

Monday Club.
The program at the meeting of the Monday club on February 5 was one of unusual excellence. It consisted of a talk on Robert Browning, with readings from his poetry by Mr. Thomas A. Watson and piano selections by Miss Florence Olney of Wollaston.

Mr. Watson's readings showed a keen appreciation of Browning's poetry and kindled in his hearers a desire to themselves and others of his poems for themselves.

The piano selections had been chosen as appropriate to the poems which they followed and were rendered by Miss Olney in a very artistic manner.

The program as arranged follows:
Bethoven Sonata Opus 26, 1st movement.
Lecture
Chopin Prelude
Reading—Marching Along
A G. A. R.
S. J. Schaeferburgensis
Grieg Chopin Nocturne
Reading—"The Flower's Name"
The Eagle
Love Among the Ruins
My Last Duchess
Fantasia on Gounod's Faust
Reading—Herre Riel
Prospect
Schubert Impromptu
Reading—Alb Vogler

G. A. R.
A few weeks ago Past Commander Oliver Houghton, of Weymouth's Grand Army, suggested that a new Bible be needed to take the place of the sadly dilapidated affair which had been doing duty on the floor of the hall for nearly forty years, and for a generous subscription toward the same. Chaplain Frank B. Cressy has since collected the necessary money, and last Tuesday evening, in behalf of the donors, presented the Post with as elegant a Bible, of large pulp size, as he could find in Boston; also with a specially built box and cloth wrappings for the Bible's care. Of course the Post voted its appreciation and thanks. The Bible bears the inscription: "Reynolds Post, No. 58, Grand Army of the Republic, Weymouth, Mass., January, 1908." By special vote the Bible is to be used only at meetings of the Post, and allied patriotic organizations—the Sons of Veterans, the Ladies' Auxiliary, the Daughters of Veterans.

Mrs. Eunice G. Smith.
Seldom is one called from our midst who has been more active in society matters than was Mrs. Eunice G. Smith whose death was announced last week. Mrs. Smith's maiden name was Fox and she was born in the town of Ware nearly 77 years ago. When just entering her early womanhood, family relations brought her to East Weymouth and she married Richard B. Smith, a veteran of the Civil war in Co. H. 12th Mass.

Decided was a woman of decided activity and found a field of usefulness in Woman's Relief Corps No. 102 of which she was a charter member and held many of its most important offices. The W. O. T. U. found in her a valued member and at Steadfast Rebekah lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Methodist church.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. G. G. Scrivenor, in a quiet composed of Mrs. Elsie R. Litchfield, Miss Fannie Whitton, W. H. Pratt and M. P. Garey aided the following selections: "Passing out of the Shadow," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "We have a Friend Who Watcheth Night." The Relief Corps and Rebekah lodge attended in a body and each performed their burial service, Miss Eyle Sherman assisting the Rebekahs with the song "There's a Beautiful Land on High." The burial was at Fairmount cemetery.

Temperance.
The public is cordially invited to attend a temperance service on Sunday evening, Feb. 9th, in the First Congregational church, Weymouth Heights, to be addressed by Mrs. Katherine Litchfield, who is the president of the Mass. W. C. T. U., and a most interesting and convincing speaker. Her topic will be "The Progress of the Temperance Movement during the past Fifty Years." Doors open at 7 o'clock. In case of a severe storm the meeting will be postponed.

Prof. Hart on the South.
The industrial and racial situation in the South was never more interesting and important than at the present day. Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart's series of articles on the South, therefore, in the Boston Evening Transcript, the first of which appeared Saturday, February 1st, will be a valuable addition to the literature now before the public on the subject. Those interested who wish to follow the series which will appear consecutively on Wednesdays and Saturdays following in six installments, may have them mailed at the regular subscription price, eighteen cents for the six issues.

The Weymouth Board of Trade.
The above heading may lead to the inquiry "What is it?" or "Where is it?" In answer to the inquiry we would say that it is a new organization for the purpose of promoting the general welfare of the town. The first open meeting for its promotion was held two weeks ago in Masonic building, East Weymouth, and a committee was appointed to formulate plans for its permanent organization, and last night the second meeting was held to hear the report of the committee and take further action.

