SUPERVISOR THOMAS B. TALBERT IS RE-ELECTED

Greatest Political Battle Ever Fought In This Supervisorial District Won By Mr. Talbert With Flying Colors; Majority Over Geo. W. Moore 184; Both Men Are Splendid Citizens And Have An Army Of Loyal Friends; Stevens Carries City By Large Majority For Governor; Rolph Leads On Democratic Ticket

There was a big vote polled at the primary election Tuesday, owing to the great battle waged over the contest for supervisor in this district. The interest in the fight for this office overshadowed all other, many voters saying they did not care who was nominated for governor just so their man for supervisor won out.

The heavy artillery of the Taxpayers' League from all over the county was moved into the Second district in order to defeat the incumbent, T. B. Talbert, who is chairman of the board, whom the League officials asked to resign his office about two years ago. It was a case of sink or swim with this organization, as if Mr. Talbert was re-elected, the League would be discredited. Therefore he must be defeated, and the big fight was directed from behind the scenes by S. J. Jackman, president of the League, and never did lieutenants work harder than those being directed by Field Marshal Jackman.

Most of the big shells fired by the League landed in the Garden Grove district, and the harmony of that peaceful community was badly wrecked for the time being.

The managers for Geo. W. Moore, the defeated candidate, figured that if they could win in Garden Grove and poll 200 votes in Huntington Beach, their candidate would be the winner; and just how accurately they had planned is borne out by the fact that had he received the expected 200 votes in this city he would have won the coveted prize by a narrow margin.

The supporters of Mr. Moore realized the value of newspaper political advertising and purchased large amounts of space in the weeklies in the district, Friday of last week. Mr. Talbert and his friends were awake to the fact that an unexpectedly strong campaign had been launched, which required immediate attention. The friends of Mr. Talbert in Garden Grove caused a special edition of the Garden Grove News to be issued, and a large amount of campaign literature was printed and distributed throughout the district. Saturday morning Mr. Talbert found that his lines had not been broken, but badly bent, and there was danger of the enemy breaking through.

Mr. Talbert is one of the best campaigners in Orange county, and when he opens the throttle and throws away the brake, there is forked lightning striking in about seventeen places at the same time, and his political opponents are usually blown clear off the map. That is exactly what happened Tuesday to the Taxpayers' League, and it was blown so high that it may not come down in this district again while Mr. Talbert is on the job.

The result was that Mr. Talbert was elected by a vote of 1025 to 841, giving him a majority of 184. In 1914 Mr. Talbert had three opponents, and he was elected at the primary by a majority of 85 votes. The vote Tuesday is very flattering, as it indicates that Mr. Talbert is stronger in his district today than he was four years ago, notwithstanding the League's attack upon him. Four years ago Mr. Talbert carried Huntington Beach by a majority of 71 over his three opponents, and Tuesday his vote exceeded that of Mr. Moore by 261, showing a very large increase in the loyalty of the people of his home. However, the banner precinct for him was Seal Beach, where he was endorsed by 106 to 16. In 1910 Mr. Talbert was elected by 119 majority. Therefore he was stronger Tuesday than at any time in his political career.

Mr. Moore is one of the best men in the district, and would probably have been elected by a large majority had his opponent been anyone else than Mr. Talbert. The vote in Mr. Moore's home section bears out this statement, as the candidate who is popular with those who know him best is a valuable citizen to any community. In the Bolsa precinct Mr. Moore defeated Mr. Talbert by a vote of 5 to 1, and in Wintersburg and Westminster he was very strong among the growers who have known him for many years.

One of the big surprises of the campaign for Mr. Talbert was the breaking of his strong lines in Garden Grove by Mr. Moore, as four years ago he ran 72 votes ahead of his three competitors, but Tuesday Mr. Moore defeated him by 25 votes in the two precincts. None of Mr. Talbert's supporters had anticipated this turn of affairs in that city.

As to the county officers, the only one there was any speculation about in this district was that of sheriff, and most of the wise ones had Jernigan picked as the sheriff's running mate for the final count in November; and some of his supporters were so optimistic that they thought he would run ahead of Sheriff Jackson. It was well known that Mr. Boynton would poll but few votes.

One of the most popular candidates in Huntington Beach was Deputy County Clerk Joseph M. Backs, who beat his opponent here by a vote of 2 1/2 to 1. Another solar plexus blow delivered to the Taxpayers' League was the triumphant election of County Treasurer J. C. Joplin, whose integrity was attacked at the time the officers asked T. B. Talbert to resign. The two arch offenders in the county "ring," according to the League, were Mr. Talbert and Mr. Joplin, and the voters of the county have strongly repudiated the statements made by Mr. Jackman against these honorable men.

