CHIEF MARTIN GETS Says Friendship Is Greatest Spirit CONFESSIONS IN LOCAL THEFTS

Boy Bandits Rounded Up Tell of Various Thefts Committed in This City

MAJORITY WERE TIRES

Hugo Springer Is Sent to Juvenile Hall by Judge Lowe This Morning

Through efforts of Chief of Police Martin, what is believed to have been a juvenile auto accessory theft ring has been uncovered in Glendale. One member of the gang has been commit ted to juvenile hall, several others have confessed to thefts of several tires and other accessories and the police have recovered seven spotlights, numerous tools, wrenches, suitcases and tires all alleged to have been stolen in the past few months by the juvenile ring.

John Terrell, an employee of the city has been implicated in the activities of the ring as having received a tire that was stolen. 'Hugo Springer, 13-year-old lad was on trial before Judge F. H. Lowe yesterday and admitted the theft of a speedometer from a motorcycle and was ordered com-mited to Juvenile hall. In passing sentence on young Springer, Judge Lowe said that several attempts to reform the boy had failed and that there was only one alternative left the court and that was to send the boy to Juvenile

Hugo Springer's brother Carl also appeared before the court on a similar charge but was given a chance to make good. He was released with orders to report every week to Chief of Police Martin who recommended th's action to the court, saying that he thought he could make a good boy out of Carl John Karcher, son of a Los Angeles attorney, was also implicated in the activities with Hugo Springer but was released and will help the police clear up matters. He is to report to Chief of Police Martin this afternoon and

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Luster at Once

Gray hair, however handsome, de CERRITOS SCHOOL notes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

TRAFFIC WEST OF BRAND BLVD.

To relieve the traffic situation at San Fernando road and Brand boulevard, City Manager Reeves has suggested unofficially a plan that seems to be practical and will in all probability be taken up for action by the council at an early date.

Sunday afternoon a traffic officer was stationed at the intersection of Brand boulevard and San Fernando This intersection has been called "Death Curve" because of the number of accidents there. roads come together at this point and on Sunday afternoon and evening, when traffic is heavy, handling the situation at this point is a task.

To alleviate this congestion, City Manager Reeves suggests that north-bound traffic be switched to the east side of Brand boulevard at a point south of the Southern Pacific tracks. By switching the traffic all to one side of the boulevard the necessity of the officer on duty watching both sides of the boulevard would be eliminated. It would also relieve the congestion and facilitate handling the Several motorists who were not in the habit of seeing a traffic officer on duty at this corner failed to heed the crossing signals of the man on duty Sunday and were cited to appear in police court. These offenders were assessed fines of $10 and warned by

PLAYERS OF SERIES GET HUGE PURSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The players participating in the 1921 world's seres fund will divide $292,52.33, a new igh record for the players' share. Under the rules players and umpires ease to share in the gate receipts after Monday's game. Increased seating capacity and higher admission harges account for the new total. While attendance and gate receipts fell slightly below those of Friday's game, the official figures gave 35,758 paid admissions for total gate receipts of $116,754. Of this amount the advisory board collected $17,513.10; the players $59.54.54 and the club owners $39,696.36.

CURING DOPE ADDICTS

Many of the inmates of the county jail are drug addicts. That is, in large measure, the reason they. are in jail.

Men and women inspired of drugs commit all types of crime. As a rule the bandit of the highway is an addict. Victims of the habit will go to any excess to procure their favorite poison. Most of the many raids on drug stores are explained by this. The boldest burglars draw their courage from drugs. Public safety demands that these unfortunates be cured, if cure is possible.

Recently the management of the county jail decided that it was time to cut off the dope supply which by some underground system had been reaching prisoners. Therefore the addicts were placed in apartments that kept them from direct communication with the outer world. They were no longer permitted to receive visitors face to face. Between them and the purveyors of dope was a screen too fine to allow the passing of the contraband stuff.