Nearly all of those who took part in the first meeting were present and several others came in to join the organization. The meeting was called to order by Frederick Humphrey and on motion he was made temporary chairman and Frank H. Torrey temporary secretary.

Divine blessing was invoked by Rev. G. G. Scrivenor and the company engaged G. G. Scrivenor, cord meats, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake before proceeding with the more important work of the hour, i. e., organize.

The committee through its secretary, George A. Walker, submitted a constitution and by-laws which were read and approved. The name of this organization shall be "The Weymouth Board of Trade." Then followed a list of officers, terms of membership and other features which usually govern such bodies. The constitution and by-laws with a few amendments were accepted and adopted, and the meeting proceeded to ballot for officers with the following result: W. P. Denbrough, president; M. W. Torrey, vice-president; W. M. Torrey, secretary; M. P. Garey, treasurer; Fred A. Humphrey, Henry E. Hanley, A. P. Worthen, H. H. Longfellow and F. H. Torrey, executive committee.

A very interesting discussion of town matters followed the election of officers. The speakers being M. F. Hawes on the work of the board of trade, Fred A. Humphrey, Selection W. J. Dunbar, on roads; H. B. Reed, on taxation; Daniel Reidy, W. H. Pratt, Rev. G. G. Scrivenor, Henry E. Hanley, Peter F. Hughes, Rev. E. L. Bradford, F. H. Torrey and others.

At a late hour the meeting adjourned but will hold another session before Town Meeting to discuss the warrant, or rather the several articles in it.

Knights of Columbus.
The fifth anniversary of Weymouth Council No. 729, Knights of Columbus, was held in Odd Fellows Hall, Wednesday night, like those which have gone before it, was a specially enjoyable affair.

The committee of arrangements were Joseph W. McDonald, Charles B. Mitchell, Peter F. Hughes, James A. Knox, J. Henry Tobin, Leo A. Hoffmann and Edmund P. White. The first event was a selection by the orchestra which was followed by an address of welcome by Grand Knight Peter F. Hughes, who was followed by S. D. Daniel F. Buckley and then in turn came a violin solo by Mrs. Mary Gallagher, address, S. C. Rev. James N. Supple, selection, Daniel Hanley, address, S. S. W. J. O'Brien; solo, John W. Hanley and John Sullivan; duet, Miss Margarette and Mary Gallagher.

The dance which followed and in which 200 couples joined had as floor director G. K. Patrick Hughes with D. G. K. James W. Cresswell and R. S. C. Bernard Mitchell as assistants and at the close congratulations were extended to G. K. Hughes and other officers on the success of the hour.

George Francis Scott.
A life of unusual vicissitudes reached its earthly bound in seemingly mid-career in the death of George Francis Scott on Tuesday afternoon, at his residence, Pond Street, South Weymouth, at the age of forty-five years after a lingering illness of several months. His rare friendliness endeared him to all who came to know him, and his qualities of upright character and serene confidence were made his life a source of power and helpful influence, especially with boys and young men, with whom his life-work was largely done.

His early home was in South Boston of the form and training, he took up and followed for many years the work of a physical instructor in Y. M. C. A. activities in Boston, Philadelphia, Trenton and elsewhere. Coming about seven years ago to reside in South Weymouth, he became identified with the Old South Bar class of young men, of which he has served a considerable time as president, and also winter giving athletic training to the younger Baraca Cadets. With the Knights of Pythias of Whitman he was also identified.

The funeral will be held today at 2 o'clock from his late residence on Pond street, Rev. Henry C. Alvord officiating. A widow survives him. His sickness and early death has awakened widespread sympathy.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.
Joseph A. Cushing was a visitor at the High school.

The Freshmen and Sophomores played a class game last Friday to fill in the long wait for the Abington boys. The game resulted in a score of 19 to 9 in favor of the Sophomores.

The Abington and Weymouth five met on Weymouth's floor last Friday in a very interesting game of basketball which resulted in a victory for Weymouth by a score of 35 to 10. This was the eighth consecutive victory for the Weymouth team. Nolan and Nash excelled in shooting baskets, while the other members played a fine passing game.

The senior class '08, which is the smallest there has been for many years, announced that they would receive the total of 867.50 from their class dance.