There were 715 voters registered, and 493 of that number visited the polls. There were 215 votes cast in No. 3, out of a registration of 315; 158 in No. 1, where 222 registered, and 120 in No. 2, and the registration was 168. This is 70 per cent of the registered vote, which is remarkably large for a primary election, and indicates the intense activity of the workers in the big battle for supervisor. However, the vote is about 90 per cent of the actual resident voters, as many of those on the list no longer reside here and some have passed away.

There were 263 Republican votes cast; 136 Democratic; 19 Socialist; 5 Progressive; 48 Prohibition. There had never been any doubt about Governor Stephens being the strong man for the Republican nomination for governor, but few, if any, had imagined that Rolph would be the high man for the Democratic honor. It was generally believed among the faithful that Woolwine would be the winner in Huntington Beach.

Rolph made a sorry showing for the Republican nomination, Stephens beating him about 4 to 1. The success of Gov. Stephens is due to the Los Angeles Times deserting Bordwell and advising its readers to support Stephens to prevent Rolph from capturing the nomination. Otherwise Judge Bordwell would probably have polled enough votes to have defeated Stephens, and Rolph would have been the next governor.

IN APPRECIATION.

I desire to extend my heartfelt thanks to the many friends who so loyally supported me at the primary election Tuesday. The splendid majority given me in Huntington Beach is particularly gratifying, as it shows that, after all, service is appreciated by most citizens of my home city. I shall continue to serve the entire district to the best of my ability, and with good will for all and malice toward none.

Respectfully,
T. B. TALBERT,
Chairman Board of Supervisors.

There was somewhat of a surprise in the result of the Democratic vote, as Rolph beat Woolwine 4 votes for the prize, the vote standing: Rolph, 37; Woolwine, 33, and Heney, 32.

REV. F. D. MATHER WINS REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

WILL BE AT SACRAMENTO NEXT WINTER.

Rev. Franklin D. Mather of Pasadena, who has been in charge of affairs at Arbarar this summer, was the successful Republican for the nomination for assemblyman in one of the Pasadena districts, Tuesday, winning over his opponent, who was a member of the lower house at the last session, by more than 200 votes.

Rev. Mather was induced by his friends to be a candidate, they agreeing to take charge of his campaign while he was engaged here. This shows his popularity in his district, and, as the Republican nomination is equivalent to election, Rev. and Mrs. Mather will spend a vacation at the state capital next winter.

Rev. Mather has been talking prohibition longer than most men living today, and the only reason that he consented to be a candidate for the office was that it would afford him an opportunity to vote for the ratification of the national prohibition amendment which will be before the next legislature, which would be a decidedly fitting finale of his fight against John Barleycorn for a generation.

Rev. Mather has many friends here who will be delighted at the good news.

Mrs. Nelson is of the opinion that the attendance will be larger at the lower prices.

SECOND ANNUAL FALL FAIR IS PROGRESSING

MUCH INTEREST IS BEING MANIFESTED.

COMMITTEE MEETING MONDAY

Temporary Buildings May Be Constructed If Tents Are Not Obtainable Prices; Trip to Downey This Afternoon.

There was a meeting of the chairman of the committees having charge of the Second Annual Fall Fair, in the library building Monday night, and good progress was reported in most instances.

F. H. McElfresh, chairman of the general committee, was late in arriving, and Trustee Joseph Vavra, a member of the committee, presided at the meeting.

Owing to the late arrival of Geo. O. Franklin, H. T. Dunning reported for the housing committee, saying that so far no tents had been secured, and if it was found that no large tents could be obtained, it might be that smaller tents could be used and place them end to end. However, Mr. Dunning said, he did not anticipate any trouble about being able to properly house the fair, as temporary structures with tar paper roofs could be erected at a very reasonable cost, and that is what would be done if the rental of large tents was found to be unreasonable.

Mr. Dunning said all of the vacant rooms could be used for various purposes. Last week the one in the Beggs building was selected by Mrs. Edgar Edwards for the fancy work and art display, and Monday evening Mrs. T. B. Talbert decided on the room in the Stewart building, being vacated by the Huntington Beach Hardware Co.

Mrs. W. T. Newland reported that she had appointed Mrs. S. G. Huff and Mrs. A. F. Swift as her assistants, and she believed it would be a good plan to have each chairman have charge of each of the districts, and have the displays arranged by districts also.

Judge Louis A. Copeland, Trustee R. H. Chapin, Dr. F. E. Wilson and Wm. C. O'Connor reported progress for the advertising, poultry, judges and prizes and display committees.

Judge Copeland brought up the matter of attending the fair at Downey, and it was decided to make the trip in machines this (Friday) afternoon, leaving at about 1 o'clock. Mrs. Chapin was appointed to arrange for the trip.

Dr. Wilson stated that it had been decided not to offer any cash prizes. Last year cash prizes were awarded for the best display of farm products, but this year a special gold ribbon will be given in lieu of money, and he thought that about $100 would be required for the purchase of ribbons and meeting the expenses of the judges, who would be from outside of Orange county.

