e. Prepared to map out the curricula of secondary schools.

f. Prepared for the achievements tests of primary, and secondary schools.

g. Contributed to fostering up athletics and calligraphy at schools.

h. Gave guidances to Teachers' research meetings.

4. Out-standing contribution made toward the improvement of educational standards or practices.

(1) Achievements test, under preparation for primary, and secondary schools.

a. Object.

To clearify the achievements of individual pupils or students, as well as to secure basical materials expected useful for the future activities in educational courses, study guidance, or pupil guidance.

b. Courses to be employed, and examinees to be applied to.

Secondary schools:	First graders.
	National language, social science, mathematics, physics, vocational and home-economics, music.
Primary schools:	Sixth grader.
	National language, social science, mathematics, physics.

c. Principles for practice.

(a) To be conducted after the manner employed last year for the achievement tests of secondary schools.

(b) The choice is left to the will of every school whether they will conduct the test, and if so, whether they will use a share of papers printed collectively at our office, or prepare the papers separately by their own printing.

(c) It is encouraged to make an entry to the pupils' (or students') guidance records' file (about the results of the test.)

d. Date scheduled:

Toward the end of Flb. or Early in March.

e. Preparations.

(a) A conference was held for this purpose on Jan. 11 at the council room of School Board Secretariate. Attending the meeting were representatives from every shi and gun throughout the prefecture, each on hebalf of primary schools, secondary schools, private schools, schools attached to the university, and Teachers' Union.

(b) As for the preparation of the problems for the test, the Guidance Section of this office and the Prefectural Educational Research Institute took the lead to form a preparation committee participated by 4 or 5 teachers each foc every course. The task was started on Jan. 11 and is to be completed not later than Feb. 5.

f. Disposal following the test.

The results of a certain number of students picked up in free selection as samples are to be summed up for evaluation on which a report will be distributed to the schools concerned.

5. Outstanding educational practices observed.

(1) Matters taken up in the meeting of the Primary Schools' Curricula Research Council:

(a) Reviews of last year's curricula.

Generally, too high in their level.
Not fully understood by teachers for the use or the treatment of them.

Not paying much consideration to the adjustment of the relations among respective courses.

(It is recommendable for the future to file a synthetic plan.)

The development of units should be made freely and effectively to any extent according to the circumstances of respective schools without sticking too much to the examples shown by the authorities.

Source units should be brought in together from all the schools for mapping out better curricula.

(b) Suggestions for revision.

Paying heed to the revised text for guidance of the Education Ministry, the revision is to be made effective in September, 1951.

In making revisions, full consideration should be paid to the following:

Sufficient preparation must be made for the collection of materials and basic curricula.

Compilation should be made of Item "General introduction", too.

The relations among the curricula should adjusted more closely.

The level should be generally lowered so that teachers could make use of it easily with full understanding.

(c) Collecting of suggestions on revision.

The Guidance Section is to make due arrangements by calling in as many suggestions as possible on the part of teachers in service.

(d) Some of the general teachers should be allowed to be specialist committee members for the compilation of curricula.

(2) Preparation of curricula of secondary schools.

(a) After the example of the primary schools' curricula that were worked out for the first time last year, the compilation for secondary schools is now underway for this prefecture through the efforts of educational experts and learned persons throughout the prefecture, the Educational Research Institute, Prefectural Teachers' Leadership Committee (Shido-Iin), and Kagawa University.

(b) Fourteen groups have been set up respectively for the 13 general courses and the Pupil guidance plan in the curriculum.

6. Meetings held.

a. Guidance conference on Jan. 10. They conferred on:

(1) The contemplated achievement tests for primary, and secondary schools.

(2) The preparations for the compilation of curricula for secondary schools.

(3) Reports to be submitted to the Guidance Section on any research meetings of kindergartens and primary schools after the occasions.

(4) Travelling expenses needed for those teachers who are going out to have the accredited course in accordance with the Educational Personnel Certification Law.

B. Students' Organizations.

1. Main activities in Students' Councils.

At the end of the term, discussion was centered around the problem of scholastic attainments for the second term, student's outdoor morals, and school discipline and so on.

But at the beginning of fresh term, it was reported that they discussed various items to be realized during the coming term and decided to set several typical goals on which efforts should particularly be concentrated.

2. Outstanding programs of any school.

Hokunji Secondary School, Ayauta-gun.

As a result of having held a student's meeting, the students came to the following resolution concerning the self-examination of activities in the past.

a. We must study lessons in a more voluntary and positive manner.

b. In the field of school discipline especially in public morals, we should strictly follow the traffic rule "Keep to the Right!" and we should be more courteous to the senior friends, aged or others.

c. In the sphere of physical culture, we should be more active and earnest in exercising various school sports or games.

3. Student Clubs' major activities.

The activity of the students' club during the second term were mainly active in the following activities.

1. Physical Training.

2. Play and Drama.

3. School Paper.

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

1. Supervision and guidance to these schools by governor of representatives.

None

2. Main problems.

On government subsidy to the private schools.

As the government subsidy of ¥500,000 was newly added to the formerly decided amount of subsidy at the session of October, the amount of subsidy for FY 1950 therefore totaled ¥1.76-million.

Out of the total, the allocation program of ¥1.26-million was decided as follows.

Name of School	Amount of Subsidy
Meizen Upper Secondary School	¥95,000
Jinsei "	¥18,000
Fujii "	187,000
Otemae "	187,000
Sakaide Jisshu "	145,000
Takamatsu Girls' Commercial School	114,000
Keisai "	114,000
Total	1,260,000

The classification basis of allocation was decided at the following ratio.

30% .....Equally allocated to each school

35% .....Allocated according to the number of students.

35% .....Allocated according to the number of instructors.

3. Federation of Members of National Private Schools Council.

The preparatory meeting for organizing the Federation of Members of ~~National~~ All Japan Private Schools Council which is composed of the members of the National Private Schools Council was held on 30 October in Tokyo according to the proposal of the Tokyo Metropolitan Council of Private Schools.

From this Prefecture, two members attended the meeting and active discussion was made. As for Kagawa-Ken, we are going to take up this matter at the coming meeting of the Council to decide upon the definite resolution as the planned Federation seems to take a great part in contributing to the future development of private schools.

Main activity of the planned Federation is as follows.

1. Discussion of raison d'etre and the management of the Federation.
2. Petition or recommendation to the competent organizations concerned.
3. Study of the basic norm of various laws, ordinances etc.
4. Exchange of information.
5. Other enterprises regarded as necessary for the improvement of the private schools.

B. Student organizations

1. Main activities of students associations.

Students become to skill in operation of their associations so the guidance or the advice by teachers were needed fewer than ever.

We saw the remakable progress of students associations in conferences, where the president groupes, clerks and steering committees handled them democraticaly while the members appeared their opinion clearly and discussed earnestly.

In each school, athletic meetings or exhibitions which had been regarded as great events there, were carried out smoothly and successfully by students associations.