The game of basketball which was to have been played Friday at Quincy, was played Tuesday at Quincy and proved to be the most exciting and interesting of the season, as neither team had lost a game up to the beginning of the struggle when the Weymouth five showed them that they were far from being their strongest opponents. The game was played with a lot of snap and life. As usual, Nash and Capt. Nolan excelled in shooting baskets, while the pass work of Powers, Carter and O'Dowd was superb. Marsh and Marden outshone the other members of the Quincy team. The score: Weymouth 35, Quincy 10.

Appetite Our Best Guide.
It Will Not Lead Us Astray in the Matter of Overeating.
It is the appetite of the civilized people to thwart, pervert, defy and then abuse their appetites with lamentable consequences. Let me briefly describe what this admirable guide of ours will do for us if it be given a chance.

The appetite of the properly brought up child is simply irrefragable. A child needs a great deal of sugar, and if its appetite for this substance be regarded as reasonable and not a symptom of original sin the child will take just so much sugar as it needs, neither more nor less, and will not gorge itself with sweets when it gets a chance. I am not talking at random; for I observe daily in a small child of my own, and it is the experience of all parents endowed with sufficient sense. The food which the child desires, such as fat, is the food which the child's stomach has the most difficulty in digesting.

In adult life, if the appetite be not cheated by the cook, it is our constant monitor and guide and friend. When we are taking much exercise it is abundant. When we take little exercise it diminishes, as it should. An old man, however, who has lost his vigor and whose appetite is correspondingly diminished. In short, at every period of life and in all circumstances a properly respected appetite will guide us in the fashion for which appetite was designed.

Felicia looked into the trunk here and there, and finally she found a half-dozen shirts and a pair of trousers, and away she went to town to visit her cousin, Mary Rogers.

Mary's brother Roger met her at the station. "What are you doing out of things for?" he asked Felicia when he had settled her in the carriage. "She is going to give a luncheon and a tea and a dinner party and a dance and a ball, and her friends are entitled to make you have a good time. It will be a lively experience for you, little girl."

"Oh, I don't know," she said. "I shall love it! My greatest excitement for a year has been a church social or a sleigh ride, and I am longing for so many things!"

"Roger spells society with a big S," Roger told her. "She is a slave to it, and she needs a rest. She is as thin as a fence post, and she is pale as paper. But what are you doing out of things for?" Felicia said all pink and white with enthusiasm.

"I don't know," she said. "I shall love it! My greatest excitement for a year has been a church social or a sleigh ride, and I am longing for so many things!"

ON THE FARM.

For all-around farm work, the horse that is low and compact is better than the one that is long-legged.

Never put a horse in the stable with ice packed in his shoes or clinging to his legs. Rub his legs dry, and in this way prevent rheumatism.

On windy days when your horses are standing exposed about the farm, slip a blanket over them. It may save them from taking a bad cold.

While spring is not far off, cold, bad weather is still with us, and there should be no cessation in the care required during the past three months. It is still necessary to have the hens comfortable.

There is a widely prevalent notion that a hog, being fat, needs little or no protection from biting cold and high winds, but that sort of an argument is never put up to a fat man.

Old pieces of barbed wire are not nice things to have lying around in the barnyard. Sometimes both ends may become embedded or frozen in the ground, making a dangerous loop for you or an animal to get a foot in.

While it is a good plan to pick out birds for your breeding pen that are more or less uniform in looks, at the same time it is a mistake to throw out a good, practical hen simply because she does not appear as pretty as the rest.

In raising our cows we have a chance to breed for what we want. There is much satisfaction in a herd uniform in size, form and color; there is more in a herd in which all are good producers. By growing our heifers we stand a good chance of getting both of these satisfying qualities—beauty and utility.

It is evident that during the years to come as much attention will be given to the bacteria in the soil as has heretofore been given to the chemical constituents of it. Plants cannot grow without something to subsist upon. This is just as much a fact in the vegetable kingdom as it is in the animal kingdom, with this difference, that the bacteria of the soil, while the animal may travel in search of food.

Farmers do not consider the care of the wood lot as fully as it importance demand. Now is a good time to work in the wood lot and secure a year's supply for home use by cutting out all dead wood and all which is perishable, such as white birch, alders and water brush, and all trees that do not have a healthy growth, besides thinning where needed, especially where clump maples grow. A wood lot treated in this way will give a large amount of fuel and the standing wood will have a much better chance to grow. Besides, it will look enough better to pay for all extra labor in trimming it up.