Mr. O'Connor stated that there was being prepared at Laguna Beach a shell exhibit for exhibition purposes, and he thought that an effort should be made to have it displayed here, and Secretary J. K. McDonald was directed to take the matter up with the proper authorities.

There was a session of the executive committee after adjournment. Tuesday will be known as Entry Day and Newport Mesa Day; Wednesday, judging and awarding of prizes; Thursday, War Savings and Peatland Day; Friday, Liberty Loan and Orange County Day; Saturday, Red Cross and Home Coming Day.

There will be another meeting of the committee chairmen and all others who feel interested in the Fair, at the same place next Monday night at 7:30. There were present Judge Copeland, Trustee Vavra, Mr. Dunning, S. E. Hearn, Judge Warner, Dr. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. Chapin, Trustee H. C. Decker, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Newland, Sr., Mrs. T. B. Talbert, Geo. O. Franklin, Mr. McElfresh, R. C. Turner, Jas. J. Conrad.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Following Items Appeared In the Huntington Beach News of August 28, 1908.

The entertainment given at the Auditorium Tuesday night at the opening of the encampment, known as Huntington Beach Night, was an enjoyable affair. Two numbers by the band were enthusiastically received. The Indian club exercises by five little girls, Clara Vincent, Dahlia Mahlan, Marie Osterhaus, Mildred Everett and Gertrude Kanawyer, were graceful and beautiful, and the guitar and mandolin duet by Locksley and Leo Livernash was daintily executed. Songs by the quartet, Rush and Ward Blodget, Edwin McKillop and C. C. Ramsey, were sweetly sung. The farce, called "The Raw Recruit," was a big success. Mrs. A. B. Sholly was presented with a silver coin purse in appreciation of the work she done for the play, and her birthday anniversary, which fell on Huntington Beach Night.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cook entertained last Friday evening, which closed with a dance in the pavilion. The guests were Mrs. E. G. Eard, Mrs. Neal, Misses Grace Parsons and Mabel Gear, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Marinda, Rush M. Blodget, Dr. F. M. Dye, J. C. Fountain, Roy H. Chapin and Lester Cavanah.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Stearns have been advised that they are great grandparents, a 10-pound boy having been born to Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Seymour in Los Angeles, Tuesday.

Work on the new Christian church was begun this week, and the three thousand dollar edifice will be constructed as soon as possible. The building committee, composed of W. A. Double, A. E. Whiteside and Chas. Wells, have decided not to let a contract for the work, and will have the job completed by day labor.

Mrs. W. R. Higgins and family are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Reed. Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Talbert and son went to Oakland, Tuesday, and expect to return next Monday.

Dr. F. M. Dye, Ned Brown and Jas. Cook were fishing at Rocky Point, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Blodget of Colalinga were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Blodget this week, parents of Mr. Blodget.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church entertained visiting friends at the home of Mrs. C. D. Heartwell, Wednesday afternoon, with music and refreshments. The program included an instrumental solo by Miss Bertha Atkinson; readings by Mrs. D. P. Carroll and Mrs. L. J. Atkinson; vocal solo by Mrs. A. E. Whiteside. Those present were Mesdames C. P. WEEKLY GREETING.

I know not how long a republican government can flourish among a great people who have not the Bible. But this I do know, that the existing government of this country could never have had existence but for the Bible. And, further, I do in my conscience believe, that if at every decade of years a copy of the Bible could be found in every family of the land, its republican institutions would be perpetual.—William H. Seward, Secretary of State under President Lincoln.

MOONEY SHOULD HAVE A NEW TRIAL.

There have probably been few criminal cases in the judicial annals of the world that have attracted the international attention that has the case of the conviction of Thomas J. Mooney, accused of complicity in the bomb explosion at the Preparedness parade in San Francisco, July 22, 1916.

There is no room for argument over the fact that the crime was one of the darkest in American history, and the guilty parties should pay the full penalty; but no man should be executed for this or any other crime if there is a shadow of doubt existing as to his innocence.

The editor of the News, until a few days ago, agreed with the average citizen that Mr. Mooney had been tried by a jury and found guilty of this terrible crime, and consequently there appeared to be no reason to doubt his guilt.

However, a mere superficial examination of this now world-renowned case will convince almost anybody that there should be no hesitancy on the part of any official in granting a new trial to Thomas J. Mooney, sentenced to be hanged, and Warren K. Billings, now serving a life sentence in one of the state prisons.

This famous case was tried in the court room presided over by Judge Franklin K. Griffin of San Francisco, and when an application for a new trial was argued before him, it was denied. After the case had passed to the higher court Judge Griffin wrote Attorney-General U. S. Webb that there were certain letters that came under his notice, written before Frank C. Oxman, the star witness against the convicted man, was called to testify, that should be passed upon by a jury, and that, had they been produced while the case was pending in his court, a new trial would have been granted.