Anguished protests arose. The prisoners were nearly mad with eagerness for their favorite "shot." Nevertheless the authorities stood firm, and it is hoped, will continue to do so. A drastic remedy is complete deprivation of the dosage, but if continued it will kill or cure. The addict not too far gone to recuperate ought to be glad to be cured; and if able to take a philosophic view, would be glad to be killed, if incurable.

VERY INDETERMINATE INDEED

With one dissenting opinion the supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of the indeterminate sentence. Appeal had been made on behalf of one Sama, found guilty of attempted robbery and sentenced for "one-half of his natural life."

An indeterminate sentence is supposed to be one the length of which depends upon the deportment and mental attitude of the person receiving it. For example, the court may send him to prison for from "one to fifty years." This means simply that by good conduct he may win freedom a very short time after expiration of the minimum.

It is not uncommon for the police to arrest desperate criminals and find that but for this easy method of evading penalty, the fellows they had caught would still have been serving time in the penitentiary to which they had gone for former crimes, virtually escaping punishment under the conditions of the indeterminate sentence.

The great trouble with the indeterminate sentence is the speed with which it is likely to terminate.

In the instance under consideration it may be that the court knew what was meant by "one-half of his natural life." It is extremely doubtful if anybody else would be; bold enough to venture a guess.

CARING FOR VETERANS

Col. Charles F. Forbes, who is director of the veterans' bureau, reports to President Harding some very startling findings. He says that 30,000 crippled ex-service men are being exploited in mushroom vocational institutions, and farmed out to sweatshops by the government.

Such a condition is almost unbelievable. It would be contrary to all public desire, out of consonance with the spirit of the government, and a direct breaking of pledges honorably given. The first and natural conclusion must be that Colonel Forbes, observing some defects, has regarded them as prevailing gen-

However, the matter should be investigated. There could have been no reasonable pretext for the founding of mushroom institutions, for the best schools of the land were ready to open their doors to the exservice men. As to exploiting this class of students by any sweatshop method, such outrage could not be tolerated an instant after exposure.

The people of this country are growing sensitive concerning the treatment of the veterans. They feel that the attempt to keep the war-time promises has in some respects been a failure. They have had a pride in the vocational training that had been opened to many veterans, and if this training is on a false basis, and with any purpose other than the good of the students, the matter will not be dropped. No administration could feel an impulse to drop it.

CONFLICTING DECISIONS

Not long ago the legislature of Washington passed a bonus bill that called for the expenditure of $11,-000,000. This was a considerable burden. Washington is not a populous state, and does not make pretense to great wealth, save as to natural resources.

The inevitable objector arose and demanded that the supreme court pass upon the constitutionality of the measure. This the court did with little delay. and the measure was declared sound. The people of Washington accept and applaud, and are preparing to make good their voluntary pledge.

At about the same time a similar bill was passed in New York with popular approval. It also reached the supreme court in due season, and there was knocked out. The judicial decision was that the bill was unconstitutional, and that the citizens of New York, however desirous of bestowing their money on ex-service men, had no right to do so.

It may be assumed that the constitutions of Washington and of New York are not identical, and yet each must contain some expression of belief in government by the majority.

That which is right in Washington stands declared as wrong in New York. Yet right is right and wrong is wrong wherever either may be found.

USEFUL VOCATIONS

A flea trainer is reported as seriously ill. His sickness is ascribed to his practice of permitting his little pupils to be his guests. As a reward for readiness in learning, he lets them dine upon him. Now he is victim of a mysterious ailment, supposed to have been donated by the grateful fleas.

That all work is honorable is a common remark. Not every vocation, however, is work. The individual who cleans a sewer or carts away the garbage, may not have an enviable task, but he fits into the scheme of things. He is necessary and useful.