The tree surgeon's work is most interesting. In many cases it resembles that of the dentist, only of course, done on a much larger scale. Take the case of a large cavity in a tree which the owner desires to save. G. H. Allen writing in Suburban Life for February, says: "All decayed and diseased tissue must be removed from a cavity until nothing but sound wood remains. A heavy application of coal tar should be applied to the interior, and the fissure may then be filled with cement. In large cavities, broken some may be used to help fill up space."

While the work for the average farm horse is not nearly as hard in winter as in other seasons, a time of comparative idleness is by no means the most agreeable to him or the best for his health. On the contrary, he is exposed to various ills from which he does not suffer during the season of hard but regular work. One of these is the loss of regular and careful feeding. During the spring and summer, when the horse is working hard, he is regularly fed a certain amount of grain and a reasonable quantity of hay. In winter the grain ration is cut down and the hay is increased. Some farmers make the mistake of feeding a great quantity of coarse fodder through the winter to the detriment of the animal's health. Others stuff their horses with hay until they are entirely out of condition for any kind of use. Probably in nine cases out of ten the losses are brought on by the injurious method of feeding horses in winter.

The Rocky muzz of Mazoe, near Jacin, in northern Bohemia, is a veritable natural curiosity. It has been well described as a "zigzag freak in stone." To enter the labyrinth without a guide is a perilous proceeding, for an unwary adventurer would probably speedily be lost in the tortuous windings of the maze, where the paths are so narrow and crooked and the cliffs on the side so high that the explorer soon loses all idea of locality. The maze is honeycombed with cells, and at the far end of the maze is a rock castle, where in the old days a robber baron lived and took toll of all way fares. The shape of some of the rocks is very curious. There are, for instance, the "bishop and miter," the "Madonna and the child" and many others—London Scraps.

A Red Headed Match. While in a tobacco store a gentleman asked a girl behind the counter who happened to have red hair, if she would oblige him with a match.

"With pleasure, if you will have a red headed one," she promptly replied, with a suggestive, demure smile that aroused his interest.

Further conversation proved her to be a person, worth a regard, and eventually the red headed match was handed over—London Punch.

GATHERED UP.

He that can please nobody is not so much to be pitied as he that nobody can please.

A talent may be perfected in solitude; a character only in the world.

You may safely commit the child's clothes to the servant, but the rest of the little one you had better take care of yourself.

When you begin to think every other man's business is superior to your own, you will soon realize that your own business is superior to yourself.

There is something soft and tender in the fall of a single snowflake, but when it comes to crawling out in the morning and shoveling away a big drift, it's onerous, mean and disgusting.

They say that at the sight of Apollo the body erects itself and assumes a more dignified attitude; in the same way the soul should feel itself raised and ennobled by the recollection of a good man's life.

A "fank pa's"—Unmusical stranger (to lady next him)—Well, the piano wasn't bad, if the old chap opposite hadn't spoilt it with that grating instrument. Lady—"I'm sorry you think it spoilt—papa is considered to be so good on the violinello."

Fire by Platons. A certain English General being on the point of death, opened his eyes, and seeing a consultation of four physicians, who were standing close by his bedside, faintly exclaimed: "Gentlemen, if you fire by platoons it's all over with me!" and instantly expired.

Full Faith in the Doctor. A young farm laborer called one market day at the registrar's office to record his father's death. The registrar asked the date of death.

"Well, father ain't dead yet," was the reply, "but he will be dead before morning, and I thought it would save me another journey if you would put it down now."

"Oh, that won't do at all," said the registrar. "Why, your father may take a turn before morning and recover."

"Ah, no, he won't," said the young laborer. "Doctor says he won't, and he knows what he's given father."

What the County Needs. The New York "Herald" usually exhibits pronounced Free-Trade leanings, but just now it squarely avows its opposition to the Tariff. It adds: "The country needs is absolute freedom from disturbing legislation and an untrammelled opportunity to recover from the shock it has sustained." This strikes most sensible persons as a statement that cannot be gainsaid, and indeed there is no attempt to dispute it. But while the Free-Traders are silent to reciprocity matters are at work and are doing a good deal of mischief in the county which deserves the attention of Congress.