As is well known, President Wilson became interested in this case and appointed a commission to investigate the records, and that commission recommended that Mooney and Billings be given new trials. Consequently it is surprising that anyone who loves justice, fair play and freedom should object to these convicted men being given another chance for their life and liberty. If the prosecution has an honest case there will be no difficulty in maintaining it, and if it has not the sooner that fact is discovered the better it is for society. As to the great cost of a new trial, that is of no consequence whatever, but the matter of absolute justice to every American citizen is of the most vital importance to every man, woman and child in the land.

Is there anyone more competent to pass on the question of a new trial than the presiding judge, and when he states that the man sentenced to death is clearly entitled to that right, why should those who know less about it object so strenuously, and call those who disagree with them dynamiters and law-breakers?

No one desires that Tom Mooney be freed if he is guilty, and certainly no one should desire him hanged if he is not guilty.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION AN ABSOLUTE CERTAINTY.

One of the greatest victories in the history of the Prohibition movement was won Thursday, August 8, way down south in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, the capital of the sugar cane state. The achievement of the dry forces on this occasion is especially notable from the fact that on May 23 the Legislature failed to ratify the amendment, the battle being lost in the senate, where there was a tie vote 20 for and 20 against the law. The vote in the lower house was 70 to 44 in favor of the dries, as most of the state outside of the City of New Orleans is dry territory.

The liquor interests made considerable capital of the great victory won in Louisiana, and the crusaders felt much chagrined at their defeat. When the matter was up for consideration last May there was one vacancy in the senate, and that district was composed of a strong dry constituency.

The dry workers were fortunate in having a true friend in the State House at Baton Rouge, and after the senatorial vacancy had been cleared up by the election of a pro-amendment man, Gov. Rufin G. Pleasants called a special session of the Legislature, and the amendment was promptly ratified by the senate on August 7 and by the assembly the following day. There was no change in the vote in the senate, the result standing 21 for and 20 against the movement to make the nation bone dry. There were some notable changes in the assembly, the vote being 69 for and 41 against. The vote lost by the dries was caused by the absence of T. Sambola Jones from the state on diplomatic service. Edward J. Gay of New Orleans, the candidate of the liquor interests of the Crescent City for the seat in the United States Senate formerly held by Robert H. Broussard, voted for ratification, indicating that he has properly interpreted the handwriting on the wall, and realizes that it is time for public men who care to remain on the stage to get on the band wagon.

The floor leader of the liquor element made a great flourish of trumpets the day before the final vote was recorded in the lower house, stating that there had been changes enough to assure the passage of a bill submitting the question to the voters of the state at the November election, but it was a false alarm, as the vote on this question was defeated by 63 to 47, showing a loss of 4 votes for the wets, according to the vote on the same issue in May.

This great victory in Louisiana places 14 states on record as having ratified the National Prohibition amendment. A glorious feature about the matter is that 6 of the 14 have previously been classed as wet, making it clear to the most ardent advocate of John Barleycorn that the ratification of the amendment by the necessary 36 states is an absolute certainty, as only three more wet states are required to accomplish that important event. It is, of course, considered a foregone conclusion that all of the 19 remaining dry states will follow the lead of the 8 that have blazed the way this year, as the vote in most of the 8 dry states where Legislatures have assembled this year approved the amendment by almost unanimous votes.

The success in Louisiana clears up the only black spot in the campaign to date for ratification by states, as the Louisiana Legislature was the only one where the amendment had been rejected. There were attempts made in New York and Rhode Island, but the question was not advanced to the voting stage.

It will be noticed by the table below that there have been 1865 votes cast in the legislative bodies of the 14 banner states, and 1484 of them have been for the elimination of the liquor business, root and branch, from the Union, and 381 against.

The following are the 19 dry states that will ratify early next year: Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, Oklahoma and Oregon. Texas is classed as one of the wet states that ratified; however, there may be some question as to this classification, as the Legislature voted the saloons out of business at the same time the amendment was approved, and the Lone Star State is now one of the 28 dry states of the Union. The amendment will have been endorsed by more than 36 states by May 1 of next year. A dry amendment will be on the ballot in Ohio and California, with success assured in the Buckeye State, and with a good chance of winning in California.

The following summary shows the date of ratification and how the Legislature voted:

Table with columns: State, Date Ratified, Senate (For, Ag't), House (For, Ag't), Total (For, Ag't), Pct. Rows include Mississippi, Virginia, Kentucky, South Carolina, North Dakota, Maryland, Montana, Texas, South Dakota, Massachusetts, Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, and Totals.

BETTER PICTURES DESIRED.

According to an article in a recent issue of the Photo Play Magazine, an organization has been perfected, known as the Photo Play League of America, the object being to work for the production of improved pictures.