A certain proportion of active individuals devote themselves to work not in itself productive. Their service is in affording diversion. It may be they are actors or clowns, baseball players or bareback riders. In any case their services are essential, to keep the world from being too drab. They stimulate the emotions in various ways; cause a smile or excite

The training of fleas is the zero in accomplishment. It prolongs the life of pernicious vermin quite capable of carrying dangerous microbes. The flea has no appreciable intelligence. By cunning devices it may be so equipped that the instinctive application of its strength to the effort to escape, causes it to appear to do certain things. The little prisoner merely reflects the mentality of its captor.

In every life that is to achieve anything of value there must be a purpose. Teaching a flea to jump in one direction rather than another, does not reach the dignity of a purpose.

Over at the bankers' convention last week they talked of different things.

That have to do with business and money. Business and money are indissolubly bound up

Just as food and life.

A bank really stores no wealth. It only stores the metals and papers that represent wealth.

Wealth is in labor and wheat and corn and lumber and cotton and rubber and steel and things

We have said before that you might be on a desert island with all the money in the world, and starve to death.

And the time would come shortly when you would trade it all for a drink of water or a sand-

Money is that which represents accumulated labor and production.

You put five dollars' worth of work into the And somebody pays you five dollars for it.

The world is richer for five dollars' worth of And your five dollars represents five dollars worth of work done by you. And if you put the five dollars into the bank, you have deposited to your credit in the world five dollars' worth of work and additional wealth.

And then you want a loaf of bread and a pound

And you check against your savings. And some baker gets part of your stored labor for part of his stored labor. And some butcher gets a share.

So money is a convenience for purposes of the exchange of labor and products. It would not be possible in these busy times to exchange commodities directly. So it is done through a medium.

than the wasting of mere money.

We need thrift in the matter of health. To save a little strength each day as a surplus over the expenditure of energy. To come to middle life well and strong.

And to come to old age with serenity and health. By thrift.

Saving health. Storing up a little every day. Hard work and temperance and sound sleep.

For it is wasting life.

Then we need to save friendships. They are important. Not to waste them with ill temper and hasty judgments and churlish natures. For friendships are one of the great spiritual wealths of the world.

And then we need to save time. By employing it usefully. Franklin said that time is the stuff of which life So why waste it?

The boy is likely to be made wore by physical punishment, for this so humiliates him that he seeks by bravado to show his fearlessness. When moral suasion fails, the favored course is to send the recalcitrant home. If he really needs a thrashing, it is to the parental arm this duty falls logically. When it is performed by the teacher, family ire is likely to be

Anybody who wishes to be impressed by the marriage of young Leeds to a Russian princess, is quite at liberty to be impressed. Viewed in a different light than that occasioned by reverence for ready money, it seems a sordid and rather depressing alliance. Mother Leeds first procured a prince for herself, and then went to market for a princess for her little boy. If all are satisfied, outsiders have small reason to complain. Russian titles, how-ever, do not have a high value at present, and there may be some concern felt lest the ambitious mother got stung; for she was using perfectly good American else undertaking the task.

There is a general belief that a man who is kind to dogs is a pretty decent chap. Recently a woman came into court and averred that her husband feet fifteen dogs ungrudgingly, but that the three children of the cou-ple were habitually hungry. Whereupon an old belief experienced a shock.

Word comes from the county jail that a man confined there in the charge of murder is believed to be going blind. So far this be-lief is held exclusively by his lawyers. It seems to have little to do with the merits of the case.

Much praise has been noticed for the masterly fashion in which smaster General Hays has checked mail robbery. To be sure there is no telling the vol-ume this pernicious form of activity might have reached except for the firm stand of Mr. Hays. Perhaps the robbers would have taken all the mail then instead of the occasional truckload they carry away now.

When a young thief, having spent all he took, entered his father's house in Chicago, he encountered no indication of the fatted calf presence. On the contrary father telephoned for the po-lice. The boy is now in jail. He was one of a robber group whose spoils ran into the hundreds of thousands, and he was the only one to get away. Out on this coast he spent his money in the most reckless fashion, the buying of a costly automobile being only a simple incident in hi fevered life. Of course to end in a smash was inevitable. Only a fool could have been unaware of it.

