- 735 708 St. Peter. (905/41?) A dagger pointed r. SCHE | THHO. R A portal in circle. VIDVICNT. Very fine; rare.

NOTE. — Hawkins scoffs at the idea that these were struck for the purpose of paying the annual endowment to the English College, established at Rome, a land tax collected and payable on the Feast of St. Peter, (hence the name Peter-Pence), customary from time of Offa, 777. I think, however, that the unusual design of the portal, or front entrance of a temple or college, would go to confirm the idea of their use as Peter-Pence. The mere fact that they were not found in this, that, or the other "hoard," establishes no date whatever.