No fact is more thoroughly established than the one that if the motion picture business is to continue there must be a decided improvement in the pictures. Unless pictures depicting less crime and sensuality are placed on the screen, the day is not far distant when the majority of parents will refuse to allow their children to patronize the moving picture theatres. There are also thousands and tens of thousands of adults who are becoming utterly disgusted with the lewd pictures that are shown in most of the theatres where pictures comprise the program, and are gradually failing to patronize them.

The sensuous, nauseating and degrading close-up hug and kiss should be forever eliminated, as it has a depressing and demoralizing influence on all who witness it. If a man and woman made such an exhibition of themselves in public, under ordinary circumstances, they would be arrested. Such exhibitions cannot be claimed as necessary in interpreting any part of a respectable picture.

The moving picture has a far greater influence upon the life of the child today than did the so-called "dime novel," prior to the introduction of pictures, and when a majority of them are overflowing with crime and sensuality, there is no room for doubt as to the evil influence upon the youthful mind, and the sooner such pictures are suppressed the better it will be for society.

The producers and scenario writers have a wonderful opportunity to serve the public if they are guided by high motives, and endeavor to place on the screen pictures that will uplift and purify the moral fiber of those who witness them, rather than tear down and degrade as at present.

There are, of course, many pictures being shown that are refreshing and have a beneficial influence upon those who see them, but there are too many that are water-logged with filth and crime. The fact is realized, too, that theatrical managers have to take what is offered, and there are not enough good pictures on the market to select from, and no censure is intended for them. The origin of the trouble lies at the doors of the producers, and, if no one objects, the pictures will continue to grow worse, and the business will gradually perish.

The public desires good, clean, wholesome pictures, and the only way to get them is to make that desire known to the producers in a forcible manner.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN WILL OPEN SEPT. 28.

UNCLE SAM WILL ASK FOR SIX OR EIGHT BILLION.

The Fourth Liberty Loan campaign will open September 28, and everybody must be making arrangements to assist the Government in floating this gigantic loan, which will be not less than six billion dollars and may be for eight billion.

It makes but slight difference about the amount, as the government requirements must be met, and the bonds purchased that are offered. There are some who have not purchased bonds of the prior loans, and they should fall in line and take what they can handle of the next loan.

There is no occasion for anyone feeling that they are making any sacrifice in purchasing Government bonds, and all should be ready to subscribe and not wait to be solicited to do so.

SAYS PEAT IS WORTHLESS AS FERTILIZER.

IS, HOWEVER, OF SOME VALUE TO LAND.

The following item relative to the use of peat as a fertilizer, which is now being taken from this vicinity and elsewhere, appeared in the Los Angeles Sunday Times:

What About Peat?

That peat, as a fertilizer, is about as efficacious as soft coal and its application properly classified as "harmless amusement" is the bombshell exploded in the camp of the concerns who are mining this product in San Bernardino and Orange counties and exploiting it among the farmers as fertilizers.

A writer in the August Farm Bureau Monthly says of this latest fertilizer fad: "Peat may be considered as inactive organic matter, while manures are largely active organic matter. Peat represents the relatively inert portion of the organic matter which the (decomposing) bacteria have given up after thousands of years as a bad job. There is, however, no gain-saying the fact that the addition of large quantities of peat will have the effect of improving the physical condition of the soil and increasing its water-holding capacity. But its fertilizing value is practically nil."

DARK AT ARBAMAR.

The season has closed at Arbamar, and the tents have all been removed and darkness will probably reign until next June. Rev. and Mrs. F. D. Mather will reside in Pasadena this winter.

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY ON OIL.

[Brea Progress.]

The history of the oil industry of Orange county would not be complete without a short synopsis of the history of petroleum itself.

Two thousand years before Christ petroleum was used on the walls of Ninevah and Babylon. It was even used in lamps, in a very crude way, in the time of the Emperor Nero, according to the historian Pliny.

The first use which was made of it in the United States was when it was sold as a medicine, guaranteed to cure everything from tetter rash to consumption, under the name of "Seneca Oil." Washington's soldiers had this oil offered them as a cure for rheumatism and other ills.

A Pittsburg druggist, by the name of Kier, was the first who, in 1843, was of the opinion that there were commercial possibilities in what had been considered by salt-well drillers as a nuisance. At first he tried to sell it as a cure-all, skimming the oil from the water of the creeks in the vicinity of Pittsburg, but it had no greater vogue as a medicine than "Seneca Oil" had. He finally managed to perfect a still by which means he manufactured what he called "carbon-oil."

His experiments with this were the first indications of the enormous success which was to come to the oil industry.

During all the time from 1777, when oil was sold as a medicine, to 1854, no one had thought of drilling for oil, or at least had never tried to get oil by drilling. But in 1854 Eveleth and Bissell, a firm of New York lawyers, launched the Pennsylvania Rock Oil Co., which had property on Oil Creek, in the locality of the afterwards famous "Watson's Flats."