Me Knew Sarah. Among the telephone stories floating about is the following: An old man would not believe he could hear his wife talk a distance of five miles by telephone. His better half was in a country store several miles away where there was a telephone, and there was a similar instrument, and on being told how to operate it, he walked boldly up and shouted, "Hello, Sarah!" At that instant lightning struck the telephone wire and knocked the man down, and as the scrambled to his feet he excitedly cried, "That's Sarah, every time!"

Made It Clear. When Colonel Edmund Rice was in command of the Twenty-sixth Infantry (mostly volunteers from New England) in the Philippines, he organized from his regiment a company of mounted scouts. To equip them for this service he made requisition on headquarters for the necessary outfit, including eighty mules. Some officious clerk in the quartermaster's office in Manila returned the requisition to Colonel Rice with the following remarks: "Your report shows that sixty men in your mounted company. Why do you require eighty mules?" The colonel's explanation was short and characteristic. It was: "It is true I have but sixty men, but I have eighty horses. The mules are for the horses, not for the men."

Got a Pass For His Calf. Several years ago when the Clover Leaf railroad was built as a narrow gauge line, Eli Marvin of Frankfort was a member of the prominent officials, with headquarters at Frankfort. One day a farmer walked into Marvin's office, explaining that he was a stock dealer, and asked for a stockman's pass.

"Why should you have a pass?" asked Marvin.

"I'm going to ship a calf from Frankfort to Kokomo," the man replied, "and it is the custom, I understand, to give the shipper a pass that he may travel with stock."

"What is the freight on the calf?" Marvin asked.

"Forty cents," said the stockman.

"Well," said Marvin, "the passenger fare to Kokomo is 70 cents. We'll just issue a pass to the calf, and you can pay your fare."

She Got Photo. A philanthropic man living out in the east side heard the other day of a family down in the state who were in extreme need of financial aid.

He made a trip down to the poor, miserably furnished home and found that the family was, indeed, having a struggle to get enough to eat.

He pulled their $5 bill out of his wallet and handed it to the gaunt half-starved looking mother and told her to take it and spend as she thought best.

A few days later he returned to see how the family was getting along. All the members still looked poorly fed.

But they had gotten some groceries with that

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration.

Every woman who has suffered from an organic derangement and female weakness; in consequence of I have been cured, and was extremely nervous. My physician said I must go through an operation to get well. I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it and wrote you for advice, following your directions carefully, and in ten days I am today a well woman, and I am telling all my friends of my experience."

There has been no change in the levels of prices in the hide and leather markets during the past week. It is evident that the supply of the trade, and leather merchants have no difficulty in marketing their goods, they will keep prices at a figure which will give them a good profit. Tanners have learned their lesson well. "There is nothing like leather" for the manufacture of shoes, and the tanner is the only one who can supply the trade. The increasing requirements of the shoe manufacturer, and the desire to produce high-grade shoes, puts a premium on the tanner's output. If the best grades of leather are most mercurially at the highest prices, there is no inducement to manufacture cheap leather, and will induce them to take their shoes to the tanner's shop, as well as the shoe buyers who a few weeks ago thought Boston had returned to their homes, leaving a void in the market for the same old ground crying for concessions from the manufacturers, who are unable to give concession unless they give them from their pockets, for as has been shown the manufacturers are in no position to reduce prices. The dream of lower prices of the past. Lower prices in shoes are impossible, the present high grade of goods being maintained, unless the cost of findings, labor, rents, fuel and power are reduced or unless new machinery is introduced which will largely increase the production per machine above that at present, and will increase the demand for better grades of leather, because they deal in shoes for the spring business, as well as on goods for best season.

The attitude of the buyers is expected to result in their coming back later with heavy orders for prompt delivery, but there is danger in such tactics, for manufacturers will have them at their mercy, and will oblige them to take their terms and pay accordingly. It is a shortsighted policy to thus hamper the producers now and later. Manufacturers were delayed in starting on full work and later were obliged to work harder. The same condition is obtaining now. The work in the factories at present includes rush orders for the spring

All are invited, and those to whom it has been impossible to send a bag may drop their coppers, silver or gold for as many years as they are older in an envelope and it will go to swell the fund for Memorial Continental hall just the same.