Senator Newberry has taken his seat. There was many a "thank you mam" encountered as he was on his way. He holds title to the seat by a strictly party vote, showing that politics and morals do not have identic standards.

The woman who sued the Roosevelt estate for money said to have been borrowed of her by the late Theodore Roosevelt, tells a curious story. The note she held was a forgery. She now says she thought she was lending the money to the President, and that the man who signed it was he and none other. Perhaps this is true. It is possible that instead of seeking to be a swindler, she herself has been the victim.

Courts of this county have convicted another bunko man. The swindle of which he was found guilty involved $15,000. There is no particular reason to believe this experience will check, the career of the swindler. give additional information regarding the activities of the Juvenile gang. Gordon Mapes confessed to Chief of Police Martin, the theft of three tires from a Bakersfield freight truck and admitted having sold two of them in Pasadena and said that he gave the other tire to Paul Terrell who, according to young Mapes, was his accomplice in the thefts. He also said that he sold the three tires for $40 and gave Terrell $10 as his share in the Terrell admitted his part in the theft of the tires and said that the tire given him by Mapes was at his home and that he had given the tire to his brother John, who is an employee of the city. He said that his brother knew that the tire was stolen. This was later confirmed by the police. John Terrell will appear before Chief of Police Martin this afternoon and tell his side of the story.

Several of the boys implicated in the alleged theft of automobile accessories are cited to appear at the police station this afternoon and an attempt will be made to clean up the games

A sad feature of the affair is the effect the arrest of some of the boys will have on their parents. The mother of Hugo Springer, who has been committed to Juvenile hall is ill and last night H. C. A REVERIE

I am sitting here with Milly while the sun is going Sort o' lover like and silly—she's a-mending of a

Or a-darning of a stocking and a-dreaming long of me.

And I'm sitting here and rocking just as happy as can be. There's a breeze out in the clover that is white and full of bloom, It grows sweet in blowing over, and the incense and perfume,

And the twilight and above her where the nightbirds cry and call

Makes me want to live and love her and be happy and that's all.

She don't seem to feel like talking, now she's got her mending done, And I'm quite content with rocking and a-watching where the sun Seems to be a-running over, and the red that's in the sky Splashes all the field of clover and the pasture lands near by; And she sits there, eyes half-closing at the ending of the day, Till I might think she was dozing if I didn't know her way, But I know she's half a-dreaming, for she's let her mending fall, And she seems to sigh: "Be happy-let's be happy-and that's all!"

It's no dream of piled up riches, or a palace up in town, It's no dream of rest from stitches, as she lays her mending down, Just a dream of half-a-plenty—what the Lord ordains to give, And the love we had at twenty all the time we two shall live. And she's proud, on looking over where the clover's all a-shine, That the house and land and clover are our homestead-hers and mine. And no matter what the weather, in the Spring or in the Fall, Just to live along together and be happy-and that's all!

It's no great amount to ask for, but you find as time unfolds. It's the best there is to look for, for it's all that living holds: Just to be well met and mated, and to go where duty leads, And be sort o' consecrated to each other's little needs. So I sit and look at Milly and she sits and looks at me, Sort o' lover-like and silly, but as happy as can be; Soft as twilight on the clover Peace upon us seems to fall, And a prayer is whispered over: "Let's be happy, and that's all!"

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—District Attorney Matthew Brady of San Francisco is in Los Angeles today to gather evidence to be used in the prosecution of Roscoe Arbuckle on a harge of causing the death of Virginia Rappe. Brady admitted before departure that District Attorney Woolwine of Los Angeles had assisted him in gathering evidence in the southern city. It was believed that his evidence covers happenings at the famed "parties" which were alleged to have relieved the monotony of studio life. Arbuckle will plead in court here Thursday. At the same time, a new chief counsel will appear for him, probably Gavin McNab, San Fransco attorney, who may be retained by motion picture interests interested in seeing Arbuckle exonerated.