Eveleth and Bissell took some of the oil to Professor Siliman, of Yale University, and he gave them a most favorable report on it. Then several New Haven men decided to invest. At first operations were carried on by refining, in a very crude manner, oil which could be skimmed from the water, in the same way Kier had gotten his supply.

At last Edwin L. Drake was employed to do the unheard of, and drill for oil. At the depth of sixty-nine feet, the crew quit work one evening, and found when they came to work next morning that the well was full of oil. With this shallow well the oil industry may be said to have had birth.

Two years later the first real oil gusher was struck. This was on a piece of ground containing two acres, and for which its owner had received $500,000 when he sold it. The whole farm, containing fifty acres, had once been sold for a yoke of cattle, but within one year the new owner refused an offer of $4,000,000 for it. Oil was so plentiful at this time that it sold for ten cents a barrel.

Drake Memorial Museum, at Titusville, Pa., is a monument to the first man in the history of the world who drilled for petroleum oil.

The history of the oil industry in this county is not quite so romantic as that already related, but old settlers of, say thirty years ago, had no more idea that there would be, some time, in this county millions of dollars' worth of oil taken from its bowels, than had the early settlers in Pennsylvania.

About twenty years ago, Messrs. Graham & Loftus started to put down a well in the Fullerton district, and succeeded fairly well. Then came the Oil Development Company, under the wing of the Santa Fe Railroad, which developed many of the first wells in the Fullerton and Olinda districts.

The history of the industry since then has gone onward and upward by leaps and bounds.

The Brea district resembles nothing so much as a seaport crowded with sailing vessels. The wells extend for miles, and are laid off as systematically as well-kept orchards.

As a source of wealth the oil industry ranks far above the gold output of this state even in the palmy days of '49 and '50.

The value of oil to the world cannot be expressed in mere figures or statistics. In fact, the present can well be called the oil age, for not only is crude oil the base of gasoline, without which the world could hardly exist, but it is the source of all fuel oils, and these are now one of the greatest necessities, not only to many of the railroads of this country, but to the navies of the world.

Oil is found in nearly every country in the world, although not always in paying quantities. The fields of Russia and Canada are as yet nearly unknown quantities, and the present war will go far towards discouraging the development of the Siberian and Ural oil fields.

OUR FIVE GREAT WARS.

[Written and sung by A. H. Corman, of Los Angeles, at Encampment Southern California Veteran Association, Huntington Beach, August 6-16, 1918.]

The fathers fought in seventy-six, obeying Freedom's call; Again in eighteen hundred twelve to firmly maintain all They'd won before, so freedom's flag should never, never fall— Our God was moving on.

CHORUS:—As suggested in "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Our war with Mexico, in eighteen forty-five to eight, Gave Uncle Sam this goodly land at ocean's western gate To untold wealth and health in this our glorious Golden State— Our State is moving on.

Our Civil War of eighteen sixty-one to sixty-five Was fought out to a finish so this Union should survive, Our Lincoln freed four million slaves, and freedom kept alive— Our Union's moving on.

The Spanish-American war of eighteen hundred ninety-eight Freed Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, so great, And raised our glorious country to an honored world-wide state— Our power is moving on.

In nineteen hundred fourteen 'twas the world's great war began, Through autocratic, brutal force against the right of man To carve out his own destiny the best way that he can— Yet man is moving on.

But saw ye the triumphant march Democracy hath made? Our Liberty Boys and Allies win—their glories shall not fade; God heard the supplication of His people when they prayed— Our God is marching on.

CLYDE WARDMAN WRITES FROM GOAT ISLAND.

SAYS HE IS ENJOYING THE HOSPITAL WORK.

The following is from Clyde Wardman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wardman:

August 24, 1918.

Dear Friends: I would like to write every one of my friends and classmates a letter, but as I haven't the time to do so I will write to the News, as most of the other boys do.

I am enjoying my work here in the hospital school. I like the camp and the surrounding country. San Francisco is about fifteen minutes' ride from here and Oakland half an hour. I spend most of my liberty days in Oakland, because it seems to be a sailors' town.

The course here in school is six months. We study pharmacy, chemistry, materia medica and everything along the nursing and first aid line.

We are treated and fed well. Our officers are strict, but it is for our own good. They are easy to get along with as long as we do the right thing.

After finishing school I will be stationed in some hospital here, on board a ship or sent across with the marines. I do not expect to come home until Christmas. I would like to hear from anyone that wants to write.

I will write from time to time.

WINTERSBURG BOY WRITES FROM FRANCE.

ALBERT ISENER IS ON THE FIRING LINE.

The following letters were written by Albert Isemer, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Isemer of Wintersburg, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Newland. Albert graduated from the Huntington Beach Union High school in the class of '14, and was one of the early volunteers in the Signal Corps service:

Saturday, July 20, 1918.