—Things were pretty lively for a while at the square just before midnight Sunday night. James Hill, the barber in the Salls building, was awakened by a loud noise in the grocery store of J. S. Bacon & Son. He rushed out and across the street to Mr. Bacon's residence. Mr. Bacon came rushing out with a revolver in his hand, and in the meantime some one had notified Chief of Police Fitzgerald and Patrolman Walsh. By this time a big crowd had collected, as it was thought that the safe had been blown open by Yeggmen. The officers and Mr. Bacon, with revolvers in their hands, rushed in, turned on the light, and in a second it was discovered that a shelf, heavily laden with soap, had fallen down, thus causing the disturbance.

—For several years there has been a talk of forming a base ball league of the clubs in this vicinity and it has at last resulted in the formation of the Old Colony Base Ball League. The five clubs now in are the Deweys of this place, Randolphs, Straightons, Rocklands, and St. Margarets of Brockton. Each club is to put up a guarantee of $25 to go through the season. Applications for admission to the league have been received from the Quinces, Middletons and McCarthys of Taunton. The division of the gate receipts ended in an agreement to give the visiting teams 40 per cent, while the home team will hold 60 per cent. The constitution provides for paying umpires a game and their choosing is left to the board of directors, with the stipulation that if one of the officials belongs in any of the towns on the circuit, he shall not be allowed to officiate in that town.

—The forming of a league and especially with such strong teams, ought to result in a big boom for the game in this vicinity. Years ago there was a league, Weymouth being represented.

A number of women founded a club for the purpose of doing literary, literary and artistic pursuits. The two having the most leisure were delegated by the other members to look for clubrooms. A week later they reported that they had made a selection.

"Where are the rooms?" asked the rest of the women.

"On the third floor of this building," said the two who had been selected to spread out on the table a number of exterior and interior views of the building they had chosen. But their club associates refused even to look at the pictures.

"If the rooms are on the third floor, it isn't worth while to consider them even for a minute," they said, "we will look for another place."

The two who had been selected to look for clubrooms, however, were devoted to material interests to house themselves in first, second and third floors, but the higher the altitude demanded for their clubrooms.

The house hunters looked sorely puzzled.

"Why?" they asked.

But not even the most enlightened woman present could tell why.

"We only know that it is so," they said. "Look up the location of the rooms, and you will find that the law is faithfully observed."

Look, but Do Not See.

Passengers on a Staten Island ferryboat were watching a large ocean liner that steamed slowly up New York Bay. The steamer was too far off for her name to be made out, but she was flying the German flag. For the space of fifteen minutes a hundred pairs of eyes were fastened intently upon the ship. After awhile the steamer disappeared from the deck of the ferryboat was broken by a woman's voice.

"Say," she said, "what has become of that flag? It was there when we first began to watch the ship."

Excited by the woman's exclamation, everybody in her immediate neighborhood put forth various conjectures as to the mysterious disappearance of the flag.

"They took it down ten minutes ago," volunteered a man finally. "I don't know if you folks see them or not."

Everybody looked aghast. It was a fact that no one else had seen it. Although scarcely a minute had been diverted from the steamer during the greater part of the trip across the bay, the flag had been hauled down under the passengers' very eyes and only one man in the crowd had observed the maneuver—New York Globe.

not only attract trade but they also hold it. We've proved it!

Why do they do it?

1st. Because Ralstons have no superiors in style and workmanship among shoes that sell for anywhere near the same price.

2d. Because of the anatomical construction of Ralston laces (shaped like the bottoms of your feet) they have no equals in fitting qualities. Ralston never "shakes in."

3d. Ralstons wear longer and retain their shape longer because aside from the superior materials which they certainly contain, they fit properly and there is no undue strain on any part.

THE RALSTON

Ralston Health Shoes
not only attract trade but they also hold it. We've proved it!

Why do they do it?

1. Because Ralstons have no superiors in style and workmanship among shoes that sell anywhere near the same price.
2. Because of the anatomical construction of Ralston lasts (shaped like the bottoms of your feet) they have no equals in fitting quality. Ralston needs no "breaking in".
3. Ralstons wear longer and retain their shape longer because aside from the superior materials which they certainly contain, they fit properly and there is no undue strain on any part.

We'd like to show you our Fall Styles.

But notwithstanding all of this: There came a time in life: When the cooking she neglected Because she was a wife.

