an employee of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Frank W. Adams, another employee, were seen making two or three visits to the premises from midnight onwards until he later returned to see fire issuing from the fifth story. Witnesses who had turned to see fire issuing from the fifth story, and waved to him in passing.

Slow Burning

Chief Vernon Stewart, head of the Fire Department, gave it as his opinion that the fire had started on the sixth floor and had been of a slow burning origin which might well have smoldered all night without gaining force enough to break through the flooring. The operations of the fire department were hampered by being unable to reach the roof, as the extension ladder was too short for that project.

Actual Manager

The by-law passed Monday night to define the duties of the City Comptroller gives that official powers that will make him in fact a manager. His actual title, aldermen feel, is of little importance. His functions are defined in that after a suitable man has been appointed his powers can be altered and extended as he goes into his stride and becomes thoroughly familiar with all details of the city government.

HOW CITY LOOKED TO THE CITIZENS GENERATION AGO

Vallejo Man Comes Back After Absence Since 1893

What would strike the attention of a man who had not been in Victoria for thirty years? It is not often an answer to that question can be obtained, but in J. G. Simington, of Vallejo, California, The Times at the Dominion Hotel yesterday found a former resident who lived here from 1890 to 1893, and has not been in Victoria until this visit. It was a small city of brick and frame houses—each he knew then, with few improved streets, and a wooden bridge across the James Bay flats to the old Parliament Buildings. He was a mantle maker, with premises at Douglas and Pembroke streets. Some of the houses built about that time were equipped by him. Now he is employed in the estimates department in the Mare Island Naval Yard, which is situated close to Vallejo. He motored up with his family from the South, and left them in Seattle while he came here to renew acquaintances with men of an earlier period. It is, however, a different generation that he now finds walking the streets of Victoria. The names of the architects and contractors of today are unknown to him, and many of those with whom he did business, are now dead. He was absent from the city for some time in the presence of the great Architect and Master Builder. Here and there a landmark lingered of the Victoria he knew, buildings of the brick era of 1890-1891 which came to an abrupt end with the smallpox epidemic, an event which threw the city back so much. It was during the depression that marked that event that he went south.

How long ago is the chasm of time which his memory bridges may be—by the fact that almost every public building is new to him. The extension of the City Hall in 1890-1891 was just then in use with the clock tower commanding an unobstructed view over a large area of the city. In 1923, blocked by higher structures, the Court House—now declared inadequate was then a proud addition to the city. The Jubilee Hospital building was a babe of three summers, and the Old Drill Hall and similar buildings were all recent additions to the development of the neighborhood. Most striking of all to him was the inner Harbor, with its stately buildings framed in pleasant surroundings, not a vestige of which he breathed a farewell when he parted from this city in 1893.

But it was not only of yesterday he would talk, but of to-morrow, he pointed out—he mentioned in the chat which he mentioned in the chat which he mentioned in the chat.

Majority Still Back Leeming-Sangster City Manager Scheme

The City Hall spent a considerable part of to-day trying to figure out the effect of the City Council's action in defining the powers of the new City Comptroller but refusing to go ahead with plans for appointing this official. The Council's action, it was agreed, leaves the matter very much "in the air."

LEONARD TAIT TO RECEIVE GRATUITY

Esquimalt School Board Makes Grant Subject to Approval of Council

At a meeting of the Esquimalt School Board last night, the subject of a gratuity to be presented to Leonard Tait, late principal of the Lampson Street School, was brought up, on the suggestion of the chairman, Trustee Mantrap. Trustee Mulcahy stated that he would have nothing to do with the matter, since Mr. Tait had been re-elected to the school against the special wish. The board also asked whether the request from Mr. Tait for consideration on the matter of a gratuity by the board came unasked. The question was directed at the chair, and was heatedly rejected. Trustee Sisman appeared, inclined to support Trustee Mantrap, saying that it was a matter of the board should be kept. He also urged that all personal remarks be left out of the discussions, and made a motion to that effect.