Dear Mother: I received your letter a few days ago, so during my idle moments before dinner I'll write a few lines.

So you would like to know what a real battle sounds like? Well, that is impossible to tell anyone, because to know what it sounds like and how a fellow feels depends entirely on the listener. The most important thing is where you are and the direction the shells are traveling.

When they are coming fast—that is, the air is full of steel—a person cannot tell which way they are going or about where they will land. If there are only a few coming over, a person can tell about where they will land; and if one is bound in your direction always fall on your stomach and lay fast until all the fragments of the shell have lighted upon the ground.

Day before yesterday we laid wire from French batteries (artillery) forward, and I took a shot at the Germans. The French officer did the aiming, and just as the second hand got around to where the time for the firing of the gun, I pulled the string, and the report from the observation balloon said it was a direct hit, so I guess I got my quota, but want to see my man.

Carl is in B Company and never will see real action, because they put in large lines in the rear, and we do outpost duty. Believe me, I sure would hate to say I was over there and never saw the front lines.

While we were putting a line thru the woods where they had driven the Germans from that morning, I ran a tree into my left eye. It was awful dark, and when a fellow has to feel his way and work and also keep on the lookout, he is liable to take some awful spills into shell holes or trenches.

The greatest drive of the world's history is taking place right here, and they sure have got the Germans on the run. I guess the Americans have put the spirit into the French, and I hope they keep it up, because they (Germans) think that all we can do is to just hold them; but God pity them, because we are proving different, and we sure are taking many prisoners, besides their casualties.

It rains and thunders one minute and the sun shines the next. I guess it is regular Eastern weather.

(Deleted) you may sleep today and work for three days in rain, etc., and sleep where you are, shelter or no shelter.

I'll have to close. ALBERT P. ISENER. Private 1st Class, Co. C, 322nd Field Sig. Bn., American E. F. O. K.—D. R. Burbey, Lieut. Sig. R. C. I guess it is July 25, 1918.

Dear Mother: I received a letter you mailed June 26, so I'll use a little of my sleeping time and write.

A week ago I was an owner of a complete uniform and an extra shirt and underwear, but now I own about 1/2 of a suit and one blanket. I guess in another week I will not have nothing if I keep leaving stuff behind.

We are in the greatest drive that ever has been pulled off. I mean Company C, not Carl's company, that are bringing up the rear—heroes when they go home. We sure are driving them some fast. I guess the papers are full of the new drive. I'll bet there are many extras out.

The gum which Clarice put in the letter sure came in at the right time and I certainly appreciated her generosity. All a person craves is sleep and eats.

A person cannot imagine how a town looks after it has been under artillery fire. It is a complete ruin, and the fields are one mass of holes, many overlapping each other, and they are holes about 10 feet deep.

So Clint is going to a mechanics' school? Some lucky bird. And Bill is to be drafted? Say, it would do them good to be over here and shave and wash once a week—if they were lucky.

My knee makes a poor writing desk, so I'll close and sleep a bit before I am closed out to relieve some other detail. Your son,

LETTER OF JUDGE GRIFFIN TO ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

SAYS MOONEY SHOULD HAVE A NEW TRIAL.

The following is the letter written to U. S. Webb, attorney-general of California, relative to the celebrated Mooney case, and is self-explanatory: April 25, 1917.

HONORABLE U. S. WEBB, Attorney-General of the State of California, San Francisco, Cal.

My dear General: On the 9th day of February, 1917, in the case of The People vs. Thomas J. Mooney, then pending in my department of the Superior Court, there was rendered against the defendant Mooney a verdict of guilty of murder of the first degree without recommendation. Subsequently a motion for new trial was made by the defendant which was, in due time, denied; judgment was thereupon pronounced, and from such judgment and the order denying defendant's motion for a new trial an appeal to the Supreme Court has been taken and is now pending. It seems unnecessary to tell you that Mooney is one of those indicted for participation in the bomb outrage of July 22, 1916.

In the trial of Mooney, there was called as a witness by the People one Frank C. Oxman, whose testimony was most damaging and of the utmost consequence to the defendant. Indeed, in my opinion, the testimony of this witness was by far the most important adduced by the People at the trial of Mooney. In confirmation of these statements, I would respectfully call your attention to the transcript filed on the appeal.

Within the past week there have been brought to my attention certain letters written by Oxman prior to his having been called to testify, which have come to the knowledge and into the possession of defendant's counsel since the determination of the motion for new trial. The authorship and authenticity of these letters, photographic copies of which I transmit herewith, are undenied and undisputed. As you will at once see, they bear directly upon the credibility of the witness and go to the very foundation of the truth of the story told by Oxman on the witness stand. Had they been before me at the time of the hearing of the motion for new trial, I would unhesitatingly have granted it. Unfortunately the matter is now out of my hands jurisdictionally, and I am, therefore, addressing you, as the representative of such action on your part as will result in returning the case to this court for retrial.