And thought of course it did not pay To spend her time to make The many things her husband liked As pies and fancy cake.

For Geo. L. Whitcomb makes such things And makes them very nice; So she buys all she wants of him And questions not the price.

As we set toward others, so we may expect others to set toward us.—Syrus.

Equally may be all right, but no human power can convert it into fact.—Balzac.

It is a pretty healthy man who can read a patent medicine almanac without suddenly discovering that he is afflicted with about one hundred and fifty of the two hundred diseases described therein.

Many people hang on to their old troubles; they cling to their old sorrows and misfortunes, and their failures, their past sufferings, until they become a terrible drag, a fearful handicap to their progress.

The only thing to do with a bad piece of work, with an unfortunate mistake, with a sad experience, is to let it go, wipe it out, get rid of it forever. Never allow the hideous image to come into your presence again to mar your happiness or sap your strength.

Much of our lives is spent in marring our own influence and turning others' belief in us into a widely concluding unbelief, which they call knowledge of the world, while it is really disappointment in you or me.—George Eliot.

Mrs. Richmond—Is your daughter going back to the cooking school this year?

Mrs. Bronxburgh—No. I'm going to keep her home until she learns to cook some dishes that we can afford to eat.—Sunshine Bulletin.

It is wonderful what a strange fascination one's mistakes, failures, and unfortunate experiences have for most people. I know people who seem to take a morbid delight in sitting for hours and thinking over the terrible things that have happened to them; rehearsing their old troubles, their misfortunes, their mistakes. A wound which is constantly probed never heals.

Pay by Check. "What do I pay by the wisdom of paying by check?" asked Andrew Carnegie in a recent interview. "Why, you might ask me which I preferred, a written contract or a verbal one. When money is paid by check there is written evidence of the payment. When paid in currency there is no such evidence of the transaction. I would give any advice anyone who handles even a small amount of money to pay by check."—Chesnut Record.

Nothing Doing. The musician was visibly annoyed. "But, hang it all," he said, "I told you reporter three or four times that the record I used was a genuine Stradivarius, and here in his report this morning there's not a word—not a word!"

With a scornful laugh the editor replied: "That is as it should be, sir. When Mr. Stradivarius gets his fiddles advertised in this paper under $2 a line, you come around and let me know."—Los Angeles Times.

"Go." This was the command of Jesus, "Go ye into the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." The design in this was to better the conditions of the creature, to put forth every effort to bring God and the creature into a communion that will sweeten the life of the creature and to glorify God. The highest office on earth is to be instrumental in helping some poor soul to get where he can come in contact with God and this office pays the largest salary of any known, for a man that turns many to righteousness shall shine as the stars forever.—W. E. Tuttle, in Southwest Missionary.

Now It Works. Once there was a struggling young author who was blessed with many friends, all of whom told him that he was the coming great writer of the country. So one day a bright thought struck him. He said: "I will publish my book, and all my friends will admire it. It will much buy my book, and I will be rich."

So he printed his book.

And all of his friends waited for him to send them autographed copies of his book. And so his books were sold as junk.

And ever after he didn't have any friends.—Success Magazine.

Don't Earn Dividends. President Sullivan of the Old Colony street railway says fares must be raised or many of the lines will go out of business, a statement that is borne out in many cases by the showing made by many of the smaller roads. Of the 62 operating companies in paid dividends of 4 percent or over, 6 paid dividends of less than 4 percent, 29 showed some profit and paid no dividends and 27 showed a deficit. Much of this failure to pay dividends comes from the increase in price of labor and materials with shorter hours of labor, and greater demands made by the public for improved service.

Comparatively Quiet. A gentleman passing through the brass foundry in Minneapolis, the other day, found an intelligent looking lady seated in the center of the shop, working a cluster of clover blossoms on a velvet ground. She wore a peaceful smile and seemed wholly unconscious of the terrible din that filled the building.

"Doesn't the pounding disturb you?" inquired the gentleman, stooping over the lady.

"Oh, no," she replied smilingly. "Do you enjoy it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you often come here?"

"Regularly three times a week."

"I don't see what there is about this establishment to attract a person that often."

"Well, you see, the physician says I must avoid anything that will affect my nerves, and as at this hour three days in a week my sister takes a lesson on the piano, I come down here where it is comparatively quiet."

She Told Him a Lie. He had been dining well, but not too wisely, and the next morning his conscience as well as his head smote him pretty considerably. Yet he managed to struggle down to breakfast and to make an attempt to enjoy the daily and tempting dishes which his dear little wife had thoughtfully provided.

"Ceil," said his better half gently as she watched his ineffectual endeavors to do justice to the untimely repast, "I am afraid I told you a lie yesterday, and I want you to forgive me, dear."

"A lie?" he asked wonderingly.

"Yes. As you left the house you will remember I said to you, 'You'll be home early, darling?' Well, it wasn't true!"

And he went out a sadder and wiser man.

Shoe snafu.

With the fluctuations of the temperature in the different parts of the country, the boot and shoe trade is proportionately affected, business waking up with touches of cold weather. While it is nominally the time when the winter trade is over and the spring trade not begun, clearance sales are serving the dual purpose of reducing stocks of goods not desirable to carry over an keeping customers in line for spring business. There is still business being done according as the weather indicates snow or rain. Retailers generally have been fairly busy, and the experiences of the boot and shoe trade have not been very unhappy. Anticipations are all for still better conditions, though seasons have been mixed and orders calling for early or immediate delivery will cause more or less congestion.

Travelling salesmen still on the road find a few spring orders to send in, but the bulk of the business has been done in some way, and manufacturers are generally satisfied with conditions. Their shops will be quite busy for some time on belated orders and such contracts for the fall as may be secured early, though salesmen will not attempt to begin their tours too early.

Manufacturers all over the country are trying to tickle the trade with new and novel designs. It is the regular policy of many to produce new shapes, styles and finishes each season. Details are considered carefully, as the fact that designers are considering "wave-top" boots for next fall and winter will illustrate. The Napoleons are expected to make their debut for the season, though a selection of high boots will be assured.

Among the lines offered for women's wear colors will be noticeable, these in cluding tan, copper-tan, and wine-color, while the combinations of fancy topplings, with patent leather vamp make attractive boots. These include pearl, white, blue, green, brown and wine colors; some of the tops are made of oze leather.

Among the low-cutters there is as much variety of color, and black leathers in shiny and dull finishes are included.

There has been a noticeable increase in the demand for button shoes. The buckle shoe will be manufactured and sold for some time to come, but the opinion is against it. There are large quantities of two-eyellets being produced, a shoe tied with a handsome, large bow, being a weakness of many women. The demand for pumps is healthy, but is expected that the experiences of some last year will have demonstrated that such shoes are not for all shapes of feet. This may reduce the demand somewhat, though a pump with a strap over the instep has been devised for soft footed women who have not had the most perfect fit in button shoes. It is the effort of manufacturers to produce new and artistic designs for women's wear every season, and the new shoes for this spring have not failed to show pleasing innovations.

It is the opinion that the next few weeks will be the decisive period with shoe buyers; that they must realize the soundness of the manufacturers' arguments, and conclude that the price of shoes at present does not depend on the price of hides alone.

As soon as they reach this conclusion great activity is expected in the trade.—Boston Transcript.

Does Ma Wish She Was Pa?

See pa, one winter's night;

"I'd give you something to stay a while

Where days are warm and bright."

He set and watched the fire die

(Seemed lost in thoughtful daze),

Till she brought in some fresh pine knots

And made a cheerful blaze.

"I wish I had a million shares

Of stock in Standard Oil,

So I'd grow wealthy and stay a while

Where days are warm and bright."

Ma made the kettle boil,

And mixed hot biscuits, fried some ham

And eggs (smelt good, you bet);

Fetches cheer an' doughnuts, made the tea.

Then—set down an' at:

"I wish I was a millionaire,

So I'd have a snap."

Next, from the lounge, we heard a snore:

"Pa—at his own nap."

Ma lit the dishes, shook the cloth,

Brushed up, put things away.

And fed the cat, then started up

Her dish for looking Ma.

She washed an' put some beans to soak,

And set some bread to rise;

Unstrung dried apples, soaked 'em, too,

All ready for looking Ma.

She brought more wood, put out the cat,

Then darned four pairs of socks;

Pa woke an' set, "It's time for bed";

Ma, with you would both clocks!

Her dish for looking Ma.