The letters of Oxman undoubtedly require explanation, and, so far as Mooney is concerned, unquestionably the explanation should be heard by a jury which passes upon the question of his guilt or innocence.

I fully appreciate the unusual character of such a request coming from the trial court in any case and I know of no precedent therefor. In the circumstances of this case, I believe that all of us who were participants in the trial concur that right and justice demand that a new trial of Mooney should be had in order that no possible mistake shall be made in a case where a human life is at stake.

Respectfully yours, FRANKLIN K. GRIFFIN.

FOUND PURSE.

Roy Mills of Garden Grove, who drives over to Huntington Beach almost every day with fruit and vegetables for the stores, lost his purse while here Tuesday morning, and left word at the News office of the loss, saying the purse contained a five-dollar gold piece and a five-dollar bill and some small change.

About an hour after he had left the office Myron L. Eaton, who conducts a shoe repairing shop opposite the post office, delivered the purse at the office, and it was returned to Mr. Mills. The gold piece was the first one seen here for a long time, and Mr. Mills stated he received it from a farmer on his route.

CORN MAKES RAPID GROWTH.

C. D. Heartwell planted some Golden Bantam corn August 8 and two weeks later, at the same time in the morning that the seed was planted, Mr. Heartwell measured the rapidly-growing stalks and found that the ones receiving his attention measured 11 and 12 inches in height when the leaves were held upright. This is considered a very rapid growth.

WAR BOOKS.

[By Harry Carr in L. A. Times.]

"Gen. Foch—An Appreciation."

The great commanders of the past had to be taken more or less for granted. Their capacity was seldom known; they were taken on faith and sent out to show what they could do.

In these days of intensive military education a commander has been well assayed before he is given important commands.

This is especially true of Gen. Ferdinand Foch, the generalissimo of the Allied armies. His theories of war-making, his ability to handle men, his temperament were known to war offices before war was declared. The information is now being passed along for civilian consumption.

In "Gen. Foch—An Appreciation," published by Houghton Mifflin Company, Maj. R. M. Johnston, U. S. A., has given a fascinating glimpse of this great Frenchman.

At the outbreak of the war Foch was occupying the highest post of honor in the French army—the command of the Twentieth Corps at Nancy. He had been the schoolmaster of the French army. Born August 4, 1851; entering the Ecole Polytechnique in 1871, the Ecole de Guerre in 1884, a brigadier-general in command of the artillery at Orleans in 1907, commandant of the famous Ecole de Guerre, Gen. Foch had already had a distinguished career when the war broke out.

At the outbreak of hostilities he commanded the Ninth Army Corps, which bore the terrific hammering of the Prussian Guard at the Marne. After the Marne there began that dramatic race for the channel which, had the Germans won, would have probably decided the war in favor of the Kaiser. In this great crisis it was Foch who was selected to check the German advance.

During this terrible race occurred an incident which has been made famous in all armies. The French general in command of the cavalry sent word to Foch that his soldiers could not hold the banks of a river where they had been stationed. Foch sent back this immortal dispatch: "You will immediately reoccupy the banks of the Aire; you will line them with your machine guns and artillery. You will hold the enemy there tomorrow. When your guns have all been destroyed or captured you will report to headquarters for further instructions." The line held.

Afterward, on the Somme, Foch had command of the French forces which fought side by side with the British. At the time of the offensive of March, 1918, it was he who came to the rescue of the harassed English troops, saved Amiens, then turned northward and dropped troops out of the sky, so to speak, for the relief of Mt. Kemmel. One of Foch's greatest characteristics as a commander is his almost miraculous ability to produce troops where needed.

The suggestion that a French officer command the French-British forces was a sensitive point with England. Probably the supreme command would have been yielded to no other officer. By his tact, courtesy and his service in many fights alongside British troops, Foch disarmed suspicion and jealousy.

As a strategist Gen. Foch is an ardent advocate of the offensive at any cost. During his years of service as head professor at the Ecole, Gen. Foch thoroughly inculcated the younger French officers with this theory. Since the outbreak of the present war he has been the foremost student of the technique of trench warfare; and it is well known that the French officers generally favor the war of position (trench warfare) whereas the Germans pin their faith to a war of movement.

In his writings before the war Foch expressed the opinion that the Germans would come through Alsace-Lorraine, not Belgium; but the author believes this opinion was afterwards modified. As a great strategist Gen. Foch was unique for his insistence upon the superimportance of morale. The following maxims give an idea of his military faith.

"The victory will always go to those who best deserve it by the greatest strength of will and intelligence."

"Every soldier must see his general—must feel himself in communication with him, and never be allowed to consider himself merely a poor pawn maneuvered by an unknown power."

"A battle lost is only that which you think you have lost. No battle was ever actually and irretrievably lost."

"A battle won is that in which one does not admit himself conquered."

"Victory is the will to win."
